Detroit cop charged in chase

An alleged domestic dispute preceded a chase in which a Detroit cop led Canton police into Dearborn. The officer was apparently armed with two handguns. He pleaded not guilty to charges.

BY VALERIE OLANDER
STAFF WRITER

A Detroit police officer was in 35th District Court Friday to plead not guilty to a charge of fleeing and eluding Canton Police after an alleged domestic dispute.

Canton officers pursued a vehicle driven by Johnne Thomas, 51, along Michigan Avenue, to I-275 and I-94. The chase ended at I-94 and Greenfield Road in the city of Dearborn. Thomas was armed with two handguns — one a police department service revolver and the other a revolver reported stolen out of Jackson.

Early Nov. 30 officers were called to a home on Riverside Drive near Geddes, west of Canton Center, for a domestic disturbance. A female caller told police her fiancee was upset and in possession of a handgun.

When officers arrived the subject was outside of the home with two handguns in his waistband, said Sgt. Ed Tanner of the Detective Bureau. Police learned shortly thereafter that the man was an off-duty Detroit officer, said Tanner.

Despite being ordered to the ground several times, Thomas fled the River Meadows subdivision in his car, twice striking patrol cars that blocked the driveway, Tanner added. Minor damage was reported.

"When he fled the subdivision he made comments he was going to kill

New approach credited for pool safety

A local recreation official is crediting a different approach to lifeguarding for a pool's solid safety record.

The Summit Aquatic Center, located at Summit on the Park, Canton Township's new community recreation center, required no "serious rescues" in its first year of operation, said Jim McNellis, the aquatic specialist who operates the pool for the township and trains and certifies the facility's lifeguards.

McNellis said the facility defines "serious rescues" as those that force lifeguards to interrupt their "10/20 second protection rule."

The rule means that lifeguards who supervise people in or around water must focus on all individuals in the pool area every 10 seconds and stay within 20 seconds distance of the farthest area under supervision.

"The 10/20 second rule is probably more responsible for our success than any other aspect," he said. "We feel that's going to be the new standard in the industry."

The Summit's aquatic center stands among just 8 percent of all swimming facilities in the nation that train lifeguards under the system designed by Jeff Ellis & Associates, Inc. Eighty-six percent of the country's aquatic centers use lifeguards that are trained under Red Cross guidelines.

McNellis called the "10/20" system a "proactive" approach that diffuses minor situations before they become dangerous. He said the center is looking away from the traditional practice of hiring lifeguards who possess superior swimming skills.

Instead, he said he wants to hire

Splish-splash: Water exercise does the trick

BY CASEY HANS
STAFF WRITER

Working out in a pool is different than other exercise. In fact, according to fitness instructor Scott Strane, it's much better.

Strane, who is also a certified personal trainer at Canton's Summit on the Park aquatic center, said that some of the classes given at the community facility this winter offer not only therapy, but fun.

"There are different muscle groups you can work in the water that you can't get at on land," he explained.

Classes in the water offer resistance training both in the traditional pool and in the Summit's lazy river. Specialized equipment and paddles are used for some of the classes to aid in the workout.

"I challenge anybody to jump in the water," he said. "This is a 'wet sweat' kind of thing here."

Strane, who has also worked in the fitness equipment business and invented some of the items used to exercise in the pool, said you have to mentally challenge yourself before taking the plunge.

"This exercise thing starts in the brain," he said. "It's a social exercise class. You're in the water and just because you're here is a positive thing."

New aquatic classes begin Jan. 27 at the Summit and run through April 5. Registration will be done in person on Saturday, Jan. 11 from 8 a.m. to noon in the banquet facility at the Summit, located west of Canton Center Road on Summit Park-

Ice fest turns 15 this year

This is a special year for the Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular.

It turns 15 years old this year. But it's aging gracefully.

And this year there are some new features to the event that attracts more than 500,000.

There's a special poster that will sell for $10. A limited edition poster signed by the designer will sell for $25.

The poster was designed by Robert Smiley, a computer graphics instructor at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit and at Schoolcraft College.

The festival kicks off on Wednesday, Jan 15, and runs through Monday, Jan. 20. It's located in an around Plymouth's Kellogg Park.

This year instead of fireworks, there will be a light show. The Bud-Ice 24-Hour Light Show will be ongoing in Kellogg Park and at Fantasyland, a collection of ice carvings at The Gathering, near the park. Also, there will be the WYCD-FM Cyberlight Extravaganza.

Also new will be carvers from Norway, according to Mike Watts, festival organizer.

"It's the first year we've had them," he said. "We're looking for host families for them and the Japanese carvers who come every year. We're also in need of interpreters for the Japanese carvers."

Another new feature will be the Plymouth Poets who will present "Poets on Ice" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Plymouth Coffee Bean Co. on Penniman Avenue.

The event features poets reading their work. They include Rod Reinhart, Ron Allen, Murray Jackson and Van Baldwin.

himself and he was armed, so we pursued," Tanner said.

Michigan State Police and Dearborn Police departments assisted Canton in boxing in Thomas' car. Tanner said the off-duty officer had to be physically removed from the vehicle and, because of his demeanor, taken to Annapolis Psychiatric Intervention Center.

Thomas will face a single charge of fleeing and eluding, a criminal misdemeanor punishable by a 30-day to one-year prison sentence, opposed to 90 day misdemeanor, and/or $1,000 fine or license suspension.

A warrant request submitted by police to the Wayne County prosecutor's office on Dec. 19 also requested Thomas be charged with possession of a stolen handgun.

"We couldn't prove he had knowledge that it was stolen," said Tanner.

An investigation discovered the revolver was reported stolen in May of 1979 from Jackson, said Tanner.

Thomas declined comment Friday at the 35th District Court after being released on $1,000 personal bond set by Judge Ronald Lowe. A preliminary hearing is set for Jan. 15.

way, just south of township hall. For more information, call (313) 397-5110.

Classes range from easy classes to more challenging classes to basic tone and fit. In addition to paying a one-time class registration fee, visitors may also attend daytime classes on a drop-in basis paying either a one-time fee or using a pre-paid punch card. Cards are available from the Summit for $35 for 10 classes for residents and $42 for 10 classes for non-residents.

Typically, Strane said, hydrotherapy and strength-training classes are offered early in the morning and the evening and arthritis and therapy classes are scheduled during mid-day.

Classes for this session include:

■ Aqua-fit — designed to tone and strengthen your body by performing a variety of whole-body warm-ups, stretching, aerobics and relaxation accompanied by music. Minimum age: 16.

■ Hydro-Tone — a high-intensive total body program using water weights and boots to maximize resistance. Minimum age: 16.

■ River-Fit — works against currents in the Lazy River and also in a five-foot section of the Lap Pool. Learn to use resistance to improve fitness, relieve stress and stiffness and learn basic water exercises. Must have basic swimming ability and wear aqua socks.

■ Senioricse — learn to maintain a fit, trim, healthy body and improve wellness and mobility.

■ Hydropeutics — a gentle approach to water aerobics, ideas for pre- and post-natal moms, those with joint problems, cardiac rehab patients or overweight men and women.

■ Arthritis Foundation Aquatic Program — Gentle exercise in the comfort of the warm Lap Pool designed to relieve stiffness and pain and improve mobility and flexibility.

■ Aqua "Noodle" Workout — using a foam "aqua noodle" the routine will tone arms, abdominals and legs. An aerobic, impact-free deep water workout that puts little stress on joints.

As a certified personal trainer, Strane can also offer one-on-one assistance and programs to Summit visitors.

those who are qualified swimmers, but also pay attention to detail, such as watching senior citizens carefully.

"If you think about it, the most they'll (the lifeguards) have to swim is 35 feet," McNellis said. "Senior lifeguards provide excellent scan coverage."

Every year, the Ellis group secretly videotapes each of its facility's lifeguards to check for competency, particularly for the "10/20" scan, McNellis said. He said maintaining this type of concentration presents a welcome challenge to the center's lifeguards.

"(Our lifeguards) are very team-oriented – there's great camaraderie," he said. "We're getting to the point where we want to be."

Randy Ferguson, one of the pool's lifeguards, said the lack of any serious incidents at the pool confirms his belief that the facility's system works.

"I think the program we run covers ourselves," he said. "It's set up as preventive instead of waiting until someone actually drowns."

Ferguson, a 32-year-old Westland resident, said patrolling children who run across the pool area poses the most frequent challenge for the facility's lifeguards. He said most of the pool's incidents during the past year resulted from slip-and-falls.

"No matter how many times you tell them, the little ones are going to run," he said.

The Summit recreation facility was opened one year ago, and is the first community pool owned by Canton Township.

Some jobs keep workers out in cold

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
STAFF WRITER

Whether it is dedication to their employers or a love for the job, some Michiganders are facing the cold weather head on. Of course, they put on gloves, long johns and warm socks as they find themselves working outdoors despite the chill of winter.

"I know there are four seasons here (in Michigan), and I just accept it," said Dan Holt, a Garden City resident and tow truck driver.

As assistant service manager at Mel's Auto Clinic at 46460 Ford Road in Canton Township, Holt thinks ahead before going out to rescue a stranded driver.

"I dress in (insulated) overalls," he said. For those especially cold days, he also wears gloves and a baseball cap.

"I'm out there for about 15 minutes," he said when asked how long he has to bear the cold to get the job done.

Valet service

Enduring the weather is a much greater task however for Farmington Hills resident Jerry Klein. He owns Metro Parking valet service and works outside Ernesto's Restaurant, 41661 Plymouth Road in Plymouth, hours at a time.

"It takes time, but you get used to it," he said about working in cold weather. He stressed the importance of warm clothing. "I dress in layers, and it is very important to wear a hat and gloves," he said.

He also takes Vitamin C supplements.

"It's not as bad as people think," he said, only to remember a night that he worked until 1 a.m. with no cubby to find shelter, "unless it gets to 17 below (or so)."

Klein is careful not to overdress however, because he believes that can actually cut off blood circulation.

Despite the downs of his business, Klein remains loyal to his job and his customers. He insists he would not want another job.

"I like my job," he said. He admitted he also like the tips, especially in the winter when more people use valet service.

"We're a very service-oriented group," he said. "No one wants to suffer through the cold so they drop their car off at the door."

Airport police

Meanwhile, Bruce Preston of Canton Township is concentrating not only on keeping himself warm those cold days, but also his partner, Angel.

Preston and his canine patrol Detroit Metro Airport, directing traffic, answering questions and searching airplanes.

After 22 years of employment, Preston has learned a thing or two about working in cold weather. Most importantly he said, "You have to dress according to the weather condition.

"You wear heavy gloves and a hat which covers the ears. If you can keep the extremities warm, you can stay out there for a while."

"But once you get those extremities cold, you have to go in and warm up," he said.

Preston, a licensed teacher, admits that while he sometimes wonders what it would be like to work inside on a cold day, he would never trade in his job.

"To me, this is about the best place you could ever work," he said, explaining his reason. "I'm helping people."

Public service

Tom Wilson, a water crew leader for the Westland Department of Public Service, also knows about helping people. The Hamburg Township resident helps restore water to residents after a water main break.

"I've actually had gloves freeze on my hands," said the 13-year city employee. "But if you keep moving, you stay warm."

Wilson and Kevin Buford, a third-year equipment operator for the construction and maintenance branch of Westland's Department of Public Service, spend seven out of eight hours each day working outside.

"But when the wind chill factor drops below zero, we can rotate in and out of the truck," said Buford, of Oak Park. "Unlike his (Tom Wilson's) job, there is no time aspect to our job." For example, they get a list of roads that need to be salted, but no specific time frame by which they need to complete the assignment.

Whereas "if a water main breaks in the winter, we need to fix it immediately," said Wilson.

"We ring them out and put them over the exhaust," he said, explaining that wet clothing can add as much as 15 pounds to their 50 pounds of equipment.

Firefighters

Fire fighting also requires immediate attention, regardless of the weather.

"I've been on a number of fires where it is 10, 12 degrees below zero," said Gary Burke, battalion chief of the Redford Fire Department. "Our equipment keeps us warm, but only until we get wet."

After that, the public servants rotate people between the action and a warm van.

"If we're out on a long fire, we call the Salvation Army and they come out with coffee, some extra gloves and a heated van," said the South Lyon resident with 23 years experience. "We also keep spare gloves in the truck."

When all the gloves have gotten wet, the men compromise.

Station attendant

Oklahoma gas station draws customers from all around, especially during the winter. One reason is the service.

"I've been told that there is only one other gas station in the area (that pumps your gas for you)," said Marie Landin, manager of the gas station, located on the corner of Eckles and Plymouth Road in Livonia. "But I've been doing this for over 20 years."

Like all the others outdoor workers, Landin said the key to staying warm is layering.

"Lots of layers."

What about hats and gloves? "That's a must during the winter time," she said.

Landin will not let Mother Nature chill her spirit however. The Plymouth Township resident said she loves her job and loves working with the public.

"We have got a lot of older people coming in and they rely on us to pump their gas."

News carrier

Andrew Brockie, of Garden City, is another person with a job on which people rely. He has delivered the Garden City Observer for more than 3 years.

"You just have to go with it," he said about the cold weather. With 45 houses on his route, Brockie always dresses warm with a good coat, hat, gloves and shoes. When it gets real cold however, his mom helps by driving him through his route.

Solomon wins re-election as commission chair

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

With two new sports stadia, casino gambling and the expansion of Detroit Metro Airport, Ricardo Solomon expects 1997 to be a banner year for Wayne County.

Solomon, a Democrat and commissioner representing the 7th District in Detroit, was unanimously chosen Friday to lead the 15-members of the commission for another year as commission chairman.

Kay Beard, also a Democrat, who represents Garden City, Westland and Inkster, was selected in a unanimous vote to be the vice chair, while Edna Bell, a Detroit Democrat, was chosen as vice chair pro tem for 1997.

All three commissioners return to the same appointed positions they held in 1996.

Conrad Mallett, who just last week was appointed chief justice of the Michigan Supreme Court, swore in the three commissioners into their leadership posts.

Solomon

Solomon thanked the commissioners for their faith in him and thanked God for the "season of renewal" in Wayne County.

"I learned the last two years that it isn't easy to chair anything," Solomon said. "But I appreciate the vote of confidence from you."

Solomon cited the commission's work during the 1995-96 legislative agenda, in strengthening the office of auditor general, saving the county millions of dollars through cost cutting measures and the airport expansion.

Solomon also cited the development of the Northville county-owned site for a golf course and various housing developments as the commission working for the positive good of the entire county to include minority contractors. He hoped a one-mill for park development could include improvements in all county parks.

Beard appreciated her colleagues' support to return as vice chair.

"It's been fun to be part of this renewal in Wayne County," Beard said. "As Detroit goes, so does Wayne County, and in many ways, so does the state."

All 15 commissioners — now 13 Democrats and two Republicans — were administered oaths of office.

Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, was swore in by Probate Judge Milton Mack, who formerly represented Patterson's 11th District.

Commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who represents Redford Township and part of Livonia, took her oath from her father Edward Plawecki Jr., a former county commissioner and 20th District judge.

Beard received an oath from 22nd District Judge Sylvia James. Beard told commissioners she was "blessed" because she was swore in by judges in each of her communities she has represented.

Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, was also administered an oath by Plawecki, who resides in McCotter's district.

The event also featured friends and family members of commissioners. Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer and County Executive Ed McNamara attended the ceremony.

Solomon acknowledged that the commissioners "do not always" agree with McNamara.

"I do believe he is a good decent man who believes in what he is doing," Solomon said.

Terminal improvements on tap for Metro Airport

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

Air travelers at Detroit Metropolitan Airport can expect to see $60 million in interim improvements at the airport's terminals throughout the year.

This year's improvements are part of the $1.6 billion airport expansion expected to be completed by 2000.

Gates will be added. Federal inspection services will be increased in the International Terminal. Rampside passenger shuttle will be extended from Concourse G to Concourse C.

"Northwest expects to complete the Concourse C expansion this year," said Mike Conway, community relations manager for Metro Airport. "They will complete a walkway, which we've never had before."

The baggage claim area also will be expanded, Conway said.

County officials believe the expansion will create thousands of jobs in the Detroit area, increase international service and make flight connections quicker and easier.

Metro Airport handled over 28 million passengers in 1995. It is the 9th biggest airport in North America, and 13th in the world in passengers.

Nearly 1,400 flights arrive and depart daily. Annual passenger growth has been 10 percent annually, twice the average of U.S. airports.

Design work on the midfield terminal is expected to be completed this winter.

That terminal will house 74 gates, midfield ramps, taxi ways, arrival and departure roadways, an international and domestic terminal and 5,000-car parking garage.

Plans also call for the construction of a fourth parallel runway and a new south access road.

The midfield terminal — a $786 million project —is expected to be completed by December 2000. It will house 64 domestic gates and 10 international gates, with an option to add nine additional domestic and two international gates by 2010.

The additional parking will give the airport 17,000 spaces. Motorists will have access from I-275 from the south and allow less taxiing time from runways to gates.

Plans also call for wider corridors, increased curb-fronts, and pickup and dropoff areas for arriving and departing passengers. An overhead tram will be added to quicken movement between the gates.

The $1.6 billion project will be split among several funding sources. Northwest Airlines will pay $765 million, while other airlines finance $285 million. Federal funds are expected to equal about $276 million, and $225 million picked up from other sources.

Officials expect the expansion will help add to international business. Additional non-stop international flights is expected to attract business from Europe and Asia.

At least 678 foreign-owned firms operate in Greater Detroit and employ 75,840 people. More than 81 percent of these firms are headquartered in Japan, Germany, France, Canada or the United Kingdom — countries that are served with direct, non-stop flights from Metro Airport.

Habitat seeks area volunteers for summer building program

BY ZACHARY GORCHOW
STAFF WRITER

A semi-annual project that has played an instrumental role in revitalizing a northwest Detroit neighborhood returns this June and is looking for suburban support.

Habitat for Humanity/Detroit plans to build 20 homes in an area located near Evergreen and Schoolcraft roads as part of its "Blitz Build 1997."

Donna Crabtree, Habitat for Humanity/Detroit development director, said the organization is looking for "thousands" of volunteers to help build homes and make the program successful. The homes are designed for low-income working families.

The neighborhood has made remarkable progress, Crabtree said.

"It's incredibly exciting to watch holes in the ground become full-fledged houses," she said. "Obviously, that tells you that Mayor Archer and (Wayne County Executive) Ed McNamara are in full support of this."

■ '('Blitz Build') is a real linchpin because it gives the community some hope and optimism. We got that same type of renaissance mentality because we can now leverage some reinvestment into the city.'

John O'Brien
neighborhood director

Crabtree said the new emphasis on housing development in Detroit has helped produce neighborhood renewal.

"It's critical from the aspect that Habitat for Humanity is trying to rebuild Detroit one house, one brick at a time," she said. "It's been a long time since new homes have been the focus in Detroit."

Building new homes has boosted community morale because the new housing has improved the neighborhood's safety, Crabtree said.

"This is a way for them to get out of poverty housing and quite possibly from a neighborhood that would be considered unsafe for their family," she said. "It's a neighborhood that has a lot of promise."

After helping build the house, the family must commit 400 hours to working on other Habitat for Humanity projects, Crabtree said. Both conditions are a part of a contract to which new homeowners must agree.

"This is a way out, not a handout," she said.

Rebuilt: Habitat for Humanity is looking for volunteers to help build houses like this one at 14306 Plainview in Detroit. The Plainview street home was built by volunteers in August 1995.

John O'Brien, Northwest Detroit Neighborhood development director, said the gradual renovation of the neighborhood required a commitment to breaking through apathy that had gripped its residents.

"We've been working in this community for six years now," he said. "There has been a real sense of helplessness – people wanted to get out of the community."

Helping residents escape decrepit homes for new ones has improved the neighborhood's morale, O'Brien said.

"The 'Blitz Build' has been a key component in making it happen," he said.

A key element to restoring the community's pride in itself was that the neighborhood still had a core of hardworking residents to build on, despite drug use and prostitution, O'Brien said.

"Logic said we knew there were still enough good people living in the community," he said. "We've taken control of the streets back from adolescent gang activity. This is a place to move into."

The June project is vital to the neighborhood's continuing success, O'Brien said.

"('Blitz Build') is a real linchpin because it gives the community some hope and optimism," he said. "We got that same type of renaissance mentality because we can now leverage some reinvestment into the city."

Local family looks for closure in tragic death of daughter

BY ZACHARY GORCHOW
STAFF WRITER

The arrest of two suspects in the murder of Livonia native Deborah Iverson has been met with relief from her parents, who hope forthcoming court proceedings will help put closure on their daughter's death.

After a seven-month investigation that had seemingly hit a dead end, police arrested Clawson residents Anitra Coomer and McConnell Adams Jr., both 21, Tuesday for allegedly kidnapping, robbing and strangling Iverson on May 16. Officers had received an anonymous tip.

Barbara Budd, Iverson's mother, expressed gratitude that her daughter's killers may have been found.

"It's in the hands of the law now," said Budd, who has lived in Livonia since 1953. "There were times when we wondered what was going to come next. But with the detectives that were working on it, we knew they'd keep working at it until it was resolved."

Dr. Richard Budd, Deborah's father, said the arrests relieved him because the public would hopefully stop speculating on who killed his daughter. Iverson's husband, Robert, was an initial suspect in the slaying, but was later cleared.

"It helps remove the shadow of suspicion over family members," he said.

In an apparent random act of violence, the couple allegedly kidnapped Iverson, who grew up in Livonia and graduated from Stevenson High School, from a Birmingham parking lot and forced her into her Toyota Landcruiser, according to police.

The pair allegedly kidnapped Iverson by parking next to her vehicle and blocking the entrance to her car by opening the passenger side door of their vehicle, police said.

■ 'There were times when we wondered what was going to come next. But with the detectives that were working on it, we knew they'd keep working at it until it was resolved.'

Barbara Budd

Iverson had gone to an appointment with her psychiatrist. After that, she was going to pick up her son from Detroit Country Day School in Bloomfield Township.

Adams and Coomer allegedly then forced her to write two checks for $1,300. After allegedly cashing the checks, they drove out to rural Macomb County, near Stony Creek Metropark and strangled Iverson to death with a belt.

Budd said the apparent random nature of the act should give area residents reason to pause.

"I think people are going to have to back off and take a look at society," she said. "There's too much of this going on. People shouldn't have to live this way."

Adams and Coomer were arraigned at a Rochester Hills district court Wednesday. Because they stood mute when asked for a plea, Judge James Sheehy entered pleas of not guilty for them on charges of first-degree murder, felony murder and kidnapping.

Festival to showcase student films, videos

The 1997 Michigan Student Film and Video Festival will be Saturday, May 3 at the Detroit Film Theatre in the Detroit Institute of Arts.

This festival is the only event of this kind in the United States which showcases productions from children in kindergarten through 12th grade. The major focus of the festival is to positively reinforce children's participation in film and video production.

All entries are awarded with a certificate and medal. Selected winners also receive various special awards including scholarships. The festival is organized by Detroit Area Film and Television (DAFT), a charitable statewide educational association.

The festival is open to students from Michigan public schools, private schools, cable companies, community service organizations, or can be produced by children independently at home. Students compete in either the elementary, junior or senior levels, depending on their age.

In addition, handicapped children may choose to enter their programs in a special division where they would only compete against other handicapped children of their own age.

The festival is a juried event. Student entrants are given the judges' evaluations plus written suggestions on how to improve their production, as an educational support for their growth and development as student media makers.

For more informations contact festival director, Margaret Culver, Harrison High School, 29995 W. 12 Mile Road, Farmington Hills, 48334 or call (810) 489-3491.

Student exchange program needs local host families

Families who would like to host an exchange student for a few weeks, a semester or a full academic year can contact Educational Resource Development Trust, which has a variety of exchange programs.

Detroit-area families who want to learn more about student exchange or meet with the "Share!" program coordinator for their area can contact the ERDT/Share! national office at (800) 321-3738.

Several local high schools have quotas and early deadlines for exchange student enrollment, so families interested in hosting for the upcoming spring semester or for the next academic year should call as soon as possible.

Special program to honor Martin Luther King Jr.

Madonna University will co-sponsor the second annual Martin Luther King Jr. Observance on Jan. 20. The observance is organized by People of Livonia Addressing Issues of Diversity and there is no charge.

"The purpose of the event is to increase awareness within the community and recognize Martin Luther King's efforts," said Donna Pomerson, chairperson of the observance.

The flashlight observance will begin at 6:30 p.m. from the Civic Center Library, 33000 Civic Center, in Livonia, along Five Mile Road to the Bentley Center Auditorium, 15100 Hubbard. Participants are asked to bring a flashlight.

The program begins at 7 p.m. and includes musical selections performed by high school choral groups and a dramatic recitation by LaRon Williams, an African-American storyteller. Refreshments will be provided after the presentations.

Sister Martinez, director of Madonna University's office of multicultural affairs and coordinator of Madonna University's participation in the event, said: "Our university had a very large turnout at last year's march. This is our second year sponsoring the event, and I hope to see many students and faculty participating again."

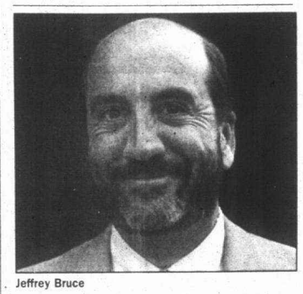
BEAUTY AND THE BEST



Jeffrey Bruce

Finding a stylist takes some work

From the mail I've been receiving, I'm led to believe that a lot of you have many questions about hairdressers – like how to find one. Though I am not one, I have certainly had plenty of experience working in the salon environment over the years.

There are many professional, talented and pleasant stylists, colorists, and shop owners out there. The key of course is to find one that fits your needs.

I think that you should approach this search the way you would for a new doctor. You need to be in charge of the situation. Ask friends who have hair that looks great, seek recommendations everywhere, and you will notice that some names come up repeatedly. That is your first indication of where to begin your search.

You need to find a stylist who will take the time to listen to you, and to tell you what is realistic for your hair type and lifestyle. These people should not be treated as gods. Do not "put yourself in their hands." Never let the words "just do whatever you like" cross your lips.

The salon worker is not a mind reader — you have to give them something to work with. Explain how much time you are willing to spend each day on your hair. Are you in business, work around the house, spend the day training horses? Information like this is what they need to make an informed opinion.

In the past, if you have spent all day at the salon, spent $500, tipped everybody, and walked out to your car and cried — then you need to examine the way you were treated, the way you communicated with both the stylist and the owner, and determine a way to get satisfaction. The salon would dearly love to keep you as a client, unless of course you do this just for a hobby.

If you are considering a real change, a new color, or something major, if you are visiting a salon for the first time — before you let anyone touch your hair, ask to speak to the owner. Tell him/her what you would like, what you are aiming for, and that if they agree to do this, then you will not pay for the services if you are not satisfied. Do not go into the salon demanding something without being willing to listen to their professional advice. If they sound unwilling to do what you want, perhaps try to persuade you to do something else, get a second and a third opinion. If all of these opinions do not go your way, then maybe they are right, and what you are expecting is not achievable.

When you go to a salon, put your best face forward. Take the time to do your hair, put on make-up and give the salon an idea of how you want to present yourself to the world. As with most things, lack of communication causes 90-percent of the problems. If you ask for a trim, you should be able to tell with the first snip whether the stylist is going to give you what you asked for, or whether you will end up looking like me. That is the time to stop them, not after half-an-hour of hacking.

If a stylist recommends certain products to you to maintain the look, they are not just trying to make a sale. You will be walking around for the next six weeks as an advertisement for their work, and it is important to them that you look your best. You may be in the habit of browsing at Bloomingdales and buying at Walmart, but don't expect to achieve the same results. Your face and your hair are the first things that people notice, not your wardrobe or shoes.

When all is finished, and you have a new look/successful cut, keep in mind that you hair may go into shock. Don't be dismayed if the next morning your hair flops — doesn't look as great as it did yesterday. Just re-wash it, re-style it, and you'll find it was just the initial shock that made it look different. Whatever you do, don't panic and go storming back to the salon.

You've heard me talking about the Ginger Rogers and Barbara Eden syndromes. The last thing you want to be is an object of ridicule with your hair a cliche. If you see somebody in the salon getting a better haircut or treatment, don't be afraid to change stylists. It can be handled diplomatically, ask the owner for guidance.

I feel a little like the one-legged man who coaches runners, but I think you'll agree that with a sense of humor most problems can be solved. Well at least your hair will grow back in time — wish I could say the same.

I work, personally, with over 50 salons in the metropolitan Detroit area. Give me a ring and I'll be more than happy to recommend one.

• In February, Jeffrey will be in Rochester, Romeo, Macomb and Highland. For more information call 1-800-944-6588.

The Schubots:
80 years in the fine jewelry business

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Almost until the day Jules R. Schubot died, customers would approach him at social functions and ask, "What's in your pocket, Jules?" You see, from his days as an usher at the Bonstelle Theater in downtown Detroit, Schubot was a pocket peddler of sorts. He always carried rings, necklaces and jewels on him. Backstage, the likes of Jack Benny and Milton Berle would literally buy the merchandise from his pockets.

Eventually, Schubot set up shop, first on Madison Avenue, then in the Metropolitan Building in Detroit, but he never stopped the practice of carrying jewelry in his pocket. He would call on Henry Ford and well-to-do industrial executives at their place of business, pulling strings of diamonds and pearls from his pockets for their perusal.

"My dad started in 1917 as a pocket salesman," said Douglas Schubot who carries on the family tradition of selling fine jewelry at Jules R. Schubot Jewellers in Troy. "One time, he was at New York Yankees game when a woman asked him, 'What's in your pocket?' He pulled out a 27-carat emerald-cut diamond ring. It fit her and she bought it right on the spot! My dad was a big sports fan. When they were in town, all the Yankees would come to him. He did business at the Standard Club in the Book Building, not sitting in an office."

During a recent interview on WJR radio, Douglas Schubot carried one million dollar's worth of diamond necklaces and rings into the studio in his coat pocket. Just like his father Jules, the jewelry business is in the 66-year-old Schubot's blood. Now, he's passing down the love for selling upscale jewelry to his 34-year-old son Brian.

"An impressive, imposing man, my dad had a talent for knowing what people wanted. He knew where to get it and how to sell it," said Schubot who started in the business some 52 years ago.

Douglas and his wife Sydell, who sold her first piece of Schubot jewelry in the mid 1960s, have the same knack. They travel throughout the world in search of the finest designers and manufacturers of 18 carat and platinum jewelry, then the husband and wife team hand-select each piece.

"You can take three diamond necklaces and they look dead. They don't sparkle. Even if it's an earring you notice the quality of the diamonds," said Sydell.

After his father died in 1970, Douglas, gave himself a year to make the business work. In 1977, he moved the business to the Big Beaver/Golden Corridor of Troy. In 1991, renovations expanded the luxurious space from 2,000 to 4,000 square feet. Appointments such as Lalique door pulls and glass, not solid doors, invite the customer inside. The extensive selection of jewelry and watches by Piaget, Patek Phillipe, Vacheron & Constantin, Cartier, and Rolex sells itself.

"Where we are going as an industry is back to a respect for quality. Craftsmanship is to be valued. It's a throwback to 50 years ago when the customer wasn't buying for price but quality, design and something they liked. Jewelry is one of the few areas where the independent has the edge."

Douglas Schubot, jeweller

"The nature of the business has changed over the years. From the hard times of the Great Depression to today, it's been up and down. We were cresting the 1980s until the government imposed the excise tax on luxury items. Sales dropped 30 percent in 1990. The tax killed us. Our sales over $10,000 were nil.

" Boat companies went out of business, but we hung on. It came off in 1992-93 but by then the casual look at the office came in further setting back luxury items. But it's starting to turn around again. People are tired of casual Monday through Friday and want to dress up Saturday night," said Schubot.

Trends in jewelry have fluctuated as well. In the Roaring 20's, 18-carat gold and platinum were all the rage. "In the 1940s, jewelry was mostly rose-gold because the military needed the silver during World War II. Back then, the style was big, clunky pins set with aquamarine," recalled Schubot.

"Ten years ago, it was flash. The classic example of the 80's is the tennis bracelet. In the 70's, we were selling them as blue jean bracelets. Women wore them with their blue jeans on their watch hand," added Brian, a Michigan State University graduate and a Certified Gemologist Appraiser who began working in the business 11 years ago.

"Where we are going as an industry is back to a respect for quality. Craftsmanship is to be valued. It's a throwback to 50 years ago when the customer wasn't buying for price but quality, design and something they liked. Jewelry is one of the few areas where the independent has the edge. We don't carry duplicates. Our community isn't big enough to sell duplicates of the same piece of jewelry."

Service is just as important as the quality and individuality of Schubot jewelry. No matter when a customer walks through the door, they can be assured a Schubot is on the premise, offering nearly 100 years of combined knowledge.

"If a man is looking for a gift for his wife, a bracelet is the easiest to sell, earrings are the hardest. Most men couldn't tell you if their wife has pierced ears. If she hasn't expressed an opinion, it is safest to go with a bracelet," said Douglas.

Married for 42 years, Douglas and Sydell, work side-by-side six days a week. On the seventh day, he plays golf while she takes some time for herself in their Franklin home.

"Working together gave us a great opportunity to know one another. How can you not like working here surrounded by all this beauty?" asked Sydell. "But communication is the key. We're on the same wavelength."

Dennis Toffolo, Hudson's retiring president, announced management appointments in three positions.

Tom Tennyson has been promoted to regional director, John Graber to store manager of Hudson's Twelve Oaks and Tom Nugent to store manager of Hudson's Westland.

Tennyson began his retail career as an intern with Dayton's in 1981. Since that time he has held several buying positions for the Dayton Hudson Department Store Division and most recently was the Divisional Merchandise Manager of Jewelry and Hosiery.

As Hudson's regional director, Tennyson will be responsible for supporting the company's strategic direction focusing on guest service, distinctive and trend forward merchandising, company-wide communication and internal management development for a group of seven stores: Oakland, Genesee Valley, Lakeside, Lansing Mall, Meridian Mall, Grand Traverse and Fashion Square.

Tennyson will also oversee Hudson's 23rd store, scheduled to open in fall of 1997, in the Birchwood Mall, Port Huron.

He holds a bachelor of arts degree in merchandising from the University of Wisconsin and resides in Rochester Hills with his family.

Graber was most recently store manager of Hudson's Westland store.

He began his retail career in 1982 at Foley's Department Store in Texas. He held several positions at Foley's before joining the Dayton Hudson Corporation group of stores as assistant store manager at the Target store in Houston, Texas.

In 1995, he joined the Hudson's team at Westland. As the Twelve Oaks store manager, Graber reports to Steve Prebelich, regional director.

A graduate of the University of Texas, Graber holds a bachelor of arts degree in history. He and his family are residents of Wixom.

Nugent joined the Dayton Hudson Department Store Division in 1990 as an assistant store manager at Marshall Field's. Before joining the company, he had extensive retail experience with JC Penney, Kmart, Carson's, Lazarus and Kohl's which began in 1974.

In 1995, Nugent was named store manager of Marshall Field's Grand Avenue store. He reports to Mike Gilligan, regional director, as Westland's store manager.

He graduated from the University of Illinois with a bachelor of arts degree in English. The Nugent family resides in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Internet Exhibit to tour malls

Based on a $70,000 grant from Ameritech, the Detroit Science Center will set up shop in area malls. The shop will contain a special interactive internet exhibit being developed with the contribution and $500,000 in in-kind goods and services from Schostak Brothers and Co., PCR Personal Computer Rentals, Microsoft, Oldies 104.3, MicroAge Infosystems, Intel, ZimmerFish Creative, and Online Marketing.

The hands-on exhibit will allow visitors to surf the Internet. It will debut at Wonderland Mall, Laurel Park Place and Macomb Mall later this year.

Oakland Mall welcomes new security director

Douglas Warren has been appointed Director of Security for the Oakland Mall in Troy. Warren joins the mall's force following 27 years of service as a Troy Police officer.

His agenda "Put Safety First" encourages all tenants to "stress teamwork with employees and communicate with mall security to ensure safety for the whole mall community, not only a store's individual concerns." Warren said this action plan leads to pro-active problem solving.

Hong Kong leads retail rents

Hong Kong is the world's most expensive retail location according to a survey by international property consultants Healey & Baker, members of Cushman & Wakefield, worldwide.

At $753.50-per square foot per year, the cost of renting a shop in Hong Kong's Causeway Bay is almost twice its nearest rival – Fifth Avenue, New York City. Moscow ranks third, Paris fourth.

The report looks at retail rents, identifies international retail trends, and highlights the countries that "cross border" retailers are targeting. Key findings are:

• Across the globe, retail rents rose in 41-percent of the 168 shopping locations examined in the survey, compared to 42-percent in 1995. Cities in South America have seen the greatest growth followed by Europe, notably Russia, France, Poland, Turkey and the United Kingdom.

• Retailers are looking to expand outside their domestic markets – the countries of Central and Eastern Euope. Over the coming four years, the United Kingdom, Portugal, Germany and the Czech Republic are set to attract the most cross border retailers.

• China remains popular with overseas retailing groups despite the many bureaucratic issues encountered. Shanghai has emerged as the hot spot of retail activity with sales figures around the $10.5 billion mark.

• American retailers have made strong plans to enter the European market, most using London as their starting point. These include Eddie Bauer, General Nutrition, Tommy Hilfiger and Nine West.

Schools get CD Encyclopedias from malls' receipt program

Santa Claus has teamed up with four area malls to donate Encarta '97 CD-ROM encyclopedias to 100 schools in southeastern Michigan. This high-tech gift-giving is an outgrowth of the "Be True To Your School" program sponsored by Lakeside in Sterling Heights, Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn, Twelve Oaks in Novi and Briarwood in Ann Arbor, with partner WXYZ Channel 7.

The recipients include 25 schools that have been most active in the "Be True To Your School" program at each of the four malls, including: Adams High School, Rochester; Rochester High School, Rochester; Mercy High School, Farmington; Plymouth Salem High School, Canton; St. Fabian School, Farmington Hills; Farmington High School, Farmington; Dunckel Middle School, Farmington Hills; Our Lady of Sorrows School, Farmington; Plymouth Canton High School, Canton; West Bloomfield High School, West Bloomfield and Oakley Park Elementary in Walled Lake.

The "Be True" program, now in its second year, enables shoppers to credit their sales receipts — for anything from a cold drink to a cashmere sweater — to any public or private Michigan school, grades K-12. The malls return a portion of those receipts to individual schools to buy such important items as software, videos and reference materials. During its first year, Lakeside, Fairlane Town Center and Twelve Oaks contributed nearly $300,000 to Michigan schools. This is Briarwood's first year in the program.

For more information, please call Lakeside at 1-800-334-LKSD.

CLARIFICATION

Oops!

More than a dozen readers called to say that one of the answers was incorrect in the shopping quiz published Monday, Dec. 28 – (including one woman who said her husband bet her $100 she couldn't get all the answers right!)

To set the record straight: the answer to question 11, What malls have a Kohl's among their anchors? is NOT Northland and Summit Place, but just Summit Place. Readers pointed out the Kohl's store attached to the Northland Center closed two years ago and was replaced by Target.

Gallery merchandise

The Sandra Collins Gallery, 470 North Woodward in Birmingham, showcases the work of fiber artists Suzanne Lalonde, Tim Head and Bobbe McClure; glass artist Alex Brand; and jewelry artist Nancy Daniels. Inquiries welcome at (810) 642-4795.

S'craft students won't qualify for tuition tax credit

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Schoolcraft College students in western Wayne County will be unable to get 1996 state income tax credits because the college didn't hold the line on tuition increases.

Schoolcraft's chief financial officer, A.H. (Butch) Raby, said the community college last year raised tuition per credit hour to $50 from $48, up 3.9 percent.

"The state used the rate of 2.8 percent for inflation or calendar year 1995. Our students, unfortunately, won't qualify for the tax credit," he said.

Neighboring Oakland Community College, however, is among 30 Michigan colleges (10 of the 15 universities and 20 of the 29 community colleges) where students qualify.

OCC also plans to hold the line on tuition next fall: $46 per credit hour for in-district students, $78 for non-residents, $109 for non-Michigan residents. It's one benefit of an 0.8 mill property tax voters approved in mid-1995 that increased revenue by more than one-third.

Maximum tax credit is $250, based on 4 percent of $6,250 in tuition at the University of Michigan level.

A full time Schoolcraft student would pay about $1,700 in tuition and fees, said Raby, and might have been eligible for a tax credit of $68. The average Schoolcraft student takes seven credit hours, so the average deduction would have been $30 to $35 – "but only if they itemize deductions," he added.

"We'll try to keep it (tuition hike) at the consumer price index next fiscal year," Raby said. The fiscal year starts July 1.

"Raby said college official have only begun to collect spending estimates and won't know what the revenue picture will be until at least Jan. 27, when Gov. John Engler gives his state of the state address.

Students, parents, grandparents and even non-relatives can take advantage of the income tax credit as long as their household income is less than $200,000. Anyone claiming the credit must itemize, using the MI 1040 long form.

The credit, passed by the Michigan Legislature early in 1995, was sponsored by Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton. His goal was to give public higher education an incentive to put a lid on tuition increases.

"The $250 tax credit – which anyone, I think, would be thrilled to receive – is not going to make a difference in the affordability of college," Bennett said late in December. The real savings to students will come if the law encourages colleges to hold down tuition.

Glen Stevens, executive director of the Presidents Council for State Universities of Michigan, said colleges and universities were trying to hold down tuition increases even before the tax credit.

"That has been a high priority of the schools in recent years, and you're beginning to see the results," Stevens said.

Nationwide, tuition costs about $3,000 a year for public colleges and universities, and four times as much for private institutions.

Michigan undergraduate tuition averaged $3,816 for the 1996-97 fiscal year, according to state figures – a 3.6 percent increase from last year and an 8 percent increase in the last two years.

Lockwood bases reputation on superior vineyard

Lockwood Vineyard, located at the southern end of California's Monterey County, is an outgrowth of a project conceived more than 20 years ago in the mid-1970s. Even with its unprestigious zip code in Salinas, Lockwood is today a 60,000-case brand that has built its reputation on one of the region's finest vineyards. The winery started in 1989 as a pilot venture with a 600-case release. Because of available fruit source from its vineyard planted in 1981 and 1982, production quickly escalated to 3,000 cases the next year. In 1991 with a full scale, state-of-the-art winery built and current winemaker Steve Pessagno on board, things really got rolling. Plans are for 85,000 cases this year.

Much of the credit for Lockwood's success goes to its energetic financier and managing partner, 78-year-old Paul Toeppen. In 1976, he took over the Monterey Vineyard winery on behalf of the insurance company that owned it. In 1979, he negotiated its sale to Coca Cola. As part of that agreement, Toeppen consented to develop a substantial vineyard operation to supply high quality grapes. Toeppen and his partners Butch Lindley and Phil Johnson have managed vineyards for over 20 years. Controlling their own destiny with cumulative expertise has paid off handsomely.

Monterey County may not be as familiar to you as Napa Valley or Sonoma County, but the region has a proven track record attracting the likes of Kendall-Jackson that now has more than 3,000 acres of grapes planted in the area. Robert Mondavi, Fetzer, Joseph Phelps, Bonny Doon, Morgan, Jekel and Talbott are also prestigious brands banking on the excellent grapes grown in Monterey County. For Lockwood, the annual production utilizes only seventeen percent of the grapes from a 1,700-acre vineyard. The remainder are sold to other wineries such as Robert Mondavi, Franciscan, Bonny Doon and Benziger Family Winery, to name a few.

In Monterey County, the temperature profile of a vineyard is dictated by winds, which begin blowing and cooling the terrain around noon each day. It has always amazed us that so many prime north coast appellations in both Napa and Sonoma counties claim a maritime effect when they are very far inland. This is not the case with Monterey — it truly has the cooling effects of maritime influence.

"This is important since a cooler climate preserves flavors in chardonnay, pinot blanc and pinot noir because the grapes mature slower," Pessagno noted. "In addition to climate, soils in the Lockwood Vineyard are also important. They are shaley loam, also referred to as chalk rock that's well drained, allowing vine roots to penetrate to depths of ten feet or more."

Pessagno also emphasized that for grapes requiring a warmer climate such as sauvignon blanc, merlot or cabernet sauvignon, plantings are made so that they receive protection from hillsides and valleys while receiving maximum sun exposure.

Significant synergy exists between a large vineyard and a small winery. This is the case at

START YOUR DAY WITH A SPOONFUL OF oats

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Oatmeal never goes out of style. It's good for you, really easy to make, inexpensive, and can, with a little dressing up, be delicious.

"I grew up in Illinois eating oatmeal," said Shirley Streshinsky who wrote "Oats! A Book of Whimsy," (Celestial Arts, Oct. 1, 1996, $5.95) with her daughter Maria. "I would ask people about oatmeal, and they always had stories to tell. Oatmeal is full of wonderful memories. Our mothers gave it to us on cold days. Oatmeal is on everyone's shelf, and I want them to reach up and pay a little attention to it."

January is National Oatmeal Month, and a good time to rediscover this American classic.

"Rolled oats are an American invention," said Shirley. "Rolled oats are groats that have been steamed and flattened on rollers. Groats are oats after the hull is removed."

In their book the Streshinskys explain how Ferdinand Schumacher "set up a small mill in Ohio to turn out oats for oatmeal, in the belief that it was a superbly nourishing and cheap human food. At first, only the German, Scottish and Irish immigrants believed him.

"Thirty years later, Schumacher had made a fortune and was known as The Oatmeal King. Schumacher's innovative milling techniques set the stage for the growth of the Quaker Oats Company. By the 1880s, Henry Parsons Crowell of Ravenna, Ohio, was selling his rolled oats under the brand name Quaker."

According to the Quaker Oats Company, the "Quaker Man" became the first registered trademark for a breakfast cereal in 1877. Henry Seymour, one of the founders of The Quaker Oats Company, selected this symbol to represent virtue and give consumers confidence in the quality of Quaker Oats.

"Quaker Oats is still the biggest-selling hot breakfast cereal in the world," write the Streshinskys.

Take comfort in updated meatloaf

It's a new year! Give your meatloaf an update! The comfort food we remember from our childhood was a moist ground beef loaf seasoned with onions and topped with ketchup or brown gravy. Mashed potatoes were the accompaniment of choice.

Today, we still enjoy meatloaf with mashed potatoes — but, wow! — what a difference a few ingredients can make!

Three Mushroom Meatloaf is a delicious new take on meatloaf. Lean ground beef is combined with sauteed onion, garlic and a mixture of mushrooms — button, cremini and shiitake — as well as traditional ingredients like bread crumbs and egg. Thyme seasons the loaf.

For a moist, tender meatloaf, mix the ingredients lightly but thoroughly. Overmixing can make it compact and dry. Bake the meatloaf just until it's no longer pink in the center; a meat thermometer will register 160°F.

While the meatloaf bakes, prepare Pepper Gravy. Saute colorful diced bell pepper until crisp-tender, then combine with jarred brown gravy and thyme. Drizzle it over slices of meatloaf and mashed potatoes.

Leave the potatoes a little lumpy — "smashed potatoes" they're called these days. Add steamed Brussels sprouts to finish the menu. For dessert, redo a malt shop favorite — a hot fudge sundae with low-fat vanilla frozen yogurt, light chocolate fudge sauce and a sprinkling of dried cherries.

THREE MUSHROOM MEATLOAF

Total preparation and cooking time: 1 1/2 hours
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
2 teaspoons butter
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
8 ounces mushrooms (button, cremini, shiitake or a combination), sliced
3 cloves garlic, crushed
3/4 cup soft bread crumbs
1 egg
3/4 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Pepper Gravy:
1 teaspoon butter
1/2 cup diced red, yellow or green bell peppers
1 jar (12 ounces) beef gravy
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme leaves

Heat oven to 350°F. in large nonstick skillet, heat butter over medium heat until hot. Add onions; cook 3 minutes, stirring frequently. Add mushrooms and garlic; cook 6 to 8 minutes or until mushrooms are tender, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat; cool 5 minutes.

In large bowl, combine ground beef, bread crumbs, egg, thyme, salt, pepper and mushroom mixture, mixing lightly but thoroughly. On rack in broiler pan, shape mixture into 8 by 4-inch loaf.

Bake in 350°F. oven 1 hour and 15 minutes to medium doneness (160°F) or until center is no longer pink. (Due to the natural nitrate content of certain ingredients such as onions, celery and bell peppers often used to make meatloaf, meatloaf may be pink even if a 160°F. internal temperature is reached. Always check the temperature with a meat thermometer).

Meanwhile, prepare Pepper Gravy. In medium saucepan, heat butter over medium heat until hot. Add bell peppers; cook 5 minutes or until crisp-tender, stirring occasionally. Add jar gravy and thyme; heat through.

To serve, cut meatloaf into 1-inch thick slices; serve with Pepper Gravy.

Makes 6 servings.

Saluting oatmeal: You'll learn a lot about oatmeal in "Oats! A Book of Whimsy," by mother and daughter authors Shirley and Maria Streshinsky, (published by Celestial Arts, paperback $5.95). This is a great book to curl up with on a cold day. In addition to recipes, the authors share poems, quotes, directions for making trail mix, and even beauty masques.

oatmeal during January than any other month. In January 1996, Americans stocked their pantries with 24 million pounds of Quaker oatmeal, up 20 percent from 1995. You'll find oatmeal in 80 percent of American pantries — either quick, old-fashioned or instant. We eat oatmeal as a breakfast cereal 89 percent of the time; 11 percent of the time we use oatmeal as an ingredient. Of Americans who bake, 79 percent use oatmeal in baking and 77 percent of those who bake with oatmeal bake oatmeal cookies.

Oatmeal is also very good for you. Maria Streshinsky researched the healthful aspects of oatmeal for the book. "The mighty Food and Drug Administration has finally caught on to what our mamas knew all along," she writes. "Hello???? In January of 1996, after reviewing the results of 30 years of research and 41 clinical trials, the FDA proposed the first food-specific health claim — for oatmeal, of course."

The proposed FDA claim reads: "Diets high in oatmeal/oat bran and low in saturated fat and cholesterol may reduce the risk of heart disease. This claim is expected to be approved sometime this month.

Emerging research also suggests that one nutrient, soluble fiber, may also help to smooth out the rise in blood glucose levels. This is good news for individuals with diabetes. Oatmeal and oat bran are good sources of soluble fiber.

If you're dieting, eating a bowl of oatmeal for breakfast can help you reach your weight-loss goal. Researchers have also found oatmeal to be twice as filling as white bread, three times as filling as a doughnut and almost five times as filling as a croissant. Those who eat oatmeal for breakfast feel full long into the morning, and have less temptation to overeat at lunch.

In their book the Streshinskys note: "One cup of oatmeal (that's 1/2 cup dry oats) contains 150 calories, 27 grams carbohydrate, 5 grams protein, 4 grams dietary fiber (both soluble and insoluble), and only 3 grams of naturally occurring fat. They also contain more protein than any other major grain."

Shirley Streshinsky raised her children in California, and "tried her very best to encourage them to eat oatmeal. They would if they could have brown sugar on it," she said.

"Oats! A Book of Whimsy" was "my little labor of love," said Shirley. "My daughter and I did it together. It was a very easy collaboration."

Like oatmeal, their book nourishes the soul. In addition to the historical and nutritional aspects of oatmeal, readers will find recipes, suggested cooking methods, quotes, poems and anecdotes about oatmeal. There's even information on using oatmeal to pamper your skin.

If the memory of a New Year's Day hangover lingers, try "Oatmeal topped with fried onions? The Germans tout it as a cure for a hangover."

Lockwood. It shows in the portfolio of wines at reasonable prices. The 1995 Lockwood Sauvignon Blanc $11 is a pleasurable white wine with fresh, bright fruit flavors in the tropical spectrum. Its balanced acidity makes it a great match for seafood. For an alternative to chardonnay, there's Lockwood Pinot Blanc $15 tantalizing the palate with vanilla, toasty oak and a creamy texture. Two chardonnays, an estate and reserve are made. The 1995 Lockwood Estate Chardonnay $14 is toasty, delicious and very well priced.

Because we're finding many of the merlots currently on the market flabby and lacking good mouth structure, we were delighted with the 1994 Lockwood Merlot $19. If you don't like your merlots flat and flabby, take this tip from Pessagno. Look at the young wine in bright light over a white background. If it has more purple hues than red ones, it will be flabby. If you remember some elementary chemistry, the reason is that the pH of a purply wine is too high and the wine lacks acid. When acid is in balance, the hues are more ruby and the wine comes across as having solid substance. Both the 1993 Lockwood Estate Cabernet Sauvignon $16 and the 1993 Lockwood Partner's Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon $23 are intensely fruity, well-structured and complex examples. The spicy oak and upfront juicy fruit of the Reserve makes it well worth the extra cost.

Tangerines are a source of nutritional sunshine

The citrus fruit with an exotic name, tangerines are a source of nutritional sunshine throughout the winter season. A native fruit of China, tangerines are also known as mandarins. They were introduced to Europe by traders returning from Tangiers, Morocco, where the fruit acquired its modern name. Columbus brought them later to the new World on his second voyage.

Tangerines are rich in vitamin C, provide lots of vitamin A, potassium and even some fiber. Their loose-fitting skin makes them easy to peel and a lunch box favorite.

What else can you do with a tangerine besides eating it out of hand? Take advantage of the sweet and sour flavor in a variety of creative recipes. Use seedless tangerine sections in a salad of wild rice, sugar snap peas, sliced mushrooms and thinly sliced red onion, tossed with a dressing of olive oil, wine vinegar and freshly ground pepper.

Prepare a Moroccan-inspired pilaf by mixing bulgur with tangerine zest, raisins and chopped, dried apricots; toss with tangerine sections and toasted pine nuts. Make a summery-tasting seafood cocktail by tossing diced tangerine sections with diced cooked shrimp (or lobster or crab meat) with a dressing made of tomato sauce, lemon juice, black pepper, salt and horseradish. Serve over shredded lettuce or watercress.

Tangerine juice can help to make a delicious salad dressing, but when used straight it makes the salad watery. For best results, thicken the juice by boiling it in a heavy saucepan until it's reduced to a quarter of its original volume.

When choosing tangerines, look for fruit that is heavy for its size with a skin that has no soft or puffy spots. Fruit with a deep yellow-orange or almost red luster indicates freshness, maturity and good flavor. Tangerines can stay fresh up to a month when stored loose in the refrigerator.

Rubbed with an aromatic mixture of grated tangerine peel and seasonings, Pork Roasted with Tangerine Peel and Thyme is served with a tangy tangerine juice gravy.

PORK ROASTED WITH TANGERINE PEEL AND THYME

- 1 3-pound center-cut pork loin roast
- 1 tablespoon finely-grated tangerine rind
- 2 teaspoons fresh thyme leaves
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon cumin
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1 (14 1/2 ounce) can chicken broth
- 1/2 cup fresh tangerine juice
- 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black-pepper
- Fresh thyme sprigs (optional)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Trim and discard any excess fat from the pork loin. Place it on a wire rack in a 13 by 9-inch baking pan. In a small bowl, combine tangerine rind, thyme, 1/2 teaspoon salt, the cumin, and pepper. Rub the mixture evenly over all sides of the pork and set aside in the refrigerator for 15 minutes.

Add the chicken broth to the baking pan and roast the pork, uncovered, for 2 hours or until the meat thermometer registers 160 degrees F. When the pork is done, transfer it to a cutting board and let stand for 15 minutes.

In a one-cup measuring cup or small bowl, combine tangerine juice, flour, pepper, and the remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt.

Remove the wire rack from the baking pan. Stir the tangerine mixture into the broth remaining in the baking pan. Add enough water to the liquid in the pan to get 1 1/2 cups of liquid. Heat the mixture to boiling, stirring constantly, until it is thickened and bubbly. Pour the gravy into a small pitcher.

Slice the pork and arrange it on a serving platter. Garnish the pork with thyme sprigs and serve with the gravy.

TWENTIETH CENTURY FOX

Suspenseful: Abigail Williams (Winona Ryder) tries to resume a forbidden relationship with John Proctor (Daniel Day-Lewis) in "The Crucible."

'The Crucible' remains a cautionary tale

BY MATT WOLF
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

LONDON (AP) _ Arthur Miller's benchmark play, "The Crucible," makes a stirring film courtesy of director Nicholas Hytner, who proves that his 1994 movie debut with "The Madness of King George" was no fluke.

A seasoned opera and stage director in his native England and a Tony Award-winner for his Broadway production of "Carousel," Hytner is that rare theater animal who seems fully assured on screen.

This time, he gets invaluable assistance from a screenplay by Miller that stands among the 81-year-old writer's finest achievements. The play may have been written in 1953 in the heat of the McCarthy blacklist, but its resonances have not faded. There's not a more topical movie around.

These days, the fear is no longer one of being labeled a communist. Instead, Miller's depiction of the Salem witch hunts in 17th-century Massachusetts taps directly into the ideological baiting of the religious right and the persecution of "deviants" who fail to conform to the perceived norm.

That hard-working farmer John Proctor (Daniel Day-Lewis) is brought down by adultery may strike a few chords, as well; the wages of sin, apparently, have not changed.

The film begins with a covert ritual in the woods whose participants include the agent of Proctor's doom, Abigail Williams (Winona Ryder), his family's one-time servant. Stripping off her clothes and smearing blood on her face, Abigail is one of several women in the town given to sudden transports of ecsthsy thought to be the work of Satan.

They soon are branded as witches. Frenzied accusations spread through the community abetted by the Rev. Hale (Rob Campbell), whose eventual recognition of the trouble he has helped stir comes too late.

The "witchcraft" turns out to be more like sexual hysteria _ a contagion that strikes both Proctor and wife Elizabeth (Joan Allen). Placed on trial before the visiting Danforth (Paul Scofield), a judge as concerned with saving face as he is with justice, Proctor's morality is put to a potentially fatal test.

He must confront the wrath of Abigail, a woman spurned who sees herself as "God's finger." Once accused, she is more than able to act the accuser.

Few works have the sheer moral weight of "The Crucible," and it's among Hytner's achievements that he conveys this probity without letting the film become high-handed. (In this, he's helped by a final image that elicited an audible gasp at a screening.)

Any priggishness comes from Proctor himself. Day-Lewis plays him as a rugged Marlboro Man of unwavering principles. The film might have been even more disturbing if one felt Proctor drawn _ however subliminally _ to Abigail.

Instead, he's an almost Christ-like martyr, a connection made explicit late in the film as Proctor announces that "God is dead" and stretches out his arms. More recognizably human is Elizabeth, his wife, whom Allen memorably imbues with the pinched severity associated with Dutch portraiture. With her sad eyes and sunken cheeks, she resembles a Frans Hals painting.

Allen is just one of a sterling supporting cast who tend to outshine the leads.

Scofield was an Oscar nominee two years ago for "Quiz Show" and is sure to be nominated for this role. Purging the town of Satan's disciples to the cheers of the townspeople, the actor's uniquely sonorous voice has rarely sounded so chilling.

Other standouts include Karron Graves as Mary Warren, whose "evidence" of Satanic possession proves crucial to the trial; Peter Vaughan as Giles Corey, a town elder prepared to die rather than play the informant; and Mary Pat Gleason as Corey's sharp-eyed wife, who understands far more about a community blighted by fear than she is prepared to tell.

Forty years ago, "The Crucible" was a cautionary tale cloaked in thumpingly good entertainment. It remains that now, and Miller and Hytner deliver the material with the ferocity it deserves.

"The Crucible" is a 20th Century Fox release of a David V. Picker production, produeed by Picker and Robert A. Miller (son of Arthur); co-producer is Diana Pokorny.

Australian 'Country Life' well-acted film

BY LEANNE ROGERS
STAFF WRITER

When films are adapted from Jane Austen, you can pretty much count on things working out to a happy ending. With adaptations from Chekhov, you expect everyone the opposite — nobody will end up happy.

That's certainly the case with the well-acted Australian film "Country Life" which was "suggested" by Chekhov's "Uncle Vanya." Set in the Australian Outback of 1919, "Country Life" looks at the return of a native son after spending 25 years in London.

Writer-director Michael Blakemore plays the writer, a demanding, vain and self-centered man who left his infant daughter to be raised by his late wife's family on their sheep ranch. He arrives with his attractive much younger wife, played by Greta Scacchi, and the results of their visit are decidedly mixed.

The daughter Sally, played by Kerry Fox, is comfortable and confident working on the ranch but not so secure when it comes to personal relationships. Sally has been in love with the local alcoholic doctor played by Sam Neill for years but has carefully hidden her feelings.

The doctor has no idea Sally is in love with him and he falls in love with the writer's wife. Sally's uncle, who resents scrimping over the years to pay a monthly stipend to his elitist brother-in-law, also develops romantic feelings for the new wife and urges her to flee while she can. All of these conflicting emotions and relationships eventually come to a head.

Like their counterparts in Chekhov, these are characters who seem powerless in taking control of their fates. Sally, who views herself as plain, will continue working at the family ranch which has seen better times. Although he can be witty and charming, the doctor knows his drinking is a problem. He comments he would tell any woman interested in him that she could do better.

This is a wonderfully well done film with fine performances by all the actors. Besides its setting, Blakemore has given the story an Australian spin through the hostility the doctor receives for being a pacifist, an environmentalist and for taking care of Aboriginal people. He also holds the a view referred to as being anti-British – although he actually seems to more accurately pro-Australian.

When the writer and his wife move on, the people left go back to their lives – a bit sadder and in some cases wiser.

They shot better, they rebounded better, they defended better and they passed better — all of which were reasons enough to propel the Aquinas College Saints to a 96-82 women's basketball triumph over Madonna University last Monday at Madonna.

The Lady Crusaders, who had won three of their previous four games coming into the Aquinas match, fell to 5-8 with the loss.

Dawn Pelc and Katie Cushman each scored 21 points to lead Madonna. However, they were a combined 16-of-41 (39 percent) from the field. Pelc also led Madonna with 12 rebounds, while Cushman had three assists.

Mary Murray added 14 points and Angie Negri had 11 for the Crusaders.

Back on top

The Detroit Rockers regained the lead of the National Professional Soccer League's North Division with their 16-13 come-from-behind victory over the Harrisburg (Pa.) Heat Thursday at Joe Louis Arena.

The win gave the Rockers a 10-8 record, better than that of the Buffalo Blizzard (7-6).

Dennis Brose has been supplying most of the offense for Detroit; his 98 points is second in the NPSL only to the 101 posted by Cleveland's Zoran Karic.

The Rockers led Harrisburg 4-0 after one quarter, thanks in part to a goal scored by Jeff Gold, from Plymouth. But Detroit's 10-4 halftime lead did not last; the Heat scored seven-straight points to go up 11-10, before the Rockers rallied in the final quarter.

Brose scored his team's final five points, one a two-pointer on an assist from Gold.

Nothing's easy for Canton

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

The opener in the Western Lakes Activities Association basketball campaign should have delivered a lesson to defending champion Plymouth Canton.

No one's going to lay down for you guys.

Farmington proved that Friday. One minute into the fourth quarter, the Falcons had a one-point lead.

"Then Canton kicked it in," said Farmington assistant coach Chip Bridges, "and went on a nine-point run."

The closest the Falcons got after that was five, as the Chiefs posted a 62-49 triumph at Farmington.

The win boosted Canton's record to 3-2 overall, 1-0 in the WLAA. Farmington is 1-3 overall, 0-1 in the league.

"Farmington played their butts off," said Canton coach Dan Young. "They hung in their tough. I didn't think we played badly. They played a real tight zone and we had to be patient against it."

There were no problems for either team getting back into gear after the holidays. Both were 21-of-43 from the field (48.8 percent), and the Chiefs committed just nine turnovers to Farmington's 17. The Falcons had a 22-21 rebounding advantage.

The difference came at the free throw line. Canton was 19-of-25 (76 percent); Farmington made 5-of-7 (71 percent)

"We drove and got offensive rebounds and got fouls that way," said Young.

"It was just a very good high school game. We were pleased to get out of there with a win."

Farmington led 20-18 at the half, but the Chiefs took the lead after three quarters, 34-31. After the Falcons' early fourth-quarter surge, Canton used the offensive prowess of its top three scorers — Donte Scott, Nick Hurley and Rob Johnson — to pull away.

Scott, who "busted out" according to Young to score a season-best 16 points, got seven of them in the fourth quarter. Hurley netted eight of his 15 in the fourth, and Johnson had six of his 10 in the last period. Johnson and Matt Ammons also had five rebounds apiece.

Nick Sertic riddled Canton's defense for 15 points. Trevor Gaines added 12.

"They played a half-court defense, they were careful with their shots, and they killed us at the free throw line," summarized Bridges.

Finding the range: Canton's Donte Scott struggled at times early this season, but against Farmington Friday he was on target, scoring a game-high 16 points — seven coming in the pivotal fourth quarter.

Salem 77, Ypsi Lincoln 58: Merry Christmas, Plymouth Salem.

That's what the Rocks should have wished in return to the accomodating folks from Ypsilanti Lincoln — a belated Happy Holidays. After all, the Railsplitters were nice enough to play Friday's game at a pace Salem appreciates.

Which is why the Rocks took control early and kept it throughout the non-league contest, hosted by Ypsi.

"It was an up-tempo game," said Salem coach Bob Brodie, his team now 4-1. "So we scored quick and they scored quick. It was an offensive barrage.

"We're kind of an up-tempo team, so we fell right into it."

Indeed, Salem put 46 points on the board in the first half alone, bolting out to a 24-12 lead after one quarter and a 46-31 lead at the half. The Splitters managed to trim it to 13 (57-44) after three periods, but they never got any closer.

Andres Lopez put up 17 points to lead Salem. Andy Power had 12 points and five assists, Mike Korduba collected nine points and eight rebounds, and Jeff McKian totaled eight points, eight rebounds and five assists. In all, nine Rocks scored.

For Ypsi Lincoln (now 2-2), Cedric Lewis scored 22 points, Andrew Van Hassel had 11 and Richardson Clayton got 10.

Wasylko's late goals salvages 2 ties for Whalers

For the second-straight game, the Detroit Whalers needed some third-period heroics from Steve Wasylko to salvage at least a point.

Wasylko powered in a goal with 6:02 left in regulation Thursday, on an assist from Steve Dumonski, to earn the Whalers a 4-4 tie in an Ontario Hockey League game played at North Bay.

It was Detroit's second-straight tie. Last Monday at Windsor, Wasylko scored another third-period goal that gave the Whalers a 6-6 tie.

Detroit's record moved to 14-19-4 (32 points), four points behind the third-place Windsor Spitfires — who have two games in hand — in the West Division.

Against North Bay last Thursday, Detroit trailed 3-1 after one period. The Centennials got first-period power play goals from Greg Labenski and Peter McCague; a third tally by Chris Neil increased their lead to 3-1.

A goal by Jamie Vossen pushed the Centennials' lead to 4-1 early in the second period. Detroit, which got a first-period goal from Anthony Terzo, closed to within a goal on second-period power play markers by Andrew Taylor and Mark Cadotte.

Taylor totaled a goal and two assists, while Wasylko had a goal and an assist, and both Bryan McKinney and Dumonski collected two

Chiefs ready and reloaded

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

What's missing from Plymouth Canton's gymnastics lineup is considerable. That's obvious.

But what's returning is pretty good, too.

At last year's Class A state finals, the Chiefs — winners of the Western Lakes Activities Association title — battled but could not quite overtake Holland, which won the state championship by three points over Canton. The Chiefs shaved Northville-Novi by a half-point for second place.

Three of Canton's top five scorers have graduated from that team: Brie Wall, who was 10th in the state in the Division II all-around; Kim Nowak, who was 15th in the state in Division II all-around; and Brooke Larson, who scored in three events

Rocks face uphill struggle

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

Some familiar names will be part of the Plymouth Salem gymnastics team this season. Unfortunately for coach Pam Yockey, many of them will be on the sidelines coaching, not on the floor competing.

Melissa Hopson (whom Yockey referred to as her "co-coach"), Danielle Puchalt and Pam's daughter, Zoe, are all assisting her. Hopson graduated two years ago, Puchalt and Zoe followed last spring.

One who will be competing is a formidable returnee: Kristin Kosik, now a senior. Kosik showed her competitiveness last year when she rebounded from a tie for seventh in the all-around at the Western Lakes Activities Association meet to a seventh-place finish at state.

See SALEM, C2

On the upswing: Salem's Kristen Kosik proved she belonged with the best with her performance at state.

How to replace them is the question. Canton coach John Cunningham believes he has an answer.

For the Chiefs, it all starts with Katey Gilles. Now a senior, Gilles is trying to recapture the glory she found as a freshman, when she won the state individual all-around competition.

After sitting out most of her sophomore season, Gilles returned last year but suffered a mishap in the uneven parallel bars that gave her a gash on the head and a third-place finish at state in the all-around.

Whether she can regain a state championship may prove too tough a task for her to tackle. Sure, Gilles is every bit as good as she was her freshman year; problem is, everyone else has improved, too.

Holland returns all five of its scorers from last year's state meet; so does Rochester Adams, which finished fourth. Northville-Novi has some gaps in its lineup to fill, but looks tough.

"I told the girls we're going to start off slowly," said Cunningham, "and by the end of the year, we'll be pushing the top five (in the state). We'll definitely be in the top 10."

Filling the gaps is Cunningham's first order of business. He does have some other experienced athletes to call upon — like Beth Muylaert, a senior; Nicole Vaagenes, a junior; Holly Graham, a junior; and Marcie Emerick, a sophomore.

All competed at the varsity level last season, which should prove beneficial this year.

So will the addition of freshman Liz Fitzgerald, a Division I-caliber gymnast, and sophomore Michelle Farnsworth, a transfer student from outside Seattle, Wash.

"What it amounts to is, I've replaced two of the three girls I lost, but I won't be able to replace the third," said Cunningham.

Joining Gilles and Muylaert will be Emerick, who's ready to step up and fill one of the top slots. Fitzgerald, although just a freshman, should be able to compete ably at the varsity level as well.

What Cunningham must do now is find a way to get solid scoring from a fifth source in each of the four events, from either Vaagenes, Graham, Farnsworth or Sandy Mulder.

"In floor exercise and balance beam, we'll be strong," said Cunningham. "But vault and bars will kill me. That's the way I'm looking at it."

Developing the talent he has available in those events will be the key to Canton's season. How far the Chiefs can progress is problematical; regaining the WLAA championship is possible, with Northville-Novi and the newly formed all-Farmington team (Farmington, North Farmington and Farmington Harrison will field one team) posing serious threats.

Plymouth Salem and Hartland will be in contention, too — which means the race for the WLAA title should be a fabulous and wide-open one.

As for the state competition, Cunningham singled out Holland, Adams, Northville-Novi, Freeland, Traverse City and Holt (all top-10 finishers last season) as contenders.

"We're below them right now," said Cunningham. "It's just a question of how we develop."

And how that development goes could put them in the top five — or, conversely, out of the top 10.

Canton opens its dual-meet season at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Northville-Novi in what could be the key meet of the WLAA season. On Saturday, the Chiefs travel to the Rockford Invitational.

Counted on: Marcie Emerick, a sophomore, is one of several Chiefs coach John Cunningham is hoping will step up and fill in one of the team's vacancies.

"I think we're going to be pretty much behind Kristen Kosik," said Yockey. "And I think she'll come through for us."

She sure did at state last year. Kosik tied for fourth in the floor exercise and tied for fifth in the vault.

Expected to bolster the lineup for Salem was Brooke Kilby, but Kilby suffered a severly sprained ankle that will sideline her for the next couple of weeks, at least. Yockey isn't sure she'll have Kilby back before the end of the season.

That hurts. But Yockey does have a lineup full of all-around-caliber athletes.

Others expected to step into the breech are Janine Schmedding, a sophomore who saw varsity action last year; Lindsay Hawraney, another sophomore; Allison Bracht, a freshman; and veteran Kristan Los, a senior.

The new names associated with her team make Yockey a bit uncertain about Salem's outlook. Kilby's loss accentuates it further.

"It makes us short on the fourth spot," she said. "Right now, I couldn't tell you (who that will be)."

Some of the same teams that reigned over the state a year ago should return to the top, Yockey said. Defending state champion Holland will be strong again; Canton has suffered some losses, but still has quality performers; Freeland, Holt and Troy all appear formidable.

Yockey was also impressed with Northville-Novi, which challenged Canton for second at last year's state meet, falling short by half-a-point. "I think they're better than they were last year," said Yockey of Northville. "I think they'll challenge for the state title."

In the WLAA, Northville, Canton and Hartland look strongest, together with defending Lakes Division champ Salem and the newly-formed tri-team from Farmington (all three high schools — Farmington, North Farmington and Harrison — will combine to field one team this season).

"I couldn't tell you (where we'll finish) until Brooke's back at full strength," said Yockey. "She could be our ticket. If she doesn't come back strong, we're going to have to count on some freshmen and sophomores.

"And with them, you just never know which way they'll go. It may be just a matter of which way the wind is blowing."

A top-10 finish at the state final — Salem placed 10th last year — is certainly within reach. "Well, I hope so," said Yockey, noting last year's best score of 132. "It will be close."

It's reachable, certainly. It's just a matter of which way the chips fall for the Rocks.

Salem opens its dual-meet season at 7 p.m. Wednesday at home against Hartland. On Saturday, the Rocks host the 16-team Salem Invitational, with some of the state's best (among them: Freeland, Holt, St. John's, Troy and Birmingham Seaholm) competing. The Invitational begins at 10:30 a.m.

Governor has yet to autograph bowling bill

TEN PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

"Don't jump the gun," a precautionary message from Don Williams, President of the Bowling Centers Association of Michigan to all of the area's members of the organization.

His message states clearly that the House Bill 6114 will not go into effect until signed by Gov. John Engler.

The Governor has 14 days from the date that he is formally presented with the bill.

As of today's date (12-30-96), he has not yet been presented with the bill. Since the legislation pased so overwhelmingly in both the House and the Senate, it is expected that Gov. Engler will sign.

But, until he does so and the BCA notifies it's member bowling centers, these games (mystery, strike ball, etc.) are still not considered legal. Those leagues who might decide to go ahead anyway would also be in violation of ABC/WIBC rules, which state that a game which violates any applicable law is also prohobited (ABC/WIBC rule 15).

•"Praise the Lord, and set 'em up again,," as Father Tim Murray registered his first ever 700 series (245-245-214) in the St. Linus Classic League at Garden Lanes last Friday night in Garden City.

Father Murray had been a member of the St. Linus Classic for about 10 years starting when he was with this church. He then moved away to St. Martin DePorres in Warren.

He has been averaging about 189 in the league and has now achieved one of his goals, a 700 series to go along with his hole-in-one in golf.

"Now I can quit this game and take up fishing," said Father Tim, as his prayers were answered just a few days after Christmas.

•A word to the wise: Don't let the mild weather fool you, there is still plenty of harsh winter ahead.

If you leave the bowling ball in the car overnight it can become damaged.

Temperature extremes should be avoided, and a cold ball does not perform as well on the lanes.

Who wants to put their fingers into ice cold holes anyway? it is possible for the weight block to become delaminated in extreme cold and that nice expensive piece of equipment can get "trashed" very easily.

Winter weather also means to watch out for the soles on your bowling shoes. Many outsiders come in to the bowling center when you are bowling and track it up with melted snow or just plain wet boots.

If your sliding sole gets wet, you will "stick" at the line, possibly injure yourself, or worse, go over the foul line.

When you come into the bowling center from the cold outdoors, it's a good idea to do some light stretching before you toss that first ball, get those muscles loosened up before you bowl.

CC survives Borgess challenge

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Detroit Catholic Central senior guard Marc McDonald caught the in-bounds pass, dribbled, and heaved the ball to celebrate.

The 50-foot toss hit the backboard and bounced away, which was fine by him because time had already expired and CC escaped with a 66-64 victory over host Redford Bishop Borgess in the Catholic League Central Division opener for both teams.

McDonald smiled at the suggestion that some of his earlier attempts had the same chance of going in the basket.

For the second straight game McDonald proved he was human. He made only eight of 23 shots from the floor while finishing with 21 points, tying teammate Chris Young for game-scoring honors.

McDonald didn't make a shot from three-point range, which is about as rare as this balmy weather Michigan's been having in the New Year.

"Normally I have to work so hard for shots, but today I was open and my shots I couldn't hit them," said McDonald, who had a combined 83 points in CC's first two games. "It feels so good to win. I'll sacrifice shooting bad for a win any day."

Young, a 6-foot-10 junior center, and sophomore guard Nick Moore played their best to date, helping the Shamrocks improve their record to 2-2 overall.

Young made 10 of 11 shots from the floor, including two dunks, and grabbed a game-high 17 rebounds. Moore added 11 points and nine rebounds.

CC junior guard Joe Jonna also played a key role. After splitting a pair of free throws with 13.6 seconds left to give CC a 66-64 lead, Jonna made a steal with 1.9 seconds remaining, ending Borgess' last hope.

Borgess inbounded the ball to Kevin Jordan, who couldn't get past a trap set up by Young, Moore and Jonna. Jordan, who scored 14 points, made his last three-point shot to cut the lead to 65-64.

The Shamrocks outrebounded the Spartans 46-45, which was easier for Borgess coach Rosey Barnes to hear than the final shooting tally.

Borgess fell behind 10-0 to start the game, missing its first 12 shots from the floor. The Spartans didn't get much better, finishing 23-of-86 for 27 percent.

"We missed a bundle of layups," Barnes said. "As a coach you can't get any better looks – we missed at least 15 to 20 bunnies. Their big guy (Young) played exceptionally well and their point guard did an excellent job. We had our opportunities. It was a well-played Catholic League game and their coach (Rick Coratti) does an outstanding job."

Durand Bynum led the Spartans with 20 points before fouling out with 13.6 left. John White scored 10 of his 15 points in the second half, before he too fouled out with 2:41 remaining.

Before he left, White scored on a three-point shot and layup on consecutive possessions to end a 7-0 run and give Borgess a 58-55 lead.

The Shamrocks scored the next six points to go up 61-58.

Borgess tied the score at 61 with a three-pointer from the corner before Young put the Shamrocks ahead to stay with a hook shot.

assists apiece.

For the second game in a row, Nathan West started in goal for the Whalers but failed to finish the first period. After surrendering three goals in the first 10:20, he was replaced by Shawn Gallant. Gallant made 21 saves in his time between the pipes, giving up one goal.

Detroit was without regular goalie Robert Esche, who was playing for Team Canada in the World Junior Tournament.

Wasylko's goal with 15:10 left in regulation last Monday at Windsor assured the Detroit Whalers of at least a point.

Wasylko's marker, on assists from Andrew Taylor and Luc Rioux, knotted the game for the fourth time, this time at 6-all.

Mark Cadotte scored twice for the Whalers, who led 4-3 after one period and were tied at 5-5 after two. Other Detroit goals came from Harold Druken, who also had an assist, and from Jan Vodrazka and Taylor.

West started in goal for the Whalers but was replaced early in the opening period by Gallant. Gallant made 35 saves in more than three full periods of play (with overtime included), allowing four goals.

The Whalers play at Sarnia Thursday before returning home for two weekend games, against the West Division-leading Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and against the London Knights at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Cute-as-a-button Suzuki X90: It's fun, fun, fun

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

ROAD TEST By Anne Fracassa

There's no question about it.

The 1997 Suzuki X90 4x4 is radical.

You wouldn't believe the amount of people who stopped to look at this really strange-looking multipurpose vehicle that may just be the cutest wheels on the road today.

Suzuki has always been known for its fun-to-drive vehicles. And for affordability. It's just that hardly anyone notices. Lots of people notice this car.

The Suzuki X90 is a two-seater with a T-top. It's really little. But not so little on the inside. You'd expect a skinny college kid would be the only demographic that would fit in the X90. Quite the contrary. Two portly adults can fit inside without knocking elbows or being uncomfortable.

On the outside, the X90 has really unique styling. There are rounded edges all around — including really pronounced bumper treatments. It looks like a sporty subcompact.

For Pete's sake, its got a wheelbase of just 86.6 inches and its overall length is a fit six — maybe more — of these in my garage.

But looks are deceiving. The X90 sits high off the ground. It's not like a full-size pickup, mind you, but you could actively go off-roading and not have a care about running into any trouble.

The X90 is available in two models: The 2-wheel-drive and 4-wheel-drive. Both models are outfitted with a 1.6-liter 16-valve electronically fuel-injected 4-cylinder. The 5-speed is matic transmission with overdrive is optional.

I drove the X90 outfitted with an automatic transmission and 4-wheel-drive. It handled well in most driving conditions and during hard cornering stuck to the road like glue.

There's a scant 95 horses powering the X90, so don't even think of drag racing with your sister in this one. Acceleration was slow, but consistent. The power/normal switch made little difference.

I had only one other complaint with the X90: It feels like those 95 horses are trying to buck you. It's outfitted with MacPherson struts. And the rear axle sits on coil springs with wishbone and trailing links. The X90 is small, but the ride really should be better.

I know, I know, Michigan's roads are awful (probably the worst of the whole country), but I actually got a headache from much after one 55-mile trip. Enough about that.

The trunk was suprisingly large enough to hold just about anything you throw at it. With almost 8.5 cubic feet, even a mom could do a weekly shopping trip without a problem. And the X90 can tow up to 1,000 pounds — just about what a jet ski and trailer would be.

The interior looks nice and is fully carpeted. The seats are solid-color cloth and the inserts are a coordinating wild print that's also on the door inserts. And the center console holds two large drinks without a problem.

Everything from the radio to the heating controls in the center instrument panel are easy to reach. The radio controls are a bit tiny, but still, not at all hard to use.

One thing I did like was how quickly the X90 warmed the very efficient.

The X90 has all the creature comforts usually found in pricier models. Stuff like standard power windows and door locks, power steering, power brakes, dual outside mirrors, rear window defogger, locking fuel-filler door, tinted glass, tachometer, 2-speed intermittent wipers, stainless steel exhaust, a center console with dual cup holders, distinctive aluminum alloy wheels and 15-inch all-season radial tires.

The X90 4-wheel-drive models comes equipped with all that and more: A security alarm system, automatic front hubs, 2-speed transfer case, Alpine AM/FM stereo cassette with four speakers and a remote key fob.

Safety has not been forgotten here. The X90 is outfitted with driver and passenger air bags, side impact beams, a rear spoiler with stop lamp, three-point seat belts and daytime running lights. Four-wheel anti-lock brakes are an option on both models.

There are just four colors to choose from — black metallic, red, blue metallic and silver pearl. The blue metallic was really pretty.

The X90 is fun to drive, good on mileage and really neat to tool around town in. But it's really radical, dude, and it even makes GenXers do a double-take.

Sharing The Road With Trucks:

(NAPS) – Each year there are more than 200,000 crashes involving at least one passenger car and one large truck. Many of these crashes can be avoided if motorists knew about truck limitations and how to steer clear of unsafe situations involving trucks.

Here are some tips from the safety experts at the U.S. Department of Transportation that will help you understand the differences between cars and trucks so you can improve your road sharing skills and help reduce car-truck crashes.

The key to safer highways is to know the No-Zone. The No-Zone is the area around trucks where cars (1) disappear into "blind spots" or truck driver's ability to stop or maneuver safely. Both types of No-Zones greatly increase the potential for a crash.

While most people realize that it's more difficult to drive a truck than a car, many don't know exactly what a truck's limitations are in terms of maneuverability, stopping distances, and blind spots. So here's a handy rule of thumb –

Generally speaking, the bigger they are:

- The bigger their blind spots.
- The more room they need to maneuver.
- The longer it takes them to stop.
- The more likely you're going

TV PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Q: My mother and I are having a disagreement about the recent TV movie remake of Bye Bye Birdie. I say Jason Alexander played Conrad Birdie, but my mother says no. Who's right? –A fan in Montpelier, Vt.

A: Your mom has you on a technicality. Alexander did star in the TV movie, but he played Albert Peterson, Conrad Birdie's manager. Newcomer Marc Kudisch played Birdie himself.

Q: Could you please tell me about the actor who played Phil on Murphy Brown and why he was written out of the show? –Bill Bolen, Sarasota, Fla.

A: Pat Corley, 66, walked away from his Murphy role after eight seasons simply because he wanted to do other things, says CBS publicist Toni Moston.

Before he struck gold on Murphy, the Dallas-born character actor had series roles in the short-lived drama Bay City Blues and the equally brief sitcom He's the Mayor.

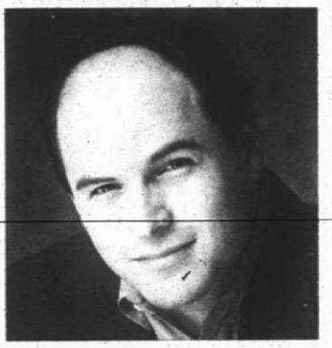
Among his films on video are the 1981 TV movie Of Mice and Men, Mr. Destiny, Night Shift and Silent Witness.

Q: I understand from an Internet newsgroup that A&E has picked up the syndication rights for Northern Exposure, but we have heard conflicting dates about when they will actually begin airing the episodes, either in January or September. Do you know? Also, will they be complete and unedited? –S. Proto, Shelton, Conn.



Jason Alexander

A: "Wow, the license doesn't even start until next October," says A&E publicist Kathie Gordon, who adds that the episodes will begin airing at some undetermined point after that.

She says it is possible that A&E will air the unedited episodes (as your letter implies, the commercially syndicated repeats were lightly edited), but it's just too early to know for sure.

Q: Please settle this issue: Is the actress playing Rachel Cory on Another World the same woman who used to play Vera on Alice? –A fan from Clifton, N.J.

A: No, despite a striking resemblance, Victoria Wyndham (Rachel) and Beth Howland (Vera) are two different actresses.

Q: I heard Sherman Hemsley is starring in a new network sitcom, but I can't find it. Has it been canceled? –Gladys Hoffman, Fenton, Mich.

A: No, Hemsley stars in Goode Behavior, which airs Mondays on UPN.

Q: Lunch is riding on this: Is the Terry O'Quinn who has guest starred on Millennium the same actor who played the psychopath in The Stepfather? –M.K., San Francisco.

A: Yes, he is one and the same.

Smooth Bateman sets the pace for NBC's new Chicago Sons

By John Crook
TVData Features Syndicate

When it comes to women, three brothers find themselves witless in the Windy City as NBC unveils Chicago Sons, a new sitcom premiering Wednesday, Jan. 8.

Jason Bateman (The Hogan Family) stars as middle sibling Harry Kulchak, a hard-working young architect who takes his job almost as seriously as he takes his potent attraction to beautiful coworker Lindsay (Paula Marshall, Wild Oats).

For her part, Lindsay isn't the least bit averse to using her feminine charms to her advantage. In the pilot, she easily get Harry to help her with her latest design, which is visually stunning. "The only thing that mars its perfection is that, if someone slams the door too hard, well, it could collapse," she explains sheepishly.

Back on the home front, Cubs fan Harry shares his apartment, which overlooks Wrigley Field, with younger brother Billy (David Krumholtz, The Santa Clause), a free spirit who dropped out of college after six weeks and is now a pursuing a variety of get-rich-quick schemes.

When the eldest brother, construction worker Mike (D.W. Moffett, Stealing Beauty), "temporarily" moves in after his wife (Stephanie Erb) demands a separation (she thinks Mike is more interested in Bassmasters than in their marriage), the setup for the series is complete.

The pilot, which was directed by sitcom wizard James Burrows (Cheers), looks promising, although some fine tuning is needed. A few of the jokes fall flat and Krumholtz, despite solid comedy timing, looks so little like his TV brothers that it's distracting (this despite the fact that he was the fourth actor cast in the role before the pilot was filmed).

Then, too, there is the question of why three boys from Cicero, as the script specifies, are rooting for the Cubs instead of the White Sox.

That's nit-picking, of course, and the fact is that there's a lot to like about this new sitcom, even on first introduction.

Moffett, who scored some of his earliest successes in yuppie/preppie roles, makes a believable blue-collar brother, and Marshall - still perhaps best known as the reporter who incorrectly "outed" Jerry and George as gay lovers on Seinfeld - deftly walks a fine line to keep Lindsay from becoming a manipulating witch.

But make no mistake: This show belongs to Bateman and he deserves it. A sitcom veteran at 27, he has a relaxed style and an effortless knack for tossing off lines that wear well in an age of shrill, rat-a-tat TV comedy.

But it was a twisting route that brought him back to NBC, home of five of his six series to day. When the hit sitcom The Hogan Family left the air in 1991, Bateman, who had played oldest son David Hogan, who too hot not to cool down.

He gave a charming performance as the young male lead in the TV movie This Can't Be Love with Katharine Hepburn and Anthony Quinn, but mainly found himself in one failed pilot after another.

"My goal for a long time has been to just do sitcoms," he explains. "I love the routine of working with the same people all the time and having a job nine months out of the year...The life of an actor, for my money, kind of stinks."

Finally one pilot, Simon, was picked up the The WB Network, where it drew such small audiences during the 1995-96 season that many viewers still may not realize it ever happened. While Bateman was glad to get back out there in front of audiences, he soon found himself in a dilemma when he got a call for Chicago Sons while still under contract with WB.

"The (told) me Jim Burrows is directing, producing it through his company, and it's for NBC - it's everything that I've always wanted," he recalls. "But I thought, if I...get this pilot, I'm not going to be able to do it, because I'll still be (under contract to Simon."

WB declined to release him from his contract, he says, but the producers and NBC were so impressed with Bateman they decided to risk shooting the pilot with him, even if it meant reshooting it later with another actor if Simon were renewed. After several tense weeks, the gamble paid off doubly: The WB canceled Simon and NBC gave Chicago Sons a midseason slot.

Now, Bateman is beaming with pleasure at the prospect that Chicago Sons will follow the same stratospheric trajectory of last season's midyear entry 3rd Rock From the Sun, as well as finding some stability with a new TV family - especially Moffett, who instantly fell into an eerie sibling rhythm with his TV brother.

"When I went outside to go over the lines with the actors auditioning for Mike, I just had to read it once with D.W. and then we just looked at each other with a wry smile and kind of nodded," Bateman laughs. "I knew he was going to get it. And we went in, hit it out of the park, and he had the part."

Spoken like a true Cubs fan.

TUESDAY

Lisa Ann Walter lays down the law as an assistant state's attorney who juggles her career and her family in Life's Work, airing Tuesdays on ABC.

TRIVIA

The beverage now known as coffee was introduced by an Arab, Avicenna, around A.D. 1000. It took about 500 years to catch on.

SOAP TALK

Sunset Beach hopes to make a big splash

By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate

It has been eight years since daytime fans have had a new serial to sink their teeth into. It's been even longer since there was a cast like the one Aaron Spelling has pulled together for Sunset Beach, premiering Monday, Jan. 6, on NBC.

This is Spelling's first foray into the daytime scene and it promises, if nothing else, to be an interesting one.

The cast Spelling has created is a mix of top names in television and new faces. It's as if Spelling went to the actors' department store and picked four heavy hitters, a couple of well-known daytime faces and some new ones to complete the mix.

Lesley-Anne Down, Sam Behrens, Kathleen Noone and Leigh Taylor-Young bring a certain class and depth to the show.

Daytime fans will also recognize Peter Barton, Laura Harring and Timothy Adams.

There is a serious hunk factor on the show thanks to Ashley Hamilton, son of George Hamilton and Alana Stewart; Nick Stabile; Clive Robertson; Jason George; Dax Griffin and Randy Spelling.

Robert Guza, head writer and co-creator, says creating a show is "like playing God."

"You create a world where you populate it with all these different people and then you complicate it," Guza says. "It's a blank canvas – you can literally go anywhere. With a new show like Sunset Beach, there's no 20 years of back story to remember."

Sunset Beach is a small town that was created out of the love of a handsome European aristocrat and a woman he met on the beach at sunset. The couple married and he built a beachfront castle as a monument to their eternal love.

But today's Sunset Beach is a typical Southern California oceanfront community. The stories focus on the lives of the very wealthy and the regular working Joes who make up the population of the fictional town.
