Yack backs E-mail

■ Some say free and open government may be threatened by computer links between elected officials. Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack says that's nonsense.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack says he sees no need to seek a state attorney general's opinion to determine if a computerized communication link — known as E-mail — with trustees is a violation of the state Open Meetings Act.

"If a telephone is not considered a violation of the Open Meetings Act, I don't know why E-mail would be," Yack said.

Violating the Open Meetings Act, which requires public bodies to make decisions in public, can be accomplished on the telephone much easier than on E-Mail, Yack said.

The purpose of E-mail is to provide information equally to all trustees, who have computers at home, Yack can write letters, for example, and send a copy to each trustee for review before it's typed and mailed. "It's not a two-way system involving lots of people," Yack said. He says he's careful to provide each trustee with the same information.

But some concern has arisen about the system and its potential for violating the Open Meetings Act by allowing decisions to be made without public knowledge.

"I think it's very shady for them to communicate by computer. It enables them to deliberate without hearing each other and the public," said Tim Richard, chairman of the state Freedom of Information Committee.

But Yack denies there's any attempt to deliberate and make decisions over the computers. Dissemination of information is the goal.

Dawn Phillips, Michigan Press Association general counsel, says she's taking a wait-and-see attitude, despite the fact that computer communications between governmental officials gives her "the willies.

"There is something about it that bothers me. You just don't know what technology will bring," Phillips said.

Students favor Perot in mock election

BY M.B. DILLON

Ross and Margot Perot would be headed to the White House if it were up to students at Plymouth Salem and Canton high schools.

Perot received a whopping 1,137 votes of the 2,810 total votes cast in last week's mock election. Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton finished second in the balloting with 902 votes, while George Bush ranked third with 684 votes.

Perot was the clear winner at both high schools. He received 762 votes at Canton and 375 votes at Salem. Clinton received 663 votes at Canton and 239 at Salem. Bush received 452 Canton votes and 232 Salem votes.

At Canton, 1,943 students voted. A total of 867 students cast ballots at Salem.

Canton students voted down all four ballot proposals.

Salem students defeated Proposals A, C and D. They passed Proposal B, which would limit legislative terms, 461-361.

Canton Close Up government classes diverged from the student body at large. The 240 Close Up students elected Clinton with 99 votes. Perot was second with 75, and Bush received 51 votes.

Canton Close Up teacher Stacey Champagne said her students didn't go with Perot "because they had studied the issues more. Doing debates, they researched all three candidates." Many students who voted aren't studying government and perhaps hadn't delved into issues and candidates' stands as deeply, said Champagne, who credited government teacher John Balmer with organizing the election.

Students in general "may have been going on surface value," added Champagne. "Perot is in the media more, he's spending more money, and

Big day arrives — big turnout expected

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

It's the moment many people have been waiting for: election day, Tuesday, Nov. 3.

With the presidential race sitting on the top of the lengthy Canton Township ballots, a big turnout is expected at the polls. That means you might encounter lines at the township's 24 precincts in 15 polling locations.

Keep in mind that polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. Township clerk Loren Bennett suggests that non-working people avoid the rush when the polls open, and at lunchtime, and 5 p.m. and later, when the working crowd usually heads for the polls.

Those of you who plan to vote absentee are reminded to get your ballots in as soon as possible, and certainly before polls close at 8 p.m. election day. Those of you who thought about voting absentee but never got

Schools' rainy day fund sinks to dangerous low

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plante & Moran's audit of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, presented to the board of education Monday night, contained good news and bad news.

The good news is that the district gets an 'A' for its accounting practices. The bad news is that the fund balance, or rainy day fund, has shrunk to $2.1 million, enough to operate for just five school days, according to Plante & Moran. The fund equity last year at this time was two-and-a-half times that amount.

Revenues are down significantly due to the $750,000 in tax-base sharing funds currently tied up in class-action litigation; and property tax adjustments that have adversely affected general fund revenues, and low interest rates, reported Plante & Moran.

"This is a very tough year. It's very disappointing," said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business.

Because class sizes are up due to budget cutbacks, many classes have 34 or 35 students, necessitating classroom aides as stipulated in the teacher contract.

Budgeted for aides, or paraprofessionals, this year is $124,000. That line item will total closer to $340,000, Hoedel estimates.

"We're looking at it and trying to find ways to squeeze expenditures down even farther," he said. Mentioning that the board will conduct its two-year budget review in November, school board president Roland Thomas said "If the superintendent does impose some freezes, I'd like him to keep us aware of what they are."

The district's total assets are $16.1 million, including cash and cash equivalent investments of $10.4 million.

Plymouth-Canton is out-of-formula and ineligible for general state aid. Currently, 92 percent of revenues come from local property taxes. Two percent of its general fund revenues come from state aid, and six percent from other sources.

General fund expenditures break down as follows: 64 percent for instruction; 32, percent for supporting services; 1 percent for capital outlay; 1 percent for debt service; and 2 percent for federal projects.

Since 1988, general fund revenues and expenditures per pupil have risen, as have property taxes, while state aid has dropped off.

he makes things seem very simple to students who don't really understand government.

"He explains things with one-liners so people can understand. That's part of his appeal." Also, Perot was an attractive choice because "he's kind of a fighter, being independent," said Champagne. "People are sick of politicians; they don't look well upon politicians. Kids see Perot as holding himself above the mud-slinging; he's not politics as usual."

Champagne and Salem Close Up teacher Bill Gretzinger said students aren't espousing their parents' views.

"I don't think that's necessarily true," said Champagne, adding that Perot's win came as a surprise to teachers. "We were all shocked about Perot."

Close Up students went with Clinton because "they are sick of Bush. They think Bush hasn't done much about the economy. They're young, idealistic, and tend to believe a little bit more about what Clinton is going to do," she said.

Gretzinger said that the majority of Salem Close Up students also voted for Clinton. "But I was shocked to see the number who voted for Perot," he said.

Students came up with three reasons why Perot won the school-wide election, Gretzinger said. "Kids are sometimes rebellious, therefore they identify with someone running against the grain. Secondly, their consensus shows disgust for the present political system. And third, some actually believed what he was saying."

U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, defeated challenger state Sen. Bob Geake, R-Northville, at both schools in the 13th Congressional District race. Ford won at Salem, 369-363. He trounced Geake at Canton, 193-40.

State Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, was the clear favorite in the 21st District contest. He beat Republican Deborah Whyman at Salem, 466-325. He won at Canton, 205-11.

East Middle School also held a mock election, and "registered" 257 voters. President Bush edged Clinton and Perot with 89 votes. Clinton received 85 votes, and Perot 83, said Katie McClain, a seventh-grader at East who helped set up the election.

Analyzing the outcome, McClain said, "Most of the students' parents want Bush, and they're used to Bush."

"Where it becomes a bit of a concern is that there is less of a paper trail. It's easier for us (the media) to trip over paper than a computer entry."

Yet Phillips said she's not ready to say E-mail provides a potential for abuse of the Open Meetings Act and Freedom of Information Act. "It depends on how they are doing it."

Apparently no courts in the state have ruled on the issue either.

"I would think they would have to be very careful on how they use that system. They are walking a fine line," said Chris DeWitt, spokesman for attorney general Frank Kelley.

Yet if E-mail is just for conveying information and not for reaching decisions, "maybe there is no problem," DeWitt said. He cautioned that any information that is retrievable is subject to the Freedom of Information Act.

Yack admits he doesn't see how E-mail could violate the Open Meetings Act. "This is just a way of sending information. Good government starts with good information and sharing that information."

Any communication system used by government depends on the integrity of the people using it. If governmental officials want to break the law there's plenty of other ways — even at public meetings where there is no public in attendance, Yack said.

"With so few people at our meetings we could talk about anything. Why would be have to sneak around?" Yack said. "There's always a way to beat the system if you want to. People who want to can violate the law."

around to it can forget about it altogether for this election. The deadline for getting a ballot was 2 p.m., Saturday, unless it's an emergency.

Remember the lengthy ballot includes more than the presidential race. State, county and local offices demand your attention, as do the four state ballot proposals, Wayne County proposals — Wayne County Community College proposal depending where in the township you live — and a local merit ordinance amendment.

The length of the ballot plus the anticipated turnout will cause delays at the polls. Bennett suggests that you be prepared before you get to your voting locations by having a good idea for whom you're voting and how you feel on the ballot issues.

Because of changes in precincts and voting locations, you're urged to take another look at your registration card to be sure you're headed in the right direction.

But take heart, each voting location will have it's own "problem resolution" person who will be hand to help voters. These election workers, however, cannot explain the meaning of ballot issues for you.

If you have any questions, call the township clerk's office, 397-5452. "We can solve a lot of problems beforehand," Bennett said.

Firefighter trades high heels for boots

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Wendy Cobb traded in her business suits, heels and a comfortable desk job for a blue uniform, physical fitness and a chance to help people — directly.

"That job was mentally challenging. This one is mentally and physically challenging. You have to think quickly and act on it," said Cobb, 25, Canton Township's first woman firefighter.

After years in a comfortable position as a research analyst for a publishing company, the Flat Rock resident had an idea to work with her city's volunteer fire department. It was just something she wanted to do. Meanwhile, her husband stopped by the department and got himself an application.

"He never had an inclination to do it," Cobb said, amazed at her husband. She did the same thing and got herself an application. In November, 1989, her training began in firefighting techniques and emergency medical services.

"It made the analyst's job feel like it just wasn't any fun," Cobb said. "I just felt I needed to do something to help people."

In Flat Rock she was a volunteer firefighter when she wasn't working her routine as an analyst. But her publishing company coworkers began to see a transformation. She wanted a career switch.

With training and three years of volunteer firefighting under her belt, Cobb sought out other departments. Canton was one that took notice of her training and qualifications and she started with the department in March.

Being singled out as a woman, especially as the only woman, is not what Cobb is all about. "And neither do they," Cobb said, referring to her male counterparts. "There's nothing here that's any different. There's nothing here to say who's a man or a woman. I wouldn't want them to treat me any differently."

No big deal is how Canton Fire Chief Mike Rorabacher sees Cobb's arrival in the ranks. She's considered no more or less important than the other four rookies who joined the ranks this year or a fifth who has yet to start.

"We've had females apply in the past. For one reason or another, they didn't make it through the testing procedures," Rorabacher said. Admittedly, a little preparation was in order when Cobb was about to join the ranks.

"When it was all said and done it was just a non-issue," Rorabacher said. "All of our new firefighters have had high academic and physical standards. She's just a competent, qualified individual. She had blended quite well. Her attitude toward the fire service is consistent with all new hirees."

No doubt about that. Her fellow firefighters tease her just as much as they do each other. On the job, she's like anybody else. "There's not one guy in this department that I don't like or that I think doesn't like me. I've been treated as one of the guys. I couldn't ask for a better group of guys."

She was, however, singled out just once — by another woman. The woman was aghast when she saw Cobb with her co-workers trying to help carry an elderly woman. "I had to chuckle."

Now with eight months on the job, Cobb says she can't imagine returning to the 9-5 routine. And she's gotten used to the schedule where she's on duty, off duty, then on duty for a couple days, then off again. "I actually got a tan this summer."

As with all Canton firefighters, Cobb has duties at the fire station at Canton Center and Cherry Hill roads. Squads and equipmentd are checked daily, followed by working around the station mowing the lawn, waxing the floor or housekeeping. In the afternoon, firefighters train.

She'll quickly tell you that firefighting isn't for every woman — or man. "It doesn't matter whether you're a man or a woman, you can't be unfit."

In her first three months in Canton, she had more emergency and fire runs than all year in Flat Rock and that's what she loves. Though trained just like everyone else in emergency medical services, it's the firefighting side of the job she needs.

"That's what drives me. You deal with the public a lot more. It's exhilarating. You can't not love this. You have to love it. You walk into burning buildings.

One-dog canine unit returns to Canton police department

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

It won't exactly be like Rin Tin Tin. But the Canton police will soon have its own canine program — again.

"I want to see a very quality program here," said Canton police Chief John Santomauro. "Once it's had a fair opportunity, we'll evaluate the effectiveness of the program."

One pre-trained dog will kickoff the reactivated program. The dog, which has yet to be bought, will help police officers on their daily duties. Because dogs' hearing and scent are better than in humans, the dog will be used to help with searches, tracking, locating lost children, personal identification of suspects, crowd control narcotics detection and assisting on traffic stops and prowler runs.

Since the former canine program ended in 1988, the department has used dogs from other agencies, such as the Michigan State Police. Because of budget cuts, it's become more difficult to borrow the state police dogs, police said.

Reduced costs also are expected from the canine program, simply because the dog can search out a suspect, for example, while allowing what might otherwise require additional officers on that particular case to respond to other calls, Santomauro said.

Narcotics detection is expected to be one of the big bonus' of having a canine unit. While it might take an officer an hour to make a narcotics search, it would take a trained dog five minutes, police said.

Crime prevention and community relations are other areas where the dog is expected to play a big role.

"Getting officers out on the streets as role models for young people is important to us. The (police) motorcycles interest people. Young people interact well with the motorcycles and they interact well with canines," Santomauro said.

The program will be financed with drug forfeiture money, rather than township tax money. Start-up costs for the program's first year are expected to run $11,405.

The western Wayne County narcotics team also may be able to use the dog, which would enable the Canton department to get a percentage of any forfeiture money, Santomauro said.

Problems with compensation plus the age of the two dogs used in the former program, spelled the end of the canine unit.

Man beaten, robbed while walking along Denton Road

COP CALLS

A 21-year-old man was punched and robbed by two unidentified men as he walked on Denton Road early Friday morning, according to a Canton police report.

As the man walked northbound on Denton from Mott Road, a Ford with two men pulled up next to him. The car's passenger shouted, "how's it going man?" When the man answered the passenger got out of the car and struck the man, knocking him to the ground.

The passenger was joined by the driver who helped him remove the man's jacket, valued at $100 and his wallet containing $120 cash. The men then got into their car and drove away on southbound Denton toward Michigan Ave. No weapon was used in the robbery, according to police.

An anonymous caller with a young male voice reportedly called Plymouth Canton High School with a bomb threat Oct. 28.

The caller made the phone call from a public telephone near the White Castle restaurant on Ford at Haggerty. "A pipe bomb that is hooked up to a timing device is going to go off this morning at the high school," the caller said.

Police searched the building and found nothing, according to a Canton police report.

assault and battery

A Canton man was injured Oct. 26 when he and another man got embroiled in a political debate and ended up fighting. The injured man was hit with a broom handle, which left a 3-4 inch welt on his arm. He sought medical attention on his own, according to a Canton police report.

State chamber endorses Whyman

The Michigan Chamber of Commerce has endorsed Republican Deborah Whyman, who is challenging incumbent Democrat Jim Kosteva in the 21st state House District.

"She has a commitment to job creation and economic development by supporting Michigan job providers on a wide range of key issues," said Bob LaBrant, chamber vice president.

"We look forward to working with Deborah Whyman in the next legislative session on economic issues. It's important to employees and employers to have people like Deborah Whyman, who understand private enterprise and economic growth in the Michigan House of Representatives," LaBrant continued.

The Michigan Chamber of Commerce is a state-wide business organization that represents about 6,000 employers throughout the state. It was established in 1959 to represent employer interest in the legislative and political process.

Services for James P. McFadden, 28, of Canton were Tuesday, Oct. 27, at Uht Funeral Home. Burial was in Mount Hope Cemetery.

He was born June 19, 1964, in Cleveland, Ohio. He died Saturday, Oct. 24, in Canton.

He is survived by his wife, Pam McFadden of Canton; father, Glen McFadden; one son, Jeremy; one daughter, Jessica; two sisters, Nancy and Carol; and one brother, Glen.

The Rev. Neil Swanger officiated the service.

MARGARET MENYHART

Services for Margaret Menyhart, 91, of Plymouth were at 11 a.m. today at St. Kenneth Church. Burial was in Our Lady of Hope Cemetery.

She was born May 1, 1901, in Hungary. She died Wednesday, Oct. 28, at Charter House Nursing Home in Farmington Hills. She lived 14 years in Plymouth. She was a homemaker.

She is survived by one daughter, Margaret Belcik of Tulsa, Okla; two sons, Leslie J. Menyhart and Ernest J. Menyhart; 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The Rev. William Pettit officiated the service. Memorial contributions may be given to Propagation of Faith. Arrangements were made by O'Brien Chapel/Ted C. Sullivan Funeral Home in Novi.

Schools offer special testing

■ EDUCATION

Plymouth Canton and Salem high school sophomores will participate in a guidance and information program.

In responding to the need to help students get an early start in thinking about their post-high school options, the American College Testing Program (ACT) is offering PLAN, formerly called P-ACT-plus.

There will be more than 5,000 high schools across the nation participating in the program this year.

High school counselors will give the test to all interested 10th graders on Saturday, Oct. 31. Testing will begin at 8:15 a.m. Students must sign up in their respective buildings to be tested.

Registration will run from Oct. 12 through Oct. 21. The cost of the test is $7 per student and payment must be made by check at the time of registration. Students can sign up in the career resource center of their school. At that time, students will receive a planning and preparation guide.

Canton Counselor John Seidelman said, "By taking the PLAN/P-ACT-plus, students are given an excellent opportunity to experience what it's like to take a national college entrance test."

The program consists of four major parts: academic test in writing skills, mathematics, reading, and science reasoning; an interest inventory; a study skills assessment; and a student information section. P-ACT-plus participants receive a comprehensive, easy-to-understand report of their results and an interpretive guide to help students and parents understand and use the information.

The plan is also an excellent indicator of how students will score on the ACT Assessment Test taken by most college bound juniors and seniors.

Schools sponsor hurricane relief effort

The Plymouth-Canton Community School District is sponsoring a relief effort for South Dade High School in Dade County, Fla., which was hit hard by Hurricane Andrew.

The "Extend Your Hand Campaign" began at Isbister Elementary School, where children collected a wide variety of school supplies and toys for the students at the Florida school. The program was spearheaded by Isbister parent Debbie Drinkhahn.

Schools have been given a "wish list" from South Dade, which includes a wide variety of school supplies. Debbie Drinkhahn will coordinate pickup of the donated items from participating schools through each building's Parent-Teacher Organization. Collection of the items will be on Friday, Oct. 30. Drinkhahn and her husband will transport all items directly to South Dade High School, therefore donations will directly benefit students.

Any local businesses or members of the community who would like to join the hurricane relief effort by donating school supplies or toys should contact Drinkhahn at 453-9289.

Women seek seat on probate court

Cathie Maher of Canton Township and Nancy Diehl of Detroit are vying for a six-year term on the Wayne County Probate bench. A probate court judge is paid $93,817 per year. The winner of Tuesday's race will succeed retiring Justice Gladys Barsamian.

The court handles cases of child abuse, neglect and abandonment and juvenile delinquency.

Both candidates support keeping families together rather than placing children in foster homes and both support a recent state Department of Social Services plan to downsize state training schools and put more money in community-based treatment plans.

They disagree, however, about who's best-suited to sit on the bench.

Maher, 42, an attorney in private practice in Plymouth, points to her experience in all areas of probate court.

"I have more experience than Nancy. My focus has been in probate court — juvenile, guardianships, wills/trusts," said Maher, who also points out that she is the mother of two school-age daughters.

"It helps when you have children to understand family dynamics," said Maher, who says as a judge her focus will be "getting the family working again."

If elected, Maher would join her husband, Martin, who handles trust and estate cases in Wayne County Probate Court.

Maher said she finds her case work in probate court fulfilling.

"I can do a lot for my clients as far as obtaining counseling and treatment program. I work with people. As a judge, I can be even more effective," said Maher, who grew up in Garden City and was graduated from Garden City West High School in 1968.

Maher cites Family First and PACT (Parents and Children Together) as examples of two good programs being used to help families stay together. She believes the court could also do more with the ministry which already has many family-oriented programs in place.

Diehl, assistant Wayne County prosecutor in charge of the child abuse unit, is nationally known for her work in handling abuse cases. She has co-authored two books to assist children in courtroom situations.

Diehl, 37, is single and sits on the board of directors of the Out Wayne County Council on Child

IT LOOKS LIKE GOUT, ACTS LIKE GOUT, BUT ISN'T GOUT
Perhaps you had pain in a toe, wrist or a knee, that was sudden, intense, and prolonged and associated with marked tenderness. Possibly, relief came only after a doctor injected the joint. Or, if you were lucky, after a night of agony, the pain resolved.
Likely, you were told you had gout.
That assessment may not have been correct. For there are several conditions that look like gout, act like gout, but are not gout.
The importance of noting the difference is that the treatment of these other causes is not the same as for gout. If you have gout, the medication colchicine is the usual initial therapy. Another medicine, allopurinol, often is added. In some cases, a change in your diet and drinking habits is necessary. If you have a disorder that looks like gout but isn't, none of the measures listed above are applicable to you.
These other conditions include pseudogout and hydroxyapatite arthropathy which include combinations of calcium and phosphate. The clue to their presence is that you have an attack of 'gout' but the blood studies do not support that diagnosis. Also, findings on joint x-ray may reveal the presence of these other causes for your pain.
Gout and its alternatives illustrate the medical maxim: some patients show more than they have, and others have more than they show.

They say it's going to be a HARD WINTER!

On the state ballot proposals, the group recommends no on A, yes on B (term limits), no on C (cut and cap), and yes on D (insurance reform).

The election is Tuesday. Polls are open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Abuse and Neglect. She also serves on Gov. John Engler's Task Force on Children's Justice.

Diehl sees the judgeship as an opportunity to "work with families a lot sooner than I see them now."

Diehl believes she will be effective as a judge because she's a "team player" and because she demands a lot of herself and of others.

She says although she doesn't practice in probate court she's knows the issues because "I've been dealing with them all along."

Diehl, who comes from a family of 11 children, says her commitment to children's issues speaks for itself. Children's issues has been her focus of her community work. She is a member of several task forces and associations that deal specifically with children's issues including the Wayne County Task Force on Child Sexual Abuse and Wayne County Regional Education Service Council on Human Rights Committee.

Spending questioned

Observer staff writer Barbara Wilson must have lost her thesaurus following the Plymouth Township Trustee meeting.

In a flurry of figures, she fumbled the facts. Her story on the "Leaner Budget OK'd" was close to factual — the date was correct. The budget was OK'd but it is $287,960 higher than the 1992 budget. That's not leaner. That is a 4 percent increase in spending. It is an operating deficit budget of negative $1,499,860 or $63.42 per resident. She was half correct in how the deficit is covered: by using over $750,000 from assorted fund balances. She forgot to mention the intent to borrow $750,000 on top of last year's borrowing of $950,000.

This "style" of budget balancing is entering its 4th consecutive fiscal year. The township has used close to $5 million from borrowing and fund balances since 1990.

Time is just about up. In fact the fund balance leaves enough money for less than 8 days of operation versus 164 days worth in 1990. The savings account is depleted, we are $1.7 million further in debt, yet spending increases.

I never "attacked" the board concerning public safety expenses, I didn't even mention that budget area. Of the 88 total employees (not counting 30 volunteer fire personnel) public safety employs 56. The proposed spending in public safety is $3.7 million, $50,000 less than in 1992. So these 64 percent of the employees account for 49 percent of the spending. What about the other 32 employees and respective department which account for 36 percent of the work force, but 51 percent of the spending?

Tom Kalis,
Plymouth Township

Geake supported

In the 13th Congressional District, we voters have a choice between State Sen. Bob Geake and the incumbent William Ford. On his campaign literature, Bill Ford claims "he continues the battle to clean up government."

How many voters know he voted to cover up the House banking scandal? He wrote six bad checks himself. How much did you spend in those bad checks, Mr. Ford? And why did you also vote to cover up the House post office scandal, which involved cocaine sales?

Ford's campaign pieces also drip with compassion for the working man. And yet this same politician has consistently voted for higher taxes, all the while voting 14 times for fat pay raises for himself, including a $35,000 pay increase in 1989. Three times he voted against the balanced budget amendment.

The above is disgusting enough. But, there's more. Ford also voted to force taxpayers to fund the pornographic, graphic homosexual, and anti-Christian "art" through the National Endowment for the Arts. A blatant outrage.

Carol La Palm, Garden City

Twisted view

There is something wrong about the so-called sport of killing deer. I think that your paper's Community Buck Pole only amplifies how twisted our view and treatment of sentient beings are.

Terms such as "bagging a buck" and your offer to "take pictures of successful hunters with their dead deer" say it all. The only consolation now is that according to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the hunting population is on the decline.

Juliana Harrison, Plymouth

Condoms condemned

According to your Oct. 15 issue (Condoms Inside Cards, p. 9A), Kathy Allen of Summit Medical Center thinks "safe sex" Sweetest Day cards containing condoms are "fun, fun." Reprehensible, degrading or contemptible would be more accurate, an utter perversion of the sweeter and more loving sentiments evoked by the day.

M. L. Caldwell, Plymouth

Toast offered

I just read your piece on drunken white males. I'm not one to write to newspapers, but I just couldn't resist. I'm still laughing. I agreed with every word. Matter of fact, I'll toast you next time I'm at the fire water depot. Where would this country be without our drunken white males. Just imagine some liberal skirt running things — we'd all be in trouble then. Amen!

Here's to you. Salute.

P.S. I'll be paying closer attention to your articles. Keep up the great work.

Albert Stubbs, Garden City

Hot dogs

It is important to keep driveways clean of antifreeze, as antifreeze has a sweet smell and taste to animals.

Also, unattended pets left in automobiles in hot weather are in great danger. Many people are unaware of the fact that pets cannot tolerate the heat of a car for very long. Even if the windows are partly opened, it is generally not enough ventilation. A dog does not sweat like humans; therefore, it's temperature rises fast.

Janet Wojna, Plymouth

Support term limits

Vote "Yes" on Proposal B for term limits. Don't believe the lies that the politician's lackeys are saying about B.

I am one of thousands of unpaid volunteers who circulated petitions because term limits is a great idea and needed for the future of America. The feeders at the trough must be getting desperate. I have heard commercials that term limits will cause water pollution. By election day term limits will probably cause global warming.

After Nov. 3 more than 20 states will have passed term limits and in another four years most states will have term limits. You know it will never pass nationally because it will take congress to do it. So term limits can only pass state by state.

We have to have people from the real world who have had real jobs and pay real bills making our policies in Washington. Look at Bill Ford. He has been in Congress for 28 years. He votes himself a big pay raise anytime he wants one. He will retire with a pension of more than $80,000. All his wants are paid for by lobbyists and taxpayers. He and his cohorts have no concept of reality and have spent our future with a $4 trillion debt. The saddest part is they really don't know anything is wrong.

Regardless of your intentions after a few years in Washington, where the lowest number in the system is a million, you lose touch with the real world. At least term limits can bring people to congress who know what is happening in the real world. By the time they forget they will be replaced. Limiting terms is the only way to bring reality to the lala land in Washington and maybe give our children a chance.

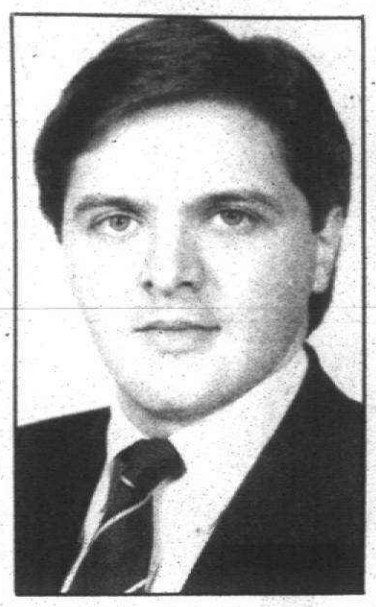
County commission raises its budget, cuts foster care

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER



■ 'I feel like I'm sitting on the deck of the Titanic. Things are so wrong, just so wrong. It's frustrating just being part of it.'

Bryan Amann
Commissioner

The Wayne County Commission voted Thursday to raise its budget by about $900,000, in part by siphoning $1.3 million from the department of social services foster care program.

With commissioners Bryan Amann, D-Canton, Kevin Kelley, D-Redford, and Edward Boike voting against it, the commission approved a budget of $6.9 million for itself. That's up from $6 million in 1992 and $3 million in 1986. (Commissioner Maurice Breen, R-Plymouth, was absent.)

Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Westland, voted for the budget increase along with the Detroit commissioners and Susan Hubbard, D-Dearborn.

However, county Executive Edward McNamara is expected to veto all or part of the budget. "It will be a question of whether (McNamara) has six votes or not (to sustain the veto)," Amann said. The new fiscal year begins Dec. 1.

The breakdown on the proposed increase to the county commission budget goes like this:

■ The personnel allocation is up $400,000 to $3.3 million.
■ The auditor general allocation is up $300,000 to $1.1 million.
■ A new item called "planning activity" gets $100,000, taken from McNamara's planning fund.
■ And $200,000 of the county attorneys' fund was frozen, or "unallocated" in county jargon.

The $1.3 million that the commission wants to take from the foster care fund is currently being saved in case the state court of appeals reverses a decision made by the Wayne County Circuit Court last week. The judge ruled that the state should pay for foster care ($11 million a year in Wayne County), but the state appealed.

If McNamara goes along with transferring that $1.3 million to the commission budget, and the appeals court reverses the circuit court decision, the commission will have to restore $1.3 million to the foster care fund.

Amann was so angry about the commission's action that he said, "I feel like I'm sitting on the deck of the Titanic. Things are so wrong, just so wrong. It's frustrating just being part of it."

He was particularly chagrined that the commission voted to put up a sign at Metro Airport that says "Your business is welcome in Wayne County" and lists the names of McNamara and the county commissioners. "We're supposed to be looking at tough economic times and we go and put up a sign at the airport," he said.

Kelley's response was less visceral, but he also opposed the budget increase. "I think you've got to be very careful when you start shifting money around," he said. "I think spending (on the commission budget) has gone too high."

Kelley and Amann also agree that it's time for the commission budget to be audited.

To date the audit committee has ordered financial scrutiny of almost every county department but the commission itself. "If it's good for everybody else, it's good for us," Amann said.

Beard, the audit committee chairman, did not return the Observer's telephone calls by press time.

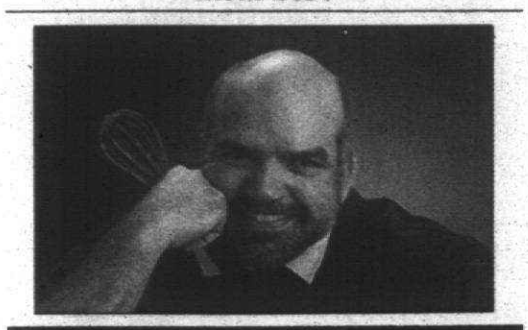
TASTE BUDS



CHEF LARRY JANES

Use fresh pumpkin for absolutely the best pie

Ask any kid this time of year what their favorite vegetable is and there's a good chance the answer will be "pumpkins."

I can remember hopping into the 1965 Chevy BelAir with mom and dad and hearing the immortal words spoken by all parents at one time or another "be good, no fighting, we'll be at the apple orchard within the hour and you can each pick out your own pumpkin."

Pumpkin memories

Of course, at that age, I could never really understand why someone would go to an apple orchard to get a pumpkin.

Upon arrival, however, and before we were treated to cider and warm cinnamon sprinkled doughnuts, we would climb over what sure could have been a zillion tons of pumpkins, ranging in size from miniscule gourds no bit bigger than a Dixie Cup, all the way up to one that if purchased, would have required a U-Haul to drive away with.

Confusing terms

Pumpkins belong to the gourd and melon family which also includes squashes and cucumbers. Although there is some confusion between the terms pumpkin and squash, pumpkins are generally considered to be the large, orange fruits that have a coarse, stringy, strong flavored flesh.

Pumpkins were never served at the Janes Gang kitchen as table vegetables but instead were mainly used for pie making and table decorations.

In other cultures pumpkins are used extensively. The farmers of Manchuria dried strips of pumpkin in the sun, and Italians still eat deep-fried, batter dipped covered pumpkin flowers.

With nouvelle cuisine, the resurgence of pumpkin in soups and sauces have risen the old jack-o'-lanterns to new culinary heights. With fresh pumpkin easily accessible during the fall harvest, many cooks rely on using canned pumpkin products throughout the year.

Canned products

Be wary of canned pumpkin products however if you're looking for "real" pumpkin as some processors resort to using winter squash instead of real pumpkin.

My sources report that one major canner prefers the use of winter squash over pumpkin because they believe the flavor of the squash is superior.

When I mentioned this to momma, she replied "heck, by the time you add the brown sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg and allspice, you probably wouldn't be able to tell the difference anyway."

Perfect pie crust

Getting so close to Thanksgiving, I thought now would be a good time to go over a few suggestions for making the absolute best pumpkin pie.

When it comes to the best pie crust, Craig Claiborne, author of the "New York Times Cookbook" suggests that lard or hydrogenated vegetable shortenings are best because they yield a more tender crust than does butter or margarine.

Claiborne also suggests not usihg your hands but instead, a good pastry cutter or two butter knives to cut the fat into the flour.

Glass pie plates will bake a darker colored crust than aluminum, and whatever you do, when adding water to the crust, use only enough needed to bring the dough together.

Excess water will toughen the crust while too little water will make it crumbly.

Making pie filling

As for the optimum filling, momma suggests you forgo the canned pumpkin and buy a few of those tiny brown speckled pie pumpkins for the best taste.

You can clean the innards as you would a Jack-O-lantern. Simply place the pie pumpkins on a cookie sheet and bake at 350 degrees for about 1 hour.

The meat will then spoon off and taste better than some preserved and flavor-enhanced canned pumpkin ever would.

Pie pumpkins should be available at good produce shops and grocers through December. Expect a yield of 1½ cups from every pie pumpkin.

So if you can't load the family into a 1965 Chevy BelAir, buckle them into the minivan for a fun trip to a pumpkin patch.

Antique show piece of cake for Junior Group

The Junior Group of Goodwill Industries is busy baking at St. James Episcopal Church in Birmingham for the 45th Goodwill Antiques Show, Nov. 20-22 at the Michigan State Fairgrounds. Their goodies have become a show tradition

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Not all of the women mixing up batches of Chunky Chippers, Cheese Wafers, and Beer Bread in the kitchen at St. James Episcopal Church in Birmingham on a cool, crisp fall morning like to cook. But the Junior Group of Goodwill Industries is a volunteer group that works. So when called upon, the members roll up their sleeves and glady do what they can to help.

The women have been spending their Mondays at the church since Sept. 28 making cookies, coffee cakes, bread, pies, muffins and other goodies that will be sold in the Country Store at the 45th annual Metro Detroit Junior Group Goodwill Antiques Show.

Held at the Michigan State Fairgrounds (Woodward at Eight Mile in Detroit), the show will feature 50 select exhibitors from the East and Midwest whose specialties include 18th and 19th century furniture, art objects, rugs, glassware and nautical items.

All show proceeds benefit Goodwill Industries' educational and vocational training programs for the physically, mentally, emotionally or socially disabled.

A preview will be held 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 19, at the Michigan Mart Building on the Michigan State Fairgrounds, Gate 5. Tickets are $75. Benefactor and patron tickets are $125 and $100 and include a pre-show reception at 6 p.m.

The show will run 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday, Nov. 20, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 21, and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 22. General admission at the door is $6. Call 549-3150 or 644-8779 for information.

"This is my second year with Goodwill," said baking committee co-chairwoman Ruby Boechler. "I enjoyed making the Sacher Torte cookies. This year we're introducing cookies on a stick. The kids will really enjoy these."

Recipes like Sacher Torte Cookies, Buckeyes — a chocolate peanut butter ball, currant orange scones, beer bread and cheese wafers — have been passed down year-to-year by members, and become a tradition.

"It's a great cause," said baking co-chairwoman Peg Pero. Her friend Peg Dasovic, a member for only one year, is also serving as co-chairwoman of the baking committee.

The Junior Group of Goodwill Industries was founded in 1933 by Jean Taylor Bodkin. She sought some of her friends to usher for a benefit concert sponsored by the Goodwill Women's Association. From this group, Bodkin organized the Junior Group of Goodwill Industries.

Membership at that time required each prospective member to donate one bag of used clothing to Goodwill. Today, prospective members (called Probationary Members) must earn 75 hours of credit by working on various Junior Goodwill projects before becoming active members. Members range in age from their late 20s to 80s and live in the metro Detroit area, including Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Rochester, Livonia, Southfield and Troy.

The baking committee's recipe for success includes 10 volunteers who work 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. per session in the kitchen at St. James Episcopal Church baking for the show.

Charter member Marion Huff, 87, has worked at every show, and her banana bread is famous.

President-elect Joyce Campbell was at the church making cheese wafers with Florence Smith of Southfield and Brenda Holcomb of Bloomfield Hills on Oct. 12. Her daughter, Laurie Walters, is one of three co-chairwomen of the show and Heather Ryan is chairwoman of the westside pantry workshops that offer relishes, pickles, jams, jellies and dilly beans.

"Our motto is 'Not Charity, But A Chance,'" Campbell said.

Foxy: Executive Chef Marty Singer displays favorites at Machus Sly Fox.

Customers help steer 'self-made' chef

BY BILL COUTANT
STAFF WRITER

Like a lot of us, Marty Singer's early exposure to professional cooking came in fast food restaurants as a way to make some part-time money. He went to college and graduate school to pursue his love of history.

Now, as executive chef for the Machus Sly Fox and Red Fox, both in Birmingham, he is still hitting the books.

"I love reading cookbooks, trying new recipes and dishes," said the 33-year-old. "But I don't change my cooking technique, my style. You learn techniques that work for you. You can modify recipes or foods, but you can't change your technique and expect it to work."

Singer is a "self-made" chef. Sure, he goes to cooking seminars, but he still relies on his research and customers to steer him in the right direction. Surprisingly, steer is the right word.

"We are selling a lot of steak," he said. "So we've gone to an angus steak, which is a better quality steak, because we sell so much of it."

Chef's Secrets

Although Singer and his staff prepare many longstanding favorites, changing tastes are also a large part of the business. The Foxes change menus weekly. But whatever the dish, the flavors should be complimentary.

Veal is a favorite of Singer's, because it is versatile and easy to work with. A current favorite sauce is a shallot-whiskey sauce, which can complement meat and fish.

"But you've got to be careful with any dish, that you don't stay with it too long."

Family

Singer and his wife Donna have a 2½-year-old daughter, Katelyn Ann.

¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 cups marshmallows

Cut pumpkin into pieces. Remove skin, seeds and strings. Parboil in lightly salted water for 30 minutes. Drain and mash.

Melt butter in a large skillet. Add green peppers and onions and saute until golden, about 5 minutes.

Stir in pumpkin, spices and brown sugar. Turn into a lightly greased baking dish. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes.

Remove from oven and top with marshmallows. Return to oven and continue baking for no more than 5 minutes or until marshmallows are soft and golden.

PUMPKIN PIE

Pastry for 1 crust pie
2 large or 3 small eggs
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons molasses
pinch salt
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1-2 teaspoons cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves or allspice
2 cups pureed cooked pumpkin
1½ cups Half and Half or evaporated milk

Prepare the pie shell and brush lightly with egg white or melted shortening. Preheat the oven to 450 degrees. Beat the eggs with the sugar, molasses, salt and spices until well blended.

Add the pumpkin and the milk and mix well. Taste and adjust seasonings, if necessary.

Turn the mixture into the prepared crust and bake on the lower shelf of the oven for 10 minutes. Lower the heat to 400 degrees and bake until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean, or about 30 minutes longer. Serves about 6.

Recipe from "The New York Times Cookbook" by Craig Claiborne, Harper & Row Publishers.

PUMPKIN TEA BREAD

1¾ cups sifted flour
¾ teaspoon baking soda
1¼ teaspoons cream of tartar
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup shortening
⅔ cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup mashed, cooked pumpkin
½ teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg

Sift together dry ingredients. Set aside. Combine shortening and sugars and cream well. Add eggs and pumpkin and mix well. Add dry ingredients and mix well.

Pour into a well greased loaf pan and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes to 1 hour or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Makes one loaf.

Favorite herb or spice
Rosemary. "It's aromatic, but it's tricky. You can overdo it."

Favorite tool at home and at work.
A saute pan and a knife. "If you have those two things, you can do just about anything."

Cooking philosophy
"Don't embellish too much. Make sure sauces and spices complement and don't hide the flavor. That's why we use a wild mushroom sauce with some steaks. It brings out the flavor."

Who does the cooking at your house?
"I do on my days off. Otherwise, it depends on who has the time. We go out to eat a lot."

What's a normal dinner at your house?
"Pot roast. I make a big one on Monday and my wife adds barbecue sauce another day. So it will last and you can vary it."

Name five things in your refrigerator.
"Celery, carrots, redskin potatoes, an English cut pot roast and some meatloaf."

Cooking tip
"Be fascinated by what you're doing. Like making whipping cream or working with eggs. Those foods can be used in many ways. And don't fall into a rut by making the same thing too often. That will keep it interesting."

Chef Singer shares swordfish salad recipe

SWORDFISH SALAD

4 oz. cubed fresh swordfish
1 medium shallot, pealed, diced fine
1 oz. of your favorite whiskey
1 teaspoon olive oil
pinch of fresh, chopped garlic
salt and pepper to taste
2 tablespoons of butter
1½ oz. of assorted wild greens (red romaine, radicchio, baby spinach)

Saute olive oil until it is almost smoking. Add the swordfish and brown well. Toss until it is caramel brown. Add shallots, salt, pepper and garlic.

Remove from flame and add whiskey. Put back on flame and reduce liquid until whiskey is about a teaspoon. Add butter and stir until thickened.

Remove swordfish and arrange over greens. Pour sauce over greens and swordfish. Serves 1. Increase ingredients in equal measure for more servings.

There is no formula for the world's best wines

The world's best wines are not made by formula. They are made by science-educated artists who understand the physiology of the grapevine, the biochemistry of fermentation and have the experience needed to deal with the inevitable nuances presented by each new harvest.

If you ask a winemaker when cabernet sauvignon should be harvested, they might say, "it depends." If you question whether it's better to use American or French oak or what proportion of new barrels is recommended, the winemaker will again answer, "it depends."

Harvest criteria are tied to climatic conditions. The warner the growing season, the earlier the harvest. The use of oak barrels, on the other hand, depends on the intensity of the harvested fruit. Rich, intensely perfumed fruit can handle, and in fact requires, a large percentage of new oak barrels to tame its aggressive character.

FOCUS ON WINE

ELEANOR & RAY HEALD

Fruit with a milder personality would be completely dominated by new wood and is better aged in barrels that have been used in previous vintages.

We asked Julia Iantosca, winemaker at William Wheeler Winery in Sonoma's Dry Creek Valley to explain how she selects barrel types for aging Wheeler's premium chardonnay and cabernet sauvignon. To answer our query she prepared a tasting of five experimental lots of the 1991 William Wheeler Chardonnay, each aged in barrels made of different oaks by a variety of coopers.

Of the five chardonnay samples, one was aged in American oak and four in French. Of the four French barrels, one was made in Cognac by Tonnellerie Vicard and three in Burgundy by Damy, boute and Billon. The names of the coopers are not important. What is important is how the barrels change the taste of the wine.

The chardonnay was grown in the Russian River Valley, a very cool growing area in Sonoma County that is excellent for premium chardonnay. Of the first five wines tasted, each was fermented in a different oak with the same yeast and none completed malolactic fermentation (ML).

Several samples showed that the oak dominated the wine's fruit character. This is a negative for us, since we like the fresh fruit aromas and flavors in chardonnay. Other samples illustrated oak characters that we described as coarse, sweet, vanilla, toast, smoke or coffee.

We then sampled five chardonnays made by exactly the same method except that all had completed ML. In every case, the wine's fruit and oak flavors were better integrated than before.

We knew that ML reduced a wine's acidity and added a smooth texture and buttery flavor. But Iantosca's experiments revealed that ML allows the oak and fruit to marry in the wine and provide harmony.

We were also interested in Wheeler's red wines, so Iantosca tasted us through the 1985 to 1989 Wheeler Cabernet Sauvignons. Wheeler cabernets have always had a note of olives in the nose that distinguishes them from other cabernets.

The tasting revealed that the olive character, present in the cabernets from 1985, 1986, and 1987, was absent in 1988 and 1989. Its absence allowed an exuberant black cherry quality to be showcased.

The 1989 Wheeler Cabernet Sauvignon ($16) is particularly impressive. It is highlighted by intense black cherry aromas and a full, rich-fruit palate impression.

Iantosca explained that improved canopy management in the vineyard allowed dappled sunlight through the vines and onto the grapes. This change allowed for improved grape maturity eliminating the olive character dominating the older vintages. A wine's aromas and flavors are born and controlled in the vineyard.

Wine Selections of the Week

A few weeks ago, Dennis Walsh, owner of Ye Olde Wine Shoppe in Rochester Hills, sponsored the annual Great Wine Shootout. At this event, participants voted for their favorite red, white and sparkling wines. And the winners are!

Red: 1986 Dominus Estate Cabernet Sauvignon ($45), 1988 Stag's Leap Wine Cellars SLV Cabernet Sauvignon ($30), 1984 Rutherford Hill Library Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon ($28), 1990 Shafer Merlot ($21), and 1989 R.H. Phillips Syrah "EXP" ($16/500mL).

White: 1989 Grgich Hills Chardonnay ($35), 1990 William Hill Reserve Chardonnay ($20), and 1990 Chateau St. Jean Robert Young Vineyards Chardonnay ($30).

Sparkling: Domaine Chandon Etoile ($25), 1988 Scharffenberger Blanc de Blancs ($19), and 1989 Iron Horse Wedding Cuvee ($30).

Consumers didn't know the price of the wines when they voted. We wonder if this information might have influenced their vote.

Believing the answer to the question is "yes," we're recommending some overlooked values: 1990 Meridian Chardonnay ($11), 1989 J. Lohr Seven Oaks Cabernet Sauvignon ($12), and 1990 Chateau Souverain Merlot ($9).

Actually, we could recommend any wine from Chateau Souverain for their high quality/price ratio. Right now these wines are hard to beat.

Junior Group makes goodies for show

See related story about the Junior Group of Goodwill Industries on Taste front.

CHUNKY CHIPPERS

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup vegetable shortening
- ½ cup chunky peanut butter
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- ½ cup lightly packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1 12-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate chips

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly grease cookie sheets. Sift together flour, baking soda and salt.

Beat shortening, peanut butter, eggs, sugars, vanilla and water until creamy; add flour mixture, blend well, stir in chocolate chips.

Drop by teaspoonfuls about 2-inches apart on cookie sheets. Bake for 12-14 minutes or until firm. Cool on racks. Makes about three dozen large cookies.

CHEESE WAFERS

- 2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
- 2 cups flour
- 2 sticks butter
- ½ teaspoon red pepper
- 2 cups Rice Krispies

Mix all ingredients together. Roll into logs. Chill until hard. Slice into thin biscuits. Can mash with fork. Bake at 350 degrees on ungreased cookie sheet for 10 minutes.

BEER BREAD

- 3 cups self-rising flour
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 12-ounce can beer

Mix all ingredients together. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes to 1 hour. Can add ¾ cup of grated cheddar cheese, chopped onion, minced red and green pepper, or ¾ tablespoons of dill before baking.

Choir captures creative harmony

The core of Thunderharp Choir features an amalgamation of two defunct local outfits Robb Roy and Jugglers and Thieves. After several years chasing major record deals with those bands, they've settled down to focus more on the creative aspects of their music.

STAFF WRITER

In the Thunderharp Choir circle, there is musical savvy, an artistic vision and a whole lot of history.

The latter, though, is what initially intrigues one.

Thunderharp Choir members Jason Kuehn and Graham Strachan were the creative tandem of the highly acclaimed local outfit Robb Roy, which spent a considerable amount of resources and energy in pursuit of a record deal. When that fell apart, so did the band.

Likewise, Christine McCall fronted the equally ambitious, though a little more crunchy sounding Jugglers and Thieves. They, too, were felled by the disillusionment of high expectations and low returns.

One looks for the scars, but they're not there.

Freed from the treadmill of commercial expectations, the triumvirate is immersed in writing and developing a new sound that is self-described as "between alternative and pop, between grunge and grace, heavy melody, harmony and guitar."

Thunderharp Choir has a four-song cassette, "That Sinking Feeling," planned for release this month followed by a CD release in January "Hope and Gloria."

"It's a fresh start, yes," said McCall, whose hair is shorter and is barely recognizable in jeans and a sweater from her mystic days when she sang in Jugglers and Thieves.

Thunderharp Choir was borne more out of concept than conscription. The band was initially a loose collection of guest musicians from Robb Roy, Jugglers and Thieves and other bands performing one off gigs.

When Robb Roy broke up a year ago, Kuehn and Strachan decided to take the notion further. They included regular session member drummer Ron Vensko (formerly of EFX) and bassist Don Didonato.

Initially, McCall provided occasional background vocals but has since moved to the front to share lead singing duties with Strachan.

There is sentiment this is what they should have been doing all along.

Strachan and Kuehn say Robb Roy became one-dimensional, blinded by the lure of the ever-elusive record deal. As a result, their creativity waned.

"You kind of pander," Strachan said. "We spent $1,000 just sending people to New York and LA to shop us to the record companies. All said and done, Jay and I have nothing to show for it."

"A lot of Robb Roy was shake your butt and party," Kuehn added. "We weren't as bad as some bands, and not that it wasn't fun . . ."

McCall expresses similar feelings about Jugglers and Thieves.

"I learned a lot of what these guys did, going for the big record deal," said McCall, who recently married Kuehn. "It was hard for me to do it without the expectation of this big prize. That squashed my creativity."

Originality is the focal point now. Thunderharp Choir blends in divergent instruments such as dulcimer, violins and brushes on a tom tom drum for textural effects on songs such as the Celtic sounding "Home." But the band can call on its acute rock'n'roll instincts when needed.

Kuehn and Strachan are prolific songwriters, but their lyrics are from different perspectives.

Strachan, who admits there's been a great deal of turmoil in his personal life in the past year, carves out more introspective, brooding numbers. Kuehn, who's still brimming in the newlywed glow, tends to churn out, spiritually uplifting songs.

"Once we changed over, I had a rough couple of years," Strachan said. "I slowed down a bit. We'll have times we're nothing is clicking.

"Right now, we have a lot of things happening."

Thunderharp Choir will perform with Kiss Me Screaming Friday, Nov. 6, at Lili's, 2930 Jacob, Hamtramck. For information, call 875-6555.

Sundays: A month's worth of indelible pop

LARRY O'CONNOR

The Sundays 1990 debut, "Reading, Writing and Arithmetic," was splendid, arresting and cherished.

One wondered, though, if the British pop band's light, Nutrasweet musical tact actually carried enough emotional weight to see it through a second album or would a good wind scatter it into oblivion?

The doubts are hurriedly quashed with their gloriously rapturous follow-up, "Blind," on David Geffen Company records.

To their credit, the creative tandem of vocalist Harriet Wheeler and guitarist Dave Gavurin haven't bowed to naysayers. Instead, they've honed in and refined their well-documented strengths.

Lyrically, this is still largely the stuff from which fluffy clouds are made. But Wheeler's angelic, heavenly (pull out all the celestial references) vocals are captivating and reveal yearning, angst and resolution in a single emotive breath.

She can single-handedly take a simple and seemingly lyrically inert number like "Love" to the precipice of emotional longing.

Gavurin still has the tendency to lapse into Cocteau Twins-style space-age strafing — obviously to coincide with Wheeler's sanctified vocals. His better moments, though, come when he's grounded in stark, pensive acoustic strumming such as in the penetrating "Life and Soul", and "Blood on My Hands."

He even takes an acoustic stab at one-of the Rolling Stones' better written pieces, "Wild Horses," which Wheeler can't seem to propel out of the morass of dormant nostalgia.

The Sundays frailties, though, makes them all the more endearing. (David Geffen Company)

"Automatic for the People," R.E.M.: Rumor has it the initial inspiration for forming this mega-successful group was to make an album merely approaching the subtle brilliance of Van Morrison's 1968 epic "Astral Weeks."

This is possibly as close as anyone could hope.

Nowhere in their vast catalogue of alternative fare has the Athens, Ga., foursome produced an album this cohesive in tone, yet so overbearing in emotional turmoil your chest feels like caving at times.

"Automatic for the People" (Warner Bros.) is the antithesis of the jangly guitar pop synthesis R.E.M. defined for a generation of imitators.

At times, Peter Buck's acoustic strumming and electric jabs become a heart race for sanity in a maze of pain and bitter introspection. Stipe's vocals are restrained, almost dead panned.

The result is often a hard thud which penetrates the most vulnerable part of psyche as evidenced in the mournful "Try Not to Breathe." By contrast, "Ignoreland" is a searing reaction to the politically myopic proceedings of the past 12 years.

But it's the wistful melancholy weaving its way through "Automatic" that offers refuge. Numbers such as the lighthearted salute to the comedic genius of Andy Kaufman in "Man on the Moon" puts things into perspective and is a welcomed respite from an otherwise heavy album. (Warner Bros.)

(Untitled 4-Song EP), Cop Shoot Cop: New York industrial noisemakers return spewing grim, apocolyptic images designed to make the listless masses shudder in tracks such as "Nowhere" and "We Shall Be Changed".

In times of strife, woman discovers inner-strength

BARBARA SCHIFF

Dear Barbara,

Remember me? Well, here I am again, this time to say thanks for all the help this column has given me. I wrote to you last year requesting advice about whether or not to stay married to my husband. He had recently entered a drug treatment program and was successfully kicking his habit, but I could see that there was little real change in his basic personality. He was no more able to be intimate or fun without drugs than he had been with them.

Another woman then wrote to say she had a similar situation with her husband and had "settled" for it. While I understand and respect her decision and the reasons for it, I also know that I could not make that type of situation work for me. I would just continue to be discontented, unhappy and feel empty inside.

I am glad the other reader made the decision which works for her, and she was absolutely right about many of the comments she made, such as "there's no guarantee the second time around." I've come to accept that for me it's "no pain, no gain," and I am willing to risk the pain of divorce and all the uncertainty of what my future will hold in order to give myself a chance at a happier life. Certainly, it is a great risk and contains no guarantee, but for me it became a risk I had no choice but to take.

I am at a place in my life that I am healthier, both emotionally and physically, and more complete as a human being than I have ever been before. Thank God there is some advantage to getting older.

When I met my husband, I had only one need coming out of the war zone of an alcoholic/violent family system: make me feel safe. Now, 15 years later, I am thankfully aware of so many other needs . . . for trust, respect, laughter, friendship and intimacy with a partner. For someone to tease me and puzzle me and to share passion and excitement with. Someone I can be myself with. For me, these are the keys to happiness.

Realizing this about myself helped me find the strength and courage to ask for a divorce from my husband. It will be final next year. I know my marriage was completely over when my husband very emphatically told me "there was no drug addiction, no dependency, just a personality problem and I have taken care of that." I couldn't believe my ears.

It really was THE MOMENT. I realized that's fine for him if that's his reality but I could not accept it after living with the effects of his drug use for 13 years and knowing what it cost me in terms of trust and respect.

Strangely, even though this is a very difficult and painful time (I do feel emotionally drained), I am also aware of being stronger in a lot of ways than I've ever been before. I've enrolled in a divorce recovery workshop, am losing weight, meditating, growing spiritually, deepening friendships, etc.

Even though things are the pits right now, I really do trust that I won't be "here" at this place forever. I trust that if I do all the "right" things, which I am, eventually I will find myself in a much better place, perhaps a better place in my life than I ever dreamed possible. I expect to find happiness.

And in the midst of this sorrow, a lot of wonderful things have happened: loving support from so many friends, financial help from an unexpected source, discovering about myself, etc. It really is true that it's not what happens in life, it's what you make of it. Knowing that, I am doing my very best to take the situation and make it work for my good.

Warm regards from Me again

Dear "Me Again,"

Congratulations! Every now and then I thank letter writers for deepening my respect and appreciation of people. Such letters help me to feel good about this job.

■ DETROIT FILM THEATRE
Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Call 832-2730 for information. ($5)

"Beauty and the Beast" (France — 1946), 7 and 9:30 p.m. Nov. 6-7 and 4 and 7 p.m. Nov. 8. Long before the Disney version, French poet/filmmaker Jean Cocteau created this lyrical version in black-and-white. Jean Marais plays "Bete" with Josette Day his lovely "Belle." This brand-new print is a special treat for fans of the film. It plays the entire week-end due to the unavailability of "M."

■ HENRY FORD CENTENNIAL LIBRARY
13650 Michigan Ave., Dearborn. Call 943-2330 for information. (Free)

"Four Faces West" (USA — 1948), 7 p.m. Nov. 2. Joel McCrea and Frances Dee star in this western in which a ruthless sheriff tracks down an outlaw who robbed a bank in order to save his family.

■ MAIN THEATER
118 N. Main at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Call 542-0180 for show times. ($5; $3 students, senior citizens and matinees)

"A Brief History of Time" (USA/Britain — 1992). Errol Morris ("The Thin Blue Line") examines Stephen Hawking, the ALS-stricken physicist and writer who explores the secrets of the universe from the confines of his wheelchair. You may not know too much more about the subject than before, but the portrait of Hawking is unforgettable.

■ MAPLE THEATRE
4135 Maple Road, Bloomfield Hills. Call 855-9090 for show times. ($5.75 evenings; $2.95 twilight)

"Reservoir Dogs" (USA — 1992). Five crooks, known to each other only by their code names, plan the ultimate heist. Harvey Keitel, Tim Roth and Michael Madsen star in this violent actioner, the first film written and directed by Quentin Tarantino.

■ REDFORD THEATRE
17360 Lahser Road, Detroit. Call 537-2560 for information. ($2.50)

"The Further Adventures of Laurel and Hardy" (compiled in 1968), 8 p.m. Nov. 6 and 7 (organ overture begins 30 minutes before show time). Irritating narrated introductions get in the way of some of Stan and Ollie's best bits, making you wish they were just shown back-to-back in their entirety. Still a pleasant compilation, with added sequences of Charley Chase and Max Davidson.

■ STATE THEATER
2115 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Call 961-5450 for information. ($1.89)

"Monty Python and the Holy Grail" (Britain — 1974), 9 p.m. Nov. 2. The funniest of the feature films made by the irreverent British comedy team, spoofing King Arthur with episodic — and hilarious — results.

■ STATE WAYNE THEATER
35310 Michigan Ave., Wayne. All films play nightly from Wednesday through Sunday. Call 326-4600 for show times. ($2; $1 students and senior citizens)

"Near Dark" (USA — 1987). Kathryn Bigelow directed this stylish horror film about a band of scruffy vampires who enlist a new recruit. Their bloody killing spree ends in a climactic showdown as searing light stream through bullet holes into their hideout.

Outback tale told in a personal tone

PASS THE POPCORN

LeANNE ROGERS

Grimacing as she is being trussed up in her corset, a young woman is warned by her friends that once she marries and moves to rural Australia in the early years of the century, she must maintain all the social proprieties and never be friend to her husband. That's what the other men are for.

In the 1982 film "We of the Never Never," Jeannie Gunn, played by Angela Punch McGregor, has more sense than to listen to her friends as she begins her new married life at a cattle station in the Australian outback.

Gunn's new husband, who had been working as a librarian, has accepted a position managing a remote cattle station. After a month's overland travel from Melbourne, the couple face another couple of days' journey from the nearest settlement to their new home.

While the woman's friends are concerned about keeping up the rules of society and the possibility of health problems, the white men working at the station are upset that the new manager is bringing his wife. Women will mess things up. The Aborgines like the idea, figuring if there are white women around the white men will leave the native women alone.

The thin and rather solemn-faced McGregor is a nice change from the usual spunky heroine who overcomes all kinds of difficulties to whip the wilderness into some civilized shape. She knows what she is getting into when she moves to the cattle station with her husband, who had lived there when he was younger. It's her husband, sympathetically played by Arthur Hignam, who is most concerned about the ramshackle building they find instead of the promised house. She says that if she wanted a cottage like the ones in Melbourne she would have stayed in Melbourne.

The biggest frustrations for Jeannie Gunn are trying to deal with men who have no experience with women and are terrified of showing any emotion in front of her.

On a personal level, it's based on journals the real Jeannie Gunn kept of her life on the rural cattle station. You have to wonder what the effect would have been if more settlers shared her views of not making nomadic natives dependent on foodstuffs from whites and valuing them as much as the newcomers.

"We of the Never, Never" is available on cassette tape at your local video store. If you have a question of comment for LeAnne Rogers, call her at 951-2103.

'River Runs': Not as deep as it looks

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

They cast their lines like slow-motion bullwhips, four swipes back and forth before the fly lands in the desired spot on the water. When the fish grabs the lure, the foxy fisherman jerks it out of the water, reels it in carefully, then reverently cradles the catch in his hands.

"A River Runs Through It" goes well beyond my limited view of trout fishing as beefy guys with orange baseball caps and camouflage vests drowning worms between Budweisers. Here, it's an art, a religion, a discipline. It's also the thing that binds Norman MacLean's family through tough personal times in the 1920s.

Robert Redford's popular movie, which opened wide last weekend after an exclusive run at the Maple, remains extremely faithful to MacLean's autobiographical novel about life on the shores of Montana's Big Blackfoot River. The often moving little picture, full of deep thoughts and metaphors a plenty, may seem more profound than it actually is.

Paul and Norman are sons of a minister who, even when he's preaching, tries to bring the sermon around to fishing. The message is not lost on his flock. In this part of Montana, according to the brothers, there's three things you're never late for — church, work and fishing.

Norman heads east for college then returns home to decide what to do with his literature degree. Paul stays in Montana and lands a job on a newspaper, where he's a local celebrity known as much for his lures as his leads.

Paul also earns a reputation as a gambler, a drinker and a womanizer, a fact that doesn't sit well with his pious parents and brother. Paul is sometimes able to con Norman, who has the nickname "preacher," into an occasional walk on the wild side.

One night they drop in on Lolo, a gambling den that looks like the great grandpappy of "Twin Peaks" One-Eyed Jack's. Scurvy denizens glance over their shoulders from a dimly-lit bar, while bored-looking prostitutes lurk in the corners. A poker game is always visible through a crack in the door.

You can see the respect that director Redford has for MacLean in virtually every shot. He selects the most poetic passages from the book for his thoughtful voice-over narration while packing the movie full of picture-postcard views of Montana rivers and mountains.

Redford and scriptwriter Richard Friedenberg wallow in the story's many

TRAVEL

Surf's up: With its 12- or 15-foot waves, Haleiwa Beach in Honolulu, Hawaii, holds mythic status for surfers.

Courtesy of the Hawaii Visitors Bureau

PARADISE HAWAIIAN STYLE

BY LENORE MAGIDA
NEW YORK TIMES SYNDICATE

Over the years Honolulu has been described in all manner of ways: Crossroads of the Pacific, America's Most Exotic City — not to mention such dubious distinctions as Most Expensive Housing Market in the Country.

Right now, though, it could understandably bill itself the Luckiest City in the World.

The reason lies in the events of Sept. 11. For a while that morning, Hurricane Iniki, with winds topping 150 miles an hour, was aiming for the island of Oahu, with 836,000 of Hawaii's 1.1 million residents and home of Honolulu.

Shoreline areas all around Oahu, including Waikiki, were evacuated. Thousands of hotel guests holed up in shelters.

In the end, however, Iniki swerved west and savaged Kauai, where about 51,000 people live. Much of Kauai will be in ruins for some time.

In contrast, Honolulu and most of the rest of Oahu — except for the end of the island closest to Kauai — sustained only easily reparable damage.

Much of Honolulu's attention remains directed toward Kauai. Residents are still contributing to the hurricane relief effort; stories about the aftermath of the storm still fill the news.

In other respects, though, the city has returned to normal, and everything is up and running elsewhere in the state. And this is a lovely, lively time of year to visit.

The torpid days of late summer have given way to the warm, crystalline, breezy weather that defines fall in the capital of Hawaii. The cultural calendar is building up, as are the legendary surfing waves on Oahu's North Shore.

Events

If you visit Honolulu in the late autumn or the winter you might want to pay homage to the season's surf on Oahu's North Shore. The beaches there hold mythic status for surfers, as well as for anyone who can be awed by a 12- or 15-foot wave.

If you stop at Waimea Bay, Haleiwa Beach or Banzai Pipeline between Nov. 17 and Dec. 19 you may catch some of the Triple Crown of Surfing, (808) 637-8863.

The main draw is the Marui Masters at Banzai Pipeline. It is scheduled from Nov. 27 to Dec. 6; but the participants — the world's top professional surfers — will compete only on the best four and a half days during that period.

Also on the water the King Kalakaua Regatta, (808) 526-4126, takes place on Nov. 15 from 11 a.m. to about 1:30 p.m.

Staged in honor of the birthday of King David Kalakaua of Hawaii, who reigned from 1874 to 1891, the event aims to replicate the monarch's own birthday regattas, including canoe sailing, canoe paddling and paddle boarding.

Races begin at Magic Island, adjacent to Ala Moana Beach Park and head both eastward toward Diamond Head and westward toward Honolulu Harbor.

From Nov. 29 to Dec. 5 the 11th annual Hawaii International Film Festival, (808) 944-7203, takes place at locations around Oahu, and from Dec. 6 to 12 on other islands. The festival features films from Asia, the Pacific and the United States. Screenings are free.

Sightseeing

The Bishop Museum, 1525 Bernice St., (808) 847-3511, is known as a center of Hawaiians, with such attractions as feather cloaks worn by Hawaiian royalty, Hawaiian arts and crafts demonstrations, a 55-foot sperm whale skeleton, a planetarium and more.

To Jan. 3 the museum is presenting Space Expo '92 featuring large models of space shuttles, rockets from the United States and Japan, interactive computer programs and transmissions from weather satellites. Open daily 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; admission (includes Space Expo) $7.95; $6.95 for seniors, military and those ages 6 to 17.

The stark white Arizona Memorial, (808) 422-0561, is in Pearl Harbor above the sunken ship on which 1,102 men died when Japanese warplanes bombed the harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. The free 75-minute program includes a historical film at the shore-based visitors center and a shuttle ride to and from the memorial.

The center is open daily 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. with programs from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission is free. No reservations are taken and waits of up to three hours are common.

Iolani Palace, (808) 522-0832 for reservations and (808) 538-1471 for information, in downtown Honolulu was commissioned by King David Kalakaua as the royal residence for himself and Queen Kapiolani; it was completed in 1882.

After the monarchy was overthrown in 1893 the palace housed government offices until 1969; it has since been restored.

Tours, 45 to 60 minutes, are offered Wednesday to Saturday every 15 minutes from 9 a.m. to 2:15 p.m. Tickets, which must be bought 30 minutes in advance, cost $4, $1 for ages 5 to 12; children under 5 are not admitted.

Just blocks from the palace is Foster Botanical Garden, one of four Oahu gardens that are part of the Honolulu Botanical Gardens system.

Foster, 50 North Vineyard St., (808) 522-7065, contains 4,000 species of tropical flora. On the island's windward side Hoomaluhia Botanical Garden, Luluku Road in Kaneohe, (808) 235-6636, has 400 acres.

In the cool, rainy hills of central Oahu is the Wahiawa Botanical Garden, 1396 California Ave., Wahiawa, (808) 621-7321.

On the eastern tip of the island are the dry-land plants of rugged Koko Crater Botanical Garden, off Kealahou Street, (808) 522-7060. All are open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily; all are free except Foster Botanical Garden, where admission is $1.

The city's premier art museum is the Honolulu Academy of Arts, 900 South Beretania St., (808) 532-8700, in a gracious, airy building on the fringe of downtown. It is known for, but by no means limited to, its Oriental art. Open Tuesday to Saturday 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Sunday 1 to 5 p.m.; a donation of $4 is suggested.

Take a lesson: Don't let ski skills go downhill

BY EVERETT POTTER
SPECIAL WRITER

The skiing season is just around the corner.

Now's the time to check out the condition of skis and poles, shop for a fashionable parka, plan a ski vacation and, above all, pray for snow.

But before heading down the slopes this winter, every skier should take a lesson, regardless of ability, savvy ski professionals say.

"The most important thing is to build your confidence on the slopes," says Cindy Clement, manager of marketing and sales for the Vail and Beaver Creek Ski School in Vail, Colo.

"People come out here for a week and decide to just go right out on the slopes. Gosh, get acclimated! Why struggle for even half a day?

"We recommend an all-day lesson or at least a half-day lesson at the level you already ski. Get back into the right technique and make sure you don't fall into any bad habits. You've got to get your legs back under you."

The Vail and Beaver Creek Ski School is the largest of its kind in North America. More than 1,000 instructors are prepared to take enthusiasts of all ages down the slopes — at Vail or at Beaver Creek, 10 miles away.

All Vail instructors are members of the Professional Ski Instructors of America (PSIA), the group that governs ski instruction in this country.

On the slope: At the Vail and Beaver Creek Ski School in Vail, Colo., fun for children includes apres-ski parties attended by Sport Goofy, the Disney ambassador of fun.

Having PSIA certify instructors, says Clement, means that "the teaching philosophy is the same in Colorado, Vermont or California — that you learn by doing, not by lecturing.

"You learn by gaining confidence. Instructors are taught that skiing is about 'recreation' and they're trained to work with skiers so they enjoy the sport.

"If you think ski school means (someone) barking at you on the slopes you're 20 years out of date!"

Vail and Beaver Creek have a variety of ski-school classes designed for skiers of all levels.

In fact, PSIA has designated nine ability levels: beginners are levels one to four, intermediates are levels five to seven, advanced classes and experts are levels eight and nine.

The sessions range from half-day to all-day, for 3-year-olds on up, with an average size of eight participants.

There are "Bump or Powder Workshops" designed for high-energy skiers, "Style Workshops" for those who wish to ski more elegantly and "Race Workshops" for racing enthusiasts.

A half-day class, which offers three hours of intensive training, is $45, plus the cost of a lift ticket. A three-day "Introduction to Skiing" program "teaches the basics and instills confidence," says Clement.

"In general, average beginners will find themselves at level five at the end of the program, which means they can ski the easy green slopes on their own with ease and confidence." The cost is $211, which includes a daily lift ticket.

Even if new skiers don't opt for immersion, they need to take some lessons, Clement says.

"If you don't learn the right methods, and this is true for any sport, you'll get into bad habits. And it's harder to break those habits than to learn fresh."

For further information, including a free brochure, contact Vail and Beaver Creek Ski School, P.O. Box 7, Vail, Colo. 81658 or call (303) 476-3239.

On the East Coast, Stratton Ski School at Stratton Mountain, Vt., offers 250 PSIA-trained instructors, bringing it closer to the average-size American ski school.

"We urge skiers to take lessons throughout the season," says Myra Foster, a spokesperson for the Stratton school.

"You've got to keep yourself tuned up just like you keep your equipment in top shape. Even advanced skiers can benefit because minor adjustments in technique can really help."

Foster is also adamant about beginners taking lessons the first time they set foot on the slopes.

"Lessons are essential if you're going to have any enjoyment of the sport and build confidence, which is a big part of skiing well.

"I see beginners come up here with friends who try to teach them to ski and they end up struggling. Even if your friend is a good skier, it doesn't mean he or she is a good teacher. Teaching skiing goes way beyond patience."

Stratton offers a Beginners Circle for $48, which includes ski rentals, a lift ticket and three and a half hours of instruction.

More Detroit suburban travelers

If you advertise anything having to do with travel, this is the best possible place for your ad.

Because this is one of the fifty SPRING newspapers.

And the combined circulation of all these SPRING newspapers is 728,609. That is more than double the daily suburban circulation of The Detroit News (288,960) or Free Press (358,553).

In fact, SPRING's suburban circulation is greater than the two metro dailies' combined!

And that's not all.

According to the 1991 Belden newspaper readership study, SPRING reaches more of the affluent suburban shoppers who have more to spend–and who spend more.

▶ 146,100 more suburban Detroit vacationers than the daily News (55,400 more than the Free Press).

▶ 91,800 more suburban Detroit purchasers of airline tickets than The News (9,700 more than the Free Press).

▶ 80,700 more suburban business travelers than The News (7,900 more than the Free Press).

More suburban boat owners.

More suburban travel agency clients.

Simply put, one order in SPRING delivers more.

Shouldn't you be advertising in SPRING more?

Poor sports ruin soccer reputation

I'm sure this is going to endear me to soccer people everywhere, but I think it's got to be said.

Soccer players are undoubtedly the worst sports in sports.

Want proof? Go to a game, especially now, during the state tournament, when stakes and emotions are high. I'm not blasting a particular team or school; if anything, it seems to be consistent throughout the sport.

I've seen a dozen games (at least) this fall, at all levels — college and prep. Know how many times I've seen a player knock an opponent flat with a hard foul, then help him to his feet?

Once.

He's more apt to step or spit on him. And it isn't just "dirty play" that I'm referring to, the kind that leads to fights, causing games to be canceled before they're completed (that's happened twice this season: Oakland University vs. Grand Canyon, and Schoolcraft College (men) vs. Eastern Michigan).

That's not all

There's so much other stuff. Players disagree with an official's out-of-bounds or foul call, so they kick the ball away. How childish can you get?

I know what coaches will say. It's all part of the game — strategy, they'll insist, a way to slow down the opponents' attack. Help them to their feet or hand them the ball and you'll be out of position and at their mercy.

Sorry, but that's a hard argument to buy. It sounds more like an attempt to justify poor sportsmanship — which is something soccer players in general are very good at doing. They always have an excuse.

At the Catholic Central-Ann Arbor Pioneer match last week at Plymouth Salem, more examples of the kind of temperament infesting soccer appeared.

The game ended scoreless; during the break before the start of overtime, one of the linesmen approached Gary Balconi, assistant athletic director at Salem, and told him he was leaving unless something was done about some unruly fans hurling all sorts of stuff out of the stands at him.

The "fans" in question were apparently part of another local prep soccer team. Why they chose this particular official to attack, while his back was turned, is anyone's guess.

After CC scored in sudden-death overtime to gain the win, the referee was submitted to a verbal barrage from a pair of Pioneer players who were on the sideline with injuries. "You're bleeping terrible," was one player's summary. "What're going to do, bleeping red-card me? Go ahead!"

When Balconi confronted both "children," he got more of the same. "Why don't you hire some bleeping good officials?"

The officiating might not have been the best in this match, but it was not the deciding factor — a view few soccer players will share with me, I'm sure. However bad it was, this kind of stuff was totally out of hand (by the way, officials are assigned by a committee, not chosen by the schools).

Coaches share blame

A lot of coaches allow this kind of behavior. Indeed, their own poor treatment of officials encourages it.

It's cheap and ridiculous, and it certainly makes a mockery of that little ditty announcers read prior to state tournament games, the one sponsored by the Michigan High School Athletic Association about good sportsmanship.

You'd think a player's very existence was at stake. Playing hard and tough is one thing, but playing to injure (something I witnessed at the CC-Stevenson district final, in which one player fell on the opponent and locked his legs around his neck before getting to his feet) is unforgivable.

I've seen athletes in other sports, at a much higher level of competition, show far better sportsmanship.

Olympic swimming is one example — offering congratulations, or a hug, to a swimmer in the next lane who just edged you for the gold medal, something for which you had trained four to six hours a day for two full years, takes a lot of heart.

It's something I have seen little evidence of in soccer. Coaches have to bear some of the responsibility for this, but parents who coddle their soccer-playing children are equally at fault.

Don't you think this win, whatever the cost stuff is getting a bit out of control?

I await our public's reply (my office number is 953-2108). Adjectives like those so eloquently used by the Pioneer players are optional; written responses are encouraged. (Please, we do have a certain editorial code, so use printable language.)

Salem rocks CC in soccer final

Plymouth Salem won its soccer rematch with Redford Catholic Central in a Class A regional championship game Saturday, 5-0. The Rocks, ranked sixth in the last coaches poll, play a semifinal game Wednesday and can reach the state final for the second time.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Tom Baker was being too modest when he said he's not very good at shooting a soccer ball.

He converted two direct free kicks Saturday to give Plymouth Salem a 2-0 lead and propel the Rocks to a 5-0 victory over Redford Catholic Central in the Class A regional final at Centennial Educational Park.

"There's a lot of luck on those shots, especially when that's not the best thing I do," Baker said, adding he was just trying to hit around the wall. "I'm not a great shooter. I guess I concentrated well; I was into the game."

Salem coach Ken Johnson thinks a lot more of Baker's scoring ability, recalling the time Baker scored off a free kick to tie top-ranked Troy and got the game-winner against Livonia Stevenson.

"He doesn't have a lot of goals (11), but he's had some key ones," Johnson said. "When he scores them, they mean something. He's a big-game player."

The Rocks (17-2-2) will play Grand Haven in a state semifinal game 3 p.m. Wednesday at Okemos High School. The Catholic League champion Shamrocks finished with a 16-3-2 record.

If the Shamrocks can't win the state title, the Rocks would be CC coach Phil LaJoy's next choice. He coached many of the Salem varsity players to an undefeated JV season in 1990 before going to CC.

"They have a great team and a great program," he said. "Tommy Baker is a tremendous player. He found the corners and put them in the net.

"I don't feel real good right now because we lost, but that's the game. I congratulate them and wish them the best."

The first half was a stalemate as both teams had an equal number of scoring chances. Then, five minutes into the second, Baker broke the ice when he netted the first free kick.

A turning point occurred at 24:45 when CC's Rich Walos received a red card for a foul on Salem's Brad Jaskolski.

Not only did Baker convert the free kick again, aiming for the upper right corner, but the Shamrocks were forced to play a man short the rest of the game.

"We got fortunate," Baker said. "I put those two in and their team seemed to fall apart after the red card. We were able to bring other players in and keep playing well."

"We lost Richie and it was over," LaJoy said. "At that point it was 1-0. It's one of those things. You can't play Salem down two goals and down a player."

Salem was in control after that. Joe Perron got behind a defender three minutes later to make it 3-0. The CC goalie came toward him, and Perron crossed the ball to the opposite corner.

Scott Buczek scored the fourth goal at 16:30 with an assist from Jaskolski, and Ronny Mashni added a breakaway goal with two minutes left. Perron and Salem keeper Paul Dood also had assists.

"After they got the red card, the missing man makes all the difference," Johnson said. "The way we play, quick with a lot of passing, made it inevitable. It opens all kinds of channels for a goal.

"The score is not a reflection of the real game. It just deteriorated. The first half was a nail-biter."

Johnson cited the play of his defenders, especially Brian Spuck and Chris Saline in the middle. Trevor Pruett and Phil Shipley came off the bench to provide added help.

The Rocks, who beat CC in the 1989 regional championship game and went to the state final, will focus on getting there again.

"I think we have a real good chance," said Baker, who was a starting freshman defender on that team. "I haven't heard much about the teams we might play, but we plan on winning."

Chiefs win 21-0 over rival Rocks

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Canton got a good start on next football season Friday night with an upbeat ending to the 1992 campaign.

Sophomore quarterback Brett Elledge passed for two touchdowns and 122 yards as the host Chiefs defeated Plymouth Salem for the third time in the last five meetings, 21-0.

Canton finished the season with a three-game winning streak — all by shutout — and won four of its last five games. Both teams have 4-5 records.

With many of their players returning next year, the Chiefs hope the momentum generated by their strong finish will have a carry-over effect.

"We have a young team and a good group coming up from the JV," Canton coach Bob Khoenle said. "We think things are on the upswing with Canton football. Things look promising.

"People said what's wrong (when the team started 0-4)? There was nothing wrong. The kids are young; they have to learn and get a chance to do it."

Canton's ability to throw the ball effectively was a major difference in the game.

Elledge, who started the last five games, completed nine of 14 passes, including scoring tosses of 6 yards to Eric Arnold and 8 to Ryan Ostach, who caught five passes for 74 yards.

"I wish we could have run better, but that's a tribute to (the Rocks)," Khoenle said. "There are two facets to this, and one worked out. All the passes came off play-action so you have to respect the run, too."

The Canton defense also effectively stopped Salem's triple-option offense. The Chiefs gave up 98 rushing yards and 58 passing but didn't break.

Down linemen John Mogelnicki, Leon Black, John Bauman, defensive ends Tom Raven and Chris Mazur and linebackers Matt Horn and Tony DeGiorgio were quick to the football and excelled at gang tackling.

"We were worried about stopping the fullback up the middle and, secondly, the option — and we did both," Horn said. "The two goal-line stands at the beginning of the game were real big emotionally. That pumped us up and carried us through the rest of the game."

Canton lost a fumble on the first play of the game at its own 34-yard line, and the Rocks drove to the 1 in eight plays. But Salem fumbled the ball away on fourth down and could only wonder what might have been.

A Salem penalty for pass interference gave the Chiefs a first down at the Salem 12 midway in the second quarter. On fourth down at the 6, Elledge passed to Arnold for the TD. Bill Talbot kicked the first of three extra points.

The Rocks responded with another drive that fell just short of the end zone again.

Rob Kenney's 28-yard pass to Scott Helmstadter put the ball on the Canton 10, but three running plays netted 1 yard. Adam Bakowski caught a fourth-down pass but was stopped half a yard shy of the goal line.

With the Chiefs leading 7-0, Salem was stopped again on downs at the Canton 39 in the third quarter.

"We should have punted the ball instead of going for it," Salem coach Tom Moshimer said. "That turned the game around, because we were still in it.

Canton gives hoop lesson to Harrison

BY DAN O'MEARA

Farmington Hills Harrison has made great strides with its girls basketball program, but the Hawks were students learning from the master Thursday at Plymouth Canton.

The Chiefs showed they're still a notch above Harrison, keeping the upstart Hawks at arms length the whole game and pulling away for a 43-32 victory in the last six minutes.

Canton finished 9-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association and tied Plymouth Salem for second place. The Chiefs are 15-2 overall and will get the No. 2 seed in the playoffs based on their win over the Rocks.

Harrison was 8-3 in the WLAA regular season and shares fourth place with Walled Lake Central. The Hawks (10-7) are seeded No. 4 seed and will play Central in the first round of the playoffs Thursday.

Pete Mantyla, the second-year Harrison coach, said he has tried to model his program after the successful teams at Canton and Salem — annually among the best in the WLAA.

"I feel like the Pistons when they were playing Celtics," he said. "We're knocking on the door; we're getting there. The girls and I believe we can win.

"In the big games, we know we haven't done things as well as we can do them, but that's to the credit of the teams we're playing."

The one thing Harrison failed to do was adequately protect the basketball against Canton's pressure defense, according to Mantyla.

The Hawks committed 24 turnovers — nine in the first quarter and 15 in the first half when the Chiefs established leads of 12-5 and 23-17.

"(Canton coach) Bob Blohm said you have to do three things to be successful: rebound, take care of the ball and play defense," Mantyla said. "We did two of those. We played defense and rebounded, but they didn't allow us to take care of the ball.

"They play great man-to-man defense, and we struggled getting the ball up the floor. They made it tough to get into what we wanted on offense."

Senior center Heather Hopkins scored a game-high 14 points for Harrison, which got all of its points from three players. Krista Snow added 10 and Amanda Ault eight.

Alyson Noune, who sank a pair of triples, and Amy Westerhold had 10 points apiece to lead Canton. Kelly Holmes chipped in seven and Stephanie Gray, the team's leading scorer who had a down week in that regard with 11 points in two games, five.

"We can do a little better job of getting (Gray) the ball, and she can do a better job of moving in the post," Blohm said. "But she's solid; she'll get that worked out.

"But we do need that balance. I thought Jori (Welchans) stepped up again and did a good job handling the ball and rebounding. Amicie (Crayton) and Kelly did a good job in the post.

"At the start of the third quarter, Westerhold did a good job pressuring their guards, got some turnovers and scores. That got us going again."

Hopkins, scoring two easy layups off back-door passes, got the Hawks within 25-21 early in the third quarter.

"We had some spots where we broke down against the screen-and-roll, but that was partly my fault," Blohm said, adding he liked the Canton defensive effort overall.

"It was just a matter of how we were going to rotate, and I don't think we made it real clear. That will be something we can work on the next three days."

Westerhold scored the first two Canton baskets of the third quarter, Noune hit a second three and drove the lane for another basket and Welchans capped the rally with a deuce, putting the Chiefs in front 34-21.

The Hawks closed to 35-26 at the end of the quarter and 35-30 in the fourth. Canton scored six unanswered points for an 11-point advantage while Harrison was scoreless for six minutes.

Drabicki paces Stevenson win

Mo knows basketball, just ask the Plymouth Salem Rocks and the rest of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Junior point-guard Maureen Drabicki, better known as Mo, scored a game-high 22 points Thursday, leading host Livonia Stevenson to 48-39 victory over Salem in the final pre-playoff showdown in the WLAA.

Stevenson, now 16-0 overall, continued to answer all challenges thrown its way in the WLAA, finishing the 11-game league schedule unbeaten, while earning the top seed going into eight-team league playoffs, which start Nov. 5.

The Spartans also captured their first-ever Lakes Division crown with a 5-0 record.

Defending WLAA champion Salem, which had a chance to tie for the title and earn the top seed by beating Stevenson, falls to 9-8 overall and 9-2 in the league.

Drabicki, who was also the catalyst with a game-high 24 points in a 48-43 upset win on Oct. 20 against state-ranked Plymouth Canton, was cool again at the free throw line, connecting on 10 straight in the decisive fourth period. She also dished out five assists and had two steals on the night.

"She's the catalyst, almost everything they do starts with her," said rival coach Fred Thomann of Plymouth Salem. "She can create with the dribble and complements that with her passing ability. And she does a good job of finishing at the rim. She's a good player."

Stevenson senior forward Karen Groulx added 10 points, while senior guard Lori Shingledecker contributed nine points, nine rebounds and five steals before leaving the game late in the fourth quarter with a severe leg cramp.

It was nip-and-tuck affair most of the way, but the Spartans led from start to finish.

Salem pulled within one with 6:26 to play, 36-35, on Christy Parimucha's three-pointer. But the Rocks committed four costly turnovers down the stretch and couldn't overcome Drabicki and the Spartans.

"The fourth quarter play again was not a surprise," said Stevenson coach Wayne Henry, whose team outscored the Rocks 14-9. "I always have concerns at the beginning, but now I think we have the confidence to hold things together late in the game."

The Spartans' collapsing zone defense kept Salem's top scorer, Cyndi Platter, in check. Stevenson's tall front line of 6-foot-3 Julie Martin, 5-11 Patty Diamond and the 5-10 Groulx took turns clogging up the middle.

Platter finished with a team-high 13 points, while guards Leslie Gotts and Parimucha chipped in with nine and eight, respectively.

"We had to stop Platter and watch out for their three-point shooters," Drabicki said. "When the ball goes inside, everybody had to collapse around her."

Salem shot only 34.2 percent from the field (12 of 35), while Stevenson hit 16 of 44 (36.3 percent).

"We shoot well some days, and some days we don't," Thomann said. "We can shoot a little when we get into a rhythm and make a shot or two."

The turnovers were virtually even, 19 for Salem and 18 for Stevenson. But the Rocks miscues came at critical junctures.

The free throw totals were nearly as identical, 12 of 16 for Salem and 13 of 16 for the Spartans.

"We had one spell in the third quarter where we quit talking on defense, but overall we did nice job," Henry said. "They (Salem) had only six field goals in the second half and they're not easy to defend when you have Gotts, who can drive to the basket, and Parimucha, who can shoot the three-pointer, to go with Platter inside. You have to be alert on the court."

The Spartans were all eyes, ears and smiles afterwards.

"This will give us confidence going into the conference tourney and districts, but we're in a hard district, too," Drabicki said.

Blazers crush Bishop Foley

Twelve of 14 players scored Thursday as Livonia Ladywood opened the Catholic League A-B Division girls basketball playoffs with a 66-35 victory Thursday at Madison Heights Bishop Foley.

Senior Mary Jo Kelly led the victorious Blazers with 21 points in three quarters of play. Tracey Mocon contributed seven points as Ladywood ran its overall record to 13-4.

Ladywood outscored the Ventures 37-12 in the first half, while holding top scorer Darcy Rasch to two points. She finished with 12 for the game.

Ladywood returns to A-B semifinal action Wednesday against Central Division nemesis Birmingham Marian. The doubleheader starts at 6 p.m.

Canton best in division

Plymouth Canton claimed the Western Division championship in girls swimming Thursday with a 107-79 victory over host Livonia Churchill.

The Chiefs completed an undefeated dual-meet season with a 9-0 record and finished 5-0 in their half of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Jill Mellis was first in two events and played a role in Canton winning two relays. She swam the individual medley in 2:17.4, the butterfly in 1:02.18.

Jill Barnes, Selena Bastine, Mellis and Beth Berger got the Chiefs started with a victory in the medley relay (1:59.89).

Mellis later led the way in the 200 freestyle relay and was followed by Berger, Danielle Yockey and Susan Pritchard as Canton posted a 1:45.23 time.

The Chiefs also won the 200 freestyle in which Pritchard had a 2:06.12 tie, and the 500 freestyle with Katie McWhirter finishing in 5:33.95.

Canton had an exceptional team performance in diving, according to coach Hooker Wellman. Brooke Larson was first with 203.4 points, Brie Wall second (198.85) and Adrienne Brenner third (177).

Churchill's Jamie Strauch won the 50 and 100 freestyle in 26.11 and 56.51. Liz Sorokac and Kim Gruska were first in the backstroke (1:06.2) and breaststroke (1:16.4), respectively.

The Chargers also won the 400 freestyle relay. Jamie Garlacz, Mary Corazza, Sorokac and Strauch put together a 3:58.8 time.

Shamrocks league champs

For the first time since 1986, Redford Catholic Central can boast a Catholic League soccer championship.

The Shamrocks (16-2-2) claimed the title after beating Birmingham Brother Rice 2-1 Thursday at Madison Heights Bishop Foley. The teams had split two earlier season meetings.

"Winning the league was one of our goals and we were able to achieve it," CC coach Phil LaJoy said. "I'm proud of our kids. We played well today against a team which had a great season."

CC, which outshot Rice 9-7, opened the scoring at the 26:00 mark of the first half on a penalty kick by senior forward Anthony Verrino.

The Shamrocks widened their lead to 2-0 at the 13:00 mark of the second half on a goal by junior midfielder Matt Kopmeyer. Juior defender Adam Borchert recorded the assist.

Junior goalie Matt McGivney's shutout was spoiled when the Warriors scored with just under three minutes remaining in the game.

"I thought we moved the ball pretty effectively. We didn't punt until the end of the first half. They played good defense, but we stopped ourselves with the fumble — and Bakowski was on the six-inch line."

The Chiefs then went 59 yards in seven plays for a 14-0 lead. Elledge passed 16 yards to Mark Koziol and 22 to Ostach before hitting the latter again for the TD.

"For the most part, we shut down their run and forced them to throw, and they did it very effectively," Moshimer said. "They have two quarterbacks who can throw the ball, and a ton of receivers who can catch it."

Canton added another score with 48 seconds left in the game. Arnold ran 1 yard for the TD after the Chiefs took over on downs at the Salem 37 and scored in seven plays.

The Chiefs rushed for 129 yards. Neil Haremski had 45 on 18 carries, Arnold 41 on 11. Andy Szydlowski rushed 14 times for 32 yards to lead Salem.

Canton boys 2nd in league

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Art Schuetzler channeled all his nervous energy into the right place Wednesday afternoon, leading Walled Lake Western to its third consecutive Western Lakes Activities Association boys cross country title.

Schuetzler, first overall in the 5,000-meter event at Cass Benton Park with a time of 16:44, helped the Warriors fend off a strong bid from Plymouth Canton in the final team standings, 53-57. Farmington Harrison was third with 79. See statistical summary.

"I was scared, I was worrying all night and couldn't sleep," said the Western senior, who was sixth a year ago. "But I feel better when I'm nervous."

Schuetzler broke away from a 10-man pack early on. He felt the pace was right to his liking.

"I was in about 10th place, but I couldn't stay back," he said.

He held off a challenge from eventual second place finisher Justin Dreyer of Harrison (16:55) to win the race.

"Art ran a great race," Western coach Dennis Keeney said. "He'd been nervous all week and lost his form and confidence at the beginning of the month.

"We went back to heavy mileage and hard interval training, and he snapped out of it."

Schuetzler, who is eying a possible stint in the military, had plenty of support on the course.

Brother Trevor and Brandon Keeney came through as well, finishing-ninth and 11th. Frank Stevens ran a personal best 17:20 to finish 13th, while Tom Menzies rounded out the Western quintet with a 19th place.

Canton was led by David Yack in third place, followed by Casey Moothart (seventh), Jeff Keith (14th) Todd Smith (16th) and Shawn McNamara (17th).

"Both Harrison and Canton like to run hard at the beginning and stay out there," Keeney said. "We like to run an even pace, but we were behind with a half-mile to go. It was a tough battle."

Canton lost by only a point to Western in the regular season dual meet, 27-28.

"Both Yack and Moothart ran real well," Canton coach Mike Spitz said. "In fact, four of our five kids set personal bests. On one hand I'm real pleased, it was a good effort. But on the other hand it was disappointing because we couldn't unseat the champion."

Other area runners in the top 10 included Franklin's Lee Devers (fifth), Plymouth Salem's Derek Cudini (sixth), Farmington's Dave Clinard (eighth) and North Farmington's Jeff Howie (10th).

Western won the Western Division dual meet title, while North and Farmington shared the Lakes Division regular season crown.

Salem girls challenge for WLAA title

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Jennifer Ray was the conductor, while teammates Bridget Bryne, Kristen Heiob, Stacy Duff and Brenda Halibozek climbed aboard the winning express Wednesday, as Walled Lake Western won the Western Lakes Activities Association girls cross country championship.

The Warriors, behind Ray's season-best time of 19:08.56 on the 5,000-meter course at Cass Benton Park, chugged out a four-point victory, edging Lakes Division champion Plymouth Salem in the 12-school team standings, 58-62.

State-ranked Livonia Stevenson and last year's defending champion, North Farmington, finished third and fourth, respectively. See satistical summary.

"We had never run against these teams before except when we saw Stevenson at the Schoolcraft (Invitational), but they weren't at full strength, one of their top girls was out," Western coach Mark Bellinger said. "It's awful hard to look at (state) rankings in this kind of event, but I thought coming in that we could do it."

The pre-race strategy was simple for the Warriors.

"We did not want to push the first mile, just take things normally," Bellinger said. "But we definitely wanted everyone to push in the third mile."

The strategy worked as Bryne finished fourth overall; Heiob, 14th, Duff, 18th; and Halibozek, 22nd.

Salem, also state-ranked, was led by Leah Retherford in fifth.

Rounding out the Rocks' contingent was Stacy Witthoff (ninth), Emily Farrell (10th), Lynda Sebestyen (17th) and Stacy Moore (21st).

"When you get first and fourth (place) like Western did, it helps," Salem coach Mike Krafchak said. "Their top four kids were really tough and their fifth kid (Halibozek) ran a great race.

"I'm not upset. We ran our best times. We got beat fair and square."

Heiob, a freshman, was a pleasant surprise in 13th for Western, but the team triumph was orchestrated by Ray, who won the WLAA individual crown for the second time in her four-year career.

"My muscles were a little heavy the last mile, but people on the sidelines kept talking to me and it helped out a lot," said Ray, who did not run last year's WLAA meet because of injury. "The people helped out a lot and it especially helped when I heard Emily (Shiveley of North) breathing down my back. I could hear her. She was that close."

Shiveley, a senior, won the battle for second place with Stevenson's A.J. Koritnik. Shiveley's time was 19:17, while Koritnik was clocked in 19:34.

Other area finishers in the top 10 included Plymouth Canton's Kathleen Landelius, sixth; Stevenson's Bridget MacKinnon, seventh; and Farmington's Dana Goba, eighth.

But the day belonged to Warriors, who fell out of the state rankings after their recent performance at the Oakland County Meet.

"It feels so good to have the team win," Ray said.

HOROSCOPE

By C.C. Clark

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)
Be honest with yourself and stop daydreaming. Put effort into reaching your goals. Don't let someone pull the wool over your eyes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)
Take a look to the past and do not forget what it took to get you where you are today. Bullying people will not get you where you want to go.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
Be prepared for the unexpected and look further into a situation to understand it fully. Health matters should be taken seriously.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
A change for the better is in store for you. Whatever you decide to do is possible if your mind and heart are in the right place.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)
Temptation to do the wrong thing could be very strong. If you are quarreling with someone, it may be necessary to back down.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
You are too strongly attached to materialistic pursuits. Do not be afraid to ask others for assistance in getting through some tough times ahead.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Your excellent leadership qualities should be channeled in the right direction. Be thankful for the many good things in your life.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
You must look before you leap and learn from your mistakes. After weeks of turmoil, you should now experience great peace and harmony.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
There is an indication of activity taking place beneath the surface of domestic and work affairs. A person close to you may give a wrong first impression.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
It is okay to try new things, but you must keep your feet on the ground. Patience is a virtue you would do well to learn. Be prepared for new ideas.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
You must use discretion at this time more than any other. Your life journey may be off course and only you have the power to get on the right path.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
You may be experiencing problems in making important decisions; be realistic and narrow down your choices. You have the ability to do great things.

CBS' 'Sinatra': Behind Ol' Blue Eyes

Miniseries peopled with Kennedys and kingpins

By Dan Rice

The two-part miniseries Sinatra, airing Sunday, Nov. 8, and Tuesday, Nov. 10, on CBS, translates 50 years of the entertainer's life into five hours of engaging prime-time fare.

Tina Sinatra, Frank's oldest child, was named by her father as executive producer of the project. She stresses that her father was very much involved in the telling of his story. "The words, the scenes that put together this picture are all his recollections and remembrances."

Still, Sinatra is not the glowing tribute one might expect, thanks to the influence of director James Sadwith (Baby M).

"I read the script and told Tina that if I was going to make this," Sadwith recalls, "it was not going to be an ode to Frank Sinatra, it was not going to be The Al Jolson Story. I would make something much more akin to Raging Bull, that I wasn't a fan of Frank's, and I was going to play the drama and not the sentiment."

There is no shortage of drama in Sinatra's life: his humble beginnings, his obsessive climb to stardom, his failed marriages and his connections to powerful figures—all make for intriguing viewing. Of particular interest is his middleman relationship between the Kennedys and organized crime; according to the movie, his intercessions with union leadership helped put JFK in the White House.

The casting process was extensive. "We would go for people who embodied the essence of the character, but we wouldn't necessarily go for exact look-alikes," Sadwith says.

The title role was filled at nearly the last minute by Philip Casnoff (Hands of a Stranger), who refused to be intimidated by the fame of his character.

"I basically ignored the fact that he was a famous person," Casnoff says. "I think if I had been intimidated I would have been dead in the water."

Casnoff, who claims he grew up on "Motown, the Beatles and heavy metal," says he gained a new understanding of Sinatra and his music through this project.

"I knew he was very ambitious, but beyond that, one of the things that really struck me was...he was very vulnerable and private when he was on stage," Casnoff says. "I think something happened to him on stage that didn't happen anyplace else in his life. He was very moving when he sang. I think the girls responded to his vulnerability. It's almost like Michael Jackson in a way. There was almost an androgynous quality to Frank when he was very young, when he was so gaunt and frail up there on stage."

Casnoff is surrounded by a fine supporting cast. Most memorable is Olympia Dukakis as Sinatra's saloon-keeper/abortionist mother, Dolly. Also noteworthy are Joe Santos as his ex-boxer father, Gina Gershon as Nancy Barbato Sinatra, Marcia Gay Harden as Ava Gardner, Joris Stuyck as Peter Lawford, Nina Siemaszko as Mia Farrow and Rod Stiger as mob boss Sam Giancana.

Sinatra is all the more worthwhile for the glimpses of famous personalities from show-business history and for the music. As with any biography of a living person, the miniseries has the problem of where it should end. The producers have opted to close with a Madison Square Garden concert in 1974 at the height of Sinatra's success. It appears a conscious decision was made to leave the "Chairman of the Board" on top.

FAMILY FAIRE

'Name Your Adventure' this Saturday morning

By Chris Carpenter

"You have to remember, with anything you want to do, have fun with it," actor/tap great Gregory Hines advises two fawning fans in an episode of NBC's Saturday-morning show Name Your Adventure.

Taking that fun factor and running with it (and dancing with it, riding horseback with it and who knows what else), Name Your Adventure is an alternative to cartoons for children who feel like soaking up some serious vicarious entertainment in the world's most awe-inspiring locales. The camera tags along as the show's hosts, Mario Lopez and former MTV veejay Jordan Brady, leap-frog from one guest's fantasy adventure to the next, alternately offering informative tidbits and cracking wise.

The possibilities are endless for a program with such an ambitious format, but don't expect a young guest to scale the World Trade Center with suction cups any time soon. Early visitors to Name Your Adventure seem to fantasize more about visiting recycling plants and learning a few dance steps than wing-walking or sword-swallowing.

But as a credit to the cast and crew of Name Your Adventure, even the least adventurous excursions are no less entertaining. The show manages to move at warp speed while delivering plenty of humor and hands-on instruction.

LET'S TALK

More exposure of Burrows; the Lowe-down on Chad

By Taylor Michaels

Q: I am a big fan of Ed on* Northern Exposure. *Could you please tell me a little bit about the actor who portrays him? I would also like to know where to write him. —Jennifer Herbach, Portland, Ore.

A: The actor who plays Ed Chigliak is Darren E. Burrows, who was born in Winfield, Kan., and is one-quarter Apache and one-quarter Cherokee. His first acting job was in the film 976-EVIL, and he went on to co-star in Casualties of War, with Michael J. Fox and Sean Penn, and John Waters' Cry-Baby. When not on location, he lives in North Hollywood. You may write Burrows in care of Northern Exposure, CBS, 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif., 90036.

Q: I saw a 1940s World War II movie on TV in 1953 starring Don Ameche. It was about two German brothers on opposite sides of the war. Ameche was with the underground, and his brother was with the Gestapo. One was named Kurt, the other Eric.

I was pregnant at the time and decided if I had a boy, his name was going to be Kurt, but it wasn't a boy. When I did have a boy in 1961 and another in 1962, I named the first Kurt and the second Eric. They have always known where their names came from, and I've always wanted them to see the movie but can't recall what the name was. Can you help? —Minette Reinholt, Kerrville, Texas.

A: The movie you describe is 1940's Four Sons, with Don Ameche and Alan Curtis. However, I hope your sons have a good sense of humor, since Ameche and Curtis played brothers Chris, involved in the Czech underground, and Karl, a Nazi Fifth Columnist, respectively. This movie was a loose remake of a 1928 picture that featured the same title but a different war and different character names, none of them Kurt or Eric.

Q: A friend and I have a disagreement regarding the show* Family Ties. *I say that the actress who played Michael J. Fox's girlfriend toward the end was Demi Moore. He says I'm wrong and bets me $10 every time we see each other. Can you give us the answer? —Sylvia C., Big Spring, Texas.

A: Demi Moore as Alex Keaton's girlfriend ... it's an interesting thought, but unfortunately for you, Sylvia, not at all true. Courteney Cox played Lauren Miller, Alex's girlfriend, in the show's last few seasons. Alex's previous girlfriend, Ellen, was played by Tracy Pollan, who ended up becoming Mrs. Michael J. Fox.

Q: I'm a big fan of Chad Lowe. I love watching him on* Life Goes On. *I think he is a very good actor. Could you please tell me about him and where I can write to him? —C.M.A., Clifton, N.J.

A: Lowe's family, including Brat Pack brother Rob Lowe, moved to California from Dayton, Ohio, while the boys were still young. Chad attended Santa Monica High School. Just before he turned 16, Chad hired an agent to feel out the acting market and promptly landed two TV appearances on the same day: in Robert Kennedy and His Times and Flight 90: Disaster on the Potomac. After living for a while in New York where he studied acting, Lowe returned to Los Angeles and landed a few more TV roles before his current assignment as HIV-positive Jesse McKenna on Life Goes On. He's been a volunteer for the Los Angeles Youth Network more than a year, holding group meetings with homeless teens. You may write to Lowe in care of William Morris Agency, 151 El Camino Road, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212.

Dine with 'Top Girls'; on the road with Paul

By Dan Rice

A&E Stage presents an unusual outing Tuesday, Nov. 3, with Caryl Churchill's award-winning play Top Girls. Seven actresses take on 16 roles in this story of the female head of an executive employment agency who throws a fantasy dinner party with five women from the past. The guest list includes the 13th-century courtesan Lady Nijo, Dull Gret (from Breughal's painting "Dulle Griet") and Patient Griselda (from Chaucer's The Canterbury Tales).

Had enough of "Silly Love Songs"? If not, catch the television premiere of Paul McCartney: Get Back Sunday, Nov. 1, on The Disney Channel. The 90-minute film chronicles McCartney's 1989-90 world tour, in which he performed 101 concerts in 13 countries. His band on the run plays songs from McCartney's Beatles and solo periods.

Perennial champion Richard Petty, the "King of Stock Car Racing," rolls into retirement on Sunday afternoon with TNN's Richard Petty: The Final Ride. The hourlong special features behind-the-scenes footage of Petty's last season as a NASCAR driver and his 1992 Fan Appreciation Tour.

Here's an election that has the Chesire Cat grinning. Monday, Nov. 2, on The Disney Channel's Adventures in Wonderland series, the "What Makes Rabbit Run?" episode has the Red Queen deciding to run for office against a relectant White Rabbit.

Will Bill Clinton be elected president? Tuesday's returns tell the tale on NBC, CBS, ABC, PBS and CNN.
