Famed cyclist causes a stir

VISITING GRANDFATHERS seldom cause a great stir in Canton Township. But, when grandpa is Perry Como, and he goes bike riding each evening, just about everyone in the subdivision is out to see that famous smile. When Becki and Vicki (right) asked him for his autograph, he laughed, "These kids are too young to know me." Como, who now lives in Florida, left the area Sunday. (Staff photos by Bob Woodring)

Fulkerson is battling township over fence

CANTON—A lawsuit between the township and the owner of a trailer storage facility may be looming. Township officials are commanding James E. Fulkerson, owner of Fulkerson Landscaping, 6729 Canton Center, to construct an opaque fence between his trailer storage facility, located at the landscaping site, and adjacent residentially-zoned property. Township officials maintain that Fulkerson never received official permission from the zoning board of appeals to operate the trailer facility.

MEMBERS of the township board of trustees recently empowered the township's administration to do "what it deems necessary" to force Fulkerson to slide opaque panels into his existing cyclone fence. The authorization came after Fulkerson's attorney wrote a letter to the board, saying his client would construct the fence if the township split the cost. Township Supervisor Robert Greenstein said the administration will consult township attorneys about future courses of action, if Fulkerson refuses to build the fence and finance the entire cost. Greenstein said the township will do whatever "the attorney suggests. We may end up giving him a violation of $100 a day." Said Fulkerson: "I'm not going to buckle under for nobody. If they want to take it to court, it's going. This seems like a strongarm way to do things in the township."

ANOTHER LAWSUIT between the township and the development firm of Richter & Rosen, owner of the residentially-zoned property adjacent to the trailer storage site, promoted the fence controversy.

The developers had filed suit in court, when a previous township board refused to rezone the land immediately adjacent to Fulkerson's property from single to multiple residential. Multiple family dwellings were needed, the developers maintained, to buffer single family houses from the commercial facility. According to Greenstein, the township and the developers have now reached an agreement. The developers will construct single family houses on 70-foot lots next to Fulkerson's property, if Fulkerson agrees to slide opaque panels into his cyclone fence and place plantings behind the fence, if possible.

"But I have a fence," Fulkerson protested. "It's been up over for six years with the full blessing of the township. When the builders bought that property, we were here. We didn't put a canvas around the place."

GREENSTEIN says Fulkerson's trailer storage business is operating illegally. Fulkerson, he says, never appeared before the zoning board of appeals to obtain a vehicle storage license.

Fulkerson said he obtained permission to operate his business from former township Supervisor Philip Dingeldey.

"What Mr. Greenstein is alleging isn't so. I personally didn't appear myself before the zoning board of appeals. I didn't send any representative. I just told the people at the township what I wanted. I talked to Mr. Dingeldey, and he said the board saw nothing wrong with it." Said Greenstein: "He probably asked Phil an off-handed question. People ask me things like that all the time. Just speaking to the township supervisor does not give him authority to do anything."

Probation officers seeking volunteers

A chance to become involved in meaningful community service is being offered area residents by the probation department of the 35th District Court.

Alan J. Wakenhut, chief probation officer for the district court which includes in its jurisdiction the City of Plymouth, Plymouth and Canton townships, invites interested residents to consider devoting some time to becoming volunteer probation workers.

Special training will be given volunteers, Wakenhut says, and the reward will be helping persons who've gotten in a little trouble with the law to become well-adjusted citizens.

At least 40 volunteers are needed to supplement the present corps of about 100 volunteers. Wakenhut, a Plymouth resident and Edison employe in Ann Arbor, says more than 100 are needed to have enough volunteers to establish a one-to-one relationship with probationers.

The department likes to assign each volunteer with one or two probationers to maintain close contact to help those in trouble to rehabilitate. In June alone, some 390 individuals were placed on probation of some type by the 35th District Court.

"We need all the help we can get," says Wakenhut.

BEFORE BEING selected as probation volunteers, residents must first complete four training sessions. After the training, volunteers are screened to make sure they meet qualifications.

The program, started in 1969, advanced in scope this year when a regular training program was started last May.

The training proved to be a big help in preparing volunteers for their responsibilities, says Wakenhut. It will be repeated in August.

Next month's training will be Aug. 4, 5, 11, 12 beginning at 7:30 p.m. each Monday in the courtroom in Plymouth City Hall. No advance registration is needed. Interested persons can attend the first meeting Aug. 4 in the courtroom, which is located upstairs in the city hall building.

The only requirement is that volunteers be at least 21 years old and have an interest in helping others. "A lot of people hesitate to get involved because they feel they aren't qualified," says Wakenhut.

"But it doesn't take a PhD to help your neighbor. Many of our best volunteers are housewives. We have volunteers from all walks of life — counselors with master degrees, teachers, construction workers — you name it. "If the interest is there, chances are the person will make a good volunteer. Education isn't a prerequisite."

THE FIRST two sessions of training will be a general introduction to the SHAWN HART waters the plants at the Warren and Lilley Road township gardening site with help of his mother, Linda Hart. The garden was started with an investment of $30 with a return many times that expected. (Staff photo).

Bumper crops growing in Canton garden plots

CANTON—The fertile soil of Canton Township continues to provide bumper crops of vegetables for its residents as it did in the days when it was all farm land.

Homeowners have taken full advantage of the 50 acres of garden space provided by the township at the corner of Warren and Lilley, and Haggerty at Koppernick.

This is the second year for community gardens in Canton. More space was provided this year, and watering methods have been improved.

Faucet adapters have been installed on nearby fire hydrants. Last summer, an attempt to use a fire hydrant to water a garden caused a torrent of water which overturned a State Police car and injured two policemen.

THE HARVEST is on and will continue until frost nips that last ripe tomatoe.

Carl Dicks said, "We've had green beans 'til they're coming out our ears."

He was out in the 25 by 50-foot plot that belongs to his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. David Richards who live on Devon.

"My daughter called me in the spring and asked, 'If we get a garden, will you help us?' We planted 21 varieties of vegetables here," said Dicks as he picked green beans and butter beans.

Dicks, a retiree, was raised on a farm, and it was evident this garden was a source of great pride. He pointed out the rutabagas, okra, parsley and huge cabbages that looked almost ready to burst.

A FEW ROWS OVER, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Beggs and daughter Flo, nine, were "viewing with pride" their first garden. The Beggs moved from Detroit to their house on Boston Hill a year ago, and the whole family has taken to gardening with enthusiasm. They estimate the original seeds and plants cost $20. Mrs. Beggs has frozen beans, peas, broccoli and squash for winter use. Beggs has rigged up a watering device with two 50-gallon tanks and an old lawn mower which his children call the "mopump".

The result is a lush green plot with just about every vegetable you can think of. They said they had never seen zucchinis growing and had planted them too closely together. They had to pull some out.

"One thing we've discovered," said Beggs, "this garden will feed more than a family of four."

SUSAN ARMSTRONG and Linda Hart, who are neighbors on Brandywine, have garden plots side-by-side. They bought their seeds and plants together and spent $15 each.

They were out picking a batch of green beans for dinner. Their corn was tasseled out and vines were loaded with cherry tomatoes.

The Richard Kalvenas on Emerson have a community garden plot for the second year. Kalvenas does all the work on the garden and said he "learned an awful lot last year." He raised just about everything from seed, and now the cucumber crop is at its height. They pick them clean every two days.

June Kalvenas has been making relish, dill and bread and butter pickles. The scarcity of jar lids is a problem to the canners, and Mrs. Kalvenas said she had to pay $1 a dozen for hers.

MRS. WALTER PITERA, who lives next door, is another second-year gardener who reports bumper crops of sweet peppers, bell peppers, beets, onions and tomatoes, with the corn yet to come.

The Piteras grew an Italian squash that was five feet long.

Mrs. Pitera has been canning yellow sweet peppers and is searching for more jar lids because she can never make enough of the pepper pickles to suit her family. The recipe is Hungarian.

PAT'S PEPPER PICKLE recipe calls for half a bushel of yellow sweet peppers, but she sometimes makes half the amount.

She puts a clove of garlic and a sprig of dill in the bottom of each

St. Mary center treats alcoholics with dignity

By MARTHA MAHAN

LIVONIA—One out of every six patients who goes to his doctor for treatment is an alcoholic.

So are between 20 and 30 per cent of patients in general hospitals.

Pretty startling statistics? Here are more.

Untreated, 10 per cent of those alcoholics will be dead within 24 months. And their average age will be under 45 years, twice the national average for their age group.

Who says so?

FRANK MACDONNELL, director of the alcohol treatment division of St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, a unit which will observe its first anniversary Aug. 1.

MacDonnell's background includes service with the District of Columbia Public Health Department's Rehabilitation Center for Alcoholics, the National Institute of Mental Health and a rehabilitation center connected with the University of Oklahoma Medical School.

The first 12 months have brought pride to the St. Mary operation. During that time, the out-patient service has treated 200 men and women. The current case load is 60. Sixty-two have been seen on an in-patient basis.

Of the latter, referrals were made by 26 different physicians, a situation which warms the hearts of the unit's staff as reflecting a growing acceptance by the medical world.

REFERRALS come from many sources, MacDonnell said, including clergymen, employers, sometimes the courts, Alcoholics Anonymous, and others such as marriage counselors, who find alcohol a factor in marital problems. Sometimes an individual comes in on his own.

The treatment team includes physician, nurse, therapist, psychologist, social worker, a specialist in evaluation and a variety of consulting agencies.

Since alcoholism touches family, friends, employer and others as well as the alcoholic, they too may be encouraged to become involved.

KEYSTONE OF the operation is the physician, MacDonnell said, who can spot excessive use of alcohol in his diagnosis.

Cases of chronic respiratory infection, gastrointestinal problems, acute hypertension, psycho-motor conditions and other health disturbances may well have roots in alcoholism, MacDonnell maintains. Because the illness will not improve until the alcohol problem is resolved, he said, the untreated alcoholic often begins to use the hospital like a revolving door and develops severe financial problems.

MacDonnell, who claims a 60 per cent-plus success rate, says the physician more than anyone can guide a patient to accept treatment.

"The physician has the greatest credibility of anyone. Fifteen per cent stop drinking just by being confronted by their physicians."

ANOTHER IMPORTANT treatment factor, the director said, is preservation of the patient's dignity.

"He is a person of important and worth, not of disrepute. He participates in the planning of his therapy and is responsible for his own treatment."

The program is available on a seven-day-a-week basis, with requests for out-patient service accepted any time during business hours.

Presently, 15 out-patient groups meet weekly at different times in addition to an Alcoholics Anonymous gathering each Monday evening.

INTAKE GROUPS, which focus on the general problem of alcoholism and problem drinking, meet six days a week at 12:15 p.m. and on Wednesdays and Fridays at 7:15 p.m.

Counseling groups, which deal with personality structure and some psychotherapy, meet six days a week at 3 p.m.

Psychotherapeutic meetings, which go into more probing group therapy and are intended for those with sufficient awareness and self-confidence or for those who have a particularly serious problem, meet Mondays at 7:30 p.m.

Assisting MacDonnell with the project are Dr. A.S. Nakadar, specialist in internal medicine; Charles Bethea, Ph.D., psychologist and program coordinator; Sister Mary Angelica, ACSW, social worker director of St. Mary; Tom Francek, therapist, and Betsey Begle, administrative coordinator.

County requests probe of rowdiness at Hines

WAYNE COUNTY—The Wayne County Board of Commissioners public works committee has called for further investigation and more information before acting on a request for more money to control alleged rowdiness and repair of damage to park facilities along the Edward Hines Parkway.

During the meeting, park officials asked the committee to recommend a stop on all alcoholic beverages in the park and to increase the number of sheriff's deputies on patrol.

The committee was also asked to approve alarm systems for all buildings in the park, close the park earlier, and ban all nonreturnable containers said to account for half the litter there.

Photographs distributed at the meeting showed extensive damage to public restrooms, and destruction to walls, floors and plumbing facilities.

Sometimes the crowds of youngsters in the park reach 600 and many of them often threaten harm to other individuals as well as destruction of property, park officials said.

The committee is considering the addition of more deputy sheriffs and the establishment of a mini-police station in the park, as well as more and different mechanical safeguards.

In addition the committee asked officials of the park, a division of the County Road Commission, to consider other "more innovative approaches" to the solution, to be reviewed at a later meeting with Sheriff William Lucas.

Norman J. Durkin of Detroit is the new manager of technical service for General Vehicle, Inc., manufacturers of the Bricklin Automobile. He will work at the Livonia plant at 37000 Plymouth Road.

Probation volunteers wanted program, including terminology and forms.

The second two nights are devoted to a mini-course on how to help others, stressing how to build rapport and friendship with clients.

Once selected, each volunteer will work with one or two probationers on a one-to-one relationship. "The contact is very important because for many probationers this will be the first time that someone has actually cared," stresses Wakenhut.

Most of those on probation are 18 to 22-years-old who have been arrested for marijuana use or shoplifting. Another group of probationers are from age 30-40, mostly with problems connected with alcohol abuse.

Residents volunteering live in Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships, Livonia, Redford Township, Southfield, Northville, Novi, South Lyon and Walled Lake. Most of the corps is made up of housewives.

A special need now unmet, says the chief probation officer, is for a volunteer to serve as an employment recruiter — to make contact with area business and industry in an effort to help find jobs for those on probation.

The training sessions will include presentations by attorneys, District Court Judge Dunbar Davis, probation staff members, and experienced volunteer probation officers.

THE 35TH DISTRICT Court probation department, patterned after the well-known program pioneered by Judge Keith J. Leenhouts of Royal Oak 16 years ago, places concerned volunteers in a supportive counseling relationship with "first-time" or misdemeanor offenders.

The premise of such programs, which have now been adopted in almost every state, is that the friend-ship and trust of the volunteer can be a significant factor in reorienting an offender from criminal activity.

"We don't have any solid statistics on the program's success in Plymouth," says Wakenhut, "but our experience demonstrates that it has been very successful. There have been very few persons placed on probation, who have been counseled by volunteers, who have come back to us after being released from probation."

"From every indication we do have, the program seems to be a success in preventing probationers from getting in trouble again.

"With the caseload in this area, many more volunteers, both men and women, are needed if we are to continue to be able to assign all probationers referred to us."

The program was started in Northville in 1968 with the initiative of Judge Philip Ogilvie and former Chief Probation Officer Dennis Dildy and 16 volunteers.

There are now 100 volunteers, a director of probation, four chief probation officers, four assistant chiefs, one work detail supervisor and four clerks.

"The growth of our program should be credited to the support received from Judge Dunbar Davis and our many enthusiastic volunteers," Wakenhut adds.

Persons interested in attending the training sessions can make contact in advance with the probation office in Plymouth City Hall or show up at the first session Aug. 4.

Community Band gets rare invite PLYMOUTH—Three public concerts in the last eight days of July will close out the 1975 summer schedule of the Plymouth Community Band, one of those appearances being in the role of a guest band at a national music conference in Ann Arbor.

The two local appearances will be the fifth and sixth concerts in the annual Thursday night series in Kellogg Park, July 24 and 31.

THE INVITATION to Conductor James Griffith and his musicians to perform at Ann Arbor the evening of Wednesday, July 30, was extended by officials of the University of Michigan School of Music who will host the 27th annual National Band Conductors and Wind-Perussion Teachers' Conference July 29, 30 and 31.

Plymouth's appearance is scheduled as an outdoor concert at 7 p.m. July 30 near the lake on the university's north campus. In case of rain, the concert will be shifted to Hill Auditorium and will be delayed until 8 p.m.

Only other groups scheduled to present public concerts during the three days of the conference are the University of Michigan Woodwind Quintet and the U-M Summer Session Band.

ON ITS HOME stage in Kellogg Park this week the band will turn to circus music for its theme and in so doing will have as guest conductor the man known throughout the music world as the "Toscanini of the big top," Merle Evans.

For more than 50 years Evans served as director of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey circus band. Although he now lives in retirement at Sarasota, Fla., he still makes occasional guest appearances on the road such as Thursday night's here.

The fast-paced musical fare under Evans' baton will be keyed to the great variety of regular circus acts and in, Griffith's words, "will have great appeal to young and old alike—in fact, to anyone who has ever watched a circus."

That concert, as well as the final park appearance on Thursday, July 31, when a bicentennial theme will be followed, will start at 8 p.m.

In case of rain Thursday night, the Evans circus concert will be moved to Plymouth Salem High School auditorium.

quart jar, then packed the jar full of seeded and halved peppers. One tablespoon of cooking oil is poured over this. Then she heats together four quarts of cold water, two quarts of vinegar, four cups of sugar and one cup of kosher salt. When the salt and sugar are dissolved, the solution is poured over the peppers to fill each jar. Then the jars are tightly sealed.

Mrs. Pitera says there is no further processing, but she scalds the jars and lids.

Liquor store gets site OK

CANTON—Township residents may soon have a new store in which to purchase party supplies.

The planning commission last week agreed to recommend site plan approval of the Cracker Barrel Liquor and Party Store to be located on Ford west of Haggerty, by the township board.

Jo Ann Senick, owner of the proposed building, said she would like to open the store next fall.

Ms. Senick agreed to construct a four-foot-high berm on her property's Ford Road frontage.

A member of the UM-D faculty since 1966, he has served on several key faculty committees and as chairman of the education committee of the American Chemical Society's Detroit chapter. His research specialty is inorganic chemistry.

She will be responsible for the quality of food service and the preparation of special diets for the 1,400 patients in Health Saving Services participating homes. Included in the group are the Hendry Convalescent Home in Plymouth, Dorvin Convalescent & Nursing Center in Livonia, and the University Convalescent & Nursing Center, also in Livonia.

SAMUEL K. STEPHENS of 33039 Perth, Livonia, has been appointed to the new position of research director for the WWJ stations where he will be responsible for coordinating research projects involving the station's sales and marketing operations. Stephens joined WWJ in 1968 as a sales presentation writer. He has previously been advertising director for the Northville Record and was copy chief in the merchandising department of D.P. Faust and Pursell back Dehoco buy

By MARTHA MAHAN

LANSING—Both Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) and Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) voted approval as the Michigan Senate passed a bill to authorize the state to take over operation of the Detroit House of Correction (Dehoco) in Plymouth.

The bill still must pass the House which earlier approved a slightly different version (HB 5015).

The Senate vote July 15 was 35-0. Dehoco, operated by the City of Detroit, is the only women's prison in the state. About 225 of the current 290 inmates are felons sentenced by the state.

The state is supposed to reimburse Detroit for housing state inmates, but city officials have complained for years that the state does not meet the full cost and the city has to pay the extra charge.

Estimates for 1974-75 put the state's unpaid debt at $591,000.

"MICHIGAN HAS no women's prison and it's time the state shouldered its responsibility," said Pursell whose home lies about a half mile from the facility.

"We've been leaning on local government for years and it's time for the state to accept its responsibility and rehabilitate the facility and develop a proper program."

The Plymouth senator deplored the deterioration which has "run down" the facility over the past 25 years until it is in "very bad condition," he said.

"It needs lots of work and rehabilitation," he said.

Pursell said there has been "lots of talk" about constructing a state prison for women in the Ypsilanti area, but he thinks it would be more economical to renovate Dehoco.

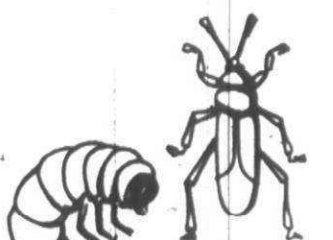

PURSELL ALSO would like to see more rehabilitation efforts with the women inmates.

"Several women's groups have shown interest in trying to help the women, especially in the area of finding jobs for short-term inmates," he said.

The Senate bill would allow the state to take over the prison for two years, as long as Detroit provided the facility and gave the state heat, power and utilities at cost.

The city would still have to reimburse the state for city misdemeanor prisoners at Dehoco.

The bill permits the state to release prisoners if governmental units like the City of Detroit don't pay for the prisoners' cost.

How to have a great family vacation without going too far.

Stay right in your own backyard. Chances are, there are plenty of exciting things to do as a family that aren't that far away. Like visiting a national park. Go fishing. Or camping. Or taking a short trip to the nearest big city or point of interest. And remember. If you're a little short of money for your vacation, see HFC about a Traveloan. You may borrow up to $1500 from Household Finance to pay for your next family vacation. And that'll go a long way. Even if you don't.

Bicycling: wheres and hows

Bicycling is becoming more popular and because of this trend, James J. Pompo, deputy director of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA), says all bikers should be careful to observe the state and vehicle traffic laws of safety when biking in HCMA metroparks.

Pompo says bikers should ride single file on the right-hand side of the road and move in the same direction as vehicular traffic. Extra caution should be used when biking on major roads during peak holiday and weekend periods, he said.

The metroparks serve citizens in Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne counties, and many of the metroparks in these areas provide special facilities for bikers.

Stony Creek Metropark near Utica in Rochester has one special paved trail open for bike riding covering 3/4 of a mile. The trail goes from the park entrance at Twenty-Six Mile Road, two miles west of the Van Dyke Freeway, to the Eastwood Beach site.

Kensington Metropark near Milford has a hard-surfaced trail from the east boat launching site (near the east entrance) to the parking lot at Mitten Bay, which covers about three miles.

Hudson Mills Metropark near Ann

Arbor has no special biking trail, but some bikers use the gravel road surface drive covering 1 1/4 to two miles, which takes bikers in the woods, through the canoe campsite and picnic areas.

Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville also has no special trail for bikers, but the park roads can be used.

Social service public hearing set July 22

The Wayne County Department of Social Services and Southeast Council of Governments (SEMCOG) will hold a public hearing on Michigan's proposed Social Services Plan under Title XX of the Social Security Act.

The hearing has been scheduled for July 22 at Cobo Hall, Room 3038 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The purpose of Title XX is to give states more control in determining the social services needs of their citizens. It allows states to initiate or continue social services programs which are most appropriate to meet those needs.

The meeting will be chaired by SEMCOG Chairperson Conrad L. Mallett, a Wayne County commissioner, and Clyde Cleveland, Detroit councilman.

Daniels Den

By EMORY DANIELS

Fallen from stardom

Toby—once the magnificent, beloved by all, family pet—has fallen from grace.

Toby, the magnificent beloved by all and pet of my children, is a brown, white-spotted mutt of cocker and springer ancestry. Like Gunda Din, he takes a lot of punishment from his two masters without retaliation.

Although a bit dumb Toby, until recently, has been little trouble and has found a place in our home despite my early misgivings. I was one of those committed to a "no dog in my house" philosophy. But a child should have a dog, said wife. And wife was right.

Toby, the magnificent has been great for the kids and every kid should have a dog. Right?

THIS BELOVED by all, magnificent family pet first fell from stardom about a month ago during a lightning storm.

The rest of the family had gone some place, leaving Toby alone in house. This has happened many times before, but apparently he's aging. Because all it took was a bolt of lightning and Toby bolted through the patio screen door.

There was Toby, the beloved family pet, wagging his tail outside in the storm when we arrived home. It doesn't make sense to leave the sanctity of the house and go out into the storm, but this mutt has never cornered the market on sense.

THE NEXT time the family had to leave, we prepared for the possibility that it might storm.

The screenless patio door was left closed, and the large living room window was left open just a crack to allow a bit of air to circulate.

Well Toby, the family pet, squeezed his paw through and ripped up the living room screen. Unable to get through, he wandered into Bridgette's bedroom, hopped on top of her bed, and leaped through the bedroom screen.

We drove up the driveway to see Toby, somebody's pet, happily wagging his tail in the storm. So I packed up the three screens and took them to the hardware for repair.

BEFORE WE got the screens back, the family had another trip to make.

This time wife and I were convinced we would take every precaution to keep Toby inside. Wife walked through the house and closed all the windows. Husband, with an appreciation for fresh air, went through the house and opened the bedroom windows and closed the doors—air in but dog out, he thought.

Unfortunately, husband didn't tell wife what he thought and wife usually makes last rounds through house while husband is packing youngsters into car. So wife opened bedroom doors, not knowing spouse had opened windows.

There was no storm this time, but by now Toby was fantasizing about being an acrobat and decided to take another flying leap through another bedroom screen.

For the most recent mishap, family didn't even take a trip. Lyle was playing outside and wife stepped out of the house for 10 minutes to visit with a neighbor. Upon her return, Toby was outside and our living room screen—repaired and in place—had another gaping hole.

The last two screens never made it to the hardware. Husband picked up a screen repair kit, wife read an article on screen repairs, and the work was done at home.

So I now know how to repair screens, but who wants to repair screens? Toby is still loved by son and daughter but may have to go through life with only that affection. You have fallen from grace, my boy, and forgiving a mutt may take awhile.

The proud, mysterious cat

Throughout the ages, the proud mysterious cat has been both loved and hated, venerated as a deity and condemned as a devil.

At one time in Egypt, when Bast, the cat-headed goddess, was worshipped, to kill a cat even accidentally was a crime punishable by death.

The Scandinavians once believed in a goddess of fertility named Freyja, whose chariot was drawn by six white cats.

The Roman goddess of the moon, Diana, was said to assume the shape of a cat on some occasions.

Cats have always been associated with the moon. They are by nature nocturnal animals, and their eyes reminiscent of the phases of the moon. The pupils of a cat's eyes are mere slits by day, but change to luminous circles by night.

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH, in its drive against paganism, succeeded in reducing the status of the cat to that of a devil. During the witch hunts of the late middle ages, many believed witches had the power to change themselves into cats like the goddess Diana did.

People attacked stray cats with hatchets, hammers, stones and any other handy weapon. Many cats, like witches, were burned or buried alive.

It is interesting to note that although domesticated cats were prevalent in Egypt and Rome during Biblical times, not once is the cat mentioned anywhere in the Christian Bible, although dogs are mentioned frequently in both the Old and the New Testaments.

A great many cat superstitions have survived in the United States to this day. Some of these are well known, for instance:

•The first person a cat looks at after it sneezes is soon to be kissed.

•When a cat washes by licking its paw and rubbing behind its ear, it means company is coming.

•Sailors used to take cats aboard ship because they believed a cat placed on deck under a large pot could raise a wind. But to throw a cat overboard was a dangerous thing, for this could cause an unholy storm.

•Actors believe the presence of a cat insures success for their show.

•Kicking a cat causes the worst possible bad luck.

TO COME UPON a black cat is both lucky and unlucky, depending upon what part of the world you happen to be in. In the Old South, cats were feared. Even today some people believe that cats sneak into cradles and suck the breath from babies.

Cats in fairy tales and fables have always been portrayed as intelligent characters. "Dick Whittington's Cat" and "Puss and Boots" are just two examples of cats in folklore.

Volumes of poetry have been written about cats, and today they have even become TV stars. Who among us does not know Morris?

Cats are said to have nine lives, for they do seem to have remarkable powers of survival. They also have strong homing instincts, and it is almost impossible to give a grown cat away. They have been known to travel hundreds of miles to return home.

To keep a cat calm while traveling, rub her paws with butter or cod liver oil before starting out on your journey. She will spend the whole trip peacefully licking it off.

No picture of a witch is ever complete without a cat perched on her shoulder or riding behind her on a broom. Like the witches in folklore, I, too, have a cat. Her name is Sally, but like her mistress she really isn't very mysterious. She tends to be friendly, fat and funny, and, on occasion, a bit foolish.

Lack of nominees stalls appointments to advisory council

CANTON—Homeowner associations are frustrating township officials' hopes to get a Citizens Advisory Council (CAC) off the ground.

The CAC, established by the township board in mid-May, will act as a research and investigative team and submit recommendations to the township board, if CAC appointments are ever made.

SO FAR, less than half of the organizations invited to participate in the CAC have submitted nominations to township officials.

"It's unfortunate, but it's slowing things down a bit," said township Supervisor Robert Greenstein. "We're really anxious to get things off the ground, and we're anxiously awaiting these other groups."

Since the CAC was established in mid-May, Greenstein's office has sent two letters to more than 20 organizations, including homeowner associations, the Farm Bureau and the Canton Chamber of Commerce, inviting each to submit one nomination to the CAC.

Greenstein says many homeowner associations do not meet during summer months. Few persons attend meetings that are held.

"We could make the appointments from nominations we have," said Greenstein, "but that's not fair. We're going to wait until we hear from these other groups."

AS OF LAST week, only 11 groups had submitted nominations to the CAC.

They are the Canton Chamber of Commerce, Royal Holiday Park, Northwest Homeowner Association, Plymouth Landing, Nottingham Forest, Windsor Park, Camelot, Pickwick, Canterbury Mews and Holiday Park. The Carriage Hills Homeowner Association submitted a letter declining membership in the CAC because of a conflict with its bylaws.

After the council is established, CAC members will study the council's representation of the township and ask the township board to appoint representatives from other areas.

Hand-hewn timbers offer a glimpse of the past

The charm of old, weather, covered bridge summons nostalgia hunters and artists year around. Three of Michigan's six covered bridges are still accommodate traffic and can easily be visited.

The bridge most accessible is Ackley Bridge in Greenfield Village, Dearborn. Built in 1832, the German side-lapped shingles and boarded sides have helped to preserve the timbers.

Three other bridges are in the Grand Rapids area. The White's bridge near Belding was built in 1867 by Jared N. Brazee and J.N. Walker, builders of several other bridges in the area. It cost $1,700. It's located six mile south of M-44 on White's Bridge Road, south of Smyrna. It's a little hard to find but well worth the trip.

Traffic is minimal and the fishing is good on the Flat River.

South of White's Bridge, two miles south and two miles west on M-91 is Fallasburg Bridge in Fallasburg Park, near Lowell. The bridge is nestled in a quiet picnic area and is a scenic spot for a lunch.

The bridge was named in honor of John and Silas Fallas, who settled near Lowell in 1837. It was built in 1871 by Jared Brazee and cost $1,500.

The bridge is constructed of lattice work trusses made of white pine. Repairs in 1905 and 1945 have kept this bridge open to traffic for the last 100 years.

West of Lowell is Ada Covered Bridge in Ada. In 1867 the State Legislature approved a loan to Ada Township for $3,000. The funds were used to repair and construct several bridges. The Ada design was patented by Josiah Brown in 1857. A timber bearing his name was uncovered during the repair operation. High flood waters on the Thornapple River have threatened its timbers several times.

The last two covered bridges are in southwest Michigan. The Langley Bridge is Michigan longest and one of the prettiest, crossing the St. Joseph, north of Centerville. It's painted bright red and off set by white trim.

The Morris Farm Bridge near Niles is closed to the public. E.M. Morris, a Niles farmer and horsebreeder, had this bridge built so he could cross a swamp along the St. Joseph River. The Morris family no longer lives in the area and the bridge is hidden by trees.

THERAPEUTIC WORKSHOP

Northville State Hospital program shows how manual work can help ease mental illness

BY SHERRY KAHAN

Work pays the rent and brings in the groceries. But it can also be therapeutic.

This is the opinion of those at Northville State Mental Hospital who run a sheltered workshop for patients who, they feel, can profit from a work situation.

Using a buffing machine, packaging parts for cars or assembling toys can often provide the confidence and stimulus a patient needs to make his way back to the world outside the hospital grounds.

In the workshop, however, the word is not patient. It's client.

"We try to think of them as clients to deemphasize the institutional atmosphere here," says Mrs. Royanne Baril, activity therapy supervisor. "This is a positive program that focuses on their strengths."

MRS. BARIL points out that a major symptom of mental illness is the tendency to concentrate wholly on the self. The workshop encourages clients to turn their attention outward.

Whether a patient can be helped by the workshop experience is decided by a treatment team including a doctor, social worker, registered nurse and activity therapist.

"When a client comes to the workshop, the team tells us what we should know about him," says Mrs. Baril. "Then we maintain a liaison with the team so there is feedback as to whether a particular approach is working."

"Some of our clients can't come by themselves and are brought in by a therapist. But when they find they can make a little money, it is very exciting for them."

They are paid on a piecework basis, with the client keeping his own records as to how many pieces he does.

"They are paid once a week so they can see directly the relationship between the quantity of their work and their pay," explains Mrs. Baril. "If the amount is less than last week, we can show them why."

WHILE EARNING money can give a real boost to client morale, cash is by no means the main thrust of the workshop.

"We aim to prepare clients for future job training," Mrs. Baril notes.

"We try to improve not only their skills, but their work habits."

"We stress getting to work on time and then completing the task. We try to stretch their attention span and improve personal hygiene. We want them to learn to pay attention in order to turn out quality products—in other words, acquire the ability to care about their work."

"Productiveness is a positive aspect of the shop."

As an example of the way the shop works its wonders, Mrs. Baril points to the toy assembly department.

"This is beautiful for a client who is very ill," says Mrs. Baril. "The toys are colorful and that makes him feel good. They assemble easily and that also makes him feel good. He enjoys the job and he can see the end product."

"The toys attract and hold his attention, and the work is not so difficult that he can't concentrate."

THE WORKSHOP currently has four contracts from businesses to produce or repair articles. However, the economic crunch has made itself felt all the way out to this sheltered shop on the grounds of Northville Hospital.

The contract to assemble toys for Gay Toy Inc. of Walled Lake ended. However, clients continue to package service parts for the Ford Motor Co. and to recycle telephone caps for Western Electric.

They also clean and sort wheel studs which are returned to a manufacturer.

But there is no longer enough work to bring in 30 clients for a full day. They work half days instead, although workshop personnel are trying to come up with other tasks until new contracts are found.

"We might form work crews to do jobs around the hospital," says Mrs. Baril.

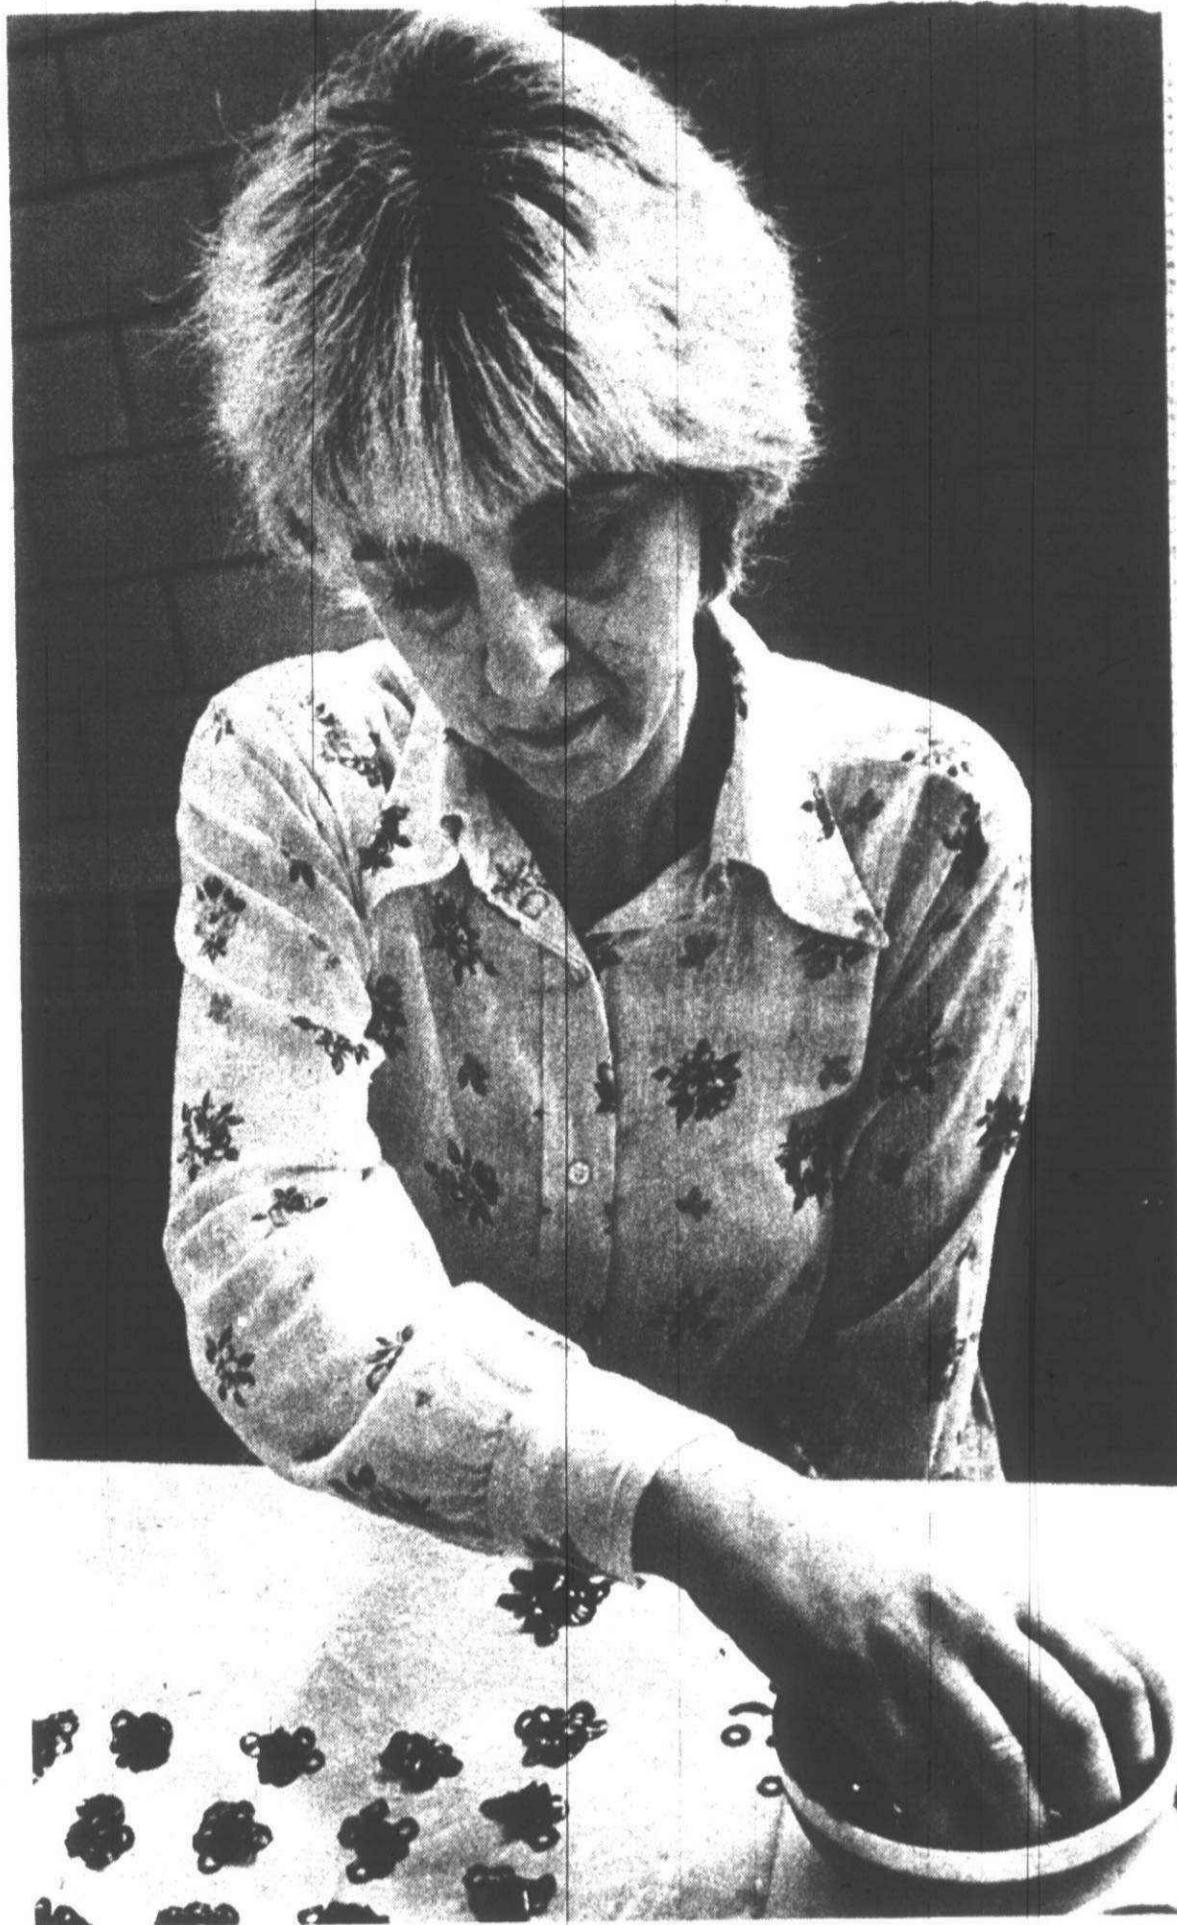

CLIENTS ARE allowed to work while hospitalized because the workshop falls under the U.S. Labor Department guidelines of a certified work activity center.

In charge of the mechanical and production ends of the shop is D.D. Briggs, who bears the title of work therapy shop foreman.

"Seven years ago I came to the hospital to set up the program," he said. "They hired me because I know the equipment and how to use it. We have three drill presses and seven buffing wheels, a fairly complete set of power woodworking tools and miscellaneous hand tools."

In Briggs' opinion, his present "workers" are no different from any others. "We have to be a little more patient and a little more thorough in our instruction," he said. "But once they get it, the response is as good or better than it would be in a normal person."

"Occasionally I have visits from those who left. One fellow was out of contact a couple of years and then wrote to indicate he was doing very well.

"The training he had here had helped him get a job and hold it. Others send greeting cards to let you know they think about you once in a while and appreciate what you did for them."

MRS. MINNIE SMITH, foreman, who has been at the workshop six of the 20 years she has worked at Northville, finds the work very satisfying.

"Here I can see accomplishment," she says. "I can see pride in the patient for having done a job and completed something. Most perform very well."

In for her third week in the shop, client Helene Konye expressed satisfaction with being able to work.

"It keeps me busy and this keeps the day from dragging," she says. "It's a fantastic program and a golden opportunity for patients who don't have families to send them money. It gives them some kind of identity. I wish it were bigger rather than smaller."

Stevenson grad takes third in AAU wrestling nationals

By TOM SCHRAM
Sports Editor

Wrestling, the sport as old as man, requires self-discipline, stamina and unbending desire perhaps more than any other.

But for 1975 Livonia Stevenson graduate Doug Stein, another factor to the success which led him to a third place at 192 pounds in the National AAU freestyle championship at Rock Island, Ill. earlier this month had nothing to do directly with the manly arts.

"I attribute my success in wrestling and everything in my life to Jesus Christ," said Stein.

Stein exhibits a softspoken, gentle attitude which belies the roughness of his sport. He was caught in a common weight class dilemma which stifled him to an extent in his senior year in high school.

"I wrestled at 185 pounds my first two years on the varsity but during the off-season following my junior year I shot up to 220 pounds. I just couldn't make it back to 185," he said.

Because of that, Stein wrestled his senior year in the heavyweight division and ended up with a fine 21-6 record.

But even he realized the disadvantage of being among the smallest wrestlers in his weight class.

"At heavyweight, there were some opponents who were simply too big for me to move," Stein said.

Stein worked out all spring with the Michigan Wrestling Club at Schoolcraft College and began wrestling in the 192 pound weight class every weekend this summer in AAU sponsored development tournaments, finishing first or second most of the time.

He then finished second in the state meet June 21, losing in the finals to Brian Brown of Troy, a wrestler he had beaten four times in development tournaments.

The second place qualified him for the tournament but he came up sick on the first day.

"It might have been the heat, but I was throwing up after every match," Stein said.

Despite that, Stein finished the day with a 3-1 record and advanced to the finals the next day. In that match, against the Illinois champion, Stein held a 6-4 lead after two periods.

But his stamina problems, caused by the illness which had driven his weight down to near the 180-pound mark, caught up with him in the final period and he lost 8-6.

"I think that if I had felt better I could have held on to win," he said. The loss dropped Stein to third place.

Another Stevenson product, Tom Canty, who will be a senior next year, finished eighth at 154 pounds.

STEIN'S RELIGIOUS leanings have caused him to enroll in Maranatha Baptist Bible College in Wisconsin. There he will continue his wrestling career while studying for the ministry.

"I'm not certain which area God has chosen for my life yet," Stein said.

With Him, anything, including an AAU championship, is possible.

By W.W. EDGAR

First impressions sometimes can be deceiving.

Take the case of Kirk Lewis, senior guard on the University of Michigan football team.

To the many thousands who jam Michigan Stadium on Saturday afternoons in the fall the big fellow with No. 74 on his jersey, is considered little more than the messenger who carries in the plays for Coach Bo Schembechler.

Little do they realize that this giant of a lad who is a product of Garden City West high school, is one of the top students on the squad and one carrying the heaviest scholastic load of any of the Wolverines.

His outstanding academic record came to light at the close of the 1974 season when he was named to the 1974 Academic All-America team.

Aside from the courage he shows on the football field as an offensive guard, he also had the courage to tackle an almost unbelievable academic schedule.

Lewis, who tips the scales at 240 pounds, is a student in Michigan's Inteflex Program, an accelerated six-year course and carries a 3.13 grade point average in the highly competitive medical program.

Along with playing football, Lewis also is active in Athletes in Action, Campus Crusade for Christ and the undergraduate "M" Club.

It is the Inteflex program that makes Lewis an unusual student athlete. This program is a 10-month a year, six year med program designed to equip a person with the requirements of the medical profession in about two thirds the time it usually takes. This program is so demanding that, to the ordinary student, there is little time for anything else.

To Lewis, the program was just what he hoped he could find. He had planned on pursuing a career in medicine when he was graduated from Garden City West high school. And this Inteflex Program came along in his freshman year.

The demands of Inteflex and football under Schembechler, put an extremely heavy burden on his shoulders. And Kirk freely admits that, thus far, he has been fortunate to be able to keep up the pace.

While Kirk is enjoying the heavy schedule and making a name for himself on the gridiron, he sees an interesting situation developing.

At the end of the coming season, which is his junior year of eligibility, he will be subject to the annual pro-football draft. It is almost certain that some team will claim his rights.

Kirk admits that he has thought about such a situation, but that he hesitates to consider pro football.

The possibility of completing medical school in six years impresses him more than the chance to play with the pros.

He has told intimates that he doesn't think the pro game is a secure profession with its threat of injury, salary hassles and the threat of being cut from the squad. So, chances are he'll turn his back to the pro game—and stick to medicine.

So, the next time you see the big fellow with No. 74 on his jersey running out on the field, remember that he is a most unusual athlete who is amazing the powers that be at Michigan with his academic ability.

He is one of the most intelligent messengers Coach Bo Schembechler may ever have.

Grid alumni plan for game

Football alumni from Plymouth High School will meet at Plymouth Salem High School tonight (Monday) to prepare plans for the upcoming Sept. 5 game versus Northville High School alumni.

Aging gridiron heroes and all other alumni who would like to be in on the planning, preparation and playing of the contest are invited to attend the meeting slated for 9 p.m. in Room 2212 of the high school.

Further information about the game, which will be played as part of the Plymouth Fall Festival, can be obtained from Plymouth resident Jim Elias.

KIRK LEWIS, The University of Michigan's 6-3, 220 pound offensive tackle, will be "delivering messages" for Wolverine mentor Bo Schembechler again this year.

In Livonia Berry League

DMIC clings to American race hopes

It wasn't easy, but DMIC stayed in the heat of the Livonia Berry League American League race last week with a pair of critical one-run victories.

That race became a real logjam as the Yankees lead the way with a record of 11-1, the Panthers follow at 9-2-1 and DMIC is hanging in there at 7-3.

It took an all-out effort Tuesday night when DMIC rallied from a 2-0 deficit in the seventh inning to tie things and won the game with a run in the eighth against Choo-Choo Car Wash.

Kevin Keeney started for DMIC but was relieved in the sixth when Choo-Choo tallied twice to break a scoreless tie.

In the seventh, Steve Seraff singled and, with two outs, Rob Marderian was hit by a pitch.

THE RUNNERS were going when the next batter, Ron Cross singled to deep left-center, and both scored on the hit, tying the game.

In the seventh, Steve McDermott and Jerry Sydlowski both singled, everyone was safe on Seraffa's grounder, and Kevin Schultz walked to force in the winning run.

DMIC — LUCKY LINDY'S

Lucky Lindy pitcher Duane Bobowski held DMIC to three hits Thursday, but DMIC made the most of every opportunity and prevailed by a 2-1 count.

Les Ocrum took the win for DMIC, scattering seven hits to up his season mark to 2-0.

DMIC scored single runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

Steve Seraffa walked and scored on Bill Burgess' triple to left-center in the fourth. In the fifth, Steve Dinsmore tripped and scored on an errant pick-off attempt. DMIC's only other hit was Ron Cross's first inning single.

Lucky Lindy's scored in the fifth on a walk, a fielder's choice a passed ball, and a DMIC error. But Lucky Lindy's luck ran out in the seventh when Gary Condon was thrown out at the plate on a perfect strike from center fielder Bob Thibault to catcher Steve McDermott.

Bob Miller started things for the Panthers in the second when he doubled. A.J. Baker then walked, and both runners moved up on a passed ball. Brian Macek's sacrifice fly scored one run, and another came in on a Choo-choo error.

The Panthers added a cheap run in the fourth when Bob Miller walked, took second on a passed ball, went to third on a sacrifice and scored on an error.

Miller tripled in the sixth to score Mark Ward who had singled, and Hiller came home on Brian Macek's hit to put the Panthers up by a run.

But Choo-Choo put a man on third with none out in the seventh before winner Craig Barrowcliff bore down to retire the side.

APPLIANCE — THURSTON

Thurston ran its consecutive winning streak to four and upped its record to 6-5 Tuesday when it rallied to nip Adray Appliance, 5-4.

Brian D'Ascenzo initiated the action for Thurston in the second when he singled, went to third on a throwing error and scored on a passed ball.

Appliance surged ahead in the fifth, scoring three times on Joe Rucinski's single, a Thurston error, a two-run double by Ted Ackerman and an RBI single by George Willard.

Thurston tied the game in the sixth when Mark Purkiss and Tony Zygiel hit back-to-back singles, but Appliance took the lead again in the seventh when Ted Ackerman scored on an error off the bat of George Willard.

Thurston ended the back and forth affair in the seventh when Dennis Kusichel singled, Appliance committed two errors, Randy Rodriguez walked to force in one, and Brian D'Ascenzo hit a sacrifice fly to right.

Kusichel was in full flight following the short fly ball but the Appliance throw was off the mark and the gamble proved successful.

PANTHERS — CHOO-CHOO

The Panthers rallied for a pair of runs in the sixth and then held off a final-inning Choo-Choo Car Wash bid to up its record to 9-2-1 Thursday.

THURSTON — MNB

John Kolis pitched and hit Michigan

National Bank to an extra-inning 6-5 victory over Thurston Thursday.

The victory ended a four-game Thurston winning streak and advanced Michigan National Bank's record to 13-1-1. MNB has already clinched its divisional title.

MNB scored three times in the top of the first when Jim Snyder rapped an RBI single and two more scored on a Thurston error.

Thurston got to MNB starter John Messal for a pair of runs in the opening inning on three walks and an error off the bat of Tony Ziegel.

Thurston took the lead in the third when Messal walked two and Zeigel, Brian Shalinian, and Dave Beebe each hit RBI singles.

Snyder's wins 3, loses ground

Snyder's Softball Club of Redford broke out of its slump with a vengeance last week, winning three out of four games, but still fell a game farther behind Little Caesars in the West Division of the Major Metro Travel League.

Little Caesars won four out of four last week to extend its lead over Snyder's to two full games. But Jim Snyder's club, which has been flat lately, may have woken up at just the right time because the team has a critical doubleheader to play against Caesars next Wednesday. The games will be played on a neutral field at East Detroit Memorial Park, starting at 8:30 p.m. Snyder's needs 'em both to climb back into the lead.

After splitting a pair against Q & Q Printing of Roseville, winning the nightcap, 31-10, after dropping a tough 12-9 decision in the opener, Snyder's staged a home-run barrage to demolish Mickey's of Oak Park twice. The scores were 27-15 and 31-9.

This third-baseman Doug Gerdes, the league's home-run champion last season, set his sights on another title, belting three homers in the second game against Q & Q (to go along with five RBIs), then slammed six more in the sweep of Mickey's, batting in 12 runs in those two games. Gerdes now has 40 home runs for the season, but he still trails teammate Jim Mitchell who blasted six during the week to push his total to 44.

Snyder's also meets PUSH of Detroit next week before its showdown match against Little Caesars.

Auto tips

Stop wasting oil in engine

By PATRICK KELLY

Is your car smoking? Do you add a quart of oil every time you gas up?

Chances are you have an oil buzzer because under normal driving conditions, you shouldn't have to add a quart until you have driven at least 800 miles.

Here are some tips on what to do about your oil hog:

Make a thorough inspection for external leaks if you suspect your engine is using an excessive amount of oil. Try spreading newspapers under the car. Then start the engine, allowing the oil to warm. Shut it off and watch for oil leaks and drippings on the paper.

Keep the engine clean. This helps you to pinpoint oil leakage. Dirt, grime and gunk generally accumulate around the oil-pan gasket or the fuel-pump mounting gasket, and if these places are not kept clean, it's difficult to detect any oil leaks.

Inspect front and rear and both sides of the engine for wet, oily spots, paying particular attention to the rocker-arm cover, timing-chain cover and lower crank-case gaskets.

- Replace the gaskets around the valve covers atop V-8 engines. Just tightening the covers when you see oil leaking from this location may not be enough because the covers have a tendency to buckle when overtightened.

- Tighten the oil pan cap screws. Normal vibration can work these screws loose. Have them checked the next time your car is on the rack for an oil change.

Check for leakage around the oil filter. Sometimes these filters are not replaced properly and the gasket does not seat correctly.

- Check the automatic choke. A lot of oil goes up in smoke because the engine may be over-choked, causing raw gasoline to get into the crankcase and dilute the oil.

- Short, cold runs around town also cause considerable crankcase dilution. So don't be surprised when you find yourself adding a quart or two after only 100 miles or so of open-road driving. The heat of the high-speed driving burns off the dilution from the considerable town driving.

- Excessive speed also uses oil. Your engine uses four times as much oil at 60 and 70 miles an hour as it does at 30.

- A new engine or one with new rings requires sufficient running to wear in the rings and provide proper sealing against the cylinder walls. It is during this wear-in period that a higher-than-average oil consumption is to be expected.

- Make sure the oil-return holes in the pistons are not clogged so the oil can get back into the crankcase. Detergent oil will help keep these drains open.

Champion Gary Jones winning third consecutive title.

Bombardier adds dealer

FDR Cycle & Sport, Inc., 41900 Ford Road, Plymouth, has been appointed a dealer for Can-Am motorcycles made by Bombardier Limited of Canada, world's largest snowmobile manufacturer with its Ski-Doo and Moto-Ski brands.

Bombardier introduced Can-Am motorcycles in 1973 and received outstanding ratings in independent testing by all major motorcycle magazines. Current Can-Am models are 125cc, 175cc, and 250cc versions in both MX-2 (motocross) and T'NT (enduro) classifications.

Can-Ams have already proven their mettle in top racing competition. In 1974, Can-Am scored an unprecedented sweep of the AMA 250cc National Motocross Championship series, with national champion Gary Jones riding his Can-Am 250cc MX motorcycle to his third consecutive crown.

At the 1974 International Six Days Trial—the Olympics of motorcycling held in Camerino, Italy last year—four-time Gold Medal winner Bill Uhl won a Gold Medal aboard a Can-Am 175cc T'NT, repeating the feat turned in at the 1973 ISDT by Bob Fisher. Can-Am's production liaison manager.

This year, Can-Am's Jimmy Ellis swept the Superseries of Motocross with successive wins at Dallas, Daytona Beach, and Houston for an overall series victory with a perfect 450 points.

The new Can-Am MX-2 series is designed for use in motocross, scrambles and other off-road racing events. The Can-Am T'NT series combines the off-road performance with street-legal features. It is a versatile, dual-purpose motorcycle, equally at home on or off the highway.
