Residents asked to give ideas on school cuts

By EMORY DANIELS

Two special meetings have been scheduled to allow residents and other interested persons an opportunity to make suggestions on how Plymouth Community School District can trim expenditures to balance its operating budget.

The budget review sessions will be Oct. 7 in West Middle School, and Oct. 9 in East Middle School. Both meetings will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Administrators and some board members will be present to supply information, receive suggestions, and make responses. Anyone with ideas can contact the Plymouth Board of Education office before the sessions and administrators will research the cost figures involved.

THE PUBLIC input sessions are part of a timetable by which the school district hopes to hold its formal budget hearing Oct. 20 and adopt the budget at its Oct. 27 meeting.

The school board held another workshop meeting on the budget Monday night to consider alternative cuts and to learn about new revenues generated from state aid because the final official headcount came in higher than anticipated.

On Tuesday, an analysis of the budget, including proposed cuts the board is studying, was sent to all school buildings for principals, teachers and staff members to study.

The administration and board hopes, through this process, that all district employes will study the alternatives and make other suggestions for balancing the budget.

GOOD NEWS heard by the board Monday night was twofold—that revenues were up slightly because of more state aid, and that expenses were down because the slowdown of inflation has resulted in a lower cost of living allowance (COLA) for teachers.

When the district took its official headcount on the fourth Friday of September, total enrollment was at 13,400 students. The projection had been 13,300 students.

The extra hundred students raises the state aid per student from $144 to $151 and generates an additional income of $111,557. Total general state aid—excluding categorial aid—now stands at $2 million.

Ray Hoedell, assistant superintendent for business, reports the district originally budgeted for a nine per cent increase in COLA for teachers, but the actual increase was about 7.8 per cent. This item alone reduced expenses in the budget by some $100,000.

COLA, by contract, is to be paid based on the rise in the Detroit metropolitan area consumer price index from June, 1974, to June, 1975.

Information on the price index and its impact on COLA in the budget hadn't been available when the board held a budget workshop two weeks ago.

THE BAD NEWS received Monday was that the governor's office is planning another executive order to reduce state aid. This is expected to result in an income loss to Plymouth of about $50,000.

Hoedell advised the board that the $50,000 loss of income to come should be taken into account while making decisions on budget reductions.

The budgeting process began when the board approved a "first-draft" budget for the Wayne County Tax Allocation Board last April.

The allocation budget had a fund imbalance of $575,000 which the adminis-

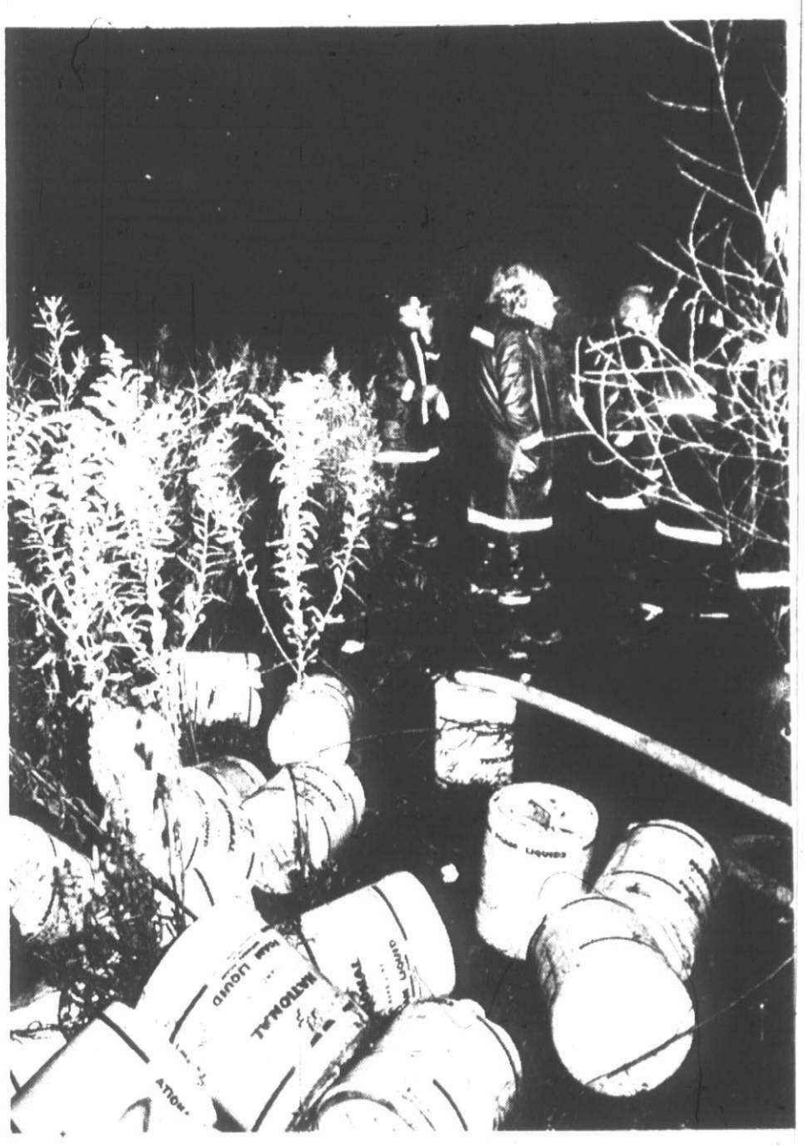
Heavy equipment, railroad crews, and Canton Township officials worked well into the night Friday to clear derailed railroad cars. The big fear was that moving the cars might cause a spark which could ignite the pools of gasoline in the immediate area. (Staff photos by Bob Woodring).



Gallons of liquid foam were brought to the site to deflamanate the 71,000 gallons of gasoline that had burst forth from a ruptured petroleum line when struck by a derailed train car.

How to receive reimbursement from railroad

Life is back to normal for residents of Canton Township's Stonybrook apartment complex, who were forced to evacuate their homes last Friday when a derailed train car struck and ruptured a gasoline pipeline.

Memories, stacks of hotel and restaurant bills and still-blockaded Haggerty and Koppernick roads are the only reminders of Friday's event for the 496 apartment families, who were scurried from their homes when highly flammable fumes endangered the apartments.

ALTHOUGH railroad officials cannot compensate for the inconvenience and fear of the day, they will not leave apartment residents with costly food and lodging bills for Friday night and Saturday morning.

Alvin R. Carpenter, superintendent of operations for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Co., said apartment residents may send their bills to C & O Railroad, 1 Northland Plaza, Southfield, Mich.

Railroad officials will examine each bill individually, Carpenter said, and honor all legitimate claims. Apartment residents will receive reimbursement for their bills "as quickly as possible."

Carpenter said railroad officials are meeting with representatives of Buckeye Pipeline Co. to determine liability for the event. Buckeye owns the ruptured pipeline, buried four feet deep, which carries gasoline from Ohio to Bay City, Flint and Saginaw.

"Our legal people will deal with Buckeye for liability," Carpenter said, "but we will not leave the individual with valid bills. Those bills will be paid. We will not leave the individual hanging, while we fight a three-year battle."

APARTMENT residents, who were forced to spend Friday night with families, in Red Cross accommodations or in rented hotel rooms, were not the only persons inconvenienced by Friday's derailment.

Motorists, who travel on I-275 between Ford and Ann Arbor Road, were greeted with blockades until Tuesday morning because of gasoline spills. Canton Fire Chief Mel Paulun expects blockades, closing Haggerty between Joy and Warren and Koppernick between Haggerty and Holly, to remain up throughout the week.

"I hope a week takes care of it," Paulun said of gasoline, lying in crevices and chuckholes along the roads. "There'll just have to be a lot of rain or evaporation."

Paulun said officials have hiked earlier estimates, pegging gasoline spillage at 42,000 gallons, above the 71,000-gallon mark.

Suction pumps, under the watchful eye of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, have absorbed about half the spilled gasoline, Paulun said. The remainder soaked into the ground or became trapped by chuckholes.

Friday's chain of events began when seven cars of a 70-car freight train jumped the railroad tracks southeast of the Joy and Haggerty intersection. One of the cars crashed to the ground and ruptured the gasoline pipeline.

A northwest wind carried the flammable fumes toward the apartment complex and forced the evacuation of residents as a precautionary measure until Saturday morning.

Canton plants 1st bicentennial tree

The first of 1,776 trees were planted in Canton Township last weekend as township officials, residents and members of the Canton Bicentennial Commission staged a tree-planting ceremony in front of township offices.

The 10-foot American tulip poplar, bought by members of the Northwest Canton Homeowner's Association, kicks off the bicentennial commission's 1,776 tree-planting program, expected to end July, 4, 1976, with planting of the 1,776th tree.

THE TULIP TREE, planted in front of township offices in clear view of Geddes Road motorists, was selected to commemorate the Declaration of Independence, according to John Cojei, co-chairperson of the Canton Bicentennial Commission.

The tulip tree, Cojei explained, is mentioned in the war-time diary of George Washington, who had received a correspondence about the tree's welfare from home. The 200-year-old tree still shades the Carriage Drive to Mount Vernon.

Canton's new tulip tree may receive a bronze plaque imbedded in granite, according to hopes of Joseph DeLauro, co-chairperson of the Canton Bicentennial Commission, to mark the township's 1976 bicentennial celebration.

DONATIONS and pledges in support of the township's 1,776 tree-planting project total $1,500, according to Cojei. Several persons have volunteered to plant the trees.

The tree-planting program is divided in two portions.

Monetary donations are earmarked to buy trees for township property or the rights-of-way of highways. Donation checks, made out to the Canton Township Bicentennial Commission, should be sent to township offices, 44508 Geddes.

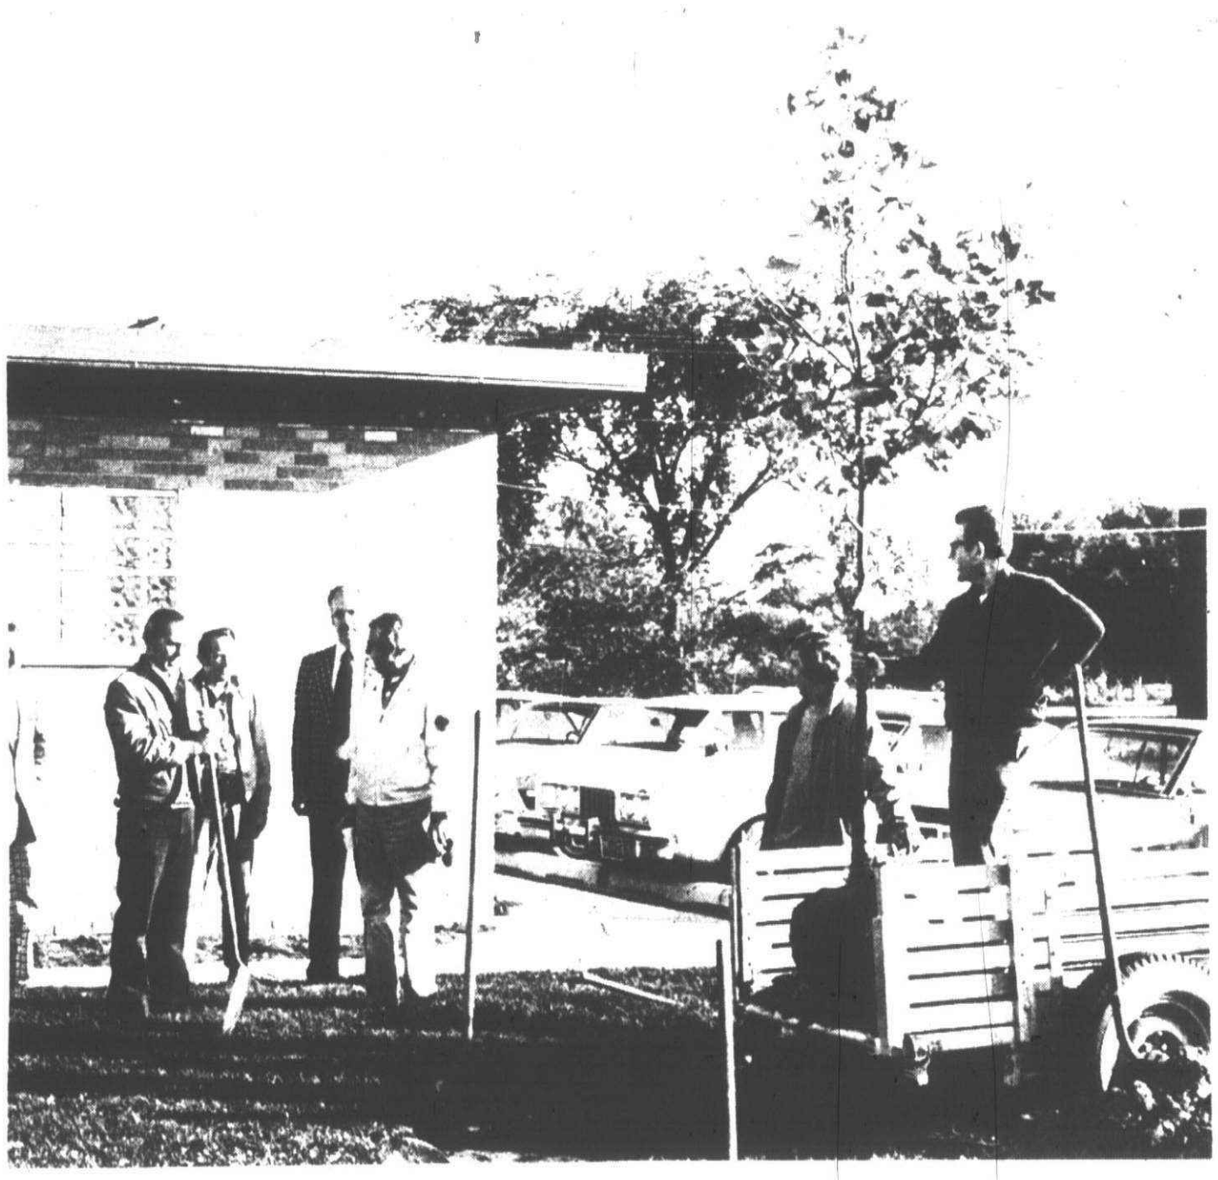
Residents may plant their own trees in front of their homes or on the county rights-of-way, provided the trees are planted in clear view of the public. The plantings must adhere to the township's tree ordinance.

Bicentennial commission members are trying to obtain special bulk rates for the trees.

"But we're only going to serve in an advisory capacity," stressed Cojei. "We're not in the business of selling trees. We just want to encourage individuals to plant trees."

Bicentennial commission members will record all trees, planted under the program's guidelines, in a special bicentennial ledger.

For further information about the tree-planting program, persons should contact Cojei at 51215 Hanford, Canton Township. Commission members need money as well as laborers, typists and artists to carry out their bicentennial plans.



Volunteers living in and working for Canton Township were on hand Saturday to plant the first bicenntennial tree at township hall. After digging the hole, workers stop to discuss the next step.

Bowles is retiring as Circuit judge

Judge George E. Bowles will retire at the end of 1975, a full year before his term on the Wayne County Circuit Court bench is due to expire.

The Plymouth resident, who has been responsible for many landmark decisions in his 19 years as a jurist, will probably set up a private practice in the city where he has resided since 1943 rather than join a major law firm.

He also wants to return to the field of labor mediation and arbitration, where he worked for many years before being appointed to the Circuit Court bench.

appointment, he held many important labor posts, including the chairmanship of the Michigan Labor Mediation Board.

As a judge, he drew many major cases, the most famous perhaps being the trials resulting from the one-man grand juries of judges Bohn and Piggins.

Others involved part of the Crestwood teachers case, the implied consent law in motor vehicle cases, medical malpractice, free speech on the Wayne State University campus, Detroit's ordinances against smoke and block-busting.

JUDGE GEORGE E. BOWLES

And he said he and his wife Catherine, a Plymouth teacher, want time to visit their three grown children—Franklin, a San Francisco art dealer; Gloria Lee, an instructor in comparative literature on the Berkeley campus of the University of California; and Stephen, assistant professor of computer sciences at Victoria University in New Zealand.

Bowles, at 60, is eligible for a pension of about $20,000 a year.

GOV. MILLIKEN will be able to appoint a successor for the remainder of Bowles' six-year term, and State Sen. Carl Pursell, one of the few Republican legislators from Wayne County, will probably have a good pipeline to Milliken.

One prospect is Livonia attorney Patrick Duggan.

Bowles was appointed by Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who in 1957 named four new circuit judges on the same day—Bowles, Victor Baum, Horace Gilmore and Joseph Rashid.

Bowles succeeded Arthur Webster, who retired at the age of 84. Bowles was elected in his own right in 1957, '59 and '66.

"I don't want to be bogged down with a schedule," said Bowles, who will decline to represent either labor or management, but will be available for arbitration.

He pointed to "a need for investiveness and imagination in the development and use of speedy, inexpensive methods of dispute settlement outside the courtroom."

BOWLES STARTED his career with the National Labor Relations Board in Milwaukee in 1942 and came to the Detroit area in 1943. Before his judicial

Homeowners ask expansion of ban on hunting in Canton

The "no-hunting" spirit has infected some residents of western Canton Township who, like their Plymouth Township neighbors, are seeking an expansion of the area's hunting ban.

A stance of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and fears of Canton Supervisor Robert Greenstein, however, may frustrate township residents' efforts to ban the buckshot and guns.

EDWARD LOUGH, 48485 Gyde, recently appeared before the Canton Board of Trustees to learn the fate of an anti-hunting petition, submitted to township officials several months ago.

Lough and 70 other residents living in Section Five, between Joy and Warren and Beck and Ridge, are asking township officials to close the area to hunting.

Hunting is currently prohibited on township land east of Canton Center; on land south of Joy, north of Warren, west of Canton Center and east of Beck; and on land between Napier and Ridge and north of Warren.

Although Lough's petition contains signatures of nearly all Section Five residents, the petition does not contain the names of landowners who do not live in the township. Canton Clerk John Flodin said those signatures account for 138 of Section Five's 640 acres.

Greenstein, who lives in Section Five, said Lough would have to obtain additional signatures of landowners before township officials could act on the issue.

CLOSING THE AREA to hunting, the supervisor fears, could interfere with the area's zoning and large residential lots which span an acre or more.

"I have to warn you," Greenstein told Lough. "We can continue to be rural or give that up by passing a no-hunting law. Some builder would go to court and say, 'You've closed hunting. You're no longer rural, and you're going to have 60-foot lots next door.

"I'm sympathetic to your problem. But if I thought closing that area to hunting would interfere with the zoning, I'd fight you in a minute. Please inform your neighbors of the danger."

Lough said hunters caused damage to his property last year.

"I called the State Police and told them I'll shoot back. Of course, I won't aim at anyone. I just feel if hunters hear another shot, maybe they'll stop. We're not rural like we used to be."

RESIDENTS OF neighboring Plymouth Township, who live west of Beck, have staged a similar anti-hunting battle since last spring. Their efforts to extend the township's current no-hunting ordinance from Beck to Napier so far have met little success.

A three-person panel, composed of a DNR representative, a township official and a representative of the Michigan State Police, have instead recommended limiting the size shot hunters may use. The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees is expected to act on the recommendation sometime this month.

"It's usually difficult to close areas that are generally rural," Flodin said. "It really isn't sufficient to just say we don't want hunting. There has to be more of a basis."

Bruce Andrews, conservation law executive of the DNR's Law Enforcement Division, said hunting is usually banned only in densely populated areas.

Raab to be guest conductor for Symphony debut Oct. 12

The music of Robert Ward, Randall Thompson, Berlioz and Ravel will burst forth from the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra Oct. 12 and kick off the symphony's 30th anniversary year.

The symphony, under the direction of guest conductor Emil Raab, will begin its 30th season Sunday, Oct. 12, at 4 p.m. in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium.

THE CONCERT will feature mezzo-soprano Leslie Eitzen, who will perform Berlioz's "Les Nuits d'Ete," and American works to celebrate the country's bicentennial year.

Raab, professor of music and director or orchestral activities at Bowling Green State University in Ohio, will take the place of Plymouth Symphony Conductor Wayne Dunlap, who is convalescing from a heart attack he suffered Aug. 10.

The concert will feature Robert Ward's "Jubilation Overture," Randall Thompson's "Symphony No. 2 in E Minor," Hector Berlioz's "Les Nuits d'Ete," and Maurice Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe, Suite No. 2."

"Jubilation Overture" was composed in November, 1944, during the World War II campaigns of Leyte and Okinawa.

Ward, who served as leader of the Seventh Infantry Band during World War II and president of the American Composers Alliance in 1955, called the work a reflection of "the optimistic feeling we all had about the imminent end of the war and the subsequent return to civilian life."

THOMPSON'S second symphony, composed during 1930 and 1931, is one of the American composer's best-known works. The work consists of four contrasting movements which convey a sense of balance and completeness.

Thompson, a New York City native who taught at numerous American universities including Princeton, Harvard and the Universities of California and Virginia, said the work "is primarily melodious and objective, like the symphonies of the 18th century."

"Les Nuits d'Ete" (Summer Nights) is a six-song cycle, written by Berlioz in 1833 and 1834. The songs were scored for orchestra in 1856 and set to poem by the French poet Theophile Gautler.

Leslie Eitzen, a faculty member at Grand Valley State College in Grand Rapids, will sing Berlioz's song cycle on the Plymouth Salem stage.

Mrs. Eitzen, who holds degrees from the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia and the University of Iowa, has served on the faculty at Schoolcraft College and the University of Michigan. Mrs. Eitzen has performed "Noah's Flood" with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra and other works with the Michigan Opera Association.

The second suite from Ravel's ballet "Daphnis and Chloe" will provide the finale of the Plymouth Symphony's Oct. 12 performance. Commissioned by the Diaghilev Ballet Russe in 1910, the work revolves around a pastoral theme.

RAAB, who directed the Plymouth Symphony during its 1953-54 season when Dunlap was in Vienna on a Fulbright Scholarship, will return to the Plymouth Symphony for its Oct. 12 performance at Dunlap's request.

A graduate of the University of Michigan, Raab served as a member of the U-M music faculty and Stanley Quartet for eight years and conductor of the Ann Arbor and Jackson symphony orchestras.

Raab is affiliated with the Brevard Music Center in North Carolina, where he serves as concertmaster of the Brevard Music Center Orchestra, head of the stringed instrument division and conductor of the Transylvania Symphony Orchestra.

Emil Raab will stand on the conductor's podium Oct. 12 for the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's first concert of the 1975-76 season.

Plymouth Symphony Society members expect Dunlap's return to the conductor's podium later in the season.

Tickets for the Oct. 12 concert are priced at $3.50 at the door. Senior citizen tickets are half-price, and students will be admitted free.

Local Girl Scout troops will provide free babysitting services for children 3 to 5-years-old. Plymouth Symphony League members will serve coffee at intermission.

Budget reviews

tration knew could be pared down as more information became available.

Supt. John M. Hoben stressed Monday that the district isn't faced with a budget deficit but is trying to eliminate a fund imbalance. "There can be no deficit until the final budget is approved, and we won't budget a deficit. Right now we are faced with a fund imbalance and the present budgeting process is aimed at getting revenues to match expenditures."

That process of seeking a "fund balance" continued from April to a special budget workshop by the board July 18 when expenses exceeded income by $315,000.

More information affecting revenue became available, and additional steps were taken to trim the expense side of the ledger.

By Monday's meeting, if all recommendations by the administration at the Sept. 15 budget session are adopted, the budget would be in the black by $39,000.

A HANGUP at this point, though, is the board's relunctance to layoff any custodians.

Hoedell prepared an alternative proposed budget which didn't include any custodial layoffs for the board to consider. This alternative would result in expenses being $51,000 in excess of income.

That would mean the board must find another $51,000 in cuts to balance the budget. One alternative is not to lay off any custodians now working, and not to fill any of the custodian positions now vacant.

About five to six custodian positions are now vacant, explains Hoedell, and if they were left unfilled, the budget would be pretty close to balancing without layoffs.

This balance, however, would not provide for the expected loss in state aid to occur in about two to three months, Hoedell adds.

HOEDELL IS recommending that the budget also include a one per cent contingency allowance of $170,000.

If the board were to provide a contingency of one per cent and cut expenses now for the expected $50,000 loss in state funding, the "layoff" alternate budget would require a total of $181,000 in further reductions to balance. The "no layoff" alternate would require reductions totalling $271,000 to balance.

BECAUSE SOME trustees spoke strongly of the need for a contingency, and news of the impending additional cut in state funding, eight additional suggestions for cuts were presented Monday night, with one being immediately rejected.

THE SEVEN additional suggestions being studied are:

Eliminating new hockey and intramural programs for this year, saving $36,000; using librarians and reading teachers in the classroom to reduce the additional number of new teachers to be hired and to maintain teacher-student ratio, saving $70,000;

Reducing inservice training by 50 per cent in the budgets of each school building, producing a $7,000 savings; reducing high school substitute teacher use by sending students to resource centers when a regular teacher is sick for just a couple days, saving $15,000;

Reducing the Curriculum Coordinating Council budget by $1,000; using administrators at the individual buildings and central office as substitute teachers, with a possible savings of $5,800; and, reducing field trips by 50 per cent for a savings of $7,500.

Hoben said the use of administrators at all levels as substitutes could be a positive program, as well as an expense cutting move. Hoben sees it as a chance for administrators to better understand the problems, challenges and achievements of classroom teachers.

ANOTHER PROPOSED cut made two weeks ago which meets continued resistance from some board members is reducing teaching supplies by $4 per child to cut expenses by $52,000.

Marcia Borowski, board vice-president, stressed Monday night she was opposed to this recommendation as being unjust to elementary pupils and asked for a straight percentage cut across-the-board.

Among the major cuts proposed two weeks ago were: reduction in hours of custodial staff equivalent to 13 positions including present vacancies, $90,000 savings; library budgets reduced by $29,000; capital outlay cut by $100,000; replacement of equipment reduced by $84,000; special education reduced to include 20 new positions instead of 28, $94,000; bus replacement cost reduced (by shifting expense to next fiscal year) by $88,000; earlier staff additions planned on being reduced to save $48,000; delay replacement of assistant superintendent for instruction until next fiscal year, $30,000.

THE LATEST figures show that total state funding expected this year is $255,880 (8.4 per cent) less than received in 1974-75.

The largest decrease is the state formula funding which went from $197 per student in '74-75 to $151 this year.

The executive order already in effect will result in the district losing $95,478 in state funds it would have received without the state cut.

HOEDELL STRESSES that a major problem in school budgeting is knowing how to budget for inflation.

He quoted an article which claimed that since 1974, workbooks are up in price by as much as 100 per cent, textbooks are up by 12 per cent, periodicals are up 30-40 per cent, audio visual equipment and repairs up by 38 per cent, buses are up 30 per cent, and gasoline prices up as much as 126 per cent—from 15 to 34 cents per gallon.

"When you budget based on past experience, and add a little for inflation, and prices really skyrocket, what do you do then? It makes me nervous, and I'm more than a little concerned now about inflation."

Pool separated from W-W bond issue

By MARILYN FITCHETT

Wayne-Westland Board of Education, sharply divided on the renovation of the central administration building, Monday offered tentative approval of a two-part bond issue proposal.

The issue, to be presented to voters Dec. 1, is a 27½ per cent reduction of the original $28 million bond issue voters rejected in June. It will be offered to the board for final approval on Oct. 13.

It calls for $20,530,000 bonding for general maintenance, an addition to the central administration building, a vocational education facility at John Glenn, special education improvements and renovation of Lincoln and Jefferson elementary schools.

The second proposal will be a $5 million bond request for swimming pools at the junior high schools.

WHILE THE BOARD gave a go-ahead to the two-part issue, Trustee Gerard McGrath requested Supt. Timothy Dyer see if a three-part issue, including a separate proposal for a new central administration building, could be included on the Dec. 1 ballot.

Board members expressed an unwillingness to extend the election beyond Dec. 1 for fear city tax bills due Dec. 3 and 4 would encourage "no" votes on the bond issue proposal.

One audience member argued that since the district was willing to pour $1.6 million into the present administration for repairs and an addition, the district should settle for a new but smaller central administration building. He was answered by McGrath, who cautioned that delaying the vote would result in defeat of the bond issue.

"We're caught on the horns of a dilemma," McGrath said. "We need the $28.2 million as much today as we did back in June, but we have the people in the community telling us what to do.

"If we go back with a $28 million proposal, we wouldn't be able to go back until Dec. 10. We have to make substantial changes to get our proposal on the Dec. 1 ballot.

Tax bills are due about Dec. 3 and homeowners are going to be faced with a four to six per cent increase because state equalized valuation has gone up four to six per cent.

"If we'd put it on the Dec. 10 ballot, we'd lose by 50 per cent more that we'd lose by today.

"We all agree that putting $1.6 million into this building is kind of foolish.

"But when you have voters against something like the new administration building, they would have voted no even if we had fed them beer and sandwiches at the polls.

"The majority of the board thinks Dec. 1 is an important day to try.

"Each board member has made comments that we're capitulating and going against the grain by taking things out of the proposal. But we feel we're doing the best to take detractors from the original proposal."

COST OF A NEW administration building was placed at $2.2 million, causing Trustee Vince Petitpren to question the renovation of the present building.

"It's not common sense to make improvements on a building that's going to decrease in value instead of building one which is going to increase in value," Petitpren said.

"No matter what the flak is, we should be voting so that in 50 years, the people have a modern building and not a building that is going to have to be torn down in 20 years."

"If the people only could see the common sense of building a new facility, they'd vote for it."

AN INFORMAL POLLING of the board showed Petitpren, William White and Fred Warmbier against renovating the present structure.

But their objections were answered by Dyer who quoted architects who said the building would be structurally strong after the renovation.

"We can do what we want to do in this building for the next 15-20 years," Dyer said.

"We can't fly with our feelings of what we want.

"I urge you not to alter the plan any longer. We have a liveable and workable solution before us. Let's face the facts. The people have spoken. A new administration building just won't fly."

TRUSTEE AGNES GREENE concurred, adding that the general public does not see the problems of the present building.

"When the people come here, they see seven beautiful people," she said, referring to the board. "They never see the overcrowded conditions caused by the amount of personnel it takes to run a $33 million budget.

"They'll be so delighted to see we've given up something, they might vote for everything."

Howmet guard to get tests at forensic center

Charles W. Smith of Farmiongton, accused of the murder of a plant foreman at the Howmet plant, 41605 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth Township, Sept. 19, has been ordered to undergo mental tests at the Forensic Center in Ann Arbor.

Smith, who is charged with first degree murder, appeared Monday before 34th District Judge Dunbar Davis. The judge accepted the recommendation of Smith's attorney, Edward Wishnow, that Smith undergo tests to determine if he is "mentally competent" to stand trial.

Smith is charged with shooting Walter A. Warbrouck, 44, of Brighton following an argument in the Howmet plant.

Witnesses told sheriff deputies Smith apparently blamed Warbrouck for losing his job at Howmet. Smith was employed by Bonded Security Service Inc. and was assigned to the Plymouth Township plant.

Police say Smith had been ill for two days before to the incident and didn't learn he had been removed as a guard at Howmet until he called his employer Thursday morning.

Warbrouck was shot in the upper left side and died almost instantly, police said. Witnesses told sheriff deputies, Smith pulled a 367 Magnum six shot as he followed Warbrouck down a hall inside the plant.

A supervisor reportedly grabbed Smith's arm, shoving it upward. The gun went off, hitting the ceiling. When the supervisor ran for help, Smith is reported to have aimed at Warbrouck and shot him.

Smith, a resident of Farmington for 10 years, has been held without bond in the Wayne County Jail.

Plymouth, Canton fire stations ready for special open houses

Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 5-11, will be observed again this year with open houses at the City of Plymouth, and Canton and Plymouth township fire departments.

Each year, fire departments across the nation join in making a special effort to increase everyone's awareness of fire safety and fire prevention.

PLYMOUTH Fire Chief George Schoenneman said his department will hold open house all week and will feature a display of firefighting equipment, distribution of fire prevention literature including a phamphlet on instructions for baby sitters.

"We will have free coloring books for the children as well as plastic fire hats," the chief said.

During the week, Plymouth firefighters will appear at various elementary schools in the city, giving talks to children in kindergarten through the third grade.

"Tot finder stickers, for use in childrens' bedrooms, will be distributed too," Schoenneman added.

IN CANTON, Fire Chief Mel Paulun said he will have plastic fire hats for children visiting the station at Canton Center and Cherry Hill Roads.

"Fire prevention material will be available, and our men will be ready to explain the various pieces of firefighting equipment," Paulun said.

Plymouth Township Fire Chief James Gignac, said his department's trucks, including the snorkle, will be on display.

"We will have open house all week with firemen on hand to answer questions and show visitors around the two fire stations, one on Schoolcraft, and the headquarters on Ann Arbor road," Gignac stated.

FIRE PREVENTION Week was originated in 1911 as Fire Prevention Day by the Fire Marshals Association of North America.

On recommendation of a committee of the National Fire Protection Association, it was extended to a week in 1922.

The Great Chicago Fire of 1871, is actually the key to Fire Prevention Week. It is the only major conflagration whose anniversary is marked by an internatonal observence, which is also observed in Canada.

Fire Prevention Week is always on the Sunday through Saturday period in which Oct. 9 falls, the date of the Chicago disaster. That fire killed 250 persons and destroyed 17,430 buildings, at a cost of $168 million.

The National Fire Protection Association reports that the average daily property loss from fire in the United States includes 1,609 homes, 378 apartment buildings, 66 school and college buildings, 11 churches, 208 stores and offices, 53 restaurants, 111 industrial plants, and buildings on 70 farms.

Dwelling fires, the association says, claims some 6,000 lives each year in the United States and Canada.

"Learn Not to Burn," the theme of this year's Fire Prevention Week, offers a time when fire prevention officials, teachers, and parents can make a spcial effort to increase everyone's awareness of fire safety, the fire chiefs stated.

"It is hoped this week will stress and call to mind the dangers of fire and how to help prevent it," Schoenneman said.

Profiles in government

Barr always attracted to politics

An Observer & Eccentric series profiling western Wayne County commissioners continues this week with a story on John Barr, a Democrat whose district includes part of Westland. Barr is vice chairman of the board of commissioners. Past issues have presented interviews with Tom Taylor and Mary Dumas; coming editions will include profiles of Royce Smith and Richard Manning. All stories in the series were written by Martha Mahan.

Ever since he was a schoolboy, Wayne County Commissioner John Barr has been attracted by politics.

He was class president, student council president and president of various clubs.

"I guess I always gravitated in that direction," he said.

Barr wasn't always so successful. He lost races for state representative and the Dearborn Heights City Council.

He presently is Democratic candidate for mayor of Dearborn Heights.

The 21st District which he represents on the board of commissioners includes part of Westland.

BEFORE BECOMING a commissioner, Barr took part in a multitude of civic activities which led him, in part, to seek the county post.

"I saw the board as an opportunity to do professionally the same sort of thing I had been doing casually—being involved in the problems of the community.

"It was a more organized way to be of service. It could be a more effective way, with the prestige of elected office opening more doors."

IN ADDITION to his civic interests, Barr has taken his place on several powerful governmental groups.

He is a board member of the People Community Hospital Authority, an executive board member of the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), vice chairman of the Detroit-Wayne County Criminal Justice Coordinating Council and a member of the Community Mental Health Board.

He spent two years as a director of the Wayne County Labor Relations Board.

Recently Barr was named chairman of a statewide task force, set up by the Michigan Department of Labor, to study lawyer and doctor fees in relation to workmen's compensation.

"It appears about one-third of the payments are going to lawyers and doctors, with the disabled getting only the remainder," he said.

BARR IS now serving the first year of a second two-year term on the board. His rise has been noteworthy.

Last year, his second in the county position, he was chairman of the ways and means committee. This year he is vice chairman of the full board.

He sits also as acting chairman of a special "freeze" committee, named to watchdog a county budget $7 million in the red.

Besides the current deficit, the committee must wrestle with an anticipated revenue decline of an additional $15 million next year, he said.

"EVERY JOB is frozen and every expenditure and supplemental appropriation and hiring comes to our committee before going to the full board." We must find the priorities and put expenditures back in line with revenues.

"It's going to call for some real belt tightening. There will have to be curtailment of programs. Certain programs mandated by the state will have to be carried out, but there are several areas where they are not mandated and the cutbacks will have to come there. There will have to be curtailment of matching funds for federal grants and picking up full costs of programs formerly funded in part by the federal government."

This will affect programs for the elderly and juveniles, poverty programs and the like, he said, "and we'll need to reduce service areas where we now have overweight."

"THE SHERIFF'S road patrol for townships is a question, whether we can afford to provide it to the extent we now are.

"My cities of Westland and Dearborn Heights have their own police forces, but they pay taxes for the same thing for other communities which not only have voted down a police force but, on the same ballot, voted for a swimming pool or, at least, recreational facilities. It makes me wonder."

Another area where Barr sees possible savings is eliminating duplicated services.

"The county has an organized crime task force and so do the state and federal governments. Maybe we could avoid some of that duplication."

BARR FAVORS creation of an elected county executive to oversee and administer the board's work.

"Under the current system, the board is both administrative and legislative, and that's wrong," he declared. "There never was a 27-headed administrator who could get the job done trying to implement a program 27 different ways." (There are 27 members on the board.)

"Legislation calls for a lot of input, but an executive calls for one person," Barr said. "Every other government has a single executive, the state with the governor and the federal government with the president. Oakland County has it, and I think it's working well there.

"A chief executive would streamline operations and greatly reduce waste and duplication and tighten everything up."

BARR OPPOSES, however, a proposal to create a metropolitan regional government put forward by Rep. William Ryan (D-Detroit), former Speaker of the House. Barr calls the idea "another layer of bureaucracy."

"We don't need another government with its own officers and offices," he said. "People who have opposed SEMCOG as interfering with local government may find it's not their enemy but their defender. SEMCOG is voluntary. It can't tax. It can only recommend on problems that don't stop at the border, like crime and pollution.

"It doesn't come in like a bulldozer. Sure we have common problems, but we don't need a separate government to handle them."

BARR RECENTLY sold his restaurant, the Tartar House, on the Wayne State University campus. He operated there seven years.

"With my work on the board, I was an absentee restaurant owner, and that's no good," he grinned.

Barr sees service as the "first order of business for anyone in government."

"I don't think there is anyone busier or responds more to people than I do. There is never more than one or two days before I go out and see people who have indicated a concern. I respond with letters, phone calls, personal visits. Yes, my telephone is listed.

"Sometimes I think many of those in government have got the thing backward. They act like they should protect or insulate themselves against the people. Service, in my belief, is the first word in government."

Police reserves graduate at SC

Reserve officers from five area police departments have received certificates for completing a 30-week training program at Schoolcraft College.

The only training program of its kind in Michigan, it was conducted by the Southeast Michigan Police Reserve Training Council (SMPRTC) and Schoolcraft's Community Services Division. More than 125 officers from 21 police departments completed the 100 class hours designed to provide basic training for police reserve and auxiliary officers.

Col. Frederick Davids, retired head of the Michigan State Police, was keynote speaker at the Sept. 25 ceremonies on the Schoolcraft campus. State Sen. Carl D. Pursell (R-Plymouth) and Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara also participated.

Officers receiving certificates included:

GARDEN CITY—Roger H. Brown, Richard Dougherty, Gerald E. Douyard Sr., Jerry R. Isbell, James Pascas, Gordon C. Riley and Daniel Somervell.

LIVONIA—Barbara J. Buhler, Florence Chance, Thomas B. Chance, Lawarence A. Gelo, Edward E. McConchie, Russell C. Rochte Sr., William A. Watson and Herbert H. Wolf.

REDFORD TOWNSHIP—Dana G. Cooper, David C. Ericksen, Timothy J. Ginardi, James F. Hatter, Mark L. Javor, Larry Johnson, Richard E. Lacca, Peter E. Lussis and Donald F. Mann Jr.

Also, Terry L. McDowell, Sherry L. Munson, William T. Scott, Betty J. Shiek, Albert B. Stewart, Charles Stewart, Eugene P. Stout, Charles M. Teeters and Frank G. Vallotton.

SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE—Ronald E. Randall.

Center Mardi Gras was a big success

The second annual Mardi Gras at the Plymouth Center for Human Development was a day to be remembered. With the cooperation of many groups and individuals, including the weatherman, the day was a shining success from the early morning parade to the afternoon dance.

Marge Cardaro, recreation staff person at Calson Hall planned the event as part of the program for the physically handicapped.

Foster grandparents changed schedules to be there on Saturday, Sept. 27, to escort their charges from booth to booth.

Each hall had a booth and each child was costumed. There was horseback riding, balloons, a live band, cotton candy, cider, doughnuts, bean bag toss and other games. Prizes were awarded for costumes and booths.

The Northville High School Band marched in the parade. There were clowns from the Sumpter Township Fire Department.

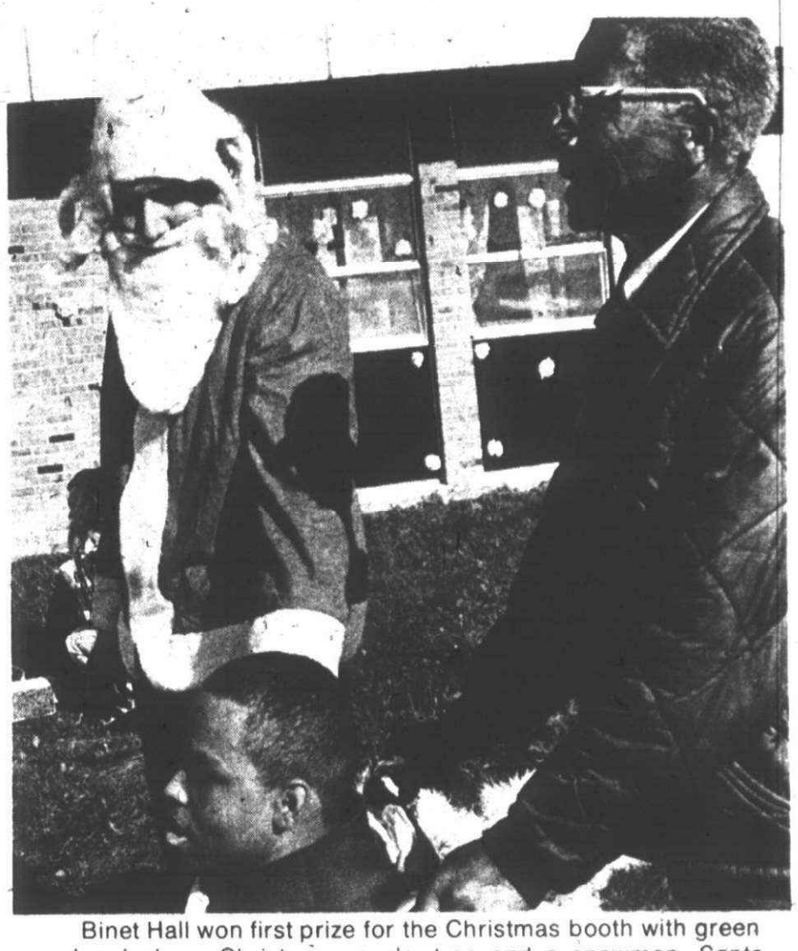
The Moslem Shrine clown team brought its Highland Band in colorful tartan.

The Plymouth Fire Department, the Redford Township and Livonia Jaycees, and the Farmington Elks motorized drill team joined in the project.

For the several hundred youngsters at the center their Mardi Gras was a happy day. For those who helped make it so, it was a happy day, too.

Queen Julia, mink stole and all, was admired by Supervisor Marie Hardwick.

Sumpter Township fire department joined the fun at the Mardi Gras as Garry Francis, (from left) Assistant Chief Joseph Mitchell and his son, Dave, donned clown costumes for the day.



Binet Hall won first prize for the Christmas booth with green and red elves, Christmas music, tree and a snowman. Santa Claus greets Kenneth and his foster grandfather.

A September 'snowman'

BEEJAY AND DEEJAY TAYLOR of Plymouth demonstrated they are ready for wintertime fun with their "sandman." He looks like Frosty the Snowman but is made entirely of beach sand. The girls used sea shells for the eyes and nose, a blue crab's back for a smile, seaweed for the cap and a marsh reed pipe. Although Frosty didn't melt, it wasn't long before the waves took him away. The sandman was made at Seabrook Island, an oceanside resort near Charleston, S.C.

Sheriff's township patrol may fall under county ax

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has been presented with a budget proposal for next year that calls for spending $27-million more than the current budget, but also recommends elimination of some popular programs and severe cutbacks in others.

Totaling $331,692,650, the budget was presented to the commissioners' ways and means committee Sept. 25 by the three-member County Board of Auditors.

Although the budget is $27 million higher, it is $50 million less than county departments requested for the next fiscal year, which runs from December through November.

"Consistent with these concerns, the recommendations as presented are austere," said the auditors in their budget message, as they recommended reallocations from low priority programs, staff reductions and elimination of non-essential programs.

The new budget funds a $3.1 million deficit projected for the current fiscal year, but the auditors warned that the deficit next year would be much larger if their recommendations go unheeded.

IF THEIR recommendations are followed, the county can reduce spending by $3.5 million next year, the auditors said in their report.

Among the programs that they recommend be eliminated are:

•The organized Crime Task Force and the consumer protection unit in the Prosecutor's Office. Both were started with federal funds, but under terms of the original grant, this year the county would have to finance the programs.

•Four divisions in the Sheriff's Department including the Metropolitan Helicopter Patrol and squad-car patrol in seven out-county townships. The helicopter is another program started with federal funds, but under terms of the original grant, this year the county would have to finance the programs.

•Four divisions in the Sheriff's Department including the Metropolitan Helicopter Patrol and squad-car patrol in seven out-county townships. The helicopter is another program started with federal funds due to expire, which the county would have to replace. Elimination of the road patrols was recommended because a recent court ruling said the board of commissioners is not obligated to provide service.

•The Recorder's Court probation services program, another federally funded program that will now have to be continued with county money.

•The county assistance program for troubled employes.

•The joint City of Detroit-Wayne County health planning unit.

AUDITORS ALSO recommended reduced appropriations for the Sheriff's Metropolitan Narcotics Squad and the Juvenile Facilities Network.

Included in the auditors proposal is the elimination of 202 employees, including 51 in the courts, 63 from the County General Hospital, 13 in the Sheriff's divisions, and 75 from other unclassified areas.

The budget proposal must still be approved by the commissioners' Ways and Means Committee and the full Board before final adoption.

Bloodmobile at SC soon

The Michigan Community Blood Center (MCBC), in cooperation with the Livonia Jaycees Healthorama program, will conduct open blood drives at Schoolcraft College on Oct. 4 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The MCBC Bloodmobile will be parked on the Schoolcraft campus in front of Waterman Center, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

Participants in the drive can choose from four options for use of their voluntary blood donations.

Youngsters are also invited to visit the Bloodmobile to have their blood typed.

USING A CYCLGRAF, Thommen can chart the physical, emotional and intellectual rhythm cycles once he knows a person's birthdate. (Photo by Tom Bonner).

Ups and downs

Biorhythms let you look ahead

By SUE ROSIEK

Everyone has days when things are rosy and everything goes right. On other days, you shrug and say, "If I had known what today was going to be like, I would've never gotten out of bed."

According to George Thommen, an individual can determine his good days and bad days in advance by consulting his biorhythm, a system which traces an individual's physical, emotional and intellectual cycles.

"I have always been interested in nature. Words and music have rhythm. Why not life?" said the 79-year-old Swiss researcher in his recent biorhythm lecture-demonstration at Schoolcraft College.

"Biorhythm charts cycles in human environment. It has nothing to do with forecasting the future," stressed Thommen. It is a composite of your ups and downs—emothionally, physically and intellectually—for the coming year, month, or whatever time period you wish.

"For many persons, biorhythm is a method of looking ahead and leading a better and fuller life."

Born, raised and educated in Switzerland, Thommen became interested in biorhythm after investigating a similar theory proposed by a German doctor.

"I started in 1946 and by 1963 I had enough resources for my book, and I had devised an accurate system of calculating an individual's biorhythm," said Thommen.

Author of best seller, "Is This Your Day?" Thommen has composed CYCLGRAPH kits with instructions on how to determine good days and bad days.

THOMMEN'S FORMULA is based on trigonometry. He assigns a value to each day and year of a person's life, from date of birth until 1984.

For the mathematically inclined or those with a pocket calculator, biorhythms are relatively easy to chart.

Based on Thommen's theory, everyone experiences a 23-day physical cycle, 28-day emotional cycle and 33-day intellectual cycle. Half of each cycle is up on the cycle chart and the other half is down.

For example, each individual has 11½ days of physical "up" experiences, and the same amount of time physically "down." Thommen noted "down" days don't mean a person will experience a physical disaster. It could indicate the "blahs."

Similar situations are predicted with emotional and intellectual cycles.

According to Thommen, critical days are those when two of the three cycles cross the zero point on the graph. "These are days to watch out for."

A PERSON charting his biorythm beginning in October would calculate the number days he has lived, making sure to include extra days for leap years and remaining days of the month for his birthdate. Divide the days alive by each of the three cycles. This figure tells you where you will be in each of the cycles as of Oct. 1.

For example, a person born Sept. 10, 1951 will have lived 8,786 days as of Oct. 1. Divided by each of the cycles, on Oct. 1 he will begin a physical cycle, be 22 days into an emotional cycle, and eight days into an intellectual cycle.

Based on biorhythm theory, Oct. 8-10 will find at least two cycles crossing the zero line and be critical days for this individual.

THOMMEN'S THEORY is being used by individuals and businesses throughout the world. Biorhythm is being studied by the U.S. Air Force and large industries. In Japan, where his first book was published, police traffic divisions are now teaching biorhythm charting as part of their defensive driving courses.

Several airlines have commissioned Thommen to produce biorhythm charts for pilots as a means of preventing accidents.

"If a pilot's biorhythm indicates a critical day, it won't make any difference how reliable his machinery is. He won't pay any attention to his equipment."

Thommen supported his statement by reviewing several commercial plane crashes in the last year. In each instance, the pilot was experiencing a critical day.

SPORTS TEAMS also have consulted Thommen. "Biorhythm can indicate which are good training days and which are not. Training and drilling a team on critical biorhythm days is useless," said Thommen.

"When Muhammad Ali fought George Foreman earlier this year, Ali's biorhythm indicated he was physically and emotionally high. Foreman was physically low. When Mark Spitz won seven gold medals in the 1972 Olympics, his biorhythm noted a physical and emotional 'up.'"

Thommen noted that on the day of Ted Kennedy's accident at Chappaquidick, Kennedy's biorhythm indicated a critical day.

Thommen adds, "Unbelievers in biorhythm are few, once a person charts his cycles, the unbeliever is filtered out."

OU plans CPA family weekend

A chance for CPAs to bone up on economics for a certification exam and enjoy a fall tour with the family the same weekend is offered Oct. 4-5 by the Division of Continuing Education at Oakland University, Rochester.

While the prospective certified public accountant attends the workshop from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., family members can tour Meadow Brook Hall on campus or cider mills nearby. After workshop hours, the entire family can attend a Studio Theatre performace on campus.

WORKSHOP TOPICS will include economic theory and policy, microeconomics, macroeconomics, international economics, current economic problems and instruction in taking the economics exam.

Short informal review sessions during lunch and after class are included in the workshop program. Questions will be answered at the conclusion of the workshop and before the exam on Monday, Nov. 3, from 7-10 p.m.

A complete set of course outlines with space for lecture notes, current charts, diagrams and tables will be furnished.

HELD IN 156 North Foundation Hall on campus, the workshop will cost $55 which includes tuition and lunches, coffees, iaterials, informal review sessions, access to a post-workshop hotline and professional assistance during the workshop.

Rutenbars celebrate

Former Plymouth residents, Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Rutenbar, recently were feted on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Betty Lou Dennis and Mrs. Lynn Smith were co-hostesses of the party in the home of Mrs. Rutenbar's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Smith of Mayville.

The Rutenbars, who now live in Saginaw, received guests from all over the state. A three-tiered wedding cake and a silver dollar tree were featured table decorations.

How the automobile changed lifestyle in Plymouth

PLYMOUTH—PAST AND PRESENT by Sam Hudson

Life in Plymouth was never the same after the coming of the automobile at the turn of the century.

The invention of the "gas buggy" was a mixed blessing. (The French word "automobile" didn't appear in print in the United States until 1896, three years after the auto was introduced to this country).

On one hand, the auto increased mobility, accelerated the improvement of roads, and provided jobs. On the other hand, it complicated existence by introducing exhaust fumes, accidents, traffic jams, speed enforcement problems, a breakdown in family unity, and a change in courting technique.

THE AUTOMOBILE also engendered a proliferation of related services whose contributions to the enrichment of life are of dubious value. These include gas stations, garages, motels and muffler commercials.

The first person to own an automobile in Plymouth was Clarence J. Hamilton, inventor of the Daisy air rifle and the Hamilton .22 calibre gun. Hamilton bought a Haynes Apperson in 1902. That was only nine years after the first gasoline-powered American motor car was built by the Duryea brothers in Springfield, Mass.

The second car in Plymouth was a White Steamer, also bought in 1902. It was owned by Will Allen, husband of Kate, and son-in-law of Ebenezer J. Penniman. Chauncey Rauch also bought a White Steamer—"teakettle," the wags called it—during the early years.

Ed Hough bought a Maxwell in 1904. The Maxwell was later to be the butt of many of Jack Benny's radio jokes. The late Carl Shear, whose talk to the Plymouth Rotary Club near the end of World Warr II provided some of the information used in this article, said Hough always had trouble starting his car.

ONE DAY, Hough drove Bill Pettingill and Al Chaffee to Pontiac.

On the way they approached a tollgate which then stood on Orchard Lake Road, just north of Orchard Lake. When they reached the gate, Hough, worried that his car would stall when he stopped to pay the toll, crashed through the gate and continued on to Pontiac. On arriving in Pontiac they found a police officer waiting for them. He didn't let them go until the car's occupants had done considerable explaining.

The first automobile dealer in Plymouth was Ed Huston, who took on the Ford franchise in 1910. He sold exactly three cars, one each to Paul Voorhies, Fred Bennett, and Fred Dibble. Then he gave up the franchise.

Ford insisted that Huston put in a service station and Ed didn't think the business warranted the investment. In those days, many of the dealers signed a franchise agreement primarily to get their own car at cost. The selling they did was confined largely to friends, and rarely at a profit.

The Ford agency went from Huston to John McLaren, to Fred Bennett, to John Patterson and to Bill Beyer. In 1921, Plymouth Motor Sales (Paul Weidman) took over the franchise.

Fred Schrader took on the Studebaker franchise in 1912. He soon gave it up to devote himself to the furniture and undertaking business.

BY 1917, automobile dealers in Plymouth included: Charles Greenlaw, who sold the Aland for $895; Bill Beyer, whose Ford was $360; Bently Brothers, whose Buick was $1,070; Bambo and Griffith whose Dort was $695; and G.R. Crumbie & Son, whose Jeffery Rambler sold for $1,465.

Carl Shear took over the Buick agency from Bently Brothers in 1920. In those days, Shear sold two new cars for each used car he sold. In the 1920s, there were many new car buyers who did not have a used car to trade in.

When he talked to the Rotary Club in the early 1940s, Shear said: "I think the people in Plymouth should be proud that right here in Plymouth we have three of the oldest dealerships in Wayne County. "Ernie Allison has the third oldest Chevrolet dealership in the county; Paul Weidman has the third oldest Ford dealership in the county; and I have the second oldest Buick dealership in the county."

In his talk, Shear quoted Highway Research Abstracts about some of the weird road regulations which governed the use of automobiles in 1908. "On discovering an approaching team of horses," read one rule, "the automobilist must pull to the side and cover his machine with a tarpaulin painted to correspond with the scenery. In case the horses will not pass the automobile, notwithstanding the tarpaulin, the automobilist will take his machine apart as rapidly as possible and conceal the parts in the grass."

"Automobiles must be seasonably painted," read another regulation, "so they will merge with the ensemble and not be startling. They must be green in the spring, golden in the summer, red in autumn and white in winter.

"Automobilists running on country roads at night must send up a red rocket every mile and wait 10 minutes for the road to clear. They may then proceed carefully, blowing their horns, and shooting Roman candles."

To paraphrase Oscar Wilde, whenever man writes thoroughly stupid regulations, it is always from the noblest motives.

The pace of life in Plymouth quickened when the automobile replaced the horse. The verdict is still out on whether the change was for the better.

The Bonafide Garage, owned by William J. Beyer, was located on Main Street opposite the Markham Air Rifle Co., where the Chevrolet agency is today. It was a Ford agency in the early 1900s.

Fife and Drum Corps return from Ft. Myers

The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps spent the past weekend in Fort Meyers, Va., attending the fourth annual Old Guard Ancient Muster.

The Plymouth corps, with 39 other Eastern fife and drum groups, marched in a parade on Saturday morning and in the afternoon took part in musical and drill exhibitions.

The Old Guard is the Army's official ceremony unit and escort of the President. With a tradition of service that predates the U.S. Constitution, the Old Guard is the oldest active infantry unit of the Army.

All visiting corpsmen and their parents were guests Saturday evening at the "Torchlight Tattoo" at the Jefferson Memorial. The entire program was performed by the Old Guard.

One of the six parts of the tatoo was "The History of the Stars and Stripes which traced the evolution of the American flag.

Forty members of the local corps left Friday afternoon, many departing after marching band practice. They traveled in 16 cars and many parents accompanied the group.

This was the second time the group attended the muster.

Businessmen want stronger SEMCOG

By TIM RICHARD

Businessmen see a restructured Southeast Michigan Council of Governments as a way to halt the war between local governments over business location.

Black leaders from Detroit insist it's all "an attempt to dilute the voting strength of blacks in Detroit."

State Rep. William Ryan sees it as "preserving home rule . . . so it won't be defaulted to the state or federal governments."

And so the lines were drawn last week as Ryan (D-Detroit) presided over the first public hearing on his House Bill 5527, now before the House Towns and Counties Committee. The day-long hearing was conducted in the City-County Building, Detroit.

The Ryan bill would (1) make membership in SEMCOG mandatory in the seven counties of southeast Michigan, (2) allow voters to elect 21 of the 41 members of the governing board and (3) allow SEMCOG to draft a sort of home rule charter that could presumably give it powers over single-purpose regional agencies running parks, transit and sewer and water systems.

JOHN MOGK, Wayne State University law professor and unsuccessful 1973 candidate for Detroit mayor, said there is a "counter-productive competition for jobs" between Detroit and the suburbs. "We are losing the battle to other parts of the country."

Mogk, who was chairman of the governor's The Option Process (TOPS) task force in 1972, said that group felt SEMCOG should be maintained and strengthened; it should have appointing authority for the transportation and parks agencies; and all local units should be required to participate and contribute to SEMCOG.

But the TOPS group was unable to agree on whether local governments should control SEMCOG's board or whether direct elections should be used.

CONRAD MALLETT, a Wayne County commissioner from Detroit and current SEMCOG chairman, said, "We share Ryan's concern about the single purpose agencies. There should be a link between them and SEMCOG."

But Mallett said Ryan's bill "presupposes the voluntary approach (now used by SEMCOG) won't work." Mallett also said SEMCOG is vigilantly opposed to creating new levels of governmental authority.

A committee member, Rep. W.V. Brotherton (R-Farmington), agreed with Mallett that SEMCOG should have power to make board appointments of single-purpose authorities. He and Mallett both pointed to the Huron-Clinton metroparks authority and the Detroit Metropolitan Water Department as agencies that could have SEMCOG-appointed boards.

Michael Glusac, SEMCOG's executive director, criticized the Ryan bill's provision to elect 20 SEMCOG board members from newly carved districts. Those districts would be so large, Glusac said, that board members would be remote from their constituents. Local elected officials, who now run SEMCOG, are much closer to the people, he argued.

Brotherton agreed: "If you're talking about trying to involve the average voter, I question whether this (Ryan's bill) is the way. . . I was on the Oakland County Board of Commissioners where there were 27 of us, and few people understood what we did."

LONNIE PEEK, speaking for the Concerned Citizens Council, a Detroit research group, said, "Detroiters have a distrust of regionalism—negative attitudes."

Peek cited "bureaucratic" attitudes in SEMCOG and the 20-mile distance from some places in Detroit to the nearest Huron-Clinton metropark.

Peek called the Ryan bill "an attempt to dilute the voting strength of blacks in Detroit" and said its proponents are "insensitive" to Detroiters' desire to have input into the regional system. "We need to straighten out these inequities before we discuss HB 5527, not after."

Ryan replied that Peek was using a "chicken-and-egg" argument: "Detroit has problems that existing regional structures are not meeting, but you say they must do a better job before you discuss change. Can there be improvement before change, or is the change necessary for the improvements?"

STANLEY WINKELMAN, president of Winkelman Stores, Inc., favored the Ryan bill, saying "the present competitive position of the city and suburbs plays into the hands of other regions" in recruiting and holding business investment.

"I'm not suggesting the multiplicity of local governments is keeping business away. In this area, we seem to be competing against ourselves," Winkelman said.

Horace Sheldon, director of governmental affairs for Ford Motor Co., whose 18 Michigan plants are in five southeastern counties, favored the Ryan bill's goals.

"Regional problems require better regional mechanisms," he said, calling regionalism a coming movement. "It's not a question of whether, but just what form it will take," he said.

Sheldon favored requiring local governmental membership in SEMCOG, saying that it's the same as a township's being part of a county and a county part of the state."

Arthur Carter, a black Wayne County commissioner from Detroit, charged the Ryan bill would "impose a new layer of government without a vote of the people" and destroy the ability of blacks to control their political destinies.

But Carter said Detroit's zoo and art institute should be regional facilities because they serve more than just Detroiters.

Joe Guggenheim, executive director of the Michigan Committee on Law and Housing, praised the Ryan bill for opening up discussion of the reality of regionalism, but he found several faults in the bill.

One was that SEMCOG would continue to monitor applications for community development block grant funds. But Guggenheim's group charged that SEMCOG's reviews are "totally unwilling to point out any serious deficiencies in the municipal applications, especially with regard to meeting housing needs of non-elderly residents. . . a 'whitewash.'"

The review power, he said, "should be taken away from SEMCOG and performed elsewhere until that agency can demonstrate that is actually reflecting regional concerns."

5-YEAR/60,000-MILE ENGINE GUARANTEE.

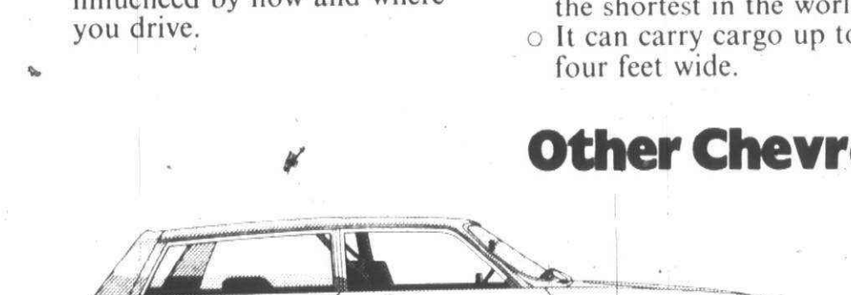
This 5-year/60,000-mile engine guarantee is an added value feature included in your 1976 Vega or Monza car.

The Chevrolet guarantee covers 60,000 miles, or 5 years, whichever occurs first. The guarantee is for 1976 Vegas and Monzas equipped with 4-cylinder, 140-cubic-inch engines. It means that should something go wrong with the engine, your Chevy dealer will fix it . . . free. The guarantee covers repairs to the cylinder block, cylinder head, all internal engine parts, intake and exhaust manifolds, and water pump, made necessary because of defects in material or workmanship. It does not cover repairs required because of accident, misuse or lack of proper maintenance.

See your Chevy dealer for complete guarantee statement.

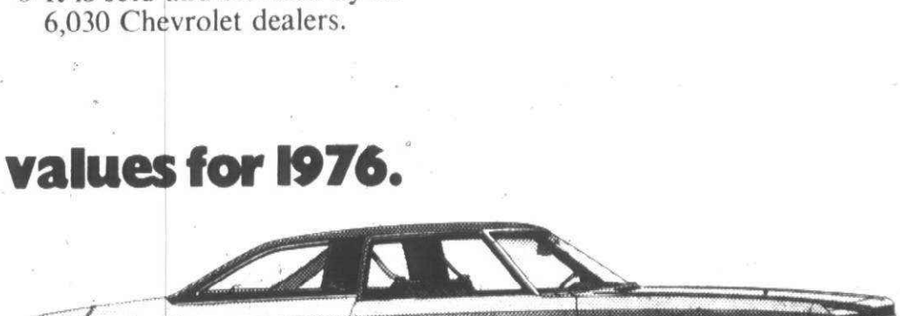
Impala

One of America's most popular full-size cars. That's the result of giving America good value for the dollar. This year, the Impala series includes the new value of the thrifty Impala S—Chevrolet's lowest priced full-size car.



Nova/Concours

America's favorite compact car. Our basic compact, '76 Nova, makes even more sense than the 3 million Novas that preceded it. And Concours, the brand-new model featured here, is our highly practical approach to compact luxury.



Chevelle

Enough car for practically anything. It offers room for six at a sensible price. This year, more than ever, its deft blending of mid-size economies, plus room for the average family, makes Chevelle a size whose time has come.

There's much more to see at your Chevy dealer's. Caprice, Monza, Monte Carlo, Camaro, Corvette, Chevrolet wagons—something for everyone in 1976.

Bonus system would cut unemployment rolls

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

Will Detroit ever solve its unemployment problem?

Although the auto executives are optimistic, everyone agrees that it will be a long time before automobile sales go back to the 11 or 12 million vehicles of 1973.

The auto companies should be working like mad at this time of the year, producing new models. Yet, less than half of the 200,000 auto industry employes who were out of work last spring are now back to work. This raises the possibility that these people may never be called back to their jobs in the industry.

GENERAL MOTORS recently announced that its average labor cost is now $10.25 an hour. If a worker works 2,000 hours a year, this amounts to more than $20,000 per employe.

The average pay is $6.67 an hour, or $12,340 a year. Fringe benefits amount to 50 per cent of one's salary. When employes work overtime their fringe benefits don't increase, just their hourly rate.So, the automobile industry can save a great deal of money by not hiring new people and working others overtime because they don't have to pay the fringe benefits of more than $6,500 for each additional employe.

While this tells us some of the reasons there are still more than 100,000 people unemployed at the busiest time of the year for the automobile industry, it doesn't tell us how to get these people back to work and off the unemployment compensation and welfare rolls.

THERE ARE many people who have worked in automotive factories in the past who migrated here because there were many high-paying jobs in the industry.

There are a lot of equally high-paying jobs available in other parts of the country, but the unemployed workers in Michigan are so well taken care of by our unemployment compensation laws that it is not always in their best economic interest to move to another state.

In normal times, if a GM employe is laid off, he is entitled to 95 percent of his take-home pay, which is not taxable under the supplemental unemployment benefit program. A person making $267 a week has less than 20 per cent of his pay withheld, so that he will be receiving about $5.07 an hour for not working.

THE FEDERAL minimum wage at the present time is $2.10. Anyone working and earning the minimum wage will have taxes withheld from his pay check.

It is obvious that most people will not take a job in a gas station, for example, where help is needed—or any other low-payingjob—or leave the state of Michigan to look for new work if he can hang around and receive $5.07 an hour for doing nothing.

As the law is written, if someone did take a minimum-paying job, he would automatically lose his unemployment benefits, so the unemployment compensation fund in Michigan gets the full drain, even though many employers in our area have been complaining about their inability to find workers to fill jobs.

WHEN UNEMPLOYMENT benefits run out, workers who still have not found a job can qualify for welfare. This is not, by far, as attractive as unemployment compensation, but it is still a tremendous load for the taxpayers to carry.

To solve the problem, our unemployment compensation laws must be changed to give bonuses to workers who are willing to travel to another part of the country to seek work, or to allow them to take a lower-paying job in this state and be subsidized for the difference between what they would have gotten under present unemployment compensation laws and what they are actually earning.

While everyone is sympathetic to the plight of the person who loses his job, the moral fiber of society will disintegrate if it is more attractive to loaf than work.

No-win in suburb-city control battle

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

Each fall, Kent Mathewson, president of the Metropolitan Fund, gives an address to the Fund's annual meeting. Over the years, I've come to regard this speech as the single most perceptive and thought-provoking analysis of this region and its prospects available anywhere.

This year is no exception.

Mathewson's address, delivered last week, makes three major points:

1)The metropolitan area is today functionally one region, not merely a euphemism for a city/suburb battleground.

2)The region has, in fact, evolved to a new kind of concentric megalopolis, featuring a "Manhattanized" downtown Detroit, a residential belt within Detroit city limits, a "midtown" sweeping through the suburbs and offering the services and facilities usually associated with downtowns, and lastly, a residential sector.

3)There is too much fighting going on between Detroit and the suburbs, with the very real risk that whatever spoils might go to the victor won't be worth having.

IN DEVELOPING this last point, Mathewson makes an important analysis: "Those skilled in the science of simulation games suggest that there are three possible outcomes to any encounter. The worst is when both sides lose. The next worst is when one side wins and the other loses. The best of all worlds is when both sides win.

"How can both sides win in any encounter? Both sides can win and will when both sides sincerely don't want the other side to lose. In the process of resolution, then, each makes the necessary adjustments, accommodations, compromises, changes to make certain that his or her side wins at least part of a victory, and so does the other side. . .The metropolitan Detroit community is caught up in that either/or, win/lose struggle to an extent bordering on civic warfare; in which either the City of Detroit will win in the struggle for some hypothetical urban superiority, or the suburbs will win. In each case, according to the fighters, the other guy will lose. . .whatever that means."

OF COURSE, Mathewson is right in his analysis, and even more correct in advocating a win/win model for playing the game.

The only problem is that what is really being fought over is control, and when control is at stake, it's hard to design a win/win solution to conflict—unless it's some kind of supergovernment which both players would consider a lose/lose outcome to the struggle.

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young's problem is two-fold: (a)His city now has a black majority, and he cannot afford politically to get into a situation in which blacks would have to dilute their new-found control in a regional grouping which would make blacks a minority again. (b)His city simply has so many tough problems that probably the only way to get a handle on running it is to adopt Mayor Daley's strategy in Chicago and try to control everything you can get your hands on.

So the internal dynamics of Detroit's situation force Mayor Young into a win/lose model, with control the stakes of the game.

The suburbs face the reverse problem, but with an identical solution. Leaders in the various suburbs have always had control of their government units, and from their standpoint, any reduction of this control would be a loss. Examples include mass transit (because there has never been any real transit system there was nothing to control, but now that SEMTA is gearing up, control must be shared with Detroit) and the Detroit Water Board (which is viewed by the suburbs as a method by which Detroit can solve its own budgetary problems by ripping off the suburbs on rates).

Both Detroit and the suburbs need desperately to adopt Mathewson's win/win model. But as long as the stakes are perceived to be the mystical and indivisable notion of control, it will be a long, tough process getting there.

Power play on SEMTA deals a low blow to region

The cause of public transportation suffered a body blow last week with the signing of an unholy deal between the City of Detroit, the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority and the State Highway Commission.

James Grannan, a SEMTA board member from Fraser, was the lone voice to vote against it. He was joined later in the week by Kent Mathewson, president of Metropolitan Fund, who said the deal would "only exacerbate that polarization" between Detroit and the suburbs.

In a nutshell, the deal is aimed at restructuring the SEMTA board to put it at Detroit's mercy, to provide for SEMTA's acquisition of Detroit's ailing bus system, and to finance rapid transit development in the region. Chief architects are Detroit's Mayor Coleman Young and Gov. Milliken.

GRANNAN DENOUNCED the package for several reasons.

First, he said it gives "an unfair advantage to the City of Detroit" on the SEMTA board. At present, three SEMTA board members are appointed by the governor and six by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), an orderly process which makes SEMTA accountable to a truly regional agency for a regional service.

The unholy deal would give Young power to appoint five board members, SEMCOG five and the governor three. The idea of serving the five million people of southeastern Michigan with a regional system is hurt in several ways:

•SEMTA would in large part answer to the mayor of Detroit, which has only one-third of the region's population. The idea of regional thinking is knocked in the head, and parochial interests can be allowed to dominate.

•SEMCOG, which will appoint only the suburban members of SEMTA, is thus reduced to being a mouthpiece of the suburbs and is no longer a genuinely regional agency. It's a vicious blow to SEMCOG's status.

•The governor's three appointments must be confirmed by at least six of the other members of the SEMTA board. Thus, the mayor of Detroit, by controlling five SEMTA board members, can effectively veto, or at least manipulate, the choices of the governor of the State of Michigan.

Second, Grannan objects to a provision whereby SEMTA is to assume Detroit's pension liabilities for Detroit Department of Transportation employes.

Third, Grannan points to the vaguely worded provisions about who is to manage the transportation system. State law makes SEMTA the regional transportation authority, but the unholy deal gives Detroit all kinds of leverage that can frustrate that law.

EACH YEAR Mathewson gives a "state of the region" address at the annual meeting of Metropolitan Fund, the research and education foundation that spawned most of our regional agencies.

While the metropolitan area is "a single community" that should have a single civic soul, Mathewson said, "We have slid all too deeply into the quicksand of seeing every governmental, community, civic or citizen issue on a divided either-or basis . . .The continuation of this insane struggle for power between city and suburbs could turn this metropolitan area into an Atlantis, into a ghost region. . . ."

Mathewson later pointed specifically to the transit deal: "Last week, SEMTA, the city and the governor's office worked out a cease fire agreement. The process had begun with an either-or battle between the city and the suburbs. The truce formula, in the long run, is likely to only exacerbate that polarization."

THE ANSWER is not to turn SEMTA over to the suburbs, any more than the answer is to turn it over to Detroit.

Rather, the answer is to develop a public transportation system that will serve all five million persons in our single regional community. A regional system requires a regional agency, not one that is subject to Machiavellian machinations by one mayor of one city.

Fortunately, the unholy deal is not final. The Legislature has to approv the so-called "restructuring" of the SEMTA board. Hopefully, our legislators will have the statesmanship and the clout to reject that part of it.

UAW-CAP explains endorsements

Editor:

One of the (successful) candidates in the Sept. 9 primary has taken the UAW to task because he did not receive endorsement of the Wayne 2nd District United Auto Workers Community Action Program (UAW-CAP). He is quoted in your columns as stating that he and other candidates for Livonia City Council "were not even given the courtesy of being contacted by the committee."

The operating rules governing endoresements of UAW-CAP spell out the principle that endorsement recommendations may be considered only for candidates who request such endorsement in writing.

The complaining party is further quoted: "It would seem that (UAW-CAP) endorsement is based upon not what you know, but who you know."

His ignorance is understandable. What the complaining candidate should know is that if he seeks the endorsement of a political action group, he owes it to himself and his supporters to make contact with the group and request an opportunity to present his qualifications for consideration and be interviewed. Had he done so, he would have been welcomed. This will be true in future bids for election

Area hospitals report no encephalitis cases

Culex pipiens fortunately is not doing well in western Wayne County.

The St. Louis encephalitis-bearing mosquito hasn't scored a local hit, according to health officials, and his less toxic cousins are only itchy.

Area hospitals, Botsford General, Garden City Osteopathic, Redford Community, St. Mary and Wayne County General, report no confirmed cases of the disease which has caused some deaths in otrher areas.

Their reports are confirmed by the Wayne County Health Department, which listed no cases in the out-county area (excluding Detroit) as of Friday.

Only 19 persons in the county were suspected to have encephalitis during the last year, said Dr. Jane Polkowski, and none were bitten by the bug. Dr. Polkowski is a public health physician in the Wayne County Health Department.

ENCEPHALITIS has several different causes, some due to a virus, and the St. Louis type is only one of many virus strains. The St. Louis virus is carried only by a certain strain of mosquito—bad old Culex pipiens. These mosquitoes usually only bite birds but will feed on humans—especially in the evening.

The disease cannot be transferred from one person to another, Dr. Polkowski stressed.

Symptoms associated with the disease include: headache, fever, stiff neck, nausea, vomitting, personality changes, convulsions and a coma. If a person has only a headache and fever, it is probably just that—not encephalitis, Dr. Polkowski said.

If the symptoms appear, a doctor can diagnose the disease, but cannot specify its type. Two blood samples, each drawn at a two-week interval, must be sent to the State Health Department and tested for an increase in antibodies, then St. Louis encephalitis can be confirmed.

Those affected are usually the elderly because their resistance is low to any infection, explained Mary Cote, nursing director of Redford Community Hospital. There is no serum or special medication prescribed for the disease, only aspirin, fluids and plenty of sleep, she said.

IN ORDER to stay healthy, the county health department suggests people keep their doors and windows closed unless screened, dress in a well-covered manner, use insect repellent, and, when mosquitoes are rampant, stay indoors.

Since mosquitoes need water to breed, the department also suggests ridding lawns of any stagnant water. Water in swimming pools should be changed daily and disinfected, and any containers or old tires collecting water should be emptied.

The department also advises checking rain gutters, clearing blocked drainage ditches, trimming shubbery and cutting lawns.

Since Culex pipiens requires hot temperatures as well as water to breed, Michiganders might do the unthinkable—pray for the first frost. It'll either kill the winged menaces or send them into hibernation.

Redford Snyder's wins world title

Snyder's Softball Club of Redford is the 1975 world champion of slowpitch softball.

Jim Snyder's Club swept to the championship in four straight games, coming from behind in the first three before drubbing Sal Mintz of Pittsburgh, 11-0, in the title contest, played last Sunday before a capacity crowd of 18,000 in Red Wing Stadium.

Rick Pinto pitched a three-hit shutout in the final game, and Doug Gerdes slammed a three-run homer.

Gerdes was voted the most valuable player in the eight-team tournament sponsored by the United States Slowpitch Softball Association, and he was among six Snyder's players voted to the All-World team. The others were Pinto, Dave Rhodes, Jim Mitchell, Stan Brown and Matt Partridge.

Earlier in the tournament, it was anything but easy for Snyder's. The team opened play against Builders Hardware of Milwaukee and had to rally for four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning, three of them on a homer by Rhodes, to win, 18-17.

The next game was a carbon copy of the first. Snyder's won by the same score, 18-17, over Sal Mintz, scoring eight times in the fifth inning to overcome a 13-8 deficit. Again, Rhodes had the key hit, a three-run homer.

Next, it was Copper Hearth of Milwaukee which took a 13-8 lead before Snyder's rallied to win, 16-13. Rhodes had two homers and five RBI's and Patridge homered twice and batted in four runs.

For Jim Snyder, it was the sweetest victory in the 20 years he has sponsored and managed his own ball club in slowpitch softball competition. His team has won many local and regional titles, but this was the first world championship.

Defending world champion Uniroyal of East Detroit, along with Snyder's, a member of the local Major Metro Travel League, finished fourth this year, losing to Copper Hearth before being knocked out by Sal Mintz in the double elimination tournament.

Patriots rally to down North

By JIM BRADLEY

Livonia Franklin took the first stride toward its third consecutive Northwest Suburban League title Saturday when the Patriots earned a tough, come-from-behind, 20-15, victory over a rugged North Farmington squad.

But coach Armand Vigna's victors stumbled a few times before they completed that first step toward keeping the league crown.

The Patriots sputtered offensively in the first half and the Raiders threw up a rugged defensive curtain that featured all kinds of stunts and different alignments which bottled up Franklin's attack.

After a scoreless first period, the visitors mounted a concerted drive that carried 75 yards in nine plays and was capped by a six-yard TD scamper by Paul Patek. Two key plays in that scoring drive were Paul Patek's 18-yard burst to the Franklin 46 and Raider quarterback Jerry Lichtman's 31-yard pass to tailback John Patek, the senior brother of junior Paul.

Both Patek brothers played outstanding offensively and defensively to keep North Farmington close and dangerous all the way.

Although Franklin didn't score in the first half, Wilson fired a 45-yard strike to split end John Elmore that the senior carried to the visitors' five-yard line. However, a fumble on the next play ruined that chance with less than a minute left, and the Raiders took a 7-0 lead into the locker room.

"We were determined to come out throwing," Vigna said after the game. "We felt that was our best hope against a good defensive North Farmington team. And fortunately, it worked very well."

Wilson threw three scoring bombs before the Raiders could add their final touchdown when linebacker John Patek raced through the line and literally stole the ball from the Franklin back racing 43 yards to score.

But it was too late by then because Wilson hooked up with halfback Jim Casey on a 74-yard scoring aerial thrust with 8:10 left in the third quarter. Cal Beer booted a perfect extra point to tie it, 7-7.

Wilson then moved the Patriots 63 yards in six plays, twice connecting with flanker Darrell Gunter in the drive. First, Wilson hit Gunter with a 33-yard bullet to North's 35 and a first down. Back Tom Smith, who filled in for flu-weakened Tim Hollandsworth at fullback in the second half, gained seven and Jim Casey added nine more before the speedy Gunter snared a 19-yard aerial in the endzone and Franklin led, 13-7. The PAT kick was blocked.

Franklin's defense stopped North Farmington's attack during the second half, mainly on the efforts of defensive end Gregg Morgan, tackle Al Ancona, left cornerback Jerry Pollard, and outside linebacker Tim Hollandsworth.

"Those were the boys, along with the others, that stopped North Farmington," Vigna said. "We really miss the 'big boy' Sammy Williams, but we don't want to take a chance on the dislocated shoulder suffering any more damage."

Nursing the 13-7 lead into the fourth quarter, Franklin again mounted a drive, this time going 73 yards in 10 plays with Wilson throwing a 38-yard pass to Jerry Pollard at the 8:45 mark. Beer added the point and the Patriots led, 20-7.

With 2:01 left, John Patek raced in and 'stole' the last touchdown for North when he grabbed the ball away from the Franklin runner and ran 43 yards to paydirt. Lichtman passed to Paul Patek for the final two points.

Franklin totaled 343 yards, led by Casey's 60 in 14 carries, to North's 97 yards, paced by Paul Patek's 62 yards in 18 tries.

Franklin, who has only given up 97 yards on the ground in three games, travels to West Bloomfield for a non-league test Friday night at 7:30 p.m.

Aggies crunch Mich. Lutheran

Harvey Heitman's St. Agatha squad overcame heavier Michigan Lutheran Seminary Saturday night, 12-0, for its third consecutive win but trouble looms ahead for the Redford Class C school.

At least three top-ranked teams block the Aggies' path in the next five weeks and the first is St. Alphonsus of Dearborn which comes to town this Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. in St. Agatha's first league test.

"St. Alphonsus has a very fine football team and was ranked number one until they lost last week," Heitman said in anticipation of Saturday's clash. "It should be a tough game, but we feel our overall team speed will help us do all right."

St. Agatha did "all right" Saturday night against a big, bruising Michigan Lutheran Seminary team whose 8-and-9 man defensive line in the first half helped hold the visitors to a scoreless tie.

However, Dave Mully, who gained 139 yards in 18 carries, sparked the Aggies to a pair of second half scores and the 12-0 win.

St. Agatha got on the scoreboard early in the third quarter on a nine-yard run by quarterback Brian Higgins, who later suffered a slight concussion and had to leave the game. Heitman hopes Higgins can start Saturday because of the junior's experience with St. Agatha's offense.

However, if Higgins is not available, Heitman has sophomore Dennis Wright, a transfer student from Dearborn Sacred Heart, as a replacement. Wright, who stands 5-9 and weighs 155, throws very well, according to his coach.

Heitman is also pleased with his tenacious defense which has only allowed one touchdown in two games. And it was Steve Peck, a soph linebacker, who set up Agatha's clinching TD. Peck picked off a pass on Lutheran's 40 and three plays later, Girard Trujillo raced 33 yards for the score. Trujillo gained 76 yards in 11 carries.

St. Agatha's best defensive lineman, Jerry Halberta, will be lost for two weeks with a torn cartilage in his knee. The Aggies held Lutheran to less than 140 total yards and only one pass completion. Peck and Marty Fox each intercepted a pass.

Paced by the running of Mully and Trujillo, Agatha totaled 264 yards on the ground but hit only one of six passes for 22 yards.

Borgess wins in 4 OTs

The excitement is just beginning to settle down at Bishop Borgess High School after the Spartans won one of their greatest victories in the history of the young school.

Sunday's 35-27 win over Detroit Catholic Central in four overtimes has to rank with one of the finest ever played and if several fans didn't suffer cardiac arrest, it certainly wasn't the players' fault.

Borgess, fighting with the determination of a bulldog, came from behind four different times to eventually win the ballgame in a gridiron struggle observers call one of the most hectic and dramatic in the history of the Catholic League.

The Spartans trailed at various times by scores of 7-0, 14-7, 21-14 and 27-21 before pulling out the tense victory.

"It's a very big win for us," exclaimed an emotionally-drained Fred Mushinski after the game. "Our kids were down four times, but they didn't quit. They kept coming back and we're really proud of them all."

Coach Mushinski watched nervously as his fighting Spartans, down 21-14, had a pass intercepted in the endzone with 1:58 left in the game and things looked extremely bleak.

But the rugged Borgess defense dug in and stopped three Catholic Central plays and the 4,000 fans jammed into St. Benedictine High stands watched as CC punter Gary Walega prepared to punt.

The snap from center sailed over Walega's head and Borgess defensive end Mike Farley raced in and scooped the pigskin away from the diving Walega for a Borgess touchdown. Bruce Berry added the extra point and the game was plunged into overtime.

As if the fans weren't emotionally-drained enough, now came an even more hectic time as CC won the toss and Borgess was given the ball on Central's 10 yard line and four downs. In overtime play to break ties, each team is given the ball on its opponent's 10-yard line and four downs to score.

CC, winning the toss, went on defense first so they would know exactly how many points they'd need to win if Borgess scored.

However, Borgess failed three plays and a field goal attempt was no good. CC had the chance to win but a bad pitch out was recovered by end Kevin McKee.

In the second overtime, Central scored when Halfback Rick Pierson, who had two touchdowns in the game, scored on a one-yard plunge. The extra point kick as wide.

Borgess, with its back to the wall trailing 27-21, tied the score when Keith Studzinski, playing his first varsity game at quarterback, fired a nine-yard strike to halfback Chuck Westphal, who had replaced the winded Jim Kozlowski, who gained 143 yards in 23 carries. A bad snap from center helped the extra point kick to miss and the score remained deadlocked.

There was no scoring in the third overtime period but the game came to an exciting and startling conclusion in the fourth overtime.

Ply. contests to be aired

WSDP (89.3 FM) will begin its fourth year of broadcasting high school athletics Friday night when it presents coverage of the Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem football games.

Gary Sieber and Joe Rea will broadcast the Canton game, which begins at 6 p.m. while Bill Collins and Dan Goepp will do play-by-play on the 8:30 p.m. Salem contest.

Hawk aerials kill Canton

By TOM BAER

Farmington Harrison quarterback Jeff Thorne had better hang on to those passing skills he showed in leading the Hawks to a 34-0 victory over Plymouth Canton in Western Six League football last Saturday.

His squad is going to need all the offense it can muster when Northville invades Harrison on Saturday (Oct. 4) for a 2 p.m. game. Northville is probably the toughest team the Hawks will face this season, according to Harrison coach John Herrington.

"We feel Northville is one of the better teams in the area," Herrington said. "I've seen them twice and they have a real tough defense. Northville is noted for its defense, but it also has a good passing attack and had been scoring pretty well until the Livonia Churchill game."

Northville's offense is led by quarterback Eric Lampela—"an excellent passer and ball handler," according to Herrington— and Gary Winemaster, a rugged (6-4, 220 pounds) end.

Northville lost a heartbreaker, 7-6, last Friday night to Livonia Churchill. The Mustangs scored a touchdown with 23 seconds left in the game to pull within a point. Northville then ran for the conversion points and the probable victory, but the run failed.

Still, if Harrison plays like it did againt Canton, then the Hawks certainly will be in the game.

Thorne, a 5-8 130-pound junior, was most impressive, passing for four tourhcowns and setting school records for most yards passing (228) and most completions (10 of 14 attempts with no interceptions) as well as the most TD passes thrown.

"That's more than we usually throw, that's for sure," Herrington said. "Canton came up with a 4-4 defense and rushed quite a bit, so we went to the air."

Harrison scored twice in the first quarter. Paul Rogind, who is turning into Mr. Everything for the Hawks this season, grabbed a Thorne pass and raced 53 yards for the first TD. Junior end Bob Thompson connected with Thorne for a 10-yard scoring play later in the quarter.

Thorne passed to Thompson for a nine-yard TD in the second quarter, and then hit Greg White for a 59-yard scoring play in the fourth. Rick Obendorf, a 5-9 153-pound senior in his first year of varsity football, tallied on a one-yard run in the fourth.

Harrison rushed for 152 yards with Mike Bowden gaining 73 yards in 13 carries, and Obendorf picking up 48 in seven tries. The Hawks' defense was also impressive, holding Canton to 78 yards on the ground and 26 more through the air.

"Our defense did a lot better job," Herrington said. "They were coming up well from the secondary. It was our best defensive effort so far, but on the other hand, Canton isn't a very strong team."

Rogind led the defense with nine solo tackles. Linebacker Tim Harsha recorded six solos and end Bill Blackmer had five.

Rogind, Harrison's soccer-style place kicker, was successful on four PATs against Canton, bringing his string to 35-straight. He didn't attempt the point after the last touchdown on Obendorf's run. Herrington decided to use Mike Colomino, Rogind's understudy.

Rogind's kicking abilities are enough to make any coach happy, but he's proficient in other areas, too.

"He's much more than a kicker," Herrington said. "His blocking, coming out of the swingback position, is just unbelievable. Purdue is looking at him now. They got the films last year on Sam (Pink) and Rogind was in them. Now they're interested."

Spartans boot Crane kickers

Livonia Stevenson raised its record to 3-4 in the North Suburban Soccer League Tuesday with a 2-1 victory over Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook in a game played at Schoolcraft College.

All scoring was recorded in the first half and Cranbrook got on the board quickly when Craig Smith scored in the early goings.

But soon after, Gary Beck booted a shot into the upper lefthand corner of the Crane goal, and towards the end of the half, Bill Ralph completed the scoring when he put a shot just over the head of the Cranbrook goalie from 30 feet out.

B&S Stars get started

The Redford B&S Stars, Michigan Senior Men's hockey defending champions, will open their 1975-76 season tonight with an 8:30 p.m. exhibition game against Ann Arbor Woodland at Redford Arena, 12400 Beech-Daly.

The Stars, who finshed last year's campaign with an impressive 68-2-0 record, will compete this year in the newly-formed Major Metro Hockey League.

Tickets for the game will be available at the door.

Salem tennis squad now 7-0

By JOE PIERCE
Special Writer

The Plymouth Salem Girls varsity tennis team ran their unbeaten streak to seven matches as they were victorious twice last week.

In their match with Allen Park, the Rocks won by a 6-1 margin. Karen Cook, Ceci Warrick and Becky Crespo were all winners in the singles play. Doubles teams of Laura Hastings-Suzanne Harnett, Cheryl Kordick-Nancy Grotz, and Barb Yockey-Kathy Ulbrich were also winners.

On Sept. 29 against Dearborn, a league contender, the Rocks won by the score of 5-2. Cooke, Warrick and Crespo all won. Cook won big with scores of 6-0 and 6-0. Harnett-Hastings and Kordick-Grotz won in doubles play.

The Rocks travelled to Livonia yesterday (Wednesday) to take on Bentley. Monday the Rocks have a very big match with Trenton, which is also undefeated thus far this season.

YORKE HUGHES

Hughes enters bass tourney

Yorke Hughes of Plymouth was one of six members of the Michigan team which recently entered the National Bassmaster Team Championship in Clark Hill Reservoir on the South Caroline-Georgia border.

The Michigan anglers placed 24th in the national championship with a three-day creel of 34 pounds, two ounces. Louisiana with 92 pounds, two ounces, lead the 32-state field.

Grant Hendrixson of Grand Rapids anchored Michigan's catches with nine pounds in the three-day fish-off.

Other Michigan team members were Jim Klein of Battle Creek, Mark Lackney of Flint and Maurice Stiff of Linden.

The "don't kill your catch" tournament resulted in 81 per cent of the 895 bass caught being released alive and returned to the lake. The tourney, which attracted 192 anglers, was conducted by the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society. Teams were fishing for $45,000 in awards and prizes with the top 10 teams winning awards earmarked for environmental and bass fishing projects in their states.

The lake is more than 70,000 acres and has 1,300 miles of shoreline.

Salem cagers win

By ROBIN NEIMAN
Special Writer

Plymouth Salem jumped to a 15-7 lead in the first quarter and continued to a 42-28 win over Belleville in the girls basketball team's first league game.

The game was moving along rather well with a few members of the Rocks complaining about floor burns and bruises, but the second half brought bad news.

Diane Goodrich was removed from the game and will be out of action for at least a week with a swollen pancreas—the result of a jab in the stomach.

Later, Dorothy Spitz came to the sidelines with a nose bleed and Cindy Richards received a dislocated jaw.

Salem's Kathy Dillon lead with 12 points followed by Peggy Moore with 11.

Earlier in the week, the Salem team met Walled Lake Western in their second, non-league game. The Rocks were down 42-27 at the end of the third quarter and just didn't have enough time to pull through with a win.

Dropping the match to W.L. Western 51-47, the Salem team was led by Goodrich with 12 points.

The team has totaled a 2-1 record after two weeks play.

After a game against Livonia Churchill, the squad will play Livonia Bentley today (Thursday) at home beginning at 6:30 p.m. and travel to Ann Arbor Huron for a game Oct. 7.

Ann Arbor ties Lions

The Plymouth JV Lions Jaws defense snapped shut Sunday at Central Field in Plymouth and stopped the undefeated Ann Arbor Wolverines 6-6 in Vince Lombardi play.

The tie for the Plymouth Lions followed a 14-7 defeat meted out the previous week by a scrappy Allen Park Bulldog team.

After that defeat, coaches promised a hard week of practice which paid off in the encounter against Ann Arbor.

THE WOLVERINES hadn't been scored on in their first two games as they whipped Dearborn 34-0 and trounced the Plymouth JV Panthers 49-0.

The stubborn Lion defense, led by "monster man" Mickey Maisner, repeatedly made the big plays to cripple Wolverine drives.

In the first period, Ann Arbor jumped to a quick six point lead. Late in the first period, the alert Maisner snatched up a Wolverine fumble and rambled 44 yards to the Ann Arbor one.

Jeff Hubert blasted over the left side for a TD to tie the score at 6-6. A fumbled exchange on the snap from center stopped the try for the extra point.

THE REMAINDER of the game was a classic defensive struggle with neither offense able to score.

Jaws stalwarts Dave Slavin and Mike Whittman, coupled with standout linebacking by Maisner, jammed up the middle and contained the sweeps.

The Lion defensive secondary permitted only two pass completions with Tom Wennerburg, Billy Hanis and Brian Ebmeyer covering the Wolverine receivers like a blanket, and Mike Clayton intercepting in the endzone to frustrate a scoring threat.

The final Wolverine drive was stopped by a game-saving open field tackle by Brian Lee.

AGAINST Allen Park, scores for the Lions were made by Jeff Hubert, with Hanis getting the extra point.

Strong defensive efforts against Allen Park were turned in by Pat Murphy, Mike Fillenworth, Slavin and Maisner.

The Lions meet the Ann Arbor Rams on Sunday, Oct. 5, in Ann Arbor.

Grid Panthers swept again

The Dearborn Heights Cubs swept three games Sept. 28 as the Panthers again tasted defeat in Vince Lombardi Junior Football League play.

Scores in the freshmen, JV and varsity games were 14-0, 8-0, and 13-8.

DESPITE A late threat set up by a Larry Duty punt return, the Panther freshmen were unable to cross the Cub goal. The whitewash was the third straight absorbed by the Panthers who were dubbed by the Ann Arbor Junior Wolverines 20-0 the week before.

In the JV game, the Panthers took the opening kick and moved downfield on a series of well-executed running plays featuring Jim Jimmerson.

However, the Cub defense stiffened and stopped the Plymouth team inside the 10-yard-line. The Cubs then went on to parlay a safety and TD into an 8-0 victory. The previous week the JVs lost to the Ann Arbor Junior Wolverines 49-0.

THE PANTHER varsity put their first points of the season on the board when Larry Plesiewiez recovered the opening kickoff deep in Cub territory and later scored from nine yards out.

Jeff Spencer hit Kyle Billings with a pass for a two-point conversion and the Panthers had an 8-0 lead less than five minutes into the game.

Not to be denied, the Cubs fought back to an 8-6 deficit at half and then won the game late in the third period following a Panther fumble deep in their own territory. Billy Ward led the Panther defensive unit, making numerous tackles before being injured late in the game. In their previous encounter, the Panther varsity lost to Ann Arbor Jr. Wolverines 14-0.

The Panthers return home Oct. 5 for contests against the Brighton Bronchos.

Rocks swim to a victory

By ANNE SULLIVAN
Special Writer

In their first league meet of the season, the Plymouth Salem Girls' Swim team defeated Edsel Ford 93-78.

The first league victory is credited to "total team effort," according to Coach Faith Ransom.

"We swam real well. The depth of the team showed good improvements," the coach added.

Lisa Lukens set a varsity diving record with 147.35 points.

The Salem swimmers took first in six events: 200-yard freestyle, Marion Stanwood, 2:04; 200 individual-medley, Sue Stanwood, 2:28; diving, Lisa Lukens, 147.35; 100 butterfly, Stanwood, 5:41; and 100-yard backstroke, Jill McCann, 1:12.

The team will travel to Livonia Bentley today (Thursday) for an afternoon match and then enter the Redford Union Relays Saturday, Oct. 4, at Redford Union.

Chiefs swim team loses

By ANNE SULLIVAN
Special Writer

The Plymouth Canton Girls Swim team was defeated by a tough Northville squad 57-22 on Sept. 25.

Despite the loss, the Canton team thought they did well and the captains, Jane Anderson and Janet Gottschalk, both agreed that the team had improved.

Canton set three varsity records against Northville: 200-yard freestyle, Anderson, 2:38.5; 100 freestyle, Tina Dewalt, 1:11.2; and 500-yard freestyle, Cindy Shelansky, 6:23.5.

Canton had two firsts, both taken by Shelansky—200-yard individual medley in 2:36.2 and 500-yard freestyle in 6:23.5.

The squad meets Farmington Harrison in a home game today (Thursday) beginning at 7 p.m. and will then enter the Redford Union Relays at RU on Saturday, Oct. 4.

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

When the Stroh team rolled its 3526 series last week in the Bonanza Classic at Orchard Lanes it sent a lot of folks scurrying to the record books to learn if the total was high water mark in the metropolitan area.

While it is high for the current season it still is below the 3671 count the Stroh team rolled on Nov. 9, 1971. It is the third year that Stroh compiled a series above 3500 early in the season. Last year the 3519 rolled the first week in the now defunct Michigan Open, stood up for the entire season and earned the Detroiters a high place on the national honor roll.

The most famous of all Stroh performances, however, was in a match with the old time Pfeiffers team when the Beavers rolled a 3562 and lost by two pins.

The match came in the Michigan Major Classic and stands as one of the greatest battles ever waged on Detroit lanes.

IT WAS BOUND TO HAPPEN. And this week it did. The All-Star girls finally found the range in the Bowlerettes at Motor Lanes and set high marks for the season.

Kathy Springs, one of the younger members, fired a 244 in 651 and paced the Jac-Ro team to a 3026 series on games of 974, 1082 and 970.

High honors for the night, however, went to Rene Curtis with 265 and Gerry Ritter turned in a 243.

BOB VANVALKENBERG drew another frown from Lady Luck this week at Merri-Bowl. He fashioned a 243 and was on his way to a 700 series when he chopped the No. 2 off the No. 5 and had to settle for a 693.

The previous week he had a 276 middle game only to falter in the final and settled for 693.

Mich.'s best at Wolverine

Harness racing fans will be able to see just what all has been going on in their sport around the whole state of Michigan this past summer by visiting Wolverine Raceway during the week of October 13.

It's the occasion of the $80,000 Michigan Colt Stakes finals with the cream of the state's two and three-year-old pacers and trotters set to compete in championship events at their own age and gaits. Each of the eight divisions will race for a $10,000 purse.

All season long these Michigan-bred youngsters have been competing at the county fairs, accumulating points that make the best ones eligible for the rich final events at Wolverine during the track's last week of the 1975 season.

Such current season Wolverine favorites as Dancing Knox, Malcolm J, Benjis Baby, Go Blue, Elberta, Bel Luc and Shiaway Brother were introduced to Motor City fans in the same colorful Colt Stakes at Wolverine last October. Two of the youthful stars, Dancing Knox and Elberta, have even carved sub-2 minute miles over the big Livonia mile racing surface this year.

Sponsored jointly by the Michigan Harness Horsemen's Association and the Michigan Department of Agriculture, the season-long colt stakes climaxed by the October finals go far in encouraging and strengthening a state-wide harness horse program which already is recognized as an important Michigan industry.

Popularity of the Colt Stake finals was further proven last year when a total of 39,059 fans were attracted to Wolverine during a very cool week in October.

Although some of the Stakes will be raced as non-betting events this year, many of the finals will be a regular part of Wolverine's nightly 10-race pari-mutuel card.

Vinegar, an old-time cure-all

Witch Watch by GUNDELLA

It's that time of year again. Summer is over. The leaves are beginning to turn color. Pumpkins are appearing at roadside stands. And each day is so beautiful that you want to hold unto it forever.

Best of all, it's time to go on our annual outing to the cider mill. Nothing in this world tastes as good as a fresh glass of apple cider on a sunny fall day, or a hot cup of spiced cider stirred with a cinnamon stick on a chilly autumn evening.

This year, when you buy your cider, why not pick up an extra jug or two to make vinegar for the year ahead? Why vinegar? Well, aside tasting great on salads, slaws and French fries, apple cider vinegar is great to have around the house as a folk remedy for minor ailments of all sorts.

PLEASE NOTE, I have a great respect for doctors and modern medicine, and if you are really ill or if the symptoms of even a minor illness last very long, I strongly urge you to see your doctor at once.

However, for what they are worth, here are some vinegar folk remedies that have been passed down in our family.

"Vinegar stew" made with one cup of vinegar, one cup of sugar, some butter and nutmeg was given us by the teaspoonful for sore throat and hoarseness.

Apple cider vinegar was applied frequently to help dry up poison ivy.

Undiluted apple cider vinegar applied to a burn on the surface of the body will eliminate smarting and soreness. This is really great for sunburn.

MY GRANDMOTHER used to mix up the following linament for aching joints and sore muscles: Beat one egg yolk with one tablespoon of turpentine and one tablespoon of apple cider vinegar. Rub in well to remove lameness.

Varicose veins were treated with cider vinegar, too. The vinegar was applied each morning and night with cupped hands, just as it comes from the jug, and two teaspoons of vinegar in a glass of water were taken twice a day for a period of 30 days.

In addition to these, Grandma used vinegar to cure shingles, night sweats, impetigo, ringworm, and all sorts of fungi, abcesses, sores and skin problems.

Apple cider vinegar is a great hair rince for brunettes, removing all traces of soap and making hair shine.

THE WORD vinegar comes from two French words, "vin" and "aigre" (sour wine). Wine vinegar is made in the same way as apple cider vinegar, but used primarily as a seasoning or preservative for foods.

To make vinegar, simply remove the cover from a jug of pure apple cider (with no preservatives added) and cover the mouth of the jar with a small piece of muslin cloth secured by a string or rubber band. Set it aside in a cool, dark cupboard for a while (usually two or three months).

Vinegar bacteria are aerobic types and require air (oxygen) for proper growth and development.

As the bacteria grows, you will notice a white slimy mass forming in the bottom of the jug. This is called "mother of vinegar."

After this vinegar mother has formed, taste your vinegar regularly. When it has reached the desired strength, drain off the liquid, and strain it through a cheesecloth. Then bottle it for table and medicinal use. If it grows too strong, you can dilute it with water, but the flavor will suffer.

Hudson's sets diet clinic

A series of three clinics for diet-minded women will be held in J.L. Hudson's Westland store on Oct. 3, 10 and 17 at 7 p.m. in the training room.

The first clinic will feature a fashion presentation of slimming ready-to-wear clothing. The second will concentrate on cooking for the calorie counter and will be conducted by a Weight Watchers representative.

The final clinic offers hair and beauty tips. Cost for the series is $4.50 per person, or $2 per clinic session. For reservations contact Hudson's in Detroit.

OTA's set Oct. 15 meeting

All occupational therapy assistant (OTA) graduates from Schoolcraft College are invited to attend the next alumni meeting at 7 p.m. in the Waterman Campus Center on Oct. 15.

The group will hear Helen Millen, R.N., a nursing consultant with the Kenny-Michigan Foundation, speak on "Body Mechanics and Safe Transfer Techniques."

Current officers of the alumni group include chairman Karen Pritchard of Bloomfield Hills, vice chairman Barb Paulger and secretary/treasurer Kris White, both of Plymouth. The group has 18 active members.

CHURCH BULLETIN

GARDEN CITY CHURCH OF CHRIST, 1657 Middle Belt, will present gospel preacher Jack Gray in a four-day gospel series beginning Sunday, Oct. 5.

The visiting preacher, who toured the Bible lands and preached extensively throughout this country, will lead services Sunday at 10 and 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. as well as having meetings Monday through Wednesday at 10 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Hobart Ashby, minister of the local church, said his congregation is "very pleased to bring such an excellent gospel preacher to our community."

REDFORD BAPTIST CHURCH, 25295 Grand River, Redford Township, will begin a six-week course on pre-retirement Sunday, Oct. 5 from 7 to 8 p.m.

The conference under auspices of John Wesley College is designed for persons who will be retiring in the next 10 or 15 years as well as those who have reached retirement age.

Guest leaders for the six sessions will tell of things to keep in mind while approaching retirement so that it can be an experience to be anticipated rather than dreaded.

ST. MICHAEL LUTHERAN CHURCH of Canton Township will launch a building program with a congregational dinner Tuesday, Oct. 7 in the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, 701 W. Church.

The Rev. John Freed of Holy Spirit Lutheran Church of Orchard Lake will be speaker for the dinner meeting beginning a drive to build on the congregation's property on Sheldon just south of Warren. The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Ed James is chairman of the building program committee, which also includes Mike Travis, Ron Reger, Dick Kinsey, Pat Pleasant and Mary Jane Travis.

The congregation currently meets in Gallimore School with the Rev. Robert Schacht conducting services. The "Building the Future" campaign is being led by Charles Steif of the Lutheran Laymen's movement.

ST. PAUL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, 27475 Five Mile, Livonia, will begin its new First Thursday program Oct. 2 at 4 p.m. for all children in grades one through nine.

The program will include dinner, choir rehearsal for four youth choirs and craft and recreational activities. The once-a-month program is in addition to weekly rehearsals of the six church choirs and weekly meetings of both senior and junior high fellowships.

GRAND RIVER BAPTIST CHURCH, 34500 Six Mile, Livonia, will hold a ground breaking ceremony for a new parsonage adjoining its church building following the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday, Oct. 5.

Leading the ceremony will be building committee members E. Frank

Joining in the ceremony will be building committee members E. Frank Craver, Fidell Cashero, Kenneth Croft, Mrs. M.W. Huckaby, Harlan Tim, Matthew Villarreal, Wesley Knight, Evelyn Ankcorn and James English. The church moderator, James Graham, also will participate.

During the preceding service, world wide communion will be observed.

MERRIMAN ROAD BAPTIST CHURCH, 2055 Merriman, Garden City, is presenting evangelist Randall Green in a revival series continuing through Sunday, Oct. 5.

Services are held each day at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., and a nursery is provided for small children. The visiting speaker is from Nashville and has traveled around the country leading revival services.

Quilt stars at auction

A full-sized quilt that has taken five months of effort on the part of the Cathedral Quilt Makers of Mt. Hope Congregational Church will be the major sale item for the all-church auction scheduled Saturday, Oct. 4. The church is at 30330 Schoolcraft, Livonia, and the auction hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Showing their handiwork are, from left, Judy Noonan of Livonia, Ina Foster of Livonia, Gail Grundner of Redford Township and Betsey Congdon, Dorothy Taylor and Janet Ufferman, all of Livonia. Dr. Vick, Temple Baptist pastor dead at 74

DR. G. BEAUCHAMP VICK

Dr. G. Beauchamp Vick, senior pastor of Temple Baptist Church and leader of one of the largest congregations in the metropolitan area, is dead at the age of 74.

Dr. Vick suffered a fatal heart attack Monday in his office at Baptist Bible College in Springfield, Mo., a school he served as president in addition to his duties in the Redford Township Church.

He will lie in state in the church today (Thursday) from 10:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., and funeral services will be held Friday at 1 p.m. from the church, located at 23800 West Chicago.

DR. VICK had been associated with Temple Baptist for 40 years, first as choir director and as Sunday school superintendent and later as associate pastor and pastor.

Under his administration, the church, originally located in Detroit, increased its average Sunday congregation to 4,000 persons and built the spacious Redford Township sanctuary and religious education plant in 1968.

Born in Russelville, Ky., he has served First Baptist Church of Fort Worth, Texas and spent 10 years in evangelistic work before coming to Temple Baptist.

When Baptist Bible College was started a quarter century ago, he was called as its president, and since then had devoted about one week each month to administrative duties at the 2,200-student school.

He also was in great demand as a speaker and evangelist and traveled widely addressing a wide variety of groups.

Seminar has more openings

Registrations are still being taken for the 12-week "Fulfilled Woman" seminar which will open in Westminster Presbyterian Church of Ann Arbor Thursday, Oct. 16.

The course, based on biblical principles and designed to help women understand themselves and discover genuine fulfillment in life, will be taught by Mrs. Alice Painter, whose husband, Dennis, is area director for Campus Crusade for Christ.

Those interested in the series, which will be offered Thursdays from 9 to 11 a.m., and Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m., beginning Oct. 21, may call Mrs. Alice Luibrand, 42480 Postiff, Plymouth.

Both series run to the end of January, with a two-week break for the Christmas holidays. The cost is $8, plus a small fee for a workbook.

'Motivation is greatest need'

By SISTER
M. JANICE SIOLKOWSKI
Special Writer

"Motivation is the greatest need in education today, and it is needed by every single student, every single teacher."

The words come from Marilyn Van Derbur, a former Miss America who now serves on the staff of the University of Denver.

She came to the Felician Sisters Motherhouse in Livonia to address nearly 600 teachers and administrators attending an in-service conference and liturgy sponsored by the order's principals association.

Her Christian Educators' Day talk was titled "Turning On the Turned Off."

"MOST STUDENTS tend to think of themselves in negative terms," Ms. Van Derbur said. "Too many of our young people have grown up not knowing about failure and rejection."

She added that when a student is having problems, it is important to tell him that "just because you have failed does not mean you are a failure."

"Everyone is both a failure and a success," she added, "and young people should know that personal failures have been part of the success stories of people like John F. Kennedy, Abraham Lincoln, Lucille Ball, Flip Wilson and others who did not give up."

Other factors in building motivation, she said, include teaching young people how to change the things they don't like about themselves and to accept the things they can't change.

"The most important thing a teacher can do," the speaker went on, "is help her students develop a self-image and establish a goal," following up with guidance in formulating a realistic plan of action in meeting that goal.

Ms. Van Derbur said that the teacher that the student likes best is the one who makes him believe in himself and feel better about himself.

"You do this by showing your students you care about them as individuals," she said.

A noted TV and radio personality, the speaker has been working with youth groups for the past 12 years. At the request of the Arizona Board of Education, she developed an eight-class film presentation in the area of student motivation.

Currently she is adjunct assistant dean for student affairs at the University of Denver. She also is a former member of the president's advisory council on adult education.

FOLLOWING the conference, participants joined in an eucharistic liturgy in Presentation Chapel with the Rev. William Murphy, Detroit Archdiocesan director for the department of education, as principle celebrant and homilist.

In his homily, Fr. Murphy reminded those present that teaching is an ancient ministry of the church and that, as Christian educators, "we look on our task, our role in education, as that of a minister in the role of the church, and we are sent to lead our students to serve in a broken world."

Concelebrants in the liturgy included the Rev. Gerard Vesnaugh and the Rev. Jeffrey Anifer of Ladywood High School.

Heading arrangements for the day's program for the Felician principals was Sister Mary Serra, director of education for the nearly 50 schools and institutions conducted by the order.

Current officers of the association are Sister Annette Marie of St. Michael School in Livonia, president; Sr. M. Alfonsa, St. Valentine School in Redford Township, vice president; Sr. M. Martha of Our Lady of Refuge in Orchard Lake, secretary, and Sister M. Fidelis of St. Damian in Westland, treasurer.

Campus seminar set for senior citizens

Rev. Meredith T. Moshauer, of Nardin Park United Methodist Church in Farmington, is currently spending his time heralding the beginnings of a new program for the retired and senior citizens.

It is called "Campus Seminar" and is based on knowledge of the importance for older persons to continued growth and contribution to society," Mr. Moshauer said.

"Retirement is a time to enjoy the benefits of the years devoted to a career, and to take pleasure in continued growth and contributon to society," Mr. Moshauer said.

The seminar will begin the week of Oct. 13-19 at Adrian College with special arrangements to be made for those who would like to attend on a commuter basis. There are special rates for overnight guests and special reates for meals.

There are also church groups and retiree groups in the metropolitan area offering partial scholarships.

CAMPUS SEMINAR offers mini-courses on consumer education, health, creative expression and the American bicentennial in a college atmosphere designed for the needs and interests of older persons. Participants may choose two of these courses in the mornings. Nearly two dozen enrichment activity choices are planned for afternoons, plus optional field trips and evening entertinments.

Mr. Moshauer stressed that no previous educational background is required for participation.

The program is guided by an advisory board with members from major protestant and Catholic denominations, American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), National Retired Teachers Association (NRTA) and Lansing Senior Citizens, Inc.

Mr. Moshauer is a member of the advisory board, representing the seminar in this area. Registrations may be made direct to the college through Dr. Heath Goodwin in Adrian. Mr. Moshauer will take calls of inquiry from those living within the Detroit metropolitan area. Nardin Park United Methodist Church is at 29887 Eleven Mile, Farmington.

Built Upon Trust

Since its beginning, our firm has grown to include facilities at three different locations.

This growth would have been impossible without the trust of families throughout the community . . . and to be worthy of this trust is our continuing purpose.

Oakway launches season

Most symphony orchestras save their "pops" concerts for the end of the season, a sort of frothy, warm weather treat. Not Oakway.

Musical Director Francesco DiBlasi uncorked a guest conductor, three crowd-pleasing starts and several members of a ballet company as Oakway opened its third season Saturday evening.

No sooner was the Saturday concert over than Oakway Conductor Francesco DiBlasi (left) began discussing the March 6 opera (Copland's "The Tender Land") with Melvyn Maxwell Smith of Birmingham, president of the sponsoring Arts Council Triangle, and Mrs. DiBlasi. The DiBlasis hosted an afterglow in their Livonia home.

The site was a place many surbanites hadn't visited in years—the old Redford Theater in northwest Detroit, a spacious movie house.

If you bought a membership for anywhere from $25 to $500, you not only got a reduced price on season tickets but you could have your picture taken with either of two guest starts—TV personalities Rita Bell or Sonny Eliot.

With Ernest A. Jones, Bloomfield Hills ad man whose avocation is conducting, on the podium, Miss Bell introduced Eliot, who narrated Allan Sherman's "Peter and the Commisar," a parody on Prokofjev's "Peter and the Wolf." Prokofiev's music was retained, though sometimes in Dixieland, cha-cha and rock forms, for members of the Livonia Civic Ballet.

In a small afterglow, Jones revealed that the "shooting" of the Swan Lake ballerina was an ad lib that startled even narrator Eliot.

Soprano Rosemary Jackson of Livonia offerd arias by Puccini and Johann Strauss, selections from "Oliver!" and, to a roar of applause, the Italian song from Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta," That light opera has a warm spot in Mrs. Jackson's heart because it was the first musical she ever appeared in.

Soprano Rosemary Jackson (seated) and husband John, of Livonia, discussed Oakway Symphony's successful "pops" concert at at afterglow with Dan and Loraine Piesko of Farmington Hills. Mrs. Piesko is president of the orchestra's Women's Association.

SC shows Peru film

A documentary on Peru will be shown Oct. 10 at 8 p.m. in Schoolcraft's Liberal Arts Theater.

The two-hour film was acquired by SC sociology instructor Albert Agosti. It deals with ongoing socio-economic changes, many of which were initiated by the military government which came into power in 1968.

The films will cover what remains of the Inca civilization and the contradictory role of today's multi-national corporations. An Italian film crew made the picture with the approval of former President General Velasco Alvarado.

On Aug. 29, Peru's military leaders overthrew President Alvarado and replaced him with the prime minister and army commander, General Francisco Morales Bermudez.

Agosti, who was present during much of the filming, will be showing the film for the first time in North America.

Schoolcraft is located at 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia.

Area students receive theater scholarships

Julie Milazzo of Livonia and Anne Kavanagh of Redford Township are winners in Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford's scholarship program.

Each year, the guild awards two scholarships to graduates of area high schools who plan to pursue a career in theater.

Miss Milazzo is a 1974 graduate of Bentley High School and is a freshman at Northwestern University. She has played major roles in high school productions of "Brigadoon," "Hello Dolly" and "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Guild audiences will remember her performances in "The Apple Tree" and "Two by Two."

She has achieved honor in area and state voice competitions and won a scholarship to Interlochen last summer. She also went to Europe this summer with the Southern Michigan Youth Chorale.

Miss Kavanagh, a 1974 graduate of Redford Union High School, attends the University of Michigan. In high school, she appeared in "See How They Run" and performed the role of Annie Sullivan in "The Miracle Worker." She is interested in studying romance languages. After collge, Miss Kavanagh plans to move to New York and try her luck as an actress.

Union women to air problems

Working women are invited to speak out about their experiences and the effect of the recession at hearings to be sponsored by the Wayne County Chapter of the Coalition of Labor Union Women Sunday, Oct. 5 from 2-5 in the Dave Miller Retiree Center, 8731 E. Jefferson, Detroit.

Child care will be provided.

Recital planned in Livonia

Singer finds U.S. stage challenging

KEUM JA KIM

By SUE ROSIEK

Keum Ja Kim, 26, first toured the United States in 1960 with the Korean Children's Choir. Since then she has graduated from Interlochen Arts Academy, earned bachelors and masters degrees in voice performance from the University of Michigan and is preparing to launch her opera career in the U.S.

"Even at such a young age I could recognize the musical opportunities this country had to offer," says Miss Kim.

She attributes her accomplishments to a "deep down desire to sing and a kind-hearted Ann Arbor attorney who made much of my studies possible."

From 1960 to 1964, she sang throughout the U.S., Canada and Europe. In 1965 she returned to perform at Interlochen.

"I wanted very badly to stay in the United States. The attorney heard me perform and helped to arrange a scholarship."

MISS KIM currently makes her home with the William McAllister family of Plymouth. "Karen McAllister and I attended Interlochen and the U-M together. I consider the McAllisters my family."

Miss Kim, a lyrical coloratura, is presently preparing for upcoming opera company auditions throughout the country.

"Even if I don't win anything it is good experience to get up in front of people and sing," says Miss Kim.

She also is planning a recital in Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church in Livonia Oct. 19. The 7 p.m. concert will include several classical opera arias, gospel and church music and Korean folk songs. Later this month, Miss Kim will sing the part of Monica in the Ann Arbor Civic Theater production of "The Medium," by Gian-Carlo Menotti.

Miss Kim visited her "real" family in Seoul, Korea last year. She gave a homecoming recital in Seoul's Artist Hall and sang the role of Susana in the "Marriage of Figaro" with the Kim, Cha Kyung Opera Company.

Miss Kim says she probably could enjoy a succesful singing career in Korea but would rather broaden her opera performance by joing a U.S. company.

"IF I WENT back to Korea I would be singing but U.S. opera offers variety and good theater. If I settled in Korea I would end up teaching because there are not enough good teachers in that country. I want to teach some day but not yet. I want to take advantage of the fine teachers in this country."

Miss Kim says joining a company in the U.S. is going to be very difficult because of the availablility of many good singers.

"I already auditioned with a Chicago group. I was one among 600 candidates. Only 11 were selected. The competition here is very tough. I received a very nice letter saying "try again" soon and I will.

"I also have tried out for a position with the Michigan Opera Theater which is based in Detroit's Music Hall. I haven't made it yet."

Miss Kim doesn't plan to give up. She spends at least four hours a day practicing and receives help from Prof. Eva Likova of the U-M School of Music.

SHE DOESN'T have a favorite opera because she "likes too many of them to pinpoint just one." Her repertoire includes "There and Back," "Giani Schichi," "The Magic Flute," "The Sister Angelica," and "The Abduction from the Seraglio."

She also enjoys performing oriental operas because "they are to my advantage." Her favorite opera stars are Beveraly Sills and Joan Sutherland.

"I admire Ms. Sills professional and personal accomplishments. I hope to one day study as hard as she has. I like Ms. Sutherland because her voice quality is like mine."

In her spare time, Miss Kim works part-time in the McAllister party store. Her hobbies include knitting, embroidery, sewing and "anything that involves my hands."

The McAllisters are pleased with their Korean houseguest and enjoy having her around. "Her voice is just gorgeous," says Lois McAllister. "It's as clear as a bell and like a sound from heaven."

Theater offers bus service

Patrick Henry, Betsy Ross, Nathan Hale and Paul Revere are just a few of the characters helping to bring in the spirit of America Saturday, Oct. 11 when the Detroit Youtheater begins its bicentennial season and magic carpet service from Westland Shopping Center.

The magic carpet coach service is available to all area residents from Westland Center to the Detroit Institute of Arts for all eight season shows.

The bus service is sponsored in part by the Westland Merchant's Association and the Youtheater. Magic carpet service costs $2.75 per person and includes round trip transportation, and theater performance.

On the eight magic carpet Saturdays, the charter bus service will leave Westland Center at 1 p.m. from parking lot No. 1 near arcade No. 1 off Cowan Road. Ticket reservations are available and must be made in advance.

"Give Me Liberty: The Story of Patrick Henry" will introduce the youtheater's season Oct. 11.

The show is recommended for ages eight to adults (youngster under five will not be admitted).

Direct from Broadway's Edison Theater, "Give Me Liberty" focuses on the dramatic events that lead to Henry's immortal cry for freedom "give me liberty or give me death." Critics state "it is a history lesson the kids won't sleep through."

Other productions include "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," in November; "One Life: The Dilemma of Nathan Hale," in December; and "Fantasy Street," in January. February's presentations are "Celebration U.S.A!," and "Stars and Stripes Forever." In April audiences can view "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere," and in May it's "The Revolutionary Mother Goose."

Special events mark village fall harvest

Visitors to Greenfield Village's fourth annual Autumn Harvest Weekend on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 4 and 5 will find some new features to attract their attention. The two-day event, which recalls the excitement of harvest celebration a century ago, includes a horseshoeing competition and an old-time tractor pull.

On Saturday morning, some 25 tractors—none newer than 1940—will assemble to test their mechanical muscle. Tractors of equal size will vie against one another in a series of weight pulling contests. The contests begin at 10 a.m. Throughout the weekend these antique tractors will be on display in the village.

Highlighting Sunday's activities is a horseshoeing competition, the first ever held at the village. A dozen contestants, members of the Michigan Horseshoers' Association, will have 90-minutes to make both a front and rear shoe. The competition starts at 1 p.m., but the horseshoers will demonstrate their skills throughout the day.

Harvest weekend also offers some traditional favorites. The village green is the site of continuous entertainment on both Saturday and Sunday as costumed square dancers whirl to country tunes and Roy McGinnins and the Sunnysiders perform their special brand of bluegrass music.

Each afternoon the activities field becomes the staging area for an antique fire engine muster with more the 50 rigs participating. Leather-lunged firefighters will douse burning buildings, demonstrate water pumping and compete in games of skill.

In and around historic homes and shops craftsmen practice the skills once essential to comfortable life. They'll churn butter, press cider, split rails, bake corn bread, dip candles and much more.

Music and theater also will be available throughout the village. Steamboats and horse-drawn carriages will offer trips into the past.

Admission charge to the village is $2.75 for adults and $1.25 for children six through 12.

Dance lessons in Livonia

Ballroom dance lessons will be taught in St. Priscilla Catholic Church Hall, 19120 Purling Brook Road, one block west of Livonia Mall, beginning Monday, Oct. 13.

John Gank will teach the two-hour, eight-week class which begins at 8:15 p.m. Cost is $20 per couple.

Reserve space in fall bazaar

Area organizations and clubs still have a chance to register for fall Community Days Bazaar hosted by Westland Center Oct. 31 and Nov. 1-2, and Nov. 7-9. Booth space is filling up fast, and interested non-profit groups should contact the Westland office before Sept. 30.

"At this time, 45 groups have signed up to raise money, gain new members and promote their organizations," says Barbara Welanetz, promotions manager at the center. "The second weekend is filled, but we still have room for about 20 more groups on the first weekend."

To help cover costs, an $8 fee is charged for the use of two tables and a pegboard. All groups decorate their own booths and sales are limited to non-commercial items. For details contact Ms. Welanetz at the Westland center office, corner of Warren and Wayne roads.

Brunch offers Americana

Music of American composers Johann Friederich Peter and Stephen Foster will be featured in this Sunday's (Oct. 5) "Brunch with Bach" in the Detroit Institute of Arts. Performing in the first of five concerts of early American music will be the American Celebration Quintet.

Tickets for the concert and brunch of main course, fruit, bread and beverage are available at $4 each by advance paid reservation only, either by mail or at the institute ticket office.

Three seatings of brunch are offered at 9:30 and 10:45 a.m. and noon. A limited number of $1.50 ticket for coffee and pastry will be available immediately before each seating.

Students star in EMU theater opener

Students from Plymouth and Livonia will be featured in the Eastern Michigan University Players production of Georges Feydeau's "A Flea in her Ear."

Charles Burn and Dennis Cockrum of Plymouth and Ronald Wlodarczyk of Livonia are among the 19 member cast in EMU theater's first offering of the 1975-76 season.

The play, billed as a rip-snorting French bedroom farce, will be performed Oct. 10, 11, 15, 16, 17 and 18 at 8 p.m. in Quirk Auditorium on the EMU campus, Ypsilanti.

Wlodarczyk, son of Edward Wlodarczyk of 9783 Houghton in Livonia, plays Ferraillon, the brutal ex-sergeant-major who abuses his hotel staff much as he did his regiment. His wife is the former greatest courtesan of Europe, and together they run a brothel hotel.

Burn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Burr, 40620 Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth, plays Baptistin, the old uncle of qhe owner of the brothel, who acts as a decoy in case the authorities show up.

Cockrum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Cockrum of 8348 N. Territorial Road in Plymouth, plays Victor Emmanuel Chandebise, the innocent husband whose wife suspects him of having an affair at the hotel. He also plays Poche, the porter of the hotel.

Admission is $2.50. For ticket reservations call the Quirk box office.

Enter crafts exhibition

Michigan craftsmen in all media are invited to enter the Michigan Crafts Exhibition, 1976 to be held in the Detroit Institute of Arts, Wednesday, Jan. 14 through Sunday, March 14.

Any Michigan resident artist or student in a state art school, college or university may submit two works completed after January 1972 for the open juried competition, says Susanne Feld Hilberry of the museum's modern art department.

The competition offers several thousand dollars in prizes.

Actual works in the all-craft media exhibiton will be juried in the art institute by Peter Voulkos, ceramist and sculptor, professor of design and sculpture, University of California at Berkeley and Mrs. Hilberry.

Entries, accompanied by a $5 fee, will be received in the Detroit Institue of Arts, John R street shipping entrance from Wednesday, Nov. 6 through Sunday, Nov. 10.

Brochures with details and entry blanks are being mailed to art schools and departments, studios and craftsmen listed with the Michigan Arts Registry. Mail or telephone inquiries should be directed to Modern Art Department, Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward, Detroit 48202.

Northwest YW sets Falls trip

A two-day trip to Niagara Falls for men and women will be sponsored by the Northwest Branch YWCA on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 15 and 16.

The group will leave the YW, 25940 Grand River, Redford Township, at 7 a.m. on Oct. 15 and travel by motor coach. It will return at 7 p.m. Oct. 16.

The trip fee will include motel accomodations within walking distance of the falls, two lunches and a bus tour along the river as well as transportation.

Reservation deadline is Oct. 3.

Stamp bourse

The Ford Stamp Club will hold its 17th annual exhibiton and bourse Oct. 4 and 5 in the Dearborn Youth Center, Michigan Avenue and Greenfield Road in Dearborn.

Hours on Saturday will be noon to 8 p.m. and on Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

Twenty dealers will be on hand with about 60 frames of stamps.

"We estimate 60% of our business comes from the Yellow Pages alone. As further proof of how sold we are on the Yellow Pages, we advertise in three different books, under a variety of different headings. We have found that it pays to design separate ads for aluminum siding, patios, or what have you, instead of using one catch-all ad under every heading. But the most important thing is to make sure you advertise where people look for you, and that's the Yellow Pages."—Gary Moore, Bonded Weather Control Products, Inc. 1661 South Telegraph, Pontiac.

Create your own Chinese cuisine

By SUE ROSIEK

The vegetable, shrimp and rice dishes that people travel to Chinese restaurants to enjoy can easily be prepared at home, says Chi Wang, a native of Annwhati, China, and an instructor in the art of oriental cookery.

In her recent demonstration at Kitchen Glamor Inc., in Redford Township, Mrs. Wang helped take the mystery out of Chinese recipes and preparation methods for some 250 area cooks.

Step-by-step Mrs. Wang fixed egg rolls, plum sauce (sweet and sour), and four different kinds of vegetables.

She also showed how to prepare "thousand-year-old eggs."

Assisted by Kathy Wai, Mrs. Wang proved Chinese cooking can help stretch a family's food budget without sacrificing nutrition.

HER FIRST EXAMPLE was plum sauce, a light, flavorful blend of orange marmalade, vinegar, pimento, sugar, water and canned plum sauce. The sauce is popular over egg rolls.

"Most restaurants only use the first three ingredients," explained Mrs. Wang. "But canned plum sauce, which is available in most oriental grocery stores adds the special taste. A double recipe can be prepared and be kept in the freezer."

As a main course, Mrs. Wang made spring rolls (egg rolls), filled with pork, shrimp, diced black mushrooms, cabbage and bean sprouts. Using the traditional Chinese wok, a metal oval-shaped pan which accommodates several different foods at once, Mrs. Wang kept kitchen utensils to a minimum.

The wok, placed on top of the stove, is excellent for fast frying and quick stir-frying methods, said Mrs. Wang. "This way food does not lose its color, flavor or nutritional value."

Mrs. Wang used the Chinese cleaver for chopping and dicing the meats and vegetables needed for egg rolls. After years of practice, Mrs. Wang handily maneuvered the bulky cutting instrument but she warned beginners to "hide your fingers because it isn't easy."

THE EGG ROLL ingredients were marinated separately in a combination of soy sauce, onion, cornstarch, salt, dry sherry, sugar and monosodium glutamate (MSG).

"The marinates protect the juices in the meat, and cornstarch helps meat or fish retain moisture and flavor. The fast fry method, which is very hot, makes sure everything stays tender."

A mixture of flour, water and salt produced an egg roll batter that was paper thin. "The skins can be purchased in an oriental market but usually are thicker," said Mrs. Wang. "Thin skins reduce cooking time and are much more tasty."

After filling each skin with the meat, fish and vegetable medley, the roll was wrapped and the edges were sealed with egg.

Six cups of peanut oil were heated to about 375 degrees and the rolls were placed sealed side down in the wok.

MRS. WANG SUGGESTS peanut oil because when it is hot, less smokey and doesn't disturb the food's natural flavors.

"Remember olive oil has a flavor of its own and is not suitable for Chinese cooking," said Mrs. Wang.

To test the temperature of the oil, Mrs. Wang says to put a dry chopstick in the wok. It the bottom bubbles up, it's ready to fry.

She notes that egg rolls may be frozen, but the water should be pressed from the bean sprouts to avoid soggy dough, and the rolls don't require any pre-frying.

Serve spring rolls hot with soy, hot mustard and plum sauces.

AN INTERESTING addition to any meal is Mrs. Wang's four different kinds of vegetables.

"My recipe calls for broccoli, baby sweet corn or bamboo shoots (canned), straw mushrooms (canned) and fresh carrots, but you can use any vegetables that are in season," explained Mrs. Wang.

Each vegetable is peeled and sliced and stir fryed separately.

"Fixing vegetables separately cuts cooking time in half. Also, each vegetable has it's own flavor which is enhanced when combined with others just minutes before serving."

Mrs. Wang added that steaming, too, is popular. It's simple and keeps food from drying out and burning.

Seasoned with salt, sugar and MSG, and thickened with a paste of cornstarch and water, the vegetables are a healthful and colorful dish. "Best of all you can improvise and use whatever ingredients are available," she said.

TO KEEP your dinner "totally Chinese" Mrs. Wang suggests serving thousand year old eggs. The eggs have a spongy consistency and taste like cheese. They are actually chemically treated duck eggs.

"The spongy substance makes it difficult to use a knife so it's best to cut them with thread. Served with soy sauce and sesame oil, the eggs make an interesting appetizer."

Mrs. Wang, and her husband, own and operate the Asia Trading Post in Royal Oak. Her Chinese cooking demonstration was the first of several cooking demonstrations planned at Kitchen Glamor this year.

Upcoming events include a cake decorating seminar, French cooking, bread show and bread workshop.

Parliamentary procedure--a fascinating study

By MARGARET MILLER

Parliamentary procedure interest and expertise are on the upswing after a period of hard times.

Proof of the trend can be found in the numbers and enthusiasm of the club president and parliamentary students who gathered for a recent leadership workshop on the subject in Southfield.

And an explanation comes from Mrs. Grace Banks, Redford Township club leader and now vice president of the Detroit unit of the National Association of Parliamentarians.

"It's a fascinating study when you get into it," she said. "You are learning all the time.

"And besides that, we're running out of registered parliamentarians, and organizations like the Business and Professional Women need them for their state and national conventions.

"That's an interesting job, and you can charge a good fee."

THE WAY to parliamentary expertise involves first a test to become a member of the NAP, Mrs. Banks said, and later a comprehensive examination to become a registered parliamentarian.

"Most of us in the Detroit group are studying now to prepare for that test," Mrs. Banks said.

"It takes two days, so besides being prepared you have to find the time to take it."

The group meets the third Wednesday of each month, she said, in the headquarters of the Federation of Women's Clubs, at 15800 Fenkell, Detroit. There is study from 11 a.m. to noon, then a bag lunch and a short business meeting, and then more study until 3 p.m.

"We practice all the time," Mrs. Banks said. "We learn how to say motions, how to open and close meetings—all kinds of things like that."

THERE'S COMMON SENSE behind the complications of parliamentary procedure, according to Mrs. Lorraine Buckley, national vice president of the parliamentarian organization and leader of the recent workshop.

Mrs. Buckley, a resident of Independence, Mo., dealt particularly with ranking motions in a business meeting and likened them to a ladder with the main motion on the bottom rung.

"You work up the ladder in purpose and down when you take the votes," she told the women. "If you can get a pattern of what this is all about, you are on the way to being a good presiding officer."

MRS. BUCKLEY used a diagram to show the order of ranking motions above the main motion.

Going up her ladder, she mentioned motions to postpone indefinitely the main motion, amend it, commit or refer it, postpone it definitely to a certain time, extend debate, call the previous question or lay the motion on the table.

These must be kept in order, she said, and she put each motion through a check list to comment on its objective, whether it requires a second, whether it may interrupt a speaker, whether it can be debated or amended, what it yields to, the vote required, and whether it can be reconsidered or applied to the main motion.

THE SPEAKER showed what she meant by the common-sense aspects of parliamentary procedure by pointing out that a motion to commit or refer should mention what committee should receive the proposal, how many members it should have and when it should make a report.

"If you don't inlcude all that, there has to be amendments and that takes time," she said.

She added that to be effective "a committee for action should be small; a committee for investigation should be large," and, in either case, a committee should represent factions both favoring and opposing the motion in question.

Such a committee, she explained, can in its report "try to anticipate the objections the assembly may have and can try to overcome them."

"Parliamentary law," she stated, "is supposed to expedite business, and it does if we do things the proper way."

GRACE BANKS said the chance to learn the proper way was her reason for joining the organization of parliamentarians.

"I kept being elected president of groups—garden club, women's clubs and all—and I decided I wanted to be able to do it right," she said.

MEMBERS OF THE KENWOOD Women's Club put on a skit spoofing women's club meetings for the recent workshop sponsored by the Michigan branch of the National Association of Parliamentarians recently in Southfield. MR. AND MRS. THOMAS DON FORD
(Deborah Ann Stewart)

Attendants wear rainbow pastel gowns

Seven attendants in rainbow pastel dresses and white picture hats preceded Deborah Ann Stewart to the altar of the Prayer Baptist Church of Westland when she became the bride of Thomas Don Ford.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Stewart of Ford Road, Plymouth. Her father gave her in marriage. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ford of Marietta, Ohio. Officiating for the ceremony was the Rev. Jack Story.

Lace fashioned the bride's gown and she carried a mixture of blue and white flowers with a white orchid in the center.

Cherrie Clemens, her sister's matron of honor, and the flower girl, Angie Story, wore blue dresses. In other pastel shades were bridesmaids Debbie MacDonald, Georgina Smokovitz, Patti White, Amy Story and Kathy Story.

Steve Ford, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. The ushers were Brian Ford, Billy Stewart, Bob Foley, Dave Morris and Paul Holzaphel.

After a reception in Vladimir's restaurant in Farmington Hills, the couple went on a Smoky Mountains honeymoon. They will live in Garden City.

The new Mrs. Ford, a 1969 graduate of Plymouth High School, is employed by Chevrolet Division of General Motors Corp. and her husband, who attended Salem College in West Virginia, works for Hydramatic.

Salem Rock JVs roll over Trenton

By THOMAS ZAIBEK
Special Writer

It was a 60-yard TD run by Trenton in the opening minutes of the game that seemed to arouse the Plymouth Salem JVs. After that, it was the Rocks all the way to a 22-6 victory—their second in as many games.

A Rick Hewlett to John Broderick pass, good for 20 yards, set up Hewlett's 40-yard run on the next play for Salem's first score. Bob Waite's point after touchdown was good to give Plymouth a 7-6 lead in the first quarter.

HEWLETT intercepted a Trenton pass on Salem's five-yard line and ran 80 yards to Trenton's 15-yard line to start the second quarter, but a Plymouth fumble on the next play prevented any scoring.

Trenton couldn't move the ball against the aggressive Rock defense and was forced to punt. But Mike Hasson broke through and blocked it, the ball going into the end zone for a two-point safety.

GRED DAVIS opened the second half by scampering 60 yards for another Rock TD. Waite's conversion was good.

Brian Stout completed the scoring by smashing six yards up the middle to paydirt. It was a sensational diving catch by Broderick that set up this scoring play.

Offensive linemen Bob Doherty, Hasson, Waite and Broderick did a superb job of line and downfield blocking.

The JV's next game will be an away game against Edsel Ford today (Thursday) and then a home game Thursday, Oct. 9, against Livonia Bentley JV beginning at 4 p.m.

Salem runners to face Dearborn

By BILL COLLINS
Special Writer

The Plymouth Salem cross country team will take on the Dearborn Pioneers today (Thursday) at home beginning at 4 p.m.

Dearborn has been a perennial power in Suburban Eight cross country, and have also won every league track title since the Suburban 8 was formed five years ago.

SALEM defeated Livonia Bentley a week ago, 34-21, for their first dual meet win over a conference opponent in four years.

Even though the Rocks have had little success in dual meet competition, they have shown formidable strength in the big meets.

Salem placed eighth out of 22 teams at the Schoolcraft Invitational earlier in the season. Sophomore Scott Kleam and junior Walt White finished third and tenth respectively out of 154 in the individual standings.

WITH EACH meet Salem has shown improvement, but whether they can improve enough to contend for the league title is a test that stands before them.

Rock freshmen blank Pierce

Tim Rightler rushed 102 yards. Sam Merrill scored two touchdowns. Paul Dillon scored one TD and Bill Bournias intercepted two passes—one good for a 50-yard runback for a TD.

That's how the Plymouth Salem freshman football team opened the season—a 31-0 trouncing of Pierce School.

Leading 25-0 at the half, Coach John Salter sent in his reserves. One more TD in the fourth quarter set the final score at 31-0.

It was a great defensive and offensive effort by the young Rocks who played Hilbert yesterday (Wednesday) and will meet Pearson in an away game Oct. 9.

"Chips off the ole Rock"

Readers who know about the good things young people in the community are doing are asked to share it with others in Chips Off the Rock. If you have good news to share, call us at 459-2700.

Special congratulations are in order to Lisa Santer of Plymouth Salem High who has been named a semi-finalist in the 1976 National Merit Scholarship program.

Lisa, the only student in Plymouth Community School District to be named a semifinalist this year, is among 15,000 who will continue in the competition for about 3,800 merit scholarships to be awarded next spring. Every finalist competes for 1,000 National Merit $1,000 Scholarships which are one-time, non-renewable awards.

The cheerleading squads have been chosen for the year at Belcher, Susan Coll, Kelly Harvey, Jill Miller, Marianne Mortensen, Ann O'Connel, Elaine Rouleau and Edie Shuman.

The eighth grade cheerleaders at Central Middle School include Sue Farwell, Sue Grinenko, Becky Hayes, Katy Heaton, Beth Rutter, Julie Sheedy, Debbie Thompson and Amy Williams.

William Schlie of Plymouth is among the 168 students at Ferris State College in Big Rapids who will be residence hall advisors this fall at the college. The students so chosen act as advisers, counselors and friends to the students who live on their floors in the college dormitories and have been trained to direct students to proper resource places and to function in case of emergencies.

Senior citizens offered meals

A hot lunch program for all senior citizens in the Plymouth Community School District has begun at Central Middle School, located at Main and Church in downtown Plymouth.

The program offers hot, well-balanced meals to senior citizens at inexpensive prices. Priced at 80 cents, the lunch is served between noon and 1 p.m. in the school cafeteria on all regular school days.

School officials resumed the hot lunch with the start of the school calendar year. The program began on a pilot basis at Central Middle School last spring.

Promoted

Specialist Michael D. Nowak, 33, of the crime laboratory of the Michigan State Police post in Plymouth, has been promoted to the rank of Specialist 10. Nowak joined the State Police in 1967, serving at Grand Haven and Houghton Lake before being transferred to Plymouth in 1973. He was born in Cedar Springs where he graduated from high school.

43 attend C-C golf outing

Some 43 golfers attended the first annual golf outing sponsored by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce at the Hilltop Glenn Golf Course, Powell at Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth Township.

Winners of prizes totaled 32 with the top winners being: Tim Kennedy, low gross, weekend for two at Plymouth Hilton Inn; Dan Loiselle, low net, a drill set; Tom Shankie, longest drive and closest to pin, a golf sweater and $19 in prize money; and Pat Evans, highest net, a duffle bag.

Some 25 merchants in Plymouth donated prizes for the outing. Food was catered by Bill's Market of Old Village and beer was provided by the Side Street Lounge.

The chamber plans to make the golf outing an annual event. Proceeds will help to finance the chamber's program and retail committees operations.

Locklin Pines is for the birds... and the fish, the deer
and many other beautiful creatures.

Between the lakes: thousands of fifty year old pine trees and a wildlife sanctuary. There just isn't a whole lot of room left for people - only 2.4 families per acre. But for those who like lakeside living on a natural West Bloomfield setting, we are making a few exceptions.

Locklin Pines is sure to be the most unique development you've ever seen. The homes are detached condominiums, which means each home is separate. No two homes ever touch each other. They come in a variety of ranch and colonial elevation treatments with from 2 to 5 bedrooms. Every home comes complete with a 2 car garage, basement, kitchen appliances, carpeting, Andersen windows, decks, balconies and some even feature private court yards and atriums.

The unusually high custom workmanship and materials standards at Locklin Pines are maintained by the builder - Rex Bennett - who lives there himself, and is more than willing to make any custom modifications you desire.

WOODVIEW
A PERFECT APARTMENT IN A PERFECT NATURAL SETTING...

Surrounded almost entirely by natural forest area, WOODVIEW is just 100 yards from the entrance to famous Holliday Park. Secluded and quiet are the two best words to describe WOODVIEW. When you desire the services of one of Michigan's prestige shopping areas, it's just a 10 minute walk to Hudson's Westland or the new Kroger Center. You'll choose to live in Westland, because of Edward Hines Park, many nearby golf courses, the schools, public and private, places of worship and the expressways. Like living in-town, but bathed in the beauty of natural woods and scenery. WOODVIEW apartments are new, stunning in appearance inside and out. The rooms are extra large. Here are some of the many wonderful features in wonderful WOODVIEW . . .

■ Fully Carpeted ■ Air Conditioned ■ Refrigerator/Freezer ■ Self/Cleaning Range & Oven ■ Automatic Dishwasher ■ Carports ■ Private Balconies and patios with landscaped terraces ■ Double sliding glass doors ■ Magnificent WOODVIEW CLUB, one of the largest and most complete with private swimming pool, locker rooms, saunas and meeting rooms ■ Nature trails and Hiking Paths ■ No doubt about it, wonderful WOODVIEW in Westland is a natural place for you . . . and your family!

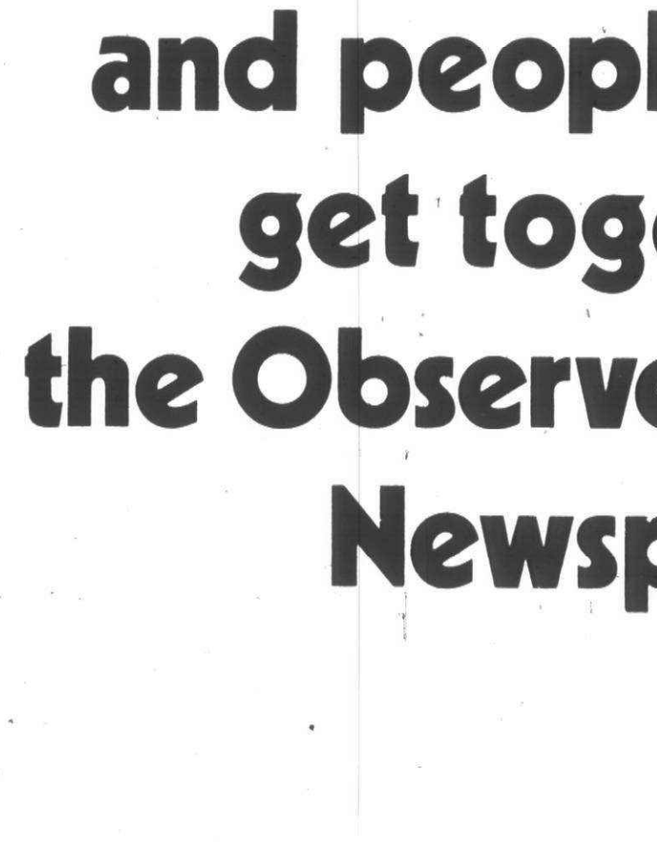
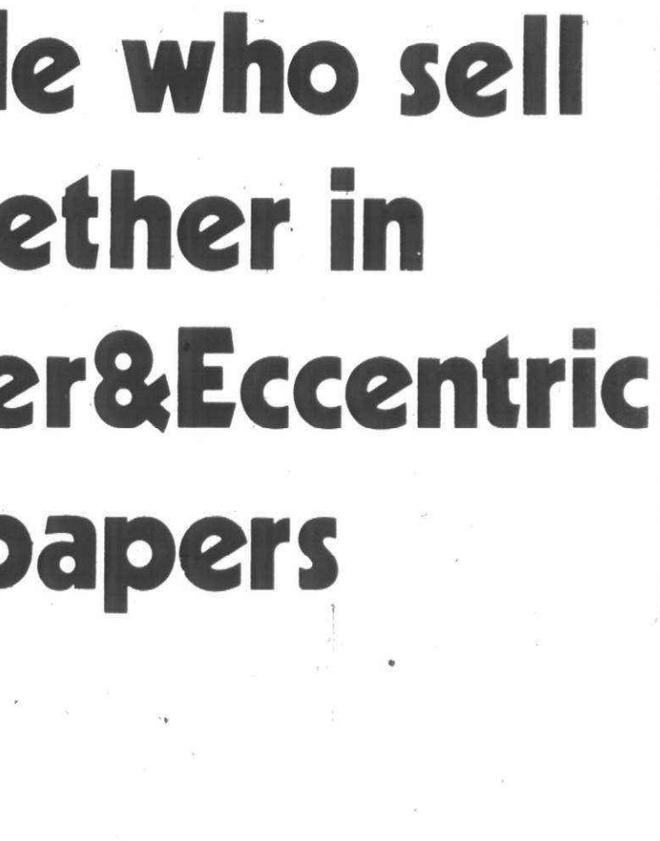
People who buy and people who sell get together in the Observer&Eccentric Newspapers





Buyers and sellers are "strange" people. Strange to each other, that is. People with lots of different needs and wants, people who need to get together. They need to get together in the quickest, least expensive and most effective way possible—the Observer & Eccentric Want Ads.

Say you need a buyer for a bunch of baby basset hounds, or a really good home for a litter of antiques...How do you meet those unknown admirers with an eye for your special goods? How do you keep track of sellers with garage sales, and owners of autos and pets to trade? It's easy -- when you know where buyers and sellers get together best—the Observer & Eccentric Classifieds.

It's easy to get double buying and selling results, too. Double-Action Ads bring people together from all over Wayne and Oakland Counties. These suburban communities include: Birmingham, Bloomfield, West Bloomfield, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Rochester, Avon Twp., Southfield and Troy in Oakland County; Livonia, Garden City, Plymouth, Plymouth Twp., Canton Twp., Redford Twp., and Westland in Wayne County. Smart buyers and sellers place a Double Action Family Want Ad (non business) of 15 words or less in two consecutive issues, with no changes in copy and no cancellations -- and they pay only $6. That's a savings of $2.00 off the regular cost of placing an ad in two issues.

When you have something to sell...when you have something to buy...you've got a lot in common in the Observer & Eccentric Classified Want Ads.

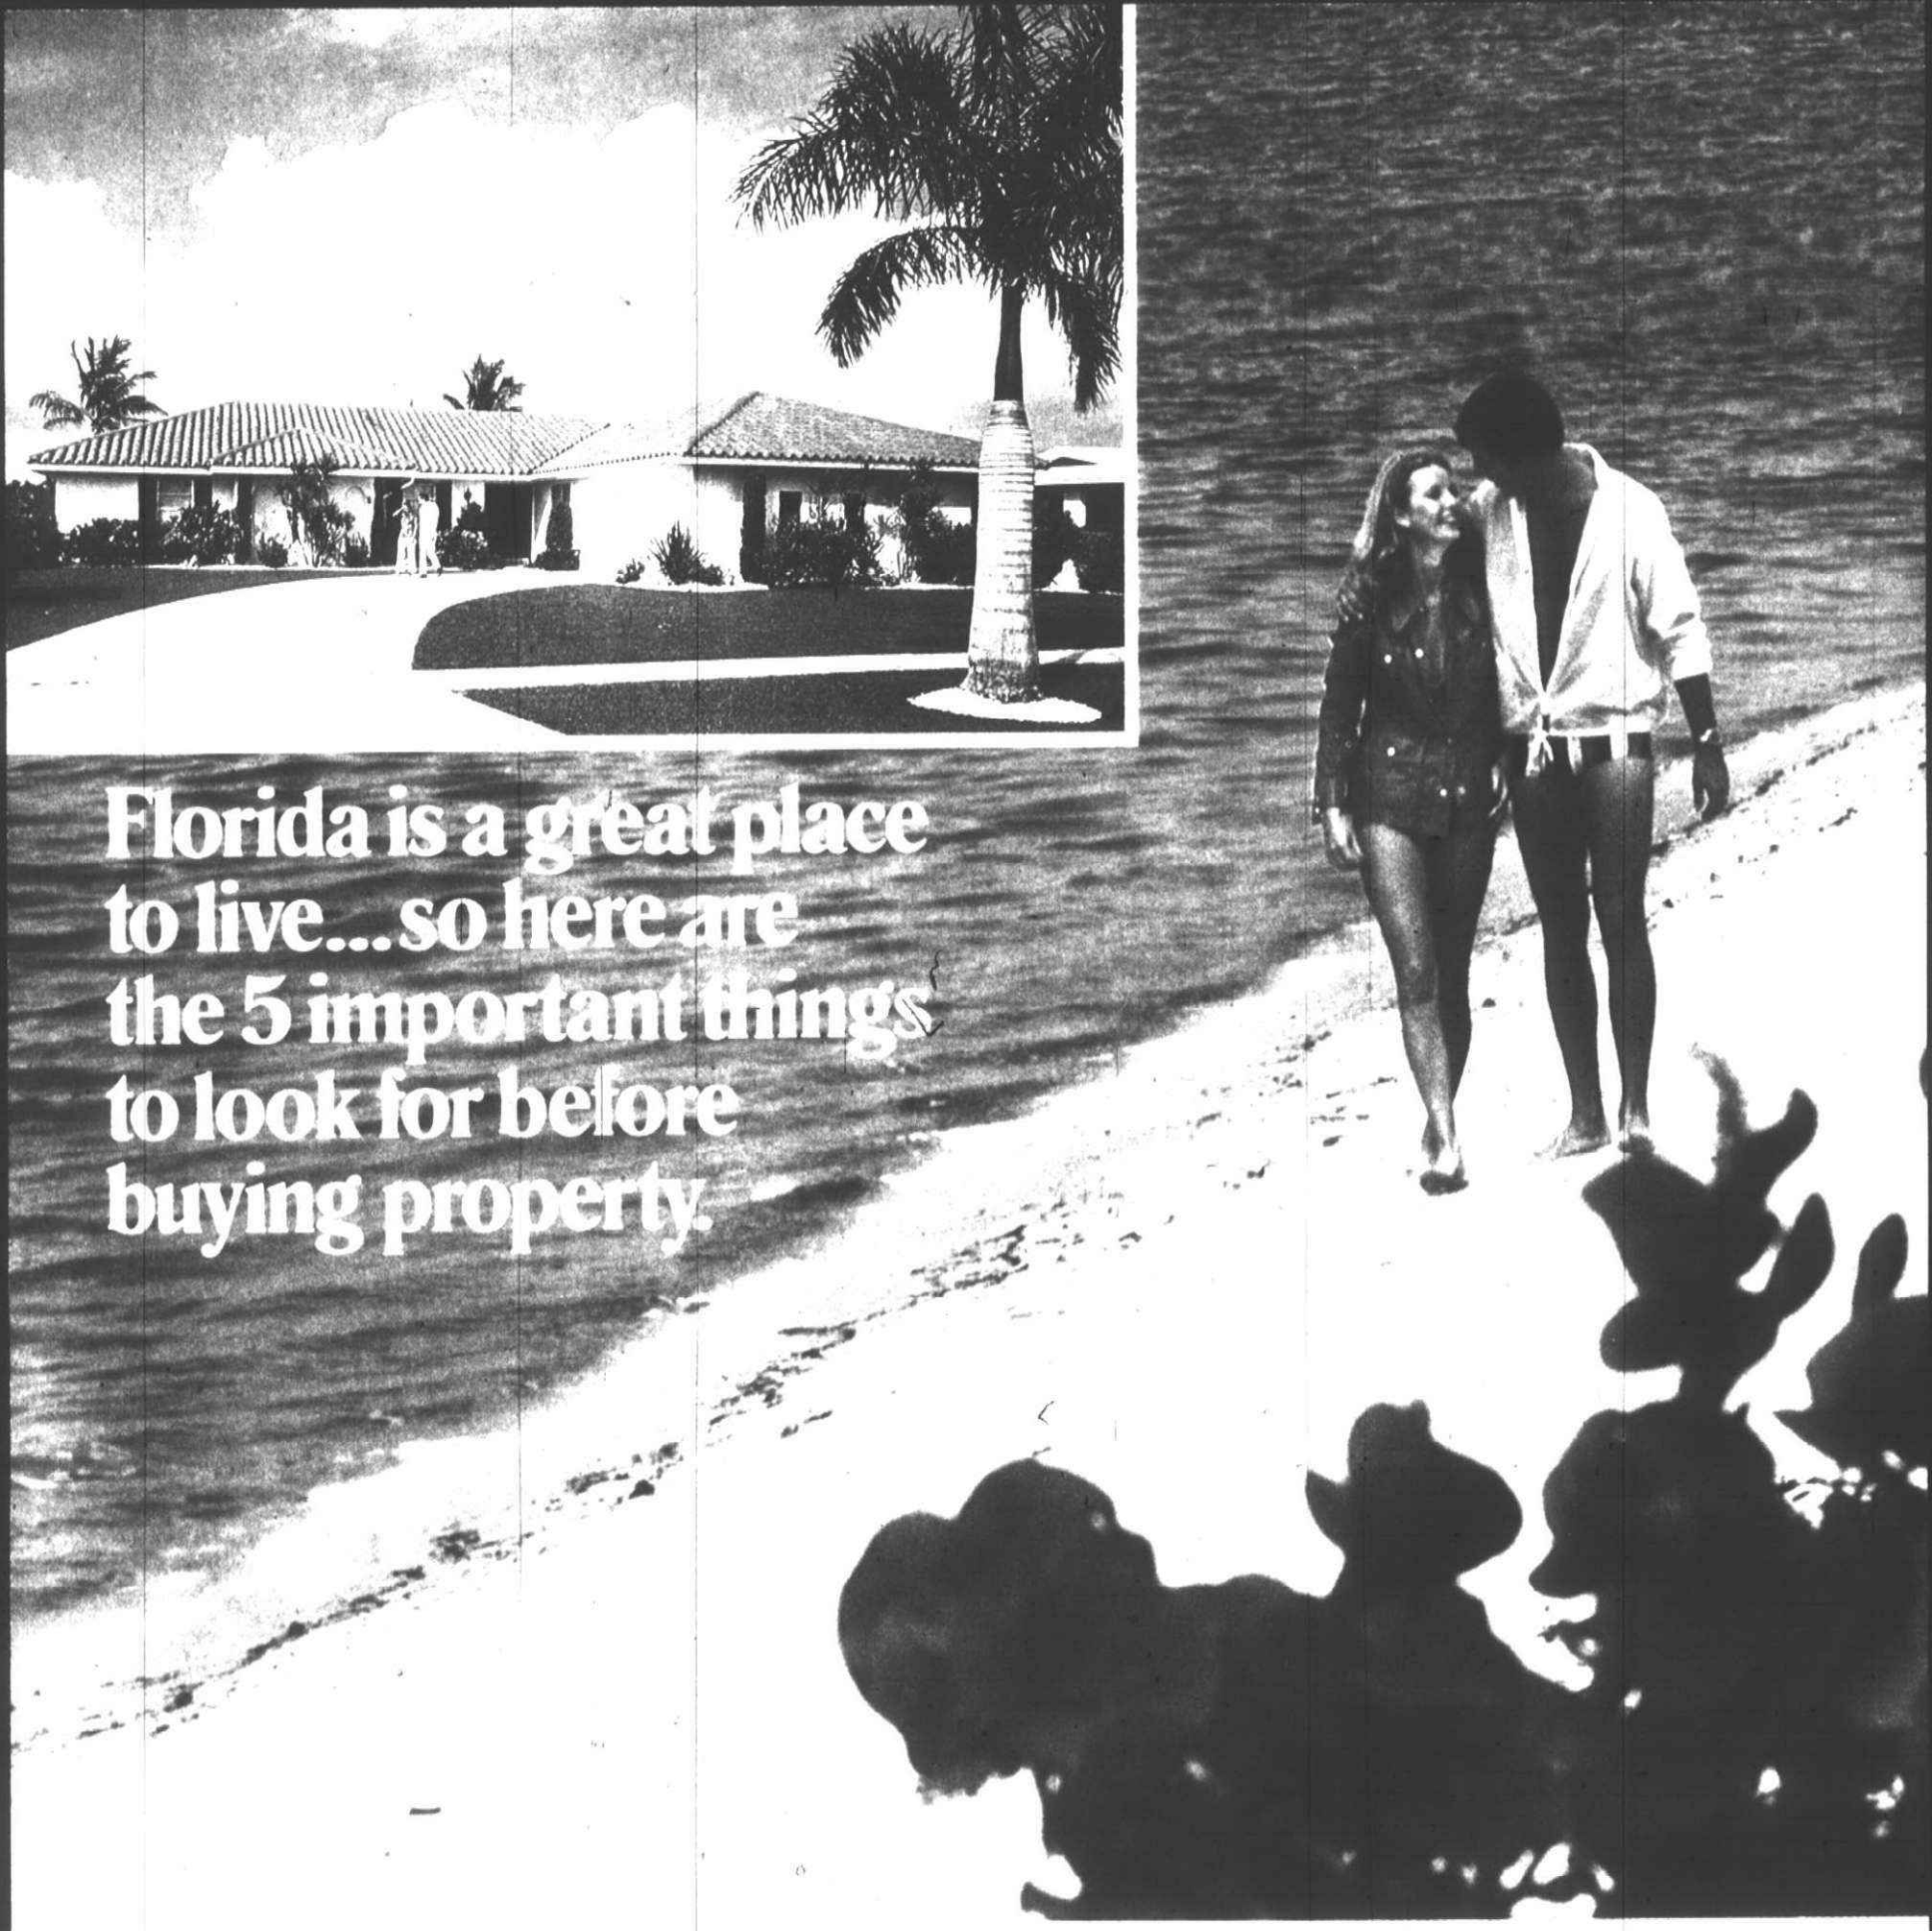
Florida is a great place to live....so here are the 5 important things to look for before buying property.



Buying a homesite in Florida is a big decision. But not all Florida property is the same. Before buying, the wise shopper carefully checks out the community he is interested in. For instance. Does the area cater to tourists? (If so, you may find living costs even more expensive than where you live now.) Are there shopping facilities? How about schools? Houses of worship? Recreational facilities? Does the community suit your lifestyle? Are your neighbors too old for you? Too young? There are some sections where you may feel overcrowded...while others are so isolated it's possible to feel shut off from civilization.

One sure way to buy wisely in Florida.

To help you decide, General Development has published a comprehensive Property Buying Kit about their Florida communities. Here in "plain talk" language you'll learn how these communities fulfill the five all-important facts to consider before buying a Florida homesite.

1. DESIRABILITY:

Florida is a great place to buy property ... if you know what you're doing.

2. CLIMATE:

Year round sunshine. But above the frost line you may be in for a chilly surprise.

3. ENVIRONMENT:

The community you buy in today ... will it still be beautiful ten years from now?

4. LIVING COSTS:

Can you afford to live in Florida? Can you afford not to?

5. PERFORMANCE:

The community you're interested in: What do the people who already live there have to say about it? Does the developer have a long term commitment? Has he lived up to all his promises?

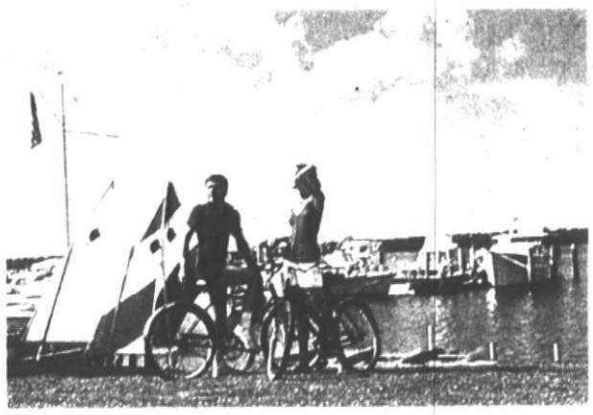
Our representative will contact you within 48 hours.

More than 50,000 residents now live in General Development communities.

Florida has many well planned communities. But we believe the ones developed by General Development are among the best. These include Port Charlotte, Port Malabar, Port St. Lucie and Port LaBelle. Each has its own distinctive lifestyle.

To learn more, mail the card below. Your local General Development representative will contact you immediately. He will answer your questions with no cost or obligation on your part. In addition, he will bring you our Property Buying Kit. You'll learn many things you should know about homes, schools, shopping and sports facilities. About tax advantages and financing. How you can buy a homesite now and put up a home ten years from now. Or how you can move in tomorrow ... all on an easy installment basis. He will leave our Property Buying Kit with you to examine at your leisure.

Mail the card today. It can make a big difference in your future.



A letter from the President of General Development

The purchase of a homesite or a home in Florida is one of the biggest single decisions and potentially most gratifying experiences in a family's lifetime. The purchaser's anticipation of moving to Florida encompasses many dreams. General Development feels deeply its responsibility in helping each customer fulfill those dreams.

Currently, General Development is building seven separate communities in Florida, collectively covering more than 380 square miles. Many of the communities are composed of numerous villages reflecting a variety of lifestyles and environments. Over $165 million dollars has already been spent on land development, road building, installation of drainage and utility systems, construction of waterways, seven golf courses, a major resort hotel, shopping centers and a variety of commercial and recreational facilities serving more than 50,000 residents in our communities.

General Development's total assets exceed $365 million dollars. The company's stock is owned by more than 10,000 shareholders. It is listed on the New York, Midwest, Pacific and Toronto stock exchanges.

During the past twenty years, General Development has endeavored to meet all of its commitments to its many customers, and we are dedicated to continuing that tradition. The success of our way of doing business is evidenced by the fact that more than a third of our new business comes from customers sent to us by people who have already purchased homesites in one of our communities. We look forward to providing the finest Florida living for our growing number of customers this year and for years to come.
