Concerned parents ask end to modular scheduling

By EMORY DANIELS

Concerned Parents released its survey on the educational programs at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) to the Plymouth Board of Education Monday night.

Of those responding to the survey, 62 per cent are said to favor abolishing modular scheduling. In answer to another question, 68 per cent indicated they want a return to traditional scheduling.

Through Nov. 22, Concerned Parents received 3,778 completed surveys. Of those, 55 were from parents whose children were enrolled in private high schools and weren't included in the tabulation of results. Another 15 were invalidated, primarily because of a lack of signature or address.

Of the 3,708 responses tabulated, some 1,335 households presently have students in high school, 302 households once had students in high school locally, and 441 households have students in middle schools. Almost half of the respondents, 1,630, have children in elementary schools or don't have children enrolled in Plymouth Community School District.

AFTER PRESENTING the survey results to the board, Concerned Parents in a letter to the board asked the board to:

1. Indicate via public directives a review of the program at Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools. "Our survey, we believe, clearly indicates those areas needing concentration and alteration," the letter states.

2. Establish realistic deadlines for reviewing alterations. "Realistic, in this instance, shouldn't be construed to mean 'under advisement' or 'under study' and 'we're looking into it' as being adequate response by the board."

3. And that residents be advised of the board's course of action by Dec. 1 so Concerned Parents can determine "if further action on their part is necessary."

In a letter to the board, the group stated: "Concerned Parents foundation has been 'parental concern,' and not a vendetta against any person, persons or ideologies."

The group reports that individual survey forms are available for audit and have been maintained in such a manner as to be easily audited by responsible parties. The survey forms will remain in custody of the Concerned Parents committee.

TWO MAJOR questions were asked in the survey along with other questions. They were:

"Would you definitely like to see the modular scheduling system abolished from the Plymouth Community High School?" (3,122 yes/no respondents, 62 per cent for abolishment, 38 per cent against abolishment);

"Would you favor returning to the system used in the Plymouth Community High School, prior to the opening of the CEP and present modular scheduling?" (2,955 yes/no respondents, 68 per cent favored return to traditional, 32 per cent favored staying with modular.

Of the two major questions, the results were closest among the 1,335 households with students presently attending the CEP. Of those with students at the CEP, 52 per cent favored abolishing modular scheduling (10 per cent below all surveyed) and 57 per cent wanted a return to traditional scheduling (11 per cent below all surveyed).

Of those 302 who had students attend the CEP within the last three years but don't now, 70 per cent wanted to abolish modular scheduling and 75 per cent wanted a return to traditional scheduling. Of the 441 households with students in middle schools, 72 per cent want to abolish modular and 79 per cent want to return to traditional.

Of the 1,630 with children at the elementary level, without children in school, or with children who attended high school more than three years ago: 67 per cent wanted to abolish modular and 75 per cent wanted a return to traditional.

ANOTHER QUESTION asked was "Do you feel the school(s) exercise adequate control over the high school student(s) during the school hours?"

Of the 2,767 yes/no respondents, 72 per cent felt adequate control isn't exercised over students during school hours. Again, the lowest percentage (71) believing there was a lack of control came from those households with students now enrolled in the CEP.

Of the information released to the press Monday night, no other questions or responses were listed.

IN SUMMARY, Concerned Parents stated that it "feels that the results of the survey clearly indicate citizen disapproval of the programs in effect at the two high schools.

"This dissatisfaction is high among all categories of citizens. It is surprisingly higher among parents of recent graduates and parents of tomorrow's students, the current middle school attendees.

"We believe the survey mandates that corrective action be taken relative to the programs of the two high schools."

The board received the survey, and Board President Marda Benson asked if representatives of Concerned Parents would be available to meet with the board in the near future. George Merchant, representing Concerned Parents, said they would.

No immediate comments were made by trustees who received the survey during the comments from citizens portion of the agenda for Monday's regularly scheduled meeting. Presentation of the survey was followed by statements of representatives from Concerned Students asking the board to delay action until the reliability of the survey can be determined.

Students respond to survey results

Three representatives of Concerned Students asked the Plymouth Board of Education Monday night, immediately following release of survey results by Concerned Parents, that action on the survey be delayed until it is determined whether it is valid.

Kalvin Snoberger asked for a delay of a couple of weeks, stating that Concerned Students sent a copy of the survey to a research department at Michigan State University and a research group in Ann Arbor for evaluation. That evaluation is expected to be returned next week.

He asked the board to consider the number of parents who received survey forms, the reliability and validity of the survey, and whether the questions were biased before it officially considers the results.

Snoberger urged the board to conduct its own survey, suggesting the board could conduct a less partial survey. "If you do consider traditional and modular scheduling, we hope you consider modifications in modular and alternatives, instead of abolishment."

TWO OTHER representatives offered a discussion on the good and bad points of modular scheduling.

Kevin Snoberger suggested the good points are: the resources centers; independent study opportunities; the radio station; the community service organization; open laboratories; individual help from teachers; a wide range of class offerings; more time to eat lunch; a more personal approach to learning; time to work with other students; chance to study in a relaxed atmosphere; and availability of extra-curricular activities during the regular school day, such as the yearbook, newspaper and radio station.

He stated that some teachers believe students on traditional scheduling skip class twice as much as those on modular because they have no time off and feel depressed.

KATHY SNYDER offered these as bad points to modular scheduling:

More trash in the commons area; (cafeteria) the high number of students in the commons area at one time; and those who use their unstructured time unwisely, which she feels is a small percentage.

She said she believes Salem and Canton highs are among those with the least drug problems in this area. She added that most teachers make reports to parents when students skip class, and that students cannot drop a class without permission of the parents and teacher.

Parsell says

Pay for lights

The long struggle between Canton Township and the Detroit Edison Company over subdivision street lighting may soon come to an end if the township board acts on treasurer Carl Parsell's recommendation to move ahead by "fronting the money" for the lights.

The township, stalled in its request for street lighting in five subdivisions (Carriage Hills four and six, and Windsor Park 4-6), should pay the money and get the project under way immediately, according to Parsell.

Edison put Canton's request, among others, on hold, pending the outcome of a series of public hearings before the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) on Edison's request to be relieved of its obligation to install lights with its own money.

"When we asked for the lights a year ago, we were told that Edison didn't have the money and that they would not install lights. Since then, we have been investigating the matter and waiting for the public service commission's decision," explained clerk John Flodin.

According to the clerk, until the last year or so, Edison had been willing to both survey and install lights in new subdivisions.

"WE WERE given two options this time," said Flodin. "We could put the money first and have Edison install the lights, or we could contract privately."

Flodin said the township decided instead to wait for the public service commission's ruling.

"Before, all we had to do was to issue the order and Edison would provide us with a scheme. Their engineers would show us where to position the lights and we would just tell them to go ahead and they would," he added. "But this time they told us they were in a severe crunch and they couldn't borrow the money to pay for the lights first."

According to Flodin, Edison billed the township over a period of time for the light installation and the electricity. That bill, in turn, was transferred to homeowners benefiting from the street lights.

ALTHOUGH the decision to wait on the MPSC's ruling had been made, Parsell now thinks it wise to move ahead and front the money for the lights.

He explained: "Although the MPSC hasn't ruled yet, the information I have is that it will not be favorable. But it appears if we move now and front the money, we will get a full credit back from Edison."

According to estimates provided by Edison, cost of installation for a single light pole is between $1,500 and $2,000.

Present estimates for installing lights in five subdivisions is $200,000. Parsell said the money is available from a surplus in the water department.

"From what I have heard," he said, "if we enter into a contract before the MPSC rules, Edison will credit us $180 a year per light until the lights are paid for. If we wait until afterwards, they will only credit us for two years."

"That means we'll lose about $1,200 a light since they'll only credit us a total of $360 per light."

Parsell said billing procedures for township residents would remain the same, even if the township fronts the money. "We'll set up special assessment districts for the lights and bill the homeowners for the exact cost of the lights, interest and electricity the same as before."

"I think this way we can save the township an enormous amount of money," he added.

Although no specific date has been set for revealing the MPSC's ruling on the matter, Parsell said he expected the commission to declare its findings before Dec. 31.

Canton Farms? ---

Officials discuss postal name

By DARLENE STINSON

"Canton Farms" or "Plymouth Farms" or "Hucklebury Heights" may one day appear on the mail of Canton residents and replace the name given to the township in the 1930s.

Because of a decision giving Canton its own zip code and mailing address, township officials must soon decide for township mailing purposes between "Canton" and a multitude of other names.

Joseph J. Loukotka, district director of the U. S. Postal Services' customer service division, says postal authorities will submit an official name request to the township in three or four weeks.

Postal authorities, he added, will probably request a name submission within a month, after township officials receive the request. Postal officials hope to establish Canton's zip code by January or February of 1976.

Although Canton officials have not yet discussed the township's name at the board table, members of the township's administration have their own ideas about a name.

THE NAME given to the township will probably follow the municipality, if it ever adopts cityhood, they say. The township's name, they add, is an important feature of the community's identity.

Township officials feel a name change will necessitate residents' input. Canton Supervisor Robert Greenstein says an election could be necessary.

"There's a million ways to come up with a name or decide to stay with Canton," Greenstein said. "The obvious way to go about it is to have an election or maybe we could make it a bicentennial contest."

Greenstein said township officials could probably place the name issue on any of three elections slated for the coming year. The presidential primary is scheduled in May, the township primary in August and the township election in November.

"Personally, I'd like to see Canton stay part of the name," the supervisor added. "I'm kind of used to that."

Township Treasurer Carl Parsell feels a name should promote and describe a community. If township officials' attempts to preserve Canton's agricultural community are a success, he said, the name "Canton Farms" or "Plymouth Farms" would accurately describe the community.

"The name Canton by itself doesn't tell anything," Parsell maintains. "By attaching Farms to the name, you're telling people this community is something different. It's becoming increasingly important that food comes from farms and fresh air comes from open areas."

The name Canton Farms or Plymouth Farms would help promote the community, Parsell suggests.

"I WANT TO do something to promote the community—not just stay with the name Canton," he said. "I think the name is important for identity. We're trying to entice businesses to come out here. Canton hasn't said anything in the past."

Parsell compared Canton with nearby communities.

"Plymouth has done an excellent job selling Plymouth," he said.

"When you hear the name Farmington Hills, you know it's a nice hilly community somewhere near Farmington."

Parsell and Clerk John Flodin say some Canton residents, particularly those living within the current Plymouth postal area, wish to maintain an identity with their neighbors. Canton is currently divided into four postal areas—Plymouth, Wayne, Belleville and Ypsilanti.

If the majority of township residents wish to maintain an identity with Plymouth, Canton officials could dub the township Plymouth Farms, Parsell said.

Greenstein and Flodin hope the word Canton appears in the township's future name.

All but one of approximately 30 businessmen at a recent Chamber of Commerce meeting voted to retain the name Canton, Greenstein noted. One person voted to adopt a name with the word Plymouth.

Said Flodin, "I'm used to Canton. My own personal preference is the name Canton should not be lost. I'd like to see that name preserved."

Sex offender gets probation

Lawrence Stone Franklin Jr., 32, of Canton Township, who had pleaded "no contest" on the charge of criminal sexual conduct, first degree, against a Westland woman, has been placed on three-years probation.

Wayne County Circuit Court Judges James Montante handed out the sentence to Franklin last week. Franklin had been free on $10,000 bond while awaiting sentence.

Plymouth police had testified that on May 28, Franklin was arrested at his home at 7631 Kingsbridge, following a complaint by a Westland woman who said she was forced at gunpoint to commit a sexual act in the creek area near McKinley and Ann Arbor roads three days earlier. She claimed she had parked her car on McKinley because she had trouble turning off the car's interior lights.

POLICE SAID the woman was approached by a man who asked her what the trouble was. At that point, the man pulled a gun, shoved it into her side saying, "I've got a gun. You're not going anywhere."

He then allegedly forced her to the ground. When a car drove past, he ordered her "not to make a sound" and grabbed her by the throat.

He then forced her to the bridge where the alleged sexual act took place, police said.

He is then reported to have gone back to the woman's car saying, "Ok, I'll try to fix it." In the attempt to repair the lights, the man broke his ignition key in the car's fuse holder. He left on foot saying, "I'll see you later."

The victim ran to a house and called police. She reportedly identified Franklin at a pre-trial hearing.

Police Chief Timothy Ford of Plymouth said it was an investigation by a task force headed by Lt. William Guldner and made up of Det. Robert Commire and officer Ralph White of the Plymouth police, along with Det. Sgt. James Collins and Trooper Charles Hoover of the Michigan State Police, that led to the arrest of Franklin.

Wayne - Westland bond vote Monday

By DENNY COFFMAN

Voter turnout remained an iffy question to Wayne-Westland School District officials who refused to speculate on the outcome of a $25 million school bond proposal on Monday's (Dec. 1) ballot.

Last June, when 8,000 of the districts 40,000 voters went to the polls to elect two school board members, they also turned thumbs down on a $28 million bond proposal by a margin of about 500 votes.

School district officials are hoping that the changes they made in the bond proposals will be enough to effect a victory at the polls.

Monday's election will ask voters to approve a two-part bonding package. About $20 million will be spent to repair and renovate existing facilities, and to provide additional vocational education and special education facilities (Proposal A).

About $5 million will be spent, pending voter approval, on the construction of swimming pools at district junior high schools (Proposal B).

THE PACKAGE TURNED DOWN in June was a single proposal that included construction of new elementaries for Lincoln and Jefferson, a new central administration building in addition to the repair work, junior high pool construction and special ed and vocational ed facilities.

Based on a survey of the June election, the district has opted to deliver the bond proposal to voters in two parts.

The survey indicated that voters were displeased with pool construction and a new administration office building, and, as a result, turned down the entire package. A large proportion of "no" voters also indicated an inability to absorb any kind of increase in taxes.

Monday's proposals' combined total is about $3 million less than the June proposal.

The immediate result to district taxpayers will be a 1/2 mill increase in the school millage rate for Proposal A, and a .1 mill increase for Proposal B. The additional .6 mill increase, assuming both proposals are passed, would bring the debt retirement millage rate to 7.6 mills.

The district now carries the heaviest school tax burden in the state—44 mills including debt retirement and operating costs.

THOUGH SCHOOL Supt. Timothy Dyer would not comment on how he thinks the election will go, he did indicate that school employees have given his administration "excellent" support in its attempt to rally votes for the two proposals.

"We've been meeting with many more persons this time, than we did during the June campaign," said Dyer. "The entire Wayne-Westland family has poured out to explain issues to voters. They've cleared up a lot of misconceptions."

The two bonding proposals have the support of the Wayne-Westland Education Association (WWEA), the teacher union, and of State Rep. Thomas Brown (D-Westland) whose district includes Canton Township and part of Plymouth.

"It's absolutely essential that the bond issue passes," Dyer said. "It's vital. School buildings are on the verge of collapsing. We can't deliver special education and vocational education programs without the new facilities."

"Without the bond passage, we'd have to cut into our operating budget and we'd have to contemplate closing some buildings," said Dyer in reference to Proposal A.

"Proposal B would be a tremendous addition to our physical education program."

PROPOSAL A WOULD provide the following:

- New plumbing, electrical, heating and ventilation systems at Lincoln and Jefferson elementaries and in the central administration building.
- Special education classrooms, orthopedic therapy rooms and an orthopedic pool.
- Vocational education center at John Glenn High School.

The voc-ed center would offer programs in computer maintenance, auto body repair, welding and medical lab technology. Such facilities could, the administration says, be used by adult

Thanksgiving service is set

Persons of all faiths will gather Wednesday in Calvary Baptist Church, 43065 Joy, Canton Township, for a Thanksgiving inter-denominational service.

The Rev. David Cox, pastor of the Plymouth Wesleyan Church, will officiate over the service, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. William M. Stahl, pastor of First Baptist Church of Plymouth, will deliver the sermon.

Pastors in the Plymouth Evangelical Fellowship will participate in the service as will the Calvary Baptist Choir.

The community-wide service has been held to observe Thanksgiving for the past several years.

education students as well as high school students.

Dyer maintained that about 70 per cent of Wayne-Westland students do not go on to college and the voc-ed center would give them a better chance in the job market.

PROPOSAL B WOULD build swimming pools that would, the administration says, be used by about 23,000 students. The pools could be used to teach water safety and would be available to district residents at a nominal fee.

"Speaking of repairs in the district, Dyer said: The Board of Education ceiling collapsed and the heat is either on or off (nothing in between). The drainage causes reverberations throughout the building."

"About two thirds of the schools in the district need new roofs," said Dyer.

If either of the bonding proposals is passed, the district will be able to take advantage of a special state School Bond Loan Fund.

Under the loan fund plan, the district would have to begin paying only 10 per cent of the annual principal and interest on the new bonds. The state loan program would provide the other 90 per cent of the funds.

This white-feathered bird is a far cry from wild turkey the Pilgrims enjoyed back in 1621.

America's beloved birdbrain: the gobbler

By W.W.EDGAR

When you sit down to your Thanksgiving Day dinner, before you take knife and fork in hand to do justice to the richly prepared brown turkey in the center of the table, you should stop and give thanks to those who had the patience to raise it. For the turkey we know today is considered by those who should know as the dumbest creature that ever walked, crawled or flew.

Our white-feathered, squatty bird today is a far cry from the dark feathered wild turkey on which the Pilgrims feasted on that first Thanksgiving back in 1621.

That bird was a sleek creature that roamed the wild country and offered a great challenge to those who tried to track him down with their muskets.

The bird we have today has been crossbred so often to provide more white meat that its intelligence- and sharpness- along with its stately stature and dark feathers have departed. It is now just a "dumb" bird.

THIS DUMBNESS, so the experts claim, is shown right after being hatched. For while occupants of every rung on the evolutionary ladder are born or hatched with the instinct to eat, this isn't so with the turkey. All the little "turks" do is peck.

Many turkey raisers tell you that, in order to get the turkey to eat, you scatter marbles through the feed trough. In pecking at the marbles he'll accidentally feed himself until he learns that is what you wanted him to do in the first place.

The real fun of raising turkeys comes when they are old enough to be sent out to pasture in the big turkey yards like you see at Roperti's farm on Five Mile Road in Livonia.

But you must have patience. According to the experts, like the old-time farmers who have long since given up, the turkey can fly like a goose except that he knows how to fly in only one direction. On rare occasions when he flies out of the yard, he doesn't have enough sense to turn and fly back. (You never see them out of the yard at Roperti's or at Gottschalk's on North Territorial Road in Plymouth.)

And while the turkey on the outside gets lonesome for his mates inside he'll get blisters on his feet walking back and forth along the fence to find a hole through which he can crawl.

IF YOU DON'T think it takes patience to raise turkeys, just visit a turkey farm and watch the caretaker try to get them from one pen to another.

Most other animals can be rounded up quite easily, but not the turkey. You have to have the patience of Job to get them all moving in the right direction at the same time.

You should see them in a storm, especially sand storms. They stampede like cattle until they hit a barrier. And woe unto those birds that get there first. They don't usually live to gobble about it.

No, they are not cowards. They are just dumb enough trying to beat each other in the race to safety. But let a big dog, or a human, come along and they'll gang up on him.

One must be mindful of those beaks, too. They are sharp, and if you stoop to pick up an object, they can draw blood from the most tender part of your body.

It is true, today's turkey is a far different bird from the wild ones on which our forefathers feasted. It is a lot dumber.

That's why, on this Thanksgiving Day, when you sit down to feast on the bird, you should give thanks to those who had the patience to raise it.

Holiday tradition continues at Geer

Turkey and stuffing and an old-fashioned dash of community spirit have marked Thanksgiving in the Geer School attendance area for the past 94 years.

Despite the lapse of numerous holiday seasons and a move to a larger school for the dinner feast, Thanksgiving 1975 has continued the ancient tradition of the old one-room school.

Residents of the Geer School attendance area last week shared the traditional holiday feast over a community table for the 94th year in a row.

Adults carried bowls of salads and jellies and pot-luck delicacies, while elementary pupils, clad in pioneer dress, prepared their traditional Thanksgiving program.

And, although families this year traveled to Bird Elementary School via car instead of horse and buggy, the old community event has remained essentially unchanged.

"It's still the biggest thing of the year," Geer teacher Rita McClumpha said of the Thanksgiving feast. "It's really a community function."

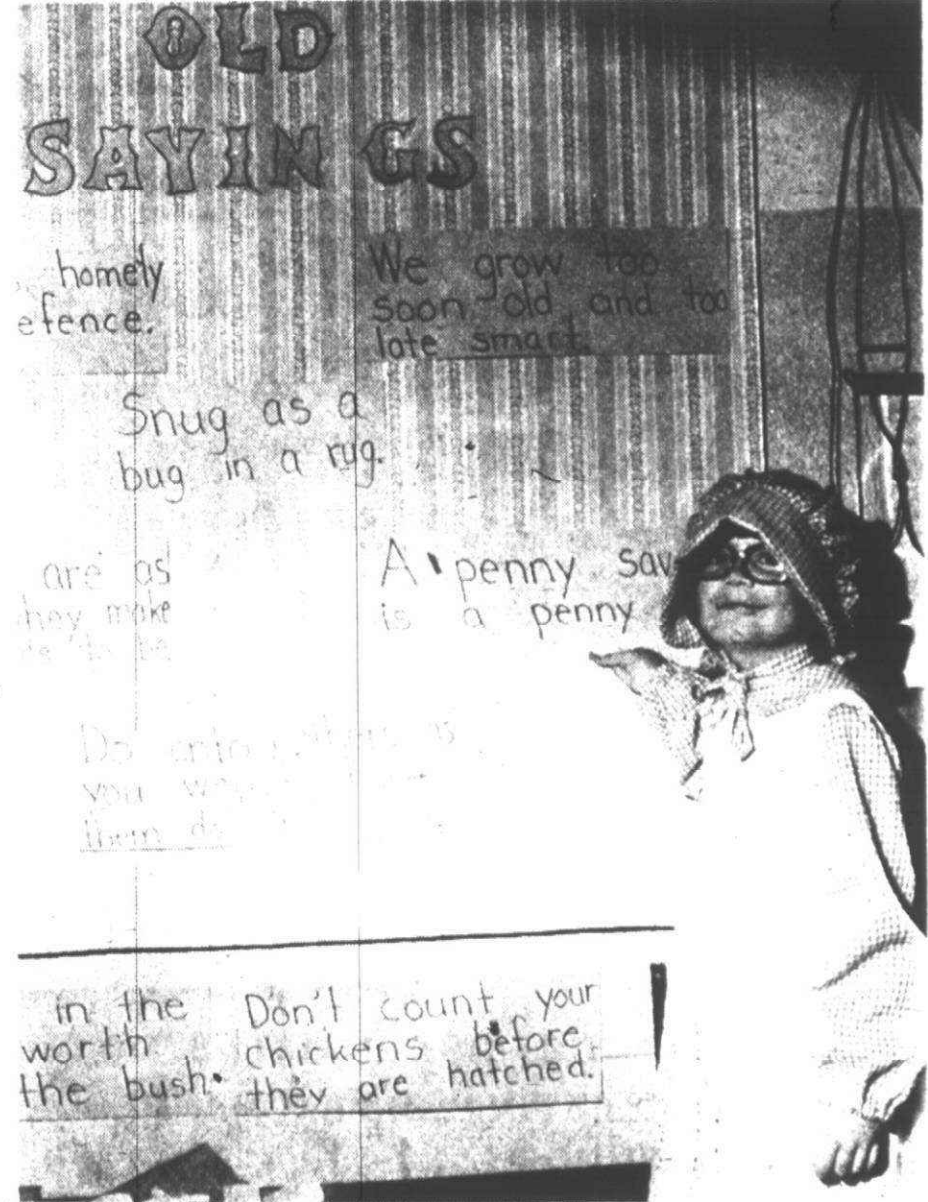

About 150 persons were expected to attend last week's feast—the biggest turnout ever, Mrs. McClumpha said. The attendance prompted school officials to slate the dinner at Bird rather than Geer Elementary School, a one-room building housing 27 pupils at Ann Arbor Road and Gofredson.

Geer pupils this year presented a program about the American Revolution through dramatic and musical mediums. Students researched and practiced the program for weeks, said Mrs. McClumpha, who teaches all of Geer's four grade levels.

Students visit Greenfield Village

All 27 of Geer School's pupils spent hours practicing a Thanksgiving play last week. Betsy Ross, played by Deveny Deck, displays the country's first flag, while Sam Adams, played by Fred Miller, looks on. The play was performed after last week's communitywide Thanksgiving feast.

Practicing for Geer's community Thanksgiving dinner and program are Lance Nagy, 10, and Alec Williams, 8.

Greenfield Village visit

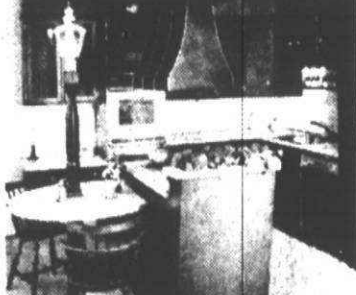

Second graders in Susan Schrader's class at Allen Elementary School recently spent a day in the old Miller School in Greenfield Village. The pupils, dressed in colonial costumes, used old readers, slates and spelling books, and participated in an old-fashioned spelling bee to get the feel of a colonial-era school. The trip was slated as part of the class's unit on colonial times.

The pupils made apple head dolls and soap from scratch, and mothers made costumes for the field trip. Mrs. Schrader (above, left) fills out certificates for students making the trip. Irene Booker, 7, (above, right), points to some old sayings in the classroom. (Staff photos by Maurie Walker)

"Yes, Santa Claus will be coming to Plymouth but for how long would be the question," says Janet Curlee, executive secretary of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

"The type of Santa Claus that appears represents the whole community of Plymouth and shows what we as a whole think of our town.

"We are in desperate need of money to finance the cost of bringing Santa Claus to town. And we are asking that you please send in donations, of any amount, to the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce—Pause for Claus committee—at 878 Wing Street, Plymouth 48170.

TOYS FOR TOTS

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce and its retail committee will sponsor Toys for Tots this year as a first for the community.

Through the courtesy of the National Bank of Detroit at Main Street and Penniman in downtown Plymouth, a Christmas tree will be in the lobby starting Dec. 1. Residents and businessmen may bring a wrapped toy which later will be delivered to needy children in the Plymouth community.

A toy of any value would be appreciated and may be brought to the bank during normal business hours until Christmas.

TREE LIGHTING

The Christmas Tree Lighting will take place at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 28, in Kellogg Park. The Plymouth Community Chorus will lead all those attending in the singing of Christmas Carols.

After the tree lighting, residents are invited to visit the merchants who will remain open until 10 p.m. this one evening only. Each will serve a selection of beverages to warm you and cookies.

Officials learn of Plymouth-Canton postal status

Plymouth City officials returned from Chicago Friday with assurances there will be improved services for the Plymouth Post Office and that Canton will obtain a small facility to sell money orders and postage stamps.

The delegation was given an explanation on why the U.S. Postal Service decided this fall against building a new post office in the city.

Making the trip to speak with regional postal officials in Chicago were Plymouth Mayor Joe Bida, City Manager Fred Yockey and State Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth).

THE THREE met for more than two hours in what was described as a "very congenial" meeting.

It was explained that the postal service is presently experiencing a $2 million monthly deficit nationwide, and has been forced to take steps to economize.

Faced with a continuing deficit, postal officials took another look at the construction schedule with intent to economize. They visited the Plymouth Post Office last September and decided a new post office in the city rated a lower priority than other construction projects scheduled.

"They simply made a decision that the new post office in Plymouth wasn't as critical a need as some of their other projects," explains Yockey.

"So the project is shelved for now. That doesn't mean that it can't be done in the future. They recognize the need Plymouth has for an expanded facility, but just cannot allocate the money now."

Because there is no plan at present, however, for a post office in the city the land which was to have been used may not be available when, and if, the project gets the go-ahead in the future.

Postal officials also reiterated that there are no plans in their present construction schedules to build a new post office for Canton Township.

Present plans for Canton only include the contracted station for money orders and postage stamps. Canton will, however, receive its own zip code and mailing designation.

Postal officials also gave assurances that the City of Plymouth will always have a post office in town. The post office will remain, they stressed, and they will begin looking towards ways of improving service in the Plymouth Post Office.

A Sunday fire

This abandoned house on Shear Drive near Sheldon was completely destroyed by flames Sunday afternoon. There were no injuries. Plymouth Township Fire Chief James Gignac said the house was on property owned by the state. Cause of the fire was undetermined. The chief said "Sightseers hampered the fire department in its efforts to reach the scene." (Staff photo by Bob Woodring)

Residents asked for ideas on school names

Suggestions are being sought from residents for names of two of the new elementary schools under construction in the Plymouth Community School District.

A decision had been made by a previous school board to name one of the three new elementaries after Esther Hulsing. Names are now being considered for the other two schools, located in Canton Township.

DEADLINE to submit suggestions is 5 p.m. Monday, Dec. 8.

The procedures, criteria and deadlines for submitting names were set at the first meeting of the New School Name Committee on Nov. 22.

The criteria used when names are recommended for adoption by the school board will be "local persons who have contributed to education."

Anyone who would like to suggest a name should send it, along with a supporting statement of 150 to 250 words, to the New School Name Committee, Board of Education, 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth 48170. A list of signatures of individuals who support the nominations may be attached.

THE COMMITTEE also voted to include the designation "Bicentennial School" as part of the name of all three elementaries.

The committee hopes to make its final recommendations to the board of education by mid-December. The board will make the final decision.

Co-chairpersons of the committee are Dennis Grejczyk of Canton Court and Pat Warner of Canterbury Street. Both are parents of elementary school children.

Other committee members are: Joseph Gray of Ivywood, Plymouth, representing the board of education; Dr. Earl Hogan and Florence Beier, representing the central administration; and John Howe of Starkweather School, representing elementary principals.

Other representatives are: teachers, Judy Braun at Miller Elementary, Jean Ryder at Fiegel Elementary, and Jim Stevens at East Middle; citizens-at-large, Harold Guenther of Holbrook, Plymouth; Sam Hudson of N. Territorial, Plymouth, and author of "Plymouth, Past and Present;" and Elizabeth Holmes of Oakview, Plymouth Township, former township treasurer.

Representing elementary students is Heather McGurk, a fourth grader at East Elementary, Marisa Bagnasco, an eighth grader at Central Middle, and Lynn Partin, a senior at Plymouth Salem High.

Help kids...vote 'yes'

Sound educational opportunities and sound facilities go hand in hand in the Wayne-Westland School District's bond proposal to be placed before voters on Monday.

The district is seeking support of two separate questions. In the first, passage of a $20 million bond issue would provide renovation to schools and the central administration building, expanded vocational education facilities at John Glenn High School and special education facilities across the district including an orthopedic swimming pool in Nankin Mills Junior High School.

The second proposal, if passed, would allow the district to spend $5 million to build swimming pools at each of the junior high schools.

THERE IS NO questioning the fact that in a district the age of Wayne-Westland, costly repairs are going to have to be made to keep schools open. Leaking roofs and faulty boiler systems not only need to be repaired or replaced, but the constant drain on the district's operating budget must end. Money which is presently being spent on piecemeal repairs is depriving students of educational offerings.

The district has reached the point where it can no longer offer a general education for all students. College prep courses need to be offered to students seeking higher education.

But we have long neglected the student who needs vocational training, especially in light of the district's relatively low ratio of college-bound students and the number of jobs which go unfilled because of a lack of qualified applicants.

No one can dispute the fact that for years school districts had few programs and fewer facilities for special education students, who in earlier years were lumped together without much concern about the individual child's learning disability.

With the passage of the mandatory special education act, conditions have improved tremendously, but school districts still need help.

In addition, Wayne-Westland would conceivably lose state and federal money because it lacks the kinds of vocational and special education facilities it is seeking from the bond proposals.

While swimming pools might be considered a frill by some voters, we urge residents to take a look at the recreational facilities offered in Westland and Canton Township.

With the exception of the pool at John Glenn, the community not only has no other facilities but will not have them for a good time to come. The growth of pools would be beneficial not only from a student's point of view but from a community viewpoint as well.

UNDER THE SCHOOL bond loan program, the district, with voter approval, will be able to acquire use of $25 million at a nominal cost to the taxpayer. It is estimated that the average resident would pay less than $8 per year in added taxes.

With the host of improvements the district would be able to provide both in education and plant operations, coupled with the relatively small increase in taxes, we urge the passage of both school bond proposals on Monday.

Be thankful we're solving some of our problems

Thanksgiving is a remarkable holiday, a time to pause, reflect, count our blessings and give thanks for the good things in our life. And in this year of recession, political futility and rising crime rates it's easy to lose track of the many things that we have here in the suburbs which are well worth giving thanks for.

Clearly, the automobile industry is going to have a better year than anyone had dared to expect three or four months ago. For executives living in the suburbs, it means bonuses at the year-end; for the small businessmen and workers in the area who are dependent on the industry for their well-being, it means the hope that things will get better.

Gasoline prices are off by a penny, which is well worth giving thanks for. Sugar prices are down, and so are turkeys.

Let us thank the state highway people for being one year closer to whenever the I-96 Schoolcraft expressway and all of I-275 are open to traffic. And let's not forget the folks who finally got Ann Arbor road paved to four easy-flowing lanes.

IN PLYMOUTH there is reason to give thanks for two important developments which will improve the area's economy: the First National Bank of Plymouth opened this year, giving added financial support for local growth, and the refurbished Plymouth Hilton opened recently, giving increased tax base to the township.

Canton Township may in fact get its own postal designation, giving greater identity to this rapidly-growing community.

All of us can join with the residents of Birmingham-Bloomfield in giving thanks that young Timothy Stempel was rescued safe and sound from his kidnapers.

Southfield has had another year of success in its remarkable municipal recreation programs, and Redford Township at last has a dial-a-ride service which will improve the generally poor state of public transport in the area.

by PHILIP H. POWER

Livonia can give thanks and praise to the team, coaches and fans of Franklin High, which won the state Class A football title over the weekend. Garden City will open next year with a full-blown city manager system, which will improve the city's administrative efficiency.

ROCHESTER kids in need can be thankful for the success of the area's "Kops for Kids" program, sponsored by the city police department and the Avon Township Sheriff Department. Next year, Westland's senior citizens can be thankful that the city will break ground for the new high rise facility for them.

Despite a $120,000 slash in state aid, the Farmington school system can give thanks that nimble administrative budget work enabled the district to make it through this year without a whopping deficit. And the entire Farmington community ought to be thankful that the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College has such a vast clump of programs of benefit to local residents.

The city of Troy cut taxes last spring by one-tenth of a mill, and thanks are due that the city got through the year with a balanced budget.

THE LIST could go on endlessly. But the collage makes the point. Although it's been a tough year, there is much to be grateful for.

And on top of a beautiful fall, Michigan's going to the Orange Bowl.

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

Did you know that:

- The "over 60" age group in our country is growing at a rate of 18 per cent a year; the "20-39" group at the rate of 30 per cent a year. But the group that so many of us belong to, "40-59" is declining. Fourteen per cent of all women are heads of households -- a figure that will continue to grow.

- Divide the last 50,000 years of man's existence into lifetimes of approximately 62 years of age; 650 of the 800 lifetimes were spent in caves. Writing has been possible in the last 70, mass printing in the last six, precise time measurement in the last four, the electric motor in the past, and most of the current material goods in the present.

- Of the juvenile delinquents, only six per cent have ever had contact with any organized program and only four per cent have had any church relationship.

- The federal Office of Management and Budget reports that individuals in business firms spend 130 million man-woman hours annually in filling out 5,000 different government forms, exclusive of state and local forms. It costs taxpayers more than $2 billion just to pay the regulators to read the reports. It costs business billions to fill out the forms. This cost must be passed on to the consumer.

- The reporting burden imposed on business and, subsequently, the consumer, increased by 50 per cent between December 1967 and June 1974.

- Car buyers paid out $3 billion in 1974 for federal government mandated features. The federally required items cost an average of $320 per car for the 1968-1974 period.

- A seat belt buzzer system for cars introduced by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration added $200 to the cost of every 1974 car, and 40 percent or two out of every five people who bought cars had the system disconnected.

- Regulations governing the trucking industry frequently allow firms to ship goods in one direction but not to make a return trip.

- Airline fares are 50 per cent higher on airlines regulated by the Civil Aeronautics Board than on non-regulated airlines.

- Proposed lawnmower safety standards currently being prepared by the Consumer Protection Safety Commission could raise the price of a mower from $100 to $186 -- an increase of 86 per cent.

- The list of new regulations by the federal government issued last year alone covers 45,000 pages of fine print.

- 5,146 new forms had to be devised.

- Our unemployment insurance system was created 40 years ago under the Social Security Act. By next year it will have paid out $100 billion to claimants. Nearly one-third of that will have been expended in 1975 and 1976 alone.

Numbers tell tale of bureaucrats

- If Michigan were a separate nation, its gross product would rank ninth highest among all nations in the free world.

- Legislative bodies, when faced with the choice of controlling government spending or raising taxes, have regularly chosen to increase taxes.

Sense And Nonsense

BERNIE LENNON is hardly a household name. He's an Oakland County commissioner from Ferndale who suggests a way to stimulate voter interest and give folks some property tax relief. With only 10 to 25 per cent of the eligible voters going to the polls, Lennon suggests giving a household a $5 rebate on its property taxes for every person in the household who votes in a municipal election.

Well, we've always assumed that those who stayed away just weren't interested, were unformed or just didn't care. If you pay them to vote, they'll still be uninterested, uninformed and careless. Why pay good money for that kind of participation?

Let's make a deal on commuter tax hike

Tim Richard writes

Coleman Young's got a good case, no doubt about it. The question is whether suburban legislators have enough savvy to turn the situation to their advantage.

The situation is that the City of Detroit, like New York City, has big money problems. Detroit's Mayor Young, unlike certain eastern officials, is trying to do something about it before there's any talk of default.

Young wants the state to give Detroit authority to raise its income tax rate by one per cent. For Detroit residents, the rate would go from two per cent to three; for non-residents who work in Detroit, the rate would go from 0.5 to 1.5.

He and the council can't just lift the rates by themselves, however. They need an enabling act from the state.

NATURALLY, legislators from Detroit are in Young's corner. Out-state legislators can be wooed to give Young what he wants because it's not costing them money. In fact, lawmakers from Dollar Bay and Alpena would be happy to be able to help Detroit without dipping into the state treasury.

Suburban lawmakers, on the other hand, can be expected to balk. It's the old theory of taxation without representation.

That's a mistake. Suburban legislators shouldn't automatically say "no" to Detroit, because the bill may pass anyway. What they should do is some old-fashioned, hard-nosed, Yankee horse-trading.

Sure, give Young what he wants. But make him pay a price.

WHAT KIND of price?

Well, Young runs the Detroit Metropolitan Water Department with an iron hand, selling water and sewerage services to 90-some suburban communities. The suburbs don't like the way he's running it. Indeed, the Detroit mayor calls it "our" water, even though it comes from Lake Huron.

So go ahead and let Young hike the city income tax—but demand a stronger voice for the suburbs on the Detroit Metropolitan Water Board. Better yet, put the DMWD rates under the jurisdiction of the state Public Service Commission, just like gas and electric rates. Even better yet, make the DMWD a regional facility and apply the "one person, one vote" theory of representation.

Young is also making a power grab for control of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, with Gov. Milliken's backing. Suburban legislators could offer to trade the income tax enabling act for Young's promising to keep hands off SEMTA.

Detroit operates several regional facilities—the Zoo, the Art Institute, the Bicentennial Commission but Detroit won't hire suburbanites for city jobs. OK, if Young wants to hike the income tax on non-residents, let him cut out the discriminatory hiring practice.

Western Wayne County residents would like to have a county services center in the suburbs—a clerk's office, a circuit courtroom, a jail annex. Detroiters on the county commission refuse because they want to keep as many services as possible at 2 Woodward Avenue. Well, let's make a deal: Suburban votes from western Wayne County for the income tax bill in return for Detroit votes on the county board for an out-county services center.

The sleeper

As holidays go, Thanksgiving is the sleeper—the one you expect to be safe because it's so short and you don't travel as far.

Although motorists travel 50 per cent fewer miles, the Auto Club notes, traffic deaths on Thanksgiving weekend are higher than the summer holidays. Short trips lull drivers into a false sense of safety; alcohol during the festivities is a factor; the first winter driving of the season can catch us off guard, too.

Three-fourths of all holiday fatal accidents occur within 25 miles of home.

A round trip to a point 200 miles away is the maximum one-day trip a driver should attempt. Starting at 8 a.m., you can travel 200 miles in four hours on the freeway, enjoy five hours at your destination, and be home in the early evening.

Again, overindulgence in alcohol can make that trip home a long, tiring, sleepy drive.

As a killer, the Thanksgiving holiday is a real sleeper.

Sense And Nonsense

ABC-TV gets good marks this year for its handling of "the battle of the bands." As all warm-blooded Ohio State and Michigan fans know, there's as much pride in the two marching bands as there is in the football team.

A couple of years ago, the television producers made the terrible mistake of ignoring the half-time band shows for some insipid commentary by a retired coach.

In 1975, happily, ABC rectified the error by getting in half or more of both bands' shows, to the amusement and edification of all true sports.

College will fight sex bias charge

By DENNY COFFMAN

Schoolcraft College will go to court, if necessary, to prevent the federal government from forcing it to grant back pay to a custodial employee who claimed she was a victim of sex discrimination.

The complaint was brought against the college by Mary Miller, who said she performed the duties of a "Utility 2" worker but was paid a "Utility 3" worker's wages.

Prior to a meeting of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees Nov. 19, college attorneys were notified by Robert Kayes, federal attorney, that the government was proposing that it and the college enter into a consent judgment.

In entering into the judgment, the college would have had to agree to several stipulations:

- Provide back pay for Ms. Miller for allegedly performing equal work without receiving equal pay.

- Immediately raise, for the balance of the present master contract with the International Union of Operating Engineers, (IUOE) Local 547, all Utility 3 wages to a par with Utility 2 wages.

- In future negotiations build back differential pay raises to recognize any meaningful differences between Utility 2 and 3 classifications.

THE GOVERNMENT would have then agreed to drop all other pay liabilities against the college for any other alleged discrepancies in similar employee classifications.

But the board of trustees refused to agree to the consent judgment.

"I'd maintain that we take a strong stand and maintain our sovereignty as a ruling body," said Trustee Gerald Cox.

"The government has no right to overrule our authority on these things," said Trustee Ron Cowden. "Fight them all the way," said Trustee Don McQuesten.

Trustee Nancie Blatt said she wanted to see the courts make a decision on the case.

"Let the courts decide," said Trustee Rosina Raymond.

The board unanimously agreed to take the alleged discrimination matter to court, notwithstanding the warning of college attorney John Weber, that "The government's never lost one of these cases, and only 11 or 12 of them have gone to court."

The dispute arose early in 1972, when Alfred Mitchell, a U.S. Department of Labor area director, visited the college to make a spot-check to insure that the school was not in violation of the Federal Wage and Hour Act.

In June 1972, Mitchell told the college personnel director there was no appreciable difference in the work of Utility 2 and Utility 3 classifications. At that time, according to the administration, Utility 2s were all males and Utility 3s were all females.

The college personnel director responded: he said there were differences in the jobs and the college was not guilty of sex discrimination.

In November 1972, the Department of Labor received a letter from the director (Mitchell), stating the college was guilty of sex discrimination with regard to the U-2 and U-3 classifications.

THE ADMINISTRATION was invited to submit further data on its behalf to the department, but the administration responded that there was no discrimination and it would not submit further data.

According to a report prepared by the administration, the personnel director was told that the union did not believe there was discrimination, either.

In March 1973, the college was informed again, that the regional attorney for the Labor Department had found it in violation of the Equal Pay Provision of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

May 2, 1973, the college was officially served a summons but maintained its position—that the U-3 classification should not be eliminated, nor should employees be reclassified.

According to the employee who has charged discrimination, Ms. Miller, she at one time was performing the work of the higher classification in the Physical Education Building.

Although the U-2s, like the U-3s, are considered custodial workers, they perform the lighter operations involved in cleaning school buildings, according to Kenneth Lindner, administrative vice president.

LINDNER told the board work on ladders and heavy buffing operations were performed by the U-2s, but that emptying ash trays, sweeping, dusting, wiping blackboards and polishing were performed by the U-3s.

Apparently, the problem arose when Ms. Miller was transferred to the PE building where she handed out athletic equipment, a job generally performed by the U-2s.

It was at that time, according to information presented to the board, that the federal inspector visited and allegedly confirmed that Ms. Miller was doing the work of a higher classification at the pay of the lower classification.

"It was just a foul-up," said Lindner, "that we did not change the classification at that time. Later, there became two classifications of equipment handlers. But Ms. Miller went there as a U-3 and did the same type of work as a U-2, for a time."

'Over the river and through the woods'—

It's a happy memory for many seniors in area

BY SHERRY KAHAN

"Over the river and through the woods to grandmother's house we go," says the old Thanksgiving song. "The horse knows the way to carry the sleigh through the white and drifting snow."

The 19th century Thanksgiving with snow, sleighs, wood stoves, home-grown pumpkins and homebaked pies and bread can be warmly recalled by elderly citizens of the area.

Mrs. Luella Evans, for example, who lives in Tonquish Creek Manor, Plymouth, can easily focus on the picture of herself sliding over the snow in a sleigh from her family's farm on Napier Road, just west of Plymouth.

"We had horsehide robes to cover us against the cold," she said. "We sat on straw in the bottom of the sleigh with heated pieces of soapstone wrapped in paper or cloth to keep our feet warm."

Westland resident George R. Raub recalled that "the eating part was the most interesting part of Thanksgiving to me."

He added: "We had turkey with all the trimmings and pumpkin pie. My mother had to cook the pumpkin herself and strain it. You couldn't get it out of a can in those days."

Mrs. Lena Embling, who has lived for 51 years in Garden City, used to take her sleighride over the white and drifting snow covered with a remnant of the old west, a real buffalo robe.

Her childhood was spent in Canada where Thanksgiving is observed in October as a harvest festival.

"We had so many aunts and uncles and cousins over on Thanksgiving—I can't remember how many—probably a couple of dozen," she said.

"After the meal us kids would go out and play on the haystacks, climb into the hayloft or climb trees and look for nests. The older people would talk about the harvest. The women would discuss quilting, making rugs or knitting."

HERMAN AND IDA HERPEL of Redford Township and Mrs. Mary Gould of Livonia were brought up in Detroit.

"We had wonderful Thanksgivings," said 84-year-old Mrs. Gould whose home was on the east side. "As children we were excited about it because we would have chicken which we didn't have very often. My mother cooked about 14 chickens. There were 10 children in the family."

Herman Herpel, as a youngster, was busy around Thanksgiving helping in his father's bakery located at the back of their home.

"Sometimes I would go along on deliveries," he said. "Some of our customers lived around Cadillac Square which was paved in cobblestones."

His parents immigrated from Germany and there were no extra relatives around to invite to the feast. His wife, on the other hand, had an aunt, uncle and cousins to invite to their Corktown home, situated west of downtown.

"Goose was the usual holiday fowl," said Mrs. Herpel. "It was large enough to feed the family. The geese were brought to the grocery store freshly dressed, not frozen as they are today. Sometimes we had duck."

"With our meat we had dressing and pumpkin, mince or apple pies and plum pudding. We also had cranberries which we could buy in a store."

ALL REMEMBERED that whether they lived in the country or the city, Thanksgiving dinner and regular cooking was done on a woodburning stove.

"I used to help my father cut wood," remembered Mrs. Evans who was born in 1884. "We would go out into the woods on our farm and to get it. I helped him saw it. Then we'd bring it home in a sleigh."

"Our house was also heated by wood put in the heating stove in the living room-dining room. But there was no heat in the bedrooms. We used a lot of blankets, and usually took into bed soapstone, brick, or even a flat-iron which had been heated and covered with heavy material."

Even on Thanksgiving Mrs. Evans and her sister, Mrs. Jennie Stacey, who now lives in Salem, had to get up early to milk the cows.

"It was so cold some days we could hardly stand it," she noted. "We also had to walk two miles to school at Lapham's Corners, sometimes in deep snow. I think we were tougher than kids are today. The other day I heard a boy hollering about walking a block to catch a bus to school."

FOR THANKSGIVING, the family of Mrs. Evans sat down to a dinner of turkey, produced on the farm, mashed potatoes grown on the farm, mince pie minced from meat raised on the farm and bread made from grain produced on the farm and then taken to the grist mill on Wilcox Road to be made into flour.

"We had a well for our drinking water," she continued. "We'd go out and pump it and bring it in in a bucket. After the Thanksgiving meal we washed our dishes in two dishpans placed on the stove. One had soap. The other was the rinse pan."

"Our light was provided by kerosene lamps. My sister was paid 10 cents a week to trim the wicks and clean out the smokey chimneys on these lamps."

Ten of the 100 acres of the farm on which she was raised remain in the family, she said, and are owned today by Mrs. Evans' nephew, Glenn Stacey.

While Mrs. Evans, now 91, believes that "people enjoyed themselves more than they do now," she feels she has much to be thankful for today.

"I love it here," she said of her Tonquish Creek Manor apartment. "Everyone is so nice. Lots of people wouldn't have homes if it weren't for places like this."

DESPITE THE FACT that they grew up in different countries, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Embling lived very similar lives. Both farm girls, they have similar Thanksgiving memories.

"I remember the bells on the horses made a wonderful sound as they moved along," stated Mrs. Embling.

Thanksgiving was also homegrown on her Canadian farm. "We had turkey and pumpkin or raisin pie," she said. "We never heard of cranberries. But we had 100 apple trees, so my mother canned apples, as well as other fruit like plums and cherries which we used on Thanksgiving."

"My mother worked hard, but was always happy. She sang at her work. You don't hear that today."

"That was a better life, out in the fields, looking for butterflies, birds and flowers. Young people don't know what to do with themselves now."

GEORGE RAUB, a pink-cheeked Santa Claus of a man, grew up in the Ohio country town of Risingsun. It becomes evident that his life there still holds sentimental meaning for him when he displays his tiny high school pin-class of 1912—which he has had in-laid in transparent plastic and keeps on a small stand.

Raub would much rather talk about the devilment cooked up by himself and eight cronies who called themselves the Risingsun Toughs that limit himself solely to Thanksgiving nostalgia.

However, he called it "the most sacred day of the whole year." He added: "It is nondenominational, and people of all religions and creeds can pause and thank almighty God for the blessings we have."

Raub, a building contractor who is specializing in Huguenot and Masonic history during his retirement, is a past president of the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research.

He explained that Thanksgiving was first proclaimed by George Washington in 1789, with the last Thursday of November selected by Lincoln in 1863.

DETROITERS like Mr. and Mrs. Herpel and Mrs. Gould were much more likely to use a streetcar than ride on a sleigh during their childhood. They also did a lot of walking.

"For those 14 chickens on Thanksgiving my sister had to go to the Eastern Market," said Mrs. Gould. "She brought the food home in a baby buggy. It was about a three-mile walk, but she didn't mind. She liked to go there."

"For Thanksgiving we wore dresses—we didn't wear anything else in those days. We also wore long underwear to keep warm. Over the underwear we wore long stocking. We always had trouble with the lumps the underwear made around our ankles."

After the heavy meal the older members of the family dozed off, while the young ones went out skating.

"We enjoyed everything," recalled Mrs. Gould. "When we came in from skating we'd sit near the stove and drink hot chocolate."

In those times, life revolved around the cookstove, and one day Ida Herpel's family had great luck.

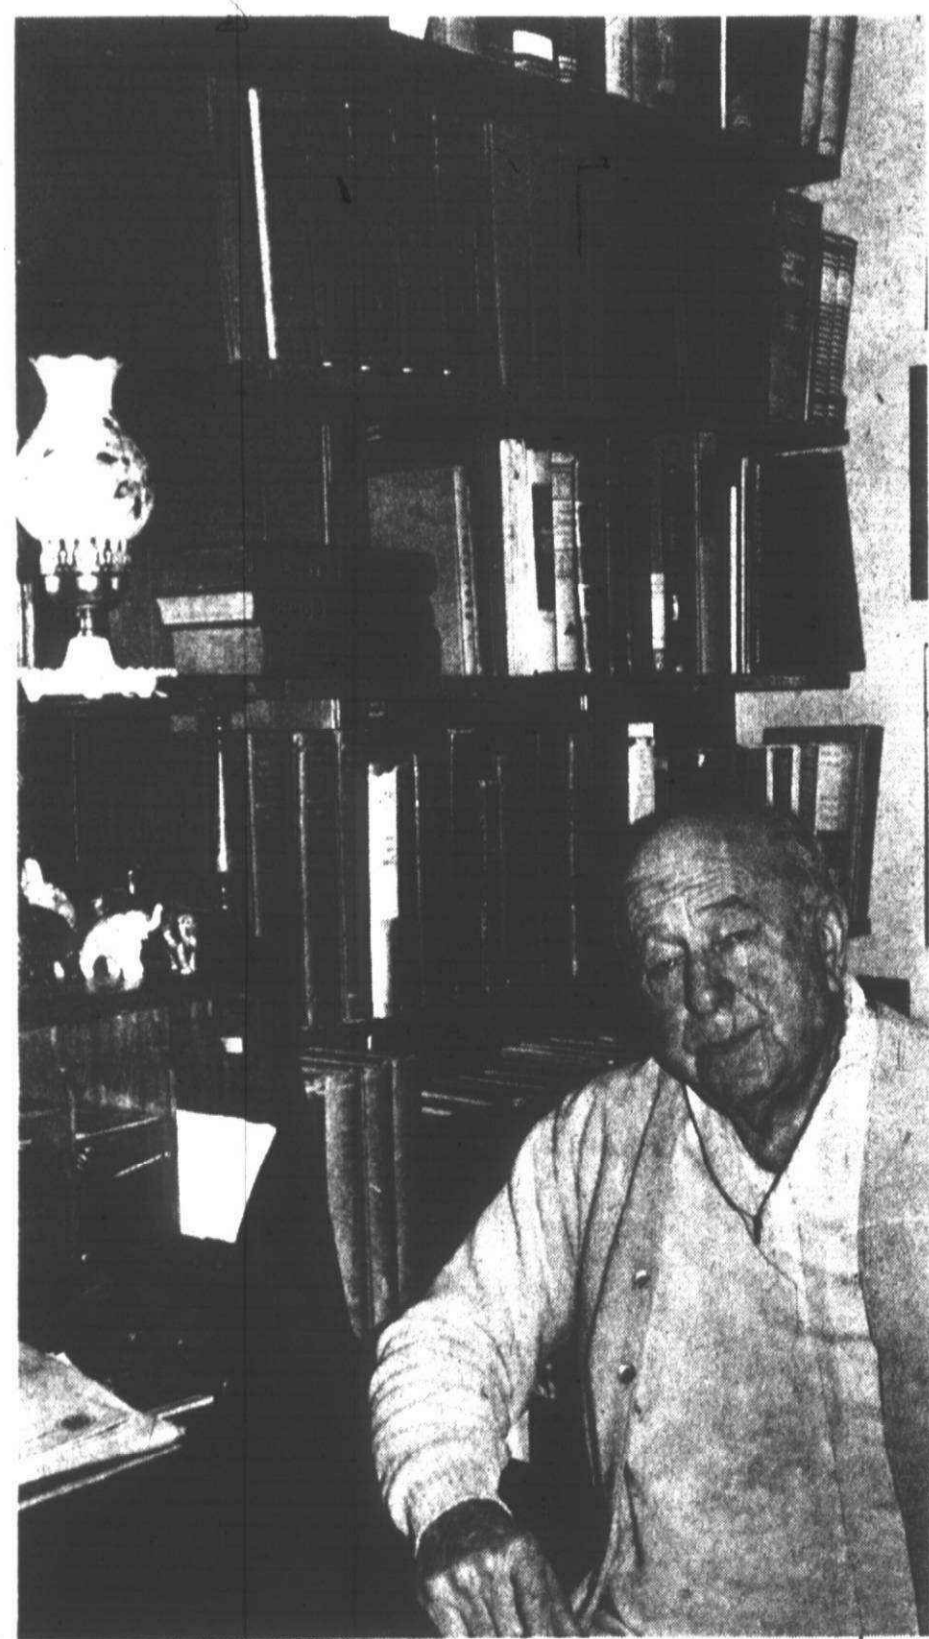

"When they paved Abbott Street they took up the wooden paving blocks and put them in our barn," she laughed. "All we had to do was take an axe and split them. They burned beautifully. There were still some left two years later when we moved."

As a child she was never quite sure how her relatives learned they were invited for Thanksgiving.

"We didn't have a telephone but they seemed to know they should come."

Mr. Herpel feels he has much to be thankful for.

"I've had a good life," he said. "I've seen the U.S. in a better time—it was hard but it was better—there was no fear."

Historian George R. Raub sits in his study surrounded by books that remind him of the past. (Staff photo by Sherry Kahan)

Mrs. Louella Evans might be listening for the sound of sleigh bells, or maybe waiting for visitors to cross Tonquish Creek and

Tri-Deltas set mini-carnival

Delta Delta Delta sorority alumnae of Dearborn-Western Wayne County will sponsor a mini-carnival Tuesday, Dec. 2, to raise funds and collect toys for the Children's Leukemia Foundation. The carnival is part of Sleighbell Day, a national program sponsored by Tri-Deltas to raise money to support research for children's blood diseases. Locally, all proceeds and toys will be donated to the Child Research Center and Beaumont Hospital.

Admission to the carnival, to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drayton, 27480 Spring Valley Drive, Farmington Hills, is a wrapped toy for a leukemia patient. The toys are used for Christmas gifts and for cheering up children following bone marrow tests. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Homer Tolon, 7000 Lindenmere Drive, Birmingham, Nov. 29.

U-M offers women 20 scholarships

The University of Michigan Center for Continuing Education of Women will award 20 scholarships to women who will be continuing an education during the 1976-77 academic year at any University of Michigan campus.

Women whose education has at least 24 consecutive months and who are pursuing any undergraduate or graduate academic or professional degree program are invited to apply. Applications are available now at the Center and should be submitted to the Center by Jan. 14.

The CEW Scholarships will be awarded on the basis of capacity, promise of impact in a chosen field, academic record and potential, motivation, and need. The awards range from $500 to $2000. Admission to the University is a prerequisite but scholarship applications may precede admission.

Ninety-six women between the ages of 20 and 50, many of them working women and women with families, have won CEW Scholarships since 1970. Following educational interruptions extending to 22 years, scholars have returned to begin undergraduate degrees, to obtain professional training or to pursue graduate studies directed toward a diverse range of career interests.

Throughout the year, the Center welcomes individuals to discuss education and career plans, to participate in groups and in informal discussions, conferences, and other programs on issues of concern to women in today's society.

The Center, located at 328-330 Thompson, serves all interested women and men and is open weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Area churches plan Thanksgiving services

Several special services to mark the religious holidays of the national Thanksgiving period are planned in area churches Wednesday evening and Thursday morning.

The Evangelical Fellowship of the Plymouth Community will sponsor an ecumenical service Wednesday, Nov. 26, at 7:30 p.m. in Calvary Baptist Church, Joy east of Main Street.

The Rev. William Stahl of Plymouth First Baptist will preach on the topic "Did Anyone Ever Ask Tom?"

Other Thanksgiving Eve services are planned in the Livonia Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), 36075 Seven Mile; Rice United Methodist, Beech-Daly south of Eight Mile; Redford Township; Memorial Church of Christ, 35475 Five Mile, Livonia; and Newburg United Methodist, 36500 Ann Arbor Trail, Livonia; Nativity United Church of Christ, 9435 Henry Ruff at West Chicago, Livonia.

The memorial service will be held at 7 p.m. and the others at 7:30 p.m. Guest preacher for the Livonia Christian service will be the Rev. Jerry Fraser, associate pastor of St. Edith Catholic Church of Livonia, and both adult and youth choirs will sing.

Informal serving of communion is part of the service at Rice.

The candlelight service at Newburg will include a message by the Rev. Karl Ziegler of the Novi Methodist Church, music by the chancel choir, a presentation by three members of the women's association and the traditional reading of the Desiderata.

At least two churches, Pilgrim United Church of Christ and Ward

United Prssbyterian, plan Thanksgiving morning services.

Ward members will gather at 10 a.m. in their sanctuary at Six Mile and Farmington Road for a music and praise service.

Dr. Bartlett L. Hess will preach on "Thank God and Take Courage," and the 100-voice chancel choir, directed by Dr. Jerry J. Smith and accompanied by brass instruments, will sing "The Prayer of Thanksgiving" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Ward members will return at that service their Love Loaf banks, special banks they have been filling to fight famine in a Ward mission project.

The service at Pilgrim, 36075 Seven Mile, will be short and informal, and Thanksgiving guests as well as members of the community are invited.

CHURCH BULLETIN

ST. EDITH CATHOLIC CHURCH, 15089 Newburgh, Livonia, has welcomed the Rev. Jerome Fraser to its staff as associate pastor.

Rev. Fraser is a graduate of Sacred Heart Seminary and St. John Provincial Seminary and was ordained in 1957. He also has teacher certification from the University of Detroit and an MA from the University of Michigan and has studied at Wayne State University, the University of Syracuse and American University. He has served earlier assignments in Pontiac, Detroit and Ann Arbor.

NATIVITY UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST, 9435 Henry Ruff, Livonia, will welcome the Rev. John M. Gantt, executive director of the Crossroad Children's Home in Fort Wayne, Ind., to its pulpit for the 9:30 and 11:15 a.m. services Sunday, Nov. 30.

Rev. Gantt will illustrate with slides at a 10:30 a.m. program the services provided by the Children's Home to adolescents in a treatment-oriented residential setting. The home, affiliated with the United Church of Christ health and welfare council, began as an orphanage, then added a facility for unwed mothers and an adoption agency, and more recently was changed into a learning and counseling center.

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Farmington Road and Six Mile, Livonia, will take about 100 persons into membership during the 7 p.m. vesper hour Sunday, Nov. 30. Holy communion will be observed and Dr. Bartlett L. Hess will preach on the subject, "God's purpose in Suffering."

ST. MATTHEW UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 30900 Six Mile, Livonia, will present Jim Kenniv in a program of gospel music Saturday, Nov. 29 at 8 p.m.

Kenniv, who comes from Lima, Ohio, and is the son-in-law of St. Matthew members Aaron and Erma Fry, has described himself as "a lay minister of the gospel through song rather than a Christian entertainer." His program is geared for the whole family. An offering will be taken.

Yule music for secretaries

The Lutheran Chorales will sing a concert for the Detroit chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) following the group's annual Christmas luncheon Saturday, Dec. 6 at 11:30 a.m. in the Recess Club in the Fisher Building, Detroit.

New Christian academy in Canton

By DARLENE STINSON

A new interdenominational school is proposed to offer an academic curriculum from the perspective of the Bible to western Wayne County elementary pupils next fall.

The Plymouth Christian Academy, a project planned by Calvary Baptist Church, 43065 Joy, Canton Township, will combine a literal interpretation of the Bible with academic excellence, a traditional mode of teaching and parental participation, according to expectations of church officials.

The Rev. G. Douglas Routledge, pastor of Calvary, hopes Canton officials will approve site plans of the new school, so construction can begin on church grounds this spring in time for a September opening.

Admission to the school, the Rev. Routledge says, will be open to "anyone sympathetic to our goals."

"We're seeking to teach our children a select philosophy of life. But, when we take our children to a secular institution, that philosophy is often contradicted. We're going to work as an extension of the home. We feel education is the parent's responsibility."

THE SCHOOL will accomplish a three-fold goal of Christian education, according to the Rev. Routledge—an in-school consistency with the teachings of a Christian home; the presentation of subject matter from a Christian perspective; and contact with Christian teachers.

"Our philosophy is Biblically-based, and all subject matter will be constantly filtered through the word of God," he explained. "We believe every subject ought to be taught from the perspective of God and his revelation—the Bible.

"Often the facts taught in a secular school are the same, but the interpretation is different. Christian teachers have a tremendous influence on the child."

Harry Guess, 29, current administrator of Shades Mountain Christian School in Birmingham, Ala., and a faculty member of the Southeastern Bible College's education department in Birmingham, has agreed to serve as the school's administrator.

GUESS BELIEVES the academy's students will boast higher levels of achievement than those at public schools.

Although church officials have not yet determined the grade structure for the school's first year, they envision an eventual enrollment of 800 or 900 pupils in grades kindergarten through 12.

Affiliated with the National Christian Schools Association, the Michigan Association of Christian Schools and the American Association of Christian Schools, the academy will begin as an elementary school with a maximum 25 pupils per classroom. Church officials will probably add one grade each year.

Persons are asked to contact Calvary Baptist Church, 43065 Joy, for further information about the proposed academy or its admission standards.

Priesthood for women?

Schoolcraft's Judy Kaltz playing key role in historic conference

BY MARGARET MILLER

If women ever are ordained into priesthood in the Catholic Church, Judy Kaltz of the Schoolcraft Campus ministry staff will know she has played a part in a giant step.

She's one of a group of Catholic women—both inside and outside religious orders—who are working behind the scenes to set up a Thanksgiving weekend conference that is bound to take on major milestone proportions.

"Women in Future Priesthood Now—a Call for Action" is the title of the conference drawing some 1,200 people from all over the country to the Southfield Sheraton to talk about why women have so far been excluded from ordination and what kinds of effective action can be taken to change that.

For most of those attending feel, as the program for the three days of sessions states, that "so long as women are excluded from ordination, there participation in the sacramental life and ministry of the church can only be secondary and auxiliary, reflecting a theological view of them as diminished persons."

MISS KALTZ, a former parochial teacher who has been working with the movement's original steering committee in helping with arrangements, said she feels the fact that the conference is being held and its location speak eloquently to the whole issue.

"We are saying we, women people of God, are calling this conference," she said, "and we are doing it by the authority within ourselves."

"That's a pretty powerful statement to make, and we are realizing that, as that gavel comes down to open the conference, history will be made."

The Southfield location, she added, was picked because the response was so great when the flyers first went out that it became apparent the University of Detroit center, originally designated as the place for the meetings, would not be adequate.

"Interest is increasing so much we now have delegates coming from 44 states and six foreign countries," Miss Kaltz went on.

"We've had to turn many away, and that's too bad, because parishes are getting more interested and preparing to send delegates, and there's no room."

TALK ON ORDINATION for women has been going on for some time, Miss Kaltz said but plans for this meeting were pulled together by a task force of feminine church leaders about a year ago.

The task force has representatives from all over the country, she added, and the session is being held in the Detroit area "because the members here moved fastest in getting the arrangements started and the invitations out."

"I have been very impressed," said this Catholic woman, "by the reasonableness with which the task force has acted."

"With an issue like this one, you might think those behind it would be flaming radicals who want to upset things. But these people are not radical, and their planning has been very deliberate."

"What is at issue is the opening of discussion of a very important issue—women have come into their own in recent times and it's time to start discussing this in the church."

Topics to be considered include "The Proper Church of Women in the Church," "The Church in Process: on Engendering the Future," "The moral imperatives for the Ordination of Women," "Models for Future Priesthood," "Synthesis and Strategy." The meetings will end with a Eucharistic liturgy the first Sunday of Advent, and its theme will be "Certain as the Dawn Is His Coming."

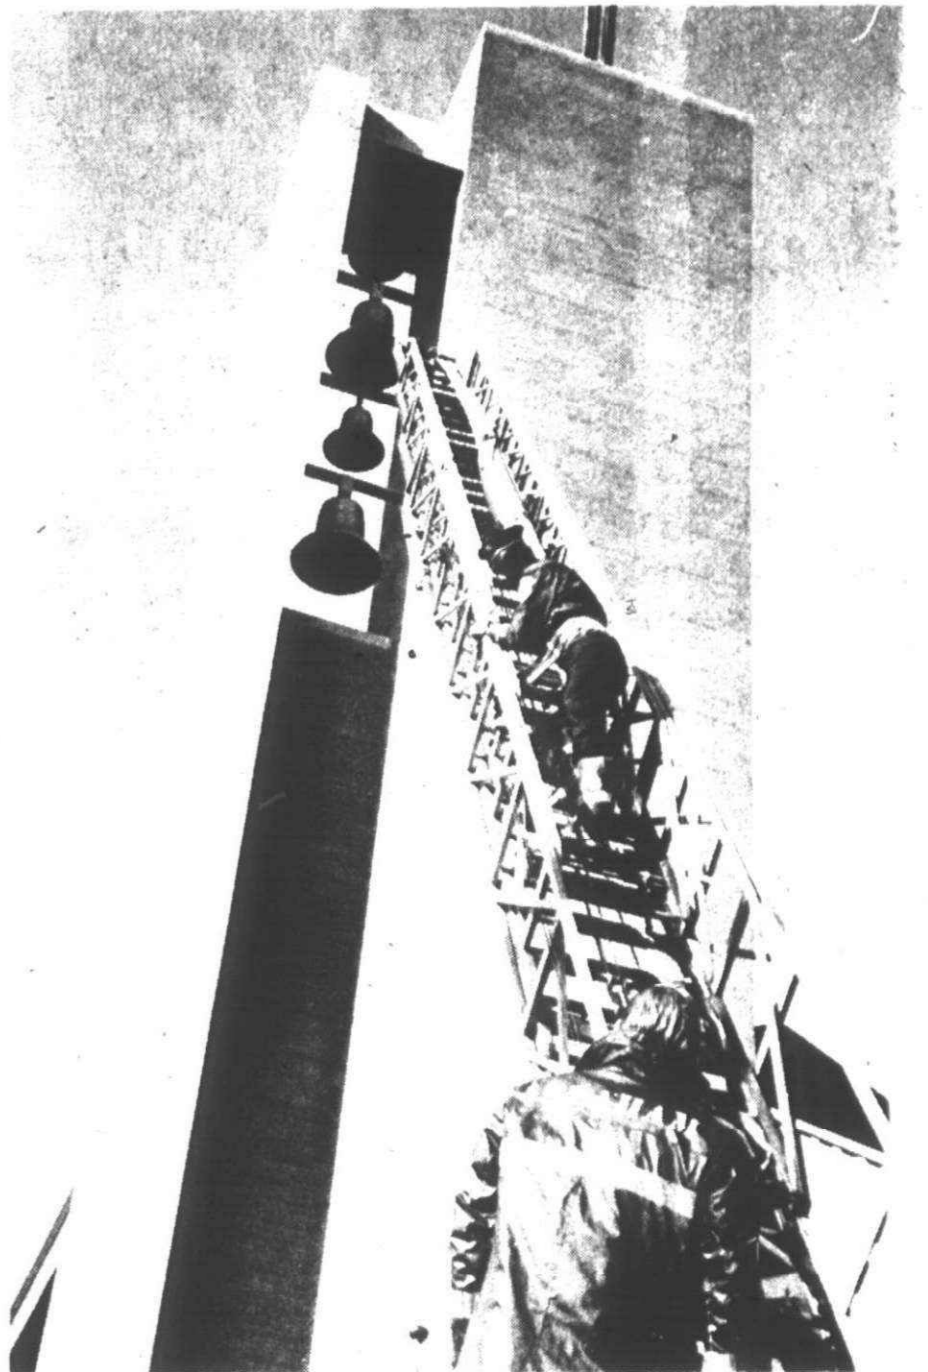

MISS KALTZ WILL PLAY a busy and important role in the conference's ongoing, since she will be in charge of press room arrangements.

"We expect coverage from major newspapers from all parts of the country and from wire services and radio and television," she said, "and a major worry is that reporters unfamiliar with the history of the movement will report statements of individuals out of context."

One precaution she is taking against that is arranging a major press conference as the meetings open, to give newspeople a chance to interview some 40 women who are presenting themselves for ordination.

"These are all fully accredited," she said, "graduates of seminaries—some with advanced degrees. These are the people who are right there, right now, and we want the press and the rest of society to know about them."

Miss Kaltz will be working after the sessions with a documentary film of the conference for Channel 56. "It will be aimed at giving a conference overview," she said.

Rosedale church rings those bells

Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church in Livonia got back its fallen bell recently, and organist Steven R. Spoon sent notes of "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow" all over the neighborhood in celebration.

Livonia fire fighters used one of their ladders in the job of restoring the 50-pound bell to its position in the church tower about 70-feet above the ground.

Bernie Schlacht of engine station 2 at Farmington and Plymouth went up the ladder with the aluminum bell which holds a sound speaker.

At the top he clamped it in place with six bolts and connected its electrical wires.

The bell blew out of its tower last May and hung only by its wires until firemen responded to a call for help and carried it to the ground.

Elden Plue, chairman of the house committee of the church, made the arrangements with the fire department.

Young musicians slate performance

Marches and fugues will echo through the Plymouth Salem auditorium next week, when members of the Plymouth Youth Symphony and Wind Ensemble present their first concert of the year.

The concert, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 2, in the Plymouth Salem auditorium, will feature members of the Suzuki String Ensemble as guest performers.

Performers will include musicians from the Plymouth Community School District's middle schools and Plymouth Salem, Plymouth Canton, Ann Arbor Huron and Northville high schools.

The Suzuki String Ensemble, directed by Lois Andres and Kathy Keresztes, features string players in pre-school to fifth grade.

Directed by Nancy Drifmeyer, the Youth Symphony will perform three pieces—Corelli's "Fugue and Vivace," Livingston's "The March of the Ill-Assorted Guard," and selections from Handel's "Messiah."

The Wind Ensemble, directed by Michael P. DiCuirci and Jeffrey Drifmeyer, will perform Bilik's "Block 'M' March," Giovanni's "Chorale and Capriccio," and Offenbach's "Ballet Parisienne."

Members of the Youth Symphony and Wind Ensemble have practiced weekly since September, when they auditioned for membership in the groups.

Admission to next week's concert is free. The public is invited.

Student cabaret theater does musical 'Godspell'

Schoolcraft College will present "Godspell" in two performances of its new student cabaret theater Dec. 12 and 13 in the Waterman Campus Center.

According to Lawrence Rudick, theater instructor at Schoolcraft, the popular musical is based loosely on the Gospel according to St. Matthew, with various parables enacted against a backdrop of symbolic fencing.

Dr. Rudick says, "Christ is pictured as a man with problems, desires, hopes and ambitions. He is an idealist and succumbs to a martyr, but he dies having revealed courage, compassion, tenacity, wit and most importantly, humanity."

He added, "The performers are clad in outlandish, clown-like costumes, and the entire production has the atmosphere of a bizarre carnival with the deep fervor of a revival meeting."

INCLUDED in the $6.75 ticket price are a French cuisine of gourmet snacks consisting of Quiche Lorraine, bowls of mixed cheeses and fruits, French bread with red and white wines. Dining will begin at 6:30 with the "Godspell" performance following at 8 p.m.

The cast includes Rhonda Boccarossa, Steve Doula and Julie Rotary of Livonia; Charles Baird and Phil Shargraw of Plymouth; Dennis Saltarelli of Northville; Helen Slaven of Garden City; Sue Kruk of Detroit and Jerry Westernman of Ann Arbor.

America in music

American music from the Civil War to World War I will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 4 at the Fair Lane Center on the campus of the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Made possible by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities for the university's course "American Culture from the Civil War to World War I," the concert is free and open to the public.

Included in the program are songs by Stephen Foster and Charles Ives; piano arrangements of compositions by Charles Griffes, Edward MacDowell, and Louis Moreau Gottschalk; and a flute and guitar arrangement of Scott Joplin's "Rags."

Featured performers for the special concert are Matthew Mischaleoff, guitar; John Gabriele, piano, and UM-Dearborn applied music teachers Rosemary Jackson, soprano; Fedora Horowitz and Joan Schnerer, piano; Mary Disler, guitar; William Turco, violin, and Genia Ben-Meir, flute.

The concert is sponsored by UM-D's Cultural Events Committee under the direction of Dr. Anne Parks. UM-D assistant professor of music history,

Buggy brings Santa Claus

Getting in step with the Bicentennial, Santa Claus will be rolling into Westland Center's East Court Friday morning in an antique buggy. He'll be pulled into sight with the help of some John Glenn High School "Rockets" team members at 9 a.m.

While the jolly fat man is preparing for his grand entrance, John Glenn's full marching band will gather in the East Court with a Christmas medley. Mistress of ceremonies will be the new Westland Jaycees Junior Miss, to be crowned Wednesday evening (Nov. 26). The buggy is owned by Capt. Carl Holston of the Westland Fire Department.

Santa and his helpers will have some goodies to pass out to the children, and then he will move to his "deacon's bench" outside the Americana Christmas barn. There he will welcome all visitors through Christmas Eve from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily. Sundays noon to 6 p.m.

Gulliver on screen

The swashbuckling Doctor Gulliver makes his amazing journeys to mythical lands across the screen of the Henry Ford Museum Theater in a special family film program Friday through Sunday.

For the three-day Thanksgiving weekend, the museum presents "The Three Worlds of Gulliver."

Originally released in 1960, the color film is based on Jonathan Swift's adventure classic "Gulliver's Travels." It completes a fall series of Famous Early Movies highlighting motion picture use of special effects.

"The Three Worlds of Gulliver" follows the hero to the island of Lilliput where inhabitants are a mere six inches high and their houses and utensils are proportionately sized. A subsequent adventure takes Gulliver to Brobdingnag, the land of 40-foot giants who cover 10 yards with every step.

While the film omits much of the political satire that marked the book, it offers something for both children and adults.

Fall Festival grows, grows

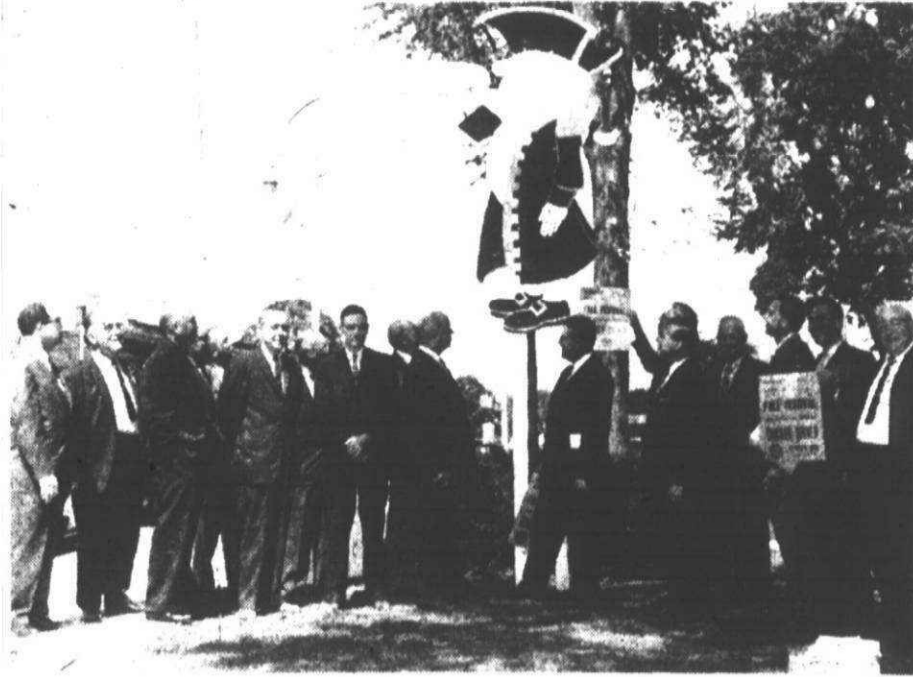

The first Fall Festival took place in Plymouth on Sunday, Sept. 11, 1960, from 12:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. The good weather, ordered by Rotary's chaplain, the Rev. Henry Walch, came as scheduled, and the festival got under way. The city had agreed to close Penniman Avenue, between Main and Union. The concrete block barbecue pits were set up in the parking lot, owned by Chuck Finlan, adjacent to the Penn Theatre.

Picnic tables and chairs were set up in Kellogg Park which was colorfully decorated by members of the Rotary Club. In my mind's eye, I can still see the large Horace Thatcher, then more than 70, up on a ladder tacking streamers from tree to tree.

The use of the "little bugler" as a trademark of the Fall Festival began early in the 1960s. The job of publicizing the barbecues, and later the Fall Festivals, was delegated to me for several years.

About 1962, I was searching for a humorous cartoon character to use in Festival ads and flyers. I came across the little man, wearing the Colonial hat and coat, and blowing a bugle, in a stock-cut book issued by Cobb Shinn. I bought the right to use the illustration and began to incorporate it into Festival literature. The "little bugler" caught on immediately; merchants began to use him in their ads, and the figure soon became a symbol of the Festival.

The little bugler, trademark of the Fall Festival, was first used about 1962. Rotarians are shown here with the symbol in that year in Kellogg Park.

THE 80 members of the Rotary Club had sold tickets, at $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for children, button-holing their relatives, friends, customers and anyone else with whom they came in contact.

As I recall it, the late Ken Harrison was the top ticket-seller that year. Now, the Rotarians had to roll up their sleeves, tie on their white aprons, and produce.

They had to barbecue the chicken halves, boil the corn-on-the-cob, serve the meal, and keep the tables free from debris. At the end of the day they were happy but exhausted.

As the Plymouth Mail reported on Sept. 14: "A bunch of sore-backed, sunburned Rotarians folded up the tables, put out the fires and dragged themselves home—confident that they had successfully put on one of the biggest shindigs of its kind ever attempted in Plymouth."

The attendance at the Park was estimated at 3,500. We served almost 2,800 dinners, more than double the number served on any previous occasion. Among those who attended from out of town were Rotary District Governor Charles A. Bell and Mrs. Bell, who came from Windsor.

EVENTUALLY, the Fall Festival was more than the Rotary Club could handle on its own.

Other organizations were invited to join in the event and a Plymouth Fall Festival Board encompassing more than Rotary was established. The Festival was expanded from the one-day event sponsored by Rotary, to a several-day affair with many segments of the community represented.

In spite of a deluge on Friday, Sept. 5, the attendance at the 1975 Fall Festival shows how much the event has grown since that Sunday in 1960 when Rotary served 2,800 dinners. In 1975, Rotary served 16,000 chicken dinners; Kiwanis, 2,556 pancake dinners; the Jaycees, 2,500 rib dinners; and the Lions, hampered by the rain, 1,700 fish dinners. The Arts and Crafts show attracted 8,000 visitors, and the Antique Mart drew 3,400.

There is no doubt, in terms of sheer numbers, that the Plymouth Fall Festival has exceeded the wildest expectations of its early planners. Whether it has gone too far in one direction—the satisfying of the stomach—and not enough in another—the satisfying of the mind and the spirit—depends on your viewpoint. I know that some of us, who were in at the beginning, hoped it might develop into a minor league Edinburgh Festival of art, drama and music.

Those who are young, and to whom gustatory delight is still a prime consideration, may prefer the direction the Festival has taken. Many of their elders, however, who need no help in expanding their girths, must be forgiven if their tastes run less to keilbasa, and more to Kandinski, Kafka or Kreisler.

Those who serve on the Fall Festival Board have no easy job in piloting the event in a direction which will please all of us.

WHILE FRANK ARLLEN devoted much of his time to barbecue logistics, others applied themselves to planning the "Festival" aspect of the event.

Our aim was to encourage cultural activities in the community, so we invited organizations of that nature to participate with us in the Park on that first Sunday. I believe Wayne Dunlap agreed to oversee that phase of the operation.

Joining us for the first time were: the Three Cities Arts Club, which displayed paintings and other forms of art; the Plymouth Theatre Guild, which performed a one-act play, "The Mad Hatter's Tea Party," and the Plymouth Historical Society, which showed pictures and documents from the city's past.

All of the displays were covered with gaily-striped parachute silk tents, as a precaution against rain. At 3 p.m., the Plymouth High School Band, which had performed at the dedication of an addition to the post office, marched to the Park and gave a concert. Throughout the afternoon, Margaret Wilson's Penn Theatre showed old-time comedies at 10 cents admission.

A popular feature at the first Fall Festival was Wilford Bunyea's traction steam engine, parked near the barbecue pits. Live steam from the engine was used to boil the corn. Shriill blasts from the engine's whistle treated the munching crowd to a sound not heard since the steam locomotive became a thing of the past.

THE MONEY raised that year was donated to the Plymouth Rotary Foundation, a non-profit organization whose funds were used for charitable purposes, including support of the Crippled Children's Society.

Each succeeding year after 1960, some new feature was added to the Fall Festival. Judging of pets in the Central Parking lot, a display of antique cars, and the Plymouth Symphony League's Antique Mart were among the attractions which developed as time went by. Entertainment, originally local amateur talent, was added. Nat Sibbold, then a member of the Rotary Club, was master of ceremonies for several years.

22 selected for all-area football squad

Coaches from the 14 high school football teams in the Observer & Eccentric's Wayne County circulation area met recently to select the following All-Area grid squad:

OFFENSE

A starting defensive halfback the past two years, he has great hands and can catch the ball in a crowd. He caught two TD passes and intercepted two key Franklin passes in only Patriots loss this year. Ron is a good blocker, a leader and excellent student.

Dennis Kuschel, Thurston, set a new school record of 21 pass receptions this year despite being double-teamed. The speedy 5-11, 170 pound senior totaled 493 yards, averaging better than 23 yards per catch. Two year letterman and two-way player, doubling as defensive back. Returned punts and kickoffs and is an outstanding wrestler and baseball player.

Tackle Chuck Squires, Westland John Glenn, was a key two-way player two years for Rockets. A 6-1, 205 senior, Chuck was co-captain and possesses excellent quickness for his size. Strong blocker in running game or in pass protection. He is an excellent wrestler and very good student.

Tackle Bob Picard, Franklin, at 6-2, 208, was named All-Northwest Suburban League offense and defense. Named outstanding lineman in his league, the 17-year-old senior was vital key in Franklin winning state football championship.

Guard Mike Moses, Westland John Glenn, scored highest of all Glenn is a senior who lettered and started his last two years. Has special quickness coming off the ball, great competitor and a leader and fine student, according to coach Lloyd Carr.

Guard Scott Levitan, Churchill, a "fireplug" at 5-7, 190, started 16 straight games for Chargers. Named unanimous choice to All-Western 6 team, great one-on-one blocker, exceptional pass blocker. "He ranks as one of the best guards ever to play for Churchill," says coach Ken Kaestner.

Center John Young, Plymouth Canton, is one of two juniors on first offensive team. John stands 5-11, weighs 190, good blocker and quick to seal off linebackers. A two-way player, he was outstanding as linebacker, racking up 53 tackles and 35 assists, besides picking off one pass interception and one fumble.

Quarterback Russ Hodges, Livonia Bentley, threw 13 touchdown passes, 12 of them in Suburban 8 League. An excellent runner, passer and faker, the 5-9, 160-pounder completed 36 of 71 passes for 732 yards, a 20.3 yard-per-throw average. The blond senior ran 37 times for 175 yards and one touchdown. Best game was his four TD passes in Bentley's fine upset of highly-rated Dearborn.

Running back Fred Shoemaker, John Glenn, is a 5-7, 140-pound senior tailback who has started three years for Rockets. Voted the outstanding back in Northwest Suburban League, Fred gained 923 yards in 173 carries for a 5.3 average. Scored 11 TDs and fumbled only once this season. An all-area track star and standout wrestler.

Running Back Matt Foster, Churchill, could have made All-Area team either way and is outstanding big college prospect. A three year starter, the 6-2, 206 pound senior was "Mr. Everything" for the Chargers. Leading scorer, rushed for 487 yards and caught 16 passes for 269 yards. Great blocker out of 'I' formation and also fine punter with 32-yard average. Kicked off, booted extra points and played monster man on defense.

Gary Abundis, Redford Thurston, was second team O & E All-Area last year and made first offensive team this season. A burly 5-11, 175, Gary played 48 minutes of every game and was an excellent two-way player. A two-year starter for coach Don Riehl, he averaged 5.7 yards per carry, and this season also caught 10 passes for 212 yards, kicked 10 PAT's. Scored 11 touchdowns, voted most valuable by his teammates, played defensive rover back and called defensive signals.

Second-team offense is guided by Todd Deluca, quarterback from John Glenn with running backs John Lokar of Livonia Stevenson, Charlie Johnson of Plymouth Salem and Canton's Jim Tiller.

Clearing the way are sophomore

Tim McCamant of Clarenceville and Kevin McKee of Bishop Borgess at ends, tackles David Champion of Salem and David Brand of Borgess, guards Scott Mapes of Franklin and David Mueller of Stevenson and Bentley's Don Robinson at center.

DEFENSE

End John Curran, Churchill, is a 6-foot, 185 pound senior co-captain. Played left defensive end and tight end on offense. Coach Kaestner calls him great competitor and great pass rusher and leader.

End Dennis Graff, Thurston, is excellent on the contain and also rushed the passer well. A two-year starter, the 6-3, 187 pounder was all-league in tough Northwest Suburban League. As a tightend, he caught 10 passes for two TDs this year and won school's "Big Hitter" award for 1975.

Lineman Dave Marconneri, Bentley, an All-Sub 8 League player, stands 6-1, weighs 195. "Dave is our best offensive and defensive lineman," praises coach Glen Goode. Two-year starter and hard to trap, he has averaged six solo tackles a game plus assists.

Lineman Bob Suarez, Franklin, is a 6-5, 215 pound giant who has been all-league in Northwest Suburban conference two years. Tough pass rusher, averaged six solo tackles and goes both ways.

Lineman Bob Zichichi, Thurston, is co-captain and three-year starter for Thurston. At 6-2, 240 pounds, Bob has tremendous strength, benches 330 pounds and was named All-Northwest Suburban League player both ways. Virtually unmovable on plays up middle.

Linebacker Tim Hollandsworth, Franklin, served as co-captain of state champions and was tremendous two-way player as linebacker and full-back. Scored team's only touchdown in 12-9 semi-final win over Southwestern, intercepted key pass for clinching TD against Traverse City Saturday for state title. Can't say enough about this 6-2, 205 star who came up with many key plays in his two years as All-Northwest Suburban League player.

Linebacker Mike Welch, Churchill, at 5-11, 185 was leading hitter on Charger's 7-2 season. Made most tackles, fierce competitor, had great range and called best defender by most opponents.

Linebacker Rich Bonk, John Glenn, made All-Northwest Suburban League team as linebacker this year after switch from offensive guard where he earned honorable mention last season. Played slot back on offense and was leading tackler this season for Rockets.

Defensive back Mike Robbins, Bentley, is All-Sub 8 League offensive and defensive choice. Carries B-Plus average, intercepted three passes and was tough tackler. Caught 29 passes for 571 yards and 10 touchdowns as an end.

Defensive back Jim Casey, Franklin, is "Mr. Clutch." This 5-10, 170-pound senior does it all. All-Northwest Suburban League player last two years, Jim had 10 interceptions this season, 23 for three-year career.

Came up continually with key plays, ran for 142 yards in 28 carries in state semi-final win and then scored two touchdowns Saturday besides key interception in championship win.

Defensive back Jim Kozlowski, Bishop Borgess, made all-area O & E offensive team last year. Injuries slowed standout halfback offensively somewhat this year as he averaged "only" five yards a try. The 6-foot, 180 pounder was selected among top 100 high school backs in 1975, great hitter and pass defender. Punts for 34 yard average and scouted by colleges.

Second team defensive unit includes ends Greg Emery of Garden City East and John Alexander of Bentley, interior linemen Tom Budd of Borgess, Randy Urban of Canton and Mike Medved of Stevenson.

Linebackers Joe Dudzinski of Borgess, Steve Spigarelli of Garden City East and Tim Oakley of Bentley support a secondary composed of Scott Shepard of Churchill, Larry Rightler of Salem and Mark Coulston of John Glenn.

All these second-team standouts did a tremendous job all year long and many just missed being named to the first team by the coaches.

Patriots celebrate title

In the wake of Franklin's 21-7 victory over Traverse City in the state Class A football championship game, students at the Livonia school Monday apparently confined their celebrating to a quiet pride.

"It's pretty much business as usual," observed Franklin coach Armand Vigna. "The students are pretty happy, but the faculty is more excited than the kids."

As for the young athletes, who engineered one of the biggest sporting triumphs in the school's history, well, they may be excused if their thoughts wander a bit.

"THE PLAYERS are smiling, beaming and are just very proud of their achievement," the Patriots' mentor stated.

Franklin Principal Dale Collier said the students, although "calmer than I expected, are pretty excited and proud about the school's first state championship in any sport.

"I think the excitement built up more before the game than afterwards," Collier suggested, noting the large, noisy Friday morning pep rally and the trip out to Kalamazoo.

"I'm just extremely proud of the football team, the student body and the band for the way they conducted themselves last weekend," the principal added.

Vigna refused to accept all the credit for leading his charges to the state crown, saying that assistant coaches George Lovich and Gerry Cullin contributed just as much preparing the Patriots for the showdown.

When you talk about the recipe of athletic success, the most important ingredient is the players who make up the squad. The point is emphasized in the Franklin case.

"I CAN'T single out the outstanding players on our team because we had so many," a proud Vigna said. "We just had a fantastic team effort. Week after week, a different kid would pop up to do the job."

The Patriots have compiled an overall 29-2 record the last three seasons in winning three consecutive Northwest Suburban titles.

However, it may be more difficult to repeat again next season because only two starters will return.

"Quarterback Dave Wilson and tackle Al Anconna are the only two offensive and defensive starters we'll have back next year," Vigna said.

"We're not going to have the record we have had the last few seasons, but we hope to continue winning like we have been over the years," stated the head coach.

Regardless what the Patriots do in years to come, the accomplishment of the 1975 football team—winning the inaugural state Class A championship—will remain in the memories of players, coaches, students and teachers for a long time to come.

Vigna named top coach

"But there are two things I want to say. First, I want to thank God from the bottom of my heart for the privilege He has given me and the blessings he has showered upon me this year. Everything fell into place and I'm very thankful.

"Secondly, I have to accept this award for the three of us, George Lovich, Gerry Cullin, my two assistants, and myself. We've worked together this year just like before and it's been a beautiful togetherness with the coaching staff and players," Vigna said.

"Another reason I feel it is an act of God is that Walt Cosens, our beloved athletic director, passed away and George assumed his duties as AD while I received the opportunity to become head coach."

Vigna is a Dearborn Fordson High School graduate and earned his physical ed degree and Masters and Ed S. in guidance at U-of-M.

Armand and his wife, Ruth, have four children, Judy, 12, Sharon, 11, Nancy, 9 and David, 7.

"We thought we had a very good chance to win against Traverse City last Saturday and we want to thank everyone in the area for helping us win the state football title," Vigna concluded.

ARMAND VIGNA

Coach Armand Vigna of Livonia Franklin has been named Coach of the Year for his fine job in leading the Patriots to the state football championship in Class A.

"I really feel it is a tremendous honor to receive coach of the year accolades," Vigna said when told he had been named to head the Dream Team of 1975.

Canton, Bishop Borgess girls reach district finals

In addition to Garden City East, which Saturday won its district finals, and Livonia Stevenson, which lost a heartbreaker Monday night in its finals, several other local teams were involved in action leading up to district title play.

Plymouth Canton and Bishop Borgess advanced to district championship games which were scheduled for last night and tonight, while Redford Union and Thurston reached the end of the line with losses.

CANTON-NORTHVILLE

Canton earned the right to play Farmington Our Lady of Mercy for the Farmington High district championship by blasting Northville 53-32 Monday night.

The Plymouth girls matched or outscored their rivals every quarter en route to the victory. After holding a slim 10-6 first quarter advantage, Canton used a pressing defense forcing many Northville turnovers and keeping their rivals off the scoreboard.

Canton hiked its 26-9 halftime advantage to 42-25 after three quarters, then coasted home with a 53-32 margin.

Heading the Canton scorers were Kathy Peck with 15 points on seven field goals and a foul shot; Kathy Sochacki, with 14 points on six field goals and two foul shots; and Cindy Krieg, with 10 points on three buckets and four foul shots.

Northville's Pat Brown led all scorers with 17 points.

Mercy, a Catholic League powerhouse, lambasted Wayne 75-20 Monday night to gain entry to the district finals.

THURSTON-FERNDALE

Thurston fell way behind Ferndale 20-3 after the first period Monday night and was never able to recover, and the Eagles were eliminated from the state girls' basketball tourney 48-25.

Thurston coach Jane Robey explained that her team had not played a game or scrimmage since two weeks preceding district playoff action, and that the long layoff probably took its toll.

"I've never seen my kids so flat," assessed Robey. "We were terrible on the boards and made too many mental errors which just killed us."

Thurston tried to adjust to the hot Ferndale offense by using the press defense in the second quarter and was able to cut the deficit to 29-13 at the intermission.

However, Ferndale came into the second half with a hot outside shooting hand, and were able to win going away.

Jan Horsley and Sandy Falvo sparked the Thurston scoring attack with 10 and six points respectively. Thurston finished its 1975 season with a 10-2 mark.

BISHOP BORGESS-REDFORD UNION

RU, after losing one of its premier players, Lori Slack, for the entire contest with a kneed injury in the opening quarter, gave Bishop Borgess all it could handle before bowing out of the state title chase 45-40.

Borgess meets Ferndale tonight at 8 p.m. at Hazel Park for the district championship.

RU jumped out to an early 8-2 lead, but Borgess fought back to take the advantage after one quarter 9-8. The Panthers could muster only four points on the entire second period, and trailed at the half 18-12.

The Borgess Spartans enlarged the margin to 33-22 after three quarters and managed to hold off a tenacious

Stevenson cagers bow out in overtime

A gallant Livonia Stevenson comeback, in which the Spartans attempted to erase a six-point deficit in the final minute of overtime, fell two points short, as the locals fell to Detroit Denby 50-48 in the Stevenson district finals of the girls' state basketball tourney.

Denby counted six quick points at the start of the overtime but the Spartans came back on four clutch free throws from steady-handed Dawn

Klann to pull within two points with 15 seconds remaining.

The Stevenson girls then threw a full-court press on Denby which was successful, as the Spartans were awarded the ball on a turnover.

However, the Spartans were unable to move the ball down the length of the court and take a good shot in the five remaining seconds and the contest ended 50-48 in the visitors' favor.

Stevenson jumped out to a 14-7 first quarter lead, as the Spartans used a half-court press to force numerous Denby turnovers. The Detroiters had trouble finding the range in the opening stanza, which also helped the Spartans cause.

LIZ EMBREE, the Spartans coach, said her defense turned a little sluggish in the second quarter enabling Denby to work inside and score on the easy shot. Denby led by one at intermission 23-22.

Both defenses toughened in the third quarter, but Denby was able to extend its lead a bit to 33-29. The final quarter, which ended 44-44, and the overtime definitely were not for the faint of heart, as furious action continued from one end of the court to the other.

"We had a super crowd that was tearing the roof down in here," commented a worn-out Embree. "The kids would never quit. We came back two and three times and I thought the kids played a great game."

Jeri Isanhart, playing her final game for the Spartans, paced all scorers with 17 points. She added 17 rebounds while Carolyn Booth, also a senior, hauled down 21 rebounds, which tied the Stevenson school record.

Denby showed a balanced scoring attack, as five of the Detroiters' scorers tallied between six and 13 points.

Stevenson concludes its season with an overall 15-6 record, but Embree vowed, "We'll be back next year."

GC East girls win berth in regionals

By DOUG FUNKE

The Garden City East Panthers overcame an early bout of sluggishness Saturday night to upend host Annapolis 43-33 and advance next week to the Rochester-Adams Regional in girls' state basketball tournament play.

It took some doing for the Panthers to get untracked in the district finals, as East seemed a little flat-footed following a fast-paced victory the previous night against Detroit Murray Wright.

Trailing Annapolis by a 13-9 count at the end of the first quarter, Panther coach Jan Moore changed her defense to a tight 1-3-3 half-court press.

The strategy paid off, as the Panthers held the Annapolis scoring attack to six points in the second period. At the same time, the East girls began to find their shooting eyes, coming up with 14 points to take a 23-19 halftime lead.

Both teams tightened their defenses in the third quarter, as the Panthers managed only seven points and Annapolis five.

The Dearborn Heights contingent closed the gap to within two points in that third quarter, but Panthers' standout Jeanette Fisher started to connect on shots from the top of the key to keep East ahead of the Annapolis challenge.

Fisher continued to score most of her game-leading 18 points on long shots during the fourth quarter, and the Panthers outscored Annapolis 13-9 in the final stanza to prevail by 10 at the final buzzer.

The Panthers' Debbie Thome suffered a slightly sprained ankle late in the contest, but she is expected to be back in the lineup next Tuesday when regional play begins.

What made East's victory seem even more impressive was that three starters—Fisher, Cheryl Garlow and Debbie O'Neill—played most of the third quarter and all of the fourth with four personal fouls. Only O'Neill subsequently fouled out.

IN ADDITION to Fisher's 18 points, Cindy Dahlka added 10 and Thome chipped in with seven for the Panthers. Beth Moranty paced Annapolis with 16 points.

East—Annapolis

East (43): Jeanette Fisher 8, 2-4, 18; Cindy Dahlka 3, 4-7, 10; Debbie Thome 1, 5-6, 7; Cheryl Garlow 1, 3-5, 5; Debbie O'Neill 1, 0-0, 2; Theresa Yelick 0, 1-2, 1. Totals: 14, 15-21, 43.

ANNAPOLIS (33): Beth Moranty 5, 6-10, 16; Karen Marianowich 3, 0-0, 6; Ann Harris 3, 0-2, 6; Nancy Valentine 1, 1-2, 3; Denise Melick 1, 0-0, 2. Totals: 13, 7-14, 33.

Basketball games set for Friday
Even though school will recess early this week for the Thanksgiving Holiday, three area prep basketball teams will open their 1975-76 campaigns Friday evening.
Garden City East, with Greg Emery, Jim Riley and Mike Mitchell returning from last year's Northwest Suburban League co-championship squad, travels to Inkster Cherry Hill to meet last season's second place finisher in the Tri-River League. Game time is 6 p.m.
Garden City West, meanwhile, returning two standouts in Dave Niles and Mike Susco, has a 6-15 appointment at Westland John Glenn.
The Tigers tied with Melvindale for the Tri-River League title last season, while the Rockets were co-champions with East in the Northwest Suburban League.
Livonia Franklin is the third area team scheduled Friday, as the Patriots will visit Wayne at 6:30 p.m. The basketball team hopes to improve on a 3-7 mark and fifth place finish last season in the Northwest Suburban loop.

The Stroller... Woody's surprise

In the aftermath of the recent Michigan-Ohio State football game came one of the most interesting and surprising statements The Stroller has heard during the entire season. And it came from a most surprising source.

Approached a few minutes after the game, while the record crowd of 105,543 was leaving the stadium, Woody Hayes, the Buckeyes' coach, was asked his opinion of the game in which his team won the right to play in the Rose Bowl for the fourth straight year.

Woody calmly replied, "It was a most pleasing game to me because I think we helped to turn our world around."

You can imagine how stunned his listeners were. They had expected to hear some boisterous comments of the dramatic plays, or how satisfying it was to win the Big Ten title outright.

But Woody, who had been painted as an "enemy" during the week, embellished his point when he added:

"The game was most satisfying because of the behavior of the fans. Just imagine a record crowd... two highly partisan student bodies... two great swarms of players keyed to a high pit for a big... and we didn't have a penalty for unportsmanlike conduct... no fights in the stands... no mob scenes or property damage and an orderly exit."

"THIS PROVES to me that we are on the right road. I think we are helping to show the way out of the world of violence and high crime—and a game like we had today is most satisfying to me."

Well, The Stroller has been looking at high-pitched college rivalries for more than a few years and Woody's statement was the most surprising he ever has heard right after a game.

True, the crowd's actions and the behavior of the players on the field was something to behold—especially with so much at stake.

While Woody was talking, one couldn't help recalling that he, too, had shown a great change. It was only two years ago that he went on a rampage along the sidelines tearing up yard markers and otherwise inciting trouble.

As The Stroller looks back of the rivalries in other years, few of them were devoid of fights, damage to property and all sorts of riotous behavior. At the time these incidents were looked upon as college kids just having a good time while letting off steam.

There were occasions, though, when the student capers and the action of the team's followers went beyond the bounds of propriety.

It was a common act, not many years ago, when followers of the winning team tore down the goal posts and splintered them for souvenirs. With the advent of steel posts this prank has been eliminated.

THE STROLLER recalls one year when Michigan State was host to one of its major rivals in the days before the Spartans were admitted to the Big Ten. Not satisfied to paint signs on the college sidewalks or to dress up the Spartan statue, the invading group went to the extreme of painting all the traffic lights green throughout the downtown area leading to the campus.

It doesn't take much imagination to realize what happened. There were crashes and traffic problems all through the night.

True, it was the curb stone alumni that did the painting. And it is interesting to note that the invaders were dropped from State's schedule.

So it was a pleasing sight to see the behavior of the crowd and players at the Michigan-Ohio State game. But the most surprising thing was the pleasing comment from the most surprising source.

Let's hope Woody is right.

LOVING.
The warmth, the friendliness, the security of the old-fashioned neighborhood - it can't be created, but somehow we've captured it. Maybe it's because we're in Northville - two square miles of turn-of-the-century charm. Dotted with green hills and mill ponds, quiet shops and historic homes, tree-lined streets and friendly people. Or, maybe it's because we're blessed with gentle people right here.

Woodcrest Villa apartments & athletic club

Rather than list the several advantages of Woodcrest Villa... we'll just say that it is indeed a desirable residence, secluded, private... and spacious. But there is one thing you might take note of: A full athletic club. One that is complete in every detail... including an indoor/outdoor pool, a simmering sauna, and a whirlpool. Actually, when you think about it, it's a very small price to pay for your very own health spa. Woodcrest Villa... you don't have to go very far to get away from it all.

DEAR READERS,
I have opened a most unusual gift shop, Gust's Boutique, at the SOMERSET INN HOTEL. I design most of the jewelry. I also have on display my own bronze work. They are original, only one of each in the world. Everyone says it is different. I agree. They also say it is great work and again I agree. What do you think? Of course, if you come out and look at them, we will be happy to have an opinion. —This is an invitation! 643-8257

The Holiday Spirit

Sharing ourselves and our bounty is the ultimate holiday gift.

While toys, games and diamonds are appreciated, they may not reward the giver with as much pleasure as the gift of love.

Love comes in many forms. It can be in the form of gifts for those less fortunate.

Or it can be sharing the holidays with foreign visitors far away from their home and families.

Visiting shut-ins is another way to share the holiday spirit of giving.

Gifts for those less fortunate can be donations to the hundreds of charities which need your help.

One of the oldest forms of holiday giving is the donation dropped into the proverbial Salvation Army red kettle accompanied by the familiar ring of Christmas bells and perhaps a brass band.

You can give a gift to the numerous charities which support their philanthropy through the sales of greeting cards. This is a new giving gimmick which incorporates an old custom.

Gifts needn't be just monetary. Frequently charities have specific needs—furniture to refinish, bedding, clothing and etc.—which would be an appropriate holiday gift.

Baskets of foodstuffs for the needy are traditional, too, and still much appreciated.

These baskets are a nice way to involve youngsters in the giving effort. They could be asked to donate some of their pennies toward the purchase of items for the basket, or they could be asked to wrap items for the basket.

Churches and temples are excellent sources for names and ad-resses of persons or families who need your help. They need the help all year, probably, but it is especially appreciated during the holidays.

Sharing the holidays with foreign visitors is a very rewarding experience. Often these visitors are students who haven't the means or time to travel to their homes for the holidays.

While these visitors to our country may not celebrate any particular holiday at this time of year, they might appreciate experiencing it with someone who does.

Again, churches, temples and universities are good sources for names of persons who are looking for a place to go during the holidays.

Visiting shut-ins during the holidays can be another meaningful experience to add to your life.

Many church musical groups organize themselves for the holidays to visit hospitals and nursing homes, but these residences and hospitals appreciate visits from anyone who is willing to give of themselves for their patrons.

No one, it seems, is ever too old or too sick to appreciate a visit from a friendly-faced visitor who has a song to sing or a poem to read.

Start a new tradition in your family—even if there's only one of you—give everyone you can afford to give to, a double gift.

An envelope stuck in the Christmas tree could contain a message like this: Happy Holiday. A donation has been given in your name to the name of your favorite charity.

To use a phrase coined long ago—these are the sort of gifts that keep on giving.

This could be the first Christmas card sent

1876 greetings from a Sunday school

sent hand-painted cards.

Even before the Cole-Horsley and other cards of the 1840s, schoolboys wrote "Christmas pieces" on special paper which conveyed greetings to their parents while at the same time showing their progress in penmanship.

By the 1870s, the sending of Christmas cards was well established in England and by the end of the decade had been introduced in the United States.

According to one source, the first known Christmas card in the United States was a business greeting from a variety store in Albany, N.Y., but the exact date is not known.

From 1874 to 1894, Louis Prang, a German immigrant who settled in Boston, produced a line of Christmas cards which are treasured collectors' items today. Prang is credited with popularizing Christmas cards in America and became known as the father of the American Christmas card.

Prang offered prizes to artists for their card designs and many of those selected were of religious significance. Prang's dominance of the American Christmas card scene ended around the turn of the century when penny cards from Germany appeared and the trade was dominated by the Germans until World War I.

Some time after Prang popularized Christmas cards in America, art museums began to sell reproductions of paintings and woodcuts for use on Christmas cards and in 1949 UNICEF cards appeared on the market.

Art work for the UNICEF cards is donated and all proceeds from sale of the cards goes to programs to benefit children in more than 100 developing countries.

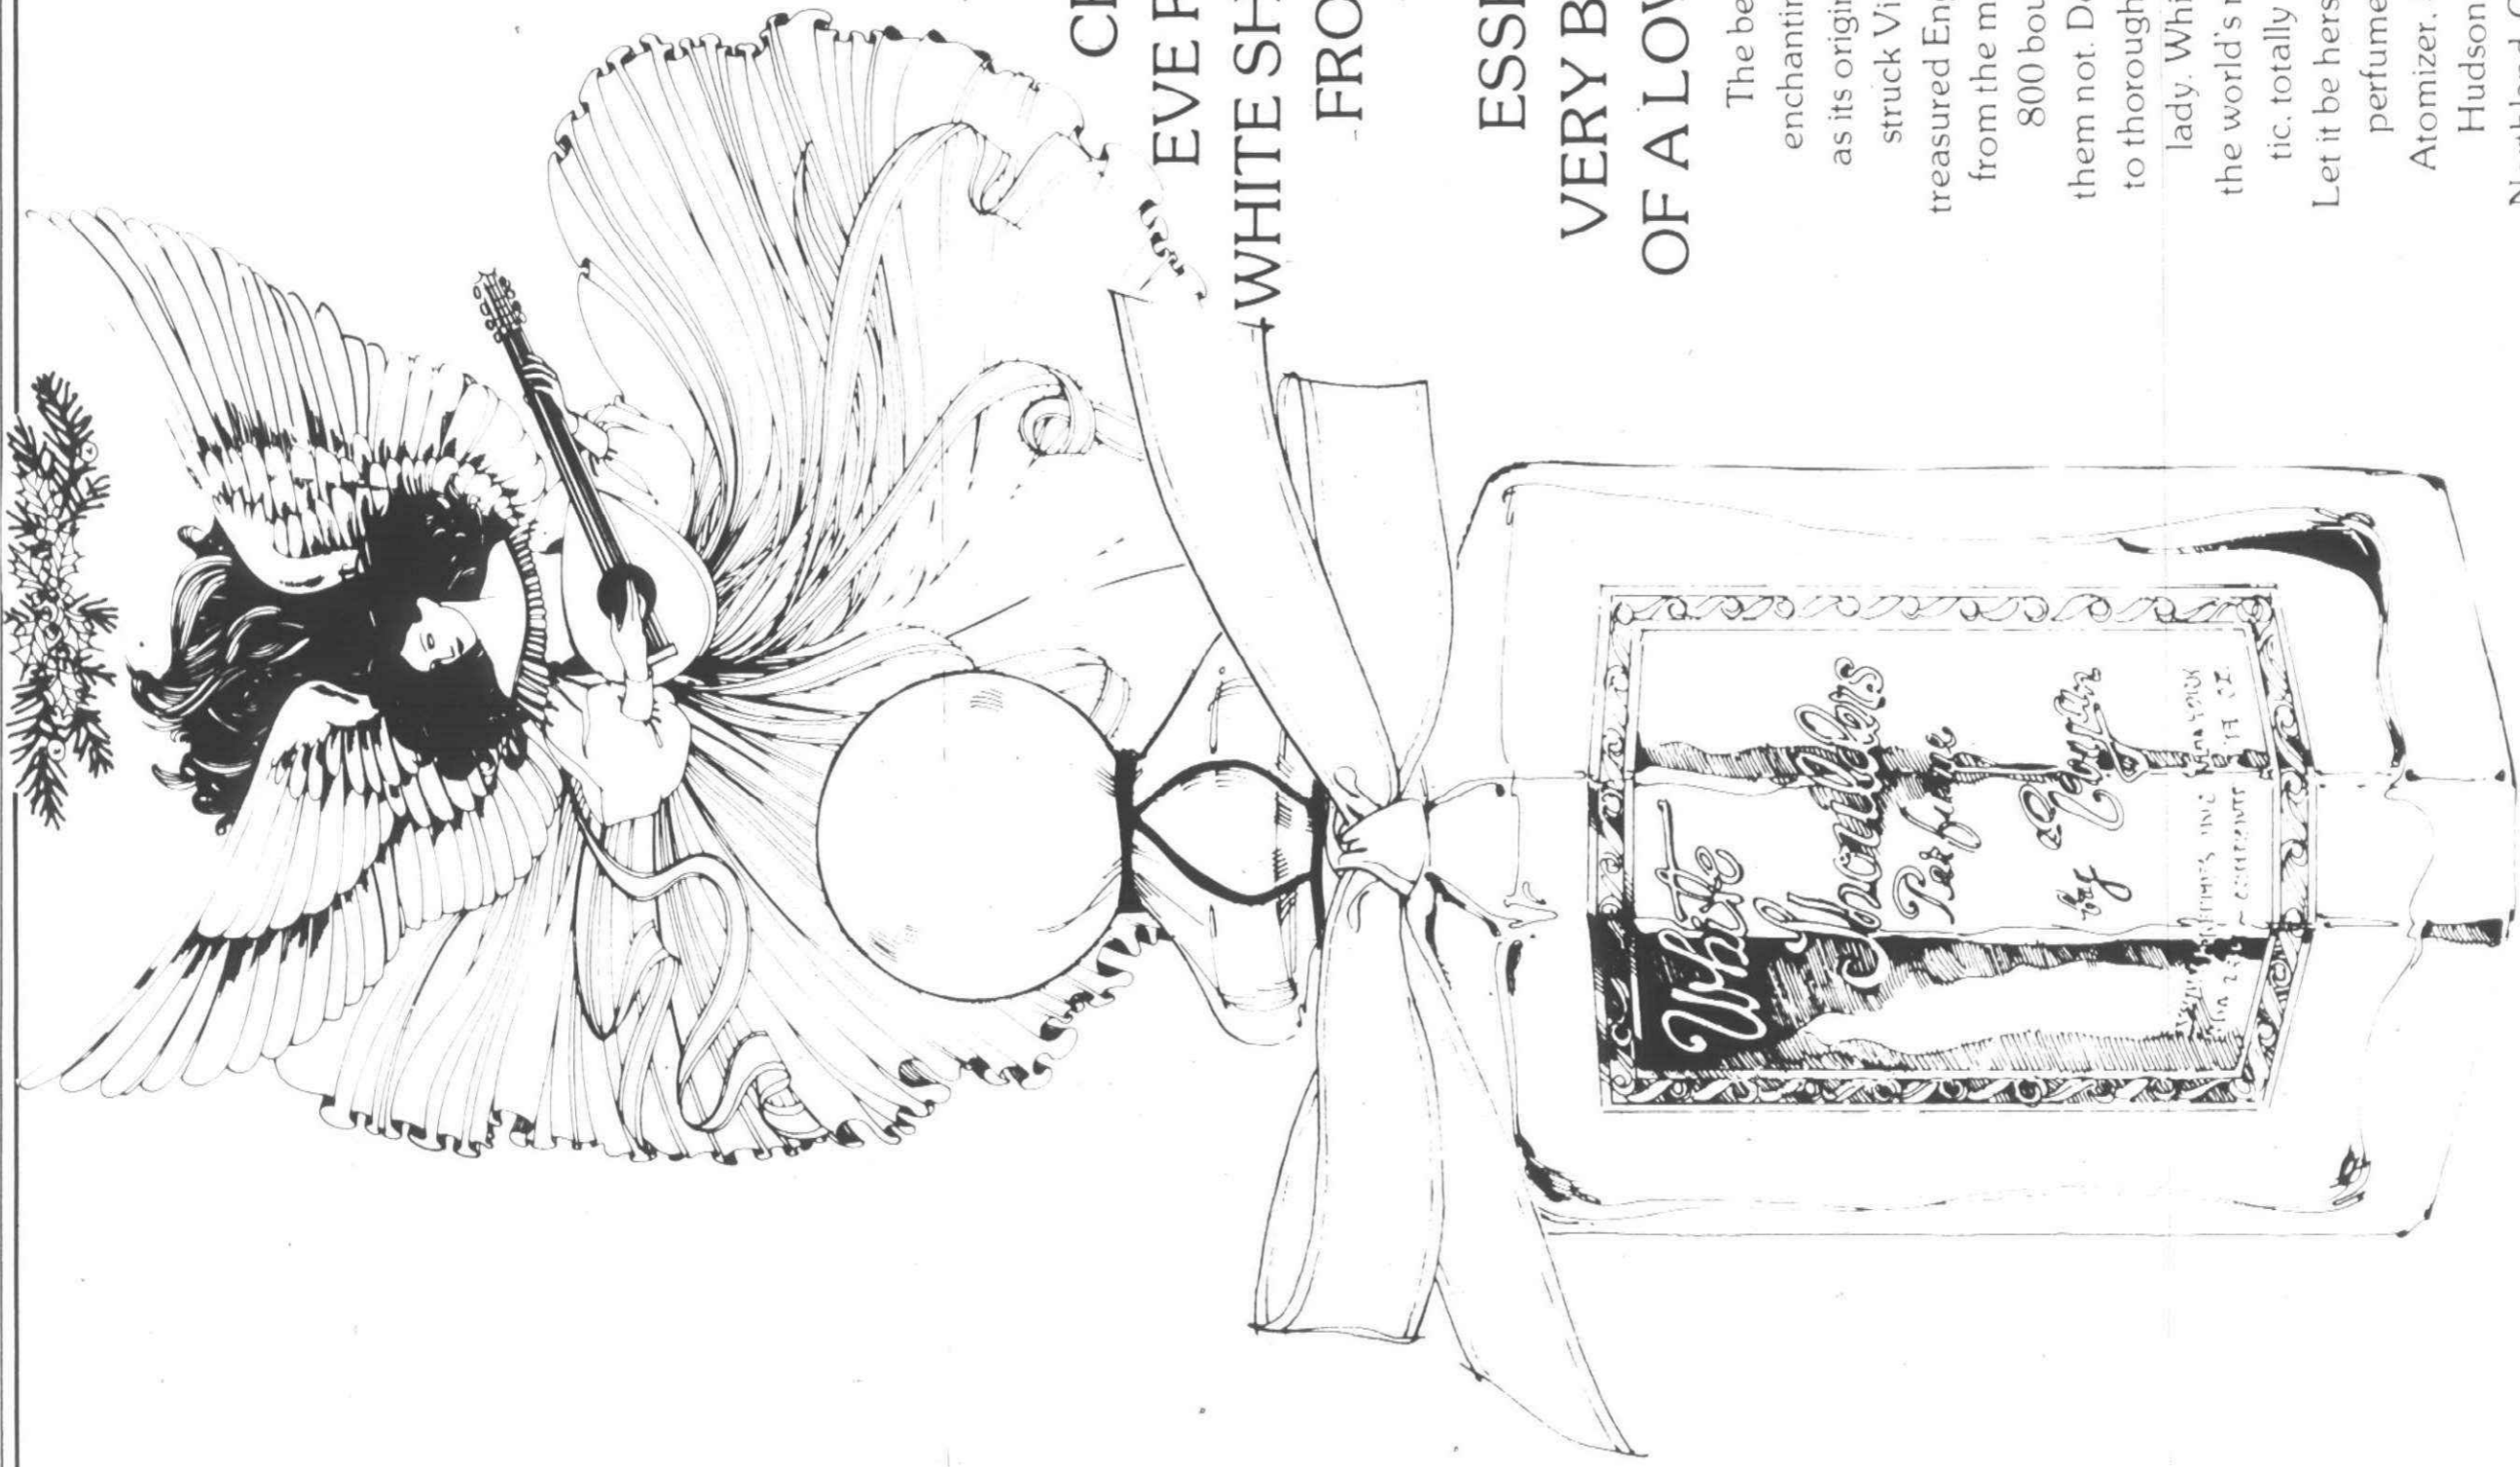

Christmas card designs have varied through the years with landscapes holding an edge on popularity for many years. However, holiday symbols such as bells, candles, wreaths, Santa Claus and religious themes remain popular year after year.

Many families make their own Christmas cards and others send a photograph which may include the entire family, new baby, new house or new pet.

Mimeographed letters detailing the activities of each family member and their accomplishments (or disappointments) during the past year are sent by some families while such greetings are soundly criticized by many.

Despite escalating postal rates and prices on paper, Christmas cards seem to be here to stay.

THERE'S MORE TO CHRISTMAS AT CROWLEY'S

A little boy grows up fast

The air will echo and re-echo the strains of White Christmas, but they'll never erase the memory of a "Black Christmas" from the mind of the little Pennsylvania Dutch boy who was born and reared on the fringes of the hard coal country.

Each year, as the Yuletide approaches, his memory takes him back to the little white church on the hill where he took part in the Christmas Eve ceremonies and the next morning when his world suddenly turned to one of disappointment and he sobbed all day — and into the night.

His Christmas turned from White to Black in that little church and never a Christmas comes that, his only Christmas wish is that no other little boy suffers the pangs he did when all the rest of the world seemed jolly.

On this particular Christmas Eve he had pleased his mother with a recitation in keeping with the spirit of the evening and she beamed her pride in him as he walked down the aisle.

All the while the tension was mounting for the young folks had been told that Santa Claus was coming and could be expected most any moment.

Finally, the last speech had been made and there was a loud, rumbling noise and the ringing of bells reverberating in the little church where a huge fire place had been built in front of the pulpit.

Then, all of a sudden, there was a loud thud that fairly shook the platform. The church officials raced to the fireplace and there came Santa Claus all right. But he was almost rolled into a ball. In his desire to right himself, his white whiskers caught on a nail and were ripped off.

It was horror for a moment — just to think that Santa Claus may have been hurt. But the hurt was on the other side when, taking a close look at the prone man in the red suit, one of the youngsters yelled, "That's Dan Milson, our coal man."

Sure enough, that's who it was and the little Dutch boy went home, nonchalantly placed his small box of candy, the gift from the church, on the table.

Christmas had lost much of its childish charm when his faith in Santa Claus was shattered.

His disappointment was as nothing, compared to what happened the next morning when he came down stairs and raced to the fireplace to see what gifts had been left in his stocking.

As he took out the usual candies and nuts and some small trinkets as gifts, he suddenly came upon several chunks of hard coal instead of the usual orange at the toe of the stocking.

He couldn't believe it. A gift of coal was a symbol that he had been a bad boy throughout the year.

There was no holding back the tears. Despite the sympathy of his knowing mother who told him that one of his neighbor friends had put the coal in his stocking as a joke — the little Dutch Boy took the coal literally — that he had been a bad boy.

There was no choking back the tears. He sobbed all through dinner. His day was ruined. It was a Black Christmas — first his faith in Santa was shattered and then a "gift" of hard coal in his Christmas stocking.

Could any day be blacker? So you can sing all you want of White Christmas. But you'll never erase the memory of a "black" one. How do we know about that horrible day in the long ago?

You see, that little Dutch boy was me.

An early secular card

Sending cards a new custom

Unlike many Christmas observances and traditions which are hundreds of years old, the sending of Christmas cards is a relatively modern custom. According to most sources, the first Christmas card was designed in 1843 by John Calcott Horsley at the suggestion of Henry Cole (later Sir Henry Cole), a well-known London museum director. The card was a triptych, printed lithographically and tinted by hand by a professional colorer. About 1,000 of the cards were sold by a gift-book company for a shilling each. The center panel of the card showed a group of merry-makers or possibly a family, facing out from the card. The smaller side panels showed acts of charity normally associated with the holidays — feeding the hungry and clothing the naked. Beneath the center panel was the familiar greeting card message — "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to You." Most sources credit the Cole-Horsley combination with the first Christmas card, but a card designed by another Britisher, William Egley, may have preceded it. The original of Egley's card is in the British Museum but the date under his signature is unclear and may be either 1842 or 1849. An authority on women's dress has claimed the costumes in Egley's card are more typical of 1842 than of 1949 and if this is true, Egley likely would have been the producer of the first Christmas card. However, most historians credit the Cole-Horsley card of 1843 with launching the custom which has grown into a present day multi-million dollar business. Approximately a dozen Cole-Horsley cards are known to exist today. Two of them, including an unused one, are in the Hallmark Historical Collection in Kansas City, Mo. Two other Britishers followed Cole in sending Christmas greetings. In 1844, the Rev. Edward Bradley of Newcastle sent lithographed greetings and W. A. Dobson, described in two separate texts as an artist of the Royal Academy in London and head of the school of design in Birmingham,

Young readers use their holiday vacation time wisely

Holiday reading

When school is out for the holidays, librarians notice that libraries fill up with young readers.

Many come to read a favorite book over and over again or to explore new additions to the reading room.

Winter vacation is a great time for children to enjoy quiet reading a pause in the busy whirl of activity.

This quiet pause is a good thing for parents, too. During the two mid-winter weeks, an old family activity might even be revived.

Instead of gathering together in front of the television, it might be fun to choose an exciting book and share it by reading it aloud.

If yours is a family with young children, old classics like "Winnie the Pooh" by A. A. Milne or "Wind in the Willows" by Kenneth Grahame can be a warm experience.

Even families with young teenagers might enjoy reading "The Great Brain Books" by John Fitzgerald. Because holidays mean travel for many families, taking a book along for the ride could make the trip more fun.

The reading could even be continued by grandfather when grandchildren arrive.

One popular book suited for travel is "Portmanteau" by Thomas Rochwell, a collection of poems, stories, jokes and things to do.

More bright book ideas can be found by glancing at a list prepared by the Tri-county Children's Librarians called Welcome Gifts the Year Round.

It includes a wide range of fiction and nonfiction popular in several age groups.

A book librarians have found to be "practically the Bible," is Guinness Book of World records. Because it's not a story, children can pick and choose among un-canny facts they find interesting.

And while reading is a fun way to spend a holiday time this year, it also suggests a gift that may last for many holidays to come.

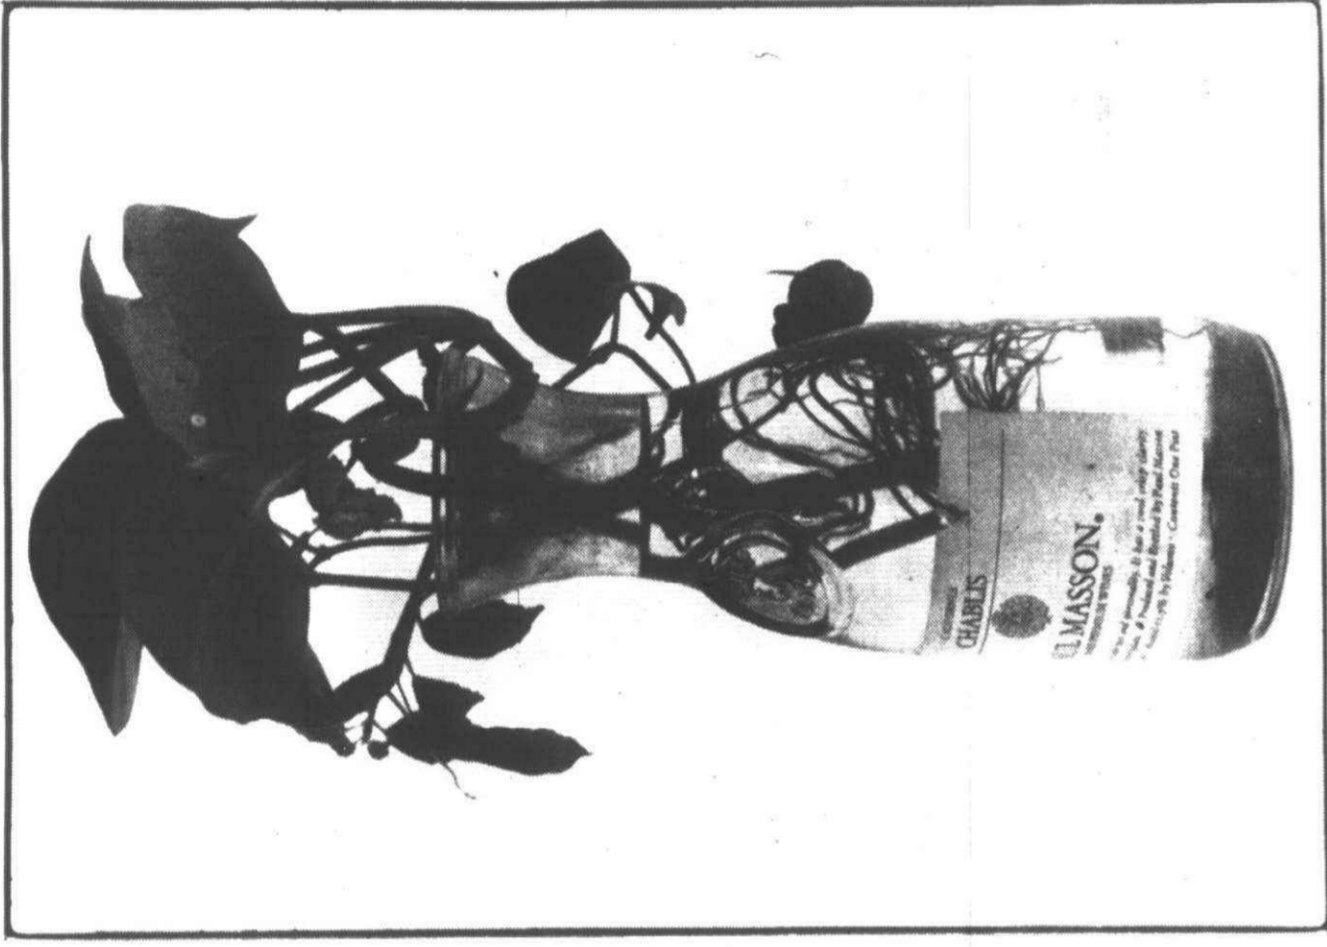

Books don't break like toys, either. They aren't discarded as quickly and some seem to grow with the child.

Often a treasured story is read and reread, miraculously gaining depth as the child does.

These experiences are the ones that last, so while shopping consider a hard cover book. Most children today are of the paperback generation.

There is special beauty in having a hard cover book, a certain feeling of permanence about seeing a few loved volumes on your own shelf.

Christmas Lists

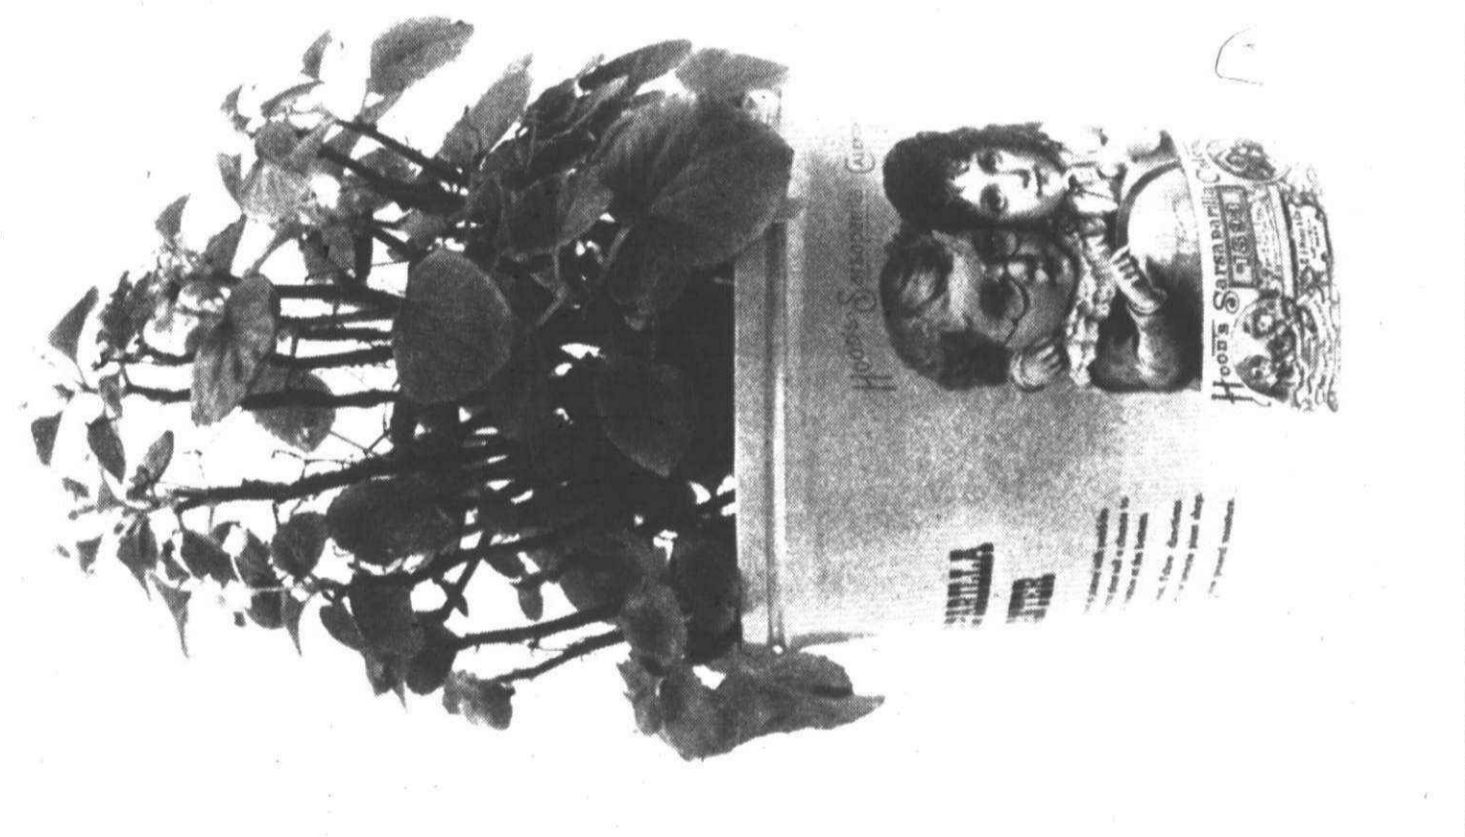

Christmas lists are often filled with inanimate objects: bedspreads, jewelry, toaster-ovens and stuffed animals. But have you ever thought of giving a living gift for Christmas—a plant?

Giving plants affords the giver a chance to be creative. Design a terrarium, hanging basket or a cactus garden, for example. These gifts also serve as constant reminders of the giver.

Giving a plant can be expensive or not. If you are on a very strict budget, consider taking clippings from your own plants, rooting them and replanting them in a colorful handcrafted basket or hand-painted tin.

If you want to add a little extra to your gift, accompany it with a plant sprayer or a set of small gardening tools. Other accessories include items used in growing healthy plants: lights, plant food or books about plant care.

Where money is no object, the size and expense can reach as high as you like. A lasting and thoughtful gift for a friend or relative who

Made-to-look-old containers are conversation pieces

Some of the things that make Christmas memorable to children as they grow older are the customs which frequently are associated with nationalities.

While the American traditions of Christmas trees, Santa Claus, stockings, Christmas cards and mistletoe have combined to be uniquely American, few Christmas festivals are complete without the added touches which many Americans have brought with them from Europe, Africa and other foreign lands.

Although Christmas usually is celebrated on Dec. 25 — even by America's foreign-born — Christmas celebrations in many European countries begin Dec. 6, the Day of St. Nicholas.

Czech and Slovak children believe that on that day St. Mikulas, as he is called, descends from heaven on a golden rope and wanders the earth rewarding good children and admonishing those who have been bad.

The children hang their stockings outside or near the window so that when Mikulas passes by he can drop gifts into them.

Among German children, St. Nicholas Day is a day of gift giving. The night before Dec. 6, children hang their stockings or put a shoe in front of the window. In the morning it is found stuffed with marzipan, nuts, cookies and other sweets.

As part of the Polish custom, Dec. 6 also retains importance. On that day, St. Nicholas, dressed in the clothes of a bishop and accompanied by an angel and a devil, goes from house to house.

He tests the children's knowledge of the catechism and of their prayers and inquires as to their behavior. Children whose behavior has been unsatisfactory are admonished and put on probation until Christmas.

Being in a giant toy specialty store is like an alcoholic being in an empty liquor store.

The sight is unbelievably delirious for anyone who is old enough to appreciate it.

There are hundreds of shelves filled with thousands and thousands of toys, games, and articles to please persons of all ages.

But with the Christmas season around the corner the problem is how to buy games for your own children, favorite nieces and nephews without being forced to make loan as large as the national deficit.

There is a pleasant surprise for those who don't own an oil well and still have enough left for an aspirin the day after Christmas.

There are numerous games for $5 and less, many of which can be used by the whole family for fun and pleasure.

We stopped in at a toy specialty store with outlets in Livonia and Southfield to check their prices, which are lower than those at major discount stores.

If you are a sports fan, there is "SuperToe" for $4.86; the National Football League game plan for $5; a Rod Laver tennis game for $2.18 and a tennis card game for $2.78.

The "Super Toe" box says the game is designed for "super jocks" six and up.

Persons who are former Pentagon bureaucrats or just plain former hawks on the Vietnam War, may be interested in a $3.57 game called "Tactics II war games." For those with unlimited budget, there are numerous other military games at higher prices.

Detective fans will have a lot of fun with the "Sherlock Holmes Games." There are many hiding places on a large board and contestants are required to test their detecting skills at finding the hiding places of many clues.

There are many games for those who don't or won't use a lot of brain power to enjoy their Christmas gifts and still stay under $5.

Remember the Jack and Jill story from your kindergarten days? For $3.96 plus tax, there is the famous characters for preschoolers and older. The aim is to move the characters up that famous hill along predetermined paths without being hit by an avalanche of marbles. The marbles cause Jack and Jill to tumble down.

The game's aim is to get to the top of the hill first.

Casper the friendly ghost is a popular cartoon character at the neighborhood theater and he has been recreated for a holiday game, priced at $3.93.

The game is designed with special chips which glow in the dark and a spooky stone on which Casper is placed in rotation among the players. When Casper is placed on a stone which lights up the player wins a chip. The first to get four chips is the game's winner.

"Don't spill the Beans" is another budget game priced at $3.38, designed for youngsters from three to 10. The object is to put a bean on a mounting pile without spilling it.

On a similar theme, there is "The Last Straw," priced at $3.97 which has players placing straws in a container on the side of a camel. The camel breaks in two when that famous last straw is placed in the container.

Youngsters and adults who can't wait for the baseball season to start, could play "Charlie Brown All-Stars Baseball Game," priced at $4.53, designed for persons eight years old and up.

But these are just a few of the thousands of games at a reasonable price the Christmas shopper can find.

dishes are served for the occasion, including fish or mushroom soup, fish with stewed prunes, cabbage and a variety of fruits and cakes.

Christmas wafers, called "oplatki," are customary prior to the Christmas Eve meal. Each person shares his wafer with everyone at the table, wishing them health and prosperity for the coming year.

The Christmas tree is important for the Polish Christmas Eve celebration, as it is the gathering point for the distribution of gifts. Traditionally, the gifts are distributed by the Good Star, impersonated by a woman with white robe and veil.

Christmas in most countries is closely associated with the church and church celebrations.

Unlike Christmas in most countries, Christmas is not a happy occasion in Syria. Pilgrimages are frequently made from Syria to Bethlehem to attend the Christmas Eve midnight service. Christmas Day is then observed quietly in the home. Not until New Year's Day do Syrians enjoy the festival spirit.

Many of today's popular U.S. Christmas customs have their origins in ancient and foreign traditions.

The burning of the Yule log is a custom which originated with the Scandinavians. At their feast of Juhl, during the winter solstice, the Scandinavians kindled huge bonfires in honor of the god Thor.

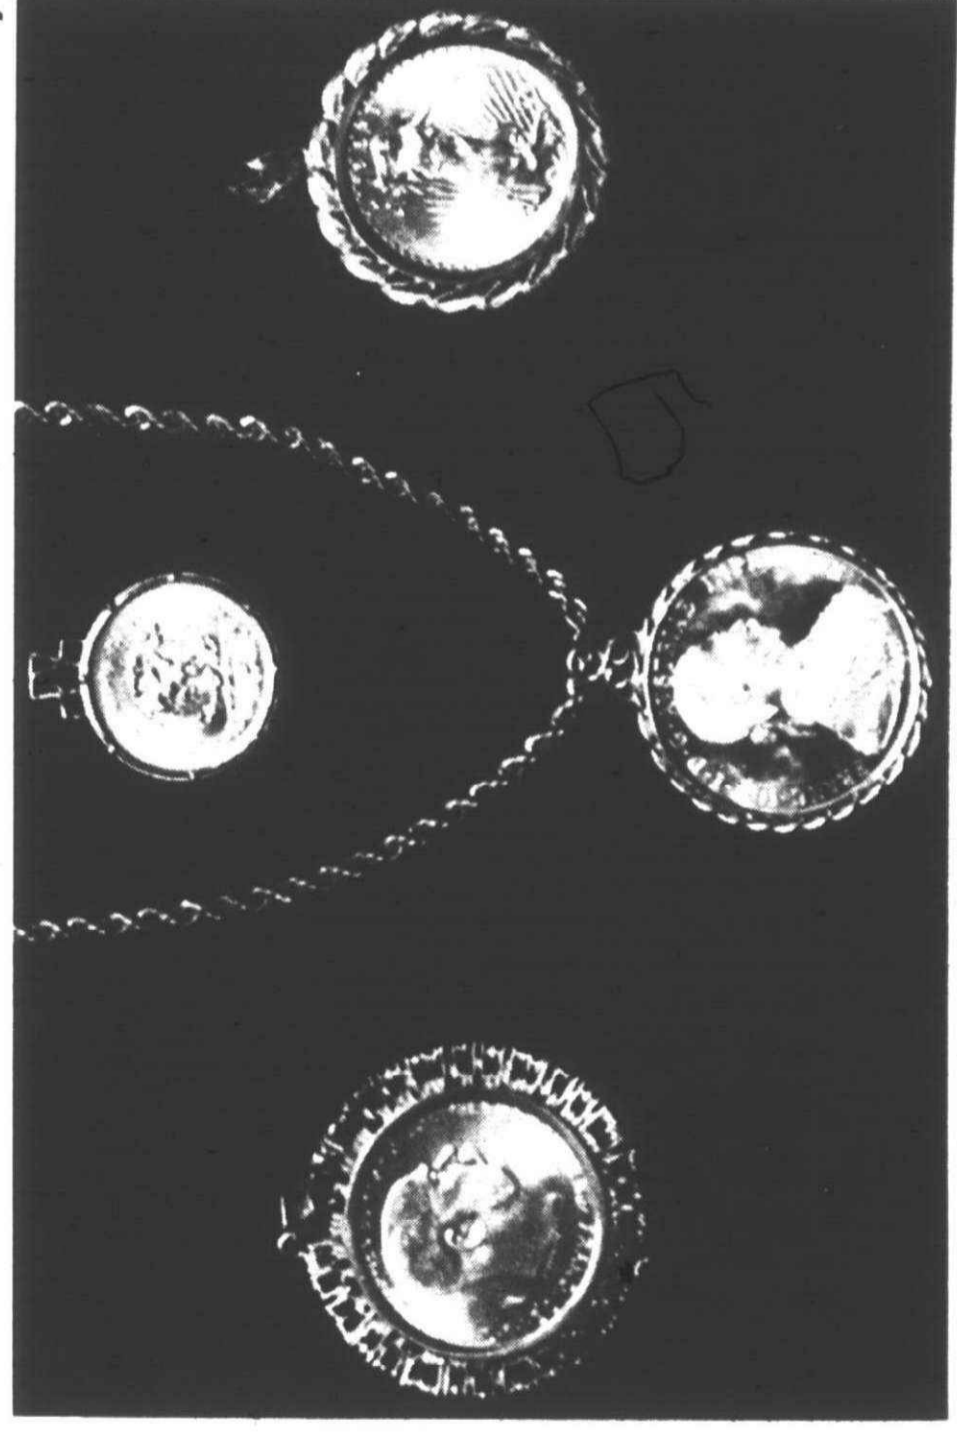

In feudal times, the bringing in of the Yule log was one of the most joyous ceremonies connected with the festival. Men heaved down the biggest log, singing Yule songs while they prepared it for the fire.

Both popular traditions — Santa Claus and the hanging of the Christmas stockings — have their origins in Holland.

Unlike most traditions which clearly originate in one country, the origin of the Christmas tree is claimed by many. German legends attribute to St. Winifred the idea of the Christmas tree, while Egyptians, Scandinavians and the French all have equally persuasive legends attributing to their nationality the introduction of the Christmas tree as a tradition.

Schuss on skates

Ice skates have gotten a sleek new look since the days when Mary Mapes Dodge's fictional Hans Brinker glided along canals in 19th century Holland.

Despite the higher quality of today's skates, one thing hasn't changed — the importance of proper fit. Without proper fit, even the most talented skaters face a challenge in staying on their feet.

"There's really no such thing as weak ankles," said Joan Blatch, a Detroit-area figure skating instructor. "Just bad fitting skates."

"If your skates are too big, your feet will just slide around. You'll spend your time skating on your ankles, then probably say 'phooey' and give up. You get what you pay for when buying skates. The key to buying is knowing what you want, then getting to know how to find it."

Each form of skating — figure, hockey and speed — has different skates for special competition. In each case, the boot and blade are designed with precision.

Handmade ornaments for the tree are special

Trimming the tree

Until the early 1800s, the use of Christmas trees was mainly a custom only in Germany. Historians cannot determine why in about 20 to 30 years, the practice spread throughout Europe. These Europeans later brought the tradition to the new land, the United States.

It is believed that tree trimming may have been an outgrowth of a practice adopted by early dwellers in the forest. They placed foodstuffs in trees during the night so they could be out of the reach of prowling animals.

Later pictures or replicas of foodstuffs such as ham and bacon were used as substitutes for the real items in order that they could be held by slender tree branches.

Cookies were soon added to the trees in the shape of flowers, bells, stars, angels, hearts and animals. Then came the wax candles, ribbons, a star for the top, nuts, fruits covered with bright-color paper, dolls and glittering strings of beads, and other ornaments.

Before the introduction of electric lights, wax candles caused serious fire hazards in most homes. For this reason, candles were only placed on the Christmas tree for a few hours during the holiday season.

Christmas tree traditions are as varied as the different ornaments on the tree.

An old custom in Scandinavia in families with children was for the parents to decorate the trees in secret Christmas Eve. Then the doors of the parlor would dramatically open and the children would rush in to gaze at all the Christmas toys.

-NICK SHARKEY

"I'd say children four and five can learn how to skate with single-runner skates. We've got some even younger, but they're exceptionally coordinated."

Avoid skates that pinch your toes, advised Walden.

"You've got to be able to pull the boot right over your foot for tightness," he explained. "You also need toe clearance and some lacing room, but skates generally should be right to size."

Good hockey skates cost between $20 and $30 a pair, Walden said and better built ones start at $40 a pair and range up to $100 a pair.

"The more active your child," he said, "the more you should consider going into better built skates."

"Normally, you should be able to get three or four years of use from better built skates. But if your child outgrows them after one year, you may be able to sell the skates for $15 or $20. So it costs you only $15 a year to equip your child with skates."

Stock figure skates that cost $40 a pair new will bring at least $10 or $15 used, Ms. Blatch said.

Both Walden and Ms. Blatch noted:

- That they prefer to see children and adults in a good pair of skates for free style and dance. Speedskaters have indoor and outdoor skates. In hockey, goalies use skates that are made differently than those of other players.

In Hans Brinker's day, Dutch children often just strapped wood skates onto their shoes. Arch support wasn't a concern. That's unfortunate, said Ms. Blatch.

"In the case of figure skates," she said, "look for leather or vinyl boots with blades that are screwed into a leather sole. They provide the best support. Avoid blades that are riveted on."

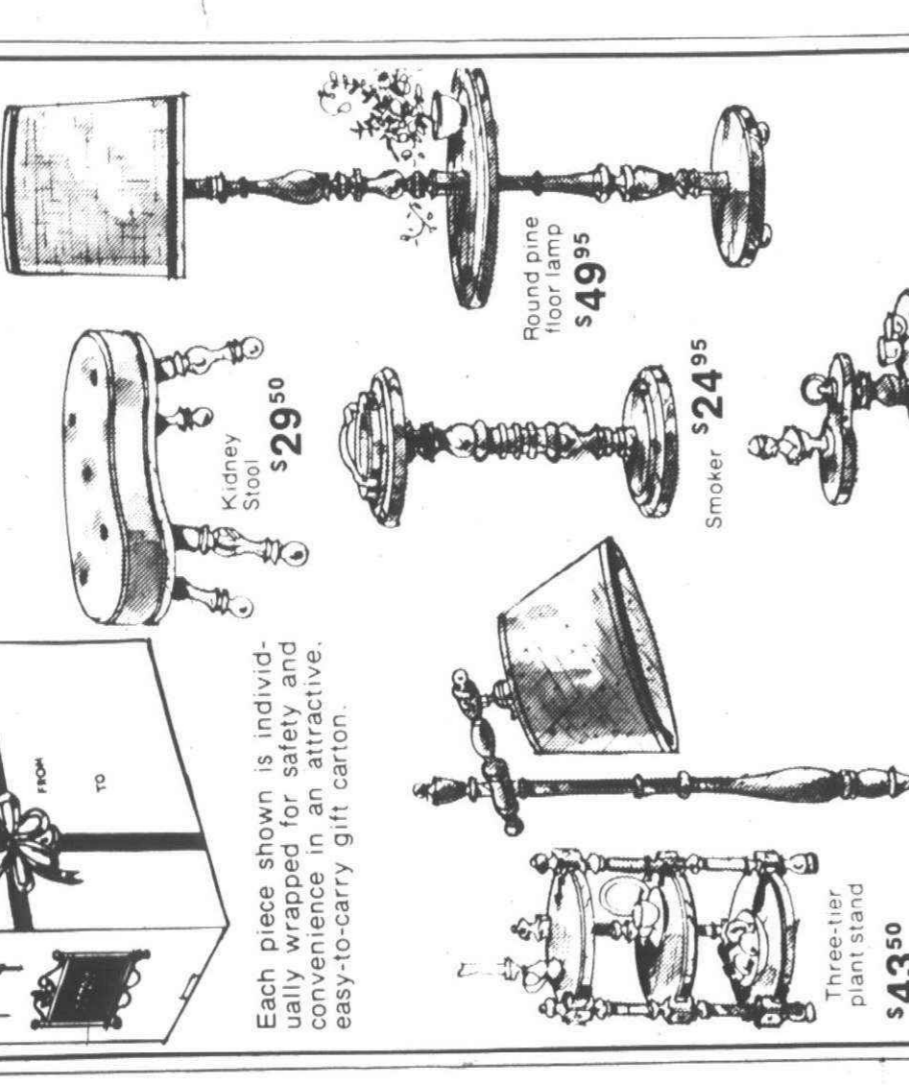

Ms. Blatch added, "If you want good fit, go to a place that specializes in ice skates. I recommend sporting goods stores or pro shops at ice rinks, not department or discount stores. It astonishes me how well some children do on skates with absolutely no arch support."

A good pair of stock figure skates costs between $30 and $50 for children and between $40 and $60 for adults, she said.

Parents should shun double-runner skates for their children, said Mike Walden, long one of the Detroit area's leading authorities on speedskating and bicycle racing.

"You can't learn how to skate using double runners," Walden said. "They just slide on ice. They don't strengthen your ankles any."

used skates than in a cheap pair of new skates.

- That correctly sharpened skates provide countless advantages over dull ones.
- That when trying on new skates, remember leather stretches.
- That serious skaters should have well-planned conditioning programs and recreational skaters should have frequent workouts.

Children five and six who want to pursue speedskating should start on hockey skates, then switch to a used pair of speed skates after a year or two, Walden said. He says it doesn't pay to buy custom racers for children because they would outgrow them too fast.

Stock racers cost between $30 and $60 a pair new and between $15 and $30 a pair used, according to Walden.

Ms. Blatch says youngsters who want to pursue competitive figure skating don't need custom skates, either.

"Buy them boots and blades separately," she said. "Blades run between $12 and $85. Stock boots cost between $40 and $100. Then get a good mounting. That makes a big difference because a bad mounting can lead to stumbling all over the ice."

As for toe picks on figure skates, Ms. Blatch said: "You need them for jumps and spins so make sure that they aren't removed when you have your skates sharpened.

"Adults who aren't interested in doing jumps or spins may have the pick ground off or should find a blade with a pick that's not so prominent."

As in other sports, coordination in skating is priceless, Ms. Blatch said.

"You have to practice to get your body to do what you want it to do," she said. "The more you work out, the faster you'll train your body."

Skating is one of the few sports in which families may participate, emphasized Walden.

As he put it, "Families today are missing some of the joys of skating. On a nice winter day, they can go out to a lake or metropark and have a cookout while skating. They can make a picnic out of it."

Four Detroit area metroparks have outdoor family skating sessions when weather permits—Kensington near Milford, Stony Creek near Rochester, Lower Huron near Belleville and Metropolitan Beach near Mount Clemens. Oakland County runs a skating pond in Addison-Oaks Park near Oxford. Wayne County runs skating ponds on Wilcox Lake near Plymouth and on Newburgh Lake near Livonia.

All of these skating areas have warming shelters.

The Cracker Jack box routine is still a good one and how a person can choose from screaming Yellow Zonkers as well.

Environmentals who like to recycle things can have a ball wrapping safe and sane gifts in old wallpaper samples, the comics, the news sections of the paper, fancy bags that liquor once came in and L'EGGS panty hose containers.

If all else fails, there's a gift wrap center in almost every department store (ask for "No. 27") and most specialty shops pride themselves on their wrap techniques.

Still, the best technique may be a present behind the back in its virgin (unwrapped) state, accompanied by a kiss on the cheek and "I didn't think it needed any wrapping."

first candle is relighted, plus a second one. The scriptures chosen usually start the first Sunday with the most distant ones and move closer to the actual birth ending with the story of Herod on the fourth Sunday.

Combining new and old Christmas traditions, the candles on the wreath, following the colors used in more traditional Christian Advent worship, are purple or lavender with the Christ candle white.

The wreath may be decorated with evergreen boughs symbolizing everlasting life. The wreath is usually placed in a spot that symbolizes the center of family activity, i.e., a mantle or the center of the dining table.

Many families choose to have the youngest child light the first candle and the older ones read the Bible passages and prayers. Books with suggested family.

Along with the Advent wreath, Advent calendars have enjoyed a renaissance, particularly in families with small children. These too, build the anticipation for Christmas offering the little ones a little numbered door to open each of the days during the Advent season.

One Christmas tradition which has gained steadily in popularity in the last decade is the Advent wreath.

Advent, the four weeks before Christmas, has been recognized since ancient times. It serves Christmas in the same way Lent does Easter as preparation for the celebration.

Early in Christian history when the date for Christmas was set at December 25, the four weeks preceding symbolized 4,000 years, the time believed to have passed between the creation of man and the birth of Christ.

The lighting of the wreath has moved from churches into homes as a family religious service.

The circular wreath has four candles sometimes with a fifth Christ candle in the middle to be lighted Christmas Day.

The first candle is lighted on the first Advent Sunday, this year Nov. 30. As the family gathers and the candle is lighted, a short service is held with both children and friends taking part.

Generally, a portion of an Old Testament prophecy about the birth of Christ is read; prayers are given and a Christmas coral sung.

The second Advent Sunday, the Wrap it up!

This is a holiday wrap-up, as sports fans might say. So you've bought this gigantic stuffed frog for Minnie and you can't think up a proper wrapping for it.

Maybe not wrapping it at all would be more fun. Put the frog in a closet a long way from the Christmas tree. Tie a string to its ear and wind the string throughout the house, ending at the tree.

Instruct the intended receiver to follow the string, up and down stairs, outside (if you live in Florida) or anywhere, just to make the pursuit fun.

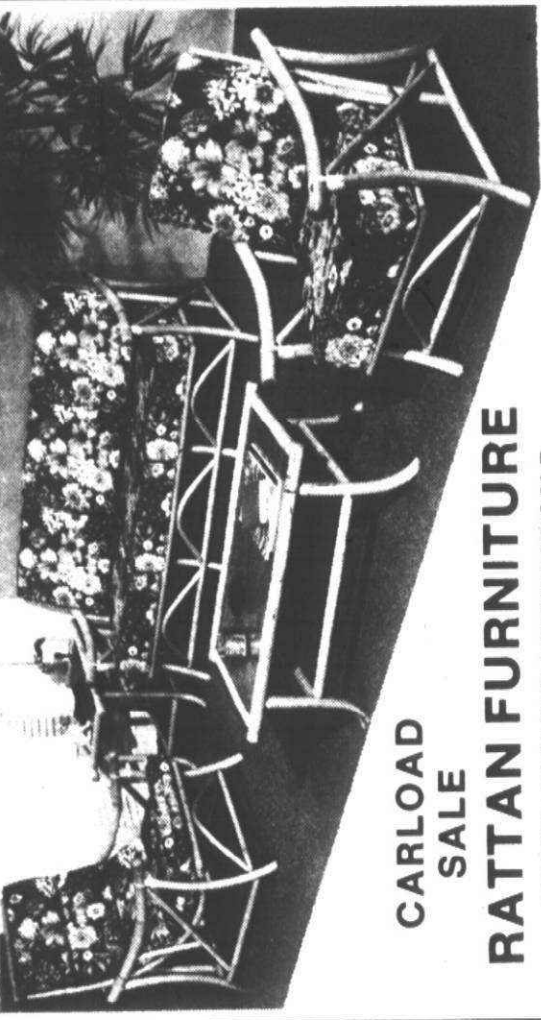

At the end of the string is the big surprise. This is a good solution to wrapping problem-sized presents that won't fit into conventional boxes. That includes electric saw tables, parrots, puppies, plants and paintings.
