Master land use plan passed

By RICHARD GOLD

Canton took the first step toward saving almost 6,000 acres of farmland in the western half of the township Tuesday night as the planning commission voted 5-2 to adopt a new master land use plan.

The plan, almost identical to a version that attracted heavy criticism at a public hearing March 1, was more than three years in the making.

The vote by the planning commission sets the stage for the township board which will have to vote on a zoning ordinance to implement the plan—and that is at least six months away, according to Supervisor Robert Greenstein.

Commissioner Tom Timbario started the dialogue on the plan Tuesday, commenting "I'm the youngest and newest member of the planning commission and it was somewhat of a hardship on me.

"I had a lot of work to do to catch up and I read quite a bit and I wanted to share it with you.

"What we are doing here tonight is only a small portion of the total master plan. "This plan describes in general detail what we envision as the best use of lands—action here tonight has nothing to do with implementation of the plan.

"The real crux of the matter is how we implement the plan and that's where the bulk of the work lies.

"THE PEOPLE should realize this is not a permanent fixture. Planning is a dynamic process and takes into account the changing environment and economic situation."

He added "What's left to do is the hard part, the implementation.

"That will be the writing of the zoning ordinance and that will include the depiction of all uses that should be allowed under each district.

"How we implement is another ballgame. Prof. Robert Hotaling (MSU planning professor) has suggested several different ways in his report to us.

"We can go the land banking concept as Bart Berg has touched on, we can buy development rights, we can lower taxes, we can freeze assessments, we can purchase outright, or we can go the outright condemnation route. There's a whole raft, and that's something that will have to be decided later."

Timbario said there would have to be complete cooperation between township officials and farmers if the commercial farming districtis to be viable.

"We'll have to work with the people who till the land, they know more about farming than planners. We'll have to get dearly close to them to make this work.

TIMBARIO ADDED that public trust had to be established and that there was a continuous need for dialogue between the public and government officials as the plan proceeded.

"Some of you may not agree with the some areas of the plan," he continued, "but the plan as a whole is a good first step for the basic reason that we tried to meet every goal and policy recommendation handed us by the 1972 Citizen's Advisory Commission. We need your confidence."

Following Timbario's introductory speech, Commissioner Bart Berg, the only remaining charter member of the commission, moved to delay action on the plan "until such time that complete consultation with the experts in agricultural production in Canton can be obtained."

"Mainly, I mean the farmer-operator of Canton Township whose land is presently being considered for agricultural industrial zoning classification should be consulted.

"I don't want to scrap the whole plan but we must take into account the people who till the soil. We have to get to them and let them understand this plan," Berg said.

Berg's motion died for lack of support, and he introduced a second motion to exclude land fronting on Canton Center between Warren and Ford from any action until an alternate plan could be introduced by owners of property on Canton Center who hired a planner to offer a revised plan.

Berg's second motion was defeated 6-1, and Timbario moved for adoption of the plan.

Commissioner Carl Parsell, township treasurer, asked to amend Timbario's motion so that 80 acres between Sheldon and Canton Center could be more detailed on the map.

He said action was near on the Canton Center-Sheldon cutoff. "It's just a little problem, but it should be detailed. The cutoff is important."

Parsell's amendment was rejected and the voting began.

Almost apologetically, Bob Simmons and Berg voted against the plan. Simmons commented "I take the plan except for the agricultural-industrial district. There's just too many ramifications to it and I've tried but I can't vote for it.

Berg voted against the plan and submitted a list of nine reasons why he opposed the plan.

Then in quick succession, commissioners Parsell, Timbario, Gus Matzo, chairman Bob Miller and Flossie Tonda voted yes and the plan was passed.

Green thumbs get ready

It's that time of year again when people think of home grown vegetables and garden plots.

Canton residents who lack space in their own backyards for sizable vegetable gardens may once again obtain free use of gardening space from the township.

The plots, measuring 25 by 50 feet, this year are located on two parcels near the corner of Lilley and Warren. The land is plowed, disced and staked by the township.

Residents interested in planting gardens on township-sponsored plots may obtain applications beginning April 26 at the Canton Firehall, located at Canton Center and Cherry Hill; the township business offices, 44508 Geddes; or the Recreation Hall, 44237 Michigan at Sheldon.

Brenda Pollack, the township's recreation director, said applications are intended for residents wishing to plant gardens next to one another. Residents obtaining applications in advance may bring their own and their neighbor's completed application forms to the Recreation Center for registration.

Other residents, Mrs. Pollack said, must register in person beginning April 26 at the Recreation Center. Registration by phone will not be accepted. Registration will continue until all of the plots have been assigned.

Small maps, indicating an individual's garden plot and given to residents at registration time, will, hopefully, avoid plotting mix-ups which occurred last year, according to township Clerk John Flodin.

"Assigning these plots to various people hasn't been without problems in the past," Flodin confessed. "You have to be careful you don't give the same plot to two different people, and someone doesn't plant peas on top of corn."

The 15 acres near the corner of Lilley and Warren, loaned to the township free of charge by developer Richard Lewiston, should accommodate about 525 Canton families. Flodin said the township will plow additional acreage near Haggerty and Warren if more residents request garden plots.

Mrs. Pollack said the township will install portable toilets at the garden sites this year as well as bulletin boards, sand boxes and other toys for children.

Flodin, who plants vegetables on an acre of his own backyard each year, helped implement the township's gardening program three years ago.

"Some guys play golf on the weekend, while I garden," Flodin said. "I was having so much fun I thought other people who don't have much land would like it too.

"I think it's been a success, and we anticipate more people will get involved this year. Women come out there with their little kids and playpens, and people make new friends. People get to know the problems of the farmer."

Information hearing set

Approval of a new master land use plan by the Canton planning commission Tuesday brought a quick and happy response from Supervisor Robert Greenstein, the man some consider the true architect of the plan along with planning consultant Mike Manore.

"When I took the office of supervisor I made a promise that I would try to save the remaining farmland in Canton for our children and their children. This is a first giant step and I am eager and ready to take the next step."

"What put me in the office of supervisor and got me into politics was an attempt by a group of people to rezone northwest Canton into 60-foot lots and get rid of all the farmland."

Greenstein, who has been touring neighboring communities and counties to explain the plan, will bring the road show home May 5, probably at Canton High School to hold an informational hearing on the plan.

"I haven't made solid arrangements yet, but it will be May 5. I hope everyone will come out to hear the answers on the plan, and I hope the subdivision dwellers will come out en masse to listen to the explanation of the master plan and how it affects township residents as far as their taxes are concerned.

"I want the voters to be enlightened when they vote on the advisory question May 18."

THE ADVISORY ballot will offer Cantonites a choice between two concepts, full urbanization of the township or half, with the west side of the township reserved for farming.

"The main purpose of the informational hearing is to inform the people of the facts to aid them in voting.

"Even though it is only a vote on concepts, I personally will listen to the will of the people and even though I absolutely believe in the plan. If they turn it down, I will drop it, although I will continue to pursue it in other communities by talking to other boards and planners.

"I'm bound by the vote of the people and it's up to them to tell us what to do."

Greenstein said he will invite Prof. Robert Hotaling of Michigan State University, Wayne County Planning Commission chairman and county agricultural extension agent Don Juchartz, and the Canton planning staff to the informational hearing to assist him in answering the many questions that have been raised by the plan.

Although the board is not expected to vote on a zoning ordinance for some time, Greenstein promised that the agricultural-industrial part of the ordinance would be passed by the board before the end of the year in order to provide a tax break to Canton farmers in 1976.

Section 5 stays open

Hunting ban shot down

Canton Township's section five will remain open to hunters, if a recommendation of the Hunting Area Control Committee (HACC) is accepted by the township board and the state Joint Administrative Rules Committee.

The recommendation deals a potentially fatal blow to the efforts of section five residents, who launched a campaign against hunting in their neighborhood last fall, and voiced unanimous support of a hunting ban at a public hearing last month.

But, according to township Clerk John Flodin, who represented Canton on the HACC, the one-square mile area bounded by Joy, Warren, Beck and Ridge is too sparsely populated for imposition of a hunting ban.

The HACC, composed of Flodin, Bruce Andrews, conservation law executive of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and representatives of the Michigan State Police and Wayne County Sheriff's Department, unanimously voted Tuesday against the ban.

"Our recommendation is based on the general character of the section," Flodin explained. "While there is some concern about areas adjacent to houses, there is a lot of open space. The general character of the area is open."

The DNR, the clerk explained, will recommend hunting bans only in densely populated areas. HACC members toured the area before voting to submit a recommendation against the hunting ban.

THE DNR WILL verify the HACC's recommendation and forward the verified document to the township board for further action.

Final jurisdiction on the matter lies with the Joint Administrative Rules Committee, a legislative body composed of three state senators and five representatives.

Flodin expressed sympathy for section five residents, plagued by hunting in their neighborhoods, but noted existence of state laws, banning the discharge of firearms within 450 feet of houses.

Under state trespassing laws, persons can hunt on private property only with the owner's permission. All land within section five, Flodin noted, is privately owned.

"I think there's some merit to residents' complaints," Flodin said, "but, under many circumstances, it's against the law to hunt there now. A great part of that section is open, so it's difficult to say that hunting's really a danger."

Flodin said the township has tried to ban hunting in other areas of the township, similar to section five in population figures, with little success before.

About half of the township is currently closed to hunting. All land east of Canton Center, the Centennial Educational Park site and the southern half of section six are off-limits to hunters.

She's no 'cop out' on law enforcement

By DARLENE STINSON

If the scream of a Sheriff's siren tracks you down in Canton or Plymouth Township someday, don't even try to soft-talk the feminine figure who may leap from the Sheriff's patrol car seat.

Betty Jo Price, the first woman to serve on the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol, means business when carrying out her law enforcement duties, regardless of the offender's size or the crime committed.

"Once in a while I'll have a problem," said Miss Price, who was transferred to the Road Patrol from Metropolitan Airport last month. "But, once they find out I mean business, I don't have any more problems than the men."

MISS PRICE, an eight-year veteran of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, has struck three firsts for women within the county law enforcement agency.

She was the first woman transferred from the Wayne County Jail to another Sheriff's division and the first woman assigned to Metropolitan Airport. Her assignment to the Sheriff's Road Patrol marks another first for women.

But Miss Price (or "Jo" as all her friends call her) does not feel like a victor in the women's lib movement.

"I never felt captive," confessed the 47-year-old patrolwoman, "and I'm not really a libber. There's a lot of men I wouldn't want to back me up, and I think there's only a certain type of woman who can handle this kind of job. Other women shouldn't feel they have to."

But Miss Price, who served as a lieutenant in the U.S. Navy Nurse Corps, knows she can handle the job.

Decked in the garb of the Sheriff's Department with gun and holster slung at her hip, Miss Price has handled traffic accidents, family problems, narcotic cases and rape.

Although the patrolwoman admits she has no relish for frisking men, Miss Price cannot recall a time when sex impeded her law enforcement performance—not even the time a man pulled a hatchet from his kitchen drawer.

"If you just play it cool, people calm down," she says.

At times, Miss Price's sex has aided the law enforcement process.

"In narcotics cases, the men know the male officers don't like to frisk the women, so they give the stuff to them. In rape cases, women like to talk to women."

Miss Price says male members of the Sheriff's Road Patrol have treated her well and willingly accepted her partner assignments.

"I seem to get along fine," she said. "They even let me have a locker in the squad room, but I don't change my clothes there."

2 residents win autos

Two Plymouth residents—Norman Davis and Timothy Tyler—were among the more than 100 new car winners from the second instant game conducted by the Bureau of State Lottery.

The two local winners earned $5,000 toward the purchase of a 1976 automobile. The car prizes were part of the $25 million won in the Instant Game No. 2 which officially terminated April 6.

County lowers Phoenix Lake

The level of Phoenix Lake was three to five feet lower this week—but not because of dry weather.

Wayne County Road Commission crews lowered the water level in order to re-cement a faulty drain and stop seepage into the county's Phoenix Yard Building, according to Edwin Mika, park superintendent for the Wayne County Road Commission.

Workers lowered the water level by opening a gate valve in the dam between the lake and the Rouge River.

Mika said work should be completed by the end of the week. The lowered lake level should cause no problems in the area, he added.

"It's simply a matter of lowering the water so we can get in there and work. We're not going to do any damage to anything."

It was race time for Canton small fry at 10 a.m. Saturday at two locations in the township, as local youngsters sprinted for palatable prizes hidden in the grass.

Success meant a chocolate-covered marshmallow rabbit, or maybe just a good old painted egg.

Hundreds of youngsters took part in the chase at the township recreation field a Cherry Hill and Canton Center and at the Deer Creek apartments—and the faces told the story.

The agony of defeat was written all over one youngster's face as she clutched her still empty transparent bag, while another gleefully began unwrapping the goodies that filled her Easter basket.

And then there was one little fellow who took time out to look up at the camera lens only to be beaten to the punch by a studious lad more interested in filling his brown sack.

But it was fun for the little people who took home an awful lot of sticky goodies.

Volunteers wanted:

Probation officers trained

An orientation and training program for residents interested in serving as probation volunteers will begin May 4 in the 35th District Court.

The orientation program will begin at 7:30 p.m., May 4, with training sessions starting at the same time on May 6, 11 and 13. All sessions will be in the 35th District courtroom on the second floor of Plymouth City Hall. The 35th District includes the cities of Plymouth and Northville, and townships of Plymouth, Canton and Northville.

RONALD PHELPS, new director of the probation department, invites interested residents to consider devoting some time to this program.

Special training will be given volunteers, he says, and the reward will be helping persons who've gotten in trouble with the law to become well-adjusted citizens.

Some 40 volunteers are needed to supplement the present corps of about 85 volunteers, says Alan Wakenhut of Plymouth, chief probation officer.

A large number of volunteers are needed, he explains, because most of the efforts involve one-to-one counseling. There is a special need, however, for persons to volunteer who are capable of teaching GED high school completion courses and who can do basic tutoring, especially for reading and writing.

"There are no commitments involved for those who attend the first class," says Wakenhut. "We don't apply any pressure. The first session is for orientation to allow residents to get acquainted with the program. Once they know what's involved, then they can decide."

Each session will last about 2½ hours and persons who decide to become volunteers must attend all four training sessions. Participating in the orientation program will be Judge Dunbar Davis, Wakenhut, Phelps, staff members, and some volunteers now involved in the program.

THE PROBATION department of the district court likes to assign each volunteer with one or two probationers to maintain close contact to help those in trouble to rehabilitate, explains Phelps. "We are in need of all the help we can get."

After the training program is completed, volunteers are screened to make sure they meet qualifications.

The program, started in 1969 by the district court, advanced in scope last year when the regular training program was instituted. This will be the last training sessions conducted by Wakenhut with future training to be conducted by Phelps.

To qualify as a volunteer, a resident must be at least 21 years old and have a genuine interest in helping others. "A lot of people hesitate to get involved because they don't feel qualified," says Wakenhut, "but it doesn't take a Ph.D to help your neighbor. If the interest is there, chances are the person will make a good volunteer. Formal education isn't a prerequisite."

The second two nights of the training are devoted to a mini-course on how to help others, stressing how to build rapport and friendship with clients.

Most of those on probation are 18 to 22 years old who have been arrested for marijuana use or shoplifting. Another group of probationers are from age 30-40, mostly with problems connected with alcohol abuse.

Residents volunteering living in Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships, Livonia, Redford, Northville, Novi, South Lyon, Walled Lake, and Southfield. Most are housewives.

The program is modelled after one pioneered 17 years ago by Judge Keith L. Leenhouts of Royal Oak who placed great stress on supportive counseling relationships with first-time and misdemeanant offenders. The premise is that the friendship and trust of the volunteer can be significant in rerouting an offender from criminal activity.

Persons interested in attending the training sessions can contact the probation office at 455-2640 in advance or show up May 4 for the first session.

New elementaries win design awards

The three new elementary schools of the Plymouth Community School District have been honored for excellence in design by the American Institute of Architects (AIA) and American Association of School Administrators.

The honor was awarded to Tarapata MacMahon Paulsen Associates, Inc. recently in Atlantic City during a convention of the two groups.

"We are delighted and proud of the honor which has come to Plymouth Community Schools and Tarapata MacMahon Paulsen. We are proud of our schools," comments Supt. John M. Hoben.

THE THREE schools, all of the same prototype design, are now under construction—one on Haggerty south of Cherry Hill, another on Haggerty north of Cherry Hill, and the third on Lilly south of Joy.

Each school will house 700 students at a cost of $1.5 million per school. Completion of the schools is scheduled for August, 1976, although the present timetable suggests that at least one may not be ready until October.

The schools provide flexible learning spaces, adaptable to a variety of teaching philosophies. A major design feature of each school is the media center which is a continuous "street" containing a variety of learning materials easily available and accessible to all students and teachers from their class area.

The media center has an exposed ceiling of painted beams. The graphics, selection of furnishing and landscaping, encompassing traffic patterns, activities and privacy also were done by the architectural firm.

TMP ASSOCIATES was the only Michigan architectural firm honored at the convention.

The TMP team for the project includes: Peter Tarapata, principal; Larry Morris, project architect; John Castellana, project designer; Richard Mysliwiec, job captain. The general contractor is Felker Construction of Detroit.

"The Plymouth elementary school design is a protype solution which will be built on three different sites," explains Morris. "The program dictated that the general philosophy of teaching was an 'open' concept and that the architecture should reflect that concept.

"Major emphasis was placed on the media center and its key role in the educational process. Children would be encouraged to implement study programs of their own, and the media center is to become the place of this implementation.

"The importance placed on the media center suggested that it should be accessible to and visible from all parts of the school. Our solution places a serpentine cluster of class areas around the 'learning street' which houses the media center and circulation space. The 'street' is the organizational element of the school interior and provides the visual stimulus for students. The use of bold color, graphics, exposed structural and mechanical systems all add to this spirit of learning and exploring."

Class areas are separated by six-foot high movable storage units to allow teachers the freedom of defining their space to their own needs. The units are faced with chalkboards, tackboards, or acoustic material.

The schools will be fully air-conditioned for year-round operation.

Ruling reversed, McIntyre awaits sewers

The long wait for sanitary sewers in McIntyre Manor subdivision appears, at last, to be over—if the Michigan Supreme Court does not overrule an appellate court's ruling on the constitutionality of Public Act 188, the law that provides for municipal bonding in Michigan.

On April 6, the Michigan Court of Appeals reversed it's decision of Jan. 7 in the case of Harter vs. Swartz Creek, a case that challenged the constitutionality of Act 188.

I his lawsuit, Harter, a Swartz Creek landowner and taxpayer who resides in Bloomfield Hills, claimed that the Michigan law did not provide him with adequate notice of a proposed public project which would involve an assessment against his property.

Even though Swartz Creek followed current procedure by placing an advertisement in the local newspaper, the court found the statute unconstitutional because it failed to provide for notice to a property owner who did not live in the city where the property was in question.

Since the Jan. 7 decision, and until the court reversed itself two weeks ago, all municipal bonding for public works projects was stopped.

If a further appeal is not filed by April 26, the issue will be settled and cities and townships can once again start bonding for public works projects.

FOR RESIDENTS of McIntyre, however, the wait has been substantially longer than the four months the bonding matter has been up in the air.

Residents of the subdivision have been asking for sewers for several years since their drain fields started to fail and effluence began to rise to the surface of the land.

Prior to the 1974 general election, the previous township administration approved the sewer project as part of a multi-million dollar bond issue under the CAnton-Van Buren Sewer and Water Authority.

The new administration re-examined the issue and cut many projects. The McIntyre project was pared so that it would serve only current residents of the subdivision and not all the lots, excluding those that were not occupied.

That project was approved by the new board Jan. 13 and then stalled by the court case.

"If there is no appeal, we can proceed with the sale of bonds after the authority meets May 6," township engineer Dale Townsend said.

"If we have to rebid the project, it should take about two months to get started, if not, then about six weeks."

Townsend said a bid had been awarded before the court case and that the contractor had the option of taking the job at the bid price and passing along any increases in material costs or withdrawing from the project entirely.

Once construction starts, he said, it should be four or five months before the sewers are in and functioning.

"It's a big project, but the residents should have sewers in around October."

Super sewer backed

By TIM RICHARD

"People believe what they want to believe, I guess," said Duane Egeland, shaking his head gently.

Egeland had sat through several hours of public hearings last week in Ypsilanti and Plymouth, and much of the time he heard his pet "super sewer" project under vehement attack.

Egeland of Livonia is chief engineer for the department of public works, which in Wayne County is a division of the road commission. Now, the Wayne County Road Commission is a powerful agency, but it's not terribly popular with a lot of Washtenaw County residents who resent the super sewer idea.

In a nutshell, the road commission's proposal is to close nine wastewater treatment plants—one in Oakland County, two in Washtenaw and six in western Wayne—and replace them with a single secondary treatment plant on Lake Erie serving most of the Huron River basin and some of the Rouge.

At the public hearings, Egeland got no chance to reply to the attacks. But in an interview afterwards, he provided some answers.

Q. Ann Arbor gets its water supply from the Huron River, treats its wastewater in its own plant and recharges the river. They say that with super sewer in a drought, the river could run nearly dry. They also fear that to avoid draining the Huron for drinking water, they would have to buy Detroit water. What do you say to that?

A. There are numerous impoundments on the Huron. If they're improperly run, the river could dry up over night.

It's a very simple engineering feat to regulate the Huron River properly. Ann Arbor has three or four impoundments; Van Buren Township has the Belleville Lake dam; an authority runs the Ford Lake dam. But there's never been any coordination.

They wouldn't have to buy Detroit water.

There's enough water for the river if it's properly controlled.

They also say that a low flow would result in more algae in the lakes. All our assessments say low flow is a factor in producing algae, but compared to wastewater discharges, it's insignificant.

Q. The Ann Arbor-area and Oakland County people keep asking who would run the single treatment plant. They fear domination by Wayne County.

A. Why they keep bringing that up I don't know.

The proposal is that it be operated by a seven-member board—two from Wayne County, two from Oakland, two from Washtenaw and one selected by the others. Probably the county boards or other form could pick them.

They would be responsible for establishing (wholesale) rates and contracting for the operation and maintenance of the plant.

in the emergency room of Wayne County General Hospital and served as the county nurse for the Wayne County Medical Examiners Office before transferring to the Sheriff's Department in 1968.

She recalled the impressive first aid room at Metropolitan Airport, which stimulated her interest in Sheriff's work.

"They said I had to be a policewoman to work there. "I joined, but I never did see that first aid room."

Miss Price expects to graduate from Madonna College, where she teaches yoga, with a bachelors degree in criminal justice and social science next month.

Although she has used her nursing training to teach first aid at the Wayne County Sheriff's Police Training Academy and at the Wayne County Jail School, Miss Price does not plan a return to a nursing job.

"You get addicted to this type of work," Miss Price said of law enforcement. "You get addicted to the excitement and to helping people. I could go back to nursing, but I really don't care to. I'm addicted to the comedy and tragedy out there."

Regional Roundup

N.Y.'s WOES

Garden City's senior citizen housing development is feeling the ripple effect of last fall's New York money crisis. The seniors' development, two years in the planning, has been ready to go since last fall. However, the bond market put a crimp in the city's plans. Garden City officials are keeping a close watch on the bond market. They know know no community is an island.

CANTON PASSES LAND USE PLAN

The Canton Township planning commission Tuesday passed a new master land use plan that will stop development of the township west of Canton Center Road, the central dividing line of the township. More than 5,600 acres will be devoted to commercial farming under the plan and farmers will receive a substantial tax break. The action, if followed by a zoning ordinance to implement the plan, will reduce potential maximum population of Canton of 200,000 by half.

GOD'S CHILDREN

A new musical theater group—the New Majority—is being sought to perform in other cities, although it's composed mainly of Redford Township residents. The group members have a warm regard for one another and it shows in their performance.

RESTAURANT LAWSUIT

Bill Knapp's Restaurants are popular and they are usually welcome by most communities. But the Livonia City Council recently rejected a Knapp restaurant and the property owner is taking the city to court to force the council to approve the project on Six Mile near Newburgh.

POLICE APPEAL

Westland City Council is considering appealing a civil service commission ruling which returned a fired police officer to the force after he was found innocent of tampering with his home's electric meter. The council tabled the item Monday to obtain more information on the hearing record.

M-14 PLANS

The State Highway commission has announced construction plans for the new M-14 highway where it crosses Northville Road. Frank Simmons, district manager of the highway commission, says the highway will be depressed from Haggerty to Sheldon. When completed, the highway will be depressed from Redford to Livonia and now to the halfway point in Plymouth Township.

HOUSING DISPUTE

Single-family homeowners traditionally oppose anything proposed for their neighborhoods that is taller than their own homes. Livonia residents in the Five Mile-Middle Belt area were no different Monday when they voiced their opposition to a proposed four-story Armenian Home for the Aged retirement development. They prefer to have the height reduced or put the building in front of the existing one-story senior citizens home.

PARKING PROBLEM

A Redford Township car dealer claims that if the Redford Township Board puts up "no parking" signs, they will drive him out of business. They did it anyway.

SC honors 30 business students

Students achieving academic excellence in business studies during the 1975-76 school year have been recognized by Schoolcraft College.

One student from each of the four major divisions of the business department and from the cooperative training program has been designated "outstanding student of the year" in his area of study.

They are Ingrid Schiebel in child care, Barbara Kirar in cooperative training and Margaret Shaeffer in general business, all of Livonia; Cheri Gregory of Plymouth in secretarial; and Michael McCown of Taylor in accounting.

Each student also received a monetary gift donated by accounting instructor Phebe Woltz in cooperation with the Marathon Oil Co. on a matching basis.

Students' names will be engraved on a plaque honoring previous recipients.

Recognition was also given at the fourth annual business honors banquet, where the main speaker was Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara.

Business instructor James Taylor served as master of ceremonies. Instructors Greg Worosz, Candis Martin, Mary Jo Keller, Matt Haukkala and Lowell Cook made the honors presentations.

Other students were also honored for their achievements. From Livonia, they are: Peter Bawol, Michael Collins, Michael Delleree, Karen Ellis, Peter Gresock, Bruce Gress, Rosemarie Guarinello, Janice Higgins, Marybeth Kirby, Debbie Krause, Susan Lawrence, Laurie Logan, Gail Mitchell, Joan Peierce, David Whiteaker and Susan Zelek.

From Plymouth, Ann Nickoloff, Sophie Sobczynski and Barbara Zydeck were honored. Also, Norma Nordstrom from Garden City; Mary Soucy from Northville; Carolyn Barrera and Linda Kiesler from Redford; Irene Barch from Birmingham and Carrie Borg from Southfield.

Twister-alert goes on the air

SKYWARN—a volunteer ham operator weather watch—is set to begin May 10, according to George Young, director of the Wayne County Office of Civil Defense.

Trained weather spotters with two-meter FM capacity will be stationed about five miles apart around the county to radio reports of severe weather, Young said.

Only trained spotters will be used so that the accuracy of reports will be standardized.

The spotters will radio reports to the civil defense operations center in Westland and to the National Weather Service.

Communities threatened with tornadoes and thunderstorms will be notified by civil defense officials. The communities will be responsible for notifying residents by siren or other means.

Ham volunteers (citizen band operators are not included) can attend either of two informational meetings for observers: at 2:30 p.m. Sunday or 8 p.m. Tuesday at the UAW Region 1E hall, 9650 S. Telegraph, Taylor.

Young said additional information is available at the civil defense office, 326-0811.

Tanger enters museum exhibit

Tanger Elementary steps into the spotlight on school bicentennials in the Plymouth Historical Museum this week, along with Bird Elementary and West Middle schools.

Bicentennial projects from these three schools are being displayed for a second week in the museum. Because of the school Easter vacation break, Tanger was scheduled to display its projects with West and Bird.

Exhibits will be shown downstairs in the museum from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday, April 22 and Saturday, April 24, and from 1-5 p.m. Sunday, April 25. While these projects are on display, students from the three schools will have free admission to the museum when accompanied by a paying adult relative.

TANGER PUPILS will continue to share their heritage study with the Plymouth-Canton community when their radio programs on "Great Moments and People in American History" are aired over the high school radio station WSDP (89.3 on the fm dial) during the next month.

After Tanger second graders wrote short stories about important people and events in American history, the stories, read by the children themselves, were recorded at the radio station for broadcasting on spring programs.

At the school, students have made American heritage displays on great actions in U.S. history. Children have modeled Revolutionary War displays, pinpointed maps showing trails west and transportation, and charted and built replicas of great American inventions. Looking toward America's future, one group even built a model future USA.

Craft projects have included liquid embroidery quilts with individual students designing each separate squares. Other students hooked red, white and blue rugs of symbols such as the eagle and the liberty bell. Burlap stitchery and felt wall hangings also have depicted heritage events.

THE BICENTENNIAL celebration at Tanger will be climaxed May 17-18 with the presentation of a musical production "Happy Birthday, Uncle Sam."

On those dates, parents, friends and other students will see the "Spirit of '76" come alive as 230 children representing every grade in the school join to salute their national heritage in song and dance.

The chorus appearing in the musical also will present selections from the show in the Michigan Week Bicentennial-in-the-Park program on May 20.

Trend is continuing toward big automobiles

The sudden switch in the automobile market on the larger cars has brought about a puzzling situation for Plymouth area dealers.

They are finding that the small compact car is now being bypassed and they don't have the larger cars to sell.

THE TREND toward the larger cars was first felt during the holiday season and, according to Leo Calhoun, the Ford dealer, it is getting progressively worse.

Calhoun pointed out that the larger cars represent 56 per cent of his sales in the past month and from the looks of things will go to 65 per cent in another 30 days.

"My business would be phenominal," Lou La Riche, the Chevrolet dealer, sighed, "if only I could get the cars. We have a great demand, and it is difficult to tell a prospective customer that cars such as he wants is not available at the moment."

It was the same with Tony Marino, the Chrysler dealer on Ann Arbor Road.

The larger cars provide about 50 per cent of the sales, Marino confided. Unlike the others who claim that the larger cars are more difficult to get, he says the rush to the bigger cars in the Chrysler line is being brought about by the discontinuence of the Chrysler Imperial, once a very popular car, and embodying many of its features in the New Yorker.

"We have difficulty getting them, too, but the rush is not against the smaller car so much as it is the people getting many of the Imperial features for a lot less money."

Among the other cars in the Chrysler line that are moving are the Volari and the Cordoba.

WHAT HAS brought about the trend?

Jack Selle, the Buick dealer who claims that the larger cars now provide 42 per cent of his sales, explained that the run for the large cars is because it is the last chance to get a big car with all the features.

"General Motors has announced that its models next year will be about 700 pounds lighter and that makes a big difference."

La Riche feels the same way.

"Look at the Cadillac convertible. When GM announced that this model would be eliminated, the price went sky high. It would be easy to get $1,000 over list price for one of them.

"Now that GM is getting away from the biggest cars, people are rushing for what they can get. It's a great market—if only we could get the cars."

Selle has been in business for several decades and he is quick to tell you that he never has seen anything like it in the new car business.

"Just this morning I had to turn away two customers because I didn't have the cars."

As far as the Plymouth area dealers are concerned the end of the present rush is not in sight—and there is no telling just when a sufficient number of cars will be available.

The Stroller

There's no bad publicity

By W.W. EDGAR

Now that the presidential candidates have reached the point where they are delving into personalities and criticizing each other, it is interesting to note how the country has become divided.

No, not divided by political parties, but whether you enjoy these new flights of oratorical fancy or whether you think the change is degrading, they will leave even the winner scarred by the verbal taunts.

Surely, no one who saw and heard U.S. Sen. Hubert Humbhrey discuss President Ford recently at a union convention could help laughing at his antics.

He explained that the president was a college graduate, a lawyer, and was also a good football player—good enough to be named the most valuable on his team at the University of Michigan in 1934.

" But do you know what position he played?" Humphrey asked. Without waiting for an answer he told his audience that the president played center.

"And do you know what position he is in when play starts?" Humphrey asked.

"Well, he must bend over and put his head between his legs. No wonder his world is upside down."

SOME OF THE other remarks being made by the candidates are not being received as well. Some persons think it is downright shameful that a man running for public office must be subjected to such taunts, often bordering on slander.

Well, The Stroller is from the old school where it is believed there is no such thing as bad publicity. It is just that some of it is better than the rest.

This philosophy was driven home to him in a most forceful way some years ago by a man who thrived on publicity and never did a real day's work in his life.

This unusual character was Jack Kearns, who came out of the Klondike to guide Jack Dempsey to the heavyweight championship of the world and who is remembered as one of the most colorful of all charcaters inhabiting the sports world.

For a time, Jack helped promote the boxing programs at the Olympia and on more than one occassion, his offerings were far below what had been expected.

Following one of the "shows," The Stroller, then writing at the Free Press, wrote a scathing denunciation of him and suggested boxing would be better off without him.

On the evening of publication—the paper had been off the press less than a hour—who should step from the elevator but Kearns.

"Bet he hasn't seen the column," The Stroller whispered to himself.

After the customary greeting and a bit of chatter, Kearns finally said, "That was helluva good column tonight."

"Have you read it already?" "The Stroller asked.

"Sure, I caught the paper as it came off the press to get the race results."

THE STROLLER was stunned for a moment—awaiting a caustic dressing down. It never came.

Instead, with a broad smile, Kearns said, " You overlooked several things. First, boxing wasn't born in church and you can't take it there. Second, you overlooked the fact that there is no such thin g as bad publicity. Some of it is just better than the rest.

"You spelled my name correctly, said where I spend most of my time, and you did it in space that I cannot buy. What's wrong with that?"

And that came from a fellow who has attracted more publicity in his name than most great athletes.

So President Ford needn't worry. He shouldn't mind the taunts.

The critics are pronouncing his name correctly and calling attention of the voters to his campaign for president . . . and he doesn't have to buy the time on television.

2 legislators back telephone stance

"Lou Gordon didn't do his homework at all," said State Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), and State Rep. R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) labeled a Detroit News column by Gordon as "distortions and outright lies."

They were among 46 legislators under attack by Gordon for their sponsorship of legislative bills to allow Michigan Bell Telephone Co. to continue free or discounted service to employees and retirees.

Other area sponsors included Reps. Thomas H. Brown (D-Westland) and John Bennett (D-Redford).

WHY WAS SUCH a bill necessary?

Geake said, "The bill was introduced to protect telephone company employees and retired workers when the state public service commission announced it was considering ordering Michigan Bell to stop including reduced rates as part of its fringe benefits and retirement package.

"It would guarantee telephone companies the right to give reduced rates, but would not require them to do so, as the columnist falsely reported."

If Bell didn't offer that fringe benefit, Geake said, it would have to pay even higher sums in wages, which would be passed on to customers.

"It will help keep rates down, not raise them. In addition, it has the virtue of keeping government bureaucrats from further meddling in the delivery of telephone company services."

The recommendation to the PSC that it force Bell to eliminate employee and retiree discounts as a cost of doing business came from Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, according to a formal legislative analysis of the bill.

PURSELL ADDED, "there were amendments Lou didn't know about."

The chief one was that although the original version would have applied to "employees, pensioners, officers and retired directors," the house committee on public utilities amended it to apply only to employees and pensioners.

"Lou called me about two minutes before his deadline," said Pursell, who was quoted in the column. "He was polite to me over the phone, but he had already made up his mind—I could tell."

Gordon quoted Pursell as saying he was "not fully briefed on" on the bill. Actually, Pursell said he was referring only to the house bill, not to his senate version.

"The legislative leadership decided to go with the house bill. My bill is dead," Pursell said.

DISCOUNTS AND FREE service to employees are long-standing practices at Michigan Bell, he added.

"Over the years in collective bargaining, one fringe benefit the Communications Workers of America has always had has been a deduction on their phone rates," said Pursell.

"The CWA has the least benefits from organizing a company that is a monopoly. They don't have a good pension fund," he said.

The bill's prime sponsor was Rep. Harold J. Scott (D-Flint). He introduced it after being approached by lobbyists for the AFL-CIO and Michigan Bell.

House Majority Leader Joseph Forbes (D-Oak Park) plans to move the bill after the Easter week recess.

Clocks go forward April 25 for DST

By CAROLINE PRICE

If you remember the adage "Spring forward and Fall back," you probably won't have any trouble on Sunday, April 25.

That's the day Michigan goes on Daylight Savings Time, which it remains on until Oct. 24.

That one hour you set your clock ahead wouldn't seem to make very much difference. But it means a lot when you feel like you haven't gotten enough sleep when you get up for work the first Monday of daylight savings.

Even though you get up at a normal waking time like 6 a.m., your body will be telling you all day that you really dragged yourself out of bed at the grisly hour of five. It takes a while to get used to the change.

Some people forget to set their clocks ahead on the big day. They're the ones that wander groggily into work an hour late and wonder why everyone else is early.

ONCE THOSE first few days of confusion are over, daylight savings can be an advantage. Just about everybody enjoys those extra hours of sunshine after work to play golf or tennis, bicycle or putter around in the back yard.

Two men recently used the time change to put one over on their boss. They found a time clock that never got moved back in the fall, and began punching out on it. That meant they got an hour off work with pay throughout the winter. It was fun until they got caught.

Daylight savings may not seem too desirable, however, to a parent trying to put children in bed for the night. "But Mommy, it's still light outside," the child complains.

Farmers may have trouble with cows that wish to remain on their present milking schedule and roosters that never learned to tell time and crow as usual.

Dr6ve-in theatre owners have to contend with movies that don't begin until nine p.m. or later and last into the wee hours of the morning. And younger drive-in patrons have to contend with parents and broken curfews if they stay for the last show.

BUT NO matter how you feel about daylight savings, the idea goes back a long way. One of the first proponents of saving daylight hours was Benjamin Franklin. Franklin, always a thrifty man, thought the plan would save on candles.

The real credit, however, goes to an Englishman, William Willett. Willett wrote a book in 1907 campaigning for adoption of a definite daylight savings plan. Not until his death in 1916 did Parliament adopt a summer daylight saving system.

Germany beat England to it by adopting daylight savings in 1915, the eve of World War I in Europe, in order to conserve power and fuel.

Although the United States made an effort to go on DST in 1917, the plan was never really popular until congress enacted a law providing for year-round DST during World War II.

Sweep out your broom superstitions

Witch Watch by GUNDELLA

Wands have always been used in the making of magic. Every witch owns one. Usually, it is a stick of cherry wood elaborately carved with mystic symbols.

When witches were being hunted and persecuted, it became necessary to hide these wands. In those days, everyone owned homemade brooms, and many witches used their wands as broom handles, concealing the carved end beneath the brown straw.

Because of this association with brooms, and also because witches were known to practice astral (out-of-body) travel, they were often pictured flying through the sky on broomsticks. It is also said that these brooms may sometimes have been used in dances, with the witches dancing about the fire, straddling them in the way that little children ride a hobby horse.

THERE ARE, to this day, many superstitions about brooms. Here are a few of my favorites.

It is considered bad luck:

- To move an old broom to a new house.
- To burn a broom.
- To sweep before sun-up or after sunset.
- To borrow or lend a broom.
- To step over a fallen broom.
- To stand a broom upside-down.

If a child starts to sweep, guests will come that day.

If you sweep under someone's feet, that person will not marry for at least a year.

Sweeping at high noon will bring the sweeper money.

It is considered good luck to buy a new broom, but better luck to tie your own.

Standing the broom on the porch outside the door will keep away vampires, werewolves, bad witches and other unwanted visitors.

Sweeping the doorstep will bring suitors to unmarried maidens.

IN SOME parts of the country, when a couple marries, it is still referred to as "jumping the broomstick." This goes back to the days when lovers leaped over broomsticks to encourage the crops to grow. The broomsticks would be raised higher and higher to see how high they could jump (sort of a reversed limbo). The higher they jumped, the taller the corn would be that year.

At some wedding parties today this is still practiced, and the number of times the new couple successfully jumps over the broomstick without knocking it down foretells the number of children they will have.

A Democratic island

1st newspaper opposed Lincoln

PLYMOUTH—PAST AND PRESENT by Sam Hudson

(Part I)

The first attempt at a newspaper in Plymouth was political in motivation. It was published during the presidential campaign of 1860 which was the year Stephen A. Douglas, the choice of the Democrats, ran for the nation's top office against a Republican resident of Illinois, Abraham Lincoln.

The page size of the paper was only 3½" x 4½." There were four pages which were set, two columns to a page, in extremely small type. The paper was to be had "at the P.O. and also at the store of C. R. Kellogg which was on Main Street, facing Kellogg Park.

THE EDITOR and proprietor was S.S. Bagley, who called his miniature paper "The Plymouth Rock." It appeared on Aug. 21, 1860.

Bagley announced that it would be published "semi-frequently," and promised that a second edition would appear soon. It didn't and, as far as I know, the first issue was the only one printed. The fact that the Democrats lost the election may have dampened Bagley's enthusiasm for the venture.

During the Civil War days, editorials and news items in U.S. newspapers were openly slanted in favor of the political party espoused by those who ran the paper. "The Plymouth Rock" was no exception to the rule of fierce partisanship. A Democratic island in a local sea of Republicanism, it was strongly anti-Lincoln. It supported Douglas and his running mate, Hershel V. Johnson, who was from Georgia.

It dubbed Lincoln "His Highness" and referred to his party as "black Republicans," charging that they voted to give the elective franchise "to Negroes who possessed a property qualification of $250, but refused to give the same right to foreign-born citizens." The Democrats, continued the editor, had voted to give all white citizens the same rights as were given to the Negroes.

AMONG THE articles in the "Plymouth Rock" was a satirical poem about the "Wide-Awakes," the name given to the local company of home guards. The military men, according to the poem, had been run off their parade ground by a stray dog.

The "Rock" announced that the Plymouth Brass Band was then providing "good music for Fairs, Pic-nics, Celebrations and Mass Meetings;" that Woodruff and Johnson had just turned down a $500 offer for their fine bay team; and that Henry Fralick, one of the few local Democrats, was president of the Plymouth Douglas Club.

Fralick, a native of New York State, was one of the earliest settlers in Plymouth. While here, he was successively a merchant, the owner of a lumber mill, and the operator of a flour mill. Later in 1860, Fralick sold out here and moved to Grand Rapids where he organized and was president of the Grand Rapids Chair Company.

THE NEXT NEWSPAPER published here was the "Plymouth Chronicle," a bi-weekly which began in 1875. The editor was D.B. Sherwood, and the paper sold for $2 a year. Beyond that I have no information about the paper and would welcome additional facts about the "Chronicle" if any reader has them.

In December, 1878, J.H. Steers, who published the "Wayne County Review," in Wayne, began a Plymouth edition, edited by O.S. Howard. The "Review," issued every Friday, sold for $1 a year.

On Nov. 12, 1880, when volume III, number 51, whole number 155 appeared, the "Review" had a circulation of about 1,000. There was very little that was newsworthy on the first page of that issue which contained articles of a general nature. One of them was "Is Damn an Oath?" On the inside pages were columns of social notes about Plymouth people, and several "business cards" run by local merchants and professional people.

S. Joy, proprietor of Phoenix Mills, on Northville Road by the shore of Phoenix Lake, announced that he manufactured and dealt in flour and feed. Dentist Abram Pelham, who had practiced in Plymouth for 24 years when the paper was issued, advertised: "Teeth extracted without pain, by the use of nitrous oxide gas." In the same ad, Pelham promoted "the best of teeth, $6 to $8 per set."

On the editorial page of the "Review," publisher Steers complained that he wasn't getting enough advertising, writing that some merchants had failed to keep their promises to support the paper.

THE PLYMOUTH edition of the "Review" gave way in 1887 to the "Plymouth Mail," which was to serve Plymouth almost 80 years before it became part of the Observer group. Steers, who was the proprietor of the "Mail," established his office in the Punches Block on South Main Street.

The first issue of the "Plymouth Mail" appeared on Sept. 16, 1887. It sold for $1 a year, payable in advance. "This is a five-column quarto," wrote Silas Farmer in 1890, "and has, for a village paper, a notably large circulation."

Among the news items, on page one of the first issue of the "Mail," were several about the 24th Michigan Infantry Regiment which achieved prominence during the Civil War as part of the famous "Iron Brigade." The 24th was to hold its first annual meeting in Plymouth "on Thursday next," and a large contingent of veterans from Detroit was expected to attend. The ladies of the Presbyterian Church planned to serve meals to the visitors at the John Bennett House. Little Minnie Sands, "the daughter of the regiment," was scheduled to enliven the encampment with her patriotic songs.

(Part II will continue the story of newspapers in Plymouth).

'Cheap' advice quite valuable in potential

Words of praise are owed to the 144 residents who volunteered hours of their time to serve on the Citizens Advisory Council (CAC) of the Plymouth Community School District.

After meeting for 12 weeks, the CAC has submitted detailed reports listing specific recommendations to the board of education.

The school board and administration are studying the reports individually and are establishing a procedure to make sure each work group's advice receives the attention it deserves. Currently the staff is preparing cost estimates for those recommendations which will involve expenditure of funds to implement.

The board and school staff are taking the reports seriously, testing each suggestion for feasibility. There doesn't appear to be any feeling that this is just another citizens committee whose advice can be shelved with decisions being made only by those on staff paid to run the school system. The advice is being taken seriously and close attention is being given each report.

THE CITIZENS who served 12 weeks on the 12 work groups probably donated a minimum of 36 hours each with many offering 70 hours and up for exploration and study.

The total 5,800 hours, plus consulting hours donated to the district, are worth at least $15,000 at minimum wage levels and worth $45,000 to $75,000 if the volunteers had billed the district for their work.

Far more important than the mere hours contributed, though, are the particular talents and knowledge each member brought to the CAC and shared with other members. The combined experiences of the CAC represented a rich storehouse of talent volunteered for the betterment of the community.

AMONG THE SUGGESTIONS made by CAC work groups are:

Offer preschool programs in elementary schools where appropriate space is available, continue 45-15 at Miller and consider implementation at other schools; develop curriculum guides; employ team teaching at middle schools with individual teaching styles respected;

Establish a master planning advisory committee to do demographic study, site evaluation and building planning; cut maintenance costs by reduced cleaning schedules; establish continuity of music instruction; expand women's sports program; institute intramurals at high schools, use a pay-as-you ride bus system for after-school activities; and have a marching band for each high school.

Other recommendations were: Establish a committee on school legislation; implement a K-12 career education plan and a 12-month student job placement service; place all first semester high school students on structured modular or traditional program with modular, structured or traditional scheduled options for students in grades 9-12; specify minimum number of credits for advancement from one grade level to another;

Reduce class size for first grade only; have more uniformity in middle school curriculum; add science to high school graduation requirements; add 10 professional staff members for special education; initiate talented and gifted student program; earmark 1.1 mills for exceptional students; and organize an inservice training steering committee with responsibility for teacher training in district.

Maybe all the recommendations won't be approved for implementation; but there is much to chew on and enough alternatives to consider that meaningful change can result.

We salute those who took the time to serve on the CAC and are sure the children will be better off because of the time freely given. That effort will make a difference and will pay dividends which soon will become evident.

OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC

Whee! Wheels are rolling

With gasoline prices due to rise later this year, it's refreshing to see that one element of the environmental movement hasn't faded. We refer, of course, to the surge of enthusiasm for bicycling.

Avon Township is implementing its bicycle route plan. Southfield has a series of designated bicycle routes, western Wayne County again will have weekend "bike days," and even part of the I-275 freeway is slated to have a bike path.

Public officials who promoted these projects are to be complimented for catching on to what cyclists knew all along: Bike paths and designated routes please the public, and they're sure cheap compared to those concrete roads that cost millions per mile.

A bike route can be a specially-built lane separate from a road; a designated lane, separated from motorized traffic by a painted lane marker; or simply a route with signs along a road.

The rules for bicyclists always cause intra-family arguments every year, and we get calls from folks who were told at some remote time that bicyclists are supposed to ride on the left side of the road against traffic. It's not so. Bicyclists should ride with traffic.

Voters sending a message on taxes and school growth

Tim Richard

The voters have said it about as plainly as they can.

In Livonia they said yes to a 17.3-mill property tax renewal for the schools but turned thumbs down on a 3.5-mill increase.

In Rochester it was yes to a 7.9-mill renewal and no to a 2.4-mill increase.

Farmington School District won a four-mill renewal safely but didn't ask for an increase.

The Southfield school board made the anti-common-sense decision to ask for a 7.15-mill renewal and a 2.6 mill increase in one package and lost the whole thing.

West Bloomfield asked for three new packages and lost all three.

Wayne-Westland got a 21-mill renewal and didn't ask an increase.

Walled Lake won a 10-mill renewal and lost two increases.

ANYBODY SEE a pattern?

Look at it from the average voter's point of view:

His state taxes—which provide a good portion of schools' budgets—aren't going down. Indeed, his state income tax went up after the sales tax on food and drugs was removed.

His basic property taxes aren't going down. Indeed, they are rising as inflation pushes up his home's state equalized valuation.

He's not sending more kids to school as he was in the 1950s and early '60s, so the schools can't claim they've got more eager little minds to educate. Indeed, enrollments are declining.

Yet in most cases, when school districts are asking for higher tax rates, they're not proposing new programs. Rather, they're saying they need higher tax rates just to keep the same programs. In other words, it's going to cost more money just to stand still educationally.

SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS can give you some extraordinarily mind-boggling explanations.

The state school aid formula is a killer. Schools lose four times as much state aid for every student lost as they get for every student gained, they'll tell you.

That still doesn't explain where all that tax money is going.

They'll also talk about the single business tax and how schools will lose business inventory and equipment as a source of property taxes later this year.

That problem is still under investigation in Lansing; no answer there yet for the person who's still trying to figure out why he needs to pay more taxes to have his schools stand still.

LET US LOOK in another direction for a more basic answer.

Since 1960 our nation's gross national product—the sum total of goods and services—has risen 2.77 times. The automobile industry's contribution to GNP has risen 2.98 times.

State and local government's share, however, has soared 3.45 times. What it all means is that no matter how hard we work, state and local government spend it faster.

The real value of our GNP, as distinguished from the dollar value, is rising about three per cent a year. That's our so-called "productivity" increase, and it's hardly a good performance.

Any price hike in excess of three per cent is probably inflationary unless the producer can prove it's increasing its own efficiency more than that.

Meanwhile, the voters have made it apparent they have drawn a line. School folks can request, and newspapers can endorse, all the millages they want. The voters aren't lashing out blindly. They're paying very close attention. They seem to be saying they won't spend more money to get the same level of services.

Watch for petition to ban non-returnable bottles

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

Remember the old Burma Shave signs?

Spring has sprung. Grass is riz. That's where last year's litter is.

One of the grimmest things about spring around here is to see the masses of ugly litter spraggled all over once the landscape is freed of its white covering of snow.

Somehow cleaning up our land by getting rid of the litter is something all of us keep hoping will happen someday. But that someday never seems to come. Bills have been introduced into the State Legislature for several years now to require deposits on beverage containers, to be refunded when the container is returned, and to ban the sale of pull-top pop and beer cans.

Lobbyists have always then flocked around the bill, pulling and hauling the public interest in favor of the special interest, resulting in the eventual, quiet demise of such legislation.

Continuing episodes like this give grounds for skepticism that our democratic system as often works to benefit special interest pressures as it does to help the general public.

THAT'S WHY we all owe a big pat on the back to the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, which has finally decided to do something direct about the continuing litter scandal.

Last week the 100,000-plus organization of conservationists and sportsmen decided to launch a petition drive to put the issue of banning non-returnable bottles and pull-top cans on the ballot.

Thomas L. Washington, executive director of the MUCC, is full of hope that the required 212,561 valid signatures of registered voters can be put on petitions by the deadline of June 4.

Gov. Milliken, who has been working unsuccessfully with a bi-partisan coalition of legislators to yank this bill out of its grave in the House Consumers Committee, endorsed the move and became the first to sign the petition.

THE ARGUMENTS in favor of putting the proposition up to a vote of the people are overwhelming.

First, the people clearly want to do something about eliminating litter from their landscape. A poll taken last year by the highly respected Market Opinion Research company showed that nearly three-fourths of the respondents favored a law banning the sale of non-returnable bottles and can. What is more surprising, more than 80 per cent of respondents indicated that they favored such a law even though it might increase the cost of a bottle of pop or a can of beer by around five cents.

Second, the evidence is clear that a ban on non-returnable bottles and cans does work in cleaning up the landscape. Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, who has supported such a law in his state, recently reported that the act "has created employment. The price of beer and soft drinks is not higher . . . Our roadsides are cleaner."

Third, banning non-returnable bottles and cans would result in an enormous saving of energy. In 1972, beverage container production in America consumed six million tons of glass and 575,000 tons of aluminum. The amount of energy needed to make these raw materials into cans and bottles was equivalent to 279,000 barrels of oil per day!

THE MUCC effort deserves praise. Banning non-returnable bottles and cans, thereby cleaning up our land, is an idea whose time has come. The public favors the step, and only special interest pressure has prevented passage of a law in this area.

Anyone in this area can obtain petitions by writing to the MUCC, Box 2235, Lansing, 48911, or by calling (517)371-1041.

Local MUCC affiliates, conservation and environmental groups, or other groups planning to circulate petitions are invited to call us at the paper. We'll do our best to take a note of when and where you are circulating the petitions and run these notes as soon as our deadline schedule permits.

Maybe, if we all pitch in, we can pitch litter out.

The follies of fashion—paying to carry an ad

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

For more than an hour, I sat in amazement at the Gucci store in New York City.

Everything on their shelves had their initial or their name on it—shoes, belts, neckties, luggage, key rings, handbags, desk accessories and what-have-you.

During this period, hundreds of persons were storming the place so that they could pay premium prices to help this manufacturer advertise his own goods.

But that's fashion.

Gucci isn't the only one doing it. All of your famous fashion designers are now initialing their products in a prominent place so the wearers can proudly boast they are wearing top-of-the-line merchandise, without saying a word.

SOME DESIGNERS are more subtle than others. While Gucci emblazons his initials on products, Lily and Pucci write their names into the design of the fabrics.

Bill Blass and Pierre Cardin put their initials on buttons for menswear.

You really have to know a person well to find out where Christian Dior puts its initials on pantyhose.

The initial business has developed another thriving industry. There are stores all over New York carrying imitations. For half the price, you can find Gucci-type bags with a single G instead of the double G. You can find look-alike Louis Vuitton bags with VV instead of LV, at a discount. Mark Cross's MC becomes WC on the imitations.

WITH THE AMOUNT of merchandise people were purchasing at Gucci's, I felt that at their prices they ought to adopt a policy that the casinos use in Las Vegas. If you are able to spend enough, they should pay your way to New York.

To show the degree to which the fashion-conscious set goes, I heard a story about a local orthopedic surgeon on a trip to Chicago.

It seems he was in Gucci's store on Michigan Avenue and observed a businessman trying on a pair of Gucci shoes.

A bit later, the doctor was in another shop which sold imitations and saw the same man, again trying on shoes.

The man shopping for the imitation shoes did not observe the good doctor in either establishment, but the doctor overheard the man say to his wife, "I don't really like the imitations as well, but the price is so much more reasonable."

A LITTLE WHILE later, the doctor happened to walk into a Walgreen's Drug Store and noticed the same man sitting there, sipping a Coke with his wife and wearing his new imitation Guccis.

The doctor walked by their table, stared at the shoes and said, "They don't look like real Guccis"—and walked past.

The man probably never wore the shoes again.

The whole approach to labeling merchandise in a very public way seems to be the height of arrogance to get people to pay a premium to promote the manufacturer's own advertising.

Western Wayne rain sure isn't plain

By TIM RICHARD

If Sonny Eliot predicts a barrel of rain and your area gets a sprinkle, it means that a) Sonny's mind is wandering, b) the weather is too unpredictable or c) none of the above.

The answer could well be "c," because rainfall varies wildly over the 2,400 square miles of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Washtenaw counties.

Urbanization—buildings and particularly factories—is probably to blame.

"WE HAVE A fairly unique system of monitoring rainfall," said Gary Krause, planning director of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

Krause and Horace Sneed, a council communications staffer, study and compile material from a network of 86 rain gauges in the four-county area.

"Drain commissioners and planning directors get our reports," Krause said. "The Michigan State Highway Department uses them in designs for roadways, particularly for drainage.

"It's our intention to gather and compare rainfall data with department of natural resources stream-flow gauges. You could see the connection between monitoring rainfall and the loading of a stream. Eventually, this is reflected in sanitary sewer and storm sewer construction."

THE OFFICIAL National Weather Service station is at Metropolitan Airport, on the plains of Taylor in south-central Wayne County.

What's official at Metro, however, isn't what's actual elsewhere. Last September, for example, Metro recorded 3.09 inches of rain. But three areas of southeast Michigan recorded much higher downpours:

- 4.06 inches in East Detroit, just downwind from the industrial corridor in the Mound-Mt. Elliott area.
- 5.21 inches around the Ford plants in Dearborn.
- 4.69 inches in the rugged hills of White Lake Township in Oakland County.

DETROIT ITSELF appears to deter precipitation, Sneed and Krause said.

The reason seems to be that its buildings absorb heat and release it like an oven. The rising column of air forces cool, incoming rain clouds to the north and south—especially to the north.

"There are fewer extreme storms in urbanized areas," Sneed observed.

Smoke particles from factories "salt" rain clouds, giving water vapor something solid to form around. When that vapor wraps itself around a dust particle, it becomes a drop of rain, and it falls there.

ADMITTEDLY, SOME of this is speculation. As Krause said, metropolitan Detroit's rain gauge system is almost unique in the nation, although San Francisco is in the process of deploying one.

"If such a system existed in every metropolitan area," Krause added, "we could know a whole lot more."

Sneed noted fairly heavy precipitation along an axis running from northwestern Wayne County to central Wayne County, then arching north to Macomb. He couldn't offer a reason.

"THERE HAS BEEN an official Detroit rain station since the late 19th century," said Krause.

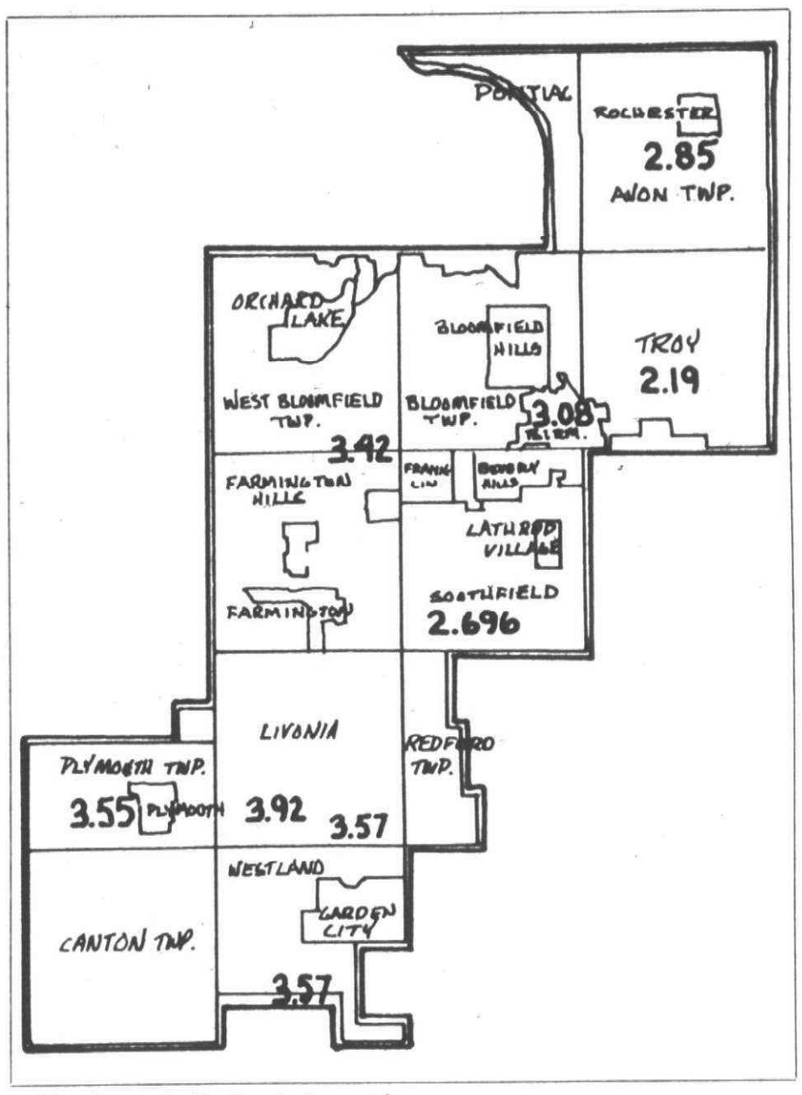
"In 1951 the old Detroit Metropolitan Area Planning Commission came up with the idea of more accurate information. It started with 25 stations operated by city and county agencies, one private individual and some companies."

The Oakland County drain commissioner operates gauges in Farmington Hills, at the Troy water department, at the Birmingham fire department and at a Southfield pumping station.

Ford Motor Co. operates one in Birmingham, and the state health department another in Rochester.

The City of Livonia operates one at its public works office. Ford Motor Co. has two at its plants in Plymouth and Livonia.

Sneed writes a monthly report to subscribers. Funding comes from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Federal Highway Administration and the Michigan Department of Highways and Transportation.



Numbers indicate inches of rainfall during September 1975 and are approximately where rain gauges are placed.

Throw-away bill sparks petition

"No deposit—no return" containers may be a thing of the past in Michigan if the Michigan United Conservation Clubs have anything to say about it.

The state's largest conservation organization began printing petitions calling for a referendum on placing a deposit on soft drink and beer containers in a effort to curb litter and conserve energy. The proposal also would ban pull tabs on cans.

The bottle bill, sponsored by Rep. H. Lynn Jondahl (D-East Lansing), was referred to the house appropriations committee last November and has rested there ever since.

"We would prefer to have this question acted upon by the legislature," says Thomas L. Washington, MUCC executive director.

"But since that body has chosen to ignore the issue, we have no alternative but to seek a popular vote on Rep. Jondahl's bill."

Washington says the group hopes to collect 300,000 signatures by June 1.

"We are convinced that the vast majority of the people of Michigan want to have throw-away containers banned, but they have been unable to get the legislature to respond to their wishes," Washington says.

He adds that a statewide poll showed 73.3 per cent of those questioned favored a state law banning the sale of non-returnable containers.

According to Washington, the bill would save tax dollars by reducing expenditures for removal of litter along highways and would cut the volume of solid waste being deposited in already over-taxed sanitary landfills.

"In the long run, the bill would have the effect of increasing employment through the re-opening of bottling plants and breweries," he adds.

Oregon, South Dakota and Vermont already have banned the sale of non-returnable bottles and cans, and other states are considering similar legislation.

Artists win state awards

Five distinguished Michigan artists have received the first Michigan Arts Awards at ceremonies held Wednesday in Lansing at the Center for the Arts.

Helen Milliken, the governor's wife, and Michigan Foundation for the Arts President Philip H. Power, Observer & Eccentric co-publisher, presented checks for $2,500 each to the five winners.

Those receiving the honors are: Georgie Elyane Bick, a weaver from Lambertville; Joe Kinnebrew, a sculptor from Grand Rapids; Aris Koutroulis, a painter and printmaker from Detroit; Dudley Randall, a poet from Detroit; and David Syme, a pianist from Detroit.

SPONSORED BY the Michigan Foundation for the Arts, the Michigan Arts Award will be given annually to one or more Michigan artists who have brought distinction through their artistic work to themselves and to their state. The purpose of the awards is to give recognition to outstanding Michigan artists and to promote development of a supportive arts environment in the state.

An additional award, Michigan Patron of the Arts, was conferred at the same ceremony on Mrs. Edsel B. Ford of Grosse Pointe Farms. The patron award, also to be presented annually to an individual who has performed outstanding service to the state in support of the arts, is a specially designed commemorative tile of Pewabic pottery.

Selection of the award winners was carried out by the board of directors of the foundation from a list of nominations solicited throughout Michigan in conjunction with the Michigan Council for the Arts.

In addition to Power, trustees from the Observer & Eccentric area include: Mrs. Edwin Deer of Birmingham, Mrs. C. Allen Harlan of Bloomfield Hills, Ernest Jones of Bloomfield Hills, Carl Luckenbach of Birmingham and Rabbi Sherwin Wine of Birmingham.

AFTER THE awards presentation, award recipients and guests listened to a short recital by Syme and a brief reading of Randall's poetry. A champagne reception followed where guests viewed works by Mrs. Bick, Kinnebrew and Koutroulis.

Mrs. Bick, a French native of Algeria, learned tapestry design and weaving technique through apprenticeships in art schools and textile centers. Today, her work encompasses designning and weaving tapestries for museums, galleries and private collections, as well as conducting seminars, consulting, and restoring classic tapestries for famous museum collections.

Kinnebrew is a sculptor whose recent fish ladder sculpture in Grand Rapids has received national acclaim. His attempt to challenge state and national bureaucracies dealing with natural resources represents a enormous effort on the part of an individual to bring his vision to the public, the foundation says.

He was one of the first artists-in-schools. He does extensive architectural consulting and has made a film about innovative design principles while he was attending the Communications Institute. Kinnebrew has a distinction rare to young sculptors: Some of his work is exhibited at the Guggenheim Museum and the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

KOUTROULIS CAME to the United States from Greece at the age of 15. At 23, he was honored as one of the first fellows for the Tamarind Lithography Workshop. After that, he taught and did graduate work at Cranbrook, later joining the faculty at aayne State University. He helped establish the Michigan Workshop of Fine Prints.

Randall is a lyric poet who has published five books of poetry. He is the founder of Broadside Press which this year celebrates its 10th anniversary. He has worked hard to encourage the works of poets generally, but has been particularly active among black writers. He has received numerous awards for his poetry and was poet-in-residence at the University of Detroit from 1969-1974.

Syme, 26, currently plays under the Southwest Pianists Foundation, the organization founded and continued under the leadership of his principal mentor, the distinguished pianist, Ozan Marsh. Syme grew up in Detroit, attended Cass Technical High School and studied with Mischa Kottler for seven years. He has appeared as an orchestral soloist with Detroit orchestras, among others.

The Patron of the Arts award recipient, Mrs. Edsel B. Ford, has been extremely generous as a philanthropist. At age 15, she gave dancing lessons to children of foreign-born families at Franklin Settlement.

There is no way to estimate how much support, both in wisdom and finance, she has given to the Detroit Symphony, the Detroit Institute of Arts, and civic and social organizations. She is Michigan's first lady of the arts, according to the foundation.

The patron award tile was developed at Pewablic Pottery and represents "freedom of spirit." Ella Peters glazed the tile with what is as close to Mary Chase Stratton's unduplicatable skill as is possible. Mrs. Peters worked with Mrs. Stratton for 30 years.

Diamonds are these girls' best friend

BY SHERRY KAHAN

When the umpire calls out "Play ball!" this spring, Katie as well as Casey will be at bat in area organized baseball and softball programs.

Girls have been signing up in droves for softball programs in Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Westland, Garden City and Redford Township. For the most part they play in their own leagues. But there are a few exceptions. In Plymouth girls and boys seven and eight bat and field together on teams playing T-ball, a game which is like baseball except that the ball is hit from a tee.

In Livonia small nine-year-old Teresa Noble made the kind of news that is becoming as typical of spring as the throwing out of the first baseball by the president. She signed up for boys' baseball.

As a result she will be the only girl among 2,700 boys who play on teams sponsored by the Livonia Junior Football League and Livonia Department of Parks and Recreation.

THE ACT proved that opinions on the subject are as strong as ever. George Massab, president of the league, would like Teresa to pick up her glove and join one of the all-girl teams sponsored by parks and recreation.

One of the coaches in the league felt differently. He told the Observer & Eccentric that he would be happy to have the fledgling player on his team.

Sandra Batke of Redford Township said that if a girl can qualify, she should be allowed to play with boys.

"But if there is a girls' league she should play with the girls," she maintained. "However, if there is no league for girls, she ought to be allowed to play on a boys' team."

Linda Johnson, also of Redford Township, thinks there is nothing wrong with girls joining boys' teams. "Boys can play on girls' teams, too. When I was younger we played football and everything with boys."

MARGARET SMITH of Westland agreed. "I think it's fine for girls to play with boys," she observed. "I'm a tom boy and I like to play ball. But it is better if they play separately. However, if that is not possible then they should play with boys."

Her husband, William Smith, disagreed. "I don't like the idea of girls playing on teams with boys," he said. "If you were sliding into first base, you wouldn't feel like putting up your foot and kicking a girl.

"I was brought up differently and can't get used to doing that. I don't say females are weaker, they are just different and due for different consideration."

He conceded the situation might not be the same in the nine to 11 age group, "but the girls still could be hurt."

Gayle Grant saw the wisdom of Smith's approach. "I'd worry about playing with men because they hurt you."

She added: "I think it's OK to play together at younger ages if everyone follows the rules."

Joe Maurus of Livonia saw no problem in the two sexes playing on the same team. "Although if girls form their own leagues, that's fine too," he said. "However, if they play together coaches should not let the girls be harrassed."

William Stidhan of Garden City said "I don't mind as long as she can do the same job the boys do."

BUT HOW is it with the girls' leagues. Are they being treated separately but equal, or just separately?

It was the feeling on the part of Mrs. Florence Noble, mother of Teresa, that both the scheduling and the distance of playing fields were unequal, that helped push her toward signing up Teresa to play with the boys.

Last year, for example, she said Livonia girls and their parents baked in the sun for 1:30 p.m. games on Saturdays at Ford Field. This year because of complaints from steamy parents and players, the girls will share the cool evening hours with the boys.

They also may be scheduled into other fields, such as Bicentennial, Rotary and Sheldon parks.

Girls in the parks and rec league pay no fee, whereas those participating in boys' baseball do and receive in return a cap and tee-shirt.

According to Gerald Ware, program supervisor of Livonia parks and recreation, all the girls in the instructional leagues will receive a free tee-shirt and cap from Adray of Appliance of Dearborn.

AT PRESENT there are seven teams in the instruction leagues for girls nine to 11 and 23 teams for those 15 and under. There are also two hardball leagues for girls 18 and under and 16 teams for women over 18.

A pioneer in organized softball for girls, Redford Township has been developing female hitters and fielders for 15 years.

"The program has doubled in the past 2½ years and reached mammoth proportions," said Mary Haney, co-director of the girls' program. She feels girls are coming into their own after years as second class citizens.

"This is the first year we have a quality unififorms," she said referring to the double knit tee-shirt the girls will don this spring. "But only six teams will get them, whereas all the boys get uniforms."

She noted also that girls are assigned only to three fields and have to travel to them from all over the township.

"The boys play in fields close to home," she said. "Parents can send their boys to games on a bicycle but they have to drive their girls."

(In some cases this is because there are fewer girls in the sport and they must be assigned on a different geographical basis.)

MRS. HANEY put her finger on one of the compelling reasons behind the fact that most girls prefer to play with other girls.

"I have girls signing up who are 18 and over, and who have never played before. I always ask them why they waited this long."

Their answer is usually "Because I didn't think anyone would make fun of me now."

Mrs. Haney observed, "They would feel terrible to make a bad play in front of a boy."

However, she thinks that if girls want to play with boys they should be allowed to. At the same time she noted that "a lot of boys eight and nine years old don't want to play hard ball, and if any of them had wanted to join my group I would have signed them."

She added that there were still openings on teams and that managers were desperately needed.

Moana Burton, vice-president of girls softball for the Garden City Athletic Association said that 550 girls will take up but and ball this summer. Since everything is up to date in Garden City, she too reports burgeoning number of female players.

"Today we have 38 teams for girls," she said. "Five years ago there were only eight."

She feels that Garden City girls get a fair athletic shake. They use the same fields as the boys, have the same arrangement for uniforms and play the same number of games per week, two.

"The boys have no priorities over us at all," she said. "I have 150 per cent cooperation with the men I work with on the board of the association and I get the girls what they need."

Plymouth will offer its girls a softball clinic sponsored by the school district starting the week of June 21 in Central Middle School. The fee is $12.

Girls also can sign on with the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League, which in addition to offering the aforementioned T-ball, also sponsors softball competition for girls nine to 12 and 13-15.

In both leagues every girl plays at least two innings and has a turn at bat, said Mrs. Jeanne Goodrich, treasurer of the league.

Girls in Westland can take their cuts at bat in a number of leagues. The Dad's Athletic club will field this spring 90 girls between seven and 12, and 90 girls from 13-16.

The Westland Youth Athletic League has 70 teams for girls of varying ages. Membership is up from 950 last year to 1,020 this year. "I feel girls have a good deal here," declared Mrs. Jo Johnson of the league. "The men kid us and give us a hard time, but the girls get equal treatment. They enjoy playing and are really excited this year."

With girls now regularly capturing flies and sliding into home plate, there is now a whole new set of Little League parents, those who are out cheering their girls.

And one wonders what will happen in the confrontation between the man who complains about girls horning in on the traditionally male domain and the proud father who just watched his daughter hit a double.

Lois Ann Beerbaum is honored

Lois Ann Beerbaum of Livonia will be honored as the Michigan Medical Technologist of the Year at a banquet of the Michigan Society for Medical Technology April 23 in the Troy Hilton.

Ms. Beerbaum is assistant department head in clinical chemistry at Wayne County General Hospital. Since her certification as a medical technologist, she has been active in professional activities, serving both the Detroit and Michigan societies in public relations, student career information and education. She also has been an officer in both organizations.

Currently she is chairperson of the advisory committee for the medical laboratory technician program at Schoolcraft College. She also has presented technical workshops at conventions of the American Society for Medical Technology and at Mercy College.

The award to Ms. Beerbaum will be made during National Laboratory Week, April 11-17, during which the Michigan society will promote continuing education as a means of updating and increasing advancements in the field and attracting young persons to a career in this profession.

Area singers and a hospital comedy routine will get into the act for the St. Mary Hospital bicentennial program and open house Sunday, April 25. Bicentennial 'operation'

A bit of spoof "surgery" and a program of light music will be offered in St. Mary Hospital of Livonia Sunday, April 25, as the hospital's contribution to bicentennial events in its community.

Two performances of a music and comedy program, at 1 and 4 p.m., are scheduled in hospital auditorium, Five Mile and Levan, and there will be an open house reception in between the presentations.

On stage will be Dr. Harry Tarpinian of the St. Mary staff and Sean Purtill, doing a comic "operation on Benedict Arnold" to offer a light-hearted look at history, and songs by the Nancie Purtill singers, a local group that has been performing all over the metropolitan area.

THE OPERATION SKIT is what's left of a planned spoof routine that was to have depicted the history of medical progress in this country for 200 years.

That idea had to be scrapped because Dr. Tarpinian, who was going to direct the show, suffered a neck injury whil playing tennis and was unable to do the kind of cavorting on stage he had in mind.

So Mrs. Purtill and her 12-member singing group were asked to fill in, and they will do most of the program, with a nod to Benedict Arnold and his operation.

THE NANCIE PURTILL Singers are vocalists who offer programs of sacred as well as secular music.

Coming from varied backgrounds and representing the communities of Livonia, Farmington, Westland, Novi and Dearborn Heights, they have come to be identified with a distinctive style and sound in four- and five-part harmoney.

Mrs. Purtill, a Livonia resident, is organizer, conductor and accompanists, and the group also has the services of drummer Jerry McKenzie, guitarist Don Palmer of Farmington and choreographer Bonnie Hunt of Ferndale.

Singers include Nancy Ketko, Lillian Swanson, Janet Hess and Sylvia McKenzie of Livonia, Carolyn Kruger, Kathy Ehrhorn, Ellen Hursig and Barbara Sechrist of Farmington, Donna Newsom of Westland, Cherrie Hess of Novi and Barbara DeBoe of Dearborn Heights.

THE PROGRAM will include arrangements of "Brazil," the theme from "The Godfather," "Something Better to Do" and "What a Difference a Day Makes."

The singers also will present "God Gave Song," "God Bless Our Country" and "A Place to Live."

Admission for the show is $1, with tickets available at the hospital or at the door. There is no charge for the open house from 1:30-3:30 p.m.

The event is part of a master calendar that has been set up by the Livonia Bicentennial Committee.

Hines opening for diabetes bikers

Breaking with tradition, the Western Wayne Area Bike-a-thon for Diabetes has been opened to the oldest and youngest, anybody and everybody with wheels—three-wheelers, too—pedals and a yen to join in the fun and a worthwhile cause Saturday, May 8.

Mrs. Pat Conley of Plymouth, co-chairman of the Bike-a-thon, explained the Wayne County Road Commission has banned automobiles on Bike-a-thon day.

"We believe that with no automobiles to mess things up, the Hines Parkway, which is smooth, curving and broad, will be perfectly safe for small kids on tricycles as well as their grandparents on bicycles," she said.

There will be special prizes for the best money raisers; the cyclist over 60 will receive a Golden Pedal trophy, a child under seven will receive a bicycle radio and the usual 10-speed bikes will be awarded on a state-wide basis to three teenage groupings.

"THE PARKWAY ride, 20½ miles, from Outer Drive in Detroit to Haggerty Road, was the top attraction for bikers for Diabetes in Michigan last year," said Mrs. Conley, a member of the Western Wayne Unit of the American Diabetes Association—Michigan Affiliate.

"It drew 1,340 bikers who delivered pledges for $25,862. Bikers. They came from Canton, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, Wayne and Westland and all talked about what a wonderful time they had last year and we expect more than ever this year."

Mrs. Conley, a secretary who is being aided in organizing the Bike-a-thon by the District 30 Jaycettes, asked for volunteers to help man check points on the ride as well as distribute posters to stores in the area which are promoting the ride.

There will be check points at Hines and Haggerty Roads and at Nankin Mills, Parr Knoll and Merriman Hollow. Bikers can enter by registering at any check point between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Riders who average at least 25 cents a mile in contributions will receive coupons for a free soft drink and hamburger and fries from any Jack-in-the-Box restaurant after completing a first lap.

The restaurants also have entry forms, and it is important to pick them up early in order to line up sponsors, Mrs. Conley said.

THE MONEY COLLECTED from the event will go toward research to fight diabetes, a malady just recently determined as the third largest cause of death in the United States.

Diabetes is the leading cause of blindness, a major factor in heart attacks, kidney failure and other serious complications causing malfunction of the total body.

The association also uses funds from the bike-a-thon to educate the diabetic, his family and the general public on the disease, and to operate Camp Midicha, a summer camp for children with diabetes.

The association is now readying the camp, located in Columbiaville, for diabetic youth to have a camping experience while they learn to deal with their disease and care for themselves in the company of other diabetics.

Camp medical director Dr. William E. Rush supervises a corps of doctors, nurses and dieticians who live at the camp to provide around-the-clock medical care for the campers, who range between 6-16 years of age.

Camp opens June 23, and persons wishing detailed information on the facilities and services may write to: American Diabetes Association, Michigan Affiliate, Inc. 6131 W. Outer Drive, Detroit, 48235.

YWCA classes fit whole family

Six weeks of classes tailored to interest the whole family will begin Monday, April 26, in the YWCA of Western Wayne County, 26279 Michigan.

The schedule includes Tuesday and Thursday Ladies Day out programs, an evening program of offerings for men and women, and Saturday activities for youngsters.

Two special series, "Yours Truly," and "Back to Nature," highlight the classes for women on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Both days there will be a nursery available for children so mothers can have a real day out.

"Yours Truly," from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Tuesdays, will offer something personal each week. The programs include creating dried flower foyer mirrors, with a representative of Baskets and Bows in Plymouth leading the session, and ideas for hair and makeup with the Charisma Salon of Livonia.

The women also will visit Jacobson's in Dearborn for a style show and will have a session on preparing health foods with Hanna Heintz.

The other programs in that series will be on astrology, tennis and golf. The six mornings will cost $6, with a materials charge added for the dried flower workshop.

THE "BACK to Nature" series on Thursdays will include a session on house plants with Nancy Craig and a talk on canning and freezing by Pat Holden of Detroit Edison.

There also will be a program by the Northville branch of the American Association of University Women on the branch's food co-op, a trip to the Eastern Market and a session on herbs.

Classes in quilting, ceramics, sculpture, bridge, tailoring, needlecraft, rug-hooking, painting, exercise, and regional cooking, as well as a course on preventing rape, also will be offered Tuesday and Thursday mornings.

Each of the Ladies Day Out programs will wind up with special Lunch 'n Listen programs.

EVENING CLASSES for men, women and teens will be in karate, astrology, indoor-outdoor gardening, slim-trim exercise, how to prevent rape, ballroom dancing, cultural crafts, ballet exercise, ceramics, outdoor golf and tennis.

The Kids Korner program beginning Saturday, May 1, will feature afternoon activity for children up to 12. Tumbling, outdoor games, basic art, ceramics and sculpture are included.

All courses require YW membership, $6 for adults and $3 for children for one year.

Registrations are being accepted at the branch headquarters. The Western Wayne YW serves a wide area, including Westland, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth and Canton.

Interlochen Band on tour stop

The Interlochen Arts Academy Band will stop at Farmington High School during its tour through Michigan with the support of the Michigan Council for the Arts.

The 51-member ensemble will give a program of works by American composers in the school's auditorium Monday, April 26, at 8 p.m. The event was arranged by Harold Kacanek, director of instrumental music at Farmington High School.

The band is conducted by Dennis L. Johnson, who has been a staff member of National Music Camp for several summers and is in his first year at the academy.

Featured works from the repertoire include "American Overture for Band" by Gordon Jenkins; "Concertino for Percussion and Band" by Clifton Williams; "Satiric Dances" by Dello Joio, and Giannini's "Symphony No. 3."

The Interlochen Arts Academy is the winter corollary of the National Music Camp and provides a full curriculum of pre-professional training in fine arts in addition to college preparatory courses in academics at the high school level.

THE INTERLOCHEN Center for the Arts was identified by the Michigan Council for the Arts as one of six major cultural institutions of Michigan in 1974, and it, shares in a $685,400 appropriation made by the Michigan State Legislature. Interlochen's share is $72,600. Other recipients of grants are the Meadowbrook Theatre, the Michigan Opera Theatre, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Cranbrook Academy of Art.

The academy's touring program is designed as one answer to a cultural drought, believed to exist in many areas of the state. It attempts to introduce lesser-known facets of the arts to residents in all communities throughout the state and to supplement or augment local school curriculum offerings.

By MARGARET MILLER

Somehow in the little game of who-handles-what-kind-of-news, that we play in this newpaper's office, I've managed to become dubbed the disease editor.

Better, I guess, than being considered the diseased editor.

Anyway, I get to write the stories on innoculation clinics, announcements of lectures on certain health problems and assorted drives to raise funds to fight others.

So in my designated capacity, I was rather interested recently in the mimeographed sheet our math-major daughter brought home from her class in statistics.

PUBLISHED in a text titled "World of Mathematics," it represents, apparently, the compilation made by one John Graunt, a citizen of London, of "the diseases and casualties this year being 1632."

It's a fascinating bit of statistical knowledge.

By far the biggest number, 2268, was labled "Chrisomes and Infants." Since the dictionary defines Chrisome as a baptismal robe, I have to assume this represents the babies that died in the first few days of life.

The other four-figured causes of death listed were, not surprisingly, "Consumption," 1797, and "Fever," 1108.

YOU GET A GRIM picture of life in London in the 17th century when you note that six people were listed as "Dead in the street, and starved," 470 died of "Teeth," and one was "Bit by a mad dog."

You note with interest that the manner of death that seems more prevalent now had less incidence then. "Kil'd by several accidents," only 46 out of nearly 10,000 deaths counted, "Made away themselves," 15, and "Murthered," a total of seven. and "Lunatique" accounted for five.

Then there was one Londoner who departed from the world "Affrighted."'"Grief" accounted for 11, and 62 died "Suddenly."

BUT SOME of the categories baffle me. Maybe someone can tell me what kind of death is the second half of "Cancer and Wolf," or "Jawfaln," or "King's Evil," or "Planet," "Tympany," "Tissick" or "Rising of the Lights."

One thing I'm sure of. If I'm going to be a disease editor, I'm glad it's now instead of 300 years ago.

YW workshop on plants set

The second session, 7:30-9:30 p.m. Monday, May 3, will be led by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hughes, from Hughes Gardens on Lahser Road. The subject will be planting gardens and will include use of bulbs, herbs, flowers and some vegetables.

Ward marks 20 years

Ward United Presbyterian Church of Livonia will mark its 20th anniversary during services Sunday, April 25.

The Rev. Bartlett L. Hess, senior minister, will preach at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services on the Deuteronomy text "Remember all the way the Lord thy God led thee," and the 7 p.m. service will feature a congregational discussion on the past, present and future of Ward.

The church, located at Farmington Road and Six Mile, now one of the biggest in the area, had its beginnings the first Sunday in May 1956 when 57 people gathered in Lincoln School in Livonia for the first service of a mission church of Detroit's Ward Memorial.

The membership now is about 2,400, with an average of 2,500 attending two Sunday morning services each week and more than 400 at evening services. The yearly giving now is more than $700,000.

Property for the present church was purchased about a month after the first service, and the building has been completed in three stages.

The church has varied programs, including a Wednesday evening School of Christian Education from September through May, with 250 attending dinner and more than 700 in choirs and classes each week.

Margaret Hess, wife of the minister, teaches a community women's Bible class Tuesday mornings and Jerry J. Smith directs the church's multiple choirs.

Ward also has a youth program led by Danford Schar and Terry Prisk, about 40 Bible study fellowship groups under supervision of the Rev. L. Edward Davis, and adult Bible school classes with 350 attending Sundays.

Regular membership classes bring in about 300 persons each year.

New tomb at center

Orthodox Paschal rites set

By MARGARET MILLER

A new tomb, given to St. Michael Orthodox Catholic Church in memory of a couple who were longtime members, is the focal point in the Redford Township parish sanctuary as preparations advance for the Orthodox Good Friday and Easter.

St. Michael is a parish originally located in the Livernois-Michigan area of Detroit, and it numbers members all over the metropolitan area. It moved to its present location, 26355 West Chicago, in 1968 after fire destroyed the Detroit church.

Like other Orthodox congregations, St. Michael celebrates Good Friday this year on April 23 and Easter on April 25. Because of a different means of reckoning, the Orthodox dates for Easter can vary from the Roman by as much as five weeks.

THIS YEAR'S services will be the first at St. Michael, not only for the ceremonial tomb, donated by the sons and daughters of the late John and Anna Masura to honor their parents, but also for the Rt. Rev. Michael E. Barna, pastor of the parish since last September.

The new tomb, purchased from a monastery in Jerusalem, is white, harmonizing with the interior of the eight-year-old church, and is covered by a richly-colored holy shroud, also called a winding cloth or Plaschanitza.

Around the edge of the cloth is written, in church Slavonic letters, an inscription that translates: "Noble Joseph, when he had taken thy precious body from the tree did wrap it in fine linen and spices and sorrowing did place it in a new sepulchre."

DURING THE Good Friday vespers and procession, beginning at 7:30 p.m., Fr. Barna said the tomb will be in a central spot before the altar and will be surrounded by Easter flowers.

"At the evening services," he said, "there will be a procession which is a reenactment of the burial of Christ. The winding cloth will be carried around the church and finally put into a replica of the grave, just as the body of Jesus was carried from the cross and put into the grave of Joseph in the garden."

The Orthodox Paschal services will continue at 11:30 p.m. Saturday, when the congregation will gather for nocturne rites, and then at midnight will begin the matin cannons of St. John of Damascus.

Fr. Barna said the drama will continue to unfold with "a procession which reminds us of the journey made by the women who came to annount the body of Christ and found the tomb empty."

The procession, he added, takes the congregation outside the church during the midnight service, and when the people return, the tomb is moved to the side of the altar, the flowers are dispersed and the winding cloth goes onto the altar.

"At the conclusion of the canons of St. John," the priest went on, "Easter foods will be blessed on the church lawn. Divine liturgy on Easter Sunday, April 25, will begin at 10 a.m."

FR. BERNA explained that the Orthodox Easter often is celebrated on a different Sunday from the Roman because of rules laid down by the first ecumenical council in the year 325 at Nicea.

These rules hold that Easter must follow the Jewish Passover, he said, adding that this is the point that makes the difference between the two branches of the Catholic church.

"There are two reasons for this rule," he said. "First, to keep a proper historical and chronological sequence. The Old Testament Passover came first and was a preview of the coming Christian one. The Christian Passover is the fulfillment of the old one.

"Secondly, to make a distinction between the celebration of the two Passovers—Jewish and Christian—because in the early church this distinction was necessary in mixed congregations."

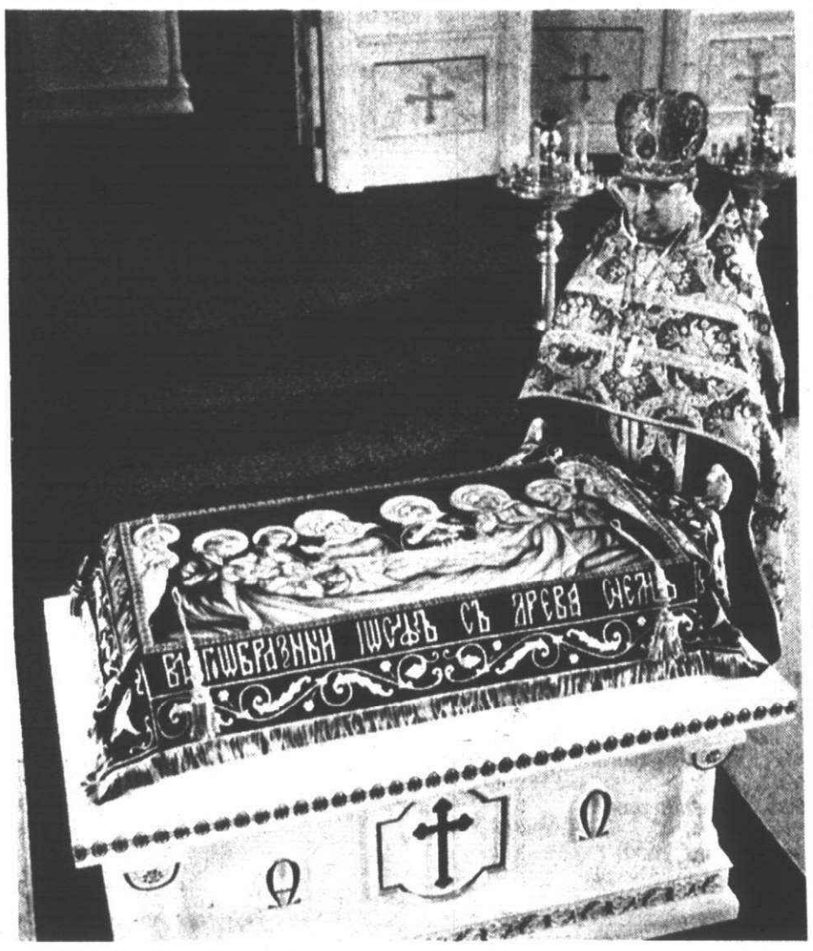
Fr. Berna pointed out another difference—the use of pussy willows in Orthodox churches instead of palms on the Sunday before Easter commemorating Jesus' entry into Jerusalem.

"There are no palms in Russia," he explained, "and in this spring season the pussy willows change suddenly from something brown and dead to something alive."

THE ST. MICHAEL priest came to this area after long service in the Eastern section of the nation, and marked his 25th jubilee Nov. 9.

He grew up in an Illinois town where his father was a priest, graduated from high school in Reading, Pa., and saw active service in the U.S. Navy before beginning study at St. Nicholas Cathedral in New York. He served as assistant to his father in Reading and later in St. Michael Orthodox Chrch in Philadelphia.

In 1970 he was elevated to the privilege of wearing the mitre, a headpiece, by Metropolitan Nikodium of Leningrad and Novgorod.



The Rt. Rev. Michael E. Barna places the ceremonial winding cloth on the new tomb that will be central to the Good Friday and Easter services this weekend in St. Michael Orthodox Catholic Church. (Staff photo by Bob Woodring)

Save for your retirement and enjoy a special tax break, too.

You may have missed an important tax-saving opportunity last year. But it's not too late to start providing a guaranteed income for your retirement and a tax deduction for next year—and for every year after that until you retire.

If you are self-employed or not covered by any retirement plan, you can open an Individual Retirement Account at Detroit Bank & Trust and start enjoying the benefits of a tax-sheltered retirement plan.

You are eligible for an I.R.A. if you're not currently participating in a retirement plan.

An Individual Retirement Account, or I.R.A., may be opened by any employed or self-employed person not currently covered by any other retirement plan. Even if you are already enrolled in a retirement plan, but have a working spouse who is not, he or she is eligible.

A tax-shelter makes your money worth more now...and when you retire.

All contributions to your I.R.A. are fully tax deductible. What's more, even the interest earned on this account is exempt from income tax until it is withdrawn. And when you finally begin making withdrawals, you pay taxes only on the amount you withdraw each year. Like savings accounts, however, I.R.A.'s offer a range of plans paying annual interest rates from 5½ to 7½ percent and are insured to $40,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. These are the highest interest rates that any bank can pay.

Make deposits as often as you like—up to $1,500 annually.

Regulations only permit you to save a maximum of $1,500 a year, or 15% of your annual wages, whichever is less. You can open an Individual Retirement Account with just $25, then it's up to you when and how much you want to deposit, in amounts of $25 or more, up to your maximum each year. You can add to your account each payday and when your savings reach $1,000 or more, they can be converted to 6-year 7½% Investment Certificates; or if you make your annual deposit in one lump sum, you can put it into 6-year 7½% Investment Certificates at that time. The money must remain on deposit at least until you reach age 59½, unless you become permanently disabled. Should you withdraw prior to that, Federal regulations for Investment Certificates require that you pay substantial penalties on the amount withdrawn, and I.R.A. regulations impose further penalties for premature withdrawals.

Tax-sheltered savings in an I.R.A. accumulate much faster than other savings plans.

This chart shows what you could accumulate if you invested $1,500, before taxes, at the beginning of each year.* The first column shows how your interest accumulates with the help of a tax-sheltered I.R.A., the second shows how your interest accumulates without the help of a tax-sheltered I.R.A. and the third shows the difference.

At the end of	7½% Interest with help of a tax-sheltered I.R.A.	7½% Interest without help of a tax-sheltered I.R.A.	You gain with an I.R.A.
10 years	$ 23,090	$15,528	$ 7,562
20 years	71,633	42,780	28,853
30 years	173,688	90,603	83,085

*Table assumes taxpayer is in a 25% tax bracket and that the total contribution is deposited at the beginning of each year.

It's easy to start an Individual Retirement Account.

It's as easy as opening a savings account. Just let your DETROIT BANK-er know you want to open an I.R.A. and as little as $25 will get you started. Establishing a useful tax-shelter is another good reason why you ought to know a DETROIT BANK-er better.

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

Most bowlers would be satisfied with being a member of a championship team in any league. Winning two would be a great thrill.

And while being a member of two title teams has been a real treat for Marge Kropacek—the Plymouth housewife who bowls in four leagues each week—she missed the biggest goal.

She was on the Stylecraft Printing team that won the title in Brentwood Lanes and she also was a member of the Stacey Auto Wash in the Cadillac Classic at Satellite. But, the one big disappointment came when her Shirey's team of Plymouth, missed the first division in the strong Bowlerettes League by a single point.

Don't say Peter Nathan, a regular bowler at Southfield Lanes, isn't emotionally spent after bowling a perfect game.

All you have to do is look at his scores. After opening with a 300 recently, he dropped back to 183 and then to 128 for a 611.

Imagine that, a 300 game and only a 611 series.

Another strange happening came when Cliff Kackathorn, who carries a 148 average, missed a perfect game on the same lanes when he left up the seven pin on his last ball for 299. And he followed that with a 127.

It was a different story with Rick Osborne who fashioned a 703 series with games of 257, 236 and 210.

A 12-YEAR OLD LAD, Carey Allen, showed the oldsters how to do it when he went 116 pins over his averge in the Father & Son League at Brentwood, with games of 146, 202 and 167 for 515.

TWO NEW MEMBERS were admitted to the western suburbs 700 Club during the week. Buck Stewart made it in the Junior House League at Farmington Lanes with a big 256 in 710. The other was Don Farley who fired games of 244, 234 and 232 for 710 in the Junior House League at Merri-Bowl.

MARY LOU SCHNEIDER had one of her best days when she paced the Ladies Classic at Plymouth Bowl with a 621 gained on games of 208, 204 and 209. How's that for consistency? Right behind her came Joyce Hamilton with a 567 that included a 234 game, while third place went to Lou Laridan with a 546.

THERE WAS NOTHING MINI about the series Nancy Kuska rolled in the Mini League at Westland. Carrying a 134 average she put together games of 182, 234 and 156 for 572.

AT PLAZA LANES Tom Himmelspach was the big gun of the week. He posted a 674 in the Ford Sheldon League to pace all rivals.

In the ladies league, Sally Hively, a 118 average bowler, found the range for a 156.

JAN VANDERWILL barely missed a 600 series to lead the Friday Classic at Farmington Lanes when she inserted a 214 in 599 and gained an eight pin margin over Betty Worcester.

In the Mixed League, Don Krahn posted a 243 in 634 and Laurie Bierman showed the way in the junior girls loop with a 205.

SANDY BARRINGTON ran away with top honors in the Kings and Queens League at Garden Lanes. She posted a 626 to beat Mickey Giglo, her nearest rival, by 64 pins. Mickey Santo landed third with 557.

In the men's section, Bill Elliott was top man with 664. Second place went to Dick Morris with 637 and Jim Gibson was third with a 628.

In the St. Linus League, it was Tom Berry all the way with a 653. Steve Filipowski trailed far back in second place with a 601.

The seniors had a great time of it at Garden Lanes, too, when only four pins separated the top three bowlers. Ken Via was high with 604, Elemer Squires was next with 601 and Cliff Larsh landed third with a 257 in 600.

LILLIAN BEATTIE put a gallant finish to the season in the Livonia Lanes Ladies Classic when she won two of three games in the second with a 175-35—210 and the third with 215-35—250. The other game went to Pat Coombe with 193-34—227.

Clarenceville diamondmen record 2 wins

It was both a struggle and a cinch last week for Clarenceville in a non-league baseball doubleheader with Dearborn Heights Robichaud.

The Trojans earned a come-from-behind 3-2 victory in the opener that went eight innings, and the second game was called after five innings with Clarenceville on the long end of a 17-1 count.

The Trojans scored the winning run of the first game without hitting the ball out of the infield. Larry Laird was safe on an error, Jack Rolnitzky sacrificed Laird to second, Laird stole third, then scored on a slow infield grounder hit by Jim Hill.

Tim McDowall, who pitched all eight innings, was the winning hurler.

In the second game, Clarenceville carved 17 runs out of 12 hits and 10 walks before the game was mercifully ended.

Rick Canady was 3-3 at the plate, while Tim McCammant, Dennis Resetar and Scott McGaw all collected two hits. Hill was credited with the victory.

The Trojans now show an overall 3-1 record.

1st Day 6th Day 12th Day 18th Day

Time-lapse photographs show how gradual action of Grecian Formula 16 lets you control just how much gray you slowly, simply get rid of—some of it or all of it

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y.—Hundreds of thousands of men all over the country are now using a remarkable, practically clear liquid to get rid of just as much gray as they want—some of it, most of it or all of it. It is called Grecian Formula 16 and the results are simply amazing. Now Grecian Formula 16 is available in colorless cream form. It's as easy to use as hair cream. This remarkable formula works for any color hair because it combines with the natural chemistry of the hair to recreate natural-looking color. There is no mess and no rub-off. You simply use it every day for two or three weeks until you slowly get rid of just as much gray as you want. Some of it, most of it or all of it. You are in complete control of how much gray goes or stays. Then simply use Grecian Formula 16 once a week or so to keep it that way. With Grecian Formula 16 the resulting color is so completely natural that the hair definitely does not have a dyed look. New Grecian Formula 16 colorless cream and famous Grecian Formula 16 clear liquid are now both available at

Grief seminar

Grief following the death of a loved one is something many people don't know how to handle..

That's the reason behind an April seminar to be conducted by Dr. William Wahlberg, a counselor at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn, at the spring conference of the Michigan Association of Crisis Services.

The experimental workshop on April 23-24 in Ortonville is for people to learn the value of grieving, to help them learn how to grieve themselves and how they can help others grieve.

Wahlberg, whose doctorate is from the University of Michigan, also has studied bioenergetic analysis in Windsor. Those interested in the seminar may call him at HFCC, 5101 Evergreen, Dearborn.

Byers-Tauriainen

Mr. and Mrs. James Elrod of Crown Street, Westland, announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Byers, to Dan Tauriainen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Tauriainen of Winona Court, Westland.

Both are 1974 graduates of John Glenn High School. The bride-to-be is employed by Allstate Insurance. Her fiance is a student at the University of Michigan-Dearborn and works for the Kroger Co.

Their wedding date is Aug. 21.

Merritt-Sovinski

Gerald and Marjorie Merritt of Fairfield Street, Garden City, announce the engagement of their daughter, Catherine Jean, to William Joseph Sovinski Jr., son of William and Frances Sovinski of Florence Street, Garden City.

The bride-elect is a 1971 graduate of Garden City West High School and will graduate May 1 from the Madonna College nursing program. She is employed by Providence Hospital in its emergency room.

Her fiance, a 1970 Garden City west graduate, works for the Maul Manufacturing Co. in Farmington and attends Henry Ford Community College.

They plan to be married Sept. 11 in St. Raphael Archangel Catholic Church in Garden City.

Cooking, Italian style

If you have always wondered how to prepare Rollatini de vitello al pomadora or Finocchi fritti, you might find answers Tuesday, April 27, at Kitchen Glamor, 26770 Grand River, between Six and Seven Mile roads, Redford Township.

Marcella Polini Hazan, who comes from Emilia-Romagna, Italy's foremost gastronomic region, will lead a free cooking session at 10 a.m. by preparing recipes from her book, "The Classic Italian Cookbook."

Mrs. Hazan and her husband, Victor, prepared for the book by touring all the gastronomic regions of Italy.

Before she began teaching cooking classes, Mrs. Hazan received doctorates in natural sciences and biology from the University of Ferrara.

Her cooking school was recently reported in the New York Times by cooking expert Craig Claiborne.

Buddy's jazz to come in May

Buddy Rich and his band will appear in concert Sunday and Monday, May 2 and 3, in the Clarenceville High School auditorium, 20155 Middle Belt, Livonia.

Warmups will begin at 7:30 p.m., featuring the Clarenceville Jazz Ensemble Sunday and the Northville Jazz Band Monday.

A special affinity exists between Buddy and Clarenceville. His band opened the jazz series in 1969, and it was the first concert he had played in a high school auditorium.

Two years later, he played a concert there on his birthday. Students surprised him wtih a birthday cake with re-lighting candles and dropped hundreds of balloons from the auditorium ports.

A surprised Buddy gave the audience a brief glimpse of the softy beneath the "Peck's Bad Boy" image.

Concert tickets are $5 for reserved seats and $4 for unreserved seats. They are available at Hammell Music, Livonia Mall Record and Tape Center and Records 'R' Us in the new Market Place at Wonderland Center, all in Livonia.

To order by mail, make checks payable to "Clarenceville Entertainment Series." Mail to Bonnie Garrison, 20135 Rensellor, Livonia, 48152. Specify which night you want. Enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Other information is available from Mrs. Garrison at 476-1060 or Midge Ellis, 474-2720.

Civic Chorus awards 2

Dave Everson of Bentley High Scgool and Chris Soltesz of Franklin High School have each been awarded two-week scholarships to Interlochen Music Camp by the Livonia Civic Chorus.

Dave, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Everson of Loveland in Livonia, won the instrumental scholarship playing the French horn. He is a member of the Bentley Concert Band and also plays with the Livonia Youth Symphony.

Chris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Soltesz of Frederick Drive in Livonia, is a senior at Franklin High School. He is a tenor and won the vocal scholarship. Last year he sang in "Music Man" at Franklin and this year had a part in "Carousel." He started his vocal training at Whitmore Junior High School and has progressed to sing with the Michigan Honors Choir.

The Livonia Civic Chorus is sponsored by the Livonia Parks and Recreation Dept. The 60-member chorus has singers from Livonia, Westland, Farmington, Dearborn, Detroit and Ann Arbor. The group sings at various church, community and civic functions during the year.

Its biggest undertaking is the Spring Concert which will be held this year April 30 and May 1 in the Clarenceville Auditorium in Livonia. Profits from this show are used to finance these scholarships.

In an unusual bicentennial event, the Suomi College alumni chapter of Detroit and the Greater Detroit Finnish-American Bicentennial Committee will sponsor the Tapiola Children's Choir appearing May 18 at 8 p.m. in the Redford Theatre, 17360 Lahser. The world-famous Finnish choir, consisting of 50 students ranging in age from 11 to 19, all originate from Tapiola, a suburb of Helsinki, Finland. They have won prizes in several choral competitions including international competition, and have been received by Princess Margaret of England. Under the direction of Erkki Pohjola, a three-week, coast-to-coast concert tour is planned in the U.S. starting May 4. On this trip the choir will act as official Finnish Bicentennial representatives being sent on the road with special greetings by their own president, Urho Kekkonen. They are slated to appear in the Kennedy Center Concert Hall in Washington D.C. on May 12.

Art Institute features local composer's work

If Bob Jones weren't such a skillful composer, you'd never guess he has a sense of humor like a kid throwing together a mud pie.

Robert W. Jones, as he is formally known, is resident composer at Schoolcraft College. This Friday at 8:30 p.m., the Detroit String Quartet will feature one of Jones' works in the Laudenslager Series in the lecture hall of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

It has the dignified title of Quartet No. 3—"Love Song." But there is also a soprano vocal part, to be sung Friday by Doralene Davis. It is here the Jones sense of humor comes into play.

COMPOSER BOB JONES
"Threw in some songs"

"I HAD SOME songs, just sittin' around doin' nothing," Jones said of his composing effort of several years ago, "so I threw some songs into the quartet here and there.

"In the first movement, the soprano just sorta walks on stage and hums part of the tune. Then she sits down and kinda listens."

In the second movement, the soprano sings one of the "Sonnets from the Portuguese" by Elizabeth Barrett Browning that Jones set to music.

In the third movement, she does a dramatic reading of one of Shakespeare's sonnets.

"The fourth movement she sits out. That's a regular string quartet scherzo," Jones said.

In the fifth movement, the soprano sings Mrs. Browning's most famous "Portuguese" sonnet, the one that begins: "How do I love thee? Let me count the ways. . . "

THE DETROIT String Quartet is composed of musicians well known to Schoolcraft College summer music school students and July concert goers.

James Waring is first violin; Inez Redman, second violin; David Ireland, viola, and Mario DiFiore, cello.

Tickets are $4 for adults and $2.50 for senior citizens and are available at Hudson's or at the door.

"Bus Stop" opens April 23 in Redford

The Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild will present William Inge's stimulating comedy "Bus Stop" on April 23 at 8:30 p.m. in Redford.

Additional performances are scheduled for April 24, 30 and May 1, 2, 7, and 8 at 15138 Beech Daly (south of Five Mile). Sunday performances start at 7:30 p.m.

Seating is limited and reservations are advisable. For tickets or information call 538-7459 or 261-7996.

Fred Bush of Franklin portraying Dr. Lyman and Julie Rotary of Livonia portraying Elma, rehearse for the production of "Bus Stop."

Rocks split with Patriots

By BILL COLLINS

Plymouth Salem had its modest three-game winning streak snapped 6-2 by Livonia Franklin in the first game of a Monday afternoon doubleheader.

The Rocks came back to win the nightcap 8-5, scoring six of their runs in the fifth and sixth innings as Brian Wolcott mananged to hang on for his fourth victory of the year.

In game one, Tom Chiatalas of Slame was staked to a 1-0 lead when Charlie Johnson tripled home John DenHouter in the first inning after DenHouter had walked.

Chiatalas worked into trouble in the second when he filled the bases on walks to Steve Tresik, Dave Gunter and Larry Urben.

Chiatalas then hit the next batter, forcing in a run to tie the game, and threw a wild pitch to put the Patriots on top to stay at 2-1.

Ted Longeina tagged Chiatalas for his fourth unearned run with a sacrifice fly.

In the third inning, Franklin put one more on the scoreboard after Ken Scarpace ledoff with a single to center. He moved over to third on a base hit by Tresik and scored the Patriots fourth run on a passed ball.

Mike Primeau relieved Chiatalas after one man had been retired and went the next three and two-thirds innings with little difficulty despite two runs Franklin in the fourth inning.

Tresik, ever present in Franklin rallies, led off the fourth frame wth a single to left.

Urben followed by jacking a 2-2 pitch into deep left center for an inside-the-park-home-run. boosting Franklin into a 6-1 lead.

Salem connected for 10 hits in the contest but failed to come through with an extra base hit when it needed it most.

"WHEN YOU spot a team five runs you have to change your game plan, you can't afford to take gambles and be aggressive," said Salem Coach Brian Gilles.

Singles by Pat McKendrie and Wolcott in the third, and McKendrie and DenHouter in the fifth proved pointless as Salem could not score until the bottom of the seventh inning.

Dave Pierce led off with a single and later scored on a single by Johnson, his second RBI of the afternoon.

"In the first game I was impressed with the way Primeau and Nidzgorski handled themselves on the mound," said Gilles. "I'm hoping I can count on the three who pitched the first game—at least they all have earned another look," he said.

Rob Flood went the first six innings for Franklin and received credit for the victory, while Tim Wilkins came on in relief to earn the save.

Game two featured Wolcott on the hill against Calvin Beer of Franklin.

Salem drew first blood in the second inning with a single run.

Howard Inch reached base on an error to the shortstop, and advanced to third on a hit-and-run play with designated hitter Bob Smith lining a single over the second basemen's head. Inch scored when McKendrie hit into a fielder's choice.

Salem went two up in the third inning after two were out. DenHouter lofted a bloop double into rightfield as the Texas leaguer fell halrmlessly between the second baseman and rightfielder. He scored when Jerry Symons cracked a single up the middle for a 2-0 Rock advantage after three innings.

Franklin replied with a pair of runs in the inning as Tresik tripled up the power alley in left center, scoring Jerry Pollard. Tresik came home on Urben's ground ball that was almost turned into a double play.

IN THE BOTTOM half of the fourth inning, the Rocks unleashed a four-run attack by sending 10 men to the plate. Wolcott led off with a scratch single, and raced to third as DenHouer executed the hit and run to playbook perfection, putting runners on first and third.

Johnson's ground ball to second base was fumbled and the bases were loaded with no outs.

Mitch Symons ripped a single to left scoring Wolcott, but DenHouter was cut down at the plate after pulling up along the third baseline with a pulled muscle.

After a double steal moved runners up to second and third, a passed ball put Salem ahead by a 4-2 count.

Inch drew a walk on a 3-2 pitch and Smith tapped a grounder to the shortstop whose throw to the plate was not good enough to stop Symons from making it 5-2.

McKendrie walked to fill the bases for the third time in the inning and Pierce walked on five pitches to cap the Rocks four-run rally.

AFTER WOLCOTT had cruised through five innings and had two batters retired in the sixth, Franklin put together a string of runs to keep the contest's outcome in question.

Pollard walloped a triple to centerfield, and Wolcott nicked Tresik with a pitch to put two men aboard which set the stage for Urben's second homer of the day.

Urben cracked a sinking line drive to rightfield that fooled rightfielder Tim Lilley. Urben raced around all four bases for a three-run homer to put Franklin back into the ballgame 6-5.

Salem added its insurance when walks to Johnson and Symons put runners on first and second. Both moved up a base on an errant pickoff throw, and came home when Smith lined a two-out, two-strike pitch over the bag at second to give the Rocks the 8-5 win, lifting their record to 4-1 on the season.

"At this point in the season, our hitting is just as good as I thought it would be. We're hitting clost to .300 as a team. But somebody else is going to have to pick up the slack in our pitching," Gilles said.

CC, Canton divide doubleheader

By BILL COLLINS

Plymouth Canton split a doubleheader with Catholic Central Saturday as the Chiefs used 10 hits and 10 walks to their advantage in the first game on their way to a 10-1 thumping of the Shamrocks. CC converted five Canton errors in the hightcap to earn a split by taking a 4-2 decision.

In the opener, Canton loaded the bases on walks in the first two innings but were unable to push across more than one run.

Tom Close drew a walk with the bases filled in the second inning to give the Chiefs the first run of the afternoon, even though Shamrock starter Rob Temple had given up six walks in the first two frames.

Catholic Central tied the game at 1-1 in the top half of the third inning as Rick Perron led off with a single and moved to third on a hit and run base hit by Mark Scanlon. Central scored when the throw to the plate was not in time on a double steal play.

Temple's wildness led to the Shamrocks' downfall as the roof caved in when Canton went to the plate in the bottom of the third inning and sent 11 men to bat.

With one out, Temple walked John O'Connell, Bill Parson, and Ken Britton in order.

Pienh-hitter Steve Hanis hit into a fielders choice for one run, and Scott Collins brought home another with a double to right.

Dave Pink knocked home a pair by hitting a ground ball single between first and second to make it 5-1.

Close lined a single up the middle to put runners in scoring position once again, and John Young singled home the final run of the barrage staking himself a 6-1 lead after three innings.

YOUNG, MAKING his first start of the season, rendered one run and allowed only four hits in the five innings that he worked.

"John threw the ball reasonably well for the first time out, he kept the ball around the plate and that's what is important," said Canton Coach Fred Crissey.

Canton padded its lead in the lopsided contest with three more runs in the fourth inning.

O' Connell dropped a double into left-center with one out and Parson folowed with a walk. Britton singled to left to make it 7-1.

A ground out by Steve Hanis moved runners over to second and third, as Collins delivered a clutch single to center, putting the Chiefs up 9-1 after four innings.

Canton closed out the scoring in the game with back-to-back triples.

Bill Wolfe, working in relief of Temple, had his first pitch to Young belted to center-field as Young pulled up with a triple. In a pinch-hitting role, Gary Birdsall parked a two-strike pitch in the rightfield corner for a triple, scoring Young.

Steve Mormen cleaned up for thr Chiefs in the sixth inning striking out two batters.

Freshman Dale Albright pitched the seventh inning and put the side down in order.

"If we have kids in our program that can do the job for us like Dale did, we're going to be moving players between the varsity and JV teams," said Crissey.

the tables turnedin the second game as Canton miscues allowed Catholic Central to score all the runs they needed for a 4-2 win, which featured the combined two-hit pitching of Jim Robb and Temple.

Junior Mark Perkins got the call to start the second game.

Catholic Central started its first rally in the second inning.

Ground balls to the pitcher and second basemen were misplayed, putting runners on first and second with no outs.

Paul McHenry singled to right scoring Jim Horning with CC's first run, and a two-out sinlge by Bill Parron brought home two more for a 3-0 Shamrocks' lead.

Catholc Central added another run in the following inning that drove Perkins from the mound.

A Mike Scanlon ground ball to second base was bobbled and two batters later, designated hitter Horning tripled to put CC up 4-0 at the end of four innings.

"The errors we made were mental mistakes, and there's no reason for committing those type of errors," said Crissey.

Canton chalked up its only two runs of the game in the fourth inning when they got their only two hits of the contest.

John Young connected for a lead off single and Dave Pink followed him with a walk.

Ken Britton singled home Young, and Pink scored the Chiefs' final run on a fielders choice.

Neither team posed a legitimate threat the rest of the way as Mormen hurled the last three innings with control as did Catholic Central's Rob Temple, who got credit for the victory in the second contest after being shellacked in the opener.

"I'd agree that we beat ourselves in the second game, but you have to admire Catholic Central for coming back the way they did," said Crissey. "We knew we were going to have to live with some mistakes in the beginning of the year, but I didn't count on as many that occurred in the second game."

The chiefs left Tuesday morning at 11:15 a.m. for a trip to Cincinnati to play a few of Ohio's finest prep teams.

Canton had single affairs on Wednesday and Thursday, with a doubleheader scheduled for Saturday, returning home late Saturday night.

Tigers rout Southgate

Scampering to victory in 14 of 16 events, Garden City West last week steamrollered an out-manned Southgate squad in the first Tri-River League track meet of the season, 108-24.

Out-manned is apparently the correct word to describe Southgate's situation, as West coach Bill Pinnell said several Sabers, taking an early Easter vacation, missed the meet.

Again spearheading the Tigers' attack were Don Herrick and Dave Havener. Herrick bested the field in the high and low hurdles and the 100-yard dash, while Havener placed first in the 220- and 440-yard dashes.

West finished one-two-three in the 100-yard dash, the long jump and the discus.

"I was pleased with our men in the 100," Pinnell said. "That was the first time we broke 11 seconds this year. I also think Herrick's times in the highs and lows (hurdles) were pretty good."

Don Frank also scored a pair of firsts for the Tigers, taking honors in the long jump and the 880-yard run.

Pinnell juggled his lineup in the late stages of the meet to give his second-line tracksters some experience in competition and to keep from completely embarrassing host Southgate.

Record smashed at Wolverine

Recognized officially as one of the five fastest harness tracks in North America, Wolverine Harness Raceway still wasn't quite prepared for what happened last weekend.

In 30 races from Monday through Saturday night, six horses blistered the big sweeping mile with sub-two-minute performances. Such an onslaught of speed is almost unheard of in the early spring.

Included among the two-minute miles, which are harness racing's standards of excellence, was an all-time track record trotting time of 1:58.4 by the eight-year-old horse Sirloin and driver Chris Boring of Adrian, Mich.

It was the first time in four years that a trotting horse had negotiated the Wolverine strip in two minutes or less.

"It was a great field of horses, and I knew at the half-mile that we were flying at a 1:59 clip," Boring said after the race. "But I didn't dream we could still all come down the stretch that fast. I just held on and steered."

The time erased a track mark of 1:59.2 set by Grandpa Jim and driver Dick Farrington back in September, 1971. Official U.S. Trotting Association figures show Sirloin's performance was the first sub-two-minute mile by a trotter anywhere in the nation thus far this year.

Sirloin is owned and trained by Charles A. Sylvester and his wife Sharon of Blissfield, Mich. The victory brought Sirloin's career earnings to $150,000.

Wolverine produced 57 two-minute miles in 1975, second only to Vernon Downs in New York. But this first week of 1976 is a strong indication that last year's high-water mark will be short-lived.

Many of the same horses will be back on the race cards this weekend. Despite harness competition from Windsor Raceway and a record-breaking thoroughbred meeting in progress at Hazel Park, Wolverine launched what looked like still another record season at the mutuel windows and at the turnstiles.

The handle of $734,923 last Monday was the best-ever for an opening night, while last Friday and Saturday's combined handle of $1,895,568 was a new record opening spring weekend for the Livonia plant.

Defense worries Bo

By W.W. EDGAR

There's something strange goin on in Ann Arbor—and right on the Michigan campus.

Bo Schembechler, the head football coach who usually is a symbol of optimism, is worrying—and not so much about his health since his recent hospitalization for a heart ailment.

In an exclusive interview before the annual spring game last Saturday, Bo admitted his plight.

"I'm worried—good and worried. No, not about my health, as I'm coming along fine. But I am worried about our defense. I don't know whether it will be strong enough.

Bo admitted that he was concerned about the middle guard spot and the strong safety position.

The fellows we have—Pat Watts, Tom Hellta, Roger Szafranski, Tom Seabron, an outside linebacker—can do the job, I believe, but we are not deep. We can't stand any losses in personnel.

"Our offense will be alright with Rick Leach at quarterback, Rob Lytle returning to a halfback role, Jim Smith at the other half and Harlan Huckleby at fullback.

"And I'm just a bit concerned, too, about the fact that in one of the national polls before spring practice ended Michigan was rated No. 1.

"That's enough to worry any coach—when you're rated No. 1 before practice ends. I hope the players don't take it seriously."

Shortly after the interview Bo saw the white team (No. 2) beat the Blue team (varsity), 13-0, in a game marked by strong defense.

This pleased him and he also had a chance to see several others who looked good. Among them was Roosevelt Smith, another Cass Tech star, and Cary Johnson, a quarterback who reminds him of Dennis Franklin and who is a better passer than Leach.

"Don't sell Leach short," Bo remarked. "He had a fine spring and his passing is much improved.

"But it is defense that has me worried."

St. Agatha tracksters show speed

Finishing first in 10 of 16 events including all three relays, Redford St. Agatha last week turned back Center Line St. Clement in a track encounter, 74½-57½.

Jim Petriches spearheaded the Aggies' victory parade by winning the long jump (19 feet eight and three quarters inches); the 100-yard dash (10.4 seconds) and the 220-yard dash (24.4 seconds).

Petriches also teamed with Brian Higgins, Bob Zimmerman and Mark Kohls to win the 440-yard relay.

St. Agatha, in fact, captured all the relays, with the quartet of Mike Semik, Dave Campo, Steve Peck and Higgins winning the 880-yard relay and the combo of Jim Kennedy, John Griffin, Peck and Zimmerman taking honors in the mile relay.

Other individual winners for the Aggies were Paul Churches, discus, (99 feet three inches); Tom Marino, two-mile run, (11:35); Griffin, mile run, (4:39.5); and Zimmerman, 440-yard run, (53.8 seconds).

Poodle show set

The Poodle Club of Southeast Michigan will sponsor a breed and obedience competition May 2 at the Macomb Mall in Roseville. The event is sanctioned by the American Kennel Club.

Specific information on the various classes, judging and fees may be obtained by contacting Mary Appelt, match chairman, at 538-1063, or Carolyn Wolfe, at 478-9236.

Miller's a hurler

Gordon Miller, a senior at Milligan College (Tenn.) and a Livonia resident, is listed as a member of the Buffs varsity baseball team for the 1976 season. Miller is a pitcher.

There's a seat for you with a perfect view.
DETROIT LIONS

IT'S SEASON TICKET TIME

The Detroit Lions invite you to be in on the action as they begin their second season in the new domed Pontiac Stadium.

Bolstered by the return of veterans who were injured last year and a heavy influx of new young talent, the Lions are looking forward to a Championship season. The Stadium Authority promises greatly improved parking and traffic control in 1976.

You should know that:

- Despite record-setting attendance last year, season tickets for 1976 still are available for you in the post-free stadium.
- Average attendance at the regular season games was 78,308 in the 80,000-seat arena... where every seat has an excellent view.
- But, if you still want to be assured of a good seat at all 10 home games this year, YOU SHOULD ACT NOW.

Season ticket applications are now being accepted from fans who want to watch the Lions battle such teams as the Minnesota Vikings, Miami Dolphins, Buffalo Bills, Baltimore Colts, Green Bay Packers, and the Chicago Bears among others this year.

The season ticket package, costing $100, assures you of the same seat for all 10 games.

Drop Ticket Manager Fred Otto a note right now asking him to reserve seats for you. A $10 Deposit for each season ticket is all that's required. Send a check or money order, made out to Detroit Lions, Inc., to:

Girls' track relays slated this weekend

One of the largest state gatherings of female prep tracksters will take place Saturday for the initial running of the Borgess-Ladywood Relays. Twenty teams, including eight from the area, have indicated that they will be on hand for the competition.

The relays will be held at Livonia Stevenson, 33500 Six Mile Road, just west of Farmington.

The proceedings get under way at 11 a.m. with the field events—high jump, long jump and discus. The running relays—shuttle hurdle, two-mile, 880, sprint medley, distance medley, 440 and mile—start at 12:30 p.m. The shot put begins at 1 p.m.

Area teams entered include Westland John Glenn, Garden City East, Garden City West, Plymouth Canton, Livonia Franklin, Livonia Stevenson, Redford Bishop Borgess and Ladywood.

Teasm from as far as Mt. Clemens, Monroe and Grand Ledge will also participate.

With the quality and quantity of participants, Ladywood Athletic Director Ray Holm is confident excellent times and distances will be recorded.

"Garden City West is good in the discus and shot put," Holm stated, "and Westland John Glenn is strong in the sprints. Plymouth Canton is good in the sprints and decent in the high jump, while Stevenson has a solid team everywhere.

"Franklin has good sprinters," Holm continued. "Bishop Borgess won the Spartan Relays and might win the state championship, but its whole team will not be represented at Saturday's relays."

The Ladywood athletic director said his school figures to be strongest in the distance relays.

The relays, Holm stated, is the combined work of John Dunn, girls track coach at Redford Bishop Borgess, and himself. "We wanted something for girls to match what the guys have going," Holm said.

"We wanted to have more than just the Spartan Relays." The Ladywood A.D. said he hopes the relays will become an annual affair and grow in size and prestige.

Tickets, at $1 for adults and 50 cents for students, will be available Saturday at the gate.

Medals will be awarded to all individuals on the top three teams in each event. Team trophies will be presented to the schools which score the highest and the second highest number of points.

Scoring will be based on an 8-6-5-4-3-2-1 system, with the winner of each event garnering eight points.

Best girl times

Area track coaches are encouraged to contact Redford Union coach Mike Krafchak, who is compiling the top girls' track and field performances of the season. He may be reached at 535-2000, extension 244 during the day.

BMW 530i
everything else will seem like basic transportation.
What is it that makes a car so exceptional that the editors of Road & Track magazine flatly proclaim it "...the best sports sedan in the world..."?
Technically, the BMW 530i is a unique combination of a turbine-smooth, 3 liter engine, supremely efficient electronic fuel-injection and a four-wheel independent suspension system that's a model for modern design.
Yet, to really comprehend exactly what makes the BMW the choice of serious drivers in all parts of the world, you must drive one. And we'd be happy to arrange a thorough test drive for you.
The ultimate driving machine.

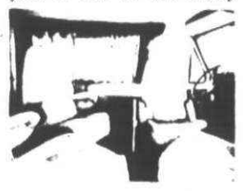
Customized Vans Galore at Bill Brown Ford

Take a van and add imagination and you've got what might be the ultimate in motoring enjoyment.

Special paint, special wheels and tires, a plush interior and a concert-hall stereo sound system can turn an ordinary van into a truly personalized means of transportation — something that is actually entertaining to drive.

Bill Brown Ford sold more vans last year than any other Ford dealer in Michigan and it's easy to see why. The pictures below show just a few of the many customized vans we have on display, priced lower than you might expect.



Bill Brown's got the vans, the imagination and the savings. All we need is you.

The closer you look, the better we look.

OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC CARRIERS DON'T HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT SUMMER JOBS

When school lets out for summer break, many students start looking for summer jobs ... anything, just to make a little money. But Observer & Eccentric carriers don't have to worry about these scarce summer jobs. They have a job all year long. And it only takes a few hours a week. That leaves plenty of time for study during the school year, and lots of time for fun during the summer.

Besides earning money, Observer & Eccentric carriers gain valuable experience in operating their own business ventures: learning how to deal pleasantly with people, the responsibility of collecting and keeping proper records, and the value of dependability. Carriers also have a chance to grow in self-sufficiency and self-esteem. Throughout the year, special prizes, trips, and other bonuses reward the carriers for good service and work habits.

It's a great way to earn money all year long without giving up the other things in life. For more information on Observer & Eccentric routes, call the Circulation Department today, or mail the coupon below.
