Bloc grant OK'd

By EMORY DANIELS

Plymouth and Plymouth Township have lost some $90,000 in federal bloc grant funds. Both communities may receive the money back, but will be unable to spend the money as planned in an earlier application.

The information came Friday afternoon in an announcement made by Joe Guggenheim, director of the Coalition for Bloc Grant Compliance based in Detroit.

The Coalition challenged some 27 different projects involving $600,000 in bloc grant funds requested for by those communities applying through Wayne County. Of those challenges, 10 projects totalling about $300,000 were accepted by the U.S. Office of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Guggenheim said the Coalition challenged funding of a project in Canton but HUD ruled it felt the Canton activity was justified and will be funded as requested.

The $300,000 is part of the total of $2.65 million which Wayne County planning office applied to HUD for in 1976 on behalf of the participating communities, including Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships. The bloc grant money is funded by HUD under the Community Development Act of 1974 which places high priority for funding on benefits for low and moderate-income families.

OTHER MONIES applied for by Plymouth and Plymouth Township were approved by HUD. The funds which HUD disallowed, explained Guggenheim, will be placed in a pool by the county and be available for other communities unless specific requests are made before Aug. 1.

"The communities who had funds disallowed will be given until Aug. 1 to make another request to the county for use of that money," he added. "If HUD approves the alternative use, the communities involved won't lose any funding at all. If not, then the money will be re-allocated by the county to communities with housing rehabilitation programs."

Money disallowed for Plymouth Township included $32,000 for a storm sewer effort to encourage development and $34,000 to have a drive and parking lot at the township's recreation site. The funds disallowed for the City of Plymouth was $29,250 for a design study for parking.

CITY MANAGER Fred Yockey said Friday he knew the city was being directed by HUD that the money couldn't be used for the parking study but was unaware the funds were disallowed.

"It wasn't my understanding that there was any chance of the city losing the funds, but only that HUD was disapproving our use of the funds for a parking design study.

"The parking study had a priority of five in our application with four others being considered more important by the city. I was told by the county that our sixth priority will now become number five and the $29,250 we wanted for the parking study will be used for our sixth priority."

Guggenheim said the basis for the disapprovals was a new HUD regulation which resulted from a complaint filed April 9 by the Coalition. On May 12, he added, HUD changed its regulations and said each single activity within an application for bloc grant funds must be justified. Previously, the entire application had to be justified but not individual projects within the total request.

Under the bloc grant requirements, he explained, each project activity must aid low and moderate-income families, prevent or eliminate blight or be specifically justified on an urgency basis.

INCLUDED IN CANTON'S 1976 application was a request for funds for tennis courts and baseball fields.

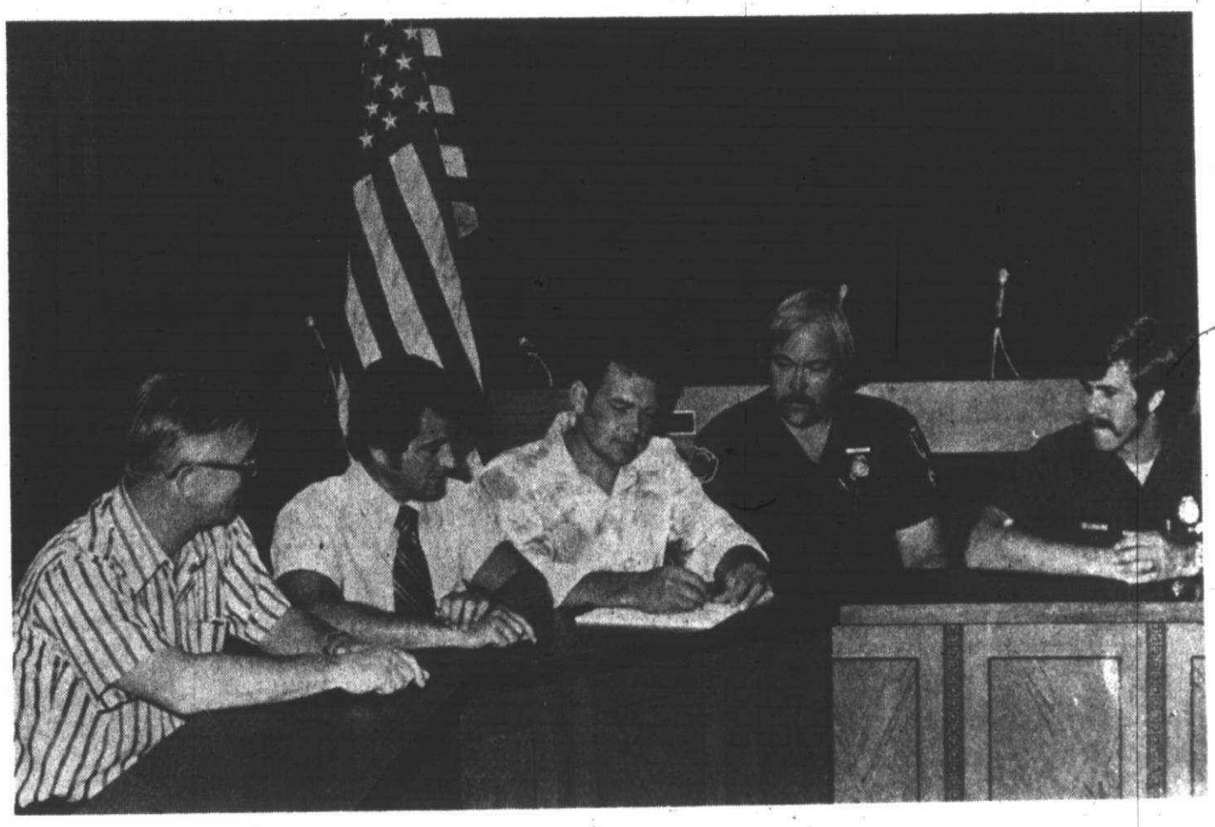

"The Coalition challenged that part of the application because we didn't feel tennis courts, where they were proposed to be located, were especially beneficial for low and moderate-income families.

"But HUD felt that use was justified based on the percentage of low income persons living in Canton. Canton has three census tracts and although the recreation improvements were slated for a tract that didn't contain the lowest income areas HUD felt it was close enough that it would be used. The facilities are for community-wide use and HUD felt the low-income areas were geographically close enough to justify the expenditure."

Of the three census tracts in Canton, one has 24 per cent of its residents with low income, another 35 per cent, and the third with 38 per cent. HUD defines low income as $10,000 a year for grant criteria purposes.

The other communities in Wayne County affected by the HUD action include: Grosse Ile, $29,000 planned for fire protection equipment and water line study; Southgate, $76,000 for tennis courts and paving programs; Wynadotte, $50,000 for lighted tennis courts and tree plantings; Woodhaven, $53,000 for a fire station; and Grosse Pointe, about $20,000 for street resurfacing.

The Coalition, funded primarily by the Episcopal Church, is a group of civil rights, neighborhood organizations, and housing action groups who have joined to promote development of adequate housing for low- and moderate-income families.

Contract agreement

After two years of talking, bargaining and more talking, Canton firefighters and members of the township board came to agreement on the firefighters' first union contract. Directors say reserves no problem

By RICHARD GOLD

There is no trouble with the Canton reserves and the Michigan Police Reserve Training Council.

That's the word from Fred Peterson and John Hart, two of 10 members on the board of directors of the reserve training school.

Peterson, director of public relations for the training school, said the academy never considered removing Canton's students from the school, contrary to what director Al Stewart said.

Stewart told the Observer & Eccentric last week that the board of directors of the school were considering expelling Canton's class unless Supervisor Robert Greenstein publicly explained Canton's students were only getting 100 hours of training at the academy.

According to Peterson and Hart, the school's first deputy director, John Hart, that is incorrect.

"The way I understood it, there was a concern about material published that indicated the reserves were getting in excess of 150 hours training," Peterson said.

"Greenstein offered to write a letter explaining the recruits were only getting 100 hours at the school, and that any other training they were getting was on their own.

"BUT AS FAR as I'm concerned, there was never a question as to whether or not they'd be kept in.

"We discussed the problem with Greenstein, and he understood our concerns—he volunteered to write the letter."

Petersen and Hart said a letter to Greenstein had been drafted, but that "in discussing in the matter" the board felt it was unnecessary to give it to him.

"The letter was not distributed, and, in effect, not given to him," Petersen said.

He added, "There are no problems with Canton."

Hart said the board never considered removing Canton's recruits from the program, but that the board had a concern about the number of hours of training recruits were getting at the academy.

"A couple of people made reference to 150 hours in the papers, and we wanted the record straight. Greenstein said it was no problem, he'd take care of it.

"As far as we were concerned, the matter was resolved, and it was never supposed to come up for discussion Thursday night.

"There was never any ultimatum given. We were just asking for a clarification."

Hart said if Greenstein had not reacted the way he did, the board might have presented him with a letter demanding the correction.

But he said it never came to that.

"He saw the error, and he was most cooperative. It was just some recruits defending the program in earnest."

Stewart, who was not at the Thursday night meeting of the reserve training council, told the Observer & Eccentric he would not respond until he saw a copy of the edition in which he was quoted.

Willow Run fate up in air

Canton officials may or may not agree to share the cost of a feasibility study, concerning the joint ownership and operation of Willow Run Airport with other townships in Wayne and Washtenaw counties.

According to Canton Supervisor Robert Greenstein, members of the township planning commission will offer a recommendation to the township board on the feasibility study matter, after Van Buren Township Supervisor Elton Gollwitzer determines the study's cost later this summer.

Gollwitzer said an airport commission, composed of Van Buren and Ypsilanti Township officials, has already received some bids for the feasibility study. Commission members will probably award the contract after the Aug. 3 primary, he said, and ask Canton officials if they care to participate.

Members of the Canton Board of Trustees and Planning Commission earlier this month agreed to consider participating in the joint ownership and operation of Willow Run Airport, if the townships could obtain the facility for a nominal fee. The University of Michigan, present owner of the airport, is expected to deed the facility to its new owners for $1, according to Gollwitzer.

Gollwitzer, fearing that the Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC) would purchase and expand Willow Run Airport, asked Canton officials to consider the joint purchase and operation with other area townships.

Although the WCRC has announced its intention to abandon a 1972 expansion plan for Willow Run, Gollwitzer fears the Road Commission could change its mind once it holds the airport deed.

If the commission proceeded with its 1972 plan, Gollwitzer says a wide path of Canton land, running to the southern boundary of the township between Beck and Morton-Taylor, would fall beneath the flight pattern as would a wide range of land in Van Buren and Ypsilanti townships.

Gollwitzer feels the only way to stop the expansion of Willow Run is to own it. To get approval of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Gollwitzer has learned the townships must first conduct a feasibility study and prove they can operate the airport.

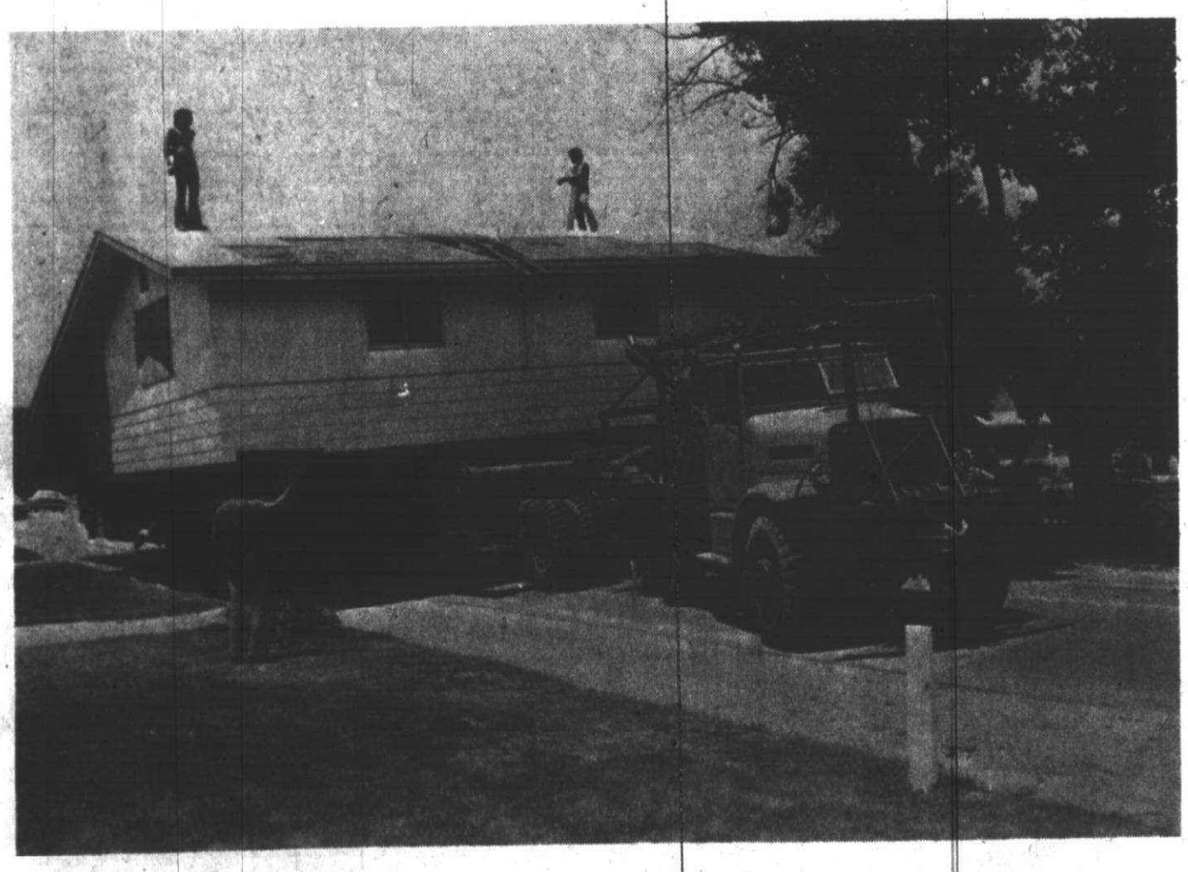

"We were very encouraged by their attitude," Gollwitzer said of a recent trip to FAA regional headquarters in Chicago. "I think they're favorable to us, but they were unable to give us any specifics.

"It was kind of a chicken and the egg situation," he said. "They couldn't tell us the cost of operations and upgrading, until they knew what we wanted to do. And they couldn't tell us what we could do, until they knew the cost."

According to Gollwitzer and Greenstein, joint revenue bonds sold by an airport authority could finance the facility's operation.

But, according to Greenstein, Canton's participation in the project rides on many "ifs."

"We're not buying anything," the supervisor stressed. "We just said we'd consider participating if we got the airport free of charge."

Local ladies take part in Ms. Wheelchair contest

Two local residents participated in an unusual pageant—the Ms. Wheelchair Michigan Pageant—Saturday night at Madonna College, Livonia.

Among the many participants were Canton residents Margaret Chmielewski, sponsored by the Plymouth Jaycees, and Donna McGuire, sponsored by the Canton Jaycees.

THE PURPOSE of the pageant is to recognize a Michigan woman for her poise, personality and accomplishment—despite a handicap.

The pageant is co-sponosred by the Michigan Mobility Awareness Team and the Livonia Jaycees.

Ms. McGuire of 41021 Michigan Avenue is president of the Friendship Club at the Easter Seal Center in Inkster.

Mrs. Chmielewski of 44126 Leeann Lane is a housewife and mother who has earned a BA and MA, both from Wayne State University. Phil Soper, president of the Plymouth Jaycees, says he is very impressed with the string of her accomplishments. "What she has done in her life would be an impressive record for anyone," he says. "But is especially outstanding when you consider she is handicapped."

MRS. CHMIELEWSKI has been confined to a wheelchair since July, 1963, when her spinal cord was severed in a car accident. She became permanently paralyzed and confined to a wheelchair.

"If it were not for the intenseness of therapy and counseling from my family and doctor," she recalls, "I fear I could not have achieved what I have. The credit goes to them.

"My personality as a teenager had always been a fiery one; therefore it took no great pains to fight for what I wanted—wheelchair or no. Just getting out of bed in the morning wasn't easy anymore, but this was just my first struggle for independence."

In 1964, she graduated with her class at St. Alphonsus in Dearborn. The accident had occurred prior to her senior year in high school, yet she earned a scholarship despite eight months in the hospital which interrupted her high school career.

"This scholarship enabled me to go to college—something I had not planned to do before I was injured," she explains. "My family felt I could go on to a career, despite my handicap. So there I was in the fall of 1964 on Wayne State's campus. Important at this time for my independence was my living at the dorm and driving my own car."

During her undergraduate work, she became involved with Delta Zeta national sorority as secretary and recording secretary, and she founded the little sisters of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity. In her senior year at WSU, she was nominated for the Grace Mason Lundy Award, given to the nation's top DZ senior.

In 1969, she was chairman for the Panhellenic Sing, an event which involved 11 national sorority chapters with an audience of 1,350 in the Art Institute auditorium.

While attending WSU, she worked part-

Board tables consultant hiring

Members of the township board last week postponed action on hiring a Washington-based consultant to help Canton in its applications for federal dollars.

By a vote of 5-1, with Supervisor Robert Greenstein dissenting and Trustee Brian Schwall absent, the board tabled a decision to hire Linton Associates to assist Canton in gaining federal aid.

Treasurer Carl Parsell introduced the idea, commenting, "Two or three months ago when I was in Washington for Bill Ford's day, I talked to Ford's office about how to get assistance in obtaining grants and Ron Linton was introduced to us.

"For $250 a month, he will represent our interest and we will have a direct contact with an office in Washington. We can sign a contract for a trial period of 90 days to six months.

"I'd recommend we consider signing a contract for six months to see what benefits we can derive for the total township."

Parsell said Canton's congressmen have been of limited assistance in the past, and that a consultant would be a plus, noting that a single trip to the nation's capital costs more than $250.

ACCORDING TO Parsell, Linton Associates has already signed contracts with 19 downriver communities, Westland and Wayne County to perform various tasks.

Trustee Gerald Cheske said the downriver communities, which pay $100 a month to the consultant for limited services, are happy with him. He said Westland had recently approved a contract and will pay the consultant $13-14,000 annually for his services.

"He will charge us $50 an hour for what we ask him to do," Parsell explained. "He won't do research unless we ask, but he will be our consultant in Washington. He's an attorney, but he will act as a consultant for us. We are buying five hours a month for $250."

The treasurer said Canton would have to pay the consultant for anything above five hours a month, but extra research would have to be approved by the township board.

Trustee Robert Myers asked the decision be delayed.

"We should table this for two weeks. I've seen no resume and the blanks in the contract aren't filled in. I want time to check him out."

Parsell responded, "If you had any questions, when you got this in your packet you could have called anyone to ask those questions. You could have called Westland, Wayne County or the 19 downriver communities, or any office of the township.

"I just don't understand why you aren't ready to vote tonight."

Myers said he had attempted to call Greenstein several times but was unable to reach the supervisor.

The supervisor, however, was unmoved. "It's about time the trustees stop sitting around waiting for the administration to do all the work. We came up with a recommendation and you aren't ready to vote. Why don't you go out and find someone?"

Myers moved to table and Cheske seconded the motion, but not before commenting, "I'm ready to vote and I think we have the necessary information to vote. I got it, and so could you Mr. Myers."

Following the vote, which will table the matter until the next board meeting, Greenstein exploded, "This is super ridiculous. The township will be in the dark ages forever."

20 years service

State Rep. Tom Brown (D-Westland) hands Clerk John Flodin a plaque from the State House honoring Flodin for 20 years of service as the township clerk. Flodin began his reign as clerk in 1956 and hasn't quit going yet. Brown introduced the resolution to the house.

Computer teaching raises eyebrows

By MARILYN FITCHETT

The computer age has come to P.D. Graham, and at least one Wayne-Westland trustee isn't happy about it.

In a presentation at a board meeting last week, Graham Principal Jim Jennings described a plan for the school to computerize such traditional teacher roles as grading papers, maintaining student records and generating student reports.

The project is an extension of Graham's federally financed Accountability Based Curriculum (ABC) program. The computer program is called CIMS (Computerized Instructional Management System) and will be tested on a volunteer group of 15 sixth grade students who will receive supplemental math and reading instruction with their progress logged by the computer.

Graham, one of th newest Wayne-Westland schools, offers team teaching and multi-grade classes for students.

Although Jennings presented a report to the board, the board was not expected to vote on the item because CIMS is not a new project but an extension of the ABC program.

BUT WILLIAM WHITE said he objected to the program and argued that while computers may offer savings in time, they do not help to add to the quality of student life. After his argument, White offered no motion to vote on the program.

"While I've been to Graham and approve of the programs there, I can't help but become more suspicious with the more complex management systems," White said.

"My own suspicions about computers is that we're not freeing up people from busy work to do people work. All we're doing is speeding things up. This is tilting us toward things that can be measured and examined and away from things that can't be measured like curiosity and warmth.

"I can say that I have never been so disturbed about any curriculum item as I am about this. We will move away from people. The more technical we become, the more divided we become as a nation."

White also feared that students might be more easily "tracked" by a computer than by more traditional means of teaching.

"Tracking is when, after nine weeks, you give a child an A, B or C," Jennings answered, "It's not when a computer tells a teacher she shouldn't be teaching a certain item because the child doesn't have the prerequisite skills."

BOB O'DELL, a computer consultant from the Macomb Intermediate School District, which is providing the computer terminal for Graham, disputed White's claims.

"A computer can't measure human qualities because it's not human," O'Dell said. "But it can do all the nasty work so a teacher has the time to sit down with a student rather than using the time to correct papers."

Trustee Agnes Greene also expressed her disdain for computers.

"I hate computers. I don't want to be a number. Where are we going to get an evaluation to show that a child is happy in school or if he's adjusting properly. But I know it's there because I've been to Graham."

During the year, the Graham staff will receive training from the Michigan Department of Education and Macomb Intermediate District to "bank" local objectives, test items and resources.

A new system, GAIN (Graham Automate Instructional Network), will be created using Graham systems which have been five years in development. New structures of reports will also be developed to try to meet the needs of individualized, team-taught, mutli-aged, multi-text elementary program.

The CIMS material include a computer system that scores and analyzes tests, keeps records and generates reports.

It will also catalogue skills which lists reading and math skills to be learned and an index of resources which keys instructional materials to skills in the catalogue.

The system will also provide progress, prescriptive and resource reports for use by teachers, students, administrators, tutors and parents.

During the summer of 1977, Graham's GAIN system will undergo field testing with summer school students from all grade levels. The district believes the computer system will be in effect at Graham during the 1977-78 school year.

Computer facitilites and technical assistance will be provided by the Macomb district, with computer hardware provided by the Michigan Department of Education.

Fire chiefs to fight Chessie delays

By W.W. EDGAR

The Chessie Railroad system that has been criticized, cursed and maligned no end through the years for the long delays at the railroad crossings is now going ot be attacked from a new angle.

Claiming that the long delays are hazardous to the health, safety and welfare of the area, the fire chiefs of the City of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township are planning a meeting within the next two weeks to carry their case to the railroad officials.

"We have endured these long delays at the crossings long enough," said Plymouth Chief George Schoenneman in announcing the meeting. Chiefs Jim Gignac in Plymouth Township and Mel Paulun in Canton agree the time has come for some definite action.

WHEN THE CHIEFS confront the railroad officials, they will ask that the various trains be speeded through the entire area and that monitors be placed in each of the fire stations so that the firefighters, who also answer ambulance calls, will be alerted at all times when delays are necessary.

"Now that the railroad is approving longer trains (many with more than 130 cars and three engines) there is no reason why they should go through here at a snail's pace," Schoenneman said.

"The railroad has four tracks, and the trains could do their switching and other work without tying up the crossings."

Schoenneman was told that one day last week the crossing on Main Street, only a few blocks from city hall, was blocked for 45 minutes between 11 a.m. and noon. It was reportedly a long train with three engines, and for at least 15 minutes, witnesses said, the train was stopped entirely.

"Those are the things we want eliminated," Schoenneman said, "These delays bring long tie-ups in traffic. These tie-ups cause the air to be fouled as the autos emit gases, and there always is the danger that humans will try to cross and get hit by autos. The entire setup bedcomes hazardous."

The Plymouth chief didn't mention it, but he was looking at and admiring the new ambulance recently purchased by the city.

"We are equipped now to make fast runs," he said later, "and a delay at the rialroad crossing could be a matter of life and death."

THE ACTION OF the fire chiefs is the latest in a series of moves over the past decade to have the railroad crossing problem solved.

All that has been done in that period is to set up a series of fines when a crossing is tied up more than five minutes. In such cases, the complainant must report the caboose or engine number to city hall or township hall. Usually, the railroad receives a fine of $50-$75.

At one time, there was talk of an overpass or an underpass, and former city commissioner George Hudson unveiled a plan one night to combine the Starkweather and Main Street crossings with a big circular pass. Nothing ever came of it.

Later, at a public meeting, the railroad officials, realizing the discomfort of the long delays, announced they were more than willing to pay their share of an overpass or an underpass. But the costs to the city or townships are almost prohibitive.

Meanwhile, the long delays have become longer, and, as Chief Schoenneman pointed out, if an ambulance were caught on the way to a hospital, it could be a matter of life and death.

"That's why we fire chiefs are getting together," he said. "We are concerned with the health, safety and welfare of our people. It is time that something concrete is done."

While no date has been set for the proposed meeting, Schoenneman wants it as soon as possible.

time at Henry Ford Hospital in the pathology lab, helping to initiate a computer program for all surgical and autopsy reports.

"Early in 1969, I did my student teaching at Grosse Pointe North High, after a long struggle with the Detroit Board of Education which then had a policy against hiring the handicapped," she says.

She graduated in June, 1969 with a combined degree in liberal arts and education, majoring in secondary English education. "It was then that I struck out for independence by living in my own apartment," she recalls.

The following September she began teaching for Our Lady of the Sea High in Grosse Pointe. Besides teaching English, she was advisor for the yearbook, chess club and forensics team.

AFTER TEACHING for a while, Mrs. Chmielewski returned to WSU to work on a master's in guidance and counseling. She went back to her job at Ford Hospital and began to subsitute teach in Grosse Pointe schools.

She also worked part-time at Macomb County Community College as a student counselor and became involved with counseling on weekends at Milan Federal Prison. "I must admit the prison counseling was the single most gratifying experience in my work," she says.

She again became active in her sorority, and, in 1970, made a trip to the national convention in Phoenix—alone.

In December, 1972, she earned her master's degree. A year later she married Jim Chmielewski. She then joined the teaching staff at Bishop Borgess High in Redford Township as an English teacher. She also taught speech classes at night for Wayne County Community College.

AND THEN CAME a very special event in Mrs. Chmielewski's life:

"All I had strived to achieve those last few years were forgotten for the moment as I found, in early 1974, I was pregnant. I delivered a healthy boy in September of that year. My little Mark is a joy to both Jim and I as we watch his world grow and he in it.

"Now, life is just as busy as ever, what with an active child, a husband, and an Irish setter keeping me going all day.

"On Sundays I am a lector at Blessed John Neuman parish in Canton. During the past year I tutored a young man in basic reading. I have always prided myself in shooting a good game of pool—I carry my own cue—playing chess, Ping-Pong, and skeet shooting.

"My husband and I just bought our new home in Canton and are working hard to decorate it. I strive to make a comfortable home for my family, which is at most times a hectic job. I plan to have more children and to return to my career when they are all in school.

"All in all," she concludes, "I am pleased with what I have accomplished since 1963 and hope that my life has touched others in some slight measure.

"Let it suffice to say I am pleased with what I am and what I wish to become, unobstructed by the fact that I have limitations others do not."

Among those speaking highly of Mrs. Chmielewski was Dr. Arthur B. Eisenbrey, M.D., who supervised her initial care when she was injured at age 16. "Despite long periods of extreme pain and almost fixation to a bed," he says, "she has maintained a remarkable sense of proportion and sense of humor and each time surmounted the difficulties and returned to a remarkably active life as a truly participating member of society. She is a remarkably attractive woman, both physically and mentally, and I'm sure has always been a delight to those about her."

Also speaking highly of her courage is Bishop Thomas J. Gumbleton, auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese of Detroit. "I have nown Marge for a number of years . . . she has mastered a number of things that many people never accomplish even without the burden of a wheelchair. But the most outstanding feature is not her academic ability, high though that is. Rather, it is her spirit.

"There were countless times when quitting would have been so much easier—and perhaps even a bit more practical. But Marge Chmielewski is not a quitter. Her determination and self-confidence have brought her through some very difficult days."

Tower to go

The water tower near Wilcox and Schoolcraft roads in Plymouth Township will be moved tomorrow (Tuesday). The state highway department gave the moving contract to Ministrelli Construction Co. which subcontracted the work to the Abair Co. of Florida. The new base has been constructed and workmen have begun jacking up the tower and preparing to lay tracks to move the tower to its new site. The tower must be moved because of the route of the I-275 freeway. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Mobil, Moeller's stay knotted in women's play

Plymouth/Canton Observer & Eccentric

SPORTS

4A (P,C) Monday, July 19, 1976

In the men's B division last week, Dearborn Fabricating was knocked out of first place by lowly Good's Nursery, which had only won two games previously. It looked like another easy win for Dearborn as they went out in front, 9-1, in the top of the fourth, capped by a two-run homer by Dan Divito.

But Good's came back with four runs in the bottom of the fourth on successive singles by Bob Bush, Pat White and Ed Good, a walk and a costly error at first, and a single by Joe Daritony. Good's tallied six more times in the sixth on eight hits, including a triple by Tom Kastelic.

But in the top of the seventh, Fab had the bases loaded with two outs, and the tying run on third. Jim Whitton hit a routine grounder to Steve Furr at shortstop, who flipped to Ed Good for the force at second, but Good dropped the ball as the score was knotted 13-13.

In the bottom half of the seventh, Good's made two quick outs, but Daritony lofted a single to right, and Gordie Hicke charged the ball too hard as the ball rolled off his glove, allowing Daritony to go all the way to third.

Manager Larry Durkin of Dearborn decided to walk the next two men intentionally to load the bases, setting up a force at any base. But the strategy backfired as Durkin then walked Steve Furr to bring in pinch-runner Russ Scott with the winning run.

Clark Block and Little Caesar's both picked up victories to move back into the top spot of their division.

Little Caesar's had an easy time with sputtering Kmart, 13-4, with the help of a seven-run fourth inning, as they banged out seven hits, including successive triples by Claude Tunison and Rondy Williams.

Clark Block had a tough time with Strock Insurance, beating them 11-9, as Strock had the tying run on base and the winning run at plate in the last inning. Doug Reynolds and Joe Lawson had three safeties apiece for the winners.

Meijer Thrifty Acres won their second game in a row, knocking Star Furniture out of the pennant race with a 9-5 victory. Ron Stepek pitched his second victory of the season in only two appearances, and also homered and singled to aid his own cause.

This week is the big week in the B division, as both Clark Block and Little Caesar play four games, including each other and Dearborn Fab.

Only two games were played in the A division last week as rain cancelled the games Tuesday and Wednesday.

Smith Realty squeaked by Perlongo 6-5—and they were lucky to do it—to stay in the race mathematically behind McMurray Insurance which did not play.

Perlongo went ahead 3-2 in the third on a double by Ken Caksackkar, a walk to Doyle Cates, and a two-run triple by John Lash. Tim Fotovich then drove in Lash with a single. Smith came back with two runs in the fifth on a single by Steve Styles a triple by Bill Bufe, and a sacrifice fly by Chuck Morris.

In the sixth, Lash hit a two-run homer to put Perlongo ahead 5-4, but in the bottom of the seventh, Smith had Tom Yack on first with a single and one out.

Bufe hit a double-play ball to short, but Cacsackkar booted it and then threw wild to first to score Yack, and Bufe went to second.

Chuck Morris singled, and Greg Fryling drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly.

In the other A division game, Plymouth Equipment blasted Latin Quarter 12-4. Pat Zelek had four hits, including two doubles, for the winners.

Smith Realty is two games behind McMurray in the loss column, and those two teams face each other next Monday, the last day of the season.

In the women's league, Moeller and Mobil Lounge both came up with victories to remain deadlocked in first place with only one game remaining.

Mobil Lounge had a surprisingly easy time with Meijer, 24-5. Joleen Melaas had three singles, and Carol Smith belted out a double, triple and two long home runs for 10 RBI's. Shelly Arner and Vickie Wilhelm homered for the losers.

Moeller took care of winless College Park, 24-16, as they tallied 18 runs in the first inning. But College Park came back with 14 runs of their own in the third to put a scare into Moeller. Moeller came back with six runs in their half of the third to put it away. Terry Oelke, June Beachum and Pat Nanny hit consecutive home runs for Moeller in the third, and Pam also belted out two doubles and a single to give her 10 hits in her last two games.

This week's action sees Mobil Lounge having the easier game as they face College Park, and Moeller must beat Meijers which has been tough on Moeller this year. Should both Moeller and Mobil Lounge win, a playoff will be necessary next week.

DiPonio falls; Canton splits

By ANDY MELIN

DiPonio had a tough time last week, losing all three of their scheduled games, to drop their season record to 5-8.

Their first loss was a squeaker to the Dearborn Slaytons last Wednesday, 7-5.

DiPonio could only muster seven hits against the first-place Slaytons. Two of those hits were triples, one coming from Bob Waite, the other from Mike Michalek.

Michalek's triple brought in two DiPonio runners.

Third baseman Danny Palubinski had another good game collecting two singles in four at bats.

John Marshall and Doug Holloway combined in the pitching department for DiPonio. Marshall was the losing pitcher, going the first three innings, as Holloway came in to finish the ballgame. The combination of Marshall and Holloway allowed the Slaytons nine hits.

Pitcher Doug Holloway started the second half of the Mantle season in good fashion, this time not on the mound, but at the plate. He went three-for-three against the Slaytons—all singles.

Last Friday, the DiPonio nine were beaten again, falling to Allen Park, 14-3.

Bruce Piper was the losing pitcher for DiPonio. Piper was relieved by John Marshall and John Holdsworth.

"It was one of those nights when we couldn't do anything right," commented manager Mike Michalek. "That was due, of course, to the lack of hitting."

DiPonio's big stick that night was Waite, who had three hits in four at bats.

Sunday, it was another tight contest. Again, DiPonio ended up on the losing side, this time falling to American division leading Windsor, 7-6.

Manager Michalek stated, "It was a good, close ballgame, but it was our hitting again." In the seventh inning, DiPonio had bases loaded and one out, and couldn't produce.

The big sticks this game were Bruce Piper, who had two triples; Doug Holloway, who maintained a 1.000 batting average by getting two hits in two at bats; and Dave Wilcox, who belted a bases loaded triple which brought in three DiPonio runs.

Holloway was the losing pitcher. He went the distance for DiPonio.

Canton split two games last week, winning Saturday against Fairlane, and losing Sunday to Mic Mac.

Saturday, Canton outlasted Fairlane, winning in nine innings, 9-7.

Scott Collins led the Canton hitting attack by getting three hits in four at bats. Two of his hits were singles, and the other a home run. Ray Smock also had a three-for-four effort, all three of his hits were singles.

Jay McKinley was the winning pitcher for Canton. He went the first five innings and then got relief help from Dale Albright, who finished the game.

Last Sunday, Canton lost in extra innings to Mic Mac, 3-2. Jim Canfield was the starting pitcher for Canton. He went the first seven innings, gave up two runs on six hits, and fanned 11 Mic Mac batters.

Dale Albright was the losing pitcher. He pitched the eighth inning, and allowed the winning run to score on two hits and two walks.

Collins was again Canton's big hitter, as he went two-for-four. His two hits were a double, and another home run.

Canton began the scoring in the first inning, then Mic Mac tied it up in the third inning at 1-1. Canton scored another run in the sixth, but in the seventh, Mic Mac evened it up again. Mic Mac then won the game in the eighth inning on two base hits, an intentional walk, and a walk.

Pierce: elderly need more federal help

Ed Pierce, Democratic candidate for the 2d Congressional District nomination, urged increased "federal attention to the problems of senior citizens," calling the plight of older persons "one of my chief concerns and one of the most important problems facing Americans today."

The candidate in the Aug. 3 primary, called inflation, uneven medical care and the tendency of society to shunt the elderly aside as the chief problems facing older Americans.

Pierce, an Ann Arbor doctor who operates the Summit Medical Center, which provides low-cost medical care to the needy, made his comments recently in a meeting in Ypsilanti's Jefferson Hall on the Eastern Michigan University campus.

"It is clear to me, from experience with many elderly patients in my medical practice, that inflation takes its worst toll on senior citizens, most of whom live on pensions, Social Security, and other fixed incomes," he said.

"The next Congress must do all in its power to fight inflation, and must also make sure that Social Security benefits remain at a decent level in line with the cost of living."

Pierce said that seniors will benefit with the approval of a comprehensive, economical health insurance plan. Until such approval, the congress should eliminate the confusing $60 deductable that elderly persons have to pay for "Part B" doctors' services and by allowing long-term medicines to be covered by Medicare.

"We need to realize that older Americans can still be active and productive members of our society, if only we will give them a chance and allow them to participate," Pierce said.

"Our Social Security sytem must not penalize those who can still make a few dollars by their own efforts. We must not just retire our senior citizens without considering them, but rather use them as the experienced and valuable resource they can be."

Stempien endorsed by AFL-CIO council

Marvin Stempien, Democratic candidate for the 2d Congressional District nomination in the Aug. 3 primary, has been endorsed by the Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO Council.

Stempien, a Livonia attorney, said that he has won the AFL-CIO endorsements in two of the three counties in the district as well as those of the Greater Detroit Building Trades Council and the National Association of Letter Carriers.

"I am certainly pleased to add the Metro Detroit AFL-CIO Council endorsement to to the list because, of the three county groups, the Wayne County Council has the largest membership," Stempien said.

He said the endorsements of the unions indicate the support of working men and women for his candidacy.

"In my years in the state Legislature, my voting record showed that I care about the working men and women of our community and their families," he said.

"These endorsements for my candidacy for Congress are, in part, a recognition of that record," he concluded.

New students get oriented at Madonna

Livonia students attended new student orientation activities at Madonna College recently.

Livonia students at the orientation were Sheila Ghannam, Denise Burk, Lisa McKalis, Roxanne Bergman, Judy Pauli, Jacki Poulos, Wesley McKee, Lisa Rizzo, Robin Gniewek, Robert Grima, Anita Galeana, Linda Fitzgerald, Mrs. Rosemund DeRenzo, Vally Parker, Jean Montgomery, Sue Appicelli and Heather Stants.

The students met with Sr. Mary Francilene, academic dean at Madonna, who described requirements for completion of associate and bachelor's degrees at the college. Other members of the administration were introduced at the orientation and students had the opportunity to pre-register for September classes.

Madonna is a co-educational liberal arts college with an enrollment of about 2,000 students.

Water camp set for area scouts at Livonia Y

The Livonia Family Y, 14255 Stark, is offering an aquatic camp for area scouts the week of Aug. 23.

The camp will offer swimming, water safety and small craft skills needed to receive merit badges.

The program will be held from 8-11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday with a fee of $10 per scout. All skills will be taught by qualified instructors, a Y spokesman said.

Persons may register or get more information by calling the Y at 261-2161.

Todd C. Ritter, has been awarded the highest rank of scouting the Eagle award. For the past two years Ritter has been patrol leader or assistant in Troop 270 of Livonia which is sponsored by the Rosedale Presbyterian Church. Ritter, of 9613 Blackburn, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ritter. The highlight of his summer is an adventure trip in Philmont, New Mexico.

Trowbridge: post office should compete

Ron Trowbrige, Republican candidate for the 2d Congressional district seat in Washington, has recommended that the federal government allow private firms to carry first-class mail.

Trowbridge, a city councilman from Ann Arbor, faces Carl Pursell in the Aug. 3 primary.

"It's a funny thing," said Trowbridge, "that the postal service must first request that the 13-cent stamp be made 'permanent' before it can apply for another increase. In the language of the bureaucrats, 'permanent' really seems to mean temporary.

Trowbridge warned of recent predictions that a first-class stamp could cost 17 cents by early 1977.

"More subsidies aren't the answer," said Trowbridge. "They only encourage further waste. Like most people, I never worried about the government monopoly on delivering mail until the recent spate of price increases.

"Now, I wonder. We can choose between several car manufacturers, so why can't we have a choice of mail carriers too? The answer is that we can, of course."

ICC rapped by Trowbridge

Ron Trowbridge, Republican candidate for Congress in the 2d district, wants the Interstate Commerce Commission abolished.

Trowbridge made his remarks in an address to the Civitan Club of Plymouth in the Mayflower Hotel. The candidate is an Ann Arbor city councilman and a professor at Eastern Michigan University.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission was authorized to protect consumers," said Trowbridge, "and farmers especially, from railroad monopolies in the 19th century. Since then the emergence of road and air transport have made the threat of a railroad monopoly almost meaningless."

Trowbridge says that when the "consumers no longer seemed to need protection from the railroads" the ICC began to "protect the railroads from the consumers."

He claims that the transportation industry needs "healthy competition and not regulation."

"Trucking companies too have come under ICC jurisdiction, and are increasingly dominated by the corrupt and powerful Teamsters Union," said Trowbridge.

"There should be an orderly transition from government regulation to free competiton," said Trowbridge.

He recommended that ICC functions be removed gradually over a five-year period.

4 students are 'elected'

Four Livonia students at Olivet College were elected to high government posts in a simulation-government exercise at the 36th Annual American Legion's "Girl's State."

Jill Ochalek of 14174 Loveland, was elected mayor of McCauley City from the Federalist Party.

Nancy Parshall of 20330 Fremont, assumed the post of county commissioner from Volkers City to Hunt County.

Carolyn Dolmat of 18622 Golfview, was elected state attorney general from the Federalist Party.

Martha Luckham of 15675 Alpine, was sent to the state Senate on the Nationalist Party slate.

During the week-long exercise and mock election, the women heard advice on politics from public officials.

The Stroller

Needed: another Horatio Alger

By W.W. EDGAR

It wasn't too surprising that during the lull, waiting for a second cup of coffee, that the discussion at the luncheon table turned to politics.

For weeks on end, the air had been filled with preachments of the candidates—what they stood for and what they promised.

And for a time they held interest at the national convention, but, on the theory that a fellow can get sick from eating ice cream, the diners voiced their opinion that they have had enough.

"I've had it up to here," commented Big Bill, "and I'm sick of hearing promises. It's about time we did something to turn the country around."

There was silence for a moment or two when another member of the luncheon club asked, "Do any of you fellows remember the comment of Justice John Marshall some years ago.?"

Then, to refresh our memories, he continued, "The good judge, tired of listening to promises, said, "What this country needs is a good five cent cigar."

WELL, WE'RE never going to get a good five cent cigar," commented another.? "The nickel cigar has gone the way of the three cent stamp and the 10 cent phone call. They're gone forever."

While his listeners sat quiet a moment or two, and while the coffee was being poured, he continued.

"What we need most in this country at the moment is another Horatio Alger."

Some of the younger diners didn't recall the name, but years ago when The Stroller was a mere youth, Horatio Alger was the most popular author in the land.

He turned out volume after volume on thext rise of the young men who pulled themselves up by their own boot straps to become successes in life.

His books in those days were a real inspiration to the youth of the land. Such volumes as "Tom, the Boot Black," caught the fancy of the youngsters as they strove to follow the lead of the young fellow who started as a shoe-shiner—one of the lowest forms of employment at the time.

"Horatio Alger pointed out to the young men of his day that America was a land of opportunity—that there was a chance for everybody who wanted to work," our diner explained.

THERE ARE no such authors today. Likewise, there are no such books on the shelves of the libraries. So, as a result, that method of inspiring youth is long gone.

Now and then we hear of some young fellows who—spurning the "Easy" way of life by getting a a job for a short time and then relying on unemployment compensation and living without working—take matters into their own hands and climb the ladder of success.

As the discussion continued, The Stroller couldn't help recalling the days of his youth when the young lads scurried around for jobs after school—and sometimes before the morning bell rang—to help with the raising of the family.

This was in the days before such things as unemployment compensation, food stamps and the like. Folks were on their own and welfare was scorned.

The Stroller well recalls his mother, a widow, trying to raise her family, hired out as a house cleaner, scrubbed floors and on odd days took in washing. Welfare was the furthest thing from her mind.

When welfare was mentioned or a chance remark that the County Poor House was available, most folks squirmed. They had too much pride to accept anything for nothing. They wanted to earn it just as "Tom, the Bootblack," and the other of the famous characters did in Horatio Alger's books.

It's just too bad his like is not around today.

Exchange student shares impressions

By MADILYNNE MULLEAGUE

Monika Rothe has returned home to Germany and has taken with her many happy memories of her new friends and experiences here.

Monika is a 17-year-old foreign exchange student from Germany who has been spending the past year with the Thomas Dean family of 44148 Brandywine, Plymouth.

AS A SENIOR at Plymouth Salem High, she had the opportunity to see how teenagers in America live. The school system is different here, however, than what she was used to and the young German girl had a little difficulty adjusting at first.

"In the beginning, I did not like it," she remarked. "But I think you have a better opportunity here to learn."

One of the things Monika enjoyed most during her school year was the high school sports program. Organized sports don't play as important a part in German schools as they do here.

"We don't have quite so much at home. There is some soccer and swimming, but it is not like it is here."

Besides playing volleyball, and learning to play baseball, Monika participated in water sports. She was an active member of the Salem girls' swim team and competed in swim meets throughout the area.

MONIKA, whose hometown is situated among the Alps of southern Germany, found Michigan's landscape rather unexciting.

"It is so flat here. I miss the mountains and hills. My home is 20 miles from Munich, and there are many mountains."

During her stay in Plymouth, Monika had a chance to see American mountains as she traveled quite a bit, seeing more of the country and continent than the average American teenager.

Besides visiting the many attractions around Detroit, she went south with her host family, through Washington, DC, and down into Florida. She also toured the western part of the country when she accompanied another Salem exchange student and her host family on a trip to California.

While there, she got to see several California sights, including Disneyland, plus taking a side trip to Mexico. She even spent some time in Aspen, Colo.—one of the ski capitals of the nation.

Monika got a special Easter suprise last spring when her older brother came from Germany to visit. "He got to see me at graduation and I went with him on a short trip to Toronoto."

WHEN ASKED what she missed most during her stay in this country, Monika replied that she really didn't care for American food, and she missed the things she used to eat at home.

"I especially don't like your white bread. It is too soft, and it tastes funny."

She did, however, enjoy American hamburgers and ice cream, which she said is much better than back home.

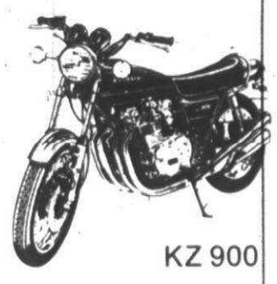

This fall, Monika will return to school in Germany. Because the educational system is different there, she will be expected to complete three more years. She is hoping, however, that her school will give her credit for the time she has spent at Plymouth Salem.

ANNUAL ARTS AND CRAFTS show sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council during Plymouth Fall Festival is less than two months away. PCAC members Bess Decker, Dee Schulte, Elise Murphy and Joan Wehmeyer have been screening artists and craftsmen for the two-day show, Sept. 11 and 12, in Central Middle School.

SUMMER CAMP wasn't all fun and games for Janet Gottschalk and Becky Hirner. The two local residents passed written and physical tests which qualified them as teachers in Red Cross aquatic and first-aid classes.

They attended the Red Cross Safety School at Camp Copneconic near Fenton.

To earn their water safety instructor certificates, they participated daily in 10 hours of instruction for seven days, spending at least six hours each day in the water.

In spite of the hard work, there was time for some camp fun. Different groups got together and made up songs and skits aimed in fun at their fellow campers.

There was also a get-acquainted dance and a special graduation ceremony on the last day.

IF YOU ARE DRIVING along Waukazoo Road north of Traverse City, keep an eye open for for the second largest purple beech tree in Michigan. It is in the front yard of an old New England cottage.

Lois and Ed Mitchell of Ann Street spent many winter and spring weekends working on the cottage gith Lois' mother, Peg Harding of Farmington. Members of the Plymouth Symphony League and antiquers will remember Mrs. Harding as an exhibitor at the league's antique marts years ago.

According to architect Ed Mitchell, the cottage was drastically modernized in the '50s. They have been restoring the natural charm, and Mitchell says, "It has to be one of the most tastefully decorated houses I've ever seen."

The old cottage is being transformed to a tea room. It is now "The Beech Tree,," and this summer is serving box lunches.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON Parents Without Partners now has enough members to petition the international headquarters for a chapter charter.

Officers in the club are: Ross Snow, president; John Bonfiglio, vice president; Betty Zbranchik, treasurer; Ann Werner, recording secretary and corresponding secretary; and Jan Nowland, ethics and grievance.

Directors are: Nancy Miller, membership and member services; Joan Silver, program, public information and delegate; Mary Jane MacDonald, program and delegate; John Bonfiglio, delegate and adult activities; and Gail Druilard, family activities.

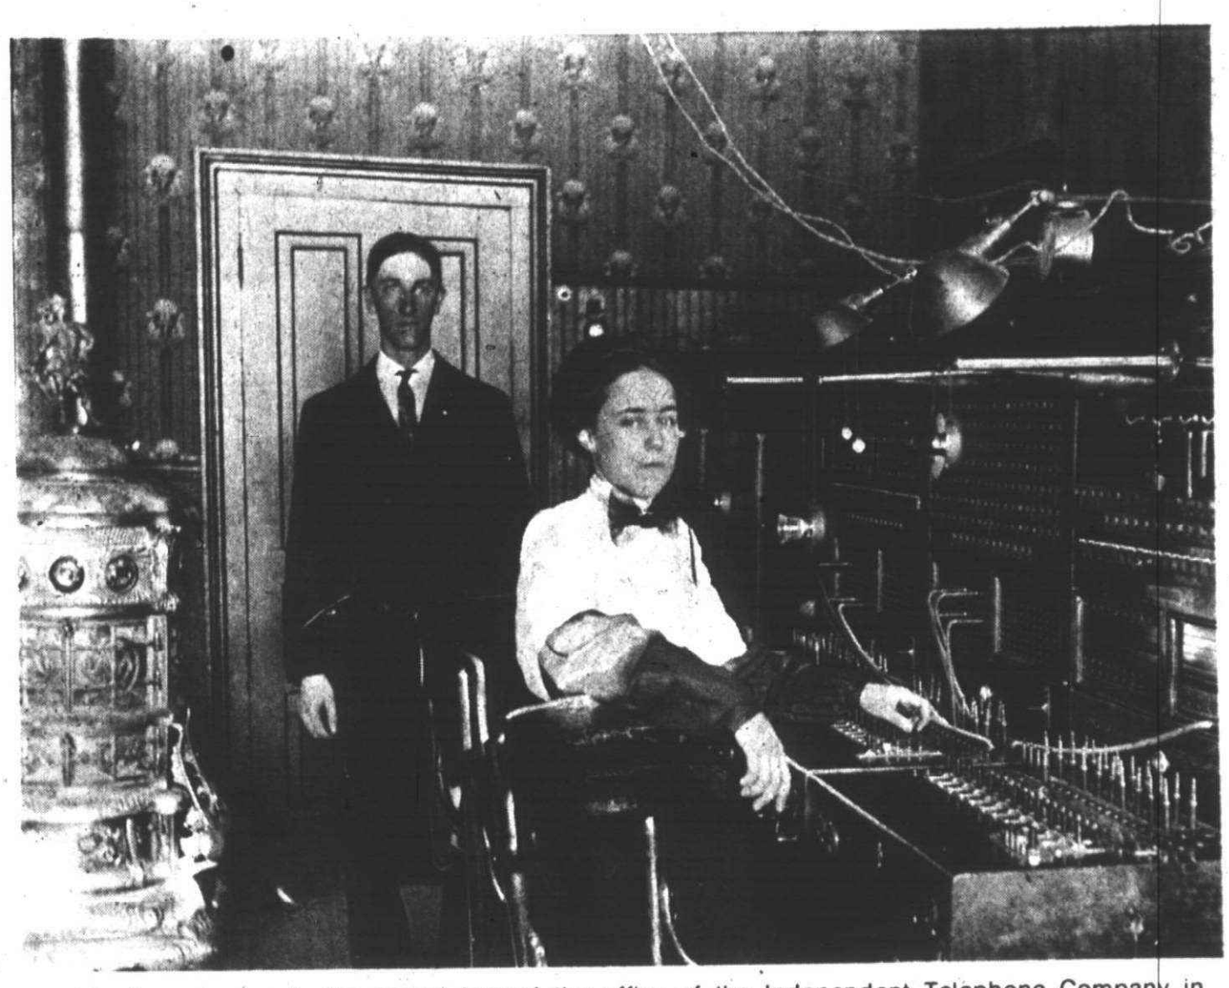

General meetings are first and dhird Thursdays in the American Legion Hall, 888 N. Shelon, Plymouth. Other activities planned for the month of July include Monday golf, bicycling with children, a dance at Bonnie Brook July 24, Johnny Mathis Concert at Pine Knob July 25, and a house party July 30.

Mrs. Silver says new members will be welcomed. To be eligible, a person must be be the parent of one or more living children and widowed, divorced, separated, or never married.

'Hello, Central: Give me heaven'

Mrs. William Kaiser recalled her days as a telephone operator with the Independent Telephone Company in the pre-World War I days. She still has the postcard (above) which shows her in high-necked blouse and sleeve protectors at the switchboard in the little office on Ann Arbor Trail. (Staff photo by Elinor Graham)

The base burner in the corner heated the office of the Independent Telephone Company in Plymouth. Al Lyons was lineman, and Irma Fisher operated the switchboard.

By ELINOR GRAHAM

We probably feel a little closer to Michigan Bell right now than we did when they were right next door to our Main Street office. Since they moved to Livonia, we meet a steady stream of their customers who come in, telephone bill in hand, wanting to know who will take their money.

We direct them to our neighbors in First National Bank of Plymouth and think back to the days when the telephone office was almost the hub of community life.

There was a time when there were two telephone companies in town. The Bell Telephone office was on Main street and the Independent Telephone Company was housed in a little building on Ann Arbor Trail, across the street from Kellogg Park.

"It was next door to Fifer's Meat Market," recalls Mrs. William Kaiser who was one of two girls who worked the switchboards for the Independent company.

MRS. KAISER was Irma Fisher in those days when she worked eight hours a day, seven days a week.

"I lived in what they call Old Village now," said Mrs. Kaiser. "And it was a long cold walk on winter mornings. I had to be at work at 6. But I was dressed for it and I didn't mind."

Al Lyons was the lineman, Chauncey Rauch was manager, and Edna McKeever was the other operator.

"Wyn Hubbell who lived on the corner of Harvey and William was the night operator."

When there was a fire, Mrs. Kaiser said everybody in town called to ask where it was.

The rural areas had 12 to 14 parties on one line, each with his own ring—a long and a short, two longs and a short and so on.

"And of course they listened in," she said. Every one knew what was going on with everyone else on the party line.

SHE LAUGHED as she told of the time the night operator at the depot called. He said, "Hello Central, give me heaven."

"I rang his girl friend," said Mrs. Kaiser. "I never heard any more about it, so I guess I did the right thing.

"There were some calls you could depend on. J.D. McLaren's father had several mills and he called each one of them every morning."

About once a year they had to go to the Lansing headquarters of the company. This was something they looked forward to—the trip to Lansing on the train and dinner in the dining car on the way home.

BY 1937, when Effie Kuisel started to work for the telephone company, the Independent Company was gone. They worked in a building on Ann Arbor Trail, across from the park, and there were 13 operators. They were no longer called "central."

The drop keys had been replaced by new switchboards with lights. There were now three digits in the local telephone numbers. And they had an added responsibility—it was their duty to sound the fire alarm. They pushed the button which activated the siren in city hall.

When Plymouth was made a toll center, operators were trained to handle long distance calls. Until then, they had been routed through Detroit.

"Long distance calls were more interesting," said Mrs. Kuisel. "We routed them all the way through and estimated the cost."

There were regular and long distance operators and the latter had to have special training for the job.

MRS. KUISEL recalled the night of Orson Welles' Martian radio program, when everyone in the counry believed the end was near.

The late Iva Bessey was working that night when suddenly the whole switchboard lit up. It didn't take her long to realize there was no way she could handle the situation.

Breaking the cardinal rule of telephone operators, Ms. Bessey listened to a patron's conversation to discover what was going on. She heard that the end of the world was imminent and Plymouth residents were calling both friends and family and enemies—to say their goodbyes or make their peace.

The Glenview numbers came with the dial telephones and there are still GL numbers in the telephone directory. Residents mourned the loss of their small "telephone book" and resented being lumped together with Livonia, Garden City, and the whole West-Northwest Area. It was a loss of identity that aroused mutinous feelings.

THE PLYMOUTH-CANTON area now includes GL3, 453, 455, 459 and 981 numbers. In Many cases, the number reveals when a family moved to to the area or when a business was opened.

There are predictions that within five years the use of a telephone will replace the exchange of money.

Simply by punching the numbers on your telephone you will be able to pay your rent, your taxes, utility bills, charge accounts and your plumber.

The days of "Hello Central, give me heaven." are long gone.

Inspiration

Doll houses have reached a new high in popularity. Parents and retirees have discovered that building and furnishing a doll house is a project which two persons can share and lend their talents equally. Whether they buy or make the house and furniture they will find inspiration in the miniatures, handmade by Joanne Luers Hennessy, on display in Muriel's Doll House on Penniman Avenue in Plymouth. Rockettes No. 1

Plymouth Salem High School Rockettes returned from a five-day seminar at Ferris State College last Friday with a trophy and individual ribbons proclaiming them best in the state.

"The trophy is for the showcase at the school," said Ann Stirton, captain of the group. "The ribbons are for us to keep."

The Rockettes competed with 12 other state high school teams in the American Scholastic Drill Team association event. They also won first prize in Plymouth's Fourth of July parade.

The girls practice for two hours each day after school. They perform at football and basketball games and put on a show at the end of the school year. They choreograph their own drills and usually have a dunk tank at the Plymouth Fall Festival to help finance their appearances.

While at Ferris, they learned a new routines each morning. Their performance was evaluated at the end of the day. Seven seniors, seven juniors and one sophomore attended the camp.

They were: Cindy Flora, Vicki Holmen, Loree Jacobson, Cindy Kay, Terri Kohler, Jan Matthews, Sue McCormick, Missy Moon, Jana Powell, Karen Schemenauer, Karole Skorina, Terri Stack, Miss Stirton, Corrinne Tallman and Janelle Wine.

The group was originally formed by the late Evelyn Shier who worked in the library of the high school. The Rockettes became an integral part of high school sports scene.

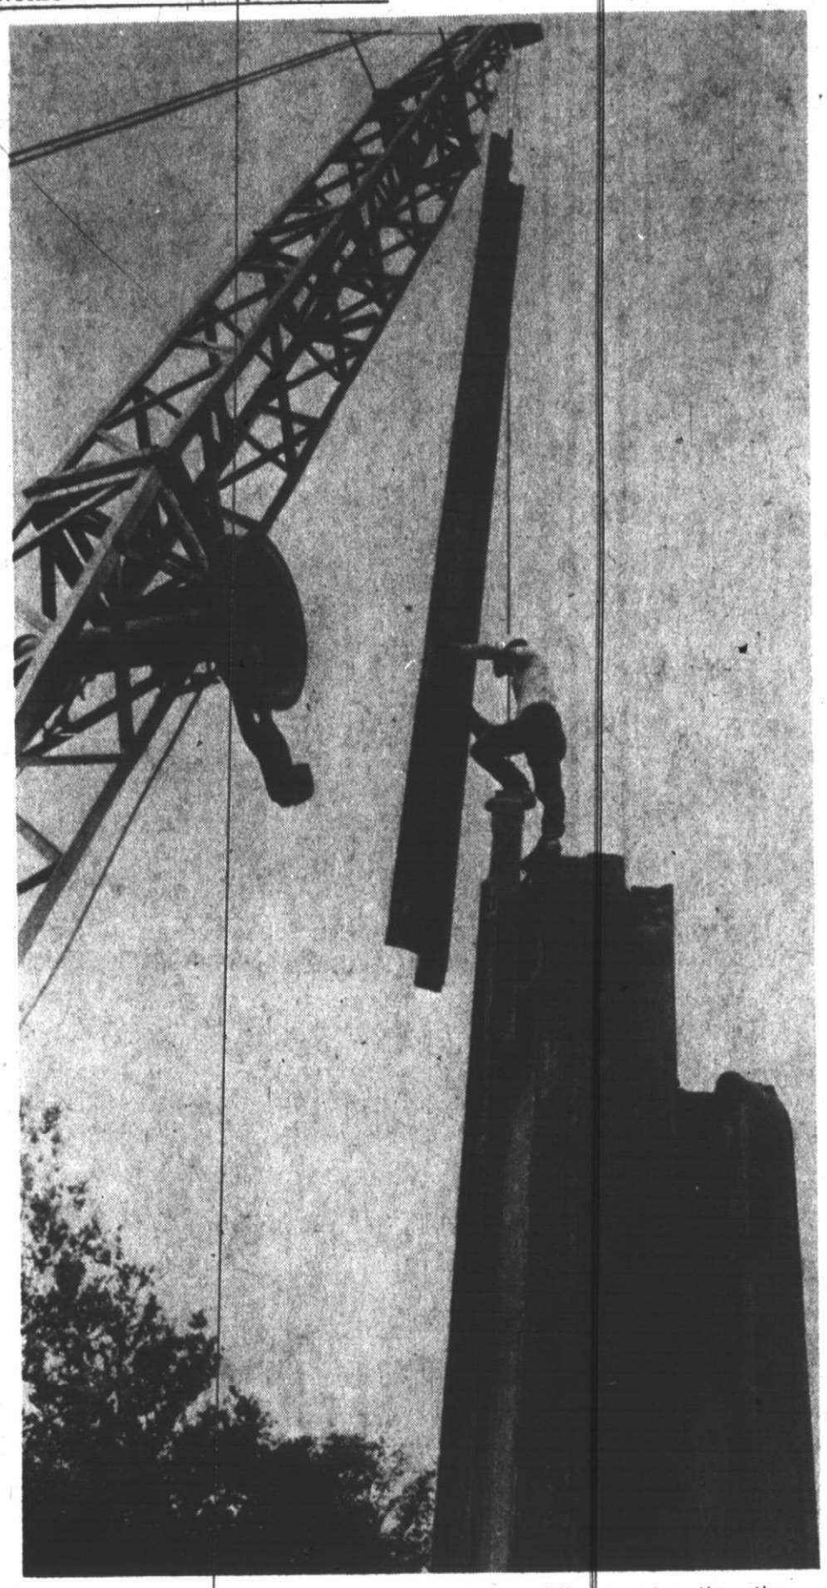

Members of last year's Rockette team also were awarded first place honors at the ASDTA camp.

Sidewalk sales set

The annual sidewalk sales will be held in downtown Plymouth July 30-31.

The event, sponsored by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce retailers, will feature more than two dozen local businesses in the downtown with discount merchandize in front of their stores. Shopping areas at Sheldon and Ann Arbor roads also will be participating. The sales start promptly at 9 a.m. Friday and run until 9 p.m., resuming at 9 a.m. Saturday until normal closing hours.

"We expect large crowds for this annual summertime affair," says Laura Mysona from the Chamber's retail committee.

Walkway to the island being built at Wilcox

By W.W. EDGAR

Great ideas oftimes come from the strangest sources.

Take the case of Bob McCracken, a member of the contracting firm which is building the road from the main land to the island in Wilcox Lake and the fishing docks that are to bring pleasure to area fishermen.

Standing on the bank of the lake, he looked across to the island, then back to the mainland, and the area being blocked off for the ice skating pond.

"What's the matter with the people out here?, " he asked. "This could be a beautiful area—that is more beautiful than it is now—if they'd just get busy!"

MANY PEOPLE have spoken in this manner in the past, but Bob didn't stop until he outlined a program for both summer and winter pleasure for many.

When told that it would cost an awful lot of money to dredge the lake, he countered:

"One hand could wash the other. If we took the dirt from the bottom of the lake, we could build a great ski hill. What a sight that could be—even in the summer time.

"Recreation people always are looking for something. This is right here—made to order for them. The ski hill would draw many people to the Plymouth area—just as would the fish in the lake.

What's more, the mud and muck in the lake wouldn't be wasted."

McCracken, as a contractor that did most of the dredging for the fish docks and the road from the mainland to the island, may have a method in his views of what could be done with the lake. But his idea is something different.

OVER THE PAST decade or two, several plans have been discussed for the beauty and use of Wilcox Lake. Something always came about to stop them from being accomplished.

At one time, there was a plan to erect a fountain (more like a geyser) on the island and display colored lights. It was to be much like Old Faithful, the popular fountain in Yellow Stone National Park.

It was offered as a plan to lure people from the expressways when M-14 is completed. But the idea died before it ever got off the ground. The same was true of plans for an old side-wheeler boat to ply the waters and give the Plymouth area a showboat much like those in Lowell and Chesaning, that are so popular.

So far, nothing has been done. But now McCracken has an idea to dredge the lake and build a ski hill. He thinks Hines Park should be made more worthwhile and offered his idea as a step in that direction.

Editor:

I really have no idea of who to write this to directly, so I'll write it to you for all to see.

I took part in the Bicentennial Lantern Passing Mile today, and I must say I was somewhat upset with the end of it and I'll tell you why.

My year was 1976. I signed up for it, I paid for it, and I stood in line for the complete half hour, even though I'm nine months pregnant. I stood beside Mr. Sopher and his family (who could vouch the truth of my story).

As the lantern made its way to Mr. Sopher's family to pass to me, (as I was last in line to receive the lantern), a very rude woman came up behind me and told me to move down to make room for her and her little girl.

This made the woman last in line to receive the lantern and then take it to the mayor.

This woman had no ribbon whatsoever indicating she was in the event, nor did she even stand in the line the half hour, but it was she who received the recognition of being the one to give the lantern to the mayor.

I'll admit that I would have liked the recognition. I'm not proud. After all, I paid for it and stood in the line for it, not her. Thank you for hearing me out and I hope the lady learns mannersin the future.

Who stole Uncle Sam?

Editor:

Happy bicentennial!

After weeks of planning, sawing, sanding, assembling, and painting, my 12-year-old son's life-size "Uncle Sam" flagstand virtually came to be. The final phases of the facial paint tones were drying July 2.

He applied a coat of clear plasdic to protect his "red, white, and blue" on July 3; and on the Fourth of July, he was proudly standing curbside holding "Old Glory" at our city's finest parade.

Unpatriotic vandals spoiled my son's celebration on our country's happiest birthday, however.

That night, as we attended the fireworks display and "Uncle Sam" was standing sentinel on our front porch, vandals stole Uncle Sam, Old Glory and all.

If anyone finds Uncle Sam, wherever he may have been discarded, you can make a 12-year-old very happy by returning him.

Other Salem students who attended the tournament were Mike Bologna and Mary Ploughman. Salem students John Moote, Amy Santer, Sharon Bosche, Jeff Ivey and Rick Mosteller are scheduled to attend the Northern Michigan University Debate Institute in July.

Ann Arbor prepares for art festival and fair

More than 700 artists and craftspeople are preparing their wares for the 1976 Summer Arts Festival July 21-24, scheduled in conjunction with the Ann Arbor Street Fair.

This is the sixth year for the multimedia event, located both on Main Street and on the central campus. The festival is coordinated by The University of Michigan Artists and Craftsmen Guild.

Five hundred booths will feature pottery, weaving, jewelry, painting, leaded glass, metal sculpture, batik, woodwork, macrame, and leather goods. Handmade musical instruments, apple sculpture, puppets, needlepoint canvasses, and dough art will be among some of the more unusual offerings.

A group of U-M art students initiated the festival in 1971 as an outlet for students and nonprofessional local artists. With little organization, no advance registration or other costs, the first annual "Free Arts Festival" proved successful. By the following summer, it included some 200 participants, entertainment, food services and a children's activity area.

Afterward, a group of the participants joined with the University Activities Center and formed the Artists and Craftsmen Guild, which now has more than 600 members and 350 persons on a waiting list.

"Although the Guild now sponsors workshops, a newsletter, and other events, the Summer Arts Festival is its major undertaking," said coordinator Celeste Melis. "So we've had to limit membership to a number we can accommodate."

Since many of the original Guild members have relocated, participants in the fair will come from as far as Florida, California, and the Virgin Islands.

Casting Call

A casting call has been issued for a children's play to be sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission and the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford for Tuesday, July 20 and Wednesday, July 21 at 7:30 in the guild theatre building, 15138 Beech-Daly, south of Five Mile Rd.

Creative talent, acting improvisation, mime, dancing and singing, or playing of a musical instrument will be needed for the show to be produced in late August. Junior and senior high students as well as adults are invited to try out.

HOW OUR TENDER LOVIN' COLD STORAGE WAREHOUSE HELPS YOU

YES! WE'VE GOT A TENDER LOVIN' COLD STORAGE WAREHOUSE...and...we've had it for over a year now. Our Tender Lovin' Cold Storage Warehouse is located in our Lansing Distribution Center facilities and serves all of our stores. It's the central receiving and distribution area for a wide variety of our meat products and frozen foods. It serves all our stores.

SO WHAT? How does this help you as a consumer? Let's look at two ways...cost and quality.

COST! Receiving the bulk of our meat products centrally with modern equipment and storage facilities helps us to do a better job. We can keep our stores better supplied. When the stores cut and package the meat, you get the freshest meat...when you want it. It helps us cut costs by having less waste and less paperwork through central receiving and distribution...This allows us to offer you...the consumer, the finest values.

NOW...QUALITY! Central receiving allows us to have a better check on quality. Ideal temperature levels can be maintained and our personnel have better control of the meat and other products we sell.

TENDER LOVIN' MEAT PEOPLE ...that's us! And we're proud of our Meijer Cold Storage Warehouse; because, it helps us serve you...better.

Today...Dexatrim™ One-A-Day Capsules and Diet Plan can help you

LOSE FAT FAST

The most powerful appetite suppressant available without prescription

ONE A·DAY Timed Release Capsule

Reduces Your Appetite So You Can Shed Excess Fat Fast...

Now there's an easier way to reduce—the new Dexatrim one-a-day capsule diet plan with the most powerful appetite suppressant you can get without prescription. Developed after years of medical research, the Dexatrim Plan can help you shed pounds and inches without fad diets, tough exercise or expensive treatments. Dexatrim's clinically tested ingredients proved so effective they have been published in a documented report to physicians in a leading medical journal.

Lose weight without going hungry

Mid-morning, as your appetite peaks, take the "timed action" Dexatrim capsule. Gradually, it releases its powerful appetite-suppressant in small, effective doses to fight hunger hour after hour. Now with your appetite curbed you eat 3 good meals, 3 tasty snacks as you follow the low-calorie Dexatrim "Body Beautiful" Diet Plan. You eat the same good foods you fix for the family but you eat less, nutritiously while losing pounds and inches faster as your body burns up excess fat instead of storing it.

Don't be fat! Start losing weight today. Get new Dexatrim one-a-day capsules and diet plan! It is guaranteed to work for you or your money back in full from the manufacturer.

DEXATRIM'S 5-WAY ACTION

1. Curbs your appetite with the most powerful appetite suppressant sold without prescription.
2. Helps counteract hunger throughout most of the day, not just at mealtime but between meals too.
3. An effective stimulant ingredient helps you feel more active, alert as your weight goes down.
4. Gentle diuretic action helps your body eliminate excess water.
5. New meal-planner diet book helps you "eat thin" deliciously, so pounds and inches drop away faster, leaving your body slim & trim.

FOUR RED WING 76-77 SEASON HOCKEY TICKETS

Fill out coupon on the back cover and mail today to Season Ticket Contest. You may be the lucky one to win four Red Wing season tickets. Contest closes August 15, 1976.

Become a season ticket holder now, and enjoy an exciting hockey season

Season ticket holders receive special VIP treatment at Olympia, so become a part of the Red Wing hockey scene. Just look at the many advantages available:

1. The option to buy an exclusive membership in the Olympia or Wing-Hi Rooms, allowing you or your guests to have pre-game dinner, relaxing with your favorite beverage.

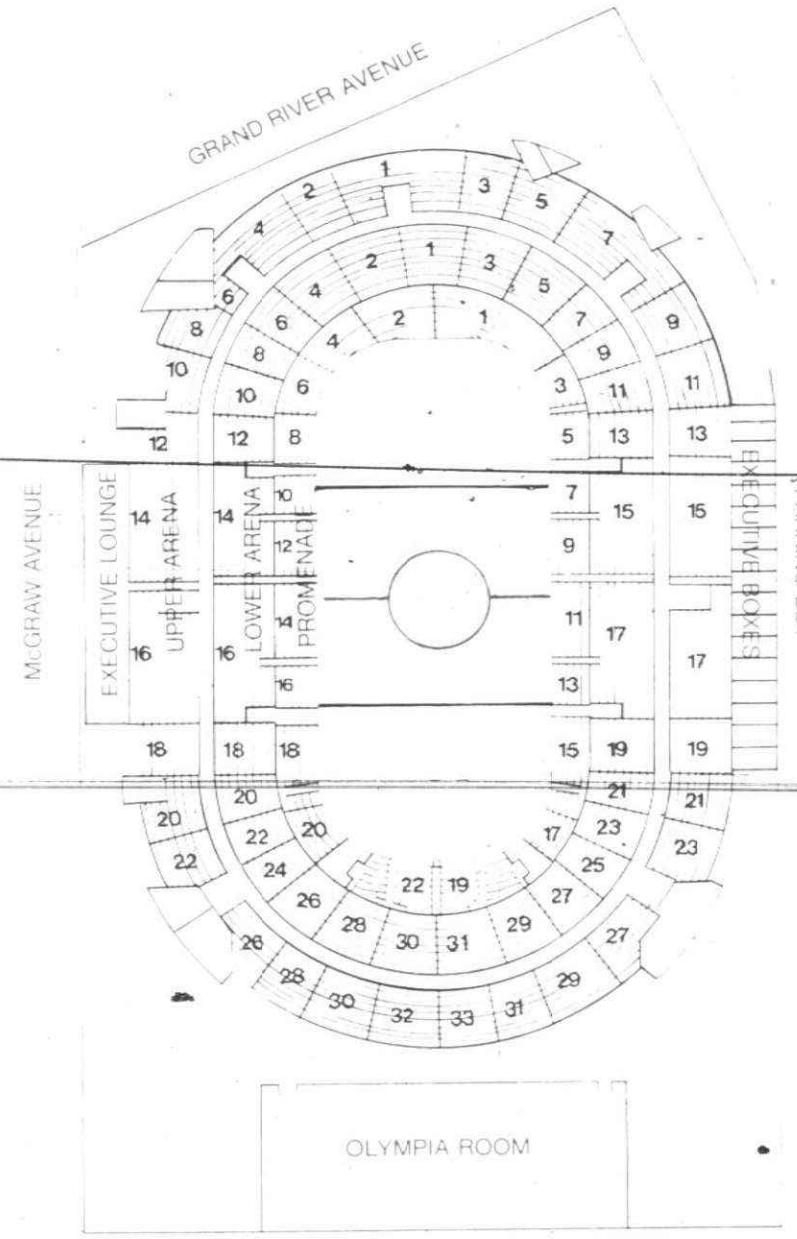

2. Pre-season opportunity to schedule reserved parking in the fenced main lot immediately adjacent to the Olympia.

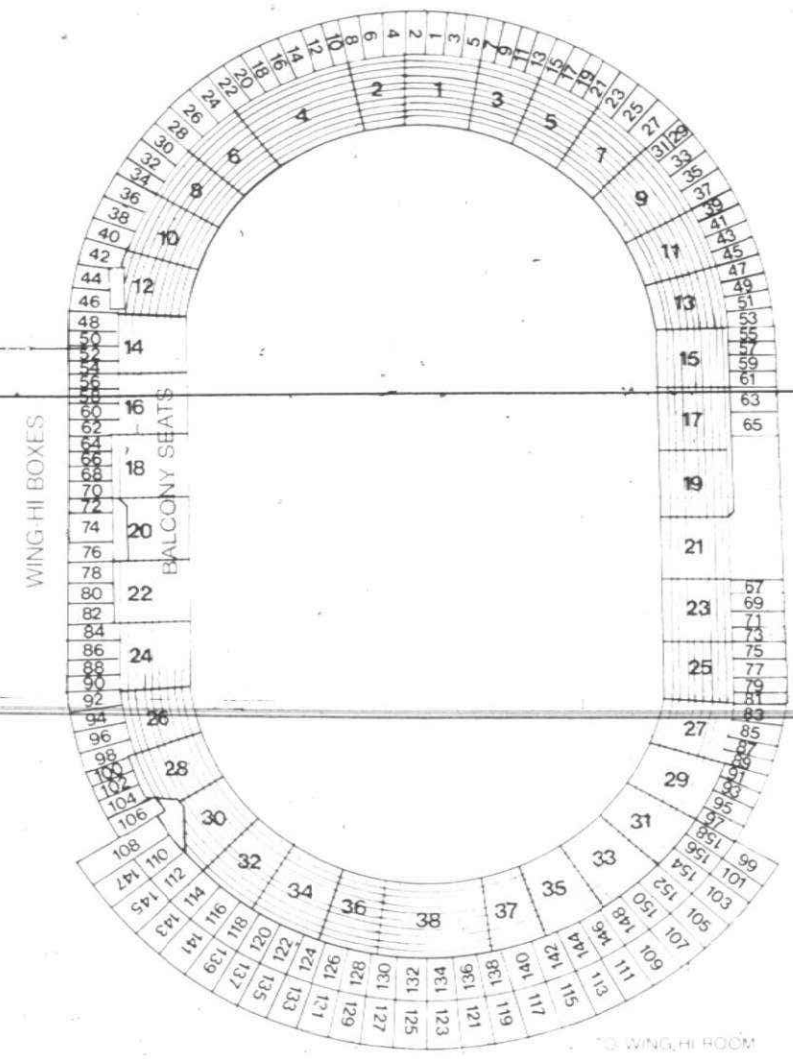

3. Every season ticket holder will get his own monthly copy of "The Blade," the Red Wings own official newsletter. It will keep you not only posted on the inside news of the Red Wings, but will inform you of ALL EVENTS occurring at the Olympia, often with special discount prices. You can make your seat selection before the seats are offered to the general public. (See the schedule of special events and series.)

4. Tickets never go to waste; unused tickets may be turned-in for other tickets on designated nights.

5. Besides our regular arena season tickets there are a limited number of Executive and Wing-Hi boxes. These boxes are individually air-conditioned with their own bar and refrigerator with attendant. The executive boxes hold 8 to 10 people, the Wing-Hi 8 to 15. Or you can reserve in the Executive Lounge, entitling you to exclusive seating at center ice with bar privileges by membership account.

6. Season ticket holders not only are assured the best possible seats for every Red Wing game, but are given the first option on those same seats for playoffs and renewal for next season.
