Fence held up

A cement fence behind the soon-to-open Italian bakery at Cherry Hill and Haggerty is the object of a heated controversy between the Laborer's International Union No. 334 and a contractor named Joe Stanzione of Metropolitan Mason and Concrete. School millage levy could be lowered

The Plymouth Board of Education may vote tonight not to levy the entire amount of millage approved by voters this month.

The administration is expected to recommend that the school board approve only 4.25 additional mills instead of the full 4.75 mills approved by voters—a reduction of ½-mill.

The final recommendation will depend upon detailed budget work due to be completed today by Ray Hoedell, assistant superintendent of business.

The school board meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in the cafetorium of Plymouth Canton High, 8515 Canton Center Road.

THE SCHOOL BOARD also will consider:

- Approval of a transportation policy change allowing kindergarten through second grade pupils to be bused if they live one mile or more from school;
- Accept bids to purchase four new buses needed to implement the above change in busing policy;
- Appoint assistant principals for Pioneer Middle and Miller Elementary, plus approve new hires.
- Approve graduation dates of June 9 for Plymouth Salem High and June 10 for Plymouth Canton.

SUPERINTENDENT of Schools John M. Hoben noted Friday that the actual student headcount is expected to be 400 more than what was earlier anticipated.

Because of these 400 additional students, Hoben said, the district will receive about $400,000 more revenue in state aid than projected in earlier budgets.

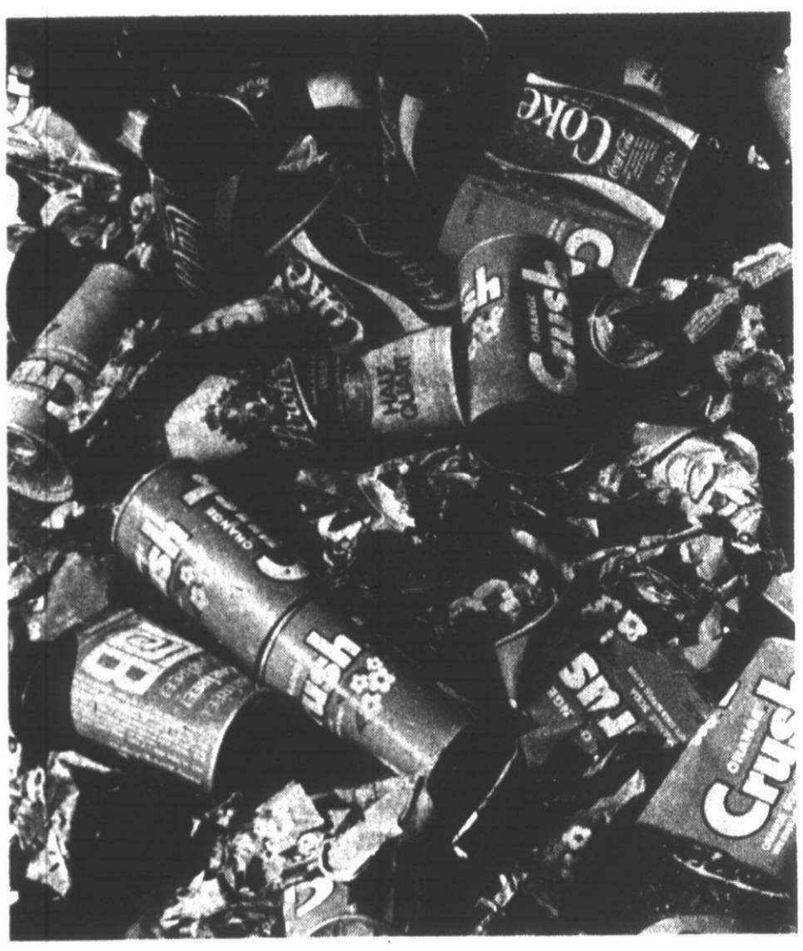

"The 400 additional students will require about half of this expenditure. Currently, under the printout of the budget given to me Thursday morning, it is apparent that we have a surplus of some $240,000," Hoben said.

Based on this unexpected revenue, Hoben plans to recommend the tax levy be reduced by ½-mill pending completion of the adjusted budget.

"This, coupled with a reduction of 0.4 mills in the debt retirement would be a realization of about 0.9 of a mill reduction from the authorization to levy 4.75 additional operating millage.

"Currently, it is the superintendent's recommendation that we set the levy at 4.25 additional mills," Hoben said Thursday.

Among the personnel matters to come before the board tonight will be the resignation of Danny Sandmann, manager of the Rotary Farm at the Centennial Educational Park effective Oct. 15. Also resigning are two part-time instructors: Deborah Robertson of Plymouth Canton who has moved to Japan, and Linda VanVelsor of Miller Elementary who has accepted a fellowship at University of Michigan.

Manufacturers say 'recycle'

Bottle bill is debated

By PATRICK TOUHEY

Proponents and opponents of throw-away beverage containers debated the practicality and ecological effects of a referendum aimed at banning disposable cans and bottles.

Forum for the debate was a meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi Sept. 22 at the Plymouth Cultural Center. It was originally intended to air the League's stand favoring the Bottle Bill Referendum (Proposal A), which will be on the Nov. 2 ballot.

THE LEAGUE had arranged for Rick Jameson of the Michigan United Conservation Club and the Help Abolish Throwaways Committee to speak on the advantages of supporting the Bottle Bill. But after Jameson spoke, Bob Healy of the Michigan Soft Drink Association and a member of the Comittee against Forced Deposits called some of Jameson's facts "erroneous" and questioned the prudence of the bill.

Jameson said various types of bottle bill legislation had been under consideration for the last 10 years in Michigan, but none had ever gotten out of committee. He noted proponents of the ban collected more than 400,000 signatures to guarantee inclusion on the ballot.

Jameson's remarks were directed at what could be expected from the anti-bill faction.

He cited the importance of Michigan as the first heavily industrial state to vote on the bill and said that the opposition would spare no expense in their efforts to defeat the proposal.

Jameson discussed the bill's major points, which he said were a reduction of litter and a saving of energy. He contended with a deposit on cans and bottles, people would be less likely to litter with them. In addition, recycling beverage containers save more energy than continually manufacturing new ones.

"The thrust of this proposal is to open the way for a new national awareness. We need to move from being an energy wasteful throw-away society to a society that husbands its resources," Jameson concluded.

IN BACKING throw-aways, Healy cited a pamphlet published by the Beverage Can Makers Manufacturers Institute based on a U.S. Department of Commerce study. He argued the passage of Proposal A would negatively affect employment, causing those employed in metal fabrication and bottle manufacturing to be laid off. He said the change necessary in converting to the returnable system on the part of industry would result in higher costs for the consumer.

Referring to the pamphlet, Healy said there was not enough conclusive proof that litter would be reduced or that energy would be saved to justify the economic risks involved in passing the bill.

"The trouble with Proposal A is that if it

Chamber says office is out

The Canton Chamber of Commerce plan to build an office building for itself with additional offices for rental were scrapped last week by a vote of the Chamber.

"I don't know," said former Chamber President Bart Berg, who was involved in the initial feasibility studies, "We just could not get it to work out financially right now."

"In order for us to support the cost, we would have to charge a renter $4 more than the going rate for square footage," Berg continued.

He said that they had lined up one prospective tennant, but he was unwilling to pay more than $7.50 per square foot.

"If we really pressed we could have possibly rented office space for $10 a square foot, but that would have been the absolute minimum, and there just were no takers," said Berg.

The .832 acre lot on Ford Road was made available to the Chamber on an option by Meijer Thrifty Acres at a cost of $25,000. Berg estimated that the cost of building 6,975 sq. ft. of office space would have been $228,000.

The major factor in the abandonment of the project, according to Berg, was the estimated cash reserve necessary for building maintenance and repair.

"We determined that we would have to have $4,000 dollars in reserve for the first year in case damage was done to the building, and that figure pushed our costs above the limit."

Even though this project has fallen through Berg indicated that the Chamber was still looking for commercial or industrial property that might be suitable for development.

"We haven't disbanded our efforts completely," said Berg. "I still have hopes that we can find something in the Canton area."

Union cites dangers out at DeHoCo

Recent injuries to three correction officers at the Detroit House of Correction dramatize the "potential danger" which results from understaffing at DeHoCo, according to Jerry Holt, the guard's union representative.

Last Thursday two correctional officers received treatment at St. Mary's Hospital for minor injuries incurred during a scuffle with a DeHoCo prisoner.

The preceding week one of the inmates in the men's division of DeHoCo managed to commandeer a 45-passenger bus from the prison. A guard attempted to stop the prisoner from driving away, but was reportedly hurt when the escapee aimed the bus at him. He jumped through a station wagon window to avoid being crushed between the two vehicles.

The prisoner was apprehended soon afterward in Northville byDeHoCo correction officers.

Luther Penn, DeHoCo deputy director, confirms the accuracy of the three reported injuries and says he agrees that more guards are needed. Penn does not believe, however, that the problem is serious.

Penn says he has not asked Detroit Mayor Coleman Young for more money to hire guards because "he'd tell me to go to hell. The money is simply not there in the budget of the City of Detroit."

"When you figure in the benefits, it costs $20,000 a person to hire a correction officer," Penn said. "The city's already running into a deficit, they've had to cut to the bone. So I don't know how to get what we need. And this is not a phenomenon unique to DeHoCo."

Penn estimates that the guard-inmate ratio in the men's division of DeHoCo is approximately 40-to-1 "and this corresponds with the average throughout the United States."

Holt says approximately 50 guards are employed at DeHoCo's men'division on all three shifts.

"The incident Thursday would never have happened if we had two correction officers on each floor like you're supposed to," Holt claims.

"I'm not looking for publicity or sensationalizing," said Holt, "But I think the community is unaware of the potential danger involved with the kind of security we have here."

Prisoner "shake-downs" or inspections to determine if weapons or drugs are being hidden, have not been done "in a year and a half," according to Holt, "because we just don't have the manpower you need to do it."

Holt criticizes the news media for neglecting to report the number of escapes that take place at DeHoCo.

"In 1974, out of 235 female inmates, 118 people escaped," Holt said. "That's more than half. I think that's scandalous, yet that fact never came out in the media.

"Remember DeHoCo is no longer just a nice little jail where traffic offenders and old drunks go to cool their heels," Holt said. "With plea bargaining and crowded jail space, DeHoCo is now the home of serious prisoners.

"I've seen half a page in the newspaper devoted to what DeHoCo's done to rehabilitate prisoners, but in reality things are not quite so rosy.The picture is not a true one. In many cases the prisoners don't have towels to wipe themselves and no soap, no sheets or pillow cases. You can't tell me about rehabilitation when you don't provide the basics."

The inmates need more guards present

Mythologies of aging exposed at 1st seminar

Dr. Harold R. Johnson, co-director of the University of Michigan Institute of Gerontology, opened the Plymouth Rotary Club's year-long seminar on aging Friday at the Mayflower Meeting House.

The title of Johnson's address was "Growing Old in America: An Overview." In his introductory presentation, he spoke to the various problems of the elderly from a general frame of reference.

"There is a great deal of misunderstanding about who the aged are, and we have surrounded them with a considerable amount of mythology," he said.

"We have a tendency to put people who are older out to pasture, which results in a loss of talent and ability to society at large."

JOHNSON STATED that before the country could deal with the problem of the elderly, it needed to recognize that a problem existed.

"Our society is crises oriented," he said. "When we are faced with an emergency situation, we usually react quickly and successfully; but unless we have a high degree of consensus about the immediacy of the situation, our efforts are usually inadequate."

He said that at present there was not enough known about the difficulties faced by senior citizens to generate the consensus needed for effective action; that a generalized sense of urgency was lacking, with the result that not much was being done.

He said there was a lack of coordination on the federal, state, and local levels among the agencies that deal with the elderly, saying that they were characterized by overlaps in programs and confusion as to responsibility.

JOHNSON MAINTAINED also that most institutions that dealt with the problems of the aged were under-staffed by inadequately trained personnel.

He said, however, that most problems now confronting researchers and workers in the field of gerontology could be greatly eased with better training and more money.

Among the long list of difficulties faced by the elderly, Johnson included: employment, income, housing, education, nutrition, activities, health services, and transportation. But he said that money, for everyone other than upper-middle income groups, was the most pressing worry. In support of this he introduced the chilling statistic that 25 per cent of all suicides in this country are people 65 years of age and older.

Current research into the primary cause of this high suicide rate indicates that it is depression over health or economic condition.

JOHNSON LAMENTED that problems individually confronting the elderly population were compounded by poor planning and insufficient coordination on the part of both the public and private agencies which were supposed to minister to their needs.

By the year 2000, according to Johnson, there will be 41 million people older than 65, and if the need for research and program planning is ignored, there will be grave consequences.

He closed his lecture by saying that he felt community seminars, such as the Rotary's, were an effective means of spreading knowledge and creating awareness.

The next Rotary seminar is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 29. The speaker will be Woodrow Hunter, and the topic of his presentation is "Preparation for Retirement." The nine-part series is open to the public.

Bloodmobile here Friday

A Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at Central Middle School Friday from 1:30-7:30 p.m. to collect blood needed by a local resident suffering from Hodgkin's Disease.

Victoria Wooley, 20, of 9190 Sheldon, Plymouth, is in Providence Hospital suffering from Hodgkin's Disease. She has already received more than 120 pints of blood, and doctors have been unable to determine how much more she will need.

To have the Red Cross send out the bloodmobile, friends and family of Miss Wooley collected more than 50 signatures of people who were willing to donate blood.

Individuals who feel that they would like to give blood may call 453-8600 or 459-2571 to schedule an appointment.

On-the-street interviews

How residents size up Carter-Ford debate

By CRAIG PIECHURA

Whatever people's political persuasions it seems that most citizens in western Wayne County spent some time last Thursday night watching the Gerald Ford-Jimmy Carter TV debate if for no other reason than curiosity. Out of 25 people interviewed in front of Canton Township's the Kroger's Food Store in the Harvard Square Shopping Mall, only seven people said they didn't see the TV special. Three of were working on the afternoon shift, another was knitting, one woman went to sleep at nine, and one young man spent the time "dancing, drinking and making noise" at a local disco.

Only two of the seven called themselves "Democrats" while two others referred to themselves as a "Republican."

THE MAN-ON-THE-STREET interview is an entirely unscientific sampling — a peculiar animal at best. Some of the responses are entirely unpredictable.

One Fourth of July, for instance, this editor was assigned to ask the man-and—woman-on-the-street, "What does patriotism mean to you?"

One gentle man said he could not answer that question because he was "new to the neighborhood."

In Thursday night's street sampling, nine people said they favored Carter, 10 people said they leaned toward Ford and seven people said they were undecided or unimpressed by either candidate.

Since no one was on the street when I arrived I did what any enterprising journalist would do, I interviewed myself.

"What was your favorite part of the debate," I asked myself.

"When the sound went off," I replied.

Paul and Mary Young of 7091 Willow Creek Drive came away from the debate with divergent viewpoints. "I thought Ford handled himself very well," said Paul Young. "He didn't seem like he panicked. He knew how to handle himself. Yet it looked like Carter was struggling. Mary thought Jimmy Carter "brought more points out than Ford, especially when he said he'd put people to work. And Ford seemed too defensive when he defined his position."

Joan Durant of Plymouth was one of the people who identified herself as a Republican, but she said "if a Democrat is a better man, I vote for him."

Oscar Doolin was carrying a basketful of groceries out of the store when he was stopped and asked his reaction to the debate.

"I didn't see it," Doolin said. "I never went to school or nothing. I don't vote and I don't drive a car. I carry my groceries home. I did have a pick—up truck but I gave to a relative."

Janet Perpich, who lives on Provincial in Canton said she thought both candidates were "very vague."

VIRGINIA ATWOOD of Canton said although she favors Ford, "I was impressed with both of them. Both did a very good job and seemed to give factual viewpoints.

"I think I'd have to say Ford had an edge in the debate," said Mrs. Atwood. "I think he's sincere in what he said about lowering taxes and lowering the entire federal budget."

Terry McCloskey of Livonia is skeptical of Ford's plan to give another tax rebate to middle-income wage-earners.

"I'd like to see how in hell he's going to reduce taxes and keep a sound budget," McCloskey said. A Carter supporter, McCloskey believes the high number of unemployed people does not concern the President.

Charles McGill of 6236 Runnymede, Canton, said he's "not crazy" about Carter's tax position. "I want to claim my home as a tax exemption and it looks like Carter will hit a little hard on the middle-income level."

But in spite of those reservations, McGill says he "likes Carter better."

"Basically, I applaud his decision to get rid of some of the bureaucracy in government."

Margaret Zahu of Westland called the debates, "the same old malarkey." Even though "Carter mumbles constantly," Mrs. Zahu said she'll vote for him.

"He's the lesser of two evils. Just go into Kroger's here and you see the prices rise higher every day. Ford even wanted to take the social security away from the senior citizens. From all I can see Ford is just for big business."

At times it seemed as if the respondents watched different debates. One man said he was voting for Carter because he "didn't talk in circles." A woman used the same phrase to say she disapproved of Carter "because he talks in circles."

CORA AYERS of Canton used the strongest language in her debate reaction. She said Carter "never impressed me, in fact I can't stand Carter."

She says that her opinion may be based on the fact that Carter is from the South.

"I'm from Florida, so southerners don't seem truthful to me; there's something deceitful about them."

Peg Valley of Plymouth Township's Bradbury Condominiums objected to the mutitude of statistics cited by each of the candidates to illustrate their position.

"I don't think all those figures mean much to the average person," said Mrs. Valley. "I think they throw around too many statistics."

Some of the people interviewed reiterated some of the cliches used in last week's debate. "Middle-income" came up frequently. One young man said that while he was watching he began to count how many times the word "private sector" was used.

"Both of them kept using that word," he said, a total of 12 times.

What disturbed one woman most was the realization that the great debate was the first of four.

Impasse appears broken on teacher pact talks

Although both sides are said to be moving closer together, there is no indication an immediate settlement is pending with teachers of the Plymouth Community School District.

That was the outlook of Norm Kee, chief negotiator for the school board, after a four-hour meeting Wednesday with a state-appointed mediator.

Last week the Plymouth Education Association (PEA), teachers union, offered a counter proposal to the administration which was unacceptable.

After intervention by the mediator Wednesday, however, it appeared the teachers negotiating team might be making a new offer at the table today or tomorrow.

THE MAJOR stumbling block preventing a settlement appears to be a disagreement on cost-of-living, according to Kee and Candi Reece, president of the PEA.

Mrs. Reece says the PEA is asking for a three-year contract with a built-in allowance amounting to about two-thirds of the cost-of-living.

"After meeting with the mediator Wednesday night there seemed to be some movement," Kee said Friday. "We will meet again Monday and Tuesday. We had received a counter offer to our latest offer, and then we exchanged suggestions with the mediator. As of now, I wouldn't describe the negotiations as being at an impasse.

"We are drawing closer together, but not close enough yet to consumate any final agreement. The counter from the PEA was on salary, and the best I can report now is we are getting closer."

KEE HAS said that passage of the 4.75-mill proposal in September won't affect the outcome of the talks. "If we were going to give away the money from the millage, we'd be settled right now."

Mrs. Reece says the union doesn't intend to bargain for the district's fund equity but feels the district isn't as pinched financially as it claims to be.

Both sides appear confident that a strike can be averted, although neither is anticipating an immediate settlement. The teachers voted to return to work without a contract when school opened this month, enpowered its negotiating team with strike authority, and instructed negotiators to return to the table. That's where action has been for the past three weeks—at the table.

Developers shouldn't install lights—Dingeldey

Former Canton Supervisor Philip Dingeldey this week shed light on a controversy over street light installation costs and denied the intent of a 1969 subdivision ordinance was to place the financial responsibility on subdivision developers.

Authors of the ordinance, according to the former supervisor, intended the developer to ask township officials to petition Detroit Edison for installation of street lights.

Under the ordinance, Dingeldey added, township officials are to identify subdivisions as special assessment districts for purposes of financing installation and operational costs.

Township officials, according to current Supervisor Robert Greenstein, Clerk John Flodin, building inspector Charlie Thompson and developer Richard Lewiston, have always followed that procedure.

Dingeldey's interpretation of the ordinance parallels that of the current administration, which denies allegations of planning commission member Tom Timbario.

Timbario says township board members have failed to enforce a section of the ordinance which he say requires developers to finance the installation costs.

Section 409 of township ordinance 32 reads:

"The subdivider shall be entirely responsible for installing the following site improvements, or shall furnish a surety bond acceptable to the township board to the township, sufficient to permit the completion of all contemplated improvements, before the final plat shall be accepted by the township.

"Street lighting," the ordinance continues, "shall be required to be installed at intersections and at other locations deemed necessary by the township board throughout the subdivision."

Dingeldey who held the township's supervisor post when the ordinance was enacted, admits the law's wording is somewhat confusing.

"But we never intended the developer to finance the costs," he said. "We went to our attorney and had him write it up, and we went to different cities to see how they handled the situation."

Wording of the ordinance, now being revised to better fit the township's proposed master land use plan, has stirred dissent among residents of nine Canton subdivisions, which may be forced to pay an annual average assessment of $34 to finance street light installations in their neighborhoods.

Township officials have proposed identifying the subdivisions as special assessment districts for purposes of financing street light installation and operational costs.

Subdivisions under consideration for the special assessment district title are Willow Creek No. 4; Pickwick; Cherry Hill Pines; Franklin Square; Westbrook Manor; Fellows Creek; Cavalier Village South; and Cavalier Village North.

"The procedure used in Canton to finance street light installations is identical to procedures used in every other community I've worked in," said Dick Lewiston, president of Practical Homebuilders, who has developed numerous subdivisions in Canton.

"I think it would be foolish and needlessly harmful for the developers to finance it. The cost would only be passed on to the builder and the home purchaser."

Although some township officials have questioned the abilty of subdivision developers to finance or install street lights under Detroit Edison's policy, a spokesman for that company said street lights may be financed or installed in any number of ways.

Ralph Mertz, director of customer and marketing services for Detroit Edison's Wayne County division, said municipalities or subdivision developers may install their own street lighting systems.

Detroit Edison would maintain the municipally-owned system, provide power to the lights and charge fees accordingly, Mertz explained.

But, according to the Detroit Edison official, few municipalities take that route.

"By and large, communities have not done that," Mertz said. "When they see the cost of installing a system (approximately $2,000 per light), they often feel it's cheaper for us to do it.

"We don't care what they do," Mertz continued. "But one way or another, the homeowner has to pay for it. You just can't get a free lunch."

Timbario maintains street light installation costs would be lowered, if the lights were installed before homes are built and lawns laid.

Greenstein says he has submitted a recommendation to township board and planning commission members, charged with revising the 1969 subdivision ordinace, to require installation of street lights before homes are built. In that way, the supervisor says, prospective home buyers, could choose lots near or far from street lights.

Mertz said Detroit Edison officials would install street lights after a development's water and sewage systems are laid.

"We don't care what they do," he reiterated. "If they want us to light an area where no one lives, that's fine. We'd agree not to power some of the lights for awhile, but there would still be a charge to cover maintenance and depreciation. That's really the bulk of the charge."

Canton's homecoming features frivolous fun

By GLENN BUNTING

What do lolly-pop lick offs, bubble gum contests, tricycle races and decoration days all have in common?

If you guessed fun days for tots, you're wrong since these gala affairs are all part of the fourth annual Plymouth Canton High School homecoming week.

While preparing one big fling before settling into the doldrums of high school homework, Canton students are getting ready for the time of their lives. This week's homecoming agenda includes something for all to engage in.

Ranging from a Whopper eating contest to the Canton-Waterford Mott football game, the week's festivities started Monday morning with senior court nominations and will conclude with Saturday night's traditional homecoming dance.

In between, Canton area coordinator Dave Opple has organized a slew of odd but attractive events during and outside school hours.

TODAY HAS been named "Chief Day," where the male segment of the school must wear head-dresses and not fraternize with the opposite sex.

All students on unstructured time schedules at 1 p.m. are eligible to participate in the lolly-pop lick off contest (if they believe such an event exists) in the Canton commons.

Tuesday is "Squad Day," where the girls exchange roles with the guys' "Chief Day." At 7 p.m., the widely reknown tricycle race will be held on the bus loop between Canton and Salem high schools.

To avoid compounding the agony of defeat, youngsters who have mastered the art of tricycling will not be allowed to compete with the teens who are sure to pick up a scraped knee or two on the way to the finish line.

"Hall Decoration Day" marks Wednesday as all four classes will bloody the halls with red and white slogans supporting the Chiefs' football team. Amidst the mass of posters, banners and ribbons, a class winner will be announced at the end of the day for decorating the best looking spirit hall.

At night, a Whopper-eating contest will take place at the Ann Arbor Road Burger King, with the eventual champion being assured of Alka-Seltzer and an upset stomach.

THE SECOND annual bubble-gum contest will be held on Thursday in the commons at 1 p.m. for all unstructured students who find themselves free of class obligations.

At 7 p.m., the homecoming parade, led by the Centennial Educational Park Marching Band, will start at Central Middle School. Boasting floats, cheerleaders, Chiefettes and the senior court, the parade will march down Main Street to Ann Arbor Trail, turn right to Harvey and then head back to Central.

On Friday morning, students will elect the homecoming queen via a secret ballot and then await the outcome until halftime of the Canton-Mott gridiron match, which gets underway at 8 p.m.

The Chief football players will be provided with adequate incentive prior to their Western 6 League opener during Friday afternoon's pep rally, slated for 2 p.m. Coaches, players, students and cheerleaders will congregate in the commons to fight song the Chiefs to victory.

DeHoCo chief rebuts danger

as much as the staff, said Holt, to protect them from other inmates.

Penn says he believes Holt has overstated the gravity of the situation at DeHoCo but refused to let a reporter tour the facility.

"Rest assured if there were serious problems here of that magnitude, eventually they would come up. We get a lot of ink anyway, good and bad, and we have a very gunmentioned."

Penn says the number of escaped prisoners totalled 139 in 1975. He says "we're a little under that this year, we're 10 or 12 under what we had at this time last year."

"Remember, fences are not made to keep people in, but more to keep people out," Penn said. "When a guy is running away from the work farm, we're not going to kill him. We recover more than 97 per cent of the escapees. I think we have instituted a humane procedure."

The prison's deputy director said he would like nothing better than to hire 20 more correction officers and he has applied for federal funds to do just that.

"If they give me money, I'll spend it promisciously (for more correction officers)," Penn said. "But you can't run when someone's choking you."

Litter debators pop their tops

is passed, it will be written in stone. If it creates problems that we are not now aware of. It will take a 75 per cent majority of both the House and the Senate to rescind it, and that has never happened in the history of Michigan," he said.

JAMESON FUELED the fires of the impromptu debate by challenging Healy's information and referring to other studies and research that were favorable to his point of view.

He acknowledged there might be short-term employment problems but said in the long range there would be added jobs. He also restated his belief that in regard to both ecology and energy conservation the bill represented the best alternative.

Before the debate reached a "you did—I didn't" stalemate, Annalee Mathes, chairwoman of the meeting, ended the dialogue. She said the League had already examined the evidence and wase in support of the proposal, adding it was not within the scope of the meeting to provide a forum for full debate.

Passage of Proposal A will ban throwaway bottles and cans. It would place a 10 cent deposit on all soft drink and beer cans and bottles that could only be used by one manufacturer, and a five cent deposit on cans and bottles that could be recycled and used by more than one manufacturer. It would also ban the use of pull-tabs on aluminum cans.

The League of Women Voters said it studied solid waste management nationally and came out with a position statement in April of 1973.

According to Lynn Goldsmith of Canton, who quoted a recent release by the Michigan League, they are in support of Proposal A because a "ban on non-returnable bottles is one step in the important concept of source reduction, which reduces the total amount of solid waste."

Business is discouraged

Editor:
A solid tax-base is a determining factor in regards to who can afford to live in a community. Canton residents are in a sad predicament, as our tax-base practically rests on the homeowners shoulders. The present four-man pact team is and has been a discouraging barrier to any proposed industry, in order to lessen the tax burden on the homeowners. They have not even considered developing the small amount of land presently zoned industrial.

They claim to be saviors to us, the homeowners. Yet they are placing the majority of the tax burden unmercifully on our shoulders. To intensify the burden, they've tried to ram a master plan down our throats that would increase our taxes immensely. No alternatives, amendments or reconsiderations were made public.

Before Cheske, Parsell and Greenstein were elected in 1975, they were all against any commercial development. Yet in their campaign literature they took credit for businesses that came through Dingeldey's administration. These three men with their flip-flop on the issues—homeowners, the farmers, the businessmen, and their negative views on industrial development to help the homeowners, have far surpassed Jimmy Carter's flip-flopin'!

I personally feel that because of this "teams" inconsistencies and divisive attitudes they have destroyed themselves in the citizen's eyes.

Open space is lost

Editor:
As a resident of Canton Township, I feel I must express my opinion of the results of the August 3 primary election. By the loss of Mr. Greenstein, Mr. Parsell, Mr. Cheske and Ms. Willis, we have lost our only chance to retain open space and farm land.

With the choices left—Mr. Stein, a car wash owner, promising to make Canton a rerun of Westland planning, and Mr. Bundarin, recent law graduate, touting the Petaluma Plan—I envision non-systemized industrial, commercial and residential development as far as the eye can see. Gone will be the farmland and natural beauty of the township. In their places, we'll see rising taxes and all the things we moved to Canton Township to escape.

We had an opportunity, with Mr. Greenstein's leadership, to keep Canton a uniquely beautiful place to live. A place where the bulldozers and developers had to stop in their relentless attack on nature.

The counter-productive ankle-pecking tactics of the Schwall, Poole, and Meyers team seem to have had their effect on our future.

Coach, play more on team

Editor:

On Sept. 17, I was a guest at the beautiful football stadium for the opening game of Plymouth Salem High School. I would like to say that the game was very exciting, the band most enjoyable, and I was especially impressed with the presentation of the Rockettes and the gun core at halftime.

However, I was very disappointed to see that when the lead became quite substantial, the balance of the football team wasn't used. I am sure all the players practice equally hard, and it would have been nice if the entire team could have shared in the final plays and the joy of winning. I hope that in future games, I will have the opportunity of seeing the entire team play. They are a fine looking group of young men, and are all members of the team.

SC trustees get tough; 'Grote Grippe' is cured

By TIM RICHARD

The "Grote Grippe" was suddenly cured late last week at Schoolcraft College when negotiators extended the faculty contract a week and the board of trustees decided to get tough with instructors who take days off en masse.

The contract covering some 160 full time and about as many part-time instructors was extended to Sept. 30 amid signs that bargaining progress was being made. The extension came at 1 a.m. Sept. 23, an hour after it was to have expired.

The "Grote Grippe," a reference to college President C. Nelson Grote, is the nickname given to the Faculty Forum's tactic of having 30 or more members call in sick or take off personal business days each day.

Virtually the entire campus was shut down Tuesday, the first day of the debility. About 38 instructors were absent Wednesday on a Forum-organized schedule.

BUT WEDNESDAY night, an angry board of trustees voted 8-0 to require "proof of illness" when instructors take off alleged sick days.

By Thursday, faculty absenteeism was down to two.

Through an internal communications system, faculty members were told that "Plan B"—apparently a code word for the organized absenteeism—had been called off Thursday for the present time.

The Forum claimed 95 per cent member "participation" in "our effort" Tuesday. The Forum said it would publish the names of eight instructors who were "administrative supporters" but declined to say what formal or informal punishment would be meted out.

Of the whole episode, Forum President Richard Arlen said, "We can't strike. We gotta get their (the board's) attention some way."
attention some way."

THE BOARD resolution requiring proof of illness charged instructors with "abuses or misapplications" of sick and personal leave days.

The carefully worded statement said past faculty behavior had been "professional," implying but not stating that current behavior is unprofessional.

But if the board as a group was choosing words carefully, Trustee Mark McQuesten was "damned mad."

McQuesten, the only Schoolcraft graduate on the board and previously a champion of faculty causes, branded "the events of the last couple of days very destructivve. . . making life on campus more difficult for students. I would like to see the faculty not indulge in blue flu, sick leaves, business days. . . It's not a professional way. It shows contempt of students."

WITHOUT TAKING sides, the Student Senate expressed "great concern (over) the apparent lack of progress now being made in faculty contract negotiations."

Board Chairman Paul Kadish said students deserve to be recoghized as "a third side" in negotiations.

Trustee Arch Vallier turned to the student spokesman and said, "The college is open. If teachers don't want to teach, there's not a darn thing we can do about it."

The small audience packed the board's meeting room in the administration to overflowing. It was composed mostly of students, in contrast to a Sept. 8 meeting when Faculty Forum leaders brought in just enough sign-carrying instructors to fill every seat in the room.

GERALD MUNRO, chief of the college's negotiating team, said these board proposals are resolved:

Productivity, modification in layoff language, department representatives and student evaluation.

Unresolved are these board proposals: Details of incorporating part-time faculty into the bargaining agreement; revisions of certain job descriptions; length of a new contract and economics.

(A faculty source said the college was offering about one per cent and the Forum asking nine per cent. Compromise is expected.)

Munro said this package of Forum proposals is unresolved but may be close to settlement: Budget priorities, restriction of full time faculty to one off-campus class; department representatives; life insurance; evaluation of administrators; expansion of faculty grant fund; increased travel allowance; reimbursement for graduate college courses; extension of the contract to apply all conditions for the entire year; providing one office and a secretary in each classroom building open in the evening; allowing faculty to decide the severity of weather conditions if they decide to stay home without loss of pay, sick days or personal business days; and removal of a "board rights clause."

Other unresolved Forum proposals are provisions for part-time faculty, economics and length of the agreement.

TRUSTEE VALLIER added the Forum had been seeking the title of "professor."

Just how important a demand that is was questionable. A faculty source said about five instructors would like to have the title because they have written textbooks, and publishers say textbooks sell far better when the author has "Prof." in front of his or her name.

Belleville stymies Rocks

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

The bubble burst. And after only the second game of the season.

The dreams and anticipations of the Plymouth Salem Rock football team to go undefeated this year went down the drain Friday night.

An enspired, hard-hitting and vastly improved Belleville Tiger football squad throughly dominated play at the Centennial Park field, whipping the Rocks 12-6 in the Suburban Eight League opener.

While the Tigers looked like a totally different team compared to last week's overtime loss to Wayne, the Rocks were also on the opposite end of the scale compared to last week's easy victory over Bloomfield Hills Andover.

With both squads now standing 1-1 after the first two weeks of the season, its the Belleville squad that established itself as a team to contend with.

"You can't take anything away from them (Belleville)," said Salem head coach Tom Moshimer. "They wanted it more than we did.

"They said before the game that this was the best team they've had since Frank Nunley (now with San Francisco 49ers) was playing. And that was 15 years ago.

"They didn't do anything that we didn't anticipate." Moshimer went on to say. "We worked against all the plays they ran all last week in practice.

"We just didn't play with enthusiasm. We weren't mentally prepared and because of this we didn't react physically."

THE TONE OF THE GAME was set on the opening series of downs when Belleville's Kelvin Patterson raced 3-yards on the third play from scrimmage into the end zone for a touchdown. Patterson opened the game with a 33-yard dive play from the right side. After the Tigers gained one-yard on a run, Patterson came right back with the same dive play, scoring six points after only 1:03 had expired on the clock.

On the try for an extra point, the snap from center was low, enabling the Rocks Curt Lewis and Bob Waite to penetrate the line and block the kick.

Plymouth's first offensive series lasted by three plays before the Tigers had the ball again. The Rocks failed to gain enough yardage for a first down and punted the ball away.

Belleville took the ball over on its own 44 yard line and proceeded to march down the field again.

The Tigers stayed strictly on the ground for 13 straight plays as the offensive line continued to open huge gaps into the Rocks defensive charges.

BELLEVILLE RUNNING BACKS Patterson and Kevin Barnes had a field day on this drive and other throughout the game as they combined inside and outside running that stymied Salem all night.

A seven-yard power play off the left side by Patterson scored that second touchdown of the game with only two minutes left in the first period. QuarterbackTom Laine rolled to his right in an attempt to score two-extra points on a run, but was stopped short by the Rocks' Dave Champion, Ben Wilcox and Tony Vitale.

Down by 12 points, the Rocks offense desperately tried to get on track. Led by the running of halfback Tim Liley, Salem drove down to the Tigers 38 yard line before they gave the ball up on downs.

After an exchange of possessions that began the second quarter, Belleville once again began to drive the ball down the field, eating up valuable time on the clock. The Tigers held the ball for the last six minutes of the second period, but failed to score when the rocks defense stiffened at its 12 yard line.

SALEM STARTED THE SECOND half with senior Ben Wilcox at quarterback. Moshimer earlier said that both Hewlett and Wilcox would see action in the game, and that he didn't pull Hewlett because of his first half performance.

"I was looking to try to get some offense going," Moshimer said.

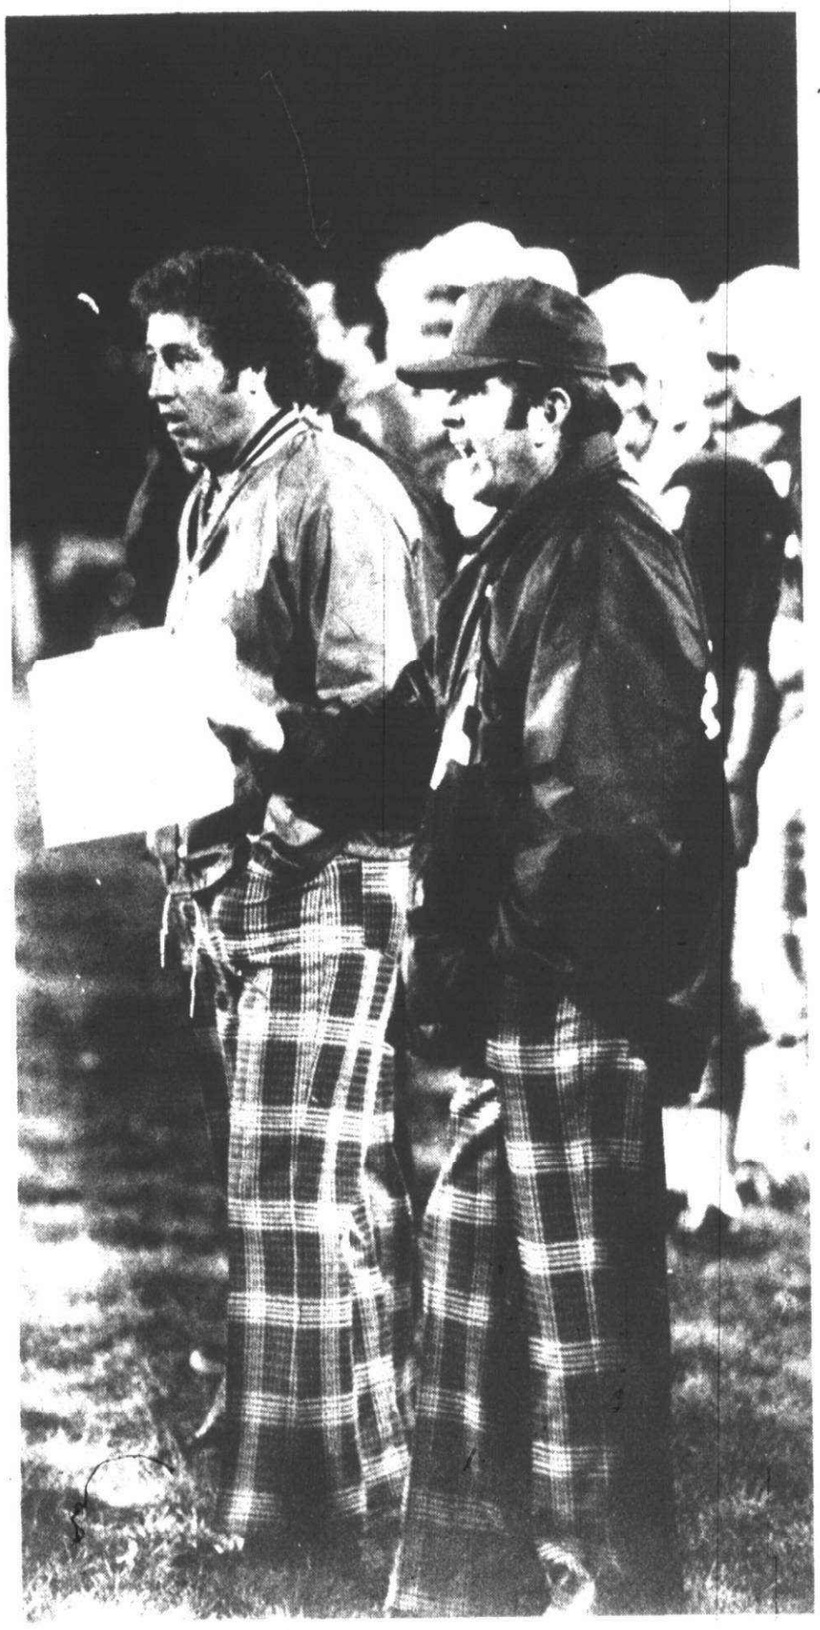

Wilcox took the Rocks down to the Tigers' 25 yard line, completing two clutch passes to Lilley, before the drive stalled again.

Belleville couldn't move the ball on its first possession of the half, and Wilcox quickly had the Rocks driving again, only to have a pass intercepted on the Tiger 32-yard line to stop another potential score.

Belleville controlled the ball and eventually attempted a field goal which was blocked by Salem's Bruce Piper, leaving the score at 12-0.

The game see-sawed in the fourth quar-

Defense sparks Canton victory

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

There's an old saying in football that "defense wins ballgames," and it held true Saturday night for the Plymouth Canton gridders as the Chiefs came back to beat Dearborn Hts. Annapolis 18-8.

This non-league victory in the Chiefs' home opener at the Centennial Park evens their record at 1-1, while Annapolis dropped its mark to an identical 1-1 standing.

After a lackluster first half that found the Annapolis Cougars ahead 8-0, the Canton defense came to life in the third quarter to put the Chiefs ahead for good.

The third period opened with Canton forced to punt after three plays from scrimmage. With Annapolis driving on its own 47-yard line, a flat pass by Cougar quarterback Jim Peters was intercepted by the Chiefs defensive end Doug Smith, who rambled all the way down to the Annapolis two-yard line.

This 50-yard return by the Canton Junior woke up everyone, as the first play from that point, found quarterback Mark Perkins running the ball into the end zone on a quarterback sneak to put the Chiefs on the board.

The try for two-oints failed when Tom Powell was tripped up at the line of scrimmage from the start of his run.

With the Chiefs now tailing 8-6, it was a key defense play that got the ball back. On Annapolis' first play from scrimmage after the ensuing kickoff, a fumbled snap from center was recovered by co-captain Powell, and the fired-up Chiefs were on the move again.

Starting at the Annapolis 29-yard line, consecutive running plays by Mark Hutton, Jerry Simons and Jim Meadows scored the go ahead touchdown. Meadows carried the ball over on a 14-yard trap play, giving Canton a 12-8 lead, after one five-and-a-half minutes had expired in the second half.

Once again, the attempt for the extra point pass failed, but the Chiefs had the lead for the first time in the game, and never lost it after that.

Two penalties stopped the next Annapolis drive, as the third quarter ended. Canton drove the ball down to the Cougar 35-yard line before the drive stalled. Perkins proceeded to punt the ball out of bounds at the Annapolish nine yard line, leaving the Cougars in a hole.

Unable to generate offense, Annapolis punted back the ball, and the Chiefs retained possession on the 50-yard line with eight minutes left in the game.

A 13-play drive followed that, not only ate up valuable time, but also resulted in the final score of the night, as Perkins snuck the ball over from the one, capping the march that remained entirely on the ground.

The extra point kick was wide to the right, but the Chiefs had their first victory of the season with only 1:32 remaining in the contest.

Annapolis' final drive finished on the Chiefs' 24 as the clock ran out, giving new Canton head coach Dave Schuele his first win as the Chiefs mentor.

Annapolis scored its only touchdown of the game early in the second period, when fullback Gary Tessmor bulled over from the one-yard line for the six points. The attempt for two was successful when Peters hit Greg Salata with a pass, giving the Cougars their 8-0 lead with nine minutes left in the first half.

Tessmor set up the Cougar touchdown by intercepting a Perkins' pass on the Chiefs 36-yard line late in the first quarter. The Cougars carried the ball over the goal line six plays later.

The Canton defensive charges were led by the line play of Brent Eckler. Powell and Smith. Eckler, a transfer student from Plymouth Salem High School, didn't see action last week in the Bentley loss because of an injury.

Plymouth hosts 31-team tourney

Tuesday morning the Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton golf teams will host the fifth annual Best Ball Tournament. Directors of the tournament are J. Jawor, golf pro at Brae Burn golf club where the tourney is held each year, and John Sandman, athletic director at the Plymouth Centennial Park.

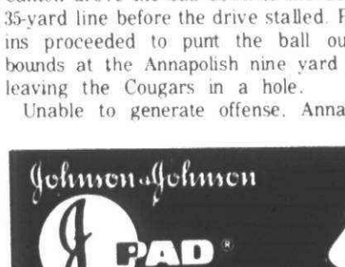

Tournament play will begin at 9 a.m. with players teeing off on the first and tenth tees.

In a best ball tournament, each of the 31 teams entered in the contest, play four contestants. From there, team members break off into partners and play the best score on each hole against one other school.

A team trophy is awarded to the school with the over-all best score. Last year, Plymouth-Salem was the winner. First, second and third place trophies are given to the individual teams for the all-around scores.

Teams as far away as Lake Orion, and schools from all over Observerland, participate in the annual tourney.

Girls break six school records

Canton tankers romp in opener

The season opener for the Plymouth Canton girls swim team was a sucessful one, as the Chiefs drown Livonia Franklin 110-62 in Thursday night action at the Salem High School pool.

The victory was only the second for the Chiefs in the three-year varsity history of the school, but with this performance, it looks like Canton is headed for its share of triumphs this year.

"I am so pleased," said Chief coach Ann Massey. "I never expected to do so well at this time."

The Chiefs took first and third in both the 200-yard medley and 400-yard free relays. The winning combination for the medley relay was Cindy Shelanskey, Sue Knight, Annette Piethe and Tina DeWalt, swimming a school-record 2:09.6 time. This clocking was eight seconds lower than the previous mark.

Robbie Bennett, Laura Toor, Kay Spring and Jackie Bennett finished third in the race.

Lori Hogan, Peggy McEmeel, Piethe and Anderson combined for the 400 free relay victory, swimming a 4:25.5. Kathy Grawe, Robin Thompson, Denise Stuebben and Spring placed third.

The Chiefs swept all three places in the 50 and 100-yard free races, as Anderson finished on top with times of 27.9 and 1:03.3 respectively. The 50-yard clocking was a new school record for the junior tankers. DeWalt finished second and Jackie Bennett third in the 50 race, while McEmeel and Grawe followed Anderson in the 100 competition.

Hogan broke her own school record of one year ago, swimming a 2:27.6 in the 200 free race. Shelanskey won the 200 individual medley, breaking her old record by one-tenth of a second, clocking a 2:34.5. McEmeel finished second with a 2:50.2.

Wendy Gray placed second in the diving competition with a respecatble 130.75 points. Freshman Jamie Zwerink was third with 111.75 points.

Janet Gottschalk placed third in the tough 500-free race with a time of 7:31.6. Shelanskey broke another of her old record in the 100 back, swimming her speciality in 1:08.9.

Freshman Sue Knight broke a record in the 100 breast stroke clocking a 1:22.5 in her first experience on the varsity level.

The Chiefs' next competition is Tuesday night in a double dual meet with Wayne Memorial nd fellow swimmers from Plymouth Salem at the Salem pool. Starting time for this meet is 7 p.m.

Salem cagers (4-0) stay perfect

The undefeated record of the Plymouth Salem girls basketball team remained intact last Thursday, when the Rocks won their third Suburban Eight League game of the season, beating the Trenton Trojans, 76-45.

Despite having to play on the opponents' court, the Rocks offense continued to improve, scoring a season high 76 points and raising the overall record to 4-0.

"We played much better and our second team came in and gave us a lift," said Rock coach Debbie Hatcher. "Everthing we did wrong in the Bentley game (two days earlier) we did right in the Trenton game."

The Rocks started the game, leading 12-7 after the first period and extended that margin to 36-16 at the half. Salem added 24 points in the third period to put the game away, as its advantage mounted to 60-32 with only one period remaining.

Co-captain Kathy Dillon led the Rocks' scoring attack with 18 points from her guard position. Sophomore Erin Moore followed with 13 and Debbie Pitera came off the bench to register nine points. The Goodrich sisters, Diane and Donna, were held to to low scoring totals because of early foul trouble.

The Moore sisters, co-captain Peggy and Erin led the rebound efforts with 11 and 7 respectively. Reserve Doris Hoelisher followed with six rebounds.

All but one Rocks player scored in the contest and they coverted on 31 of 82 shots from the floor for 38 per cent. Trenton was held to only 18 baskets in 44 attempts.

Salem meets Livonia Churchill tomorrow night in a non-league home game as it tries to keep its perfect record unblemished. Game time is 6:30 p.m. for the junior varsity followed by the varsity contest.

Chief girls edged; suffer 1st defeat

The perfect record is gone!

The Plymouth Canton girls' basketball team lost its first game of the season Thursday, when it traveled to Waterford Mott and were upset, 44-37.

This setback, which opened the Western Six League season for the Chiefs, drops Canton's overall record to 3-1 for the fall season.

Canton opened with its usual hustling press, but Waterford was equal to the test, scoring seven points in that first eight minutes of play, while holding the Chiefs to a mere field goal.

Mott maintained a 15-10 lead at halftime and a 35-27 advantage after three quarters.

Despite this steady margin after each period, the Chiefs found themselves in the contest most of the way. Canton had tied the score in the third and fourth periods but the late minute spurts by Mott was the difference in victory.

Junior Kathy Sochacki led the Canton scoring with 14 points and sophomore Laura Butler came off the bench to add eight.

Senior starter Ellen Doran missed most of the game, fouling out in the third period. Sophomore regular Evie Pasek was out for all of the contest because of a sore ankle.

Canton was limited to only three foul shots, as Sue Rekuc converted on one of them.

The junior varsity contest was an exciting battle, but the Chief reserves also lost their first game of the year, with a 41-40 heartbreaking loss. Vickie Cavallaro led the Canton attack with 18 points, and Pam Schippani added two clutch free throws in the final minutes of the game to keep Canton close.

The Chiefs travel to Livonia Stevenson tomorrow night to face the Spartans in a non-league game beginning at 6:15 p.m.

Fall to Tigers

Rocks lose 1st football game

ter, as the Tigers continued to eat up the clock with its running game, while the Rocks frantically tried to get their offense moving.

With the Tigers inside the Rocks 10-yard line, linebacker Doug Agnew intercepted a Belleville pass on the three-yard line and ran all the way back to the Tiger 36. Six plays later, with only 25 seconds left in the game, Hewlett, who played most of the fourth quarter, hit split end Lewis for a five-yard pass to score the meaningless touchdown. Waite's extra-point kick was blocked, keeping the score at the eventual final, 12-6.

Patterson totalled a massive 176 yards on the ground in only 18 carries, while Barnes added 82 yards in 20 attempts. The total offense for Salem was only 204 yards, 115 on the ground and 89 in the air. The Rocks completed six of 14 passes, with Lewis and Lilley catching three each.

Belleville passed only four times, completing two. Bellville totalled 12 first downs to only seven for Salem.

Hewlett, Lilley and Steve Majsner rushed for meager totals of 36, 35, and 34 yards respectively.

Rock netters split

Ann Arbor Pioneer taught the Plymouth Salem girls tennis team a valuable lesson last Thursday when the rebuilding Rocks were shutout 7-0 in a non-league match at the Centennial Educational Park courts.

"It was the best team we've faced all season but our kids played up to them," said Salem coach Jan Lawson. "For a rebuilding team we did a respectable job regardless of the score. All the matches were close.

"It was a good match. It's what a new team needs to gain experience."

Lawson's squad lost eight of 10 players to graduation last season and has a sophomore and freshman playing first and second singles.

The first singles player, Becky Crespo, and fourth singles netter, freshman Kathy Horton, each were defeated for the first time in this Ann Arbor match. Crespo's loss was in split sets.

The Rocks evened their early Suburban Eight League record to 1-1 last Wednesday, beating Edsel Ford 6-1. Salem has an overall mark of 4-2 for the season.

The only match that the rocks lost to Edsel was the first doubles play that featured Tamie Crespo and Lynne Stone. That match went in three sets.

Becky Crespo won 6-4, 7-6. Second-single Courtney Warrick defeated her opponent 6-4, 6-3, and Nancy Grotz and Horton were also victorious.

A new second doubles combination of Cindy Cindrich and Kathy Sudendorf won their match 6-3, 6-0, and the senior third doubles pair of Diane Miller and Laurene Kirchoff won 6-4, 6-3.

Exhibition play against Ford found Kathy Lehmann and Wendy Webb winning singles matches while Clarise Hartnett and Loren Chatterly scored a doubles victory.

Swimming offered

Atletic Liaison Paul Cummings announced Friday that the Middle School pool is now open to all community citizens for open swimming.

The Central pool will be open every Monday and Wednesday nights beginning Oct. 4, from 7:30-9 p.m. Adults can swim for $.75 while students get in for $.50.

Wolcott headed for MSU

Brian Wolcott signed a letter of intent to go to Michigan State University where he plans on playing baseball and trying out for the basketball team. (Photo by George Gauldone).

Brian Wolcott, 1976 all-state baseball player for the Plymouth Salem Rocks, will attend Michigan State University this fall.

Wolcott, a 1976 Salem graduate, had many in—state offers and one from Ohio State University where fellow athlete Jim Ellinghausen is attending.

Wolcott narrowed his picks between Michigan State and the University of Detroit before he decided to become a Spartan.

Wolcott was a member of Salem's varsity as a sophomore, playing shortstop in 1974. He continued at that position, batting second in all the 1975 contests, the year in which the Rocks won the state tile.

He was pressed into service as a pitcher in the 1976 season and led his squad to a second consecutive Suburban Eight League crown that spring. During that season he was the ace of the pitchingstaff winning an unpresedented 15 ballgames before losing his first contest in district competition.

This 15-1 record broke Salem's record for most victories by a pitcher in a single season and earned for him All-State honors.

Over the summer Wolcott played in the Detroit Adray League as an infielder where he is expected to see most of his action as a Michgian State Spartan.

Wolcott also plans on trying out for the basketball team at Michigan State. He played two seasons as a guard for the Rocks and was the squad's floor leader last season.

The Plymouth Canton boys' golf team was victorious Thursday when the Chiefs beat Livonia Churchill, 210-226.

Canton's newly elected senior captain, Steve Borman, was match medalist by scoring a couple of bogies on the course and then offsetting them with two birdies for a 38. Senior John Pearson was next in line for Canton by adding a 40.

Other Canton scores were senior Craig Brass with a 41, freshman Dave Visser, 45, and junior Scott McGlone, 46. The match was played on the front nine at Brae Burn Golf Club, Canton's home course. Churchill's Norb Nalecz shot a 41 followed by teammate John Ginter's 44. Dave Kielty was next with a 45, then John Rudolph's 47. John Hardie had a 49.

Canton will meet Northville High's squad at 3 p.m. today (Monday) at Brae Burn (Northville's home course also) as the Chiefs try to push their season record to 4-3.

Salem golfers get best start

The Plymouth Salem boys' golf team raised its season record to 7-1 last Thursday when the Rocks beat the Belleville Tigers 169-192.

Salem senior Mike Wickham and Belleville's Rick Muse took the title of co-medalists by each shooting the back nine at Brae Burn golf club in 41.

Ted Kuhns and Doug Holloway, both juniors at Salem, added 42's to the victory, while junior Jim Ross chalked up a 44.

Belleville's Don Pauclka shot a 47 after nine and Greg Cicotte added 50. Mike Balderstone had a 59 and Mike Adkins and Terry Cote finished with 54 and 58 respectively.

"I think the team is a sound contender for everything now. We'll find out how good we are for sure this week when we meet with Trenton this Monday and North Farmington on Thursday," said coach Bob Waters.

As it stands now, the team has got the best record for the first eight games of a single season in the history of Waters' career as Plymouth coach.

Salem will play Trenton this Monday at Trenton, with tee off time at 3 p.m.

Canton netters lose

The Plymouth Canton girls tennis team opened its Western Six League season on a losing note last Thursday, bowing to Waterford Mott, 6-1, at the opponents' courts.

First singles Mary Riffe was the only winner for the Chiefs who dropped their overall record to 1-5 for the season. Riffe, a junior, led the young squad with a 6-2, 6-4 victory from the top position.

Three other matches were close, two of which were lost in tie breakbreakers. Second singles Teresa Washburn lost her match 6-3, 6-4, while the doubles combination of freshmen Kathy Kidston and Stacy Williams lost in a split-set match 6-2, 0-6, 6-7.

Third singles Gleda Carney also lost her match in a third set tie-breaker, 6-2, 4-6, 6-7.

The Chiefs try to rebound from this close setback with a non-league match against Thurston, 4 p.m. tomorrow afternoon at home.

The Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball League is entering its 13th year of sponsorship.

The Stroller

Unsung hero passes

By W.W. EDGAR

All of a sudden the breakfast coffe turned bitter. As he perused the morning paper which has been a ritual for years, The Stroller's eyes hit upon the news that Orlin Johnson had passed into the Great Beyond. A great chill raced up and down his spine.

To the present generation the name of Orlin Johnson may not strike a responsive cord, but back in the '30's, when Gar Wood was the speedboat king and the Harmsworth races on the Detroit River were the highpoint of the summer, Orlin, a wiry little fellow, was Gar's riding mechanic and the fellow who handled the trottle as Gar's Miss America turned back every challenge for the famed British Trophy.

His name never got into the headlines. Few people even mentioned him in the thrill of Gar's nerve-tingling races, but it was Orlin who fed the giant engines the fuel that sent them over the courses at record breaking speed. And in that role he became the "UnsungHero" of the sports world.

As he read of the passing of the little mechanic The Stroller's thoughts went back to some of the most dramatic moments in the history of speedboating on the river.

AND NEVER to be forgotten was the Labor Day in 1931 when Orlin risked his life and that of the entire crew in order to keep the Harmsworth Trophy in America.

Gar and his Miss America had never known defeat against the foreign challengers until Kaye Don, came over here with his English boat and took the first heat from Gar and Orlin on a Saturday afternoon.

With visions of great frama on the following Labor Day Monday thousands upon thousands lined the shores and they were not disappointed—all because of wiry little Orlin.

Shortly before race time at 5 o'clock, word came to the press stand that the gas tank in Miss America had sprung a leak. Gar asked for a postponement. In the heat of the excitement Kaye Don, the challenger, refused.

The denizens of the press table easily heard Gar yell, "Okay, tell him (Kay) that we'll be ready and that we will be on time."

During the next few moments, unknown to the mobs along the shore, Orlin crawled into the hull of Miss America and welded the gas filled tank—when, at any moment, he could have been blown to bits.

That done, Gar and Orlin headed for the starting line. In the din that greeted them both boats crossed the line ahead of time and were disqualified. To make matters worse Gar upset Don at the Belle bridge turn and pandemonium reigned.

MEANWHILE, Gar's brother George finished the race in another Miss America and was declared the winner.

For days on end the battle of words raged as Gar was accused of tricking the British challenger. But it was little Orlin who had made the victory possible by his daring welding job.

ON ANOTHER occassion Orlin was riding with Wood during a tryout on the Snicardi River near Algonac, when the boat exploded, and he went to the bottom. It was thought for a time Orlin was lost, but he was rescued and rode in the Harmsworth race a few weeks later with his neck in a heavy cast.

Another of his great moments came in the 1932 defense of the Trophy against Don in an early morning race off the Grosse Ponte Yacht Club.

Trailing for most of the way, and seemingly headed for defeat, the Miss America shot to the front at the start of the final lap and never was headed.

At the finish Gar smiled as he confined that Orlin had discovered another small leak in the tank and then pulling on the throttle shouted, " Let's win the trophy or go to Hell trying. "

That's the kind of a gritty competitor little Orlin was, and many a thrill he gave The Stroller as he pulled the throttle on the famed Miss America. He truly was the unsung hero of the speedboat world in the days that never are to be forgotten.

State teachers union endorses Ed Pierce

A Michigan Education Association group has endorsed Dr. Ed Pierce, Democratic nominee in the 2d Congressional district.

It took nine ballots for the MEA's public affairs council to support Pierce, who is opposed by State Sen. Carl Pursell, a Plymouth Republican.

Pierce, an Ann Arbor family physician, told a group of teachers at a meeting in Ypsilanti that he is pleased with the teachers' union endorsement "because it reflects the support of local educators not only for my views on education but for my total platform."

Robert Warren, PAC chairman, said that Pierce understands "how crucial it is to the future of our country that our children receive a sound education. Pierce will fight for a fair system of educational funding, a system which will make sure that the costs of education are not overburdening on any one group of taxpayers, but will also provide enough funds so that no child is cheated out of the education he and she deserves."

Warren added that Pierce also has a "clear commitment to the programs of decent food, good housing, and adequate medical care which must go hand in hand with education to give our children a bright future."

The political support of Pierce came from the 2d District's screening and endorsement committee of the PAC, made up of teachers in Livonia, Plymouth, Northville, Washtenaw and Monroe Counties.

Pierce and Pursell, whose wife is a Livonia teacher, were interviewed the previous week before the balloting was held.

Kaline helps Pursell's race

State Sen. Carl Pursell, Republican nominee for the 2d Congressional District seat, held one of his most successful fund-raising parties last week. The crowd included Gov. William Milliken, former Detroit Tigers' star Al Kaline, Donald Canham, University of Michigan athletic director; and Ray Scott, former coach of the Detroit Pistons and now head of the Eastern Michigan University cagers.

The party, held in an Ann Arbor Holiday Inn was attended by more than 150 persons.

Pursell said that the final figures aren't in from the party but stressed that it would be in the thousands of dollars.

The candidate said he was pleased by the enthusiastic turnout and Gov. Milliken's endorsement.

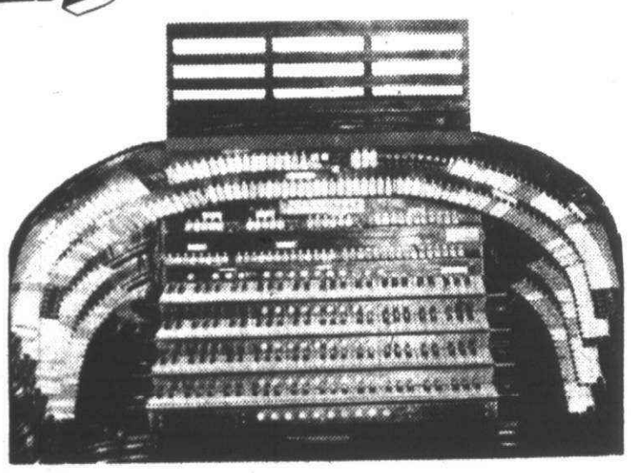

Milliken praised Pursell for his accomplishments in the state senate and the winning of an Environmental Protection Agency award.

June Brown learns determination while resuming college career

By DARLENE STINSON

Like thousands of women across America who have spent most of their adult lives performing household and child-rearing tasks, Canton resident Jane Brown wanted something more from her life.

This September, after overcoming the fears and uncertainties of embarking on a new way of life, Mrs. Brown began working toward the career she has always wanted.

With the help of a scholarship from the Plymouth chapter of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) and moral support from the University of Michigan's Center for Continuing Education for Women, Mrs. Brown resumed the college career disrupted eight years ago.

With a bachelors degree in political science and economics from New York's Marymount College beneath her belt, Mrs. Brown pared down her previous full-time job as housewife and mother to begin earning a masters degree at U-M in adult and continuing education with a specialization in gerontology.

ENROLLMENT in the masters degree program was a big step.

"The hardest thing was to make the decision and stick to it," said the 29-year-old mother of two elementary school children. "Going back to school was really an overwhelming type of thing."

High on Mrs. Brown's list of concerns was fear she would have inadequate time to spend with her family. With an eight-year absence from the classroom behind her, would she fall behind the rest of her class, the Canton resident wondered? Would she have the money to finance a costly graduate career?

"There's also the fear that you're going to lose something from your marriage," said Mrs. Brown, noting her husband's busy schedule as an engineer at Kelsey-Hayes and a part-time graduate student at Eastern Michigan University. "I wondered if it would just be hello and good-bye.

"I worried I wouldn't have enough time to spend with my children, and I thought I might be at the bottom of the class, not having been in school for eight years."

ALTHOUGH Mrs. Brown had always wanted to resume her college career, she had never worked or attended classes since graduating from Marymount eight years ago.

As the wife of a West Point graduate and member of the Army Corps of Engineers, she had moved to Georgia, to Virginia, to Alaska, never staying in one spot for much more than a year.

When her husband, Tim, finally left the Army three years ago and the Brown family moved to Canton, Mrs. Brown unsuccessfully searched for a job and use for her college diploma.

"I felt something was missing, and I felt I needed something more challenging," Mrs. Brown said of her housewife role. "A lot of frustration came out of sitting around and wondering what I wanted."

When Mrs. Brown finally decided on a career in gerontology and pinned her hopes on landing a governmental job in helping the elderly, she took her concerns about resuming classroom work to U-M's Center for Continuing Education for Women.

Counselors at the center advised Mrs. Brown to resume her college career on a part-time basis to start. On their advice, Mrs. Brown submitted an application for the $300 AAUW scholarship, receipt of which helped eased her financial concerns.

"It's one of the best things I've ever seen on a college campus," Mrs. Brown said of the center. "You can go in there not knowing a thing about going back to school, and they'll offer you all the help they can."

BACK IN THE classroom now since mid-September, Mrs. Brown says many of her worries were unfounded.

Being more satisfied with her life, the Canton resident says she has become closer to her family and sets aside a certain number of hours each day for her husband and two kids.

"I still have a little intrepidation about going on campus," Mrs. Brown adds, "but, surprisingly enough, I've found most of the people in graduate classes are my age or older. I found people in all fields, and I found I had something to offer with my background in economics and political science."

The biggest problem Mrs. Brown has yet to overcome is the juggling of her busier-than-ever schedule. Somehow, she must find the time to scruo the kitchen floor, pack lunch for the kids and study for her classes.

"Like I had to wash the kitchen floor late last night," the Canton mother laughed. "But things have already worked out. My husband will cook dinner if I've had a particularly hectic day, and the kids have been just fine.

"It's really working," Mrs. Brown stressed. "I come home, and I'm really enthusiastic about what I've learned that day. You meet people who can give you a completely new outlook on life. My world has kind of opened up."

PR seminar slated Oct. 7

Whether you're the publicity representative for a scout troop, civic organization, subdivision, PTA or church council, the Observer & Eccentric's fourth annual public relations seminar can help you do a better job.

The seminar, slated for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 7, will be in the Round Table Club of the Mayflower Hotel at Ann Arbor Trail and Main in Plymouth.

"The Oct. 7 session is geared primarily for groups in the Plymouth-Canton community," says Emory Daniels, community editor. "Persons having conflicts on their calendar for Oct. 7, however, may see if there are any openings for additional seminars at our Livonia office on Oct. 6 by calling 261-8600."

THE SEMINAR will include tips and information on the proper way to promote community group's activities through press releases, pictures and items for Brevities or Club Circuit.

"Persons who are tapped as publicity representatives are always calling to find out how they can get news in the paper," adds Daniels. "This seminar is an excellent training opportunity. It will answer your questions and give you insight into the newspaper's operation."

Several hundred representatives of service organizations, clubs, women's and fraternaly groups, church organizations and scouting groups have attended public relations seminars in the past three years.

Members of the Observer & Eccentric news-gathering team will be present to explain how local news is handled, including factual requirements, deadlines, the kinds of news that can be used, how to make picture arrangements, how to work with the staff photographer, and what kind of pictures submitted are suitable for printing.

Time will be allocated for questions and answers. Everyone attending will receive a pamphlet which includes general information on getting organizational news into the paper. Coffee and rolls will be served.

SPACE IS LIMITED and so reservations will be accepted on a first-come basis.

Persons planning to attend the seminar should fill out the registration form and mail it to the Observer & Eccentric, 461 S. Main, Plymouth 48170. Those with questions about the seminar may call the Observer & Eccentric at 459-2700.

Participating in the seminar will be: Daniels and Craig Piechura for Canton news; Elinor Graham for Plymouth-Canton Life news; Dennis O'Connor for Plymouth-Canton sports coverage; and photographer Gary Caskey.

"Our experience has been that those who attended last year's seminar found it easier to obtain publicity for their organization's efforts," concludes Daniels. "The information we have to offer is aimed at making the publicity chairperson's job easier. This also is a good opportunity for you to meet our staff members and establish those personal contacts which will be beneficial throughout the year."

UM-Dearborn films shoo ho-hum blahs

Do you find yourself washing more dishes, re-repotting a two-inch-high scheffllerra, or cleaning those hard-to-clean corners for lack of anything better in the way of entertainment?

If the answer to the above is yes, perhaps the University of Michigan-Dearborn's film series will offer a solution to the TV ho-hum blahs.

UM-D has lined up an interesting selection of films for its foreign and American series.

The films will be shown Wednesdays through Saturdays with foreign films scheduled at 7:30 p.m. and the American series starting at 9:45 p.m. in Room 179 Engineering Laboratory Building on the UM-D campus. The admission price is $1 and the public is welcome.

The fall schedule includes:

Sept. 22-26—"The Passenger," by Michaelangelo Antonioni, and "The Last Detail," by Hal Ashby, rated R.

Sept. 29 through Oct.3—"Last Tango In Paris," a Bernardo Bertolucci film, and Mel Brooks' "Young Frankenstein."

Oct.6-10—A Frederico Fellini film, "Satyricon," and "Maltese Falcon," with Humphrey Bogart. A John Huston film.

Oct. 13-17—"Death In Venice," the film adaptation of Thomas Mann's novella, directed by Luchino Visionti, and "Horsefeathers," with the Marx Brothers. Norman McLeod director.

Oct. 20-24—"Testament of Orpheus," by Jean Cocteau, and "Two for the Road," a Stanley Donen offering.

Oct. 27-31—"Persona," Ingmar Bergman, and "Uptown Saturday Night," starring Bill Cosby, Sidney Poitier, Harry Belafonte and Flip Wilson. Directed by Sidney Poitier.

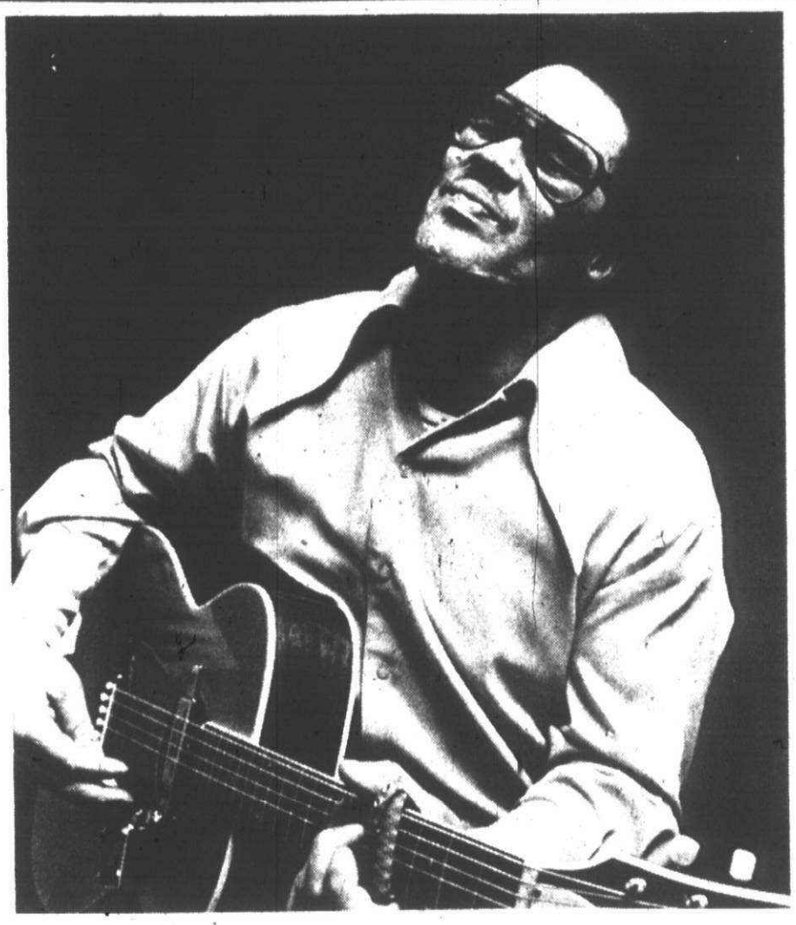

Nov.3-7—"Two English Girls," Francois Truffant, director, and "Monty Python And The Holy Grail," Gilliam and Jones.

Nov. 10-14—A double bill for Hitchcock fans, "The Lady Vanishes," and "Marnie."

Nov. 17-21—Two more from the master of suspense, Hitchcock's "Stranger On A Train," and "Psycho."

Dec. 1-5—Vittorio DeSica's Academy Award winning "The Garden Of The Finzi-Continis," and "Love Goddesses," a 60-year history of the treatment of women on the screen," directed by Turrel and Ferguson.

Dec. 8-12—"Seven Beauties," by Lina Wertmuller, and Sidney Pollack's "Three Days of the Condor."

He has performed solo recitals at the Brooklyn Academy of Music at Brooklyn College and also shows at the college with John Lee Hooker, Albert King, and the Wooten Singers. He has also appeard with singer Don McLean at the Bottom Line in New York.

PARASOLS & Galoshes

By GAE McCORD

By GAE McCORD

The warmth of the Currey Weed home in Beacon Hill provided a perfect rainy day setting for the Symphony League membership coffee on Tuesday, Sept. 21.

Among League members on hand to welcome prospective members, answer questions, and help make decisions about which group to join were Mrs. Kenneth Merrill, Mrs. John Funk, Mrs. Vernon Raos, Mrs. Kenry Ferrari, and symphony society president, Mrs. Charles Lang.

Lois Andres, Doreen Volpe, Phyllis Salsinger, and Pat Marshall listened as vice-president and hostess, Mary Weed described the fun and companionship to be gleaned by working on the antique mart, the symphony ball, bowling, playing bridge, preparing snacks for rehearsal nights, and planning fashion shows. She also gave a bit of background which you may have forgotten or may not have even known. It's education time.

Our excellent symphony is 31 years old; a rarity and source of pride at any age for a small community. Aside from the talented musicians and suave, twinkle-eyed conductor Wayne Dunlap, the "organization" is composed of two bodies, The Symphony Society, an appointed group which handles the business and decision-making for the music makers, and the League, a large group of volunteers composed of several smaller groups who make the money to pay the musicians, to play the music in the auditorium that your tax dollars built.

Mary's presentation proved effective for the 50 women who arrived, as prospective members all went home as signed up symphony volunteers. Some of the people who will be serving the community in this prideful function are Fran Kleabir, Laura Badendieck, Wanda Nash, Barb, Kind, and Martha Allen. Also getting ready to attend Sunday afternoon concerts are Diane Mabry, Dora Kolb, Jo Ellen Odem, and Sally Peterson. President, Stephanie Miller, can't help but have another bang-up year with the enthusiasm and freshness of this large new group of workers.

Football season is also reunion time at the various campuses near the old home town. Dick and Elaine Kirchgutter had fun reminising with ex-Plymouthites, the Rev. Peter Beckwith and his lovely wife, Melissa, at a recent UM game. At Michigan State that same weekend, a tail gate reunion took place when the Casey Cavells and the Dick Palmers met former Plymouthites, Dr. and Mrs. Cavell of East Lansing. Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hogan were also enjoying the exhileration of Spartan territory on the same Saturday afternoon.

It's lovely to have Bob and Altha Stewart back in home territory after their sojourn in Colorado where they checked out son Dick's new abode and florist business. The good Fr. Bob Shank also has just returned to the fold from some stimulating days spent doing things musical in London, Ontario.

A psychiatrist of some renown once wrote that people who have events to which they can look forward are usually emotionally healthy. A mentally healthy populous we must have, therefore, because the weeks and months ahead are simply full of therateutic events. Forget your shrink and contemplate The Allegro Fashion Show, Women's Club Guest Luncheon, Fowl Festival, the Symphony Ball, the Historical Museum's exciting plans for children, St. John's new look Christmas Bazaar, high school productions, symphony concerts, and the Arts Council Follies! Watch this column for further flashes on who's staying stable and how.

DOG TRAINING
You say your dog drags you down the street and you got your knees all skinned up; he jumped on your mother-in-law and got her dress dirty; he chased your neighbor over the fence and tore the seat of his britches out; he won't come when you call him off the mailman; and he bit the Judge in the Show Ring? Is that your trouble, Bunky? Well pick up that phone, call Dog World, see how 5 in a class instead of 25 - can give your dog the Citizen-of-the-Year Award. 464-3615

New Dodge for '77

Dodge Charger Special Edition has a new grille for 1977, with a horizontal texture and a five-piece tape stripe application. As an option, the car offers a removable hatch roof of tinted, see-through glass panels over the driver and right side passenger areas. They are easy to remove and can be stored in the trunk. SE also features a new hood tape treatment, and distinctive deck and side stripes.

Starting a cold car isn't all that difficult

Only a few of the cars in Detroit won't start tomorrow morning. Most will fire up, just like always.

But what if the car that won't start is yours?

Generally, the problem is a worn-out battery, a loose or dirty battery cable connection or—yes, it happens—an empty gas tank.

Take out the battery and fuel woes and that probably means very few cars are unable to get up and go.

With cold weather threating, and certain in two months, the Automotive Information Council in Southfield has passed along a few reminders.

Actually, a surprising number of motorists have some dated misconceptions of what to do when starting the engine.

Repeated pumping of the accelerator, for example, isn't necessary for a cold engine, or for a cold driver. One depression of the pedal is plenty.

Starting a warm engine may require slight pedal pressure. When the temperature plunges well below the freezing mark, it's a good idea to depress the accelerator. That will enrich the mixture of air and fuel before startup.

These tips do more than help you get started. Actually, they will conserve energy. Those pedal pumps boost the gas comsumption. Another point: Once the car starts, don't race the engine or allow it to idle for more than 15 seconds. Immediate driving warms the engine faster. When you warm the engine faster, you heat the water which heats the heater which heats the air which heats you, which is the whole point of the heater.

One of the more common results of improper starting procedure is engine flooding. You will be able to smell gasoline if you've flooded the carburator—and you won't be able to start the engine.

Just press the accelerator to the floor and hold it there while cranking the engine. When the engine catches, let it run a few seconds to clear off the excess gas.

A sure way to waste fuel is to keep the engine running while your car isn't moving. Turn it off while waiting in line at the drive-in window of the bank or while waiting in lines in general. It takes less fuel to restart the car than keeping it running when the car isn't going anywhere.

After you are on your way, it's still recommended that you keep accelerator play to a minimum. Remember: A steady foot saves you money, saves energy and gives your passengers a much smoother ride. The driver who zooms from the signal light, hits the brake and stomps the accelerator again is wasting gasoline—probably gallons of it every week.

As with everything else, when in doubt, read the rules. Check the owner's manual for specific recommendations on starting your engine, especially in colder weather.

MEIJER 1-STOP SHOPPING GUIDE

4TH anniversary SALE

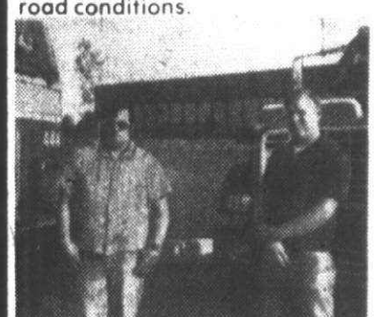

New & Views

"KEEP YOUR SHINY SIDE UP AND YOUR GREASY SIDE DOWN"

THAT MEANS "DON'T HAVE AN ACCIDENT" in C.B. Jargon. A large number of today's motorists have Citizen Band Radios in their automobiles or trucks, some for emergencies, business or just a hobby. Many of our Meijer truck drivers also have C.B. radios for all three reasons.

MEIJER DRIVERS are on the alert for stranded motorists with car troubles and have assisted at accidents where help is needed quickly. Add to this the fact that many of our drivers have had first aid training and you have a working organization which adds "emergency help" to our Meijer policy of courtesy.

C.B. RADIOS help to keep drivers alert and aware of the road situations ahead of them on the highway. The Michigan State Police are now monitoring C.B. channels 9 and 19, and Meijer drivers as well as other C.B.'ers are able to advise the police of emergency situations or reckless drivers who are endangering themselves and others on the road. Channel 9 is used to broadcast emergencies; Channel 19 is used to find out road conditions.

Bob Cardosa and Don Boos "Breaker John Q. Public. Got your ears on? This is a Meijer 18-wheeler with a 10-14. Do you copy?"

TWO OF OUR DRIVERS are active members of C.B. clubs. Don Boos (handle - "Chubby") is a member of Radio Emergency Patrol from Lansing. (Channel 22). They have a road patrol on Friday nights to help people in emergencies or car breakdowns. They have a base on stand-by for a phone call (land line) for a wrecker, if needed, and to protect them from false alarms which could be dangerous. Another club in Lansing is called the "C.B. Nuts" and our driver, Bob Cardosa (handle - "Red Wagon") is a member. (If you're interested in C.B. equipment or accessories, stop in at our Auto Supply Department at your nearest Thrifty Acres and look us over.)

OUR MEIJER TRUCK DRIVERS and most C.B.'ers are serious in their desire to help in any emergency and they also make many friends along the way.
