Recall forms due in 11 days

Unless Lynn LaBell hurries her petition drive seeking the recall of Treasurer Anne Bradley and Trustee Gene Daley, Canton residents could be forced to pay for two separate recall elections, warns Orvylle Tungate, Wayne County deputy clerk.

Peter Gabbert has successfully finished his drive to collect at least 1,251 petitions to test the reign of Supervisor Harold Stein. Mrs. LaBell expanded the movement to include Treasurer Anne Bradley and Gene Daley in a recall vote when she collected her first signature May 21.

Mrs. LaBell says she is more than half-way towards the goal of at least 1,251 signatures.

The timetable of the two recall drives worries Tungate, who says election law demands that the Stein recall election be scheduled for a date within 60 days after the county verifies that at least 1,251 valid signatures were submitted.

While Gabbert has been delaying turning in his 1,280 locally- verified signatures as a courtesy to Mrs. LaBell, he must turn in the petitions by Friday, June 25.

Deputy Clerk Tungate says if Mrs. LaBell is serious about wanting to avoid forcing Canton voters to pay for two separate recall elections, she must turn in her batch of recall petitions "at the most 15 days" after Gabbert submits his.

"I've heard Mrs. LaBeil say in the paper she does not want to see two recall elections held," Tungate said, "but that may amount to just a lot of hot air if we don't receive both groups' petitions around the same time."

Contacted last Thursday, Mrs. LaBell said she was not aware of the time restraints.

"Wow. I thought that since the county clerk had to schedule an election within 60 days of verifying recall petitions that if we came in within during that period we'd be included on the ballot," LaBell said.

"I thought we could get on the ballot if we gave them 10 days prior notice."

Tungate said part of the problem is that recall supporters have not been in contact with his office.

"We've had a lot of conversation with the people they are attempting to recall," Tungate said, "but little contact with the recall forces."

GABBERT SAID last Thursday that he would withhold submitting the Stein recall petitions to the county clerk until the last day he can legally file—Friday, June 24—to allow Mrs. LaBell more time to collect petitions.

"Some of our people are getting a little antsy," Gabbert said. "Peter Bundarin asked me the other day when I was taking the petitions down to the county building. We'll hold off turning our petitions in until we see how they do with theirs this weekend. If she asks us to hold off until our deadline, I guess we'll do that."

Gabbert admits he is helping Mrs. LaBell with her recall effort even though he says he does not totally agree with it.

If a recall election, (or elections) is held, Gabbert said he will vote to oust Stein and Bradley.

Why, then does his name also appear on a Daley recall petition.

"I think if enough people want to decide whether he should stay on the board by a recall election, I'll help them bring it up to a vote," said Gabbert. "But that doesn't mean I'll vote for his recall when I go into the booth. I can't see where Daley has done anything wrong."

Both recall movements have "a common cause," said Gabbert, "the betterment of government."

As of last Friday, Mrs. LaBell said she and "about 25" supporters have already collected about 970 signatures that will have to be checked first by Canton Clerk John Flodin to determine if the signers are registered to vote in Canton.

THE DOOR-TO-DOOR effort to collect signatures on Bradley-Daley petitions will be stepped up, according to Mrs. LaBell.

"And we're going back to Harvard Square parking lot to solicit signatures," she said.

On May 27, the manager of Kroger's supermarket in Harvard Square asked recall petition circulators to leave the premises after people complained of harrassment.

"I think we're in the right," said Mrs. LaBell, "as long as we're not soliciting for money in a public place."

Farm tax break bill aired locally

A public hearing to discuss legislation aimed at preserving agricultural and undeveloped land by providing tax breaks has been scheduled by the bill's sponsor, State Rep. Thomas H. Brown (D-Westland). The hearing is set for 2 p.m. Monday in the Canton Charter Township Fire Hall located at the intersection of Canton Center and Cherry Hill Roads in Canton. A second hearing will be held June 27 in Kalamazoo.

The measure, known as the "urban land preservation program" would be available to any local unit of government located in a county of 200,000 or more population or any city, village, charter township or township that is within a 25-mile radius of an urban center.

Brown, chairman of the house towns and counties committee, said the meetings were scheduled in order to give citizens a chance to express their views and opinions on the legislation.

"The proposal is aimed at preserving farm land on the fringe of urbanized areas where development pressure is the greatest, and taxes could reasonably be expected to increase beyond the farmer's capacity to pay them," said Brown. "It would relieve the pressure of taxes by allowing breaks to eligible persons."

According to Brown, eligibility for tax breaks would be determined by a council appointed mostly by local officials who know the area and are familiar with development patterns.

"In exchange for the tax benefits, the land owner would have to agree to escrow his development rights with the local governmental unit for a specified period of time," said Brown. "In many ways, the proposal is similar to the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act, except that the decision-making would be at the local level and the state would only be involved in financing.

"This is a piece of legislation which, directly or indirectly, could affect all Michigan residents, and I am optimistic of a good turnout at the hearings," said Brown. "I am interested in criticism just as much as I'm interested in support, because I want to make sure this is a solid, workable bill which will do precisely what it is designed for."

Silvers favors 1-man patrols

By GLENN BUNTING

The long-held belief that police work best in pairs was dealt a setback last week by researchers studying police behavior in San Diego.

The report challenged the standard police practice of assigning two patrolmen to a car on the assumption it reduced danger. These findings could encourage police departments to eliminate the expensive two-man patrols in favor of the more efficient single units, according to the study.

THE LOCAL implications of the study results, however, are minimal. Most police representatives said the study, sponsored by the police foundation, a private research organization, is simply another in a series of ancient debates on the patrol issue.

"The argument on whether one-man police cars are safer than two has been going on for as long as there has been police protection," said Tim Ford, Plymouth chief of police. "Personally, I'm not at all certain the findings of this study are scientifically valid."

All forms of police protection in the City of Plymouth, and the townships of Plymouth and Canton, employ one-man patrol cars during the day, and two-man cars on the afternoon and midnight shifts.

IN CANTON, Carl Silvers, police commander, favors single-unit patrols because they are less expensive and provide higher visibility.

"I'm not advocating one-man cars in Detroit, it's too dangerous. But in Canton, there's no real threat," Silvers said.

"Some people are screaming because my sergeant has been riding alone, but it's not that dangerous." Silvers would like to implement one-man patrol cars in Canton, with one two-man car for back-up purposes. But he said he would run into some opposition.

"Most of the officers like riding with partners. But if we go to a regular department, I'll try and push for single units. We wouldn't put reserves by themselves until they've had enough training."

The Wayne County Sheriff's patrol, which provides police protection for the townships of Plymouth and Canton, has a clause written in its contract stipulating patrolmen must be paired at night, according to Inspector Robert Sullivan.

Sullivan doesn't think too highly of the study's findings. "These surveys get a little bit twisted sometimes. I'm not anyone to challenge a college professor, but I've got 22 years on the street that says two-man patrols save lives."

The State Police are not affiliated with a union, but it has been a department policy for more than 25 years for patrolmen to double after dark, said Lt. William Tomczyk, commander of the Northville post.

THE REPORT suggested that police departments could get more for their money by switching to single-officer patrol cars.

During the year of the study, 22 two-officer teams experienced 117 "critical incidents," primarily assaults on officers and situations where crime suspects resisted arrests. But the 22 single-officer units suffered only 62 critical incidents.

Ford said all the study did was state the obvious. "Certainly, it's going to be safer with one-man patrols, because you don't do as much." Said Sullivan: "In potentially dangerous situations involving a gunman, one-man units are instructed to wait for back-ups. In this sense, it's obviously safer."

Silvers said there is a little bit of psychology involved in these types of studies. "Citizens will look out for a man who's by himself. When two men get together, they tend to be more aggressive and cocky; they pose a threat to citizens. I think one-man units will find people more cooperative."

Conversely, Ford said two-man units are in a position to exercise wiser judgement, resulting in less attacks on police officers and a lower number of citizen-invoked lawsuits.

A fond farewell

Anne and George Bradley's backyard and rear property received a clean bill of health recently from Canton's ordinance officer. The owners of B&K Lawn and Garden Service, the Bradleys were ticketed last June for storing junk cars, trucks, machines and scrap metals in the open. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Bradleys' blight case dismissed

A misdemeanor blight charge against George and Anne Bradley has been dropped by Canton Township.

The local ordinance violation was written against the Bradleys' B&K Lawn and Garden Service, June 25, 1976 by Canton Ordinance Officer Bruce Phillips.

Phillips issued the citation after observing "inoperable tractors, scrap metal, grocery shelves and the cab and back section of a truck" in the rear of the Bradley property.

Five months after the citation was issued, Mrs. Bradley was sworn in as treasurer for the township. Her husband George works as a clerk at Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. in addition to being proprietor of B&K Lawn and Garden Service, 6438 N. Canton Center Road.

In an earlier court appearance, George Bradley had asked the court to allow him time to comply with the clean-up order from 35th District Court Judge Dunbar Davis.

Phillips said a recent check of the Bradley property showed substantial improvement.

"There were a couple piles here and there left, but not sufficient enough for a truckload, said Phillips.

Phillips said junk cars and trucks, scrap metal and wood, and auto parts were removed by Bradley after the court order.

"The only thing left in the yard is a few tractors that are being used for spare parts," Phillips said. "Since his business is repairing tractors and lawnmowers, we decided that was not junk. The township is not looking for the penalties or fines. We were interested in seeing the yard cleaned.

Bradley previously said the blight citation was prompted by his wife's decision to enter politics and oppose former supervisor Robert Greenstein.

"Now the township and B&K Sales and Service are good friends again," Bradley said. "We are in compliance."

Bradley explained that in the 23 years he's lived in Canton he accumulated a lot of equipment and parts. Up until the recent building boom, he said, nobody cared if people stored cars, parts and scrap that might be of use at a later date.

B&E duo pleads guilty

A Plymouth man and a Canton woman pled guilty last week to charges of attempted robbery, after a May 2 helicopter arrest at 49279 Ford Road, Canton.

Robert McFall, 20, and Vera Kinzinger, 18, were originally charged with breaking and entering an occupied dwelling with intent to commit larceny, but agreed to plead guilty to the reduced charge of attempted burglary.

Ms. Kinzinger, however, faces possible sentencing on an attempt to carry a concealed weapon. The prosecution alleges she carried a butcher's knife at the time of the burlary, ac-

HOW TO PICK 'EM

Want some ideas on how to pick winning numbers in Michigan's new daily lottery game. Operators of the game tell the different techniques used by buyers to select numbers that will be winners. Turn to Page 2A.

Residents tell secrets

How daily lottery numbers are picked

BY W.W. EDGAR

Dream books that haven't been used for years are being taken out of the closets and dusted off. Old family bibles that list the names of the family back three and four generations are being used more than ever.

Male members of the family are looking up the batting averages of their baseball heroes and some are using their bowling scores and averages.

Others are carrying a rabbit's foot for the first time since they were youngsters.

It's all because of the new Michigan daily lottery that allows you to pick a number—play it straight or box it—just like the numbers game.

"The most popular reason for selecting a number that I've seen so far," Lois Mc Allister, of the Mc Allister Grocery in Plymouth, confided, "is the date of your birth. Then men pick their own and then, on second thought, take a ticket corresponding with their wife's natal day."

The clerk at a Canton outlet who wished to remain anonymous also claimed that birthdays are the main reason for the choice of a ticket. She later confided that one man approached her and claimed the moon was in the right place and his birthday always has been lucky."

AFTER MAKING a round of the lottery stations, here is a partial list of the reasons customers give for selecting the winning number:

- Birthdays, including children's birthdays.
- Wedding dates of great grandparents that are found in the old family Bible.
- The badge number of police and firemen and the badge number of plant employes.
- The last three digits of a social security number.
- Baseball players' records (one chap in Plymouth used Babe Ruth's home run total—714—but it didn't win).
- Bowling scores from both single games and series totals. Others use bowling averages.
- Dream books.
- Personal lucky numbers.
- The last three digits of an auto license. Others use the number on the auto insurance policy.

"Would you believe it?," Mrs. Mc Aallister asked, "A man came in here and bought a bottle of wine. Then he scanned the bottle until he noticed a patent number and selected that. But it didn't win."

IN A CANTON station, one of the men carried a rabbit's foot with him and rubbed it all the time he was arranging the purchase of a number.

"On another occasion," the clerk said, "a man asked me to pick a number. I hesitated. But I finally picked one and he bought seven on it and the number didn't win."

In Plymouth, a customer selected 000 as the choice, not once, but twice.

One man in Canton, passing the lottery window, walked outside to gaze at the moon.

"A full moon is always lucky for me," he said, "but it isn't full tonight. So I'll wait until another time."

Another popular scheme is to stand in line at the window, then call across the aisle to another market customer and shout, "Give me a number."

While various lottery stations are doing a great business, it comes in various portions of the day.

In Plymouth there usually is a group waiting for the stations to open at 6:45 a.m.

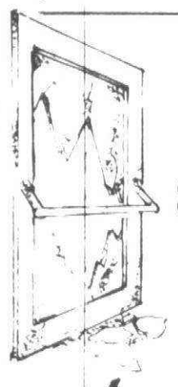

Penny Wright resigns chair

Penny Wright, candidate for the Plymouth City Commission, has resigned her position as chairperson of PROGress (People for Responsible and Open Government) at the group's June meeting.

Ms. Wright says she feels this action will help preserve the independence and objectivity of the citizen's group. James Tyo of Blunk Street has been named new chairperson of PROGress.

Buyers use a lot of gimmicks before deciding which numbers to pick for the daily lottery game at Kroger's (above) at Sheldon and Ford roads, Canton, and at Beyer's Rexall Drugs on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Look, ma! We made it

At first glance, they might have looked just like any other graduating high school class.

But in their own eyes, the class of 1977 was anything but "usual." And rightly so.

Some came dressed in shirts and ties and semi-formal dresses; others made their appearance in cutoff shorts and tennis shoes; while some came barefoot.

They came to the Centennial Educational Park football field to bid farewell to their high school days.

The 750 graduating seniors of Plymouth Salem attended commencement exercises on Thursday night. And Plymouth Canton seniors took the field Friday.

Instamatics flashed as proud parents looked at each other and smiled as their "where did we go wrong" son or daughter accepted a diploma.

The speakers gave their traditional message of farewell, warning the students that the road ahead would not be an easy one to travel at times. A truer cliche was never spoken.

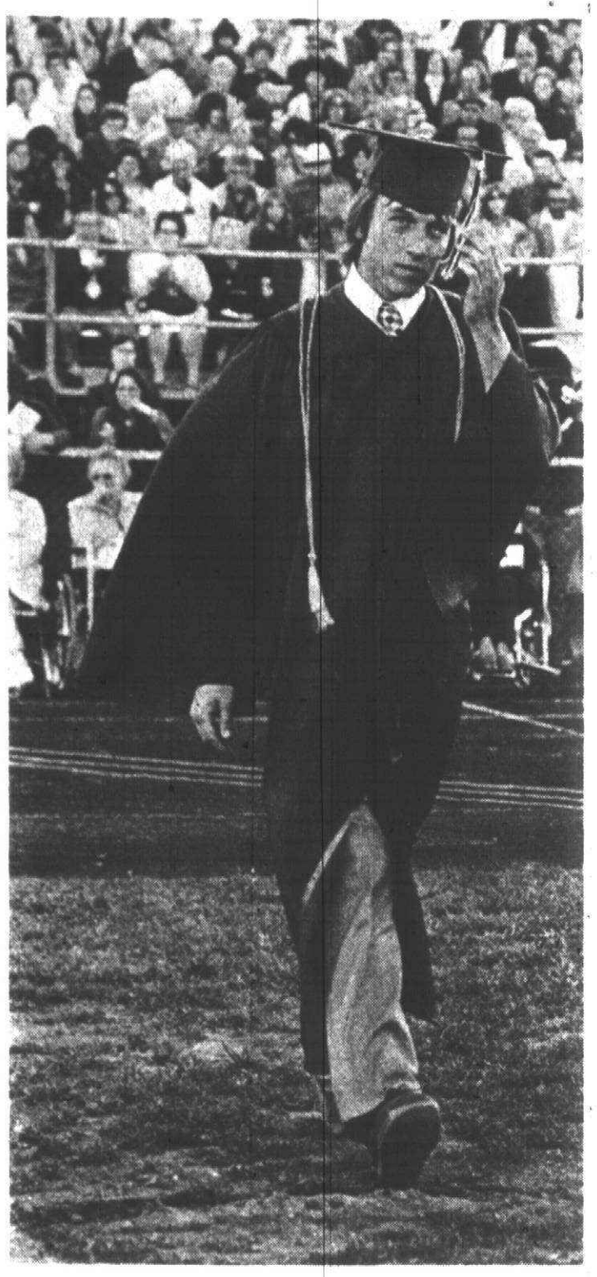

The new graduates listened somewhat attentively, but each one, lost in his or her memories, thought: "I made it this far, I'm ready for whatever is in store."

Mark Bosche, Plymouth Salem senior class president, jokingly told his classmates that there would be no guest speaker because "Farrah couldn't make it."

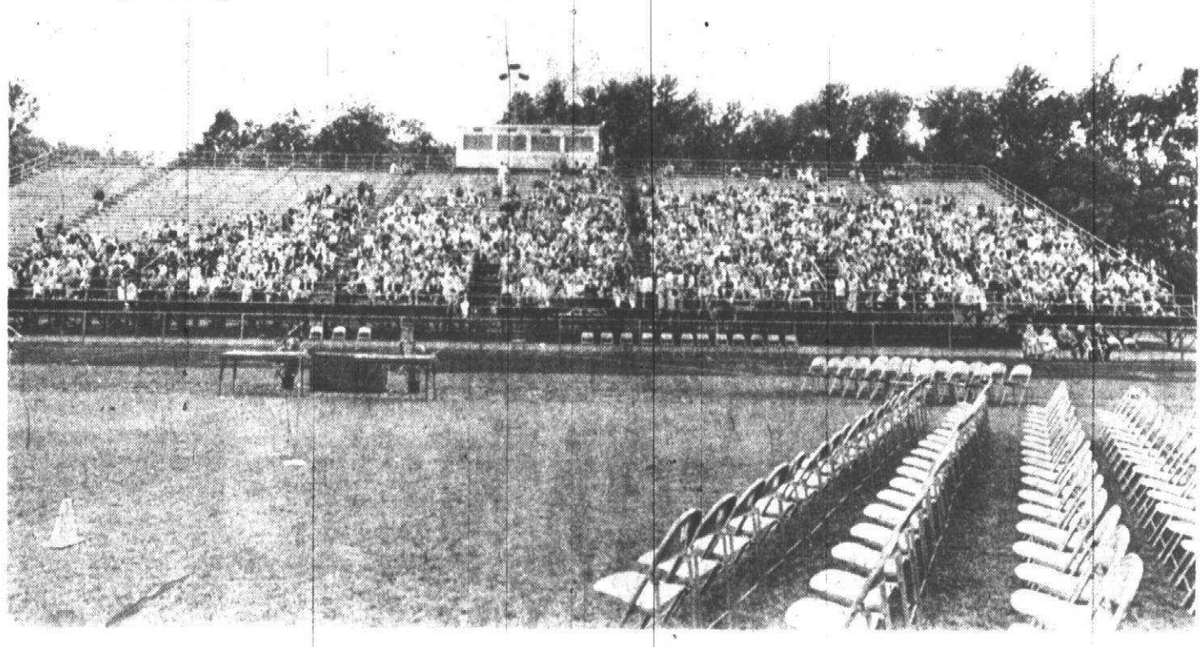

He was referring, of course, to the blond-haired celebrity of 1977—Farrah Fawcett-Majors, star of the Charley's Angels television series.

Some of the students passed around yearbooks which they'll look back on in years to come and attempt to decipher the in jokes.

"R.M.A. Remember me always. '77." School's out for summer. School's out forever—for some.

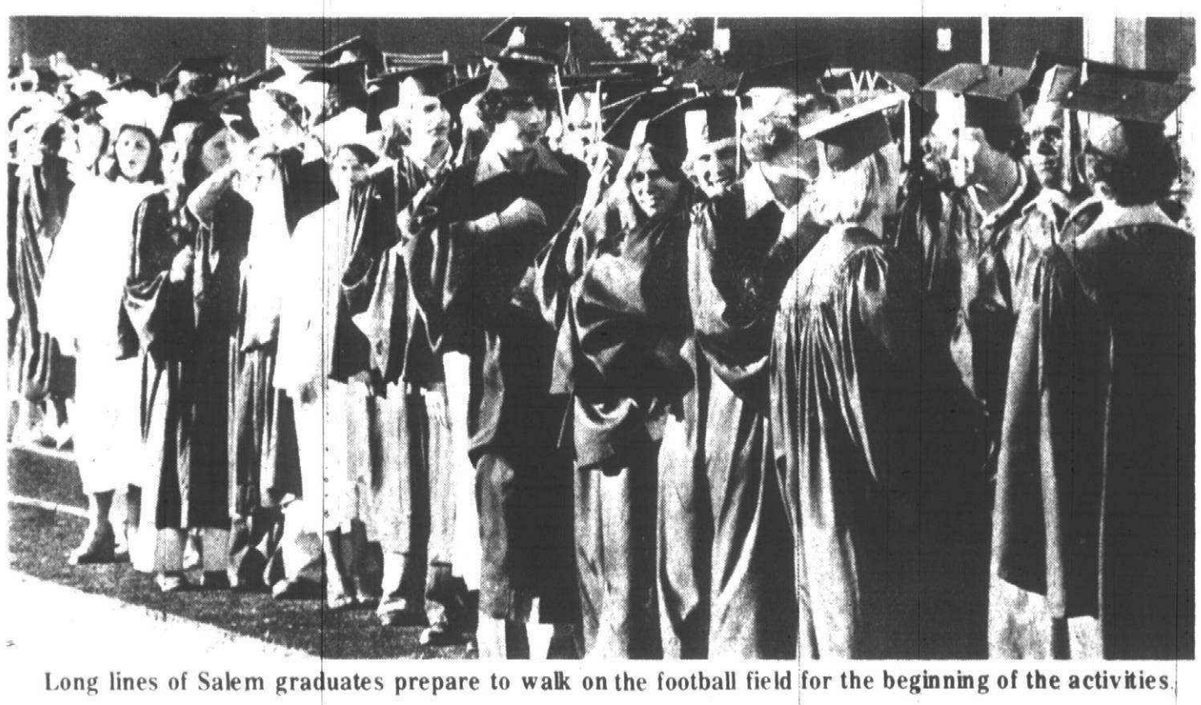

Mark Bosche salutes his Salem classmates after completing his speech as class president.

Crowds of people were present to congratulate the 1977 graduates at both Canton and Salem ceremonies last week.

Canton class president Mary Williams prepares to give her graduation speech.

Long lines of Salem graduates prepare to walk on the football field for the beginning of the activities.

More than 45 teachers actively participated in Canton's graduation last Friday.

Many different faces were in both crowds—attentively watching the graduates.

Happy Canton graduates wait to receive their diplomas.

CREDIT UNIONS OFFER YOUNG PEOPLE A CHANCE TO DO THINGS FOR THEMSELVES

Most young people want to be independent.

They also want to be treated as individuals. And they want to be trusted.

As family-orientated organizations, credit unions offer young men and women individual membership and individualized services for handling many of their own financial needs. It's an opportunity for establishing identity and building independence.

Certainly there can be nothing wrong in young people wanting to do things for themselves.

Credit unions help give them that chance.

What is a Father?

A father comes in most any size and likes most any kind of pie

...A father likes cars, football, pretzels, taking naps and Mom

...A father doesn't like loud noises, mowing the grass or seeing his kids sick in bed

...A father works hard getting his youngsters everything they want, but he makes them work for some things, too

...A father is a guy who's overworked and underpaid, but he's always there when you need him

...A father is the most wonderful man in the world

...Especially when he's a father like yours.

High and dry sits Canton Supervisor Harold Stein inside the dunk tank Friday night at the Jaycee Fair. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

Into the drink goes Supervisor Stein, as a softball finds the target. Stein's sweatshirt which read "Super" wasn't as soaked as his white Levi pants. The politician dunking has become an annual event in the Canton Jaycee Fair and Stein took it like a good sport—a water sport. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

Jaycee Fair partly cloudy

The youngsters enjoying gooey goodies and scary rides weren't aware of it, but the Jaycees 1977 Canton Fair had its share of problems.

First, rain cancelled the first day of the fair by causing equipment trucks to become stuck in the mud.

Next, rides were slow in being assembled because many employees of Happyland Rides walked off the job or refused to show up for work, according to Jaycee officials.

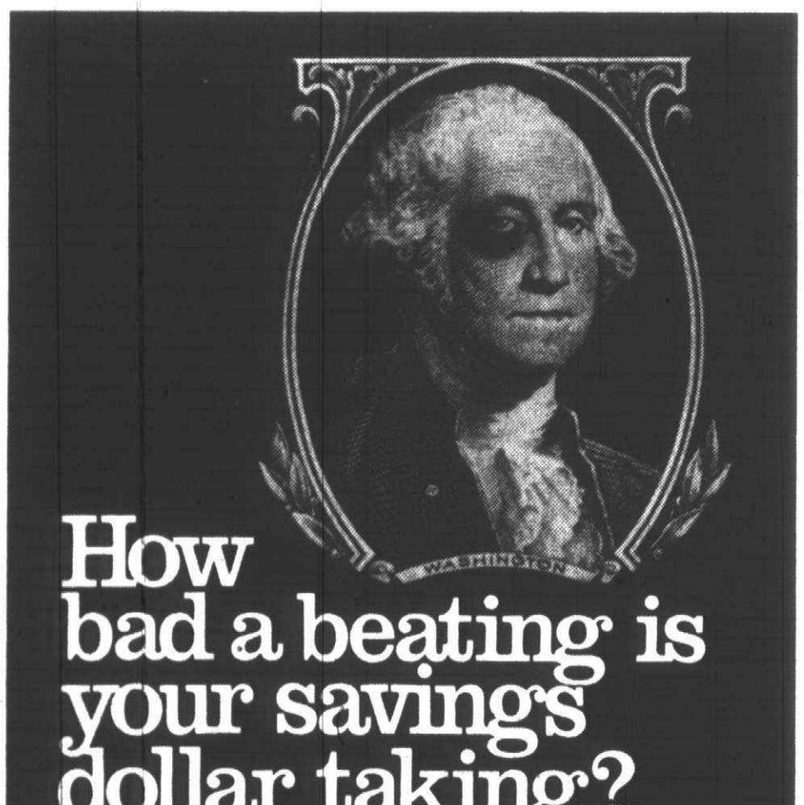

On Thursday afternoon the Jaycees were to host close to 100 children from the Plymouth Center for Human Development as a free day at the fair for the retarded.

That day a group of attendants at the Plymouth Center went out on strike, so only 35 youngsters were able to attend.

Business was good on the weekend nights, but Mike Neal, Jaycee officer, said the fair proceeds are not expected to meet the Jaycee goals.

"It really could affect the operations of the Canton Jaycees during the year," said Neal. "This particular event is our biggest project of the year. Money we make here goes to the nature trails, scholarship and kiddie day for the retarded.

"For the most part this week has been a fiasco."

How bad a beating is your savings dollar taking?

Building a hedge against inflation is a must in today's economy. Just putting more money in the bank isn't enough. Who knows what those paper dollars will be worth when you need them?
Precious metals could be the answer. Their intrinsic industrial value — over and above their worth as an exchange medium — traditionally keeps their prices from slipping as much as paper money. That's why you should talk with us — Premex, Inc. — one of the nation's fastest growing precious metals exchange companies.

FREE INVESTORS' GUIDE We'd like you to have a free copy of our "Investors' Guide to Precious Metals." It's a detailed guide to precious metals investment that shows:
How to purchase $3,000 worth of gold or silver for just $1,000 down. How your investment in precious metals can actually increase during a downward trend in the economy. How our contacts with London, Paris, Zurich and Singapore can keep you in constant touch with world market trends.

THE TIME TO ACT IS NOW The time to start fighting inflation is now. Mail the coupon, or dial toll-free 800-521-2950. Kinzinger faces charges cording to her attorney, Mira Ruben.Both persons are scheduled for sentencing on July 29 in Westland circuit court.

The couple was reportedly caught in the act of breaking into the home of Verible Vipperman, when the homeowner returned from an ice cream store with his girlfriend. Vipperman detained Ms. Kinzinger, and called the police to apprehend McFall, who escaped in the woods at the rear of the house, the homeowner said.

Less than 20 minutes later, McFall was flushed out of the woods by Canton Police near Hanford Road and spotted by the Wayne County air patrol, police said. Ptl. Pilot Robert Michalak landed the county copter in a field, and Ptl. John Wasilenski confronted the suspect.

McFALL ALLEGEDLY threatened Wasilenski with a tire iron, which police said was used to pry open Vipperman's back door.

Observer article biased, negative?

Editor:

Once again, you made too much ado about absolutely nothing in your article entitled "Greenstein Allies Search for a Spy."

I have been told there is a code of ethics for newspaper reporters but it seems the Observer reporters do not respect it. When you called me on May 20th (I didn't call you) you were obviously probing for information on the Bradley-Daley recall action. I was unable to give you the story you wanted and you concocted one out of trivia.

Really! Was printing my age newsworthy? Where did you ever get the idea that "supporters of former supervisor Robert Greenstein are trying to find the spy" within the write-in committee who "leaked a letter" to the press. There is neither the time nor the inclination to do so. These concerned residents of Canton can only move forward, accomplishing what they think is right for our township.

THOSE PEOPLE you refer to as "spies" will have to live with their own consciences.

Your statement that the write-in (group) meeting of May 11th was a secret meeting was way off base. My understanding of the new Sunshine Bill—Open Meetings Act is that it is intended for publicly-paid officials to prevent them from holding closed meetings and possibly making decisions not beneficial to the township and its taxpayers.

Does it seem likely that we would hold a "secret" meeting—as you stated—in a public building such as the Canton High School cafetorium. That's like holding a secret meeting in a fish bowl.

For example, our homeowner association meetings are held at the high school and are considered private. We have never been harrassed by reporters.

These meetings are not funded by the taxpayers and our board makes the decision on whether the news media and other guests should be invited. What I am trying to say is that private citizen's meetings are not obligated by law to be open to the public because the occupants are not being paid by the taxpayers.

As far as "intrigue" is concerned, the press appears to be creating and promoting this idea using words such as "spies," "leaked letter," "family," "secret meetings," etc. What is your intent? Is it to discredit the recall effort or to increase your sale of papers with this type of reporting?

PERSONALLY, I feel it was invasion of privacy for the press to print out-of-context excerpts from a private (write-in committee) letter; disrupt a private meeting by taking pictures through a window; asking those attending for interviews; phoning my home and asking probing questions and then printing a negative article using my name on the front page of the Observer (5-23-77).

This last invasion is disruptive to my family and my children have advised me that in the future I should say "no comment." It is not my desire to close off communications like this but you give me no choice

I am just a private citizen and have no intention of running for public office. The only reason I have been actively involved in township government is because I became concerned about too-rapid, uncontrolled growth and its adverse effects on my taxes, schools, services, environment, ecology and people.

Your paper has consistently been reporting negatively on the write-in, recount and recall—all voluntary efforts of private citizens. These are all democratic citizen rights given to the people by the Constitution to protect them from manipulations of some corrupt politicians.

MARTHA E. MILLER
Canton Township

Editor's Note: Mrs. Miller espouses a curious double standard. She apparently is saying that only politicians must conduct business openly and above board; grass roots political groups are exempt. The leaked "private letter" which invited members of the Greenstein "family" (the letter's term, not ours') was laden with unprofessional name calling, referring to Treasurer Anne Bradley and Trustee Gene Daley as "yo-yos" and calling Supervisor Harold Stein "our own little corrupt dictator right here in Canton." It is no wonder she and other supporters were embarrassed when the newspapers printed excerpts from a letter inviting people to a meeting we were barred from attending.

Co-ed softball forming Tuesday

Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring a closed Co-ed Softball League for residents, who live in Canton or work here 30 hours a week.

The league will play games on Sunday afternoons. Each team consists of 20 players—10 men and 10 women. Ron Kinunen hopes to field at least four teams.

Geake outspends McDonald, 2-1 in the race for the Senate

Was campaign spending the key?

Republican R. Robert Geake of Northville outspent Democrat Patrick McDonald nearly 2-1 in winning a March 23 State Senate special election by the same vote ratio.

Yet Geake invested a rather small amount in the Feb. 23 Republican primary compared to the heavy investment of second-place finisher Jane K. Moehle of Plymouth.

It seems clear that Democrats used up their money resources in the primary. Five candidates for the Democratic nomination poured out more than $30,000 to win it. Five candidates for the Republican nomination spent a total of less than $14,000.

THESE FIGURES emerged from an Observer Newspapers study of campaign expense and receipt reports filed with the Wayne County clerk's office.

They showed that Paul Kadish, runnerup to McDonald in the Democratic primary, got more than half his $8,300 from the Michigan Education Association, parent organization of local public school teachers unions. In the general election, however, MEA switched its support to Republican Geake.

Mrs. Moehle, a former Schoolcraft College board chairwoman who has been politically inactive for the better part of a decade, spent the largest amount of any of the primary candidates—just short of $10,000. She ran second to Geake, who was serving his third term as a state representative when he won the special senate election.

Geake had most of the traditional Republican business and professional support. Organized labor was heavily behind Democrats McDonald and Josephine Hunsinger, a former state representative from Detroit who moved to Plymouth after being defeated in her old bailiwick.

Here is a candidate-by-candidate rundown:

GEAKE REPORTED spending $26,629 through the Geake Senate Committee, Citizens for Geake and himself. Only $1,600 was spent in the primary.

His biggest sources of funds were the state Republican Campaign Committee, $10,000, and the MEA, $3,500.

Other major donors were: Livonia Chamber Political Action Committee, $1,000; Real Estate PAC of Lansing, $1,000; Michigan Doctors PAC of East Lansing, $900; D.M. Clark of Plymouth, $500; the Michigan Podiatry PAC, $500; Committee of Auto Retailers, $450; Michigan Psychologists PAC, $400; the 2d-Wayne Republican Committee, $400; Livonia Police Officers Association, $300.

Contributing $200 or more were: Life Underwriters, Redford Educators PAC, Michigan Thorobred Owners and Trainers, Industrial Michigan PAC, Construction Industry Manag ment PAC, Savings Association PAC, Charles A. Bublin, J.A. Young of Jackson, Michigan Ophthalmology PAC and J.J. Swienckowski of Northville.

Fifteen individuals and organizations donated $100 or more each.

McDONALD SPENT $24,579 through the Committee to Elect Patrick J. McDonald, with about $11,000 of that being spent in the primary.

Fund-raising events brought in $14,200.

The Michigan State AFL-CIO gave twice for a total of $2,000; Retail Store Employees Local 876, $500; Michigan State Council of Service Employees, $300, and United Auto Workers CAP, $500.

Donating $200 or more were: Teamsters Local 299, the Michigan Community Education Commission, American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees Councils 12 and 23.

OTHER REPUBLICANS in the Feb. 23 primary reported these figures.

- Mrs. Moehle, just under $10,000 total including a $4,400 loan from her husband, Jack, and $3,500 of her own funds; Gordon Forrer of Northville, $300; five other donations of $100 or more.
- Mary Dumas, Wayne County commissioner from Livonia, a total of $1,257 spent and $1,107 in contributions. These included $422 from her husband, Victor, and $100 from a Citizens Testimonial Committee.
- Joe Bida, mayor of Plymouth, $845; largest contribution was $110 from Robert Plickett of Plymouth; four others gave $100 apiece.
- Howard Kimble, $193 in expenses and receipts.

OTHER DEMOCRATS in the primary reported these amounts:

- Paul Kadish of Livonia, $8,289 spent; $4,500 received from the MEA; $2,000 of his own money; seven other contributions of $100 or more.
- Josephine Hunsinger, almost $8,700 in expenses; contributions of $3,940. I. Grassam of Garden City contributed $1,435; six others gave $100 or more.
- Dan Gillis received a total of $385, including $322 from his wife, Delia.
- Douglas MacKenzie, $100 spent with no contributions.

REPUBLICANS appeared to get better political mileage for their money. GOP candidates spent a total of $38,470 in both elections and got a total of 22,210 votes, at a cost per vote of $1.73.

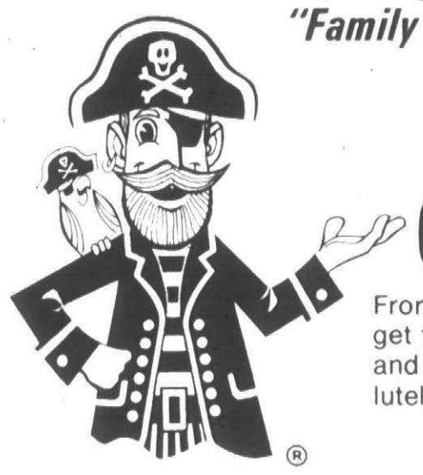

Democrats got 14,290 votes from an investment of $44,150, for an average of $3.09 per vote.

The special elections were called by the governor when State Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) resigned upon being elected 2d District congressman in 1976.

The district covers Northville, Plymouth, Livonia, Redford Township and a portion of Westland.

Because, now you can take advantage of an extended time period to repay your auto loan at Detroit Bank & Trust.

The Stroller

—By W. W. EDGAR

June 16, 1930
A day to remember

There is an old saying that one never knows how fast time flies until he signs a 90-day note.

That may be true, but as far as The Stroller is concerned there is nothing that reveals the fleeting of time more than a glance at the calendar and noting the circle around June 16.

The sight of the numerals recalls that on this date it is 47 years since that afternoon when he stood at the head of the aisle in Metropolitan Methodist Church in Detroit and watched his bride, attired in a beautiful peach colored gown, come up to meet him and have the nuptial knot tied.

Forty-seven years!

It just doesn't seem possible—but the calendar doesn't lie.

Yet, when a fellow looks back, he suddenly realizes that the entire area has changed since that afternoon when he and his bride boarded the old Buffalo boat to start a honeymoon. Now the old boat is just a memory.

It was the starting point of many a honeymoon, and its disappearance from the Detroit River and Lake Erie is one of the tragedies of the times.

When that old boat was in operation, it was the Queen of the River, and many folks in business took the night boat to Buffalo so they would be fresh to start their calls in the morning.

THE DISAPPEARANCE of the old boat isn't the only thing that has changed since that day 47 years ago.

For instance, there was no tunnel to Canada. The Ambassador Bridge was just being started, and Grand Boulevard in Detroit was still what the name implies—a grand boulevard.

Radio was just coming into its own. Until then, there were few scheduled programs, and television was considered a wild dream.

The hit of the air waves was the old "Red Apple Club" on what is now station WJR. The club went on the air every Tuesday at 10 p.m. and remained as long as song requests came in. Sometimes it was 3 and 4 a.m. before the club signed off.

It seems like an exaggertion now, but in those days, the mere mention that a fellow was hungry for a piece of apple pie would start a stream of taxi cabs to the station, each of them bringing an apple pie from some listener.

One of the treats in those days, too, was to take a walk down Woodward Avenue to Vernor's close to the river for a glass of ginger ale fortified with a bit of chocolate. It was the favorite drink of the day.

Places like Plymouth and Northville were considered "far out" and were visited only occasionally. The Stroller's favorite at the time was to have someone take him for a ride to Northville, over the rolling country and then on to Plymouth.

These trips always came when The Stroller was suffering pangs of a bit of homesickness. The ride over the rolling country was a reminder of the foot hills back home and a real cure for the homesickness.

THROUGH THE years, The Stroller and his bride have ridden the storms of depressions, and she proved something of a magician with money when he was being paid in equal parts of cash and scrip.

She did a masterful job and often tells of the time when she approached the landlord of the little home on Richton Avenue and pleaded for a reduction in rent. And she got it.

Little did we ever dream that the day would come when we would have our own home "out in the country." But Dame Fortune smiled on us and we located on a two-acre plot in the wooded section of an old abandoned farm in Livonia. It now is a fine neighborhood—and only three quarters of a mile from city hall as the crow flies.

And the bride of 47 years ago did a great job of helping to get and preserve that home and the gardens. During the war when times "got tough," she never hesitated. She drove over to the Diesel Engine Plant and offered her services. She was bound to the thought that nothing ever would interfere with our home "in the country."

Yes, many things have happened since that afternoon in 1930 when the marriage knot was tied. It was a day never to be forgotten.

Now, on the 47th anniversary, we will be sitting on the banks of the St. Clair, close by her hometown. And this is the one day when the passing of the lake freighters, always an enjoyable sight, will give way to recollections of the afternoon when we boarded the old Buffalo boat to start what has been a most interesting life.

And 47 years never passed along so fast.

School survey indicates why April bond issue failed

The major causes for the defeat of the bond issue in April appears to be high taxes and lack of trust in the school system.

That conclusion was reached after completion of a telephone survey of voters in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The survey seeking reasons for the April bond defeat was made from May 16 to May 27 by school administrators.

SOME 76 CALLS were completed, according to Florence Beier, administrative assistant for community relations.

Of the 76 calls, about one-third were made to school employees, one-third to parents of elementary and secondary level students, and another third to voters with no known school connections.

Each respondent was asked: Do you think the voters had enough information? Do you think the voters believed the information? Do you think the voters understood the need for the bond issue? What, in your opinion, was the most important reason why the voters turned down the bond issue in April?

Half responded voters had enough information, 21 per cent didn't, and five per cent were undecided. Some 28 per cent felt voters believed the information, 39 per cent felt voters didn't believe the information given, and nine per cent were undecided. Some 40 per cent of those surveyed felt voters understood the need for the bond issue, a third felt they didn't, and three per cent were undecided.

WHEN ASKED the most important reason why voters defeated the bond issue, 28 respondents or one-third answered they were unhappy with taxes being too high.

Another 14 respondents (17 per cent) answered they didn't vote yes because they didn't believe there was a need for a bond issue—that alternatives to new buildings should be used, or they felt the district might be overbuilding.

Ten answers indicated the respondents had a lack of interest in the election or were completely unaware of school problems.

Nine voted against the bond issue because of general disatisfaction with the way tax money is spent, six voted no because of a lack of faith in the school board and administration, six voted no for general dissatisfaction with schools. Seven answered they didn't know why the bond issue failed.

Stamp act traced to parking warning

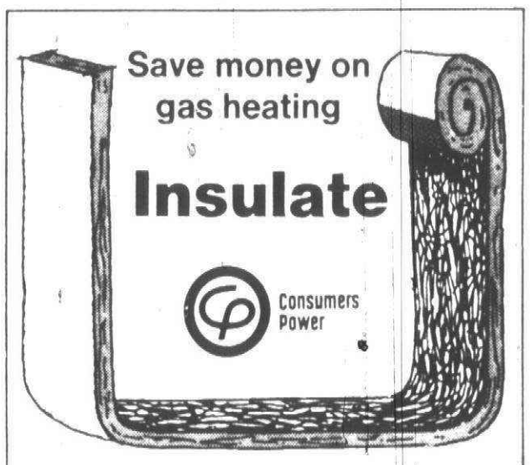

Christmas came early this year for Richard Rush, but he's not too pleased about it.

Rush, a security guard for the Michigan Bell office on Ann Arbor Road, told Plymouth Police that a company employee plastered his car windows with Christmas Seals to get even with him for issuing the man a "parking warning" ticket.

Rush said that at the time he gave the employee the ticket, he threatened to retaliate.

And he proved to be as good as his word. When Rush went to his car last Friday, he found the entire front windshield and driver's window covered with seven sheets of Christmas Seals, coupon stamps and various advertising stamps, police said.

Meet all of Schoolcraft candidates at once

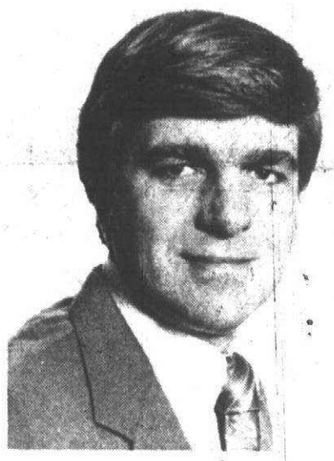

What the League asked

Three persons will be elected to Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees Monday, June 13. Nine candidates are in the running. The League of Women Voters, Livonia and Plymouth-Northville chapters, prepared a questionnaire which was distributed to each candidate. They were asked for basic background information as well as for their stands on three issues. Their answers are reprinted here.
The candidates were asked:
"Please tell your background and qualifications for this office. Include any information on your education, civic activities and any public office you have held."
"1. Do you support the proposed 0.8 mill property tax increase? If not, why? How would you order your priorities in programming?"
"2. Do you favor a Scholcraft College-Wayne State consortium concept on Wayne County Child Development property? Please explain."
"3.What are your views on mandatory course requirements such as, gym, speech, etc.?"

LEONARD E. WOZNIAK, 36, of 35920 Lyndon, Livonia.

"A 14-year resident of Livonia. Account manager with Datapoint Corp. Past president of the Livonia Jaycees. Director of Livonia Republican Club and member of the Y-Indian Guides, the Hoover School PTA and the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

1. "Yes, I fully support the millage. Should the millage fail I would support the highest programming priority going to high school graduates and young people who look to the college as a means of beginning an eduaction toward a career or toward a four-year degree. The next priorities should be determined by the size of the community that they have an impact. I further believe that direct instructional expenses should have a priority over non-instructional expenses as they relate to the operations of the college."

LEONARD E. WOZNIAK

2. "I fully support the Wayne State-Schoolcraft College consortium on the Child Development property with one major consideration—economic. This consortium would be a great asset to our communities and in fact would create an educational center in Northwestern Wayne County. However, the economic consideration must be solved before we can proceed. The sounty or state government must accept financial responsibiltiy of this venture."

3. "I believe in mandatory course requirements toward receiving a degree from an institution of higher learning. The general public expects a return on their investment in our educational system. This return consists of graduates with basic skills such as speech, English, math, etc. Also, many young people may change their career paths several times early in their working years. A broader educational base would enable these career transitions to become more easily obtainable."

KARL M. SJOGREN, 23, of 20338 Brentwood, Livonia.

"My background as a cost analyst for Ford with an MBA in finance would bring an added dimension to the board.

"As an active former student, I don't need to make assumptions about Schoolcraft; I've been there. Most important, I'm interested in the college and helping to shape its future."

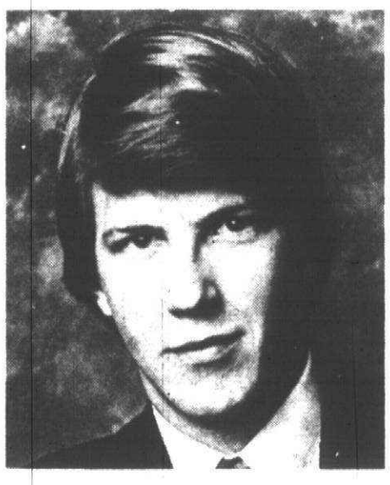

1. "I support the millage for a number of reasons. First there is no other way to increase the capacity of programs such as culinary arts that have four to five year waiting lists. Second, Schoolcraft has outgrown the temporary facilities built when the college was formed; at the same time, repairs on permanent buildings are needed. Also, passage of the millage would assure that support services such as the library and placement center would be allowed to operate on a full-time basis. Fianlly, the millage would allow a Fine Arts center on the scale this area needs to be built and operated.

"Should the millage fail, I would not be predisposed to cutting back in any particular area of programming. Rather, support services and the frequency of course offereings would be restricted. Tuition would once again be raised and no infusion of new faculty would take place.

2. "I am open-minded about the (consortium) concept but cannot support it until certain issues are addressed.

"While it would be quite costly to renovate the situation in line with legal requirements, it would probably be more expensive to build from scratch.

"The problem, however, is that the program is in need of additional facilities (e.g. two-year medical and culinary arts) would not necessarily be helped by a consortium with WSU.

KARL M. SJOGREN

"Also, if our transfer medical programs were taught at a new site, we would be placing Madonna College's excellent four-year medical programs in jeopardy by competing for potential students.

3. "I believe that the college has a right and responsibility to require courses in its degree-awarding programs. The college currently does this with English, history and other courses because it wants to assure that its graduates exceed the standards required by the increasingly-specialized job market.

"The problem, then, is not with the concept of a requirement but with making speech and physical education required. Some understanding of history is just as important for success in life as oral communications skills and an understanding of our bodies.

LAURA M. TOY, 25, of 32604 Rayburn, Livonia

"Livonia resident 24 years; Bentley High Class president; AA, Schoolcraft College; pre-law degree, University of Michigan; YWCA program director, president, Livonia Business and Professional Women's Club; chairwoman, Livonia Youth Commission; member, Schoolcraft's Women's Advisory Board; Jaycettes woman of the year, 1976. Instituted environmental awareness program, Youth Liason Corps and bike paths program."

1. "I support the 0.8 millage and my first order of priorities would be a concentrated emphasis on career education through evaluation of present courses as they relate to the students' future in the changing job market.

"The establishement of internships and expansion of field studies in liberal arts programs and in two-year curriculum health services would be stressed — encouraging students to explore out-of-classroom experiences, i.e., working with senior citizens, the disadvantaged, or in handicapped programs, thereby enabling students to experience some of life's realities rather than to just read about them in textbooks.

2. "Yes, I believe that the concept of a Schoolcraft College-Wayne State consortium on Wayne County, Child Development property would be beneficial to both schools. The location and setting offer an ideal environment for bringing higher education to the people in the growing areas of Canton, Plymouth and Northville. Not only would it provide students with easy access, but with decentralized programming offering career, technical and community services to fill the needs of a variety of people, the community college spirit could be maintained.

LAURA M. TOY

3. "As far as mandatory course requiremtns, each class and each curriculum would have to be studied. For example, persons planning to teach should have some gym experience since oft times they are called upon to discuss related topics such as health, exercise and sportsmanship — as well as to teach physical activity games requiring gym skills. Yet, I feel that the waiver of actual participation of persons over 26 should be offered an option, too. In evaluating the requirements for a course — such as speech — the administration and students should realize that people in all walks of life use speech and communications skills everyday. Skill in verbal expression is still the mark of an educated person. Therefore, a basic speech class for students is a necessity."

RICHARD J. HAYWARD, 48, of 17159 Loveland, Livonia.

"30 years of engineering, construction and business experience, with the last 12 years in an executive, decision-making postion. A bachelor of science in Business Adminstration with a mjor in accounting and finance from Madonna College. (Civic activities include) eight years serving as vice-president, board member, director and coach of the Livonia Hockey Association., past president of the Toastmasters Club, and a religious education instructor at St. Aidan's Parish."

1. "I support the millage so that the college may continue its excellent program.

"Priorities in programing should be based on the need of the individual students to be self-sustaining and self-actualizing persons. The priorities would have to vary or be changed from time to time to keep pace with the changing needs of society and the individual."

2. "At this time I cannot say whether I am in favor of a Schoolcraft College-Wayne State consortium because there are many questions to be answered such as funding, state laws regarding consortiums, maintianing the integrity of Schoolcraft College, etc."

3. "On mandatory course requirements: In a transfer program where certain courses are required for graduation from the four-year institution, the courses should be required. In an associate degree program where such courses as gym seem to fit into the overall program, the student should be counselled to take the course. For the returning or older student, who is tailoring his or her course of study to their own individual or career needs, the above mentioned courses shouold be optional."

RICHARD J. HAYWARD

HARRY G. GREENLEAF, 40, of 35936 Pinetree, Livonia

"Bachelor of management engineering, Rensselear Polytechnic Institute. Organization specialist, operations staff; 18 years personnel experience with Ford Motor Co. Civic, political, church leadership. 1970 Committee apoointed by Rensselear president to determine goals for college through 1985. Member of Livonia Rehabilitation Grant and Loan Committee."

HARRY G. GREENLEAF

1. "Yes. However, it should be understood that the actual levying of the millage, if voted, is a responsibility of the board. My posture would be to levy only that portion of the voted millage required for sound operation of the college. The full impact of the 0.8 mills should not be required until construction of a Fine Arts building is an actuality. Additionally, as a trustee I would examine the current portion of the operating budget generated by student tuition versus in the mid-1960's, as one measure to gauge proposals for tuition rate increases.

"Three criteria would be very important to me in considering program priorities: the community need for the particular curriulum program, i.e. student interest, job opportunites available or required courses for transfer to a four-year degree program; the the quality level of current and proposed courses; and cost implications. Current programs should be continuously reviewed against these criteria, and marginal programs should be either strengthened or dropped.

2. "In genral, I support the concept of consortium arrangements as being mutually beneficial to the participants. Additionally, I have long believed that public educational services should be brought in as close proximity to the user as possible, consistent with sound financial planning. This is reinforced by the current need in all sectors for energy conservation. My position on this particular proposal is still open. My decision to approve or disapprove such an arrangement would be formed on examination of specific details of the proposal; the community need for the educational opportunities which might be engendered; the extent to which the interests of all affected parties are protected, including those of other educational institutions in the Schoolcraft district; and both the short- and longer-term cost implications."

3. "I would support mandatory courses that are shown as required to achieve determined skill levels as preparation for employment opportunities in a given field or as required preparation for transfer to four-year degree programs. Although I strongly believe in the benefits an individual may accrue through both speech and physical education courses, I would not vote for making these mandatory requirements for graduation for all curriculum. I would assure that students are well counseled on the benefits of such courses."

MICHAEL M. CICCHELLA, 30, of 9063 Adams, Livonia.

"As head of a focal agency in the community, I feel I have a good 'sense of the community' and the necessary skills to evaluate community needs and to design programs relevant to those needs.

"I have several years of administrative experience in budget development. I have had training in supervisory managment, and I feel I can relate to both adminstrative and non-administrative personnel.

"I have worked with boards of management and committees all of my career and I feel I have a good understanding of how they can work effectively to the benefit of an organization."

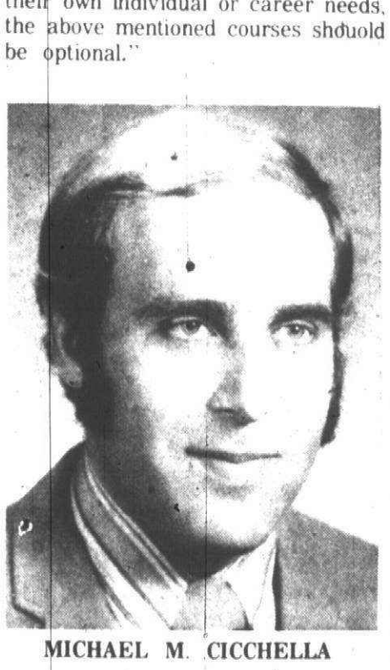

1. "I am for the millage as it relates to the operational needs of new expansion."

2. "I favor the best use of space at the Wayne County Child Development Center. This would include a Schoolcraft-Wayne State consortium and other community agencies to develop a community life center. The cost of rehabilitating the center is extremely high and would require state and federal funds."

3. "We should require physical education in its broad definition. The general knowledge base of good nutrition, proper exercise, and normal body functions is essential to all ages and helps future parents develop healthy attitudes which contribute to healthy families. Other mandatory courses need to be reviewed on their merit and their contributions to a person's total development.

"I am against placing a student on the board-at-large because of the opportunity for them to vote and utilize the present political process.

"I would like to see a strong program of field placement initiated so that students can receive class credits for work experience."

MICHAEL M. CICCHELLA

ROSINA RAYMOND, 63, of 906 Oak Drive, Livonia

"Elected Schoolcraft College board, 1971; vice-chairperson four years; alternate delegate, Michigan Community College Association, two years; acting SEMCOG delegate, two years; recently appointed to SEMCOG executive board; president, Livonia Library Commission; vice-president Livonia Historical Society; past president, Livonia BPW; speech and geneology instructor.

Married to Councilman Jerry Raymond; mother of four; 46-year resident of Livonia; BA, MA and PhD asspirant, Wayne State University.

1. "Yes, for several reasons. We're not permitted by law to operate at a deficit, and never have. However, if we're not to further curb programs and services, we need part of the 0.8 mill for current needs. Rising costs and loss of revenue, because of the single business tax, and legislative cutbacks are presenting a very real budgetary problem.

"We need the millage if we are to bond for a Fine Arts center, long a dream of our Schoolcraft College District citizens; if we are to add the culinary arts addition, sorely needed because of great demand for this excellent program; the resource center and expansion of rhe applied science and Waterman buildings.

"Bonding for these projects is ready to go when the millage is passed. Should the millage fail, we will not try to bond becasue we wouldn't have operating and maintenance money.

"We must initiate and maintain applied science programs for the job market, and as a community college, we must—and want to—serve the community's special needs and services."

2. "I did, and still do, but now it is a moot question. The need is there. Northwestern Wayne County residents wishing to select from a full range of university programs must commute long distances, whereas with Wayne State offering the upper division and graduate courses, and Schoolcraft the first two years, we would have been well served.

ROSINA RAYMOND

"However, the Wayne County commissioners rejected the joint offer, and accepted the Sacred Heart Rehabilitation Center's proposal. This failed and the door is still open to the degree that our board as authorized President Grote to have dialogue with (WSU) (President Gullen, but it is unlikely anything concrete will come out of it."

3. "All of Schoolcraft's degree requirements call for at least eight semester hours in the humanities and speech falls in this category. Speech helps the individual develop his or her self-concept and self-confidence and is primarily designed to make for effective functioning in a democratic society. The policy on physical education activity was changed from mandatory to 'optional but encouraged and counseled' because it was discriminatory."

GEORGE GRAVILA, 50, of 16732 Merriman, Livonia.

"I attended Lawrence Institute of Technology Evening School for a B.S. in industrial engineering. This enables me to understand the needs of the student.

"I have been associated with and held office in the National Organization of Romanian Youth and the local chapter. I have worked with the Livonia YMCA in establishing an AAU swimming team."

1. "Yes, I support the millage, but not necessarily all millage programs. This should be approved, if only for one item: the building of of the Fine Arts Theatre with a seating capacity of approximately 2,000 people. The need is here in the district for such a building since the performing arts are slowly leaving the Detroit community. The arts and sports are greatly supported by the suburbs; therefore, the suburbs should have such a facility for the communities to use, as well as for the performing arts.

"Western Wayne composed of Canton, Northville and the Livonia area are having such a tremendous growth that a building as proposed would eventually pay for itself through the revenue of various programs."

2. "I favor a Schoolcraft College-Wayne State consortium concept if it is beneficial to the students of Schoolcraft and the residents of the district Schoolcraft serves. This could enable the local residents to continue their education at a senior college with the convenience of staying within their community while attending a smaller college."

GEORGE GRAVILA

3. "I think mandatory course requirements are a necessity, especially speech, physical education and technical writing, etc.

"The students do not really know what their needs are until they get out into the real job world. The industry today is lacking individuals who can verbally express their views and speech training is one subject that can accomplish this and technical writing is valuable also. As for gym, the college has one of the finest facilities in the state that is not being utilized by the students, while tennis clubs, racquet clubs, the YMCA and the private clubs are flourishing with their participation. A health education program would give college credit, a reasoh for exercising and would contribute to a healthy body and be less expensive."

JACK BOLOGNA, 48, of 12275 Appletree Drive, Plymouth.

"I hold degrees in accounting and law, have held executive positions in government and industry for some 20 years and have an abiding interest in the education of young people and adults. I am a director of Growth Works, Inc., a former member of the Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish Council and former secretary of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League."

1. "I support the 0.8 mill requested by Schoolcraft College. The college has not been a general seeker of funding through property taxation nor has it placed an undue burden on area householders and businesses.

"Schoolcraft's revenue is supplied 70 per cent by tuition fees and state appropriation. Only 30 per cent comes from real estate and business taxation. The millage request, translated into dollars, represents an investment in the future of our youth of $1 per family per month.

2. "I favor the Wayne-Schoolcraft Consortium on the Northville Child Development site both because it provides convenient edcuational programming close-to-home and because it is a far better use of the property than the governor's proposed jail site.I don't believe the governor can prove to my satisfaction that Jackson and Marquette's economic development has been enhanced by thier state prisons. I believe they grew in spite of the prisons, not-because of the prisons.

3. "Mandatory course requirements for matriculation have been a bone of contention since my own college days and, I am certain, long before that. Mandatory courses are based on the assumption that school boards and educators are the only authorities on learning. While they may be authorities, they are not omniscent. Unfortunately, the learner's personal needs and goals get secondary consideration when this assumption becomes an operational philosophy. So I would treat mandatory requirements for gym and speech at the college level with great care and caution, and demand that all the learners to be affected have an equal right of direct input on that issue.

G.J. (JACK) BOLOGNA

"While I personally favor and highly recommend gym and speech courses for self-development, I see no persuasive evidence that making them mandatory rather than elective will produce a better learner. Forcing students to take music and art appreciation hasn't produced many Rembrandts or Bachs, at least not from the ranks of those compelled to do so.

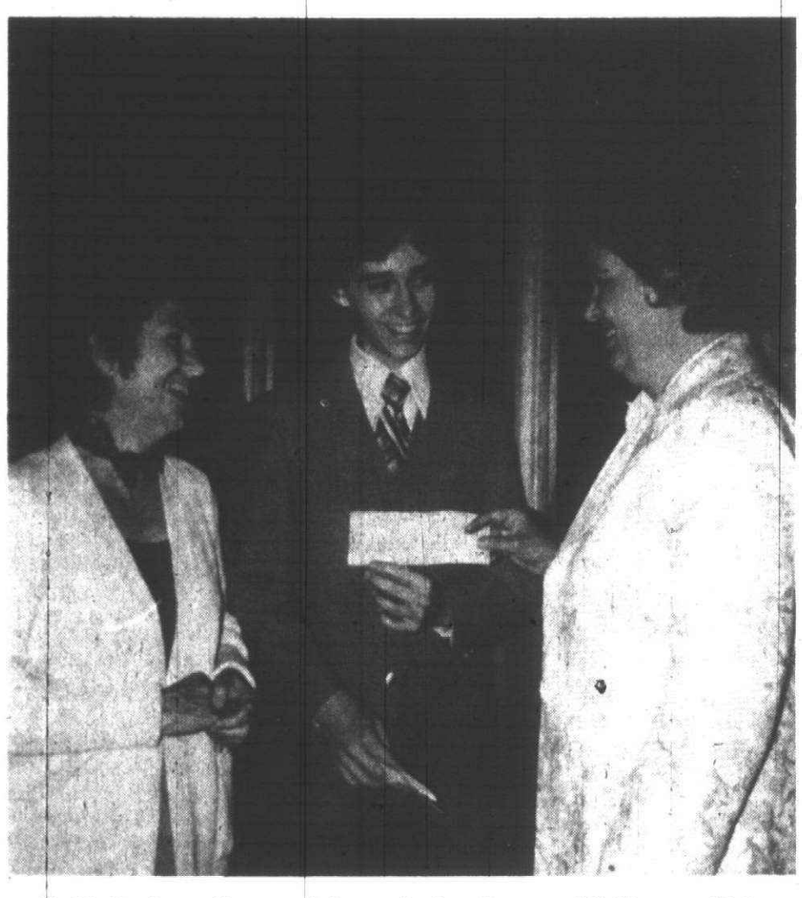

"The drive for excellence—be it physical, intellectual or artistic—is a very personal thing. It is an inner-directed drive.

"If we are talking about minimum, basic functional skill levels, I believe the situation is so different as to warrant mandatory courses. I wouldn't want to be treated by a physician who hadn't studied physiology."

Barker receives Hulce award

Todd Barker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Barker of 458 Arthur, Plymouth, has been selected as the first recipient of the Joanne Winkleman Hulce Award sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

The $500 award will be given annually to a graduating high school senior who has demonstrated outstanding ability in an arts discipline—visual, performing or literary—and who desires to continue an education in the arts.

Todd Barker, first recipient of the Joanne Winkleman Hulce Award, was congratualated by Joanne Hulce (left) and Dottie Magee, retiring president of the PCAC.

The Hulce award was established in 1975 in honor of Joanne Hulce who organized the arts council and was its director for six years.

During his four years at Plymouth Salem High School, Todd Barker has been involved in the dramatic arts program under the direction of Gloria Logan.

After taking all the theater-related courses available, he became involved in several independent study courses. Among these was a dance-choreography group which performed several times at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park.

HE HAS PARTICIPATED in all the shows produced at the school during his high school years, working either on or off-stage.

He was the mute, King Sextimus, in "Once Upon a Mattress" in 1976. He had the role of Arvide Abernathy in the 1977 production of "Guys and Dolls." His latest performance on the Salem stage was a as the Jester in the PCAC follies, "Jest Foolin'" in early April.

"Although I enjoy performing in the theatre, I also enjoy the responsibility of working behind the scenes," said Todd. He has been property master for all the shows and recently became involved in the publicity department, designing and printing much of the promotional materials.

On June 23, he will appear in "Portraits of Myself," a presentation in First United Methodist Church of Plymouth. The production will feature an expanded look at Walt Whitman's "Song of Myself" through poetry, song, drama and movement.

Barker will attend Eastern Michigan University where he was awarded a scholarship in dramatic arts which will be his major.

"Because I love all aspects of the theatre, I have not decided which to follow," said Barker. "But I will always be devoted to the theatre."

Summer jobs available here

More than 100 summer jobs are awaiting young people who qualify for the federally funded Student Career Opportunities through Relevant Experiences (SCORE) program in Plymouth and Canton this summer.

Wages for workers will be $2.30 an hour. Work supervisors will receive $3 per hour. Some of the job openings are secretary, painter, custodian, switchboard operator and short order cook.

Work is also available in lawn care and with the Wayne County Road Commission. Anyone interested in more information or applying for a job should contact Byron Richardson at Salem High School.

Conference delegate

Leslie Frederick, president of Metro Detroit Delta Theta Alumnae, will attend the sorority's diamond jubilee national convention in Columbus, Ohio, this coming weekend. As an official delegate, the Plymouth resident will participate in the sorority's biennial election of national officers.

Kimble-Kandel

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kimble of Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter Catherine to Michael Kandel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kandel of Costa Mesa, Calif.

The bride-elect graduated from Plymouth High School and Schoolcraft College. She is employed by American Airlines. Her fiance graduated from high school in San Francisco, and San Francisco State College. He is employed by Pacific Southwest Airlines.

They plan a July wedding.

Chorus ends season with party

The Plymouth Community Chorus presented its final concert of the 1977 season Sunday at Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton Township. The "Potpourri of Songs" presentation was also the final appearance for retiring conductor William Grimmer.

The excellent performance was true to its title with Mozart's "Ave Verum" and "Magic Flute," and Brahms, "Motet, Opus 24" on the same program with Leonard Berstein's "West Side Story" and Lerner and Loewe's "Gigi."

In honor of William Grimmer's retirement, the chorus held a farewell gathering in the Mayflowwer Hotel after the concert. Their gift to the conductor was a tape recorder, intended to facilitate his plans to write a text for middle school music teachers. Teaching vocal music has been Grimmer's profession since he earned his masters degree from the University of Colorado.

The community chorus has had a busy year with concerts at the Michigan State Fair, Plymouth Historical Museum, Tonquish Creek Manor, Fairlane Center, Westland Shopping Center and Kellogg Park summer concerts. The chorus will sing the national anthem at the Aug. 27 Detroit Tigers baseball game in Tiger Stadium.

The group also will share the limelight with fellow performers at the 1977 Michigan State Fair. They hope to enter a float in Plymouth's July 4 parade. Plans for this are under way.

Besides arranging concert dates, the chorus members elected officers. Cathy Conroy is president. Ken Sawle is vice-president, Letha Stonestreet is treasurer. Secretary is Colleen Bretzlaff and Harriet Wehrheim will handle publicity.

Assistant director Sara Humphery was asked to step into the role of acting director of the chorus. She accepted and will assume her new responsibilities immediately.

A PROFIT of $200 was earned by the Canton-Plymouth-Northville branch of the LaLeche League at its fund-raising garage sale. The money will be used to send representatives to the International LaLeche League convention in Toronto, Ontario, July 3-4.

The garage sale was at Millie Conway's home on Irongate in Canton. Prize winners at the sale were Karen Conger, Bev Fulkerson and Pat Charbonneau, who received gift certificates donated by the Little Angels Shop in Plymouth.

The league, staffed by volunteers, will continue to meet the needs of new mothers throughout the summer. Classes on breast-feeding are in Geneva Prebyterian Church.

THE ROYAL HOLIDAY Ladies Auxiliary held an equally successful fund-raiser with prizes being awarded to Laura Ludwig, Hildegard Moore and Betty Potts.

Profits were given to the Canton Fire Department's rescue squad in appreciation of its prompt and efficient service to park families.

The auxiliary has been busy with a number of other activities. At the May meeting, 51 members witnessed a demonstration of cleaning products by Joe Micalles. They also were informed of the services offered by Manufacturer's National Bank by branch manager Ruth Clark.

Members had an opportunity to question the guest speakers and welcome Bea Stevenson to the club during the refreshment hour.

Hostesses were Marie Fifelski and Eleanor Hodges.

The group sponsored a catered dinner May 19 for members and their husbands or escorts. Their next social gathering will be a game night on June 18.

The Royal Holiday Senior Citizens Club is in the midst of its springtime activities. The members also are participating in some of the activities offered by the City of Westland. (Although the mobile home community is located primarily in Canton Township, the east end overlaps into Westland.)

The Raymond Gerlachs, Lester Cobbs, Tim Murphys, John Niemis and Gene Mays attended a dinner-dance at the Westland Civic Center on Ford Road.

At the final business meeting of the season, plans were completed for a luncheon tour of Dow Chemical Co. June 15, and the annual picnic at Wilcox Lake June 23.

The seniors adjourned the business meeting to begin a whirlwind bingo session.

Each of the following won one or more games: Mickey Milton, Tom Knight, Faye Leese, Ann Diachenko, Ann Pemberton, Margaret Morris, Laura Ludwig, Ruby McCauley, Ann Akerman, Dorothy Cretney, Ruth Fisher, Lois Provost, Loretta Wolf, Grace Chips, John Niemi, Irene Sloan, Gene May, Les Cobb, June Baish, Betty Torito, Ilene Ovington, Edna Varner, Effie Jablonski, Helen Ahoe, Vivian Smith, Ann Damer, Tim Murphy, Marie Martell and Thelma Walker.

Plymouth Salem High School senior advisor Rich McCoy awaits the start of the banquet with (from left) Jaime Weiser, Mark Bosche, Laurene Kirchoff, Scott LaRiche, and Cindy Richards.

The old class will lives on

The graduating classes of the two Plymouth-Canton high schools had their senior banquets last week—both in the Mayflower Meeting House.

On Wednesday night it was Plymouth Salem and steak dinners. On Thursday, it was Plymouth Canton and chicken dinners.

Class wills were distributed and mock awards were announced. Musical entertainment was provided by Pat Hough and Dusty Rhodes who appear nightly at the Crow's Nest across the street.

SALEM'S BANQUET was planned by Cindy Richards and Laurene Kirchoff. Jamie Weiser and Scott LaRich were masters of ceremonies.

Lynne Stone designed the cover for the programs which were printed by the graphic arts department at Plymouth Salem. The grads had an opportunity to list the winners of the mock awards on the programs.

Among the winners were: Rich Laible and Lynn Stone, class clowns; Bob Hess and Sandy Rounge, nicest legs; Mike Mullin and Becky McKeon, tallest; Bruce Gerish and Nancy Grotz, shortest; Mark Bosche and Jaime Weisner, best organized; Mike Mullin and Joy McAllister, best dressed; Dale Thornberry and Lolly Nicholas, nicest smiles; Ken Delaney, best afro; best Farrah Fawcett, Jeanie Lee; Jim Feldkamp and Diane Miller, winners of the Mr. Helm look-alike contest and most likely to succeed were Mac Hamlin and Lolly Nicholas.

CANTON'S BANQUET got under way with an opening statement by Laurie Upton. Class president Mary Williams introduced the guest speaker, Frankie LaMirand.

Senior class representative Melinda Davis gave the invocation. Following dinner, Gary Sieber announced the mock award winners.

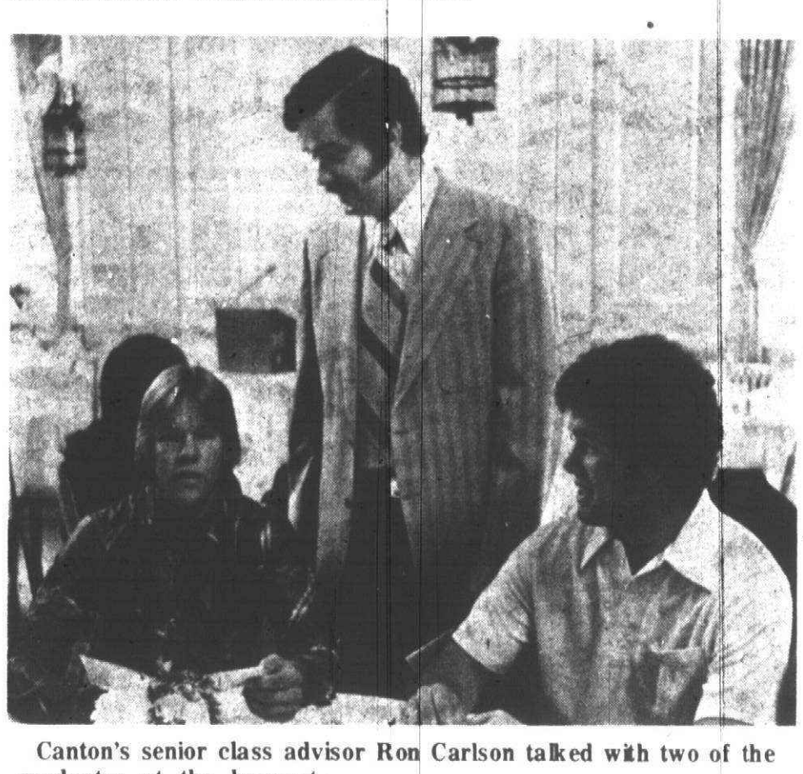

Most studious student awards went to Mark Perkins and Carol Parlette. Some of the other winners were: Matt Norris and Teresa Washburn, biggest eaters; Craig Brass and Cindi Gortney, best drivers; Saad Asim and Sue Barr, top jocks; John Young and Pam Willard, top freaks; Ken Britton and Sue Denski, nicest legs; Mark Perkins and Ann Davis, class clowns; Stuart Sobczynski and Teresa Washburn, tallest; and Mike Ley and Dorothy McCulloch, shortest.

Cathy Verduce read the class wills and Cyndi Gortney closed the program.

Charley Papay designed the covers for Canton's programs which were printed by school's graphics department.

Canton's senior class advisor Ron Carlson talked with two of the graduates at the banquet.

Hopfner wins net loop title

Plymouth Canton second singles tennis player Kurt Hopfner won the championship match at his position in the Western Six League meet held last week at Plymouth.

Hopfner, a senior, won all three singles matches enroute to the league title. His victory was the top effort in Canton's successful third place finish at the competition.

Undefeated Northville edged Churchill 15-13 to win the conference crown. The Chiefs, despite a fourth place finish after dual meet action, played exceptionally well in gaining 10 points for a third place finish.

"We gave an awfully good showing," said a pleased coach Jim Hayes. "And this should be good for the start of next year.

"At the end of each year I've coached Canton, we have always improved. It's exciting and fun. I expect the same growth every year."

All the Cheif netters won their opening round matches—for a quick seven points.

Senior first singles player Steve Pasley advanced to the championship round before losing to favored Doug Castillo from Northville. Castillo was the runner-up in the regional.

Both sophomore Dave Keen and junior Chris Davio lost in the semifinal round at third and fourth singles respectively.

Canton's three doubles combinations of Tim Wise and Don Perchard, Dan Schmidt and Doug Hetu, and Matt Norris and Stuart Sobczynski all won first round matches but lost in the semifinal round.

The Chiefs finished the conference dual meet season with a 4-6 record and held a 6-8 overall mark.

Coach heads volleyball summer clinic

Plymouth Canton volleyball coach Cindy Burnstein will run a summer volleyball clinic for all interested boys and girls at the middle school and high school levels.

The three-week clinic will run between June 20 and July 8 at the Canton Phase III facility.

All interested players should register at the Continuing Education office in Canton High School, Room 117, before June 17. Registration fee is $12 for the session.

The beginning class is from 9-10:30 a.m. while the advanced group participates from 10:30 a.m.-noon.

Himes, student become trainers

Girls program takes giant step

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

Girls' high school athletics has made tremendous strides in recent history and programs at the Centennial Park are ready for one more giant step—thanks to a motivated teacher and her student assistant.

Physical Education instructor Kathy Himes completes her first year of teaching at the Centennial Park this week. This past year Himes has been active in coaching at the junior varsity level for Salem girls' volleyball team and Canton's softball squad.

During the year, Himes discovered the distressing fact that the girls program was without a trainer to help with taping ankles and working on minor injuries.

It seems that most of the men coaches at the Park have taken a first aid class during their college curriculum and are qualified trainers.

But not one woman coach possesses such skill.

SO HIMES decided to do something about it as part of her graduate studies at Eastern Michigan Univerisity.

"Sometimes we get an injuried finger in volleyball and it always seemed like I was bugging Paul (Cummings—athletic liason) and asking what to do about it," Himes said.

"So at my first class, I decided to take a first aid course and learn to be a qualified trainer."

Himes' pursuit of this area also inspired her student assitant, Lori Shannon, to become a trainer.

Ms. Shannon, currently a sophomore at Salem, has been active as a manager and statistian for Himes' volleyball team and Braig Bell's Salem junior varsity girls' basketball squad. She also participates as a member of the Salem girls track team.

But now, Shannon is interested in helping the girls program in a different way—by becoming a student trainer to help Himes with the first aid duties.

For Shannon to become a qualified trainer, she must pass a written test which comes from a book as part of the "Kramer First Aid Program."

Shannon must also attend a workshop on first aid at Bowling Green State University in Ohio between June 27 and June 30.

The funds to send Shannon to Bowling Green were donated by Chuck Heidt, president of the First National Bank of Plymouth.

And after Shannon qualifies as a trainer, the chances of receiving a college scholarship become noticeably enhanced.

SO IT'S only one more summer of hard work and practice before the girls' programs at the CEP finally get the services of two qualified trainers to help kick off the 1977 fall season.

"In my case, it's a great plus for the program and an excellent idea," said Bell, who will get the benefits of Shannon's skills for his basketball team.

"I think it's great the girls get involved with training. It's a good step for all the programs."

Stringham earns rank

Jeffrey A. Stringham, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Stringham of Brentwood, Plymouth, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Stringham received a bachelor of science degree and a regular commission in the USAF during graduation ceremonies held recently at the Academy in Colorado Springs.

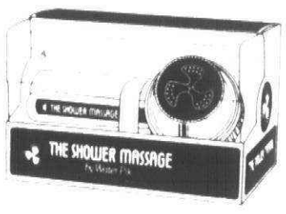

Lieutenant Stringham, a 1973 graduate of Plymouth Salem High, now will report to Columbus Air Force Base, Columbus, Miss., in July to begin training as a jet pilot.

When Mary Mohacsi of Livonia is crowned queen of the metropolitan area women bowlers at the annual awards dinner Thursday night, it will mark a bright new chapter in the history of the Detroit Women's Bowling Association.

It will be the fourth time she has been honored with the crown, but the amazing part of her career is the fact that she is being given the diadem 13 years after she first was so honored.

Back in 1964, she was crowned the queen for the first time in a ceremony at home plate in Tiger Stadium after a parade down Woodward Avenue. In later years, she won the honor in 1965 and 1974.

With her honor this year, Mohacsi now takes her place along side Marge Merrick, a former star of the all-star leagues who later moved to Ohio, and Elvira Toepfer. Each of these women won the crown four times, and Toepfer went on to win her fifth.

When Mohacsi is crowned Thursday, she will have two of the younger generation of bowlers—Penny Behn and Kathy Haislip—as her court.

TO ADD to the excitement of being crowned queen, Mohacsi also was named captain of the all-city team, which is chosen on a point system with points being earned in the city tournament, the high average race, high series and high game for the season.

She finished with 61 points to far outpoll her nearest rival, Doris Goudy, by 17 points. The other members of the all-star team are Penny Behn with 26 points, Carol Gaddis with 26 points and Mary Kilgore with 25 points.

The second team includes Bonnie McKay, as captain, with 24 points, Kathy Haislip with 23 points, Ann Setlock, a former queen, with 23 points and Shirley Watkins and Julie Zimmerman, each with 23 points.

DESPITE ALL these honors, Mohacsi is almost certain to add another later this month when the women's state tournament closes at Battle Creek.

With only two more shifts due to bowl, she is leading in the all-events and is almost certain to take the title to complete a most fantastic season.

A Plymouth housewife will be among those honored at the awards dinner when Marge Kropacek is given a trophy for teaming with Carol Gaddis to win the doubles with 1234.

SCORES RAN HIGH at Woodland Lanes last week when the all-star mixed league made its first appearance in Livonia.

Yvonne Barnes, who barely got to the lanes in time to bowl the second game, came through with a 257 to lead the entire ladies' squad. John Bennet paced the men with a 266 single and a 673 series. Kathy Haislip had the women's high series with a 609. The Regal Lanes team was high with 2441.

The league bowls next week at Hazel Park.

WHILE RON AMAN, the 17-year-old lad, was graduating from Plymouth Canton High School Thursday night, a teammate, Ken Wonder, took over the pace-making role in the Thursday league at Plaza Lanes with a 244 game in a 580 series.

Aman, who had 744 and 723 in his last sessions, is leading the league with a 210 average.

LYNN REID was the big gun in the seniors league at Plymouth Bowl when he came through with a 236 opener and followed with games of 194 and 183 for a 613 series.

A SPOT OF 106 PINS enabled Sheila Shields to take over the pace-making role in Fred Wolf's Ladies Singles Classic at Eastland Bowl with a count of 1107. Due to the large entry, the event will not be completed until July 3.

Options hearings scheduled

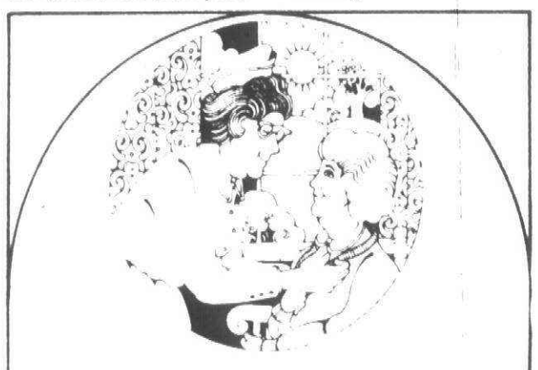

Alternative schools and plans to develop an alternative school program in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will be discussed at two meetings this month.

The alternative school committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow (Tuesday) and June 23 in the Board of Education to explore possible strategies or preliminary implementation of an alternative school program.

Interested citizens are encouraged to attend the meetings to be held at 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

Committee members are: Dr. Michael Holmes, assistant superintendent, for instruction; Bill Brown, Salem High principal; Dr. Jerry Morris, area coordinator at the CEP; Gus Gorguze, Central Middle School principal; Wayne Sparkman and Tad Bury, high school counselors; Dale Yagiela of Growthworks; and two parents, Steve Harper and Tom Santer.

Among the decisions to be made in setting up an alternative school are the goals, selection process, location, evaluation, budget, curriculum, and staffing.
