Singing the anthem

The Plymouth Community Chorus led some 24,000 fans in the national anthem, Aug. 27, to kick off the Tigers 7-6 victory over the California Angels in a televised game. William Grimmer, who retired as leader in the spring, returned to direct the chorus as it sang the anthem a cappella. The chorus also performed Monday at the Michigan State Fair—preceding headliner Della Reese. Sara Humphery directed the chorus at the Fair with selections from "West Side Story," "My Fair Lady," and "Oliver." The chorus will perform locally for the Fall Festival from 7:30-8 p.m. Saturday and 4:30-5 p.m. Sunday at the bandshell. Ms. Humphrey will direct the same program presented at the State Fair. Canton applying for golf funds

Canton board members last week took the first concrete step toward purchasing the privately-owned Fellows Creek Golf Course by agreeing to submit an application for a $200,000 state grant.

Approval of the application is needed before township officials can negotiate a final purchase price for the 18-hole course, according to deputy treasurer Mike Gorman. The grant would help defray the purchase cost of the estimated $1 million course on Lotz near Michigan.

State officials have already said the grant from the Land and Water Conservation Fund will probably be approved, Gorman said.

Trustee Robert Myers was the only board member who voted against submitting the application for the grant at last Tuesday's meeting.

"THIS GRANT application is extremely important because it will bring the state into the decision to acquire the course," said Clerk John Flodin, referring to public controversy over whether the township should purchase the course.

"They might come and look at it, say it's a worthwhile investment and worth giving us $200,000 for. It would certainly lend credibility to a decision to purchase."

Although Trustee Lynne Goldsmith voted to submit the grant application she objected that board members failed to ask opinions from the audience before voting on the matter Tuesday night.

The meeting was not scheduled as a public meeting, but Gorman had told the press that the public's comments would be welcome. The board, however, failed recognize the one township resident who raised his hand to speak.

"It's not that the board needs to discuss this," Goldsmith said. "It's just that people would like an opportunity to ask questions."

Goldsmith pushed for public input on the proposed golf course purchase at tonight's (Tuesday's) board meeting. Robert Wiar of Seidman & Seidman, the firm that conducted a feasibility study on Canton purchasing and operating the course, will answer residents' questions.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the township firehall at Canton Center and Cherry Hill.

Bus snags may be short term

Reactions to the new computerized bus scheduling that went into effect last week in the Plymouth-Canton school district ranged from enthusiasm to rage, school officials said.

Although Supt. John M. Hoben said the completely revised bus transportation schedule has many benefits, but he admits the transition has not been as smooth as he would like.

"This is the first time we've done this. You have to expect some problems and difficulties. He said the administration and Ecotran, the computer company which designed the new schedules, are working to unsnarl the tangles caused by the new routes.

The computer-set bus stops and schedules were started on Aug. 29, when tracks A, B and C of the six Extended School Year (ESY) schools opened.

Although postcards had been printed by computer and mailed to every student, there were mistakes and omissions. However, since a new schedule must be prepared every three weeks as different groups of students report to the ESY schools, parents will receive three more postcards with different schedules.

The computer will adjust schedules for each of these combinations Hoben said, and print cards to inform parents and students about changes.

ACCORDING TO HOBEN the biggest advantage of the computer scheduling is its cost.

"We're saving the taxpayers of this district about $75,000 this year by transporting 400 more children without the addition of any buses." He maintained that this amount pays for the cost of the computer scheduling service.

The Ecotran contract with the school district is for $81,402. $27,950 of that is the initial set-up cost, and $36,350 is for bus routing and schedules, for a total of $64,300 related to transportation, Hoben said.

An additional $17,102 of the total amount is for the redistricting program. This will help to equalize class size and building use, Hoben said. In addition, it establishes a data base so that as the district grows, transportation can be adjusted by computer with a minimum of extra cost.

A number of school principals, who have had to take the flak for errors and mistakes, are now reporting complaints to the bus yard, which Hoben believed would bring a quicker response to parents.

"We have no choice about changing our bus schedules each year. It's just a matter of finding an efficient and economical way to do it," Hoben said.

"Despite the upheaval the major shift caused this year, we believe that in the long run we will be saving money and have a more efficient bus system for this school district."

Fall Festival kicks off Thursday

Beginning Thursday, thousands of people will be crowding into Plymouth for the four-day Fall Festival—an eating bonanza which will begin with spaghetti Thursday and end with barbecue chicken Sunday.

The lineup of main meals is: Italian Night, noon to 8 p.m., staged by the Plymouth Colonial Kiwanis on Thursday; fish dinner 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday by the Plymouth Lions; the Pancake Festival from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday by the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth; the beef barbecue dinner from 5-10 p.m. Saturday by the Plymouth Jaycees; and the Chicken Barbecue from noon to 6 p.m. by the Rotary Club of Plymouth on Sunday.

IN BETWEEN EATING, some of the major attractions include:

The Odd Fellows Flea Market at Elizabeth and Ann Arbor Trail on all four days, with special Sunday hours from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Kiddies Pet Show, 9 to 11:15 a.m. Friday in front of the bandshell in Kellogg Park, sponsored by Plymouth Optimists and Plymouth Parks and Recreation; the Plymouth Community Arts Council Arts and Crafts Show in Central Middle School. Main and Church streets from noon to 9 p.m. Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday; the Plymouth Symphony League's Plymouth Antique Mart in the Cultural Center, 525 Farmer, from noon to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

BUT FOR THOSE who really want to get into the swing of the festival there is much, much more.

Anyone with a sweet tooth should be on the lookout for the Plymouth Business and Professional Woman's Club whose members are preparing 700 dozen cookies of all varieties.

The Plymouth Grange at 273 S. Union will be selling donuts, pies, cookies, hot sandwiches, soups and other lunch items and snacks as well as crafts and other artworks upstairs.

In Old Village, a horse-drawn covered wagon will be making trips from The Corner Candy Store at 615 N. Mill to the Cultural Center. Fare is 50 cents per person or $2 per family.

A special feature Sunday will be the annual costume contest, sponsored by the Plymouth Branch of the American Association of University Women. Judging will be from 1:30-2:30 p.m. at the bandshell in Kellogg Park. Participants will be signing up from 1 to 1:30 p.m.

Arts and crafts demonstrations and exhibits will be at the Plymouth Historical Museum during Festival weekend. Demonstrations include rug hooking, basket weaving and horse shoeing.

And another annual feature will be the store window decorations. Each year merchants decorate their windows and a contest is held to select the best decorated display.

All varities of vegetables, of assorted sizes and shapes, may be seen at the Festival Produce Exhibit in front of Central Middle School on Sunday. The exhibit is sponsored by the Fall Festival Board.

And while walking the streets, festival-goers will want to buy balloons from the Plymouth Optimist Club or photo buttons from the Plymouth Community Civitan Club.

Recalls pitching hay

'Turkey Queen' nears 91st birthday

By W.W. EDGAR

Seated at a table fondling a cane that once was her mother's, Zaida Louise Gottschalk, long known as the "Queen of Gottschalk Turkey Farm" on North Territorial Road, looked over the farm as she approached her 91st birthday and recalled the days of her youth when she spent most of her time lofting hay and milking cows.

"I was going to school in the little one-room school house on the Hough Farm at Haggerty and Warren," she smiled and said, "and when I wasn't in class, I was helping my father with the farm work.

"At the time he was not too healthy, and the Hough Farm of 240 acres was almost too much for him. So, I had to jump in to help. It was nothing to milk the cows and I even pitched hay into the barn.

"And would you believe it, I never helped my mother."

RECALLING HER days in the little one-room building, with Mabel Patterson and Ella Anderson as teachers, Mrs. Gottschalk grabbed the cane and voiced the opinion that they learned more in those days than the youngsters are learning today with all the new ideas of instruction.

"After a while, the farm became too big for my father, and we purchased this 35 acres on North Territorial Road. Originally we planned to raise corn and wheat with the turkeys as a side line. But it wasn't long until turkeys became our main source of supplying the people's needs, and we became the Gottschalk Turkey Farm."

Asked what she thought was the reason for the popularity of the Gottschalk turkeys, she smiled and answered: "If I can't eat it, I won't sell it."

"With that slogan we developed the reputation of fine turkeys and my son-in-law, Loyd Sharling, carries out the same principles today."

THE BIG CHANGE in her life came in 1958 when her husband, Clint, died and she passed the working of the farm over to her daughter and her husband.

Then, lifting the cane again to emphasize her point, the "Turkey Queen" hinted that the Gottschalk turkey farm may soon pass from existence. "The cost of feed is getting to be too high and the care that is necessary doesn't make it worthwhile anymore."

Asked what her generation did for entertainment, she laughingly answered: "We didn't have any."

She recalled that work on the farm is never done, so there was no time to think of entertainment.

Later, she left the farm for a time to work as a clerk in John Gale's store at Main Street and Penniman Avenue where the NBD building now stands.

With a glint in her eye, she recalled that she worked in the store from 7 a.m. until 10 p.m. and that left little time even to think of entertaining.

"Once in a while we were allowed to go to city hall and see the 'movies' that were presented by 'Shorty' Thompson. But we were not allowed to go to dances. So, you see we had very little entertainment."

Then, as the memories of the days on the farm rolled back, she recalled that even farming is a lot different today. "They now have milking machines and the farm tools are a lot better than we had when I helped my father pitch hay on the Hough farm."

Now she sits at her favorite table with her mother's cane in her hand, living with her memories of the days in the one-room school house on the old Hough Farm, waiting for her 91st birthday on Sept. 15.

So here's a happy birthday to the Queen of the Gottschalk Turkey Farm.

Media vs. judge in sex arrest

The news media and Farmington's 47th District Court Judge Michael Hand will square off in a legal battle this week after a news blackout ordered by Hand was defied by many area newspapers, television and radio stations.

Hand ordered the suppression order last Friday on a demand from Southfield attorney James Lawson, legal counsel for a priest who was arrested last week on a warrant charging him with second degree sexual misconduct. Those media defying the order will be cited for contempt of court, according to Hand.

Within hours of the arrest, millions of persons in the metropolitan area and across the nation knew the identity of the accused. Channel 7, the Detroit Free Press and the Associated Press identified him as the Rev. Gary Berthiaume, 35, an assistant pastor at Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic Church in Farmington.

The next day, other broadcasters, who contended the veil had been ripped away, also identified Fr. Berthiaume. Parishioners, Sunday, prayed for him. The parish in effect acknowledged the priest's arrest.

THE LEGAL clash arises over a little-known or used Michigan statute enacted in 1974. A section says that in the case of sexual misconduct charges, the defending attorney, the defendent or the victim of the crime can demand a gag order be implemented until the defendent has been arraigned in circuit court.

Under the law, a judge must obey the demand of the person ordering that the suppression be implemented. The judge is allowed no discretion.

The suppression order will be in force at least until Friday, said Hand, when a preliminary hearing will be conducted in private. In all other cases, pre-trial hearings are public.

If Hand determines that a crime has been committed and there is probable cause that Fr. Berthiaume was involved, then the case would go to circuit court.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson told newsmen any person arrested on a criminal sex charge would automatically be considered a suspect in the murder of a half-dozen children and young teenagers in southern Oakland County. But he cautioned there was no evidence to connect Fr. Berthiaume directly.

THE LAW has been used only once before and that was in the case of Dr. Donald Krohn of Farmington who was later found innocent.

Although the suppression statute is on the books, many legal experts familiar with Michigan law say it is unconstitutional.

Free Press attorney Brownson Murray said that a 1936 Michigan Supreme Court ruling said that information received from court records can't be suppressed.

"There isn't any doubt that a judge can enjoin witnesses, the prosecutor and police officials from giving out information. But once the information is out, you can't hold it back," said Murray.

MURRAY said the Free Press never was served the suppression order, and that the information was known by reporters before the issue of suppression came up.

"If there is no order issued, it's very difficult to follow," said Murray.

Hand said the intent of the law is to protect a person from adverse publicity when he has been arrested on a warrant, yet hasn't yet been formally charged in circuit court.

He cited the case of the Hines Park rapist where a Detroit police officer was arrested last month after being identified by two persons as the rapist. He later was released after it was determined to be a case of mistaken identity.

Hand said he will enforce the suppression order and won't be giving out "any pats on the wrists" when it comes to that enforcement. Maximum sentence for criminal contempt of court is a $100 fine or 90 days in jail or both.

Trustee pay hike hearings are slated

Two public hearings have been slated on the question of whether pay ought to be raised for members of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The first hearing will begin at 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 12, and the second at 7 p.m., Sept. 19. Both will be held in the upstairs conference room of the administration building at 454 S. Harvey.

Residents are being encouraged to attend the hearings to give their opinion on paying school board members for attending meetings. According to the new Michigan School Code of 1977, it now is legal for school trustees to be compensated.

The present policy in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools provides that the sum of $2,000 will be paid annually to the board with the amount divided equally among the seven members to reimburse them for expenses incurred in performance of duties.

The change in the state school code allows any school board, by resolution, to approve pay for its members up to $30 per meeting for not more than 52 meetings per year. The measure allows additional pay for the board secretary and treasurer.

Practices of paying board members vary among nearby school districts and local governmental units. City of Plymouth commissioners, for instance, receive $10 per meeting with the mayor receiving $500 a year. Canton trustees earn $40 per meeting and Plymouth Township trustees earn $1,500 a year per person and must attend a minimum of 24 meetings.

Wayne-Westland Schools and Livonia Schools pay $40 per person per meeting. Garden City Schools pay trustees $650 a year per person while trustees in Northville Schools and for Schoolcraft College don't receive compensation for attending meetings.

Red Cross First Aid courses will be offered this fall throughout Southeastern Michigan. These courses provide instruction in accident prevention and emergency care in the event of sudden illness or injury.

Basic First Aid, a 9-hour course, teaches skills and knowledge critical for saving life and minimizing the severity of injuries, including accident prevention.

The Standard First Aid and Personal Safety Course is designed to prepare people to meet the needs of most situations where emergency first aid care is required.

Advanced First Aid and Emergency Care is designed for people who are responsible for giving emergency care to the sick and injured.

Classes are held days, evenings and Saturdays free of charge. For dates and locations call the Red Cross at 833-4440.

BG's operator suing Realtor

Joyce Coffee of Plymouth, operator of BG's Lounge on Ann Arbor Road, has a lawsuit pending against Chrysler Real Estate.

Mrs. Coffee explains that she has temporarily closed the Plymouth Township lounge because of the lawsuit, and intends at this point to reopen.

Her attorney explained that the lawsuit was filed once the real estate firm refused to allow Mrs. Coffee to exercise an option to purchase the lounge.

Because the lounge is now vacant, the Wayne County Health Department has served notice the business cannot reopen until an inspection is made—a routine practice for similar cases. The health department has not, however, closed the lounge but only wants to inspect before re-opening.

So, you think YOUR rooms are clean

Working on a clean edge bench, a work station for those preparing antibiotics and other medications, are Dan Costello (left), division manager of operations at Contamination Control Laboratories of Livonia, and Chuck Marshall, both of Plymouth. (Staff photo by Les Raebel)

By SHERRY KAHAN

Housewives would be driven straight up a wall if they were given the special light used by the Contamination Control Industries of Livonia.

An ultra violet, long wave frequency light, it can pick up particles unseen by the human eye. Shine it on a shelf that has just been dusted, and it can break your heart. There they are, all the tiny pieces of dust and lint that the cleaning cloth missed. It's enough to make the meticulous housekeeper paranoid.

Luckily, Mrs. Meticulous does not have to make her home as clean as the Contamination Control Industries must make the clean rooms it devises for its customers.

These include such organizations as hospitals, makers of hospital products, General Electric, Edwards Pacemakers, Corning Glass, Sperry Flight Systems, Dupont, Upjohn, Xerox and the Water Reed Medical Center in Washington, D.C.

Organizations that work with delicate electronic equipment need dust-free work areas, while manufacturers of medicines require work rooms that are also bacteria free.

Recently New England Nuclear contracted with Contamination Control to install a clean room for the manufacture of nuclear medicines.

"They need a clean room to insure that what they are preparing doesn't become contaminated and cause infection in people," explained Dr. Philip Austin, Contamination Control's president.

"In addition, people who prepare the medicine could be contaminated by radioactive materials unless their work area has good clean room techniques. Radioactive materials might linger in cracks or crevases in the room near the workers."

Xerox has asked for a clean room from the company for the development of tools used in cancer detection, which require a processing environment where air is free of almost all particles.

WHILE DESIGNS and equipment used to keep special work areas of these organization dirt and germ free will not all be applied to the home situation, some of them will undoubtedly turn up in the future to help the housewife with her task. Some already have.

When Austin talks about building clean rooms with surfaces all glossy and smooth, we know the smooth counter tops made of formica and similar material are already helping Mom with her cleanliness problems.

Austin further would use a rounded edge making the wall flow into the floor to shun baseboard hiding places for sneaky pieces of dust. This idea might be something builders could add to homes of the future.

In one way, the sweepers and moppers at home frequently diverge in their thinking from the Austin organization, whose corporate blood would run cold at the oft-heard expression, "Hide the dirt."

FABRICS AND MATERIALS with colors and patterns which homemakers pick because of their ability to conceal dirt are a no-no for an organization intent on driving Mr. Dirt into the next county.

"We don't want to hide the dirt," stated Austin. "We want it shown, so people will know it's there and clean it up."

Down on the entrances to the clean rooms are dropped special mats imported from England. Their high friction rubber makes a normal footprint look as though the walker had just emerged from the primordial ooze. Nobody could miss it.

"We try to make sure that our clean rooms are painted with an enamel rather than a water-based paint," continued Austin. "Water-based paint is basically chalky and breaks down into tiny particles that we don't want there."

A clean room is made as tight as possible so that no road dust or other dirt can slip in though the cracks. "If you want to have a clean home make sure it is tight," he noted. "People don't realize it, but our studies indicate that Livonia air has several million particles per cubic foot.

"If you go in a rural area like the farmland west of Ann Arbor you could expect a level of from 100,000 to a half million particles per cubic foot. In the Rocky Mountains, it would be from 10,000 to 100,000 particles. That's why we all enjoy the mountain air.

"When all this dust falls on roads, it is constantly stirred up by traffic. If you could see what you are currently breathing in, you'd probably go crazy."

A lot of this dust is infiltrated into the house on the clothing of the family. Clothing can contain upwards of eight billion particlesreported Austin, as he passed his special detecting light over his coat sleeve.

He thinks that the smooth synthetic fibers currently on the market are less likely to give a comfortable resting place to dust than the natural fibers, and in addition are less inclined to break into tiny particles.

Synthetic rugs, he also feels are better than natural fibers, which hold the dust and let it work down. If not cleaned frequently, these rugs will continue to throw upward their contents.

Austin is pretty dubious about the dusting procedure used by many, especially the custom of moving the dust around with a cloth, and then failing to wash it out.

For the needs of his company, there has been found a synthetic material called Tyvek made by the DuPont Co., which has an ability to collect dust and hold it.

"It is many times more efficient that the home dusting cloth," he declared.

WHILE ALL THIS EQUIPMENT has its role, the anchor of the Austin clean room technology is air filters, mainly a high efficiency particulate air filter developed in World War II to collect radioactive dust during the making of atomic weapons.

It uses a special fiberglass bonded paper which filters out all bacteria, and which must be worked into the filter by hand.

This kind of filter is already being used in homes where allergic problems require it, reported Austin, who has written the only textbook on the subject of clean rooms and has trained about 15,000 people in the technology. They often turn back to him when they need his special kind of expertise.

Use of these filters will cause a change in the American home and school in the future, he believes.

"I foresee a completely environmentally controlled home that will provide proper temperature," he began. "It will used a self-contained system to collect solar heat, and a filter to maintain aesthetic cleanliness.

"I maintain this cleanliness will become a necessity because of other products that will be in the home that are sensitive to dirt and dust.

"I suspect that we'll find a lot more people sensitive to allergies as time goes by, and they will require better control of home conditions.

"I ALSO FORSEE the extension of this technology into schools, perhaps even faster than into the homes. The biggest incubator for respiratory infection is the classroom.

"Many of the germs are carried by air. Operators of clean rooms find that those who work in them have a 30 per cent better health record than those working right outside the area.

To the former Air Force pilot whose firm has prepared sterile equipment to go to the moon, this indicates that air cleanliness is able to isolate people in clean rooms from each other's germs.

"If you apply the same filtering techniques in home, school and office, it would greatly reduce respiratory infection," he said.

That's a contamilight that Dr. Philip Austin is holding over a table to reveal dust the eye cannnot see. His firm uses these lights to keep clean rooms used by hospitals and industry dustfree. (Staff photo by Les Raebel)

Mystery follows Alma to grave

By PATRICK TOUHEY

When Alma Weist died last week in the still-standing house on Main Street that was once Plymouth Hospital, a segment of Plymouth's history came to an end.

For more than 20 years, the large white Gothic building across from Dunning-Hough Library was the only hospital this community ever had.

Lena Weist and her sister, Alma, opened the doors of the Plymouth Hospital in the early 1930s. Lena was a registered nurse, and Alma did all the cooking and handled the books.

At first, the majority of patients were expectant mothers. But as time went on, the house on Main Street operated as a full-fledged hospital.

Although it only had 10 beds and a small staff, local doctors used the facilities with regularity for more than 20 years. Patients from Plymouth and Canton went there to have their tonsils removed and their appendixes taken out.

"It was busy day and night," recalls Polly Ferguson, who worked as a staff nurse during the hospital's heyday. "We did all kinds of surgery, and more Plymouth babies were born there than I can remember."

Dr. Walter Hammond, a physician who came to Plymouth in 1938, adds, "When I came to town it was pretty well established. As you might imagine, it was not a terribly sophisticated hospital. But the doctors in the community sent patients there for minor and mid-level operations."

THEN, IN THE mid-1950s, Lena Weist died. Shortly after that, Alma closed the doors, and Plymouth's only hospital became a memory.

"Alma was very attached to Lena," said Mrs. Ferguson. "After she died, Alma just seemed to lose interest in the hospital. She wasn't willing to put in the work and effort that was necessary to keep the hospital running."

The two sisters owned the hospital outright and had lived in the upstairs section all the time it was in operation. Once the house was no longer a hospital, Alma continued to live on in the second story.

She had never married, and her closest relatives lived in Indiana. So it was just Alma in the big white house on Main Street.

According to friends and ex-staff members, she became somewhat of a recluse. She rarely, if ever, left the house and would see only a very select group of people.

"After Lena passed away, Alma was kind of lost," said one friend who asked not to be identified. "She mostly stayed inside and a few friends would bring her in things, do some shopping for her and look after her."

As the years passed, the once-proud house became rundown. The paint started peeling and the wood rotted and crumbled.

Even though friends say they urged her to paint the house and make repairs, she would always say she didn't have enough money or just didn't want to.

She became fiercely protective of her privacy. People who came to her door were turned away unless they were one of the few she would still see.

At least once a year, reporters from this newspaper would try to get her to talk about the old Plymouth Hospital. But she never would. They were asked to leave her porch, and photographers were not permitted inside the door.

Alma, alone in the big white house, steadfastly maintained her self-imposed silence and solitude.

For more than 20 years the house and its sole occupant were a mystery. Newcomers would ask about it and old-timers in the community would tell them what they knew. Rumors circulated about the impressive Gothic structure and its somewhat eccentric tenant.

But no one knew for sure.

WHEN ALMA DIED last week in the house that was once a monument to life, she was just as much an enigma as ever. Only one long-time friend was with her.

"She had not been well for a long time," said the woman who asked to remain unnamed. "I tried to get her to see a doctor, but she refused."

When funeral home attendants came to pick up the body, they found a strange sight. The entire downstairs hospital area had been kept completely intact. Not one thing was out of place.

"I couldn't believe it," said one. "The beds had fresh linen on them. The surgical instruments were clean. Everything was arranged exactly. It looked like she was expectint patients at any time."

To the outside world the Plymouth Hospital had ceased to exist more than 20 years ago.

But not for Alma Weist.

Prayer breakfast slated Saturday

A fellowship prayer breakfast, sponsored by the Northville-Plymouth-Livonia Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship, will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday in Papa Geppeto's New Life Restaurant in the Northville Plaza shopping center on Seven Mile, two miles west of I-275.

Bill Basansky, evangelist and lecturer, will be the principal speaker. Born in Soviet Russia, Basansky came to the U.S. following persecution of his family in the labor camps of the Ukraine. After serving four years in the U.S. Air Force and six years as a California police officer, he taught Russian for five years at Oral Roberts University.

Donation of the family-style breakfast is $4. Reservations are required and may be made by calling 349-0006, 349-6446 or 455-6373.

Park's 1st phase financed by board

Some work on the first development phase of Griffin Park should soon begin, now that Canton board members have committed $200,000 to the park's development.

But officials have avoided predicting when the work will be completed.

Township board members Tuesday appropriated the $200,000 by a unanimous vote for phase one projects approved by the recreation commission.

Phase one projects for the park between Canton Center and Sheldon north of Cherry Hill include four tennis courts, two new softball diamonds, lighting of an existing softball field, erection of a picnic shelter and construction of parking lots.

The projects are part of a total master plan for the park, designed by park planners Chester B. Hill and Thomas Ravnes.

ACCORDING TO TOWNSHIP officials the $200,000 appropriated for phase one will be offset by a $120,000 federal block grant and proceeds from the sale of a 10-acre parcel to developer Richard Lewiston.

At the time Lewiston purchased the land for $72,660, board members committed the funds to development of Griffin Park.

"Basically, what this money will do is rough grade and seed the whole area so we'll have a roughed-in total park," said Supervisor Harold Stein. "It'll be something we can work on as money becomes available."

According to estimates of planners Hill and Ravnes, clearing and grading the park's total area should cost about $48,500. Cost of grading a service drive from Sheldon and parking areas along the service drive, Sheldon and in the park's central area is estimated at $36,500.

Estimated cost of other projects approved for the park's phase one development include $6,500 for construction of a baseball field; $7,200 for construction of two softball fields; $10,000 to light an existing baseball diamond; $36,842 for four tennis courts; $3,360 for a multi-purpose court; $15,000 for a children's play area; $5,500 for landscaping; and about $11,000 to bring water service to the park.

Although township officials expect the grading work to be complete by winter, work on many of the projects will not begin until next spring.

READERS' FORUM

Footnote 'betrays' residents of city

Editor:

Foul! Look out! The citizens of Plymouth are being betrayed by a footnote.

Jim Jabara and associates are using a "loop-hole" interpretation of an obscure map to build a nine-story high-rise on the block bounded by Harvey, Forest and Wing streets. The proposed building would be in direct violation of the community's desires as expressed in the city election last November.

The area in question holds the zoning classification of B3—general business, in which the maximum height allowed is 35 feet or three stories. Until now, the public, the city commission and the planning commission have worked under the assumption that this area is zoned for low density development, in contrast to the B2 zoning of the central business district which allows greater building heights.

Neither the city engineer, nor the city planning consultants, has ever corrected these assumptions. Now, we find that by interpreting a footnote with two negatives in the zoning ordinance, Jabara believes he can build a high density project on that land.

Unfair! Plymouth citizens are getting a "change" in zoning without having the chance to be heard.

I question whether the city can allow a project of this size and height to slide through on a "footnote." The proposed building will change the face of this city. What will be its impact on the surrounding residential neighborhoods? What will be its impact on city services, sewage, traffic congestion and the environment?

Jabara and associates have developed projects like the Forest Place Mall and the new Harvey Street shops which are attractive additions to the commercial district. This latest project is the most ambitious to date. A smaller, less dense development would be much more in keeping with the city zoning code, which is the only protection any of us enjoy.

People made their choice

Editor:

The recall election is over and once again the people have made their choice. True they won by a small margin, but it was tremendous when you realize they had to beat out two factions—Bundarin's and Greenstein's—collectively. And I'm sure the margin would have been greater if we had a larger turnout.

So many people thought that if they didn't vote against the Stein slate that the recall wouldn't take place. They didn't realize their "no" votes were needed.

Let's hope that the small number of Stein hecklers will now start thinking—I mean really thinking—of the welfare of Canton instead of their defeated candidates.

LOUISE SNIDER

'Rose Garden' is powerful drama

"I Never Promised You a Rose Garden" (R) is a tensely dramatic film, outstanding for the quality of its acting and the integrity of its approach.

It is the story of a 16-year-old girl enveloped in a terrifying but fascinating world of mental illness. Kathleen Quinlan gives a superb performance as Deborah Blake, a teenage schizophrenic.

Ms. Quinlan seems to have all the instinctively right moves and gestures. Her range of emotions constitutes a textbook of acting, from surly to ecstatic, timid to bold, suspicious to trusting. This certainly will be counted among the top dramatic performances by an actress this year.

Fortunately, there is consistency of acting quality throughout the film; Quinlan is ably supported by an excellent cast. Bibi Anderson plays the compassionate psychiatrist, Dr. Fried, who finally wins Deborah's trust. Sylvia Sidney, Darlene Draviotto, Signe Hasso, Reni Santoni and Norman Alden are among a host of familiar and unfamiliar faces who appear as patients, hospital personnel and Deborah's parents.

The focal point of the drama is Deborah's struggle to give up her imaginary world which is both more dangerous and more glorious than reality. Any ethical or moral questions regarding institutionalizing the mentally ill (as in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest") are not at issue.

This is one aspect of the film which may have been glossed over. Considering the pressure cooker atmosphere in which the ward attendants work, they seem (with one exception) remarkably kind and patient. The same is true of Dr. Fried. The saving episode which keeps the movie in balance is Dr. Fried's admission to Deborah that she can't fire Hobbs, a sadistic ward attendant whom Deborah has seen beating a patient.

When Deborah cries out against the injustice of the system and the rottenness of the "real" world, Dr. Fried replies, "I never promised you a rose garden."

There is a certain admirable, flinty honesty in the dialigues between Deborah and Fried that speaks for the integrity of the film. The temptation to construct a facile high chair to high school analysis of Deborah's life is avoided. Instead, emphasis is directed toward the responsiblities human beings have to themselves. Thus, Dr. Fried tells Deborah that she may choose madness or sanity; the important thing is to choose freely, unfettered by one's own or other people's fears.

This turns attention to the movie's strong point. It may avoid controversy regarding mental hospitals and treatment, but it appears scrupulous in dealing with mental illness itself.

The phantoms and devils of Deborah's sick mind manifest themselves by prompting bizzare and shocking behavior which is depicted unflinchingly. Similarly, the other women patients are shown as severely ill individuals capable of hurting themselves and others; they're not just amusingly eccentric old ladies.

The turnaround in Deborah's sickness finally occurs when she realizes that she's spent two years in an institution, and the doctor bluntly asks her if she wants to spend the rest of her life in "a nut house."

The shock of this recognition becomes a more potent force toward her recovery than any recounting of childhood traumas. "I Never Promised You a Rose garden" is a gripping and, ultimately, hopeful film.

Merit

Breakthrough Remains Unduplicated.

'Enriched Flavor'™ tobacco makes MERIT unique among low tar cigarettes.

Since the introduction of MERIT, a number of other low tar brands have come along. But MERIT remains unique—the only low tar cigarette with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

MERIT delivers what others can only promise: the flavor of higher tar cigarettes. The kind of flavor made possible by a breakthrough in tobacco technology.

Here's how it was done:

By cracking cigarette smoke down into separate elements, researchers were able to isolate certain flavor-rich ingredients that delivered taste way out of proportion to tar.

These flavor essentials were then packed into MERIT, giving it extraordinary flavor.

REGULAR and MENTHOL

Taste tests against a number of higher tar cigarettes proved it.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested. Cigarettes with up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

And you can taste it.

DON'T FORGET the covered wagon rides from the antique mart at the Plymouth Cultural Center to Old Village during the Fall festival next weekend.

The wagon leaves the Cultural Center every half hour. Pickup time on Liberty Street is 30 minutes later.

The old-fashioned ice cream social sponsored by the Old Village Association is from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday.

Festival visitors will be able to sit for a spell at the ice cream tables on the corner of Mill and Spring streets, in front of the Corner Candy Store. There will be ice cream, sundaes, floats and candy apples.

Carangel the Clown will be there to entertain the youngsters. Doug Montgomery is chairing Old Villages participation in the festival.

THE PLYMOUTH Community Concert Band will resume rehearsals Sept. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the band room of the the Plymouth Community Education Park Phase III building, Joy Road at Canton Center.

Anyone with a musical background or high school band experience is invited to attend. For more information, call 453-5891.

LONG-HAIRED wigs are needed by the Plymouth Historical Society.

"If we just had about 20 more wigs—long-haired ones—we'd be all set," said Barbara Sauders, acting director of the Plymouth Historical Museum.

Many of the wigs on the mannequins are too short to style in the fashions of 1809s. Pat Hann is donating her services in restyling and cleaning the wigs. They just wish they had a few more to work with.

GOLFERS WHO participated in the 1977 chamber of commerce outing came home winners as Plymouth city and township businessmen contributed an array of prizes.

Gene Plaunt recived a hair cut and blow dry from Beautiful People Hair Forum; Bill Carlson, four placemats and napkins from Bed N' Stead; Mike Roth, a $25 gift certificate from Cher's Closet; and Dennis O'Connor, a road and emergency kit from Colonial Card and camera Shop.

Jerry Loiselle, Carl Peterson, Ed Matson, Jim McKeon, Tom Fous and Dave Scully each won a certificate for a half-gallon of ice cream from Cloverdale; Tom Carey and Bob Whitaker each won a certifcate for a half-pound of fudge from the Corner Candy Store.

Joe Bida, Bob Schultz, Jim Tally, Norm Kee, Roland Lutz and Gordon Lindburg will no longer have any excuse for speeding on their bicycles, because each recived a bicycle speedometer donated by Jerry's Bicycles.

Paul Perrot won an ice bucket and Ralph Lorenz won six glasses. Both items were donated by the Cricket Box on Ann Arbor Road.

MIKE CORP received a Spill and Spell game from the Family Emporium. T.J. Rivard got the golf sweater from Famous Men's Wear, and Chuck Skene won the preserved fern donated by The Green Thumb.

The Mayflower Hotel's certificates for two brunches went to Nick Aaron and Harvey Ziel. Tom Humphrey won the $10 gift certificate from Lent's Custom Clothing and Bill Decker got the scarf donated by me and mr jones.

Other winners, prizes and donors were: T.J. Rivard, man's shirt, Norman's Shoes and Apparel; Mike Corp, $25 gift certificate, Pendleton Shop; Jim Jabara, one year pass for two, Penn Theater; Earl Gibson, three-pound ham, Penniman Market; John Hoban, flower arrangement, Pick O' the Wick; Don Albertson and Ed Garwood, decanters of good cheer, Pilgrim Party Store.

Don Albertson, complete weekend for two, Plymouth Hilton; Dick Miller, $5 gift certificate, Plymouth Book World; George Oury, golf umbrella, Plymouth Trading Post; John Cummings, golfer's pride, Saxton's; Marlin Wilson, $10 gift certificate, Terry's Bakery; Harold Guenther, crystal salad set and bowls, Wayside; John Thomas, box of candy, Wiltse's Community Pharmacy; John Lazinski, lucite gift, Hugh Jarvis Gifts; and Bill Stephenson, golf sweater, John Smith of Plymouth.

CHUCK CHILDS of the Optimists Club was a little concerned over the announcement that the Saturday morning pet show would start at 8 p.m.

"If those kids get down there at 8 a.m. with their dogs, there will be about 15 dog fights before the show actually starts at 9," said Chuck.

Members of the club have learned, by experience, to carefully space the showings of the dogs and cats. The unusual pets are judged at 10:15 and the cats don't arrive until 10:30. The dogs should all be well on their way home before the cats arrive.

Historical Museum readied for festival

The neighborly pursuits of husking bees, barn raisings and quilting bees are long gone from the American scene. But visitors to the Plymouth Historical Museum will be able to recapture some of the spirit of those days during the Plymouth Fall Festival.

Pat Scott and her committee of Rita Maly, Pat O'Reilly, Vivian Van Heest, Doris Richard and Ruth Jacobs have been working for weeks—setting the mood for craftsmen.

They will be at the museum from 1-7 p.m. Sept. 10 and 1-6 p.m. Sept. 11.

On the main level, Dolores White will be making bobbin lace in the gazebo. In the Victorian kitchen, Barbara Scantlin will be tying and drying a winter's supply of fragrant herbs. Doris Richard will be doing bargello embroidery in the prim Victorian parlor.

A rug-hooking demonstration will be in progress in the main lobby backed by a display of hand-hooked rugs, some of them very old. Bruce Richard will be the woodworker in the cabinet makers' shop.

DRESSED IN turn-of-the-century costume, a lady will be working on her needlepoint in the Dunning parlor.

And if the roller arrives in time, Barbara Saunders hopes to have a press in the Print Shop in action for the festival. There also will be needlework and tatting demonstrations.

An old-fashioned quilting bee will be in progress on the lower level of the building. A collection of old quilts has been assembled for the occasion as well as two bicentennial quilts—one made by the Plymouth Crediteers and the other by the Soroptimist Club.

A tinsmith will be plying his trade and a blacksmith will be in action.

Two long showcases of decoys are on loan from Dick Lancaster of Farmington. May Ritchie Deschamps will be making cornhusk dolls and a spinning and weaving demonstration will be in progress.

Old chair seats will replaced with cane or Shaker tape and a basket maker will be at work. Special displays of homemade dolls, baskets and toleware have been arranged.

THE DOLLS INCLUDE hickory nut, chestnut, corn husk, corn cob, hazel nut, stuffed, wooden, apple-head and gourd-head examples.

Marg Grybas is responsible for the flower arrangements in the museum and Pat Hann has been cleaning and restyling the mannequins' wigs.

Admission to the museum during the festival will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

'There's more to parenting than just having a baby'

Kathy Nunez and Diane Kimball decided there was more to parenting than giving birth to a baby.

Both had gone the preparedness route with Lamaze childbirth education classes and LaLeche League coaching. Both had taught Lamaze method classes.

"Diane called this spring," said Mrs. Nunez, "and after a few more conversations, our Childbirth and Family Resource Center, Ltd. was born."

The Resource Center is at 843 Penniman Avenue at the rear of the Thomas J. Hirtzel Insurance building. An open house is planned during the Plymouth Fall Festival, and Kathy and Diane are hoping parents and expectant parents will stop in to see what they have to offer.

"THIS IS NOT just for first-time parents," said Mrs. Kimball. "We will share experiences through open discussion."

Hard-to-find books will be available in the resource center library. Some will be for sale, others can be used for reference.

Childbirth preparation classes will be organized.

"The Lamaze method is 10 years old. There is new information and there are new dimensions. There are options in childbirth and parenting which involve the whole family. Communication between the father and mother should be established before the child is born."

Kathy and Tom Nunez have three children—8, 6, and 4 years old.

Diane and Robert Kimball have two—a 5-year-old and a 2-year-old.

"We are basically wives and mothers. We know some of the joys and trials and tribulations of parenting. With two of the children in school, we are beginning to see the rewards. The way I was parenting was effective," said Mrs. Nunez.

THEY BELIEVE that laying the grounds for communication is part of childbirth preparation. Parents need not be "overwhelmed by a new baby."

"Infant care should be a shared involvement," said Mrs. Kimball.

The two women have been decorating the rooms of the center with the thought that parents will be able to drop in for conversation and to use the library. The furnishings are baby and toddler oriented.

"Our husbands have been helping. Bob is building the book shelves and Tom is painting our sign," said Mrs. Kimball.

They are lining up resource people and are planning a series of workshops and seminars. These will include nutrition, family living, self-help, and sex education classes for children on Saturday mornings.

The center will be open weekdays (except Tuesday) from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to noon on Saturdays.

Their telephone was installed last Thursday, and anyone wishing more information can call 459-2360.

China painters begin season

The Northville Spring Chapter of the Michigan Federation of China Painters will begin its fall season at 10:30 a.m., Sept. 8 in St. Alexanders Church, Shiawassee Street, Farmington.

Mary Stricker will demonstarte the art of design in sketching.

New officers for 1977-79 are Janine VanAmyede, president; Grace Biggs, first vice president; Goldie Latchford, second vice president; Donna Berger, recording secretary; Violet Berchem, corresponding secretary; Mary Stricker, treasurer, and Frances Shamus, historian.

Meetings are the first Tuesday of each month in St. Alexander and visitors are welcome.

Volunteers needed for Torch Drive

from your house

By Lori Brickman

981-0237

Carolyn P. Hall of Canton Township has accepted a top volunteer post in the United Foundation's 1977 Torch Drive. She will lead volunteers as division chairwoman for the Canton Township area, directing recruitment and training of workers.

According to Mrs. Hall, she still is in need of hundreds of local residents, especially in the newer subdivisions, to serve as volunteers for this year's Torch Drive. People interested in organizing campaign workers to distribute Torch Drive literature in their own neighborhoods should call the United Foundation northwest office at 565-7141.

Carolyn Hall is division chairwoman for the Canton area to recruit and train volunteers for the 1977 Torch Drive.

The 1977 Torch Drive, which runs from Oct. 18 through Nov. 10, will raise operating funds for nearly 140 health and community service agencies in Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties.

"Many people do not realize the number of services available to Canton residents through Torch Drive-supported agencies," Mrs. Hall said. "Nearly 1,000 Canton residents took advantage of scouting and camping activities last year through the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, Detroit Area Council of the Boy Scouts, and the Detroit Area Council of Camp Fire Girls, which are all funded through the Torch Drive."

AREA RESIDENTS also benefited from the services provided through Big Brothers, Detroit Baptist Children's Home, Children's Aid Society, American Red Cross, Boys Republic, Marillac Hall (a home for unwed mothers), Family and Neighborhood Services of Southern Wayne County, Family Service of Detroit and Wayne County, Michigan Cancer Foundation, Catholic Social Services, International Institute and the Visiting Nurse Association.

The Detroit Orthopaedic Clinic, Children's Hospital, Detroit Hearing and Speech Center, League for the Handicapped, Boy's Club of Metropolitan Detroit, YWCA of Western Wayne County and the YMCA of Metropolitan Detroit, also assist Canton residents.

Mrs. Hall is an active community volunteer. Her interest in the Torch Drive developed through her career responsibilities and membership in the Canton Newcomers Club.

She is a registered dietician having received her MPH in community health education from the University of Michigan. Presently, her work involves research into cardiovascular disease at the university.

According to Lynn Anderson, publicity chairwoman for the drive, Mrs. Hall is a special lady. Most division chairwoman have worked their way up to the post after several years with the organization, but Mrs. Hall moved into the position after her 1976 assistance to the Canton Newcomers Torch Drive effort.

"CANTON IS a rapidly growing and previously untouched area for the drive," said Mrs. Anderson. "We have very few experienced people in the township and must rely on new but dedicated personnel."

Mrs. Anderson also noted that confusion of residents regarding the Plymouth Community Fund has hindered their efforts. Money given to the Torch Drive by Plymouth residents and earmarked for the Community Fund are turned over to that service organization minus handling costs.

"The two services are not in competition with each other," she said. "We both work together in providing assistance to the Plymouth Canton Community, and the new zip code designations will help us serve more efficiently."

Mrs. Anderson suggests that the Torch Drive Organization has become more aware of the large population concentrated in the Canton area. "We are looking toward moving some of our services closer to the area, thus becoming more effective in the community."

General chairman for the 1977 campaign is Chrysler executive vice-president finance, Gwain H. Gillespie. Last year's Torch Drive raised $37.8 million.

THE CANTON JAYCEE Auxiliary will begin its fall season with a garage sale on Friday and Saturday.

The sale, designed to raise funds for the club's many community service projects, will be held at the home of Pat Duthie, 1240 Hampshire, in Canton's Century Farms subdivision.

Pat suggests the easiest route to the event is Cherry Hill east to Haggerty Road, then south to Ayrshire. Turn west to Hampshire then south again to her home.

All items, including clothing and household articles, have been donated by auxiliary members and will be on display from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Some gardener!

Dave Allen moved his family from Indiana to Manton Street in Plymouth Township less than a year ago. The neighbors watched with interest as he dug up the backyard and proceeded to plant a garden very early in May. "It must be the most beautiful garden around," said neighbor Jean Sullivan. There's room for lounging and picnicking on a redwood deck across the back of the house. The rest is all garden. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Soft femine look returns to fall fashion offerings

Gently falling leaves, soothing mulled wine, a quiet tete-a-tete in front of a roaring fire—it all means romance. And romance is back in fashion this fall.

Fashion has mellowed and the new look is soft, sensuous and totally feminine. From the classic, tailored suit to the "sweet dress," the clothes for fall are the most lovable and more important, the most wearable to come on the fashion scene in years.

The new mood for autumn is soft in look as well as feel. Colors come from wine and berries, and fabrics unroll in delicate flower-printed challis, caressable cashmere and mohair, glimmering lurex, sumptuous suedes and heathery tweeds.

STYLING HAS softness too, with fullness an all-new shapes and in classic favorites. Romance is found in every fashion corner from softly pleated skirts or supple pants teamed with soft-edged blazers to the ultra-feminine challis dress, all ruffled and tiered.

Shorter, cut-away blazers and jackets top off full-of-motion skirts like dirndls and kilts. The classic tailored look turns into real-lady dressing, softened with big, beautiful shawls, silky ruffled blouses and floral print skirts. Trousers have easy lines too, tucked and pleated at the waist.

Generous sweaters come in a variety of textures and styles. Hip-long sweater vests, Shetlands in classic crewnecks and Nordic influeneced sweater patterns are all part of fall fashion. The ample coat is the newest shape for topping cold-weather layers.

The pretty look is back with lots of fullness. Jumper tents flow freely over cashmere cowls, and loose, silky dresses have a new image of elegance and femininity.

The image is all gossamer and gold for evening with soft romantic costuming in lurex, crepe de chine and cashmere. The "sweet dress" is French inspired. It's an innocent float of challis painted with petite flowers and rounded with ruffles and flounces.

DETAILS ARE important this fall. There are the Pierrot collar dress: lace and ruffles at the neck and wrist; darker legs in opaque textured hose or to match shoe shades; the envelope bag with its matching satchel; drawstring waists and gathering necks; British bowlers, fedoras or newsboy caps; shoes sporting delicate straps, higher heels and more relaxed cuts; and tiny pins of all kinds tacked to a jacket lapel.

The total look for fall—clothes, makeup, hairstyling—will be staged during Hudson's "Fashionscope '77." It can be seen in the Woodward shops at Fairlane, 1 p.m. Sept. 12; Novi, 2 p.m. Sept. 15; and Westland, 2 p.m. Sept. 16.

New ample coat is soft and cuddly. An extra layer of warmth is added with a matching, draped shawl, a head-hugging knitted cap and warm knitted gloves.

Shorter, cut-away blazer tops off a truly feminine dirndl skirt of velvet. A cozy shawl wraps it all up for fall.

The look is sweet and pretty in a delicate flower-print challis skirt, and Pierrot neck and wrist-ruffled blouse. Shoes are strappy and hose is textured.

Girls' cage team feels crunch

Salem missing 4 returning lettermen

When last year's Plymouth Salem girls' basketball team won the Suburban-Eight league championship with an 18-1 record, head coach Debbie Hatcher couldn't help but think of the success she'd enjoy this season with five of her top six players returning.

But the unexpected loss of four of those five returning players for "personal reasons" has put a damper on the Rocks' hopes for another league title.

The players who failed to show for practice this year are starters Erin Moore and Donna and Diane Goodrich, along with Patrice Cunningham, last year's top substitute.

As if the loss of those four wasn't a big enough blow, Salem will be missing the services of another returning letter winner—Nola Luty—due to a knee injury. Also gone will be Peggy Moorewho graduated. She was last year's leading scorer and rebounder and will attend Henry Ford Community College this fall on an athletic scholarship.

Despite the crippling reduction in her forces, Ms. Hatcher retains a high level of optimism and says a lot of new faces will get the opportunity to gain varsity playing time this season.

THE ONLY STARTER returning will be senior Kathy Dillon, who was the Rocks' floor leader and ballhandler in 1976. She brings experience and leadership to Salem, along with All-Suburban-Eight credentials.

Three other returning letter winners—Debbie Pitera, Brenda Davis and Doris Hoelscher—will be called upon to pick up the slack. Pitera and Davis are seniors and Hoelscher is a junior.

The Rocks' lone pleasant surprise this summer came from Mary Dickey, a starter on last year's Ohio Triple-A state championship team, who transferred to Salem. A 5-6 senior, Dickey has shown a tremendous amount of hustle in pre-season workouts.

"Mary never quits," Ms. Hatcher says. "I have a lot of confidence in her being able to help us out."

Up from last year's junior varsity squad are Sara Marks, Jan Boyd, Peggy Somers and Nan Horwood. They will see a lot more playing time than previously anticipated.

Salem has collected two consecutive league titles and Ms. Hatcher would like to see the Rocks' winning tradition extended. "We still have an excellent shot at winning the Sub-8 this year," she insists.

LAST YEAR'S TEAM lost in the state tournament district championship game to Walled Lake Western, despite beating them earlier in the season. That squad was young and talented, but lacked experience in tournament play, Ms. Hatcher said.

The Rocks competed in a summer league during vacation with Plymouth Canton, Mercy, Southfield Lathrup, Ferndale and Berkley. "The experience benefitted our younger athletes," Ms. Hatcher said.

This year, the Rocks will be strong and well-conditioned. Conditioning was one reason why they won the league title last year, according to Ms. Hatcher.

Salem has lost most of its experience and height, however, which will dearly effect its rebounding strength. "We'll be a more complex team and will rely on our intelligence to be successful," Ms. Hatcher said.

The Salem coach feels her troops will have to battle Livonia Bentley and Redford Union in their quest for a third straight Sub-8 crown.

The Rocks open their season on Sept. 13 at Walled Lake Western. Game time is 8 p.m.

In The Pocket.

If coming events cast their shadows before them, there are going to be some interesting evenings in the Thursday division of the men's all-star league—and they 'll be supplied by Penny Behn's Bonanza team.

The girls made their debut in the league last Thursday night and what a debut it was. They rolled a 2,946 series and took two of the three games from Orchard Lanes team on its home lanes.

The girls showed their mettle in the very first game when they were five marks down going into the tenth frame. Then Cora Feibig, Penny and Gerry Ritter each struck out to give the team a 1,017 count and a four pin victory.

They slumped a bit in the second game with 904, but came back to take the final with 1,013.

When the final pin fell, Cora was the pacemaker with 628, Kathy Haislip had a 617, Penny a 604, Mary Mohacsi a 584 and Gerry a 513.

Aside from the showing of the girls the spotlight was on Nick Cipiti, of the First Federal team, as he came through with a perfect game—the first time this has happened on the league's opening night.

STEALING A MARCH on their fellow members in the bowling associations, the bowlers got away to a great start in three leagues at Westland Bowl. And if the scores on opening night are a criterion, they are headed for great seasons.

This is especially true in the ladies classic where Pat Russell had games of 225 and 205 in a 588 series. Next in line came Jean Essa with a 234 in 574, while Margie Brothers was only three pins behind with a 211 in 571. Kay Wickline was next with a 212 in 562.

In the men's tri-city league Danny Altizer rolled a 264 for hi gh game and Bob Brown had a 642 for high series.

In the invitational doubles Barb Hausch was high with a 225 in 545, Mai Hawkins rolled a 218 on the way to a 520, while Ann Ahoe had 507 and Jean Parr a 503.

CIPITI was not the only all-star to roll a coveted 300 on opening night. Fred Mc Clain came through with a perfect game in the Tuesday night division of the All-Star league at Thunderbowl.

Hope to avenge last year's 1-8 mark

Improved Canton netters seek better days

COACH CINDY BURNSTEIN

Improvement—thanks to experienced players—is what's in store for this fall's Plymouth Canton girls' tennis team.

And after last season, which produced an embarrassing 1-8 record, Chief coach Cyndi Burnstein looks for better things to happen.

"At this point, the returning players are improved, and the new kids who didn't play last year have a lot more potential. But we still are a young team."

The turnout for Canton girls tennis is much improved from last season, as 20 netters strive to play for the varsity.

"I think it is a much deeper team with more experience," Burnstein said. "We're much better. I don't know if we will win but we will be better."

Three seniors head the list of varsity potentials beginning with Mary Riffe. The only four-year varsity player in Canton tennis history, Riffe seems to have the first singles position nailed down.

Mindy Starkey and Chris Stylianou are two seniors in their second year of competition. Both should battle for singles positions.

"Between the three seniors, we have powerful hitters for a change," Burnstein said.

ANOTHER HARD hitter is Kathy Kidston, a sophomore who shows great potential. Voted the most outstanding freshman player last year, Kidston could easily win a singles spot on the varsity.

Doubles combinations are still undecided, according to Burnstein. Possible players are Debbie Oakley, Sue Kidston, Shar Oberstadt and Janet Roberts.

Three freshmen who also might break into the varsity doubles line up are Julie Kraus, Janet Palmer and Gail Grieve.

Two key graduates from last year's squad are Teresa Washburn and Linda Carney. Stacy Williams will be lost for the season because of illness.

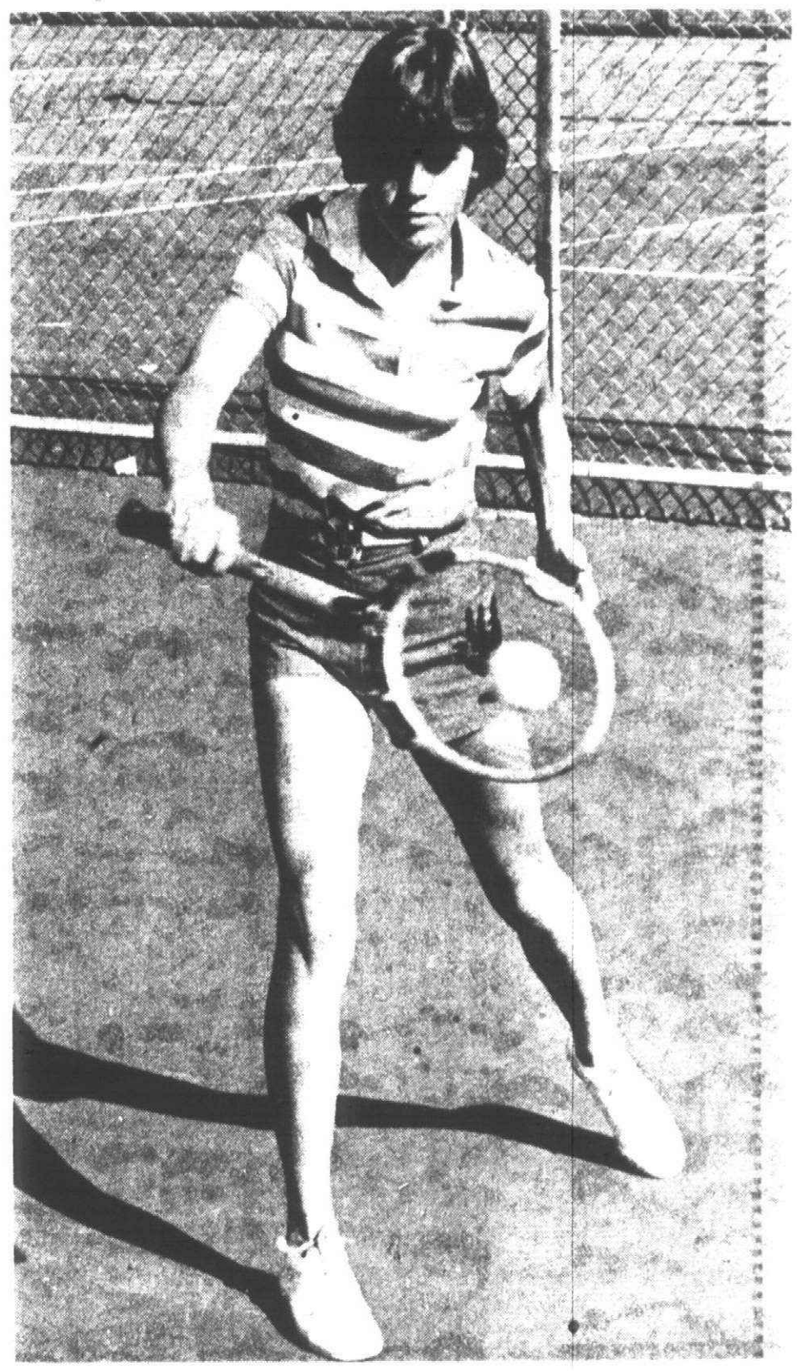

These three netters were singles players last year.

One important element which Burnstein has employed in her team is the opportunity to improve fundamentals through the Peak's tennis trainer in Ann Arbor.

Three posfessional players and two machines have helped the Chiefs prepare for the upcoming season. The players visit the indoor tennis club twice-a-week.

"We're giving the girls the fundamentals and this really helps," the Canton coach said. "I'm really shocked with the improvement of the kids after these sessions. It's a great part of the program."

The Chiefs open their season Thursday, Sept. 13 against a tough Ypsilanti squad.

Golfers hope to retain winning ways

By BETTY DeLANO

The Plymouth Salem boys varsity golf team, coached by Bob Waters, will start their 1977 fall season Monday, September 12, at Brighton's home course.

The season should be a good one, according to Waters who says that this year's team has the potential to be the best team ever in the history of boys golf at Plymouth.

After only losing two seniors from last year's team, Mike Mullen and Mike Wickham, the Rocks should be able to place themselves at a high ranking in the state if not all the way on top.

This season will mark the sixth year of coaching the boys team for Waters, fifth as head coach. In 1971, Waters first year, he was assistant coach to John Crosson who is now head coach for Plymouth Canton's golf team. Waters will also coach the girls golf team in their third year this spring.

In past years, the Rocks have won at least one tournament crown including such tournaments as the state championship in 1973, the Dearborn Invitational, the Brighton Invitational, the Michigan Athletic Association Best Ball Tournament, the Plymouth Best Ball Tournament in 1976 and two league titles in the last five years.

Last year, the Rocks finished second in the league to Trenton,who Waters feels should be pretty stiff competition this year. Waters also sees Redford Union as somewhat of a threat in the league standings. Salem was second in the regionals last season behind Livonia Stevenson.

New this year in league scoring is that dual meets now count half of how the teams finish. In the past, the standings would be determined by the league meet results. Now, for each dual meet win the team receives a point. "With a point system, the final standings are arrived at in a way that is more fair than just on the results of one day," said Waters.

Returning lettermen from last year's team are Ted Kuhns, this year's senior captain. Kuhns averaged 39 at Brae Burn golf course last year which is the Rocks home course. Returnin senior Jim Ross scored a 42 average. Craig Stevens, a junior, also had a 42 average, along with classmate Doug Halloway.

"I'm expecting a lot of help to come from Brian Briggs who has shown 100 percent improvement over last year and Jim Van Boven who has also improved considerably," commented Waters.

Last year the Rocks ended the season with 11 wins and only two losses.

"Naturally, I'd like to see the team go all the way to the state championship but the league has to be won first and we have to do well in the regionals and the other tournaments before we can start thinking about a state title" said Waters.

"It's going to be a pleasure to coach such an experienced team this year. Ted ,Jim and Craig are some of the most experienced players in the state and are the key to our success."

Kuhns was named to the all-metro team last year as a junior. He and Ross have played in at least 50 tournaments in their career so far.

Stevens has been playing competitive tennis since he was six years old and Halloway has been participating in baseball for quite a few years. With this kind of competitive experience, the Rocks should do quite well in the season ahead.

A total of 13 dual meets in the Suburban Eight and various tournaments throughout the year have been scheduled from September to the end of October, ending with the state finals on October 22.

Dual meets start at 3 p.m., and schedules are available at Plymouth Salem high School.

The Stroller

Quite a feast

By W.W. EDGAR

If you are one of those skeptical persons who has some doubts about the claim that the Plymouth Rotary Club serves 16,000 chicken dinners in less than seven hours, it would pay for you to visit Kellog Park on Sunday and see for yourself just how it is done.

Barbecuing chicken is not a haphazard undertaking by the Rotarians. The years of experience in preparing the birds have reduced the task to a science, and many are the housewives and others who dote on outdoor eating in the backyard who could learn a great deal just by watching the men at work on Sunday.

When you visit the area where the chickens are being prepared you will note that there are two pits—each 75 feet long. They extend from the rear of the Penn Theater where the delivery trucks about 18 inches high. There is a reason for the height and it is part of the lessons learned after 20 years of experience—since the first barbecue was held.

And if you look closely, you'll note that there are 25 chicken halves in each grill. So, with the fire 18 inches high the 28 turns of the grills from the delivery truck to the serving line are just enough to produce a well done meal.

EVEN THEN, there's a trick that may go unnoticed to the casual observer. The right sides of the chicken are kept separate from the left sides, and for a very good reason. You'll notice that they are kept separate in the delivery truck too.

Why?

Experience has taught the Rotarians that if a right side is folded in with the lefts on the grill it will cause a hump and the chicken will fall into the fire when the grill is turned. (This is a new one to folks who have barbecued chicken at home.)

Now we've got the 75-foot pits going, the chickens in the grills, the right sides seperated from the lefts, and now for the count.

When the pits are covered with the grills, it has been learned that are 750 chicken halves on each pit, or 1500 when the barbecue hits its peak about mid-afternoon.

If you still are a doubter, just stand there on the edge of the pits and watch. You'll see how quickly the grills travel along the route. It is just that simple.

The Rotarians have their sights on another record day, which means that 16,000 dinners will be served—provided it doesn't rain. And even if it rains the sale will go on as it did several years ago when 13,000 dinners were sold on a "take home" basis.

THE SUCCESS of the Plymouth Rotary barbecue has lured many other communities into the barbecue feat to celebrate the fall season.

For example, Jack Selle, the Buick dealer who is one of the pit men who stands all day over the smoky fire, recently visited the Rotary Club chicken barbecue in Pegeon, Mich. where the folks were all agog over the prospect of selling 1,600 dinners during the day.

When he told them that 10 times that number would be sold in Plymouth, they couldn't believe it. So, they are coming down this Sunday to see for themselves.

It was much the same with The Stroller when he visited the Lions Club barbecue in Marine City a week ago. Fashioned after the Plymouth event, they had a pit out in the open and tables and chairs under the cover of tents. And they were well pleased that 600 dinners would be sold by dusk.

The mere mention of 16,000 at the Plymouth affair caused some eyebrow lifting. As a result, Marine City Lions will be on hand when the Rotarians start serving on Sunday.

The Plymouth barbecue may not be the grand daddy of these fall events, but it has served as the inspiration for many others around the state. As a result, the entire state of Michigan now is looked upon as the Chicken Barbecue State—and in each case charity is the winner.

So, when you sit in the park Sunday and feast on chicken you are not only satisfying yourappetite, but you are doing your bit for charity, too.

Some traffic delays are being experienced on Sheldon Road east of the C&O tracks in Plymouth Township near the Ford-Sheldon plant. Because the right-side of the roadway is torn up, there's only one lane in each direction for traffic. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey).

Easy eatin'

The Rotary Club of Plymouth announces that diners don't have to eat in the park if they wish.

A special carry-out service for the Rotarians' chicken barbecue Sept. 11 will be offered at the northwest corner of Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon. Those who don't wish to eat the chicken dinners in Kellog Park, from noon to 6 p.m., may pick up dinners at the carry-out booth for the same $3 per dinner price.

Also, in case of rain, all ticket-holders may collect their chickens at the carry-out booth.

Canton girls look to go all the way in Western-6

By ANDY MELIN

Things are looking up for the Plymouth Canton girls varsity basketball squad, as it gears up for the this fall's Western-Six league championship drive.

This year just might be the Chiefs' season to go all the way, with people like Kathy Sochacki and Sue Rekuc, both senior co-captains, returning from last year's squad that finished in second place in the league with a 15-6 record.

MIKE McCAULEY

Sochacki, who was the Chief's captain last year, not only displays good leadership, but supplies the scoring punch. She reaped All-Western-Six first team honors in 1976.

Rekuc, who was an All-Western-Six third team pick last year, is strong, consistent, and a dependable player who always gets the job done.

Juniors returning from last year's squad are Kelly Heaton, a tall, powerful player; Evie Pasek, a hustler who doesn't quit; Kathie Peck, a quick, play making guard, who plays aggressive defense; Laura Butler, a fine shooter; and Dawn Malek, who is constantly improving.

Sophomores Diane Durocher, Pam Schipani, Jill Pederson, and Vicky Cavallaro should also help the Chiefs tremendously.

CANTON MENTOR Mike McCauley feels the Chiefs' strong suits will be speed and agility, but height is considered a weakness.

Offensively, Canton has many good ball handlers and shooters.

The Chiefs run a man-to-man, all-pressure defense. A Chief specialty is agressive full-court zone press, which will occasionally switch to a full-time zone.

Many Canton players participated in summer camps and clinics over vacation. Some went to the Indiana Hoosier basketball camp, and others stayed closer to home by attending Plymouth Salem boys basketball coach Fred Thomann's clinic at the high school.

The Chiefs also competed in a summer league against such teams as Mercy, Ferndale, Berkley, Southfield Lathrup, and Plymouth Salem. "That experience, combined with being videotaped, really has helped our squad," commented Coach McCauley.

The Western-Six title is McCauley's first objective, with success in the state tournament as another goal. "Our team attitude is super," stated McCauley. He also mentioned that attitude is a key factor.

WATERFORD MOTT is looked upon by McCauley as the definite team to beat in the confrence. Another squad to watch is Livonia Churchill, which is always tough.

The Chiefs begin the 1977 season on Sept. 13 against Ypsilanti. The game will be an historic one, because it marks the inaguration of the new Canton Phase III facility. The game is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. for the junior varsity squad, with the varsity contest beginning at 8p.m.

Warrick not just another fudgie

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

It was quite an unusual summer for Plymouth resident Ceci Warrick, whose love for tennis extended as far as Mackinac Island.

Warrick, a 1976 graduate and former tennis star for Plymouth Salem High School, decided to try something different for a summer job—rather than serve as a counselor and instructor at the Ramie tennis camp for another season.

So she applied for a tennis job at Mackinac Island, where her mother worked when she was young, and was one of four lucky people chosen to promote tennis in the area.

Warick has won the island's annual tennis tournament the past three years.

Among her working responsibilities were resurfacing and maintaining four tennis courts, running weekend tennis tournaments, teaching people the skills of the game, and playing tennis with persons in need of a partner.

One of the persons Warrick had the privilege of playing was the number-one man himself, Michigan Governor William Milliken, who was up for a week at his vacation home on the island.

CECI WARRICK

WARRICK'S job wasn't all that glamorous, however, as the task of resurfacing the courts began on the first day.

And for the next three months, it was the constant grind of 15-hour days, working on the courts, with only three days off the entire summer.

But the biggest hassle was getting the courts ready for play and then having to battle the uncooperative weather.

"We had to build the courts from the ground up," Warrick said. "It was really an experience. We were always full of grime and dirt."

The new courts consisted of crushed limestone gravel which wasn't always eager to sit firmly on the top of the surface.

"When the weather was hot and windy, the gravel would start blowing away," Ceci said. "We would water the courts to keep the surface firm but it didn't do any good. It just dried up.

She also had problems with too much water.

"One time it rained for five straight days," she said. "It looked like a swimming pool on the courts. You could have sailed a boat on them."

Warrick is used to traveling. She attended William & Mary College in Virginia for her freshman year and competed on the tennis team.

This fall, she transfers to Indiana University to get a taste of Big Ten competition.

Warrick was the Rocks' first singles player for three years, and the Suburban Eight League and regional champion her senior year.

Jeep CJ-5 for 1978 is improved mechanically.

The basic Jeep for 1978

The traditional, basic Jeep for 1978 is the CJ-5. While it doesn't have the flashier exterior of the bigger Jeep models, the CJ-5 has a completely redesigned heater providing a higher defroster temperatures and air-flow rate and improved outside fresh air ventilation. A new ambient air intake system lowers engine temperatures to improve engine efficiency.

Previously listed as options are the now-standard manual front disc brakes, ash tray and cigarette lighter, passenger assist handle, passenger-side exterior mirror and fiberglass-belted tires.

A new underhood light is part of the convenience group, and flax color replaces buff for seats and door panels.

Engines available are a 232-cubic-inch six, 258-cubic-inch six and 304-cubic-inch V-8.

The standard 83-inch-wheelbase CJ-5 is powered by the 232-cubic-inch six, with a three-speed floor-shift transmission and manual four-wheel-drive system as standard. Transmission options include four-speed manual with a Dana 20 system in combination with the 258 cubic-inch six.

The traditional appeal of the CJ-5 and larger CJ-7 is broadened for 1978 with the addition of the Golden Eagle package, introduced in mid-1977. The optional styled version is offered in a wider choice of colors, with a large golden eagle decal on the hood and special body and grille striping, along with fender flares and gold color-styled steel wheels.

RING AND BAG IT!

RING AND BAG LANES are an innovation like electronic cash registers designed to provide better customer service.

THE LANE STYLE is such that a cashier rings and bags the items in one motion avoiding double handling and making the checkout process faster.

AS A CUSTOMER, you can also help make the ring and bag process more efficient. This is how:

PLACE ITEMS on the lane in the order that they would be bagged. For example, if the first items you remove from your cart is bread -- place it on the back of the belt. If the next items are boxes--place in the center. Milk and cans go towards the front. This will help the cashier ring your order faster and bag your groceries more carefully.

THE NEW ring and bag lanes have a longer lane belt allowing you to place the groceries all along the approximate eight foot surface.

AN OLDER METHOD of facilitating checkout service is to place items with the prices up.

GROCERIES PLACED in bagging order and prices up can help us give you faster service. Ring and bag lanes are in use now in most Thrifty Acres across the state.

AT MEIJER–we want to keep up to date to keep our service up...and our prices down!

Energy Savings Tip

20 PERCENT of the energy we use in our homes is used in heating water. Repair leaky faucets promptly. Did you know...one drop a second can waste as much as 60 gallons of hot or cold water in a week. Do as much household cleaning as possible with cold water.

INSULATING your hot water storage tank and piping, can save energy. Check the temperature on your water heater. Most water heaters are set for 140° F. or higher, but you may not need water that hot unless you have a dishwasher. A setting of 120 degrees can provide adequate hot water for most families.

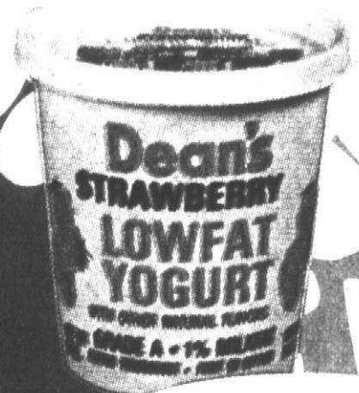

IF YOU REDUCE the temperature from 140 degrees (medium) to 120 degrees (low), you could save over 18 percent of the energy you use at the higher setting. Even reducing the setting 10 degrees will save you more than 6 percent in water heating energy.

IF YOU ARE UNCERTAIN about the tank water temperature, draw some water from the heater through the faucet near the bottom and test it with a thermometer.

DID YOU KNOW that sediment building up on the bottom of your hot water heater lowers the heater's efficiency and wastes energy. About once a month, the sediment can be flushed out by drawing several buckets of water from the tank through the faucet.

Festival promises plethora of pleasure

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

To achieve true love, brotherhood and friendship within a community, you need an activity or event which stimulates a coming-together of people who desire only one thing—enjoyment.

And this is exactly what the annual Plymouth Fall Festival offers to all people who want to take a little time out from the normal routine in their lives.

As always, the festival takes place on the weekend after Labor Day. The four-day event begins on Thursday, Sept. 8 and lasts through Sunday, Sept. 11.

During this time, there is something for everyone to enjoy—both young and old, resident or visitor.

One of the major parts of the festival is its fantastic selection of food which is sure to tingle all tastebuds.

The four major dinners each day and night highlight the menu. Spaghetti soothes the appetite on Thursday, fried fish on Friday, beef ribs on Saturday, and, of course, the big chicken barbecue all day Sunday.

To complement the dinners, a variety of snacks and goodies are sold in booths by other organizations.

BESIDES FOOD, there are a host of other activities which truly add to the festival atmosphere.

Games for children, arts, crafts and antique sales and exhibits, music, a dunk tank, and just the simple pleasure of strolling down the streets of Plymouth talking to friends, make the festival a special showcase that no one ever forgets.

Whether you reside in Plymouth, Canton, Livonia, Garden City, Redford, Westland, Farmington, Southfield, or elsewhere, you are one of hundreds of thousands of people who have a chance to absorb all the beauty and fellowship that is characteristic of the festival.

For the vistors who will visit Plymouth for the first time, it's very simple to reach the downtown area.

If you travel west on Plymouth Road, two miles past Newburgh Road, the road turns into Main Street—bringing you to the heart of the city.

FOR EVERYONE who is interested in knowing when and exactly where all the festival activities take place, all you have to do is turn to the center of this Fall Festival edition.

The complete schedule of events and a map highlighting major happenings appears on pages 14 and 15.

The Observer & Eccentric newspapers are once again proud to offer this festival guide to all festival participants. The 28-page tabloid includes numerous stories and pictures which will help with the appreciation of this event.

Yes, the festival means fun for everyone, and the 1977 version should be better than ever.

And to Plymouth residents, the festival is always an extra-special happening.

For not only is the money earned by the non-profit organizations put back into the community, but the ever-present sense of pride represented by the continuous success of the festival is something the people of Plymouth never forget.

Observer's staff lauded

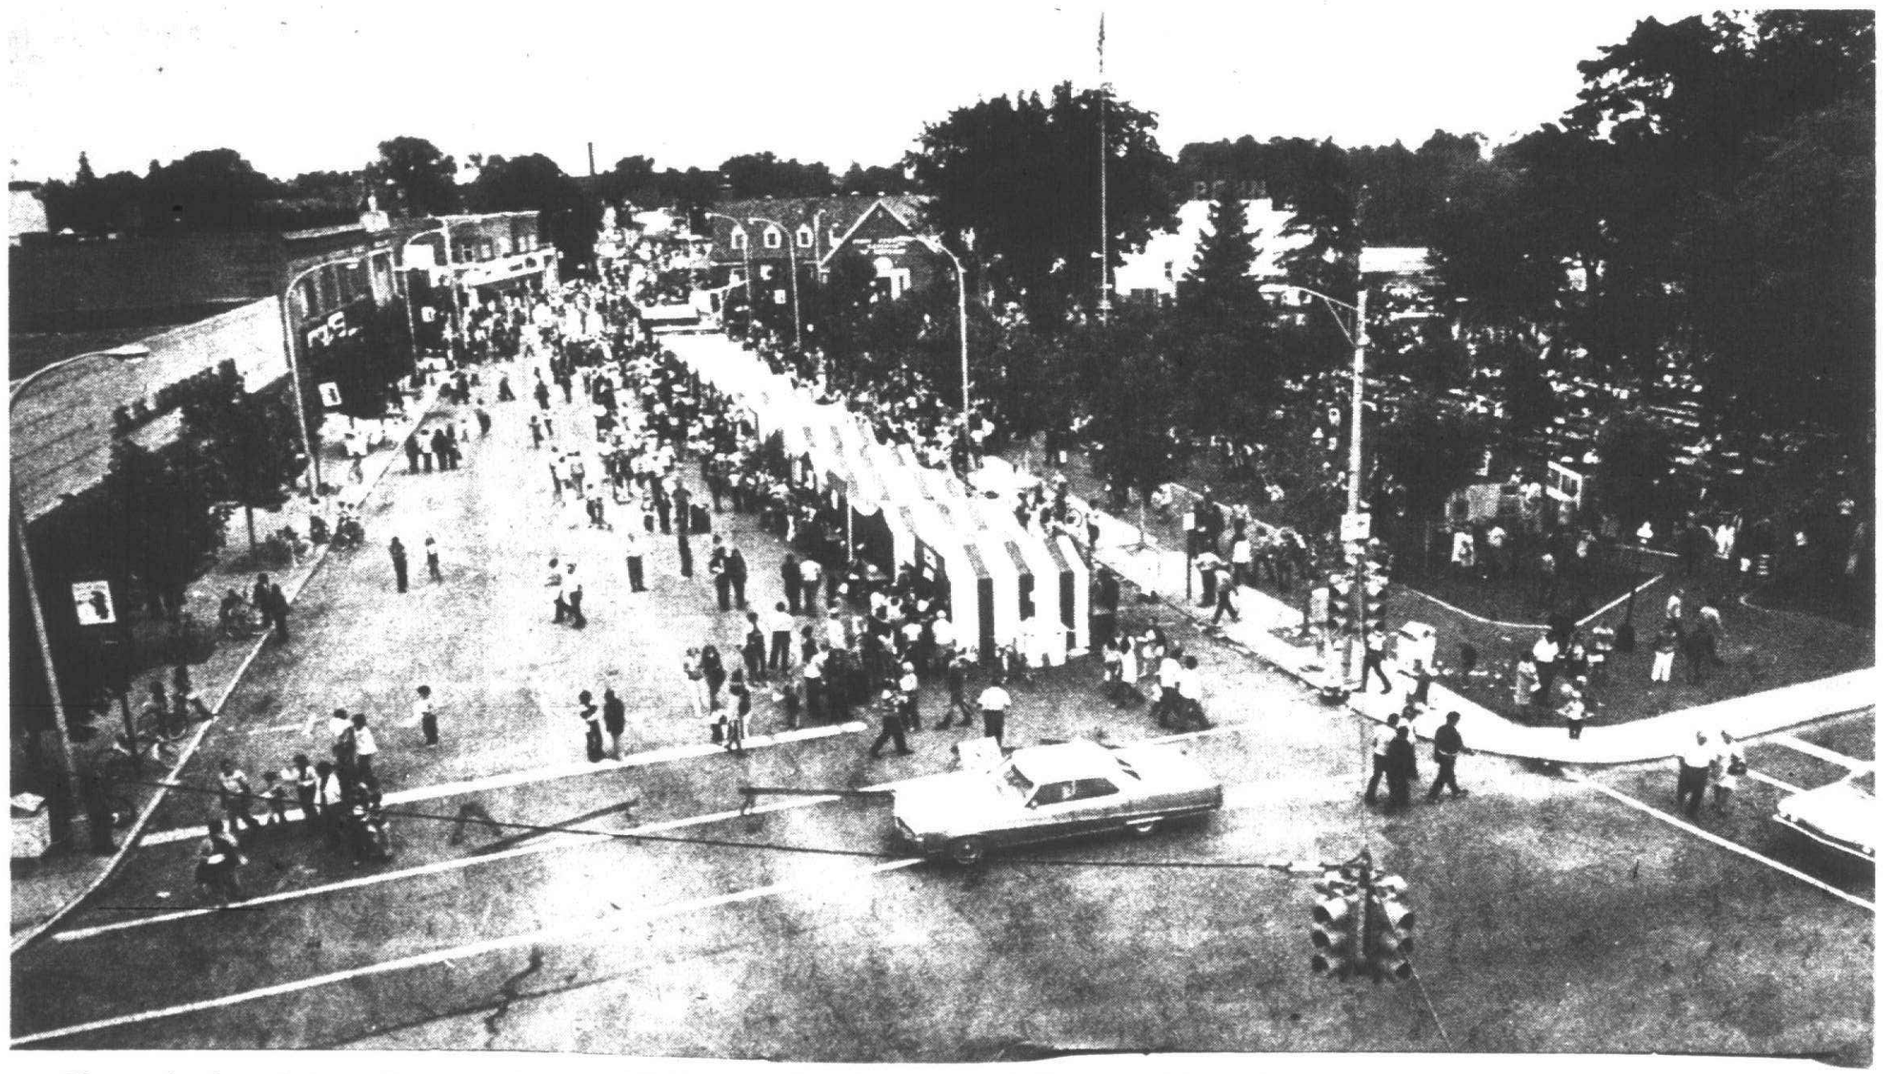

Bringing everyone in the Observer & Eccentric area this 1977 version of the Plymouth Fall Festival was made possible through the help of all the reporters on the Plymouth and Canton editorial staffs.

Dennis O'Connor, editor of this year's festival production, would like to thank all the reporters who made his job a whole lot easier.

Reporters for this special edition included W.W. Edgar, Pat Touhey, Elinor Graham, Darlene Stinson, and Glenn Bunting.

The photograpers for this edition were Gary Caskey, Bob Woodring and Doug Johnson.

Helping with important advice on the production of the section were Emory Daniels, Richard Gold, Audrey Roof and Craig Piechura.

Thousands of people from all over southeastern Michigan will line the streets of Plymouth this weekend as another Fall Festival swings into action. This year's festivals should be bigger and better than ever.—Beginning with activities Thursday night, Sept. 8 and ending with the traditional Rotary chicken barbecue Sunday afternoon, Sept. 11.

WELCOME TO THE BEST FALL FESTIVAL YET.

IT WAS A GREAT YEAR FOR GROWING!

Those 500 people who showed up for the Plymouth Rotary Club's first benefit outing back in 1956 didn't know what they were starting.

Because in the years since, the little get-together that turned out to be our own Fall Festival also turned out to be one of the important annual events in our community.

In fact, the growth of the Fall Festival mirrors the growth that's been going on in Plymouth all the years since: Not just a growth in numbers, but also in quality of life.

We're proud to be part of that kind of growth, and proud of the new office that we opened last spring on Ann Arbor Road and I-275 to serve our customers better.

To Don Lightfoot, Don Sutherland, Harold Guenther, Sam Hudson and the hundreds who've come after them—a special thanks.

And here's looking forward to the next 22 Fall Festivals!

Plenty of pasta proffered

"The Italians are coming! The Italians are coming!"

That'll be the war cry to kick off this year's version of the Plymouth Fall Festival when the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth hosts its second annual "Italian Night" on opening day, Sept. 8.

The festival didn't always begin with a mad rush of local Italians gunning for the spaghetti dinner stand. Until last year, "German Night" ruled the opening festivities with plenty of knackwurst, sauerkraut, potato salad and the specialty—German chocolate cake.

But the famed "German Night" ran into some hard times, and the Colonial Kiwanis Club stepped in to picked up the slack last year with its first spaghetti dinner.

Despite torrential showers all day, the Kiwanians managed to serve more than 1,700 dinners last year.

Chairman Richard Raison explained the club's success despite the inclement weather: "This event is rigged for carry-out in the case of rain," he said. "People can pick up their dinners and eat in the park or take it home.

"Luckily, everyone brought their dinners home last year and the rain didn't hurt us like it did some other groups."

THIS YEAR'S DINNER will be held on Penniman Avenue between the Masonic Temple and the Penn Theatre. It is scheduled to start on Thursday at noon and run until 8 p.m.

Tickets are $2.75 in advance and $3 at the door. They can be purchased from any Kiwanian before Sept. 8.

The spaghetti dinner includes Italy's favorite dish with meat sauce, salad, roll, milk or coffee and ice cream for dessert.

Head cook Doug Blunk leads the kitchen committee. Assisted by nine helpers, Blunk prepares the sauce that has become a festival favorite.

"But don't ask for the recipe," he warns. "It's a pinch of this and a pinch of that."

The actual food preparation begins on Wednesday night and many Kiwanians will rise as early as 4 a.m. Thursday to have the food ready at noon.

Among the organizers are Shirley Heiney, Jim Jabara, Bob Butler and John Miller.

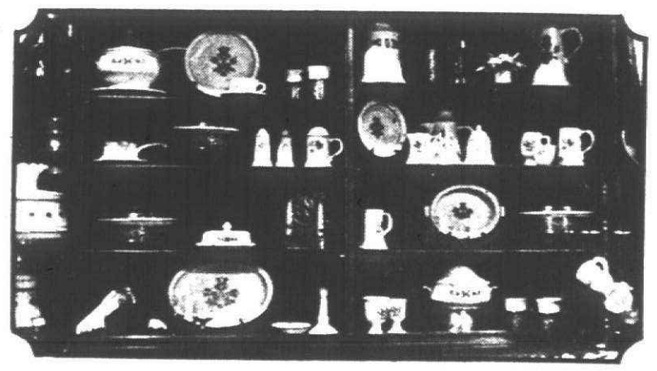

The Kiwanians are looking for better weather conditions this year and are planning to serve between 2,500 and 3,000 dinners. Last year's event raised more than $1,100, all of which was returned to the community.

Central to be gallery for selected artisans

The Fall Festival Arts and Crafts Show opens at noon Saturday for a two-day run in Central Middle School, Main Street at Church in downtown Plymouth.

More than 100 artists and craftsmen exhibit in the show by invitation only. Artisans are selected by a special committee of the members of the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC), sponsor of the show.

New for the 1977 show will be "The Gallery," a separate section featuring one or two juried works from each of a number of contributing artists.

The student art booth will be back with its fine collection of paintings and crafts by Plymouth students. Many youngsters get a head start here on their Christmas shopping. The prices are geared to child-size purchasing power but discriminating adults may discover something that may later be known as "one of his very early efforts."

Hours of the show are noon to 9 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 7 p.m. on Sunday. Admission prices are $1 for adults and 50 cents for full-time students and senior citizens. Children under 16 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

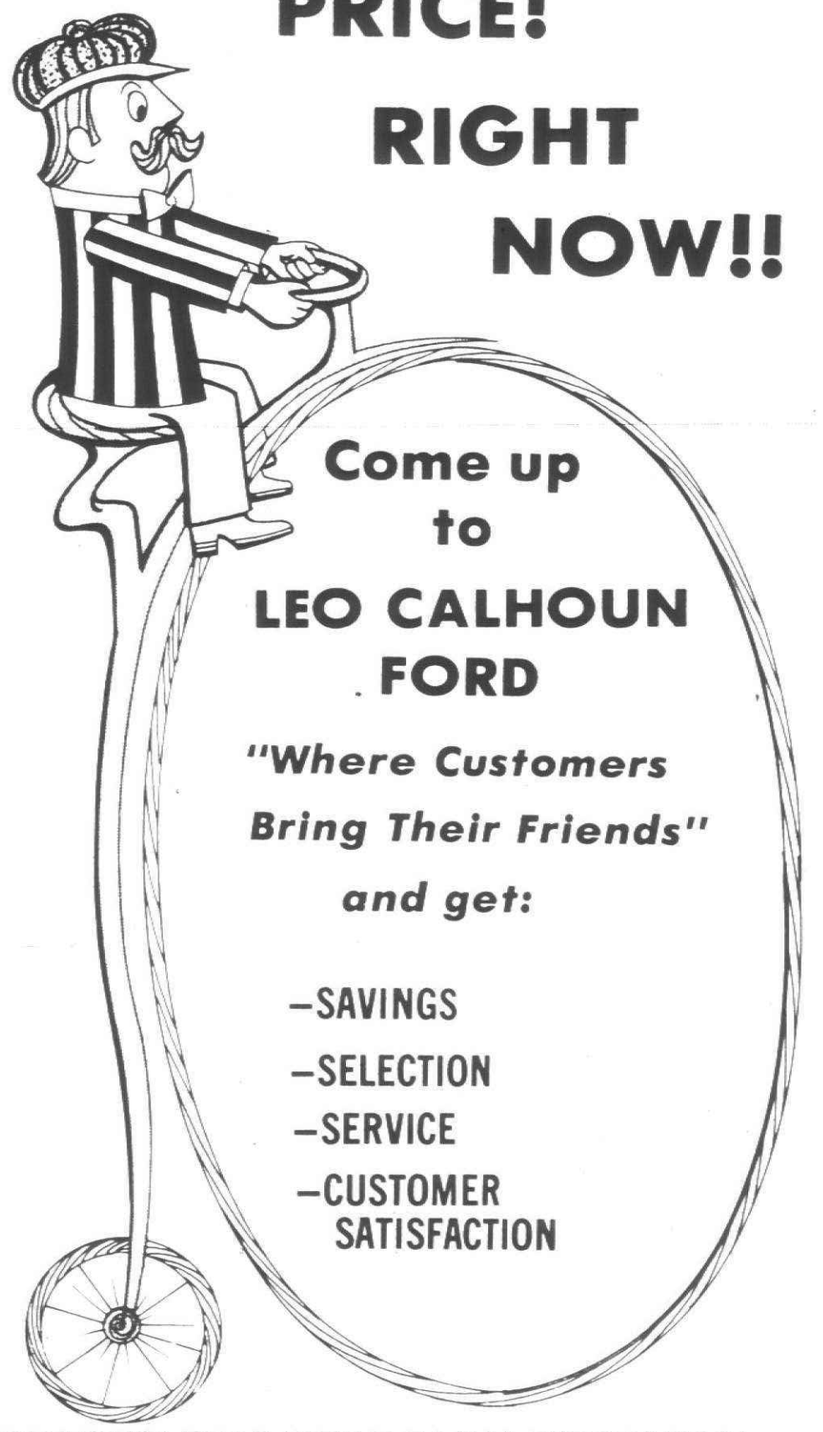

Proceeds of the show will benefit PCAC activities in the schools and the community.

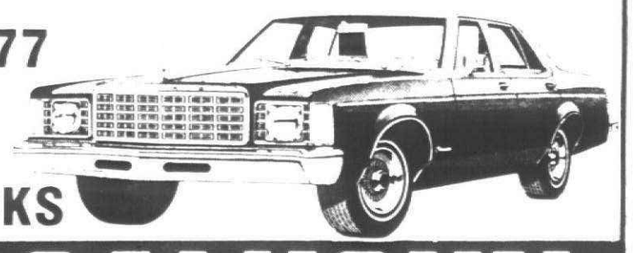

Bette Prudden, who does pastel portraits, has become a regular at the Plymouth Community Arts Council's arts and crafts show. (Staff photo).

The Stroller

A cure for homesickness

By W. W. EDGAR

Most folks might laugh if you told them that sitting in Kellogg Park on a Sunday afternoon, dining on a thigh of well-done chicken or enjoying an ear of buttered golden kernels of sweet corn, was cure for homesickness.

If you were raised in the heart of the Pennsylvania Dutch country and longed for a return to the grove of the Allentown Fair Grounds for a good, old-fashioned sauerkraut dinner; or a visit to the Kutztown Fair to watch the Dutch ladies making their famous quilts; or to roam with the Amish people at the Reading Fair and marvel at the manner in which the famed Reading pretzels are turned out; then it wouldn't be a laughing matter.

Each year about this time, when the days start getting shorter, the air a bit crisper, and the farmers are selecting produce to put on exhibition, the Stroller suffers from terrible pangs of homesickness.

To him, in his youth, the trip to the fairs was the crowning point of the last days of vacation from school. He liked nothing better than to walk along the midways, jostling in the crowds, and then wind up tired but hungry at one of the many tents (sponsoredby the varios churches) to dine on a heaping helping of mashed potatoes and sauerkraut.

This was always a dish fit to set before a king. And until you encountered the Pennsylvania Dutch women, with t heir homemade cakes and pies, you really didn't know what dessert was like.

Each year, the longing to go back home at fair time grew stronger for the Stroller. And many times, he was tempted to drop everything and go back for one more round of the fairs and listen again to the colorful language of the Pennsylvania Dutch.

Then, one Sunday, a bit more than a decade ago, the Stroller was invited to join friends in Plymouth's Kellogg Park and partake of a chicken thigh and a cob of corn at the Rotary Club's chicken barbecue. He accepted and a funny thing happened.

As he sat there among the trees, smiling and waving at friends, with melted butter from the golden kernels dripping from his chin, he was gripped with the sudden feeling that this was just like the fair back home. Sure, the faces were different, and old Fritz Kessler, the king of the sauerkraut dinner specialists, was missing, but the scene was almost the same.

Just like back home families came together to dine on barbecued chicken and then sat in the park to enjoy the entertainment, just as the Stroller used to do on his trips up the midway. Somehow, as he looked on the scene, the pains of homesickness seemed to leave. Abd until you have suffered homesickness, you don't realize what a relief that is.

To walk off the heavy meal, the Stroller was taken on a stroll up Union Street to the Grange to look at the handiwork, then at the various booths on Main Street. It was just like back home at the fair.

The lone difference came when he was told that the Plymouth Fall Festival was a four-day affair, with a number of service groups taking an active role in the event.

Back home at the fair, you visited all these places on the same day. And, especially at the Allentown Fair you took a seat in the grandstand to enjoy the entertainment by big name bands and the entertainers.

Now, the Stroller sits with friends and neighbors on Penniman Avenue, after dining and enjoys the entertainment. And would you believe it, the mental pictures of the fairs back home grow dimmer and dimmer.

The Fall Festival and the chicken barbecue are real cures for his homesickness.

Budget balancing means decline in student booths

Participation of the Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton High School classes in the Fall Festival booth activities is down to the bare minimum this year.

Gary Faber, administrator of student affairs at Centennial Park, said the rising cost of the booths discouraged many classes from trying to raise money in this manner.

Salem classes of 1979 (juniors), 1980 (sophomores) and the Rocks' Senior Council are the only individual school groups organizing booths.

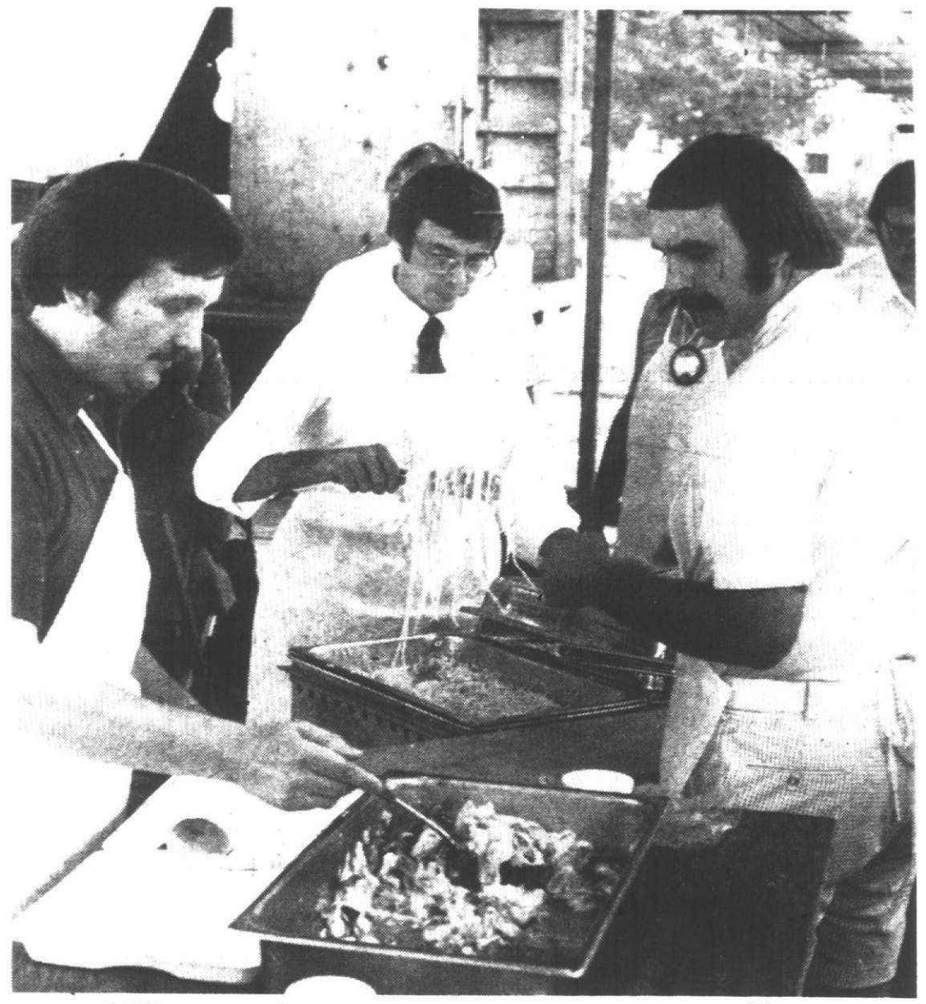

Canton classes decided not to participate at all.

Salem's 1979 class will sell caramel apples at their booth.

Plain caramel apples cost 40 cents while the apples covered with nuts are a nickel more.

Pretzels and soft drinks are on the menu, courtesy of the Salem class of 1980.

Salem's senior council will sell pizza by the slice, one of the more popular food items at the booths. The pizza will cost 50 cents per piece.

Sunday's chicken dinner breaks all records

When you take your seat in Kellogg Park to feast on the well-done chicken at the annual Rotary barbecue, you'll be helping to establish a dining record.

Before dusk settles on the park and the smoke clears over the long pits, more than 15,000 chicken dinners are expected to be served. Nowhere else in America is there a feast that comes in such numbers over so short a time.

Since the Rotary started its barbecue, many areas throughout Michigan have followed. One of the largest imitators is Manchester, where close to 10,000 dinners have been served in an entire day.

Marine City Lions also have a chicken barbecue, but it cares for the appetites of only about 600 persons during an afternoon. This possibly is a record, too, for a city that size and so short a time.

The only feasting that surpasses the Rotary barbecue, according to a recent survey, is the baked bean dinner served on the Boston Commons in Massachusetts. But again, the 21,000 are fed during an entire day and evening.

In Plymouth the case is different and therein lies the claim to a record. The Rotarians don't start serving until about noon and finish about 6:30 in the evening.

That means 15,000 dinners are served in about seven hours, or more than 2,000 dinners an hour.

This has been going on for several years and it seems now that the peak has been reached.

But serving 15,000 dinners in seven hours is quite a feat and deserves a place in the Guinness Book of Records.

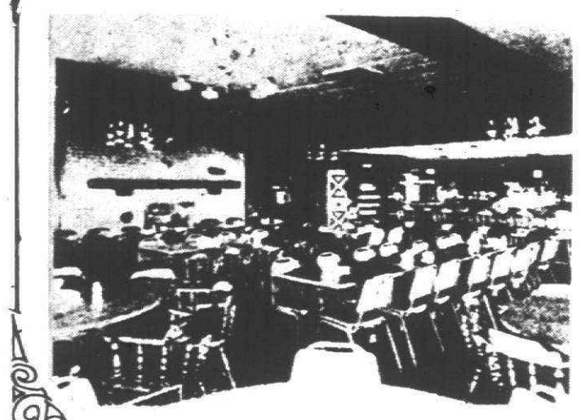

Chicken is the magic word on Fall Festival Sunday as the Rotarians sponsor the big barbecue each year to cap off the eventful weekend. The Rotary barbecue is one of the biggest dinners offered in the nation. (Staff photo)

More than 15,000 chicken dinners have been sold in recent years as people from all over the state come to please their appetites. (Staff photo)

Lions fry fish Friday

Quick! When someone says, "Fall Festival Friday," what's the first thing that comes to mind?

The Plymouth Lions Club Fish Fry, of course.

The annual fish fry, which has become one of the biggest happenings of festival weekend in recent years, will begin at 11 a.m. and continue throughout the day until some 3,400 dinners have been sold.

Last year, the Lions ran out of dinners in the evening hours as more than 3,200 dinners were served.

This year's menu includes not only the fish and french fried potatoes, but also cole slaw, roll and butter, and beverage. The price for all this food is only $3.

All 55 members of the Plymouth Lions Club are involved in bringing the annual dinner to the community. And with the special help from all the members' wives, you will see over 100 people working to get you that hot, delicious meal.

Frank Tanner is this year's organizer of the dinner and will head all the volunteer work by members.

All the money raised throughout the Lions' Dinner will go back into the community-as is true for every festival organization.

The main objective of the Lions is to help the community with sight and hearing conservation. The service offered to fulfill this goal finds the Lions helping to pay the medical expenses for people who can't afford proper eye and ear care.

One major project presently under consideration is building bridges in the Plymouth Township Recreation Park on Ann Arbor Trail and McClumphia Roads.

Festival board praised

There are 14 special people on the Fall Festival Board, who have worked hard all year to help bring you this year's version of the autumn classic.

Members of the board include Bob Richardson, president; Scott Dodge, first vice-president; Elaine Kirchgatter, second vice-president; Nancy Sharp, secretary; Eugene Kaflia, treasurer.

Members at-large are Doug Blunk, Robert Bake, Sandra Davis, Norm Kee, Ron South, Richard Raisin and Bill McVitte.

The party's over, now for the work

Bagging the Fall Festival trash is like tidying up after a hurricane that strikes four days in a row.

Ken Vogras, DPW director for the City of Plymouth, has been in charge of cleanup at the Fall Festival ever since he came to Plymouth 21 years ago.

The size of the Fall Festival has grown during that period, Vogras says. So has the mess and expense of cleaning it up.

"It seems it's getting worse—and more expensive—every year," said the DPW director. "There's papers and pop cans all over the place. The trash containers get filled so fast that people drop things in and they fall on the ground."

TO MAKE MATTERS worse, the expense of cleaning up has soared.

Last year, the city charged the Fall Festival committee $3,200 for the 32 hours its DPW crews spent tidying up festival turf. The festival committee still owes the city $2,000 of that bill, according to Vogras.

"But we're not hanging a club over their heads, saying, 'Pay up or we won't clean up,' " he said.

This year, Vogras hopes to save the Fall Festival committee some money by advising service clubs which sponsor events to round up their own cleanup volunteers. The volunteers could carry litter from their own club's event to a nearby garbage truck, rented by the Fall Festival committee.

Until four years ago, service clubs did clean up a portion of their mess, Vogras said.

"But then they seemed to take the attitude, 'Let the city clean up,' "

To have the city gather up the litter, the Fall Festival committee must pay an average $6.50 an hour for work performed on Friday and Monday mornings, time-and-a-half for Saturday, and double-time for Sunday, Vogras said.

ABOUT THREE DPW workers begin cleaning up litter from the previous day's event at about 5 a.m., said the DPW director. They first "blow" litter from Kellogg Park with a special blowing machine and then clean up the mess with a street sweeper.

Although the festival creates an extra workload for Vogras, the DPW worker says he looks forward to the four-day event every year.

"It's a hassle," he admitted, "but it's really a great thing for the community."

Trash piles up quickly during the four-day event, but DPW workers are prepared to end such displeasing sights this year. (Staff photo)

Where do the profits go?

"What does the Rotary Club do with the profits?"

That's the question most often asked by the thousands who feast on the chicken at the annual Rotary barbecue—and the Rotarians answer with pride.

Most of the money is spent in Plymouth to help make life a bit more delightful and, in many cases, help to provide education for those in need.

In most cases, the profits are turned into gifts to the city that are meant to last a lifetime. One of the main examples is the fountain in Kellogg Park.

Some years ago when the Garden Club took on the task of beautifying the park, the Rotary Club pledged itself to a fountain that would be the jewel in the center and provide enjoyment both day and night. It has done that.

Next came an unusual gift. When the Historical Museum was being built and the various organizations were pondering the idea of what to provide in the manner of gifts, Rotary decided on a mural depicting the old days in downtown Plymouth.

Fortunately, a picture taken in 1924 by C.G. Draper became available and the mural now graces the wall on the lower level, serving as a background for all meetings in the museum.

The picture is one of the best ever taken of the downtown area. It shows the corner of Main Street and Penniman Avenue when horse drawn 'buggies', were the rage.

The museum has been the recipient of another prized gift made possible by the profits from the chicken barbecue.

This gift is more useful than beautiful in that it is a microfilm printer. This has been used by the Rotary to put all of its records on film. And all clubs and organizations have been invited to do the same.

Another generous portion of the profits was used in the purchase of a room on "Main Street" in the museum. It is the old type barbershop room that was prominent in the days before the electric razor.

These are just a few of the avenues down which the profits from the barbecue have traveled.

Splash! Dunk the Rockettes

The Plymouth Salem Rockettes will give all Fall Festival participants yet another shot to succeed at the dunk tank.

The dunk tank, which is located on Main Street near the Youth Center, costs eager pitchers 10 cents per toss and 25 cents for three throws.

Is it (he) eligible?

The annual pet show attracts all kinds of entries—including last year's emcee John Close who used his sad, brown doglike eyes to try to impress the judges for a ribbon. The judges were not easily fooled, however, and Close went away empty handed. (Staff photo)

Antiques, antiques,...

If antique furniture, clocks, jewelry, china, glassware, farm tools or primitives are your bag, the place for you Sept. 9, 10 and 11 will be the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street.

As part of the Plymouth Fall Festival excitement, the 15th annual antique mart sponsored by the Plymouth Symphony League will feature 20 selected dealers from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania. There also will be a candle maker and a weaver.

A new attraction this year will be Rae Choma, an antique appraiser who will give verbal appraisals of family heirlooms and collectors' items for $1.

Admission to the show will be $1. Hours are from noon to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and noon to 7 p.m. on Sunday.

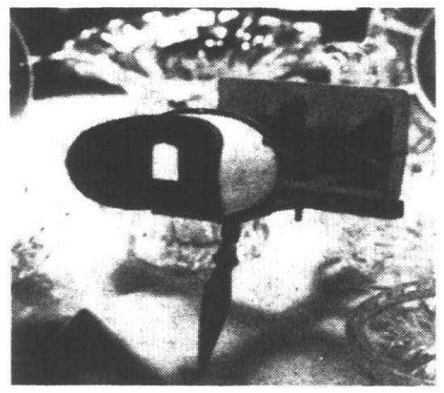

Among the dealers are Gloria Siegert, Ruth Heilman and Marjorie Kulifay from Livonia. Pauline Work will come from Farmington Hills and Dorothy Thompson from Farmington.

NEW TO THE SHOW this year are Clyde and Joan Nixon of Ann Arbor.

One of Mrs. Nixon's special interests is English watercolors and she will bring a collection of these to the Plymouth show. Avidly collected by Europeans, they still are relatively unknown outside leading galleries and auction houses.

Mrs. Nixon said they compared to oils, they are delicate and light. For the most part, they depict sea scenes and landscapes and are by documented artists whose work is represented in public collections such as the Victoria and Albert Museum in London, England.

General chairpersons of the mart are Fran Lang and Joyce Kelly. Treasurer is Jean Sigmon. Chairing other committees are Helen Merrill, dealers; Mary Smith and Marian Waterhouse, hostesses; Carol Pastori, dealer signs and decorations; Judy Dahlberg, setup and cleanup; Ruth Paul and Evelyn Funk, posters, fliers and programs; and Wanda Nash and Alice Smith, publicity.

Treasures at the Antique Mart, sponsored by the Plymouth Symphony League.

Chickens given special care

You possibly never have noticed it, but the Rotarians take great care in the manner in which the chickens are placed on the grill to start the long trip down the grill.

You may not believe it, but there are right-handed and left-handed chicken legs and thighs and great care must be taken that the pieces do not get crossed.

Should a right-hand piece get placed with the left-hand piece, it would cause a hump on the grill and the pieces would fall into the fire when the grills are turned.

In an attempt to avoid such a calamity, the chicken supplier is instructed to keep the sides separated on the delivery trucks.

If you take the time to notice, you'll see the boxes of chicken are lined up on either side of the delivery truck. One side will be the right-handed thighs and the other side the left. And when new supplies are needed for the grills you'll notice that each grill is served from one side at a time.

Oh yes, there are right-handed and left-handed chickens—and you'll find them at the Rotary barbecue.

Ummm! Barbecued ribs

Crisp ribs crackling over an open flame, and the pungent smell of a tangy barbecue sauce drifting through the air: The Plymouth Jaycees have done their part. Now it's up to you to enjoy.

All you need is a hearty appetite and a ticket to the club's annual rib dinner.

Not only is the traditional Saturday night feast a hallmark of the Fall Festival, but it's the biggest project of the year for the Jaycees and Jaycettes.

Although the planning and preparation begins months in advance, the real work starts on Friday evening. That's when everybody gets together at a member's home and starts putting together the cardboard dinner boxes.

The boxes arrive flat and have to be folded into shape. Then a napkin, salt and pepper, and eating utensils are put into each one. Vans take the completed dinner kits to the serving area next to the Penn Theatre on Penniman Avenue.

At 7 a.m. Saturday, the men start building the fire pits, and by 3:30 p.m. the fire is ready for the meat.

THE SERVING LINE is open at 5 p.m. And the Jaycees keep those ribs rolling until the last customer is served or until they run out.

Last year, the club served 3,000 dinners to Fall Festival goers, and they're planning to cook even more this year—at least 3,500, according to president Jim Picard.

Tickets are priced at $3.50 each. But senior citizens qualify for a 50 cent discount. They can be purchased at the Jaycee booth on the day of the roast.

Besides the piping hot ribs, the meal includes hot buttered corn on the cob, cole slaw, bread and butter, a beverage and ice cream for dessert.

So bring your appetite. The Jaycees will be waiting.

Don't miss the store windows

All the Plymouth Merchants get into the Fall Festival spirit as well.

For all you out-of-towners who are visiting the festival for the first time, please don't forget to look at the store windows.

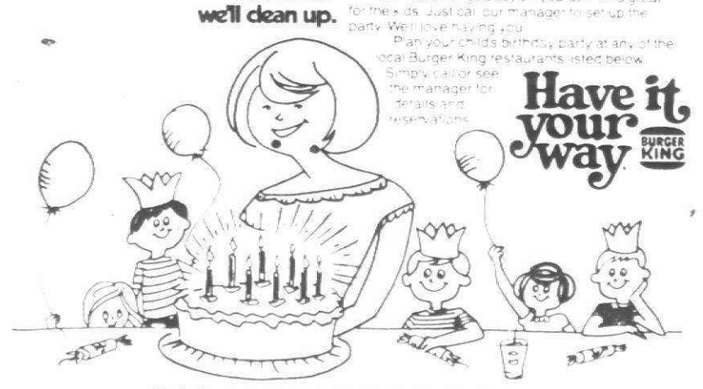

Every year, the merchants decorate their windows to celebrate the festive September weekend and this year is no exception.

As always, a contest will be held to determine the best decorated store window.

The windows will be judged and prizes awarded in different categories.

A kid's birthday party at Burger King is the kind even Mom can love.

Rotary fowl feast had humble beginnings

Few persons who attended the first Rotary Club chicken barbecue 21 years ago probably never dreamed the day would come when 15,000 dinners would be served in the short span of seven hours to become the most concentrated one-day feast in America.

But that is exactly what happened.

"We didn't have a very auspicious start," said Don Sutherland, who, with Don Lightfoot and Buck Champe, started the event.

"We arranged to barbeque 500 chicken halves that day down on the playgrounds at Joy Road and Fairgrounds, but we didn't sell more than half of them," he recalled. "In fact, we divided up the leftovers and took them home."

The original barbeque was sponsored by the Plymouth Rotary Club to raise funds for the purchase of playground equipment. And from that standpoint, the first effort was a success.

"We did purchase swings and slides," Sutherland recalled, "and built a mound for the youngsters to use for bobsledding in the winter. I think the mound is still there."

The rather disappointing start didn't bother Sutherland and his two compatriots. So the event was continued the next year with more success—and finally moved to Kellogg Park in the heart of the downtown business section to become a tradition on the Sunday following Labor Day each year.

For several years, Rotary went at it alone. Then the Fall Festival was born and the chicken barbecue became its crowning offering.

The real success came with the move to the park, and today it attracts diners from all sections of the state. It has taken on the aura of being the leader of such affairs in the entire country.

Through the years, it has drawn very few frowns from Lady Luck, and her pal, the Rainmaker. Only once or twice in the 21 years has the rain fell, and even then, the show went on.

Art exhibit

Arts and crafts demonstrations and exhibits will be at the Plymouth Historial Museum during the festival weekend.

Karen Schrader heads the effort which includes rughooking, basket weaving and horse shoeing.

It's fill 'er up at the pancake smorgasbord

One thing nice about "all you can eat" dinners is that no one complains about the size of the servings except those who overeat and stumble into the street hunting for antacid relief.

That's one reason why "Pancake Day" is the success it is every year at the Plymouth Fall Festival—few persons walk away discouraged with the serving.

For $2, you can sit inside the Masonic Temple on Penniman Avenue and Union Street all day and eat all the pancakes your stomach desires, in addition to a serving of sausage and milk or coffee.

"Pancake Day" will start bright and early at 7 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 10 and run until 7 p.m. That's 12 hours of sheer delight—or misery if you hang around the Temple for too long.

Pancake organizer Don Tripp of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club says the trick to serving so many flapjacks is having enough experienced hands and many hot grills.

The Kiwanians have the art of pancake cooking down to a science. The size is always the same and so is the color of the pancakes—a light, golden brown. The Kiwanians claim their pancakes are prepared on demand and never served cold.

THE ONLY QUESTION with this year's pancake festival is that the Kiwanians aren't sure whether they can top last year's feeding of 2,700 mouths.

"For the past 6-7 years we used to be busy only around meal times but lately we've been busy all the time," said Ron South, fellow Kiwanian. "Last year, it was slow only for one hour, between 4 and 5 p.m.

"We've had really good participation from folks in Plymouth. If we hope to do much better, we're gonna have to switch facilities because we pack 'em in the Masonic for 12 straight hours."

Last year's pancake extravaganza earned the Kiwanis Club more than $2,500. The money went for flowers in Central Park, and youth and senior citizen projects. Wastebaskets and four park benches will be added to the park in front of Central Middle School by the Kiwanians in September, courtesy of last year's "Pancake Day."

Tickets can be purchased in advance for $1.75 from any Kiwanian.

New carry-out location for barbecued chicken

There will be a new location for pick-up service for the Rotary Club chicken barbecue, for those who wish to buy the chicken on a take-home basis.

The chicken will be available for carry-out service at the corner of Ann Arbor Road at Sheldon, along with the regular eating spot at Kellogg Park in town.

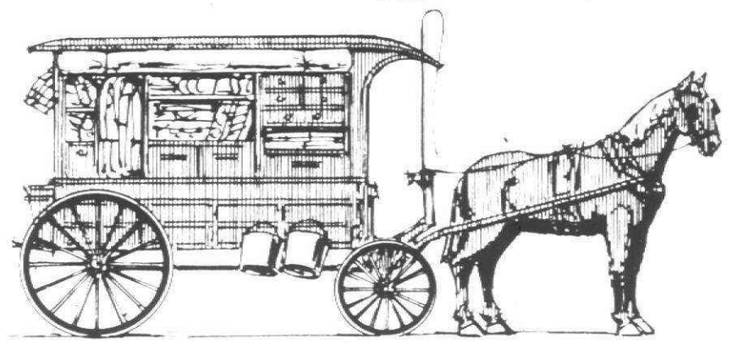

The meal, which includes one-half chicken, corn on the cob, potato chips, roll and butter and milk or coffee, costs only $3, the same price as last year.

To give you an idea of how big the dinner really is—here are some figures you might be interested in.

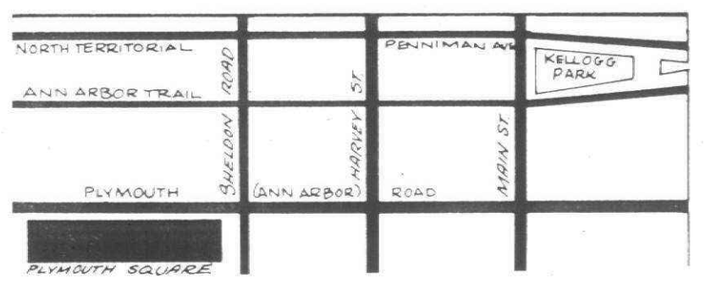

To prepare for the dinner, an estimated five tons of charcoal will be used, according to Purchasing Chairman Joe Smulsky.

He has also ordered 20 tanks of Coke and Sprite, 9,000 pints of milk, 1,400 dozen dinner rolls, 18,000 napkins, 16,000 bags of potato chips, 75 pounds of salt and nine pounds of pepper.
