Business bemoans sign ordinance

Chamber of Commerce members squared off with Canton Ordinance Officer Bruce Phillips Monday night over business signs and what should be allowed by law.

Canton Township's planning commission is in the process of adopting a revised sign ordinance and selected a subcommittee of Joyce Willis, Richard Kirchgatter and Robert Padget to write the new ordinance. Canton already has a strict sign ordinance.

Chamber members thought business people should be represented on the sign ordinance committee but officer Phillips said no special interest group—such as the business community—should have a hand in writing sign laws.

"It was the first time I spoke at the meeting," Phillips said. "I just thought it would be highly irregular for any special interest group to have a hand in writing legislation which affects them. It would be grossly unfair."

THE CHAMBER of Commerce was represented by Frank McMurray, who claimed to represent a consensus of Canton business people who were polled by the organization. A priority for the chamber is ground signs to be placed off the road to identify a business. Phillips has proposed allowing signs no more than 32 square feet large and no more than six feet high.

Chamber members want larger and higher "identity" signs. At present, no new ground signs are permitted under the sign ordinance adopted in March of 1975.

A proposed requirement which would force businesses to build ground signs two-thirds of the distance their building is set back from the road is unreasonable, say chamber members.

"Right now people are driving up and down Ford Road trying to find the Super Bowl because there's no sign," McMurray said. "The ordinance is creating a traffic hazard, so we're dealing with an issue which affects the health, safety and welfare of our citizens."

So, McMurray recommends allowing larger signs closer to the main road. He also would like the township to spell out the maximum sign size allowable in business, industrial and residential districts.

MARQUEE-TYPE signs which are prohibited except for theaters, should be allowed at restaurants, McMurray said, to allow business to advertise special offers.

McMurray also pressed for a relaxation on billboard regulations. Under the present ordinance, billboards are only allowed in industrial districts.

"We're facing an identity crisis," McMurray said. "If you drive down I-275 and come up to Ford Road, there's nothing there to tell you you can find food, clothing, shelter and gas. People should be told that there's a McDonalds, Big Boy, Palace and Meijer's Thrifty Acres right off the exit."

An "umbrella sign" at a shopping center often cannot identify all the businesses in the center and the chamber is out to change that. Also, people who lease part of another business are not allowed to erect another sign, McMurray complained.

Any signs up when the new law takes effect should be allowed to remain without changes to comply with the ordinance, McMurray believes.

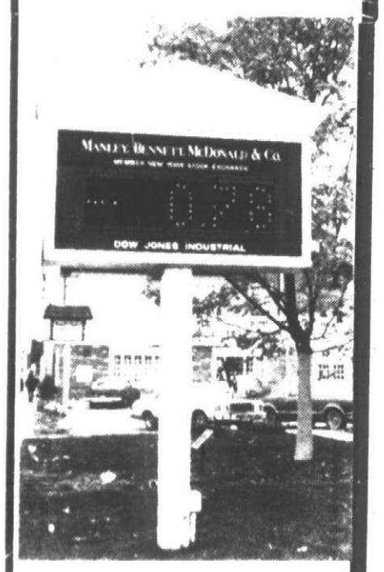

According to the ordinance officer, all signs that do not comply with a new sign ordinance will have to be

"BEST MONEY WE'VE EVER SPENT"

A. J. Danboise & Son Plumbing and Heating didn't have to look far when they needed extra help. A call to the Observer & Eccentric classified section resolved their problem with a simple, inexpensive ad in the help wanted pages. "The best money we've ever spent," Carol Gatewood told us. "We hired a great man from the ad."

The man with all the purse strings is Mike Gorman

By PATRICK TOUHEY

If you have trouble keeping your family checkbook out of the red each month, pity your local treasurer.

Depending on the government's banking practices, he may have to have a running tab of what's happening in several dozen different accounts.

The City of Plymouth, for example, currently has 42 active bank accounts. But Plymouth Township with 27 and Canton with 30 are not too far behind.

"We actively try to hold the number of accounts we have to a minimum," said Mike Gorman, Canton's deputy treasurer. "But by law certain accounts have to be separate, so there's not much we can do about it."

The difference in the three municipalities' number of accounts is simply a matter of services provided. Neither Plymouth Township nor Canton have to keep a cemetery account or a parking fund, as does the City of Plymouth.

Nor do the two townships have to keep accounts for road maintenance or repair. That is done by Wayne County.

"City government is just a little more complex," said Plymouth Treasurer Kenneth Way. "So we have more to do and more to keep track of."

FOR THE MOST part, there are daily transactions in the accounts. Money for sewer bills is deposited in one, while an employee is cashing his paycheck, which is drawn on another.

In the meantime, the bank is adding interest payments to still another account and checks written on the general fund two weeks ago are being turned in.

Sound like a nightmare?

"Not to me," laughed Joseph West, Plymouth Township treasurer. "Staying with it all just becomes a matter of course. Besides, we happen to have a very good staff."

Way, however, admits that it's not all clear sailing. Once in a while, he said, a problem develops. "Sometimes it does get confusing. I have the same problems keeping my balances squared with the bank's as everybody else does. Occasionaly we have our differences."

If you have "differences" with a bank it could mean a bounced check with a service charge to you. But for a treasurer, the pains of working over all those numbers and accounts has some reward.

Perhaps the major advantage is that it's almost impossible for a municipal government to write a "bad" check.

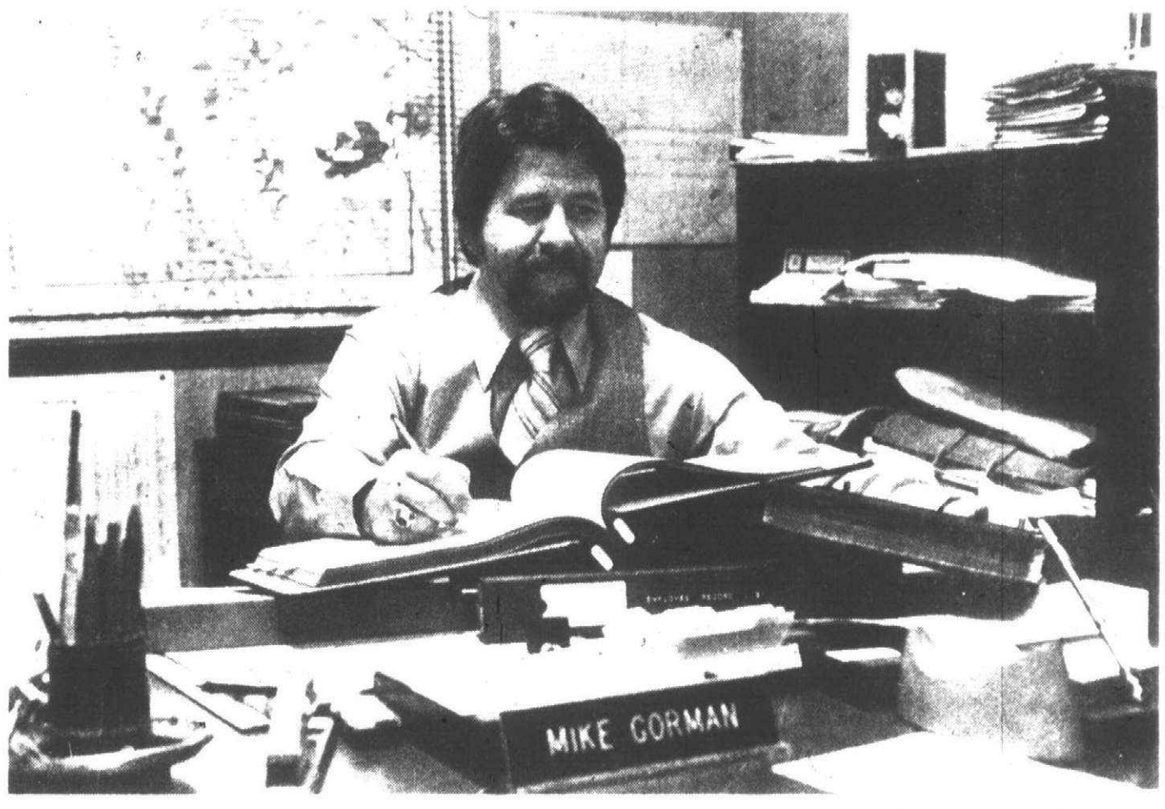

If a check is drawn on a particular account which doesn't have enough of a balance to cover, the bank will make the check good until the municipality is notified and makes an adjustment.

"If there isn't enough money in an account, I will not write a check on it," said West. "But every once in a while—and especially on payday—I'll make a transfer from one account to the other, but the checks will start getting cashed before the transfer is processed."

THAT KIND OF personal working relationship is the main reason the treasurers cited for maintaining their accounts in local banks.

The bulk of the city's accounts are

Only 1 sergeant eligible for full-time

By DARLENE STINSON

Over the objections of the Canton Police Officers Association (CPOA), township board members Tuesday established a policy for hiring full-time police sergeants that prohibits most of the CPOA's membership from applying for the $17,921-a-year jobs.

The policy, established at the recommendation of Police Chief Walter MacGregor, requires at least eight years' experience in police work to qualify for the four sergeant posts.

Only one member of the now part-time police department—Cmdr. Carl Silvers—meets the eight-year requirement. CPOA President John Longridge says his group may argue that another department employee—Roger Pearsall, a current sergeant—is eligible for the job because of his 10-year crime analysis experience with the Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office.

THE HIRING GUIDELINES established by the board Tuesday night could demote Pearsall and three other part-time sergeants to patrolman jobs. Except for MacGregor and Silvers, all certified members of the department received their certification last year.

Longridge says the CPOA, a fraternal organization that holds no bargaining power, is unhappy with the hiring policy.

"Any association would like to see its members hired," the CPOA president said. "I would suspect the (current) sergeants themselves might take this to court."

Chief MacGregor maintains the department's current sergeants lack the necessary experience to supervise officers of a full-time police force.

Four sergeants will supervise patrolmen on each of the department's three shifts as well as patrol the streets themselves. When the police chief is not duty, they will assume responsiblity for the force.

"I hate to hurt their feelings, but I don't feel there is sergeant material in the police department right now," MacGregor told township board members.

"I feel Canton needs the most experienced officers as possible for sergeants. I feel it is my responsibility to get the best police department on board for you."

OTHER SERGEANT eligibility requirements approved by the township board Tuesday night include:

- Police certification that complies with guidelines of the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council (LEOTC).
- High scores on written and oral tests conducted by the Michigan Municipal League and on agility, physical and psychological examinations.
- Canton residency or an agreement to move to the township within six months of completing a one-year probationary period.

Board members approved the residency requirement, despite MacGregor's objection, by a 6-2 vote. Trustee Robert Myers was absent. Treas. Anne Bradley and Trustee Eugene Daley voted against the requirement, because other township employees are not required to live in Canton.

MacGregor hopes to hire the full-time sergeants by Nov. 15 and put the police force on 24-hour patrol by Jan. 1.

"I want to give the sergeants time to acquaint themselves with the township," the chief explained. "I don't want them starting out on New Year's Day, not knowing where Geddes Road is."

One of the full-time sergeants will be given detective duties once MacGregor has determined which of the four officers is most qualified for the job.

ALTHOUGH LONGRIDGE said the CPOA will not challenge the sergeant eligibility requirements in court, he did say the organization will file a lawsuit against the township if CPOA members are not hired for 10 full-time patrolman positions.

Township board members have already ruled that all employees must score high marks on tests administered by the Michigan Municipal League before attaining full-time positions.

Supervisor Harold Stein has suggested adding points to the current officers' test scores to give them "first crack" at the jobs.

But according to Longridge, the now part-time Canton police officers have already taken written and oral civil service examinations as well as physicals and agility tests.

"Civil service is civil service whether you're full-time or part-time," Longridge maintained. "We've already talked to an attorney about this, and he says we have a good case."

Cmdr. Silvers has also threatened to file a lawsuit against the township if his commander's job is eliminated when the department goes full-time. Although the commander's post was not included in MacGregor's $450,000 budget for the police department, township board members Tuesday directed the chief to investigate the possibility of saving the post.

This is one dummy that may save a life

What's one more dummy to Canton Township? Well, this one's a resuscitation dummy and it's being used by fire fighters, police officers and community groups to teach life-saving techniques of cardiopulmonary-resuscitation (CPR).

On Monday, members of the Canton Chamber of Commerce and the Canton Rotary Club presented a $340 check to Canton Supervisor Harold Stein to pay for the purchase of a resuscitation dummy to be added to the fire department's instructional equipment.

The mannequin is named Resusci-Andy, and has a counterpart called Resusci-Annie, but only Andy was purchased.

The Rotary paid two-thirds of the cost and one-third was covered by the chamber. Anyone in the community can learn the life-saving techniques in the near future by calling the fire department at 981-1113 to set up an appointment.

Chief Mel Paulun is pleased about the new addition to his ranks. It was Paulun who dropped the hint about the department's desire for a training dummy at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

"Some of our firemen are certified to teach CPR and others are going through EMT (emergency medical technician) training and they'll be available to people in the community during the week and possibly one day during the weekend," Paulun said.

The Rotary's donation is the second gift of the newly-formed service club. It follows their gift of a back brace to a Canton boy. The Rotary Club is planning its first fundraiser for spring of 1978.

Job placement center at CEP open to adults

By GLENN BUNTING

It's becoming easier for persons in Plymouth and Canton Township to find a job these days.

Several months ago, the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) in Canton extended its job location services by acquiring additional facilities and personnel.

Now the Plymouth-Canton Schools are developing a new career center at Plymouth-Canton High, complete with counseling and job placement information.

Formerly an office designed for the use of students only, the career center will be open 7:30-9:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Wednesdays to accomodate adult education classes and job hunters within the community.

As a result of a $20,000 grant through the Comprehensive Education Training Act (CETA), the federally funded job program recently hired two full-time aides to assist regulars Don Chumley, program director, and Joyce

Power recounts reasons why he's running for Senate

"I had the idea of entering the U.S. House of Representatives race the first two or three years I was with the papers," said Philip H. Power, recalling the period after 1966 when he purchased the Observer Newspaper Group, the predecessor of the present company.

"People kept asking me to run, but I liked the papers so much I blew Congress out of my mind. I hadn't thought of doing anything until last January," said Power, 39, board chairman of Suburban Communications Corp., parent company of Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

In January, President Jimmy Carter appointed Bendix Corp. Chairman Michael Blumenthal his secretary of the treasury. Prominent Democrats, who had been grooming Blumenthal to run for Republican Robert Griffin's Senate seat, approached Power on running for what has been called the "most exclusive club in the world."

PHILIP H. POWER
Change came in January

"I JUST ABOUT fell out of my chair. Sara, (his wife, a University of Michigan regent) and I spent about three months thinking about it. I had no great ego drive.

"But I did have an old-fashioned notion of public service. And I did have something to say."

Last week, Power, who lives in Ann Arbor, filed a form with the Federal Election Commission as a prelude to seeking the Democratic nomination for the seat Griffin now plans to vacate.

It's not a formal announcement, but there's no question Power is campaigning.

Except for his Observation Point column (a first place winner in a statewide contest in 1969), Power has been inactive in the newspapers in recent weeks. (His final column today—on the editorial page—explains recent management changes.)

"I'VE BEEN meeting people," he said—"party activists, labor leaders, press people mostly. I've been in the Upper Peninsula, the southwestern part of the state, Muskegon, Bay City. . ."

The Blumenthal connection is important. Former Blumenthal supporters (Power declines to name them, at their requests) are backing him.

Power served with Blumenthal on the Michigan Economic Action Council, which last year gave the governor and legislative leaders a plan of action for the state's declining economy.

"I had some impact—on diversifying the economy away from manufacturing to research and development and high technology industries," Power said. "And I and others worked on the budget stabilization fund plan."

Power has also been a member since 1971 and president since 1976 of the Michigan Foundation for the Arts, the private money-raising group that supplements the efforts of the federal and state-funded councils for the arts.

POWER WAS administrative assistant for U.S. Rep. Paul Todd Jr. (D-Kalamazoo) in 1965-66 and worked on Todd's campaign. While he has never held elective office himself, Power was a Democratic strategist in the presidential campaigns of the late Robert F. Kennedy ('68) and George McGovern ('68) and gubernatorial campaigns of Sander Levin ('70 and '74).

Bump for burns

The Dance-A-Thon, being held in hopes of raising $50,000 to help the Burn Center expand, will be from 9 a.m. to midnight Sunday, Oct. 16, in the ballroom of the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

Groups helping people make it

Each week, hundreds of area residents seek counseling from Plymouth Family Service, the Youth Center and Our House.

If that sounds like a lot of problems, think of it instead as a lot of solutions.

The three organizations, all supported by the Plymouth Community Fund, help people troubled by separation, divorce, bankruptcy, drug abuse, alcholism, loneliness and a host of other problems.

But day after day, they also see people muster the willingness to cope with these crises, reconcile their differences and make a fresh start.

Family Service, located at 880 Wing St., is in its 14th year of helping people. Supervisor Ruth Abell sums up the work as "substituting productive kinds of activity for destructive behaviors like irrational arguments, heavy drinking, child neglect, leaving home or giving up."

SOME CLIENTS seek counseling for more ongoing problems such as excessive shyness, loneliness or depression. Staff members hold counseling sessions with individuals, couples or families.

The agency also sponsors a number of groups which meet regularly to share mutual problems. These have included a group of pre-teens and older adolescents who were experiencing problems in school or at home, and an adult group focusing on new roles for women.

Plymouth Family Service charges fees on a sliding scale, based on the client's ability to pay. Plymouth Community Fund support insures that the services are closed to no one.

Donations are now being accepted to the annual Community Fund Drive, Box 356, Plymouth. Residents who contribute through payroll deduction in another city are reminded to designate that their contributions be returned to Plymouth.

The fund also supports Growth Works, incorporating Our House counseling center and the Youth Center. Our House, 185 S. Harvey, was originally aimed at providing peer counseling in the areas of substance abuse and crises services.

But it has grown more diverse through the years. Last year's assistance—to more than 1,100 local residents—included counseling and crises intervention, tutoring elementary school children, working with local probation departments, a senior citizens' information and referral service, and sponsorship of a Parents Anonymous group, helping potentially abusive parents learn new childrearing skills.

THE YOUTH CENTER, at 271 S. Main, offers area young people informal leisure time activities and assistance with concerns and problems.

"People don't come here because they have problems," staff member Dale Yagiela explains. "The come here to have a good time. But the contact with other youth and the staff presents opportunities to learn how to get along with others, make decisions and assume responsibilities."

Academic tutoring can be arranged through the Youth Center staff and a job placement service is active and growing.

In addition to arranging private placements, the Youth Center is in contact with federally funded youth employment programs. Counseling on career planning and job seeking skills are also available.

The Youth Center and Our House are able to offer free community services because they are manned by volunteers who undergo more than 60 hours of training. They are instructed in drug pharmacology, use of referral information, suicide prevention and listening skills.

School board's balanced budget teetering

By EMORY DANIELS

After approving an operating budget balanced at $25½ million, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education immediately took steps to head off a deficit of $2½ million for the next school year.

The board voted 7-1 to approve the 1977-78 operating budget, balanced at $25,568,000. Attached to that vote, though, was an amendment directing the administration to present a two-year operating budget this January. The two-year document will cover 1977-79 with revenues and expenses estimated for two school years.

The decision to establish a two-year budget, in effect, made moot another amendment which provided that cuts made in the instructional areas of this year's budget be the first restored if unexpected revenues come in.

The intent was to restore instructional cuts if unexpected revenues are discovered when budget adjustments are made in February. By that time, however, a two-year budget document will be drafted and the board will be faced with a deficit ranging from $1½ to $2½ million.

Faced with such large over-expenditures, the board aims to use any unexpected revenues picked up in fiscal '77-78 to offset the deficit in the '77-79 budget.

AFTER THE MOTION was made Monday night to approve the '77-78 operating budget, Trustee Carol Davis offered an amendment that if further funds become available priority should be to restore cuts in school programs.

Trustee Joe Gray argued against the amendment: "If roofs are falling in on a couple of our school buildings, I think that's a priority for the board. I'd hate to see us tied to a motion that sets a specific priority. I agree with the intent, but e must allow ourselves room to deal with any crisis which might arise."

Trustee Steve Harper noted that any allocation of new revenue would require board action. "The administration now has authority to expend $25.6 million. If more money should come in, the board must give the authority on how it will be spent."

Trustee George Lawton said he was against the Davis amendment, although he agreed philosophy. "All funds we spend are dedicated to improving education. But if we accept the trends now given us for the coming budget year, we have nothing facing us but deficits. I hope any unexpected revenues which come in will be used as a cushion against those future deficits."

The Davis amendment passed 4-3 with Gray, Lawton and Harper voting "no."

LAWTON THEN PROPOSED an amendment to blend the budget for '77-78 school year into a two-year budget with the administration directed to present its first draft in January.

"This board has discussed the concept of two-year and three-year budgets, but has never taken any official action. I suggest now is the time to come up with a two-year budet because it appears in '78-79 we could be overspent by $2.4 million.

"To allocate any new funds for new teachers during this fiscal year is, to me, an intolerable action. We must move now toward a two-year budget. If we wait until next May or June, we'll haße to go to the people and ask them to bail us out. If we aren't going into a two-year budget, then let's go back to the drawing board on this one."

Supt. John M. Hoben told the board it could be done but cautioned trustees that to balance a two-year budget will most likely require "a reduction in programs to meet the needs next year within the framework of current revenue estimates."

Trustee Flossie Tonda argued the need for a two-year budget by noting, "We are going to have to have more school buildings. We cannot ask voters for money for operation and ask money to build. We need buildings desperately, so we might have to cut the operating budget."

An advantage of the two-year budget, Lawton added, in that "it is easier to make adjustments to offset deficits when you've seven or eight months ahead to work on it. The more rapidly the budget has a careful look, and we project cuts qo '78-79, the more rapidly we can go to voters with clear alternatives on our building needs."

Hoben cautioned the board again that a two-year budget would mean no addition to staff, and could mean reductions of specials in the elementaries or middle school librarians if cuts had to be made. "Some 86 per cent of the budget is people. The projected $2.4 million deficit is one-tenth of the budget, so you can see what we are facing."

THE CURRENT BUDGET was approved 6-1, as amended by Mrs. Davis and Lawton, with Gray voting "no."

In explaining his no vote, Gray said the cuts in the current budget were only "temporary" reductions. "I am looking for us to make cuts of a more long lasting nature, such as having an elementary principal in charge of two schools or moving an assistant principal into the classroom. Instead we are adding administrative interns at a cost of $22,000 each, and have increased our secretarial staff by one per school."

ZBA injunction irks applicants

by DARLENE STINSON

When Michael Wood of Canton Township first decided to add an attached garage to his home last May, he didn't plan on an on-again, off-again Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) to stymie his construction plans.

Because of a legal battle over the composition of the ZBA and a court injunction that prohibits the board to meet, Wood cannot build his garage in time for the icy blasts of winter.

Wood needs a zoning variance from the ZBA to build a garage on a corner lot in Franklin Square Subdivision. Without that approval, Wood must make do with an ice scraper for his car and a tool heap in his basement.

"I'M ANGRY," Wood said of the delay in his construction plans. "Even if they get this whole mess straightened out soon, it's too late now to build a garage in time for this winter. No way will I authorize cement work in November."

Scores of other township residents who want to build closer to a lot line than the zoning ordinance allows or construct any other type of non-conforming structure must wait along with Wood for the ZBA to meet.

The zoning board has met only once since last March because of a legal battle over which of two ZBAs—one appointed by Supervisor Harold Stein last February or another appointed by former Supervisor Robert Greenstein last fall—holds the right to approve zoning variances.

Township board members thought they ended the ZBA controversy in August when they followed an order of Wayne Circuit Judge Neal Fitzgerald and published an amendment to the township's zoning ordinance.

A few weeks later, the township board reappointed the "Stein ZBA". Zoning board meetings for Sept. 7 and Sept. 28 were slated.

BUT BEFORE the Sept. 28 meeting could be held, Fitzgerald issued a restraining order to keep the ZBA from meeting. Attorney Daniel Buress argued that one member of the original ZBA, Robert Miller, was removed without "show of cause."

Township attorney William Sempliner, who unsuccessfully asked for the injunction to be lifted last week, says he "has no idea" when the ZBA will reconvene.

That news is not a joyful tune for residents and businessmen who have already waited months for their zoning variance requests to be heard.

Wood must go without his garage this winter, and beef cattle owned by Canton resident Dan Bennett must continue to graze in a neighbor's field.

Bennett's request to allow his four head of cattle to graze on his 2½-acre residential lot was tabled at the ZBA's Sept. 7 meeting to give the planning commission a chance to rule on the matter. The OK of planners must be echoed by the ZBA.

Marti Heman, vice president of the firm managing Honeytree Apartments on Joy, needed ZBA approval to change the non-conforming sign of the apartment complex, formerly known as Deer Creek Park.

After waiting and waiting for the ZBA to reconvene, Ms. Heman replaced the Deer Creek sign with a smaller one signifying Honeytree. She believes her sign conforms with the township's sign ordinance and hopes her action was legal.

"We just had no choice," she said. "We wanted to change the name after our firm took over, because Deer Creek's reputation was hurting us."

OTHER PETITIONERS were luckier in their dealings with the ZBA.

Crescendo Homes received variance approval at the ZBA's Sept. 27 meeting that will allow the building firm to continue construction of a home over a basement dug too close to a lot line. Because of the ZBA controversy, the basement was left open for months.

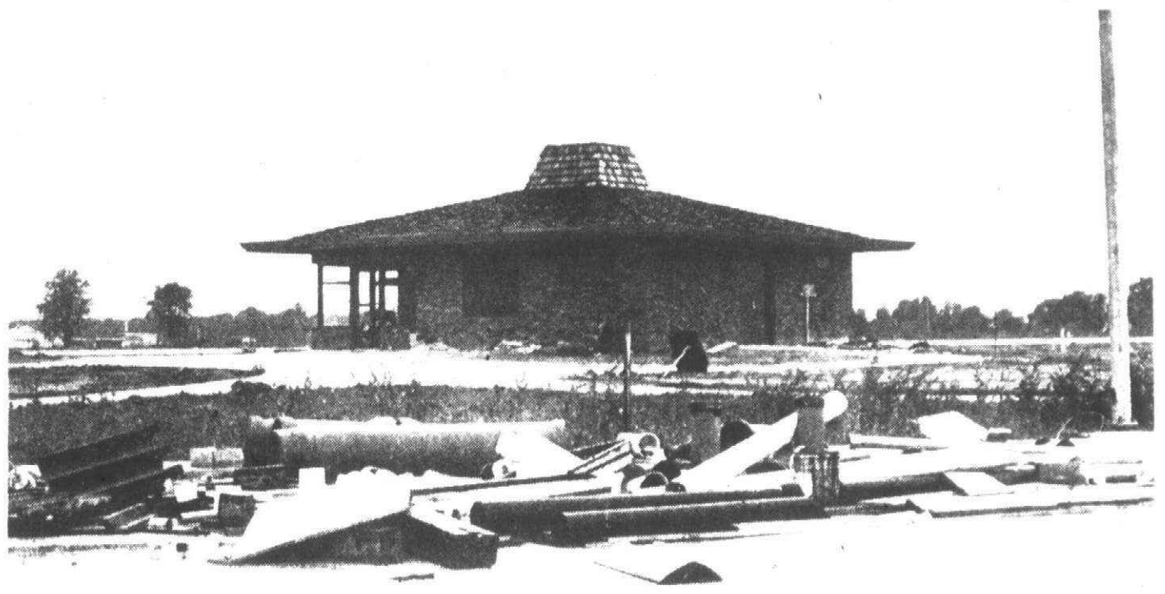

Gertrude Shields of Century Farms Subdivision now has the attached garage she planned to build last spring, thanks to action taken at the ZBA's Sept. 7 meeting.

"It's hard to stain the wood now because the weather's been so cold and wet," she said. "But we still consider ourselves lucky."

Also approved at the ZBA's Sept. 7 meeting were three zoning variances for a recreational complex known as "The Center" on Haggerty south of Ford.

According to attorney Burress, any decisions made at that meeting could be subject to appeal if Fitzgerald rules that the ZBA was appointed improperly.

"I think anybody adversely affected by a decision at that ZBA meeting would certainly have something to fight about in court."

Rest stop opening delayed

State Highway officials had plan to open a rest area along I-275, between Ford and Michigan, this fall. But many cosmetic details still need to be completed before drivers can use the facility. Debris is scattered around the work site. Highway spokesmen now give spring as the target opening date. (Staff photo)

School trustees won't get a raise

A proposal to raise compensation for members of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education was voted down 4-3 by the school board Monday night.

The defeated policy would have raised pay for school board members to the maximum, allowed by state school code, or $30 per meeting for a maximum of 52 meetings a year at present.

After defeat of the policy, trustee Steve Harper asked the administration to investigate an expense-voucher system which would allow trustees to be reimbursed for out-of-pocket empenses.

Voting against the pay increase were Harper, Flossie Tonda, Joe Gray and George Lawton. Voting in favor were Tom Yack, Carol Davis and Richard Arlen.

GRAY BEGAN the argument against raising pay for trustees by noting:

"It's unfortunate, but after looking at all the money our district is spending and the deficits we will be facing I'll vote no against the pay raise which will cost us some $11,000."

Lawton asked if trustees couldn't be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses, such as babysitting, with a dollar limit per meeting set.

Yack answered that attorneys for the Michigan Association of School Boards state it would be illegal for such an expense-voucher system. A board member could, Yack added, refuse to accept compensation.

Harper said he isn't convinced that an expense-voucher system is illegal. "Philosophically, I have problems with paying salaries. I'd like a definitive statement from the state that it would be in violation of state law for us to compensate our members for expenses."

MRS. TONDA said she couldn't justify voting for the pay increase, "not when we have some classrooms now with 36 children for one teacher."

Yack said the argument for increasing pay is to allow persons to serve on the school board who otherwise wouldn't run because they cannot afford the expense involved.

"With my business demands, it cost me more than $30 a meeting to be here," commented Gray.

With the 4-3 defeat, the issue cannot come up to the board again unless presented in a new form—such as a proposal to allow reimbursement for expenses incurred.

Police chief certification ruling due

The certification status, or lack thereof, of Canton Police Chief Walter MacGregor will be examined tonight by the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council (LEOTC) in Lansing.

If the LEOTC board rules that MacGregor's police training certification expired less than a month before he was hired to head the Canton police force, MacGregor says he'll turn in a letter of resignation to the township board immediately.

A police officer with more than five years' experience loses LEOTC certification if he or she is out of police work for more than two years. MacGregor resigned as chief of the Wayne Police Department July 11, 1975 and was hired as chief in Canton last August 8.

An uncertified officer cannot make an arrest unless he is acting under the direction of a certified officer. Certification is granted to officers who complete a training program in police procedure and weapons.

Wesley Hoes, deputy secretary of the LEOTC, said the facts of MacGregor's case will be examined by 11 LEOTC board members. The crucial factor is MacGregor's claim that he kept his certification alive during the month of July and early August by signing up with the Wayne auxiliary police force July 8, 1977.

MacGregor's name is on the auxiliary rolls at Wayne but he never was called to serve and never was paid.

Hoes said the LEOTC will question MacGregor at the meeting and decide if a decision can be made without consulting an attorney. MacGregor said he will travel to Lansing for the hearing.

Those who opt out of ESY want busing

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education finds itself in the midst of another controversy.

The hassle this time revolves around the legal interpretation of the school board's decision not to provide transportation for those students who have opted out of schools with extended school year (ESY) schedules.

At the time the parents chose to send their children to a different school, they agreed to provide their own form of transportation.

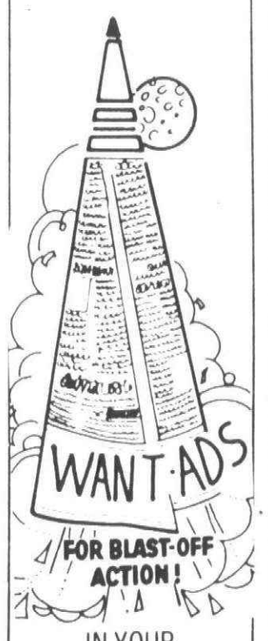

But a group of parents who opted out of Miller Elementary in Canton Township, claim they are being discriminated against.

County starts its drive to erase the red ink

Recommendations that Wayne County drop more than a dozen programs and cut 983 jobs to make up a $17.3 million deficit are before the county board of commissioners. The cutbacks are contained in the annual budget recommended by the county board of auditors. Some 738 of the 983 deleted jobs are filled at present.

The auditors said programs which the county is not legally required to operate must be cut in order to fund services which are the county's legal responsibility.

The recommendations include transfer of psychiatric hospital care to the state and elimination or sharp curtailment of a number of law enforecment programs.

Most of the threatened programs have been initiated or expanded in recent years with since-expired federal grant funds.

The auditors also recommend staff reductions in virtually every county department.

Elimination of more than 600 jobs would come about through transfer of psychiatric hospital care at Eloise to the state, plus closing of the long-term care facility at Eloise. The 240 long-term care patients would be moved into Wayne County General Hospital in the same complex.

County hospital employees would be offered jobs in the new state psychiatric hospital, Barr said.

The auditors recommended elimination or sharp cutbacks of programs in the sheriff's department and elsewhere.

Sheriff's programs recommended for elimination are:

Helicopter patrol (six employees, annual cost $240,875); metro narcotics squad (14 employees, $402,665); township patrols (28 employees, $728,685); community relations section (four employees, $100,250); and special services bureau (four employees, $105,155).

Also recommended for elimination were the Wayne County organized crime task force (11 employees, $485,555) and the prosecutor's repeat offenders bureau (25 employees, cost $800,000).

The auditors recommended that the prosecutor's consumers protection agency (10 employees, $244,855) be reduced to the two-attorney strength that existed before now-expired federal grant funds were used to expand the function.

Also recommended for elimination:

The circuit court marriage counseling service (10 employees, $218,330); recorder's court pre-trail diversion project (16 employees, $363,590); office of youth services (five employees, $200,575); office of industrial and commerical development (three employees, $97,505) and the office of volunteer programs coordinator (two employees, $51,840).

The board of commissioners, meeting as the ways and means committee, this week began four weeks of budget deliberations. An Oct. 31 board meeting was scheduled for adoption of the annual budget which takes effect Dec. 1.

Meanwhile, County Board Chairman John Barr and other Wayne County leaders were negotiating with state officials in a bid for more state financial support in order to minimize the cutbacks.

Many of the auditors' recommendations were consistent with measures proposed by Barr recently in his "fiscal recovery program," which he said is necessary due to "unforseen catastrophic cost increases over which we had absolutely no control."

The move toward transferring psychiatric hospital care to the state, which has that responsibility under law, began after the state refused to increse its financial aid to Wayne County Psychiatric Hospital.

While refusing to increase the aid, the Milliken administration has offered to take over that function at Eloise, the county hospital complex in Westland.

The administration proposed to buy the Walter P. Reuther long-term-care building at Eloise and convert it to a psychiatric hospital with 300-350 beds.

This would save the county taxpayers some $9 million per year, according to Barr, while also meeting the need for more psychiatric beds at Eloise. Psychiatric admissions often are halted when all 124 of the beds presently available are taken.

The fiscal crisis recently forced the county to borrow $27 million through issuance of tax anticipation notes.

In approving the borrowing the State Municipal Finance Commission ordered that the county budget be submitted for the commission's approval.

The commission also ordered that the $17.3 million deficit be eliminated in the coming fiscal year and that the county cut costs in order to avoid deficits in the future.

Bus for ESY opt-outs?

Norman J. Maxwell Jr. of Canton, the parents' spokesman, says section 13.22 of the Michigan school code requires the board to provide transportation for any student the schools are receiving compensation for, regardless of their prior commitment.

THE SCHOOL BOARD rejected Maxwell's claim several weeks ago, refusing to transport the transfer students. But the issue resurfaced at Monday night's workshop because of conflicting statements the board received from the same office in Lansing.

An official from the state department of transportation and education told the school district a strong case could be made for both sides, but there is a possibility the schools could lose.

This opinion was given despite a prior statement by the head of the same department, which said the schools have the right to establish rules, according to Supt. John M. Hoben.

"The language of the school code is vague," Hoben said. "What it boils down to is that the matter will have to be tested in court."

The issue before the board Monday night was whether to concede to the parents or gamble in court. By unanimous agreement, the trustees decided to stick by their guns.

A precedent has been set in the Lansing school district, but the issue there involves students who are within walking distance of their new school.

THERE ARE 45 STUDENTS involved in the local transportation conflict. An additional $11,785—the cost for five extensions of bus routes in the morning and three new ones in the afternoon—would be needed to accommodate the parents.

Business wants signs

removed or altered when a new owner takes over, or if the same owner decides to change the wording or construction of the sign.

NOT SURPRISINGLY, McMurray disagrees.

"People who started business in this community are being hurt. We're talking about a lot of Mom and Pop stores having to eliminate their non-conforming sign. These people helped build the community and that's the thanks they get? They paid years of business tax, personal property tax. I think they deserve special consideration."

Former supervisor Robert Greenstein made strict sign and berm requirements part of his campaign pledge, pleasing many residents and irking many businessmen. Phillips, who helped draw up those requirements, said he thinks the proposed revised sign ordinance "needs a little polishing" but said that the township will be a more attractive place to live if signs are regulated.

Meet the men who manage your money split between three banks: The National Bank of Detroit, Detroit Bank and Trust, and the First National Bank of Plymouth.

"We also have one account in Citizen's Bank in Flint," added Way. "But we transact very little business with them."

Plymouth Township spreads out its accounts in five banks. West said he uses the three that Plymouth uses, but he also uses Michigan Bank and the Bank of the Commonwealth.

Canton, though, has the lead in banks. Not only does it keep accounts in all the banks that Plymouth and Plymouth Township use, Gorman said, but there are accounts in three more: Michigan National, Security Bank and Trust, and Wayne Bank.

All of the treasurers said that "local" was the key word in selecting a bank. The personal service they can count on and the convenience of knowing the banker are the most important considerations.

"We do shop for interest rates to some extent," said West. "But if there was a bank offering higher rates somewhere up north, I wouldn't touch it. What if I had a problem and needed some quick answers? What good would a bank a couple hundred miles away do me?"

With all the accounts and all the banks, the amount of money that each individual is keeping track of is quite staggering. Gorman, for instance, said that at any given time he might have to account for somewhere in the neighborhood of $2 million. Way estimated that his accounts hold closer to $3 million.

"It's not really that bad," commented Gorman. "At work I never have any trouble. But at home it's a different story. My wife won't let me touch the checkbook, because I get it all messed up."

Job placement center at CEP open to adults

Willis, head of job placement services.

Both high schools at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park are equipped with equal counseling facilities, but Canton High's career center houses the job placement program.

THE CAREER-PLANNING rooms are divided into several sections ranging from college catalogs to a job openings board.

In the job placement office, Ms. Willis keeps in constant touch with the local MESC office for the latest openings in skilled and unskilled jobs.

"We have more job openings right now than students with skills who can fill them," Chumley said. "Give us a kid with a certain skill and we'll have little problem finding him employment."

Chumley added he hopes veterans and adults, who are thrusted into the role of earning money, drop by the career center in Canton High (Room 184) when looking for work.

"We'd like to see the community take advantage of this new service," Chumley said. "It's open to anyone all year-round."

Among the new supplies ordered for next year is a computer terminal hook-up with MESC, paid for by the Wayne County Intermediate School District and CETA's office of manpower. The computer will provide the center with up-to-the-minute information on job openings.

BY COMBINING THE OFFICES of career planning and job placement, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools becomes the only school district in Michigan to meet state recommendations, Chumley said.

The merging of both offices now provides those persons interested in finding out anything concerning a specific job or career with one complete resource center.

Although his $1,600 budget was cut 12 per cent, Chumley credits the board of education for its increasing concern in career education and job placement.

A year ago, the school board ranked career education at the bottom of its top 24 goals. This year, it is the sixth-ranking priority.

TIPS ON TREES

From Your Local Grower

—LARGE SHADE TREES—

For fuller, more beautiful large shade trees next summer . . .

1. BUY FROM AN EXPERIENCED GROWER
2. SCHEDULE PLANTING IN THE WINTER MONTHS

Here's why: Trees enter a state of dormancy in the winter season; their vascular systems are frozen and inactive. Careful hand-digging and moving at this time of year is much easier on the tree than when it has foliage and an active vascular system. In general, trees dug in the winter will produce more foliage the following summer.

See our wide selection of large, quality shade trees at our growing farm in South Lyon. Now is the time to choose your favorites for winter planting.

Student press appeals

Board hung up on censorship, tables policy

A policy to censor student newspapers was sidetracked Monday night when the proposed change was tabled by the school board.

At least three trustees had expressed an intent to vote aginst the proposed new censorship policy, and it was uncertain whether four votes existed to approve the change.

But the roll call was never called as a vote to table until legal advice is obtained was approved 6-1 with Steve Harper voting "no."

THE PROPOSED censorship policy established a committee of teachers, administrators, students and parents to review any article or art submitted for publication but questioned by the advisor.

The school board last year directed administration to draft a censorship policy after being asked to make a decision on whether an editorial should be censored in The New Media, student newspaper at Plymouth Canton High.

The editorial was an argument against pornography but was yuestioned by Canton Principal Kent Buikema because of its frank language. When Buikema decided the editorial shouldn't be published, an appeal was made to the school board. After the Observer printed the editorial intact, and the editorial in question received a journalism award from Schoolcraft College, the school board voted to allow publication.

The new policy states any material of a questionable nature should be taken to an editorial review board which then would decide whether it should be published. Any decision of the board could be appealed to the super ntendent of schools or to the school board.

Materials should be questioned, according to the policy, if they "go beyond the bounds of decency" or are "disruptive."

FLOSSIE TONDA introduced a motion to approve the new censorship policy, with an amendment that the editorial board be expanded to include a professional journalist who lives in the school district and worked for newspaper with a home office in the district.

Mrs. Tonda argued that if professional journalists were on the review board, student staff members would feel their rights as journalists were being protected and the community would be assured that the school board or administration wasn't trying to use censorship to hide anything.

The motion died for lack of support.

EILEEN HEWETT, advisor of The New Media, urged the board to defeat the proposed policy and abide by the existing censorship procedure—which leaves it up to the advisor and principal.

She said a problem with the proposed review board was that it would have student representation of only 25 per cent.

"While the courts may uphold the right of administrators to institute editorial board in some cases, their decisions have been based on the rationale that an editorial board can be considered as an extension of the newspaper itself. The New Media is a student newspaper. I wonder whether an editorial board composed of people who have no connection with the newspaper and no expertise in journalism could be considered as a suitable or legal extension of the newspaper itself.

"I also wonder whether a student newspaper editorial board weighted in favor of the commun ty might not in fact become a censorship board, especially when the standards for making editorial decisions (e.g., decency, disruption) are vague and ambiguous.

"The extent to which we impose adult control over editorial decisions is directly related to the extent to which the New Media becomes less of a student newspaper."

KIM CLARK, co-editor of the New Media, told trustees the school is dedicated to encouraging creative minds and developing students who are responsible for their own actions.

"We cannot obtain these goals, and exercise self-discipline, with the existence of the editorial board as proposed. I would not want to go against the system to obtain my journalistic goals."

TRUSTEE GEORGE LAWTON commented the new policy "solves a big problem for the principals because it takes the monkey off their backs to say 'no' and puts it on a committee.

"Under present policy, there are two people involved in saying 'no'—the advisor and principal. I think the proposed policy creates more problems than it would ever solve."

Trustee Steve Harper said he felt the proposed policy was illegal and never would hold up in court.

Trustee Richard Arlen said he also was in favor of sticking with the present policy, "especially as the students are willing to carry the burden of self-censorship."

Ms. Hewett added that the present policy has worked well for five to six years and she has never had a student deliberately abuse the policy.

Merit scholars are announced

Five seniors in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools have been named semifinalists in the 23d annual National Merit Scholarship Program. Another three have earned commended status.

National Merit semifinalists from Plymouth Canton High are Linda Bartalsky, Jeffrey Parrott and Mary Riffe. Semifinalists from Plymouth Salem High are Sharon Boschke and Amy Santer. Canton High seniors earning commended status are Mark Bartlett, Anne Lattin and Glen Liston.

The semifinalists, who represent the top half of one per cent of the nation's most academically talented young people, now continue in the competition for about 3,900 scholarships to be awarded in the spring of 1978. They became semifinalists by scoring high on tests taken in 1976.

Although commended students won't advance in the scholarship competition, they do represent the top two per cent academically of this year's graduation seniors in the U.S. Commended status does increase a student's prospects for college admission and financial aid from other sources.

Semifinalists who attain finalist status will compete for at least 1,000 National Merit $1,000 scholarships. Names of finalists will be announced as follows: winners of corporate-sponsored four-year Merit Scholarships announced April 13; winners of one-time National Merit $1,000 scholarships named on April 27; and winners of college-sponsored four-year Merit Scholarships announced on May 4.

The decision to undergo elective surgery is an important one:

get a second opinion first.

The Program for Consultation on Elective Surgery is Being Offered by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan announces a new pilot program that offers, at no cost to the patient, a second-opinion consultation for Auto members who have received a recommendation for hospital bed-patient non-emergency elective surgery. The consultations will be paid for under the Auto companies' negotiated Medical Insurance Programs.

The Program is Available to Chrysler, Ford and General Motors Employees, Retirees, Surviving Spouses and Eligible Dependents.

You may participate in the Program if you have Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan Hospital-Surgical-Medical and Drug Coverage without Medicare Part B and you are:

- ☐ An active employee of Chrysler Corporation, Ford Motor Company or General Motors Corporation who works in the Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Tri-county area.
- ☐ A Chrysler Corporation, Ford Motor Company or General Motors retiree, surviving spouse or sponsored dependent who lives in the Tri-county area.
- ☐ An eligible dependent of an active employee, retiree or surviving spouse.

For a Consultation Appointment or More Information, Call the Referral and Information Center at 225-0700.

If you wish to obtain a second-opinion consultation concerning non-emergency elective surgery, call the Referral and Information Center at Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan for an appointment. The names of Program Consultants located near your home or job will be provided. These consultants will be specialists in the type of surgery recommended to you. From these names, you may choose the consultant you wish to see for a second-opinion consultation.

Marching Band enters competition

A busy week with appearances in Ypsilanti, Plymouth and Kalamazoo has begun for the Plymouth Centennial Park Marching Band and directors Jim Griffith and Tom Brownlee.

It started Tuesday evening with a district marching competition at Ypsilanti High School, and will include a performance at the Canton vs. Walled Lake Western football game Friday night as well as competition in the "Cavalcade of Bands" at Western Michigan University Saturday afternoon.

Saturday's competition is an invitation-only event and is sponsored by the WMU "Bronco" marching band and Phi Alpha Sinfonia fraternity.

Beginning at 2 p.m. in Waldo Stadium, the contest is considered one of the most exciting and colorful marching band competitions in the midwest.

COMPETING IN THE open division, Plymouth will be up against the Yorktown High School marching "Tiger" band from Yorktown, Ind.; Conant "Cougar" band from Hoffman Estates, Ill., and the Flushing "Raider" marching band from Flushing.

Class A division bands include the marching "Northmen" from Petoskey; "Wildcat" marching band from Mattawan; Central High School marching band from Portage; the "Viking" marching band from Northern High School in Flint; Durand area school band from Durand and the "Trojan Guard" from Chesterton, Ind.

Tickets will go on sale at Waldo Stadium for the three-hour show at 12:30 p.m. Band boosters of the Plymouth community should feel free to drive to Kalamazoo and help the band in its bid for a first-place finish.

How well is advice from citizens taken?

By GLENN BUNTING

A new committee formed by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education to give citizens a voice in long-range planning has come under attack from a number of persons who served on a similar committee last year.

PACTS, the committee involving parents, administrators, citizens, teachers and students, will begin meeting later this month. It is designed to get people involved in school issues and submit a list of recommendations to the school board.

But some people who served on the Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC) last fall are miffed about the school board's handling of their suggestions.

"I thought we had some good ideas but they ended up in the shredder," said Karen Jones of Plymouth. "It was a disappointing experience. With all the flack the schools caught from parents, I think the whole thing was a cover-up to make it look like we had some input when really we did not."

"I was under the impression we would be sent a report of the actions taken by the board, but there was never any follow-up. I think we were put off," said Anita Aldrin of Plymouth.

OTHER CAC MEMBERS, however, were not bothered by the lack of response from the schools.

"We were strictly that—an advisory committee," said Joseph Rey of Plymouth Township. "But it seems like we do an awful lot of work sometimes for nothing. I guess that's the way it has to be."

"We were formed to bring up alternatives and let the school board make decisions," said Tom Tomolak of Plymouth Township. "That's exactly what happened."

But two CAC members who are now school board trustees, Carol Davis and Stephen Harper, agree the school district has lagged its feet in delivering information to the community.

"A lot of those programs recommended last year have been implemented and people don't know it," Mrs. Davis said. "And that's wrong, especially when we're coming back to people and asking them to serve again."

HARPER, WHO WAS chairman of the general curriculum committee, said work still remains to be done from a year ago.

"No one has gone through the CAC recommendations and updated them. There's a chart sitting in the board offices that looks at the action taken on CAC suggestions. That damn thing hasn't been brought up to date in at least 1½ years.

"They should update them and send them out to the people. We owe the community that kind of feedback."

There is still some question whether the schools will contact the former CAC members. Florence Beier, head of school relations who is in charge of PACTS, could not be reached for comment.

All of the people who are disgruntled over last year's efforts, however, said they would work on the new PACTS committee.

"I'D TRY IT AGAIN because I'm dissatisfied with the school system," Mrs. Jones said. "I'd like to see things change but I really have my doubts."

The PACTS format will be similar to last year's program, according to Patricia Rupert of Canton, who is heading the new committee at Miller Elementary School. Ms. Rupert said she will encourage persons without children to become equally involved in school issues.

PACTS has the potential to become a success, according to Harper. "If the program is handled properly, it can achieve the broad base community involvement CAC had."

Announcing Le Car/Club Med Sweepstakes

Come in and test drive a '78 Le Car. You could win a 1-week all-expense-paid trip for two to the Club Mediterranee of your choice in the French Caribbean.*

If you're one of the six winners chosen, you'll be provided with round-trip transportation and accommodations in an air-conditioned bungalow. And like all Club Med members you can enjoy unlimited food and wine at lunch and dinner and nightly entertainment. Sports activities available include tennis, scuba diving, sailing, water skiing, snorkeling, swimming, soccer, ball, ping pong, beach ball, water polo, basketball, archery, calisthenics and yoga. Equipment and free group instruction are provided. There is no "tipping" allowed and the only expense you will have to pay is for drinks at the bar. For more information about Club Med, call toll free 800-528-3141.

Le Car of the Year.

The '78 version of the car that more than doubled sales in '77 is at your dealers now. We've combined innovative design and engineering with exceptional comfort, performance and economy to create a totally new kind of car.

Detroit's Idea of a Small Car vs. Le Car's Idea of a Small Car.

Le Car is not a big car scaled down to be a small car. We didn't leave features off, we added features on. The result is a car with a solid, well-made feel. An exciting, responsive car that is fun to drive.

Le Car comes with front-wheel drive, rack and pinion steering, four-wheel independent suspension and Michelin steel-belted radials, all standard. Chevette, Rabbit, Honda Civic and Ford Fiesta don't.

Front wheel drive gives Le Car better traction and stability. What it doesn't give you is a drive shaft tunnel. So that bulge in the middle of the car is gone forever, and four adults can ride in what may be the most comfortable seats this side of a luxury sedan.

While you won't have to race Le Car around a track to appreciate its incredible handling and cornering, others have. During the first 8 months of 1977 Le Car amassed a total of 122 first, second and third place finishes in 132 SCCA races.

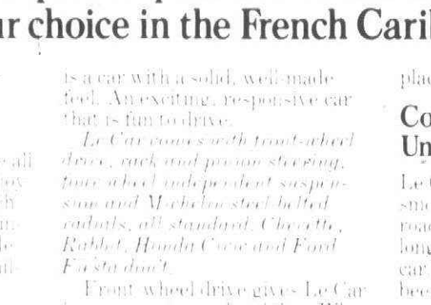

Comfort and Luxury Unheard of in a Small Car.

Le Car's ride is remarkably smooth, even on the roughest roads. One reason for this is a longer wheelbase than any other car in its class. The wheels have been placed at the extreme corners of the car farther away from the passengers.

Another nice touch: the rear seats fold down to give you 96% more luggage space than Civic and 21% more than Chevette. Outside, we've added the biggest sun roof (optional) on any small car. We call it a "fun roof."

Le Car gives you 41 MPG, highway, 26 MPG, city according to 1978 EPA figures. Remember: These mileage figures are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition and optional equipment.

When you drive Le Car you'll discover what nearly 2 million people around the world already know. The small car of the future is here today. Prices start at only $3495.

Daniels Den

By EMORY DANIELS

Who are 'the people,' anyhow?

I was walking down Bob's basement stairs last week to return a borrowed chisel, when I spotted him and Hank engaged in another debate aside dhe hot water heater.

Before I could retreat, Hank spied me and exclaimed: "Now that chisel is a good example of what I was just trying to tell Bob. The government is always trying to chisel the little people. In fact, all the people."

"Maybe so," I replied, still wanting to get out before it was too late.

"The government just doesn't care about the people anymore. They don't care what the people want. The politicians just vote in this and vote out that, without any regard to the people."

BOB INTERRUPTED and I knew my next hour would now be invested with the neighborhood philosophers.

"Just who do you think the people are, Hank? You're talking a lot about the people, but who are they? You and me? Daniels here, is he part of the people?"

"Sure, we're all the people," answered Hank.

"Well, let's decide what we really mean by the people," retorted Bob. "You're a truck driver, and the Teamsters tell Congress what's good for America. I work for GM and what's good for General Motors is good for the country. Daniels here is a journalist and he thinks the only thing in the Constitution is the First Amendment."

"Now wait a minute, Bob," I interrupted, without success.

"What are you trying to say?" asked Hank.

"What I'm trying to say is that the people is a vague generality that doesn't mean anything. The people is a conglomorate of special interest groups—the Teamsters, General Motors, the press, UAW, teachers' union, milk producers, PTA, what have you. The politicans have to respond to these special interest groups. When it comes down to it, what you call 'the people' is just a collection of special interest groups and the job of the politician is to satisfy a coalition of special interest groups."

"You're awfully damn cynical," snapped Hank. "Lincoln and Jefferson believed in the people, and that was long before you arrived on the scene."

"Yes, but in Lincoln and Jefferson's time there were only agrarian farmers—the genteel class—and merchants in the cities. The constitution was written by and for gentlemen farmers and city merchants. Things have changed a lot since then. We've now industrialized and urbanized. Free competition has given way to conglomerates, price fixing and a controlled economy. The people have been atomized, split into countless special interest groups. The people don't exist. The government responds to special interest groups—that's you, and me and Daniels here."

"THEN WHY DO we bother to have elections," asked Hank. "Why not just get the special interest groups to send representatives to a convention, or something, and they can decide what they want."

I suggested at this point that Bob might be carrying the special interest group argument too far. "It's true people generally react to legislators or executives as members of a special interest group. That is, when speaking on particular legislation they react in terms of what's best for the group they identify with.

"But when it comes to walking into the ballot box," I continued, "people tend to become less selfish. There's something about voting that brings out the best in people, and they react with more of a concern for the community at-large. When people vote, they often take into consideration what's best for the larger numbers of society and not just what's best for their particular interest group."

"Well one thing for sure about elections," remarked Hank, "is once those politicians get in office they sure forget the voters real quick. Once they get in, they do whatever they want and pay no attention to what citizens say. There should be some way we can make politicians, once they get in office, respond more to what the people want!"

"There is," I answered, "Vote them out the next time. But we can't expect them to make decisions on the basis of what citizens say during meetings, by petition or public opinion poll or whatever."

"Why not? Shouldn't they do what the people want?"

"Only if they had any real way of knowing what the people want," I answered. "But they have to keep in mind the needs and desires of all their constituents, not just the wheel that's squeaking at the moment. That's what representative government is all about—we elect people to represent us, to make decisions for us. We can't make decisions for them once they're in, but have to trust them to decide what's best. If we think they decide wrong, kick 'em out. But if we're to have accountable and responsible decisions, we need to trust them to make decisions.

"We don't have a participatory democracy," I continued, "but a representative democracy. Even if there were a way to make every citizen's views known before a decision had to be made, it is still the responsibility of the legislator to make a decision on his own sound judgment. After all, he doesn't just represent us in decisions he makes but represents future generations that will be affected by those decisions.

"Grass roots democracy is a myth. Our country isn't supposed to run that way. It's fine for citizens to make their views known, to express their opinions, and give advice. But when that's all done, then citizens should sit back and let legislators legislate. The only time citizens have a right to make a decision is at the polls. Beyond that, we should expect only to give advice and hope our advice will be heeded. If we want a participatory democracy, we should amend the U.S. Constitution. Otherwise we have a representative democracy and should operate that way."

That was much more than I had wanted to say. In fact, I hadn't wanted to say anything but Hank and Bob always sucker me in. And it was a good thing Phil wasn't there because he's big on grass roots democracy. But Phil was cleaning the eavestrough.

I handed Bob his chisel and suggested he sharpen it on Hank's hide. I used the occasion to sneak back up the stairs. On the way up I heard Hank remark to Bob: "Why don't you sharpen that on some politician's hide instead. Better to chisel than be chiseled."

What's with the sign!

By W.W. EDGAR

When the big, new sign was erected in front of the stock exchange building on South Main Street many passersby mistook it for a clock. In fact many of them called to the clerks in the Manley, Bennett, McDonald & Co. firm to tell them that the clock was out of order and didn't show the correct time.

Little did they realize that the new electric sign was not a clock but a score board showing the Dow-Jones averages for the day and it depicted the rise or fall of the nation's capital market.

The Dow-Jones averages?

They were just as frustrating to the average passerby as what they thought was a clock had been.

WHAT ARE THE Dow-Jones averages?"

Not many people who don't engage in stock market activities know the answer. But these averages, which are given all through the day on the sign and every night on the evening news broadcasts, tell a great story.

To get the answers, the question was put to John E. Vernier who has spent most of his life dealing in stocks and who now is an account-executive in the firm that owns the sign.

"Contrary to what many folks believe, Dow-Jones is a firm. It was organized about 1915 by Mr. Dow and Mr. Jones, and the company published the Wall Street Journal.

"What this company did was to take the top 30 stocks at that time and use them as a base of operation. The stocks they used were from firms such as General Motors, Chrysler, Exxon, United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, DuPont, International Harvester and the like. These 30 companies represented mor than 50 per cent of the total listing in the New vork Stock Exchange and they used the same 30 each day."

In 1923 the Dow-Jones average was based at 100 and it has had its ups and downs ever since, depending on the economy. In 1929 for instance it went to 381 at the peak of a full market. In 1932 at the depth of the depression the average fell to 50.

The Dow-Jones all-time peak was 1,050 in 1973. If they were no stock splits or capital changes, the averages would be 840 today.

"What most people don't understandn" Vernier explained, "is that the stock market is not a Las Vegas in that it is not a gambling device. It really is the barometer of future nonditions because the majority of the people dealing in the market are forward-thinking people. Forward-thinking people are not concerned with the past. "What America needs is new money every day. That's why the money is being invested in stocks. Just recently Consumer's Power offered a new stonk sale and would you believe it $750,000 worth of the offering was sold right here in the Plymouth office.

"There usually is a drive of some sort about once each month, and each one adds new money to the country's capital. That's why it is not a gamble. The buying of stock is an investment and a sign of belief in the future."

'No sidewalks, no busing' declares school board

In the future, any Plymouth-Canton student who lives in a subdivision without sidewalks will be ineligible for busing within 1½ miles of school.

The school district's safety busing policy still continues, allowing certain students within 1½ miles of school to be bused if hazardous conditions exist. But the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education has exempted from safety busing any subdivision without sidewalks.

The exemption results from a policy statement approved Monday night, which speaks clearly to future intent.

The resolution was approved 7-0 following much debate from members of the audience.

Objections from the audience were made by residents and persons buying homes in Beacon Estates subdivision in Plymouth Township. The subdivision developer, Loren Gould, had asked Plymouth Township to approve a waiver of sidewalk requirements. The waiver was granted with the provision that approval be given by the school board.

The school board basically stated its desire for walks, but left it up to local governmental units to make decisions on whether variances will be granted.

SUPT. JOHN M. HOBEN began the discussion by reporting a conversation he had with Tom Notebaert, Plymouth Township supervisor.

"I told Notebaert that it was an imposition for the township board to subject the school board to having to make this decision. If the township merely wants our opinion, it's the board's position that it prefers sidewalks and doesn't want to send in buses into subdivisions without sidewalks. But whether there's a sidewalk in a particular is a decision for the township to make, not us."

Tom Yack, board president, noted if the schools didn't issue a position statement on sidewalks it might, in effect, be encouraging governmental units to continue granting variances on sidewalk requirements.

"Our proposed resolution isn't directed towards any particular subdivision or unit of government," noted trustee George Lawton, "but it does state our position. I think we should approve the proposed policy statement and send it to the governmental units as a matter of information."

Trustee Richard Arlen noted: "We can't force the governments to do one thing or another. But we can state our position."

Lawton agreed, adding: "It's ridiculous for the school board to enter into the province of the township's responsibility. Our resolution merely states our position."

RESIDENTS OF Beacon Estates at the meeting argued against the board's action.

Various Beacon Estates residents argued that sidewalks aren't wanted for aesthetic reasons; walks aren't necessary for safety reasons; the walks, if installed, wouldn't lead anywhere; there are as many accidents in subdivisions with walks as their are in areas without sidewalks; sidewalks can be petitioned for in three years; and parents won't be asking the school board for busing.

Yack noted that the school board was told two weeks ago that buyers are signing deed restrictions which forever waive their right to petition for sidewalks.

Trustee Steve Harper noted that the zoning for Beacon Hills requires sidewalks and lots could be plotted without walks only with a variance from the township board.

THE SCHOOL'S position statement urges governments with ordinances requireing sidewalks to strictly enforce and deny all requests for waivers.

The statement further urged governments without sidewalk ordinances to give early consideration to the passage of such ordinances.

The policy stated the board's concerns are safety of children in areas where there is an absence of sidewalks; the problems inherent in establishing bus pick-up points in such areas; the rapidly rising costs of busing and the additional burden imposed by areas without walks.

The resolution stated the board's intent against providing transportation to any subdivision without sidewalks located within 1½ miles of a school if a sidewalk waiver has been granted.

Educators alarmed over price tag of proposed unemployment package

By MARIE CHESTNEY
Special Writer

The Michigan House of Representatives is facing a tough decision in the next few weeks: should non-teaching school employees who usually get the summer off without pay be eligible to receive unemployment compensation benefits during their three-month summer vacation?

Robert Johnson, president of AFSCME Council 23, with offices in Southfield, answers yes to this highly controversial question. "Auto and construction workers face seasonal layoffs and they are able to collect unemployment benefits," Johnson said.

Beverly Pilon, president of the Wayne-Westland Paraprofessionals, answers no. "I accepted my job with the school system only under the provision that I would have my summers free," Ms. Pilon said.

"I accept the fact that I don't get paid in the summer."

MORE THAN 50 spokesmen for both viewpoints appeared before the House Labor Committee last week at a public hearing in the City-County Building.

School administrators from local and outlying Michigan school districts, alarmed at the prospect of an extra $56 million tacked on to their yearly operating bill, all warned of local sacrifices to pay for the unemployment benefits.

These included cuts in school programs, fewer summer jobs for college students, additional taxes and staff layoffs.

But spokesmen for the thousands of Michigan school custodians, cafeteria workers, bus drivers and office clerks who face three months of unemployment without pay each summer hailed these benefits as the attainment of equity with other segments of the working population.

JAMES KECK, of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, urged the house to decide the issue before Jan. 1, 1978 or face "disastrous results for both Michigan businesses and jobs."

By January, Michigan must bring its state unemployment compensation law into compliance with new federal unemployment compensation standards or face the loss of an estimated $429 million in federal tax credits.

"We realize the feds threw the state legislators a real curve on the option for qualifying or disqualifying non-professional K-12 employees," Keck said.

But Keck reminded the committee that Detroit had just gained a hard-won three-mill tax increase for its school system and that paying unemployment compensation benefits would take $9 million from the anticipated $28 million gain from the millage increase.

FREDERICK ANDREWS, president of the Northeast Council Homeowners' Association of Detroit, warned that "irresponsible acts," such as the use of the recent Detroit school property tax increase for unemployment compensation, would destroy future millage propositions in Detroit.

Richard Cameron of the Taylor Citizens' Task Force on Education wondered how taxpayers could "realistically support upcoming millage votes if school employees were able to get two months' unearned salary."

Joan Moranty, vice-president of the Wayne-Westland PTA Area Council, told the committee Westland would never pass another millage if the school system was forced to pay for unemployment benefits.

FEWER SPOKESMEN appeared to represent the non-teaching school employees.

Freda Benton, president of the Detroit Federation of Paraprofessionals, said many who wished to come to the 1 p.m. hearing couldn't because absence from work would mean no pay for the afternoon.

Ms. Benton, speaking for some 3,000 Detroit paraprofessionals, said the people she represented felt powerless. She said teachers can make it through the summer months because their salary is pro-rated but, she added, "when you are making less than $3 per hour, there is nothing to pro-rate."

Hugh Smale, Lansing legislative representative for AFSCME, dismissed the notion that non-professional employees were content with 10 months of work and payless summers.

"THESE PEOPLE want year-round jobs, contrary to popular belief. They want equity in unemployment benefits, just like everyone else," Smale said.

Smale told the committee that the Michigan Legislature was being "hoodwinked" on this issue by the "high-powered advertising tactics" of the school districts.

Smale said that one school district had spent more than $3,000 sending letters to Lansing to influence legislators, but he said the same district was pleading "inability to pay for unemployment compensation."

"I am startled by the power of the school boards," Smale said.

Nathaniel Smith, speaking for the Detroit unionized school employees, was loudly applauded by the few non-professionals present at the hearing when he said:

"The people I represent are tired of being second-class workers. Their school job is a step above welfare, but they are treated like welfare recipients. They just want a chance to be first-class workers, too."

DUNN APOINTMENTS

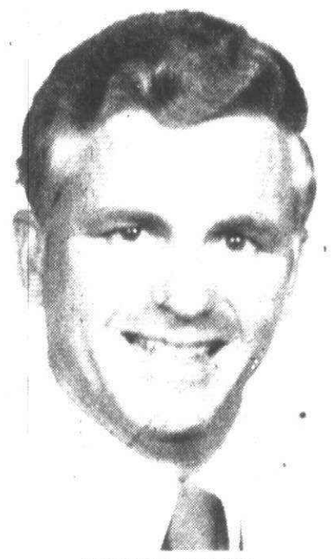

Two individuals have received appointments by Dunn Steel Products of Plymouth, Townsend Division of Textron Inc.

Curt Copeland assumes the new position of marketing and product development manager. Don Parko assumes the position of sales manager. Both will report directly to George A. Andrews, vice-president and general manager of Dunn Steel.

Copeland's position will enable him to utilize his sales and manufacturing background, totalling more than 37 years, to assist the organization in its product diversification and development. He also will be responsible for coordinating new product and process development between customers and Dunn's sales and manufacturing departments. Copeland, who has been with Dunn Steel since 1945, has been active as a member and officer of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

Parko will be responsible for management and supervision of the inside and outside sales organization. His sales and engineering background qualify him to handle these responsibilities, says Andrews. Parko, who was sales engineer, joined Dunn Steel Products in 1965.

CURTIS W. COPELAND

DONALD PARKO

CHARLES BINANDO

Charles Binando of Newporte Drive, Plymouth, recently attended the 22d reunion of retired pharmaceutical workers of Parke, Davis & Co.

More than 450 retired Park, Davis employees attended the reunion held in the company's headquarters in Detroit. The day's activities included a welcome by H.L. Richardson, Parke-Davis vice-president, visits to former departments, and a meeting with company executives and a luncheon.

REALTY WORLD CLASSIC

John McEnroe is one of the professional tennis stars who'll be participating in the Realty World Classic Oct. 15-16. The five-man, round-robin tournament at Macomb County Community College, 12 Mile and Hayes in Warren, also will feature Van Winitsky, Elliott Teltscher, John Austin, and Paul Van Walleghem.

General admission tickets now are available at $4 for one evening or $7 for a two-evening pass. Tickets may be purchased locally at these Realty World offices: Chapman Bros. West, 7377 Lilley, Canton; Colonial Village, 5906 Sheldon, Canton; or William Decker, Inc., 670 S. Main, Plymouth.

ROGER A. SCHIFTAR

Richard A. Schiftar, of Canton is one of seven area agents who have qualified as members of the 1977 Top Club of New York Life Insurance Co. Membership is based on 1976-77 sales records.

MAUREEN ANDERSON

Maureen Anderson of Ann Street, Plymouth, was among 44 long-time and retiring employees honored recently by Eastern Michigan University. She is administrative secretary to the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and was honored with a 10-year award for service to EMU.

WOVEN WOOD SHADES

Sherwin-Williams Decorating Center has introduced a new collection of woven wood shades featuring 30 patterns designed by Delmar.

Woven wood shades offer privacy and light control in addition to their decorative value for home furnishings, says Nicholas J. Velcho, manager of the Decorating Center at 863 Penniman Avenue, Plymouth. He recommends woven woods for special design problems because they can be customized to fit any shape, and also can be fabricated into room dividers and folding doors.

Band praised

George Cavendar thinks that the Plymouth-Canton community turns out some pretty good high school musicians.

Cavendar, conductor of the University of Michigan Marching Band, complimented the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Marching Band for its performance during the post-game show in Ann Arbor Sept. 25.

The band, composed of students from both Salem and Canton high schools, was participating in Michigan's 29th annual Band Day.

In a letter to school Supt. John Hoben, Cavendar said: "I want to assure you that the conductors, students, school, and community should be extremely proud of the outstanding manner in which the band represented you.

"Your band presented a show which was outstanding in all respects. It was musically well played, well conceived and presented with a great marching precision and execution. It certainly was in keeping with the highest marching and musical standards so admirably upheld in music education in the state of Michigan."

McMullen talks at 4-H exhibit

Peggy McMullen, president of a Plymouth 4-H youth group, was one of several youths who participated in a 4-H exhibit at the City-County Building in downtown Detroit.

The exhibit, which featured award-winning 4-H projects, was open to the public from Oct. 3-7 to salute National 4-H Week. It was sponsored by the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service, which coordinates 4-H activities for nearly 8,000 youths throughout the county.

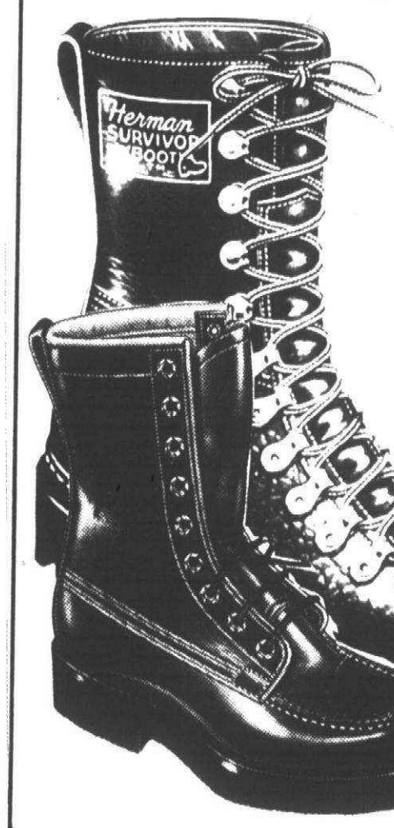

Ms. McMullen went to the exhibit to talk about Paw Prints, a club that is set up to help young people and adults train their dogs.

"You can do just about anything through 4-H," she said. "I just happen to love working with dogs."

The club has about 20 active members who meet at the Plymouth Youth Center every Wednesday night to put their dogs through obedience routines and to learn better grooming methods, she said.

The club presently draws members from Plymouth, Canton, Northville, and Livonia.

The downtown exhibit also gave Ms. McMullen a chance to see county government in action. She was able to tour several departments with County Commissioner Royce Smith, who represents Plymouth and Canton on the board of commissioners.

The Stroller

Recalling an old Dutch saying

By W. W. EDGAR

When The Stroller was a young lad down in the foothills of the mountains in the heart of the Pennsylvania Dutch country, the oldtimers had two favorite expressions when any progressive step was mentioned to them.

When it was mentioned they would say "I should live so long." It was an expression meant to tell of their skepticism of the plan. If and when, it was accomplished they would remark, with a degree of surprise, "I never thought I would live to see this."

Sitting at home in his favorite chair over the past weekend when the TV set was crowded with sports events he couldn't help recalling the favorite Pennsylvania Dutch remarks. For what he was looking at reminded him of his introduction to radio, when television was considered a dream of some wild-eyed inventor.

AS HE SAT in his chair switching from one channel to another, the TV enabled him to watch the baseball games on the west coast and along the eastern seaboard, and football from all sections of the continent.

And as the scenes shifted with pictures plainer than anything he could have seen had he been in the various stadia, he caught himself whispering, "I 'I never thought I'd live to see this."

Well he remembers the many hours he and the other young chaps in the neighborhood sat up all hours of the night with one of the invited several other neighbors in for a sort of farewell party and enjoy trying to get distant stations on the radio.

As The Stroller finished his turn with the earphones and was about to say good-bye he placed them on a cut glass punch bowl on the table. As he did the sounds came clear enough for all in the room to hear them. It ws the first radio speaker we had in our town and the word soon spread. It was a sensation.

Then along came one of the more fortunate lads who was attending college. He told us, assuredly, that it wouldn't be long until radio would be a major means of communication.

"We should live so long", we all chorused.

BUT IT WASN'T long until it came true.

It so happened that when he arrived in Detroit the next day the thought of the radio stuck with him. You can imagine the feeling on the next Christmas morning in his own home. The Stroller heard the J.L. Hudson choir singing the favorite Christmas carols—and he was having breakfast.

Back in those days the coming of all major sports events brought a lot of excitement—especially the world series in baseball. Crowds gathered in the public square in front of the newspaper office and heard the announcements come from a man with a megaphone at the second story window. Later came a score board that was manipulated by hand. Later it was electified. But few of ss thought the day would come when we could carry a pocket radio and listen to the game as we walked along the street.

That was the tops of anyone's imagination in those days until our college friend told us that the day would not be far away when we could get a machine that would show us the actual pictures of the game as it was being played—and in color.

No one believed him. But last Sunday, The Stroller, after all these years, witnessed this miracle in his own living room.

Thrilled by the opportunity to switch the scene from the Pacific coast to the Atlantic to watch the baseball games and then, by the mere twist of a dial, he saw the Detroit Lions play football in Minneapolis.

All he could say was the the Old Pennsylvania Dutch expression.

"I never thought I would live to see this."

High-rise 10 stories?

An answer to "what is a high-rise" was given this week by Olof Wahlstrom of Sheldon Road, Plymouth.

Noting that a number of persons are having difficulty defining how high a building must be before it is considered a high-rise, Wahlstrom decided the answer must be in the dictionary.

And so he consulted the latest edition of the International Dictionary, which says, under the subheading "height": "With units of measurement having specified altitude or elevation as a building 10 stories high."

Wahlstrom passes on the definition to the Observer's readers.

"Money Changes Hands"

Buyers meet sellers through the power of Classified Ads

The jingle of extra money in your pocket is music to your ears, isn't it? Of course it is.

And, you'd welcome a tip that would bring in extra money more often, wouldn't you?

Well, here it is! The secret that's working right now for thousands of "sellers". Their secret is the Classified Ads in this newspaper, and here's how it works for you!

Take a look around your home and make a list of things like appliances, outgrown bikes, scuba gear, motorcycles and much more. Then dial the number below for a helpful Ad Writer and give her the list. That's all there is to it. Soon you will be meeting "buyers" who pay you cash for your advertised items.

It costs just pennies a word to get dollars of profit with Classified Ads.

Schools detail workings of new citizens' group

Increased grass-roots involvement in long-range planning for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is the goal of the PACTS program.

Each school building and special program is developing its own PACTS, so every resident of the school district has a chance to participate.

The label PACTS was derived from the make-up of its members—Parents, Administrators, Citizens, Teachers, Students-staff. The aim of PACTS is to being these representatives together for discussion and informational sessions in small groups.

THE MEETINGS aren't merely conversational gatherings, however, but have a very specific assignment.

The main jobs of PACTS includes identification and discussion of major issues the school district must face in the future. Examples would be building needs, expansion of Extended School Year, minimum competency for high school graduation, or transportation.

A second major task will be to select a representative to the annual PACTS assembly. Through discussion in PACTS meetings, the representative will become familiar with the views of its members and assure they will be heard at the district level.

The PACTS assembly, made up of representatives of all PACTS, will meet for 12 consecutive weeks in January, February and March of each year to review issues identified by the building-level PACTS.

The assembly will submit a written report to the school board on these issues in mid-March and hold a joint workshop with the board the following week to discuss its recommendations.

When the assembly has adjourned after its 12-week session, the PACTS groups will receive and review responses from the school board to the assembly report. The board may accept, modify or reject the suggestions of the assembly but in all cases the PACTS members will be informed.

PACTS IS seen by school administrators as a continuing channel for exchange of information and opinions among everyone involved in education.

Participation is open to all residents of the school district.

Proposed labor loophole closing expected to boost state economy

Michigan's business climate may be improved by a bill which passed one house of Congress aimed at cracking down on Sun Belt employers who defy labor laws, according to two suburban representatives.

Rep. William D. Ford (D-Taylor) said that "it's to Michigan's competitive advantage and to the advantage of industrialized northern states" to speed up the handling of labor cases in other parts of the country.

Ford, whose district includes Garden City, Westland and Canton Township, was one of the floor leaders when the house passed the union-supported bill, 257-163.

Rep. William Brodhead (D-Detroit), whose 17th district includes Redford, Farmington and Southfield, added: "It's wrong for some employers to use loopholes in the federal law to evade unions" and agreed it would help Michigan's industrial climate.

THE LABOR bill was also supported by Rep. James Blanchard (D-Pleasant Ridge), whose district includes Troy, and Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), whose district includes Livonia.

Voting against it was Rep. William Broomfield (R-Birmingham). He could not be reached for comment.

The bill, if passed by the senate and signed (as expected) by President Carter, would:

- Expand the National Labor Relations Board from five to seven members in order to cut the backlog of cases.
- Double back pay for workers illegally fired for being active on behalf of a union (minus any money they earned from other jobs).
- Call for federal court orders reinstating workers discharged for union organizing.
- Ban for three years federal contracts for employers found guilty of willful, repeated violations of the labor code.
- Provide for penalties for bad-faith bargaining by employers in first contracts. The penalties would take the form of increased wages.

"IT PUTS TEETH into existing laws," said Ford, a senior member of the house labor committee which wrote the bill.

"The big companies have found it pays to drag their feet in labor cases. They find it's to their advantage to pay their attorneys for delays rather than to pay their employees better."

Brodhead said there have been "some pretty rough situations around the country. Once the union wins the right to represent employees, it has taken a long time to get a contract."

He cited the case of the J.P. Stevens textile mill. A house committee report said the Stevens firm was found guilty of illegally firing 134 workers who tried to organize a union at the firm's plants, mainly in the South. Yet the company continued to defy the law and federal courts, despite repeated findings of violations, the report said.

Organized business said it would pursue the fight in the senate next year. Clarence B. Randall, of the National Action Committee on Labor Law Reform, said the vote shows the country "is heading toward a labor-controlled government similar to that of the United Kingdom."

editorial opinion

At least the Stein Slate didn't hide contributors

Eyebrows may arch at the number of out-of-town landowners and builders who contributed about $500 to Canton Supervisor Harold Stein's recall counter-offensive. But no one can fault Stein from hiding potentially embarassing campaign donors and their respective contributions.

It was all there in red and black. Howard Binkow of Republic Development Co.—$24 donation; landowner Asa Wilson of Bloomfield Hills—$100 contribution.

Under the new campaign disclosure law, candidates are obliged to report contributions in full detail when more than $500 is collected. If more than $200—but less than $500—is collected, candidates must file an account of total contributions and disbursements.

Stein reportedly took in $2,320 and spent $1,305.83, according to the itemized campaign report. It's refreshing to see a detailed list of contributions—too many times a politician writes off the majority of his contributions as "ticket buyers" to a pancake or spaghetti dinner. So if a person donates $100, his contribution is disguised as 100 $1 pancake tickets.

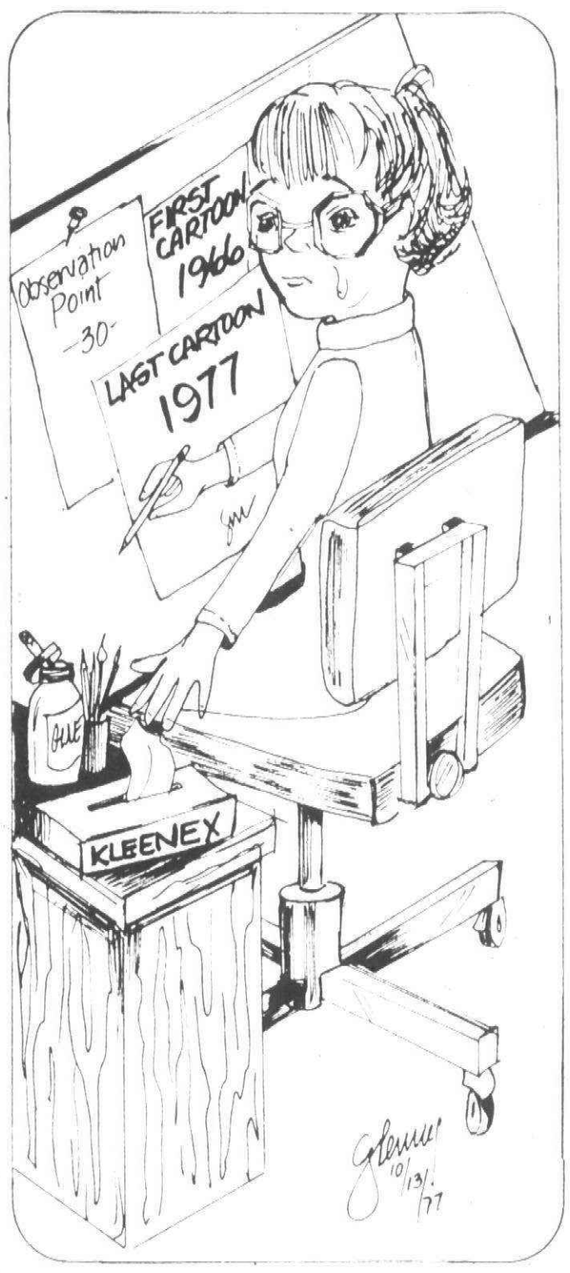

But Stein didn't pour syrup over his fund solicitation. So, in effect, we're commending Stein and his supporters for doing something they should have done anyway.

HOWEVER (there's always a however), the people who would have hollered loudest if Stein attempted to disguise or withhold campaign funds—the recall committee—didn't even bother to turn in an account of funds handled or spent in the pro-recall effort.

The pro-recall literature consisted of photocopied flyers, while Stein had union-printed pamphlets, but those items still cost money and a small group of people kicked in to pay for them. Also, the recall committee may not be legally obliged to turn in a list of campaign expenses because of the small budget it worked with. But it could have been reported and should have been reported to remove any taint of impropriety and secret donors.

If the recall group spent $20 at Quickie Printers, and took in $1.25 from Joe Blow, why not report it? The county will gladly file it along with the big campaign committees.

Voters may worry about influence-peddling from out-of-town contributors to Stein's campaign committee. But at least they now know whom to keep an eye on. Any undue influence or favors could be noted before official action is taken. But all the while the recall campaign—headed up by Peter Gabbert and Lynn LaBell—smugly conceals its supporters.

Hunting: permits, licenses, rules, stamps

Tim Richard

Lem Mesee, our venerable outdoors writer, dropped his column on my desk, slumped into a chair and virtually groaned his question: "Know a good lawyer?"

"What kind of lawyer do you need?" I asked. "Getting a divorce? Starting your own corporation? Suing the oil companies?"

"No, I need a hunting lawyer," Lem said, "and maybe an accountant to figure out what kind of bills I'm likely to run up." He sighed and shook his head. I waited for him to open up and tell me what was bugging him.

"MY BUDDY, C.O. Jones, pointed out to me another new hunting rule this year," Lem began, fingering page three of the 1977-78 state hunting guide.

"For all hunting in Zone 3," said the rule, referring to the southern lower peninsula, "a new $1 public access stamp is required in your possession. Its purpose: To provide funds to lease private lands for public hunting. The public access stamp must be affixed to the reverse side of a current hunting license with your name signed across the face of the stamp."

"Another blamed stamp!" said Lem. "So C.O. and I began figuring how many licenses and stamps and forms you have to fool with if you want to pursue game in this state. Know what we came up with?

"There's no SEMTA bus running to the woods of Oakland and Livingston counties, so you need an auto driver's license. Then you need a set of license plates for your car, and to buy them you need an insurance form to avoid a $35 fee for the uninsured motorists fund.

"On state lands, your car needs a state park sticker. Then you need your hunting license and one of these new, dad-blamed access stamps.

"If we want to hunt pheasant from a stocked public area, we need a 'put-take' permit, at $10 for eight birds, along with the small game license and the public lands permit.

"NOW, C.O. likes to hunt ducks, so he has to get himself a waterfowl stamp.

"Then when he floats down the Huron River looking for ducks, he has to have a registration sticker on his battered, old boat."

I was about to offer a suggestion, but Lem was still warming up.

"If I want to hunt on C.O.'s Uncle Pete's farm," he went on, "we need to have a form showing we have the landowner's written permission. That's in the new Recreational Trespass Act.

"The state is going positively crazy with licenses!" he cried. "One for small game. Another for deer firearm and archery. Another for the muzzle-loader deer season. A bear license.

"IF WE TAKE a party of four to hunt deer from a camp and want to use a buck for camp food, we need to get a camp deer permit.

"To set up camp in the wilderness, we need a camp registration card if we're not camping in a state park or state forest campground.

"We're not into bear hunting, but if we were, we'd need a special permit if we wanted to use dogs. The dogs would have to be listed on the permit, and of course the dogs must be licensed.

"Last spring, C.O. and I wanted to look up this great brown trout stream in the boondocks, and we went in his Jeep. C.O. had to get an off-road vehicle permit, and we both needed fishing licenses with separate trout stamps."

FINALLY, I BROKE in: "Lem, aren't you forgetting something? You could get a sportsman's license that would cover everything."

"Everything, your eye!" Lem shot back. "Have you read the rules? The sportsman's license covers deer, bear and small game, but there are exceptions for trapping beaver and otter, the dratted public access stamp and the waterfowl stamps. I'm telling ya, ya gotta have a hunting lawyer!"

"Lem, why don't you and C.O. just forget hunting? You should take your wife for a nice canoe ride on Kent Lake and look at the fall colors and Canada geese."

"It's not that easy," replied Lem, tears welling up in his eyes. "I gotta have a state sticker for the canoe. I gotta have a $1-a-day or $5-a-year metroparks sticker for my car. I gotta have another $1-a-day or $5-a-year metroparks boat launch sticker for the canoe. And I gotta carry a copy of the park watercraft rules with me 'at all times when on the lake.'

"Nuts!" he sobbed. "C.O. and I are just going to go to the New Hudson Inn and get a pitcher of beer."

"Order a third glass and a shot of Jack Daniel's for me while you're at it," I replied, reaching for a tissue.

Fire is still with us

Read the history of any city, and you'll find that at least once—if not oftener—during the 19th century a large part of downtown burned to the ground. The local equivalent of Detroit's 1805 disaster and Chicago's "Great Fire" of 1871 has occurred in hundreds of cities throughout the land.

You rarely read of such fires today, and with good reasons. Cities have organized and professionalized fire departments, replacing the private companies and ill-trained volunteers of the past; modern water systems help firefighters put out blazes; building codes and inspectors require that structures be safe; insurance companies have taught and preached safety, as in the current Fire Prevention Week.

But despite these modern services, we cannot take our own safety for granted. Constant vigilance is needed, for every year fires still kill.

We don't have Detroits and Chicagos burning down any more, but last year Michigan had 223 fires a day last year, and 358 persons lost their lives because of fire that year. That's still a high toll.

Parents demand cake and option, too

As school costs continue to rise, everyone should avoid unnecessary expenses and make sure enough dollars are spent for education in the classrooms.

That challenge must be accepted by every resident of the Plymouth-Canton Community School District because many costs are generated by demands made by parents and taxpayers. And it can be very difficult, as evidenced by recent events, for the administration and school board to say no to parents or other special interest groups making demands that have a pricetag or will divert money out of the classrooms.

RESIDENTS SHOULD learn to live by the choices they make and should not expect to have their cake and eat it, too.

Example one: Parents in the Miller Elementary attendance area who "opted out" because they didn't want their children enrolled in the year-round school program. All parents opting out were cautioned in advance they would have to provide their own transportation. All other schools in the district on a year-round schedule also offered opt-out choices with parents responsible for transportation.

But some Miller parents who chose to opt out have appeared before the school board asking for busing. They knew the consequences, they made a choice, and now they are pressing for the rules to be changed. They have a school within walking distance, but chose a school their children cannot walk to and now want transportation. Some parents who opted out of Miller make a point that transportation was provided to Gallimore during the two years Miller was on year-round scheduling on a pilot basis. But with more schools going year-round this year, the rules have changed.

Should there be special rules for Miller parents? Parents in other schools have made choices, and are living by that choice. Those at Miller also should live by their choice.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE is persons who buy subdivision homes on large lots without sidewalks and then request busing because it's "hazardous" for their children to walk on streets in the mud and snow.

The school board has been dealing with a Plymouth Township case which involves not only choices made by current buyers but restrictions placed on the choices of future buyers. The homes are being sold with deed restrictions which state that current and future buyers waive the right to petition the township for sidewalks.

These residents also should live by the choices they make. If they choose a lifestyle without sidewalks, then it is unreasonable to ask for busing when other residents—living the same distance from their neighborhood school—have their children walk because they paid for sidewalks.

In the case of those who don't want sidewalks, it would only be fair to add another deed restriction stating that current and future buyers also waive the right to request busing from the schools.

FOR ALL OF US, the problem is that it costs a great deal of money to operate school buses—an expense that rises each year as gasoline and oil prices escalate.

The other problem is that money spent on transportation is money diverted from the classroom.

Therefore, parents who "opt out" of a neighborhood school and ask for busing, and parents who buy homes without sidewalks and ask for busing, are major players in the unfolding drama of the schools trying to be financially efficient.

Many, many parents pay taxes and have their children walk to the neighborhood school. For those others, we believe they have made conscious choices and ought to lie in the bed they make.

Observation Point

BY PHILIP H. POWER

A candidate leaves writing

It isn't easy.

Not when you've been writing this column for as long as I have and when now is the time to stop.

You have to shove aside the instincts to be maudlin or pompous or both. And you have to suppress the urge to sum up absolute truth as revealed by more than 10 years of weekly struggle with the deadline.

No, it certainly isn't easy. But it's got to be done.

I'm running for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate seat that opens up in 1978, and I believe it would be both improper and unfair to continue writing a newspaperman's column while at the same time acting like a politician.

WHEN A NEWSPAPERMAN whose profession requires some independence from the system decides to get into partisan politics, some public explanations are called for.

Why am I running for the Senate? As a journalist, my job has been to cover the problems of people and to bring them to public attention in hope they will be solved. That's a good job, one of the best in the whole world, but it's an indirect kind of job, and I'm a direct kind of person.

I want to get my hands dirty doing something to directly help people.

Why am I discontinuing my column? Either you are a newsman, writing news stories and editorials from a position outside the system, or you are a politician, making speeches and advocating positions inside the political process. It's a question of roles, and you can't have it both ways.

Continuing to write my column while running for election would abuse the ethics of a newsman's trade as well as the integrity of this newspaper and the professionalism of its staff. Henceforth, I'll take my chances with the ordinary ways politicians try to communicate with the public.

What happens to this newspaper? Nothing. I've stepped out of direct management for some weeks now, and our new general manager, John Reddy, and your editor have been running the show very well. If you have a suggestion or complaint, take it to them, because I can't be both a candidate for the Senate and a newspaper manager at the same time.

BEHIND ALL this is my blazing belief in the social function of newspapers to serve the public with truth and conscience in a way that goes far beyond the views of any individual publisher or editor. I simply will not behave in such a way as to compromise the independence or integrity of this newspaper or those who work for it.

More than 10 years ago, in one of the first columns I ever wrote here, I said:

"As an individual, I am a Democrat. As a publisher, I am a newspaperman.

"Since I joined the Observer Newspaper Group (the predecessor of our present company), many people have wondered, some out loud, if the fact that I am a Democrat who happens to publish some newspapers would automatically make those newspapers into slanted, Democratic sheets.

"It will not.

"When, as publisher, I feel the Democrats are being silly or stupid, I intend to say so in an editorial. I intend to do the same thing with the Republicans.

"These newspapers will be run as newspapers, not as a vehicle for any one group, party, organization or individual.

"For a newspaper must serve the public as a whole and not just one segment."

TODAY I BELIEVE that must be so just as strongly as when I wrote that column so many years ago.

So now the time has come to set aside my column and my active involvement in running this newspaper. Everybody thinks he's indispensable, but I know I'm not, just as I know that this newspaper will continue to perform the kind of service to the public it always has, regardless of what I or any other individual on this paper happens to do.

It isn't easy, but I know it has to be done.

Now if somebody will just show me where they put the Kleenex, I'll be on my way.

Eccentricities

BY HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

The case of Allen Bakke tests the conscience of the American people.

Through more than 200 years of our nation, many ethnic groups have been victims of discrimination—the Indians, the Irish, the Jews, the Polish, the Oriental and so on.

Today our programs specifically name a few groups who are on the current list of "have nots" and give them special advantage.

The reason this is critical is that there are today some economically marginal ethnic groups who are being deprived of employment or opportunity because someone else is given an advantage. The groups which are losing out have tried to make it in this country on their own. They are not the ones who were guilty of discrimination in the past but pay the price, while philosophers sit in their warm ivory towers with full stomachs.

The ambivalence of America is that all men are supposed to be created equal. Today we are by law creating a system where some people are made more equal than others because of past injustices.

America grew and prospered because the strong, regardless of their forefathers or heritage, had the opportunity to prove themselves as merchants, educators, laborers or governmental officials.

Allen Bakke is asking: Should he be judged on his abilities or on someone else's past injustices?

Romantic love is on the way out

Along with all those other changes coming in people's lives, like energy supplies running out, nuclear war being a threat, and young people not minding their parents, something else is happening.

Romantic love is vanishing, according to a Michigan State University psychologist and author of "On Being Human."

Dr. G. Marian Kinget, addressing the International Conference on Love and Attraction in Wales recently, said that romantic love is being replaced by a more down-to-earth, less idealized kind of mutual attachment which she calls "amitie amoureuse," amorous or sexualized friendship.

Professor Kinget emphasized that it is not love that is dying, but romantic love which is declining and possibly moving toward extinction.

Causes, she said, are radical changes in the social and technological conditions which used to account for the romantic, acute attraction between the sexes.

Romantic love, she explained, thrives on longing, separation, danger and obstacles, as encountered by Romeo and Juliet, Dante and Beatrice.

"THE REPLACEMENT of the traditional segregation of the sexes by togetherness in all areas, the gradual shift from sentiment to sensation, from longing to gratification, from idealization to reality-testing, have created a situation," she said, "in which partners cannot possibly develop the cosmetic images and symbolic exaltation characteristic of romantic involvement."

Also gone, she said, because of moves to equality between the sexes, are the traditional attitudes of devoted protection on the part of the male and dependent submission of the female.

Whether the decline of romantic love represents human loss or gain, Dr. Kinget said, is a matter of values.

"Artists and humanistically-inclined people are likely to deplore the new situation because they regard strong feelings as tending to stir people into extraordinary accomplishments," she said.

"Pragmatists, on the other hand, will consider it a boon, since they have little use for longing and the emotional drain that goes with swinging between emotional extremes."

WHILE PROFESSOR Kinget admits that the new conditions may entail a certain flattening of emotions, she sees their effects as promising. Equal footing and a more realistic mutual appraisal, she believes, allows couples "to move toward a relationship marked at its best by a synthesis of freedom and attachment, of loyalty and enjoyment, of permanence and flexibility, and of sharing without loss of identity."

Gains, she concluded, outnumber losses. They promise a greater emotional stability in the relationship and a more sober involvement which protects against the disenchantment arising when the bond is founded on "mutual illusions and wide-eyed expectations."

Furnaces need care for peak efficiency

"Your furnace is only 60 to 75 per cent efficient at very best. So, it's particularly important that you keep it well-tuned," says Dr. James Boyd, Michigan State University Extension housing specialist. "A well-tuned furnace will waste less energy and save you money."

The home furnace should be checked by a reliable furnace company at least every other fall. There is a fee involved, but you'll get the money back by saving on your operating expenses.

The repair man will check to be sure the burner is adjusted correctly. He'll also check the belts on the blower and the air filter. He'll oil the blower and the motor.

Simple things you can do to save energy include vacuuming the dust from the cold and hot air vents. Be sure furniture does not block the cold and warm air vents—this will interfere with the heat circulation.

Finally, clean the dust out of the thermostat.

Nuclear plant tour is slated

A two-hour tour of the Enrico Fermi Nuclear Power Plant in Monroe has been arranged for Wednesday, Oct. 26, by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, and Novi.

Detroit Edison recently has resumed construction on the Fermi II nuclear power plant. "This is a unique opportunity to go inside what will soon be an operating nuclear power plan, for once it is in operation, federal government regulations will not allow visitors," says Neva Carter of Canton, League president.

After a brief introductory audio-visual presentation which explains how the plant will operate, visitors receive a guided tour inside the turbine and reactor buildings where they can see some of the massive components which eventually will provide enough electricity to supply a city of one million persons.

Those interested should meet at the home of Mrs. Carter, 42257 Ashbury Drive off Lilley Road south of Warren in Canton, at 8:15 a.m. Oct. 26. Those in need of child care should call Ms. Carter at 459-0441. The public is invited.

Still openings for 'Y' tribes

Indian-A-Rama, the annual recruitment drive for Indian programs conducted by the Canton, Northville, Plymouth YMCA, has been held but there still are openings in several tribes.

Among the tribes now being formed are: Indian Guides—for boys 5-9-years-old and their fathers; Indian Maidens, girls 5-9 and their mothers; Trailblazers, boys 10-15 and their fathers; Indian Princesses, for girls 6 and older and their fathers.

Purpose of the programs is to create a closer relationship between parent and child by participating together in activities such as campouts and sporting events. Indian crafts and lore are emphasized as a base for activities.

The number to call to enroll is the YMCA office at 453-2904, or stop by 292 S. Main Street, over Fisher shoe store, in Plymouth.

Regarding a memory: His eye is on a sparrow and Dad.

Congratulations on having a wonderful father and being able to express that wonderment in a thought-provoking editorial opinion.

I cannot remember when I have read such a moving commentary. It is especially appreciated during this time in our history when the social climate seems to find family life a drag, kids an unnecessary expense, and God and religion a rip-off.

As a parent, it is heartwarming for me to envision a time when my teenagers might come to a sudden revelation that perhaps there was some merit in having a mom and dad to love and protect them. I shall eagerly anticipate your future columns.

An idea whose time has gone.

That old adage might have made sense fifty years ago, but times have changed. A lot.

Think what it would be like to buy a house without a mortgage loan. A car without an auto loan. Picture yourself at some far away vacation spot without one single charge card. Or, for that matter, on a shopping trip around town. It's pretty hard to do.

Simpler is better.
Stop in at your nearest NBD office and we'll show you how credit can make your daily life a lot simpler.

We'll tell you about NBD's "social security cards," Master Charge and VISA. They're the two most widely accepted travel and entertainment cards in the world. And they may be the only charge cards you'll ever need.

You'll learn about Checkmate and Instaline, simple interest loans you can actually approve yourself.

NBD Checkmate is a line of credit that lets you write checks for more than your checking balance. So when a sale comes along you'll never have to be caught short.

Once you have Instaline, you can write yourself a loan. Just fill in the amount on your Instaline request form, hand it to any National Bank of Detroit teller and you've got the money you need. Instantly.

As we said, both are simple interest loans, so you can reduce interest charges by paying ahead of schedule. Or, take advantage of minimum monthly payments.

Give yourself credit.
At NBD we know what credit can do for you. We know it can help you get more enjoyment from today. And help you prepare for a more secure tomorrow.

That's more than making banking better for you, that's making living better for you. An idea whose time has come.

Roll Call Report

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Sept. 15-21.

HOUSE

DISTRICT OFFICES: Adopted, 215 for and 193 against, a resolution (H Res 687) entitling each House member to an additional 1,000 square feet in office space back home. As a result of this vote, members are allowed 2,500 square feet spread among three or fewer district offices. The previous maximum was 1,500 square feet.

Sponsors said the resolution would cost about $2 million annually for the entire House. The cost per member varies from district to district, depending on prevailing rental rates. One estimate is that it would range from $4,000 per member per year to $13,600.

House rules permit office-rental allowances not spent on rent to be transferred to any other of the "official business" office accounts. These accounts cover such expenses as long-distance telephone calls, equipment leasing and purchasing, stationery purchases, travel to and from the district, and computerized mailing services. Thus, for some members, H Res 687 will provide a general increase in expense allowances rather than just an office-rental increment.

Rep. Frank Thompson (D-N.J.), sponsor of the resolution, said failure to pass it "may result in substantial disruption of constituent services or reduction in the accessibility of members to their constituents, overcrowding of staff in district offices, and other hardships, impinging on each of the member's ability to carry on his or her own representation."

Rep. James Cleveland (R-N.H.), an opponent, called the increase "another substantial bonanza" and said: "I think it is very relevant to recite the fact that last spring the members all got an extra $5,000 and they could use that for rent if they want to. Now they are getting another annual increase, an average of about $8,000."

Members voting "yea" favored larger home-district offices.

Reps. David Bonior (D-12), William Ford (D-15) and William Brodhead (D-17) voted "yea."

Reps. James Blanchard (D-18), William Broomfield (R-19) and Carl Pursell (R-2) voted "nay."

FAST-BREEDER: Rejected, 162 for and 246 against, an amendment to implement President Carter's planned phase-out of the Clinch River fast-breeder nuclear reactor project. The vote was a victory for proponents of the project and a defeat for the President.

The amendment was proposed to HR 6796, an Energy Research and Development authorization bill, later passed and sent to the Senate. Its defeat left intact $150 million for continuing to build the Clinch River plant.

At issue is whether the U.S. government should commit itself to the development of the fast-breeder nuclear technology for generating electricity—a process that produces more plutonium than it consumes. Despite its value as an energy source, Carter has called for a moratorium, largely on grounds that the technology encourages the spread of plutonium and building of nuclear weapons around the world.

Rep. George Brown (D-Calif.), sponsor of the amendment, said that "nuclear fuel reprocessing and the daily shipment of plutonium in commerce does present a greater possibility for the proliferation of weapons than does the present situation which, admittedly, is hazardous enough."

Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. (R-Calif.), an opponent, said: "The U.S. needs to continue to play the game in developing and refining breeder technology. If we do not, we give up our leadership worldwide. We give up the opportunity to guide the rest of the world in establishing strict guidelines and controls and cooperation."

Members voting "yea" favored the fast-breeder phase-out.

Bonior, Ford, Brodhead, Blanchard and Pursell voted "yea."

Broomfield voted "nay."

MINIMUM WAGE: Adopted, 223 for and 193 against, an amendment establishing a three-step increase in the minimum wage in place of the "indexed" increases favored by organized labor. The overall bill (HR 3744) was later passed and sent to the Senate.

This vote was a defeat for labor, which had advocated a new system whereby the minimum wage would rise automatically in proportion to increases in manufacturing wages. This amendment, instead, retained the present system of Congress periodically deciding on increments. It would raise the present $2.30 hourly level to $2.65 in 1978, $2.85 in 1979, and $3.05 in 1980.

Rep. John Erlenborn (R-Ill.), the sponsor, said that to enact indexing rather than his amendment "is to abandon the fight against inflation" and submit to "a mindless, thoughtless rule."

Rep. Jim Wright (D-Tex.), an opponent, said the indexing proposal would "protect those at the very bottom of the economic ladder against the periodic escalations of prices . . . in a much more systematic, scientific and effective way than we have been able to do with our catch-ups from time to time."

Members voting "yea" were opposed to "indexing" of the minimum wage.

HOUSE

SACCHARIN BAN: Passed, 87 for and seven against, a bill (S. 1750) delaying for 18 months any government ban on the artificial sweetener saccharin. During that period further government studies would be conducted into the link between saccharin usage and cancer in laboratory animals. The bill also requires saccharin products to contain label warnings of the cancer risk. It was sent to the House.

Sen. Richard Schweiker (R-Pa.), a supporter, said: "There is a need for more study of the potential health benefits of saccharin use before it is banned, in order to fully assess the adverse health consequences which may result from . . . a ban."

Senators voting "yea" favored passage of the bill.

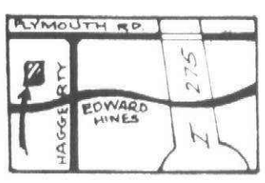

Sen. Donald Riegle (D) voted "yea" and Sen. Robert Griffin (R) did not vote.

Fireplaces are more popular today than ever before. They are beautiful and add warmth to your home, but they are also potentially dangerous. Here are some tips to insure a safe fireplace. Always open the damper first. Fill the bottom of the grate with wadded newspaper and dried kindling. Roll a sheet of newspaper lengthwise and twist. Ignite it and hold it into the chimney, allowing the chimney to preheat. Ignite the kindling. Apply dry split logs when kindling is burning at its maximum. Always leave a bed of ashes under the grate; it acts as an automatic damper. Enjoy an evening in front of your fireplace soon. Everything for your fireplace—Fireplace dye and instructions . . . equipment and accessories . . . manufacture fireplace screens.

HELPFUL HINT: When exposed tar, cement or similar material remains sticky, this can be remedied by a scattering of sand.

Name change vote tops agenda for area GS association meeting

What's in a name?

Registered adult girl scouts and scouts aged 14 and over will have name change on their minds at the Oct. 19 area association meeting in West Middle School.

The rapid growth of Canton Township and scouting in that area has outdated the Plymouth Northville Association designation, according to the Canton scouts.

The ballots are ready for the voting and if a quorum is present at the meeting, the decision will be made.

Scouts also will be reminded of the Uniform Exchange Day, 1-3 p.m.,Oct. 22 in St. John's Episcopal Church. Girl Scouts—from brownies to seniors—will be able to trade in old uniforms and find new ones to fit. Donations of spare uniforms for both scouts and leaders will be welcomed on exchange day.

Recently appointed officers of the association will be introduced at the Oct. 19 meeting which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

JO MORSE is the new area association chairwoman.

It will be her responsibility to call and preside at association meetings when council delegates are elected. She will conduct council and association business and is charged with the duty of improving the quality of girl scouting in her area.

She was appointed by Fran Bauer, president of Huron Valley Council.

Jo and her husband, Tom, live on Farmbrook Drive in Plymouth Township. They have two children, Susan, 12, and Ricky, 7.

Jo Morse became involved in scouting in central New York state, before the family moved to Plymouth. She was a brownie leader for three years, a brownie consultant, a day camp unit leader, a day camp assistant director, an alternate council delgate and co-chairwoman of the council event.

She is no stranger to the Huron Valley Council where she has been troop service director for three years. She was a brownie leader for one year, a council delegate, and an area association trainer. She served on the nominating committee for a year and later chaired the committee. She was coordinator of the Memorial Day Parade, junior troop badge mother, and a member of the council by-laws committee.

Besides her family and scouting interests, she enjoys bowling, reading, macrame, and crewel embroidery.

JUDY PARKER who lives on Old Salem in Plymouth has taken over the duties of junior consultant.

She will work with junior leaders and troop service directors in the planning and maintenance of the junior program.

As an adult member of the council she will attend meetings of the area association.

She is resource person for all the junior leaders in the area and will help the leaders learn and plan ceremonies, plan camping events, programs and implement the junior program.

Mrs. Parker has five children and believes the age-span of her family—7 to 19— will be an advantage in being aware of girls' interests at different program levels.

She, too, has considerable scouting experience.

She has been a registered, active adult member for 10 years. Her duties have included member of the junior troop committee, junior assistant leader, junior leader for two years, cadette assistant leader and leader, three years on the area nominating committee with two years as chairwoman, and troop service director at the Smith School cluster. She also served as junior program consultant for the area.

"I enjoy working in various activities in our schools and in our church," said Mrs. Parker. "We are an active, camping family and we love to travel.

ANN NICKOLOFF is the Girl Scout Area Cadette consultant.

She will work with Cadette leaders and troop services directors for the planning and maintenance of the cadette program.

Mrs. Nickoloff will do for cadette leaders what Mrs. Parker does for the junior leaders.

Ann and her husband, Carl, live on Manton in Plymouth. They have a son who is a sophomore at the University of Michigan and a daughter who is a high school senior, and a first class scout.

Mrs. Nickoloff has been a registered scout for 10 years. She was a brownie leader for two years, a junior leader for three years , and a cadette leader for two years.

She has been innovator and advisor of the Plymouth-Canton-Northvillle Cadette Council for two years and recived an award for innovative planning. She was a training consultant specializing in workshops for cadette leaders; a member of the Wider Opportunities committee and an adult advisor for the Cadette Lock-in for two years.

The VIEW from 461 SOUTH MAIN

by ELLIE GRAHAM

TWO WEEKS vacation and it looks as if it is going to take two weeks to catch up on all the goings on around here.

The vacation itself got off to the best start imaginable with a Saturday morning breakfast at George and Betty Hudson's with Heide and Tom Collins and Harold Pattinson, the Plymouth, England, people who were in town for Ralph Lorenz's surprise party that night.

They were keeping a low profile—keeping out of Ralph's way—so he wouldn't know they were here until the party Saturday night.

The 80-year-old Pattinson had spent a couple of days with his son in New York before coming to Michigan. He said he had a speaking engagement the following week before a women's club at home.

"They tire of hearing about politics so I decided to report on what American women are doing these days. Now I have to go back and tell them they are entering poultry in chicken racing contests."

We convinced the former lord mayor of Plymouth that the story he told at Plymouth's Centennial banquet deserved retelling. It "brought down the house" again, just as it did 10 years ago.

THERE'S NOTHING like being introduced to a city and its surrounding country by a native of the area.

Dorothy Chandler did that for me—showing off her hometown of Sault Ste. Marie with bits of history and stories about its people and industry.

Among the Soo's more notable residents was Michigan Governor Chase Salmon Osborn. Dorothy arranged for an Indian guide to conduct a tour of the huge estate on Sugar and Duck islands. We saw log cabins where Osborn studied, lived and entertained. We saw the small log building where he slept—in the nude—on a bed of balsalm boughs. There was the boulder where he dried himself after a plunge into Duck Lake and the sandstone tables—there are 20 of them in the woods—where he ate his noontime meals.

Mr. Andrews showed us the library, a separate building, which contained thousands of first editions. He explained that the most valuable of the collection now are housed in a special room in Superior College.

When the governor died in 1949, he had discovered iron ore deposits all over the world. His search had taken him to Africa, South America and every province in China.

He wrote several books, one of which is available at Dunning Hough Library.

MARY WEED and Fran Lang were special speakers at the Michigan Orchestra Association meeting at Interlochen.

Stephanie Miller and Marg O'Day also attended as representatives of the Plymouth Symphony League.

Mrs. Weed, president of the league, addressed the Michigan Orchestra Women's Association. Mrs. Lang's subject was "The Relationship of the Board President with Director and Orchestra," in her Saturday afternoon talk to the MOA. Mrs. Lang was elected state secretary for the MOWA.

CONCERT GOERS can have a preview of the artistry of guest performers at Sunday's opening concert of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

The New World String Quartet will present a mini-concert at 8 p.m. Friday in Geneva United Presbyterian Church, 5835 Sheldon Road, just north of Ford Road.

The concert is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

None of the music scheduled for the Sunday concert will be perfomed Friday evening.

The quartet members—two violins, a viola and cello—are artists in residence of the State of Michigan. The quartet is funded by the Michigan Council for the Arts.

THE TEACHING staff and students of New Morning School are getting things in spic and span order for their Sunday open house.

The alternate school has been in the Plymouth area since it was founded—first in Epiphany Lutheran Church and last year in Canton Township in the old Truesdell School.

Truesdell was needed for kindergartners in the Plymouth-Canton district this fall so New Morning moved to new quarters in the old Fairview School in North Dearborn Heights.

New Morning has attracted the attention and praise of educators throughout the state, and many will be on hand for Sunday's open house.

Best route to the school is Edward Hines Drive to Woodbine (the Telegraph Road exit); left on Ann Arbor Trail to the first traffic light which is Silvery Lane. Turn right and the address is 8600 Silvery Lane.

The school serves students kindergarten through middle school.

Year-round gardeners plan ahead

Even in Plymouth and Canton residents do not need a green thumb or a greenhouse to become four season gardeners. In fact, late O!tober is one of the busiest times for local enthusiasts—moving houseplants indoors, protecting perennials, preparing for spring planting and planting spring-flowering bulbs.

Before bringing houseplants indoors, check them carefully for signs of disease and insect infestation. After the unusually wet summer, even normally hardy plants could have suffered overwatering stress and become susceptible to problems.

Check Swedish Ivy for signs of spider mites. With a hand magnifying glass look at the undersides of leaves for fine webs which give a speckled appearance to the naked eye. Once in the drier climate indoors, any imported spider mites will flourish and would love nothing better than to take over a prized schefflera or Ficus benjamina.

OVERWATERING makes even the sturdy Sanseveria subject to mealybugs which would be happy to move on to ferns, Peperomia and all the succulents and cacti. Dab a cotton swab dipped in alcohol on any white fluffy masses found on stems and leaf veins.

After the plants have been moved indoors put them—at least temporarily—in the brightest window available. Remember not to put hanging baskets too high—they like the sun in the center, not just on the tips of their leaves or fronds.

Even the most caring and conscientious indoor-outdoor gardener can expect some foliage loss while plants become reacclimated. On warmer days, give the plants a few hours of sunshine outdoors to slow down naturally. Ease off on watering for awhile and never fertilize!

It's time now to make cuttings of coleus, begonia impatiens and even tomatoes. Root them in water to be enjoyed all winter and transplanted to next summer's garden. Harvest some marigold seeds now to get your plants started indoors next March. To enjoy their rich color all winter, dry a bouquet in a commercially prepared silicon.

MARJORAM, parsley, oregano, lavender and rosemary can be dug and repotted now. They have a good chance of wintering over on an unheated sunporch. Chives usually do better in a cold frame but it's always worth a try to add them to a kitchen windowsill herb garden.

Before the ground freezes, dig up glads, dahlias, cannas, Peruvian daffodils and tuberous-rooted begonias, remembering to label them carefully. Store the dahlias and glads in a cool spot in the cellar, hanging the bulbs upside down until the tops dry. Then remove the excess soil and the tops and bury them in bags of sawdust or woodchips. The canna and Peruvian daffodils should have soil balled around the roots for protection. Leave the dahlia clumps whole until spring when it will be easier to gently separate them.

Spring-flowering bulbs can be planted now. Stir a heaping handful of bonemeal into the bottom of each planting hole. Tulips will show their appreciation by blooming glouriously next spring. If an area of your garden is to be naturalized, treat yourself to some old-fashioned yellow daffodils which will spread rapidly.

AZALEASand rhododendrons need some extra attention now. They prefer a thick mulch of oak leaves if you can find them. If not, a good thick mulch of maple leaves will serve the purpose.

All plantings on the north side need extra protection— remember all the damage from last winter's record-breaking cold spell? A 2x4 frame enclosed in burlap will help tender shrubs survive the coming winter unharmed. If you have any extra leaves, set some aside to fill in around the frame for extra insurance.

Gardeners in the newer Canton subdivisions report some difficulty in collecting enough leaves to give their landscaping investments enough winter protection. However, the more mature trees in the city of Plymouth offer an abundance.

The city collects leaves regularly during the fall when residents rake them to the curb where they are free for the taking. Another even better way to collect the needed mulch is to call the Plymouth-Canton- Northville Y. (453-2904) and volunteer to rake a senior citizen's lawn and cart away unwanted leaves.

REMEMBER,TOO, that young trees do not have thick bark and deserve a protective wrapping available at landscaping and garden centers.

And, as long as you're bustling around anyway, you might as well clean out the window boxes and set out the bird feeding stations before settling down with next season's batch of seed catalogs.

Canton Chatter

By SHARON STARON 455-5322

The Canton Newcomers were busy last week. Wednesday evening was their general meeting where the guest speaker was Carol Guergigian, counselor and teacher from Pioneer Middle School. She spoke on getting along with your children.

The members enjoyed hearing her and were actually quiet throughout the talk, which rarely happens at newcomers meetings.

Carol came to the newcomers' rescue when their planned speaker for the meeting had to cancel suddenly, giving them less then a week to find a replacement.

Chris Pilz was greatly relieved when she spoke to Carol. All the women at the meeting thank her for an enjoyable and informative evening.

FRIDAY EVENING at the Canton Township Recreation Hall the newcomers had their annual wine and cheese tasting party.

The wine was supplied by Leone Bros. Ralph Leone was on hand to tell about wine tasting and show the 35 couples in attendance how it was properly done.

The great cheeses came from Marias Bakery and the delicious french bread was donated by Marias.

Door prizes were a highlight of the evening with bottles of wine going to Tom and Karen Cifrodella, Jeanette and Darrell Brawn, Carolyn and Dave Hall, Jodey and Donn McMillan, Sue Smith, Bonnie and Pat Saul and Cathy and Chico Rodriguez.

Two wine gift packages were won by Marge and John Magelnicki, and Donna and Chip Glover.

Plants were awarded to Sharlene and Cy Totten, Carole and Ron Rice, and Kathy and Charles Freece.

Still others went home with freshly baked loaves of bread. Mary Moore and Jodey McMillan were the coordinators of this fun event.

UP AND COMING events for the newcomers include a dinner and fashion show Nov. 2 at the Mayflower Meeting House. The fashion show is being done by Claire Kelly of Plymouth.

Nov. 12 at the Canton Recreation Hall the newcomers will hold their Millionaires Party. Cost is $10 a couple with snacks and mixes provided. Reservations are being accepted by Helen Wesner at 455-3088. Reservations are open to members only until the week before the party when they will be open to guests.

Anyone interested in getting in on all the fun can call membership chairwoman Diane Cuper at 453-3532. You must have lived in Canton for less then two years to be eligible for membership.

We hear Diane Cuper has been hobbling all over town on crutches lately. Her foot just gave way under her one day and decided to break. Nothing keeps her down and she still comes and goes on schedule—just at a little slower pace.

MILLER SCHOOL Cub Scout Pack 854, still the largest pack in the Detroit Metropolitan Area, is ready for another year of fun for its boys.

Den mothers and leaders this year include; Donna Adams, Madeline McKimmey, Barbara Austin, Virginia Kocik, Janet Obeirne, Mrs. Jaskolski, Syndi Morningstar, Pat Rupert, Pat Carrigan, David Lyndrup, Jim Demitroff, Carol Konkey, Jo Ann Young, Judie Postema, Cathy Barkoff, Louis Egbert, Tom Ford, Glenna Holden and Barbara Batsel.

Webelo leaders are Leo Koziol, David Lyndup, Tom Lambruzzy, Jim Monks, Dave Campbell, Phil Hall and Jim Weidner.

Club master is Larry Barkoff and committee chairman is Jack Austin.

THE CANTON Department of Parks and Recreation has a lot going for its senior citizens.

Canton Senior Citizens Club is for residents age 50 and over. The club meets every Friday at 12:30 p.m. in the recreation center. All senior residents of Canton are invited to attend.

Arts and crafts are Wednesday afternoons at 1 p.m. in the recreation hall. The class follows the hot lunch program.

Large Print Library, for all visually impaired residents is open Monday to Friday 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Located in the recreation center, the books may be checked out.

Wayne County Hot Lunch Program for ages 60 and over serves at the recreation hall Monday through Thursday at noon and Friday at 11:30 a.m. Call 24 hours in advance for reservations. Donation 50 cents. Phone Marie at 397-2777.

Dial-A-Ride, Nankin transportation for seniors age 55 and over. Call to be picked up at your door and be taken to anywhere in Canton Township, Westland, Wayne, Garden City and Inkster. Also this service takes handicapped individuals. Call 729-2710 the day before wishing a ride.

THE CANTON PARKS and Recreation also is sponsoring a free after-school recreation program of organized games and sports for the children at various elementary schools in Canton.

The program is at Ericksson on Wednesdays at 4 p.m., at Hulsing on Thursdays at 3:30 p.m., and at Walker on Tuesdays at 3:30 p.m.

The new cadette consultant also works full time for Michigan Life and National Casualty.

LORRAINE HURTIK, a scout for 20 years, is camping consultant for the area.

She will be the camping resource person for all the girl scout leaders in her area and helps leaders learn to handle and carry out a camping event.

She was a troop services director for seven years and a senior advisor for nine years.

Mrs. Hurtik's girl scouts have enjoyed a wide range of camping experiences. In 1971 they traveled to the National Center West in Wyoming. The following year it was Algonquin Park in Ontario. Her troops have toured the Upper Peninsula, Mexico, and the Girl Scout Chalet in Switzerland. She has a son and four daughters and has been a teacher in the Plymouth Schools for 22 years.

ROMAINE KLING has been appointed to the position of Brownie consultant and will be the resource person for all brownie leaders in her area.

She has been an adult scout for 12 years and has been a leader in Cincinnati, Ohio, and the Plymouth area.

She and her husband, Frank Kling, live on Birchwood in Plymouth. They have a daughter, Karen, 9, and a son, Jeff, 7.

Sign up time for nursery

Plymouth Children's Nursery is now accepting applications for the 1978-79 school year.

The cooperative nursery is located in the old Hough School at Warren and Haggerty in Canton.

Sessions for three and four-year-olds are held Mondays and Thursdays or Tuesdays and Fridays in the mornings, 9:15-11:15. Four-year-olds attend Mondays and Thursdays or Tuesdays and Fridays, 12:45-2:45 p.m. There also is a one-day session on Wednesday mornings for three-year-olds.

The school is licensed by the state and has been operating since 1962. A $5 deposit is required at the time of registration.

There will be an open house in the spring for interested parents and children. Interested parents may call Pat Francek at 455-8299.

OU schedules day for writers

An all-day conference for writers will be held on the campus of Oakland University Saturday, Oct. 22. There will be 29 sessions varying from small group discussions to the keynote address and the 27 guest speakers will cover a range of topics from fiction and nonfiction writing for major markets to how to start fresh in journalism.

For information on how to register, call Doug Peterson, 377-3272.

ALL ABOUT ANIMALS...

Dear Doctor:
Can you reduce an overweight dog in the city without exercise?
L.M., Detroit

Dear L.M.:

The same factors that cause people to be overweight will cause a dog to be overweight. If a dog takes in more calories than he burns up, these calories will be stored as fat, and weight gain occurs. The converse is also true—if an animal uses more calories for energy than it eats, the fat will be utilized and weight loss will result.

To get an overweight dog to reduce, you have to reduce the amount of calories taken in or increase activity to burn more calories, or both. If you can't or won't exercise your pet, a strict diet is in order. As with any medical problem, your veterinarian will advise you about the diet and proper vitamin-mineral supplementation.

About 90 per cent of all overweight pets are fat because they eat table food, so avoid developing this habit in your dog.

FOR KIDS

If you take your dog for a walk, always be sure he is on a leash. Many pets are killed ech year because their owners thought the dogs would know to stay out of the street. Since dogs don't reason, they don't know that cars are dangerous and you must protect them.

Author Beatrix Potter

Beatrix Potter would have loved it.

When her "Tale of Peter Rabbit" finally was published 75 years ago this fall, the thought of children all over the world celebrating the anniversary of the occasion would have been utter fantasy.

Students at Fiegel Elementary School celebrated Peter's birthday with a puppet show, balloons and carrot birthday cake.

Aiden Broderick narrated the story of Peter Rabbit's adventures in Mr. McGregor's garden. Behind the scenes, giving life and voices to the puppets were Pat Atchinson, Pat O'Reilly and Peg Leonard.

Pat Atchinson handled the role of Peter Rabbit, Pat O'Reilly was Mr. McGregor and Mrs. Duck while Peg Leonard took care of Flopsy, Mopsy and Cottontail and the voice of Mrs. Rabbit.

THE CHILDREN joined in the spirit of the party and the the reenactment of the familiar story.

Peter Rabbit first appeared in 1893 when Miss Potter wrote a story letter to a sick child. The illustrations in that original tale were very similar to the ones used in the book when it was published in 1902.

The author used her pet rabbit, Peter, as a model for the drawings and inspiration for her story.

The Frederick Warne publishing company discovered it had acquired a worldwide classic. The book has been reprinted in Spanish, Welsh, German, Italian, Dutch, Japanese, Noewegian, Danish, and even in Latin. Peter's adventures also can be read in Braille.

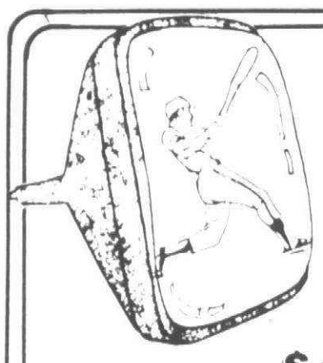

So when the youngsters at Fiegel sang "Happy Birthday, dear Peter," the wishes could have been echoed by his fans around the globe.

Heidi Jarema, 10, a fifth grader at Fiegel, helps pass the carrot birthday cake.

The students gave avid attention to puppet show.

John Steinway, of THE Steinway clan, received his first piano when his father installed one in the family playroom.

He and his brothers promptly took it apart.

"My father was not dumb," Steinway recalled recently. "He told us: 'Now put it together again.' "

They did, and the family piano-making tradition was carried on to another generation. Steinway has since learned how to tickle the ivory himself, but he says he's still better at taking pianos apart. "I'm a a piano maker," he says, "I'm not a piano player."

Steinway, a silver-haired 61, was in the area to publicize the naming of a Steinway agent, Hammell Music, Inc., 15630 and 16344 Middle Belt in Livonia.

STEINWAY is one of three grandsons of Henry Engelhard Steinway, who founded the firm in New York City in 1853. The company is now owned by CBS, but family members are stil active in it.

Steinway has heard a lot of good piano playing in his day. Segei Rachmaninoff, the famous Russian composer, was a frequent guest at the Steinway digs in New York. Steinway took it for granted. "I thought everybody would have the Rachmaninoffs to dinner," he says.

He remembers Rachmaninoff as a massive six-footer with hands like hams who played a mean game of slapjack.

"They were these funny old people with thick Russian accents," he says, mimicking the family's Muscovite patter. "He was very fond of my younger sister Betty, who was 8 and stout with these pigtails."

Rachmaninoff was official musician to the tsar before the revolution, but the Bolsheviks sent him and his family packing.

STEINWAY says the family's pianos are much the same instrument they were back when Rachmaninoff was playing.

"We do change in tiny ways. We try to make a better piano but you can't tell the difference between last year's design and this year's."

One modern touch is the way Steinway glues rims to its piano. They're set with high-frequency waves like those in a microwave oven.

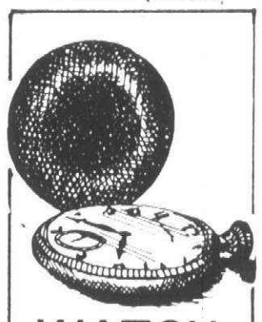

John Steinway doesn't perform on the piano, but his family has manufactured them with distinction since the 19th century. His first job was hauling wood in the plant's lumber yard. A fifth generation of the family—heavy with boys—is waiting to take over the business. (Staff photo)

Strings open PSO

A centuries-old musical tradition—the concerto grosso—will be revived when the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra opens its 32nd season at 4 p.m. Sunday in Plymouth Salem High School, on Joy west of Canton Center.

Conductor Wayne Dunlap will lead "Fantasie on a Theme of Thomas Tallis" by Ralph Vaughan Williams.

"This fantasie is written for string quartet and two string orchestras," said Dunlap prior to a recent rehearsal. "It's in the old tradition of the concerto grosso, in which you contrast one small group against a large one."

FEATURED performers will be the New World String Quartet, a group which received two enthusiastic reviews after a Lincoln Center performance in New York.

Single tickets may be purchased at the door at $3.50 for standard admission and $1.75 for senior citizens. K-12 students are admitted free.

Fran Lang, symphony society president, said persons may still purchase memberships which are not only tax-deductible but include tickets at a substantial discount.

Quartet to play in Geneva Church

The New World String Quartet will perform an additional concert in the area this weekend.

The free program will be offered in Geneva United Presbyterian Church, 5835 Sheldon (north of Ford Road), Canton Township.

The program has not been announced, but it will be different from that of the Sunday Plymouth Symphony concert, according to a church spokesman.

Lottery Mile comes to DRC

Even if no one made a single bet, if the winning owner forgot to cash his purse check and all the jockeys neglected to file for their riding fees ...

Even if the bookmakers in Las Vegas took a banker's holiday, the results of a horse race to be held a week from this Saturday at the Detroit Race Course would cause more money to change hands than any single live event in the history of Michigan racing.

And while September's 1977 Michigan Mile with a purse of $132,600 will technically remain the richest race in this state's history, the race of Oct. 22 will also find its way into the record books.

Perhaps it will carry an asterisk to denote the bizzare aspects of the race which will see the fortunes of 10 state residents being bandied about on the thin forelegs of an equal number of thoroughbred race horses.

The event is the $550,000 1977 Michigan Lottery Mile, the first attempt by the State Lottery Commission to divvy up the returns of an instant lottery by means of a live horse race.

For the uninitiated, state law has always required that the grand drawings of the Lottery Commission be determined as a result of a state-sanctioned horse race. Lottery officals, up to this point, have complied with this law by sealing the results of a past race in an envelope, having the finalists draw numbers randomly and then reading the results of the race. The contestants fortunate enough to select the number of the winning horse walks off with the bulk of the greenbacks.

Last spring, however, top lottery official Gus Harrison approached DRC with the idea of staging a live race with the contestants present to determine the winners. Thus was born the 1977 Michigan Lottery Mile.

The mathematical chances for each contestant, of course, remain the same. One of the horses will win the race and whoever has that number will go home with the top prize of $100,000.

It is the live aspects of the event which make the race appealing. Each contestant will watch the race from the winner's circle and have a first-hand look at the horse which will mean for him the difference between the hundred grand first prize and the $10,000 for the holder of the number who finishes last.

DRC racing secretary Tom Dorsey will go to extra lengths to insure that all horse entered in the race are physically sound and that it is a competitive field.

"We haven't decided which race on the program will be the Lottery Mile. It will probably be one of the later races of the day, but it really isn't the important thing. What matters is that we have a sound, competitive race," Dorsey said.

All contingencies, including late scratches, fouls and dead-heats have been prepared for and will be explained to the finalists prior to the running of the race.

And for once it doesn't matter whether the winning horse is the favorite or a longshot. For one person in attendance who bet a dollar on a lottery ticket this summer, the parimutuel price on the winner a week from Saturday will be $100,000.

U-M should expect strong test

By W.W. EDGAR

Whether the football race in the Big Ten Conference remains the Big Two and the Little Eight or switches to the Big Three and the Little Seven will be determined in the next few weeks on the artificial turf in Michigan's stadium.

This possibility has arisen because Wisconsin, which the Wolverines will meet on Saturday, are undefeated along with Iowa, that seems to be on the long road back.

If either the Badgers or the Hawkeyes spring an upset and conquer Michigan it would sound the warning that these two teams may be considered in the reckoning for the future.

Michigan and Ohio State have dominated the conference for a long time. Even before the season starts, the folks who pretend to know predict that the race will again be between the Wolverines and the Buckeyes. And it usually has wound up that way.

From time to time, several other conference schools have shown some signs of improving to break this deadlock. So far it hasn't happened.

One of the teams that might have done it is Michigan State. But the Spartans fell victim to unfair recruiting tactics and are on probation. They have a hard time coming back.

Up to the moment Michigan has looked good and bad. It seems as though Coach Bo Schembechler used just enough offense to win and only once this season—in the second half of the game with Texas A&M— has the real power been turned on. When Bo turned his men loose they made a shambles of the Texans. In the game with Michigan State it appeared at times as though the team was just satisfied to win without too much effort.

Meanwhile Bo has changed the Michigan offense to some extent. He is answering his critics by opening it up and the more open style of play will be shown before another sell-out gathering on Saturday against the Badgers.

With the offensive line showing improvement along with Harlan Huckleby and Russel Davis in the backfield, the Wolverines are sure to give the Badgers more of a test than they have met in their unbeaten march thus far.

But Wisconsin can't be truly judged by the type of opposition it has met. But if it is as good as the record appears Michigan could be tested and the warning signals would go up to tell the football world that the race in the Big Ten could soon become the Big Three and the Little Seven.

That's what the computer says

Salem gridders are 1st in the state

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

Many people say this is the age where computers are taking over jobs which used to be done by humans.

And as far as the Plymouth Salem football team is concerned, this fact doesn't bother them one bit—at least during this week.

For it is the computerized playoff point system used in Michigan which shows the Rocks as the top team in the state, tied with Saginaw Authur Hill with 99.20 points.

Now many people may scoff at this computerized point method which rates high school football teams. In fact, only one poll, the Detroit News, which puts Salem in sixth place, finds Salem worthy of a state ranking. No other poll sees the Rocks as a member of the Class A elite.

Regardless of the human rankings, it's the computer ratings which actually count when it comes time to choose the best eight teams in the state to compete in the playoffs.

And the Rocks, by virtue of their solid 19-7 victory over Trenton Friday night and its perfect 5-0 record, are not only the number one team in the state, but they also have a 99.999 per cent chance of reaching the playoffs if they win the rest of their games this year.

YOU CAN'T get better odds th an that.

Only three teams remain undefeated in Salem's region 2. Portage Central owns a 97.60 point rating and Deaborn Fordson is third at 94.00.

The Rocks look so solid in the play-off-point race, it is conceivable they can lose one game and still qualify for the post-season play—providing Portage and Fordson also lose.

But Salem coach Tom Moshimer certainly doesn't want to see his team even considering one loss as the chances for Salem's second Suburban Eight League title in last four years look better and better each week.

The Rocks are alone and undefeated in the conference with only three weeks remaining. And both the players and the coaches are well aware that the spotlight is on them.

"We're in command," said Moshimer. "They've all got to beat us now. We're very happy with our position. I rather be in our shoes than anyone else's.

"I think we're as good as anybody right now."

The Rocks are finshed celebrating their big Trenton victory since the games ahead just don't seem to get any easier.

This week Salem hosts Dearborn Edsel Ford, a team which has beaten the Rocks five of the last six years, in a rare Saturday night battle at the Centennial Park field beginning at 8 p.m.

The Rocks play on Saturday because Plymouth Canton in also home this week, hosting Walled Lake Western in a Friday night contest.

LAST YEAR, the Rocks came off a similar big victory over Trenton and fell flat on their faces the next week, losing 42-0 to Edsel Ford in a game which Moshimer calls "the worst loss and worst performance" in recent years.

Although the Thunderbirds don't have the powerful team they've had in the past, they still come into Plymouth with only one loss in the conference.

"Edsel Ford is a good football team," said the always cautious Moshimer. "I consider them equal in strength to Trenton."

TOM MOSHIMER

Edsel Ford lost to a tough East Lansing squad 10-8 at the beginning of the year, and also lost to Trenton by two touchdowns.

And what about that possible letdown which embarrassed the Rocks last year?

"We're fighting against it—players and coaches alike," said Moshimer. "I don't think it will happen this year. We know if we letdown and play poorly, then we won't win."

And Moshimer remembers very well that his 1972 team was 5-0 after the first five weeks and lost the last three league games to finish in fourth place.

Harrison rips Chiefs, 38-14

By TOM BAER

For the second straight year, the Western Six League's football championship could be decided by the outcome of the Northville High-Farmington Harrison game. The two WSL rivals play each other on Saturday (Oct. 15) at 2 p.m. at Harrison.

Last season, the league race came down to the same two teams. Harrison plastered Northville, 34-0, on its way to an undefeated regular season and a trip to the state Class A playoffs.

This season, however, the coaches expect a much closer game with both squads sporting 4-1 overall records and 3-0 marks in the WSL.

"It's going to be a good game because the teams match up real well," said Harrison coach John Herrington, whose team blistered Plymouth Canton, 38-14, last Saturday.

"Northville is strong in the same places we are," Herrington said. "Both teams have good throwing quarterbacks and excellent receivers. I think it'll be an offensive game."

Coach Chuck Shonta's Northville team, which was beaten by Westland John Glenn in the season opener, has a fine quarterback in Doug Marzonni, who has passed for more than 800 yards this season. Split end John Horvath has been a favorite target.

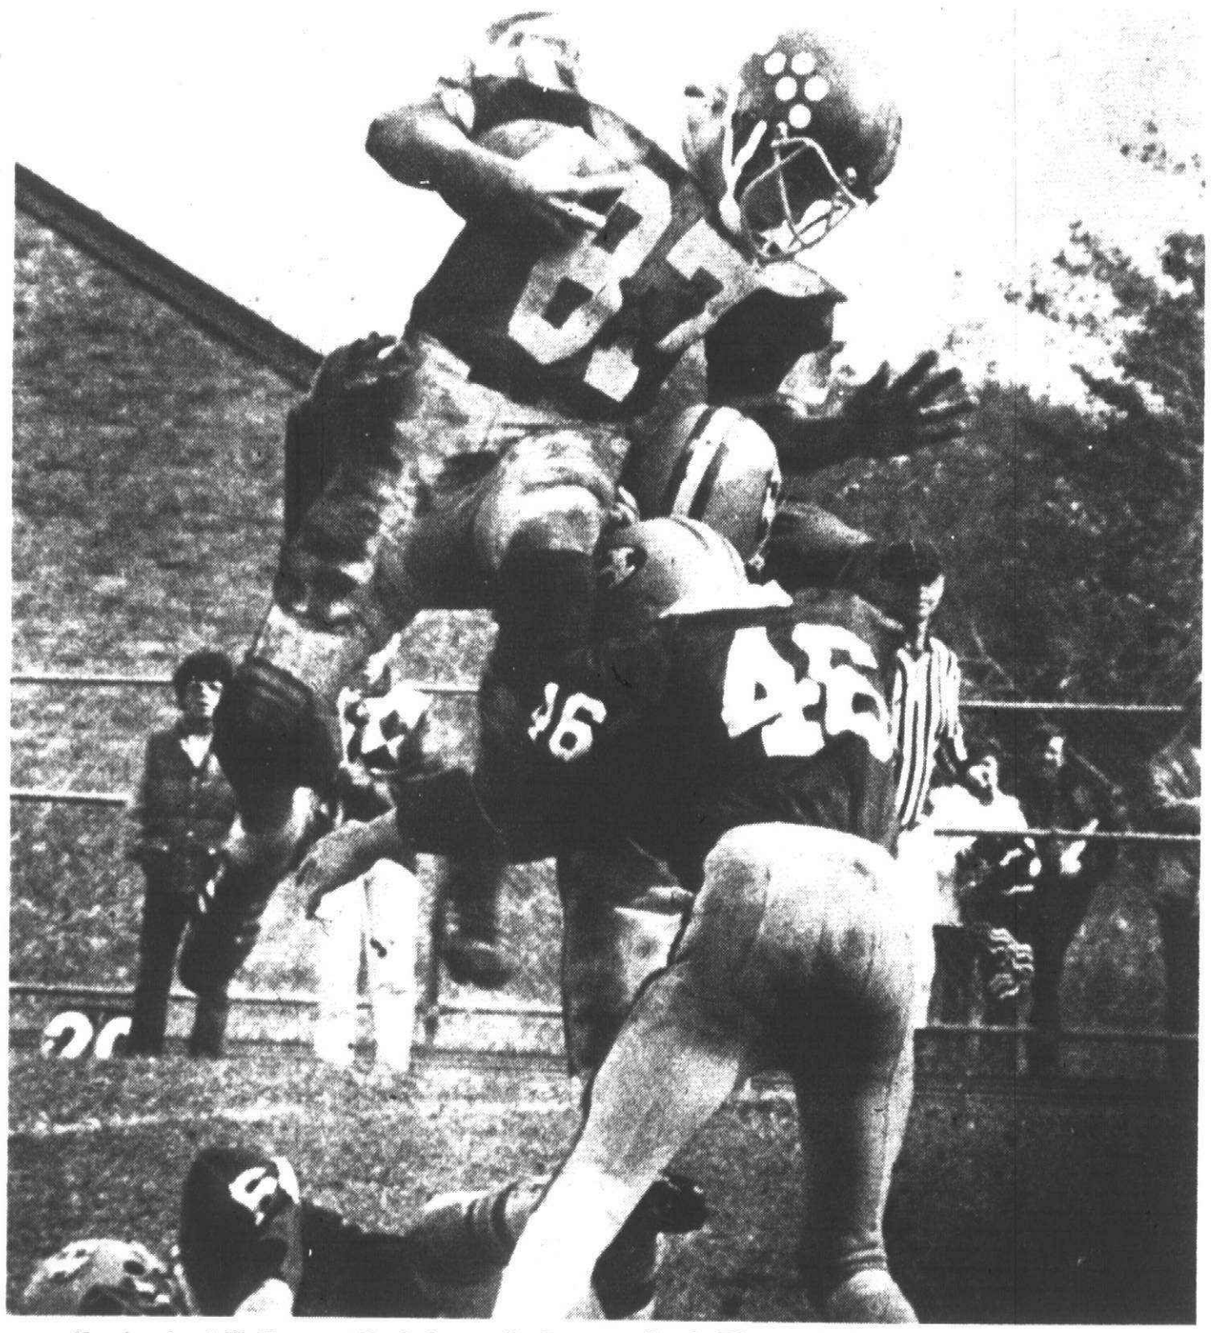

Harrison, which lost its opener to city-rival Farmington High, also has a fine thrower in Brett Homovec and good receivers in Bert Barsch, Brad Bache and John Brancheau.

AGAINST CANTON, Homovec passed for most of Harrison's 195 yards through the air, completing nine of 14 attempts. He hit Bache with a 37-yard scoring pass and Barsch with a 30-yard touchdown aerial.

But Harrison also showed some running strength, rushing for 159 yards to Canton's 103. Tailback Fred Blackmer, who gained 88 yards in 20 carries, scored on runs of seven and five yards.

Harrison's John Ford scored another touchdown on a two-yard run, and also provided his team with a safety by

Canton cagers keep on winning; smash WLW

By ANDY MELIN

In a runaway victory, the undefeated (9-0) Plymouth Canton girls' varsity basketball team overwhelmed the Walled Lake Western squad, 89-25, at the Western gym Tuesday night.

Chiefs co-captain Sue Rekuc scored 22 points to lead all players. Nine of those points came in the first quarter, as Canton took a 23-7 lead. The Chiefs played excellent defense and also had a good shooting night.

Western is a weak squad which hasn'twon a game this year. They were hurt by graduation, as last year's entire starting team graduated. "They lacked the basic fundamentals," said Canton coach Mike McCauley.

Co-captain Kathy Sochacki added 13 points and five assists to the Chief attack. She was followed by Dawn Malek and Jill Pederson who scored 12 and 11 points, respectively. "Dawn Malek had a very good game," said McCauley.

Canton had a good rebounding night, combining for 22. Kelly Heaton cleaned the boards for six rebounds, while Diane Durocher added five.

The score at the end of the first half was 52-12, in favor of the Chiefs, and 71-20 at the completion of three periods of play.

Canton will be back home tonight facing Farmington Harrison. Game time is 6:30 p.m., for the junior varsity and 8 p.m.,for the varsity battle.

Rock frosh nip Chiefs

Plymouth Salem's girls freshman basketball team rallied to edge Plymouth Canton's frosh team, 42-40, Monday afternoon at the Salem gym.

It was the second victory against no defeats for the Rocks while the Chiefs fell to 1-1.

Canton was in control for most of the game until Salem switched to a full-court man-to-man press in the final eight minutes to pull out the victory.

The Chiefs led 10-5 after the first quarter, 23-19 at halftime,and 32-31 after three periods, as the lead continued to disappear.

Leading the Rocks scoring attack was Becky Bell with 13 points. Amy Lundberg added nine, Joy Gornick, eight, Laura Arnold, four, Kathy Hoelscher, five, Andrea Bell, two and Chris Brennan, one.

Canton was paced by Marion Pink's 12 points. Carla Campbell added nine, Joni Sommerville, six, Cindy Sochacki, five, Kathy Brothy and Janice McGlone, three each, and Teresa Pavone, two.

Harrison hands Canton another loss blocking a Canton punt in the endzone in the second quarter. Tim Pink tackled a Canton runner in the endzone in the third quarter to account for another safety.

Mark Worsley, Harrison's second-string tailback, drove for 59 yards in six carries. Barsch grabbed five passes for 115 yards, and Bache snagged three passes for 79.

Canton, which is winless in five games this season, has a valuable quarterback in senior Doug Smith. The 5-foot-11, 162-pounder carried nine times for 71 yards, including a 50-yard touchdown, and threw a 70-yard touchdown pass to Randy Rienas.

Canton plays next on Friday (Oct. 14) at home against Walled Lake Western. The WSL contest begins at 8 p.m.

"They (Harrison) blew us out. They really put the wood to us," said Canton coach Dave Schuele. "Their passing game really hurt us.

"They are the best team we've played this year."

The Chiefs have a reasonable chance to win their first ball game this week when Walled Lake Western comes to town. The Warriors come to Plymouth after a heartbreaking 28-26 overtime loss to Waterford Mott. It was a game Western should have won.

The Canton-Western match up will decide which grid team will occupy the Western Six League basement this year.

Or, to put in in more positive terms, it will decide which team will finish in fifth place.

Spartan disappointment

Former Plymouth Salem High School graduate Lori Agnew looks on in disappointment as a cheerleader for Michigan State University. Her Spartans lost last Saturday's annual intrastate rivalry 24-14 to Michigan in East Lansing. Agnew, a sophomore, is also a former member of the Plymouth Gymnastics Club. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey).

Lions improve against wolves

The Ann Arbor Wolverines handled the Plymouth Lions, 0-2-1 last Sunday in Ann Arbor, but it was by no means a Wolverine runaway as in past years.

Much to the credit of the Plymouth Lions, the Wolverines managed a 20-0 freshman victory, a 0-0 tie in the junior varsity contest, and a 12-0 varsity triumph.

These scores are considerably more respectable than results in previous years.

Lion director Leon Graham said all the games were very well played by both sides.

The Lion freshman and varsity squads hold identical 0-5 records while the junior varisty is 3-1-1.

The Plymouth Steelers hosted the Allen Park Bulldogs last Sunday and lost two games, 35-6 at the freshman level and 7-6 in the junior varsity contest. Both Steeler squads have yet to win this year.

Next week the Steelers travel to Parkman Field in Dearborn to face the Dearborn Heights Redskins starting at 1 p.m., Sunday.

The Lions host the Dearborn Heights Raiders at Central Middle School also beginning at 1 p.m., Sunday.

Boosters seek fridge

The Plymouth Salem Blue Chapter of the Booster's Club is looking for someone to donate a small three or five-foot cubic refrigerator for locker room purposes.

Anyone who has this appliance to donate may contact Blue Chapter chairman Jack Christie at 453-2406.

Moshimer issue goes to board

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

It might only be the middle of the high school football season but the issue of Plymouth Salem head coach Tom Moshimer's recent resignation is still very much alive.

Moshimer, a veteran—and successful—coach, announced in September that he would quit at the end of the current season because of a long-standing gripe with Centennial Park officials. Moshimer wants his schedule re-arranged to fit in his one free hour at the end of the school day to let him better handle his coaching duties.

As reported in the Observer sports section three weeks ago, a parents' group quickly formed to support him after Moshimer's resignation became public.

The group then wrote and circulated a letter to Plymouth Salem principal Bill Brown and Plymouth Canton principal Kent Buikema requesting that ALL Centennial Park varsity coaches receive the final hour of the school day free during their respective season.

At last Monday's school board meeting, member Joe Gray asked that the free-hour issue be brought to the school board's attention at its next meeting, which is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 24.

The letter has been signed by numerous parents and has been received by both building principals.

The letter to Brown and Buikema reads as follow:

WE ARE taxpayers, and while we are reluctant to interfere with the administration of the Centennial Educational Park, we do wish to express our concern regarding certain matters which have recently come to our attention.

First, we firmly support the concept that inter-school athletic competition is an integral part of a complete educational program. We have demonstrated this support in the past by campaigning for, and voting for, a millage increase upon which the continuation of athletic and other "extra-curricular" programs depended.

It appears that the Plymouth-Canton School District has also adopted this position—as is evidenced by the substantial investment in the Phase III complex.

Our concern now relates to the administration of the athletic program. We assumed that any individual who had been assigned the responsibility of coordinating and directing the activities of our student athletes would be given the opportunity to actually supervise these activities. The recent resignation of one varsity coach called our attention to the fact that this may not always be so.

The responsibility of a varsity head coach should, in our opinion, include being available to supervise the athletes in his or her program as they prepare for practice. This is just as important as being available to answer questions of students at the conclusion of regular academic classes.

Yet a surprising number of varsity head coaches, 12 out of 16, are evidently expected to do both at the same time every day that their sport is in season, since practice starts immediately after the school day, and these 12 coaches are scheduled to be in class the last hour.

We are not asking for favors for head coaches. We are asking for a direction in scheduling which will eliminate the conflicts which prevent these coaches from fulfilling their multiple responsibilities. These coaches are all dedicated individuals who spend a great number of extra hours coaching for very nominal extra pay.

It would be unfair and unrealistic to resolve this problem by delaying the start—and therefore the end—of athletic practice. It could, we think, be much more responsibly resolved by defining the coaches' jobs so that their scheduled free hour is the last hour of the day during the season of the sport they coach.

This is an important point in our opinion, one which demands attention not just as an effort to retain the coach who has resigned, but to enable all the other dedicated coaches to fulfill their responsibility of adequately supervising the activities of our student athletes without unrealistically extending their working hours.

Rocks control Eagles

By ANDY MELIN

After a well-played, fast-paced first half, the last 16 minutes was a complete turn-around as the Plymouth Salem girls' varsity basketball squad hung on to defeat Redford Thurston, 44-38, at the Salem gym Tuesday night.

Led by an impressive performance by sophomore Nan Horwood, the Rocks jumped out to a 17-7 first quarter lead. Horwood combined aggressive defense with good offensive penetration in the first stanza. She ended the evening with 15 points—tops for the Salem squad.

Both teams played very good defense. "We played a pretty solid defensive game," stated Salem coach Debbie Hatcher. "I'm happier with our defensive performances every game."

The first half ended with Salem leading, 27-15.

The second half was very slow-paced and low scoring. Neither team could put the ball through the hoop. A rash of Rock turnovers, specifically bad passes, contributedo to Salems' mediocre second half but the Rocks held a 38-31 lead at the end of the third quarter.

Thurston started to get inside in the fourth period, but the Rocks started to spread their offense in the final minutes and the stall tactic was affective.

"I was really surprised with Thurston's height," said Hatcher. "But we did match them in rebounding."

Debbie Pitera helped the Salem effort with seven points and four steals. She was followed by Kathy Dillon and Brenda Davis who each added six points.

Kris Moore contributed 12 rebounds for the Rocks.

Linda Spicer led the Thurston attack with 17 points.

Salems' record now stands at 7-1.

The Rock junior varsity squad lost its first game of the year to Thurston 58-41, and are now also 7-1.

Salem will host Belleville tonight at 8 p.m. for the varsity and 6:30 p.m. for the junior varsity contest.

The Rocks are best

Doc's Corner

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

Help—what am I going to do?

I have press box seats for the Michigan—Purdue college football game on Saturday, Nov. 12. And I also have a ticket to the big Michigan—Ohio State showdown in Ann Arbor the following weekend.

But somehow I don't think I'm going to be able to make it to either ball game.

Instead, I have a feeling I'll be watching the Plymouth Salem Rocks battling it out for the state championship in post-tournament play.

It's that time of the year to re-evaluate my opening season prediction about the Rocks.

Before the start of the year, I picked Salem to finish with a 7-2 record. I also thought this Saturday night's battle against Dearborn Edsel Ford would be one of those setbacks.

But after watching Salem throughly dominate previously undefeated Trenton last Friday night, I just can't see anyone stopping the Rocks from gaining the Suburban Eight League title, a 9-0 record, and a berth to the state playoffs.

That's how good I think the Rocks are.

I was very surprised the Trenton game was so one-sided. I expected the Rocks to win but only by the skin of their teeth.

Even after the quick 12-0 Salem lead, I still watched and waited for Trenton's star halfback Dave Cassle to break open the big play.

But it never happened.

The reason? The play of Salem's defensive interior line and the back-up support it got from the linebackers and backfield.

Both the offensive and defensive interior lines throughly dominated Trenton the entire ball game.

It was by far the best overall performance Salem has shown this season. The game was a pleasure to watch.

"The difference was up front," Salem head coach Tom Moshimer said. "We were stronger and more experienced. Cassle is still a great back but we didn't give him the opportunity to run."

IN CASE anyone was worried about Moshimer losing his conservative style of play against Trenton—don't get upset. He's still as conservative as ever.

Moshimer shocked the stands in the middle of the third quarter when he seemingly attempted a fourth-down and one-yard play on the Trenton 48-yard line, ahead by only five points at the time, 12-7.

Moshimer has never taken a gamble like this—he normally punts the ball in this situation. But a mix up of signals turned Moshimer into a gambling man.

Moshimer toward his junior quarterback Rich Hewlett to bring the team to the line and try to force an encrcoachment penalty for the first down. If it didn't work, the Rocks would take the meaningless five-yard delay of game penalty and punt.

But Hewlett misunderstood his coach and ran a quarterback sneak for the first down. Salem went onto score its final touchdown on this drive to wrap up the game.

The Rocks completed only one pass in the Trenton contest, a 12-yard touchdown strike from Hewlett to tight end Mike Genrich for the final touchdown.

"Hewlett called the play himself," Moshimer said. "He came over to the sidelines to ask me if the play was all-right and I said okay."

Hewlett didn't have a bad running day either, gaining 136 yards and scoring two touchdowns.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Canton hosts Walled Lake Western in a battle of the Western Six League winless at the Centennial Park Friday starting at 8 p.m.

The Chiefs have yet to win a game this season in five attempts.

While Western isn't the strongest team in the area, I feel they have enough to defeat the lowly Chiefs which have not put everything together.

Canton coach Dave Schuele promises some "surprises" in this game which should make the result close.

But in the end, I'm afraid the surprise will once again be on Schuele and his team. Walled Lake Western by 6.

Edsel Ford coach John Davis has been quoted in the past saying he knows how to stop the wishbone offense.

And to his credit he has successfully stopped the Rocks in the last five out of six years.

But this season is a different story. I don't think Edsel Ford has enough talented personell to stop the grocks this time around.

The rolling Rocks look for victory number six on Saturday night at the Centennial Park starting at 8 p.m.

Rich Hewlett, Bob Dasher and Doug Agnew and company should have little problem avenging last year's 42-0 embarrassment. Salem by 9.

Salem golfers can still win Sub-8 league title

By BETTY DeLANO

The beginning of another winning streak has begun for the Plymouth Salem varsity golf team. The Rocks have won their last two matches after losing an important one to Livonia Bentley.

The Rocks posted a narrow 157-158 victory over Dearborn High School. Medalist honor was awarded to Salem senior captain Ted Kuhns who shot a round of 37 on the par 35 course. Teammates Jim Ross, Doug Holloway and Craig Stevens all added 40's for their round at Brae Burn, Salem's home course.

Dearborn's scores included a cluster of 39's from Rick Johnson, John Shelton and Paul Geboski while Bret Bowser came in with a 41.

Salem's win over Dearborn put the Rocks at 11-5 for the season and 4-2 in the league. Trenton leads in the Suburban Eight with a 5-1 record after losing to Redford Union, giving the Rocks a chance for first place.

Allen Park was defeated by the Rocks last week as the Salem golfers recorded a 163-192 victory. Senior Jim VanBoven was medalist for the round with an even 40 on the back side at Brae Burn. Brian Briggs, a Salem junior, turned in a 41 along with Kuhns and Ross. Doug Holloway also shot a 41 but only four scores are counted in each match.

Allen Park scores included a 44, 48, 49 and a 56 for its total 192.

The Livonia Bentley team beat the Rocks in a close match 163-169. Kuhns came in with a 41, Stevens a 42 and Briggs and Holloway a pair of 43's.

The Bulldogs scored a 38, 40, a 42 and a 43 for their total 163.

Regionals for the Rocks will be played tomorrow (Friday) at Brae Burn. Salem is expected to place within the top three. Plymouth Canton will also be part of the competition on Friday in trying to qualify for the state meet October 22. The Suburban Eight will hold its league meet next Monday in search of a league champion.

Salem wins RU relays

Plymouth Salem came out on top last weekend in the fourth annual Redford Union girls' swimming relays by placing three relay teams in the winners' circle. Salem collected 81 points.

Northville placed second with 65 points, Livonia Stevenson, third with 44, Dearborn and Trenton tied for fourth with 41, Wayne Memorial was fifth with 38, Livonia Churchill, seventh with 30, Plymouth Canton, eighth with 24, Livonia Bentley and Edsel Ford tied for ninth with 20 and RU finished last with six.

Salem won the 400-yard freestyle relay, the 200-yard backstroke relay and the crescendo relay.

Churchill captured the 200-yard breastroke relay with a time of 2:23.6. The winning team consisted of Julie Superko, Jackie Rudolph, Kim Cox and Jeanne Gessler.

Stevenson also had a first-place team in the 400-yard individual medley. The winning quartet included Linda Hein, Becky Stanley, Lori Loomis and Kari Santo. They clocked 4:30.2.

Canton had a winning foursome in the 200-yard butterfly relay, while Northville finished first in the 400-yard medley relay and the 200-yard medley relay.

Tankers dunk Churchill

By MICHAEL BLEDSOE

The Canton girls again showed their swimming expertise by overpowering their Livonia Churchill opponent, 102-70, Tuesday at Churchill.

The quartet of Jill McCann, Sue Stanwood, Sarah Stanwood and Marion Stanwood placed first in the 200-yard medley relay with a 2:02.5 clocking. Sharon Ross placed second in the 200-yard freestyle in 2:14.5. Sue Evans placed second in the 200-yard individual medley with an effort of 2:46.5. In diving, Amy McClumpha scored a first with 202.75 points.

"Churchill was right in there up until the diving," said coach Charles Olson, "but Amy McClumpha came in and gave us one of the top scores in the state."

Sue Stanwood raced to a second in the 100-yard butterfly, finishing with a time of 1:05.3. Sarah Stanwood placed first in the 100-yard freestyle with an effort of 58.4 seconds. She was followed by Madeline Lakatos who placed second.

Sharon Ross finished first in the 500-yard freestyle. Jill McCann placed first in the backstroke with a 1:09.6 effort.

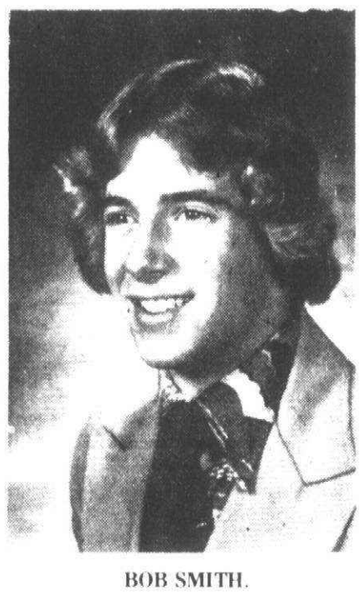

Smith shines at fall practice

Bob Smith, 1977 graduate and former member of the Plymouth Salem baseball team, has made the first four cuts at the fall practice of the Central Michigan University baseball team.

The former Rock batsman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron E. Smith of 9355 Beck Road in Plymouth.

Smith played his high school ball under coach Brian Gilles, batting .441 with nine home runs during the past summer season. Gilles is a former player at CMU.

BOB SMITH.

Local tankers lose 1st meet

The opening meet for the newly-formed Plymouth-Canton Swim Club was a sad one as the local team lost to the Chelsea Aquatic Club, 488½-181-4, Monday night at the Plymouth Salem High School pool.

Chelsea's team includes 150 swimmers while the Plymouth club has only 40.

The lone first place winner for Plymouth was John McCann who won the 25-yard freestyle in the eight-and-under boys division with a :17.5 clocking.

Link pair wins title

Lynn Tetsworth and Paul Oberhelman won the championship golf match of the Canton Township men's golf league over Bruce Watt and Bruce Karen last week.

Oberhelman shot a nine-hole round of 39 while Tetsworth recorded a 50 in taking all five points.

Watt shot a 53 and Karen turned in a 52 for the losers.

Oberhelman and Tetsworth won the first nine-week league, while Watt and Karen were triumphant during the second nine weeks of play.

Rock netters roll; Canton falls again

The Plymouth Salem girls tennis team raised its record to 7-2 with an easy 6-1 victory over a respectable Livonia Franklin team Monday afternoon at the Centennial Park courts.

Becky Crespo, Kathy Horton, and Besty Moon were the singles winners.

Lynne Hathaway and Sarah Hathaway; Sandy Bozimowski and Wendy Webb; Clarisse Hartnett and Renee Braun all won their respctive doubles matches.

Second singles Courtney Warrick was the lone Rock to lose.

Seven junior varsity players won matches. Singles Kathy Somers, Julie Kozinski and Karen Maggio, were victorious.

Doubles winners included Laurie Smith and Sue Kozinski, Cindy Snider and Cindy Wilkens, Ellen Kenney and Nancy Stevens, and Lisa Miyazaki and Cindy Carmichael.

PLYMOUTH CANTON netters remained winless this season with anothe7-0 loss in a non-league battle against Reford Thurston Monday afternoon.

The only three winners for the Chiefs were at the junior varsity level where singles Shar Oberstadt and doubles Nancy Riege and Renee DePlanche were triumphant.

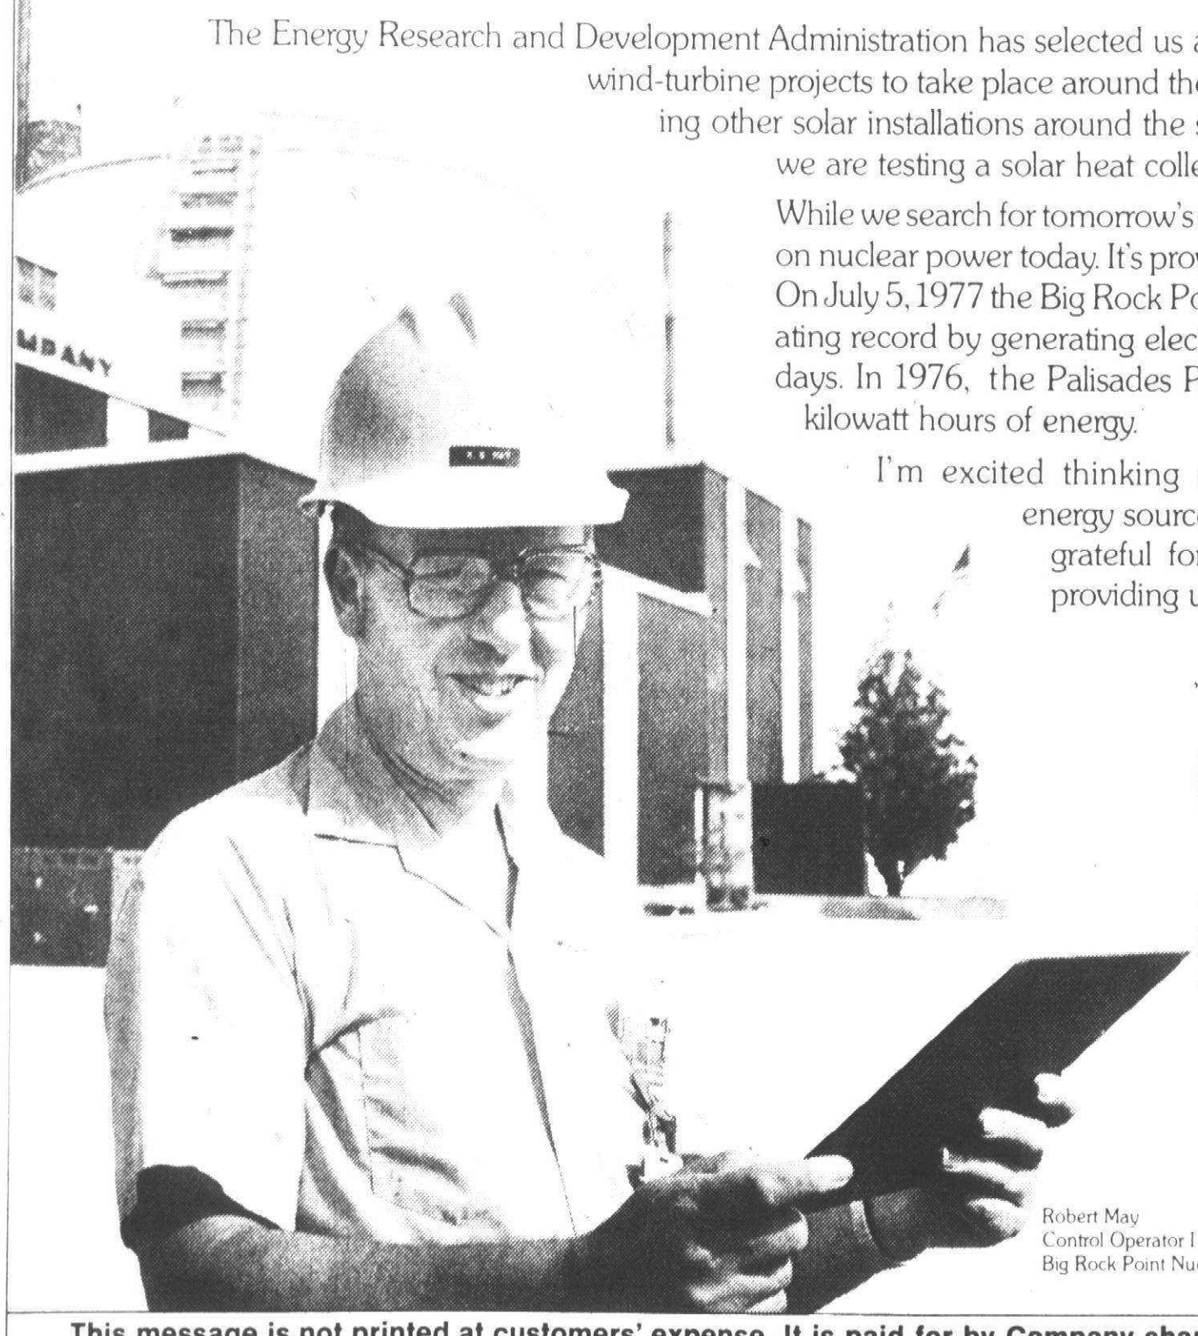

We need today's energy to get us to tomorrow's energy

Our most plentiful energy sources for the future are the sun and the wind. To bring the future closer we are working to make the sun and the wind practical energy sources to one day light, heat, and cool our homes.

The Energy Research and Development Administration has selected us as a finalist for one of four wind-turbine projects to take place around the country. We are monitoring other solar installations around the state, and in the Flint area we are testing a solar heat collector.

While we search for tomorrow's energy needs we must rely on nuclear power today. It's proved itself here in Michigan. On July 5, 1977 the Big Rock Point Plant set a world operating record by generating electricity for 326 consecutive days. In 1976, the Palisades Plant generated 2.8 billion kilowatt hours of energy.

I'm excited thinking about what tomorrow's energy sources might be. But, I'm very grateful for what nuclear energy is providing us right now.

DON'T BE AFRAID TO FACE THE TRUTH

Last chance to register

The last registration period for all area children interested in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball League (PCJBA) this winter will be held this Satuday.

The registration takes place at West Middle School, Ann Arbor Trail and Sheldon Road, between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

All children, grades 3-12, must bring one parent and an $8 registration fee on Saturday. Boys and girls, grades 11-12, must pay $12 to enter the league.

The PCJBA has held registration the previous two Saturdays and have 460 people signed at this time. They still need 400 more children, especially girls, to reach the projected participation.

A special late registration is scheduled for all boys and girls grades 7-12 who tryout but don't make the school teams. The late registration will take place at Central Middle School between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. on Dec. 3.

Larry Arnold, board member of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball League, measures a league participant at registration last week.

In The Pocket

If you listen to the bowlers, there is a reason for the lack of high scores throughout the area—it is the weather. According to those who fire at the pins several times a week, the damp weather always has been a barrier against big counts.

"There is something about the atmosphere when it is damp and rainy," one of the stars commented the other evening, "and you won't see high scoring until the weather changes."

Maybe so. But it is a good excuse.

THE IMPOSSIBLE 7-10 split was converted twice during the past week in the suburban area.

Tim Oliver did it in the Kings and Queens league at Woodland Lanes and Rene Morin followed suit in the His and Hers league at Cloverlanes.

THE LONE bowler to break the 700 barrier was John Wodarski, who put together games of 236, 227 and 258 for 721 in the Little Caesar's league at Westland.

While he was doing that, Pat Rizzo paced the women with 213 and 222 in 616, and Mary Mohacsi contributed a 602.

CAROLINE NIEDERKORN, who doubles as secretary of the Livonia Ladies Classic, proved she could knock over the pins, too, by taking the first game of the weekly series with 168-44—212.

Madeline Donehue won the second with a 186-36—222, but both had to yield to Georgina Kerwin who won the third game with 174-53—232 and the series with 459-157—618.

FINISHES don't come any closer than the one that marked the competition in the St. Linus League at Garden Lanes where Don Carmo set the pace with a 597 and a single-pin margin over Chet Lucas.

Mickey Cawetzpa was the big man in the Moose League when he went to the top of the list with a 624, while Bill Montgomery Sr. landed second with 607.

In the women's classic, Judie Mazie took top honors with 587 and Mary Koff was right behind with 574.

JERRY STEVENSON will long remember his performance in the Stars league at Super Bowl. And, he has good reason. He converted the 3-7-8-10 split.

Golfers whip Clarenceville

The Plymoyth Canton golf team ended its losing streak Tuesday afternoon with a 221-255 match win over Livonia Clarenceville on a rainy, windy day at the Whispering Willows Golf Course. It was the Chiefs' second win this year.

Sophomore Dave Visser led the Chiefs with a 41 while captain Scott McGlone added a 42. Senior Rich Ling shot a 45 and sophomores Scott Adler and John Matthews scored 46 and 47 respectively.

Earlier, last week, the Chiefs lost three dual meets and finished third in a triangular meet.

Canton lost to Waterford Mott, 205-215. McGlone and Matthews led the Chiefs with 41's. Adler and Visser both carded 45's.

Walled Lake Western downed the Chiefs, 222-236, at beautiful Bay PointeCountry Club. Visser and McGlone led the Chiefs with 41 and 43 respectively.

Canton also lost to a hot Farmington Harrison squad, 196-214. Ling and Matthews finished first and second for the Chiefs.

Redford Thurston, winners of the recent Plymouth Best Ball Tournament, defeated both Salem and Canton in a triangular meet. Thurston scored a 154 followed by Salem's 157 and Canton's 165.

Canton runners improve

By SCOTT ADLER

The Plymouth Canton cross country team ran into some hard times last week.

How hard?

Well, every Canton runner who ran against Waterford Mott broke a personal record but the team still lost, 15-50.

Rich Fleischer was the top finisher for Canton and eighth overall with an exceptional time of 17:10 over the three mile course.

Co-Captain Dennis Hennells was clocked at 17:31 and ninth overall, second for Canton.

Martin Hinckley was 10th overall with a 17:40 clocking, followed by an 11th place finish by Jerry Vanberkel.

Dave Spitz was 15th for Canton and co-captain Dan McGlinn was 16th with times of 17:45 and 17:49 respectively. Phil Simon was 17th with a 17:51 clocking.

Canton coach Mike Spitz said he was very pleased with the progress his team continues to make.

U-M's streak stays alive

It wasn't your typical cool, crisp fall afternoon for college football in East Lansing.

One minute it was sunny and breezy and the next minute is was rainy and windy.

And just when the fans got used to the wet of the rain, the sun came out to dry everyone off.

Despite the unusual fall weather, the result of the football game was very predicatable as the University of Michigan Wolverines continued to dominate state rivals from Michigan State University with a 24-14 victory.

It marked the eighth straight time the Wolverines have beaten the Spartans in the classic Big Ten conference battle.

There were three area Spartan participants who shared in the disappointment: Two players and one cheerleader.

Bishop Borgess graduate Tom Birney, a senior place kicker, and Livonia Churchill graduate Matt Foster, a sophomore, both saw action on three plays in the contest, competing on the Spartans' kickoff team.

Birney had an outstanding day, thanks to the wind behind his back, as all three of his kickoofs sailed in the Michigan endzone for touchbacks.

This made Foster's job of covering the kickoff return that much easier. Michigan was unable to run back any of Birney's boots.

On the sidelines, Plymouth Salem graduate Lori Agnew was busy doing all sorts of gymnastic gyrations as she cheered for her team in the losing cause.

If you can answer these questions, you don't need our Forecast for '78.

1. Will inflation climb back to double digit—or decline?
2. Will interest rates spiral upward?
3. Will our economic expansion—now in its third year—turn into a recession?
4. Will the stock market move higher—or lower?

If you don't have all the answers to these and other key investment questions, you will probably be interested in ours. We've put together a new booklet, "INVESTMENT STRATEGY FOR 1978," detailing our research department's comments on 9 industry groups we especially favor and offering specific recommendations on 13 stocks for long-term growth, 22 emerging growth stocks and 11 stocks for income and appreciation. We'd be happy to give you a head start on the New Year by sending you a copy. Just call Bache Halsey Stuart Shields at 313-965-6920, or send us the coupon below.

Human sexuality topic

"The Foundations of Human Sexuality" is the subject of a talk to be given in St. Edith Parish, 15089 Newburgh, Livonia, by the Rev. Anthony Kosnik at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 14.

Kosnik is chairman of the recent committee that prepared a study for the Catholic Theological Society of America on "Human Sexuality: New Directions in American Catholic Thought."

The study aroused considerable interest, with some claiming that it departs from previous teachings of the Roman Catholic Church.

Kosnik is dean of the theology department at SS. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, Orchard Lake.

His speech will kick off a leacture series sponsored by the church called LIFE (Life Is For Everyone). The series is open to everyone, and there is no charge.

Among the topics and speakers in the series are Dee Dias, director of Family Focus of Oakland County who will talk on "Parenting-Nurturing Caretakers?" and Sr. Helen Walsh of the Team for Justice on "Justice and Injustice in the Criminal Court and Corrections Systems."

Also participating in the lecture series are Dr. Vern Hoshal of St. Joseph Hospital, Ann Arbor, whose topic is "Cancer: Trauma and Triumph," and Sr. Margaret Basso of the campus ministry of Schoolcraft College, who will speak on "Being Widowed: It Happens to Everyone."

Anita Sandretto of the human nutiriton program at the University of Michigan will talk on "Eating for Life—It's Your Decision," and Dr. Jude Cotter of Oakland University will explore "The Effects of Mass Media on Family Life."

A lecture by the Rev. James Beckerer, Diocese of Cleveland, is titled on "Making Marriage Work—the Six Levels of Intercourse."

"The intent of such of diverse program is to let people of the parish and community know that we are interested in their needs and problems," said the Rev. Jerome Fraser, associate pastor of St. Edith. "We want to provide information and contact to meet those needs.

"We are also trying to tie in with the 1977-79 goals of the Archdoicese of Detroit. These goals focus on married and family life and on the social teaching of the church."

In addition to the events in the LIFE series, the church is also offering other lectures. The Rev. John Castelot of St. John Seminary is giving a course on the New Testament.

WSU has babysitting

A baby-sitting service for parents enrolled in classes at Wayne State University has been established by the WSU Women's Center.

The drop-in child care center begins operation Sept. 29, on the first floor of WSU's DeRoy Apartments, 5200 Anthony Wayne Drive at Merrick. Service will be offered on a space available basis.

Women's center director Kay A. Hartley advises advance reservations, obtainable by visiting the Women's Center in 167 Mackenzie Hall, Cass at Putnam, or by calling 577-2332.

The Child Care Center is licensed to care for children from two weeks to 6 years of age. It will operate from 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and will charge a nominal fee of $1 hourly. It will be staffed at all times by a director, office assistant and students.

Explorer Scouts plan open house

Anyone between the ages of 14 and 21 who likes backpacking, canoeing, camping and rock climbing had better trek over to Our Lady of Loretto School, Six Mile and Beech Daly in Redford, for an open house at 7 p.m. tonight, of Explorer Post 264 of the Boy Scouts.

The troop is made up of both girls and boys. It regards itself as an adventure post and is planning wilderness canoe trips in Maine and Wisconsin, mountain climbing in New Mexico and backpacking in Michigan's Porcupine Mountains.

These are once or twice a year trips. Other outings are planned once a month. For further information on the troop call Mrs. Vickie Sharpe at 533-1259.

Catholic Central planners

Arrangements are nearly complete for the Autumn Leaves card party to be sponsored by the Mothers Club of Catholic Central High School at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 19, in the high school gym, 6565 W. Outer Drive, Detroit. Tickets, which maybe reserved by calling Barbara Collins, 125-5444, cost $2.50 and include an evening of card-playing and a dessert smorgasbord. Planners pictured are (seated, from left) Terry Papazian of Livonia, Rosemary Zessin of Redford Township, chairman, and Mary Riordan of Livonia. Standing are Mrs. Shirley Digirolamo (left) of Birmingham, and Eileen DelGrosso of Livonia.

Crusaders host prayer breakfast

Rev. P.L. and Patricia Pearson, husband and wife co-pastors of Christ Crusade Temple in Detroit, and hosts of a daily radio program "Soul Winners Session" on radio station WBFG, will be guest speakers at a fellowship prayer breakfast at 9 a.m. this Saturday.

The Northville-Plymouth-Livonia Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship will sponsor the breakfast at Papa Geppeto's New Life Restaurant located in the Northville Plaza shopping center on Seven Mile two miles west of I-275.

Gospel music will be furnished by the recording group "Jubal."

This family-style breakfast will cost $4. Men and women of all faiths are invited. For reservations call Herman Wedemeyer at 349-0149.

Save juices to baste meat

Fruit juices and syrups drained from canned fruit can be used to baste roast pork, ham or fowl. Save the juices in a jar in the icebox, and they will be easily available to add special flavor and an appetizing brown color to the meat on your menu.

Missions and evangelism fill church calendars

CALVARY CHURCH, 29850 W. Six Mile, Livonia, will begin its annual week of missions with an international-style dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m., tonight.

The evening's guest speaker will be the Rev. Richard Ummel, missionary to Brazil. He will also speak at 7 p.m., Friday. The Rev. Paul Erdel, missionary to Ecuador, will speak at the 9:45 and 11 a.m., services, Sunday.

At 7 p.m., Sunday, a new missionary film, "The Great Command" will be shown. The film portrays scenes based upon true incidents. It is open to the public.

CHRIST THE KING LUTHERAN CHURCH, 9300 Farmington Road, Livonia, will hold a seminar entitled, "Alternative Care for the Aging," at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday.

Ilene Carson, administrator of the Georgian Nursing Home in Detroit, will discuss all possible ways of caring for senior citizens.

The public is invited to the free seminar.

FAITH LUTHERAN CHURCH, 30000 Five Mile, Livonia, will host the Rev. Kenneth Haugk as he conducts a workshop in lay caring ministry and the "Stephen Series" 2-5:30 p.m., Sunday.

Rev. Haugk, certified clinical psychologist of St. Louis, is executive director of the pastoral care team ministries which administers the Stephen Series.

The series is a model for a pastor to use in setting up lay caring ministry programs in his congregation.

The workshop, designed for laiety and clergy, will feature presentations and exercises aimed at sensitizing and familiarizing the participants to the potential of a congregation when some of its laity become involved in caring for one another.

All churches and clergy are invited to attend.

LIVONIA WESLEYAN CHURCH, 14560 Merriman, will welome back its first pastor, the Rev. Paul DeGrandchamp, when it observes Homecoming day, Sunday.

Rev. DeGrandchamp will speak at the 11 a.m., service. The Rev. M.C. House, pastor of the congregation from 1961 to 1966, will speak at the 3:30 p.m., service.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Drummonds of Battle Creek will provide the music during the special services.

The public is invited to attend.

CHURCH OF THE SAVIOR, 38100 Five Mile, Livonia, will have the Rev. Herman R. Rosenberg conduct special services Saturday and Sunday.

The theme of the services will be "The Abundant Life," beginning with a women's luncheon at 12:30 p.m., Saturday. A youth night will follow at 7 p.m.

Rev. Rosenberg will speak at the 7:30 a.m., Sunday, men's breakfast, the 9:15 a.m., Sunday school and at the 10:30 a.m. morning worship service.

There will also be a potluck luncheon at 12:30 p.m., and a closingservice at 1:45 p.m.

Rev. Rosenberg has been a minister in the Reformed Church in America for 31 veras, serving in Iowa, Michigan, California and Illinois.

The public is invited to the weekend of services.

GRACE MORAVIAN CHRUCH, 31133 Hiveley, Westland, will present Dr. John Gilliland and his wife Nancy, medical missionairies to Nicaragua and Honduras, Sunday.

At the 9:45 a.m., Sunday school session, Dr. Gilliland will show a slide presentation entitled, "Moravian Missions in Central America."

At the 11 a.m., family worship service he will speak on "Just Love Me."

His wife will speak on "A Woman's View of Woman's Role" in medical missions, at the potluck dinner following morning worship.

Dr. Gilliland has spent five years in Moravian medical missions in Bilwaskarma, Nicaragua, Puerto Cabzas, Nicaragua, and three years in Ahuas clinic, Honduras.

NATIVITY UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST, 9435 Henry Ruff, Livonia, will install Dr. Robert H. Jacobson as pastor at the 10:30 a.m., service, Sunday.

He will speak on "Why Joe Namath Doesn't Go to Church Anymore," and a reception will follow the service.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF PLYMOUTH, 45000 N. Terrotorial, will hear the Russell Street Baptist Men's chorus, present a concert, 6:30 a.m., Sunday.

The concert is part of an exchange series between the Russell Street Church, and the suburban Plymouth church.

Members of the community are invited.

ROSEDALE GARDENS UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, 9601 Hubbard, Livonia, will host the Rev. Herbert Swaby, at the 9:30 and 11 a.m., services, Sunday.

The pastor of Emannuel and St. Andrew Churches in Jamaica, will speak about his mission and school in that country.

ST. ROBERT BELLARMINE CATHOLIC CHURCH, 57101 West Chicago, Redford Township, will again present the Rev. Joseph Dustin, the banjo-playing priest, at 8 p.m., Saturday, in the activities building.

Rev. Dustin will present a show which includes jazz tunes, a sing-a-long, and dancing. Tickets for the show, dancing, beer, set-up and snacks are $5 per person.

Call the church at 937-1500 for ticket information. All proceeds will go to St. Robert Elementary School.

CLARENCEVILLE UNITED METHOIDST CHURCH, 20300 Middle Belt, Livonia, will hold its annual Fall Inspirational Luncehon, sponsored by the church's women's club, at 12:30 p.m., Tuesday.

thge luncheon will be held in the church fellowship hall, and will feature seaker Iola Yatzek.

The final date to make reservations is today. Call the church at 474-3444 to reserve tickets. They cost $2.75 for adults, and $2.25 for senior citizens.

UNITY OF LIVONIA, 28660 Five Mile, will present a women's retreat Friday and Saturday, with the Rev. Sandra Cousens, Unity minister from Everett, Wash., conducting.

"It's great to be me," as the weekend is called, will begin at 3 p.m., Friday, with a speech by Rev. Cousens on "Beauty is Mind Deep."

The conference will continue Saturday as workshops are held on "Exploring Me."

The cost for the weekend is $28 which includes dinner Friday and two meals on Saturday.

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, 17000 Farmington, Livonia, will present its 150-voice teen choir in the musical "Love" at 7 p.m., Sunday.

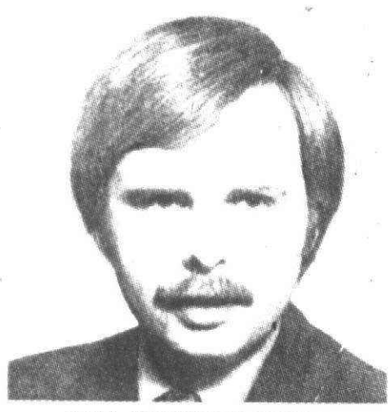

The musical, written by Otis Skillings, will be directed by Jerry J. Smith, and features sound tracks, instrumentalists and five correlated film projectors.

The public is invited to the free event.

ST. MICHAEL CATHOLIC CHURCH, 11441 Hubbard, Livonia, will hold its annual Millionaire's Party, 7 p.m. to 1 a.m., Saturday.

Tickets are $7.50 per person. To buy tickets call Anne Bourbonnaisat 464-6506.

CERTAINLY ONE OF THE BEST VALUES IN PLYMOUTH. With its pleasing proportions, this charming Farmhouse is surrounded by majestic old trees on a large lot. 3 bedrooms, formal dining room, a country kitchen with breakfast space, an enclosed porch, and basement. Re-assuring improvements include electrical, furnace, and exterior siding. A SPLENDID FAMILY HOME. $42,500. 453-8200

NEVER BEFORE OFFERED! CITY OF PLYMOUTH! Nestled below towering trees, this original owner brick ranch was built with exacting care and with the best of materials. Enjoying an excellent location in beautiful "HOUGH PARK", it contains two very generously sized bedrooms (one is 21 ft. long with a 16 ft. wide walk-in closet), 2½ baths, formal dining room, slate foyer, family room with fireplace, glassed-in summer porch, full basement with outside access, and 2½ car side entrance garage. Central Air, underground sprinkling, wet plaster, oak trim, and pretty views from all interior windows contribute heavily to this handsomely styled home. $85,000. 453-8200

CUSTOM BUILT AND DESIGNED, this original owner two story combines a delightful NEW ENGLAND EXTERIOR with a floor plan made to order for the active family. There are 4 large bedrooms, 2½ baths, formal dining room with bay window, family room with fireplace, 1st floor laundry, full basement, and a 29 x 23 side entrance garage. Two covered porches, an inviting wood terrace, and a premium location in a PLYMOUTH NEIGHBORHOOD OF DISTINCTION. $89,900. 453-8200

NORTHVILLE! FIRST OFFERING! A picturesque treed setting backing into a woods describes the restful location of this impeccably developed custom built home. 3 bedrooms, 2 full baths, a large country kitchen, family room with wood burning fireplace, screened porch, and 2½ car side entrance garage. An inground heated pool is surrounded by delightfully crafted patio's and terraces. $75,900. 453-8200
