The budget for the helicopter patrol alone in Genesee County is almost one-third of Canton's entire police budget. But Canton Supervisor Harold Stein (center) thinks helicopters are less expensive than his critics claim. (Staff photo)

Developer wins apartment fight; residents angry

Construction of a controversial 153-unit apartment complex was approved at a special Tuesday night meeting of the Canton Township board scheduled earlier that day.

The decision authorized John Etter, attorney for the township, to sign a consent judgment between the township and Slavik Development Co. The go-ahead ends almost a year-long legal battle which the board reluctantly pursued under pressure from homeowners living in the adjacent Windsor Park subdivision.

The vote on the authorization was 5-1 in favor of signing the consent judgement which provides a 60-foot greenbelt and cedar fence to separate the complex from the subdivision homes north of Warren and west of Morton Taylor roads. Trustee Robert Myers voted against accepting the "compromise agreement," and Trustee Lynne Goldsmith left the meeting before the vote was taken.

Residents, who were concerned about the number of units to be built in a "single-family residential" district, weren't pleased with the outcome of the negotiations.

MANY RESIDENTS said the only acceptable construction for the site would have to be single-family houses.

"The township board voted in April to defend the lawsuit filed by Slavik developers," explained Windsor Park resident Elizabeth Hieger. "They spent a lot of time and money on negotiations which did nothing towards reducing the density or improving the quality of the units to be built."

Attorney Etter, was first hired by a group of Windsor Park residents to fight the apartment complex. Later, at the urging of homeowners, the township board voted to hire Etter to take on the case after Township Attorney Bert Burgoyne refused to take the developer to court, calling the case a "loser."

Etter thinks the settlement "was a good one" in that Slavik has agreed to tighten up the space the buildings will take up. In a previously approved site plan, Etter said, apartments were as close as 25 feet from the lot line, and parking lots abutted the adjacent property. New engineering changes drawn up by township planner Mike Manore, and accepted by Slavik, call for less parking spaces and reportedly will save some trees in the 60-foot greenbelt surrounding the complex.

Etter claims that the out-of-court settlement was a good idea because Slavik had intended to attack Canton's Planned Unit Developement (P.U.D.) ordinance in court. Etter said the township could have lost some of the bargaining power a P.U.D. ordinance provides if it was struck down by a court.

"If we 'went for broke'—as some of the residents wanted us to, I think the township faced the possibility of losing some of its P.U.D. bargaining power," Etter said. "A lot of trade-offs were made at the time of the time the P.U.D. was approved."

The original P.U.D. agreement of the Windsor Woods site was reached in 1969 between the township and Southbrooke developers, who constructed many homes in Windsor Park area. The P.U.D. agreement covered hundreds of acres and allowed Slavik the right to build apartments in one area if lot size was increased in another area.

One apartment building, built by Southbrooke, sits on the 13-acre site. The 1969 P.U.D. agreement called for 98 apartments and 55 buyer-owned condominiums. Southbrooke sold the property to Slavik Developers which petitioned the township board in 1973 to change the P.U.D. to allow them just to build 90 condominiums on the site. But, in 1974, Slavik came back to the township board—under Supervisor Phillip Dingeldey—requesting the right to build 153 apartments, claiming "bottom has fallen in on the condominium market." Dingeldey says the board orally agreed to allow the developer to build 153 apartments on the 13-acre site.

Former Supervisor Robert Greenstein voted on Nov. 9, 1976 to "nullify" the site plan approval because he said the developer hadn't received written permission to build 153 apartments. That caused Slavik to file suit against Canton this January and out-of-court negotiations began.

TRUSTEE ROBERT Myers explained Tuesday that he voted against the settlement because he believes Windsor Park homeowners should have had the right to read and comment on the consent judgement before the board voted on it.

Trustee Lynne Goldsmith, who says she "probably would have" voted to accept the settlement, doesn't like the way it was handled in a last-minute special meeting. She agrees with Myers that the residents were promised the opportunity to review the consent judgement before the township board would vote on it.

"Last meeting we had a closed session on the legal matter," Goldsmith said. "We all agreed that Etter would

Stein's a 'rotor rooter' at Flint helicopter tour

By CRAIG PIECHURA

It might be appropriate to call Canton Supervisor Harold Stein a rotor rooter, considering the steps he's taken to sell a helicopter surveillance plan to five western Wayne communities.

Why else would he call reporters from three local papers, pilots, Cantonites, and politicians and police chiefs from neighboring communities to an airport hangar located 60 miles from Canton on a cold Saturday morning?

Stein invited all these people, some enthusiastic, some skeptical, to Bishop Airport in Flint to view an aviation unit being run jointly, with military surplus helicopters, by Genesee County sheriff's department and the City of Flint police department. Stein wants five out-county communities to share in the cost of operating one police helicopter. To help him do this, the Canton Board of Trustees has allocated $1,500 towards the purchase.

Residents and area office-holders—such as Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson—rode up with Stein in two township vans. A tardy Observer reporter followed in close pursuit in a rusty Duster. Some of the contingent were treated to helicopter rides at the airport, causing some of Stein's critics to wonder if the trip was a fact-finding mission or a public relations stunt.

In attendance Saturday was the most vocal opponent of the idea, Canton pilot Robert Schaetzl, who returned home still a critic.

After the presentation Schaetzl proclaimed that while it is obvious that helicopters are an effective tool in fighting crime, "my basic position remains unchanged. Helicopters are not cost-effective for Canton Township or the five communities within the Central Dispatch System.

Stein attempted to refute Schaetzl's cost criticism on a point-by-point basis and facetiously suggested that the 'copter pilot not fasten the passenger door of the helicopter if Schaetzl took a ride.

ENGINE MAINTENANCE costs—reported by Schaetzl to be $5,000 every 1,2000 flying hours, is an exaggerated figure, Stein said, based on Genesee County's experience.

"Sgt. Don Davis, (supervisor of the Flint operation) reports that it costs $6,800 for a complete overhaul and that includes $2,000 to $4,000 for transmission and masthead assembly," Stein said.

An "accurate figure" for the hourly operational cost of a helicopter (excluding labor) is $29.44 in Genessee, Stein said, not $50 to $70 as claimed by Schaetzl. And most repairs are done by the pilots themselves, he added.

Schaetzl claimed that the helicopters would cost $500 a month in insurance. Stein said Genesee pays $2,400 a year for insurance on each copter. If, as Stein suggests, only one helicopter is put in operation, the cost would be closer to $200 per month.

Stein challenged Schaetzl's statement that the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) no longer funds helicopter programs.

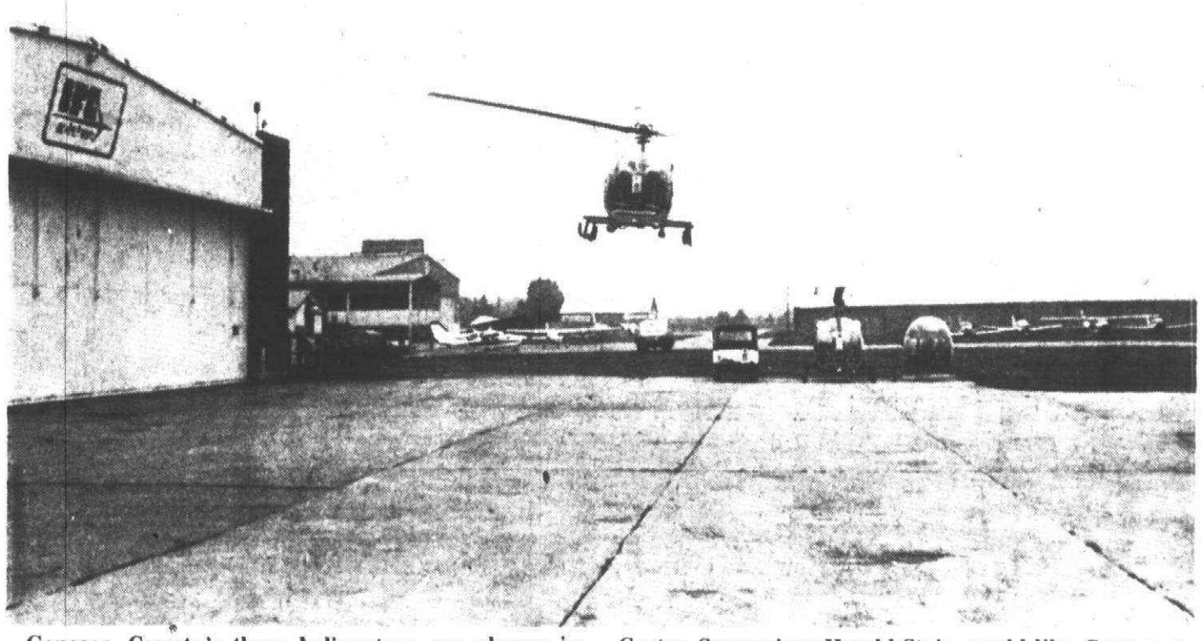

The LEAA has stopped funding helicopter patrols until they finish a study on the matter, Stein said, so for the moment they are in a holding pattern on the issue. "But any on-going LEAA program such as our Central Dispatch System is eligible for additional federal funds."

THE JOINT Genesee-Flint aviation unit is allocated an annual budget of about $140,000 by the county. Of that amount, Flint pays the county approximately $45,000 for city patrols. The city has four pilot-patrolmen in the unit and the county has two. None of the patrolmen receive extra pay for the aerial detail. In addition to having three helicopters on hand, Genesee County also owns three airplanes—one a confiscated cargo plane that transported marijuana before it turned over a new leaf and became a police plane.

Stein said he recognizes that the Flint-Genessee aviation allotment alone equals almost one-third of Canton's entire $450,000 police budget. But on a smaller scale, Stein said many of the fixed costs are applicable.

"They started their program by

Police agencies don't share data

Robbery is new to Canton police

By DARLENE STINSON

Thieves ran off with candy, bubble gum, ice cream, a fire extinguisher and some cash from two stores located in the King's Row Shopping Center shortly before midnight Friday.

While the crime wasn't earth-shattering, its reporting, some say, reveals a serious lack of cooperation between the three police agencies operating in Canton Township.

Like most Canton crime victims, employees of County Craft & Curls Beauty Salon and the Canton Sweet Shop telephoned the Wayne County Sheriff's Department when they discovered a hole in the wall that separates their two stores. The Canton Police Department was not called even though the part-time force was on duty at the time.

THE UNDOUBTEDLY youthful robbers entered the Canton Sweet Shop through a rooftop air conditioning vent and burrowed through a wall to the beauty salon.

But Police Chief Walter MacGregor did not learn of the latest rooftop B&E until contacted by the Observer Monday morning.

"There's a heck of a lot of people who contact the Sheriff's Department out of habit," MacGregor said. "The problem is there's three police agencies patroling Canton at the present time. Neither the Michigan State Police nor the Wayne County Sheriff's Department supplies any information to us."

According to MacGregor, Canton police officers routinely contact the Sheriff's Department and the Michigan State Police when a crime they investigated is committed. But the two regional police agencies do not tell the fledging Canton force when a crime has been committed or even when a suspect has been apprehended.

That's because Canton's now part-time police department is considered a supportive agency, MacGregor explained. Without its own detective bureau, the township police force must rely on services of the Sheriff and Michigan State Police detective bureaus for follow-up investigative work.

MacGREGOR SAYS lack of communication between police agencies patrolling the same turf is a common problem for part-time police departments just getting off the ground.

Police agencies that work 55 hours a week such as the Canton Police Department cannot respond to many calls for assistance. The telephone at the police station is unmanned much of the time.

"Say someone calls in when I'm here but we have no patrolmen on duty," MacGregor explained. "If the case doesn't need 'total' follow-up and it's not an emergency, I send a patroman out when he comes on duty. Otherwise, I contact the Sheriff's Department."

Although Canton police officers have responded to calls concerning breaking and enterings and armed robberies, much of their time is spent investigating traffic accidents and issuing traffic violations.

"Until we go full-time, we can't fully know what's going on in Canton Township in terms of crime," MacGregor admitted. "But when we go full-time, we damned well better."

The chief hopes to establish 24-hour patrol for the Canton Police Department by January or February. The township board has already authorized the hiring of four full-time police sergeants, one of whom will eventually assume detective duties.

The department's $450,000 budget will also finance salaries of 10 full-time patrolmen.

"WHEN WE GO FULL-TIME, the problems we have now will resolve themselves," MacGregor said. "Once we go full-time, we'll take complaints ourselves and follow them through to the best of our ability. But for now, we just have to live with what we've got."

In Cavalcade of Bands meet

CEP marching band placed 3d

A third-place finish with a final score of 68.9 went to the Plymouth Centennial Park marching band lest weekend at the "Cavalcade of BANDS" at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

It was the band's first full-fledged marching competition.

First place went to the Flushing Raider marching band with 83.15 points and second went to the Conant Cougar marching band with a final score of 80.8. In the four-year history of the competition, Flushing has taken first place each time and Conant has won second, twice. The Plymouth Band took third place ahead of the Yorktown High School Tiger marching band which had a total of 55.45 points.

A panel of eight judges rated the bands on marching, musical performance and visual effect. The highest possible score is 100 points, although a rating of more than 85 points is rare.

Each member of the band was judged on his own marching style, discipline, poise, body control, posture confidence, training, carriage and endurance.

"The band did well for its first real competition and for not knowing what to expect from the judges," said assistant director Tom Brownlee.

"The weakest part of the band's performance was individual uncertanty from some people, but this problem is outweighed by the strength of the entire band."

With the marching season almost over, the band is already looking forward to performing at the annual "Variety Is..." to be held sometime in January.

Residents throng to cider mills

Whether people go for apple cider and hot doughnuts or just to enjoy the atmosphere, the area's two best known cider mills are enjoying a brisk fall business.

Although both mills are located in Northville, each weekend folks come from as far away as Detroit to sample the wares and soak up the country charm.

Foreman's Cider Barrel, on Seven Mile, goes through 300 dozen doughnuts and 1,200 gallons of fresh apple cider per weekend, according to owner Ralph Foreman Jr.

Bern and Ruth Bodker, owners of Parmenter's, just off Griswold, say they sell 1,200 gallons of cider on Sunday alone.

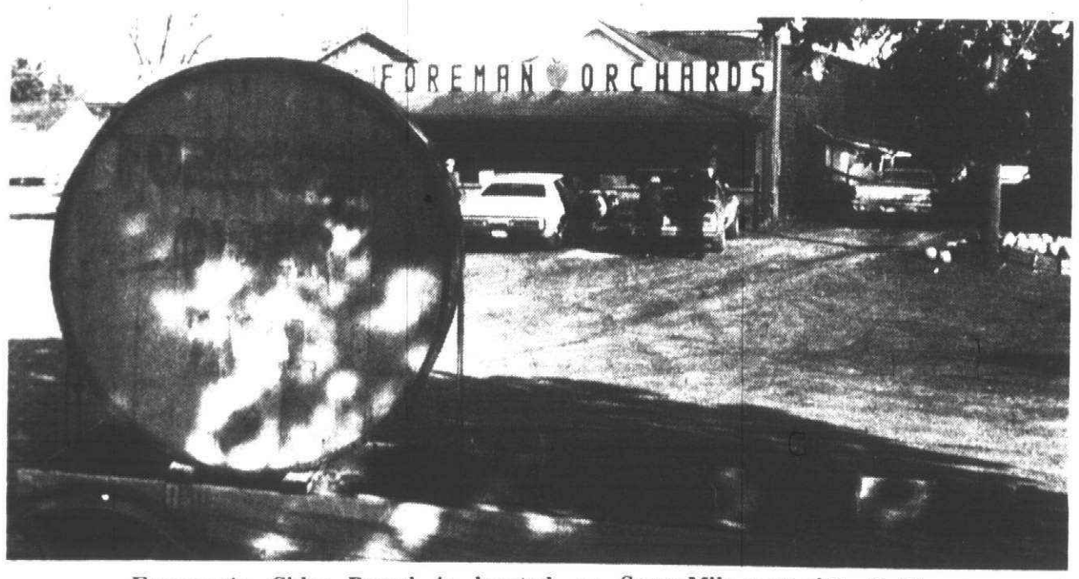

The atmosphere of both establishments has been described as "folksy," "country," and "farm decor."

During the week at Foreman's you can pick your own apples and watch the cider presses run. The presses at Parmenter's don't operate on a fixed schedule.

Cider and doughnuts are a favorite at Parmenter's Cider Mill in Northville.

Foreman's Cider Barrel is located on Seven Mile west of Northville.

Traffic's busy on weekends at Parmenter's near Griswold and Eight Mile in Northville.

1977 CARRIER of the YEAR

CHUCK JONES

Congratulations to Chuck Jones, 16, of Orhan Street, Canton Township. He delivers papers to Orhan and Cather Streets.

Our Canton Carrier of the Year enjoys snowmobiling and water skiing. His favorite subjects at Plymouth Canton High, where he is an eleventh grader, is drafting.

Chuck was chosen Carrier of the Year for his length of service, amount of collections, prompt settling of accounts, few customer complaints and accurate record books.

This is just one of the many ways the Catnon Observer shows its appreciation to its carriers for a job well done. Observer carrier routes offer young people the opportunity to learn basic business skills while earning extra money.

Chuck and carriers like him are a vital link between our readers and the people who bring you the news of what's happening in your hometown.

Stein takes group to Flint to hear helicopter pep talk

renting one helicopter for $5,000 a year," Stein said.

When the military announced its surplus aircraft sale, Genessee County bought six helicopters in various degrees of airworthiness, eight new engines at $2,000 each, and the planes.

HOST FOR the visiting delegation from Canton was Dallas Zink, a seven-year pilot and 17-year policeman in the Flint Police Department. He fielded all visitor's questions.

Flossie Tonda, local school board trustee, wanted to know if the helicopter patrols provoked citizen complaints about noise.

"In 1970, when we first started the program, we got a lot of complaints," Zink said. "Stuff like, 'I'm trying to watch the World Series' or 'that damn thing woke me up at 3 a.m.'" Now they know that when we're buzzing above their roofs, we're up there for a reason."

Are helicopters used to clock speeders? asked James Reeves of Canton. Zink explained that the department only used the helicopter for crime patrols, not traffic, but said that the department doesn't let people in on that secret.

"So when we monitor the CBs we hear people saying, 'Beware, bear in the air.' But mostly we're called 'Whirlypigs'."

"Do you patrol rural areas?" asked Mike Gorman, Canton's deputy treasurer.

"We don't patrol in rural areas," Zink said. "It's too expensive for the low amount of crime there. We only go there if it's a special run. Otherwise, we'd be miles away if we were making a routine patrol in the rural area and were called to respond to a B&E in progress in the city."

Stein has attempted to sell the program by arguing that a helicopter could patrol the back roads faster and more efficiently than patrol cars.

SOMEONE asked Zink if people who are critically injured in an accident could be transported by helicopter to a hospital.

Zink explained that the surplus helicopters were built during the Korean War with a stretcher mount located outside the helicopter cabin to be used only in emergencies to evacuate the wounded.

"If a guy came to outside the helicopter, he'd die right there in the open air."

But Schaetzl wasn't convinced by the answers, the presentation and the helicopter rides. He took out a notebook and compared the populations of all five communities in the Central Dispatch System—which includes the City of Belleville, Canton, Van Buren, Huron and Sumpter townships—with the population of Genesee County.

In 1975 there were 446,527 people living in Genessee County, Schaetzl said, and approximately 75,000 people residing in the five communities of the Central Dispatch System.

"Look at the communities and counties that do use helicopters," Schaetzl said. "They're large cities like Warren, Lansing, Flint and Detroit and counties like Wayne and Oakland. My question remains the same. Are helicopters cost-effective for Canton Township?"

By this time Stein had grown increasingly tired of the term "cost-effective."

Hospital rap unwarranted

Editor:

In a recent edition of the Observer, a developer was quoted as referring to the "archaic operation of Wayne County General Hospital" as he lamented the fact that the State of Michigan has not agreed there is a need for the hospital complex he would like to build in Canton Township.

For the record, I would like to point out that the National Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) just last month gave the county hospital its highest rating—full accreditation for two years with no deficiencies.

In informing the hospital, Dr. A. Walter Hoover, JCAH accreditation director, stated: "Through the award of accreditation, the Joint Commission commends your efforts toward providing patient care of quality."

meet with the homeowners and we'd vote on the consent judgment at next Tuesday's township board meeting. As it was, I learned of the special meeting 4:30 Tuesday afternoon. When I got there, all of a sudden the ballgame's changed."

The consent judgment will not become official until it is signed before Wayne County Circuit Judge John O'Hair's by Etter and the company's attorney, Norman Hyman.

Hyman has indicated that the company did "everything it could" to make concessions to homeowners, but says that financing would have been impossible for a project of less than 153 apartments.

Reflection of confidence

Stock dips, rises trace history

By W.W. EDGAR

To the average person, the stock market charts mean little more than a few jagged lines on a piece of paper. But the Dow-Jones average charts mean a lot more than that.

These charts in the public prints show the ups and downs of the American government on a day to day basis as perceived by investors.

In fact if a person was so inclined he could record the history of America simply by placing dates at the various points in the averages.

EVERY MOVE IN our national government, for example, is recorded in these topsy-turvy lines. The recordings are not in words, but the events of the time dictate a rise or fall in the stock market.

The accompanying chart is a fine example of the American history that is written in the jagged lines.

The extreme left shows the Dow-Jones averages to be 835 on the day that the late President Johnson announced that he was not going to seek another term.

Johnnon had not been highly respected by the business world and the market was at a low ebb.

By 1969, when Richard Nixon was elected to the presidency, the averages had risen to 980. Things were seen as being on the upswing with the new administration.

Then came a turn. Rising interest rates and a credit crunch, along with the failure of the Penn Central railroad, brought about a downswing. It kept dipping until it reached 640.

By the middle of 1970, conditions in the country started to improve. Corporate earnings began to rise. Interest rates declined moderately and the general atmosphere in the market was optimistic.

THE YEAR 1973, as shown on the chart, started signifigantly and the Dow-Jones averages established an all-time high of 1050 when Nixon was re-elected.

From this point the market began to decline and no one seemed to know the reason. But as days went by it was evident that things in Washington had gone wrong. Along about this time the energy crisis became more evident and the market eroded to a level of 800 in August 1974.

Then came the startling realization that Nixon's resignation was causing something akin to a panic and the Dow-Jones averages dipped to 580.

At this point in time, interest rates had increased to a new high as evidenced specifically by the new Detroit Edison bond issue bearing a 12.754per cent rate of return.

With Gerald Ford in the president's chair in 1975, the business community seemed to take strength because of his low profile and approach to the nation's problems.

Under these conditions the stock market gathered momentum on the upside until it reached a peak of 1015 at the midway mark in 1976.

The market, as shown, stayed in that general area until the early part of 1977. The first reaction to Jimmy Carter's election to the presidency was enthusiastic but as the year wore on this enthusiasm has waned.

Investors today, according to the stock market officials, are concerned with many problems that seem insurmountable—problems that the United States has never before faced.

These problems include the oil situation, the stiff competition from abroad, inflation and high interest rates.

Because of these conditions the market has declined steadily since President Carter's taking over of the White House.

The current level of the Dow-Jones averages is 820—a mark well below the 835 average on the day the late President Johnson told the world he was not going to seek another term.

Tanger pumpkin sale

Tanger Elementary PTO and students are offering pumpkins for sale from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 22. Locations of the sale will include: Tanger Elementary School at the corner of Five Mile and Haggerty Road; the Honeytree development, Joy Road at I-275; and 14308 Northville Road at Edward Hines Drive. Funds from the pumpkin sale will benefit all Tanger students, says Mrs. Chris Merchant, ways and means chairwoman of the PTO. (Staff photo)

New malpractice trial sought

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

A $3 million-plus jury award to a Livonia family in a malpractice suit against Wayne County General Hospital has failed to end the proceedings which have spanned four years. The appeals may drag on for three more years.

Adding a new dimension to the case is the county's present financial situation. Aloysius J. Suchy, corporation counsel for the county, said the award has "aggravated" the county's "dire financial problems."

Wayne County's lawyers are "totally convinced" that the hospital holds no liability in the case and are seeking a new trial," Suchy said.

And if Circuit Judge William J. Giovan denies the motion for the new trial, the county will appeal the award to the Michigan Court of Appeals.

According to trial testimony, Brian Sponenburgh, after a 1968 suicide attempt, was given inadequate medical attention at Wayne County General Hospital. Sponenburgh and his mother contended that as a result Sponenburgh, then 17, suffered permanent brain damage.

THE AWARD, one of the largest individual injury damage awards in the circuit court's history, holds other consequences for the financially-beleaguered county.

If the county's appeals fail, the award could end up costing each person in Wayne County more than $1.

The county is under the gun to erase a $13.3 million deficit, and the Board of Auditors has proposed eliminating 738 county jobs, in addition to other belt-tightening measures. The state Municipal Finance Commission, the board to whom the county's Board of Auditors must answer, has threatened receivership if the county fails to submit a balanced budget for the fiscal year beginning Dec. 1.

The county, which according to the jury must pay not only the amount awarded but six per cent annual interest on the amount dating back to 1973, could have settled the matter for about $350,000.

"$350,000 LOOKED absolutely absurd," Suchy said. St. Mary Hospital of Livonia and one of its staff physicians, named in the original 1973 suit, each paid the Sponenburgh plaintiffs $10,000, he said.

Another county spokesman said the final decision is "so far down the road, it's impossible to tell how the liability would be handled." He said the appeal process is expected to take up to three years.

"It's hard to say what the county's fiscal situation will be at that time," he said.

HOWEVER, he indicated three options available to the county should its appeals be in vain.

•The county's attorneys could negotiate a series of payments which would spread the liability over a number of years.

•If the county's financial outlook improves significantly over the next three years, the board of commissioners could authorize a direct appropriation.

•Wayne County could be ordered by the court to issue judgment bonds. Under this plan the county would collect a special "one-shot" levy to pay the damages. The levy would cost the average property-owner between $3 and $4, according to the county spokesman, figuring as an average property with an equalized valuation of $15,000.

Beer to flow pending appeal

It will be some time before concession operations at Tiger Stadium, the Detroit Race Course, Hazel Park Race Course and Northville Downs will be forced to stop selling beer to its patrons.

The four SportService operations have filed appeals challenging Michigan Liquor Control Commissioner Thomas Van Tiem's decision to revoke their liquor licenses.

The appeals process will take two to four months, said Stanley Mills, vice president and general counsel for SportService Corp., the parent company of the four local operations.

If SportService's appeal fails, the case will probably be legally challenged in Wayne County Circuit Court, according to the state Liquor Control Commission.

The revocation dates back to a 1972 request by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley. Kelley said the licenses were held by subsidiary companies of Emprise, Inc., a Buffalo, N.Y.-based corporation.

Emprise in 1972 was convicted of interstate racketeering in connection with a plan to purchase a hidden interest in a Las Vegas gambling casino. The conviction was handed down in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles.

SportService officials said the conviction of Emprise, Inc. is in no way related to the operations of the four Michigan companies.

Mills said that SportService operationn were owned by SportService Corp., which is owned by SportSystems, Inc. This company also owns Emprise, Inc.

The local companies and Emprise only have a "distant common parent," Mills said. He denied Emprise was SportService's parent company.

At the time the licenses were revoked Kelley said, "The rules of the Liquor Control Commission are very clear in this area. Those who have been convicted of crimes may not hold a Michigan liquor license."

"I am pleased," he continued, "that Commissioner Van Tiem has not let the paper maze of corporations and subsidiaries cloud the real issue here. The holders of these licenses have been convicted of a crime, therefore under Michigan law their licenses should be revoked."

Haunted house dates are set

The Haunted Dungeon will be opened to the public Oct. 22 for local youngsters to begin getting in the Halloween spirit.

Sponsored by the Plymouth Jaycees, the dungeon will be open from 7-11 p.m. through Oct. 30, with an admission charge of 75 cents per person.

Location of this year's haunted house will be the basement of Port-to-Port Travel, 188 N. Main Street at Union in Plymouth. Visitors to the Haunted Dungeon should park on Union Street and enter from the rear of the building.

Don McDurmon, project chairman, says all proceeds will be used for Plymouth Jaycee community projects throughout the year.

County budget cut endangers service

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

County residents planning to get a marriage license, record a deed or get a birth certificate after Dec. 1, better be prepared to wait in line even longer than usual.

Those and all Wayne County functions will suffer, according to county officials, because positions have been eliminated to help balance the county's budget for the fiscal year beginning Dec. 1.

"The reduced budget is going to result in the deterioration of the quality of many services," said one county official.

If the board of auditors' recommended budget is formally accepted and approved by the municipal finance commission next month, 678 county workers will lose their jobs.

Over 500 of those employees work at the Wayne County Psychiatric Hospital and the long-term care facility at Eloise. The state, however, may buy both facilities, and county workers will be given first crack at the state positions.

Ninety-two other jobs will be eliminated when five programs in the sheriff's department including the helicopter patrol, the Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force and the township road patrols and two prosecutor's office programs are axed.

"Its a matter of good programs competing against good programs. The county has had to fall back on meeting only its legal responsibilities," an official said.

THE COUNTY IS faced with the task of eliminating a $13.3 million deficit. The board of auditors has recommended the personnel cutbacks as part of a $366.3 million budget, which supposedly would suffice as a balanced budget.

The recommended budget, however, has set aside only $1.5 million for salary increases and only $2 million in contingencies for unanticipated expenses. The board of auditors has also failed to budget any money for building improvements.

"Unanticipated expenses," are greatly responsible for putting the county more than $13 million into the red.

The county has had to spend several million dollars for court-ordered improvemnets in prisoner housing in its ancient jail. It has also had to pay $2 million to finance the crash program instituted by the state to clear the backlog of cases in Detroit Recorders Court.

And officials charge that Wayne County has also had to pay $8.5 million in mental care costs which should have been paid by the state. These costs stem from operating the Wayne County Psychiatric Hospital and the long-term care faciltiy.

"We were hit by surprise after surprise which have broken our fiscal back," said John Barr, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

WITH ONLY $2 million in contingencies, it is possible that the county's balanced budget may be unbalanced several months into the new fiscal year, said one official.

He said a court order could force new improvements in prisoner housing. He added that the court could also order the county to retain the 92 sheriffs until arbitration is settled.

Diptheria probed in area school

A suspected case of diptheria in the Wayne-Westland School District has prompted district administrators and the Wayne County Health Department to urge parents to make certain their children have been immunized.

"There is no cause for alarm," stressed Dr. Perry Stearn, director of the Wayne County Health Department. "But the situation is serious enough that parents should double check to make sure their children are immunized, especially if they haven't had the basic immunization."

W-W administrators yesterday sent home letters with all students in the district explaining that diptheria carriers have been discovered and that adequate immunization is "worth a pound of cure."

Immunizations can be received at a Wayne County General Hospital clinic located on Merriman north of Michigan Avenue. The clinic is open weekdays 8:30-11:30 a.m. and 1-3:30 p.m. It also will be open 4-7 p.m. Oct. 26. A complete schedule of immunizations is available at the clinic.

The suspected case of diptheria involved a student at Lincoln Elementary School, 33800 Grand Traverse, who was being treated for a sore throat. Although a throat culture, taken after treatment had begun, proved negative, Dr. Stearn said diptheria was still suspected.

"As a result of that suspicion, all kids in that class have been checked out (with throat cultures) and they are all negative. We then checked out neighbors of the student and found two had diptheria germs in their throats," said Dr. Stearns.

"They are only carriers of the germ. They haven't been sick. We can't be sure if they're contagious, but sometimes those germs are. Therefore they are being treated to get rid of the germs.

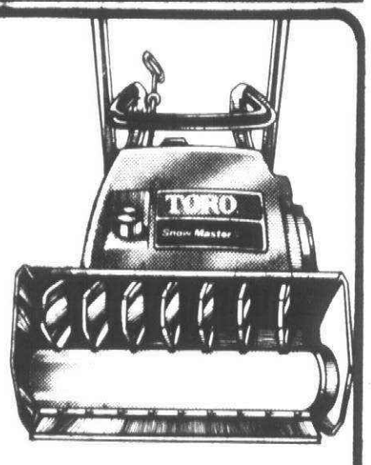

"A carrier in school is not as acute as an actual case," he added.

One of the carriers is a student at Adams Junior High School, 35475 Palmer. All children and friends of that student also have been checked by the Wayne County Health Department. Throat cultures have proved negative.

Letters were sent home on Monday with students at both Lincoln Elementary and Adams Junior High, advising arents to check immunization records.

When immunization levels drop low enough, according to Dr. Stearns, the disease can still occur. Major symptoms of the disease are fever and sore throat, he said.

Although slate's denied, hopefuls' link evident

The candidates' forum Tuesday night for Plymouth City Council once again demonstrated a close link on issues among three hopefuls—Penny Wright, Mark Wehmeyer and John Moehle.

The three agreed on most issues, and never openly disagreed with one another on a single issue. Although at least one of the three—Wehmeyer—has denied the existance of a slate, the common stands taken by the trio seem more than coincidental.

While Mary Childs, Jim Houk and Dave Pugh agreed on many issues, there were some positions in which there was noted conflict among their views. The seventh candidate is Clay Fechter.

THE SIMILARITY in position statements was evident in the first question raised from the audience at Tuesday night's candidates forum sponsored by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

When asked if a tax increase was necessary for the next fiscal year, the replies were:

Wehmeyer: No. "If elected, one of my mandates would be to keep taxation at the present level and we must search out all ways to avoid a tax increase."

Moehle: No. "If you plan and set priorities, then you know ahead of time if you are adding services which will require a tax increase."

Wright: No. "I see no need for a millage increase in the near future when the current budget has a $270,000 surplus and $190,000 in unallocated federal funds."

Fechter: No. I'm committed against any tax rate increase but favor tight budget controls on spending. In my budget at home, I know my income and determine my expenses—I don't add up expenses and then set my income."

Childs: Maybe. "When budget time comes, we are presented with requests from all department heads and given a lot of detail. We must look at the overall picture—accept some things, cut out something else. I hope taxes won't go up but have no way of knowing until having the chance to go over a budget line by line."

Pugh: Probably. "Over the long term we must consider SEV and the trend of expenditures to make sure there's enough SEV to maintain the level of services we expect to receive. If the taxbase doesn't grow sufficiently, we must increase millage to maintain the services desired."

Houk: Irrelevant. "The city has a 15-mill tax limit and cannot increase taxes anyhow without a vote of the people."

ON THE MATTER of city financial support for parking in business areas, the positions were:

Fechter: "I'm not opposed to the city aiding in parking if its needed, but the recent study indicates most areas have adequate parking."

Wehmeyer: "Possibly the city will have to consider giving some support to parking."

Moehle: "There are many alternative ways to finance parking, but remember there's no free lunch here. I'd like to eliminate charging individual parkers and maybe use a special assessment district approach to finance parking."

Wright: "The city already is supporting part of the parking system. Parking revenue last year was $77,000 and operating cost $86,000. The city's making up for that difference."

Houk: "The city needs to take leadership in the area of parking. The merchant used to pay for half, and the city half. Now we have a situation where city employees park free but earn more than clerical employees whose employers must pay for their parking. We should approach parking in the same way we do improvements of residential streets."

When asked their views on a parking deck, the responses were:

Wright: "If the users of the parking facility pay for its construction, I've no objection."

Moehle: "For a deck, it would cost $4,500 for one space to park one auto. It's all right to talk about the city taking leadership, but do we want subsidy?"

Pugh: "The central business district is running out of room for parking. When you consider the high value of commercial land, it's a waste to use it for parking as it should be used instead to increase the taxbase. For that reason, the city should provide leadership in coming up with a parking deck. We can't just leave it up to the developers."

WHEN ASKED if new business should be sought as a way to increase the taxbase, the responses were:

Wright: "Yes, more commercial buildings would help the total taxbase just as renovations in residential areas or new industry would stengthen the taxbase."

Wehmeyer: "We shouldn't lower our sights. Remember most of the taxes we pay are school taxes, so any expansion in the townships will benefit city residents by lowering school taxes. It doesn't have to be done by commercial growth in the city alone."

Pugh: "The potential to raise the taxbase with residential improvements is almost nill and we are kidding ourselves if we think we'll get new industry, when industry is leaving the state and this area. The only way to increase the taxbase is with sound commercial growth."

Moehle: "We should encourage all segments of the taxbase to expand, renovate and make improvements. We can improve the SEV with residential improvements, by tearing down old homes, or by renovating."

Houk: "We must remember that any improvements made to a home, such as a new roof, doesn't result in increased valuation. The assessment for a home is affected only if an additional room or added space is provided."

It's Octoberfest tomorrow at Schoolcraft

By MARGARET MILLER

Fall means snappy days and bright leaves and ripe pumpkins—and the annual Octoberfest at Schoolcraft College.

One of the year's most delicious offerings from a nationally renowned program, the gourmet treat will be served this year at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 21, in the Waterman Center on the Haggerty Road campus.

Sauerbraten, kasseler pippchen, beef a la deutsch, knockwurst, weisswurst, spaetzles and sauerkraut are just a few of the specialties which will be set out for diners by the Gourmet Club, all members and former members of the culinary arts program at Schoolcraft.

The tables also will groan with liepziger allerlei (fresh young vegetables), gurkensalat in sauer rahm (cucumber salad), bayerrischer krautsalat (fresh cabbage with zesty dressing), and Deutsches Schwartz brot (German black bread). And then the diners can finish off with an assortment of Bavarian pastries, including apple streusel and bavarian cream pie.

There also will be German beer and German wine to go with the feast that regularly draws 500 folks who appreciate good food.

THE OCTOBERFEST is the biggest and most popular of the gourmet meals served each year at the college—some of them by the Gourmet Club, and some by the 50 students in the program headed by Robert L. Breithaupt.

Pretty much the same people are involved in either case. They are the fortunate students in a culinary arts program so popular that it now brings applicants from all over the United States and foreign lands as well, and has a waiting period of three to four years.

The Gourmet Club puts on four dinners a year as fund-raisers.

The Octoberfest, a tradition since the culinary arts program and the dinners began in 1968, is the most popular and always the best moneymaker for club projects. This year's projected schedule also includes a polynesian dinner Dec. 9, a French one Feb. 24 and a fourth dinner April 11, the nationality still to be selected.

"We choose different nationalities each year," said Erma Shewchuck, Gourmet Club president, "but the German dinner, the Octoberfest, is the one we never miss."

For the Octoberfest, the menu changes some from year to year, said Richard Benson, one of the chefs teaching in the program. "But things like sauerbraten, knockwurst, and weisswurst—those don't change."

BESIDES THE Gourmet Club extravaganzas, the people in the culinary arts program prepare two dinners each year for the college board of trustees and two for the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

The Octoberfest, complete with the music of a German band, costs diners $8.50, and other special meals are served at comparable prices.

Proceeds from the Gourmet Club dinners go for projects like sending a sizeable portion of the club to the National Restaurant Show in Chicago each May, supporting a foster child, financing scholarships and making gifts to the college program.

These include a new radar range for the kitchen and help in purchasing round tables for the dining room.

In preparing for the big fall feast, Gourmet Club members start working early in the week on things which can be prepared early and frozen.

Ready to go at this point are the desserts—somewhere between 3,000 and 4,000 pieces of pastry. "Everyone wants a taste and we very seldom have any left," according to pastry chef Leonard Stec.

The main part of the cooking, through, is done in a marathon of preparation the day of the event.

THE CULINARY arts program is one of the most popular at the college, so popular that students sign up for the waiting list while still in high school, and one present student has already signed up her ninth-grade son.

"We had plans to expand it with new facilities," said director Breithaupt, "but when the millage Schoolcraft requested was voted down in the spring we had to continue on the basis we've been using."

That involves accepting 25 students each year into the two-year study program, so a total of 50 are enrolled at all times.

Under the tutelage of director Breithaupt and chefs Benson, Stec and Jim Van Vuren, they learn their art by preparing food for Schoolcraft's cafeteria as well as setting up the big dinners. Students have come here from places as far away as France, Germany and Japan, and graduates go out to top restaurants in the area.

"Ninety-five per cent of our graduates are employed in the food industry at varying levels, quite a few as chefs," said Breithaupt. "Four are working as teachers of culinary arts."

Enthusiasm for the program is high among the students who work hard in the busy kitchens and also put in many classroom hours.

"It's a long wait, but it's worth it," was the way Erma Shewchuck summed it up.

How to get parents involved discussed at NM open house

The role of parents in the school took top priority in discussions at Sunday's open house at New Morning School, an alternative elementary and middle school serving the Plymouth-Canton area.

Elaine Yagiela, a teacher and co-founder of New Morning, had just returned from a conference where the biggest concern was, "How do we get parents involved?"

"At New Morning, we are absolutely convinced that communication and cooperation between home and school are essential to a child's total growth. Because New Morning is a cooperative school, parental involvement is basic to our philosophy and practice," said Ibby Unsworth of Northville Township, director of the school's board of governors. "It's even written into the enrollment agreement."

PATTY WAY of Canton Township described the feelings of many parents before they become accustomed to helping out in their children's schools. "You look at the teacher as an authority image just as you used to when you were the student instead of the parent. You think, 'I'm not educated. The teachers know everything. I'm not very good in math. I don't know how to teach anyone to read.'

"What if I do something wrong?"

Sheila DeJohn, a New Morning parent and former teacher, suggested that many teachers are reluctant to ask parents for help.

"It's easy for a teacher to feel very protective about his or her classroom. Also, some people feel very uncomfortable when parents are in the room—as if they are back in their student teaching days, surrounded by critic teachers."

"The first step is for parents and teachers to realize that we need each other," said Rita Heaven, a teacher at the school and a Canton resident.

"I COULDN'T SURVIVE without parents," said Sharon Belobraidich, a first grade teacher at Bird Elementary School in Plymouth.

"How can I deal effectively with each and every child as an individual with 30 children for six hours a day? Parents give me a chance to solve individual problems. Parents can be a comfortable lap—the ratio is reduced.

"If the child has parental support, it rounds out the child's emotional life."

Pat Centofanti of Plymouth said, "I love the days I spend at school. They are so valuable—I'm learning all the time.

"One of the first signs of trouble is when a child doesn't want to go to school. There's always a reason—a physical or emotional problem.

"Maybe it's as simple as being teased on the way to school. Parents should call for a conference if the teacher doesn't call first.

"When you know the other children in your child's class, they're not just faceless names. It's easier and more interesting for parents to communicate with their children about school," said Patty Way.

"One of my best things is the meeting where all the children share their thoughts and successes and problems. And they listen. They really listen to what everyone has to say—every little thing.

"I realize how often we, as parents, shut out what our children are trying to tell us. Sometimes we tend to overpower our children— monopolize the conversation."

Mrs. Belobraidich said she considered it her responsibility to find out why a child is unhappy in school.

Heather Yagiela is a favorite of the parents as well as the youngsters at New Morning School. Ibby Unsworth holds 2-month-old Heather as her mother, Elaine Yagiela (left) looks on.

Here's a delicious finale for garden

When the frost hits the pumpkin and the rest of the garden that's been your summer-long love, you're likely to wind up with an over-abundance of vegetables.

But there a happy way to go for those tomatoes, eggplant and zucchini you rescued before the frost could nip them, says Richard Benson, a chef in the Schoolcraft College culinary arts program.

Turn them into ratatouille, a dish that's known around the world although the pronounciation of the name may vary and the ingredients are certain to.

Benson offers a basic recipe, but points out that the variations of vegetables available will mean some variation in the dish each time it is made.

"In a good corn oil or peanut oil heat finely chopped fresh garlic and sliced onions until the onions start to get glossy," he said.

"Then add washed and sliced green pepper, peeled fresh tomatoes, finger-sized strips of eggplant and zucchini (peeled and seeded if over eight inches), and fresh green beans.

"Season with fresh lemon juice, black pepper and salt, and add some sweet basil, chopped parsley, chevril and tarragon. Don't add too much of any of the herbs; not one single taste should overpower the others and the spicing should be to your own taste.

"Stir until all the ingedients are well blended and cook for 30 minutes over low heat."

While recommending ratatouille as a garden cleaner-upper and a year-round taste treat, Benson had a couple of things to say about the ill-treatment of vegetables by many cooks.

"Unfortunately, in our time in our country, we have lost touch with one of the real pleasures of eating—the vegetable," he said.

"Ignored, relegated to the corner of your plates and often mistreated, the vegetable can be transformed into the outstanding attraction of a meal.

"In the home, much too often the vegetables are overcooked, water-logged and drowned to the point of losing their identity.

"No wonder adults act like children and simply won't eat one of the greatest culinary enjoyments."

Holiday craft classes offered by PCAC

Five special holiday craft classes are being offered area residents by the Plymouth Community Arts Council during November.

All five classes, scheduled for 9 a.m. on consecutive Tuesdays beginning Nov. 1, can be taken for a total cost of $20 plus a small charge for kits. Classes will be in the PCAC offices over Wiltse's Community Pharmacy on Main Street, Plymouth.

Nov. 1, Lynn Kramer will demonstrate macrame Christmas tree ornaments. The charge of $5 includes a kit. Sue Kokko will show how to make raffia dolls Nov. 8 for $5 and a $4 kit.

The counted thread Christmas ornament is the theme of Madonna Bird's class Nov. 15. The cost of the class is $5 plus $2.50 for the kit. Jo Krause will offer instruction in making quilted Christmas ornaments Novm 22 for $4 and a $1.50 kit.

The final class Nov. 29 will feature the ribbon wreath. Sue Kokko will teach the class, which costs $6. An additional $3 will be charged for a kit and students must provide their own ribbon.

"Those interested in any or all of the classes can register by calling the PCAC office, 455-5260, from 9 a.m. until noon Monday through Thursday. Each class will be limited to 20 students.

Birthright workshop planned for Oct. 29

A group that for four years has been offering problem pregnancy counseling to women in this area is planning an Oct. 29 workshop to find more women willing to give some time to that cause.

"Frankly, we're in desperate need of volunteers," said Marie Gonzales of Westland, one of the founders and president of Birthright of Western Wayne County Inc., in announcing the gathering that will begin at 9 a.m. in the Mayflower Hotel of Plymouth.

Reservations are needed by Oct. 21 from people who would like to learn more about the skills needed to help man Birthright's office in the building on the southeast corner of Ford Road and Middle Belt.

The cost for the workshop, which will continue until about 2:30 p.m. and will include lunch, is $6. Reservations should be made with Barb Kirby, 525-0396, or Donna Van Steenkiste, 455-0279.

Those who attend will hear talks by Dr. R. V. Jaynes of Garden City, a longtime supporter of the Birthright organization, and Mary Ann McDonald of Catholic Social Services.

There also will be three movies, "The First Days of Life," "I'm 17, Pregnant and Don't Know What to Do," and "Growing Up Together."

Discussion of what is involved in volunteer service with Birthright will follow luncheon, and there will be a chance for questions from those who attend.

BIRTHRIGHT of Western Wayne County was organized four years ago and opened its office in June, 1973.

It offers, besides the ever-ready listening ear, free pregnancy tests, a 24-hour answering service, referrals to other special agencies for assistance, and some of the practical necessities like maternity clothes, baby clothes and furniture.

But recently, said Mrs. Gonzales, the only service of its kind in this area has had to curtail its activities a bit for lack of volunteers.

With only a few taking regular turns in the office, that facility can be open less hours and counseling there is "mostly by appointment," she said.

"We still have the 24-hour telephone line to take messages, and we do a lot of returning of calls and pointing people to the right agencies," she went on, "but there is so much more we'd like to do with a little more help."

Over the four years, Mrs. Gonzales estimated, Birthright has received some 4,000 calls from women troubled over pregnancy. About 500 cases have been handled.

"And many of the calls we receive are from married women," pointed out Mrs. Kirby, a Livonia resident currently serving as vice president.

"A lot of people think only of teenagers when they think of range of ages."

THE ORGANIZATION is funded completely by donation and is staffed only by volunteers, the women said.

"We are looking for more women who will be interested in helping other women go through with having their babies instead of choosing abortion," Mrs. Gonzales concluded.

"The workshop should offer some good company as well as instruction in a worthwhile volunteer project," said Mrs. Gonzales.

Those who do not make reservations may pay at the door, and the cost for the day's program in that case will be $7.

Consider who attends football games

Editor:

Having read the editorial submitted by one of the Salem football coaches regarding his concern over the status of the PCEP marching band, I can't help but wonder about his motivation for saying what he said.

I suppose he could be worried about the turnout for the Oct. 15 football contest. I also suspect that on some occasions as much as one-half of the home football crowd is composed of band parents, most of whom have little or no interest in football, and many of whom usually leave after halftime.

These people uncomplainingly pay the $1.25 admission price, knowing full well not one penny of the gate receipts, to which they substantially contribute, goes to support their sons and daughters in the marching band.

Were it not for these loyal supporters and the few CEP students with enough courtesy to stay and watch the halftime show, the band might as well perform to hear the echo off the bleachers.

MANY OF THE football players, who are quick to complain when the band isn't there to support them, are equaliy quick to express their high esteem for the individual band members.

The term "band-fag" has been in use for so long at the CEP that it has almost lost its negative connotation, and is now more or less used as a means of identification.

At one point last year when the band attempted to put together a drill that required the entire length of the field, they were forced to either remove (via the "push" method) student cars from the the parking lot-band practice field, or practice on the actual football field itself.

When repeated attempts to have the cars removed failed, the band was forced into the alternative course of action and was immediately greeted with cries of "unfair, unfair. You might ruin the grass for Friday's game."

When one considers the effect of tennis shoes and flat-soled street shoes compared to violent pounding with football cleats, one can only mildly chuckle.

This year, it was determined that the teachers' parking lot would make an adequate practice field, based on the assumption that it would be easier to gain the teachers' cooperation in moving vehicles.

When this practice was put into effect, the students were greeted with same problems as before, only now they had to deal with their teachers leaving cars on the field (once intentionally as a protest) and hearing their directors receive emphatic complaints that began to sound more like threats.

IN AN EFFORT to seek an alternative to the friendly atmosphere in Plymouth as well as establishing their identity apart from football (the way some of the football people talk, you would think the main purpose of music was to entertain crowds between halves), the band entered its very first marching band competition, the Cavalcade of Bands at Western Michigan University on Oct. 15.

Perhaps the football coaches would be interested to note that immeditaely after the contest, toward which the band has been working since February, it decided to skip the dinner, hop on the school buses, and make the three hour trip back to Plymouth in time to have a band for Saturday night's game.

This took the cake for me, being a relative newcomer to Plymouth. I have been a member of several marching organiztions, including my old high school band (West Bloomfield), the Central Michigan and Eastern Michigan University bands, and a national championship caliber drum and bugle corps from Wisconsin.

Never have I seen anyone who would rush back from a major competition without dinner just so a football crowd would not have to twiddle their thumbs at halftime. I thought the band members were crazy and flatly told them so.

Nevertheless, their sense of responsibility and yes, vchool spirit (which I have yet t see from many football fans) prevailed, and they elected to be at the game, come hell or high water.

So when the band is taking its richly deserved two days off next weekend, perhaps our coaching staff and football fans might take a moment, say around halftime, or when the Star Spangled Banner is being played, to think fondly of the marching band, and of how ludicrous they sounded complaining about a 33 rpm disc.

Scientists spin protons to learn their secrets

Suppose you made two tops, both spinning in the same direction, collide with each other—and they bounced off at some angle.

Then suppose they were spinning in opposite directions. Instead of colliding and bouncing apart, each just continued along its way, as if the tops had passed through each other.

How would you account for that?

That's essentially the problem facing University of Michigan physics Prof. Alan D. Krisch. Only his experiment, conducted at the Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago, deals with rapidly spinning protons instead of tops.

Krisch is leading a group of high-energy physicists from Michigan, Argonne, Oxford, and Copenhagen in an effort to learn more about the nature of the proton, a tiny building block in the nucleus of the atom.

"There is fairly widespread evidence that the proton has some sort of constituents, but little information as to exactly what they are like," he explains. "We are quite surprised—even shocked—by the results of this experiment."

Funded by the Energy Research and Development Administration, the experiment was conducted using Argonne's Zero Gradient Synchroton (ZGS) accelerator—a huge machine about 600 feet in circumference and buried under a hill about 100 feet high.

The Argonne ZGS is the only high-energy accelerator in the world that allows the observation of spin-spin forces—a capability developed during 1970-74 by a group of Michigan and Argonne scientists, many of whom are working on the new experiment.

Krisch explains that the protons move around the accelerator about a million times in a second, each time gaining energy until they have about 12 billion electron volts of energy (12GeV). They are then going at 99.6 per cent of the speed of light.

"The experimentt ran three months, seven days a week, 24 hours a day," he notes. "During this time the target was bombarded with ten billion polarized protons every four seconds."

There are several theories about the nature of protons, some developed by members of this project. In 1966 the team working at the ZGS found evidence that the proton consists of a single "core," or small dense cloud of matter at the center, with a larger semi-tansparent cloud as an outer layer.

Recent results suggest that those layers spin around each other at different speeds, resembling a "spinning onion."

"Some other physicists think that each proton is made of three 'quarks' or 'partons' that evolve around each other like a triple binary star system," Krisch adds.

"We simply need more information before we can say who, if anyone, is right."

So what does this experiment show?

"It seems to indicate that the hard scattering—bouncing apart—of the protons rarely occurs unless both protons are spinning in the same direction," Krisch says.

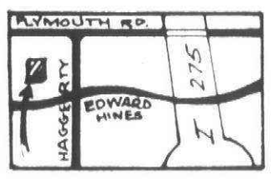

"Perhaps the quarks in a proton only scatter when their spins are parallel. Or perhaps the inner dense clouds only have violent head-on collisions when the spins are parallel—but when they are spinning in opposite directions they become 'transparent' and pass through each other.

"Both these ideas seem quite strange."

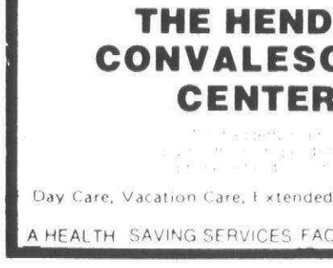

For the moment, he will only conclude that, as his earlier work indicated, protons seem to consist of something other than solid matter. More experiemtns are needed to understand the substructure of the proton.

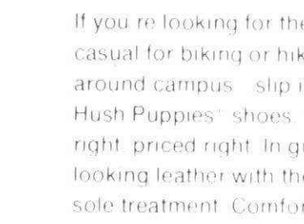

"We hope to extend these measurements to even more violent collisions," Krisch reports. "Then we'll see if the same kind of thing keeps happening."

Jack Anderson comes to Plymouth Township

By RICH PERLBERG

As one who has spent a quarter of a century raking the muck in Washington, political columnist Jack Anderson is well aware of the routine corruption that permeates the national capitol.

Exposing low doings in high places has become a lifetime mission for Anderson, a devout Morman who writes the most widely-syndicated political column in the world.

But it was not the vote seller nor the influence peddler who was on the receiving end of Anderson's wrath last Wednesday when he kicked off the 17th season of Northville Town Hall at the Plymouth Hilton.

Instead, Drew Pearson's protege waded in on the 2.8 million federal bureaucrats who, he said, are forming a dangerous and arrogant "tyranny of the many."

Dressed in a flashy, striped sports coat and a neatly-tailored cloak of self-righteousness, Anderson told a capacity crowd of more than 700 women and a handful of men that government employees have forgotten whom they work for.

"Their oath of office is to you, not Jimmy Carter and not the Congress," he said.

FROM HIS OWN observations and from angry letters mailed by Americans, Anderson said he has witnessed a disturbing trend by bureaucrats to reverse the master-servant roles.

Federal agencies live to devise more restrictive rules and regulations, he charged. Worse, their employees—who, individually, may be intelligent and patriotic—are "operating out of cubicles, forgetting who the sovereign is."

In line with campagin promises to disentangle the bureaucracy, Jimmy Carter has "rearranged the furniture in the oval office" and is "otherwise behaving as if he were in charge," said Anderson.

But, he went on, the bureaucrats are like Washington's starlings who flap and flutter at each new attempt to thin their ranks and then settle back into their eaves as though nothing had happened.

The problem, he said, is that Carter's 1,200 Georgia policy-makers must depend on the entrenched bureaucracy for information.

Then, any new policies that may be born must be turned over for implementation to—you guessed it—the bureaucrats.

"And they've learned that an unwanted directive will go away if they study it long enough," said Anderson.

The "tyranny of the many" will thrive as long as the American people are "more interested in football and bridge than in their government," he said. "If that's the case, you'll get the government you deserve."

HE ENCOURAGED his audience to write letters and get involved in the political process.

Otherwise, he warned, people will forfeit their power to men like Richard Nixon who has stated that the president is sovereign and therefore has the right to break the law in the public's interest.

Incredulously, Anderson said that when Nixon swore to uphold the Constitution, "he should have read it; the president is merely our employee."

The founding fathers realized that those who govern will attempt to oppress which is why they elected the press for the watchdog's role, said Anderson.

He called his style of investigative reporting "high risk journalism" because there are no press releases or news conferences for wrong doings or waste.

"I've never known a government spokesman to tell me anything that he doesn't want me to know," he said. "I want to know what President Carter is planning, not what Jody Powell says he is planning.

"They (the government) can cover up more than we can uncover. So, it is possible we don't get the whole story. I don't think that's reason enough to ignore the story."

INVESTIGATIVE reporters, he said, may see only the tail of the elephant and mistakenly call it "rope." But, he said, once they have latched onto the tail, they will probably pull the elephant out into full view.

Dictators, whether communist or military, realize this which is why their first act is to seize the newspapers, he continued.

"Nobody has ever suppressed the government," he added.

It is unlikely for a man who warrants the round-the-clock surveillance of the CIA to be humble, and Anderson is not.

He has led a squeaky clean life (he neither smokes nor drinks), he works hard (a Morman in western U.S. learns "you get stronger legs climbing mountains than sitting on your duff" and he expects others to do likewise.

The son of a taxi driving mother and a government-employed father (he was a postal clerk), Anderson held a $7 a week job on a weekly newspaper by age 12 and was city editor of a Salt Lake City daily by the time he was 18.

Today, he and a staff of 10 reporters and six interns expose inefficiency and corruption in 990 newspapers and on ABC television every morning. He lectures once a week, writes books and plans a TV series where guests will be required to take lie detector tests.

He has also found time to raise nine children, teach Sunday school and dodge the CIA. "It's nice to speak in front of microphones you can see," he joked.

AT HEART, he's a muckraker and makes no apologies.

Although he dislikes welfare, he gets angry when the poor, aged and unemployed have to beg for handouts while huge corporations get "charity" in the form of tax incentives.

He bristles at the fact that Ford Motor Company paid no income tax on $800 million profit earned in 1974 and 1975.

He lays the blame for the energy crisis at the feet of the oil and gas industry who, he said, have been dictating policy.

Instead of merely pushing a conservation policy—so that the oil industry "can squeeze the last cent out of the last drop"—the government should be searching for an alternate fuel.

Anderson suggested alcohol made from garbage. He said such a fuel has already been proven more efficient and less of a pollutant than oil, but projects have ben hampered because the oilmen still dominate the Federal Power Commission and the Federal Energy Commission.

THE HIGH PRICE of oil, which has caused nations to borrow heavily rather than cut their standard of living, will be the cause of an economic bust in 1978, he predicted.

The United States already as $200 billion in outstanding overseas loans, and $45 billion to $100 billion of that is already bad, "burned up with oil," he said.

And the nation will be facing severe threats from a hostile Latin America unless the Panama Canal is turned over to the Panamanians, he said.

The canal is too narrow for the large U.S. aircraft carriers and the issue is a "divisive one" among Latin American countries that could tilt to Castro and Communism.

But Anderson was not all gloom. He said his work has made him a staunch believer in his country.

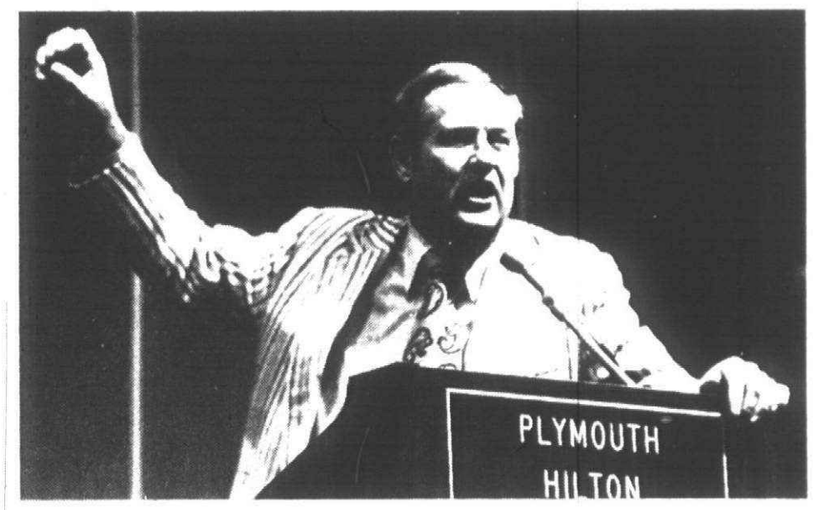

"No one has more faith in America than an investigative reporter," he said. "We've learned that this country is strong enough to withstand the truth."

Besides, even though he makes a living by catching politicians with their hands in a bagful of bribe money, Anderson may be less cynical of the Washington scene than most of his readers.

"Nixon's worst crime was to say that all presidents were like him," said Anderson. "That's not so."

He implied that there are a lot of hardworking, basically honest people on Capitol Hill.

They just need to be reminded who the boss is.

Columnist Jack Anderson spoke to a Northville Town Hall audience in the Plymouth Hilton wearing a striped sports jacket and a "neatly tailored cloak of self-righteousness." (Staff photo)

How Grandma achieved her crowning glory

Long before Lady Clairol or Miss Breck, women who wanted to enchant men with their beauty found ways to enhance their appearance through special care of their hair.

Here are some of the old formulas used in bygone days, when her hair was a woman's crowning glory.

TURN GREY HAIR TO LIGHT BROWN

Cut up one ounce alder bark and cover with two quarts water. Boil this down to one quart. Work this brew into the hair after each shampoo.

FOR LUSTROUS HAIR

Blondes should rinse with lemon juice, using two tablespoons of juice to each cup of water.

Brunettes should use a vinegar rinse in the same proportions.

It is especially important to rinse hair this way after swimming in salt water, in chemically treated pools, or even in fresh water lakes and streams, unless such bodies of fresh water are spring fed and very clean.

FOR OILY HAIR

To one pint of extract of witch hazel, add one ounce of table salt. Shake thoroughy until the salt is completely dissolved. Then slowly heat to boiling point.

Cover and let stand at room temperature for three days. Bottle, and use as a rinse for oily hair.

TO PREVENT HAIR FROM FALLING OUT

Make a paste of baking soda and warm water. Apply to scalp, and wait 10 or 15 minutes. Then rinse with vinegar, and shampoo as usual.

GOLDEN BROWN HAIR

Place one-half cup sage in a quart jar and add one pint of boiling water. Let stand for six hours, then strain.

Put two tablespoons of henna, and one teaspoon ground cloves into a clean, dry bowl. Add enough of the sage brew to make a thin paste, and mix well.

Shampoo hair, rinse well, and towel dry. Then, using all it will take, cover your scalp with the henna paste.

Wrap head in towel, and wait one-half hour (or longer, if darker shade is desired). Remove towel, and rinse hair well with lukewarm water. This will result in a lovely reddish-brown head of hair.

For a darker auburn color, substitute liquid from boiled walnut hulls instead of cloves.

TO ADD BODY TO FINE HAIR

Shampoo as usual, and rinse with beer that has been standing at room temperature for several hours.

AN EXCELLENT RINSE FOR BLOND HAIR

Use three to four tablespoons of camomile blossoms to one pint of water, and boil 20-30 minutes. Cool and strain.

Do not rinse with clear water after using this.

A SALVE FOR FADED HAIR TO RESTORE YOUTHFUL BEAUTY

Mix three ounces of oil of almonds and one ounce of oil of rosemary with 35 drops of mace. Rub into scalp every night.

FOR DRY HAIR

Mix together three ounces of sweet oil, 10 drops of oil of bergamot (or 20 drops of oil of orange), and one ounce oil of rosemary.

Heat oil until warm, but not hot. Rub into scalp. Wrap head with towel for one hour. Rinse hair with hot water, then re-wrap for 30 minutes more. Then wash hair thoroughly.

Editor:

I personally would like to thank Commissioner John Moehle for objecting to the idea that the City publicly acknowledge Ralph Lorenz's contributions to Plymouth.

After all, what has Lorenz done for Plymouth? And how dare anyone say that Moehle hasn't contributed to the city. I can give you a good e mple of his personal sacrifice.

I've heard he has done his share in keeping the goods and services offered in Plymouth at a reasonable price by spending his money elsewhere. It's a basic law of economics—if you keep demand low, prices will be depressed.

To prove that I am truly grateful. I proffer the following gesture of goodwill. Since some misguided soul pirated his favorite acronym, CORP, I offer him FOOL. Everyone knows FOOL means 'Flapdoodle Organization of Lackeys.'

Now CORP and FOOL are both four-letter words, so Moehle should be pleased. However, if he's not completely satisfied with FOOL, I am thinking of many other four-letter words.

Why Bo can smile at critics

By W.W. EDGAR

There was a good reason for Bo Schembechler, Michigan's football coach, to wear a broad smile this week when he appeared for his weekly session on television.

He not only had answered his critics, who claimed he didn't have a passing attack, but also sounded a warning to "Woody" Hayes, down at Ohio State, and his other opponents in the Big Ten that he was ready for all of them.

Ever since he came to Michigan nine years ago "Bo" has been a firm believer that games should be won on the ground and that passing was too great a gamble. With this theory he was following the late "Hurry up" Yost, the legendary coach of the Wolverines, whose offense often was described as "three yards and a cloud of dust."

Bo cared little about the criticism, saying that he had a passing attack and would use it if it ever became necessary. And he shrugged the charges of teaching a boring type of football.

They can say that no more. With a sly grin he opened up against Wisconsin, a team that had come to Ann Arbor undefeated and holding the top rung on the Big Ten ladder.

Bo wanted to take the Badgers by surprise. He did as Rick Leach, passed with an accuracy he hadn't shown before, and from all over the field. The result was a 56-0 drubbing of the Badgers. It was the worst in the score for Wisconsin in the history of the series.

What's more, Bo did it with a makeshift team that was minus Harlan Huckleby, the star tailback.

That didn't phase Michigan as it turned to Roosevelt Smith, Harlan's teammate in high school, and he helped make a shambles of the Badgers.

When that score went out over the air and the wire services it must have put a bit of fear in the hearts of the coaches at Minnesota, Iowa, Northwestern, Purdue, and even the Buckeyes at Ohio State.

Now the major question arises: Can the Wolverines go all the way?

READERS' FORUM

Bookseller makes point

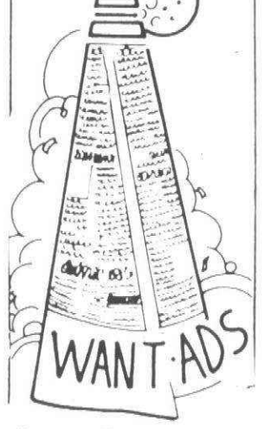

Editor:

It appears to be necessary to clarify that my endorsement of the petition in support of the development of Forest and Wing was just that.

Based on the premise that if the caliber of work is equal to the recently erected units at Forest Place, it would seem to be more desirable than the existing blighted buildings.

Emphatically, I do not support an endorsement disputing the integrity of others who wish to examine further the implications of the development on the community as a whole.

IN THE POCKET

By W.W. EDGAR

One of the most unusual series of the entire bowling season thus far was contributed by Jane Barnes in one of the women's leagues at Mayflower Lanes.

She rolled a 300 the hard way. It took her three games to do it as she had one of the rarest of the rarities—a 100 triplicate.

None of the bowlers on the shift ever had seen such a series and the veterans in the other leagues also claimed they never had seen it before.

Midge Poshkat, who clerks at Westland Bowl, claimed she never had heard of a 100 triplicate and remarked, "That's certain;y doing it the hard way."

WHAT'S IN A NAME? Carl Bowling lived up to his monicker at Westland when he put together games of 222, 243 and 267 for a 732 in the men's league. He carries a 185 average.

While Carl was posting his big series Walt Kwiatkowski had a 253 in a 615 series. It was his first series in double-century figures.

Scoring hit a new high in the Little Caesar 's league when 84 games of 200 or better were turned in.

Patty Rizzo showed the way for the women with a 680 series gained on games of 200, 225 and 255, which was the high game for the league.

On the men's side, Mike Chapman was high with a 234 in 671. Right behind him came Jerry Pomczak with 251 in 666 and Jay Dishong with 233 in 660.

Other scores among the ladies in this popular circuit included Kathy Johnson with 572, Julie Zimmerman with 569, Jean Esso with 567, Virginia Luek with 554 and Margy Brothers with a 554. In the bowlerettes League, Sandy DeSmitt was high with a 229 in 525.

Bowling's 732 in the men's league enabled his four-man team to post a 2490. The other members were Humbert Beal with 622, John Hurley with 630 and Pat Coshatt with 506.

MARGE KROPACEK, the Plymouth housewife who bowls in four leagues each week, had an unusual day last Monday.

In the afternoon, she had a 231 game in a 591 series to pace the west side proprietors traveling league at Country Lanes. Then, in the evening, she went to the other extreme in the Bowlerettes where she slumped to a 433. This was an unusual series, too, in that she didn't have a miss.

In the men's division of the proprietors traveling league, Fran Livcsy was top with 634.

Meanwhile, in the regular Friday night junior house at Country Lanes, Mike Juzon showed the way with a 657, thanks to a middle game of 246.

THE GIRLS had a great time at Mayflower Lanes and turned in some unusual bowling.

Carol Paleszewski converted the 4-7-9-10 split on the way to a 573 to gain top honors. She was followed by Carol Westcott, who had a 214 in 547, and Doris Brown, who converted the 4-6-7-10 for a 218 in a 535. Joe Wolynick had a 593 for the men.

OVER AT Garden Lanes, Wes Knist paced Joe D's league with a middle game of 242 in a 653 series. In the Moose League, Bill Montgomery Sr. showed the way with a 629.

JACK MONTIETH was the big gun in the K. of C. league at Woodland Lanes. He rolled a 251 game to beat Jerry Miller by three pins.

The juniors also turned in some fancy bowling. Doug Lobb, a 12-year-old with a 128 average, had games of 233 and 197 for 410.

editorial opinion

Running bulls not Michigan's tradition

In Spain, bullfighting is a part of the people's psychology and even religious tradition. A Spain without bullfighting is unthinkable, and we in suburban America will not presume to judge Spanish tastes.

Bullfighting's origins are misty, but it appears to be connected with the Middle Eastern religion of Mithraism, once a rival of early Christianity.

Mithra's slaying of a bull is the central event of this Persian-born religion, in much the same way Jesus' resurrection is the central event of Christianity.

Mithraism, popular among Roman soldiers, found its way across North Africa and into Spain. A place in Spain that is now a bullring was once devoted to the religion of Mithraism.

In one version of its religious practice, worshippers tied down a bull on an elevated grate, then sliced it to make it bleed. The worshippers then stood underneath the grate and let the bull's blood drip on them, the theory being that they would gain the bull's strength and brave qualities.

ERNEST HEMINGWAY once wrote that bullfighting isn't really a sport. It's a religious ritual.

Hemingway didn't necessarily refer to the religion of Mithra. He was referring to the exact way a bullfight is conducted and the spiritual qualities inherent in it.

A bullfight can be compared to religion in other ways. There are the banderillero, the picador and the matador—much like the levels of priesthood in a religion. There is the sacrificial quality in the killing of the bull.

It is no sport, for the outcome is never in doubt, any more than there is any doubt of the fate of a lamb on the altar in another religion. The bull will die; and the question is only: How well?

Spain today is a Catholic nation, though its bishops are frequently at odds with Rome, but the psychological hangover from the religion of Mithra is still alive, for there is nothing to weaken it. And so, what was once a religious practice has ingrained itself into that nation's collective psyche.

And as we said, that's Spain's business. We will not criticize.

BULLFIGHTING isn't even considered a sport in Spain. The literal translation of the Spanish term is "running the bulls."

It's hardly combat. Biologically, the herbiovore bull has more in common with the sheep and the llama than with a predatory, killing animal such as the tiger or the grizzly bear.

A bull is hardly a fighter in his herd. Separate him from the herd, however, and he becomes frightened—and charges. What the spectator sees, then, is not a bull looking for a fight or for a prey to eat but a frightened grass-muncher who is going to be executed for fun and profit.

WHAT PROMPTS these reflections on bullfighting is the proposal of some entrepreneurs to stage bullfights in our backyard, the Pontiac Silverdome.

"Running," fighting, taunting, goading and slaying bulls isn't in Michigan's religious tradition or collective psyche.

A few among us might enjoy the spectacle— just as some among us would see the movie "Snuff" or shout "Jump!" to a potential suicide perched on a 10th floor window ledge.

But the overwhelming majority of us would prefer not to have our society tainted with such use of animals. We have football, and that's rough enough. Besides, football players are volunteers, not sacrificial bulls.

Who's coming home?

Something that has always puzzled us about high school homecoming events is, why are they called "homecoming"?

Who's coming home? Certainly, not very many alumni. The alums will show for a class reunion, and some of the recent graduates who are still around town will attend, but rarely does anyone else come home for the homecoming event.

The practice appears to have been copied from the universities, and even there it's not well named. At a big university, the alumni are showing up for football games all the time and holding reunions all the time, not just on homecoming weekend.

Homecoming is, however, a fun time for the present student body at any high school. There are contests, floats and displays which show great ingenuity, a dance and maybe a queen contest.

To their credit, the queen contests are several steps above the traditional sexist "beauty" contest; for a homecoming queen is usually selected by the students and must be someone who is personally respected, as well as cute. Indeed, the four finalists in one area school were all members of the National Honor Society.

So we of the old guard will wish the high schools "Happy homecoming." It's the youngsters' celebration.

Metro Detroit residents prefer the comfort and convenience of the personal passenger automobile for going to work early in the morning.

Public buses: a tale of 2 metropolises

Tim Richard

First, you have to get an idea of the numbers. Two metropolitan regions: Atlanta and Detroit. Each one covering three counties.

Metropolitan Atlanta's population is 1.5 million; metro Detroit's, 4.5 million.

Got the general picture? The same kind of geographic layout, but metro-Detroit has triple the population.

Given that kind of population density, which do you suppose would have the greater need for, and the better developed, public transportation system?

It turns out to be Atlanta.

LARRY SALCI, the young man from Troy who runs the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA), came back from a three-day trip to the commercial capital of the South hugely impressed with MARTA, which isn't the name of an opera but the initials of the Metropolitan Atlanta Rapid Transit Authority.

Remember, now, we're talking about a region with one-third the population of ours. MARTA is carrying 79 million riders a year, while SEMTA and D-DOT combined are hauling only a shade more than that—88 million.

Mickey Meltzer, SEMTA's intergovernmental relations man, chipped in this revealing observation: "Transit is part of the mainstream in Atlanta. People talk about it. They know it. They're very positive about it."

The trend is incredible: D-DOT is losing riders at the rate of 10 per cent a year since 1970. Since 1972, MARTA's ridership is up 22 million, which is nearly a 40 per cent leap in five years.

PUBLIC TRANSIT in Michigan is getting something like one-half of one cent of the gasoline tax; in addition, a recently enacted increase in auto license and transfer fees goes to SEMTA.

Those taxes are relatively invisible, especially the license and fees increases. It would be politically dangerous to put those out where the voters could see them or vote on them—or so our legislators believe.

Atlanta's voters looked the ballot in the eye and voted a one per cent sales tax for their transit system. At the moment, that system is entirely buses, but construction is under way on 14 miles of rapid transit, which is to open in December of 1978.

Meanwhile, the bus fleet wins Atlanta honors. The convention Salci attended gave MARTA accolades for operations. "They pulled a bus off the road just because it was dirty," Salci said, marvelling.

He's proud, however, of the improvments going on at SEMTA in the maintenance department. SEMTA has a brand new terminal on Maple Road in Troy and has another under construction in Inkster to serve western Wayne County. The new operation will put everything under a single roof, which will mean better maintained and cleaner buses for suburbanites.

SO WHAT'S the difference between metro Atlanta and metro Detroit?

Both have their first black mayors. Both have some "tension," as Salci phrases it, between central city and suburbs.

"But Atlanta has taken the first step," the SEMTA general manager added. Moreover, the people there don't think of the city as dying. (Actually, while suburbanites here tend to think of Detroit as pretty well shot, ol' Motown has begun to do some startling convention business.)

One might dismiss this talk as the mere fulminations of a few rapid transit zealots, except for one thing: On my way to the breakfast meeting with Salci, I drove north on Telegraph Road. Southbound traffic at that hour was bumper-to-bumper from 13 Mile almost to Maple—some 2½ miles. My quick survey showed three-fourths had only a single passenger.

Salci tells me Atlanta's expanding bus system has resulted in 17,000 fewer cars on local freeways during peak hours.

Adventures of a flying tour leader

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

It's very hard to believe, but statistics show that only 18.3 per cent of all Americans have ever flown in an airplane.

Freddie Laker, the British promoter, is trying to change all this by offering flights from New York to London for $136.

While men in certain types of businesses are flying every day, the cost of flying a family to a vacation hideaway has discouraged a lot of people. It really shouldn't, because packages are available that can make it cheaper to take the family to Europe than some of the most attractive places in the United States.

Part of the problem is the bewildering number of fares: Most people are unaware of the true bargains in the world of travel.

WITH THE NEW Advance Booking Charters (ABC), people can fly the regularly scheduled airlines at low rates without belonging to any large groups, providing they know the rules.

In the old days, the only way to get a packaged low rate was to belong to an affinity group—an organization formed for a reason other than travel purposes that put travel packages together for its members.

Our papers used to have an affinity group that sponsored tours all over the world. My wife and I were tour leaders, and that made travel pretty exciting.

Our first trip was to the Orient. One problem with an American traveling in the Orient is the language. The signs are written in Oriental characters so you can't even try to translate them. Very few of us had taken Chinese or Japanese in school.

There were 30 persons in the group, and most were women. This is true of most tours because there are a lot of single women who like to travel but who don't like to travel by themselves.

THE MAIN JOB of a tour director is to count the baggage each time you move from place to place, collect passports and tickets every time you go through customs, and count heads every time you get on a bus, train or plane.

Our first flight took us from Detroit to Tokyo by way of Minneapolis, Portland and Anchorage. It took 23 hours.

Our first destination was Hong Kong, but the airline unloaded everyone in Tokyo and put them up in a hotel for eight hours before resuming the flight.

The next morning, as we re-boarded our plane, I counted heads, and two women were missing. Panic set in as I ran up and down, checking all the other planes in the airport. I found them sitting, talking quietly, on a plane headed for Singapore.

ANOTHER TIME and another trip had us in Madrid, Spain. At about 10 o'clock on a Saturday night, one tour member had his passport stolen at the bullfights. We were scheduled to leave for Rome at seven the next morning. You can't leave or enter countries normally without a passport.

The American Embassy was closed, but I finally tracked down the duty officer, who was having a dinner party at her apartment.

She told me what was needed for a new passport but said there was no way to get a new one issued before Monday. If the tour member didn't travel with us, his air fare would immediately jump about $700.

We finally got his picture taken in a night club, got a very understanding vice-counsel to meet us at the embassy after midnight and got everyone aboard the next morning.

Our experiences were fun and interesting, but the need for the affinity group for travel has passed, and so ended our tours.

Since travel is so broadening, it will be interesting to see how many people start using airlines now that the prices are a bargain.

Concert pianist

Dan's way: new career at 50

Outside a bright October sun weakly challenged a crisp northern breeze that sent russet leaves tumbling along roadways.

And at Pontiac's Silverdome, the Detroit Lions were on their way toward a 10-6 victory over the Green Bay Packers.

Inside the quaint front door, standing in the lobby of historic Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills, was Dan Burger, dressed in black formal attire, greeting friends.

It was just minutes before innkeeper John Anhut would appear before Dan Burger's friends. Burger, Anhut explained, was about to present a concert, and it was the Allen Park resident's intent to launch a piano concert career.

HIS SELECTIONS included the "Sonata Quasi Una Fantasia" and the Sonata No. 8 ("Pathetique"), both by Ludwig van Beethoven; a medley of George Gershwin tunes; Frederic Chopin's Nocturne in E flat; Sergei Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C sharp minor; and Debussy's "Clair de Lune."

If one understands that Rachmaninoff is Burger's favorite composer, one can understand how the 50-year-old Chrsyler employee attacked the 15½-foot-long Steinway grand piano.

With Beethoven and Rachmaninoff, Burger unleashed the passion that spurred him to sustain an interest in the piano that began 38 years earlier.

With Chopin and Debussy, he revealed a delicate tenderness that would have helped develop the nuances intended by Beethoven and Rachmaninoff.

As an encore, Burger presented a classicized version of the popular song "My Way."

FOR THE CONCERT, indeed, was symbolic of the pianist's doing it his way. His style, the presentation of a piece he composed for his wife entitled "Barbara's Love Theme," and an excerpt from another Burger composition entitled "Germanatia" reflected his individuality.

For many, Sunday was the crisp awakening of fall, but for Dan Burger and his wife Barbara, it was the spring of a new career he hopes will bring him fame as a concert pianist.

He does not hide the fact. That is his goal. And for the rest of us who, when we pass a half-century, think fall is upon us, he is symbolic of spring.

Whether or not he succeeds as a concert pianist matters only to Burger at this point. What is significant is that he is doing it his way.

Easy $$ season

By W. W. EDGAR

In the mail the other day came one of the most surprising letters The Stroller ever has received during his long journey along the journalistic trail.

It was a letter from the J.L. Hudson Co. telling him he was being offered a "holiday money card" in the amount of $600 that could be used any time between now and Jan. 31. More than that, the letter stated that if he accepted, he wouldn't be billed until February of 1978.

Never had he heard of anything like this, especially from the J.L. Hudson Co., whose credit tag at one time was one of the highest marks of prestige a person could possess.

Now, of all things, it wasn't the solicitation of a credit card but the offering of $600 to be spent at any time during the holidays with an extra month's credit.

How times have changed!

WHEN THE Stroller came to Detroit from his little hometown in Pennsylvania some years ago, one of the first things he learned was that big, expensive automobiles or fancy clothes were not the sign that one belonged among the prestigious citizens of the city.

The real badge was a J.L. Hudson charge account. And one guarded the charge coin with his life. Unless someone interceded for you to obtain the coin, one would have to pass a test—obtain several sponsors, preferably bankers, and even a letter from the minister of your church before the coveted bit of metal would be issued.

Fortunately, The Stroller was honored with one after he was here only a short time. And here is how it happened.

As a memper of the Free Press sports department, he became friendly with a chap named Sam Levinvon, now long gone, who was in charge of the sporting goods department of the T.B. Rayl Hardware Store in the downtown area.

On a friendly visit to the store one day, Sam asked him if he had applied for a charge coin at J.L. Hudson's, adding, "They are very hard to get."

When The Stroller told him he had not applied, Sam suggested that he pick up some trinket in the hardware store that afternoon and charge it.

"Come in before the end of the month and pay for it," Sam said, "and that will make you one of our charge customers. Then, when you apply for a coin at Hudson's, they will ask you if you have credit at any other store. When you tell them you have one at T.B. Rayl, your request will be honored. You see, all the downtown stores work together."

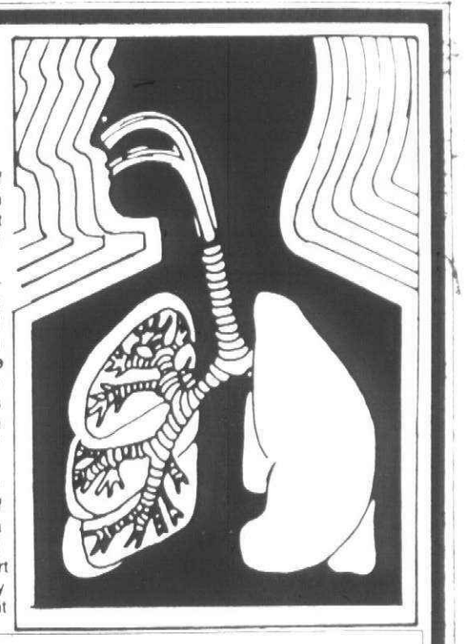

THAT'S EXACTLY what happened. And for years on end, that charge coin at Hudson's, along with the manner in which The Stroller got to join the prestigious group that possessed them, has been one of the favorite tales of his experience as a small town boy in a big city.

Along with the letter from Hudson's the other day came several others that proved how far the world has turned when it comes to doing business. There was a card from Montgomery Ward that offered an eight-piece kitchen set if the card were used during the holiday season. Another was from the Mobil Oil Co. with a large catalog of gifts that were reserved only for credit card holders.

It seems that during this flood of credit cards, there is a new one in the mail each day. And so great has the use of credit cards become that paying cash no longer places you in a select class of customers.

That was brought home to The Stroller several years ago during a visit to Sanibel Island in Florida. When he was ready to visit friends in other areas of the state, he applied at a car rental station for the use of an automobile.

The VIEW from 461 SOUTH MAIN

TODAY, OCT. 20, students at Plymouth Salem High School will recognize Will Carleton Day and thereby abide by the law of the state of Michigan.

They may well be the only students in the state to heed the much-ignored law which states every school must pay homage to poet laureate Carleton every Oct. 21. Friday is a holiday so the celebration at the high school was moved ahead a day.

Dwight Anderson and Sam Doss, English teachers at Salem, are the instigators behind the revival of Will Carleton Day. Anderson came up with the information about the old state law and Doss was a willing accomplice.

There will be posters throughout the building and a "Who was Will Carleton?" contest. Carleton's poem, "Paul's Run Off with the Show," will be broadcast over the school's public address system. They also are planning something for the CEP radio station.

by ELLIE GRAHAM

Will Carleton was born near Hudson, Mich. in 1845. He attended Hillsdale College and earned $4 a week teaching to help pay for his room and board. His father, trying to pay off the mortgage on the family home, could give him no financial aid.

It was while he was a student at Hillsdale that Carleton did most of his writing. The grand old tear-jerker, "Over the Hills to the Poorhouse," is probably the most famous of his works.

Carleton read his poems and spoke before literary societies. His fame spread and he was in great demand as a lecturer.

He became editor of the Detroit Tribune in 1870 but he was mainly a poet rather than a journalist. Two years later he gave up the Tribune and devoted all his time to lecturing. He was the Dickens of Michigan, telling the story of the hardships and life of his times in poetry.

Will Carleton died in 1912 and the state legislature, by law, made sure the poet laureate would not be forgotten.

Ask the question at dinner tonight. "Who was Will Carleton?" Tomorrow is (officially) his day.

CATHY FELDMAN, a flutist in the Plymouth Community Band, will perform with the Interlochen Arts Academy Band Saturday.

The concert will feature Bach's "Little Fugue," Wagner's "Lohengrin" and the "Washington Gray's" march. The band is directed by Dennis Johnson. Admission to the 8 p.m. concert in Corson Auditorium is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

THE PARTY BRIDGE group which begins play at 1 p.m. each Thursday in the Plymouth Cultural Center has had a visiting player. Esther Halliburton of Dallas, Texas, has been joining the group while in town visiting her daughter.

Recent winners were: Sept. 29, Floyd Swartz and Cele Hayhurst; Oct. 6, Huber Lear and Ann Hickman; and Oct. 13, John Drewniak and Ruth Sherman.

TABLE AND BOOTH space is available to artists and craftsmen for the Christmas Craft Bazaar sponsored by the Walker-Sheldon School PTA.

Booth space can be reserved by calling the school, PA 1-9130, or PTA president Judy Blades, 397-2829. The bazaar is from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Nov. 19, in the school at 39932 Michigan Avenue at Hannon.

Booth rentals are $15 and refreshments will be available the day of the bazaar.

OUR FAVORITE rockhound, Martha Davis, took a first place prize for her entry in the recent Detroit Rock Show.

THERE'S A BIG barrel in the lobby at Smith Elementary School and students are hoping to fill it with Campbell Soups labels.

Last year's collection of the labels resulted in the addition of valuable visual aid materials to the school.

Nancy Hayes says, "The barrel is right by the office and we're hoping to collect tons of labels."

ONE OF THE COMMUNITY services provided by the Youth Center on Main Street is a meeting place for the Plymouth Paw Prints 4H Club. The space is used for the members dog training classes.

Carol Lamb, Paw Prints trainer, presented a check to the center to show the club's gratitude. Anyone interested in dogs, their training and how local groups can work together to produce excellent results, will be welcomed to the 8 p.m. Wednesday meetings.

Following the Oct. 26 meeting, the 4H Club members will go over to the Plymouth Credit Union on Harvey Street for an award presentation and Halloween party. Child and dog costume teams are being planned for the party.

The 4H Club includes residents of the Plymouth-Canton-Northville areas.

40th reunion for PHS grads

Members of the Plymouth High School class of 1937 gathered last weekend for their 40th class reunion in the new banquet rooms of the Plymouth Elks Club. The smorgasbord banquet was followed by dancing to a live band.

The class had distinguished itself by being the first in Plymouth High School history to top the 100 mark. There were 101 graduates and about 60, grads and spouses, attended the reunion.

The class has met every five years. Thanks to two of the classmates, Bill Fehlig and his wife, the former Virginia Cline, up-to-date records have been maintained. Virginia Fehlig has been keeper of the file and at each reunion the grads are reminded to send any change of address information to Fehlig Real Estate in Plymouth.

THOSE WHO PLANNED the party were Bob and June Hudson, George and Norma Kenyon, George Bakhaus and the Fehligs. Jean Horvath was responsible for the table decorations.

Bob Wilkie, who attended the party with his wife, Lucille, was master of ceremonies.

There were letters from those who were unable to attend and everyone had an opportunity to say a few words about themselves and their families.

Marvin and Norma Jean Sackett came from Indian River for the reunion. Eldon (Bud) Bakewell and his wife Dorothy, both members of the class, came from Harrison. Patricia Cassady Davis came from New Jersey.

The former Dorothy Hauk received a special ovation when she announced that she had 17 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. She now lives in Brighton. The former Ireta McLeod came from California and Pete Moore from Albuquerque, N.M. The former Mary Holsworth came from Dallas, Texas.

Dr. and Mrs. Louie Jennings of New Jersey were there. As the veterinarian explained his recent experiments and the before and after showers involved, he added, "I may not be the smartest veterinarian in the country, but I know I'm the cleanest."

Among the others who attended were Lloyd and Alice Shariand of Plymouth Township. Ruth Ann and Glen Angell of Northville, Ida and Jim Nairn, and Madeline Hartford of Plymouth.

PRINCIPAL OF PHS was Claude Dykhouse 40 years ago. Many of the classmates served in World War II and Passage-Gayde Post of the American Legion was named after one of them—Don Passage, a casualty of the war.

In discussing plans for the next reunion, they decided to meet earlier in the year. They agreed to have their 45th anniversary party during Fall Festival weekend.

So they all marked their datebooks for the weekend after Labor Day, 1982.

Pat Robinson, Antje Wolfe and Nancy Zelek prepare for the annual plant sale.

Pilgrim Garden Club has weekend boutique

Fresh green houseplants, sachets, potpourris, and dried arrangements that preserve a touch of summer sunshine for the winter months will be on sale this weekend at the Pilgrim Garden Club Plant Boutique.

The sale in the Edison Mall, Main at Ann Arbor Trail, will be open from 6-9 p.m., Friday. Saturday hours are 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The dried materials were gathered early in the mornings from late spring to fall. To dry, they were hung upside down in a cool place.

Nancy Zelek chaired the committee which collected dock, yarrow, grasses, pine cones, seed pods, stem statice, goldenrod, cattails, white asters and others. Some of the natural materials were made into arrangements during fall workshops. Antique boxes, small tea boxes and baskets were used as containers for the arrangements.

DIANNE BODELL and Jan Dersey will be making special order arrangements during the boutique.

For those persons who wish to make their own, there will be plenty of bunches from which to choose.

Lynn Deahl, chairperson of the annual plant boutique, said there will be a good supply of macrame hangers. Each member of the club contributed two to the sale.

"They are all sizes and colors," said Mrs. Deahl.

Spice boards were made last spring for the fall mart. Various spices were arranged on a wooden bread board to be used as kitchen decorations.

Among the gift items created by Pat Robinson, Nancy Chapman, Linda Olson and Jan Dersey are sachets and potpourris, made of various fabrics, laces and satin ribbons.

The materials encase dried rose petals mixed with spices, herbs, musk oil and rose oil. The potpourris were placed in small glass jars and decorated with ribbons and lace.

MORE THAN 200 plants of at least 30 varieties will be on sale. Each member grew 10 or more plants from cuttings for the boutique.

All plants are in four-inch pots. "And they are healthy," said Sharon Rucinski who chaired the project. "There will be a variety of violets, bridal veil, aluminum plants, jade, spider plants, creeping charlie, ivy, strawberry begonia, aloe, ferns, and many more."

Goldenrod wreaths and lavender-herb wreaths also will be available.

A portion of the sale proceeds will be donated to the American Land Trust which is involved in saving natural areas that shelter endangered species. The trust also preserves natural features of the land that best illustrates undisturbed, pre-colonial America.

Part of the money will be spent on landscaping the back entrance of Dunning Hough Library next spring.

Sue Byerly is assistant chairperson of the boutique. Others who headed committees were Debbie Slater and Antje Wolfe, macrame hangers; Donna Surrach, schedule; Antje Wolfe, spice boards; Pat Saelzler, site; and Nancy Chapman, publicity.

Plants, sachets, potpourris, and permanent arrangements will be on sale at Pilgrim Garden Club's weekend boutiques.

Fall rummage sale planned by UM women

The United Methodist Women will have its annual fall rummage sale Oct. 27 and 28 in First United Methodist Church of Plymouth, 45201 North Territorial, just west of Sheldon. The sale will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on both days.

The bake sale will be on Thursday only and a buck-a-bag sale will be 1-4 p.m. Friday.

The annual fall sale is one of two rummage sales held each year to raise money to help fulfill the UMW mission pledge, which supports world missions. The group pledges $3,000 each year and always has met its commitment.

At the end of the year, any amount over and above the pledge is donated to missions. This is referred to as the "extra mile of giving."

Items to be sold at the rummage sale include large and small appliances, furniture, household articles, dishes, books, records, as well as clothing in good condition. An old-fashioned Garland gas stove will be sold this year.

Anyone wishing to donate items should call the church office, 453-5280.

The UMW contributes to the Methodist Children's Home in Redford and retirement homes in Chelsea and Detroit. Camperships are provided to some children in the local church, allowing camping experience for those who cannot afford it on their own.

Money is raised by catering dinners and wedding receptions, and from personal pledges and a boutique in November.

Party planners

Four local branches of the Michigan division, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association are co-hostessing the state fall council meeting Oct. 26 which will attract members from 100 branches. Finalizing plans were (seated, from left) Mickey Janes of Trailwood; Holly Pedersen, president of Lake Pointe branch; Sharon Palise, president of Apple Run branch; Vivian Bradburn, first vice-president of Plymouth branch; and (standing) Polly Miller of Lake Pointe branch who is in charge of registration at the meeting. The women met in the home of Mrs. Bradburn who is chairing the event. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Merchants add zing to Friday evenings

Several merchants from the downtown Plymouth area got together to decide what could be done to add a little zest and interest to Friday evening shopping.

The fun will start Friday with the first Friday Night Frolic.

Anderson Music will move an electric organ to the Penniman Avenue Shops for a continuing shoppers' serenade. Customers will be able to make requests for their favorite tunes as they do their early holiday shopping.

An added festive touch will added by Larry Janes of the Gourmet Gallery. He will prepare and serve a sampling of hot hors d'oeuvres to shoppers.

Joan Gerigk of the Alphabet Gallery suggested that George Cooper of the Tick-Tock Time Shop don an ape suit for the occasion. Chained to the organ, the intention was to have a giant-sized organ grinder's monkey.

Future plans for the Friday Night Frolics include sales clerks in Halloween costumes on Oct. 28, and after Thanksgiving, a shuttle bus to transport shoppers from one downtown section to another.

Canton Chatter

By SHARON STARON 455-5322

The Canton Jaycees and Jaycettes have been busy getting their haunted house ready for its annual opening. New spooks and monsters appearing this year include the Fly and the Monster from the Deep.

The haunt opens tomorrow evening. The ghosts and goblins will remain in our town through Oct. 30 appearing nightly at 7 p.m. Admission is 75 cents.

This year's haunted palace is located on Ford Road west of Haggerty. If you can go through the house without at least one small scream or one skipped heartbeat, you'll be doing better then most of us.

While standing in line waiting for the walk through the spooky darkness, there will be a concession stand sponsored by the auxiliary featuring hot chocolate, carmel apples and other goodies. The proceeds from the concession will go toward Thankvgiving baskets for our senior citizens.

FRIENDLY MONSTER will be on Oct. 29 from 1-3 p.m. This is the time when children under seven can visit the haunted house with the lights on. All the spooks and monsters will be in full costume minus masks. This shows the young ones that everything is just pretend and nothing to be afraid of. Admission is free but the children must be accompanied by an adult.

The chairpersons for the haunted house this year are Frank and Chris Kresta. The chairwoman for the auxiliary's concession stand is Nicki Wilson.

The Jaycees held a membership night last week when 14 men joined the organization. The Jaycees meet the third Tuesday of the month at 8 p.m. in the The Roman Forum. Everyone is welcome to come to a meeting and find out what the Jaycees are all about. President this year is George Halloran.

The Jaycettes meet the first Tuesday of the month at 8 p.m. in Geneva Presbyterian Church on Sheldon Road. They meet in the gray house in front of the main church.

ON NOV. 5 the Jaycettes will hold a community copperware party from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Canton Recreation Hall on Michigan Ave. There will be a demonstrater and many hostesses to help in selections. Proceeds from the copper party will go to the Michigan Cancer Society. Chairwoman for this project is Linda Salapatek.

DON'T FORGET the newspaper drive for the cub scouts from Gallimore this Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon. A truck will be waiting at Gallimore on Sheldon Road for those wishing to drop off their donation of papers. Cubs will be collecting Saturday morning in Windsor Park, Sunflower, Pickwick and Carriage Hills subdivisions.

HULSING ELEMENTARY students are once again collecting labels from various Campbell products to receive audio-visual and playground equipment. Needed is the front portion of the labels from all sizes and [illegible]ties of Campbell soups, all Franco-American products, both pastas and gravies and all Campbell bean varieties. Labels can be brought to the school, located in Windsor Park on Fleet, and put in the container in the media center.

Holiday craft classes offered by PCAC

Five special holiday craft classes are being offered area residents by the Plymouth Community Arts Council during November.

All five classes, scheduled for 9 a.m. on consecutive Tuesdays beginning Nov. 1, can be taken for a total cost of $20 plus a small charge for kits. Classes will be in the PCAC offices over Wiltse's Community Pharmacy on Main Street, Plymouth.

According to Cheryl Ahlgren, PCAC craft chairwoman, classes are priced individually for those who prefer to take just one, but, "We hope to get people to take all the classes. There is a savings of $5 if all five are taken."

Nov. 1, Lynn Kramer will demonstrate macrame Christmas tree ornaments. The charge of $5 includes a kit. Sue Kokko will show how to make raffia dolls Nov. 8 for $5 and a $4 kit.

The counted thread Christmas ornament is the theme of Madonna Bird's class Nov. 15. The cost of the class is $5 plus $2.50 for the kit. Jo Krause will offer instruction in making quilted Christmas ornaments Nov. 22 for $4 and a $1.50 kit.

The final class Nov. 29 will feature the ribbon wreath. Sue Kokko will teach the class, which costs $6. An additional $3 will be charged for a kit and students must provide their own ribbon.

"Those interested in any or all of the classes can register by calling the PCAC office, 455-5260, from 9 a.m. until noon Monday through Thursday. Each class will be limited to 20 students. Additional information about the classes and required supplies will be given at time of registration.

Volunteer drivers needed by FISH and YMCA

Nancy Kauffman of FISH and Jean Campeau of the YMCA are in need of volunteer drivers. Although both organizations work closely, they serve the community in different ways.

FISH is sponsored and aided financially by 10 area churches. It provides 24-hour service seven days a week. Persons who volunteer to drive for FISH are on duty one day a month.

Calls to FISH are supposed to be of an emergency nature and they can provide transportation outside the Plymouth-Canton area.

The Plymouth-Canton-Northville Y is limited to serving the areas' senior citizens. Transportation cannot go beyond the boundaries of its three-community area.

The Y van picks up and delivers seniors to the nutrition lunch program at Tonquish Creek Manor, to doctor and dental appointments, to the store or to the hairdresser.

"I USED TO THINK a trip to a beauty salon was an unnecessary luxury," said Mrs. Compeau. "That was before I realized there was no way these people—stiffened by arthritis and rheumatism—could wash or properly comb and brush their own hair."

The Y service is from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. They ask that persons wishing transportation call two days in advance to schedule their transportation needs.

Seniors who need a ride to the doctor, post office, bank, drug store, supermarket or other shops can call the Y for transportation.

They provide personal and individual service and see to the safety of the person as they take care of their errands.

The Y has a new van purchased by the Plymouth Lions Club and assisted by donations from the Plymouth Woman's Club, the firefighters Metro Club, Soroptimists and Business and Professional Women's Club.

PERSONS volunteering to drive for FISH provide their own automobiles. For those who work five days a week, drivers are needed for weekends. They have to be on call just one day a month.

FISH drivers take persons to hospitals. FISH can provide child care in the home when parents are hospitalized.

A call to FISH can sometimes be better served by the Y or, in case of an accident, the local fire department ambulance.

It can refer persons in an emergency to the proper source of help.

Those who could spare one day a month as a volunteer FISH driver should call Nancy Kauffman, chairperson of the organization, at 453-1110.

Those who wish to become a volunteer driver for the Y's senior citizen program can call Jean Campeau at the Y, 453-2968.

Drivers can volunteer for both organizations—they work hand-in-hand.

Francisco-Haslam

Mrs. and Mrs. Anthony R. Francisco of Kentwood, formerly of Livonia, announce the engagement of their daughter Debra Suzanne to Michael William Haslam of Plymouth Township, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haslam of Utica, formerly of Redford Township.

The bride-elect is a 1972 graduate of Stevenson High School and is employed in Grand Rapids. Her fiance is a 1971 graduate of Thurston High School and is employed by Coon Brothers AMC, Inc., in Detroit.

They will xchange wedding vows May 5 in St. Valentine Catholic Church, Redford Township.

BASIC THEMES IN THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT
It is universally felt that the chief goal of man is to find happiness and to enjoy it as extensively and as permanently as possible. There is therefore a frantic search after happiness. The search takes many forms. Often it is the motivating factor for the drudgery of working eight or ten hours a day. A whole life may be spent accumulating wealth for the golden years. However, it subtly eludes us. It is beyond our grasp.
We need two basic elements to find true happiness. We need to know what is is, and we need to know where it is to be found. What is happiness? Fundamentally, it is the gift of God. It is something he must provide else what we have is mere illusion. In the sermon on the mount Jesus tells us that God has in fact provided happiness for his creatures. He made us with all our capacities, with all our mystery. He can make us fully happy in body and spirit.
Where is happiness to be found? Jesus tells us. Since God is the one who provides it, then we must go to him to find it. It is found in the way of obedience to God's law.
Do you desire the happiness (in the sermon, the blessedness) granted by the Creator? Then saturate your thinking, feeling, and doing with the message of this sermon of Christ. The blessed life is accessible. It is the life lived after the pattern outlined in this text of scripture (Matt. 5-7). You begin when you recognize your unworthiness and in the way of striving to obey Christ as Lord and King you find your blessedness.

500-member church plans move to area

By MARGARET MILLER

A Detroit church with a current membership of 500 is planning to relocate in Livonia on a 60-acre site on the north side of Seven Mile between I-275 and Haggerty.

Subject to approval, first by the Livonia Board of Zoning and then by the city commission, the Detroit First Church of the Nazarene plans to build a church that would eventually seat 2,900 worshippers, and a senior citizens' housing complex which would total 100 to 150 apartments in the coming year.

Pastor Darrell Luther is looking forward to re-establishing his church work in the northwest suburban area. (Staff photo by Bob Woodring)

The first phase of building, if the Rev. Darrell E. Luther, senior pastor, can bring a dream to fruition, also will include a Tower of Hope, visible from the adjoining highway and roadway and house a chapel and counseling offices.

Until the facilities are built, the congregation, which has purchased the Livonia tract and has already sold its present home on Fenkell in Detroit, is scheduled to rent Stevenson High School for Sunday worship and church school and Wednesday night services.

Pastor Luther has had one meeting with the zoning board and another session is scheduled Oct. 25. He said he had a verbal agreement n the use of Stevenson beginning Nov. 1.

THE NAZARENE church, the pastor said, wants to offer to the Livonia community some new services as it relocates here.

"The senior citizen complex will be non-sectarian," he said, "and open to those who need this kind of living. We know more such housing is needed and there will be more and more persons requiring it as time goes on."

No high-rise building for seniors is planned; the pastor pointed out that "we have plenty of room and we will aim for the homey atmosphere of one- and two-story units."

Also part of the plan for the senior citizen complex is day care for older persons.

"We plan to have a bus that will pick up older persons who want to spend a day in our project," Pastor Luther said. "Those who come will be able to mingle with the residents and participate in the activities we will have in operation—films, games, putt-putt golf, that kind of thing."

The church also plans to house a children's day-care center, also open to all, and the option of coming into contact with the children there will be open to the older people.

PLANS FOR development of the 60 acres also should be of value to the Livonia area, said the pastor.

"There is a small lake on the property," he pointed out, "and we plan to have a park surrounding it with picnic areas and ball fields.

"These will be open to the public, but by request so that we can keep some control."

Pastor Luther said the church would be willing to sell some of its frontage along Seven Mile for offices.

The plan, if municipal approval is forthcoming, is to break ground in April and occupy the new premises by April of 1979.

H.G. Shane, assistant planning director for the city, indicated the zoning board wanted to check carefully on sewer capacity, but said he thought approval would be granted eventually.

THE LIVONIA site was chosen, Pastor Luther said, after the Detroit congregation had made the decision that it would need more room and had finally decided not to use property purchased earlier at I-696 and Telegraph.

"The Livonia property," he said, "has all the elements I consider necessary to provide church growth—availability, accessability, ample parking room and association with a growing residential community.

"The research I have done indicates that by the early 1980s there will be some 700,000 people living within a 10-mile radius of our new church home, an area that includes parts of Farmington, Farmington Hills, Northville, Plymouth and Canton as well as Livonia."

He added that one of the best features of the new property was the fact that the adjacent expressway means people can come easily from a fairly long distance, but their converging will not cause traffic problems in this area.

Members of the Detroit church now come from as far away as Grosse Ile and Flat Rock, he said, and their travels to the new location will take less time.

"We will have our focus in Livonia," the pastor said, "but our congregation is one that draws from all over the metropolitan area. Many residents of the western suburbs already are involved in Concert Ministries, a musical portion of our church program."

The Detroit church has been sold to the Greater Beeneezer Missionary Baptist Church, currently located at 12000 Grand River.

PASTOR LUTHER came less than three years ago to the Detroit church that was established more than 50 years ago and now is making its fourth move.

A graduate of Olivet Nazarene College in Kankakee, Ill., he has a BA in philosophy and social studies. He later earned a master's degree in divinity from the Nazarene Theological Seminary at Kansas City, Mo., where he majored in New Testament and pastoral counseling.

The aim of his church, in the new location as well as the old, he said is to become "the most active living center of New Testament influence in metropolitan Detroit."

"I define success as the progress we make in the realization of a worthy ideal," he added, "and we feel it is important to meet people where they are and fill all their needs, physical, emotional and spiritual.

"That is what Jesus did in all his ministry, and in my opinion the church that looks only to the spiritual is not performing a full ministry."

This is an aerial view of the property at Seven Mile and I-275 in Livonia where the Detroit First Church of the Nazarene plans to build a new church and senior citizens' complex.

REV. PHILOTHEOS ZIKAS

REV. and MRS. HAROLD CHEI

2 Missionaries to visit Mt. Hope

Two missionaries, the Rev. Philotheos Zikas from Greece and the Rev. Harold Chei from Hong Kong, will be guest speakers at a missionary conference Oct. 23-30 in Mt. Hope Congregational Church, 30330 Schoolcraft in Livonia.

Rev. Chei and Pastor Zikas will speak on the Bible from 7-9 p.m., on Saturday, Oct. 29. Earlier that day, at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. there will be informal coffee hours at members homes spotlighting all the guest speakers.

Al Kuhnle, a guest speaker from the Voice of Christian Youth in Detroit, will start the conference off at 10 a.m., during the Sunday service Oct. 23.

Pastor Zikas and Dr. Vincent Rambo, from Philadelphia, will speak from 7-8 p.m. on Oct. 27 at the church.

Jeanne Nuechterlein from Hope Alive Happenings, Ft. Wayne, Ind., at 6:30 p.m. on Oct. 28. Dr. Rambo, Julius Dodson and the two missionaries will also make a few remarks.

Dr. Rambo will address the congregation on the final day at 10 p.m. on Oct. 30. That evening from 6:30 to 8 p.m., David Forbes and Julius Dodson will speak.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the church at 425-7280, between 9 a.m. and 12 p.m. any day.

New life plans Bible course

A course in Bible training is offered by the New Life Chrisitan Academy, a division of the Apostolic Church, 7-9 p.m., each Tuesday for those persons interested in studying the Bible.

The course, Christian Training I, II, and III, is on the level of a three-year Bible college course and is open to persons over 15 years of age.

In its entirety, the class runs concurrently with the school year for three years and costs $10 to enroll with a cost of $5 per month.

To apply or for more information write the New Life Christian Academy, a division of the Apostolic Church, P.O. Box 19017, Detroit, Mich. 48219.

Davisburg plans antique market

The Davisburg Antiques Market, held in the Springfield-Oaks County Park Building, 12451 Andersonville Road in Davisburg, will be held twice more this year, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., on Oct. 23 and Nov. 27.

Admission and parking are free. For additional information or directions call Betty Long, 375-0397.

Church Bulletin

LIVONIA BAPTIST CHURCH, 32940 Schoolcraft, will hold a Family Life conference Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 22 and 23. The featured speaker and conference leader will be the Rev. Alfred Lackey, associate pastor of Calvary Baptist Church of Plymouth.

Lackey is psychotherapist at the Fieldbrook unit of Northville State Hospital. He also conducts a private counseling ministry as an extension of the church and holds many family life conferences.

At the 6:30 p.m. supper meeting on Saturday, Lackey will deal with the theme, "Teens and Their Families." There will be a youth swapping program for the weekend among church families.

During the Sunday school hour at 9:45 a.m., Lackey will discuss homes with one Christian parent and single parents who rear children. At 11 a.m., he will speak on "The Miracles of Your Life."

"The Great Search" will be the theme of the 6 p.m. Sunday Training Union session when Lackey will explore the husband-wife relationship as the key to successful homemaking.

His final message will be heard at 7 p.m., when he will preach on the Christian family in contemporary society. The meetings are open to the public.

PLYMOUTH CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE, 41550 E. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, will hold a spiritual life crusade through Oct. 23. Services will be held nightly at 7:30 p.m., with Sunday services scheduled at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Dr. John L. Knight will be the evangelist for these services. A native of Texas, he was elected superintendent of the Florida district in 1946 and served in that capacity until he became secretary for the department of evangelism in 1968. He retired from this position in 1975.

Special music for the crusade will be provided by Seeds of Faith, and Faith on Action trios, Trust Unlimited, Evangel Choir, Faith Singers and the children's choir.

CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY CHURCH, 41355 Six Mile, Novi Township, will hear a talk Sunday, Oct. 23 by the Rev. Frank Lavender of London, England, who will speak during both the morning and evening services. He also will speak Monday-Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Lavender is pastor of Elim Pentecostal Church and holds the office of district superintendent of the South London Presbytery of the Elim Pentecostal Churches.

He has participated in evangelistic crusades, Bible teaching and prophetic conferences and local pastoral ministries.

UNITED ASSEMBLY OF GOD, 42021 E. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, will host Jim Loving at 11 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 23, in a musical concert of praise and worship. The singer, who has recorded 16 albums, is known for his interpretations of old and new sacred music. His latest album is titled "Blessed Again," and features vocal background by the Goodtime Singers, of which he was a member for 13 years before branching out on his own.

LIVONIA CHRISTIAN CHURCH, 36075 Seven Mile, will celebrate youth week from Oct. 23-30 during which those in grades seven through 12 will lead the 11 a.m. Sunday services.

The theme for the morning is "Do You See What I see and Do You Hear What I Hear?"

Those participating are John Rickard, Cathy Schnarr, John Grisdale, Larry Jo Grimes, Betsy Zimmerman, Dawn Winters and Robin Rickard. Also involved are Sue Grisdale, Philip Keathlay, Steve Zimmerman, Tony Groce, Ann Groce, Kerry Pearle and Kathy Pearce.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF PLYMOUTH, 45000 N. Territorial, will have as its guest speaker Sunday, Oct. 23, the Rev. William Bowman, executive minister of the American Baptist Churches of Michigan.

The 11 a.m. morning workshop will be followed by a potluck dinner in the Fellowship hall at 1 p.m. and an afternoon service of song and testimony.

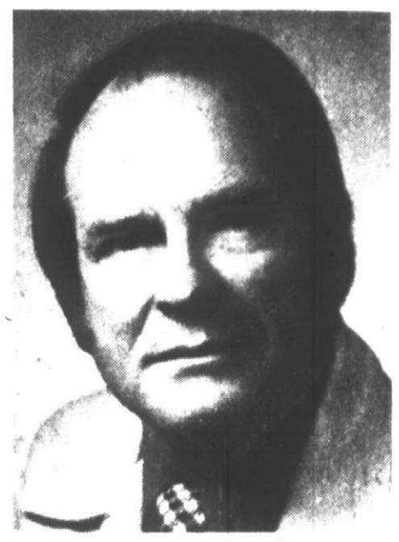

ROSEDALE GARDENS PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, 9601 Hubbard, Livonia, will present a concert by soprano Helen Thomas at 8 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 23.

Mrs. Thomas has been involved in church music, musical theater and concert work, and holds a degree in music from Ohio University. She teaches music in the Dearborn school district.

Her program will include operatic arias by Puccini, the "Jewel Song" from "Faust," by Gounod, and songs by Brahms, Debussy, Mahler and Handel.

The singer will be accompanied by Shirley Harden, director of music, who will conduct the final work. Accompanists for the Verdi selection will be Lowell Everson and John Gouwens.

The concert is free and the public is invited.

REV. ALFRED LACKEY

How to submit church news

Information for the church section of The Observer, published each Thursday, should be submitted in writing to Margaret Miller, church editor, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150, by Monday in the week when the notice is to appear.

Notices should be typed or written clearly and should include a telephone number for checking during business hours. Pictures to accompany news items may be submitted for consideration.

Requests for pictures to be taken by Observer staff photographers or suggestions for coverage of church activities or leaders should be made two weeks before desired publication. Call Mrs. Miller at 261-8600, ext. 304.

Getting settled made simple.

New-town dilemmas fade after a WELCOME WAGON call.

As your Hostess, it's my job to help you make the most of your new neighborhood. Our shopping areas. Community opportunities. Special attractions. Lots of facts to save you time and money. Plus a basket of gifts for your family. I'll be listening for your call.

'Fat Friend:' A review

By ANN SHAW
Special writer

The Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford is off to a good start with the Charles Lawrence comedy, "My Fat Friend."

It's the witty English story of a dandy boarder (who prefers other dandies) in the flat of an overweight gal whose only dowry is a rare book store.

Chief cook and resident writer in their close but clashing lives is a young Scot who has come to England to write his first novel.

CAROLE McNULTY, a Livonia resident, is an experienced actress and is repeating a lead comedy role for the guild. She plays poor, fat Vicki with a sense of weight and loss.

Promising actor Tom Hinks plays Henry, her calorie director and boarder—a domineering, ring-on-every-finger sort who "pokes, prods and pinches" at her as long as he can.

While these two survive on discordant but funny jabs at each other, James Anderson, the writer (played by the able Tony McDonnell), cooks, writes and apologizes for everything from saying hello to saying good-bye.

The suitor, who interrupts and alters this trio's tryst, is an unpredicatble bookworm who prospects oil in Persia (a.k.a. Iran). Tom, the boyfriend, is played by Luther Gillespie.

"My Fat Friend"is a funny, fast-track adult comedy. Hopefully, this weekend's performance—if the tempo is kept up, as intended—will be hilarious.

Performances are scheduled for Oct. 21, 22, 23 and 28. Regular curtain time is 8:30 p.m. and 7:30 on Sunday. For ticket information and reservations call Shirley Hulet at 421-3124.

Simon's 'Good Doctor:' A preview

THE GOOD DOCTOR, is the season's opener for the Wayne-Westland Civic Theater.

"Doctor," written by Neil Simon, is a funny, gentle tale of human emotion reminiscent of the stories of famous Russian writer Anton Chechov.

Says director Phil Milan, a Westland resident: "The Good Doctor will be the best show of the season. Many people from all over are doing their part so others will thoroughly be entertained. I hope people come and share in our experience."

"The Good Doctor" will be presented Oct. 28 and 29at 8 p.m. in the John Glenn Auditorium. Season tickets are available, as are regular tickets. For more information, call 699-2276.

Chamber musicians dazzle audiences

By TIM RICHARD

Anyone who thinks chamber musicians are poker-faced tranquilizers hasn't met the exuberant young blades of the New World String Quartet.

Ranging in age from 25 to 31, the vibrant ensemble did more than entertain or even dazzle three Plymouth and Livonia audiences last weekend. If you can imagine four string players in tuxes developing a cult, you have the picture.

Plymouth Symphony Conductor Wayne Dunlap brought them in to open Sunday's first concert of the 32nd season, but one of the musicians noted they were available for a whole weekend, thanks to the Michigan Council for the Arts, so why not wing a couple more shows?

NO AUDITORIUM was open on such short notice, so Rev. Jeff Goldsmith, a symphony society board member, set them up Friday evening in his Geneva United Presbyterian Church.

With grins and bows they brought out a dozen zinging jokes in Haydn's opus 77 No. 1 quartet. First violinist Yosef Yankelev, who introudces the music, fondly refers to the musical giant Franz Josef Haydn as "Papa," just as if the 18th century composer were sitting in the third row.

It was as well they didn't find an auditorium; the Geneva church sanctuary is the size of room chamber music was written for.

The modern composer on that program was Niklos Rozsa, and if his string quartet isn't exactly a household word, well, you must have heard his musical scores in the Hollywood versions of "The Ten Commandments," "Quo Vadis" and the "Thief from Baghdad." The 1950 quartet full of movie-style fadeouts and dramatic punctuations; the dedication, Yankelev tells us, is to Peter Ustinov.

The emotionaly exhausting one was the Beethoven opus 127, one of the "late" quartets. Showmanship in a string quartet? The Titan gave performers that kind of material, and the New World String Quartet knew it.

SATURDAY there was a performance for the youngsters in the Livonia Youth Symphony, topped off with one of the rags of Scott Joplin.

Mere theatrics? Kid stuff? Not on your life. Joplin wrote for chamber-sized ensembles and his works are some of the most skillfully crafted of this century, as well as being hummable toe-tappers.

Sunday was the big show—the performance with the Plymouth Symphony strings, augmented by the strings from the senior Livonia Youth Symphony and the Plymouth and Livonia Stevenson Orchestras, in Ralph Vaughan Williams' "Fantasia on a Theme by Thomas Tallis."

Then a dose of Dvorak (an often-overlooked contributor to the chamber repertoire) and the Haydn again. Finally, violist George Woshakiwsky as soloist, in Berlioz's "Harold in Italy," reminding us that the viola can do more than make smooth hums in the background.

A RECENT survey of American young folks revealed that of their 14 favorite musical persons or groups, 13 were rock performers of the '60s and '70s and the 14th was Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

The moral is that there's popular hope for groups like the New World String Quartet, whose members have been working together for four years and who have won rave reviews for their Lincoln Center performance.

Yankelev, the one with the delicious wit, has lived in Lithuania and Israel and has studied at Juilliard School.

William Patterson, the Michigan-born second violinist with the mellow sound, is an Interlochen and University of Michigan product, and he is currently in residence with the symphony in Grand Rapids, where the group is headquartered.

Violist Woshakiwsky attended Juilliard and has performed out of Philadelphia and with the White House Quartet.

Cellist Ross Harbaugh was born in Minnesota and has soloed with the symphonies of Toledo, Atlanta and Cincinnati.

Cut-ups in tuxes? Hearing is believing.

Rocks' Sub-8 chances look slim

RU dumps Salem cagers again

By ANDY MELIN

In front of a large, enthusiastic crowd, the Plymouth Salem girls' varsity basketball squad fell to Redford Union, 68-60, last Tuesday night at the Redford gym.

The Suburban Eight League encounter was a key game in the quest for the league title.

Redford Union came into the game undefeated and had handed Salem its only loss earlier this year.

Trailing 32-26 at halftime, Redford Unions' Betty Owens sparked a Panther third-quarter explosion that led to a devastating shooting spree.

Owens, a reserve, came into the game in the second quarter, and her phenominal shooting was the key to the Redford Union victory. She finished with 20 points for the night.

At the end of three periods of play, the Panthers led by five, 46-41.

The fourth quarter was dominated by Redford Union, but the Rocks wouldn't go down without a fight, as they made numerous comebacks.

In that last period, Salem was plagued by turnovers and poor shooting, while the Panthers couldn't miss a shot.

With the score deadlocked, 13-13, at the end of the first stanza, Salem's shooting attack started to warm up, and the Rocks took advantage of numerous Panther turnovers.

At one point in that second quarter, Salem held a 32-14 lead. But in the last few minutes before halftime, the Rocks started making mistakes. Redford Union, led by Owens, scored 12 straight unanswered points to close the gap at intermission.

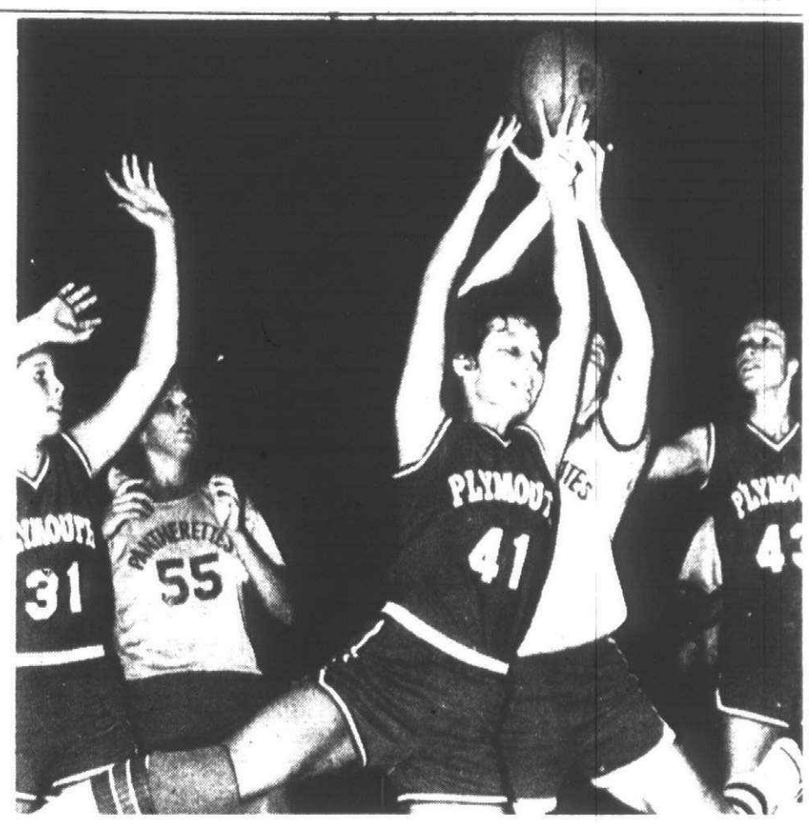

"We did a lot of things well," said a disappointed Salem coach Debbie Hatcher. "We moved well offensively, and played good defense." Hatcher also added, "But defensively we made more errors than usual."

Captain Kathy Dillon and Debbie Pitera led the Rock scoring attack with 18 points each. Dillon and Pitera also added 11 rebounds apiece.

Erin Moore contributed seven points and 13 rebounds to Salem's effort.

The Rocks shot 35 per cent from the floor and 47 per cent from the free throw line.

Redford Union's Sue Pastula and Micki McLalin followed Owens with 12 points each.

Gridders to face old football rivals

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

The seventh weekend of the prep football season will produce a renewal of longtime rivalries for Plymouth teams. And it also raises questions whether one local squad can maintain a season-long winning streak while the other tries to end a season-long losing streak.

Both Plymouth squads hit the road this Friday night for league clashes, as the Salem Rocks visit Livonia Bentley at 7:30 p.m. and the Canton Chiefs travel to Northville for an 8 p.m. meeting.

TOM MOSHIMER'S Salem gridders come off yet another impressive showing with Saturday night's 21-0 shutout of Dearborn Edsel Ford.

The victory raised the Rocks' to fourth place in the Detroit News state rankings. Salem dropped also ranked seventh by the Associated Press.

Looking at the playoff point standings, which qualifies a team for the state playoffs, Salem dropped to fourth in the state and second in the region with a 101.33 average total.

The Rocks were first in the state last week in the playoff point race, but fell because some of their earlier opponents failed to win.

(The playoff point system is based on the total number of victories accumulated by previous opponents).

But the Rocks are still guaranteed of the playoff berth if they score a perfect 9-0 record, because they would pick up a lot of points in the final two weeks by beating Dearborn and Farmington Harrison.

Aside from the playoffs, Salem's first goal is the Suburban Eight League championship and a weak 2-4 Bentley team is next in line.

If the Rocks win this game they are assured of at least a tie for the crown.

Salem has dominated this ancient rivalry in recent years and Moshimer hopes it stays that way Friday night.

Bentley, which has only beaten lowly Belleville and Plymouth Canton, has a decent offense but has had trouble on defense and the specialty teams.

Kevin Schneider, Bentley's all-Sub-8 quarterback as a junior last year, has lost his job to Matt McCoy. McCoy throws the ball well and could keep Salem on its toes.

Moshimer said he wants to "come out throwing" the ball against Bentley in hopes of improving his already devastating wishbone attack.

"We would like to have a good game against Bentley. We want to improve

Rock netters eye state meet

The winning fortunes of the Plymouth Salem girls tennis team continued last weekend when the Rock netters qualified for the state finials with a second-place finish in regional competition held at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

As expected, Ann Arbor Pioneer High School was the runaway victor, winning four of the seven first-place medals enroute to a 24-point team total.

Salem sent three girls to the finals and three more to the semifinals for its 15-point showing.

Ann Arbor Huron and Jackson Parkside tied for third place with 12 points. Plymouth Canton won two matches for its 11th place finish in a field of 15 teams.

According to the state rules, the top two teams in each of the nine Class "A" regions qualify for state competition in Kalamazoo this weekend.

The Rocks will join their Sub-8 triwinners in the state finals since Trenton and Dearborn were easy victors in their respective regionals.

ROCK FIRST singles player Becky Crespo lived up to her second-seed placement, finishing as a regional runner up.

The junior Crespo earned three team points for the Rocks before losing to third-seeded Keven Mosley from Parkside. Mosley earler suprised first seed Larisa Cummings from Pioneer to gain the final berth.

Rock sophomore sensation Kathy Horton suffered her first setback of the season at third singles, finishing second to Pioneer's Susan Kim in split sets. Horton was undefeated in 13 matches before falling to the regional first seed.

Freshman Besty Moon continued to sparkle with her fourth singles play, losing in the finals to Pioneer's Carol Johnson.

Second singles Courtney Warrick recorded two points for the Rocks before losing in the semifinals.

In doubles competition, Salem's second and third combinations each advanced to the semifinals before losing.

Second doubles Wendy Webb and Sandy Bozimowski, and third doubles Renee Braun and Clarisse Hartnett combined for the four team points.

The only position the Rocks didn't receive points from was at first doubles where Laura and Sandra Hathaway lost in the first round to the only other sister doubles team in the regional, Marianne and Cathy Murray of Howell.

The Rocks' supreme strength at the singles position accounted for 11 of the 15 points.

"But, again, it was a total team effort," Salem coach Jan Lawson pointed out. "Without the doubles points we wouldn't be going to Kalamazoo."

Canton's comeback rips East

The Plymouth Canton girls' basketball team overcame a 9-4 first quarter defecit to defeat Garden City East 35-24 for its 11th straight victory in non-league action Tuesday night.

The undefeated Chiefs totally dominated the Panthers throughout the second half with a 27-9 scoring advantage.

East, an area power in the Northwest Suburban League, jumped to a 9-0 lead in the first quarter. Canton didn't score its first basket until just 14 seconds were left in the stanza.

East, now 7-2 overall, maintained the seven-point margin at halftime, 15-8, before the Chiefs began to turn the tables.

The direction the game turned Canton's way early in the third period as the Chiefs broke loose from the Panthers' slow pace offense.

Key steals by guards Jill Peterson and Laura Butler, plus an offensive-rebound basket by Sue Rekuc, led to six fast break points which put Canton ahead for good 20-19 with 43 seconds left in the quarter.

Canton breezed from that point, outscoring East 15-5 in the final period.

Kelly Heaton led all Canton scorers with 10 points, eight in the second half. Kathy Sochacki and Evie Pasek added six points each.

Jane Sielski of East led all scorers with 12 points.

The Plymouth Canton junior varsity team won its 10th game in 11 outings, crunching the Panther JV 54-19.

Salem tankers sink Northville

By MICHAEL BLEDSOE

Using both individual strength and the team depth, the Plymouth Salem girls swimmers won against a strong Northville team, 96-75.

"We had to swim pretty well for this one," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "They're team was good and it impressed me, but out team impressed me even more."

The foursome of Jill McCann, Collette Cabadas, Madeline Lakatos, and Sue Evans placed first in the 200-yard medley relay with an effort of 2:08.5. Marion Stanwood placed first in the 200-yard freestyle. Sue Stanwood cam in first in the 200-yard individual medley with a timing of 2:28. Sarah Stanwood placed second in the 50-yard freestyle Amy McClumpha finished first in diving with a 187.4 point total.

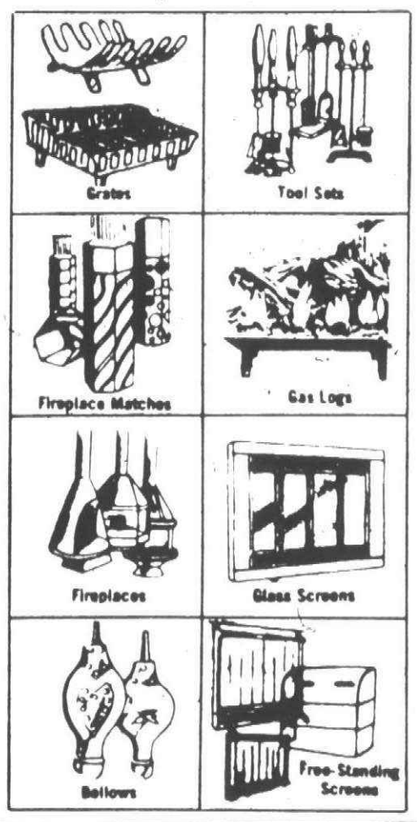

"They had some excellent individuals on their team, but our team had the depth," the Salem coach said.

Sue Stanwood placed second in the butterfly with an effort of 1:09.5. Sarah Stanwood finished second in the 100-yard freestyle with a clocking of :57.7 seconds.

Marion Stanwood came in second for the first time in any dual meet swimming the 500-yard freestyle. Jill McCann placed second in the 100-yard backstroke. Collette Cabadas placed second int he 100-yard breaststroke. The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Sue Stanwood, Marion Stanwood, Sarah Stanwood, and Sharon Ross placed first with a 4:02.4 timing.

Lack of pride hurts Canton football

Doc's Corner

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

"And when the one great scorer comes to write against your name, he writes not whether you win or lose but how you played the game."—Grantland Rice.

This quotation expresses the philosophy I've tried to stress in my five years of reporting high school sports in the Plymouth-Canton community.

Winning isn't everything at the prep level.

But if you were one of the unfortunate souls (like me) who witnessed last Friday night's 29-point Plymouth Canton loss to Walled Lake Western, it was quite evident the Chief gridders didn't play the game.

People are constantly asking me why I am critical of Canton football. Most readers think it's because the gridders always lose.

Well, if that were the case, I could have written this column on the Chiefs at any time since the start of the season.

I have not commented on the Chiefs' season until now, fort a reason. I watched them lose their first five games of the season and didn't say a negative thing about it.

In fact, I honestly believed the team was actually making positive strides to develop a good attitude about the game and the season.

The major reason Canton lost these games was that they were physically unable to compete against most of their opponents.

Looking at the Chiefs' personnel, you find many young, inexperienced players who are trying to adjust to a new wishbone offense. In addition, they aresmaller and slower than every team they have played.

Despite these facts, I saw a Canton team which managed to stay in every ball game, fighting to the end—even though the result was defeat.

There seemed to be a sense of pride among the Chiefs—an attitude which had not existed since the program began five years ago.

AND THEN came game number six against Walled Lake Western. In this encounter, that pride and spirit seemed to vanish in an instant.

Walled Lake Western was the only conference team the Chiefs had any kind of chance to beat this year. Western was winless in league play until Friday night.

So you would think the Chiefs would have been fired up and ready to give a battle and possibly win a game against the Warriors.

But after Western scored the first touchdown in the first quarter, you could see it coming—a relapse into spiritlessness and lack of pride.

The Chiefs were lackluster. It was obvious they did not care able the game—at least they did not show it if they did.

Canton quit again.

And in the frustration, one Chief gridder was thrown out of the game for fighting. And another player actually walked right out of the stadium, uniform and all, in the middle of the third quarter. He quit the team Monday afternoon.

But this is typical of the poor attitude and lack of pride of the Canton football team. It just makes me sick to my stomach.

THIS POOR attitude has existed ever since the program began and has lasted through two coaching staffs.

Both Canton head coaches tried, and one is still trying, to create a positive attitude and pride in Canton football.

And when the program seemed to be finally getting off the ground, a performance like last Friday night's washes everything down the drain.

The Chiefs play worse now than they showed at the beginning of the season against Livonia Bentley.

And I can't see any solution coming in the near future which will help solve these prolonging problems.

Hey Joe, how's the program going?

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Plymouth Salem takes step number seven in its quest for the Suburban Eight League title and state playoff berth this Friday night when it travels to Livonia Bentley for a 7:30 p.m. grid contest.

After rugged challenges from Redford Union, Trenton and Dearborn Edsel Ford, the Rocks finally get a breather against a hapless Bulldog team.

What used to be a fierce rivalry in the past has turned into a cakewalk for Rock teams in recent years.

Everybody should see a lot of playing time in this game as the Rocks tune up for the final stretch against Dearborn and Farmington Harrison. Salem by 22.

I've said all I can say about Plymouth Canton football.

The Chiefs close out the Western Six League schedule at Northville Friday night starting at 8 p.m. Northville by 18.

Rock golfers place 4th in Sub-8 meet

By BETTY DELANO

The Plymouth Salem Rocks finish the season Saturday at the state finals.

Monday, the Rocks finished fourth in the Suburban Eight league tournament.

First place went to Redford Union with a team total of 295. Russ Austin earned medalist honors with a 68, two under par for the 18 hole round. Austin began his round by firing five straight birdies at Brae Burn golf course.

Other Redford Union scores included a 72 from Jeff Hatjioannou, a 77 from brother Jason Hatjioannou and a 78 from Tom Henry.

Senior Ted Kuhns and junior Doug Holloway lead the Rocks with a pair of 79's. Kuhns, who played with a strep throat infection, earned a 36 on the front side and a 43 on the back, while Holloway shot a 39 on the front and a 40 on the back.

Adding an 83 was junior Craig Stevens coming in with a 40 on the front and a 43 on the back. Senior Jim Ross finished with a 41-43—84.

"We played real well Monday and I think we should place within the top 10 on Saturday at the state finals," said Salem mentor Bob Waters.

"That's the lowest score we've finished with at the Suburban Eight meet and still finished so low in the final standings—except for three years ago when we shot a 321 and were co-champs," he said.

"Redford Union shot such an excellent score and the other teams as well, that the entire Salem team should be proud of a 325 and a fourth place finish," said Waters.

Trenton came in second behind Redford Union with a 302 followed by Livonia Bentley at 316. Salem tied with Dearborn High School at 345. Sixth went to Dearborn Edsel Ford with 338 and seventh was taken by Allen Park at 373.

The final standings in the Suburban Eight rate Redford Union and Trenton co-champions.

3 jr. football teams win

Three of five teams from the Plymouth-Canton Junior Football League were winners in action against Dearborn Heights squads Sunday afternoon.

The Plymouth-Canton Lion freshmen crew won its first game of the season over the Dearborn Heights Raiders, 6-0. The Lion freshmen are 1-4 for the year.

The Lion junior varsity squad, the most successful team in the area this year, demolished its Raider counterparts, 41-0. The triumph raised the junior varsity record to 3-1-1 this season.

The Lion varsity team saw its record drop to 0-5, losing to the Raiders, 12-0.

The Plymouth-Canton Steeler freshmen squad also lost its fifth straight game without a victory, falling to the Dearborn Heights Redskins, 21-0.

The Steeler junior varsity team won its second contest in five decisions with a narrow 8-6 victory over the Redskins.

The annual Lion—Steeler season finale is this Sunday at Central Middle School.

The freshmen squads will kick off the action 1 p.m. The junior varsity teams begin play at 3 p.m.

The Lion varsity will split its squad and compete in an intersquad scrimmage starting at 5 p.m., since the Steelers do not field a team.

The annual pre-game dance for all the parents of Steeler and Lion players and cheerleaders will be held this Saturday night, Oct. 22, at the Hines Park Inn in Livonia, from 8 p.m.-2 a.m.

Any parent interested in the evening of fun may contact a team mother for ticket arrangements.

The season-ending banquet for the Steeler and Lion teams will be held at Roma Hall in Livonia on Tuesday, Nov. 1 beginning at 6 p.m.

Spike meeting coming soon

An organizational volleyball meeting has been set for Tuesday at the Northville Recreation Department starting at 7 p.m.

New and returning co-ed and women's power volleyball teams are urged to pay the $65 entrance fee now at the Plymouth or Northville Recreation offices.

Deadline for the entry fee is Oct. 28 at 5 p.m.

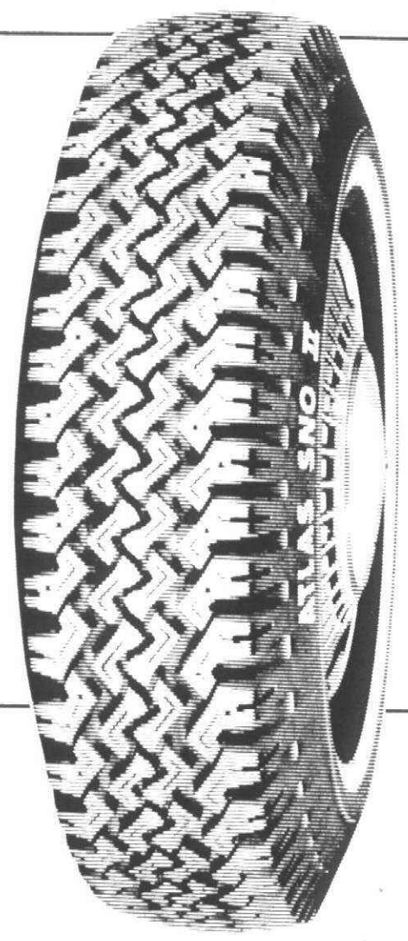

The volleyball season begins the second week in November.

Canton girls whip WL Central

By MICHAEL BLEDSOE

Using many freshmen as well as some older talent the Plymouth Canton girls swimming team defeated Walled Lake Central 108-64 Tuesday night.

"I was really impressed by many of the girls improvements in this meet," said Canton coach Ann Massey.

The quartet of Kim Massey, Karen Mullen, Sandy Diot, Mary Reardon placed first in the 200-yard medley relay with a time of 2:19.4. Sue Knight placed second in the 200-yard freestyle with a 2:38.7. In the 200-yard individual medely, Mary Reardon finished third wiht a clocking of 2:57.9. Sue Vitoratos cam in first in the 50-yard freestyle effort of :28.8 seconds.

"All the girls swam very well," said the Canton coach. "It was a very fine dual meet."

In diving Jamie Zuberink place first with a 135.8 point total. Kim Massey cam in first setting a varsity record in the 100-yard butterfly with a timing of 1:11. Jackie Bennett was first in the 100-yard freestyle with an effort of 10:07.7. Peggy McElmeel came in first in the 500-yard freestyle with a 6:41 timing.

"I was able to swim all my first year girls as well as my seniors," said Massey. "They all performed as I expected, and I was very impressed."

Swimming the 100-yard backstroke, Robbie Bennett placed first with an effort of 1:20.3. Kim Massey again set a varsity record in the 100-yard breaststroke with a timing of 1:19. The squad of Vitoratos, Laura Toor, Kay Spring, and Annette Piethe placed first in the 400-yard freestyle relay with a 4:31.1 clocking.

Canton's nex meet with be tonight against Churchill at Churhill.

Chief golfers finish on bottom

The Plymouth Canton boys' golf team ended its season on a sour note Monday afternoon as it finished last in the Western Six League championship held at the Kensington Metropolitan Golf Course.

The Chiefs now can look forward to next year and hope it turns out better with many young players returning.

Farmington Harrison captured the Western-6 title with an outstanding five-man score of 406. Dave Hawthorne was the league medalist for Harrison with a 75. Hawthorne is only a sophomore.

Northville was a distant second with a 419 total. Waterford Mott and Livonia Churchill tied for third at 420 and Walled Lake Western was fifth at 448.

The Chiefs finished with a 452 total. Senior capatain Scott McGlone led Canton with an 89 while sophomore John Matthews followed at 90.

Gridders to face old football rivals

and make less errors each week," Moshimer said.

PLYMOUTH CANTON hopes to pick up the pieces after last Friday's sub-par performance against Walled Lake Western which ended in a 35-6 loss.

The winless Chiefs compete against a 4-2 Northville team which lost its chance to win the Western Six League title last week, falling to Farmington Harrison.

Canton coach Dave Schuele was very surprised and frustrated with his team's showing against Western.

"I went into that game with the idea that we had a good shot at this one," Schuele said. "I was surprised we were easily handled. It was just one of those days.

"I just hope we do something against Northville. Boy, they are a big ball club."

Rusty Mandle, Canton's converted fullback, will again start at quarterback in hopes of getting the offense moving the rest of the season. Mandle, a junior, is definitely in Schuele's plans as Canton's wishbone quarterback next season.

COME TO OUR OPEN HOUSE!
THIS SATURDAY - OCTOBER 22

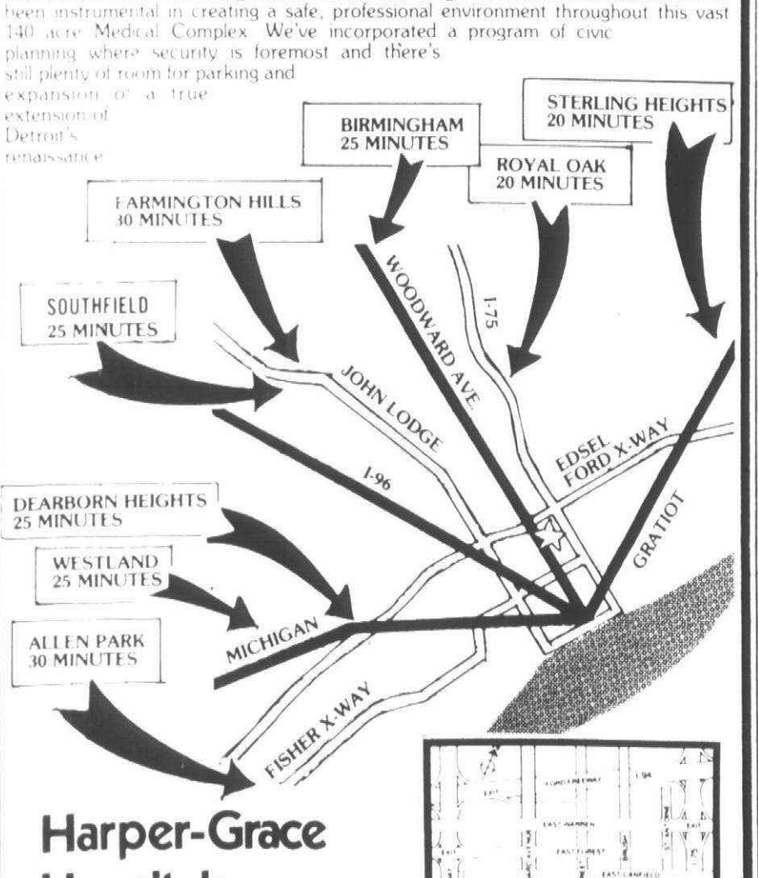

EXPERIENCED RN's and GRADUATING RN's INVITED!

We're devoting an entire Saturday to introducing our all new facility to the experienced and graduating RN's of the city's health care community. At this exclusive "RN" Open House, you will have the opportunity to talk with representatives from each medical specialty we offer and — map out a plan that meets your career objectives. We'll also be available to fill you in on the exceptional range of salaries, comprehensive benefits and unique professional and in-service training opportunities we offer. Special parking attendants will be on hand to assist you and there will also be refreshments, special presentations and guided mini-bus tours of the complex. To assist us with our planning and to insure that a member of your medical specialty is on hand to answer your questions, a phone call would be most helpful. Call 494-8188 now . . . and plan on attending the Open House this Saturday, October 22, 1977!

CALL 494-8188 NOW!

LET'S TALK ABOUT LOCATION . . .

Located just minutes from Detroit's major expressway arteries right in the heart of the city, Harper has taken a significant role in rebuilding a central area of Detroit. We've been instrumental in creating a safe, professional environment throughout this vast 140 acre Medical Complex. We've incorporated a program of civic planning where security is foremost and there's still plenty of room for parking and expansion ... a true extension of Detroit's renaissance.

REALTY WORLD

A WORLD OF QUALITY is evident in this three bedroom, two bath Ranch style home. There is the quality of good design from the fine traffic pattern inside to the two decks, gas grill and lovely yard outside so the whole home "lives" well. There is quality in the easy-care kitchen and eating area, the inviting family room with fireplace and the care of a family that loves it. $52,900

In a prestigious location with lovely rolling lawn and fine neighbors this four bedroom ranch has an air of quiet dignity throughout the formal living and dining rooms and a comfortable, casual feeling in the family room and kitchen areas. It features a handsome cut stone fireplace, three full baths, and a completely finished basement to extend its livability to the fullest. We invite you to see A WORLD OF VERSATILE LIVING. $119,000

From the moment you step in the front door to the generous foyer of this Brick ranch home you feel "at home." With its spacious living room, a bit "apart" from the family room and kitchen living and work areas, its three bedrooms, 1½ baths, a full basement and double garage it offers A WORLD OF HOSPITALITY and good living in a neighborhood of more costly homes. $49,900.

A true Cape Cod style home has the charm of yesteryear combined with the roominess and easy care we demand today. You can have the BEST OF BOTH WORLDS in this home which features four spacious bedrooms (one could be a large den) two full baths, fireplace, two car garage, basement and nicely landscaped private yard in Plymouth. A bargain at $59,900.
