Canton family wonders if '8 is enough'

By JO-ANNE MASON
Special Writer

On Christmas Day in 1974, Alan and Judy Prince of Canton had two children—Alan Jr. (Lennie), 7, and Bobby, 5. Christmas this year found them with eight children, ranging in age from 4 to 13.

The family's phenomenal growth began early in 1975 when the Princes became actively involved in assisting in the shipment of packages to orphans overseas.

They heard about a handicapped girl who had arrived in the Vietnamese airlift and needed a family. That April, 8-year-old Hanh became the Princes' first daughter.

IN THE FALL of the same year, through their association with AASK (Aid to Adoption of Special Kids), Judy and Alan learned of a Vietnamese tot severely handicapped from polio, thus considered by some agencies as unadoptable.

They began a letter campaign on behalf of the child and all children labeled "unadoptable" by various agencies.

The philosophy of AASK is that no child is unadoptable—that it's merely a matter of finding that special family that will accept and love each child.

In December 1975, just in time for Christmas, that 18-month-old Vietnamese—paralyzed in both legs and one arm—became the Princes' son Danny.

The following year, the Prince family again opened its doors and hearts to welcome Connie and Tony—an orphaned brother and sister from Ohio, ages 3 and 5, and very much in need of love and affection.

This year has been just as special for the growing Prince family because on Dec. 22, Dennis, 13, and his 11-year-old sister Judi, who have been visiting each weekend from the Sarah Fisher Home, finally became an "official" part of the family—a precious gift for the Christmas of '78.

FOR A YOUNG COUPLE as vibrant and resourceful as Judy and Alan Prince, planning a meaningful Christmas for eight children has been quite simple.

It has been a rewarding and enjoyable venture, and not the costly undertaking one would expect.

The past weeks have been filled with the spirit of loving preparation and unselfish anticipation rarely seen these days of the consumer Christmas. Each member of the family has been busily designing unique gifts for the others. "You have to think about the person and make something for that person with love," Judy has told the family. "No one seems to think about each gift and a person's real likes and dislikes anymore."

So Christmastime at the Prince household is one planned with love and special thoughts for each other.

For instance, 9-year-old Bobby's love for science fiction is appreciated, and he receives a tailor-made stylish jumpsuit with a picture of the Six Million Dollar Man on it, patterned and hand-made by Dad and Mom.

A home-made backpack personalized with "DP" is one special gift for Danny, who has learned to get around in a walker. "He buzzes around here as quickly as anyone," his mother laughs, adding seriously that it's like a miracle to see him moving around so well.

THERE ARE THREE 11-year-olds in the Prince family now.

Lennie loves to help take care of the smaller ones, and he takes special pride in assisting 4-year-old Danny with his physical therapy.

At an annual Christmas party for foreign adopted kids, Lennie was the one who could be found among the tots, playing with them and helping them get around.

Dark-haired Hanh loves to act as "little mother" to the younger family members and, like most girls her age, delights in teasing her brothers. Eleven-year-old Judi's quiet and helpful disposition adds a touch of tranquility to the constant activity in the large but very cozy seven-bedroom house in Canton.

Blond, blue-eyed and dimpled, 5-year-old Tony steals the hearts of everyone with his winsome smile. And the Princes have their own little red-headed "Annie" in Connie, a playful and mischievous 7-year-old.

JUDY'S GENTLE and affectionate but firm approach, and Alan's easygoing disposition and infectious smile never quit.

When the obvious question was presented to Alan at the post office where he is employed, "Is eight enough, Al?" his sincere reply was, "We can't really say that eight is enough. Who knows? We have plenty of room left."

He may have been referring to the huge house on Sheldon Road. But could he have meant there's more than enough room in the Princes' hearts?

How planning avoided crisis

By JOHN M. HOBEN
Supt. of Schools

(Editor's note: The following article is a review of the major events during 1978 for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.)

This past year has provided Plymouth-Canton Community Schools with an unusual opportunity for careful planning.

Although we have dealt with ongoing concerns about finance and growth, we have had a relatively crisis-free period this year.

This has meant we could develop strategic plans for maintaining and improving the quality for which Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are known.

OUR FIRST SOURCE of pride, as always, is the achievement and progress of our students.

On the state assessment tests this year our students scored well above the state average on every objective in both mathematics and reading. Our high school students rate high on college entrance exams. Our graduates report success in both employment and further education.

As part of our effort to improve instruction, we have devoted a major effort this year to developing the goal-based curriculum—a framework for instructional planning.

We have established K-12 goals or descriptions in 12 learning areas, and have just completed the plans for program evaluation. Progress is good in the areas of language arts, physical education, career education, guidance-counseling, and libraries. Work has begun on social studies.

FINANCE ALWAYS IS a problem for public schools and last year was no exception.

The passage of the millage renewal in June meant a solid base for operations, but loss of additional millage forced us to curtail about three-quarter-million dollars in programs and services. Close controls on all expenditures and cost-cutting measures were set by our finance department.

Space to house the growing numbers of children in the district was gained this year through Extended School Year (ESY) in five elementary schools and in Pioneer Middle School.

By dividing the students and teachers into four "tracks" and going year-round on a schedule of 45 days in school and 15 days vacation, with one track always out of school, we were able to house one-third more students in existing buildings.

Evaluations continued to show that parents, students, and most teachers were satisfied with this ESY program from an educational standpoint. We did find, however, that year-round school involves considerable additional operating costs.

PACTS, our process for community participation in long-range planning, had an impact on the board of education decisions in 1978.

The PACTS assembly, with representatives from every school area, studied curriculum continuity, planning for growth, communication, maintenance, and transportation. In areas not affected by budget cuts, most recommendations were accepted.

Improvements in the transportation of nearly 12,000 students followed the suggestions of the PACTS study group. By establishing varied starting and closing times for schools, we were able to make fuller use of our limited buses and shorten many bus rides for students. However we still have severe problems with overloaded buses as our population continues to grow.

EXCEPTIONAL STUDENTS made gains in 1978 through expansion of the special education program for handicapped students and implementation of a program for talented and gifted elementary and middle school students.

Pre-school handicapped youngsters benefited from the IPSEF program located at Farrand School. With federal funds we were able to establish an effective resource center for middle and high school students with learning handicaps.

This past year has been one of the best in some time for participation in inservice training programs by our staff. Teachers have learned new skills in instruction, learning materials, pupil management, and testing.

Our administrators have worked on time management, teacher evaluation, and communication. Even the board of education has "gone to school" to develop skills in planning and community relations.

NEW ASPECTS OF our community relations program last year included the addition of a 24-hour "School Newline" phone at 453-0271, where callers receive the latest school announcements.

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce's education committee "Business Education Forum" in April brought more than 200 community leaders to Plymouth Salem High for lunch and an exchange of ideas.

We believe our strategic planning process, with its analysis of problems, opportunities and resources, has helped us to avoid crisis management. Through setting reasonable, verifiable objectives for ourselves and for the schools, we hope to have the best possible system here for helping children learn.

Rose bowl bound

Clarence Hoffman, 81, and his great-grandson Jason Schick, 2 months, are among 11 members of one family who left this week for the Rose Bowl in Pasadena to watch the Wolverines battle Southern Cal on New Year's Day. ## Most under 21 chugged in peace

By DARLENE STINSON

At the stroke of midnight last Friday, 19- and 20-year-olds took their last legal chug of beer.

They crammed into local bars and restaurants to enjoy their waning hours as legally drinking adults.

And when midnight passed, most quietly accepted a new voter edict that increased the state's legal drinking age to 21 and peacefully walked out the barroom door.

"It was pretty sad to walk up to regular customers you've been serving for two years and tell them to leave," said Russ Johnson, owner of the Rusty Nail lounge in Canton Township.

"But they didn't seem to be in a fighting mood. They all seemed pretty resigned to it."

ALTHOUGH MOST bar owners described their ousted patrons as "cooperative" Friday night, two men who walked into a Plymouth pub after the midnight deadline were not about to accept the new drinking age sitting down.

Richard Asher, 20, of Canton Township, was arrested for allegedly creating a disturbance in the Side Street pub after he refused to show identification or leave the bar.

Police said Asher refused to loosen his grip on a pitcher of beer he held in one hand and a shell of beef he held in the other. Police said Asher shouted, "I have to prove a point."

After police pried the glass and pitcher from Asher's hands and dragged him outside the bar, the man's companion—Ronald Craig, 19, of Westland—reportedly jumped on the arresting patrol officer's back. Craig was charged with obstructing a police officer.

But, according to Plymouth and Canton police, the incident in the Side

Street pub was the only reported area disturbance over the increased drinking age.

A large number of 19- and 20-year-olds crammed into Holly's By Golly in Plymouth, but assistant manager Bill Knopf said "everyone was really cool about it."

At Mr. Magoo's in Canton Township, owner Dale Cabautan said many patrons under 21 left the bar before they were asked.

"But I still don't think (the increased drinking age) is right," said Cabautan as he echoed the views of other bar owners.

THE BAR OWNERS admit that the increased drinking age will hurt their business. But at this point, they cannot predict how much.

Like most bar owners, Johnson said most of his customers at the Rusty Nail have been over the age of 21.

But he insists that his most cooperative customers have come from the under-21 crowd.

"They've given me less trouble than anyone," he said. "They're used to discipline at home and at school, and they respect adults and authority."

"They like to have a good time. But when you tell them to hold it down, it usually works."

Plymouth-Canton OBITUARIES

ANGES (NANCY) McCLELLAND

Funeral services for Mrs. McClelland, 88, of Southworth, Plymouth, were to be held at 10 a.m. today in Roberts Brothers Funeral Home, 209 Main Street, Belleville, with the Rev. Robert McCright officiating. Burial will be at Glendale Cemetery in Okemos, Mich.

Ms. McClelland died Dec. 24 in Henry Ford Convalescent Center in Plymouth. She is survived by a son, Thomas, and a daughter, Mary.

EDWARD LASOTA

Funeral services for Mr. LaSota, 76, of Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, were held recently in St. Kenneth Catholic Church with burial at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. The Rev. Fr. William Pettit officiated and arrangements were made by Schrader Funeral Home. Memorial contributions for vascular research may be made to Henry Ford Hospital.

Mr. LaSota, who died Dec. 21 in Henry Ford Hospital, had moved to Plymouth this year from Detroit. He was a supervisor for Ford Motor Co., retiring in 1968 after 36 years of service with the firm. He was a member of St. Kenneth Catholic Church. Survivors include his wife, Cecelia; sons Frank of Plymouth and Edmund of Rochester, N.Y.; daughter, Connie Clananah of Orlando, Fla.; daughters-in-law, Rita and Sue; 13 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

ANNA HANSEN

Funeral services for Mrs. Hansen, 63, of Cheboygan, were held recently in Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church in Plymouth with burial at Grand Lawn Cemetery, Detroit. Officiating was Fr. Baldwin of Blessed St.

John Newman Catholic Church in Canton. Prayers and rosary were said in Lambert Funeral Home.

Mrs. Hansen, who died Dec. 10 in Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey, was a housewife. Survivors include her husband, Carl; daughters, Jeanne Cunningham of Canton and Delores Lyons of Cheboygan; brother, Stanley Stanovich of Dearborn; sisters Dorothy Ugrin of Farmington Hills, Sophie Berar of Troy, Helen Paluch of Allen Park, and Mildred Supanich of Plymouth; and five grandchildren.

CHARLES J. HUDSON

A memorial service was held recently for Mr. Hudson, 92, of West Boylston, Mass., in the First Congregational Church of Worcester with the Rev. David Heintzelman officiating. Gould Funeral Home made arrangements. Memorial contributions may be made to the charity of the donor's choice.

Mr. Hudson, who died Dec. 17 in Oakdale, Mass., was a pioneer in the field of quality control. He was well-known to many local residents because he visited here often. His son, George Hudson, is a Plymouth resident.

Mr. Hudson was a former quality control supervisor at Norton Co. in Worcester. He joined the firm in 1917 as a researcher, became quality control supervisor in 1938, and retired in 1953. He introduced quality control (a method of statistical analysis) to Norton Co. during World War II and was instrumental in persuading Northwestern University to develop courses which were the major factor in spreading the new science to New England industry.

Mr. Hudson also was responsible for development of the vertical spindle mixing machine, which is used in the manufacturing of grinding wheels, specially bonded abrasive wheels for grinding crankshafts, and the installation of present-day statistical quality control methods at Norton Co.

He served as editor of the M.P.E. Engineering News, a bi-monthly technical publication, and was instrumental in forming the national Society for Quality Control in 1946 as well as two local chapters. In 1973 he received the R. Shaw Goldwait Award from the Northeast Conference for Quality Control for his contribution to the quality control interests and activities in the New England area. The American Society for Quality Control has established a scholarship in his name at Worcester Junior College.

Mr. Hudson received a BA degree from Amherst College in 1910 and a master's degree in mathematics and astronomy from Amherst in 1911. For two years he taught astronomy at Amherst College and then served as a research assistant in the Allegheny Observatory at the University of Pittsburgh from 1912-17. While at the University of Pittsburgh, he taught and spent most of his time publishing several scientific papers on measuring the distance of stars.

He was a lecturer and member of the Aldrich Astronomy Club of the Natural History Museum, a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and a fellow to the American Society for Statistical Quality Control. He was a member of several Masonic organizations, and a member of the First Congregational Church of West Boylston where he had sung in the church choir for more than 50 years. He also was an avid outdoorsman and was active in school, civic affairs and Republican activities.

Survivors include his wife, Izette; sons George A. Hudson of Plymouth and Richard C. Hudson of Grosse Pointe Farms; daughter Carolyn Shearer of Westfield, Mass.; six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Cross country hitting Canton

A cross country skiing program is being developed by the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Dept.

Four instructional clinics have been scheduled at Fellows Creek Golf Course to provide residents with an opportunity to participate in one of Michigan's fastest growing and most popular winter sports.

The clinics will be from 7-10 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 9, Wednesday, Jan. 10, Tuesday, Jan. 16, and Wednesday, Jan. 17. The cost is $6 per person with skis and boots provided.

The clinics will be open to anyone 14 and older and the concessions will be open. Registrations for the clinics must be made at the recreation department in the administration building on Canton Center Road, at least one day prior to the clinics.

A CROSS COUNTRY skiing program will begin at Fellows Creek on Jan. 23 and last through the winter from 4-10 p.m.

The fee for open skiing sessions for those renting skis will be $3 for the first hour, $2 for the second, and $1 for the third hour. The fee for skiers with their own equipment will be $1 per hour.

The open skiing and rental will be open to those 14 and older. There will be no age limit for those with their own equipment.

People who want to rent skis for the open skiing should call the Canton recreation office at 397-1000 by Monday of the week they will be skiing to insure that the proper ski sizes will be available.

CRISIS TRAINING

Our House Crisis Center is planning a training program for new volunteer staff members. Long lines form first thing in the morning the day after Christmas at Kmart, as residents bring back gifts to return or exchange. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

At each cash register, Winkleman's store in Canton advises shoppers of its refund-exchange policy.

For many, returns & exchanges; for others—a day for bargains

By SUSAN ROGERS

Even before the stores opened their doors Dec. 26, there they were—the after Christmas gift returners and exchangers.

They seemed prepared to face the lines and the crowds to bring back the over-sized robe from Aunt Betty, the short, tight pants from Mom and the broken race car set Santa had the nerve to leave.

Some shoppers take advantage of the day after Christmas as the perfect opportunity to pick up those half-price bargains and other markdowns. In any case, many stores are as crowded after Christmas as they were before.

Kathy Sullivan of Canton started her day returning a gray coat with a fur collar to Winkleman's in Canton.

"I already have one just like it at home," she said about her Christmas gift. She hoped to exchange the coat for another one in a different style.

According to Winkleman's manager, Anne Marid Bulger, most men don't know the sizes their wives, girlfriends, mothers or sisters wear.

"A lot of women have to return things the men buy them because of size. Often they live with these women and don't even know their sizes."

SOME OF the store's big sellers this Christmas were blouses and sweaters, said Ms. Bulger. She added that unlike some holidays in the past, this year people "Just bought and bought."

Early in the day, the lines at Kmart in Canton were beginning to form. The store set up special sections in the front of the store to accommodate the returns, with desks and employees representing each store department on hand.

"We find it runs a lot smoother this way," said Dan Reid, assistant manager of the store. "The customer takes the merchandise to the desk, is given a receipt, then goes through the line for the money."

The toys that didn't last too long were piled in a crowded shopping cart. Race car sets, an airplane game and a wooden table and chair set were among them.

Mary Jason of Canton returned two smartly dressed dolls her 15-year-old daughter didn't want for Christmas.

"She wanted dresses instead," said Mrs. Jason. "I think the dolls are more beautiful, and can be put into her collection, but she'd rather have something else. They grow up so fast."

The tables began to pile up with bathrobes and nightgowns, dresses, fuzzy slippers, photo albums and games.

Cathy Owens of Westland and her niece, Wendy Wagner, 4, also of Westland, stood in line to return a blue sweater Ms. Owens' mother had received. The sweater was too small.

"My mother bought them and they're too big for me," said Theresa McKenna about the blue jeans she was returning.

Duane Goodin of Canton returned a pair of yellow fog lights for his car.

"I wanted the lights, but not this kind," said Goodin.

Minerva's-Dunning's in Plymouth was fairly crowded with exchangers and shoppers, a steady stream drifting in and out.

A fuzzy brown robe, some leather gloves and a pair of slacks was returned by Rebecca Nicholas of Plymouth, who said her mother didn't know her size.

"It was a good choice, but the wrong size," said Betty Routledge of Canton about the light blue-green silky skirts-slacks she received for Christmas.

She exchanged it for a similar pink pair. "Everything we're returning this year is because of wrong size," said Mrs. Routledge.

Famous Men's Wear in Plymouth was empty one minute and busy the next.

A pair of burgundy slacks were exchanged for an identical pair in a larger size by a shopper who refused to give her name.

Bob Pearson of Plymouth was in to exchange a shirt he received for one in a larger size.

"Most men find they have to return items for a larger size," said a Famous salesman. "They don't like to admit they're putting on weight and a lot of times we tell them clothes are being cut trimmer this year so they won't feel bad."

A tapered shirt was exchanged for a regular cut shirt, along with a coat that was too large and some Levi's corduroys that didn't fit the recipient.

Betty Buzuvis of Plymouth exchanged a shirt and sweater she had given her husband for another set in a larger size.

"If these don't fit, can I return them?" she asked.

editorial opinion

New Prohibition begins and will be challenged

Perhaps we shouldn't have been surprised when U.S. District Judge Ralph Guy declined to throw out Proposal D, the state constitutional amendment raising the drinking age to 21.

There is nothing sacred about a decision of the voters. In the last century, voters regularly approved constitutions allowing slavery. In this century, voters in Michigan as well as other states approved constitutions giving rural residents more representation in the state senate and county boards than urban residents.

Voters have regularly violated the "equal protection of the laws" provision of the U.S. Constitution, and federal judges haven't hesitated to slap them down. Federal judges never consult the people's wishes about such matters as school busing.

Faced, however, with Michigan voters' decision to create two classes of citizenship—one for 18 and up and one for 21 and up — Judge Guy stuck with "the electorate, in the exercise of their residual legislative power." It was, as the young folks say, a cop-out.

SO IT APPEARS the case will be taken to the appeals court by the Michigan Citizens for the Age of Responsibility (MICAR), a lengthy title for a coalition of under-21 citizens and licensed beverage dealers.

They should appeal, for it's abundantly clear the young citizens have been imposed on by the electorate.

In Michigan's 1972 Age of Majority Act, persons over age 18 were assigned a large batch of rights and responsibilities. That was the whole idea — to tie everything in one, logical package rather than approach the question piecemeal, as our society has done since the middle ages.

Not only did the over-18 group acquire the right to drink alcohol and be precinct delegates, but it was given responsibilities for debts, property ownership, jury duty and many other obligations.

It was a breach of faith for older voters to gang up on younger ones and rip apart the Age of Majority Act piecemeal. We hope a more enlightened appeals court will brush aside Judge Guy's timorousness and rule against Proposal D.

THE SAD FACT is that many persons who voted for Proposal D cynically said they expected 19- to 21-year-olds to continue drinking; they just wanted to "keep it away from the younger kids."

And so we have condemned the 19-21 group to behaving now as their grandparents did during Prohibition — disobeying a law which, by common consent, was preposterous. For if anything was clear in the report of the Governor's Special Commission on the Age of Majority back in 1971, it was that persons under 21 were already behaving like adults in the alcohol department.

The proponents of Proposal D were crafty enough to make their plan a constitutional amendment despite the fact that for 45 years Michigan has regulated alcohol by legislative act. Thus, Proposal D cannot be amended by a three-fourths majority of the legislature, as could a law passed by the electorate.

So our second-class citizens, the persons under 21, have nowhere to go but to the federal appeals court in Cincinnati.

And on the way through Ohio, they may just decide to pick up a few cases of beer.

All hail The Farmer, who leads cheers himself

Hamilton J. Boven, the biggest farmer in the western part of our county, stretched out his legs as he sat back on a bench overlooking the shopping center pond. Socrates, the venerable Greek philosopher, and I could tell as he leaned back that Ham Boven was about to deliver a weighty thought.

"You city and suburban fellers," Boven began, "would be nowhere without The Farmer. Food — that's the most precious and immediate need of any human being, right?"

"The Farmer provides you with food. Without The Farmer, life would be impossible. The Farmer should get higher prices, and the Farmer should get special help from the government because, the way I see it, The Farmer is the most important man in civilization. You city and suburban fellers ought to thank heaven for The Farmer," Boven expounded.

SOCRATES SCRATCHED his grizzled beard and smiled almost imperceptibly before he asked:

"Plow your fields with a stick, Ham?"

"Of course not," responded the other. "Got me a new Ford tractor and John Deere plow."

"Verily, I think you might owe someone a vote of thanks," Socrates went on. "I mean, the blue-collared members of the United Auto Workers."

Ham Boven sat bolt upright at that, but Socrates went on:

"Does not the auto worker rise early in the morning to go to his labors in a dreary plant for you? Does he not labor to build automobiles, trucks and agricultural implements, that The Farmer might earn his livelihood? Answer me, Ham."

Boven stroked his chin and drawled a reluctant, "Yep, I suppose so."

"AND CONSIDER your own farmhouse and barn," Socrates went on, warming to the topic. "Did your neighbors get together for a barn-raising and house-raising?"

Boven turned a little pink at that and said, "Nope, got me a modern house with all the conveniences and a new barn."

"A modern house and new barn, eh?" said Socrates. "Well, there was a contractor — city feller, no doubt. And he had workers to hire. "No doubt your house, barn and equipment are financed," said Socrates, and as soon as our farmer friend nodded, went on: "The banker in the city had a role in providing the economic machinery whereby The Farmer earned his livelihood. And as for the money in the bank, would not that have come from city and suburban workers and merchants who deposited their funds there?"

Tim Richard

Boven could not deny it. "WHAT ABOUT those modern conveniences you mentioned?" Socrates asked. "The plumbing you use was invented by a city man. It was produced in city factories by city and suburban workers."

As Ham Boven nodded helplessly, Socrates ran down a list of implements of work and education: "... your radio and TV set, the Farm Journal you read, the red paint you use on your barn, the fertilizers you spread on your crops, the clothes on your back, the filter-tip cigarette you smoke, the citrus fruit you get from Florida — all these things, O Ham, were either invented by us in the city, produced there, or transported from other farms by city and suburban people."

Boven started to reply, but Socrates was going strong. "The Farmer — The Farmer would be a miserable peasant without the city and suburban worker, the city and suburban business, the city and suburban taxpayer, the city and suburban inventor, the city and suburban customer."

"No, friend Ham; it is The Farmer who should give daily thanks for the blessings that he receives from the cities and suburbs. For too long has The Farmer imagined himself the keystone of civilization because he produces one set of commodities!"

Hangover was a life-saver

If you can remember when Lee BeGole was city clerk of Plymouth, you've been around a long time.

It was the early '50s. BeGole had been working his way through law school and finally passed the bar. It seemed to me that his best qualification for being clerk was an uncanny ability to read extremely fast. Lengthy ordinances were read and approved by the city commission in record time.

But the kind of law which most interested young BeGole was not practiced in the courtroom, but on the streets. He left Plymouth to become public safety director of Novi Township.

That meant he got to drive both a fire truck and patrol car. Anyway, BeGole is still chief of police in the fast-growing city of Novi.

WHENEVER I WANT a good subject for a column, I give Lee a call.

This year I had an idea I would like to write something about Christmases past. So I called upon a number of area residents to ask if they remembered a particular Christmas which was most meaningful to them.

The Christmas which BeGole best remembers is the one when he saved his own life by getting drunk.

It was 1944 during the rugged Italian campaign. BeGole was a sergeant in the infantry. He worked in a reconversion training center near Rome, which means he took young men out of the air corps, quartermaster corps, etc., and gave them a quick course in how to become a foot soldier. Then he escorted them to our thinning front lines.

IT WAS TIME to deliver another batch to the trenches just before Christmas, which gave BeGole an opportunity to take a brief holiday. He decided to visit his brother, a B-24 pilot stationed in southern Italy.

He hitchhiked cross country, finally getting a ride from a couple of air corpsmen in a Jeep. When Lee told them what squadron he wished to visit, they informed him that it was their squadron.

"Who do you want to see?"

"My brother, Bill BeGole, a pilot."

The young soldiers made no further comment. They took their foot soldier passenger to the

Speaking for the record

By BILL SLIGER

squadron headquarters office. One of the air corpsmen went into the office well ahead of BeGole.

Soon a major appeared. "You're Bill BeGole's brother? A tough foot soldier, I see," said the major.

Silence. "Well, he got it yesterday. He and his whole crew."

Silence. "My brother's dead?"

Silence.

FINALLY, THE MAJOR prevailed upon the stunned infantry soldier to stick around for Christmas.

"There's a party tonight. Many of your brother's friends will be there.

"Join us for the party. Then why don't you fly with our squadron tomorrow morning as an observer on a mission to Ploesti. It will be a 'milk run.' The Germans will never bother us on Christmas. It will give you a chance to see where your brother has been. You can fly with the 'Red M' crew; it's a plane your brother has flown."

The major was trying very hard to help BeGole in some way—a way that maybe only men can understand when they are thousands of miles from home in a godawful environment.

"Thanks," said BeGole. "I'd like to join you."

But Christmas Eve 1944 was too much for the strife-worn infantryman.

"I drank cherry brandy like it was red pop."

BeGole awoke about 9 a.m. with an Italian hangover. He missed the mission call by four hours.

Red M failed to return; its whole crew was never heard from again.

So where one BeGole was lost, another was saved.

And that Christmas afternoon as a passenger aboard an A-26 being escorted back to Rome, Lee BeGole said he knew he was bullet-proof.

An unsold idea

How AA Band got arches

There's a fellow in our midst who never misses the telecast of the Tournament of Roses parade from Pasadena.

As usual, however, his emotions will be a bit mixed Monday as he watches the 90th of these spectaculars move splendorously down Orange Grove and Colorado Boulevards.

A feeling of awe is always within him. That's true with many who understand the intricacies of building those magnificent floats, each of which is decorated with 200,000 or more individual blossoms—every one of them put on by hand.

But this guy's intimacy with the Tournament of Roses goes even deeper.

There were the years of driving with friends along Pasadena's downtown streets, sort of "counting the house" as thousands upon thousands of humans found early vantage points along the curbs through New Year's Eve night.

Visits to the aircraft-type hangers where floats were in the final stages of decoration, a bit of partying at the Huntington and Green Hotels, dawn breakfasts with parade participants, frequent checks as to weather forecasts . . . all were part of the scene.

Such memories came flooding back this week as he thumbed through his one remaining copy of the 52-page official souvenir program of the 60th Tournament of Roses, published exactly 30 years ago.

His nostalgia is understandable, for that was the first of several years during which he had a contract in Pasadena to write and edit that publication.

ALTHOUGH THIS IS the greatest floral event in the world, it also provides ample opportunity annually to prove how much we all love a marching band.

Taking part in the parade at Pasadena is the goal of just about every such group, and Monday the man we spoke of earlier will gnash his teeth in personal anguish when one particular band comes into view.

The reference is to McDonald's All-American High School Band, which will be appearing for the 11th straight year.

He'll be damning himself, not McDonald's.

Heaven forbid that he should feel any ill will toward those of the Golden Arches who got into the band sponsorship field back in 1967, and has since made an outstanding effort all across the nation to aid our young musicians and the schools for whom they perform.

He's going to sit at home in his pajamas, robe and slippers on New Year's morning, thinking back to another chapter which extended from mid-'63 to early '67 and wondering why, why, why the name McDonald's never crossed his mind.

In this frustration lies a tale.

through bifocals

THE IDEA OF an All-American High School Band kicked around the music world for years. However, no one pulled it together, worked out a method of selection, drew up a budget, or then went out to sell it in the kingdom of advertising and promotion.

Then the man of whom I'm writing, a native of Michigan who went west for seven years to live as a Californian and finally moved back home, did exactly that.

One by one, presentations backed with audio-visual slides and carefully prepared written outlines, were submitted to such as Chevrolet, Chrysler, American Motors, Lincoln-Mercury and other big spenders.

There were meetings with band instrument manufacturers such as Conn and Elkhart. The interest of a Prudential Insurance vice-president prompted a trip to New York City.

There was long consideration, serious contemplation everywhere, but never the go-ahead. Along came new make-a-living interests outside the public relations field in which he was engaged, and the voluminous "AA Band" file began gathering dust.

Our friend never approached McDonald's.

INTERESTINGLY, THE format used by the restaurant chain since it began its own annual selection of two students per state in 1967 is identical to his. So is the idea of sending the band to Pasadena, to New York for the Macy parade, and to present it in concert in major cities. For instance, McDonald's performed in both Carnegie Hall at New York and the Kennedy Center at Washington.

Chosen this year as Michigan's two members by the McDonald's band committee were Mary Lynn Haller from Ann Arbor Huron and Allen Karl Moss of Detroit Northwestern High School.

Only a bare handful of people know of one man's dream that might have had them wearing All-American overlays of a different promotional identity when they march down Orange Grove and Colorado Jan. 1, 1979.

Those who did bring the idea to reality deserve the highest praise. It couldn't have been easy.

Just Between Us

Caring is as important as loving

By William C. Nichols Ed.D.

A subtle change has come into our vocabulary in recent years. One of the highest compliments that can be paid a person today is to say that he or she cares — "They really care."

In many respects, the concept of caring has come to replace the idea of loving. Sometimes the two are used interchangeably, but more often it seems that caring is given a higher meaning than loving. That is, caring is less suspect and receives more credibility than loving.

Individuals who are seen as caring persons are more likely to be respected and viewed as less selfish in their dealings with others than persons who claim to be loving, particularly if there is a difference in the ways in which either caring or loving are expressed.

ALTHOUGH CARING and attachment often are considered to be part of loving, they can be separated from love.

One can be attached to another person at quite a deep level of feeling long after anything resembling love and affection have vanished from the scene. Similarly, one can care about another person without loving, particularly without loving in a romantic way.

If no longer being loved is devastating, no longer being cared for is even worse. To be told, "I don't love you any more," by someone who has been close and intimate hurts.

Most of us hope that the formerly loving person will continue to hold some positive feelings toward us, even after he or she says he/she doesn't love us any longer. But when a person says, "I don't care about you," it is an even stronger blow, one that banishes the illusions or fantasies that some kind of emotional relationship can be continued.

CARING IMPLIES that one has some sense of concern and responsibility for the other person, although protestations of caring are as open to abuse and misuse as are those of loving.

Caring statements have several possible meanings and connotations. Among them are:

- "I really do care about you." To this should be added by implication a phrase such as "... in spite of indications to the contrary." This is a statement of ambivalent or mixed feelings at best. At worst, it is an insincere declaration of concern and caring. If it is a message denoting mixed, ambivalent feelings, one may hope that it will be converted into a stronger statement of caring and commitment. The problem with this kind of statement is that we do not know where we stand when it is made to us. Does the other person care nothing about us or have mixed feelings toward us?

- "I care about you, but ..." is much more a declarative statement. This one means that I care about what happens to you, but that's the extent of my caring for you. The concern here is a kind of disinterested phileo (brotherly love) feeling. Sometimes the "but" at the end of the declaration of caring is implied, but the limited nature of the concern and commitment is the same whether or not the word is verbalized. "I love you, but ..." is a statement of definite but restricted concern and responsibility for the relationship between persons.

- "I care about you, and that's why ..." is another message that has more than one meaning. It is conditional, carrying the clause "and that's why I want you to do the following," or the clause "and that's why I want you to let me do the following." This one may be manipulative and coercive or protective, depending on the context in which it is expressed and the intentions and motivations of the person uttering it. It is necessary for us to interpret such declarations of caring and concern in the light of our total relationship with the other person, as well as in terms of the specific thing he/she is requesting of us at the time.

- "I care about you." This declaration, spoken without qualification, is what most of us yearn to hear from a significant other person. The need to receive such a message and to be able to respond to it and its sender in an open and receptive manner is an essential part of the emotional life of most persons.

TO BE CARED about, genuinely and unconditionally, is something that is not always possible. Most caring has some conditions attached.

One of the more important conditions is found in the expectation that we care for the person or persons who care about us. Reciprocity is called for in any caring relationship between peers.

Only in unequal relationships, such as those between parent and child, is one party to a caring situation expected to be caring without thought of return from the other side.

And even in parent-child relationships, there is the prospect of eventual reciprocity in caring.

Ask the Educator

Mental test for first grade non-readers

JOSEPH HADDAD

QUESTION: My son's first grade teacher has asked for permission to have him tested by the school psychologist. Although he is a happy child with lots of friends, he is one of the few in his room who have not yet begun to read.

We are worried sick about this. Can you recommend a good private reading clinic?

Mrs. M.B.

ANSWER: It is too soon in your son's school career to consider psychological testing unless his teacher suspects some other, more serious problems.

It is normal for some first graders to be still struggling to learn to read. I would not consent to the psychological testing just now. Instead, ask for a consultation with your local elementary school's reading specialist or curriculum consultant. Discuss your son with this person and in this way get a second opinion.

Ask the reading person to double-check the instructional approach of your son's teacher. Does the teacher know which readiness skills are deficient? Is she teaching to just those skills your son needs to acquire in order to begin reading?

Are there things you can do with your child at home to help him or might your efforts confuse him?

These are some questions which you might put to the reading person. If the replies aren't clear and easy to understand, then ask even more questions until it is explained in a way which makes sense to you.

I WOULD NOT recommend your seeking out a private reading clinic or learning disabilities clinic.

If your son needs something more than he is getting in order to learn, then your local school should — and in most cases will — provide this free of charge. In any case, it is simply too soon for you to think of such measures.

If you are not comfortable in talking through this situation with your son's teacher, try the principal or telephone your county intermediate school district and ask for a consultation with someone who is expert in reading.

This service will be provided free because the intermediate school district is supported by your tax dollars.

(The writer is director of special education for a suburban school district.)

3 ways to enjoy roses

We suspect by now most University of Michigan football fans have figured out the best way to enjoy the Jan. 1 Rose Bowl game, short of being in Pasadena in person. You watch the game on TV, turn down the sound and listen to Bob Ufer's play-by-play broadcast on radio station WJR (760).

There are, however, other kinds of Michigan fans — those who enjoy the splendid musicianship and spectacle of the Marching Band. Those fans will probably be badly cheated by television and less than satisfied with standard radio broadcasts.

So what you should do, in order to enjoy the half-time show, is flip your radio dial to WUOM-FM (91.7). It's the university's own radio station, it's public radio, there are no commercials, and they give you the full band show.

Victory is a tradition at Michigan — well, most of the time. Scholarship is a tradition all the time. The Michigan Marching Band is entirely worthy of the university whose name it bears.

'Speak out,' top atheist urges

Step out and speak up.

That was the message from Madalyn Murray O'Hair—America's high priestess of atheism—as she urged atheists to step out of the closet and fight against what she dubbed "the monster called religion."

The occasion was a banquet at the Sheraton-Southfield last week, celebrating the winter solstice, the shortest day of the year. The ancient pagan celebration of this event is regarded by some scholars as the inspiration for the Christmas celebration, given that the actual birthdate of Jesus is unknown.

Mrs. O'Hair was the guest of the Michigan chapter of American Atheists, Inc., which is affiliated with the Society of Separationists, Inc., founded by Mrs. O'Hair.

Blunt in speech and uncompromising in her view, Mrs. O'Hair maintains, "I cannot respect a person who holds a religious idea. I try to insult him honestly."

She has been the country's leading proponent of atheism since the early 1960s, when the U.S. Supreme Court upheld her lawsuit to stop public schools from conducting prayers in the classroom.

FROM THE AMERICAN Atheist Center, which she established in Austin, Tex., Mrs. O'Hair crisscrosses the nation, speaking out against discrimination, religious programs in public schools and phrases such as "In God We Trust" on coins and government buildings.

"America is the only country founded on separation of church and state," she told her audience of about 150 persons. "We have to stand up for our heritage."

She describes atheism as a philosophy of persons who are "free from religion," basing their life on experience, with no faith in or dependence on a "supernatural" being.

As outlined in "The American Atheist," Mrs. O'Hair's magazine, the purpose of the American atheist movement is to promote the complete separation of church and state and to maintain a secular educational system. And while Mrs. O'Hair feels contempt for religious persons, she said her organization doesn't aim to suppress religious activities.

MRS. O'HAIR maintains that fear of losing one's job and social pressure keeps persons who espouse the atheistic philosophy from speaking out. The Michigan Chapter has just 32 members.

She praised a 24-year-old police officer from the Lansing area, who admitted to having the "heebie-jeebies" about openly coming to a meeting of atheists.

"Simply come out and help," urged Mrs. O'Hair, who was dressed in a flowing black and gold robe. "Everybody has to do his part to get rid of this monster called religion."

That goes double for atheists who still attend church, 20 per cent of all non-believers, according to Mrs. O'Hair. She wants them to quit.

"Stay out (of church) and stop contributing," said Mrs. O'Hair. "If every atheist in this nation would quit going to church tomorrow, they (organized religion) would be damaged, because atheists go to church for business and professional reasons."

"You have to stand up and fight," she continued. "From the point of view of the American Atheist Center, we feel sure that (the United States) can be atheistic by the year 2000."

Nationwide, atheist activism is being directed against the motto, "In God We Trust," which appears on coins and government buildings.

A federal suit filed by Mrs. O'Hair's organization is being reviewed by an appeals court in New Orleans.

"Symbols are extraordinarily important," said Mrs. O'Hair. "We live and die for our flag, and yet we allow the corruption with 'One Nation Under God'."

And those in agreement explain why

Atheists are usually thought of as persons who don't believe in God. But John and Loretta Cruz would prefer to say they believe in individualism and self-reliance.

The Plymouth couple's attitude is shared by Henry Schmuck and Helen Weaver of Westland, and the Alan Schwartz family of Oak Park. They and the Cruzes form the nucleus of the Michigan chapter of American Atheists, Inc., a Texas-based organization, founded and run by the country's leading non-believer, Madalyn Murray O'Hair.

For the local group, organized atheism provides them with friends who share a viewpoint that life is to be experienced to the fullest now, because there will be no after-life. The group's practical goal is the separation of church and state, and an end to tax privileges enjoyed by churches.

"Our society is rife with religion," said Cruz, 35, who is director of the Michigan chapter. "We have faith in mankind and in intellect."

WHILE CHRISTIANS were trimming trees and Jews were starting their observance of Hanuka, the Michigan chapter of American Atheists spent Christmas Eve at the Cruzes house, savoring the afterglow of a banquet the night before, a celebration of the winter solstice, the year's shortest day. The solstice—which marks the start of winter—was celebrated with revelry in pagan times.

The guest of honor was Mrs. O'Hair, the banquet's featured speaker and houseguest of the Cruz family. Joining them were Mrs. O'Hair's son Jon, 24, who works at the organization's Austin, Tex., headquarters, and granddaughter Robin Murray O'Hair, 13.

The mood was relaxed, amid joking about a bright, red door covering that said "Merry Christmas." The message was placed there because, Cruz said, it was the only thing he could find to cover a hole in the door.

How did Cruz move from a Mexican-American, Roman Catholic upbringing to rejection of religion? Why is Alan Schwartz, reared in Judaism, a vocal enemy of organized religion?

Cruz, who makes prototype automobiles, said atheism provides an opportunity to "dip from an enlarged pool of experience" and examine alternatives to the rules of organized religion.

"Life is a chess game, with so much knowledge," he added. "What we do is our decision, we have nobody to blame but ourselves. We have no cop-out."

Cruz dates his espousal of atheism back to 1965, when he read a lengthy interview with Mrs. O'Hair in Playboy magazine. He began to take a view that "religion is a falsehood."

"Individuals are being repressed by religion," said Cruz. "Religion plants (feelings of) inadequacy, fear and guilt."

Cruz's wife Loretta rejected strong religious values instilled as she was growing up in Appalachia.

"We are free from the burden of religion," said Cruz.

"Children need to be protected from religion," added Mrs. Cruz. Their sons, Tim and Tony, are being raised as atheists.

MUCH MORE VOCAL about his philosophy is Henry Schmuck, 40, of Westland. Schmuck, assistant director of the chapter, recently tried without success to get city officials to remove a Nativity scene from the grounds of the city hall.

While Schmuck's co-workers at Ford Motor Co. take his atheism in stride ("They don't care about me as long as I do my job"), some of his neighbors aren't quite so tolerant, he said.

Periodically, Schmuck is visited by a representative from a fundamentalist church. He's convinced a neighbor is behind the proselytizing effort, and that riles him.

"I have the right to order them off my property," said Schmuck.

Helen Weaver, also of Westland, said she turned away from church gradually, until she reached a point where she openly spoke of disbelief in a supernatural being.

Ms. Weaver said she isn't harrassed about her views. "I think sometimes that these fears are exaggerated."

She doesn't try to debate with her Christian friends. "There is no sense arguing with Christians."

THE ROAD TO atheism has been a rocky one for Alan Schwartz, of Oak Park, who is baited for both his Jewish heritage and his current attitude toward religion. Schwartz and his wife Barbara are active in the Michigan chapter.

"It wasn't easy," said Schwartz, a 40-year-old electrician. "I believed in the supernatural."

Schwartz recalls growing up in northwest Detroit, being ridiculed by an anti-Semitic teacher who laughed taunted him because he wore a religious medal, containing the Ten Commandments.

The medal, a gift from his father was for good luck. But for Schwartz, the medal brought scorn and he was forced to sit under his teacher's desk for punishment.

"My parents never stood up (to the teacher)," said Schwartz. "I was quite terrified."

The slaughter of Jews during World War II further undermined Schwartz's faith: "I was mad at God. How could he do this?"

Later, while serving in the armed forces near the North Pole, Schwartz met a "happy, irreverent" atheist. "It was a shock to me that there was a different world," said Schwartz.

It was around that time that he met the future Mrs. Schwartz, who had been raised in an atheist home.

"I was desperate to meet another atheist," said Mrs. Schwartz. Her "desperation" had prompted her to place a small notice in the publication of a now-defunct atheist organization called Friendship Liberal League.

Schwartz answered the notice, and the two became acquainted. They married 13 years ago, after a three-year engagement.

In his current job, Schwartz is "surrounded by Baptists," who enjoy goading him by turning on religious radio programs.

"A nasty little clerk-typist or telephone operator can make your life hell," observed Mrs. O'Hair.

"Until we're able to advertise—to be open—there is a little trepidation," added Cruz.

Live it up before the old year ends

Now that all the presents are unwrapped and put away and even the exchanges are taken care of, we can all rest for a little while.

But only for a little while.

It seems like we just recover after Christmas when we swing right into celebrating the New Year.

New Year's resolutions always are being made and this year, for sure, we all are bound and determined to keep them. There are only a few days left to enjoy ourselves. Here are my helpful suggestions on how to really make the most out of the time between now and Jan. 1.

• EAT. Finish all those chocolates, pies and goodies that are hanging around the house. Don't forget the ice cream, fruitcake, potato chips and pop. Leave nothing untouched because soon it will be carrot sticks, celery and cottage cheese.

• REST. Lay around the house, watch television and stretch out on the couch. Stay away from any kind of physical exertion, such as walking to the door. Let someone else answer the phone. Do nothing, because shortly you will be up jogging at 6 a.m. every day. Don't forget the 20 minute exercise program three times each day you have planned for yourself.

• SMOKE. Do not even think about how bad this habit is. Enjoy these last days as a smoker. Soon, you will be climbing the walls.

• STAY UP LATE. Do whatever you want with this suggestion. Visit friends or go out on the town. Watch the late late show. Soon we'll all be in bed at 10 p.m. to get our proper amount of sleep.

• NO HOUSEWORK. Don't even look at the disorderly drawers and cupboards or the stacks of papers and books in every corner. We all know at the beginning of the year all this will be taken care of.

• ENJOY ENJOY. For the next few days just enjoy yourself. We're all going to be so organized, rested and healthy after Jan. 1 we won't even recognize each other.

BEFORE ENTERING 1979 I'd like to take up some space in thanking everyone for a terrific 1978. Without you this column could not be written every week. To everyone who has called and to all those I kept bothering all year to get information, I appreciated it. I wish you all a very Happy New Year.

Here are a few special "thank you's." If I missed your name please forgive me, but both you and I know who you are.

Thanks to Loretta and Dave Yeager, Karen LeGault, John and Marsha Saffran, Karen and Tom Cifordella, James and LaDonna Gentry, Bob and Carol Koesel, Ginny and Mike Koon, Larry and Jerry Kilgore, Bob and Kathy Spencer, Ann and Larry McDonald, Laure and Don Pocock.

Stress class held

Classes in coping with stress will meet 7-9:30 p.m. Thursdays beginning Jan. 11 and running for five weeks, until Feb. 8, at the Dearborn Youth Center, 15801 Michigan Avenue, Dearborn.

"Stress is any change in your life that you cannot adapt to or modify easily," said Dr. June L. Sears, Michigan State University extension home economist and teacher of the classes. "It may be positive or negative. These characteristics about ourselves determine to a great extent how well we handle stress."

During the class, Dr. Sears will provide necessary background for understanding and diagnosing the problem and will offer some simple methods for controlling personal stress.

The registration fee is $5 for the five-week class. For more information, call the family living department of Wayne County Cooperative Extension at 721-6565.

The women of First United Presbyterian Church had their Market Town bazaar Nov. 3. Mrs. David Bauman and Mrs. William Loesch chaired the successful event. Plymouth Children's Nursery had its annual Masterpiece Auction in the school on Warren Road at Haggerty.

The League of Women Voters's wine and cheese party has become an annual event. This year's was Nov. 10 at the home of the Dumont Hixons in Northville.

The Plymouth Jaycettes have sent out application forms for candidates for their annual award for the Outstanding Young Woman of the Year. First United Methodist Church had its annual boutique Nov. 10. It was chaired by Janet Thomas and Janet McKelvey. Plymouth branch Woman's National Farm and Garden Association met Nov. 13 for a potluck luncheon in the home of Mrs. Wayne Booker.

Plymouth Theatre Guild's production of "Cheaper by the Dozen" played to large audiences in the auditorium of Central Middle School. The Altar Society of Our Lady of Counsel Church had a feather party Nov. 16. Canton Township Jaycee Auxiliary had an art auction in the township recreation hall. Jennifer Casper chaired the auction.

The Soo doughboys, a group of World War I bandmen and the only drum and bugle in the country still active since WWI, came to Plymouth to spend the night at the Mayflower Hotel. A gala reception, the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps, TV cameras, VFW and American Legion met them on their arrival in Plymouth after their two-week tour of England and France.

In mild mid-November, residents reported spring violets in bloom and buds on rose bushes. Sarah Ann Cochran chapter of the DAR celebrated its 52nd birthday with a luncheon party at Hillside Inn. Students in area schools marked Thanksgiving with turkey dinners and reenactments of the first Thanksgiving. Jan Elston and Marlene Lloyd co-hosted the Trailwood Garden Club's Nov. 27 meeting.

First United Methodist Church marked its sesquicentennial. At First United Presbyterian, the congregation gathered for blessing of the tartans.

Last weekend in November saw Santa Claus arrive in Plymouth and Old Village with a special Christmas Walk in the latter. The Plymouth Woman's Club's mitten tree was in place in the Edison office. The Presbyterians were collecting toys for their Dec. 2 toy sale.

DECEMBER

St. John's Episcopal Church women had their Christmas Mart Dec. 8 chaired by Carolyn Jacobs. Both the Apple Run Plymouth branches of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association had greens marts.

The Plymouth Grange had its Christmas bazaar the first weekend of the month. The Plymouth Community Chorus was in good voice as it rehearsed for a round of Christmas performances. Three Cities Art Club had its annual holiday sale of paintings in the Forest Place Mall. The Plymouth Ex-Newcomers Club planned its first Christmas potluck dinner for Dec. 8 in the Credit Union on Harvey Street.

Plymouth Historical Museum was decorated for the holidays with the theme "Christmas is for Children (of all ages.)"

The New York Savoyards were back Dec. 10 to perform "HMS Pinafore" with the Plymouth Symphony. The auditorium at Plymouth Salem High School was packed to the rafters.

Marge Mitchell received a special commendation from the Plymouth Canton Community Schools for her contribution to the students in the field of teaching history. The Thursday afternoon bridge group at the Plymouth Cultural Center had their annual Christmas buffet luncheon.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

For students at Fiegel Elementary School on Joy Road, the year ended on a high note. They had Paddington Week, with plays, songs, stories and muffins with marmalade. In the process, they became well-acquainted with Paddington the bear, a most entertaining fictional character. (Staff photo)

The Stroller

Tolling the bell

By W.W. EDGAR

For the past 40 years, an old iron bell has rested atop a pole in The Stroller's back yard.

It was a decoration most of the time and visitors walked by during the summer suns and never paid much attention to it.

In the spring rains folks raced by it, heads down, to get indoors.

But when winter's snows arrived and the holiday season was upon us the old bell came into its own.

THE BIG moment would come when the late Guy Lombardo's "Sweetest music this side of heaven" came over the airways to proclaim the arrival of a new year.

No sooner would the first strains of "Auld Lang Syne" be heard than there was a rush outdoors to gather at the old bell. Then, one by one, The Strol-ler's guests would take turns pulling the rope and let the bell toll its tunes for all the world to hear.

It was a new year. And the bell was the tool by which every one in the neighborhood was made aware that we were at the beginning of another twelve months that supposedly would be better than the one just past.

There was only one break in this New Year's Eve ritual. It came last year when The Stroller's mate, Leona, was in the hospital, the victim of a bad case of bronchitis that developed while she was having a new knee installed in her right leg.

For the first time in 40 years the rope on the old black bell was left hanging in the darkness because she wasn't there to give the signal to pull.

THIS YEAR it will be different. Through the magic of modern surgery, she is able to be about and the "miracle" that brought her from the hospital bed back home will make possible the continuation of the old bell-ringing tradition.

Ring of the bell on New Year's Eve has been a custom in The Stroller's home town in the Pennsylvania Dutch country. On the eve when old Father Time departs, we always made it a practice to attend what was called "Watch Night Service" in the little white church on the hill.

As the witching hour of midnight approached, we would arise in the family pews, join hands with those closest to us and then join in the singing of "Blessed Be The Tie That Binds." As the verse ended the old sexton in the steeple would start tugging at the bell to announce the arrival of the New Year.

Tipping the Scales

By NANCY AUSTIN

Joseph Arends, M.D., is a cardiovascular health expert whose practice is primarily concerned with preventative medicine.

Arends, whose practice is in Troy, is a physical fitness enthusiast who practices what he preaches, jogs several miles daily and adheres to a rigidly healthy diet.

People who know Arends say it is best not to go to him for health care unless you are ready to change your lifestyle.

"Lifestyle" is also the name of his newsletter in which he recently zeroed in on the problems of the overweight in America.

Holiday time, because of family celebrations and get-togethers with friends, is an appropriate time to give some serious thoughts to his remarks.

The holiday season and family meals manifest family and ethnic backgrounds in many different ways. Appropriate quotations are proclaimed throughout the meal to keep pressure on you to keep eating.

For example, the hostess may say, "Now make sure you eat it all up. There is plenty left in the kitchen." The person is left with the impression that they must keep eating or they are being wasteful. Perhaps, they feel, you have rejected the longed care with which the meal has been prepared.

Also heard is, "If you don't eat it up, I will just have to throw it out."

Following the meal, mother or grandmother has a jar of soup for you to take home along with assorted packages of meats and desserts.

In addition, obesity is unknowingly encouraged by mothers who encourage eating just prior to bedtime. "If you go the whole night without any food, you might wake up in the morning hungry."

Eating becomes a way of life and a means of being happy and joyous.

Food becomes a focal point for social interaction.

When people continue to encourage eating, Arends says, it is most important that the overweight person simply and honestly state that, "I have a weight problem and I cannot eat the foods you are offering to me. It is not that I do not appreciate your offerings or wish to be impolite, but I simply cannot eat that food."

Generally speaking, if the person has any respect for you at all, he will honor your request and stop offering food to you at every turn. If they refuse to honor your request, then they are showing you no respect and very possibly are projecting their own guilt and improper behavior toward your proper behavior.

The hostess who refuses to take no for an answer or says, "Oh, you can start your diet tomorrow," is really saying that you are a threat to her.

Choose A Retirement Plan With Security

If You Work For Someone Else . . .

You can qualify for this tax-sheltered retirement account if you are not currently a participant in any employer-sponsored retirement plan. With an Individual Retirement Custodial Account, you can save up to $1,500 or 15% of your annual earned income (whichever is less) and take the contribution as a tax deduction. In addition, all earnings (interest earned and compounded) on your retirement account are tax-sheltered until retirement.  An eligible IRA participant can increase retirement benefits and tax savings by opening a Spouse's IRA for a non-employed spouse. The combined total of contributions can be up to $1,750 or 15% of the working spouse's annual compensation (whichever is less). You may start making withdrawals from your IRA Account without penalty between the ages of 59½ and 70½.

Both retirement plans earn 8% interest, paid and compounded quarterly, yielding 8.24% annually. Minimum deposit is $25 and you can make additions of $25 or more any time. Deposits earn from the day of deposit but all deposits made in same calendar year have same maturity date—three years from December 31 of year in which the deposits are made.

If You Work For Yourself . . .

A self-employed individual can deposit up to a maximum of $7,500 or 15% of his self-employed income (whichever is less) in a Security Keogh Account and take that amount as an income-tax deduction. A Keogh Account can also be used to cover income from part-time self-employment even if you are covered by a retirement plan in a full-time job. Such part-time income could include consulting or lecture fees, director's or trustee's fee or income from art work. As an employer with a Keogh Account, you must include all employees who have worked for you for 1,000 hours or more for three consecutive years at the same contribution rate you select for yourself.

Withdrawals without penalty are permitted in the case of death or permanent disability. Otherwise Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate. There is also a substantial I.R.S. penalty for early withdrawal.

Special events welcome 1979 in area churches

Many area churchgoers will see the New Year in with activities in their own churches. Some of these year-end events include dances, concerts, dinners, films and services.

In its new activities center, the Sacred Heart Byzantine Catholic Church will hold a New Year's Eve dinner dance, which will feature the music of the Frank Kowal Smith and a prime round of beef dinner. The event will start at 7 p.m. in the center at 29125 Six Mile (just east of Middlebelt), Livonia.

Cost is $17.50 per persons with proceeds going to the building fund. For reservations contact Jim Kollar at 533-3066 or Aileen Karlewski at 535-5243.

Those unable to attend the event may be interested in preparing a delicious New Year's Eve feast of their own. Sacred Heart members have prepared a cookbook called "Our Best to You Again" containing 600 favorite and ethnic recipes for holiday dishes. The book costs $5 plus $1 for postage and handling.

Steve and Maria Gardner will be the special guest performers for New Year's Eve festivities in Clarenceville United Methodist Church, 20300 Middlebelt, Livonia.

The evening will begin at 8 p.m. with a dinner presented by the United Methodist Women. There will be a punch hour and get-acquainted period before the concert which begins at 10:30 p.m.

The two singers will be accompanied by guitar and taped orchestral sound tracks from their six record albums, with their repertoire including many original compositions.

Mrs. Gardner was named best vocal soloist at the international music competition at Winona Lake, Ind. Her husband was the best folk soloist. Gardner is a graduate of Wheaton College in Illinois, while his wife studied at Fort Wayne Bible College.

A candlelight service will be held at midnight following the concert. Donation for the evening is $9 for seventh graders through adults. Nursery service will be available for a small fee.

A New Year's Eve party for those from first through sixth grade will take place from 8-10:30 p.m. for $1.50. These children can attend the concert with their parents free of charge. Reservations for the evening are necessary. They can be made by calling the church at 474-3444.

The film, "Pilgrim's Progress" will be shown at a special New Year's Eve service in Bethel Baptist Temple, 29475 Six Mile, Livonia. It will start at 8 p.m.

Calvary Missionary Church, 29850 Six Mile, Livonia, will present a watchnight service Sunday, Dec. 31 from 8:30 p.m. until midnight. The event will include a carry-in dinner, special music, a baptismal service and communion. A film, "In God We Trust," will be shown.

The Sunday morning New Year's message will be given at 11 a.m. The topic is "Give Me This Mountain."

"New Life for the New Year" will be the subject of the address by Dr. Bartlett Hess at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services Sunday in Ward United Presbyterian Church, Farmington and Six Mile, Livonia. Reservations are necessary for the dinner that will start the evening activities at 6:15 p.m. Holy Communion and a time of prayer will follow at 8:15 p.m. The Rev. L. Edward Davis will give the communion meditation, "He Touches Me."

The film, "He Leadeth Me" will be shown at 9:15 p.m. It depicts the life story of Ken Medema, a composer-pianist who has been blind since birth. He holds a master's degree from the University of Michigan and has studied also at Juilliard School of Music in New York City.

He is presently director of music and creative arts therapy at the Essex County, N.Y., Psychiatric Hospital.

The 11 p.m. watchnight service will include music, hymn singing, candle lighting and a message from Dr. Hess.

Church of the Holy Spirit hears bishop, plans move

The Right Rev. H. Irving Mayson, Suffragen Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, will be guest speaker when the congregation of the Church of the Holy Spirit Episcopal Mission of Westland gathers to worship at 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 31.

The regular visit of the bishop is welcomed by the small congregation which currently is challenged with a problem different from the ones it usually faces.

Noted during its 19-year existence for dedicating itself to community projects, the 45 families that make up Holy Spirit must seek a new church home because the building they have been leasing at 34645 Cowan is being sold.

"The spirit of our people is certainly unique in my experience," said the Rev. Emery F. Gravelle, recently named vicar of the mission.

"They feel their calling is to put their efforts into feeding the hungry, visiting the sick, working on behalf of the poor, and that's what the lord said it was all about."

"Our people feel rightly that getting a new building is an administrative necessity, not an opportunity to build a monument to themselves."

The vicar said the advice of the visiting bishop would be welcomed because he is "a longtime advocate of community involvement."

He pointed out that Bishop Mayson has, since his election in 1976 as the assistant bishop of the diocese, served on the task force on hunger and nutrition named by Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and worked as a board member for New Detroit, Inc.

In earlier service in Ohio, he was honored by the Sargent Shriver Award for work in antipoverty and fair housing projects.

THE PROBLEM facing the congregation of Holy Spirit mission cannot be solved neatly because it was chartered as a Livonia mission and thus cannot purchase property in Westland, the vicar pointed out.

Founded in 1969 under the guidance of St. Andrew Episcopal Church of Livonia, it has never spent on itself any of the money it has raised in various ways, Rev. Gravelle said.

All fund-raising proceeds have been channeled into the community, with operating expenses met entirely through individual pledges and support from the Michigan diocese, he added.

Red cross needs blood transporters

The Northwest Regional Office of the American Red Cross needs volunteers to serve as drivers and special callers.

Drivers transport the blood collected at the regional office, 15457

Middlebelt, Livonia to the main office in Detroit. Special blood callers contact donors of particular blood types for specific blood needs like open heart surgery cases.

Volunteers may

Projects of community service include working with cancer patients in the Livonia and Westland area, with church members assisting by doing housecleaning and laundry for cancer victims, and providing transportation for doctor appointments and treatments. A registered nurse in the congregation also has been able to provide professional care free of charge.

IN ANOTHER gratifying experience for some members of the Holy Spirit "family," there was a two-year program aimed at rehabilitation for a child seriously brain injured.

As a result, the child finally was able to return to school and to a nearly-normal life.

The congregation also provides regular activities and entertainment for local nursing home patients and for a facility for the mentally retarded.

Some members join in a project to buy and serve food for the poor at the Episcopal Diocese Crossroads Center in Detroit, and marchers from the congregation annually support the muscular dystrophy fund campaign.

At a recent goal-planning session, the members committed themselves to increase service activities in the coming year.

Without a vote, they also know they will be devoting themselves to another project, finding a new church home.

Cults topic for chapel

A look at some of the cults in America will be the subject for a series of five Wednesday meetings, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 3, in Lake Pointe Bible Chapel, 42150 Schoolcraft, Plymouth.

The first program will be a showing of Hal Lindsay's movie, "The Occult." Then discussions led by Robert H. Johnston will look into characteristics common to 11 different cults, viewing them in relations to historic, orthodox principles of the Christian faith.

The chapel is located between Hagarty and Northville Roads. The sessions will continue through the month of January.

My doctor pronounced me cured of cancer. My boss didn't.

My boss didn't understand that I was healthy again.

So I was let go. A lot of people are like my boss. They think that everyone dies of cancer. I thought so too. Until the American Cancer Society through one of its service and rehabilitation programs, helped me return to a normal life.

The ACS also has local units that help Americans who've never had cancer understand it better.

Today, more and more cancer is a curable disease. Ignorance about cancer is curable, too.

At Lawrence Tech

It's architecture in cinema next week

Everything from the disintegration of Venice to the design and construction of medieval castles will be covered during a two-day architectural film series at Lawrence Institute of Technology, Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 3 and 4.

The films, sponsored by the college's student chapter, American Institute of Architects, will be presented in the architecture auditorium on the LIT campus, 21000 W. Ten Mile near Northwestern Highway in Southfield. They will run continuously from noon to approximately 11 p.m. both days. Admission is priced for the general public and for members of the SCAIA. Presented during the two days will be:

"A City Awakens." The sights and sounds of a city build to an awakening crescendo as each section comes to life. A film experience without narration. Wednesday and Thursday noon to 3 p.m.; Wednesday evening 8 p.m.

"The Towers." Story of the Watts Towers built in 30 years by immigrant Simon Rodilla out of bottles, crockery, seashells, etc. Wednesday and Thursday 12:15 and 3:15 p.m.; Wednesday evening 8:15 p.m.

"Cages." Themes of this award-winning animated film are man's dependence on authority and the consequences when rules are broken, intended to suggest we are all prisoners of our ideas, our dreams and our place in the world. Wednesday and Thursday 12:30 and 3:30 p.m.; Wednesday evening 8:30 p.m.

"Energy, Less is More." About the need to reduce energy consumption in transportation, buildings, appliances and waste. Also discusses alternatives and design. Wednesday and Thursday 12:40 and 3:40 p.m.; Wednesday evening 8:40 p.m.

"Frank Film." A flood of 11,000 images—collage shots—that accompany life in America give an autobiography of a young man, Frank, including his view of his experience in architectural school. Wednesday and Thursday 1 and 4 p.m.; Wednesday evening 9 p.m.

"Venice Polluted." A film about the ecological imbalance that is causing the disintegration of Venice. Wednesday and Thursday 1:10 and 4:10 p.m.; Wednesday evening 9:10 p.m.

"Joshua in a Box." An animated film about human emotional response to frustration from a seemingly hopeless situation to the frustrations of complete freedom. Raises questions about humans' need for limitations as a necessity for happiness. Wednesday and Thursday 1:25 and 4:25 p.m.; Wednesday evening 9:25 p.m.

"Jackson Pollock." A film about the modern American artist including scenes of him at work in his studio. Wednesday and Thursday 1:35 and 4:35 p.m.; Wednesday evening 9:35 p.m.

"Our Changing Cities." A study of the causes of crises in our cities—unemployment, crime, social conflicts—looking at the technological revolution as a cause of our problems. Wednesday and Thursday 1:45 and 4:45 p.m. Wednesday evening 9:45 p.m.

"Citizen Harold." A cartoon about a citizen driven to city hall to prevent the destruction of trees in his neighborhood, but he only ends up back in front of his TV after being bounced from office to office, and his friends refuse to join him. Wednesday and Thursday 2:05 and 5:05 p.m.; Wednesday evening 10:05 p.m.

"Medieval Castles." A film about the design and construction of medieval castles. Wednesday and Thursday 2:15 and 5:15 p.m.; Wednesday evening 10:15 p.m.

"Sky." A day in the life of the sky and its many changing moods. Wednesday and Thursday 2:35 and 5:35 p.m.; Wednesday evening 10:35 p.m.

German medieval ensemble to perform at DIA

Sequentia, a medieval music ensemble from Cologne, Germany, will perform three concerts at the Detroit Institute of Arts Jan. 7.

Specializing in music of the 12th and 13th centuries, Sequentia uses such instruments as the vielle, the mandora, the hurdy-gurdy, the gittern, the lute and the harp.

The group will give two Brunch with Bach performances, at 10 and 11:15 a.m. A 3 p.m. concert featuring music about Richard the Lion-hearted, Thomas Becket, and the crusades as well as medieval religious music will be given in the Art Institute's Recital Hall.

For reservations and more information, call the Art Institute ticket office at 832-2730.

He's the maestro, and the musicians sing the praises of Antal Dorati

By MARJ JACKSON LEVIN

Antal Dorati, the new music director of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, has appeared with every major orchestra in the world.

Born in Budapest 73 years ago, he was trained as a composer, cellist, pianist and conductor. He has over 300 recordings to his credit, including this month's album release of the DSO performing Tchaikovsky, which is selling well in the area.

Dorati also paints, jogs and is a master storyteller. Truly the renaissance man, he has brought a rebirth to the orchestra.

Here are the thoughts of some of the orchestra's members on Dorati.

PAUL GANSON—bassoon, ninth year with DSO:

"All conductors represent a life force for the musicians. With Dorati I feel I'm in the presence of one of the great forces of nature. There are beautiful sunny days and heavy stormy, tornado days, but Dorati's world is a bright hopeful one."

"He's a tremendous life force which extends beyond the symphony itself. There are already more people coming to the symphony because of Dorati. People were scalping tickets during the Beethoven Festival."

"He radiates positive feelings which is what we need in our city. This season we're looking forward to different things. The maestro eschews routine. One would have thought after the Beethoven Festival, it would be Bach or Brahms, and now it will be Schubert."

"Oh, of course, routine plays a part, we have to perfect ourselves. He's very disciplined, but still this year we look forward to another unique experience."

"He is a very intelligent, canny man, a joy to be around. He transforms each of us in the orchestra into something better than we knew ourselves to be. He enables us to seek out and define a new world in ourselves we didn't know existed."

GORDON SMITH—trumpet, 30 years with DSO:

"A conductor has to have the mental conception of the music. Dorati exhibits this to an exceptional degree. I'd say mentally, if you were going to rate him on a scale of one to 10, he'd be right up there at the top."

"I've been with the orchestra under Kruger, Paray, Ehrling, Ceccato, Dorati, but evaluating them is very subjective. It's too soon to evaluate Dorati, but his past performance is very substantial. You can't argue with that kind of success."

"Last year was one of the more enjoyable years I've spent with the orchestra. He was with us for eight weeks, and we sure crammed a lot of musical activity into them—a recording session with London Decca at the United Artists Theater, the Beethoven Festival, which was video taped for PBS.

"This year I'm looking forward to more musical unification, for the orchestra to play with greater dynamics, just more... more of everything."

JAMES WARING—violin, 20 years with DSO:

"The impact Dorati has, has been tremendous. Ripples have spread all across the city. He's an internationally famous man. He commands respect. The whole orchestra has gained from his leadership."

"There's no doubt about the fact that he's the boss. He's a take-over person. He tells everyone what to do—the stage hands, the board, the management, the musicians."

"That's one of the major differences. He does know exactly what he wants. If there's a problem on stage, he doesn't hesitate about the solution. He says, 'Oh, I see what's wrong. I know how to fix it. I know the way.'"

"It's very easy to criticize the boss, but I personally prefer a conductor who makes decisions, right or wrong, and we go with him. One time at rehearsal, he had Marshall Turkin, the manager, Bob Semple, president of the symphony, the orchestra and himself. Dorati told everyone what each must do. That's the first time I've seen the four parts put in exactly the right perspective."

"Under Dorati we are in search of an international reputation. An executive from London Decca said he was stunned, pleased and surprised to find such a terrific orchestra in Detroit. Now everyone will begin to know about us. We've been such a secret up to now."

"Next year, we'll go on a European tour for five weeks. We start in Spain and end in London. We'll play all of the big cities in the best halls."

"Yes, he has a temper. We haven't been yelled at since the Paray days. But you have to look at the whole man. He's willing to do all these other things. He's tough in musical areas, but he doesn't demand more from us than he's willing to give."

"He stands during five-hour rehearsals, never sits, he's tireless."

"In the final analysis, the musicians have to do the playing, the conductor's job is to lead them, bring them together, create an atmosphere where we can perform at our highest level, an atmosphere of confidence, mutual respect, hard work, patience, personal trust."

"This takes a long time. Dorati has begun this work. I'll give him my best. I enjoy my job at the present more than I have in many years."

DSO's Beethoven on 56

"A Beethoven Festival," a nine-part series with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Music Director Antal Dorati, will debut on Channel 56 at 8 p.m. Jan. 6.

The series will be shown for nine consecutive weeks. Saturday shows will be repeated at 6 p.m. Sunday.

A different Beethoven symphony will be presented each week. This is the first time the complete symphonic works of any composer have been presented on television.

The performances were taped during the DSO's two-week Beethoven Festival in 1977, commemorating the 150th anniversary of the composer's death.

The series will feature commentary by Dorati and be hosted by E. G. Marshall.

For New Year's

• 'Nutcracker' with DSO

Tickets are still available for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's New Year's Eve performance of the "Nutcracker."

The performance, under the baton of Assistant Conductor Kenneth Jean, begins at 9 p.m. and is followed by a New Year's Eve celebration in the Social Room of Ford Auditorium.

Music will be provided by Tom Saunders' Surf Side Six. There will be free noisemakers and hats and a cash bar.

This year's DSO "Nutcracker" will feature special guest dancers Denise Jackson and Gregory Huffman from the Joffrey Ballet. Dance Detroit, the resident company of Marygrove College is also featured.

Tickets are available at the Ford Auditorium box office and all Hudson's ticket outlets.

• 'Pops' on Channel 56

Arthur Fiedler, one of America's most beloved music makers, has invited viewers to join him and his orchestra as they ring out the old and ring in the new on a special New Year's Eve show.

"New Year's at Pops" will be seen Sunday, Dec. 31, live, starting at 11:00 p.m., on Channel 56.

Boston's Symphony Hall will be transformed into an elegant ballroom for the event, as formally-attired guests listen, dance and sing along to the music of the Boston Pops. The Pops' blend of musical traditions — from ragtime to rock to classical — will culminate in the playing of "Auld Lang Syne" at midnight.

Guests at the gala celebration will be Jose Greco, acclaimed as one of the world's finest Spanish dancers, and his dance company. For "New Year's at Pops," he has arranged a special performance of Ravel's "Bolero."

• 'Fantasticks' in Dearborn

A dinner theater production of "The Fantasticks" will highlight the New Year's Eve package at Mr. Mac's Stable in Parklane Towers, Dearborn.

The dinner includes a choice of prime ribs of beef, baked stuffed filet of sole or New York sirloin steak.

The evening runs 6:30 p.m. to 4 a.m. and includes favors and noisemakers, champagne and breakfast buffet. For reservations or further information, call 649-0903.

• Party atop the Pontch

A Top of the Pontch party package is being offered by the downtown Detroit hotel.

Included is dinner with limited cocktails, dancing to Celebrity, tax, tip, cover charge, party favors and noisemakers.

The regular dinner menu (not part of the package) is served 6-8 p.m.

A Charley's Raw Bar/Versailles Ballroom party package includes dinner with choice of six entrees, dancing to First Morning, party favors and noisemakers, cover charge, tax and tip.

The Salamandre Bar will be open as usual, with Ernie Swan at the piano bar.

• Disco in Southfield

A disco party will dance in New Year's Eve at the Grand Ballroom of the Michigan Inn with host Paul Christy broadcasting live on WMJC-FM.

The party includes all favors, hats, noisemakers, music and entertainment. Advance tickets are available at the front desk of the Michigan Inn.

Tickets also will be available at the door.

Down the hall at Dewey's are the entertainment production numbers of Dan Nelson Production (cover charge extra). In addition, a breakfast buffet beginning at 1 a.m. will be held in the St. Clair room.

Medically speaking

Mary Ottman and John Morgan Lund, as Lucinde, a mock patient being treated by Sganarelle, a mock doctor, appear in "The Doctor in Spite of Himself" at the Hilberry Theatre. The Moliere farce, on a double bill with Sheridan's "The Critic," continues in the repertory through January. Ticket and schedule information is available from the Hilberry box office in Detroit at 577-2972.

Josh White returns to Raven

Josh White Jr. is performing at the Raven Gallery in Southfield now through Jan. 14.

Show times are Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday at 9:30 p.m. and Friday and Saturday at 9:30 and 11:30 p.m.

Accompanying himself on guitar, this folk, rock and gospel singer has performed on Broadway and on the Bowery, at Chicago's Playboy Club and its Amazing Grace, and in Birmingham, Ala., and England.

He began singing professionally at 4, the top of his head resting on the knee of his illustrious father, Josh White, author of "St. James Infirmary" and original adapter and performer of "One Meat Ball" and "House of the Rising Sun."

While grown-up New York actors were praying their careers would culminate on Broadway, young Josh's was born there. For 10 years, he attended Professional Children's School, where he met Marvin Hamlisch and became the first performer to record one of Hamlisch's songs. "See Saw."

But, mostly, he has sung—in top concert halls (including Lincoln Center and Madison Square Garden) and clubs (like Philadelphia's Main Point and Washington D.C.'s Cellar Door).

On college campuses (1,500 concerts so far) and television (Mike Douglas and "Today" shows, for example). And this spring, he completed a tour of 11 European countries.

He's sung for everyone because he believes that "everyone can be touched, if we just find the right song."

While he still loves to sing the songs his father did, this child has got his own. So do his friends.

The Josh White Jr. repertoire draws on all three sources, searching out the songs his soul already knows.

"I SING because that is an expression of my soul. When I'm on stage, I feel I'm totally in control of the situation, but when I come off the stage, I'm vulnerable, like anyone else. I not only sing for me, but I sing for a lot of other people who feel the same way I do," Josh explains.

JOSH WHITE JR.

Jazz on WEMU

WEMU-FM (89.0) in Ypsilanti will broadcast more than eight hours of live jazz and comedy on New Year's Eve.

Starting at 9:30 p.m., "Jazz Alive" from National Public Radio will present a salute to Count Basie from Boston. At 12:30 a.m., the program will switch to San Francisco for music by Hubert Laws, Don Cherry and Freddie Hubbard, among others.

Facing the cynics

Well, he got to the screen, red cape intact, and minus the crotch airbrushing of past practice.

And the PR superfuss appears to be working its magic. Hordes of fans swarming the select theatres where Superman flies on the big screen guarantee a stock rise for the promotion firm.

Unfortunately, the crowds are enduring considerable discomfort to hear an admittedly gorgeous Chris Reeves talk about "Truth, Justice and the American Way" in the face of Gene Hackman's satanic plots to destroy the system.

As one of the crazies who stood half an hour in line to purchase a ticket, only to return that evening for a nearly 45-minute endurance test in a crowd crunch before I could scramble to a seat, I'm here to protest about the unveiling and packaging of "Superman, The Movie."

Re: the technicalities—if advanced tickets must be purchased, why can't a theater offer numbered seats? I like to sit near the front, but from the fifth row the north pole fortress looks like a wad of fuzzy Kleenex.

UNFORTUNATELY, the plot is just as fuzzy. terrific special effects do not a movie make in my book, although the loud cheers and applause in the theater confirm my minority status on the issue.

About halfway through the showing, I figured out the problem—schizophrenia—not on my part but within the film.

At least three different moods give you the feeling you're watching a three-act play written by three different authors unaware of each other's intent.

A post-movie discussion with my film buff brother confirmed my suspicions. The imprints of at least three different directors failed to reach the cutting floor, he says.

After a booming visual and auditory credits repeat—that would be hard to beat as a moodsetter, the Krypton episode is dead serious with show-stopping cinematic spectaculars.

Unfortunately, although perhaps in the black humor vein, the film quickly degenerates as the babe lands on Earth. One can only assume that the film editor was on her coffee break when a particularly soppy shot of the 18-year-old Superman-to-be and his Earth mother in a clutch shot went through the movieola.

The symbolism gets as thick as the Hulk's biceps when Superman discovers his mission as the "only son" sent to save the primitive earthlings from their follies. I u

The boasting of Lex Luthor in his underground hideout fleshes out the fallen angel ready for the battle between good and evil.

When Clark Kent arrives at the Daily Planet, the film turns to high camp. By now everyone knows that the man of steel's vision passes Lois Lane's test when she asks him for the color of her underwear. The pitch heightens from amusing to silly as the battle draws near.

Since I'm sure superfans will test out the film for themselves, I've no doubt the producers will see their investments safely through to "Superman II," already in the works. And because fantasy appears to be the only marketable asset in the cynical '70's, we're bound to be faced with a load of LL's in the future as Superman, lacking "The Force" but armed with his many talents, solves the world's problems with a twist of the wrist.

Box Bar & Grill

It's difficult to say goodbye to a community after 25 years. During my quarter of a century in the Box Bar, there have been good times and bad times in Plymouth. But through them all, there were the people who worked, lamented, rejoiced and talked together.

To the business people, the people who worked for and with me at the Box, and to the people who came in as customers and became friends, I give my thanks. I'll miss you, but I'll have the pleasure of remembering our association. Somehow, you have made me feel that I am leaving my hometown.

Thank you!

In the holiday spirit

Members of Cub Scout Pack 743, Den 1, which meets in Allen Elementary, got in the holiday spirit recently by visiting a local nursing home to sing carols and present gifts to senior citizens. The boys presented jars of Christmas

County clerk to urge grant rejection

Wayne County Commissioner George Killeen said he will urge the county to temporarily reject a $1.3 million state grant to beef up sheriff's traffic patrols unless the state lets the county spend those dollars on what he feels are more critical law enforcement needs.

Killeen (D-Detroit) said a Nov. 27 letter from Sheriff William Lucas asked the board of commissioners to apply for a $1.4 million state grant to establish what amounts to a "traffic control and ticketing team" on county secondary roads, in an effort to reduce auto accidents.

Under Public Act 416 of 1978, commonly known as the Sheriff's Secondary Road Law, the state made Michigan's 83 counties eligible for state funds to expand sheriff's road patrol services in the area of traffic law enforcement.

The state legislature has appropriated an initial $8.7 million for a state-wide secondary road patrol program, with Wayne County slated to get $1.3 million for fiscal 1978-79.

"I think it is foolish to talk about expanding traffic road patrols when there is a critical need for those dollars in the criminal justice system already," Killeen said.

"Wayne County is in a financial straight jacket. We are laying off prosecutors and have slashed court budgets and other vital county services in an effort to balance our budget."

"Then, along comes the state, with a tantalizing $1.3 million offering—but unfortunately, those much-needed state dollars are directed solely at the enforcement of traffic violations, rather than the hard-core criminal who is roaming the streets committing murder, rape and armed robbery," Killeen added.

"It's up to the board of commissioners to determine and adjust our spending priorities so that we use limited dollars in the best interests of all of the taxpayers of this county."

Killeen said he will seek the necessary legislative changes to allow the county to spend those dollars on a county-wide basis for priority law enforcement needs, such as the organized crime task force and the jailing of hardened criminals.

He said he will introduce a resolution before the board of commissioners at its next meeting urging the state to "reconsider" its imposed restrictions on this tax money, especially in light of Wayne County's dire need for funds in the criminal law enforcement area.

"What frustrates me is that the state is willing to spend $1 million to catch normally law-abiding citizens, but it turns the other way when we ask for funds to catch and lock up crooks and violent criminals," he added.

"As the grant offer now stands, only 20 per cent of the people of Wayne County would derive any benefit from the million-dollar expenditure," he said.

"Cities like Detroit, Dearborn, Harper Woods and the Grosse Pointes already have police departments with traffic control units—and the state police are doing the job on county freeways."

He said only the villages and townships (the unincorporated areas) would derive any benefit at all.

In addition, Killeen said the majority of revenue collected from traffic offenders would go into the coffers of the few municipalities where the sheriff would be patrolling.

"That means that a resident of cities like Detroit or Harper Woods could be getting zero in terms of increased traffic patrols, nothing in increased revenues and nothing out of a $1 million state hand-out of taxpayers' money."

Killeen also said he had "reservations" about accepting state grants that were "subject to run out in a few years."

"This could leave the county with a new program to fund down the line—and the accompanying labor difficulties, such as we have now, if we try to lay off anybody once state funds run out," he said.

Killeen said he wanted the public safety and judiciary committee, which he chairs, and the full board of commissioners, to take a "very close look" at the terms of this grant.

According to the sheriff's letter, the grant would fund a secondary road patrol unit consisting of 27 police officers, one detective (traffic specialist), a police sergeant, and a lieutenant.

It would also purchase a fleet of 17 patrol cars, one van, radar sets, radios and other supportive equipment.

He said that in the case of Romulus alone, this grant would cost the county

10 per cent to administer the program along with fringe benefits.

"We simply can't afford to be taking on new costs when we are laying off people in critical public services," he said.

The public safety and judiciary committee voted to send the sheriff's request on to the ways and means committee without recommendation so that it could be "fully discussed by all 27 commissioners." The committee is expected to meet in January.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING CITY COMMISSION CITY OF PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the City Commission of the City of Plymouth, in the Commission Chamber of the City Hall, on Monday, January 15, 1979, at 7:30 P.M., to consider amendments to Chapter 52, ZONING, of the Plymouth City Code, as follows:

Amending the text of Section 5.186, Footnotes, of Article XIV, by adding a new Sub-section (q), to read as follows:
(q) For side or rear yards which border on a residential district, there shall be provided a setback of not less than twenty (20) feet in the I-1 (Light Industrial District) and forty (40) feet in the I-2 (Heavy Industrial District). The side yard requirement on an interior side yard abutting an industrial district may be waived by the Planning Commission providing that the combined total side yard requirement of twenty (20) feet in the I-1 District and forty (40) feet in the I-2 District be located on the other side and provided further that the Planning Commission finds that such a building location on the lot line shall not adversely affect existing and/or potential development patterns in the area and that the building location and construction are acceptable to the City Building and Fire Departments.

also
Amending Section 5.185, Schedule of Regulations, of Article XIV, by deleting footnote (h) as a requirement for industrial districts and replacing it with footnote (q).

All interested persons are invited to attend this hearing and will be given an ample opportunity to participate in the hearing. At the close of the hearing, all comments and suggestions of those citizens participating will be considered by the City Commission before rendering its decision.

A copy of the items scheduled for hearing is on file in the Office of the City Clerk during regular office hours for public examination.

Held hostage by doctor

Help! I'm being held hostage in the examination room of my doctor's office.

I confess that I'm not quite sure of their intentions out there, but I know I've been in here long enough for them to compose, deliver and receive a reply to a rather lengthy ransom note. The really sad part is that I walked into this cubicle of my own volition without leaving word with another living soul as to where I would be.

I wonder how many days I will sit here before my husband notices no one has been nagging him lately or the kids find that the lack of a human punching bag is putting a damper on their life style? I wanna go home!

It has been one hour and 15 minutes since that smiling receptionist led me from the waiting room (where I had already spent close to an hour) and asked me to "wait a moment" in this teeny, tiny little room. I thought (stilly me) that I was going to see my doctor.

So far I've memorized a fascinating chart depicting graphic details of the human colon and counted all the tongue depressors that were visible in the little glass jar that's next to the big glass jar with 47 cotton balls in it.

Just what do they expect me to do in here? There's no television, no magazines, no books. What am I supposed to do? Meditate?? I can't do that; I don't even have a Mantra.

Maybe this is an experiment. Maybe my good ol' doctor is just doing another one of those studies to find out how long a person can go without stimulation to their senses before they just crack up altogether. Sigh. I'm so bored!

It's lucky for me that I always carry paper and pen or by now I would probably be out in the hall on my knees begging him to please see me next. That's not such a bad idea.

I just heard someone outside the door say, "Is Nancy Smith in Room 1?"

You mean they don't know? I think they've forgotten I'm here. I bet the nurse has filed away my chart and I'll sit here until I'm discovered by some nice old cleaning lady around 10:30 tonight. I wanna go home!

It's fortunate for me that this is just a routine check-up. I'd hate to be in any kind of pain while sitting here staring at the good doctor's diplomas and citations of merit. I'm assuming they don't make you wait quite so long if you've got an appendicitis or something good like that. They wouldn't treat me like this if I was in labor.

But now that I think about it, I'd rather be treated like this than be in labor.

I think it was when I was pregnant that I became truly disillusioned with doctors. Well, not really doctors. Just their incredible lack of skill when it comes to scheduling their patients. As any woman who has given birth knows, when it gets down to your last month of pregnancy, you start spending more time in the doctor's waiting room than you do at home.

Once a week you have to go in to sit for a couple of hours just so the doctor can take your blood pressure, listen to the baby, and tell you that you're getting fat. When you start seeing the same big-tummied ladies week after week, you start to feel like friends.

One day I hurriedly waddled into the waiting room, which was filled with about 15 ladies. I flopped my mammoth body into one of those hard wooden chairs and sighed, "Oh, dear, I'm late. My appointment was at 1:15."

It turned out that five others of those present were also scheduled for 1:15. Now wasn't that silly of the doctor to make a mistake like that?

I don't want to irritate the medical profession. Being a true-blue hypochondriac, I need them. I just want someone to come in here and tell me my sentence is up.

Maybe if I charged the doctor for my time wasted, we would come out even when it comes time to settle the bill.

Fat chance.

Credit where credit is due

Editor:

As a professional home economist, I read with great interest the article in the Observer about the holiday classes at Gourmet Gallery.

It surprised me, however, to see your paper's (or your reporter's) lack of giving credit to the correct person. I'm sure Mr. Janes informed you that the Gingerbread House Class was designed and developed by Mrs. Loretta Mirro, home economist. She also designed a dinner party class which all of the recipes and ideas for holiday entertaining came from.

The gingerbread house which appears in the picture was constructed by Mrs. Mirro and loaned to the Gourmet Gallery for customers to see what an expert she is.

I feel that these facts should be made clear. Give credit where credit is due.

Editor:

On Dec. 10 my husband was taken to St. Mary Hospital and was hospitalized for eight days and later put on a medical leave for an unspecified time.

Needless to say, our plans for the holidays and the next few months were shattered. Thanks to an anonymous friend who contacted the elves at the Plymouth Goodfellows, our holidays were made more enjoyable and our spirits brighter with toys and food delivered to our home Christmas Eve day.

We would like to thank everyone who has helped us during these past weeks. We never knew we had so many friends. Truly, there is a Spirit of Christmas. We know, because He came to our home.

The Bottom Line

By RONALD G. LOISELLE

(Ronald G. Loisel of Plymouth is a business counselor with General Business Services. This article, one in a series, is to help individuals and businesses prepare for filing income tax returns.)

Wise business owners have always known the importance of purchasing assets in the latter part of the year.

The major reason is obvious. Substantial tax savings can be achieved by purchasing tangible business property in the latter part of the year and deducting part of its cost on the income tax return.

TANGIBLE BUSINESS property purchased and placed in business use is depreciated over the life of the asset.

Basically, IRS rules prohibit the deduction of the entire cost of the asset if it is expected to be useful more than one year.

The life of the asset is established by prior business experience or agreement with the Internal Revenue Service, using guidelines issued by IRS. When an asset is purchased, the business owner is allowed to deduct the cost by subtracting a portion of it on the tax return each year.

How does it work?

FIRST, AN ASSET purchased with a useful life of at least seven years or more qualifies for a 10 per cent investment credit.

This credit, which is deducted directly from the tax liability rather than from income, is an inducement for business owners to purchase business equipment. This, in turn, helps create new jobs for individuals to operate the equipment.

Special alert: The Revenue Act of 1978 has liberalized the credit to cover the costs of rehabilitating certain industrial and commercial buildings more than 20 years old. Any such costs incurred after Nov. 1, 1978, are eligible for the 10 per cent credit, so it isn't too late to cash in on the tax benefit.

The investment credit does not reduce the basis for depreciation. For example, you purchase a machine expected to last seven years for $10,000. You would receive a $1,000 direct credit against your tax liability regardless of the time of the year you purchased the asset.

You also could take advantage of the 20 per cent first-year depreciation allowance, in addition to the regular depreciation deducted. The first-year depreciation allowance will reduce the basis for regular depreciation.

If the asset has a useful life of six years or more, the 20 per cent first-year depreciation is allowable, up to a maximum deduction of $2,000 on single and corporation/partnership returns, and $4,000 on joint returns. In the above example, this would equal an additional $2,000 deduction, leaving a depreciable basis of $8,000.

VARIOUS METHODS of regular depreciation can be used.

The simplest is straight-line which allows an equal amount of deduction each year of the life of the asset. The declining balance method, otherwise known as accelerated depreciation, provides more depreciation in the first few years.

What happens if the asset is purchased in the latter part of the year? Conservatively, you would use one-twelfth of the depreciation allowance times the months you own the asset.

As an alternative, you could use a "half-year convention" which states that all assets purchased during the year can be depreciated for six months.

This means that in the year of disposition, you would assume at least a six-month life ownership, regardless of the month in which it is disposed. However, the half-year convention can only be used if it is used consistently for all assets.

Purchasing business assets during the latter part of the year makes good business sense. Re-examine your capital asset needs for the end of your tax year.

Traffic deaths to zoom to 5-year high

According to projections by the Highway Users Federation, more than 51,000 Americans will die in traffic accidents by the end of this year. That figure is at least 1,500 more than last year and the highest annual death toll since 1973.

The number of deaths per 100 million miles driven (the mileage death rate) is expected to edge upward from last year's rate of 3.38.

The federation estimates that the 1978 death toll may be as high as 51,600.

The highway death toll gradually climbed to an all-time high of more than 56,000 in 1972, remained at more than 55,000 in 1973, then dropped to 46,402 in 1974, on the heels of a gasoline shortage and lower highway speed limits. But since 1976, the traffic deaths have been increasing. Last year, 49,500 died in traffic crashes.

City commission to meet Jan. 3

Despite what you might read on the city calendar, the next meeting of the Plymouth City Commission will be Wednesday Jan. 3.

The annual report, in calendar form, will be distributed to residents with the information that the first commission meeting of 1979 will be on Jan. 8.

But the calendar was printed before the city commission decided it would be better to meet on Wednesday, Jan. 3, in order to shorten the long lapse between regular meetings caused by the holiday break.

Unfortunately, by the time the decision was made, the calendar annual report already was printed.

After the Jan. 3 meeting, the next regular meeting will be Monday, Jan. 15. The commission then will meet on the first and third Monday of each month with these exceptions: Tuesday, Feb. 20, and Tuesday, Sept. 4.

Girls' basketball improvement leads to 15 picked for all-area team by coaches

Canton Observer

SPORTS

Thursday, December 28, 1978

(C)1C

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
and DOUG FUNKE

There have been great advancements in girls' basketball programs over the years and this season was no exception. In fact, the quality of girls' basketball was so exceptional in the Observer area that coaches decided to give first-team status to all 15 girls who were selected to represent the area.

Livonia Bentley, runners-up in the Suburban Eight League, advanced the farthest in state tournament action this fall, going to the quarterfinals before bowing to Detroit Mumford. Bentley won district and regional titles before falling to the Public School League champs.

Plymouth Salem was the only unbeaten Observer squad during regular season action, finishing with a 20-0 record and the Sub-8 championship.

Plymouth Canton also won its league race, capping the Western Six League for the second straight season. The Chiefs advanced to regional action in the state tournament before losing to semifinalist Lansing Everett.

Redford Union headed all the Northwest Suburban League clubs, winning that title in its first year of competition in the new league. The Panthers also put together a 16-game win streak during the regular season.

Area coaches recently met to pick the 15 best cagers in the area. Here are the results of these first-team selections:

Nancy Lawson, junior, Redford Union. One of the top centers in the area, Panther coach Ken Dersey is excited to have this cager back one more season. The durable Lawson was known for her quick moves inside, leading RU to the Northwest Suburban crown as the squad's top scorer with a 14.4 average. The 5-11 all-league selection also led her club in rebounds with 307—170 of which came off the offensive boards.

Patty Weidman, junior, Plymouth Salem. Another prize junior center in the area, Weidman was one of the main forces behind Salem's success this season. The 6-0, all-Sub-8 selection averaged 11 points and eight rebounds a game. She also added 91 blocked shots, intimidating many opponents on defense.

"Patty is a very team-oriented player with the ability to make the big play," said Salem coach Bob Blohm. "She has to be considered one of the best inside players not only in the area but the state."

Liz O'Brien, junior, Livonia Ladywood. This junior forward repeats as an all-Observer selection, averaging 17.1 points and 13.5 rebounds a game to lead coach Ed Kavanaugh's club. An all-around player, O'Brien also averaged three assists and 2.6 steals per game. She shot 45 per cent from the floor and 62 per cent from the charity line.

Voted the Most Valuable Player in the Sault Ste. Marie tourney, O'Brien also was chosen first-team all-Catholic. She was Ladywood's team captain.

Evie Pasek, senior, Plymouth Canton. The four-year letter winner has started every Canton game in her prep career. Also an all-Western Six League forward, Pasek was known primarily for her leadership this season in leading the Chiefs to a 20-3 overall record.

"Evie's desire and team leadership are the major reasons for Canton's successful seasons," said Chief coach Mike McCauley. "She has helped Canton win over 90 per cent of its contests over the past three years."

Carla Hally, senior, Livonia Bentley. Considered by many as one of the finest guards in the area, Hally, an all-Sub-8 selection averaged 10 points a game but was known for her aggressive style of pressing defense against her foes.

"Carla is one of the quickest basketball players in Observerland," said Bentley coach Tom Lang. "Her confidence and aggressive play (both offensively and defensively) have led the Bulldogs to two very fine seasons in a row."

Jean Rowley, junior, Redford Thurston. The Eagles' top player this season, Rowley, only a junior, averaged 10.3 points and 7.3 rebounds per game from her forward position. She shot 67 per cent from the free throw line and 47 per cent from the floor.

"Jean is the most natural basketball player I've ever had," said Thurston coach Jane Robey. "I see great things for her as a senior."

Nan Horwood, junior, Plymouth Salem. One of Salem's co-captains this season, Horwood, an all-Sub-8 guard, was a fine passer and ball handler in leading Salem with seven assists per game. She also had the ability to handle opponents' defensive pressure.

"Nan is a fine team player who puts the team before her own individual accomplishments," said Salem's Blohm. "She is very consistent and dependable in all phases of the game. She like the challenge of a big game—a fine competitor."

Gail Oljace, senior, Livonia Churchill. The all-Western-6 league forward was the Chargers' top scorer this season with a nine-point average. She was second on the squad in rebounding. A solid college prospect in basketball, as well as volleyball and softball, Oljace gave that extra effort for coach Don Albertson's club.

"It was a real pleasure knowing and working with this fine young woman," said the Churchill mentor.

Oljace has a 3.36 grade point average.

Beth Burgess, senior, Livonia Bentley. A two-time all-Observer selection, Burgess, a senior guard, was the Bulldogs' top offensive player with an 11-point average. Also a two-time all-Sub-8 first-team selection, Burgess was recently voted Bentley's Most Valuable Player by her teammates and coaches.

"It has been noted several times by many area coaches that Beth has the most 'perfect' jump shot," said Bentley's Lang.

Micki McLain, guard, Redford Union. Making her second straight appearance on the all-Observer squad, McLain, also an all-Northwest Suburban guard, was one of the main thrusts behind the Panthers' successful season. The 5-6 cager averaged 8.9 points per game for Dersey's squad, shooting 43 per cent from the floor and 59 per cent from the free throw line.

Sharon Raftrey, senior, Garden City East. The 5-3 guard was the top player for coach Jan Moore's Panthers this season. She averaged 9.2 points, nine assists and five steals in East's 18 games. She averaged 57 per cent from the free throw line and 37 per cent from the floor.

"Sharon is an excellent floor leader and an outstanding defensive player," said Moore. Raftrey also stars in the classroom with a 3.5 grade point average.

Kathie Peck, senior, Plymouth Canton. The spunky senior all-Western-6 selection is perhaps the most exciting player in the area. She was the Chiefs' second leading scorer this season with a 10-point average but also added 85 assists and 67 steals. A four-year letter winner, Peck will be missed by both the team and fans next season.

"Kathie has been one of the most exciting ball players in Observerland history," said Canton's McCauley. "Her exceptional speed and agility should help her be a fine college ball player next year."

Betty Owens, senior, Redford Union. Another senior guard, Owens, who stands 5-5, was a first-team all-Northwest Suburban selection. She has an outstanding eye from the outside, leading the Panther shooting attack over zone defenses with her 12.5 scoring average.

Sue Beger, senior, Redford Thurston. One of the most consistent ball players for the Eagles over the last three varsity seasons, Beger, a forward, averaged eight points per game and monopolized the boards both offensively and defensively in grabbing 187 caroms this season.

"Sue also was a good team player," said Thurston's Robey.

"She helped those not as talented as herself. She was a totally unselfish player."

Kelly Heaton, senior, Plymouth Canton. The strong pivot player for the Chiefs, Heaton, a three-year starter and all-Western-6 selection, led Canton in scoring, rebounding and blocked shots this season. She is a two-time all-Observer player.

"Kelly is one of the strongest centers in Wayne or Oakland County," said Canton's McCauley. "Her success on the basketball court certainly places Kelly as a talented and hard-working athlete."

Ocelot cagers win from Flint for 6-9 mark

The Schoolcraft College basketball team kept its conference record perfect last week when the Ocelots defeated Flint Mott Community College, 96-89. The win gives Schoolcraft a 6-0 Eastern Conference mark.

The Ocelots jumped to a 47-43 lead by the end of the first half and then turned things on even more in the third quarter. However, Mott refused to die and closed the gap in the fourth period.

Jeff Cannon made his appearance for Schoolcraft at that time and followed with seven points that put the Ocelots back on the right track.

"We played really well in spurts," said Schoolcraft coach Ron Hall.

Dennis Watyel and Cedric Olden were the leading scorers for the Schoolcraft squad. Both players picked up 18 points, while Robert McLaurine added 11 more. Mike Brady pulled in 15 rebounds for Schoolcraft.

RTC captures tourney crown

Redford Temple Christian won the Inter-City Christian Christmas Basketball Tournament last week by defeating Huron Valley Lutheran in the championship game, 55-41.

Huron Valley jumped out to a 9-7 lead by the end of the first quarter and held on through the second period. The score at the intermission was 21-17, Huron.

The Patriots then turned on their fast break and took control of the contest in the third quarter. By the end of that quarter, Temple was ahead, 32-27.

In the final quarter, Temple pumped in 23 points, while holding Huron to just 14.

Rob White paced the Patriots' offensive charge with 18 points and 18 rebounds. Craig Johnson added 14 points and Bob Young had 10. Ken Reinke led Huron with 13.

"Our fast break worked real well in the third and fourth quarters. I would say that was the key in the game," said Temple coach Paul Clough after his squad had won the tournament.

'Let it snow' is cry of skiers

By LEM MESESE
Outdoors writer

"Let it snow. Let it snow. Let it snow."

It's not the lyrics of one of our favorite wintertime songs. It's the cry of cross-country skiers, an ever-growing contingent in metropolitan Detroit.

Each day they anxiously look up to the clouds for some sign of snow. And each day the grass gets a little browner at last winter's favorite cross-country ski spots.

At Maybury State Park in nearby Northville Township, the ski rental is set up. The marked trails are set up. And rangers are braced for another series of weekends when they're going to have to turn skiers away.

They're waiting for the snow, too.

MAYBURY, which has become a haven for western Wayne County and Oakland County skiers, will be open are free to roam just about anywhere in the park, says park manager Tony Klain.

"The whole park is open to skiers," he said. "It's relatively flat with some undulations."

For those who want to follow a marked trail, Maybury's rangers have set up three.

Each used portions of trails used by bikers, hikers and horseback fanciers during the warmer months.

And if you're planning on coming to Maybury on a weekend, be prepared to pay the newly increased fees for motor vehicle permits, Klain says.

After Jan. 1, a daily permit will cost $2. The annual permit jumped in price from $5 to $7.

Klain says rangers man the entrance booth only when they are expecting crowds. That means weekends at Maybury.

Last winter, Klain says, they turned away skiers on five consecutive weekends.

FOUR CONTESTS honoring campers who perform public service will be held in conjunction with the Feb. 16-25 Detroit Camper Show in the W. Eight Mile Armory, Oak Park.

Deadline is Jan. 5 to nominate yourself or friends for four honorary titles—Michigan RV Family of the Year; King of the Road; Queen of the Road; and Michigan RV Club of the Year.

Applications are available from: Dave Pickering, contest director; Detroit Camper Show, 19045 Farmington Road, Livonia 48152.

That address, by the way, is the Michigan Mobile Home and Recreational Vehicle Institute, an industry group that is sponsor of the camper show. The group selects the committee which will judge written entries.

Winners are picked on the basis of exceptional use of an RV and service to the public or the cause of conservation. To nominate yourself or someone else, you must use contest forms and submit a written account of what the nominee has done.

Nominees for RV family of the year must have used an RV a minimum of three years. King of the road is for a male age 60 or more. Queen of the road is for a single woman age 25 or more. RV club of the year must be a camping or RV club with at least 50 per cent of its membership owning RVs.

ICE FISHERMEN are reminded that their shelters must be labeled—on all four sides—with the owner's name and address in waterproof letters at least two inches high.

The Department of Natural Resources says shanties must be removed before the ice becomes unsafe on inland lakes. On Lake St. Clair, shanties must be removed before Feb. 26 and daily afterwards.

Fishing licenses for 1979 are now available.

Rice next CC foe

The Detroit Catholic Central hockey squad is still looking for its first conference victory of the year. The Shamrocks are 0-2-1 in the Red Division of the Michigan Metro Hockey League and are currently sitting in the cellar of the division.

CC will face Birmingham Brother Rice Jan. 3 in an attempt to gain that first win. The contest will take place at the Birmingham Rink starting at 8 p.m.

Brother Rice has a 2-2-0 record so far this season.

'78 to go down as year of sports achievement

As the last days of 1978 wind down, people tend to take a reflective view upon the past weeks and months. They tend to recall not only the events that made the year but also the single moments — the peaks of joy and sorrow.

Close to home the area prep sports teams completed another full year of tooth-and-nail competition.

But there was more to the sports scene than just high school sports. Clubs, groups and individuals also finished a full year, be it on a baseball diamond or on a basketball court.

JANUARY started out as a month for Westland John Glenn teams when the Rockets finished second in the Schoolcraft College Wrestling Tournament behind Wayne and then won the Plymouth Salem Wrestling Invitational. In that second tourney, Wayne was second.

Livonia Bentley's volleyball squad captured the Schoolcraft College Volleyball Tournament by defeating Livonia Franklin in the finals in two games, 15-9 and 15-12.

At the Livonia Quad Wrestling meet, Livonia Stevenson slipped by Franklin, 87-86, to win the competition. Franklin had won the meet for the past two seasons.

FEBRUARY: was another month dominated by wrestling. The Suburban Eight League wrestling title was won by Plymouth Salem, while Glenn captured the Northwest Suburban League crown.

The Rockets also won the league title in boys basketball.

Glenn's powerhouse wrestling squad completed its season by finishing ninth in the state. It was the best team showing ever for Glenn.

In more basketball action, both Salem and Bentley took a share of the Suburban Eight League title.

Clarenceville placed second in the Plymouth Canton Volleyball Invitational when the Trojans were defeated by Canton, 15-13 and 15-8.

MARCH was the month league champions in several sports were determined.

Franklin won the Suburban Hockey League title, Livonia Churchill won the Western Six volleyball title, Glenn won the Northwest Suburban League basketball title and Clarenceville won the Metro-West Conference volleyball crown.

John Glenn's basketball contingent won its Class A basketball district and advanced to the regionals where the Rockets defeated Salem, 67-63, only to lose in the finals to Detroit Mackenzie, 69-56.

The Bulldogs of Bentley found themselves in the Wyandotte Regional Hockey finals after finishing the regular season third in the league. Bentley, however, could not handle Trenton and lost 4-1.

Churchill, Glenn and Clarenceville all advanced to the state finals in volleyball. The Trojans of Clarenceville won the Class B state championship by defeating Flint Ainsworth, 15-6 and 15-13. That win capped a season of 18-0 in dual competition. Tom Teeters coached the crew and Lisa Redford charged the winning attack.

APRIL: The Livonia Girls' Tenn A Hockey Club defeated a strong team from Minnesota to win the United States National Girls' Hockey Tournament crown. It was the first time a Michigan team has won the tourney.

The boys track teams at RU and Franklin produced winning teams in the Harrison and Elks Relays, respectively.

MAY was a month full to the brim with track and field and boys tennis.

Churchill won the Observerland Relays for the third year in a row with 31 points. Redford Bishop Borgess was second at the Stevenson Invitational Boys' track meet. Also in track, Ladywood won the Class B girls' track regional.

The Spartans of Stevenson also produced a strong tennis team that advanced to the state finals only to find the competition too tough to handle. The Spartans finished the year with a 15-0 dual record and an Inter-Lakes League crown.

In another basketball note, a cage squad from the U.S.S.R. came to Schoolcraft College and played a group of area players. The Russians won the game easily, 84-62.

JUNE found baseball and softball dominating the scene. John Glenn advanced to the regional Class A finals but was defeated by Canton, 3-0. Canton then lost in its next clash.

The Clarenceville softball squad won its regional. From there the Trojans moved in the finals for the state crown only to lose in the rain, 3-0.

Stevenson's girls' track team sets a new mark by winning the Inter-Lakes League title for the fourth straight season.

AUGUST was totally dominated by the baseball squads and softball squads in the area. The Gene Harris Blue Jeans won the state softball title for the third time in as many years, while the Daily Restaurant team out of Livonia also competed in the state finals of its league.

Griffin's Sport Shop, from the Adray League, won several tournaments and eventually made the national tournament at Johnstown, Pa. In that national tourney, Griffin's was knocked out in three games.

SEPTEMBER was the month for the Observer and Eccentric Golf Tournament. The winners in the men's competition were Mike Kerr in the championship flight, John Ruggiero and Najib Yazbak.

In the women's competition, Terri Weber won the championship flight, while Jill Drader and Joan Wysocki captured the other flights.

Students become senators

By LEONARD POGER

U.S. Senators Ted Kennedy and Howard Baker were at Churchill High School recently to work on proposed legislation on abortion, national health insurance, divorce, mercy deaths, and reduction of penalties for use of marijuana.

Well, not really. They were really high school students of social studies teacher William Hahn who is near the end of his fifth annual "The Senate Game." The game is designed to give the youngsters a chance to see how a legislative group operates.

The program will start the fourth week of the month-long class project in early January to vote on numerous bills drafted by student "senators."

Hahn said that the "Senate Game" is the best way to teach the structure and functions of Congress.

The instructor added that the game is the only simulated activity he plans during the school year and is more effective than having students memorize the names of committees and other details of Congress.

Helping Hahn in the simulation was a real state senator, Robert Geake, Northville Republican whose district includes Livonia, Plymouth, Redford Township and the northeast corner of Westland.

GEAKE SAID after the two class periods that he was "favorably impressed and amazed" at how much the students learned of the legislative process, which includes the functions of committees, handling of witnesses and making amendments to bills.

The simulations are cited by educational psychologists as an example of "learning by doing."

Hahn said that the students were organized into four committees: labor-public welfare, public works, judiciary, and commerce. The committees were also organized along the power lines of the real Senate, with Democrats holding a near 2-1 margin over Republicans.

Students were told to pick a senate and take part in the drafting of bills, questioning witnesses at committee meetings, making amendments and eventually voting on the proposals.

Hahn said that, like the real senate, the Churchill version will eventually end with 95 per cent of bills being defeated or tabled with the balance reaching the Senate floor for a vote.

Though not allowed in Washington, Hahn permits his students to draft state laws and city ordinances during the game as well as federal laws.

He said Sen. Geake was asked to take part and lend help on legislative procedures and discuss the substance of bills.

Another advantage of the activity, the teacher said, is that students learn the importance of accurate wording on bills and parliamentary procedures.

Metroparks announce hike in user fees starting Jan. 1

By LEM MESEK
Outdoors writer

The Huron-Clinton Metroparks are the second group to raise park entry fees effective Jan. 1.

James J. Pompo, deputy director of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, said annual vehicle permits will rise to $7 from $5.

Daily fees will go to $2 from $1. The Michigan Legislature late in December raised the state park vehicle entry permits by the same amounts.

Dexter; Lower Huron, near Belleville, and the main office at 3050 Penobscot Building, Detroit.

THE METROPARK system is about a $10 million operation annually.

More than $7.4 million — about three-fourths of the revenue — comes from a quarter-mill property tax approved by voters in 1942.

The entry fees were instituted after voters rejected a boost of another quarter-mill in 1972.

THREE EVENTS are coming up at HCMA's two busiest metroparks next weekend.

An all-day bird count will be held at the nature center of Kensington Metropark from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 6. Bring binoculars and a lunch. Make a reservation by calling park naturalist Bob Hotaling at 685-1561.

A nature cross country ski tour is scheduled for 9 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 7 at Kensington. Naturalist Dave Moilanen will lead the two or three day trek, designed for families and individuals only. Bring your own ski equipment. Call the naturalist in advance to register.

At Stony Creek, a nature walk will start from the nature center at 9 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 7 led by naturalists Roger Bajorek and Bill Thomas. Register in advance by calling the park office at 781-4621. They'll lead a hike of nature trails and point out how plants, birds and animals adjust for winter.

ADISTRA ADVANCES
The appointments of two key executives has been announced at Adistra Corporation of Plymouth—one of Michigan's largest marketing services organizations.

Effectively immediately, Ray Knickerbocker assumes the position of director of operations and Charles Stimac becomes manager of graphics and reproduction services.

Knickerbocker, who will have responsibility for the production, planning and customer service departments of the company, has 15 years experience in logistics, planning and coordination.

A former major in the U.S. Army, he lives in Canton with his wife and three children.

Stimac, a practitioner of the printers trade for 42 years, began his indoctrination into the printing industry at age 12 as a "printer's devil," and arrives at Adistra by way of Safran Printing and Averill Press.

A graduate of Rochester Institute of Technology, Stimac will direct Adistra's complete range of printing services. He lives in West Bloomfield with his wife and three children.

The extinct volcano of Punchbowl Crater, location of the monument at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific, was one of many island sites visited by members of the Observer &

Eccentric recent Hawaiian tour. More than 20,000 Americans who died in the Pacific in World War II and the Korean War are buried here, known to the ancient Hawaiians as The Hill of Sacrifice.

Some don't want to come home

Exotic weather, sunny skies, casual living lull visitors to Hawaii

When reporter-photographer Lynn Orr visited the Hawaiian Islands with 101 area residents on the Observer & Eccentric tour, she found it to be a land of contrasts. She also discovered some people who touch the island never want to leave.

Until he was on the plane, Bob Cameron's wife wasn't sure he'd be making his way back to Detroit after two weeks in Hawaii.

The waterfalls sprinkled through the 50th state lure more and more mainlanders every year in a search for a utopian lifestyle. The haoles (whites) pour into Honolulu with little more than their clothes in hastily-packed suitcases and enough money to last until welfare can be collected.

"We worry a little about island population, but how do you refuse people an opportunity to come to Paradise?" queried one islander.

The sunshine, casual environment, and even the abundance of marijuana, Hawaii's most lucrative although illegal cash crop, aid in seducing those on a search for the good life.

And apparently the minimum pay, service-type jobs that are available fail to detract from Hawaii's other charms.

A Detroit Cody High graduate working between 60-80 hours a week driving his own cab on the largest island of Hawaii says he'll never go back to Detroit. Canadian by nationality, as are many of Hawaii's newest immigrant wave, he's willing to work long hours to live on an admittedly slim existence in a city devoted to high-priced tourist dollars.

OTHERS, HOWEVER, find that island living has its drawbacks. On Oahu, which holds the vast majority of the state's population (more than 1/2 million), driving for 12 hours takes you back to where you began. A trip to the outer islands finds fewer people and lots of private land — state parks can be just as crowded as those near Grayling.

Getting away from it all in Hawaii can be next to impossible.

"I feel secure on an island with the ocean all around," says one islander. For others, confinement breeds dissatisfaction.

And a growing population puts pressure on other problems in the state. Tourists are warned away from some parks on the northern shores of Oahu, where disgruntled islanders take out their frustrations on unsuspecting tourists accustomed to the welcoming faces at Waikiki.

Injections of government money are apparent in the projects outside Honolulu, but cramped subdivisions and shanty towns point to the growing concern over land.

About 60 people and corporations own the vast majority of private land in the state, and the Dole Co. owns the entire island of Lanai. The most fertile land in the U.S. is reserved for sugar cane and pineapples, not people. Most homeowners lease their property with long-term contracts.

There's growing dissatisfaction over that situation, agree many islanders, particularly since descendants of missionary families and many church groups are included in the select group of property owners on the islands.

But it's difficult to be a rebel in Paradise, others note. They say privacy is a major problem. If you're outspoken, you may find yourself blackballed everywhere, one of the reasons few islanders questioned would respond without a promise of anonymity.

Some of Hawaii's college educated sons and daughters find that a tourist-related job is their only employment, whereas others move to California to join the increasingly others move to the mainland for more career opportunities.

Letters to the editor in Honolulu newspapers speak to racial tension, as well as other urban concerns, while the pace slows on the outer islands.

Mau, with a population of about 30,000 rapidly is becoming Hawaii's second tourist island although residents there are attempting to restrict resort areas as well as ban high-rises in an attempt to learn from Waikiki's mistakes.

Tourists on their third and fourth trips to the islands often choose Kauai for a small pace vacation amid the palms and sun, while the volcanoes of Hawaii, the largest island, draw tourists to the Koolau Kona coast.

Molokai, a small island visible from the western shore of Maui, remains the only public island without a substantial tourist base — hence bumper stickers: "Wouldn't you rather be riding a mule on Molokai?"

Inflated property prices there too, however, point to the people crush of both tourists and immigrants flocking to Hawaii's shores for a short or long-term taste of the tropics.

A land of many contrasts

From the Trail of Devastation (left), the remains of the 1959 eruption of Kilauea Iki on Hawaii, to the white sand beaches and indigo water and skies of Maui that substantiate the "Blue Hawaii" claim, the islands create a vista of contrasts.

They have our number, do you?

No, we're not talking about our telephone number, although that's an important number too, we're talking about "736", the classification number for "Wanted to Buy" want ads.

Lots of people think the only way to use ads is to tell people what they have to sell. Not so. One little 736 ad will tell people what you want to buy. Looking for a cradle, scuba gear, a 1937 "Superman" comic book? Stick it in 736 and wait for people to call, it's that simple.

And if you've read this far and are thinking, "I really don't have any one special thing I want to buy....we have plenty of numbers for you, too...626...700...708...722. We invite you to try any of these because all of our numbers add up to a lot of satisfaction for you, whether you're in a buying or selling mood.
