Board OK's pay, hours for deputy treasurer

Maria Falkiewicz's appointment as deputy treasurer will net her a yearly salary of $7,020 for 20 hours work per week, slightly more than Treasurer James Donahue will receive for his part-time duties.

The Canton Township Board of Trustees approved the salary and hours for Ms. Falkiewicz at the regular meeting Wednesday, in spite of Trustee Eugene Daley's recommendation that the treasurer position be made full-time instead.

Trustee Lynne Goldsmith also joined Daley in voting against the pay and hours for Ms. Falkiewicz. Unlike Daley, Ms. Goldsmith said she felt it would be unfair to make the elected treasurer spot full-time until the next election.

Donahue, who ousted Anne Bradley from the job during the last general election, said the position probably should be full-time, but he would have to resign if it was changed during his term of office.

Donahue holds a full-time job in addition to his duties as treasurer. He is required by law to appoint a deputy treasurer to act for him in the advent of his absence.

Ms. Falkiewicz will be performing a variety of duties in addition to filling in for Donahue.

According to financial director Mike Gorman, Ms. Falkiewicz will take over duties once delegated to a now-vacant tax clerk position.

Other duties that may be assigned to Ms. Falkiewicz, Gorman said, would include watching the stock market to aid the township in making investments and examining tax rolls to clear up inequities that may exist in valuations of commercial property.

The deputy treasurer will not receive fringe benefits other than workers' compensation. She was one of the candidates running against Donahue in the general election.

Shortly after announcing his victory, Donahue asked Ms. Falkiewicz as his deputy treasurer.

According to Gorman, Ms. Falkiewicz is the first deputy treasurer (other than himself) to have taken an active role in township government as long as he could remember.

Daley questioned Ms. Falkiewicz's ability to handle some of the duties that were proposed for her. He asked what experience she had concerning investments.

Gorman said he has been working with Ms. Falkiewicz since her appointment and found her to be a "competent and hard-working." The financial director added that he felt the treasurer position should be non-elected as well as full-time.

Most other communities equivalent in size to Canton do have full-time treasurers.

State law ups violation fee

A bill recently signed by Gov. William Milliken could lead to fewer ordinance violations in Canton Township.

The bill, introduced by State Rep. Robert Law (R-Livonia), amends the Michigan charter township act by increasing fine limits for non-criminal ordinance violations from $100 to $500.

Canton officials had tried to toughen their local laws by increasing ordinance fines to $500 last month. Ordinance officer Bruce Phillips maintained that many persons purposely broke non-criminal laws because the fine was so low.

A township attorney blocked the contemplated increase, however, when he discovered that state law placed a $100 limit on charter township fines.

Supervisor Noel Culbert maintained that the Michigan Legislature had failed to increase charter township fines when it amended state laws governing other units of government in 1969.

Until now, charter townships like Canton were the only municipalities in Michigan which could not penalize lawbreakers with a $500 fine.

"THAT'S JUST what we were squawking about," said township Supervisor Noel Culbert. "This new bill makes me very happy."

Culbert said township officials will begin setting priorities for ordinances to determine which laws should be amended first. An ordinance that requires builders to clean streets dirtied by construction work will probably win top spot on the priority list.

Law, whose district does not include Canton, said he introduced the bill after talking to judges who complained about the $100 limit on charter township fines.

Milliken signed the bill a week after Culbert asked Canton's state representative, Tom Brown (D-Westland), to introduce legislation that would raise the limit on charter township fines.

Brown had promised to introduce the bill.

City officials try ways to retain CETA positions

By LYNN ORR

In an effort to salvage jobs and their share of federal funds, City of Plymouth officials last week admitted they were seeking legal loopholes in federal job training program guidelines.

During a candid discussion, city commissioners unofficially endorsed administrative policy of reclassifying Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) jobs.

The move is an attempt to cope with the change in CETA recently imposed by Congress in its move to radically alter the intent of the program, explained John Zech, assistant city manager.

"Don't we feel at all guilty about defeating the original purpose of CETA?" queried commissioner David Pugh. He asked administrators if their policy was an intent to find loopholes in the guidelines.

"Shouldn't we be trying to lessen our dependence on CETA for general operations?" he asked.

"I think we should maximize everything we can get," replied City Mgr. Fred Yockey.

"If we don't spend it, somebody else will," seconded Mayor Tom Turner.

"Every city is doing the same damn thing," declared commissioner Mark Wehmeyer.

OF ABOUT 100 city employees, 10 per cent currently are funded with CETA revenues, Zech said. Currently, the city is funded with slightly more than $200,000 for the year from Oct. 1, 1978, through Sept. 30, 1979. But Congress has changed the game of how those funds are to be spent, Zech explained.

Two different entitlements require 78 weeks maximum employ ment for a CETA employee, although current CETA employees will be granted the 78-week time period, as well. Ten per cent of the CETA allocatioin must be used for a training program, while all salaries must be capped at $10,000 with a 10 per cent limit on municipal contributions to the salary over the $10,000 cap.

Also, the guidelines dictate that a municipality must fund two similar jobs before adding a CETA employee in the classifica tion, which is why Plymouth, like other municipaliities, will attempt to reclassify jobs to meet the guidelines, Zech said.

For example, Zech explained, instead of specific job titles such as Senior Citizen Coordinator John Behman (a CETA employee), the city may elect to reclassify him as an administrative analyst I, as the assistant city manager might be classified administrative analyst II.

The idea is not to cheat, Zech emphasized.

"We did our best, but they are changing the game on us," he explained, add-

Noon meeting set by board

The starting time of the Canton board's Jan. 9 meeting has been changed from 7 p.m. to noon.

The meeting time was changed to allow township board trustees to attend an evening conference of the Michigan Township Association.

The board will meet in the administration building on Canton Center near Proctor.

Downhill skiing is just one of the many sports open to hardy souls who enjoy winter's frigid weather. Snowmobiling, cross-country skiing and tobogganing are all available at local parks and golf courses. (Staff photo by Stephen Cantrell)

Winter a big headache? Not for these fans

Although last week's frigid temperatures kept many indoors, more hardy souls took full advantage of the winter weather to hit the slopes, cross-country ski trails, toboggan runs and snowmobile trails.

Most downhill skiers need only a few days of below freezing weather to participate in their favorite sport. Nearly all commercial ski areas have snowmaking machinery that allows skiers to schuss the slopes even when Mother Nature neglects to provide enough of the white stuff.

But, be prepared to pay for the fun. Skiing at any of the four local lodges like Mt. Brighton, Pine Knob, Alpine Valley or Mt. Holly can cost as much as $10 per day. And that's just for the privilege of using the lifts. If one has to rent skis, boots,bindings and poles the cost can rise to $20 per person.

Cross-country skiing fans will find their sport growing in popularity and more accessible than in previous years. Most city parks and recreation departments are offering classes or clinics to teach beginner skiers how to stride on a trail with ease.

As long as there is 8-12 inches of snow on the ground, local golf courses, including Brooklane at Newburgh Road and Six Mile in Plymouth, Whispering Willows on Eight Mile Road at Newburgh in Livonia, and Hawthorne Valley on Warren at Merriman in Garden City, have scenic trails open to the public daily. Most courses are open free of charge and skiers must provide their own equipment.

Sassafras Nature Center on Wildwood near Palmer in Westland also offers groomed trails and has some rental equipment available.

Local state parks including Kensington and Mayberry offer groomed trails and rental equipment. But, skiers should arrive early because trails get crowded and equipment is rented quickly--especially on weekends.

Toboggan runs are groomed and grooved at Cass Benton Park in Northville and sledding runs are open daily all along the 17 miles of Edward Hines Parkway. Most runs are free.

Snowmobiling enthusiasts can find open fields on which to run their favorite machine or head for the north country. Local snowmobile clubs also know about private parks open only to snowmobiles for weekend races.

New library fund is $2,000 richer

The Canton Township library fund is richer by $2,100 following a money-raising effort by two local restaurants.

Bill Brown, president of the Canton Rotary Club, and Greg Gatto, part-owner of the Roman Forum restaurant, presented the township board with a $2,000 check Wednesday night. The money came from a spaghetti and chicken dinner held early in December at the Roman Forum. Rotary Club members helped plan and execute the day-long event.

A $75 check was also presented from the Palace Restaurant. Owner Jack Street contributed 10 per cent of dinner profits stretching over several days.

An unexpected bonus check of $25 was also contributed by Plymouth Attorney Perry Ridgewine, who also donated a set of law books to the proposed library.

A ballot question proposing additional millage to begin a library in Canton failed at the polls, but the effort to raise money for the project continues. The township now has $5,087 towards the institution of a library.

Supervisor Noel Culbert, after the check presentation, dropped a hint that success may be close for the library.

"I don't want to commit the township yet, but it's very feasible that we'll have a library a lot faster than we realize."

Culbert did not elaborate on his comment.

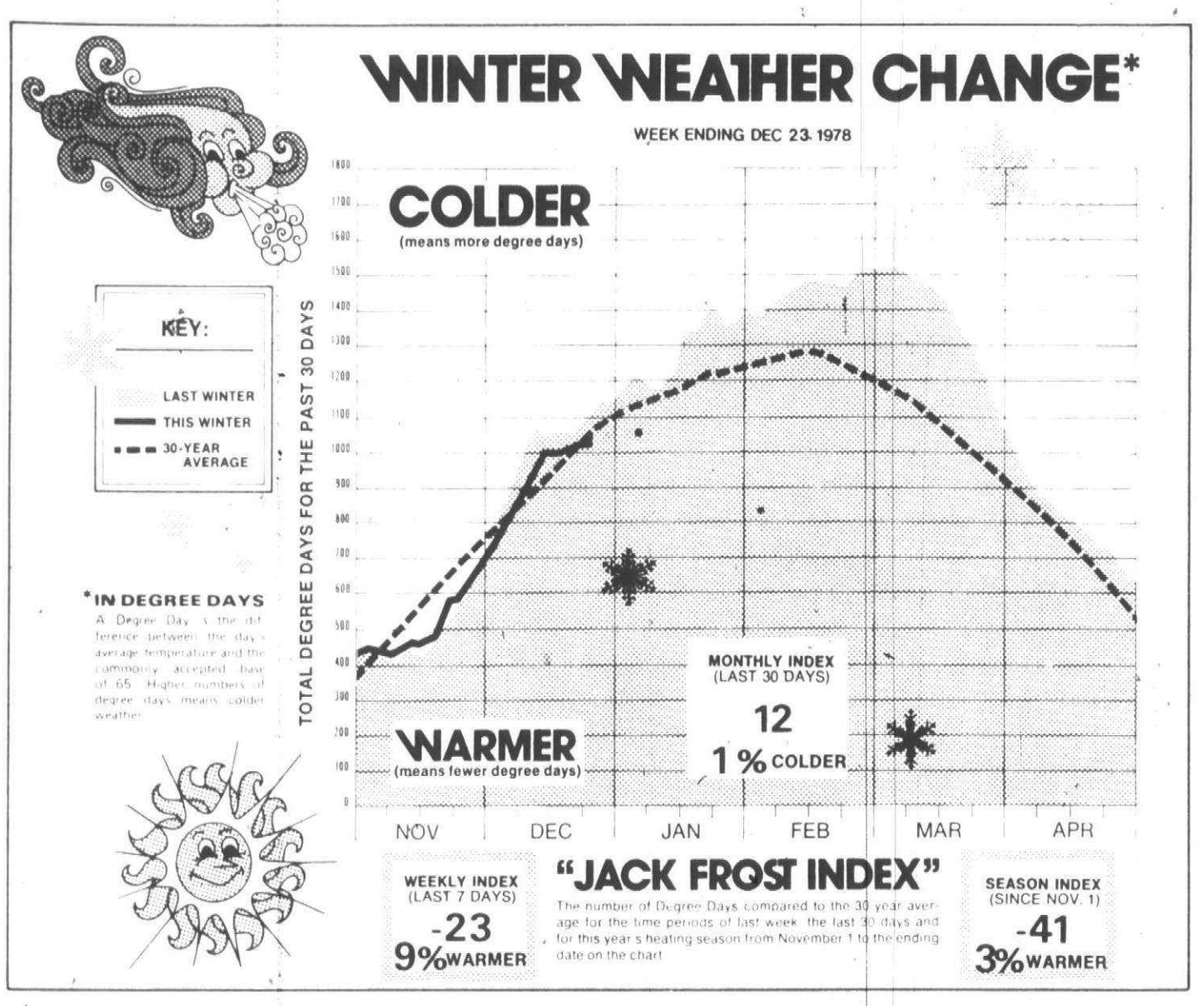
SUPER SEWER RISES AGAIN

Hearings for a proposed super sewer to extend throughout the Huron Valley proved that the subject may have been around for a long time, but it's still a topic of controversy. For the story, turn to page 3A.



Winter temps on target

After a warm November and early December, temperatures are falling into line with the 30-year average, according to Consumers Power. Up to now, according to the utility statistics, consumers have had to use less energy than in preceding years. But, as the index shows, the worst winter weather lays in wait. Last year (the area in gray) winter's cold did not peak until mid-March.

Employment rate nears state record

According to the state Department of Labor, the number of people working in Michigan in November was second highest in history—only slightly behind the record level set in October.

Some 3,949,000 men and women were employed in the state last month—compared with 3,953,000 in October. The November unemployment rate rose from the previous month—to 6.6 per cent from 5.5 per cent, but was below the November, 1977 rate of 7.7 per cent.

Super sewer controversy aired once again

By LYNN ORR

Conservation versus growth, and the suburbs versus Detroit defined the battlelines last week, as the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) officially unveiled its radical new alternative to the decade-old super sewer proposal.

The majority of western Wayne County and southern Oakland County communities originally included in the super sewer project proposed by the Wayne County Department of Public Works condemned the EPA plan. They particularly took issue with EPA statistics which indicate a decline in growth and cited contrary data supporting their contention that more sewage capacity is needed.

The EPA's proposal slices in half the long-proposed Huron Valley 50-mile super sewer that would extend from Commerce Township south to the downriver communities, ending with a large new treatment plant for waste disposal on Lake Erie.

Conservationists who have fought the project expressed some satisfaction with the EPA alternative, while also calling for some "fresh thinking" from the EPA regarding waste disposal and elimination of the expansion of the Walled Lake treatment plant for sewage disposal in Oakland County.

UNLIKE PLYMOUTH and Plymouth Township officials who cited their firm opposition to the EPA proposal, Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert made it clear that Canton was unwilling to go on record with a committment to either proposal.

He particularly opposed the EPA plan calling for Canton to sell its sewage capacity in the Rouge system to other communities eliminated from the Huron Valley super sewer system.

MICHAEL BAILEY

NOEL CULBERT

Culbert maintained the township would not commit to any proposal unless the township were assured some control over future rate structures of the system. However, he admitted that Wayne County's original proposal was "the lesser of two evils" and "badly needed."

But he drew applause when he labeled the EPA's plan as another stall tactic and a Detroit-manufactured political move to end migration from the city.

"The EPA knows that Alternative D is unacceptable," Culbert declared. "They are intentionally pushing it so we will put it down and end up looking like the bad guys."

Others at the hearing objected to the EPA's claim that federal national policy dictated that federal funding was not available to promote growth that would contribute to the decline of urban areas.

The sewer project in any alternative calls for 75 per cent federal funding, while the communities would be responsible for the remainder of the multi-million dollar tab.

The EPA's alternative, a spokesman said, was intended to alleviate current sewage and pollution problems rather than provide sewer capacity to enhance growth.

The EPA's recommendation to use septic fields for other growth in the area unaccommodated by the smaller scale sewer plan also drew fire from environmentalists, as well as nearby Oakland County communities.

A Livonia spokesman, as well, went on record in opposition to the Walled Lake expansion, citing possible pollution in the Rouge that would affect Livonia, otherwise unaffected by either sewer proposal.

THE LEAGUE of Women's Voters' committee studying the Rouge Basin for the last 20 years favor the environmental protections offered by the EPA plan, while Verna Morse, a member of the Rouge Basin Coalition in Southfield, praised the EPA for looking at the overall affect of the super sewer system.

She added that municipalities were often "myopic" in seeking growth of tax base without viewing the overall impact.

The majority of city and township officials, however, condemned the EPA proposal out of hand, strongly supporting Royce Smith and the Wayne County proposal.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert called the EPA study a "terrible waste of money and waste of time."

Dancers celebrate Africa at Plymouth Center

By SHERRY KAHAN

Africa boomed into the Plymouth Center for Human Development on a recent cold winter night. Inside the recreation center came the loud drum beats of a warmer continent, the hot colors of ethnic costumes and the glow of supple dancers.

The evening was a celebration of African heritage brought to the mentally retarded residents by Amen-Ra Afrikan Drummers and Dancers of Detroit. Signs in the building explained the ancient African festival called the Kwanza, which lasts for seven days beginning Dec. 26.

Each day represents one of the principles of Kwanza, unity, collective work and responsibility, cooperative economics, purpose, creativity, faith and self-determination. The latter was stressed during the evening.

Opening the show five musicians march in, barefoot, shirtless and wearing pants featuring picturesque African designs. On their drums they started a slow beat with one instrument calling and another answering, then both joining in for a thumping chorus.

It is so loud one resident covers his ears. Several others keep time with their bodies, swaying in their seats or wheelchairs.

HERE COME THE DANCERS. They are moving barefoot to a fast, powerful beat in a routine choreographed long before English was heard on this continent.

"Kwanza is a cultural event, not a religious one," said staff psychologist Reggie Davis, who made the arrangements to bring the drummers and dancers to the center. "Amen-Ra performs these dances all during the year, but it seemed appropriate to me to have them come here at the time of Kwanza.

"I have been celebrating Kwanza for the last four years. We place the special symbols on the table, the horn of plenty, ears of corn, straw mats and the candle holder. It holds seven candles which symbolize the seven principles of Kwanza.

" It is an effort to identify with the cultural aspects of Afro-American life."

He points out that the performers asked that there be some space between them and the audience. The reason soon is obvious as one or two residents step into the space to begin dancing to the dramatic drum beating, followed by a few more.

"African art is a participatory art," adds Davis.

Before long the powerful rhythms touch the spirits of many of the handicapped and retarded listeners. More begin to dance. Those not dancing are tapping their toes, or turning body English into body African in response to the banging drum.

Early on, resident Julia Lose joins the celebration .The small woman dances all night, even longer than the visitors.

After the introductory drumming, several men move about the room rattling shekeres to scare away any evil spirits that might have sneaked in from the cold. After that the earth drum, the slit log, the songbah and the caxixi (rattles) take over to send a throbbing message that could probably be heard in downtown Plymouth, if anyone opened a window.

MEMBERS OF THE AUDIENCE are informed that the gestures of the dancers often have a specific meaning. This is apparent in a dance that welcomes a visitor to a village. Each woman flings her arms out in a different way to extend a hospitable greeting. Meanwhile their legs have a life of their own, swirling, jumping, kneeling, running.

In another, the women in the background use scarfs and headdresses to act out such tasks as washing clothes while each take turns doing incredibly agile solos.

Rape's no joke

After sitting through countless hours of meetings, newspaper people can certainly appreciate a little humor thrown in to cut through the normal dry stuff that has to be discussed.

Canton's clerk, John Flodin, is usually good for a quip or two during the more yawn-provoking moments of township board meetings, which is to his credit.

However, the clerk seems to have crossed the line between humor and an outright display of ignorance.

At Wednesday's meeting, board members were discussing the exorbitant cost of signs to be erected off I-275 at the township limits.

While discussing the futility of getting around the high cost of the signs, Flodin said, "When rape is inevitable, relax and enjoy it."

People both on the board and in the audience laughed at the remark.

Maybe I missed something over at the press table, but I was astonished by both the remark and the reaction to it.

I never considered rape much of a laughing matter. Maybe Flodin does.

In all probability, he just wasn't thinking, and meant nothing in particular by the offhand remark.

But a tastless joke of this nature shouldn't be acceptable anywhere—especially at a public forum.

The "lie back and enjoy it" line is in the same category as "women ask for it" and "it's impossible to rape a moving target."

Let's deal with reality. Rape is an act of violence, not an act of lust. Small children and elderly women get raped. They do not "ask for it."

Women who are raped and put up no fight tend to have a harder time proving a sex act was rape if court evidence doesn't show they got a few rips in their clothes or a bruise here and there.

When the old stereotypes about rape are revived, especially by respected members of a community, the victims of rape end up double losers.

No one tells someone who gets beaten to a pulp to "relax and enjoy it."

No one makes the victims of terrible crimes the butt of bad jokes.

Unless, of course, they're rape victims.

Flodin is guilty of an tasteless remark. Those who chose to take this remark as food for amusement are just as guilty.

In addition to bad taste, Flodin's remark was a poor analogy. Canton wants those signs witb a $900-plus price tag. The board just doesn't like having to pay that much for them.

No one wants to be raped. But the unwilling victim pays for it all the same.

'Radio study' is cover for obscene phone call

Obscene phone callers don't seem to be satisfied with mere breathing heavily heavy breathing on the end of a line anymore. Their techniques appear to have become more sophisticated, some having calls down to a fine art.

A Canton woman recently was the victim of one such professional call, and Canton police have at least one other report of the same kind on file.

A man identifying himself as a psychologist from WOMC radio (104 FM) called, offering prizes for quick responses to survey questions, according to the victim. He said he got her name from the operator and told her she was connected to a computer and would be able to talk to a woman about her responses after the conversation.

She would win up to $500 or a trip to Florida for her answers. These answers would be turned over to the courts in an effort to help lawmakers improve current laws, he said.

"He proceeded to ask me a series of very obscene questions— asking me what I would do under various circumstances. He was a professional—urging me on and telling me how well I was doing and how much money I was winning." she said. "There were even computer noises in the background."

After 25 minutes, the man hung up and the woman was suspicious enough to contact the radio station, which assured her the caller was not an employee. She then called the Canton police, who recorded the incident.

Officer Van Lith of the Canton police said usually nothing can be done about calls of this nature as there is no way to trace the call and locate the caller. He does, however, advise recipients of obscene calls to contact police to enable them to keep a record of the type of call and where it occurred.

"Persons receiving calls from people requesting personal-type information—address, clothes sizes, personal activities—should immediately request the person's name and telephone number and ask to call them back. If the information is refused, the person should hang up."

Lith added that although some people just get "their jollies" from talking obscene on the phone, calls could lead to a potentially dangerous situation.

"We won't ingnore the reports we get from people. We want to be informed when and where the calls are taking place."

Liquor law discussed

Editor:

The law is back. As of 12:01 a.m. Dec. 23, you must be 21 years old to drink alcohol beverages.

Unfortunate that this has happened. What's going to happen now? The young adult has had a taste of the alcohol beverage. If he drinks now, is he going to continue?

The state of Michigan has created a new black market business and lost tax dollars.

I'm aware the people of Michigan voted to raise the drinking age, and I can't blame them for their action. Their action is, to me, feelings, not the principal of what will happen.

I put a great deal of blame on the lawmakers. When the drinking age was passed at 18 years, the lawmakers should have been prepared with strict laws.

For example, the first offense for driving under the influence of alcohol, suspension of the driver's license for six months plus a course on safe driving.

The second offense, one-year suspension of driver's license plus a $500 fine and a course on safe driving. The third offense, permanent suspension of the driver's license.

If the above suggestion would have been enacted, maybe it would have curbed the problems, but it also would have depended on the judges.

It's unfair to tell one that they can do something and later say you can't because of lazy lawmakers.

The lawmakers who supported the drinking age to the change back to 21, why don't you get off your donkey and make some strict laws for the adults who can't handle alcohol beverages?

To you 18-year-olds, if you believe in what you feel is wrong or right, get out and vote. Get involved in your local, state or federal government.

Cut insurance rates

Editor:

In as much as 18-21-year-olds are no longer able to drink and it was stated that 60 to 70 per cent of all accidents were due this age group drinking, why can't they reduce auto insurance rates by 25 to 50 per cent.

Also if they are not adults they should raise the voting age back to 21.

PLUS is great

Editor:

I have a child in kindergarten and a child in the PLUS program. We are in the boundaries of Eriksson school. The teaching staff is fantastic and they are always willing to communicate with the parents.

The area I am most impressed with is the PLUS preschool program. It is available to Eriksson, Field and Starkweather area children. It is free. If young children thrive on learning and sharing with their parents, all schools should have an opportunity to offer this fantastic learning project. In the midst of times that leaving your child off and picking them up later, you have a chance to get together with your child.

If any mothe has three hours a week to spare for their pre-kindergarten child, I urge her to look into this program. Classes are four to six children.

Plymouth tries to cope with new CETA rules

ing that he believes the city has a responsibility to the CETA employees, as well.

Dana Szanti, records analyst, has the longest tenure with the city as a CETA employee. Hired in October, 1974, her job would end this fall, according to the new guidelines. The city has the choice of picking up her salary with city funds or ending her employment and hiring another person for the position under CETA for 78 weeks.

THE CONGRESSIONAL originators of the program—which dates back to the early 1970s and is a change from the old Manpower program—are saying the goal of the program isn't being met, Zech says.

They arezattempting to swerve the program back on its original course of job training for the hard-core unemployed with the aim of funneling those trained into private industry or municipal work, Zech explained.

"There's a tremendous struggle going on in Congress about what this program was intended to be and what it is doing," he said.

If the new guidelines hold firm, he noted, the large pool of funds would be turned back to the large cities.

"They're making it quite a burden on smaller cities," commented commissioner James Houk. The guidelines practically eliminate smaller communities from participating in the program, he added.

Tipping the Scales

By NANCY AUSTIN

Happy New Year! That greeting was cut from my last column!

I know you made that resolution again to diet beginning the first of the year. But this time, stop to think about it in a slightly different way. What you really mean is that this time you are going to change your behavior. You must in order to lose weight. The problem is how you change that behavior. The only thing that really works is permanent behavior change.

Before you can do that you must take inventory on your present habits. Really take a close look at what you eat, when you eat, where you eat, and how much you eat. Do you have a good working knowledge of nutritious foods? Do you kmow how to cut down on calories?

Here's a true-false quiz designed to test your knowledge on the food basics before you get started for the new year.

1. Toasting reduces the calories in bread.

2. It's natural to get fatter as you get older. 3. Carbohydrates are more fattening than protein. 4. Because it is a high protein food, meat does not cause weight gain. 5. It is better to lose weight as rapidly as possible. 6. Fat should be eliminated in a reducing diet. 7. Alcohol, even though not a protein, fat, or carbohydrate furnishes calories to the body. 8. Exercise increases the appetite. 9. Meal-skipping helps reducing. 10. One should expect to feel weak and fatigued during weight reducing.

Answers: 1. False.

2. False. There is a decline in calorie requirements (about seven per cent for every 10 years of age) along with a decline in physical activity. Therefore it is important for an older person to choose a diet rich in nutrients while cutting down on calorie intake.

3. False. Carbohydrates and proteins each contribute four cal. ram.

4. False. Meat, especially high quality beef, contains a high percentage of invisible fat, in addition to rotein. It therefore contributes a large proportion of calories to the diet. In general, Americans are eating two to three times the protein required.

5. False. Most people seem to regain weight once they stop active dieting. It appears that the more rapidly one loses weight, the faster one regains it. Nutritionists conclude that most people shoudl try cutting 500 calories per day from waht they usually eat. You'll usually lose about a pound a week. This allows a person adequate nutritionally opportunity and provides a more varied and pleasureable eating pattern.. In addition one learns to control calories for life through readjusting the proportions of different foods eaten.

6. False. Fat supplies essential fatty acids and fat soluble vitamins in addition to calories. But it is a concentrated source so should be limited. Fats are important for flavor and keep your appetite satisfied longer since they move more slowly through the digestive tract than carbohydrates and protein along with a decline in physical activity. Therefore the older person must be careful to select a nutrient rich diet while cutting down in calories. 7. True. Alcohol provides seven cal. ram, almost as much as fat. It contributes no essential nutrients. 8. False. An important side benefit of moderate daily exercise is the body's automatic control over calorie intake. If you get 45 minutes to an hour a day of mild exercise you will tend to eat less than one who gets no exercise at all. 9. False. There is evidence that animals who eat several small meals a day are less fat even though they consume more calories than animals consuming all their days calories in one large meal.

The Detroit hearing will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the 13th floor auditorium of the City-County Building, 2 Woodward.

The Farmington Hills hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m. in 306 J Building of the Orchard Hills Campus of Oakland Community College, I-696 between Orchard Lake and Farmington roads.

The major hearing at which company witnesses will be cross-examined will begin at 9:30 a.m. March 5 in the PSC offices at 6545 Mercantile Way, Lansing.

According to the PSC, Michigan Bell says charges for basic residential and business service will not increase until September of 1979.

Interior decorating hits the road

By SUSAN ROGERS

At the wheel of her multi-colored van, Denise Woodward is becoming a familiar figure around the Plymouth and Canton area. "The Decorating Den--wallpaper, draperies and carpeting," says the sign on the van."

Interior design has taken to wheels.

"People chase me down on the street when I drive the van," said Mrs. Woodward. "They all want to know just what it's about.

"It's my billboard on wheels."

The Decorating Den features personalized, at-home service for interior design. The company, which is about eight years old, according to Mrs. Woodward, is based in Indianapolis, with more than 200 separate franchises throughout the country and Canada.

"Three franchises were just sold in Michigan--one in Davisport, one in Higgins Lake and mine here in the Plymouth-Canton area. It's a brand new idea in Michigan, and I'm very hopeful it will catch on."

Canton's Decorating Den is haying its grand opening for three weeks beginning Jan. 8. All products will be available for a 20 per cent discount during this time, said Mrs. Woodward.

Mrs. Woodward's commitment to her new business proves that it is no passing fancy. A franchise costs about $10,000.

That fee, combined with the cost of the van ($9,000) and samples ($3,000) brings the total cost of her investment to about $25,000.

Franchises for the business do have varying prices depending on the type and extent of the agreement.

Each franchise owner is required to attend lengthy classes at an orientation meeting to be fully qualified to make interior design decisions, suggestions, do measuring, order materials and quote prices, said Mrs. Woodward. After the initial class, owners are required by the company to attend the equivalent of one month per year in classes to keep up on the latest interior design trends. Mrs. Woodward takes her van, laden with more than 1,000 samples, directly into the home--the best place to make decsions, she said.

"The lighting and room set-up is best in the home. It's difficult to make good choices in a store, and this way a husband and wife can make decisions together," she said.

While in the home, Mrs. Woodward discusses budget and the extent of the project, then advises how it should be done.

"I try to deal with people on a very personal level," she said. "I can make decorating decisions based on budget and lifestyle--I listen to suggestions, and we decide what would be best together. I also measure and quote an exact price--it's all on the line from the beginning. There are no surprises."

The materials are chosen, and it is then up to Mrs. Woodward to purchase them and line up installers. She admitted a lot of hard work and study went into learning the various processes.

"We also guarantee the quality and workmanship. In addition, we guarantee the effect. If it's not what the people had in mind, we change it until it is what they want."

The Decorating Den deals with certain manufacturers, and sells their products. One special product available only through the Decorating Den is a special Teflon-based initerior finish (paint) made by Dupont. It is the only flat washable finish made, Mrs. Woodward said.

The Decorating Den works primarily in the surface areas of the home--walls, windows and floors. There are reasons for this, according to Mrs. Woodward.

"The floors and carpeting are the widest expanse of color in a room, so special attention must be paid to them. Wallcovering, whether it be wallpaper or paint, can add pizazz to an otherwise dull room. And draperies and window coverings, dollar for dollar, add the largest single effect in a room--more than a sofa or an $8,000 piece of artwork."

Although Mrs. Woodward said she does may suggest accessories for a room, she doesn't sell them.

"A lot of times people have things in their homes they really like and want to work around or play up in a room. I help them decide what should be done within their budget and lifestyle."

Mrs. Woodward began her venture with the Decorating Den after she saw an ad in an interior design magazine.

"I'd always been interested in interior design and had taken several classes, so I sent away for more information. I attended the classes, bought the franchise and the van, and now I'm ready to go."

She said the schooling is a lot more complicated and involved than most people realize.

"You not only have to love the business of interior design, you have to work and learn and really be dedicated. It's fun, but it's a lot of hard work. I love working and dealing with people, and this way I can really do that."

Roeper is taking applications for gifted children's school

Roeper City and Country School, 2190 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills, is taking applications for the fall term starting in September 1979.

Roeper School is for gifted children, pre-school through the 12th grade. To be eligible for admission a student must have outstanding intellectual and creative ability and the capacity to function on a level commensurate with the school population so that he or she can become a contributing member in a group of children of similar academic abilities.

Interested parents should write or call the school to request a brochure and application form. For applications to the lower school only for children more than four years old, an evaluation morning will be held during which the children will see a number of staff people in a variety of learning situations.

Applicants should plan to spend part of the morning in a classroom. Interviews for lower school applicants will begin immediately and evaluation sessions will begin Feb. 17. Applications must be processed by that date.

Upper school applicants, grades seven through 12, are required to take individual placement examinations in social studies, math, English and science. Interviews for upper school applicants will begin immediately.

A SEPARATE application for financial assistance is available upon request. The application to enroll and the application for financial assistance are evaluated separately. Only 10 per cent of the students enrolled receive some kind of financial assistance.

Transportation is available depending on location. Children attend Roeper from Detroit, Ann Arbor, Flint, Rochester, Garden City, Birmingham, Pontiac and most points in between.

Persons interested in applying should call Roeper School, 642-1500, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Students enrolled at Roeper are expected to make a commitment to contribute to the non-academic aspects of school life which include responsibility for their own actions, for the school campus and for working to develop their full potential.

The curriculum throughout the school encompasses a global and future approach to education which goes beyond but includes traditional learning content.

Housewife sells 'glass plate' for $40; worth $1,700

NILES, Ill. — The story of a small fortune, lost because a housewife had no idea her glass plate was a collector's item, recently came to light.

In a letter to J. R. MacArthur, chairman of The Bradford Exchange, world's largest trading center in collector's plates, a Madison, Wisc., woman wrote: "I had a Lalique 1965 plate... which I sold to a friend for $40. I had not heard of you at that time.

The plate she sold is actually valued at more than $1,700. Although MacArthur points out that the price is exceptionally high, he said, "I'm afraid others may be losing hundreds or thousands of dollars by not knowing what their plates are worth."

To aid in identifying valuable plates, the Exchange issues a report that includes current prices on more than 900 plates, guidelines on what to look for and when to buy, and the plate evaluation check-list used by the Exchange.

To obtain a copy without cost or obligation, send your name, address, and zip code by Saturday of next week to: The Bradford Exchange, Dept. 46502, 9301 Milwaukee Avenue, Niles, Illinois 60648. (Not available to Canadian residents.)

Area colleges offering wealth of new courses

A new American studies program, the restoration of cancelled courses and a list of special seminars are being offered by area colleges this winter.

In the process, one community college announced a tuition increase.

UM-DEARBORN

An American studies program will be offered for the first time during the winter term at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Comprised of about 65 existing courses, the new interdisciplinary program will emphasize regional studies. "We plan to make good use of the rich resources around us here in the midwest," said Larry Berkove, professor of English and coordinator of the program.

One feature: Students will be required to do an internship in a local museum. "Material culture is an important part of American studies that cannot always be learned in the classroom," said Berkove.

Literature, art, industry and distinctive architecture of the midwest will be examined. Plans include field trips to important regional sites such as Chicago and the 19th century communal communities in Ohio and Indiana.

Only Wayne State University, among area colleges, offers American studies at the undergraduate level.

Persons interested in electing American studies as a major may contact Dr. Berkove by calling UM-Dearborn.

Registration for UM-Dearborn's winter term will be Jan. 4 and 5 in the new Field House and Ice Arena, at the south end of the campus at 4901 Evergreen. Classes begin Jan. 8.

HENRY FORD C.C.

Henry Ford Community College, Dearborn, raised tuition $1 across the board to restore previously cancelled programs.

Programs which will be restored by February are: art exhibits, debate, drama, student newspaper, forensics, student senate, instrumental and vocal music, senior adult scholarships, advanced placement scholarships, and intramural sports.

Full restoration of the learning laboratory will start with the spring semester.

Non-residents of the Dearborn School District, which operates the college, will pay $22 per credit hour or $66 for a typical three-credit class.

HFCC tuition for non-residents was last raised Jan. 1, 1978. Non-resident tuition was last raised Jan. 1, 1977. New resident tuition rate will be $13 per credit hour.

Program cuts were made following defeat last June of a property tax millage increase request. Citizens then initiated a millage levy, which was approved. It provided for restoration of K-12 programs, however, and not college programs.

EASTERN MICHIGAN U.

Three special workshops have been announced by Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

A self-awareness workshop will be held eight consecutive Wednesdays beginning Jan. 24. Sessions run from 7-9 p.m. They will be conducted by Franchette Stewart, who is trained transactional analysis-Gestalt therapist at Huron Valley Institute.

The workshop will help adults who would like to make changes in themselves or their life patterns. It will introduce them to transactional analysis, Gestalt concepts, intuition, parapsychology, Eastern and Western philosophies.

Registration continues through March 14. Fee is $35. Materials should be sent to: Registration Office, Briggs Hall, EMU, Ypsilanti 48197. The workshop is offered by EMU's Division of Continuing Education, 487-0407.

An adult life-work workshop, to explore career options, will be held on consecutive Mondays from 7-9 p.m. from Jan. 22 through April 16.

The workshop will focus on the problems of women returning to school or work and those contemplating retirement or a second career.

It will be taught by Dr. Joanne Burns, assistant director of the career planning and placement center at EMU (487-1074). Participants will learn to identify their interests, abilities, talents, skills and aspirations. They will learn how to make contacts and interview with prospective employers.

Fee of $35 includes handout materials and vocational assessment inventories. Contact Dr. Burns for registration information.

A management seminar for church lay leaders and clergy will be held Jan. 18 through April 22, meeting Thursdays from 7-9 p.m. in the faculty lounge of the McKenny Union.

It will be conducted by Nicholas Beltsos, professor in the department of management of EMU. It is designed for pastors and executives of religious organizations.

Topics will include strategic planning, tactical planning, structure and function of organizations, staffing, directing organizational effort and controlling.

Seminar fee is $100. Enrollment is limited and deadline is Jan. 11. Contact EMU's Division of Continuing Education at 487-0407 for registration information.

Smart driving techniques squeeze more miles from the gallon

Rising prices at the gas pump make it more desirable than ever to get the best mileage you can from each gallon you buy

From the December Reader's Digest, here are some proven—and sometimes surprising—gas-saving techniques.

• Don't warm up your car. Idling just burns gas. An engine on the road at slow speeds for the first couple of miles will warm up faster and lubricate more efficiently.

• Don't tailgate. Constant braking and accelerating is murder on mileage.

• The 55-m.p.h. speed limit was enacted because it saves gas. A car traveling at 70-m.p.h. gets only two-thirds the gas economy of a car going 45.

• Open windows create wind turbulence and hold the car back. At highway speeds they can lower mileage as much as 10 per cent.

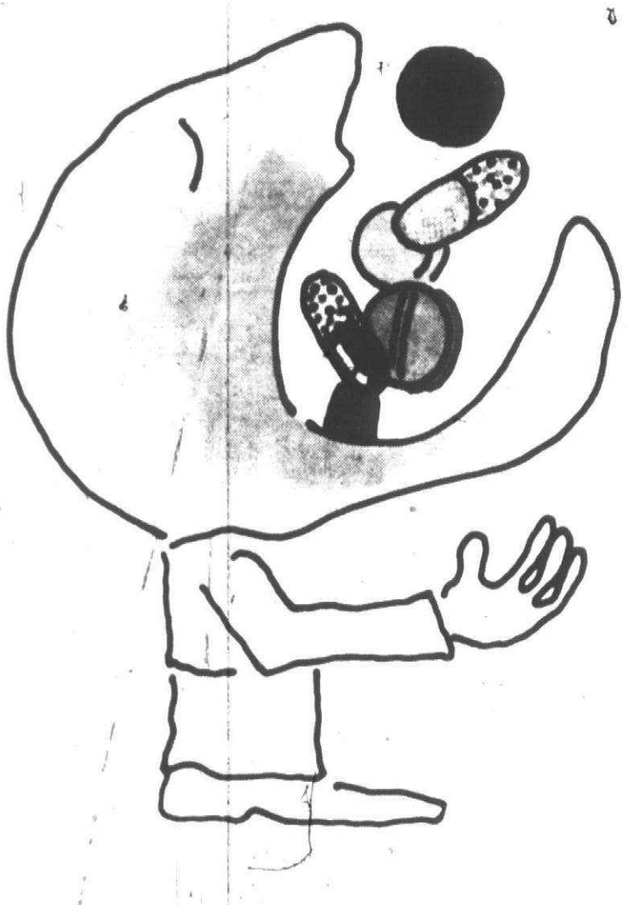
• Keep your tank on the full side to prevent gasoline loss from evaporation or condensation, but not to the brim in hot weather. Gas expands in heat and forces itself out. You could lose a half-gallon of gas this way.

• Inflating your tires three to five pounds above the recommended pressure will increase tire life and gas mileage. Running on underinflated tires could cost you two miles per gallon.

• Radial tires improve mileage; snow tires cut it down. So don't put your snows on until you absolutely need them, and take them off as soon as you can.

• Some car extras will cost you in gas mileage, others will improve it. An overdrive, or five-speed transmission, can improve highway fuel economy up to 15 per cent. Conversely, battery-powered accessories activate the alternator-generator to restore to the battery what is being used up. The car burns more gas to provide power to turn the generating unit.

• The best way to lower your gas consumption is to car pool. A Federal Highway Administration study shows that if you drive 10 miles each way to work in a standard-sized car, the yearly cost—including gasoline, insurance, depreciation and repairs—is $750. If you join a four-person car pool where each person shares in the driving, each of you can save $524.



Are you a

PILL POPPER?

When most people think of drugs, they think of the "hard stuff" and everyone would agree that this is a health hazard. But what most people overlook is the danger of "ordinary medications."

From birth we are subjected to pills, pills and more pills. We even keep our own stockpile of them in our medicine cabinets. And we take them, many times without consultation, often times without knowing how various medications interact with each other.

The result: overmedication; side effects; iatrogenic diseases; even death. More than 100,000 people die each year from drug-induced illnesses.

There is no doubt about it, we are a drug-oriented society.

But there is a way to break this drug dependency. There is a way to restore your body to health without pills, potions or prescriptions. There is a way to retain the go and glow of youth without depending on crippling drugs.

The answer is chiropractic health care which allows your body to heal itself naturally. The power for health is inside all of us. Chiropractic helps to put that power to work.

No More Pills And Potions For Me

I had been going to doctors for years for sugar diabetes, nerves and high blood pressure. I also experienced terrible headaches and was on three different diets—cholesterol, bland and one for sugar.

Also pills, pills and more pills!

Between the diets and the pills, I was a total wreck and a rack of bones. Needless to say I was not leading a very happy or normal life. My family and home suffered because of me.

Then a friend took me to see Dr. Grassam. I didn't know how chiropractic could help me, but I didn't have anything to lose except my ailments.

Within two months I was eating whatever I wanted to eat, and was off the pills and potions. Now I enjoy life to its fullest. I've gained some weight and look and feel better than I have in years. There were also other fringe benefits, such as no more menstrual cramps, no colds, flu or other viruses. I can honestly say I owe my life to chiropractic.

If I reach only person with my testimonal, it will be worthwhile.

PAT STEWART

Ian A. Grassam, D.C.

"Hey Doc, What About My Family?"

That's a question that we have heard for years and we have now devised a plan to enable your whole family to enjoy the many benefits of good health.

Many times in the past, after being restored to good health through chiropractic care, our patients have asked about care for their entire family. "I just can't afford to have the entire family treated at the regular office fee," they say Even though our $10 office call is the very lowest in the area, we realize that it can be a burden to large families.

So, to serve the needs of patients who do not have full family health care insurance, we are proud to announce the Family Health Care Plan which will make good health a family affair.

Under our new plan, which is in effect whenever two or more family members who do not have full family insurance visit us on the same day, the first member pays only $8. The second family member would pay only $3 and the third is only $1. All members after three, no additional charge. In other words the maximum cost for the family would be $12.

We have designed this plan to extend good health to everyone. There is a genuine concern that families should stay healthy together. Good health is, indeed, a family affair and it is an affair to be remembered.

Take advantage of our new plan today. Call now — 422-7800 and ask about our Family plan.

BASIC OFFICE CALL	$10
FAMILY PLAN
FIRST MEMBER	$8
SECOND MEMBER	$3
THIRD MEMBER OR MORE	$1
FAMILY MAXIMUM	$12

All insurance plans pay for Chiropractic services, including: Blue Shield, Aetna, Metropolitan, Teamsters, auto insurance, workmen's compensation, Medicare and Medicaid.

The Movies

LOUISE SNIDER

'California Suite' episodes range from funny to flop

"California Suite" (PG), written by the nimble Neil Simon and directed by Herbert Ross, is only semi-sweet. Taken from Simon's play, the movie consists of four episodes involving various couples staying at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

The first two episodes or playlets are excellent; they display some of Simon's sharpest writing and wittiest dialogue. The last two, dreadful attempts at farce and slapstick are flat, tacky and cheap.

Taking it from the top, we have Alan Alda and Jane Fonda as a divorced couple discussing the fate of their 17-year-old daughter who has run away from her mother in New York to be with her father in Los Angeles.

Fonda, in her third fine performance this year, is a bright, bitchy Newsweek editor. In contrast, Alda, her ex-husband and ex-New Yorker, is into jogging, casual clothes and laid-back living. She is trying to save her daughter from exposure to this Southern California Zietgeist which she describes as "like Para dise with a lobotomy."

ALDA IS A DEFT foil for Fonda's quick-witted, sharp-tongued character. Her facade is almost too stony hard for us to sympathize with, yet Fonda manages to reveal some of the beauty in that hardness by showing a concern for people and values. It's not an easy character to write or play, but the dialogue is Simon's most sparkling and perceptive. Certainly, it's a plea sant surprise to find him using his one-liners to make a multi-d imensional character.

The second episode deals with the professional and per sonal traumas of an English actress, Maggie Smith, and her bise xual, antique-dealer husband, Michael Caine.

They've come to L.A. because Smith has been nominated for an Academy Award. She's nervous, worried, concerned about her appearance. He looks after her and enjoys his minor-celebrity sta tus. Their repartee is as crisp and witty as Alda and Fonda's but less searing. It's less critical of a lifestyle and more reflect ive of their own particular accommodation.

Again, the casting is excellent. Smith and Caine team up marvelously and display a splendid rapport.

Walter Matthau and Elaine May have the misfortune of appearing in the tacky third episode wherein a wife discovers her husband bedded down with a hooker. Matthau waddles around, over acting and overwaddling. May tags along..

IN THE FINAL episode (saving the worst for last), Richard Pryor, Gloria Gifford, Bill Cosby and Sheila Frazier are two quarreling couples who insist on vacationing together. Their vacation consists of a slapstick sequence of accidents to people and property. None of it is very funny.

Least funny of all is the presence of so many talented actors participating in a series of pratfalls that fall flat.

Walter Matthau finds himself in a compromising situation, in modern bedroom farce "California Suite."

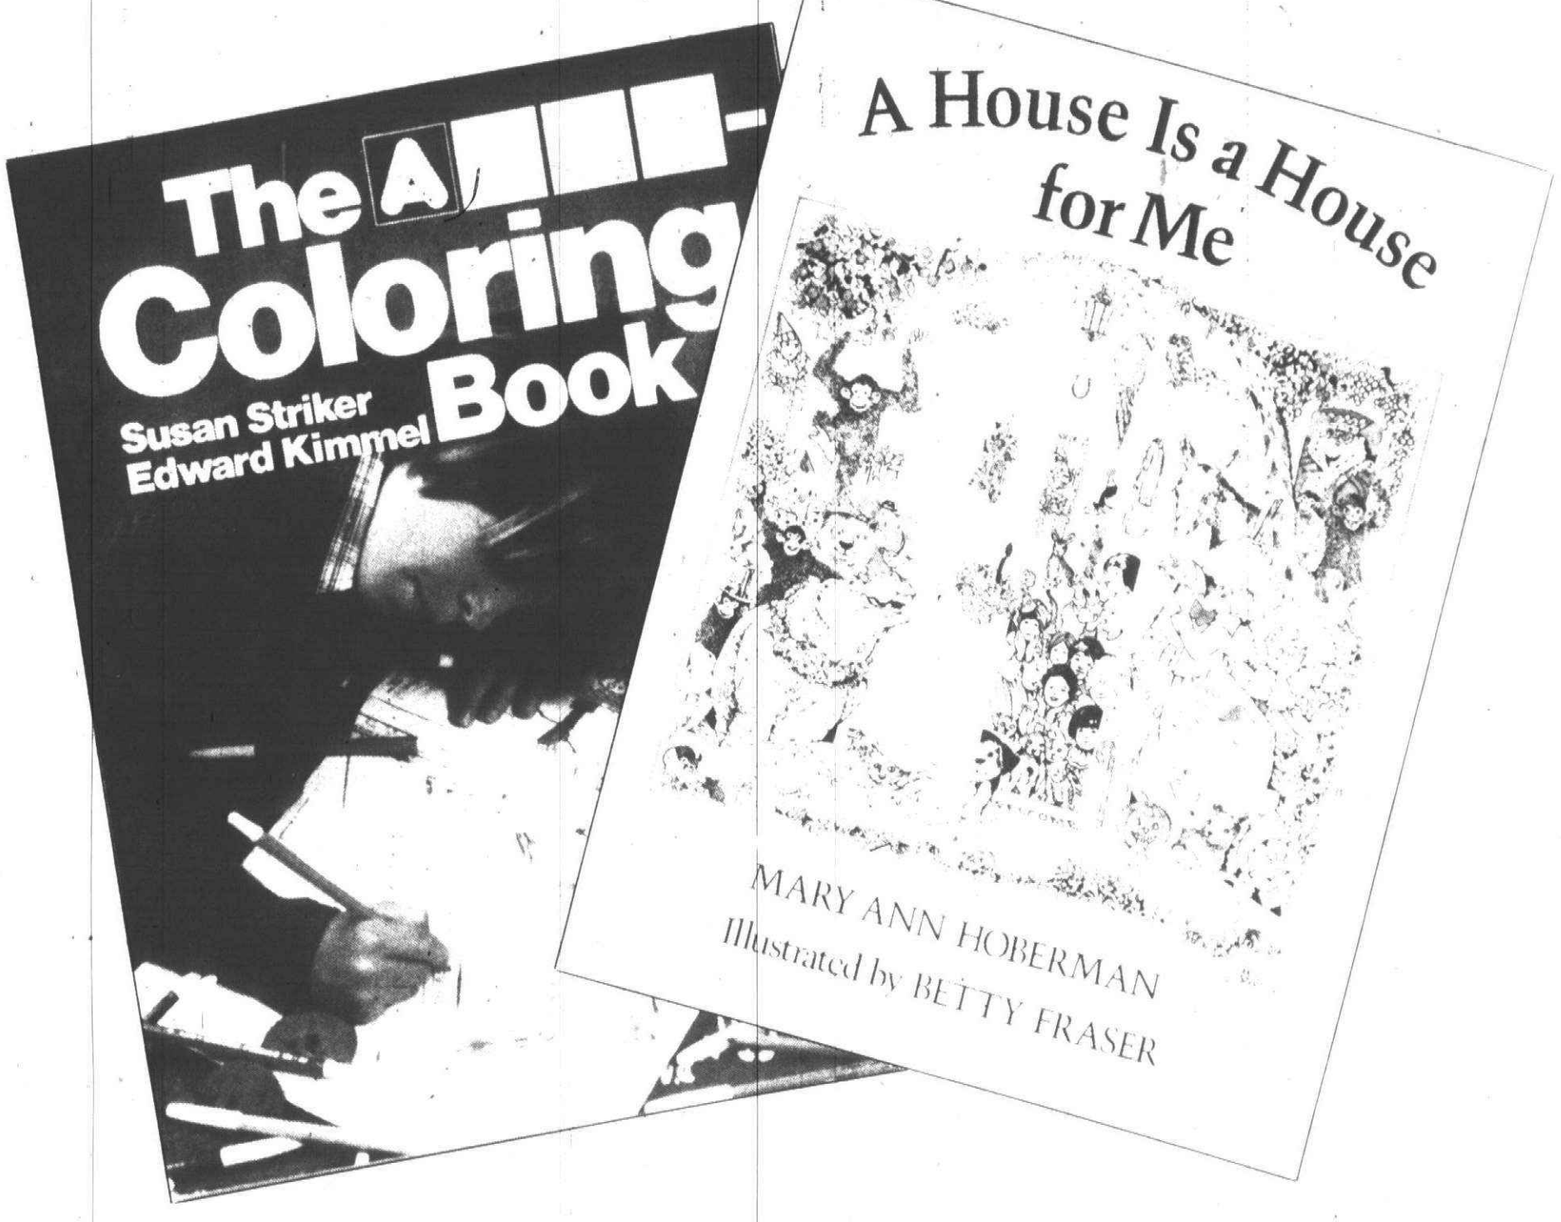
Q&E



'78 was a happy year for kids' books

By SUE MARTIN, PH.D.
Associate Professor, Child Drama
University of Windsor

Before the 1979 publishing year gets under way, recognition should be given to the best children's books for 1978.

Tana Hoban gets top billing for her camera work in 1978's "most colorful book" entitled "Is It Red? Is It Yellow? Is It Blue?" for Greenwillow.

Ordinary city scenes staged and snapped through Ms. Hoban's smiling camera become extraordinary scenes of color art. Purple garbage bags are set vividly against yellow taxi cabs and rainbow tricycles.

The color coordination of each page will be a visual treat not only to children just learning the primary colors but to older brothers and sisters alike.

A CLOSE RUNNER-UP for the "most colorful book" award is "Freight Train" by Donald Crews. Also produced by Greenwillow, it is simply told, cleanly illustrated and very kinesthetic.

Yellow hoppers, purple box cars, orange tankers and a black steam engine speed over tracks, split through tunnels and shoot over trestles into each child's auditory imagination.

The "most imaginative book" award goes to "The Anti-Coloring Book" produced and directed by Susan Striker and Edward Kimmel for Holt, Rinehart and Winston. This paperback is an alternative to coloring books which almost always stifle creativity by doing all the creating for the child.

All 45 art projects in "The Anti-Coloring Book" require the child to imagine, fantasize and invent. From designing a postage stamp for Mars to inventing a new species of bird discovered by scientists in the jungle to completing the missing half of a photograph, these projects are beautifully presented and 100 percent fun.

In the category of "best concept book," a book that leads the child to an understanding of a specific concept, there are two winners.

THE FIRST IS "Inside and Outside" by Annette Tison and Talus Taylor for World Publishing. Every other page is a cleverly drawn transparency which shows the outside of a scene. When this page is turned the next page reveals the inside of the same scene.

The child-viewer is introduced to an office building, a castle, a ship and a townhouse first from the viewpoint of the facade before turning the page and walking inside to investigate the inner workings of each structure. Children between 3 and 6 years of age will be fascinated with this book.

The other winner deals with the concept of the word "house." "A House Is a House for Me," written by Mary Ann Hoberman and illustrated by Betty Fraser for Viking, boasts three starring roles—excellent educational value, unique cut and paste illustrations and a delightfully rhymed text.

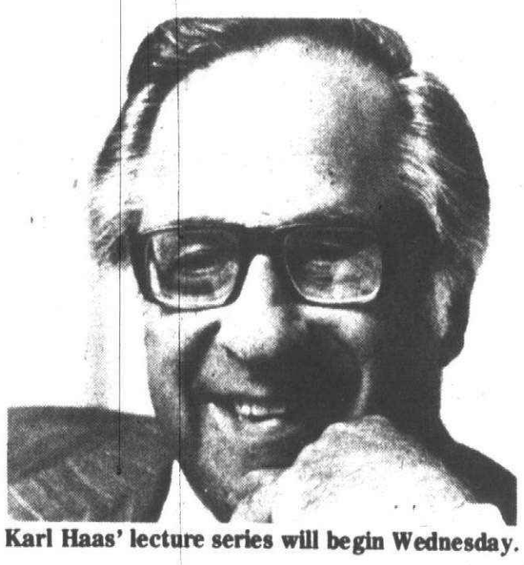
A box is a house for a teabag.
A teapot's a house for some tea.
If you pour me a cup and I drink it all up,
Then the teahouse will turn into me!

The most polite children's book of the year is "Mind Your Manners" written by Peggy Parish, with art direction by Marylin Hafner. This Greenwillow read-alone-book gently instructs the child in the common courtesies expected in such social interactions as meeting new people, receiving gifts and using the telephone.

Via short vignettes such preachy topics as tattletaling, gum chewing and table etiquette are treated in a conversational and honest manner.

The snappies poetry of the year is a gingery concoction of nonsense rhyme called "Garbage Delight" stirred up by Canadian poet Dennis Lee for Houghton-Mifflin. Take a "Muddy Puddle" and mix in one "Periwinkle Pizza" with a dash of "Worm" and you have a dish fit for the child's fancy.

Frank Newfeld's illustrations are every bit as tasty to the eye as the text is to the ear.



Karl Haas' lecture series will begin Wednesday.

SEMTA considers railcar purchase

The Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) is considering buying a number of new passenger cars for its expanding commuter rail service.

The 147-passenger, two-level, stainless-steel rail car was exhibited for the first time in Michigan last week at SEMTA's train station near the Renaissance Center.

"The car was brought to Michigan to give the public an opportunity to see the latest technology in two-level railway passenger cars," said SEMTA General Manager Larry Salci.

The 85-foot passenger car was built by the railway division of the Budd Co. in Philadelphia. The displayed car is one of 102 passenger cars purchased by the Chicago Regional Transportation Authority for commuter service in metropolitan Chicago.

Salci said the new passenger cars are designed to be used in "push-pull train operations."

"The push-pull system eliminates shifting equipment at terminals, lowers the quantity of cars required and permits tighter scheduling," said William I. Wilson, general manager of the Budd Co. railway division.

All the passenger cars' exterior and interior surfaces are stainless steel with moulded fiber glass panels around the windows.

Seats accommodating two passengers are used on the lower level and a combination of single, double and theater seats is used on the upper level.

The passenger car also contains two eight-ton heating and cooling units.

Quickie rustproofing. It's no bargain.

Some rustproofers will tell you that they can rustproof your new car in only a couple of hours. Usually they're the same guys who'll tell you they've got "drip-proof" rustproofing.

The truth is, real rustproofing has to drip and run. So it can penetrate all the seams of your car. Even the welded ones.

That's why Ziebart Rustproofing takes one day.

High times avec Le Caribou dans Le Carnaval de Quebec

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

We were having cocktails with a French-Canadian friend in in a cliffside restaurant overlooking the St. Lawrence River at Quebec City when I first ordered a Caribou.

The waiter, very properly dressed and with a white towel over his arm, looked me in the eye and said firmly, "No, Madame."

The Caribou, a local spirited concoction, is served every year at Quebec's winter carnival, Le Carnaval de Quebec. The carnival is a pre-Lenten celebration of winter that includes huge ice sculptures, dogsled and snowshoe races, hockey and curling competitions, speed skating and canoe races by the St. Lawrence River.

It is a time when Quebecers drink Le Caribou by the gallon, even though it is illegal to mix more than one such drink at a time.

"Bartenders are fined if they are caught making it in quantity, because the law thinks of it as a lethal weapon," our friend said. "Of course, they do it anyway, during Le Carnaval, and they get fined."

Any adventurous soul would sample a drink like that, but only if the waiter agrees to take the order.

"I would like a Caribou," I again said to the waiter.

"Oh, no, Madame. The Caribou is not for you," he said, contorting his face for emphasis.

I insisted. He served what looked to be an innocent looking red drink. The waiter stood silently by while I sampled it. It tasted like an Hawaiian volcano mixed with a hydrogen bomb.

"Aha!" the waiter said. "It is strong, no?"

"It is strong, yes!" I said, ordering a gin and tonic.

Described in tourist literature as reinforced red wine, it is reinforced with 190 proof alcohol.

"For some reason you can drink a lot more of it during Le Carnaval," my friend said cheerfully. "Maybe it's because it's so cold and the Caribou thaws you out, eh?"

If you are interested in eating, dancing and caribouing your way through this French-Canadian Mardi Gras festival, it will be held from Feb. 1-11 in Quebec City.

The city was founded in the 17th century by Samuel Champlain and still retains the flavor of an old European city. The centuries-old riverfront area has been restored. Cafes and guest houses and narrow streets wind up the cliffside to the old city gate, where the high-rise new city begins.

Waiters in tuxedos, with impeccable manners, serve excellent food at the tiniest down-the-lane restaurants. The last time I was there, some of the favorite for European food were Chez Guido, La Maison Vocelle, and the Cafe L'Europe.

French-Canadian cooking was served at L'Artre, A L'Ancetre de la Petite Canadienne and, appropriately enough, Le Caribou.

The ice will be thick but hopefully still loose on the river during the canoe races in February. The roads will be open to the nearby ski slpes in the Laurentians, south to New England and west to Montreal.

It's a great winter vacation for people who like to say: "If we're going to have winter, we might as well enjoy it."

ARMCHAIR TRAVELERS who are frozen in place during the winter months can prepare for future travels with a variety of travel-related, non-credit courses at local campuses.

The Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills will launch a two-phase travel and tourism course Jan. 15.

Phase One highlights travel agency operations and how these relate to airlines and other major segments of tourism. It also deals with consumer aspects of travel and the rights of the traveling public.

The course is led by Frank Samson, who has a BA in tourism from Michigan State University.

The class runs from 6:30-8:30 p.m. Mondays, Jan. 15 through Feb. 19, and costs $25 plus a $2 lab-field trip fee. Phase two begins Feb. 26.

GEOGRAPHY AND PHOTOGRAPHY courses for travelers highlight two Oakland University offerings starting Jan. 25. Travel and Family Photography will be held from 1-3 p.m. Thursdays, Jan. 25 through March 1, at the Birmingham Center for Continuing Education. It is led by photographer George Luenberger, and the fee is $50.

Arthur D. Abbot of Troy, a training instructor for AAA, will lead Geography for Travelers at Harrison High School in Farmington Hills from 7-9 p.m. Thursdays, Jan. 25 to March 1. Fee is $55.

To the Straits of Georgia

Warming currents bring blossoms, splendor

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

STRAITS OF GEORGIA—Two hundred years ago, Captain James Cooke sailed up this inland waterway between what is now the mainland of British Columbia and the coast of Vancouver Island.

There is a smell of engine oil and the clank of machinery below deck now on the ferry, but otherwise this inland passage from Seattle to the Bering Straits must look the same whenever sailors are out of sight of cities.

That is most of the time, because nature still rules this waterway, the same one that cruise ships ply to Alaska.

Ferries, with a swirling halo of seagulls following in every direction, daily make runs between the mainland City of Vancouver and Vancouver Island, and through the dozens of islands between.

The islands are humped green mountain rocks rising in evergreen splendor out of a cold blue sea.

Most Americans think of Canada as a frozen winter land, but this coast is warmed by the Japanese currents, so spring flowers are usually here in February or March.

In Victoria, at the southern tip of Vancouver Island, February is the month of the flower count. Residents count the flowers in thier gardens and telephone the number to the local chamber of commerce.

The goal this year is one million blooms for Feb. 8-14.

WEST COAST travelers can sample the seagull-and-evergreen experience of the inland waterway here by taking a ferry trip to the Gulf Islands, to the Vancouver Island cities of Victoria or Nanaimo or by traveling up the Sunchine Coast to Powell River.

Powell River is 80 miles north of Vancouver, as the seagull flies. A land journey would take hundreds of miles because the coast goes a few miles north and many miles east and west again along fjord-like inlets.

Overnight passenger ferries completed regular 80-mile runs for years before a complicated ferry-and-highway service replaced it. The Princess Pat, once a common sight on the Straits, now is a popular dockside restaurant in Victoria.

The new route along the Sunshine Coast leads out of Horseshoe Bay, a few miles from Vancouver, where travelers can take car or bus trips on two ferries and along two stretches of road in view of magnificent coastal scenery.

The first ferry takes tourists and coastal residents from Horseshoe Bay to Langdale. There is the smell of seawater and a swooop of seagulls over creosoted logs and pleasure boats as the ferry shudders out of the bay towards its first land fall.

Soon, only an occasional rooftop is seen through the green trees of the islands. White sails are always in view, bent between the mountain shores and the water.

On the first land leg of the trip, between Langdale and Earl's Cove, the neatly housed community of Sechelt gives geometry to the coastline. Summer homes here have given way to year-round residences as land prices soared.

Although the countryside is thick and wild to the road's edge, there are motels, golf courses and other signs of tourist activity on every side near the town.

ON THE SECOND ferry, between Earl's Cove and Saltery Bay, the water passage narrows as the ship turns between islands and moves up the mainland towards Powell River.

Powell River is a pulp and paper town, where McMillan Bloedel runs one of the biggest paper mills in the world. Tourists regularly tour the mills, but the Bloedel operation and the provincial government have recenly created another combination industry-travel feature by opening the logging roads for hikers.

Here you see great Douglas firs rising over dirt roads fringed with ferns and fallen trees. This is the forest that Captain Cook's sailors walked beside the inland sea.

Travelers can explore the Sunshine Coast by contacting the British Columbia Ferry Corp. Information Center at 1045 Howe Street, Vancouver, B.C. V6Z 2A9. Buses leave the city regularly for runs to the docking facilities at Horseshoe Bay, as well as for ferries going to other ports along the Straits of Georgia.

Seeds to stems

The City of Victoria likes to brag about its flower count, so it will send a package of flower seeds, called the Flower Seed Postcard, to any winter-frozen reader who asks for it anywhere in the U.S. and Canada.

Up the Mississippi

A steamboat race in grand style

If you like your winter vacations on water but not on ice, there are river adventures to the south where the Delta Queen and the Mississippi Queen are warming up for the Great Steamboat Race of '79.

The two paddlewheelers will hold the first overnight steamboat race in more than a century when they tackle a New Orleans to Cincinnati course May 18 to June 1.

Crew and passengers of both boats will participate in a variety of events during the race. Both of the queens will feature Hollywood-type cruises in the meantime.

The Mississippi Queen, a large paddlewheeler that offers services reminiscent of a Caribbean cruise, will run Big Band Cruises starting with Count Basie, Jan. 26-28, and ending with the Russ Morgan Orchestra, Feb. 26 to March 2.

You can take the three-day cruise downriver from New Orleans, the four day cruise upriver to Natchez, or the combined seven-day cruise. Bands change every three or four days, and include names like Ray Eberle, Lee Castle, Art Mooney, the Glen Miller Orchestra, the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra, Bob Crosby, and Woody Herman.

The Delta Queen, a small wooden paddleboat built in 1926 and allowed to sail the river by special permission because of its wooden hull, features Hollywood Heyday cruises that mix old movies with movie stars during February.

Trips to southern plantations will be mixed with films like "Gone With The Wind" and "Singing in the Rain." A Hollywood host will accompany each cruise—Pat O'Brien, Olivia deHavilland, June Allyson and Van Johnson.

These cruises leave New Orleans Feb. 2, 9, 16 and 23. Other cruises are scheduled throughout the year, and all are considerably more expensive than they were in Mark Twain's time.

The 14-day steamboat race, for example, ranges from $1,120 to $1,960 a person on the Delta Queen and from $1,750 to $3,150 a per son on the Mississippi Queen. Fares include steamboat passage, accommodations, meals and entertainment.

For information, contact your travel agent or the Delta Queen Steamboat Co., 511 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202.

Hotel guests can 'extra' in latest Altman film

For vacationers heading south to the sunny skies of Florida this winter, a chance to be an extra in the Robert Altman film "Health" is a possibility.

The Don CeSar Resort in St. Petersburg will be the setting, as well as headquarters, for the production company during the seven-week shooting schedule. The film will star Carol Burnett, Glenda Jackson, Lauren Bacall and James Garner. Production dates are Feb. 20 to April 15.

Guests at the hotel will be asked to register for selection to participate in scenes shot in and around the hotel. The film is a comedy set in the midst of a national health foods convention. The story was conceived by Frank Barhydt who is collaborating with Altman on the original screenplay.

Said hotel manager Austin Mott: "While not all guests will be able to appear in the movie, the opportunity to observe the production process firsthand affords an exciting dimension to their vacations."

And there is always the possibilty of bringing back an autograph or two for Aunt Sophie or the little ones back home.

For information, write Don CeSar Beach Resort Hotel, 3400 Gulf Boulevard, St. Petersburg Beach, Fla. 33706.

Actors continue in strike

By CRAIG PIECHURA

Actors and announcers in the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA) and the Screen Actors Guild (SAG) are in their third week of a nationwide strike with no end in site.

Nearly 1,200 members—free lance performers who appear on commercials—are affected in the Detroit area. Picketing began Dec. 13, the first day of the strike, at the General Motors Building in Detroit.

AFTRA members who work for Southfield-based radio and television companies are not affected by the strike.

Dorothy Spears, public relations representative for AFTRA, said no talks have been scheduled but expects some movement now that the new year has started.

Rubin Weiss, who runs the AFTRA office in Southfield's Heritage Plaza Building and appears in many commercials, was involved in preliminary negotiations between the unions and the advertisers.

According to Weiss and an AFTRA spokesman in New York, the major stumbling block in negotiations is the advertisers' demand that union members be paid one "session fee" instead of a flat rate for each scene in a commercial.

MINIMUM PAY scale for on-camera actors represented by AFTRA is $250 per commercial. Scale for actors or voices in a radio commercial is $105 minimum.

At present actors are paid for every scene produced even if the commercial is never used. Advertisers are proposing that union members only be paid if the scene is released as a commercial.

SAG and AFTRA call that a "retrogressive demand."

"It's like buying three suits and wearing two and then telling the store that you'll pay them for the third when you get around to wearing it," said Ms. Spears. "Advertisers are making entirely new versions of commercials with alternate takes."

Herb Neuer, regional director of AFTRA, said many units throughout the country have already settled contracts on an interim basis with advertisers that does not include the provision the union finds objectionable. Grand Rapids AFTRA members have signed an interim agreement and are back on the job, Neuer said.

John McGuinn, chief negotiator for the American Association of Advertising Agencies (AAAA) could not be reached for comment on the status of negotiations but an association spokesman said session pay was the stumbling block.

AFTRA and the Screen Actors Guild represent more than 700,000 performers nationwide. Of that number, about 500,000 members are on strike, Neuer said.

The Stroller

An unforgetable winter

By W.W. EDGAR

Outside, the icy winds were howling through the trees. The little cardinals and the other birds had taken refuge in the tall evergreens. There wasn't a sign of life on the road leading to the main highway.

At that moment, the weatherman appeared on the TV to let it be known that the temperature was dropping below zero and was due to fall much lower.

As The Stroller sat there in his comfortable chair next to the fireplace, he couldn't help wondering if he ever would get any colder than he was during his first winter in the Detroit area. It was a winter he never can forget.

Accepting an invitation to join the sports staff of the Detroit Free Press, he left the Dutch country of Pennsylvania and headed west. Back home it was common to have snow drifts as high as five feet and there was the time he had to be dug out of a drift to keep his attendance in school intact. So he didn't expect to find anything worse.

What a surprise awaited him.

WHEN HE ACCEPTED the invitation, he had visions of working in the press box of a major league baseball park. Or in the press coops of the college stadia, or on the sidelines at the major basketball games and boxing matches. He had no idea of the shock that awaited him.

It came on the second Sunday he was on the job. Called aside by the sports editor, he was told he would have his first assignment. It would be to cover the ski jumps at Rochester where the Hall boys from the upper peninsula put on a great show each month.

Never having seen ski jumping, The Stroller was thrilled, but he didn't prepare himself for the cold winds and the freezing temperatures. While it was thrilling to see the skiers leap through the air, he very nearly froze by the time the event ended.

When he turned in his story the sports editor smiled and said: "You can be our ski jump writer the rest of the winter."

The following week he was given another assignment—this time to cover the ice boat races on Lake St. Clair. Here he had to be out on the ice. Some kindly soul had erected a tent to stave off the winds. But it was freezing most of the time and until you are out on Lake St. Clair with the wind blowing, you really don't know what being cold is like.

BY THE TIME The Stroller had finished several ice boat assignments, he was jokingly called the "Eskimo editor." But he still had another shocker ahead.

"You've gotten used to the cold by now," the sports editor said, "so we'll give you another good job. You can cover the speed skating races on Belle Isle."

What an assignment!

As we moved to the official course, the winds came from all directions. What's more, you had to stand on the ice most of the afternoon. You got to the point where there was no feeling in your feet.

From the course at Belle Isle, the speed skaters moved up to the now-defunct Masonic Country Club at what is now Metropolitan Beach.

Off the Walls

Drink now, pay later

NANCY WALLS SMITH

For some strange reason, this New Year's Day finds my head displaying definite symptoms of a pulsating throb, my stomach not exactly placid, and my whole outlook on life rather fuzzy.

My brain hurts.

Seeing things with this newly acquired perspective of a fatal hangover, I have made the fateful decision to spend all future New Year celebrations with the Lombardo's and perhaps a sip of elderberry wine. It seems the sensible thing to do. Assuming, of course, that I survive this particular case of "the morning afters."

This year it is Mark and Mari Jose, our good-buddy neighbors, who are the culprits responsible for my current state of disarray. They gave a party with good food, good music, good people, and good gracious I think I went and got drunk! Shame on me. I don't drink very often, so when I do imbibe, I don't mess around.

I recall at one point in the evening very seriously announcing that I was getting cataracts because one of my eyes went fuzzy. I was certain the condition was permanent. It lasted about five minutes.

I also recall telling some poor soul about 15 times that "I write a REALLY GOOD column." Oh, my. The embarrassment of it all.

As the evening wore on, I began to speak with great authority on many subjects of which I am not even remotely familiar. I had a very loud and lengthy discussion with a political science major named Fred. That sounds fairly harmless, but the fact is I had absolutely no idea what I was talking about which tended to take something away from the validity of my arguments.

How can I help the newly widowed?

It doesn't matter whether one's husband or wife died after a prolonged illness or whether it was a sudden death. The resulting widowhood is a deep-seated impact which may last for days, weeks, even months.

During this period of initial shock, you must help the widow or widower to be ACTIVE. By occuping his or her time with the important details of "getting things together" for everyday living, he (or she) is forced, thankfully, into activity.

With our professional responsibilities and experience, we as funeral directors can be of immediate help. We assist in processing the various legal papers such as Social Security and VA. We handle literally hundreds of details for the family throughout the total service. And we try to help as best we can with the widow or widower in their emotional adjustments. One of our chief goals is to bring peace and comfort to the living in their hours of need. If we can help you in this, please let us know.

The VIEW from 461 SOUTH MAIN

by ELLIE GRAHAM

BACK IN 1923, the Ladies Auxiliary of the Second Congregational Church of Salem published a cookbook. The recipes were the very latest and eggs, butter and quarts of oysters were used with a liberal hand.

Oven temperatures and times are not mentioned—not even for cakes and breads. Evidently those women knew their own ovens. The preface includes these words to the reader: "If, in our book you find something new and palatable, we ask you to kindly mention it to a friend. If, however, some recipe proves unsatisfactory, the inventor's name is usually attached and we leave you to administer justice."

The ladies thanked the businessmen of Salem, South Lyon, Ann Arbor, Northville, Plymouth and "distant cities" for placing advertisements in their cookbook.

Among the Plymouth advertisers were C.E. Draper, jeweler and optometrist; C. Whipple, phone 33, who offered shoes, shirts and collars, gloves and mittens, ladies' wash and silk dresses, ladies' and children's hosiery and furnishings; Heide; The Plymouth Motor Sales Co., Lincoln, Ford and Fordson; Martin's Dry Goods Store, "always a little more for a ltte less;" and Chambers Auto Sales, which sold Willys-Overland and Studebaker.

THE PLYMOUTH United Savings Bank claimed: "Our efficient service and the United States Mail make banking easy, convenient and safe."

There were ads for a South Lyon millinery shop operated by a Mrs. H. Mackey; a Farmers Hardware Supply Co. that sold Delco lighting; and Grooms Bathing Beach at Whitmore Lake with a free picnic ground, full lunch counter, with "everything city-priced."

At the back of the book is a section called "Kitchen kinks and general hints." The tips reveal that the "good old days" weren't all that good for women 55 years ago.

Here is a sampling:

•Stove polish mixed with turpentine will be more durable and glossy; use on a cold stove. Turpentine also prevents rust.

•For headache, wring cloths out of hot water with ammonia and salt in it, and apply to head.

•A good way to keep lamps from smoking is to trim the wicks the shape of the burner and cut a small V in the center.

•If lace is rinsed in milk and ironed while still damp, it will have just the right body desirable.

•Scald old can rubbers that have become hard in ammonia water (one pint water, one teaspoonful ammonia) and they will become as pliable as new.

•To mend china, dissolve a little gum arabic in a little water, add enough plaster of Paris to make a thick paste.

•If a few drops of kerosene on a woolen rag are rubbed over flat irons before putting them away for the week, it will keep them smooth and prevent them from rusting.

•Instead of putting a bedspread through the wringer, hang it on the line dripping wet. It will dry without a crease, will not require ironing and the fringe will be as fluffy as when new.

•A new way to clean porcelain bathtubs is by putting a little coarse salt into the dampened tub and then rubbing it briskly with a rag wet with turpentine.

•To keep white gloves and waists a good color, wash in cold water with white soap and a few drops of ammonia. Dry in dark.

•To whiten unbleached cotton, put in tub of cold water and let stand in the sun for a few days. Souse up and down occasionally and turn. Change water daily.

•Mud spots on black silk may be removed by rubbing with glycerine, and then remove the glycerine by sponging with water.

AND HERE'S ANOTHER, just as good in 1979 as it was in 1923:

"Not every cook knows that all vegetables that grow under the ground should be put to cook in cold water. This includes potatoes, turnips, carrots and onions. Those that grow on top of the ground, such as beans, peas, spinach and corn, should have boiled water poured over them. If left uncovered, they will retain their fresh, green look."

According to an ad in the cookbook, genuine Victor Victrolas ranged in price from $25 to $500 at Schaeberle & Son Music House in Ann Arbor. Gulbransen player pianos started at $400 and went as high as $700.

There were three recipes for cooking hare—roast hare, hare pie, and fried hare.

But the one that makes you cherish your refrigerator and freezer is the following for beef pickle:

"For 25 pounds of beef use one gallon of water, 11¼ pounds salt, one pound brown sugar, one ounce saltpeter, one teaspoonful baking soda. Put into boiler, let come to boil, then put meat and pack in crock. Serve all the beef likewise after which let the pickle come to a boil and skim. Then pour over the beef boiling hot. Weight the beef down; will keep all summer."

"Look at that old ice saw," says Joe Borg, history teacher at Central Middle School. His Plymouth Past and Present class spends two periods a week at the Plymouth Historical Museum where they get a firsthand look at the way things were and hear tales about life in the early days.

Canton Observer
Suburban Life

Going to school in the 20th century is a lot better than it was a 100 years or so ago. That's the consensus of a group of Central Middle School boys.

They have had graphic descriptions of the way discipline was handled by teachers in pre-Civil War days. When Marge Mitchell told them about the split green stick treatment, they winced in sympathy with those long-ago scholars. Imagine having a split green stick hanging on your nose if you were nosy, on your tongue if you talked in school, or on your ear if you didn't pay attention.

The boys are taking a new elective history course, Plymouth Past and Present, which divides its time between the classroom with teacher Joe Borg and across the street at the Plymouth Historical Museum. Since they started last fall, they have worked with Barbara Saunders, museum director, who has given them the straight historical story and facts. Mrs. Mitchell has added the background color, the intimate details of the life of the pioneers.

When their stint at the museum is over and on days they stay in class, they work on their notebooks with their teacher.

COMBINING the facilities of the museum with classroom teaching has been a longtime dream of Brian Kidston, assistant principal at Central.

Although the 45-minute class periods seem short to Mrs. Mitchell, and they have just gone to the museum two days each week, they have covered a lot of ground.

The group has had the museum's regular educational programs tailored to its time limit and interests. The section on early Indians emphasized the roles of the boys in the Indian society. It was during their tour of the street of shops that they got into deeper discussions of the schools, the apothecary shop and the general store.

They discovered that students in those early one-room schools had so many chores at home that they were lucky if they went to school six months of the year. They learned by repetition, recitation and rote and stood at attention beside their desks when they they spoke.

They also were responsible for sweeping the floors and keeping the fire going in the big wood stove all winter long.

THE APOTHECARY Shop opened a conversation about old medications and cures.

One of the medicine bottles was labeled good for man or beast, and dosages were given for about 25 ailments with quantities for everything from a full-grown sheep to a small child.

The class learned about onion poultices and mustard plasters.

"I learned something about mustard plasters, too," laughed Mrs. Mitchell. "I did not know that if a person had a stomach ache, four small plasters were applied. Two were placed on the inside of the thighs and two on the inside of the upper arms—the most sensitive places."

She went on to explain that the burning sensation caused by the mustard made the patient forget the stomach pain. There also was theory that it helped to pull the blood away from an infected area. As the flesh in contact with the mustard reddened, it must be because the blood was rushing to the spot.

Onions were almost a cure-all. Not only were used in poultices to draw out poison and ease pain, they were a fine preventative medication when hung around the neck.

THE GENERAL STORE and its assortment of merchandise was of special interest to the class.

They learned the old rule that clerks and proprietors of general stores followed: "Keep the raisin barrel where the customers can't reach it and the spitoon where they can't miss it."

Late in October, they discussed recreation, toys and the Halloween pranks that were common before "anyone ever heard of a juvenile delinquent."

As they examined the museum's spinning wheels and looms they were told that it took 40 hours to spin enough yarn to weave one yard of material. This meant that spinning was not just women's work; everyone in the family who had a spare moment, from children to grandmother, took a turn at the wheel.

The boys learned about early lighting devices and how candles were made.

CLARENCE MOORE, past president of the Plymouth Historical Society, explained the old tools on display on the lower level of the museum.

He told how grain was harvested and stored in the barn. During the winter months, it was spread on the floor and threshed as needed with flails. He described the art of flailing and recalled that his mother had made a small flail for him to use when he was just 10 years old.

He said that they often sang as they worked to the beat of the the music. When asked what songs they sang, Moore replied, "'The Old Oaken Bucket,' 'Silver Threads Among the Gold' and things like that."

The students had never heard of them and at the next session, they learned the old songs. Mrs. Mitchell also mixed up a batch of switzel, a drink familiar to farm hands before the Civil War. It was a mixture with vinegar and molasses as the main ingredients. "It gave them energy and was better than hard cider," said Mrs. Mitchell.

The Plymouth Past and Present class agreed that "It tasted awful."

"I have particularly enjoyed this group of boys—they are so polite and interested. It took a while for us to understand each other, but I believe they have enjoyed it," Mrs. Mitchell said.

Joe Borg is enthusiastic about the class.

"It has been an excellent combination. The boys have been very interested and so have I."

New drug called glaucoma fighter

A drug which researchers claim will be a major advance in the treatment of glaucoma is now available to area ophthalmologists. Recently approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, the drug is called Timoptic, and was discovered and developed by Merck Sharp and Dohme Laboratories.

Glaucoma is caused by increased fluid pressure inside the eye. In most patients, Timoptic has effectively controlled elevated fluid pressures, doing so, according to reports, while not causing some of the side effects used by drugs presently used for glaucoma.

It causes little or no blurring of vision, burning or irritation of the eye or night blindness. These side effects have been common with such current drugs as pilocarpine and epinephrine.

Dr. John Danielski, an opthalmologist from Garden City, thinks that from 80-90 per cent of his patients can be switched to the new drug, which he has noticed doesn't seem to cause the headaches and seeing problems caused by other glaucoma medicines.

"It's a marvelous advance," said the doctor, adding that he used it last summer on an experimental basis at New York Medical College.

Dr. Martin Berman, a Livonia opthalmologist, thinks that having to use the drug only twice a day is an advantage.

"We have used it and are very happy with our initial experience," he said. "However we are not ready to end the use of the other medicines either. We have to dampen our enthusiasm until we know it really does the job."

He recommended caution in patients with bronchial asthma and various cardiac conditions because the drug affects certain nerve endings, not only in the eye but other structures.

If uncontrolled, reported the Merck Laboratories, glaucoma damages the optic nerve, and has the potential of gradually destroying sight. Timoptic has been approved for treatment of chronic open-angle glaucoma, the form of the disease that afflicts roughly 80 per cent of glaucoma victims.

Greenfield Village

Greenfield Village attracts almost as many visitors during the winter months as it does in the summer. Staff photographer Gary Caskey said the light was just right to take this shot of Gog and Magog and Sir John Bennett's clock and watch shop. The shop was moved—brick by brick—from London, England before World War II, Sir John was official watchmaker for British royalty. The displays inside the shop include watches made and repaired by Henry Ford when he was a young man. Oldest timepiece in the building is a brass carriage lamp which dates back to 1250. It has just one hand because no one was concerned with minutes in the 13th century.

Rocks rip WL Central, 71-26

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

After a sluggish first quarter, Plymouth Salem woke up to outscore Walled Lake Central, 20-4, in the second quarter, coasting to a ridiculously easy 71-26 non-league basketball victory Friday night at the Rocks' gymnasium.

Salem scored 16 straight points in the last six minutes of play in the second quarter to gain control of the game.

The victory kept Salem unbeaten after eight games. The Rocks are idle Tuesday but resume Suburban Eight League action Friday at Trenton.

The Vikings, under first-year coach Ken Smith, have yet to win a game in six tries.

The Rocks struggled in the first eight minutes of play, salvaging a 10-8 first-quarter lead. Matt Etienne, senior co-captain, finally brought some life into the game and the crowd early in the second quarter when he dove for a steal at half court and shoved the ball forward to a streaking Barry Owens, who laid in an easy basket to give the Rocks a 16-12 lead.

Etienne's brilliant play seems to spark Salem's play the rest of the evening, as four more steals led to three more baskets. And before the half ended, the Rocks mounted an an unstoppable 30-12 lead at halftime.

"I thought Matt Etienne's play was the turning point of the game," Salem's Thomann said. "I was confident we were a better basketball team. It was just a matter of time.

"We finally got it going and got a lot of baskets on turnovers."

Salem's pressure defense excelled once again, as the Rocks took advantage of the Vikings' sloppy guard play to covert numerous baskets on steals.

Rich Hewlett led all scorers in the game with 14 points. Kevin Kelliher added 13 and Owens, playing his usual hustle game from the forward position, sunk 10.

Matt Etienne, Jim Anderson and Brian Kelliher each scored eight points coming off the bench, as 10 of 12 Salem players wound up in the scoring column.

This is the first season of varsity action for all the Central players with rookie coach Smith at the helm.

Despite the onslaught, Smith was pleased with the play of guard Mark Williams who led his teammates with 10 points before fouling out.

"Williams was outstanding," the Central coach said. "This was his best game of the year. He hustled all over the floor and made some nice moves to the basket."

Smith couldn't help but compliment the Salem squad for its lopsided victory, sighting the difference in guard play as the key to the outcome.

"I've got to walk out of here admiring those kids," Smith said of the Salem players. "It would be a pleasure just watching them play if I wasn't so involved with our kids."

The Rocks outscored Central, 22-8, in the third quarter to extended their dominating lead to 52-20 going into the final period of action.

Salem finished the night with 35 field goals in only 64 attempts for 55 per cent from the floor. The team made only one of 12 free throws, however.

Walled Lake converted on all four charity tosses but scored only 11 field goals in 38 shots from the floor for a meager 29 per cent.

4 winter teams look strong

Vacation time is over.

After a nice stay in Toronto, two weekends of football, and 13 pounds of additional weight, the Good Doctor now is ready to enter the new year with anticipation of great successes for the Centennial Park winter sports squads.

Those which immediately come to mind are four CEP teams headed for outstanding seasons and possible state recognition in the next few months.

PLYMOUTH SALEM'S WRESTLERS top this list, as coach Ron Krueger has his squad exciting everyone around. The junior-oriented team looks like a powerhouse next season and may surprise many wrestling fans this year.

Fresh from a convincing 30-point victory in the Plymouth Canton Wrestling Invitational, the Rocks are definitely the sleeper to repeat as champions of the tough Suburban Eight League.

All along, Krueger has expressed his pleasure with the constant improvement of this young team. Now it's time for the Rocks to make a serious move for league and state recognition. Salem is loaded in the lighter weights and reasonably competitive in the upper weights.

With a little luck, the Rocks could improve on last year's 15th place finish in the state meet—a finish no one ever thought they would equal at the start of the winter season.

PLYMOUTH CANTON'S SWIMMING team is another local squad to watch closely. Coach Bill Faunce has put together a solid group of swimmers, following last year's impressive 11-1 record.

Faunce has worked very hard since beginning the Chief varsity program six years ago, and things look like they are starting to come together.

The Chiefs are 2-0 in dual meets this season, giving them nine straight victories which span two years of competition. Add to this record a third-place finish in the tough Redford Union Relays and one can see why Canton could make serious waves toward winning its first Western Six League swim title.

Canton lost its only dual meet to arch-rival Northville last season. The Mustangs, perennial champions of the Western-Six swim race, will, no doubt, be the Chiefs' stiffest competition of the season.

But don't be surprised if this is the year Canton finally dethrones Northville.

LET'S NOT FORGET both basketball teams. Salem's perfect 8-0 record ranks first in Observerland and fifth in the Associated Press state ratings. Canton's 5-2 record also is one of the tops in the area.

Coach Fred Thomann's small, but physical Rocks are riding high after finishing December undefeated. If the Rocks can cope with the tremendous height advantage of once-beaten Livonia Bentley, don't be surprised if Thomann enjoys his sixth straight Sub-Eight crown. Salem visits Bentley Tuesday, Jan. 16.

Canton, despite its disheartening setback to rival Salem at the Livonia Churchill Christmas Classic at the close of 1978, is still considered the team to beat in the Western Six League race.

Tied with Livonia Churchill's 2-0 league record, the showdown could take place Friday, Jan. 19, when the Chiefs host the Chargers.

******

Just a quick get well wish is in order for Plymouth Salem's most dedicated fan, Hank Rupert.

The lovable head custodian at Salem recently underwent gall bladder surgery but is now home and recovering in fine fashion.

We all hope to see Hank back very soon, cheering the Rocks on to victory.

Gymnasts boast 5 seniors

Nine returning letter winners, five of whom are seniors, help make Plymouth Canton's goal for a successful girls gymnastic season very possible.

This season marks only the second year of competition for coach Barb Winn's squad, but the wealth of experienced performers should overcome the youth of the program.

"This should be our best year," the Canton coach said. "We have lots of seniors back. Hopefully, we'll have a good season."

The Chiefs total 18 members on the squad, losing no one to graduation from last year's team.

Senior all-around gymnast Leslie Bublin heads the list of athletes. She is especially talented in the floor exercise and balance beam events.

Wendy Gray is another experienced senior who excels in vaulting and parallel bars exercises.

Leedah Schrader is another senior who returns with promise in the floor exercise. Robin Radoye and Kathy Kiefer round out the seniors with experience in the floor and vaulting events, respectively.

Heading the list of promising juniors is Katy Heaton, an all-around gymnast who returns to the lineup with special skills in vaulting.

Maureen Morahan, Anita Hulak and Joan Hemmingway are three more juniors with varsity experience from last season. Beth Berberet, a transfer student from Ohio, is a promising sophomore who concentrates on the floor exercise.

Because of the recent competitive development of this sport at the high school level in Michigan, the Chiefs find themselves without regular Western Six League competition. Winn said she hopes a league schedule will develop next year.

Canton competes independently, although Northville and Walled Lake Western, both members of the Western 6, are on the schedule.

Winn feels Ann Arbor Huron will be the toughest team for Canton to compete with in a dual meet. The Ann Arbor schools, Huron and Pioneer, have established programs.

With a little luck, however, the Canton mentor feels the experience of her squad will lead to success in regional competition (Saturday, March 10), as the Chiefs hope to be one of the top three teams in the regional which qualify for state meet competition.

Salem matmen host tournament

Ron Krueger's Plymouth Salem wrestling team will host its fourth annual Plymouth Salem Wrestling Invitational Saturday, Jan. 13 in the Rocks' gymnasium.

Fancy awards and tough competition once again highlight this year's event, as 16 teams begin preliminary action at 11 a.m. The finals (third and fourth place) and the championship rounds in each weight class begin at 7 p.m. after a short break.

The Plymouth Elks plans to donate money for many of the awards, which include team trophies for the top three finishers, a Most Valuable Wrestler trophy and six individual medals for each wight class.

"We give out six medals because a fifth place in this tournament is sometimes as tough as a first in other tournaments," Krueger said.

"It's going to be a very, very tough tournament. And it's going to be better next year."

The top wrestling teams at this event include three-time champion Westland John Glenn, Redford Thurston, Farmington, North Farmington, Mt. Clemens, Trenton and host Plymouth Salem.

Other squads include Plymouth Canton, Southfield, Livonia Stevenson, Livonia Franklin, Dearborn Hts. Annapolis, Ypsilanti, Allen Park, Garden City East and Garden City West.

Admission is $1 for students and $1.50 for adults for each session. An all-day pass, which includes admission to both sessions, costs $1.50 for students and $2.50 for adults.

Concession stands will be set up all day thanks to the Salem wrestling parents.

Salem High School is located on Joy Road west of Canton Center Road in Canton Township.

Rock gymnasts feature youth

By BETTY DeLANO

For the Plymouth Salem gymnastics team, there is no where to go but up. After being defeated in every meet last year, the Rocks have no other choice but to improve.

First-year coach Carol Michaels will be working with an all new squad with only one returning gymnast from last season. Sophomore Lynn Hasley competed for the Rocks last season and returns in the floor exercise this year.

"We've got a very young team that's starting from scratch," said Michaels. "Everyone shows a lot of potential and has shown improvement since the beginning of the season (November)."

Other members of the Salem squad include junior Diane Perpich, sophomores Tracy Lawson, Pam Worsnop, Susan Clark and Linda Wocha and freshmen Darla Doumanian, Kathy Rice and Jane Kimlong.

"Darla is the best one on the team right now," said the new coach. "She's got the most experience and will be competing in all four events for that reason."

Doumanian has had past experience with the Plymouth Gymnastic Club under John Cunningham.

Worsnop will also compete in all four events for the Rocks. Those four events include vault, beam, uneven bars and floor exercise.

Clark and Rice will specialize in the floor exercise, while Perpich and Kimlong will combine floor exercise with the vault. Wocha will perform in the floor exercise and the beam. Lawson will compete on the uneven bars.

"The girls competing in the floor exercise this year are all using routines they created themselves and all use different music," said Michaels. "Last year, everyone from Salem used the same music and it became annoying to listen to the same piece of music each time."

Salem's first match is scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 18, against Belleville at Belleville. All matches start at 7 p.m.

Girls start action

Girls' athletics swings back to action this month as the gymnastic and volleyball programs at the Centennial Park begin winter action.

Plymouth Canton spikers waste no time getting into Western Six League play when they travel to Livonia Churchill to face the Chargers tomorrow night. Both teams are considered the pacesetters of the conference this season. Game time is 7 p.m. for the junior varsity contest. The varsity match follows.

Plymouth Salem's volleyball team begins non-league action Wednesday night, hosting Brighton in another 7 p.m. start. The Rocks are one of the top teams in the Suburban Eight League race this season, along with Livonia Bentley and Dearborn High.

Gymnastics begins its second season of competition at the Centennial Park. Both CEP squads open their respective seasons on the road.

Canton travels to Northville on Monday, Jan. 15. Salem heads for Belleville on Thursday, Jan. 18. Starting time for both meets is 7 p.m.

EMU pucksters play here

By KEN VOYLES

Eastern Michigan University is looking for a 12th varsity sport to add to its program next year and one of the leading contenders for that spot is hockey.

Right now, EMU has a hockey club that is literally a varsity team in every sense of the word. The club, under the coaching of first-year man Jack Lewis, has 20 players and possesses a 7-5 overall record.

Among the players under Lewis's direction are eight former prep graduates from the area. All eight players are key elements on the club which is fighting to become that 12th varsity sport.

The Hurons are without an ice arena of their own and thus play out of the Plymouth Cultral Center and various other rinks in the area.

Even though the club is just that—a club—it comes under NCAA rules and belongs to a league that is made up of both varsity schools and club schools.

The Mid-Central Collegiate Hockey Association counts five teams in its conference—EMU, Kent State, University of Michigan (Dearborn), University of Cincinnati and Miami of Ohio.

"The biggest disappointment for me this year was the fact that we didn't get as many players out as I expected," said coach Lewis. "I am happy with the way the team has been playing. We can't stay with the bigger schools in conditioning but the kids have a lot of desire.

"We can only practice twice a week, while most schools practice every day. We don't have any support money-wise and have to raise it ourselves," continued the coach. "We are in a building year right now and it would be great to end it by becoming varsity."

Of the eight players on the team that come from the area, the most outstanding is Tim Juntila. Juntila is a junior graduate from Livonia Franklin. He was the leading scorer and most valuable player for the Hurons last year.

So far this season, Juntila leads his squad in scoring with 12 goals and 17 assists. The 6-2 175 pound center is also the captian for EMU.

"Tim has a lot of hockey sense. He skates good. He shoots good. He checks good. The rest of the team respects him for his abilities," Lewis explained. "He is somewhat of a hot dog but a fine player."

Steve Hill is a freshman from Garden City East. Even though, just in his first season with EMU, Hill is on the Huron's number one line as a right winger.

"Steve is still learning. He's got a lot of abilities but is having problems getting going," Lewis said. "He hasn't been scoring much but he's still doing a solid job."

Byron Freshwater is EMU's ultity man, according to Lewis. He plays just about every position for the Hurons and is a strong man on defense.

Freshwater graduated from Livonia Bentley, where he was one of the key players for three years. He is in his junior season with the Hurons.

"Brian is one of the best checkers on the team. He's big (6-1, 195 pounds) and he likes to hit," said Lewis.

Another Bentley alumus, Glen Stevens, is the third leading scorer for EMU so far this season. As of two weeks ago Stevens had collected seven goals and nine assists.

Stevens is a senior right winger and stands at 5-9, 175 pounds.

"Glenn is real smooth. He is an excellent skater and has a lot of good moves," Lewis said.

Paul Pucci is in his first season with the Hurons out of Westland John Glenn but according to Lewis is progressing nicely. In fact, the left winger has had a fairly strong first half of the season with three goals and four assist.

"Paul is not a big scorer but he plays a very good wing," said Lewis. "He is what I call a good defensive forward. He's aggressive and plays a fast wing."

Tom Norton may not be a regular starter in his first year with the EMU club but he is, according to Lewis coming along very well and could prove to be a big help by the end of the season.

Norton is a graduate of Plymouth Canton and plays either right wing or center.

"Tom is improving all the time. He likes to hit and knows how to very well," Lewis explained.

The final member of the EMU club from the area is Roger VanHove out of Garden City East. VanHove is the number two goalie for the Hurons in his freshman season.

"Roger has played well several times. He's getting better but I wish I could play him more often," Lewis said. VanHove stands at 5-11 165 pounds.

EMU's next contest will take place at the Plymouth Cultral Center this Saturday at 7:30 p.m. The admission is $2 for adults and $1 for students.

"I think people would like our brand of hockey. It's exciting and we aren't just a bunch of guys out there in a pick-up type of game," Lewis said. "It's college hockey and pretty good, I think."

Temple cagers show hustle

After trailing Taylor Baptist Park 16-12 after the first eight minutes, Redford Temple Christian broke loose during the middle two quarters Friday enroute to a 58-46 basketball win.

The Patriots out-scored their host 19-8 during the second period and 13-7 in the third to carve a lead which they never lost.

The victory upped Temple's record in the Great Lakes Christian Conference to 3-0, 7-1 overall this season.

Rob White, a 6-1 forward, notched 23 points for the Patriots and teammate Craig Johnson, a guard, chipped in with 16 to provide the bulk of the offense.

"I think our press (full court diamond press) took them out of their game," said Paul Clough, Temple Christian coach. "Our press caused mistakes during the second and third quarters and that's when we put the game away."

In addition to causing problems with their pressure defense, the Patriots were able to break Baptist's man-to-man defense and engineer quite a few fast breaks.

Clough, after praising the shooting touches of White and Johnson, complimented the play of Jeff Huber. "Jeff is our center and he had about 10 rebounds. He was pretty tough pulling them down when we needed them," said Clough.

Huber also netted seven points.

Temple Christian next swings into action 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Oakland Christian.
