Dashing through the snow

Two horsepower does the job

By KAREN KOPEIKIN BERRY

During the frigid winter, sleighbells ring almost daily at the William Lute family home.

Almost immediately, neighborhood youngsters gather in the two-acre Lute lot and wait for two smartly outfitted ponies. The ponies pull a brightly painted antique sleigh that Lute is driving. "Twerpie," the family mutt, sits in the seat beside him.

Livonian Lute, an area resident for all of his 53 years, collects and restores antique buggies, sleighs and wagons.

HIS PRIDE AND joy is a large "surrey with the fringe on top," a two-seater buggy that took him more than a year to get looking just like the one in the movie, "Oklahoma."

He has picked up three buggies and three sleighs in his six years of collecting and restoring. His latest prize is a bright black and yellow springwagon.

Commonly called a "buckboard," the wagon was used as a milk carrier in its heyday in the 1860s. Although it originally had a wooden plank seat, Lute customized it when he restored the horse-drawn wagon.

"I had to put a seat with padding on it," he explained pointing to the yellow crushed velvet pad. "Otherwise, it would be too hard to ride on in parades and shows."

LUTE, WHO WORKS for a cement products company in Taylor Township, says he spends many evenings and most weekends scouring the southern Michigan area looking for antiques "in-the-rough," or unrestored.

"I go to farm auctions or hear about them from the guys at work," he explained. "Someone will come into work and say, 'Hey, I saw a buggy on some highway somewhere in Romeo.' So, I'll hop in my truck and go take a look at it."

He has picked up several buggies and wagons in Plymouth, Howell and Farmington but has traveled as far as Monroe and Ohio for parts of his two-seater surrey.

He paid between $300 and $1200 for the unrestored buggies, but their worth to him is much more than that now.

"I wouldn't even put a price on any of them once I have worked on them," he said. "To me they are worth more than I could begin to say."

REPRODUCTIONS OF buggies and wagons run from $3,000 to $5,000 each, he said, depending on the number of seats, wheels and doors.

"But I've never even priced restored antiques," he said.

He has restored a single-seat and a two-seat sleigh and owns two ponies that pull them.

Luts insists the half-Welsh, half-hackney ponies are much better tempered than Shetland ponies. They stand between 2½ and 3 feet tall. Lute says the thick-coated ponies were bred in Wales and were used to pull coaches before he brought them across the Atlantic. Named "Peanuts," and "Beauty," the pair are a mother and daughter team that love the neighborhood children who often visit them with pockets full of treats.

THEY ARE DECKED out in brightly-colored plumes, fancy harnesses from Ohio, antique ivory spreaders, and brass trinkets that Lute "picked up here and there," to complete their colorful dress.

Lute, the ponies and the buggies have been in Memorial Day parades, the Belleville fair, the Northville Fourth of July parade and in several county fairs.

He said the ponies also enjoy pulling the wagons and buggies in county parades or shows, for which Lute has won many ribbons and trophies.

Pointing to the first buggy he ever refurbished, Lute said, "Now, I didn't win a prize for this one because I didn't use crushed velvet on the seats. Back 100 years ago, all the buggies seats were covered in crushed velvet."

Register stores? Prospect studied for possible law

A store in Canton Township burns to the ground, and fire department officials aren't sure who the owner is.

Another shop owner leases a vacant commercial establishment, only to find out months later that his type of business is not allowed in that zoning district.

Canton officials say those types of problems arise because shop owners in the township are not required to register or license their businesses.

The requirement may be slapped on all businesspersons in the township, however, if the Canton board's apparent interest in the matter is translated into law.

TOWNSHIP ORDINANCE officers are currently surveying municipalities and charter townships throughout Michigan to gather examples of registration and licensing ordinances.

Ordinance officer Bruce Phillips said about half of the municipalities surveyed so far require their businesses to register of obtain license, He maintains that charter townships like Canton can legally impose such a requirement.

Canton officials aren't sure ordinance whether they would like their ordinance to require licensing or registration.

If registration is required, businesspersons who open a store in the township will be required to fill out a one-time registration form that will include their name, home address and type of business operation.

When a business moves out of a store, building department officials would inspect the facility for possible building code violations.

If licensing is required, businesses would have to obtain an annual license. Regulations governing the operation of different businesses would be established. A license would be revoked if a business did not follow the regulations.

"It's not that we want to be a dictator," said deputy treasurer Maria Falkiewicz, who is promoting passage of the law. "We're actually trying to help the business community, not hurt them."

PHILLIPS AND Mrs. Falkiewicz agree that a registration list of Canton businesses would result in countless short- and long-term benefits.

As buildings in Canton grow older, Phillips says r registration or licensing requirement would keep business establishments up to code.

Police and fire officials would know who to contact if a business establishment is vandalized or burned.

Licensing regulations could prevent the deterioration of stores and shopping centers, they say.

An ordinance to license businesses and establish a consumer protection agency was proposed by the Canton board during the administration of former Supervisor Robert Greenstein. The business community vehemently objected to the proposed ordinance, and it was never passed.

Mary Perna, president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, was unavailable for comment on the proposed licensing or registration law.

Coin theft case goes to court

Three Canton youths who were charged with breaking and entering last month have been bound over to Wayne County Circuit Court and face a Jan. 26 arraignment date.

Last Thursday, Laurie Stein, 17, of 41955 North Drive, Kim Wasczenski, 17, of 1791 Walnut Ridge, and Ronnie Quinn, 20, of 39635 Lotsford, agreed to waive a preliminary examination before Judge Dunbar Davis in 14th District Court.

The three are charged with breaking and entering the home of Clyde Warren, 41891 North Drive, on several occasions. A coin collection valued at more than $1,000, a check, and several small items were reported missing from the house after the suspects allegedly entered it.

Warren is a neighbor of Ms. Stein, whose father, Harold, is the former Canton Township Supervisor. Ms. Stein was also appointed 1978 homecoming queen at John Glenn High School in Westland.

The circuit court arraignment will be held in Building A of the Eloise Complex in Wayne.

All three young women are free on bond pending the arraignment.

Rescue
Lives hang on efforts

By DARLENE STINSON

Most people never have to search for anything more vital than a mislaid set of keys.

But when Canton resident Robert Schaetzl directs a search, lives may hang in the balance.

Schaetzl is commander of the Michigan Civil Air Patrol (CAP), and missing airplanes are the targets of his search efforts.

The non-paying position means that Schaetzl never knows when he will receive a call from Scott Air Force Base in Illinois. Military officials will order a search for an airplane believed to have crashed anywhere in Michigan.

According to Schaetzl, the calls usually come about three times a month.

WHEN THEY DO, Schaetzl holds the final decision-making power on how the search will be conducted.

He holds rank over 2,300 Michigan CAP members and responsibility for the agency's Jeeps, trucks, buses and $250,000 worth of planes.

Since joining the auxiliary of the Air Force in 1944, Schaetzl figures he's flown on about 30 search missions as a pilot or observer.

Last year, Schaetzl flew on a highly-publicized search for three American Motors Corp. executives and one Ford Motor Co. executive who were bound for Kenosha, Wis. The people were never found.

But Schaetzl, 51, who works full-time as a sales manager for General Electric, does not fly on many search missions anymore. His participation in missions usually is confined to decisions made on the ground.

Schaetzl was appointed commander of the Michigan CAP last summer after serving as the agency's deputy commander for two years and deputy commander of the Indiana CAP for five years.

Whenever Scott Air Force Base requests a search for a military, commercial or small privately owned aircraft, CAP members rally to a predetermined mission base.

They contact all the airports along the missing airplane's route and determine the area their pilots will scrutinize from the air. They will not fly over the Great Lakes in a search.

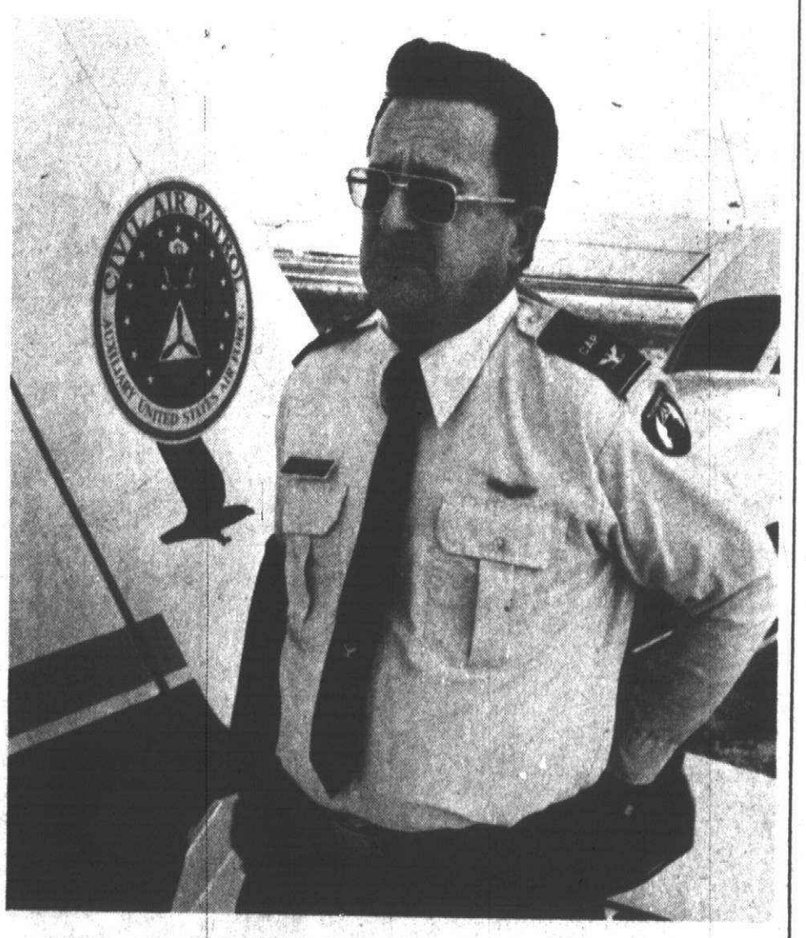

In last year's search for the missing auto executives, the CAP searched a triangular area bounded by South Bend, Ind., Muskegon and Canton's Mettetal Airport, where the plane took off. The area encompassed about 10,500 square miles.

Once the airplane is found, highly trained CAP ground crews are sent in.

"BUT MANY of them are false alarms," Shaetzl said of the CAP's search missions.

Houses damaged in vandals' spree

Vandals destroyed an estimated $9,000 worth of property sometime Thursday night in a wrecking spree throughout houses under construction in the Sheldon-Cherry Hill area.

Det. Sgt. Larry Stewart of the Canton Police Department said six houses in the Cavalier subdivision were entered by someone who punched holes in walls, damaged plumbing fixtures and twisted pipes.

Houses which had reached the point where they could be locked up had front doors kicked in.

No windows were broken during the vandalism spree, and all of the houses are being built by Cresehendo.

Stewart said no suspects have been charged with the crime, as of yet.

SPENDING OUR MONEY

The Michigan State Lottery does generate tax revenue for the general fund, but how proper is it for tax funds to be spent on advertising to generate lottery ticket sales and to what extent should tax funds be spent on such advertising? These questions are discussed in Hors d'oeuvres by Lynn Orr in today's edition on Page 3A.

Travelogue to resume with jaunt to Ireland

The Kiwanis travelogue series will resume again, after a holiday break, at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School.

The Jan. 17 program will take spectators on a journey to Ireland with Bill Kennedy as narrator.

Tickets are $2 per person and are available at the door. Salem High is located on Joy Road just west of Canton Center Road.

KENNEDY IS A professional photographer of many years' standing with a keen interest in the natural world and in the lives of people.

His camera work has brought him awards for technical excellence and artistry.

Kennedy is an Irishman by birth, an American by choice, a photographer by profession, and a traveler by nature.

A Detroit resident, Kennedy was educated at Lawrence Institute of Technology in Southfield and graduated from the School of Modern Photography of New York City.

KENNEDY WILL welcome the travelogue audience to a friendly land filled with old world charm.

A visit will be taken to Dublin, the largest city and capital of the Republic of Ireland, and then will allow viewers to escape the city trffic by strolling St. Stephen's Green or the hallowed halls of Trinity College.

The film then will explore the Wicklow Mountains, the beautiful Powerscourt Gardens and the highest waterfall in Ireland. Another interesting visit will be to the town of Glendalough with its 1,500-year-old monastic community.

Kennedy's camera lens then will capture the Waterford Glass Works where craftsmen produce quality crystal of exceptional clarity and brilliance.

Another site will be the canals of Cork, which hang on the edge of cliffs along the ocean. On the north side of Cork is Blarney Castle, the location of the famous Blarney Stone. Here viewers also will experience Irish family life on a working farm and enjoy the rough and tumble of Irish sports such as Gaelic football and road bowling.

THE TRIP THEN continues to the lake and mountain country of Killarney, where a pony trip takes viewers through the Gap of Dunloe.

Then a side trip to the Puck Fair, where face to face bartering is the way of doing business at cattle markets.

Galway is the port of departure for the Aran Islands—a bleak rock outpost of Ireland where comforts are few and the people cling to ancient ways of life.

In Donegal County you can watch durable Donegal tweed being handloomed. Another Irish craft, china making, will be observed at Belleek. The china has been made much the same way for centuries.

The trip will begin to wind down with a visit to northern Ireland's rugged Coast of Antrim, including the Mountains of the Mourne.

The Travel and Adventure Series, now in its second year here, is sponsored by the Kiwanis Foundation and is a joint effort of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club and the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth.

Proceeds are used for community service projects funded through the Kiwanis Foundation.

Is there a mouse in the house? Actor Gary Theiler gives that impression.

Drama without words moves pupils

Students at Smith Elementary School in Plymouth recently were treated to a performance by the Little Theatre of the Deaf.

The 50-minute performance at Smith Elementary was made possible by the Detroit Youtheatre of the Detroit Institute of Arts through a grant from the Michigan Council of the Arts.

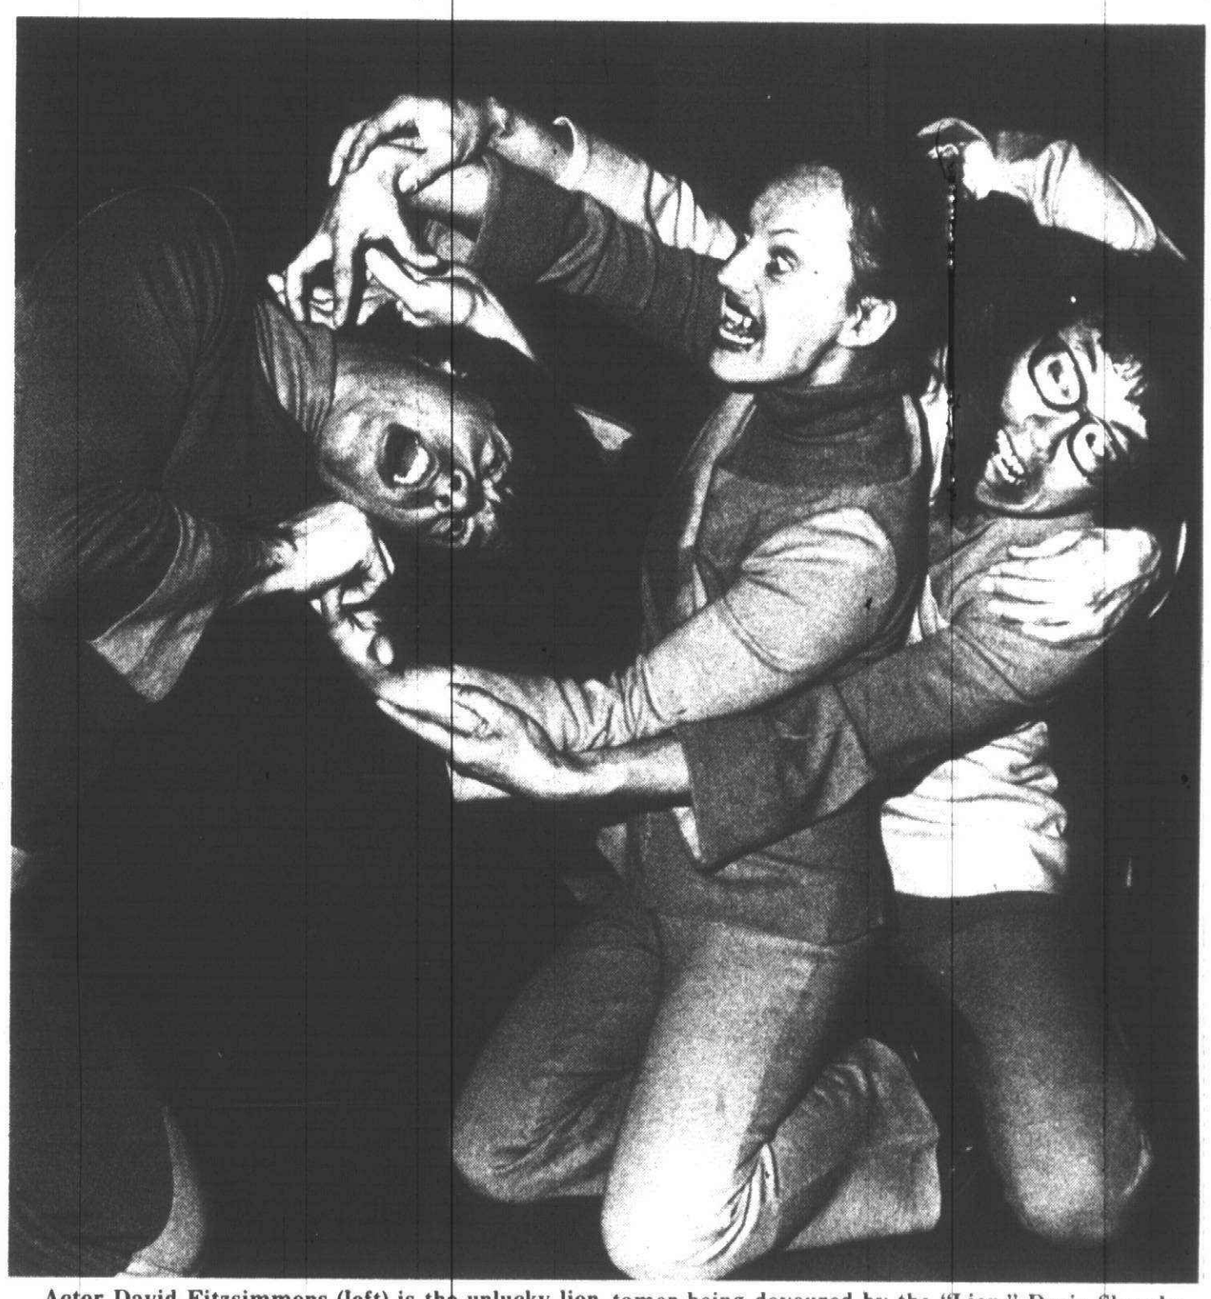

The performance featured four deaf actors and one hearing actor using a combination of visual language, mime and the spoken word.

Before the performance, the students were given a dramatized explanation of the visual language and then discovered how easy it was to understand the visual word when it is joined with the spoken word from the speaking actor.

THE LITTLE THEATRE of the Deaf is part of the larger parent company, The National Theatre of the Deaf—1977 winner of the coveted theater award, the Tony.

This group—almost all college graduates—has given nearly 3,000 performances in more than 500 different theaters throughout the U.S., Canada, Europe, Israel and Japan.

The companies have made three films, and more than 100 million people have seen them on television—on one-hour specials and on countless interview programs, plus frequent appearances on Sesame Street where Linda Boye, an NTD actress, appears regularly.

Hors d'oeuvres

An abuse of tax funds?

It's better in the Bahamas.

Who'd argue with that?

Truth in advertising has a lot of merit, particularly when you're burrowed under the quilt staring at the TV screen because the thermostat won't register above 62 degrees.

The islands' chamber of commerce and the airlines have a right to herald the sun.

It's a different story for the State of Michigan and the lottery ads.

I walked into a nearby pharmacy the other night and nearly walked out again without a purchase. I counted nine people in line at one of the counters. One clerk twiddled his thumbs at the other one.

I cautiously approached.

"Is this register open?"

"Sure."

He rings up the half gallon of milk and fix for my magazine habit.

"Why are all those people in that line?" I ask, searching his face for signs of some terrible disease.

"Lottery tickets."

Obviously, businesss is good. Statistics from the Bureau of State Lottery confirms that conclusion.

LAST YEAR (Oct. 1, 1977-Sept. 30, 1978), the lottery netted $141,258,000 for the state's general fund. Thirty-nine per cent of that total went to education, 10 per cent to health and medical, 34 per cent to social services, 15.5 per cent to all other governmental services and 1.5 per cent in capital outlay.

In its annual report, the bureau states that four per cent of all ticket sales goes to administration, which includes advertising and marketing. A spokesperson said the total advertising and marketing budget for this year is $2 ½ million, or less than one per cent of sales revenues.

But why does the lottery need to advertise at all?

I've yet to notice a glut of lottery tickets or a mark-down sale on the items, and yet the slick ads on TV continue to push the things.

Where does this type of advertising end?

I fully expect to see future ads competing for Las Vegas dollars.

"Weekend with the Michigan Lottery," a silky-voiced woman begins, with the unspoken promise that her red crepe dress is part of the deal.

"In this incredible new game, you save the plane fare to parts west and enjoy a Las Vegas revue in the privacy of your own home with our Lucky Lottery Slide Show," she intones.

John Davidson crooning "Anticipation" voices over the color slide preview of the show-stopping offering.

"For the complete weekend package," the lady in red continues, "we include enough tickets to scrape, rip and rub with a coin to consume a full day of lottery fever. Midnight Saturday we will announce the grand prize winner," she breathlessly underscores, winding up the pitch.

THE MORALISTS claim that state-authorized gambling violates some higher moral code by encouraging gambling.

I'm neutral on that point. I'm more interested in why the state gets into the big bucks world of advertising at all. Either the program goes or it doesn't.

But the Madison Avenue habit is hard to break, or even hold to a moderate level.

In the end, we pay for these ads, whether it's the lottery newest instant game or Ma Bell's "Calling is caring, long distance."

Unfortunately, Bahama benefits are more than a phone call away.

Police take on 12 reserves

Canton's police force will be gaining additional staffing in the form of 12 new voluntary reserve officers.

The board of trustees last year approved the hiring of as many as 30 unpaid reserves, but Police Chief Walter McGregor said at a more recent meeting that his staff of 21 people could not handle that many.

According to McGregor, the reserves will be unpaid volunteers and will be required to work a minimum of 16 hours a month.

Reserves will receive $1 a year from the township, which will entitle them to workers' compensation. Although they are not paid, Financial Director Michael Gorman estimates that the township will pay about $1,000 to outfit and train each person.

Prior to being assigned to full-time police officers, reserves will undergo a 96-hour training program. They will be required to work with a qualified officer. Reserves will not be allowed to carry guns outside their volunteer time unless they already hold a gun permit.

One of the reserves, Karen Paulin, will be allowed to do only clerical-type work inside the police station until she reaches the age of 21.

Another proposed reserve, Donald LaFramboise, will not be allowed to serve as a reserve until he has moved into Canton, which is a requirement for the job.

The reserves approved for use by the police department are: Ronald Bianchi, Gregory Bretz, Vicki Hebda, Robert Hunter William Keppen, Floyd Moyer, Karen Paulun, Raymond Rodriquez, Steven Ross, Leonard Schemanske II, William Watson and Donald LaFramboise.

CAP offers tense times

emergency location transmitters (ELT) which emit signals whenever an airplane has a rough landing, he explained. Airborne planes pick up the signal and report the transmission to the Federal Aviation Administration, which then contacts Scott Air Force Base.

Last summer, the CAP found a "missing" plane in the hangar of an airport near Mount Clemens. The ELT signal was transmitted after a hard landing without the pilot's knowledge.

But many other CAP missions are triggered by actual crashes.

Last year, CAP crews saved the life of one pilot whose plane crashed in the Upper Peninsula. Last month, the CAP scoured the Lower Peninsula for a crashed Air Force jet. The Air Force crew had ejected from the plane before the crash and had landed safely.

According to Schaetzl, time is crucial when CAP crews conduct a mission.

Statistics show that victims who survive a crash can expect only a 20 per cent chance of living if they are not found within 24 hours of the accident.

According to Schaetzl, discovering a crashed airplane is often an extremely difficult task.

"A PLANE COULD land in a field and slide under foliage," Schaetzl said. "And some aircraft have been known to go straight down."

Schaetzl said one airplane which crashed in another state spiraled from the sky and in a straight line and damaged the limbs of only one tree in a heavily forested area. Branches of surrounding trees cloaked the damaged limbs.

The CAP commander said he joined the agency in 1944 because "I've always been interested in aviation." He served as a technical segreant in the Air Force during the Korean War years.

Schaetzl, who spends at least 12 hours a week at the Michigan CAP's Grosse Ile headquarters performing administrative work, says his agency also flies emergency medical supplies into areas hit by natural disasters.

Ensure winter auto start ups

Following these cold weather tips for your car can help let you whiz through winter and save money at the same time.

- Check your antifreeze. Use all new antifreeze if your cooling system hasn't been changed in two years.
- Install a new air cleaner.
- Check belts and hoses, replacing any that are brittle or cracked.
- Change your transmission fliud if it is very dark or thick.
- Rotate tires, check air pressure and replace any bald or badly worn tires.
- Lubricate the suspension points on your car's chassis, especially the front end.
- Replace brake shoes and pads if badly worn. Turn drums if they're scored. Check fluid in the master cylinder.

Millage election Thursday

Persons who plan to vote absentee in Thursday's Plymouth-Canton School District election have until 2 p.m. Wednesday to cast their ballots.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., Jan. 18, while absentee ballots can be obtained at the board office at 454 S. Harvey Street in Plymouth through 2 p.m., Jan. 17.

Renewal of 6.5 mills which have expired is the only issue on the ballot in the election. The expired millage represents slightly more than $4 million of next year's operating budget and about one-seventh of the school funds for staff, supplies, utility costs, and other services.

Passage of the renewal will maintain the school tax rate for operation at its present level.

Information on voting precincts or absentee ballots can be obtained by calling 453-0200, ext. 422.

STRESS

It has been estimated that more than 20% of our hospital beds are filled, directly or indirectly, because of stress.

Stress is a confiner, a crippler, a killer. It aggravates every disorder known to mankind.

Stress is the accumulated tension which builds on the delicate nervous system. It interferes with the normal function of this system, throwing the control mechanism of every body cell out of its normal relationship.

This alone produces disorder to a great degree.

The human body was not designed to endure the tremendous pressures which today's lifestyle puts on us. If we do not find a way to alter or reduce this amount of stress, we are heading for trouble.

The most obvious way to reduce stress is to maintain the spine, which houses the nervous system, in a way which will keep pressure to a minimum. The best way to do this is with regular visits to your chiropractor who has been specially trained to keep your spine in top condition. Spinal integrity will ensure that the flow of nerve energy is unimpeded along the spinal column. It is very important to eliminate stress here because any stress at the spine will amplify stress in any other part of the body.

Hobbies, exercise and regular eating habits can all help in the battle against stress. But remember, your most important ally in this fight is your chiropractor.

Chiropractic Care Put My Husband Back on his Feet

On January 3, 1974, my husband suffered a stroke and was hospitalized for four months. During this time he had another stroke.

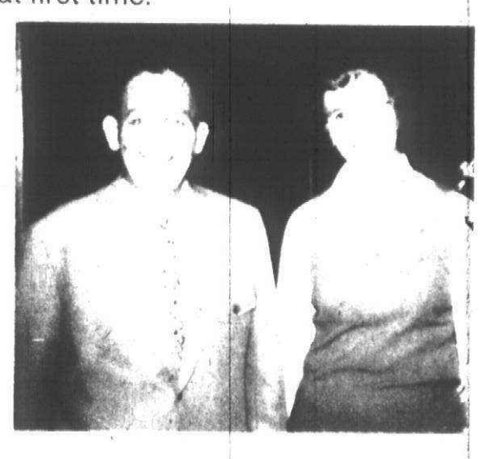

The doctors told me that it didn't matter if I took him for rehabilitation because he would be a "vegetable." With the aid of a walker he came home that May.

It was only after he fell and hurt his back that he agreed to see Dr. Grassam. He practically had to be carried into the office that first time.

In May, 1974, my husband began a regular program of adjustments. I knew chiropractic could help him, since I have been helped by regular adjustments. My legs have had spells of numbness for years.

In August, 1974, my husband returned to work and now he walks unaided. He continues with his visits to the Grassam Chiropractic Life Center and I know his condition will continue to improve.

"Hey Doc, What About My Family?"

That's a question that we have heard for years and we have now devised a plan to enable your whole family to enjoy the many benefits of good health.

Many times in the past, after being restored to good health through chiropractic care, our patients have asked about care for their entire family. "I just can't afford to have the entire family treated at the regular office fee," they say Even though our $10 office call is the very lowest in the area, we realize that it can be a burden to large families.

So, to serve the needs of patients who do not have full family health care insurance, we are proud to announce the Family Health Care Plan which will make good health a family affair.

Under our new plan, which is in effect whenever two or more family members who do not have full family insurance visit us on the same day, the first member pays only $8. The second family member would pay only $3 and the third is only $1. All members after three, no additional charge. In other words the maximum cost for the family would be $12.

We have designed this plan to extend good health to everyone. There is a genuine concern that families should stay healthy together. Good health is, indeed, a family affair and it is an affair to be remembered.

Take advantage of our new plan today. Call now — 422-7800 and ask about our Family plan.

'They plump' proves the key

Hot Dog: Hygrade franks are No. 2 seller

BY NANCY AUSTIN

"They plump when you cook 'em."

A most successful advertising slogan has convinced millions of people that Hygrade Ball Park franks are, indeed, the plump king of the hot dog world.

Proven out by statistics, Hygrade president C. W. Riley boasts that Hygrade has captured the number two place in the sale of frankfurters in the United States. They are second only to Oscar Mayer.

"Being number one is not important", said Riley. "What is important is the rapid growth of the company. Our projections show we will have a total distribution of our products as complete as Oscar Meyer in three to four years." (At this time Hygrade products are found in all 50 states, but not all products are found in each state.)

There are several factors resonsible for the continued growth of the Livonia based processing firm (corporate headquarters are in Southfield.)

Renee Apple, director of consumer affairs for Hygrade, explains, "Many people are under the misconception that we are out to cheat the American public.

Nothing could be further from the truth. We care about each product that leaves our plant. If a customer has a complaint, we personally will answer that complaint to the satisfaction of the customer within five days."

Ms. Apple receives on an average of about 25 complaint letters a week. She also receives about two or three complimentary letters a week. "It is important to note," she said "that people are more likely to sit down and write a letter of complaint than they are a letter of compliment. If we receive a favorable letter, those people hear from us, too." she said.

"It may cost us sometimes up to $100s to satisfy a customer," said Riley. " But customer satisfaction is one of the keys to the success ofthe company."

Premium quality products are the other key success factor. The selection of only the highest quality meats with which Hygrade makes all of its products insures premium brands and uniformity in the product line. This, combined with strict quality control mesure, assures a customer that the product he chooses from the grocery store shelf is guaranteed to satisfy him.

HOT DOGS, for example, are made from a blended meat mixture. "I really get angry at what the consumer has been fed on how processed meats are manufactured," said Ed Campbell, superintendent of operations. "There are no animal trimmings or glands or other things you hear are put into hot dogs. We use nothing but the finest grade meats-all meat." said Campbell as pointed to a bin of roast-type beef. "This meat must be a perfect blend every time it is mixed and before it is stuffed into the casings, said Campbell."

A sample of the meat blend is taken to the quality control and testing laboratory where it is analyzed for moisture and fat content, protein and water balance, and taste. A direct telephone line connects the laboratory and the mixing station on the processing floor. "That way," says Campbell "we always know what corrections must be made to insure uniformity and consistency."

The product is also sampled every two hours off the processing line , out of the cooker, or taken out of the smoke house. "We have to be sure every step of the way that the frankfurter or other products are being processed according to specifications," he continued. "They are also taste tested" he said,as he bit into a sausage he separated from a long unbroked line of links.

West Virginia brand hams are another mainstay of the Hygrade company. While the latest in automation equipment is used throughout the 97,000 sq. ft. plant, there is still the need for individual people to visually inspect and trim each ham.

If the ham has too much fat, it is rejected for sale as a semi-boneless ham. At another point in the process, it will be cut open, the excess fat cut away and sold as a boneless ham.

"Visible fat can be a real problem for the customer," commented Ms. Apple.

Many people don't realize that the fat is there to flavor and tenderize the meat as it is cooking. The same is true for bacon. Most people complain there isn't enough lean in the bacon. But bacon, by definition, is fat streaked with primary lean (the strip you see at the top) and a secondary strip within the piece (the secondary lean).

"Another popular misconception about bacon is that many people think we try to hide the fat bacon between two pieces of lean bacon. The extra cost and effort it would take to do that would be phonomenal. There would be no point in trying to do it." she sid. All Hygrade meat products are trimmed to a uniform size . "All hams, for example," said Campbell "must be as close in size as possible or the smoking process as well as other procedures wold vary and the uniformity would be disturbed."

"The West Virginia" brand name originated for two reasons, explained Riley. "First we used to have a plant in Wheeling, West Virginia. But, more than that West Virginiais a rural state and one that is famous for its country hams. People psychologically think of a country flavor." It is that country flavor that has fattened the company profits with sales expected to exceed the $600 million level of 1978.

With meat processing plants located in Illinois, Washington, Maryland, and Pennsylvania, in addition to the Michigan facility, the company provides jobs for some 3,500 people, about 450 of whom work in Livonia. The Ball Park franks have had a decisive impact on the expansion of the Livonia plant. Clever marketing of the "ball park" concept launched a whole new product line for the company.

Approached by Jim Campbell, general manager of the Detroit Tigers, Hygrade agreed to develop a hot dog that could hold up its good flavor and texture under develop a hot dog that could hold up its good flavor and texture under sometimes rigorous treatment.

Hygrade succeeded in pleasing the fans and the profits of Tiger Stadium rapidly increased. "Hot dogs are a sort of outdoor 'fun food'", said Riley. So we marketed a psychological conept in a superior product."

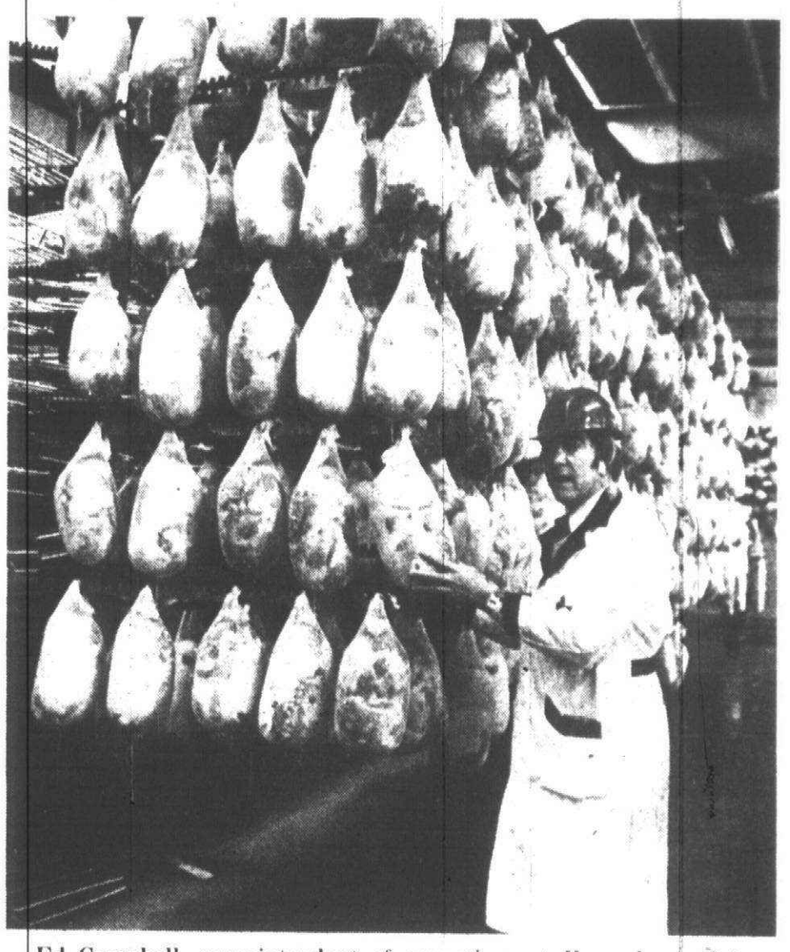

Hygrade now also supplies the Pontiac Silverdome as well as other stadiums where there is a processing plant in the local area. "Inventory has to be readily availalbe from the plant in case the stadium runs outof hot dogs. Tiger stadium management knows they can get hot dogs in the middle of Sunday afternoon if they run out. That's important to them."

In the face ofthe recent nitrosamines controversy, Riley noted that this hasnot affected

Noting that the Ball Park Franks are his favorite "fun food", Riley said
"If there was ever any conclusive proof that any of our products caused cancer, I'd stop eating them." "But," he pointed out, "There has never been any conclusive proof that eating bacon or any other cured meat causes cancer. People trust Hygrade products, and we are continuously working with the meat industry and the government along those lines. We are doubling our promotion efforts because people would simply not believe an announcement by a privatecompany. So we are increasing their trust through a promotioanl and educational effort."

"Right now," said Riley, "the government allows 10 parts per billion. We are operating within that range. They are expected to reduce this to 5 parts per billion and we will comply."

"People are concerned about their health" says Ms. Apple. "Most of the questions I am asked center around nutriton. "Many people" she continued "want to know how many calories are in our hot dogs. Others are concerned with the addition of sweeteners to our products, or maybe the cholesterol content."

Green steers GM's community relations

F. Harger Green, plant manager of the Fisher Body Division's Livonia trim plant, has been appointed chairman of the 1979 General Motors Livonia Plant City Committee by GM President E. M. Estes.

He succeeds Bernard J. Kearney, manager of Chevrolet's spring and bumper plant, as head of the committee.

A native of Pontiac and a graduate of Albion College, Green joined General Motors in 1940 with the Fisher Body Division in Pontiac. He was named production manager of the division's Livonia facility in 1965 and was promoted to his current position in February 1967. He is a resident of Plymouth.

For 44 years, plant city committees have been responsible for guiding and coordinating GM's community relations activities in some 60 cities where General Motors has manufacturing facilities or other major operations.

In addition to Green, other Fisher Body executives on the 1979 Livonia committee are Harold K. Ednie, resident comptroller, and L. Clyde Smith, personnel director.

Chevrolet is represented by Kearney, Elmer C. Jackson III, personnel director, and Donald J. Krebs, resident comptroller.

Firm's new service is music for shut-ins

Even though the holiday season is over, people in senior citizen homes and hospitals are being provided a way to enjoy the spirit of the occasion all year long.

Throughout the year, Hammell Music, Inc., which has stores in Livonia and Birmingham, will offer a service to such places, free of charge, that will bring music into the hearts of those people.

It was a pre-Christmas call from an outside source to Hammell Music's Dennis McVittie that set the program in motion.

An organ and organist were provided to entertain patients at Columbia Medical Hospital in Detroit, and as word of Hammell's policy spread the calls kept coming. It then was decided to continue the plan indefinitely.

Organist Burt Kuhlman, formerly of WJBK's original orchestra, volunteered his services to perform the concerts during the holidays.

Now, he is being joined by the rest of the Hammell Music staff in presenting the programs. Concerts are usually an hour in length. They include music from yesteryear as well as some of today's more modern tunes.

McVittie, who is coordinator of operations for Hammell's, made this comment: "There are many joys in the music business, and through this service we are bringing some of those joys to these people. It's a commitment well worth making."

McVittie and owner Bill Abney said they are anxious to make arrangements for many more concerts in the upcoming weeks. Those interested may contact either of them between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. business days by calling 427-0040.

PERRY DRUG STORES, INC., which operates 58 stores in 43 Michigan communities, has reported record sales and earnings for fiscal 1978.

Jack A. Robinson, chairman and president, said earnings were up 23 per cent to $2.1 million, or $1.70 a share, from 1977's $1.7 million, or $1.42 a share. Sales rose 28 per cent to $89.1 million.

Robinson also announced that seven to 10 additional Perry stores will be opened this year. The chain had only three outlets when the company went public in 1973.

DOWN RIVER FEDERAL SAVINGS recently broke ground for its 21st full-service branch office. This one will be on Seven Mile at Doring, just east of Farmington Rd., in Livonia.

In attendance at the groundbreaking ceremony were Arthur J. Hayes, president of Down River Federal Savings, which is headquartered in Taylor at I-75 and Eureka; Donald E. Bezzo, Down River's senior vice-president; John Deutschman, president of Three Jay's Building Company, and Pete Foster, project superintendent for the Three Jay's firm.

Fairlane's '79-80 growth outlined

The growing Fairlane Development, once farmland around the boyhood home of Henry Ford, continued to flourish in 1978, and the outlook for 1979 is for continued growth.

Fairlane is on 2,360 acres of Ford Motor Company's property in Dearborn and adjacent Allen Park.

Buildings constructed at Fairlane by Ford Motor Land Development Corp., a Ford Motor Company subsidiary, have been widely spaced and landscaped with grassy hills and man-made lakes to create a park-like atmosphere.

Ford Land Chairman Wayne S. Doran said, "In 1978 we completed almost all work on a major addition to the Hyatt Regency Dearborn Hotel and on costruction of a financial office building.

"We also began to construct a major office-research building for Essex Group, and to build five smaller office-storage facilities.

"In 1979, we'll begin coordinating the addition of a Saks Fifth Avenue store to the Fairlane shopping center, and continue planning toward possible construction of a major office building and a residential development.

"The office and residential projects are in the planning stage only, and so timing and other details are not yet determined."

HE SAID THE 55,000-square-foot addition to the Hyatt Regency will include an indoor swimming pool, a 165-seat restaurant, an 18,000-square-foot exhibit hall and seven conference suites.

Scheduled completion timing is next February for the exhibit hall, March for the pool and April for the restaurant.

Ford Land this past year improved the landscaping at the front of the hotel by adding grassy mounds with 50 trees, 5,000 petunias, 12 poles flying the colorful Hyatt insignia and an additional traffic lane at the nearby hotel entrance.

Nearby, the Fairlane Financial Plaza, bordering the Southfield Freeway at the Fairlane Town Center, will be fully occupied next March.

The four-story, 67,500-square-foot building will include the headquarters of Dearborn Federal Credit Union and a branch office of Standard Federal Savings & Loan Association. The building was almost completely leased 10 months before its scheduled completion.

WORK BEGAN in November to construct a three-story, 250,000-square-foot building on the west side of the Southfield Freeway, south of Ford Road. This office-research facility for Essex Group, Inc., a subsidiary of United Technologies Corp., is scheduled for completion in March 1980.

Construction will begin later this month to add a two-level Saks Fifth Avenue store to the east side of the Fairlane shopping center between Hudson's and Sears. Saks said this 92,000-square-foot specialty store will be comparable in quality to Saks' showplace store in New York. Completion is scheduled for early 1980.

The Fairlane Financial Plaza, a four-story building of 67,500 square feet which borders the Southfield Freeway at the Fairlane Town Center, is expected to be fully occupied by March. Officials of the Fairlane Development say the building was almost completely leased 10 months before its scheduled completion.

'Once upon a time' becomes now along Deutsche Marchenstrasse

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

GERMANY-The Pied Piper of Hamelin still pipes the rats and the children out of town every night at dusk along the German Magic Trail.

Sleeping Beauty slept here and wanders around the ruins of Sababurg now with a thorny rose in her hand.

Little Red Riding Hood can be seen on any feast day, walking in her peasant costume through the woods of Schwalm.

The Pied Piper of Hamelin and Little Red Riding Hood—two fairy tale characters who bring to life the fantasy of the German Magic Trail. (Photos by Iris Sanderson Jones)

All this storybook activity takes place along Deutsche Marchen Strasse, variously translated as the German Magic Trail or Fairy Tale Road. This is the land where the Brothers Grimm were born and from where they gathered their folk tales. Woodcutters cottages and villages now look as if they had just come out of a story book.

The German Magic Trail runs for 375 miles (600 kilometers) between the central German city of Frankfurt and the north coast city of Bremen.

Fifty-three storybook sites are marked on the Magic Trail map, from Hanau, to the south, where the Brothers Grimm were born, through plaster-and-beam villages tucked in emerald green hills and forests near Kassel to the spa country north.

AMERICAN FAMILIES are accustomed to seeing storybook characters in amusement-park settings, but this is a different experience. Although local tourist bureaus exploit the tourist value of castles, museums, puppet shows, and folk costumes, the fairy tales are a very real part of the history and culture of this area.

Few American travelers have discovered it, because most of us go to Bavaria, where German Americans trace their origins, and to the Rhine River, where American soldiers were stationed during WWII.

Prices are high everywhere in Germany, but they are lower here than in other areas. Folk culture is living and visible in the villages. Not as many people speak English.

A FAMILY JOURNEY, designed for both adults and kids, would start by car or bus at the Grimm Brothers Monument in Hanau and go north roughly 200 kilometers through the towns of Gelnhausen and Schlachtern to Kassel. The exact distance depends on whether you stay on the main road or take various side roads through villages.

Germany has a confusing array of numbers along local, national and European roads, so check your route with a tourist bureau before you stray. Allow extra time to visit villages like Homberg, the district capital of the Shwalm-Eder District.

Half-timbered houses lean over winding streets in Homberg, dominated by a huge stone cathedral which fronts the marketplace square. The Gasthaus Krone, a few steps off the square, may be the oldest inn in Germany.

Homberg is only a few miles from Schwalmstadt and the Red Riding Hood Museum. You will see children in their native costume in many parts of this countryside on Sundays and feast days.

Homberg is south of Kassel, the city where Die Brudder Grimm collected and annotated the ancient folk tales that had been told and retold for centruies in northern Germany. The Grimm Brothers Museum, and two ruined castles highlight this city for tourists.

To the northwest, there are two of the 72 castle-hotels belonging to the Gast im Schlofs (loosely: guests in castles) Association—Sababurg, the Sleeping Beauty Castle built in 1334 and immortalized by the Brothers Grimm; and Trendleberg, which rises high above a village in the furred green hills.

Sababurg grew as a game castle and fortress over the centuries. One wing is used for hotel guests. Another wing, in ruins, is used for medieval dinners and barbecues. Helmeted towers rise above the spreading castle and gardens, within view of a wilderness park where oxen have been bred backwards to their pre-historic state.

On special occasions, teenage girls from nearby towns take the part of Sleeping Beauty and the Prince, to the delight of color photographers and the cynicism of those who like all of their travel surroundings to be authentic.

The girl in fairy-tale costume is also a highlight of the road going north where a Pied Piper plays the part of the rat catcher who, according to legend, lured all of the children out of town.

Hameln, as it is called in Germany, is a medieval town on the Weser River. Tourists walk the flower gardens, and the ancient stone streets to the Hochzeithaus (literally the High Time House) where the story of the Pied Piper is chimed every day in a moving clock, and re-enacted on the stage and on the town streets.

Sleeping Beauty, the Pied Piper and Little Red Riding Hood are only three of the familiar characters you will see in dozens of gardens, theaters, museums and showplaces along the Magic Trail.

THE MAGIC TRAIL is not all for children. Every community has its Ratskeller, a dining room and pub below the city hall, where German beer drinkers and stein-thumpers quaff their time away.

The spa country near Bad Pyrmont, between Hamelin and Bremen, is still favored by the older population which goes there for its health. It is gradually being converted by the German government to younger activities.

Historic sites and gourmet, as well as country, restaurants are plentiful. Castle Trendleberg is known for its Trout a la poacher served on a flaming sword.

LThe North Sea cities are busy commerical centers. Bremen has not only the giant statue of Roland standing over historic sites, and the busy nearby ratskeller, but also the harbor tours of nearby Bremerhaven and the dancing-and-eating fun of places like the Rattenkrug.

Hamburg is famous for its inland lake, as well as for the pornography so popular with tourists on the Reeperbahn. Cities like Travemuende, on the East German border, are known for casinos and for ferry trips across the North Sea to Helsinki and Copenhagen.

For information on the German Magic Trail, contact the Deutsche Marchenstrasse, Postbox 102 420, D-3500 Kassel, Germany. For other attractions in this area between Frankfurt and the North Sea, contact the German National Tourist Office at 630 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10020.

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

It's a FERA way to travel

A smorgasbord of travel opportunities, once open only to Ford Motor Co. employees and their families, are now available to friends and neighbors as well.

The Ford Employee Recreation Association offers about 50 trips a year to the 125,000 area Ford employees and families and 20,000 retirees and families, as well as to 357,000 employees and retirees nationwide.

FERA is a volunteer, nonprofit organization that helps employees to organize recreational activities which range from photography and softball to travel.

When the Civil Aeronautics Board regulations required club membership for those seeking cheap charter flights, FERA trips were a low-priced bonanza for its members, but only 10 per cent of club membership could be held by outsiders.

The deregulation of air fares during the past year has changed all that. FERA trips now are open to anyone who asks for them, although most seats are taken by Ford employees and their friends, relatives or neighbors.

FERA will hold its annual travel rally from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Jan 27, at Edsel Ford High School in Dearborn, on Rotunda, east of Outer Drive.

FERA trips, which are administered by area travel agents, will be promoted by destination films as well as by films taken on former club journeys.

Travel Club Chairwoman Trudy Friend of Detroit will host the rally, along with co-chairman Joe Roberts of Livonia and travel committee members Jim Culbertson of Farmington Hills, Ken Hibbard of Lathrup Village and Milt Jordan and Dean Stevens of Plymouth.

Ms. Friend has been at the airport for every FERA trip departure for the last 20 years.

FERA president Dale Harrison says that "flights will take off every 45 minutes at the rally, when we start another film of a FERA trip."

The most popular trips are to Las Vegas and Hawaii, with Europe close behind. But FERA also offers trips to Rio de Janiero, the Orient, Alaska, the Canadian Rockies and other places.

A new trip this year is scheduled for Casablanca in Tangiers.

FERA officials, all of whom are volunteers, want Ford employees and their friends to attend the Jan. 27 rally if they are interested in a FERA trip, but they warn non-Ford travelers that the rally traditionally hosts 3,000 to 4,000 people, so the place will be crowded.

Trip reservations can be made there at the FERA office of the Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn or through the travel agent who is organizing a particular trip. FERA is not eager to solicit your reservation. They may even be a little afraid of being overwhelmed by outside-the-company requests. But they will add your name to their list if you ask them to and if there is room.

CHINA TRAVEL—John P. O'Hara Jr. of Bloomfield Hills would like you to know that the U.S.-China People's Friendship Association still has room for China Travelers on study tours being scheduled for China in 1979.

Gypsies remain a mystery after unrevealing film

My grandmother told me about the Gypsies: They would move through a town, steal everything in sight and kidnap stray children.

Separating fact from fiction in any of my Grandmother's stories always was difficult, but when it came to the Gypsy stories, it was impossible and still is. How many educated adults today know anything about Gypsy life? That is why I find "King of the Gypsies" (R) a film that is both fascinating and disappointing.

It's fascinating because of its exotic subject matter. The Gypsies constitute a colorful but alien culture living in the United States but outside the mainstream of American life. Born without birth certificates, they are a romantic anomaly in our industrialized, computerized society, and they arouse our curiosity.

"King of the Gypsies" never stretches to satisfy our curiosity, and that is why it is a disappointing film, a missed opportunity. It presents tantalizing glimpses of Gypsy life, but no clear vision based on compilation of details, critical observations and astute studies of character.

INDEED, SOME of the scenes of celebration are so poorly handled that the revelers might be mistaken for extras left over from "The Godfather."

The film, written and directed by Frank Pierson from the book by Peter Maas, loosely chronicles the lives of three generations of a Gypsy family in the United States.

Sterling Hayden makes an impressive and commanding figure as the family patriarch and the King of the Gypsies of New York and eastern Pennsylvania.

Shelley Winters as his wife Queen Rachel and Judd Hirsch as his son are unconvincing and an embarrassment as Gypsies. Susan Sarandon as the daughter-in-law shows some flair for her role in two of the movie's better scenes. In one she is a fortune teller conning money from a superstitious widow; in another she is an elegantly dressed lady working a scam on a Fifth Avenue jewelry store.

She has just one strike against her. She is not believable as the mother of Eric Roberts. Roberts (the one you see in all the advertisements) plays the grandson whom Hayden names as his heir, thus bypassing his drunken and sadistic son.

ROBERTS REJECTS Gypsy life and the responsibility of leadership. He has a WASP girlfriend (Annette O'Toole), a job as a singing waiter in an Italian restaurant and a dream of surfing in southern California.

The film ends with an inevitable, violent confrontation between father and son. Roberts with his sullen, good looks and capable performance almost wins our endorsement, but not quite. He talks of leading the Gypsies into the 20th century, but his beach-bum dreams make us doubt the seriousness of his aspirations and the maturity of his leadership.

On balance, we must note several outstanding contributions to this film: The lush photography of Sven Nykvist; the dazzling Gypsy-jazz violin playing of Stephane Grappelli, and the eloquent dancing of a silent, dapper figure, Daniel Spira, who provides an agile transition between major episodes.

'Second Empire' French art opening

"The Second Empire: Art in France under Napoleon III will be shown at the Detroit Institute of Arts Jan. 18 through March 18.

The 362 works of art in the exhibition reflect an extravagant, sumptuous period of formidable diversity — the brief, glittering reign (1852-1870) of Emperor Napoleon III, the last sovereign ruler of France, and his wife, Empress Eugenie.

Both of the genius and the ostentation of the empire are reflected in the array of paintings, sculpture, drawings, furnishings, textiles, decorative objects and period photographs.

Paintings by Ingres, Delacroix, Corot, Winterhalter, Courbet, Manet, Degas, and Renoir, sculpture by Bayre, Carpeaux, and Rodin and photographs by Le Negre, Nadar, and Braun — only a partial list of the artists represented — suggest a period of academic tradition as well as transition. The Second Empire witnessed the emergence of the Impressionists and the beginnings of modern art as we know it.

While state patronage of the salons and state-sponsored universal expositions gave exposure to thousands of artists and craftsmen, Napoleon III made his most memorable contribution as a city planner.

Aided by Baron Haussmann, he transformed Paris from a medieval town to a city of handsome vistas, parks and boulevards, great public buildings, lavish entertainments and public spectacles.

The festive Second Empire ended in political humiliation with the Emperor's surrender in the Franco-Prussian War of 1870. French pride consigned Napoleon III and all manifestations of his reign — including the visual arts — to historical oblivion.

Now, a century later, a comprehensive international exhibition presents the first objective reassessment of this period.

One-acts move to the Attic

Ray Bradbury's "The Wonderful Ice Cream Suit" moves to Detroit's Attic Theatre for performances Jan. 18-21 and again the following week, Jan. 25-28, in Greektown.

The play was presented by Martian Productions two weekends in December at the Grand Circus Exchange.

Curtain time at the Attic will be 8 p.m., and information is available by calling 963-7789.

First presented in Los Angeles in 1964 by the Pandemonium Theatre Co., "The Wonderful Ice Cream Suit" received rave reviews during a 24-week run at the Coronet Theatre.

A trilogy of one-act plays, the production shows Bradbury's versatility from the futuristic "The Veldt" and "To the Chicago Abyss" to the warmly humorous "The Wonderful Ice Cream Suit."

"THE VELDT," adapted into a segment of the film "Illustrated Man," shows the tragic result when two children react in an unintentionally creative way to a super technological toy.

"To the Chicago Abyss" is a grim, but oddly warm tale of a babbling old man secretly treasured by a world nearly destroyed by its own technological madness.

In a distinct change of pace, a group of friends who are poor in pocketbook but rich in spirit discover the true meaning of sharing, "The Wonderful Ice Cream Suit."

"The Wonderful Ice Cream Suit" marks the first production of the newly formed Martian Productions, a coalition of several Detroit area theater professionals and enthusiasts. The group is headed by Andy Hurley, who will direct the Bradbury production, and Bob Cafagna, business manager and producer.

Hurley has worked in summer stock in Michigan and with the Armed Forces Theatre in Hawaii. He studied drama at the University of Michigan and at Eastern Michigan University and was an apprentice at the Will-O-Way Theatre.

Cafagna, chorister with the Michigan Opera Theatre, is founding member of Phoenix, a local theater group.

By W.W. EDGAR

The largest charity bowling tournament in the state is now under way, with the hope that last year's record of $94,000 will be broken.

It is the annual tournament sponsored by the Bowling Proprietors of Michigan, and sections of it are being held in all bowling lanes from Lake Michigan to Lake Erie.

Under the rules, the bowler pays one dollar on the night he or she bowls, and the league score is taken as the score rolled in the tournament. It was started more than 15 years ago and more than a million dollars has been turned over to various charities in the state since.

Tonight will be a big night for Elvira Tiepfer, the long time member of the Jac-Ro team in the Ladies all-star leagues. She is being honored as the Woman Athlete of the Year by the March of Dimes at the annual awards dinner at the Raleigh House.

GERRY RITTER, one of the stars on the Bonanza women's bowling team who rolled a perfect game in the women's state tournament last year, came within one strike of rolling another one Wednesday night in the Ladies Major League at Crown Lanes.

She opened her series with a 177 and came back with a 237. She then went on a strike spree and was doing well until the last frame.

Here, she left up the 5-4 and then messed up her next shot and had to settle for a 698. At present, she holds the high series in the league—a 734 she rolled earlier in the season.

THERE SEEMS to be no stopping John Hurley as he is well on his way to setting a national record for 700 series.

Taking his regular turn in the Monday league at Westland Bowl, he linked games of 259, 227 and 237 for a 723. It was his 11th 700 series of the season.

Meanwhile, a few lanes away and in the junior house league, Pete Overitis also broke the 700 barrier. He started with a 237, added a 247 and then closed with 246 for a 730.

A third 700 series bowled in the area during the week was a 757 turned in by Gordy Cantwell in the Wonderland Classic. He rolled a 278 between games of 245 and 234. His closest rival was Ron Sarah with a 687.

In the women's league at Wonderland, Jane Martin was tops with a 623 and Virginia Mego had a 608.

IN CASE YOU ARE INTERESTED—When the curtain fell on the 1978 WIBC tournament in Miami, Fla. the 40,010 women who entered the fourth largest WIBC event in history had bowled 352,875 games. They had knocked over an estimated 46,579,500 pins weighing 163,028,250 pounds or 81,514 tons.

They had lifted 88,924,500 pounds of bowling balls which travelled 381,105,000 feet or 72,179 miles. This is 2.9 times around the world at the equator. The contestants had walked approximately 165,145,500 feet or 31,278 miles to and from the foul line. That's 11.4 times the distance from Miami to Seattle, Wash. and is equal to six round trips.

Translated into kilometers and kilograms that comes to , but, on second thought, it might be well to let it stand.

THERE WAS an unusual happening in the High Nooners League at Mayflower Lanes. Each of the three women on the three bowler team—Denise Paciorko, Nancy Hess and Connie Craig—rolled a 161 game.

Drums beat a treat at Plymouth Center

By SHERRY KAHAN

Africa boomed into the Plymouth Center for Human Development on a recent cold winter night. Inside the recreation center came the loud drum beats of a warmer continent, the hot colors of ethnic costumes and the glow of supple dancers.

The evening was a celebration of African heritage brought to the mentally retarded residents by Amen-Ra Afrikan Drummers and Dancers of Detroit. Signs in the building explained the ancient African festival called the Kwanza, which lasts for seven days beginning Dec. 26.

Each day represents one of the principles of Kwanza, unity, collective work and responsibility, cooperative economics, purpose, creativity, faith and self-determination. The latter was stressed during the evening.

Opening the show five musicians march in, barefoot, shirtless and wearing pants featuring picturesque African designs. On their drums they started a slow beat with one instrument calling and another answering, then both joining in for a thumping chorus.

It is so loud one resident covers his ears. Several others keep time with their bodies, swaying in their seats or wheelchairs.

HERE COME THE DANCERS. They are moving barefoot to a fast, powerful beat in a routine choreographed long before English was heard on this continent.

"Kwanza is a cultural event, not a religious one," said staff psychologist Reggie Davis, who made the arrangements to bring the drummers and dancers to the center. "Amen-Ra performs these dances all during the year, but it seemed appropriate to me to have them come here at the time of Kwanza.

"I have been celebrating Kwanza for the last four years. We place the special symbols on the table, the horn of plenty, ears of corn, straw mats and the candle holder. It holds seven candles which symbolize the seven principles of Kwanza.

" It is an effort to identify with the cultural aspects of Afro-American life."

He points out that the performers asked that there be some space between them and the audience. The reason soon is obvious as one or two residents step into the space to begin dancing to the dramatic drum beating, followed by a few more.

"African art is a participatory art," adds Davis.

Before long the powerful rhythms touch the spirits of many of the handicapped and retarded listeners. More begin to dance. Those not dancing are tapping their toes, or turning body English into body African in response to the banging drum.

Early on, resident Julia Lose joins the celebration .The small woman dances all night, even longer than the visitors.

After the introductory drumming, several men move about the room rattling shekeres to scare away any evil spirits that might have sneaked in from the cold. After that the earth drum, the slit log, the songbah and the caxixi (rattles) take over to send a throbbing message that could probably be heard in downtown Plymouth, if anyone opened a window.

MEMBERS OF THE AUDIENCE are informed that the gestures of the dancers often have a specific meaning. This is apparent in a dance that welcomes a visitor to a village. Each woman flings her arms out in a different way to extend a hospitable greeting. Meanwhile their legs have a life of their own, swirling, jumping, kneeling, running.

In another, the women in the background use scarfs and headdresses to act out such tasks as washing clothes while each take turns doing incredibly agile solos.

"We put on these performances to spread African culture," says one of the dancers, who seemed unphased at the idea of reporting for work the next morning after of this strenuous workout. "These dances are in us, it is just a matter of bringing them out," notes Sha Shu Amen-Ra, who like other members of the troop uses Amen-Ra as a common family name.

"It's a lot of work, and to do it you really have to be sincere."

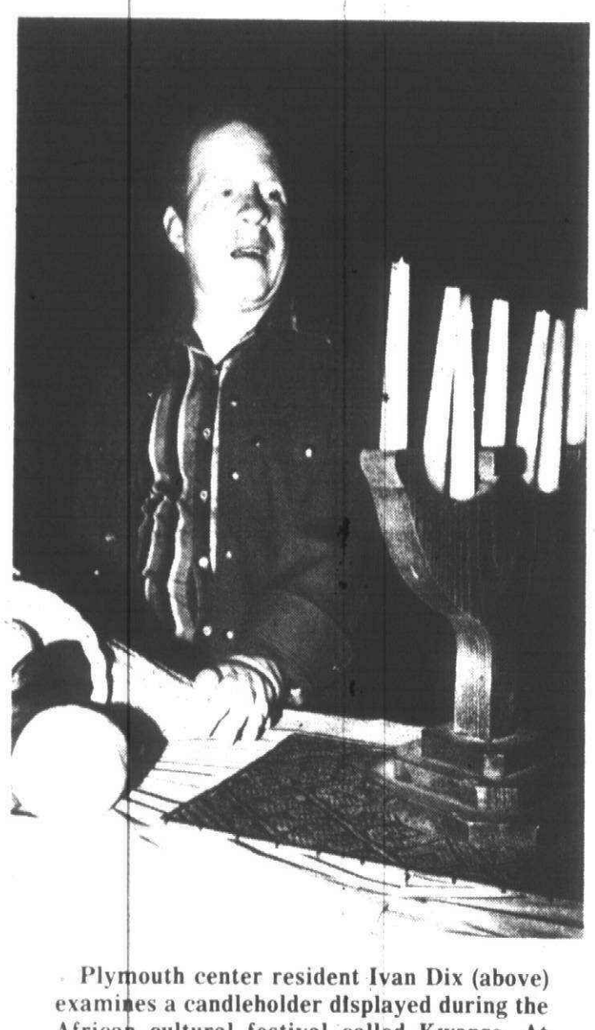

The women practice two nights a week and perform about twice a week. tThey were booked solid through the recent holidays. Nonetheless while all of them perform with great energy and style by night, by day they are an accountant, a physio-therapist, a recreation center director and a clerk.

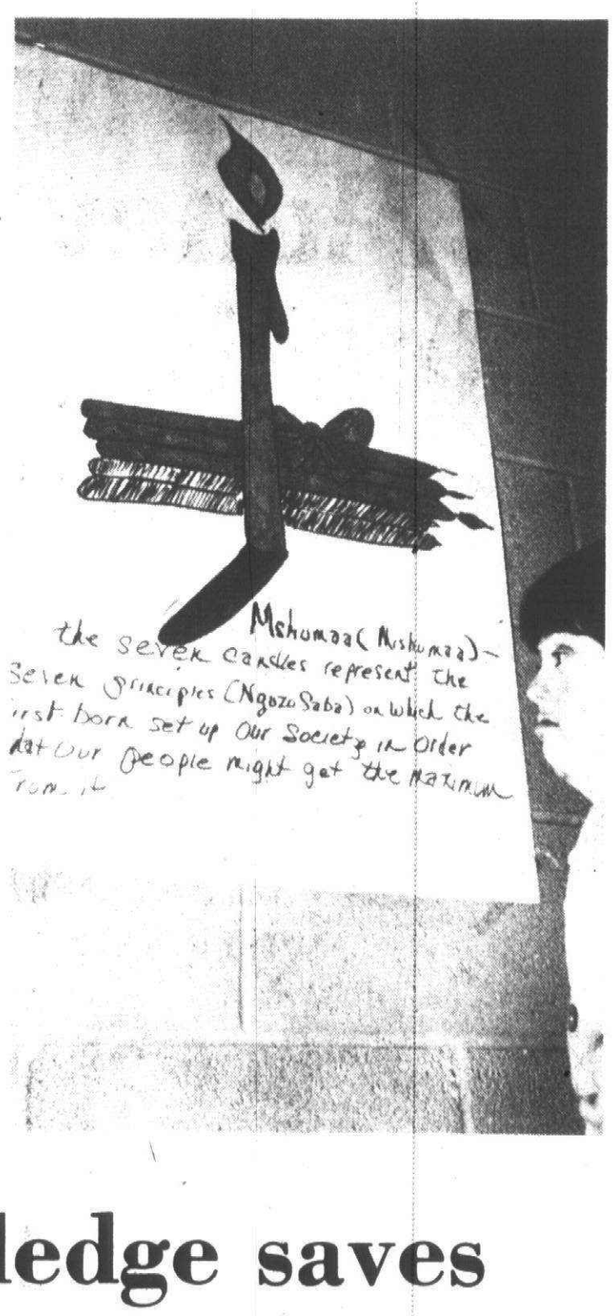

Claiming he is untired after an hour of vigorous drum beating, Kamal Amen-Ra said: "We can do this forever. Our people have been doing it for thousands of years. That's why we're in shape."

The response of the Plymouth Center residents to the dancing might indicates it would be one way for them to keep in shape and keep busy. About a fourth of the audience copied the tradition followed by other Amen-Ra audiences, and danced to the music.

It was certainly apparent the event did something for Julia, who danced tirelessly.

She received her reward as the show slowed to a halt. One of the dancers drew her into their group so she could perform with experts.

By SUSAN ROGERS

When a light switch doesn't switch or a faucet refuses to stop dripping, it's frustrating as well as expensive.

And even in these days of changing roles, women who are homemakers often find themselves less knowledgable than they would like when minor household emergencies emerge.

So Ed Morrow, Plymouth resident who has earned the reputation for being able to fix anything, conducted a class designed to take some of the mystery from the world of wires and fuses and transformers.

"Many women end up paying large service charges for things they have to have fixed by professionals," he told a class at Newburg United Methodist Church of Livonia in a short course aptly titled "Things You Always Wanted to Know About Home Repair That Your Father Never Taught You."

"If you learn a few simple tricks," he added, "these costs can be cut down considerably."

Items such as a candle, a flashlight, electrical tape, a screwdriver, soap and string are good things to keep on hand for quick repair, said Morrow. The soap can be used to keep zippers and drawers sliding, and a string that has been run over a wax candle can be molded to form a gasket for a leaky faucet.

THE SPEAKER also suggested a means of stopping the buzzing that sometimes afflicts fluorescent lights. Wrap a thin wire around the entire length to act as a ground, he recommended.

Dimmer switches, the type that turn an ordinary light into one that can be turned to varying degrees of light, can be very effective if correctly purchased and installed, said Morrow.

"You should pay about $12 for a good dimmer switch," he said. "Cheap ones end up being a waste of money because they cause interference on AM radios. The more expensive ones have an automatic choke which cuts down on the noise.

Several household projects require stripping the plastic coating off electrical wire, Morrow said, and this can be accomplished in two ways. One is to use a special stripper, equipped with notches for different sizes of wire, and the other is to do the same job with scissors. "Grasp the blades firmly around the coating and pull," he recommended.

A broken lamp wire can be repaired by a non-expert, this expert said. The plug is cut off at the end and the wire split and stripped, he explained. Then a new plug can be pushed on and locked with a button or else screwed on.

"The push-on type works only on light duty electrical things like lamps," he said.

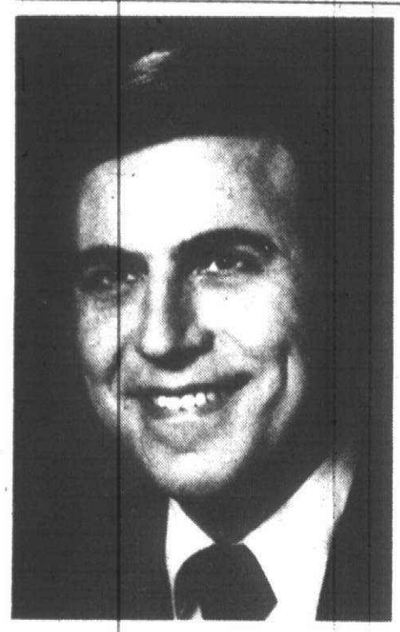

MORROW HAD some, suggestions for preventing electrical emergencies.

"The life of extension cords can be increased by never pulling plugs by the wire," he said. "This breaks the wire and can cause injury if the wire shorts out.

He also warned that three-prong plugs should be used outdoors. An adapter is needed to convert a two-prong plug for outdoor use.

PCAC plans humanities roundtable

The Plymouth Community Arts Council will sponsor Humanities Roundtable, a six-week series of lectures on art and music. The series will be from 9:30-11 a.m., beginning Jan. 17.

Art historian Diane Kirkpatrick of the University of Michigan will present the series. She is a graduate of Vassar College, Cranbrook Academy of Art and the U-M where she earned her Ph.D. She will bring a solid art education and a variety of career experiences to her lectures.

She has written a book and numerous articles, has been education director of the Grand Rapids Art Museum, and wrote and narrated a television series, "Creation of Art," for the U-M TV station. She is finishing a book about Sonia Sheridan and is working on an art appreciation textbook on ideas included in the successful U-M series. She is associate professor, history of art, at the university. Ms. Kirkpatrick has been an advisor to the Michigan Council for the Arts which has provided grant money to the PCAC.

The speaker has indicated that her lectures will reflect her interest in what is happening now in art.

Grace-McCollum

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Grace of Brutus announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary J., to James McCollum, of Utica, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. McCollum of Kettering, Ohio.

The bride-elect is a 1975 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. She is a senior at Western Michigan University and will graduate in April. Her fiance is a 1975 graduate of Michigan Technological University and is employed by Valcast Corp. in Troy.

They plan a September wedding in Plymouth.

Fellowship books Roth

Sid Roth, a Messianic Jew and writer and producer of a radio program on the Messianic vision, will speak at 7 p.m. Friday, Jan. 19 at a dinner of the Northville-Plymouth-Livonia Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship.

The event will take place in the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

In his book, "Something for Nothing," Roth wrote about how his efforts to gain money and success cost him his money, health and marriage. He claimed the Messiah of Israel set him free and gave him the only something for nothing the world can offer.

The meeting is opened to men and women. Reservations are necessary. Send checks payable to FGBM for $8 per person to PO Box 5332, Northville 48167. They should be in by Jan. 17.

First time mothers aided by sessions

The birth of a first child can be a time of isolation, change and bewilderment for the new mother. Women who have been used to going to work every day feel isolated from society. Both parents are dismayed at feelings of jealousy when their mate devotes too much time and attention to the new baby.

"It is a time of whole family reorganization. The parents have to find time for themselves and for each other," said Mary Schuman, social worker at Plymouth Family Services. She and Joyce Cunningham will lead a Mothers and Infants support group sponsored by Family Services.

Infants are invited and expected to attend the sessions which runs from 1-2:30 p.m., beginning Jan. 31. The group will meet for eight consecutive weeks until March 21. Women interested in the support group should call 455-0890 for information and to register. Family services is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays-Fridays, and until 9 p.m. on Mondays.

MS. CUNNINGHAM says it is important that people do not view it as a therapy session and that women do not have to have a problem to enroll. It is a growth group designed to help a woman cope with the new situation in which she finds herself.

This will be the fifth of these programs coordinated by the social workers and the agency. The fourth group which began Oct. 12 was successful, said Ms. Cunningham.

"Before the birth, all the attention is focused on the pregnancy and prenatal care. Then, afterwards, all the attention is focused on the baby.

"But the mother still needs attention and still has her own needs to be filled. That is what we are all about," said the social worker.

Plymouth Family Services is an agency supported in part by the Plymouth Community Fund.

Chief cagers defeat WL Western, 87-56

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Plymouth Canton gave the Walled Lake Western fans its usual second-quarter spurt in breezing to an easy 87-56 Western Six League victory over the Warriors Friday night.

The Canton triumph, coupled with Northville's 10-point victory over Livonia Churchill, gives the Chiefs' sole possession of first place in the conference standings. The Chiefs stand 7-2 overall and 3-0 in the league race. They are idle Tuesday but host Churchill Friday night.

The Warrior loss dropped the Walled Lake squad to 1-2 in the league and 2-6 overall.

Canton never trailed in the contest, rushing out to a quick 8-1 lead in the first three minutes of action. The Chiefs led 16-11 at the end of the first quarter, but it was another potent second period which blew Western out of its own gymnasium.

The Chiefs not only dominated the boards all game long but finally got their fast break working in full gear in that second period, outscoring the home team 28-15 for a 44-26 halftime lead.

Canton coasted from that point, scoring 25 more points in the third period to take a 69-40 advantage before the reserves saw action. The Chiefs' biggest lead of the game was 36 points, 80-44, early in the final quarter. "We got the momentum going early," said a pleased Canton coach Craig Bell. "We got some good offensive breaks. It was just a good offensive second quarter. Everything clicked together.

"We thought we dominated the glass," the Canton mentor said. "We knew it would be a physical game because they (Western) were shorter than us."

Canton's senior co-captains Butch King and Rusty Mandle led the way in the contest. King scored a game high 34 points, hitting 16 of 24 shots from the floor and adding two of three free throws. King worked hard to get open for many uncontested outside shots en route to the 67 per cent shooting exhibition.

Mandle was the key to the fast break, playing a sparkling floor game with his pin-point passes. He scored eight points and thrilled the small crowd with a slam dunk midway in the second quarter.

Ten of the 12 Canton players reached the scoring column.

Plymouth Canton (87)--Dave Visser 2, 2-2, 6; Mike Leary 6, 5-6, 17; Mike Gollnick 3, 0-0, 6; Rusty Mandle 4, 0-0, 8; Butch King 16, 2-3, 34; Jay McKinley 1, 0-1, 2; Scott Adler 1, 2-2, 4; Randy Wilkins 1, 0-0, 2; Dave Ursa 0, 3-4, 3; Brad Westin 2, 1-2, 5; Jack Carpenter 0, 0-0, 0; Dan McGlinn 0, 0-0, 0. Totals: 36, 15-20, 87.

Bentley showdown next

Salem bombards Trenton

Plymouth Salem went back on the road Friday night but the result was the same--another basketball victory.

This time it was against Suburban Eight League foe Trenton, an?d the Rocks had little trouble rolling to a 77-60 victory a It marked the 12th time in 13 games that a coach Fred Thomann team from Plymouth has defeated Trenton in the last seven year of play.

But more importantly, this triumph, the ninth straight and fourth in the league for f the undefeated, state-ranked Rocks, now sets up the conference showdown with Livonia Bentley tomorrow nig-t at the Bulldog gym.

Bentley, also winners Friday night at Allen Park, sports an identical 4-0 league record with Salem. The Bulldogs are once-beaten overall.

Although the score was closer than many expected, the Rocks went to Trenton and used the game as a warm-up to the Bentley battle. Salem was in control all the way, taking a 10-3 first quarter lead, and never losing the advantage after that.

"It was a funny game," said Thomann. "because we had times where I thought we'd pop in open and then they would come back.

"They came within eight points in the fourth quarter before we got our last licks in. It was kind of an exciting game because we had it under control but it was still close."

Thomann said he was very pleased with the inside play of his two pivot men. Howard Monk, the leading scorer with 20 points, and senior Bill Thimm, who added 11, dominated the center of action most of the game. Monk ad?ded 13 rebounds.

Salem's leading scorer this season, senior 6-2 forward Kevin Kelliher, popped in 18 points, while senior co-captain Matt Etienne came off the bench for 14 points.

All-state candidate Rich Hewlett played his usual solid floor game, scoring six points but adding nine rebounds and nine assists.

Salem scored 23 points in the second quarter to take a 33-22 lead at halftime. It added 24 more points in the third quarter to raise its advantage to 57-41 going into the final period of action.

Rock grapplers find Tiger lineup too tough

Plymouth Salem finally met its match on the wrestling mat and the result wasn't even close.

Hurt by many changes in the lineup, the Rocks fell to Suburban Eight League rival Belleville, 41-21, Thursday night at the Tiger gym. It was the Rocks' first dual meet setback of the season.

Both teams went into the match state-ranked. Salem and Belleville shared the Sub-8 crown last season.

"They (Belleville) are rated fourth and we are rated 10th," said Salem coach Ron Kruger. "When four wrestles 10, four usually wins."

Krueger was far from conceding the title, however, since Belleville lost by one point to third-rated Trenton in dual meet action earlier this season. If Salem were to upset Trenton in three weeks, the win would mean a three-way tie for first place going into the league meet competition next month.

Although Salem was totally dominated by a much stronger Belleville lineup which won nine of the 13 matches, Krueger was pleased with the performance of his young squad.

"Remember, we had only two seniors wrestling and Belleville had a lot of seniors on the mat," the Salem mentor explained. "All our points will be back next year."

The Rocks' strength at the light weights resulted in a quick 13-0 lead. Salem won the first three matches of the meet but lost the next four in a row before Jerry Valchine managed a tie at 145 pounds. Mark Ross suffered one of those losses. He wrestled one weight higher at 132 pounds and suffered a 4-1 defeat, his first after 20 victories.

The Rocks lost the last four of five matches as well, with John Powers at 178 pounds winning the only upper-weight battle with a second-period pin.

Jim Schultz (98 pounds), Jeff Dunson (105 pounds) and Jeff Brown (112 pounds) opened the evening with three Salem victories before the roof fell in.

Canton sinks Harrison

By M. DAVID CAMPBELL

Plymouth Canton swimmers raised their win-loss record to 4-0 by whipping Farmington Harrison, 112-56, Thursday night at the Canton pool. The victory marked the 11th consecutive triumph (spanning two years) for coach Bill Faunce's squads.

Canton found Harrison no contest, as it easily could have run up the score. The Chiefs avoided any massacre by allowing their swimmers to compete in something other than their usual strokes.

"We were shifting everyone around, which was nice," said Faunce, in talking about his club's versatility.

In one case, all-state candidate Paul Petersen swam a foreign race in the 500-yard freestyle but still set a Canton school record with a time of 5:02.8, shaving six seconds off the old mark.

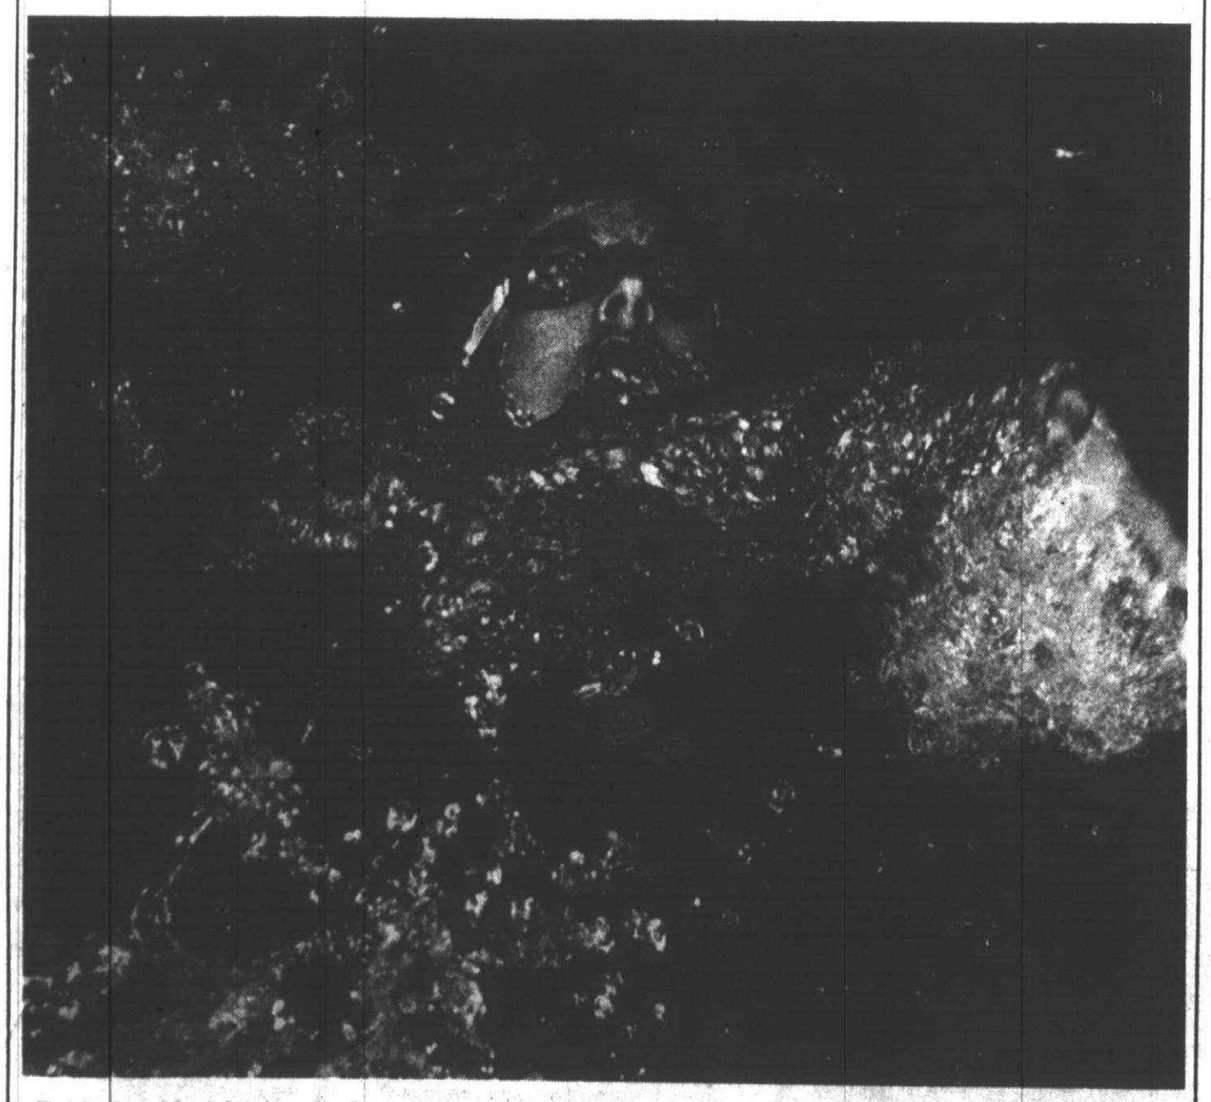

Jeff Siple, Bob Cline, Mike Gaab and Petersen combined for a first-place time of 1:51.4 in the 200-yard medley relay.

Dave Tanner swam his best time ever in the 200-yard freestyle, clocking 1:52.9, only to take second place to one of the best 200-free swimmers in the state, Harrison's John Rudel.

Steve Gray took second in diving with 189.45 points. Mike Walski and Siple placed first and second respectively in the 50-yard freestyle on a judge's decision. Both tankers times were identical :26.0s

Vince Tobin, timing 1:02.3, took second in the 100-yard butterfly. Ryan Smith brought home another first for the Chiefs in the 100-yard backstroke.

The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Bob Simrak, Pete Stern, Pat Gilligan and Ron Hurley took first place in 3:45.0. Tanner, Keith Greenleaf, Jeff Rice, and John Retting combined for a second-place time of 3:47.6.

Salem edges Ypsilanti

By M. DAVID CAMPBELL

"When the going gets tough, the tough get going," reads the famous quote.

And last Thursday night the Plymouth Salem swim team got tough with Ypsilanti. The Rocks dominated a meet which was supposed to be a squeaker and posted a 98-73 victory, raising their record to 4-1 overall.

Combining the talents of Bob Simone, Bruce Harwood, Kirk Albert and Russ Schaffer, Salem proved to Ypsilanti right from the start that it would not be beaten. These four swimmers won the opening 200-yard medley relay with a first-place time of 1:49.4.

Schaffer and Albert took second and third in the 200-yard individual medley, clocking 2:15.1 and 2:16.7, respectively, two events later.

Dave Hopper, Barre Lee and Scott Plagens followed with a clean sweep of the 50-yard freestyle. Hopper won the event in :24.3 but all three swimmers finished within four-tenths of one second of each other.

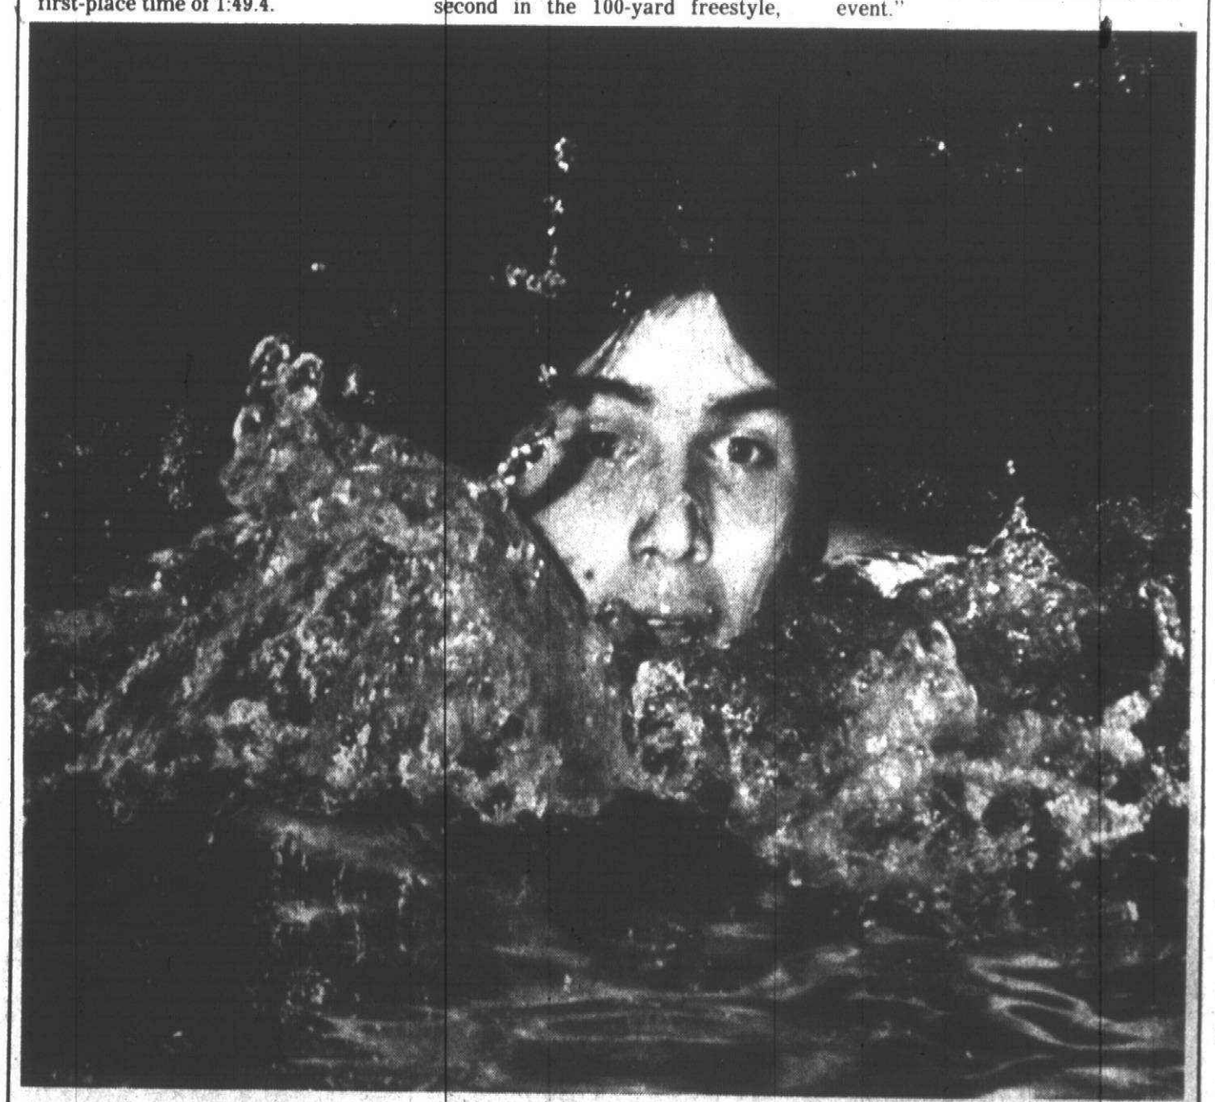

Joe Rudlic and Gino Melnik once again demonstrated vast improvements in the diving competition. Rudlic copped first with 155 points, while Melnik was a close second at 135.

Albert placed second in the 100-yard butterfly in :57.3. Plagens took second in the 100-yard freestyle, timing :54.3.

Sophomore Harwood captured a first place in the 100-yard backstroke and teammate Brian Lazarus followed in second. Schaffer won the 500-yard freestyle race with a 5:21.8 clocking.

Simone took first in the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:06.7. Brian Hendrickson, Gary Workman, Jeff Boczar and Paul Perkowski combined for a third-place time in the final 400-yard freestyle relay, timing 3:55.1.

"I was pretty pleased with most of the times," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "We swam pretty well, and we never got hurt in any one event."

Salem spikers edge Brighton

By BETTY DeLANO

A tough Plymouth Salem volleyball team proved to be just that after nipping Brighton Wednesday, 16-14, 10-15, 15-13.

The Rocks made a more-than-adequate demonstration of their will to win by coming from behind in both the first and third games to win their opening match of the season.

First game action was close for the first six points on both sides, but the Rock's serve reception, or the lack thereof, gave Brighton the lead, 13-8, before Salem stormed back for victory.

"Brighton is a strong team and our mental ability to stay up rather than to give up is a good asset," said Salem coach Cathy Himes. "When your opponent is only two points away from winning and you're five points behind, it's very easy to quit playing. We did this a lot last year."

Serving became a problem for the Rocks in the second game, and combined with Brighton's speed, the Salem team soon was trailing, 4-10.

Again, the confident Salem team began its comeback but couldn't catch up. It was haulted at 10 points, and Brighton went on to take the game.

Close from start to finish, Salem never had any command over Brighton in the third game although point spreads were never more than two points apart. With Brighton on top until the last two points of the game, Salem tied the score (13-13) and went on to win the game and the match.

"We lost the second game on serves and we were lucky that Brighton's serves weren't that consistent either," said Himes. "Our defense and offense ran extremely smooth and considering that we were playing with our first and third setters instead of first and second, the plays on offense were very good."

Senior Inger Eithun played as the Rocks third setter Wednesday while second setter senior Monette Recto sat the bench with a sprained ankle. Sophomore Cheryl Sobkow is the Salem team's first setter.

The Salem victory was sparked by Sobkow, along with senior captain Cindi Leveille. Himes gave credit to Sobkow's sets and aggressiveness on the court and to Leveille's good spikes and work on defense.

The Salem junior varsity had a little more trouble with Brighton than the varsity did. The Rock JV was defeated, 12-15, 4-15.

"We played better than I thought we would," said Salem JV coach Sandy Franck. "Our defense needs work and so does our serving. But the team is doing better on the offense once the first hit is received."

Salem travels to Belleville tonight in its first Suburban Eight League contest. The Rocks will also be on the road Wednesday night in league action against Dearborn Edsel Ford. Game time is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Monday and 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Canton JV whips Falcons

The Plymouth Canton junior varsity basketball team whipped an unsuspecting Farmington club, 68-33, last Tuesday night in Farmington.

The Chiefs, coached by Pat Cunningham, own a 5-3 overall record and a perfect 2-0 mark in Western Six League play.

After scoring the first 15 points of the game, the Chiefs had no trouble securing the victory.

Jim Mills and Dave Carter led the Chiefs' scoring attack with 10 points each. Jeff Stemberger added nine, while Ken VanKirk and Bill Cilds chipped in wtih eight and seven points, respectively.

Cunningham was pleased with his squad's performance after coming off two straight losses at the Christmas Classic last month.

2 sports changes at Park

Two minor changes have been made on the Centennial Park winter sports schedules.

Plymouth Salem's basketball contest against Dearborn Fordson, which was originally scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 23, has been moved up one day because of a conflict with the Fordson gymnasium.

The Rocks will travel to Fordson for the non-league game on Wednesday, Jan. 24 with the junior varsity contest beginning at 6 p.m.--instead of the Tuesday game shown on the schedule.

Rocks girls gymnastics team will not meet Taylor Center on Wednesday, Feb. 21 as originally scheduled because Taylor Center has eliminated its gymnastics program.

The Rocks will compete against Ypsilanti, however, to make up for this lost meet. The Rocks will travel to Ypsilanti Wednesday, Jan. 31 for a meet starting at 7 p.m.

Chief grapplers reach low point

By SCOTT ADLER

The Plymouth Canton wrestling team was defeated last Thursday night by an excellent Farmington Harrison squad, 42-24, at Canton's gym.

The loss dropped the Chiefs' record to 9-6 overall and 1-1 in Western Six League action. Harrison boosted its league record to a perfect 2-0.

The Chiefs won only two matches all night. Tommy Harreld decisioned Harrison's Randy Webb, 8-1, for a victory at 105 pounds, while Kevin Santilli beat Hawk Don Gully, 6-2, for a 126-pound triumph. Santilli, only a sophomore, wrestled in place of junior Tim Racer, who failed to make weight.

There were five matches forfeited in the meet, as Canton gave Harrison 12 points with voids at 191 pounds and at heavyweight. The Hawks returned 18 of Canton's 24-point total with voids at 98 pounds, 119 pounds and 155 pounds.

"I was disappointed in our performance tonight. We just did not wrestle well," said Canton coach Dan Chrenko. "We had a poor week of practice. And we just aren't deep enough to have two veterans not make weight and have to put inexperienced kids in their place."

"Although Kevin Santilli did a great job in Racers' place and Tommy (Harreld) is really coming along. He did a great job, too."

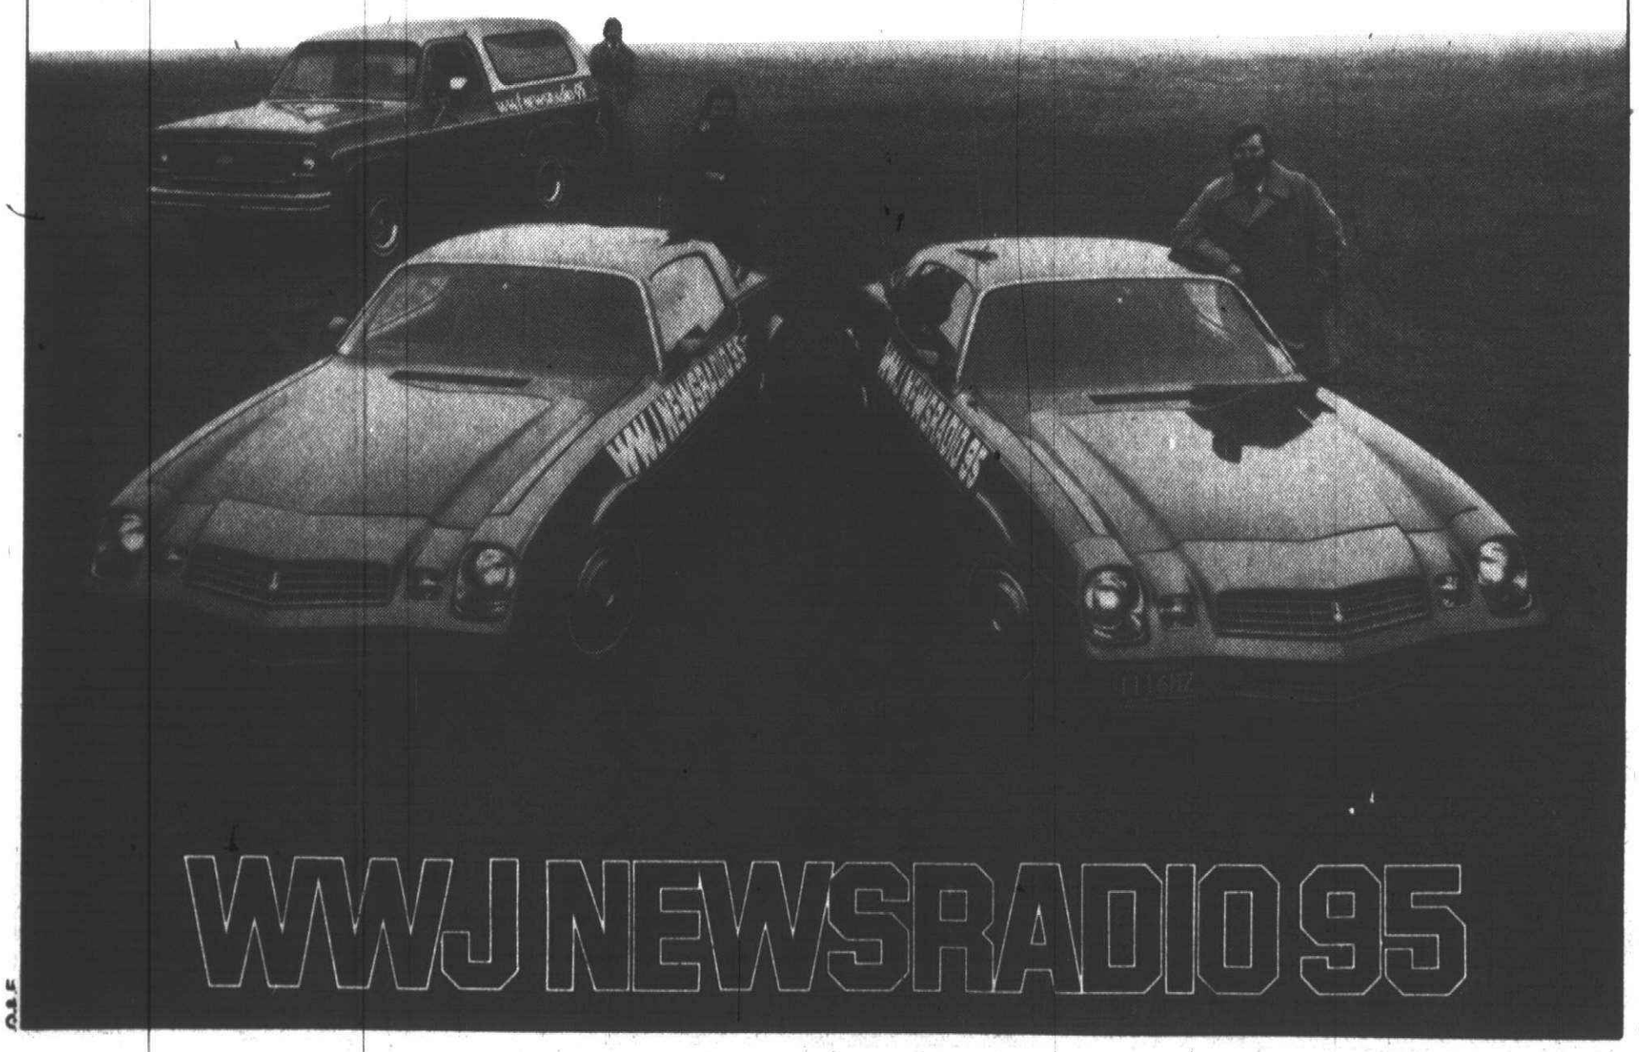

The Chiefs have never defeated Harrison in their five-year history. Thursday, although it was closer than usual, the defending champs from Farmington were sure, once again, of securing the victory with three pins and two overwhelming decisions in the eight matches wrestled.

"We have to regroup," said Chrenko. "Walled Lake Western is next and we really need that one to help us in the league."

Horace—
It's time you learned the facts of life!

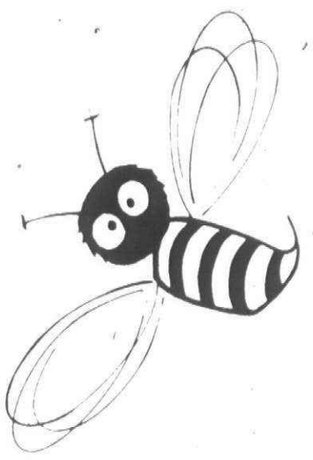

Oh, we're sure you learned about the birds and bees long ago, but Horace, have you heard about "736"? That's a Want Ad classification in your home-town newspaper. It works this way Horace.

Remember when you almost went crazy trying to find a solid oak hat stand? How you embarassed your wife in the antique store because they didn't have one and tried to interest you in a chamber pot instead and you told that sweet little old lady what she could do with it? Remember?

Well, if you had used the "Wanted to Buy" classification that we have just for this kind of situation, one of our thousands of readers would have called you and your troubles would have been over.

Now, that little bird on top of your head (what's he doing there, anyway?) just told us that you're in the market for a 1938 Chevrolet hood ornament. So here are the facts of life, Horace. "Wanted to Buy" ads get results—that's a fact. 736—that's a figure. Use them and get results—that's a suggestion.

Today's the day

VW plant starts second shift

The Volkswagen plant in East Huntingdon, Penn., which has been producing about 400 Rabbits a day since April, 1978, will put a second shift into production beginning this afternoon.

The second shift will double the plant's output. VW spokesman Chet Bahn said the new shift will add about 1,000 workers to the plant's work force of 2,800.

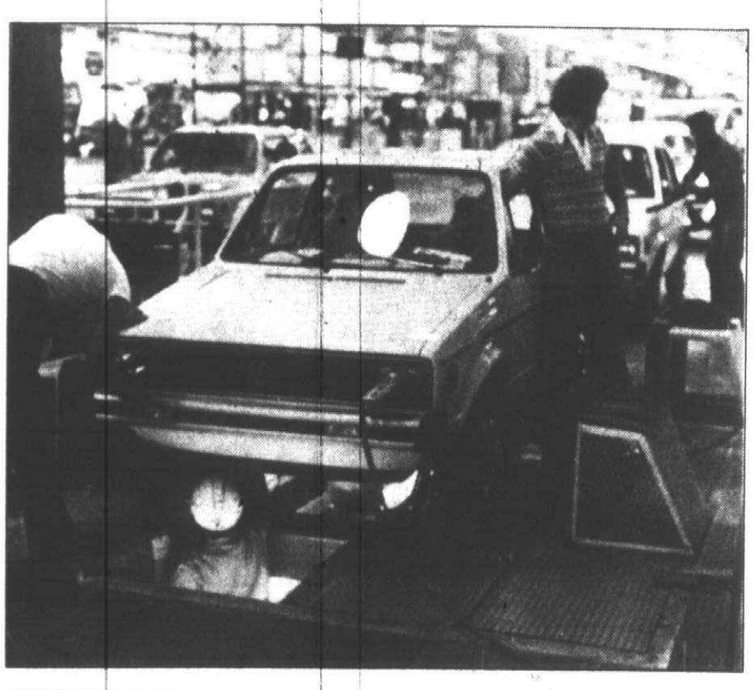

The plant, 35 miles southeast of Pittsburgh, should be producing about 200,000 cars a year by the time the second shift gears up to capacity. VW officials say that should be sometime in mid-spring.

The German company set that 200,000 goal for its sole United States plant when it announced it had decided on the Pennsylvania site for the plant. Chrysler started building a factory on the site in 1968 but abandoned it the next year. When VW took over three years ago, only the framework of the existing building existed.

Since April the company has manufactured more than 35,000 Rabbits in its American facility.

Early on the production line, this Rabbit shell is about to go through the paint department of VW's Westmoreland plant.

Just about completed, this Rabbit is moving under its own power for the first time. At this point, the front end is aligned and the headlights are aimed.
