Experts predict

Home prices to rise, but at slower rate

By DARLENE STINSON

If you already own a home, you're probably pleased with a forecast of realtors that housing will continue to appreciate at a substantial rate in Canton and Plymouth this year.

But if you're a renter who's searching for that first place to call your own, you can take heart from another prediction of realtors that home prices may not skyrocket at last year's record pace.

John Cole, president of the Western Wayne, Oakland County Board of Realtors, says housing in Plymouth and Canton will probably appreciate at least 10 to 12 percent this year.

But in 1978, Cole says homes appreciated an average 20.4 percent in Canton Township and 16.1 percent in Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

In western Wayne and Oakland counties, Cole said the price of homes increased an average 12 to 15 percent in 1978.

New homes that are directly affected by inflationary construction costs were included in the Plymouth-Canton figures and probably explain part of the reason why housing in this area appreciated so fast, Cole said.

He added, however, that many homebuyers view Plymouth and Canton as "desirable" areas that are worth higher housing prices.

COLE MADE the prediction that homes will continue to appreciate this year despite the high interest rate attached to home mortgages.

Since a year ago, the prime (lowest) interest rate has increased one-and-a-half percentage points, according to Al Marshall, manager of residential loans at First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Detroit.

The lowest interest rate now available to buyers with a 20 percent down payment is 10½ percent, Marshall said. Mortgages for buyers with a 10 percent down payment now carry an 11 percent interest rate.

'People are finding they can get more for their money in Canton than in other communities like Plymouth.'

— Realtor Ken Dividock

But Cole said that high interest rates and inflationary home prices are not discouraging buyers. Real estate clients are increasingly viewing housing as a hedge against inflation and a tax shelter.

Higher mortgage payments are possible for the increasing number of two-income families, he added. Unmarried couples are pooling their incomes in order to buy homes on a joint ownership basis.

Ken Dividock, a Canton real estate broker and owner of the Century 21 office on Ford Road, said the majority of his clients fall within the 30 to 40 age bracket. They have discarded the goal of older generations to pay off home mortgages.

"The philosophy used to be own your home free and clear. But the young people today never lived through a depression."

As a result, Dividock says people are moving more and buying the most expensive home they can afford.

THE REALTOR said his office was filled last year with speculative buyers.

Many ordered the construction of new homes only to sell them a year later at a $12,000 profit. Others ordered the construction of a new house that was larger than their existing home but priced at only a few thousand dollars more.

By the time the new house was completed a year later, the existing home may have appreciated $10,000 to $12,000, Dividock said. Buyers were able to realize a profit by trading their smaller homes for new ones with larger square footage.

Although realtors are predicting booming sales in 1979, Dividock said January and February of this year were slower than the first two months of 1978.

He predicts that the Canton market will pick up this spring, however, once sellers in Westland — the hottest market in western Wayne County right now — begin looking for replacement homes.

New Canton residents have traditionally come from Westland, Redford and other older communities to the east. Canton homeowners who want to upgrade their housing status often move to another location in the township or to Plymouth.

Dividock said the appreciation of homes in Canton and Plymouth are closely tied with the construction of new homes. Last year, many builders increased the price of their homes by $3,000 during a one-month period. The price of homes on the used market reflected inflationary construction costs.

DIVIDOCK ADMITS that some buyers continue to view Canton as "second-best" to Plymouth. He attributes the stigma some buyers have placed on homes a few miles south of the Canton-Plymouth border to that attitude.

Dividock said the stigma used to be placed on homes located south of Ford Road. It has now moved to Cherry Hill. But Dividock predicts that the stigma will soon disappear altogether.

"There still is that stimga, but people are getting more open-minded now," he said. "People are finding they can get more for their money in Canton than in other communities like Plymouth."

Dividock cited 2,500-square-foot colonials that are available in one Plymouth subdivision for $110,000 to $115,000. The same basic home is available in Canton on a smaller lot for $85,000 to $95,000.

According to Dividock, the average price of homes in Canton is now about $65,000.

When mortgage interest rates were skyrocketing last summer, some observers predicted an eventual bust in the real estate market that would be characterized by plummeting home prices.

Co-ops cope with kids

It may seem early to confront the question of which nursery school to pick for your youngster. After all spring is not even here, much less fall.

But it is later than you think. Nursery school lists all over the area are filling up fast with the names of the cut and paste set. Parents who want their pre-schoolers to learn socializing, reading and motor skills at the school of their choice had better get cracking and sign the youngster up.

A variety of schools await your consideration. The two main categories are cooperative and non-cooperative nurseries. The co-ops usually have just a few hours of school a day, usually one, two or three days a week. Some non-co-ops might be open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m..

The co-ops are run as non-profit institutions by the parents involved. Parents usually have to contribute their time to helping the teacher at at least one session per month. They generally also have to pick up a paintbrush or hammer to keep the premises in good shape. This is why co-op costs are usually lower than those of non-co-ops.

Working parents may be more likely to opt for a school that for the whole working day will keep their child occupied, learning his colors, playing with fire engines and restoring his energies with a nap and refreshments. But not all those on the non-co-op list are full-day schools. For example, the Hines Park Montessori School in Plymouth and the Westland Free Methodist Nursery have shorter sessions.

From these pre-school institutions with their tiny chairs and tiny tables may come tiny tots with a bit of an edge in learning skills over those who have not had the nursery experience. Conceivably they could become the wunderkind of kindergarten.

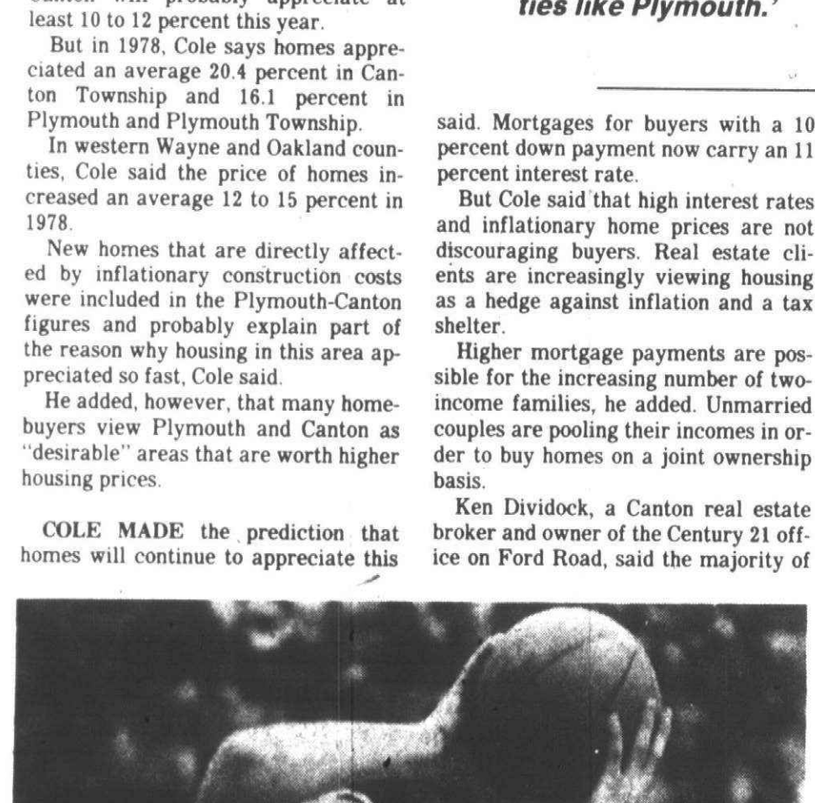
Tax board to review arguments on bills

Canton residents who want to protest their tax bills should contact Nancy Longwell in the supervisor's office at township hall.

Applications are available to appear before the three-member tax board of review beginning March 6.

Tax board members are residents Jerry Williams, Dick Palmer and John Blumenshine. The board is empowered to amend tax bills because of financial hardship and to revise inaccurate property assessments.

Ms. Longwell's phone number is 397-1000.



Rocks win big

It was no contest as Plymouth Salem whipped a stunned Livonia Bentley Friday night, 79-57, in a Suburban Eight League showdown. Jim Anderson, fouled here by two Bentley players, was a key in the triumph. For more details, see today's sports section, page 1B. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Short takes

CLOTHES, bedding, pots and pans, as well as other assorted household items, are being accepted at the firehall at Canton Center and Cherry Hill for tbe benefit of the Robert Ewald family.

Robert and Darlene Ewald, and their five sons ranging in age from 8 to 17, lost all their belongings Feb. 9 when their farmhouse on Geddes was destroyed by fire. Nancy Longwell, secretary to Supervisor Noel Culbert, organized the drive to help the Ewalds, who are temporarily living in a rented Plymouth house. Persons who would like to contribute money are asked to call Ms. Longwell at 397-1000.

IF YOU MISS the solar eclipse taking place around noon today, Feb. 26, don't hold your breath until the next one. We won't be seeing another solar eclipse until the year 2,017, much to the dismay of impatient types. We'll only be seeing a partial eclipse in this neck of the woods, but it's still interesting stuff. Remember, please, not to look directly at the sun and keep an eye on the kiddies who might be tempted to stare at the glare.

CENTER STAGE, the huge entertainment complex that opened in Canton last week, had a few problems with parking at the premiere. Seems concert goers parked in the lot of a nearby apartment complex when the Center Stage one filled up, much to the dismay of the apartment dwellers. There were apparently a few cases where spray paint met up with some cars, but all is now well. The establishment got a few hundred additional parking spaces, and everyone seems to be happy.

FATAL ACCIDENT

An 84-year-old Canton man died in an automobile crash last week. His daughter, who alledgedly ran a red light at Ford and Sheldon, was driving the car. The story is on page 3A.

Plymouth-Canton OBITUARIES

FRANK R. ALLISON

Funeral services for Mr. Allison, 64 of Church Street, Plymouth, were held recently in Schrader Funeral Home, Plymouth, with burial at Riverside Cemetery. Officiating was the Rev. Theodore D. Taylor II. Memorial contributions may be made to the Frank R. Allison Memorial — Cancer Fund.

Mr. Allison, who died Feb. 20 in Plymouth, moved to the city in 1922 from Highland Park. An auto dealer, he was in partnership with his father, Ernest J. Allison, in the operation of the Allison Chevrolet dealership in Plymouth. He was a member and past president of the Rotary Club of Plymouth, a member and past president of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, and past president of the Plymouth Community Fund.

Survivors include: wife, Jeanet; father, Ernest J. Allison of Plymouth; sons, John of St. Helen, E. James of Newport Beach, Calif.; daughter, Jill Miller of East Lansing; sister, Ruth Staudt of Tulsa; and grandchildren, Ann Marie Allison and Geoffrey Miller.

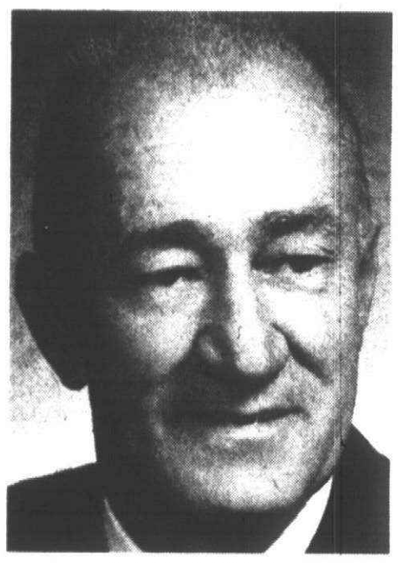
Peter F. Yost dies in Florida

Peter F. Yost, a longtime employee of Dunn Steel Products in Plymouth, died recently in Naples, Fla., after a long illness.

Yost, 64 of Plymouth, had retired in 1978 after spending 33 years with Dunn Steel and was staying in Florida during the winter months.

Yost joined Dunn Steel as a grinder in 1945 and was advanced to plant engineer in 1953. He held that position until being promoted to tooling and development engineer in 1968.

He was credited with many improvements on header tooling and with the design of a speed lathe for tool polishing. The speed lathe was built at one-fifth the cost of a commercial unit, and yet was considered superior in quality.



PETER F. YOST

Yost was a member and past president of Northville Fraternal Order of Eagles 2504. Twice he was named "Eagle of the Year" in recognition of his outstanding contribution to the club in fulfilling its motto of "People Helping People."

Yost also was a member of the Society of Manufacturing Engineers. Survivors include: wife, Mary; sons, Charles of Redford, James of Calif., William of Ma.; daughter, Mary Chapdelaine of Okla.; sister, Barbara Pietrzak of Sterling Heights; and nine grandchildren.

PETER F. YOST

Funeral services for Mr. Yost, 64 of Plymouth, were held recently in Hodges Funeral Chapel in Naples, Fla., with burial at Naples Memorial Gardens.

Mr. Yost, who had been living in Naples during the winter months, had been ill for several months. He was a retired engineer for Townsend/Textron, Dunn Steel Division in Plymouth where he had worked for 32 years. He was a member of the Society of Manufacturing Engineers and the Fraternal Order of Eagles 2504 of Northville.

Survivors include: wife, Mary; sons, Charles of Redford, James of Calabagas, Calif., William of Ellicott City, Ma.; daughter, Mary Chapdelaine of Owasso, Okla.; sister, Barbara Pietrzak of Sterling Heights; and nine grandchildren. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

ADMIRAL DEWEY LEMONS

Funeral services for Mr. Lemons, 73 of N. Harvey Street, Plymouth, were held recently in Lambert Funeral Home, Plymouth, with burial at Arbor Crest cemetery in Ann Arbor. Officiating was the Rev. Samuel Stout of First United Methodist Church of Plymouth.

Mr. Lemons, who died Feb. 17 in Beyer Hospital, Ypsilanti, had lived in Plymouth for many years and once was a maintenance worker for the Plymouth Post Office. Survivors include: wife, Anna; daughters, Barbara Lesiak and Betty Bosman; brother, Silas; sisters, May Ellerman of Vincennes, Ind., Mary Bilski and Ruth Grayson; and grandchildren, Michael Lance, Deborah Lewis, Patrick Lesiak, Paul and Timothy Bosman.

Y expanding help for aged

The Canton-Northville-Plymouth YMCA has obtained funds to expand its senior citizen services in the tri-community area.

Beginning in early March more extensive coverage will be given to homemaker and chore services, reports Janet Luce, director of the CNP YMCA.

Homemaker assistance will include light housekeeping, laundry, occasional meal preparation, telephone reassurance and friendly in-home visits to the lonely.

NON-CONTINUOUS chore services will include such duties as:

Snow removal; lawn care; minor household repairs such as replacing washers in faucets, hand and tub rail installation; putting up and taking down storms and screens; window and wall washing.

Help also will be available to clean attics and basements to remove fire hazards. These services do not include interior or exterior painting.

While the YMCA can supply the labor for requests, notes Mrs. Luce, limited funds prevent it from furnishing cleaning supplies or any part needed for repairs. These costs would be the responsibility of the senior citizen.

THE YMCA will continue its van transportation program for senior citizens in the Plymouth-Northville area.

The van operates Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. transporting senior citizens to grocery stores, doctor offices, drugstores, banks, post office and hair-care salons.

At least a 48-hour request is required for scheduling.

The YMCA's program is funded by Title III funds and by the Plymouth Community Fund. Additional financial support comes from the cities of Plymouth and Northville, Plymouth Township, and the Rotary Club of Plymouth which just Friday donated $2,000 for the van service.

Mrs. Luce stresses the YMCA is gratified by the support from the community.

"Title III funds were initially intended as deed money and in the near futre will be withdrawn entirely. Therefore, for the program to continue, it will be necessary for the participating communities, the Community Fund, and interested organizations to absorb the costs.

"And individual donations will be appreciated. These contri butions also help maintain the program."

The YMCA's home service program for senior citizens now serves about 500 persons. Service is available to anyone 60 years or older.

Early auto leader, Frank Allison, dies

Frank Allison, one of Plymouth's first automobile dealers, died Feb. 20 after a long illness.

Allison, 64, was the son of Ernest Allison who started the Allison Chevrolet dealership more than 50 years ago.

Funeral services were held in Schrader Funeral Home with burial Friday at Riverside Cemetery.

ALLISON'S death dropped the last link in the colorful chain of early auto dealers here.

That group included Ernie Allison, who is still living though well into his 90s, and Paul Wiedman, who died some years ago and for whom the parking lot behind the Mayflower Hotel has been named.

While Wiedman was peddling Fords as one of the original outstate dealers, Ernie Allison championed the Chevrolet until his retirement more than a decade ago.

FRANK ALLISON was born into the automobile business.

While his place of birth is Highland Park, he was brought to Plymouth in 1922. Even as a young boy of age seven, he was taken to the Chevrolet dealership and worked with his father until the business was sold and moved out of town to where it now is operating as LARiche Chevrolet.

The younger Allison was active in civic affairs as a member for many years of the Rotary Club of Plymouth until struck down by illness more than a year ago. From then on, he fought a losing battle.

The family asks that memorials be sent to the Frank R. Allison Memorial Cancer Fund.

Survivors include: wife, Jeanet; father, Ernest; sons, John of St. Helen, and E. James of Newport Beach, Cal.; and a daughter, Jill Miller of East Lansing.

The crumpled car driven by Helen Louise Reed is taken away by a towing truck after the accident at Ford and Sheldon Wednesday, Feb. 21. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

Man, 84, dies in crash

An 84-year-old Canton man was killed in an automobile crash Wednesday afternoon after his daughter allegedly ran a red light at Ford and Sheldon roads.

According to police, William Graves of 41430 Ayrshire died in Wayne County General Hospital Wednesday following the 2:45 p.m. crash.

His daughter — Helen Louise Reed, 59, who lives at the Ayrshire address —, was admitted to the hospital where she was listed in critical condition Thursday.

Police say four witnesses agree that Ms. Reed ran a red light at Ford Road as she was driving south on Sheldon.

A westbound 1976 Plymouth driven by Patrick Turcott, 62, of Chelsea struck Ms. Reed's vehicle, police said.

Turcott and his wife, Mary, were taken to the hospital for injuries and later released.

Canton Police Chief Walter MacGregor said the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office has decided against issuing a warrant for Ms. Reed's arrest.

"The approach is she's suffered enough because she lost her father," MacGregor said.

Recount lawsuit still pursued by former trustee candidate

By the time a final decision is made on whether absentee ballots from a 1976 Canton general election should be recounted, the term of office under dispute will probably have ended.

The seat of Canton Trustee now held by Eugene Daley has been the subject of a courtroom battle ever since he won it.

The legal dispute revolves around James Poole, who ran against Daley on the Republican ticket and lost by 11 votes; a sealed bag of absentee ballots; and the interpretation of a Michigan law governing election recounts.

Poole and his attorney, James Bundarin, have thus far lost their bid to have the absentee ballots recounted. The case failed in Wayne County Circuit Court, and all parties were informed this month that the the Michigan Court of Appeals has decided to uphold the circuit court decision.

Poole intends to take the case to the Michigan Supreme Court, although Daley's chances of losing office before it expires are slim.

Poole says his legal battle has become a matter of principal.

The lawsuit was filed against members of tbe Wayne County Board of Canvassers shortly after the 1976 election, in which almost 30 percent (1,308) of the votes cast were by absentee ballot.

The reason for the large absentee showing was a write-in campaign by several candidates.

Poole believes the manner in which write-in and straight ticket voting is conducted may have caused some votes to go to the wrong candidates.

The board of canvassers, which certifies elections, would not allow the recount for several reasons.

According to the board, ballot boxes holding bags with absentee ballots were sealed properly, but the ballot bags were not; there were 15 more names on the poll list than ballots found in the ballot box; and the poll list did not indicate that any absentee ballots had not been returned.

As it turned out, the 15 names belonged to precinct workers who had signed the poll list and voted directly on the machines used to count absentee ballots.

These factors, under state law governing recounts, were considered reason not to go through the ballots again.

The bag of absentee ballots is still kept in the safe of the Canton Clerk's department.

One member of the court of appeals did write a dissenting opionion to the majority decision.

Appelate judge Donald E. Holbrook, who wrote the dissent, suggested that the names of the election workers who voted improperly be struck from the poll book.

"The absent voters' ballots recorded at the counting board would be recountable since two of the three mandatory requirements to allowing a recount have been met," the dissent said.

But until the case makes its way before the State Supreme Court, Daley has nothing to worry about.

Ramblings

By Caroline Price
Canton Observer Editor

There's hope for them

During the height of the college football season, one of the reporters came into the office moaning.

"I've just got to stop this," she announced. "When my team (Michigan State) doesn't win, my whole day is ruined.

"I've just got to stop being a fair-weather fan."

A fair-weather fan is, in her words, someone who gloats unbearably when his or her team is on top, but goes into a deep, dark, depression when tbe same team blows it.

Actually, the reporter (who shall remain nameless lest I get killed) has made an important first step by her admission.

All alcoholics, drug addicts, gamblers and overeaters must first admit to having a problem before they can be cured. The sidelines sports addict is no exception.

This particular reporter is not alone in her addiction. Our office would make a pretty good nucleus for a "sports addicts anonymous" cbapter.

On one hand we have the Michigan people. The rest of us are sure not to talk to them the morning after the Rose Bowl.

On the other hand is our die-hard Michigan State faction, of "some call it corn, we call it maize" fame.

Now, these divided loyalties can tend to cause conflict which becomes noticeably more obvious as a football or basketball game between the two Big Ten institutions approaches.

They leave little notes on each other's desks expressing their opinions of the other team.

They tell jokes in which the name of the rival team is substituted for the name of whatever scapegoat was originally the butt of the joke.

Even this semi-serious rivalry is not half as bad as the aftermath of those famous games.

I don't have to watch the news to know who won the game. All I have to do is look at the faces of people as they come into work.

The person with a propriatary interest in the winning team comes in beaming. He or she will do things such as paste up headlines proclaiming the victory or call the person with the losing team the second the game is over.

The whole idea is to gloat as much as possible before the next game.

The vicarious winners get a lot of mileage over a victory. The vicarious losers try to accept all the ribbing with good-nature, but one can see the thin veneer of control begin to slip away as the gloating continues.

At least as we go to press, no one has become physically violent.

This intense devotion to a team is a little confusing to those of us who have no special loyalty to any athletic event. Take me, for instance.

When everyone around me talks about "The Game," I'm embarrassed to ask which game they are referring to.

"Why you know — THE game," they respond, in complete amazement that anyone could be so totally out of it.

The only consolation I've had is that football is over, basketball is almost over and the only thing left to root for this summer will be baseball.

Since everyone in the office seems to throw their support to the Tigers, they have to gloat or gulp at the same time.

Office on Aging director gets commissioners' fire

By LYNN ORR

Despite the praise Dante DiVitto has received from Plymouth area personnel for his work on senior citizen programs, three Wayne County commissioners are calling for his resignation as director of the county's Office on Aging.

However Commissioner Bill Joyner, D-Plymouth, is softening the blow, insisting that DiVitto now is just one example of how the county's system fails to provide a check on office administrators.

Joyner represents the 27th District which includes Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships, part of Westland and communities in southwest Wayne County.

Directors need only 14 votes on the 27-member commission and can "blatantly disregard their bosses," Joyner said.

DiVitto just happens to be "the first one I hit upon," the commissioner bluntly said.

Joyner, commissioners Mary Dumas, R-Livonia, and Kay Beard, D-Inkster, have called for a complete audit of DiVitto's department. They charged earlier that the department has never been audited. It was formed in 1973.

Now the commissioners are narrowing that charge to the Senior Citizens' Advocate, a newsletter sent out of DiVitto's office.

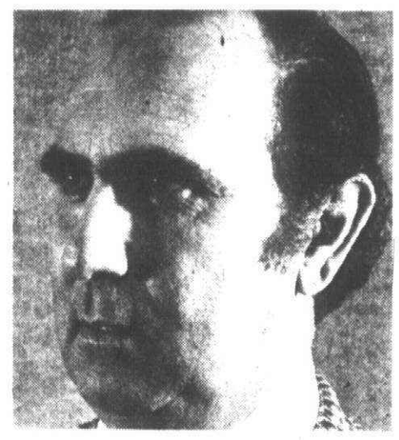
THE THREE commissioners also threw barbs at the county's Vial of Life program, although DiVitto says criticism should be aimed at the county's Area Agency on Aging, not on his department.

Joyner insists that about 15,000 vials contributed to the county by Blue Cross-Blue Shield sat in Wayne County Hospital's "J" Building, rather than moving to nutrition sites for distribution throughout the county.

DiVitto challenges the number. He says 7,000 vials were held back, although he said he was told to retain those for distribution to local hospitals.

Joyner and DiVitto squared off on another charge involving a state-funded pilot project. The program calls for two meals a day being delivered to home-bound senior citizens. DiVitto targeted Hamtramck and Highland Park for the pilot project.

The two cities were chosen because they have the highest proportion of low-income, homebound senior citizens, DiVitto said.



DANTE DiVITTO

Joyner wanted some of the money targeted for western Wayne County, citing desperate cases of senior citizens in Sumpter Township.

DiVitto just shrugs his shoulders at the charge.

"You never can make everyone happy."

DiVITTO POINTS to the success of the nutrition program in general and several special cases where the county particularly helped residents of its western portion.

In Plymouth, he provided a driver for the city's new van for senior citizens. Sharon Thomas, director of the Tonquish Creek Manor senior citizen nutrition site, was delighted with his cooperation.

"I've never had a problem with him or his office," she stated flatly. She quizzed her staff about the nutrition complaints that commissioners have cited in their opposition to DiVitto.

"As far as we know, we've never received a complaint about the food."

TERRY CARROLL, head of grant projects in Canton Township and former senior citizens director in the City of Plymouth, also refutes conflicts with the Office on Aging.

A few years ago when the nutrition program did run into problems with food quality, including a high proportion of starches, Carroll found DiVitto willing to help.

The office was forced to use federally-supplied surplus food, he says, which created some of the problems. DiVitto also must bid out the catering to the lowest bidder, Carroll pointed out.

Some of the problems were solved with the county's "scratch cooking" program initiated by the Office on Aging, Carroll said.

Although Carroll would like to see more project money headed out west, he called the battle a "boondoggle."

"I wouldn't want his job of trying to satisfy everybody. I don't know what he could have done to make it better."

There simply isn't enough money to go around to alleviate all of the problems of senior citizens, Carroll said.

DiVITTO BELIEVES the commissioners are unaware of much of the work of his office.

Commissioners have little understanding of the effort, failures, and successes of the office over the past six years, he added.

Although Joyner points to Livonia's pullout from the nutrition program, DiVitto points to Livonia senior citizens being transported to the day center in Westland for activities.

"Mary Dumas probably doesn't even know about that," DiVitto said.

"The needs in western Wayne County area great," DiVitto added. "There are people that are low income, but the numbers are much smaller."

A $1.6 million budget of federal and state funds comes into Wayne County through the Area Agency on Aging. DiVitto attempts to distribute his share of that money (about 30 percent) among the communities outside Detroit as he sees fit.

Seniors coordinator defended

Editor:

This letter is in protest to the forced resignation of Dale Hall, the senior citizens coordinator. It was a gross injustice to the seniors as well as to Mrs. Hall.

She is a very capable and talented person giving the seniors direction and leadership to the many organizations that could help solve some of their problems, whether they be legal or otherwise. Many of these referrals were free for the asking.

Supervisor Noel Culbert claims he has had complaints about Mrs. Hall from some of the seniors. I have yet to see a person who could please all the people all of the time.

Even the president of the United States cannot please everyone. If some of the seniors felt excluded, it was their own fault if they did not cooperate in tbe various projects. They should remember the phrase, "In order to have a friend you must be a friend."

The reason that was given to the seniors at the township meeting was that a secret meeting was held by them. No such thing.

Two representatives of each group met to discuss the priorities the seniors wanted to bring up at the council meeting. There was nothing secret about it.

The following day the group met in a special meeting with Mike Gouin, the new recreation director, and Culbert to discuss the priorities before bringing them up before the council that was to meet the follwoing night.

Gouin and Culbert decided that too many hours were spent on the senior program. The hours were set at 38 hours for the two coordinators per week. All agreed to try to work it out.

The new hour schedule was to begin Jan. 1, but instead, on Dec. 29, Mrs. Hall was called to Mr. Gouin's office and was asked to resign. Why wasn't she given a chance to work on the new schedule? Is that being fair?

Culbert insists the resignation was Gouin's decision and he concurred with it. If the truth is known, it was politics that had everything to do with it. I think if politics had been kept out of this, Gouin and Mrs. Hall could have worked out their differences (if there were any) satisfactorily without any political overtones.

Culbert said too much money was being spent on the senior citizens' program, yet when the new administration was anchored in office, the first thing they did was vote themselves a handsome 233 percent raise in salary.

You have taken it away from the seniors in order to fatten your own pockets.

James Donahue was voted in as treasurer of Canton last fall and now he can't satisfactorily fulfill his obligations to the citizens. He says he doesn't have enough time ?because he is working on another job. Too bad. So now the council hired an inexperienced deputy treasurer, who claims she knows nothing of public administration work, to help him out at another handsome salary of $7,000 a year. If the administrators were so eager to save money for the township, why doesn't Donahue quit his other job and devote his time to the one he was elected to do or be made to resign?

I truly believe if Mrs. Hall had been given a chance to initiate the shorter hours, things could have been worked out to their satisfaction, but she was not given a chance to cooperate with them. I think politics played a big part in this unnecessary commotion.

Credits for care

Some taxpayers can claim child or disabled dependent care expenses on their 1978 tax return, the Internal Revenue Service said.

The credit is available to married couples who file jointly, where one spouse workds full-time and the other works part-time or is a full-time student, or where both work part-time.

The credit also applies to a divorced or separated parent who has custody of a child under 15, even though the parent may not be entitled to a dependency exemption for the child. The parent claiming the credit must, however, have custody for a longer period during the year than the other parent.

A deserted spouse is eligible for the credit when the deserting spouse is absent for the last six months of the taxable year.

The credit is 20 per cent of eligible expenses. The maximum credit that may be taken is limited to $400 for one dependent.

Additional information is available in the free IRS Publication 503, Child Care and Disabled Dependent Care.

The vanishing children

By EMORY DANIELS

Second in a series

In 1978 a mild battle was waged between parents of Learning Disabled children and the State Dept. of Education.

Trips to Lansing were taken by members of the Plymouth-Canton chapter of the Michigan Association of Children with Learning Disabilities (MACLD) and they were joined by MACLD members from Southfield, Farmington, Westland, Livonia, Birmingham and other chapters from throughout Michigan.

The lobbying effort was aimed at a proposal to change the definition of learning disabilities in the funding formula which determines whether an LD child is eligible for special education funds from the state.

The proposed definition was more restrictive and, according to the MACLD, would have resulted in a large number of LD pupils now in special classes being dumped into regular classrooms only for the purpose of reducing special education expenditures.

And what happened here last year is happening throughout the United States according to Eli Tash, member of the President's Commisson on Mental Health and past president of the national Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (ACLD).

SPECIAL EDUCATION regulations and rules are tending nationwide to be more restrictive rather than expanding special education services, maintains Tash.

"Federal law now require state governments to offer special education help to whomever is in need. And it's funny what has happened since the law was enacted.

"Since the law was enacted, Wisconsin has found that only 4.9 percent of its children are handicapped — even though 11 percent is the norm nationwide.

"Well, let me make it clear that Wisconsin residents do not have any special genetic strain to avoid having handicapped children. Handicapped children in Wisconsin merely disappeared from the state's records.

"And it's happening all over. Of the 50 states, some 38 are providing special education programs to less than eight percent of the total school population, and only 12 states provide services to at least eight percent.

"There was a shout heard across the land from parents of handicapped children when the federal mandatory special education act was passed, and everybody felt a victory had been won.

"But that just wasn't true — we started a war!"

Referring to the battle waged in Michigan on definition of learning disabilities, Tash predicted: "Michigan will continue to struggle with an LD definition until there are no more LD children left in Michigan — they will all disappear, just like magic."

Speaking to parents of LD children at the annual conference of the MACLD in Detroit last fall, Tash warned: "After 25 years of battling, and gaining victory after victory for handicapped kids, we are now losing the war.

"The error made is we assumed that a statutory recognition of rights to service would pave the way for the services being provided and money being appropriated for programs.

"But we have found that token service is not enough. Promises of service is not enough. The handicapped are being denied service across the land through the connivance of hard-nose administrators and bureaucrats who consider handicapped students a nuisance.

IN MICHIGAN, Tash claims, there were 108,000 students identified as handicapped in 1974 — the year before special education services became mandatory. In 1978, he added, the numbers dropped to 56,000.

"We just refuse to find handicapped children anymore. It's a silent conspiracy among local school districts. And this Houdini act is taking place in 38 of our 50 states.

"Once local school districts have to report students in need of services all of a sudden they no longer have any handicapped children remaining.

"The greatest threat to appropriate services for handicapped students is an army of bureaucrats who instead of offering services are laying legal booby-traps to ensnare parents."

For more information call Joyce Cunningham at 453-0890.

Correction

A story on proposals offered by the Plymouth-Canton School District boundary and growth committee in last Thursday's Observer said boundary changes had been proposed for Pioneer Middle School to West Middle School east of Canton Center, south of Joy, west of Lilley and north of Warren.

The statement should have been a proposed change east of Morton Taylor, rather than east of Canton Center.

EASTER ARTS & CRAFTS SHOW

Applications now are being accepted for the second annual Easter Arts & Crafts Show sponsored by Plymouth Recreation Dept. The show will be the weekend of March 30-April 1 in the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer. Hours will be 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday, 11-7 Saturday, and 11-5 on Sunday. Booth spaces are about 8-by-10 feet. Interested exhibitors may register in person Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Cultural Center.

RICH HEWLETT

Bo to give Hewlett fair shot at QB slot

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Everyone was dressed in their three-piece suits on Carol Street in Plymouth Wednesday night. There were lots of pictures, many smiles, and many, many football recruiting stories.

The business at hand was only a formality.

Rich Hewlett, the two-time All-State quarterback at Plymouth Salem, made it official. He signed a national letter-of-intent to play football for the University of Michigan next fall. By accepting the four-year athletic scholarship to the school, Hewlett fulfilled what had been announced two weeks earlier.

For Michigan head football coach Bo Schembechler, it marked the end of a long campaign to sign the local blue chipper. The coach says he's had his eye on the Rock grid star for three years now.

Schembechler, who had just flown in from Pittsburgh on another recruiting trip, came to Hewlett's residence along with defensive coordinator Bill McCartney to help celebrate the formal signing.

Hewlett's two prep coaches, Tom Moshimer and Fred Thomann, were also there to share in the excitement.

With Michigan quarterback Rick Leach graduating, the big question was whether Hewlett, a three-year option quarterback at Salem, would fill the shoes of the departing All-American. "Right now, there's no established quarterback," said Schembechler, whose offense is oriented around the option that Hewlett is so familiar with. "Let's just say he's (Hewlett) going to get a close look."

Schembechler said he promised Jim Paciorek, a 1978 all-stater from Orchard Lake St. Mary's, the first shot at the quarterback slot during spring football. The Wolverine coach said, however, that Hewlett would be at his side watching the action with a playbook in his hands.

Hewlett cannot participate in spring football because he will still be in high school through June. But Schembechler promised Hewlett wouldn't be unfamiliar with the Michigan system when he begins his freshman year this fall. The star gridder will be "expected" to know the Michigan terminology before the season starts, according to the Michigan head man.

"Everyone from now one will be speculating (about the new Michigan signal caller)," Schembechler said. "But that's the nature of the game. As you look at it, no one has a lock on it — that's fundamental."

Schembechler said it wasn't necessarily true that he was looking for another four-year starter pulling the strings of his offense.

"I just want a good quarterback," he said. "I just want the best guy in there."

Schembechler was, obviously, happy to land Hewlett. The Plymouth star was only one of two quarterbacks Michigan recruited this season — although a host of veterans are eyeing the prestigious job, as well.

The other quarterback Michigan recruited is Steve O'Donnell, a run-pass player from New Jersey.

"I'm very happy for him," said Salem's Moshimer about his three-year starter. "I think he has what it takes to do the job. It's a great challenge for him, but there is no doubt he will be up to the challenge next fall."

Salem coasts past Bentley

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Who says all Plymouth Salem-Bentley basketball games have to be close?

While the long-standing cage rivalry has brought many a fan off his or her seat with excitement, the 2,200 fans at the Salem gym Friday night were surprised that Salem won by 22 points.

The Rocks saw to that.

Salem dominated the visiting Bulldogs in the second half to register a 79-57 Suburban Eight League victory.

The Rocks breezed to the easy triumph with an amazing 47-point second half that erased a 36-32 Bentley first-half advantage.

Salem complemented its offensive surge with a stingy defensive attack, limiting Bentley to only 19 points in the final two quarters.

The victory all but assures the Rocks of a sixth straight Sub-8 title. Salem swept Bentley twice this season, winning the first game in overtime at the Bulldogs' gym.

The Rocks hold a one-game league lead over the Bulldogs with a 10-1 record. Salem earned a tie in the league and can win the outright title with a win at Belleville Friday night.

Bentley, now 9-2 in the league, dropped to 16-3 overall. It closes the regular season hosting Edsel Ford, the only team to beat Salem in the league.

The Rocks' overall record is 17-2.

SALEM'S SECOND-HALF spurt included a 67 percent shooting spree (18 of 24). Salem hit its first six shots in the third quarter and outscored Bentley 24-8 in that period.

The Rocks then hit the first five field goals in the fourth period and didn't allow Bentley a bucket until the 1:15 mark of the quarter.

In all, Salem hit 29 of 47 shots from the floor for 62 percent. Bentley converted on 19 of only 36 shots for 53 percent.

Rich Hewlett, who always seems to do his best in a big game, played his usual all-around floor game, leading the Salem attack. He scored a game-high 25 points, added seven assists, five steals and five rebounds.

Rob Neu and Barry Owens chipped in with 10 points each, while Howard Monk added seven. Matt Etienne, Bill Thimm and junior forward Jim Anderson also made contributions coming off the Salem bench.

Bentley was led by Steve Booth's 15 points. The Thorderson brothers, Eric and Kurt, added 12 each.

Salem coach Fred Thomann was surprised with the easy victory but credited it to his team's tough defense.

"We tried to put more pressure defense on them (Bentley) so they would have to make tougher shot selections," Thomann said of his second-half strategy.

"Offensively, we did a little adjusting on their zone and got excellent shots. But it was the defense that did it. We just went out and played our butts off on defense."

"I thought we played well in the first half," said Bentley coach Jim Komula. "What can I say? They (Salem) just blew us out in the second half. Our kids just stopped playing. Once (Salem) got rolling, they just took us apart."

Canton cagers cream lowly Churchill, 77-57

Western Six basketball champion Plymouth Canton kept its conference record perfect with an easy 77-57 victory over Livonia Churchill.

The Chiefs, coached by Craig Bell, raised their league record to 9-0 and their overall mark to 15-4 with the Friday night road victory.

Canton closes its regular-season schedule hosting Northville Friday starting at 8 p.m.

Canton blitzed Churchill with a 22-8 first-quarter scoring spree and was never behind after that.

"Canton came out and blew us right off the court," said Churchill coach Fred Price. "Our kids were not ready to play that kind of basketball.

"We had played pretty well the last three games up until this one," the Churchill coach said. "I don't know what more incentive we could have had playing the league champs."

Both teams scored 19 points in the second quarter as Canton maintained a 14-point advantage at halftime, 41-27. The Chiefs then put the game away with a 23-12 third-quarter blitz. This increased their lead to 64-39 going into the final eight minutes of play.

"We tried pressing in the third quarter, but they passed the ball well and were rebounding well," Price said.

Canton's Butch King, the team's leading scorer, was his usual sharpshooting self against the Chargers. He hit 12 field goals for 24 points. King hit 10 points in both the first and second quarters to lead the way for Canton.

Senior forward Mike Leary added 15, and 6-5 junior Dave Visser pumped in 10 to pace Canton's inside play.

Churchill's Dave Krick and Brian Kersten scored 18 and 15 points, respectively.

Canton dominated the boards against the smaller Chargers, pulling down 36 rebounds to only 14 for the losers.

Canton's junior varsity basketball team was equally successful against the Churchill reserves, posting a 54-41 victory in the preliminary game.

Rocks' victory a masterpiece

Did you hear about Fred Thomann's new hobby? It's almost as fun as basketball — because they go hand-in-hand.

The hobby? Collecting Suburban Eight League trophies, what else?

It is the rule of the Sub-8 that a school may retire a league championship trophy in its showcase after three league titles. Otherwise, the trophy continues to travel from champion to champion.

Thomann has made the Sub-8 basketball trophy a fixture in the Salem showcase, however. He retired a second trophy after his squad overwhelmed Livonia Bentley 79-57 Friday night.

Actually, the victory only assures the Rocks of a tie for the crown. It is, nonetheless, an unbelieveable sixth straight title for the Salem coach.

The formality of winning the outright title comes this Friday when the Rocks travel to Belleville for their regular-season finale.

In the past, Belleville has always been a tough place for Thomann teams to win, but the ill-talented Tigers have had their problems this year, making the odds for the outright Salem crown good.

IN THE PAST, the Salem-Bentley basketball rivalry has been referred to as a classic form of competition because of the close nature of the recent contests.

There was nothing close about Friday's battle, however, as Thomann beat Bentley for the 13th time in 15 games since coming to Plymouth.

Doc's Corner

Thomann's squad made a easy win out of this one, all but erasing the earlier loss to Dearborn Edsel Ford. That loss almost cost them the Sub-8 crown.

This Salem victory included brilliant second- half domination (Salem outscored Bentley 47-19 in the last two quarters). The win could more likely be categorized as a masterpiece — not only from the team standpoint, but also in coaching.

Once again, Thomann proved that he is the best coach in the area, and possibly in the state.

Realistically, he really doesn't have that much talent to work with this season.

Sure, he has a great catalyst in Rich Hewlett, who also proved to be the money player with his 25 points in the "big game."

But the supporting cast around the Rock star isn't the best compared to recent Salem basketball teams.

And yet, Salem still managed to get a piece of the Sub-8 crown for its sixth straight season. True, the competition in the Sub-8 isn't the greatest, but the Rocks still had to contend with a tall, dominating and talented Bentley squad.

And the Rocks came out smelling like roses twice.

"I think the way our kids have responded to the team concept is tremendous," the Salem coach said. "And we have that great team leader in Rich Hewlett."

It may sound like a broken record but one must, once again, give Thomann credit for another job well done this season. He has gotten the most out of a group of small, but aggressive players who not only continue a long tradition of Sub-8 basketball titles, but also hold the best record in the area.

But Thomann's not done with this team yet. Barring any letdown next week, Salem should finish the regular season with an 18-2 overall record.

And the Salem coach is eyeing the district crown. He knows he has the home-court advantage this season and the best record going into the "second season" of action.

Knowing Thomann, he's not going to let his team lose sight of this opportunity.

Canton spikers smear Western

Another victory was added to the Plymouth Canton varsity volleyball team's record Wednesday when the Chiefs smeared Walled Lake Western, 15-5, 15-13.

Although the score of the second game doesn't indicate a smear, the Chiefs had little trouble taking the Western Six League match.

Senior Sonia Lee and sophomore MariAnn Pink lead the Chiefs in the opening of the first game, supplying serves that the Warriors found impossible to return. Lee scored the games first three points and Pink later added another three points to help put the Chiefs in front, 8-2.

Junior Claudia Williams also found a weak spot in the Walled Lake defense, and served the final three points of the game.

The Warriors came back in the second game to take an early 5-1 lead, but watched it dwindle when Pink started a scoring drive that tied the score at 5-5.

Keeping up with the Canton attack was easy for the Warriors the rest of the match. The Chiefs let up on their aggressive play and were trailing the Warriors, 12-9.

Canton finally put things back together again and finished the match for its fifth league win of the season against two losses. The Chiefs are 8-2 overall with the only two losses coming against Western-6 defending champion Livonia Churchill.

The Canton junior varsity lost its match to the Walled Lake JV after winning the first game 15-7, then lost the next two, 11-15, 12-15.

Canton travels to Waterford Mott tonight (Monday) and will be looking for another Western Six victory. Canton beat Mott earlier in the season,13-15, 15-8, 15-11. Game time is scheduled for 6:15 p.m. with the junior varsity competition and the varsity match at 7 p.m.

Central wins

The Central Middle School eighth grade basketball team recently won the city championship. The Chargers, coached by Mark LaPointe, registered a combined record of 10-3 for the 'A' and 'B' squads to pace the competition.

Pioneer finished in second place, West, a long-time city champion, was third and East took fourth.

Jr. baseball seeks help

Registration for the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League (PCJBL) will be held on Saturdays, March 3, 10 and 17, at the Plymouth Canton High School cafeteria from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

All boys and girls in the community interested in playing baseball or softball this summer are invited to register. Proof of age (anyone between 7 and 16 on or before July 31, 1979 is eligible) is required at registration. Fees range between $11 and $15 depending on the league and age group of the player.

Umpires and managers are also needed for the upcoming season, along with an umpire-in-chief and an A league (boys 11-12) director. Any adults interested in volunteering their services for these positions should call 397-3940 or 459-3640 for more details.

The PCJBL is also looking for a vending company to supply refreshment products throughout the season. A women's auxiliary is being formed to help sell the refreshments at the playing sites. Anyone interested in the refreshment aspect of the league should contact Jeanne Goodrich at 455-7065.

Volunteers for help during the three registration sessions are reminded to contact Ivan Hayes at 459-4133 for more information.

It may be a long time before any bowler matches the pace being set by John Hurley in the morning league at Westland Bowl.

Bowling at times when the lanes are supposed to be "stiff," he has posted seven 700 series, another of 815, a perfect game and a record of bettering 600 in each of the last 22 weeks.

His latest 700 came last Monday morning when he opened with the first 300 game of his career and followed with counts of 208 and 266 for 774.

MEMBERSHIP in the 700 club is increasing rapidly in the western suburbs.

Aside from Hurley's 774, three others were fired in the classic at Wonderland.

Bill Poe lead the assault on the pins at Wonderland and but for a stubborn No. 10 would have rolled a perfect game in the bargain. He opened with a 299 came back with a 225 and closed with 247 for 771 and the high series of the night.

Bob Hitt, a veteran of the all-star leagues who is attempting a comeback, landed in second place with a 765 that came on games of 258,255 and 252 Tony Thiverge landed third with a 756 that included games of 278, 245 and 232.

ALETA RZEPECKI, the 16-year-old who has been one of the surprises in the ladies major league, registered her first 700 series.

Bowling with the Livonia Bowling Sales team she got a good start with a 267. She followed with a 211 and closed with a 241 for 719. Her big count enabled her team to roll a 2964, the high series of the night at Crown Lanes.

Meanwhile only a few lanes away, Penny Behn, another of the younger group had a 247 for a 703. It was the first time in a while that the league could boast a pair of 700's on the same shift.

MARY LOU SCHNEIDER was the lone bowler to better double century figures in the ladies classic at Westland. She had games of 209 and 212 in 603. Sandy Marsh was right behind with 595 and Pat ?orawa landed third with 581.

THE DETROIT Women's Bowling Association opens its annual tournament Saturday at Ark Lanes West. The opening ceremonies sre scheduled at 1.30 p.m. The event has drawn an entry of close to 1,000 teams.

ALL EYES will be on Super Bowl on the first Wednesday morning in March when Billy G., the Hall of Famer, will try the novelty of giving instructions before the opening of a new women's trio league. It is the first league to offer instructions prior to bowling.

LAURENCE KEETON a 175 average bowler in the Consumer Power league at Merri-Bowl, turned in the highest series of the week in the house with a 279 in 675.

In the Ford league at at Woodland Lanes, Howard Behr was top man with 599 when it came to bowling over average. He carries a 184. Gene Madry, with a 206, fired a 641 and Bob Feely had a 232 in 611.

In the morning Stars loop, Linda Sylvester turned in high game of 237. Gene Bogart followed with 223 while Wanda Simmine had 222 and Debby Miller a 203.

AFTER AN ABSENCE of three months due to an injured shoulder, Marge Brothers, returned to competition this week at Super Bowl and proceeded to bowl games of 178 and 190.

Two new members were added to the split-conversion club when Marlene Kunz toppled the 6-8-10 and Edith Ballinger swept the 8-10.

In the Lucky Ladies league, Chris Amos has high game of 244 and Phyliss Brown has high series with a 605.

THE WOMEN at Merri-Bowl are doing quite well.

In the Tuesday league, Dorothy Molnar, a 156 average bowl, fashioned a 642. Helen Carrolo, a 159 bowler, had a 267 in 626, Dorothy Hoppe posted 242 in 583 and Marilyn Bjorge came up with a 585.

Shirley Wald opened with a 216 for 563. Anot her high shooter was Ginger McRae who had a 246 in 583 in the Toast and Coffee League.

AMONG THE top performances of the week Bill Maloney led the senior citizens at Plymouth Bowl with a 233 for high game and Gerry Mc Closkey, a 143 average bowler, had a 224 in 593 at Garden Lanes.

Canton tankers sink WL Central

By M. DAVID CAMPBELL

The Plymouth Canton's boys swim team blew away non-league foe Walled Lake Central, 112-60, last week.

The Chiefs rasied their record to 10-0 in dual-meet competition, as almost all the Canton swimmers improved their times.

And it couldn't have come at a better time. The Chiefs will have to be at their best Thursday night when Northville invades the Canton pool for a battle between the two top teams in the Western Six League.

The Chiefs beat Northville earlier this season at the Mustangs' pool, but many of the Northville swimmers were ill.

The rematch, which begins at 7 p.m., should be one of the best meets of the year, as the Chiefs put their undefeated record on the line against the perennial league champions.

Paul Peterson, the Chief's all-state candidate, set two varsity and pool records against Walled Lake Central. The junior tanker won both the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard backstroke in times of 2:02.8 and :58.6, respectively.

Ron Hurley, Bob Simrak, Mike Gaab, and Bob Cline began the meet with a first-place clocking in the 200-yard medley relay in 1:50.8. Keith Greenleaf followed with a second in the 200-yard freestyle race.

Although Gabb missed much of the week with the flu, he still placed first in the 50-yard freeestyle with a :24.2 timing. (Senior Dave Tanner missed the meet because of illness).

Steve Gray won the diving competition with 197.85 points. Cline placed first in the 100-yard butterfly and the 100-yard breaststroke with times of 1:01.5 and 1:08.7, respectively.

Simrak and Hurley rewrote the freshmen records in the 100-yard freestyle as they placed first and second, respectively. Simrak's time was :53.6 while Hurley was a runner-up at :54.8.

Simrak, Dave Smith, Troy Haarala and Pete Stern closed the meet with a first-place time in the 400-yard freestyle relay of 3:43.2

Parents disagree

Editor:

Once again, your young sports editor has shown his narrow-minded prejudice for Plymouth Canton High School (Doc's Corner, Monday, Feb. 19).

When Canton's basketball team won the Western Six League championship last Friday night (Feb. 16) by defeating Walled Lake Western, instead of congratulating them on this first-ever achievement, he belittled and attacked not only the Canton team, but the other teams in the Western-6.

Another recent example of his unreasonable prejudice was when the Canton girls' basketball team defeated Plymouth Salem in tournament play — he wrote that it was a disappointment.

Everyone is entitled to their opinions, but let's keep personal prejudice out of giving credit where credit is due.

We, as parents, applaud coach (Craig) Bell and the Canton basketball team for a good season and this achievement.

Rock JV news

Plymouth Salem's junior varsity basketball team consistently broke through the porous Trenton defense to register an easy 65-37 victory last week.

With Leigh Langkabel and Scott Bublin doing most of the damage, the Rocks built a 42-17 halftime lead.

Plymouth guard Mike Sharp, returning to the lineup after missing recent action because of an injury, added to the Trojan woes.

Salem coach Bob Blohm, whose squad is 14-4 (not including Friday's game against Bentley), emptied his bench in the last two quarters.

Langkabel led all Plymouth scorers with 20 points. Bublin pumped in 11, Tom Kelliher had eight and Sharp six. Salem had 11 players reach the scoring column.

Rebels roar

The Rebel Gymnastics Club, a Garden City-based team which includes many Plymouth-Canton area gymnasts, recently competed in a number of weekend meets.

Molly Zehnle of Plymouth placed third in the floor exercise in a Class III meet against Lakewood and Midland. Zehnle is a member of the League One squad.

Laurie Beale, a Level X Sectional competitor, won the floor exercise and uneven bars events, placed third in vaulting and was first all-round in a meet against the Birmingham Y team.

At this same meet, Pam Modson placed second in floor exercise, second in vaulting, third on the bars and second all-round.

Hurons fall

Eastern Michigan University's hockey team slipped in its bid to close in on second place in the Mid-Central Collegiate Hockey Association last weekend, falling twice to Miami (Ohio) University, 6-4, 6-3.

As the conference's regular season schedule winds down, the Hurons, who play all their home games at the Plymouth Cultural Center, find themselves locked in third place with a 6-8-0 record and 12 points.

Second-place Miami has 23 points, while the University of Michigan-Dearborn continues to set the pace with 25 points.

The Hurons will complete in league playoff action on March 2 and 3 at Miami.

M-153 (FORD ROAD)
FROM
I-275 TO VENOY STREET
PUBLIC MEETING

The Michigan Department of Transportation is calling a public meeting from 2-4 and 7-9 PM on Wednesday, March 28, 1979 in the meeting room lounge, Melvin G. Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford Road, Westland, Michigan.

The purpose of this meeting is to provide area citizens the opportunity to view the plans and discuss right-of-way acquisition procedures for the widening of M-153 (Ford Road), from I-275 Easterly to Venoy street, cities of Westland and Garden City, Wayne County.

Preliminary interviews, leading to the purchase of right-of-way for this project, will begin at this meeting. Department representatives will be present to discuss the relocation services and payments that will be available to all relocatees. Relocation assistance for displaced occupants is based on occupancy of the home at the time of purchase negotiations. Moving costs, funds to purchase housing, rental payments, and other benefits will be made available to eligible occupants whether they own or rent the housing to be purchased for the right-of-way.

Appraisals on properties are scheduled to begin in April, 1979 with acquisition to start in January, 1980.

Because a formal presentation will not be given at this meeting, please feel free to stop in any time between 2:00 and 4:00 PM or between 7:00 and 9:00 PM.

This project was discussed at the public hearing held April 27, 1978 in the John H. Glenn high school, Westland, Michigan.

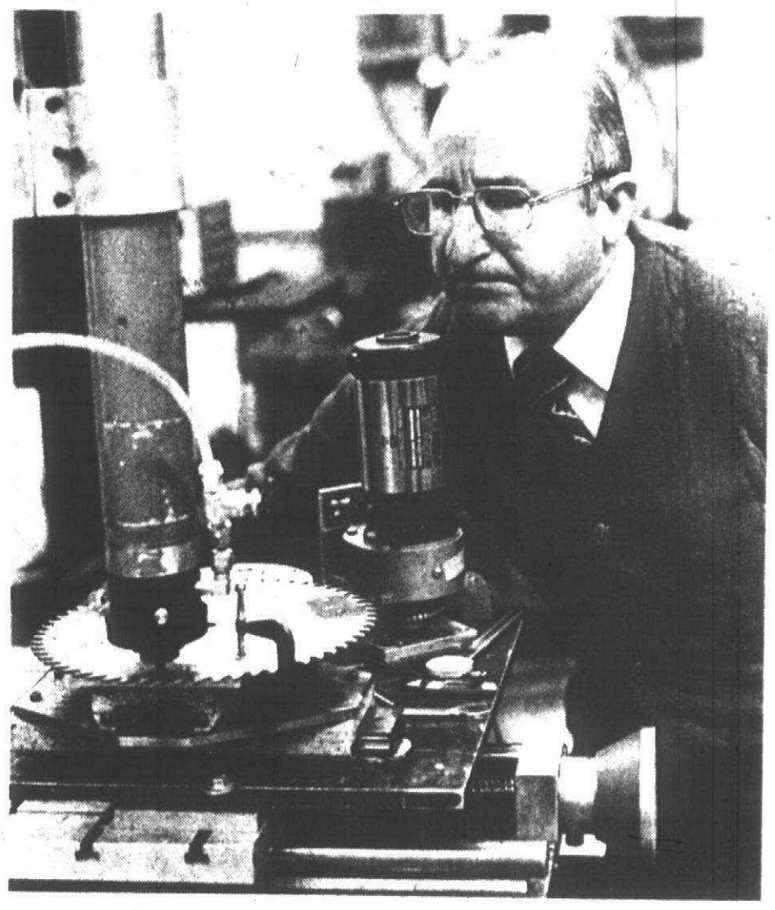
Laser beam: A new light in technology



Engineer Monroe Phillips uses a laser beam to cut through a steel disc in the applications laboratory. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

By NANCY AUSTIN

Purple gases in pyrex tubes, dancing sparks on a steel disc, flashing red lights on a digital display board and, like magic, a five-eights inch thick piece of steel has been evenly and smoothly severed with exacting precision in a few short seconds.

The cutting tool — a concentrated, focused beam of light known as a laser beam.

Photon Sources, of Livonia, has played a key role in the industrial application of laser technology. Don Sprentall, production manager for the firm, explained some of the magic.

"I like to think of a laser beam as a neon light with mirrors on either end of it. Focus light energy through lenses or curved mirrors, and by focusing it to various power densities, you have a tool you can work with. It is an industrial machine tool.'

Likened to a drill press or lathe, the laser can be applied to various functions such as drilling, cutting, welding, and hole penetrating. It is being used in this capacity in factories all over the United States, Europe and Japan.

"It's a matter of economics," said Sprentall. "The laser is a real workhorse. There is minimal down time, because there is no wearing out of parts. There is very little maintenance.

"The life of the carbon dioxide laser goes way beyond that of the conventional dies and presses and other tools. Its precision, speed, and accuracy can't be surpassed."

THE APPLICATION OF laser technology is in the infant stages, but rapid growth is projected for the industry. Sprentall, who has been with Photon Sources since 1970 (the firm was founded in 1967), quoted a Stanford, Conn., survey conducted by Business Communication Corp. which projected a 25 percent increase in industrial applications of lasers this year.

This seems to be a conservative estimate when compared to the growth of this company which now employs 80 people.

"Last year we built 50 pieces of laser equipment. This year we expect to build and sell 150. We have more lasers out in industry than any other laser equipment manufacturer." said Sprentall.

It takes approximately six weeks to produce one completed carbon dioxide laser unit, the entire piece of which is manufactured on their premises. Not only do they assemble the laser, they also build the microprocesser that controls the unit.

One of the most common industrial applications of the laser is scribing ceramic substrates for use in the electronic and computer industries.

Bob Morris, systems sales manager for the company, explained, "We are now manufacturing and assembling our own microprocessor. So we scribe our own ceramic substrate, using our laser, to mount the electrical components for use in the microprocessing unit. It's kind of an interesting twist. We are using a laser to build a laser."

COSTING ANYWHERE from $26,000 to $100,000 per unit, depending on application, lasers are supplied to different types of industry.

"The medical field is studying the use of the laser in treating glaucoma symptoms," said Sprentall. "The laser drills small holes in the eyeball of the patient, relieving the pressure that builds up inside the eyeball. "The laser," he said, "is a real advantage in that the beam cauterizes the tissue as it cuts, providing a method for bloodless surgery."

How can a light beam be used for such diverse applications as eye surgery, cutting fabrics for the textile industry, or hardening metals for the automotive industries?

"It's all in the way the light beam is activated, which gases are used, and how many watts you use," explained Sprentall.

"Power levels range from milliwatts to millions of watts. The more watts you use the higher the energy level providing they are activated by the right combination of gases. It is possible to vaporize a piece of metal or ceramic with the right combination."

Photon Sources is concerned primarily with the carbon dioxide laser. The gas mixing chamber consists of precisely measured amounts of carbon dioxide, helium and nitrogen. This gives the purple glow seen in the pyrex tube portion of the assembly.

CURRENTLY, General Motors is using 50 pieces of laser equipment in the auto assembly plants. The laser is capable of hardening just one area of a component without heating the entire piece of metal, which would cause distortion of the metal.

For example, the diesel cylinder is spot treated for hardening certain areas which are subject to more stress and wear. By using a laser, the entire cylinder does not have to be heated as in old-fashioned methods.

The laser method prevents the distortion. Therefore, several steps in processing the part are eliminated, a substantial savings to General Motors.

Often, a company thinks it may be able to solve a production problem using the laser, but the concept must first be tested.

Applications laboratory director Dick Barber noted, "One of the most unusual requests we had was from Alcoa. They had been punching holes in baby bottle nipples, using a hot needle technique. The problem was they had a buildup of latex residue on the needles.

"We found that by using laser technology, we were able to punch three holes simultaneously into the nipples with great speed — several hundred nipples per minute.

"This was one of the first industrial applications of carbon dioxide laser technology that we innovated, and the one that firmly established us in the field of laser innovation and application."

SINCE THAT TIME, Photon Sources has expanded not only its application of technology, but also its physical plant size, by the acquisition of additional floor space in Redford. This, combined with another plant in Ann Arbor and research and development facility in San Francisco, will enable the firm to meet the expanding demands of a growing industry.

William Frederick, president of Photon Sources, has recently announced the introduction of a new piece of equipment that will prove even more superior in performance, productivity and profitability.

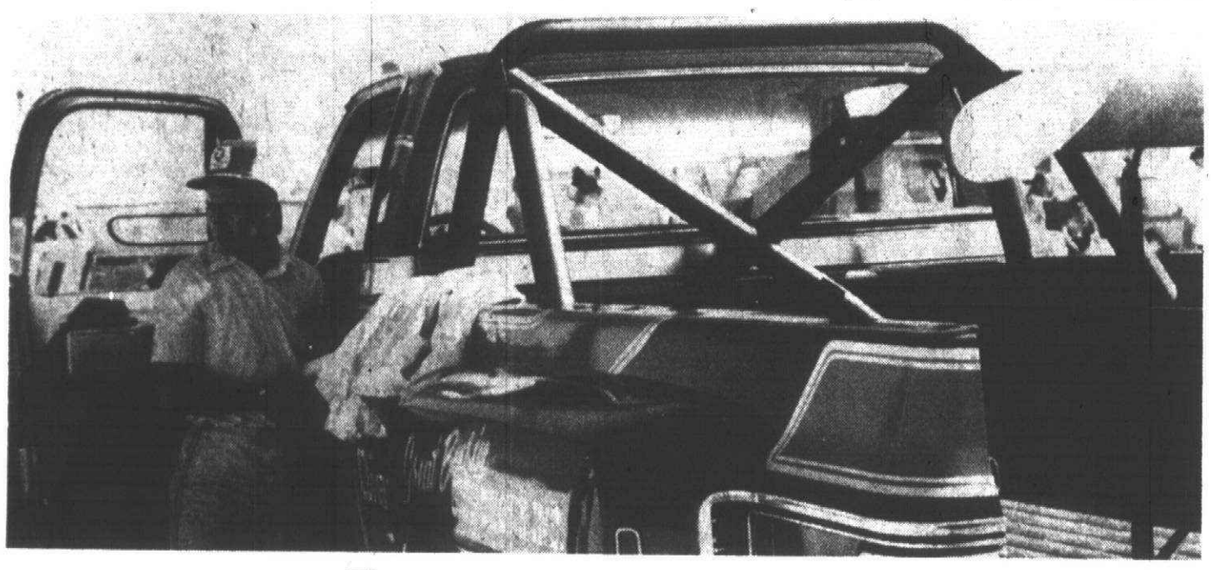
Along with a host of other technical advancements and advantages, the new 4,000 watt laser will allow manufacturers to weld or cut thicker metals and do it faster than has been previously possible.

"For instance," said Frederick, "our new model has capabilities for large-scale cutting of aluminum up to a quarter inch thick at 40 inches per minute, and steel to five-eights inch thick at 45 inches per minute."

The company, which ended its fiscal year with record-high sales of $4.5 million, is most optimistic about the future.

"There is no other company in the United States," said Sprentall, "which can offer a customer such well defined technology. We offer research for application in industry, manufacture of a superior piece of equipment, and offer field service which spells security to the corporation who has purchased the equipment.

"There is no telling now where lasers may turn up. They can be found in surgical suites, cutting men's suits for the textile industry, tooling for the automotive industry or just about anywhere. This is the year of the laser."



Fastest truck in town

Pete Schmidt's pickup is more than just another pretty truck. It's the world's fastest diesel-powered truck — powered by a turbocharged Detroit Diesel engine, a V-6 to be exact. It went across the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah at a top speed of 132.502 mph. Schmidt's engine has been reworked to the point where it develops 450 horsepower, compared to the 210-horsepower rating of a Detroit production engine. He spent 1½ years preparing the four-wheel-drive vehicle for the Bonneville run.

Market Watch

By JOHN E. VERNIER

The stock market, being the extremely sensitive barometer that it is, has displayed an unusual apparent aloofness toward the several events that have transpired abroad over the past couple of weeks.

Normally, in face of such major events as the collapse of the shah's rule in Iran or the Chinese invasion of Vietnam, the market would have expressed some kind of a noticeable reaction — probably on the negative side.

So far, however, at least up to this writing, the market has shown a bit more strength than weakness during this period.

Could it be that the market had already discounted the events that are now history and considers them of little importance to current stock market strategy?

Or is it a clue that stock prices are already so low that — regardless of how negative the news — they represent values too good to pass up?

REGARDLESS OF THE reason, it has been encouraging to witness the solid demand for stocks that has prevailed.

Behind the scare of the developments — which have been worse to even worse — the daily flow of straight financial news has been somewhat encouraging.

Interest rates have held steady now since the beginning of the year. Federal Reserve Chairman Miller has indicated that the institution will use restraint in its money-managing policies this year and hopes to relieve inflationary pressures without bringing on a recession.

Specific news on individual companies continues to be encouraging. For example, on one day last week three major companies had good news.

Eastman Kodak posted fourth quarter profits of $2.05 per share, up from $1.40 in the same period a year ago. While the actual figures may not strike your eye, that represents a 46 per cent increase against the quarter a year earlier.

And on the same day, DuPont raised its quarterly dividend from $1.25 to $1.50 a share (a 20 percent annual increase), and Sears increased its payout from 28 cents to 32 cents quarterly (a 9 percent annual increase).

ANOTHER BRIGHT spot in the economic indicators has been the continuing strength in the sales of new automobiles.

There was a great deal of skepticism concerning the strong sales that prevailed through the final quarter of 1978. Many analysts thought consumers were rushing to buy cars out of fear that the new models would cost more and that many of the purchases were against those that might otherwise have been made this year.

So far, this has not proved to be true. Auto sales are being maintained at high levels.

So while bad news dominates the headlines, it is well to bear in mind that the stock market — a daily reflection of the nation's economic pulse — has viewed the recent unfolding of events with a surprising degree of passivity.

Could it be that it senses better days once this current turmoil is resolved?

Let's hope so.

O&E promotional trip

Fun in the sun on Mexico tour

Bullfights, mariachi bands, ancient heritage, baroque architecture, the sun of Acapulco.

These are just a few of the features of Mexico which will be available as part of a promotional tour sponsored by Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

The tour, which is being arranged by Hamilton, Miller, Hudson and Fayne Travel Corp. of Southfield, will depart Thursday, May 24, and return Saturday, June 2.

The cost is $599 per person (based on double occupancy rates) and a place can be assured by a $100 deposit.

Color brochures on the tour are available by writing to Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

Features of the trip include:

- Round-trip jet via regularly scheduled American Airlines flights.
- Complimentary meals and beverages en route.
- Three nights' accommodations at the Camino Real in Mexico City.
- One night accommodations at the Dela Borda, Taxco.
- Five nights' accommodations at the Acapulco Princess, Acapulco.
- Tours, parties, harbor cruises, inter-city transportation via coach, all tips and gratuities.

Some common errors

You may pay more than necessary

(This is the fourth in a series of articles prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants offering advice on filing 1978 income tax returns)

Rather than try to cover all possibilities for reducing your tax bill, let's zero in on the common errors that cause people to pay more (or less) taxes than they owe.

One widely ignored source of deductions is business expenses. People who work for others tend to assume that such deductions are just for those who own companies, but there are a lot of small tradesmen, and even employees, who incur deductible job-related expenses such as union dues or the cost of tools, special work clothes, etc.

Even the investment credit available to self-employed individuals, such as the photographer who bought a new camera or the plumber who bought a new truck. It can be good for up to 10 percent of the purchase price.

Also frequently overlooked are the costs of trying to find a new job, especially when those efforts fail to materialize in a new position.

EASY TO LET SLIP by are the deductions for unreimbursed moving expenses when a change of residences, although made primarily for reasons of personal preference, also aqualifies as a move prompted by a change of job locations.

Any time a change of living quarters coincides with a change of job sites, look into the possibility of deducting moving expenses.

On the other hand, a business expense deduction that is frequently claimed, but shouldn't be, is the office in the home. For an employee with an office elsewhere, such a claim is almost certain to be denied.

Similarly, job training or professional education costs cannot be deducted if the courses prepare you for a new or better position; they're deductible only if they improve your skills for your present job.

Other common tax preparation errors include:

- Failing to deduct small interest charges paid on charge accounts, credit cards, etc., which can add up to a substantial amount.
- Failing to deduct interest previously reported as income, which you later forfeited because of a premature withdrawal from your account.
- Declaring as income so-called "dividends" on insurance policies, which are, in effect, refunds of premiums.
- Failing to deduct state and local taxes applicable to prior years which were paid during the current tax year. Conversely, failing to declare as income state and local tax refunds from previous years if such were taken previously as deductions.
- Including drivers' or auto license fees or taxes paid on alcohol or tobacco among deductible state and local taxes.
- Neglecting to claim an exemption for a child over 19 in the year the youngster finishes school, even though he was in school for five months of the year and the taxpayer parent provided more than half of his support.
- For persons who held two or more jobs during the year, failing to claim the refund of excess Social Security taxes withheld.

YOU CAN AVOID problems if you remember that when filing your return it is not necessary, as a rule, to include receipts to verify your deductions.

If you do wish to attach receipts or other supporting documentation, send a photocopy and keep the originals with your permanent records.

Should you send such documentation at all?

Although it is not asked for, it could be a good idea sometimes. In the case of claims that are out of the ordinary — contributions way in excess of the average for your income bracket, for example — sending along proof could answer IRS's questions in advance and head off an audit.

But send no originals.

Regarding "average" deductions, there is a common tendency not to claim a full deduction, although it's valid, because it is higher than usual.

There is no magic to the published "averages." They cannot be claimed in lieu of actual expenses. Nor does the fact that your deductions coincide with the "average" mean that an audit is averted.

THE SADDEST common error — saddest because it cheats people who can least afford it — has been the failure of parents with incomes under $8,000 to take the earned income credit which can put up to $400 in their pockets.

IRS is attempting to overcome this "error" by so rewriting the tax forms that if a taxpayer qualifies he will receive the credit without having to apply for it.

Finally, there are the petty mistakes caused by carelessness that can cause your return to be bounced back, thus delaying any refund you may have coming.

Under this heading are failing to sign the return (both names on a joint return), making mistakes in arithmetic, using the wrong tables and mailing the return at the last minute without getting proof that you beat the deadline.

From a tax advisor's point of view, a regrettable error is the failure by some taxpayers to dig through their records for the year to learn exactly how much they received and spent and for what, on the assumption that whoever prepares their returns can do the best job for them without this essential information.

They can't.

Visit Mexico! Your hometown newspaper is offering a glorious tour of the land of tropical valleys, towering mountains, jet-set discos, and dazzling Pacific beaches.

You'll discover the drama of the bullfight, the pace of Jai-lai, the merriment of mariachis and fiestas. You'll experience the heritage of Old Spain with its splashing fountains, narrow winding streets and bustling marketplaces.

In colonial Taxco you'll find a maze of interesting little shoppes, tiled patios, cobbled streets, and baroque churches. Acaplulco's clear blue skies, golden sunshine, fantastic stretches of shining sand and turquoise waters will surely captivate you.

The Movies

LOUISE SNIDER

Ellen Burstyn and Alan Alda play lovers who meet every year for 26 years.

Love finds a way out-of-the-way at couple's retreat

Briefly, the story of "Same Time, Next Year" (PG) is this.

Two married people meet while each is dining alone at a Mendocino inn.

George, an accountant from New Jersey, is on his annual California visit to do his friend's books. Doris, a young Catholic housewife from Oakland, is bound for her annual retreat.

She "retreats" each year rather than visit her mother-in-law. They bed down together, fall in love, and thereafter meet each year at the same inn.

Ellen Burstyn, recreating her role in Bernard Slade's stageplay and Alan Alda are the devoted lovers. Burstyn is radiant in each of the film's six scenes. She changes from a naive girl to a glamorous woman, to a pregnant housewife, to an assertive hippie, to a successful businesswoman, to a graceful grandmother.

Alda's role doesn't give him as much latitude, and his early scenes have an abrasive edge to them. His frenetic behavior as the guilt-ridden husband becomes grating. In later scenes, he seems closer to the character of George and less a carryover from his television personality.

BOTH PRINCIPALS possess so much warmth and charm they easily dispel any moral qualms a viewer might have. One not only becomes intimately acquainted with Doris and George, with their anxieties, disappointments and hopes, but with their "off-stage" spouses as well.

Perhaps this is why the two of them become so dear to us. In their extramarital affair, author Slade makes a case for marriage. The relationship of Doris and George is durable for the same reason that their marriages are durable. Both are bound by shared experiences that become the foundation of shared memories.

Also, in the various changes and encounters, we can each exploit or rationalize fantasies of our own; yet, their loyalty to their spouses cloaks Doris and George in conventional middle-class morality. It's a case of having your cake and eating it too.

Between their meetings, a photo montage (the work of Chuck Braverman and Ken Rudolph) captures the changing aspects and values of American life. The romance is bracketed in a pop culture condensation of social history.

"Same Time, Next Year" is a talky film that reminds us of its origin as a play. For the same reasons, it is distinguished from many other movies because it gives two fine actors the proper tools to work with — crisp dialogue and heightened language.

Hilberry hosts English comedy

The Detroit premiere of "The Sea," by contemporary English dramatist Edward Bond, will be on stage at Wayne State University's Hilberry Studio Theater this Thursday-Saturday and next Wednesday-Saturday. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. "The Sea" is a comedy set in Edwardian England. A mad draper mistakes two men, whose boat has capsized during a storm, as invaders from outer space. Leading the cast are Sandra Prappas (standing), Kathryn Paraventi and Phillip Moss. For reservations, call the Hilberry box office, Cass at Hancock, at 577-2972.

Museum tours are available

You don't need a fine arts degree to enjoy Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum, thanks to museum docents.

The trained volunteer guides conduct tours of the contemporary art museum to groups of at least 10 persons by advance appointment.

The tours, offered at 10 a.m., 1 p.m. or by special arrangement, are free with group rates of 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for students. Senior citizens or handicapped persons aren't charged admission or tour fee.

Current museum shows include "Prints by Peter Milton" and "Brook Alexander: A Decade of Print Publishing." These are in addition to the permanent exhibition of pieces from the Cranbrook collection.

For more information about group tours, call 645-3312.

Cranbrook Academy of Art, with its museum, is located at 500 Lone Pine Rd. in Bloomfield Hills.

Guild gives casting call for adult stage comedy

The Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford will hold open auditions next week for "Habeas Corpus," a two-act play by Alan Bennett.

The comedy is about the adventures of a family with others like themselves, who have as their main purpose in life the pleasures of the body. The cast includes five women and six men, all adults.

Auditions will be held 2 p.m. Sunday, March 4, and 7:30 p.m. Monday, March 5, at the Guild's playhouse, 15138 Beech Daly, just south of Five Mile Road in Redford.

For more information, call 422-4766.

The Bottom Line

A break on home sales

By RONALD G. LOISELLE

By RONALD LOISELLE

Taxpayers contemplating sales of capital assets, such as stock or real estate, will be pleased to learn that the new tax law has increased benefits allowed for capital gains.

The new rules, which apply to sales occurring on or after Nov. 1, 1978, allow individuals to include only 40 percent of the gain in their taxable income, instead of the 50 percent required by the old law.

This benefit applies to payments received on prior years' installment sales as well as to new sales. If you have made installment sales collections in 1978 be sure to provide the breakdown of principle received before and after Nov. 1, 1978. This will ensure that you pay the lowest allowable tax on your capital gains.

Older homeowners can now look forward to completely escaping taxation on up to $100,000 of profits realized on the sale of their principal residence.

This provision is applicable only if the homeowner is at least 55 years of age and has owned and occupied the home for three of the five years prior to the sale. For married homeowners, only one spouse need to be more than 55 to take advantage of this election.

This new law applies to sales of homes after July 26, 1978, so taxpayers who sold their homes at the of 1978 are eligible for this tax break.

This election is allowed only once in a lifetime. However, if each of two spouses has made the election independently on a house owned prior to marrying, there is no recapture on the sale of either residence.

The new law also permits the current 18-month "rollover" provision, which defers taxation on the sale of a principle residence, to be used more than once in an 18-month time period, when the owners are relocated because of job transfers.

IN A RECENT revenue ruling, Internal Revenue Service indicated that in certain cases taxpayers may be eligible for earned income credit even if they have no earned income.

The ruling is retroactive to 1975, so some taxpayers will be eligible for a refund upon filing an amended return.

In general, eligible taxpayers are those who had a net loss from business or farming but elected the optional method of computing self-employment tax.

Under the optional method, the taxpayer can elect to estab lish Social Security earnings by paying self-employment tax on two-thirds of gross income (instead of net) up to $1,600.

For Social Security purposes this amount is considered as earned income. However, it was unclear whether the taxpayer also could use this amount to claim earned income credit.

Congress established the earned income credit to reduce the Social Security "bite" for lower income workers who maintain a home for their child.

For 1975 through 1978 the credit was 10 percent of earned income up to $4,000. Of income was more than $4,000, the credit was $400 minus 10 percent of the excess over $4,000; thus, the credit was eliminated if income was more than $8,000.

Earned income credit is refundable to the taxpayer. For example, if total tax liability is $100 and earned income credit is $400, the taxpayer will receive a check from IRS for $300 after the tax return is filed.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS
CITY OF PLYMOUTH,
MICHIGAN

At a meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals to be held in the Commission Chamber of the City Hall on Thursday, March 1, 1979, at 7:30 P.M., a public hearing will be held to consider the following:

APPEAL CASE NO. 79-2 - SHARON ARMBRUSTER, 290 S. Main Street, Plymouth, Michigan 48170, requesting permission to erect a 4 ft. x 18 ft. (72 sq. ft.) wall sign at above address, located in a B-2 (Central Business District) zoning, which is in conflict with Section 5.202(1) - B-1, B-2, B-3 and P-1 Districts - of Article XV, Chapter 52, Zoning, of the Plymouth City Code.

Section 5.202(1) provides, in part: "No wall sign shall project beyond or overhang the wall by more than one (1) foot and shall not be placed on or project above the highest point of the roof or parapet. In the case of building(s) containing more than one (1) tenant the individual wall signs shall not exceed ten (10) square feet..."

All interested parties will be given an ample opportunity to participate in the hearing and, at the close of said hearing, all comments and suggestions of those citizens participating will be considered by the Zoning Board of Appeals prior to rendering its decision.

Harpist guest soloist in Sunday's concert

Guest artist will Maria Royce, harpist, when the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra presents its fifth concert of the 1978-79 season. The concert will begin at 4 p.m. Sunday, March 4, in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium, Joy Road west of Canton Center.

The 19-year-old guest soloist began her study of the harp when she was 8. Her first harp was a small one without pedals. It was a gift from her grandmother, who had purchased it to satisfy a lifelong yearning of her own to play harp. Miss Royce also cherishes a small Irish harp given to her by Suzanne Collins Litcher, her first teacher.

When she performs Sunday with the Plymouth Symphony, it will be with her own large harp, with pedals, made by Lyon and Healey. It was purchased from a Kalamazoo resident who became too ill to play. Miss Royce said it is a fine harp. "If you ordered a new one, it would take five years for delivery."

THE CONCERT will open with the orchestra and harpist combining talents in Handel's Concerto for Harp and Orchestra.

This will be followed by the orchestra performing Symphony No. 1 in E. Minor by Sibelius. The harpist will return after intermission to play Debussey's "Danses Sacre and Profane."

Conductor Wayne Dunlap has chosen Hindemuth's "Symphonic Metamorphosis on Themes of Carl Maria Von Weber" for the finale.

Miss Royce, after beginning her study of the harp in Grand Rapids, attended the National Music Camp at Interlochen for the next six summers as a student of Clementine White. She received her high school education at the Interlochen Arts Academy.

As a student of Elisa Dicken, she graduated with the academy's Young Artist Award. She was the recipient of the National Federation of Music Club's biennial student award in harp in 1977.

SHE HAS performed as soloist with the Grand Rapids Youth Symphony, Michigan Youth Symphony and the World Youth Symphony, as well as three consecutive years with the Interlochen Arts Academy Orchestra. She now is a second-year student at the Cleveland Institute of Music where her teacher is Alice Chalifoux.

One of the young artist's most exciting moments was earlier this month. She heard the world's foremost harpist play a new concerto for harp and orchestra. It was commissioned for her by her parents and dedicated to her by composer Carlos Surinach.

Nicanor Zabaleto was solist in the world premiere of Surinch's concerto for harp and orchestra with the Grand Rapids Symphony's Philharmonic Orchestra. Maria Royce played with the orchestra after studying the concerto for six months with Max Bragado-Darman, a Spanish conductor at the Cleveland Institute.

Her parents, Charles and Stella Royce, commissioned the concerto in honor of Maria's graduation from the Interlochen Arts Academy.

TICKETS FOR Sunday's concert may be purchased in advance at Beitner Jewelry, Plymouth Book World, Heide's Flowers, Audette Office Supply and Arnoldt Williams Music. They also will be available at the door the day of the concert. Admission is $3.50 for adults; $1.75 for senior citizens; and students kindergarten through grade 12, free.

Persons with family membership to the Symphony Society will be admitted with their regular tickets.

Members of the Plymouth Symphony League will serve coffee in the lobby at intermission. Senior citizens needing transportation to the concert can ride in the van which leaves Tonquish Creek Manor at 3:15 p.m. The van will be there for pickup after the concert.

Babysitting is available for preschoolers during the concert.

Harpist Maria Royce of Grand Rapids will be guest solist with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra Sunday afternoon.

Victorian house beside the library on Main Street.

There are others. Two years ago Norma Cassady's and Joann Hulce's home were named. Last year it was the McNamara's house on Penniman Avenue and the Cash house on Ann Arbor Trail.

THE HERITAGE committee does months of research before the buildings are selected. This year they have run into a snag. They need a date for the old Penniman-Allen house on Penniman at Church. It now belongs to Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish.

It is one of the most imposing and elegant of Plymouth's older homes but when was it built?

The six-member committee is chaired by Carol Packard. Working with her are Susan Schrader, Liz Gribble, Nancy Mathers, Mary Kehoe and Mrs. Keough.

The have covered every avenue of inquiry they can think of. Carol has an excellent source right in her own family. Her husband Gregg's Grandmother Zaida Burrows is about 95. She remembers walking past the house when she was a little girl. But she doesn't know when it was built.

Father Kenneth McKinnon of OLGC can find no record or date. The women have consulted with the Archdiocese of Detroit which has the title to the property. They cannot find the abstract which may have the information.

THE COMMITTEE members have talked to Sam Hudson, historian, columnist, and author of two books about the history of Plymouth. Sam couldn't come up with a date.

Donna Keough said they asked Jack Wilcox for help. He is a third or fourth generation native of the of the community but could not pin it down.

"I talked to Norma Cassady," said Mrs. Keough. "It was a delightfully informative conversation about the history of Plymouth and changing of the name of Sutton Street to Penniman Avenue. But, again, we do not have a definite date."

So they are sending out a call for help from the community. Anyone who has information about the approximate year the Penniman-Allen house was built can call Mrs. Keough, 455-2548. Heritage Day is not all that far away and they have to get those plaques engraved.

SOME THINGS do go full circle. Jim and Doris Sponseller moved to Rochester from Plymouth about 17 years ago. Jim was editor of the Plymouth Mail and had a similar job on a Rochester paper.

Now their oldest daughter, with a brand new degree in journalism, is coming back to the area. She begins working as a reporter this week for Bill Sliger at the Northville Record. Bill is another former editor of The Mail.

Doris was in town to speak about developmental discipline. She stayed overnight with Mary Fritz, director of the PLUS and headstart programs for the Plymouth Canton Community Schools. Dr. Sponseller was leaving the next day to lecture at a seminar in Virginia.

Jim has been away from newspapering for about 12 years when he joined General Motors. He still uses his writing talents, editing house organs, doing public relations work and writing speeches for GM executives. His reason for leaving the Rochester paper was interesting--especially to a fellow journalist. Doris said Jim's blood pressure was high and his doctor suggested he find less hectic employment.

FLORENCE BEIER was snowed in in New York and did not make it back for last Monday evening's boundary and growth committee workshop meeting. Florence said that with 15 inches of snow in downtown Manhattan, people were skiing down the streets.

Mike Hoben did not get snowed in in New Orleans. But a good many easterners attending the American Association of School Administrators convention were marooned in the Mardi Gras city.

Florence is administrative assistant for community relations for the Plymouth Canton schools and Hoben is schools superintendent.

Consider: What kind of a person do you want your child to be?

What about sibling rivalries? How do you handle jealousy among your children?

"The old suggestion that you tell a child, 'Darling, we loved you so much we decided to have another baby,' doesn't work any more than your husband saying 'Darling, I love you so much I decided to get another wife.' "

The speaker was Dr. Doris Sponseller, associate dean of education and professor of early childhood at Oakland University. The young mothers in her audience at Field Elementary School had come to hear her discuss developmental disciplines for children. They also had prepared in advance a listing of their major concerns — questions that needed answers.

Dr. Sponseller said it was perfectly normal for a child to want to be the only one in a parent's life.

HER SUGGESTIONS were: "Let them all know you're there when they need you. There must be a sharing of time. Try to create positive trust and respect in the family.

"There will be times when they think it wasn't fair. Try to meet all the needs but don't treat your family as a 'set.' Treat them as individuals."

The speaker recalled the times when her three daughters were youngsters that there was a temptation to dress them alike and present them as a matched set.

"Treat them as individuals," she said. "They don't all have to wear slacks, or dresses. Let one wear slacks if she wants to and another wear a dress."

She said there were four distinct schools of thought on child raising. There is a completely authoritarian method which seems to be based on the premise that all children are bad and it is the parents' duty to get the bad out of them.

There are those who believe the first step is to discover what is motivating the child and go on from there. The third is communication between child and parent. Each tells the other just how they feel about a situation and through the understanding, a compromise is reached.

The fourth method takes for granted that children are primarily good. They will discover natural consequences of acts and learn self-control as a result.

DR. SPONSELLER believes all four have certain benefits at various stages of development.

She reminded the parents that children arrive in a world with no previous experience or preparation. They don't know whom they can trust or relate to. They hope for acceptance rather than rejection.

Discipline problems arise when the child is testing. He doesn't know the rules and sometimes he tries to control his world. The parent provides structure and discipline to make the child at home in his environment.

She suggested the parents settle on long-term goals.

"What kind of person do you want your child to be?"

Independence may be a problem in younger children. But it is a good trait in the long range scheme of things. "Do we want an adult who can never make a decision, who depends on others to make up his minds?

"A totally obedient person does not function well in a democracy as opposed to an authoritarian state. Allow them to grow into the kinds of adults we'd like them to be. You want them to be courteous and condiderate of others. Set that example. Self discipline is important."

SHE CAUTIONED parents to look at behavior in context. Do problems occur at a certain time of the day? Perhaps the child is hungry or tired.

Does the child "misbehave" in the presence of a certain other child — or in a certain environment?

Plan certain strategies and evaluate results on a short-term as well as a long-term basis. Perhaps another strategy is needed. "And act out of the child's needs, not the parent's."

What happens if opinions of discipline vary?

"Children learn early that different adults have different standards of behavior," said Dr. Sponseller. "Dad, mother, grandma and teacher have different expectations. Problems come when adults get into a power struggle.

"Adults in conflict is a hard and scary situation for a child. Discuss the difference of opinion and come to terms when the child is not present."

"WHAT DO YOU about lying?" was one of the questions.

"Sometimes a child will tell a make-believe story. Sometimes it's like wishing will make it so," was the response. "Don't accept it as the truth. Say, 'That's a pretend story. Now what really happened?' "

She said the child who lies has decided the consequences for committing a bad act would be worse than the consequences for lying. It is up to the parent to convey the message that truth is most important.

"Retribution rather than punishment," the speaker stressed. "What can you do to restore that? How can you make amends? Look for a way to get back in good graces, to repay. The child is less likely to lie if there is a way out.

"And parents shouldn't tell white lies," she warned. She added that if a nine-year-old or older continues to exaggerate and make things "bigger than life" there is a reason.

"Look behind this. The child usually has a very poor self-concept."

SASSINESS was one of the problems presented by a parent.

"The child often replies in kind," said Dr. Sponseller, implying that the child mimicked the parent's tone of voice.

Confrontations in public could be the result of a different set of rules for behavior at home and in public. She suggested that when a child howls for something in a supermarket, "Stick to your guns." Don't give in for the sake of peace and quiet.

WHAT ABOUT visits to the doctor or dentist?

"Prepare your child for these experiences. And do choose a doctor or a dentist wisely. There are pediatricians who rush children through, talk over their heads, give them shots and rush them out of there. There also are pediatricians who really like children. They take their time, talk to them. Shop for a doctor and a dentist."

WHAT ABOUT picking up toys?

The response, "Toddlers love to pick up toys" resulted in some disagreement from the audience.

"Toddlers like to pick up toys, but they and children of all ages don't like to do it alone. They enjoy the do-it-together approach."

She cautioned that parents should not allow the toys to pile up until straightening up seems a insurrmountable task.

ONE QUESTIONER asked for a definition of agressive as opposed to assertive behavior.

"Agressiveness becomes a vicious circle. Other kids don't want to play with the child. As they begin to avoid him he becomes more aggressive. Studies show aggression is rewarded in the nursery school. A child grabs, gets, and keeps."

She warned that aggressive behavior sometimes is encouraged and condoned by parents.

CHOICES WAS another subject suggested by a parent.

"They are important," agreed Doris Sponseller. "Structure choices gradually over a long period of time. Start early with innocuous choices like a red or blue cup, a green or blue shirt. Don't set up choices with bad consequences.

"The child has to learn how to accept the consequences of choices and they have to make mistakes. By the time they are teens the patterns have been formed. Teenagers should automatically study and review consequences before making choices.

"And it is perfectly appropriate for a younger child to ask a parent to decide.

SEX CURIOSITY was a suggested topic for discussion. The meeting was running overtime and many of the mothers wanted to talk privately with Dr. Sponseller. As a result the sex curiosity discussion was curtailed.

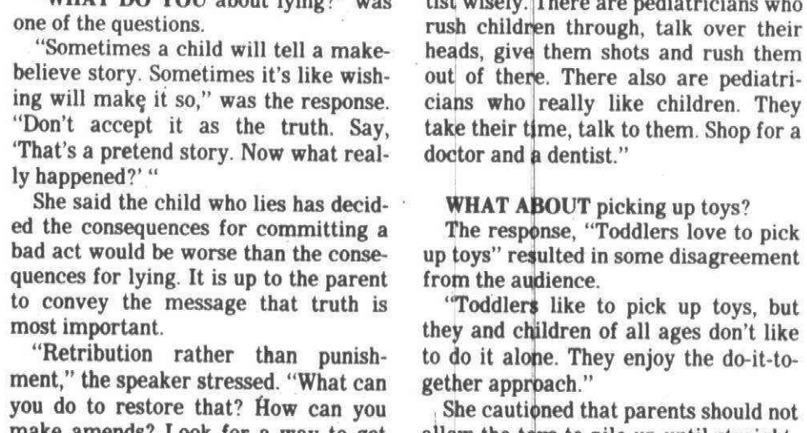
"I believe the children's curiosity should be satisfied in a natural way. They should be able to see new babies. I'm not sold on the idea that children should see adults."

What do you do when they are playing doctor?

"Handle it matter-of-factly and redirect play," was the answer. She added that day care supervisors had reported recently that in model life experiences children were imitating the sex act.

"We used to think how nice' when they imitated mother washing the dishes. The children are just acting out what they have seen at home."

The talk was sponsored by the Title I PLUS preschool and head start programs in the Plymouth Canton Community Schools. PLUS mothers were hostesses for the refreshments served during and after the meeting.



Mary Ebmeyer (from left), Mary Fritz and Sue Bicknell were pleased with the turnout for the lecture on developmental discipline.

Parents had a flock of questions for Sponseller (right) after the lecture in Field Elementary School. (Staff photos)

Brey-England

Mrs. Otto Brey of Livonia announces the engagement of her daughter, Lisa Kim, to G. Patrick England, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene England of Plymouth.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Churchill High School and a senior at Eastern Michigan University. Her fiance is a 1978 graduate of Michigan State University, and will attend the Methodist Theological School in Ohio.

The couple plan a July wedding in Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church, Livonia.

Mercy offers health care

Mercy College of Detroit will offer a health care administration and planning major next fall, only the second of its type in Michigan.

The four-year baccalaureate program, which will lead to a bachelor of science degree with a required minor in business administration, is aimed to help relieve the critical need for qualified personnel in the field.

"The public is clamoring for lower medical costs and at the same time is demanding better, more personalized health care," Dr. Norman Cates, Director of the Center for Allied Health Education at Mercy, said.

"The thrust of Mercy's new program is to develop in our student a strong foundation in organization, management, economics, and finance relative to institutions and organizations delivering health care services. This should increase their efficiency and effectiveness, thus helping in reducing the rapid rising rate of costs."

According to Cates, both health care instituitons and community health organizations have a definite need for individuals with management skills to coordinate activities.

Mercy's curriculum is designed to prepare health planners and administrators to be both humanists and astute business individuals. It includes liberal arts, natural, social, and behavorial sciences, and economics and business.

In addition, students taking the new program will have the opportunity to take their required internships at one of the 20 hospitals owned and operated by the Sisters of Mercy Health Corp. Many of the personnel of the hospitals will serve as adjunct professors.

"I don't know of another college in the country with this kind of opportunity locked in," Cates said.

Anyone interested in enrolling in this program can receive further information by calling the admissions office at 531-7820, ext. 285. The college is located at 8200 West Outer Drive, at the Southfield Expressway, in Detroit.

Living as single is seminar topic

When every other lifestyle is held up as a model, single living can often be a frightening or depressing alternative. Learning to handle the anger and jealousy that singles sometimes feel, but often don't recognize, is the subject of a five-week evening course at Henry Ford Community College starting Feb. 27.

"The theme of the non-credit course is 'dealing with ourselves'," said Mary Clark, leader of the single living seminar. Ms. Clark is a doctoral candidate in counseling and has a private practice in addition to serving as a counselor at the college.

"We want people to feel good about themselves and their situations," she added. "We want them to know that whatever feelings or emotions they have (about being single) are healthy."

Anger towards a former spouse is probably the most common reaction of most divorced or widowed single, the leader noted. But particularly difficult and something that needs to be worked out often is the underlying anger of having been deserted after the death of a spouse.

Because the Single Living course is designed to meet the needs of each member of the group as much as possible, it is quite unstructured, she said. Topics may be brought up by group members and self-expression is encouraged.

She defined the primary purpose of the course. It is, in her words, "to get involved with a support group and to have a forum to work out questions and problems — to gain ideas for more creative living as a single person, for whatever reason they are single."

Emphasis will be placed on communications and relationship skills.

The group will meet 7:30-9 p.m. for five consecutive Tuesdays, in Room N-3 of North Hall. For further information on the seminar, call HFCC's Center for New Directions at 271-2750, ext. 329.

Local youths place in Indian contest

Three local youths were among the winners in an annual snowsnake tournament held recently in Highland Township.

In mid-February about 20 youngsters from the Indian Heritage Center of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools participated in the second annual snowsnake tournament at Highland Junior High School.

The tourney was sponsored by Huron Valley, Waterford and Walled Lake Indian Education Title IV Projects, with Huron Valley hosting this year.

There was competition in each grade level, K-12, and an adult division.

MIKE BELLAIRE of Starkweather Elementary came in first in the third grade division with by hurling the snowsnake a distance of 105 feet, five inches.

Mike Howard, also of Starkweather, came in third in the fourth grade division with a throw of 115 feet, 3 inches. Dan Howard, a ninth grader at Plymouth Canton High, came in third in his division with a throw of 148 feet, 8 inches.

Snowsnaking is an old Indian game which originated with the Iroquois nation as a winter pastime.

Snowsnakes are made from hardwood and vary in size from the three-foot modle used by the boys to the six-foot snakes used by the adults.

The snakes are tapered from a large head back to a narrow tail. The head of the snake has lead added to form a point and for balance and weight.

After the snake is sanded smooth, a finish coat is applied to the wood to make it glide over the snow. The finish often is a closely-guarded secret, but various waxes are used to help make the snake slippery.

BEFORE COMPETITION begins, a log is dragged through the snow to form a track in which the snakes can run.

A snow ramp about three-feet high is built at the beginning of the track. The track is packed and smoothed, and in some cases is iced.

Some 26 Title IV Indian education projects were represented at the tourney, some from as far away as Bay City, Port Huron, Jackson, Portage and Kalamazoo.

Of the more than 500 attending, more than 200 students took part in the throwing of snakes.

During the day there was drumming and dancing inside the school to help people warm up and a potluck dinner.

Brown, Carne on committee

Plymouth Mayor Tom Turner appointed Erik Carne and Jerry Brown to the Citizens Committee for United Services last week.

Carne, of 383 Starkweather, a local architect, and Brown, of 1351 Woodland, associated with Metro Sunday News, Inc., were appointed to vacancies created by the resignations of Norbert Battermann and William Silvis.

The committee is comprised of residents of both Plymouth and Plymouth Township studying unification of services, such as police and fire.

Lisa Holk solos Thursday

Plymouth Canton High senior Lisa Holk will be the featured soloist with the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Symphony Band Thursday night in a pre-district concert put on by the instrumental music department.

Holk was recently named by the Plymouth Jaycettes as outstanding teen of the year and has been studying trumpet since 1972. She has also been the head librarian for the six bands at the CEP for three years and a member of the Symphony and Marching bands for four years.

Holk's solo, the Arutunian "Concerto for Trumpet" arranged for band by Ducker, will be accompanied by the CEP Symphony Band under the direction of James R. Griffith.

Other bands performing in the concert will be the CEP Varsity and Concert bands under the direction of Associate Director of Bands Carl Battishill.

The concert program includes pieces that the bands will perform in the Michigan High School Band- and Orchestra Association- sponsored district festival this Saturday.

The Varsity Band will be the first band to perform, playing "His Excellency" march by Fillmore, "Fantasy on American Sailing Songs" by Grundman and "Festivo" by Nelhybel.

"Nobles of the Mystic Shrine" by Sousa, "Variations on a Korean Folk Song" by Chance and "American Variations" will be the numbers played by the Concert Band.

Under Griffith's baton, the Symphony band will open it's portion of the concert with "March" from "Symphonic Metamorphosis of Themes" by Carl Maria von Weber and arranged by Paul Hindemith.

Holk's solo will follow that and in turn will be followed by "Anatolia (A Turkish Rhapsody)" by Paul Creston.

The Symphony Band will conclude the concert with "Diverimento for Band" by Persichetti.

Curtain time is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Salem High auditorium. Admission is free.

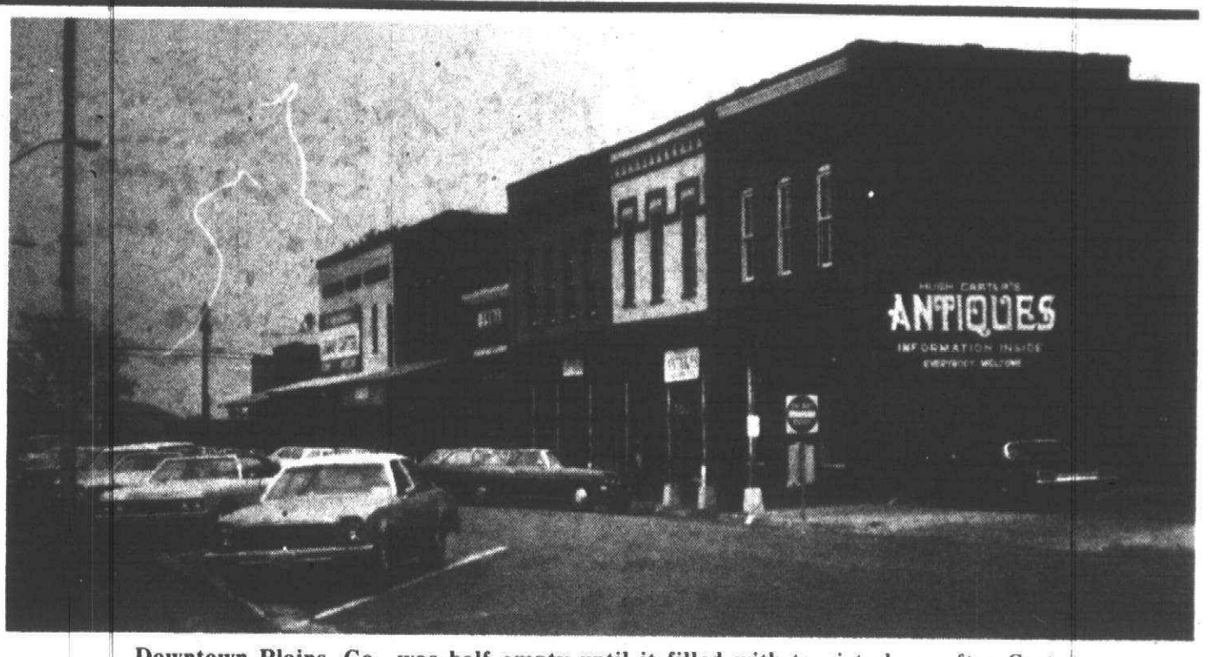
Billy's gas station is everything it's said to be — a little place cluttered with trucks, cars and pop bottles.



Downtown Plains, Ga., was half empty until it filled with tourist shops after Carter election. Tourists inspect every inch of it. (Photos by Iris Sanderson Jones)

The scruffy little town that produced a president

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

PLAINS, Ga.—It is the kind of house your grandmother had in the country, with an atmosphere of blue-jeaned informality and relaxation.

But this wasn't just anybody's grandmother or anybody's house. It was Miss Lillian's, the home of the mother of the President of the United States.

Miss Lillian is just part of the experience of visiting the tiny community of Plains, Ga., on your way down Interstate 75 to Florida.

Meeting famous towns is like meeting famous people, and you are likely to do both if you visit Plains, where Main Street is a movie set and people play their part to the hilt.

Plains is a scruffy-looking little town, but tourists inspect every inch of it eagerly. This is the setting that produced a president.

Railway tracks curve in under the water tower at one end of the main street and run two blocks to the depot which was Jimmy's campaign headquarters at the other end.

On one side of the tracks is a block of 10 stores that was half empty until it filled with tourist shops after Carter's election. Across the tracks is the Plains Men's Club — that's what the local people call Billy Carter's service center.

Billy's gas station is everything it's said to be, a run-down little gas station with a clutter of trucks and cars and coke bottles between the ticket booth that sells tour tickets at the front of the station and the sign that advertises Billy's Beer at the back.

Miss Lillian attended the launching of Billy's Beer because, "I attended the inauguration of one son, so why not another."

There are four tour companies in town, because this village of 700 people had 2,000-3,000 tourists a day; but the rush has slowed, to the delight of some, to the dismay of others.

It's worth taking the tour, because it gives you the story of an American family in the few square blocks of the town.

Our tour leader was Maxine: "I was Jimmy's campaign manager when people were asking, 'Jimmy who?'"

IN A FEW short miles of Plains, you have the same experience you would have touring a historic village, only here the buildings and the streets are still alive.

This is the house where Miss Lillian lived, and then moved from because the tourists mobbed her. Here is the house where Billy and Sybil lived, but they, too, moved because their children couldn't play in the front yard.

Jimmy and Rosylyn once lived in this house, the oldest house in the county. There is the farm where the boys grew up, the school they attended, the church where they were married.

Here is the new schoolhouse Amy attended and the field where Jimmy played baseball with reporters during his campaign. Here, behind a security gate, is where Jimmy Carter lives now, when he's home.

The tour bus takes you down a red clay road and points out the small contemporary house in the pine trees where Miss Lillian lives, but it doesn't usually stop.

Our group had been invited to drive through the gate to the door; Miss Lillian would come and say hello, but we were told to stay in the little tour van.

Soon Miss Lillian came out with Sybil Carter, and the youngest Billy baby. Miss Lillian approached the van door looking exactly like a television replica of herself and said cheerfully: "How y'all."

We were tongue-tied for only a moment while Miss Lillian looked at us through those humorous eyes, under her cap of white hair. Silence. "How are your chickens, Miss Lillian?" I asked lamely.

"The rooster's out in the woods crowing and the hens followed him," she said. "They like the wild food better than what I feed them."

Our cameras were clicking when she unexpectedly said, "Would you all like to come in and see my house?" The tour operators gaped. Miss Lillian likes privacy. Nobody gets asked into her house.

We lucked out and followed her eagerly inside. The television was on in the corner. A clutter of comfortable furniture looked through the plate glass window to the pond. To one side was a tiny kitchen and a small dining el with a formica table.

Above was a loft where five guests could sleep. Miss Lillian lives here alone with only a man who comes in during the day to help her. She is 80.

On a shelf was a memento from Miss Lillian's time in the Peace Corps in India, and in the corner a thriving six-foot-tall plant.

"Did y'all ever have anybody give you something at the airport that was too big to carry aboard?" she asked. "The wife of the President of the Philippines gave me this tree, and I couldn't give it away because she watched me until we got on the plane. I can't imagine how that airplane got it home to Georgia."

"I go fishing sometimes on the lake out there. Somebody sent me a box of worms which I put in the refrigerator. I didn't catch any fish with them, but the next day they were all over the refrigerator and all over the kitchen!"

"You'll probably think I'm terrible when I tell you this, but I have one little drink of bourbon every day."

"What do you do when you go the White House, now that Jimmy doesn't serve liquor there?" somebody asked.

"I always manage," she said, smiling sweetly. "Maybe it's because I bring it with me."

SUDDENLY Miss Lillian turned to me and said, "Did you hear about the day that I made an ass of myself on television?" I shook my head no. In all my fantasies I talk glibly to famous people, but I wasn't doing too well that day.

"Well now, I was on a talk show," she said, "and I was wearing a skirt and my slip showed. You know I never wear skirts any more! Do you?"

"I sat down like this, and it showed even more. So there I was, surrounded by men, trying to tuck my slip up so I wouldn't shame the family, but we couldn't get rid of that slip.

"So I said 'bring me a butcher knife' and I cut the straps off and just pulled it off over my feet. You should have seen their faces! There were two college students standing there saying 'Miss Lillian, would you give me something to auction at college?' so I signed that darn slip and handed it to them."

We were mesmerized. We left the house to wander the yard, past the two-story chicken house, the clothes line pinned with clothes, and the lake shore where Jimmy held his famous fish fries.

As we climbed back into the bus, Maxine came out of the house laughing and Miss Lillian's voice followed her, saying, "Don't you leave any of them behind now."

If you visit Plains, you probably won't be invited into Miss Lillian's house, but you might very well see her in a rocking chair on the platform of the depot, or visiting Billy at his gas station.

You might see Rosylyn's mother, Miss Allee, walking along the street as we did. Even if you only see the town, you will still come away with the feeling of having met somebody famous.

Miss Lillian's contemporary abode, nestled amid the pines of Plains.

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

Follow the pro's advice

The scene is an airline terminal. Two of my friends meet accidentally near the check-in counter. Janet is on the way home from her first business conference. She has just tipped the porter, dragged her two suitcases onto the scale and picked up her hand luggage. She looks whacked out.

Harold comes in from the taxi ramp carrying an in-flight bag. He looks fresh and ready to go to work.

"Hey, Janet. Did you have a good trip?"

He shouldn't have asked. Her plane was delayed, there was a missed connection, the hotel lost her reservation and she was exhausted from dragging suitcases on and off conveyor belts.

"It reminds me of my first business trip 22 years ago," Harold said cheerfully.

"I couldn't get on the breakfast flight so they put me on a later one. I missed my connection. I spent so long getting luggage on and off that I missed half my appointments. Then I spent an hour finding a room because the hotel didn't have my reservation."

By the time Janet had picked his brain, she had a new viewpoint on business trips. Smart people learn from the professionals. Harold is a pro.

He never lets anybody else make his plane reservations. If the airline can't get him on a 7 a.m. flight, they try to put him on a 10 a.m. flight but he balks.

"They naturally want you to fly on their airline," he says. "I'm surprised how many people accept that 10 a.m. flight without squawking. I ask them to tell me what other airlines have flights out before 10 a.m. All they need to do is check the Airlines Official Guide (AOG) on the counter in front of them, and they'll do it cheerfully if you ask."

If Harold misses a connection, he starts making corrections while still aboard the first leg of his journey. Every plane carries an AOG. The stewardess tells him when the next available flight goes to his destination. He is at the airline counter minutes after landing.

What about picking up his luggage? He doesn't do that anymore, not on brief business trips. He carries an in-flight bag that holds one suit and a few necessities. He stores it under his plane seat. When the plane lands he has luggage in hand, ready to go.

If a hotel loses his reservation he no longer picks up his bag and goes elsewhere.

"First of all, I make the reservation through American Express or some other national telex service. If I make it far enough in advance I get written confirmation.

"And, if I still have a problem, I stand my ground and become insistent. It is a matter of how you handle yourself personally there at the hotel desk."

Travelling is a learned skill.

Olds Starfire is aflame

Firenza blazes in '79

Olsmobile's standard Starfire is a three-door sport coupe with a 2.5-liter four-cylinder engine and looking like the top two photos. It is available with a GT package with body and hood striping, rally wheels, raised white lettered tires and an instrument panel that includes tachometer, clock and coolant gauge. But a special option is the Starfire Firenza. It includes a special front spoiler, flared front and rear wheel openings, sport mirrors, wide oval tires, rally wheels and suspension. But most noticeable about the Firenza is the paint scheme (bottom).
