Protesters pack boundary hearing

By EMORY DANIELS

The tennis ball now is on the school board's side of the court for what likely will be the final return on March 12.

Almost 300 persons packed the Little Theater of Plymouth Canton High for the public hearing Monday night on proposed boundary changes.

And for two and a half hours residents bounced their views and petitions towards the school board arguing against proposals from the boundary and growth committee.

Tom Yack, board president, reported after the hearing that trustees will gather in a work study meeting sometime this week to give further instructions to the boundary committee.

At the regular meeting March 12 the school board will be given revised proposals and could make a final decision.

Yack stressed, however, that March 12 is only a tentative decision date. If major changes are forthcoming, he added, than public reaction again will be sought and the final decision would be delayed.

THE MAJORITY of the audience Monday was from Canton Township — primarily from the Hulsing, Field and Eriksson elementary attendance areas.

The common concern expressed was to either eliminate or minimize the shifting of students from school to school to accommodate population growth.

Many of the Canton residents expressed a willingness to support a proposal for additional taxes if it would result in stability of school attendance areas.

Those supporting higher taxes for stability expressed chagrin that Plymouth residents in the past have voted against new millage, and suggested if Plymouth students were moved as often as Canton students are than millage proposals would pass.

Many in the audience argued for retention of the Extended School Year (ESY) at Pioneer Middle School with some asking that ESY be expanded to all middle schools in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

There were some, though, who supported the boundary committee's recommendation to drop ESY at Pioneer.

JO WALLACE representing the Hulsing attendance area was the first to step up to the microphone to address the board.

She asked that children be drawn from consecutive subdivisions to avoid long bus rides and asked that Miller Elementary be included in the adjustments.

Mrs. Wallace also asked that the Hulsing grade level be extended to include sixth grade to relieve Pioneer's overcrowding. The parents she spoke for also objected to spliting Windsor Park and Mayfair subdivisions, feeling Morton Taylor extended was an illogical dividing line.

She also objected to proposed "double-shifting" of middle students by taking Hulsing students out of Pioneer and sending them to East or West middle schools and moving some West students into Pioneer.

Mrs. Wallace added that many students in Hulsing area have switched schools four to five times, and efforts should be made to move students in areas which never have been changed. She asked that present students be allowed to attend Pioneer with new students moving in than being sent to West with West going on ESY as it reached capacity.

She pointed out that families at both Miller and Gallimore have consistent schedules with their middle schools, and Hulsing parents should have the same consistency in schedules between elementary and middle school.

"It is not the school board, or even those of us who are parents who are paying the price of short-sighted and haphazard planning. It is the children who have suffered in the past."

CHARLENE CRUZ then spoke as representative of Brookside Village in the Field attendance area and presented the board with petitions signed by 250.

The subdivision, she pointed out, is one mile from the school — five minutes by car and 25 minutes by school bus. From the front of Brookside, she noted, it is 6.5 miles to Fiegel Elementary where children would be transferred under the proposal, for an 18-minute ride by car.

Mrs. Cruz said home buyers were promised their children would attend Field, and that 90 percent of parents surveyed indicated they purchased in Brookside because Field was nearby.

"We feel that moving the children from school to school can cause insecurities in the children and be a traumatic experience. Most people do not move every few years so as not to uproot their children from a comfortable environment."

She asked if the issue of school boundary changes could be put to a vote on the ballot, and asked whether the district could tax just Canton residents and not Plymouth residents for the additional needed school space.

Mrs. Cruz said she supported use of portable buildings or the Extended School Day (ESD) to gain stability.

"Why not transfer the new subdivision residents to Fiegel and inform the parents before they purchase their homes. Leave the people that were here first and already attending Field at Field."

She also presented a letter from Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert urging the board not to change the boundaries for Field or Eriksson schools.

JOAN CAMPBELL then spoke as representative of Concerned Cantonites Organized For Action (CCOFA), a

Board shelves library vote idea

Canton Trustees like the idea of starting a library in the township, but they don't appear receptive to the idea of holding a special election to pay for one.

The board tabled the Canton Library Committee's request for a special election May 15. At that election, voters would be asked for a maximum of one mill property tax increase to pay for a local library.

Voters overwhelmingly rejected a similar request in the August primary election.

Trustees Eugene Daley and Robert Greenstein, as well as Supervisor Noel Culbert, voted against tabling the request, but the other board members disagreed.

The subject will be brought up again at March 13's board meeting.

Board members expressed reluctance to pay $7,000-$12,000 for a special election solely for the library issue.

Both Culbert and Treasurer James Donahue, however, said they believed the library tax would pass when put to the vote.

According to Larry McEwen, chairman of the Library Committee, it will be more expensive in the long run if Canton does not have its own library.

"If the voters don't approve a Canton library millage, most of them will continue to use the Plymouth Dunning-Hough Library.

"In 1978, 38.9 percent of the Plymouth library's use was by Canton residents, and the township paid $56,000 to the library during those 12 months," McEwen said.

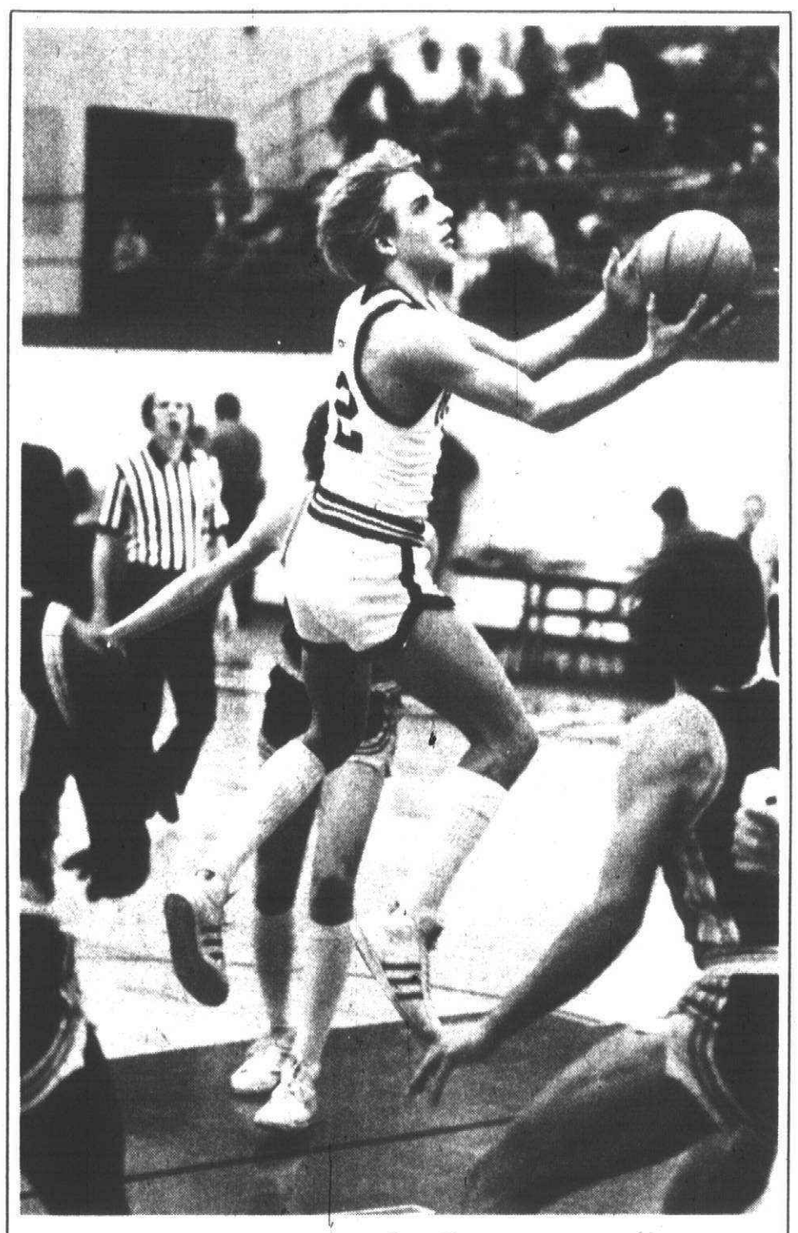
"It is estimated that by 1982, if there is no Canton library, the Plymouth one, which is now at full capacity, will be overcrowded. The situation seems inevitable."

Greenstein said the farmland preservation tax increase request, which lost by a narrow margin in the November election, should get first priority.

Donahue said he would not oppose a library tax increase if it were placed on the ballot with some other question. He wanted to give the board time to see if there were other questions that could go on the same ballot.

The board did not want to put the farmland preservation tax increase on the ballot as early as May 15.

McEwen told the board he didn't want to see the library tax increase on the ballot with any other proposal, but said he is sure the issue will pass once voters understand the cost of using other area libraries.



Lopsided win

Millage try fails by narrow vote

Wayne-Westland school officials are predicting that 200 teachers plus 100 other employees will receive layoff notices by April 1.

That prediction follows voter rejection of a three-mill tax increase in Monday's election. Voters defeated the millage by a vote of 3,482 to 3,340.

Expressing disappointment with the vote, Superintendent Timothy Dyer said, "We'll have to redouble our efforts for understanding. Increasing taxes is unpopular; we recognize that.

"Now we'll have to begin the process of reducing our staff. We have no choice. We have to dismantle an exemplary educational program," he added.

DYER PREDICTED the layoffs could mean that 60 percent of the staffs at most schools would be changed. According to state law, teachers must be given 60 days layoff notice before the end of the school year.

"We're very disappointed in the results," said Robert Kowalczyk, executive director of the Wayne-Westland Education Association.

"We expect the board to do what it said it will do, but we expect more than 200 layoff notices because of special skills and seniority some teachers have. We'll meet with the administration on the contract and how it will take place," he added.

"We followed one teacher through all the theoretical bumping moves that could be made, and we found that 54 positions were affected," Dyer said.

School administrators said the millage proposal would have provided about $2 million in revenue, costing the average taxpayer $45 a year in additional taxes. The cost of a special election like this one is about $7,000.

This was the first request since 1966 for an increase in general operating millage. Board members said the increase was necessary because of the effects of inflation, declining enrollment and slow growth in property values.

The district currently levies 37.65 mills (one mill is equal to $1 for every $1,000 of state equalized valuation) for general operation.

The narrow, 142-vote margin of loss is expected to prompt the school administration and board to make a second request for an increase, probably during the regular June election.

"We'll have a recommendation (to the board) in 30 to 45 days whether to go again with a second request," Dyer said.

Three board seats also will be up for re-election in that balloting.

Before making a definite decision, however, the administration will analyze why the millage was defeated by polling voters. A poll before the election showed that 40 percent approved of the millage request, 14 percent opposed it and the remaining 46 percent were undecided.

"THE SURPRISE of the evening is that the entire undecided vote opposed the millage," Dyer said.

Several board members and Richard Keilhacker, assistant superintendent for business, attributed the loss to pre-

Part-time personnel director approved

Canton Township's Merit Commission has been given the go-ahead to begin the search for a part-time personnel director.

It wasn't exactly what the Merit Commissioners wanted.

Commission member Larry Bowerman told the Canton Township Board Tuesday night that a full-time personnel director was needed because the new commission was "swamped."

Bowerman said the commission had considered a starting salary of $18,000 for the job. He did not believe a part-time position would work because "It would be difficult to get a professional on a part-time basis, and that person would probably want at least a two-year contract as some kind of job security."

Many board members, however, said the workload is high now because the merit commission has only been in existence since November.

Supervisor Noel Culbert said all but one group of township employees — the clerical department — is unionized. Clerical employees will be voting whether to form a union in the near future.

"I envision a time when all employees will be unionized and a personnel director won't be needed," Culbert said.

Bowerman's request for a full-time person got support from Clerk John Flodin and Trustee Lynne Goldsmith.

Flodin said he would insure a personnel director would have plenty of work to do, in spite of some board members' concern that there wouldn't be enough work to merit a fulltime position.

Mrs. Goldsmith said, "If the clerical employees felt the township was looking out for their welfare by having a personnel director, there is a chance they might not vote for a union."

Trustee Eugene Daley also supported the concept of a full-time director.

A motion to allow the Merit Commission to hire a fulltime director failed.

Homeowners want more

Task force succeeds—so far

By CAROLINE PRICE

A task force of home builders and township officials was judged effective in cleaning up a bevy of homeowner complaints during its month of existance.

Homeowners attending a special township board meeting Monday conceded that many of their problems had been solved.

A majority of the homeowners, however, still insisted an ordinance requiring builders to post a cash bond on each house they construct is the only long-term answer.

Board members said they believed the task force has proved to be effective and didn't want to take the drastic step of passing a builder's bond ordinance unless the complaints start to pile up again.

Another special board meeting has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday, April 2, to once again monitor the task force's progress.

Supervisor Noel Culbert promised the homeowners that the board would have a rough draft ordinance on hand that would take in some of the suggestions made to ease the problem with builders, such as a requirement that all builders use a formal checklist that has to be signed by both parties before the closing of a house.

The task force was organized last month after homeowners complained about problems with their new houses.

A NUMBER OF RESIDENTS said at the time that they had exhausted all avenues of complaint. They accused the Canton Building Department of being unresponsive to their problems and said the many letters written to state and local agencies failed to resolve the complaints.

The Township Board at that meeting agreed to form a task force to deal with the list of homeowner complaints and attached a threat to the move.

Builders who attended the meeting were told the board would pass a builders' bond ordinance that could put many of them out of business if the problems weren't cleared up.

At Monday's meeting, Trustee Carol Bodenmiller announced that 35 of the complaints had been dealt with, and another group of newer complaints would be addressed during March.

Mrs. Bodenmiller said she was speaking on behalf of her husband, Jerry, who is a member of the task force but was unable to attend the meeting.

"I'm not saying all the complaints have been finished and completed," Mrs. Bodenmiller said, "but all the ones we had on file have been tackled."

The trustee described a four-step complaint procedure that would be recommended to deal with complaints in the future.

Those steps are to:

- Notify the builder in writing and keep a copy of the letter.
- If not successful, write to notify your extended warranty program, such as Homeowners Warranty (HOW), if you are covered by one.
- Write the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation and request forms to record your complaint. Fill out the forms and mail them to the Canton Building Department, which will forward copies of the complaint to the state regulatory department, the builder and yourself. The building department will also keep a copy.

'To be honest, I'm totally amazed.'
— Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert

According to Culbert, all the complaints outstanding at the time of the first meeting have been taken care of. "To be honest, I'm totally amazed," he said.

Homeowners in the audience were asked to give a show of hands on how many people had been at the first meeting because of house problems. Then they were asked how many had not been contacted about the problems in the following month.

Only two people left their hands up. One of the two said he thought the reason he wasn't contacted was because he was in arbitration over his house problems, which the board confirmed.

But the homeowners said solving their personal problems wasn't enough. "What assurance can you give us that we won't have to gather six months from now for other problems?" asked one homeowner.

ANOTHER HOMEOWNER, Dennis Willard, said his house problems had finally been taken care of by Dembs Builders, but he later got a letter asking him to release the company from "doing any further service in my home — forever."

Willard said he never signed the letter, but the matter had been resolved.

Manny Dembs, who was in the audience, was asked by the board to comment on the letter. Dembs said "the letter was discussed thouroghly at the task force." The builder said there had been "special circumstances" in the Willard case.

Dembs and Starlight were the two companies that residents had complaints about at the special meeting. Other building firms took the heat at the first meeting, but were not mentioned Monday.

A representative from Starlight was not present. Residents asked that the board personally invite builder representatives to the April 2 meeting.

Although complaining homeowners did not confront Dembs personally, several board members had harsh questions for him.

Mrs. Bodenmiller asked why Dembs did not use a formal walk-through list with home buyers. Treasurer Jim Donahue told the builder homeowners should get better treatment from the firm's employees. Trustee Robert Greenstein traded insults with Dembs.

The task force will continue to meet about homeowner's complaints.

Homeowners did not appear as convinced as the board members that the worst problems were over.

As homeowner Tom Sullivan said, "I don't think there's been any discovery of religion by many builders."

LWV examines crisis

Is the energy crunch for real?

(The following information on energy is offered to readers by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi.)

It all began in 1973 — long lines at the fuel pumps, high prices, shortages.

Americans had learned how dependent they were on foreign oil.

Bitter winters caused homeowners and schools to experience heating shortages and fuel bills continued to rise.

Now, six years later, many Americans still are convinced that the energy crisis is a hoax

HOW CAN WE be sure the energy crunch is real?

Some geologists, oil companies, utility companies and such notable reporters as Paul Harvey insist that what we face is a production crisis.

These experts claim the oil and gas are there if only the restrictions are lifted which discourage more exploration and production.

Other geologists, environmentalists and columnists such as Jack Anderson insist that we are running out of both oil and gas.

The real fact is that experts in all fields cannot agree when we will finally run out, but most do agree we will face a worldwide shortage of gas and oil by the year 2000. That's only 20 years from now.

Arguing about exactly when we will run out is like arguing about when winter will come — October? November? What's the difference? We know it's coming.

ONE CHOICE WOULD be to take off the price controls, deregulate oil and gas, explore the remaining field and produce more.

But by doing that we'll just make energy our childrens' problem.

Oil and gas are NON-RENEWABLE resources. (It took millions of years for the fossils in the earth to become oil and natural gas. Unlike wood, we can't grow more).

Our supplies of non-renewable resources are running low.

Decisions we make now about how to use these resources will affect the quality of life 15-50 years from now.

Understanding the energy problem is like putting together a jigsaw — the complete picture is made up of many interlocking parts.

One of the pieces is the United States energy growth rate. Every year we use 3.5 percent more energy than the year before. As a result, we have doubled our energy use very 10 years since World War II.

During this same time we did not expand U.S. oil production that rapidly and needed to buy oil from other countries. We brought more and more and became more and more dependent on foreign oil.

That is significant because 77 percent of our energy needs are supplied by oil and gas, and 50 percent of that oil is imported.

JUST A FEW years ago energy was cheap and abundant, and consumption was encouraged in the very areas in which it now is discouraged.

Consumers were urged to install gas lights in frontyards for aesthetic reasons, gas barbeques in backyards for cooking ease.

Motorists were encouraged to buy 350-horsepower cars for driving comfort, and second cars for convenience.

The moves to the suburbs ate up farmland and the remaining farms were forced to use more labor-saving machines and petroleum- based fertilizers to keep up with the demands of a growing popula tion.

Americans became used to a way of life based on the use of energy-consuming products: Air conditioners; TVs; dishwashers; power lawnmowers.

Because energy was cheap and abundant we became an energy intensive society.

The energy consuming goods now purchased are generally in forms which use up larger amounts of energy than did their 1950 equivalents — everything from disposable graduation gowns to processed foods in throwaway containers.

Than tbe OPEC embargo struck.

Now prices have forced us to shut off gas lights, gas lines to new homes are unavailable in many areas.

Today cars are judged by miles per gallon rather than by horsepower and motorists are encouraged to drive 55 mph to increase fuel economy.

BEFORE LOOKING at others pieces of the puzzle, let's consider how much energy is used by normal appliances in the home.

To compare energy drain, we will be looking at the amount of killowatt hours used in a year. A kilowatt-hour (kwh) is the amount of electrical energy required to operate a 100-watt bulb for 10 hours.

Most homemakers know that the frost-free refrigerator takes more energy to run than the conventional refrigerator. The difference is more than 690 kilowatt hours a year.

Most people also know air conditioning units consume a lot of energy, but they may not be aware that the ordinary water heater consumes more than three times as much power as a room air conditioner.

In fact, only a handful of appliances account for most of the total residential electric use.

The major energy users are the water heater, range/oven, refrigerator, air conditioner, and clothes dryer.

The water heater uses two-thirds more energy over a year's time than a blender, dishwasher, electric fry pan, toaster, iron, washing machine, vacuum cleaner, hairdryer, black and white television, and electric toothbrush combined.

So you needn't discard your electric toothbrush — it uses only one-half of a kilowatt-hour a year and costs less than two cents a year to operate.

Plymouth-Canton OBITUARIES

EUGENE EDISON COUNTS

Services for Mr. Counts, 57, of Canton, were held March 3 at Schrader Funeral Home with The Rev. Willard Martin officiating.

Burial was at White Chapel Cemetery.

Mr. Counts died March 4 in St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. He was an insurance salesman for the Automobile Association of America.

He is survived by his wife, Helena; sons, Terry and Rick of Canton, Mitchell of Plymouth and Kyle of Santa Monica, California; daughters, Diane of Plymouth and Joanne of Berkley, California; sisters, Opal of Clintwood, Virginia, Selma of Troy and Mildred; and two grandchildren.

LAWRENCE MICHAEL JACOBSEN

Services for Mr. Jacobsen, 46, of Detroit, were held March 5 at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church with The Rev. Edward Baldwin officiating. Burial was at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. Arrangements were made by the Scrader Funeral Home of Plymouth.

License bureau ready for plate deadline rush

Mary Heyka figures she will never have to deal with a line of people stretching around the block after this year.

But, as the deadline for getting passenger car license plates approaches, the employees of the Canton Secretary of State office can only keep their fingers crossed and be ready for anything.

Ms. Heyka, manager of the branch at Lily just south of Ford Road, says the last few weeks have been the busiest she's seen since the office opened in October.

Before that, customers tended to be on the sparse side.

"I think people were waiting to see if the SEMTA fee (a extra few dollars charged in Wayne County as part of a mass transportation program) would be removed, or going out-county where they don't have to pay the fee," Ms. Heyka says.

The manager adds that recent legislation will provide a refund of the fee if a court challenge against the fee is successful.

Next, year, she says, the license plate deadline crunch will be over because people will begin renewing their plates on their birthdays rather than by a March 31 deadline.

In the meantime, Ms. Heyka says a new procedure allowing people to order plates and renew their driver's licenses by mail has "helped unbelievably" in easing seasonal crunches.

"It's nice to be able to have that extra time to deal with a customer," she says.

In addition to dispensing plates and licenses, the office handles voter registration, driver tests, title services — and even has state income tax forms on hand.

Most of the driver's tests are given to 16-year-olds fresh from drivers' education. Ms. Heyka says few flunk the test. "Most of them seem to be pretty adept at driving."

She says one of the first tests given at the Canton office was to a man from India. "He got a permit and wanted to practice for a few days although he did have a license in India."

"The day he came in for his test we had three inches of snow on the ground. He had never seen snow before."

The man passed his test, but he took a little practice driving in the snow first.

Ms. Heyka says the license bureau system has improved immensely during the past few years. She credits the change to Secretary of State Richard Austin, who she calls "very effective."

The seven employees of the Canton branch might deal with 384 plates processed, 50 driver's licenses renewed or issued, and a myriad of other functions on a typical day in March.

Ms. Heyka aims for a well-run office — and says the employees have the same philosophy.

The bureau serves Canton, parts of Westland, Plymouth, and anyone else in Michigan who chances to come in.

group from the Eriksson area.

"Children in our area have been changed several times in the past five years. It is The time has come for positive action. It is important for all to work together for the good of all children."

Mrs. Campbell argued that the educational quality at Pioneer has increased dramatically since ESY was implemented, pointing out that in 1978 reading and math scores at Pioneer were the highest in the district at the middle school level."

(CCOFA has presented the board with some 1,000 signa tures on petitions).

MARILYN FINCH of Murray Hill Dr., Pilgrim Hills subdivision in Plymouth Township, argued that a danger in switching schools is that curriculum is not unified from building to building.

She noted that of the 20 students from her area being moved, six are in the Talented and Gifted program (TAG) at Pioneer and other middle schools don't have similar TAG programs.

With impending fuel shortages, argued Mrs. Finch, the district should keep children at schools as close to their home as possible.

"To bus children on Napier Road to Central Middle past two middle schools enroute is not the closest. I don't want to use my two gallons a day driving to Central Middle while passing right by Pioneer and West.

"Middle school students are experiencing emotional and physical changes. Stability is very important to them, not just to the self but to establishing a good learning environment."

JOAN WILSON then spoke as representive of families in the area west of Napier and north of Ann Arbor Road.

"Two years ago our children were moved from West Middle to Central and we were told they could stay at Central because it had room for growth. I feel to move them out of Central now is a bad move."

A mother from the Eriksson area noted that the moving of 152 students to Hulsing could mean the loss of Title I funds which could not be recouped at Hulsing because it wasn't eligible. When Hulsing becomes filled, she added, those 152 students will become easy prey to be moved again.

She estimated that the addition of three portables at Eriksson would solve the problem in that area. Hulsing then could stay on the nine-month schedule and go to a middle school on the same schedule, with Eriksson and Pioneer remaining paired on an ESY plan.

She also objected that the boundary committee took four months to study Alternative A and only one week for Alternative B.

LARRY MARKOWITZ of Kinsbridge Court, Canton, than asked how many members of the boundary committee had children affected by the proposed changes.

A quick polling of those members present indicated that about two-thirds were unaffected.

Gail Aldrich of Gregory Lane, Plymouth Township, commented that three years ago her daughter was moved (over her protest) from Pioneer to West and now the board wants to move her younger daughter from West to Pioneer.

"I understand your problems dealing with growth. But when you've gone through the problems my family has gone through you can't help but get emotional about it. Children do not always adjust as easily to change as you might think."

Janet Campbell then spoke up and suggested the best answer might be use of portable buildings as it would be $4 million cheaper to use portables over 10 years than operate ESY over the same period.

Supt. John M. Hoben noted that the price difference quoted was corrent, but the estimate on portables did not include operational costs while the estimate on ESY did.

Donna Aquino of Pickwick subdivision then commented that her children were moved five times in five years. "There must be an answer somewhere. Our children have been pushed around, even after being told we wouldn't be moved again.

Ernest Bevins, a teacher at Pioneer, then enumerated some of the problems of ESY at the middle school level and noted that a survey taken indicated many teachers feel much the way he does.

Crystal Boyd of Windsor Park also objected to the "double-shifting" among middle schools.

Carl Taylor of the committee explained the "double-shift ing" occurs in Plan B which is to retain ESY at Pioneer. The attempt, he said, was to have all elementary students on ESY feed into Pioneer and East (which would go ESY later) with nine-month elementaries feeding into West and Central which would remain on nine-month schedules.

Mrs. Boyd suggested the dilemma would be solved by putting all middle schools on ESY.

"If you can come up with a concrete plan for putting all middle schools on ESY, and show when, we'll vote for millage. But you won't get millage as long as you keep us in such a turmoil. The Extended School Day is totally unacceptable to me."

Mrs. Boyd added that absenteeism at Pioneer during the summer occurs because families on nine-month and ESY have only two weeks during the year to take a vacation and when that can't be arranged, children are taken out of school.

"Before Hulsing was built, kindergarten students in our subdivision were attending six different schools. These students now coming into middle school have been moved a lot already, and now will be moved again?"

In response to a question, Hoben noted that portables cost $50,000 each and investigation shows a present need for 20 units.

"Our 1977 bond issue for $30 million included a request for 17 portables. We also asked for an elemen tary building which would start out housing K-5 and be large enough to house K-6 later and then be used as a middle school. The request also included a classroom wing at the high school site. But voters turned down that request by a 5-2 margin."

Hoben added there is no bonded money now to spend on portables. He said a recommendation is expected soon from the citizens bond advisory committee which might include use of portables.

Community planning course

Seminar addresses growth control

Editor's note: This is the third in a series on community planning. It was written by Canton Planner Jim Kosteva in conjuction with a planning course held twice a month before planning commission meetings.

An issue that concerns many of Canton's residents is the regulation of growth in the township. This is a large and complex issue that touches on several other issues such as agricultural preservation, fast food restaurants, traffic and roads, industrial development, the tax base and zoning; literally everything from A to Z.

Looking at one of these issues in terms of its effect on growth in the township is a good way to begin to understand the complexities of the problem. Many residents are concerned about the increasing numbers of fast food restaurants in the township. They see these establishments as a symbol of undesireable urban growth. Others in the township enjoy the convenience and the wide choice of restaurants that are available.

There are good arguments on both sides of the issue. People patronize the restaurants so there must be a demand for them, and the taxes that these business will pay are needed by the township.

Arguments against fast food restaurants list the increase in traffic, litter, the lack of aesthetic qualities, and the concentration of restaurants along Ford Road as problems. But, if there is a clear public demand evidenced by large numbers of pizza, tacos, fish, chicken and burgers being sold, should the township try to limit the number of these establishments? Commercial property owners have the same property rights as any one. Can the township limit their rights by not allowing more fast food restaurants? How far can the township go in controlling the use of private property?

The state grants the township the power to regulate land and its use for the protection of the health, safety and welfare of the community. This power is expressed in the zoning ordinance. But power is meaningless or harmful without direction and purpose. Direction is supplied by clear goals for the future.

These are not questions that are simply resolved and there are many sides and many related issues. Goals for Canton's future will achieve clarity only with continued interest and expression of citizens opinions. If you have an opinion about Canton's future on any of the issues raised, please express it. If you want to talk over your views, the seminars are continuing at the Township Hall Monday, March 12 at 7 p.m. Call the planning department at 397-1000 for information.

W-W voters say no to additional millage

cincts in which schools were closed last year.

When the board voted last year to close four elementary schools and a junior high, some parents said they would oppose a future millage proposal.

Four precincts in which schools were closed and students transfered to new elementaries showed the highest number of voters opposing the millage.

Precinct 3 at Edison School voted 252-175 against the millage. In Precinct 21, Stottlemyer voters opposed the millage by a vote of 218-139. Large opposition to the millage also was recorded at Precinct 13 at Madison and precinct 22 at Taft.

A vote of 182-182 was recorded at Hamilton School in Precinct 5.

"Next time we'll win," said Dorothy Murphy, a Westland resident who co-chaired the millage campaign. "The part that's hard is realizing that (in the past) the district has a history of passing millages."

Mrs. Murphy said she would work on a future millage campaign.

"We've got a challenge on our hands," said Board President Fred Warmbier after the vote. "We've got to come up with what's acceptable to the community.

"This is a sign of what's happening not only in the state but nationally. We've got to try again," he added. "We've no other choice."

For county executive

Petition drive launched

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

As part of his ongoing effort to entice reform in Wayne County's defecit-plagued government, Gov. William Millken last week proposed a sweeping list of amendments to the state's County Home Rule Act.

If amended, the law would allow the state to pick up the costs of any special elections and a charter commission. It would provide for an elected county executive and would eliminate nearly every countywide elected official, such as sheriff, clerk, treasurer and drain commissioner. Only an elected county prosecutor would remain.

Meanwhile, a group of suburban leaders is offering a rival plan — a petition drive to put the question of electing a county executive to the voters.

THE WAYNE County Board of Commissioners twice has endorsed — by votes of 20-1 and 14-7 — the idea of a charter commission. The board will consider when to put the question on the ballot.

If a charter question is on the ballot, partisan candidates for charter commission would be nominated at the same election. If the question of calling a charter commission candidates passes, the nominees would face off in an election. Those elected would draw up a charter to be later submitted to the voters.

Milliken earlier dangled more than $6 million in state aid before revenue-starved elected officials. County structural reform was the string attached.

SOME COUNTY officials said Milliken's amendments are designed to make reform and an elected, strong county executive more palatable. By promising to fund the charter process, they said, Milliken hopes to steer the commissioners down the road to a county executive.

Much of the opposition to an elected county executive has come from Detroit commissioners who fear that the city's interests will suffer under the new form of government. But they comprise the faction that has most strongly boosted the county charter proposal.

Commissioners, some said, will support a charter commission, the drafting of new charter and its provisions for an elected county executive. But when the charter is finally put to the voters, they said, Detroiters and special interest groups will work to defeat the charter and its suggested reforms.

Proposed county charters have been twice defeated at the ballot box, the last time in 1968.

EVEN IF a charter is approved, some commissioners predict it will only be with an essentially-powerless county executive. "The charter could be written in such a way so that the county executive would be nothing more than a titular head," said Commissioner William Joyner (D-Plymouth). In an effort to eliminate that risk, Commissioners Joyner, Mary Dumas (R-Livonia) and Alex Pilch (D-Dearborn) are rallying behind a petition drive to place the question of an elected county executive on the ballot along with the question of a charter commission.

They are seeking 66,000 petition signatures by July 4.

"If all those amendments (proposed by Milliken) were to go through in their entirety, then I'd say we might have enough protection so that we would not have to go through with the petition drive," Joyner said.

But commissioners and officials refuse to predict smooth sailing for Milliken's proposed amendments. Some said the amendments, because of the radical changes they would produce in Wayne County, will face heavy opposition from lobbyists and legislators.

Wayne County Commissioner R. William Joyner, D-Plymouth, whose 27th District includes Plymouth and Canton, and Plymouth City Commissioner Beverly McAninch are viewing a sample of petitions aimed at electing a county executive. Joyner and two other commissioners have launched a drive for signatures of 66,000 voters to put the question on the next countywide ballot. Mrs. McAninch also is a member of the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi, who voiced support recently at a meeting in Livonia.

NANCY AUSTIN

The girls at Ladywood High School have come up with a clever idea for raising money for their student council.

More than 50 of them are participating in a Slim-a-thon which begins Friday, March 2, and will run throughout the month. Participants must have permission from their parents to join and then must find sponsors who will pay 10 cents for every pound lost.

The winner, naturally is the girl who loses the most weight during March. A nice prize — not food — is waiting for the winner. This is in addition to the reward of sporting a new figure and feeling better.

To encourage the girls, a weekly exercise class is being conducted after school, and lectures about the basic four food groups and sensible eating are being held.

The cafeteria is cooperating, too, by selling salads, more fresh fruits, eggs, and yogurt.

No crash dieting is allowed.

Good luck, girls! We'll be following your progress and the winner will be announced here at the end of March.

SOMETIMES LUNCH is one of the most difficult meals to prepare for those who do not eat lunch at home.

A sandwich is standard, but often boring. It's easy to get into a rut in preparations, then the eating of the lunch also gets boring.

I notice even when I pack the five lunches that I do every morning, that I get bored packing them. So I have been exploring new avenues to make it more exciting to open the brown bag, as well as fulfilling the nutritional requirements.

While it is easy to put a junk snack in along with the sandwich, I refrain from it. Sure, it takes a little imagination to determine what will accompany the main part of the lunch, but a variety of containers that will hold fruits, cut up vegetables, soups, and the like make it not only possible, but easier.

In my search for something different yet tasty, I came across a great booklet I'd like all of you to know about.

Published by Dow, "Lunch to Go" contains great hints on making lunch more interesting, more nutritious, more appealing to children, and even has a secion for dieters.

After reading about the nutritional requirments that should be included in lunch you quickly realize there is no room for junk food.

Included in the booklet are the two recipes that follow. Each is refreshingly different and a satisyfing meal.

COTTAGE CHEESE BANANA SPLIT SALAD

1 banana
⅓ cup low-fat cottage cheese
3 tablespoons yogurt (any flavor)
6 green grapes
1 teaspoon chopped nuts

Mix cottage cheese and yogurt; pack in small vacuum container. Wrap grapes and nuts in pieces of plastic wrap. When ready to eat, cut banana in half lengthwise. Top with cottage cheese mixture, and garnish with grapes and nuts. Makes 1 serving at 259 calories.

Band scores top rating

Members of the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Symphony Band carried on the winning tradition of the CEP music department by receiving top grades in the Michigan High School Band and Orchestra Association's district band festival last Saturday.

The Symphony Band, under the direction of James R. Griffith, performed at Ann Arbor Pioneer High School in the Class AAA division, which is the highest class a band can compete in.

Performing for three judges in the concert part of the festival, the adjudicators commented on the band's ability to play together as an ensemble, its tone and its technical abilities.

Sight reading, another part of the festival, includes reading two pieces of music which the band has never seen before. "You play like you've rehearsed this music before," the sight reading judge told the band.

Adjudicators for both the Symphony and the Concert Band were Bernie Kuschel from Benton Harbor, James Stark from Midland and Richard Swinsick from Western Michigan University. Professor Glen Smith from the University of Michigan judged the band in sight reading.

Ratings are given between one and five and those bands that received a one are now eligible for the state festival on April 28.

The CEP Concert Band, under the direction of Carl Battishill, received striaght twos for their performance in the Class AA division. The Varsity Band, also under Battishill's baton, received two ones and a two for its concert performance and a three in sight reading for a final rating of two.

The Varsity Band participated in the festival in the Class C division.

Piston PR dazzles

'Crazy George' makes 'em curious

Crazy George was the popular attraction at the recent father-son night sponsored by Farrant Elementary PTO.

Crazy George (George Schauer) is employed by the promotion department of the Detroit Pistons and is the brainchild of Dick Vitale.

But his antics with the basketball weren't all taken in by the fathers and sons present.

Some also took in momentos from the Detroit Tigers, Express and Lions as prizes given away during the evening.

Among these were Tiger autographed baseballs, an Express autographed soccer ball, and two "Great Teams, Great Years" books from the Lions.

Also given away were two hockey sticks and six pucks from the Rupp-Bookmeier Agency. The Farrand PTO also gave away three prizes for each grade, K-5.

CRAZY GEORGE was employed by the Pistons this year as the "Pied Piper of Pistons Pride."

Schauer represents the team in promotions, clinics, game-night entertainment, dinners, luncheons and at schools.

Schauer, 26, has logged some 1,300 appearances in 43 states and 13 countries in a little more than four years.

A native of Cleveland, Schauer played three seasons with basketbaall coach Bill Musselman at the University of Minnesota.

He graduated with a BA degree in journalism in 1974, played one year of pro basketball in Germany with the Munich Eagles and was with the San Diego Sails of the old ABA in 1975-76.

As Crazy George, some of his antics with the basketball include: spinning the basketball while discoing with a young lady at center court; spinning a ball on a water glass rim and drinking the water; spining the ball on a razor while shaving; spinning up to eight balls at one time; and writing a letter while spinning a ball on the pen's top.

Groups interested in lining up an appearance by Crazy George may contact the speaker's bureau at Pontiac Silverdome by calling 338-HOOP. For references, contact any of the fathers or sons from Farrand.

BREVITIES FROM THE MAIL

BREVITIES DEADLINES

Items for Brevities should be submitted by noon Monday for the Thursday edition and by noon Thursday for the Monday edition. Bring items to or mail to the Observer office at 461 S. Main, Plymouth 48170.)

SCHOOL PROJECTIONS

March 13 — PACTS groups from Bird, Isbister and Smith elementary schools invite all parents to attend a meeting beginning 7:30 p.m. at Smith School. Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, will speak on "Future Projections for Plymouth-Canton Schools." A question-answer period will offer an opportunity to find out what happens to school tax dollars and how spending priorities are determined.

ALCOHOL SERIES

March 13 — The second in a series of the Alcohol Awareness Program, sponsored by the 35th District Court and Northville Jaycees, will begin at 8 p.m. in the court chambers upstairs at Plymouth City Hall, 201 S. Main. Dr. Frank Hollingsworth will speak on the progression of alcohol — the disease concept.

ST. PATRICK'S DANCE

March 17 — Divine Savior Community Church is holding a St. Patrick's Day Dance beginning at 8:30 p.m. at the church, 39375 Joy Rd. east of I-275 in Canton. A band and buffet dinner will be featured along with beer and set-ups (bring your own bottle). A donation of $10 per person is being asked. For tickets call 453-5882 or 455-3620.

RUMMAGE SALE

Articles now are being collected for the annual Canton Rotary Club Rummage Sale. The club is seeking donations of clothing, glassware, hardware, tools, houseware, furniture, odds and ends. Persons wishing to donate can deliver articles to Bill Brown Auto Clinic, 8240 Lilley Rd. between Joy and Warren in Canton. Pick-up service is available by calling Carl Schultz at 455-4194 or Orren Hall at 455-3590. All proceeds will go toward Canton Rotary projects. The sale is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, May 19-20.

FOLK DANCE CLUB

Plymouth Folk Club Dance is seeking members, junior high to adult, novice and experienced, to enjoy mid-Eastern and east European dances taught by member Ann Fowler. The group, sponsored by the Plymouth Recreation Department, meets the second and fourth Friday of each month, 8-9:30 p.m. in Bird Elementary School, 220 Sheldon at Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth. For information call Janet Alden at 427-0576 or Lynn Kremer at 453-5616.

PLYMOUTH CHAMBER

March 13 — The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Retail Committee will meet at noon in the Miles Standish Room of the Mayflower Hotel. Cost for lunch is $5 and reservations can be made by calling the Chamber office at 453-1540. The Chamber's board of directors will meet at 8 a.m. Thursday, March 15, in the Chamber conference room. All members are invited to attend.

ISBISTER AUCTION

March 11 — Isbister Elementary School will conduct its second annual Art Auction beginning 1:30 p.m. A light brunch will be served and tickets will be sold at the door. Featured will be a wide variety of original oil paintings, prints, lithographs, etchings, sculpture, enamels and other wall decor.

SOFTBALL MANAGERS

March 3, 17 — An organizational meeting for softball managers will be held on two Saturdays, March 3 and 17, to organize and prepare for the 1979 softball season sponsored by Canton Parks and Recreation. Women's league managers will meet 10 a.m. March 3, and men's at 1 p.m. March 3. The morning league managers will meet 10 a.m. March 17 and men's over 30 league managers at 1 p.m. March 17. Meetings will be in Canton Recreation Center, 44237 Michigan Avenue at the southeast corner of Sheldon and Michigan.

MOTHERS AND INFANTS

Applications still are being taken for those interested in joining a mothers and infants discussion group for eight weeks. Mothers of babies up to 12 months old are urged to share the excitement and challenge of new babies. The group meets on Wednesdays from 1 to 2:30 p.m. at a fee of $30. For more information call Joyce Cunningham at 453-0890.

At Schoolcraft

Upkeep demands millage

By TIM RICHARD

Twice in two winters, the electric power has gone out in the Forum Building of Schoolcraft College

"We lost class time — a week once, four days the other time," recalled college President C. Nelson Grote.

"Plants and animals had to be moved to temporary quarters. Laboratory specimens and fish were lost. We had to take emergency measures to keep chemicals from freezing. We had to retune the pianos."

The Forum is the major general classroom building on the community college campus at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. Like many other structures, he said, it needs some major maintenance.

The same general story is true of the college's equipment, both instructional and institutional. It's getting old and needs updating.

"THE BOARD has tried to do it from the general fund," said Grote, recalling how trustees began five years ago to earmark $250,000 a year for major maintenance and the same amount for equipment.

Some work has been done. But nearly every year a cut in state aid, a hiccup in enrollment or a revenue loss due to the Single Business Tax has disrupted the budget. Major maintenance and equipment have been cut nearly every year.

This year the Schoolcraft board is asking for millage, and major maintenance and equipment are a promised part of the package.

Voters March 26 will be asked to approve one mill for five years for capital expenditures. That will raise about $10 million over the life of the millage.

Maintenance, equipment and some small site improvements would get about $3 million of the package.

"The board has not adopted an exact expenditure schedule by category nor set a dollar value within each category," Grote said. Why not? The biggest reasons are:

1) the uncertainties of inflation and

2) the need to get state aid for some building projects.

In an interview, the president was able to put his finger on some of the major maintenance and equipment needs of the college.

"WE NEED TO repair one fire alarm system. We've put that off every year since I've been here," said Grote, who succeeded founding President Eric Bradner in 1971.

"We need to resurface the parking lots. They haven't been resurfaced since the college was opened (in 1964). The streets have been sealed and patched but haven't been resurfaced.

"We're going to have to replace some chillers (air conditioners) and heating plants," he said, citing a $10,000 study the college had contracted for which showed a centralized heating and air conditioning system would pay for itself in energy savings in a few years.

"Some of our lighting has to be updated."

One of the Forum power failures was caused by a cable blowout under ground. It's that kind of capital plant investment which must be attended to soon, he said.

EQUIPMENT NEEDS the same kind of updating, Grote went on.

"Some 71 percent of our students are in career programs. In most, they use labs or classes with equipment. We can't afford technological obsolescence."

Grote had made his mark as a vocational-technical dean in Kentucky before being hired by Schoolcraft. One of his chief assignments was to increase voc-tech offerings. He feels he has done what the community asked.

"It's like your newspaper business with your computerized typesetting. You wouldn't think much of us if we were still teaching people to run a Linotype," he said.

The equipment need goes beyond voc-tech courses, he said. "The language lab in the Liberal Arts Building is original equipment. So are the microfilm readers in the library.

"Even in liberal arts, you're talking about furnishings and carpeting.

"THE NEED to keep updating in automotive is constant. Consider the impact of the diesel engine. Look at emissions controls.

"Secretarial work has gone from $200 mechanical typewriters to sophisticated word-processing electronic equipment. One new curriculum will require an investment of $10,000 to $15,000 (per station). This is controlled by the expectations of business and industry which hire our graduates."

"If the millage passes, we could start buying that equipment next year," said Grote, noting the new property tax levy would be seen in the Dec. 1 tax bills. "We'll see the benefits immediately."

Pork roll provides

SMOKED PORK AND KRAUT SKILLET

1 pound cooked smoked pork shoulder roll
1 can (27 ounces) sauerkraut, drained
1 ½ cups shredded carrots
1 can (10 ounces) cream of onion soup
Dash pepper

Combine sauerkraut, carrots, soup and pepper in large fryingpan. Carve pork shoulder into six slices of equal thickness (about 1 inch) and place on top of kraut mixture. Cover tightly and cook slowly 25-30 minutes or until meat is heated through. Four to six servings.

Planning a menu featuring Smoked Pork and Kraut Skillet is easy since the entree includes meat and vegetables in one dish. A molded fruit salad makes a fine contrast, as do buttermilk biscuits. Depending on your time commitments, add a fresh seasoned fruit for out-of-the-hand eating or bake it into a pie.

'Learning Disabilities': An umbrella term?

The other night, against my better judgement, I sat down to watch the news on television.

And for a reward I learned that our energy czar expects gasoline prices to hit $1 a gallon for no-lead within the year.

Earlier I had read reports of gasoline companies planning to "ration" sales by raising prices and closing on Sundays.

In between I had a couple experiences at gasoline stations which caused me to do a lot of thinking about the "real" price we pay for gasoline.

GIVEN THESE reports and experiences, I think the best thing that could happen is for the government to institute an official rationing plan nationwide.

If the government does not ration, then it is left up to private business to institute its own "rationing" programs and for individuals to voluntarily reduce consumption.

We are faced with a pseudo Catch-22.

If government doesn't ration, the private sector will.

If the private sector rations, public policy won't be a priority.

The federal government can be expected to devise a rationing plan consistent with public policy. We can expect business to devise supply controls consistent with corporate objectives.

The problem of controlling supply by raising prices is that the weathly and middle class can continue to purchase as much gasoline as they wish. The lower class, with limited discretionary income, will bear the brunt of the rationing.

Sunday closings will result in a loss of state revenue from the travel industry, as Gov. Milliken has argued quite well. And when tourist expenditures drop, you and I will make up the difference in even higher fees for recreation licenses, fees and permits.

The impact of higher prices on low income persons and the results of Sunday closings on state tourist revenues are matters of public policy.

They are not matters of corporate policy. And we should not expect private corporations to give high priority to public (social) goals in their planning.

So if the energy crisis is all that serious (and I'm not convinced it is), then Uncle Sam should bite the bullet and institute a rationing plan consistent with national public policy.

THE OTHER PROBLEM with higher prices is what consumers are getting for the price.

There are three kinds of gasoline stations with which I do business.

One is the self-serve station, the other the mini-service, and the third the full-service station.

The self-serve offers gasoline at the cheapest price because the consumer does all the work except collect the money. The mini-serve is next cheapest because all the attendant does is fill the tank.

As we all know, the most expensive is the full-service. When you drive up to the full-service pump, the attendant is supposed to fill your tank, wash the windows and ask if you want your oil and water checked.

The price difference is reflected in service provided in each case.

If you want windows washed and oil checked, you pay roughly five cents a gallon for that service. If all you want is an attendant to pump the gasoline in the tank, you pay maybe five cents a gallon less.

If you are ambitious enough and pump your own, the charge per gallon might be 15 cents lower than the price at the full-service pumps.

So when you buy gasoline for 85 cents a gallon at a full-service pump, you actually are paying 70 cents for the fuel and 15 cents for service. Or $3 for service for every 20 gallons of gasoline purchased.

That's why I waxs quite put out when on two occassions I stopped for gasoline at a full-service pump and that's all I got — gasoline. The attendant didn't wash my dirty windshield and never asked if I wanted my oil or water checked.

I could have saved five cents a gallon by going up to a mini-service pump. So what is this station doing charging me 15 cents a gallon for service and then not giving me any?

Instead of yelling at the attendent to come back and wash my windshield, I drove away and decided never to stop at that station again. Now there are two stations where I refuse to stop for gas.

Which makes me wonder what I will be paying for when gasoline hits $1 a gallon. Will I be paying 30 cents a gallon for service promised but not given? Or will I be paying 15 cents a gallon more for the actual gasoline, and still be paying 15 cents a gallon for service not received?

Frankly, it doesn't make much difference to me. Businesses who charge for services they don't deliver can charge whatever price they wish. I won't be part of their supply problem.

So when the government rations, Uncle Sam ought to require lower gasoline prices and insist that stations won't offer services other than pumping gasoline. That way I will get exactly what I pay for, and nothing less.

At WSU

New students a conservative lot

The typical Wayne State University freshman is a political moderate who ranked in the top quarter of his high school class.

These and other characteristics emerged in a survey of 1,000 WSU freshmen selected in a computerized random sampling from among those who had never attended college.

The survey was part of a nationwide poll of more than a quarter-million first-time freshmen at 566 institutions of higher learning, coordinated by the American Council on Education and the University at Los Angeles.

Six of every 10 respondents to the WSU questionnaire said they were middle-of-the-road politically. Another 30 percent termed themselves liberal. Nationwide percentages for those two responses were 54 and 27, respectively. Just 9.7 percent of the Wayne State freshmen called themselves conservative, compared with 17.4 percent in the nationwide poll.

However, on some issues, Wayne State freshmen as a group were strikingly more conservative than the respondents comprising the national norm.

Only 24.5 percent at WSU said they would violate laws in opposition to their own views (31.1 percent nationally); 48 percent at WSU said abortion should be legalized (61.6 percent nationally); 33.6 percent at WSU said it's all right to live together before marriage (46 percent nationally); 35 percent at WSU said sex is permissible if people like each other (51 percent nationally); and 44.6 percent said marijuana should be legalized (52.4 percent nationally).

In the WSU group 68 percent ranked academicaly in the top quarter of their high school class, one percent above the nationwide norm. More than 95 percent were in the top half, compared with 92 percent of freshmen nationwide.

Nearly 59 percent of Wayne State freshmen reported estimated parental income between $15,000 and $35,000, compared with 52 percent of all students answering that question.

But 25 percent of all institutions reported parental income of $35,000 and up while only 10.5 percent of the WSU frosh come from families at that income level. At the other end of the scale, 31 percent of WSU's freshmen reported parental income of less than $15,000 compared with 23 percent nationally.

Percentage variations may be explained partly by the fact that 35 percent of all students polled had a father whose occupation was "businessman" while just 20 percent of the WSU group gave that response. Conversely, 19 percent of the WSU respondents reported their fathers were "skilled workers," compared with eight percent nationally.

More than 48 percent of the WSU group — compared with just 20 percent nationally — reported they plan to work part-time to finance college expenses. Just over half of the Wayne State frosh said they are receiving parental aid of $600 or more but, on a national basis, four out of five are.

Reins pass to Dick Scott

Selle sells Buick dealership

By W.W. EDGAR

Jack Selle, who has been the Buick dealer in Plymouth for the past 25 years, has succumbed to the urge to go fishing and do more hunting.

To make certain that business will not interfere with pleasure, he has sold the dealership to Dick Scott of Albion, who took over March 1.

"I have been looking forward to selling the business for the past year," Selle said. "And now with the vast amount of government interference and regulations, along with the many changes in the cars, I decided it was time to get out."

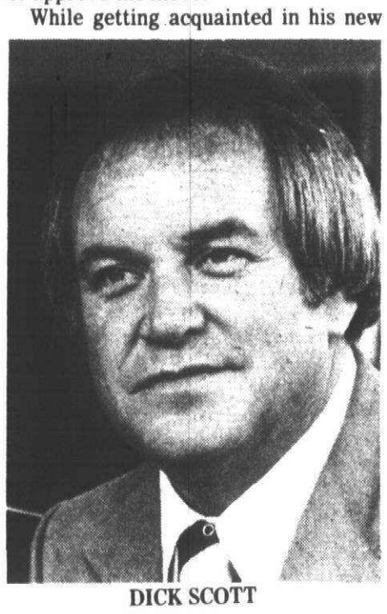
THE NEW OWNER, 42, has had more than 20 years experience in the auto industry.

He started with the old White Olds in 1957 on East Jefferson in Detroit. In turn he went with Dick Shalla Chevrolet and later with Randy Wood, the Pontiac dealer in Mount Clemens.

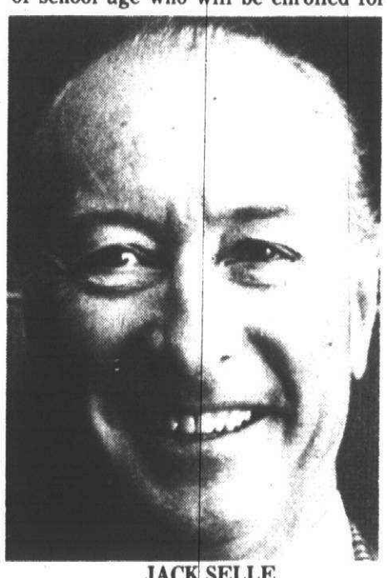
Scott opened his own Buick dealership in Albion, always keeping an eye on metropolitan Detroit for his ultimate goal.

"The Selle dealership is one of the most attractive in the area and I have been working on the deal for more than a year," he said. "And I am happy that the Buick people thought enough of me to approve the move."

While getting acquainted in his new quarters on Ann Arbor Road, Scott confided that he sought the Plymouth deal because he not only liked the community, but the fact that it is a growing area with good schools and a homey downtown atmosphere. He has four children of school age who will be enrolled for the next term.



DICK SCOTT



JACK SELLE

Scott is no stranger to Plymouth. As a young man he played football and baseball at Eastern Michigan University after two years at William Penn College in Iowa.

FOR SELLE, the sale marked the clos?e of a career that began in 1953 when he purchased the Buick dealership from Carl Shearer. At the time it was located on Starkweather and Selle was in the auto collision business.

Shortly after the purchase, Selle moved to a new building on Ann Arbor Road. Some years ago the place was virtually destroyed by fire. But Selle rebuilt.

Several times in recent years Selle has hunted big game in Africa and the den in his home in Plymouth is filled with mounted heads the animals he bagged on the safaris. He also has done some fishing in many parts of the world.

Many were the times he smiled and remarked, "I didn't do too badly for a fellow who got started by hunting ducks on Saginaw Bay."

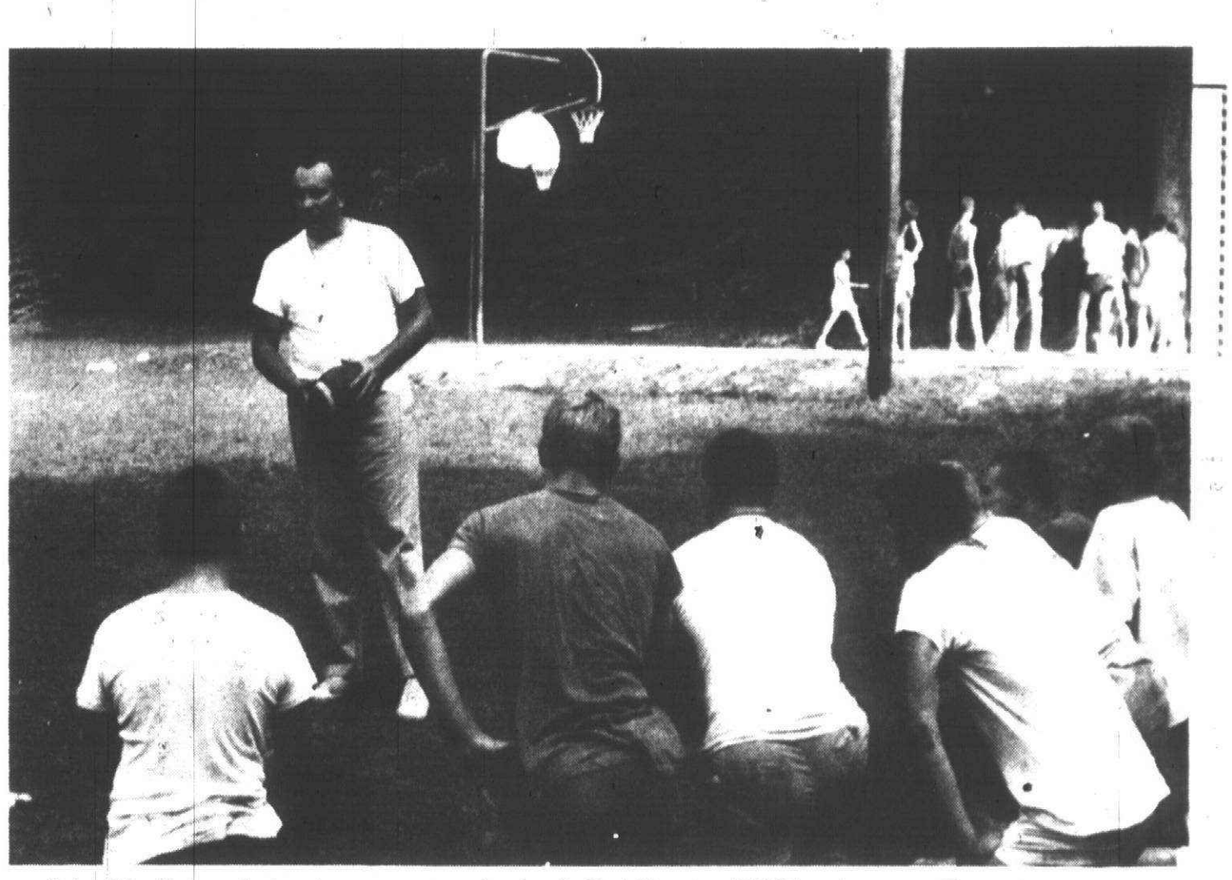
1921 BASEBALL TEAM

George A. Smith (in suit and tie) is shown here with the 1921 Plymouth High baseball team which he coached. On Smith's right is Cliff Tait, a well-known local businessman today.



John M. Hoben instructs youngsters in football skills at a YMCA camp near Three Rivers while he was a football coach in Plymouth in 1961.

Area superintendents rise from coaching ranks

Plymouth – Past & Present

The superintendent

By Sam Hudson

(Part III)

After serving in World War II, John M. Hoben enrolled at Adrian College where he received his bachelor's degree.

He has done graduate work at Michigan State University and at the University of Wisconsin and is now completing the dissertation requirement for a doctoral degree in education at Wayne State University.

During the war, Hoben saw combat service with the U.S. Marines in the South Pacific, where he received a field commission in the artillery. He was in combat again in 1950-52 when he served as a marine artillery commander in Korea. He held the rank of captain, becoming a major in the reserves. All told, he spent a total of six years in the service.

Mike Hoben's career as a teacher began in 1949 in Cheboygan High School. He came to Plymouth in 1955 and has been a high school teacher, counselor, director of guidance, assistant high school principal and assistant superintendent.

He also taught at Schoolcraft College in 1973, and at Eastern Michigan University in 1973-75. In 1971, at the age of 48, he was named superintendent of schools.

LIKE GEORGE A. SMITH, Hoben is easy to spot in a crowd. But he is much taller than Smith.

Standing 6-foot-5, Hoben was a basketball and track star at Adrian College, where he was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1972 — the second to be so honored. Like Smith, he also played football. After college, Hoben was drafted by the Boston Celtics but his two years as a professional basketball player were spent with the Toledo Jeeps.

Like George Smith, Hoben coached in high school. When Smith was hired to teach at Albion he was asked to take charge of athletics. When he came to Plymouth as superintendent in 1918, he also took a hand at coaching athletics — particularly baseball and basketball.

Similarly, when Hoben was hired to teach at Cheboygan High, he was asked to coach football. In 1953, he was named football coach of the year. When he came to Plymouth as a high school teacher in 1955, he also was asked to coach football. During the 10 years Hoben coached, the teams he fielded compiled an outstanding record.

Hoben's wife, Patricia Page, who was from Sand Lake, Mich., died in 1970. Their daughter, Michelle, earned her master's degree from U-M. She is an architect. Their son, John, is a senior at Eastern Michigan University.

AS SUPERINTENDENT of schools, Hoben's problems encompass burgeoning enrollment, controversy over modular vs. traditional scheduling, dissension over the extended school year, and the never-ending job of trying to keep instructional practice up with modern technology.

Smith had very little of this to contend with in the 1920s and 30s but, as might be expected, all of his days were not rosy. He must have been a bit disturbed, for example, on Nov. 18, 1931, when a three-member committee of the Parent-Teacher Association (Mrs. Bruce Woodbury, Mrs. John Olsaver and Mrs. Charles Carmichael) appeared at a meeting of the Board of Education, then headed by James Gallimore, to discuss "certain conditions at the Central Grade School."

The committee complained about poor ventilation at the school and was told by the school engineer that "when the ventilation system was installed, a check valve controlling the heat in the air chamber had been put in upside down, making it impossible to control the heat of the air." He had changed the valve and was waiting for cold weather to see if that solved the problem.

The committee also complained that there were no wash basins or hot water in the lavoratories used by the boys. The ladies were told that "several times the boys had pulled the basins from the wall, and at other times had stopped the drains with towel paper and then turned on the water. After this had been done two or three times the basins were removed."

In their report to the PTA, the ladies wrote that these conditions "should have been brought to the attention of the parents so they might help to subdue the young Americans so openly in revolt."

ONE DUTY HOBEN does not have as superintendent today is that of teaching a class.

Recognizing the increasing amount of administrative work entailed in operating the school system, the school board long ago decided to exclude teaching from the superintendent's duties.

(The last installment incorrectly identified Smith's wife as Clara R. Stowe. It should have been Clella R. Stowe. Sorry, Clella.)

(To be concluded in the next issue).

Off the Walls

The kitten caper

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

Two months ago, after being badgered with pleas, promises and pledges of good behavior, I finally relented and bought the kids a kitten. He was a black and white fuzzy affair whom the boys christened "Fred," and even I had to admit that he was cute.

Fred quickly captured the attention and admiration of the entire family as he went about doing all those exceptionally adorable kitten things that kittens are wont to do. Except for a ritual confrontation with the kitty litter pan, I found Fred to be really no trouble at all.

Today, unfortunately, that little fuzzy ball of baby feline is no more. Instead, Fred is a cat. He may not be exactly fullgrown, but he's at least a teenager. The family has moved on to more interesting things of late, leaving me to contend with Fred.

I'm the one whose leg he crawls up every time I approach the vicinity of the kitchen counter. He either thinks I'm a tree or he may be trying to tell me he's hungry again (I've never seen him when he wasn't). He has decided that I make the softest mattress, and that there is no greater joy in life than the challenge of trying to trip me by grabbing my foot whenever I try to walk.

That cute little fuzzy ball has become a big furry pest!

I wonder if all cats are as wild as this one, or whether we were just lucky enough to purchase one who developed a chronic state of psychotic frenzy. That animal can play with anything. I've seen him dance with a sock for hours.

You should hear what he can do with a marble on a tile floor at four o'clock in the morning. I especially love it when he takes about 250 tissues out of a box and carefully shreds them.

He's into the garbage, he's on top of the kitchen table. He's everywhere!

I don't recall requesting any additional responsibility. I've already got two pre-schoolers, a husband, a dog, and six fish to keep me more than busy. Fred just seems to be adding stress to a situation that wasn't all the placid to begin with.

Granted, he is cuddly; and no one else in the family knows how to purr in my ear, but then no one else in the family has climbed the drapes or bitten me on the chin lately, either.

I can't tell you just how thrilled our dog is with all of this. Especially since Fred has come out of his kittenish shell and emerged as a frenetic entity to be reckoned with.

Fred just seems to prefer the active life. I wish I had one-tenth of his energy.

So when's he gonna start lying around on window sills? All of this has finally led me to the decision that any further additions to this family, especially of the animal variety, must be well past their formative years.

At this point I'm not ready for anything more active than a tortoise in late retirement.

Prepare thy self

A talent shines

By JOHN CZUBAJ

He was born in 1812, the son of a poor laborer who lived in Landport, England.

Through his early years he lived in dire poverty. His father constantly was looking for work, but try as he would he never was able to get a good job and finally was thrown into prison because he couldn't pay his debts.

At that time the boy was only 10 years old and was forced to take a job in a damp, dingy factory, pasting labels on bottles of shoe blackening.

He slept in the filthy attic of an old, rundown house with two other boys who were said to be guttersnipes.

HIS FORMAL schooling amounted to a total of only four years.

However, he took advantage of every possible chance to study and read books in the public library because he had a burning desire to become a great writer.

He began to write stories at an early age and when his first manuscript was finished he sneaked out in the dead of night to mail it to a publisher.

He was so timid that he was afraid for anyone to know what he was doing for fear they would laugh at him.

Story after story was rejected.

But then came that memorable day when one was accepted,

He was paid nothing for it, but was so happy he walked aimlessly around the streets of the city for hours with tears of joy running down his face.

His next eight stories brought him absolutely nothing in terms of money.

And when he finally was paid for a story the sum was only $5, but the last manuscript he wrote brought his estate the fabulous sum of $15 a word.

WE ALL have heard of this man many times.

His name was Charles Dickens.

He became the best-loved and most idolized man of his day.

Once, when he visited America, people stood in line for hours — shivering in the wintry cold — as they waited to buy tickets to hear him speak.

One of the leading encyclopedias has allotted more than five large pages to the account of his colorful career.

Authorities in psychology have been saying for years that the average person never develops or uses more than a very small percent of his potential ability.

Dr. William James, once professor of psychology at Harvard University, used to say: "What the average person does, compared to what he could do, is like comparing the waves on top of the ocean to the ocean's mighty depth."

THE PAGES OF history reveal the names of many men and women who have achieved great success in spite of overwhelming odds.

But we don't have to read history books to find stories of success.

All we need do is look around us and we'll find that some of the people right in our own community have achieved a worthwhile measure of success because they were willing to plan and work, and make good use of the talents nature had given them.

Almost any normal human has far more ability than he ever uses.

It is not then a matter of what we can do but a matter of what we will do with the potential ability which is our's — the talents that are ready and waiting for us to put them to good use.

The Bottom Line

Paring postal costs

By RONALD G. LOISELLE

In these days of constantly increasing prices and costs, we're all looking for ways to trim expenses, both personal and business.

Postage rates and other costs have been climbing steadily in recent years and are now a significant cost factor in any business. There are, however, a few effective means of reducing mailing costs.

ONE METHOD IS to pay bills in person. This is effective if the payment office is near your place of business or is located along a route you normally follow.

Some bills can be paid directly at your bank. If there is a service fee on checks from your bank, you might consider paying some bills with cash. Be sure to get receipts, though, as you won't have the cancelled check for proof of payment.

Some business have found that local correspondence can be hand delivered by employees to establishments within walking distance more economically than by mailing. Combining mailings which normally go out separately also can cut costs.

Additional savings can be realized by using third class rather than first class mail whenever practical. This occurs, of course, only with materials which do not have time limitations, as third class is substantially slower than first class.

It often is possible to cut down on the frequency of mailings. Sometimes a week's worth of correspondence can be accumulated and sent at one time. Some companies which used to mail weekly or monthly now find that bi-weekly or quarterly mailings reduce costs appreciably. This method works particularly well for periodical publications and newsletters. There also are bulk mail reductions available for quantity mailings of identical pieces.

Employers also should guard against the use of company mails by employees for personal materials. This may save the employee postage costs, but it can be very expensive for the employer.

Cutting postage costs should be a relatively simple means of keeping some of your operating expenses down. Remember, not all mail must go out every day. And not every piece of mail has next-day urgency. Set priorities, and you'll save money.

Oil lobbyist pans regulations

If Uncle Sam decided to bill John Q. Public directly for the cost of government regulation, the tab for 1979 would approach $500, claims Ed Helmuth, supervisor of the dispersing section of domestic funds for Marathon Oil Co.

During a recent speech to the Plymouth Kiwanis Club, Helmuth cited the petroleum industry as among the most regulated businesses in the U.S. And he reminded his audience that oil industry prices are the only ones still controlled under guidelines erected to fight inflation in the early 1970s.

Referring to the mammoth bureaucracy which oversees oil industry activities, the Marathon official noted that the first year budget for the U.S. Department of Energy was equivalent to 10 cents for every gallon of gasoline sold in the U.S. during 1976 — about five times the profit oil companies have been earning on gasoline sales.

Helmuth said regulation was a major culprit in delaying the search for new domestic petroleum reserves, and charged that over-regulation was increasing U.S. dependence on foreign crude oil suppliers. But the effect of regulation on freedom is even worse, he added, threatening "the way we run our businesses and lives."

Helmuth suggested use of zero-based budgeting in reviewing government operations and cost-benefit analysis in determining whether new regulations should be enacted. "Now is the time to rediscover a lost truth that the marketplace, an unfettered marketplace, holds the answer to our nation's economic and energy problems."

TOP REALTORS

A number of local Realtors will be among the 434 honored for surpassing the $1 million mark in home sales and listings during 1978 in award ceremonies at the Plymouth Hilton Inn on Saturday, March 10.

The 434 are members of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCRB) and represent agencies in some 30 communities.

"Collectively, our members aided nearly 37,000 buyers or sellers of existing homes valued at more than $819 million," said John Cole, WWOCBR president. "Despite the continuing rise in home prices, the $1 million figure remains as a significant benchmark and denotes outstanding service to clients by individual members."

Leading the list of honorees is William J. Willis of Mayfair Realty in Livonia with $9 million — the highest ever reported by a WWOCBR member.

Among the five members reporting more than $4 million are Robert Bake and Janice Foster of Robert Bake Realtors in Plymouth.

Included among those exceeding the $3 million mark are Edward J. Freeh Jr. of Garling Inc., and David V. Snell of Century 21 Hartford West, both of Plymouth.

Local Realtors exceeding the $2 million mark include Joan D. Brandt of Realty World, George A. Breck Jr. and Gertrude H. Prochazka of Earl Keim Realty South, Inc., Argie Cupples of Century 21 Hartford West, Samuel L. Dibble of Dibble Realty, Norma Peterson of Hitchcock Gallery of Homes, and Linda P. Stebbins of Robert Bake, Realtors.

Among the additional 358 WWOCBR members passing the $1 million mark were 82 from Livonia, 40 from Plymouth, 29 from West Bloomfield, 27 in both Dearborn and Detroit, 23 from Westland, 22 from Farmington Hills, eight from Walled Lake, seven from Northville and Redford Township, five from Canton, four from South Lyon and three from Ann Arbor.

Daniel's Den

Let Uncle Sam ration gas

By Emory Daniels

The other night, against my better judgement, I sat down to watch the news on television.

And for a reward I learned that our energy czar expects gasoline prices to hit $1 a gallon for no-lead within the year.

Earlier I had read reports of gasoline companies planning to "ration" sales by raising prices and closing on Sundays.

In between I had a couple experiences at gasoline stations which caused me to do a lot of thinking about the "real" price we pay for gasoline.

GIVEN THESE reports and experiences, I think the best thing that could happen is for the government to institute an official rationing plan nationwide.

If the government does not ration, then it is left up to private business to institute its own "rationing" programs and for individuals to voluntarily reduce consumption.

We are faced with a pseudo Catch-22.

If government doesn't ration, the private sector will.

If the private sector rations, public policy won't be a priority.

The federal government can be expected to devise a rationing plan consistent with public policy. We can expect business to devise supply controls consistent with corporate objectives.

The problem of controlling supply by raising prices is that the weathly and middle class can continue to purchase as much gasoline as they wish. The lower class, with limited discretionary income, will bear the brunt of the rationing.

Sunday closings will result in a loss of state revenue from the travel industry, as Gov. Milliken has argued quite well. And when tourist expenditures drop, you and I will make up the difference in even higher fees for recreation licenses, fees and permits.

The impact of higher prices on low income persons and the results of Sunday closings on state tourist revenues are matters of public policy.

They are not matters of corporate policy. And we should not expect private corporations to give high priority to public (social) goals in their planning.

So if the energy crisis is all that serious (and I'm not convinced it is), then Uncle Sam should bite the bullet and institute a rationing plan consistent with national public policy.

THE OTHER PROBLEM with higher prices is what consumers are getting for the price.

There are three kinds of gasoline stations with which I do business.

One is the self-serve station, the other the mini-service, and the third the full-service station.

The self-serve offers gasoline at the cheapest price because the consumer does all the work except collect the money.

As we all know, the most expensive is the full-service.

The price difference is reflected in service provided in each case.

If you want windows washed and oil checked, you pay roughly five cents a gallon for that service. If all you want is an attendant to pump the gasoline in the tank, you pay maybe five cents a gallon less.

If you are ambitious enough and pump your own, the charge per gallon might be 15 cents lower than the price at the full-service pumps.

So when you buy gasoline for 85 cents a gallon at a full-service pump, you actually are paying 70 cents for the fuel and 15 cents for service. Or $3 for service for every 20 gallons of gasoline purchased.

That's why I waxs quite put out when on two occassions I stopped for gasoline at a full-service pump and that's all I got — gasoline. The attendant didn't wash my dirty windshield and never asked if I wanted my oil or water checked.

I could have saved five cents a gallon by going up to a mini-service pump. So what is this station doing charging me 15 cents a gallon for service and then not giving me any?

Instead of yelling at the attendent to come back and wash my windshield, I drove away and decided never to stop at that station again.

Which makes me wonder what I will be paying for when gasoline hits $1 a gallon. Will I be paying 30 cents a gallon for service promised but not given? Or will I be paying 15 cents a gallon more for the actual gasoline, and still be paying 15 cents a gallon for service not received?

Frankly, it doesn't make much difference to me. Businesses who charge for services they don't deliver can charge whatever price they wish.

So when the government rations, Uncle Sam ought to require lower gasoline prices and insist that stations won't offer services other than pumping gasoline. That way I will get exactly what I pay for, and nothing less.

Sam, the banana man: My father

By JACK BOLOGNA

(All rights reserved by Jack Bologna. © 1979.)

They won't be naming any buildings, bridges, highways or trophies for Sam Bologna.

The Queen of England will never knight him either.

He didn't write novels, conduct original research or discover any immutable laws.

He never made a lot of money nor did he ever attain a position of political leadership.

By all standards he was a simple man.

He dropped out of school in the third grade in Sicily because his interest in chasing butterflies exceeded his enthusiasm for book learning, so his teacher dropped him unceremoniously from her rolls.

BUT SAM BOLOGNA was a genious in his own right — an original, a creative small businessman.

He raised his family of seven children through the depression and cared for his parents until their deaths in their 80s.

His name won't be in any history books. His exploits won't be remembered by anyone, but his family and loved ones and perhaps a few competitors smart enough to reflect on what made him the most successful fruit auction buyer in Detroit during the 1930s, 1940s and 1950s.

What he knew best was mass psychology and his business: wholesaling fresh fruit and vegetables. He knew every fruit auction buyer's breaking point and what the consumers of the City of Detroit would likely consume in the way of fresh fruit on any day, given some insight on the season, the local economy, the weather and the available supply of fruits.

SAM CAME TO America when he was 17 as a stowaway and joined his father in Detroit.

For two years he toiled as a coal shoveler in the foundry of the Dodge Brothers plant. Unhappy with the constraints of that occupation, he decided to try his hand at business as a fruit peddler.

He started his new career with a hamper of bananas on his shoulder, trudging through the winter snows on the lower east side of Detroit — the modest beginning of a 40-year romance with the fruit business.

By spring he had saved enough to buy the makings of a push cart. Two years later he acquired a horse and wagon and a wife.

In 1924, Sam mechanized his business with a Model T and expanded his route from the lower east side to Indian Village and by 1930 his business took him all the way to the Grosse Pointes.

The depression years were difficult — nine people at home to feed, clothe and care for, customer receivables overdue, the family diet consisting mainly of pasta, overripe fruit and picked-over vegetables — but with great personal pride, optimism and hard work as his hallmarks, he weathered the storm.

I REMEMBER sitting with him at fruit auctions in the old Fort-Green Terminal.

His behavior was amazing: a study in total concentration.

His eyes shot at every corner of the room. He watched other buyer's faces, their hands, their feet and even their sitting position.

He watched the auctioneer's every motion and listened to every word and inflection. He studied buyer responses to the auctioneer's ernest pleadings for bids on whatever lots were being sold.

When he moved, he struck the pose of a cheetah making the final lunge at a wild beast. There was finality and precision in his voice as he bid. There was boldness and strength as he said quietly but firmly,

"I taka the whole lot."

What was this magic, this uncanny ability, this irrational bent of his to buy up whole lots? Was it the gambler's instinct, the thrill of high adventure, the quest for quick profit?

And why did this buying behavior always involve citrus fruit: oranges, lemons, and grapefruit?

Watching your own father show his genius at work is an experience not many men can boast of. I can truly boast of it and, indeed, shall always treasure it.

Nothing can ever solidify a relationship between father and son as much as a son's appreciation and respect of his father's work life.

While daughters still can see and experience the genius of their mothers in a hundred ways every day, sons aren't often permitted this very maturing experience in today's society.

editorial opinion

Your views needed on controversial sign law

The size and type of business signs to be allowed in Canton Township will be the topic of a special meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. March 15 at the township administration building.

It is a meeting, you, as a resident of Canton, would do well to attend.

The proposed sign ordinance, which has been at the hub of an angry battle for many months, will soon be getting approved or axed by the township board of trustees.

The decision may have much to do with the response of those who live in Canton. But if the residents don't show up to give their opinions, the ordinance's outcome may be the opposite of what they really want.

Few residents have bothered to come to public hearings about the sign ordinance. Few residents who attend meetings for other subjects bother to hang around when it gets to the topic of the sign ordinance.

The absence of residents can be construed by business people as support for a more liberal sign ordinance, because no one apparently objects enough to protest.

It could also be construed by township officials as a general unawareness of the importance of sign regulation.

Generally, people go to Township Board meetings to protest some action such as a rezoning or tax increase.

Those who go to a meeting to show support for something tend to be fewer in number.

A majority of the audience taking one stand, even if it is not the stand of a majority of residents, can be very persuasive to a politically oriented body.

That's why business people will go to the meeting in force to support a more liberal sign ordinance.

That's why Township Board members are begging residents who want a strict sign ordinance to come to the meetings and back them up.

It may be a drag to find a babysitter or change your plans in order to attend a meeting about a subject that may not seem very important.

Sign regulation, or lack thereof, is important. You may not realize how important until you have a neon sign blinking in your window at night.

And then it will be too late to complain.

The business community should be given a decision on the sign ordinance, one way or another. It isn't fair to leave business hanging month after month.

It is equally unfair to sit by while a more liberal ordinance is passed, allow business people to go out and buy bigger or free-standing signs, then show up in force to protest the signs.

The Township Board has a decision to make.

You can help the board make that decision — which is your right and responsibility — by going to the March 15 meeting and saying what you think.

Hammerin' Hank as negotiator

Every time he picks up the paper these days and reads the latest chapter in the saga of Rusty Staub and the Detroit Tigers, The Stroller is reminded of a meeting he had with Hank Greenberg when Greenberg was waging a contract war with the front office.

To the younger generation of baseball fans the name Greenberg may not mean anything. But back in the 1930s when the Tigers won the pennant and the World Series, "Hammering Hank" was one of the heroes on Mickey Cochrane's great teams.

Hank was the club-footed first baseman who had overcome his slowness of foot with the power of his bat, and one year came within two home runs of equalling Babe Ruth's record output of 60.

Then, at the height of his career, he suffered a broken wrist one afternoon and was sidelined for the remainder of the season. In his absence, Rudy York, another powerful hitter, took his place and finished the season in grand style.

Over the winter the Tiger management realized it had a problem with two hard-hitting first basemen. Something had to be done and a very unusual decision was made. Greenberg was asked to move to left field.

HANK DIDN'T complain about the switch. He took the opposite view. He demanded more money. And one evening in the lobby of the Lakeland Terrace Hotel, the Tiger headquarters, he cited his reasons.

The Stroller had questioned his actions and called Hank's attention to the fact that he had missed most of the past season and was now an unknown quantity in left field.

"You have a lot of nerve to ask for a raise," The Stroller pointed out.

"You overlook the fact that moving to left field may shorten my career," Greenberg replied. "And if that happens to be the case I want to get paid for it. I know I am good for several more years at first base and it will be a gamble in left field. So I have a right to ask for more money."

That sounded reasonable. And Hank won his point with the Tiger management. He moved to left field and worked harder than any other member of the team until he learned to play the position.

HANK HAD AN UNUSUAL approach to baseball contracts compared to the tactics being used by Staub and some of the other stars these days.

He never wanted more than a one-year contract. And that evening in the lobby of the hotel he explained his thinking to The Stroller.

"Look," he said, "we get paid this year for what we did last season. And if I have a good year, I want to get paid for it as soon as possible. If I have to wait longer, I may slump a bit and my good year is forgotten.

"Furthermore if a fellow has a long contract, he is inclined to get lazy, feeling that his salary is assured. So there never should be more than one-year contracts. They keep a fellow on the jump."

Compare this attitude with that of Rusty Staub, who is not asking for more money, but an extension of his $200,000-a-year contract that would carry him in to the ranks of the 40-year-olds. He wants assurance of his salary, but there is no assurance that he can keep his sharp eye as a designated hitter.

Things sure have changed since Hank Greenberg's day.

In Wayne County

A chance for a change

Tim Richard

It takes care of poor folks and delinquents, and locks up bad guys in the jail. Unless you're getting a divorce or probating your father's estate, or in some way involved with courts, it doesn't mean much to the average middle-class working person or homemaker's daily life.

Politically, Wayne County is dominated by two factions of the United Auto Workers. The average Democrat and Republican have little to say about it.

The treasurer, the clerk, the prosecutor, the sheriff, the register of deeds, one-third of the commissioners — all got their jobs originally by appointment. Voters don't have much to say about it.

As an average suburban taxpayer, I get a bill for $180 a year in property taxes for a level of government which, while necessary, doesn't do much for me personally and which I can do little to control. Most of the rest of you are in the same boat with me.

So why write about it?

WAYNE COUNTY has been getting into deeper and deeper fiscal mires every year. If you write or read about Wayne County, you've seen "financial crisis" every year of the decade.

Each year the state seems to require more services, more judges, more courts. The unions — the one in the sheriff's department comes immediately to mind — win big wage settlements from arbitrators. The department heads go to court if the commissioners try to cut their budgets. Very dreary.

The trouble, some of us feel, is that there's no one in charge. Politically, the department heads cater to enough commissioners to get 14 votes. No one has the office or the power to bring them into line.

A county executive is needed. A few suburban commissioners want to do something about it. They are (in no particular order) Mary Dumas of Livonia, Dick Manning of Redford, Bill Joyner of Plymouth and Alex Pilch of Dearborn.

Their fellow commissioners won't put the question on the ballot. So supporters of the executive plan are seeking petition signatures to force a vote. That's one of the nice features about Michigan government: If it won't respond when you go through channels, you and other voters can sign petitions to put it on the ballot.

THE FOLKS WHO want politics-as-usual are offering another idea. They say we should set up a charter commission to draft a new plan of government. It's the same procedure our cities used in their governmental plans.

The trouble is that Michigan's County Home Rule Act is so narrowly drawn that there's not much change a charter commission can put into effect.

On top of that, there's no guarantee that the politics-as-usual people won't oppose a good charter.

That's what the executive versus charter commission argument is basically about. You can tell I'm in the camp of the county executive people.

A COUNTY CHARTER is what we need in the long run, and a county executive is a first step as well as a step that is necessary in itself.

Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy would like to see his Wayne County neighbors adopt the executive system. It would mean that the two largest counties in the state, with populations totalling four million, would be led by executives.

Then both executives, representing nearly half the state's population, could face the Michigan Legislature and ask for changes in both the Home Rule and County Executive acts that would genuinely streamline county government. "They'll get what they want, just like that," he said.

You may have heard there's "a lot of controversy" about the Oakland County executive. That isn't quite true. There's controversy about some of Murphy's policies and priorities — healthy debate. There is some personal backbiting.

The system itself, however, works beautifully. There is a night and day difference between Oakland and Wayne county government. It's daylight there.

Persons with progressive instincts could move, of course, to Novi or Commerce. But in Wayne County, there is, at last, a chance to be part of a progressive change by supporting the county executive petition drive. We should give it a try.

Why the voters want recalls and referenda

Representative government is a challenging, if not outright frustrating, proposition. People who have held elective offices at the grass roots levels over the years know this. They've had to deal directly with their constituents.

This has been less true, as I see it, at the state and federal levels. Pressure there comes more from lobbyists for vested interests than it does from Joe Smith and his neighbors on the street.

In recent years, however, the street people have become more restive. No longer trusting elected officials, they are pressing increasingly for referendum ballots and recalls that give the electorate the final say.

ACCORDING TO Prof. Charles Press, a political scientist at Michigan State University, this trend toward referendums will continue.

He contends "there has been growing distrust of government . . . Some of it is a spinoff from the emotional political attitudes about Vietnam and Watergate."

He adds, "Some legislators are hesitant to act in areas which could diminish their personal popularity with important voting segments of the voting public, and the voters grow impatient with them. There is, too, a general misunderstanding by some voters."

But the street people themselves and the news media that are supposed to inform them are more to credit — or blame — than the politicians. Many political candidates will espouse almost anything if they think it will get them elected.

That doesn't imply they are committed to act according to what they say. Just look at Jimmy Carter. There's no way he could ever deliver on that hogwash he sprinkled around the country during his presidential campaign. Now there is a real question in many people's minds as to whether he ever intended to deliver.

That wasn't Jimmy's fault.

You gotta put the blame on the media and good ol' Joe Smith and his street people. They wanted a dream world and the "good ole boy" blew pot in their faces.

OUR EDUCATORS have tried, but they just don't seem to have prepared people very well to take part in government.

And of late, the media folks have been too preoccupied in tearing down institutions or building heroes to concentrate on asking hard, objective questions.

It seems to me that this dogged questioning of political candidates is what Joe Smith and the media ought to be doing when these public servants ask for their support in elections.

To rely on a battery of special referendums and recalls after the office holders are elected is to acknowledge that the electorate didn't know where candidates stood on issues when they went to the polls.

I can't place the blame so much on Joe Smith and his street people as on the media. The politicians? They'll get away with whatever the public permits. But I think the street people ought to have their consciences pricked.

The time to exercise the civic watchdog function is before the election.

Unfortunately, too many people nowadays view local election in a kind of "ho, hum, must we?" attitude. Meanwhile, they entertain themselves by watching and reading about candidates so far from their field of reality that they are virtually myths.

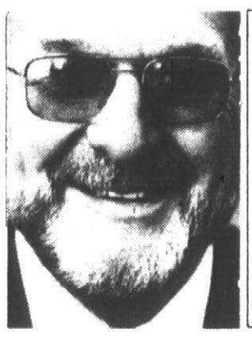
Edna and Harry and hockey



Tom Riordan
Executive Editor

On Nov. 22, 1927, Olympia Stadium offered its first professional hockey game.

In the audience that night was one Harry C. Nubbs, a telegrapher at American Telegraph and Telephone's Motor City office.

Detroit's brand new National Hockey League entry, the Cougars, the late Victoria Cougars, were beaten by the Ottawa Senators, 2-0.

Last Sunday, when the Red Wings lost to Boston, 6-4, the same Mr. Nubbs was seated in Olympia's balcony.

Most amazing is the fact that during the 51 seasons pro hockey has been in Detroit, Harry has seen almost every game played by the Cougars, which later became the Wings. He estimates that he has missed only about 40 games during the half century plus one year, while the club performed about 1,500 times on the frozen surface of Olympia.

THAT'S SOMETHING. But this story has another fascinating element — Edna Nubbs, Harry's wife. From the time they were married in 1928, she has been at his side at almost every game.

These two hockey nuts, both 74, live in an apartment in Farmington.

Harry retired in 1966 as AT&T telegraph service chief after 40 years and nine months. But he never will be retired from being a hockey fan — and neither will Edna. Their entire winter schedule is built around home dates of the Red Wings.

In the beginning, the entire balcony was open seating at 50 cents a head. When the club introduced reserve seats upstairs, the Nubbses became season ticket holders. That mainly, explained Edna, was so they would be able to claim tickets for Stanley Cup playoffs.

Ask the pair what their greatest thrills have been over the years and they'll say seeing the Wings win the coveted cup. It happened seven times, 1936, 1937, 1943, 1950, 1952, 1954 and 1955, dates they'll never forget.

HARRY HAS STRONG negative opinions about the way hockey is now played.

"We didn't have that rough goon stuff we have today," says Harry as he looks back at the great teams of the 1930s, '40s and '50s.

"Take a guy like Larry Aurie. He could rag the puck so well you'd swear it was tied to his stick — he had more moves than anyone."

Edna and Harry Nubbs share 50 years of marriage, with hockey a major element. Among their souvenirs is a goalie stick once used by Terry Sawchuck, who naturally has a place on the couple's all-time Red Wing honor squad. (Staff photo by Harry Mauthe)

Harry doesn't reserve his memories for Red Wings only. "Cooney Weiland, he was a center for Boston, would lay down his stick on the ice and stop passes or hook the puck off a guy's stick, you know, a poke checker. It was beautiful to watch.

"King Clancy of Ottawaw and then Toronto, he had a way of slowing down the game when he'd stop and tie his skate. And those rushes of Eddie Shore, the old Boston Bruin defenseman."

Harry savored his grand memories.

THERE'S ONE NIGHT at Olympia that still can make Harry and Edna cringe. It happened a few years after the end of World War II.

Says Harry, "I thought my heart would stop when Gordie Howe was injured on the boards."

Howe, then a relative newcomer to the NHL, was rammed off his feet and his skull was crushed against the top of the boards. For days he hovered on the brink of death. Few expected he would ever play again. But he made it back and amazingly is still performing at age 50.

Hockey players like Gordie and fans like Harry and Edna seem to have a longevity about them that defies explanation.

ASK THIS PAIR to select their all-time Red Wing team and a rush of names fills the room. Harry and Edna agree in almost every case. Here are their final choices:

GOALIE

Terry Sawchuck (1949-50 and 1968-69)

DEFENSE

Bucko McDonald (1934-35 through 1939-39)
Doug Young (1931-32 through 1938-39)
Ebbie Goodfellow (1929-30 through 1942-43)
Black Jack Stewart (1938-39 through 1942-43 and 1945-46 through 1949-50)
Leonard "Red" Kelly (1947-48 through 1959-60)

FORWARDS

Ted Lindsay (1944-45 through 1956-57 and 1964-65)
Gordie Howe (1946-47 through 1970-71)
Larry Aurie (1927-28 through 1938-39)
Herbie Lewis (1928-29 through 1938-39)

CENTERS

Sid Abel (1938-39 through 1942-43 and 1945-46 through 1951-52)
Marty Barry (1935-36 through 1938-39)

DISCUSSING HOCKEY in Detriot you never get far without mentioning the name of Jack Adams, the man who sold a city on a foreign sport. Of course he didn't have to sell Harry Nubbs, who migrated from his birthplace in Blenheim, Ontario to Detroit in 1925.

Harry holds Adams in the highest esteem and he loved it when "Jovial Jack" guided the Red Wings to the club's first Stanley Cup as Detroit broke out of the Great Depression.

"The Old Red Barn" has been the site for half a century of thrills for Harry and Edna, two of the Red Wings' most devoted fans.

They might have called Adams "Jovial Jack" but he was a stern taskmaster whenever his players took to the ice.

"In those days Detroit had a minor league team called the Olympics," Harry remembers. "They played Monday nights. You'd see the Wings on Sunday and then never know who might be suited up Mondays with the Olympics."

Harry explained that if Adams was not pleased with the performance of a Red Wing in a Sunday game, Jack would order the man to play for the Olympics the next night.

THEN THERE WAS the referee Moose Jamison, who occupies a warm spot in Harry's memory book. In the early days there was only one official on the ice and he stopped play with a bell he would have strapped to one hand.

That was fine with Moose because he loved to chew tobacco while officiating. But Moose's mood changed in the early 1930's when the league introduced whistles to signal offsides and penalties. The game was just never the same for Moose.

Harry's skills as a Morse code expert sometimes gave him as extra dimension while attending games when Western Union and Postal Telegraph operators would transmit the action back to the offices of Associated Press, United Press and International News Service.

Often as a hush settled over the audience, the dots and dashes from the telegraphers' keys would float up into the balcony where Harry could "read" about the action he had just seen.

RED WING HOCKEY at Olympia is scheduled to end this season. The Wings will play in the new Joe Louis Arena along the Detroit River starting next year – if the building is ready.

So there is the chance that when Les Canadiens of Montreal come to Detroit Sunday, April 8, it could be the Red Wings final appearence in what has lovingly been dubbed "The Big Red Barn."

And Harry and Edna will be there, in Section 27, row B, seats 5 and 6.

Here's how UniBank/Cash Management works:

If you have both checking and savings accounts at various financial institutions with a total average balance of $2,000—or if you have an average balance of $2,000 in a single account—it makes good sense to shift your money to a Cash Management Account at National Bank of Detroit.

Here are two reasons why.

First, as long as you average a $2,000 balance in your savings account, the plan has no service charges. Notice that the $2,000 is an average balance. Not a minimum balance. That means the balance in your account could drop well below $2,000 during some parts of the month, provided you make it up with a higher balance during other parts of the month.

Second, the funds in your savings account earn the highest bank interest allowed by law. When funds are needed in your checking account to cover checks, only the exact amount is transferred—not increments of $50 as is the case with some banks.

This allows you to keep a zero balance in your checking account at all times while earning a maximum 5% annual interest compounded continuously on funds in your savings account. That's an effective annual yield of 5.20%.

So, if your objective is to keep all of your funds earning maximum interest all the time they're not actually needed to pay bills and cover checks, stop in at any nearby National Bank of Detroit office. One of our representatives will gladly answer any questions you may have about NBD's UniBank/Cash Management Account.

The VIEW from 461 SOUTH MAIN

by ELLIE GRAHAM

NELLIE BIRD marked her 97th birthday Sunday, March 4 in the Hendry Nursing Home. Mrs. Bird was born March 4, 1882. The Nellie E. Bird Elementary School on Sheldon Road at Ann Arbor Trail was named in honor of the longtime teacher in the Plymouth Community.

"It was a small party," said Doris Ellis, Mrs. Bird's grandddaughter. Doris and her husband, Richard, provided the birthday cake. And they also gave gave her a cheerful flowering plant.

"She seemed to enjoy it all," said Mrs. Ellis. Mrs. Bird has been in the nursing home since she was 90.

PAM WEHMEYER, a senior at Alma College, was one of 27 students in the cast of Cole Porter's musical, "Anything Goes."

The Alma College Players presented the production in late February. Pam, a 1975 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wehmeyer of Maple Street, Plymouth.

STUDENTS AT Isbister Elementary School had a special memorial service for Thelma Couts who had been a cook at Isbister since it opened 10 years ago. Mrs. Couts died suddenly at the school, Feb. 19.

Beverly Marshall, Isbister principal, remembered many of the reasons the children loved Thelma Couts at the service:

"If you got to school early, she would invite you into the kitchen to watch her cook.

"Many times she served breakfast to boys and girls who had not eaten at home and who were sick and weak when they arrived at school. She stored all kinds of ice cream bars and punch in her refrigerators and freezers so you could have them for your parties.

"She let you use her ovens for baking cookies and other special treats at Christmas. Do you remember all the cupcakes we baked for our birthday party?

"She cooked special dinners and treats. She even cooked two special Christmas dinners so that no one would miss because they were off track.

"She loaned you lunch money; she gave you seconds; she always wanted to have extra snacks for you to buy. She served late lunches when you were late getting back from trips.

"And most of all, she worried about your health. She wanted her lunches to be good and full of nutrition so you would eat them and grow strong and healthy because you ate good food."

The students and the children are contributing to a fund to buy a plaque. The kitchen and the multi-purpose room will be dedicated to Thelma Couts - a very special lady.

NANCY HAYES now has sole possession of what used to be the Alphabet Gallery on the lower level of the Penniman Avenue Shops. Nancy said her husband, Dick, had suggested the new name for the shop. It will be "Nothing Ventured."

ACROSS THE STREET, Wilma Halliburton, Garey Beglinger and crew are hard at work converting what was the Trading Post sporting goods store to a new shop for Wilma and a new eating place.

When Wilma and Garey B. have sawdust in their hair, great plans are in the making.

Had to stop in and see what Bill Micol had brought back from his trip to the southwest. He has a marvelous assortment of intriguing things — blankets woven of llama wool from South America, hand carved ducks, fossil fish, geodes, gem stones, Mexican and Indian pottery and figurines.

He even has a chunk of dinosaur bone with the marrow turned to red agate. It's as good as a trip to a museum.

HOWARD GRIFFORE has had high men's score the last two Thursdays at the party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center. Betty Struck was a winner Feb. 22 and Gladys Joseph wa came in with top score for the women March 1.

Margaret Swartz reports they have had good turnouts for the games. Two rather well-known retired ladies have been out for the Thursday afternoon games — Elizabeth Holmes and Helen Richardson.

MARY JO WORKMAN will be hostess for her sorority Thursday, March 8.

Western Wayne Alumnae of Delta Zeta Sorority will play volleyball beginning at 8 p.m. After the game, Pam Cronenwett of Dearborn Heights and Mary Lynn Baker of Westland will assist Mrs. Workman with her hostessing chores.

Members are donating new and used toys to the Salvation Army Children's Home.

True operatic style was exhibited by Carol Carlson.

Ned Stirton as the World War II English pilot, Gae McCord as the aspiring vocalist and Chuck Heidt as the German performed at the meet-the-director party.

Would-be stars shine at director's party

The meet-the-director party Tuesday night gave promise that "Way Off Broadway" is off to a roaring start. Hundreds of the community's talented residents flocked to Pioneer Middle School to meet Charlie Crain. And before the evening was over, a good majority of them had signed up for auditions as Crain announced rehearsal schedules.

The biennial bash, sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council is under way. The professional director from the Jerome Cargill Producing Organization of New York City has two weeks to work his magic on a group of amateurs. Opening night is March 23 in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium.

Among those signing up for the musical revue were the stars of two years ago. They know it can be done - from unappreciated homemaker to the thunderous roar of applause - in two hectic weeks.

DIRECTOR CRAIN was a member of the audience at his party as a group of performers showed what could be done with very little practice.

Gae McCord assumed the role of a stage-struck local wanting to audition for the revue. She never did sing the "Star Spangled Banner" (as threatened) but was mistress of ceremonies for the skits, songs and dances.

Carol Carlson, Judy Slade, Barb Leclair, Chuck Heidt, Ned Stirton, Bob Cooper, Stirling Shephard and Stan Hone performed two out-of-step song and dance routines.

Chuck Heidt wore a military helmet and air for his skit with Ned Stirton. Stirton wore a cable-knit sweater for his role as an English pilot who had been shot down over Germany. Heidt played a German soldier.

Judy Slade, Carol Carlson and Joanne Hulce out-sang and out-staged each other in an effort to attract the director's attention. The audience loved it all.

Frankie Lamirand and Connie Heidt wrote the lyrics for the songs and Mrs. Heidt accompanied the vocalists on the piano.

David Shephard joined the group as a tap dancer for one of their numbers.

CHARLIE CRAIN was introduced and he talked about the show. He explained who and what he needed, even sizes and shapes to match the elaborate costumes provided for the show.

Rehearsal schedules and audition times were listed and sign-up sheets were placed on a long table. The lines formed as dozens chose categories to fit their talents.

Guests consumed punch and snacks. Clara Camp and Jean Harsha who are co-chairing ticket sales did a brisk business. Photographer Bit Folger took pictures of the goings on.

Story and pictures by Elinor Graham

Stars in her eyes and aluminum foil stars on a string. The New York director would surely be impressed with the wealth of talent in the Plymouth-Canton community.

Handicapped kids going to circus

The Metropolitan Society for Crippled Children and Adults will host more than 7,000 handicapped children from the tri-county area the opening day matinee of the Shrine Circus at 1:30 p.m. on Friday, March 16.

Ron Kramer, former Detroit Lions star and Marilyn Turner, of WXYZ-TV, Channel 7, are co-chairpersons for the circus. Both have been active in the circus project for several years.

The Metropolitan Society provides recreational experiences to handicapped children. The children are often unable to experience many typical pleasures of childhood because of their handicap.

The Metroplitan Society for Crippled Children and Adults is an out-patient, voluntary health agency. The society was established in 1934.

Tips for CB buffs

Whether your an old of new CBer you might be interested in a copy of the new Citizens Band Radio Service Rules, published by the Federal Communications Commission, it explains how to get a license, and what is required to get on the air. There is even a checklist to help you decide how to make repairs to your set. To get your copy, send a $1.50 to the Consumer Indformation Center, Department 109F, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Hospital shuttle bus

Hospital parking lots can be frightening places for evening visitors. The walk from a parking space to the hospital can be too long for elderly persons. The free shuttle bus service to and from the visitors' parking lot at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor runs 1-9 p.m. daily at 10-minute intervals. Drivers assist visitors who have difficulty getting in and out of the van. The shuttle bus picks up visitors at their cars and delivers them to the main lobby. Visitors leaving the the hospital will be transported to their cars via the shuttle.

SCUFF and crayon marks on tile or asphalt flooring can be removed quickly by applying self-polishing wax. Try an Observer & Eccentric classified ad when you want to remove non-usable items from your home.

Youth symphony scholarship winners perform in concert

Plymouth Youth Symphony will perform a spring concerto concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 13 in the Little Theater of Plymouth Canton High School, Canton Center Road south of Joy Road.

Robert Burr is musical director and principal conductor of the orchestra. Vicki Vorreiter is associate musical director. Scholarships will be presented at the concert to five of the young musicians — three string players and two wind players.

String players Jesse Seay and Lora Kramer will receive scholarships from the Plymouth Symphony Society. String player John Perrett won the Plymouth Woman's Club scholarship.

Darcy Johnson, who plays the euphonium, and Cherl Bertrand, who plays the flute, were winners in the wind player category.

THE PROGRAM will include the fourth movement of Dvorak's Fifth Symphony.

John Perrett will be soloist with the orchestra in Telemann's Concerto for Violin in G Major. Darcy Johnson will solo in "Corinthian Polka" by F.A. Losey. Jesse Seay will be featured in Vivaldi's Concert for Violin in A Minor.

Lora Kramer will play "Fourth Pupil's Concerto" by Seitz. Cherl Bertrand will do the flute solo in Telemann's Suite in A Minor. The orchestra will perform Prokofieff's "Peter and the Wolf" and the finale from Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

The youth symphony concert is free and open to the public.

When Antal Dorati takes the podium Thursday night, the control shifts from daughter to father. Tonita Dorati has spent months researching the opera 'Elektra' in her role as costume and scenic designer.

'You work on something. You love it. You make it. But on opening night, it's not yours any more,' she says.

Tonina Dorati and her father, Maestro Antal Dorati, have worked on several operas together. "Elektra" is the latest.

Behind opera—the maestro's daughter

By CORINNE ABATT

For many months Tonina Dorati has been thinking, talking, researching and sketching Richard Strauss's one-act opera "Elektra."

As costume and scenic designer for the production which her father, Maestro Antal Dorati, will direct at Ford Auditorium March 15 and 17, that's the way she works. She takes lots of time to study all aspects of a script or libretto, researches the times in which the work was written and the times in which it is set. She listens to the music, looks up the small details of daily life that affect the stage production, how people ate, their costumes, jewelry and lifestyle in general.

"This opera," she said while in Detroit planning the final details, "took me a long time to feel it. Only recently has it settled on me and around me."

This is an aspect of her career as scenic designer which she treasures, indeed, guards lovingly. At least until the house lights dim and the curtains open.

'He told me his ideas and I had my own ideas. It was very easy to come to a decision on what we wanted to do.'
— Tonina Dorati

"You work on something. You love it. You make it. But, on opening night, it's not yours any more."

She recalled doing seven operas in seven months for Joan Sutherland in Australia. She accepted the job blindly not realizing the pace she would have to keep to produce the amount of work necessary for these projects.

"I didn't think about it, I just did it," she said.

BUT, THEN SOMETHING unexpected happened. She was lost for a long time afterwards without the pressures, the rigorous schedule and the demands. Anticipating that something of the same thing would happen as soon as "Elektra" is produced here, she said, "I get very possessive while I am working on it. Once, it opens, it's not mine anymore."

Working with her father on the planning didn't present any problems other than her having to follow him around Europe to talk with him.

"He told me his ideas and I had my own ideas. It was very easy to come to a decision on what we wanted to do."

However, just exactly what they decided upon will be a secret, at least to most of the audience until opening night.

Ms. Dorati would say that because the opera is set on the Greek Island of Crete in the Middle Minoan period, there will be lots of color.

"The costumes they wore were very colorful — flowers, frills and pleats and gold."

One of the challenges, if it can be called that, is to stage the opera effectively and still retain the orchestra shell on stage, put there to improve the accoustics.

"We are working within severe restrictions," Ms. Dorati said.

AS THE MAESTRO'S only child, Ms. Dorati smiled when asked if her father had even tried to impose music as a career upon her.

"I'm musical," she said, "but, I'm lazy. I wanted to play well right away."

Strauss' 'Elektra' twice next week

Detroit Symphony Orchestra Music Director Antal Dorati will direct the Detroit Renaissance Opera Company of the symphony in two fully staged performances of Richard Strauss' one-act opera "Elektra," at 8:30 p.m, March 15 and 17.

Headlining the cast of singers will be mezzo-soprano Astrid Varnay as Klytaemnestra. She has sung every major Wagnerian role at the Metropolitan Opera and Wagner and Strauss roles in opera houses all over the world. Soprano Joy McIntyre will take the role of Elektra.

A resident member of the Munich State Opera, she has performed extensively in Europe and has been highly acclaimed for other Strauss productions. Soprano Maria DeFrancesca, Chrysothemis, was a first-prize winner in regional Metropolitan Opera auditions who has performed throughout Europe and is currently a member of the Stuttgart State Opera.

Tenor George Shirley, Aegisth, native Detroiter, has distinguished himself both in the United States and abroad including the Metropolitan Opera. Baritone William Dooley, Orest, is best known for Wagner and Strauss roles with regular performances in this country and Europe since his Metropolitan Opera debut in 1964.

Scenic design and costumes for the opera are the creation of Tonina Dorati, the Maestro's daughter and a professional in the field of stage production.

Appearing in featured roles for "Elektra" are Nadine Asher, Jeannette Dagger, Doralene Davis, Davis Gloff, Bruce Hall, Glenda Kirkland, Betty Lane, Carol Madalin, Kathleen Segar, Richard Versalle, Barbara Windham and the Kenneth Jewell Chorale.

"Elektra," a musical tragedy in one act, was first performed in Dresden in 1909. The libretto, by Hugo von Hofmannsthal, is the first to result from the famous Strauss-Hofmannsthal collaboration.

"Elektra" takes place in ancient Greece or Mycenae, just after the Trojan War. The story of Elektra is rooted in events that transpired long before her birth and involves Greek legends dealing with the doomed House of Atreus, which spans nine generations. It is a story of murder, incest, cannibalism and madness, and turns on a web of tangled family relationships.

'Angelica': Good evening, poor turnout

Review

By TIM RICHARD

An opera during Lent?

Giacomo Puccini's "Sister Angelica" couldn't have been more appropriate for the season and for the day the snow melted.

It was performed Sunday with both musical and religious care by the Oakway Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Francesco DiBlasi, and the Birmingham Musicale Opera Ensemble, directed by Alice Engram.

The most often performed of a trilogy of one-acts, "Sister Angelica" features 14 voices, all female, so it becomes an appropriate effort for such a group as the Birmingham Musicale.

The scene by which you judge such a work is the middle one between the Princess (mezzo Arleen Koenig) and Angelica (soprano Marily Hedquist).

THE CONTRASTS are everything you could hope for.

Ms. Koenig, in heavy, severe black with blue, is unforgiving in rich, dark tones that are underscored by the orchestra's lower woodwinds and Puccini's minor keys.

Ms. Hedquist, in soft white and beige, is contrite, soaring in major keys accompanied by soft strings. Angelica had been sent to the convent seven years earlier, after having a child whose illegitimacy dishonors her patrician family. She has heard nothing of them in all that time.

There are a surprising number of good voices in the remainder of the ensemble. Beyond Carol David as the Sister Monitress, it would be unfair to single out any.

I would quibble with the staging of the miraculous entrance of the Madonna and the ghostly Child. It didn't seem quite right that they emerge from the same door where the other nuns are standing. But being unfamiliar with the staging problems of Birmingham Seaholm High School, I probably don't appreciate the director's problems.

THE CONCERT opened with a work that couldn't have been in greater and more delightful contrast — J.S. Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 5.

Schools sponsor dance residency

The Wayne State University dance department, in cooperation with The Midwest Dance Center will sponsor a dance residency with the Pauline Koner Dance Consort on March 9, 10, and 11.

At that time, the Consort will conduct six classes for beginning, intermediate and advanced dancers and will perform a lecture-demonstration at Community Arts Auditorium, corner of Kirby and Cass, WSU campus, on Sunday, March 11 at 2:30 p.m.

Ms. Koner is remembered for her performances in Jose Limon's "La Malinche," "The Moor's Pavane," "There Is A Time," and "Ritmo Jondo" as well as for the numerous dances she has choreographed for herself and for her company.

Spanning a 50 year career in dance, Ms. Koner has remained true to her artistic concepts and has survived the many trendy turns dance has taken in the past 20 years.

In her words, " . . . I saw the art of performing disappear and the art of the acrobats take its place. Technique has become an end in itself. It's 'How high can I get my leg?' At the inception of modern dance, the point was to get it from the guts. Today's emphasis on technique has externalized modern dance."

A romanticist, Ms. Koner has always been deeply involved in the human condition. The pieces in the lecture-demonstration reflect this humanistic viewpoint.

The Pauline Koner Dance Consort is dedicated to performing the repertory of Ms. Koner. The company consists of nine dancers, most of whom have trained with her. The repertory is drawn from a wide variety of inspirations, from renaissance styles to contemporary idioms. Most of the music is contemporary.

Three classes will be held at the Matthaei Bldg., room 125, on the Wayne State Campus. Three other classes sponsored by the Midwest Dance Center, will be held at the Southeast Campus of Oakland Community College, Bldg., A at the southeast corner of Washington and Lincoln (Ten and-a-half Mile) in downtown Royal Oak.

Participants will have the opportunity to take classes in modern dance technique as well as in elements of performance. All classes are $4 each and tickets for the lecture demonstration are $4 a piece. Registration for three or more classes entitles the registrant to one free ticket.

Admission to classes is on a pre-paid first come basis. Consequently, early registration is recommended. No refunds are possible. Observers are welcome at the classes for a $2 fee.

Hinge plans varied shows

The University of Michigan-Dearborn Hinge Coffeehouse will feature entertainment ranging from traditional and comic folk acts to mime and north woods ballads during March.

The nonprofit coffeehouse, located in UM-D's Recreation Organizations Center, is open to both students and the community.

On Wednesday, March 14, at 8 p.m. the Hinge will headline Stuart Mitchell, a six-string guitarist who has opened numerous shows for performers like Boz Scaggs, Roberta Flack and Tom Rush. His material contains both serious and humorous pieces.

The original mime routines of Pat Garner will be showcased on Wednesday, March 21, at 8 p.m. Garner, whose routines often satirize society, is a theater student at UM-Ann Arbor.

Paul Gifford will sing north woods ballads and play traditional dulcimer melodies from upper Michigan and Eastern Europe on Wednesday, March 28, at 8 p.m.

For more information contact UM-D's Office of Student Life at 593-5390.

C&W on tap

The Redwood Show Bar in Livonia is hosting a country music jamboree Sunday from 1 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Hosts are Larry Lee Adkins & The Hanging Tree. Performers include Jack Mollette & Nitetime Magic Band, Elvis Shelton, Lone Star Revue, The Bobby Buck Show and Deep South.

Children will be admitted until 9 p.m. The bar is located at 28121 Plymouth Rd., west of Inkster Road.

Silversmiths guild exhibits at bank

Detroit Bank and Trust, at the corner of Fort and Washington in Detroit, is hosting an exhibition of metal work by the members of the Michigan Silversmiths Guild.

More than one hundred works in silver, gold and semi-precious materials are on exhibit through March 30. The exhibit is open Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This is the second consecutive year the guild has exhibited at Detroit Bank and Trust.

Seminary silences music in the woods

By SHIRLEE IDEN

Sounds of music that have long echoed through the woods at Duns Scotus College in Southfield may be silent this summer.

A summer music workshop for talented young people that has been the pride of Southfield's art community is in "a state of irresolution," according to Joel Ebersole, president of the Southfield Arts Council.

"Workshop in the Woods" has offered chamber music study for eight summers and sponsored two community concerts each of those seasons. It must now find new quarters or go out of business.

Raymond Benner, a member of the Detroit Symphony who is the founder and director of the workshop, received word from Father James Van Vurst, superior of Duns Scotus in January that the college might not have space for the workshop any longer.

"Shortly before Christmas," the letter said, "we completed a leasing contract with Waldorf Institute, an educational progrma for teacher training, and they will be using the entire new wing, labs and classrooms."

Father Van Vurst's letter stated that although this would be a great disappointment for Benner and the young people, "times, situations, and circumstances change and going into a new program unfortunately affects older programs."

HE TOLD Marinelli that if the workshop were discontinued, it would be tragic and a great loss to the community.

"If the summer chamber music school no longer has use of the Duns Scotus premises, it would be a step backward in the cultural life of greater Detroit," Benner said.

The summer workshop and a winter Christmas Bach Festival which Benner directed at Duns Scotus were both highly successful endeavors drawing large audiences. Until recently, Duns Scotus was host for both, but the winter Bach Festival was terminated by the college due to scheduling problems.

Ebersole said he also wrote to Marinelli telling him he hoped the long commitment of the Waldorf Institute to the arts would be maintained and enhanced if the summer workshop might be continued.

He concedes that Benner may have to find another setting for the workshop as matters now stand.

"We have scheduled a meeting between Benner, Kevin Greene of the Parks and Recreation Department and myself," he said. "It's going to be an exploratory meeting to see if there's another institution that would care to be the host."

Ebersole said much depends upon Benner.

"IT'S HIS workshop, it's his concept and no one else could possibly do it," he said. He added the Southfield Arts Council has always supported the workshop and would continue that backing.

Marinelli's negative response to Benner came on Feb. 21 in a letter in which he stated that regretfully, the workshop program will not be accommodated.

"We hope you appreciate our need to be somewhat exclusive during such a (moving and remodeling) period," he said.

Benner contends that not everything is being explained. "I think it's a matter of buck passing," he said.

"There's so much room at Duns Scotus, surely they can accommodate us despite the Waldorf Institute. When we started in 1970, we were welcomed with open arms."

Old music on Sunday at UM-D

The music of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance will come to life when the Toronto Consort presents a concert at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, March 11.

The performance will be held in the historic Fair Lane Conference Center on the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus. The concert is part of the Fair Lane Music Guild's annual chamber music series.

Now in its seventh season, the Toronto Consort is composed of six singers and instrumentalists who perform in period costume on authentic historical instruments. Their programs present music from the 12th and 17th centuries, ranging from the most serious liturgical music to courtly love songs and dance, as well as earthy popular lyrics.

Tickets for the concert are $4.50 for the public ($2.50 for senior citizens), available at the door. For additional information, call 593-5556.

Annual film festival at U-M next week

The 17th annual Ann Arbor Film Festival is running from Tuesday through Sunday, March 13-18, in the Old Architecture and Design Auditorium on the main campus of the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

It will provide film buffs with a comprehensive view of 16mm films selected from more than 400 entries by independent producers and artists from North America and abroad.

Audiences at previous festivals have seen early works by such noted film makers as George Lucas, director of "Star Wars," Hollywood director Brian De Palma, and Academy Award-winning animators Will Vinton and Frank Mouris. Andy Warhol appeared with the Velvet Underground at an early festival and New York costume artist Pat Olesko appears annually at the six-day event.

More than 140 hours of film are submitted to festival director George Manupelli, out of which officials will select 25-30 hours to be shown to the public and festival judges. Public screenings will be at 7, 9 and 11 p.m. nightly from Tuesday through Friday and at 1, 7 and 9 p.m. Saturday in the Old A & D Building on Monroe and Tappan streets in Ann Arbor.

Festival winners will be shown on Sunday, March 18 at 7, 9 and 11 p.m. in both the Old A & D Auditorium and in Auditorium A of Angell Hall.

Single admission to a screening is available at the door. Series tickets are on sale in advance through the University of Michigan Cinema Guild at its nightly film presentations in the Old A & D Building.

FESTIVAL WINNERS receive cash awards and are eligible to be included in the Ann Arbor Film Festival tour screened at colleges and universities across the country. In addition, representatives from institutions including the Whitney Museum and the Museum of Modern Art in New York City, the Chicago Art Institute and Underground Cinema-12 attend the screenings to select outstanding films for their theaters and archives.

Since some of the films are not for family viewing, discretion is advised when purchasing tickets, a festival spokesman said.

Woody Sempliner is manager of the 1979 festival. Director George Manupelli, long a figure in American 16mm film, began the festival in 1962 while teaching at the University of Michigan's Art School. He now teaches at York University in Toronto.

Folk art displayed

"Rainbows in the Sky," an exhibition of 20th century Michigan folk art, will be on display at the Walter P. Reuther Library on the Wayne State University campus through April 6.

The library, at the corner of Cass and Kirby, is open between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The exhibition, organized and circulated by Michigan State University Museum curators Kurt Dewhurst and Marsha MacDowell, is free of charge and open to the public.

Schoolcraft College hosting dinner theater

The Schoolcraft College student dinner-theater production of "Exit the Body" will be performed March 23-24 and 30-31 in the Waterman Campus Center.

Directed by Lawrence Rudick and assisted by Dale Feldpausch, technical director, the cast includes Debra Bunch, Marc Harlow, Scott Muzinski, Karin Rathbun and Karen Weinberg of Livonia; Edwin Clarke, Ellen Clarke, Betty Hancock and Douglas Webster of Northville; and Michael Corliss of Plymouth.

Written by Fred Carmichael, the story is about woman mystery writer Crane Hammond, who rents a New England vacation house for a month of relaxation. The house, however, has stolen jewels which are being hunted, and events such as the opening and closing of doors add suspense and laughter.

The play's author is a comedy, farce and mystery writer who has been active in summer stock, acting on television and with touring companies in the United States.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. and the play will begin at 8 p.m. The menu features fresh fruit cup grenadine; lettuce, spinach and mushroom salad with Vealtoff dressing; potted beef steak Provencale, royale potatoes, brussels sprouts imperial, assorted rolls and butter, beverage and Bavarian cream pie.

Tickets are $10, must be purchased in advance and are available in the college bookstore. For more information, call 591-6400, ext. 265. Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Rd. in Livonia.

'Much Ado' on campus

Neil Thackaberry Jr. and Dianne Winslow appear as the good-natured foes-turned-lovers Benedick and Beatrice in Shakespeare's comedy "Much Ado About Nothing," which joins the Hilberry Theater repertory March 16-17 at 8:30 p.m. The setting for the play is based on drawings for a reconstructed Globe Theater stage. Wayne State University is hosting a symposium in May to discuss plans for a proposed reconstruction of the Globe. The play continues in the repertory through May 18. For tickets and reservations, call 577-2972.

Canadian bicycle tour Sunday at the Institute

An updated color film tour, "British Columbia — Canadian Rockies to Alaska," will be presented by Stan Midgley for George Pierrot's World Adventure Series at the Detroit Institute of Arts at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, March 11.

This is the second of five consecutive Sunday shows to be presented by humorist Midgley, whose trademark is his bicycle which keeps appearing in unlikely places.

Midgley begins his Brtish Columbia trip at the seaside metropolis of Vancouver, then moves inland to show the natural beauty of the province. He takes a train ride aboard the Royal Hudson line, views Lake Louise high in the Rockies and cruises up the fiord-laced Inside Passage to Alaska.

His lens focuses on sunny beaches, historic sites, glaciers and some of Canada's vast parks — all set in colorful scenery.

Other Midgley shows are a repeat of "Hawaii, Isles of Enchantment" on March 18, "Colorado Adventure — 1978" on March 25, and "Southern California, Los Angeles to Las Vegas" on April 1.

For information on those programs, write World Adventure Series, Detroit Institute of Arts, Detroit 48202, or call 832-7676 daily. Reserved seats are $3.

GEORGE SHIRLEY

Opera tenor in open recital

George Shirley, operatic tenor, will perform in a recital open to the public at 10:30 a.m. March 27 in the Community Arts Auditorium of Wayne State University.

Tuesday Musicale of Detroit is sponsoring the concert. A luncheon follows in the McGregor Memorial Conference Center.

Shirley is a former Detroiter and a Wayne State University graduate.

He recently appeared on the Laudenslager Series and will be in the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's presentation of "Elektra."

For his Tuesday Musicale recital Shirley has chosen arias from Handel's "Floridante" and "Giustino" and Thomas's "Mignon," along with songs by Bellini, Duparc and Ginastera and spirituals by Boatner, Hayes, Johnson and Perkinson.

Artist Concert Chairman Mrs. Eugene T. Ignasiak of Grosse Pointe has tickets at $3 ($2 for students and seniors). They are also available at the Wayne State University Book Store and at the door.

Mrs. Joseph Shaheen of Grosse Pointe is taking luncheon reservations at $6 each.

For information call 884-2898.

Fiction solicited for book

Wayne State University Press, in cooperation with the Michigan Council for the Arts, announces that it will publish "The Third Coast: Contemporary Michigan Fiction."

The editors are inviting all Michigan authors, both published and unpublished, to submit manuscripts of short stories or excerpts of novels for consideration.

Submissions should be made by April 30 and the editors' decisions will be made by the end of May. Authors accepted for inclusion in the anthology will be asked to secure permissions and furnish photographs in time for the copy to reach the printer by July.

The book, a companion volume to the anthology of poetry by the same name, will be a 300-page collection of short fiction by 10 to 15 writers. The first edition will be 4,000 copies, both paper and hardbound.

Manuscripts must be sumbitted to The Third Coast, James Tipton or Robert Wegner, Alma College, Alma, Mich. 48801.

This project is made possible through a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts. Further information may be obtained by contacting the Michigan Council for the Arts, 1200 Sixth Ave., Detroit 48226.

Monday recital at Schoolcraft

A woodwind quintet comprised of Schoolcraft College summer music faculty members will give a free performance Monday night, March 12.

The 8 p.m. recital in Schoolcraft's Waterman Campus Center is part of the college Cultural and Public Affairs Chamber Music Series.

In Conventry puppet ministry

Brain and heart talk to kids

By SHERRY KAHAN

If you want to deliver a message to young people that drugs are not good for the body, why not let the affected bodily parts speak for themselves? After all, who better can report how it feels to be hit by a foriegn substance than the heart, brain, stomach or liver?

So those organs have starring roles in an upcoming puppet panel program on drug abuse to be presented from 7:15-8:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 14 in the Covenant Community Church of Redford Township. The church is located at 25800 Student near Beech Daly and Five Mile.

The puppet organs will be operated by the Covenant Christianeers. Although in the past the ministry has dealt with gospel messages, recently it has turned to issues of the day. The puppeteers have been trying to let young people hear the word on drugs, alcoholism and smoking.

Real live people will also be part of the program on March 14, appearing as panelists. Among the participants will be Dr. Elmer Nelson, a Redford Township physician who practices in Livonia, and Bill Blackwell of Southfield who works in school administration in Birmingham. Other panelists are Redford Township police office Keith Anderson and Gerry Walton, also of Redford, who will be commentator.

Thirty-six creatures made of cloth, foam rubber and snippets as needed are the stars of the ministry. Appearing along with the body parts already mentioned are such big names as Smokey Hackinkoff, Zachary Daquiri, Officer Ketchum and Greg Handsome.

One of the plots involves the trial of Zachary Daquiri, with the bailiff calling on Heart, Liverace, Stomach and Brain to give evidence on how Zachary's drinking is affecting them.

"WHEN THE PUPPET ministry started, they needed a director," said Sarah Warren of Garden City. She took the job and it was the start of a fascinating hobby. "At first the shows were done once a month in the children's church. But now we are a traveling ministry also. We've gone to Ohio and Flint, and to places and organizations in the area.

"I enjoy working with puppets. As a young person I worked with a ventriloquist dummy. You pull a string to move the mouth, whereas with puppets, you use your hands to open the mouth. You have to be ingenious to operate them in a life-like manner to get the effect you want."

Assistant director Velva Jeter of Redford Township likes working with the young puppeteers as well as trying to get a gospel message across in a different way.

"We started with a gospel ministry teaching Bible stories in a way children would remember," observed Mrs. Jeter. "But we felt there is so much drug and other abuse today, perhaps we could reach young people through our puppets. They usually turn off when someone talks and talks to them.

"In this work I feel I am doing something that is useful. It is my way of serving the Lord."

MRS. WARREN WANTED to be sure that everyone knew about the junior and senior high students who move the arms, legs, heads and mouths of the puppet actors.

"We have a lot of fun," she began. "We really enjoy ourselves and there is fooling around. Sometimes the students joke with one and other, with each one taking on the personality of the puppet they are working with.

"But they are very dedicated. They are faithful about coming to practice and they work hard."

The Covenant Christianeers have had to respond to such theatrical crises as a set that started to fall down and performers who are too ill to show up. "Once three puppeteers were ill, so the others had to take on two puppets," said Mrs. Warren. "The kids don't think about the problem, they just take care of it.

"They know their job and they do the best they can, and they really come across."

Working these small creatures and talking for them are Mark Caswell, Tami LeVos, Scott Leyton and Sheryl and Kathy McCalla of Livonia, and Carol Schultz and Greg Podolak of Redford Township. Other puppeteers are Jeannie Gafford of Westland, Jeanette Franke of Dearborn and Kevin Stephens of Detroit.

An adult puppeteer is Vic Hollingshed of Farmington, who also builds equipment the troupe uses.

OTHERS WHO CONTRIBUTE their skills to the enterprise are Elaine McCalla, who writes some of the scripts; Bob Killenger who is in charge of sound and Virginia Nelson who coaches those who tape the shows.

RIVERSIDE PARK CHURCH OF GOD, 11771 Newburgh, Livonia, will have Nasser Farag as guest speaker for its missions fair March 10-11. He and his wife, Marilyn, have been missionaries in Kenya. Farag will speak at both the 10:45 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Sunday services.

The weekend will start with the Missions Fair on Saturday featuring native dress and foods from Africa, the Far East, Near East and Mexico. Speaking during the fair will be the Rev. Jacob Kakish, a native of Jordan, who started the Arabic ministry in Detroit.

Farag works at a polytechnic center training young Kenyans in small animal husbandry and home industries. He also teaches at Kima Theological College, and is in charge of leadership training in the Kakamega, Butsotso and Shitoli areas. His wife does part-time nursing at Mwihila Hospital and works with youth and women.

NASSER FARAG

CHRIST OUR SAVIOR LUTHERAN CHURCH, 14175 Farmington, Livonia, will host the 100-voice Bentley High School Concert Choir in the first sacred concert in its new sanctuary at 3 p.m. Sunday, March 11. Directed by Dr. Jerry Smith, the choir will sing "Give Thanks Unto God" by Pachelbel, Beethoven's "Hallelujah" and "The Heavens Are Falling" from Haydn's "The Creation."

"Visions of St. John" by John Ness Beck will feature the choir's accompanist, Jill Christenson. The mixed ensemble will perform "All My Trials" and the girls ensemble will sing "Hear the Voice and Prayer of Thy Servant" by Tallis.

The concert is open to the public. Nursery care will be provided.

FAITH LUTHERAN CHURCH, 30000 Five Mile, Livonia will have Lenten evening prayers two nights weekly during the Lenten season, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday. Two mid-week services are offered to accommodate those unable to attend on other evenings. A coffee hour will follow the service.

ELIM BAPTIST CHURCH, 19333 Lahser, Detroit, will present the Bethel College Choir of St. Paul, Minn. in a sacred concert at 7:30 p.m. Monday, March 19. The 73-voice choir will perform works by Tschesnokoff, Jacob Handl, Bach, Mendelssohn and Grieg.

Thomas to bring music to meeting

Lee Thomas, minister of gospel music, will speak at the Friday, March 16 dinner meeting of the Plymouth-Livonia Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship in the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

Thomas and his wife, Nancy, have recorded several gospel albums. They also sing in many churches and before many organizations.

Dinner costs $8 and begins at 7 p.m. Send reservation checks payable to Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship to PO Box 5332, Northville 48167 by March 14.

Dr. King to open missionary event

Dr. Louis King, president of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, will bring the opening message to the annual missionary conference to be held Sunday, March 11 in Ward United Presbyterian Church, Five Mile and Farmington, Livonia.

He will speak at the 9:30 and 11:30 services. A missionary to India for seven years, Dr. King supervised the opening of Palanpur State to Christian gospel after India gained its independence.

More than 20 missionaries representing 17 organizations will participate in the event. The Rev. Alf Gould, former missionary to Trinidad under the Chinese Gospel Fellowship, will speak at the women's luncheon at noon Tuesday, March 13. Music will be provided by the Fifth Season.

Missionaries will also be speaking at various women's circles during the week. They will be involved in regularly scheduled classes of the School of Christian Education at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 14.

The All Nations Festival banquet to be held at 6:30 p.m. Friday, March 16, will have as its keynote speaker the Rev. Greg Tingson, a native of the Philippines serving under Asian Christian Outreach. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children five to 12.

The Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Trew, missionaries to Brazil, will speak at a children's rally and luncheon from 10 a.m. until noon on Saturday, March 17.

DR. LOUIS KING

The conference will close with a message from Dr. Bartlett Hess at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services. The Rev. L. Edward Davis will give the challenge, "God Wants You . . . Will You?" at the 7 p.m. service of commitment.

'Almost Spring' hailed in song

"Almost Spring," a concert of choral music, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 14 by the Plymouth Salem High School vocal music department. The performance will be in the school auditorium on Joy Road west of Canton Center Road.

The singers will be directed by Fred Nelson in the concert which is free and open to the public.

The program will include "Song Sung Blue" by the mixed chorus; "Jump Shout Boogie" by the triple trios; "You Needed Me" by Shelley McKelvey; "In the Still of the Night" by Penny Wasalaski; and "We May Never Pass This Way Again," (Reflections).

Psalm 150 will be sung by the choir conducted by Mike McGonagle, composer. Glenn Carlos is choreographer and director of Reflections.

Soloist for "One Little Candle" will be Sue Hartunian.

Agency director speaks to Council on Aging

Fred C. Harris, director of the Detroit-Wayne County area Agency on Aging will be guest speaker when the Plymouth Community Council on Aging meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 13 in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Ferris will base his talk on the questions "How shall we use our council?" and "How important is the council to the community?"

The speaker is a member of the Michigan Society of Gerontology and the National Association of Social Workers. He has been recognized for his work in the fields of arbitration, human sources accountability, and senior citizen program development.

He graduated from the University of Michigan School of Social Work, Wayne University, Boston School of Liberal Arts and Tufts University.

The local council on aging has extended invitations to organizations, seniors clubs and churches to send representatives to the meeting.

It is part of the effort to interest residents in the council and its efforts to provide independence and a state of well being for Plymouth's older citizens.

The Plymouth Council on Aging has been involved the Vial of Life program and the Senior Discount Program which have been of great benefit to the senior members of the community.

Madonna to register

Registration for the spring and summer terms at Madonna College of Livonia is scheduled for the week of March 12-17.

To avoid long hours of standing in line, registrations will be accepted on an alphabetical rotating basis.

Madonna's curriculum places an emphasis on career-oriented education, with more than 40 areas of concentration.

These include criminal justice, business administration, legal assistant and administrator, computer science, gerontology, home economics and family life, interpretation for total communication with deaf persons, nursing and emergency medical technology.

There also are new programs in allied health management, dietetics, foreign languages, education including secondary, elementary and special, and an expanded program in occupational safety and health and fire science.

The registrar's office will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday-Friday, March 12-16, 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, March 17. Call the college for the registration schedule.

Eye research potluck topic

The Retinitis Pigmentosa Foundation of Michigan will hold its spring potluck luncheon at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, March 18, at the Farmington Hills Library, 32737 W. Twelve Mile Rd., Farmington Hills.

Dr. Robert Jampel, medical adviser for the chapter and director of the Kresge Eye Institute, will discuss current research being done for retinitis pigmentosa.

He also will discuss the results of his examination of David Ross, a Westland youth who was treated in Russia for retinitis pigmentosa.

Reservations are being accepted by Marion Whiteside, 549-2050, until March 10.

Salem demolishes Zebras

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

Plymouth Salem took its first step toward a district basketball championship Tuesday night, demolishing hapless Wayne Memorial 79-52 in first-round action at the Rocks' gym.

Salem, currently 19-2 overall and ranked 10th in the state by the Detroit Free Press, advances to district semifinal action tonight against 2-18 Garden City East. Game time is 8:30 p.m., immediately following the Plymouth Canton-Westland John Glenn semifinal game on the other side of the bracket.

The 5-16 Zebras from the Great Lakes Eight League were no match for the Suburban Eight League champions as Salem's overall quickness and superb team defense spelled the difference in the game.

Wayne, known for slowing things down when playing a quicker team, actually tried to run with the swift Rocks but to no avail. The Zebras held an early 2-1 lead but junior Rob Neu's basket with 5:51 left in the first quarter put Salem ahead for good. Neu's bucket started a 16-point Rock spurt which gave the home team an unsurmountable 17-2 advantage with 2:19 left in the first stanza.

Salem went on to hold a 25-8 first-quarter lead thanks to 11 Wayne turnovers and a 39-20 halftime advantage. The Rocks came out in the second half and outscored the Zebras, 20-10, to take a 59-30 lead into the final period.

The biggest Salem lead was 36 points, 77-41, with 3:21 left in the game.

Five different Salem players reached double figures as floor leader Rich Hewlett paced the balance scoring attack with 17 points. Bill Thimm, a 6-5 senior center who has been playing his best ball in the last three weeks, added 13 points and eight rebounds. Howard Monk added 11 points and 10 rebounds, while Matt Etienne, a senior co-captain, and Neu canned 10 points each.

Hewlett added eight rounds and seven assists to his totals, while Neu registered six assists. Junior reserve forward Jim Anderson also played a solid game with eight points and eight rebounds off the bench. Senior Barry Owens added his usual solid defensive game.

Rock coach Fred Thomann admitted he didn't know what to expect from Wayne. The Salem coach said he thought Wayne was going to try running with his squad early and then slow down after they got the lead.

"They (Wayne) had a 2-1 lead but then we made it 9-2 (actually 17-2) and that was it," Thomann said. "They didn't have enough good ballhandlers to deal with our defense.

Wayne's leading scorer was guard Kyle Poteau who scored 17 points. He was the only Zebra in double figures.

Salem extended its 25-8 first quarter lead by two points in the second period despite shooting only five of 20 from the floor and committing eight turnovers in the period.

For the game, the Rocks hit 33 of 69 from the floor for 46 percent. Wayne hit only 17 of 48 for 35 percent. The Rocks outrebounded Wayne, 57-20.

Rock matmen have tough luck at state

Plymouth Salem's three state-qualifying wrestlers ran into some tough luck last weekend, as all three grapplers failed to place among the top six finalists in their respective weight classes.

Temperance-Bedford, a perennial state power in Class A competition, won the state title for the third time in four years with 105 points. Hazel Park placed second at 59½ and Belleville, the Suburban Eight League co-champion, was third at 58. The Rocks didn't qualify in the top 20 spots, although the local squad placed 15th last season.

"We had things happen that should not have happened and we paid the consequences," said Salem coach Ron Krueger. "We didn't get the luck of the draw, I'll tell you that."

The three Salem wrestlers, all juniors, lost to grapplers who placed in the top six of their weight classes.

"We didn't have a prayer," the Salem coach said. "The kindness of the wrestling gods were not upon us."

Jim Schultz, wrestling at 101 pounds, won his first match by a 15-2 decision but then ran into Jack Roth of Bedford and John Swix of Lansing Eastern and lost twice by decisions. Roth placed second in the state and Swix ended fourth.

Schultz's first victory set a new Salem school record for number of victories in one season, however, as the junior raised his record to 41-5 after the state-meet competition.

Schultz won both the regional and district titles the previous two weeks at Walled Lake Western.

Mark Ross, a regional champion and second-place finisher in the districts at 129 pounds, lost two matches to the eventual second and third-place wrestlers in the state. Ross trailed 3-0 in the first period and then lost 5-3 in his first-round match against Greg Jones of Port Huron Northern, the second-place finisher. Ross followed that match by losing a 1-0 heartbreaker to the eventual third-place wrestler Keith Russell from Grandville.

Jeff Brown, a third-place finisher in the regionals and district champion at 115 pounds, won his first match but then had to face C.J. Herron from Flint Northwestern, the eventual third-place finisher in the class. Brown trailed Herron 12-0 at one stage of the match and ended up losing 12-9. Brown then fell in his next match and was eliminated by fifth-place wrestler Pete Pehur of Utica Eisenhower.

"We just met the kids we were supposed to see later in the afternoon," said Krueger.

Glenn rallies by West

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Daran Armstrong showed everyone Monday night why college scouts drool over his talents.

The 6-foot senior guard from Westland John Glenn rallied his squad from a nine-point deficit with only 3:19 remaining to give the Rockets a 72-60 overtime victory over Garden City West.

Despite the 12-point spread, it was anything but an easy victory for the Northwest Suburban League champions who now advance to the district semifinals against Plymouth Canton tonight (Thursday) starting at 7 p.m. at the Plymouth Salem gym.

In fact, Garden City West, co-champs of the Tri-River League, was in control all the way, leading by scores of 55-46 with 3:19 left and 57-49 with only 2:54 remaining in the fourth quarter.

But then it was time for Armstrong to do his thing, registering three straight steals which sparked the Rockets to 10 unanswered points and the lead 59-57 with 39 seconds to go in regulation time.

West's Jeff McCann hit a bank shot with 20 seconds left, to send the game into overtime but the damage had already been done.

The Rockets' continued to hold the momentum, as Armstrong made two more steals en route to a 13-1 scoring spree in the extra three-minute stanza.

"The kids just wanted it," said an elated Glenn coach Gordie Davis, whose squad now holds a 17-4 record. "It was just a lot of determination on our full court press and the three key steals from Daran that really shook them (West) up."

"Armstrong took over — there's no doubt about it," said Tiger coach Chris Babler. "We played our game until that time. We controlled the tempo until that point (three minutes to go) of the game.

"You have to appreciate the way Glenn came back. We had them on their heels and they were rocking. I thought our kids played hard and went out in style."

"They (West) were killing us on the boards," Davis said. "At one point, I thought it would really be difficult (to win)."

Armstrong led all scorers with 27 points, 13 of which came from the foul line. Teammate Tony Colucci showed a strong eye from the outside with 19 points. Tim Ruark added 11.

West was led by the strong inside play of Pat Dybas who recorded 18 points. Gary Rago and McCann added 12 each. The Tigers finish the season with a 14-7 record.

Prep hockey costly sport

RESOLVED: That high-school hockey be abolished and that participation be encouraged in community hockey associations.

AFFIRMATIVE

• High school hockey is too expensive to support in terms of participation. Approximately $4,300 was spent for ice time last season, not to mention salaries for coaches, for Livonia's four high school teams — Franklin, Stevenson, Bentley and Churchill. Each squad carried approximately 16 players.

• The Taylor School District sponsored hockey for its three high schools one year, the 1976-77 season. The total start-up cost was $30,000, the bulk of which went for equipment.

A millage crisis led to program cutbacks, including hockey. "We take a look at the biggest expenditure against the participation level," said William Jacobs, athletic director of the Taylor School District, explaining how programs are dropped.

"If we cut the program out, can the kids continue to participate? It didn't hurt a bit," Jacobs continued. "They (former players) jumped into travel leagues and recreation leagues."

All programs except hockey were eventually reinstated.

• The Plymouth-Canton School District had planned to sponsor teams at Salem and Canton high schools a couple of years back. The teams never materialized due to money problems within the district.

• The Livonia Hockey Association (LHA) has eight Midget Division teams (15-16 years of age) this winter — six in-house squads and two travel teams.

There are no Junior Division squads (17-18 years of age) due to a lack of interest.

"Our board had discussed what we could do (when hockey was listed for elimination by school officials last summer during a money crunch)," said Mike Pulick, LHA president. "We couldn't come to any real decision because the millage went through."

The point is, plans had been in the works to deal with the situation if the schools would have followed through and dropped hockey.

NEGATIVE

• "Hockey is expensive, but not as expensive as other sports," said Warren D. McKenzie, assistant director of the Michigan High School Athletic Association. "If you compare it dollar for dollar with football, it's not as expensive."

• "Hockey is not as an expensive sport as football is, as a generalization," said John McDonald, director of secondary education for the Livonia School District.

Costs are minimized in the Livonia system through a working arrangement with the city parks and recreation department.

The school district is billed $50 per hour for games during prime time. There is no charge for practice ice time. In return, the schools make available gymnasiums for the city's recreation program. Both sides benefit in this working arrangement.

• There is no direct cost to the high school player other than providing his own skates and shin pads. Those involved in community hockey associations must pay their share of both practice and game ice time.

A boy will probably pay $25 a month at the midget level in the LHA, said Pulick. Cost to participate in the Westland Hockey Association has been estimated at $400 per season by John Browning, WHA president.

• An advantage of high school programs is their authority to keep players in line both on and off the ice with eligibility rules and personal conduct codes.

"I don't think the coaching is any better (at the high school level compared to hockey associations)," said Franklin's Paul Ferguson. "I think what's expected of the coach is discipline. I know what to expect of the kids, as a teacher, as far as mental discipline is concerned."

All coaches in the LHA and WHA are unpaid volunteers and most are parents. Pulick said he finds that while parents are most involved in the younger age divisions, they "are just not there for boys 15-18 and it really hurts."

• Most everyone — including Ferguson, Pulick, Browning and Jerry Kestner, coach at Stevenson — agrees that competition is a little better at the high school level.

• Finally, Kestner believes that not everyone on his team this year would find a place to play if high schools were to discontinue the sport.

FOOTNOTE

Surprisingly, high school hockey has grown in the state during these times of millage problems and program cutbacks. Seventy-six teams competed in the first state tournament in 1975. One hundred and two have signed to play this winter.

WSDP airs districts

WSDP-FM, 88.1 on the dial, will broadcast the live action from both district semifinal basketball games at the Plymouth Salem gym tonight.

In the first game, Jon Hewett (play-by-play) and George Hamblin (color commentary) will describe the action of the Plymouth Canton-Westland John Glenn cage contest starting at 7 p.m. The battle features the best from the Wsstern Six League (Canton) against the champions of the Northwest Suburban League (Glenn).

In the second contest, Chris Koepke (play-by-play) and Ross Rhinehart (color commentary) will be on hand for the Plymouth Salem-Garden City East starting at 8:30 p.m. The Suburban Eight League champion Rocks are the favorite to win the district title.

WSDP-FM will also broadcast the district finals on Saturday night, if one of the two Plymouth squads advance to the championship round. Broadcast time for the final is 7:30 p.m.

Soccer clinic offered

Any parents interested in coaching or refereeing soccer are invited to register for a soccer clinic sponsored by the Canton, Northville, Plymouth Family YMCA.

Van Dimitriou, head soccer coach at the University of Michigan (Dearborn) and Larry Christoff, Schoolcraft Community College head coach, will run activities geared for parents interested in learning and working with little league soccer players.

The clinic will be held on three Saturdays, March 17, 24 and 31 from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Starkweather Elementary School.

Registration fee is $10 per person. Basic techniques of refereeing and coaching with be emphasized.

For more information of this program call the YMCA at 453-2904.

Cole boxes in Ann Arbor

Eric "Shotgun" Cole of Plymouth Township will be one of many boxers competing in the 1979 Golden Gloves quarterfinal and semifinal boxing championship at Ann Arbor Huron High School Saturday, starting at 8 p.m.

The event, sponsored by the Ann Arbor Boxing Club, costs $3 for children and students and $5 for adults. Huron High is at 2727 Fuller Road in Ann Arbor.

Cole, 13, has had a very successful boxing career, despite his age. He already has gained Junior Olympic Champion status.

For more information, call 434-4550, 971-2016 or 662-6265.

Saving carpets

To prolong the life of your carpet, use door mats at all entrances to absorb soil and moisture. Use a good carpet pad, particularly on stairways.

Move heavy furniture occasionally to avoid excessive crushing of the carpet nap. At least once a week (more frequently in high traffic areas), give your carpet a thorough vacuuming.

Jr. cagers crown champs

Happiness, disappointments and the usual amount of surprises highlighted the championship games of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball Association (PCJBA) playoffs held last Saturday at Pioneer Middle School and Plymouth Canton High School gymnasiums.

The Bucks of the Boys AAA League (grades 11-12) were crowned the playoff champions after defeating the Jazz in the finale, 80-76. The Bucks topped the Spurs 86-80 in the semifinal game, while the Jazz edged the Pistons 80-78 in their semifinal contest.

The Hawks got the best of the Darts in the championship game of the Boys B League (grades four-five), winning 49-29 at Pioneer. The Hawks advanced to the finals after a 51-36 victory over the Mustangs in the semifinals and a 60-40 victory over the Sonics in the quarterfinals.

The runners-up from the Darts squad beat the Royals 38-29 in the semifinals and smoked the Bulldogs 56-35 in the quarterfinals.

Other quarterfinal games in the Boys B League saw the Royals trip the Trojans 35-32 and the Mustangs demolish the Stags 51-29.

The Dolphins got the best of the T-Birds, 48-21, in the finals of the Girls B League (grades five-seven). The Dolphins edged the upstart Appollos 30-21 in one semifinal contest, while the T-Birds nipped the Blues 29-28 in the other semifinal.

The Wolverines of the Boys AA League (grades eight-10) blitzed the Badgers 52-43 in their playoff championship game. The Wolverines tipped the Illini 42-38 in one semifinal game, while the Badgers downed the Boilermakers 46-40 in their semifinal battle.

The Cougars of the Boys A League (grades six-seven) beat the Celtics, 37-32, to win their championship. To reach the finals, the Cougars edged the Mustangs 34-32, while the Celtics whipped the Warriors 35-31 in the semifinal games.

In quarterfinal action, the Mustangs just got by the Royals, 61-59, the Cougars thrashed the Pistons, 57-47, the Warriors beat the Rocks, 64-53, and the Celtics boiled the Bullets, 28-23.

The Girls AA League (grades eight-10) championship game found the Dolphins besting the Jays, 32-24, for that title. The Dolphins nipped the Jets 42-40 and the Jays tipped the Angels 31-27 in the semifinal games.

The Sportsmanship Awards for the C League boys winner went to the Royals, while the C League honor for the girls went to the Lakers.

Chiefs nip N'ville; Heaton hurt

Despite not playing at full force, the Plymouth Canton varsity volleyball team added another victory to its record by defeating Northville Monday by scores of 15-9, 15-8.

The Chiefs lacked the power they usually have both offensively and defensively because senior captain Kelly Heaton was missing from the line-up.

Heaton suffered a broken ankle after slipping on ice last week. She was sent to the hospital to have a screw placed in her left ankle. Having to be on crutches for the next two months, the Canton leader sat the bench and watched her team take its tenth win of the season.

Playing without Heaton, the Chiefs were missing the powerful attack that the all-state candidate added to the Canton offense. But the Chiefs had no trouble at all in picking up Northville's offensive hits that barely came over the net.

After trailing 3-5 early in the first game, Canton's Jill Pedersen served three points giving the the Chiefs their first lead of the game.

A determined Canton defense held the Mustangs to only four more points and closed out the first game in fine fashion.

With the score bouncing back and forth during the opening of the second game, Canton kept out in front and took the game and the match holding Northville to only eight points.

"We played as a team and had a lot of hits," said Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein. "Our hits weren't that threatening but we set up almost every ball that came over the net. That's encouraging when I think about next year."

Canton failed to qualify for the regional tournament when it lost to Westland John Glenn in the district competition last Saturday. The Chiefs fell by scores of 8-15, 9-15.

Livonia Churchill won Saturday's competition by beating Livonia Bentley in the finals, 15-1, 15-13.

Canton plays this afternoon (Thursday) in a make-up match against Walled Lake Western at Walled Lake starting at 4 p.m. This is the Chiefs last match of the season, ending with an 11-2 record if they beat the Warriors.

Earlier last week Plymouth Salem finished its season when it was eliminated by Farmingtonl High School in predistrict competition.

New buses ordered

The Southeasern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) has ordered 167 new buses built by General Motors Corp., according to General Manager Larry E. Salci.

Of these, 122 are earmarked for the Detroit Department of Transportation. The remaining 45 are headed for SEMTA's stalls to serve the suburbs.

They will replace older vehicles in each transit system's fleet.

It is SEMTA's second major bus purchase in the past 11 months. Last spring the regional transportation authority bought 189 buses.

The latest purchase, totaling $18.7 million, included two types of buses, those 40 feet and those 35 feet in length. SEMTA purchased 141 40-foot-long buses.

Each new bus will be equipped with a wheelchair lift and space for one wheelchair.

Bentley, N'ville triumph

THE LIVONIA CHURCHILL Chargers took a 51-47 defeat Monday in first-round action at the Churchill Class A District.

Both squads, which had hot and cold shooting spells from the field, took turns holding the lead.

The Mustangs led 15-8 after the first period, but didn't register their first points of the second quarter until nearly midway through. The Chargers held the upper hand at the intermission, 23-22.

Northville went the first 3½ minutes of the third period without scoring, but Churchill went cold at the same time and couldn't put its foe away when it had that opportunity.

Joe Schimpf, Northville's center who led all scorers with 24 points, sank four of five shots from the field during the third quarter to enable the Mustangs to keep pace. Most were from long range.

The Chargers led by one, 37-36, going into the final period and held the lead until Northville secured the advantage, 43-41, with 3:30 remaining. The Mustangs never trailed after that.

Churchill, however, was not without its chances down the stretch. Two crucial turnovers and a missed foul shot during a one-and-one opportunity made the difference.

"I think we had chances. We just couldn't convert," said Fred Price, coach of the Chargers. "We missed too many easy inside shots. Early in the ball game, turnovers hurt. We had enough opportunities. We couldn't convert from the line and we threw the ball away at the end."

A key factor in the outcome was that Ralph Jarnot, Churchill's biggest player at 6-4, drew three personal fouls after only 2½ minutes had been played in the first quarter.

That happenstance led Price to question the officiating, which he termed inconsistent.

Steve Zaborowski led the Chargers with 16 points, including a 4-4 performance from the free-throw line. Dave Krick added 10 and Brian Kersten nine.

Rocks back in state elite

Plymouth Salem's basketball team was back in the state spotlight early this week when its 18-2 record impressed the Detroit Free Press enough for the 10th and last spot in the newspaper's state rankings.

The Suburban Eight League champions were state rated earlier in the season after winning its first 11 games. The Rocks then lost their spot in the elite 10 after back-to-back setbacks from Dearborn Fordson and Dearborn Edsel Ford.

Salem has won seven straight games since the double losses going into state district action.

The Rocks did not reach state recognition in the Detroit News' poll, however, but managed a third-place rating in the local Metro West rankings behind Ypsilanti and River Rouge.

Plymouth Canton, the Western Six League champions with a 16-4 overall record, were ranked 10th in the News' Metro West, tied with Westland John Glenn.

IN THE POCKET

By W. W. EDGAR

There was a time not too long ago when a left hand bowler was a rarity in the all-star leagues.

The few who were around never figured to move to the top of the averages because they felt they had to bowl on "stiff" alleys all the time.

Times have changed and now the southpaws are starting to dominate the game. The most successful has been Earl Anthony, of the Pacific Northwest, who is the pro bowlers' all-time leading money winner.

Now we have left handers leading both sexes and no one ever would have dreamed that possible.

THE WOMEN went on a scoring spree at Merri-Bowl during the week and when the final pin fell Barbara Brough was at the head of the list in the Ladies Classic.

After opening with a 178, she came back with games of 231 and 215 for 649. Her closest rival was Denise Grote who had counts of 213 and 221 in 614. Jan Elliott had high game with a 236.

In the invitational doubles, Jan Boyster set the pace with a 608 which was three pins better than Cheryl Mertz. Lorrie Dempsey took third with a 278 in 604.

MARY LASKEY moved in to the winner's circle in the ladies classic at Garden Lanes with a 633 and made a show of the field.

Her closest rival was Dorothy Lisowski, who was 38 pins back at 595. Doris Hines was next with 594, Mary Mohacsi landed fourth with a 589 and Elena Hall and May Alders tied for the next spot at 575.

THE SENIOR CITIZENS staged a real duel at Garden Lanes when Joe Croskey and Al Strong deadlocked for the lead at 608 and Ken Via was only seven pins back.

AT WOODLAND LANES, Gordon Walsh rolled a 221 in 524 to pace the old timers and at Plymouth Bowl, Rick Lopez paced the seniors with games of 222, 137 and 210 in a 579 series

DORIS MACORKINDALE showed the way in the Livonia Ladies Classic when she won the final game with 180-35 — 215 and the series with 512-105 — 617.

In the other games, Ethel Meisner won the first with 195-23 — 218 and Kay Harmon took the second with 196-35 — 231.

A NEW NAME popped up among the winners in the Little Caesar Classic at Westland Bowl when Earl Van Ness posted a 693 on games of 223, 235 and 235.

SALES/c SALES MANAGEMENT
We are a unique company doing unique things, this includes our approach to hiring instead of limiting our search to persons with product or industry knowledge we attempt to locate the best sales person available whose past performance and future goals match ours. We then throughly train that person in our markets, products, and technology. Makes sense, doesn't it? So does our approach to marketing, salaries, and incentive compensation, territories, benefits, promotions and other factors. If you have a record of success in tangible sales but feel limited in your present situation lets talk. We have openings in both sales and sales management and are currently interviewing. For immediateconsideration please send resume to Box 322, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, Michigan 48150.
