Life's simple pleasures

Water tap-ins in Brentwood prompt bond

Concern over low water pressure and a dwindling sewer capacity has prompted the Canton Township board to demand the first performance bond ever required of a developer over water and sewer issues.

Although a dollar amount has not been set, Republic Development Corp. must inform all builders and buyers of homes in Brentwood Estates Subdivision that tap-ins to township water and sewer lines may not be possible.

The bond was a stipulation of the final plat approval given to Republic by the township board last week for the subdivision south of Ford and east of Sheldon. The vote represents final approval of the subdivision.

Republic stands to lose the bond money if the warning on water and sewer tap-ins is not given in writing to builders or not included in written purchase agreements.

TREASURER JIM DONAHUE said township attorney Bert Burgoyne recommended the performance bond as a way to ensure the public health and welfare.

According to Supervisor Noel Culbert, Burgoyne is researching the legality of actually denying the tap-ins if additional sewer capacity is not available or if the water pressure drops so low that the public health and welfare is jeopardized.

A water pressure problem left hundreds of residents with the inability to flush toilets last summer.

Board members had asked Burgoyne to issue an opinion on the legality of denying the final plat of Brentwood Estates on the basis of low water pressure. They maintained that any additional tap-ins to the water line would decrease water pressure even more during summer months.

But according to Culbert, Burgoyne ruled that the township board could not use the water pressure argument to deny subdivisions in the final plat approval stage because of the money already invested in the development.

Developers must receive approval

Flyer blames Greenstein for low-income woes

A flyer charging Trustee Robert Greenstein with responsibility for two rent-subsidized apartment complexes either under development or proposed in Canton is being distributed by the United Democratic Club of Canton.

Although the flyer does not actually mention either the complex proposed near the Pickwick subdivision or the one under construction on Joy Road near the Forest Trails subdivisions, sources say it is being distributed primarily to the residents of those areas.

"When and by whom was low income housing approved? The foundation was laid by no other than Mr. Robert Greenstein!" the flyer states.

Included with the sheets of information is a resolution passed in March 1975 (while Greenstein still served as supervisor) which vowed Canton's cooperation with Wayne County in "undertaking, or assisting in undertaking, essential community development and housing activities, specifically urban renewal and public assisted housing as contained in the application."

The "application" referred to was Canton Township's bid for a community block grant under Title I of the Federal Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The grant is administered by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

According to Greenstein and Grants Coordinator Terry Carroll, the application was for $31,000 to rennovate the senior citizen's center.

"The block grant application has nothing to do with the apartments going up now," Greenstein said.

"In fact, when the block grant program first came in, I was the one who objected for fear we would be forced into providing the housing. As a result, local mayors and supervisors went to Washington where we talked to the undersecretary of HUD, who assured us there would be no forced housing as a result of the block grant," Greenstein said.

The township board trustee said he had specifically insisted that the words, "as contained in this application" be put on the resolution implementing the block grant program.

Greenstein said that neither his administration nor the current administration had anything to do with the two subsidized rental unit apartment complexes proposed for Canton.

He blames Harold Stein, who served as township subvervisor during the last administration.

"This (the flyer) is a typical Stein-Bradley garbage pit," he said.

Stein could not be reached for comment. The former supervisor is a leader in the United Democratic Club of Canton. Another member of the UDC, George Bradley (whose wife, Anne, was treasurer before the new administration), said at first when contacted he had heard about the flyer being discussed at a Tuesday board meeting, but had known about it in advance. He later said he had been at the UDC meeting where the flyer was discussed, but finally said "no comment" about the hand-out.

The flyer also rebuts a charge made by Greenstein that the reason the new board didn't know about the low income projects was because Stein had removed the files about them when he left office.

Included in the four-page flyer is a letter from Stein to Supervisor Noel Culbert (dated Dec. 13, 1978). The letter from Stein offers to let Clerk John Flodin look through all Stein's files and decide what information should be retained for the township. According to the flyer, Culbert never responded to the letter.

Greenstein said he considered the flyer slanderous, but did not intend to sue. He and several other elected officials are awaiting a court judgement on a lawsuit they filed against the UDC while still candidates for office. During the last election, another flyer had been distributed making charges against Culbert, Greenstein, Treasurer James Donahue and other candidates that angered them enough to sue.

New library board says

Jan. 7 is goal for library opening

The recently-appointed Canton Library Board has set a target date of Jan. 7 for the opening of a library on the third floor of the township administration building.

Canton residents voted to establish a one-mill tax rate ($1 per $1,000 assessed property valuation) for the founding of the library in a special election last month.

Last week, the township board made appointments to the six-member library board which is responsible for library purchases, personnel and financial matters.

Stan Bucher, who was elected board chairman by committee members last Wednesday, said a head librarian should begin working on book orders by Aug. 1. The board plans to advertise for the head librarian job this week.

According to Bucher, the installation of shelves comprises the major obstacle to starting library operations. He said it will take four to five months for shelving companies to fill the order.

Bucher hopes 20,000 books, ranging from children and adult fiction to encyclopedias, will line the new shelves of the library by the expected January opening date. The library board hopes to purchase an additional 35,000 books within the next four to 10 years.

In addition to the head librarian, the library board also plans to hire two assistant librarians and four aides by the opening date.

Appointed to oversee the establishment and operation of the library are board chairman Bucher, treasurer Jim Gillig, secretary Doug Ritter, secretary Mary Feltz, Norma West and John Schwartz. Ms. West will head the Friends of the Library program.

In 1980, the six members of the library board will be elected. Two of the members will be elected to two-year terms, two to four-year terms, and two to six-year terms.

The Canton board had seriously considered the appointment of two township employees who had worked on the library millage to the library board. Norma Waara of the clerk's office and Barb McKuen of the police department had expressed interest in the posts.

But township board members did not name the employees to the commission for fear the appointments would violate provisions of a state law.

The law prohibits employees of a municipality to hold an elective position in the same unit of government.

Ritter makes bid for trustee seat

Another Canton resident has announced his interest in the Board of Trustees seat left vacant by Lynn Goldsmith's resignation.

Doug Ritter, who was appointed to serve on the township's first library committee just last week, said he planned to send members of the township board a letter expressing his interest in the trustee job.

"I realize I would have to quit the library board if I am appointed, but if you want to make a contribution, you have to go where you can do the most good," Ritter said.

"That doesn't mean I wouldn't stay active with the library."

Ritter, who has lived in Canton since 1976, has been active in the township beautification committee and Jaycees organization. He is a customer relations specialist with the General Motors Parts Division at Willow Run.

Newest park named to honor John Flodin

A proposed 20-acre park on Saltz east of Sheldon will be named the John W. Flodin Park in honor of the man who has served as Canton clerk for the past 23 years.

Architects are currently working on a master plan for the site which will become the second township-owned park upon completion in the spring of 1981.

Mike Gouin, superintendent of the parks and recreation department, said the recreation commission selected Flodin's name for the park "based on (the clerk's) years of service in the township and what he's done for recreation."

According to Gouin, Flodin aided in the township's negotiations to purchase the Saltz Road park site.

Flodin said he was "very pleased, proud and humbled" by the name selection which was unanimously approved by the township board last week.

Flodin began working for the township in 1953 as dogcatcher, building inspector and ordinance officer. He was first elected clerk in 1956 and has held that position ever since.

Meetings galore

There are all kinds of meetings going on this week. The Canton Township Planning Commission has the subject of BiProducts Systems request to put a sludge composting site on the Monday night agenda. The meeting begins at 8 p.m. at township hall.

The Plymouth-Canton School Board will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the administration building on Harvey in Plymouth.

Tuesday night, the Canton Township Board of Trustees will hold its regular meeting beginning 7 p.m. in the township administration building on Canton Center Road.

Wet and Wild

Canton employees who work on the second floor of township hall came down with a case of soggy socks when they came to work last Monday morning. It may not have been as bad as the infamous Good Friday flood. But employees reported that a good quarter inch of water covered the tiled floor in the hallway. Chief Building Official Aaron Machnick said the culprit was a "three-cent" fitting in the drinking fountain. "Due to my tremendous experience in plumbing, I managed to turn the water off," Machnik said.

Take that, fink

A movement is underway to declare Trustee Eugene Daley the "head fink" of the Canton Township Board of Trustees. At the same time, however, nonsmokers who attend board meetings are calling Daley their saviour. The controversy centers around an attempt at last week's board meeting to lift the ban on smoking when there are less than 40 people in the audience. The four smokers on the seven-member board had counted on Daley for the fifth "yes" vote that's needed to change board rules. But Daley, who is a smoker, surprised everyone when he voted "no." When a break was called minutes later, Daley lit up in the township meeting hall.

Closed for repair

Motorists who are used to driving on Cherry Hill between Lilley and Lotz will have to take an alternate route between now and July 31. The Wayne County Road Commission is widening the intersection at Haggerty and Cherry Hill in conjunction with a Haggerty Road paving project.

Bill Sutherland, the road commission's assistant director of transportation, said the half-mile stretch of Cherry Hill will be closed to allow motorists to take detours on other major roads. Road commission plans call for construction of two-lane pavement on Haggerty between Ford and Cherry Hill.

Law cites law on collections

According to state Rep. Robert Law, townships may earn interest on school tax collections before turning the revenue over to local school districts.

And there is nothing in state law which requires municipalities earning interest on school taxes to turn the interest over to the schools, adds Law, a Livonia Republican.

The opinions were given by Law recently in a letter to John M. Hoben, superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Hoben wrote state legislators requesting an attorney general's opinion on whether municipalities could invest school taxes and then keep the interest earned.

The superintendent made the request after reading a news story in the Observer about the interest earned by Canton Township on school taxes it collects.

IN HIS LETTER to Hoben, Law first cited the state law which requires municipal treasurers to turn over to school districts tax collections once more than 25 per cent of the total tax roll is collected.

"Until then, however, that money can be invested in an interest-bearing account and, in fact, it is now quite common for the treasurer to do so," said Law.

"The law does not stipulate who receives the interest but, since the statue only requires the collecting agent to turn over the amount stipulated on the tax roll, it is obvious that the township or city does get it (interest earned).

"I understand that some township boards are instructing their treasurers to invest as much as possible for as long as possible in order to gain this income," added Law whose brother, Gerald, is a Plymouth Township trustee.

"As long as the treasurer is not holding more than 25 per cent, this practice is entirely legal, although somewhat vexing to school districts which are almost always in dire need of their taxes as soon as they get them.

"This subject is not addressed by statute because at the time it was written interest rates were very low and the phenomenon of compounding did not exist. I cannot find any record of an attorney general's opinion on this subject."

LAW REPORTED that a bill (HB 4572) has been introduced in the House that would require local treasurers to make a weekly settlement with the county and school treasurers.

Under that proposed amendment to existing law, a township or city could never hold school taxes collected for more than two weeks.

Presently the city of Plymouth passes its tax collections onto the school district as soon as the money is received.

It's a strawberry lover's paradise

By LYNN ORR

Doused with cream or cognac, slathered on crisp toast or the finale of an elegant dinner, those plumplucious Michigan strawberries are ripe for the picking.

And lest you think you have to drive to the self-declared strawberry capital down south in Belleville, some Plymouth area farmers want to point out the gas-saving aspects of their hometown crop.

Robert and June Blessed began making calls yesterday to inform their regulars that the long wait is over. A trip out to their farm on Powell Road, west of Ridge in Plymouth Township, will be made today through about July 4 by hundreds of strawberry lovers, some of whom have been picking quarts since 1961.

The perfect white blossoms worked their magic, while Blessed and his son, Bill, nursed the berries through the near-freezing dawns this spring with a constant supply of water. Their efforts produced a 20-acre crop of natural berries devoid of chemical sprays.

And with a little mosquito repellant to ward off the pests, buyers can make sure each berry is perfect for 55 cents per quart.

IF YOU'RE NEW to berry picking, keep some numbers in mind.

An old-fashioned fruit carton holds about 1½ pounds of fruit, which means the quart price works out to about 36 cents a pound.

Light, sandy soil is required for growing strawberries, while some of Blessed's low-lying ground is a problem. He solves it with irrigation, constantly watering the plants when the temperature drops.

The father-son team "hoes a lot" rather than using chemical weed killers, and also harvests wheat and corn on their 100-acre farm, one of the last remaining large parcels of farmland in Plymouth Township.

Blessed retired from his job with Ford Motor Co. last year to make farming a full-time business. He participates in Michigan's land-use plan, which allows a tax break if the land is kept in agricultural use. There's a penalty if you change that, but Blessed has no plans to quit farming.

His grandfather farmed in Maine and later in Detroit, and Blessed realized a dream when he became one of the first strawberry-growers in the area in 1961.

"We've got a real choice location because we're close to town," said Blessed.

Roy Shultz also offers berry lovers a near-town location at his farm on 7854 Lilley Road between Joy and Warren in Canton, also open in early June.

IF YOU'VE GOT a yen for other kinds of fresh berries, check the following dates provided by the Michigan State University Extension Service:

- June 20: sweet cherries.
- June 24: gooseberries.
- July 1: red raspberries.
- July 4: black raspberries.
- July 4: red tart cherries.
- July 10: dewberries.
- July 15: blueberries.
- July 16: red currants.

Fruits generally ripen earlier in southern Michigan and somewhat later as you travel north, so check with the grower for specific times.

The MSU extension service also provides a complete list of other farms for fresh crops, including tomatoes, corn, beans, peppers, cantaloupe, pears, plums and grapes.

Some of those nearby are:

- Warren Tillotson, 6355 Lilley Road, between Warren and Ford roads, Canton, for sweet corn, tomatoes, and other fruits and vegetables.
- Clyde Smith and Sons, 8000 Newburg, in Westland, between Joy and Warren roads, for a complete line of fresh fruits and vegetables.
- Kissire Brothers Farm Produce, 31575 Schoolcraft, in Livonia near Merriman, for sweet corn, tomatoes, and other fruits and vegetables.
- Foreman Orchards and Cider Mill, three miles west of Northville at 50050 Seven Mile between Ridge and Napier, where you pick your own sweet and tart cherries in July and pears in early September.
- Richard Raynor, midway between Ann Arbor and Plymouth on M-153, one-half mile east of the M-153-M-14 junction, for strawberries and raspberries.
- Dan's Place, 7011 Angle Road, in Northville, seven miles west of Northville, one mile east of Pontiac Trail, where you buy or pick your own tomatoes, beans, pickling cucumbers, and peas.

The peaceful serenity of the Blessed farm will be transformed into a flurry of activity this week, as the annual strawberry rites begin in Michigan.

The fields are ripe for the picking, says Bob Blessed (above), but there's plenty of work before the berry lover onslaught, as demonstrated by his wife June (above, right) and the farmer himself (right) as they gather the berry-picking gear.

FATHER'S DAY IS JUNE 17

Former racer advises a shift to save gasoline

By LYNN ORR

. . . next minute I was back in neutral tried and again slo-wly;bare,ly , nudg. ing(my lev-er Right- oh and her gears being in A 1 shape passed from low through second-in-to-high like greasedlightning). . .

A cacaphony of titters ususally follows awareness of the macho imagery imbedded in E. E. Cummings famous poem. But there's a better reason to handle your stick shift with loving kindness — curbing the high cost of gas.

"It's just like those pennies you keep putting in a jar," said Dick Simmons. "At the end of the year, you've got a jarful."

IT DEPENDS on the car, when you shift, but the rule of thumb is as soon as possible to get the car into high gear without that telltale chug or cough, said the former racer.

"Drive like you have an imaginary egg between your foot and the accelerator, everything in moderation," Simmons said.

If you're sincerely interested in maximizing millage and the longevity of the car parts, back off the accelerator, Simmons suggested.

"Try to go through all the lights green. If you stop and sit there with the motor running, you're not saving. Take downtown Plymouth. There are five lights from Ann Arbor Road down Main Street — cruise through at 25 mph and you won't have to stop for a light."

Downshifting to slow the car eases wear and tear on the brakes, but it doesn't do much for the millage because you're running the car at a higher RPM (revolutions per minute) rate, he said. If you have a tachometer, you can watch for the appropriate time to shift, but Simmons is a great believer in "feeling the car out."

"You can feel when she's ready," he said.

Keeping the air pressure at maximum on the tires, and getting the car tuned in the spring and fall, also maximize millage, he said.

"Make sure the automatic choke is running right," he said. Finding a reliable mechanic may be the hardest key to unlock the secret of maximum motor maintenance.

"Anyone can buy 30 seconds on TV," Simmons said. "Find somebody that's satisfied with the work a mechanic is is doing."

And if you're new to a stick shift, your best teacher will be an acquaintance.

"The worst teacher is a husband or friend."

SIMMONS OUGHT to know what he's talking about. He lived in the figure-8 circuit, where you cross at the middle two times a lap, and can reach 70 mph at the end of the straightaway.

He won the Islip (N.Y.) World's Figure-8 championship in 1968 and placed in the top five out of the seven years he competed there with a '57 Chevy during his 25-year career.

Now he relief-drives for his son, Bill, 24, of Livonia, on the Michigan circuit, and runs his own auto repair shop out of his barn on a five-acre farm in Salem Township, only about six miles from his Plymouth roots.

"It's the farthest away I've lived from Plymouth all my life," said the 49-year-old, who graduated from Plymouth High when it was housed in Central Middle School. He and his wife, Joan, also have four horses , including a colt that may take him to Kentucky in a few years.

Cars, tractors, and trucks outline the drive in the country, the quiet broken only by the country music on the radio. Ruffling his hand through his gray-streaked hair, Simmons explains how he doesn't have to advertise for business. Neighboring farmers and friends bring him their vehicles for repair, which he does at his own pace particularly because he enjoys it.

Working on cars is an obvious pleasure. Driving them was pure fun.

WHEN HE talks about "we" at the races, he's referring to himself and The Car — always a '57 Chevy.

"Used about 20 of them. When you crashed one, you could transfer the parts to another and improve on the chassis design."

"Rube's Rat," sponsored by a Schoolcraft Road shop, went to Flat Rock, Lansing, Mount Clemens, and made the trips east.

Joan was a promoter at the Flat Rock speedway, but she prefers the country, Simmons says. Retirement was an easy decision. It got to the point that he and his son were running one and two, and the challenge was gone.

But he keeps his hands on the wheel at times, such as last fall at Indianapolis where he relief-drove for his son.

Other than that, the non-functioning windmill in the yard, the parade of cars needing repair, and the country quiet adequately fill his time.

The M-14 freeway is going in down the road, but he doesn't expect the area to change too much in the next few years. Without water and sewer access, and with Salem Township's determined effort to preserve the rural landscape, his country living should endure the concrete interchange without duress, he says.

Jaycee's fair opens June 13

The annual Canton Community fair, sponsored by the Jaycees, is scheduled for June 12 through June 17 at the corner of Ford and Lilley roads. The hours are tentatively set at 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. daily and 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. on the weekend.

W.G. Wade Shows will again provide the rides. The 1979 fair features a moon walk, flea market, games of chance, concession booth, pancake breakfasts, millionaire parties, beer booth, chicken and rib dinners, bingo, pony rides and an animal petting farm.

Township planner Jim Kosteva said developers often begin work on underground utilities following final preliminary plat approval.

THE WATER ISSUE surfaced at the board's May 22 meeting after Trustee Robert Greenstein objected to terms of the proposed deeds and restrictions of Brentwood Estates.

The document allowed the construction of homes with brick on the front side only and did contain an attached garage requirement.

At last week's township board meeting, Republic representative Stu Farber said his firm would amend the deeds and restrictions to require brick on three sides and the construction of attached garages on at least 75 per cent of the subdivision's homes.

Farber said Republic made the concession willingly to enhance sales in the subdivision in light of the requirement to give warnings on water and sewer tap-ins.

No longer a 'junker'

Whan a car is "junked," it does not have to rust away in some vacant lot.

More autos are being recycled for parts and materials each year, saving vast amounts of natural resources and the energy to process them, according to the Automotive Information Council.

Reclamation of old autos has increased sharply. About 80 percent of the more than eight million cars junked each year now are recycled for their metals and parts.

Nationwide motor vehicles provide 30 to 40 percent of all recycled steel scrap.

For each ton of scrap made into new iron and steel products, 1½ tons of iron ore and 700 pounds of coal are conserved. Also, pollution caused by mining and smelting is reduced.

According to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), when mills and foundaries use ferrous scrap inplace of ore, there's an 86 percent reduction in air pollution, a 76 percent reduction in water pollution and 105 percent reduction in solid waste.

State's share in education finance drops

State aid to local school districts is not keeping pace with the increased costs to educate students.

And while state aid is not keeping pace with inflation, local districts are assuming the financial burden of more than two-thirds the costs for state and federal mandated programs.

These are two conclusions drawn from a financial analysis presented to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education this week by Superintendent John M. Hoben.

The analysis was prepared by school superintendents in Oakland County who are arguing for a change in the state aid formula.

Hoben said he supports the arguments being made by the Oakland superintendents but believes the proposals "have very little opportunity of flying in the face of the current legislation that is being deliberated in Lansing."

THE REPORT notes that the average increase in education costs per child last year over the previous year is $178, according to Dr. John Porter, state superintendent of instruction.

Based on the number of students in the state, expenses will increase this coming year by $342 million statewide based on the $178 per student increase in cost.

The governor's proposal for state aid totals some $72 million, or about 21 percent of the expected cost increase.

The state aid package supported by the Democrats (HB 4245) totals about $84 million or only 25 percent of the expected cost increase.

If the assumption is made that financial support should be 50 percent state and 50 percent local, the superintendents argue, then the state aid package for the entire state should total $171 million or more than twice the Democratic proposal.

An analysis of eight districts in Oakland County showed that the seven with declining enrollments faced expected overall increase in expenses for '79-80 ranging from 3.9 to 9.6 percent. The one district (Troy) with rising enrollment anticipates overall costs to rise by almost .5 percent.

The overall average for the eight districts shows a 4.5 percent loss in enrollment with a 7.1 percent increase in expenditures.

The governor's recommendation provides for a 3.1 percent increase in state aid while the Democrat's proposal would increase state aid by 3.9 percent.

Troy, a growing district like Plymouth-Canton, projects a 2.7 percent increase in student enrollment and a 10.5 percent increase in cost.

THE SUPERINTENDENTS also analyzed the costs of mandated programs and how those programs are funded.

For the eight districts studied, mandated programs comprised about 15 percent of total general fund expenditures.

Of all mandated program costs, only 28.3 percent was paid for by state and federal funds with the remaining 71.6 percent of the mandated costs coming out of local operating budgets.

In the late-breaking news category, the newspaper won second-place honors for its coverage of Michigan's state and local elections last November.

How graduates of today rank

By MATHEW BRZEZINSKI

This year's crop of graduating seniors from Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools seem quieter than other years.

Today's students are "more settled" and have "more overall purpose" in their lives, said Bill Brown, principal at Salem.

He said that when he came to the high school in 1970, it was a more militant era and the students reflected it.

"The general attitude has changed for the good towards what students see as the purpose of school," said Brown.

Canton principal Kent Buikema sees little difference between students today and students in the past.

He said that if you took the 400 graduating students and compared them with a similar group of adults, they would be very much the same.

He said that there is always some good and bad people in every group.

Salem guidance counselor, Robert Southgate, said that students today "are getting more career-oriented" than their counterparts in the past.

"Students are much more career-aware," he said, "maybe because there is a better job being done in career education."

Southgate said that students are not as angry and upset as they were 10 years ago over issues of the day.

"There is no lack of opinions today," he said, "but they are more willing to work within a system to get jobs done."

Joyce Willis, a career counselor at Canton, said that students know the kinds of careers they want.

She said that students also are aware of their limitations and look for jobs that fit their qualifications.

Compared to 10 years ago, students today are very quiet, said Fred Libbing, a Canton guidance counselor.

He said that "they're not really more career-oriented than before," and they may even be less career-oriented.

Libbing said many students are going to college and the ones committed to finding a job won't take "just any job."

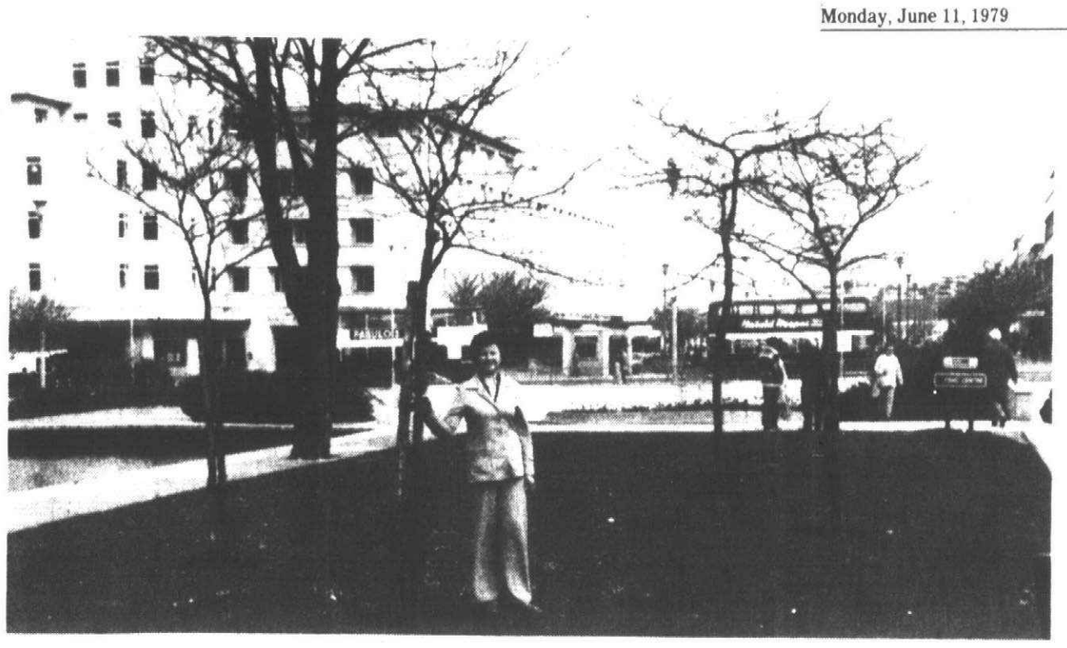
All four of the school officials agreed that this year's graduating class has done well.

Buikema said that "the majority were contributing members to the school, and a lot of them are very talented people."

The apparent subdued mood of this year's graduating class seems to be reflected in calmer celebrations.

"It's been pretty quiet this year," said a Canton Police spokesman. "The quietest in years."

Plymouth Police Inspector Carl Berry said there has been no problem with the graduating seniors.



Views gift to sister city

As one of the highlights of celebrating her 15th wedding anniversary, Mrs. Lyle Horsell of Russet Street visited Plymouth, England, with her husband and found her way to the Imperial Locust trees on the lawn of the administration building there. The trees were the gift of the people of Plymouth in 1967 when the Lord Mayor Frank Chapman and his aides were here to mark this city's centennial. The trees were given in return for the rock which was taken from the dock from which the Mayflower sailed in 1620 and now is encased in the wall between Plymouth City Hall and the Dunning-Hough Memorial Library. Mrs. Horsell reported that the trees are doing well.

Senate's Headlee implementation bill favors city

If you thought the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment was going to cut property taxes, the Michigan Senate recently reinforced what many have been saying for more than a year: "It ain't necessarily so."

The Senate voted 176 in favor of implementing the millage rollback provision of the tax limitation amendment, narrowly passed by state voters last fall.

And when the vote was taken, officials in the city of Plymouth were relieved because if the measure becomes law, the city won't have to rebate taxes to residents during fiscal year 1979-80.

The city's upcoming budget, effective July 1, was in part based on the hope that the Headlee implementation legislation would require rollback of the charter limit — 15 mills for the city — and not the current levy.

The city had raised its levy by one-half mill for the coming year and if current levy had to be rolled back, the city might have to rebate about one mill.

THE SENATE BILL requires local governments to reduce their maximum authorized millage rates when property assessments rise faster than inflation.

Thus, local units which haven't levied their maximum rates will still be able to raise their rates up to the charter ceiling.

But the bill, and the amendment as approved last fall, won't cut an individual's taxes if his property assessment jumped more than the rate of inflation while total assessments in an entire taxing unit, such as a city, remained below inflation.

Among the senators supporting the bill were William Faust, D-Westland, whose district includes Canton, and Robert Geake, R-Northville, whose district includes city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Geake favored rolling back millage rates from their level at the time the Headlee Amendment took effect last December rather than the maximum authorized level.

For example, a city levying 15 mills but with a charter limit of 20 mills would find the rollback deducted from the 20-mill maximum rather than the 15 mill actual rate.

But a Geake-sponsored amendment to roll back local millages from their existing levels failed 22-12. "The voters who approved Headlee last fall believed they were freezing local property tax rates at present levels," Geake said. "Rolling back millages from the maximum authorized rate doesn't give them all they're entitled to."

But, Geake said, he voted for the bill after his amendment failed, because it was "better than nothing."

RICHARD HEADLEE, the Farmington Hills insurance executive who chaired the committee which drafted the tax limitation amendment, said the Senate bill "technically" follows the new law.

Headlee added that it does not assure all property taxpayers "the relief they expected" under the tax limitation amendment. The people were made about runaway taxes, not some nebulous thing called 'maximum authorized rates.'"

Headlee said the secretary of state and attorney general interpreted the proposed amendment when it was prepared for the ballot to mean rollbacks from the existing millage rather than maximum allowed.

PLYMOUTH CITY Manager Fred Yockey had recommended a two-mill increase for '79-80 in the operating levy.

The city commission decided to eliminate the cash surplus carried in the budget by allocating all of it for current expenses. With that decision, the commission was able to increase the operating levy by only one-half instead of two mills.

The city's total tax base has increased by 9 percent which is beyond the 7 percent inflation factor for 1979.

By the Senate action of rolling back the charter limit (15 for Plymouth), the city still can levy an additional 3.5 mills without a vote of the people. If current levy had to be rolled back, the city would have to rollback about half a mill plus rebate the added half-mill.

Currently the city is levying 11.810 mills for operation and effective July 1 will levy 12.243 mills for operation. Millage legally excluded from the charter limit is debt levy and millage to pay for rubbish collection.

Big Adrian start eliminates Rocks

By BRAD EMONS

A Cinderella Adrian team dashed Plymouth Salem's hopes of going any farther in the state baseball tourney, copping a 4-2 win Saturday at Wyandotte's Memorial Park.

The win advanced Adrian to the finals of the regionals against Garden City West. Adrian won that game too, 2-1, advancing to the state semifinals next Saturday in Battle Creek.

Adrian came into the regional with the worst record of the four teams (11-8). Salem finished its season with a 19-6 mark.

"I'm proud of the kids," said Salem coach Brian Gilles. "We battled back but it was a little too late."

Adrian came out smoking in the very first inning, putting the Rocks into a hole.

A member of the South Central Conference, Adrian jumped on Salem starter Matt Etienne for four runs.

After lead-off hitter Rick Barber struck out, brother Randy then worked Etienne for a walk. Barber consequently stoled second base and later scored on Steve Knorr's single. Knorr took second base on the play.

Clean-up batter John Bailey then followed with a hard smash to shortstop which Chris Hannan failed to handle. After a fly out, Chris Stevens and designated hitter Randy Reyes belted successive singles, scoring Adrian's other three runs.

"We got the ball in play and made good contact," said Adrian coach Doug Nelson. "Their outfielders may have been playing a little too deep to start the game. It's a big park on the wind was blowing in."

"Those four runs kind of stunned us," said Salem coach Brian Gilles. "Those four runs limited us. It took away some things like running the bases."

"In the early innings we were getting the ball up. The wind may have had some effect."

Salem had problems with Adrian pitcher Ray Green, a slow throwing righthander who kept the ball down. The Rocks, who usually hit for power, managed just two hits in the first five innings.

Salem broke the ice in the sixth inning when Jim Anderson reached base on an infield error. Catcher Bubba Wilcox then followed with a single, sending Anderson to second. He was then forced at third base on Sam Merrill's ground out. Etienne then snaked a single to right field to score Wilcox.

Green then got out of the inning with a strike out and a pop out.

After the disastrous first, Etienne cruised the final six innings not allowing a run. For the game he gave up six hits and struck out six.

Salem mounted its final threat in the bottom of the seventh inning.

With one out, centerfielder Paul Woodard slapped his second hit of the game to center. Second baseman Paul Dillon then walked. Anderson followed with a single to score Woodard but Green, a lanky righthander, put the game away by getting Wilcox to fly out and Merrill to ground out.

"We were just one hit away," said Gilles,"and things could have been different if we would have been able to get out of that first inning."

Adrian came up with several key defensive plays to stymie the Rocks. Shortstop Barber robbed Paul Woodard of a hit in the fifth inning. Adrian always seemed to be in the right place at the right time.

"We try to play good defense," said Nelson. "Our pitchers are not overpowering but they throw strikes. We not a great team but a steady team."

Green struck out for Salem batters and allowed six hits.

"We had a good season," Gilles said. "We won the league and the district."

Annapolis wins regional

Rock girls upended in tourney

By TOM BAER

Dee Cifaldi pitched two strong games last Saturday to lead Dearborn Heights Annapolis to the state Class A regional softball championship at the Southfield Civic Center.

Coach John Sisson's Annapolis team, now 20-2 overall, advances to the Class A state finals next Saturday morning at Southfield High School.

Cifaldi, who owns a 16-1 record, was the winning pitcher in the regional final as Annapolis downed a strong Redford Union club, 9-5. Annapolis made the final by eliminating Plymouth Salem, 6-2, earlier last Saturday. RU outlasted Farmington High, 12-11, in eight innings in the other semi.

The final matched two excellent pitchers in Cifaldi, who tossed a seven-hitter at Salem, and RU's Marge LaRue, who went the distance against Farmington.

RU touched Cifaldi for 10 hits. She walked two and struck out two, including harding-hitting Jo Halstead for the last out of the game. LaRue, who was lifted with none out in the fifth, allowed seven hits, fanned one and walked seven.

Annapolis opened the scoring with a five-run third inning. Sue Siemiesz provided the big blow, a two-run triple. RU wasted a scoring chance in the fourth-?-Sheila Quinn tripled but was out trying to score on a wild pitch?-?-but then came back to score four runs in the fifth and one in the sixth.

RU'S TRACY Roegner singled in the fifth and scored when Michelle Roedding smacked a long triple to right center. Reodding scored on Stacy Hunter's bloop single over first base. Quinn then unloaded another triple, which drove in two more runs. Quinn, however, made the third out trying to turn her three-bagger into a homer.

Betty Owens opened the RU sixth with a home run. Coach Bob Green's Panthers had the bases loaded in that frame, but a double play ended the threat.

"Redford Union is a good solid hitting club," Sisson said. "They really impressed me."

Annapolis managed an unearned run in the fifth, and three more runs on three-straight bunt singles and a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

In the RU-Farmington game, winning pitcher LaRue allowed nine hits, struck out three and walked nine. Losing pitcher Jeanne Zuhorski (7-4), went the distance, allowing nine hits, fanning one and passing nine.

RU won the game in the bottom of the eighth as leadoff batter Halstead clouted a tremendous home run to right center. "She really hit that ball, I'll tell you," said Green after the game. "I'd be proud to hit one like that myself."

Farmington's Denise Goyette drove in two runs with a triple, and teammate Sue Carruthers doubled home two more runs.

THE ANNAPOLIS?-SALEM game was a pitching duel between Cifaldi and Salem's Jan Boyd, who led the team's late-season surge after coming off an injury.

Cifaldi gave up seven hits, fanned two and walked four. Boyd, who finished with a 5-3 pitching record, allowed 11 hits, struck out two and walked two. Annapolis scored all four runs in the fourth inning. Salem scored a run in the third and added another in the fourth.

Salem's Nan Horwood went three for three and scored a run. Teammate Cheryl Sobkow doubled and scored a run.

With the regional losses Salem bowed out at 7-10, Farmington finished at 10-8 and Redford Union ended at 13-9.

West frustrated in regional finals

By BRAD EMONS

Frustration is the only way to describe Garden City West's 2-1 regional final baseball loss to Adrian Saturday at Wyandotte's Memorial Park.

Adrian came into the regional with the worst record (11-8). But everything seemed to turn out right for the southern Michigan squad.

Adrian eliminated a good Plymouth Salem team in the opener, 2-1. Salem went into the game with an impressive 19-5 mark. West took care of Allen Park in its opener, 7-3, setting up the final with Adrian.

West pounded the ball all over the field against Adrian starting pitcher Larry Love but could only manage one run.

In fact, not one West batter struck out against Adrian pitching.

"We hit the fast ball against Allen Park but against Adrian we were upercutting," said a disappointed West coach Bob Dropp.

Love was much slower than Allen Park starting pitcher Scott Vaughn, a 27th round draft pick recently of the Detroit Tigers. "The Adrian pitching threw our timing off," Dropp said.

West took a brief 1-0 lead in the in the bottom of the third inning when pitcher Jerry Tatro hit a towering 390-0 homer over the left field fence into a stiff wind. West got three hits in the inning but were able to score only one run.

In the top of the fourth inning, Adrian countered with two runs.

Centerfielder Steve Knorr led off with a walk. John Bailey followed with an infield single and then catcher Steve Brown drove home Knorr with Adrian's first run.

First baseman Chris Stevens singled home Bailey with the go ahead run with a line shot into left field.

West mounted a threat in the final inning when catcher Dave Seger rifled a double past Stevens in left field. Tatro then hit a sacrifice fly to right off Adrian reliefer Ray Green, sending Stevens to third base with one out.

With the Adrian infield in, West's Mike White sent a shot up the middle which Adrian second baseman Rick Barber grabbed and made the put out at first. Pinch runner Kevin McHugh was unable to advance.

Green got the final out on a pop fly to second.

"We had a little luck going our way," admitted a happy Adrian coach Doug Nelson. "We came through with some clutch hitting and our pitching kept our defense alert."

"We are a better team than our record shows," he said. "We've lost five, one run games this season."

"You just can't win with one run," said Dropp. "We've had a good season. It was frustrating the way we lost this game."

In West's 7-3 victory over Allen Park, the Tigers struck for four runs in the third inning, rattling Vaughn.

Shelton started the rally with a walk as Vaughn missed on some close pitches. The Tigers' Mike Anderson then laid down a perfect bunt which Vaughan threw wildly into right field.

Gary Rago and Tom Miner followed with successive singles, scoring two runs. West tallied its other two runs when Jaquar third baseman Jim Elledge threw past his catcher at home plate off a ground ball. Miner and Rago scored on the play.

In the fourth, West collected three more runs to take a commanding 7-0 advantage, knocking Vaughn out of the box in the process.

Allen Park came back with three runs in the bottom of the fourth but Miner, the starter, held the Jaquars off with three final scoreless innings, lifting his record to 9-2.

West finished the season with a 19-5 mark.

Carter paces Elks

David Carter came through with a sixth-inning grand-slam homer to give the Canton Elks a 5-1 Mickey Mantle Baseball League victory over Milan on the road, Thursday night.

With the score tied (1-1), Steve Gray led off the sixth with a single. He then stole second and third bases. Keith Stone and Frank McMurray followed with successive walks to load the bases setting up Carter's four-run shot.

Milan grabbed a 1-0 lead in the third inning on a single and double.

The Elks tied it up in the fifth when Carter scored on Bill Hanis' suicide squeeze bunt.

Jerry Norgren went all seven innings on the mound for the Elks. He tossed a two-hitter and struck out eight.

Meador and Stone led the Canton hitting attack with two hits apiece.

Etienne leads Salem to title

By BRAD EMONS

The Suburban Eight League baseball title can now be claimed outright by Plymouth Salem.

The Rocks waited to the last day of tbe regular season to clinch the title.

Behind Matt Etienne's 13 strikeouts, Salem secured at least a tie for the crown Wednesday by beating Dearborn Edsel Ford, 3-1.

Allen Park, who went into its final league game witb an 8-3 mark, identical to Salem's, lost in an upset to Dearborn, 3-2.

"We've had a heck of a season," said Salem coach Brian Gilles. "I happy to get through the senior prom, senior skip day and caps and gowns and still win the league."

Because of numerous rainouts earlier in the season, the Suburban Eight baseball season was moved back nearly to graduation day for some schools.

The weather may have helped Salem, however, because the Rocks are playing their best ball of the season.

Salem ended its league season with a 9-3 mark. The Rocks, depending on the regionals Saturday, sport a mark of 19-5 overall.

Saving his his best pitching for the end of the season is Etienne, who has now won four straight.

"Matt had a streak like this last summer," Gilles said. "He's not doing anything different except tbrowing strikes. He had only two walks."

The Salem senior allowed just three hits and struck out the side in both the second and third innings.

He was supported by some fine defensive play.

Edsel Ford mounted a rally in the seventh inning but came away empty-handed. Salem leftfielder Sam Merrill made a fine running grab with two Edsel Ford runners aboard and no outs.

Edsel Ford finished the season witb a 9-9 mark. Tschirhart went all the way, allowing six hits. He struck out four and walked one.

Canton graduate pleased

Toronto nabs Stemberger 13th round

By BRAD EMONS

Being drafted by a last place expansion team doesn't bother Plymouth Canton graduate Brian Stemberger.

In fact, the Eastern Michigan slugger seems quite pleased after the Toronto Blue Jays selected him as their 13th pick in the free agent major league draft held Wednesday.

"My mother got a call from Toronto on Wednesday night," said Stemberger. "They seem to care about my family.

"It's just a matter of sitting down and finding out where they want me to play."

Stemberger believes he's in a better position than he was last year at this time. As a junior at Eastern, Stemberger was drafted in the 10th round by the Chicago White Sox.

He turned down the Chicago offer and opted to play his senior year at Eastern.

"Looking back I made the right decision," Stemberger said.

"Chicago gave a good opportunity for me, but it was a do-or-die situation."

Stemberger said the Chicago club offered him a chance to start on the AA level but only a small bonus offer was made.

"The money wasn't right," he said. "They (Chicago) told me they couldn't afford to give me much because they lost money on Richie Zisk and Oscar Gamble.

"Just incentives were offered."

Zisk and Gamble were two high-priced free agents taking on by the White Sox three years ago. Both players went elsewhere after a one-year stint.

Toronto drafted the 6-foot-3, 190-pound Stemberger as a shortstop. Before the draft, other clubs expressed interest in the Canton graduate as a third baseman and even as a pitcher.

"Although I haven't signed, I think I'll have a good opportunity with Toronto. They have artificial turf and I really like playing on it," he said.

"I feel I haven't regressed even though I went lower in the draft this year. I had my best season this year at Eastern."

Stemberger led the Hurons in hitting this year with a .337 average. He tied for second spot in the Mid-American Conference with nine homers. He scored 28 runs and had 37 RBIs, leading Eastern to a 41-27 record, a third place finish in the conference.

"Offensively I had my best year," Stemberger said. "I hit for more power. The coaches wanted me to hit the long ball and they taught me how to drop my hands. I felt confident doing that."

"Defensively I fought the ball a lot even though I made less errors. My fielding average (.916) was down because I had less chances."

Stemberger has a strong arm and average speed. That's why some teams such as Toronto may give him a look at third base.

"I definitely feel Eastern Michigan has a super program," he said

"Our coaches Mr. (Roger) Coryell and Mr. (Ron) Oestrike really work good together. They do an excellent job."

Stemberger said of Eastern's third place finish in the MAC: " It was kind of a disappointment since we had almost everybody back from last year when we won it."

Miami (Ohio) and Ohio University finished one-two respectively this season.

Stemberger has one semester to go to complete his degree. He is a Social Science major.

Stemberger graduated from Canton in 1975, leading the Chiefs to a 23-4 record and a Western Six Crown.

As a freshman, he played at C.S. Mott Community College in Flint and then transferred to EMU. Last summer, after declining the White Sox' offer, Stemberger played in the tough Cape Cod Summer League at Cotuit, Mass., where he batted .262.

If Stemberger decides to sign with Toronto, he'll most likely be assigned to the Blue Jays' Dunedin (Fla.) Class A minor league affiliate.

"I don't have any timetable as far as signing," said Stemberger. "I don't feel I'll be pressured. My lawyer, I and Toronto will sit down and discuss the terms."

IN THE POCKET

By W.W. EDGAR

bowlers have done it again.

Always noted as the one group of sportsmen who never forget they have contributed more than $101,000 to the Bowling Proprietors Charity tournament that now is run in conjunction with the Free Press.

Held in all sections of the state, the huge total established a record for the event that started more than 20 years ago when it was listed as The March of Dimes event.

With the preliminaries completed the finals will be held in Alma later this month with the top prize being a seven-day trip for two to the Hawaiian Islands.

When the funds are distributed more than a dozen charities will benefit by the bowlers who never miss a chance to do good when the cause is worthwhile.

FOR THE FIRST time in the 47 years of its existence the Shrine Bowling League finished the season without a playoff.

Because of its size the league, which numbers 600 bowlers, had to bowl in two shifts with the winners of each group meeting to decide the title.

This year the Moslem Shrine team of Leroy Cote, of Farmington, Dr. Herbert Applebaum, of Southfield, Fred Wright, circulation manager of the Observer Newspapers, Bobbie Dyer, of Williamston, won both sections, eliminating any need for the play-off.

ANSWERING THE MAIL: The first automatic pinsetters in the country were introduced at the Bowl-O-Drome in Mt. Clemens in 1951. They were the AMF machines and folks from all over the country came to see them in action.

THE MIXED LEAGUES at Westland Bowl are waging some fine duels these days. For instance in the Hot Shots league Bob Rose set the pace with a 224 in 653 and Bob Prokop landed in the second spot with 224 in 653. In the women's competition Jane Bedoway was high with 507 and Kathy Callahan had 202 for high game.

In the Sunday Funnies loop Phil Kupras had a 254 in 619 and Mary Horne paced the women with a 229 in 522.

THINGS LIVENED UP for the next few weeks at Plaza Lanes and there was a good reason. The Plymouth site is hosting a section of the Bowling Proprietors Champion of Champions tournament and more than 300 teams from the area will compete on weekends.

SCOTT BARKER rolled an 824 series at Garden Lanes, but it came in the doubles event where they are bowling four games in each block. Over the route he had games of 238 and 210.

ONLY PINS seperated the top three bowlers in the Bowling Bags loop at the Super Bowl.

Terry Filbey showed the way with 534. Linda Uherek was next in line with a 198 in 516 and Gail Kolman had a 198 in 514 for third place.

AT MERRI-BOWL Pat Kresty showed the way in the Guys and Dolls with games of 220, 223, and 232 for 675.

Area sports shorts

The Plymouth and Canton Parks and Recreation Departments are co-sponsoring a 24-team slow-pitch softball tournament, June 15-17, at three area sites.

The finals are scheduled for Sunday (June 17) at Massey Field.

Approximately 20 teams thus far have filled the tourney field. All the teams entered in the event are members of either the Canton Recreation Softball League or the Plymoutb Recreation Softball League.

Individual and team trophies will be awarded. The tourney draw was held last Friday at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Early round games will also be played at Canton High School and Canton Township's two recreation fields off of Cherry Hill Road.

Salem tennis coach quits after 20 years

By BRAD EMONS

After coaching tennis for the past 20 years in the Plymouth school system, Jim Stevens will not be back next year to coach the Salem varsity netters.

"I submitted my resignation about a month ago," said Stevens, who has also run the middle school golf program recently.

"The kids want me to stay and I regret leaving some of the younger ones I had in my program. They were a nice bunch to work with."

Stevens, however, has not given up coaching entirely. He has applied for another coaching job within the system and is being considered for another sports position outside the district.

Stevens' son, Craig, is also graduating from Salem where he teamed up with Mark Thomas to form a tough No. 1 doubles team the past season.

Stevens and Thomas finished the season with a 13-4 mark. The Salem pair were runnerups in both the regional and Suburban Eight League.

Last Tuesday, Stevens and Thomas were beaten in the finals by Bob Goldi and Phil DeSana of Trenton, 6-1, 6-1, in the Suburban Eight League meet.

Trenton won four individual championships while Dearborn Edsel Ford took three crowns.

SOPHOMORE Scott Crespo of Salem was able to break the Trenton and Edsel Ford domination by capturing the No. 4 singles crown easily, 6-1, 6-2. Crespo finished the year with a 15-2 record.

Salem's other finalist was Ed Thomas at No. 2 singles. He lost a tough three-set match to Edsel Ford's Alan Amici, 2-6, 6-3, 2-6.

The No. 1 singles titlist in the Suburban Eight was Jeff Stassen of Edsel Ford. He topped Livonia Bentley's Pete Fayroian in the finals, 6-4, 7-5.

Thomas was voted the team's most valuable player during Salem's season-ending banquet.

He compiled a 13-4 record during the season. Underclassmen Blake Lundberg and Dick Cook were elected next year's captains.

Doug Baker won the outstanding freshman award.

First time letterwinners for tbe Rocks included David Tsiang, Paul Horton, Jack Thomas, David Goodsir and Baker.

Stevens began coaching at old Plymouth High School in 1961. He later moved on to coach the Salem netters in 1972.

Stevens became the second Salem spring sports coach to resign within the past month. Girls golf coach Bob Waters announced his retirement last week after his team placed second in the regional behind Canton and gained 12th place in the state.

No-hitters tossed

A pair of pitchers hurled no-hitters recently in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League.

In the National "A" League, Paul Makara of tbe Expos tossed the no-hit gem. The other whitewash was turned in Paul Smallwood of the Phillies. He is also a member of the National League.

BURNS AN ACE

Russell Burns of Plymouth is eligible to win a free trip to Scotland and $1,000 as a result of his hole-in-one at Santa Rosa, N.Y.

The ace qualified Burns for the 19th annual Rusty Nail Hole-in-One Sweepstakes, a national competition sponsored by the Drambuie Liqueur Co. of Edinburgh, Scotland.

The winner will be announced early next year.

Jones wins national Mustang title

By FRANCINE MELOTTI

A task that can take up to 40 hours a week is usually con sidered a full-time job. Richard Jones, of Plymouth, puts that kind of time towards his hobby of restoring old Fords.

Jones most recent efforts with a 1965 Mustang 2² earned him first place at the National Mustang Meet in Chatanooga, Tenn. last month.

"I totally restored the car from the ground up," he said. "I'd estimate it cost around $4,000."

It might sound like an expensive and time-consuming hobby, but Jones, 35, sees it as relaxing and therapeutic. By day he is a structural illustrator at Ford Motor Company.

"Restoring cars is like therapy. It's a complete change from what I do every day; I'm at a desk job all day long."

Jones worked on the 1965 Mustang for seven months before entering it in competition. He is presently working on a 1940 Ford convertible and expects it will be another year before it's ready for competition.

Two years ago Jones' 1934 Ford took third place honors in the Carnival of Cars competition.

"I've been restoring vehicles for about 15 years, ever since high school when I needed to fix my car to get to school, he said."

Jones is a member of the Southeastern Mustang Club, a local affiliate of the National Mustang Club, that meets in Livonia. His award-winning Mustang competed with 10 other cars in the same class (determined by year and body style); 200 cars were entered in overall competition.

"I feel a real sense of accomplishment seeing something I took apart and put back together, he said."

Richard Jones of Plymouth shows off the Mustang fastback which won him a first place recently in national competition. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Prepare thy self

Eyeing the target

By JOHN CZUBAJ

(The author of this column, John Czubaj, is an instructor of Dale Carnegie human relations training in the Plymouth area.)

An Indian chief sat outside his wigwam slowly carving and polishing a slender branch of wood.

He was making a hunter's bow.

For several days he worked to make it beautiful and perfect. It bore many colors and carvings of unusual designs.

When it was finished, he called his young son and handed him the bow and a quiver of arrows, and said:

"My son, tomorrow we shall observe the day of your birth and I have made this bow as a special gift for you. I hope you will use it wisely and one day become a great hunter."

THE INDIAN BOY was proud to receive the gift from his father.

The chief looked into the sparkling eyes of the boy and said, "When the dawn comes tomorrow I will go with you to the woods to teach you how to shoot the straight arrow."

So, early the next morning, father and son walked up the path towards the woods.

When they arrived near the top of a tree-covered hill, the chief took the bow in his hand and said, "Now, my son, watch closely and I will show you how to shoot the straight arrow."

He pointed out a small mound of dirt and said, "There, son, is my target." He put the arrow in position, pulled back the cord and bent the bow as he aimed carefully with his keen eye. Then he let the arrow fly to the center of the target.

He shot another and another straight at the mark and each time he shot an arrow he carefully explained to the boy how he should hold the bow and aim for the mark.

Then he handed the bow to the boy and instructed him as he shot for the target. After while the boy began hitting close to the mark so his father told him to keep practicing until he returned.

WHEN THE CHIEF came back an hour later he was disappointed to find his son out in the clearing shooting his arrow straight up toward the sky.

When the boy saw him approaching he said, "Look, father, see how high I can shoot the arrow!"

The chief watched silently as his son shot the arrow high into the sky and out of sight.

Then he said, "I see that you can send the arrow very high into the sky but tell me, where is your target — at what are you shooting?"

The boy answered, "Father, I'm not shooting at anything. I'm just shooting."

HOW OFTEN we find outselves doing the same thing day after day — shooting at nothing in particular, just shooting.

And we know that if we keep on shooting at nothing that is what we are likely to hit.

We have but to look around our own home to be reminded that any worthwhile achievement is brought about by people who have a goal, a specific objective, a target at which to shoot.

The tables, the chairs, the rug on the floor, the pictures on the wall, the books on the shelf, even the building itself — everything we see came into existence because somebody, somewhere, had an idea, a goal, a target and aimed straight for the center until a mere mental image became a reality.

When we see the beautiful skyline of a great city with its many towering skyscrapers proudly silhouetted against the backdrop of a clear blue sky, we realize that first it took form in the minds of men and women who turned an idea into a goal and then kept shooting toward their target until they reached their objective.

Men and women who are willing to establish a realistic goal and formulate a reasonable plan for its accomplishment, who then aim for the center and keep shooting, can surely achieve a worthwhile measure of success in life. Setting a goal is the first step in preparing oursélves for success.

Jack Bologna Writes

A work dilemma

The author, Jack Bologna, is president of a national business consulting firm headquartered in Plymouth.

There seem to be two opposite and contradictory points of view about work. On the one hand, we have the work advocates who insist work is ennobling and gives dignity to man, i.e. "To be without work is to be without honor."

The work critics, on the other hand, insist that work is debasing; it breaks down sinews and muscles, brings on physical and mental disabilities, and interferes with man's ultimate goals of comfort, ease and pleasure.

I NEVER THOUGHT much about the nature of work until now.

I worked because I was conditioned and programmed to accept it as part of life. I never realized there was another choice.

What's worse is, I grew to enjoy my work and found satisfaction in it. Oh yes, it had its frustrations and anxieties, but I accepted those factors as momentary setbacks or conditions with which I had to learn to cope.

Now I'm being told my belief in the work ethic may has been misplaced. I should have been "doing" for myself rather than others. I should have been enjoying my leisure. I should have been spending my time on jogging and collecting or raising petunias or golf or whatever, so long as it wasn't work.

The argument sounded quite persuasive until I realized I enjoyed my work, drew a huge amount of satisfaction from it and it apparently also pleased those for whom I did it.

BUT NOW I have a dilemma.

Am I strange if I like my work? Why don't I find more satisfaction from hobbies than from work? Should I be deriving more satisfaction from non-work activities than from work? What is it about me that drives me away from comfort and ease which seem to be the primary motivations? Did I swallow the puritan work hook, line and sinker?

So what does this phenomenon portend for the future? If life's satisfactions are to be found outside the realm of work, what does work become, an interlude between tennis sets? A time gap to fill in between camping trips?

Let's admit it. Some jobs may be dull and routine and lack sufficient challenge. Some jobs require such total dedication and commitment that no time is left for family, community or personal renewal, reflection and recreation.

But between these types of jobs and no job at all, there are a great number and variety of jobs, careers and professions which offer stimulation, challenge, reward, satisfaction and service to others.

Our real choice in life is not between working and not working, but between working at something we find personally meaningful and fulfilling and working at something just because it pays money.

That choice requires that you know and understand yourself, your strengths, weaknesses and limitations, your interests, values and aspirations.

That's not easy and it also explains why so many people today opt for one or the other of the two simplifications about work: either working yourself to death or resting and "rusting" yourself to death.

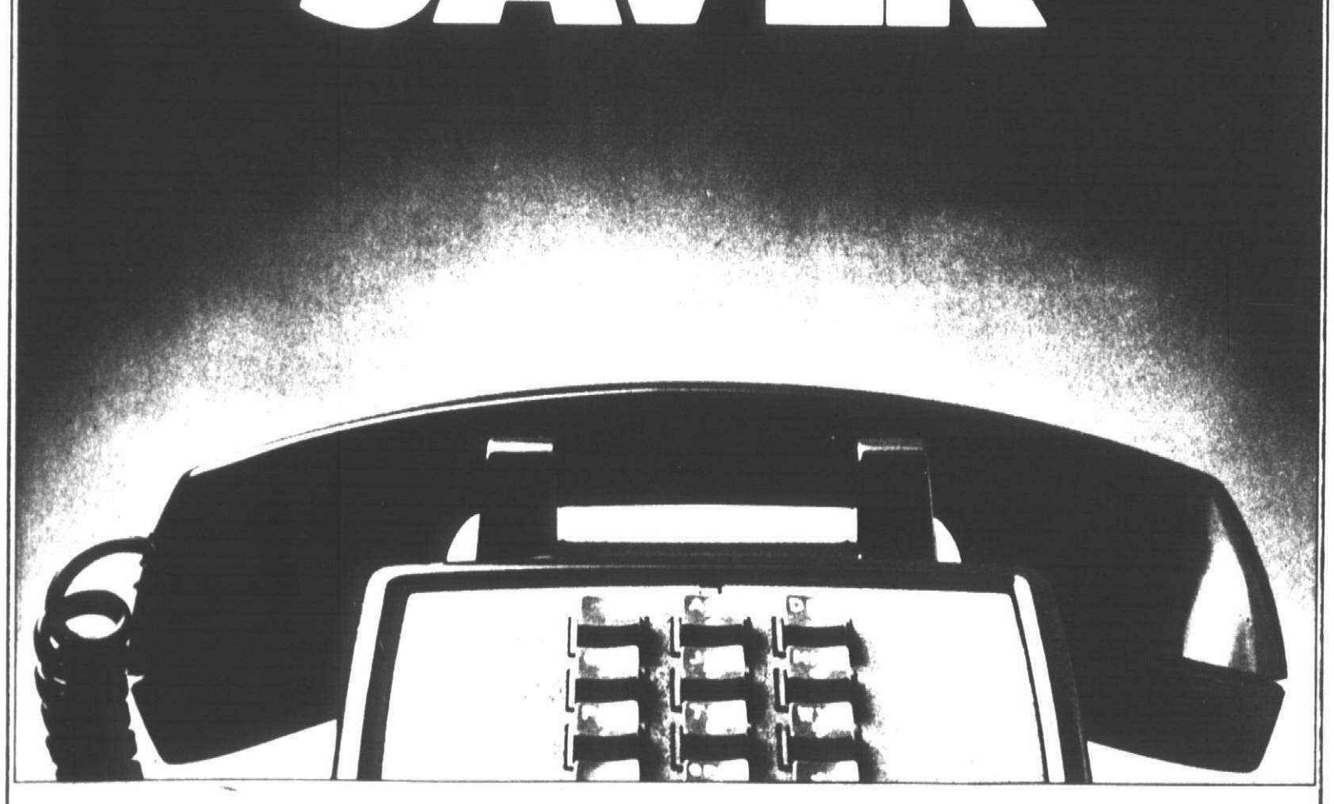
GAS SAVER


You can save a lot of gasoline—and a lot of money—if you use the phone before you use your car.
By calling ahead, you can be sure the restaurant is open . . . the store has what you want . . . or the friend you want to visit is home—before you waste time, gas and money on an unnecessary trip. On the average, you waste about a dollar's worth of gas on every unnecessary trip—and just two wasted trips a week can cost you more than $100 worth of gas a year.
Saving energy is easier than you think, and with the rising energy costs we're facing today, it's never been more important. So the next time you pick up your car keys and head for the door, ask yourself whether a phone call could save you the trip—and the wasted gas.
For a free booklet with more easy energy-saving tips, write "Energy," Box 62, Oak Ridge, TN 37830.

Monday's Commentary

Is call for cops best course for Hines Park?

It would be cheap and easy to blister the Wayne County Board of Commissioners for failing to come up with a majority vote for beefing up patrols on the county's 17-mile-long Edward Hines Parkway.

It would be a simple shot to say certain Detroiters on the board were playing politics by insisting that a) the deficit-ridden county can't afford any more hired hands and b) if funds were available, they should be pumped into social services their constituents use.

But we will not resort to easy criticisms because the Hines Park problems — youthful partying, noise-making and general misbehavior — are not subject to easy solutions.

FIRST, IF THE COUNTY hires 10 or 100 or 1,000 more brown shirts for the sheriff's department to clean out the place, the result will be that the activity will simply shift from the Dearborn Heights area of Hines to somewhere else.

Politicians and people have at least a decade of experience with Hines Park partying and should know that. In those years, there have been a number of hot spots — Waterford Oaks west of Pontiac, Botsford Park in northeast Livonia, Stoepel Park on W. Outer Drive in Detroit, Cass Benton Woods in Northville and so on.

Someone in the sheriff's department wisely compared the situation to a mass of gelatin: You push down here and it pops up there.

Cleaning out the place will make one section of Dearborn Heights happy for awhile. It will make some politicians look good. It will give the sheriff more money to play with. But it won't solve the problem.

SECOND, THOSE Hines Park users are our young people. We've looked at their school identifications on jackets and bumper stickers. That fact leads to these observations:

Most aren't criminals, vandals, drug dealers or prostitutes. Most are taxpayers or the offspring of taxpayers doing the things normal young people have always done. Indeed, the only new dimension is that some now have loudspeakers for their radios instead of just loud radios.

Because they're our young people, we as parents have responsibility for them. We've helped them buy cars and vans, or have given them the keys to the family buggy. Most still live with us, so we have some control over their behavior.

They can't go to the corner drugstore of the Norman Rockwell paintings because drugstores have ripped out their soda fountains.

They can't go to the friendly neighborhood tavern because suburbia gives new liquor licenses only to $1 million motels with cocktail lounges, and besides, we voted away the drinking rights of the 18-20-year-olds.

WE'RE FAMILIAR with the old essay about how young folks with "nothing to do" should behave — read a book, paint a garage, do a chore for an elderly neighbor.

It's a charming essay, but young people still need recreation, and Hines Park is where many of them, in this Land of the Free, choose to find it.

Parents are going to have to do some of the policing — or guiding — of their own offspring. And our communities, which have eliminated old-fashioned neighborhood "hangouts," are going to have to come up with a palatable substitute.

Americans don't like to be pushed around. And those people in Hines Parks are Americans.

Election quality is needed

Tim Richard

My colleagues in the editorial department of Observer & Eccentric Newspapers typically bawl out the public for not paying enough attention to home town public affairs.

We urge you to vote. We urge you to run for local office or to support someone who is running. When there are millage questions on the ballot, we support them 95 percent of the time or more often. We aim our verbal guns on the forces of snobbishness and exclusion.

You could say those views are self-serving. If there were no local government, neighborhood schools and community changes, we wouldn't have much to write about.

I'd like to think we're above that. We're in grass roots newspapering because we think it's important to people. Those of us who have had some exposure to state and especially national government generally learn they are more intersted in bureaucratic procedures than in solving folks' problems.

When we praise civic participation and grass roots government, we mean it.

WHAT BRINGS THESE ruminations to the fore is the forthcoming school elections.

Typically, they bring out 10 or 15 per cent of the electorate. If there are some hot issues such as school discipline or school closings, 25 percent may shake off their lethargy and vote. Where there are entrenched incumbents doing a good job, the turnout may be 5 percent.

I suppose the other side of the coin goes like this:

"My kid is going to have Miss Jones, a good storyteller, in third grade; Mrs. Smith, who's strong on math and discipline, in fourth; and Mr. Brown, who's a science buff, in fifth grade. Nothing that goes on in a school board meeting will change that. That school business stuff is boring detail that officials are handling, and I don't need to get concerned about it."

Or: "I don't have any kids in school. Why should I vote in school elections?"

I HAVE A DIFFERENT, perhaps more radical, point of view from my colleagues.

I don't worry about only half the American public being registered to vote, or only 10 or 15 percent going to the polls for a school election.

If people in America have a right to vote, they also have a right not to vote. Wouldn't you hate to live under a government which marched you to the polls or which took away your driving privileges if you didn't have a voter registration card punched on June 11, 1979?

The worry, as I figure it, is not low numbers of voters. It's low quality voting.

The worry is blindly angry voters, voters who don't study the issues, voters who look for names of their own ethnic group, voters who oppose all taxes regardless of merit.

IT'S COMMON knowledge that 40 percent of the public do their work, watch sit-coms on TV and placidly go to bed at night.

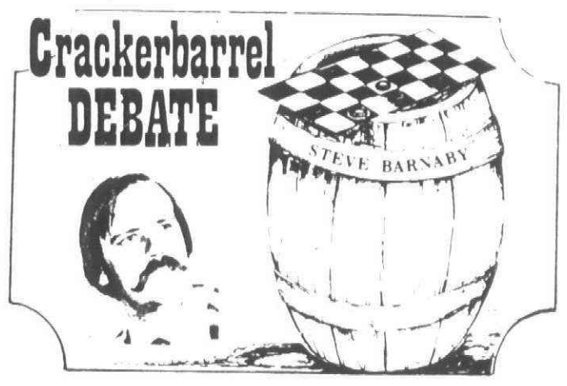
Another 40 percent arouse themselves to vote during presidential and gubernatorial elections — and then follow the instincts of their ethnic group or social class.

The remaining 20 percent have some capacity for rational thought, some knowledge of the candidates and issues, perhaps even some creative contribution to make to the process.

They even read this editorial page.

They may not vote our recommendations, but at least they have thought about it. We respect that.

That elite 20 percent — you — make society go. As school elections approach, we toast you.



Teach your children well

"Anti-Semitism is the swollen envy of pygmy minds — meanness and injustice."

It was true when Mark Twain said it more than 100 years ago. It was true this weekend when vandals smeared an area synagogue with Nazi swastikas and obscenities.

Anti-Semitism's a sickness which, to the normal mind, is impossible to comprehend.

While these outward manifestations of small minds are repulsive and are a mark of shame on all of us, even more frightening are the less obvious, more subtle feelings of those who go along with this age-old sickness in muted tones.

A CONVERSATION with a suburban housewife graphically illustrates the point.

"I told the real estate salesman that I wanted to move into a subdivision without any Jews," she said.

"That salesman promised me that Jews wouldn't be living in this subdivision. You know, just about everyone on this block is Jewish. I could strangle the guy who sold me this house.

"I don't have anything against them. I just don't want to live around them. They have their community. I want mine."

This woman wouldn't go out and paint obscenities on a synagogue wall. But her attitude, and many more like hers, hide their feelings behind a veneer of respectability. They seethe and boil and pass on their sickness to a younger generation.

I.F. STONE, noted journalist and author, spoke at an area synagogue this week in defense of the Palestinians. Stone, a Jew, met the ire of Zionists who have little tolerance for the fate of Palestinians, who also are Semites.

That's anti-Semitism, too. It's just as dangerous. Just as sick.

Bigotry is to be deplored. It is unacceptable in a civilized society. But many in these communities do accept it as a matter of fact. Whether that bigotry be against Arab, Jew, black or any number of ethnic groups, such hatreds must be extinquished.

Our intolerance for others only harms ourselves. Precious mental and physical energy is spent hating and teaching others to hate. Our hate begets hate.

THE SICKNESS must be attacked on two fronts — at home and in the schools. Parents must overcome their own prejudices to be able to pass on to their children a better world.

School systems must be courageous enough to address this crushing problem.

Yet, in both areas, there is silence. Parents too often mumble words of prejudice. Children hear and believe.

Teachers avoid the subject as the plague. Educators are restricted by the dictates of the community in which they teach.

While a community must collectively hang its head in anguish over the violation of a place of worship, it also must respond positively to alleviating this shame.

Otherwise, our communities' minds will be even more scarred than the desecrated synagogue walls.

The Stroller

50th anniversary

— By W.W. EDGAR

While other folks this month are celebrating all sorts of anniversaries, attending class reunions, traditional family gatherings or reliving their wedding day, The Stroller is enjoying one of his own.

This is a most unusual anniversary and it was brought to mind the other evening when the young fellow who used to cut the grass stopped by to show off his automobile. It was a dark blue Mustang and as he stood there looking at it, there was a feeling of pride in that it was his first car.

As he told the story of how he saved and worked to get it, The Stroller let the memories roll back through the years to the day when he took delivery on his first automobile. It was one of the first Model A cars built by the Ford Motor Co. and it will always have a place of importance in the Stroller's life. It was genuine proof that he had made good on his venture into big city journalism.

OWNERSHIP OF the little green model with the black leather top came about in an unusual way.

It was just 50 years ago that he was assigned to cover hockey — then a relatively new game in Detroit — and it brought him in to contact with Jack Adams, the portly gent who made the Detroit Olympia the hockey capital of the world for years.

When The Stroller reported to Adams and asked him about some of the terms used in the Canadian game, Jack smiled and asked:

"How would you like to be our official scorer?"

When The Stroller agreed, Adams informed him that he would be paid $25 per game and could have a check after each game or he could wait until the end of the season and get his scoring fee in a lump sum.

With a chance to get more money at one time than he ever had in his life, The Stroller decided to wait until season's end and take the lump sum.

It so happened that the Red Wings played a regular season schedule of 28 games and made the play-offs where they were ousted after two games.

This gave The Stroller 30 games and when he received his check for $750 he just looked at it almost in disbelief that he could have earned that much for doing so little.

MIND YOU, THIS was back in 1929 when the Ford Co. made the big switch from the legendary Model T. And the first thing The Stroller thought of was getting one of the Model A's and get into the swing of things.

With help from the Free Press automotive editor, the deal was made whereby The Stroller not only could become the owner of the Model A, but he could have his choice of style and color. This was no problem and in a day or two he drove up in front of the Free Press with a sporty looking light green car with a black leather toP. He was the envy of the entire staff.

Sitting behind the steering wheel of a passenger car was a new experience, but driving a motor vehicle wasn't. On his way to the journalism field, The Stroller had taken a summer job with the Mack Motor Co. back home. On his first day on the job, he was asked to drive a mammoth Mack truck.

When he informed the boss that he had never driven, the commeqt drew a smile and the boss answered, "Just steer it. Don't be afraid to hit anything. If you do, you'll go through it."

Fortunately, The Stroller never hit a wall or missed a turn, but his happiest moment behind the wheel came with that little green Model A with the black leather top.

That was 50 years ago. What a golden anniversary.

Best bets for Schoolcraft

We refer to June 11 as the date of the "school election." That's because most people identify with their local K-12 school district. It spends the biggest chunk of their property tax money.

But on the same ballot will be another community institution — Schoolcraft College. It was created by five K-12 school districts early in the 1960s.

Having created a better-than-average community college, the voters and the K-12 districts have since tended to forget about Schoolcraft. The result has not been a crisis, thank goodness, but some difficult times.

Low employee morale, student apathy, the incompleteness of physical facilities and the aging of the existing physical plant — all are related to the general public's overlooking the college.

Don't neglect Schoolcraft College when you vote next Monday.

THE BOARD of Trustees race has drawn six qualified candidates ranging from good to excellent. It's a no-lose proposition, no matter whom you vote for.

We know of no reason to oust the incumbents. All have moderate points of view, all are interested in problem solving, and most appear devoted to the college.

Nancie Blatt of Livonia is a former teacher who now works in a small business. She became a trustee first by appointment, then by election. Mrs. Blatt is so well thought of in community college circles that she is state president-elect of their state association. We congratulate her on attaining that honor and urge her re-election at Schoolcraft so that she may carry out the duties thereof.

Gerald Cox of Garden City teaches in Detroit and has served six years on the Schoolcraft board. That dual role gives us qualms, but Dr. Cox as a trustee has behaved like a board member rather than as an advocate of one interest group. His thought patterns and speeches are rambling, but his votes make sense and he gives representation to a community which, until this year, has become alienated from Schoolcraft.

Richard Hayward of Livonia was appointed a year ago to fill a vacancy after twice running for the board. So far, he is still learning the ropes, but it is apparent he has the business sense, knowledge of construction and experience in labor relations we had hoped for. If elected to the remaining two years of his term, we look to him to overcome his shyness about asserting his views.

TWO TAX proposals are on the ballot. They are neither visionary nor imaginative; they will result in no great explosion of beauty or vast enrichment of suburban culture if passed.

They are rock-bottom necessities. There will be no excuse if voters turn them down, as they have turned down four past proposals since 1971.

Proposition 1 would raise a half-mill for one year. It would bring in $1 million and allow Schoolcraft to put up its matching funds for a Culinary Arts addition to the Waterman Campus Center.

Students are learning in what was supposed to be a serving kitchen. In words and pictures, we have tried to demonstrate that the present facility is inadequate.

If Proposition 1 is passed, Schoolcraft can not only double enrollment in its internationally known culinary arts program and contribute qualified chefs to one of Michigan's great growth industries; it can perhaps get into a hotel-restaurant management program and offer the public vastly improved facilities for conferences, workshops, clinics, banquets and continuing education.

Proposition 2, also a half-mill for one year, would raise $1 million for major maintenance, new and replacement equipment.

The campus, though attractive, is aging. Virtually anyone who knows anything about the campus can tell you war stories, however, about its physical shape.

It's not due to any scandal. It's not due to any mismanagement. It's simply age and changing technology. Many K-12 districts have put such maintenance and equipment millages on the ballots, and voters have usually understood. We hope Schoolcraft College District voters will also understand.

The twin proposals, adding up to one mill for one year, are modest — almost too modest. But the college board has been shot down so many times by a public interested only in its neighborhood problems and not its broader community problems that it was gun-shy about even these proposals.

We urge their approval Monday by voters.

43 years of teaching remembered

Lucile Finkbeiner has been teaching elementary school students in the Plymouth-Canton school district since 1941. She retires June 16 after 43 years of teaching in Michigan, 38 of those spent in Plymouth.

Miss Finkbeiner taught in Roseville for five years before coming to Plymouth. She began her career in Plymouth at Starkweather Elementary, then moved on to Central and retires from Allen Elementary. She has taught third through sixth grades throughout her career.

"I've seen terrific growth in education in Plymouth. When I began here there was a superintendent, two elementary principals, one principal for junior and senior high, one office girl and 85 teachers; there are over 700 teachers now."

MISS FINKBEINER noted one thing that hasn't changed in Plymouth is the very cooperative attitude parents have and their concern for providing a good educational system for their children.

"The children have changed somewhat, though. Years ago they appreciated special things in school. Now it's harder fo motivate children, probably because they have so many things they're exposed to."

Miss Finkbeiner noted that television and more materials at home combined with family travel has made today's elementary school student more mature and aware.

"I have always tried to provide a broad education for children; one that offers information on life in general. This helps the child to cope with life as an adult.

"I receive a graet deal of satisfaction working with a group for a year and seeing their academic progress and social adjustment; every group has been a different experience."

Miss Finkbeiner will be retiring in Chelsea. She is already planning on being active in retirement organizations.

"I'm also looking forward to spending time at home and some time traveling. I enjoy playing the piano and organ.

"I want a more relaxed life with time to spend with my freinds."

Throughout her years as a taecher, Miss Finkbeiner has integrated her travel experiences into her teaching. She has traveled abroad twice. In 1966, she attended the first World Congress for reading in Paris, France.

Miss Finkbeiner received her bachelor's degree in 1936 from Eastern Michigan University. She completed work on her master's in 1946 at the University of Michigan.

"Today there are so many other areas open fo women, I'd think twice about teaching — mainly because the field is so flooded with teachers.

"But I have always enjoyed my work and have had nice children to work with, fine administrators and wonderful cooperation from parents."

Miss Finkbeiner emphasized the value of a well-rounded education for both students and educators.

"Teaching is one of the most important things we have to do in this world. We're training the future leaders of our country."

And Lucile Finkbeiner has spent the past 43 years dedicated to just that cause.

6 retiring teachers feted tonight

Some six retiring teachers will be honored by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education at 7 p.m. before tonight's regular meeting.

They are Doris Beerbower, retiring after 27 years; Lucile Finkbeiner, retiring after 38 years; Margaret Kelly, with 17 years in Plymouth-Canton; Kathryn Touhey, 12 years in the district; and Betty Walker, 13½ years in the district.

Born and raised in Ohio, Mrs. Beerbower started her teaching career in rural Ohio schools, teaching eighth grade her first year and second grade the remaining seven years there.

She resumed teaching in Michigan for the 1950-51 school year at Canton No. 1 for two years and has taught first grade at Hough, Truesdell and Smith elementaries for a total of 27 years.

Mrs. Finkbeiner taught fifth grade in Roseville for five years before coming to Plymouth in 1941. She has taught continuously for this district for 38 years, at Central, Starkweather and Allen elementaries.

MRS. KELLY was born and raised in Michigan, graduating from Redford High School. She attended Wayne State University, Eastern Michigan University, and University of Michigan. After graduating from college, Mrs. Kelly taught for one year in Dearborn Township and joined the Plymouth-Canton teaching staff in September 1962. She taught English and French at East and Central middle schools and at Plymouth Salem High School.

While on sabbatical leave in '72-73, she attended University DeNice in Southern France and toured Europe to improve and broaden her knowledge of the French people. She has taught continuously in the district for 17 years.

Mrs. Touhey attended high school in Port Clinton, Ohio, and graduated from Ohio University as well as Eastern Michigan and Wayne State University.

She taught art at the elementary level for two years in Sandusky from 1939-41. Mrs. Touhey began teaching art in Plymouth in 1967 and has taught at Starkweather, Isbister, Tanger and Eriksson elementaries thoughout her 12 years here.

Mrs. Walker attended St. Martin High in Detroit and then continued her education at Alma College and did her graduate work at University of Detroit, Wayne State, Eastern and U-M.

She had taught first grade for nine years before coming to Plymouth, including one year in Perrington, Mich., three years in Garden City, and five years in Wayne-Westland.

Mrs. Walter started teaching in Plymouth in 1964 with a first grade class at Farrand Elementary. In 1968 she began teaching reading at Tanger and Bird elementaries where she remained thoughout her 13½ years for the district.

Treating women addicts takes nurse to France

By FRANCINE MELOTTI

Marcia Andersen set a precedent for nurses last spring when she received her Ph.D. in nursing from the University of Michigan.

This week she will be in Tours, France at the Inter national Conference on Prevention and Treatment of Alcohol and Drug Addiction.

Mrs. Andersen, a Plymouth resident of 14 years, will present her latest research titled "Health of drug dependent females" at the conference and will serve on an inter disciplinary panel that will attempt to set international treatment policies for women.

"The panel will consist of a variety of people, including a nurse, social worker, physician and lawyer. We'll be trying to figure out the best way to treat drug dependent females.

"With women coming into clinics, new problems arise with children and child care. We have to think more of the children and treating the whole family, as the woman is usually the pri mary care giver for small children."

MARCIA ANDERSEN

MRS. ANDERSEN added that clinics were set up mainly for men until the past five to 10 years. She began her research in the area of drug dependent females last summer and completed it last fall.

"Not many studies have been ?e done on females and there were no programs that h had the facilities for treating the special problems women face."

Mrs. Andersen's research uncovered that drug dependent females often have gynecological problems. She submitted her research to the National Institute on Drug Abuse and, because of her findings, NIDA will help fund programs that will allow women to have gynecological checkups upon enternig clinics.

Other data Mrs. Andersen wompiled shows that both dug depen dent men and women have major dental problems. Her study also pointed out that women have more circulatory problems than men. This would include high and low blood pressure and pulse discrepancies, as wee well as other circulatory problems.

"Both sexes also have problems with the nervous system and this relates to problems with ears, eyes and headacs."

The suggestions made by the panel Mrs. Andersen is serving on will be passed on to treatment programs internationally.

Mrs. Andersen is a professor at the Wayne State University college of nursing. She presented her most recent findings at WSU and also submitted them for publication in Women and Health magazine.

Adding to her busy schedule, Mrs. Andersen will be in private practice part-time as a mental health nurse at a health care center in Detroit.

"This deals with people who have mental health needs in relation to physical problems. I'm switching my focus from the drug field to mental health nursing."

Mrs. Andersen is working on wto more research papers that directly tie into her involvement in mental health nursing. They are titled "Psycho-social risk assessment of ambulatory care clients" and "Out of the body experiences during near death encounters."

"The first study deals with the amount of stress ambulatory clients face and what kind of mental and psycho-social care they re quire. It's an attempt to treat the whole perso p person."

HER SECOND STUDY investigates people who were clinically dead, but survived. Mrs. Anderesn will be looking at how the ex perience affects the person and hopes to isolate variables common to people in similar situations. She cited Raymond Moody's book, "Life After Life," as other research done in this area.

"The mental health needs of addicts led to my interest in the mental health needs of all people with physical and sometimes terminal illnesses."

Joining Mrs. Andersen in her ongoing research are Ann Andrianos, faculty member at the WSU college of nursing and Marianne Gillard, graduate student in mental health nursing.

Families who plant together . . .

The Thibeaus of Plymouth believe that families who plant together stay together — maybe because of deep family roots. In any event, Denise accepted a job planting flowers along Main Street and decided to enlist her mother, Delores, to help out. Lisa Holk picks Eastman

How top musicians select training grounds

In 1972 Lisa Holk, now a senior at Plymouth Canton High, took up playing the trumpet as a sixth grader at West Middle School.

Since then Holk has become very active in the instrumental music program in the Plymouth-Canton communtity as well as being one of the best trumpet players in the state.

LIKE ALL graduating seniors, the question of what college or university to attend in the fall was one of Holk's recent concerns.

But unlike most students who considered Michigan State University or the University of Michigan, the two schools at the top of Holk's list were the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York, and the Juliard School of Music in New York City.

Holk auditioned at both schools, Eastman in March and Juliard in April, and included interviews with the trumpet professors performing a prepared solo, sight reading and theory examinations.

At Eastman, the school Lisa finally decided on attending, Lisa also was interviewed by administrators and went threw an orientation session with the university instructors.

Holk performed the Arutunian "Concerto for Trumpet" and "Bitsch Etudes" as a part of her prepared solo.

THE EASTMAN SCHOOL of Music is a division of the University of Rochester and was founded by George Eastman (of Eastman Kodak) in 1921.

The School of Music was proposed by Eastman to become the first professional graduate and undergraduate school of the university.

The school offers degrees in music performance, education, composition and theory. Out of 1,560 applicants, Holk was one of 214 to be accepted for the fall semester. The 214 accepted students include doctorial students as well as those working towards a master's or bachelor's degree.

Among the Eastman School's unique physical resources that Holk will have access to is the Sibley Music Library which houses the largest collegiate collection of musical volumes, literature, scores and rare documents in the Western Hemisphere.

HOLK WILL BE studying for a double major, the first being a Bachelor of Instrumental Music Education with concentration in composition, arranging and orchestration and the second a Bachelor of Music degree in applied music with trumpet as her primary instrument.

Studying under trumpet professor Sidney Mear, Holk is looking forward to the friendly atmosphere that Eastman has to offer.

"I was very impressed with the atmosphere between the students themselves and between the instructors and the students," said Holk. "The mental pressure and competition between people involved in music is overwhelming. At Eastman, the students and teachers respect you for your talent. Everyone is there to learn and to learn more, not to compete with each other."

Holk received a talent scholarship to help with her expenses as an out-of-state student.

During the past seven years, Holk has studied privately with Jean Morrehead, a doctorial student at the University of Michian, and Barnie Pearson who has been the principle trumpet in the United States Marine Band, New Orleans Philharmonic and the Balimore Symphony Orchestra.

In the past four years at Plymouth Canton, Holk has been first chair in the CEP Symphony Band under the direction of James R. Griffith three out of four years, a member of the marching band and head librarian for all six bands at the CEP. She also has been the soloist at her church and a member of the Plymouth Community Band.

Recently, Holk received the award of Outstanding Teen of the Year from the Plymouth Jaycees and was one of four recipients of the Youth Citizenship Award from the Plymouth Soroptomists Club.

Male voices wanted

Limberg picked to organize Canton chorus

By W.W. EDGAR

"At least I won't have people telling me that we used to do things this way or that."

That was Plymouth City Auditor Gordon Limberg's reaction when told that he had been chosen to help organize a community chorus and then direct it in Canton Township.

GORDON LIMBERG

"In all of my other choruses I have followed a director or filled in for one. But this is the first time that I will be on the ground level and be with a chorus from the start."

While Limberg deals in figures most of every day in Plymouth City Hall, he still has time to devote to work with choruses in various locations and at the moment he is back with the Wayne Wonderland group as an assistant director.

In announcing Limberg's appointment, Mike Gouin, head of the parks and recreation department in Canton Township, made it plain that Limberg will be in full charge and the success of the venture will be up to him."

ACCORDING TO present plans, the chorus is expected to take shape by September — at least for rehearsals.

The concerts, according to Limberg, will depend on the progress that the new group makes.

No site has been selected for rehearsals, but Gouin plans to select one of the elementary schools "somewhere close to the center of the community."

When the chorus is developed to the point where it can offer concerts, it is expected they will be held in the Plymouth Canton High School.

In selecting Limberg, the Canton officials feel that they have the best man available and, as Gouin said, "he comes to us with a great background. I am looking forward to a group of 40 t0 60 voices — and that it will be something of which we can all be proud."

WHILE LOOKING forward to his new assignment, Limberg feels that he will be most fortunate to get a group of 20 voices as a starter.

Limberg's chief concern as he awaits his first organization meeting is the availability of male singers.

"For some reason women are eager to join and there is no trouble. With men it is different, and I only hope they will be interested in Canton."

Townships can invest and keep interest

According to state Rep. Robert Law, townships may earn interest on school tax collections before turning the revenue over to local school districts.

And there is nothing in state law which requires municipalities earning interest on school taxes to turn the interest over to the schools, adds Law, a Livonia Republican.

The opinions were given by Law recently in a letter to John M. Hoben, superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Hoben wrote state legislators requesting an attorney general's opinion on whether municipalities could invest school taxes and then keep the interest earned.

The superintendent made the request after reading a news story in the Observer about the interest earned by Canton Township on school taxes it collects.

IN HIS LETTER to Hoben, Law first cited the state law which requires municipal treasurers to turn over to school districts tax collections once more than 25 per cent of the total tax roll is collected.

"Until then, however, that money can be invested in an interest-bearing account and, in fact, it is now quite common for the treasurer to do so," said Law.

"The law does not stipulate who receives the interest but, since the statue only requires the collecting agent to turn over the amount stipulated on the tax roll, it is obvious that the township or city does get it (interest earned).

"I understand that some township boards are instructing their treasurers to invest as much as possible for as long as possible in order to gain this income," added Law whose brother, Gerald, is a Plymouth Township trustee.

"As long as the treasurer is not holding more than 25 per cent, this practice is entirely legal, although somewhat vexing to school districts which are almost always in dire need of their taxes as soon as they get them.

"This subject is not addressed by statute because at the time it was written interest rates were very low and the phenomenon of compounding did not exist. I cannot find any record of an attorney general's opinion on this subject."

LAW REPORTED that a bill (HB 4572) has been introduced in the House that would require local treasurers to make a weekly settlement with the county and school treasurers.

Under that proposed amendment to existing law, a township or city could never hold school taxes collected for more than two weeks.

Presently the city of Plymouth passes its tax collections onto the school district as soon as the money is received.

Happy trails, whooping good times makes this Texas dude ranch lively

BANDERA, Tex. — Sunlight filters through the trees and dapples the clearing beside the Medina River, where we eat a ranch-sized breakfast of eggs, bacon, sausage, grits, biscuits and gravy, all cooked in huge frying pans over a barbecue pit here at the Mayan Dude Ranch.

The children from San Antonio are clustered on a log at the edge of the clearing and a group of adult tourists gather around the guitar player, who sings "The Strawberry Roan."

We have come downhill by hay cart, on horseback and on foot. There is the smell of dried leaves on damp ground and of the sun warming the morning earth of the Lone Star State.

When the guitar stops, the sound of birds breaks briefly through the murmur of morning voices before a stronger voice shouts "Saddle Up!"

That marks the end of morning breakfast here in the cypress country of central Texas, where Don and Judy Hicks and their 10 children run this busy ranch for tourists who like their cowboy life with beer and clean sheets.

Bandera is 47 miles west of San Antonio. As you approach it along the highway, Texas rolls away in frayed mounds of mesquite, with windmills turning in the wind and oil derricks lining the arid earth on either side.

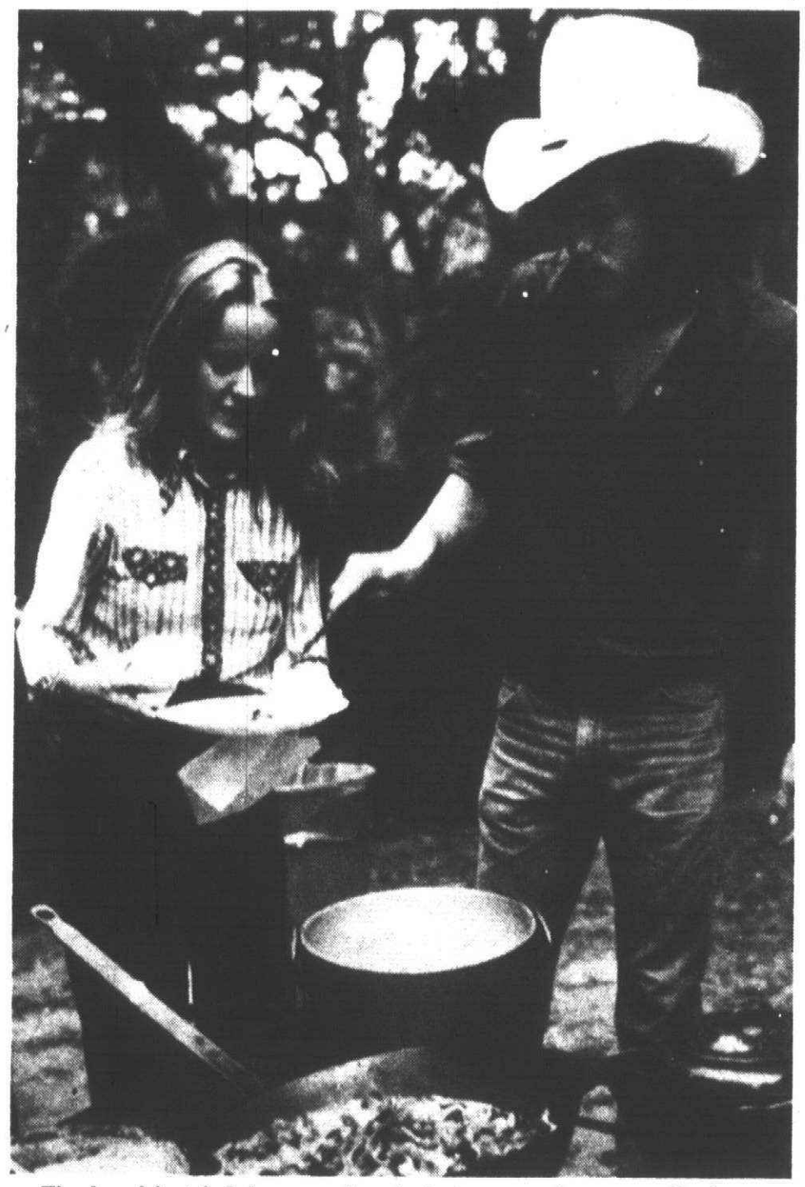
AFTER YOU PASS through the town of Bandera, down a single wide Texas street, the road curves through giant cypress trees towards the river. There has been a rare rush of rain. Flood debris still hangs 20 feet up in the trees and the swollen river still bruises the bridge.

One of the favorite sports on this ranch is riding an inner tube down this river, but at least one inexperienced sportsman who didn't follow instructions has been bruised while being dragged in his tube under the bridge.

The road follows an uphill route past the corral, the stage coach and the bunkhouses to the main building, which overlooks both the swimming pool and the path leading to the guest houses.

A dude ranch like this is a total experience for a family that participates in the daily events of the ranch. A single line of horses rides out every morning and afternoon, although guests are not allowed to ride alone because it is too expensive to insure lone riders against accidents.

The hay cart carries willing guests to breakfast every morning (unless they prefer to be really dude and eat in the dining room) and to a variety of outdoor evening barbecues and entertainments. People, who don't want to swim or ride, play horseshoes or tennis or simply wander around the large property.



The breakfast helpings are hearty but sure to be worn off after a long day in the saddle or riding an inner tube down the Medina River.

AFTER A HARD DAY in the saddle, guests often go into Bandera, the nightlife capital of central Texas for an evening at the infamous Arky Blue's Silver Dollar Saloon.

When you go downstairs to the room where the band plays and couples in straw cowboy hats whoop to the music, you may think that Hollywood designed this dancing bar for tourists. It didn't.

Arky plays his guitar and sings from the bandstand. The crowd, under a ceiling of straw hats, hollers friendly insults from nearby tables. Couples in nailed-studded jeans and high-heeled boots strut out on the dance floor with patterned rhythm. Men play billiards by the bar.

The Silver Dollar Saloon is a great foot-tapping, beer-drinking establishment for people who like local color. The smart tourists, however, remember that they are guests in town. Tempers are as short in a Texas bar as they are in a John Wayne movie.

There is a $2 cover charge Friday and Saturday nights at Arky Blue's. The rates at the Mayan Dude Ranch are about $40 a day for adults, including all meals and ranch activities. During peak season, one-day reservations are not encouraged.

The weekly rate is about $240. The fee for children is about half-price depending on age.

For information, write Don and Judy Hicks at the Mayan Dude Ranch, Bandera, Tex. 78003. For information on other ranches in the area, and on other Texas attractions, contact Elmer Whiddon at the Texas Tourist Development Agency, Box 12008 Capital Station, Austin, Tex. 78763.

A travel handbook called Land of Contrasts is available from Box 5064, Dept. IJ, Austin, Tex. 78763.

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

Hospitality plus

Now, that's Italian

TORRE DEL LAGO, Italy — Anna Maria is part of the People Experience, a sturdy Italian woman of grace and beauty who served us lunch recently here in the Cafe Cecco.

Torre del Lago is a tiny village beside a lake, in the foothills of the Appennine Mountains near Pisa. It was the home of composer Giacomo Puccini, who created "La Boheme," "Tosca" and "Madame Butterfly" in the big old house on the square.

We have toured the house, admired the piano and taken pictures of the bronze statue in the square. Now we are seated at a red-checked table covered with a snow-white topcloth in a beamed room decorated with hunting accessories.

It is midday, the time Europeans eat their main meal. Like all Italian menus, this one is divided into separate sections for antipasto, pasta, fish, meat, vegetables, and dessert.

The Italian meal does not work up towards a huge main course then dwindling to dessert as does ours. Diners usually pick one dish from two or three of the lists, each medium-sized serving as important as the next.

Pasta includes spaghetti, lasagna and other such foods as well as soup and possibly rice. Spaghetti is an ample introductory course served in a soup bowl.

Our friend and guide ordered the specialty of the house from the antipasto list: Crostina de Cecco. Anna Maria placed a large bottle of white wine on the table.

I speak about six words of Italian, accompanied by a lot of non-verbal communication with hands and face. Anna Maria spoke no English, but her voice and face were welcoming enough to bridge international misunderstandings.

"Que recommande?" I asked, hoping it meant "What do you recommend."

"Spaghetti con Volongo." "Pappardelli con carni." Spaghetti with shellfish? And pasta with meat?

So we began one of those international relationships that cannot really be translated because neither of us fully understood the other's words, although we knew well enough what we were trying to say.

She explained the crostina, a slightly sweetend dough fried and served with a special sauce.

I admired the wine, Valdadice Bianco from Trent.

She congratulated me on being brave enough to try a little Italian.

I asked her about her family. She learned to say thank you in English. I took a picture and promised to send it. She bought us an Italian liqueur.

Later, on impulse, I went back and gave her a small brooch, of personal but no commercial value, as a memento of our brief friendship.

We said goodby, and will certainly never see one another again.

What kind of a travel experience is that? For me it is the best.

When I sit in the sunset recalling memories, I will not remember Puccini's house. I'll remember the people I met in nearby and faraway places, including Anna Maria.

Knowing rules tones down those lost baggage blues

It happens to as many as 10,000 people every year. They are burdened with the aggravation of damaged or lost baggage during airline travel.

The Better Business Bureau suggests that many problems travelers have in obtaining reimbursement for lost baggage may be avoided by learning the rules set down by airlines and by exercising common sense.

Airlines are required by the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) to give information to passengers on tariffs, the binding contracts between the carrier and the passenger which are filed with the CAB. Airlines have trained personnel to aid customers in finding the particular information they need.

The liability coverage a passenger is entitled to on domestic flights is $750 per person, not per bag. On international flights, the maximum coverage is $9.07 per pound depending on the weight of the bag.

Coverage does not ensure that the full amount will be paid if a bag is lost. The passenger must prove that the contents of the bag are worth that amount. Airlines pay the depreciated value of any damaged or lost items, not their original value or replacement costs.

If a passenger feels his or her belongings are worth more than $750, insurance may be purchased to raise the airline's maximum liability. The amount of excess valuation that may be purchased varies among airlines. Check for exceptions which excess valuation will not cover.

The $750 or $9.07 per pound coverage does not apply to such items as glass, liquids, electronic equipment and other fragile items which should not be packed in a suitcase. Airlines are required to make available a list of types or classes of items considered too fragile to be carried in a suitcase and for which the airline will not be responsible.

The CAB also has set certain limits on the damage to fragile or perishable items for which an airline may deny responsibility. Airlines are responsible for:

- Items checked which are not packed in a suitcase (such as a musical instrument) unless the passenger signs a form releasing the airline from responsibility;
- Certain fragile items commonly carried in luggage (eyeglasses or one camera per person);
- Items packed in an original factory-sealed carton;
- And external damage to baggage or other evidence of negligent abuse.

A customer must notify the airline of a lost bag, or missing items from a bag, within 45 days. Do this immediately by filling out a loss-or-damage report. Keep a copy of the report and obtain the name of the airline employee who helped.

Keep the baggage check and a copy of the airline ticket until the lost items are recovered or the claim is resolved.

Airlines are responsible for expenses incurred by a passenger due to the loss of a bag; however, the amount depends upon whether the passenger is away from home and how long it takes to recover the bag. An airline may offer no reimbursement unless specifically asked to do so.

If the problem cannot be successfully resolved at the airport, write to the airline as soon as possible and keep a copy of the letter. Include a brief description of what happened, the consequences and what is expected to be done by the airline. Again mention the employee's name who helped and send copies of any receipts that will back up the claim.

Some precautions to take include not overpacking; labeling both the inside and outside of the bag with name and address; completely fill out baggage checks; pick up bags at destination as soon as possible and examine them before leaving the airport.

You deposit $10,000 in a 182-day Michigan Money Market Certificate.

Now, no other bank or savings and loan pays more on Michigan Money Market Certificates than the Michigan National Banks. A minimum deposit of $10,000 is required and the rate at which the certificate is purchased is fixed until maturity.

THIS WEEK'S RATE: Effective June 7 thru June 13, 1979

9.425% Annual interest rate.

9.786% Effective annual yield.*

* The effective annual yield is subject to change at renewal and assumes that the interest rate remains unchanged and that both the interest and principal are reinvested.

Federal regulation prohibits the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of interest is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate. New federal regulation also prohibits the compounding of interest on these certificates.

We transfer the monthly interest into a regular passbook savings account.

While the continuous compounding of interest is not allowed on Michigan Money Market Certificates, it is allowed on regular passbook savings. And since the interest you earn on a Michigan Money Market Certificate can be paid monthly, we can automatically deposit the interest you've earned each month into a regular passbook savings account.

3. The result: Bonus interest on your interest.

Your interest continues to earn bonus interest in your regular passbook savings account at the rate of 5.0% annually - continuously compounded to provide an effective annual yield of 5.20%.

Then, when your Michigan Money Market Certificate matures, you can take all of the interest you've earned plus your principal, reinvest in a new certificate at the prevailing rate, and start earning more money for your money all over again.

The Movies

LOUISE SNIDER

Comedy doubles as Peter Sellers plays dual roles

Anthony Hope's adventure novel of royal intrigue, "Prisoner of Zenda" (PG), easily adapts to a comic mold as Peter Sellers lopes aout as the heir to the throne and his double. He also appears briefly as the old King Rupert.

The film opens with old King Rupert of Ruritania (not Rupertania?) aloft in a balloon. As he pops a champagne cork, he punctures the balloon and ends his flight with an unscheduled plunge into a well.

The nasty Duke Michael comments, "He was never a well man." Now young Rupert (Peter Seller's again), Michael's half-brother, will become king.

Although the Duke is a scheming, black-hearted villain who'll stop at nothing to gain the throne, Rupert's no bargain either.

He's a weak, frivolous playboy whose main interests are gambling and women. He cares more, he says, about the state of affairs than affairs of state.

NEVERTHELESS, his loyal subjects are determined to escort him from London, where he does most of his playboying, to Ruritania for his coronation.

To decoy would-be assassins, they engage Sydney (Peter Sellers again, again), a horse and buggy driver who is the king's look-alike, to return to Ruritania with them via a well-publicized route.

From then on, it's a comedy of errors and mistaken identity as the deception continues and the pursuers persist.

"Zenda" is a pleasant diversion, neither as zany nor as physical as the "Panther" series of comedies that Sellers has been occupied with for the last several years. The change of pace is welcome.

As Syd, he plays a sturdy, common-sense type person, at least a dozen cuts above the dense Inspector Clouseau. And even as Rupert, he is a different type of comic character, more foolish than moronic.

"ZENDA," HOWEVER, still gives Sellers opportunity to execise the accents and vocal mimicry at which he excells. Syd's limey dialect is a startling contrast to Rupert's speech affliction; he can 't pronouce "r" sounds. Thus when he tries to bribe a guard, he gives him a "wuby wing."

Other characters also have their opportunities to shine. Gregory Sierra, as the outraged husband of Elke Sommer (the King's lover) keeps reappearing to challenge the King (Syd) to a duel, only to be thwarted each time in some ignominious way.

It's a running joke that works well, as do other bits of comic business, because the director, Richard Quine, maintains the elements of the film — humor, adventure, romance — in pleasig proportions.

Glimpses

NEW RELEASES

ALIEN (R). Hair-raising, science-fiction horror film about alien life form that terrorizes the crew of a space ship.
BATTLESTAR GALACTICA (PG). Essentially, a recut version of pilot film for TV series but with big sound added.
BOULEVARD NIGHTS (R). Authentic-looking drama about life in the barrio. Set in East Los Angeles.
DAWN OF THE DEAD (Unrated). George Romero's zombies are the ultimate consumers in this gory, satirical sequel to his cult classic "Night of the Living Dead."
THE DEER HUNTER (R). An emotionally gripping and violent film about the lives of three friends from a small steel town as they are affected by the Vietnam war.
THE DREAMER (PG). Bowling version of the "Rocky" story. About as exciting as watching bowling on TV.
THE FIFTH MUSKETEER (PG). Your average swashbuckling tale with heroes, villains and court intrigue. Beau Bridges deftly handles dual role as nasty king and his noble twin.
HAIR (G). The counter culture musical of the '60s, directed by Milos Forman, comes to the screen with amazing vitality and musical energy — if a decade late.
HANOVER STREET (PG). Unbelievably rediculous World War II love story is short on imagination and long on clinches.
THE LAST EMBRACE (R). Bizarre, tension-filled mystery is stylishly filmed, but burdened with hopelessly complicated plot.
A LITTLE ROMANCE (PG). Two talented young actors, Diane Land and Thelonios Bernard, in fresh, lighthearted love story set in Paris, Verona and Venice.
LOVE AT FIRST BITE (PG). Dracula goes disco dancing in funny, contemporary version with George Hamilton.
MANHATTAN (R). The inhabitants are somewhat frayed, but the Big Apple looks glorious in Woody Alllen's witty peek at the pairings and partings among New York literati.
NORMA RAE (PG). Sally Field is outstanding in contemporary story of union organizing activities in southern textile mills.
PHANTASM (R). Orgy of scares in horror film about mortician who terrorizes two brothers.
THE PRISONER OF ZENDA (PG). Comedy-adventure with Peter Sellers in new version of the Anthony Hope novel of royal intrigue.
THE RAVAGERS (PG). End-of-the-world adventure about survivors on a decimated planet.
THE SILENT PARTNER (R). Thriller about money and murder with Elliot Gould, Susannah York and Christopher Plummer. Steel yourself for shock ending.
WIFEMISTRESS (R). Erotic film with Marcello Mastoianni as a husband in hiding who watches his wife's sexual awakening.
WINTER KILLS (R). Conspiracy caper about political assassination in entertaining version of Richard Condon's adventure novel.

Q&E

Workshop in the Woods moves to North Congregational Church

Workshop in the Woods will continue its traditional summer music school sessions in a new locale this year. The six week school will open June 26 at North Congregational Church in Southfield.

Applications are still being accepted for interested string and woodwind instrumentalists. They may be obtained by calling 548-7560 or 559-2668 or by writing to Workshop in the Woods, 121 Elm Park, Pleasant Ridge, 48069.

Students who qualify for the workshop will be asked to audition at 2 p.m. Sunday, June 17 at the church at Northwestern Highway and Lahser.

Gifted music students from the metropolitan area will be offered an opportunity to attend the all-scholarship chamber music school.

The scholarships are made possible through the sponsorship of the Southfield Arts Council and the Southfield Department of Parks and Recreation.

All workshop sessions will be at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Fridays for the convenience of employed students. Emphasis will be on the chamber orchestra.

The group will be under the direction of the school's founder and director, Raymond Benner, assistant-principal bass of the Detroit Symphony.

Prior to the 7 p.m. chamber orchestra session, students will have the opportunity to form their own trios, quartets, quintets and other groupings, and avail themselves of the school's substantial music library.

First session of the six-week season will be Tuesday, June 26. The season will close Friday, Aug. 3.

Two concerts will be presented. The mid-season concert will be at 8:30 p.m. Friday, July 13 and the final concert is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 3.

Admission to the concerts will be a token $1 per person.

Benner is founder of the Cranbrook Festisval, Fairlane Music Guild,and Bach at Duns Scotus, as well as Workshop in the Woods.

Most anglers start at a young age

By LEM MESEE

If a youngster is going to take to fishing, the odds are that he — or she — will pick it up from a parent or close relative before the age of 12.

In fact, the odds are 75 percent that any future angler will start by age 12, according to the American Fishing Tackle Manufacturers Association.

The trade group has some tips for introducing a youngster to fishing. They are particularly helpful because next Saturday, June 16, is the annual Tom Sawyer-Becky Thatcher fishing derby on Newburgh Lake in Hines Park. Fishing time is 7 a.m. to noon.

In the derby, anglers from ages 6-16 will have to bait their own hooks and handle their own equipment without any help from dad or mom, so they should be able to handle the equipment.

DON'T FORCE a kid to fish, they advise.

"Remember your daughters. More than 20 million women fish in the U.S. today," the manufacturers say. They are right. Some prizewinning fish have been taken by girls in the local derby, sponsored by the Western Wayne County Conservation Association and local parks and recreation departments.

Make sure the rod, reel and line are in good shape before the youngster starts fishing. An angler — young or old — can waste a lot of valuable early fishing time fooling with a defective rod, grit-clogged reel or kinked monofilament line unless the equipment is checked out in advance.

Use simple equipment. The manufacturers advise spin casting outfits, and most contestants use them. (Personally, I think many youngsters would be better off with cane poles.) I would also get the beginner angler a cheap but standard rod and reel from a sporting goods store or hardware rather than a packaged-in-plastic rig from the drugstore.

FISHING REPORTS weren't too positive on area inland lakes last week. Threatened rainstorms and high heat were apparently to blame.

Down in Monroe County, walleye fishing was reported fair in Brest Bay. Tollers used conventional walleye lures to nail walleyes from legal size to two pounds.

White bass were being taken in the Edison Cut and off the Cosumers Power plant in Monroe County.

Stage auditions Thursday at Music Hall

That legendary "big break in show business" may really happen to some talented Detroit area singers and dancers when the New York based American Theatre Productions holds auditions at Detroit's Music Hall on Thursday, June 14.

American Theatre Productions (ATP), one of the country's largest producers of touring Broadway shows, is holding the auditions with the opening week of one of their musicals, "Your Arms Too Short to Box with God," at the Music Hall.

Other Broadway hits among their most recent touring productinos are "California Suite," "The Wiz," "My Fair Lady," "Equus," "Da," "Same Time Next Year" and "Bubbling Brown Sugar."

Although ATP is hoping to fill some imminent vacancies in the cast of "Your Arms Too Short," a gospel musical, the auditions are to be considered more general in scope and will also be utilized in casting other ATP shows.

Performers who wish to apply for an audition appointment should call Susan Anderson at the Music Hall, 963-7622, during normal business hours. Some formal voice or dance training is required.

Dodge Aspen

SEE US FOR OUR PRICE $4828*

* Manufacturer's suggested retail sticker price. Destination charges, title, taxes extra.

Includes this special value package:
● Power Steering
● Power Brakes (standard on wagons)
● AM radio with rear speaker
● White Sidewall Tires standard size
● Deluxe Windshield Wipers
● Deluxe Wheel Covers
● Bumper Guards and Rub Strips
● Digital Clock
plus: Automatic transmission at no charge. You save $318.00.

Add Aspen's room, ride and excellent mileage, too!

Dodge Aspen. It's big for its size. Big on room: Aspen can handle six passengers comfortably. Big on ride: Aspen's surprisingly smooth, stable ride comes from its unibody construction and torsion bar suspension up front, multileaf springs in the rear. And Aspen is big on performance: Since its inception, Aspen's 225-1 bbl. "Slant Six" engine has been a proven performer as an Aspen test drive will demonstrate to you.

There's something else Aspen is big on, too: Mileage. The roomy, six-passenger Aspen with automatic transmission and "Slant Six" engine delivers mileage equal to that of a comparably equipped Ford Fairmont that only has room for five passengers. Dodge Aspen. It's big for its size. Check one out soon at your nearby Dodge dealer.

On top is a stand-out "street rod, with its anti-establishment flame decals. Above is a 1979 Z-28 Camaro with its integral decals.

Decal makers enhance image of American car

Most cars have the image of youth, some cars more than others.

The customized rods of the '50s were an extreme example of the car owner making a sedate-looking sedan into something the owner's parents would stay away from.

The custom rod, emblazoned with dragon-like flames, stripes and spirals, became a symbol of the era, jamming parking lots at football games, sock hops and drive-ins.

BEFORE LONG, fad became fashion. And the auto makers realized that there was a market for customized-looking cars. In 1964, GM sold its first car relying on decals to enliven the exterior. That was the "goat," the Pontiac GTO.

Street action was heavy along streets like Woodward, which earned a national reputation as a teenage dragestrip and the place to cruise from drive-in to drive-in. Ford, GM and Chrysler were into their racing image then, and the auto decal craze got serious.

The craze spread across the country, through all age groups. The fad of customizing a car's exterior caught on with adults as well as teenagers. Decals customized a car without the expense of elaborate paint jobs.

ADULTS WANTED a car that said "This is me" as much as their offspring. They just wanted it to state their identity, not scream it. So they wanted decals that emphasized style without yelling its nonconformity.

Today, even the Chevy Citation, designed to be a practical car, offers decals as part of its sport package.

All of GM's decal designs start in the automotive graphics studio at the Tech Center in Warren. Sixteen designers decide the shape of future decal designs.

"In the early days of decals, this was just something to tack on the car to give it a new image," said Don Schwarz, executive designer in charge of industrial design, which includes automotive graphics.

"Now with the Camaro Z-28, Rally Sport or the Monza Spyder, design graphics are an integral part of the total design package. The form of the car and the graphics are combined to create an exclusive design."
