Strawberry pickin' time

Berries abound

The strawberries began ripening last week and the pickers turned out in force at a number of pick-your-own farms in western Wayne County.

And if you are interested in loading up on some fresh strawberries, better make your plans soon because the picking season only lasts three to four weeks.

There are a number of strawberry pick-your-own farms scattered throughout western Wayne County, in Canton, Plymouth Township and Belleville.

When picking, harvest only those berries which are red or at least pink all over. Berries still showing white should be left for the next picking.

Pick and place behind you in the path any berries with soft spots or rot showing, thus preventing those ripening next from being spoiled.

Pickers should harvest all the ripe fruit in the row assigned to them; otherwise the berries will be over-ripe by the next picking.

THE COOPERATIVE Extension Service suggests taking a hat and wearing comfortable clothing for berry picking. Also take along a bug repellent.

Pick berries early in the morning and you'll be ahead of the game. The air is fresher and cooler, and there are likely to be fewer other pickers.

Picking early also gives you the chance to get home and get the berries into the freezer or make jam the same day, while the berries are at their very best.

To keep as much as possible of the field-fresh sweetness, put the berries inside your car where it's cooler — not in the hot trunk. Go straight home and get the berries into the refrigerator as soon as possible. Wet berries spoil in a hurry, so don't wash them till you're ready to use them.

While transporting, open your car windows slightly so there is air movement inside.

Do not remove the hulls before washing. And sort the berries out, using the ripest ones first.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture has put out a booklet, called "Country Carousel," which is a guide to Michigan pick-your-own farms and roadside markets, and is indexed by counties. Listings give directions to farms, hours, and available crops and provide phone numbers so you can call ahead to find out what is in season.

If you would like one of these booklets, call the Southeastern Michigan Travel and Tourist Association in Southfield at 357-1664. The booklet is free.

Manhole repairs approved to prevent future flooding

The Canton board has accepted a recommendation of its engineer to begin immediate repairs of sewer system manholes in an effort to prevent another backup in the sanitary sewer system.

Smoke and dye testing will also be conducted during the next few weeks to discover possible defects in sanitary sewer lines.

Engineer Robert Wade has blamed the manholes for the backup that filled hundreds of basements with up to two feet of sewer water on Good Friday.

According to the engineer, the manholes have separated from their frames to allow the entrance of storm water in the sanitary sewer system.

Wade has identified 62 manholes which he says should be repaired with township funds in order to curb "the very real possibility of additional basement flooding" next spring.

Although the township can apply for a federal grant which would fund the manhole repairs, Wade says that at least some repairs should be made now in anticipation of heavy rains next fall and spring.

Canton could not receive the grant money until late next winter or early spring, according to Wade.

The township board has allocated $10,000 plus DPW labor costs to begin the repair of the 62 manholes now.

"WE TRIED to get those that would give you the most results, the quickest and with the least amount of money," Wade said of the manholes tagged for immediate repair.

"If nothing is done, it's like the roof that doesn't leak until it rains."

The defective manholes were discovered as part of a federally-funded Sewer System Evaluation Survey (SSES).

The next phase of the SSES is dye flooding and smoke testing, which Wade says will give engineers more insight into sewer system defects.

Both tests are scheduled for selected areas of the township within the next few weeks.

Wade called smoke testing a "detective technique" that will allow engineers to discover holes or leaks in the sewer system. Under the test, smoke will be pumped into the system under pressure.

The engineer stresses that the smoke is not harmful. Residents who discover the possible leakage of smoke in their homes should contact the fire department personnel who will be stationed on residential streets during the tests.

Under the dye test, ground near suspect areas of the sanitary sewer system will be flooded with water colored with a vegetable dye. Engineers will inspect the sanitary sewers to learn if the system is admitting ground water.

According to Wade, the dye testing will be conducted in limited areas which could be as small as one residential lot. He said the vegetable dye will not stain sidewalks or streets.

Residents of areas earmarked for smoke testing will be notified by letter within the next few weeks. Wade said the dye tests will will only be conducted in areas where the landowner has consented.

Wade also plans to contact homeowners whose downspouts appear to lead into the ground. The engineer said downspouts should lead drainage away from the home.

Cable TV franchise bid made to Canton board

Omnicon of Michigan hopes to bolster the receiving capacity of Canton television sets to 36 channels through a proposal for a cable TV franchise.

Canton board members appear receptive to the idea and have agreed to establish a committee that will meet with company representatives to iron out details of the proposal.

The committee — comprised of Trustee Robert Greenstein, Treasurer Jim Donahue, planning commissioner Thom Carman and possibly one other member — will submit a recommendation to the township board next month.

Omnicon is asking for a non-excluded franchise which would allow other cable TV companies to gather subscribers in Canton.

According to Clerk John Flodin, township officials granted an exclusive franchise to a cable TV company about five years ago. After the franchise was granted however, board members had second thoughts about their decision and placed the issue on the ballot for a referendum vote.

Flodin said voters defeated the cable television proposal.

OMNICON PRESIDENT John Raines said his firm's franchise proposal would give Canton Township three percent of gross subscribers revenue.

The firm also has approached the City of Plymouth with the franchise proposal and plans to seek approval from Plymouth Township as well.

Raines said the cable TV system would increase the eight channels now available to most viewers in the area to 36.

The system would offer subscribers all Detroit and Windsor stations plus a selection of channels from Toledo, Lansing, New York, Boston, Atlanta, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Raines said one channel would air exclusively children's programs uninterrupted by commercials. Another channel would run news only, a third would air first-run movies at an addi-

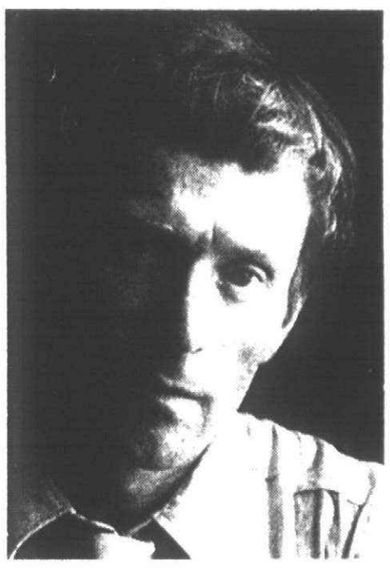
A Russian's 'inside freedom'



GARRICK VOSKOV

By CAROLINE PRICE

It is difficult for Garrick Voskov to come to terms with what he calls his own inside freedom — and even harder to explain what it's like not to have it.

But after a lifetime spent in Russia, Voskov treasures the ability to let his soul soar where it will and relishes the choices many of us never take the time to explore.

Voskov, a mechanical engineer, has worked for the Welduction Co. in Canton Township little more than two weeks. He has lived in the United States about two years .

When he and his family first arrived (in New York), Voskov's grasp of English extended no further than a quickie course in the language.

"Language was the hardest, because without language, you cannot understand life," he says, in English that only occasionally falters.

Voskov says he left Russia, as many do, to escape persecution that began more than 10 years ago when some friends got in trouble with the government.

"My first conflict with the government was in 1962. There was a trial for my friends and the secret police wanted information from me. I refused.

"After this, I could not get a job in my field."

According to Voskov, unemployment in Russia can lead to a grueling life as a field laborer.

Rather than answers, he offers descriptions of events in his life.

He lived in Leningrad except for the years between 1962 and 1964. "It was during the war and they took all the children out to the deep country. There were maybe 1,200 kids and 10 adults."

Voskov describes another memory from his childhood, when he and friends took a bike trip to the country. "We tried to buy some food, but all we could get was a little very old bread. It was part of the country where they grow the wheat. We lived on the hard bread for two days."

According to Voskov, food is harder to come by in the country than the city in Russia because everything that is produced is sent to government stations in the cities, where it is distributed. "It is the opposite from here," he says.

Voskov took a battery of tests as a student, which determined what field he would study for. Education is free in Russia, but "it is a very different kind of life for a student than here.

"You must waste your time, waste your soul, waste your mind. It's better to pay."

Voskov knew little about the United States until 1950, when Russians started to hear the Voice of America on radio. He still believes he has much to learn — not all of it easy.

"You are used to pushing from outside, from the government. Here, you have to push yourself," he says.

"IF YOU are not working after a month, you have to go off and work wherever they send you."

When he could not find work as an engineer, Voskov says he turned toward art. He had always been involved with drawing and painting, and attempted to teach art. This job also fell through.

The struggle to survive continued until 1973. "Then, for the second time, they (the secret police) invited me for talking. I would not give any information. It became impossible to stay.

"My wife was close to getting a de-

Water and sewer rates rise

Canton water and sewer customers will be paying 18 per cent more to turn on their water faucet and 47 per cent more for sewer services under a new rate schedule adopted by the township board last week.

The rate increases were recommended by the Seidman & Seidman accounting firm in a recently completed analysis of water and sewer prices.

The report cited a 43 percent increase in the rates charged Canton Township by the Rouge Valley Wastewater Disposal System since August, 1977.

Combined with the inflationary costs of operating the water and sewer department and the need to pay off water and sewer debts, the rate increases charged to Canton would mean that the department is operating in the red.

The new customer price schedule increases water rates from 69 cents per 1,000 gallons to 84 cents and hikes the price of sewer service from 51 cents per 1,000 gallons to 98 cents.

Township board members unanimously approved the rate hike "with regret."

"The cost of purchase exceeds the cost of sale," said Treasurer Jim Donahue. "We'll soon be bankrupt if we continue to pay more than what we're selling it for."

According to township Clerk John Flodin, customer water and sewer rates were last adjusted in December, 1977.

Short Takes

The Canton Jaycees think Supervisor Noel Culbert is an outstanding young man. They have selected the 32-year-old Democrat as the 1979 recipient of the club's Outstanding Young Man of the Year award. Jaycee president Fred Burger announced the award at last week's township board meeting and presented a plaque to the smiling administrator.

Signing off (maybe)

The long-debated sign ordinance may finally get an official nod or thumbs down this Tuesday when members of the Canton Board of Trustees gather for a special meeting on the proposed law. There will be other items on the agenda as well. The township board will also meet this Wednesday in a joint session with the Plymouth-Canton School Board in order to discuss mutual concerns. Both meetings will be held at 7 p.m. in Canton Township Hall.

Do as I say . . .

A second attempt to lift the ban on smoking during Canton Township board meetings has fizzled out. When it came time to vote on what non-smoking Supervisor Noel Culbert called "this cruddy item," smoking trustees Eugene Daley and Carol Bodenmiller joined with the supervisor to defeat the proposal. During the vote, Trustee Robert Greenstein, Treasurer Jim Donahue and Clerk John Flodin were all enjoying a cigarette.

Fair play

In case you missed the Jaycee Fair held last week, or if you just want to relive the festivities, staff photographer Gary Caskey has preserved the event on film. Photos from the four-day event are on Page 3A of today's Observer.

The item was tabled

You've probably noticed that a picnic in Canton's Griffin Park is an enjoyable way to spend an afternoon, providing you don't mind eating while sitting on the ground. The present dearth of picnic tables may be alleviated somewhat, thanks to a $250 check presented by the Canton Chamber of Commerce to Recreation Department Superintendant Mike Gouin. The money, which was allocated from the proceeds of last year's chamber barbecue, is earmarked for the purpose of buying either tables or barbecue grills.

EPA: Super sewer planning can go ahead

The U.S. Enivornmental Protection Agency (E'A) will recommend construction of a sewer interceptor and waste water treatment plant to serve the southern tier of Wayne County communities in the so-called super-sewer project area.

At the same time, the EPA will make grant monies available for concurrent facilities planning in the remainder of the study area from Van Buren to Commerce townships.

That was the word recently from EPW Project Officer Douglas Ehorn who said the final environmental impact statement (EIS) on the controversial regional sewage treatment plan would be a "fairly faithful parrot" of the agency's March 28 position paper on the proposed project.

The impact statement should be available in about a month, he added.

MEANWHILE, Wayne County public works officials and representatives of some local communities have traveled to Washington, D.C. to discuss the supersewer project and their concerns.

In its March 28 position paper, the EPA said it would approve a grant for design work on the Brownstown to Sumpter interceptor line and a modular treatment plant.

A facilities planning grant also will be made available to Wayne County to provide data which could justify the expansion of the supersewer to northern Wayne, and possibly southern Oakland communities.

Timetables for the two studies must be coordinated over a two-to-three-year period, according to EPA, to make sure the interceptor and wastewater facilities can be designed to provide capacity for the remainder of the study area, if necessary.

The EPA also said the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and Wayne County will have to enter into negotiations to change national pollution discharge permits for five existing wastewater treatment plants which don't comply with federal regulations.

If Wayne County fails to reach agreement with the state on a compliance program, then the EPA said it would push for constru ction of interceptor and wastewater facilities "with capacity sufficient only for the service area from Brownstown to Sumpter Township . . . based on providing service to the southern area at the earliest possible date."

FACILITIES PLANNING for the remainder of the study area "must demonstrate a water pollution control need, examine the alternatives mentioned (in the draft EIS), and evaluate the costs and environmental impacts of these alternatives," the EPA said.

The EPA said that the "existence of water quality problems in the southern portion of the service area is well documented. These problems include the five existing wastewater treatment plants which are violating their NPDES permits, as well as groundwater contamination in Sumpter Township caused by failing septic tanks."

The EPA also concluded that there isn't sufficient documentation of existing water quality problems nor a completed facilities plan for the northern service area, especially Plymouth and Northville cities, Plymouth, Canton, Northville and Van Buren townships.

In the draft EIS released last fall, the EPA recommended construction of an interceptor and wastewater treatment facilities to serve the area from Brownstown to Sumpter and northerly through Van Buren and Canton, which were supposed to sell their capacity in the Middle Rouge system to Northville, Plymouth, and southern Novi.

The area from northern Novi through Walled Lake and Commerce was proposed for further study of other possible alternatives, including expansion of the Novi-Walled Lake wastewater treatment plant.

AT PUBLIC HEARINGS on the impact statement earlier this year, though, officials from Canton and Van Buren indicated opposition to trading Rouge capacity for inclusion in supersewer.

As a result, the EPA stated in its position paper that the stand taken by Canton and Van Buren made its recommended alternative "unimplementable."

Several meetings were held between county DPW officials and the EPA regional staff plus representatives of local communities and environmental groups to discuss problems with the draft environmental impact statement.

Duane Egeland of Wayne County public works said - before he was notified of the EPA's decision to stick to its position paper — that Canton and Van Buren officials have informed the EPA that their stand against negotiating capacity trades was not "absolutely rigid."

Egeland said, however, that the local officials "got nothing back" from the EPA.

"They didn't change their position much," said Egeland, admitting, though, that the EPA indicated that the design work on the facilties for the southern communities "could be sized for the whole thing."

"We worked a couple of months to try to get them to change it, so I don't know how much luck we'd have now."

Environmental groups have opposed the original supersewer and EPA-recommended proposals because the new facilities could encourage urban sprawl and be so extensive that they may not be cost efficient.

Environmentalists call for an alternative to upgrade existing wastewater plants, if necessary.

Wayne County public works officials have supported the original supersewer plans and have criticized the EPA, charging that the agency has interpreted President Carter's urban policy to call for assistance to central cities as a program to restrict suburban development.

YMCA looking for new home

By W.W. EDGAR

The Canton, Northville, Plymouth Family YMCA still is looking for a new home.

The YMCA in recent years has been located above Fisher Shoes (now Armbruster's Bootery) on Main Street near Penniman Avenue.

Then a decision was made to move into a building at Harvey and Fralich in the city of Plymouth. But before that move could be made the YMCA decided to seek new quarters.

The home was donated as a gift to the Y by 35th District Judge Dunbar Davis of Plymouth. But because of increased activity, the building no longer can accomodate the YMCA needs.

WHILE NO SITE has been selected for a new office, several locations are under consideration and the selection will depend on the ability to sell the building and property at Harvey and Fralich.

Meanwhile, another problem has come about — this one generated by the Metropolitan YMCA. This group wants Canton to join with its branch and receive services out of the Livonia YMCA until a Canton facility is built and desert the CNP YMCA.

Canton officials have taken the request under advisement, but it has been hinted they will stick with the present arrangement.

The building and site committee of the CNP Family YMCA has been studying the need for a new office site for the past year and now is ready to take action.

The committee was not sure that the Fralich-Harvey property could be sold for enough money to finance a new home. And then, only last week, Mrs. Salone M. Britton — widow of D. Harper Britton — donated the 50-foot lot next to the Davis property to the YMCA.

This gift has made the property 150 feet wide and more attractive for sale. At least so say officials from the YMCA.

Aside from the two locations with building now under study, the YMCA has been informed that there is a piece of property at the corner of Five Mile and Bradner which is available for many YMCA outdoor functions.

The owner only asks that the property be cleaned up before it is used. It also has been hinted that she might sell the property.

Nothing so far has been decided and won't be until the study of the two present buildings in the city is completed.

Meanwhile the YMCA officials are anxious for action which will bring about the new home.

Keep kid toys safe and clean

Just as most accidents happen in the home, the backyard is the place where many children's playtime accidents happen during the summer vacation months, according to the Oakland County Easter Seal Society.

"The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that about 100,000 children are injured each year while using playground equipment," said Susan Beauvais, executive director. "Many playground injuries are minor, but some can result in serious, long-term disabling conditions."

The society offers 10 tips as ways parents can make home play yard equipment safer.

- Check equipment to make sure nuts, bolts and clamps are properly tightened.
- Replace rusted parts. Sand metal tubing that is rusted and repaint with unleaded paint.
- Oil all metal parts regularly throughout the season.
- Check rope swings for wear and stress. Replace ropes that might break in mid-swing.
- Inspect equipment for sharp edges, exposed screws and bolts, and open-ended hooks. Place tape over sharp edges and exposed screws and bolts, close S hooks by pinching with pliers. Sharp edges and hooks can tear clothes and skin.
- Check exercise rings. These should be at least 10 inches in diameter. Smaller exercise rings can trap a child's head and these should be discarded where children will not find and play with them.
- Make sure swings have lightweight seats and that metal swing seats have rolled edges.

Trucks plague Twp. residents

If you live on a certain stretch of Haggerty Road, you probably know about the problem.

And the Wayne County Road Commission will find out soon, too.

At last week's Plymouth Township board meeting, members agreed to a resolution, suggested by Trustee Barbara Lynch, directing the commission to stop heavy truck traffic on Haggerty from Ann Arbor Rd. north to Plymouth Rd.

"This is definitely a problem," Mrs. Lynch said. "Although the speed limit has been lowered, semis don't observe it."

According to Mrs. Lynch, a member of the Southeastern Homeowners' Association, trucks exit I-275 at Ann Arbor Rd. and use Haggerty as access to industrial and commercial sections on Plymouth Road.

"We feel the truck usage of Haggerty is excessive and creates a safety hazard in a residential area," she wrote.

Petitions calling for this action, and signed by local residents, were presented to the board Tuesday night.

More candidates apply

Three more candidates have declared an interest in being appointed to the remainder of Lynne Goldsmith's term on the Canton Township Board of Trustees.

The latest candidates are Jerry Clark Williams, chairman of the tax board of review for Canton; Elizabeth Hamann, who has been active in both Canton and school district issues; and Steve Larson, a vocal opponent to the proposed sludge composting site in the township.

There are now 11 people interested in the unexpired term. The township board, however, is not obligated to choose any of the candidates.

Other candidates are Larry Bowerman, Mary Dingeldey, Richard Wolfe, Dianne Neihengen, Tom Stillings, Douglas Ritter, Robert Padgett and Robert Schaetzl.

According to Supervisor Noel Culbert, the township board is expected to select someone to fill the seat within two weeks.

If the board doesn't appoint someone within 45 days after Mrs. Goldsmith's resignation, a special election would have to be held. Her term expires in 1980.

Mrs. Goldsmith resigned to move to California, where her husband, Jeffrey, took a job as pastor of the St. Stephen Presbyterian Church in Chatsworth.

Moore demands Schoolcraft recount

By TIM RICHARD

A loser by only one vote out of more than 8,000 cast, Thomas S. Moore of Northville will seek a recount of paper ballot precincts in the Schoolcraft College District.

"That's incredible, " Moore said when informed that Schoolcraft trustee Richard Hayward had been certified by the canvassing board late Thursday as the victor by 4,165 to 4,164.

Hayward and Moore sought a two-year term in the June 11 election.

A second Schoolcraft race was also close. Michael W. Burley of Canton was a 27-vote winner over Livonia attorney Robert Ficano. Burley received 4,592 to Ficano's 4,565.

Ficano Friday petitioned the Wayne County Board of Canvassers for a recount in his race for a six-year term.

THE SCHOOLCRAFT results were literally some of the closest in Michigan history.

In 1950 G. Mennen Williams retained the governor's office over Harry Kelly by some 8,000 votes.

Burley's margin was one-quarter of a vote per precinct, and Hayward's was less than 1-100th of a vote per precinct.

Ficano filed for a recount in all 122 precincts, including absentee ballot precincts.

He cited an error in in Livonia precinct 8A, discovered after the official canvass, which gave him 20 more votes.

Ficano's attorney, Alan Helmkamp, noted that paper ballots were used in Northville School District's six precincts as well as in absentee ballot precincts of other districts, and that paper ballots "are especially susceptible to human error."

Ironically, Ficano was a worker in a 1975 Livonia School District recount and discovered a 19-vote error that elected Constance Hierta and defeated Martin Seitz.

Clara Rousseau, secretary of the board of trustees and administrative assistant to the president, said a recount would cost a candidate $5 per precinct, or $610. It will be refunded if a recount changes the results.

MOORE SAID he would decide Monday how far to carry his recount effort. "I owe it to my supporters to run until the last out," he said.

Moore's near success was a surprise to everyone. Hayward had run in 1975 and 1977 and was appointed to a vacancy last September. So when he sought the remaining two years of that term, he was making his third appearance before the voters.

But whereas Hayward said he spent nothing on his new campaign — and in fact had burned his signs after his 1977 loss — Moore waged a modest, $220 effort.

"The trustees all told me you had to run once (before winning). I figured I would do a lot better job next time, based on what I learned," he said.

"I'm pretty sure I'll run next time," Moore added.

Political differences between Moore and Hayward are practically nil. Neither has a party affiliation. Both come from industry, Hayward from structural steel annd Moore from light trucks and tractors.

ON ELECTION night, Hayward had been a winner by 10 votes and Burley by 101. The official canvass, conducted by a four-person board, showed Moore picked up 15 votes in Garden City and Hayward added six.

The election night total gave Burley a 101 vote victory, but the canvass gave Ficano approximately 70 more votes in Garden City.

Top vote getter in the six-year race was incumbent Nancie Blatt, who gained a handful of votes in the canvass and was still nearly 1,000 votes ahead of the rest of the pack.

Unchanged was the 4,353 vote total of incumbent Gerald Cox, of Garden City. He finished fourth and lost his seat after one six-year term.

New culture found tough to absorb

gree as a geologist but she was not allowed to graduate. She lost her job as a teacher."

In spite of his trouble with the government, Voskov says he and his family had little trouble getting a permit to leave the country. "Maybe they wanted to get rid of me," he says.

Finally, he and wife Liudmila; and sons Stamslav and Andrew arrived in New York. The Russian discovered a people and culture totally alien to anything he had known before.

Even now, almost two years from his arrival, he has no easy answer to a question that must have been asked of him many times.

What's it really like in Russia? Voskov believes it is impossible for an American, even one who has visited Russia, to ever understand what it is like to grow up in the country.

"MAYBE FOR some people it is better — easier to have choices made for them. But there is always fear. It is impossible not to be involved with the government. The government is everything."

Voskov says things have worked out well for him since coming to the United States. He likes working for Welduction "better than my other job." The Voskovs live in Ann Arbor, where Liudmila is attending graduate school at University of Michigan.

Their children, Voskov says, have found it easier to adapt to a new culture than he has.

But thus far, he likes what he knows of the United States. "It is a more natural life here. In Russia, it is more unnatural. I like knowing another way of thinking, religion, and humanity.

"But I am glad that I kept my inside soul."

There is no going back for Voskov, but he has no regrets about leaving Russia.

Nevertheless, a part of him will always remain a composite of those Russian experiences incomprehensible to a native American. He may never fully understand the American culture.

But if trying counts for anything, Voskav is already halfway there.

Paving project cost shared

The concept of sharing the cost for two paving projects with the Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC) has been unanimously approved by the Canton board.

Supervisor Noel Culbert recommended that Canton share the cost of paying a one-mile stretch of Haggerty from Joy to Warren and a one-mile stretch of Warren from Canton Center to Lilley for a total cost to the township of $250,000.

Culbert maintains that the township could recoup the paving cost through the sale of township-owned land near Haggerty and Warren.

Canton officials purchased the industrially-zoned land about two years ago for a cost of $6,400 an acre. Culbert maintains that the land could be sold for $18,000 to $20,000 an acre if Haggerty were paved.

Road commission officials have pledged to undertake the paving projects next year if Canton agrees to share the cost, Culbert said.

The township board directed the supervisor to ask the owners of land fronting on the two stretches of road if they would be willing to participate in the cost-sharing proposal.

Cable TV bid made tional expense to subscribers, and a fourth would air only sports programs.

One channel would allow the broadcasting of township board and school board meetings. Raines said the system would have the capability of establishing a community-wide fire and burglar alarm system.

If the franchise is approved, Raines said the system would probably be put into operation within the next two years.

HISTORICALLY, cable TV was limited to rural communities which could not receive many signals without the system.

But in the last few years, cable TV has expanded into more populated areas, he said. The system has become more profitable because of the availability of movie-only channels and the increased number of stations made available through use of satellites.

Omnicon of Michigan is a joint venture of Hoarty & Raines Associates of Toledo and Black Hawk Broadcasting Company of Waterloo, Iowa.

Although the firm has not yet operated a cable television franchise, many of its employees have been involved in the establishment of cable TV systems.

It was a banner year for area boys' track and field performers. Two Observerland prep athletes captured state titles.

Paul Babits was crowned state champion in the pole vault, clearing 14-7. The Redford Union vaulter also had the best indoor effort of the season (15-1¾).

The other state champion was Mike Hammond of Livonia Bentley. He won the Class A discus title with a toss of 159-0.

This also was the year of the highly versatile athlete such as Livonia Stevenson's Dave Hall, Plymouth Salem's Rich Hanschu, Bishop Borgess' Matt Krogulecki and Garden City West's Paul Biegalski.

Several teams from the area placed high in their respective leagues.

Livonia Stevenson, coached by Tom Bills, won the Observerland Relays and Inter-Lakes League title. Livonia Churchill won the Western Six League crown and Westland John Glenn claimed the Northwest Suburban League title. Borgess placed first in the Central Division of the Catholic League while Garden City West and Plymouth Salem gained second place in the Tri-River and Suburban Eight Leagues respectively.

Area coaches met recently to select the all-Observer team. It was not an easy task.

FIRST TEAM

David Hall, Livonia Stevenson, high jump. Hall was voted Observerland Trackman of the year after scoring 248¼ points for the Spartans in his junior year. His best leap in the high jump this season was 6-6. He holds the school record with a leap of 6-7.

He was the top jumper in the Observer Relays, Elks Relays and was regional champ. Hall was also second in the discus at the regional with a toss of 160-4. He was Inter-Lakes champ in the 120-yard high hurdles (:14.8) and 330-yard low hurdles (:39.1). His best leap in the long jump was 21-3 and he was a member of Stevenson's 880-yard relay team.

"Dave did everything but drive the bus to the meets," said his coach Bills. "I can't say enough about him."

Paul Babits, Redford Union, pole vault. The RU senior won the Suburban Eight League, regional and state crowns.

He cleared 15-1¾ at the Spartan Relays indoors earlier this year. He was second in the prestigious Mansfield, Ohio Relays, clearing 15-0.

He vaulted 14-7 in the state meet and has been approached by such track schools as Michigan, Colorado State, Tennessee, Kentucky, Western Michigan and Eastern Michigan.

Babits won every meet this year except one — Mansfield.

Paul Biegalski, Garden City West, 440-yard dash. A three-year letterman and two-year co-captain, Biegalski placed 10th in this year's Class A state finals with a time of :50.2.

He was Tri-River League champion in the 100-yard dash (:10.3), 220-yard dash (:22.8) and 440-yard dash (:50.6) this season.

Five times this season, Biegalski tripled in West's dual meets. Seven times this season he was clocked between :51.2 and :51.8.

Biegalski won the regional and placed second in the 220.

Rich Hanschu, Plymouth Salem, long jump. A senior, Hanschu had the best leap (22-5½) of anybody in the long jump from this area.

He is a three-year letterman who won a Suburban Eight Leagu title in both the long jump and 120-yard high hurdles (:15.24). He won the regional in the long jump (21-5¾) and placed seventh in the state finals (21-6).

Hanschu was the only hurdler this year to defeat Ann Arbor Huron's state champ, Jeff Herndon,in competition in an early-season dual meet.

Hanschu was the top point producer for the Rocks and anchored both the 440 and 880-yard relay teams all season long.

Mike Hammond, Livonia Bentley, discus. The Bentley senior pulled a surprise at the state Class A finals by winning the discus. The powerful Hammond set a school record with a toss of 161-5 and placed first in the Suburban Eight League, Stevenson Relays and state A.A.U. meet.

Possessing a 3.96 grade point average, Hammond will continue his education at Purdue University where he'll throw the shot, discus, javelin and hammer.

Hammond's best toss in the shot this season was 51-9.

Andy Dillon, Catholic Central, mile run. Just a junior, Dillon has yet to lose a dual meet in either the mile or two mile runs.

He won the regional with a best clocking of 4:21.0. He also was regional champ in the two mile (9:34.0) and captured the Catholic League title.

In three dual meets this season, Dillon won the 880-yard run, mile and two mile races. As a sophomore he was regional champ in the mile and two mile.

At the tough Huron Relays, Dillon finished fourth overall.

Mark Makela, Catholic Central, 330-yard low hurdles. This versatile senior was regional champ with a clocking of :38.3 duplicating that feat as a junior. He was Catholic League champ in the 330-lows and was a member of Catholic Central's first-place 440-yard relay squad which posted a time of :44.2.

Also in the Catholic League finals, Makela placed third in the 100-yard dash (:10.4) and fourth in the long jump (20-3).

In the state meet, Makela was leading the field in the 330-lows preliminary heat until the last hurdle when he fell.

Issa Khoury, Livonia Churchill, shot put. In dual meets this season, this Churchill senior went undefeated in the discus and hurdles and lost just once in the shot put. He recorded a best toss of 53-3½ in the shot and consistently hit over 50-0.

Khoury captured Western Six League titles in the shot and 120-yard high hurdles. He was the Chargers' top point getter this season (115) and was voted the outstanding performer by his teammates this year.

The Charger senior was a member of two discus relay squads which captured first place.

Bob Stansberry, Livonia Churchill, two mile run. A member of the varsity track team for three years, Stansberry's best clocking was 9:55.4. He was fifth in the Western Six League meet (9:56.0) and placed eighth in the regionals.

In the lead-off leg of the four-mile relay at Observerland, Stansberry ran a 4:36.0 mile split.

He ran four, sub-10:00 races this year in the two mile. He was an all-Area performer in cross country last fall. The senior was a member of the Charger varsity cross country team for three years.

Richard Rudd, Redford Thurston, 100-yard dash. Just a sophomore, Rudd was unbeaten in dual meets competing in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. He was Northwest Suburban League champion in both the 100 and 220 and placed fifth in the 100 in the regionals.

His best time this season was :10.2 in the 100 and a :22.8 clocking in the 220.

Rudd also lettered in both football and basketball as a sophomore.

Jeff Reich, Livonia Franklin, 880-yard run. The Patriot senior posted the best time this season in the area (1:59.0) and was Northwest Suburban League champion in the 880. He anchored the winning two-mile relay team at the Observerland Relays and was a member of the mile relay team all year long.

Reich was co-captain of the Patriots' league champion cross country team last fall and was second-team all-league in basketball.

Tim O'Hare, Bishop Borgess, 120-yard high hurdles. The Borgess senior placed fourth in the state finals and was regional champ.

He was one of Borgess' most consistent performers this season along with teammate Matt Krogulecki.

Matt Krogulecki, Bishop Borgess, 100-yard dash. The Borgess senior ran numerous events for the Spartans. He posted a best time of :10.0 in the 100-yard dash and was clocked in :14.9 in the 120-yard high hurdles. In the Catholic League championships, he posted his best time of the year, :38.8 in the 330-yard lows.

He also ran on all three relay teams for Borgess during the season.

Peter Williams, Dan Hall, Mark Makela and Aaron Roberts, Catholic Central, 440-yard relay. The crew's best effort this season was :44.2.

The quartet placed first in both the Observerland Relays and Catholic League Championships. Williams, Hall and Makela are seniors. Roberts is a sophomore.

Ted Ford, Jim Recker, Rick Arnold and Chuck Bean, Livonia Stevenson, 880-yard relay. These four Spartan standouts posted a best time of 1:31.7. The same four runners also posted a time of :44.4 (second best in area) in the 440-yard relay. Ford was clocked in :10.3 in the individual 100-yard dash while Bean posted times of :23.2 in the 220-yard dash and :51.9 in the 440-yard dash.

Matt Krogulecki, Tom Yates, Don Johnson and Mark Taylor, Bishop Borgess, mile relay. These four athletes were a potent force in the Catholic League. The quartet posted a best time of 3:27.1 in the Catholic League Championships.

Pro soccer a catalyst

Organized soccer growth continues in suburbia

By KENT ANDERSON

Soccer, the most popular game in the world outside of the United States and Canada, appears to be on its way to finding acceptance by both participants and spectators in this country.

The importing of Pele started the soccer boom and the sport has flourished since.

In this area, specifically, the soccer explosion didn't get off the ground until last year when the Detroit Express burst on to the scene.

Livonia, Westland, Plymouth and Redford all experienced "soccer fever." Soccer organizers are all impressed with the Detroit entry in the North American Soccer League and the willingness of the players to make personal appearances in the area to promote the game.

"The Express has been great," says Sue Archambault, who is associated with the Livonia Family Y program. "They are a community-oriented team that realize the future of soccer is in youth."

But why are youngsters switching from more traditional sports like baseball and football to soccer?

"I think number one, physical size is no factor," says Paul Scupholm, president of the Redford Sister City Soccer Club. "In soccer, you don't have to be a certain size to play.

"There is also much more action with soccer. In baseball, there is action between the pitcher and catcher and everyone strikes out. In soccer, the kid is always involved in the game," Scupholm continued.

"I've also seen less tears in a soccer game than a baseball game. There are less injuries than other sports like football, and soccer is less expensive. All a kid needs is a shirt, shorts and shoes and he's all set."

The Redford and Livonia programs field teams in the Western Suburban Soccer League, which also sports teams from Farmington, Northville, Westland, Plymouth and Dearborn Heights.

Livonia has more than 1,800 participants while nearly 500 compete in Redford. Boys and girls between the ages of six and 19 are involved.

Finding places to play is a big problem for both groups, although Livonia has a less serious problem than Redford.

"There are not enough fields here in Redford and we sometimes play on fields that are sometimes half as big as the regulation size field," said Scupholm. "They (school administrators) won't let us use Hilbert's field, or Thurston's field and they won't let us use RU's field either."

Chuck Skene, soccer coordinator for the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department, has seen his program grow in the last four years from 100 to more than 900.

Skene attributes the growth of soccer in the area to the Express. "More people have become better aquainted with soccer since the Express started. Before that, it wasn't well known."

Westland is the new kid on the block. The Westland Youth Soccer League was formed over the winter by a group of parents in the community. The association has 160 members and participates in the Great Lakes Soccer League.

"There just wasn't an organized effort to bring soccer into Westland," says Gwen Hiek, treasurer of the club. She pointed out that the WYSL is a state-registered, non-profit organization and hopes to break even so they can expand next year.

"We're brand new and hope to grow in size that can compare with the other cities," said Hiek. "I'm sure it will grow in the fall tremendously."

Gary Prevo, president of the Garden City Soccer Club, has seen his program grow to 475 participants in a year and a half.

"The Express has been good for youth soccer," he said. "The fact that the Express has been in the Detroit area has helped youth soccer in this area.

"While a lot of communities have problems finding fields, we have been lucky to use the junior high fields. In that respect, we have gotten cooperation with the board of education," said Prevo.

"I presented the idea of soccer (as a varsity sport) to the board of education, but they had nothing to do with it. We also had a soccer workshop with the athletic directors and coaches at East and West High Schools, but they wouldn't buy it," said Prevo.

"The people of Garden City are die-hard football and baseball people."

Prevo added that coaching has become a problem area with the surge in soccer growth.

"The United States Soccer Federation has set out to educate the coaches so that they can teach the kids better," he said. "Every coach that is coaching at that level will continue to. If he is coaching the 12- to 14-year-old level, he will continue to coach at that level.

"There are more kids that coaches and the kids are learning more rapidly than the coaches can teach them," said Prevo.

Brian Raftery has been playing soccer through the Family Y the past two years. He was introduced to the game when his family went on a six-month trip to Spain a couple of years ago.

"It was the main sport. It was what we played," said Raftery, who competes in the 12-and-under division of the WSSL with the Cardinals.

Raftery enjoys softball during the summer in addition to soccer, but quickly adds, "It's not as fun (as soccer)."

Raftery also points out that with the growth of soccer and the steady popularity of more traditional sports, "It's hard for us to get a field wherever we play. Practices are the same too — no room for us to play."

Soccer has also been added to the athletic programs at many high schools in recent years, notably Livonia Stevenson, Bentley, Franklin and Churchill, Farmington, North Farmington and Harrison, Bloomfield Hills Andover, Birmingham Seaholm and Groves.

This spring, the sport was offered to girls for the first time in many of those schools.

With more high schools establishing teams for both boys and girls and the youth soccer programs showing no sign of a slowdown, soccer should continue to grow.

Many people believe the Express will get the interest going and say that soccer will continue to grow, not only here, but all over the country.

Some area soccer people predict that the United States will field a competitive world cup team within the next decade.

Canton coach Bill Faunce presents swimmer Paul Petersen with his All-American certificate. Petersen will begin training again in three weeks.(Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Canton swimmer is All-American

By BRAD EMONS

Don't worry about Paul Petersen becoming a complacent swimmer.

The Plymouth Canton senior-to-be, a state champion last March in the 100-yard breaststroke and 100-yard butterfly, received another another honor last week.

Petersen received word from the National Interscholastic Swim Coaches Association (NISCA) that he is a high school All-American swimmer based on his clocking of :59.40 last season in the 100-yard breastroke. He also is an honorable mention pick in the 100-yard butterfly.

"I think it's quite an honor," said his coach, Bill Faunce. "They take the 30 best times in the nation in each event. The time must be verified by the meet director where Paul swam his best time.

"The selection process doesn't start until June 1 because the west coast schools don't end their season until April."

Petersen is proud of his accomplishment but has set higher goals for next year, when he'll be a senior.

"I'd like to be in the top 10 next year," Petersen said. "I'd like to make the top 30 in three events but my first priority is to win the state again."

No other swimmer in Plymouth history has ever won two individual state titles. Petersen won't get the chance to compete in three events next year because the maximum allowed is just two.

PETERSEN also competes in the 200-yard individual medley.

He believes he can improve his times next season after a summer of lifting weights and swimming in country club and A.A.U meets.

"I don't believe I've peaked," said Petersen. "If you think that you won't get any better."

"I've never lifted any weights and I think the added strength will help out next year," he said.

"That's the key," said Faunce. "Paul is going to do isometric and mini-gym type workouts."

Petersen said he is going to work on upper body strength.

"Swimming takes a lot out of you," said Paul. "Strength is a big factor."

Petersen plans to rest for three weeks and then begin training daily again. He's going to travel to Europe.

"I'm just going to take some time off, get away."

He will be under the direction of Meadowbrook Country Club coach Dave Seagraves when he returns from Europe. Petersen will also swim for the Clarenceville Swim Club, competing in A.A.U meets.

His success in the pool can also be attributed to his parents, Robert and Sally.

"They've always supported me and have been at all the meets," said Petersen. "My mother set up a special diet which helped me out a lot before the state meet."

Petersen got his start in swimming as a youngster at the Livonia Family YMCA.

"My brother was swimming in a meet and I was there watching," recalls Paul. "The coach came up to me and said he was short one swimmer. He asked me if I had my trunks with me and my mother spoke up and said 'yes'.

"They threw me in the pool and I won. That's how I got started."

Swimming is Petersen's only sport. It takes up a lot of his time.

"Working out is not that enjoyable but you have to work hard to acheive your goals.

"It has to be done. I love to win at the big meets."

Hoerner most improved

Lucas, Meixner share MVP award

Senior Erin Lucas and junior Anne Meixner recently were voted co-most valuable players on the Plymouth Salem varsity girls' track squad.

Both hurdlers, Lucas and Meixner scored more points combined than the rest of the team.

Lucas, recently named to the all-Observer team in the 220-yard low hurdles, also was the recipient of the coaches award and the senior award by Salem coach Scott Kurtz.

"The coaches award symbolizes four years of hard work and 100 percent effort," said Kurtz.

Mile and two-mile runner Beth Hoerner received the most improved player award, and Carin Ford captured the outstanding field events trophy. Both Hoerner and Ford are juniors.

The outstanding sophomore award went to Rachelle Balpes. Meixner, the top point-getter this season, won the outstanding junior award.

Voted as next year's tri-captains were Meixner, Hoerner and high jumper Diane Perpich.

Salem finished 1-5 overall in dual meets and grabbed fifth place in the Suburban Eight League meet, May 28.

Stemberger inks pact, off to Utica

Plymouth Canton graduate Brian Stemberger has inked a minor league baseball contract with the Toronto Blue Jays organization.

Stemberger recently completed his college eligibility this past season at Eastern Michigan University. As a senior, he enjoyed his best campaign batting, .337 while socking nine homers.

Terms of the agreement made Wednesday night were not disclosed. Stemberger will be assigned to Utica, N.Y., where he'll play in the New York-Pennsylvania Rookie League.

"I'm not really satisfied with the contract, but it was getting late," said Stemberger from his home Thursday afternoon. "I'm going, but I have mixed feelings."

Many of the Toronto draftees, who signed immediately after the draft, have already been working out in preparation for their season openers.

Stemberger was selected in the 13th round by the expansion Blue Jays, June 6. Last year as a junior at EMU, he was taken on the 10th round by the Chicago White Sox but could not reach an agreement. Instead he opted to play in the Cape Cod League last summer.

"When you're a senior, you really can't play games with them," he said. "I got a better deal than what Chicago offered me, but I'm not totally satisfied with this contract.

"I felt if I hadn't signed now, I'd be behind when I reported. The season starts Monday (June 18)."

The 6-3, 190-pound shortstop went into negotiations with Toronto last Sunday night along with his lawyer. He was signed by Toronto scout Don Welke.

Stemberger said he'll probably start the season at shortstop.

He also may see action at third base, pitcher and catcher before the season is over.

"I have an open mind," he said. "I'll do whatever it takes. I want the quickest avenue to the big leagues."

Stemberger flew to New York Friday and reported to manager John McLaeran.

There is a power struggle going on in the bowling industry, and it is for control of the junior program across the country.

For years, the Women's International Bowling Congress and the American Bowling Congress took over the young bowler's organization — the American Junior Bowling Congress — that was started some years ago by Milt Raymer in Chicago.

Not satisfied with its operation, the Bowling Proprietors Association made a move about 15 years ago to have their own junior program and organized the Youth Bowling Association.

This was successful from the start, as the proprietors felt they had a right to organize their future customers.

Since then, the two organizations have been running rival and intermingling programs.

For instance, the Bowling Proprietors of Michigan has a junior group that now numbers more than 42,000.

The AJBC had close to the same amount. Now, there is a move on by the men's and women's organizations to combine the two groups, feeling that it is harmful to have rival programs.

Whether there is any chance of this happening may be known this week, when the national proprietors organization meets in annual convention in Honolulu.

It is the consensus of the Michigan group that the proprietors will have no part of the proposal — but there is bound to be a real struggle before the issue is decided.

BY CHARTER PLANE, a delegation of more than 300 state bowling proprietors and their families flew to Honolulu over the weekend to attend the national convention. It is the largest delegation Michigan ever has sent to the national meeting.

According to the advance information from national headquarters, Michigan, Ohio and New York will have the largest groups.

They will have one-third of the delegates at the sessions. In fact, the convention is so large that the annual banquet, one of the highlights, is being held in two different ballrooms.

DON TROTTER moved to center stage in the men's trio loop at Wonderland Lanes when he paced the field with a 646 gained on games of 213, 199 and 234. The other members of the trio were Mike Calucci with a 556 and Ed Miu with 597. This gave the trio the top count of 1799.

THE NEW bowlers at Westland are coming along well with the summer program.

For example, Carol Schafer rolled a 194 to lead the Streakers and Martha Watts was right behind with 184. High series went to Helena Warsom with a 478.

JOHN BRYMZELSON had things his own way in the men's loop at Merri-Bowl. He came up with a 267 and easily claimed high-game honors.

IN THE FAMILY DOUBLES at Woodland Lanes, Jay Grima walked off with top honors. He rolled a 261 in a 603 series.

In the Guys and Dolls loop, Verne Maracle, with a 146 average, set the pace with a 515. Chris Hoard, with a 97 average, posted a 350 and John Hoard with a 124 average hit the pins for a 428.

BUD SELLS found the range for a 634 series to take the pace making role in the mixed league at Super Bowl. High series went to Larry Syla with a 247 in 598.

On the women's side, Kristeena Wallace had a 230 in 566.

CANTON NEWCOMERS comprise almost one-half of the Wednesday Afternoon Delight Ladies league at Super Bowl and this season, just closed, captured most of the honors.

A newcomer team composed of Nancy Clauer, Karen Cook, Linda Havens and Nancy Nichols, took the league championship. The high series award went to Jerry Kilgore with 602 and Karen Cook was next with 576. Nancy Clauer rolled a 223 to take high game honors.

TAX ANTICIPATION NOTES
(GENERAL OBLIGATION - LIMITED TAX)

SEALED BIDS for the purchase of the above Tax Anticipation Notes will be received by the undersigned at the Board of Education Offices, 454 South Harvey Street, Plymouth, Michigan, 48170 until 8:00 o'clock, p.m. Eastern Daylight Time, on the 25th day of June, 1979, at which time and place the bids will be publicly opened and read.

NOTE DETAILS; INTEREST RATE; PAYING AGENT; AND DENOMINATION: The notes will be dated July 1, 1979, will mature April 1, 1980, and will bear interest at a rate not exceeding eight per cent (8%) per annum. Both principal and interest will be payable at a bank or trust company located in the State of Michigan to be designated by the original purchaser of the notes, which paying agent qualifies as such under the Statutes of the State of Michigan or of the Federal Government, subject to the approval of the School District. Denominations of the notes to be at the option of the purchaser.

PRIOR REDEMPTION: The notes shall not be subject to redemption prior to maturity.

AWARD OF NOTES: For the purpose of awarding the notes, the interest cost of each bid will be computed on a 360-day year basis by determining, at the rate specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the notes from July 1, 1979, to their maturity and deducting therefrom any premium. The notes will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest dollar interest cost to the School District. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the notes or at a price less than their par value will be considered.

SECURITY: The loan is in anticipation of the OPERATING portion of the School Tax for the fiscal year July 1, 1979 to June 30, 1980, which tax is due and payable December 1, 1979. The Board of Education has voted and pledged as security for this tax note issue to levy taxes for school operating purposes in an amount not less than $19,200,000.

The Board of Education has created a separate depository account designated 1979 TAX ANTICIPATION NOTE RETIREMENT FUND "A", and moneys to be deposited into the fund are specifically earmarked and will be used solely to pay the principal and interest on the notes when due. All (100%) of the proceeds from operating taxes levied in 1979 must be deposited as collected into the 1979 TAX ANTICIPATION NOTE RETIREMENT FUND "A" until the amount set aside is sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on the notes.

The notes will be a General Obligation of the School District, and if tax collections are insufficient to pay the loan when due, the School District has pledged to use any and all other resources available for payment of such loan. The School District does not have the power to levy taxes for the payment of the notes in excess of its constitutional and statutory tax rate limit.

ADDITIONAL BORROWING: It is anticipated that the School District will be required to borrow additional moneys after December 1, 1979 to meet current operating expenses and payroll during the remainder of the fiscal year 1979-80. Any future borrowing against the 1979 operating taxes will be secured by a lien subordinate to the lien herein created against such operating taxes.

GOOD FAITH: A certified or cashier's check in the amount of 2% of the par value of the notes, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer of the School District, must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the notes. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail. The good faith check of the successful bidder will be immediately cashed and payment for the balance of the purchase price of the notes shall be made at the closing.

LEGAL OPINION: Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of Thrun, Maatsch and Nordberg, attorneys of Lansing, Michigan, which opinion will be furnished without expense to the purchaser prior to the delivery thereof, approving the legality of the notes.

DELIVERY OF NOTES: The School District shall furnish notes ready for execution at its expense. Notes will be delivered without expense to the purchaser at a place to be designated by the purchaser. The usual closing documents including a certificate that no litigation is pending affecting the issuance of the notes, will be delivered at the time of the delivery of the notes. Accrued interest to the date of delivery of the notes shall be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

THE RIGHT IS RESERVED TO REJECT ANY OR ALL BIDS.

ENVELOPES containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for School District Notes".

Staebler warns

Weak parties — loss for all

With the political election season quickly rounding the corner, the prospect looks bleak that voters will have much choice when pulling down the lever for local candidates.

Fulltime mayors will go unchallenged, too many qualified incumbents will call it quits, and those fighting over the scraps will become fewer and less qualified.

It's difficult to figure why in this country with its open electoral system fewer qualified persons prefer to participate.

An interview with veteran Michigan politico Neil Staebler in the American Enterprise Institute's Regulation magazine sheds some valuable light on the problem.

The Ann Arbor Democrat is a former congressman and recently deposed member of the Federal Election Commission (FEC). Most importantly for our purposes he is a former chairman of the Michigan State Democratic central committee.

In short, Staebler understands party politics.

HE WARNS of the danger this country's political system faces.

"A political system without parties would be chaos," he cautions.

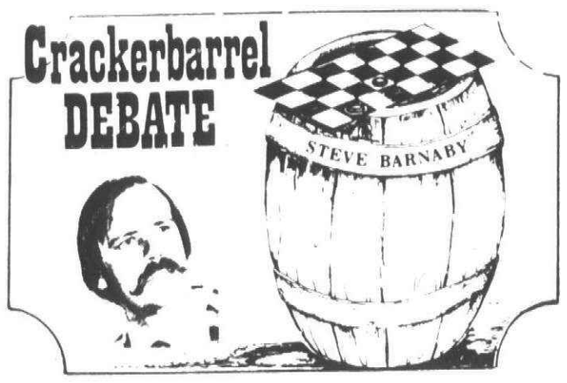
"Parties serve the purpose of bringing people together, of working out compromises on those issues the people have a tendency to get wrought up about, of educating voters to a broader appreciation of political problems."

In the wake of a weakened party system, there is very little candidate recruitment, candidate training and the development of experience, he says.

A quick glance around the suburban Detroit area shows that to be exactly what is happening. Party politics have fallen on hard times. Neither of the two major parties does much in the way of recruiting or training candidates.

What has evolved are numerous maverick candidates, one-issue oriented, who hold little if any allegiance to political parties. Parties tend to concede certain areas which predominately are oriented toward the opposition.

GARDEN CITY and Southfield are Democratic. Farmington and Birmingham are Republican.



The predominant party is so strong that neither opposition party makes much effort to groom candidates.

NEIL STAEBLER

Compounding the situation, points out Staebler, are U.S. congressmen's disaffection with political parties.

"Congressmen have not wanted to trust any organization other than their own," he says.

"I believe the congressman's mistrust for parties is one of our great political shortcomings in the recent past and one of the greatest hazards for the future."

These local political strongmen wield immense power in their districts. More often than not, what they say goes in their area of influence. In this area, U.S. representatives have far more power than U.S. senators.

To preserve a valuable and stable political system, voters must shift their thinking and turn back to political parties. Otherwise, the quality of candidates will continue to deteriorate and decisions made on a local level will be made with less expertise.

This, indeed, will cause chaos.

Getting there is no fun

If there was anything to the concept of astral projection — the idea that you can think yourself somewhere — I'd sign up quick as a wink.

Don't believe people who tell you the best part of going on vacation is seeing our great country as you're getting there and coming back. Aside from witnessing electric eye urinals in action at a Howard Johnson rest stop, I recently discovered that travel is nine parts aggravation and one part anticipation.

As a youngster, I was the brat in the backseat constantly asking "When do we get there? Are we there yet? Huh, Mom? Huh, Dad?"

This was immediately followed by "We'll get there when we get there. And your asking 'Are we there yet' isn't going to make it any sooner. Now shut up and lean back in the seat. You're dropping little pieces of potato chip down my back"

We'd drop the subject for a few minutes and devote all our energies toward hurting each other in games. Usually we'd play a cute little game called "Slug a Bug." The object of the game was to be the first person to spot a Volkswagen, thereby giving you the right to slug your sibling in the arm (unless he moved).

We nearly killed each other when my father happened to drive by a VW dealership. I pray, now that Volkswagen has stopped making The Bug, that today's young people aren't playing a game called "Stab It, a Rabbit."

A VOICE from the front seat saying "I don't want to have to pull this car over" usually ended the game of Slug a Bug. From there, we would try to drown each other out singing opposing songs. We never could agree on which song to sing, and my brother never got the words right. "She's About a Mover" by the Sir Douglas Quintet became "Got Her On the Moon Now" in my brother's twisted mind. When I'd point out the obvious error, he'd say "You sing it your way, I'll sing it mine." Try to tell that to Cole Porter, kid.

After seeing my parents reduced to anguished tears the third time we took a wrong-way, one-way road to Arlington Cemetery outside of Washington D.C., I vowed to never repeat the same mobile mistakes.

You guessed it. I found myself last week bellowing familiar phrases like "Well, you're holding the -- ------ map" and "If you don't know if it's a right turn or a left turn, say you don't know, don't say 'I think'."

Why can't they put directions you can understand in a AAA Trip-tik? Who knows north in a strange city? You end up turning the map upside down because you know the Statue of Liberty is to your right. Where are the crucial instructions like "Make a right at the street past the Burger King" — something a weary traveler can sink his teeth into.

GOD FORBID you should stray off the Magic Marker trail drawn by the AAA personnel. People in the towns you're lost in never heard of the streets you want — streets like I-75.

Find your way back on the road and you're bored counting out-of-state plates. If you're like me, soon you're reduced to reading business signs aloud. "Ken's Bar and Grill," "Rudy's Hamburgers — All You Can Eat." Not necessarily because they're clever, just to keep up the sterling conversation.

And everytime I pass a piece of land with some water on it, I ooh and aah like a kid who was raised in the Sahara Desert instead of the Great Lakes region. For all I know, the lake is polluted. But I'm gushing about how pretty it is.

And with the self-fulfilling national prophesy known as the "Oil Crisis" upon us now, I have another reason to get a stiff neck on the highway.

Will the gas station I just passed on the turnpike be the last one open the entire weekend? Will the Winnebago in front of me drain the gas allotment of every Exxon along the way? My car must have eight brands of gas in it because I "topped off" my tank so many times during the Memorial Day weekend.

Good times can be had on a vacation once you get to where you're going, but the driving will turn your stomach faster than a clamburger and a HoJo Cola.

The Stroller
A nervous wait

By W.W. EDGAR

Sitting at the breakfast table the other morning we were discussing the speedy flight of time and that it didn't seem like 49 years ago (June 16, 1930) that we were joined in the bonds of holy matrimony.

Then, glancing at the morning paper, the bride of that day suddenly said,"Imagine this. Here is a big article telling of plans to rehabilitate Metropolitan Methodist Church on the very week in which we are celebrating our anniversary. And that is the church in which it took place."

It did seem rather odd. It has been years since we had visited the fine old church on Woodward Avenue, and neither of us knew that it was so badly beaten by the passing of time. But it was a joy to learn that the once-proud edifice is about to be given a new life.

Whatever happens in the coming years, it is doubtful if any wedding ceremony will outdo ours in the matter of suspense, excitement, and strange circumstances.

IT WAS A BEASTLY hot afternoon on that June day, and everything had been set — or so we thought — until the fateful hour of three o'clock arrived.

..The first to feel the pressure was the late Harry Bullion, then the sports editor of the Detroit Free Press and The Stroller's boss who had consented to be the best man. He was a very devout Catholic, and it was the first time he ever had been in a Protestant church.

Naturally he was a bit nervous and began pacing the floor in the little room below the church proper. Upstairs Bryant Huff, a former opera singer and a close friend, began to sing "Because" and "I love you truly" to the strains of Francis McKay, another friend, who was considered one of the best organists in the area.

Then came the hour — three o'clock — but there was no call for the wedding party. Fifteen minutes later friends came down to the room wondering what was wrong. Did either of us change our mind at the last minute or did either of us fall victim to nervous sickness?

Meanwhile upstairs Bryant Huff kept singing and Francis McKay kept playing the organ. Never had they played so long in waiting for the ceremony to start.

IN THE MIDST of all the excitement we had to tell the curious that we couldn't go ahead because Rev. Merten Rice had not made his appearance.

What a quandry to be in. There we were waiting to get married and no minister. What's more, there was no word from him, and for a time it was felt that the wedding would have to be postponed.

Then, in the midst of the confusion, with my Catholic best man pacing faster than ever, the door opened and in walked Rev. Rice.

"I'm sorry folks," he said. "I was speaking out at Ypsilanti Normal (now Eastern Michigan University) and got caught in a rainstorm on the way back."

Doffing his hat and coat that were dripping wet, he asked for the license.

"We gave it to you the other evening at your home," the bride and The Stroller said almost in unison.

"Well, I forgot to bring it with me. But that doesn't matter, we can get along without it."

AND SO The Stroller and his bride were married without the license to add to the unusual circumstances of the day.

Rev. Rice has been gone these many years. So has Harry Bullion, the best man, and the bride's sister who was her bridesmaid.

Bryant Huff, the soloist, and Francis McKay, the organist, are playing and singing in the great beyond.

Even the old Metropolitan Methodist Church was on the verge of being forsaken.

But The Stroller and his bride are still carrying on — looking ahead to a golden anniversary in another year. But the memories of that afternoon 49 years ago never will die.

Input to your State Legislature

Representative Bob Law

Question of the week:

Each week a member of the state Legislature discusses an issue of importance to the western Wayne County area. This week state Rep. Thomas Brown, D-Westland, discusses the question: Should the number of school elections be limited by an amendment to existing law?

Many people believe that the law is too lax, allowing school districts the privilege of having as many special elections as the school board approves. Currently it is only necessary for the school board to give proper notice and meet the time limitations between elections.

In the Wayne-Westland district, which includes a small section of Canton Township, three elections have been held since March. Two elections were for millage proposals; the second passed. The third was the regular June school election held by all districts.

What do you think?

To give your answer, call Brown from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. June 23. He will be taking calls at 422-0750.

Prepare thy self

Polish perfected

By JOHN CZUBAJ

The author, John Czubaj, is an instructor of human relations and self-improvement classes held regularly at the Plymouth Hilton.

It happened Dec. 21, 1947, high on the Palomar Mountain in southern California.

The event was a great milestone in man's age-old quest for greater knowledge of the universe.

It was on that historical day that the curious eye of man first peered through the great "Hale Telescope" to penetrate far deeper than ever before into the fathomless depths of the universe.

THE TELESCOPE WAS so powerful it made the moon appear as though it were only 40 miles away.

The colossal telescope was the result of many long years of research, careful planning, and toilsome labor on the part of many people.

Its creation involved a host of problems and tasks of enormous dimension. But the greatest of all was the remarkable feat of engineering which produced the giant reflecting mirror.

The mirror had to be crystal clear and free of any distortion so it would reflect an accurate picture of the countless stars and planets in space. It was the most daring optical job ever undertaken.

The mirror was cast at the Corning Glassworks in New York. It was almost 200 inches in diameter, about 17 feet long, and weighed 20 tons.

When the molten mass was poured from the ladles it was so hot it had to be left in the mold to cool for a year before it could be removed without danger of serious damage.

When the huge casting of glass was lifted from the mold it was carefully packed and loaded into a special railroad car for shipment to Pasadena.

The car was so large the train had to take a round-about route to avoid low bridges and tunnels. After days of travel the gigantic disc of glass arrived at the optical shop in Pasadena and placed high above the floor on a sturdy turntable so the finishing operation could begin.

THE FINISHING CREW of 21 men were dressed in spotless white uniforms, like those worn by hospital interns.

Extreme cleaniness was imperatiye lest a tiny particle of sand or grit ruin the delicate finish.

When all was ready, the technicians threw the switch to get the grinding and polishing machine into motion. The precision stones and motors began to whir and the stupendous task was underway.

Eleven years passed before the polishing was completed, and during that time they ground and polished away more than five tons of powdered glass — about 2½ times the weight of an average-sized automobile.

At last the great mirror was perfect and the dreams of the powerful telescope had become a reality.

THE POLISH MADE the difference. And so it is in life.

Nature has given man the basic tools needed to achieve a life of purpose, a life of happiness and success.

But it is man's responsbility to develop and polish his mental tools and keep them constantly ready to serve his worthy purpose.

Nature has a way of placing man in high and better position in life as soon as he has developed a greater degree of efficiency. Man can advance to the extent he is willing to refine and polish his own mental equipment, but it is up to each of us to see the job is done for himself.

"Each is given a bag of tools,
A shapeless mass, a book of rules.
And each must make, ere life has flown
A stumbling block, or a stepping stone."

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

Jim McKeon is convinced George Hudson doesn't wear his English Sherlock Holmes hat just to keep his head warm.

"He's a real detective," said Jim.

George and Betty Hudson found a woman's wristwatch in the Mayflower parking lot. It was a little worse for wear having either been walked on or crushed by a car. There was a jeweler's marking on the case so George took it over to Beitner's Jewelry Store.

It turned out to be the watch Jim had given his wife, Shirley, as a 25th wedding anniversary present.

"From the looks of it, I don't know whether or not it can be fixed. But I know why George wears that funny hat," McKeon concluded.

PLANS FOR Wayne and Lenore Dunlap's party next Sunday evening in

by ELLIE GRAHAM

the Mayflower Meeting House are multiplying as the community pays tribute to its favorite music man.

Nat Sibbold is coming from Battle Creek to emcee the event. A former Plymouth resident, Nat starred as soloist in many a Plymouth Symphony pop concert during the 2b years Wayne conducted the orchestra. Nat moved to Battle Creek a few years ago when he bought a radio station in that city.

Tympanist Paul Miller, longtime member of the symphony, will speak. Paul started out as a music major then switched to law school.

Shortly after he received his degree, he joined the Plymouth Orchestra. He has been one of the faithful, commuting for rehearsals and concerts from Flint where he works in the prosecuting attorney's office.

Tickets for the retirement party can be purchased at Beitner Jewelry on Ann Arbor Trail. The Beitner brothers, Fred on violin and Bill on trumpet, started out with the orchestra 34 years ago. Bill still is a member.

Fred says they won't take mail order reservations after June 19 but tickets, at $12.50 per person, can be picked up at the store this week.

Social hour begins at 5:30 p.m. and dinner will be served after 6:30.

DOREEN VOLPE and five of her grammar school friends decided it was time to have a reunion. The six of them met in Windsor and traveled by train for a long weekend in Toronto.

All had gone to school together in Windsor. It turned out to be a wonderful get-together. "Just fantastic" was Doreen's reaction.

ROSLYN LENORE McCreery was one of the seniors who graduated from Plymouth Salem High School last Thursday evening. In the fall, she will enter the School of Engineering at the University of Michigan.

She is one of those very rare students who carried a 4.0 average all through school. The McCreerys moved to their home on Quaker Hill in Canton Township last summer, so Roslyn started her senior year at Plymouth Salem. Before that, she had received all her education in the Detroit Schools.

During her three years at Henry Ford High School she was in band and orchestra. She also was active in the music program and youth fellowship at Westminster Presbyterian Church of Detroit.

She was president for two years of the Bendix, Henry Ford Explorer Post 1227, during which time she received the outstanding president of the year award in 1977 and the bronze Bighorn for distinguished service to explorers.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCreery.

KATHRYN Victoria Kammeraad's birth was a family affair. Peter and Judy Kammeraad had to shop around for a hospital to have it that way.

They sent letters to several hospitals asking about the possibility of a labor room birth or what is called a hospital home birth. Judy's physician, Susan Kennedy, had agreed to the method.

Women's Hospital in Ann Arbor responded and the Kammeraads went over for an interview with the head nurse. The hospital would permit not only the father but Jenny, their 5-year-old daughter, to be present during the birth.

They went to the hospital Memorial Day afternoon. Because labor was very slow, they put beds in the room for Jenny and Peter, and they slept through the night.

The baby was born the next afternoon, May 29 at 4:24. Judy remained in a sitting position during labor, and the baby was left with her for two hours after birth.

"It was wonderful," said Judy, "Just beautiful. Jenny got to wear her hospital gown to nursery school, and because she shared the experience, there has been no feeling of jealousy over the new baby."

It's time for summer strolling at museum

A Walk in the Park with your Doll is the theme of the summer exhibition in the Plymouth Historical Society. Rita Maley and her committee — Pat O'Reilly, Gerry Jablonski, Elaine Pierce, Doris Richard — recently completed the seasonal changeover.

The park scene in the main lobby with the women and children pushing their prams was staged with manikins and dolls which belong to the museum. Wicker and wooden prams, summery dresses of another era depict a stroll through a park in the 1800s.

The white wicker pram with its lacy parasol was a gift to the museum from Robert Smith.

Dolls in showcases are on loan for the special exhibit.

THERE ARE dolls with bisqueheads and dolls with china heads.

There are cloth dolls, papier mache dolls, wooden dolls and one with a metal head. There are babies, ladies, little boys, little girls, soldiers, Indians, and doll house families of dolls.

Several additions add interest to the Street of Shops. Most prominent is the horse and buggy. Museum Director Barbara Saunders said the life-size horse was a gift from the owner of Elliott's Saddlery.

The buggy was brought up from the lower level of the museum. Old bridle, harness and lines owned by the museum were a perfect fit for the horse.

SOMETHING has been added to the General Store. The acquisition of a male manikin added a storekeeper to the shop at the end of the street.

He was dressed in clothing of the times — striped shirt, leather suspenders and even a celluloid collar.

The addition of two headless female forms to the dress shop makes it possible to display to better advantage, the fine collection women's clothing assembled by the museum. Tucked, flounced and be-ribboned lightweight gowns for the warm weather months now are on display.

The museum on the corner of Main and Church streets is open from 1-4 p.m. Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays. Admission is $1 for adults, 75 cents 12-17-year-olds and 25 cents for children 5-11.

Group tours can be arranged by calling 455-8940.

Miss Pearl received this small doll as a gift many years ago.

The bisque baby doll is a George Averill, made in 1920.

Her attendants wore pistachio green gowns. REACT team to transport eyes

Plymouth Area REACT Team has been selected to transport human eyes from the Wayne County line to the adjoining county line for pickup by another REACT car.

The Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Team will deliver eyes directly to hospitals within Wayne County boundaries. This duty is being taken over from the Michigan State Police, which no longer can perform the function. The whole project is in cooperation with the Michigan Eye Bank.

Paul Cook, field operations director, says it will be necessry to forward the names of at least three REACT members who will be able to receive and dispatch the donated eyes on a 24-hour-a-day basis.

PLYMOUTH AREA REACT Team is a non-profit organization which is a member of REACT International. The central base station is in the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

CBers who are members of the team perform a host of community services.

They maintain a weather watch during all tornado warnings and watches. They monitor the emergency CB Channel 19 every weekend and holiday. They provide monitoring and communication patrol assistance for local walkathons, missing persons and community functions.

The club also has its social side. There are dances, picnics, and training classes.

During the Memorial Day weekend, the team set up a coffee break station on I-275 for motorists and truck drivers. This service is repeated on all summer holiday weekends.

THE TEAM welcomes new members.

To qualify for membership, a person must be 16 or older, have a valid drivers license, have a good driving record, have a vehicle for mobile patrol functions, have a good police record, and should be available for patrol from 8 p.m. to midnight.

The team offers its members an opportunity to help their community and law enforcement agencies. It provides liability insurance while on a REACT function.

Training is provided and there are chances of advancement in the team. Junior memberships for members of the family between the ages of 14 and 16 are available. Members may join the Side Band Club and are eligible for discounts on radio related equipment.

Dues are $8 a year.

Librarians meet state lawmakers

Marian West, library media specialist at Plymouth Salem High School, participated in the first legislative day in Lansing jointly sponsored by the Michigan Library Association and the Michigan Association for Media in Education.

"Librarians, library trustees, interested friends and education media specialists took on an unusual role when they met with legislators May 16 to talk about local library and education media needs," said Mrs. West. Approximately 300 persons attended the conference.

Among the lawmakers who met with the group were Sen. Robert Geake of Northville, State Rep. Roy Smith of Ann Arbor, Sen. William Sederberg of East Lansing, assistant Republican whip, and Sen. William Faust of Westland, Senate majority leader.

"THEY LISTENED carefully to our concerns about library and school media needs and what we believe the state can do to help," said Mrs. West.

"But they also emphasized that needed state support to not only public and school libraries, but to cities and other state government units is likely to be restricted as a result of the Headlee amendment.

"This is particularly unfortunate because the amount of money that is allocated for public and school libraries year after year has never been what is needed to enable them to provide adequate, up-to-date services."

In addition to their meetings with the legislators, the group attended a morning-long session on "practical politics" conducted by Joseph Pattok, manager of legislative analysis and consumer affairs for the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

The Movies

LOUISE SNIDER

Audience loses with poor acting in hokey 'Players'

"Players" (PG) is about love and tennis, which, in this instance, don't go together.

The movie attempts to leap the net of sports-oriented films (we've had bowling, boxing, football, hockey, basketball) and land in the box office, but it only manages to fall flat on its face — racquet face that is.

Dean-Paul Martin as Chris, the young tennis upstart, and Ali MacGraw as Nicole, the older woman in his life, are a forgettable twosome firing passing shots at each other.

When Chris isn't sparring with Nicole, he's hitting against an international lineup of tennis stars who play themselves. They include Ilie Nastase, Denis Ralston, Vijay Amritraj and others.

THE MOST interesting parts of the film are those which record the singular niceties of custom at Wimbledon. Wimbledon is the touchstone for "Players" which opens with unseeded slugger Chris in the finals against top-seeded Guillermo Vilas.

In a series of flashbacks, Chris recalls events from his life (No need to concentrate when one has such vivid memories to rummage through.) With the help of his best friend Rusty (Steven Guttenberg), who mysteriously disappears in the middle of this film and reappears later, Chris has been a tennis hustler, ala Bobby Riggs, since puberty, which may still be going on.

While swinging through South America, he meets Nicole when he witnesses her sporty red Jensen crash into a fruit truck. Gutsy guy tht he is, he saves her from becoming a lemon squash and the seeds of love are planted.

She is very mysterioso. She lives alone in a palatial villa with a drawerful of money and a well-worn passport. Chris gets suspicious, especially when Nicole leaves every time she gets a long distance call and starts speaking French.

Nevertheless, his natural good nature and zest for sponging keep him hanging around, strumming his guitar and singing off key. Perhaps that's what has driven her away. As he begins to figure things out, he gets quite miffed when Nicole's lover (Maximilian Schell) calls and she quickly heels.

NICOLE, FOR HER PART, is annoyed when she returns from her liaison to discover that Chris has stolen her money. Well, the course of true love never does run smooth, even for a tennis hustler and a jet-age mistress.

Meanwhile, back at Center Court, the tense match continues. Chris keeps looking at an empty seat, presumably reserved for Nicole. Will Nicole show up? Will Chris win the championship? Will they reconcile? After all, he only stole the money so he could get tennis lessons from Pancho Gonzales. She only heeded her millionaire boyfriend's call because she was afraid of reaching 40 without a proper nest egg.

These are the dramatic issues tempering Chris's play. How will it all end? Who cares?

Together again

George Segal and Glenda Jackson are reunited in Melvin Frank's "Lost and Found," a romantic comedy about a recently widowed American college professor and his too-hasty marriage to a newly divorced English secretary. Segal and Jackson were co-starred in Frank's 1973 boxoffice hit "A Touch of Class." The Columbia film "Lost and Found" (rated PG) opens Friday, June 22, at metropolitan Detroit theaters.

Glimpses

ALIEN (R). Hair-raising, science-fiction horror film about alien life form that terrorizes the crew of a space ship.

BATTLESTAR GALACTICA (PG). Essentially, a recut version of pilot film for TV series but with big sound added.

BOULEVARD NIGHTS (R). Authentic-looking drama about life in the barrio. Set in East Los Angeles.

BUTCH AND SUNDANCE: THE EARLY DAYS (PG). "Prequel" to the successful hit. Tom Berger and William Katt are paired off as the rascally robbers in their salad days.

DAWN OF THE DEAD (Unrated). George Romero's zombies are the ultimate consumers in this gory, satirical sequel to his cult classic "Night of the Living Dead."

Recital Tuesday at EMU

Veronica August, a music instructor at Eastern Michigan University, will present a recital Tuesday, June 19, at 8 p.m. in Pease Auditorium on the EMU campus.

A mezzo-soprano, August will be accompanied by pianist Sharon Letbetter, in a variety of works.

The program will begin with Parto Innerme, e non pavento by Mozart from the oratorio "Betulia Liberata."

Selections from Gustav Mahler's "Des Knaben Wunderhorn" will be presented next, followed by "Clair de Lune" and "Mai" by Gabriel Faure. The first part of the program will conclude with Air de Lia from "L'Enfant Prodigue" by Claude Debussy.

Why Hong Kong is a 'shopper's paradise'

By GLORIA HOPFNER
Special writer

(Gloria Hopfner of Plymouth recently traveled to Hong Kong and to the Republic of China and relates her experiences and observations in this special series for readers of the Observer)

Hong Kong is truly a "shoppers' paradise" with bargains everywhere at irresistable prices.

It's tremendous fun to go directly to the factories or warehouses to poke around, as I did, in the bins and shelves for china or clothing bargains. Any red-blooded American woman would revel in such a delightful opportunity.

Chinese merchants consider it good luck if the day's first shopper makes a purchase, and will offer the most tempting discounts to induce that first customer to buy something.

Bargaining is the accepted practice in much of Hong Kong, nearly always in small shops or stalls, and especially in what used to be called Thieves Market — an open air market which operates evenings in the Macau Ferry parking lot.

After the cars have left for the day, merchandise is hawked from improvised counters and tables or spread on the pavement. Everything imaginable is sold there including leather goods, jewelry, paintings, ballpoint pens, cigaret lighters, toys, fabrics, shoes, hats, clothing, combs. paper fans, tobacco, Chinese embroidery, paper products, fruit, pastry, cold drinks, and watches, all in a carnival atmosphere.

Foods of all types are prepared on the spot, many were exotic varieties. I saw sport shirts with the official ADIDAS stamp emblazoned across the chest and a "made in Hong Kong" label sewn inside the neckline.

BEST TRANSPORTATION bargain in town is the Star Ferry, which crosses Victoria Bay from Hong Kong to Kowloon on a continuing schedule all day, always with a full load of passengers who pay 30 cents fare for a 10-minute ride.

Shopping is a big lure in Kowloon. During one excursion there I met Tam Lin Wong, Hong Kong's "Grasshopper Man" who has set up "shop" on the sidewalk under a tree on the main street there. He fashions delicate and realistic-looking grasshoppers from long green leaves, much like palm leaves. Cutting with scissors and knife, he folds, pleats, and pieces together his creations which he pins to a large black umbrella for display. Tam Lin Wong and his art have been featured in National Geographic Magazine, a copy of which he proudly showed to me. He has little to fear from competition, as it takes a 12-year apprenticeship to master the art.

DURING MY STAY in Hong Kong, I was privileged to take classes at the YWCA, one of which was Chinese picture writing.

I learned that the Chinese language has no alphabet of its own. Every traditional picture character represents a word, but the early Chinese were terrible artists, and one could never begin to guess the meaning of a character without being told. To Western eyes, the characters do not even begin to resemble or suggest the things they are supposed to represent.

Chinese students must study for years to master the thousands of characters. Strangely, the same picture writing is used in both China and Japan. Because they have no alphabet, we are forced to write out their words Phonetically, which accounts for the discrepancy in the spelling of their words that one sees in English.

I have noticed lychee (as in lychee nut) spelled lichee, leechy, and leitchy, as well as litchi. The phonetic equivalent in Mandarin is Li chih. All these spellings apply to a very popular edible fruit, which looks somewhat like a large strawberry, but carries a tough, dimpled skin that must be peeled away before the fruit is eaten. Inside there also is a single, large, smooth brown pit, but the fruit is very tasty, eaten either fresh or dried.

One of Hong Kong's most popular tourist attractions is Victoria Peak, which rises 1,305 feet above sea level. Signs posted where passengers wait to board the funicular (cable) railroad train, which goes straight up the mountain, proclaim: "In the interest of safety, passengers are advised that the company's funicular service may be suspended without notice during the approach and duration of typhoons."

We boarded and rode to the top before any money changed hands, causing me to wonder how that could be, but fares were duly collected before we disembarked. The motorman then moved to the rear of the car to pilot the conveyance downhill without even having to turn it around. From the vantage point of the peak, one has all of Hong Kong in view, a truly breathtaking panorama at any hour of the day or night.

ANOTHER POPULAR draw with both residents and tourists alike is Tiger Balm Garden, built as a gift to the people of Hong Kong by a Chinese philanthropist, who made his fortune through the production and sale of a remedy called Tiger Balm.

Admission is free at this "Oriental Disneyland," as it has been called, not because it offers amusement rides but for the colorful and bizarre statuary, depicting figures from Chinese mythology which are displayed in numerous grottoes and pavilions throughout the grounds.

It was at the entrance to Tiger Balm Garden that I encountered my first hawker — an elderly Chinese woman, who carried a large store of products for sale on a tray suspended from around her neck. Noticing the camera slung over my shoulder, she insisted that I buy some Kodak color film that I really didn't need.

I wandered into a huge pagoda that appeared to be empty, when suddenly I realized that I was not alone. Stretched out on the floor atop a grass mat and dead to the world was a barefooted Oriental man with shave head. It gave me a creepy feeling to have intruded on him so, and I pussyfooted away as quickly and quietly as possible. I subsequently saw and photographed a number of Chinese sleeping inthe same fashion in public places on stone floors, many times without even a mat, but always with their shoes removed.

Shopping in Land Crawford, a modern and very fashionable department store brought another interesting experience. Entering the ladies room after a morning's browsing, I was confronted by a female Chinese attendant, who smiled and reached for my purse and shopping bag...tugging very determinedly.

Uncertain of her purpose, I relinquished both and watched to see what she would do, as she turned and set the heavy things down on a nearby chair. "Why do you take them?" I inquired. Mumbling something unintelligible in Chinese, she tried to wave me on. "Nothing doing," thought I, as I reached past her to retrieve them, adding as I did so, "I need them." Later I learned that she was probably trying to be very helpful in her eagerness to earn a generous tip.

EXPERIENCES THERE were continually surprising.

I even watched in amazement as a cabdriver tried to refuse a proferred tip from a passenger with a, "No, no no!" To which, the would-be tipper responded, "Yes, yes, yes!", whereupon the gratuity was graciously accepted.

Another interesting cultural oddity is the Chinese custom of "walking the bird." The feathered pet is actually taken out for an airing and a change of scene, oftentimes riding within a small bamboo cage, but I saw a teenaged youth walking his macaw, the bird perched on his thumb without any visible restraints. The walkers were usually men, many of them, elderly.

I can tell you that fast food operations have found their way into Hong Kong with mixed results. McDonald's has three locations, all of them doing a booming business. Kentucky Fried Chicken did not fare so well, the sole outlet folded for lack of patronage.

3 firms sign up for bands

The July 4th fundraising campaign of the Plymouth Jaycees has been given a boost by three local business firms.

John Smith, Me and Mr. Jones, and Jerry's Bicycles have made contributions to sponsor two bands in the July Fourth Parade.

Mike Beauchamp, parade chairman, said that this is the first year businesses are sponsoring the individual bands.

By selling sponsorships, the Jaycees hope to maintain the high quality bands and give more recognition to individual contributors as well as raise funds.

The Jaycees have a goal of raising $2,000 to support the parade activities, and the bands are the most expensive entries in the parade.

This year the Jaycees are encouraging local businesses to sponsor the bands. A band may be sponsored by one or more business, Beauchamp added.

Other parade entries will include floats, local groups, western style horse exhibits, and marching units.

Interested groups may obtain entry forms from the Plymouth Township Hall, First National Bank of Plymouth, Plymouth Federal Community Credit Union, and the Mayflower Hotel.

The parade will start at 1 p.m., following the dedication of the Plymouth Rock as a historic site.

An unusually large crowd is expected this year, said Beauchamp, because the Fourth of July falls on a Wednesday.

Any size donation will be appreciated by the Jaycees, he added. Businesses and individuals wishing to become involved may send their contributions to Plymouth Jaycees, Post Office Box 279, Plymouth 48170. Anyone with questions about the parade may call Beauchamp at 459-9064.

A new way to earn more money for your money.

How to earn bonus interest with a Michigan Money Market Certificate.

You deposit $10,000 in a 182-day Michigan Money Market Certificate.

Now, no other bank or savings and loan pays more on Michigan Money Market Certificates than the Michigan National Banks. A minimum deposit of $10,000 is required and the rate at which the certificate is purchased is fixed until maturity.

THIS WEEK'S RATE: Effective June 14 thru June 20, 1979

9.047% Annual interest rate.
9.384% Effective annual yield.*

* The effective annual yield is subject to change at renewal and assumes that the interest rate remains unchanged and that both the interest and principal are reinvested.
Federal regulation prohibits the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of interest is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate. New federal regulation also prohibits the compounding of interest on these certificates.

We transfer the monthly interest into a regular passbook savings account.

While the continuous compounding of interest is not allowed on Michigan Money Market Certificates, it is allowed on regular passbook savings. And since the interest you earn on a Michigan Money Market Certificate can be paid monthly, we can automatically deposit the interest you've earned each month into a regular passbook savings account.

3. The result: Bonus interest on your interest.

Your interest continues to earn bonus interest in your regular passbook savings account at the rate of 5.0% annually - continuously compounded to provide an effective annual yield of 5.20%.

Then, when your Michigan Money Market Certificate matures, you can take all of the interest you've earned plus your principal, reinvest in a new certificate at the prevailing rate, and start earning more money for your money all over again.

Overcoming old images

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

"Tourists from outside Detroit have discovered us, but the people in the suburbs haven't discovered us yet."

That's Leon Atchison, director of the Detroit Recreation Department, who thinks that "a whole generation of suburbanites have culturally deprived children who have never seen the art museum, Hart Plaza or any of the things going on at Belle Isle."

A major renovation of the island has taken place since many suburbanites stopped going to Belle Isle five years ago, but Atchison thinks that most of us haven't heard about it yet.

"We had a two-pronged problem, made up of bad maintenance and a bad image," Atchison said. "Whenever anything had to be cut from the city budget, they cut parks. Five years ago, this island was a mess.

"The streets and sidewalks were cracked, cars were parked everywhere, the grass and gardens were a mess and the facilities were not maintained.

"We've spent $10 million on new sidewalks and roads, high intensity lights and new facilities, and we'll spend another $5 million before we're finished."

Park manager William Darnell echoes those thoughts.

When asked about the gangs that once plagued the park, he said, "We stopped allowing rock concerts on the grass, and the police ran off the motorcycle gangs, so that about solved the problem."

BELLE ISLE didn't have good beginnings a century ago. Like most of southern Michigan, it was a swamp. People called it Hog Island, because they ran hogs on the land to keep down the snakes.

Both ends of the island were developed in controversy. Scott Fountain, at the east end of the island, was given to the city 15 years before Detroit got around to accepting it. It now faces downtown with a first-class view of the city skyline.

Th opposite tip of the island, where the Livingstone Lighthouse has an unobstructed view upriver, has been the subject of a family squabble between park administrators, who want to open the area to foot traffic, and Friends of Belle Isle, who want to keep it wild.

Footpaths and permanent artists' easels will be constructed here. A nearby 260-acre wooded area will remain as a wild homeland for 88 resident deer.

The land between the two island tips has been alive with renovation and construction crews for several years, as the island staff gets ready for the 100th birthday.

The Nancy Brown Peace Tower has a new electronic synthesizer that can reproduce exactly the musical sound of a cast bronze bell. A $750,000 spread of formal gardens is being planted next to the Dossin Museum area. The old maintenance center is being converted into a craft center.

Wooden walkways and play equipment are crawling with kids at the new Playscape. They are extending and building high walkways above the Belle Isle Zoo, which probably won't re-open now until fall.

The Nature Center is in full swing near Lake Muskoday, where they are planning to install fish ladders.

It's a brand new island, but one thing hasn't changed. The kids still race around the aquarium and the conservatory while teachers yell "Keep quiet" and "You get back here before I . . .." The punishment is always unspecified.

The city makes one proud

DETROIT — I feel this great rush of pride as we curve past Cobo Hall in sight of the river.

"Look, everybody, there it is. That's the Rennaisance Center."

I've been doing this all week as I accompany fellow travel writers and editors from the Society of American Travel Writers on a tour of metro Detroit.

At Greenfield Village, it was "wait until you see the Thomas Edison laboratory."

At Cranbrook: "The gardens here are terrific."

At all the local tourist sites, I've been the biggest tourist of them all. . . at Meadowbrook Hall, on the people-mover at Fairlane Town Center, and here I am ready to pop my buttons as we start our tour of the city of Detroit.

The occasion is the summer meeting of the Central States and Canadian chapters of the society, a North American Association of travel writers, editors and related travel industry personnel.

We gather several times a year to do business and to explore our meeting place as a travel destination.

I have been with them in Chicago and Texas, in Cairo and Bombay, but what am I doing here spending a week touring a city where I walk around every day?

There are six active members from Michigan and five of us are here: Len Barnes and Marcia Danner from Michigan Living Magazine, Nancy Kennddy of Ford Times, freelancer Hal Butler and myself.

BEHIND ME, a member from Arkansas is saying, "I thought northerners were cold, but this is the friendliest place . . .." He had just been served a Michigan Sunrise (that's orange juice brandy, and champagne) by Dutch de Vogel, manager of the Dearborn Inn.

Nearby, a Texas woman says, "I didn't bring my bathing suit, because I thought it would be freezing up here, and I'm dying of the heat."

At the front of the bus is Alexander Luvall, executive assistant to the mayor. He is one of the men who has been showing us Detroit; I have come to call them the renaissance men.

The renaissance men all have something in common. They are articulate and sophisticated men who get an urgent note of pride in their voices when they talk about "my city." These are the men, and of course the women, who have worked hard to rebuild a dying city and they are proud of it.

Luvall grew up in Detroit, but he was in law school in Chicago when Mayor Coleman Young was elected to office.

"I just came on home. I knew that if I did something for Detroit it would be for me. For my city."

We take the long ride up the elevators at the Plaza Hotel, and now I look down at the ethnic festival going on in the Hart Plaza below. I watch the crowds scatter in the light rain, and hear another voice say, "I look at all the people downtown on a Sunday. I wish we could do that where I live."

And there I go, popping my buttons all over again.

Plenty to-do

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

"This was always a great museum, but the last time I was here this part looked like an attic."

The voice was that of a Wisconsin travel editor and "this part" to which he referred was the Henry Ford Museum's Hall of Technology, recently rededicated after a two-year overhaul.

Cars and other technological displays, once scattered willy-nilly around the hall, are now grouped under high color-coded canopies that can be seen from the new Interpretive Center.

Don Adams, press relations director, said the center was created, because there is so much to see and most visitors have too little time in which to see it.

"We realized that many visitors try to see Greenfield Village and the Museum in one day, which is a back-breaker," Adams said.

To cope with this, the staff created a central area in which visitors can spend an hour walking through typical exhibits and getting an overall feeling of what the museum is about.

They then can spend additional time at exhibit areas that are of special interest to them. These are quickly identified by spotting the color-coded canopies that say Home Arts or Lighting.

Within each area, visitors now find an introduction to what they will see in that area.

Cars are now grouped either by time periods or by special use, such as Cars of Famous Persons or Cars of State.

Just because you're insured five ways doesn't mean you need five agents.

One good thing about Nationwide is everything we offer. A Nationwide agent can insure your life, health, home and car. Even your business.

Another good thing is this: a Nationwide agent can put all this insurance together for you in one complete, easy-to-understand plan. Simple.

Another good thing? Our One Check Plan. You can pay for everything with one monthly check. So you don't need five different checks for five different coverages.

Full line insurance from one company through one agent in one plan for one monthly payment. That's good. And that's one more way Nationwide is on your side.

Three of the cars being polished for the car show and swap meet are a 1946 Ford convertible (left), a 1934 Ford pick-up and a 1934 Ford 5 Window Coup. About 300 cars are expected at the Ford and Mercury Restorers Club show.

Car show, swap meet July 7 at Ford Field

Dearborn will again be the location of a big three-day swap meet and all-Ford car show sponsored by the Ford and Mercury Restorers Club.

This year, the show and swap meet will be held in conjunction with the V-8 Club of America's Eastern National Meet. This seventh annual swap meet will be held at Ford Field, on Friday, July 6, through Sunday, July 8.

Last years' attendence of 350 vendors has already been surpased, with 400 vendors expected this year. This year's vendors wil come from 20 states and Canada.

AN ANCITIPATED public attendance of 15,000 should find vendors offering both auto and non-automotive related items for sale.

The all-Ford car show will take place July 8 on the grass of Ford Field. All Fords, from antique Ts to Mustangs, may enter this judged show. Trophies will be awarded for each class.

Car show participants will receive a three-day family swap meet pass and a commemorative mug for their advance registration fee. Registrations of the day of the show will cost $2 more than advance registrations.

Continuing last year's format, the club will operate the concessions providing fresh hot dogs, pop corn, pop, pastries. coffee, milk and ice.

THE AREA surrounding the field offers something for the whole family. Picnic and recreation facilities are next to the swap meet area, and downtown Dearborn shopping areas are within walking distance.

Ford Field is one mile west of Southfield on Monroe — two blocks north of Michigan Avenue. There is a small admision charge for each adult.

For flea market information, contact Bob Buetschow, 21604 Bennett, Detroit 48219. His phone number is 531-1382.

For car show information, contact Rich Jones, 1115 Dewey, Plymouth 48170. Dewey's telephone number is 459-4236.
