Closed for repairs

Joy Road between Sheldon and Lilley was closed off for a time last week while sewers were installed. It's just one of the roads that Canton motorists may have to find detours around this summer as road repair progresses. Another road closing has taken place on Sheldon. The road is scheduled to be closed to through traffic until July 13 on a 24-hour basis while repairs are completed.

Sign ordinance decision nears

A sign ordinance far stricter than originally submitted to the Canton Township Board of Trustees has been sent back to the planning commission for recommendation pending an official resolution.

In a special meeting last Tuesday night, the board, with Trustees Eugene Daley and Robert Greenstein dissenting, resolved to send the proposed ordinance to the planning commission with the stipulation that it be returned no later than July 10.

The process of referring the ordinance back to the planning commission is a legal requirement before the board can vote on the law.

The question of whether the township board had followed that procedure when adopting the sign ordinance now in effect sparked a lawsuit filed several months ago from the Canton Vac and Sew Company.

That lawsuit charges that the tickets received by owner Gary Roberts for alleged violations of the ordinance are invalid because the law was not properly adopted. The suit still is awaiting a judge's ruling.

THE PROPOSED ordinance going back to the planning commission is considerably different from the one the township board received for review several months ago from the planning commission.

After going through the proposed law line by line and witnessing a demonstration of various sign sizes, the board chopped the allowed size of freestanding signs in business districts from the original 50 square feet to 18 square feet, with an additional allowance up to 25 square feet if the sign is of natural material.

The current ordinance allows no free standing signs other than the ones already in existance when the law was passed in 1976.

Trustees had first cut the size from 50 feet to 32 feet for signs of natural material. After witnessing a demonstration of sign sizes conducted by a local businessman, the trustees further slashed the sizes.

Other zoning district signs have been reduced from what was allowed in the proposed ordinance to sizes the board said were equitable with the business district.

Area business persons have been vocally opposed to the reduction in sign sizes, saying the signs would not be large enough to be effective.

Court revenues yield unexpected bounty

The Canton branch of the 35th District Court will make a profit in 1979, according to administration officials.

Canton Deputy Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz said Monday that the $60,000 cost of the court branch just opened in the basement of the township administration building should be paid off by the end of the year.

"It cost about $175,000 a year to run the court, and at a minimum we hope to bring in $220,000 at the court; and that $220,000 figure is a conservative one," said Mrs. Falkiewicz. Given the minimum figures, the court will make about $45,000 for the year, although Mrs. Falkiewicz and others at the Canton administration offices stressed that the revenue should go higher than the $220,000 mark.

A check of court receipts for the month of May shows the Canton branch of the 35th district Court bringing in a total of $29,881. This amount — less $3,160 after various state and county fees were paid — accounted for almost half of the entire revenue generated by the five-court district. The four other branches include Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville and Northville Township.

The record included $200 for bond forfeitures, $12,751 for ordinance fines and costs, and $13,770 for court costs — a total of $26,721. Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert said that the majority of the revenue comes from drunk driving cases and ordinance violations.

"It would be hard for me to give you an itemized account of all of our income at this time because we do not have the computers that we need for that. But our police officers now are more experienced and can spot the drunk driver easier and faster than in the past," said Culbert.

He added that a noticeable amount of the Canton court revenue has stemmed from the arrests of people at the I-275 rest area between Michigan Avenue and Ford Road for homosexual activity and various morals charges. "You would think that after the police cracked down on that type of action at that rest stop it would have tapered off, but it hasn't," Culbert said.

The court facility needs between $13,000 and $14,000 revenue per year to break even. Culbert said he and the people at the administration were happy with the May receipt figures and he hopes that the court income can stay at about that level.

"At this time we are putting the excess money into our general fund, but there is a move underway to direct that extra money back to the police — after all, they are the ones who bring the money in," said Culbert. Mrs. Falkiewicz echoed Culbert's feelings about returning the extra money back to the police.

"There is a lot of discussion on this matter, but it is my opinion that the money should be sent back to the police. There are many legal points to be gone over on this subject," said the deputy treasurer.

Mrs. Falkiewicz added that she is also in favor of starting a future-court fund.

"In five to seven years it is estimated that the present court will be out dated and that we will need more space. I think that some of that excess revenue should be funneled into a court fund so that in five years we will have the needed capital to bring the court up to the necessary standard," said Mrs. Falkiewciz.

The Canton branch of the court has been in operation since January and at the basement location since April. Mrs. Falkiewciz said that it was a good thing that the court was not constructed at the fire station.

She said that parking, office and jury space was at a minimum and that Canton would have had to purchase some land to house the court comfortably at the fire station.

New court celebrates

Grand opening ceremonies for Canton's 35th District Court branch are scheduled for 10 a.m. to 12 noon this Saturday in the lower level of the administration building.

According to Canton Deputy Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz, all are invited to attend the ceremony, which will feature Judge Dunbar Davis and Judge James Garber, the 35th district's two judges.

There will be refreshments served.

The court branch, in the basement of the township hall, opened in April. It marks the first time Canton has had its own court branch.

School bond issue study sparks debate

The Plymouth-Canton School Board plans to ask voters next year to approve the sale of bonds in order to finance a new school bus facility.

A tentative date of Feb. 28, 1980 has been proposed as the election day.

But first school officials have to determine whether a construction management firm recently contracted to do a bus yard feasibility study is doing work that could be performed by school district employees.

A contract was awarded May 25 by the board to Orchard, Papke, Hiltz and McCliment, Inc. to do the study. At a study session Monday, however, Board treasurer Stephen Harper questioned district bond committee member Ray Hoedel about apparent overlapping of duties between the construction management company and district employees.

Because of Harper's objections, the board agreed to call a July 10 special meeting to question both the construction management firm and an architectural firm on the bus yard relocation.

There was no argument about the need for a new bus yard. Presently located on Lilley, other site choices for the facility include Centennial Educational Park and a lot behind Mathison Hardware and Supply on Canton Center Road. Both suggested sites are in Canton Township.

Although some school officials questioned whether there was a need for any study at all, Hoedel said that the study is required for the district to qualify for the sale of a yet-to-be specified amount of bonds.

Hoedel said that the practical reason to have a construction management firm "on line" is to allow the board and other concerned administrators to have the cost of any bus yard building at hand.

Board Secretary Flossie Tonda said a survey should be conducted that would give the board an indication of the public's view of the proposed bond sale.

Members of the bond committee responded that a survey would not tell the board anything it did not already know, and that it was obvious that a new bus facility was needed.

"It (the survey) will not show us any thing new," said Hoedel. Nevertheless, the board informally agreed to initiate such a survey in September.

In other action, the board was able to agree to the calendar submitted by the bond advisory committee. The calendar includes proposed dates for public forums, workshops, construction feasibility reports, election meetings and citizen and board bond proposal committee sessions.

Y day camp features weekly theme

By the end of the week, the circus will be in town. With roaring lions, colorful booths and an impromptu canopy tent, the event will be a small-fry's try at life under the big top.

In the tradition of Barnum and Bailey, the event will be created and hosted by a group of children, aged 5 to 11, involved in the YMCA's day-camp at Starkweather Grade School in Plymouth.

It's just one of the activities for the summer under the direction of Tomas Chavez, summer day-camp director.

The day-camp is offered in one-week sessions, although children are allowed to sign up for more than a week at a time. Each week their activities will focus on a different theme, from circus life to Olympic training to patriotism.

According to Chavez, the day-camp is a good opportunity for children to meet others who do not live within their own school districts.

Morning activities usually involve project work in that week's theme. Then there's a lunch and rest break followed by field trips, swimming and games in the afternoon.

Chavez, a graduate of the University of Michigan with degrees in biology and botany, brings a host of talents to his first summer at the local YMCA.

ACCORDING TO DIRECTOR Janet Luce, Chavez, 26, is a prize catch for this summer's recreational needs at the center. His own background includes skills in folk dancing, macrame, crochet, basket weaving, camping and hiking (to name a few).

He has also worked with various age groups, including senior citizens at convalescent homes. Most recently, he taught dance to seniors in Chelsea, Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. His folk dances include Isreali, Turkish, Scandanavian, Greek and American steps. He was coordinator of a folk dance club at the University or Ann Arbor and belongs to a Yugoslavian troupe in Detroit.

Chavez hopes that adult interest in folk dancing classes develops for the fall after summer day-camp students introduce their parents to such styles.

Chavez says that teaching children is not unlike his work with senior citizens, because both groups share enthusiasm and curiosity in learning new things.

However, when it comes to dance, certain steps must be modified. He finds that seniors have difficulties executing certain steps because of health reasons. And children also have difficulties because their coordination is just developing.

Although Chavez has degrees in biology and botany, his goals include work in recreation. He says he plans to share his interest in these areas with children and senior citizens.

HE EXPLAINS the interest in recreation "just sort of evolved." He found he preferred working with people rather than researching the "molecular structure of livers" after coordinating a workshop in folk dancing for seniors.

Now in Plymouth, Chavez says he's learning just as much from the children as they are learning from him. He adds he wants to relate to them "as a peer rather than a teacher."

"I'm here to help them explore what they want to learn," he says.

At the same time, field trips will include visits to botanical gardens, the Ann Arbor Planetariam, and meat packing companies. "We plan to get to know Plymouth a little better," he says.

This week, there are eight children involved in the day-camp. However, that number is expected to increase in following weeks. The fee is $18 for members and $22 for non-members. The camp runs June 18 to August 18.

Chavez says the differences in ages in the group isn't a problem. Older children, he says, are cooperative and lend assistance to their younger playmates when playing games like soccer.

"All you have to do is explain it to them. They're very understanding," Chavez says.

The big catch

Members of the Plymouth-Canton senior class behold the crowd of family and friends who have come to watch them be graduated.

No more books! Area seniors celebrate June graduation

Why is this rock smiling? It's the famous rock that is adorned by students each year around graduation time. Salem students Karen Brown, Ed Meixner and Michelle Merchant painted the rock, but it has since been painted red by marauding Canton students.

Poster winner

Board approves academy plan

Plans for a 14-classroom school that will house students of the three-year-old Plymouth Christian Academy has been approved by the Canton board for a site behind the Calvary Baptist Church on Joy, east of Morton Taylor.

Harry Guess, chief administrator of the school, hopes Christian Academy students will be able to move from their current classrooms in Northville's Main Street Elementary School to the new building by next Christmas.

Guess said construction of the school will start as soon as possible.

The fundamentalist school will eventually include students in grades kindergarten through 12, he said.

The leased school building in Northville has only grades kindergarten through nine. Guess said grade 10 will be added to the school's curriculum next fall.

Currently, there are 310 students enrolled in the school.

Besides classrooms, the new Canton school will house a science laboratory, photographic darkrooms, an office complex and a teachers' lounge.

Guess says the school has been approved by the State of Michigan, and pupils' credits will transfer to other schools. The academy cannot receive high school accreditation until a 12th grade program has been in operation for three years.

Folker home to be torn down

An old farmhouse previously earmarked for restoration appears destined to be torn down because of the high cost of renovating the structure.

Canton board members had hoped to convert the building known as the Folker house into a family service facility or a YMCA building. Township officials applied for a $38,000 state grant to finance the renovation project.

But a recent building department inspection has shown that the approximately 80-year-old structure on Proctor behind the Canton administration building would cost much more than $38,000 to restore.

Treasurer Jim Donahue said the house needs a new foundation, new walls, a new roof, a new floor, new wiring and new plumbing to make it safe.

Board members unanimously approved the concept of demolishing the building last week and indicated that a new building could possibly be built on the township-owned site.

DPW bids too high

Plans for a proposed DPW building on a site near Sheldon and Michigan have been sent back to the drawing table following receipt of construction bids that average $1 million.

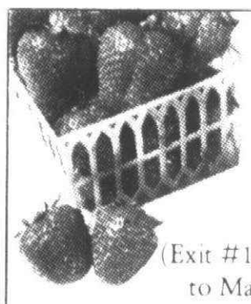

Desmond Hamill of the Ralls, Hamill architectural firm said the bids exceeded his latest cost estimates for the building by 20 per cent.

Hamill attributed half the error in the cost estimates to the inflationary cost of construction and the other half to errors made by his firm in estimating the cost of materials shown on the blueprint.

According to Treasurer Jim Donahue, the township board originally estimated the building's cost at $580,000.

The proposed building would replace the structure that currently houses the DPW, next to the police station on Geddes near Michigan. Township officials say the present DPW facility is too small.

The service is designed for both groups and individuals traveling to the metroparks, who want to take advantage of such metropark facilities as swimming, picnic areas, nature trails, playfield areas and other outdoor activities.

☐ You're Just Getting Old
☐ There Is Nothing Organically Wrong With You
☐ If It Doesn't Get Better We'll Have To Operate
☐ There Is Nothing Further That Can Be Done
☐ It's All In Your Head
☐ Maybe It'll Go Away In Time

Have you ever been told, "You're just getting old." — "It's heredity." — "It's old age." — "Nothing can be done." — or, "You'll just have to live with it."

Chiropractic treatment has rescued millions of Americans from years of needless suffering. Nine million Americans went to chiropractors last year to find out if chiropractic could help them.

Chiropractic screening tests are simple and painless . . . and they can quickly indicate if you might have spinal distortions, and thereby be likely to respond to chiropractic care.

Find out whether or not you really do, "Have to live with it." Call today for an appointment. There is no charge for consultation, preliminary screening tests, a report of findings on these tests, and recommendations, if treatment or further examination is indicated. Almost all health insurance policies cover chiropractic care. All fees thoroughly explained prior to any additional service being rendered.

Poets, composers, linguists and computer programmers from the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district will study at Schoolcraft College this summer.

That might not seem unusual, except that these scholars will only be in the second to eighth grade.

For the first time in Michigan, talented and gifted (TAG) students can attend classes designed for them at a community college. Classes start July 2 and are open on a first-come, first-served basis to elementary and middle school children in the district.

Tuition ranges from $9.25 for computer programming to $32 for music compositon.

"This program will permit our students (grades 2-8) to enroll in high level activities at Schoolcraft College for very modest fees," said Richard Olenchak, coordinator of the TAG program.

He added, "I believe we are one of the first school districts in the nation and the first in Michigan to have a working relationship with a college and our TAG programs.

Four classes are available. Music compositon will teach students the basics of melodic construction, harmony and musical form.

On an individual basis, youngsters may then proceed to work on a complete compostion and perhaps even supervise rehearsals leading to performance of their own musical creation.

In computer programming, participants will learn how to use a terminal and run programs in BASIC. Games, data analysis and simulations will be tried by students.

Students will write a poem or short story in the imaginative writing class. Work will be shared with others and included in a mimeographed magazine mailed to all participants.

Conversational French is the fourth offering for gifted children from elementary and middle schools. The main objective is to introduce cultural differences and to provide a working grammatical basis with concentration on practical vocabulary for the American traveling abroad.

Applications for the TAG summer classes at Schoolcraft may be obtained from Olenchak at the pupil personnel office, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, 1024 S. Mill, Plymouth; or Robert Burnside, director of admissions for Schoolcraft.

Classes start July 2 and all but music composition have two sections. For further information, call 455-0470.

The TAG program, in the 1978-79 school year, involved 10 elementary and four middle schools with working programs and committees. An additional three schools are in the process of implementing programs through already functioning committees.

These programs rely completely upon voluntary professional staff participation. The voluntary nature of TAG programs in the school system requires each building to develop its own version based upon the staff, students and communities involved.

The only paid TAG position is that of the coordinator (Olenchak). His job includes ordering supplies and materials, testing students in order to assist the identification process, developing programs, assisting classroom teachers in developing experiences and curricula for their TAG students and public relations.

Cardinal completes radio study

Jeffrey L. Cardinal of Plymouth has completed a study of 10 watt educational radio stations at Wayne State University.

The study, entitled "A Descriptive Study of the Function of Class D, Noncommercial, Educational, FM Radio Stations in High Schools in the Detroit Metropolitan Area," was completed as a master's thesis.

The study asked three questions: Do these stations meet FCC criteria?; what types of programming should they have?; and, should they exist?

A study of the 10 high school stations in the Detroit metropolitan area was made to get information about their backgr ound, organization, operation and management.

Station administrators and other resource people were surveyed and interviews conducted with experts in broadcasting.

The objective of the research was to formulate possible guidelines for the operation of Class D high school broadcast stations.

Cardinal has completed his master of arts degree in the departments of speech, communication, theater and journalism — sp ecializing in mass communications.

Cardinal, a 1971 graduate of Michigan State Univer sity, is vice president of Michigan Association of Educational Broadcasters and a member of the National Association of Broad casters, National Association of Educational Broadcasters, and Broadcast Education Association.

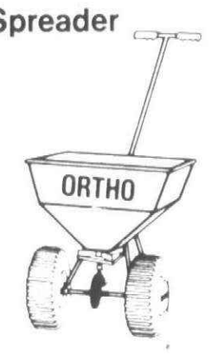

For two years he has been included in "Who's Who in the Midwest."

Raw vegetables, fruits make fun meals

"Crush ½ cup sweetened berries in the bottom of a tall glass, stir in a scoop of strawberry ice cream and fill the glass with sparkling soda water. Another scoop of ice cream on top and crown it all with real whipped cream and one perfect berry."

Healthy, they say.

FRESH VEGETABLES available in season take on new flavor with cream.

Adds flavorful variety, they say.

Milk and other dairy products are wholesome, nutritious foods, they say.

Dr. Laurence Hursh, consultant to the National Dairy Council, warns parents to be sure their children are obtaining wholesome meals and snacks this summer. Because most children are not involved in school nutrition programs during the summer, he advises parents to follow the four-food group concept of planning lunches, as other meals.

While his suggestions for meals include all four food groups, each meal also including ample portions of butter, milk and other dairy products. He advocates lots of fresh fruits and raw vegetables, and even suggest you have your youngsters help in the preparation of these foods making it a fun meal.

MILK, of course, can be had in a wide variety of choices. For example, whole, skim or two-percent, chocolate or buttermilk. Dr. Hursh suggests you can flavor whole milk with fruit juice or milk shakes. You can serve ice cream or ice milk.

Healthy, he says.

Not true, says Dr. Joseph Arends, cardiovasuclar health expert and publisher of the newsletter "Lifestyle".

In a series of letters concentrating on overweight in America, Dr. Arends emphatically states, "Nobody in this country should be drinking whole milk. Children right from the breast should be on skimmed milk only.

"The reason why a large proportion of our population believe the diary products are very desirable is because the National Dairy Council infiltrates the school systems and promotes the basic idea that eating a lot of dairy products is very healthy."

Dr. Arends continues, "If anything, dairy products should be discouraged. Even growing children do not need milk. Milk is only a convenient source of calcium. There are other sources of calcium from vegetables."

DR. JEAN LOCKHART, director of the department of health services and government affairs of the American Academy of Pediatrics, says of babies and formula milk, "Most clinical observers find obesity associated more often with formula-fed infants than with breast-fed infants."

It is not clear, she continues, that infant obesity predisposes to childhood or adult obesity, but the possibility is reson enough to recommend against overfeeding of infants. "It is difficult," she says, "to overfeed an exclusively breast-fed infant."

To diet sensibly, Dr. Arends says, eat foods low in fat, salt, sugar and calories. Avoid pre-packaged meats, cut all visile fat from meat. Whole milk dairy products should be discouraged. Do not eat french fries or meat gravies.

If you follow Dr. Arends plan, he suggests that coupled with exercise, the proper blood levels of cholesterol, etc. that a full quality of life can be expected and an implication of the possibility of extended longetivy exists.

Healthy, he pleads!

PLYMOUTh—PAST & PRESENT

For 140 years, JPs dispensed justice

By Sam Hudson

(Part I)

For more that 140 years justice was dispensed in the Plymouth area by a justice of the peace.

A justice of the peace was a local officer authorized to try minor civil and criminal cases. He also could hold preliminary examinations of persons accused of more serious crimes and had the authority to administer oaths and perform marriages.

The office was at the bottom of the judicial ladder but the individuals who held the position were very often prominent and respected citizens whose judgement was valued.

THE RECORD IS not clear about who was the first justice of the peace in Plymouth.

Writing about 1876, D. Clarkson noted that "on April 7, 1828, the township was instructed to petition the governor and council to appoint William Bartow, Jehiel Davis and Philo Taylor justices of the peace in Plymouth Township."

But, in 1877, A. B. Markham, one of the earliest settlers, wrote that the first justice of the peace in the township was Henry B. Holbrook who "was appointed by the governor and legislative council."

Writing at a much later date, C. M. Burton, in his book on Wayne County and the city of Detroit, declared that Philo Taylor was elected justice of the peace at the first township election held at the home of John Tibbitts on May 25, 1827.

It is possible that Taylor was the first justice, but it is to be doubted that he was elected at that first meeting. No other accounts of the meeting in Tibbitts' barn mentions Taylor's election to the position.

If there is doubt about who first held the position, there is no doubt about the person who was most publicized during her tenure in office. That was Phoebe Patterson, whose career is covered on my book on the history of Plymouth.

THIS SERIES OF columns, however, is devoted to a man who was justice of the peace in Plymouth during Civil War days, and another, a contemporary resident, who, in 1969, became the first to hold the office of District Court Judge in the Plymouth area.

The justice of the peace was elected by the people of the township. Anyone who was a resident and age 21 or older could hold the office. Legal training was not necessary. Some of those elected had little more than an elementary knowledge of the law.

That was not the case with John Fuller, who was a lawyer by profession. Born in Leslie, N.Y., on Jan. 7, 1812, he settled in Plymouth on June 15, 1834, and eventually became well-known throughout Wayne County.

Early in his career here, Fuller was appointed deputy U.S. marshall by U.S. Marshall Conrad Ten Eyck, an executive of the federal courts.

Fuller took the census of Plymouth in 1840. Not a difficult job then when the population was barely more than 300. The assessed valuation of the township at that time was only $328,808.

Fuller held the office of justice of the peace here for three terms. I have been unable to establish the years in which he served, but would estimate that it was about the Civil War era. Later, he was a candidate for probate judge. He was narrowly defeated in the election.

Fuller was a trustee of the village and president pro-tem in 1879 and again in 1880.

ON JULY 6, 1836, John Fuller married Louisa A. Kellogg, daughter of one of Plymouth's wealthiest men. They had seven daughters.

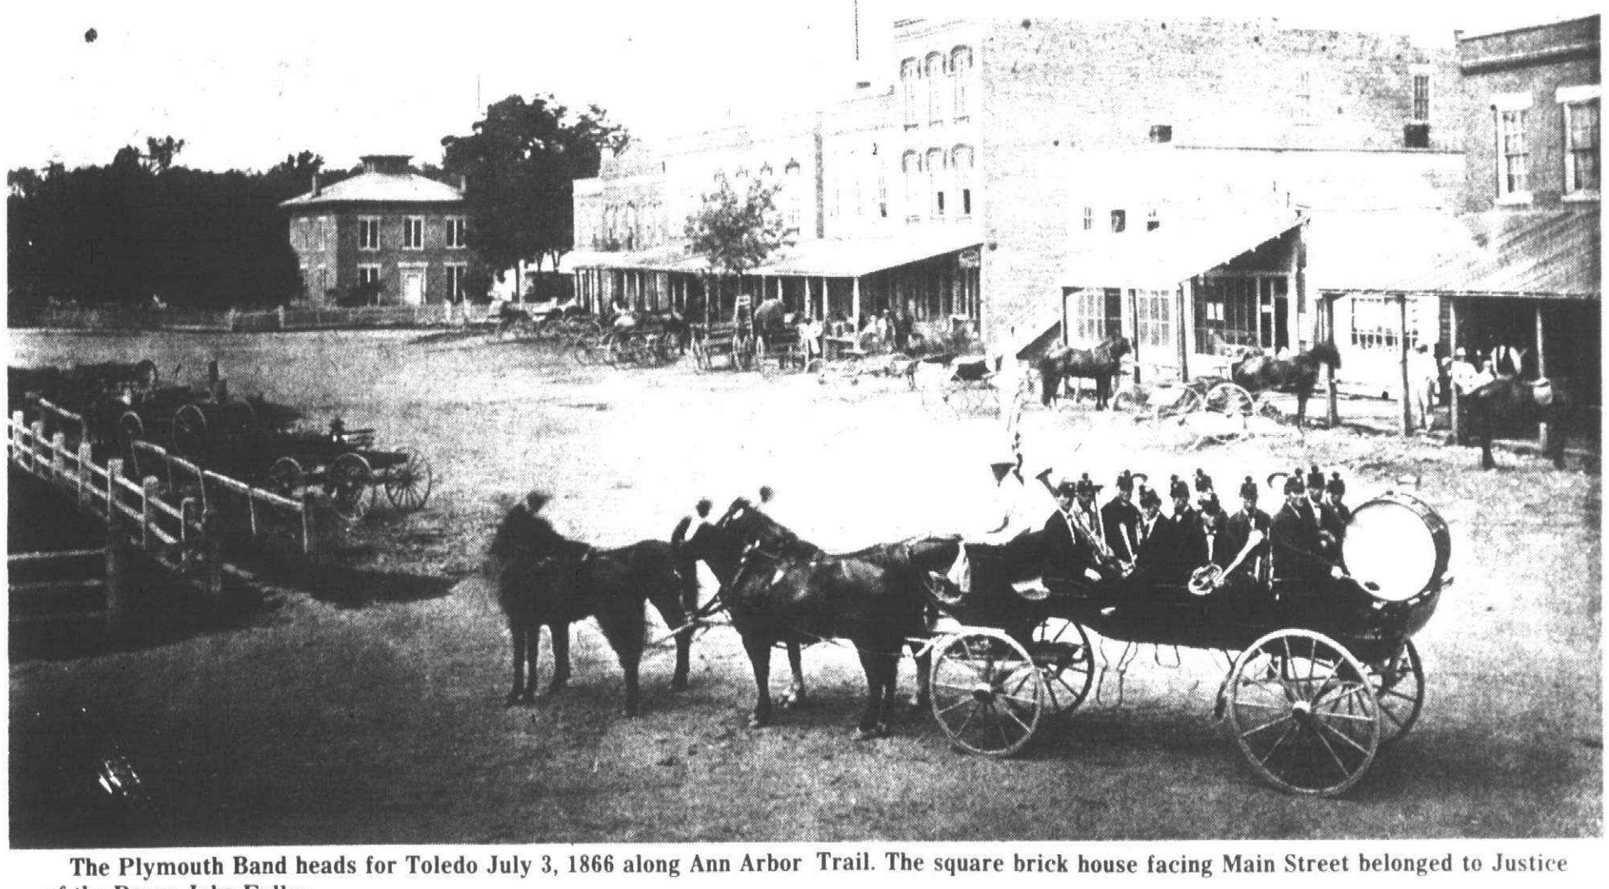

In his memoirs, "I Remember Plymouth," Charlie Bennett, who was born here in 1863, tells of the Fullers and of Plymouth as it was in the year 1870.

"There were just 73 houses in what is today the boundaries of our city of Plymouth. The one house that stands out in my memory is that large square brick home of John Fuller, located on the site of the Mayflower Hotel.

"John Fuller was the father of five (sic) as fine looking girls as ever lived in Pl ymouth or any other town. As I thought a great deal of their mother. Mrs. Fuller, I have six excellent reasons for remembering so well the square house that stood on this Mayflower corner."

The house referred to by Bennett stood at the southwest corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Main Street. It was on the site where, in 1825, William Starkweather had cleared the land and built a log house, the first home in the village of Plymouth. As Bennett indicates, it is the spot where the Mayflower Hotel is now located.

Layoffs and cuts in the day care center and cultural events at Schoolcraft College are possible as trustees consider the school's 1979-80 budget.

Administration officials presented a revised $11.9 million budget to the board of trustees last week. The new spending plan, which takes effect July 1, is $782,000 higher than last year's — a 7 percent increase.

Past budgets have increased an average of 10 to 11 percent, said W. Kenneth Linder, vice president for business and administrative affairs.

"The brutal truth is were not adequately funded," President C. Nelson Grote told the board. "And it's going to get worse." Grote is proposing the school cut its class schedule mailing by 40,000 to save money.

LAST WEEK voters turned down a proposed half-mill Schoolcraft property tax levy increase which would have provided more revenue for maintenance and equipment replacement. The millage rejection was the second this year.

The Schoolcraft tax rate will be 2.06 mills per $1,000 in assessed value. Schoolcraft is authorized to levy 1.77 mills for operations, maintenance and equipment. The remainder of the 2.06 millage rate is for debt retirement.

While the budget is 95 percent set, a few unanswered questions remain, including state funding for 1979-80. A state appropriation of $4.9 million is expected, which is 40 percent of the college's budget. The administration won't be certain of the state amount until the Michigan Legislature passes a budget bill, which it may before the summer recess in July.

The community college may have to layoff some persons, most likely part-time faculty. A hiring freeze is already in effect.

GROTE PROPOSED that Schoolcraft's class schedule not be mailed to its non-resident service area, which includes the Farmington, Farmington Hills, Redford, Wayne-Westland and Inkster school districts. The school draws 25 percent of its students from the service area.

Class schedules may be mailed only to the school districts that make up the Schoolcraft district — Plymouth-Canton, Livonia, Clarenceville, Garden City and Northville.

The board split, in a straw vote, on a $10,000 subsidy for the day care center. Student affairs vice president Edward McNally said a 50 percent drop in day care center enrollment last winter sent the operation into the red. Forty families used the center last winter.

"If we had a better winter, we wouldn't be asking for $10,000," McNally said.

Trustees Harry Greenleaf, Richard Hayward and Leonard Wozniak said the request was too much while Mark McQuesten, Nancie Blatt and Rosina Raymond favored it. Lame-duck trustee Gerald Cox took no position because he will leave the board June 30.

"We raised three kids, and nobody paid for our baby sitters," Wozniak said.

Mrs. Raymond said, "I can't get hard-nosed on this one. We must keep it."

Mrs. Blatt said she may favor only the $10,000 one time and suggested raising the $1 per credit hour user fee to $1.50.

The day care center budget this year was $25,000, including a subsidy of $11,400 approved by the board from the operating fund. The remainder of the day care budget is from family registration and user fees and the student activities budget.

GROTE'S PROPOSAL to cut the cultural and public affairs events budget $10,000 received board support. Trustee Mark McQuesten suggested the student fee be raised to continue the program — which includes concerts, lectures, dances and dinner theater — at its present level.

"Student fees (50 cents per credit hour up to a maximum of $7.50) have been the same for 10 years," McQuesten said.

A public hearing on the budget has been scheduled for 7 p.m. June 27.

SEMCOG assembly votes

Chairperson will be named for 1979 '80

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) will elect a new chairperson and members of the transportation authority board at its annual meeting tonight.

Robert L. Bovitz, mayor of Trenton and a current SEMCOG vice chairperson, is likely to win the top job since he is the choice of the nominating committee.

Between 100 and 150 local elected officials from throughout the seven-county area are expected to attend the General Assembly meeting which will convene at 7 p.m. on the mezzanine level of the Radisson-Cadillac Hotel in downtown Detroit. It is open to the public.

THE GENERAL Assembly will also elect two members to the 15-member Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) board of directors for three-year terms commencing July 1.

A fight is expected over one of the seats that will go to an Oakland County representative. That seat is currently held by Joseph P. Bianco Jr. of Bloomfield Hills, whose term expires July 1.

The other seat was held by the late Marilyn Thayer, former chairman of the Washtenaw County Planning Commission. Mrs. Thayer represented the four regional out-counties, Livingston, Monroe, St. Clair and Washtenaw, on the SEMTA board. She had been nominated for re-election to her seat prior to her death. Her term also expired July 1.

A caucus of all Oakland County units of government selected three nominees for the Oakland County seat: Bloomfield Township Supervisor Homer Case; Royal Oak City Commissioner Alice Schoenholtz and Southfield Mayor Donald Fracassi.

To represent SEMCOG's four out-counties on the SEMTA board, out-county delegates nominated Ypsilanti councilman Thomas O. Moors and St. Clair Township Trustee Jean G. Tabor.

TO FILL the five posts of SEMCOG vice chairperson, a nominating committee composed of SEMCOG members is recommending the following nominees:

Richard E. Manning, chairman, Wayne County Board of Commissioners; Mary Ellen Parrott, treasurer, Shelby Township; Donald F. Shelton, mayor, City of Saline; William E. Smiley, commissioner, St. Clair County; and Robert W. Smith, president, Livingston Intermediate School District.

These persons are also being recommended by the nominating committee for delegates at-large positions:

Walker L. Cisler, president, Overseas Associates; Robert Fitzpatrick, director, Wayne County Economic Development Corp.; James Grannan, vice president, Alexander & Alexander; Dr. Mel Ravitz, director, Detroit-Wayne County Mental Health Services Board; Donn Shelton, executive director, Metropolitan Fund; Thomas Turner, president, Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO Council; and William P. Hampton, former state representative and Oakland County circuit court judge who is currently a partner in the law firm of Davidson, Gotshall & Kohl.

NEW APPOINTEES to the Regional Clearinghouse Review Committee, which monitors and reviews federal grant applications in the region, along with new bloc chairpersons, will also be announced at the meeting.

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments is a voluntary association of some 130 governmental units in Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Wayne counties. Its principal function is long-range planning for transportation, housing, land use, recreation and open space, sewer, water and storm drainage, criminal justice and water quality.

Sludge problem goes beyond Canton border

Last week, the Canton Planning Commission recommended denial of a special zoning request that would allow Bi-Products Systems of Michigan to dump about 600 tons daily of treated sludge on a site south of Michigan Avenue, east of Morton Taylor. The general idea of the project is to mix the sludge with woodchips, compost it, and distribute the final product as a soil additive.

Final approval or denial rests with the Canton Township Board. Denial seems certain, since a majority of members are vehemently opposed to allowing the company to practice sludge conversion in Canton.

It would seem that the best option for Bi-Products at this time is to pack up its tents and slink off into the night. The planning commission doesn't want the sludge. The township board doesn't want the sludge. The residents of Canton quite emphatically do not want sludge.

We don't want the sludge site in Canton either. Too many questions about the heavy metal content of the material and its possible effect on the food chain remain unanswered.

Although sludge composting is a marvelous idea, the waste produced by the City of Detroit and the outlying suburbs contains far to many dangerous industrial chemicals. If the sludge, or the resulting soil additive, gets into crops or water, our health could be seriously threatened.

A sludge malfunction, whether on the part of Bi-Products, or the state, or even Canton Township, just seems too possible.

We haven't forgotten the comment a Bi-Products representative made when we asked how the company could be sure no accidents would happen.

"I guess you just have to trust us and look at our reputation," the spokesman said.

Shortly after that statement, we discovered that Bi-Products had been dumping sludge in a Canton landfill. There wasn't anything illegal about the procedure, but it made us wonder about the company's failure to inform anyone in Canton that this was going on.

Admittedly, Bi-Products is up against a wall. The company is under contract by the Detroit Water and Sewage Department as the result of a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency lawsuit forcing the department to clean up the Detroit River.

Bi-Product's sludge composting idea is basically good, if the company were dealing with sludge that were not so heavy with industrial wastes.

Although the township board will probably turn down the site approval request down, it should not consider the case closed.

There is still the problem of sludge.

If you can't compost the sludge because of the heavy metals that might get into the food chain, think for a minute what happens if the very same sludge goes into the Detroit River.

The sludge could be trucked to an area less populated than Canton, where it may offend fewer people. That means higher costs (which the taxpayer will ultimately pay) and just as much risk of contamination to people and animals.

We can keep the sludge out of Canton, but it won't make the problems go away.

THe problem of sludge is indeed our problem as well as that of the City of Detroit. Canton Township also creates the waste that ends up as sludge. So do Plymouth and Livonia and Birmingham and all those other communities around Detroit. It is grossly unfair to shuffle the problem around in hopes that someone else will solve it.

Probably the best solution would be to slap strict laws and enforcement upon the companies that are producing the waste that is making the sludge impossible to deal with.

There are ways electro-plating firms can extract cadmium from their waste before sending it off to the sewage treatment plant.

This, as with all environmentally sound processes, is expensive. In the long run, we will all end up paying through the nose.

But, if the sludge can be cleaned up of most heavy metals, it could be composted (and distributed) almost anywhere.

Look at it this way. We can pay with our pocketbooks or we can pay with our health.

Even if they don't compost sludge in Canton.

Vote results belie revolt

At least not around here.

That was evident after looking at the numbers in the June 11 annual school election for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

There were three proposals on the ballot to increase school taxes — one from Plymouth-Canton Schools and two from Schoolcraft College.

Plymouth-Canton Schools asked for 1.5 additional mills and Schoolcraft asked for two proposals of a half-mill each, totaling an additional mill. Thus, a total of 2.5 mills was at stake.

Yet fewer than 20 percent of the registered voters in the Plymouth-Canton district showed up to vote the millage up or down.

More specifically, only 16 percent of the registered voters bothered to vote June 11. That means the possibility of an incr ease in taxes of 2.5 mills was enough to lure only one of every six voters .

The Plymouth-Canton 1.5 mills passed by more than 600 votes, which means that only one of every 12 voters here was concerned enough about higher taxes to vote "no" on the millage.

While approving the 1.5 mills, voters did reject both half-mill proposals requested by Schoolcraft by 3-2 margins. Those "no" votes could be attributed to a tax revolt or to apathy towards the community's college, most likely the latter.

But even if the Schoolcraft millage defeats here are attributable to a revolt against higher taxes, the 3-2 margin of defeat suggests that one of every 10 voters (rather than one of 12) expressed anti-tax feelings at the polls.

Conversely, that would mean that 90 percent of the voters in Plymouth-Canton aren't overly concerned about the level of taxation as related to the services received.

WHEN PEOPLE are really angry, they do something.

A taxpayers' revolt suggests people are angry and will take action. But in these parts, no action was taken. Almost everyone stayed home.

The election wasn't a secret. School elections are held every June and have been for years, and this annual election was as well publicized as any other.

The normal explanation for low turnout is apathy — voter apathy. That might be. But you can't have voter apathy and a taxpayers' revolt at the same time.

Another explanation might be that voters are satisfied with the services offered by the school district and are willing to pay a higher price — to keep up with general infla tion — to maintain that level?,

More likely, though, is the conclusion that most voters (at least, those who showed up) realize that enrollment cannot continue to climb without costs going up. Because the community seems to be against building new schools to meet rising enrollment, most voters may have made the conscious decision to approve the 1.5 mills as an endorsement of greater use of year-round school to absorb growth.

Another reason for the majority of "yes" votes is the organized campaign conducted by the citizens millage committee. That effort explains why the millage passed by more than 600 votes. But it does not explain why five out of every six voters stayed home.

Some bit the bullet by voting for more taxes; others refused. The majority didn't care.

Up, up and away!

Tim Richard

We already know what kind of car the American of the future will be driving. It will be sub-compact, by today's standards, and get 30 or 40 mpg. He will travel more in carpools, perhaps join a company vanpool and possibly even take the SEMTA bus to work.

But what of the single-family, detached dwelling which the real estate industry calls a "home"? In the 1970s it became apparent older couples — "empty nesters," they're called — moved in droves into mobile homes and such attached dwellings as town houses, condominiums and apartments. Single persons set up their own households to an increasing degree.

But what about the American family? What will happen to the dream of a house on a lot with a bit of breathing space and a garden? Will it go the way of the family farm?

WHAT PROMPTS these questions are several news reports.

One is the word that mortgage rates on single-family detached dwellings have risen to 11.25 percent. That's about 2½ times the rate one paid when suburbanization started after World War II and double the rate of the mid-1960s.

That would be bad enough by itself. But the interest rate explosion is compounded by the explosion in housing prices — 15 percent a year recently. So the young buyer faces housing prices rising faster than general inflation and the prospect of working more years than ever to pay it off because of the compound effect on the mortgage.

You can see it from the lender's point of view: if he's charging 11.25 on a loan and consumer price index inflation is biting off 7.7 percent, the lender is making only 3.55 percent on the institution's money.

And you wonder what the price of money and construction will do to the family house.

THE SUPPLY of money is another question.

Our Mike Brudenell, last week reported mortgage money is getting tight. The reasons, according to a savings and loan official who would talk, are "consumer credit at an all-time high and a slackening of new savings inflow."

The lack of savings is something you've read about earlier in this corner. Investment takes capital, and the U.S. has one of the lowest rates of capital accumulation of the world's major industrial nations. People just are not salting away money that institutions can lend.

And folks are borrowing more than ever for more purchases than ever. More demand for money means lenders can get away with charging more.

Finally, there is a handout from Chicago Title Insurance Co. that made good filler material in the news columns. "Working wives are continuing to play a key role in fueling the demand for homes," it said.

Of couples buying houses, 53.1 percent of the wives were working in 1977 and 56.2 percent were working in 1978. "It's the income of the working wife that makes it possible for many couples to afford home these days," said a title company official.

THAT'S ONE heck of a commentary on the American economy.

The wife goes to work because of inflation and to help pay the super-inflated price of a house, and finds she is now the culprit in helping to increase the demand for houses and mortgage money.

It must stop somewhere, of course. When the number of working wives gets close to 100 percent, then couples will either have to scale down the size of the house they purchase or go into attached housing for their families. If they go to attached housing, they run into corporate landlords who are tougher on the no-kids rule than the old-fashioned landlord used to be.

Our vicious circle is now complete: More borrowing, more demand for loan funds, inflated interest rates attached to inflated housing prices, a wife going to work to help pay for a house and contributing to the upward pressure on housing prices.

The solution, logically, is for all of us to indulge in the Calvinist virtue of thrift. When you figure out how to do it, let the rest of us know how.

Gas rationing revisited

If the purveyors of doom and gloom are to be taken seriously, we are headed for a real fuel crisis that will lead to gasoline rationing. And if that happens, we will be faced with a combination of anxiety, suspense, and a few laughs.

Rationing of gasoline is nothing new in this country. Automobile owners have traveled down that road once before, and the memories still linger. It was one of the oddest times we had, and it all happened during World War II.

When the rationing program went in, it set up a new social ladder in the country, for the ration cards became status symbols. If you were lucky enough to get the top priority, it meant more to your social life than the coin of the realm. In fact, the rationing became so unusual that, in many cases, the ration cards were used for money.

Not only that, but the rationing of gasoline brought about a black market, and it was mindful of the "blind pig" days of the Hoover administration when you gained entrance to the after-hour places only if you knew the right person. In many cases, the good ration cards were at a premium, but if you knew the right guy, you had no trouble.

SURE, THERE were car pools in which friends took turns driving to their jobs each day, and folks kept their cars in garages for at least one day a week. And the slogan of the country was: "Is this trip necessary?"

In those days, the rationing of gasoline wasn't too much of a problem because the passenger trains still ran, especially on the C&O to Grand Rapids and Lansing, and the Grand Trunk from Birmingham to Detroit. It was considered a treat to take the train to Lansing in the morning and enjoy dinner on the train on the return trip.

Things are different now. Most passenger trains have been taken off the tracks and replaced by super freeways. More than that since the last rationing period, there has been a rush from the inner city to the suburbs.

In fact, the entire scene has changed.

AT THE TIME of Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941, 27 million motor vehicles were on the road. At the end of 1978 there were 117 million cars and nearly 32 million trucks. In 1941 gasoline sold for 19.2 cents a gallon and went up to only 20.5 cents a gallon by the end of the war and the rationing period.

As The Stroller read these figures, he is reminded that when we traveled the rationing road for the first time, there were skeptics who claimed there was no shortage of gasoline.

He also is reminded that we are in better shape today because we no longer have the fear of a tire shortages. In the first trip down the rationing road, the Japanese had cut more than 90 percent of the rubber supply to Uncle Sam and we wore tires down to the rim.

AND HE WONDERS why the government, in its many rulings on emission control and gasoline consumption, doesn't order the manufacturers to build autos that can't travel above the speed limit.

He remembers the Model A Ford, which proudly boasted one of the top rationing cards granted to newspaper fellows, couldn't go faster than 52 mph.

It's almost mid-year. Do you remember the New Year's resolutions you made last Jan. 1? How are you doing on them?

Why blackjack dealers never smile

Those who read this column last week might recall it dealt with the prototype for a perfect human slob.

That tale was supposed to be a short opening vignette for an adventure in Nevada — Las Vegas to be exact.

But the telling of the "slob" story got away from me. Before I knew it, the weekly allotment of space was filled.

NOW, HOW ABOUT a brief visit in Vegas?

This was my first stop in Vegas and I was wide-eyed. Sort of the country kid visiting Sin City.

Can I help it if the American Newspaper Publishers Association chose that desert city for its Visions '79 equipment exhibition?

I just go where they send me.

Vegas has a gigantic convention hall. For the ANPA show, it was jammed with presses, folders, paper bundlers and all sorts of eletronic editorial gear.

Industry experts presented a variety of programs, looking into the future of our bsuiness.

As it turned out, the convention center was the only building I was in (I didn't get into a church or school) that was without slot machines.

OFFICIAL CONVENTION business ended promptly at 5:30 p.m. daily. That meant endless evening hours to study brochures on equipment we'd seen or to evaluate notes taken during the day.

Or, if one chose, time to prowl the Las Vegas strip.

Now that can be a real adventure.

As the first-time Vegas visitor learns, playing the slot machines — nickel to silver dollar — is a way of life for most guests in town.

Addicts come in all ages, shapes and colors. Each clutches a paper cup, thoughtfully furnished by the casinos, to hold coins. Spectators can never tell if the players are on a string of wins or they just got change for their last $20 bill.

No matter, the sound effects continue unabated: "Clang, clang, clang, clang." Silver dollars make the loudest noise as they drop into the curved metal receptacles at the bottom of each slot.

THERE'S AN INTERESTING twist, what with computers now a part of the world of Vegas slots. It's the talking slot. Well, the machine doesn't speak; it flashes messages to you.

Things like:

"Everybody loves a winner."
"Grab my knob and pull."
You look good, good looking."
"You gotta play to win."
"I'm loose as a goose."
"I'm ready to pay you."
"I'm where the action is."
"Columbus took a chance."

After reading these comments, one after another, I couldn't resist. That machine, as do many others, allows you to play up to five coins at once. Of course, this supposedly enhances the chances for a winning combination.

I chose to use just one.

The wheels spun and, one by one, came to their clanking halts. The images didn't match. A new message flashed on the screen: "Why didn't you try five coins?"

Nobody likes a smart-aleck machine, I thought.

IN VEGAS, AS YOU STUDY the faces of the gamblers you see a strained intensity. Their concentration registers as if they were about to close in on a cure for cancer.

The casino professionals, especially the blackjack dealers, are even more of a grim lot. They never smile, never say a word, or so it seemed.

One evening — don't asked me what prompted the project — I decided to make a search for a dealer who might risk even a tiny display of enjoyment at his or her work.

It turned out to be quite a safari.

The hunt began at the Las Vegas Hilton, continued to the Royal Las Vegas, the Silver Slipper, the Frontier and finally the smaller Castaways. A prior night's stops had been made to casinos at the MGM Grand (where I bunked in opulence) and Caesar's Palace (which indeed is a palace).

It was at the Castaways where my quest ended. A charming black woman was dealing 21. Her nametag read, "Call me The Shadow."

It was the happy clatter going on at her table that attracted my attention.

UNBELIEVEABLY The Shadow was chiding her patrons. She'd tell the hesitant ones when to hit — then chuckle if they busted.

When one hit a blackjack, she paid off with a flourish. The patrons, both men and women, seemed to be loving it. Maybe they were just pleased, as I was, to find a dealer who actually appeared to be human.

"No thanks," I replied.

"Why not?"

"I don't have any money." (Which was right on target — that is, gambling money.)

"No money! Then why did you come to Vegas?"

She stared at me. I just stood there, looking stupid.

Then I began to wonder — maybe it is better that the dealers act like robots and ignore us hangers-on.

With that I shuffled off into the night.

Why diabetic's doctor, dentist should consult

Dear Dr. De Francesco: I am a diabetic. Must I consult with my physician before I have dental work performed? Mrs. L.J.B.

Dr. Joseph De Francesco

Close cooperation between physician and dentist is helpful, especially when a diabetic needs extensive dental work or extractions. Generally, all dental surgery, including simple extractions, should be delayed until after diabetes is brought under control.

Naturally, there are times when this is not possible — when, for example, an abscess must be drained immediately.

However, the better controlled the diabetes, the better the prognosis for extensive dental work. When anesthesia is required, a local (which deadens the nerves only in the immediate area of the operation, such as the jaw) is preferable to a general (which produces unconsciousness).

A diabetic should discuss the disease with his or her dentist and should suggest a consultation between dentist and physician in the case of any abnormal dental problems.

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: How does children's dentistry differ from adult dentistry? Your column is very interesting and educational. R.B.

There are two distinct aspects of children's dentistry from practices applicable to the adult.

The first is the psychological management of young patients, the recognition of differences in emotions and temperaments and an understanding of how to cope with them.

The second is the difference in cavity preparation and technical procedures as well as dissimilarity in the choice of filling material.

TEETHING CHILDREN frequently cry a great deal. Mother should make certain that the cutting of teeth is actually the cause, for there may be one or more different reasons for the crying.

During teething, a baby may drool, bite, chew and gnaw anything he can place in his mouth. He may work his lower jaw forward and from side to side, trying to rub the gums together over the erupting tooth.

Teething rings and other objects of suitable size and firmness will help satisfy the baby in his urge to push the teeth through the overlying gum tissue. At first he may need help in handling these objects.

He may be given hard foods such as celery, carrot sticks and toasted bread so that he can use his gums.

The primary teeth cause more trouble in their erupting than the permanent teeth. Most permanent teeth replace primary teeth that have been shed so they have a path to follow. The 12 permanent molars have no primary teeth to succeed.

Parents protest

Plymouth-based church wants to rent part of school

"MONROE MUST GO!"

That was the message from Westland parents who want their neighborhood school, to be closed this week because of declining enrollment, demolished and the land used for a community park.

The reason for their position is that they don't want the Livonia Board of Education to lease part of the school to a Plymouth-based religious group.

The group, the Agape Fellowship of Plymouth, now holds its services in the Plymouth Masonic Temple.

The Monroe parents told the school board Monday that it has nothing against the Agape group or any other religious organization.

"If Billy Graham, Oral Roberts or Pope John Paul II were to ask for a lease (of Monroe School), our answer would still be 'No — Monroe Must Go.' "

There were about 40 to 50 parents in the audience for the board session with about a dozen voicing their opposition to leasing the school on Mackenzie near Henry Ruff.

The board met in a closed meeting last night after the public session ended to discuss the proposed lease from the group.

Carol Strom, board president, stressed that the school administration has not made a recommendation to the board, and the board is only exploring the possibility of leasing the school to the group.

A church spokesman told The Observer Tuesday that it organized last fall and has 150 to 200 members at its services on Sundays. The group is a non-denominational, the spokesman said.

MONROE PARENTS were concerned that the lease, if approved and implemented, would create parking problems at the school and traffic problems in the subdivision. The school has about 40 parking spaces.

Parents feared that if the church group wanted to expand its parking, it would use the existing playground for cars.

They also questioned why the religious group wants to lease a school which has a leaky roof and other serious structural problems.

The suggested demolition of the building, used an elementary school for nearly 25 years, would eliminate a long-standing vandalism problem, parents aid.

The residents also complained that the design of Monroe hides youngsters from the view of nearby homeowners and that it leads to the building being used as a drug "drop-off" point.

SAMUEL CORRADA of 8648 Donna, Westland, was the spokesman for the Monroe parents and read a statement which outlined their position and reasons for opposition the religious group.

He said the Monroe parents were upset about the method used by the school administration in communicating the potential future of the school. They criticized the June 11 meeting with five PTA executive board members which they didn't feel represented a cross-section of the community.

He also presented the board with petitions containing the signatures of an estimated 650 residents who wanted the school demolished and the land, about 11 acres, converted into a community park.

RONALD WITHERS, school board secretary, suggested that the residents contact Westland city officials to take over the land for recreational uses.

Mark Scarr, board trustee, reminded the parents that the board represents the entire school district and that the board "won't be bullied by a lot of emotionalism.

He also stressed that the board won't approve a new use for the school that is opposed by the community.

He cited the three-year-old case of Jefferson Elementary which was first proposed to be closed and converted into a career education center for senior high school students.

Parents in the Jefferson area protested and the board later changed its mind and put the center in a different elementary school. Jefferson was still closed within a year and leased to the city of Livonia community center.

Supt. George Garver said that the board over the years has been sensitive to the issues raised Monday by the Monroe parents.

He added that the Plymouth Masonic Temple reported that the Agape group has been good tenants.

The board has not yet decided when it will act on the proposed lease.

Peace Corps needs you

The Detroit area office for Peace Corps and VISTA will launch a recruitment campaign for volunteers July 23.

The campaign will be headquartered in room M-74 of the McNamara Federal Building in downtown Detroit.

According to Area Manager, Bob Jackson, Detroit has not produced many Peace Corps or VISTA volunteers.

"This year we plan to work with established organizations in the city in order to increase the public awareness of what Peace Corps and VISTA are all about," says Jackson.

At present the Detroit area office has three former VISTA volunteers and five former Peace Corps volunteers as staff members.

Peace Corps volunteers serve two years in developing countries in Africa, Asia, Latin America, the Caribbean and the South Pacific. The volunteers, who have work experience or degrees in nearly every field, work on such projects as health, education, construction, vocational training and business consulting.

VISTA volunteers work for one year among rural and urban poor in the United States.

Benefits to volunteers include transportation to and from training sites and overseas assignment locations, monthly living allowances, and paid medical care.

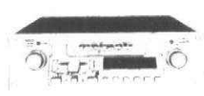

At the end of service, Peace Corps volunteers receive $3,000 ($125 for each month served) and VISTA volunteers receive $900 ($75 for each month served) in the form of a re-adjustment allowance.

Stevens, Cavallaro selected

Canton players lead all-star unit

By DOUG FUNKE
and BRAD EMONS

Who were the best softball players in the area during the recently-concluded campaign?

Livonia Franklin this spring won the Northwest Suburban League championship and Redford St. Agatha claimed the Catholic League A West title.

Clarenceville advanced to the semi-finals in the Class B state tournament for the second year in a row and Redford Union survived to its regional final in the Class A tourney.

Other squads in the area which, perhaps, didn't experience success based on a win-loss record, still had several outstanding individuals.

With another softball season completed, area coaches met to select the 1979 edition of the all-Observer teams. Ten teams placed at least one girl on the honorary squads.

MARY LAIRD
Clarenceville

DONNA MERLINO
Franklin

DAUN MULLER
Franklin

MARY CRECHIOLO

FIRST TEAM

Mary Laird, Clarenceville, pitcher. A four-year letterwinner, Laird handled virtually all of the Trojans' pitching duties the last two seasons.

This year, the righthander compiled a 13-4 record and an earned run average of 1.97.

Laird, not an over-powering thrower, depended more on excellent control.

She was named to the all-Metro West Conference team this year and was Clarenceville's Most Valuable Player last year.

Donna Merlino, Livonia Franklin, pitcher. A junior, Merlino this season compiled a 10-3 record. She pitched 12 complete games and struck out 26 batters in 86⅔ innings of work.

Merlino, an all-Northwest Suburban selection, had a batting average of .250. She walked 12 times this spring.

Daun Muller, Livonia Franklin, catcher. Captain of the Patriots this season, Muller hit at a .444 clip and struck out only one time all year.

An all-Northwest Suburban choice, she still holds the single season RBI record at Franklin which she set two years ago — 40.

Muller, a senior, has also proved her athletic mettle on the basketball and volleyball courts.

"Daun's strong arm and superb fielding are an excellent deterrent to opposing teams," said Chuck Hebestreit, coach of the Patriots.

Cindy Stevens, Plymouth Canton, first baseman. A .500 hitter this season against Western Six League pitching enabled the junior to earn all-conference accolades.

Stevens, Canton's clean-up hitter all season long, led the team in runs-batted-in.

"Cindy is an excellent defensive player and she has excellent speed," said Max Sommerville, coach of the Chiefs.

Mary Crechiolo, Westland John Glenn, infielder. Crechiolo, a .500 hitter this spring, has been named to the all-Northwest Suburban and the all-area team the last three years.

The senior has also distinguished herself on Glenn's volleyball and basketball teams.

"Mary is the best athlete at Glenn," said Vic Koos, coach of the Rockets. "Two words describe her best — great one. She was definitely the team leader."

Gail Oljace, Livonia Churchill, infielder. A three-year starter, Oljace this season had a batting average of .525. She clubbed four home runs and collected 19 RBIs.

The senior has been chosen for the all-Western Six League team the last two years.

A versatile athlete like so many others on this year's all-Observer squad, Oljace has earned all-area honors in basketball and volleyball.

Her excellent speed served her well both offensively and defensively.

"Vicky is an excellent defensive player. She turns the double play in fine style with speed and a strong, accurate arm," said Canton coach Max Sommerville.

Jody Humphries, Westland John Glenn, outfielder. The junior hit at a .558 clip this year and knocked in 18 runs, the team leader in both categories.

Micki McLalin, Redford Union, outfielder. McLalin clubbed 29 hits while recording a batting average of .460 this season.

The senior drew 25 walks, stole 12 bases, knocked in 23 runs and scored 25 runs.

The senior, a three-year starter, committed only one error while handling 63 chances in the field. She was picked for the all-Northwest Suburban team this season and the all-Suburban Eight last year.

During the course of the season, McLalin played in the outfield, at first base and pitched for the Panthers.

CINDY STEVENS

JAN BOYD
Salem

PAM SCHIPANI
Canton

SUE McDOWELL
Salem

Mary Ziemba, Redford Thurston, outfielder. This is the second year in a row that Ziemba has been tabbed for the first all-area team.

The senior was able to play the entire season even though she underwent a knee operation in March.

Ziemba led the Eagles in base hits and RBIs and ended the season with a .328 batting average. She struck out only once during the campaign and played errorless defense.

"Mary has a strong, accurate arm and always knows the right play to make," said Thurston coach Dick Munson.

SECOND TEAM

Boyd also proved to be pretty handy with the bat. Her average was .440.

"Jan is a quality pitcher. She has speed plus a variety of pitches," said Salem coach Livi Way. "She's a very knowledgeable softball player."

Etienne loses bid

No-hit effort thwarted

Both are strike out artists and each has come very close to pitching no-hitters.

Etienne's turn came Saturday in the first game of a doubleheader against Redford Union in the summer Connie Mack Baseball League.

With two out in the seventh, Etienne lost his bid for a no-hitter when Redford Union's Bob Utych blooped a triple down the right field line.

RU collected another hit to score it only run of the game but it wasn't enough as the Plymouth Elks scored an easy 7-1 victory.

In a second game slugfest, the Elks held on for an 11-9 win to remain unbeaten (3-0) in league play.

Etienne, who missed a no-hitter for Plymouth Salem during the school season, was razor sharp against RU. He fanned 16 batters and walked five.

The Elks went up 2-0 in the third inning when Woodard singled home shortstop Chris Hannan.

RU's starting pitcher Billy Cody was roughed up for three runs in the Elks' third.

BACK FROM COLLEGE, Doug Holloway drove home Anderson and Etienne with a single. Holloway then scored on Hannan's triple.

The Elks made it 6-0 in the sixth inning when Etienne scored on an infield error. Paul Dillon drove in the final Elks run, singling home Paul Woodard in the seventh inning.

In the second game, winninh pitcher David Runge went all the way for the Elks as he allowed 10 hits. He struck out 10 and walked two.

Redford Union jumped out to a 3-2 lead in the first inning but the Elks held tight with two of their own in the top half of the inning.

Paul Woodard led off with a double and Dillon followed with a walk. Woodard scored on an infield error while Dillon crossed home on Anderson's sacrifice fly.

RU grabbed a 5-4 lead in the second inning. The Elks score two runs in the same inning when Mike Woodard scored on Hannan's suicide squeeze bunt.

In the fifth inning, the Elks erupted for six runs.

With one out, Hannan opened with a single as did Dillon. Hannan scored on Runge's single. Anderson walked to load the bases and Etienne came through with 2 RBI's on a single, scoring Runge and Dillon.

Mike Woodard followed with another single, sending home Anderson and Etienne. Holloway then drove home Mike Woodard with yet another single.

THE ELKS increased their lead to 10-6, tallying a single run in the sixth inning.

In the seventh inning, the Elks went up 11-6 when Etienne singled home Anderson who had tripled.

With two outs in the bottom of the seventh, RU loaded th bases and collected three more runs, all on a run-down play with two out.

Morrell gains 2nd spot

Morrell Builders, a member of the Plymouth Recreation Modified Softball League, captured second place last weekend in the Pop Cocco Invitational Tournament at Port Huron.

Morrell won five of seven games in the double elimination tourney which featured some of the top teams in the nation.

In the final, Morrell faced Cubana Association Clinica of Miami, Fla., losing 13-3. Clinica, comprised mainly of Cuban and Latin American players, was the 1977 National Modified Champions and the 1978 runners-up.

During the first day of play, Morrell started with victories over Atwater Engineering of Saginaw (12-2), and Platzer's of Port Huron twice (5-4 and 4-3).

Tom and Jerry's Party Shoppe of Port Huron handed Morrell its first loss of the tourney, 6-5, despite homers by Brent Boegler and Dan Pierce.

On Sunday, Morrell came from behind to defeat Corsi's Lounge, also a member of the Plymouth League, 6-1, behind the one-hit pitching of Al White.

Rightfielder Charlie Johnson blasted a three-run homer to put the game out of reach.

In the semifinals, Morrell got revenge against Tom and Jerry's, copping a 7-4 win. Johnson had three hits and Boegler homered to spark the winners.

WHITE WAS VOTED the best pitcher in the tourney. Among the top hitters for Morrell were Dan Pierce (.500), Pete Lomonoco (.400), Johnson (.391), Steve Karas (.389) and Rob Willette (.375).

Other team members contributing to the second place finish included Mark Crawford, Mark Falvo, Randy Shoemaker, Larry Duty and Bob Redling.

Robin Luedtke, Redford Thurston, pitcher. An all-area honoree last year at first base, Luedtke was moved to the mound this spring when the Eagles' pitching corps ran into a rash of injuries.

The senior won eight of her last nine decisions to finish with a record of 9-6. Luedtke struck out 102 and walked 134.

Pam Schipani, Plymouth Canton, catcher. The Chiefs' sparkplug this season, according to coach Max Sommerville, Schipani hit the ball for a .484 average against league foes.

"Pam was excellent defensively and had a good pick-off arm," said Sommerville. "She was a bold, heads-up baserunner."

ROBIN LUEDTKE
Thurston

Mary Szarafinski, Redford St. Agatha, first baseman. The senior, a four-year letterwinner, compiled a .666 batting average this season. Six of Szarafinski's 21 hits went for extra bases.

She knocked in 14 runs and walked 10 times.

Szarafinski was chosen for both the all-A West and the Catholic League teams the past two seasons.

Kim Collamer, Livonia Franklin, infielder. Collamer spearheaded the Patriots in three offensive categories this spring — best batting average, .532, most hits, 25, and most RBIs, 24.

Collamer, a senior, was a three-year varsity performer.

Stephanie Salyer, Livonia Stevenson, infielder. Co-captain of the Spartans, Salyer this year had a batting average of .447 and a fielding average of .906.

One of only two seniors on the varsity squad, Salyer was the team's Most Valuable Player and was also named to the all-Inter-Lakes League team.

The senior started every game since 10th grade. "Stepanie was definitely the difference between a building year and a successful year," said Stevenson coach John Soave.

MICKI McLALIN
Redford Union

Beth Burgess, Livonia Bentley, infielder. Burgess, an all-Observer choice last year, hit at a .424 clip this spring and safely reached base 45 times in 83 at-bats.

Burgess has received all-area laurels in basketball and volleyball as well as softball.

"Beth is an outstanding athlete, probably the best all-around female athlete at Bentley," said Tom Lang, coach of the Bulldogs.

MARY ZIEMBA

Shelly Blanchard, Livonia Churchill, outfielder. A three-year starter and letterwinner, Blanchard this season hit

.500 and drove home 14 runs.

The senior was selected for the all-Western Six team for her work this spring.

Karen Phillips, Livonia Franklin, outfielder. An excellent defensive player, Phillips this year threw out seven runners at first base from right field on what appeared would be singles.

Sue McDowell, Plymouth Salem, outfielder. A junior, McDowell reaped a .563 batting average this season. She slammed five triples and collected 12 RBIs.

The three-year starter also was a stabilizing influence in the field for the Rocks.

LIVONIA ADRAY and Wendy's divided a doubleheader last weekend. Adray triumphed in the first game 11-7, and Wendy's prevailed in the second contest, 3-2.

In the first encounter, Adray collected 13 hits and scored four runs during the second inning, three in the third and four in the fourth. Wendy's, which totaled 11 hits, notched one run in the second inning, three in the fourth and three in the fifth.

Joe Emery knocked in four runs for Adray with a bases-loaded triple and a single. Tom Deacon picked up three RBIs with three singles. Malcolm McLean also singled three times for Adray and Otis Manning singled twice.

McCAMANT doubled home Dave Croskey with the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning in Wendy's 3-2 victory in game two.

Croskey had singled and advanced to scoring position on a single by Pete Arnett.

Dan Dempsey knocked in Wendy's first run with a triple in the opening inning. A bases-loaded walk in the fifth accounted for Wendy's other run.

Steve Popp drove in Adray's first run with a groundout in the first inning. Adray scored its other run on an error in the third.

Tom Zwolan, who relieved Mark Baker in the third inning, was credited with the pitching win. Scott Dawson absorbed the defeat.

KURT HUNTER cracked a two-run homer in the seventh inning to give Redford Adray a 7-5 victory over Westland.

The drive was Hunter's second hit of the game. He also smacked a two-run double. Bob Waite and Tom Harrington added three hits apiece for Adray. Both players also notched one RBI.

Corey Drew was the winning hurler. He struck out nine and walked three in pitching all seven frames.

Adray scored two runs in the first inning, three in the third and two in the seventh, while Westland scored one run in the first, three in the second and one in the sixth.

BOHC offers old European breed

By KATHY PARAVENTI

With more than 500 horses and riders from 16 states and Canada participating in a multitude of events, the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club shows represent a long trot from the home turf for many of the contestants.

But at least six of those participants, two of the human and four of the equine variety, have spanned an ocean in travels leading to the event.

Both the horses and the humans hail from Hamburg, Germany, and will be featured in the show as good-will emissaries for a breed of horse brand new to this country: the German Holsteiner Verband.

Emil-Bernhard Jung, breeder, trainer, and world champion driver, brought a team of four Holsteiners to the Bloomfield Open Hunt for an exhibition of one of the versatile breed's many talents — the function of carriage horse. The carriage is an antique Italian model with ailver trim more than 100 years old, and will be driven by Jung in the main ring as part of the scheduled events.

The association, founded for the purpose of establishing the breed in the United States, has been awarded exclusive right to the Holsteiner name and mark in addition to the sole right to approve horses for breeding purposes and to maintain a breeding register in the United States.

The four horses are the charges of Jung and groom Susanne Kuehn, also from Hamburg. The group has been in the United States since March of 1978, when Locksley was chosen as breeding ground for the first American-born Holsteiners.

Two stallions and 40 mares were imported for the purpose of proliferating the breed, and according to Jung, the first full blooded American Holsteiner foal should be born next spring. The Holsteiner, categorized as a warm-blooded breed, is exceptionally tall, standing an average of 68 inches (17 hands) at the withers.

"It's an event we're all looking forward to immensely," said Jung. He describes the Holsteiner as a "super multi-purpose horse" with outstanding qualities of endurance, stamina, jumping and dressage abilities, friendliness and willingness to perform.

The Holsteiner, he said, owes its durability and health to an exceptional breeding environment — the lush green pastures of Schleswig-Holstein, flanked by the Baltic on one side and the North Sea on the other.

Despite its relative absence on the American horse scene, the breed is popular in Europe. In the Toronto Olympics, the Holsteiner was almost invariably represented among the medal winners in every event.

The breed was established in 1328, when the first Holsteiner, Tobias, was registered. By the beginning of the 14th century, the Holsteiner was the preferred military horse of the knights of the Spanish, Portuguese, Italian, English and German armies.

Jung says his organization has taken on the dual responsibilities of perpetrating the breed, and improving the quality of existing American breeds, such as the Thoroughbred, through the infusion of Holsteiner blood.

"There is a need in America for a horse especially bred for sports purposes," said Jung.

Jacomo has won precinct championships both in dressage events, and the three-day category event which includes dressage, a 20-30 mile marathon, and an obstacle course which corresponds to many American hunting and jumping events.

In a sense, the Bloomfield Hunt Club shows are a promotional assignment for the six German-born visitors. Jung, whose family has been breeding the Holsteiner for generations, hopes to interest the American horse world in the soon-to-appear Holsteiner foals.

If things go as planned, perhaps the 1989 Bloomfield Hunt Club shows will have Holsteiners represented in every category.

After one week of play, Bud Brock fired a round of 46 (based on handicap) to grab the league lead in the Canton Township Recreation Men's Fellows Creek Golf circuit.

Ken Roman, Joe Argonis and Stan Socha all are tied for second place with 16 points each.

Jim Thomas and Roman posted the best scores of the week, each carding a 44. Argonis fired a 46 for nine holes of play.

In the third week of Senior Citizens Golf League play, Bill Begg turned in the best round of the year by firing a 41.

He remained all alone in first place with 15 points, picking up five points.

Gary Aleman took over second place as he gained four points. He is two points behind Begg.

Louie Seromik now stands in third place with 12 points. Four other golfers hold down fourth place with nine points.

In the Fox Hills Golf League, Bill Lindley and Bruce Watt took 4½ points from Art Lawrence and Bob Koesel, increasing their first-place margin to four after play last week.

Charlie Sheets and Merph Eminger dropped 4½ points to the Koers brothers, falling to third place.

Cosmos secure soccer crown

The Plymouth Cosmos took the 12-and-under championship in the Western Suburban Soccer League by edging the Farmington Flyers, 3-2, Sunday afternoon.

The Cosmos are the first team from Plymouth to secure a championship in the Western Suburban Soccer League.

Farmington was a member of the same division as the Cosmos. The Plymouth squad was one of 52 teams in the 12-and-under division.

Huge crowd invades Wabeek

Rogers' 70 good enough for PAL tourney victory

By BOB GROSS

A crowd of approximately 13,000 people watched Bill Rogers fire a one-under-par 70 to win the seventh annual J.P. McCarthy P.A.L. Invitational.

Rogers, who played in the morning rounds and had to sit in the clubhouse and watch the other professionals shoot at his 70, was tied by Tom Purtzer. Rogers was awarded the $5,000 first prize money on the basis of his having made an eagle on the first hole.

Purtzer recieved $3,000 for his efforts.

SIX PROS were clustered right behind Rogers and Purtzer at 71. Johnny Miller, Randy Erskine, Mac McLendon, D.A. Weibring, Babe Hiskey and John Schroeder split the $1,700 third-place prize money.

The professionals were competing for a total prize money package of $15,000, all of it donated by industry. Rogers' team, consisting of Bud Allen, Harold Warren, Ron Schmeiding, and Channel 7 sportscaster Larry Adderly tied with Jerry Heard's team of Joe Colucci, Ben Bidwell, William Curran, and William Kelley Jr. in the best-ball competition. Rogers' team was declared the winner, again on the basis of his eagle on the first hole.

THE CROWD of 13,000 exceeded last year's gallery of over 12,000 people. The size of the crowd lived up to the tournament committee's anticipated 13,000.

The people who attended seemed to be enjoying themselves. At times it seemed that they were not there to watch a golf tournament, but to soak up some sunshine. Shorts were the order of the day for most spectators, although a few three-piece suits were in evidence.

The gallery had its share of wits. When disc jockery and tournament sponsor J.P. McCarthy addressed his ball for his second shot on the first hole, someone in the crowd yelled out, "Fore on the hill! J.P.'s about to drive!"

AND WHEN ex-Detroit Tiger Bill Freehan left a putt from the fringe short on the 18th hole, another comedian suggested that perhaps Freehan would be more comfortable with a baseball.

Freehan, and his group, was also the victim of a "Canada goose traffic jam" on the 18 fairway. A family of the geese from the lake bordering the fairway took its own sweet time about crossing in front of him.

POST SHOT a 76 for the tournament, five over par.

The event raised approximately $102,000 for the Police Athletic League, a year-round recreation program for disadvantagedchildren in the Detroit metropolitan area. P.A.L. is staffed by police personell and community volunteers.

P.A.L.'s executive director is ex-Detroit Lion Dick "Night Train" Lane.

Hunt Club bolsters Olympic fund

By DICK FOSTER

When it comes to the 1980 Moscow Olympics the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club isn't just horsing around.

The club, founded 63 years ago, is hosting the 1979 Detroit Dressage, Motor City and Detroit horse shows.

Club director Jim Bellissimo said, "We started working on our fund-raising back in Febuary, beginning with a dinner that included a speaker from the U.S. Olympic Committee."

Since the dinner in Febuary the club has also put together a millionaires night fund-raiser, which according to Bellissimo, brought in $5,000.

"The money generated from these events goes into a general fund for riders making it to the Olympics," he said.

Bellissimo said for this year's shows, the club has promoted $500 box seats.

"We got out and pushed the boxes, because we feel the Olympics are extremely important to all of us," he said.

A total of 18 boxes were sold, which will bring in $9,000 he said.

"Last year we put up the boxes as a sort of social thing, but this year we were dead serious about calling people up and getting a commitment from them," he said.

Besides the boxes Bellissimo said others have donated private contributions as well in order to help promote the equestrian team which competes in the Three Day Event, Grand Prix Jumping and Grand Prix Dressage categories.

Although the U.S. Equestrian Team keeps on doing better and better in Olympic competition, Bellissimo thinks the government doesn't really give the Olympics the support it needs.

"Foreign governments give their Olympic atheletes a lot more support and backing than ours does. In Germany so much money comes from the government and the rest comes from private donations," he said.

Bellissimo said selling of the boxes for the show is the club's last fund-raiser this year.

"We've put a lot of work into this and are really glad it has turned out so well. It's been a great way to finish up our fund-raising efforts," he said.

Massey outlasts slow-pitch field

Fighting off elimination, Plymouth Massey Cadillac came back to capture the 24-team Plymouth-Canton Parks and Recreation Slow Pitch Softball Tourney held last weekend at three different sites.

Led by the hitting of tourney Most Valuable Player, Bob Green, and Bob Pickney, Massey came out of the loser's bracket to defeat Finlan-Harlow twice in the Sunday afternoon finals.

Earlier in the day, Finlan-Harlow put Massey into the loser's bracket with a 10-8 victory.

McMurray opened the tourney with a 17-1 win over H.A.F. Industries.

The tourney champs, who received trophies for their effort, then drubbed M.B.M to stay in the winner's bracket.

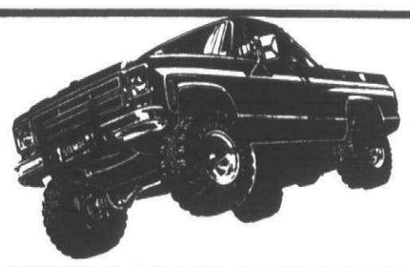

"Overall, everything went well," said Paul Cincock of the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department.

"We had some surprises in this year's tournament," he said.

Little Caesars blasts Thurston

By SCOTT ADLER

The Plymouth Canton Little Caesars baseball team ran their Thurston counterparts off the field Saturday in a Connie Mack League doubleheader, winning the first game 17-0 in just two innings (the game was called because of the mercy rule) and the second in five innings, 12-1.

It was a tremendous offensive exhibition by the Canton ball club as they collected a total of 24 hits in the two games, 13 in the opener and 11 in the second game.

In the second inning of the first game with Caesars leading 2-0, John Matthews led off the inning with a single as 18 batters came to the plate that inning, 16 reaching base, 12 of those on hits.

Matthews, Guy Kananen, Dave Weise and Dave Meador had two hits each in the second inning. Steve Gray had a hit in the first as well as the second inning.

Southpaw Pat McNamara gave up two hits for the victory.

In the second game, Brian James, a first team All-Stater headed for Michigan State, fired a two hitter, striking out eight in four innings on the mound. Kananen gave up Thurston's only run in the fifth inning.

The Caesars scored five more runs in the first, three in the third and four in the fourth inning before the game was called in the fifth on account of the mercy rule.

Both Rusty Mandle and Dave Weise had two hits each for Canton.

"We finally started to hit like we can," said an elated coach John Gravlin. "Needless to say, I'm delighted.

"It was important for us to get our pitchers back in the groove, even more so than the hitters. 'B. J.' (Brian James) got warmed up for the all-star game and McNamara hasn't pitched in a game situation for over a month."

Livonia Griffin wins Adray doubleheader

GRIFFIN SPORT SHOP thwarted Westland last weekend in both ends of a Livonia Adray League baseball doubleheader.

Griffin won the first game, 6-3, with a three-run rally in the seventh inning. Griffin prevailed in the second contest, 11-5.

Chris Clegg started the fireworks in the seventh inning of the first game with a double to left field. He moved to third base when Scott Gorman was safe on an error. Clegg crossed the plate and Gorman scampered to third base on a single by Dennis Rusiewski.

Tim Schearer beat out a ground ball for an infield single, scoring Gorman. Ken Scarpace singled to load the bases and Rusiewski scored on a sacrifice fly by Jim Ross.

Doug Smith, who relieved Ross in the sixth inning, gained the pitching victory. Jay Hanson, who went the distance on the mound for Westland, took the defeat.

GRIFFIN used a 12-hit attack to win the second game, 11-5. The game was stopped after six innings due to a time limit.

Jeff Maher slammed a home run and a triple for the victors in that contest. Scarpace knocked in three runs with a home run and a single, Rusiewski picked up a pair of RBIs with two doubles, Ross doubled and singled and Schearer singled twice.

Mike Talovich pitched the first five innings and earned the victory. Steve Topalian finished. Jeff Aguzzi, who was replaced by Stan Price in the second inning, sustained the defeat.

EARLIER, Griffin was belted by Livonia Adray, 12-6. Adray clubbed 11 hits during that contest and Griffin committed eight errors.

David Frey, Steve Popp and Mickey Grech all collected two hits for Adray. Scarpace and Ross did the same for Griffin.

Joe Emery, who worked the entire game on the mound for Adray, was the winning hurler. Brent Erickson took the loss.

Recreation golf

Phyllis Wright and Bev Green both picked up five points in the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Women's Golf League after four weeks of play to remain tied for first place.

Wright also gained five points by making up a round she missed back on June 8.

Betty Lowing and Tiiu Himmelberger each scored four points last week to tie for second place.

Mary Moore turned in her best round of the year when she carded a 48. Other low scorers were Green (52), Patsy Keyes (52) and Silvia Dickinson (53).

Green and Wright are tied for the league lead with 19 points each. Lowing and Himmelberger each have 18. Betty McDougall, Moore, Dickinson and Denise Chapman are all deadlocked in third place with 17 apiece.

In the Fox Hills Men's Golf League, Bruce Watt and Bill Lindley swept five points from Dick Kraft and Tony Valenti to increase their first place lead.

Watt and Lindley have combined for 24 points. Mike Ryan and Bob White are behind in second place with 19½ as they took 4½ points from Henry Johnson and Frank McGee.

Al Flower carded the best round last week with a 38 followed by Dick Kraft and White, both whom carded 40's.

Doug Funke writes:

Prep leagues need realignment

POINTS

School is out. The last score of the 1978-79 high-school athletic season has been reported. State championships have been decided in a host of boys' and girls' sports.

This fall, everyone will start anew with 0-0 records.

However, sports can no longer be considered in a vacuum. There is more to look at than summary results and standings.

Finance becomes important in times of inflation and budget crises. Which sports, if any, will continue to be offered? The energy situation is difficult to guage. How will that affect transportation of teams and their followers?

Another trend is developing, too. Surprisingly, it has psychological and ethical implications. Can schools with declining enrollments fairly compete with others which have a larger pool of students from which to field teams?

All of these ramifications point to one over-riding question — do we need a realignment of high school leagues?

The last area school to make a switch was Redford Union. This year, the Panthers switched from the Suburban Eight League to the Northwest Suburban in every sport except football. The transfer will be completed this fall.

Howard Kraft, formerly athletic director at RU and now retired, orchestrated the move. The big reason for the switch, according to Kraft, was travel time and transportation costs.

Kraft thought that driving from Redford to such places as Trenton, Allen Park and Belleville was a bit far. Fortunately, the Northwest Suburban League consisted of only five schools at the time. It was convenient, for scheduling purposes, for RU to climb aboard.

Now, the farthest RU has to go for an away game is North Farmington. The other NSL schools are Livonia Franklin, Garden City East, Westland John Glenn and Redford Thurston.

The move proved beneficial to RU, but the Suburban Eight League has never been able to find a replacement.

Livonia Stevenson belongs to the Inter-Lakes League with Farmington High, Pontiac Northern, Milford Lakeland, Waterford and Walled Lake Central.

Except for Farmington, the other schools are quite a distance away.

Upsets mark Sibley's net tourney

Upsets were the name of the game at the seventh annual Sibley's Shoes Tennis Tournament last weekend at the Detroit Squash and Tennis Club in Farmington Hills.

By the time final play began in the four men's and one women's singles divisions, many of the top seeds were gone. And others didn't make it past that final round.

In the men's open division, top seeded Maurice Hunter, a former Detroiter now living in Hollywood, Cal., was unable to handle Jerry Karzen of Glencoe, Ill. The match took three sets, but Karzen won the top prize of $750 by whipping Hunter, 7-6 (5-0 in the tiebreaker), 0-6, 6-3.

In the women's open division, Judi Stiff of Royal Oak defeated Laura Tatt of Oak Park, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. Stiff was rated 14th in women's singles by the Southeastern Michigan Tennis Association and Tatt was sixth.

In two of the three remaining divisions, the top seeds did manage to capture the first place finish. But several of the other seeded players were long gone by the time the finals got under way.

In the Men's 35 Division, top-seeded Joe Bachmann of Columbus, O., was an easy victor over George Smillie of Ann Arbor, 6-0, 6-2. Bachmann was absent from last year's tourney, but was a winner in the division in the three previous years.

IN THE MEN'S 45 Division, Leonard Brose of Southfield successfully defended his title and his top seeding with a 6-4, 4-6, 6-3 win over Jim Zeron of Windsor.

And in the Men's 55 Division, Jim Tobin downed Bill Maul of Detroit, 6-4, 6-1.

It was a tough tournament for some of the old favorites who had done so well here in the past. Chuck Brainard won the Open Division in 1977 and was a finalist in 1978. But this time out, the Bay Valley resident was a first-round loser Brainard fell to Mike Rose of Grosse Ile, 2-6, 7-6 (5-3 in the tiebreaker), 6-4.

Rose, in turn, was a quarterfinal loser to Hunter.

Second-seeded Graham Snook, who won the Men's Open title last year, also was dumped in the first round, as Mike Ware topped him by 7-6, 5-7, 6-3 scores.

Two Southfield residents were semifinal losers to Hunter and Karzen in the Men's Open Division. Mark Pinchoff, a West Bloomfield High School graduate and a candidate for the National Junior Davis Cup team, lost to Karzen, 6-2, 6-1.

Brain Marcus, who heads the Tennis Academy in Oak Park, was beaten by Hunter in the semis, 5-7, 6-4, 6-1.

Chuck Karabell, the tournament director and a finalist in the Men's 45 Division last year, was beaten in the quarterfinals this time by John Sahratian of West Bloomfield, 7-6 (5-0 in the tiebreaker), 7-5.

The top seed in the Men's 55 Division, Bill Mitchell of Birmingham, couldn't make it past the semifinals, as he fell to Maul by 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 scores. Mitchell was the defending champion.

Mircea Morariau of Birmingham was the defending champ in the Men's 35, but he was beaten in the quarterfinals by Lee Townsel of Columbus, Ohio, 7-5, 6-4.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

by ELLIE GRAHAM

The news does get around.

Not long after Eddie Edgar wrote a story about Charles Langell building a model of the steamer Tashmoo, Charlie received a phone call from Norman Vincent Peale in New York.

"He called about 6:30 one evening and talked for a long time," said Charlie. "He was very interested in my ship building and wanted to use the story as an example of how senior citizens put their spare time to good use."

It's hard to believe Norman Vincent Peale is a regular reader of the Observer. Perhaps someone sent him a copy of the story. He probably does have access to a clipping service.

Anyway, Charlie was surprized and pleased. So were we.

One of his more recent projects has been refurbishing a ships model made of bone. He doesn't like working on another person's handiwork. But he did consent to make an exception.

He asked a Garden City butcher to save bones for him. After soaking them in bleach, he set about recreating the art of sailors who spent months at sea on windjammers — whittling and carving whale bones. The model sailing vessels they created have become rare collectors items.

HERE'S AN energy-saving suggestion from one of our long-time residents who never did take down her clothesline:

"Is it back to the drawing board to build a better clothes drying apparatus for out-of-doors to take advantage of the sun's rays?

"With all the hue and cry about energy saving, I have yet to see anything about giving the dryer a rest for the summer and reverting to what some would call the 'old-fashioned way' of drying your clothes.

"Besides the kilowatts and natural gas saved, you would be amazed at the tan you can get while saving money on the bills, not to mention the delightful fresh scent. Did you ever sleep in a bed with sheets just off the clothes line? Remember!

"The wind blows out the wrinkles and you don't even have to run up your Edison bill using the iron for a touch up. This is especially true when garments are hung on hangers.

"Maybe the the sale of packaged fresheners might go down a little, but as the saying goes, 'You can't fool Mother Nature.' "

CONGRATULATIONS to Skip Whittaker who collected $450 for the American Diabetes Association in the recent bikeathon in Hines Park. Skip rode 41 miles and came in third place overall for the amount of pledges collected for his participation.

ST. JOSEPH Mercy Hospital recently honored its volunteer workers at an awards banquet.

Plymouth-Canton residents honored at the banquet were Virginia Breneman, Carolyn Jacobs, Nancy Kauffman, Elise Murphy, Mary Peterson and Mary Woods. Each put in 100 hours of service. Ed and Rose Brown also received jewelry pieces for 200 hours of service.

SUMMER SOJOURN, a photographic exhibition, opens Monday on North Campus Commons in Ann Arbor. It will be on display from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday from June 25 to July 13.

The works of two Plymouth artists, Pam Weymeyer and John Schultz, will be included in the exhibit.

John Schultz blends outstanding color harmonies in prints including a New York City ballet dancer, wind-blown grass, and swept snow. Brilliant contrasts of colorful fabric against the sky are struck in his view of a hang glider in mid-air. A study of Michigan barns is a specialty he brings to the show.

Pam Wehmeyer, a fine arts graduate of Alma College, derives much of her imagery from the colorful streets of London, England. Many of her photographs are printed in the Cliesch-Verre photographic process. Her photographs are about subtilties in color and graphic dimensions in space.

His pictures of light-hearted people and portraits of Roberta Flack in concert will be shown. Slye's recent trip to Cozumel Island, Mexico, were the source of his prints of natural underwater and terrestial beauty.

The North Campus Commons is at 2101, Bonisteel Boulevard, Ann Arbor.

NATURALISTS Bill and Evelyn Edgar share their knowledge and pictures of the outdoors with students in the Plymouth Canton Community Schools. Working with the Plymouth Community Arts Council and the schools, the Edgars visit classrooms and conduct tours of Miller Woods.

Since their first program last fall, they have talked to 1,717 students. One of their specialties is the presentation arranged for the sixth graders before they go to camp.

DAR members picnic

Hulsings visit Republic of China

By W.W. EDGAR

Canton Observer
Suburban Life
Thursday, June 21, 1979 (C)1C

Ever since the United States renewed diplomatic relations with the Republic of China, the question on most Americans' lips is, What is life like now in communist country?

As a result China has become a mecca for tourists and you can take the word of Esther Hulsing, Plymouth Township Clerk, that a trip over there would be interesting but hardly exciting.

Mrs. Hulsing, former president of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, and her husband, Kenneth, a retired GM official, have just returned from a three-week tour, and they had some unusual experiences.

"Personally, I think it is the poorest nation in the world — that is the people are the poorest," said Mrs. Hulsing. "It is difficult to distinguish the poor from the so-called middle class."

Mrs. Hulsing said the reason for this is that the workers are paid very little. Peasants make about $25 American a month and the middle class about $50 a month, she said.

Mrs. Hulsing said she and her husband did not go to China to compare it with the United States but just to see, first-hand, the country and the people.

ONE OF THE first things which surprised her was to learn that it is against the law to own a car or your own home and that you are limited to the use of bicycles.

Looking around her office in the township hall, she said that they visited a family of four and they lived in quarters no larger than her office. But they seemed happy.

As for scenery and the general layout of the country, she said it was much like the Hawaiian Islands — except that the people and their dress and customs were different.

Being interested in schools most of her life, Mrs. Hulsing was eager to compare the education system. She was surprised with what she found.

The schools over there are small, she said, but the big surprise came when she discovered that they all had concrete floors and whitewashed walls and ceilings.

ANOTHER THING that facinated her were the actions of the children in the classrooms.

When they are not asked to participate in a lesson, they sit with their hands behind their backs. She admitted that she never had seen anything like it before.

As for the cities they visited, she said both Peking and Shanghai were delightful. They are large and crowded but nice, she said. As far as Hong Kong was concerned, they found it just too crowded.

While they were there they lived on Chinese food and said it was great.

During their trip they also flew to Toyko, and Mrs. Hulsing's comment: "I think it is the most expensive place in the world."

Worried because your youngsters play near someone's pool but don't know how to swim?

Parents in Plymouth and Canton Township have discovered the answer to this problem through a program instituted by the Livonia Family Y.

The solution is using back yard pools as a teaching facility for neighborhood youngsters. Aquatic coordinator of the program is Lyn Ruttenberg of Plymouth Township.

"We have 15 home pools in Canton now and the summer is still young," said Mrs. Ruttenberg. "Each day, when the mail comes in, there are offers of more pools."

SWIMMING LESSONS are offered to youngsters three years of age and older, through the early elementary ages, in privately owned pools in Plymouth, Livonia, Canton and Northville.

Last year 600 children enrolled in the program to learn swimming strokes in 40 different neighborhood pools.

Persons who own a pool and would like to offer it to the program for an hour a day on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, can call the Family Y, 261-2161. The program starts June 26 and continues through Aug. 16.

The children of pool owners will get free lessons. Others will pay $15 for six lessons, three a week, for two-week segments. Segments start June 26, July 10, July 24, and Aug. 7.

St. Edith develops new center

A high school student doing a class project can walk into the St. Edith Catholic Church in Livonia, make his way to its new resource and information center and start looking for facts among a wide range of educational material.

The same is true of a senior citizen looking for materials on health services or an adult education director hunting for new ideas for future programs.

All can examine the subject file to find out what resources are available in the new center. A service file in the form of a Rolodex card catalog will offer them the latest information on a wide range of civic, social, education, volunteer, recreational, governmental and religious agencies and groups.

If the senior citizen wants a specific phone number in his search for facts on health, he may find it in this file which is arranged by the name of the agency and the category, such as Consumer-Citizen Services.

A library is the third aspect of the center. It includes books which meet needs expressed by members of the church. These might be about death and dying, retirement, alcoholism and single parents.

One man at a meeting of a Christian Family Movement group observed that it was hard for a widower to cope because there was little available to help him. However, a check at the center produced a book to meet his needs, "Suddenly Single: A Survival Kit for the Single Man."

Jeanette Bickham, who chaired the group organizing the center, said the aim was not to duplicate other services in the community, but "to bring the resources to where the people gather."

The idea of the center was suggested

Day care center has storybook setting

The old Bennett carriage house at 104 N. Main has been undergoing some rigorous remodeling and decorating during the past few months. A new stairway has been installed from the second floor to ground levels. The garage doors have been replaced by casement windows.

Perimeter heating units have been added in what are now two downstairs classrooms. A white picket fence separates a play and garden area from the rest of the property.

Pam Armstrong, director of the new Hugs & Kisses Child Care Nursing Center, hopes everything will be ready for next Monday's open house. Parents and children are invited to visit the vine-covered building between 10:30 a.m. and 8 p.m. Monday, June 25.

"I'm really getting excited about the whole thing," said Ms. Armstrong. "The response has been terrific, and we hope to open the center by the beginning of July."

THE CHILD CARE Learning Center will have programs and activities for children from 2½ to 9 years of age. Full-time, part-time, evening and drop-in programs will be available.

It may be open 24 hours a day, starting Mondays at 7 a.m. through Saturdays at 4 p.m. The 24-hour schedule will depend on the response and needs of the community, said Ms. Armstrong.

The director majored in speech and theater at Wayne State University. She minored in child psychology. She has had experience in working with children in television acting.

"The number one qualification for our staff is that they genuinely love children," she said. "They respect them as little people, not as little kids. This refers to everyone from the director and teachers to the lady who prespares the hot, wholesome meals and the nutritious snacks."

The carriage house was part of the Charles Bennett estate. Built to accommodate four automobiles, the brick building also has a large game room, kitchen, pantry and bathroom on the second level. Open bookcases provide ideal storage spaces for toys, books and games. Closets already are stacked with light aluminum and web cots for sleeping or napping children.

The fireplace has been left intact. The billiard tables are gone from the room that was a retreat and meeting place for Plymouth's leading businessmen and politicos. Sandbox, playhouse, and bright paintings will replace the somber color scheme reminiscent of a staid men's club.

"SMALL CHILDREN have a marvelous capacity for learning, exploring and inquiring that leads from one exciting discovery to another," said Ms. Armstrong. "Some parents have been disappointed that we do not promise to teach preschoolers to read. We will not force children into new learning experiences. But as we state in our brochure: We will give them all the love, nourishment and opportunity so that they develop and grow at their own pace."

Swing sets, teeter-totters, and tires have been installed in the play area of the yard. There will picnic tables under the shade trees and pet rabbits in a hutch.

There also will be a children's garden, which will require their loving care.

"The children will look after the animals inside and outside the building," said the director. "There will be art, music, song, science, puppetry, dance, drama, large and small muscle development and, most important, self-directed dramatic play."

After a long search for a suitable site for the center, in and around the Plymouth community, Pam Armstrong says she finally found a storybook setting in the old Bennett estate.

Herter-Hanson

Cheryl Ann Hanson and Patrick Christopher Herter exchanged wedding vows June 9 in the Free Methodist Church in Palmer, Alaska. Pastor David Downie officiated. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford A. Hanson of Palmer. Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Herter of Auburn Street, Plymouth, are the bridegroom's parents.

The bride's sister, Dianna Gerondale of Big Lake, Alaska, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kay Hanson, Debbie Parks and Robin Baker with Vanessa Richards as flower girl. All live in Anchorage.

Michael Herter, brother of the bridegroom and a resident of Anchorage, was best man. Groomsmen were Darwin Hanson, Bob Gerondale and Mike Johnson. The wedding reception was at Otter Lake Lodge, Ft. Richardson.

The bride graduated from East Anchorage High School and the bridegroom is a 1971 graduate of Plymouth High School. Both are employed by Wier Air Alaska. They are living in Anchorage.

New Voices

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Scarpello of Plymouth Township and Mr. and Mrs. George Sharpe of Dearborn Heights.

St. Edith

by Fr. Jerome Fraser, who recently left his post as former associate pastor. The president of St. Edith Parish Council, Rose Marie Barnas, pointed out the parish is trying to provide a balanced program to reach as many as possible. The new center is one of the links in the program.

Staffing the center are volunteers recruited during commitment Sunday. Directing the facility is Jeannette Bickham, who trains people for various kinds of services, including typing, preparing books and showing people how to use the subject and service files.

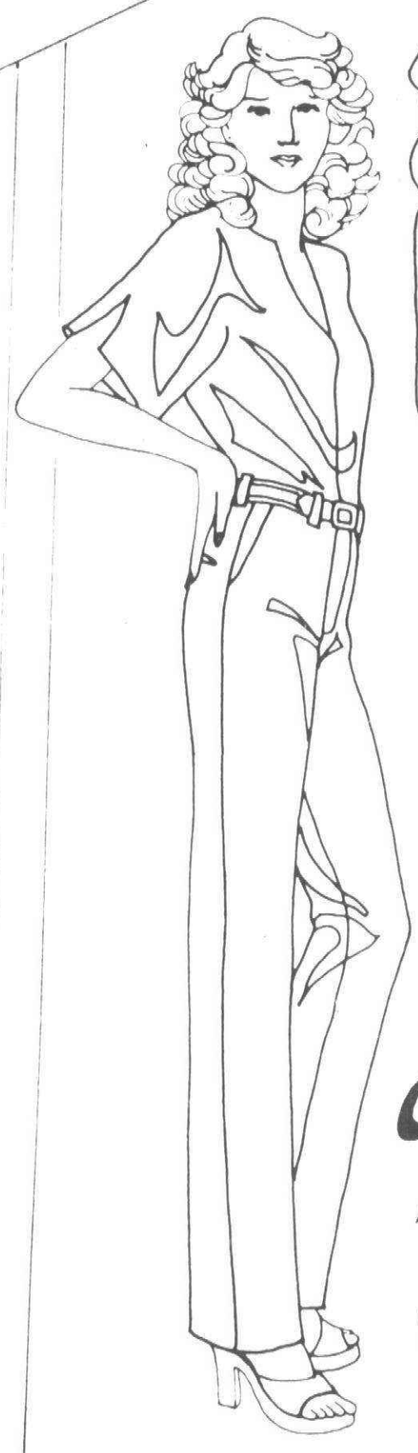

"Our resource and information center is another way for us to recognize the diversity of needs and our responsibility to meet those needs as a serving community," said Fr. John VanAntwerp, pastor of St. Edith.

Quilt makers

Women at St. John's Episcopal Church, Plymouth, are looking ahead to their December bazaar. Their patchwork quilt was completed at a recent workshop. Earthtone polyester patches were used and it was tied with brown yarn. Showing off their handiwork (above, from left) were Carolyn Jacobs, Judi Thomas, Jo Wilson, Nancy Robinson, Mary Gaffney, Mary Bedford, Judy Ewing and Nita Tighe. Others who assisted were Wanda Nash, Judy Lally, Carolyn Notestine, Peg Donovan and Helen Merril. The quilting frames belonged to Judy Thomas' grandmother and are more than 100 years old. Growth Works (slowly) gets its new look

"We had a late start," said Dale Yagiela, director of Growth Works, "but things are beginning move."

He refers to the renovation going on at the old Plymouth Mail building on Main Street, now the center for Growth Works, an organization serving the residents of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton and Northville.

The center was awarded a grant of $48,000 almost two years ago from Wayne County Community Development revenue sharing funds. The City of Plymouth made the proposal for the funds with the backing of Plymouth and Canton Townships.

The main cause for the delay in starting the project was the inability to stay within the budgeted amount. The job was rebid three times and each time it was over budget, according to Yagiela.

LOCAL ARCHITECT Tiv Balogh came up with the design for the renovation. Original plans called for an all-wood front. But these were revised for safety and money-saving reasons.

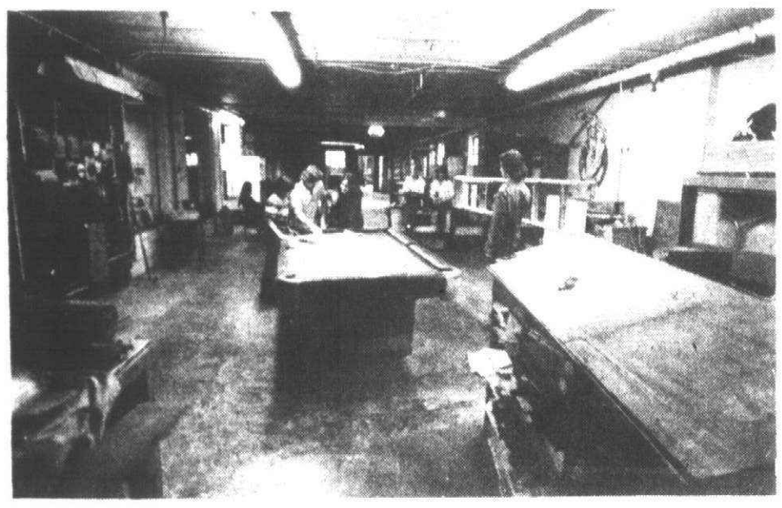

When the old front of the building was stripped down, they discovered two or three remodeling efforts underneath. A complete coverup was necessary.

Most of the work is being done by a group of teenagers, 16-19 years of age who work for $2.90 an hour. While school was in session, they were on the job 20 hours a week. Now that school is out they will devote 40 hours a week to the project.

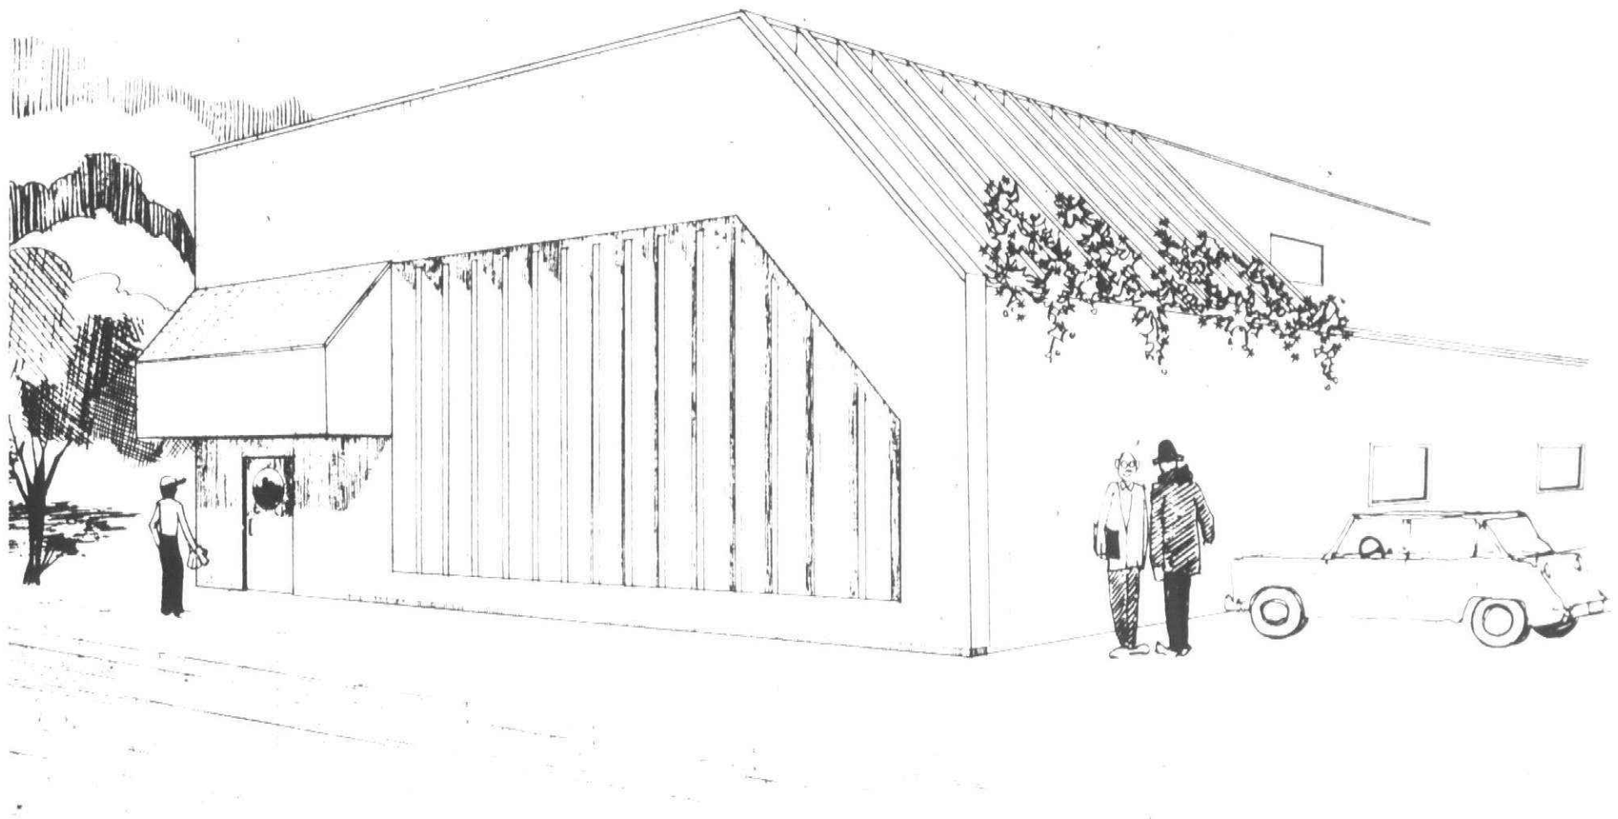

The young men and women work under the direction of Jim Grimmer, Sherry Frank and Paul Chamberlain of Growth Works.

Mid-Con Construction of Dearborn Heights is doing the major technical construction, but the 29 teenagers are responsible for installing the new insulation, the joists, the wall board walls and the final sanding and painting on the interior. They also are doing the exterior paint job.

"It would have been impossible without our YCCIP (Youth Community Conservation Interest Program) people," said Yagiela.

GEM WISE
THE MAGIC OF JEWELRY (Part I)
ORIN J. MAZZONI, Jr.
Certified Gemologist
The role of jewelry in human civilization has gradually evolved over the centuries.
There is evidence that man wore jewelry as early as 25,000 B.C. Of course, this might only have been a string of shells or bones. At that time, it was not only a question of adornment. Man believed that he could ward off the dangers that threatened his life and happiness by wearing a trinket of some kind, and this idea was carried on and developed through the Middle Ages.
Amethyst, a rich purple gemstone, became associated with wine and as such developed the reputation of being a protection against intoxication. The word "amethyst" comes from the Greek "amethustos" which means "not drunk."
The beautiful green emerald was thought to strengthen one's memory and quicken the intelligence. Women considered it a protection against ills, particularly those connected with childbirth. It was also believed to make one more economical, therefore leading one on the road to wealth.
Asiatic peoples, and even Southwest American Indians, used red garnets as bullets, believing that their rich, glowing color would cause more deadly wounds. Powdered red garnet was once used as a cure for fever; yellow garnet was used to treat jaundice. If the powders failed, the apothecary was accused of using a substitute.
In my next article, I'll cover another aspect of jewelry's magic: its role as a status symbol.

Schoolcraft offers help to displaced homemakers

The value of the homemaker's job has been estimated at as high a yearly rate as $18,000. But high and dry is more the case when this homemaker, through divorce or the death of her husband, suddenly finds she must support herself with the aid of only minimal job skills.

To help these displaced homemakers solve some of their problems, Schoolcraft College offers them a variety of programs. These include counseling, classes and help in job seeking if they are students.

It also sponsors workshops such as the recent Displaced Homemakers Day, which had as its featured speaker Ruth Fossedal, director of the women's development Center at Waukesha County Technical Institute of Pewaukee, Wis.

Homemakers can opt for different kinds of counseling. For the woman who is in immediate need of a job and requires special assistance, Shirley Emerson, Schoolcraft counselor, holds small group counseling sessions one day a week at the center. An appointment is needed.

A FREE COUNSELING session with a peer counselor may be sceduled at the college's Women's Resource Center to help a woman identify her needs and explore her feelings and options. No appointment is necessary. Peer counselors have at their command a large reference catalog of resources and community services.

Limited professional counseling is available by appointment.

Summer counseling hours are now in effect. They are from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

A new college re-entry program in three sessions is planned for August. A modest program for funding part-time students may soon be available at the college through WRC.

If a displaced homemaker has been or is now a student at the college, she can find help in job seeking at the placement center headed by Ronald Monfette.

The center's reference library offers a large selection of self help books and free handouts focusing on women's special needs.

COUNSELING, BOTH peer and individual was one of the points raised by Ms. Fossedal in her workshop talk on the displaced homemaker. She felt such counseling should also include assertiveness training, decision making and working with support groups.

The displaced woman is frequently dependent financially and emotionally, she pointed out, because she is unsually ineligible for welfare, Social Security, unemployment benefits or health or retirement benefits.

According to Ms. Fossedal, this homemaker often finds that the barriers of age and sex discrimination, or racism, make her task of finding employment even more difficult. Many of them think they have little to offer an employer, and feel helpless and uprooted when forced by economic necessity to give up their homemaking to find paid employment.

A number of other points raised by the speaker to meet the needs of these women are already in place at Schoolcraft. Ms. Fossedal spoke of the necessity of hands-on education, assistance in math, science and technical fields plus encouragement to counter feelings of helplessness and hopelessness.

THROUGH ITS New Horizon program, the college offers a four-session program to help the displaced homemaker gain new insight into herself and the confidence necessary to go on to more specific programs.

From this first step, the women might try a human potential seminar or the self-directed career seminar. Also available are such courses as eliminating math anxiety, assertiveness training, eliminating self-defeating behaviors and stress management.

Job skills classes such as medical office management and business typewriting refresher can help a woman find immediate employment while she is reorganizing her life.

A new course, to be offered this fall in cooperation with Upjohn Health Care Services, trains individuals interested in learning how to provide quality health care service under professional supervision.

The home health aide certificate program earns 2.5 institutional credits.

OTHER NEEDS PRESENTED by Ms. Fossedal included training in legal rights and strategies, consumer education in budgeting, insurance planning and credit. Health education must not be overlooked, she said, because women often begin to neglect good nutrition once their families leave home, and little cooking is required.

Displaced women also need access to apprenticeships and other non-traditional career training. They also often require some kind of financial aid.

Above all they need credit for their life experience. Ms. Fossedal said that people must be made aware of the valuable experience a displaced homemaker has acquired over the years.

Summer camp offered

Methodist Children's Home Society is offering a special 13-day summer camp program, July 24 to Aug. 5 for emotionally impaired and learning disabled boys and girls ages 8-14. The site is at Camp Knight of the Pines on Douglas Lake in northern Michigan.

Many youngsters who are enrolled in special education classes in public school miss the fun of a "sleep away" camp due to learning disabilities or emotional impairment.

Because Methodist Children's Home Society believes that almost every child can benefit from a summer camp experience, the agency's Camp Knight of the Pines has developed a camping program which combines special education assistance with a wide variety of outdoor activity.

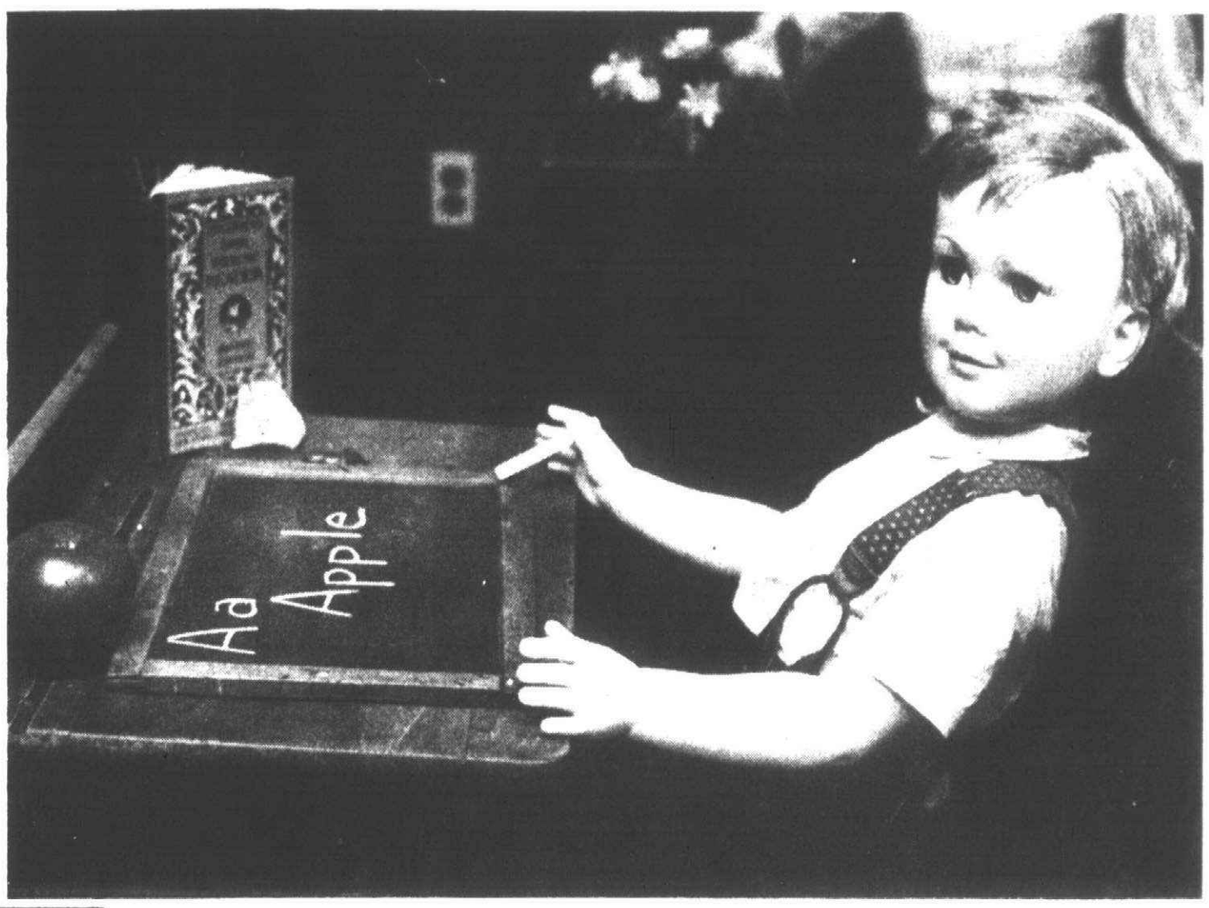

Purpose of the camp is to provide for the emotionally impaired and learning disabled child an opportunity to increase emotinal, social and academic development along with physical skills in a camping situation designed to meet each camper's individual need.

The program is open to all regardless of race, or creed. Out of state campers are welcome. Enrollment for the session is limited to 40 boys and girls, and tuition is $250 per child.

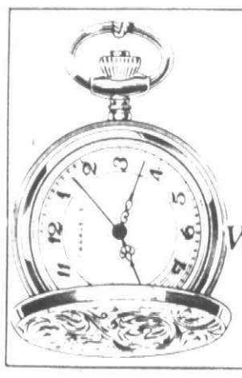

For complete information, parents, guardians or other interested persons should write or call Camp Director, Methodist Children's Home Society, 26645 West Six Mile, Redford Township 48240. Telephone: (313) 531-4060.

Methodist Children's Home Society is a private, not-for-profit child welfare agency serving children with special needs and their families.

At museum

The Plymouth Historical Museum, Main Street at Church, has a new summer exhibit — A Walk in the Park with your Doll. The student in the old-fashioned school, with his McGuffey reader and brightly polished apple is one of the displays in the street of shops. Museum hours are 1-4 p.m. Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays. Group tours can be arranged by calling the museum at 455-8940. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

MICHIGAN BELL CONSUMER TIPS
Michigan Bell
If you have children at home, would they know who to call in case of a fire, accident or sudden illness? Be sure you have listed near your phone the numbers of your doctor, hospital, poison control, police, fire department and other emergency numbers. Show your children how to find those numbers, how to dial them (if they don't already know), how to call the operator; let them know if 911 can be dialed for fire, medical or police help in your area. Write down your home address near these numbers, too, so your children or your baby-sitter can give it to people who need to find your home in a hurry. (But, for safety's sake, you should instruct them not to give your address or other information to strangers on the phone.) Your telephone can be a lifesaving help in an emergency. Teach your children how to use it for their protection and yours.

TEN REASONS FOR A CHRISTIAN EDUCATION AT GALILEAN BAPTIST SCHOOL, 21110 OSMUS, FARMINGTON HILLS, MICHIGAN 48024
REASON #1 — We deal with proven basics— reading, math, English, writing, spelling, etc.
REASON #2 — We treat each student as an individual created by God. Evolution is a poor guess to substitute for God.
REASON #3 — We make the Bible the main subject. True education must know God's message to man.
REASON #4 — We recognize the eternity of every person. Life is more than making a living; it is living forever.
REASON #5 — We follow definite guidelines that work. The mind of a child is too pliable and precious for experimentation.
REASON #6 — We challenge each student to do his best. Mediocrity is an insult to a being created in the image of God.
REASON #7 — We protect against mental rubbish. Curse words in a textbook are no more essential to the mind than eating from a garbage can is essential to the stomach.
REASON #8 — We place character as the number one attainment. No person of poor character is properly educated.
REASON #9 — We emphasize and enforce discipline. Discipline is the responsibility of the parent and school and is necessary to establish individual self-discipline.
REASON #10 — We reaffirm respect and patriotism. Respect for God, parents, country, and high ideals are necessary to self respect.
IF YOU ARE INTERESTED IN YOUR CHILDREN HAVING A QUALITY CHRISTIAN EDUCATION, CALL 477-2585 or 86 (if no answer, call 533-1581).

DETROIT EDISON OFFERS EIGHT IMPORTANT TIPS TO HELP YOU GET THE MOST OUT OF YOUR AIR CONDITIONER THIS SUMMER.
Fortunately, Detroit Edison customers have plenty of electric power available. Now and in the future. It's the result of planning, development and investment and the fact that over 84 percent of Detroit Edison's power is generated from coal, the nation's most abundant fuel. The balance is generated from other fossil fuels.
Even so, none of us should waste energy. So follow these tips and stay cool and comfortable all summer long.

1 Keep your air conditioner on a moderate setting. When leaving home, set the temperature higher.

7 Use heat and humidity-producing appliances — such as your oven, washer and dryer — early in the morning or in the evening.

8 If you're buying a new air conditioner, you'll save electricity if you select one with an energy efficiency rating (EER) of 8 or higher. The EER is figured by dividing the BTUs by the watts.

'Clique that cares'

By TIM RICHARD

If Schoolcraft College's new Student Assembly is a clique, "then it's a clique of persons who care about this college."

Added Patti Funke, one of the seven organizers: "We decided to work at the grass roots. The other student government did things for themselves. That's the reason we got into the millage campaigns."

After being without a student government for a year, Schoolcraft has an organization that will be officially recognized and ready to function in September, according to Edward McNally, vice president for student affairs at the community college.

McNally last year lifted recognition of the old Student Senate after it was unable to elect members, agree on a budget, develop an on-campus program, make appointments to college standing committees and even to meet regularly.

AT THE MOMENT, the Student Assembly is still an ad hoc group of volunteers. The group built up a solid reservoir of good will with the administration and board of trustees by joining the campaigns in the March 26 and June 11 millage campaigns.

"Three of us were deputized as clerks and registered voters on campus," Miss Funke said. "We ran the telephone center. Some nights I had 13 or 14 people there. We postered the campus, distributed flyers and made announcements at all scheduled functions."

Patrick Newman, the college's counselor for student activities, pointed to another reason why the Student Assembly is likely to be more successful than its predecessor.

"It's less complicated," Newman said. "The previous structure was excellent — for political science students to practice political science, one-upmanship and table games. The previous constitution was too time-consuming and sophisticated," he said, citing a cumbersome meeting structure.

Another problem was some Student Senate members were heavily into off-campus political lobbying. The new group, said Secretary Diane Jablonski, wants to "promote enthusiasm for the college."

MISS JABLONSKI listed Student Assembly's main jobs:

- "To recognize campus clubs and organizations and review their constitutions.
- "To serve as a forum for students' concerns.
- "To make recommendations on student participation on standing committees." Among the committees which have student participation are academic probation, alcoholic beverages, disciplinary standards, financial aids, curriculum and instruction, cultural and public affairs, athletic and college council. The college council is a group of faculty, staff, administrators and students — three of each — which meets with President C. Nelson Grote.
- "Review college policies and procedures" in such areas as registration, discipline, graduation requirements and dress code.

NO ONE ELECTED Student Assembly. It was formed last year from interested students pulled together by vice president McNally. Some moved on, some stuck. A couple of members were added by the group's appointment.

"It doesn't look like elections do very well," said Miss Funke, hearkening to October 1977 when nine of Schoolcraft's 8,300 students turned out to elect student senators.

"We interview applicants and pick officers from within the group," said chairperson Ruth Myers.

Campus politics is a hard thing to get students worked up about at a community college. Member Cindy Price noted Schoolcraft's average age is near 30, many students are married, the average class load is 7.4 hours (about half the full-time load), and many have jobs. Two-thirds are in vocational and technical curriculums while campus politics tends to draw liberal arts students.

THE STUDENT Assembly activists are these four women and three men:

Chairperson Ruth Myers, 22, is in liberal arts and will go on to business administration. She professes to be the group's lone Republican. She served on the old senate and has been on the disciplinary standards and academic probation committees.

Secretary Diane Jablonski, 20, is a business major who has served on the student disciplinary standards committee. The administration urges her to keep complete records of the assembly's work during the last year for accreditation review by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Cindy Price, 21, is a former student senator who is majoring in secondary education and psychology.

Patti Funke, 23, is the best known publicly of the group. She is majoring in accounting, plans to attend law school, is gearing up for a 1981 bid for the board of trustees, eyeing future races for the U.S. Senate and Beyond. She managed trustee Nancie Blatt's first place finish in the June 11 election as well as the telephone center and spends so much time at the college that she threatens to bring her sleeping bag and move in.

Ed Fehlman, 24, is photo editor of the Campus Globe, the student newspaper. The lone engineering student in the group, he has served on the student senate, the disciplinary standards committee and the college council.

John Adam, 19, is the recognized philosopher of the group. He plans to major in labor relations. He has served on the alcoholic beverages committee and is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa honors group.

Myron Mavretich, 20, is a business student who plans to go on to Wayne State University. This is his first campus activity. He was appointed recently on the basis of his hard work.

The last qualification is important, because if you ask the Student Assembly members what makes their group different from their predecessors, they will answer in a chorus:

"We work."

Bible schools are ready for kids

Canton Township will become a classroom this summer for at least one man. He is Bill Harris, a first year student at Western Theological Seminary in Holland, Mich. With his wife, Kathy, he will be organizing the vacation Bible school of People's Church of Canton.

Inasmuch as the church meets in Plymouth-Canton High School, the summer program will be held in local backyards. Harris will also be preaching, and taking over the community visitation program. He will be working to apply his classroom learning to a field situation.

Other churches in the area are also soon to gather in children into a summer learning experience. The program at First United Methodist Church of Plymouth, 45201 N. Territorial, will take place throughout the summer on Thursday and Sunday mornings. The Thursday activities will be from 9:30-11 a.m. and will consist of Bible study, outdoor recreation, art, music and occasional nature study.

The Sunday sessions, from 9:30-10:30 a.m. will be held during the worship hour.

The program features the "Auto-Cycle" concept of learning which allows the child to progress at his or her own speed. Discovery bags are used to direct a child to a particular activity. Extensive use of film strips and cassette tapes.

Director of the school is Penny Schaw. For more information call the church at 453-5280.

"Jesus: I'm His, He's Mine" is the theme of the "summer rewards" vacation Bible school at Mt. Hope Congregational Church, 30330 Schoolcraft, Livonia, which will start at 7 p.m. Sunday, June 24 and continue nightly. It will end June 29 with a fair weather cookout.

The same theme is planned for the vacation Bible school at Memorial Church of Christ, 35475 Five Mile, Livonia, to take place June 25-29.

Classes from 9 a.m. until noon will be offered to kindergarten students through ninth graders. They will feature song time, Bible study, visual demonstrations, classroom interaction and craft making.

Cecil Bennett, director of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Institute in Cincinnati, will be the missionary speaker for the week. A closing demonstration program will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 29.. For more information call the church at 464-6722.

The "I Love to Tell the Story" vacation Bible school will be open at Church of the Savior, Reformed Church in America, 38100 Five Mile, Livonia from June 25 through 29. Hours are 9:30-11:45 a.m. The materials of the program include games, puzzles, songs, Bible stories and take-home projects. It is aimed at youngsters entering kindergarten through seventh graders.

For more information call the church cal at 591-1506 or 464-0605.

Livonia Wesleyan Church, 14560 Merriman, will conduct Bible school for children from 3-12 from 9:30 a.m. until noon Monday through Friday. Sessions will run from June 25 to 29.. Mary O'Nan will direct the activities which will include Bible study, songs, games and crafts centered about the "Jesus, I'm His, He's Mine" theme..

Children from 4-12 are invited to the vacation Bible school of the Grand River Baptist Church, 34500 Six Mile, Livonia, near Stevenson High School. Hours are from 9 a.m. to noon from July 16-20. There is a 50-cent fee.

Pre-register by calling the church at 261-6950 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

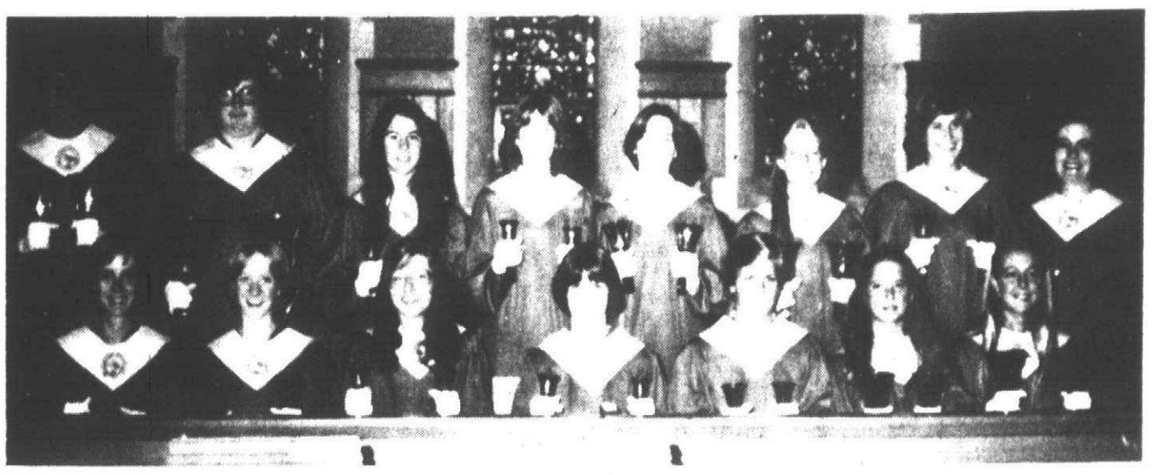

August will be the month that the First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, 701 Church, will welcome the children. "Sharing God's Gifts" will be the Bible school theme.

Hours will be from 9:30 a.m. until noon from Aug. 13-17. Donation is $2.50 per family. To register call the church at 453-6464.

Middleton is rep

Wayne Middleton of Livonia will be a delegate to the general conference of the United Methodist Church to be held in April 1980 in Indiapapolis.

A member of St. Matthew United Methodist Church, he was elected at a recent church conference in Adrian.

Bell ringer choir

The Westminister Bell Ringer Choir from the Village Church, Northbrook, Ill. will appear in concert at 8 p.m. Friday, June 29 in First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. The 15 teenagers in the group play Schulmerich bells which come from Pennsylvania and have a five octave range. The choir is stopping in the Plymouth church, Main Street at Church, on its way to Toronto where it has been invited to play in Maple Leaf Gardens for the Kiwanis International Convention. The performance in the sanctuary is open to the public.

Church musicians can join workshop

Sessions on techniques for adult choirs, teenage music activities and children's music will be included in the summer workshop for church musicians conducted by the Detroit Bible College June 18 through 23 at 35700 Twelve Mile, Farmington Hills.

Materials, literature, keyboard improvisation and arranging for choral and instrumental groups also will be part of the program. Qualified and experienced personnel will conduct the sessions.

Coordinating the class on children's choirs and children in worship will be Janet Lee, teacher of vocal music in the Berkley school district, and an active musician for more than 20 years in organ and choral music. Part of this session will involve a demonstration concert by a boys' choir.

Leading sessions on choir techniques and literature will be David German, minister of music at Highland Park Baptist Church, while Karen Green will conduct the keyboard session. She is an accompanist and solor concert performer and has made television and recital appearances in the Boston area. She does extensive arranging for the keyboard and will be featured in a recital at 8 p.m. June 23.

Also participating will be faculty members of Detroit Bible College, Thomas Zimmerman, Mark White and Ray Shuster, who is chairman of the music department.

Church Bulletin

REDFORD BAPTIST CHURCH, 25295 Grand River, Redford Township, will present the 11-member Handbell Ringers at its 9:30 a.m. morning worship service on Sunday, June 24. The group is made up mostly of Elgin, Ill., high school students, who have been active bell ringer for several years.

The bells are White Chapel bells, a five-octave set, which were hand-cast in England. The director of the choir is Wilma Wischmeier, a graduate of Taylor University in Indiana and Grace College of Bible, Neb. She is national secretary for the National Church Musicians organization.

FAITH COMMUNITY CHURCH, which meets in Pioneer Middle School, 46081 Ann Arbor, Plymouth, will host Bruce Eaton, chalk artist from Belleville at its 10:30 a.m. service Sunday, June 24. Using a medium that interests children he will illustrate in a large drawing the biblical story of the witness and subsequent stoning of Stephen. Special lighting will create dramatic effects.

WESTLAND WARD OF THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS, 7575 Hix, Westland, will hold its yearly conference at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, June 24. Presiding over the event will be LeRoy S. Walker of Garden City, president of the stake. He will be aided by Paul Day of Livonia and Lloyd Pendleton of Dearborn.

The 10:30 Sunday school class will be taught by those in executive positions in the stake.

Membership in this Mormon unit now stands at 369 and includes 144 families. Lynn Edwards of Livonia is bishop of the ward, and is assisted by first counselor, G. Herbert Nelson, and second counselor Charles Every, both of Westland.

St. Edith develops information center

A high school student doing a class project can walk into the St. Edith Catholic Church in Livonia, make his way to its new resource and information center and start looking for facts among a wide range of educational material.

The same is true of a senior citizen looking for materials on health services or an adult education director hunting for new ideas for future programs.

All can examine the subject file to find out what resources are available in the new center. A service file in the form of a Rolodex card catalog will offer them the latest information on a wide range of civic, social, education, volunteer, recreational, governmental and religious agencies and groups.

If the senior citizen wants a specific phone number in his search for facts on health, he may find it in this file which is arranged by the name of the agency and the category, such as Consumer-Citizen Services.

A library is the third aspect of the center. It includes books which meet needs expressed by members of the church. These might be about death and dying, retirement, alcoholism and single parents.

One man at a meeting of a Christian Family Movement group observed that it was hard for a widower to cope because there was little available to help him. However, a check at the center produced a book to meet his needs, "Suddenly Single: A Survival Kit for the Single Man."

Jeanette Bickham, who chaired the group organizing the center, said the aim was not to duplicate other services in the community, but "to bring the resources to where the people gather."

The idea of the center was suggested by Fr. Jerome Fraser, who recently left his post as former associate pastor. The president of St. Edith Parish Council, Rose Marie Barnas, pointed out the parish is trying to provide a balanced program to reach as many as possible. The new center is one of the links in the program.

Staffing the center are volunteers recruited during commitment Sunday. Directing the facility is Jeannette Bickham, who trains people for various kinds of services, including typing, preparing books and showing people how to use the subject and service files.

"Our resource and information center is another way for us to recognize the diversity of needs and our responsibility to meet those needs as a serving community," said Fr. John VanAntwerp, pastor of St. Edith.

'Bird' to entertain at vacation classes

"Jesus — I'm His, He's Mine" is the theme for Vacation Bible School at Kenwood Church of Christ, 20200 Merriman Road, Livonia. It is scheduled for June 25 through June 29.

TV's feathered friend, Bird, will visit the classes meeting from 8:55 a.m. to 11 11:45 a.m. Monday through Friday for children in kindergarten through sixth grades. He'll be a treat for the kids as he shares with them in worship time.

A program is also being offered for hearing impaired children. No signing will be used. Call the church at 476-8222 for more information and preregistration.

Residents are welcome to join in classes, crafts, missions and refreshments.

Volunteers building trail for Schoolcraft joggers

As progress on the mile-long jogging trail inched along Saturday, the college athletic director turned on his biggest smile and said, "Look at all those beautiful people. Have you ever seen anything like it?"

Marvin Gans, who heads the athletic program at Schoolcraft College, was watching his idea of a campus jogging trail take shape as volunteers from all walks of life sweated over shovels and rakes.

By the time the day ended and the volunteers put away their equipment, the trail was still incomplete.

But Gans was pleased, "really pleased."

"THEY REALLY put a dent in it," he said, confidently predicting that the trail will be completed by the end of this week. He has planned another workday Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon.

"Anyone who wants to lend a hand is welcome to come out," said Gans. "Just bring a shovel or rake."

When completed the trail will wind around the east side of the campus at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. It starts at the south parking lot, near the tennis courts, swings eastward and overlooks Interstate 275. It passes a geese-inhabited pond and then circles back past the athletic building and tennis courts.

The trail hits the one-mile marker at the east door of the athletic building, but it continues on for another three-tenths of a mile, past the archery range, to the starting parking lot.

GANS' IDEA of a jogging trail was formulated in 1955. But it ran into a financial roadblock: the college couldn't afford to pay for it.

Although the athletic director was forced to shelve his idea temporarily, he dusted it off from time to time and eventually expanded it to include a number of exercise stations.

"It just seemed to me that with all the people involved in our physical education program, a jogging-exercise trail would be a natural extension of the classes," said Gans. "We had members of the public who regularly were playing handball and paddleball here, as well as people involved in karate and other activities, who voiced interest in such a trail."

Finally, during a paddleball tournament at the college, sufficient numbers of people voiced interest in lending their muscle that Gans began in earnest to enlist volunteer support.

AWARE THAT the National Jaycees had made physical fitness a national project, Gans took his idea to Northville Jaycees and persuaded them to make the contruction of the jogging trail a local chapter project.

8 national awards captured by county

Wayne county has won eight national achievement awards from the National Association of Counties (NACO) for excellence and innovation in county government programs, according to Richard E. Manning, chairman of the County Board of Commissioners.

Manning was notified of the awards in a letter from Bernard F. Hillenbrand, executive director of NACO, who said the awards will be presented during the 1979 annual conference in Kansas City, July 14-18.

Hillenbrand said the achievement awards program was developed to give national recognition to progressive county programs which demostrate improvement in service to the public.

Manning said the counties represent approximately 98 percent of the U.S. population and that programs approved by NACO have substantial influence across the nation, including recognition in Congress.

The award-winning programs are:

• Wayne County Sheriff's "executive protection program," commonly called "POP," under the direction of Sgt. Raymond Meggee. In its third year of training police agencies from around the country in anti-terrorist procedures, POP is conducted at the former Wayne County Child Development Center. POP has trained over 800 police in sophisticated terrorist tactics including helicopter, parachute and bomb attacks.

• The Wayne County Office an Aging "tele-care" program. It helps older people live alone without danger. A telephone call at a pre-arranged hour provides a regular check on the person's well being.

• Mock disaster drills through the Wayne County Road Commission. These test the coordination of fire fighters, rescue teams, military aviation personnel and professional hospital personnel at 11 Wayne and Washtenaw County hospitals and private emergency ambulance services in the event of a real disaster.

• The "vial of life" program through the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. It provided kits which contained medical information sheets for each family member to be placed in a small pill bottle and kept in the family refrigerator. The purpose was to assist medical crews in a home emergency.

• Cooperative Reimbursement Program, a program of the Friend of the Court's family support division. It has saved more than $100 million during the last six years. The program helpd enforce support obligations of absent parents whose families receive public assistance.

• Dental Health Care Center, part of the county department of health. It achieved major improvements in both quality and quantity of care for youngsters, as well as upgrading of equipment and physical surroundings for patients.

• Blood pressure control program, a free clinic that is successfully treating 60 percent of those found to have hypertension.

• Sacred Heart Women's Day Care Center, an alcohol abuse treatment facility for women which takes into consideration their special problems and needs due to child care and job responsibilities.

Legislators aid Olympic hopeful

Month off with pay gets legislative OK

By TOM LONERGAN

Nobody called it "special interest" legislation, but the Michigan Legislature recently endorsed a plan that will affect one person — an unidentified state employee who may compete in the 1980 Olympic Games as a wrestler.

A resolution asked that the state Civil Service Commission grant any state employee who participates in the Olympics a month off at full pay and fringe benefits.

It passed the House of Representatives on a voice vote without opposition, but earlier this month had a tougher time in the Senate. Senators passed the resolution, 20-15, after a lively debate concerning the state's subsidizing amateur athletes.

TWO UNLIKELY allies, Sen. Doug Ross, D-Oak Park, a liberal, and Sen. John Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, regarded as among the most conservative, led opposition to the plan.

"We've tended to be critical of the Soviet Union for sending people who are not amateurs and are subsidized by the Soviet government," Ross said. "The resolution would begin to move us towards something of the same principle."

Next year's summer games are in Moscow, and the winter games will be in upstate New York.

Although Ross said Welborn was an "ironic" ally, he added: "We both tend to be quite suspicious of delegating too much authority to bureacracies and are sensitive on issues of individual rights."

Favoring it were Sens. Robert Geake, R-Northville, who represents Plymouth, Livonia and Redford, and William Faust, D-Westland, whose district includes Garden City and Canton.

Sen. Bill Huffman, D-Madison Heights, who represents a portion of Troy, did not vote.

Geake said he didn't think the subsidy argument was valid. "It's very important to encourage America's international standing in every way, including the Olympics," he said. "The state should do whatever it can to encourage physical fitness and athletics."

The resolution was sponsored by State Rep. Thaddeus Stopczynski, D-Detroit, who predicted the civil service commission would approve the plan.

"It's something we should do for the country," Stopczynski said. "If it involved an outrageous number of people, I wouldn't have sponsored it."

Nine other states have approved similar plans, Stopcynski said. He hoped the legislature's action would encourage large corporations to do the same.

ROSS AGREED that the civil service commission would approve the Olympic plan. "Since the legislature has to pay for it, there's little incentive for them (civil service) not to go along," he said.

The freshman senator feared the legislature established a principle of assisting any state employee involved in an amateur contest.

"What if I want to train for the Miss America contest?" Ross said. "What's the difference?"

Geake said the endorsement of the Olympic plan should not be binding on any future legislature.

Friday hearing on mental health rules

A public hearing on proposed changes in state mental health rules will begin at 9:30 a.m. Friday in the Michigan Plaza Building, 1200 Sixth St., Detroit.

The state Department of Mental Health is considering rules changes which would include transfer of prisoners who require mental health services and hospitalization for those in local jails.

Another change to be discussed will be use of restraint and seclusion in mental health treatment programs.

The Detroit hearing will be in Conference Room 21B, North Tower, of the Michigan Plaza Building.

Bottom Line Failures

The author, Daniel Herriman of Plymouth, is a partner in a local consulting firm for small businesses.

Why do so many small businesses fail?

Can you blame poor business performance on high-powered competition, inflated expenses, an inability to obtain decent help, poor location?

Although these are some of the more common excuses given by small business owners who fail, a study by the U.S. Department of Commerce shows that most business failures are due to inadequate record keeping.

THE BUSINESS OWNER whose records enable him to recognize danger spots in time to take action has a good chance of successfully remaining in business.

A proper system of record keeping shows the business owner at any moment the precise progress — or lack of it — that his business is making.

As a business owner, you must know how much business is being done, the amount of cash in the bank and on hand, and whether the amount is sufficient, or if there is any cash shortage. You must know the amount of inventory, what is being taken out for personal use, and what is owed to suppliers.

Also, you must be able to tell how much gross profit you're earning, what expenditures have been, and what your tax liability, net profit, and value of the business are. The records should show all these things at a glance, as well as trends in sales, expenses, profits and services.

In addition to providing the all-important daily picture of business conditions, an effective record keeping system offers fringe benefits.

A good set of records is an absolute necessity in compiling financial statements for bank loans. Good records save time, since they enable the borrower to prepare required papers quickly.

RECORDS ALSO provide a day-to-day diary of tax deductible expenditures which might otherwise be forgotten or overlooked, such as postage money taken from the cash drawer, or an emergency run to a supply house.

Because each business presents a special situation, the record keeping system should be tailored to individual needs. In any case, the system must provide ready answers.

There are business counselors availabe who are specifically trained to help business owners set up the proper record keeping system required by each particular operation.

Hong Kong kids ask: 'Is your hair dyed?'

By GLORIA HOPFNER
Special writer

(Gloria Hopfner of Plymouth recently traveled to Hong Kong and to the Republic of China and relates her experiences and observations in this special series for readers of the Observer)

Parking space is sometimes hard to find in Hong Kong, but the resourceful residents have a neat trick. With their little foreign-made cars, they can pull right up over the low curbs and park there on the sidewalk.

The day I visited Cheung Chau Island, I purchased the ticket and went inside the building to await my ferry. There, I was surrounded by a large group of school children who were scheduled for a field trip to the same place.

I stood there, the center of attraction, as they scrutinized every detail of my appearance in friendly curiosity. Finally one lad piped up, "Say anything!" My response: "Good morning, how are all of you this fine day?" brought delighted smiles to all of those well-scrubbed faces.

Then the questions flew thick and fast. "Are you American?" "Are you really alone?" (Evidently they hadn't often seen an American moving about solo.) Then, "Where's your husband?" "Do you have children?" and then, "Is you hair dyed?"

TAKING ADVANTAGE of their interest, I asked for information about the ferry-return schedules.

One lad produced a small plastic card with the schedule imprinted. Not wishing to misinterpret, I asked, "Where can I get one of those for myself?" A voice at my elbow volunteered, "He meant it for you."

I decided to abandon my first-class ticket prerogative, and to sit second class with the children, and found myself seated beside a 17-year-old boy, a good distance away from the others.

Joseph was an Oriental, attending the Jesuit school, and had adopted a Christian name. He explained that when he first began the study of English, he had found it very difficult. But he spoke English exceptionally well, and probably had never expected to be conversing that way with an American visitor. As we sat in earnest conversation for nearly an hour, the other youngsters kept up a steady parade past our vantage point. Evidently they hadn't seen enough.

When I ventured the information that I wished to visit the Buddhist temples, particularly the Temple of the Jade Vacuity, my fellow passenger thought a moment, then offered, "Would you like me to come with you for a litte while?" That was the best offer I'd had! And how lucky! The island boasted no street signs, nor any directional markers. No signs in front of the temples, either, so without him, I'd have been like a ship without a rudder.

The first temple we entered revealed a wooden table and four chairs, occupied by four men eating lunch near the doorway. Joseph spoke a few words to the men, and they beckoned us inside. They were not in the least disturbed to have us wandering around.

Joseph showed me all around the island, but I realized anew how fortune had smiled on me that morning when we stopped off in a small cafe for lunch. The waitress spoke no English, and the menu was printed in Chinese without benefit of translation, not did it have any pictures.

MY PURPOSE ANOTHER day was to shop for silk to have a dress custom-made.

As I stopped to gaze at a window display in the hotel complex on Kowloon, I was ushered inside by a smiling clerk, who bowed and scraped in the manner of one strewing the way with rose petals. He gave careful attention while I stated that I was seeking a washable silk. Several suggestions were offered, along with the advantages to be found in each.

I was seated at the silks counter, and a tall, cool beverage provided. We were soon joined by the proprietor and another clerk, each of whom had an opinion to offer. "This is a richer looking material," and, "That one could be lined in the same pattern, causing the pale color to look even better." I asked if there was a mirror available. "Yes, indeed, Ma'm, right this way." Scooping up the bolt of silk, he lead the way for me and unrolled a length to drape it from my shoulder down to the floor, so that we could appreciate the effect.

Getting down to specifics, he would make the dress to my specifications, including a full lining and all the materials for $400 H.K. The figure sounds extravagant, until one realizes that the rate of exchange that day was $4.61 H.K. to $1 U.S. He would like three fittings over a week's time. My part would be to select a pattern or show him a design, and he would take care of the rest. Part of his sales pitch included a dramatic gesture, which was highly effective when he showed me that the silk was so light that he could easily draw it through a wedding ring.

Wandering through Chinatown another day, I encountered a cubstone optician, with all of his merchandise spread out on the sidewalk pavement . . perhaps a hundred pairs of glasses, bearing stickers marked with the amount of correction ground in.

Noting the shape of my own frames, his face lit up, as he smiled and gestured to me. He selected a pair of squared-off wire frames for me to try on, then he handed me a Chinese newspaper to read and held up a mirror for my inspection. His instinct about corrective lenses needed by his customers was rather unfortunate, because he handed me a plus correction, while I wear a minus one.

CAME AN INCREDIBLE opportunity, not available to the average tourist, to join a tour of Housing Estate which had been arranged for the benefit of an English Brigadier serving in Hong Kong.

Public housing is a major problem in Hong Kong because immigration from China is not effectively controlled. It's estimated that there are a 100 legal immigrants per day from China and at least 50 illegals ones. Escaping from China in their junks by night, the wiley sailors remove the rudder and engine immediately upon arrival at Hong Kong so that they cannot be sent back. Next, they punch a hole in the hull to sink their craft, then demand public housing. If that's not available to them, they put up the rudest squatter's shacks made from whatever materials they can scrounge.

The Transit Center (emergency housing) provides old, unpainted Army huts with cement floors and a community kitchen, laundry and latrines. These facilities are rent-free, including bedding, electricity and electric fan. No pets allowed.

Once a family is installed in these quarters, it's difficult to get them to leave, because it's a real haven to them at no cost. The center we toured had a population of 1,700, including a 100 children under age 10.

Another stop took us to a Redevelopment Estate, housing 70,000, where rents are pegged at $33 per month for 120 square feet. Everyone pays on time. We met 94-year-old Mrs. Lo, who sleeps "eight heads" on folding cots in her unit or a loft, much like American college students construct in their dorms to provide more space. Even when illegal immigrants are captured, Hong Kong does not send them back to China if they are politically "hot." Other (high rise) housing, built since 1953 holds more than 200,000.

The Second Annual Attic Theater Performing Arts Festival, which runs through July 1, this year features Wednesday performances and special kids' shows on the weekend.

"With the schedule we've planned, everyone should find a convenient time to come to our festival," said festival coordinator Samuel Pollack.

The festival schedule includes after-work shows at 6 p.m. and evening shows at 8:30 p.m., midnight shows and the special kids' shows on Saturdays and Sundays.

Fourteen Detroit-area companies are involved in the festival. The Attic's Ginny Lark said that all the participants are "established performers who see the Attic as an outlet, a way of reaching an audience."

All the companies are new to the festival this year, Ms. Lark added.

Among the companies are a children's mime troupe that has performed at several Oakland County schools, and the Mary Roberts group, a band which combines poetry and music and parodies punk rock.

THE CHILDREN'S shows are a bit avant-garde, Ms. Lark said. "A musical about Noah's Ark is probably the straightest piece of theater we have."

Included in the festival is the premiere of "Josh," an original drama about a man from the South who moves to Detroit, works in a factory, then commits a murder; and "Hem: An Interview," a one-man show about Ernest Hemingway.

June 21
- Pinter's "A Night Out" and Genet's "The Maid," 6 p.m.
- "Josh" by Don Cook, 8:30 p.m.

June 22
- Mary Roberts, 6 p.m.
- "Josh," 8:30 p.m.
- David Parker's "A Way You'll Never Be," midnight

June 23

A TV host jumps back to the stage for dinner

By ETHEL SIMMONS

Fans of morning talk show host Vic Caputo not only can watch him on TV, over breakfast, but they can join him for dinner, too, in the audience for his performance at the Paradiso Dinner Theater.

Caputo plays a millionaire with a mistress in the comedy "Any Wednesday," directed by Edgar A. Guest III of Birmingham. A Nancy Gurwin (of Southfield) Production, the show opened last weekend.

Performances continue Fridays and Saturdays through the summer in the Mediterranean Room of the Paradiso, 17630 Woodward, north of Six Mile Road, Detroit. Dinner is at 7 p.m., the show at 8:30. Reservations may be made by calling 869-3988.

"I'm a child of the electronic media," Caputo said, during an interview on the set of his WJBK-TV (Channel 2) live show "Good Morning, Detroit." At the studios in Southfield, he described his very TV-oriented approach to learning a stage role. "I record the whole show on tape and let it run. I give a line, stop the tape, then start," he said.

Kay Grismer, who plays the part of the mistress in "Any Wednesday" at the Paradiso, has found that audiences at a dinner theater are different than those at customary theater productions.

The veteran of productions at the Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford and Wayne State University has never been in a dinner production before. She says the tone of the audience changes each night.

"The first night we had women from a pinochle club in to see the play," she says. "They were all cheering for the wife.

HE CAN LEARN a part driving to work and back from his home in Grosse Pointe. "I do all the parts," he said. "I recite all their lines."

On Broadway, "Any Wednesday" starred Sandy Dennis and Don Porter (Ann Southern's boss on an old TV series). The titilating comedy by Muriel Resnik also was made into a movie, starring Jason Robards and Jane Fonda.

"He's not a very "nice person," Caputo said, describing the character. "He's a businessman used to getting what he wants. He has an executive suite, is used to being out of town and has a sweet young thing there (Kay Grismer of Livonia).

Worlds collide when a young man (Joe Lannen of Livonia), whose business he has bought out, and the millionaire's wife (Dolores Shevlin of Farmington) arrive separately at the executive suite and meet his "new secretary."

This is the second dinner theater production Caputo has done recently. About a year ago, he starred as a young swinger, the Frank Sinatra movie role, in "Come Blow Your Horn" in Walled Lake.

IT'S PERHAPS not surprising that Caputo considers both of his roles ones in "morality plays." After all, he attended Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit, on his way to becoming a priest, before he changed his mind about that vocation.

In the seminary, he got his first experience as a performer through a speech and drama class. "One of the great discoveries was that in acting I could do almost anything. That wasn't Vic up there. It was someone else," he said.

After Caputo left the seminary, he worked as an accountant for Cadillac. Someone told him he had a nice voice, and he found himself in Louisiana, working for a radio station where they didn't care how you sounded because it just paid $50. At least, that's the way Caputo tells it.

Over a six-year period, he served in the Army two years as a radio-TV specialist, worked in Dayton, Ohio, and Grand Rapids and Garden City, where WBRB became WTAK (now WIID).

"All that early stuff in radio, I was a deejay. When the station changed its format, I became a talk host," he said.

He got into TV at WXYZ, where he spent 12½ years. Since coming to WJBK, Caputo has been a booth announcer, a street reporter, an anchor, and talk show host.

"I still jump into the news whenever a pope dies," Caputo said. He spent nine days in Rome in August, for the pope's funeral, then a week in October, covering the election of the new pope.

"I'D BEEN IN ITALY twice before, but my family was further south. I didn't like Rome at first. I liked Florence. But working there, I got to know it and love it."

A native Detroiter, he was born on the east side. His parents are from "the old country," he said. Caputo met his wife, the former Sandy Carlson, when she was writing for weekly newspapers.

They have three children, a daughter, Rose, who will be 14 in July; a son, John, who just turned 16, and a son, Steve, 17.

College writing sessions to resume

By MARGARET MILLER

"People of national stature" is the terminology Arthur Lindenberg of the Schoolcraft College faculty uses to describe workshop leaders for the third annual summer writing and arts workshop he is coordinating at the college.

Short story writer Richard Lyons, poets John Haislip and Herbert Scott, and artist Thomas Shepherd are among those heading groups at the workshop, scheduled for July 2-27 on the campus in Livonia.

And he says the national stature description also applies to Schoolcraft's own poet Deborah Richardson, another of the workshop leaders.

"We feel we have some people with outstanding reputations," said Lindenberg, who has watched the festival grow each year since its beginnings in 1977.

"Richard Lyons is a very fine writer of short stories and director of creative writing at the University of Oregon. He has won numerous awards.

"John Haislip, who was formerly my advisor, is known for his poetry and teaching throughout the Pacific Northwest.

STUDENTS INTERESTED in participating should register by June 27 for the series of workshops and classes. For a fee that ranges from $15.50 to $48 for district residents, they may choose from three art and three literary courses.

Lyons will be in residence July 2-6, devoting his weeklong workshop to reading, sharing and critiquing student works of fiction. Emphasis will be on the short story.

Haislip, author of two books, "Elegy for Jake" and "Not Every Year," will spend the week of July 15-20 in workshops that include morning presentations and afternoons of conferences with student writers.

Scott and Shepherd will be on campus July 23-27. The former is author of five books and a creative writing teacher, and his poetry writing and analysis workshop will involve reading, sharing and critiquing of poems.

Procedures of Contemporary Art is the workshop to be offered by Shepherd, who has taught at the University of Hartford and the University of Michigan and lectured and led seminars at Wayne State University, Delta College and Schoolcraft.

The local instructors will lead four-week workshops. Ms. Richardson, a creative writing instructor at Oakland Community College as well as Schoolcraft, will teach a creative writing workshop. She will emphasize journal keeping, imaginative assignments, manuscript reading and critiquing.

Also part of the festival will be a raku pottery workshop, in which Barbara Gibson will include lectures, demonstrations and participant work on raku forms including glazing and firing.

ALL WORKSHOPS are open to individuals high school age through adults, but some have specific eligibility requirements.

Besides the workshop classes, there will be poetry readings, talks and other activities open to the public.

Balloons and beer

Organizers of the fourth annual Pinckney Balloon Festival — coming up this weekend — say their new site will provide more room for the beer tent (which holds 2,000 people and a dance band) and a better launch site for the balloons.

The activity is being moved this year from the town square to Hell Creek Ranch between Pinckney and the hamlet of Hell. The Pinkney Area Chamber of Commerce says the space will give everyone more room and a better view of the balloon launchings.

The expected 30 sport balloonists, who are competing for points in their national standings, come by invitation from Michigan and surrounding states.

Launches are often at the fickle mercy of the weather. The mass ascensions, as they call them, are tentatively scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday, 6:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday, and 6:30 a.m. Sunday.

The beer tent as well as the food pavilion (serving hot dogs, sausage, pizza and the like), are open noon to 2 a.m. Friday and Saturday, and noon to 10 p.m. Sunday.

Hell Creek Ranch is south of M-36 and west of Dexter-Pinckney Road on Patterson Lake Road. Camping is available on the grounds.

● MUSIC REVISITED

It was bound to happen, of course. We made a calendar of outdoor concerts (see last week's section) and just as soon as the paper comes out, we discover the items we missed.

At the Michigan Inn, next to the Northland Theater in Southfield, outdoor parties are scheduled by Dewey's for the lawn around the hotel 5-9 p.m. Wednesdays and Fridays. There's food, drink and music. Jazz pianist Roy Meriwether is scheduled through July 6. Admission is $5.

And on Washington Boulevard in downtown Detroit, a new free series runs noon to 1:30 p.m. Wednesdays in front of St. Aloysius Church near Grand River. Next week, there will be chamber music by Ars Antiqua.

● MALLING IT

It's not as if you needed a good reason to hang around stores and spend money. But your neighborhood mall insists on throwing in some entertainment.

The Livonia Civic Chorus is performing at 7:30 and 8:30 tonight at Westland Center. (They'll also be at an arts and crafts festival in Livonia's Civic Center Park at 4 p.m. Sunday.)

Wonderland Center reports that something called the Starship Spectro-Raya will be on display through July 4. The device is supposed to simulate a space mission without leaving terra firma in Livonia. Hours are 4-10 p.m. Mondays thru Fridays, noon to 10 Saturdays, and noon to 6 Sundays and July 4. Admission is $1.

Out at Twelve Oaks in Novi, next Monday thru Friday is Willy Wonka Week, with some fellow doing free shows at 3 and 7 p.m. and giving away candy.

● DISCO FIREWORKS

A disco cruise on the Bob-Lo boat is the latest fund-raising idea from the Garden City Jaycees. The group is sponsoring the party, which leaves the Wyandotte Dock at Biddle (Jefferson) south of Northline at 8 p.m. Tickets at $5 will be sold at the dock.

Highlight of the trip will be a river view of the fireworks on the Detroit River that night. The boat returns at midnight. for more info, call 522-4597.

● ZOETROPE OR BUST

The Henry Ford Museum is offering a free booklet with a kit to make a circa 1850 Zoetrope — a moving picture wheel which produces animation. The freebie shows Thomas Edison rising from his chair to recreate his invention of the first successful incandescent lamp. To get one, write to the Public Relations Office, Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn 48121.

● ARTSY STUFF

A photo exhibit in Ann Arbor opens on Monday in the North Campus Commons 2101 Bonisteel Blvd. Four photographers, including John Shultz of Plymouth, have a variety of prints on display. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The Grosse Pointe Artists' Association is holding its annual Village Arts Festival today through Saturday on Kercheval between Neff and Cadieux. Works by over 110 artists are on display. Hours are noon to 9 p.m. Thursday and Friday, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Northwest Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice is holding an art show and sale 2-5 p.m. Sunday at the Northwest Unitarian Universalist Church, 23925 Northwestern, between Nine and 10 Mile Road in Southfield.

And around Wayne State University, the North Cass Community Union is sponsoring its second street arts fair this Saturday from noon to 8 p.m. on Second between Warren and Hancock. Arts, crafts and antiques will be for sale, entertainment is scheduled and a group of preservationists will lead walking tours of historic area structures. There is also a pet contest; winner for the most original pet at the last fair was a clam named Oscar . . .

Finally, the Artworlds Center for Creative Arts in Ann Arbor came up with this week's most creative press release. "The work of local unknown photographer Daniel Giles will manifest its presence without ceremony and continue unheralded until July 14," it says. Hours for the gallery, at 213½ S. Main in downtown Ann Arbor, are 2-4 p.m. Monday thru Thursday and noon to 3 p.m. Saturday.

● GRIM AND FOUL

. . . Growl kind of jokes are what you might hear Friday and Saturday nights at Sonny's Weather Station, a restaurant in the new terminal building at Detroit City Airport which is the latest place to enter the amateur comedy circuit. Interested comedians should call 521-6900.

Jose at db's

Singer and guitarist Jose Feliciano performs at db's Club in the Hyatt Regency Dearborn next Monday thru Saturday. Feliciano, who is blind, grew up in Harlem and used an old accordian to imitate old records. There are two shows nightly. For reservations, call 593-1234, ext. 2311.

Cranbrook

Carillon concerts to start

The first carillon concert of the Christ Church Cranbook summer concert series will feature World Carillon Federation president Jacques Lannoy in an all-French musical program at 4 p.m. this Sunday. There is no charge.

At 5 p.m. Anthony Furnival, of St. Paul's Cathedral, Buffalo, N.Y., will present a free organ recital in the Christ Church.

Programs for both events will be at the front door of the church and across Lone Pine in the Cranbrook Gardens booth.

Lannoy will begin the concert with two rousing marches: J. B. Lully's "French March" and J. J. Mouret's "Air for Trumpets and Fifes," followed by dance suites, folksongs, ballet music and harpsichord pieces.

Lannoy, founder-president of the French Guild of Carillonneurs, is also professor at the French Carillon School and carillonneur in the French cities of Dourai and Tourcoing.

He is the last active member of a long family line of carillonneurs well known since 1809 in the French St. Amand area. In addition to studies in Malines, Belgium and Paris, he worked with his uncle, bell-master Maurice Lannoy.

Lannoy won first prize for interpretation and improvisation on the carillon at the Brussels World Fair and is current laureate of harmony and counterpoint classes in Paris.

Furnival's program will be sacred music from 18th and 19th century composers.

Included will be "Sonata No. 1" and "Prelude and Fugue in E Flat" by J. S. Bach; "Sonata No. 3" by Paul Hindemith; "Sonata No. 4" by Joseph Rheinberger; "Paean" by Herbert Howell; and Jean Langlais' "Three Characteristic Pieces."

Jacques Lannoy's Christ Church Cranbrook premier performance on the carillon will preface the 1979 summer music series featuring guest artists from all over America, Belgium and The Netherlands.

Included will be Paula Van der Wiele, city carillonneur, Mons, Belgium, and Leen 't Hart, director of Netherlands Carillon School, Amersfoort, The Netherlands.

Also performing will be Frederick Marriott, Kirk in the Hills; Jon Gouwens, Ann Arbor; Helen Fan, University of Michigan; William DeTurk, Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, Hudson Ladd, University of Michigan; Roland Richter, Kirk in the Hills; and Janet Dundore, St. Thomas Church, Whitemarsh, Pa., and St. Vincent's Seminary, Philadelphia.

Christ Church Cranbrook carillonneur Beverly Buchanan will play a patriotic concert at 4 p.m. Wednesday, July 4 in addition to regular Sunday concerts July 29 and Sept. 2.

Christ Church Cranbrook, Cranbrook and Lone Pine, an Episcopal Church, is affiliated with Cranbrook Educational Community which includes Cranbrook Institute of Science, Cranbrook Academy of Art and Museum and Cranbrook Schools.

Greenfield Village

Comedy and old songs abound in the Henry Ford Museum production of the 19th century classic, "A Trip to Chinatown," (Fridays and Saturdays, June 22 to July 28). It's the story of how a group of well-bred young people, with their chaperone as an accomplice, set out for an evening of strong drink and good times.

In this 1891 work written by Charles Hoyt, the respectable guardian, Ben Gay, allows his young charges to go out for a night on the town after he mistakenly conludes that their chaperone, a pretty widow, has devised the outing as a ruse and hopes to dine with him secretly.

The production includes some of Hoyt's most memorable characters, including Gay, the outwardly respectable San Francisco bachelor with a weakness for women; Welland Strong, Gay's hypochondriac friend who comes to California for its climate and finds the earthquakes to be the most invigorating feature; and the widow, Mrs. Guyer, whose nearly immortal character became the basis of the leading roles of two 20th century productions, "The Matchhmaker" and "Hello, Dolly."

Showtime is 8:30 p.m. and the admission is $3.50. Tickets may be purchased at the box office beginning one hour before the performance or during regular hours at the museum entrance ticket stand.

Send check to Dinner Theater, Travel and Convention Department, Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn 48121. Call 271-1620, ext. 416, for more information.

Trilling fifes and booming drums will reverberate through Greenfield Village June 30 and July 1 in the Antique Fife and Drum Corps Music Muster, part of the Detroit-Windsor International Freedom Festival June 29-July 4. Thirteen colorful fife and drum units in colonial military dress will step smartly through parades and concerts in the largest music muster of this type in the Midwest.

Village visitors can observe the festivities of the Antique Fife and drum Corps Muster at no charge beyond the regular village admission of $3.75 for adults and $1.75 for children 6-12. Children under 6 are admitted free.

Story: LEM MESEE

Moreover, the bass ran bigger and more frequent, and the panfish were some of the best ever recorded by the 6- to 16-year-old anglers on the largest lake in the Middle Rouge River system.

THE WALLEYE was the big surprise.

"I can't tell you where that came from," said Ron Spitler, district fisheries biologist for the state Department of Natural Resources.

Spitler has been in on all the fish plantings in the Middle Rouge since the three lakes there were killed off and replanted in 1969. Walleye have never been planted there.

The walleye was caught by Paul Hansen of Livonia. It was 14 inches long and weighed an even pound. Identification was made by contest judges from the Western Wayne County Conservation Association.

Size of the fish led Spitler to believe it might be two or three years old. If it had been planted as part of the restocking, it would be 8 or 9 years old and considerably larger.

PIKE ARE known to have survived the 1969 kill, but rarely are they caught by youngsters, who stick mostly to worms. The pike prefers minnows or artificial lures.

The pike was the grand prize winner for Greg Stawara, 13, of Livonia. The toothy morsel was 21½ inches long and weighed an ounce under two pounds.

In any other year, the largemouth black bass caught by John Petz, 15, of Livonia would have been the grand prize winner. The bass was 16 inches long and weighed in at two pounds, one ounce.

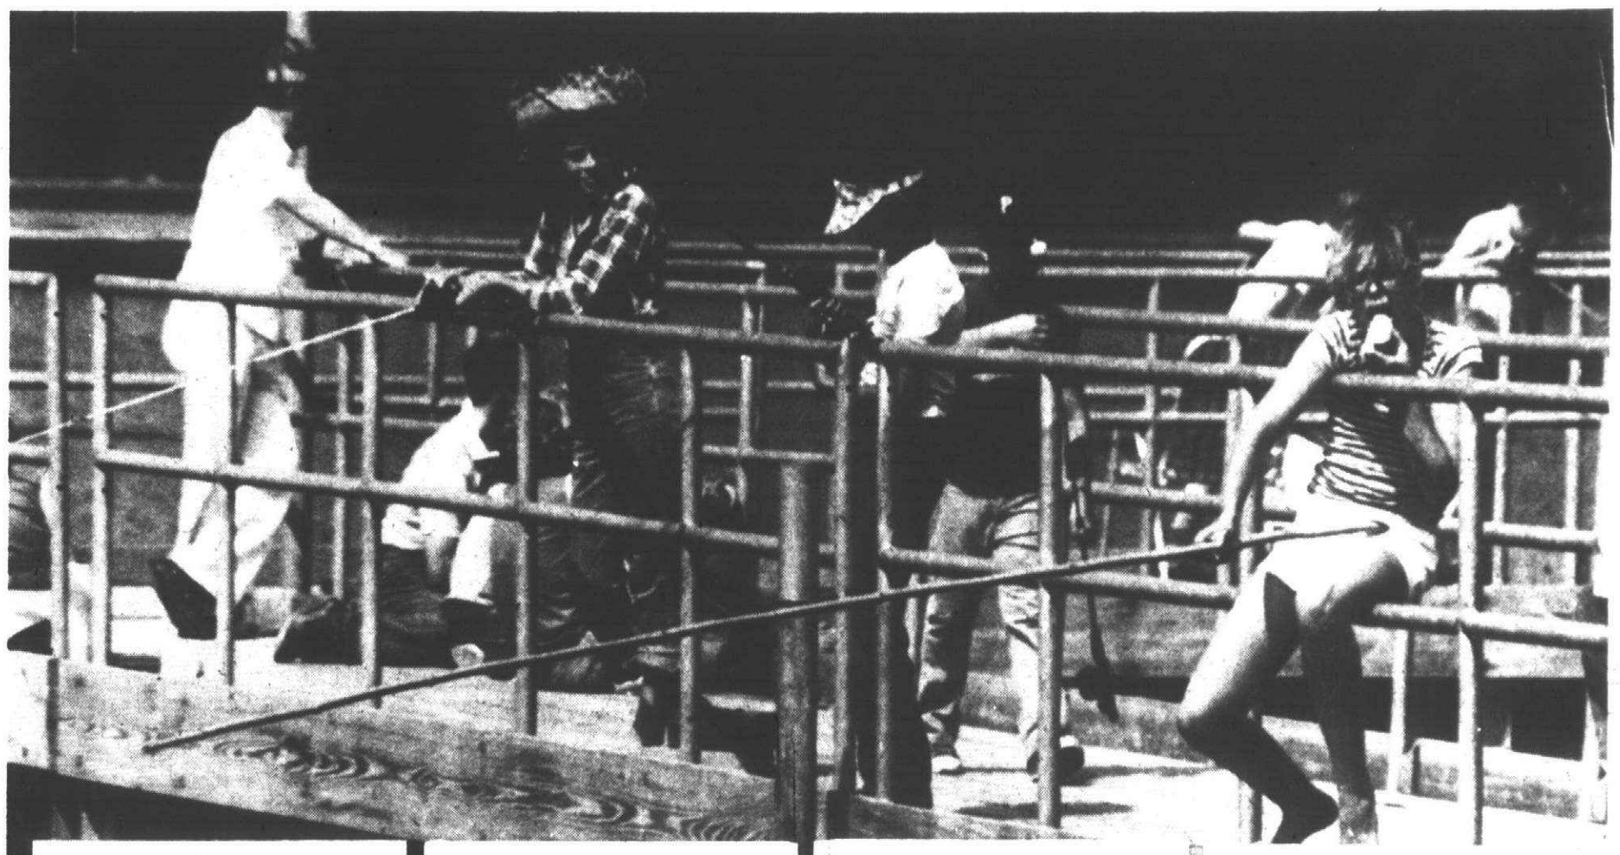

Another half-dozen legal sized bass were caught by contestant anglers, according to contest chairman Hank Chruscial.

Biologist Spitler said he has been receiving reports all spring about nice largemouth bass coming from Newburgh Lake. This writer has noticed as many as a dozen light boats and canoes with adult fishermen on Newburgh Lake, which used to be a spot where only kids dunked worms to catch stunted sunfish or goldfish.

Kevin Barrows, 9, of Garden City turned in a seven-inch 'gill that weighed four ounces to take first prize in that category.

Prizes were awarded by State Sen. R. Robert Geake of Northville and Rep. Robert Law of Livonia. Livonia auxiliary police watched over the situation.

Youth Hostel

Bicyclists to head downtown July 4

Peddle forth and meet thousands of enthusiastic cyclists of all ages from all parts of Detroit and Windsor on July 4.

Starting between 9 a.m. and noon, the Detroit Concil of American Youth Hostels (AYH) hosts a unique 15-mile bike tour of downtown Detroit.

Rain or shine, bicyclists will be meeting and leaving their cars at the municipal parking structure at Bagley and Second and embarking on a trip that will include such places as the Ren-Cen, Hart Plaza, Greek Town and the new Attic Theater, Eastern Market the medical center and right through the Wayne State University campus.

Sam Henry, the ride organizer, says, "The route has been developed and ridden by many AYH cyclists. It's amazing how exciting downtown Detroit is when you're out in the open looking around. The route is planned in two loops so you can ride seven or 15 miles with rest stops and refreshments available along the way.

"Anyone should be able to ride it and AYH will have repair people and sagwagons to help. We hope to encourage families and groups of friends to spend the holiday enjoying the spectacular sights of Detroit."

ALL REGISTERED riders will receive bright-colored vests, maps and tour information. Advance registration is preferred by writing American Youth Hostels, Room No. 3, 3024 Coolidge, Berkley, Mi. 48072.

The fee is $2 for adults, $1 for youth 17 and under, and a maximum of $4 for families. Registration on July 4 will take place at the starting point, between 9 a.m. and noon. Parking will be available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for $1 at the Bagley municipal parking structure.

For more information, contact the AYH office at 545-0511.

The riders will be assisted by motor-scooter police stationed along the entire route; the American Red Cross will provide a First Aid station. AYH rider marshalls, who are experienced cyclists, will be on hand to offer assistance in the event of mechanical problems with the bikes. CB-equipped vans will provide pick-up service.

Room for Design

by Gloria Cohen

Well-designed items will stay in style

When furnishing your first home, it is best to shop within a plan or a general theme. Simple but well-designed pieces that can be blended and coordinate with others later will be an advantage.

You should keep three points in mind when selecting furniture — good design that will not promise to go out of style, flexibility, and sturdy construction.

Design is a personal thing. It should be chosen on the basis of individual taste developed through an understanding of the principles of good design, with suitability and comfort in mind.

Look for unadorned furniute. It will serve you best now and will mix with other pieces later on. A simple classic design doesn't suffer from mass production. Avoid purchasing a cheap imitation of more costly, hand carved items.

Don't be misled by a fad. If a piece of furniture isn't right for your needs and doesn't appeal to you, no matter how "in" it may be at the moment, don't be pressured into buying it.

You don't have to pay a lot for good design. It is quite possible to find well-designed furniute for a modest price if you shop carefully and are willing to forego unnecessary and often objectionable embellishment.

FLEXIBILITY IS AN IMPORTANT consideration. If a piece of furniture can serve a variety of purposes, it will be useful for many years. When it can be used in one room now and in another later, you double your investment.

A middle-of-the-road upholstered piece such as a sofa can be reupholstered another time or two if it is comfortable and well constructed. If it is one that will always blend with whatever style your room may have, you can enjoy it indefinitely.

Construction quality must often be left to the integrity of the manufacturer and the word of the salesperson, but with wood furniture that has an exposed frame, such as a chair, it's possible to examine the construction.

Notice if it is hard wood or soft wood. Hard wood costs more, but is well worth the difference in furniture that you will use for a long time.

See if the back legs are a continuation of the frame. This makes for a stronger, more durable piece. Joints should be double-doweled with corner blocks fitted, glued, and screwed into place. Look for dovetail joints on drawers.

NATURAL WOODS ARE PREFERRED by most age groups today. The use of oak is on the increase and has a great appeal for several reasons. It takes naturally to casual life styles, is versatile and in good supply. It is also available in a wide price range from budget groups to top-of-the-line. Oak is easy to live with, and, because of its light color, it doesn't close in a small area or apartment room. There is a more open, spacious feeling with oak.

To be an intelligent shopper you should become familiar with the style names of commonly used pieces of furniture. Certain identifying names have been given to different styles of furniture and, although details such as legs, arms, and backs will vary widely, the general shapes can be easily recognized.

Upholstered chairs and sofas are identified by their general shape, height from the floor, and types of backs, arms, and legs. Although some details such as cushion treatment and trim will vary with the individual designer, they can usually be identified.

Many different kinds of tables are used today. Decorative details will vary according to the style of the period, but the general characteristics remain the same.

Dance center opens camp

The Midwest Dance Center will offer a "Summer Camp of the Arts" for boys and girls ages 7-9 and 10-13.

It will feature dance, mime, music, clay and graphic arts and will be held June 25 to July 20 at the center, 8556 W. Nine Mile (between Woodward and Coolidge) in Oak Park. The two two-week camp sessions will be held Monday-Friday, 1-4 p.m.

For information on the summer camp or the adult and teen dance programs in modern, ballet and jazz, call the center, 545-8055 or 546-4949.

'Puppet Man' on Woodward library lawn Monday

Steve Hansen, known as the "Puppet Man," will perform at the main Detroit Public Library, 5201 Woodward, on the lawn near the Cass drive, on Monday at 10 a.m.

Hansen has given more than 2,500 one-man puppet shows in cities such as San Francisco, Boston, New York, London and Amsterdam. His performances are designed to appeal to both children and adults.

Hansen's varied experience includes performances with the Muppets of "Sesame Street" and appearances on "What's My Line" and "To Tell the Truth."

Opera theater holding cover design contest

A total of $500 in prizes will be awarded by Michigan Opera Theater, MOT, in a competition to select the cover design for the 1979 season program book.

In addition to a $375 first prize, the winning artwork will be reproduced as a poster to be sold at performances and at the MOT Opera Boutique, opening at the Renaissance Center late June. Also offered are second and third place prizes of $75 and $50.

The competition is open to any professional or student artist in Michigan. Any medium will be considered if it can be photographed for reproduction as an 8½-by-11 four color process cover. Two dimensional work, however, is preferred.

Entries may include elements from MOT's 1979 productions and should reflect the spirit of Michigan Opera Theater. For its ninth season, MOT will present Verdi's "Il Trovatore," Puccini's "La Boheme," Tchaikovsky's "Joan of Arc" and an American work.

Each entry must include the artist's name, address and telephone number but the artwork itself should not be signed until the winners are selected. Numbers will be assigned when artwork is submitted to MOT.

Judges will be David DiChiera, general director of Michigan Opera Theater; Joy Hakanson Colby, Detroit News art critic; Skip Davis, vice president/creative, George N. Sepetys and Associates of Southfield; Marshall Fredericks, sculptor, whose works include the "Spirit of Detroit;" and Joseph Maniscalco, Detroit area portrait artist.

Vittorio's hosting Cabaret

Branstrom-Snee productions will showcase its brand-new musical revue, "The Best of the Best," on Wednesday and Thursday, June 27 and 28.

The showcase will be held at Vittorio's in Livonia. Show time is 8 p.m. for both days.

"The Best of the Best" is the first in a series of new musical revues Brandstrom-Snee productions has planned. The cabaret-type show features music by Irving Berlin, George Gershwin and Cole Porter.

Tickets are available by advance sales only, by calling Gene Branstrom at 642-3831.

The cast includes Richard Snee, Alan Brown and "Rose."

Richard Snee, a former Birmingham resident, has just returned from two years in Pittsburgh where he played the lead in "Godspell" and performed with the Penn Grove Dinner Theatre, as well as acted as the managing director.

He also sang with the Pittsburgh opera. Rich's roles include Danny in "Grease," Cornelius in "Hello Dolly," Billy in "No No Nanette," Tony in "West Side Story," Matt in "The Fantasticks" and Freddy in "My Fair Lady."

"Rose" of New York left a following in the New York metropolitan area of cabaret/dinner theatre. Rose also performed with the Penn Grove Dinner Theatre and acted as assistant director.

Some of Rose's roles include Marion in "Music Man," Maria in "West Side Story," Lucille in "No No Nanette," Rizzo in "Grease," Louisa in "The Fantasticks," Julie in "Carousel" and Addo Annie in "Oklahoma!"

Alan Brown, also from Birmingham, is currently studying vocal performances at th University of Michigan School of Music under New York City Opera Soprano Veronica Tyler. He was recently selected as a member of The Friars, a small ensemble from within the University of Michigan Men's Glee Club.

His roles include Billy in "Carousel," Curly in "Oklahoma," Tom in "No No Nanette," Rolf in "The Sound of Music" and Motel in "Fiddler on the Roof." He also sang the Count in Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro."

The group's choreographer is Fred Caducio, a local dancer. As well as being a professional dancer, Caducio has skated with The Ice Capades throughout the country.

He studied modern jazz dance at Eastern Michigan University and University of Michigan and then continued his studies in New York, Toronto and California. He is presently dance instructor at the Southfield Civic Center.

Bill Swayze is the group's arranger. Professional musician for 11 years and studio musician for the last six years, he is a pianist, bassist, composer and arranger.

'Friends' on stage in area

Detroiter Jango Edwards and Friends Roadshow will bring their brand of rock 'n' roll lunacy from Europe back to American soil for a two-week tour with Detroit's Prismatic Band.

The visit will include stops at Ann Arbor's Second Chance on Monday, June 25, and Tuesday, June 26 (9:30 p.m.) and The Center Stage on Wednesday, June 27, (8 p.m.). Dates in New York and Chicago also are set.

Jango is a rock comic who has been described as a cross between Groucho Marx and Frank Zappa. He founded Friends Roadshow with Prismatic guitarist/songwriter Michael Colone in 1971.

Subsequently, Friends became cult heros of sorts among the Detroit-Ann Arbor underground in the early '70s, pioneering the marraige of comedy with rock 'n' roll.

IN 1974, Jango transplanted the group to Europe. Establishing Amsterdam as its base, the Friends spread its madness throughout Western Europe. The group shared concert bills with artists as diverse as Weather Report, Talking Heads, and Keith Jarrett, in addition to most of the major music/theater comedy festivals.

The group also appeared in several films, including a 90-minute program to be aired by West Germany's largest TV network in conjunction with Friends' 23-city concert tour there this October.

Nothing is sacred to Friends Roadshow. A typical performance will find them taking shots at soul groups ("Marvin & the Van Rentals"), religion (Hare Christmas"), reggae music (Italian-style with the "Rasta Pastas") and William Shakespeare (as punk-star "Billy Spears").

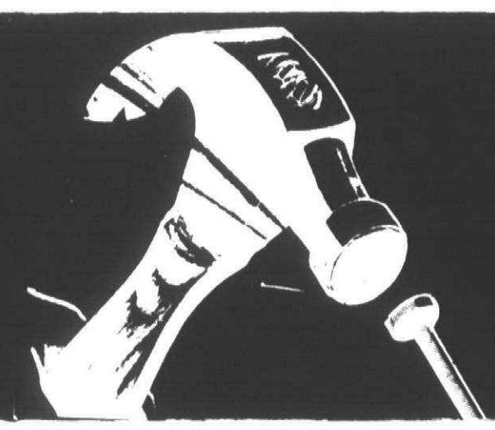

The Prismatic Band, most of whom performed in earlier Friends bands, will appear along with members of the current group on all but one of the American dates. Songwriter/singer Dick Siegel and his Ministers of Melody will join Friends for the June 25 concert at Second Chance.

TICKETS ARE available at Second Chance, Schoolkids' Records an both Discount Records (Ann Arbor); Flat, Black & Circular Records and Discount Records (East Lansing) and Sam's Jams (Ferndale). Tickets also are for the Center Stage performmance.
Tickets are available at Center Stage Box Office and Where House Records, or at the door.

OUTDOOR WOOD
Wolmanized
Pressure-Treated Lumber

Anything you build will have extraordinarily long life . . . if you build it with ordinary lumber or plywood pressure-treated with Wolman® preservative chemicals.

It won't rot, and termites won't bother it — even if you don't stain or paint it. Considering how long it lasts, Outdoor Wood is surprisingly inexpensive. And if you don't have a project in mind, ask us for a suggestion.

INVEST YOUR WORK, TIME AND MONEY IN A HABITANT FENCE THAT WILL LAST & LAST & LAST
Many fences sold locally are made from spruce and other woods which have a very limited lifetime outdoors — even when painted or stained. Habitant fences are manufactured from northern white cedar — a wood which has a natural resistance to rot and decay, much like pressure treated wood. It will last 5 to 6 times as long as spruce or other untreated white woods. It costs a little more but ITS WORTH IT!!!

ATTENTION
"TOGETHER PERSONS"
(And anyone who's falling apart)

Have you ever noticed how times flies when you're having fun? Or how it drags when you're dragging?

Sometimes there aren't enough hours in the day to accomplish all that you may set out to do. Like placing an Observer & Eccentric Classified Ad.

By the time the busy, sunny, summer days are at a close and you realize that, "Oh my gosh, I was supposed to advertise the stuff in the garage...or the hockey equipment....or the stereo gear...or whatever," we're closed. And you're fuming.

Well fume no more. Beginning Thrusday, July 5, you will be able to place an Observer & Eccentric Want ad until 7:30 p.m. every Monday and Thursday evening.

This means that when you settle down on the patio after dinner with a long, tall glass of something very cold and open your hometown newspaper and arrive at the classified section and that little bell goes off in your head about the ad you were supposed to place — you can still place it — even if it's 7:00 or 7:15 or even 7:25.

Of course, if you're thinking, "This doesn't mean me — I'm always on top of everything. My socks are always sorted, I take my car in for a check-up right on time. Same with my teeth. I'm really a very together person."

Well, we have news for all of our together persons: You can place your Observer & Eccentric Classified ad ANYTIME you want to. MONDAY through FRIDAY.

We're here five days a week (and beginning July 5 a couple of nights) Just give us a call and we'll get your ad placed for the very next edition of your hometown newspaper.

This coffeehouse is alive and well

By JULIE BROWN

Common Ground's Cripple Creek Sandwich Theater has purposes similar to those of the human services agency itself.

"The coffeehouse was, at first, a way of getting people in here," said director Andrzej Rozecki. "One way to get people in here is music."

The coffeehouse, in the Common Ground building at 1090 S. Adams in Birmingham, features folk music performers. It has existed for the last three years with partial funding from the Michigan Council for the Arts, but began a few years earlier.

"It's been together on and off for years," Rozecki said. "I think it was started a number of times by a group of people, but each time it would end."

"IT BEGAN AS a drop-in thing," said Dan Cantwell, who books the performers and acts as master of ceremonies. "People would come in and hang around, bringing their guitars."

The coffeehouse received its first grant from the state arts council in 1977. It has received grants for 1978 and 1979, but will not next year, Rozecki said.

"It's non-profit, so all we hope to do is break even," he added.

"People have given us a break in their fees," Cantwell said. "Some people say they play a lot in bars, then they come here and just say 'Keep the money.' To get a quiet audience that will listen to them is worth it."

"There aren't too many non-alcoholic places where music is played," Rozecki added. He said the musicians receive $25 for a performance, "plus a percentage of the house for big crowd acts."

The performances are scheduled at 8 p.m. on Sunday nights. Cantwell said they planned that "because there are so many other things to do on Friday and Saturday nights."

A $1.50 DONATION is requested for each performance, although a few have been $2. The coffeehouse has had a summer program in previous years, but will finish up in June this year.

"Last summer, we averaged 15 people a night," Cantwell said. "It depends on who you bring in."

Cantwell said the coffeehouse seats about 60 people. "We've had times with that many, and some people standing."

"We've had films and puppet shows, too," Rozecki said. "We've run the whole gamut."

"We're working on preventative help through the arts," "It's a place where professionals and amateurs can mix."

ROZECKI EXPLAINED that the coffeehouse gives amateur performers a chance to play. "Between the performers' acts, someone can sit in, either a professional or an amateur." he said.

The coffeehouse has had several "Hoot Nights," in which people have been admitted free of charge if they bring a musical instrument, Cantwell said. "We try to give an audience a feeling that they're involved, too,"

"We'd like to get more youth in," Rozecki said. He added that they are in need of volunteers for booking shows and for providing refreshments.

Cantwell explained the origins of the coffeehouse's somewhat unusual name. " 'Cripple Creek' is a bluegrass, banjo tune," he said. "We used Sandwich because the guests are sandwiched in between acts."

The last show for the season is this Sunday, with the Minstrels and Los Tres, a combination of folk and comedy.

For July and August

U-M summer theater tickets available

The Department of Theater and Drama at The University of Michigan has launched its subscription campaign for Michigan Summer Repertory Theater, according to Professor Jack E. Bender, interim director of theater programs.

Michigan Repertory '79 opens with William Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing," followed by Alice Childress' "Wedding Band," Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" and Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness!"

The season runs July 13-22 and Aug. 1-5 in the Power Center for the Performing Arts. Subscription tickets are available through mail order only.

Under the direction of Richard Burgwin, Michigan Repertory artistic director, this comedy of love is a blend of sophisticated wit, naive and sweet romance and ever-fresh buffoonery. One of the greatest comedies of the English speaking theater, "Much Ado . . ." has been the pattern from which Congreve's "The Way of the World" and Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" were cut. "Much Ado . . ." plays July 13, 16 and Aug. 4 at 8 p.m. and July 22 and Aug. 5 at 2 p.m.

THE SECOND Michigan Rep show to open is Alice Chilress drama "Wedding Band." Set in South Carolina in 1918, this inter-racial love story revolves around the lives of a lonely black seamstress and a white baker. The title "Wedding Band" relates to the legalization of their relationship through a ceremony that was forbidden by law.

"Wedding Band" premiered in Ann Arbor and was created through a 1966 New Play Project grant from the U-M. This time around, it is directed by U-M doctoral student Rhonnie Washington and runs July 14, 17, 22 and Aug. 3 at 8 p.m.

Third in the summer repertory lineup is Noel Coward's sophisticated comedy "Hay Fever." This comedy of manners (or lack thereof) presents a rather Bohemian household in a weekend frolic of eccentricities.

Picnic dinners will be available again this year, along with special evenings of entertainment at Felch Park (in front of the Power Center). For more information concerning picnic dinners, Felch Park entertainment, subscription series and single ticket sales, call 763-5213 or write to the Professional Theater Program, Michigan League, U-M, Ann Arbor 48109.

HOW COME SOME PEOPLE CAN WALK UP TO A BLACKJACK TABLE AND ALWAYS WALK AWAY A WINNER

They are probably Graduates of the GUARANTEED program at the Stanley Roberts School of Winning Blackjack — a School that is so unique, and so effective, that people have traveled from far and wide to attend the classes. They completed the training over a four-day period, and were then able to return home with new confidence, new skills, and a potential new way of life.

What a life our Graduates lead! More than 500 of our students have now learned the joys of freedom from worry about money. They don't have to work...they know how to play...Winning Blackjack. You can share that feeling — the freedom that comes from knowing that you can earn up to $500.00 per day, by using the skills taught at the Stanley Roberts School of Winning Blackjack.

GRADUATES ARE OUR MOST EFFECTIVE ADS

In spite of extremely limited advertising, we have steadily maintained a 4-6 week waiting list, almost from the time that our doors first opened, in July of 1976. Why are people willing to wait? The answer is simple. Our graduates themselves, are the most effective advertising that exists. Because, they are living proof that, not only can the game of Blackjack really be beaten — consistently, but also that the system that it takes to do it can be learned by the average person — quickly and easily — at the Stanley Roberts School of Winning Blackjack. Yes, it can be done, and it is being done, every week, by people like you.

There are two positive reasons why the instruction is so successful. First the course at the Stanley Roberts School teaches the most effective, workable, method for beating the game of Blackjack that has ever been developed. The system is based upon data supplied by over 9 billion computer calculations — data which was then refined and simplified by Stanley Roberts into the most practical, easy-to-use method that would yield substanstial winnings when used at casino Blackjack Tables. There are a number of Blackjack Systems on the market today, and it as become general knowledge that some of them can beat the game of Blackjack, if they are correctly applied. However, the fact is that most of the more highly complex systems cannot be learned and used by the average person, especially in a casino environment. And this fact makes them virtually worthless! But, the Roberts System is the ideal integration of simplicity and effectiveness, and that is why it has earned its reputation as the finest available.

The second success factor is the unique program of instruction. The Stanley Roberts School of Winning Blackjack is the only legitimate educational institution of its kind in Michigan. Our facilities include a comfortable classroom, outfitted with a genuine casino Blackjack Table, as well as real casino chips and cards, so that students can learn the system in the very environment in which they will later use it to win.

A 100% MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

Classes are generally kept to a maximum of seven students, so that you are assured of receiving all of the individual attention and tutoring that you require. The instruction is administered by the Michigan Director of the Stanley Roberts School — Blackjack Expert, Bill King, who now divides his time between drawing huge sums of money from the Blackjack Tables of Las Vegas, and teaching others to do the same thing at the School in Southfield.

The tuition for the entire program, including all text materials, is $495. This fee is less than a fraction of what other professionals (e.g., doctors, attorney, etc.) pay for their education. And you can earn far more than they do — up to $500.00 per day! This means that you can more than cover the "cost" of your education in one day "on the job"!

But the best thing of all about the instruction at the Stanley Roberts School of Winning Blackjack is that it is backed by a 100% Money-Back Guarantee. That's right! We are so proud of our sucess rate, that we can guarantee that you will be able to use the Stanley Roberts System to WIN, and that you will experience this very fact right in our classroom — before you ever walk into a casino. If you are one of the few people who need an extra session or two in order to master the simple system, we will give it to you — absolutely free of charge. And if you simply cannot learn, we will give you your money back — every cent of it! You could not possibly ask for a fairer deal that that! We offer this warranty to you for your peace of mind — but we are sure that you will not need to take advantage of it. In over 500 students, nobody has ever been unable to master the system. And no one has ever asked for a refund. Our Graduates have been, and continue to be, thoroughly successful in winning with the techniques that they have learned at the School, and are reaping their rewards in casino around the world — from Las Vegas, Reno, and Atlantic City, to Monte Carlo, London and the Carribean.

THOSE REWARDS CAN BE YOURS AS WELL

Yes, as a Graduate of the Stanley Robert School of Winning Blackjack, you can win up to $500.00 per day playing Blackjack, easily.

The opportunity is yours...and the choice must be yours as well. Do you want to experience what it means to be a winner? Do you want to know the thrill, the excitement, the security, and the incredible lifestyle? Then, telephone the School at (313) 569-1063, Monday through Friday, between 9 A.M. and 6 P.M. Or, save time! Send $150, as a tuition deposit, to the Stanley Roberts School of Winning Blackjack, 17000 West Eight Mile Road—Suite 73A, Southfield, Michigan 48075, and we will enter your name, immediately, on our waiting list, for the first available session. Either way, you will have taken the first step towards realization of your highest goals.

VERY DESIRABLE BRIGHTON AREA

Magnificent 11 room, 3 bath Chalet Estate home on 7 acres of high rolling wooded terrain, lavishly landscaped.

Less that three miles from City of Brighton, ten minutes from access to U.S. 23 and I-96 freeways.

Oak-stained rough-sawn cedar paneling and 2 lovely winding staircases, plus 2 uniquely designed imposing fireplaces express a feeling of grace and warmth.

Two-story high cedar-beamed cathedral ceilinged living room has 36 ft. long cedar balcony overlooking large outdoor pool, lanai and cedar stockade.

At the end of a quarter mile treed private lane, all on the property, this indescribably beautiful home could never be duplicated anywhere, nor could its surroundings. Its cedar shake roof with the four perfectly scaled dormers, is in itself a masterpiece.

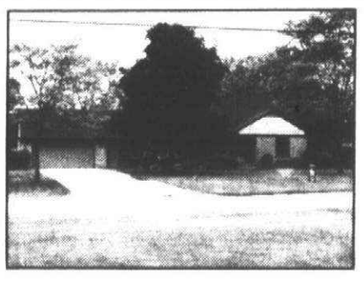

If you are looking for a one-of-its-kind hideaway estate in the $300,000 range, please phone me at 313-1-229-8600 during business hours, Monday through Saturday or 1-227-7333, evenings or Sunday.

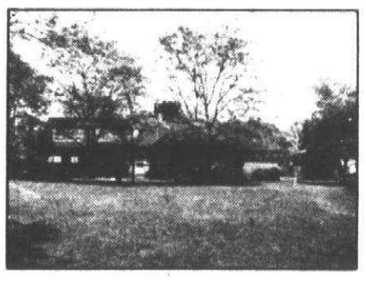

My dear wife, the inspiration for this custom fashioned 1970 home, died tragically last November. I have finally decided to dispose of the home, complete with all furnishings, appliances, utensils, tableware, linens, etc., all hand selected and of finest quality, so the new family can ease right into ready made luxury.

There is much more of interest to tell about this secluded, one of a kind estate that would add to its value, enjoyment and charm.

Between one mowing and the next, your house could change owners. And you know that's fast!

Because we're a member of the Homes For Living Network.

When our sign goes up a lot of things happen. With our exclusive Homes For Living magazine, a picture and description of your home can be available to home buyers in our area. And, through our 2,000 affiliated offices, we'll reach potential out-of-town buyers.

After all, they account for one-third of all home sales.

When you consider that our 25,000 Homes For Living sales associates have more than 10-billion dollars in home sales each year, you know we don't let any crabgrass grow under our feet.

ATTENTION
"TOGETHER PERSONS"
(And anyone who's falling apart)

Have you ever noticed how times flies when you're having fun? Or how it drags when you're dragging?

Sometimes there aren't enough hours in the day to accomplish all that you may set out to do. Like placing an Observer & Eccentric Classified Ad.

By the time the busy, sunny, summer days are at a close and you realize that, "Oh my gosh, I was supposed to advertise the stuff in the garage...or the hockey equipment....or the stereo gear...or whatever," we're closed. And you're fuming.

Well fume no more. Beginning Thrusday, July 5, you will be able to place an Observer & Eccentric Want ad until 7:30 p.m. every Monday and Thursday evening.

This means that when you settle down on the patio after dinner with a long, tall glass of something very cold and open your hometown newspaper and arrive at the classified section and that little bell goes off in your head about the ad you were supposed to place — you can still place it — even if it's 7:00 or 7:15 or even 7:25.

Of course, if you're thinking, "This doesn't mean me — I'm always on top of everything. My socks are always sorted, I take my car in for a check-up right on time. Same with my teeth. I'm really a very together person."

Well, we have news for all of our together persons: You can place your Observer & Eccentric Classified ad ANYTIME you want to. MONDAY through FRIDAY.

We're here five days a week (and beginning July 5 a couple of nights) Just give us a call and we'll get your ad placed for the very next edition of your hometown newspaper.

Housing stock registers remarkable climb

New housing units in the U.S. have averaged a million annually for the last eight years. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Privately owned single-family homes in the United States have an aggregate value today of more than $2 trillion and represent the single largest category of assets in this country, according to the president of the National Association of Realtors.

Donale I. Hovde, president of the association, in reviewing a report prepared by the National Association of Realtors Economics and Research Division, noted that at the end of 1978 there were more than 55 million single-family dwellings in this country.

"In terms of value and size," Hovde said, "this impressive stock of homes ranges from modest rowhouses to elegant estates. Taken together these home have a combined value in the neighborhood of $2.2 trillion.

The report points out that $2.2 trillion represents one-fourth of the entire wealth of this nation and adds that if this sum were divided evenly between every man, woman and child, it would amount to slightly more than $10,000 per person.

"ONE AMAZING fact to emerge from this study, in my estimation, is that more than one-third of all single-family homes are owned free and clear," Hovde said.

Hovde said ownership of a home, unlike other forms of wealth, is not the special province of the very few. Currently, more than 43 million households own the single-family home in which they reside and another 12 million are owned as investment properties or as second homes for occasional use.

"While some of our nation's assets are being depleted, the wealth represented by single-family homes continues to grow," Hovde said. "New construction activity, upgrading of existing houses, and a general appreciation in the value of both structures and the underlying land has caused a remarkable increase in the total value of our nation's single-family housing stock."

THE REPORT notes that in 1960, the 45 million single-family homes across the nation had an estimated value of $510 billion. By 1970, there were 47 million homes valued at $890 billion. In the past eight years the number of homes grew dramatically to more than 55 million units and the value doubled to the $2.2 trillion figure.

Translated from Spanish to English, LaPlaya means beach; and outdoor activity is the theme for a new subdivision in Orchard Lake Village.

Controlled by an architectural committee, home plans for the sub must be approved for design, size and placement on the lot. Spokesmen for the development say no two homes will look alike. Houses range in size from 2,600 square feet to 5,000 square feet. There are paved roads and underground utilities throughout the subdivision.

Presently, there are four models to view. An additional 14 lots remain for the buyer interested in a custom home.

It's called a what? Well, now you know

Architectural descriptions play an important role in real estate. They paint word pictures for prospective home buyers in their hunt for suitable lodging.

While some readers benefit from such descriptions as "Cape Cod," or "California ranch," others are confused. That's not surprising because American homes have nearly 60 architectural styles.

One of the most enduring architectural styles in America is the Cape Cod colonial. It is the earliest dwelling style still enjoying popularity, according to Henry S. Harrison, author of "Houses," a guide to construction, design and systems. Harrison outlines the distinguishing characteristics of 58 architectural styles.

- Symmetrical shape.
- Compact size, usually 1½ stories.
- Central entrance.
- Centrally located chimney. May be found at one end of the house in updated versions.
- Shingled, gabled roof.
- Floor plan makes it necessary to walk through one room to gain access to another.

The bungalow, in various forms, has enjoyed considerable popularity. Most were built during the first two decades of the century. The term has been used interchangeably with California bungalow. Some homes now classified as ranch style formerly were condidered bungalows. Characteristics may include:

- One-story.
- Compact size.
- An open or enclosed porch at one end.
- Siding generally is wood.

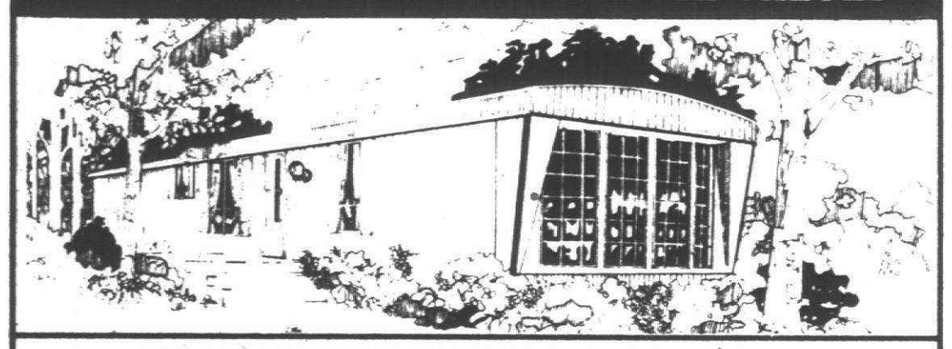

The California ranch has become popular throughout the United States since World War II. Its distinguishing characteristics include:

- One-story.
- Low, pitched roof.
- Sliding and picture windows.
- Sliding glass doors leading to patios.

Brownstones, or row houses, became popular in big Eastern cities during the late 19th century. An adaptation became popular in big Western cities about the same time. Eastern brownstones have the following characteristics:

- Houses have common sidewalls with adjoining homes.
- Four or five stories.
- Front stoop leading up to first floor.
- Brick construction.
- Flat roof.

Gas, mass transit take on added import

Hello Detroit, goodbye suburbs?

Well, not exactly, but concern about short supplies and higher prices of gasoline is affecting homebuying patterns, according to the Western Wayne Oakland County Borad of Realtors (WWOCBR).

"With the growth in multi-car households in recent years, location in relation to jobs, schools, churches, shopping and recreation facilities lessened in importance," said John Cole, WWOCBR president.

"The proximity of major traffic arteries and commuting time rather than distance became prime considerations. With the development of our freeway system, relatively long distances could be covered in a short time, particularly in the non-rush hours.

"BUT WITH THE current gasoline situation threatening to get worse, our members are beginning to find more buyers taking a closer look at how far they will have to travel to reach key locations. Many also are showing strong interest in published details of SEMTA's emerging plans for expanding the public transportation network."

Cole said that this doesn't mean there will be a mass exodus back to the central city, although this market is seeing increased activity and rising prices in recent months.

"Job sites are widely dispersed throughout the metropolitan area today, so that many homeowners work in one suburb and live in another.

"I think we will begin to find that new buyers, including the many transferees into the Detroit ares, will want to look at homes reasonably close to their jobs. Present owners, if they find themselves facing continued gasoline problems, may ask their real estate agents to sell their present home and relocate them in equal housing closer to their workplace."

The WWOCBR officer said some new buyers and those contemplating a move might seek homes near to fellow workers so that car pools can be utilized to and from work.

"The threat of limited gasoline supplies also may make buyers more interested in meeting their prospective neighbors before making the home purchase," he added.

Golden Gate offers options

With models ranging from 1,600 square feet to more than 2,300 square feet and prices ranging from $85,100 to more than $95,900, Golden Gate Square subdivision is open and ready for business.

Located at the corner of Big Beaver and Dequindre the development is about 1.5 miles from the I-75 and Rochester interchange.

The subdivision is wrapped around a neighborhood shopping center featuring a major supermarket, two drug stores, several restaurants, a large hardware store, doctor and dentist offices, a meat market, a dry cleaners and a nursery school.

St. Croix Builders is handling the subdivision, and a spokesmen for the real estate agents, The Home Office, say many different options are available on any of several models.

The subdivision will include about 70 lots, the most common 60 by 125 feet.

It's possible to finance in face of inflation

Homebuyers can use new financing techniques to get relief from high interest rates, high down payments, and other home financing problems, according to University of Michigan Professor Karl G. Pearson.

Pearson, a U-M professor of business administration and director of real estate education in the Graduate School of Business Administration, described a variety of mortgage and financing strategies.

"For young couples, unable to stretch their incomes to cover the regular monthly payments, there is the graduated mortgage plan," he said. "This starts off with modest monthly payments — consistent with modest incomes — and advances the payments to the regular amount over a period of years."

On a medium priced home, for example, monthly payments might start at $318 for the first year and increase in each of the next five years to a continuing level of $457.

"MONTHLY PAYMENTS may also be cut down," Pearson continued, "by persuading the lender to extend the maturity of the mortgage loan. If the maturity were extended to 40 years, instead of the usual 30 years, this would result in a smaller amount in the monthly payment to apply to principal. True enough, the interest for the full period would be greater, but most borrowers would not feel this, for mortgages are usually refinanced in less than 10 years."

In using a "split mortgage" to cut down on monthly payments, the U-M authority said, a buyer obtains a mortgage on the structure for the period represented by its life expectancy, but takes out a long-term lease for the land for this period.

Pearson suggested that home buyers with insufficient down payment money might secure a loan from their life insurance company, based on the cash surrender value of their policy. "Your interest rate is specified in the policy. On an older policy, the interest rate may be as low as 3 percent. On recent policies the rate may be as high as 8 percent, which is still below market interest rates.

THE LOAN remains in effect as along as you wish. If you default on interest, this is added to the principal of the loan. If you die before repaying the loan, the amount still owed is deducted from the insurance proceeds."

In states with interest ceilings below prevailing rates — 23 states with 50 percent of the population restrict home mortgage loans to a maximum interest rate of 10 percent or less — many would-be borrowers circumvent the problem by paying a commitment fee to their lender in return for securing a loan at this reduced ceiling, Pearson explained.

'They know that the proven winner in the investment derby stakes is a home. The average new home price has gone up 81 percent in the last five years, as against a 47 percent increase in the cost of living.'
— Prof. Karl G. Pearson

"If your pension fund approves," he added, "you may get a loan for your down payment based on your vested interest in the fund. This enables one to buy today's home, based on tomorrow's pension."

Pearson noted that the old rule of thumb said that one should not exceed one-third of income for housing expenses — mortagge payments, taxes, insurance and utilities. With housing expenses rising, he added, it is now estimated that one third of homeowners are allocating more than 40 percent of income to them.

"WHY HAVE the prices of homes been reaching all-time highs? Bezause the costs of land, labor, materials, and interest have naver been higher. Because more would-be buyers than ever before are getting into the act, buying now before the price goes up more, providing more competition to buy houses coming on market, and driving up the price."

Should would-be buyers wait for home prices to come down? "You will wait in vain," Pearson said. "The costs of land, labor, and materials are not going to come down. If you keep on waiting, home prices will rise so much in the interim as to wipe out your potential savings, and down payments will be even higher than they are today.

"The home-buying spree will last just as long as buyers continue to see evidence that home prices are still going up.

Prices may be rising, but buyers are saving faster

Although home prices continued to rise last year, first-time home buyers reported it took less time to save up the down payment than it did first-time buyers a year earlier, a national survey by the Family Housing Bureau reveals.

The median price of a home purchased in 1978 by first-time buyers was $57,500, compared with $36,800 in 1977, according to the survey. New and existing homes were included.

Yet it took first-time buyers 2.2 years to save up the down payment, compared with 2.5 years reported by first-time buyers in 1977.

If the home was priced under $30,000, the 1978 first-time buyer needed only 1.7 years to come with the down payment, down from 2.2 years for 1977 buyers. And if the home was more than $50,000, the first-time buyer needed just 2.7 years to collect the down payment, compared with 4.4 years for buyers a year earlier.

THE AVERAGE down payment made by a first-time buyer in the survey was 12.4 percent of the purchase price, which, on a median price of $37,500, comes out to $4,650.

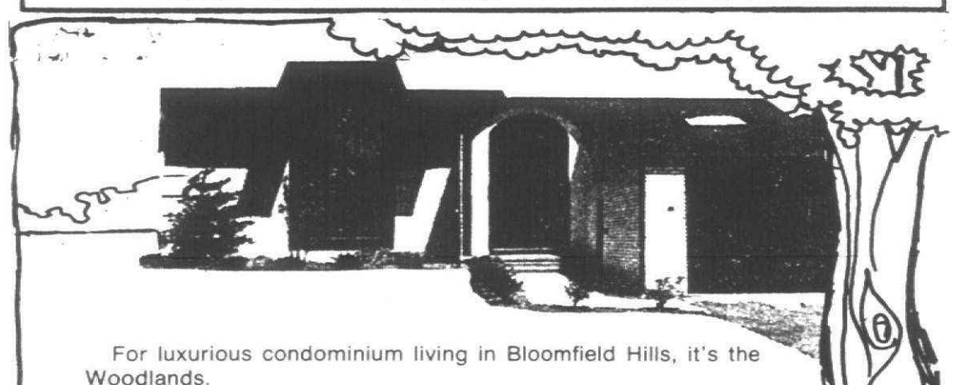

In 1977, the average down payment by a first-timer was 19.2 percent. That came out to $7,065 on a median price of $36,800.

"The conclusion is that first-time buyers last year made a smaller down payment and took on higher monthly payments," a Family Housing Bureau spokesman said. Median monthly payments were $346 for 1978 first-time buyers compared with $307 in 1977 for first-timers.

First-time buyers in 1978, like first-timers in previous years, relied heavily on their own resources to provide the down payment. Lasy year 73.5 percent got their entire down payment from their own savings and investments, compared with 75.6 percent in 1977.

The number getting help from relatives dropped to 8.7 percent from 14.3 percent a year earlier. But the number borrowing part of the down payment from a lending institution rose to 13.7 percent from 7.6 percent in 1977.
