Teacher strike into 2nd week

By EMORY DANIELS

With the Plymouth-Canton teachers' strike entering its second week today, the confrontration has escalated to a pencil-pushing war.

Last week ended with both sides talking about how reasonable their economic offers were and getting out pencils and pocket calculators to demonstrate how unreasonable the other side's offers were.

Although the differences narrowed slightly, negotiators had not yet found the basis upon which a settlement could be worked out and neither side was announcing that the strike soon would be over.

BESIDES THE war of the pencil, there was a major difference of opinion at the end of last week about the status of bargaining.

Both sides left state mediator Tom Badoud with the understanding they would meet again the following Tuesday unless he called for another meeting.

The board team felt Badoud said another meeting wouldn't be called before Tuesday, Sept. 4, unless the union called and indicated it wanted a session.

The union flatly disagrees that Badoud made that proposition. Three members of the unon union's team say Badoud will call another meeting before Tuesday if either side requested one.

Badoud told the Observer Friday that he had not placed the onus on the union for calling a meeting.

"I left it that I would be in contact with both sides and would call a meeting if I felt there was a need to do so."

And that's that Badoud did that day — call a meeting of both sides for 11 a.m. Sunday in his Detroit office.

Meanwhile, Derald McKinley, a union spokesman, said the Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) stood ready 24 hours a day to meet again at the table "if the board has a significant change in its last table position."

The session with mediator Badoud did result in a little movement on each side. The union dropped its salary offer by one percent to 31 percent over three

Ready, take aim . . . FIRE!

Scenes of the Civil War are relived several times a year in this area when various regiments from the North South Skirmish Association get together for muzzle-loading shoots.

The shoots involve plenty of firing at targets for members of the regiments, some for other members of their families to try their hand at shooting, the opportunity to dress up in garb of the Civil War era and a fun weekend of camping for the whole family.

One such event took place in August on the Western Wayne County Conservation Association grounds in Plymouth with the NSSA's First Texas Infantry serving as host regiment. Its members come from this area and downriver communities.

"The outfits are reactived regiments from the Civil War," said Mike Newhouse, Livonian who belongs to the First Texas Infantry.

"The object of the meets is to engage in competitive shooting, with each man's ability pitted against one member of a competing team."

IN THE COURSE of a weekend shoot, there are individual events with paper bullseye-type targets, team match shooting with carbines using breakable targets and finally, on Sunday, the musket-shooting, again with breakable targets. Such targets may be clay birds or something like paper cups filled with water.

Shooting is done at 50 or 100 yards, with some events with revolving targets at 25 yards.

'Each event has a fixed time limit," Newhouse said. "The winning team is the one that can break the most targets in that time. Then the events are totaled to determine the winner for the event."

Coming out ahead in both Saturday and Sunday events in the recent shoot was the First Michigan Infantry, composed of shooters from various parts of this area.

SPECIAL SAFETY precautions are observed at all meets. The host team does not participate in the shooting but takes charge of arrangements and makes certain rules are observed, Newhouse said.

In addition, at the recent shoot, members of the Western Wayne Conservation Association group were posted during shooting events.

For more pictures of shoot activities, see page 3A.

Police millage may be doubled

The Canton Township Board of Trustees is expected to act on a recommendation to increase a special tax assessment for police by two mills ($2 per $1,000 assessed property valuation) within the next two weeks.

Board members will also consider a recommendation of finance director Mike Gorman to keep the fire millage at its present level — 1¼ mills ($1.25 per $1,0000 assessed property value.)

The rates will be set following last Thursday's public hearing on the millage proposals.

Most residents at the hearing favored the proposed increase in the police tax rate. The department's proposed 1980 budget, set at $1.27 million, would finance the salaries of an additional 12 patrol officers.

The proposed tax hike would double the two mills that are now being levied for police. In 1979, however, $260,000 was taken from surplus funds to support the department. The department's 1979 budget was set at $788,000.

Gorman said the township's cash reserve is now "at a level where we don't want to reduce it any further."

Police Chief Jerry Cox said the hiring of 12 additional patrol officers would increase the township's resident-police ratio from .57 patrol officers per 1,000 residents to .88 officers per 1,000 residents.

According to Cox, the federal government recommends two police officers per 1,000 residents. He said surrounding communities provide an average 1.8 police officers per 1,000 residents.

The Canton Police Department, which was established in 1976, has been unable to provide crime prevention services because of its limited budget, Cox said.

Self-serve gas station issue fires up board members

Supervisor Noel Culbert points to petitions of 4,400 Canton residents as a major reason for lifting a ban on self-service gasoline pumps.

But Trustee Robert Greenstein and other members of the Canton board have turned Culbert's recommendation to lift the ban into an explosive issue tied with shortage of auto repair facilities in the township.

At a special board meeting Thursday night, Culbert submitted a proposed ordinance that would have allowed stations to provide self-service islands along with attendant-operated pumps.

After an hour's discussion, the issue was tabled until Feb. 1 to give the planning commission an opportunity to propose specific zoning districts for gasoline stations.

The zoning districts would specify sites where stations with auto repair bays, self-service pumps and full-service pumps could be constructed.

GREENSTEIN INSISTS that the zoning districts are needed "to protect housewives who go down the road and get a flat tire."

He points to the large number of gasoline stations in Canton which offer no repair services. Greenstein maintains that a repeal of the ban on self-service pumps would insure the construction of all gasoline-only stations in the township unless his zoning district proposal is approved.

He ties self-service pumps with an allegation that oil companies will take the least expensive route to build stations. Gasoline-only stations are cheaper to build than those with auto repair bays.

But two oil company representatives who attended Thursday's meeting objected to the zoning district proposal.

Norman Hyman, an attorney for Total Petroleum Co., maintains that the township lacks the legal authority to legislate the type of services which gasoline dealers must offer.

"The fact is that there's a general trend to eliminate service bays whether you have self-serve or not," he said. "The two are totally unrelated.

"In those locations where service bays make money, the law of economics will dictate that there will be service bays."

Al Erwin, who selects construction sites for Shell Oil Co., questioned the ability of the township to determine which sites would be profitable for various types of stations.

Greenstein maintains that the township can legally stipulate the type of station that must be built on a site on the basis of health, safety and welfare.

"I want someone to be there to repair cars when they break down," he said. "This (zoning district proposal) would protect us from a fleet of gas stations that wouldn't change a fan belt."

CULBERT INSISTS that the ordinance he has proposed "is only fair" to the large number of residents who want to pump their own gas. Approximately 4,400 residents recently signed petitions in an eight-day period at the Meijer Thrifty Acres gasoline station in support of allowing self-service pumps.

"I find it obnoxious that I have to drive five to 10 miles to pump my own gas," Culbert objected.

The supervisor was visibly angry over a 3-2 decision of the board to table the matter without discussion while he was out of the room. The original motion to table the matter was rescinded at Culbert's insistence.

"I find it cheap and shoddy that you'd do that," he objected.

In the end, the self-service matter was tabled by a 5-1 vote with Culbert dissenting. Clerk John Flodin was absent from the meeting.

COPPING A CONTRACT

A dispute over the hiring of three additional police sergeants has led to a tentative contract agreement between Canton Township and the Canton Police Officers Association (CPOA). Union and township officials agree that the tentative pact would probably not have been reached for another week if the CPOA had not sought an injunction to prevent the hirings. The restraining order was sought by the CPOA on grounds that promotions are a negotiable item. Wayne County Circuit Judge Benjamin Burdick requested Wednesday's unscheduled bargaining session in lieu of granting the injunction. The tentative agreement was reached at 4 a.m. Thursday. Details of the CPOA's first contract will not be released until the agreement is ratified sometime during the next two weeks.

COOPERATIVE EFFORT

Douglass Koch, an unsuccessful candidate for the Plymouth-Canton school board during the last election, says he is getting together with other citizens to publicly urge cooperation between the school district and teachers' union in an effort to end the strike. Koch says he has contacted school board members and PTO councils to discuss the effort. The group of concerned individuals hopes to help settle matters through such means as newspaper ads.

WE GATHER TOGETHER

The Canton Township Board of Trustees meets regularly beginning 7 p.m. Tuesday in the township administration building on Canton Center Road. Topics on the agenda will include a discussion on renewal of the township's annual block grant.

As in past years, the township must designate a site for potential low-income housing in order to comply with requirements for the grant (about $250,000). Supervisor Noel Culbert says he will not vote for the site chosen last year, on Haggerty near the Century Farms subdivision, because "it seems to me the board voted unanimously to keep further low-income housing out of Canton." The site designation does not mean such housing is actually scheduled to be built in the area. Other agenda items include a discussion on the Forest Trails subdivision PUD, a sewer resolution, discussion on a liquor license policy and presentation of the 1979 general fund budget.

Help for the Army

The Plymouth Salvation Army received a boost last week when the Plymouth Community Fund presented a check, which will be spent on disaster emergency equipment, engine and window repair on the Army's bus, office equipment. The grant was an addition to the yearly support to the Salvation Army from the people of Plymouth through the Fund. Eugene Kornegay (left), president of the Fund Board, recently presented the check to Lt. William Harfoot who used the equipment to show the repairs needed of the Army's van. Canton Rotary Club raises funds on corn

The Canton Rotary Club members are among many who will be helping Plymouth Rotarians serve some 16,000 chicken dinners this Sunday.

When the Rotary chicken barbecue first started in 1956 it was handled entirely by Plymouth Rotarians.

With the present size of the barbecue, however, the 126 members of the Rotary Club of Plymouth need an additional 250 helpers on Chicken Sunday.

Besides the 16,000 chicken halves that will be served from noon to 6 p.m. there also is the sweetcorn — a project in itself.

Last year the Plymouth Rotary Club purchased the sweetcorn from local farmer Okie Hamblin.

The Canton Rotary Club, as a club fundraiser, husked the corn,iced it down and delivered it Sunday morning ready to cook to Kellogg Park.

Bill Tesen, Canton Rotary president, said that the project was so successful last year that this year Canton would supply the corn directly to Plymouth Rotary.

Dave Chesney was appointed chairman of the committee and Chesney had made plans to stage an old fashioned husking bee with the assistance of the young adult group of St. Michael's Lutheran Church in Canton.

Some 150 persons will turn out at John Swartz's greenhouse on Lilley Road south of Joy in Canton to husk the 16,000 ears of corn in just a little more than three hours.

The corn then will be bagged, 60 ears to a bag, iced down with ice furnished by the Russ Palmer farm, and delivered Sunday morning where Plymouth Township farmer and Rotarian Wilford Bunyea will be waiting with his steam engine to boil the corn fresh.

Community education signup begins tomorrow

Registration for programs and activities offered by the Community Education Department of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will begin tomorrow.

School district residents have received by mail the Community Education Bulletin for the Fall of 1979 which lists all upcoming classes, programs and activities.

Registration begins Sept. 4 with classes beginning the week of Sept. 17.

"Activities are planned for everyone, from preschool through senior citizens," says Larry Masteller, director.

"We invite residents to take a close look at the wide variety of programs, new and old, that we are offering to the community."

IN ADDITION TO the many evening courses scheduled for fall semester, the daytime program for adult education has doubled in size this year.

Daytime classes first were offered last fall to accommodate persons who work evenings or who prefer a daytime schedule.

Because of the success of the daytime program, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education recently supported the refurbishing of two portable units at Central Middle School for the use of adult education students.

"We are very pleased that the board has provided us with new space for our adult education activities," says David Dursum, assistant director.

"Our daytime schedule is excellent for women whose children are in school and for those who work second shifts. This expansion allows us to provide increased services to the community."

CLASSES TO BE offered in the daytime include typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, math and English.

Offerings also will include human behavior, leathercraft and independent study — an opportunity for students to set their own schedule while completing courses in government, history, consumer math, reading or composition.

Additions to the daytime program will be English for the foreign born and additional classes on General Educational Development (GED) preparatikon.

Most daytime classes also are offered in the evening program.

ALL VOCATIONAL and academic classes are free to those persons working toward a high school diploma and not attending a day school program.

They also are free to high school graduates under 20 years of age and to senior citizens, providing minimum enrollment is reached.

Registration begins Tuesday in the community education office in Room 129 of Plymouth Canton High on Canton Center Road just south of Joy.

Hours are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday. All class fees are payable at the time of registration.

Off on A TANGENT

BY Ron Garbinski

So long, good buddy

Harry Mauthe Jr., a photographer for the Observe & Eccentric Newspapers for the last 13 years, died Aug. 25 after drowning in a swimming pool at the Hilton Inn in Des Moines, Iowa. He was working as a freelance photographer at the time of his death. While with the Observer, Mauthe once worked in the Plymouth office. The following column was written by Ron Garbinski, editor of the West Bloomfield Observer.

Usually he'd call after midnight and we'd talk for hours.

About anything. Our next tangent. Our last tangents.

Women. Work. Newspapers. Goals.

Our California trips.

And photography . . . his life.

He was always excited about something.

But I'll never answer those calls again.

I lost one of my best friends last weekend.

Harry Grant Mauthe Jr., of Farmington drowned Saturday in Des Moines, Iowa, far from his family, friends and the things he treasured.

But I'll always remember him as being off on some picture assignment. Off trying to capture the best damn photograph that could possibly tell the whole story in one picture.

HARRY WAS 28 — blond, witty, intelligent, intense.

He was a news photographer, on the staff of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers for the past 13 years.

He left the O&E a couple months ago and pursued freelancing jobs which took him around the country. He thrived on each one.

Harry and I met in 1974, when I first came to work for the O&E Newspapers. I left to return to school and then to become an editor on a daily newspaper.

More than a year later, I was invited to a party at the home of Tom Donoghue, former sports editor of the Observer Newspapers.

Harry was at that party, too.

When I told him I wasn't satisfied working on a daily, he picked up the phone and called Farmington Editor Steve Barnaby to tell him I was available.

Harry believed in me. He is the person I credit with bringing me back to a community newspaper.

He was proud of that.

FROM THAT day on, we became close friends.

Harry and I shared scores of tangents together.

We ventured out on countless feature patrols.

We spent a month driving cross-country to attend the Rose and Super Bowls in California. Tom had moved there to become a photographer in Los Angles.

We walked the Mackinac Bridge and meandered the state together.

We worked freelance jobs as a team.

We were always off doing things I'd probably never do with other friends.

I guess that's why I enjoyed Harry so much. We shared a desire to just pack up our gear and take off . . . we shared a love of spontaneity.

AND WE shared it in pictures, too.

He'd always have that extra print made to show me standing by a roaring apartment fire, with the president, at the Rose Bowl, walking across the Mackinac Bridge . . . me here, me there, and then often us together.

We shared what only good friends could on personal and professional levels — our joys, tears and loves.

He was always there when I needed something done. He helped me cope with some difficult times in my life. And I helped him.

That's what made those late night calls important. They helped me cope with my frustrations and gave me a chance to help him face up to his.

It's going to be tough now, without Harry, to pick up the pieces and just move out on to my next tangent whenever I feel the urge.

It's a tragic blow for many of us who worked with Harry over the years.

It's a loss, too, for the readers of newspapers.

Harry was a damn fine photographer.

He was even a better friend. . . one of the best I had.

During our last California trip together, Harry (center); Tom (right), Stinger, the Golden Retriever, and I spent our days enjoying the sun, sand and laid-back life of Hermosa Beach.

Daniel's Den

By Emory Daniels

How the teachers strike will end

Plymouth-Canton teachers are on strike and, not suprisingly, the main issue is money.

Most strikes are over money, although there have been a few exceptions.

And the main money issue is how much is an individual employee or group of employees worth.

Pushing against an employee's economic value is the employer's ability or willingness to pay.

In between these two points is a settlement.

Settlements are reached when the employer bends on willingness to pay and an employee compromises on perceived economic worth.

ECONOMIC WORTH always has been an intriguing question.

The answer given at any time always depends upon who's asking the question — the employee, employer or a third party?

Ultimately, of course, the economic value of unionized employees is defined by the process contract — a determination made in bargaining.

Philosophically, the best answer which I think can be given was recently recited by J.P. McCarthy on his radio show.

Ultimately, the worth of any employee is determined by what the boss is willing to pay. Thus the specific amount an employee is worth is determined by the line of the check the boss signs.

The discussion on radio dealt with salaries of athletes, but the philosophy is general. J.P. was asked whether Ron LeFlore was worth $4 million and answered he was if Jim Campbell was willing to pay that much.

The worth of any individual employee is a very subjective thing, McCarthy correctly noted, without any way to objectively measure. The only answer is what salary eventually is agreed to by both parties.

WITH TEACHERS, the question can be even more subjective than for athletes.

That's because the issue can become very emotional.

"How much is your child's education worth? What price tag will you put on your child's future?"

What price tag do you put on motherhood, apple pie and the American flag?

That same kind of emotionalism crops up during a teachers' strike. Because children are kept out of the classroom, many parents will demand either that teachers fold up or the board give away the store so teachers will return and the schools will open.

The fact is the issues which divided both sides before the strike are identically the same as those which divide both sides during a strike. The difference between two sides is the important factor which has to be settled. The primary goal should be to settle the difference, not end the strike.

Another emotional area of teacher strikes is the fact that state law does not recognize the right of public employees to strike. Teachers and other public employees do have the legal right to bargain collectively, but strikes are not legal.

Of course, the fact is that no group of employees could ever successfully bargain collectively without the existence of a threat of a strike.

Realistically, teachers will strike as long as school districts tolerate strikes. And since 1967, when collective bargaining for teachers ensued, only one school district — Crestwood — has taken the ultimate step in refusing to tolerate a strike.

So, from a practical standpoint, strikes are part of the collective bargaining process for teachers and other public employees — regardless of what is written in statue. I make no value judgement on that but only recognize what exists.

THE DIFFERENCE between the two sides in Plymouth-Canton now is about 8 percent with the teachers asking for 31 percent over three years and the board offering 23 percent over three years. That's based on the latest known table offers from both sides.

The administration points out that the difference is just less than $1.5 million total or the equivalent of two mills.

The administration, of course, likes to translate the difference to millage because that has symbolic importance to taxpayers.

The teachers union, with some logic, likes to measure its economic worth against what is being paid in salaries in nearby, comparable districts and points to Wayne-Westland which last month settled for 36 percent over three years.

Thus, the argument goes, if Plymouth-Canton teachers are willing to settle for 5 percent less over three years, then the school board ought to be willing to agree.

The problem, of course, is no two school districts are identical in size, number of students, local taxbase, state and federal aid received, tax rates, operating budgets, number of teachers, fringe benefits, etc.

It's a jungle trying to find two comparable school districts which are enough alike in all facets to represent a basis for settlement.

What it will come down to is not what Livonia, Wayne, Westland, Northville, Ann Arbor or any other school district pays its teachers but what Plymouth-Canton is willing to pay its teachers.

And when all is said and done, when that question is answered, the strike will end.

Off the Walls

1st love boring

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

There is not a soul in the world quite as boring as a woman in love.

Oh, I suppose most everyone is in love. That is to say, they may love their spouse with the tolerant and deep affection that comes with years of togetherness. But the type of "lady in love" who I refer to is the one who has newly fallen. The one with stars in her eyes, a smile on her face, and a song in her heart. Gad, is she a bore!

There is only one subject in the entire world of any interest to a lady thusly afflicted, and that subject is HIM. HE is the most fascinating creature on God's earth. She can talk forever on his endearing little personal qualities that make him so unlike and above the rest of the male species. And she does. She talks about him until you find yourself flinching when you hear her start a sentence with his name.

You always know you're in for a long story of his wonderfulness that inevitably bores you beyond words. After a couple of hours of her soliloquy on his uniqueness, you may find you're having difficulty feigning interest and replying "Oh, really?", in the appropriate places. Don't worry. She's usually too preoccupied with her topic to notice.

What the lady doesn't seem to realize is that she is describing a mere mortal — in most cases, quite an ordinary man. His daily habits, thoughts, conversations, are no more interesting than yours or mine. It is only through the eyes of his beloved that he takes on these mysterious and intriguing qualities. Unfortunately, she seems to feel compelled to share these treasures of information with the rest of us.

The man can do no wrong. When he spends a night out playing poker with the guys, it's "cute". Whenever he comes to her aid in any small way he's incredibly thoughtful and gallant. This man could take out the garbage with finesse.

It's difficult to get angry at a gal in this frame of mind, despite the fact that you may hide behind the breadstuffs if you happen to see her in the supermarket. That's because we've all been there.

I don't recall any of my friends working up the courage to tell me I was boring the socks off of them when I first fell in love with my husband. Looking back, I can see I must have been a real drag. I could have done a 40-minute discourse on his shirt size had anyone been foolish enough to ask.

So, far be it for me to tell my friend that her Prince Charming is beginning to sound like a real dud, but please excuse me if I'm looking forward to the day when she discovers it for herself. Then we can go back to discussing the really interesting things in life — like me and my problems!

From our readers

Both sides have bungled at the table

Editor:

Perhaps by the time this letter is published, the dispute between the administration and the teachers will have been settled. I surely hope so.

If it has been settled, then many will see my comments as unnecessary though I feel that they are valid for future negotiations.

If it has not been resolved, then I will no doubt be joining the chorus of those accusing someone. The differences may be that I am pointing at all parties — teachers, administration, and school board.

I SPEAK FROM some experience and expertise having been involved in bargaining (management side), been trained and teach on personnel and industrial relations matters, and married to a teacher (I hope that this last will not disqualify me from being accepted as an objective complainer).

It is inconceivable that negotiations on the issues of economics were not discussed until a few days before the start of school.

Both sides (or is it three sides?) are responsible for this show of incompetence — bordering on a kind of malfeasance. If it takes two sides to negotiate, it only takes one to put an issue on the table, call for its consideration, and push for its discussion. While all parties are considering ways to blame the other, I and many others wish to hear no alibis. You are all responsible.

I recognize that certain minor issues must be dealt with, primarily to acquire a sense of accomplishment and to "get to know one another," but surely you were all aware of the days of the month and surely you were all aware of the tough economic nut to be cracked.

To wait until a few days before scheduled classes and then engage in marathon bargaining is simply poor management. I doubt there is much community sympathy for those who would make such a blunder and then keep our children and parents up-in-the-air over the error.

MY OTHER COMMENT is directed to the lack of control and knowledge exhibited by some of our school board — evidenced by the board meeting on the first day of the teacher walkout.

It seemed apparent that a few trustees were less than well-informed about the state of negotiations, the specifics of the impasse, and the exact steps expected to lead to a settlement.

There was even the appearance of deception or at least ignorance of the financial ramifications of the various proposals. It seems that it should be the duty of every member to not only be current on negotiations, but ready to contribute to settlement — to protect our children, to guard our taxes; and even to assure an amicable settlement for administrators and teachers.

Lucie Haddad as she looked in 1968 after winning one of the beauty contests she competed in.

Pagent winner runs restaurant

To most patrons of the Canton House restaurant at Ford and Lilley roads, Lucie Haddad is the friendly proprietor of the establishment who greets her customers with a smile and a hello.

But Ms. Haddad, 27, who moved to the United States from Lebanon in 1968, once reigned over more than a cash register and dishes.

The current Plymouth resident was chosen as Lebanon's representative to the Miss Universe Pageant in 1968. At 17, she was chosen over 38 other contestants to wear the Miss Lebanon 1968 crown.

But instead of entering the Miss Universe beauty pageant, Ms. Haddad married and moved to the United States. The first runner-up in the Miss Lebanon Pageant was sent to the international beauty contest in her place, since married women are not eligible for the Miss Universe crown.

But Ms. Haddad says that she retained her title as Miss Lebanon as well as the gifts she received.

"The year 1968 was a really big year for me," says Ms. Haddad. "I won four beauty pageants, I modeled, I got married and I moved to the United States. Teams I was on even won the basketball and volleyball championships that year."

Ms. Haddad now operates the Canton House restaurant. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

LWV invites area women

An open invitation has been extended to all interested women in the Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi area to attend an informal meeting about the League of Women Voters.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 12, in Bird Elementary School at the northwest corner of Sheldon and Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth.

Nancy White, LWV president, explained plans for the meeting.

"Presently there are 45 local leagues in Michigan, all of which schedule regular meetings for their memberships on such topics as natural resources, education, human resources, financing government services in Michigan, and a variety of local government problems and issues.

Teacher strike continues percent over three years and the board agreed to the union's definition of capped COLA (cost of living allowance) and how it would be applied.

On money, that left both sides eight percent apart with the board still offering 23 percent over three years. The other unsettled item was a union request to improve dental insurance coverage.

Under the board's latest offer a teacher with a master's degree at the top of the scale now earning $24,744 would get $26,723 the first year of the contract, $28,861 the second, and rise to $30,882 in the third year.

Under the union's latest offer that same teacher would earn $27,466 in the first year of the contract, $30,212 in the second, and $33,234 for the third year.

Both sides agree the difference between salary proposals is around $1.5 million. But Tom Cotner, member of the PCEA negotiations team, disagrees with the suggestion that the $1.5 million is the equivalent of two mills.

"That at least implies the board would have to levy two more mills to pay the $1.5 million and that's just not so. I can show the figures to prove that," said Cotner.

Cotner pointed out that the $1.5 million increase is over the three years of the proposed contract. During those three years, he added, the district's operating budget will total a conservative $115 million (based on only a $5 million increase over the last two years).

Thus, points out Cotner, the $1.5 million added cost represents only 1 percent of the district's operating income for the life of the contract.

COTNER CLAIMS that the district's costs for teachers now represents about 53 percent of the total budget and under the board's offer would drop to 40 percent of the budget next year.

Cotner says his computations includes the board's last offer plus increments.

Superintendent John M. Hoben says total teacher cost is now about 55 percent of the budget and that when the board's offer is added to increments and fringes the added cost is $1.9 million.

When the cost of hiring 40-plus new teachers is added in, Hoben adds, the added cost to the district for teachers reaches $2.2 million.

"The budget will be increasing by $4 million," Hoben says, "and so half of that will be spent on teachers based on the board's last offer."

Hoben began wondering aloud Thursday whether Plymouth-Canton Community Schools had been selected as a strike target by the Michigan Education Association (MEA).

"Plymouth-Canton has made an offer which is higher than three other districts which just recently made a settlement with their teachers but we don't have a contract."

Hoben pointed to the following settlements: Garden City with a 1982 MA maximum of $30,394; Riverview with an '82 MA maximum of $30,700; and Grosse Ile with an '82 MA maximum of $30,700. The board's offer, Hoben said, would result in a 1982 MA maximum of $30,881.

The superintendent added that he felt the PCEA was "shooting for a Wayne-Westland settlement" reached last month for 36 percent over three years with a top of more than $32,000.

IN AN NEGOTIATIONS update report issued last week, the school board pointed out that:

"The average teachers salary in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is over $18,500 for approximately nine months work. The Board of Education has offered an economic package that will provide the average teacher with a three year total wage increase of over 38 percent including cost of living and increment.

"The teacher's union was demanding almost 41 percent when it called the strike last Monday morning but has since raised its demands to almost 49 percent. The Board of Education believes the union's demands are unconscionable and not in the best interest of the community."

OFFICIAL NOTICE OF SALE

SCHOOLCRAFT COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT

COUNTIES OF WAYNE, WASHTENAW AND OAKLAND, STATE OF MICHIGAN

LIMITED TAX GENERAL OBLIGATION NOTES (TAX ANTICIPATION)

SEALED BIDS for the purchase of the above notes will be received by the undersigned at Administrative Offices Room A-250 located at 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, Michigan, on Wednesday, the 12th day of September 1979, until 3:00 o'clock p.m., Eastern Daylight Time, at which time and place said bids will be publicly opened and read.

NOTE DETAILS: The notes will be dated October 1, 1979, will mature April 1, 1980, and will bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding 8% per annum fixed by the bids therefor. The notes will be in denominations of $5,000 or multiples or combinations thereof, designated by the original purchaser of the notes.

Notes of this issue will not be subject to prior redemption.

PAYING AGENT: Both principal and interest shall be payable at a bank or trust company located in Michigan qualified to act as paying agent under State or United States law, to be designated by the original purchaser of the notes subject to the approval of the undersigned.

PURPOSE AND SECURITY: The notes are issued in anticipation of operating taxes due and payable on December 1, 1979. From the first collections of said taxes the Community College District is required to set aside in a separate depositary account that percentage of such collections which the tax levied for operating bears to the total tax levy, until the amount so set aside is sufficient for payment of principal of and interest on the notes herein offered and any other notes hereafter issued in anticipation of said taxes. The Community College District reserves the right to issue additional notes in anticipation of said taxes of equal standing with the notes herein offered, within the limitations prescribed by law. The Notes are general obligations of the Community College District and in case of the insufficiency of the taxes pledged for the payment thereof the Community College District is required to pay the notes from any funds legally available therefor. The Community College District does not have the power to levy any additional taxes for the payment of the Notes in excess of its constitutional and statutory tax rate limits.

GOOD FAITH: A certified or cashier's check in the amount of 2% of the par value of the notes drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer of the Community College District must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the notes. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail.

AWARD OF NOTES: The notes will be awarded to the bidder whose bid produces the lowest interest cost computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified in the bid, the total dollar value of all interest on the notes from October 1, 1979, to their maturity calculated on a 360-day year basis (twelve 30-day months) and deducting therefrom any premium. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the notes or at a price less than 100% of their par value will be considered.

LEGAL OPINION: Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified approving opinion of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, attorneys of Detroit, Michigan, which will be furnished without expense to the purchaser of the notes at the delivery thereof.

PRINTED NOTES: The Community College District will furnish printed notes (cost of printing at purchaser's expense) at the purchaser's request, in which case the purchaser may be required to take delivery of a temporary note.

DELIVERY OF NOTES: The Community College District will furnish notes ready for execution at its expense. Notes will be delivered without expense to the purchaser (except cost of printed notes) at Detroit, Michigan or a place to be mutually agreed upon.

THE RIGHT IS RESERVED TO REJECT ANY OR ALL BIDS:

ENVELOPES containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Notes."

Defense needs rebuilding

Chief gridders well balanced

By BRAD EMONS

Plymouth Canton football coach Dave Schuele has a lot of time to think while commuting from Highland Park each day.

He is hoping positive thoughts will come along the way. That comes with a good performance from his team who will try to improve on last season's 4-5 record.

A teacher in the Highland Park school district, Schuele attained the most wins ever last season (4). When he took over in 1976, Canton posted a 2-7 mark and then dropped to 0-9 last year.

"I'm very optimistic about this group," said Schuele. "It takes awhile to build.

"We've had better balance than we've ever had before. I think our overall strength is better. The kids have worked hard in the weight program and I think we're just stronger.

"We have a group of juniors here that won five games last year on the junior varsity. I think everybody has improved."

The team's strength this year will lie with the offense where most of the offensive line has experience.

Senior interior linemen Paul Mooney, who has been switched from center to guard, Doug Ward and Ted Toll all return. They will be pressed by juniors Paul Furioso and Mike Dupuis along with Mike Kitti, being considered too as a running back.

Greg Mallare, a senior, seems to have the edge on the quarterback position replacing Scott Dawson.

WE'LL THROW about 12 to 15 times a game," said Schuele. "Greg Is not the dropback passer that Scott was. We'll have to get outside and run a lot of sprint outs, curls and comebacks."

Mallare's back up will probably be junior Kevin Santilli. Another junior, Billy Childs, was also in the picture until Thursday night's scrimmage when he apparently fractured his collarbone.

In the backfield, senior Bobby Hamblin returns as does John Tarr and Steve Gray.

"Tarr was hurt all last year and Hamblin had a good yards per carry average," Schuele said.

The Chiefs must replace Rusty Mandle, the first Canton player ever to gain over 1,000 yards.

Craig Gearns, a 6-1, 210-pound junior, will also be tried in the backfield along with underclassmen Jerry Norgren and Rob Reed.

Contesting for the tight end spot are juniors Gearns and Eric Flabin along with senior Greg Miller.

The split ends will be seniors Mike Swisher and John Kroh and junior Ken Gruden.

"I think we have a lot of balance offensively. Tarr is a shifty runner and other teams won't be able to key on one player like Rusty," said the Canton coach.

"We'll run a split set in the backfield and go from the I-formation some," he said. "We'll run the yeer option and mix in some motion."

ON DEFENSE Canton must answer a few questions.

"On defense we've looked fair," said Schuele. "This is going to be our big-

Replacements needed for swim, cage posts

A number of coaching positions for high school teams in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools have yet to be filled.

The biggest concern is a replacement for Bill Faunce, the Plymouth Canton boys swim coach. He resigned last May after six years directing the Chiefs.

Other jobs that have been posted but not yet filled include the freshman and reserve girls basketball positions at Plymouth Salem.

Besides walking the picket line, Salem varsity head coach Bob Blohm goes three practices a day with the temporary help of Fred Thomann, varsity boys coach at Salem.

Another position still not settled is the freshman boys cage post at Salem.

Coaching positions are set for the girls' program at Canton. Varsity coach Mike McCauley has a new reserve coach — Phyllis Cunningham, who is replacing brother Pat, now on a one-year leave of absence at Illinois State. David Greenwood has joined the staff as the freshman coach.

Faunce built up Canton's swim program as the Chiefs won their first Western Six League championship last season. The team went undefeated in dual meets.

"I resigned to spend more time with my family," said Faunce, a swim coach in the Plymouth-Canton Community School District for 12 years.

"I HAVE four children now and haven't been able to spend much time with them in the winter," he said.

Whoever attains the job, Faunce apparently has left the program in good hands.

Several outstanding young swimmers return including All-American Paul Petersen, a state champion last year in two events.

"It takes a long time to build a program," Faunce said. "I feel they can have an outstanding team next season."

While at Canton, Faunce was instrumental in building the record board on the wall at the Phase III pool. He has also provided hand-made trophies and plaques for all swimmers who hold records at Canton.

Recently, Faunce participated in the swim marathon at Canton conducted by senior Keith Greenleaf, which helped pay off the remaining debt on the electronic timing device.

"I felt obligated to help out with the swim marathon," said Faunce, "and I'm glad it turned out to be a success.

"Keith really worked hard and put a lot of time and effort into it.

"Bill was a great man, and I'm sorry to see him leave," said Athletic Director John Sandmann. "We would have liked to have had hired someone by now. It's critical right now we find somebody."

SANDMANN SAID there are a "few possibilities" within the school district. He did not rule out that someone outside the district could be hired.

The Canton girls swim position was filled last spring when Mark Griffith replaced Ann Massey.

Roudebush settles in

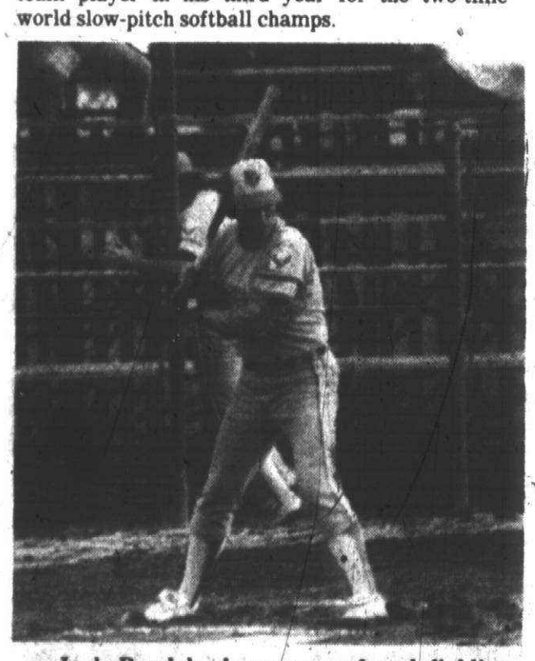
Caesars enjoys playing

By BRAD EMONS

A deader ball and longer fences can't deter Jack Roudebush from his mission.

The Detroit Caesars outfielder has one thing in mind once the regular season is over — another world championship ring.

Roudebush,27, a resident of Canton, is a complete team player in his third year for the two-time world slow-pitch softball champs.



Jack Roudebush uses speed and fielding ability as he leads Detroit Caesars in quest of their third straight world title.

Though his batting average is 100 points off of last season, Roudebush has been a valuable asset making the adjustment from second base to the outfield.

"By some standards I've had an off season," said the native of Noblesville, Ind. "The rule changes have hurt me somewhat but I like to feel I can do other things like run, throw and field.

"I've been a little unlucky. I've hit the ball hard but have come up hitless.

"I'm starting all over with the playoffs. This is what it's all about. Each game is a new game."

Caesars won it best three of five quarterfinal series against Cincinnati (Aug.26) and met Milwaukee in the semifinals last weekend.

Roudebush and other players have been affected by longer distance of some fences and the different types of softballs used this season.

"I've counted six different balls in the last 16 weeks," he said, "and I've always have to adjust accordingly."

ROUDEBUSH came to Detroit in mid-summer 1977. While playing for an amateur team based in Franklin, Ind. (Paul Johnson Inc.), Roudebush was scouted in a tournament by Caesars' owner Mike Illitch and Ray Lombardo, directorof team operations.

"When I was with Paul Johnson, we were playing in a tourney in Merrillville, Tenn," he remembers.

"I was approached by Mike and Ray and I liked their offer," said Roudebush. "I was approached by the Kentucky Bourbons but the league was shaky I was afraid it just wasn't solid."

"I packed my bags and went with Detroit. The first weekend I played in Columbus, Ohio, and I've been with them ever since," he said.

Chief swimmers build for future

By BRAD EMONS

The fortunes of the Plymouth Canton girls swim team will hinge upon the development of underclassmen.

First year coach Mark Griffith will rely mainly on a group of talented juniors.

"It looks good for the coming years," said Griffith. "Most of the girls swam all summer.

"I don't know much about the other teams but we should do well. I think we have a good overall team. They all seem to work hard and are very good to work with in practice."

Griffith, a biology teacher at Canton, has familiarized himself with his personnel with the start of pre-season practice.

"I didn't know any of the girls when I came here," said Griffith, who coached previously at the Dearborn Swim Club in an AAU program.

"I would have to say we are strong in middle distance, backstroke and butterly events," he said. "We maybe strong in the distance freestyle races."

The Chiefs lost Lisa Forsythe, a holder of four school records, to graduation, but returning is the multi-talented Kim Massey, daughter of former Canton swim coach Ann Massey.

The junior standout holds school marks in the 100-yard breast stroke (1:17.4), 500-yard freestyle (5:04.6) and 200-yard freestyle (2:06.6).

'It looks good for the coming years.' — Canton swim coach Mark Griffith

"KIM IS our all-around swimmer," said Griffith. "She can do a lot of things for us."

Junior Tarja Tuominen, an exchange student from Finland, is a welcome addition for the Chiefs. She swims the individual medley.

Other swimmers back include juniors Mary Reardon, Missy McMurray and Julie Stratton.

Reardon will handle the distance races while McMurray will swim the 50 and 100-yard freestyle events. Stratton is also a freestyler.

The top newcomer appears to be freshman Kris Burns. She will most likely swim the backstroke events.

Griffith is also optimistic about his junior diving corps — Ellie Wagner and Chris Wennerberg.

"Chris went to a camp this summer and is an excellent diver," said the first year Canton coach.

The Chiefs finished third last year in the Western Six League but look toward a higher finish this season.

"I'm hoping for improvement," he said. "We have a lot of underclassmen and I don't know much about the league."

Miss Pom Pon a Chief

The Plymouth Canton Chiefettes have done it again.

The pom pon squad recently placed first at the University of Michigan United States Cheerleading Association (USCA) Camp, gaining an invitation to the USCA Grand National Championships n Lansing, Aug. 23-25.

Canton placed second overall in the nationals and was the only school to have two individual performers in the finals — senior Sue Farwell and junior Lisa Potvin.

Potvin earned the honor of Miss Teenage Pom Pon USA after taking first place in her command performance. Farwell was fourth runner-up in the competition.

Potvin earned a $100 scholarship for her effort.

Other Chiefettes who performed in the nationals included seniors Kayla Smith, Barb King, Terri Salyer, Babette King, Marisa Bagnasco, Debbie Thompson, Julie Thompson, Cathy Campbell, Becky Wold and Marie Verduce.

Juniors who participated included Kris Amador, Lisa Riblett, Robin Dansby and Stacey Bookout. The lone sophomore is Jan Guszynski.

The award winning Chiefettes will be performing on Labor Day at the Ann Arbor Meijer Thrifty Acres, 10 a.m.-5 p.m., taking donations for muscular dystrophy.

The squad, who practiced two hours daily in preparation for the event, is coached by Karen Tripp.

Solid Borgess line returns

With his entire offensive line back from last year, Fred Mushinski, football coach at Redford Bishop Borgess, is hopeful that his Spartans will improve upon the 3-6 record which they produced last season.

"At this point, it looks promising," said Mushinski. "We have a nucleus of starters coming back. We should have a good club."

The Spartans return with 17 lettermen and seven offensive starters and five from defense.

While the line is experienced, the backfield definitely is not. Borgess' fortunes, therefore, may very well hinge on how the ball-handlers develop.

Jeff Johnston, six-foot, 205 pounds, will anchor the line at center. He will be flanked by guards Rodney Lopez, 5-11, 180, and Dan Burke, 5-10, 175. Mike Modes, six-foot, 215, and Michael Donnelly, 5-11, 185 will play tackle.

Contending for the starting quarterback berth are Frank Wedesky and Brendan McCarthy, both juniors. Wedesky is the taller of the two at six-foot, 180.

McCarthy stands 5-8, 155.

B.J. Miller, 5-10, 185, seems to have the inside track at the tailback position, according to Mushinski, and John Murzin, 6-2, 205, will likely start at fullback. Murzin played tackle last fall.

Tony Ruggierio, Tom Lane and Tom Farley make up the receiving corps in Borgess' pro-set offense.

Leonard Mazzaco is pushing Burke for the starting nod at noseguard on defense. Pat Jordan, who played with the JV last year, is in line to inherit a defensive end slot.

Gary Mitera and John Breed, juniors, are tackle possibilities, while a couple of sophomores — Ed Pachecho and Jack Wilbert — may see some playing time in the secondary.

gest rebuilding job but we have the material to bring it along.

"The defense must be organized and must run well as a unit."

The nose guard spot will be contested by sophomore Dan Howard and junior Brad Arnold.

Tackle candidates include seniors Brian Butzow, Mark LaForest and Steve Basor. Mooney (6-0, 205 pounds) may also play. Others competing are juniors Bruce King, Ken Van Kirk and Gearns.

At defensive end, junior Chris Koch returns with game experience. On the other side, senior Jeffrey Smith and junior Eddie Pierangelino are competing along with Flabin.

At linebacker, Kitti will join Hamblin and Ward with juniors John Gray and Ken McGuire in reserve.

At the Chief or monster position, a dogfight is shaping up between Norgren, Mallare, junior Sam Roberts and senior Wayne Washburn.

At defensive halfback, Tarr and Gray will play along with Santilli and Swisher, with Kroh and junior Mike Knierim also battling.

The punting and kicking game will be handled by Gray, a soccer-style booter.

"He's (Gray) has been a pleasant surprise," said Schuele. "He kicked a 28-yard field goal in our intra-squad scrimmage and averaged 39 yards on punts.

"That part of the game is so important."

The Chiefs will also find out how important all phases of the game are on Friday night when they entertain Livonia Bentley (0-9 last year) at 8 p.m.

Tank club holds sign-up

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH,
WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN

ORDINANCE NO. LX

An ordinance enacted pursuant to Act No. 246, Public Acts of 1945, as amended, to secure the public health, safety and general welfare, to prevent, reduce and eliminate the dumping or depositing of garbage, rubbish, litter, debris or waste material at construction sites, buildings under construction and areas adjacent thereto; to prevent, reduce and eliminate the dumping or depositing of the same and dust, sand and mud on the streets adjacent and/or abutting those locations; to provide for the removal of the same; to provide for the administration of the requirements and the enforcement thereof, to declare a present emergency, to provide penalties for the violation of its provisions and to repeal all ordinances, or parts thereof, in conflict with its provisions.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH HEREBY ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE. This ordinance shall be known as the "Construction Site Anti-Litter Ordinance".

SECTION 2. PURPOSE. The Charter Township of Plymouth, Wayne County, Michigan, by and through its Board of Trustees, enacts this ordinance for the purpose of securing the public health, safety and general welfare, to prevent, reduce and eliminate the dumping or depositing of garbage, rubbish, litter, debris or waste material at construction sites, buildings under construction and areas adjacent thereto; to prevent, reduce and eliminate the dumping or depositing of the same and dust, sand and mud on the streets adjacent and/or abutting those locations; to provide for the removal of the same; to provide for the administration of the requirements and the enforcement thereof, to declare a present emergency, to provide penalties for the violation of its provisions and to repeal all ordinances, or parts thereof, in conflict with its provisions.

SECTION 3. DEFINITIONS. Certain words utilized in the provisions of this ordinance shall be defined and mean:

a. "Debris" means any accumulation of broken or detached matter, including but not limited to fragments of stone, brick, cement and plaster.

b. "Garbage" means putrescible animal and vegetable matter.

c. "Litter" means garbage and rubbish as defined herein and all other matter which, if thrown, dumped, placed, left or deposited as herein prohibited, tends to create a danger to public health, safety and/or welfare.

d. "Rubbish" means any refuse, fragments of building material, including but not limited to pieces of lumber, pipe, brick, wallboard and/or shingles.

e. "Waste material" means all putrescible and non-putrescible solid waste (except body waste), including but not limited to garbage as defined herein, rubbish as defined herein, uprooted vegetation and herbage, tree limbs and stumps and/or any other such matter which, if thrown, dumped, placed, left or deposited as herein prohibited, tends to create a danger to the public health, safety and/or welfare.

f. "Person" means any natural person or an artificial person, including without limitation a partnership, co-partnership, a limited partnership, a corporation or a trust. In the instance of an artificial person, the natural person(s) who is (are) the general partners of a partnership, whether limited or not, the trustee(s) and any beneficiary having the power to appoint or constitute a trustee of a trust, the officers and directors of a corporation and the receiver of any artificial person shall be equally liable with the artificial person for any requirements or penalties provided in this ordinance. In the instance of natural and artificial persons, the agent of the same having the apparent authority to control the construction site or building under construction of such persons having property regulated by this ordinance shall be equally liable with his, her or its principal for any requirements or penalties provided in this ordinance.

SECTION 4. UNLAWFUL TO LITTER CONSTRUCTION SITE. It is unlawful for any person who owns or controls a construction site, or building under construction to dump, deposit, place, throw, leave, bury or cause or permit the dumping, depositing, placing, throwing, leaving or burying of litter, garbage, rubbish, debris or waste material thereon. At any construction site, building under construction or area adjacent thereto, said material shall be placed within the confines of a receptacle especially provided for such use, or shall be confined to one pile so as to prevent the blowing or scattering of said materials by the wind. The tranfer of litter, garbage, rubbish, debris or waste material from a construction site or building under construction to another is specifically prohibited.

SECTION 5. UNLAWFUL TO LITTER ADJACENT STREETS. It is unlawful for any person who owns or controls a construction site, or building under construction to dump, deposit, place, throw, leave or cause or permit the dumping, depositing, placing, throwing or leaving of dust, sand, mud, dirt, litter, garbage, rubbish, debris or waste material on any street, road or highway adjacent to and/or abutting said construction site.

SECTION 6. REMOVAL. It is unlawful for any person who owns or controls a construction site or building under construction to fail to remove litter, garbage, rubbish, debris or waste material at any construction site, building under construction or area adjacent thereto or to fail to remove dust, sand, mud, dirt, litter, garbage, rubbish, debris or waste material on any street, road or highway adjacent to and/or abutting said construction site within forty-eight (48) hours after notice to remove the same is effectuated.

a. The Township Building Official, his representative, or such other individual as the Township Board shall designate is hereby authorized and empowered to notify the primary contractor or owner of a construction site or building under construction to remove litter, garbage, rubbish, debris, waste material, dust, sand, mud or dirt at or adjacent to the premises. Such notice shall be made by first class mail and addressed to said primary contractor and/or owner at his last known address or by any other means reasonably calculated to give notice to the primary contractor and/or owner.

b. Notice shall be deemed effectuated on the next regular day for delivery of mail after the day the notice to remove was deposited in the U.S. Mails with first class postage prepaid thereon.

SECTION 7. PROOF AND PRESUMPTION.

a. In any proceeding for violation of Sections 4, 5 or 6 of this ordinance, proof that a building permit was issued to a person for the subject construction site or building under construction constitutes in evidence a presumption that the building permit holder owns or controls that construction site or building under construction.

b. The owner or primary contractor of the construction site, building under construction or area adjacent thereto is presumed to be responsible for litter, garbage, rubbish, debris or waste material which is dumped, deposited, placed, thrown or left at that construction site, building under contruction or area adjacent thereto.

c. The owner or primary contractor of a construction site, building under construction, or area adjacent thereto is presumed to be responsible for dust, sand, dirt, mud, litter, garbage, rubbish, debris or waste material which is dumped, deposited, placed, thrown or left on any street, road or highway adjacent to and/or abutting that construction site, or building under construction.

SECTION 8. DISPOSAL OF DEBRIS. Upon the failure, neglect or refusal of any primary contractor or owner of a construction site, or building under construction, after being notified in accordance with the provisions of Section 6 of this ordinance, to properly dispose of any litter, garbage, rubbish, debris, waste material, dust, sand, mud or dirt, on any construction site, building under construction, area adjacent thereto, or on any street, road or highway or area adjacent to and/or abutting the same within five (5) days after receipt of said written notice the Township Building Official, his representative or such other individual as the Township Board shall designate is hereby authorized and empowered to pay for the disposing of such matter or to order its disposal by agents or employees of the Charter Township of Plymouth.

SECTION 9. CREATION OF LIEN. Whenever the building official, his representative, or such other individual as the Township Board shall designate shall enter upon any parcel of land in order to accomplish abatement of an existing violation of this ordinance, the building official is hereby authorized and directed to keep an accurate account of all expenses incurred, and based upon the same to issue a certificate determining the reasonable cost involved for such work with respect to each parcel of property. Said official is further authorized to add to such costs a ten percent (10%) administrative charge to cover the expense of administering the work performed, overhead and other expenses incurred by the Township in abating such violation. Within ten (10) days after receipt of said certificate, the Township Treasurer shall forward a statement of the total charges assessed on each parcel of property to the owner as shown by the last current assessment or tax roll roll and said assessment shall be payable to the Township Treasurer within thirty (30) days from the date when said statement is forwarded. If not paid within the prescribed thirty (30) day period, such statement shall be filed with the Township Assessor and shall thereupon be spread upon the assessment toll, in a separate column for that purpose opposite a description of the land owned by the property owner who refuses or neglects to pay the amount, and the same shall become a lien upon such property. This amount shall be collected in the same manner that taxes are collected and may be discharged at any time by the payment of the amount specified in the statement, together with interest at the rate of six (6%) percent per annum compiled from the time of filing said certificate with the Township Assessor.

SECTION 10. PENALTIES. Any person who violates any provision of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction of such violation shall be punished by a fine not to exceed Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars and the costs of prosecution or by imprisonment not to exceed niney (90) days or by both such fine plus costs and imprisonment.

SECTION 11. CONFLICTING ORDINANCES REPEALED. Any previous ordinance, or parts thereof, conflicting or inconsistent with this ordinance, are to the extent of any such conflict or inconsistency only hereby repealed.

SECTION 12. SEVERABILITY. If any clause, sentence, section, paragraph or part of this ordinance, or the application thereof to any person, firm, corporation, legal entity or circumstance, shall be for any reason adjudged by a court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional or in error, said judgment shall not affect, impair or invalidate the remainder of this ordinance and the application of such provision to other persons, firms, corporations, legal entities or circumstances, but said judgment shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, section, paragraph or part of this ordinance thereby directly involved in the case and controversy in which said judgment shall have been rendered and to the person, firm, corporation and circumstance then and there involved. It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent of this body that this ordinance would have been adopted has such invalid or unconstitutional provision not been included in this ordinance.

SECTION 13. DECLARATION OF EMERGENCY. The provisions of this ordinance are hereby declared to be necessary to alleviate a present emergency situation affecting the public health, safety and general welfare of the citizens of the Charter Township of Plymouth and the provisions hereof are ordered to take effect immediately from and after the earliest date allowed by law.

SECTION 14. EFFECTIVE DATE. This ordinance is declared effective on October 4, 1979, which in no event shall be sooner than thirty (30) days after its publication.

This emergency ordinance was duly adopted by the Township Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Plymouth at its regular meeting called and held on the 28th day of August, A.D., 1979, and was ordered to be given publication in the manner prescribed by law.

Not quite a record

Thomas Barnes, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Barnes of Canton Center Road, Plymouth Township, recently caught this fine 17-inch perch while fishing on Cavanaugh Lake, halfway between Plymouth and Ann Arbor. While it was extra large for a perch, Tom's catch is a few inches short of the state record which is a 21-inch, 3-pound-12 ounce perch caught in Lake Independence in Marquette County in 1947. But for Tom it still was quite a catch. Tom is a fifth grader at Plymouth Christian Academy in Canton.

READERS' FORUM

This family lacks COLA

Editor:

I am a staunch supporter of quality education, of teachers who create electric and nurturing learning environments, and of programs that steer eager young minds toward fulfilling career-centered goals. So much for fantasy, on to reality.

Teaching is a business. Some workers are better at their jobs than others. Merit raises, as they exist in other industries, have not yet found their way into our school system's economic picture. Therefore, we are faced with the issues as they stand; and, it is my belief that we cannot afford the unrealistic demands set forth by the teachers' union.

Our school system is a necessary commodity. If the gas, electric, phone and water services raise their rates, we can conserve to save money. When the price of gasoline goes up, we can drive less. When food and other product costs increase, we can cut back and make consumer-wise decisions.

When teacher salaries go up too much, we can...what? What can we do to conserve? Must we face cut-backs in other programs we need for our children's educational welfare?

Speaking on a selfish level, I must consider that our family budget has had to make do with a raise within the presidential guidelines. There was no cost of living boost and no dental plan at all.

My sympathy for the teachers' rate hike request pales in the light of my own daily reality.

The school board has offered a package that already exceeds the presidential guidelines. This proposal is fair in the context of the present economic situation. I would hope that the realities, not the fantasies of this consumer issue will prevail.

Brown tells of hearings

Two bills which could affect Wayne County will be the subjects of a series of public hearings conducted by the House Committee on Towns and Counties.

The hearings were announced this week by the committee chairman, State Rep. Thomas H. Brown, D-Westland, whose district includes Plymouth and Canton townships.

House Bill 4748 proposes to make a number of changes in state law governing the establishment of charter counties.

House Bill 4784, if adopted, would enable Wayne County voters to separate western Wayne County as a separate county named Suburbia.

Details of the bills will be explained at the hearings, said Brown, who sponsored both measures.

The hearings will be at 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 10, in the Bailey Building Multi-Purpose Room at 36651 Ford, Westland, at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 11, in the City-County Building 13th floor auditorium, Detroit, and at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 12, in the Woodhaven City Hall council chambers at 21869 West Road, Woodhaven.

Brown said the committee welcomes testimony on the proposals from any interested government, orgaization or individual.

Renaissance slated in Cass Corridor

The second annual "A Renaissance Evening in Cass Corridor," sponsored by First Unitarian-Universalist Church of Detroit and the Concerned Citizens of Cass Corridor, is set for 7 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 16, at Orchestra Hall, 3711 Woodward, Detroit.

The program features music, dance, an award presentation and an address by U.S. Solicitor General Wade H. McCree Jr., themed to the rebirth of a city.

The lead-off is by a musical group that had its genesis in a series of Orchestra Hall fund-raising concerts, the Brio Trio; these artists have established themselves in Detroit's musical scene as members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The Harbinger Dance Company, a local modern dance group, will provide a change-of-pace, leading to a presentation of the 4-C's "Honorary Urbn Pioneer" award to Governor William Milliken. The presentation will be made by Mayor Coleman Young, honorary co-chairman.

The Hon. Wade H. McCree Jr. will speak on his perceptions of a "Renaissancce City Revisited."

A LOCAL jazz group Station KBB will provide an upbeat finale.

Master of ceremonies for the evening will be Thomas N. Bonner, president of Wayne University. Stage director is Julia Colton of the Red Door Players.

Charge for the evening at Orchestra Hall will be $10, with a limited number of tickets available at $20 each for an afterglow party in one of the historic neighborhood homes.

Ticket cost is tax deductile, with proceeds shared by the two sponsoring groups, First Unitarian-Universalist Church and Concerned Citizens of Cass Corridor. The later is an organization of area residents, property owners, businesses and institutions.

All "profits" will be used for improvement programs in the mile-long strip bounded by Fisher Freeway on the south, Ford Expressway on the north, Lodge on the west and Woodward on the east.

Ticket information on the Orchestra Hall program may be obtained by calling the church, 833-9107, or at Hudson's Northland, Eastland or Fairlane malls.

Female DJ takes job in stride

By JIM WINDELL

At times, Kaven Savelly of West Bloomfield is a bundle of raw nerves.

But you would never know it by listening to radio station WRIF-FM between 6 and 10 p.m. During those hours, Ms. Savelly is a low key, thorough professional and one of the top female disc jockeys in Detroit.

In person, the woman is not afraid to talk about her feelings.

"I have a basic insecurity," she says. "I always feel I'm doing something real dumb."

This insecurity has not stopped the 28-year-old from moving from student-run Wayne State University station WAYN, to WWWW, to WABX, to WRIF.

In an industry noted for swelled egos, Ms. Savelly says "I have no ego at all."

Except when she retreats to the tiny studio in the WRIF white house on W. Ten Mile Road. Safely behind the turntables and microphones, with the rock and roll records she loves, she tries to project a different image to her 300,000 nightly listeners.

Following her four-hour stint one night last week, she talked about herself and her image.

"MY STYLE IS the chick who knows how to rock," Ms. Savelly said. "I try to keep it up-tempo at the hour I'm on the air. And I like to rock. I like heavy metal rock.

"That was the unique thing when I was first on the radio. That distinguished me from other DJs, because I rock more than a lot of people do.

"Very few women have the same taste in rock I do. They generally go for soft rock or the Motown sound. I play heavy rock on the radio."

She believes her personality and the music she plays complement each other. "I like to go out and have a good time. Just like any guy coming home from work and listening to me on the car radio. People comment that I sound like I'm having fun. I like the people who listen to me and I want to play what makes them happy if I can."

While she says she is afraid of people, conversation on a one-to-one basis is important to her. "The most important thing that every jock should try to achieve is one-to-one communication. The ultimate would be if a guy driving home from Chrysler's talks to you in his car."

IT WAS INTEREST in trying to please her listeners that led to her move a few weeks ago, during the personnel rocking and rolling at the Detroit rock stations, from her three-year stay at WABX.

"I was hoping there would be a greater opportunity to play for listeners. WRIF is getting into sounding more human and that's important to me. I think this can be a community-oriented station," she said.

> 'Sometimes I don't feel I'm getting enough feedback. So I just pick up the request line and start a conversation. That always gets me back into it.'
> — Disc jockey Karen Savelly

To keep in touch with people, all she has to do is pick up the phone and answer requests. "When I feel like I'm in an ivory tower here, then I'll get on the phone. Sometimes I don't feel I'm getting enough feedback. So, I just pick up the request line and start a conversation. That always gets me back into it."

SHE TRIES TO ATTEND as many concerts as possible because she says she learns much from watching the rock phenomenon in person.

"You can talk to every record store in town on the telephone, but watching 15,000 kids yelling for Black Sabbath tells you a lot more. It usually opens my eyes.

"Part of the reason I go to concerts is because I want to do what everyone else is doing. But I've learned more about how popular some groups were with the people by going to the concerts."

Ms. Savelly just plain enjoys music. Not only rock but also jazz. That was due in no small part to her parents who exposed her to music at a young age.

"My dad was buying me records when I was really young, and my mother was a singer. My younger brother plays several instruments and, although I don't consider myself a musician, I took piano lessons for five or six years.

"I also took ballet. I loved it and my teacher thought I was very advanced. When I was 10, she put me in a class with 13- and 14-year-old girls, so I quit. I was too afraid."

SHE GREW up in West Bloomfield and speaks highly of her parents. While she admires her mother and stays in close touch with her family, there was one time when her mother did not admire her.

"That was in the late '60s when I was a hippy. Well, sort of. My mother and my family thought I would turn out to be no good. I was a loner then."

Ms. Savelly never considered performing in front of others when she was growing up. In fact, it was by accident she discovered she could communicate with more than one person at a time.

"In my freshman year at Wayne State University, I was going to be a teacher. I had to take a speech class and I was scared to death.

Karen Savelly rocks on WRIF-FM, despite her insecurities.

"I found that I loved the speech class. After that I took every speech class they offered. Then, when I ran out of speech classes, one of my girlfriends suggested a mass communication class. As part of this class, that only earned one or two credits, we worked with WAYN, the Wayne State University student-run radio station.

"Since I had to do something with the station, I decided to do the news because then I wouldn't be on the air that much. Later that semester I got the news director's job because no one else was interested in it.

"One day WDET-FM called me and asked if there was a student in the news department who would be interested in coming over and doing the news for free.

"Since WDET had a much stronger signal than WAYN and my parents would be able to hear me on the radio out in West Bloomfield, I told them I would take it."

She worked hard at being a news broadcaster, she says, coming in at "ungodly hours" in the morning and sometimes spending hours at a time preparing a news summary. After a couple of quarters reading the news, she took on more responsibility at WAYN as a disc jockey.

A FRIEND whose husband worked for WWWW told Ms. Savelly about an opening for a female DJ at that Detroit station.

"I did a demonstration tape that was just terrible, but they gave me a shot at it anyway. My first day on the air was Dec. 16, 1972. I started on weekends and had different shifts until I had an afternoon show."

She also worked her way up to music director of that station during her four years there. She left W4 to go to WABX. "I left there finally because I wasn't real content. It was loosely formated and we were playing all kinds of music, but I needed a change. It seemed like WABX was exciting and the day I left W4, I felt a lot of relief."

Ms. Savelly looks back on her three years at WABX fondly and still is not sure of all the reasons for leaving there to go to WRIF.

"I had a great time at ABX. I'll always have happy memories of my time there. I have many good feelings about that station and the many friends I made. Even though you change stations, you still remain friends."

60,000 see Stratford show

The previous box office record for a single production at the Festival Theatre in Stratford, Ont., was broken with the Aug. 19 performance of "Love's Labour's Lost," Artistic Director Robin Phillips has announced.

To date, 60,000 people have attended regular performances of the play at the Festival Theatre this season, bringing in record box office receipts of $911,200 for the production.

A new record for sales at the Avon Theatre has been set as "The Importance of Being Earnest" continues to play to capacity houses.

As announced earlier, eight additional performances of this production have been scheduled to accommodate the demand from the public. "The Importance of Being Earnest" has played to more people during its three presentations than any other production in Stratford's history, thus bringing in the largest box office receipt of any single production.

WITH THE OPENING this week of 'Barren/Yerma" at the Third Stage, all plays scheduled for that theater will be in performance. Recorded attendance figures and advance sales represent 90 percent of capacity, a record for productions at the Third Stage.

Total receipts for the Third Stage will exceed budget expectations this year for the first time, allowing the Third Stage to contribute to the general revenue of the festival.

"King Lear" opening at the Avon Theatre on Oct. 5, set a record of selling out all reserved seating three months in advance of opening date. The only seats remaining for sale are rush seats which go on sale on the day of the performance.

The season continues to Nov. 4 with "Love's Labour's Lost," "The First Part of Henry IV," "Othello," "The Second Part of Henry IV" at the Festival Theatre; at the Avon Theatre, "Richard II," "The Importance of Being Earnest," "The Woman," "Happy New Year," "Kig Lear;" at the Third Stage, "Victoria," "The Taming of the Shrew," and "Barren/Yerma."

'5th of July' opening run

The Attic Theatre will present its fourth and final show of the current season, Lanford Wilson's brilliant "5th of July," the story of a group of former student activists together again several years after leaving college.

The production opens Friday, Sept. 7, at 8 p.m. and runs through Oct. 13. Performances are Thursday, Friday and Sunday at 8 p.m. and Saturday at 6 and 9 p.m.

For reservations and ticket information, phone the Attic Theatre at 963-7789.

The attic production makes the Michigan premiere of this alternately funny and moving work by the author of "The Hot L Baltimore." Edward Townley plays the role of Ken, a legless Vietnam veteran.

TOWNLEY HAS directed several productions, with the New York Shakespeare Festival, the Ensemble Studio Theatre and Comedy Club of New York and has appeared with NYC's Gramercy Arts Theatre and the Silver Fox Playhouse, among others.

The role of Jed, Ken's horticulturist/lover, is played by Joseph Zubrick, a WSU master's grad in direction, who has appeared in productions at Indiana State University and the University of Detroit, where he recently directed the world permiere of "Medal of Honor Rag."

Randi Sanfield and Charles Van Hoose portray a pill-popping singer/wife and wary agent/husband team. Ms. Sanfield has most recently been seen at WSU's Bonstelle as Julia in "Two Gentlemen of Verona" and at the Hilberry as Lisa in "The Possessed."

She made her Attic debut in the title role of "Passionella" and also appeared in "El Grande de Coca Cola."

Van Hoose appeared in "A Night Out" at the Attic's '79 Festival and has appeared in several roles at The Theatre at U of D and the Hilberry and Bonstelle Theatres.

OTHERS IN the cast are Judith Ottmar as June; Martha Sanders as her teenage daughter and Glen Allen Pruett as a would-be musician. Artelia Browne plays Aunt Sally.

Director of the production is Attic Company member Samuel Pollak, who appeared in "Emperor of the Moon," has stage managed, designed and is coordinator of the Attic Theatre Performing Arts Festival.

TGLR plans auditions

The Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford will hold open auditions for "John Brown's Body" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday at 15138 Beech Daly, just south of Five Mile, in Redford.

Stephen Vincent Benet's dramatic epic poem begins with John Brown's attack on Harper's Ferry and goes through the Civil War, telling much of the story from the points of view of Jack Ellyet, a Northern soldier, and Clay Wingate, a Southern soldier.

This adaptation of Benet's poem was originally performed on Broadway by Judith Anderson, Raymond Massey, and Tyrone Power.

Interested persons may call 255-2547.

Schoolcraft auditions set

The Schoolcraft College Theater Department will hold auditions this week for its dinner-theater production of "The Real Inspector Hound," a comedy by Tom Stoppard.

Tryouts will be from 4-6 and 7-10 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 5-6, in the liberal arts theater on the college campus, 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads.

The tryouts are open to any enrolled Schoolcraft student. The production will be performed Nov. 2-3 and Nov. 16-17.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

by ELLIE GRAHAM

FOUR GENERATIONS of Millingtons gathered Sunday in Plymouth Township Park for a family reunion. Probably the best known member of the clan in these parts is Frank Millington, former Plymouth Township trustee and retired Cadillac Motors employee.

Barbara (Millington) Bobier, Frank's niece, compiled a display of old family photographs for the picnic. She also has been working on a family tree which she has traced back to the 1700s.

Mrs. Bobier said Charles and Mary Helmuth Von Malck Millington sailed from Scotland for United States in 1904. With them were their five sons, two daughters, and Charles' brother, Thomas Henry Millington II.

Uncle Thomas henry II attended the picnic. He will be 96 Dec. 18.

The family settled in Berwick, Pa., but when the oldest son died of appendicitis at 16, they moved to Michigan. Barbara said the family records show that the mother was so full of grief, they thought a new home in a new location might help.

"Three Thomas Henrys are still living," said Barbara. She added "99 is nothing in this family I've discovered since I've been doing the family history. They all live to be very old and the only reason people die is because of accidents."

The surviving brothers, Frank, Walter, Alfred and Thomas Henry III attended the party as well as one sister, Emily Thurza.

Uncle Thomas Henry II was the oldest member of the family at the reunion. The youngest was Aaron Millington, 1-year-old grandson of Thomas henry III.

About 85 relatives attended the reunion. They were from Michigan. Next year they plan to have another one and hopefully, the Millingtons from California and other parts of the country will be able to attend.

Barbara is Alfred's daughter. Thomas Henry II's son, Arthur, and daughters Lorraine and Eleanor of Redford Township and Birmingham joined the clan for the picnic.

THE PLYMOUTH-CANTON Dance Theater company will make its premiere performance at the Plymouth Fall Festival. The young dancers will be on stage in Kellogg Park from 7:15 to 7:45 p.m. Friday, Sept. 7.

The company was formed in the spring. They have chosen "some light numbers," according to Anne Mininberg, the group's leader and dance coordinator, " some Gershwin, Chopin and some Joplin."

The company will hold auditions Sept. 10.

COLLEEN O'HARA, daughter of Bev and Russ Hoisington, returned last week from an eight-day visit to Hawaii.

Colleen, 20, received an all-expense paid trip to the Model of the Year Pageant on Waikiki Beach.

HAZEL JETTER and Gladys Bowen met for lunch last week to celebrate their birthdays. Hazel's was Aug. 29 and Gladys' was Sept. 1.

A parade of waitresses at Northville Charley's surprised the duo with lighted birthday cake and a resounding rendition of "Happy Birthday."

FRANCES LA COMBE and jane Drewniak had high scores at the Aug. 23 party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Carl Peters and Ruth Sherman were winners Aug. 30. Margaret Swarz says there will be no game this week because the antique dealers will be moving in for the Plymouth Symphony League's annual Antique mart. The bridge players have one more session to go before th they complete their tournament.

Margaret and her daughter-in-law had an unpleasant experience recently when they went down to Detroit to visit a resident in the Methodist Home on the corner of 12th Street and West Grand Boulevard.

They were mugged at 3 in the afternoon as they went to their car in the parking lot. Their purses were taken as they were knocked to the ground. They went back into the home and waited for the police (1½ hours), and called to cancel their credit cards. They did get their purses and everything but their money back later after someone called the police. They had seen two men toss two purses. The Detroit police gathered everything up and returned hem to Margaret and her daughter-in-law.

STAN AND CATHY Bartkiewicz are planning an open house from noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 8 at the Bartz Animal Hospital on Warren Road just east of Sheldon.

Because the public rarely sees beyond the waiting and examining rooms at a veterinarian's office, they thought

Chattanooga hosts annual derby week

The voice from the announcer's booth rang out and echoed through the loud speakers: "In lane one, in car 39 , Nick Palise of Canton, Michigan."

Seated in his derby racer at the top of the hill, 10-year-old Nickie Palise tried to contain his excitement. His parents, Sharon and Nick, and his sister, Lisa were as excited as Nickie. The whole family had gone to Chatanooga, Tenn., for the 1979 National Derby Rally Championships.

Young Nick had drawn a worthy opponent for his first heat. He was racing against last year's winner and defending champ, Mark Cole of Atlanta, Ga. Mark won the first run by 16 inches.

The race was a double elimination photo-swap which means the drivers race, change lanes and wheels and race again in order to complete a heat. Nick won the second run by one inch giving him an overall loss of 15 inches.

He went over to the losers bracket.

Nickie Palise and his dad, Nick, wait at the ramps on the top of the hill.

In order to win, a loser must win the rest of his races in that bracket then beat the winner of the winner's bracket twice. Nick ran the hill six more times before he was eliminated by the car that came in third in the Junior Division.

SHORTLY AFTER Nickie qualified for the championships at a Flint rally, he received his invitation to the National Derby Rallies at Chattanooga.

The letter from G. Michael Reed, chairman, stressed that "we have a full week of fun, family activities, coupled with the most exciting schedule of racing in Derby history, planned for you and your family." He said all the activities for "our champions and their families are free. The only expenses will be travel costs, lodging costs and some of your meals."

Chattanooga, the committee and the sponsors lived up to their promise. The Palise family agreed they had been been treated to "southern hospitality plus."

The Chattanooga Chamber of Commerce, its Kiwanis Club and the Coca Cola Co. joined forces to make the champs and their families welcome. There were free tickets for the families for all the main tourist attractions — Ruby Falls, Rock City, the Incline and the Alpine Slide. They went to Lookout Mountain. Free meals were served trackside. And there were free tickets to a roller skating rink.

All this in the beautiful hill country surrounding Chattanooga.

EACH OF THE contestants received 1979 NDR championships belt buckles, red, white and yellow racing shirts, "ma" and "pa" cups, and a 5-by-7 color photograph of themselves with their cars. Mrs. Palise said that 215 families attended the rallies and the average family size was four persons.

Her husband, who had worked with young Nick building the car, told of the early days of soapbox derby racing and how it has changed. Robert Turner of Muncie, Ind. was the first All-American Soap Box Derby champion in 1934. Turner, who was announcer at the rally, has been active in promoting derby racing ever since he won that first title in Dayton, Ohio.

Back when General Motors sponsored soapbox derby racing to the tune of about $1 million a year, families were flown in for the finals in Akron, Ohio.

Drivers had one opportunity to qualify for the championship race. This was at their local derby hill. If they missed there, they had raced once and that was it — they were through.

If they won, they were eligible for the Akron meet. Their cars were impounded until the Akron races. When families gathered for the championships, the young drivers were separated from their families and lived apart until the race was over.

None of the cars was allowed to drive with its own set of wheels. A wheel bank was — and still is — provided by the Soap Box Derby committee at Akron. Palise said this was done to give every contestant an equal chance. The photo swap at the Derby Rally serves the same purpose.

Competition became so keen, builders of the cars became more ingenious (and dishonest) in their engineering tricks. The final caper, the one responsible for GM withdrawing its sponsorship, was the installation of an electro magnet in the nose of a car. The driver pressed a hidden switch inside the car at the top of the hill. When the metal stop gate went down to let the cars start down the hill, it gave the magnet an added pull and the rigged car a head start.

NATIONAL DERBY Rallies were organized to give the young drivers more opportunities to race their cars.

They can race as many times as they wish on as many tracks as they wish.

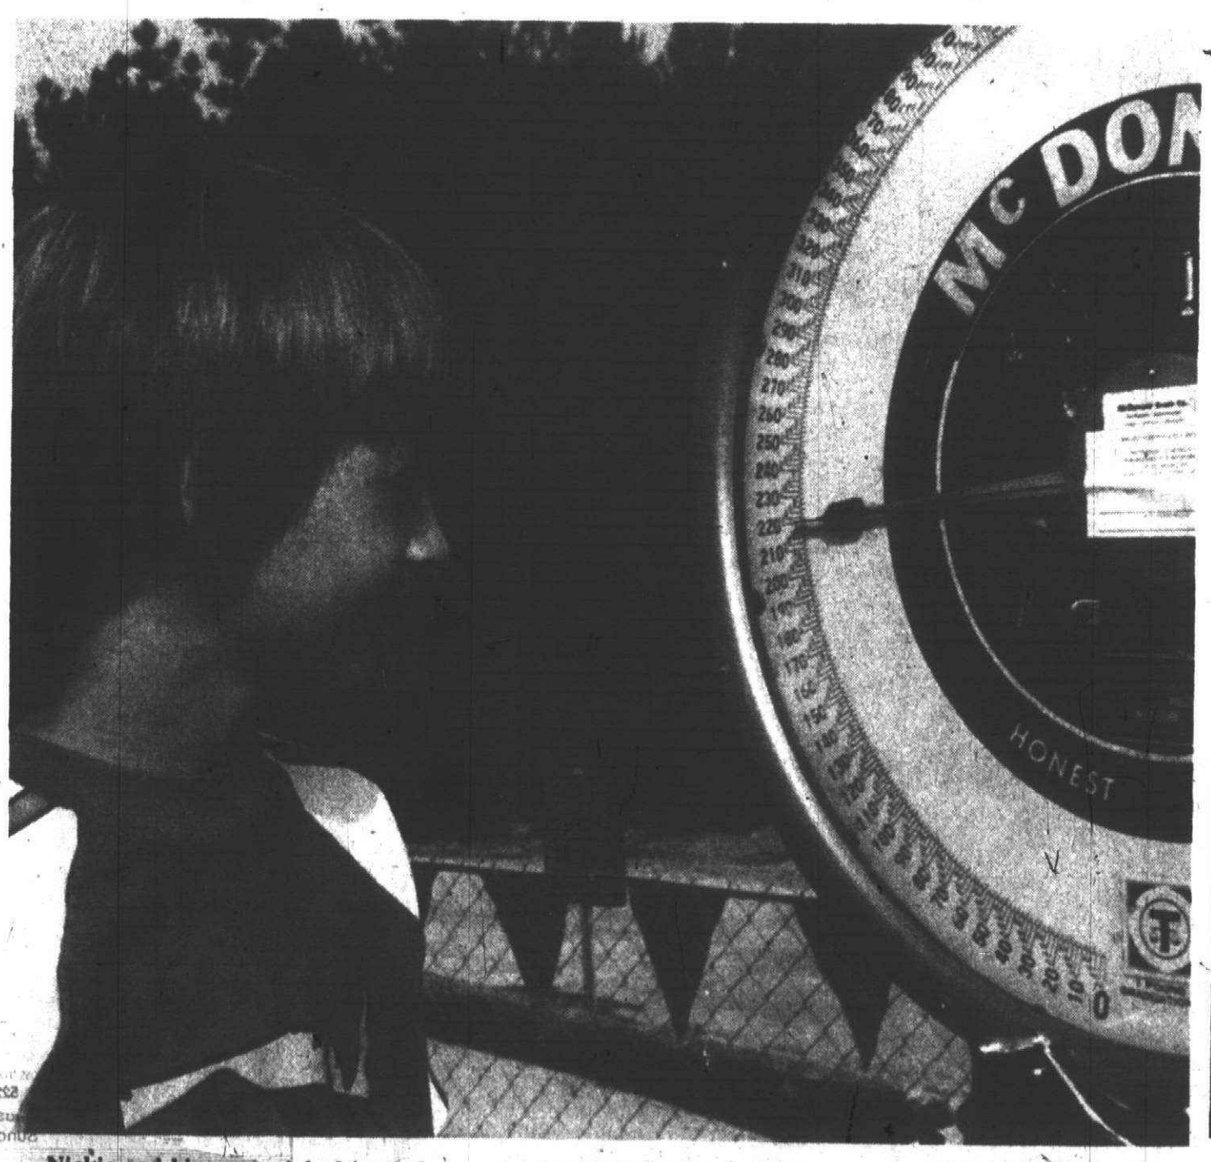
"Also," said Palise, "they can qualify on other than their home track. We are in the Detroit area but Nick qualified for the championships on the Flint track." He xeplained that the Flint track is in much better condition than the Detroit hill at Mound Road an Eight Mile.

After Nickie qualified, and not too long before the Chattanooga rallies, he smashed up his car.

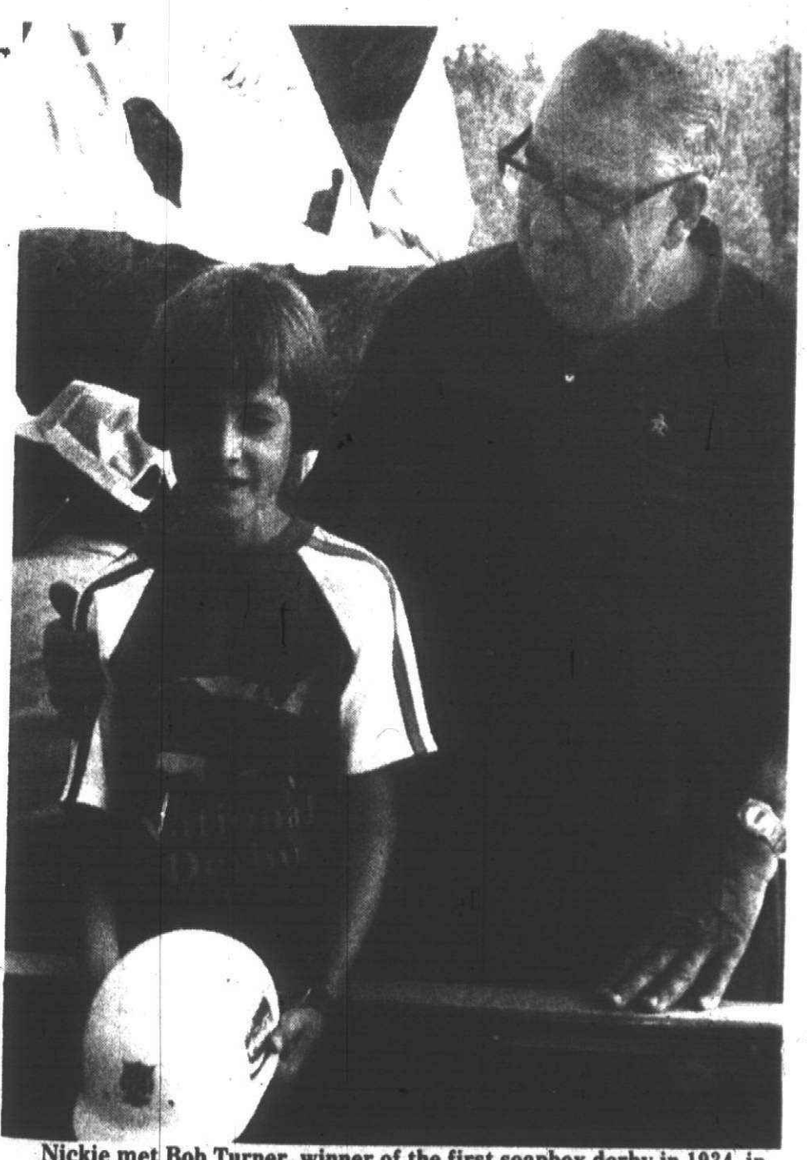
"He would not have been able to go if it hadn't been for three members of the Detroit Metro Club. John Graham of Westland, John Murphy of Highland Park and Pete Gebhart, president of Detroit Metro, who gave their time and their parts to get the car in shape," said father Nick.

He said that the junior kit cars, like Nickie's, are ordered from Akron. The kit contains plans, steering, brakes and axles. The builder uses his own fiber glass or wood for the body.

The Canadian and American boys who raced in Chattanooga had a wonderful week. It was everything the city's Chamber of Commerce promised.



Nickie and his car weighed in at the exact amount for juniors — 220 pounds. (Photos by Sahron Palise)



Nickie met Bob Turner, winner of the first soapbox derby in 1934, in the announcers' booth at the top of the hill.

JCs to barbecue 3,500 pounds of ribs

"We're just going to have to sell more ribs to make up for the increase," said Bob Karby. He and Mike Lane are co-chairing the Plymouth Jaycees beef rib dinner. The dinner will be Saturday of the Plymouth Fall Festival. The Jaycees were discussing the 33 percent price increase of ribs in one year. This adds up on their total of 3,500 pounds of ribs. Each serving will include one pound of barbecued ribs, cole slaw, a hot roll, and an ear of Canton Township sweet corn, cooked in a steam engine once used to run an old threshing machine. The $3.75 rib dinner is packed in a corrugated paper box with a paper napkin, eating utensils and a premoistened napkin, a necessity after eating the buttery corn and juicy ribs. A beverage is provided as well as ice cream for dessert.

"WE HAVE 10 persons on the committee, and we'll have about 60 working on the dinner," said Karby. The Jaycettes work with the men, helping set up and pack the boxes and serving the dinner. Small work parties preceed the dinner. They will get together Friday evening to husk the corn at the Ball Drugs warehouse. Bob Jarmol, a Jaycee, works for Ball Drugs, and so they have the use of the warehouse. They buy the sweet corn by the bag, so the count varies. There will be 3,500-3,600 ears of corn to be shucked. New this year will be a different method of cooking the ribs. To speed up the cooking, the ribs will be parboiled before they are placed on the charcoal barbecue grills. The Jaycees also have decided to use foil-wrapped butter patties. "It costs a little more, but it will be easier to handle," said Lane. Another innovation is the presale of dinner tickets. The Rotarians always have sold tickets in advance for Sunday's chicken barbecue. The evening Kiwanis Club has an advance sale of tickets for its Saturday pancake dinner. Parboiling the ribs and selling tickets in advance should be time savers for the Jaycees and cut down on the waiting lines Saturday evening.

Nassau: A treasure for curious travelers

Balmy port a bastion of history

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

NASSAU — Passengers saunter along Prince George Wharf, from the great white cruise ships to the colorful clutter of the straw market. Straw hats, handbags and woven donkeys festoon the stalls across a final boat channel to Rawson Square, where straw-hatted horses pull colorful carriages around town.

For some cruise passengers, too often limited to a few hours ashore, a trip to this capital city of the Bahamas includes only this brief look at Bahamian handcraftas, a walk down Bay Street and, if their timing is right, the changing of the guard at Government House.

Other travelers experience Nassau at a deeper level, because they have learned that you can make even a short trip better if you use all the resources available.

That is especially true this month when you may come ashore during the celebration marking the 250th anniversary of the Bahamian parliament, the oldest parliament in the western hemisphere.

Lots of parades and other colorful public activities will mark the week starting Sept. 24, when Princess Anne of England officiates. The governors of all the original 13 colonies and representatives of all Commonwealth countries have been invited.

IF YOU DO 10 minutes of reading ahead of time, you will know that the 700 islands of the Bahamas have always taken advantage of their position in the warm seas, where they are close to major continental shorelines.

Christopher Columbus was here in 1492. Ponce deLeon was looking for the fountain of youth on Bimini when he discovered Florida.

Pirates like Bluebeard and Henry Morgan operated out of here until an English governor hanged a few, pardoned 1,000 more, and wrote a motto that read "Expulsis Piratis, Restituta Commercia" — "pirates expelled, commerce restored."

The United States ruled Nassau for one day in 1776, loyalists fled the American Revolution to settle here, and it was a great place for off-the-road trading during both the Civil War and Prohibition.

A little history also makes a difference in your enjoyment of the straw market, which as moved to the wharf from its traditional place on Bay Street last year. All of the market on the wharf and in Rawson Square will eventually move back to a Bay Street location now being built for it.

It was colonial governor George Phenny who introduced straw handcrafts to the islands in the early 1700s, at a time when the plantation economy was failing because of poor soil conditions and bad crops.

On his way through Bermuda to England, he noted the native use of sisal, and imported workers to teach sisal crafts to Bahamians. It began as a craft for daily use but was a flourishing marketplace trade by the middle of the 19th century.

There were only 2,000 people in the Bahamas then; there are 280,000 now. Some of their voices will follow you as you walk past the multi-colored umbrellas that hold the flowered straw in Rawson Square.

"Can I sell you that?"

"Try this one. . . "

"You like tht nice bag?"

IF YOU ARE lucky and enterprising, you can meet other local people sitting under the fig trees tht shade the fountain in the square. Here an old lady with a shopping bag asks about America in those rhythmic word patterns slashed with the exclamation "hey!"

With a little encouragement, she will also tell you about the flowers and trees around you, and what it is like to live in this flower-scented tourist-dominated place.

You can also find a friend in the tourist office on the wharf or in the main office edging the square. "You haven't seen the changing of the guard! Hurry, man, it's on now and it won't be on again for two weeks!"

THE CHANGING OF the guard takes place in rhythmic motions of red, white and black every Saturday morning in front of Government House, just up the steps from a statue of Christopher Columbus. Drums wrapped in tiger skins beat slowly to the sound of brass instruments as the commander does a slow-step inspection of the guard.

Red stripes point up the sides of pressed black trousers to the crispness of a white bush shirt, slashed in red and buttoned in gold, past the proud black faces to red-baned pith helmets tipped in gold. That is the uniform of the world-famous Royal Bahamas Police Force Band.

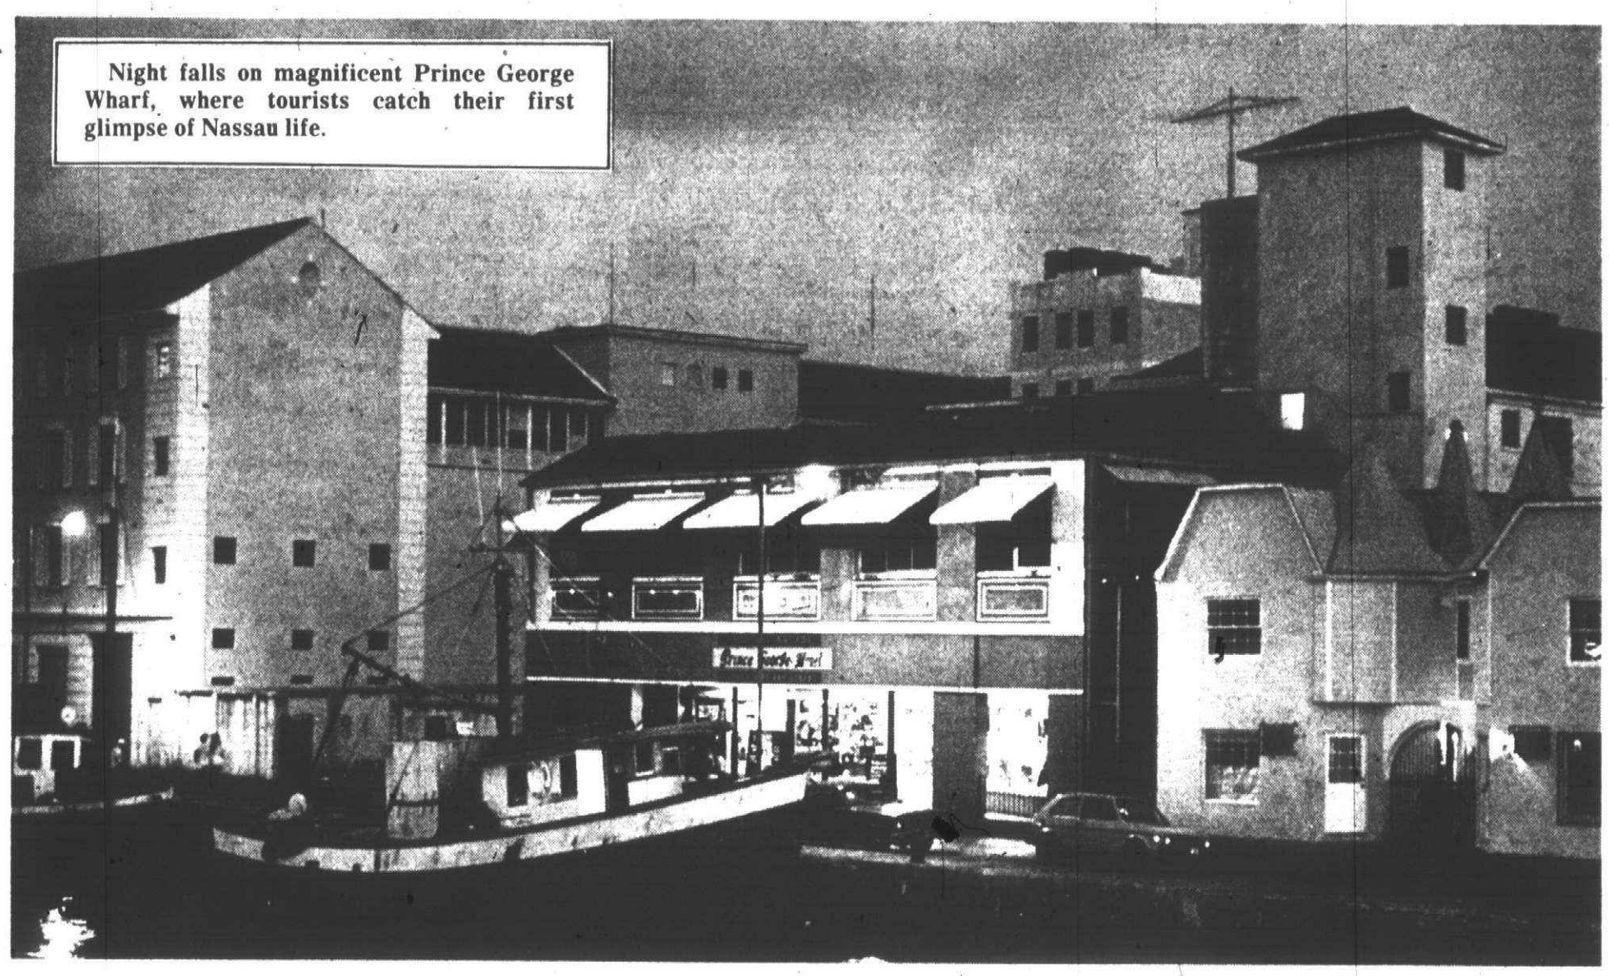
The Bahamas has had no military force since Independence Day, 1973, but one is being formed this year as a defense force.

IDEALLY, ANY BRIEF tour of any city is done with a person who can give you an inside view. If you don't have friends, you can talk to a taxi driver, a tourist bureau representative or someone like Ken Heinrich of the Bahamas News Bureau.

INSIDERS ALSO recommend the casinos and water games on both Paradise Island and Cable Beach, as well as in-town Bahamian entertainment spots like Ronnie's Revel Room.

Ask anyone who knows the island and you'll get your own insider's itinerary for Nassau. The important thing is to ask somebody if you want to go beyond the obvious and avoid being the cynic who says " you can see the whole town in 20 minutes." You can't.

For advance Nassau information, contact the Bahama Islands Tourist Office, which has locations throughout the United States. The closest one is at 875 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611. You can call toll-free by dialing 1-800-621-6860.



Night falls on magnificent Prince George Wharf, where tourists catch their first glimpse of Nassau life.

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

Y'all drop by for some fried chicken!

FROM THE MAILBAG — If you are traveling through Luoisville, Ky., on Saturday, Sept. 8, you can drop in on the 89th birthday party of Col. Harland Sanders of Kentucky Fried Chicken fame.

The celebrations, open to the public, go on all day in Belvedere pavilion, where they are baking a birthday cake to serve 10,000 people.

The event includes exhibitions highlighting frontier life of the 19th century, craft demonstrations, afternoon entertainment by clowns, mimes and musical groups, and an hour-long sundown concert by country music singer Barbara Mandrell.

THE TRAVEL EDUCATION Institute of Farmington is taking registrations for the third and final phase of its first complete training course for travel agents.

Classes in tour operation and development; hotels, resorts and supplementary travel services, and other travel electives, will be held Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, Oct. 1 through Nov. 8 at the Sheraton Southfield Hotel in Southfield.

For information, contact TEI inc., at 32985 Hamilton Court, Suite 100, Farmington Hills.

HOTELS ARE SO competitive they offer all kinds of little amenities to travelers. Five Hyatt hotels now offer jogging tracks for their guests, and three others have designed jogging routes.

Jogging tracks with exercise stations along the route are available at the Hyatt Regency and the Hyatt on Union Square in San Francisco, the Orlando Hyatt House and the Rickeys Cabana Hyatt House in Palo Alto, Calif., and the Kuilima Hyatt Resort Hotel in Oahu, Hawaii.

Hyatt Regency hotels in Chicago, Lexington and Cambridge offer marked jogging maps.

The Capital Hilton in Washington also has a map, for people who get their exercise by following tours of the city.

IF TENTS ARE MORE your taste, you should know about an unusual place called Pioneer Park Camp Resort, which opened recently in Wisconsin Dells. It offers 71 sites for sale in what was previously a wooded rental campground.

The idea was approved by the Wisconsin Securities and Exchange Commission, which allows each campsite owner to be a stockholder with one vote while the park itself holds the deed.

Annual membership is $180 a year, including water, electricty, maintenance, taxes, and 24-hour security. Sites range from $5,495 to $8,795. For information, contact the resort at Box C, Lake Delton, Wis. 53940.

MILWAUKEE ALSO has another announcement. The city wants to be the inland sportsfishing capital of America, so it is planning a $50,000 Milwaukee Sportfishing Classic for 1980. The tournament will run from June 1 through July 31, 1980, and will offer prizes ranging from $5,000 to $10,000.

IF YOU DON'T WANT to wait that long to go fishing, you should write for the Southeast Michigan Outdoor Guide from the Southeast Michigan Travel and Tourist Association, 350 American Center, 27777 Franklin Road in Southfield.

The guide describes boating, fishing, camping, canoeing and hunting in an 11-county area. It covers public access sites, boat launching facilities, state harbors, fishing conditions on the area's inland lakes and a complete list of state parks and recreation areas.

IT WILL BE SUMMER for quite a while down South, so Corpus Christi is bragging about a new fad they've adopted there. People are roller skating like mad along the 20-foot-wide wall that follows Shoreline Drive. Only in a place of perpetual summer would they also try this: They ski on the grass of Cole Park.

Callaway Gardens, near Pine Moutain, Ga., has Saturday workshops that are often attended by people pasing through on the way from north to south, including all kinds of garden and birdwatching classes.

And if you are really farsighted enough to think about December, the Historic Savannah Foundation Inc. is taking reservations for its annual Christmas trip to Savannah. It's a three-night, two-day visit to historic houses and national landmarks with lots of dinners and private parties throuwn in, for $85 plus your accommodations.

Write to PO Box 1733, Savannah, Ga., 31402.

I hate to announce this, because it smacks of winter, but . . . the nation's top ski jumpers will compete Sept. 29-30 in the All American Matten Springen Tournament in Middletown, a suburb of Madison, Wis.

Apple fest is a barrel of laughs

August wasn't too much of a job so hopefully September and its offerings will make the memory fade fast.

The Four Flags Area Apple Festival, Sept. 20-23, celebrates the harvest with orchard tours, a barrel of apple treats to sample and a bushel of fun for the entire family. Peach pies, cobblers and more are in store at the Romeo Peach Festival, Sept. 1-3; and Edmore salutes the spud Sept. 7-9 with the Michigan State Potato Festival.

If you're interested in just how busy bees can be, a visit the Cranbrook Institute of Science, Bloomfield Hills, Sept. 15-16, 22-23 or 29-30 for the Honey Harvest. You can watch the activity through glass-sided hives, and experts will be on hand to answer any questions. More conventional harvest festivals take place at Cass City, Sept. 15; Copper Harbor, Sept. 15-16; Marquette, Sept. 20-22; Clinton and Muskegon, Sept. 28-30.

HORSELESS CARRIAGES, flivvers and flappers from the golden era of motoring will be on parade, Sept. 8-9, at the Old Car Festival, Greenfield Village, Dearborn. Yesterday's rural America comes to life at the Folk Life Festival, Sept. 15-16, Charlton Park Village, Hastings. The Carry Nation Festival, Sept. 8-9, Holly, recalls the barstorming antics of John Barleycorn's most colorful adversary.

Arts and crafts, and a 17th century atmosphere await browsers at the Renaissance Art Faire, Sept. 8-9, in Pleasant Ridge. Artistic endeavors from prints to pottery can also be found Sept. 8 at Powers Park, Portland.

For antique buffs, the Plymouth Symphony Antique Mart, Sept. 7-9, at the Cultural Center; and a special display of antique toys will be featured at the Antique Show/Sale, Sept. 12-16, at the Light Guard Armory, Detroit. Dealers from across the country will gather with their treasures at the Antiques Market, Sept. 16, Ann Arbor. Winding up the month, is an antique show/sale, Sept. 28-30, in Marquette.

Detroit's summer ethnic festival schedule at Hart Plaza draws to a close on a spicy note. The Mexican Festival is Sept. 7-9 and the Arab World Festival is Sept. 14-16. The closing weekend is all-American dediated to the Blues Festival, Sept. 21-23.

The Michigan Salmon Derby runs through Saturday in Manistee County, and the Walleye Jamboree, at the Manistique Lakes, Curtis, Sept. 15-28. Other activities on the sporting scene include: the Marquette Marathon, Sept. 8, from Negaunee to Marquette, and Invitational Figure Skating Competiton, Sept. 20-23, at Yack Arena Wyandotte.

Other events: the Native Americans Powwow, Sept. 8-9, Grand Rapids, with authentic crafts and dancing; the Farm-City Festival, Sept. 9-15, Mt. Clemens; and the Log Jamboree, at Ewen, takes a nostalgic look at logging and lumbering, Sept. 28-30.

It's a great year for wise investments

...and the wisest investment anyone can make is an Observer & Eccentric want ad.

I invested and sold all those nostalgia items I've been saving up in my attic.

Now, I have enough to buy that Corvette I've always wanted.

Spirit Liftback

This year's AMC Spirit again offers luxury in the subcompact field. The '80 Spirit has a larger four-cylinder engine and is available in two body styles in three versions. Reclining bucket seats are offered on the DL and Limited models, both liftback and sedan. High-back bucket seats are offered on the standard model, but sedans can be equipped with bench seats. Interior features include leather seat trim, 18-ounce carpeting, a tilt steering wheel, power door locks, power steering and a power release on the liftback.

VW: German 'Model T'

By ROBERT C. RADCLIFFE
National Geographic News Service

It was the obituary everybody knew would come one of these days: "The Beetle Is Dead."

Then a flood of ulogies gushed forth with the announcement that Volkswagon of Wolfsburg, Germany, had decided — finally — to kill off the world's most prolific automobile. It was too old-fashioned, they said, to compete on today's streets and highways.

The obit was dated Jan. 19, 1978. On that day, the last of the breed, a buff-colored sedan burdened with bouquets, rolled off the assembly line, following 19.2 million of its kind.

There would be no more behind it, except from a plant in Mexico where life would go on for a while. It was a corporate reprieve that made many VW lovers wonder whether the Beetle — or Bug — really ever would die.

It had been born a child of ambition and grew up an orphan of war. Hitler announced the birth: The Volkswagon was to be the People's Car with a price low enough to put every deserving German behind the wheel.

HOPEFUL FAMILIES financed development with their savings, but instead of promised cars, they were rewarded only with the news that they helped finance the Nazi war machine. Their Reichsmarks had produced the "German jeep." Its air-cooled, four-cylinder rear engine and sure traction tamed sand and snow.

With the end of World War II, the defeated Germans patched up the bombed-out plant and started to produce the promised people's car. Despite its breathtaking ugliness, it was soon a pacesetter of Germany's recovery.

Americans started seeing Volkswagons in the early 1950s. Soon, everybody seemed to want one, waiting out six months of backed-up orders.

Henry Ford's famous flivver put millions of Americans in the driver's seat. The Beetle, the German Model T, put them in their first small car.

In nearly 20 years, Ford turned out 15 million Model Ts, and the Volkswagons, to another generation, were just like them: Cheap to buy, easy to fix, and always looking the same — no keeping up-with-the-Joneses style changes.

BEETLES WERE disappointments to American car lovers who, like one of them, felt "Chrome is my favorite color." They were plain Jane free of radiator grills, fins, fake exhaust portholes, rocket hood ornaments and aggressive bumpers. Even the hubcaps usually weren't worth stealing.

The Beetle stuck to old-fashioned running boards throughout its life.

VW owners endured its limitations: It was hard to handle in wind, it was underpowered, it was cramped — "You don't get in a VW, you put it on."

They were delighted that it looked like a toy, and stuck a big windup key in its back. They jazzed it up with a fake Rolls Royce radiator, or they cut it down into a pickup truck or a dune buggy, or they stretched it into an eight-passenger limousine.

High school kids always seemed to be trying to stuff the entire senior class into one. Basketball players folded in and out of them. Strong-armed prankster lugged them onto porches.

And longer than any other car — a quarter century — the Beetle survived a wild world of Hornets, Falcons, Mavericks, Cougars, and Barracudas.

Plymouth Community Fall Festival

Fellowship and fun are keys to Festival

To achieve true love, brotherhood and friendship within a community, it helps to have an event which can stimulates a coming-together of people.

And this is exactly what the annual Plymouth Fall Festival offers to all Festival goers who want to take a little time out from their normal routine.

As always, the Festival takes place on the weekend after Labor Day. This year, the four-day event begins on Thursday, Sept. 6, and lasts through Sunday, Sept. 9.

During the Festival there is something for everyone to enjoy — both young and old, resident or visitor.

ONE OF THE major parts of the Festival is its wide selection of food sure to tingle all taste buds.

The four major dinners occurring each day and night highlight the menu. Spaghetti sooths the appetite on Thursday, fried fish on Friday, beef ribs and pancakes on Saturday and, of course, barbecued chicken all day Sunday.

To complement the dinners are a variety of snacks and goodies which are sold in booths by other organizations.

Besides food there are a host of other activities which truly add to the festival atmosphere.

Games for children, arts, crafts and antique sales and exhibits, musical entertainment, a dunk tank, and the simple pleasure of strolling down the streets of Plymouth talking to friends, make the also are held at Central Middle School which is at Church and Main Streets — north of Ann Arbor Trail and kitty-corner from the city hall.

Other activities are held at the Plymouth Cultural Center which is on Farmer Street. Easy access is gained to the Cultural Center from Theodore which inter-Festival a special showcase which no one ever forgets.

WHETHER YOU live in Plymouth, Canton, Livonia, Garden City, Redford, Westland, Farmington, Southfield or elsewhere, you are one of hundreds of thousands of people who have a chance to absorb all the beauty and fellowship which is characteristic of the Festival.

For the visitors who will visit Plymouth for the first time, it's very simple to reach the downtown area.

If you travel west on Plymouth Road, that thoroughfare turns into Main Street about two miles west of Newburgh Road, bringing you to the heart of the city.

Another route is to take I-275 to Ann Arbor Road, head west on Ann Arbor Road to Main Street (the third signal) and then north to the center of town.

And in the center of town at Ann Arbor Trail and Main is where you will find Kellogg Park, which is the central spot for most of the Festival activities.

For everyone who is interested in knowing when and exactly where all the Festival activities take place, all you have to do is turn to the center of this Fall Festival edition for a complete schedule of events and a map highlighting major happenings.

Besides Kellogg Park, some activities sects at Main Street right by the C&O Railroad tracks.

YES, THE FESTIVAL means fun for everyone, and the 1979 version should be better than ever.

And for Plymouth residents, the Festival is always an extra-special happening.

For one reason, the money earned by the non-profit community organizations from the dinners and booths is put back into the community.

But another reason, and maybe more important, is the ever-present sense of pride represented by the continuous success of the Festival, which is something the people of Plymouth never forget.

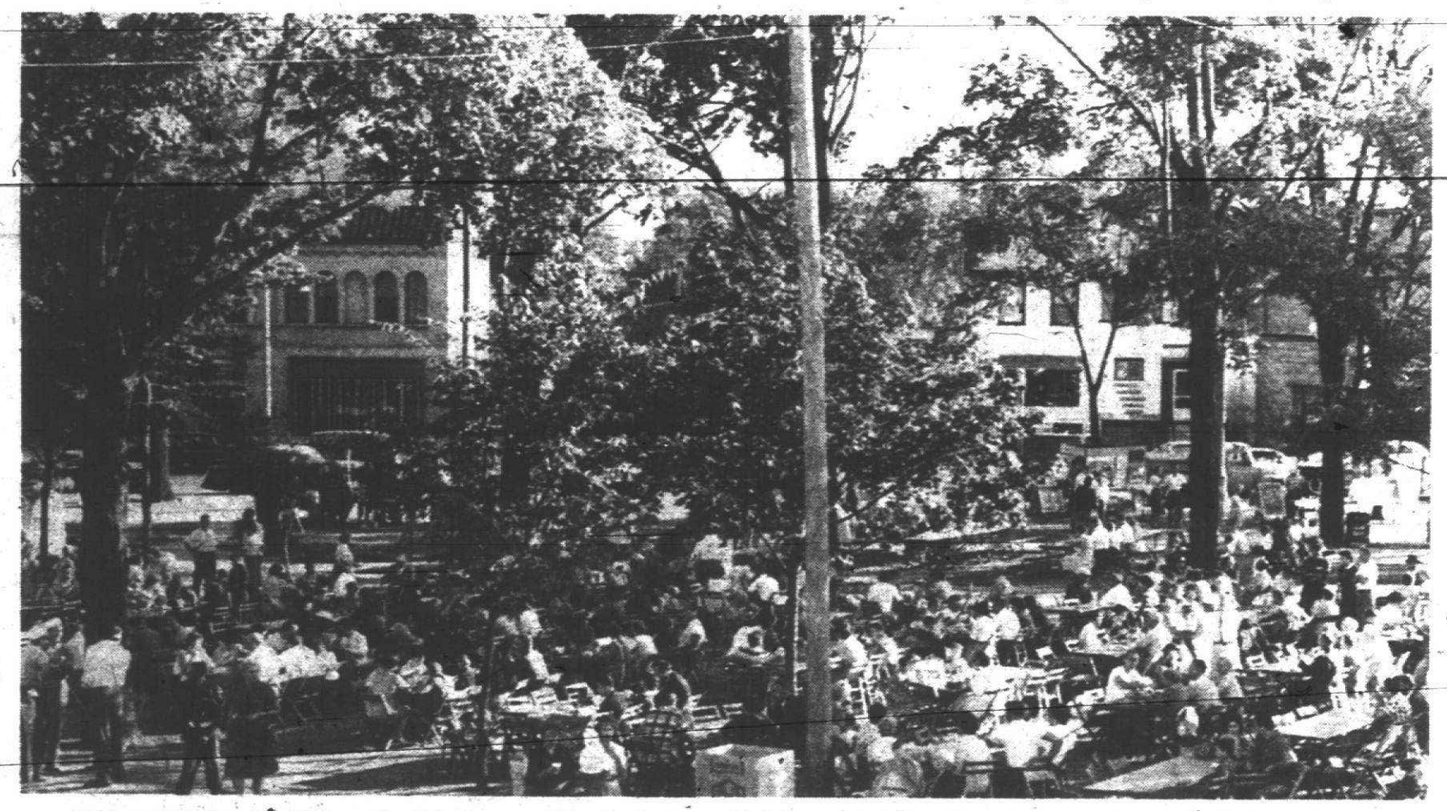
The 1979 Plymouth Fall Festival special section was made possible through the efforts of Elinor Graham, W.W. Edgar, Teri Banas, and photographer Gary Caskey. Advertising coordinator was Audrey Roof and editorial coordinator was Emory Daniels.



This was taken in 1962 — the third year after the Rotary Club began holding its chicken barbecue in Kellogg Park.

Plymouth — Past & Present

The Festival all began as a picnic

By Sam Hudson

Depending on the weather, this year's Fall Festival, to be held September 6-9, could attract as many as 100,000 people.

Forty different organizations from the Plymouth-Canton area will serve meals, staff art and antique shows and provide entertainment in the Park.

The event has grown enormously since the late 1950s when it began as a community picnic attended by a few hundred local residents.

Barely 500 were present 23 years ago when the outing, which grew into the Fall Festival, was held at a local playground.

And only one organization — the Plymouth Rotary Club — conceived, planned and provided the manpower that made the event a success in its early years.

THE PLYMOUTH Fall Festival grew out of a family-type outing sponsored over two decades ago by local Rotarians.

The idea for the event was suggested by Don Lightfoot, then a member of the club's Youth Activities Committee. Don proposed to the Rotary Board of directors that the club sponsor a chicken barbecue dinner to raise funds to be used to buy equipment for a playground at the corner of Joy and Wing.

Those who attended the outing, held at the playground on May 20, 1956, were primarily from Plymouth. In later years, as the festival grew, people have been attracted to the annual event from numerous communities throughout Michigan.

A second Rotary picnic was held June 9, 1957, at the Hamilton Street playground. As in the first and succeeding years, the Rotarians prepared and served the chicken dinners.

The price of the meal then was $2 for adults, and $1.25 for children. The profit, $505, was again donated by the Rotary Club for the purchase of playground equipment.

In 1958, the site for Rotary's "Third Annual Plymouth Community Chicken Barbecue," held Sept. 18, was the athletic field of Plymouth High School (now Central Middle).

Tickets that year were reduced to $1.50 for adults and $1 for children. The purpose was raise to money for Rotary's Youth Benefit and Community Service Fund and "to extend a warm welcome to our neighbors to visit Plymouth."

All of the displays in the park were covered with gaily-striped parachute silk tents. At 3 p.m. the Plymouth High School Band, which had performed at the dedication of an addition to the post office, marched to the park and gave a concert. Throughout the afternoon, Margaret Wilson's Penn Theatre showed old-time movies at 10 cents admission.

What happens when the Festival ends?

You might say Ken Vogras' job is picking up. And is has been that way for 23 years.

Vogras, DPW director for the city of Plymouth, has been in charge of coordinating cleanup and setup for the Plymouth Fall Festival for 23 years.

"It's a challenge," he says. "I've worked the barbecue pits before on Sunday, and Monday is the worst day. You're tired and your eyes are all smoky from the chicken pits."

He recalls the Festival's early days when some 200 visitors turned out for activities at the Hamilton Playground. Today visitors number in the thousands with some coming from as far away as Boston and New York.

"It's getting a little bit commercialized. It's not small-town anymore."

ALL THAT ACTIVITY invaribly leaves its mark — in trash — some 150 cubic yards of debris, according to Vogras.

And how is it handled?

The four-day Festival required 237 hours of cleanup work by the DPW crews last year. Overtime pay last year alone totaled about 102 hours, partly because Sunday wages are doubletime. Last year's cost to the Fall Festival Board was $3,088. In 1977, the cost was $3,200.

During the day's activities three workers are stationed at all times in Kellogg Park. They run the public address system, pick up litter and run errands for club members.

SOME OF THE original set up duties begin as early as mid-August when signs are posted throughout the city.

When opening day arrives, crews are on the streets sweeping up at 4:30 a.m. The bandshell is attended to at about 8 a.m. This practice is continued daily.

Vogras attributes a portion of last year's cost reduction to the efforts of club members. In fact, he encourages civic groups to pitch in when cleaning up. He applauds the Rotary Club and Lions Club cleanup participation in the past.

He suggests that the Fall Festival Board establish a cleanup subcommittee. Most of the debris piles up, he explains, after a club-sponsored activity such as the Rotary chicken barbecue.

Most of the trash is "just ordinary stuff," such as paper plates, cups, bottles and cans. Vogras anticipates a minor dent in the overall trash collection this year because of the ban on non-deposit cans and bottles.

Costumes

The judging of the Plymouth Fall Festival Costume Contest has become a traditional Sunday afternoon event.

This year, participants will have an opportunity to let their imaginations run willd. In keeping with the International Year of the Child, the theme will be "Children of the Past and Future," or the "Family of the Past or Future."

Oldtime costumes can be originals or reproductions. Designers of the costumes of the future have a free hand in making whatever they imagine the family of the future will wear.

Entries in the contest should report to the bandstand area on Penniman Avenue at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 9, for judging. Contestants will go on stage shortly after 3 p.m., when winners will be announced.

The costume contest is being handled by representatives of the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women.

Historian Hudson recalls humble beginnings

first Fall Festival was Wilford's Bunyea's traction steam engine, which was parked near the barbecue pits.

Live steam from the engine was used to boil the sweet corn. Shrill blasts from the engine's whistle treated the munching diners to a sound rarely heard since the steam locomotive went the way of the horse and buggy.

That first festival was staged in Kellogg Park on Sunday, Sept. 11, 1960, from 12:30-6 p.m. The city agreed to close Penniman Ave. between Mainand Union, but none of the streets were used in those days for setting up booths. Everything was confined to the park itself.

The Rotarians built concrete block barbecue pits in the parking lot, owned by Chuck Finlan, next to the Penn Theatre. An "automated" serving line, designed and set up by Frank Arlen, chairman of the event that year, assured diners of hot meals. Picnic tables and chairs were set up in the park which had been colorfully decorated by members of the Rotary Club.

The club's 80 members sold tickets at $1.50 for adults and $1 for children (the price in 1979 is $3.50). The late Ken Harrison, a member of the club, was the top ticket seller that year.

About 3,500 came down to the park that year. The Rotary club served about 2,800 dinners, more than double the number served on any previous occasion. In recent years, the number of dinners served has been near the 16,000 mark.

The money raised that year, and in every year since, has been donated by the Rotary Club to the Plymouth Rotary Foundation, a non-profit organization whose funds are used in the community for charitable and other worthwhile purposes.

EVENTUALLY, the Rotary Club concluded that the Fall Festival was more than one club could handle.

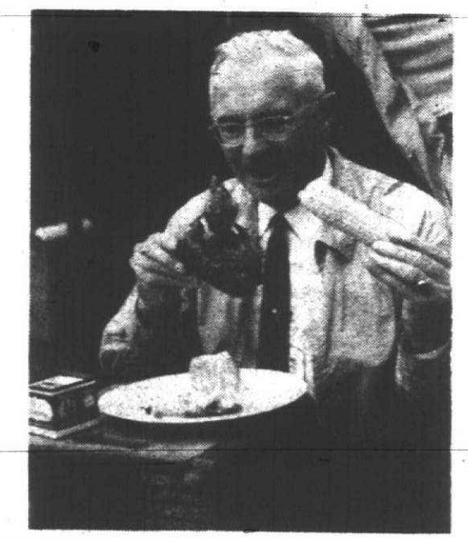
Other service clubs and organizations were invited to join in the event and a Plymouth Fall Festival Board, encompassing more than Rotary, was formed. Major participating organizations are invited to nominate a member to the board which now numbers 12.

The festival was expanded from the one-day event to a several day affair with many segments of the community represented.

There is no doubt that, in terms of sheer numbers of people attracted, the Plymouth Fall Festival has far exceeded the expectations of the people who started it.

Not all in the community are pleased, however, with the tone of the Fall Festival in recent years. The Rotary Club, for example, recently passed a resolution against the "noisy, competitive and gaudy" atmosphere that has begun to prevail.

The Club's resolution, which also has been endorsed by the Plymouth Kiwanis Club, has been delivered to the Fall Festival Board for it's consideration.



The late Carl Shear, a Rotarian, enjoys barbecued chicken and sweet corn at the 1962 Fall Festival. Shear was a president of the Plymouth Rotary Club and served on the Plymouth City Commission in the 1920s, '40s, '50s and '60s. He was the Buick dealer in town from 1920, until Jack Selle took over the dealership. Shear died in June 1975 at age 86.

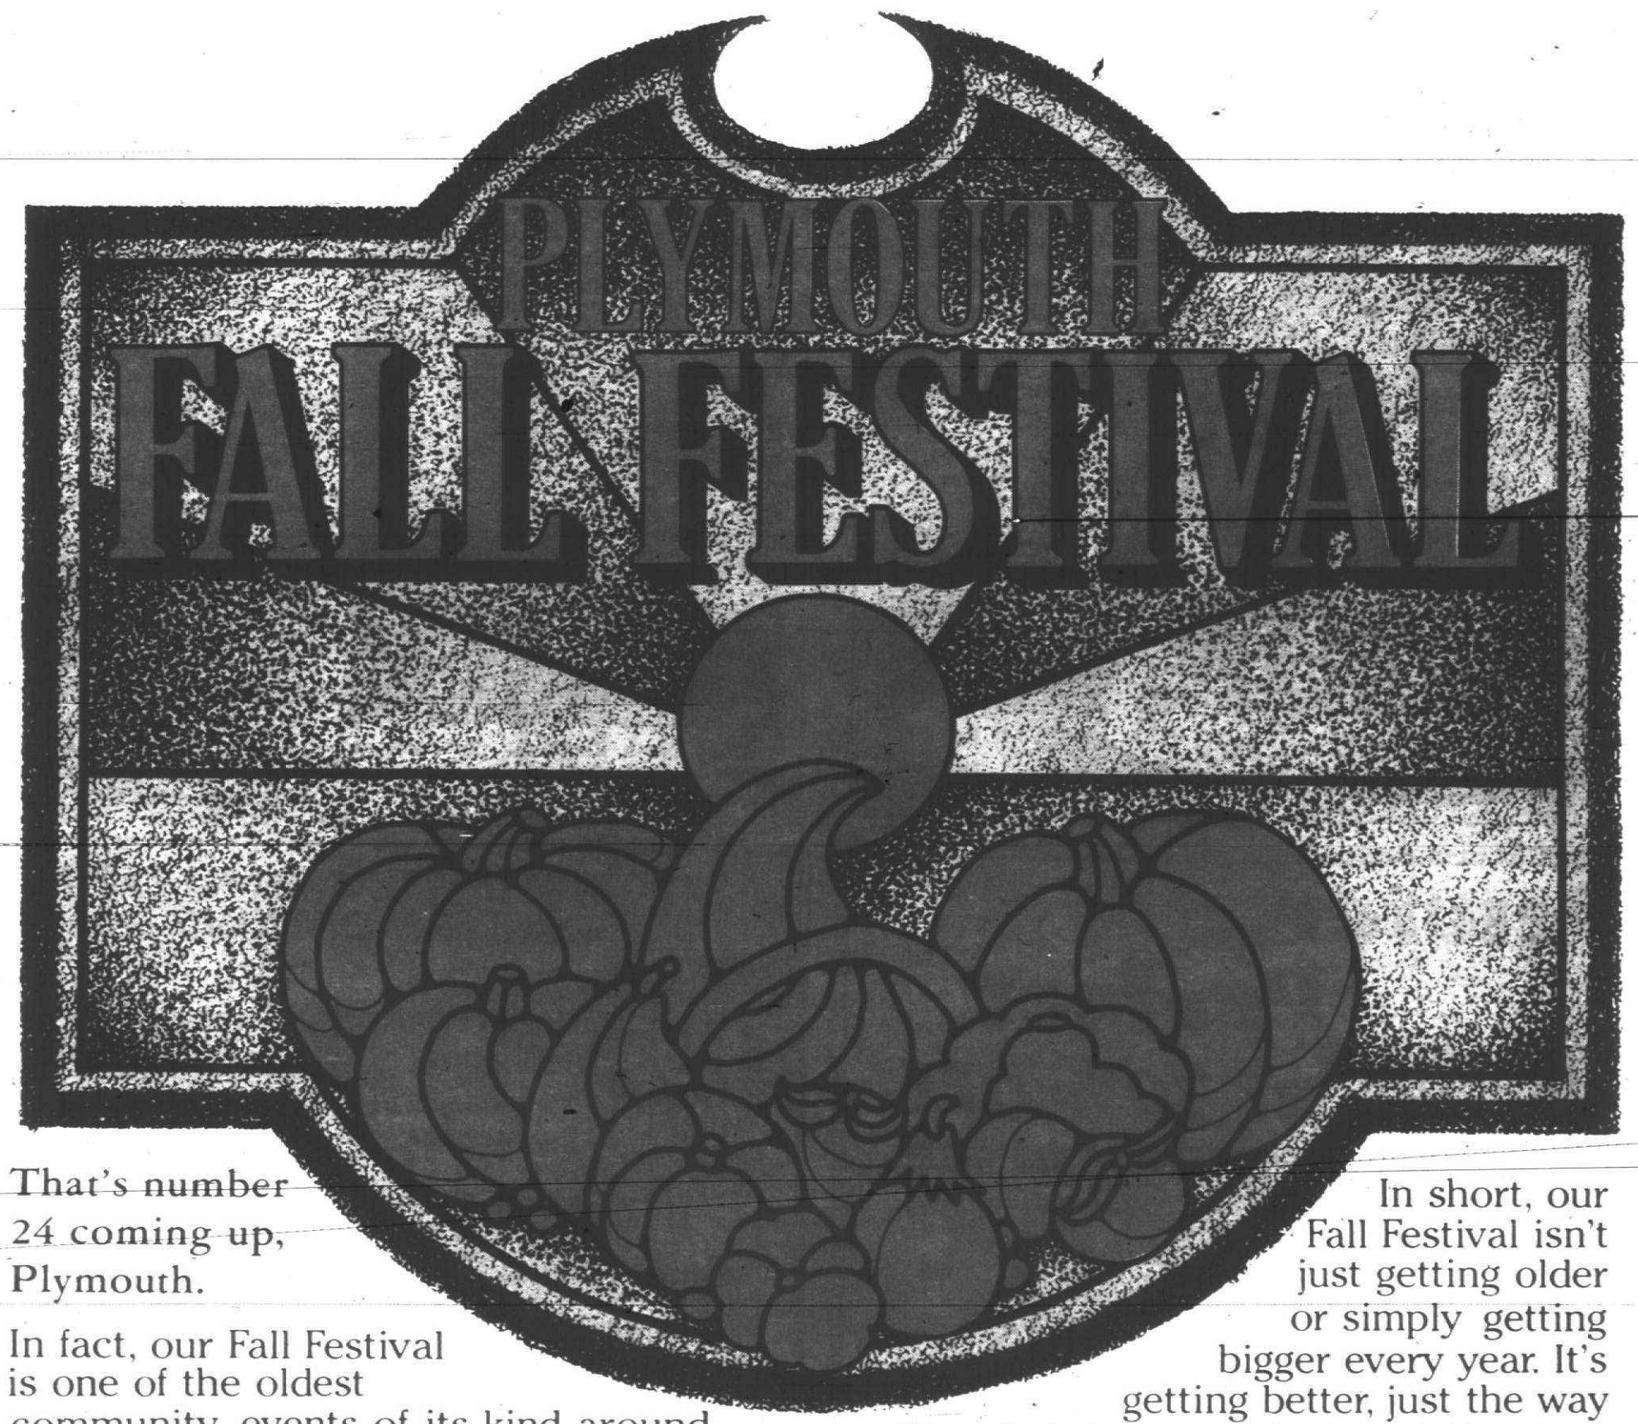
Established in 1956 and still growing strong.



That's number 24 coming up, Plymouth.

In fact, our Fall Festival is one of the oldest community events of its kind around.

But more important, each year it's a reflection of that very special quality of life we're all working for in our hometown.

In short, our Fall Festival isn't just getting older or simply getting bigger every year. It's getting better, just the way Plymouth is getting better all the time. So congratulations to our fellow old-timers. And welcome to all you newcomers.

Have a great Fall Festival!

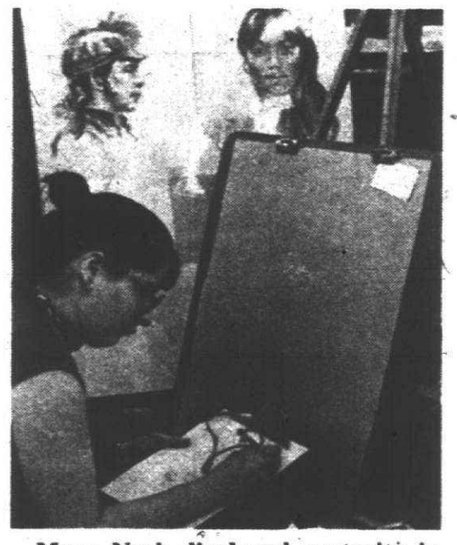
Arts and crafts show a major attraction

The decision by the Plymouth Community Arts Council to have an arts and crafts show in conjunction with the Fall Festival has proved to be a winner.

Last year, the two-day show in Central Middle School attracted more than 8,000 visitors.

The show has provided a marvelous outlet for artists and craftsmen who fill the school gymnasium, hallways and auditorium with their creativity.

The artisans and their wares spill out onto the lawns where potters, painters and metal workers demonstrate their crafts. The outdoor activity adds a colorful touch in keeping with the festival theme.



Mary Nash displayed portraits in 1978's arts and crafts show for the Plymouth Fall Festival.

This year, it will be the Artist and Craftsman Show, as the arts council has updated the name. Opening time is noon Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 8 and 9. It will close at 9 p.m. Saturday and at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students and senior citizens. Persons 16 years and younger will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

PATRONS OF the show have an opportunity to get a head start on their Christmas shopping with a wide choice of one-of-a-kind gift ideas.

Members of the PCAC choose their artists carefully to maintain the quality of the show. The 80 booths will be occupied by those the artisan selection committee considers "the cream of the crop."

There will be artists who work in oils, pastels, watercolors and acrylics. Many of their works are matted, framed and ready for hanging.

New this year is a stenciler who will design patterns to suit a customer, then adapt it to any surface including textiles.

Proceeds from the show will come back to the Plymouth-Canton community in the form of scholarships and special programs in the schools.

Grange home cookin'

No Fall Festival is complete without a visit to the Plymouth Grange Hall on Union Street just around the corner from Kellogg Park, the focal point of Festival activities.

Festival habituees return year after year for their annual sampling of the Grange's homemade cookies, pies and hot doughnuts. There also is a variety of other homemade treats — vegetable soup, split pea and ham soup, hot turkey and hot beef loaf sandwiches, sloppy joes and slices of field grown beefsteak tomatoes.

JIM HENRY will be running the doughnut making machine again this year. The hot fried cakes with their crispy crusts can be purchased singly or by the dozen.

Louise and Jesse Tritten will be mixing up the batter for dozens of cookies to be baked in the Grange kitchen. Last year they sold about 250 dozen. They make three varieties: oatmeal chocolate chip, sugar, and molasses.

Helen Eckles will be rolling out crusts for the pumpkin and apple pies. The Grange's No. 1 pie maker baked between 250 and 300 pies last year. They were so busy turning them out that they lost count.

Each year, it get's a little more difficult to put on the fall feast as several longtime Grange members have passed away in recent years. The stamina needed to work the long hours isn't as readily found. Arthritic hands can't peel bushels of apples for pies as they once did. They try to fill in the ranks and carry on.

BECAUSE the Colonial Kiwanis Club will not be serving its spaghetti dinner at noon on Thursday, the Grange will provide the featured festival lunch on opening day.

They plan to have hot beef loaf sandwiches, individual pizzas, vegetable soup, beverage, and the cookies, pies and doughnuts. They will be served at the Grange Hall.

During the four-day festival, a gifts and crafts show will be take over the upper floor of the Grange Hall. There will be no admission charge for this show.

Community on display

The Plymouth Observer will sponsor its second annual community photographic display during the last two days of the 1979 Plymouth Fall Festival.

The photographic display will be at the west end of Kellogg Park near Main Street during daylight hours on Saturday, Sept. 8, and Sunday, Sept. 9.

The display by Observer Photographer Gary C. Caskey will feature news and feature photographs of people, places, things and events taken in the Plymouth-Canton community since last year's Fall Festival.

Festival visitors are welcome to stop by the display and enjoy the scenes from the community. But the works shown are for enjoyment only, not for sale.

The display will feature both the published and unpublished works of Caskey. Among them may be a photograph of you or your family. See for yourself!

The granddaddy

Rotarians eyeing a world record

There will be a special incentive for the members of the Plymouth Rotary Club this year when they man the pits and battle the smoke for the annual chicken barbecue that will close the Fall Festival.

In contrast to other years, when the major goal was to satisfy the hunger of the customers and build up a fund for charitable purposes, Rotary members will be making a bid to get the event listed in the Guinness Book of Records.

Members are unaware of any other group which ever has prepared and sold 16,000 chicken dinners in the short space of six hours. For this reason the Rotarians would like to have their work recognized and at the same time set a goal for other clubs across the country to match.

FOR THE PAST several years 16,000 chicken halves have travelled over the charcoal pits and each year the total appears to grow — just a bit.

From the time the first dinner is served around noon, there have been long lines waiting to take their dinners into Kellogg Park until dusk settles over the area about 6:30 p.m.

From far and near they come to feast on the delicacy. No one yet has been turned away.

The only other dinner, so it is said, that surpasses Plymouth in numbers served is the bean feast held each year on the Boston Commons. It has been reported that the New Englanders handle 21,000 dinners.

But there is this difference: while the Plymouth Rotarians need only little more than six hours to sell their 16,000 dinners, the Boston folks take all day to dispose of their dinners.

In Mansfield, Mich., there is another chicken barbecue that has been heralded far and wide in recent years. But the good folks in Mansfield don't come anywhere near matching the Rotarians feat of selling 16,000 dinners.

ASIDE FROM THE vast numbers of dinners prepared during the day, the Rotarians have become noted for the system they have in preparing so many dinners in so short space of time.

From their experience over the years when the barbecue started as means of raising funds to buy playground equipment, the Rotarians could teach many backyard chefs in the area a few lessons.

Here are some of the techniques that are a bit novel:

First, the supplier of the chickens is asked to separate the right and left sides of the chickens. They are packaged separately and placed on the grills that way. The reason is that if the sides were intermingled they would cause a lump on the grill and the chicken would fall out when the grill was turned.

Next, the two long pits (75 feet long) are built four cement blocks high. Then, the charcoal fire is kept at a certain height all day. This done, it now requires 28 turns of the grill to have the chicken sufficiently barbecued to serve. These 28 turns are made from the delivery truck to the serving counter.

There they are placed in special boxes with an ear of sweet corn and a roll and start on their way to the tables in Kellogg Park where the crowds gather each Sunday following Labor Day.

Up to now no one has attempted to have the Rotary chicken barbecue listed in the record books. But this year it may be different.

Mr. Guinness, save a bit of space in your world's records.

Lions eye better sales for fresh fried fish

If you are a lover of fried fish, and enjoy the aroma when they are sizzling in the pan, there would be no better place to satisfy your appetite than at the Plymouth Lion's Club extravaganza in Kellogg Park on the Friday of Fall Festival Week.

Each year, more than 3,000 dinners are served and this year the Lions, weather permitting, expect to even better that mark.

The big fry gets under way at lunchtime, with the Lions taking care of the deep fryers in shifts. The serving then goes on until dark unless there is a sell-out prior to the setting of the sun.

Like in other years, ocean perch are purchased from the Weyand Fisheries in Wyandotte and brought here just in time to go into the deep fryers.

The fryers are lined up in the space between the Penn Theater and the Masonic Temple and are served from a specially designed serving line on Penniman Avenue.

As usual the long lines of tables will be set up in the park and there will be entertainment while the meals are being served.

The fish fry became part of the Fall Festival about eight years ago and has been a vital part of the activities since.

The Lions hit upon the idea of the fish fry when there was something needed to fit between the sauer kraut dinner served by the Business and Professional Women's Club, and the Rotary chicken barbecue.

The BPW gave up its dinner a few years ago, but the Lion fish fry still is going strong.

"All we need is a smile from the weather man," Bill Fehlig, one of the Lions' charter members, said.

They'll beat a path to the antique mart

For the 17th year, collectors will be beating a path to the Plymouth Symphony League's antique mart during Plymouth's Fall Festival days.

The three-day show and sale in the Cultural Center on Farmer Street at the railroad tracks has gained the reputation of being one of the best little shows in the state. Twenty-two exhibitors from Michigan, Pennsylvania and Illinois have been carefully selected by the Symphony leaguers to cover every phase of antique collecting.

Browsers will discover a wide range of American primitives — farm cupboards, benches, chairs, tools, churns, blanket chests, tables, foot stools and household articles.

There will be fine china and ironstone, sheer crystal and old pressed glass, farm clocks and gracious grandfathers clocks, elegant English silver and pewter, 18th century rosewood stools and early 19th century pine milk stools.

ONE DEALER has been hoarding old oak furniture for the mart. Another has collected a special assortment of old bisque dolls which will be on display for the first time at the Plymouth show.

The mart is noted for its dealers who specialize in antique jewelry. Showcases display a fortune in fine old pieces — rings, bracelets, necklaces, watches — some in matching sets. Prices range from a few dollars to several thousand.

There is a coin dealer and another who collects oriental porcelains.

Old tinware, wooden ware, brasses, milk cans, trunks, chests, quilts, books, copper, pumps, baskets, Shaker items, wrought iron pieces, children's toys, banks, postcards, napkin rings and decoys — the list is almost endless.

A candle maker and a weaver also will be at the show.

Members of the Symphony League in Shaker-type costumes will serve as hostesses for the mart at 325 Farmer Street, where free parking is available.

The antique mart will open at noon Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 7, 8 and 9. Closing hours are 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 6 p.m. Sunday. Admission will be $1.25. Proceeds from the show will go to the support of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

Doug Blunk of the Colonial Kiwanis Club of Plymouth stirs up the spaghetti sauce for Thursday's serving of an Italian dinner.

Mystery in sauce denied by the chef

Doug Blunk, the amateur chef who has been acclaimed for the tasty sauce he prepares for the Kiwanis spaghetti dinner on the Thursday evening of Fall Festival, admits that there is no mystery to the concoction or any special recipes.

"I know there have been rumors that it is a mystery sauce and that I won't give up the recipe," he says, "but there is no mystery to it.

"I just change it each year, so even I won't know what's in it until it comes time to make it."

All he knows at the moment is that he must prepare for a gathering of about 2,000 persons who will be dining in Kellogg Park. His kitchen will be in the trailer home which has been transformed into a kitchen.

ACCORDING TO Blunk, this number will be below last year simply because the noon serving is being eliminated.

"We only served about 200 at noon and it is difficult to hold spaghetti that long, or until the evening meal."

Blunk smiles when he tells you that he became the chef out of necessity when the Colonial Kiwanis Club decided to put on the spaghetti dinner when the Business and Professional Women's Club of Plymouth abandoned its German dinner which had always opened the dining aspect of the fall festival.

"I was the chairman and there was no one else around. So it was up to me."

Stuck with the assignment, his first move was to visit Leone's and learn something of the Italian sauce. After getting the base it became a mixture of mushrooms, peppers and onions and in the six or seven years he has been preparing it, a sort of mystery has grown up around Blunk's sauce.

"There's no mystery about it," he repeats. "because I keep changing the ingredients each year."

SERVING OF THE spaghetti dinners started in the Masonic Temple.

But there wasn't ample space to serve the gatherings. So, with the imagination of Jim Jabara and a few others, they bought a mobil home and transformed it into a kitchen which always is placed on the side of the Penn Theatre.

From there the spaghetti dinners are served along the line on Penniman Avenue and then carried by customers over to Kellogg Park.

But there is one thing to remember — there is nothing mysterious about the sauce and there is no recipe available because Doug Blunk, the chef, won't know all the ingredients until he starts preparing it this year.

Flippin' pancakes lures the oldtimers

The Plymouth Kiwanis Club has reached the peak of its production for the annual pancake breakfast that is a major part of the Fall Festival. But it is proud of another record.

A check of the volunteer help that mans the various stoves or serves meals in Kellogg Park reveals that the Kiwanis has more real old-timers than others and their combined years of service at the Masonic Temple would amount to several centuries.

When Saturday morning arrives during the festival you will find such old-timers as Dean Saxton, Clarence Moore, Jim Houk, Leo Schultz, Matt Fortney, Bert Bates, Mel Blunk and Fred Faust on the job. They've been doing it for years.

"We started about two years after the Fall Festival was under way," Dean Saxton explained, "and we have been at it ever since. I don't know how long some of us can keep going, but we will be there, rain or shine, until we can't make it any more."

THE PEAK OF production was reached several years ago when 2,500 person were served from early morning until early evening.

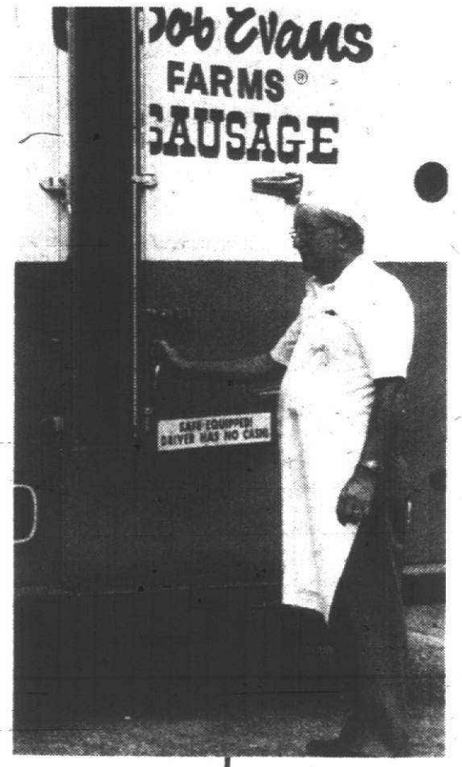
"That's all we can handle," Harold Fischer, another old-timer, remarked. "When you can make enough pancakes to feed 2,500 people with the facilities we have it is just about all you can do."

For the past several years some thought has been given to setting up facilities outdoors at the side of the Masonic Temple and use the motor home the Thursday Kiwanis uses, but the idea was abandoned.

It was agreed the pancakes was not an outdoor meal-that the cakes would get too cold to be appetizing when they reached the diner.

"What we need is more young fellows in the kitchen," Fischer commented. "But I doubt if they could do better than feed 2,500 hungry persons."

Regardless, the Kiwanis pancake breakfast is a traditional part of the Fall Festival and it is a sight to see the populace balance the syrup jars while covering the cakes and the links of sausage.



Leo Schultz (above) stands guard by the Bob Evans Farms'sausage truck for the Plymouth Kiwanis Club's pancake breakfast in 1978. Enjoying the fruits of the Kiwanis labor at right is Kathryn Pagel of Plymouth who is ready to eat after pouring maple syrup over the warm-off-the-griddle pancakes. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Jaycees scheming for tastier ribs

If the hopes of the Jaycees are realized at the Plymouth Fall Festival they will cater to at least 3,000 diners at their annual barbecued rib sale in Kellogg Park.

And in return for the record number expected, there is a new scheme planned to make the ribs even tastier than they have been in past years. And to top things off, they will be served quicker.

According to Bob Karby and Mike Lane, co-chairmen of the event, more than 2,400 meals were served last year. With that number in mind, they have now set the goal to 3,000.

One of the things the Jaycees found out is the time it takes to barbecue the ribs and this often kept the customers waiting. This year they plan to parboil the ribs before putting them on the grill.

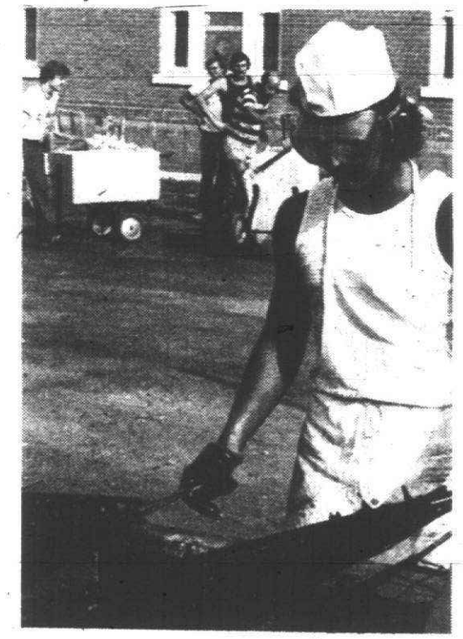
Another thing they figure will help them reach the goal is the plan to sell tickets in advance — a plan the Rotary Club uses for the chicken barbecue and the Kiwanis Club uses for the pancake breakfast.

The advance ticket sale means that there will be no delay in obtaining tickets and the sale may swell as it did for the other clubs.

The ribs again are being purchased from the Kroger Co. and only the best available will be used.

"We have been working on the big night for quite awhile," Karby said, "and we think that the advance sale and the fact that the ribs will be parboiled before they are placed on the grill will be most satisfactory to all concerned."

The Jaycee rib dinner is the semi-final event of the festival staged anywhere in Michigan. It begins with the colonial Kiwanis spaghetti dinner on Thursday night, the Lions fish fry on Friday night, the Plymouth Kiwanis pancake breakfast all day Saturday, and then the Rotary chicken barbecue as the grand finale on Sunday.



Fred Nelson of the Plymouth Jaycees watches over preparation of the beef for the JC's rib dinner.

Passes to the Penn await pet winners

Canine cutties and feline furries will be among the stars on display at the 18th Annual Pet Show to be held during the Plymouth Community Fall Festival.

The event, which is co-sponsored by the Plymouth Optimist Club and the Plymouth-Canton Community Education Department, is open to children and teens who believe they have outstanding pets.

For dogs, the categories are: good grooming, best behaved, most friendly, cutest, biggest and smallest.

For cats, the categories are: cutest, best groomed, best behaved, biggest and smallest.

There's also a category for those pets that have no classification — the most unusual pet category. The divisions are: most unusual, ibggest, smallest and cutest.

According to Larry Masteller, director of community education, all contestants will receive free passes to the Penn Theater in Plymouth. Ribbons will be awarded to the winners.

The event will begin with the dog judging at 9 a.m. on Saturday. The cat competition will follow at about 10:15 a.m. Unusual pets will be judged at about 11 a.m.

The juding will take place at the main grandstand on Penniman Ave. Registration forms will be available prior to the start of judging.

According to Masteller, some 150 dogs enter annually, as well as 100-150 cats and 50 unusual pets.

"It's a full morning," he says. "Surprising enough, the animals' behavior has been extremely good."

Kathy Hayes of Canton shows off the cat she entered in the 1978 Fall Festival Pet Show.

Trailwood to the rescue

The ole fall fair gone but produce is still shown

Quite a few years ago the fall harvest was shown off at the annual fall fair.

The fall fair was held in the city of Plymouth at a site near Ann Arbor Trail and the C&O railroad tracks.

In fact, Fairground Street received its name because of its proximity to the site of the fall fair.

The fair no longer is held, and hasn't been for many years, but the display of the fall harvest is still an important annual event for farmers and gardeners in the greater Plymouth-Canton Community.

NOW THE SHOWING of the harvest is an important part of the annual Fall Festival, with the produce tent being sponsored each year by the Fall Festival Board of Directors.

This year, though, the produce tent was almost "weeded out" from the Fall Festival. It was saved when members of the Trailwood Garden Club agreed to staff the tent on Sunday during the festival.

The fulltime help of the garden club will free up board members and officers to become more involved in managing other events.

"At one time, we thought of dropping it,"says Dick Raison, a director and coordinator of the produce tent. "We thought it caused more problems than it did any good. But there's still a large farming community in the area. So, we just changed the direction of it."

"WE NEEDED THE outside help," says coordinator Eleanor Shevlin. "That saved it (the produce tent) from extinction."

Raison says garden club involvement brings the produce tent "concept" back to its original roots in the fall festival.

"It's a celebration of the summer's end and the work being done," Raison says.

The produce tent will be located on the front lawn of Central Middle School on Main Street at Church. Judging will begin at 1 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 9 and last until 2:30 p.m. Contestants are asked to drop off their entries between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. that day.

The categories include: tallest sunflower; largest sunflower (measuring the diameter of the bloom); mixed vegetables by gardeners; mixed vegetables by farmers; tallest stack of corn; Indian corn; dried flower arrangements; fresh flower arrangements; largest squash; largest pumpkin; a wheelbarrel of vegetables; a canning display; and a five bushel display of squash and pumpkin.

The produce tent will now also feature children's divisions in some categories.

There were more than 200 entries in last year's contest.

Winners will be announced from the bandstand at 3 p.m. that day. It's hoped that all produce is removed by 4:30 p.m.

Window displays are worth a strolling trip to downtown

Merchants in the Plymouth community join the Fall Festival festivities by decorating their shop windows for the occasion.

Prizes are awarded for the best decorated windows and thousands of strollers admire the ingenuity of the window dressers.

Favorite pre-Festival activity of the local populace is an evening stroll to see this year's windows. Because the judging takes place Thursday afternoon, the windows are decorated earlier in the week.

The residents choose their own favorites and return later to see if the judges have shown the same discriminating taste.

Theme this year will be in keeping with the International Year of the Child. Window decorators can go into the past or the future world of children and their activities.

JUDGES WILL be Tim Ford, city of Plymouth police chief; Nancy Sharp, president of the Plymouth Community Arts Council; and Al Larson, owner of The Frameworks.

First, second, third and honorable mention ribbons will be awarded in four categories. Windows can be decorated by a club or organization, an idividual, a merchant, or a youth organization.

Merchants who are participating in the project should call Hazel Gibson at Plymouth Book World, 455-8787, so they will be placed on the judges' route.

Beitner's Jewelry was grand over-all first prize winner last year. The Pick O' the Wick, decorated by Serapha Moore, was awarded first place in the individual category.

Chicken pick-up available Sunday

The Rotary Club of Plymouth will be selling 16,000 chicken dinners on the Sunday afternoon of Fall Festival, with about one-third of them going to carry-out customers.

Serving time in Kellogg Park will be from noon to 6 p.m., but for those who don't wish to dine in Kellogg Park, you may pick up a take-out dinner at the Rotary pick-up service area on the southwest corner of Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon Road by the Michigan National Bank.

In 1978, more than 5,000 dinners were served promptly and piping hot in this manner. Mike Corp, chicken barbecue chairman, says tickets may be purchased in advance from any Plymouth Rotarian or on Sept. 9 at the pick-up service area or the Kellogg Park ticket booths for $3.50 per person.

The dinner includes chicken, corn on the cob, potato chips, roll and butter, white or chocolate milk and coffee. Also available will be soft drinks, ice cream and pies baked by the Plymouth Rotary Anns.

Where credit belongs

Planning for the annual Plymouth Fall Festival is a year-round activity conducted in a very business-like manner.

The Festival is by a Board of Directors who hire a fulltime manager and assistant manager to take care of administrative responsibilities.

Carl Glass, of Montfort Street, Plymouth, is the manager of the Fall Festival and the assistant manager is Mike Vanderveen. Another paid person on the Fall Festival staff is Nancy Hayes who handles publicity and promotion.

Ron South of Windwing, Plymouth, is the president of the Fall Festival Board this year.

Serving as second vice-president of the board is Fred Eisenlord of the Lions Club of Plymouth and the board treasurer's spot is held by Tim Yoe, CPA in town and a member of the Kiwanis Club.

The first vice-president is Eugene Kafila, also a Kiwanian, who in past years has served as board treasurer. Hazel Gibson of Plymouth Book World serves as secretary with Richard Raison as immediate past president.

Assisting these officers on a year-round basis are members of the board, including: Robert Richardson, a past board president; Tom Workman, Allen Elementary principal; Jane Turner; Harold Guenther; Eleanor Shevlin; Catherine Kostreba.

This year, two members of the board moved away from Plymouth before Fall Festival's arrival and were unable to see the fruits of their many month's labor.

Mrs. Turner, wife of former Plymouth mayor Tom Turner, left the first part of September for Venezuela where her husband has assumed responsibility as president and general manager of Ford of Venezuela.

Richardson, husband of former Plymouth Township Clerk Helen Richardson, has moved to a year-round home up north where the Richardsons will spend their retirement years.
