Schools open as settlement is negotiated

By EMORY DANIELS
Schools in Plymouth-Canton opened today after a tentative agreement was reached Sunday based on a factfinder's report.

Teachers reported for work today and classes were held in Extended School Year buildings.

All other schools, on a nine-month schedule, will open tomorrow. The strike ended after the school board acted on the factfinder's recommendation and raised its salary offer.

Teachers will receive a 25.3 percent increase over three years and will get some fringe benefit improvements, primarily in dental insurance.

Both sides are back at the table to formalize the agreement so it can be ratified by teachers and approved by the board.

Teachers met early Monday morning and voted by a narrow margin to return to work, after a motion to continue the strike for seven days was defeated. The strike had lasted two weeks.

Plymouth-Canton teachers had been given an ultimatum — return to work or face the possibility of discharge.

Superintendent John M. Hoben mailed a letter Thursday to all teachers in the district reminding them that strikes by public employees are illegal.

Hoben cited the Crestwood decision by the Michigan Supreme Court in informing teachers that those on strike risked "discipline up to and including termination of your employment," and then asked them to immediately report for work.

Although most teachers did not receive their letters until Friday's mail, the letter was discussed at a general membership meeting that morning in the Penn Theater.

The membership's immediate reaction to Hoben's letter was to show up, 700-strong, at the board offices in a picket line.

WHILE THE CONTENTS of the letter were being read and digested, both sides met again Friday afternoon in Detroit with state mediator Tom Badoud.

Both sides reported very little progress had been made Wednesday in a session with Badoud, although the union reported that the school board made "a very slight" movement in its economic offer.

The new offer was made off the table, through Badoud, and was not disclosed, but it was believed to be an increase of one-half to 1 percent as a basis for settlement only.

The union last week had reduced its previous table position with an offer through Badoud, also as a basis for settlement.

Anticipating a larger crowd because of public interest in the teachers' strike, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education has changed the location of its regularly scheduled meeting tonight.

The school board meeting will be held in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School on Joy Road just west of Canton Center Road. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Normally meetings are held in the administration building on S. Harvey in Plymouth but had to be moved two weeks ago to Plymouth Canton High because of the size of the audience.

tlement, but the exact informal offer remains unknown.

Both sides probably are about 2 to 3 percent apart on the economic salary offer.

The board is charging the Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) with violating the master agreement which recently expired, and is asking for payment of economic damages that the district is suffering because of the strike.

As of Friday the union had not answered the grievance but was expected to reject it. The board attorney has told the PCEA it would take the grievance to arbitration.

"The grievance is based on us not reporting for work," said John Ryder of the PCEA. "But I don't think we have violated the contract."

Norm Kee, spokesman for the board, would not specify what the grievance was "because it is normal practice not to disclose the contents of a grievance while it is pending."

It is unusual, though, for management to file a grievance and in most contracts the only section management can grieve is a "no strike" clause.

ON FRIDAY Badoud called for an end to mediation and the bargaining moved into "forced-mediation factfinding."

Kee described that process as similar to factfinding but less formal.

Called in to head up the factfinding effort was Dr. George Gullen, the former president of Wayne State University. Kee expected that process to be ended by today.

On Friday the school board also filed unfair labor practice charges against the union with the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC).

Those charges allege that the union has:

- Called a strike without first using the processes of mediation and fact-

Cartoonist Clifton Wirth takes a look at the expanse of Hines Park from Telegraph on the east to Northville Road on the west. Along with pictorial mention of some of the people one is likely to meet there, Wirth has marked with stars the main gathering places of the young.

The nature center is a spot where crowds of youths frequently gather in the summer months, and the Wallaceville section to the east is favored by motorcyclists.

Beefed-up patrol nets park arrests

By MIKE SCANLON

Clerks in department stores traditionally scramble at Christmas. Wayne County Sheriff's Department deputies assigned to Hines Park sweat out their rush season all summer long.

But this has been the year the Grinch stole Christmas from the sheriffs — the Hines Park rush arrived early and didn't stay long.

"April 22 was the day of infamy," says Lt. Thomas Harrett, commander of the Hines Park deputy contingent.

"Everything peaked out in May. After that, people just haven't been out to the park in the numbers they were."

As he spoke, Harrett was cruising in a marked Sheriff patrol car on Hines Drive. There was little in sight to dispute his point. It was a sunny afternoon at the start of the Labor Day weekend, and less than 300 people were using the park between Newburgh and Telegraph.

ON SUNDAY, April 22, things were different. It was a bright, unseasonably warm weekend afternoon then, too — but an officially estimated 40,000 people crowded the route Harrett drove four months later.

In Westland and Dearborn Heights there are households that directly abut the sprawling, 17.5 mile long, 2,225-acre park. And in those households, the huge park crowd drew a wave of what might most accurately be termed panic.

In the days and weeks after April 22, hundreds packed stormy public meetings, most notably before the Dearborn Heights City Council.

They demanded action. They got it — the park has been substantially quieter this year than last.

Arrests through the first eight months of this year have nearly tripled the total for all of last year — 2,927 through August compared to 1,079 for all of 1978. Another 1,195 people have received appearance notices, traffic violation-style tickets.

Cops, not crowds, are one reason. Lt. Harrett figures the weekend nights on Hines Drive this year feature twice as many marked cars and three times the number of deputies who patrolled last year.

There were five traffic fatalities on Hines Drive last year. Through Aug. 29 this year, there have been none. There were 265 accidents last year, but only 102 through Aug. 29 this year, and accident injuries dropped from 187 to 69 in the same period.

Nobody is really sure why all this has happened — or more precisely, why the huge crowds have failed to appear.

The reasons may include:

- Effective in April, penalties for violation of park regulations were boosted from a $50 fine to a maximum $500 fine plus a 90-day jail term. Judges have been vigorously enforcing the new penalties — Westland's Evan Callanan has enforced them so vigorously, the deputies have named one of their new horses after him. As a result of convictions on violations occurring in the park, some 950 people were on probation at the end of June. Probation conditions for all of them include a ban on entering the park for periods averaging one year.

• The Wayne County Road Commission began an extensive road reconstruction project that dragged on throughout the summer and left lengthy stretches of the two-lane roadway periodically disrupted.

• Police presence in the park was beefed up with a horse patrol, new cars, added deputies and a county road commission building at Newburgh converted for use as a sheriff mini-station.

• To top it off, the month of August.

Canton crime climbs upward

Is Canton a safe place to live and work?

While street crimes of violence are practically non-existent, Police Chief Jerry Cox says that burglaries, domestic assaults and traffic fatalities are higher than they should be in a community of Canton's size.

And he hopes the township board will agree to a tax increase for a larger police force, needed to deal with a significant increase in crime.

The proposal to increase the police millage will be considered at Tuesday's township board meeting.

Since Jan. 1, nine persons have died in traffic accidents on township streets, and almost $360,000 worth of property has been stolen or damaged. Most of the 124 assaults involved family members or acquaintances.

Although no cases of homicide or rape have occurred, one attempted homicide is listed on the department's crime statistic report.

The case involved a reserve police officer who was making a routine patrol of a new subdivision. A sniper, who fired three bullets at the officer's car, was never apprehended.

COX SAYS his department handled 172 percent more complaints in May through August of 1978 than during the same period last year.

He attributes the increase to two factors: the township's rapidly growing population and the recent tendency of township residents to call the Canton police.

The police department did not begin 24-hour patrol until June 1978. Prior to that time, most residents called the Wayne County Sheriff's Department to report a crime.

But despite the dramatic increase in workload, Cox says that budgetary restraints have prevented the hiring of additional patrol officers.

But he is hoping that the township board will approve a recommendation to increase the police tax levy from two to four mills ($4 per $1,000 in assessed property valuation) in order to allow the hiring of six additional patrol officers and six police cadets. The department currently includes 17 patrol officers and 14 volunteer reserves.

According to Cox, the additional personnel would increase the township's resident-police ratio from .57 patrol officers per 1,000 residents to .88 officers per 1,000 residents. He said the federal government recommends two police officers per 1,000 residents.

COX SAID the new hires would allow the police department to establish a needed crime prevention program. He believes educating residents on ways to burglar-proof their homes and register their valuables is the best way to curb Canton's theft statistics.

According to the chief, Sgt. William Lenaghan has volunteered his time to talk with residents about crime prevention.

But Cox says that Lenaghan's work is not enough. He wants to send a team of three cadets and an officer to neighborhoods with instructions to formulate a crime prevention program for that subdivision.

Cox believes that crime prevention could reduce thefts in Canton by 60 to 80 percent.

So far this year, police have handled 276 breaking and entering complaints, 116 stolen vehicle reports and 822 larcenies. Police have recovered $170,000 in stolen property, but Cox is quick to note that almost $360,000 worth of property was either stolen or damaged in the January to August period.

"Traditionally, this country has dealt with crime as a crisis-after-the-fact matter," he said. "What you really need is crime prevention."

"Larcenies and B&Es (breaking and entering) in this community are high — certainly higher than they should be.

They've taken a significant toll on the community. Because of Canton's development, we're going to be overwhelmed if we don't do something about crime today."

COX VIEWS traffic deaths as another major problem in Canton Township.

Nine persons have died on Canton streets so far this year, a statistic which Cox calls "high for a community with just 190 miles of roads."

"Speed and drinking, I suppose, are the killers," he said. "You can go out anytime day or night and arrest drunk drivers on routine patrol."

Cox said the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol issues many of the traffic citations in Canton.

"Frankly, we don't have the opportunity to get involved in a traffic program. Because of our staff, a car just doesn't have time to sit and watch traffic."

So far this year, 594 traffic accidents have occurred in Canton and 290 drunk driving arrests have been made.

The department's crime statistic report shows 26 cases of criminal sexual conduct, 56 drug violations and 206 complaints involving juveniles.

Board moves meeting place

Anticipating a larger crowd because of public interest in the teachers' strike, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education has changed the location of its regularly scheduled meeting tonight.

The school board meeting will be held in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School on Joy Road just west of Canton Center Road. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Normally meetings are held in the administration building on S. Harvey in Plymouth but had to be moved two weeks ago to Plymouth Canton High because of the size of the audience.

Short Takes

Free cancer tests

The Plymouth branch of the Michigan Cancer Foundation is offering free breast examinations to women this Wednesday. Specially-trained nurses will conduct the exams and teach women the method of self-examination. Millie Dely, a volunteer with the Michigan Cancer Foundation, said another clinic may be scheduled in the office at 173 N. Main St. if enough women express interest. Women are asked to call the office at 453-3010 to schedule an appointment. The free clinic is the first ever held in the Plymouth office.

Chicken wings

Plymouth Township has officially challenged Canton board members to start talking chicken in preparation for the 3rd annual Chicken Flying Contest in the City of Plymouth. Plymouth Township officials say their Charter Chicken can fly farther than any hen or rooster which Canton could ever train. Canton Clerk John Flodin, who used to be a chicken farmer, says he just may take up the challenge and enter the Oct. 7 event. Canton has never entered a chicken in the event before. But Flodin says that Canton could carry home top honors this year.

Tax rates

The Canton Township board is expected to set the tax rate for police, fire and the general fund at this Tuesday's board meeting. Finance director Mike Gorman has recommended a half-mill increase (50 cents per $1,000 assessed property valuation) in the operating millage and a two-mill increase ($2 per $1,000 assessed valuation) in the police tax levy. If his recommendation is approved, property owners would be assessed five mills for operation, four mills for police and 1 1/4 mills for the fire department. Although the township usually levies five mills for operation, Gorman said the tax rate was reduced to 4 1/4 mills last year when $365,000 was taken from surplus funds for operational purposes. Surplus monies were also used to support the police department last year.

McAninch selected as LWV director

BEVERLY McANINCH

Plymouth's outgoing city commissioner Beverly McAninch has been named to a top post in the League of Women Voters' 18-member state governing board.

Mrs. McAninch, whose second term as commissioner expires this November, was selected as the league's state director of natural resources and environmental quality by the league's state president Kay Cushman.

"The state league has joined with various other environmental groups in a coalition supporting a wetlands bill currently before the state legislature," said Mrs. McAninch, who has long been the city commission's environmental spokesperson.

"Some leagues in Michigan have thoroughly studied shorelands preservation on the Great Lakes. Other leagues will soon be learning from their study and voting whether or not to support their conclusions."

Mrs. McAninch said other target study areas include transportation, land use, water resources and energy.

Plymouth's outgoing city commissioner joins the league's state board after serving as president of its local chapter at one time. The local chapter has about 96 members in Plymouth, Northville, Canton and Novi.

McANINCH's appointment precedes Governor William Milliken's proclaiming the week of Sept. 16 as League of Women Voters Week in Michigan.

GED testing is being offered

Full preparatory classes and testing services are now being offered to persons seeking their GED (General Education Development) certificate by the Plymouth-Canton Community Education Department.

"We are proud to be the newest official testing center in the state of Michigan," said Larry Masteller, community education director, who added that the state department of education designated Plymouth-Canton Community Schools as a testing center only last year.

Testing dates are scheduled periodically throughout the year, with preparatory classes offered in both the daytime and evening community education programs.

REGISTRATION for the fall semester GED program courses started on Sept. 4. Classes will begin the week of Sept. 17.

David Dursum, assistant director of community education, urged those planning to take the GED high school equivalency test to first complete prep class.

The six-hour, five-part test covers writing skills, math, literature, science and social studies.

The prep class is designed to familiarize students with the expectations of all five areas of the test, and prepares them psychologically for the test itself, he said.

Dursum said that more than 90 percent of the students who complete the class pass the stringent test.

"Our success ratio is tremendous, and we find that the GED is not an end for many who pass the test. Because success builds self-confidence, many students continue on to take other classes here or at Schoolcraft College."

THE 15-WEEK preparation class is free to all students.

Courses are offered in the morning, afternoon, and evening and count as high school credit for those wishing to also work toward a high school diploma.

Lab facilities are provided at the GED center for those needing additional help and instruction, and students are encouraged to take advantage of the many available resources.

Students requesting to take the test must be at least 18 years old and their senior class must have graduated.

The people of Hines Park

For running or relaxing, they say it's a nice place to be

By MAURIE WALKER

Fritz Heinz of Westland, above, is one of many people who use Hines Park for jogging. Diane Smith of Westland and Sonya Gee of Livonia, right, prefer to use the park just as a place to lay back in the sun.

"The whole (crime) situation has been exaggerated."

This is the opinion of the majority of Hines Park users interviewed last week by The Observer.

The opinion is not limited to young persons. Park users interviewed ranged in age from early 20s to mid-30s.

None expressed any fear at being in the park, but admitted the beefed-up police exposure has helped.

Rob McKeown of Livonia, playing Frisbee with a friend, Vicki Hackman of Detroit, said he enjoyed the park.

"I come here very so often and have never had any problems. I feel if you don't look for trouble, you won't find it," he said.

Ms. Hackman said she had visited the park several times.

"I'm on vacation now and enjoy taking advantage of the park," she said.

Both agreed the park was "just a nice place to play Frisbee."

NICHOLAS ANDON of Redford Township uses the park every day for his bicycle riding.

"I ride for two or more hours each day, traveling from Ann Arbor Trail west to Wayne Road," he said. "I've never had any problems."

Andon said he comes to the park on weekends to play ball or just to relax and kill time.

"I think this is a reasonable place for young people to come and enjoy themselves. There's no place else for them to go."

He feels it has helped to have the Wayne County Sheriff deputies in the park.

"They are doing a good job of keeping things under control. I see them patrolling the area every day when I ride through the park."

But he said the crime perception in the park has been exaggerated.

Pam Haller of Canton Township and Mike McSween of Plymouth, were resting on a picnic table after spending three hours in line to get their University of Michigan season football tickets.

THE SENIORS at U-M Dearborn said they come to the park every once in awhile.

"I don't think that the majority of people abuse the park. It seems to me the stories about problems here have been exaggerated," she said.

McSween said he usually goes to the area of the park near Riverside.

"Everyone there seems to be responsible. I've never seen any problems."

He said there is less traffic in the park lately.

"The no parking signs recently installed have helped or hindered the park," she said. "There just isn't as much room for cars anymore. I'm just surprised at the hassling the police are giving the people in the park this year."

She said she usually comes to the park with a group and, "you know, there is safety in numbers."

JOHN BENNETT and Tony Vella, both of Westland, interrupted their tennis game on a Hines Park court to discuss the publicized crime issue.

The long and winding road through Hines Park has developed a reputation as a trail for raucous youth, but people who use the park today are still taking advantage of it as a calming place to loll amid the greenery.

"The stories about problems here are exaggerated," Bennett said. "It's like when you go out of town and you tell them you're from Detroit. They act amazed that you are still alive because of all the exaggerated stories they've heard about the city."

Bennett said he had at one time come to the park at night but found there were too many people.

"The best time to play tennis is in the morning before we go to work," he said. "I've seen the police in the park every day, but they don't question us."

Vella said he thought having greater police exposure in the park has helped to keep crowds under control.

"Cutting down on the parking areas has reduced the crowds that usually come at night and on weekends," Vella added.

PETE FINETTI of Garden City, who has lunch in the park every day with some of his co-workers, said he thought the park was a good place for young people.

"If they aren't here raising hell, they will be doing it somewhere else. Personally, I think the whole situation has been exaggerated," he said.

The feeling of exaggeration was seconded by Bob Minch of Garden City.

Finetti added that he was glad the Michigan returnable bottle law was passed.

"The park sure looks a lot better without all those cans and bottles scattered around."

Jerry Miller, of Royal Oak, and Don Palmer, of Detroit, lunching with Finetti and Minch, said they didn't have any fear of being in the park.

"We eat here every day when the weather is nice and are never bothered, they said.

FOUR MEN enjoying a Frisbee game before going to work said they enjoyed the park.

Rase Durai of Westland said he just comes to the park to have a good time and has never had any problems.

Tim Cover of Westland said he comes to the park early every evening when he gets off work.

"I just saw one fight at the beginning of the year. Police have come up and asked our age, but there is no real problem. I think some people make the park sound worse than it really is."

One Frisbee player, Dale Cruz of Belleville, said he comes to Hines Park occasionally.

"I'm never nervous about being here. If the park is too crowded, I just stay away," he said.

Terry Cover of Redford said he comes to the park 3-4 nights a week to play frisbee.

"I had some problems with people and the cops last year in the Cass Benton area, but I don't go to that part of the park anymore."

finding as required by law.
• Called a strike in violation of the 1976-79 master agreement by invoking a work stoppage before the contract's expiration date of Aug. 31.

• Striking "in furtherance" of a non-mandatory subject of bargaining.
The latter involves the board's claim that when the strike was called one of the issues still on the table was a request for payroll deduction for teachers volunteering to contribute to the Michigan Education Association's political action fund. Contribution to a Political Action Committee is a non-mandatory subject of bargaining, Kee explained.

In his letter, Hoben informed teachers of the meaning of the Crestwood decision and then wrote that "your failure to immediately present yourself for work shall constitute evidence of your individual support and participation in the illegal work stoppage."

Cops increase arrests in park

made a good stab at giving local residents an idea of what Noah felt like. The National Weather Service computed August total rainfall at 2.99 inches, .29 inches less than normal. But there are 31 days in August, and in this year's bleak and overcast month, rain fell on 19 of them.

The significance of the rain, increased patrols, and road construction varies depending on who is talking, but all three factors apparently contributed to the reduction in park problems.

"STARTING BACK in May we began getting secondary road cars with the moving radar," said Lt. Harrett. "I would have to attribute the change here to having three times the number of black and whites out there... we can never measure the deterrent effect, but it's got to be there."

On a weekend afternoon shift last year in which seven men and three or four cars were assigned to park duty, there are 20 to 25 officers and as many as 15 vehicles, including motorcycles, this year.

But road construction work disrupted traffic throughout much of the summer and was also a factor, Lt. Harrett admits. Edwin Mika, superintendent of the Wayne County Road Commission parks and recreation section, insists the road work was the primary factor.

Asked about declining park use, Mika said "one of the reasons, of course, is there's been some construction in the park. It's hard to compare this year to last year — in fact, it's not even fair."

And then there were those 19 days of August rain.

HINES PARK is the floodplain of the Rouge River. Until the opening of the Jeffries Freeway in 1977, the park was frequently used as a commuter route, but vehicle counts showed a drop from 12,900 to slightly more than 8,000 daily in the first five months after the freeway opening.

This year, the park seems to have returned to what it was primarily used for since its 1930 opening — a quiet backwater for picnickers and softball players. It wasn't always.

As western Wayne County's population boomed into the 1970s, park usage did too. An estimated two million park visits were made annually by 1978. The deputies who began the decade with 155 arrests in 1970 were hauling in 2,060 people by 1977. Nearly all arrests in the park are for relatively minor offenses classed as misdemeanors — but Hines Park 1977 arrests still represented 43 percent of the countywide total.

New problems arose. This summer began with a series of four stabbings, largely the result of a new fad — wearing knives on belt holsters.

"It's a macho thing. They strut around with these four-inch, locking blades on their hips," said Lt. Harrett. Under the provisions of a previously little-known park regulation outlawing actions that are detrimental to health and safety, deputies this summer have confiscated about 200 of the knives.

WEATHER, POLICE presence, heavy penalties by sentencing judges and road construction. All of them, one of them, some of them had the effect of virtually eliminating most crowd problems in Hines Park this year — so much so that Lt. Harrett says "we've cut Dearborn Heights. It's not 10 percent of what it was."

About next year, Lt. Harrett points out that all the beefed-up, extensively expanded police operations in Hines Park have so far been paid for solely from the existing sheriff department budget.

"We still don't have cent one from our commissioners. All the money to staff and equip this has come out of our own budget," he said.

Wayne County's troubled financial picture already has deputies wondering about payless paydays, perhaps within the next month, and there's virtually no guarantee that the quiet summer of 1979 will be repeated in 1980.

"Next year it could start all over," said Lt. Harrett.

Parent classes slated

The Wayne County Department of Health will start two series of classes for expectant parents next month.

One is at the South Health Center at 21201 Eureka, Taylor, and begins on Tuesday, Sept. 11. The second series will be held at the Wayne County Department of Health, Merriman Road, Westland beginning Wednesday, Sept. 12.

The classes, using group discussion methods, will be led by a public health nurse and will meet from 7-9 p.m. for six consecutive weeks. Members of the group will discuss those questions and concerns about pregnancy, labor and delivery and infant care which are of common interest to the group as a whole.

Since the size of the group will be limited, interested persons should register as early as possible. For registration or further information, call the Wayne County Department of Health, 274-2800 or 729-2211, ext. 390, any week day between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The next series will be started the week of Oct. 23 at the same two locations.

Debate heats smoke law

A proposed ordinance that would require the installation of smoke detectors in every house, apartment unit and mobile home in Canton Township has been blasted by some township board members as a "Big Brother invasion" into private citizens lives.

But other officials call the ordinance, which will be considered again on Sept. 25, "the only way to protect the little children who cannot protect themselves."

The death of a 6-year-old boy in a house fire last June prompted Supervisor Noel Culbert to present the ordinance to the board last week. The two-story home where the boy slept was not equipped with a smoke detector.

The proposed law would require property owners to install the detectors by Nov. 1. At every change of occupancy, a township inspection would be required at the owner's expense to ensure the detectors are working properly.

The ordinance would penalize property owners with a maximum $500 fine and 90 days in jail for failure to install the detectors or request the inspection.

TRUSTEE STEPHEN LARSON, a vehement opponent of the proposed law, told Culbert he was overreacting to the boy's death.

"Anyone with any sense knows they should have a smoke detector in their house," Larson said. "But I do not like the precedent that this would set."

"I think it's a question whether we view ourselves as Big Brother who has to watch over everyone alive in Canton Township."

Trustee Robert Greenstein, another opponent of the law, suggested the drafting of an ordinance that would require the installation of smoke detectors in rental units only.

He said he would favor an ordinance that would protect "people who cannot protect themselves because they're renting someone else's property."

"But when you come into my home and tell me I've got to have a smoke detector and I've got to have someone snoop around when I sell, that's when I say, 'Government, get the hell out!'" Greenstein said.

FESTIVAL

and napping*

As usual, vast numbers of people gather in Kellogg Park under the shade trees to enjoy the meals put on by the service clubs.

R. Bulmon, a sketch market, has fallen asleep in the sun while waiting for customers to ask about his art work, which he exhibited in the fleamarket Thursday.

What in the world is a 7" drop?

No, it's not a short fall; it's something new in men's suiting, and if you work hard to keep yourself trim, to keep your silhouette slim and youthful, it's something you should know about. You see, in a conventional suit, the pants are 6" smaller in the waist than the suit size— a 6" drop. This means if you buy a size 40 suit, the pants will be 34" around the waist. Which is fine for some men, but if it always means an alteration problem for you, then a 7" drop suit is in order. Its smaller waist size is tailored specifically for the more angular physique, and, as you can see here, the styling is as exciting as the concept. Choose styles that are classically tailored, or rich with updated detailing like narrower lapels, shorter vents (or no vents at all), straight or tapered pants legs, waistline pleats, and more. Select your slim silhouette in Contempo and Woodward Shops for Men, all stores.

Party-goers in Hines Park charge harassment by police

By BILL CASPER

Besides a picnic lunch and a blanket, it might be wise for visitors to Edward Hines Park to take along some extra cash for bail money.

Getting arrested in the park is common if you happen to be there during the summer peak when police enforcement is strictest and police tempers are shortest, according to some park users.

Those on the receiving end of a ticket or an arrest view such actions as police harassment.

Take for example the case of Marty Waters, 19, of Detroit.

Waters told the Observer he was arrested in the park on a Detroit bench warrant.

"I pulled my car onto the shoulder of the road to make a U-turn, and a deputy pulled up next to me and asked for my driver's license for no reason," said Waters.

"I DIDN'T have my license with me," he continued. "They arrested me and later discovered I had not paid a Detroit traffic ticket. I did send a check, but it bounced because my mother forgot to put money in my account."

"I spent about an hour crammed in the back seat of a patrol car with three others who were arrested. Finally, they took us to their mini-station at Newburgh and Hines Drive where I sat handcuffed to a bench for about another half hour," Waters said.

"They (sheriff's deputies) asked me how much money I had. I told them $35. They said that would be enough to cover my bail, and after I paid them they let me go," he said.

"It wasn't necessary to handcuff me for a traffic violation. Many of the arrests they make are unnecessary. They're just out to harass people," said Waters.

He said one person arrested with him was busted for nothing more than asking some questions.

That person is 28-year-old Bobby (the name is fictional upon his request).

Bobby told the Observer he could not get any answers from a deputy who was in the process of arresting another young man. And when he pressed for an answer, he was arrested on a charge of resisting and obstructing a police officer.

But Bobby was not as fortunate as Waters.

His ordeal with deputies lasted about eight hours, beginning at the time of his arrest about 3 p.m. and ending with his release at about 11:30.

BOBBY SAID he was acting as a spokesman for a large group of motorcycling friends who were becoming hostile toward the actions of deputies, in arresting another motorcycle rider for no apparent reason.

"I explained to the deputies about the potentially explosive situation, and I told them all I wanted was an explanation to give to my friends," said Bobby. "He told me it was none of my business and to leave. I kept asking him for an explanation and he kept refusing to answer."

"We both raised our voices at one another, and I told him he wasn't being very professional," Bobby continued. "Then he began swearing at me. The crowning blow came when I told him he was a disgrace to his uniform."

"I started to walk away, then he ordered me into his patrol car without a reason. He later told me I was under arrest, but I was never informed of the charge," Bobby said.

"I was taken to the mini-station with three others and handcuffed to one of two, long steel benches," Bobby said. "I was there with a lot of young kids, and others kept coming in and out."

"I was talking and joking with the others until one deputy came right up to my face and said, 'I don't want to hear any more... out of you.'"

"So I went to sleep on the bench," Bobby said. "Everyone I was arrested with was gone by 7 or 8 p.m."

At about 10 p.m., Bobby said he was taken by deputies to the main sheriff's department on Michigan Avenue and Henry Ruff Road where his friend came three times with the $100 in bail money to get him out.

BUT EACH TIME his friend arrived, deputies told him Bobby couldn't be released yet, said Bobby.

At the main department, Bobby was fingerprinted, then placed into a detention room and later moved into a cell until his release.

"As I was being released, one deputy told me I was lucky because I could be doing two years in Jackson," Bobby said. "I think they kept me so long because they were trying to get me on some kind of a felony obstruction of justice charge."

Bobby's friend, who also asked to remain anonymous, said he heard deputies discussing a number of possible charges against Bobby as he waited to post bail on his third trip to the main station.

"I had never been arrested before," Bobby said. "But the way deputies handled my arrest in the park was unprofessional and absurd. The deputies are not well trained and some of them don't have any comprehension of what their function is. Some of them are on a power trip, harassing kids for identification for no reason. And some of them are dangerous."

Bobby pled innocent to the misdemeanor charge and has hired a Southfield attorney to fight it.

In response to charges of harassment, Lt. Tom Harrett of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department said, "We don't deliberately harass any citizen. We just enforce the law the most effective way we can with limited time and manpower."

Franklin stuns Rocks with goal-line stand

By BRAD EMONS

The scoreboard clock ran out on Plymouth Salem as Livonia Franklin made an incredible goal-line stand giving the Patriots a 12-9 upset football victory Saturday afternoon at Claude Snarey Field.

In one of the wildest finishes in years, Franklin's defense withstood a final Salem rally in the waning seconds of play. After an injury to Franklin cornerback Steve Wright, game officials halted play with only one second left on the clock. Quarterback Jim Anderson hurriedly lined his team up on the one-yard line as the officials motioned the clock to start again once Wright had left the field.

Anderson then handed the ball off to halfback Craig Stack who scored on the play but the officials ruled time had expired before the Salem quarterback had received the snap.

Salem had used all its allotted time outs.

"The clock must start once the injured player leaves the field," explained referee Roger Vest. "It was our time out. It's that simple."

"I'm not sure what quite happened," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "I saw the kid down with three seconds left." Trailing 12-7 and Franklin holding the ball on a fourth down situation at its own 21-yard line, Patriot quarterback Jon McCarthy elected to run the ball into the end zone, giving up two points on a safety, cutting the lead to 12-9 with 1:06 left in the fourth quarter.

Salem returned the Franklin kickoff, a high bouncer, to the Patriots' 36-yard line, giving the Rocks excellent field position.

With 31 seconds left, Anderson hit wide receiver Ron Schultz with 33-yard pass setting up the wild ending.

Franklin then stopped two straight Salem running plays, the last one as Wright and safety Steve Droz prevented Stack from scoring just inches from a touchdown.

"We took a chance with the safety," said Patriot coach Armand Vigna. "We had trouble with our kicking game all afternoon. Our punter Ron Lohman was hurt at the time."

"At the end of the game we got caught hurting but our kids would not lose. They played with tremendous heart and desire. They would just not give up.

"I feel we beat one of the better ball clubs in the area. Salem has a tough defense and a pair of tough linebackers. This was one of the most satisfying and thrilling victories in our history."

It was the Patriots' defense which made most of the noise all afternoon. Salem had a number of good opportunities to score but was victimized by fumbles and penalties.

Defensive end Tim Przywiecki, linebackers Lohman, Doug White and Jack Williams effectively contained the Salem wishbone attack.

"I give all the credit of the defense to our coaches George Lovich and Gerry Cullin," said a happy Vigna. "They (Salem) had a hard time reading it."

"We had numerous chances but couldn't execute offensively," said Moshimer. "Give credit to their defense."

In the second quarter, Franklin ran a flea-flicker play when Droz hit Wright with a 30-yard pass at 1:45 down to the Salem 12-yard stripe.

Helped by an offside and face-mask grabbing penalty, Franklin scored four plays later when Droz raced four yards with the score. The point-after kick went wide and the Patriots took a 6-0 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

At 4:25 of the third quarter, Salem faked a punt on a fourth down play as Anderson stopped a quarterback sneak but was tripped short of the necessary yardage as Franklin took over on the Rocks' 44.

On the ensuing play Droz raced 44 yards off tackle for a TD, increasing the Patriots' lead to 12-0 as the two-point conversion failed.

"The coach lost the game," said Moshimer, blaming himself. "It was a stupid thing to do trying that on fourth down." At 6:57 of the third quarter, Salem pounced on a fumble at the Patriot 21-yard line but Przywiecki threw Anderson for a loss on a fourth down play and Franklin once again held.

Salem scored with 6:46 left in the fourth quarter when Stack bowled his way over, going six yards as Salem trailed 12-7 after the successful extra point.

With 4:30 left in the game and Franklin punting, a high snap from center sailed over the head of Lohman, and was recovered by Salem at the Patriot 22. But Salem failed to move the ball once again in five plays.

Bentley snaps 12-game skid

Canton takes pounding in opener

By BRAD EMONS

It was a joyous debut for Livonia Bentley football coach Steve Naumcheff as his Bulldogs snapped a 12-game losing streak by beating Plymouth Canton, 20-0, Friday night at Centennial Educational Park.

Bentley completely dominated play through the entire game holding Canton's offense without a single first down. But the Chiefs didn't have the ball hardly at all.

"We hustled, hit and never quit," said Naumcheff, an assistant coach at Redford Union last year. "That's been our motto."

"It was total team play. They deserved it. I have to credit my coach Ron Hardy for the play of our offensive line."

"I had to be disappointed with our defense," said Canton coach Dave Schuele, whose team beat Bentley in its opener last year 12-0.

"Bentley did exactly what I thought — power football, but we weren't active up front. They controlled the line of scrimmage and beat us off the ball."

"You can't take anything away from Bentley. They came emotionally ready to play."

Tailback Bob Schmitt was a thorn in Canton's side all evening. He unofficially rushed for 141 yards in 24 carries, gaining big chunks of yardage most of the time. As a team, Bentley racked up 326 yards total offense.

"SCHMITT ran with a great amount of determination. He stepped in and did the job," said Naumcheff. "It was the team though."

Joel Turchan, Doug Brown, Scott Wilkens, Chuck Allie and Mike Simoff did a great job up front," stressed Naumcheff.

Bentley, which scored only 40 points all last season, established itself on the opening series of play, eating up 8:26 of the first quarter clock but failed to score as Canton's Dan Howard recovered a fumble at 2:24 of the period on the Bentley 24-yard line.

Bentley's defense, however, quickly returned the ball to its offense late in the first quarter and then drove 76 yards in 12 plays, capped by Greg Pierson's nine-yard TD run at 6:41 of the second quarter. The extra point attempt was no good as Bentley led, 6-0.

At 6:07 of the second quarter, defensive end Mike Schnieder pounced on a fumble at the Canton 24-yard line giving the Bulldogs a golden opportunity.

Three plays later, Schmitt ran for 19 yards for a touchdown, giving the Bulldogs a 12-0 lead at 5:00 of the second period.

Brian Smith then hit Schnieder in the end zone for the two-point conversion, increasing Bentley's advantage to 14-0.

After stopping Canton on a fourth and one situation early in the third period, Bentley took the ball and marched 34 yards in nine plays as

Greg Mallare (No. 11) tries to gain first down yardage as a host of Bentley tacklers head in hot pursuit. Bentley snapped a 12-game losing streak by whipping Canton 20-0. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Schmitt scored his second touchdown on a one-yard plunge.

CANTON'S MIKE KITTI threw Bentley quarterback Dave Cabrera for a loss on the two-point conversion at 5:39 of the third quarter.

Bentley continued to control the tempo the rest of the game but was unable to score after being hit with some holding penalties and fumbles.

The Chiefs had two interceptions and two fumble recoveries but had problems all night getting anything established.

"We went into the game wanting to go inside and then go outside," said a disappointed Schuele. "We just couldn't get the ball and didn't have it. We made some adjustments at halftime to plug up the holes. I thought we did a little better in the second half, but we made too many turnovers."

Schuele said he plans to make some personnel changes for next Friday's game at Ann Arbor. He said his team will concentrate solely on quickness and fundamentals in this week's practices.

Bentley, savoring the victory, will host Plymouth Salem in a 7:30 p.m. game Friday.

"It's great to be back home," said Naumcheff, a former assistant at Bentley. "The school really supported us for the Canton game."

"The players just kept hustling, even when we had penalties. It's a great feeling to start out like this."

Brad Emons writes....

Chicken causes stir

Oh boy, it's only the first week of the fall sports season and I'm already getting into hot water.

I was greeted by some phone calls Thursday and Friday concerning the cartoon pictorial of all the high school mascots which appeared on page 1B in the Sept. 6 Observer sports section.

The callers voiced their displeasure about the Plymouth Salem Rock looking more like a chicken or rooster. I guess the callers had something to crow about after having their feathers ruffled.

I was not the artist who concocted the cartoon but I must share part of the blame. I caught a glimpse of the cartoon before it went to press. I must plead guilty to the charge that I didn't notice anything radically wrong.

The first irate caller said "The Plymouth Rocks aren't chickens!" I told the young caller that I totally agreed with him. I wasn't about to defend a chicken unless it was from Kentucky.

All kidding aside, I wondered myself how Rock and chicken were related.

I first thought the cartoon had something to do with the Plymouth Fall Festival's Chicken Flying Contest. But I deduced that the artist most likely did not have that idea in mind.

When I finally asked freelance artist Cliff Wirth for an explanation, he said: "What can I say, there's a black and white chicken called the Plymouth Rock. It's that simple.

I STILL don't fully understand, but enough said, Cliff.

With all good intentions this season, the Rocks should hit hard and not fly away.

That's what it has always meant to be.

Another problem also occurred in Thursday's (Sept. 6) sports section which slapped Canton football somewhat in the face.

The preview story (Rocks, Chiefs await grid openings) failed to mention scarcely anything about the Chiefs' upcoming encounter with Livonia Bentley.

What happened was purely accidental. The portion about the Chiefs' game was supposed to immediately follow the Salem preview in the same story. It was written but did not appear.

That part of the story was not supposed to be cut. The amount of space allowed was not enough and was subsequently chopped, as the paper was pasted up.

I did not omit Canton on purpose and I apologize for the error. It won't happen again.

From time to time the Sports Editor must wipe egg off his face whether it's his fault or not.

One of the most memorable headlines to date has been "District final could pit Chiefs vs. Mocks," during the spring baseball season.

What is a "Mock" anyway? Hang on Salem and Canton.

Rocks return veterans

Speedy Salem cagers may run

By SCOTT ADLER

The combination of experience and height are keys to a successful season, said coach Bob Blohm of the Plymouth Salem girls' basketball team.

Blohm's squad has excellent overall height and quickness and, with some defensive rebounding, the Rocks could ignite a powerful running game.

"We like to get the boards and look to see what's happening. And with ball handlers like Nan Horwood and Eileen Moore, we could do some running," said Blohm.

In Blohm's first year as head of the Rocks, he guided them to a Suburban Eight League championship and a spotless 20-0 regular season record.

"We had a nice season last year," understated Blohm, "and it could be hard to duplicate it this year but I don't think it's the record that is so interesting as just having the girls play up to their potential and that's what every coach strives for with every team he has."

Half of last year's championship team has now graduated, including four of the five starters. However,

Blohm is still very optimistic about his six returnees.

Heading the list of experienced veterans for Salem are seniors Patty Weidman and Nan Horwood, both of whom were all-league as well as all-area players.

Weidman, a very strong, 6-1 rebounder will be chairman of the boards for the Rocks while Horwood, a good ball handler and shooter, will be "Ms. Outside" for Salem at 5-6.

Cheryl Sobkow, 5-9, will be another strong rebounder for Blohm's squad and being only a junior adds yet another dimension as an experienced underclassman.

Sophomore Eileen Moore played a very significant role last year as a freshman and is expected to do so for another three seasons, being the fine ballhandler she is.

Blohm is very happy that his squad is competitive among themselves because they can improve at a faster rate. Blohm is also very happy with his team's youth and hard-nosed style of play.

"I've got a lot of faith in our returnees," said Blohm. "I'm encouraged with the competitiveness of the team among themselves."

Although a strong offensive game plan is what every coach likes to think about, Blohm also wants a strong defensive game, just in case the offense falters.

Another key for a successful win-loss record, according to Blohm, is offensive rebounding.

"Any team that gets two and three shots at the hoop is going to score," Blohm said.

In its quest for a fourth championship in five years, Salem will have to fend off traditionally strong Livonia Bentley, who had last year what Blohm called "the biggest team I've ever seen."

Because of a failure to pass the millage in Allen Park, there will be no fall sports there, which cuts the Suburban Eight league down to the six (Redford Union withdrew last year to join the Northwest Suburban League).

"What I want to see is my team improve from the beginning of the season to the end," said Blohm. "If that happens, we should do pretty well in the state playoffs."

Waters 'sorts out' team

Salem golfers led by senior duo

By BRAD EMONS
 Holding onto the Suburban Eight League golf title is going to be a battle, according to Plymouth Salem coach Bob Waters.

But with four experienced players returning, Waters' squad looks like a definite contender again.

In a poll computed by the Michigan High School Golf Coaches Association last year, Salem was the top rated team in Class A.

The Rocks, however, finished fifth in the regional and was eliminated from further state competition.

"We lost two key players from last year — Ed Thomas and Craig Stevens," said Waters.

The Rocks, however, return co-captains Rob Jarvis and Blake Lundberg, both seniors.

"Those guys have tremendously improved," said Waters. "They are fundamentally sound."

"They know the ropes and know what to expect. Rob and Blake will probably lead us this year."

Jarvis has been on the varsity for three years. Lundberg is a four-year regular.

Eric Heidt, a senior, and Jeff Trim, a junior, also lend experience to the Rock golf squad.

Waters must "sort through" a mass of juniors in determining the final two starting spots.

Juniors Butch Recto, John Pawaulwait and John Vives have the inside track at the moment. The three-Brighton will compete along with Dearborn Heights Riverside and Suburban Eight contender Dearborn.

"Dearborn has a quality team and the top junior golfer in the state," said

"We have a pretty good nucleus back." — Salem golf coach Bob Waters some played in quite a few tournaments this summer, according to Waters.

Waters also has high hopes for freshmen Nunzio Marino and Greg Trim.

"I have a lot of decisions to make," Waters said. "We've had 40 golfers out so far and I've tried to see 12 every day."

"We'll carry about 11 to 12 golfers on our roster after making the necessary cuts," he said.

Waters said he is still looking for more golfers despite the huge turnout.

"Anybody interested in playing should contact the Phase III athletic office and I'll get back to them," said Waters.

Salem opens its season today at 3 p.m. in the Brighton Quadrangle. Host

During the pre-season practice schedule, Waters has tried to play at least one time with every player.

"In the past we've had as many as 120 kids try out. It's quite a sorting process."

"During the season, I try to play with each starter at least one time a week in practice. I'll go out and play nine holes and then sit down and discuss the individual's game if necessary."

"Golf has been a hot-bed at Salem. It's a full-time sport. We play six times a week."

On Wednesday, Salem will travel to North Farmington for its second non-league meet of the season. Tee-off time is 3:30 p.m.

Redford Union surprises Stevenson

By DOUG FUNKE

What a difference a year makes.

Redford Union, making good use of two turnovers and employing a swarming defense, shut out Livonia Stevenson 12-0 Friday, in the non-league football opener for both teams.

Stevenson had blasted RU last year, 34-8.

The fact that RU lost Jim Sopha, its senior quarterback a week before the season began to an injury, seemed to motivate the Panthers to give even more of a team effort.

"We had a lot of this," said Harvey Heitman, coach of the Panthers, as he tapped his heart.

"There is not one player who makes our team (win or lose)," Heitman continued. "We were high. I have never seen a team so high."

RU's continued pressure on defense, the work of the specialty teams — especially Bob Friedman, the punter — and the poise of Andy Szabo, a sophomore quarterback, proved to be the difference.

Stevenson couldn't muster much of an offensive attack the entire game and produced four fumbles and two interceptions in the process.

Two of the mistakes set up the Panthers' touchdowns, both of which came during the second quarter.

Brian Melzer blocked a punt of Dean Massab to give RU possession at Stevenson's 35 yard line. Seven plays later, Bob Utch, a 5-8, 160-pound tailback, sprinted 10 yards over left guard into the end zone for the TD. Those points were notched at 3:05 of the second period.

Kirk Marsh attempted to kick the extra point, but the ball went wide left.

Scott Reaume pounced on a fumble by Stevenson's Mike Price later that quarter to put RU back in business at the Spartans' 25-yard line.

It took the Panthers only three plays to negotiate that distance, with Utch again carrying the ball into the end zone. The scoring play, at 10:28, went around right end.

The two-point conversion try was unsuccessful.

Neither team really threatened during the second half. In fact, much of Stevenson's yardage during the entire evening resulted from RU penalties. Unofficially, the Panthers were flagged 14 times for 180 yards.

Stevenson coach Jack Reardon juggled his backfield throughout, the second half in an effort to find a combination that could move the ball, but met with little success.

"We didn't move the ball. They just overwhelmed us," said Reardon. "We didn't

Hole-In-One winners

Tom Devlin of Livonia came closest to the pin in the recent first annual Canton Parks and Recreation Department's Hole-In-One Contest.

Of the 200 golfers who competed in the event, Devlin stroked his shot within 1-foot-6 inches of the hole. Jim Combs was second with a 2-

2 1/4 effort and Thomas Cookson recorded the third best shot (2-4).

Betty Williams of Canton had the closest shot among the women's competitors with a 21-9 effort using a nine-iron on the 105-yard specially made hole.

Devlin recorded the winning shot on his very first try. Many golfers tried several times but to no avail as Devlin's shot stood up.

If the opening week's performances are a good basis by which to judge, the bowlers in the western suburban area will rewrite the record book before the campaign ends.

Seven bowlers broke the 700 barrier on opening night and nothing like this ever has happened before. And it is a sign that scoring, on the average, will be higher then ever.

The Wonderland Classic, which always produces a heavy quota of 700 barrier breakers, kept up its reputation by registering three of the coveted counts.

Bowling in the Classic opener, Al Brass posted games of 228, 289 and 202 for a 719. The 289 was the high game of the night.

Next in line came Cory Nasser with a 716, thanks to an opening game of 279 that was followed by a 213 and a 224. Aaron Lipshy furnished third when he linked scores of 236, 190 and 278 for a 704.

AT WESTLAND BOWL, another high scoring house, the pins also went flying when two more sharpshooters bettered the 700 goal.

The first of these was turned in by Dave Fill in the Tri-City men's league. He posted a 702 with a single of 257. The other was the work of John O'Neil. He paced the Wednesday men's league with a 737 — the highest score reported in the area. He opened with a 245 and then followed with games of 237 and 255

Scoring was above average in the other leagues, too. In the junior house league, Rick Clack had games of 238 and 256 in 677.

With this count he was only one pin ahead of Joe Boldiszar, who strung games of 230, 212 and 234 for his 676. The male bowlers didn't have the honors to themselves. Ann Ahoie gained some honors for the women when he connected for a 622 in the Ladies Classic. In this series she had games of 205 and 254.

THERE HAS BEEN a lot of celebrating during the past week at Westland Bowl — and for a good reason.

The Westland team took top honors in the annual Gavie Sweepstakes which opened the season at Thunderbowl in Allen Park. The team, with Keith Naramor showing the way with a 648, posted the high count of 3137 to win the first title for the suburban teams.

Others on the winning team were Bob Schmidt with 645, John Hurley with 642, Bob Rose with 611 and Ray Krueger with 591.

JERRY COLE JR set a goal for all of his rivals when he rolled a 268 in 655 to win the first series in the new classic at the Super Bowl.

ALETA RZEPECKI, the 16-year-old who starred in her first year in the women's all star classics last year, got off a good start this season when she paced the Ladies Major League at Beech Lanes with a 662 on games of 210, 245 and 207. It was a fine way to celebrate her debut with the Bonanza team that took series honors with a 991 game in a 2904 three game count.

At the close of last season, Aleta teamed with Cheryl Daniels to win the WIBC doubles — a high honor for the 'rookies.'

THE WAVE OF HIGH SCORING also struck at Garden Lanes in the league openers.

When the heavy firing ended, Len Sparga won the pace making role in the Vinco league with a 648 that came about on games of 254, 204 and 190. Doug Zybrands was next in line with 626 and Brad Lackey landed third with the most consistent series. He opened with 201, followed with 200 and closed with 199 for 600.

In the large group fighting for the lead Paul Dufenbach placed fourth with 599 and Bill Rose had a 591.

AT WOODLAND LANES, Gee Shatler paced the Ford Parts League with a 260 and Ed Drobyszewski was high game winner in the men's trio with a 252.

Bolinger remembers

Ex-Jayhawk relates experiences

By ED BOLINGER

(Bolinger, an advertising representative with the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, helped coordinate our 1979 football tab. He played college football at the University of Kansas and had a tryout with the Miami Dolphins.)

Here it is, the fall season is rapidly approaching and with it, young men in high schools and colleges across the country are getting prepared to become the proverbial "gridiron gladiators."

So, with the beginning of the 1979 football season, the editors have asked me to share some of my experiences with you.

I'd always dreamed of playing college football and possibly even pro ball, but never did I think that I would make it. So here are some of the experiences that I had, some good, some not so good, but mostly the comical things that happened.

Too often, we hear about the violence and brutality of football, the drugs, the harsh tactics of some coaches. Not all of football is caught up in a "North Dallas Forty" atmosphere.

I arrived on the campus of the University of Kansas on a warm day in August 1967. I was more excited than an 8-year-old at Disneyland.

AFTER BECOMING acquainted with the campus and some of the personnel, it was time to get to know the head coach, Pepper Rodgers. (Rodgers currently coaches at Georgia Tech after a stint, at UCLA.) I was issued my equipment and the dream had begun.

The weeks went by very slowly, because at times I felt like I had gone over Niagara Falls without the barrel. Between the double-session workouts, wind sprints, one-on-one drills, tackling dummies and sleds, not to mention the calisthenics and grass drills, every inch of my 6-foot-3, 225-pound body hurt like you know what.

It was rumored that five aspirin companies had bid on my body to make a television commercial.

As the time passed, so did the pain, and yours truly had made the first team defense as a strong side linebacker. That meant I lined up across from the opposing tight end.

One day, we were practicing against the second team offense, which was simulating the same offensive procedures used by the University of Missouri, our opponent that Saturday.

Just then, a young quarterback, strong of arm, leg and unfortunately head, decided that on fourth down and four yards to go, he was going to fool the defense with a quarterback sneak.

THE RESULTS were disastrous — he was buried like an avalanche had hit him. Needless to say, coach Rodgers was fit to be tied, and in no uncertain terms made it quite clear that on fourth down, he was to kick or he was going to get kicked right where his intelligence apparently was.

Well, a few series of plays later, the second team offense had driven down to the goal line where it was again fourth down.

Our young quarter back friend without blinking an eye or consulting the bench, calmly dropped back in punt formation and proceeded to boot a beautiful 50-yarder which cleared the top of the top seats in the stadium and the scoreboard.

It turned out to be one helluva play. Coach Rodgers, who looked like he had just swallowed his whistle, called off practice for the rest of the day and stormed off the field. Obviously, we were heartbroken.

Coach Rodgers survived until Saturday afternoon rolled around and we were going to face the Missouri Tigers head on. The game went smoothly until the third quarter.

In a crucial situation, we were called for clipping, which meant a 15-year penalty. Unfortunately, the alleged infraction occurred right in front of our bench, and as the official started to step off the penalty, coach Rodgers informed the official what he thought of the call and of him.

IT GOT to the point of questioning his ancestry and the fact that he had a terrible odor about him.

"Ref, you stink! Do you hear me? You stink!" was one of the printable things Rodgers said.

The official, without any hesitation, picked up the ball and smiling, marked off another 15 yards. As he gave the signal for unsportsmanlike conduct, he yelled back at Rodgers, "Hey coach, how do I smell from here?"

Football tab correction

Contrary to what appeared in the Thursday, Sept. 6 Observer football special section, Tom Moshimer, head coach at Plymouth Salem, has a career coaching mark of 108-58-6, not including the Sept. 8 encounter pitting Salem against Livonia Franklin.

Shamrock gridders win

One might call it the Mike Lewis — Aaron Roberts show as Detroit Catholic Central opened its football season with an impressive 20-0 blanking of Bloomfield Hills Andover Friday night.

Roberts, who finished the game with 134 yards in 28 carries, scored the game's first touchdown on a 12-yard option pitch in the first quarter. Quarterback Lewis scored on a six-yard run in the second quarter and then threw a 22-yard touchdown pass to Roberts in the third quarter. Lewis also intercepted two Andover passes when the Barons threatened twice inside the Shamrocks' 10-yard line.

Rick Micunek converted on two of the three extra point kicks.

"We moved the ball very well for the first game — the best in three years," said CC coach Tom Mach. In all, the Shamrocks gained 264 yards on the ground.

"I think the offense played better than I anticipated, originally," Mach added. "The line blocking was good."

"I thought the kids played very well. The overall team effort — the kicking game, the offense and defense — did a fine job. I was a little disappointed with the number of penalties."

Off the Walls

Hang in there

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

A friend of mine called the other day and whimpered into the phone, "I think I'm going insane."

Since she happens to be one of my more stable acquaintances, it wasn't hard to diagnose her problem.

"You're not going insane — you're just the mother of a 14-month old. Sometimes it's difficult to tell the difference."

I honestly believe there exists no other situation in life more draining, confusing, and downright exhausting than being the mother of a pre-verbal yet mobile being who possesses nary an inkling of the rules for living gracefully among others.

New-walkers, those short people who fall down a lot, are not always a joy to be around — even if they are cuter than the rest of us. Their energy is boundless, their curiosity insatiable, and they are just downright pesky little people.

NOT A GREAT DEAL of publicity is circulated concerning these poor mothers who are on 24-hour surveillance, constantly keeping eye and ear tuned to the welfare of their little one and the damage said small person can inflict on a house. These tykes are murder on the bric-a-brac.

Young mothers haven't the time to appear on "The Phil Donahue Show" to tell the world their woes, nor the energy to sit down and write a lengthy treatise on their dilemma for the likes of "MS" Magazine. They're too busy following their children around to make sure they don't eat fuzz balls or pull drawers out on their heads.

Strangely enough, when this phase of eating the contents of ashtrays and putting books in the toilet passes, and Mommy finds that she actually has time to breathe again, we all seem to forget what our youngun's have put us through. It's like labor pains. Once it's over, it's best not to think about it.

So let's all have a moment of silence for these brave ladies.

And if you happen to know someone who is right now spending her days at the mercy of her tiny tyrant, give her a call and tell her, "Hang in there, honey. It does get easier. Honest."

Don't tell her about the parts that get harder. That's just plain mental cruelty.

Reader speaks out on strike

Editor:

Three successive teacher contract negotiations sessions over a period of about 10 years have failed to produce a master agreement between the Plymouth-Canton School District and the PCEA prior to the scheduled school opening day date.

Regrettably, concerned citizens, and particularly taxpayers, might well be reminded of this fact. Costly, ugly and divisive strikes have scared all segments of the community in some way.

Three years ago the school was a breeding ground of uneasiness and suspicion as teachers tried to deal with the frustration and futility inherent in too many months without the protection of a duly negotiated contract. And to what end?

PLYMOUTH HAS rarely, if ever, been in financial straits so severe that it could not comfortably reach an equitable settlement with its teacher unit.

Analysis of the record shows settlements in recent years consistently running below the ravages of cost of living increases as computed by any index. For some to assert that teacher demands are unrealistic in today's marketplace is patently absurd.

Teachers did not invent and certainly do not intend to subsidize the double standard wage game that is thrown in their collective faces whenever public versus private sector employment is compared. To attempt such a comparison is in itself ludicrous and counterproductive, in many ways, for all parties concerned.

And now, as if the negotiations waters were not already muddy enough, enter the school board, and/or administrative wisdom in selecting a battery of lawyers to do their bargaining for them. This ploy resulted in one concrete, if inadequate, salary proposal to teachers a week before scheduled school resumption.

Negotiations began, of course, in early spring. A dismal effort at best, even when compared to previous negotiations impasses. A legitimate question might well be just how concerned can these designees possibly be in reaching a speedy settlement, let alone a fair one? Suffice it to say that possible abrogation of responsibility in this area, be it board, administration, or both, is a pertinent topic for close public scrutiny. The fallout alone from such an approach poses serious ramifications for meaningful negotiations in the future.

ther profound nor earthshaking. It merely reflects the reality of the collective bargaining process as it exists in many districts today. The real crux of the situation is the eventual price of such posturing. Most political power and expediency always possess priority over the public good. Is Mt. Olympus unassailable — regardless of the record or past performance?

PLYMOUTH PARENTS, students, and teachers alike deserve better treatment than this, just as they have in the past.

The festival is now history, or at least its memory fades. There has been more than enough rain on our students' parade. As the carnival atmosphere dims, it may now be less difficult to confront the seriousness of the situation at hand.

A fair and mutually satisfactory settlement is within reach when those who wield power decide to move. Why not do it now?

I am a parent, a teacher, and a taxpayer.

Hines usage increases; Jeffries lowers traffic

Although people are flocking in greater numbers to Edward Hines Park, traffic on the parkway has decreased substantially since the Jeffries Freeway (I-96) was opened in November 1977. In 1979, 6,000 fewer cars used the parkway drive, according to the Wayne County Road Commission.

Bill Sutherland, assistant director of transportation for the road commission, estimates traffic has been trimmed by ¼ since 1977 along the parkway, a 17.5 mile stretch of road from Dearborn to Northville. Edwin Mika, superintendent of parks and recreation for Wayne County Road Commission says park usage traditionally has increased 25 percent in recent years.

Sutherland says the difference is more noticeable along the parkway's western end. He says that Hines more closely parallels the Jeffries in the west and there lies the attraction for using the freeway.

"The draw from the Hines to the Jeffries is logically greater at its west end because the two roadways are closer," he says.

BUT SUTHERLAND adds, that there's been little study of these traffic changes to actually prove that observation.

"It's difficult to prove without extensive study and nobody has either the time or money to do that. It's nice to know but nobody has the wherewithall to do something like that," he says.

Sutherland does point to two intersections that were studied before and after the Jeffries opened.

At Hines and Newburgh in Livonia, a 60 percent drop in traffic was discovered after the freeway's opening. The study was done in 1969 and again in 1979, two years after the opening.

"It might be a bit high but I don't have anything to disprove it," he added cautiously.

At Outer Drive and Hines in Dearborn Heights, a 30-35 percent dip in traffic was reported in 1978. The study was begun in 1975 and some 3,000 fewer cars were using the drive by 1978.

College exams may be missed

College admission test deadlines for high school students may be missed because of the teachers strike in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools — unless students go to their school for registration materials.

Students wishing to register for tests can pick up materials at the guidance office at Plymouth Salem High or Plymouth Canton High between 7:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. on any week day. Registration materials must be received by the testing centers no later than Sept. 21 for ACT tests and by Sept. 28 for the SAT tests.

It is the student's responsibility to mail in the registration forms so they arrive before the deadline.

The following tests for college bound students will be administered on these dates: ACT, Oct. 20; SAT, Nov. 3; and PSAT, Oct. 27.

The ACT test also is offered in February and in June. The Oct. 20 test is recommended for seniors who have not yet participated in the State of Michigan Competitive Scholarship Program.

According to the schools, this will be the last chance for seniors to take the test to qualify for consideration in the scholarship program. Current juniors should wait to take the test until this spring, as requested by the universities.

The SAT test is designed for current seniors although juniors can take the test in the spring.

THE SOPHOMORE class at Plymouth Salem High School seems to have solved the problem of how to raise money at the Plymouth Fall Festival without becoming involved in an initial outlay of $100 for a booth. Members of the Class of '82 assisted the Colonial Kiwanis Club with its spaghetti dinner Thursday evening. The Kiwanians made a cash donation to the class student council.

The kids also sold advance tickets for the spaghetti dinner for which they received 50 cents per ticket.

This class of '82 bears watching. They worked all summer on fund-raising events. They earned $500 with car washes and other ventures during their summer vacation. They're looking forward to their junior prom, and the money is slated for that event.

They promised the Kiwanians to have 10 people on hand at one time.

by ELLIE GRAHAM

Some worked all the time, and others worked shifts.

Sara Evans, class president; Pat Chevillot, vice president; Diane Argonis, secretary; and Lisa Bryl, treasurer, were among the faithful.

Other workers were Lorie Gottwald, Karrie Kralik, Kevin Krolicki, Paul Mills, Carol Ross, Tanya Tervo, Greg Lewis, Kim Ide, Marie Martienes, Lisa Stark, Lisa Kiel, Amie Kemizes, Kathy Donnelly, Mike Chevillot and Roxanne DiPonio.

Good work, Class of '82.

WHEN MARIAN West and her daughter, Anne, were in Europe this summer, they spent some time in the village of Gosfield in Essex County, England.

Marian's father, Richard Sayward, was born in Gosfield and her grandparents are buried in the churchyard of St. Katherine's Church.

Marian and Anne stayed at the local pub and took day trips from there. On Sunday morning, Marian went to services at St. Katherine's. Because of summer holidays, there were seven parishioners, two priests and an organist in attendance. After the service, Marian spoke to the organist who surprised her by asking, "Are you Marian?"

It turned out that the organist was a friend of Marian's aunt, now deceased, who had lived in Gosfield. She recalled that the aunt had always shared her letters from Marian's family in "The States," and over the years she had (through the letters) watched Marian grow up.

The Church of St. Katherine, Gosfield, was built by Thomas and Anne Rolf circa 1435. This was the second church. The first was built by Aubrey de Vere, third Earl of Oxford, in 1190.

"They have unbroken parish records going back to 1539," said Marian. "A heyday for a genealogist. Unfortunately, I didn't have a chance to look."

Marian is librarian at Plymouth Salem High.

THE "DO SOMETHING Different" series of classes offered by Community Education Department of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools has gained in popularity over the years.

A complete schedule of fall classes soon will be mailed to area residents. Watch for Something Different listing which its founder, Barbara Blatz, describes as, "An exposure to many exciting new concepts, arts and activities taking place around us today." A fee of $25 entitles a member to six Do Something Different tickets.

Eight classes are: "An Evening with a Psychic Reader," "The Meaning of Dreams," "What Do You Mean 'You See My Aura?'" "Seeing is Believing - Kirilian Photography," "How to Disagree Without Being Disagreeable," "Bio Rhythms," "The Games People Play" and "An Old-Fashioned Christmas."

Barbara is especially excited about the old-fashioned Christmas segment which will be taught by Cher Robinson, who recently moved to Plymouth.

She says it is for those who miss the feelings of an old-fashioned Christmas and wish to recapture the joys of a traditional Christmas.

The class is the last in the series and will be at 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15 in Plymouth Canton High School.

DIANE FARBBER and Connie Cananough of Plymouth Family Services are grateful for the community cooperation that went into their prize-winning window in the Fall Festival window decorating contest.

The Grand Overall Prize Winner for 1979 was the work of many members of the community. First there was Oscar Herz and Plymouth Furniture on Main Street for the use of their window.

The manikins were on loan from: The Plymouth Historical Museum, Norman's, and Famous Men's Wear. The children's clothing came from Minerva's Dunning's, the shoes from Del's, and the man's clothing from Famous.

Sandcastles theme was first place winner in the merchant category.

Family Services window in Plymouth Furniture was overall grand prize winner.

Store windows awarded ribbons for decorations

Grand overall winner in the Plymouth Fall Festival window decorating contest for 1979 was the Family Services arrangement in the Plymouth Furniture window on Main Street.

Theme this year was "The International Year of the Child." The judges, Nancy Sharp, Al Larson and Timothy Ford, viewed more than 20 decorated windows before making their decision.

Winner in the merchant division was the Iron Gate on Penniman Avenue. Cadillac Drapery was second and Emma's Restaurant was third.

The Willow Tree, decorated by Serapha Moore, was first in the individual category. The Health Shoppe on Ann Arbor Trail was second followed by Masters' Muppets on Union Street, decorated by Ray masters, puppeteer. The Wine and Cheese Barn on Forest Street, decorated by Pamela Flick, was fourth.

John Smith's window on Main Street, decorated by the Plymouth Branch Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, was first in the club category. The Gourmet Gallery by the Plymouth Historical Society was second and Me and Mr Jones was third.

THE IRON GATE'S theme was a little girl, all dressed up for a birthday party, who stopped to build castles in the sand. Her gayly wrapped birthday presents on the ground beside her, she was intent on her work, the party forgotten.

The Plymouth Garden Club's entry has become one of the favorites of the yearly competition. Their scene depicted children playing in the attic on a rainy day. It was all there, complete to the old yellowed newspapers and on the floor the coils of sticky flypaper hanging from the ceiling.

The Willow Tree was the work of another perennial winner, Serapha Moore. She used dolls to show children of all ages involved in various activities. Children of many nations were on their knees playing marbles.

Children fed birds, played croquet, attended a birthday party, picnicked, mowed a lawn, fished and hauled home pumpkins in a wagon.

Other entries were Pease Paint, Laurel Furniture, Beitner Jewelry, Hugh Jarvis Gifts, Wayside, Sherwin Williams, The Stattice Shop, the Young Sophisticats, Famous Men's Wear, Wiltse's Community Pharmacy, Minerva's Dunning's, Terry's Bakery, and the Observer Newspapers.

Children of the world and their activities were portrayed by Serapha Moore in The Willow Tree window. It was judged the best individual effort.

Grandma's attic on a rainy day was depicted by the Plymouth Garden Club in John Smith's window. It earned first place ribbon in the club category. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

A flood plain that became a park

Any time you take a leisurely ride through Hines Parkway that twists and turns its way along the banks of the Middle Rouge from Northville through Plymouth and on toward the Detroit River and are thrilled by the beauty of the unique drive with its field stone guidelines, you may wonder how it all came about.

This may surprise you, but the 20-mile stretch of nature's beauty came in to being as the culmination of a man's dream.

It was on a quiet afternoon away back in the summer of 1930 that Edward Hines, then the head of the Wayne County Road Commission and a great disciple of good roads, took a leisurely drive on the gravel road along the "creek."

As mile after mile went by and the beauty continued with the wooded areas, lakes and all sorts of twists and turns, he envisioned the area as a great place for a hardtop road that would even add to the beauty of the landscape.

Mr. Hines was a man of deeds and not of words. So, it wasn't long until the county road commission went to work and it wasn't long until the "good" road was a reality.

THEN, WHILE on another drive, he envisioned the entire area being lined with athletic fields and a real recreation center. This, he figured, would give the people a chance to enjoy competition and the scenery at the same time.

With this fresh in his mind, Mr. Hines saw to it that the playfields, baseball diamonds, tennis courts, football fields and the like were constructed to augment the picnic areas that had been set up in the many beauty spots on the edge of the wooded areas. And each area had a picnic stove.

To enhance the beauty, several overhead bridges were constructed and a ski slide was built just east of Merriman Road.

With each addition the parkway took on more beauty.

The rural atmosphere was maintained with field stones as guidelines on the drive, and the parkway now is considered one of the most picturesque in the state, if not in the country.

It was only natural that the parkway should bear the name of the man whose vision made it possible. So, today it is known throughout the state and country as Edward Hines Hines Park.

In the beginning it extended only from Seven Mile Road in Northville to Telegraph Road. But in 1936 the Ford Motor Co. donated 360 acres for an addition that extended the drive from Telegraph Road to Ford Road.

Later on another attempt was made to obtain an addition but the residents fought a successful fight to prevent it. As a result, the parkway today is confined to the banks of the Rouge and the play areas vary in size from 25 feet to several hundred yards. And it now includes the Nankin Nature Center.

THROUGH THE YEARS the parkway has taken on stature and many are the times that, despite all the charges of crime and vandalism within its borders, county officials are wishful in their thinking that it could be made larger.

"If it was to be done over," said Ed Mikas, in charge of parks and recreation for the county, "we would provide areas for parking. In fact, we are planning a survey this winter to see what can be done to relieve the parking situation along the drive. And, aside from the fishing docks that have been placed on Newburgh and Wilcox lakes, we hope to have them dredged sometime in the next two to five years. And we would like to broaden some of the narrow sections."

It is known, too, that U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, has had members of the national park service look at Nankin Nature Center and reports that they were impressed to the point where plans have been discussed for enlarging the area within the next few years.

And don't forget. It all started with Edward Hines' dream on a leisurely drive along the banks of the Rouge almost half a century ago.

How Hines Park 'crime' was exaggerated

The "crime problem" in Edward N. Hines Park has been vastly exaggerated.

It has been exaggerated by nearby homeowners, who have visualized the 17-mile parkway as an extension of their backyards invaded by "outsiders."

It has been exaggerated by the Hines Park Task Force, a "hanging jury" dominated by police types exhibiting the natural tendency to build a bigger bureaucracy.

It is being used politically by state Rep. Robert Law, who we regret to say has gone overboard in attempting to respond to his constituents' concerns.

After watching the complainants posture for TV cameras during the spring and summer, the Observer today presents its own report on what is actually going on in this (infamous western Wayne County) park. The work was done by staff members ranging in age, from their early 20s to their 60s, from singles to grandparents. But we all agreed.

THE IMAGE of Hines Park as a metropolitan den of decadence was formed in the public mind by the perceptions of complaining homeowners, mostly in the Dearborn Heights area.

In part, the "problem" arises because homeowners just don't like the looks of some of the park's users.

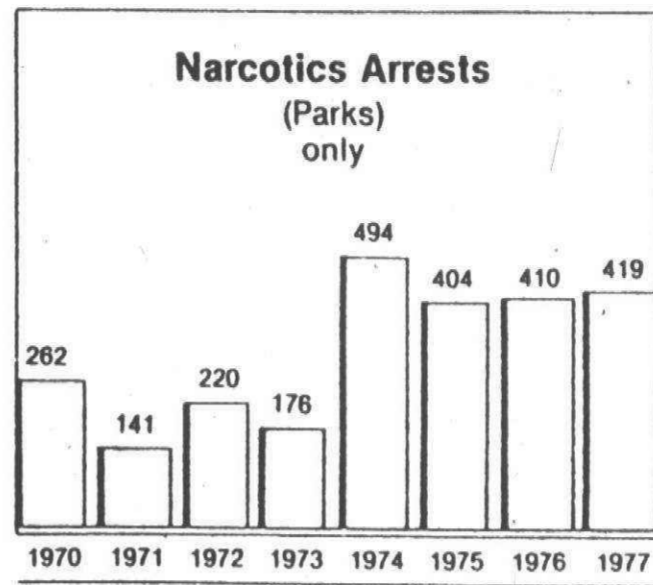

In part, it stems from streets near the parkway which are on direct routes to beer stores. Conversely, the number of complaints seems to dwindle when foliage becomes thick and people just can't see what's going on in the park.

A myth that needs to be discarded is that Hines is invaded by evildoers from Toledo and Flint and Port Huron. Our interviews and our observations are that the overwhelming majority are young people who dwell in our own communities, who have been educated in our schools and given moral guidance by local parents and churches.

To some extent, the legitimate complaints of the homeowners can be solved by better traffic patterns and control of parking. But as Americans, we shudder at hearing suggestions that vast numbers of people be pushed around or kicked out of Hines Park.

A REPORT CALLED "The Findings of the Hines Park Task Force" is full of logical and statistical flaws. This police-dominated group has served its own budgetary ends in presenting its crime picture of the park. Some glaring examples:

- It purports to see a "significant increase in crime experienced within the park in recent years." In fact, the sheriff's department began increasing its patrols in Hines Park about 1974. By the task force's same lack of logic, one could remove all patrols, make no arrests and claim crime has disappeared. Either conclusion would be wrong. What we are really seeing in Hines Park is an increase in police activity, not an increase in crime.
- The police report continually cites "arrest" figures. Any sophomore class can see the unfairness in that: arrests are not convictions. A person is not guilty until convicted. The task force report fails to cite convictions.
- The report claims the narcotics problem "has steadily increased" since 1970. Not so. The number of park arrests went from the 200 level in 1970-73, leaped to 494 in the above-cited year of 1974, but since then has dropped back to the 410 range and varied less than 2 percent. You really have to examine the fine print in this task force report.
- In discussing sex offenses, the task force suddenly stops using raw numbers and switches to percentages: "11 percent" of rape arrests and "one-third" of indecent exposure arrests were made in the park. What are the actual numbers? Very small,

This chart from the Hines Park Task Force report illustrates its many flaws. "Arrests" but not convictions are shown. A 1974 jump in arrests coincides with an increase in park patrols and doesn't indicate a crime wave. And the report falsely concludes the narcotics problem "has steadily increased" although the situation is clearly stable in 1975-77.

or else the task force would have cited them.

- The task force exaggerates the amount of crime in Hines Park by comparing sheriff's arrests in the park to sheriff's arrests in the rest of the county. It's a poor comparison. Except for operating the jail and policing Hines Park, the sheriff's department concentrates on patrolling roads in rural townships.

With millions of visits made to Hines Park, the amazing thing is not the frequency of crime but the infrequency of serious crime. The task force doesn't mention it, but only a handful of the 2,060 arrests in 1977 were for felonies. Most arrests are for "disorderly" conduct, pot-smoking and violations of park rules. Wrongdoing, yes. A den of criminals, no.

REP. LAW, R-Livonia, a rising young man in Michigan politics, takes credit for putting together the Hines Park Task Force and was its chairman.

We are reminded of this on the inside cover: We are reminded of this when his picture appears once and his name twice on page 3. We are reminded 10 times more in the text. And we are reminded of it again when his picture appears with Sheriff William Lucas and an unidentified officer on the rear cover.

Law is not the kind of legislator who finds a berth in Lansing and gets lost. To his credit, he attempts to find solutions to problems and bravely cuts across local-county-state lines of jurisdiction in doing it.

But in the Hines Park Task Force report, we fear he has attached his name to a sloppy indictment of an entire group of people who lack political muscle. And it just isn't like him.

THESE THINGS — complaints about crime waves — go in cycles.

One year it's the north end of Hines Park, another year it's the south end, the next year a city park somewhere, a year later an Oakland County park, the year after that a state park.

No one ever solves a "crime problem" of the sort that purportedly exists at Hines Park. The cops just hassle a group out and it goes somewhere else.

All the statistical evidence, all of our observations, all of our personal knowledge of Hines Park add up to one impression: Hines Park is the scene of an immense amount of activity, a number of venial sins, but very, very little resembling a crimewave.

Daniel's Den

By Emory Daniels

Obligations placed on press

Today's column is a replica of a transcript of telephone conversations I've had with teachers and parents about coverage of the Plymouth-Canton teachers strike.

It's not an actual transcript but it could be. The reaction of some readers to news coverage of the strike brings out some general misunderstandings about journalism and the role of the press.

So, why don't we talk about those misconceptions for a little while.

But before doing so, let me first admit that journalists — myself included — sometimes make mistakes. One mistake, for instance, was a $33,000 figure in the article on page one of the Aug. 30 edition.

Another was a report that the school board first raised the question of teachers working under an extended contract. While I was on vacation at the time, I am told the union offered first, the board countered, and the matter dropped there.

WITH THE ADMISSION of fallibility made, and the two errors covered, we now can talk about the responsibility of the press.

For many years now newspapers have operated under the standard of objectivity. That word could be translated very simply to "fairness" but a lot would be lost along the way.

What objectivity requires is balanced reporting. A reporter, under the burden of objectivity, must give all sides involved a fair chance to tell their story and to present those views to the reading public.

The very first thing which must be realized is that the burden does not include printing the truth. The burden is to print both sides as fairly and accurately as humanly possible.

When there are two sides to an issue, both sides should be presented. The quest for objectivity fails when only one side is printed. And since two sides are being printed, obviously the truth is not being offered.

But it isn't that obvious? Some readers want the truth printed and become upset when we print something one side states which that reader believes isn't true.

Automatically, then, the obligation to print both sides precludes any attempt at trying to condense the story down to the "truth."

What objectivity does, in fact, is to place the burden of discovering the truth upon the reader — not the writer. Each individual, after reading both sides, must make a personal judgment on what the truth is — if that reader is interested in searching for truth.

Newspapers can, of course, and do pass its version of the "truth" to readers on the opinion page. But we cannot make that attempt in objective news stories.

I have in in past discussions, for emphasis, facetiously argued that objectivity requires the press to print lies because printing two diverse opinions on one subject automatically results in an untruth being communicated.

THERE ARE TIMES when a journalist is less troubled by the two-sided obligation of objectivity, and that is when the reporter actually observes an event happening.

The reporter can then report what he or she observes happening, and does not have to rely on the vision of two people to report what happened.

But that seldom happens when covering labor negotiations because the neither the press nor the public is allowed to observe negotiations in progress.

My news reports would be much different, and far less "two-sided," if I were reporting on a negotiation session which I had sat in on and observed.

With negotiations being secret, though, my only recourse is to talk with both sides and ask for their versions of what took place. Very often this results in two versions.

The new school of journalism allows a reporter to present only one side if the journalist can become totally immersed in the event and through personal involvement and research develop a reasonable representation of what happened. The result is the reporter's best, educated approximation of the truth.

But, again, that cannot be done when reporting on labor negotiations when the reporter is barred from the table. Novi schools this time around did its negotiating in public — a novel experiment. But I have not heard enough about the results to comment on how the process worked. All I know is Novi has a contract.

Years ago, I think it was in the days of yellow journalism, some publisher(s) promoted the slogan that you can believe it if it's printed in the newspapers. When people began believing that slogan, the myth was born that newspapers print the truth.

But that's not so and never has been. Historians and philosophers have enough problems trying to arrive at the truth. A newspaper never will.

The sample reported settlements shown above were compiled by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education and is used by the board to show teachers would be highly paid in comparison with others if the union accepted the board's last offer. The union would compare percentages and argue otherwise.

What other teachers earn being used by both sides

By EMORY DANIELS

In the Plymouth-Canton bargaining with teachers, both sides are using settlements in other districts to further justify their positions to the public.

The union argues that it is not asking for too much, and is being very reasonable, based on what teachers will be paid in other school districts. The school board team, on the other hand, argues its offer is more than reasonable based on what teachers are being paid in other school districts.

The school administration adds another argument to the comparison of salaries. That argument is that Plymouth-Canton Community Schools must be a "target" because other districts have settled for less, yet Plymouth-Canton teachers remain on strike.

THE REASON different conclusions are being drawn from the same settlements is that the salary adjustments are being analyzed in different manners.

The Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA), sole bargaining agent for the teachers, will quote percentage increases from year to year in other contracts. The school board team, while disclosing percentages, will base its arguments on total dollar increases rather than the percentage of raises.

The PCEA, an affiliate of the Michigan Education Association, gathers its information on settlements from its parent organization and so its contract figures come from districts represented by MEA affiliates.

The administration will gather information on districts which are affiliated with the Michigan Federation of Teachers, such as Detroit teachers.

Norm Kee, administrative assistant superintendent for personnel, maintains that the important figure is the total dollar increase because teachers live off from and spend total dollars, not percentages.

Tom Cotner, of the PCEA, points out that looking at total dollars isn't enough. "Sure, there are districts where teachers are earning less than we are at the top of the scale. But they have fewer steps than we do to get to the top — maybe 10 or 11. So they get to the top a lot faster than in Plymouth-Canton. Yet the board doesn't want to talk about reducing the number of steps. But that should be looked at if total dollars among districts is being compared."

THE UNION'S LAST table offer was 31 percent over three years — 11 percent the first year, and 10 percent for the next two years of the contract.

The board's last table offer was 23 percent over three years — eight percent the first two years, and seven percent for the third year of the contract.

The union's offer reportedly has been reduced, as a final basis for settlement, in off-the-table talks with the mediator but that is not an official offer.

The board has changed its percentage offers for each year but with the introduction of docking for days on strike the total dollar offer remains the same at last report.

Although neither side will confirm, it is believed the basis for settlement is somewhere around 26 or 27 percent increase over three years.

The PCEA points to settlements in three districts where the three-year increase was higher than 25 percent — suggesting the board is being unreasonable by remaining at 23 percent.

Those districts are: Avondale at 7 percent the first year, 9.5 percent the second, and 9.5 percent the third year for a total of 26 percent; Lake Orion, 8 percent, 8.75 percent and 9 percent for a total of 25.75 percent; Grosse Ile, 9.4 percent, 9 percent and 9 percent for a total of 27.4 percent, and Southfield, 9 percent, 9 percent and 8 percent for a total of 26 percent.

The school board's figures agree on percentages with the PCEA's report on Grosse Ile. The board, however, points out that the MA maximum for Grosse Ile is $30,590 compared to the $30,882 MA maximum a 23 percent settlement would bring in Plymouth-Canton.

The board points out Southfield in 1981-82 will have a MA maximum of $30,197 compared to the $30,882 it is offering at 23 percent.

The union also points to a number of two-year settlements, almost all of which are 18 percent or higher: Centerline, 9 percent and 9.75 percent; Lakeview, 8 percent and 10 percent; Fraser, 9 percent and 9 percent; Berkley, 9.5 percent and 8.5 percent;

Birmingham, 9 percent and 9 percent; Clarenceville, 8.5 percent and 8.5 percent; Farmington, 9.5 percent and 8.5 percent; Royal Oak, 8.5 percent and 8.5 percent; and Walled Lake, 8.5 percent and 8.5 percent.

The administration's settlement tally sheet lists only Farmington among the two-year contracts, and its percentages differ. The board's figures for Farmington are 12.5 percent and 8.5 percent with Farmington teachers earning $27,672 in 1980-81 compared to the '80-81 MA maximum level of $28,862 in Plymouth-Canton based on 8 percent and 8 percent the first two years.

WHILE BOTH sides are interpreting other settlements differently, each side still is hoping for a settlement in Plymouth-Canton and continue to meet with the state mediator in an effort to narrow the economic gap.

But the entire negotiation effort is not limited to table talk. Each side also is attempting to convince the public that its position is fair and the other side is responsible for the inconvenience caused by the strike.

And very often that propaganda effort will result in apple-orange comparisons.

The apple-orange arguments are particularly rife when both sides talk about the total economic implications of either offer. The board team invariably will include increments (step increases in the salary schedule) when talking about total dollars and the union invariably will leave out increments and talk only of how much each step is adjusted upwards.

Thus, with increments included or omitted: the totals derived by both sides will differ even though they are talking about the same dollar increase offered at the table.

The difference is one of perspective. Teachers are interested in how much additional money they will earn that they could not expect to earn under the old contract. Administrators are interested in the total dollars they must pay out: including increment increases committed in the previous contract.

While the difference in perspective may be totally appreciated by residents, the public still is often left confused when reading position statements from both sides which seemingly cannot agree on basic economic matters talked about across the table.

Fall colors ablaze—even down in Georgia

Nature trails along South Dakota's Missouri River show fall colors at their most intimate. Here a young woman admires the area's beauty from the Oahe Nature Trail.

Chrysanthemums were first cultivated in China 2,000 years ago and introduced to America in 1795 as a garden plant.

You may already know that. You may not even care. Probably our lives wouldn't suffer much if we never knew about this piece of trivia, but it is one of the reasons I enjoy hearing from Calloway Gardens in spite of my purple thumb. And it's one of the reasons I keep telling you about events that go on down there in Georgia.

I have a funny feeling Georgia wouldn't know an autumn color from an evergreen, but, nonetheless, Calloway Gardens celebrates its Autumn Colorfest Oct. 20-21, 27-28, and Nov. 3-4.

It also celebrates its annual chrysanthemum show in the greenhouse Oct. 15 through Nov. 30.

If you are planning a trip to Florida, and thereby abandoning the rest of us to winter, you should plan a sidetrip to Calloway Gardens in Pine Mountain.

It is a spectacular garden and wilderness planting experience with green house, chapel and modern motel on the grounds run by the Ida Cason Callaway Foundation.

Three Michigan areas have announced fall color tours.

L'Ermitage: It's a grand hotel in any language

"One day in the dining room there were two rock stars on my right... John Travolta was across the room, Telly Savalas was sitting at that table in a New York Yankees baseball jacket. Gerry Ford's son walked in looking for somebody who apparently never showed up."

Those were the words of an anonymous diner, and the setting was the Cafe Russe, on the eighth floor of L'Ermitage, a hotel that looks like all the other small apartment buildings along Burton Way in Beverly Hills, Calif.

The L'Ermitage began as an apartment building, and the only thing that is different now is the nameplate hidden against a low wall at the lobby entrance.

It is described as "Hotel de grande classe" although detractors say it is strictly a Beverly Hills idea of what grand class is all about. Either way, it is an excellent example of unique and elegant hotel accommodations built for the affluent traveler.

TRAVELERS ALWAYS have been fascinated by unusual hotels, especially the great hotels built for rich and royal travelers of another age: The Savoy in London, Raffles in Singapore, the Taj Mahal in Bombay. Some are small and elegant, like the Ritz Carlton in Montreal. Most are soaring palaces of stone like the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec.

Few of the grand hotels have survived the age of the chain motel, which was built for the middle-income traveler. Those that have survived are flourishing, because affluent travelers of today want the same thing that royal travelers wanted a century ago: An elegant environment where they can relax in the midst of individualized service and privacy.

Arnold and Severyn Ashkenazy opened L'Ermitage in Beverly Hills because they saw a market for a modern hotel that offers the service common to European grand hotels before World War II.

The Ashkenazy brothers were born into a Russian family living in Poland, and they were raised in France before emigrating to the U.S.

Severyn, the founder and present president of L'Ermitage, has been annoyed for years by some common hotel practices. The 25-cent newspaper that costs a $1 tip when delivered. The breakfast that costs $5 by the time it gets to your room.

At L'Ermitage, the paper is delivered free every morning along with a free breakfast of croissants, coffee and orange juice.

Of course nothing is really free, especially in a place where room rates range from $105 to $315 a day. The lowest-priced room is a suite with a king-sized bed on a raised platform behind a curtain, and a large living area with couches, dining table, bar kitchen facilities and balcony. The most expensive is a two-story, two-bedroom townhouse suite. All of them have hanging gardens of green plants as part of the decor.

WHAT IS IT like to stay in a hotel where an oil sheik was once married and Mick Jagger of the Rolling Stones was once seen casually driving away in a red Pacer?

First, you have to find it, hidden away among other eight-story cream stucco buildings. It's the one with the wrought-iron balconies. The lobby looks like any small apartment-building lobby, except for the original oil paintings from the million-dollar collection of the Ashkenazy brothers.

There's no key. You give the desk clerk your birthday or some other easily-remembered number and he programs the Digikey so that only you and the hotel management can get in. Opening the door is like pushing the computer numbers on a cash machine at the bank, and sometimes you get the same maddening results.

If you arrange it in advance, your favorite liquor is in the liquor cabinet. If you came in on the romantic one-night-including-dinner tab, you'll have your own chef and maitre d'hotel to fuss over your food and serve French wines while guitars strum in the background, and it won't cost you a cent more than $350 in all.

If you're just a regular traveler, you'll probably eat in the Cafe Russe, which is the part of the hotel which most nearly reflects that "grande classe" feeling in an intimate setting.

The Cafe Russe is an intimate dining room of polished wooden tables, fresh flowers and oil paintings with a grand piano in one corner and a bar in the other.

The Filet of Sole Meuniere was crisp on the outside and still soft inside. The house wine from the Loire was full-bodied and cool. We had chocolate cream for dessert. The dinner was perfectly served, although nobody hovered and there was no stiffness in the air.

The pianist switched back and forth from a little Bacharach to a little Bach, and he was happy to oblige when the slightly drunk dinner guest wobbled across the room and asked for "Spring is Bursting Out All Over."

That dinner for two, with house wine, cost roughly $40.

What distinguished L'Ermitage from those grand hotels of the past may be privacy. This is not the place to stay if you want to be seen. There are always rumors about famous guests, but the management will never confirm them because the unspoken contract with famous guests is to maintain their privacy.

Is it worth the money to stay here? If you are already spending $60-70 a night in a contemporary glass-and-steel palace somewhere, this isn't much of an increase and the price of the basic room is probably worth the experience. The dining room is reserved for hotel guests, so you won't find local diners there.

If you really want the old-world hotel experience, you will more likely find it in the Empress Hotel in Victoria, Canada, or the Old Winter Palace in Luxor, Egypt.

A 21st century grand hotel doesn't really mean opulence, but it is certainly a different experience from a roadside inn.

LOUISE SNIDER

DeLuise directs his first comedy but loses laughs

Somewhere between the police-action flick and the Walt Disney comedy-adventure lies "Hot Stuff" (PG) — less gripping than "The French Connection" but with stronger language than Disney. "Hot Stuff" marks the debut, and if we're lucky the finale, of Dom DeLuise as a director. DeLuise is also one of the main characters in the film, a responsibility that accentuates the difficulty of shifting gears between acting and directing.

Those who have seen him in other films ("The End," "The Cheap Detective," "High Anxiety") can recall the frenetic punch that activated each scene in which he appeared. Not so in this film. The pudgy comic spreads himself thin and, ultimately, has to resort to shouting a four-letter word for laughs.

The plot for "Hot Stuff" apparently was inspired by newspaper accounts of police undercover fencing activities in which they operated pseudo-swap shops where they would pay top dollar for stolen goods. It's a story that lends itself to a variety of comic possibilities and provides a practical vehicle for the contrasting styles of its four principals: DeLuise, Jerry Reed, Luis Avalos and Suzanne Pleshette.

WITH THE GO-AHEAD from their captain (Ossie Davis), these four burglary squad officers take over the cluttered, shabby store of a fence they arrested and begin their routine.

Day after day they are visited by a parade of colorful characters from a weightlifter to a midget, from street people to a couple in yachting clothes.

This panorama, unfortunately, does not compensate for the dullness of the setting or the repetitiveness of the action. Nor does it help matters when we see things over again as Pleshette, the audio-visual specialist in the group, videotapes each transaction.

One might also note the directorial laxity in approving Pleshette's wardrobe. For some inexplicable reason, she always appears in chic high fashion — certainly an odd disguise for someone trying to blend in with a seamy neighborhood.

Nevertheless, the group is convincing enough to prompt the local (uninformed) police to shake them down for a payoff and the Mafia to come in and stake their claim. Since everyone has to get into the act, the quartet also encounters a couple of homosexual crooks, and there is a running joke with a shaggy dog.

THE LOVE INTEREST hinges on an insipid romance between Pleshette and Reed which looks like an afterthought that should have been overlooked.

Therefore, in spite of Dom DeLuise's considerable presence, "Hot Stuff" is lightweight and lukewarm at best.

Old comic books are no mere pulp to their collectors

By LOUISE OKRUTSKY

Those 35-cent comic books reviled by parents and adored by the JuJuBe crowd are moving into the realm of the intelligentsia.

The likes of Batman, Superman, Spider-Woman and other comic book stars will be part of the Ninth Annual Open House at the Detroit Cultural Center this month.

The Center area includes the Detroit Public Library, Detroit Institute of Arts, Wayne State University, the Detroit Historical Museum, and Detroit Science Center.

The library will feature a show of comic book art and political cartoons spanning several decades. The exhibit will be shown 7-10 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 12.

The show is a far cry from the McCarthy era of the '50s when Frederick Wertham's book, "Seduction of the Innocent" rocked the comic book industry.

Wertham charged the industry with corrupting American youth to achieve what he saw as a Communist ideal.

Shadows and other details of the cartoon panels were alleged to contain sexually suggestive shapes. In the face of Wertham's accusations, the comic book industry hit hard times.

Today, collectors such as Edwin Boner of Rochester know that the industry has managed to zap, pow and kkkrrruunnnccccchhh its way out of the mire of suspicion.

BONER, 26, will exhibit his collection at the library in September.

He began accumulating his collection of comic books when he was one of the gang spending 15 cents at the corner store to catch up on the latest super-adventure.

His original collection of favorites has expanded to include signed panels and hard bound volumes containing famous strips. Included in his collection is a copy of Wertham's book.

Comics condemned in the book were destroyed in the marketplace. But across the trading tables of comic book collectors, copies of the books condemned by Wertham are called "esoteric comics." And they now sell for esoteric prices.

For instance, "Reform School Girl," a comic soundly condemned in Wertham's book ("Seduction of the Innocent") can command up to $1,050 a copy if it's in mint condition. A copy in good condition draws $350, according to Boner.

Some dealers will ask as much as $1,500 for a comic book printed in the dark days of the industry before 1965, since those books are harder to find. These include such '50's favorites as "Weird Science" and "Tales from the Crypt," which were singled out by Wertham as corrupting influences on young readers.

WHEN THE INDUSTRY began to crumble in the face of Wertham's blasts, publishers scrambled to save what they could.

EC Comics were hard hit by McCarthy era fears. The company managed to salvage only one series. After switching from a pulp format to a slightly glossier one, the company hung on to the coattails of Alfred E. Neuman and Mad Magazine.

EC was the first publisher to give credit lines to writers and artists, according to Boner. The company created a family feeling about its artists. They went so far as to send out cards with caricatures of the artists.

Employees were given silly nicknames in the comics, allowing readers to feel they were privy to inside jokes.

In the '60's, the Marvel Comics took up the practice. Fans became familiar with "Smilin'" Stan Lee and Jack "King" Kirby.

Much like the publishing companies that carry them, comic book characters have their ups and downs, too. Enduring comics have classic periods in which the character meets the right artist and writer and the original magic is rekindled.

Batman is in such a period, right now, according to Boner.

WHEN HE WAS originated in the '40's, Batman was a mysterious creature of the night, much like the Shadow.

But after writers added gadgetry to the Batman story line in the '50's and '60's, his popularity swooped lower.

Finally Batman became a television show. That killed the strip for a while, Boner said.

"Now, there's a return to Batman as a figure of the night. Batman's now a highly prestigious book. People want to prove they can do a better job than the last artist."

"Batman is believable again."

Sometimes, comics are written to be unbelievable. Take the case of Spiderman, who's real identity is the antithesis of Batman's suave, rich, athletic Bruce Wayne.

Spiderman's true identity is a thin, poor and clumsy character. He's an egghead, a nebbish, a non-glamorous figure. He was a parody of super-

Whimpering women, such as the Flash Gordon heroine in the drawing at the top, would give some of today's females the willies. But other superheroes, like the group at left, have adapted to modern times and live on in print. Ed Boner, above, began collecting comics as a kid at the local candy store. (Staff photos by Minda Saunders) heroes and intended to grace the cover of only one edition.

Instead, it sold.

Another unintentional seller is Spider-Woman. Her appearance in a comic book was intended only to protect the spider-person concept by copyrighting it before a television production company came out with a cartoon about a female Spiderman.

WHEN THE COMIC version beat the television show to the public domain, the publishers were surprised to discover that their new character sold.

Publishers, much like collectors, are sometimes unsure of what comics will become valuable properties.

Collectors chose comics for their perfection instead of their flaws. In the mass marketing world of the pulps, clean, clear, unflawed copies are the ones that increase in value the most.

Binders are inspected so the front cover's color doesn't spill over to the back of the book, pointed out Boner.

As in collecting rare books, comic book buyers have their own set of standards for rating their finds. A comic book which has never been opened is classified as being in pristine mint condition.

One of the ways to check if a book is in pristine mint condition is to open it. If the sound of pulp peeling off the glossy paper of the cover can be heard, that comic was in pristine mint condition. Unfortunately, in the Catch-22 of the comic book world, opening such a book to check its condition automatically negates its value.

For once it opened it devalues from pristine mint to mint condition.

Young musicians sought

The Southfield Youth Orchestra will hold auditions for new members at 6 p.m. Sept. 11 and 18 in Southfield-Lathrup High School.

The orchestra, made up of students from throughout the area, will hold its first concert of the season Nov. 18 with Susan Synnestevedt as violin soloist.

Rehearsals begin 7-9 p.m. this Tuesday at the high school, located on Twelve Mile Road west of Southfield Road.

Persons interested in auditioning should be prepared to play two short solos.

Earlier this month, founder and conductor Richard Brown resigned after nearly 20 years with the orchestra. Francesco Di Blasi, conductor of the Oakway Symphony Orchestra, was named musical advisor. Leonm Avedisian was appointed chairman of the steering committee.

...and the wisest investment anyone can make is an Observer & Eccentric want ad.

I invested and sold all those nostalgia items I've been saving up in my attic.

Now, I have enough to buy that Corvette I've always wanted.

U-M stadium routes

Anyone driving to Michigan-Notre Dame football game next Saturday in Ann Arbor should arrive in the stadium area one hour before the 3:20 p.m. kickoff. The Automobile Club of Michigan recommends that all football fans take I-94 to the Saline Road exit (lower left corner of the map). It will be one-way inbound before the game and one-way outbound afterward. Motorists should avoid the Maple and Miller roads area (upper left corner of the map) because of construction. No other major construction projects are planned on main routes leading to the stadium. There is parking for 10,000 cars within easy walking distance of the stadium. More than 105,000 persons are expected for the game.
