Board offers $1 million for water flow hike

By DARLENE STINSON

An estimated $1 million expenditure has been authorized by the Canton Township board to finance the construction of a water main in Livonia that would ease the township's water pressure troubles.

Board members indicated they would file litigation against the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department if Detroit refuses to build the main with Canton and Westland funds.

The suit would seek a restraining order to prevent additional tap-ins to the regional water system until the Stark Road main is built, according to Supervisor Noel Culbert.

Westland officials have already approved participation in the contemplated lawsuit. The city council said it would share the estimated $2 million cost of building the main with Canton Township.

The actions were prompted by an indication by the Michigan Health Department that additional water tap-ins in Canton and Westland would not be allowed because of low water pressure in those communities.

Canton engineer Robert Wade said state officials have agreed to approve tap-ins for developers who have already submitted site plan applications.

"But I'm not going to say that the state will approve anything beyond that list," Wade said.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS maintain that Detroit is not supplying adequate water to Canton Township, which is located at the edge of the regional water system.

Wade said construction of the Stark Road main and pumping station would increase water pressure in Canton and Westland.

But according to Culbert, the city of Detroit has refused to build the main because of a pending lawsuit filed by suburban communities over unilateral sewer rate increases. Culbert said Detroit officials indicated that they would build the main if the sewer rate lawsuit is dropped.

The resolution that was unanimously approved by the Canton board Tuesday night states that the township would finance half the cost of building the main.

According to the supervisor, the project would take about one year to construct.

Culbert said the estimated $1 million expenditure would come from the township's water and sewer fund which currently totals about $5 million. The fund is comprised of revenue from water and sewer tap-in fees and must be used for capital improvements only.

Culbert asked the board to approve another resolution Tuesday night that would authorize the filing of litigation against Detroit if the city refuses the offer of Canton and Westland to finance construction of the main.

But discussion of the contemplated lawsuit was halted by township attorney Bert Burgoyne, who asked the board to go into closed session in order to discuss the matter.

BURGOYNE ADMITTED that the possible lawsuit was discussed during the one-hour executive session.

"But it won't be passed tonight," he said of the resolution that would authorize the lawsuit.

In related action, the township board unanimously approved an extension of an alternate day watering ban until further notice.

The ban, which is designed to relieve the township's water pressure problems, requires residents to use their outdoor faucets only on odd- or even-numbered days of the month in accordance with their street address.

Wade said an extension of the ban was requested by the Michigan Health Department as an indication that Canton is taking measures to deal with its water pressure problem.

The ban was established as a 90-day measure last June. It was due to expire next week.

Trustee Robert Greenstein was the only board member absent from Tuesday's special meeting.

Study urges standard testing

Admitting there's a need for some unified approach to charting reading and spelling progress in Plymouth-Canton middle schools, a report is suggesting standardized testing for tnose four schools.

The report, prepared by district administrators, advocates a common test for middle school grades 6 and 8, but recommends each school maintain its own approach to teaching those subjects.

"The report was prompted by a felt need to establish certain perameters that promote some unification among diversity," said Dr. John Telford, executive director of secondary education and one study committee member. "We don't have that now and we don't have a measuring stick that can be given to all middle school students."

The report, which took a year to complete, was presented at an board workshop Monday. Its authors are: Superintendent John Hoben, Dr. Micheal Homes, assitant superintendent of instruction, Telford and David Rodwell, district research consultant.

Presently, while there's unified reading testing in all seventh grades in the district, the same is not true for district sixth and eighth grades.

Pioneer Middle School uses the Stanford Diognostic Reading Test, and East, West, Central middle schools use the Neslon Reading Test for those grades.

Spelling tests in those grades and schools vary depending classroom material used.

"I THINK THIS report reflects the fact that reading is receiving great attention at all levels in the school district," Telford said.

The Middle School Reading and Spelling Committee also recommends a special task force be set up to examine reading instruction. Telford expects it to begin work by the end of October and it's expected to run until 1982.

Telford, who will chair that committee, says it will be made up of administrators and teachers. He adds some "parental input" will be requested though he could not specify if parents would become members of the committee.

About spelling, the report recommends it be included in all aspects of a middle school student's curriculm. It suggests middle school principals use staff input to outline how this can be done.

Presently, spelling is taught within language arts with some emphasis in other areas. Telford says one step in the right direction is annual spelling bees, such as the one started last year.

The report adds that middle school reading specialists meet monthly to coordinate reading programs and pass along information to elementary and secondary school teachers.

Overall, however, the report advocates "diversity" in individual programs at district middle schools.

Using different ways to teach reading is a way to maintain flexibility that "meets the need of a varying school population." the report states.

Educators, however, are advised to follow the established language arts program in reading and spelling. Also, the report states that school principals and reading specialists continue to stress "basic reading instruction" in each classroom.

Tickets for stage show go on sale

Tickets have gone on sale for the Rotary Club of Canton's stage show scheduled for Oct. 5 and 6.

The show will be held at Salem High School auditorium and will feature all local talent. Acts such as a barbershop quartet, banjo players, guitarists, soloists, comedians and dancers have been tapped for the production.

Tickets are available at $3 each from any Canton Rotary member and Canton branches of Wayne Bank, National Bank of Detroit, Security Bank, First Federal Savings and Loan, Standard Federal Savings and Bank of the Commonwealth. The net proceeds are to be donated to Canton Community Services.

Roberts asked for audit

A township resident has admitted that he requested a state investigation of Canton's courtroom construction expenditures in order "to let the township know that someone's watching them."

Gary Roberts admitted that he requested the Michigan Treasury Department to conduct the investigation that began last week. The investigation centers on the $60,000 cost of building a 35th District Court facility in the basement of township hall last winter.

Canton Clerk John Flodin said state officials had refused to name the citizen who requested the investigation.

"I asked for it because of all the contradictions involved in building the courtroom," Roberts said.

He said he questioned the township board's decision to award the construction contract to carpenter Bill Heinzman without advertising for bids.

Township administrators have admitted that Heinzman performed work totaling $7,000 without the approval of the Canton board. A township policy requires board approval of all expenditures exceeding $1,000.

Roberts said he submitted his request for the investigation last January.

"They (the Michigan Treasury Department) apparently thought there was enough there to check out," he said.

"I'm not accusing anyone of criminal actions. I filed a complaint, because the township was violating its own procedures. I think it should be on record that they were violating their procedures," Roberts said.

Roberts said he also requested the state to investigate the use of campaign funds for a special election on a library millage that was held last May.

Correction

In a story appearing in the Sept. 17 edition of the Canton Observer, Realtor Len Barstow was quoted as saying "as little as three or four (homes) per week are being sold" in reference to the used housing market. Barstow says the actual figure is closer to three or four homes per day, rather than per week.

Car break-in spree leads to 2 arrests

Two Belleville men face pretrial examinations Monday before Judge James Garber in 35th District Court on charges of larceny from a vehicle and receiving and concealing stolen property.

The charges stem from a Sept. 12 spree in which about 50 cars in the area of Ayrshire Drive were broken into and burglarized.

Canton Patrolman Kurt Johnson said William George Crego, 20; and Timothy Hall Bowman, 20; were arrested about 4 a.m. Sept. 12 when officers investigated a call about a breaking and entering and found the men walking down Liley road.

According to Johnson, questioning and investigation of the two men has led police to believe that they were connected with all the car break-ins that occured during the night.

A juvenile, who was not named, has also been connected with the burglaries.

Johnson said items such as citizen's band radios, stereos and cameras were stolen from cars in the area.

The two suspects were arraigned Sept. 13 before district court Judge Dunbar Davis. Bowman was released on personal bond. Crego, who was on parole, is being held at the Wayne County jail on a $2,000 cash bond.

Oil or gas?—a heated debate

A dramatic jump in the use of natural gas as a home heating source has some oil suppliers smoldering.

Stoking the growing debate between gas and oil companies are accusations of "Watergate-like, back-room politics" and charges that some home heating suppliers and energy-saving device suppliers are con men and rip-off artists.

Suppliers of oil for home furnaces say the federal government wants to see all American homes converted to gas so that oil products may be funneled to industry and transportation.

Proponents of natural gas say their product is cheaper than oil and abundant in supply.

Oil people concede that oil prices have risen sharply in the last year — in many cases forcing homeowners on fixed incomes to convert to gas — but they argue that gas prices will rival oil prices in five years.

Gas producers concede that natural gas prices will increase, but they say their produce always will be more cost-efficient.

ALMOST ALL new homes in the Plymouth-Canton area are being built with gas furnaces.

"The developers are all building in areas where gas lines are available," explained Charles "Eddie" Olson, president of Olson Heating and Air Conditioning, Inc., 141 N. Mill, Plymouth.

About the only places oil furnaces are being installed are in remote areas where gas lines are unavailable, he added.

"I've had only one order for an oil furnace, and one for an oil burner, in the past several months but I've gotten a lot of requests to convert oil furnaces to gas."

A lot of residents are switching from oil to gas, Olson added, and he expects the momentum to pick up as the colder weather arrives. "People are really hot to get away from oil."

Besides an interest in reducing heating expenses, Olson noted there has been a lot of improvement in gas furnaces.

"A change in Michigan law now requires all gas furnaces to have a spark ignition for the burner, instead of the standard pilot. Lighting the burner electrically results in a cost savings."

Olson added that Whirlpool has a new gas furnace, unveiled in Phoenix after Labor Day, with a power vent which is vented directly outside instead of through the chimney. That furnace has an efficiency rating of 83 percent from the Department of Energy and American Gas Association (AGA) compared to 62 percent for the standard gas furnaces.

Olson said he was installing one of these new energy-efficient furnaces in the city of Plymouth this week.

Some residents are interested in converting oil burners to gas burners, a conversion which allows them to keep their old furnaces.

The problem, though, is all gas burners must be modified to include the spark ignitions and re-approved. "All the gas burners we had on hand have been sent back and I've got a problem getting gas burners in. I've had gas burners on order since the first of June and still haven't had delivery."

CONSUMERS POWER, a major supplier of natural gas throughout the state, recorded 859 conversions of furnaces from oil burners to gas burners in the first eight months of 1978 in western Wayne and Oakland counties.

For the same period this year, some 3,313 furnace conversions have been recorded by Consumers Power which has 240,000 customers in the area.

Sid Ingber, sales manager of Central Heating Co. in Southfield, may install 200 furnaces this year, but only one of them will be fueled by oil.

Ingber, who will convert most oil-burning furnaces to furnaces which consume gas for about $500, had only two such jobs last year. So far this year he has converted 87 furnaces to gas burners.

A year ago oil was available at about 39 cents a gallon. Today the going rate is 82 cents per gallon and it could reach $1.25 by mid-winter as the price has been rising almost weekly.

Both gas and oil representatives agree that the cost today of heating a home with gas is about two-thirds of what it would cost to heat the same home with oil.

THE PICTURE, then, would seem to be one which augurs well for the use of natural gas.

But area oil suppliers suggest that savings from gas are temporary and

Patients tour new office—with memories

Former hospital now cuts land deals

By W.W. EDGAR

Many memories, some fond and some sad, are floating around these days about Main Street's old hospital, now the home of Caldwell & Reinhart Co.'s real estate offices.

But the many joyous births recorded in the turn-of-the-century hospital will be commemorated with a special plaque in the lobby, to remind visitors of the structure's beginnings.

As the guests gather for the series of "open houses" dedicating the restored building, many of them renew friendships of long standing. Others greet old-time school mates and others remember the sadder times when they recall the serious illnesses and deaths of loved ones.

And in some cases there are smiles and joys when grandparents join with their children and grandchildren to recall the births in the old building.

Among the grandparents were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Filmore, whose daughter, Nellie, has been an Observer employee for years. They were there to recall the birthday of Nellie's son, Gary, who was born in the old building in 1943.

All through the open house hours there was welcome renewal of friendships. As the newly furbished rooms filled with many of the city's long-time residents, there were many old stories revived.

One of the features of the grand opening was the unveiling of the plaque in the lobby containing the names of those born in the hospital. They responded to the request of the realtors, who would like a complete list.

WHEN THE realtors sent out a call for the names of all those who were born in the hospital, they were amazed at the returns received thus far.

Many of those "babies" of yesteryear are scattered in all parts of the globe. Listed thus far from the farthest distance is Mariana Jensen, who now lives in Switzerland and was born in the hospital on January 23, 1941.

Thus far 167 births have been recorded and the list is increasing daily.

While the list is interesting from the standpoint of learning how far those born here have travelled to make their home, it also shows that the percentage of those leaving their home city is very low.

Manager faces charge in weekend rooming ruckus

Charged was Thomas Mungar, 23, of Westland. According to police, Mungar fired one shot into the air from a second-floor room after ordering the unidentified men to leave.

Mungar says he fired the gun to scare off the men who were phsyically and verbally bothering other tenants. Mungar says two of the three men were armed with knives. Between six and 10 tenants were home at the time, according to Munger.

"They were getting lippy with one of the tenants," he said. He added that one of the three men, called Dave, was harassing a tenant for the whereabouts of his brother, who lived there several months ago. Once out of the building, police say one man punched Plymouth resident Tracy Callis for no known reason. Callis, a visitor to the building, was not seriously injured.

Mungar, on the other hand, says police could have stopped the men for their identification.

The suspect police called Dave had tatoos covering both arms. He is described as a white male, about 25, 130 pounds with brown eyes and hair.

The other men were described as white and about 22. One man was described as about 5-feet-8 inches tall, 145 pounds, with blue eyes and blonde shoulder length hair. The other is described as about 200 pounds, with brown eyes and borwn shoulder-length hair.

Calvin Heard contemplates the work piled on his desk, which all has to be completed in order to keep the bus fleet up to par.

Bus fleet keeps mechanics busy

That's because the mechanics at the bus garage of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, for the sixth year in a row, have achieved a 100 percent score on safety inspections of buses administered by the Michigan State Police.

And Heard, chief mechanic for the school district, gives all the credit to his hard-working crew.

"I'm convinced we have the best crew of mechanics in the area. They know their stuff and are very dedicated to keeping the school buses in safe running condition," said Heard.

Heard and the mechanics were commended by the school board last week for the accomplishment.

Superintendent John M. Hoben said that he is not aware of another school district in the state which has received a perfect score on state police inspections for six years in a row.

Hoben added the record is even more remarkable given the rough condition of many roads in the district which buses must use. "It's a real challenge to keep the bus fleet in tip-top condition, and we all are real proud of the job our mechanics have been and are doing."

Hoben added that a key ingredient is having enough buses in the fleet to have the needed spares to conduct the preventative maintenance program Heard operates.

Canton man W-W board trustee

Brian T. Sullivan of Canton Township has been selected to fill a vacancy on the Wayne-Westland School Board.

Board members Monday chose Sullivan, a national automotive sales manager for American Microsystems, Inc. of Livonia, to serve until the next school board election in June 1980. He fills a vacancy created by former board member Gerard McGrath's recent retirement after 16 years as a trustee.

Sullivan, who has taken part in union negotiations, beat out nine other contenders for the seat. They were eliminated in a series of votes by the six current board members who earlier had interviewed candidates.

This was Sullivan's second bid for a seat on the Wayne-Westland board. He was one of a crowded slate of 19 candidates vying for three seats in a June school board election.

In that election, he placed last among 11 candidates for two terms of four years each, garnering only 112 votes of 3,491 cast. Eight others made a bid for a one-year term.

In Monday's selection, Sullivan received four votes to the two received by General Motors senior layout engineer David Moranty of Westland, making his first bid for a school board seat.

Also remaining in the race for several votes were Westlanders Mary Arbour and Anne S. Harbison, both unsuccessful candidates in that June school board election. Eliminated earlier were other holdovers, including Charles Pickering and Kathy Shaw of Westland and William Liedel of Wayne.

Newcomers who were eliminated were Shirley Williams and Vincent Vasely of Wayne and Larry Wright of Westland.

Sullivan told the Observer he would abstain from any vote which would directly relate to his wife Kathy, who is a teacher at John Glenn High School. In the meantime, high on his list of priorities as a board member are long-range planning, budgeting and special education.

that gas suppliers should not be confused with the goose which laid the golden egg.

In the words of one oil man: "We're going to pay for energy one way or another. In a few years heating costs will probably equal mortgage payments even if we use gas."

Typically, area oil suppliers did not want to be identified or quoted for print. They said that they know the public in many cases has cast them as villains responsible for skyrocke ting oil prices.

A few oil suppliers refused to talk at all. But one who would said he is sick and tired of hearing about gas as a cure-all for homeowners overburdened by the cost of home-heating oil.

The federal government, he said, is moving to decontrol the price of natural gas. A five-year plan of decontrol was instituted about six months ago as part of President Carter's energy package to Congress.

In the long run, according to the oil supplier, the price of natural gas will be on par with the price of oil.

And homeowners converting their furnaces today to gas burners won't realize the savings being promised them by contractors who do the work.

The oil supplier backed up the above claim by stating that the homeowner laying out $2,000 for a new gas-burning furnace — expecting to save $500 a year on the cost of oil — won't begin to realize a savings after four years as he might expect.

BUT BILL BLOOMBACH, public affairs director of Consumers Power, disputes that. He doubts natural gas costs will ever be as high as the price of oil.

Bloombach, however, agreed that the federal government has undertaken a five-year plan to decontrol the price of natural gas as well as the prices of other fuels.

"The price of energy has been depressed in this country. Prices here have been way below European prices."

Bloombach also cited the need for added incentives to explore for new fuel stockpiles as a reason for the decontrol of fuel prices.

"You have to understand that we can spend half a million or a million dollars on exploration and come up empty. That cost has to be made up."

While Bloombach stopped short of saying natural gas and oil costs would be equal in a few years, he did say that even if the price of gas were to match that of oil, gas for home heating still would be a more efficient use of the nation's energy supply.

Oil can be used for many different purposes, he said, while natural gas is conducive to home-heating needs and little else.

SUCH TALK has supplies of home heating oil bristling and speaking angrily of what they say were back-room deals which led to inflated oil prices and temporarily low natural gas costs.

"It's an attempt to get every house heated by gas instead of oil," a supplier said. "And then the cost of natural gas will go up."

SAPPHIRES AMERICAN STYLE

Did you know that the largest proven sapphire deposit in the world is located in our own state of Montana? The mine in Yogo Gulch extends for five miles and is becoming a major producer.

The Yogo Gulch deposit was first discovered by accident in the 1890's. A group of miners happened upon it in their search for gold, at first mistaking the gem crystals for broken bits of glass.

The mine was successfully worked for 30 years and then shut down. It was not until 1977 that serious mining was resumed. About 70,000 tons of rock have been processed since then.

The Yogo deposit is the only one which is still in its place of formation. All other sapphire deposits are alluvial, that is, the gem material broke loose from its host rock through weathering, was washed away into rivers and streams, and was buried beneath sand and debris.

The American Gem Society recently presented to the Smithsonian Institution a collection of jewelry set with American gemstones. The collection was designed by Aldo Cipullo, a famous New York designer, and manufactured by top American Gem Society jewelry manufacturers plus a few friends of AGS. Of the 31 pieces in the collection, seven of them contain Montana sapphires. The AGS American Gemstone Jewelry Collection will be touring the country for two years. Hopefully, it will hit our city so you can see these fine pieces. In the meantime, be sure to come into our store and see the lovely collection of sapphire jewelry we keep in stock.

Law disputes park editorial

Editor:

Your Sept. 10 editorial, "How Hines Park 'crime' was exaggerated" is a flawed and misguided analysis of the situation which actually exists in the park. When we cut away the rhetoric and misplaced sarcasm, what we find is a basic difference of opinion.

You (The Observer) give the reader the impression that there is not and never was a problem in the park.

I have consistently taken the position that there has been an increasingly serious problem developing in the park over the years, and I have organized community and state resources to deal with it.

I base my position on numerous phone calls and letters on the issue, input from task force members, hundreds of personal discussions with homeowners and park users, a written survey receiving more than 2,000 replies, as well as personal observation over a three year period.

By suggesting that the problems in the park are illusions created by homeowners who "just don't like the looks of some of the park's users," you deliberately attempt to mislead your readers into thinking all would be well if a group of malcontents (i.e. homeowners) would only keep their mouths shut.

UNFORTUNATELY, THAT IS just not true, as you no doubt would have concluded had you bothered to read the Hines Park Task Force Report carefully. But careful reading of the report would also have pointed out the broad scope of the document.

It not only deals with crime, but it discusses expanded recreational services and improvement to the overall image of the park; cooperation between local, county and state agencies; and the reduction of traffic congestion and improvement of road design wherever possible.

Surely the casual as well as the ardent park visitor will agree that these areas, not touched upon in your editorial but thoroughly covered in the Task Force Report, are equally important to the overall condition of the park as is a crack down on crime.

The task force report, the work of two years, was not the product of a "police dominated group" that "has served its own budgetary ends in presenting its crime picture of the park," as you assert.

THE FACT IS that of the 47 volunteer members of the task force, only nine are members of police agencies and only one agency, the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, received any money.

The funds were used to increase the number of deputies patrolling the park, to replace obsolete cars, to renovate the park's mini-station, and to fund a mounted patrol, among other things.

Would "a hanging jury dominated by police types exhibiting the natural tendency to build a bigger bureaucracy" settle for that?

The editorial challenges the use of "arrest figures" rather than "conviction figures" in outlining the crime problem.

There is a simple, and rather obvious, I would think, reason for this: from 1970 to 1978, no conviction records on Hines Park arrests have been kept.

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department, which makes the arrests, keeps these records, but the different courts, which tried the cases, did not keep separate records of the outcome.

We have, however, requested that judges from this point forward keep some separate record on the eventual disposition of cases stemming from Hines Park. Initial results from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department show an overwhelming conviction rate for 1979.

YOUR EDITORIAL also criticizes the use of statistics comparing Wayne County Sheriff's arrest figures in the park to their figures county-wide.

Once again, had you bothered to read the report carefully, you would have noticed our clarification on page nine:

"These figures are based on arrests made by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department in unincorporated areas of the county plus the parks only."

There was clearly no attempt made to mislead any one in the analysis contained in the graphs.

I take issue with your basic premise that there is no problem in the park. I take issue with your comments on the findings of the task force report, and I believe that a newspaper editorial which flies in the face of facts has relinquished its responsibility and is doing a great disservice not only to the taxpayers who live close to the park, but also to those people who wish to use it.

Is the Hines Park crime problem exaggerated? Not according to the evidence.

Taxpayer opposes teachers' pay raises

Editor:

The other afternoon I had a couple over for dinner following a visit to the Fall Festival. Both are in a school district not a part of my school district. One is a minor union official for their teachers' union and the other is a school teacher.

It took all the composure and restraint I had to keep from throwing them out of my home when they voiced their displeasure at not getting a fair shake in their final settlement because the union learned after the settlement that there were more monies available. The union official said they were attempting to renegotiate a new and better contract.

This same couple spent three weeks in South America during the Easter vacation, a portion of which was under the excuse of a phony illness. This summer they spent three weeks in California and already are planning a Christmas vacation.

I have had but one vacation to Florida in 15 years and a couple of weekends up north because I can't afford big vacations nor do I have the time to take extended vacations.

As a parent and as a taxpayer I am angry and will do all I can to stop any more inflationary raises for school teachers.

Since teachers work only 180 days, about 1,080 hours per year, I suggest their pay be based on 1,080 hours of work. I am going to write my congressman to pass a law on 1,080 hours pay for 1,080 hours of work. If my congressman does not cooperate, I'll do everything I can to defeat him.

The Best of Europe

GIANNI VERSACE FOR GENNY creates perfect harmony with the total ensemble in grey flannel and velvet. The trench, skirt and plum silk charmeuse shirt are punctuated with ingenious asymmetries.

DOROTHÉE BIS does red-letter sweater looks: the pleated knit skirt goes on a revival tour with the argyle vest and overgrown cardigan. A fun fling: the "faux paws" chenille scarf.

MISSONI MAGNIFICO: The undisputed maestro of knits does a biscuit-quilted, reversible bigcoat in teal loopknit and navy silk. More warmth comes from a chevron-stitch sweater-dress and wide striped scarf. Northland and Oakland.

SONIA RYKIEL knocks you for a loop with her loopy-knit 3/4 coat and pullover sweater. Rich looks in "Sonia blue" and black, with the newsy side-placket ankle-wedged pants.

In Milan, they ooh'd and aah'd. In Paris, they ooh la la'd. And Hudson's was there, to view the looks that took the runways by storm. The best and the brightest from the leaders on the European scene. We saw new knacks with knits...authoritative suitlooks...new slants on shape...intriguing asymmetries. We saw fabulous fabrics...new ways with wool, silk, cashmere, velvet...in super signature colors. And then, we culled the creme de la creme and brought it to our Northland Woodward Shops...for you.

Consultants open center for management training

A management training center geared for individuals has been established by George Odiorne Associates, Inc. — a management consulting firm located in Plymouth.

"The purpose of the Odiorne Management Center in Plymouth is to cater to the managerial training and personal growth needs of individuals and firms in this area," said Jack Bologna, president of Odiorne Associates, 711 W. Ann Arbor Trail.

"We feel there are a large number of 'rising stars' in business and industry in the Plymouth-Canton-Northville-Livonia areas who are shopping for different educational formats — formats which feature pragmatic, reality-based instruction on business, business management and personal growth.

"We will feature instructors with both educational and business experience — people who have 'lived' management rather than having read about it in books, people who will share both their learning and experiences with career oriented men and women.

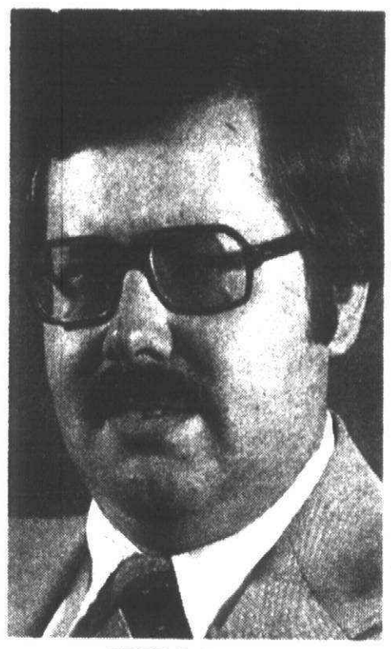
"Our unique style of teaching will feature involvement of the learner as an active participant rather than as a passive listener, a 'thinker' as well as a 'doer,' an equal and peer of the instructor rather than a docile junior in the learning relationship."

THE IDEA FOR the center originated with Gene Stermer, the founding president of Odiorne Associates.

"Gene had imagination and was tortured by 17 years as a management trainer in a large auto company," explained Bologna.

"He wanted to depart from the traditional notions of educa tion and wanted to make learning an enjoyable and participative experience because his own research showed that people frankly got a lot more out of the experience that way.

"I've been talking to Dr. Odiorne about the concept for years and last week in Denver we agreed to kick it off," added Bologna.



FRED DeROCHE

Odiorne is the former director of the Bureau of Industrial Relations at the University of Michigan and has since served as dean of the School of Business at the University of Massachusetts.

He is the author of 20 books and several hundred articles on management topics. Odiorne is most highly regarded in manage ment circles for synthesizing the Management by Objectives (MBO) concept originated by Peter Drucker.

"The center is the culmination of many years of thought and research on better methods to convey knowledge to adult learners," said Bologna.

"We have borrowed heavily from the research of Malcolm Knowles and we've used our approach in hundreds of in-house training sessions which we conducted for industrial, business and banking clients. It works and works well."

THE CENTER will begin its program with a series of workshops on Saturdays in the Plymouth Hilton Inn, beginning in mid-October.

Fred DeRoche, a senior associate of the firm and a resident of Plymouth, will function as administrator of the Odiorne Management Center.

An eyesore along Main Street to be replaced by taco restaurant

By W.W. EDGAR

Another eyesore which has plagued Plymouth for more than a year is about to be removed.

And in its place will be, of all things, another restaurant.

The eyesore is the Amoco gasoline station at the corner of Main and Mill streets which has been closed for some time.

In its place will be Taco Plaza (not to be confused with Taco Bell) within the next month.

THE TACO PLAZA, a Texas-owned company, received approval of its site plan Wednesday night by the Plymouth Planning Commission.

Construction will begin as soon as the gasoline tanks are removed and the old gasoline station is razed.

"The first thing which must be done is the removal of the gas tanks," said Edgar Talbot, building inspector. "And I must be a witness, along with the fire chief, when they are lifted from the ground.

"When that is done, a building permit will be issued. And the building should be completed within a month or two."

With the building of the Taco Plaza it will bring to 11 the number of eating establishments on Main Street.

Starting with Hardee's on N. Main, a traveler would find (in order): Spanky's, the Plymouth Landing, Bode's, Paula's (across from city hall), the Mayflower Hotel, Napoleon's, Taco Bell, Burger Chef, Daly's and The Clock.

THE TACO PLAZA will be a building about 34-by-66 feet and will include a drive-in window for take-outs.

In telling of the new restaurant, the building inspector sighed in relief that, after a year's struggle, the old boarded-up gasoline station was coming down.

"We had asked them to either open up for business or tear the place down and remove the tanks. In fact, we were on the verge of taking the Amoco people to court this month.

"Then the sale was made to Taco Plaza and the old intersection soon will have a different look."

Energy device outlet now open

Tom McMurtrie, owner of Energy Savers, is enthusiastic about energy conservation. In fact, the motto for his new store is "Energy Savings You Can Afford."

"What a lot of people don't realize is that you can conserve energy without sacrificing comfort," said McMurtrie.

McMurtrie's interest in energy conservation began as a staff member for the national steering committee of Sun Day — when solar energy was celebrated across the nation on May 3, 1978.

At that point, he began researching and photographing solar systems. Some of his work on solar heating has appeared on NBC's "Today" show and in several national publications.

Since then McMurtrie has taken a course in solar home-building with the Cornerstones Institute in Brunswick, Maine, and has attended several conferences on energy conservation.

Energy Savers will be the first store in southern Michigan to carry the Paloma water heater which is about the size of a standard suitcase, said McMurtrie.

The store also will feature low-cost solar panels, insulating window shades and several other energy conserving products.

The new business is located at 819 N. Mill Street, Old Village, in the building which houses the paperback exchange store. The business will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

Many of the names of the produce winners in the children's competion of the Fall Festival were inadvertently omitted from a story in last Thursday's Observer.

Dave Sivako had the most blooms (32) on a sunflower and also placed first for the largest pumpkins. Christen and Mike Jablonski placed second and third respectively in the largest pumpkin judging.

Jamie and Nathan Levitte placed first and second respectively for miniature floral. In fresh floral bouquet, Heide Neuroth placed first, Lorie Norgrove second, and Nathan Levitte gained an honorable mention.

June and Jill Kirchgatter placed first and second respectively for dried flower bouquet and Quentin Levitte got an honorable mention for variety of vegetables.

Ralph Campbell had the largest sunflower at 19 inches with Heather Wallace's 18⅓-inch sunflower placing second. The tallest sunflower of 13-feet was entered by Ean Willeumier with Charles Lefurgy's 11-foot, six-inch sunflower placing second.

3 new firefighters planned for force

In addition to that, his department can anticipate a few spanking new vehicles.

All that and more was discussed as township board members sharpened their pencils — and their wits — to tackle the new fiscal year's budget.

At this point, Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert's submitted budget is about $88,000 out of balance from expected revenues of some $1,701,900. The fire department's own budget is about a third of that, or $477,147. Following last Thursday's workout, Groth's budget was trimmed from about $540,879 to $477,147.

Confusion reigned during part of the first budget hearing when it was discovered Notebaert based his financial figurings on the last full fiscal year.

Under normal circumstances, this would not create a problem. Since the township acquired charter township status, however, it's calendar year has changed.

Previously, the township budget ran from April 1 to March 31. Under charter status, the fiscal year is based on the calendar year and therefore runs from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31.

TRUSTEE BARBARA LYNCH called for both sets of figures to determine the next budget figures — beginning Jan. 1.

Groth's original request was for six more officers. He said increased staffing was needed to offset the high cost of overtime payments made by the township to staff each station according to minimum manpower requirements.

More industry or higher taxes—take your pick

There's no question that property owners in Canton pay high taxes.

But there's also little doubt that property taxes will continue to rise unless something is done to attract the industry that will ease homeowners' tax burden.

Last week, a group of residents complained loudly enough about their tax bills to convince the Canton board to pare .75 mills from a contemplated two-mill increase ($2 per $1,000 assessed property valuation) in the tax rate for police.

Treasurer Jim Donahue estimates that homeowners already pay about $1,200 a year in taxes — a hefty amount for residents of townships, which historically levy less than cities.

Undoubtedly, some fat could be cut from the costs of running township government.

But the real problem lies in the pitifully small amount of industry which shares the tax burden with residents.

THE CURRENT ADMINISTRATION has paid lip service to the need of attracting more industry to the township.

The Economic Development Corp., established by former Supervisor Harold Stein, still functions.

And the township is negotiating an agreement with the Wayne County Road Commission to contribute approximately $125,000 for the paving of Haggerty Road. Supervisor Noel Culbert says the paving would help Canton sell township-owned land near Haggerty and Warren that has been earmarked for an industrial park.

But other than ohat, nothing has been done to build an industrial tax base. Instead of encouraging industry, Canton board members have earned a reputation for holding anti-business attitudes.

Developers of proposed commercial and industrial complexes have often sat through entire township board meetings without their site plans ever coming up for discussion because of a rule which cuts off the meetings at 11 p.m.

When site plans are addressed, board members show more concern for the aesthetics of the building than the tax base the development would provide. Demands are often made of developers which increase the cost of the building tremendously.

"If you don't like it, go somewhere else," is the attitude often expressed to developers.

THE CANTON BOARD cannot be blamed for its attitude.

Former Supervisor Stein pushed policies that would attract industry to the township, but he was ousted by a substantial voter margin in the 1978 election.

Residents show opposition to practically every commercial or industrial site plan that comes before the board.

Homeowners say they want more industry to cut the bite of their tax bills. But no one seems to want development that will increase traffic and noise near their homes.

There's nothing wrong with the desire to make Canton Township a "pretty" place to live.

But a bedroom community, which Canton is rapidly becoming, also costs a pretty penney for homeowners who must shoulder the bills. Ask people in Franklin Village, Bloomfield Hills or Grosse Pointe.

Canton must either change its attitude toward developers to ease the residential tax burden or face the fact that a industry carries a high price tag.

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

How traveler becomes a VIP

I'm always amazed when I run across that strange breed of animal called a traveler.

You take a meek, mild-mannered person with an inconsequential job, give him a briefcase and expense account, put him on a plane, and you'll never recognize him.

Whether he seeks an escape from the hum-drum world of reality or whatever, many times an assistant sales manager when traveling will pass himself off as sales manager; if vice president, he'll pass himself off as president.

Apparently when one is surrounded by strangers he never expects to see again, he will give in to the fantasy that he is a Very Important Person.

WHEN THE TRAVELER arrives at his destination, whether it be a hotel or motel, you would think that he came directly from a palace with full staff.

He stands around waiting to be waited on.

When he gets to his room, he overtips the bellhop, hoping in his imaginative world the word will get around that he must be Something Special because he is such a big tipper (with company money).

Once he's alone in the room, he fills his suitcase with everything in the room not nailed down — the postcards in the drawer, stationery, those little pads by the side of the phone and, of course, the individually wrapped soap for the kiddies back home.

Speaking of soap, when our traveller is at home, he probably uses a little sliver of soap for weeks because his wife forgot to buy some, but if he doesn't have a fresh wrapped bar each day in his hotel room, the housekeeping department hears about it.

And bath towels, too. At home, he probably uses the same towel for a week, but if a hotel towel is used once, it is dirty.

If he takes two showers in one day and there is only one bath towel, he irately calls housekeeping about it.

WHEN HE IS ABOUT to head for home, after eating meals and drinking wine he couldn't afford at home, he puts his expenses on the credit card that is the slowest to bill him. That way, he can collect his expenses from his company immediately and have the use of the money for a while.

Flying home, he tries to romance the stewardess.

The next morning at the office, he enters into creative finance as he prepares his expense account. Large tips become cab fare. Bar friends become customers.

And the fantasy ends until the next trip.

Parkway best of road ideas

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have said it many times before on these opinion pages: journalists are interested in progress, not war.

And few matters stir newspersons more than barriers blocking the public's ability to know what's going on.

The recent action of the West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation Commission is one reason why "executive" sessions should be entirely abolished — not just restricted but abolished.

It also shows why closed-door sessions create problems for those of us who try to bring you the news.

The commission didn't violate the Michigan Open Meetings Act last Thursday night. But we feel it did tamper with its intent and the public's trust.

Commissioners, with apparent good will, revised their agenda to move a closed session scheduled for mid-point in the agenda to the meeting's end.

THAT WAS SO the audience wouldn't have to wait out a closed discussion on the progress of negotiations toward securing a new department headquarters.

Real estate negotiations may be discussed in closed session under the Open Meetings Act.

When the commission moved the closed session to the end of its meeting, those attending went home believing — as commissioners led them to believe — that the commission had finished its public discussion for the night.

But instead of adjourning after the closed session, commissioners returned to an agenda item which it had considered earlier and had referred to committee.

Creation of a park ranger position, its duties and compensation were discussed heatedly "for 10 or 15 minutes," according to an account given by Michael Teichman, resigning parks and recreation director.

It was Teichman's final meeting before moving to Shaker Heights, Ohio to become deputy director of that city's parks and recreation department.

WITH NO MEMBER of the public around, Teichman was chastised by some commission members for altering a proposed contract with Bill Barnes, who until now has been doing the job on a voluntary basis.

"There was no action," Teichman said, "just a venting of opinion." That opinion was probably easier to give since both the press and Barnes had gone home. "Venting of opinion" is known in law as "deliberations." And deliberations are supposed to be conducted before the public.

"It's the kind of thing that technically should have been considered under the proper agenda item," Teichman ventured.

He agreed that "the suggestion had been made at the meeting that it (the closed session) be the last item."

It was Commissioner Bernadine Edwards who returned to the subject, according to meeting minutes.

"I don't know that she was aware of what she was doing," Teichman said. "And I was so surprised at their comments, I didn't think about whether they might have been violating something."

There's nothing in the Open Meetings Act which forbids returning to agenda items following a closed session.

BUT IT'S contrary to good public policy. It's also carelessness by our elected park commissioners.

And it was not in the best interest of the public, even if minutes were kept.

Gatherings of the parks commission should allow the public to know what is being said. Who said it. What the board's opinions were. What alternatives were considered. Then it provides for public input.

Observer & Eccentric Newspapers stand for knowing what elected officials are doing and thinking while in office. We stand for knowing what those officials are considering. We stand for your right to listen and have your say.

But the actions by our elected parks commissioners last week stifled all of us from knowing about our grass roots government.

Openness is the best policy.

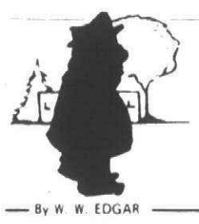
Parks commissioners should have learned that long before assuming the responsibilities of their elected positions.

Yellow jacket peril

After dealing with the lamprey, Michigan hardly needs another lesson in what can happen to the environment when creatures migrate. But it's happening again. This time it's the yellow jacket.

Michigan State University entomologists say the European yellow jacket was introduced into the northeastern United States sometime during the last 70 years. It was discovered in Michigan two years ago, and the MSU folks are trying to chart its spread.

This game not in books



The Stroller

By W. W. EDGAR

Now that we are headed into another football season, The Stroller would like to tell the story of the most unusual game ever played. And he was a part of it.

You won't find it in the record books. No statistics were kept, and even the results went unpublished in the daily papers.

It is the story of a high school down home in the Pennsylvania Dutch country. It was honored to have a squad of non-students play a game for the personal glory of its high school principal.

It happened this way about six decades ago, and very few of the players are still around to tell the tale.

IN THOSE DAYS many boys from the poorer families in town joined the Boy Scouts and immediately formed a football team with the hope of playing the high school team. They finally got their wish and, of all things, defeated their former classmates.

When the team was first formed, a question arose. What should our team be called? We were factory workers and couldn't play as Boy Scouts.

So we chose the name Majestics, hoping we could play an independent schedule.

It was a grand idea. Each of us purchased his own jersey — a maroon garment with a large white "M" on the front.

But the idea didn't work. We couldn't get any games. So we just practiced.

Then one evening after practice, we had a visit from Professor Joe Kane, head of the schools in the north end of town. He was a great fellow — the type who loved to play tricks on his fellow school people and never was at a loss for some sort of scheme to get the last laugh.

When we told him our woes, he twirled the empty sleeve of his coat (he had lost his arm in an accident) and asked, "How would you like to play for North Catasauqua High School? There is a team around here I would like to beat."

We young fellows were stunned at such a request. How can we be North Catasauqua High School with the big white "M" on our jerseys?

The professor was quick to answer.

"You can be McKinley High of North Catasauqua."

So the game was arranged to play Lehighton High School on its home grounds. The principal of that school was a keen rival of our Kane and they always were trying to outfox one another.

Came the day of the game and Kane was in his glory. He went with us to Lehighton and waltzed up and down the sidelines. He was having a great time.

No one seemed to notice that we were not students until we got down on the scrimmage line. Then the Lehighton boys looked at our hands on the ground, and noticed the dirty finger nails. They called, "You fellows don't look like high school players."

We just smiled.

AS THE GAME wore on we were having a great time. We were out in front and Professor Joe was enjoying every minute of it.

The final result still was up for grabs at the start of the fourth quarter. But we wore down the Lehighton students and were running away with the game when one of the Lehighton players was found stretched out on the ground after a pile-up was untangled.

As the players gathered around the injured player, one of the Lehighton students smiled and shouted, "He's our algebra teacher. Maybe we won't have classes on Monday."

The wounded teacher carried off to the sidelines, the game went on to its conclusion. We won.

And the professor got the last laugh on his rival, who happened to be the algebra teacher.

Are you willing and able to write a column?

Would-be columnists are primed, ready

You'd better believe there are a lot of people out there in Observer & Eccentricland eager to write columns.

And we're delighted.

Two weeks ago, I wrote that our newspapers had begun "a search for half a dozen new columnists. We want to find them among the ranks of our regular readership."

Then I invited those "willing to belly up to your typewriter, week after week, keep coming up with something interesting and useful to your fellow readers" to submit three sample columns.

Then the fun began.

WITH GREAT DELIGHT, I spent all of two days going through the samples that so far have arrived. Incidentally, they keep coming.

As of now I'd guess we have two or three excellent possibilities for regular columnists. (I'm sorry, I won't be able to name them now.)

Additionally, we received an excellent idea from Redford Observer reader Blanche Collins. "May I suggest you using 'guest columnists' every so often so that busy and lazy people like myself (too old for weekly deadlines) might contribute something of interest whenever the urge presents itself?" Blanche asked.

After reading what Blanche had proposed, I leafed again through the batch of samples. I was looking for single possibilities which might rate as guest columns. About 15 qualified under that catagory. We had just earned a bonus.

As my associate Tim Richard, our editorial page editor, has often mused, "A lot of people have one column in them, but that's all."

Blanche, thanks for the plan.

NOW, HOW ABOUT my sharing with you excerpts from cover letters from some of our early hopefuls. Potential columnists were asked to tell what they wanted to write about. Often they added why — and that usually proved just as fascinating.

"I'm teaching dance, effective communications and Middle East awareness in the community and will be involved in many new experiences that you might find of value in your paper."

— Esther Pastor, Birmingham

"I've been an interested observer of people and their marriages for years, have several file folders stuffed with materials and have read many books on the subject."

— Marjorie L. Arnett, Livonia

"I am a perfectly ordinary, opinionated, inconsistent woman. I had a lovely time writing these columns (the three samples) whether they are published or not. If you give me a head start I could do it weekly."

— Gene Simmon, Rochester

"I would like to be considered as a possible columnist for your newspapers. Oh, boy, would I! It's fairly obvious my greatest strength lies in light humor."

— Pamela Dundas, Southfield

"I feel that you could use a column on veterans organizations."

— Arthur W. Boehein, Garden City

"My teenagers suggested I write on child-raising (they're satisfied customers). My husband suggested music or sex perhaps for the same reason. I, however, would like to write a column 'So Close to My Heart,' with sentimental, humorous and informative observations. The title of your newspaper completes my qualifications. I am a Southfield Eccentric."

— Jocelyn Krieger, Southfield

"I'm hoping that this is the speediest reply you'll get. The enclosed columns have been typed and ready to be submitted somewhere for the past month. All I needed is a 'push,' courage for a place to submit them."

— Nancy S. McCurdy, Rochester

"I am not an expert on any one subject, but I like to write about many different aspects of life. I am 20 years old. I am also willing to work at any other position which you have open at this time."

— Donna M. Gundle, Farmington Hills

"I have been keeping a little log of stories about a dog, directed to children and had the idea of turning them into a column by a dog for children, teaching responsibility, citizenship and all the things that we wish our children to be imbued with."

— Joann D. Aceto, Canton

"I propose a column containing thought-provoking questions on a variety of issues of importance to the younger generation. Youngsters between the ages of 6 and 16 would be invited to respond by mail, telephone or classroom interview. It is time to listen to the real experts — the children themselves."

— Carol J. Friedsam, West Bloomfield

"I am a mature, happily married mother of three, who hasn't decided what she'll be when she grows up. Recently I returned to Oakland Community College as a part-time student, where my biggest accomplishment so far has been to walk from the parking lot up the hill to class."

— Bena Schiff, Farmington Hills

"Attempting to present medical problems in an understandable way to lay audiences is a long-time latent ambition of mine and I appreciate your offer to try. I am a clinical neurologist."

— Louis E. Rentz, D.O., F.A.C.N., Birmingham

"The sample columns reflect my personality — cute but windy, sometimes dumb. The tongue-in-cheek I caught from my husband who manages to survive in the world of computers at Ford. We have a beautiful-when-she's-sleeping daughter who plays master to a hamster named Sam."

— Carol Covert, Livonia

"If after reading them (samples) you feel they would not fit in the paper that's OK. I enjoyed sharing them with you. Thank you for tapping into sources that have laid dormant. God bless you."

— Louise A. Haight Jr. Farmington Hills

"I would not be writing (about art) from an expert's or art historian's point of view, but from the kid who visited the candy factory (Detroit Art Institute) and made his business to try every flavor. I feel an amateur's excitment (albeit informed amateur) would show though."

— M. L. Cutler, Southfield

"For the past six years, flea markets have been my hobby. I will never cease to be amazed at what people collect. It gives me unlimited sources of information."

— Charles D. Gardiner, no address

"I would enjoy doing a column on wild plants, animals, pet care and places of interest for nature lovers. I am employed as an animal technician in a veterinary hospital. I also maintain an orphanage in my country home for a variety of 'critters.'"

— Sylvia M Balk, Farmington

"I have dealt with nursing homes for the past six years. It started when I had to put both of my parents in a home. Now, almost $75,000 later I consider myself somewhat of an expert on the subject."

— Mrs. Marion Snyder, Westland

"The struggle of an overweight woman (with two daughters and a supportive husband) would enlighten, encourage as well as entertain your readers."

— Dianne Stobbe, Rochester

"I have two faults you should know about. I can't spell and my typing isn't perfect."

— Name withheld, Troy

Plymouth — Past & Present

Allison recalls early auto days

By Sam Hudson

(Part I)

In a talk to the Rotary Club during the 1940s, the late Carl Shear gave the history of automotive retailing in the Plymouth area before World War II.

Shear, whose Buick dealership dated back to 1920, said Ed Huston was the first automobile dealer in Plymouth. Huston, a prominent local citizen, owned the largest hardware store in the village, was president of the Plymouth United Savings Bank, and was the father of Ruth Huston Whipple, Plymouth's first woman mayor.

Huston took on the Ford franchise in 1910. While he had it, he sold only three cars — one to Paul Voorhies, Attorney General of Michigan from 1931-33; one to Fred Bennett, village president in 1908; and one to Fred Dibble, local merchant.

Then Huston gave up the franchise. Ford insisted that he put up a service station and Ed didn't think the business warranted the investment. In those days, Shear told his audience, dealers often signed a franchise simply to get their own cars at cost. The selling they did was confined largely to friends, and rarely at a profit.

"I think the people in Plymouth should be proud," Shear declared, "that right here in the city we have three of the oldest automobile dealerships in Wayne County. Paul Wiedman has the third oldest Ford dealership, I have the second oldest Buick dealership, and Ernie Allison has the third oldest Chevrolet dealership in the county."

SHEAR, whose business was on Starkweather not far from Main, died in 1975 at age 86.

Paul Wiedman, whose showroom was on South Main adjacent to the Mayflower Hotel, died in 1965 at age 70.

The last of the triumverate, all of whom were close friends and long-time members of the board that ran the hotel during its early years, is Ernest J. Allison. Allison, who was 94 on July 6 of this year. He had the Chevrolet agency in Plymouth for over 40 years.

I recently interviewed Mr. Allison about the automobile business here in the 1920s and '30s, and later talked to Lou LaRiche, who now owns the local Chevrolet dealership.

The origins of these two businessmen, their boyhood ambitions, the circumstances that shaped their business careers, the obstacles they had to overcome, and the changes in automotive retailing which occurred between the time Ernie Allison began here in 1922, and the day Lou LaRiche opened his doors for the first time almost 50 years later, make an interesting study in contrasts.

ERNIE ALLISON was born in Canada on July 6, 1885, of English-Scottish parents. He was raised on his father's farm near Blenheim, Ontario.

An ambitious boy, Ernie was not sure what his vocation should be, "but I knew I wanted to go up."

In the early 1900s good penmanship and a knowledge of arithmetic were talents in demand by employers. To better his penmanship, Allison practiced writing every day, devoting two hours each morning and one hour every night.

To become facile with figures, he left the farm when he was 21 and attended the business school in nearby Chatham. The Chatham Business School numbered among its graduates a fellow Canadian of Allison's who was to become prominent in the automotive business in the United States. His name was James Couzens.

Couzens was the financial and sales genius who helped guide the Ford Motor Co. during its formative years. He invested $2,500 in the company's stock in 1903, and sold out in 1919 for $29 million. Allison, who knew Couzens' father, says he was a soap dealer in Blenheim and that he made his soap from wood ashes.

At business school Allison began to receive poor marks in arithmetic and became discouraged. A discussion with his teacher restored his confidence and from then on mathematics became easy to him.

AT AGE 22, Ernie came to the U.S. and began to put his penmanship and knowledge of figures to work.

He got a job doing costing work with a drain pipe company in Detroit. He left when the firm fired another employee and asked Allison to do the work of two.

Allison's next job was in the time office at the Ford Highland Park plant. He recalls that his hours at the start were from 6:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. He stayed there 12 years.

From 1912 to 1921, he was assistant paymaster at the Ford Rouge plant. He remembers that during World War I the plant made Eagle boats used to combat German submarines.

Anxious to move upward in life, he quit Ford to take what he thought would be a better job. When he was leaving Ford, William S. Knudsen, whom he got to know there, told him to come back to see him if things didn't turn out right on the new job.

They didn't. But when Allison went to see Knudsen he was no longer at Ford. He was now at General Motors where he had become vice president of the Chevrolet Division (he was to become president of General Motors in 1937).

Knudsen had no job at the plant for Allison, but suggested that he consider an automobile dealership. He introduced him to the Chevrolet sales manager. The sales manager gave Allison a choice of three franchises: Port Huron, River Rouge, and Plymouth.

Geake named to study transit

State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, has been appointed by Senate Minority Leader Robert VanderLann to serve on an executive committee established to study public transportation services in southeastern Michigan.

The committee has been charged by Gov. Milliken to work on a comprehensive solution to the transportation problems of the city of Detroit and all of southeast Michigan.

"I am most pleased to serve on this committee because I feel southeastern Michigan badly needs a comprehensive public transportation system and I believe that the system finally adopted must be flexible and economically sound," said Geake, whose district includes Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Livonia and Redford.

"I do not think the transportation system need operate at a profit, but grossly wasteful plans must be avoided."

Specific issues before the committee include establishing a major transportation plan, discussing of merging the Detroit transportation department and the Southeast Michigan Transporation Authority (SEMTA) and locating funding for the transportation plan.

By BRAD EMONS

The Plymouth Salem girls' basketball team may have some individuals who stand out, but it's total teamwork which gives coach Bob Blohm victories.

His Salem girls displayed their unselfish play Tuesday night at home, defeating a decent Dearborn Fordson team, 68-46.

Salem is now 3-0 overall. The Rocks meet Dearborn in their Suburban Eight League opener Thursday night.

Leading 17-13 after one quarter, Salem began to methodically wear down Fordson with its crisp passing and full-court attack.

Patty Weidman, Salem's agile and mobile 6-foot-1-inch center, led all scorers with 24 points in just three quarters of play. She fouled out with 33 seconds left in the period.

Salem also got fine play from its guards. Senior Nan Horwood had 10 points, and sophomore Eileen Moore added eight. Starting forward Cheryl Sobkow also had eight as did sister Jean Sobkow.

"I thought our guards did a good job of reading the floor," said Salem second-year coach Blohm. "They see the open people under pressure. I always thought this team could handle the ball."

Blohm's team can also pass. Horwood and Moore both had five assists. It seemed that every basket the Rocks put home was a result of a direct pass.

WEIDMAN TOOK care of the inside play. She blocked seven shots against the tall Fordson front line and collected 10 rebounds.

"Weidman is outstanding," said Fordson coach John Kreger, whose team slipped to 1-2. "She knows what to do without the ball and is constantly moving."

"I was happy with the way we played offensively," said Blohm. "Patty was right there on the boards, but I thought we need some work on the weak side on defense."

Salem started slowly in the first quarter as 5-11 Fordson center Debbie Siewald collected seven points on some nifty inside moves.

In the second quarter, Salem got in gear and outscored the Tractors, 18-8, to take a 35-21 halftime lead. Weidman scored eight points in the quarter, and Horwood, the floor general, added six.

Fordson had problems matching up with the Rocks as Kreger elected to start out the game in a zone defense.

"We knew we couldn't match up with them," said Kreger. "I was hoping they would shoot poorly from the outside.

"I was disappointed with our defense. We gave up too many layups and let the ball get inside too much.

BLOHM WAS EXTREMELY happy with the way his bench performed.

In the third quarter, Salem outscored Fordson, 19-7, as Weidman collected 12 points. With 2:40 left in the period, Salem enjoyed its biggest lead, 54-28, when Weidman scored an easy layup off a pass from Moore.

Siewald, a senior,scored 17 points as did junior guard Lisa Nabozy who scored 10 of her 17 points in the second half.

By DOUG FUNKE

To say that the Observer & Eccentric Men's Golf Tournament gets more exciting and competitive every year would be an understatement.

Sudden-death playoffs were necessary to decide titles in both the Championship Flight and Flight 1, while the winner in Flight 2 bettered the runner-up there by only one shot.

The 222 golfers who signed up for the 36-hole tournament experienced beautiful course and weather conditions last weekend at Whispering Willows Municipal Golf Course in Livonia. The closeness of the competition reflected those conditions.

All three tied after 36 holes with scores of 144.

Thomas sank an 18-inch birdie putt on the 460-yard par-5 first hole to win the championship.

Springsteen, whose birdie putt lipped the cup, earned the second-place trophy by scoring a par on the second extra hole to Curtis' bogey.

Curtis left the ball in a trap on his third shot at the first hole to effectively take himself out of contention.

Ironically, Thomas played with Curtis five years ago when Thomas first entered the O&E tournament. Cutis won that year.

TO FURTHER ADD to the playoff drama, Springsteen was Thomas' physical education teacher at Bryant Jr. High.

If that weren't enough, Curtis and Springsteen were paired together Sunday during the second round of the tourney.

Thomas, a Plymouth Salem graduate who attends the University of Detroit, put together rounds of 74-70 on the 6,265-yard par 71 course. The 70 was the first time Thomas has broken par in a round during his golfing career.

"I yipped the very same putt (the tournament winner) in the first two rounds. "Didn't you see me shaking (during the playing)?," asked Thomas.

"With the exception of putting on number one both of those days, my short putting was very, very clutch."

Springsteen turned in the best individual round of the tourney with his 69 Saturday. He recorded an eagle, two birdies, 13 pars and a pair of bogeys.

Springsteen said that the putter was his best friend during the round. "I think I only had 27 putts yesterday (Saturday)," he said. "The putter started to desert me today (Sunday)."

CURTIS, MEANWHILE, expressed annoyance with how he lost a couple of strokes here and there during the competition.

"I missed a 12 inch putt today (Sunday) on 15 and took a two-stroke penalty yesterday on number 11 when I hit the ball into the woods and couldn't find it (one stroke penalty for loss of ball, plus loss of distance on shot, in effect a loss of two strokes), said Curtis.

"I three-putted the last hole yesterday," he added. "When you go back and think what you did. . ."

Wheeler canned a nine-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole to win the playoff.

"Believe it or not, chipping and putting were equally (helpful)," said Wheeler. "I was getting down in two whether I was on or off the green. Putting was the main thing today (Sunday). I made them when I needed to."

Wheeler said that he had been so disappointed in how he had been playing lately that he hadn't played in several weeks until just prior to the O&E tourney.

Northville repeats at Schoolcraft

Are cross country dynasties in the making at Northville and Redford Union?

Northville and Redford Union repeated as boys' and girls' champion, respectively, last weekend at the Schoolcraft College Cross Country Invitational.

And, to keep the script even more familiar, Wayne's Doug Tolson was the first harrier to cross the finish line again this year in the boys' race. Tolson had a time of 16:06.3 last weekend at Cass Benton Park.

Angie Mogielski, a Redford Union freshman, set the pace in the girls' race. Her effort was 19:33.7.

Because the course was changed for the three-mile run this year, both winning efforts were new records.

Northville, with its five scorers all finishing among the top 25 runners, had an easy road to the team championship. The Mustangs totalled 58 points to 123 for Livonia Stevenson, the runner-up.

Three of Northville's five scorers are sophomores.

FARMINGTON, 128 points, gave the Spartans a good run for the money before settling for third place. Wayne finished fourth and Livonia Churchill fifth.

Even though Garden City East placed 15th in the 19-team field, Mike Stapleton, East's premier runner, finished seventh with an effort of 16:26.6.

Two other area harriers made the all-invitational team by finishing in the top 10.

John Grant, from Stevenson, placed ninth in 16:36.8 and Jeff Bristow, from Livonia Franklin, was 10th in 16:40.6.

Farmington also had a pair of representatives — John Murphy, who finished sixth in a time of 16:21.7, and Bill Atkinson, who placed eighth in 16:29.6.

One hundred twenty-five runners finished.

ONLY SIX TEAMS could start a minimum five runners to qualify for the girls' championship, which turned out to be a two-school race between RU and Livonia Stevenson.

The Panthers scored 43 points, Stevenson 59.

Mogielski's field-besting effort was 19:33.7.

RU's Julie Morris placed sixth, 20:15.9; Nancy Adams, ninth, 20:55.4; Pam Sionkowski, 12th, 21:23.6; Gail Asiala, 15th, 21:49.3; Marilyn Hocking, 16th, 21:51.6; Julie Foldi, 18th, 21:54.3; Carol Owens, 19th, 21:58.4; Ki Gruner, 21st, 22:09.8; and Mary Arcand, 23d, 22:16.0.

"The most surprising thing was that Mogielski finished first," said RU coach Mike Krafchak. "That's really only the second race she's ever run. That was really a pleasant surprise."

Krafchak also praised the work of his entire team.

"Our team has a tendency to be ready early in the season. We're starting to put them together now," said Krafchak.

Livonia Stevenson, which finished a close second to RU, placed two girls on the all-invitational team as did Ladywood, which finished third as a team.

Stevenson's Lori Bennett was second in 19:43.3, and teammate Sally Zehnal placed 10th in 20:12.6.

Ladywood's two Top 10 harriers were Kathy Gibbins, who finished third in 19:54.1, and Anita Brown, who placed fifth in 20:15.9.

Rock harriers win dual

Despite an injury to its No. 1 runner, Plymouth Salem was still able to comfortably defeat Redford Thurston Tesday afternoon, 21-38, in a boys' cross country meet.

It was the first dual meet for the Rocks.

Salem competed without senior Paul Hess, who finished second in a triangular meet last Tuesday to Livonia Stevenson's Rich Dubois.

Co-captain Jeff Haertel picked up the slack for coach Scott Dunson as he posted a first place time of 17:49. Teammate Chris Whittaker of Salem was second, and Thurston's Tim Jefferies placed third.

John Wall and Mark Litalien finished fourth and sixth respectively for the Rocks.

"It was nice to get a victory," said Dunson. "We have a lot of work ahead but the main thing is to stay healthy.

"Paul was injured at the Schoolcraft meet (Saturday) and has a sore knee and his arches hurt.

"Hopefully we can take it easy for a week."

Chief tankers defeated

By SCOTT ADLER

Tarja Tuominen set a school record in the 100-yard butterfly and also won the 200-yard individual medley, but her fine performance was in vain as the Plymouth Canton swim team dropped its season opener to Redford Union, 91-81.

Other firsts for the Chiefs included Kim Massey in the 100-yard freestyle despite being saddled with a cold.

Sophomore Missy McMurray won the 50-yard freestyle, and Mary Reardon placed first in the 500-yard freestyle. Chris Wennerberg took top diving honors for Canton.

"I thought that overall we did tremendous," said first-year Canton coach Mark Griffith. "Every girl on the team brought their time down, and that's great.

"Our greatest problem was our lack of depth," Griffith added. "That was why we lost the meet — and with not everyone feeling up to par hurt too."

The Chiefs are now 0-1 on the season and take on Western Six League rival Walled Lake Western tonight at Western's pool.

Rocks ponder Pioneers

Going into this Friday's action, the third week of the prep football season, Plymouth Salem will try to make it 2-0 in the Suburban Eight League in a 4 p.m. game at Dearborn (1-1).

Plymouth Canton, winless in its first two games, will entertain Walled Lake Western, Friday at 8 p.m., in the Western Six League opener for both teams.

Despite numerous penalties in the first half, Salem was able to handle a stubborn Livonia Bentley team last Friday night, 24-8.

The Rocks' defense was extremely tough led by play of tackle Stan Snider and linebackers Phil Anderson and Jeff Powers. Senior Julian Martinez was also strong in the defensive secondary as Bentley was limited to only one first down in the second half.

Salem (1-1) will be tested by a Dearborn team which won its opener easily against Southgate and then lost Friday to Suburban Eight League power Dearborn Edsel Ford, 20-6.

Coach Tom Moshimer and his Salem staff got a good look at the Pioneers Friday, a team which boasts a strong kicking game led by Harold Moore, who booted field goals of 28 and 36 yards against Edsel Ford.

Moore's 28-yard kick gave Dearborn a 3-0 halftime lead over Edsel Ford. His second field goal in the third quarter gave the Pioneers a 6-0 edge before the Thunderbirds answered with three touchdowns.

"DEARBORN IS a very good football team," said Moshimer after observing the Pioneers. "They gave Edsel all they could handle for three quarters.

"Dearborn is always a tough team."

Last year Salem just got by Dearborn in a hard hitting game, 10-7. Two years ago, Salem beat the Pioneers, 21-14.

Dearborn coach Dick Ryan has guided the Pioneers to a to a 28-10 record in five years.

Meanwhile, Canton, a 14-13 loser to Dearborn Heights Annapolis Friday afternoon, will be meeting a Walled Lake Western team which lost its opener to Bloomfield Hills Lahser (2-0), 33-0, but bounced back to defeat Waterford Kettering last week, 14-7.

The Chiefs, who looked better defensively against Annapolis, lost last year to the Warriors, 25-6. Two years ago the Warriors hammered Canton, 35-6.

Coach Dave Schuele of Canton will be looking to avenge those two defeats. He said his team improved in its game against Annapolis.

The fourth year Canton coach said his team needs to gain better field position.

"We just didn't use the clock well against Annapolis," said Schuele after the game. "We still have a ways to go on offense."

Schuele said after the heartbreaking loss: "We're going to put a lump on somebody's head coming up."

He is hoping that will be Walled Lake Western.

Canton cagers edge Thurston, 61-59

By SCOTT ADLER

Jill Pedersen sank two free throws with 14 seconds remaining to cap a furious second-half rally and power the Plymouth Canton girls' basketball team to a 61-59 victory over Redford Thurston on the road Tuesday night.

Pedersen, a senior guard, played an excellent second half to help boost the Chiefs' overall record to 2-1 as she finished with 24 points on the night. Pedersen shot a sizzling 50 percent from the floor, hitting nine of 18 and was the only Canton player able to connect from the free throw line, hitting six of nine shots.

The Chiefs trailed by five, 15-10, after the opening quarter of play and 31-28 at intermission.

The Chiefs let fly with both barrels in the third period, totaling 21 points as Thurston countered with 14, tying the game at 45-all, heading into the final quarter.

McCauley said a tough defense and better free throw shooting accounted for Canton's increased offensive total in the second half. He said his players showed intelligence and made fewer passing errors.

BOTH TEAMS traded baskets in the final quarter with each team fast-breaking the other. Thurston got the better of Canton as it converted easy layups breaking the Chiefs' full-court press.

With the score tied 57-all and 1:10 left in the game, sophomore Jean Timlin of Canton sank a 17-foot jump shot to put her team up by two.

Rowley paced Thurston with 22 points.

"We really wanted this game bad," said McCauley. "This win boosted our spirits. Jill Pedersen played very well and so did Jean Timlin. We shot much better than Thurston and we still made it close by our poor defense and sloppy offense.

Behind Pedersen in the scoring column for Canton was Timlin with nine, and sophomore Pearlie Cunningham with seven. Reggie Ruggerio led the Chief rebounders with eight.

Canton will entertain Livonia Bentley, a power in the Suburban Eight League, Thursday at 8 p.m.

"Bentley should give us an interesting game," said McCauley, a graduate of the Livonia school.

IN THE POCKET

By W.W. EDGAR

There was a time not so long ago when the goal of the league bowlers in the western suburbs was a 600 series. Those days now are gone and scarcely a week goes by that the 700 barrier isn't broken.

It happened again this week when Charlie Farver, bowling in the Little Caesar Classic at Westland Bowl, came through with games of 266, 194 and 278 for a series 738.

While Farver drew most of the attention, there was a real donnybrook going on for the runner-up slot in the high scoring race. Jeff Hogan finally won it with a 696 that came on games of 256, 215 and 225. He gained the honor in the last game as Jerry Holt finished with a 214 after games of 237 and 242 for 693. And Dan Secrest took third place with a 691 that included a closing game of 280.

In the ladies' division, Brenda Evans topped the lanes with two games of 193 in 564. Leandra Micholak was one pin behind with 563 and a 232 game made that possible.

FOR CONSISTENCY you would have a difficult time beating the series rolled by Merle Barto in the Westland Moose League at Super Bowl.

He opened with a 229, followed with 226 and closed with 227 for a 682.

In other good performances at the Super Bowl, Karyn Brothers paced the Las Vegas league with a 210 in 535, Bonnie Schneider set the pace in the Strike and Spare league with a 225 single game and John Roberts, a 131-average bowler, had a 510.

ANNE TROKE managed to reach the 600 plateau in the doubles at Merri-Bowl, but she needed a 234 middle game to do it. The big game gave her a 601. Behind her came Jan Boyster with 575 and Vivian Williamson with 565. Meanwhile Mary Kain had 246 for high game.

In the YBA Saturday Morning League Lee Charns showed the way with 689 that came on games of 199, 234 and 256. Matt Barazuk had a 625 and Jim Kanya had a 241 game.

IN THE SUNDAY mixed league at Garden Lanes, Leonard Wernette put together games of 255, 213 and 183 for 651 to top the loop. On the women's side, Ruth Debussey was high with a 206 in 535. In the St. John Boscoe Loop, Dick Pilar was top man with 640 — thanks to a 232 start.

MARY DIERKAMP stole the show in the Livonia women's Classic. After Joan Lewis won the first game with 182(42) — 224, Mary won the second with 168(61) — 229 and the third with 163(61) — 224. The double victory gave her the series 480(183) — 663.

Salem tankers down Harrison

Plymouth Salem avenged one of its three losses last year by defeating Farmington Harrison in a girls's non-league swim meet Tuesday night, 102-70.

Co-captain Sharon Ross and Terri Eudy each placed first in two individual events for the Rocks, now 1-1 overall.

Ross was victorious in the 200-yard freestyle (2:09.3) and 500-yard freestyle (5:42.8). Eudy won the 200-yard individual medley (2:27.8) and 100-yard freestyle (:58.3).

The Salem 400-yard medley relay squad of Linda Wochna, Corinne Cabadas, Sue Evans and Julie Cabadas posted a first-place time of 2:10.5.

Corinne won the 100-yard breaststroke with a clocking of 1:21.7. Teammate Renee Lakatos placed first in the 100-yard backstroke (1:10.9) and Wochna was second (1:11.6).

Thomas wins title

plete the tourney, claimed the Flight 2 championship with a 161 total on rounds of 82-79. The West Bloomfield resident edged Nick Lubnik, who lives in Farmington Hills, by a single shot.

Lubnik shot rounds of 80-82.

"Today's (Sunday's) round was so brutal — I was playing so lousy," said Blazer. "My short game wasn't really sharp, but it was keeping me in there, I guess."

Jack Quigley, a Westland resident, won the Flight 3 title with the biggest margin of the tourney — five strokes. Quigley shot 90-85 for a 175 total. Angelo Fratarcongeli, from Canton, landed second with a score of 181 on rounds of 87-94.

Quigley, who has been golfing 35 years, was competing in his first O&E tournament.

THE GOLFERS were also competing for net (handicap-adjusted scores) honors.

Bob Jamrog, from Livonia, who carries an eight handicap, had a net score of 135 with an actual 151. His net score was the best in the Championship Flight.

Salem girls win 2nd match

Rock netters drop-shot Eagles

After almost snapping Livonia Stevenson's 36-match dual meet win streak, the Plymouth Salem girls' tennis team handled Redford Thurston easily on Friday, 7-0.

The Rocks, now 2-1 overall, came within one match of beating the Livonians on Thursday, losing 4-3.

Salem lost all four singles matches against Stevenson but allowed only two games against Thurston.

At No. 1 singles, Kathy Horton, a Salem senior, posted a 6-1, 6-0 triumph over Denata Weber. Carol Hathaway of Salem had little trouble disposing Lori Engel, 6-0, 6-1, at No. 2 singles.

Betsy Moon bombed Thurston's Donna Patrick at No. 3 singles, 6-0, 6-0, as did Renee Braun at No. 4 singles, who beat Julie Burbonas of the Eagles.

Carol Gillespie and Sandra Hathaway scored an impressive win over Carmen Heyes and Sharon Porter of Thurston, 6-0, 6-1, at No. 1 doubles.

The No. 2 Salem doubles team of Vickie Sterling and Lynn Hathaway upped their individual mark to 3-0 by whipping Barb Patrick and Cindy Moliassa.

At No. 3 doubles, Beth Baker and Kathy Weber increased their mark to 3-0 with a 6-0, 6-1 triumph over Lori Ticells and Margaret Karness.

Salem will face Dearborn Wednesday at home (4 p.m.) in a key Suburban Eight League showdown.

Canton netters grab loop opener

Plymouth Canton opened up its Western Six League girls' tennis season Monday with a 6-1 victory over Walled Lake Western.

The Chiefs were impressive in singles, yielding just six games.

At No. 1 singles, Joan Keiser romped over Western's Regina Roberts, 6-0, 6-0. Cheryl Smith of Canton had little trouble getting by Cindy Kalhorn, 6-0, 6-2, at No. 2 singles.

Lori Smith was equally impressive at No. 3 singles as she waltzed past Holly Spencer, 6-1, 6-2. And Canton's No. 4 singles player, Kathy Kidston, trounced Debbie Salisz, 6-1, 6-0.

In doubles, Eileen McGlinn and Pam Schipani edged Western's Cindy Boardman and Michelle Bryant, 7-6, 6-4, at the No. 1 slot.

At No. 3 doubles, Canton's Barb Rupprecht and Ann O'Connell breezed past Marcia Bryant and Lisa Roselle, 6-2, 6-2.

Walled Lake scored its only point of the match when Brenda Sugar and Julie Jenkins beat Heather Hawkins and Lisa Schlotz, 6-4, 5-7, 7-6 (5-1 in tiebreaker).

"That was the longest match of the day, and we had a chance to win it," said Canton coach Cindi Burnstein.

On Friday, Canton lost its second match of the season, 4-3, to Livonia Bentley.

The Chiefs and Bentley were involved in four, three-set matches. Canton could come up with only one victory.

Keiser was beaten by Bentley's Janet Ray in a three-setter, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1, while Cheryl Smith did the same at No. 2 singles, losing to Audrey Devon, 6-0, 3-6, 6-2.

Lori Smith got Canton's first point when she beat Shelly Mauch at No. 3 singles, 6-3, 6-2. Kidston won at No. 4 singles, beating Pam Collins, 6-2, 6-1.

In doubles, Rupprecht and O'Connell scored the Chiefs' third point after handling Laura Cook and Sandy Smykowski, 5-7, 7-5, 6-1.

McGlinn and Schipani lost to Anne Sabuda and Sue Scrutton, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 at No. 1 doubles.

Hawkins and Schlotz were beaten at No. 2 doubles by Bentley's Gretchen Payne and Jan Eichorn, 6-2, 6-2.

"It's really too bad we lost the match," said Burnstein. "I think Bentley was a little surprised. They beat us 7-0 last year.

"I can't explain why we lost those three set matches," she said.

Harrison returns No. 1 singles player Nancy Green, a unanimous all-area pick as a sophomore last year.

"Harrison was not strong in doubles last year," said Burnstein. "We could pick up some points there but you never know."

Recto provides help

Ferris State freshman Monette Recto is expected to provide immediate help for this year's Bulldog volleyball team, according to coach Monica Folske.

The fifth-year Ferris State coach welcomes five returning letter winners from a squad which finished third in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) and posted a 13-18 overall record.

Salem JV gridders tie; Chiefs fall

By STEVE GRAY

The Plymouth Salem junior varsity football team racked up 230 total yards to Livonia Bentley's 110, but five lost fumbles forced the Rocks to settle for a scoreless tie Thursday at Centennial Education Park field.

Despite the five fumbles, Salem coach Bob Brodie was pleased with his team's performance.

"I thought we played well," he said. "They (Bentley) were quicker and bigger than we were, but our kids hit right with them. Those fumbles stopped every one of our drives."

Halfbacks John Moloneaux and Chuck Slavin had a fine day rushing for the Rocks, gaining over 80 yards each.

Salem's next game will be at home (today), Sept. 20 at 4 p.m. against Dearborn.

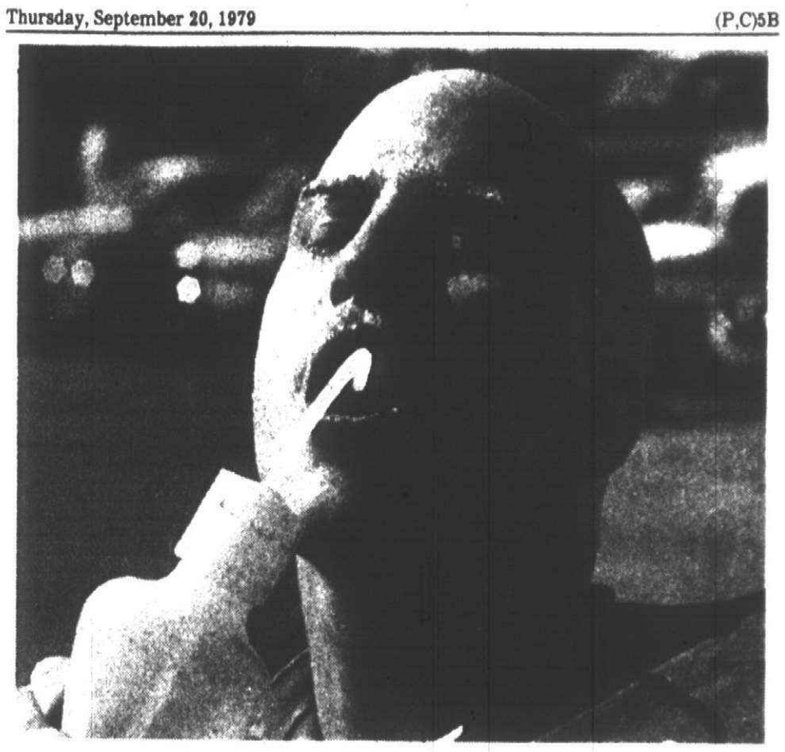
CANTON-NORTH FARMINGTON

A 58-yard punt return and a 60-yard bomb put North Farmington's junior varsity ahead 14-0 early in the first half as Plymouth Canton never recovered, coming up on the short end of a 28-0 trounce Thursday.

"We played pretty good inside the 20-yard line," said Canton coach Dean Naudi. "The big play hurt us all day long."

North's other two touchdowns came on a 62-yard run and a 40-yard pass.

The junior Chiefs will try to bounce back today when they host Garden City East at 7 p.m.



Total dedication

Doug Rowe, a graduate of Plymouth Salem and now a sophomore defensive end at Michigan Tech, sports a special hair-do for the Huskies' 1979 season. Rowe and five other players shaved their heads in an "outward sign of dedication to our goals" for the year.

Lion freshmen triumphs

The Lions' two other teams lost, however. The varsity squad fell 13-0 and the junior varsity was also shut out, 19-0.

Kevin Cooper paced the freshmen team to victory as he scored on a 25-yard run and returned a punt 55 yards for another touchdown.

The other two TD's came from quarterback Ricky Genrich on a 15-yard run, and Jerry Sumner on a 35-yard interception.

The Plymouth Steelers of the Junior Football League were narrowly defeated by the Belleville Tigers' freshmen 7-0 Sunday in a defensive struggle.

The lone score came on a 45-yard touchdown run off a fumble recovery.

The Steelers' will travel to Northville Saturday with the freshmen game starting at 5:30 p.m.

Junior Chief cagers lose

Sue Gerke poured in 20 points in a losing effort for the Plymouth Canton junior varsity girls cage team as the Chiefs fell to a big Thurston team, 46-36.

Canton played well in the first half, building a 10 point lead, only to be outscored 18-6 in the third period and 14-8 in the fourth period.

"That was the best half we've played all year," said Canton coach Phyllis Cunningham. "It's hard to play against a team that is so much older. They had sophomores and juniors; we have all freshmen except one."

Wangler's effort wasted

Kicking game kills U-M

By W.W. EDGAR

His spirits raised by the old saying that a beating sometimes does a fellow good, U-M coach Bo Schembechler surprised even his closest followers this week when he predicted that the Wolverines might still go on to win the championship.

Beaten by Notre Dame when a last second field-goal attempt was blocked to give the Fighting Irish a 12-10 victory, Bo was quick to point out in the aftermath of the loss that few top teams go undefeated in a season.

"We have the potential of a good team — maybe a great one," the Wolverine coach told his Monday morning quarterbacks. He promised that the team will look a lot different against Kansas this Saturday.

The statistics of last week's game give partial proof of what Michigan can do. The Wolverines gained 306 yards, compared to the 179 picked up by the Irish. Unfortunately, the yards were cut down when they could have meant something. And two fumbles early in the game paved the way for two of the Irish four field goals.

It was only the second time in recent Michigan football history that the Wolverines were beaten by four field goals in a single game. Ohio State did the trick some years ago.

While Bo didn't announce any changes in the lineup, there is a possibility that John Wangler, of Royal Oak, may get the starting assignment against Kansas, a 24-0 loser to Pittsburgh Saturday.

Wangler proved that he could get the Wolverines moving late in the game against Notre Dame. He directed the drive to get his team within field-goal range and was on the verge of victory until the moment Bob Crable, the Irish linebacker, crawled up Michigan center Mike Trgovac's back to block Bryan Virgil's kick and send the Irish home a winner.

There were several unusual touches to the game. First, it was Notre Dame's third victory in the Michigan series and all of them have been scored in Ann Arbor. And it was the second time that Dan Devine beat Schembechler in the stadium. He coached the Missouri team to victory in Bo's first year as the Wolverine coach.

Whiffle ball event a success

Some 25 boys played 24 consecutive hours of whiffle ball (baseball with a plastic ball and bat) on Labor Day weekend for Muscular Dystrophy and raised $600.

John Matthews and Tom Vargo, both seniors at Canton High school, dreamed the idea up and called it a great success.

"We had a better turnout than I expected," said Matthews. "We only expected to raise around $100, but we were really happy with what we ended up with."

Matthews and many of the participants are skeptical of next year's whiffle ball outing but look forward to some sort of fund-raiser.

"I don't think well play whiffle ball next year," said Matthews, "but some sort of marathon will be planned."

Waterford golfers beat Chiefs

The Chiefs, who will host Walled Lake Western Thursday, now stand 2-2 overall.

"I just don't think we concentrated enough," said Canton first-year coach Casey Cavell. "When it was all over I think the kids realized it.

"We have to make sure it won't happen again."

Canton's Dave Visser recorded the top score for the Chiefs. He scrambled to a 39. Teammate Scott Adler shot a 43 while John Matthews and Kirk Rasmussen carded a pair of 45s. Doug Moffatt fired a 46.

"It was a good course," said Cavell. "I don't think that had an affect."

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

LATEST ISSUE of "Michigan History" pays tribute to Plymouth native Russell Kirk, "The Wizard of Mecosta."

Kirk is a syndicated columnist and author. Back in his days at Plymouth High School, he was a member of the debating team. The historian and staunch conservative has written several mysteries.

The article by Louis Filler is a "Living History" feature in the magazine, a series of portraits of living persons who offer insight into the state and its history.

Included are some old photographs of Plymouth — one of "Dan Smith Coffee" by the railroad tracks.

BERT O'DAY was the recipient of a special award at "The League's" annual end of the season luncheon. (The League is a women's golf league that plays at Fox Hills on North Territorial.)

by ELLIE GRAHAM

Bert's award, a new gold head for a golf club, was something of an innovation. But no member in the history of the league had ever had the head of her club fly farther than the ball.

Tuesday's perfect weather called for some post season play so the women were out at Fox Hills. On the fifth hole, Bert hit the ball. The stroke was followed by a whirring sound as as the binding of her club unraveled and the head flew off into space. Bert had done it again.

JEFF AND LIZ Cardinal have a son. Michael Jeffrey Cardinal was born Aug. 18. His new parents brought him to their home on Simpson Street last Friday.

"We thought it would be late October or November," said Jeff, "but when our social worker called and said he would be coming in about a week and a half, we did some scurrying around. Margaret was 6 months old when we got her so we had to round up some newborn baby clothes."

Margaret, their daughter, is now 2½. She is delighted and fascinated with the new baby and so are his new parents who had the nursery all ready for his arrival.

"August is going to be a big month in our family," said the proud father. "My dad's birthday is the 12th, mine is the 10th, Michael's the 18th, and Liz and I were married on the 22nd."

Liz's parents are nearby in Ann Arbor, and Jeff's parents live in Plymouth so the grandparents have an opportunity to admire and love their new grandson. Jeff is coordinator of radio station WSDP at the Centennial Educational Park. All those who have known Jeff since he was a student in the Plymouth schools are especially pleased and proud. Congratulations.

A NOTE FROM Harry Mast on Dewey Street invites everyone interested in bonsai to the University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens Sunday, Sept. 23. "Bonsai enthusiasts from all over Michigan will be exhibiting a variety of bonsai efforts," wrote Harry. "This exhibit is open to the public from 12:30-4:30 p.m. with a minimal admission charge (25 cents)." The gardens are at 1800 Dixboro Road, between Ann Arbor Road and Geddes.

The meeting will be hosted by the Ann Arbor Bonsai Society. The bonsai enthusiasts will register between 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. They are encouraged to bring trees to help make the exhibit truly representative of the broad range of bonsai "which bring pleasure and satisfaction to Michigan growers."

There will be an Artist's Choice Demonstration by Dean Atkinson who is widely recognized as one of the most experienced and accomplished bonsai growers in Michigan.

For those who have never been to the gardens, it would be a lovely Sunday afternoon drive just to see the gardens and without the added attraction of the bonsai exhibit.

SO MANY THINGS going on this weekend — the backgammon tournament at the Plymouth Hilton on Northville Road and the bridal party at Plymouth Furniture. All open to the public.

Anyone with a yen to play backgammon will be able to watch the experts at the tournament which begins at 3 p.m. They welcome spectators and there is no admission fee.

The $1 donation for the bridal party will go to the local high schools' marching band.

AND FOR DOG lovers, the Great Pyrenees Club of Michigan will have its annual fun match beginning at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 30. The match is open to the public and there will be no admission charge. Anyone owning a Great Pyrenees is urged to take their dog.

Florence Griggs is well known to many of Plymouth's senior citizens. As a senior aide, she is often on the telephone as seniors come to her with their problems and questions. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Their happiness is aiding others

By BETTY MASSON

Stella Stoops, a Plymouth great-grandmother, has gone to camp twice this summer.

The first time a 90-year-old woman, "feisty" in temperament, kept her busy, although Mrs. Stoops did find time to read to an 80-year-old who couldn't read English. As a reward, he followed her around and attempted to treat her to soda pop.

The second time, she kept track of five girls, ages 8 – 11. A non-swimmer, Mrs. Stoops was content to watch her charges from the shore, but she went boating every chance she got. She even tried the paddle boats.

Mrs. Stoops is 72. Her blue eyes twinkle with enthusiasm, as she says, "I'm having the best time I ever had in my life."

She, along with another Plymouth resident, Florence Griggs, are starting new "careers" at an age when most people are well into retirement.

THEY ARE EMPLOYED for 20 hours each week as senior aides, under a federally-funded program, sponsored nationally by the National Council of Senior Citizens and called the Senior Aide Project.

Administrative costs are provided through contributions to the local sponsor, in this case, the Child and Family Service of Washtenaw County, a United Way Agency.

The program is designed not only to "help get senior citizens back into the mainstream of life, but also to give an assist to those who are having trouble meeting rising costs of living on fixed incomes," according to project director, Gloria Terhune.

To be eligible for placement as a senior aide, citizens must be willing and able to work and must have incomes at or below U.S. of Labor low-income guidelines. They must be 55 or over.

Interested persons may Mrs. Terhune at 971-6520.

Senior aides are placed in service to non-profit agencies.

MRS. STOOPS WORKS for the Plymouth Salvation Army, visiting nursing homes and helping out with the army's children nursery Tuesday and Thursday mornings. The camps she attended are run by the army at Echo Grove.

Mrs. Griggs is an information and referral aide for senior citizens. She works closely with the Plymouth Community Council on Aging, answering questions from senior citizens.

Where to get transportation and where to get help for small jobs around the house are frequent questions.

In both cases, previous experience has helped prepare the women for their new careers.

Mrs. Stoops was born in Plymouth, and she and her husband, who died two years ago, lived on Marilyn, north of Five Mile Road 37 years and raised 11 children. For 15 years, she worked at various nursing homes in Plymouth and Livonia. Working with the old, therefore, is not new to her.

Nor is working with the young. She has 41 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren, with another two due shortly.

Over the weekend, she helped man the Salvation Army booth at the Plymouth Fall Festival. In her spare time, she knits, crochets and sews. She's busy now with lovely crocheted lap robes to present to her nursing home friends for Christmas.

During her visits to the nursing homes, she reads to the residents, writes letters for them and tries to cheer them up. "If you could see their faces...they've got smiles from ear to ear when they see me," said Mrs. Stoops.

"I've got the good Lord behind me," said Mrs. Stoops, who has been a Salvation Army member for 46 years.

ONE OF THE HIGHLIGHTS of the aide program for Mrs. Stoops and Mrs. Griggs is the meeting held each month in the program offices in Ann Arbor.

On Friday, Sept. 14, they will be meeting Muhammad Ali. In fact, Mrs. Griggs is on the reception committee.

When she is not answering the telephone, Mrs. Griggs spends her time on various senior citizens projects.

Presently she is collecting names for a "Skill Bank." Senior citizens who would like to put their talents to work performing small chores for other senior citizens at reduced rates are urged to call her at 455-4907. Her office is located in Plymouth Growth Works, on Main Street east of Penniman.

She is also working on a new senior citizen discount program. More merchants are being lined up to participate in a program which gives discount rates to those carrying special senior citizen cards. Senior citizens will be able to obtain cards in October.

The project was begun last spring, and saw more than 600 senior citizens and about 80 merchants participating.

Mrs. Griggs is also concerned about finding a room on the ground floor of a downtown Plymouth location for a senior drop-in center. "A lot of senior citizens live in the downtown area. They used to meet and socialize at Kresge's, but since that closed, they have no place to go," she said.

"We really don't need much room," she said.

MRS. GRIGGS HAS BEEN interested in senior citizens for a long time and has done a great deal of volunteer work for them. She's also had a lot of personal experience with older persons. "I come from a long-lived family," she said. "My mother lived to be 94, and a grandmother and a great-aunt lived to be over 100.

In her spare time, Mrs. Griggs also does a lot of knitting, sewing and crocheting. Last May, she took time out to re-marry.

A widow for 13 years, she married James R. Bullen, but she still goes by the name of Griggs.

It makes life simpler for the many friends, young and old, she has made since moving to Plymouth in 1950 from Detroit.

Mrs. Griggs has one daughter and one granddaughter.

British musicians

A little light music wins warm friends

By MARGARET MILLER

Take an American clergyman with a great interest in things British and add an English music teacher with a developing interest in American travel.

What do you get?

The answer is a tailored tour for 27 young musicians, the beginnings of a lot of friendships that will span the Atlantic and a mighty number of musical notes played in concert in this area and around lower Michigan.

Members of the Young People's Light Orchestra from Sussex, England, are back home and recovering from jet lag today following a 10-day visit that took them around Livonia and to Dexter, Brighton, Dearborn, Detroit and Port Austin, to say nothing of a weekend trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo and a tour of Greenfield Village. For all 27, as well as their leader, Peter Nightingale, and five other adults with the group, it was the first time in this country.

They came at the invitation of the Rev. William Ritter, who met Nightingale and his wife, Florence, when Ritter and his wife, Kris, visited England in 1975 and again last fall.

After extending the invitation, the local minister received plenty of help from his own congregation, Newburg United Methodist of Livonia, as well as UMC churches in Brighton and Port Austin, Mt. Olivet in Dearborn and St. Timothy in Detroit.

In each of those churches families hosted the visiting musicians for a night or two as the group put on programs of light orchestral and vocal music. Newburg families acted as hosts for two weekends when the orchestra played there, then later came back after a weekend at Niagara to play for the children at Washington and Johnson schools in Livonia.

THE YOUNG People's Light Orchestra was formed five years ago by Nightingale, who has taught classes in the Sussex area and has many private piano students.

"We really started as a group for our own children and their friends," the British teacher explained. They indeed have an orchestral nucleus — Melody, 21, plays the violin and is beginning to take a turn as conductor; Gay, 17, is a cellist; Terry, 20, shines on the guitar; and Cherry, 13, blows her turumpet.

Mrs. Nightingale doesn't perform, but she said she's a "good listener and better nagger." On the recent tour she mainly turned pages while her husband held forth on the piano.

The early gatherings for fun playing got larger and larger and eventually the Nightingales took the group to the Methodist church in Rustington, England.

They were just getting regular rehearsals going well when the Ritters arrived four summers ago to serve an exchange pastorate.

"We were going to play for them," Nightingale recalled, "but we missed connections. So later we sent them a recording of our work."

The record and and a later encounter when the Ritters were back in England led to the invitation, and the stage was set for a British invasion that began Sept. 7 when the YPLO group's Laker Airlines plane touched down at Metro Airport.

THE ORCHESTRA performs with as many as 70 players in England but had to limit the numbers that could come here.

"It was terribly hard choosing who to take," said Mrs. Nightingale, "but mainly we wound up taking the principals in each section."

With the visiting group were musicians ranging in age from 9 (violinist David Joyce) to 21 (the eldest Nightingale.) All the director's family was on hand except Terry — "worst luck, he had to stand some exams," said his father.

There were some other family combinations in the group, Jeremy and Karen Salmon, Sarah and Claire Dodman and David and Kathryn Joyce. Several mothers served as chaperones and rounder-uppers.

The concert repertoire, including light American and British music, some compositions by Nightingale and one by son Terry, was performed seven times in all.

"One almost missed giving the concert the night we were at Niagara Falls," one of the group noted.

The group, which had performed last year at Calais, France, in a shorter trip, has as honorary leaders such famed personalities a Stanley Holloway, Montovani, British entertainer Sally Geeson and composer Ronald Binge. The late Bing Crosby had indicated an interest in the group shortly before his death.

But connection with the famous had little to do with the reception here. "It's so good to let the children have a chance to hear this kind of music," one teacher at Johnson school said.

Claremont Drive residents organize super block party

Canton Chatter

By SAM NICHOLS 397-0429

Sue and Dave Gondoly and Cindy and Don Bucci were the organizers of the recent Claremont Drive block party. The event began about 3:30 p.m. when Dave Cooper and Jim Weidman blocked off the street. Eating, relaxing, and fun were continuous until 10:30 p.m.

Jim Weidman had the role of chief chef, barbecuing hot dogs on his portable gas grill. His assistant was Steve Demeter. Each couple on the street donated a dish to pass to supplement the meal.

The party had very good attendance. Even people such as Joan and Dick Olszewski, Virginia and Dennis Raettger, and Kay Dividoc, who had other activities that day, came to the block party also. Sharon and Joel Sawyer brought their house guests who were visiting from London, Ont.

Children's games were organized by Julie Jones and Joyce Mollick. There were games for various age groups above 3, with prizes for each of the winners. The under 3s had a penny hunt.

Contest winner's included: Rene Demeter who won the penny race, and David Gondoly who was best in the shoe scramble. The one-legged race was won by Mike Shannon, while top honors in the backward one-legged race went to Dale Shannon. Sounds like the Shannon boys are the fastest boys on "foot," — one foot, that is. Joe Gondoly kicked his shoe farther than any other contestant in the shoe kick. The backward race was won by Jamie Jones, and Mike Demeter was the winner of the ever-popular and ever-wet water balloon toss.

Adult games were organized by Jane Portschell and Karen Ludwig.

Not to be outdone by the children, the adults had a wild and wet water balloon toss. Teams were chosen for a volleyball game to continue the merriment, and give cause for complaints of sore muscles in the days to follow.

Door prizes were won by Scott and Karen Ludwig, Joyce and Rick Mollick, and Cindy and Don Bucci.

FORESTBROOK SUBDIVISION held its third annual Forestbrook Golf Classic in late August. The organizers felt most fortunate that their day happened to be one of the few sunny and warm days we had in August. This year's event was planned by Nancy Brennan, Al Dembeck, Jim Kearney, Ed Miller, Terry Miller, and Steve Larson.

Fifty-six golfers teed off at Fellows Creek Golf Course at 11:30 a.m. A roving refreshment cart was a most welcome addition. The refreshment cart managed to keep everyone happy and having a good time whether they were having a good game or wondering why they ever took up the game of golf.

Top winners for the ladies low scores were: First place, Niky Hachigian; second place, Joan Samuelson; and third place, Robbie Robuck. Winning honors for the men were captured by T. Kusma, first place; Tom Thomas, second place; and B. Hill, third place. Trophies were awarded to each first place finisher.

Prizes also were awarded for men and women for closest to the pin and longest drive. Ann Williamson and Mike Shollock drove their balls closest to the pin on the designated holes. Joan Samuelson and Dave Lucas and the distinction of winning the longest drives of the event.

The once or twice a year "snake killers" were not overlooked by the golf classic's planners. Prizes were awarded to the man and lady who carded the highest score. Linda Drake and John Ryer hacked, whiffed, and duffed their way into winning these dubious honors. Their efforts won them gift certificates for dinner for two, plus the gas to get there. This translated into a certificate for a free pizza, plus a can of beans. Prizes ranged from a circular saw, an electric drill, a sand wedge, a golf umbrella, and a ball retriever to gift certificates for Oasis, McDonald's and Elias Brothers. Everyone won a prize and everyone had a great time.

Area businesswomen will be learning how to project a "Positive Image" this year.

They will, that is, if they join the newly-organized Mayflower Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association.

"Positive Image" was the theme chosen by the 100,000 members of the ABWA for 1979 at a convention held in Atlanta, Ga., last October.

The Mayflower Chapter will have an introduction tea at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Sept. 24, in the home of Sally Burkholder. Interested women should call Ms. Burkholder, 453-4190, or Linda Dawe, 981-2501.

The chapter currently has 29 members, all of whom are employed in various business fields. They come from Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Novi, Livonia and Westland.

MEETINGS WILL be held in various restaurants. The next three will be at the Hillside Inn in Plymouth. Meetings will be the third Tuesday of each month, with cocktails at 6:30 p.m., and dinner at 7.

Each will feature a business-related speaker and a general meeting.

New officers were installed at a dinner meeting at Plymouth Landing.

ABWA BEGAN in 1949 in Kansas City, Mo., and currently has 1600 chapters throughout the U.S.

ABWA sponsors scholarships through a national educational fund for women to further their educations and careers in fields in which they might otherwise be unable get involved. More than $1 million is awarded annually by the group.

This year's convention will be Oct. 25-28 in Minneapolis, Minn. There will be a post-convention tour to London, with an optional trip to Scotland and Ireland.

Membership in the organization offers several benefits, including special rates on group tours, plus discounts or special corporate rates at a variety of resorts and hotels.

Each year, the group selects an American Business Woman of the Year and 10 top business women of ABWA.

The 1979 group includes the following: Rebecca Doyle, president, Tri-City Title Co., Clearwater, Fla.; Jo Baumann, supervisor, Pre-Trial Release, Correctional Services, Des Moines, Iowa; Betty Braughton, administrative assistant, Associated Electric Co-op, Inc., Springfield, Mo.; Vivian Gardner, owner/broker, Century 21, Wilmington, N.C.; Marjorie Hubbard, principal, South West Junior High School, Little Rock, Ark.; Phyllis Judge, engineer, Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph, Miami, Fla.; Carol Kehrman, administrator, New Hope Living and Learning Center, St. Louis, Mo.; Carla Llatin, administrator, Division of Purchasing and Property Control, Cheyenne, Wyo.; Marjorie Pendleton, director, financial operations, Jones, Day, Reavis and Pogue, Cleveland, Ohio; and Deana Roberts, aerospace product planner, McDonnell Douglas, Long Beach, Calif.

Mastectomees can discuss their problems

In an effort to deal with the social, marital, vocational and economic concerns of women who have had breast cancer, a discussion group is to be formed to meet from Sept. 26 to Nov. 14 in the Oakland Service Center office of the Michigan Cancer Foundation. Hours are from 3:30-5 p.m. The center is at 4224 Woodward, Royal Oak.

The group will be led by a specially trained nurse and social worker. Enrollment is limited, and there is no fee.

"Our groups are structured so that participants can freely discuss their concerns, fears and difficulties surrounding the total cancer experience," said Jane Schaefer, coordinator of rehabilitation services for the foundation. "The supportive atmosphere within the groups encourages the expression of feelings."

To register call the center at 549-4600.

Fred Andres will be one of the featured musicians at a "Music Matinee Walk" in Dearborn the afternoon of Sunday, Sept. 30. A Plymouth Salem High senior, Andres has been studying the harp for seven years.

'Music Walk' stars harpist

A 17-year-old Plymouth student, Fred Andres, will be one of the featured artists in an unusual musical event taking place in Dearborn Sunday, Sept. 30.

The program will have a mobile audience. Guests will visit four homes in a "Music Matinee Walk," sponsored by the Fairlane Music Guild. In each home, they will be treated to a 20-minute musical presentation by a far from pedestrian variety of soloists and groups.

Andres, a senior at Plymouth Salem High School, will play four selections on his harp. They are Concerto in B flat by Handel, "Tango" by Carlos Salzedo, "Impromptu Caprice" by Pierne and "Chanson dans la Nuit," also by Salzedo.

Andres, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Andres of Ridge Road, first started studying the harp when he was 10 years old. He chose this instrument because "I like its sounds."

His teacher is Nadia Marks, who is also a Plymouth resident.

He is a member of the high school orchestra and appeared with the Plymouth Symphony in its last two concerts of the 1978-79 season. He played for several years with the Scandanavian Symphony Orchestra.

Andres would like to join the Detroit Civic Orchestra and is looking forward to auditions.

His ultimate goal is to have a career in music and to attend the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia.

Programs will also be presented on Sunday by Craig Lusk, a jazz organist; a baroque group playing recorders and a harpsichord; an operatic singer; and a clarinetist and flautist.

Tickets, at $5 each, may be ordered from Mrs. Van D. Mericas, 23000 Hollander, Dearborn 48l280. Checks should be made out to the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Tickets, plus maps, will be sent to those placing orders. The maps will indicate the home on Claremont Street, at which each member of the adudience will begin the walk. Each program will be presented three times, and starting houses will be staggered, so no one house or performance should be too crowded.

The walk will take place between 3 and 5:30 p.m. At the last house, complimentary champagne will be served.

Star-Ramage

Mr. and Mrs. Michael James Kennedy are living in Ypsilanti following their Aug. 18 wedding in Calvary Baptist Church of Canton Township. The Rev. G. Douglas Routledge officiated.

Her attendants were Susan Lammot of Livonia, maid of honor; Cindy Humphrey of Elkhart, Ind. and Lisa Ramage, sister of the bride, bridesmaids. They wore sheer light green three-tiered gowns and carried bouquets of daisies in assorted colors.

Shawn Kennedy, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Groomsmen were Don Ramage, the bride's brother, and Jim Branecki of Miami, Fla. Bob Pringle and Jim Stout, both of Plymouth, were ushers. Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents, the couple honeymooned in Toronto.

The bride is a 1977 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. She is employed at the Plymouth Center for Human Development. The bridegroom graduated from Plymouth Salem High in 1976 and is a student at Eastern Michigan University. He is employed at the Copper Rivet.

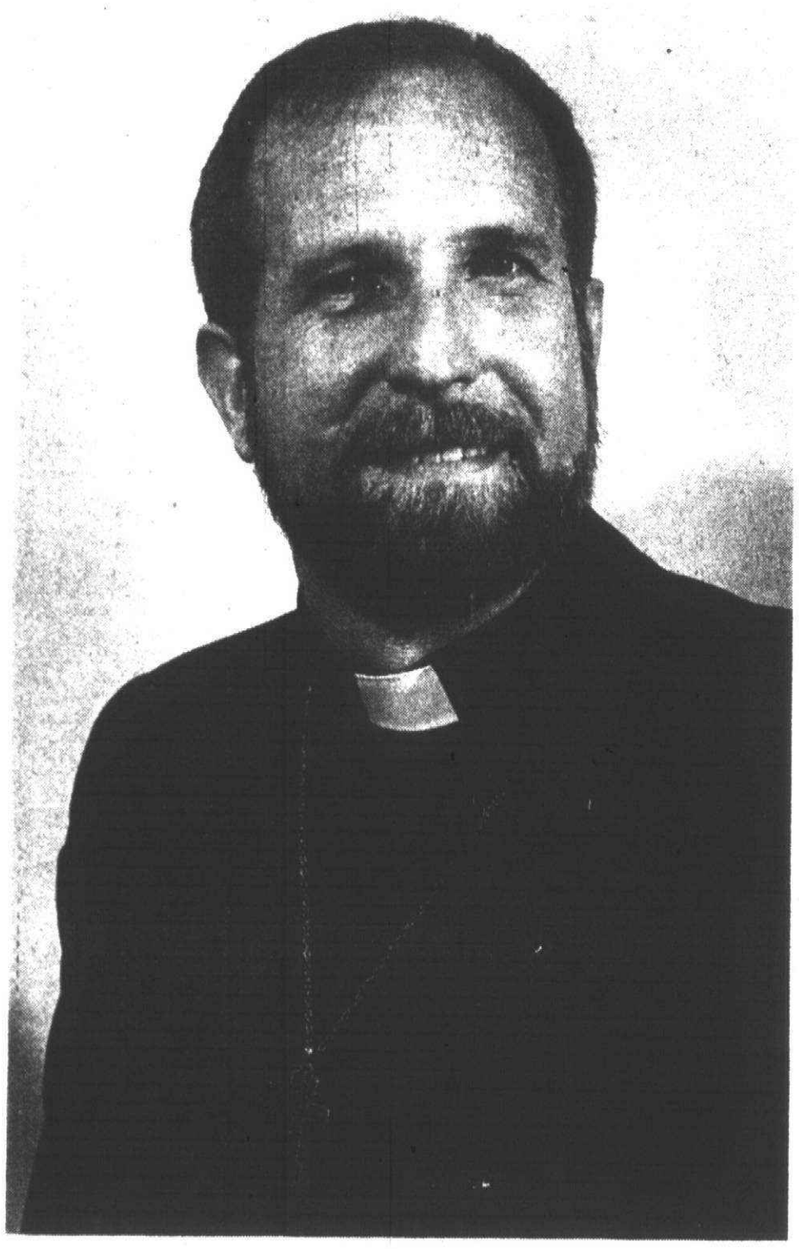
Byzantine rite has mystery



REV. THOMAS CHELENA

A conversation with the Rev. Thomas Chelena turned naturally toward a discussion of the differences in rites between the Byzantine Catholic Church and the Roman Catholic Church.

As the new pastor of Sacred Heart Byzantine Catholic Church in Livonia, Fr. Thomas is, of course, an enthusiastic follower of the former, rejoicing in its drama and mystery. His background is Slavic and the church was always an important part of his life.

"In the matter of faith and doctrine there is little difference between the Roman rite and the Byzantine rite," he pointed out. "But in the matter of expression of faith and doctrine there is a great difference.

"For example, the Byzantine rite emphasizes the mystery of God's presence. It is very ceremonial and elaborate in its expression. In Roman rite the emphasis is more factual, humanistic and plain."

The Byzantine church is elaborate in order to create heaven on earth, he explained: It is highly decorated with Byzantine art such as icons. These are images of the Lord emphasizing the spirit rather than the humanness. They are to give the impression of mystery.

"Originally, people went to this church because of its ethnic appeal," continued the new pastor, who took the place of the Rev. Josephy Fedyszak, who is now back at his former assignment as pastor of St. John Byzantine Catholic Church in Minneapolis.

"NEW PEOPLE HAVE chosen to belong because of our emphasis on mystery. Many Roman rite Catholics are coming because of the experience they have with mystery. It contrasts with the simplicity now in the Roman rite."

The Byzantine church uses the speech of those among whom the church is situated. At Sacred Heart, of course, it is English. Somewhere else it might be Hungarian. Occasionally hymns are sung in a Slavic language at Sacred Heart, but most of them are in English.

Fr. Thomas mentioned that in all Catholic churches there is a basic format and theme, but in the expression is different.

"In presenting the word of God we don't just open the Bible and read," he pointed out. "We carry the Bible in a procession and enthrone it on the altar. The gospel is solemnly carried to where the gospel is announced. We chant the gospel."

"Visual aids" were the words Fr. Thomas chose to describe his church's method of teaching.

"Our Lord used many means of communication," he said. "We have to, too. Our chandelier is the symbol of Christ as the light of the world. We turn it on during part of the liturgy to symbolize that Christ is present and shedding light on us."

AS HE SEES IT, the role of the church is to help people come closer to God. "That is a big task," he said.

He also feels that the people who come to the church feel a closeness for each other.

"Our church is not a neighborhood church," commented Fr. Thomas. "People come here from all the western suburbs. But we are not large. We have about 450 members. We are close with one another. We feel this is our church.

"The amount of work done on our festival is amazing. People work as though they were doing something for their family."

One of the activities this year is an educational program for children on Saturday. Just initiated is a program for junior high students to be held following the Sunday morning liturgy.

The young adult group, for those 18 and older, will have its first meeting from 6-9 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 23 in the church.

Fr. Thomas, whose most recent church was in Fairview Park near Cleveland, did his seminary work at SS. Cyril and Methodius Byzantine Catholic Seminary in Pittsburgh. He was ordained in 1968, and served in Euclid, Ohio; Gary, Ind. and East Chicago, Ind. before going to Fairview Park.

CHURCH BULLETIN

CALVARY MISSIONARY CHURCH, 29850 Six Mile, Livonia, will welcome the Rev. Quinton Everest for 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. services on Sunday, Sept. 23, and 30 and Oct. 7. He is founder and pastor of "Your Worship Hour," a religious broadcast for 47 years.

REV. QUINTON EVEREST

FAITH BAPTIST CHURCH of Dearborn Heights will have a gospel magician, the Rev. Alan Barr, as its featured attraction at the Metro-Child Evangelism Fellowship's annual workshop Saturday, Sept. 22. He will be there from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Workshops will be held on how to lead a child to Christ, material organization, and song making. Two additional classes, the art of listening to your family, and developing an appreciative spirit in your children, aim at enriching family life.Teaching will be the Rev. Tom Frank, general director of Metro CEF.

If you long to know how to give your all on stage, or if you want to learn something about writing, dancing or other theatrical skills, harken. There will be a drama workshop in the area Saturday, Sept. 22.

Jewish High Holy Days begin Friday

According to Jewish tradition, on Rosh Hashanah, the "Book of Life" is opened by God. In this book will be inscribed who will live, who will die, who will be born, who will prosper and who will suffer ir the coming year.

Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year and Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, are considered the most important days of the Jewish calendar.

Rosh Hashanah begins this year at sundown Friday, Sept. 21 and ends at sundown Sunday, Sept. 23.

Yom Kippur, the holiest day of the Jewish year, is observed sundown, Sunday, Sept. 30 until sundown Monday, Oct. 1.

At the end of Yom Kippur, God's Book of Life is closed and a person's fate is sealed.

The days between Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur are known as the 10 days of Penitence. During this time, Jews reflect on their deeds over the past year and ask for forgiveness from God and their fellow human being.

On Yom Kippur, Jews atone for their sins and transgressions of the previous year. Although no work or entertainment is allowed on Rosh Hashanah, Yom Kippur is an even more intense day.

All persons over the age of 13 are expected to fast for 24 hours. Religious services are held continuously on Yom Kippur.

In the year 1979, Jews around the world will celebrate the beginning of the Jewish year of 5740. The Jewish year is dated from the Biblical creation of the world.

Jewish people greet one another with a wish that "you may be inscribed in the Book of Life for a good year," on Rosh Hashanah.

Yom Kippur, in contrast, is the most solemn day of the entire year. There is no eating, drinking or entertainment allowed on Yom Kippur.

On the eve of the Day of Atonement, the prayer service begins with the Kol Nidre, a famous prayer chanted by the cantor in each congregation. The day ends with the sounding of the Shofar, or ram's horn. Families return home to break the fast together.

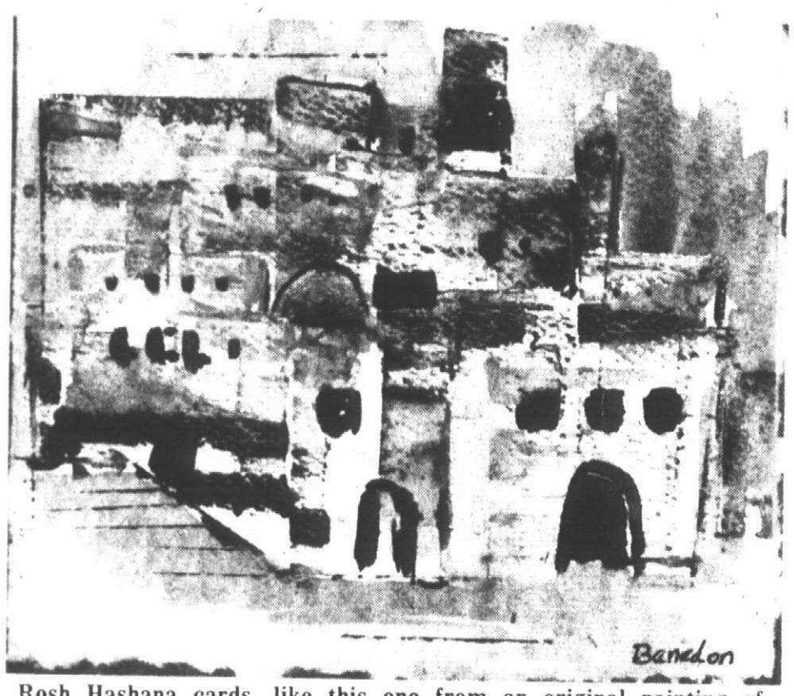
The High Holy Days, as most Jewish holidays, are celebrated both in the home and synagogue.

A festive family meal marks the beginning of the new year at Rosh Hashanah. Each member of the family traditionally eats a slice of apple dipped in honey as the symbol of the sweet year to come.

In the synagogue, the blowing of the shofar continues a tradition as old as the Jewish people. The ram's horn has been used by Jews continuously from ancient times to the present.

It is sounded on Rosh Hashanah as the herald of God, the King of the universe, who judges all humanity.

Without the sense or revelry, parties and loud celebrations of the secular new year's arrival, Rosh Hashanah is considered a joyous occasion for the Jewish people and a time to reaffirm their faith and their traditions.



Rosh Hashana cards, like this one from an original painting of Jerusalem by Roz Benedon, are part of the Jewish High Holy Days that begin Sept. 21.

Congregation plans holiday services

Rosh Hashana services will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 21 in the Livonia Jewish Congregation, 31840 Seven Mile. They will also be held at 8 p.m. on Sept. 22 and 23.

Yom Kippur services will take place at 7 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 30 and at 8:30 a.m. Monday, Oct. 1.

Outdone

Some birds are more finely feathered than others, the National Geographic Society says. Accoding to one scientist's count, a Cuban hummingbird had 940 feathers; a robin, 2587; a mourning dove, 2,635; a glaucous-winged gull, 6540; a Plymouth Rock chicken, 8,325; a mallard, 11,903; and a swan, 25,216.

Tipping the Scales

NANCY AUSTIN

A turn off to food may be caused chemically

Views, opinions and experiences usually are what fill the lines of this column each month. But once a month, I like to relate the latest news about diets, products, medical advances and technology in the world of dieting. Knowing what is going on lends hope to those who suffer the pain of obesity, the struggle with weight loss, and the test of maintenance.

The root cause of anorexia nervosa is being studied by doctors all over the world. (Anorexia is a condition in which the victim suffers an aversion to food.) Commonly believed to be of psychological origin, this theory is now being challenged.

Dr. P.D. Edminson of Oslo Norway has found that laboratory animals injected with a chemical extracted from patients with the disorder. An aversion to food lasted for weeks. Implication: perhaps it is of chemical origin in the body, rather than psychological.

AT THE OPPOSITE end of the scale are those people who have a conditon known as Bulimia, an incurable appetite which leads to obesidty. Counseling of patients to find the root of the problem is all that seems to help.

Dr. Maurice Prout, a clinical psychologist from Philadelphia has identified and treated people with a combination of anorexia and bulimea. Bulimarexia patients eat compulsively, then purge themselves to comfort themselves.

The condition is likely to strike women from 18-30-years old. They are college graduates, intelligent, have well-paying jobs, a stable family life and are slim. They deal with a distorted image of themselves, and feel that their method of weight control helps cope with depression and anxieties.

All victims of these disorders require constant supervision of a physician and often require hospitalization to prevent death starvation.

CERTAIN DISEASES of aging don't have to occur, according to Dr. Robert Good of the Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center. If people would cut their calorie intake to 2800 calories a day and their daily fat intake by one-third, they would more effectively be able to fight aging diseases such as rheumatoid arthritis.

True or False: Proteins have unique properties that promote weight loss. False .According to the Harvard Medical School, a calorie is a calorie. Proteins don't promote weight loss any better than fats or carbohydrates, as the old theory used to purport.

Joseph Arends, M.D., cardiovascular health expert who practices preventive medicine in Troy shares, some facts and tips with us.

Eating large amounts of meat, fish or poultry while on a diet makes it difficult to lose weight. Dr. Arends says, "The majority of people do not understand that one ounce or poultry is equal to approximately 75 calories whether you barbecue it or run it through a warm kitchen. The usual ten ounce steak in a restaurant is equal to 750 calories."

He also warns us to watch how much salad dressing we use when dieting. One tablespoon of dressing contains about 110 calories. The two ladles you use in the restaurant salad bar addes about 500-600 calories. Use diet dressing, and use that sparingly.

An interesting fact he shares with us: Raw vegetables are digested more slowly than cooked vegetables. They, therefore, provide greater appetite suppression for a longer period of time.

Learn tennis

Tennis lessons for budding Bjorn Borgs ages 7 and older will begin Saturday at the Plymouth Canton High tennis courts.

Joe Brennan, a tennis player for the University of Detroit, is the instructor for the classes being offered by the Canton, Northville, Plymouth Family YMCA.

The classes will be from 4-5:30 p.m. Saturday on Sept. 22, 29 and from 5:30-7 p.m. Sundays on Sept. 23, 30.

The fee is $9 for YMCA members and $13 for non-members. To register call the YMCA at 453-2904.

There is no limit for the adult classes but there is a maximum of eight children per class for the youth training.

James Jabara (left) presents a check for $5,000 from the Plymouth Kiwanis Foundation to Sanford Burr who accepts for the Plymouth Historical Museum.

Museum awarded $5,000 by Kiwanis

The Plymouth Historical Museum has received a contribution of $5,000 from the Plymouth Kiwanis Foundation for recording equipment.

The grant will be used to purchase special tape recording equipment which will be installed at each exhibit in the museum.

A taped oral description and history of each exhibit will then be available to the viewer merely by pushing a button.

The balance of the $5,000 grant, after the recording equipment is purchased and installed, will be used to underwrite the cost of tours taken to the museum for a classroom activity by school children of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The money for the grant was raised by the Kiwanis Foundation through the Travel and Adventure Series.

The Kiwanis Foundation is a joint effort of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club and the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth.

The Foundation is a non-profit corporation recognized by IRS so that all contributions and bequests are deductible for federal income tax and estate tax purposes.

The foundation receives its income from Kiwanis Club projects, private donations, and from bequests from estates.

Stereo shops agree to offer rain checks

Tech Hi-Fi stereo stores have agreed to stop requiring customers to pay for out-of-stock sale items in advance of delivery, according to Attorney General Frank Kelley.

In an agreement reached recently with the attorney general's office, Stereo Component Systems, which owns Tech Hi-Fi, said it would give customers "rain checks" if an advertised sale item is sold out.

The Massachusetts-based company, which has stores in Farmington, Rochester and Livonia, had been requiring customers to pay for sale items in advance with credit cards. The agreement provides that consumers won't have to pay for an item until delivery, according to the attorney general's office.

The state investigated after it received a consumer complaint on the stereo store practice. Tech Hi-Fi paid the state $500 for investigation costs, Kelley said.

State law requires that a sale advertisement include either the dates of the sale or the number of available advertised items. If the ad doesn't specify the number, the merchant must provide rainchecks if the item is sold out.

A raincheck guarantees the consumer will receive either the advertised item or a substitute item of the same or higher value within 90 days.

Governor's visit

District Governor Frank J. Sladen Jr., leader of Rotary International District 640, will make his official visit to the Plymouth Rotary Club at noon Friday, Oct. 5, reports President Norman Druce. The Plymouth club is one of 47 in District 640 which comprises Wayne, Monroe and Lenawee counties in Michigan and Essex County in Ontario. Sladen, owner of a book store in Grosse Pointe Farms, has been a Rotarian for 21 years. "All of us in Plymouth Rotary are looking forward to our day with him so that our future efforts here will be in tune with the times, and in tune with Rotary's 75-year course of service," said Druce.

Suburbs team up to regionalize sewer control

By TIM RICHARD

Western Wayne County communities are beginning to line up with their Oakland County neighbors in an effort to regionalize political control of the Detroit Water and Sewer Department.

"Regional" is stil a word that makes seven out of 10 suburban politicians run the other way, as Westland Mayor Tom Taylor pointed out Friday during a meeting in Livonia City Hall. Community leaders at the meeting represented 13 Wayne county suburbs.

But the consensus was to back an initiative petition proposing a state law for the 1980 ballot. Those present felt a regional plan would best assure efficient water and sewer services at nondiscriminatory prices.

"It has to be simple," advised state Rep. Tom Brown, D-Westland, referring to the legal changes to be presented to voters.

THE PETITION process will mean a quarter of a million petition signatures to be collected in a massive, bipartisan effort.

"But maybe the time to act is now," said Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara, a veteran of many battles with the Detroit Water and Sewer Department (DWSD).

McNamara evaluated the alternatives:

- An act of the Michigan Legislature — A bill to reform the water board, to allow suburban communities to pick their own members. This kind of bill has been shot down repeatedly in the legislature. It took major efforts to pass such "housekeeping" bills as requiring the DWSD to give 120 days notice of proposed rate increases and to be audited annually.
- Court battles. It has taken two years of litigation to determine that some rates were unfairly computed, for example. So this process is plainly cumbersome.
- A regional authority approved by voters.

OAKLAND COUNTY Drain Commissioner George W. Kuhn, who is stirring up the petition effort, summed up the political issue: "Do we want to be always subservient to the Detroit Water Board, who reports to no one but the man upstairs?"

The "man upstairs" was one of the few direct references to Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, who appoints all seven members of the water board — four Detroiters and three suburbanites — and can remove any at will.

As mayor of Berkley in the early 1960s, Kuhn recalled, he and other mayors and township supervisors had fought Detroit's proposed non-resident income tax. By uniting, they were able to place petition forms at every clerk's and treasurer's window in their respective city and township halls.

That effort led to a term (1967-70) in the state senate for Kuhn in a district which included Farmington, the lakes area of Oakland County, Livonia, Plymouth and Northville. Kuhn was defeated in the 1970 Republican primary by Carl Pursell, now a U.S. representative.

A conservative Republican, Kuhn didn't get quite the same warm reception Friday as he got in an Oakland County meeting a week earlier, where community representatives unanimously supported a resolution asking him to move ahead on the petition drive.

The western Wayne response was noticeably cooler — but the result was the same. No one opposed the effort, and Mayor Taylor and Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert found themselves appointed to a steering committee to guide the project.

TAYLOR TOLD the group that Westland and Canton have joined forces in a suit against the DWSD and the state health department because $20 million in new developments in their towns is being held up.

Water pressure in northwest Westland and northeast Canton is low, Taylor said. A water project to serve this growth area has been engineered, but the city of Detroit said, "We can't build because of litigation" Taylor reported — even though Westland and Canton have offered to underwrite the bonds.

"They are using Canton and Westland as hostage, as bait in the litigation," Taylor said.

Robert Fredericks, Kuhn's deputy, agreed. "It wasn't the lawsuit that held up your projects. They were 'using' the suit."

Fredericks, an attorney, has been involved in most of the rate case fights against Detroit since 1975.

Taylor said the Canton-Westland suit seeks to enjoin any new water projects until all existing service areas have adequate water pressure. The Westland mayor said such a suit might make him unpopular with fellow suburban customers, but added, "I don't propose to let my community dangle."

Rotary thanks volunteer help

The 124 members of the Rotary Club of Plymouth depended on volunteers once again to serve more than 16,000 chicken dinners at this month's Fall Festival.

Without the volunteer help, says Rotarian Robert Sparling, the task would have been impossible. This year, some 70 swimmers from the Plymouth-Canton area were among the 139 volunteers who registered on "Chicken Sunday" to help.

"Not only do Rotarians appreciate the physical help, but also the willing enthusiasm that lifted the spirits when bodies weakened," said Sparling.

"Rotarians and the community join in thanking these volunteers who truly are 'the best of Plymouth.'"

By JIM WINDELL

For 45 years, there has been one night club that has consistently brought high quality jazz to the Motor City.

In fact, it is the world's oldest and longest-running jazz night club. Located at Livernois and Eight Mile Road in Detroit, Baker's Keyboard Lounge hsa been hosted by the genial Clarence Baker for most of those years.

Baker is more rotund now than he was in 1939, when his father sufferrd a stroke and young Baker took over the family business.

"It all started in 1934," Clarence Baker, now 60, said in a recent interview. "My Dad, Chris Baker, originally started it in a small place that had sandwiches and beer. At first, and for several years, we just had a pianist who played in the evenings.

"THEN, WE BEGAN to bring in a better caliber of musician from out of town and we had a swinging place, even for those days."

The food business for Baker's was very good in the mid-'30s and Chris Baker supported his family quite well. But a stroke in 1939 forced Clarence to take a leave of absence from his job as field man in the mortgage department of Manufacturer's Bank in downtown Detroit and come north to Eight Mile to help out.

He never was to return to the bank.

'The safest bet is with the young people and rock acts. Then, however, it's the group that gets all the money. And if you have one bad concert, it might wipe you out for 10 good ones.'
— Clarence Baker

"The entertainment business was getting better," Baker recalls, "and the food business was great. We had too much business and people would be lined up waiting outside trying to get in to hear what was going on.

"I thought that something had to go, so I threw out the food and went strictly on entertainment."

That is something of an understatement. Since the late 1930s, Baker's has employed the most exciting jazz musicians in the world.

"WE HAVE HAD every jazz pianist you can think of," Baker said, simply stating a fact. "Art Tatum, Andre Previn, Oscar Peterson, Teddy Wilson, Earl Hines, Dave Brubeck, Erroll Garner, George Shearing. Any pianist you ever heard of, we had them all."

It has not only been piano players. Trumpet players, tenor sax men, vibes players, blues singers and drummers. They have all been at the 100-seat lounge at one time or another. Clarence Baker has miseed few of the big names in jazz. But he has missed some.

"Barbra Streisand was one. She sprang right up by me," Baker said. "She was singing at the Caucas Club downtown where I got to know her and admire her style. A year later, I tried to buy her and her price was already out of sight for me.

"Also, Nat King Cole was one of my big frustrations. When he started to do stand-up singing full time, he went up like a meteor price-wise. But, he would come in here often and sit up at the piano. He played as a guest many times."

...but off work, he just sails through

By JIM WINDELL

Clarence Baker, a Southfield resident, has kept his sanity by having another life, one which he rarely shares with friends from the jazz world.

Inside the door, around the piano-shaped bar of Baker's Keyboard Lounge, are dozens of photos of Clarence Baker with jazz greats who have visited his club.

ALMOST HIDDEN among the pictures behind the bar is another photo. A 48-foot sloop named the X-Touche, a German-built sailboat, battles choppy waves. That picture provides an important clue to a little-known Clarence Baker.

"That's a side of my life I really have tried to keep separate from here," Baker said, referring to his famous jazz club.

"Maybe I've spent as much time sailing as I have running this club."

After some 30 years of sailing, Baker sold his last boat a year ago. "Believe me," he said, "this was a lonesome summer without a boat. I really missed it."

There was one consolation for him this summer. The Detroit Yacht Club voted him their man of the year.

"You should know," he said, "that they don't do that for just anybody. That was for sailing. It had nothing to do with being the owner of a jazz club."

THAT DISTINCTIVE award from the Detroit Yacht Club indicates how successful the former Detroiter was at a hobby he says provided a "release from reality."

For four years, he was a sailing champion, winning Mackinac races, and over the years winning races on every one of the Great Lakes.

"I was even champion of the Great Lakes," he said, warming up to his favorite conversation.

During the three years Baker owned the X-Touche, it had the winning touch. "That boat won the Chicago to Mackinac race and the Port Huron to Mackinac race. It was Class A Champion in Detroit two years in a row. With it, I won just about every trophy on the Great Lakes."

While he said that he is "over the hill for racing now," Baker will find more placid kinds of relaxations away from his club. He and his wife Francis will do more traveling such as they did this last summer when they vacationed in Toronto and Montreal.

His 30-year marriage to Francis also has been a part of his life away from the nightclub. "She doesn't enter into the business at all," he says.

FINDING A RELEASE from the pressures of the music business was important to Clarence Baker. As he looks at the photo of the X-Touche he says, "I was very successful at sailing. Very few people know bout it. I'm proud of what I did.

"I'd get out in that sailboat with nothing but the wind and the waves and my crew and the boat . . ."

And the world of jazz is put into perspective.

Balloons to soar Saturday in Novi

This weekend, 20 professional hot air balloon pilots will float into Detroit in competition on the second Kool Pro Balloon Tour.

Two races are planned for Saturday — 7:45-9 a.m. and 4-5 p.m. at the eastern end of Twelve Oaks Mall, I-96 at Novi Road. In case of bad weather, the events will be held Sunday.

The six-story balloons will be tethered on Friday afternoon at Belle Isle in Detroit for public viewing.

The field of entrants on Saturday includes current two-time world champion Paul Woessner of New Mexico and Colvin Rouse of Florida.

Before coming to Detroit, the balloonists raced in New York, Houston, Chicago and Atlanta. From here, they will go to Nashville.

THE COMPETITIONS are known as "hare and hound" races. One balloon, called the "hare," takes off 15 minutes before the others and climbs to a height of 1,000 feet.

The hare tries to elude the "hounds," selecting a landing spot as the target area. The closest hound to the target is the winner. The pilot accumulating the most points in the two races will be the local winner.

A $5,000 purse in each city on the tour is divided among the top 10 finishers, with the winner receiving $1,500. Pilots also gather points throughout the tour, with the overall champ receiving $5,000 at the end of the circuit in November.

Going into the Detroit races, the field is led by David Eastland of Nashville.

"It's one of the great visual spectacles in sport," says Bradley Broecker, an executive of Brown & Williamson, the sponsoring firm. "And in this day and age, it's unique as a professional sport because there is no price of admission."

HOT AIR ballooning dates back to a smoke-filled balloon which rose over Versailles, France in 1783. It is considered man's oldest form of flight.

Today, the crafts are powered by bursts of propane flame and have floated to heights of 45,000 feet. The cost of ballooning is relatively inexpensive, with the average rig costing $5,000 to $8,000, complete with burners and instruments such as compasses, altimeters and radios.

Northville play opens Saturday

"Brigadoon," a Lerner and Loewe musical, opens at the Marquis Theater in Northville this Saturday night for a two-weekend run.

This is the fourth production of Performing Artists Unlimited, a local repertory company.

In the story, two New Yorkers are lost while hunting in Scotland. They discover Brigadoon — a village which exists only one day a century — while townspeople are gathering in the market square to sell their wares and discuss plans for an upcoming wedding.

Ticket information is available by calling 349-8110. The theater is located at 135 E. Main in downtown Northville.

To date, the film has been seen in America only at the New York Film Festival and the Los Angeles Film Exposition (standing room only). "The Shout" will be shown in Detroit using the museum's recently installed Dolby stereo sound system.

Sunday's "The Silent Clowns" series will feature Harry Langdon's 1927 "Long Pants," the 1926 "For Heaven's Sake" starring Harold Lloyd, and Charles Chaplin's 1916 short, "The Vagabond." Only one showing is scheduled, at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Business is jazzy to Clarence Baker

The club became Baker's Keyboard Lounge in the '30s at the suggestion of one of their first and best house pianists, Pat Flowers, who thought that the name should reflect what was done best at the club.

ONE OF THE reasons Baker's can claim the title of the "World's Oldest Jazz Club" is because Clarence Baker is a shrewd businessman. He says the reason he survived when jazz clubs all over the country were folding is because his club is small and he can control the overhead.

"You have to run a tight ship in this business," he declares. Many night clubs and lounges try to go too big and plush. "They figure if they have a lot of seats they can hire bigger names. It's the big name that will break you.

"If you are paying an entertainer $2,000 a night and you get an ice storm and only 20 people come in your door, it doesn't take too many of those nights before you have lost $100 or $150,000."

Baker believes that few promoters or club owners can consistently foresee what the public will buy.

"The safest bet is with the young peole and rock acts. Then, however, it's the group that gets all the money. And if you have one bad concert, it might wipe you out for 10 good ones," he said.

He will occasionally gamble with a one-night concert, but only when the odds are in his favor. He has produced such concerts with Chuck Mangione and Earl Klugh. In neither case did he lose money.

There are other reasons for the success of Baker's Keyboard Lounge. "We have a good location. It is central and easy to get to from the east side, downtown or Birmingham."

ALSO, HIS CLUB caters to music lovers. "We try to run a strict place. You don't see people out of line in here. If they don't come to listen to music, then they're in the wrong place. If anyone gets too drunk or too noisy, we tell them that people have come here to listen to the music. They know they are in the wrong place and they leave."

Always the business man, Baker may enjoy jazz but he knows that the music could not exist year after year in his club if he did not run a tight operation with both the customers and the musicians.

Pearl Bailey to open pops at Music Hall

Announcing a new season of pop entertainment, Detroit's Music Hall Center has engaged some of the brightest stars in show business for its 1979-80 Headliner Series.

This year's parade of celebrities offers five shows from the fast-moving style of Ben Vereen to the memorable favorites of Billy Eckstine and Count Basie.

On opening Night of Music Hall's Headliner Series, the spotlight focuses on the beloved Pearl Bailey. Famous for her role in "Porgy & Bess" and her Tony award-wining performance in "Hello, Dolly!" Ms. Bailey appears Nov. 13-18 with world-renowned drummer Lou Bellson.

Just three weeks later, Music Hall hosts superstar Ben Vereen. Hailed for his performance in "Pippin" and his role as Chicken George in "Roots," Vereen presents his highly acclaimed song-and-dance routines to Detroit audiences during the week of Dec. 4-9.

FROM FEB. 12-17 the talents of Joel Grey will be seen at Music Hall. Winner of both Tony and Oscar Awards for his outstanding performance in "Cabaret," Grey continues to be one of Broadway's most popular personalities.

On April 22-27 the theater will be filled with the favorite sounds of the big band era as Billy Eckstine teams up with Count Basie and His Orchestra.

Then, tentatively scheduled for May 20-25, England's vocal star Cleo Laine and her gifted husband, jazz musician-composer John Dankworth, will wind up Music Hall's 1979-80 Headliner Series.

Each of the Headliner attractions runs from Tuesday-Sunday. This season show time is 8:30 p.m., Tuesday-Friday; Saturday shows are 7 and 10 p.m.; and Sunday offers a matinee at 2 and an evening show at 6:30 p.m.

Season tickets can now be ordered by calling the Music Hall Subscription Office at 963-6943. Visa or Master Charge credit cards are accepted. Single tickets for Headliner attractions will become available Oct. 29.

Nevelson's art at Cranbrook Museum

Sculpture and prints by internationally known artist Louise Nevelson will be shown at Cranbook Academy of Art Museum from Sept. 18 to Oct. 28.

Ms. Nevelson claims to have been born an artist. "I had a blueprint all my life from childhood and I knew exactly what I demanded of this world," she wrote in her book "Dawns and Dusks."

Born in Russia, she moved with her family to Maine in 1905 at the age of 5. Most of her adult life has been spent in New York City.

Her large pieces can be seen in museums, city streets and corporate buildings around the world. Her black wood "Sky Gate — New York," a wall sculpture measuring 17 by 32 feet, is in the World Trade Center in Manhattan.

She has designed everything from benches and wood wall sculptures to the abstract crucifix and priests' vestments in the Erol Beker Chapel in St. Peter's Lutheran Church, New York. Other major works by Ms. Nevelson are in collections throughout the world.

Lat year Bendix Corp. commissioned Ms. Nevelson to create sculpture for its Southfield corporate headquarters, exemplifying the trend of corporate patronage of the arts. The Bendix Trilogy, installed last June in the building's courtyard, are Corten steel and aluminum structures up to 44 feet high and 12 feet in diameter and are painted black.

The exhibition is open Tuesdays-Sundays, from 1-5 p.m. Admission is $1.50.

Guided tours are available. For information, call 645-3312.

Salmon

By LEM MESEE
Outdoors writer

Michigan's waters come alive with salmon — and salmon fishermen — this month, as the annual fall fishing spectacle gets under way.

According to the Automobile Club of Michigan, Great Lakes anglers will be packing the docks. Space at many marinas is expected to be tight, due mainly to the growth in popularity of trolling.

Since 1973, the number of fish taken by trolling has doubled, and now accounts for two-thirds of the chinook and nearly 90 percent of coho salmon.

THE SALMON crowd has moved over the years from rivers to the Great Lakes, primarily because the lake fish are more willing to strike a lure. Lake fishing is as its peak now through mid-October.

Returns from plantings of nearly 4 million 12-pound cohos and 4 million chinooks of up to 40 pounds will darken the waters at "hot spots" around the state (see map).

While stream fishermen should be successful from mid-September through early November, a few rivers will be good until early January. The best river fishing in three years is expected on a trio of Lake Michigan tributaries.

In Lake Superior, northern Lake Huron and in rivers through the Upper Peninsula, runs of the pink, or humpback salmon, will hit. Unlike other salmon or trout, the pinks — smallest of the six Pacific species — spawn only during odd years, spending 3-5 days in rivers and streams.

Once the fish have entered a stream, anglers should look for gravel bars and deep holes nearest the mouth of the stream. When you spot a fish in the spawning area, work the bait in front of its nose. Use 2-4 pound test line with small spinners, bright streamer flies or single salmon eggs.

Best bets for the pinks in the Upper Peninsula are the Montreal, Black and Presque Isle rivers in Gogebic County; the Silver River in Baraga County; the Huron River, Laughing Whitefish and Harlowe Creeks in Marquette County; the Sable River and Seven Mile Creek in Alger County; and the Blind Sucker and Two Hearted rivers in Luce County.

ELSEWHERE IN the state, good chinook runs are expected at Au Gres and, for the first time, in the Flint River. A fish ladder in downtown Flint will allow mature chinook up to Holloway Dam.

A moderate chinook run should occur in the Tawas River at Tawas City, while moderate to good runs of Alaskan-strain coho will come off the Thumb's Diamond Creek near Port Hope.

On Lake Huron, try the Harrisville harbor and the Au Sable at Oscoda. Both will be good through October.

In western Michigan, excellent coho and chinook takes are predicted in the Muskegon and Grand Rivers. Coho also should be plentiful in the Platte River.

And on the Detroit River, coho are expected off Belle Isle sometime late this month.

BY THE WAY, I remind you that the Michigan Department of Public Health advises children and nursing mothers against eating any fish. Others are cautioned to eat no more than a half-pound per week. Salmon from Lakes Michigan and Huron may contain excessive amounts of PCBs.

For details on where and when salmon fishing is permitted in Michigan, consult the Michigan Fishing Guide, published by the Department of Natural Resources. Copies are available at fishing license outlets.

For more up-to-date information on fishing prospects, call the Michigan Travel Bureau's toll-free line, 800-292-2520.

Outdoors

IN OTHER NEWS of the outdoors, the fourth annual hunting and fishing show at Westland Center opens today and runs through Sunday. There will be displays by sportsmen's clubs on ecology, sportsmanship, archery, fly casting and animal lore. The show is sponsored by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

And the Huron-Clinton Metroparks have scheduled a number of events of interest:

• "Floodplain Flora" will be examined along the riverside Paw Paw Nature Trail in Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville at 11 a.m. Sunday. Naturalist Fred Wooley will point out, among other things, several trees uncommon in Michigan. Participants should meet in the parking lot of the Sycamore Bend picnic area.

• An autumn bird walk is scheduled for 9 a.m. Sunday at Kensington Metropark near Milford. Naturalist Bob Hotaling will lead a two-hour search for migrating birds which often feed and rest at Kensington while on their way south. Meet at the Nature Center with binoculars. Reservations are required at 685-1561.

Raven continues under new owners

The Raven Gallery, one of Detroit's oldest live music houses, will officially be under new ownership on Monday, Sept. 24.

Future owners Joseph Kesner and Michael Schwartz say they intend to follow in the Raven's tradition by keeping the coffeehouse atmosphere and high-quality entertainment.

For 20 years, the Raven Gallery has paid homage to local and nationally recognized musicians and artists alike. It helped launch the stardom of such performers as the Irish Rovers, Pat Paulsen, Professor Irwin Corey and Steve Martin.

Some well-known talent which emerged from the Raven and still regularly appear are Buffo, Phil Esser, Josh White Jr., Lori Jacobs and Tom Paxton.

Kesner and Schwartz will continue to bring Detroit's untapped talent to the public. They also plan to import professional performers from Chicago, Toronto, New York and Los Angeles.

"THIS WILL BE supportive as well as a tremendous learning experience for local talent to observe various styles," said Kesner, who will be in charge of booking and nightly operation.

Kesner and Schwartz's past experience in the entertainment business have included the founding of the Troupe of Comedians and Magicians, an organization to help promote aspiring talent.

In conjunction, they published "The Troupe Tribune," a creative outlet for local comedians and comedy writers. Kesner and Schwartz also organized the first dinner comedy theater in the Detroit area and recently produced and managed the Bob-Lo Island Magic and Illusion Show.

Previous owner Kitty Cohen, who has been associated with the Raven for the last 15 years, has been highly instrumental in preserving its roots over the years. She will stay on for the rest of the year as a consultant.

French wines vary, according to region

About an hour's drive to the east from Paris there begins a nearly continuous line of wine regions. They extend south for 250 miles to the shores of the Mediterranean Sea. Some of the world's greatest wines are grown in this vast column of regions — Champagne, Chablis, Burgundy, Beaujolais and, finally, the Cotes du Rhone.

Interestingly, the costs of these wines when they reach our shelves essentially folllow this north/south line, although a statement that places Burgundies in third place to anything seems a bit incredible.

All of these regions have attained justifiable renown, with perhaps only the last being less than very highly esteemed by the world. And that is a shame, for the three subregions of the Cotes du Rhone offer some very notable wines. And they constitute one of the best value regions for the buyer. Many selections are available locally at prices that encourage experimentation.

THE NORTHERNMOST section is the Cote Rotie (Roasted Slopes), a heavily terraced region of huge, tanic wines of great complexity. These should never be drunk young. In maturity they are still forceful and assertive and complement only the heartiest of foods.

Only two grapes are grown here — the beefy Syrah and the complex, white Viognier. Cote Rotie wines are a blend of these two, the white contributing as much as 20 percent of the total to take the rough edges off the Syrah. This white is used exclusively to make the regional Condrieu, well worth seeking out.

The mid-Rhone region is dominated by the name Hermitage (pronounced with a silent H), Crozes-Heritage and Saint-Joseph.

The first of these is best known, producing both a big, hearty, slow-maturing red (again, from Syrah grapes) and a bold, if not especially complex, white (chiefly from Marsonne grapes).

Both require considerable bottle age before they attain a state of gustatory grace. Crozes-Hermitage is distinctly a lesser wine but there are many who swear by Saint-Joseph's softer and more subtle Syrah-based grapes from across the valley. Certainly, the Hermitage is more like the stereotype of a Rhone wine — big and chewey.

A DIFFERENT RED grape enters the scene when the third Rhone area is reached, the Grenache. It and the Syrah and as many as 11 more go into the chief wine of this region, the Chateuneuf-du-Pape.

Generally faster maturing and lighter than its northern red neighbors, this well-known wine is usually drunk much too young. Give it six to eight years to mature into a complex wine. White Chateuneuf-du-Pape is worth seeking out as well. It's a hard, dry accompaniment to shell fish or oysters.

Slightly south and west is Tavel, home of some of the greatest rose wines in the world. Made of the Grenache grape, only California roses come close to the fresh crispness of this fine regional wine.

Attic Theater to start new season

In keeping with the Attic's commitment to original plays, uncommon playwrights and classic theater performed in a new light, Lavinia Moyer, artistic director of the Attic Theatre, has announced that the 1979-80 season will open with Sam Shepard's Pulitzer Prize winning play, "Buried Child."

Subscriptions, for seven mainstage productions, plus bonuses on several Attic special events, are available through Oct. 19.

For further details, call the Attic Theatre at 963-7789 or write P. O. Box 1357, Detroit, 48231.

"Buried Child," which recenty enjoyed a long run at New York's Circle Repertory Company, is an experimental play which won Sam Shepard the 1979 Pulitzer Prize.

IT IS A controversial drama that examines, in often pathetically comic relationships, the deterioration of the American family. Three generations of a midwestern farm family have a strange reunion.

The play will be presented at the Attic Theatre from Oct. 19-Dec. 1.

Following will be "A Midsummer Night's Dream," one of Shakespeare's most popular comedies, done Attic-style. Ron Martell, known to Attic audiences for his direction of "Streamers" and "Emperor of the Moon," and his featured role in "Jesse and the Bandit Queen," will direct the production.

After the Dec. 7-Jan. 19 run, this show will be available for touring in January and February.

From Jan. 25-Feb. 29, "The Oldest Living Graduate," by Preston Jones, will be presented. From Jones' "A Texas Trilogy," the play is a moving and humorous study of a lovably cantankerous old man who will resist to his dying breath a wheeler-dealer son's money-making schemes and the compromises in values they present.

From Stuart Gordon, William J. Norris and John Ostrander, three playwrights of Chicago's Organic Theatre Company, "Bloody Bess: A Tale of Piracy and Revenge" will be presented March 7-April 26.

A SWASHBUCKLING tale of plunder on the high seas — '30s movie style — "Bloody Bess" features one of the fiercest lady pirates ever seen. Following "Bloody Bess" will be the 1980 Attic Theatre Performing Arts Festival, from May 1-25, with Pat Paulsen tentatively scheduled to star in "Waiting for Godot."

The World Premiere of a new Michigan play, selected from the monthly reader's theater series "New Playwright's Forum," will run May 30-July 5. A Commedia dell'Arte production, in the manner of last year's "The Emperor of the Moon," will be presented July 11-Aug. 16.

Under consideration are Goldoni's "The Servant of Two Masters" and Gozzi's "The King Stag." Under consideration for the final show of the season, Aug. 22-Sept. 26, are "Getting Out," by Marsha Norman; "Lunch Girls" by Leigh Curran; and a play by Bertolt Brecht.

Mrs. Moyer said of the 1979-80 play selections, "This season represents a challenge in thought and emotion, not only to our acting company but to the audience as well. I can promise the audience will never walk away bored.

Woodworker prefers being practical

By LOUISE OKRUTSKY

Pressing wood against molded metals, he creates sculpture as well as utilitarian objects in his Avon Township workshop.

Sometimes, the two purposes coincide and art becomes a useful part of the home. It's within Kaczor's philosophy toward his work.

"Being an artist is a job. There's nothing abstract about it. Lots of artists try to be abstract. They can't be reached as an individual when you talk with them. They haven't reached themselves as individuals," said Kaczor, 36.

Almost from the beginning of his career, Kaczor combined the need to create art with the need to earn a living.

Most of his income stems from commissions he receives through builders and other artists. He recently finished working with Vertue Studios in Southfield in designing a chapel for the Bay Medical Center of Bay City.

Surrounded by stained glass which is lit to give the illusion of a large window overlooking the outdoors, Kaczor's contribution takes the shape of a twisting tree carved from black walnut.

IN BRASS AND wood, the lectern carries the legend, 'Let kindness comfort me.'

The patterns in the tree branches reach toward the heavens and complement the stained glass behind it. It is a peaceful scene.

It's the effect Kaczor wanted to achieve.

"It was a challenge to work with the best in stained glass. Some artists I've talked to felt it wasn't a nice thing to do to myself," he said.

But he believes that by working to complement the other artist instead of competing, he has matured his abilities.

Part of the work for the tree involved inventing woodworking techniques which would help him bring out aspects of the wood and its grain.

Inventing ways to achieve certain effects in his work has been part of his style from college days spent at the University of California at Fullerton and the University of the Americas in Puebla, Mexico.

By the time he earned his Master of Fine Arts at Cranbrook Academy of Art, he was on his way to inventing tools which would help him form metal to suit his needs. His workshop is filled with tools of his own design.

"I TRY TO STAY away from accidents," he said, referring to artists who rely on spontaneity. "That's a lot of hogwash that was prevalent through the '60's."

During his class in jewelry making at Oakland Community College Auburn Heights Campus, Kaczor stresses knowledge over spontaneity.

"I tell students this spontaneity is a ridiculous way to approach the work. Later if a client asks them to work in a particular medium, they won't know how to handle it."

Although he earns most of his living through projects completed on commission, he enjoys his part-time teaching post.

"Teaching is a source of communications. If I stayed in this boat all by myself for the rest of my life, I'd be in trouble. Others have lots to offer. There are no prima donnas in the classes. I learn from teaching.

Using his own tools and his carpenter's knowledge, Kaczor doesn't rely on title to insure his works say what he intended.

"If it can't speak for itself, it's my fault and that's all there is to it."

Guarnieri Trio at Ponchartrain

Chuck Muer's TOP Jazz will present the Jonny Guarnieri Trio Monday, Sept. 24, 6-10 p.m., in the Hotel Pontchartrain's penthouse Top of the Pontch, in Detroit.

Guarnieri, internationally renowned for his intricate jazz pianistics, will join forces for this concert with another international jazz star, drummer J.C. Heard.

Not only has Guarnieri played with most of the major musical organizations of the Big Band era including Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw and Jimmy Dorsey, he also has established himself as one of the top recording studio jazz musicians of the day. Many contend he is the most recorded jazz pianist in the world.

Guarnieri has composed some 3,500 selections and traces his family heritage back to the famous Guarneri family, 17th and 18th century makers of the famed Guarnerius violins.

Heard, who is considered a drummer's drummer, has performed all over the world and was a film and TV personality in Japan for a number of years.

Doors are open at Top of the Pontch at 5 p.m. Tickets for the Guarnieri concert will be sold at the door the evening of the event. Hot sandwiches will be available.

America coming for Oct. 3 show

The rock group America will appear at the University of Michigan-Dearborn on Wednesday, Oct. 3. The concert will be staged in the Fieldhouse at 8 p.m.

Tickets are available at the UM-D Recreation and Organization Center or in the Fieldhouse, at Hudson's, Peaches Records in Dearborn, and School Kids Records in Ann Arbor.

America was formed in 1969 by Dewey Bunnell and Gerry Beckley. Their ecological anthem "Horse with No Name" immediately rose on the charts and was soon followed by their debut album "America."

It was the first group to begin a career with both a number one single and album. Those honors were followed by a Grammy and Billboard's Best Singles Artist award.

"Silent Letter" is the group's latest release.

"In some ways, 'Silent Letter' is a kind of summation of our experience and growth during the last 10 years, but it also points out a direction for the next decade," says Beckley.

UM-D is located on Evergreen south of Ford Road. For more information, contact the Student Activities office at 593-5390.

Players to open in November

O.J. Anderson (left), "Master of Mime," is the current attraction at the Raven Gallery in Southfield.

Anderson is appearing through Sunday at the coffeehouse, 29101 Greenfield.

Other performers scheduled to appear at the Raven during September include folksinger Chuck Mitchell (lower left) next Wednesday-Sunday and Detroiter Lori Jacobs Sept. 26-30.

Show time at the Raven is 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday, and 9:30 and 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

O.J. Anderson and the funky piano of Bob Wilson, also on the bill.

A Home is Still Your Best Investment

Despite rising interest rates, a home is still the best investment that most families can make. Some families, concerned by today's high interest rates, are making a costly mistake by putting off that purchase and waiting for rates to come down.

Take a look at what is likely to happen to housing prices while you wait for interest rates to decline. Suppose the house you want is going for $64,000 now, and you can get financing with a 10 percent downpayment at 10.5 percent mortgage interest rate. Your 10 percent downpayment is $6,400. Your monthly mortgage payments would be $527.

Annual interest rate on 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage	11%	10%
10% downpayment	$ 6,400	$ 7,168
Principal or amount of mortgage loan	$57,600	$64,512
Monthly payments for principal and interests	$ 549	$ 566

Now suppose you wait until next year in the hopes that interest rates do come down. Assuming that housing prices will continue to increase about 12 percent a year, that same home will cost $71,680 a year from now. Your 10 percent downpayment increases to $7,168. Even if interest rates fall a full percentage point to 9.5 percent, and there is no guarantee that they will, your monthly mortgage payment would be $543 or $16 more a month.

Meanwhile, you've got to live somewhere and every penny you pay in rent is gone forever. With each mortgage payment, however, you are building equity in a home that will eventually be yours.

Keep in mind, too, that housing is the only investment available to the average family that is increasing in value faster than inflation. And there is still plenty of mortgage money available, although it may be harder to find today than a year ago.

Many builders will still have mortgage money available at lower rates because of previous commitments. They are also a good source of information on which lenders have funds available and on what terms.

In addition, first time homebuyers may be able to get a helping hand from the new graduated payment mortgage programs. These mortgages were authorized for federally chartered savings and loans early this year. They are also available from state chartered lenders in many states and from FHA-approved lenders.

The GPM permits lower payments during the early years of the mortgage with monthly rates increasing gradually over five to ten years and leveling out for the remainder of the loan. The GPM is ideal for young, upwardly mobile couples who need a boost to get into that first home.

And if you are weighing the advantages of buying a home versus renting, don't forget to consider the tax breaks that go along with homeownership. Let's look at what happens to the tax return of a young couple during the first year of a mortgage.

The wife in our example earns $12,000 a year; the husband, $18,000. Their $8,000 savings yields $400 a year in interest, giving them a taxable income of $30,400.

Total Tax Due—$6,083

Now assume that same couple buys a home for $60,000 at 10 percent down and takes out a mortgage at 10.5 percent on the remaining $54,000. During the first year their mortgage interest payments equal $5,670. Let's say that they paid $820 in real estate taxes, which is also tax deductible. Adding both the mortgage interest and real estate tax deduction, here's what the tax bill looks like now.

Gross Income—$30,400
Interest Deduction—$ 5,670
Real Estate Tax Deduction—$ 820
Total Deduction—$ 6,490
Total Tax Due—$ 4,976

With just real estate tax and mortgage interest deductions, the couple saves about $1,007 in their tax bill. Of course, most people will have other deductions as well, bringing the tax bill down even further.

Solar Water Heating An Industry Coming of Age

By Lester Burton, President
Southern Michigan H.O.W.

As utility bills climb even higher, consumers are looking for cost-saving alternatives. One of these, solar water heating, has been around for a long time. In the 1950s there were nearly 50,000 solar water heaters operating in the Miami area alone.

Inexpensive fossil fuels, however, pushed solar energy into the background. Solar equipment is expensive. Costs for purchasing and installing a domestic solar hot water system range from a low of about $1,000 to a high of $3,500.

If the equipment is expensive, however, the fuel itself is free. As fossil fuels become more expensive, solar water heaters are expected to become more competitive and economical. Domestic solar water heating already compares favorably with electric water heating in many areas. A recent study by the Department of Energy showed solar water heating to be competitive with oil water heating in some areas. The Solar Energy Industries Association estimates that there are about 200,000 operating solar installations in the United States.

How does it work? The most visible component is the collector. Usually the collector is a large dark rectangular plate. It should face within about 15 degrees of true south and be tilted to an angle that will capture the most direct sunlight. The latter will depend upon the distance from the equator.

Solar collectors have often been compared to a car parked in the sun. The sun's rays easily pass through the window of the car, strike the seats and are converted to heat. The heat cannot escape through the windows as easily as the rays entered, so the car becomes hot.

With a solar collector the sun enters through a transparent cover and is absorbed by a black background material called an absorber. The absorber functions like the seat of the car to absorb the rays and convert them to heat energy.

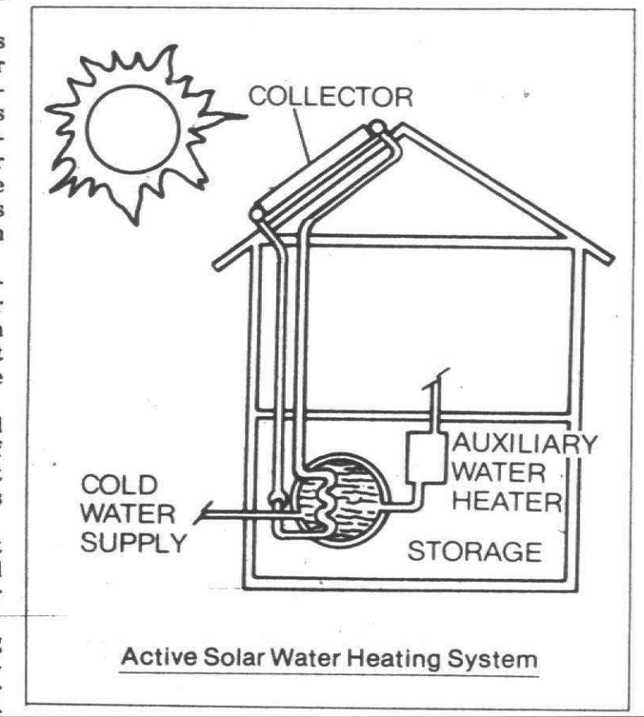
The collected energy is transferred to a fluid circulating through the absorber. The heated fluid, in turn, delivers thermal energy to a storage tank and the fluid (which may be air or liquid) is returned to the collector to begin the cycle over again.

A solar water heater may be active or passive, although the former is more common.

An active solar system depends upon a pump to move the fluid. A sensor in the collector turns the pump on when the sun is out and switches it off as the sun fades.

In areas not subject to freezing, the household water can be heated directly. This is called an open loop liquid system. Usually, however, the liquid contains an antifreeze so that the solar system can operate all year round. This is a closed loop liquid system and requires the use of a heat exchanger so that the heat can be safely transferred to the household water supply. The heat exchanger is usually double walled so that there is no danger of toxic leaks into the water supply.

Passive systems are less common. These do not depend on pumps, but on the natural flow of heat. In a passive system the heat storage tank is located above the collector where the water is heated. The warmed liquid rises to the top of the tank.



Active Solar Water Heating System

Because of differences in climate solar water heaters operate more efficiently in some areas than others. In the Southwest, a solar installation might provide nearly 100 percent of the hot water needs of a family of four. In New England, the figure might be closer to 50 percent and a backup heater provides the balance.

When is a solar water heater economical? It is most popular in sun-belt states including the Southwest, Florida and California, but it is also feasible for other parts of the country.

Solar tax credits are another factor to consider in determining whether solar installations are a good investment. Legislation passed in 1978 allows taxpayers to deduct 30 percent of the first $2,000 spent on solar equipment and 20 percent of the next $8,000 from their federal income taxes. This would amount to a tax savings of $700 on an installed system costing $2,500.

Nearly 40 states also offer some type of tax incentive. Californians may claim deductions of 55 percent of the cost of a solar system, up to $3,000, on their combined federal and state income taxes.

Solar water heating is also popular where other forms of energy are expensive, as in New England. Electricity is becoming a high-cost fuel. With the combined savings on fuel and taxes, a solar water heater might pay for itself in as little as five years in areas where water is heated electrically.

The payback period for solar water heating is usually much longer in areas that use oil and longer yet in those that use natural gas. Continued fuel shortages may lead to higher prices for these alternatives and make solar a more attractive investment.

In selecting an active system, industry spokesmen advise looking for a well-engineered system. The size of the collector, the capacity of the tank, the flow rate of the pump and the setting on the controller should be carefully coordinated.

Buyers should look for a manufacturer's warranty on all components of the system—not just the collector. Most problems will crop up in the first year, says the Solar Energy Industries Association, but a three-year warranty is optimum.

Solar is a relatively new industry so look for a manufacturer and an installer with a solid reputation. Find out how much maintenance your system will require. Some require very little while others require a fair amount. For further information on solar energy and for a list of solar firms in your area, call the National Solar Heating and Cooling Information Center toll free at (800) 523-2929. In Pennsylvania call (800) 462-4983. In Alaska and Hawaii call (800) 523-4700.

New Tax Law Can Make You Money!

If you're a homeowner 55 or older, you can now enjoy a tax free profit of up to $100,000 on the sale of your home.

This one-in-a-lifetime tax exclusion—effective on all sales back to July 26, 1978—replaces a much smaller tax break that went to owners 65 years and older.

This new tax legislation is expected to benefit millions of homeowners nearing retirement, particularly those who have seen their homes increase in value four-fold or more over the years and now want to move down into a less expensive and smaller home, such as a condominium.

Here's how the new tax law works. Assume for a moment that you and your spouse are both 62 and are making plans for an early retirement. Your home was perfect for raising a family, but now the kids are grown and off on their own and your home is too large and too hard to maintain for just the two of you. Besides, you want to retire in one of the sun-belt states, possibly buying a condominium where you don't have to worry about maintenance and yard work.

Say you purchased your home in 1950 for $25,000. Since then you have added $10,000 in improvements, including a garage, finished rec room and screened porch. You put your home on the market and sell it for $110,000, giving you a net profit of $75,000 on the sale.

Now you can pocket that entire $75,000 profit without paying any capital gains tax at all, which is a nice nest egg to supplement your retirement income.

Another design change made by NAHB engineers was to move the frong door from the center of the home to the far end and add a foyer. The foyer and an unheated storage area form the east side of the house providing a six-foot wide buffer area between the living area and the carport, and shielding the house from prevailing winds.

The energy saving house is also equipped with a monitor that tells the family how much it is spending at any given moment on heating, cooling and appliances. Once a family realizes how much some of its living habits cost, they can change the more wasteful ones.

The Energy Efficient Residence is heated and cooled by a small, but efficient heat pump system; the conventional home, by an electric resistance forced air furnace with a central air conditioning system. Heat pumps are rapidly becoming popular in areas with moderate climates because, unlike electric resistance furnaces, they can produce more energy than they consume. (They do not operate as efficiently, however, in areas with harsh climates). The EER heat pump is specially equipped with heat recovery device that permits summertime use to waste heat for heating water.

While 16-inch spacing of studs was used in the exterior walls of the conventional home, 24-inch spacing was used in the EER. The wider spacing increases the amount of wall space that can be insulated and is more than adequate support for the house.

Extra cost for all energy features came to about $4,200 in the EER. Some of the features will pay for themselves in energy saved much faster than others. The heat pump and prefabricated fireplace were among the most cost effective items.

Landscaping for Energy Savings

by Lester Burton, President
Southern Michigan H.O.W.

Just as your living room and kitchen are vital parts of your home, so is your yard. It can provide a cool and peaceful setting for summer relaxation, shave dollars from your heating and cooling bills, keep out the neighbor's dog and enhance your investment.

Particularly in a new home, it's good to start with a plan. Draw a map showing north-south orientation, areas where you'd like to relax and want more privacy, places where a hedge or a fence might be needed to shield you from the street. Where does the sun fall? Where will prevailing winds strike the house? Where is your air conditioning unit located?

A tree break of evergreens can cut the force of winter winds buffeting the house and ease demands on your heating system. Deciduous trees (those that lose their leaves each fall) on the south can shade your home in summer, but let in the warmth of the winter sun.

Air conditioners expel warm air to be absorbed by the outside air. The higher the temperature of the surrounding air, the harder the air conditioner must work, making trees and shrubs that shield the unit a cost-saving investment.

Heat pumps draw heat from the outside air in winter and act as air conditioners during the summer. They operate most efficiently if placed on the warm side of the house with a summer shade tree or shrub that loses its leaves in fall.

You'll need to consider as well the type of soil and climate conditions in your area. Your local nursery, garden supply center or county extension agent can help you decide what plants will grow in your yard.

Most people associate gardening with the spring, but as winter approaches there are several things you should do to prepare.

Every year trees and shrubs will die during the winter for lack of water say local garden suppliers—not for lack of rain or snow, but because the ground around the roots freezes. A good layer of mulch around trees and shrubs will keep the soil warmer and help prevent desiccation, or dehydration.

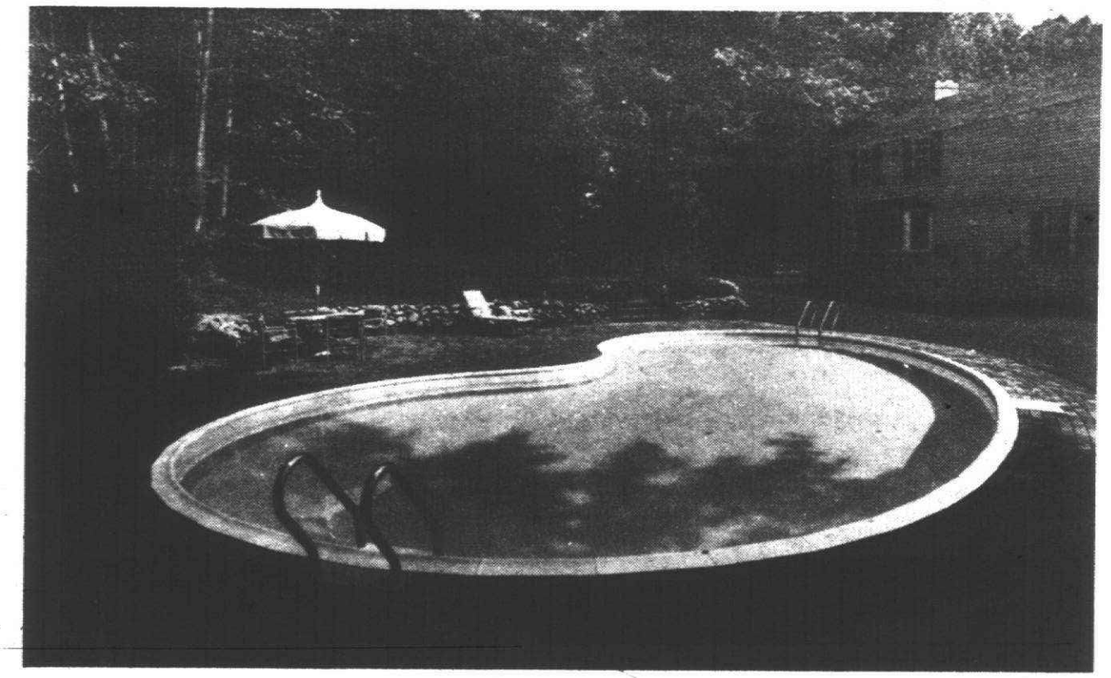
Make sure evergreens are well-watered going into winter. It's a good idea to use an antidesiccant, as well. A burlap screen or snow fencing will help protect shrubs during winter.

The best time to plant deciduous trees and shrubs is in the fall or winter after the leaves fall off and the plant is dormant. Do not trim or fertilize plants in the fall. This forces new growth that will die when cold weather strikes. It's also a good time to plant the needled evergreens, including pine and juniper.

The fall is an ideal time for fertilizing some types of lawn, but not others. It's advisable to consult your local nursery to determine the best fertilizing schedule. Keep mowing your grass in the fall until it stops growing. Going into winter with short grass will slow water evaporation from the soil.

Most spring flowering bulbs, including crocuses, tulips and daffodils, should be planted in the fall. On the other hand, gladiolas, caladiums and tuberous begonias don't winter well and should be brought inside until spring.

Cuttings from many annual plants such as geraniums and impatiens can be rooted indoors. Once rooted in water, the plants can be potted and will flower all winter. You can return them to the outdoors in the spring.



SUMMER REFRESHER. This beautifully landscaped yard and patio is an invitation to escape summer heat and tension. Tall trees provide welcome shade and the well-manicured lawn is a perfect playground as well as a cooling carpet for the outdoor recreation area. Ground plantings add visual interest and help insulate an outside wall of the house. A raised garden just beyond lends a colorful accent of bright seasonal flowering plants. The kidney-shaped pool won a Gold Medal in a vinyl pool division of the National Swimming Pool Institute's annual design competition.

H.O.W. — The 10 Year Home Owner Protection Plan

Families buying a new car look for the right size and style to meet their needs. They consider price, fuel consumption, dealer's service department and warranty.

When buying a new home, families make similar evaluations. They consider financing, size, style and energy-saving features. But how can they be certain that those "minor quirks" common to all new homes will be repaired?

Now there's a "service department" for homes in the form of the Home Owners Warranty (HOW) Program. Established in 1973, HOW is currently available in 44 states through 98 local and state HOW councils.

In southeastern Michigan, over 200 builders are registered with the Southern Michigan HOW council, and over 9,500 homes in southeastern Michigan are enrolled in the program.

Builders registered with HOW provide their buyers with a 10-year protection plan which includes a warranty, warranty insurance and insurance against major structural defects. The program also includes clearly defined construction standars and a built-in complaint-handling procedure.

(Washington, DC) "A lifesaver" is how one homeowner describes the Home Owners Warranty (HOW) program's 10-year warranty/insurance plan. When the homeowner and his 22 neighbors moved into their exclusive Virginia subdivision they didn't expect cracks in the plastering or heat pumps that didn't work. Their problems mounted when the builder, caught in a financial squeeze, filed for bankruptcy.

Fortunately for the homeowners, all the homes were covered. HOW stepped in, made repairs ranging from leaky faucets to leaking roofs and footed the bill, at an average of $500 for each home.

The homeowners' salvation came in the form of HOW's insurance-backed warranty, with coverage that stays in force even if the builder has gone out of business. It acts as an extra layer of protection. HOW steps in if the builder can't or won't meet his obligations, which is what happened to the Virginia homeowners. Once the local HOW council was informed of the situation, an insurance adjuster was sent out to the site. He validated the claims and a local contractor was hired to make the repairs. Today, all 23 homeowners are thrilled with HOW's response to the situation, and HOW is prepared to follow-up on any future problems still under warranty.

Designed as a major medical policy for new homes, the program is offered only by participating builders. The builder warrants his homes against workmanship and materials defects in the first year and malfunctioning of the homes' systems and major structural defects in the second. The home is insured against major structural defects for the next eight years through the program's insurance carrier, INA Underwriters Insurance Company.

The HOW program is currently being offered through nearly 14,000 builders in 46 states. Over 550,000 homes are covered by the 10-year protection plan.

Specifically, during the first year of coverage the HOW builder warrants the workmanship, materials and structure of the home. During the second year the builder warrants the wiring, piping and ductwork in the systems of the home and against major structural defects. The insurance company insures the home against major structural defects for the next eight years, and also insures the builder's warranty during the first two years, if for any reason the builder will not or cannot meet his warranty obligations.

HOW standards outline the construction codes and allowable performance standards which a HOW builder is obligated to meet. The format of the standards is designed for easy comprehension by both the home owner and the builder, and outlines, under categories such as concrete, site work and masonry, the possible deficiencies that may occur, performance standards required and the builder responsibility for repair.

The warranty agreement and standards are part of the service department a HOW builder offers his customers. Armed with these documents the HOW home owner has an understanding of the construction of his home and the conditions under which he has a legitimate right of complaint if his builder does not comply with his warranty obligations.

Usually buyers and builders are able to agree on repairs that may be needed in a new home. Occasionally, though, the buyer is not satisfied with the builder's repairs or the builder feels the home owner's complaint is not within the scope of the warranty.

If a HOW buyer is not satisfied with his builder's service, he may resort to another facet of HOW's service department—the program's unique complaint-handling procedure which uses conciliation and arbitration to resolve differences.

One of the chief advantages of this system is its flexibility. It allows the disputing parties to develop a workable solution outside the court system.

Under this procedure the home owner may request conciliation by completing the "Demand for Dispute Settlement" form attached to the warranty agreement or by writing a letter outlining the complaint and sending either to the local HOW council. HOW councils are the local offices around the country which administer the HOW program. (The Southern Michigan HOW council is located at 804 One Northland Plaza, Southfield, Michigan 48075.)

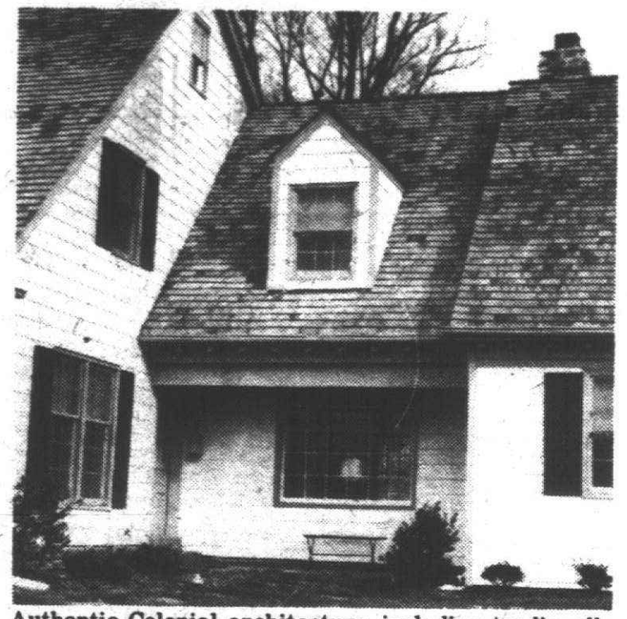
Wood Warms Cockles of Homeowner's Hearts



Authentic Colonial architecture, including tradionally styled windows and shutters, are details homeowners desire. Energy conservation is assured with full insulation in walls and ceilings and with wood windows with insulating glass and factory applied weatherstripping.

Authentic Colonial styling, angle-bay windows, hardwood floors, ceramic tile baths, four or five bedrooms and thw warmth of wood detailing are the things many a prospective homeowner dreams about.

Homeowners at Countryside, a 26-acre single family project in McLean, Virginia enjoy these touches along with energy conservation. Situated on one-acre parcels, the homes range in size from 3,350 to 3,800 square feet.

"Given the strength of demand for architecture inspired by Colonial Williamsburg and the need for energy conservation in homes as big as these", explains builder-developer Paul Commanduras, "we couldn't use anything but wood windows with insulating glass, wood panel doors and wood shutters."

These homes are built so "the people who can afford to buy them can afford the upkeep," Commanduras says. "We developed an energy saving package because even the owner of a $200,000 house has a budget for utilities and maintenance."

Among the standard energy conservation items are 2x6 wood framing, R-19 insulation batts in the outside walls, crawl space, dormers and the inside walls of powder rooms and the master bedroom and R-30 insulation in the ceilings.

A combination heating system, which uses an oil furnace for the first floor and an electric heat pump for the second floor bedroom areas, is cheaper to operate than either type alone, says Commanduras.

"What makes the system less expensive are the weathertight wood windows and the wall and ceiling insulation. With windows that have factory-installed weatherstripping and insulating glass, the house is tight and the oil furnace doesn't have to work as hard."

In addition to supporting the energy conservation package, Commanduras says, "We found that when you build with authentic wood mouldings, chair rails, wood shutters, wood panel doors and wood windows with six-over-nine wood grills, you're giving people what they've wanted in every house they've ever lived in."

"Besides satisfying customer demand for authenticity in home design," adds Commanduras, "we benefit as builders because these materials are stock items we can order and put into a house with little fuss."

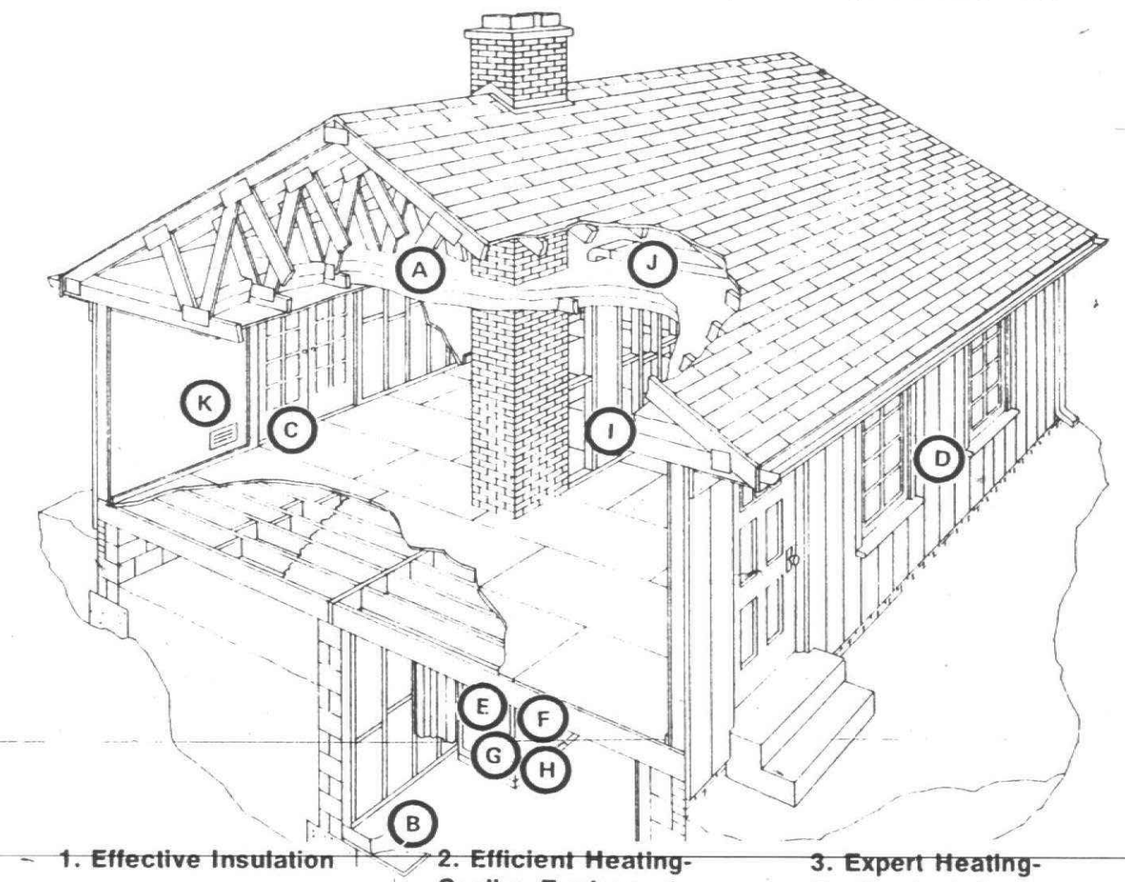
Three-E Checklist Can Save You Energy and Money

Check out your home for energy savings. This illustration from the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute points out three important ways to minimize your heating and cooling costs.



1. Effective Insulation

A. Insulation R-values meet standards for this climate to ensure minimum heat losses in the winter or heat gains in the summer.

B. Proper installation ensures insulation, fully protects walls, ceilings and building perimeter.

D. Caulking and sealing reduces air leakage around doors, windows and chimneys.

2. Efficient Heating-Cooling Equipment

E. Efficient air-conditioning equipment uses less power than standard equipment and saves on cooling bills.

F. An energy-saving heat pump provides heating and cooling and can save 30 to 50 percent on electric resistance heating costs.

G. Equipment performance, capacity and energy efficiency are certified under a program of the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute.

3. Expert Heating-Cooling Installation

H. Equipment is properly sized to meet the needs of the house.

I. Air distribution system is centralized for energy economy.

J. Air handling ducts are insulated in non-conditioned areas.

K. Registers and diffusers are located to avoid hot or cold spots.

Energy Saving Housing for the '80s

Using current technology and building materials already on the market, builders are experimenting with ways to increase the energy efficiency of single family housing that will be built during the coming decade.

With funding from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, engineers of the NAHB Research Foundation of the National Association of Home Builders recently designed one of the homes planned for a Maryland subdivision. They were determined to see just how much energy they could save without significantly altering the appearance of the home.

A young couple with two small children moved into the Energy Efficient Resident (EER) on November 1, 1977. A few months later, another couple, also with two small children, moved into a conventional comparison house next door.

In both houses, thermostats were set at 70° F during the winter, and at 75°F during the summer. Engineers monitored the homes carefully and discovered that during the winter months the EER used 57 percent less energy than the conventional home. During the summer months, the EER used about 37 percent less energy than the conventional home.

The chief feature of the energy saving home is a family retreat. This combination family room and eat-in kitchen can be completely closed off from the rest of the home. Double glass doors separate the retreat from the formal living room.

The retreat also has large triple-glazed windows that face south, allowing for solar gain during the winter months. During the summer, broad leaf trees and a two-foot roof overhang give ample shade. Insulated draw drapes prevent heat loss in the cold winter nights and heat gain in summer.

The EER family found that even during the coldest months, sunlight striking the southern windows was sufficient to heat the home for six to ten hours during the day.

In addition, a fireplace and cooking heat can keep the retreat warm, allowing lower thermostat settings in the rest of the house.

Traditionally, fireplaces have been heat losers because heat escapes up the chimney and masonry walls have very poor insulating value. But the EER used a prefabricated fireplace backed on an unheated storage area. It also used outside air for combustion rather than drawing warm air from the room. The result — surface temperature of the fireplace doors in the EER was 74.2°F, compared with a 56.5°f brick surface temperature in the conventional home

Art and Reality Join in Finding a New Home

One exterior surface of the home that has benefitted from improved design in recent years is the roof.

Three-dimensional asphalt shingles, for example, are available in a variety of designs and rich colors. Among the more popular are laminated asphalt shingles in eye-appealing earth-tone shades of brown and beige that can be used on practically any roof, but are especially attractive on roofs with high visibility from the street. These shingles can be used to set a home apart from other roofs in the neighborhood, yet help relate a home to its natural surroundings. At the same time, these shingles produce a rugged looking roof with deep, attractive shadow lines.

ARMA offers these other suggestions regarding colors. Even with color charts, coordination can be difficult. On the large exterior expanse of a house, it may be hard to imagine how several colors will look. So, limit color choices to three; one for the roof, another for the siding and the third for the trim. Since the roof is likely to be around for a good many years, choose its color carefully. Complementary colors on the roof and sidewalls will provide harmonious contrast while a lighter shade of the roof color on the siding will create an eye-appealing blend.

10 Year Warranty

When the HOW council receives the notice of complaint, it contacts the buyer and builder and sets up a meeting with the disputing parties and a neutral third party. The conciliator examines the problem and attempts to clarify the issues so the parties themselves can reach a mutually acceptable agreement.

If HOW's conciliation process does not end in this mutually satisfactory way, either the builder or the buyer can request arbitration.

The home owner can also request an end to conciliation at any time during the process and demand that the case go directly to arbitration. Arbitration is administered by the American Arbitration Association, a private, non-profit association established 50 years ago for the purpose of providing third-party resolution of disputes.

Dallas Nagy of Impact Marketing said, "I won't accept a builder for Impact who isn't a HOW builder. It insures a 'non hostile' relationship with a home buyer." Although the majority of HOW home buyers never need to use HOW's service departments, just having HOW coverage relieves them of some of the worries of new home ownership. HOW builders, who are screened before being admitted into the program for financial soundness, technical competence and a history of fair dealing with customers, understand that a service department is something new home buyers expect when making what is probably the most expensive purchase of a lifetime.

Tips for a Cooler Home

Here's a quick check-list from the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute of ways to save energy and still stay cool during the heat and humidity of summer.

1. Make sure your equipment is properly sized before it is installed in your home.
2. Set your cooling thermostat at the highest acceptable level and dress in cool clothing. The indoor temperature may not need to be more than 15 degrees below outdoor levels.
3. Keep lamps and heat producing appliances away from the thermostat.
4. Don't place furniture where it will block the free flow of cooled air from your registers.
5. Keep your air filters clean, if cleanable; replace them frequently if they're the "throw away" type.
6. Keep all parts of the cooling system clean; don't let leaves, grass and debris pile up around the outside condensing unit.
7. Limit heat- and humidity-producing activities — cooking, laundering, bathing, mopping, etc.—to early morning and late evening hours instead of the heat of the day.
8. Draw blinds or shades over windows on west, south and east, where direct sunlight falls.
9. Keep windows and doors closed while your air conditioner is operating.
