'Love Rides the Rails'

Chuck Miller of Canton has the role of the villain, Simon Darkway, in "Love Rides the Rails," opening Friday evening in the auditorium of Central Middle School at Church and Main in Plymouth. Curtain time is 8 p.m. for the Plymouth Theater Guild's first play of the season. The melodrama features Pat Thomas as heroine Prudence Hopewell, daughter of Widow Hopewell. Play dates are Nov. 2, 3, 9, 10. For more about the play, turn to Page 1C of today's Suburban Life section. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Board tries to mediate trailer park grievance

Representatives from two mobile home owner associations are hoping to meet with the part owner of their parks before a threatened rent strike begins today.

Canton Township Trustee Carol Bodenmiller will attempt to set up a meeting between officers of the Holiday Estates and Royal Holiday mobile home owner associations and owner Sheldon Futurnick. However Bodenmiller said the feat may be easier said than done.

If the meeting is achieved, it will be the first time Futurnick has met face-to-face with the association officers.

The promise to try to engineer a meeting came at another in a series of complaint sessions instigated by residents of the two Canton mobile home parks.

Royal Holiday and Holiday Estates tenants filled every chair and overflowed into the hall at Tuesday's special meeting of the Canton Township Board of Trustees. The trustees listened to resident's complaints for two hours.

Last week, more than 100 residents of the parks attended a Michigan Mobile Home Commission meeting in Lansing to protest what they called retaliatory rent increases recently instituted by Futurnick. Tenants voiced a host of other grievances ranging from improper trailer set-ups to the lack of a promised clubhouse at Holiday Estates.

Futurnick attended the Lansing meeting and denied the charges levied against him by the group. He said the rent increases were the result of economic necessity, not retaliation. He claimed that Gary Roberts, an unsuccessful candidate for Canton Township Trustee in 1978, and C.J. Marshall, president of the Holiday Estates Mobile Home Owner's Association, stirred up tenants in order to further their own political ambitions.

Another meeting between association officers, their attorneys, Michigan Mobile Home Commission member Robert Myers and township officials had been held the week before.

To top it off, a public hearing has been scheduled by the Mobile Home Commission for Nov. 12 in Canton.

Although there are several other mobile home parks in Canton, most protests over park conditions and practices have come from Royal Holiday and Holiday Estates.

Representatives from parks owned or partly owned by Futurnick outside Canton Township also attended the special board meeting.

The conflict began last month after Holiday Estates rents were raised as much as 50 percent.

Futurnick maintains that rents at his park are lower than at comparable parks in the area.

Marshall, who has acted as spokesman for the mobile home owners, said many problems he has experienced at Holiday Estates are shared by a large number of tenants at other Futurnick parks.

Marshall charged that trailors are being installed on lots too small to handle them. This causes the homes to break up and warp, he said.

Futurnick has denied these charges.

The Canton building department, however, agrees with Marshall.

Chief Building Inspector Aaron Machnick told Marshall that his mobile home had been improperly installed. According to Machnick, the building department is in the process of inspecting other mobile homes.

In the past, Machnick said, the department had been oriented to traditional single family home inspection. Building inspectors are being given an extensive education in mobile home installation violations, he added.

Canton supervisor Noel Culbert said any mobile home tenant whose trailer is found to be improperly installed, can

PCB dump safe, lab tests indicate

Supervisor Noel Culbert says the township may drop its demand for the removal of PCB-laced soil from a Canton landfill in the wake of test results which show the water table has not been contaminated.

Culbert had asked Detroit Edison Co. to finance removal of the soil from Woodland Meadows Landfill on Hannan Road last month. Metal drums containing 100 cubic yards of PCB-contaminated soil were dumped at the landfill in 1975, before federal regulations prohibiting the disposal were passed.

The soil was contaminated as the result of an electric transformer leak on Detroit Edison property.

LABORATORY TESTS conducted by the Environmental Research Group (ERG) in Ann Arbor have shown that the PCB has not leached through the clay to the water table.

PCB levels in the water of monitoring wells at the landfill site fall within standards of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, according to test results released on Tuesday.

The tests also showed that cadmium levels in the water are below minimum DNR safety standards.

The township requested testing for both PCB and cadmium.

Cadmium, a known carcinogen, is contained in sludge from the Detroit Wastewater Treatment Plant that is

Schools contemplate size of 1980 bond issue

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education has set a Nov. 26 deadline to finalize directions for the 1980 bond drive.

The school board also expects to set an election date and approve formal ballot wording at its Dec. 10 meeting.

According to the timetable, a bond election will be held Feb. 29, 1980, so that some money will be available to spend on housing additional students in the fall of 1980.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES met Monday night with central administrators and construction/architectural consultants in an attempt to narrow the scope of the bond issue.

The board is looking at five alternative bond issues ranging from $15 million to $45 million.

Trustees' comments suggested that neither extreme was likely to be selected and that the real range of alternative bond issues was between $20 million to $32 million.

One of the biggest obstacles in narrowing the size of the bond issue is the cost of a third high school.

Originally trustees were looking at a $20 million price tag for a new high school, but current construction costs suggest a price tag of $26-$30 million.

Another alternative considered is to renovate Central Middle School for use as a high school at a cost of almost $4 million. Use of Central alone, though, cannot accommodate projected student growth at the high school level.

The board is giving serious consideration to renting a junior high from Livonia, and has directed its administration to continue negotiations on leasing arrangements.

If a middle school isn't leased from Livonia, the board faces an $8.8 million price tag for a new middle school.

The administration is projecting the cost of a new elementary building at $4.6 million.

BEFORE NARROWING down the possibilities, the board will study suggestions and comments from the public, stresses board president Tom Yack.

A public forum on the bond issue will be held Nov. 12 beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School, Joy just west of Canton Center Road.

An opinion survey also has been mailed to all residents who receive the school district's newsletter. The board plans to have a workshop study session to review the results of that survey Nov. 19.

In an attempt to expedite a decision, Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business, suggested a packaging arrangement to the board Monday night.

Hoedel noted that the five bond alternatives have four common requests which, when put together, total some $12 million.

The common requests include: districtwide renovation of existing buildings, $4.7 million; Extended School Year (ESY) expansion costs, $2.5 million; purchase of portable classrooms, $1.5 million; and renovation of Central Middle, $3.3 million.

Hoedel's suggestion was that the four common requests be put together in "Proposal A" and that residents be given the chance to vote on three other bond proposals.

The other three would be: Proposal B — $8.8 million for a new middle school for 900 students; Proposal C — a new elementary school for 772 students at $4.7 million; and Proposal D — a new high school for 2,000 students at $20-$26 million.

All three new buildings would be in Canton: the middle school on Canton Center Road between Warren and Ford; the elementary in Sunflower Subdivision; and the high school, either at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) site or on Lilley just north of Palmer, west of the present Field Elementary site.

Hoedel told the board that the cost of converting a school to the ESY schedule ranges from $80,000 to $90,000. Switching Allen Fiegel to ESY in '80-81 would raise the total cost of operating year-round schools to the equilavent of one mill.

The cost of opening a new school, Hoedel added, for operation only would be $150,000 for an elementary, $300,000 for a middle school, and $644,000 for a high school.

If the district rents a junior high from Livonia and keeps its current four middle schools for that age group, Hoedel said, a new middle school wouldn't be needed.

But the new middle school would be necessary, Hoedel added, if Central is converted for use as a high school.

Rental charges being made by Livonia are $1 per square foot, explained John M. Hoben, or $96,000 a year if Plymouth-Canton leased Lowell Junior High.

The district is interested in Lowell on Hix south of Joy because it is closer to subdivisions in southeast Canton

Compared to metro area

Local unemployment figures are low

Unemployment in the Plymouth-Canton community is running about 1 percent below that of the metropolitan Detroit area.

For the month of September, unemployment averaged 6.45 percent for the total Plymouth-Canton area compared to 7.5 percent for the six-county Detroit metropolitan area.

The unemployment figures for the individual communities, however, offer some suprises when broken down.

Many residents might assume that Canton Township would have the highest unemployment rate and that the smallest unit, the city of Plymouth, would have the lowest jobless rate.

But just the opposite is revealed in the September statistics gathered by the division of research and statistics in the Detroit center of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

THE CITY OF Plymouth had the highest unemployment rate at 7.3 percent — only two-tenths of 1 percent below that of the metropolitan region.

Plymouth Township was next highest with a jobless rate of 6.3 percent followed by Canton Township with 5.8 percent.

The jobless rate is computed by dividing the number of persons currently known to be unemployed by the total available labor force in a community.

Although MESC uses current numbers for counting the unemployed, the "available labor force" is based on population figures from the 1970 census.

That means for Canton Township the available work force is much larger than the 4,725 figure used by MESC from the '70 census.

The September report shows Canton with 275 unemployed workers out of a total labor force of 4,725. Plymouth Township has 475 unemployed out of an available work force of 7,500 while the city of Plymouth has 400 unemployed workers out of an available labor force of 5,400.

Based on current populations, the actual jobless rates likely are lower for the two townships which have experienced growth since 1970.

Canton Township, for instance, had 17,000 residents in 1970 but counted 27,000 in a township-conducted census in 1975. The current population is estimated to be about 40,000.

Assuming a doubling of the "available labor force" since 1970, Canton's current unemployment rate would be about three percent.

Plymouth Township's unemployment probably is related to short-term layoffs at industrial plants such as Ford-Sheldon and Burroughs.

Ed Dowling, manager of the MESC branch on Joy in Plymouth Township, reports September was a month of short-term layoffs at area auto plants. The Livonia Transmission plant, for instance, laid off 2,000 workers for one week in September and likely will do the same in mid-November.

Dowling explained that the current number of jobless workers is computed by counting those who apply for unemployment benefits.

Activity has picked up each week since the first of September in the Joy Road office, Dowling said, and as the office is jammed with residents applying for unemployment.

Once again, Dowling said, the parking lot is being filled to capacity and motorists are parking illegally on Joy Road and General Drive.

The city's high unemployment rate may be because of a larger number of older residents in the market for part-time work or possibly becauseof a larger proportion of teenagers than the townships, with younger families, might have.

Dowling would not speculate on reasons why one community might have a higher unemployment rate than another.

Board OKs 1980 budget

The 1980 budget, only slightly altered since it was introduced last month, was adopted by the Canton Township Board of Trustees.

The $3.9 million budget is about $260,000 less than the 1979 budget. But trustees said they hope it can be cut still further.

Despite the cutbacks, the 1980 budget will require a half-mill increase (50 cents per $1,000 assessed property valuation) in the tax rate, bringing the total township levy to five mills.

The board, at a special meeting held Tuesday, also adopted a 1980 general revenue sharing budget.

Both the use of revenue sharing money and further ways to tighten the township's general fund budget will be the topic of a study session scheduled for Dec. 6.

Trustees Robert Greenstein and Steven Larson voted against both budgets.

At Larson's insistance, the general fund budget was revised to reflect building permit revenues based on 600 single family home permits rather than the original 1,000 projected.

Larson said he wanted other projected building department revenues to be cut by the same percentage.

The two trustees said they expected the economic picture to become even gloomier as the year progressed. Can-

Three local students are members of EMU's outstanding forensic team

The success of the forensic program at Eastern Michigan University has almost created a dynasty recognized across the nation.

In nine years of national competition, EMU has won the national title five times, including the last four consecutive years, and placed second or third in the nation in four years.

The forensics team at Eastern also owns every national forensics record in existence.

And during the nine years some 32 individual national titles have been won by Eastern students.

The record of the team, coached by Dennis Beagen, may be what draws many students, including three from Plymouth-Canton, to the program at Eastern.

Beagen, director of forensics, has held that position for 12 years. He started out at EMU as a student, planning to play basketball. But he didn't make the team and, encouraged by a professor, instead became involved in speech.

AMONG THE MEMBERS of the EMU forensics team this year are Jay Finch and Gina Massaro from Canton and Lisa Lambert of Plymouth.

Finch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Finch of Murray Hill, is a freshman majoring in political science. He is a graduate of Plymouth Salem High where he was active in forensics, debate, and on the student council.

Ms. Massaro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Massaro of Napier, is a freshman majoring in business management. She also graduated from Salem where she was active in forensics, debate, and in a school musical.

Ms. Lambert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lambert, Jr. of Plymouth, is a junior majoring in computer science who is entering her third year with the EMU forensics team.

Last year at the national forensics tournament, Lambert placed 20th in after-dinning speaking and 22nd in dramatic duo. She is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High where she was active in drama and student government.

BEAGEN SAYS recruiting is an important reason for the team's success to date.

The majority of students he recruits comes to Eastern specifically because of the forensics program.

The recruiting drive was helped this summer when Beagen and 12 other coaches and students from the EMU team were hired to teach a forensics institute at Baylor University in Waco, Texas, for 200 high school students from Texas, Colorado and California.

Beagen already has received calls from students and graduate assistants who want to become involved with the team next year. The team now has graduate assistants from Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Florida.

This is a rebuilding year, Beagen said, because the team has lost a large number of talented seniors.

Plymouth-Canton OBITUARIES

Starting school at 4 gives kids a PLUS

While the older children are off in school, the younger members of the family may feel a little left out.

But children who are four years old can spend their days in a program designed to help prepare them for the beginning of their formal eduction.

The program, sponsored by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and Title a federal grant under Title I, is known as PLUS.

PLUS stands for Pupils Learning Useful Skills. Children participate with their parents in pre-school sessions once a week at a district school, or three times a month in neighborhood homes with sessions led by volunteer parents.

The program's thrust is to get children ready for reading and other school activities. A child's physical, mental and emotional development is emphasized.

The parent's role is to help the child develop the skills and to reinforce at home what is learned in PLUS sessions.

The program is open to all four-year-old pre-schoolers and their parents in the area of Title I schools Isbister, Central and Starkweather. Children are screened and tested through orientation sessions in the fall prior to kindergarten.

Board explores five bond options

where students now are being bused to Pioneer and East middle schools.

Livonia, however, has indicated it is willing to lease Lowell only if Plymouth-Canton makes a definite offer. That building is not among the list of 22 buildings scheduled for closing.

While discussing the crunch in the fall of '80, when enrollment will exceed capacity at the CEP, Hoben said it might be necessary as a stop-gap measure to transfer only ninth-graders from two middle schools to the high schools.

By 1981-82, Hoben added, it probably will be necessary to go on split sessions at the high schools or some kind of extended day.

The capacity at the CEP is about 4,200 and high school enrollment is expected to reach 6,000 in 1983-84. At that point, Hoben said, half-day scheduling would allow the operation of four high school units of about 1,400 students each.

A construction consultant hired by the district says ninth-graders will eventually have to be moved back into the middle schools unless money is approved to build a third high school and a fifth middle school.

Yack commented that current elementary enrollment suggests that more than one elementary building will be needed if current program levels are maintained.

A second new elementary will be needed, Yack added, if some 1,250 sixth-graders now in the middle school are moved back to the elementary level to get the ninth-graders out of the high schools.

Robber ties victim, steals wallet, keys

Police are still searching for a man who bound and robbed a drug store employee near the shop's parking lot last week.

The major haul from the armed robbery — a set of keys to Richardson's Pharmacy at Ford and Lilley — is worthless, however.

Manager Tom Eiden said store employees scrambled to change the locks after last Thursday's robbery.

Assistant manager Klaus Hiber, 30, of Ypsilanti, told police that a man armed with a gun emerged from bushes near the parking lot about 10:20 p.m. Oct. 25 after he had closed the drug store.

The robber bound Hiber's hands and feet with a nylon rope after ordering him to lie in a field adjacent to the parking area, according to police reports. The man took Hiber's set of keys and began questioning him about the combination to the safe inside the store.

Hiber told police that the man took his wallet, which contained credit cards and $32 in cash, after he admitted that the combination was hidden in the wallet.

The man then fled on foot. Eiden said no attempts have been made to break into the drug store.

Hiber told police that his assailant was holding a black scarf over his face. He said the man was white, in his 30s and dressed in a blue quilted jacket.

Tests show no PCB leaching

being dumped at Woodland Meadows daily.

Spokespersons from ERG were unavailable for comment on the test results. But Culbert said that the miniscule levels of PCB and cadmium found in the well water probably existed before the Detroit Edison soil or the sludge were dumped.

Culbert said he was waiting for the test results before resuming negotiations with Detroit Edison for removal of the PCB-contaminated soil.

PCB (polychlorinated biphenyl) is believed to cause disorders of the liver, nervous system and reproductive system in humans.

CULBERT HAD threatened to sue Detroit Edision if the utility company refused to finance the cost of shipping the soil to one of eight landfills in the country that are licensed for PCB disposal.

Culbert said Tuesday that the removal request may be dropped.

"If there's no evidence of minor contamination, we'd have no legal ground to stand on," the supervisor said. "But I'm glad the tests were conducted. It's a relief. Not only does the PCB fall within standards, the levels are almost nil.

"Basically, the tests are telling us that everything is acceptable out there," he said.

Representatives of the DNR and the Michigan Health Department had advised Canton officials against digging up the PCB-laced soil. Although Woodland Meadows is not licensed for PCB disposal, both spokespersons said the landfill would probably be certified if an application was made.

1980 budgets approved

ton should be ready for the downturn, they advised.

Larson objected to the designation of about $250,000 of incoming general revenue sharing money being spent on park development, as the budget dictated.

He said he wanted to see a list of other options for the funds. The total amount of revenue sharing money is $480,000, which can be designated for nearly any general purpose. Some of the options discussed included a computer system for the township and paving of roads to enhance industrial development.

Greenstein agreed with Larson.

"I think it's a bit caustic to say that, since people are going to be broke that we'd better provide some baseball fields for all these unemployed Cantonites," he said.

Mobile home complaints continue

choose to prosecute under either of two state laws — Public Act 240 and Public Act 419

P.A. 240 is also enforced by a township ordinance. P.A. 419 is more recent, but it also may be doubly enforced by township ordinance once the board votes on a local law currently being drafted by lawyers.

Marshall also has charged that residents have been unable to get copies of the leases they are by law allowed to hold. He added that the leases do not have a required clause stating tenants' rights.

Futurnick was at township hall during the meeting, but did not speak. He stayed only a short time.

Trustee Robert Greenstein told the audience Futurnick had run into problems with the board over Royal Holiday complaints about four years ago, while Greenstein was supervisor.

Mobile Home Commissioner Myers has said he objects to the trailer tenant's call for rent control.

He said he supports instead a bill being formulated by Attorney Gen. Frank Kelley. This bill would force landlords to bargain collectively with tenants for rent increases.

Vandals have struck twice in the past month in the Trailwood subdivision off Canton Center Road. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Here's one broken tree that was replanted after it was cracked in the first damage spree.

Vandalism strikes subdivision shrubs

"I don't understand why anyone would want to do something like that," says Mitch Brozimowski of Plymouth Township.

Brozimowski recently spent two years tending to a piece of narrow property that adjoins his property in the Trailwood Subdivision. He calls it the neighborhood "commons."

But after two separate cases of vandalsim to that land, he says he's ready to call it quits. Landscaping, he says, has alsways been his hobby.

"Shucks, why work like that."

Brozimowski is offering a $100 reward for information about the latest damage which occurred last weekend during his daughter's wedding party at the Trailwood home. Because there are no nearby street lights in the neighborhood, Brozimowski says he wasn't able to see the destrcution only yards away from his home.

In that case, about $150 worth of damage was done to trees and shrubs.

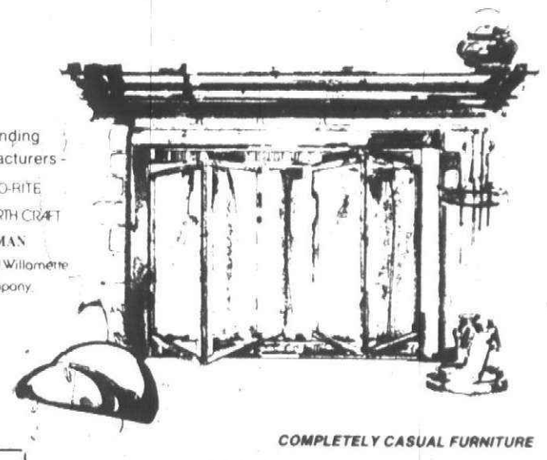

But more than two weeks ago, the damage was more extensive. Sometime between a Friday eveing and Satruday morning, some 18 growing fruit trees were uprooted, cracked in half and tossed into the nearby Tonquish Creek, he says.

Those included shrubs, fruit trees and evergreens which cost about $20 a peice. All total, that destrcution cost between $400-$500, he estimated.

BROZIMOWSKI SAYS he's reported both sets of vandalism to the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and that the subdivision association would prosecute if they found those responsible.

Teletyping support

Jim McGettigan, general manager of Western Electric in Plymouth, sends out the news over the teletype that the company's contribution this year to the Plymouth Community Fund is $3,000 — a 10 percent increase over last year. With help from that corporate gift, the fund climbed to $21,500 as it works towards its final goal of $300,000. The machine above is the Dataspeed 40, a new teletype station being assembled at Western Electric. This particular one is headed for Trenton, N.J., for use by DuPont. Present for the check presentation this week were: (from left) McGettigan; John Czubaj, fund campaign co-chairman; Gene Kornegay, fund board president; Jim Boyce, fund board member; and Jerry Triplett, campaign co-chairman. Help coming for seniors

Retired tradesmen and handymen still are needed by the Plymouth Community Council on Aging, Inc.

The council is in the process of establishing a skill banks for the older adults in the community.

Skills bank will be a clearing house for the retired tradesmen who desire jobs in their spare time to maintain their skills while earning some additional income.

The skills bank will operate a telephone center where return calls requesting needed service will be received and passed on to the listed retired tradesman.

The worker and homeowner requesting work will then negotiate directly to ascertain the work to be performed at reasonable rates.

Before the program gets started the council needs to hear from volunteers willing to participate. Retired persons willing to offer their skills or volunteer for the phone center may do so by calling 455-4907, 453-2816, or 453-4844.

The council and its committees are all unpaid volunteers, working in the interests of senior citizens, and is dependent on local contributions for its funding. The council is not, at this time, affiliated with any federal, state county or city programs but functions as independent advocates for senior services.

Among the projects undertaken by the council are the Vial of Life and Merchants Senior Discount Program — both ongoing efforts.

Series explores diet claims

What's behind weight loss clinics?

First in a series.

I've received many inquiries about the new weight loss clinics that have opened in our area recently. The following is a report on those clinics.

The ads have probably caught your eye. One shows a good looking woman, slender of course, standing on a scale Loss Clinics have come to Detroit."

Then a brief explanation suggests there are no drugs, no pills, and no contract to sign. You can lose weight quickly and easily in this program.

You tell yourself you've heard it all before. You wonder if this will work. You also may wonder if this is another liquid protein clinic opening up under a different name.

You wonder how this clinic can do it for you when no one else has been able to. You decide to give them a call for your free consultation visit. Here's what you will find.

YOUR FIRST visit to the clinic will entail filling out a complete medical screening questionnaire. You will be asked questions like: Have you ever had any chest pains, high blood pressure, gout, intestinal bypass surgery? Are you pregnant? Breastfeeding? Are you under the care of a psychiatrist or a physician? How long have you been overweight? Why do you want to lose weight? And more.

You will be weighed, then interviewed by a consultant. You probably will be introduced to the full-time nurse on staff, and the entire program and its costs will be revealed.

You will be told that you can expect to lose between three and five pounds a week, based on a 500-calorie-a-day diet for women, 750 calories for men.

Visits to the clinic are daily, where blood pressure is checked. Ketones, an important ingredient in human metabolism, is also checked. A 10-minute visit with a behavior modification specialist will discuss problems encountered with the diet along the way.

THE DIET plan is basically a high protein, low carbohydrate, low fat diet. A state of ketosis is achieved which is supposed to mobilize body fat.

The diet you will use includes moderate portions of lean meat, fish, poultry, as well as fruit, vegetables and selected starches and dairy products. A vitamin and mineral supplement is given daily to insure an adequate supply of these vital nutrients.

While Weight Loss Clincis has no doctor on staff, or even on call, they do work with the patient's personal physician. If, during the medical screening process, a medical problem is detected, a patient's physician is contacted, and diet modifications requested. Until that time, a person is put on a 1,000-calorie-a-day diet.

Should any medical problems be detected during one of the daily visits, the physician is contacted immediately.

Food diaries, menu planning, and motivational strategy are discussed with staff members on a regular basis.

Once a client has reached his/her goal, then a six-week stabilization program is begun during which the kinds of foods and the number of calories allowed is increased. Visits to the clinic continue, only now twice weekly instead of daily.

THE FINAL phase of the program is called maintenance, whereby, during a six-month period, clients make a monthly visit to the clinic. But should a three- or five-pound gain occur, they then may return to review the problem area and receive help in getting back to their goal.

About finances: Programs begin at $99 per person and include the initial reduction phase, the six-week stabilizaton and the six-month maintenance programs. There is no contract to sign, but a form is signed by the client acknowledging the fact that he knows the cost of the program, the number of weeks involved, and the projected payment schedule.

A truth-in-lending disclosure is also presented. The company maintains a refund is available to anyone who is not pleased with the program.

How to quit smoking in five lessons

Dr. Arthur Weaver is a man who says a lot of unpleasant things about an unpleasant topic.

But then again, this Northville surgeon deals with the results of an unpleasant habit every day.

Weaver is a surgeon at Detroit's Providence Hospital who spealizes in cancer surgery. That's just one reason why Weaver coordinates a regular anti-smoking clinic in the Plymouth area every year.

The five-night seminar begins at 7 p.m. Monday in Plymouth Canton High's Little Theater. The seminar is free.

The program is based on one developed by the Seventh Day Adventist Church of which Weaver's a member. The church has long opposed smoking on moral grounds.

Weaver, who is not a smoker and never has been, says his program is based on "presenting the facts" and letting smokers come to their own "decisions" about smoking cigarettes. He uses lectures, audio-visual supplies and group interaction to get the message across.

Here are some of the "facts" according to Weaver:

- Despite warnings from the U.S. Attorney General that cigarette smoking is hazardous to health, the numbers of smokers are increasing. Although there's a switch to low-tar cigarettes, people are smoking more of them to get the same amount of tar and nicotine in their systems.
- Lung cancer develops in about 12 percent of the smoking population. However, cigarette smoking is not only related to cancer but It also causes heart disease. Some 300,000 Americans die from heart disease each year. He adds 1,000 Americans die prematurely each day because of smoking.
- Traditionally, more smokers were found among the ranks of men than among women. This is changing, he says. Women are now "catching up." He adds it's more difficult for women to quit smoking because "women by nature tend to react more on their feelings than intellect."
- The "psychological" aspects of smoking are greater than the "physical" ones. Once a smoker has kicked the habit, the physical factors of the addiction wear off in about five days. The psychological factors associated with smoking are more difficult to kick, however.

Weaver says he discusses cigarette smoking during lectures as not just "an isocated" part of one's life but as "tied into one's whole lifestyle." He says people who smoke tend to have lower "self concepts" than those that don't smoke. Additionally, those who don't smoke have better control over their overall body shape and diet, he adds.?

WEAVER SAYS it takes a smoker four separate tries before he or she quits the habit forever. That's why he feels comfortable with an estimated 50 percent success rate in his program.

Rotary awaits speaker's visit Nov. 9

Historian will speak on the rights of Indians

An expert who now is in the thick of Indian rights lawsuits will be speaking next week in Plymouth.

Dr. Helen H. Tanner will speak on "Indians, Putting Them on the Map" at the noon luncheon meeting Nov. 9 of the Plymouth Rotary Club.

The historian and American Indian expert is being hosted by the Rotary Annes who invited Mrs. Tanner for a return visit to Plymouth.

Mrs. Tanner, who made her first public address to a Rotary club some 40 years ago, presented a lecture here a few years ago for the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

MRS. TANNER IS a key person who has been working behind the scenes of recent news events involving Indians in Michigan.

She has provided expert testimony in the Indian fishing case in the state before U.S. District Judge Noel Fox as well as in a lawsuit against the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Tanner also has provided testimony and introduced research for trials in federal courts for American Indians elsewhere in the U.S.

She currently is working as director of a project which involves mapping the Indian population from before the sailing of the Mayflower up to the late 19th century.

That research is being conducted through the Atlas of Great Lakes Indian History project of the Newberry Library in Chicago.

When published, the atals will contain 40 newly-researched maps and accompanying text. The maps will focus on the Great Lakes region from 1615 to 1871 when treaty-making between Indian tribes and the U.S. government came to an end.

The atlas will trace the changing patterns of Indian locations from the beginning of the contact period (1615) through the shift from Indian to white dominance in the Great Lakes region.

Tribes included in the study are the League of Iroguois, Huron, Ojibwa, Ottawa, Potawatomi, Delaware, Shawnee, Kickapoo, Miami, Kaskaskia, Menominee, Sac, Fox, Winnebago and the Eastern Dakota tribe.

The project was initiated in September 1976 with support from the National Endowment for the Humanities and is scheduled to be published by University of Oklahoma Press later this year.

Mrs. Tanner, a resident of Ann Arbor, has been commuting to Chicago to conduct her research.

She presently is working closely with a student, who descended from an Indian medicine man, who is working on Indian herb research as a student of botany at U-M.

MRS. TANNER EARNED her BA degree in 1937 from Swarthmore College, an MA from University of Florida in 1949 and received her PhD from U-M in 1961.

She lectured in Latin American history for U-M Extension Service from 1961-67 and introduced two courses on Indian-White relations in the American Culture program in 1974.

Her early research on the Spanish Borderlands involved extensive study of the Creeks, Seminoles and Cherokees.

From 1963 to 1975 she testified in 11 cases before the Indian Claims Commission representing nine different tribes.

Mrs. Tanner served on the Michigan Commission on Indian Affairs from 1966-70 — an agency established to improve conditions for the estimated 20,000 Indians in Michigan, only a portion of which live on four federal reservations.

She has been a visiting lecturer as Eastern Michigan University as well as at U-M.

She is the author of several books, articles and research papers.

THE TALK of Mrs. Tanner will follow lunch which will be served beginning 12:15 p.m. Nov. 9 in the Mayflower Meeting House.

The public is invited to hear Tanner as well as various civic groups. Those not interested in lunch may come at 12:30 p.m. to hear the talk.

Cost of the lunch is $5. Those wanting to eat must make reservations before 5 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 5.

Cheers Adrian

Leslie Bublin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Bublin of Leighwood Dr., Plymouth, has been named a cheerleader for the 1979-80 school year at Adrian College. Miss Bublin, a freshman majoring in business administration at Adrian, is a 1979 graduate of Plymouth-Canton High. Cheerleaders were selected after being screened by a panel of students, coaches, and former cheerleaders.

Education seminar

Philosophy of education is the topic of a seminar this weekend for members of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The two-day seminar will be held Friday and Saturday in the Dearborn Inn.

Board members have studied a reading list which includes "Experience and Education" by John Dewey, "Freedom to Learn" by Carl Rogers, and "Improving Classroom Reading Instruction" by David Tucker.

Dr. Arthur Brown of Wayne State University will lead the discussion. Superintendent John M. Hoben and other school district administrators also will be attending.

Senior discount plan expanding

About 135 senior citizens in Plymouth have joined the expanding ranks of those benefiting from the Senior Discount Program.

The 135 signed up last week for identification cards so they could receive discounts on purchases and services offered by participating merchants.

The sign up Thursday resulted in a total of 765 senior citizens being enrolled in the discount program.

Some 95 merchants have signed up to offer discounts on goods and services to local senior citizens.

The Senior Discount Program was originated by and is being operated by the Plymouth Community Council on Aging, Inc.

The discount program is run entirely by volunteers involved in the council on aging.

All expenses involved in running the program, such as the identification cards and directory of participating merchants, are paid by the council. The agency does not receive any money from local, state, county or federal governments.

The council on aging's expenses are met with contributions from local civic organizations, such as the Plymouth Rotary Foundation and the Lions Club of Plymouth.

Part of the expense of the discount program also are paid by the $1 fees from senior citizens for the ID cards.

The council on aging also is operating the Vial of Life program with help from the fire departments of the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

The council is setting up a "skill bank" to match up retired skilled tradesmen with retired homeowners needing their services.

That program will begin when, and if, enough retired tradesmen, handymen and women with skills volunteer.

The skill bank would result in retired workers receiving payment for their labor and homeowners getting necessary repairs at reasonable rates.

Plymouth — Past & Present

The start of a funeral parlor

By Sam Hudson

(Part I)

Plymouth in 1904 was a small village with one school building, a high school graduating class of 10, and a multitude of horses and wagons.

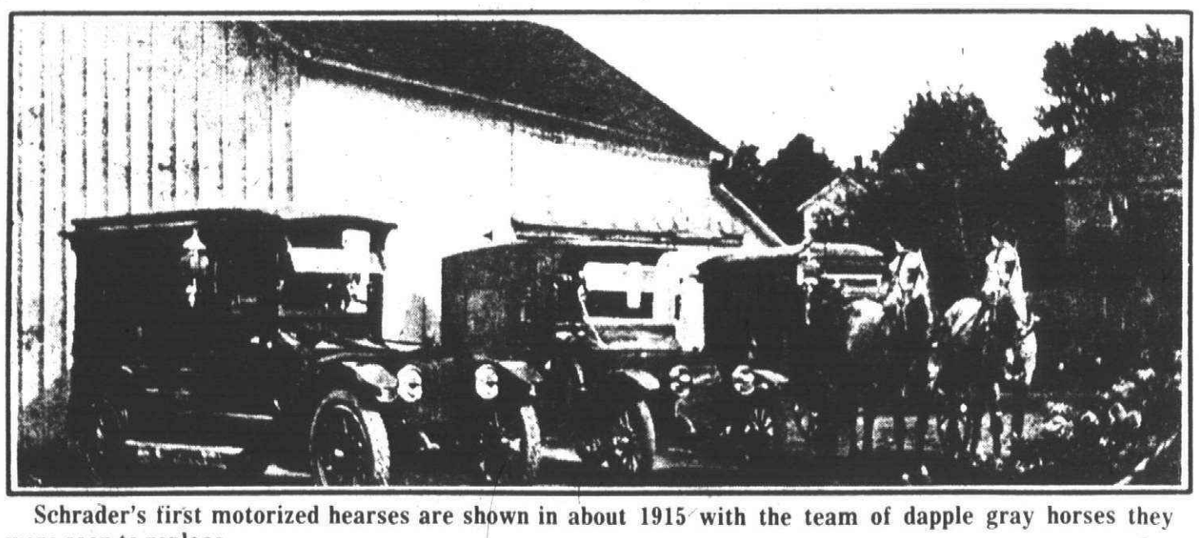

None of its roads were paved. You could count the number of automobiles in town on the fingers of one hand.

The United States, under President Theodore Roosevelt, was just beginning its 75-year occupation of the Panama Canal Zone.

"PETER PAN" by J.M. Barrie and "The Sea Wolf" by Jack London, were heading the best seller lists.

James Cagney was getting born in New York City; Bing Crosby in Tacoma, Wash.; and Dick Powell in Mt. View, Ark.

It was the year in which two brothers from Canton Township, Frederick D. and Nelson C. Schrader, decided to establish a furniture store and mortuary on Penniman Avenue in Plymouth.

Schrader's first motorized hearses are shown in about 1915 with the team of dapple gray horses they were soon to replace.

THAT WAS THE beginning of the well-known local establishment which observed its 75th anniversary on March 1 of this year.

The Schrader Funeral Home, now located at 208 S. Main Street, is the oldest business in Plymouth still operating under the same name.

Plymouth had two undertakers at the time the Schrader brothers planned their venture. One was named Bassett and the other was named Millspaugh, and both wanted to sell out.

Nelson Schrader, who had worked for an undertaker, brought experience to the partnership. Fred, who had just sold the family farm in Canton Township, had the money. They bought out Bassett and Millspaugh and established the firm of Schrader Brothers.

Their first step was to buy a building on the south side of Penniman Avenue, between Main and South Harvey. The building, which they bought from the Masonic Lodge, was occupied for years by Schrader's Furniture Store, and later by Blunk's. It now houses a shopping mall containing several small retail stores.

During the early 1900s, when the Schrader's began their mortuary, most funeral services were still being conducted at the home of the deceased or at church. There were no "funeral parlors" in the area.

Undertakers combined their mortuary with a sideline, usually the furniture business. In the case of Schrader's, furniture was sold at the ground level, and embalming was done in the basement.

IN THOSE DAYS, the hearse was drawn by a team of horses.

Burials of the period were described in a paper written by Ada Murray when she was public librarian in Plymouth (1929 to 1953). Mrs. Murray, who was born in 1883, told of early funerals she had witnessed.

"If a burial was to be in a family plot, the pallbearers carried the coffin to the grave, which was excavated by the neighbors. If burial was to be in a cemetery, a black hearse drawn by a team of black horses was used. The hearse was high, with glass sides. It had black urns at the four corners.

If the deceased was an adult, the urns bore black plumes; if a child, the plumes were colored."

The practice of using black horses apparently had ended by the time the Schraders began their mortuary. Bud Schrader, Fred's son, who was to succeed his father in the business many years later, recalls that the horses his father owned were dapple-gray.

"Before Dad bought the grays, Czar Penney, the local liveryman, provided a team and drove them for us."

Bud recalls watching his father hitch the team of grays to the Schrader hearse.

"In cold weather, he would slide a charcoal stove under the buffalo robe at the driver's seat to keep his feet warm on the way to the cemetery."

The horses and hearse were kept in a barn behind Fred Schrader's home at 127 S. Main Street, where Cadillac Drapery store now is located. Bud, who was born in that house, recalls the day in 1915 when his father took possession of a motorized hearse and began to provide the first ambulance service in the area.

"It was the only vehicle in town long enough to fit a stretcher in," Bud remembers.

For many years, the firm continued to use both means of transportation — motorized and horse-drawn. A photo of motorized hearses in front of the Schrader barn also shows the dapple-grays, hitched to their hearse, and gazing dubiously at the mechanized contraptions that would inevitably put them out of work.

Eight years before that, in 1907, Nelson Schrader had left Plymouth to start a furniture and mortuary business in Northville. Fred continued to operate the business they had started in Plymouth.

Great Going, Plymouth and Canton, Let's Do It Again

The Observer & Eccentric's 1978 Plymouth/Canton Gift Guide was recently awarded first place as "Best Special Shopping Area Promotion Section." Chosen from entries from across the nation, the Plymouth-Canton Gift Guide was considered the very best by Suburban Newspapers of America (SNA)

We couldn't agree more with SNA. Plymouth/ Canton is a very special place to shop— —during the holidays and all year 'round. We're proud that we put together an attractive, award-winning showcase for the discerning business people who advertise with us. We're pleased to give our readers local, human interest stories that they've come to expect from us.

But we aren't going to rest on our accomplishments of last year— —we're already planning another prize—winning section filled with gift ideas and local holiday happenings.

If you are a Plymouth or Canton merchant and haven't arranged for your space in this fine section, Audrey Roof, our Plymouth advertising coordinator and John Muir, who does the same for Canton, want very much to hear from you . And they can offer you circulation into the neighboring communities of Livonia and Northville.

Give them a call today. They'll be glad you did. You'll be glad you did. But, most of all, our readers will be glad you did.

Call 591-2300, Ext. 271 for Audrey and Ext. 278 for John.

Milliken cabinet to 'preserve communities'

Brickley sees CDC as urban guardian

By TIM RICHARD

Although the Milliken Administration is committed to halting urban sprawl, don't look to the governor's new Community Development Cabinet to oppose — or endorse — the M-275 freeway project.

"That is not our purpose or role," said Lt. Gov. James Brickley. He chairs the cabinet of top administrators under Milliken's orders to "preserve communities."

"If we did take a position on M-275, then we would become a new Transportation Commission," Brickley said last week in an interview with this newspaper. At the time, he was acting governor while Gov. William G. Milliken was in China.

Instead of taking positions for or against such developmental issues as the western Oakland freeway and Super Sewer, Brickley's CDC group will work indirectly.

"I READ OF a federal official, I don't recall who, saying that the necessity of having to write an urban impact statement had a very subtle impact on federal planning," said Brickley.

"He said that when you know you must prepare an urban impact statement, you start tailoring your plans at the outset with that in mind."

Brickley is a one-time FBI investigator, Detroit councilman, Wayne County supervisor, chief assistant county prosecutor and president of Eastern Michigan University. He was tapped as Milliken's running mate after serving an earlier term (1971-74) because of his knowledge of urban affairs and his championship of regionalism.

Milliken's and Brickley's chief goal, as revealed in their speeches, is to preserve urban areas and stop urban sprawl.

"What has been discovered across the country," Brickley said, "is that on one hand the federal government has a policy of aiding cities, and on the other hand the federal government has aided urban sprawl." He cited highways, sewers, and even home mortgage programs as programs which helped contribute to sprawl.

LT. GOV. JAMES BRICKLEY
'Preserve communities'

"Urban sprawl will break this country, financially and physically," Brickley said.

"WHAT WE WANT to do is have an overlay," he went on.

'But now each member has another role: to preserve communities. We want to develop overall policies — not only to have transportation and jobs but also to preserve communities.'

— Lt. Gov. James Brickley

"Each member of the Community Development Cabinet has a fairly proscribed role.The Department of Natural Resources wants to get polluters out of Detroit. The Department of Commerce wants to get jobs where the people are. The Department of Labor wants to protect workers, and the Department of Transportation wants to facilitate transportation.

"But now each member has another role: to preserve communities. We want to develop overall policies — not only to have transportation and jobs but also to preserve communities."

Brickley's voice rose when he said "preserve communities."

HOW WOULD that policy be translated into action?

"They (department heads) would respond by absorbing it and having it reflected in what they do," Brickley answered.

What if a department head disregards the policy?

"He is accountable to the governor," Brickley replied.

On the question of M-275 — a controversial freeway plan that would link the I-275 and I-96/I-696 intersection in Novi with I-75 near Clarkston — Brickley said, "There is no way of say exactly what M-275 will do."

One group contends M-275 is needed to accommodate existing growth in popular western Oakland County and to fulfill existing community plans.

Another says it would be an environmental disaster to the headwaters of two rivers. Opponents say it would encourage urban sprawl, draining people and resources from older suburbs and Detroit.

BRICKLEY CONFIRMED an earlier report from one of his staff members that the CDC had discussed the subject once, for about an hour. The discussion was essentially a briefing from John Woodford, director of the transportation department.

Woodford and his staff are emphatically in favor of M-275. They persisted in favoring it after the old four-member State Highway Commission cancelled the project in 1977.

The successor agency, a six-member State Transportation Commission, is reconsidering the problem. It is expected to choose next month between a modified freeway plan, a parkway plan and various combinations of local road improvements.

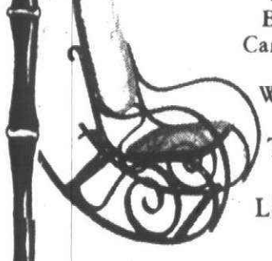

The new transportation commission was created by a state constitutional amendment approved by voters in 1978. The same amendment made Woodford an appointee not of the commission but of the governor.

IN OTHER matters, Brickley revealed Milliken has asked the CDC to prepare a report on what can be done with empty school buildings. Schools, hospitals and other public facilities are abandoned because of population shifts.

"This is coming at a time when the 13 state colleges and universities are asking for $800 million to $900 million for capital expenditures," he said.

Meanwhile, the CDC, whose sole staff member has come from Brickley's office, is in the process of filling four position — three full-time and two part-time. These will be policy analysts and persons with expertise in issues research, preferably with some experience in local government.

editorial opinion

Services raise taxes, not city incorporation

The problem with the township form of government is that too many essential services remain in the hands of someone else.

But if the township tries to take over those essential services, the main advantage of townships — low taxes — is lost.

Canton Township, with a population of about 40,000, has grown too large to function effectively as a charter township. It would be more efficient to incorporate and become a city.

Unfortunately, the move would probably be opposed by people who fear their taxes would go up if such a move was made.

Taxes might rise if Canton becomes a city. However, taxes might rise if Canton remains a township.

The key factor is service. Townships are allocated a small portion of 15 mills for school, county and local government operation.

Cities set their own ceilings (up to 20 mills with voter approval). Cities have more services than the average township; thus the higher taxes.

But as Canton grows, people demand more and more services. Residents wanted a full-time police and fire department and got them — at a price.

People wanted more local recreation and received it — but personnel and planning don't come cheap.

Now people want something done about the poor condition of township roads.

Road maintenance is one of the few city-type services that Canton does not offer. The roads fall under the jurisdiction of the Wayne County Road Commission.

If Canton fixes its roads rather than waiting for the road commission to (maybe) fix them, the work will get done.

But the cost of fixing the roads (and Canton does have plans to work on some roads on its own) will be shouldered by the township, not the county. The county gets gas and weight tax allocations for Canton from the state of Michigan.

If Canton was a city, those funds would come directly to it automatically.

As it stands now, road repair costs will come from the township's general fund. Residents will pay twice to get the work done.

Townships work best in rural areas where people neither want nor need a lot of services.

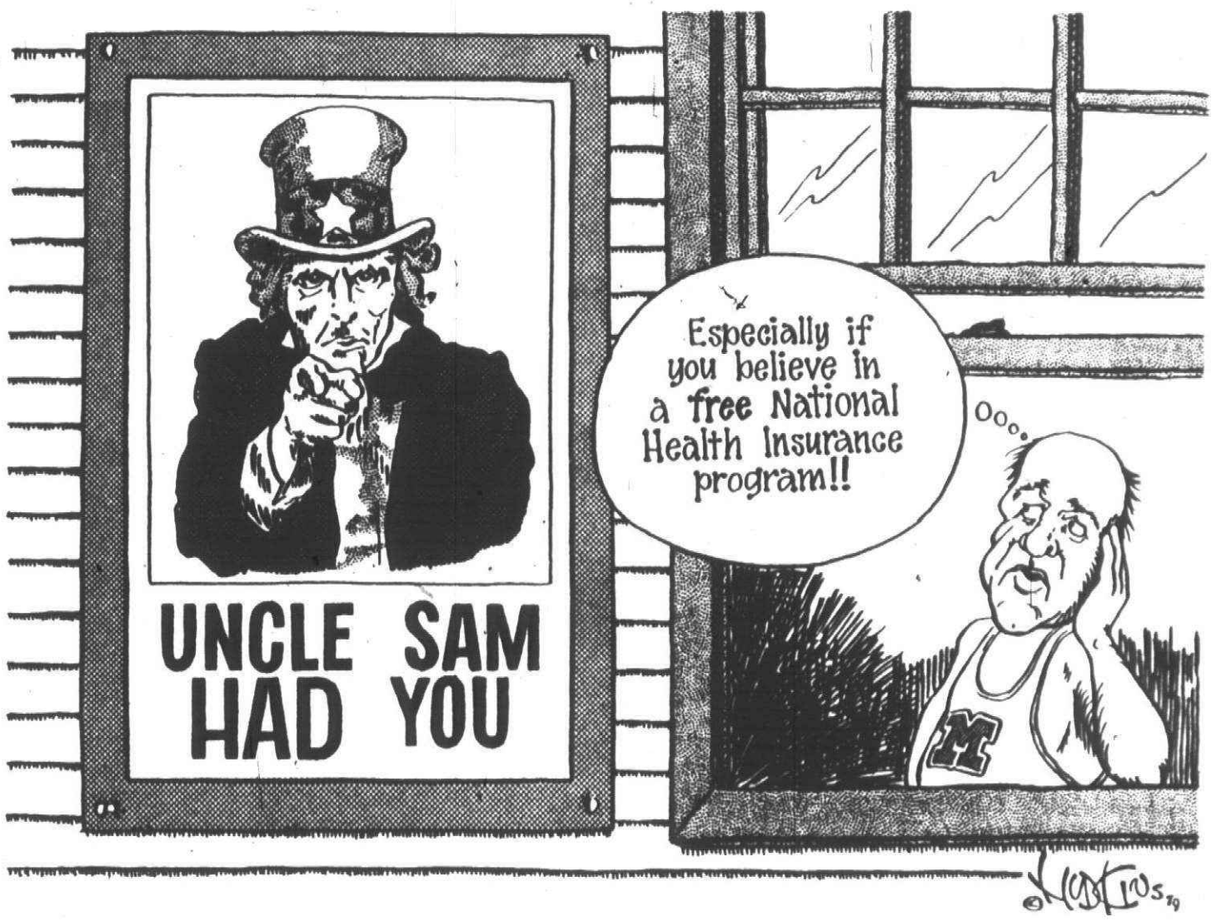

Canton, as a highly populated area, has demanded and received services usually reserved for cities. It is already paying the high cost of police and fire protection. It will be forced to pay even more of the cost of road repair.

If residents want a city, they will have to pay for it. A township exists with the understanding that low taxes mean fewer services.

If Canton incorporated, put a city manager at the helm and quit trying to pretend it is still a rural community, residents would likely get more for their money.

Passage of the Headlee amendment will continue to give residents control over new millage increases, so the residents will not wake up one morning to find taxes doubled.

Better government management, better roads and better general services might be the result.

Cutting the budget

Tim Richard

Thoughts written on little scraps of paper which accumulated on my desk:

CONGRESS CAN'T say "no" to special interests, and so the budget is unbalanced. So we have more money chasing the same supply of goods — hence inflation.

Washington, D.C.'s consumption of liquor, per person, is the highest of any town in the Republic.

Solution: Don't sell any more liquor in Washington, don't serve any more liquor there, and don't allow any liquor to be transported into Washington until the federal budget is balanced.

Shouldn't take long.

CONGRESS PASSES a lot of laws — too many, some folks think — but has a habit of exempting itself from those laws. Some examples compiled by Sen. Dennis DeConcini (D-Ariz.):

- The Civil Rights Act of 1964.
- The Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972.
- The Equal Pay Act.
- The Fair Labor Standards Act.
- The National Labor Relations Act.
- The Occupational Safety and Health Act.
- The Social Security Act.
- The Freedom of Information Act.
- The Privacy Act.

How's that for a double standard?

OIL COMPANIES' earnings in the third quarter are up 80 to 200 percent over a year ago, but the companies say most of the increase is attributable to "foreign operations."

We may take comfort, then, in the fact that Big Oil is gouging "those people over there" and not us.

Somehow that isn't very comforting.

SPEAKING OF double standards, did you notice the one applied recently in Wayne County Circuit Court?

Although the county is broke, Judge Richard Dunn ordered what few bucks remained, and any new bucks that might come in, to be paid first to court employees, which we may take to include judges.

I asked County Board Chairman Richard Manning about that, but he said not to jump on Judge Dunn too quickly. It seems Dunn is under orders from the State Supreme Court administrator to issue such an order, and the supreme court, as we all know, has superintending powers over lower courts.

And so we have the State Supreme Court, guardian of the notion that all folks are created equal, saying that court employees are more equal than other employees, especially on pay day, whenever there is a pay day.

BUREAUCRATS are unpopular people today, especially in the rhetoric of tax limitation folks. Yet I have a couple of hunches we are picking on bureaucrats unfairly as the causes of increasing government spending.

Take Oakland County. When was the last year County Executive Daniel T. Murphy added any employees to the general government payroll? Not in some years — and yet in 1979 Oakland found itself with three more circuit judges, their staffs and a major remodeling job to pay for.

Wayne County's recent history has been one of continuing cutbacks — albeit not enough — in county employment, except in the judiciary.

THE GOOD NEWS has to do with a law which went into effect in December of 1978 — the Bottle Bill, which the Litter Lobby calls "forced deposits."

Not only are there fewer beer and pop bottles and cans on our roadsides, but other kinds of litter have been reduced as the anti-litter mentality catches on.

In test areas, the Michigan Department of Transportation picked up an average of 133 beverage containers per mile in 1977, an average of 207 in 1978 and an average of 35.9 in 1979. Beverage container litter thus dropped 72 to 82 percent.

Just as interesting is the fact that other litter amounted to 645.2 items per mile in 1977, 825.2 per mile in 1978 and 566.1 in 1979 — a reduction of more than 31 per cent on items which aren't covered by the deposit law.

The voters and we editorial writers were right, and the Litter Lobby was wrong. Tell that to your friends in Ohio, where the deposit battle is resuming.

In fact, maybe we should all tell it to Congress and get a national system of deposits on beer and pop cans and bottles.

Fond Depression memories

W.W. Edgar

The public prints these days are filled with nostalgic stories of the great Depression of the late '20s and early '30s, and they bring to light the fact that in the darkest hours even men who were business executives stood on street corners selling apples.

No doubt the editors of these journals are attempting to prepare us for the worst — pointing out that no matter what lies ahead conditions can't be as bad as they were back then.

Each day The Stroller reads these columns with great interest because he is an aluminus of that period and suffered with the rest of the folks who were paid in scrip.

BUT STRANGELY, the editors so far have failed to recall what were exciting days during the Depression. It was the era of the after hours drinking places, then commonly called "blind pigs" or "clubs."

These were the business places to which one gained entry by telling the man on the other side of the peephole in the door that "Joe sent me."

Most all of them had their own codes for admittance. And once one gained admittance the joy was unconfined.

What brings these pigs to mind is the fact that they served free food to lure customers. Each of the top places had special dishes. It was simply a matter of the house specialty that determined which establishment one would patronize.

Of course, this was during Prohibition, and never a day passed when there wasn't some kind of excitement.

But it was the free food that attracted the customers. Well, The Stroller remembers that the best soup in town was served in Arthur Clamagé's "Pig" in the rear of the Avenue Theater on lower Woodward, where the City County building now stands.

IF A FELLOW was hungry for roast beef, chances are he sauntered out to Harold Allen's spot on Michigan Avenue across from what was then the Western Market. There, each day, there was a big roast of beef on the table and you could cut your own. What a delight that was.

But the best of all was the Ash-Trumbull Club at the corner of Ash and Trumbull. It was run by Carl Rosenfeld, now the owner of the famed Carl's Chop House on Grand River.

The Ash-Trumbull Club was different in that one had to pay for the food — but it was worth it. Carl specialized in prize steak in those days. He still does and, despite his 89 years, he is always glad to greet some of his old customers. It was the Ash Trumbull where The Stroller had dinner the first night he was in Detroit.

Many were the times he remained long after the final edition of the Free Press went to press and accompanied Carl to the market at daybreak to purchase his meat for the day.

The Stroller remembers seeing Carl pay $1.37 for a steak in the morning and then selling it for $1.25 with all the trimmings in the evening.

Sure, there was a lot of crime in those days. But the streets were still safe because these underworld characaters preyed on only their own.

ONE OF THOSE crimes will forever be remembered. In those days a fellow named Gus Nichol owned and operated his pig in the place now known as Joey's Stables on West Jefferson. Incidentally, this still is a great eating place.

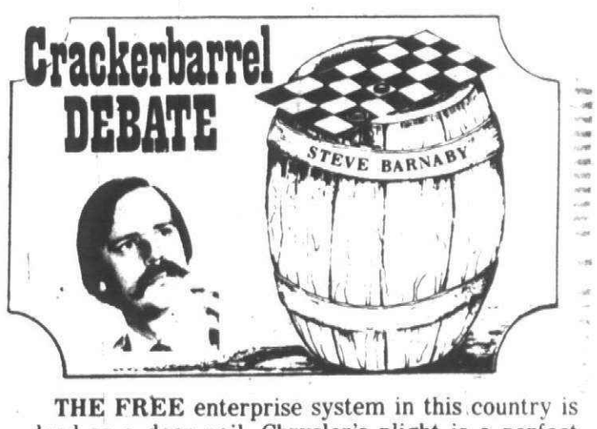

Gus was a great lover of sport and had his own professional football team that played independent teams each Sunday. He'd bring the results to the paper and each week extended an invitation to come out to see him.

One Sunday night, or early Monday morning, when the final edition came off the press we decided to accept Gus' invitation.

As we neared the corner where Gus was the "king" we noticed a large gathering. We asked what was going on and the answer came — Gus had just been shot to death in the doorway.

The "blind pigs" have left lasting memories.

Labor vs. capital? Bunk!

Squeezed between Tuesday's local suburban elections and next year's presidential sweepstakes is one of the most historically significant elections that will be held in this century.

In May, Chrysler stockholders will vote on members for that debt-ridden company's board of directors. On the ballot will be Douglas Fraser, UAW president.

It's about time.

Frankly, I'm gloating. Back in April, I wrote a column extolling the virtues of union's taking on more responsibility in running corporations. Admittedly, at the time, I thought it was a pipe dream.

I really thought it was a pipe dream after the column was published because of the reaction of my union friends. A majority thought the idea was bunk.

For many — unionists and capitalists alike — the idea of a union president on an corporation's board of directors is a sin. But it isn't.

FOR YEARS an unholy alliance has existed between business and labor which says, "Labor will deny its workers the opportunity for control and responsibility, while business doles out benefits and clings to the profits."

Under this mentality, everyone suffers.

What results is an adversary relationship in which business stagnates because of a conservative wish to maintain the status quo.

Workers have been conditioned to scorn responsibility. American productivity sinks every year. New and beneficial ideas from the collective mind go unnoticed and unutilized.

American business becomes less and less competitive in the world market as wages and prices chase each other skyward.

Meanwhile, a majority of business and labor leaders believe that the adversary relationship is healthy.

But they're wrong — dead wrong.

THE FREE enterprise system in this country is dead as a door nail. Chrysler's plight is a perfect example. And there are many more examples hidden in the depths of the confidential memos of various board rooms.

The interest of business and labor is the same — making money. The only divergence is how the money is split.

Every board of directors should be composed of labor and management. Thanks to Lee Iacocca, who suggested the idea of Fraser's candidacy, and Fraser himself, the ground has been broken in big industry. The door has been opened to setting this country's economy and Chrysler back on their feet.

Certainly, it's a small opening. Unionists and capitalists around the country will hysterically rage on about the impropriety of this move — until their companies hit the skids.

There is absolutely no sound reason why workers and managers shouldn't sit down together and amicably decide the fate of a company. One group is no more qualified, or unqualified, to ponder the budget ledger and to decide how to make a company more profitable.

The important factor is to keep the economy healthy, workers employed and profits rolling. It matters not if board room philosophies are disrupted a tad.

How area reps split on sugar protection bill

Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Oct. 18 through Oct. 24.

Roll Call Report

HOUSE

SUGAR BILL: By a vote of 158 for and 249 against, the House rejected a bill to protect the domestic sugar industry against competition from lower-priced imported sugar.

The bill (HR 2172) would have provided higher prices for U.S. sugar and duties on imported sugar. It also would have allowed direct federal subsidies to U.S. growers and processors of up to $50,000 per year.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., a supporter, said the U.S. sugar industry is "going down the drain if we do not do something to stabilize prices."

Rep. Thomas Downey, D-N.Y., an opponent, said the U.S. cannot maintain its current sugar industry "without a big raid on the Treasury."

Members voting "yea" favored bolstering the domestic sugar industry with higher prices.

Reps. David Bonior, D-Mt. Clemens, James Blanchard, D-Pleasant Ridge voted "yea."

Reps. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, William Brodhead, D-Detroit, William Broomfield, R-Birmingham voted "nay."

Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, did not vote.

GASOLINE PRICES: The House rejected, 189 for and 225 against, an amendment to remove government controls from the price of gasoline and do away with the government-run allocation of gas supplies.

Federal price controls, in effect since 1973, are due to be phased out by the end of 1981. This amendment would have immediately removed them and let the oil companies and the marketplace set the price. It was proposed to HR 3000, Department of Energy bill passed and sent to the Senate.

Rep. James Courter, R-N.J., the sponsor, said that by doing away with allocation his amendment would avert future gas lines. Since controls are to be eventually removed, he added, "we might as well do it now when we have a situation where inventories are up and consumption is low."

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., an opponent, reminded the House that "our oil companies are making outstanding profits at this time," and added that the president should retain authority to control prices in order to protect consumers against the pricing consequences of any future cut off of Middle Eastern oil.

Members voting "yea" wanted to immediately remove controls from gasoline prices.

Broomfield voted "yea."

Pursell, Bonior, Ford, Brodhead and Blanchard voted "nay."

IS THERE AN OIL SHORTAGE? The House adopetd, 264 for and 143 against, an amendment requiring the Department of Energy to publish monthly reports on the major oil companies' supplies of crude and refined oil. The amendment was attached to HR 3000 (see previous vote).

Rep. Peter Peyser, D-N.Y., the sponsor, said the amendment striked at the "very heart of every problem we are facing in this country on the oil crisis." He contended that people "have not believed the condition that exists in the oil industry" because the American Petroleum Institute, an industry trade association, provides the data on oil supplies.

Rep. Clarence Miller, R-Ohio, an opponent, said "This amendment will drive the price of the refined products even higher. . . . The cost to the consumer through the price of higher oil products due to these reports greatly outweighs the benefits derived from obtaining these statistics."

Members voting "yea" wanted the government to publish the oil dats.

Pursell, Bonior, Ford, Brodhead, Blanchard and Broomfield voted "yea."

SENATE

SPECIAL AMBASSADOR: The Senate confirmed, 48 for and 35 against, the nomination of former Rep. Robert Krueger, D-Tex., to the new post of Ambassador at Large and Coordinator of Mexican Affairs.

At issue was not Krueger but the precedent of creating a second ambassadorial post to deal with a single country. Some senators speculated that the appointment was intended to circumvent U.S. Ambassador to Mexico Patrick Lucey, who later resigned.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Cal., who supported the nomination, said a special coordinator is needed to insure that U.S.-Mexican problems are not "buried in the bureaucratic maze and left to simmer."

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., an opponent, said Mexican officials suspect the move is President Carter's method of "working out a personnel problem in his administration."

Senators voting "yea" favored Krueger's appointment.

Sens. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., and Carl Levin, D-Mich., voted "yea."

D.C. BUDGET: The Senate approved, 64 for and 19 against, a $1.4 billion District of Columbia budget for the fiscal year which began Oct. 1. The budget is drafted by D.C. Mayor Marion Barry and refined by House and Senate committees. The majority of the budget is raised by D.C. through taxation. About $238 million is the "federal payment" to the capital city. The main issue during floor debate was tough anti-abortion language which the House had attached to the bill.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., a supporter, said: "I can understand the frustration of Mayor Barry. He is trying to do a job, a good job, for his city" and does not like "seeing these budgets held up time after time after time on abortion language."

SEMTA has new park-ride route

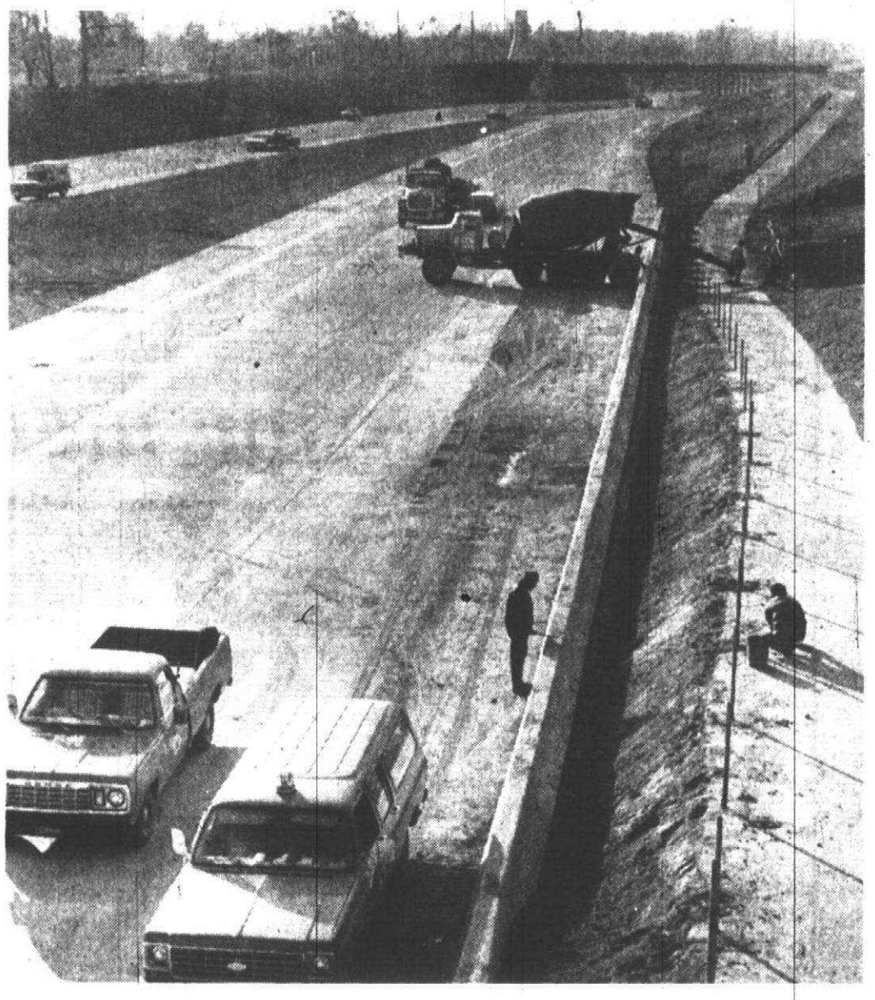

A new park and ride service through Livonia and Redford for western Wayne County bus riders will start Monday, Nov. 5.

Coordinated by the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, the service allows downtown commuters to park their cars in a centrally located lot and take the bus.

The new weekday Western Wayne 815 Park and Ride will begin at Madonna College, Schoolcraft (I-96) and Levan roads. Two other free park and ride lots for the same bus are the Sheldon Center, at Plymouth and Farmington roads, and Wonderland Center, at Plymouth and Middlebelt roads.

The bus will proivide local service on Beech-Daly between Plymouth Road and Schoolcraft, in Redford Township.

ALSO EFFECTIVE Monday, SEMTA will add three inbound morning trips on the 810 Plymouth-Livonia-Detroit Park and Ride. There are currently seven morning trips.

Finishing touches

State inspectors check the finishing touches to the long awaited M-14 freeway which opened to traffic Wednesday afternoon. The $34 million freeway, built north of the existing M-14, stretches from the I-96/I-275 interchange in Livonia to Griswold Road in Washtenaw County. Providing a quicker route to Ann Arbor, the new freeway is expected to relieve traffic on Ford Road, I-94 and Eight Mile Road. Construction on the 73 percent federally-funded project began in 1976. Michigan Transportation Department and local officials participated in opening ceremonies Wednesday, sponsored by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce. (Staff photo by Bill Bresler)

Should he jog or walk?

fitness

Barry Franklin

Which activity, per unit distance, expends the greatest number of calories — walking, running or bicycling?

Due to the popularity of these exercises, there is interest and debate in the number of calories expended per unit distance for each mode of exercise.

Several recent research studies have documented that running a given distance requires a greater number of calories than walking the same distance. The gross caloric cost of walking is approximately .52 calories per pound of body weight per mile (cal/lb/mile). For running it's .77 cal/lb/mile.

In other words, a 154 pound man burns 80 calories while walking one mile (.52x 154), and 119 calories in running the mile (.77 x 154).

IT IS INTERESTING that unless the individual walks or runs at extremely slow or fast paces for each method, the caloric cost per unit distance is relatively independent of speed.

Consequently, body weight and distance traveled — rather than running or walking speed — are the key factors influencing the total caloric expenditure for each activity.

Although many obese persons may be unable to run, their greater body weight moved a longer walking distanee can result in a substantial caloric expenditure.

BICYCLING IS an energy efficient method of covering distance.

The gross caloric cost of bicycling, also relatively independent of speed, is approximately .27 cal/lb/mile. (The caloric cost of bicycling is actually difficult to assess due to many variables including type of bicycle, terrain, wind resistance, etc.)

For a given distance, bicycling utilizes approximately one quarter and one eighth the calories of walking and running repectively.

Expressed another way, the energy cost of bicycling three miles is the approximate equivalent of walking one and one quarter miles or running one mile. In order to burn calories for weight control, a long bicycling distance must be covered.

Evans elected C-C president

Leonard Evans has been elected president of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce for 1980.

Evans, plant engineer at the Ford-Sheldon Plant in Plymouth, served as first vice-president of the chamber in 1979 and was active in the organization's vocational education committee.

Evans also has been active in the Plymouth Community Fund and in Junior Achievement.

Other officers elected include: Betty Stremich of Hillside Inn, first vice-president; George Lawton of the Plymouth Credit Union, second vice-president; Margaret Wilson of the Penn Theater, secretary; and Bill Graham of First National Bank of Plymouth, treasurer.

Elected to the chamber board of directors were: Nick Aron, Chuck Avis, Dave Cook, Joan Gerigk, Harold Guenther, Bev Hoisington, Jim Jabara, Jerry Loiselle, Jim McKeon and Bill Saxton.

The new officers will be installed at the chamber's annual meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 7, in the Mayflower Meeting House.

Guest speaker will be E. Harwood Rydholm, vice president of civic affairs for Chrysler Corp.

A cash bar will open at 6:30 p.m. with dinner being served at 7:30. Cost is $13 per person. Reservations are due by Nov. 2 by calling 453-1540.

Police officer injured in tussle with prisoner

A Plymouth police officer is recovering from rib injuries following a tussle with a prisoner at the city jail last week.

Officer Micheal Gardner is expected back from his disability leave Monday, according to Lt. Carl Berry.

Charged with assaulting a police officer is Douglas C. Dipzenski, 25, of Taylor. Berry said Dipzenski assaulted Gardner when the officer tried to stop him from leaving the police department after Dipzenski was arrested for driving while drinking Oct. 24.

The incident occurred in a hallway off the squad room in the police department at 201 S. Main.

Gardner was taken to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia that night with cuts on his right arm as well as a pain in his ribs.

Dipzenski was arraigned the following day on the high misdeamnor charge before Judge James Garber in 35th District Court in Canton Township.

He suspect mute and was released on a $25 cash bond. He also was released on a $100 cash bond on the charge of driving under the influence of liquor.

Trial date is set for Nov. 5 in the same court.

Durocher haunts Rockets

Canton whips John Glenn, 60-49

By BRAD EMONS

Canton coach Mike McCauley and his players held a pre-Halloween costume party Tuesday before its game with John Glenn, and then haunted the Rockets 60-49 for their ninth straight victory in a non-league girls' basketball game.

The victory lifted the Chiefs' overall mark to 11-3.

McCauley's troops used its full-court transition game to whip Glenn.

"We were a little more aggressive tonight," said McCauley. "Our passing game looked good. We had a lot of nice fast break plays and that was the key. We scored a lot underneath.

"We put in a few drills this week to help us."

Canton met a John Glenn team that was equally as scrappy, drawing praise from the Canton coach.

"They should be a tough team in the tourney," he said. "This is the best John Glenn team I've seen."

Canton will host the district tournament beginning Nov. 26. Besides the Chiefs and Glenn, other teams vying for honors will be Plymouth Salem, Ypsilanti and Belleville.

Glenn coach George Sommerman was pleased with his team's effort despite the loss.

"It was kind of sloppy and we can play better," he said. "But I'm happy because we were competitive with three regulars out.

"I THOUGHT Terri (Slack) did a nice job tonight and Dolly (DeVos) came off the bench and gave us a lift."

Glenn regular Kim Hite did not make the trip because of illness. Because of a leg injury, starting forward Geri Pizzuti sat out the entire game except for one free throw toss. Another Glenn starter has not performed since an injury in the third game.

Sommerman also favors the fast break which turned the game into a hip-checking affair. Canton collected 24 fouls and a technical while Glenn had 15.

"Canton is an aggressive team," said Sommerman, "but their not the roughest we've played.

"I thought the refs let the game get out of control."

Canton got off to a slow start, trailing 8-6 after one quarter.

With senior guard Vicky Cavallaro leading the way, Canton received balanced scoring the second quarter, outscoring the Rockets, 18-9, taking a 24-17 lead into the dressing room.

At the outset of the third quarter, Canton senior forward Diane Durocher provided "instant heat" as she ripped off three straight buckets to give the Chiefs a 30-17 advantage.

Slack, who led all scorers with 16 points, hit a baseline shot with seconds left in the third quarter to pull Glenn within eight, 42-34.

IN THE FOURTH quarter Glenn kept chipping away. Kelly Schultz, who scored 10, hit a free throw with 6:15 left as Glenn trailed 44-40.

But that was as close as the Rockets could get. Durocher, who paced Canton with 12, hit two straight shots giving her team a 48-40 lead.

Jean Timlin's jumper with 2:07 left salted the game for Canton as the Chiefs led 58-43. Timlin added 11 to the attack.

Salem cagers pound Garden City East, 78-38

Senior center Patty Weidman and guard Nan Horwood sparked Plymouth Salem to an easy 78-38 girls' basketball win Tuesday over Garden City East.

Salem increased its overall record to 11-3 with the victory.

Behind Weidman and Horwood, Salem romped early and was never seriously threatened.

Weidman controlled the inside play with 21 points and 10 rebounds. She hits 10 of 17 shots from the floor. Horwood added 16 and connected on seven of 11 tries.

Salem led 12-8 after one quarter, but then outscored the Panthers 24-9 to take a commanding 36-17 halftime lead.

The Rocks, coached by Bob Blohm, really took charge in the third quarter, blitzing Garden City 22-5 and led 58-22 after three quarters.

"Our transition game tonight was really good," said Blohm. "Our girls are pushing the ball up the floor and are starting to flow into the offense.

"We've improved on reading the floor."

With East "packing in its zone," according to Blohm, Salem was able to hit the easy jumper.

"Nan (Horwood) is shooting the ball real good," he said. "She did a real nice job."

Junior forward Cheryl Sobkow aided the Salem cause with six points and eight rebounds. Sophomore guard Eileen Moore and reserve freshman forward Jacque Merrifield each had eight points. Reserve Denise Zonka added seven.

Salem enjoyed its best shooting effort from the field this season, hitting 35 of 72 shots for 48 percent. The Rocks also connected on eight of 11 free throws for 72 percent.

Defensively, Salem used its straight man-to-man coverage in the first half and switched to its run-and-jump, trapping style of play in the second half.

Salem will travel to Belleville for a Suburban Eight League test Thursday at 8 p.m. The Rocks defeated Belleville earlier this season at home, 61-30.

Gridders end contrasting seasons

Brad Emons writes....

The prep football season will officially end Friday for Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools.

Salem, sporting a 6-2 overall mark after a tough loss last week to unbeaten Dearborn Edsel Ford, will take on a dangerous Farmington Harrison team (7-1) at Centennial Educational Park. Game time is 8 p.m.

Canton, winless in eight starts, will travel to Dearborn (5-3) at 3 p.m.

Canton coach Dave Schuele, the eternal optimist, would soon like to forget about this season. With a number of starters returning, Schuele was optimistic going in.

But high hopes turned into a nightmare, especially after dismal showings against Livonia Bentley in the opener (20-0) and two weeks ago against Farmington Harrison (49-0).

Like all winless coaches, Schuele has taken quite a bit of criticism but will not throw in the towel. Last season the Chiefs posted their best season ever at 4-5, renewing good faith for this year.

"I'm just as disappointed as the kids that we haven't won," said Schuele.

"You just can't throw your hands up and lay down. The kids have hung in there and the attitude is the best we've ever had. It's been fun coaching them."

ALTHOUGH NOT to be used as an excuse, Schuele has gone to war the last few weeks with a junior-dominated lineup because of injuries. Inexperience told the story.

"In all my years of coaching I've never encountered as many injuries as this year," he said.

"It started in the pre-season scrimmage when we lost Billy Childs, our quarterback."

The Chiefs' backfield has been decimated this season as seniors Bobby Hamblin, John Tarr and Steve Gray all missed at least two games. None will suit up for Friday's finale.

In Saturday's heart-breaking 14-7 loss to Garden City East, Schuele lost another player when back Eddie Reed was injured.

"When we were running sprints in practice Tuesday I noticed we had only nine backs," said Schuele. "Usually a team has more backs than lineman. We don't."

Canton's defense has been a bright spot this year, if anything can be viewed in a positive vain. It was the defense which made for respectable games against teams like Cburchill, Northville and East.

The offense just never got off the launching pad at Canton this season. The Chiefs' passing game has been inept, and Schuele is the first to admit it.

Canton, however, cannot be singled out for its lack of offense. Many high school teams, especially option teams, have bogged down at times.

Schuele said he plans to implement more passing into his triple-option attack next season. It seems to be a trend among some teams.

DEARBORN IS a big, run-orientated team that "will come at you," Schuele said.

"We're not big, but we hope to work

East edges Canton in final minute

By SCOTT ADLER

Senior quarterback Bill Orr scored from four yards out with 35 seconds left in the game to give Garden City East a come-from-behind 14-7 football victory Saturday night over Plymouth Canton.

Tom Bonner, a senior halfback, rushed for 112 yards in 29 carries to lead the Panthers.

The winning drive covered 36 yards in 11 plays, eating up four minutes of the clock. Garden City improved its overall record to 6-2. Canton dropped to 0-8 with one game remaining.

The Canton defense played a strong game despite yielding 308 yards total offense. Defense, however, was not the difference in the Chiefs' loss. Canton was unable to move the ball offensively.

Canton could muster only 15 yards total offense in the second half. Its only touchdown was a result of a Panther fumble. The Chiefs could boast only 52 yards total offense in four quarters — all on the ground.

Garden City struck first on its initial possession. Orr connected on a 78-yard TD pass with tight end Brian Belcher at 4:49 of the first quarter. East took a 6-0 advantage after Canton blocked the extra point attempt.

Canton moved the ball on its next possession. The Chiefs, however, fumbled on the Panther 35, turning the ball over.

EAST THEN drove down to the Canton 13 only to have the Chiefs' Todd Abram who intercepted Orr's pass at the six.

But once again Canton went nowhere in three plays and was forced to punt, ending the first period.

Canton's defense came up with another big play when senior defensive back Greg Mallare recovered an East fumble on the Panther five.

Three plays later quarterback Kevin Santilli scored the Chiefs' only touchdown on a sneak less than one yard out. The extra point attempt was partially deflected, but still made it through the uprights giving Canton its first lead, 7-6, with five minutes to go in the half.

Garden City dominated the second half and did everything but put the ball into the end zone.

East held the ball 17 of 24 minutes. The Panthers defense limited Canton to 12 offensive plays the entire half, while piling up 39 of its their own.

East, coached by Gary Humphrey, consumed almost 1½ quarters with the ball, but fumbled once again with 8:21 left at the Canton two.

Canton could not move the ball as its offense was once again stymied by the tough Panther defense.

East finally scored on its last possession as Orr scored. East successfully tallied the two-point conversion, making the final count, 14-7.

CANTON TRIED three passes on a final last-ditch effort, but all three throws fell incomplete.

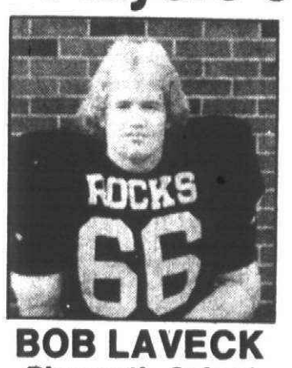

"I wasn't surprised they (East) ran an option left," said Canton coach Dave Schuele, describing the winning play. "He (Orr) just got to the outside an it was all over.

"You usually don't see a team put together a drive like that last one."

Despite the comeback by East, Schuele was satisfied that his team played hard.

Stevenson beats Rocks, 100-72

Canton tankers post fast times

Getting a good home performance at the Salem pool, Plymouth Canton dunked Dearborn Fordson 103-66 in a girls' non-league swim meet Tuesday.

The victory lifted Canton's overall mark to 4-5 overall.

Because of repairs to its own pool, Canton was forced to hold the meet at Salem.

The Chiefs recorded three outstanding performances in the meet.

Junior Kim Massey posted outstanding times in the 100-yard backstroke event (1:09.6) and the 200-yard freestyle (2:08.7).

Foreign exchange student Tarja Tuominen chipped in with firsts in the 100-yard butterfly (1:03.95) and 200-yard individual medley (2:25.1). Missy McMurray was Canton's third double winner with firsts in the 50-yard freestyle (:28.5) and 100-yard freestyle (1:03.1).

Mary Reardon, who won the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 6:23.5, teamed up with McMurray, Massey and Tuominen to win the 400-yard freestyle relay (4:11.7).

Teammates Kelly Salyer, Lissa Potter, Carrie Lewis and Chris Wennerberg took third place in the relay event.

Wennerberg took an individual first in diving (184.45) with teammate Ellie Wagner gaining second place.

The team of Kris Burns, Beth Greenleaf, Julie Stratton and Janet Powell took second place for Canton in the 200-yard medley relay.

Third-place finishes were recorded by Reardon, 200-yard freestyle; Karen Mullen, 200-yard individual medley; Debbie Dickinson, 100-yard freestyle; Powell, 500-yard freestyle; Burns, 100-yard backstroke.

Stratton gained third in the 100-yard butterfly (1:18.9).

"Overall I thought we had pretty good times," said Canton first-year coach Mark Griffith. "We were at home and wanted to win.

"Everybody was in high spirits. Our girls did the job tonight."

Canton will go the .500 mark when it hosts Livonia Churchill Thursday at 7 p.m.

Salem-Stevenson

Powerful Livonia Stevenson handed Plymouth Salem a 100-72 girls' swim defeat Tuesday night.

The Spartans, with only one dual meet loss, got solid performances in all 11 events.

In the most exciting race of the night, Stevenson's Sally Rozman edged out teammate Jackie Cogo and Salem's Terri Eudy in the 100-yard freestyle with a clocking of :57.2. Cogo, who was second, and Eudy, were clocked in :57.3.

Natalie McClumpha of Salem, the top diver in the area, won with a total of 193.45. Teammate Patty Larson was second (176.75).

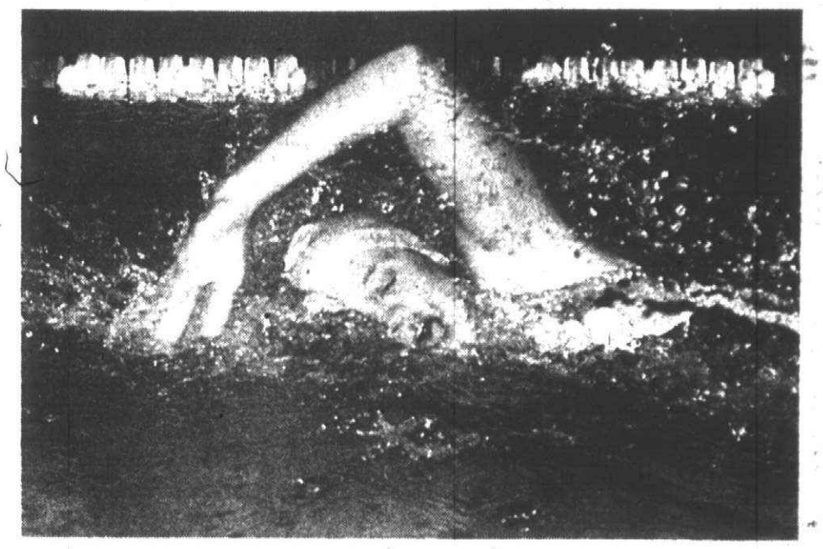

Other Salem firsts were recorded by senior Sharon Ross in the 500-yard freestyle (5:52.5) and Linda Wochna in the 100-yard backstroke (1:11.0).

Second-place finishes by the Rocks were recorded by Ross, 200-yard individual medley, 2:29.0; Eudy, 50-yard freestyle, :27.2; and Sue Evans, 100-yard butterfly, 1:14.0.

Salem swimmers placing third included Renee Lakatos, 200-yard freestyle, 2:22.0; Wochna, 100-yard butterfly, 1:18.0; Corinne Cabadas, 100-yard breaststroke, 1:20.0.

In the 400-yard freestyle relay, Salem took third with a time of 4:12.7. Members of the relay were Nancy Lazarus, Lakatos, Ross and Eudy.

In the 200-yard medley relay, Wochna, Corinne and Julie Cabadas and Evans swam to a 2:08.6 clocking — second place.

Kim Massey gave Canton a lift when she won the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 1:0?9.6. The Chief junior also won the 200-yard freestyle. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Chief JV's wrap up league grid crown

By STEVE GRAY

The Plymouth Canton junior varsity football team rolled up over 200 yards rushing as the Chiefs defeated Farmington Harrison last Thursday, 20-0.

It was the second straight shutout for the Canton defense.

The victory gives Canton its first Western Six League reserve championship, the first ever in the school's history. The Chiefs finished with a 5-0-1 mark.

Halfback Steve Hamblin scored from four yards out and quarterback Chris Susock hit flanker Jamie Chilcoff on a 25-yard touchdown pass to put Canton ahead, 13-0, at halftime.

Freshman Chuckie Davis tallied the third Canton TD in the fourth quarter on a one-yard run.

"The defense did a super job again," said a delighted Chief coach Dean Naude. "You've really got to give the kids credit. They've worked really hard.'

Canton's final game of the season will be today at Livonia Bentley. Game time is 6:30 p.m.

Salem-Edsel Ford

Six lost fumbles consistently put the Rocks defense in a hole last Thursday as the Plymouth Salem junior varsity football team lost to Dearborn Edsel Ford, 22-12.

Edsel Ford scored three times before the Rocks' offense got going in the second half.

Salem scored when quarterback Jeff Soluk hit split end Bruno Genrich with a 25-yard pass.

Pat Tortora scored later in the fourth quarter for the Rocks on a 52-yard scamper, but that was all Salem could muster as Edsel Ford held on for the victory.

"The total yardage was even," said Salem coach Bob Brodie, "but the fumbles hurt us again and we really didn't play well defensively."

The Rocks will play their final game of the season when they host Livonia Stevenson today at 4 p.m.

Canton holds cage marathon

The basketball and cheerleading teams at Plymouth Canton will try to raise money for programs in a 24-hour marathon, Nov. 16-17.

There will be a "Meet the Chiefs" program Friday at 7 p.m. as coach Craig Bell will introduce his players followed by the actual marathon at 8 p.m.

The fund raiser is slated to end on Saturday at 8 p.m. Pledges will be taken and the public is invited.

Canton girls qualify

PLYMOUTH CANTON'S girls team qualified three runners for the state Class A meet Saturday at Falkwood Shores near Howell.

The Chiefs placed seventh out of 11 teams.

Sophomore Michelle Perrot, junior Kathy Brophy and senior Geri Shufeldt all crossed the finish line together in 20:21 to gain a berth in the state meet.

"I think its great," said Canton coach Jim Hayes. "They've worked hard. It's a real treat."

The Canton boys' recorded their highest finish ever by gaining 13th spot overall.

Six of the seven Canton runners recorded their best times of the season.

Mike Talaga led the Chief finishers with a time of 16:48. Dan Inloes was next in 16:52 followed by teammate Randy Hennels in 16:56.

All three times were personal bests. Other Canton finishers included Dan McGlinn (17:48), Steve West (17:50), Mark Anderson (18:00) and Barron Smith Smith.

PLYMOUTH SALEM was back in the pack as senior Paul Hess was the top finisher in 26th place with a clocking of 16:35. He was followed by teammates Jeff Haertel (17:57), Todd Curtis (18:06) Brian Hendrickson (18:12) and Frank Brosnan (18:18).

Regulars John Wall and Mark Litalien did not compete in the meet because of ankle injuries suffered in last week's league meet.

Hess missed making the state meet by four places.

"Injuries have really hurt us this year," said Salem coach Scott Dunson, "but we did not come mentally ready to run in a few meets.

"We only had three runners returning. I think some of the kids who ran junior varsity really improved this year."

Class meet at Cass Benton

Catholic Central rules regional

To say that area runners fared rather poorly during the two Class A cross country regionals at Cass Benton Park last weekend would be a gross understatement.

Except for the showing of Detroit Catholic Central, Observer-area teams had little to show for their efforts.

The Shamrocks finished first as a team in Section 2 and will compete for the Class A state championship this weekend in Howell.

CC, which totalled 57 points, bested 18 teams in Section 2. Dearborn Fordson placed second with 91 points and Dearborn third with 105.

All three qualify for the finals.

CC's Andy Dillon, a senior who has been a standout the past two seasons, led all Section 2 finishers with a time of 15:23.

Other Shamrock scorers were John Casey, fourth, 15:55; Mike Nugent, eighth, 16:09; Dan Ryan, 20th, 16:37; and Craig Dahl, 24th, 16:42.

CC coach Tony Magni termed Ryan's effort the key to the first-place team finish.

"He's been injured all year. We taped him up and he ran tough," said Magni.

Magni figures that his Shamrocks have a good chance to win the state title for the first time ever. The regional championship was the first in CC cross-country history.

"If Dillon runs well and Ryan comes through again, we could surprise a lot of people," said Magni. "I think six teams can win it. If we run a real fine race, we have a good shot. Grosse Pointe North is the favorite."

Redford Union placed ninth in Section 2 with 266 points, Redford Bishop Borgess 11th with 318 and Redford Thurston 16th with 447.

Borgess' best finisher was Mark Hakim, who clocked 16:53. Thurston's Mike Bauman led his team with a time of 17:02.

THINGS WERE much more competitive in Section 1 of last weekend's regional at Cass Benton.

Not a single area team finished among the top three teams.

Worse yet, only four area runners placed among the top 10 after all harriers from the three teams which qualified were weeded out.

Those 10 runners may also compete in the state finals in quest of personal glory.

Ann Arbor Pioneer bested the 23-team Section 1 field with 63 points. West Bloomfield totalled 88 and Adrian 176.

The four Observer-area individual qualifiers are Paul Coburn and Jeff Bristow, from Livonia Franklin; Santo Campbell, from Westland John Glenn; and Mike Stapleton, from Garden City East.

Coburn was the third Section 1 runner to complete the three-mile race. His time was 15:41. Bristow placed 14th with a run of 16:16.

Campbell finished 17th with an effort of 16:19 and Stapleton landed 18th with an effort of 16:19, eight-tenths of a second behind Campbell.

Other than that, it was nothing doing for area runners. It was one of the most disappointing regionals for area teams collectively in years.

Livonia Stevenson finished seventh with 219 points; Glenn, 11th, 299; Livonia Churchill, 12th, 311; Franklin, 13th, 317; Plymouth Canton, 14th, 322; GC East, 18th, 470; Garden City West, 19th, 508; Plymouth Salem, 20th, 509; and hard and give Dearborn a run."

Despite only one loss, Harrison's playoff chances are slim and none. Of the once-beaten teams, the Livonia Churchill-Livonia Stevenson winner will have the best shot at a playoff berth in Region II only if Niles or Adrian falters. The top two teams qualify for the playoffs with the unbeaten tracks of Niles and Adrian giving them the inside track.

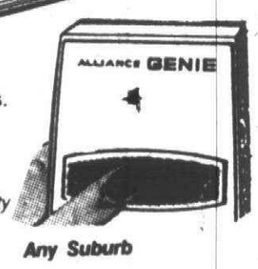

"Harrison is a very impressive team," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer, who has scouted the Hawks twice.

Harrison, which shut out North Farmington 20-0 at the Silverdome last Saturday, will rely on the explosive play of backs Ken Kopko and Reggie Upshaw, both juniors.

Kopko is Harrison's leading rusher this year while Upshaw sprinted 77 yards for a TD against North.

IN THE POCKET

By W.W. EDGAR

One of the most interesting developments along the bowling front these days is the rise of the junior bowlers.

Once cast aside to bowl at unusual hours to make room for adults, the juniors now are taking their place in the bowling sun and sounding a warning to the all stars that they are on their way.

One of these young lads is Dave Hamilton of Farmington, who this week rolled his first 700 series and made good the prediction of Fred Hamlin, owner of Farmington Lanes, that he was one of the best prospects he ever had seen.

In his latest venture in the high school league last Saturday this 16-year-old youth rolled his first 700 series. He did it with games of 247, 246 and 219. This comes on the heels of a 695 bowled recently at Bel-Aire Lanes.

So, keep his name in mind. Chances are you will be hearing more about him.l

HIGH SCORING honors for the week again went to Westland Bowl where three of the sharpshooters broke the 700 barrier.

The high scoring came in the Little Caesar Classic where Bill Todd set the pace with a 751 gained on games of 245, 257 and 249. The big count was only 12 pins above Mike Lee, the southpaw who linked counts of 246, 258 and 238 for 742. The third barrier breaker was the work of Ken Lang, who opened with a 238, followed with 258 and closed with 221 for 717.

On the women's side of the classic top honors went to Pat Mayles with a 612 and Linda Huddeleston landed second place with 609.

And while all the heavy firing was going on, John Hurley, who seldom lets a week go by without a 700, had to be content with a 649 in the Monday men's league.

DOROTHY DEFFANDOUGH missed a 600 series by two pins to pace the Merri-Bowl doubles with a 598 that included a 236 game. Next to her came Linda Henderson with 221 in 574.

In the junior house league Mike Kane led the parade with 637 that included a 288 opener.

WHILE DAVE HAMILTON was bowling his 712 series at Farmington Lanes, he had to yield high single game honors to Berry Van Dike who came through with a 254 in 639.

In the ladies classic Barbara Rogers had the thrill of bowling her first 600 series when she set the pace with 630. In the junior league on Saturday morning Mario Serra was high with a 231 in 601.

GEORGIANA KERWAN walked away with top honors in the Livonia Ladies Classic. She won two of the three games and took the series with 494-138 — 632. The only game she missed was the opener that was taken by Kay Harman with 164-30 — 194.

THE PINBUSTERS lived up to their name at PLaza Lanes when it seemed to be 600 or no count. The top pin buster was Don Rousseau with 683.

Then, in order, came Buzz Ray with 658, Jim Mussat with 626, Greg Prestone with 623, Dennis Seeman with 607, Kevin Wonder with 603 and Richard Smith with 602.

In the Kings and Queens loop Jim Mieras was the pacemaker with a closing 257 in 683. In the Plymouth men's league top honors went to Joe Barbee with 663 and Dennis Seeman was next with 602.

DICK HALL had one of his best nights in the Misfits loop at Garden Lanes. He closed with a 245 in 662 and Rick Setlock was right behind with a 634. In the Moose league Dave Moran was tops with 615. This was 18 pins more than Jim Dea in second place. In the I.O.F. loop Phil Dint rolled 595 to beat Jim Calument by a single pin.

THE OLD TIMERS had a big day at Woodland Lanes. Gordon Wallis showed the way with 542. Others in line were Frank Doyle with 534, Ken Croft with 509, Henry Settles with 568, Tom Jones with 518 and Ray Chamberlain a 201 in 598. Marie Crite paced the ladies with 475.

Don Cenchanko had nine strikes in a row and wound up with 279 to show the way in the Bator's league. In the junior house Joe Lee was top man with 614 and Tom Novak was next with 558.

CC harriers cop Class A regional

Livonia Bentley, 21st, 524.

Jim Patterson was Churchill's best finisher with a clocking of 16:40. GC West was spearheaded by Todd Crump, who ran 1f7:14. Bill Beernink led Bentley with an effort of 17:08 and John Bowie was Stevenson's best finisher.

REDFORD UNION finished second to Ann Arbor Pioneer during the girls' regional.

Pioneer compiled 58 points, RU 72, Farmington Hills Mercy 108 and West Bloomfield 140. Those four teams advance to Howell for the girls' state finals.

Thirteen teams competed during the regional at Cass Benton.

RU was led by freshman Angie Mogielski, who finished second overall with a time of 19:08. Teammates Nancy Adams placed 10th, Pam Sionkowski 16th, Julie Morris 24th and Gail Asiala 32d.

Julie Foldi and Mary Arcand also completed the race for the Panthers.

"I was expecting to qualify (for the finals) and I expected we might win (the regional)," said RU coach Mike Krafchak. "We ran very, very well. I can't really complain. I thought they did a really fine job."

Krafchak added that his squad's goal this weekend in Howell is to finish among the top six or seven teams.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the girls' meet was the poor fifth-place showing of Livonia Stevenson. Paul Holmberg, coach of the Spartans, was at a loss for an explanation.

"That was quite a disappointment," he said. "I didn't think there was any way we couldn't qualify, but they showed me how.

"The girls felt kind of helpless," he continued. "They tried to move, but they felt like their legs were tied to the ground."

Stevenson's Lori Bennett qualified as an individual for the state meet with a time of 19:20 and a fourth-place finish. Pam Prater, from Westland John Glenn, also qualified in 20:06 to place 12th.

Plymouth Canton finished seventh as a team, 167 points; Redford Bishop Borgess eighth, 229; and Glenn 11th, 287.

Thirteen teams competed.

Hewlett moves up, now behind Wangler

By W.W. EDGAR

When the University of Michigan football team takes the field against the Badgers of Wisconsin Saturday afternoon don't be surprised if you see Rich Hewlett, the former Plymouth Salem High school star, making his debut in Big Ten Competition.

Ever since the season started he has been looked upon as an option quarterback with a lot of talent. But Coach Bo Schembechler had three other quarterbacks and Rich was destined for the bench — at least most of the way.

Then things started to happen. First, Gary Lee, one of the three, quit because he claimed he wasn't getting enough playing time. Then the injury jinx caught up with B.J. Dickey, the regular starter.

That moved Hewlett up to second string quarterback, the backup man to John Wangler, who played most of the game last week against Indiana and who threw the winning touchdown pass.

Now, it is almost certain that Wangler will get the call against the Badgers. And right behind him will be Hewlett who has been at Schembechler's side during every game, drinking in the knowledge of the Michigan system as play moved up and down the field.

It is no secret that the Michigan coaches think well of Hewlett. Even before the season started when Schmembechelr was asked about Hewlett he answered without hesitation, "He's damn good." Since then the former Plymouth star has been a factor in the success of the junior varsity. It was his passing that won two of the games.

"Right now, he's further advanced than Rick Leach was at the same period in their careers," Wally Weber, the old time fullback explained. "And you'll hear a lot more about him — maybe before the season ends."

Unless Dickey's injured shoulder mends before Satruday, which doesn't seem possible according to Schembechler, Hewlett may get his big chance. And it is probable, if you take the word of some of the coaches, that once Hewlett is in the lineup it may take a lot of doing to get him out of there.

COMMERCIAL-FREE WEEKENDS

WRIF saluted the 25th anniversary of rock and roll for five weekends straight in January completely commercial-free. One weekend was devoted to rock from the Sixties; one to Michigan artists; another to British Rock.

HEROES OF ALBUM ROCK

Five weekends in April and May. A fifteen-year history in music, concerts, and interviews.

WOODSTOCK: TEN YEARS LATER

Narrator John Sebastian called Woodstock "graduation exercises for the class of the Sixties" and this special August 17 and 18 "a class reunion."

SUPERGROUPS

Concerts recorded live by bands like Foreigner and the Allman Brothers, among others. Saturday nights.

SECOND ANNUAL MOTOR CITY MUSIC MADNESS

Labor Day once again went commercial-free and free of everything but Detroit rock and roll. Local bands featured.

LED ZEPPELIN:

Direct from London to the Detroit air waves. Interviews with members of the band and music from the new album.

SIMULCAST CONCERT:

Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes rocked live on WRIF, August 15.

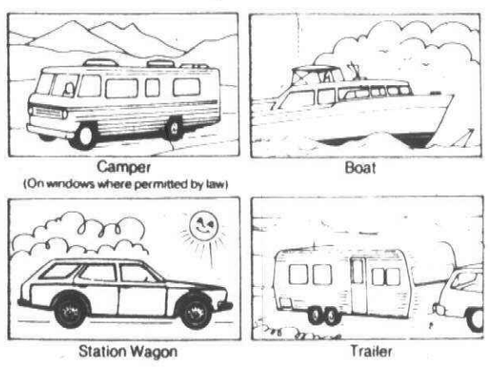

FRIDAY NIGHT LATE SHOW

Concerts by fast-rising stars, such as the Police and Joe Jackson, recorded live. Midnight.

McGuire loves college game

By DAVE SCHWARTZ

There are people who will stretch the truth in order to be tactful. Then there is Al McGuire.

McGuire has never been accused of being tactful, but he has been described as colorful.

It's no cliche to say that the Pied Piper of New York is a man of many different things to many different people. He was at the Hyatt Regency Hotel Tuesday, giving his views at a U-D fundraiser.

McGuire is drawing rave reviews as a color commentator on NBC's college basketball coverage. This follows a stint as head basketball coach at Marquette University which safely can be termed "successful".

McGuire is known as a fiery personality. His views had a message for players and fans. He talked about Pete Axthelm's book, "The City Game."

"When we recruit, the main thing we look for is something we call control quickness. There are players who are quick. But you have to have control quickness," said McGuire.

"It's an overall sense of what's happening on the court. You have to know what to do with your quickness. You have to know how to move without the ball. During a game, a player spends over 26 minutes moving without the ball.

"One of the players that I recruited here in Detroit was Terry Tyler (now on the Pistons). He had what you look for. He was a good kid with a good attitude, someone we called a 'nosebleeder.' He could really get up there on the backboards," McGuire said.

"We visited him whenever I was in town. But he stayed here," he added.

McGuire expounded his views on the differences between city and suburban games. He is fond of saying "He's a typical white player. He's slow and he can't jump."

No offense intended, McGuire explained. "Basketball started out being a white man's game. It became a black man's game when the NBA put the (24 second) clocks in over 20 years ago. That changed the game," he said.

"It changed from give-and-go and box-out, to running up and down the court and shooting. That fits the playground style more. I truly believe, as Axthelm says, that outside of Indiana, basketball is a city game.

"I used to think that the way to defense a black kid would be to zone him and a white kid to press him man-to-man. Now, I don't know," he said. "There's a lot of quality coaches going into the inner-city these days, so you're getting all kinds of coaching at all the different levels.

"But on the playgrounds, you're playing 365 games a year. Out at these smaller schools outside of the city, once basketball season is through, they need you for the baseball team. Once baseball's through, they need you for football or track or so on.

"These summer camps are a good thing for the kids, though. They get a lot of competition there."

The entire nation wept with McGuire when he capped off his illustrious coaching career by winning the 1977 national championship.

If U-D wanted somone to talk about success, they found a man who has it as his middle name.

"The last three years, U-D has really come, so to speak, out of the wood," said McGuire. They've almost turned the corner a couple of times, but something stopped them, tripped them up each time.

"You need a couple classy players, and some local support. It's a long road. U-D has some good players, (Dave) Niles, (Wilbert) McCormick. They've made great strides," he said. Niles is a graduate of Garden City West.

"When I tried to sell a player on Marquette, one of the things I emphasized was that Milwaukee is an NBA city," McGuire continued."They'd be getting NBA exposure. A kid like that, that impresses him. It's important to have that NBA, big city exposure.

"Another thing was, hey, basketball is the main sport here at Marquette, basketball is the main sport at U-D. Here, the students wait for the basketball season to start. It isn't just another sport."

McGuire stated that for now he is very happy in the announcing booth. His role as a celebrity helped him raise a tidy sum in a charity run. In fact, the old coach donated $17,000 of his own money.

WRIF 101

Grid year concludes with area rivalries

Eight weeks ago, area high school football coaches had great expectations, many doubts, pessimistic outlooks, or a combination of those just before the start of another campaign.

Since then, some squads have reached great heights. Others have experienced bitter disappointment. Still others have floated along from week to week, winning here and losing there.

Four teams still entertain hopes of qualifying for the playoffs.

Two — Livonia Churchill and Livonia Stevenson — play each other 7:30 p.m. Friday at Stevenson. Both teams lost their season openers and have won seven in a row since then to sport 7-1 records.

Both won league championships — Stevenson in the Inter-Lakes League and Churchill in the Western Six League.

Churchill triumphed last season 28-0 on its home field.

The winner of that game will probably qualify for the Class A state playoffs from Region 2 only if Niles loses to Dowagiac or Adrian falls to Redford Union.

Ken Kaestner, who took his Chargers to the playoffs last year, is optimistic. "It's going to be a helluva game. They're a good football team. Good Lord, we've come this far, why not one more?"

However, Stevenson coach Jack Reardon and his crew have been in big games before and come through with flying colors.

DETROIT CATHOLIC CENTRAL, unbeaten this football season, can clinch a berth in the Class A state playoffs in Region 4 if it defeats Detroit DeLaSalle 8 p.m. Sunday in the Pontiac Silverdome.

CC, which has a storied gridiron history, has defeated some of the best teams in the state while rolling to an 8-0 record. DeLaSalle, which used to compete in the Central Division with the Shamrocks before moving to Double A, has lost once.

REDFORD UNION, Northwest Suburban League champion, hosts unbeaten Adrian 8 p.m. Friday. This game meant a lot more a couple of weeks ago when both teams were unbeaten.

RU was shocked by Walled Lake Western last weekend.

The Panthers will need a lot of help and the same amount of luck to qualify for the playoffs now.

For RU to qualify, Catholic Central must lose, Detroit Cooley must lose in the Public School League championship and the Panthers must defeat Adrian.

Then, RU's opponents during the season must virtually all win this weekend.

Sound impossible? Maybe, but North Farmington qualified last year when several unlikely events fell into place.

One thing in RU's favor Friday is that Adrian's starting quarterback, Scott McNitt, broke his leg last weekend. Adrian had been a predominantly passing-oriented team up to now.

RU coach Harvey Heitman said his team will just have to get together and let the chips fall where they may.

"If we beat them, it will be the most wins (in a single season) in RU history. The world didn't come to an end when we lost. We want to come back and upset a team that is ranked higher than us," said Heitman.

"We have a lot to be thankful about, whether we win or lose. We just want to erase the embarassment (loss to WL Western)," said Heitman.

GARDEN CITY WEST will host Garden City East 2 p.m. Saturday. The occasion will mark the 16th meeting between the two schools.

West won the first two games, 21-0, in 1965 and, 14-7 in '66. East, however, has emerged victorious in every game since except for the tie played in 1970.

REDFORD ST. AGATHA, which has won five games in succession after three losses to start the campaign, will have a chance to turn the tables on one of the teams which dealt it a defeat.

The Aggies will entertain Dearborn St. Alphonsus 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Kraft Field (Hilbert Jr. High).

St. Alphonsus won 12-7 Sept. 15 with a late touchdown.

FRED MUSHINSKI, coach at Redford Bishop Borgess, is just glad that the season is ending. His Spartans have scored only three touchdowns while losing seven of eight games.

Borgess will meet Royal Oak Shrine 2 p.m. Saturday at Garden City East.

"It has been extremely frustrating and discouraging," said Mushinski. "The season is slowly coming to a painful end. The kids have hung in the best they could."

Bentley girls continue torrid pace

Livonia Bentley, a little rusty at the start after a week's layoff, defeated Livonia Franklin 56-43 Tuesday in a non-conference girls' basketball game.

The Bulldogs, which had downed Franklin by 26 points earlier this season, led 11-8 after the first quarter Tuesday, 26-16 at the half and 41-25 after three periods.

"We started off slowly probably due to the layoff," said Bentley coach Tom Lang. "Their size gave us trouble early. They controlled the boards pretty much."

The Bulldogs switched from a match-up zone defense to a man-to-man during the second half. "They had a hard time with it," said Lang.

Three Bentley players reached the double-digit column of the scoring ledger. Carla Campbell netted 15 points, Beth Almburg 13 and Sheila Degrazia 12.

Anna Collins scored 13 points for the Patriots and Julie Wilga chipped in with 11.

"Kim Siterlet came off the bench and scored six points, had seven rebounds and really helped us on the boards," said Lang.

The victory was the Bulldogs' 13th in 14 games. The loss evened Franklin's overall record at 7-7.

Bentley won the JV game, 67-20.

GARDEN CITY WEST finally put together a good offensive and defensive effort in the same game. The Tigers upended Taylor Kennedy 36-27 in a Tri-River League contest.

Kennedy had defeated West by nine points during their first meeting this season.

Darcy Waldron scored 16 points Dee Plitt eight and Lisa Corry seven for West.

"We've been working on our offense over and over and they really put it together. It really made the difference," said Pat Burke, coach of the Tigers.

West, which had used a zone defense throughout the first half, switched to a press in the third quarter when Kennedy closed its deficit. That strategy proved to be successful.

Burke also termed her team's effort from the free-throw line a key to victory. Kathy Neslund converted on both of two chances, Plitt hit two of two and Corry made good on three of four shots.

"I've stressed so many times a game can be won or lost at the line," said Burke.

The Tigers improved their conference and overall records to 2-6 and 3-10, respectively, with the win.

West also recorded victory in the JV game 17-5.

REDFORD THURSTON rebounded from a tough loss to Redford Union by routing Clarenceville, 77-36, in a non-league game.

Theatre Guild opens season

Audience participation will be encouraged when "Love Rides the Rails" opens Friday in the Central Middle School auditorium, Main and Church streets.

The Plymouth Theatre Guild has requested audience reaction be limited to verbal rather than physical response.

Show-goers can boo, hiss, applaud, cheer or shed a tear for the hero and the not-so-helpless heroine. Hot, buttery popcorn, almost a necessity at an old-fashioned melodrama, will be available for munching.

Curtain time will 8 p.m. for all performances. Dates are Nov. 2, 3, 9 and 10. Tickets may be purchased in advance from guild members or at the door. Cost is $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for senior citizens and persons under 18. Call 261-2875 or 455-4755 for information about special group rates for 20 or more persons, or for reservations.

ROBIN GALICK, PTG president is producing the show. She has worked in every capacity of theatre behind the scenes for six years. Like most guild members, Robin is working hard to find a permanent home for storage of sets and for presentation of PTG productions. She lives in Livonia with her husband, Gary, and daughter, Marisa.

David Ide, a member of the PTG board, is director. His talents include artist, light man and set construction. He used them all in the guild production of "Play it Again, Sam." He received the drama key for his work in theater at Plymouth Salem High School and was president of the International Thespian Society.

Clemie Cyburt, associate director, has been involved with PTG for 14 years. The Canton Township resident has acted in many plays. She also has directed, produced and served behind the scenes. She is married and the mother of three children.

Patricia Bray, past president of the guild, plays the widow Hopewell. An expert in all phases of theater, her last role was Mary in "Mary, Mary" for the PTG-Mayflower Dinner Theater.

PAT THOMAS is making her debut with PTG as Prudence Hopewell, the heroine. Miss Thomas was a finalist in the Westland Jaycees Junior Miss Pageant.

Dave Higginbotham, plays Truman Pendennis, the hero. A member of the guild board, he is a singer, actor, and also has worked as painter, set builder, poster maker and stage manager.

Dick Merrill is Richard Standfast. He began as a light and sound man in community theater, but wondered what it was like to be on stage. He took a walk-on role which lead to supporting and leading roles. He played Nick in "Time of Your Life," and Warden Holt in "The Valliant."

Chuck Miller has progressed on the PTG stage from a policeman in "Cheaper by the Dozen" to the suave attorney in "Mary, Mary" to the villain in "Love Rides the Rails."

Carole McNulty of Livonia plays Carlotta Cortez, dance hall owner. She has appeared many times on the PTG stage. She is married and the mother of four children.

Patti Troth has the role of Fifi, the fallen woman. This role is a far cry from from her first major role, a sweet young thing in "We Have Always Lived in the Castle."

BUZZ BUZZELL has a long list of credits which include drama, comedy, musicals, mime, make-up artist and, most recently, director for the Royal Court Players 10th Medieval Festival in Ann Arbor. He plays the role of Fred Wheelwright, an elderly railroad worker.

Mary Cantine will be Beulah Belle, the dance hall hostess. In the guild's production of "Play it Again, Sam" she played an intellectual. She attended Weist'Bronn acting school for television commercials.

Dennis Schlicker plays Dan the bartender in his first appearance on PTG's stage. He came to a rehearsal last season and became fascinated with theater. He worked on set construction for "Lion in Winter" and "Play it Again, Sam."

Christopher Anderson has the role of the officer. This is his debut on stage as an actor although he has performed as a magician.

Eileen Agius, Karen Groves, Verna Paul and Jan Gattoni are dance hall girls.

Andrew Hruska, longtime guild member, plays the part of a railroad worker and also is set construction chairman for the show. Lisa Frank is pianist. Leona Glossenger and Sandra Richards are choreographers. Sandra Richards is set decorator. Roscoe DeMars is handling lights. Richard E. Brown is sound man and Rod Morey is doing make-up.

Robin Galick and Vi Roberts are responsible for programs; Clemi Cybert and Robbie Halley for costumes; David Ide and Vi Roberts, for publicity; Patti Troth and Nancy Beasley,for props. Patti Troth is stage manager.

Low budget enrichment program is high quality

By BETTY MASSON

Senior citizens, Bell Telephone officials, housewives and performing artists, all have succumbed to the blandishments of Phyllis Evans, who believes that children's minds should be stretched.

Earlier this year, Mrs. Evans talked the Parent-Teacher Organization of Hulsing School in Canton Township into letting her set up a media enrichment program for the school. Her budget was $150 for the year.

With this, Mrs. Evans has been able to come up with almost weekly programs of an interesting and diverse nature for the students at Hulsing.

Events as an "egg-drop" have already taken place. Eighty-seven students were able to figure out a way (using some principles of physics) to drop an egg off the roof of the school and have it come through the ordeal unscathed. Eggs were packed in containers ranging from nerf balls to Tootsie roll cans, Some were outfitted with parachutes.

In another program students heard a concert by Clara Walker, a harpist from Inkster. They had an opportunity to pluck her concert harp, and to hear about the difficulties she and her husband had because of racial discrimination.

Ivory soap has been flying in all directions in Hulsing homes after a retiree, Paul Kitti, showed students how to carve in soap. He also demonstrated different types of wood they could work with when they grew older.

MOST RECENTLY, a group of senior citizens, came to the school to make pumpkin pies. They began with real pumpkins, not canned. Lucky students were awarded the finished products.

As a Halloween project, John Evans was "drafted" to show the ghost, bat and skelton marionettes he had made when he was in the fourth grade. He told the students how they could make their own puppets.

Mrs. Evans, who has two children at Hulsing, said she was busy all summer lining up programs for the school year. Teachers, such as Charles Jones, the media specialist, and the principal, Kathryn Otto, have been most cooperative, she said.

Also involved have been "many, many parents," and representatives of three Canton Township senior citizens' clubs.

Beginning in December, senior citizens will be at the school daily to read classics to students during their lunch hour.

Another continuing project devised by Mrs. Evans and her committee is to spotlight the students and their hobbies in the school showcase.

This month, the showcase has a picture of Tanya Mikosz, 11, and Brian Mikosz, 8. Tanya's hobby is collecting dolls, while Brian has a display of bones, gunshells and Star Wars cards.

MRS EVANS WORKED closely with all the teachers at Hulsing to line up programs that would coordinate with school activities and studies.

In November, the emphasis will be on early America. A soap maker, a weaver, a quilter and a group of native American Indians will visit the school. There will be a professional group of story tellers to tell stories about Indians.

December will be highlighted by a string quartet concert by the Plymouth Symphony. Candy-makers will be busy, and students will be shown how to silk screen Christmas cards. An antique doll collector will display her collection.

In January, a veterinarian will visit the school and there will be a display of the children's pets. A carpenter of the Board of Education will supervise the children as they make a wooden sign to hang outside the school.

A Bell Telephone Co. representative is coming is talk about telephones and communications.

In February, the emphasis will be on space and space flights. Telescopes will be set up and children will be encouraged to come to school at night to look at the sky.

A computer expert will come from the University of Michigan, and the children will create their own solar energy system with coffee cans.

Senior citizens are coming with their Kitchen Band. They will help Hulsing students set up their own kitchen band.

MARCH IS NUTRITION and health month and already a dentist, a psychiatrist, a dietician and a general practitioner have been lined up to give talks and demonstrations. Senior citizens will be on hand to help students bake their own wheat bread.

There will be performances by highland dancers and pipers for March 17.

April will be welcomed with creative kite building, under the instruction of a Japanese kite building expert. There will also be a visit to the Detroit Science Center.

The students will make wild flowers with the help of a garden club representative in May. They will also make different kinds of cheese, under the direction of senior citizens.

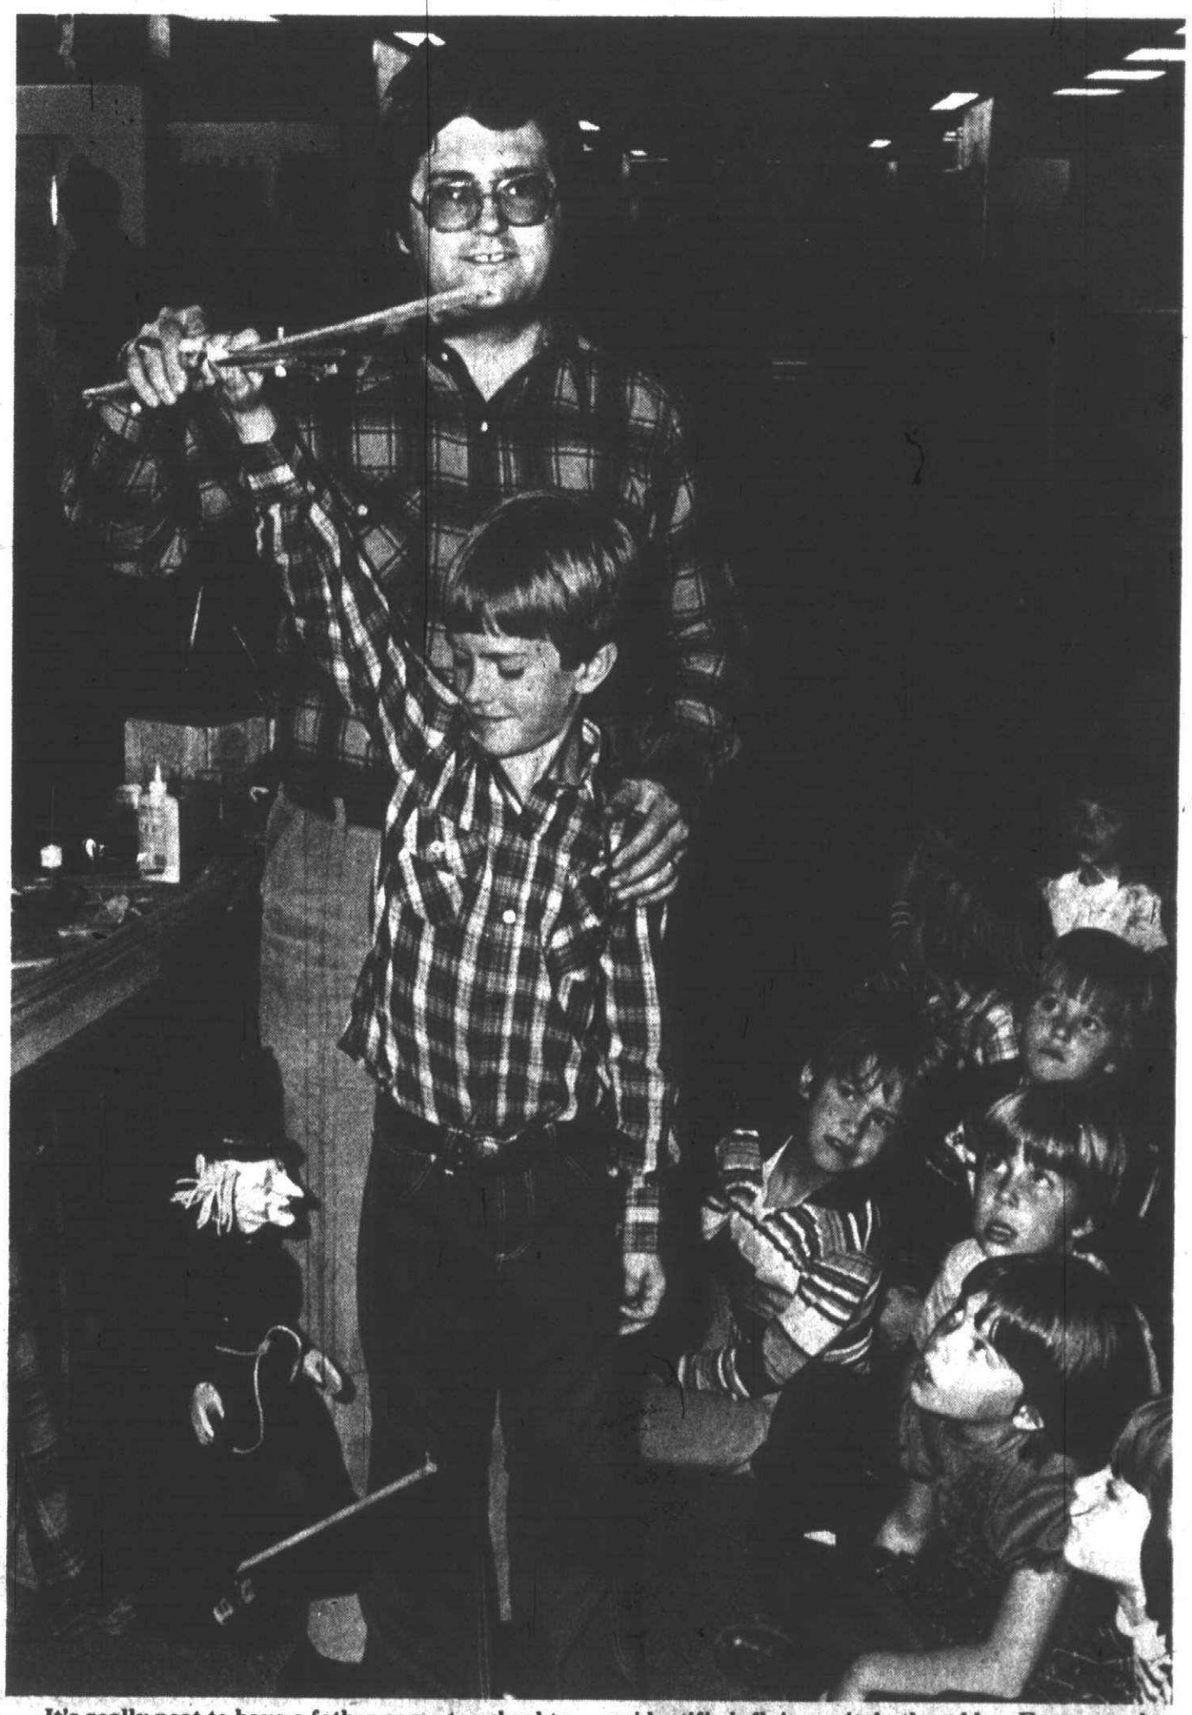

In June, the emphasis will be on old cars, horses and wagons. A hobby shop representative will show how to put models together correctly.

In July, a parent who knows a lot about "tall ships," will share her knowledge, and students will be involved in tie-dying and batik. A U-M representative will discuss rock and mineral collecting.

A representative from A.T.&T. will discuss the invention of the telegraph, as the emphasis switches to inventors and "the age of genius" in August. An ornithologist from Ann Arbor will discuss bird watching.

It's really neat to have a father come to school to show your classmates how to make their own puppets. John Evans is the lucky young man. He's shown above with his father, John Evans, and an unidentified flying witch the older Evans made when he was in the 5th grade. Hulsing classmates made an attentive audience.

Ohio Star quilt in auction

Canton Chatter

By SAM NICHOLS 397-0429

As a product of four quilting classes taught by Marty Cohen in October, the Canton Newcomers will be awarding a beautiful Ohio Star Quilt to some lucky person at 9 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7. Fifteen ladies created the multicolored star patterns, which are framed by a light neutral colored fabric. The quilt is tied with white yarn.

The women who have made this twin sized quilt are: Sharon Ballios, Cynthia Betley, Marty Cohen, Karen Folland, Kathy Freece, Andrea Greenslad, Barbara Hauser, Teresa Kuehnel, Sue Mayre, Kathy Poplawski, Sue Royster, Kathy Schettler, Donna Snell, Lynn Spielman and Barbara Switzer.

At the last quilt class, Judi Thomas provided her 100-year-old quilting frame, which belonged to her grandmother. Judi also assisted the class in tying the quilt.

Technically, the quilt is a pieced top, which is tied with yarn as a comforter, as opposed to doing the fine quilting which takes many hours. Marty said her class spent about 150 hours making this cotton-blend, 15-patch Ohio Star quilt.

TICKETS WILL be available at the Newcomer's Nov. 7 meeting for a donation of 50 cents each or three for $1.

If you are not able to attend the meeting, you may obtain tickets from the following people: Sharon Ballios, 397-2816, south of Cherry Hill; Marty Cohen, 981-1057, south of Ford. In the area between Ford Road and Joy tickets may be obtained from Cynthia Betley, 459-2528, or Barbara Hauser, 459-3457. The Newcomers ask that you call these ladies and let them know you are coming.

Tickets also are available at Lura's Patchwork, 453-1750, at 630 Starkweather. Lura's hours are noon-5 p.m. Wednesday-Friday, 9 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday. The quilt will be on display at Lura's Patchwork until Nov. 7.

All proceeds raised in ticket sales donations will be donated to a charity chosen by the Canton Newcomers. You do not need to be present Nov. 7 to win the Ohio Star Quilt.

In addition to the quilt, Canton Newcomer members will be auctioning homemade baked goods and craft items. The auction will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Pioneer Middle school. Auctioneer for the evening will be Clemens Bykowski, father of Canton Newcomer member, Linda Adnerson. Bykowski was the auctioneer for the Newcomers last year and offers his services as auctioneer to other non-profit and charitable organizations. When he is not auctioneering, Bykowski is a Wayne County Commissioner.

It sounds as if the Newcomers have a fine array of items for your Christmas shopping enjoyment. Jeanne Wood is bringing needlepoint coasters and several Christmas candy bell pulls to count the days till Christmas. Each day a piece of candy is removed until Christmas Day when the bell is reached. Sounds like the children would enjoy these.

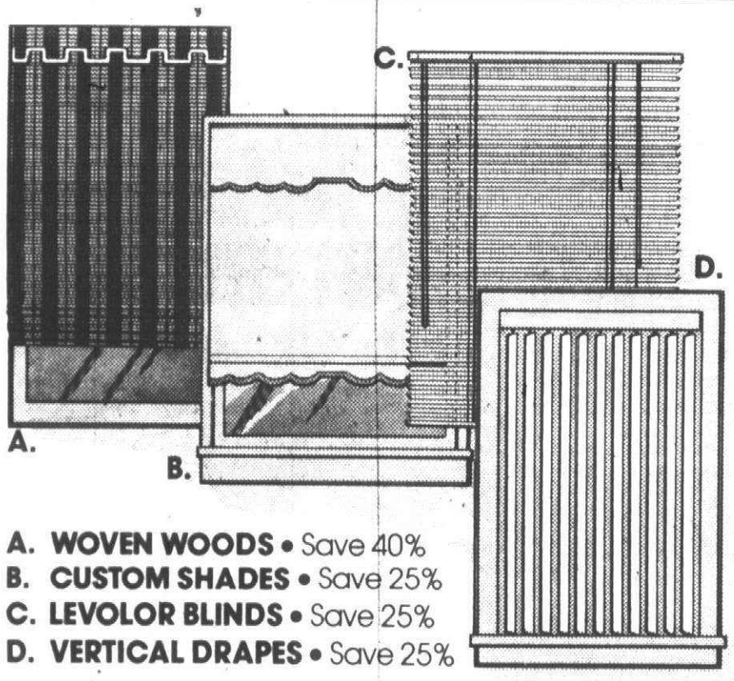

JUDI THOMAS will be bringing several handmade patchwork hand bags and a tied baby quilt. Kathy Freece will provide several macramed jump ropes. Nancy Burns has been making several toddler dresses and a pinecone wreath for the auction, while Pat Dollar and Marty Cohen have been busy making Christmas tree ornaments. Bev Halloran will be bringing a macramed plant hanger, and Marge Mogelnicki will bring molded chocolate candies in holiday motifs, as well as mints and chocolate covered cherries.

Many other items also will be auctioned including knit and crocheted items, wood carvings, metal sculptures, paintings, fruit cakes, and ceramics. The Newcomers say they are sorry, but they cannot auction off husbands.

WHEN BYKOWSKI is not working or auctioneering, he spends many hours with his new and only grandson. Daughter Linda and her husband Larry are the proud parents of Laurence Clemens Anderson, born Aug. 31. Laurence was 7 lbs. and 13 oz. at birth, and 20 inches long. He joins sisters Johanna, 6, and Erica, 3, who are delighted to have a brother.

While Laurence has the distinction of being the first grandson on the Bykowski side of the family, he is the first grandchild on the Anderson side. Needless to say, he has made a lot of people very happy.

League tapes voters' guide

There's a growing sensitivity to the needs of handicapped persons, according to Jacki Westbay of the League of Women Voters (LWV).

For this reason, Mrs. Westbay has tape recorded a voters' guide for the Plymouth City Commission elections. The tape is designed to inform blind persons about issues and candidates in the Nov. 6 election.

Mrs. Westbay is voter services chairperson for the Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi Chapter of the LWV.

Interested persons may listen to the tape at the Plymouth Library on Main Street. Copies also are available from the Wayne County Library's Department for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

The LWV voters' guide, which appeared in the Plymouth Observer on Thursday, Oct. 25, gives brief biographies of the three candidates on the ballot, Ronald Loiselle, Karl Gansler II and Eldon Martin. It also gives their answers to questions dealing with local issues.

One question concerned Plymouth's compliance with state laws for the handicapped, governing accessibility to newly-built and renovated buildings.

The local chapter's project is an extension of work done by the Wayne County Library. The library collects voter information from LWV chapters throughout the county for country, state and federal elections.

Upon request this information is taped and sent to regular subscibers of the library's services to the blind.

The county library system also offers tapes on income taxes. These cover taxes for Detroit, Michigan and the Internal Revenue Service.

Mrs. Westbay said the league plans to continue to cover the local elections. Tapes will be available as needed in the Canton Library when it opens in the spring, as well as in Plymouth.

Mrs. Westbay is happy with the project, as is Plymouth librarian Pat Thomas. Not only does it meet a need, they say, but it is an inexpensive project for the league. The same tapes can be used over again.

Persons who have vision problems and can't read will get help in making voting choices from the League of Women Voters. Preparing to listen to a taped voters' guide are (from left) Pat Thomas, Plymouth librarian; Vera Hill, Jacki Westbay and Frances Pollin. Mrs. Westbay is voter services chairperson for the local LWV, and prepared the tape for the Plymouth City Commission election. The tape is available at the Plymouth Library. Congregation surprises minister on anniversary

Members of St. John Episcopal Church in Plymouth really know how to keep a secret.

"Keeping 340 families quiet was almost a miracle," said Carolyn Jacobs. But keep quiet they did, and the Rev. Robert S. Shank Jr. was totally surprised Sunday when his congregation honored him.

The occasion was the anniversary of his 20th year as an Episcopal priest and his 10th year as rector of St. John.

Surprise guests at the 10 a.m. service were members of his family, his mother, Mary Shank, his sister, Faye Shank, and a niece, Terry Zuercher, all of Orville, Ohio; a brother-in-law and sister, Bill and Margaret Champion of Birmingham and their children; and another niece, Cheryl Zuercher of Akron, Ohio.

For the 8 a.m. service, the congregation had prepared a dummy bulletin. The early service followed its normal pattern, but when the Rev. Shank returned to the church for the second service, a communion celebration, he was surprised to find a totally new bulletin.

The hymns and all been changed, and there were more flowers on the altar.

Trumpet descants, composed for the occasion by Clayton Laroue, were played by the Rev. Shank's sister, Faye.

Special music was also provided by Robin Wideman, violin; Shannon Townsend, violin; Robert Randall, viola; Paul Roth, cello; and Brad Russell, double bass.

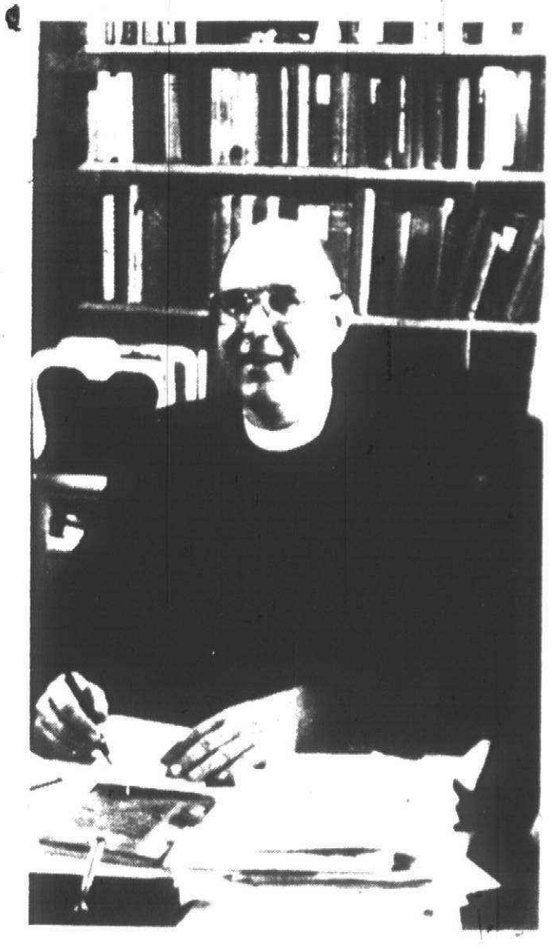

All the Sunday School classes made banners to decorate the parish hall for a reception following the service.

The Rev. Shank was presented with a watch by members of the congregation. Congratulatory messages from the Rt. Rev. H. Coleman McGehee Jr., bishop of the Diocese of Michigan; the Rt. Rev. William J. Gordon, assistant bishop of the Diocese of Michigan; and the Rev. Charles D. Hering.

The latter is a priest in Tiffin, Ohio. A good friend of the Rev. Shank, he was instrumental in his becoming an Episcopal priest.

The Rev. Shank came to St. John in 1966. He served as a curate with the late canon David Davies. Canon Davies retired because of ill health, and the Rev. Shank became the rector in 1969.

Fr. Shank is a graduate of Kenyon College in Ohio. He was ordained in December 1959 by Bishop Gordon in Alaska.

THE REV. ROBERT S. SHANK JR.

Special scholarships offered

Persons in certain special populations are now eligible for vocational education scholarships through the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College.

Eligible are those in one of four special population groups: displaced homemakers, part-time homemakers and wage earners, single heads of households and non-traditonal job trainees.

They must also lack job skills necessary to provide adequate financial support for themselves and dependents living in their homes, lack recent, skilled full-time work experience, and must be receiving no other Federal educational assistance.

Funding for the scholarships came through a $4,036 grant from the Michigan Department of Education, formally accepted by the Schoolcrafat Board fo Trustees at its Oct. 24 meeting. The allocation comes under Title II of the Vocational Education Amendments of 1976.

Program management has been assigned to Jean Christensen, director of the Women's Resource Center, who made application for the grant.

Ms. Christensen said that scholarship funds can be applied toward full- or part-time study in traditional or continuing education courses at Schoolcraft.

Both men and women are eligible to apply for these scholarships. In addition to assistance by the Women's Resource Center, participants will receive the college's financial aids, counseling and placement services.

Persons interested should contact the Women's Resource Center at 591-6400, ext. 432. The center is located in the second house from the south parking lot along Haggerty Road.

PASTOR HARRY WINGAR

He knows about alcoholism

The Rev. John Fulford, who may well introduce himself as "Father Jack, an alcoholic," will visit St. Richard Catholic Church of Westland, speaking for all masses Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 3 and 4 and then conducting followup sessions at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

The priest, a Redemptorist who lives at Holy Redeemer in Detroit, has been visiting parishes throughout Michigan since 1975 to tell of the problems of alcoholism and the help he received for his own illness from Guest House, a rehabilitation center at Lake Orion.

He has said he vividly recalls the day when a doctor at Guest House told a group of new residents:

"Gentlemen, you are alcoholics. You have three ways to go; complete abstinence, insanity or alcohol-induced death. You must make the choice."

Forever grateful he chose the first, he has told some 700,000 persons in parish audiences of the struggle that led him to Guest House.

Pastor in a large midwestern city and faced with many vexing problems, Fr. Fulford said he found alcohol an increasily necessary support and eventually an addiction.

He said he reached a low point and called for help. The response was an invitation to Guest House.

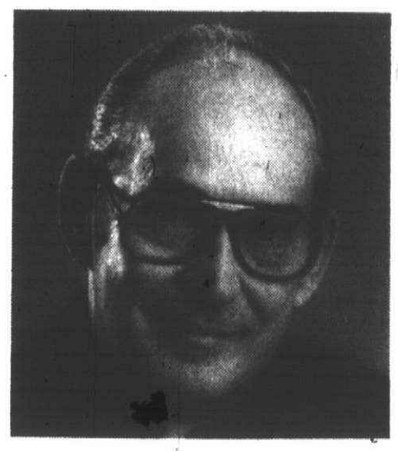

In his talks at St. Richard, he will discuss the causes and symptoms of alcoholism and the programs like Alcoholics Anonymous, Alanon and Alateen.

These he has described as "God-given means to help arrest this incurable disease."

"The most powerful of these means is the spiritual, such as is to be found in the Alcoholics Anonymous program," he added in a recent statement.

"Because the spiritual is the most efficacious factor, I believe the church has a valid role to play in helping potential victims to avert this disease, or, if it has struck, in rendering it inactive."

The public is invited to the masses and the Monday and Tuesday sessions. The church is located on Cherry Hill just west of Wayne road.

FR. JACK FULFORD

Ward minister is for singles

Timm Jackson, newest member of the staff for Ward United Presbyterian Church of Livonia, will serve as minister to single adults aged 18 through retirement.

Part of his work will include overseeing Single Point, a non-denominational singles group sponsored by Ward and now numbering 600.

He also will do teaching and counseling and has experience working with singles in the ares of divorce recovery, financial planning, Bible studies and caring and sharing sessions.

Jackson has been youth minister in churches in Puerto Rico, Indiana, Iowa and Texas and while serving the First Church of the Nazarene in Detroit developed the "Salt Company" coffee house ministry.

Most recently he headed "The Dallas Connection," a national Christian singles conference earlier this year.

VA medical center plans open house

Registered nurses and licensed practical nurses are invited to attend an open house Nov. 2 and 3 at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Ann Arbor.

It will feature films, slides and discussions about center programs such as patient contracting for health behavior, critical care expansion, continuing education and staff development. A tour will be arranged to the child care center and specialty nursing areas.

Hours are from 1:30-5:30 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to noon on Saturday. For more information contact Candace Doriott, nurse recruiter, at 769-7527.

Free Methodist church organizes

The Free Methodist Church has begun services at a temporary location in Gallimore Elementary School, 8375 Sheldon, Canton Township.

Morning worship will be at 9 a.m., with Sunday school and adult Bible study to follow at 10.

At present a group of 40-50 persons are part of this fellowship that has its roots in historic Methodism. They are of the Wesleyan Arminiam tradition. Their leaders describe them as theologically conservative and socially aware. Theirs is a missionary church, with more members in foreign countries than in the U.S.

For more information call Anthony Stofa at 453-0840. All interested people are invited to attend services.

Church class to study abuse

An evening of educational insights will examine the problem of the mistreatment and abuse of spouses and children in our neighborhoods.

The program is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7, in Christus Victor Lutheran Church, 25535 Ford Road, Dearborn Heights. It is sponsored by the board of outreach and social ministry.

Debbie Benjamin director of First Step, and Barbara Orr, director of special services for Family and Neighborhood Services of Wayne County will address the meeting.

They will be joined by a representative of Parents Anonymous, an organization trying to stop child abuse.

CHURCH BULLETIN

WESTLAND FREE METHODIST CHURCH, 1421 Venoy, will present Bishop Robert F. Andrews, director of the "Light and Life" radio hour, in a New Life revival at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, Nov. 5-9.

The visiting evangelist is from Winona Lake, Ind., and his broadcasts for the Free Methodist Church are produced in 10 different languages.

Before taking on his present assignment, he served as pastor, regional youth director and college president and recently was elected to the position of bishop in the denomination.

He has traveled around the world visiting mission fields and the church's extension district in England and Northern Ireland.

The public is invited to the services he leads here and nursery service will be provided.

CLARENCEVILLE UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 20300 Middlebelt, Livonia, will host the Rev. Donald E. Demaray, professor of preaching at Asbury Theological Seminary, in services for two "Days of Praise" Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 3 and 4.

The visitor, former pastor and missionary and author of eight boks, will speak Saturday for a breakfast at 7:30 a.m. and a praise service at 7:30 p.m. The following day he will preach at 11:15 a.m. worship and conduct a healing service at 7 p.m.

Besides his books, Rev. Demaray is on the editorial boards of two maazines and contributor to several others.

ALL SAINTS LUTHERAN CHURCH, 8850 Newburgh, Livonia, will celebrate its 20th anniversary with a festival service at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 4.

The Rev. David A. Paap will preach and the Rev. Eugene W. Nissen and the Rev. Philip E. Jordan, both pastoral associates of the congregation, will participate.

Following the service there will be a fellowship hour and family meal, and all former members and friends are invited to attend.

The church began its worship on All Saints Day, Nov. 1, 1959, in Livonia's Washington School. Its first pastor was the Rev. Raymond Schulze, now with a church in New York City. All Saints is affiliated with the English Synod of the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

EPIPHANY LUTHERAN CHURCH, Five Mile west of Haggerty, Plymouth, will present Joy, Inc., a nationally known Christian musical group, at 5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 5.

The visiting group of a dozen college-age musicians comes from Miwalkee and is making its third appearance at Epiphany. It tours the country with music that includes classical and contemporary arrangements, sing-alongs and use of instrumental ad synthesizer accompaniment.

The public is invited to the concert. There is no charge, but a free-will offering will be taken to cover tour expenses.

COMMUNITY BAPTIST CHURCH, 28237 W. Warren, Garden City, will present the Sonlight quartet in a special service at 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 4.

The quartet is from Springfield, Mo., and has traveled around the country with a program that includes a wide range of music as well as testimonials. The public is invited and admission is free.

ST. ROBERT BELLARMINE CATHOLIC CHURCH, West Chicago and Inkster, Redford Township, will host the Rev. Joseph Dustin, banjo-strumming priest, and Alma Santa, in a program of jazz music and sing-along beginning at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 3, in its activities building.

Dancing and refreshments will follow the program. Tickets are $6 and may be reserved by calling Jenny Cervenan, 422-0861.

ST. PAUL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Five Mile west of Inkster, Livonia, will give information on its stewardship program for 1980 and in the coming decade during brunches at 12:15 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 4, and at 10:45 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 11.

Musical entertainment and the distribution of informational material will be included on both occasions.

NATIVITY OF THE VIRGIN MARY GREEN ORTHODOX CHURCH, 39851 W. Five Mile, Plymouth will present its fourth annual fall bazaar 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Nov. 1 and 2.

Angie Eliades and Helen Photsios are co-chairmen. Featured will be Greek food and imports, a Christmas shop and a specialty shop. Lunch will be available beginning at 11:30 a.m. both days.

ST. VALENTINE CATHOLIC CHURCH, Beech-Daly south of Five Mile, Redford Township, will present a craft auction sponsored by its women's club beginning at 7 p.m. Friday, Nov. 2. Handcrafted items and services will be auctioned and a boutique table will contain items priced under $10. Tickets are $1.50 and available at the door.

ST. MARTIN EPISCOPAL CHURCH, 25699 Grand River, Detroit, plans a fund-raising auction at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 3. Donated items will be auctioned by the parish rector, the Rev. Robert L. Miller, and Jack Pickard, senior warden of the church vestry. Part of the proceeds will be given to the National Society for Autistic Children.

TAG students discuss movie-making

Students in the Talented and Gifted (TAG) program at Pioneer Middle School are going to make a movie.

They voted to find out what type of movie the students would pay to watch. When Marc Van Heynigen tabulated the ballots, the majority in the six classrooms where the questionnaire had been circulated had voted for a comedy.

Teachers Janine Kateff, Judy Stone, Sue Crooks, Debbie Trapp and Connie Argonis believe it will take approximately one year to produce the movie. They have applied for a Plymouth Community Arts Council grant to assist in the project.

The cast will be selected by two student directors and the TAG board of directors. Jeff Shrewsbury and Ellen Seery are directors. Board members are Dave Lovelady, president; Bob Johnson, vice president; Rodger Vojcek, secretary and Ritu Sahni, treasurer.

To help the students understand all that goes into putting a show together, Clemie Cyburt, a teacher aid at Pioneer and a longtime member of the Plymouth Theatre Guild, spoke to the classes. She talked about directing, producing, sets, makeup and costumes.

Eileen Agius who has the role of showgirl in the upcoming guild production, "Love Rides the Rails," came in costume.

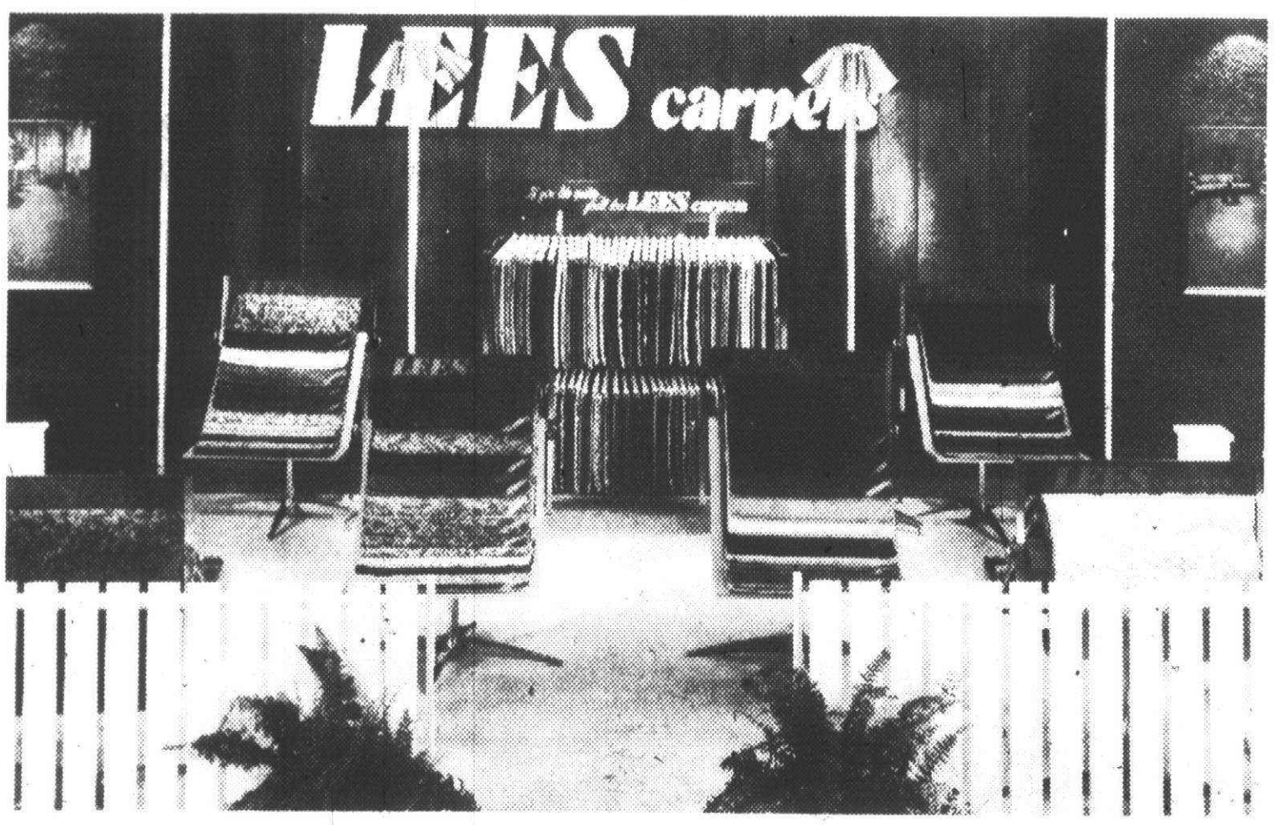

The students expressed amazement that the glamorous costume had been made from old bed sheets and garage sale items.

Is masculinity hazardous?

Wayne Fisk, who received his Ph.D. in clinical educational psychology from Wayne State University, will discuss the concept that "Masculinity May be Hazardous to Your Health" at a meeting from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 6 in room B200 of the liberal arts building of Schoolcraft College.

Cost of the workshop is $5. To register call the women's resource center at 591-6400, ext. 430.

The goal of the class will be to raise consciousness about men's preoccupation with success, power, sex, status, competition and violence, and with it a shortened life expectancy. Although the workshop is directed primarily to men, women may also attend.

Fisk has recently specialized in male psychology and sexual problems at Sinai Hospital. He has taught a workshop for singles at Schoolcraft on human sexuality.

Arts students invited to apply

Plymouth and Canton students who excel in the arts may receive national recognition.

Applications are now being taken for the 1980 Scholars in the Arts Program.

The program, established in 1964, honors the nation's most accomplished graduating high school seniors. Winning scholars are invited to Washington, where they receive the Presidential Scholars Medallion.

There are no federal awards of money, although many outstanding students receive special scholarships and other awards through state and community organizations and private sector grants as a result of being chosen Presidential Scholars.

To be eligible, candidates must expect to receive a high school diploma during the school year 1979-80; reside in the U.S. or be the son or daughter of a U.S. citizen; and complete a program application.

Applications may be obtained from Scholars in the Arts Program, P.O. Box 2876; Princeton, N.J. 08541.

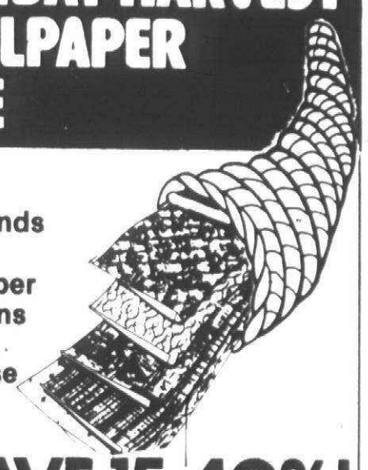

In applications, candidates will be asked to submit evidence of outstanding achievement in one or more areas of the arts, including visual arts, music, dance, theater and writing.

All applications will be reviewed by panels of artists and art educators. All candidates will be notified of their status by Feb. 15.

Certificates of participation will be provided to all students who enter. The highest ranking candidates will be recommended to the Commission on Presidential Scholars.

Annual MAEDC fair at Hawthorn Center

Bill Szaro and friends

When Bill Szaro does a caricature of someone, he searches for the essence of the face.

"I look for distinguishing characteristics," said the Detroit artist. "In most cases it is in the eyes."

Szaro will have a searching day on Saturday, Nov. 3. At that time he will be busy with his felt pens and crayons making caricatures at an arts and crafts fair at Hawthorn Center, on Haggerty between Six and Seven Mile.

The cost to the public of one of his pictures will be $3, with the money going to the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children (MACLD). Szara is working as a volulnteer "because I am sympathetic to the organization."

Ordinarily he makes his living at this enterprise working at parties, banquets and bar mitzvahs.

"It takes great concentration," said Szara, who has been doing caricatures for 30 years. "I use exaggeration to record the personality in a minimum amount of time."

Visitors will have to come from 9:30 to noon to catch him at work. However, the hours of the show are from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

PROCEEDS FROM the many handcrafted articles on sale at the fair will also go to MACLD. But this fundraiser is only part of the program for that day. The program is designed to acquaint the public with the state psychiatric facility for emotionally disturbed children.

An open house will take place and will include tours of the building from 10-11:15 a.m. and from 1:30-2:15 p.m.

One of the features of the fair will be the appearance of a former Hawthorn staff member, Theta Burke, who moved a few years ago to Sutton's Bay in the Traverse City area to write poetry.

She will autograph her latest book, which is aimed at children.

Another highlight of the occasion will be the display and sale of homemade articles. Members of the Hawthorn Northville Chapter of MACLD have been "working their fingers to the bone" during recent months making the items, they say.

They will be selling Christmas tree skirts made of colorful material and designed to take the place of the old sheet many people place around the tree's trunk.

Baby quilts will be there at a cost of from $20 to $37.50, depending on the amount of work they took. Double bed quilts of the same patchwork style can also be purchased.

THE CHILDREN at Hawthorn school have been doing their bit in the woodshop, turning out a saleable collection of wooden wastebaskets and tissue boxes. Chapter women have decorated them with floral designs. Flowerholders in the shape of reindeer will also be part of the scene.

Staff member Jim Haring will exhibit and sell examples of his photographic efforts.

A special added attraction will be stuffed animals and dolls made by Dr. Carol Van Handel and several other staff members.

"We have a sewing group which includes two psychiatrists, two psychologists and three social workers," explained Dr. Van Handel, who before turning to psychiatry studied art. "We meet every Tuesday evening to work on these things. It's fun. We may continue it for the next sale."

She displayed two of her latest creations. One was a fashionably dressed doll in a peach turtleneck sweater and matching tam. The other was a fetching doll with pigtails and a white pinafore.

Her name?

"The child who gets her will have to think of that," responded the psychiatrist, who added that the clowns completed by the group are "dynamite."

Who could resist them in their funny little hats, their striped costumes, big hands and feet and bright red ball of a nose?

Holly Hobby dolls made by Yvonne Sprague of Livonia, chairman of the event, will also put in an appearance. Each takes about 17 hours to make.

Former Livonian Barbara Mosley will bring Christmas tree chains made of calico. She now lives in Ann Arbor.

Table runners with red yarn tassels at the end will be displayed.

Visiting artists will be selling their work from booths. Elizabeth Cascaden of Livonia will let you buy her paper tole pictures. Stained glass, jewelry and bread dough tree ornaments also can be purchased.

You Are Cordially Invited . . .

to be the guest of Botsford General Hospital at a series of seminar-discussions sponsored by the hospital as another reflection of our continuing community education projects. The sessions will be led by Botsford staff physicians; and of course, there is no charge to anyone who wishes to avail themself of this opportunity to learn more about the "do's and don'ts" of good health care. Check the schedule below to see which topics interest you. Then, call us at 476-7600, extension 449 or 244 to make a reservation to attend the program (s) of your choice. All sessions will be held in the classrooms of the Botsford Professional Building (immediately to the West and adjacent to the hospital proper).

KATHLEEN BUFTON

Bufton wins top award in home ec

Kathleen R. Bufton, Wayne County Extension home economist, received national recognition for her work with the Michigan Family Living Education Program during ceremonies held Oct. 11 in Richmond, Va.

Ms. Bufton was presented the Distinguished Service Award by the National Association of Extension Home Economists during its annual meeting. The award recognizes her for outstanding home economics programs, community leadership, and personal and professional growth.

Among her program accomplishments, Ms. Bufton has been providing leadership for parenting education programs in Wayne County for nine years. During that time, she has taught parenting skills to more than 3,000 Wayne County residents and has trained 32 volunteers to teach parenting programs in communities. Ms. Bufton also trained 200 Department of Social Services caseworkers and 75 county health professionals in family communications and parenting education. Each course or training series consisted of 24 or more hours of instruction.

In 1977, Ms. Bufton founded Wayne County's Parent Support Organization. Called "PS," the organization was formed to give parents support in using effective parenting skills. Current memership in PS is 900 families.

The winner received her bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University in 1967 and her master's degree from Michigan State University in 1975. She received her certification as a social worker from the State of Michigan in 1979. An Extension home economist since 1967, she received the Michigan Distinguished Service Award in 1969 and the John A. Hannah Award for program excellence in 1971.

PCHC art rental gallery extends hours

The Plymouth Community Arts Council Art Rental gallery will mark a milestone Tuesday.

For the past 4½ years, the gallery on the second floor of Dunning Hough Library on Main Street has been open during library hours on Wednesday. Beginning next Tuesday, the gallery will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays as well as the regular Wednesday shift.

PCAC volunteers who staff the gallery hope the additional hours will make it possible to serve many new residents of the Plymouth-Canton community.

A series of events has been planned.

Visitors to the gallery on Nov. 6 and 7 can register for a prize of up to three months free picture rental time.

A pre-Christmas sale is the December special event. THE GALLERY opened, with the aid of a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts, with 11 originals and 40 reproductions. Today, the collection has 87 originals and 51 reproductions. Most of these rent for $2 a month.

"Original Art on Consignment" is another program which gives patrons an opportunity to rent original works by Michigan artists for $5 a month with option to buy. Up to four months in rental fees can be applied to the purchase price.

All of the arts council's activities are available and open to newcomers as well as longtime residents who may be ready to do some volunteer work. The PCAC office is at 332 S. Main Street and is open from 9 a.m. to noon Monday through Thursday. For information call 455-5260.

Card party planned

Food, prizes and card games will be featured at the Garden City Business and Professional Women's Club annual fall fund-raiser.

The group extends an invitation to its card party and smorgasbord at 7 p.m. Saturday in Cambridge Junior High School, 28901 Cambridge (east of Middlebelt between Warren and Maplewood). Proceeds from the event will benefit the club's education fund which provides scholarships and loans for persons seeking to further their education or who are retraining for a new career.

Tickets are $4 per person and include dinner, cards and prizes. Tickets are available at Orin Jeweler's, corner of Ford and Middlebelt; the Hair Hut, and Garden City Florist, both near Brandt and Ford west of Middlebelt, or by calling Judith Santieu at 425-3382. Tickets will be sold at the door.

The smorgasbord menu includes homemade lasagna, ham, turkey, a variety of salads, breads and desserts.

Christmas mouse

A cute grey mouse covered by yellow and green blankets is soon to wake up on Christmas morning. His giant candle is bright red with a yellow light on top. This is one of the 13 cards being sold by the Association for Retarded Citizens this season. Selling for the Northwest Communities Association for Retarded Citizens is Sandra Brown, 17351 Sumner, Detroit 48240, 531-6192. There is a limited supply of these cards at the ARC office at 690 E. Maple, Birmingham, where brochures are also available. Imprinted cards should be ordered by Nov. 15.

BEFORE CARVING a turkey or ham let the meat stand for twenty or thirty minutes. The meat will slice easier and thinner. Looking for money to help with the meat bill --read the Observer & Eccentric Classified Ads.

Clarke-Riley

Parkside Church of Christ in Dearborn Heights was the setting for the double-ring ceremony that united Lorri Ann Riley and Dennis Charles Clarke in marriage. Robert Robinson officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Clayton and Gloria Riley of Milburn Street, Livonia. The bridegroom, a Plymouth resident, is the son of Kenneth and Ann Clarke of Northville.

The bride wore an organza gown with sweetheart neckline and puffed sleeves. With it she wore her mother's pearl earrings and pendant. Her silk veil was fingertip length.

Kathy Riley was maid of honor for her sister and the bridesmaids were Susan Weigand, Cathy Knowlton and Gina Meyers. Theresa Walsh was flower girl.

Assisting the bridegroom was Neil Nicholas as best man, Robert Clarke as groomsman and Robert Fittery and Douglas Bates as ushers.

The couple greeted guests at the Farmington Holiday Inn and honeymooned in Florida. They will live in Plymouth.

A birthday party for Sousa

Giants of American band music will join the Detroit Concert Band on Tuesday to celebrate the 125th birthday of John Philip Sousa.

The documentary concert, written and produced by Leonard Smith, conductor of the concert band, will be held at 8:15 p.m. Nov. 6 at Ford Auditorium.

Guests will include Meredith Willson, composer of "The Music Man"; William Santelmann, former head of the U.S. Marine Band; Ronald Demkee, conductor of America's oldest civilian concert band in Allentown, Pa.; Sousa biographer Paul E. Bierley; and clarinetist Jan Williams, who toured with the Sousa band and played with the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra under Toscanini.

John Philip Sousa III, grandson of the march king, will come from New York. Mike Whorf, who producer and narrator of "Kaleidoscope" on WJR radio, will narrate the program.

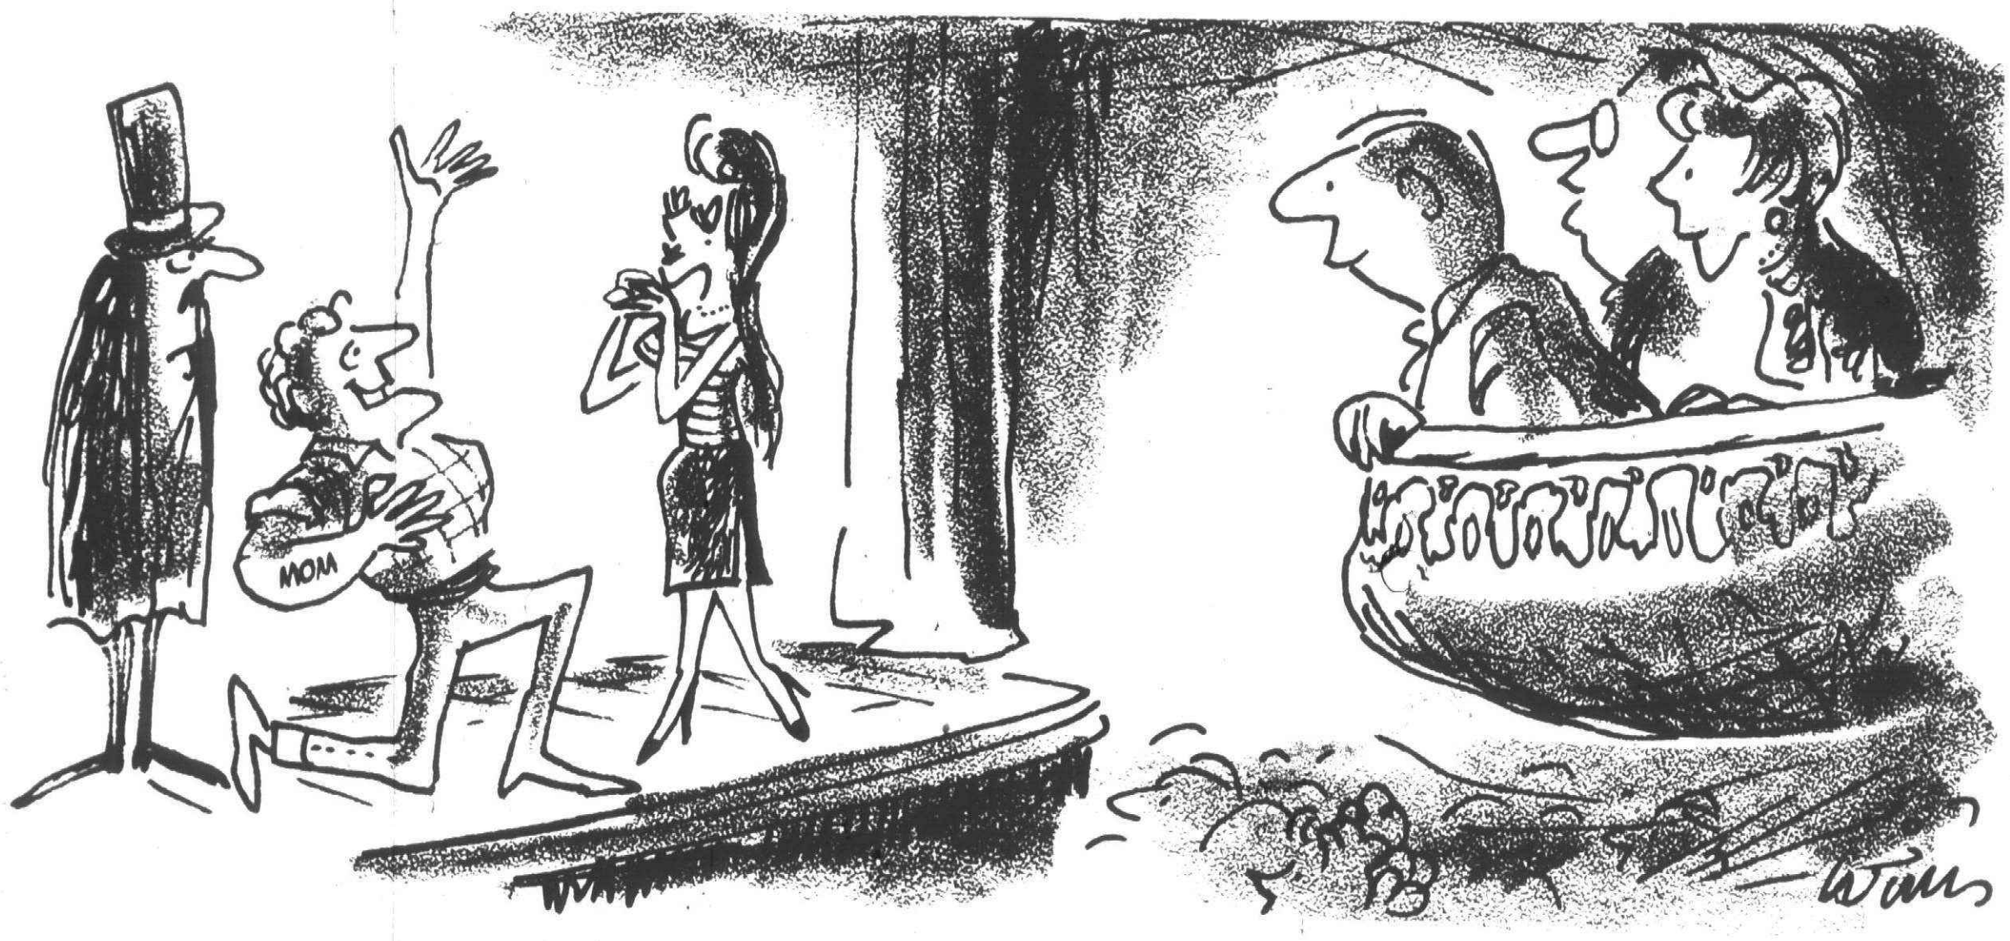

Counterpart roles of Sousa soloists will be taken by cornetist James Underwood; soprano Imogene Bird; euphoniumist Earle Louder; and tubaist Harvey Phillips.

Detroit drummer Kenneth Baldwin will be heard as August "Gus" Helmecke who, in total rapport with Sousa, established the beat that distinguished Sousa's band from others.

Sousa artifacts and memorabilia, on loan from the Marine Corps Museum, will be on display in the Ford Auditorium lobby.

All seats are reserved at $9.50, $8.50 and $7.50. Afterglow tickets, at $17.50 each, allow holders to meet the people in the concert in the Detroit Plaza Hotel. Shuttle service from Ford Auditorium to the hotel will be provided.

It's a big week for local theater

Chuck Miller and Pat Thomas are the villain and the lovely daughter in the Plymouth Theater Guild production of "Love Rides the Rails."

Curtains up

Theater groups return to the stage

It's a big weekend for community theater, with four area groups opening their seasons on the neighborhood stages.

WAYNE-WESTLAND Civic Theater is showing "Veronica's Room," a thriller by Ira Levin.

Confronted by a couple, a woman is asked to pose as Veronica, who died in 1930. Claiming to be housekeepers in the house where Veronica lived, the couple say that by recreating her, the woman would bring pleasure to Veronica's insane dying sister.

Despite her boyfriend's protests, the woman accepts the challenge and enters a grueling nightmare.

Shows are at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in John Glenn High School, 36105 Marquette in Westland. Tickets are available at the door — $3.50 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens.

PLYMOUTH Theater Guild is presenting "Love Rides the Rails," a melodrama complete with cheers for the good guy in a white hat and boos for the bad guy in a black hat.

In classic fashion, the bad guy tries to swindle a dear, sweet old woman. He almost gets away with it, but . . . curses, foiled again.

"We'll have lots of hams on the stage," says producer Robin Galick. And the theater people will provide popcorn, for throwing at the bad guycor for eating.

Shows are at 8 p.m. this Friday and Saturday and next, in Central Middle School, Church at Main in Plymouth. Tickets are $3.50 for adults, $2.50 for people under 18 and senior citizens.

FARMINGTON Players are showing Neil Simon's "The Prisoner of Second Avenue."

Leads Mel and Edna Edison are trapped in their Manhattan highrise apartment because of the city's smell, noise and crime. They discover that going crazy won't help so they decide to fight back.

The play runs for three weekends at the Players' barn theater, 32332 W. 12 Mile. Shows this weekend are at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 7:30 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $3.50.

ROSEDALE Community Players open their 10th year with "You Can't Take It With You," written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, and winner of a Pulitzer Prize in 1936.

The Sycamores, who believe that human kindness is more important then money, meet up with the wealthy and snobbish Kirbys when the Kirby son falls in love with the Sycamore daughter. It doesn't work, of course, but love finally triumphs over evil.

The show runs three weekends at the Upstage Playhouse, 21728 Grand River near Lahser. Cabaret performances are this Friday, Nov. 9 and 16 and Saturday, Nov. 17, with tickets at $4. Dinner theater shows are scheduled for 7 p.m. this Saturday and Nov. 10 at $10 per person.

Are you sitting next to a killer?

The stage moves to the audience

By JOHN MacCOLL

The year: 1926.

The place: the Tivoli Theater, home of "the world's best vaudeville."

The feature attraction: "Chatrand the Great," mind reader.

The plot: murder.

The only clue: the killer is somewhere in the audience.

And you are a suspect.

If you don't mind sitting next to a killer, you'll enjoy the Greenfield Village Players' production of "The Spider."

Director Joseph French has revived this classic 1926 comedy-mystery written by Fulton Oursler and Lowell Brentano.

AN INTRICATE web of whodunit is spun when a member of the audience is murdered during a magic and mind-reading act.

While performing with his clairvoyant assistant, Chatrand the Great is accused of killing the guardian of a beautiful and rich young lady who had come to see him perform.

The plot thickens when Chatrand's assistant, Alexander, is discovered to be the young lady's long-lost brother. Alex happens to be suffering from amnesia, caused years ago by a not-so-subtle push off a cliff by the now-deceased guardian.

Alexander's memory is shocked back to reality, but he finds himself, his sister and Chatrand the prime suspects in the police investigation.

It falls to Chatrand to save his friends and catch the real villain. But not too surprisingly, Chatrand falls in love with Alex's sister, Beverly.

The task is made no easier by the suspecting police Captain Reilly. His hot Irish temper and desire for an open-and-shut case leaves Chatrand no alternative than to escape from his handcuffs and disappear before our eyes.

DURING THE PLAY, the entire Henry Ford Museum Theater becomes the mythical Tivoli Theater and a vaudeville show ensues, complete with a singing bear act.

Action takes place in the aisles as well as the seats, as members of the cast have been placed throughout the theater.

Teams of Keystone cops patrol the halls and guard the doors during intermission, just to make sure no one leaves the scene of the crime. Even the program announcement depicts a vaudeville playbill. Nothing is left to chance.

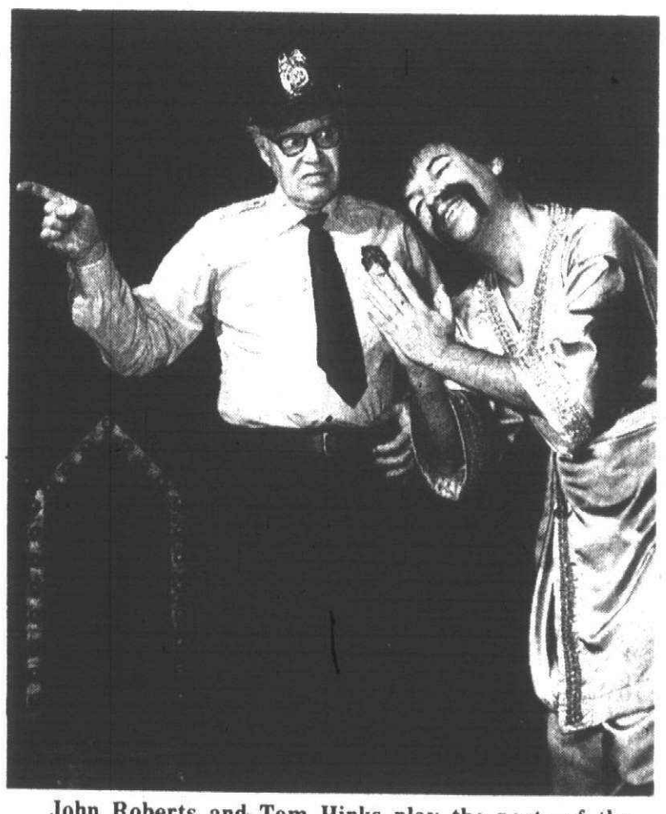

It isn't until Chatrand, with the aid of a skeptical Captain Reilly, re-enacts the crime that the real truth is discovered.

By this time, no less than 10 members of the audience have been implicated in one way or another.

"THE SPIDER" is being performed at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays through Nov. 24. Tickets are $3.50, available in advance at the museum entrance or at the box office up to an hour before the performance.

A dinner is also available each night, with cocktails at 6:30 p.m. Cost of the meal and the play is $12.50.

For more information, call 271-1620, ext. 417.

John Roberts and Tom Hinks play the parts of the police captain and the clairvoyant in "The Spider," playing weekends at the Henry Ford Museum Theater.

Mystery for dinner

The dinner theater showings of "The Real Inspector Hound" open Friday for two weeekend runs in the Waterman Center of Schoolcraft College. The play is a spoof of an Agatha Christie mystery, performed by Schoolcraft students. The dinner is a buffet of roast beef and baked chicken, starting at 7 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays. Tickets are $10 in advance, available at the college bookstore. For more info, call 591-6400, ext. 265. (Staff photo by Art Emanuele)

Comedy at U-D theater

Comedy comes to the University of Detroit, in Noel Coward's "Private Lives," performed by the campus Theater Company, at 8 p.m. Fridays-Sundays, Nov. 2-4 and 9-11, in the Studio 100 Theater.

The play centers on two victims of an unsuccessful marriage who meet again as they start honeymooning with a new set of spouses. The old flame returns and they elope.

Although happy to be together again, their tendency to squabble reasserts itself. The deserted spouses, pursuing the errant pair, finally come upon them in the midst of a furniture-smashing, free-for-all fight.

The run-away lovers tumble over sofas and roll on the floor in a desperate battle.

"There is a real value in performing the show in Studio 100," said Arthur Beer of U-D. "The play is termed an intimate comedy and we're performing it in an intimate space.

"The audience close to the actors will enhance the nuance of gesture and expression, so that they will be able to appreciate and enjoy it more than if it were in a larger space."

Reservations and ticket information is available at the Theater Company box office at 927-1130.

An examination of public housing in Detroit is one of the topics investigated on "56 Reports," a weekly half-hour newsmagazine at 9 p.m. Friday on Channel 56.

A team of reporters will look at the city's failing housing system and the people who live there. This segment focuses on the buildings that have fallen into decay and the inefficient management that maintains the system.

In addition, "56 Reports" will profile Sippi Wallace, an 80-year-old blues singer who has returned to relive the blues and jazz musical styles of the 1920s; and Paul Winter takes a look at the popular and extravagant, $30 million film "Apocalypse Now."

Here comes Sirah

A new red is making the big time

From the Wine Press

by Richard Watson

Incredible as it may seem, less than 15 years ago there wasn't a California-released wine under the varietal name Petite Sirah.

In that short time it has attained a fairly significant status.

It wasn't until the 1964 crush that James Concannon decided to release the wine under its own name, rather than blend it in with others in jug releases. Lee Steward of Souverian quickly followed suit and today more than 60 wineries issue it each year.

Its origins as a grape variety are cloudy. The presently popular clone now commonly used is probably not in the family of grape used in the Rhone Valley as previously believed.

Rather, research suggests its origins are in the Duriff grape, one held in relatively low esteem in Europe. The great red Rhones come from a grape related to the present California Syrah, of which there is precious little in the ground.

Only Joseph Phelps presently issues one, and it tastes distinctly different than most Petite Sirahs. To further confuse us, some vintners release a Petite Syrah, but that is doubtless a mere affectation.

Origins and spelling aside, the most interesting aspect is the taste. Here the grape is grown and finished in remarkably varying styles.

When grown in the warm valley regions of California, it produces a light, gentle and, at best, elegant wine of little aging potential.

When grown in the cooler climates of Napa, Sonoma and Monterey it produces a most awesome and mouth-filling wine, one requiring considerable aging before it is truly ready to drink. In this sense it is remarkably like a Zinfandel, that grape also being highly influenced by its growing conditions and the intentions of the winemaker.

As is common among winemakers, the labels afford no information as to the style of wine inside the bottle. The consumer is left in uncertainty when looking over a merchant's shelves. So, a guide is in order.

To lighten the task, the Phelps is not yet available in Michigan.

When it is, it will be a whopper. At least, all of his releases after the initial 1974 have been. The original wasn't too successful.

Presently on the shelves in Michigan, or soon to be, are the following "big" style, all generally requiring at least five years or more aging beyond the vintage dates they carry. Burgess Cellars (Napa), Calloway (Temecula) — perhaps the biggest of all, Dry Creek (Sonoma), Fetzer "Special Reserve" (Mendocino), Ridge (Napa grapes) and Stag's Leap Vineyards (Napa).

Middle of the road, requiring three to five years aging, are Mondavi (Napa) and Parducci (Mendocino).

Lighter releases, ready to drink at purchase, include Concannon (Livermore), Inglenook (Napa), Mirassou (Santa Clara-Monterey), Sonoma Vineyards (Sonoma) and Souverain (Sonoma).

Indeed, to get the full fruit effect of young and light Petite Sirah, try Mirassou's Petite Rose, to my knowledge the only winery to make a rose exclusively from this grape.

Petite Sirah, Petite Syrah, Duriff or Syrah, this is a wine for the lover of red wines. Generally priced about on a level with Zinfandel, most of them are at least semi-affordable and findable.

Shields and Yarnell will bring their comedy to the Music Hall on Feb. 26-March 2 in one of the concerts on the family series.

New director

Making big plans for the Music Hall

By ETHEL SIMMONS

Unhurried, unaffected but definitely assured — that's the new producing director of the Music Hall Center in downtown Detroit.

At a soup and vegetable salad lunch in the sunlit Harmonie Cafe, around the corner from the Music Hall, J. Roland (Joe) Wilson talked about his plans for this and upcoming seasons at the eclectic performing arts center.

Like an automaker whose eye is on gleaming models of the future, Wilson is already thinking ahead to 1980-81 when the Music Hall might co-produce a musical with the Michigan Opera Theater.

Wilson, who spent 10 years booking entertainment for the Power Center and Mendelssohn Theater at the University of Michigan, arrived on the Music Hall scene in mid-August.

TAKING OVER the director's reins, he is the first to come along as "producing director," with the promise that the Music Hall eventually will produce its own shows.

Redhaired, bearded, Wilson in his checked sports coat with elbow patches looks the part of an individual who has enjoyed the Ann Arbor culture and leisure lifestyle.

Now he and his family have moved to Grosse Pointe Park, where he is just 10 minutes from his Music Hall office and not far from other city attractions such as the symphony and art institute.

"I've been trying to get hold of new scripts to read and I've been going to new playwrights workshops at the Attic Theater, looking for a show to produce here," he said.

Wilson also wants to find established scripts for which the Music Hall can mount its own productions. He mentioned the Birmingham Theater's upcoming production of "The Gin Game" as an example of how that theater is putting productions together.

POSSIBILITIES for the Music Hall, Wilson said, could include the Broadway dramatic hit "That Championship Season" and Neil Simon shows that have not toured, such as "God's Favorite."

Ambitious plans for Music Hall

In a related area, Wilson will attempt to find if Detroit has a market for a repertory company at the Music Hall.

"I'd like to set up a series and offer the best of the current regional theaters, inviting the Arena Theater in Washington, the Guthrie Theater in Minnesota and the ACT in San Francisco to each bring a production for one week.

"If there's an audience base, then we could build our own repertory company," he said.

"We could draw on major names, get top repertory actors — the Tammy Grimes, the Brian Bedfords — and supplement them, building a strong Detroit company.

"That's at least three to four years in the offing," Wilson added.

The current 1979-80 season is underway, with a dance series that has been acknowledged as the best in the midwest, a headliners series featuring show business celebrities in concert, a family series with special attractions, and the solid beginnings of a theater series.

"A LOT OF this year I inherited," Wilson explained of the mostly booked first season.

The theater season is still shaping up. The National Company of "Da" with Bernard Hughes and the National Company of "Eubie" are both coming to the Music Hall.

"I want to find another nonmusical and a musical," he said.

Wilson is already negotiating the dance season for next year. He also is arranging special programs in conjunction with dance concerts at the Music Hall, including lecture-demonstrations and master classes.

"I would like to arrange a dance weekend with local companies," he said.

Unlike some cultural endeavors whose ledgers are filled with red ink, the Music Hall's financial situation "couldn't be better," Wilson reported. The venerable old hall is operating strictly in the black.

According to Wilson, one reason he was selected by the Music Hall's board of trustees is that he has had good results building subscriptions.

The dance series currently has 3,000 season subscribers, an audience he expects to build to 5,000-6,000. The headliners and family series both have topped 3,000.

AS A BONUS to subscribers, Wilson hopes to plan some events that are open to subscribers only, such as receptions. In the past, these kinds of activities primarily have been offered to the general audience.

Wilson said that the Music Hall can satisfy a variety of audiences.

The show "Your Arms Too Short to Box With God" was a smash hit, opening in mid-June and held over through the first week in August. "It proved there's a strong audience available in the summer," he said.

The dance series draws a strong suburban audience, Wilson noted. The family series, expanded this year from one performance on Sunday afternoon to five shows, has strong support from Southfield, Royal Oak and Livonia areas, he said.

Although he hopes the Music Hall will be producing its own shows by 1980-81, Wilson's goal is to continue offering a variety of things and "never become just a theater."

The historic Music Hall continues on a restoration program and will have the grand drape, or main curtain, and auxiliary curtains resembling the original ones hung by the end of this year. In the next two years, new carpeting and seats will be installed.

Major electrical repairs, redoing the stage floor and updating the backstage technical area are other projects.

John Sargent show continues

The exhibit of works by John Singer Sargent continues at the Detroit Institute of Arts through Dec. 9. The exclusive North American showing of 100 porraits, drawings and watercolors was organized by the institute, the Leeds Art Galleries and London's National Portrait Gallery.

Included are full-length portraits, some loaned from country houses and not seen in public for over 50 years.

Sargent, who lived 1956-1925, was considered the chronicler of late Victorian and Edwardian society.

At the height of his career, he was painting as many as 20 formal portraits a year.

The exhibit is open during regular museum hours, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. Admission is $2.

Friday in Farmington

Musicale concert to finance new piano

Members of Farmington Musicale pool their talents for a concert and afterglow, set for 8 p.m. Friday in Mercy Center's formal lounge on 11 Mile and Middlebelt Roads. Guests are asked to enter from Gate 4, on 11 Mile.

The $5 donation will be used to raise money to buy a baby grand piano for the 69 musicale members, who come from all surrounding communities.

"The piano must be used at every musicale meeting for accompanying vocalists and instrumentalists, or for piano soloes," said Jan Smith, speaking for the group.

"It is frustrating to work time and again with a less-than-adequate instrument. The musicale has done much to support the community, and now we are asking the community to support us in this effort," she said.

The group gives musical programs in nursing homes, hospitals, and schools.

But since 1970, its biggest push has been in the area of helping young musicians further their career through annual scholarship competition. A total nearing $6,000 has been given so far in this behalf.

IN A RECENT report given to the musicale, it was learned that at least seven of the former scholarship winners have gone on to study music in college, some have attained a bachelor of arts degree and some a masters degree in music.

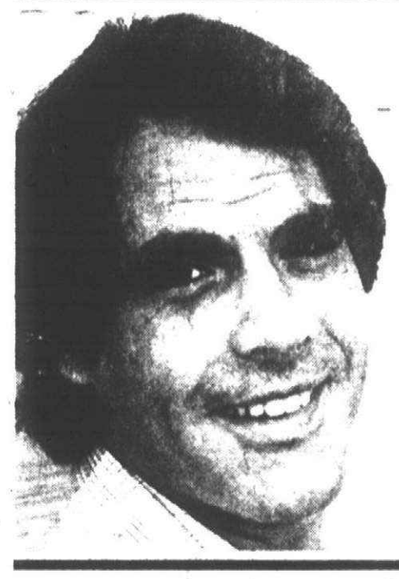

"It is these young people, whom the musicale has supported with both funds and encouragement, who are currently, or soon will be our music therapists, teachers, performers, choir directors, orchestra and band members serving this community," Ms. Smith said.

"The Farmington Musicale is proud to have had a part in the shaping of that contribution."

Annual contributions of money go to the Farmington Arts Council, the Farmington Community Band, the two libraries, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the Farmington Community Center, Oakway Symphony and Crusade for Strings.

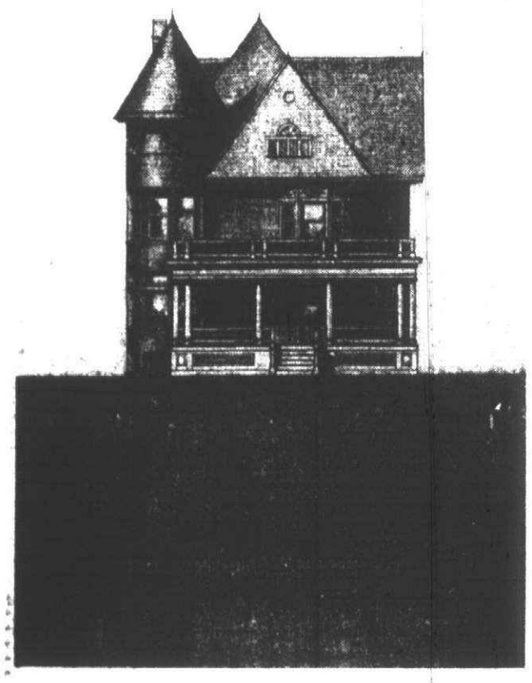

The club is an affiliate of Michigan and National Federation of Music Clubs.

Advance tickets are available by contacting Mary Sue Ewing, 477-8629. Tickets also will be available at the door.

Comedian

Robert Klein appears at the Music Hall in downtown Detroit at 4 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday. His two albums have been nominated for Grammy Awards, and he is currently starring on Broadway in Neil Simon's "They're Playing Our Song." Tickets are $8-12, available at the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison, or by calling 963-7680.

Poster for sale

A poster of the David Mackenzie house at Wayne State University is available as part of a fund-raising effort to restore the 1895 Queen Anne style home. Each is $10, signed and numbered by artist Lewis Dickens, available at the Detroit Institute of Arts, Poster Gallery in the Fisher Building and the Detroit Historical Museum. The print is a lithograph of an original pencil drawing on linen.

Film theater opens month with Israel

November weekend movies will be presented by Detroit Film Theater in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium. Included are features from Israel, France, Japan, the United States, England and Germany.

Friday and Saturday show times are 7 and 9:30 p.m., and 7 p.m. only on Sundays. Tickets may be purchased in advance through the museum ticket office, phone 832-2730 and at the door.

Scheduled are:

• Nov. 2 — "We are Arab Jews in Israel" (Israel 1977, Igaal Niddam, director). Called "impassioned, often lyrical" by the Village Voice, this documentary on 800,000 Oriental Jews focuses on Israel's political and cultural diversity; 7 and 9:30 p.m.

• Nov. 3 — "Ninotchka" (U. S. 1939, Ernst Lubitsch, director). Greta Garbo stars in what has been called one of the great screen comedies, about a loyal Russian agent who, sent to Paris to check on errant comrades, succumbs to champagne and romance; 7 and 9:30 p.m.

• Nov. 4 — "Go West," "The Kid Brother" and "Neighbors" continue Sunday evening's "Silent Clowns" series, with masterpieces by Buster Keaton and Harold Lloyd, accompanied by master-organist John Muri at the museum's Casavant theater organ; 7 p.m.

• Nov. 9 — "Dossier 51" (France 1978, Michel Deville, director). Bugging devices, invasion of privacy and the nature of cinema itself brings the audience in as accomplice to this thriller, called "intelligent, witty and fascinating" by New York magazine; 7 and 9:30 p.m.

• Nov. 10 — "Peeping Tom" (England 1962, Michael Powell, director). From the director of "The Red Shoes" and "The Thief of Bagdad" comes this modern terror classic which stars Moira Shearer; 7 and 9:30 p.m.

• Nov. 11 — "The Chaplin Revue," "Grandma's Boy" and "Pay Day" fill Sunday's "Silent Clowns" concluding offering — with John Muri at the museum's Casavant theater organ; 7 p.m.

• Nov. 16 — "The Ballad of Orin" (Japan 1977, Masahiro Shinoda, director). "Devastatingly eloquent — one of the finest of recent Japanese films" is how film critic Richard Whitehall described this dramatization of the struggle of a young woman doomed by her blindness to the celibacy vows of the traditional samisen players of 1919 Japan; 7 and 9:30 p.m.

• Nov. 17 — "Blow-Up" (England 1966, Michelangelo Antonioni, director). Winner of the Cannes Festival Grand Prize is this mystery film which stars Vanessa Redgrave, David Hemmings and Sarah Miles; 7 and 9:30 p.m.

• Nov. 23 — "I Am My Films: A Portrait of Werner Herzog" (Germany 1978, Weisenborn and Keusch, directors). Documentary about the man dubbed "The greatest of the new German filmmakers" by the New York Times. Herzog's "Kasper Hauser," "Aguirre," "Strozek" and "The Wrath of God" have been featured in former DFT seasons; 7 and 9:30 p.m.

• Nov. 24 — "The Mystery of Kaspar Hauser" (Germany 1975, Werner Herzog, director). Called " . . . stunning . . . a superb movie" by the New York Times is Herzog's account of the appearance in 1820 of a young man with no memory and no knowledge of the world. A Cannes Film Festival selection; 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Hunting reports poor; new solid waste laws

By LEM MESEE
Outdoors writer

Hunters have had little success in most of Oakland County in the small game season for pheasants, rabbits and squirrels.

DNR reports hunting pressure is extremely light except in the Bald Mountain Recreation Area of northeast Oakland. Good concentrations of woodcock are reported in northern Oakland.

Southern Oakland hunters report light success on pheasants and rabbits. They're seeing many hen pheasants but few roosters.

Bow hunters in northern Oakland County are seeing deer but getting few.

To the south in Monroe County, duck hunting is fair on state lands, and rabbits are in good supply. But pheasant hunting is reported poor. That was expected because of the severe winter.

FISHING is still good despite the approach of cold weather.

The inland lakes are being overlooked. I myself hauled in the biggest bluegills of the season from Proud Lake, north of Wixom, on a day when only a few hardy canoeists were out.

Other good lakes this time of year are Maceday, Cass, Union and Deer.

DNR is shouting that Detroit River coho salmon are "coming like crazy — at least to the DNR net." Two weeks ago, 158 coho were netted, processed and released near Belle Isle, and a week ago 138 more were netted.

I tried the spot with a couple of friends, but the day was so windy and the water so choppy that fishing was plain uncomfortable. But we saw one chap haul in a 10-pounder on a crawler harness.

AN ENVIRONMENTAL group is holding a high-powered conference Nov. 7-9 on Michigan's two new solid waste management laws and how state and local governments will cope with them.

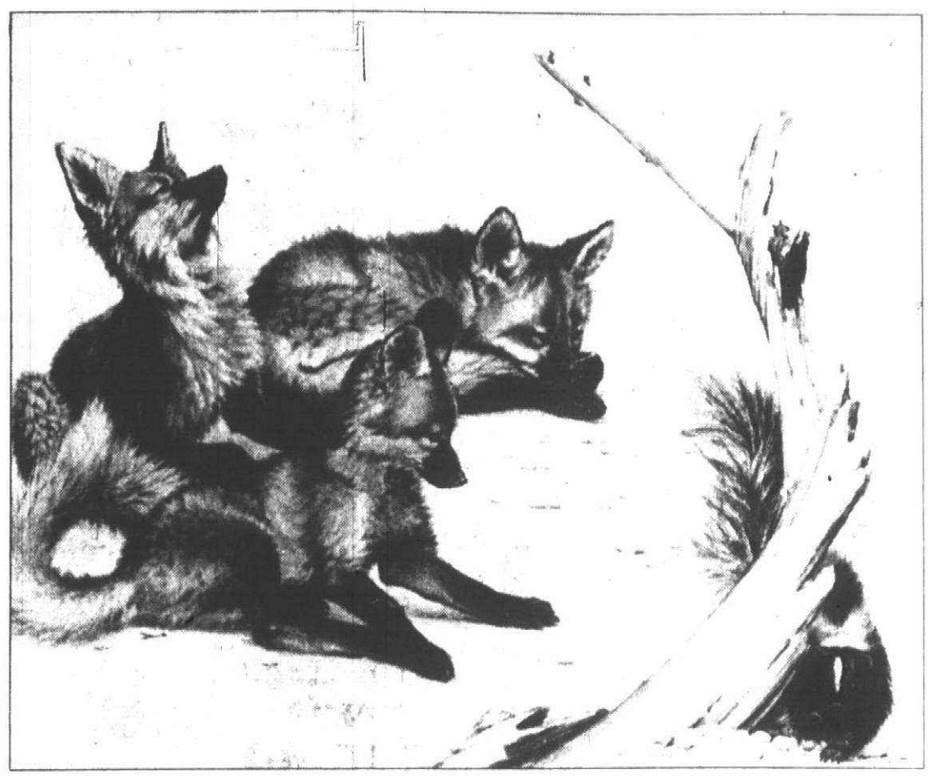

Suburban residents who have read about the fights over dumping of industrial and agricultural contaminants may want to attend the conference entitled "Ending Solid Wastefulness in Michigan."

It's sponsored by the West Michigan Environmental Action Council, whom you can call at 616-451-3051 for reservations and display space. Price of the three-day conference, including meals and lodging, is $87. It will be held at Waldenwoods Conference and Resort Center, eight miles north of Brighton at Hartland.

Among speakers will be Lt. Gov. James Brickley; State Rep. Alice Tomboulian, D-Oakland Township, chief sponsor of the state's Hazardous Waste Management Act; and Richard Scudder, board chairman of Garden State Paper Co., supplier of 10 percent of the nation's newsprint.

Workshops will cover: county planning for waste management; hazardous waste; landfill design and monitoring; and technology in waste management.

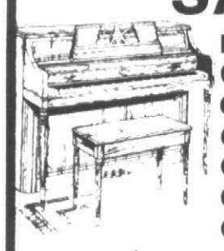

Hal Conklin, mayor pro tem of Santa Barbara, Calif., and director of its Community Environmental Council, will discuss the citizen's role in waste management decisions.

On display

"Early Warning" is one of 80 prints by famed wildlife artist Guy Coheleach which will be on display at the Detroit Plaza in the Renaissance Center Nov. 5-10. Proceeds from sale of the prints will aid Michigan United Conservation Clubs' education and conservation fund, according to MUCC District Chairman Bob Laich of Westland. He will be among the western Wayne MUCC members staffing the exhibit, which is free to the public on the Promenade Level from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. each day. Coheleach himself will be there each day from 12-2 and 5-7 p.m. Coheleach's works have been in Michigan Out-of-Doors, Sports Afield and the Audubon magazines.
