School board seeks to rent Livonia school

Lowell Junior High quite likely will be made available to Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The Livonia Board of Education is expected to make a decision tonight to close Lowell.

Earlier Livonia had planned to keep Lowell open unless a concrete offer had been made by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

But last week a group of Livonia parents convinced the board it would be better to close Lowell and keep Frost Junior High open.

Dr. George Garver, Livonia Superintendent, said he expects a letter from Plymouth-Canton expressing an interest in Lowell which is located on John Hix just south of Joy.

SUPT. JOHN M. Hoben said the letter will be delivered to Garver today expressing Plymouth-Canton's interest in pursuing a lease agreement.

"Our school board has said it definitely is interested in renting Lowell and using it for a middle school in the fall of 1981," said Hoben.

"The letter will communicate the board's intent and will ask that negotiations begin to write up a lease agreement which would be signed later."

Plymouth-Canton is interested in Lowell because it could be used to house middle school students from southeast Canton Township which is experiencing continued population growth.

Students living in that section now are being bused to two middle schools in Plymouth. Both those schools are further away than Lowell.

A factor in Livonia's thinking on closing Lowell also involves busing costs.

Parents argued more busing would be required if Frost were closed and Lowell left open. Frost is on Stark Road just north of the Jeffries Freeway.

IF THE LIVONIA board decides tonight to close Lowell that action would occur in June 1981.

Plymouth-Canton would want Lowell available for its students by the fall of '81. Present thinking is that Lowell would be put on a year-round schedule unless bond money is approved next February to build a fifth middle school.

Lowell has a capacity for about 850 students, which means about 1,130 students could be handled if a year-round schedule were used.

The two school districts also have discussed the possibility of Plymouth-Canton renting Webster Elementary which is on Lyndon west of Newburgh Road. Webster will close in June.

Among the options being considered by Plymouth-Canton is construction of a new elementary building — a step which could be avoided by leasing Webster.

The cost of busing students also would be a major factor in deliberations on Webster.

Livonia's enrollment has dropped from a peak of 38,500 in 1972 to a current level of 24,000. If the district closes Lowell it would become the sixth junior high to be closed by Livonia in the past 18 months.

Plymouth-Canton has been growing by about 700 students a year for the past eight years and expects its middle school (grades 6-8) enrollment to increase by 1,600 between now and 1983.

Wilkin dies on 70th birthday

Canton Township lost one of its most respected members of the farming community last Thursday with the death of Columbus Wilkin in St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Ironically he died on his 70th birthday, having been born in Spencerville, Ohio, on Nov. 8, 1909.

His father, Byron Wilkin, owned the farm at the corner of Beck and Gyde Road since 1912 and Byron succeeded him as the owner in 1935.

Through the years the farm produced dairy and sweet corn. Later raising beef cattle, along with soy beans, field corn and grain.

With all the work on the farm, Wilkin still found time for recreation. As a member of the Elks Lodge in Plymouth, he bowled in the league this season and his loss now will be felt among one of the real active leagues in the fraternal circuit.

He is survived by: wife, Beatrice; sons, David of Hartland, Dale of Canton, Donald of Plymouth, Duane of Westland, Douglass of Canton, Dennis of Canton, and Dwight at home; daughter, Doreen, at home; sisters, Ruth Thompson of Canton, Viola Dutton of Canton Ioma Bassett of New Hudson; brothers, Clifford and Byron Wilkin, also of Canton.

Burial will be in Michigan Memorial Park in Flat Rock following funeral services scheduled this afternoon, conducted by Rev. Samuel Stout and Sanford Burr.

The family asks that all memorial contributions be sent to the Michigan Hunt Fund.

An ever-popular pastime

Dancers square off to fiddle's lure

By ARLENE VANDERLEUN

Groups of men wearing Western-style shirts and 10-gallon hats stand chatting. Small towels tucked into their belts will be used later to dry sweaty palms.

A man dressed in similar Western garb fiddles with a microphone and begins to play a toe-tapping tune on a record player.

And women are placing food platters on a buffet table. As they hurry with their tasks, stiff petticoats peek from below brightly colored, knee-length full skirts.

The scene is duplicated most every Friday evening at the Melvin Bailey Recreation Center on Ford Road in Westland, where two square dance clubs hold meetings on alternating weeks.

The Westland Parks and Recreation Department square dance program recently swung into its 11th season. The program includes a beginner's class, an advanced workshop and two clubs, with members coming from all over western Wayne County.

The Observer recently dropped in to visit the Haystack Twirlers club. The club, which was formed about a year ago, has about 28 couple memberships (you must join with a partner). The Totem Trotters club, which has been around for about 10 years, has 25 memberships.

"It's the largest couple recreation in the parks and rec department," said Mary Brennan, who coordinates the program with her husband, Bob. "It isn't for senior citizens. We steer them away. They can't keep up."

Enthusiasts — who range from early 20's to middle-aged or older — say it's a great way to beat inflation and get some exercise at the same time.

Lessons cost $3 per couple per session.

Coping with growth is forum's subject

Your presence is asked tonight by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The school board is holding a public forum on the best ways of finding classroom space for the ever-increasing student enrollment.

The forum will be the last chance for residents to express their opinions and offer suggestions before the school board makes a final decision on what plan will be adopted to accommodate growth.

The forum is being held in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High, on Joy west of Canton Center Road, so there will be room for a large audience.

The hearing begins at 7:30 p.m. and will be followed by the regular board meeting.

As part of the forum, the administration will present a slide show on student housing needs.

Residents attending the hearing also may turn in the filled-out opinion questionnaire which had been mailed out earlier in the school district newsletter.

Those residents who cannot attend the hearing may still listen to the proceedings as the forum will be broadcast by the student radio station, WSDP, (88.1 on the FM dial) beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The school board presently is considering the size of a bond issue to put before voters in a February election.

The bond issue would be used to finance classroom additions, major renovations, purchase of portable buildings, to pay for the physical costs of expanding year-round school, and possibly to build new schools.

The proposed bond issues under study range from $15 million up to $50 million.

The board hopes to decide at its Nov. 26 meeting on what size of bond issue should be placed before voters. The decision schedule calls for the board to approve the ballot proposal and set an election date at its Dec. 10 meeting.

Short Takes

Mobile meeting

Mobile home park tenants, or anyone else with an interest in mobile homes, are invited to speak up at a public hearing scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight in the UAW Local 1776 Hall, 1070 McCartney Road in Ypsilanti. The hearing is sponsored by the Michigan Mobile Home Commission and was prompted by a mass protest about alleged practices at some area mobile home parks. Residents at five parks owned by Sheldon Futurnick postponed a planned rent strike last week until after this hearing in order to see if they could get their long list of complaints cleared up.

A new development

The seat on the Canton Economic Development Corporation now held by former township supervisor Harold Stein will be up for a new term as of Nov. 22. According to present Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert, applications from persons interested in the two-year term may be sent to his office in township hall. He will be accepting applications until Nov. 21. There are nine members of the EDC, with terms ranging from two to six years. The EDC is empowered by the state to perform such functions as issuing bonds in order to promote economic development in the community.

A full agenda

Lots of interesting goodies fill the agenda for the regular meeting of the Canton Township Board of Trustees. The meeting begins at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the board room of Canton Township hall, on Canton Center Road just south of Proctor.

Included on the agenda will be adoption of the 1980 fire fund budget, discussions on farmland preservation activities, more discussion on the two companies vying for a cable television franchise in Canton (McLean-Hunter and Omnicom) and discussion of adoption of a board policy concerning what substances can go in the Woodland Meadows landfill. In addition, a public hearing on a proposed township master plan addendum will take place before the Canton Township Planning Commission when it meets tonight beginning 8 p.m. at township hall.

'Rainy day' fund would benefit county—Law

Wayne County's fiscal problems could be alleviated if the county establishes a "rainy day" fund, State Rep. Robert Law (R-Livonia, Westland) told a town hall meeting audience in Plymouth last week.

About 30 people attended the meeting in West Middle School in Plymouth Township.

Also attending the session were State Rep. Roy Smith (R-Saline), whose district includes Plymouth and part of Plymouth Township, Plymouth Township trustees Lee Fidge and Gerald Law, and Plymouth-Canton school trustee Elaine Kirchgatter.

"There is a bill before the House to permit counties to establish budget stabilizations funds," said Rep. Law, "in the same way that the state and other units of government can, and would, exempt those funds from expenditure or consideration as revenue during labor negotiations.

"Obviously, with economic conditions so uncertain and with inflation raging upwards, counties should have the ability to set aside funds for the future.

"If Wayne County had been able to do that all along, it might not find itself in its present financial mess."

LAW EXPLAINED that the present statute permits cities and townships to establish rainy day funds, but that counties were inadvertently left out.

"As you may remember, the concept of a budget stabilization fund was introduced several years ago by Gov. Milliken.

"It has been in existence since 1975 and has about $240 million in it as a hedge against an uncertain economic future."

A member of the House Appropriations Committee, Law said he and other committee members will meet with administration officials and department heads in an attempt to pare $100 million from the state's budget.

"The governor has asked us to confer to determine where programs can be trimmed to meet this savings goal with the least amount of pain.

"It represents an informal strategy for cutting costs because we have become aware early in the budget year that spending may outpace revenues.

"If voluntary cutbacks are not successful and if state departments fail to reach the targets the governor has set for them, he may be forced to issue an executive order to cut spending next spring. That would not permit as much leeway in deciding which programs, including education, can be trimmed."

Law said although the goal is to save $100 million, fiscal experts have advised the appropriations committee members that they will be satisfied if the state trims $80-$90 million.

Defendant's fear is eased by judge

A few eyebrows were raised last Thursday as visitors to Plymouth's 35th District Court discovered Judge Dunbar Davis out of his natural habitat.

Most judges can be found battling their never-ending dockets from atop a lofty court bench. Davis, however, literally took one of his cases out to the mingling crowds.

By special request, the white-haired judge conducted a hearing in the second floor hallway of Plymouth City Hall, just east of the public restrooms.

In the midst of dealing with motorists who were in on drunk driving charges, one public defender arrived requesting special consideration for a client who refused to enter Davis' courtroom.

Charles Simkins, a Northville attorney, said his client had "never been in trouble" before and was "too nervous" to enter the courtroom. By mid-day it was packed with observers awaiting the trial of Plymouth's Dr. Stanley Jenkins of Central Baptist Temple School.

Simkins said the local woman, described as about 50, refused 10 separate requests to enter the courtroom.

"If Mohammed can't come to the mountain, the mountain will go to Mohammed," said Davis as he rose from his judicial loft and sallied into the hallway to greet the woman.

"WE AIM TO please around here," he added.

"I was surprised," Simkins said. "Other judges would have issued a bench warrant for her arrest."

Following Davis out into the hallway was the prosecuting attorney of the day and a court stenographer, who set up her recording machine in a far corner.

The woman pleaded no contest to a charge of simple larceny, shoplifting a pair of shoes from the Ann Arbor Road Kmart department store.

"The matter was disposed of in less than five minutes and it was referred to the probation department," Simkins said.

"She was fine outside and quite pleased," he added. "He's a supper guy for doing that kind of thing."

Asked if Simkins ever had a similar court case, he said: "I've never had one like that before. This is the first time in 2,500 cases."

Fencing serves as foil for fun

By CAROLINE PRICE

It's Wednesday night and the little girls playing basketball have scurried away from the Field Elementary School gym.

Now let the swordfight begin.

Several men and a woman, all wearing stark white tunics, browse through an array of wicked-looking weapons spread out on the carpet of the gymnasium platform. One of the men selects a sword, examines it briefly and flexes its needle-thin blade against the palm of his hand.

The others stand flexing their knees or sit on the bleachers and chat, in evident unconcern for the clashing of swords to come. They know their sword play will result in nary a drop of spilled blood.

In fact, they compare their activity to chess.

This group of diverse people, loosely assembled into a club called the Cavaliers, spend most Wednesday nights indulging in an ancient and genteel sport known as fencing.

On this particular Wednesday, the group comprises Bruce Davis of Canton, an engineer for the Wayne County Department of Health; Pete Barrett of Livonia, who works in labor relations; Barrett's son Gene: a student at Churchill Night School; and Eileen Roths of Canton, a homemaker and former member of the Canadian Olympic squad.

DAVIS SERVES as coach, although he is not actually giving fencing lessons (he is considering doing so).

As do most fencers, Davis learned the art during his college days at Wayne State University. Davis won awards in many fencing competitions, such as NCAA foil champ, second place in the midwest championship as well as honors in a number of regional competitions.

He has not been involved in competitive fencing for about five years, but says he may start entering contests again.

Barrett didn't get involved in fencing until he was 41. He learned the basics through the Livonia Family Y. His son Gene has been fencing since he was eight years old.

Mrs. Roths is just beginning to fence again after a hiatus of a number of years.

A native of Canada, she was ranked as the second best female fencer in the country during the 1950's. She would have gone to the Olympics in Helsinki, but her country's Olympic committee couldn't raise enough money to send her. She said she spent many hours in rigorous training sessions, but never with the same grim determination as some of her friends who were seriously involved in other Olympic sports. "My coach said I never hated enough," she says.

Mrs. Roths has also taught fencing to children in YMCA programs when she came from Canada to the Detroit area after her marriage.

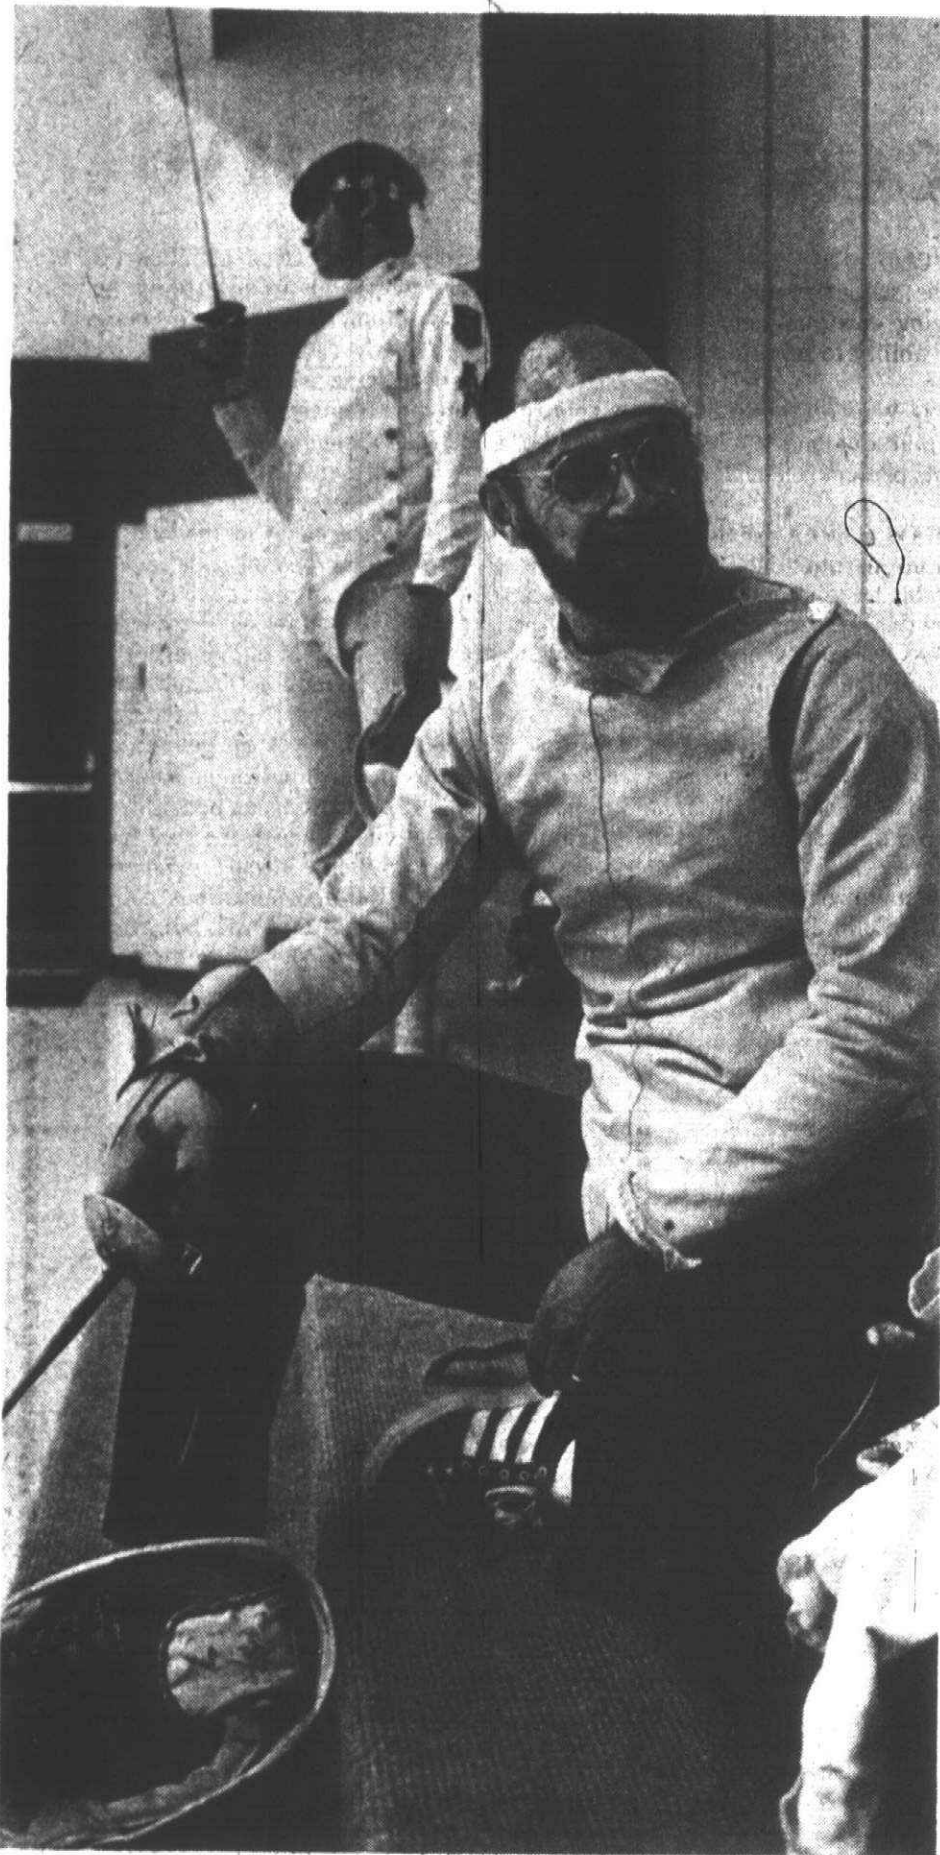

Good fencers make the swordwork appear smooth and graceful, but Davis says fencing is a strenuous activity.

"It's much more trying than tennis. You burn up far more calories in the same amount of time fencing," he says.

Age, however, is not an impediment. Davis says he knows of one man in his 70's who is still fencing. "The only change is in the manner of using it."

That's because much of fencing centers on the mind as well as the body, which is why it is likened to an accelerated game of chess.

Eileen Roths smiles as she remembers the days when she was an Olympic-class fencer.

Bruce Davis says that he likes to teach fencing by participating, unlike some coaches. Here, he fences with Gene Barrett (left) as he provides instruction. Barrett managed to get a point on the coach during the bout.

Future of Baptist school awaits judge's decision

By TERI BANAS

The fate of a Christian school fighting state building codes will be decided within six weeks by a Plymouth Judge.

Central Baptist Temple School is continuing to hold classes in Plymouth until Judge Dunbar Davis of 35th District Court renders his decision in the non-jury trial.

Davis announced to the packed court on Thursday that he will make his decision in six weeks. He said he will study the arguments and will accept briefs from both sides in the next month.

Davis also said he would consider a dismissal of the case requested by the school's attorney, Charles Craze, nationally known for his defense of Christian congregations around the country. About 150 observers, most of them Christian school advocates, attended the trial which has attracted state-wide attention.

Central Baptist has been the focus of a local fight between state officials and Christians arguing their right to perform their ministry without state strings. Those strings include state school building codes that say a private school must comply with the same fire code regulations as public schools.

It's a "close question," Davis said, when questioned about the outcome.

THE SCHOOL was served with violations of the building code last month following an investigation by a state fire marshal. The wood construction of the building, considered unsafe for school use, and failure to obtain prior approval to open from the state school superintendent, were cited in the violations.

Central Baptist opened its doors to K-12 instruction early last September. About 35 students attend the school held in a first-floor open classroom in the church building on 670 Church Street in Plymouth.

School officials maintain that Central Baptist is a church first and a school second. Dr. Stanley Jenkins, the school's pastor, says that providing education to children is an "incidental" aspect of the ministry.

Rev. Jenkins faces up to 90 days imprisonment or a $500 fine, or both, for refusing to comply to the state fire codes.

Wayne County Asst. Prosecutor Howard Philippart prosecuted the case. It began at noon Thursday and lasted more than five hours.

Craze, a member of an Ohio-based Christian law firm, drew support from the majority of trial observers.

With an occasional outburst of "Amen" from church supporters in the audience, Craze continually hammered home his argument that the building should not be regulated as a school but rather judged for safety under codes that apply to churches.

"WE DON'T have a school as defined in the Michigan Fire Code. We've always been ready, willing and able to comply."

"If the building is in fact unsafe, then they should not have 150 people in there on Sunday," he added.

Philippart argued in his closing statement: "It's an essential portion of the function of that building to have a school. It's more than an incidental use when kids use that building five times a week."

"It becomes absurd when you allow people to hide behind their religion when the laws are made for the protection of all of us," Philippart added. "It's our obligation to enforce the law."

The prosecution called two key witnesses to testify, Sgt. Walter Davenport of the Michigan State Police Fire Marshal's Division, and Ralph Turnball, a consultant to the Michigan Education Department.

Turnball, who handles licensing of private schools, said he first visited the school Oct. 12 and that Jenkins was aware of the violations. Turnball also testified that Jenkins had never applied for an inspection of the building — a requirement of state licensing.

Turnball also stated that Central Baptist is among 50-60 other church-schools around the state that are in "jeopardy" because of various state code violations.

Asked who initiated the inspection of Central Baptist, Turnball said a complaint from the Plymouth Fire Department to the law as it applies to a ment prompted the inspection, rather than a complaint from the state education department.

IN AN ATTEMPT to demonstrate an alleged state crackdown on private schools, Craze asked Turnball if the same inspection is done regularly in public schools.

"Isn't it a fact that the Detroit Public School System is a mess?" Craze asked. "I only know what I read," Turnball responded.

Following the same line, Craze also asked Davenport if he was aware of unsafe conditions in the Plymouth-Canton School District where fire extinguishers have been emptied because of vandalism.

Central Baptist school teacher Karen Jackman testified the school's curriculum followed the national guidelines of Alpha-Omega, a Christian set of course work that incorporates the Bible in every subject.

Craze used the testimony of Jenkins' secretary, Louise Haley, to illustrate that the building had been used for school purposes long before state fire code standards were toughened in 1974.

Haley, a 1957 graduate of Plymouth High School, then housed in Central Middle School on Church Street, said the high school used the neighboring church building at that time for some course study including high school band practice.

Craze concluded that Central Baptist should be exempt from the fire code regulation.

Want to build movie theater

Landowners sue over lot's zoning

Two landowners are again asking the Canton Township Board to rezone their property to allow construction of a movie theater on the site.

Gerald Richter and Herbert Pfeffer want the zoning of their 10-acre parcel on the south side of Ford Road, west of Lilley, to be changed from single-family residential to commercial.

The rezoning would allow construction of an indoor movie theater to be operated by Lewis George.

In September the three men filed suit against the Township in Wayne County Circuit Court after the planning commission tabled consideration of their rezoning request.

Canton attorney Dave Berry theorizes the lawsuit was filed in order to pressure the township board into changing the zoning classification.

The rezoning question appeared on the township board's agenda following an Oct. 8 planning commission decision to recommend denial.

Township board members tabled the matter until Nov. 27 in order to speak to Canton attorneys about the matter.

Michael Feiler, attorney for the landowners, had suggested a joint meeting between his clients, the township board and Canton attorneys.

TUESDAY, RICHTER, Pfeffer and Feiler appeared before the township board. Township Supervisor Noel Culbert had referred to the lawsuit and the rezoning request at last week's meeting.

"In my experience, these things can be resolved in light of a lawsuit," Feiler told the board. He said his clients were interested in working with the township "on a serious level."

Berry said he will advise board members to retain the land's present zoning. He believes the courts would rule in favor of Canton Township.

The landowners argue in their suit that the present residential zoning of their property makes development of the land economically unfeasible.

City planner Jim Kosteva and the planning commission have both recommended against the zoning change. Land to the north, south and west of the property is zoned for residential purposes.

Club membership costs $3 to $4 per year. In addition, members pay $3 to $4 per dance to cover the cost of refreshments, etc.

The largest investment may be for special clothing. According to one dancer, full-skirted dresses can cost up to $40, with petticoats and shoes running about $20 each.

Mrs. Brennan points out that many dancers cut costs by sewing their own outfits, generally in light fabrics which are suited to the vigorous dancing.

"You walk five miles and use up 350 calories an hour," added Mrs. Brennan. "One man dances because his doctor recommended it for his blood pressure."

Square dancing has become a way of life for the Livonia couple, who have managed Westland's program since it began.

Western square dancing is a "melting pot of folk dancing," using about 100 basic steps which are variations of steps from countries such as France and Austria, said Mrs. Brennan.

In that western style, dancers (four couples to a square) are in continuous motion.

Brennan, a quality control worker, writes the choreography and works out the steps with little dolls, while his wife takes care of paperwork and similar chores.

WHILE DANCERS form circles, Brennan calls out the steps in a twangy, sassy voice that may seem confusing to the uninitiated. Yet dancers seem to understand and be able to follow.

"Now boys and girls . . . promenade and around . . . two by two, hey, don't slow down."

Red, white and blue skirts flash and swirl. Feet thump (no high heels, please), and people dash for cold drinks between tips (a set of two dances).

Brennan says his wife "dragged" him into square dancing about 17 years ago. "It happens to almost all men," he added. "Dancing is strange to most men, but it (square dancing) seems to appeal to them. You don't need a lot of grace."

Neil Hoffman, 38, of Westland says his wife, Luella, "collared" him into taking lessons a couple of years ago. Members of that class subsequently formed the Haystack Twirlers.

When did Hoffman start to feel at ease with square dancing?

"Sometimes now I don't feel too comfortable," he said, with a smile.

"Getting dressed up is part of the fun," he continued. "It's nominal — that's one of the nice things about it. You can afford to go out."

Jim and Marion Bandy of Westland are "angels" (helpers) for beginning square dancers.

"We like to see them come out with six left feet and end up dancing," said Mrs. Bandy. The Bandys, who manage Westgate Tower apartment building in Westland, often put on square dance demonstrations to entertain senior citizens in the complex.

Gay and Jerry Brauer of Westland like to take camping trips in which square dancing is part of the excursion, because "it combines the two things we like best."

Dorothy and Virgil Keeney of Redford Township dance for the exercise.

"It keeps you young," said Mrs. Keeney, who was dressed in a red checked dress over billowy petticoats.

Bud and Donna Goodrich of Livonia have been members of the Totem Trotters club for about 10 years.

"You really feel very invigorated at the end of an evening," said Mrs. Goodrich, who has asthma. "It gets your juices going."

"It's just a good, healthy, fun night out," she concluded.

For information about the square dance program offered through Westland Parks and Recreation Department, call Mary Brennan at 421-5359.

The art of fencing

A fencer has to anticipate the move of his or her opponent while attempting to counteract that move. Once the basic skills are learned, a fencer can intelligently adapt to an opponent who may be taller, shorter, older or younger. It's all in the style.

Davis says a person who practices three times a week can become reasonably good at fencing after about a year. It can be enjoyed as a pleasure or for competitive purposes.

Fencing, of course, centers on the weapon. There are actually three different swords that can be used. Most familiar is the foil, which has a flexible blade (always blunted at the tip) and is used almost always by beginners and as a practice sword.

When fencing with a foil, the entire torso area is considered the target.

The epee looks much like a foil, but has a stiffer blade. It is the kind of sword that was once used for dueling. The entire body is considered a target when fencing with the epee, so points can be made by a touch on the chest, foot or elsewhere.

The third sword used in fencing is the saber. The saber is fashioned after the sword once used during battle on horseback and is larger and heavier than the other two. It is a cutting blade, rather than a point thrust blade, with the upper body being the primary target.

According to Davis, the swords are wired during fencing competitions so that a buzzer will go off when one of the fencers succeeds in making a touch. When a touch is made in an area of the body appropriate to the sword being used, the fencer gets a point. Five points will win a bout.

Fencing has always been a sport of aristocrats and still retains much of that reputation.

Davis says the fact that the sport is almost exclusively taught in colleges accounts for the primarily white-collar types involved in it.

Mrs. Roths adds that fencing seldom makes its way into curriculums of lower grades because learning the sport is too time-consuming for physical education instructors to learn during their own educations.

All the members of the group stressed that fencing is really quite safe, with accidents few and far between.

To further add to the safety of working with blunted swords, fencers wear padded jackets and mesh face masks.

It may not be the most common sport around, but it offers a great deal to those involved: It taxes the mind as well as the body; it gives grace and coordination and lifelong pleasure.

"I never thought I'd feel this good again!"

I have known about the benefits of Chiropractic care for years. Several years ago, one brother went into a Chiropractor's office on his hands and knees and was able to walk out normally. Also, my daughter was paralyzed on one side of her face and it never responded to other care. So we took her to the local Chiropractor and after several treatments her face came back to normal. When her dimple began to show, we knew it was a complete recovery. In my own case, I hurt my back helping my husband who had fallen. The pain grew worse and radiated to other parts of my body. I couldn't raise my foot to put my stockings on or wash my hair. It was difficult to get in and out of bed or turn over. The pain was so bad I wanted to cry. After a few days I went to Dr. Grassam. He took X-Rays and assured me he could help. After 4 adjustments, I began to feel relief. I never thought I'd feel this good again. Thanks to Dr. Grassam and Chiropractic Care I'm back to normal! See Dr. Grassam.

OMNICOM given cable TV award in Plymouth Township

All prize rose bushes aside, Plymouth Township should expect to see its first bloom of cable television by the spring of next year.

Plymouth Township Board of Trustees last week selected OMNICOM of Plymouth over three other cable firms vying for a franchise in the township.

Now that the governmental go-ahead has been given, company president John Raines said the system should be in service by next May.

The board unanimously approved OMNICOM's request in a motion made by Trustee Maurice Breen and supported by Trustee Barbara Lynch.

The vote was taken only after Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert asked that one thing be made perfectly clear.

Questioning the amount of inconvenience caused to personal property as a result of cable construction, Notebaert said: "The plantings of prize rose bushes is of some concern to me."

"If we damage any personal property, including prize rose bushes, of course we'll replace them," Raines assured.

He said his work crews have become "quite proficient" in installing cables which require only limited digging.

The cables will be tied to existing utility lines, whether above or below ground in areas where there are at least 70 homes per mile.

OMNICOM, WHICH was granted similar franchises in Plymouth, Northville and Northville Township, already has completed the preliminary mapping of the area which precedes the start of construction.

In fact, this preliminary initiative was one reason why township officials swayed toward OMNICOM.

Lynch and Township Treasurer Joe West made up the cable study committee that recommended OMNICOM to their associates.

"They were a step ahead of the other firms in that area," Lynch said.

Other firms included: MacLean-Hunter, United, and Metrovision.

Among other reasons for OMNICOM's selection are:

- They were the first to apply.
- The company offered to waive a $25 installation fee for first-year subscribers.
- The company has a local office at 838 S. Main Street.
- OMNICOM has contracts with three other nearby communities.
- Their system would be installed sooner than estimates by three other applicants. Other estimates ran from a year to a year and half.

- OMNICOM representatives were available and receptive to all questions posed by the study committee.
- OMNICOM's 3 percent franchise fee was equal to those offered by other applicants. Lynch said this fee refers to 3 percent of the company's total revenues in one year which will be passed on to the township's general fund. She guessed it would amount to about $12,000-$15,000 annually.

Although there were no glaring differences among the four proposals, she said selection was a question of "Who you'd like to see in your community."

West agreed, saying he "liked the way they followed up. They were accessible to us."

"In the Plymouth community at least people like to deal with people that will respond to them — that local touch," Lynch said.

She also was impressed with OMNICOM's commitment to system improvements as they developed. One eventual improvement is tie-in-vision, which is a two-way communication system bringing in immediate audience response to programming.

There's good and bad

Advice is given on selecting cable firms

By TIM RICHARD

Local cities and townships are being advised to do exhaustive checking on all companies who bid for cable television franchises.

"If you sell to the highest bidder, you'll get a bad system," added Harold Horn, who met Thursday night in Oak Park with about 100 local officials from all over western Wayne and Oakland counties.

Horn is a former city manager (Lawrence and Concordia, Kansas) and now executive director of the Cable Television Information Center, a nonprofit project of the Urban Institute.

His office has visited 1,700 cities, and he has testified before Congress on cable TV questions. "We do not work for or with the industry," he said.

WHILE MOST cable TV companies are good, Horn said there are a few bad ones and an immense variety of deals offered by all of them. He advised local officials to have all bidders supply a complete list of all communities in which they have done business, with the name of the responsible official in each community, and to check each reference with a list of questions.

One extremely important thing, he said, is to be sure the firm has enough capital to deliver what it promises.

Horn said officials shouldn't be taken in when cable firms recruit prominent local professional people as investors in order to secure political leverage. The local investors are often bought out a few months after the firm gets its franchise.

Most cable firms offer the local government 3-5 percent of gross revenues as a franchise fee. Horn urged them to "consider 3 percent reasonable."

Communities must grant franchises because cable TV requires use of a public right-of-way.

CABLE TV originated in small towns where reception from area stations was hampered by distance or high hills. A company builds a single, tall antenna capable of receiving many channels and transmits to subscribing households by cable.

Each receiving household pays an installation fee and a monthly subscription.

Not only can those communities now receive TV, but they can get literally dozens of channels from all over the country. A home antenna without cable can pick up signals from only 50-100 miles.

The firms currently competing ferociously for metropolitan Detroit franchises offer any or all of several packages:

- Stations from such nearby cities as Lansing and Toledo.
 - Major independent stations such as WGN Chicago, WTCG Atlanta, WSBK Boston and WTVU San Francisco with movies and sports events.
 - Children's programs from such services Nickelodeon and Calliope.
 - U.S. House of Representatives' sessions (the Senate doesn't allow TV). This has received "rave" notices, said Horn, although congressmen turn into "ham" actors in front of a camera.
 - "Automated" channels with weather and stock reports and notices of local government meetings.
 - Live telecasting of local government meetings.
 - "Access" programming for local schools and civic groups. The big question here, Horn said, is who decides which groups get to broadcast in prime time.
 - "Digital democracy," a two-way communications system where viewers at home can give an instant reaction, for example, to a case before the planning commission.
- These have been pioneered in Columbus, Ohio and are expensive. Horn said companies sometimes advertise their plans have "two-way capability" but are vague about when it will actually be available.

OTHER ADVICE Horn gave the officials:

Small communities should consider "clustering" — joining together to deal with a single company. The advantage may be sharing better equipment for local (e.g., council meeting) programming.

Companies don't care to compete with each other in the same community, so don't plan on granting two or more franchises.

Pin down the applicant as to which areas of your community may be excluded. Sparsely populated portions of a town may be unserviceable. Areas which require underground wires such as Troy will be more expensive to serve

Reading's addictive

Why can't Johnny or Janie read? Parents and educators worry about it and try new approaches.

But libraries in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are doing something about it.

"If you surround a child with books, if you read to him and with him, if you make books easy for him to take out and to own, you've laid the best basics for encouraging reading," says Bee Green, director of libraries for the school district.

Librarians are giving that special emphasis this week.

"More Books in the Home" is the theme for Children's Book Week (Nov. 12-18).

AS PART of that observance, book fairs are being held this week at Bird, Eriksson, Smith and Hulsing elementary, with others to come later. The Morning Newsline, 453-0271, will give dates for each school.

In addition to the book fairs, there will be story-telling, periods set aside for everyone to read, displays of new books added to the libraries' own collections, and taking children to the big book fair in Detroit where they will hear leading authors and illustrators.

"The reading habit is addictive," says Ms. Green.

"If parents and children have not yet started, there is no better time than now. Reading means enjoyment and sharing for the families who make time for it.

"One-half hour a day, or more, away from the TV set and into a good book can make a lifelong difference. Try it — you won't regret it."

Your ideas Committee

Input to your State Legislature Representatives: Bob Law, Chairman; Tom Brown, Jack Kirsner, Roy Smith, Senator R. Robert Geake

Question of the week:

Before the Legislature is a bill which would increase the severance tax on oil and gas with the money generated from that increase going to finance the home heating assistance program going for senior citizens. What do you think of this concept?

Because of enormous profits recently reported by oil companies and the need to fund the home heating assistance program for senior citizens, legislation has been introduced to increase the severance tax on oil and natural gas.

The bill would increase the tax on the market value of oil and gas to eight percent for oil and four percent for natural gas.

Of the total revenue collected from the tax, the first $16 million (representing roughly the amount the sponsor of the bill estimates would be raised by the present tax of two percent) would go to the general fund to be used for any purpose. The bill would earmark an additional $34 million for the energy cost assistance program for senior citizens.

Opponents of the bill say that the tax will increase the cost of fuel to the consumer. Supporters point out that the present two percent tax has not been changed for 50 years and that the oil industry should help finance the cost of "home heating assistance for senior citizens."

What do you think?

Research for children wins grant for UM-D

The University of Michigan-Dearborn's Division of Education has been awarded a $111,346 grant for the development of a diagnostic model to identify and plan for children with emotional problems in the public schools.

The project, which has been funded for three years by the Bureau of the Handicapped in the U.S. Office of Education, will be under the direction of Virginia Rezmierski, assistant professor of education at UM-D.

"We are extremely honored to be among the 25 schools chosen to receive a demonstration grant from the Department of Education," said Lee Katz, dean for academic development. "UM-D's Division of Education has long recognized the need to help teachers in the general classroom identify children with special needs."

"Students exist within our public schools who are experiencing socio-emotional problems so significant that these problems interfere with learning," said Rezmierski.

"Teachers repeatedly report the existence of 'behavior problems' in their classrooms. However, it is unclear what number of these reports reflect classroom problems, behavior problems, learning problems, emotional problems, or actually teacher problems."

THE PROJECT, officially titled "Intervention by Prescription," has two objectives, according to Rezmierski. The first is to provide data regarding the numbers of children who need assistance within the school-aged population due to their emotional problems and to define these needs. The second objective is to decide where and how these needs might best be met.

"There is a trend today in our school system," said Rezmierski, "where there is a hesitancy to identify emotionally impaired children. Children must meet very specific state definitions of handicapped before they may receive special educational services."

"Many children do not fit these existing definitions and yet are experiencing difficulties in school due to their emotional problems."

"What happens is that the children who should get assistance frequently don't because they don't fit any of the clearly defined categories. Others are improperly categorized by school personnel in order to provide them with special assistance. Too often their real emotional problems are being ignored."

THREE SCHOOL districts in Wayne County will be selected to participate in the three-year study. Within these districts, psychologists, social workers, and teacher consultants will be involved with the project staff.

"Selected nationally recognized theory consultants and intervention specialists will also be involved," said the project director. In addition, an advisory board composed of parents and local and state education professionals will be established. Dr. William Morse, chairman of the department of education and psychology at the University of Michigan, will serve as overall project consultant.

The first year will be devoted to theoretical work and training of the diagnostic teams in each of the selected schools. The second year of the study will involve intervention and data gathering. During the third year, information regarding this demonstration project will be disseminated nationally.

"The project represents a cooperative effort between the University of Michigan-Dearborn, the Michigan Department of Education, Wayne County Intermediate School District, local education agencies and the federal government," said Rezmierski. "It is an effort on the part of all these agencies to intensively examine and explore our abilities to understand and plan for the emotional needs of our school-aged children."

Levin urges toxic waste site reports

If you think there's a hazardous waste site in your area, report it to U.S. Sen. Carl Levin's office.

After two days of hearings in July on hazardous waste management, the Michigan Democrat concluded that there was an inadequate governmental response to reports of chemical contamination that focused on human and animal health problems in Hemlock, Mich.

He then decided to develop a plan for residents to provide information to officials through his regional offices about possible toxic sites.

"I am inviting the public to contact my regional offices if there is any evidence of a chemical contamination problem which may pose a threat to the health and safety of a community," he said.

The reporting system will gather information that may or may not be available to agencies that are responsible for monitoring toxic waste problems.

"I can't guarantee that appropriate action will be taken to solve all of these problems. However I can guarantee that further governmental inaction in protecting the public from toxic wastes in Michigan will not be due to lack of information," Levin said.

INFORMATION provided by the public will be referred to various state agencies and the federal Environmental Protection Agency. Levin said that he will urge the appropriate agency to take prompt and effective action if there is an indication that a health hazard exists.

Individuals should contact the regional office at 1860 McNamara Federal Building, Detroit 48226, phone 226-6020, if they observe any of the following:

- Dumping of canisters, metal drums or other possible waste containers at a site that appears to be uncontrolled or unsafe, or both.
- Waste disposal activities at a site that is in close proximity to residential areas, and appears to be unregulated.

Unhappy with schools

Editor:

Our opinion as one family residing in the city of Plymouth may not seem too important. But to us as parents, with three children fast approaching the middle and high school years, we feel our views must be spoken.

After searching for three or four years for a school district to reside in, for the duration of our children's education, we decided on Plymouth.

In our opinion, the Plymouth school district is not all we had heard it was or hoped it would be. We are very disappointed in it, on the whole. And we feel that many of our problems are due to the growth in Canton.

We can't help but feel Plymouth would do better with its own school district, independent of Canton. As Canton's growth seems to be the reason for our increased millage, you can rest assured this is one voter who will never vote for any millage as long as Canton is involved with our schools.

Being in a position of not being able to afford to move, we are looking for alternative schools for our children to attend.

We feel we may be the only family writing to you of these feelings. But judging by the attendance of the private schools around, and their long waiting lists, we don't feel we are the only ones displeased with the school district.

Here's one option you can't get from a car dealer.

Real rustproofing. A dealer can't order it from the factory because it has to be done after the car is completely assembled.

Some car dealers will do a so-called "rustproofing" job, but that's about all. They might even say it's the "same as Ziebart." That's not true because they don't have the training, equipment or know-how to give you complete rustproofing.

At Ziebart Rustproofing we've got the spray tools, the sealant, the manuals and the technicians to do it right.

If you're buying a new car, you should check us out. Why not give us a call?

SC nursing grads score high on test

This year's associate degree nursing graduates at Schoolcraft College recorded a 97 percent rate of success on their state board exams, the highest percentage for the first examination.

According to Harriett Sattig, RN and assistant dean for health careers, 66 members of the class of 1979 took the exams for the first time in July and 64 passed, many with exceptionally high scores.

Ms. Sattig attributes Schoolcraft graduates' success to "a talented and experienced instructional staff."

Second year instructors are Mary Smith, who came to the college in 1965, Dorothy Sampson (1967) and Ruth McCormack (1972).

The first year instructors are Bernadette Steffke (1966), Eileen Bolcer (1971) and Geraldine Caplan, the first nursing instructor at the college who rejoined the staff last January after an absence of several years.

Several part-time clinical instructors have contributed greatly to it, according to Ms. Sattig.

Schoolcraft's associate degree nursing program admitted its first students in 1965 with a class of 23. The college has graduated from 65 to 75 nurses yearly since then.

The State Board Licensing Examination is given twice each year, in July and February, and passage is essential for becoming licensed as a registered nurse.

School forum to be broadcast

The public forum on school bond issues and alternatives will be broadcast tonight by WSDP (88.1 on the FM dial), the student-operated radio station at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park.

The broadcast of the forum conducted by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Tomorrow WSDP will broadcast the girls basketball game between Plymouth Salem and Livonia Bentley, starting at 7:30 p.m. The Salem Rocks have only one defeat to date and Bentley stands undefeated in conference games.

On Thursday, WSDP will broadcast a special program live from Phase III — the Parent-Teacher conferences. There will be interviews with parents, teachers, and administrators.

The conferences will be hosted by Bruce Ruttenberg and Michelle Wegienek. Stephan Petersen will be conducting the roving reporting, dealing with information related to the CEP.

UM-D asks aid boost

The University of Michigan-Dearborn will seek an additional $2 million in state appropriations for general operating expenses in fiscal year 1980-81.

The request, to be submitted to the Michigan Department of Management and Budget, was approved recently by U-M Regents. U of M-Dearborn's current fiscal year state appropriation is $9.1 million.

"We feel the increase is in line with our needs to meet general inflationary pressures and to maintain the present level of program quality on the campus," said Interim Chancellor Bernard W. Klein.

"We have developed this request in a spirit that recognizes both our legitimate needs and the fiscal constraints which the State of Michigan must consider when funding higher education," Klein added.

From our readers

Stroller's view is opposed

Editor:

Some reflections after reading W. W. Edgar's Stroller column on what he termed a spoiled generation:

I look down at the dead end street where I have lived for the past 16 years and count 21 cars owned by the families who are my neighbors.

Almost every young person in the small wooded area has a car and one person has a horse.

I reflect on the fact that each one of these young people has purchased his or her vehicle with money saved or with a credit commitment secured by personal savings.

The owner of the horse has worked faithfully to pay for the cost of the horse and the necessary accessories.

It is reassuring to realize that these young people prefer to work for their own transportation rather than depend on parents for rides to school, work, and social activities.

In the absence of public transportation, they have no alternative but some form of private vehicle. The once in a high school career event of an elegant prom is also financed by many hours of such prosaic tasks as loading fruit cases or conscientious sales work.

I look down our street and I am glad that I don't see a "spoiled generation." I see promising hope of the future in fine young men and women who are responsible citizens and a credit to their community.

Chiefs clinch another tie for cage crown

Canton grabs 12th straight victory

The Chiefs clinched a tie for another Western Six League title with a 53-42 victory at home against Livonia Churchill.

It was the 12th straight victory for Canton. The win virtually knocked Churchill out of the race. The Chargers fell to 6-2 while Canton upped its mark to 8-0. Both teams have two games left.

McCauley's aggressive, hustling team had things going pretty much its way from the opening tap. Canton jumped out to an 8-0 and led after one quarter, 14-4.

Churchill never seriously threatened, but refused to be blown out.

"Their speed was the difference," said Churchill coach Don Albertson.

"The tone of the game was set right from the beginning.

"We made a lot of turnovers right at the start. But I was proud of our spirit. We didn't quit and gave it a whole shot."

Albertson cited Canton senior forward Diane Durocher for being instrumental in maintaining the lead.

"She (Durocher) canned some nice outside shots which kept us from closing the gap," said Albertson.

Durocher popped in three jumpers off the Chiefs' fast break in a span of two minutes early in the fourth quarter to break it open. Her basket with 4:48 left gave Canton a 43-29 lead.

"DUROCHER really picked up the tempo for us," said McCauley. "I thought our first team looked sharp. Half of the team was emotionally ready.

"It's hard playing with only a day's rest. There is not enough time to prepare for a Thursday game. The girls are just not ready. It's not an equitable situation. They should let us play on Friday — maybe at 6 p.m. before the football games.

"It should be staggered so the students can go to both games."

McCauley said his team played well in Tuesday's 55-46 win at Walled Lake Central.

"We were ready to play against Central, and we'll be ready to play at Mott Tuesday night."

Canton can win the title outright at Waterford Mott Tuesday at 8 p.m.

"It's a long trip over there," joked McCauley. "We're going to eat a big spaghetti dinner and take in a lot of carbohydrates for that one."

Durocher paced Canton with 11 points. Senior Vicky Cavallaro, the floor leader, and sophomore Pearlle Cunningham each added eight. All 12 Canton players scored.

IN THE THIRD quarter McCauley's troops increased the margin to 32-15 as Churchill was held scoreless for the first 4:50. However, a bucket by Mary Watson, who scored points, cut the margin to 36-25 with 11 seconds left in the period.

Churchill center Cindy Bussart paced all scorers with 12. Cindy Colangelo added six.

"Our girls respond to pressure," McCauley said. "We didn't play as well (Continued on page 2B)

Canton grapplers 'get tough' for new season

By SCOTT ADLER

The Plymouth Canton varsity wrestlers plan to "get tough" this year and have high hopes of winning a Western Six League championship.

The Chiefs finished fourth in the league last season with a dual meet record of 7-5 overall. Coach Dan Chrenko said that mark should be surpassed this year.

"This is going to be a real good year for us," said a very optimistic Chrenko. "We have a good blend of talent and experience."

The Chiefs lost just two wrestlers who played significant roles a year ago — Dennis Howell and Jay Lee. Both were strong performers according to Chrenko.

Of the returning lettermen, five Canton seniors will be the heart of the team. These upperclassmen include regional qualifier Tom Harreld, Paul Mooney, an all-league selection in football this fall, Tim Racer, Mike Kitti and Dave Vaughn.

The Canton coach said Harreld will probably wrestle at 112 pounds depending upon "how much weight he can lose."

"Tommy is looking to have a super year," said Chrenko. "If he wants to work, he can go a long way."

Racer, who may be at either 132 or 138, has added more strength this year, according to Chrenko and will play an important role in Canton's championship bid.

Kitti and Vaughn will battle for the 155 and 167 weight classes. They, too, have added some muscle.

MOONEY MUST now make the transition from football to wrestling. He is the biggest member of the squad and will most likely compete at 198.

"Not having a 198 or heavyweight last year hurt us tremendously," said Chrenko. "Every match we had to forfeit six points and we weren't good enough to be able to do that and still win against good teams.

Hopefully, we can recruit some big kids and if we do, we'll be in great shape."

Canton's varsity also has the advantage of youth. The Chiefs wrestled four freshmen last year. With a year's experience, Chrenko is optimistic about the future.

"Those kids should do very well for us," he said. "It's a big plus for us that we are young and yet experienced."

"That will help us now as well as for the next couple years."

Canton will also field a freshman team this year. It's an added dimension to a successful program.

The Chiefs will field a team that has depth at almost all weight classes, another first for Canton, according to Chrenko.

"With two or three good wrestlers at each weight this will make each kid work for a varsity position," Chrenko said.

Other wrestlers battling for varsity positions in the lower weight divisions include Joel Schnell, Todd Bartlett and Tom Holloway.

MATMEN COMPETING at 119 and 126 pounds include Kevin Santilli, Kevin Decker, Kenny Penar, Brian Lee and Brett Harrala. Andy Kitti also returns to defend his position.

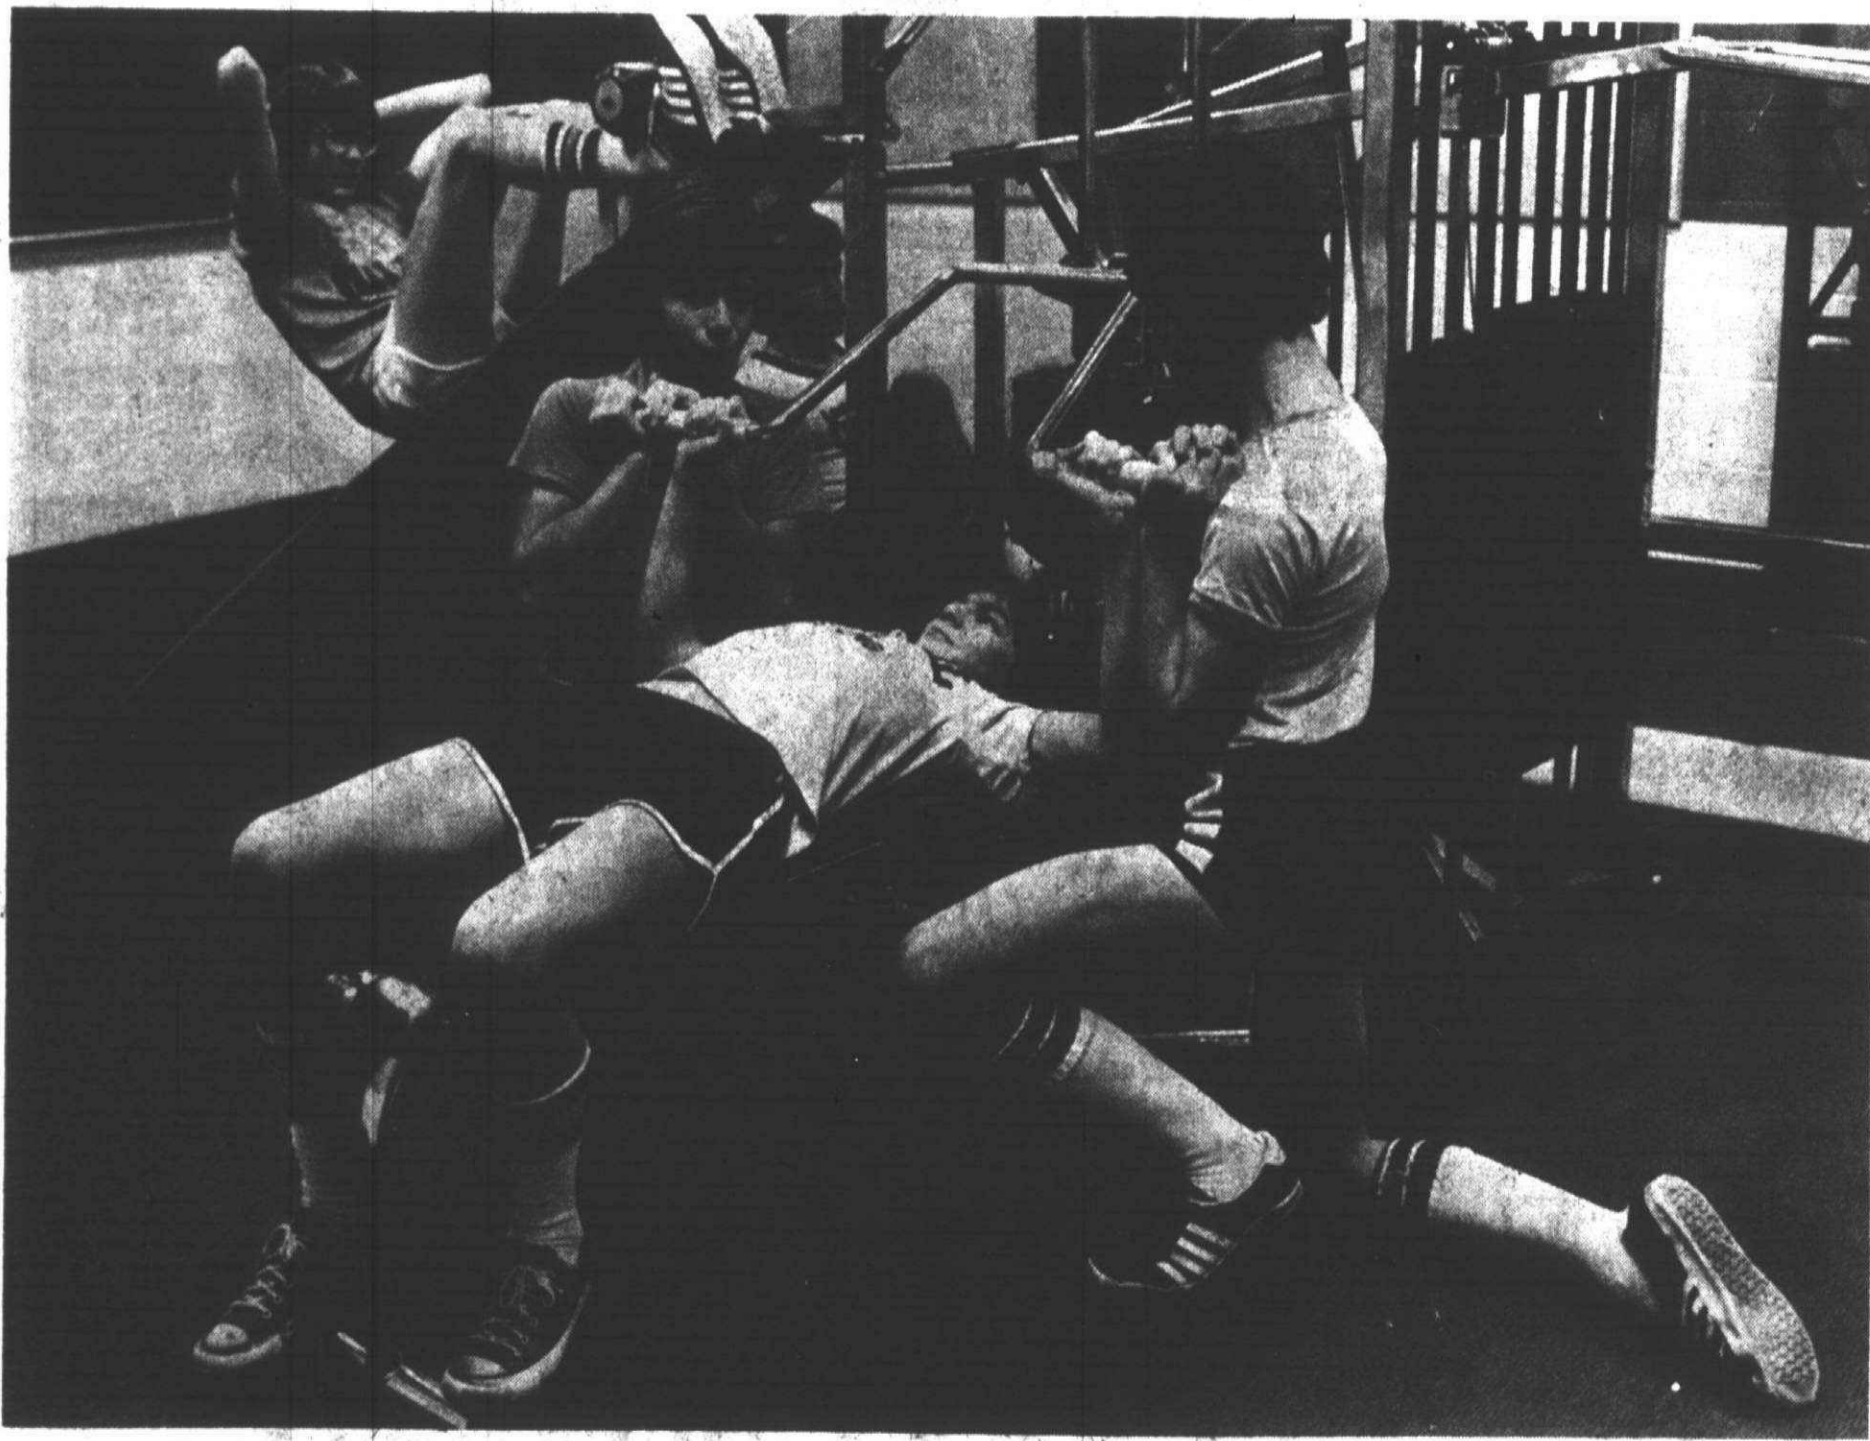

Dave Bennett and Steve Hamblin, a sophomore, will vie for the 138 and 145 pound spots.

"I'm excited to get 'em going," said the enthused Chrenko. "We're going to get tough and win the league this year if everything goes right."

The Chiefs open their season Dec. 8 in a triangular match against Ann Arbor Huron, Saline and Willow Run, Dec. 8.

Of the teams to beat in the Western Six, Chrenko said that Walled Lake Western is first-place contender.

Plymouth Salem's hopes of a Suburban Eight League girls' basketball title were virtually wiped out Thursday night.

Dearborn Edsel Ford upset the Rocks, 50-43, behind Sue Beardslee's 16 points. The loss dropped Salem to 6-2 in the league with two games left. Bentley, which travels to Salem Tuesday night, sports an 8-0 mark, clinched at least a tie for the crown.

"I'm disappointed in that we had to win to keep pace with Bentley," said Salem coach Bob Blohm. "Now we're going to have to reassess our priorities for the rest of the season. I don't see anyone else besides us beating Bentley."

Foul trouble and free throw shooting problems led to the Rocks' downfall. Salem hit only nine of 19 free tosses for 46 percent. Starters Patty Weidman and Cheryl Sobkow fouled out along with reserve guard Denise Zonka.

"The free throws hurt us," said Blohm, "but for 32 minutes we never really established an inside game. Give Edsel Ford credit. They came at us and played their game. They controlled the tempo and we did things we normally don't do."

Edsel Ford used its transition game to stymie the Rocks. The Thunderbirds led 6-5 after one quarter and 21-15 at halftime. They increased the lead to 35-25 at the end of three quarters.

"WE PLAYED hard," said the Salem coach. "We did some nice things defensively, but gave up too many baskets off the transition. We didn't play to our advantage. When we did get the ball inside, it just didn't fall."

Edsel Ford pressured Salem into numerous mistakes, using a 2-1-2 full

Hahn to coach Canton tankers

By BRAD EMONS

Bill Hahn has been named the new varsity boys' swim coach at Plymouth Canton.

He comes from outside the Plymouth-Canton Community School District. Hahn previously held swim posts at Dearborn Heights Crestwood and Annapolis.

His appointment was confirmed Thursday night by Canton High School Principal Kent Buikema.

Hahn, a resident of Southfield, succeeds Bill Faunce who guided the Chiefs to their first Western Six League championship as well as going unbeaten in dual meets.

The new Canton coach also has served in AAU programs in Crestwood and Wyandotte.

Hahn was interviewed last week for the job by Buikema, athletic director John Sandmann and assistant Paul Cummings.

"I was sending my resume around and they called me in," explained Hahn.

"I really don't know many people at Canton and don't know who's coming out from the team," he said.

"I'm going to get acquainted with everyone Monday in our first practice. Everything will be new."

"I know they have a good team coming back. I'm looking forward to getting started."

Hahn will be assisted by Mark Griffith, who is presently in his first season as the Canton girls' coach.

Faunce, who coached Canton for the past six years, resigned last May to spend more with his family. In all, Faunce coached swimming 12 years in the district.

Hahn will replace a coach who has left the program in good hands. Canton returns several regulars including All-American Paul Petersen, a state champion last year (Class A) in two events.

Salem tankers dunk Belleville; reach 7-6 mark

Plymouth Salem tuned up for the Suburban Eight League girls' swim meet with a 49-32 victory over Belleville on the road Thursday night.

Salem will host the league meet Thursday and Friday. Livonia Bentley, unbeaten in league duals, is favored to take the title.

Salem's victory over Belleville lifted the Rocks' overall mark to 7-6 and 2-3 in the league.

Sophomore Terri Eudy took individual firsts for the Rocks in the 200-yard freestyle (2:38.7) and 100-yard breaststroke (1:18.6).

Other Salem firsts were recorded by Sue Evans, 200-yard individual medley, 2:38.7; Linda Wochna, 100-yard butterfly, 1:15.8; and Sharon Ross, 100-yard freestyle, 1:00.8.

Corinne and Julie Cabadas teamed up with Eudy and Wochna to win the 200-yard medley relay (2:08.2). Renee Lakatos, Karen Kohler, Nancy Lazarus and Sue Nitz placed second with a clocking of 2:13.

Gaining second-place finishes for the Rocks included Lakatos, 50-yard freestyle, :28.9; Natalie McClumpha, diving, 185.9; Kelly Brandt, 500-yard freestyle, 6:27.0; Ross, 100-yard breaststroke, 1:19.9; Wochna, 100-yard backstroke, 1:10.9.

Salem swimmers gaining third included Brandt, 200-yard freestyle, 2:22.4; Lazarus, 50-yard freestyle, :29.4; Kohler, 200-yard individual medley, 2:46.8; Ruth Ettinger, 100-yard butterfly, 1:24.9; Julie Cabadas, 100-yard freestyle, 1:05.4; Evans 500-yard freestyle, 6:34.0; Sallie Weimer, 100-yard backstroke, 1:16.2.

An all-senior team consisting of Lakatos, Dawn Cummings, Sue Evans and Ross took second in the 400-yard freestyle relay with a time of 4:30.2.

"I was pretty pleased," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "We were able to move people around."

"We tried them in some different races to get ready for the league meet and they handled it well," he said. "I expect them to swim well in the league meet. It could be an interesting meet. They could be a lot of surprises."

Chiefs now 5-6

Northville defeats Canton swimmers

The Plymouth Canton girls' swim team was dunked Thursday by perennial Western Six League champion Northville, 3-69 in the Canton pool.

Tarja Tuominen took a first in the 200-yard individual medley and qualified for the state meet with a :57.22 in the 100-yard freestyle while taking second place in that event.

Kern Massey swam to a first place finish in the 100-yard breaststroke while teammate Ellie Wagner took a first in the diving competition.

The Chiefs' placed second in the 200-yard medley relay with Massey, Tuominen, Mary Reardon and Missy McMurray swimming in that event.

Other second place events for Canton included Brownwyn Fitzgerald in the breaststroke, Chris Wennerburg in the diving competition and Reardon in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 6:18.7.

Third place finishers for the Chiefs were the 200-yard medley relay (Julie Stratton, Karen Mullen, Fitzgerald and Debbie Dickinson), McMurray in the 50-yard freestyle and the 400-yard freestyle relay (Wagner, Kelly Salyor, Janet Powell and Dickinson).

The Chiefs record now stands at 5-6 overall.

It was a foul-marred game as 48 infractions were called. Two players fouled out — Canton's Debbie Gibb and Churchill guard Barb Irons.

The Chiefs should have little trouble wrapping up the league. Canton will close out its league schedule Thursday at Salem against lowly Northville. Canton is now 14-3 overall.

The regular board of directors meeting for the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League (PCJBL) will be held Tuesday, Nov. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in room 128 at Canton High School.

On the agenda will be discussion of spring registration, slated for the first three Saturdays in March.

Volunteers are still needed to fill the remaining board positions according to PCJBL secretary Sandy Netz.

Other volunteer positions needed to be filled include team managers and registration helpers. For more information on the meeting, call Jim Schols, president, at 397-3940 or Netz at 455-5785.

PISTON DISCOUNT TICKETS

Discount tickets for Detroit Piston basketball games are available through the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department.

The Recreation Department is offering $7 reserved seat tickets for $4.50 for the Dec. 1 game vs. San Antonio and Dec. 28 game with Denver. Both games will be held at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Tickets can be purchased at the Recreation Department offices, 1150 South Canton Center Road. For more information call 397-00.

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

The sharp shooting bowlers in the Detroit area got a real surprise this week when the American Bowling Congress released the high scores rolled so far this season across the nation.

They have grown accustomed to having scores no higher than 3,300 — and very few of them.

But on the ABC list, the high team score thus far is a 3,757 rolled by the Sports Palace team in San Antonio, Tex. What's more surprising is the fact that two other teams — one in St. Louis and another in Cleveland — also have bettered 3,700.

It is the same in the other categories. The high team game so far is a 1,350 rolled by a team in Paramus, N.J. In the individual three-game series the high man is Dennis Pate of Texas, with 868, one pin more than two other bowlers.

The most interesting score came in the doubles where a team from Whittier, Calif., rolled 597. That is just three pins short of two 300 games. That score possibly will never be beaten.

ONLY TWO 700 series were bowled this week, which is quite unusual. One of them was a surprise as it was rolled by Bob Crawford at Country Lanes. He opened with a 255, followed with 205 and closed with 266 for 715.

His nearest rival was Stan Wright who had a 255 in 679. In the mixed doubles, John Lomik was high with 666.

The other 700 series was the work of Jay Dishong in the Wonderland Classic. After starting with a 192 he came back with games of 258 and 256 for 706. Next to him for the night came Tony Thiurge with a 258 in 685. Two teams bettered 3,100. Jarry Hay's Haymakers rolled 3,148 and Mark Hammond's team followed with a 3,131.

In the ladies senior house league Carol Westcott was high with a closing 233 in 654. Others in line included Chris Fischer with 608, Dorothy Pasneec with 602 and Darlene Marrow with 600.

AT WESTLAND BOWL, Jane Martin showed the way in the ladies classic with a 583 that included a 243 game. Tied for the next place were Carol Hochstein and Bobbi Farkas each of whom posted a 576.

High man for the week in the house was Rick Stanley with a 673 that included games of 267 and 235.

THE LADIES were on a scoring spree at Garden Lanes.

Mae Lackey showed the way in the classic with a 268 in 658 and Vivian Williamson paced the classic with 593. In the Moose circuit Larry Matatal was top man with 617, while Don Hangman had a 244 in 599.

WARREN TODD had one of his better nights in the Ford League at Woodland Lanes as he came through with a 265 in 638 to take top honors. His nearest rival was Steve Blaszki with a 234 in 616.

In the junior house league Gary Swathell was top man with 622 and Rob Hill was next with 587. In the Keglerettes, Chys Zogerafo., with a 120 average, rolled a 466.

Joy Coyle was high with a 591 and Penny O'Connell, with a 115 average, bested her first 200 series.

LOU ESCH went 117 pins over his average when he found the range for a 549 series at Plymouth Bowl. Allston Whitte went 85 over with a 493. Others who rolled well included Nick Lopes, Clarence Mongeau, Erwin Ottenman and Enoch Wacker, each of whom were well over their averages.

VIC PILSR had a big middle game of 255 that helped him post a 692 to pace the Canton Classic at the Super Bowl. Dave Knotts followed him with a 235 in 617.

court press and then dropped into a stingy zone.

Salem cut the margin to seven points in the final period but could come no closer.

Nan Horwood, a senior guard for Salem, paced all scorers with 18 points. Freshman Jacque Merrifield and sophomore Eileen Moore each had seven.

Weidman, Salem's leading scorer, was held to 4 points and collected her fifth foul with 5:36 to go.

"They scored at key times," said Blohm. "They are a good ball club. I don't think we were looking ahead to Bentley. I know we didn't take this team lightly."

Catholic Central squad records best football year

BY DAVE SCHWARTZ

As you pull up on Breakfast Drive in Redford Township you see a blue sign proclaiming: "Catholic Central High School, est. 1928, Basilian Fathers."

It's the home of the number-one rated football team in the state.

Things have changed at this institution. The remnants of past times when the school was on Outer Drive in Detroit are all but gone.

This is a special year for coach Tom Mach's Shamrocks. Oh, CC has had several good, if not great, football teams in the past. They've had the Rudzinski brothers and Alan Mitchell and other famous grid names scattered in there.

But ask people about Catholic Central's two most famous athletes and you get the same answer — Frank Tanana in baseball and Tom Lagarde in basketball.

CC has been known for its baseball, basketball, wrestling and so on. The football program has never been hurting by any means, but it is finally emerging from the shadows.

Catholic League football has usually been dominated by Brother Rice or an occasional Harper Woods Notre Dame. It's not that CC wasn't tough. It's just that people didn't realize that Shamrock football was equal to other CC sports.

But not this year. It's blue and white, fight, fight, all the way to the exclusive top of the Class A ratings.

"Meet the Challenge" reads the slogan on the CC football program. They have, and how.

The Shamrocks, undefeated going into their Class A playoff game with Dearborn Fordson last weekend, earlier rolled over tough Detroit DeLaSalle at the Silverdome for their first Catholic League championship since 1960.

"It's great that we're finally getting some recognition," said Mach, as his Shamrocks scrimmaged on the practice field.

Mach doesn't look like your typical Catholic League coach and the Shamrocks don't look like your typical Catholic League team. Mach (rhymes with sack) is youthful, a man who it would appear could still go out and play football with the kids and show them a few things.

His team is of surprisingly average size as football teams go. The heaviest man on his squad weighs only 210 pounds, a sharp contrast from some other Catholic League champions in the past.

"There are many teams bigger," said Mach, "and some with more talent. But there's not any team, anywhere, that goes out there every week and wants to play like our kids."

"There's not a team in the state that we're afraid of. These kids want to win. They have the utmost confidence in themselves."

Mach used the phrase "the best" freely in describing his team, associates and fans. "My coaching staff is the best around," he said. "We're always prepared to play, every week."

"I especially want to credit our defensive coordinator, Rick Coratti. We've always had a great defense and Rick does a super job. The Catholic League emphasizes defense to a big degree, every team."

Mach also heaped praise on the rest of his staff — Dan Mach, Dan Fortune, John Salter, Jim Gibbons, Tom Luchenbill and Jim DeJaeger.

A walk-on defensive back at Wayne State in his college days, Mach started his coaching career as an assistant at Southgate Aquinas. This is his fourth year at CC. He posted a gaudy 19-6 overall record in his first three years.

"My goal when I applied for the job at CC was to be competitive for the state," recalled Mach. "I knew that CC was that type of a school. They always want to be number one."

"Our co-captains, Mike Lewis, Pat Moug, Jim Govan and Dave Yudasz, provide us with a great amount of leadership. We're a very close-knit group. We never give up, no matter what the situation."

"These kids all have tremendous attitudes, just tremendous. We've never had a discipline problem in the four years that I've been here. The kids go out there and do their best every play, our second and third guys, all of them."

The Shamrocks have several stars in their run-oriented, tough defense, attack.

Quarterback Mike Lewis is a three-year starter. Not big for a QB, Lewis is a leader, one of the cogs that is responsible for CC's success. Mach called Pat Moug and Dave Yudasz "the best linemen in the Catholic League."

Aaron Roberts and John Utter are stalwarts in the Shamrock's potent running attack. Roberts, a tailback with sprinter's speed, is only a junior. Tim Geran, Pat Wheeler, Mike Renkiewicz and Jim Govan anchor the ultra-tough defense.

But there are a host of stars for CC. Mach couldn't emphasize enough the Shamrocks thinking of football being a team effort. And CC indeed looks and practices like a team, and a special team at that.

Players and coaches combine to make a lively practice where all participate. The team feels that the sacrifice of hard work is well worth it.

"We play as tough a schedule as anybody in the state," said Mach. "We found out what kind of team we had early, when we had to play Ypsilanti and Flint Southwestern back-to-back."

"Ypsilanti is always tough. They hit you hard. We beat them and then had to go up against Flint. We were down 13-0 at the half. In the locker room, we told them that it was there, they had to go out there and show what kind of people we had."

"Mike (Lewis) sat out the first half. He was sick. But he said he was going to play the second half, he went out there and it gave us a tremendous lift. We dominated the second half completely. That was a real character-builder."

"Every week is a big one for us. We can never let down. The Brother Rice win was great, of course. So was beating Notre Dame. Each week was a big challenge."

CC faced the possibility of being excluded from the playoffs. It would have been a strange situation to have the number-one team sit it out, but that could have conceivably happened if Redford Union hadn't lost.

"All we could have done was win nine games and be the Catholic League champions," explained Mach. "That was our goal from the beginning of the year."

The (playoff) system had already been set up. We knew that. Maybe it isn't the best system, but it's what we've got until somebody decides on something else."

"The Catholic League has a disadvantage in the playoffs. We've only got four Class A teams."

Mach summed up, his feelings and the feelings of the program that is at the top of the list in Michigan.

If you tell the kids that discipline and character are important, then you go out and lose, they'll stop listening. That's why I'm lucky. I've got a great group of kids to be associated with. I can't give them enough credit."

"They believe in themselves. Saying you do is one thing, but these kids actually do."

"To us, winning is secondary to the kids themselves."

TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH

ORDINANCE NO. LXI

AN ORDINANCE ENACTED PURSUANT TO ACT NO. 368 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1925, AS AMENDED, FOR THE PURPOSE OF GRANTING A NON-EXCLUSIVE FRANCHISE TO OMNICON OF MICHIGAN, LTD., ITS SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS, TO OWN, OPERATE AND MAINTAIN A CABLE TELEVISION SYSTEM IN THE TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH, COUNTY OF WAYNE, STATE OF MICHIGAN, AND SETTING FORTH THOSE CONDITIONS ACCOMPANYING THE GRANT FOR FRANCHISE.

SECTION 1. Short Title. This Ordinance shall be known and may be cited as the "Plymouth Township CATV Ordinance."

SECTION 2. Definitions. For the purpose of this Ordinance, the following terms, phrases, words and their derivatives shall have the meaning given herein. When not inconsistent with the context, words used in the present tense include the future, words in the plural number include the singular number, and words in the singular number include the plural number. The word "shall" is always mandatory and not merely directory.

- "Township" is the Township of Plymouth, Wayne County, State of Michigan.
- "Board" is the Township Board of the Township of Plymouth.
- "Company" is OMNICON of Michigan, the grantee of rights under this Ordinance.
- "Grantee" refers to OMNICON of Michigan, or anyone who succeeds said Company in accordance with the provisions of this franchise.
- "FCC" is the Federal Communications Commission, Washington, DC 20554.
- "Cable Television System" or "CATV System" shall mean a system of antennae, cable, wires, lines, towers, waveguides, or any other conductors, converters, equipment or facilities by which the signals of one or more television or radio stations are received directly or indirectly over the air and are amplified or otherwise modified and distributed primarily by wire or cable to subscribing numbers of the public who pay for such services.
- "Gross Subscriber Revenues" shall mean those revenues derived by the Company from regular subscriber services, namely carriage of broadcast signals and required non-broadcast services.

SECTION 3. Qualifications of Grantee and Grant of Authority. Having conducted an open public proceeding concerning the Company's application for the franchise herein granted covering the legal character, financial, technical and other qualifications of the Company and the adequacy and feasibility of its arrangements for the construction of a Cable Television System in the Township, the Board hereby finds that construction arrangements are adequate and feasible; pursuant to such findings, the Board hereby grants the Company a non-exclusive franchise, right and privilege to construct, erect, operate, modify and maintain, in, upon, along, across, above, over, and under highways, streets, alleys, sidewalks, public ways, and places now laid out or dedicated and all extensions thereof, and additions thereto, in the Township, all poles, wires, cables, underground conduits, manholes and other television conductors and fixtures necessary for the maintenance and operation of a Cable Television System for the purpose of distributing to the public television and radio signals, other electronic impulses in order to furnish television and radio programs and various communications and other electronic services.

SECTION 4. Compliance With All Applicable Laws and Ordinances. Grantee shall at all times during the life of this franchise be subject to the lawful exercise of the police power of the Township and to such regulations as the Board shall hereinafter provide, and shall comply with all applicable state and federal regulations including, without limitation, the provisions of Section 14 of Act No. 368 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended, being Section 247.184 of the Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan, concerning obtaining any necessary consents from the Board of County Road Commissioners and/or the State Highway Commissioners. Said regulations shall expressly include a rule prohibiting the use of Township streets or alleys for the installation of additional utility poles or where the utilities are presently underground, prohibit the use of additional conduit, to be used solely by the CATV Company. Also, in the event that the utilities go underground in the future, the CATV System shall be reinstalled underground. In the event the CATV System has not been installed, it shall be installed underground.

SECTION 5. Term. Subject to the provisions herein, the rights and privileges of the Grantee shall continue for a period of (15) fifteen years from the date of adoption of this Ordinance, which shall be deemed to constitute a contract between the Township and said Grantee. Further, said Grantee shall have the right of first refusal in renegotiations.

SECTION 6. Renewal. No renewal hereof shall be granted unless authorized by the Township following appropriate public proceedings involving public notice and an opportunity for the interested parties to participate, during which proceedings the Company's past performance, the adequacy of the franchise's provisions, and the consistency of those provisions with applicable FCC rules shall be considered.

SECTION 7. Territory Involved. The franchise extends throughout the present territorial limits of the Township and to any other area henceforth annexed to or otherwise added to said Township during the term of this franchise and service rendered by the Grantee shall be made available to all inhabitants of the Township that may desire service where a density of not less than seventy (70) homes per mile exists continuous of existing plant.

SECTION 8. Transmission Line Placement. The poles used by Grantee's transmission and distribution system, wires and appurtenances shall be located, erected and maintained on existing utility facilities where possible, and Grantee shall go underground when all utilities do, but not necessarily in the utility facilities.

SECTION 9. Liability and Indemnification. The Grantee by its acceptance of this franchise, shall exonerate, indemnify, defend and hold the Township harmless from and against any and all liability or expense (including, but not limited to, interest, court costs and actual counsel fees) resulting during the term of this franchise and specifically agrees that it will pay all damages, penalties which the Township may legally be required to pay as a result of granting this franchise. Such damages and penalties shall include, but not be limited to damages arising out of the installation, operation or maintenance of the CATV System authorized herein, whether or not any acts or omission complained of is authorized, allowed, or prohibited by this franchise.

Grantee shall at all times maintain a comprehensive general liability insurance policy, with a single occurrence limit amount of $1 Million ($1,000,000.00) covering liability arising out of its construction and operation of the cable television system. The Township shall be named as an additional insured under said policy. All of said insurance coverage shall provide a thirty (30) day notice of cancellation.

SECTION 10. Prohibition of Discriminatory or Preferential Practice. The Company shall not, as to rates, charges, service facilities, rules, regulations, or in any other respect, make or grant preference or advantages to any person, or subject any person to any prejudices or disadvantages provided, however, that nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to prohibit the establishment of service without charge to public or private educational institutions, and such public buildings or facilities as shall from time to time be designated by the Township. This provision shall not be deemed to prohibit promotional campaigns to stimulate individuals to connect to the CATV service.

SECTION 11. Notice of Interruption for Repairs. Whenever it is necessary to shut off or interrupt service for the purpose of making repairs, adjustments or installations, the Company shall do so at such time as will cause the least amount of inconvenience to its customers. Unless such interruption is unforeseen and immediately necessary, it shall give reasonable notice thereof to all customers affected thereby.

SECTION 12. Local Office or Agent. The Company shall share or maintain a local business office or agent for receiving, via a non-toll telephone call, inquiries or complaints regarding the quality of service, equipment malfunctions, billing disputes and similar matters. All complaints and inquiries will be investigated, responded to or acted upon as promptly as is practical, and unless circumstances otherwise require, within three business days of their receipt.

SECTION 13. Franchise Fee. Grantee shall pay to the Township an annual franchise fee in the amount of three percent (3%) of the local gross subscriber revenues. Should similar fee payments be required by a state agency now or subsequently charged with the regulation of cable television, the fees provided for herein and the fees payable to said state agency when added together, shall not exceed the maximum amount permitted by applicable federal law, rules or regulations. Gross subscriber revenues shall not include installation, advertising revenues or Pay TV revenues.

SECTION 14. Inspection of Company Records. The Company shall keep books and records in accordance with good accounting practices and shall deliver to the Board financial and income statements in such form and at such times as may reasonably be required.

SECTION 15. Rates. The rate structure for basic residential service for television and radio signals distributed hereunder shall be proposed by the Grantee and subject to the review of the Township. The subscriber rate schedule shall be implemented if found to be fair and reasonable and no higher than necessary to meet all costs of service (assuming efficient and economical management), including a fair return on the cost, plus depreciation, of the properties devoted to such services (with regard to any subsequent sale or transfer price or cost of such properties).

SECTION 16. Necessity of Franchise. No person shall own or operate a community antenna television system in the Township except by franchise issued by the Township granting such power to any such grantee. In the event litigation is required to enforce the provisions of said Ordinance, grantee shall pay legal expenses incurred by the Township.

SECTION 17. Revocation of Franchise. Any violation by Grantee of the provisions of this Ordinance or the failure to properly perform any of the conditions or terms hereof, and not remedy such breach within sixty (60) days after having received written notice from the Township to do so, shall be cause for the revocation of this franchise and all rights thereunder. The Township Clerk shall report such non-compliance in writing to the Township and, upon due notice to the Grantee and opportunity to be heard on the charge of non-compliance, the Township may revoke such franchise.

SECTION 18. Limitation of Services. Services performed pursuant to this franchise issued hereunder shall not include the performance of repairing, servicing, or selling television sets, or television antennae, nor shall the Grantee recommend service by any other person except for such items as may be directly related to the cable installation and/or connection.

SECTION 19. The Grantee shall comply fully with the rules and standards for the cable television operations as adopted by the FCC.

SECTION 20. Emergency Use of Facilities. In the case of any emergency or disaster, the Company shall, upon request of the Township, make available its facilities for emergency use during the duration of such emergency or disaster.

SECTION 21. Safety Requirements. The Grantee shall at all times employ ordinary care and shall install and maintain in use commonly accepted methods and devices preventing failures and accidents which are likely to cause damage, injuries or nuisances to the public.

SECTION 22. Channel Capacity. The cable television system to be installed shall have a thirty-five (35) channel capability and the technical capacity for return or two-way communications. Company will install and maintain a cable television system in keeping with latest state-of-the-art technology including the capability for satellite reception. The CATV System will be equipped with a backup for electrical failure with standby power supplies.

SECTION 23. Modification of FCC Rules. Consistent with the requirements of FCC Rule 74.31, any modification or amendment thereof by the FCC shall, to the extent applicable, be considered to be part of this franchise as of the effective date of such amendment, and shall be incorporated herein by specific amendment hereto within one (1) year from the effective date of the FCC's amendment or at the time of renewal of this franchise, whichever occurs first.

SECTION 24. New Developments. It shall be the policy of the Township to liberally amend this franchise, upon the application of the Grantee, whenever necessary to enable the Grantee to take advantage of any developments in the field of transmission of television or radio signals which will afford it an opportunity to more effectively, efficiently, or economically serve its customers.

SECTION 25. Performance Bond. During the life of the franchise Grantee shall give a bond to the Township satisfactory in form and substance to the Board in the amount of $10 Thousand ($10,000.00) to insure the faithful performance of all undertakings of Grantee as represented under this Ordinance. The bond shall remain in effect during the life of the franchise.

SECTION 26. Construction Timetable. Grantee shall promptly and as soon as possible after the granting of the franchise described in this Ordinance apply to the FCC for all permission and authority necessary for the lawful operation of a CATV System. Grantee shall exercise all reasonable efforts to complete in a workmanlike manner and in conformity with all applicable State, Federal, and City rules and regulations all construction of a CATV System within the Township within thirty-six (36) months from the date upon which it receives a Certificate of Compliance from the FCC. The Grantee shall not be responsible for any delays in the progress of work due to labor disputes, fire, acts of God, unusual delay in transportation, unavoidable casualties, failure of other persons to meet properly their respective commitments, including, by way of example and not limitation, suppliers of essential services or goods, or any and all other causes beyond the Grantee's control.

SECTION 27. Local Origination Services. The Grantee, upon reaching a market saturation of thirty-five (35) percent of the homes passed (the number of homes with cable compared with number of homes where cable is available) will maintain and operate a fully equipped studio which will be capable of operation at remote locations.

SECTION 28. Other Services. The Grantee will provide service to the Township Hall, Fire Department, Police Department, and Public Schools. This service is without charge to a single point of entry. Any additional and/or extensive wiring required, such as in a school building, should be on a cost basis only. In addition, the Grantee will provide a Community Bulletin Board, weather information, cable guide listing various services, and an alpha-numeric display for the benefit of the impaired hearing residents.

SECTION 29. Severability. If any clause, sentence, section, paragraph, or part of the Ordinance, or the application thereof to any person, persons, firm, partnership, association or corporation, legal entity or circumstance, shall be for any reason adjudged by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional or in error, said Judgment shall not affect, impair or invalidate the remainder of this Ordinance and the application of such provision to other persons, firms, partnerships, associations or corporations, legal entities or circumstances, but said Judgment shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, section, paragraph, or part of this Ordinance hereby directly involved in the case of controversy in which said Judgment shall have been rendered, and to the person, persons, firms, partnerships, association, corporation, legal entity or circumstance then and there involved. It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent of this body that this Ordinance would have been adopted had such invalid or unconstitutional provision not been included in the Ordinance.

SECTION 30. Ordinance Repealed. All prior ordinances or parts hereof in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance are hereby repealed.

SECTION 31. Effective Date. This Ordinance is declared effective on December 12, 1979.

This Ordinance was duly adopted by the Township Board of Trustees of the Township of Plymouth at its regular meeting, called and held on the 6th day of November A.D., 1979, and was ordered to be given publication in the manner prescribed by law.

Success can bring its own problems

By KATHY PARRISH

In her Ann Arbor apartment, Julia Grice is ruthlessly polishing the third draft of her latest novel.

She's also anguishing over a pile of manuscripts written by people she's never met — but knows pretty well.

"I laid awake all last night wondering if I've been too hard on them," worries the author of three big selling novels, including "Lovefire" which is nearing the million mark.

"I don't want to discourage them, but to help them. I'm so hard on myself."

Submitted by hopeful authors who sought her advice at the Craftsmanship of Creative Writing Conference last weekend at Oakland University, those 10 manuscripts are more than just a professional duty. A couple years ago her books lay in similar stacks.

"Most writers there would like to be in my position, God help them," says the 39-year-old Ann Arbor author, whose life turned upside down with the publishing of "Lovefire" two years ago. "But most of them won't be ready to listen."

Julia Grice was an Avon Township housewife leading a "quiet life" caring for two sons, writing magazine articles and bicycling when Avon Books published her sizzling novel in 1977.

She has since been through the breakup of two marriages, lived in Hawaii where she underwent a writing "crisis," and is now on her own for the first time.

Tempting as it is to compare her with one of her fictional heroines, she won't allow it.

"I'VE LED A very dull life," she says firmly.

Nervous about her first interview in her "new status," she tries to put the changes in perspective.

"It's been rough. A lot of bad things have happened," says Ms. Grice. "But I've learned a lot about myself. It's been a real growth experience."

Although she's always loved writing, Julia Grice never planned to be a novelist.

As a high schooler, the Battle Creek native's newspaper writing earned her two college scholarships. At Albion College, she edited the student paper and did an honors project in creative writing.

But she was awed by writers — still is — and never expected to be one. "It just never occurred to me I could do it," recalls the author who is so prolific her publisher can't get her books out as fast as she writes them.

"I cried when I started grade school because I didn't think I could learn to write."

AFTER MARRIAGE at 22, she was a public assistance worker in Ann Arbor while putting her husband through law school. The job was so interesting she intended to get a master's degree in social work after her children were in school.

"My life was all planned at that point," Ms. Grice reflects. "Somehow I got off the track."

She started writing again 13 years ago when the diaper service delivered a baby magazine with articles written by young mothers. She submitted "He's All Yours Now," earned $25 and has been writing ever since.

"I was in ecstasy. Some of it was terrible stuff, but I couldn't stop writing," she remembers.

With two toddlers she couldn't get out to do research, so she tackled mostly family-type articles. She also sold confession stories based on things she heard or read about — like salad oil parties and speeding on Woodward Avenue.

"I'm just coming out of the closet with these," says Ms. Grice, who now has enough confidence to frame the unsigned articles she hid for years. She doesn't know why she was so embarrassed by the articles, which also tackled topics like the occult, masectomies and runaways. "They're how I learned to write."

AFTER SELLING "What They Don't Tell You About Having a Baby" to Pocket Books in 1975, she got an agent. Her next dozen books didn't sell, but the agency kept developing her because she was a "really hard worker" who wouldn't give up.

After finishing a book, she would immediately dive into another. Her agent suggested she try romantic historical novels, which she found she loved. Success finally came with "Lovefire," followed quickly by "Emerald Fire" and "Daughters of the Flame."

Publicized as a suburban housewife writing between laundry and Little League, she suddenly rejected that life and moved to Ann Arbor with her two sons in February 1978.

"I was in a cocoon for 15 years; even my mother told me so," explains Ms. Grice, who says frankly she "didn't want to live in suburbia anymore."

"I wanted to stay home with my children — I felt it was important — but you give up a lot when you do that."

She was determined to support her sons with her writing. Now they are back in Avon Township with their father, who has remarried.

The slender author says she knew her first marriage was in trouble 13 years ago, but was "horrified by the thought of divorce. I spent years wanting a two-parent home for my sons."

"Now they have that. Unfortunately, I'm not in the picture."

She sees her 10- and 13-year-old sons often and looks forward to them hearing her speak at the writer's conference. "They're very proud of me," she says.

IN JANUARY, she remarried and moved to Hawaii, where she was depressed over the unsuccessful second marriage, missed her sons and had financial worries.

"In Hawaii I hated the money I earned and hated writing," she says.

Now back in Ann Arbor, she's on her own for the first time. "It was an incredible mistake," she says of the second marriage, which is being annulled. "But it's true, I did it and I'm gutsy enough to put up with the consequences."

The author has decided writing is what she wants to do, despite the "draining" work and financial insecurity. "Money is nice, but it's really fun to write. That's why I do it."

Two new books will be out soon — "Wild Roses" and "The Passion Star." Fire isn't in either title, but she admits to a couple "good fire scenes" in "Wild Roses," set in the Yukon. "I can't keep on with this fire stuff. My friends are starting to tease me," she says.

Ms. Grice is finishing her first contemporary novel, about a woman — admittedly much like her — coming to grips with herself in Hawaii. Despite the modern setting, "Cry for the Demon" has the "same rooting, tooting story. I can't help it; it's just there."

SHE'S PLEASED with her writing, which she thinks has really improved. "With each book I chose a harder project. My early gothics are nothing compared to what I can do now."

But she's a demanding person who is always "motivated by fear" when she writes. "I work like a dog to see that each book is good."

Eventually, she'd like to write a hard cover book, hopefully a best seller. "But I still have a lot of learning to do first," adds the former Detroit Women Writers president who sees herself as a beginner at writing. "Maybe in another 10 to 20 years, if I'm not blown away by then. How many ways can you describe a kiss?"

Meanwhile, she's not apologizing for writing books some people think aren't "literary" enough.

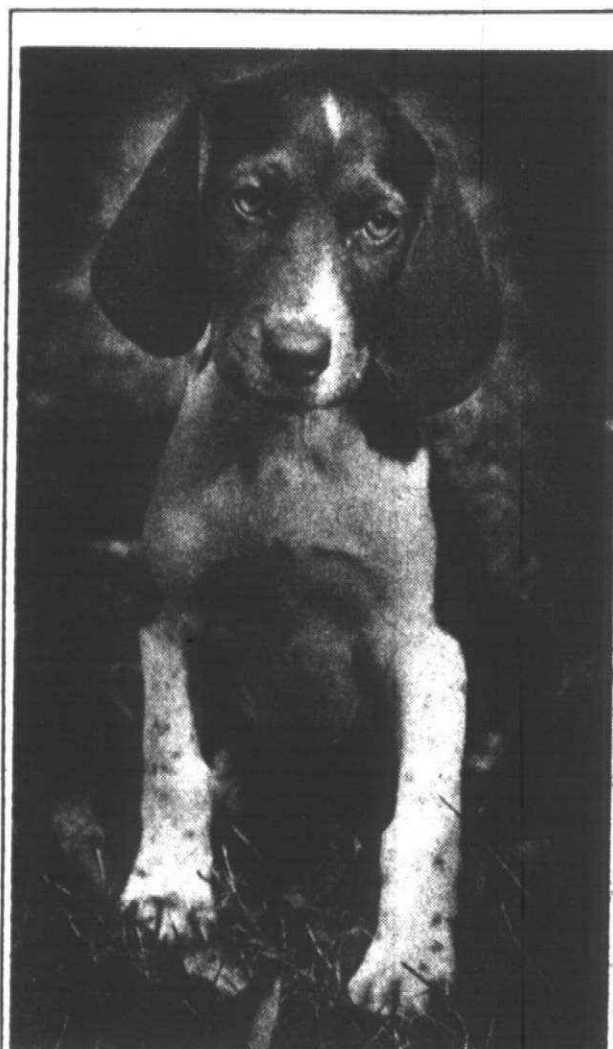

"This is what I like to do and I'm good at it," says Ms. Grice, who feels her strengths are storytelling and ability to maintain suspense.

"I'm a paperback novelist at heart. I love to write exciting scenes. I look forward to it."

Along with steadily producing more — hopefully a book a year to keep the income rolling in — she's also developing her self.

"I used to wonder if I shouldn't have left things as they were two years ago," she says. "But you can't go back. I grew and changed."

"And I feel better than ever. I'm getting it together more than I ever did before."

Brooks

With a summoning gesture of the hand or head, Brooks could be at your beck and call. Through little streams with rocky bottoms, Brooks would follow. But first Brooks must beckon you to the Michigan Humane Society's Westland Kindness Center, 37255 Marquette. There you will find this nine-week-old mixed beagle/basset hound. He has been wormed, had a distemper shot and passed a health check. Obedient Brooks wishes he could be at your service. Call the center at 721-7300. (Photo by Bill Bresler)

'Optimistic' picture for agriculture

Agriculture may be our best bulwark against recession, and a strong ally in the inflation fight.

Dr. John Ferris, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service agricultural economist, believes Michigan's agriculture outlook for 1980 is "fairly optimistic."

"Food production must be a top priority not only to help hold back on inflation in food prices, but to encourage an expansion in farm exports," Ferris said.

"The net contribution of U.S. agriculture to the balance of trade is nearly $15 billion per year. Inflation would be much worse without this contribution."

That doesn't mean that farmers are having an easy time. While the agriculture sector as a whole may be quite healthy, farmers are having as hard a time coping with inflation as everyone else.

Ferris points out that while Michigan farm gross income was about $2.7 billion in 1978, there was little improvement in net income from 1973 through 1978.

"The purchasing power of net farm income in Michigan declined by nearly 20 percent in the past five years. Understandably, farmers are concerned about inflation, along with the general public," Ferris said.

He adds that the average farmer received about $2.36 per hour for his labor, compared to $6.85 per hour averaged by production workers on manufacturing payrolls in Michigan during 1974-78.

The Flip Side

Art as an investment

Lee Lacey swears he dreams in 3-D. That's understandable when one learns he's a holographer. If you don't know, a hologram is a three-dimensional image exposed on photographic film through the use of laser light. A holographer is someone who makes holograms.

Still puzzled? If you've ever been to Detroit Metropolitan Airport you may have seen an ad for airport advertising showing the head of a model floating in mid-air, winking and blowing kisses to passers-by. Lacey did that hologram.

While the hologram is a fascinating development, Lacey, 32, of Southfield, found the public wasn't flocking in droves to the House of Holograms to view his three-dimensional art gallery.

SO HE ADDED a sideline. Sharing space with the House of Holograms now is Lacey's Gallery of Dimensions, a shop that features the puzzle sculptures of Miguel Berrocal. The shop is at 29289 Southfield Road, behind the Farrell's Ice cream parlor.

These dismountable puzzle sculptures aren't games, though, unless you consider price tags ranging from $225 to $65,000 child's play.

Many of the artist's pieces are homages to other artists. In 1976 he did an 18-ton piece called "Homage to Picasso" placed in the Picasso Gardens at Malaga, Spain.

Then he cast 2,000 bronze replicas of the piece made up of 20 detachable elements held together by magnets. The 12-inch by 4-inch sculpture costs $2,300 in the Gallery of Dimensions.

An even smaller version of the piece is in the form of a pendant, called "Micromento," which retails at $225. Business started to pick up by word of mouth, Lacey says, even before the Spanish sculptor-merchandise's bronze wares were formally introduced at the gallery.

THE REASON? Collectibles are the latest rage among investors who'd rather look at art in their living room than a stock portfolio in their safe when they're looking for a hedge against inflation.

"We're getting the young, middle-class investors who want to put their hands on something, enjoy it, have it around the house and still have an investment. After all, we're the generation that wants everything right now.

"But for a person to buy any collectible — be it antiques or fine art — they have to really like the piece to begin with," Lacey explains. "If they ever do decide to sell it they should shop around for buyers. Find the highest price and you'll make a good profit on it. Collectibles or art can be much better than money market certificates. But I don't tell people that when they come in the door. A person has to be astute buying art."

Lacey met the artist Berrocal through a mutual friend. Berrocal got interested in Lacey's work after seeing a hologram he did for the Paris Air Show.

Lacey spent a week at the artist's 200-year-old, 40-room villa near Verona in 1978 shortly after that.

"He has a staff of about 50 people just to keep the place dusted," Lacey recalls.

LACEY IS presently working with the artist on a new dismountable sculpture that will feature a hologram housed inside the detachable artwork. "Berrocal is fascinated by holo-grams because you can have two things occupying the same space, the object and the image," explains Lacey. "He wants to be able to take off a piece, like a head, and let the hologram reappear in its place holographically."

In addition to running the House of Holograms and the Gallery of Dimensions, Lacey also owns the Holographic Arts Co. of Chicago and serves as a consultant to North Carolina State University, his alma mater, where he's trying to establish holography as an engineering course.

But Lacey's devoting most of his energies toward the grand opening of the gallery Nov. 17-18. At the showing they'll show prospective buyers how to dismantle and reassemble Berrocal's most difficult puzzle sculptures such as "Goliath."

"When you (take the pieces apart) you start to feel like the artist himself felt," Lacey said. "You feel like you know the creative process Berrocal went through."

There are 79 elements to "Goliath" and each must be put in order. A how-to-do-it book comes with every sculpture.

If you buy "Goliath," you have the choice of assembling the statue with a modest fig leaf covering the genitalia or assembling it with a circumcised or uncircumcised penis.

Berrocal is unable to jet to Southfield the weekend of the grand opening. But that doesn't mean he won't appear here.

You'll still be able to see the artist's profile from every angle.

Last summer Lacey put the artist on a turntable and filmed him with laser light and special emulsion film for a Berrocal hologram.

Here's looking at you, kid.

The Stroller

A chosen profession

By W. W. EDGAR

During a discussion on choosing a career with a group of the younger generation the other day, one of them asked: "If you had your life to live over would you choose to be a newspaper person?"

It was a rather odd question to ask of a fellow who has spent more than half a century pecking and punching at a typewriter.

When The Stroller answered, "sure," it was just as surprising to be asked, "why?"

Rather facetiously The Stroller answered that he found it the easiest way to make a living. He pointed out that being a newspaper writer was just putting one word after another and all the words were in the dictionary.

Nothing had to be manufactured — the only task was placing the words in the right order.

Naturally, this answer caused a bit of a smile from his listeners. But it gave The Stroller cause to reflect on the various tasks he was called upon to perform during his working years and it gave him another reason for choosing to be a newspaperman.

WHEN HE WAS a young lad, forced to leave school to help support the family, The Stroller joined the country's work force as an apprentice in a machine shop back home.

For four long years he did all the manual tasks asked of a "rookie." Then he graduated to the rank of a full-fledged mechanic.

Through the long nights (the night shift paid more) he struggled over a motor lathe to help make howitzer guns during the war.

Later in life he did a stint as a short order cook in the little family restaurant. That was a lot of fun — for awhile.

But trying to cater to people's tastes didn't have the lure to make it his life's work. And the restaurant business is one that he swore he would let alone during the rest of his journey through life.

Then came a time when he served as an executive to a big business enterprise — the bowling industry. He had a nice private office, a secretary and all the trimmings of a successful venture. But it had a great drawback.

Strangely, at the end of the day, he couldn't see anything he had actually done. Most of his work was by word of mouth in business sessions or dealing with governmental bodies. There was nothing for him to grasp and say, "here is what I did."

The young folks listened attentively as The Stroller recalled his various tasks. Then he came to the answer they wanted, "why did he choose to be a newspaperman?"

WELL, THERE are few more exciting jobs than writing for a paper.

True, you just put one word after another. But the exciting part is that you are in the middle of activity all day. You are covering government meetings, listening to the officials making the rules by which we live.

Or you are interviewing some businessman or, better yet, you are at sporting events and enjoying yourself.

But the best thing of all is that at the end of the shift, when the paper comes off the press, you can see your day's work. There it is in black and white.

There is nothing more satisfying than seeing your name in print over a story which you have written. It puts you in the position of being a part of things and, better yet, telling the readers what is going on.

There never was anything that satisfying during the long nights in the machine shops or toiling over the stoves as a short order cook, or even as an executive.

As a newspaperman, you become part of the day's action and more than that, you are writing the day-by-day history of the community.

Is there any better reason for wanting to be a newspaperman?

Soap opera confessions

My secret is out!

Yesterday my husband stumbled upon my issue of "Soap Opera Digest."

I had foolishly forgotten to hide it in the bottom drawer of my desk like I usually do. He looked at me with disbelief, even disgust, in his eyes as he quickly thumbed through the magazine and finally proclaimed, "You've got to be kidding!"

I could only hang my head in shame, and confess, "No, it's true. I'm hooked."

I SUSPECT THAT in the not-too-distant future researchers with nothing but time and money on their hands will finally get around to studying the addictive factors of soap operas. Research papers will be written, warnings will be published, and clinics might even be set up across the country to aid those of us afflicted who might wish to "take the cure." I shudder to think of what the withdrawal might be like.

But until all of that happens, I am finding life very pleasant just as long as I get my daily fix of "The Young and the Restless."

When I first noticed that I was hooked, I made a solemn vow to myself that I would only indulge my habit for half an hour a day. I figured I could handle just one show and congratulate myself on my will-power. Unfortunately, no one had pointed out to me what happens if you should leave the television on after your favorite show has gone off. Another soap comes on.

The really insidious part is that you don't even have to sit in front of the TV to find yourself becoming subconsciously involved in Lisa's predicament or Kim's devastating problems.

Lately I find myself turning off the vacuum to hear Hester's latest evil declarations or stopping with my dishwashing lest I miss one of Bennet's jealous rages. I'm not completely hooked on "As the World Turns" yet, but unless my television starts turning itself off at 1:30, my chances don't look good.

BUT WHATEVER new video loves the future holds for me, I know I shall always remain faithful to my first obsession, "The Young and the Restless."

It's a comfort in these trying times to know that no matter how depleted our economy becomes, Mrs. Thruston's fortune shall forever remain intact, and no matter how mundane my own life may be, I can always count on the deliciously evil women and beautiful but ignorant men of Genoa City to have enough problems going to keep me interested for years to come.

They even manage to give me a good giggle every now and again. A few weeks ago Derek and Suzanne were on an airplane bound for New York. After a few in-flight cocktails Derek excused himself from Suzanne saying he had to go to the men's room. This seemed very reasonable, since by now they had seemingly been on this plane for three days (things happen v-e-r-y s-l-o-w-l-y on the soaps).

On his way to the men's room, Derek spied Jill, who had intentionally boarded that very plane for some serious discussing and wooing back of her man. Good for you, Jill!

Jill and Derek had a very lengthy and emotional discussion, then Derek returned to Suzanne, then back to Jill. It was all wonderfully dramatic and romantic and I was really digging it — except for the fact that after over a week and half on that plane Derek still hadn't gone to the bathroom. The poor man's bladder must have been in torment.

Somehow I began to doubt his promises and pledges of love to Jill when I knew he must have had more important things on his mind. Like how to excuse himself for 10 minutes without destroying the dramatic impact of this whole emotional scene.

Poor Derek. Poor Jill. Even poor evil Suzanne.

But most of all I feel sorry for my husband. It's hard to hold your head up high in this world when you're married to a woman who reads and enjoys "Soap Opera Digest."

Oh, the shame of it all!

Founding fathers not lost

Nobody's perfect.

But two centuries after our founding fathers wrote the Constitution, it continues to look as though they had a number of right ideas.

The government they designed has stood up well with a surprisingly low number of amendments necessary to keep things working well.

Changes in the world wrought by technology and science have had an immense effect on human life. But not much on human nature.

If there's one right idea that James Madison and his cohorts insisted upon, it's the separation of church and state.

At this moment, our country's prestige and the lives and welfare of more than 60 Americans hangs on the whim of a religious fanatic who is the government in today's Iran.

Neither traditional diplomatic efforts nor polite reason have swayed the Ayatollah Khomeini up to now. And in the case of the besieged American embassy, it's unreasonable fanaticism that's in control.

Once kings sent armies out to conquer for Christ or Islam. In the name of religion, hundreds of thousands of people died violently in the Crusades. And many other examples abound.

Just three miles from where I sit, a demagogue priest once used his pulpit and a weekly radio program to sway thousands.

SADLY, the radio priest of the 1930s who could have exhorted for good, chose instead to attack a sitting president, Jewish people, blacks and others.

Instead of pleading for mercy for the "boat people" of the 1930s who were turned out of Nazi Europe and turned away from any refuge, he spewed hate.

Finally, his own church had to silence him. Religion and politics proved too volatile a mixture.

Billy Graham, one of the most influential evangelists of our time, conceded that fact also. After Watergate, the former frequent White House visitor decided it was best to disassociate himself from the day-to-day doings of presidents.

Since the "revolution" in Iran, when a religious zealot stormed into power, personal freedom in that country has become a mockery.

Women were forced into wearing the veil and retreating from many social gains they had made in recent decades.

Under the Ayatollah Khomeini, political executions are carried out daily, undelayed by the inconvenience of trials.

And deviation from religious norms can mean mutilation or death without delay, under the present religious regime in Iran.

RELIGION is where we look to be uplifted, to have our better motives, our spirituality prevail. Not so under the unstable government of the Ayatollah Khomeini. There, religion is the tool for repression and hatred.

Yet, history reveals the baser side of religious fanaticism through the ages.

Truth is, when fanaticism takes over from reason, people are put in the path of injustice and on the road to tragedy.

The 60 plus people in the American embassy in Iran are innocent pawns in an irrational struggle. It is difficult to see where their salvation is going to come from.

Invading that embassy is tantamount to invading American territory. The Iranians know that as well as our government does.

But the Iranians are on a "holy" mission to punish their former Shah. They listen to voices other than reason and now lives are in jeopardy.

Though we believe our way — separating church and state — is the right way, it won't stop all Americans from doing a lot of praying for our hostages.

"Around the edge"

The best way to be is lazy

If you're going to be lazy, you have to be efficient and fast.

That's the household doctrine of Shirley Conran who wrote the international bestseller "Superwoman" for every woman and man who hate housework. And that covers a multitude of haters.

I interviewed Ms. Conran recently when she was in town to promote her book. Anyone who believes life is too short to stuff a mushroom and would rather lie down on the couch than sweep under it is a writer after my own heart.

I've just finished reading "Superwoman," which is the how-to-hate-housework book floor-scrubbers everywhere have been looking for. And if you're one of the few who feel most comfortable with a broom in your hand, this book could change your life.

"What is a home?" Ms. Conran queries. "A home is a myth. It's a not-so Golden Gate Bridge, — one damn long, never-ending cleaning job that nobody notices until you don't do it."

"No matter what they claim, no one can tell you how to make doing the dishes a sensuous experience. But until the women's movement comes up with a mechanical housekeeper, somebody's got to do the dirty work."

"SUPERWOMAN" is a book about housework and how to avoid it. It's the basic minimum of household information you can get away with as quickly and painlessly as possible.

To get the best out of the book, it's important to know your limitations, allow for your weaknesses and ignore the impossible milk and honey standards of the unnaturally perfect television housewife.

Ms. Conran's system is to run her house the way she runs an office. If you lost two vacuum cleaners and $240 worth of laundry in one year, she advises, it's best to keep track. Save bills because computers never make errors in your favor, she suggests, and keep work lists.

Ms. Conran files every valuable scrap of paper except money in her kitchen drawer. She makes another list of things that nobody will care much if she doesn't do.

The following is her list of don'ts to save time and money:

- Don't keep pets.
- Don't wax floors — seal them.
- Don't make beds. Use sleeping bags.
- Don't ever buy anything that needs ironing.
- Don't shop for food when you're hungry.

THE FOLLOWING includes some of her do's:

- Do be carefully inefficient. Start running out of things but never toilet paper.
- Do get your family to tidy up after themselves or stand a cardboard box under the kitchen table and dump everything you find in this lost property office.

No one's going to strangle you if the furniture is dusty, Ms. Conran assures. Your man doesn't love you because you can tell the difference between whites and whiter-than-whites. Your children won't remember you with love in 20 years because your floor didn't have waxy, yellow buildup.

Ms. Conran hires herself as a cleaning lady from 9 to 11 a.m. every Saturday. When her time is up, like the cleaning lady, she stops. Leftover work has to wait till next Saturday morning or forever.

If you're working outside the home at a full-time job, Ms. Conran suggests, give the house a daily lick and spit instead of a daily smorgasbord of cleaning. When she does dig in, she uses her own home-made household cleaners.

DON'T WORRY if you're a jaded cook, Ms. Conran consoles. It was a jaded cook who pointed out that the main advantage of spaghetti is that you don't have to peel it. And baking can be habit-forming. My suggestion is to hang a sign in the kitchen which reads, "Danger — Do Not Enter" — and plant your stove with philodendrum.

As Betty Friedman said, "If God had wanted women to stay in the kitchen, he would have given them aluminum hands."

Ms. Conran even tells the vast army of "household engineers" how to have a small nervous breakdown and fit it into their schedules. When all else fails, she advises, you could head for a commune but you might be disappointed.

"Superwoman" gives tips on everything from fixing leaky faucets to delivering a baby. Some are funny, but mostly they make a lot of common sense.

We all suffer from guilt fostered by TV commercials of happy housewives cleaning the bathroom bowl, visiting mothers-in-law who wear white gloves to test the dust on top of doors, and friends who lie about how organized they are.

But the best way to be is lazy and you can succeed without even trying.

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

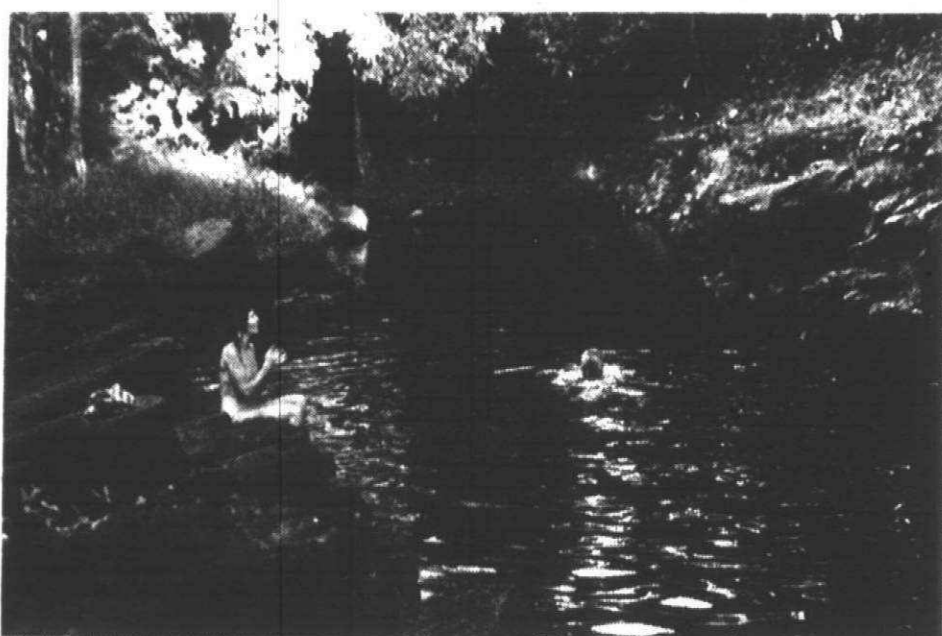

Ahhh — paradise, peel me a grape

I saw Adam and Eve last week, bathing in a Garden of Eden called the Queen's Bath, on the big island of Hawaii.

You would drive straight past the Queen's Bath if you were not looking for the bent metal sign on the rusty metal pole beside a dirt road.

A few feet down that road the huge black lava rocks form natural steps down to the green glade where the Queen's Bath makes a 15-by-60-foot slash of clear water in a volcanic rift between stacked black rocks.

THIS ONCE WAS the royal bath of Hawaiian queens, but on this day a young girl with her body growing roundly out of her bikini, sat on the near edge with her feet in the water. Another girl swam under the Ohia trees etched against a blue and white Hawaiian sky.

On the other side of the pool, where the layered rock ledge rises higher, a bearded young man in a flowered bathing suit picked fruit from the trees.

He threw the fruit across the water to the girls and dived in after it. The water was so clear and deep that he could follow the fruit to where the rock rift narrows to almost make a bottom to the pool 20 feet below.

It was only a passing mement, there in a treed hollow of shining black water and silence, but the mystique of Hawaii gets to you after awhile.

I wasn't the only one who noticed it. A fellow photographer was so intent on taking a picture of Adam and Even that he fell off the black lava rock into a clump of bushes and nearly broke his leg.

From the Mailbag:

United Airlines has new rules for passengers carrying guns. Rifles and shotguns will be accepted only when packed in a manufacturer's crushproof case made specifically for the gun or in another hard case such as United's hard-fiber sportsliner.

Handguns must be packed in locked hard-sided baggage. The Federal Aviation Administration requires that firearms carried as checked baggage must be declared and unloaded and United requires a signed declaration to that effect.

You can take up to 10 pounds of small arms ammunition if you pack it in the original manufacturer's box or in a wood, metal or fiber container that prevents movement of the contents.

Every airline sets its own policy for transporting firearms, so check before you fly.

A WISCONSIN MOTEL is offering its regular $50 rooms at 1945 prices between now and Christmas.

The Heidel House Resort and Conference Center at Green Lake will give you a lakeside room at $9.80 per room, and you can put up to four people in the room without extra charge.

Why? That's the rate they charged in 1945 and they are using it to promote the hotel during the off-season in an attempt to attract attention to the resort.

I haven't seen it, but it was described to me as a "luxurious 64-unit lodge on the lake, with a dining room, indoor pool and sauna."

The location attracts thousands of geese during their southward migration.

For information contact Heidel House, Green Lake, Wis. 54941, or call 294-3344.

WINTER WEEKENDS at Shakertown, Ky., were so popular last year that you should reserve now if you are interested.

The village has 62 rooms, all in restored 19th century buildings. Last year, they were all booked by Jan. 1. Write to Shaker Village of Pleasant Hill, Route 4, Harrodsburg, Ky. 40330, or call 606-734-5411.

Going there?

There are three rental agencies for recreational vehicles on the Big Island of Hawaii. Aloha Camper Rentals, 145 Ponahawai St., Hilo, Hawaii, has two minihomes. Beach Boy Campers, Suite B2-A, 1720 Ala Moana Blvd., Honolulu, Oahu, Hawaii has 28 compact cabover units throughout the islands. Holo-Holo Campers Inc., PO Box 11, Hilo, Hawaii, has 70 units throughout the islands with eight models including compact cabovers, van conversions, pickup campers, minihomes and motorhomes.

At Holo-Holo Campers Inc., the rates range from $33 a day for a compact and standard cabover for two to $60 a day for a 24-foot minihome for six. Oahu rates slightly higher; Maui and Kauai rates slightly lower. No mileage charge. Special rates on older models. Also U-drive cars and condominium-car packages. Same price all year. Heaviest rental period June 15 to Sept. 6, and Dec. 15 to Jan. 10. The Morse family also leads special expeditions to off-beat or archeological sites; helps do-it-yourself campers with information and equipment; and provides services for skiing on Mauna Kea.

You can also trek, do private camping, join a Hawaiian version of Outward Bound or a sea adventure called Sea Trek Hawaii. For information on these as well as festivals, fishing tournaments and other events contact the County of Hawaii, Dept. of Research and Development, 25 Aupuni St., Hilo, Hawaii 98720.

The scenic Big Island is not meant to be rushed around

Story and photos: IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Lapahoehoe Point, Hawaii: — We are crouched on the lava beach, or in the doorways of our motor homes, watching the sun pull itself up from the Pacific Ocean. The sun is silhouetted against the black spires that mark the shoreline. The spires are made of lava that rolled down this steep slope long ago and froze in their upward leap as they hit the sea.

Eager photographers are wet with ocean spray, and I am sipping Gordon Morse's coffee and listening to the Legend of Naupaka, that green vine that grows inexplicably on this inhospitable-looking lava rock.

There is beach naupaka that grows here on the shore, and mountain naupaka that grows thousands of feet up where this slope becomes a mountaintop. Each plant has only half a flower, according to the legend. They are separated lovers, and when you put the two together they form a whole flower.

YOU CAN SEE the whole history of the island from here, with a little imagination. Here is the lava that formed this mountaintop six miles above the ocean floor.

Where the mountain crevices upward into valley high above us, thick tropical foliage grows on these same lava-flowered vines hang 100 feet down from the trees between sugar cane fields.

The coastline that folds away in these deep narrow valleys hides ancient Hawaiian villages, missionary churches, taro patches, and macadamia nut factories.

The road that is just visible along the misted green cliff leads south to Hilo and the volcanoes, north to the Waipio Valley and across high cattle country to the Kona coast, once the kingdom of King Kamehameha the great and now ruled at least partially by resort hotels.

THE RESORT HOTELS are world-standard in both Hilo and Kona, but you must leave them behind if you are going to see the island that the Polynesians found 12 centuries ago.

Those early settlers moved by sea because the land is too rugged for carts or easy walking. According to Robert Wendkam's book "Hawaii" a marvelous photographic record, the few 19th century tourists traveled down these perilous slopes by mule even 100 years ago. Today there are fine roads, and the curious traveler drives them if he wants to see the Big Island.

The island is too big to use a single hotel as a base, and the hotel situation too uncertain in rural areas to expect good accommodations without advance reservations. That is why we are here in a recreational vehicle led by Gordon Morse and his family, who run the largest rental agency in the islands.

Morse was born on Molokai, the island once infamous for its leper colony. He was a newspaperman in Honolulu when he decided to leave the world of television and comic books for the real world of the Fire Goddess Pele.

Morse is one of the few people who has seen the white rainbow by moonlight over the mountain of Moikea. He is leading us in a caravan of RVs around the island, a trek he makes in special groups several times a year. Most travelers rent his vehicles, hear his little speech and go off on their own here as they would do elsewhere.

The speech includes information about the 16 campgrounds around the island, and the fact that they are designed for nature lovers and not for people who need modern facilities. There are no hot showers, flush toilets or fancy RV hookups. Just cold showers simple toilets, sometimes a lighted pavilion for cooking and dining, and the world's most magnificent sunsets.

You'll also hear where the gas stations are, get a warning about not running out of gas on the Saddle Road near the summit of Mauna Loa and a painful bit of information about insurance.

RVs weren't designed for steep narrow roads and low-hanging trees, so Morse explains that you will probably knock a vent cover off the camper or otherwise damage it, and that Hawaiian law does not allow you to insure for 100 percent of such damage. If you damage a vehicle, it will cost you at least $100 deductible.

Now that you've picked your Flair, Jubilee or other motor vehicle you can follow the Holo-Holo Camper map you'll find inside the glove box long with other valuable information. The Big Island is a mountaintop with three sides. The long side, the Kona coast, faces west. If you pick up your camper at Hilo, you will probably go south along the Puna coast to the volcano area, north through lush country and then across to Kona.

THE PUNA COAST road will take you towards South Point, the southernmost point in the United States and probably the landing place of the first Polynesian seagoing settlers. There are several campgrounds on this coast, none with lighted pavilions or showers.

We followed Highway 13 to the Black Sand Beach, the Queen's Bath (see Travelog) and the Kamoamoa Camp Ground in Hawaii Volcanoes National Park. Here you can walk along the sea through fields where signs of an ancient Hawaiian village have been re-created simply and tastefully by the park service.

Kamoamoa provides easy access to Chain of Craters Road, which will lead you past the petro-glyph fields, the small mountain called Moana Ulu that was formed by recent volcanic activity and the Thurston Lava Tube. From there, Crater Rim Road leads you past the cinder cones and steaming volcanic vents to a view of the Kilauea crater and the observatory.

Take time to walk the half-mile into the petroglyph fields and take materials to make rubbings of the designs carved long ago into the volcanic rock.

The desolation of the volcanoes is in contrast to the lush scenic country you will see north of Hilo. A four-mile scenic route north of Hilo plunges you downhill through post-card scenery where vines hang 100 feet from the trees, like flowered laundry.

Beyond Lapahoehoe, a road climbs straight up the mountain past sugar can fields to Kalopa Native Forest, where huge Ohia trees rise above clipped grass and a few simple camper cabins and campsites in the middle of an authentic Hawaiian wilderness.

THE ROAD TO Kalopa is a narrow and wildly rising strip of asphalt going straight up above the sea with a kind of terrifying splendor.

Further north along the coast a similar road leads straight down 1,800 feet into Waipio Valley, but here you must hire a four-wheel-drive and driver or be prepared to hire ace-tower Jimmy Rice to pull you from a ditch.

Down in the valley, where taro fields gleam in flat patches between the narrowing walls, you can sleep overnight in the only simple hotel for $5 a person, if you bring your food.

The whole island is like that if you take time to get out of the towns. High, high up the mountain, mauka, or down, down to the sea, makai.

Woody Herman

Big band heads to Ypsi this week

Woody Herman, one of the most celebrated big band leaders, says his band (the Thundering Herd) is like a college football team — the players stay the same age, but the coach keeps getting older.

Herman, who left home in Milwaukee at 17, made his professional debut as a bandleader in 1936. Today, Herman is still playing with the same verve and brilliance that prompted the great Igor Stravinsky to sit up and take notice. He eventually wrote "Ebony Concerto" for Herman's band in 1946.

Local music lovers will have an opportunity to see Woody Herman directing one of the oldest big bands still active when the orchestra performs at Eastern Michigan University at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in Pease Auditorium. The concert is part of the University's 1979-80 Guest Artist Series.

HERMAN, WHO celebrated his 40th year at the helm of a big band in 1976 in a special Carnegie Hall concert, has guided many upcoming young musicians to stardom. A representative list of some of the musicians who used to play for Herman and went on to greater things would include such major talents as saxophonists Stan Getz, Zoot Sims and Al Cohn; vibraphonists Red Norvo and Milt Jackson; pianist-arranger Ralph Burns and bassist Chubby Jackson.

Although Herman has made numerous recordings in his years as a professional musician, he is probably best known for "Woodchoppers Ball," a piece he composed in 1939 after some lean years during the Depression.

Other nostalgic favorites normally associated with Herman include "Caledonia," "Northwest Passage," "Early Autumn" and "Blues in the Night."

Herman still includes several of the older favorites in his current repertoire but emphasizes that his current Herd has a contemporary sound. The band now plays rock tunes by Carole King and Frank Zappa, contemporary jazz by musicians like Chick Corea and the late John Coltrane and originals by members of the band.

Herman listens to each musical number selected for inclusion in the repertoire and suggests changes. The final product is contemporary and fresh and lends the band musical continuity from year to year.

According to the Encyclopedia of Jazz, Herman's "real importance in jazz history lies in his retention, often against severe economic odds, of an uncompromising band that progressed with each new trend and provided an incubator for some of the most brilliant soloists and arrangers throughout the years."

STUDENTS AND senior citizens will be admitted to the Woody Herman concert for $4 and $5.50; tickets for the general public are $5 and $7.50.

As an added feature of the 1979-80 series, the EMU Office of Campus Life has arranged a reservation-only buffet supper which will be offered at 6:30 p.m. on the evening of each performance. The buffet will be held in McKenny Union and features Carved Roast Baron of Beef and Seafood Newburg with accompanying beverages, appetizers, side dishes and desserts.

The dinner is $8.95 for adults; $5 for children. Tickets for the pre-performance buffet may be purchased with concert tickets.

Tickets are available in the Campus Life Ticket Booth, 117 Goodison Hall, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

For additional information, call the Office of Campus Life at 487-3045.

Woody Herman and the Thundering Herd will perform Thursday at Eastern Michigan University.

Richard Gere is Matt, an American GI stationed in a small English town, in John Schlesinger's World War II romance "Yanks."

Warm romance recreates England of Yank invasion

Before the GIs landed in Normandy in 1944, they landed in England. "Yanks" (R) is about this "friendly invasion" revealed through the stories of three Americans in love with English women.

There were hundreds of thousands of American soldiers bivouacked outside the towns and villages — on golf courses, along the canals, in pastures. The amazing thing is that with all the tension and frictions, the English and the Yanks got on as well as they did. But director John Schlesinger has stacked the deck.

His GIs, on the whole, are a well-behaved and generous lot. They share their chocolates and canned goods with the hard-pressed English. They volunteer their vehicles and manpower for community events. And, of course, they fill up the coffers of the local merchants.

On the other hand, the group that could be expected to be most vocal and resentful about the American presence, the husbands and boyfriends of the women left behind, aren't around to challenge the GIs.

IT REMAINS for the concerned mothers to offer resistance. Rachel Roberts excels in a role that probably typifies the feelings of many English women at the time. She worries about her daughter dating an American, she doubts (even while realizing her own prejudice) that the Yanks are "decent" boys, and she scolds her daughter for not being loyal to her English soldier-boyfriend.

Lisa Eichhorn is luminous as a rosy-cheeked English beauty. Her reserved manner, glowing complexion and solid, middle-class morality capture the bygone image of the small-town girl, just as her slowly developing love affair with a GI (Richard Gere) recalls romantic ideals of more than three decades ago.

The nostalgia that these scenes evoke is paradoxical to be sure — a longing for the good old days of World War II. The film manages this, without sentiment, because in spite of the title, it says less about the American social impact on the English than it does about the quality of English life. This is the real core of the film.

Director Schlesinger beguiles his audience with a warm, intimate view of English small-town life. It is almost an idyllic kind of existence. The people all know and care about each other. Rich and poor, shopkeeper and aristocrat, they play in the local symphony together, attend each other's weddings and share in each other's grief.

What blights this Utopian society is a racial incident. At a New Year's Eve dance, white GIs start a fight when a black soldier dances with an English girl. The English are shocked by the display of prejudice.

THE IRONY of this episode will not go unnoticed among today's audiences in an England grown hostile to dark-skinned immigrants.

This is one among many authentic incidents that characterize an odd turn of history, the American colonization of the British Isles. Schlesinger has captured the experience in a richly detailed tapestry that audiences on both sides of the Atlantic can savor for its truth and humanity.

Two British women, Wendy Morgan as Mollie and Lisa Eichhorn (right) as Jean, wave goodbye to the American GIs they love in "Yanks," a Universal release.

Brandy, as a drink doesn't appeal to everyone, but brandied desserts end a meal most elegantly. BRANDY CREAM AND CRUNCH

Nut crunch (see below)
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup milk
½ cup brandy
½ cup sugar
¼ tsp. salt
2 lg. eggs, separated
1 cup whipping cream

Make and set aside the Nut Crunch. Soften gelatin in milk in small saucepan. Stir over low heat until gelatin dissolves. Add brandy, sugar and salt. Heat just to boiling. Beat egg yolks lightly. Quickly stir hot mixture into yolks, then return to low heat. Cook, stirring constantly, one minute. Do not allow to boil. Cool until mixture begins to thicken.

Beat egg whites to soft peaks. Beat cream to soft peaks. Fold egg whites into cream. Gently fold in cooled custard. Spoon into serving dishes, making alternate layers of brandy cream and Nut Crunch. Chill until serving time. Makes 6 servings. Nut Crunch: Combine ½ cup sugar, ½ cup butter, 2 tbsp. light corn syrup and 1 tbsp. water in small heavy saucepan. Cook over moderate heat, stirring until sugar dissolves, to brittle stage (290 degrees F. on candy thermometer, or until a few drops of mixture dropped into cold water form a brittle ball.)

Stir in ¼ tsp. soda and ½ cup chopped walnuts. Quickly turn out onto lightly greased baking sheet spreading lightly to a 10-by-5-in. rectangle. When cold, crush to coarse crumbs. Store in airtight container if not used at once. Makes 1½ cups.

BRANDIED MINI-CHEESECAKES

1 (8 oz.) pkg. cream cheese
½ cup sugar
1 tbsp. flour
¼ tsp. salt
2 eggs
1 tsp. lemon

¼ cup brandy
Sour cream
12 whole strawberries

Prepare pastry mix as package directs. Shape into 12 small balls and roll each lightly on floured board to a circle about 4½ inch. Trim edges. Fit each into a muffin pan. To prevent pastry from puffing during baking, set a fluted paper baking cup in each pastry, and fill with uncooked beans or rice. Bake on lower rack of very hot oven (450 degrees) 10 min. Remove pans from oven and gently lift out filled baking cups. Return pastries to oven and bake 2 or 3 min. longer, until browned. Cool slightly before filling.

Soften cream cheese. Combine sugar, flour and salt; add to cheese and beat until smooth. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Blend in lemon juice and brandy. Spoon into baked shells.

Simplicity fundamental

As American families gather around the Thanksgiving table, they will enjoy essentially the same hearty foods their ancestors did 200 years ago. These foods are rich in tradition.

The holiday turkey takes center stage along with a stuffing recipe which can vary greatly. In some cases, it has been handed down for generations; in some cases it's the result of some successful experiments with such additions as sausage, mushrooms, onions, celery, and even oysters.

The Turkey Gravy Recipe given below is tasty and easy to prepare. It's thickened with cornstarch which lets the flavor of the pan drippings and giblets come through, unmasked by a pasty aftertaste. The resulting translucent gravy is smooth and attractive. The recipe makes six cups, enough for Thanksgiving dinner and plenty of leftovers.

Pumpkin is also traditional fare for autumn holidays, but this time it comes in a velvety soup. Creamed celery is updated with almonds and a toasted Parmesan cheese topping.

Pumpkin Soup

2 tablespoons corn oil margarine
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
2 cups milk
1 can (16 oz.) solid pack pumpkin (2 cups)
2 cans (10-3/4 oz. each) chicken broth (2-1/2 cups)
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons corn starch
1/4 cup water

In 3-quart saucepan melt margarine over medium heat. Add celery and onion. Stirring occasionally, cook about 5 minutes or until tender. Gradually stir milk into pumpkin. Add to saucepan. Stir in chicken broth, nutmeg and pepper. Stirring occasionally, cook over medium heat about 10 minutes. Stir together corn starch and water until smooth. Stir into pumpkin mixture. Stirring constantly, bring to boil and boil 1 minute. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Turkey and Stuffing Casserole

3 cups cubed cooked turkey
2/3 cup cold Turkey Gravy
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1-1/2 cups shredded Swiss cheese
2-1/2 cups prepared stuffing
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

In medium bowl stir together eggs, turkey, gravy and pepper. Turn into well-greased 12 x 8 x 2-inch (2-quart) baking dish. Sprinkle with cheese. Top with stuffing. Cover. Bake in 325°F oven 25 minutes or until heated through. Sprinkle with parsley. Let stand 5 minutes. Serve with turkey gravy. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Creamed Celery

6 tablespoons corn oil margarine
6 cups celery sticks (1-1/2-inch lengths)
3/4 cup sliced almonds
2/3 cup coarsely chopped onion
2 cups chicken broth or bouillon
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup corn starch
1 cup milk
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

In large skillet melt margarine over medium heat. Add celery, almonds and onion; cover. Stirring occasionally, cook 15 to 20 minutes or until tender-crisp. Add broth and pepper. Stir together corn starch and milk until smooth. Stir into skillet. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Turn into broiler-proof 2-quart casserole dish. Sprinkle with cheese. Broil 3 minutes or until cheese browns. Makes 12 servings.

Turkey Gravy

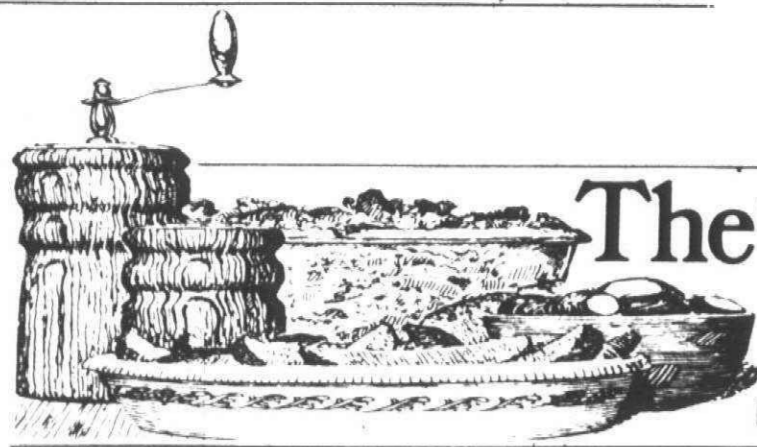

Turkey giblets and neck
2 onions, peeled, halved
2 stalks celery, halved
2 teaspoons salt
1 bay leaf
6 tablespoons turkey pan drippings
1/4 cup corn starch
1/4 cup water
3 chicken-flavored bouillon cubes

In large saucepan place turkey giblets and neck, water, onion, celery, salt and bay leaf. Bring to boil; cover and simmer 30 minutes or until giblets are tender. Drain broth; reserve. Chop giblets and reserve. Pour pan drippings into large measuring cup. Allow to stand several minutes until fat separates from turkey juices. Return 6 tablespoons fat drippings to pan; discard remaining fat drippings. Add reserved giblet broth to turkey juices to equal 6 cups; return to roasting pan. Stir together corn starch and water until smooth; add to roasting pan. Add bouillon cubes. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat, stirring up brown bits from bottom of pan and boil 1 minute. If desired, add giblets to gravy and reheat. Makes 6 cups.

Cranberry Cheese Pie

2 cups cranberries
1 cup orange juice
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/3 cup corn starch
1/3 cup water
1 cup orange sections, cut in half
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 unbaked (9-inch) pastry shell
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts

In medium saucepan stir together cranberries, orange juice, sugar and corn syrup. Bring to boil over medium heat; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes or until cranberry skins pop. Stir together corn starch and water until smooth. Stir into cranberry mixture. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir in orange sections. Cover; refrigerate until cool. In small bowl stir together cream cheese, sugar and orange rind until smooth and creamy. Spread cheese mixture evenly over bottom of pastry shell. Spread cranberry mixture over cheese layer; sprinkle with walnuts. Bake in 375°F oven 45 minutes or until center of pie is firm. Serve warm or chilled. Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

The Happy Cooker

How to cook wild game

As we partake of our Thanksgiving meal this year, we will be celebrating the 358th birthday of the oldest national holiday observed in our country.

Our thoughts frequently turn to visions of the glorious gobbler. It is the time of year when countless numbers of turkeys are sacrificed for the greater good of all except, perhaps, the poor turkey.

While turkey and Thanksgiving seem synonymous to many, others opt for the unusual on special holidays, especially when entertaining.

Practice a bit of one-up-manship on those who always manage to serve something fantastic when they invite you for a holiday meal.

Try serving wild game. Unsuspecting guests are certain to be delighted with the trophies of the hunter. With hunting season in full swing, wild game is an excellent change of pace from the traditional and expected turkey.

If your household does not boast a sportsman among its residents, take heart. You can still serve a wild bird or beast with a little help from your friends.

Call on your friendly butcher, your friendly specialty meat dealer, or your friend the avid hunter who would love to present you with some wild game.

If you intend to hunt your own game, certain rules should be observed to insure top flavor and texture. Space prohibits detailed data, but the public library has books on bleeding, drawing and cooking.

Purchasing game usually assures high quality. However, when in doubt about the game's age, try marinating or use long, slow cooking as described in today's recipes.

VENISON refers to the meat of antlered animals. Flesh is rather dry and requires larding. Meat from young animals may be cooked like beef or veal; that from older animals must be tenderized with a marinade (see recipe for tenderizing). Do not cook to well-done stage.

ROAST LEG OF VENISON

1 leg of venison
Fat salt pork for larding
Salt and pepper to taste
½ tsp. garlic powder
Flour
4 tbsp. butter or margarine, melted

Lard meat and sprinkle with salt, pepper and garlic. Roll in flour. Insert meat thermometer into thickest part without touching bone. Pour melted butter around meat and baste frequently during cooking. Roast in preheated 350 degree oven allowing approximately 20 minutes per pound. Meat thermometer should register at rare beef. Serves 4-6 depending upon leg weight.

TENDERIZING MARINADE

(Suitable for any game weighing 3-4 pounds)
2 cups dry red wine
3 oz. olive oil
1 large onion, thinly sliced
1½ tsp. oregano
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
¼ tsp. garlic powder

Place meat in bowl. Use only glass or ceramic. Pour above mixed ingredients over. Refrigerate, covered, for 2-3 days, turning frequently. Cook according to individual game recipes.

Chicken wings go better with sweet, sour sauce

You can make even a chicken wing a gourmet treat with these sauces. They'll be popular, so be sure to have plenty of wings and sauce on hand.

SWEET AND SOUR ORANGE SAUCE

1 pkg. (27 oz.) frozen fried chicken wing portions
½ cup orange marmalade
½ cup currant jelly
¼ cup catsup
2 tbsp. vinegar

Heat the frozen fried chicken wings on a cookie sheet in a 375 degree oven for 25 minutes or until hot and crispy.

Place orange marmalade, currant jelly, catsup and vinegar in small saucepan and heat until marmalade and jelly melt completely.

To serve as an appetizer, dip warm chicken into warm sweet and sour sauce. The sauce can also be served as a dip for fresh fruits.

HERB BUTTER SAUCE

½ cup butter
1 tbsp. dried minced onion
2 tbsp. minced parsley
2 tbsp. minced chives
½ tsp. thyme
½ tsp. basil
¼ tsp. salt
Dash white pepper
1 cup chicken broth
1 tsp. cornstarch
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 pkg. frozen fried chicken wing portions

Place butter, onion, parsley, chives, thyme, basil, salt and pepper in saucepan. Heat until butter melts.

Mix chicken broth and cornstarch and add to butter mixture; heat to boiling; stir and boil one minute. Remove from heat; stir in lemon juice. Cover and let stand at least 15 minutes to blend flavors.

Heat chicken wings on cookie sheet in 375 degree oven for 25 minutes or until hot and crispy.

Serve warm chicken as an appetizer with warm herb butter sauce as a dip. The sauce can also be served as a dip with fresh vegetables.

PHEASANTS are prized for their finely grained, densely packed white-meated breasts. Liberal larding and frequent basting is necessary. Young birds have short, round claws; older ones have long, sharp claws and should be braised or stewed.

ROAST PHEASANT

1 young pheasant (2-3 lbs.)
Salt and pepper to taste
2-3 celery leaves
4 slices bacon (very fatty)
1 stick butter or margarine, melted
1 cup strong chicken broth (homemade or canned)
1 large onion, thinly sliced
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
1 can cream of mushroom soup
½ cup half and half
3 tbsp. dry sherry (no cooking wine please)

Rinse and dry bird; sprinkle inside and out with salt and pepper. Place celery leaves in cavity. Turn wings under and tie legs together. Lay bacon over breasts. Cover with several layers of cheese cloth which has been soaked in the melted butter. Set bird on rack in roaster, breast side up. Pour in stock. Add onion and mushroom slices. Roast in 350 degree oven for 30-40 minutes per pound, basting frequently with pan drippings. Bird is done if tender when fork-tested in thickest part of breast. Remove cheese cloth, bacon and string. Blend soup, half and half over low heat. Slowly stir in sherry. Serve sauce in separate container to pour over pheasant slices. Serves 2-4

QUAIL is the most abundant of all game birds. Full-fleshed, delicately flavored and weighing 5½-6 ounces, it tends to be dry and is best sauteed, broiled or baked. Cover with bacon or salt pork and baste frequently.

QUAIL WITH CHERRIES

4 quail
¾ stick butter or margarine
1 cup homemade or canned beef broth
1 cup dry red wine (no cooking wine please)
1 cup canned pitted Bing cherries, drained, juice reserved
1 tbsp. cornstarch
Salt and pepper to taste

Rinse and dry birds. Melt butter in heavy skillet and brown birds evenly. Tightly cover and bake in 375 degree oven for 30 minutes or until birds are fork tender. Remove birds to platter. Skim excess fat from pan juices; add broth and ½ cup wine. Simmer over medium heat for 8 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add cherries and juice. Blend remaining wine with cornstarch until smooth and add to cherries and liquid. Cook over low heat for about 5 minutes or until sauce is smooth and slightly thickened. Season with salt and pepper. Pour over quail. Serves 4.

HARE is usually dark-meated and may be 4-12 pounds in weight. It's tougher than rabbit with a gamier flavor. It is best braised, stewed, roasted or marinated.

SADDLE OF HARE

1 saddle of hare (2-2½ pounds), dressed and split in 4 pieces
Sprinkling of garlic powder
¼ stick butter or margarine
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tsp. minced parsley flakes
1 tsp. paprika
8 fatty bacon slices
1 pt. sour cream, warmed
1½ cups canned peaches, drained and diced

Rinse and dry meat. Sprinkle saucepan with garlic and add butter, melt over low heat stirring briefly to blend garlic. Place meat in roasting pan and brush with melted butter-garlic. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, parsley and paprika. Cover with bacon. Roast at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes or until tender. Remove to platter. Skim excess fat from roasting pan and stir in sour cream and diced peaches. Heat through and pour over hare. Serves 4.

Tips on buying fresh fish

Ever wonder how to judge the freshness of whole fish before making a purchase?

Freshness in whole fish, no matter what the variety, can best be determined by looking square into the fish's eyes and at the gills.

If the fish is fresh, the eyes will be bright, clear and bulging.

Pass by any fish whose eyes are sunken in the sockets or which have a thick, opaque milky color.

If the fish is whole and the head has been cut off, beware. In fact, many markets sell some fish already cut into fillets or chunks, or sliced into steaks, making it impossible to judge freshness by the eye or gill test.

You can still tell though. If the slice looks almost cooked, with lackluster, very white and opaque flesh which is separating into coarse-grained segments, pass it by.

Fresh fish should look translucent, pearly white, very fine-textured and with a high, slick shine — almost as though it were wet.

Fish is a good source of protein with an average serving supplying about the same amount of protein as a serving of meat, but with less calories.

Fish contains small amounts of iron, the B-vitamins thiamine and riboflavin, and iodine which is needed for healthy functioning of the thyroid gland.

The gills of a fresh fish, when lifted open, should reveal a clear, bright red, bloody mass — much like a fresh chicken liver. If the mass is dried and brownish in color, the fish is not fresh.

If you still are in doubt, sniff the open gill because it should have a mild briny sea-breeze smell.

Traces of acrid fishiness indicate it is past its prime. Neither the fish, nor the market itself, should have that unpleasant pungent odor.

THE SKIN AND SCALES of a fresh fish will be smooth and shiny.

If the skin and scales are slimy, the fish has been out of water for too long. If the skin is slack, the fish quite likely has been frozen.

In any case, the fish should feel firm, and there should be no impression left when you press down on it with your thumb or forefinger.

The Drama Of Wine

The transformation of the juice of freshly picked grapes into wine by fermentation is always a dramatic and critical step in producing a fine product. This past season our new fermentation cellars were in full operation and the results were far beyond our expectations.

Precise temperature control is all important to final quality. With white wines, juice must be fermented slowly (7 to 10 days) at exact temperatures to retain the delicate fruity flavor and fresh aroma of the grape when it was first picked. A few degrees over or under can make a big difference.

Our 54 new stainless tanks are individually temperature controlled to within one degree, giving us tremendous flexibility and control of every bath. New "de-juicers" also eliminate more solids before fermentation which means less filtration and better wine.

Twenty-six additional stainless storage tanks allow a delicate wine to be held before bottling without change. As an example, when our crisp Pinot Chardonnay reaches optimum maturity in our wooden casks, it can quickly be removed before too much wood character is imparted to the wine. These new tanks allow us to remove the wine — but exactly when to remove it is a decision like many others in winemaking where taste and the "art of the vintner" make the difference between a good wine and a great wine.

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

If you bake a zucchini, you'll both be better off

A reader in Rochester who asked for some zucchini baked goods recipes started me off on a treasure hunt.

She makes zucchini bread and is interested in trying a recipe for zucchini cookies.

Although I found zucchini pancakes, zucchini fritters and a delicious and healthy wheat germ zucchini bread, so far no cookie recipe has turned up.

It may be that zucchini is too liquid for cookie making, except possibly in a bar cookie. However, if any of you zucchini fanciers have found or concocted one, I would sure like to have a copy.

I did discover a muffin recipe that sounded adaptable.

Testing with the vegetable pureed in one batch and grated in a second quickly proved grating the better method.

Zucchini puree made the batter more liquid and changed the overall color to an unappetizing green.

Cooked, that batch becomes heavy and chewy, the muffin and vegetable flavors a mishmash, indistinct from each other.

One confirming bite for me, the rest a treat for the garbage disposal.

By contrast, the batch utilizing grated, well-drained zucchini turned out well. The batter baked into a nice yellow color, interestingly green flecked.

Serve them fresh and hot from the oven with lots of butter or margarine. They don't reheat well, so make only what you need immediately.

Below are recipes for the muffins and other "treasures" I found, with thanks to the reader who sparked the hunt and named the muffins.

ZUCCHINI MUFFINS ROCHESTER (makes 16-18 muffins or one loaf)

- 2 1/4 cups all purpose flour
- 3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 3 tsp. baking powder
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1 egg
- 1 tbsp. grated orange peel
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/4 cup orange juice
- 1 cup fresh zucchini, grated and well-drained

Scrub the zucchini under running water, but do not peel. Snip off the ends. Grate and drain well. Set aside.

In a large mixer bowl, combine all ingredients except zucchini. Mix at low speed until blended; beat at medium speed 2 minutes. Stir in zucchini. Fill greased muffin cups 3/4 full. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

Or, turn into 9-by-5-in. loaf pan, which has been greased on the bottom only. Bake at 350 degrees for 60 to 70 minutes, until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Can be frosted.

ZUCCHINI PANCAKES (makes 8 or 9)

Grate 3 medium zucchini into a bowl and drain them thoroughly. Stir in 2 unbeaten eggs, 3 tbsp. flour, 2 tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese, 1 tsp. chopped chives, 1/4 tsp. chopped parsley, a pinch of garlic powder and salt and pepper to taste.

If the mixture looks too liquid, add 1 tbsp. flour. Drop the batter on an oiled griddle or skillet as for small pancakes and cook them until they are browned. Turn the pancakes and brown them on the other side. Serve hot or cold.

ZUCCHINI FRITTERS (Makes 6 servings)

- 3 small zucchini
 - Salt
 - 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
 - 1 egg, beaten lightly
 - 3/4 cup milk
 - 1 tbsp. butter, melted
- Wash zucchini and cut into crosswise slices 1/2-in. thick. Sprinkle with salt and let stand 15 minutes. Drain and wipe dry with a clean towel. Meanwhile, sift flour with 1/2 tsp. salt into a mixing bowl. Add egg, milk and butter and mix well. Dip zucchini slices in the batter, one by one, and fry until browned in deep fat preheated to 375 degrees. Drain on paper towels. Serve hot. These fritters may be fried ahead of time and heated in the oven just before serving.

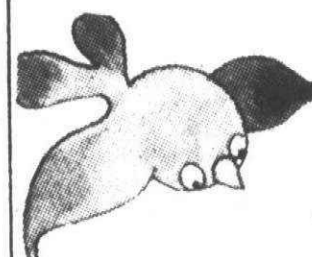

WHEAT GERM ZUCCHINI BREAD

- 1 1/4 cups plain wheat germ
- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
- 3 tsp. baking powder
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 tsp. cinnamon
- 2 eggs
- 1 3/4 cups sugar
- 2 tsp. vanilla
- 3/4 cup oil
- 3 cups grated zucchini, well drained

Beat eggs until light colored and fluffy. Add sugar, vanilla and oil. Stir in zucchini. Mix together dry ingredients and gradually add to egg mixture.

Turn into 2 greased and floured 8-in. loaf pans. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Let cool 5-10 min. before removing from pans.

Questions, comments and recipes are welcomed and should be addressed to Vivian Byrd, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 1225 Bowers St., Birmingham 48012. Please include name, address and telephone number.

Teen alcoholism: It's a hard road back

By SHERRY KAHAN

Matthew and Rachel are alert, good-looking teen-agers who grew up in suburbs served by the Observer Newspaper. They carry an assurance that proclaims they are going somewhere.

They also are recovering alcoholics. Smiling and self-confident, they stand today as living testimony to such caring organizations as Alcoholics Anonymous and the National Council on Alcoholism in Detroit (NCA).

For these two, the teen years were a rough patch. Matthew started drinking at 11, Rachel at 12. Both are from families in which there were alcoholics.

"I can't say why I started," said Rachel at a recent interview in the offices of the alcoholism council. "I don't understand it. But I had older friends who drank. When I began I loved it. It gave me courage. It helped me feel comfortable with people and myself."

"Before I drank I was very insecure. I thought everything I did was wrong. When I drank everything I did and said was okay. Everyone accepted me."

MATTHEW WAS HANDED his first drink by someone who thought he was doing the boy a favor.

"It was my brother, whom I respected," he said. "He made amends later by helping in my recovery."

Matthew used liquor as a crutch. "I couldn't see living without it. Before drinking I had an uncouth method of dealing with problems and handling authority figures. I'd make cynical remarks about them."

"I was unsure of myself. I didn't like the way things were, but I had no power to change them. So I changed myself. With alcohol I could drink away fear, anger and guilt."

These two young people are but a drop in the bottle, compared with the 10 million adult Americans and 3.3 million persons from 14-17 regarded as alcoholics. These are discouraging figures brightened only by the fact that Rachel, Matthew and many other individuals changed their drinking ways through the intervention of various organizations.

"WHEN SOMEONE CALLS for help, NCA schedules a conference, and then refers him to an organization like AA or Alateen," said Doey Shaver, educational consultant of the council. Her job is to give talks in schools and community organizations to let people know that help in at the end of a telephone line (963-0581) at the NCA office.

A recovering alcoholic, Ms. Shaver is sometimes a surprise to her listeners. "Her personal appearance in schools is better than sending a film," observed Pat MacDonald, also employed by the organization. "She is not what they think a recovering alcoholic would be like."

Ms. Shaver's talks are non-threatening and non-judgmental. She lists the early signs of alcoholism so that members of her audience can judge if they are falling into the drinking trap.

"Alcoholism is a progressive compulsion, which is terminal unless treated," she tells them. "It is not curable, but treatable."

Alcoholism can be a family disease, pointed out Mrs. MacDonald. If the husband is an alcoholic, the wife is sick too. She thinks it is partly her fault.

"The kids feel the same way," said Ms. Shaver. "They say, 'If I were a better kid, my parent wouldn't drink that way.' This is why we want to work with the whole family."

BOTH MATTHEW and Rachel met alcoholism first in their own families. Rachel's dad and sister qualified as alcoholics with her sister eventually getting not only herself but Rachel involved in AA. It was Matthew's father and brother, both in AA, who helped the teenager to a new life.

But before he joined, Matthew said he "had to come up against a brick wall."

"I always had plenty of friends and girls until I became such a mess," he recalled. "In some respects I became a burden to them. I would make the rounds and it seemed that no one cared whether I was there or not."

Resentment at his parent's divorce had troubled the youngster for a long time, and then suddenly there was his father at his side ready to help.

"My father got in contact with the family after he progressed enough in his own recovery to take on the responsibility of his family," said Matthew. "I was blown away by the fact he cared enough to take an interest in my problem. He took me to meetings of his social circle, other recovering alcoholics. I became a friend to my father."

He pointed out that initially people who enter AA cannot be completely honest about their drinking, because alcoholism is a disease of denial.

"But then they hear other people relating painful, embarrassing and terrifying experiences, and are able to laugh at it," Matthew said. "They get down to the gut level of communication."

RACHEL FOUND that AA meetings helped her more than visiting a psychologist, who wanted her to tell all, but couldn't relate to her experience.

"With AA it's okay to be how you are," she said. "That's why counseling didn't work and it (AA) does. In AA people share each other's successes and failures."

Matthew put it a different way. "I found a willingness to help the other guy that I never found in church. I'll tell you one thing, in the 12 steps to recovery in AA, alcoholism is mentioned only once. The rest deals with self-actualization. It helps you to become the person you most want to be."

"Sobriety is only a fringe benefit. You find peace of mind, more understanding of your character and a greater ability to deal with and adapt to your environment."

"I'm glad it happened. I couldn't have become the person I am if that hadn't occurred. It is quite possible I am a stronger person for it."

FIGHTS with her family started Rachel on the road to recovery. She ran away, but came back.

"They told me I was grounded," she said. "I listened. I stayed home. I looked at my life as honestly as I could. I saw I was going nowhere. I decided to go to AA with my sister."

"Recovery was a long, long process. I'm still changing. It's harder to stay sober than stay drunk. I was a nervous wreck when I stopped drinking. My stomach was turning all the time. I was shaky and kind of sick. I started taking B-complex vitamins because alcoholics are deficient in B vitamins. I started to eat regularly."

"My old friends felt I had become too goody-goody, so I had to change friends. I don't feel comfortable being around drinkers now. AA taught me how to live through conversations with fellow alcoholics. I never had friends like I do now. Some of them are in their 50s."

Her family trusts her and believes in her, she said.

"I can see I've changed a lot," she decided. "I'm not afraid of me or afraid for me."

Our daughters — our rivals?

By SHERRY KAHAN

Mothers and daughters are many things to each other. Rivals, for example.

The idea came forward, and then seemed almost to be pushed back, in a recent conference at Schoolcraft College to explore the mother-daughter relationship.

Shirley Emerson, Schoolcraft counselor led the session, sponsored by the Women's Resource Center, with the help of her 17-year-old daughter, Ellen.

"What is the relationship between mothers and daughters?" Mrs. Emerson asked the women.

"Rivalry," was one of the rapid-fire responses. So were ideas like love, sometimes hate, anger, companionship, fun, envy, fear, respect, and trust.

"And we hope friendship," someone said. "I like that about rivalry," chimed in another woman. "The fact is there are two of you in the same house."

Mrs. Emerson said there is occasionally rivalry for the father's attention. This statement was followed later by a complaint about a daughter, "who has a separate personality for her mother and father." The woman added: "Her behavior is great when dad is home and very aggressive when only her mother is there. Her dad never sees it."

But the full rivalry issue may have been one too hot to explore publicly. One member of the audience had mentioned before the class began that she and her daughter had been engaged in "a power struggle," adding that "I lived through it, but I didn't think I would." She apparently decided not to bring the issue to the floor.

ALSO ON THE margins of those in attendance were matters like parental expectations, children who smoke, lie or manipulate, mothers-in-law, in fact all the subjects women have explored together since parenthood was invented.

Mrs. Emerson first walked her listeners through the various stages of the mother-daughter relationship. The first stage, from infant to 10-year-old, is relatively free of conflict. It is the second phase, adolescence, when the fur starts to fly.

"The child is trying to separate herself from the mother," said Mrs. Emerson. "She realizes she is a separate human being. Whatever the mother says, she says, 'No, I can think for myself.'"

While this is a more turbulent phase, the speaker believed it can be a positive one, and a period of growth for both individuals.

"Although there will be battles," she said, "I don't think this has to be the war we sometimes allow it to be."

The time when the daughter becomes a parent can be "a fairly peaceful period." Daughter asks her mother advice about the baby.

As the grandchild moves into adulthood. Grandma is getting older and the roles gradually reverse. The daughter takes over the nurturing role as her mother ages and runs into physical problems. There is a definite shift if she becomes a widow. She becomes much more dependent on her daughter.

"WHAT DO YOU DO when your own mother tells you how to raise your daughter?"

In responding to this question, Mrs. Emerson pointed out that her 79-year-old mother is from "a totally different generation." Many technological and social changes have taken place resulting in a generation gap on certain subjects, especially lifestyles. She was sure her daughter, Ellen, would "lock horns" with her grandmother because they live "in two different worlds."

Ellen, on the other hand, didn't think the confrontation would take place.

"I wouldn't ask the kind of question that would cause a conflict," she said.

"My husband's mother is from Europe," came another audience comment. "She feels she can come in and run our household."

Mrs. Emerson told the woman, "We can react to people as we chose to react."

She continued: "If you chose to let her upset you, you can stay upset all the time."

It is a squeeze, the speaker admitted and then suggested that the woman of the house tell her mother-in-law "I'll think about your advice."

Another woman had a different solution.

"Mothers and mothers-in-law want to be necessary," she said. "Try to give them something to do. They'll like doing it. Give older persons their dignity."

Another woman backed this approach. When she had to come up with three dozen cupcakes, "I asked my mother to bake them."

She added: "I knew she would like to do it, and I told her she was a big help. I called my father up to do things around the house I knew my husband could do. It gave them a chance to visit us. I'm glad I did. Now my mother is gone and my father is like a 5-year-old."

Mrs. Emerson stressed, "We all need to be needed."

WHY CHILDREN lie was also discussed by the group.

"I think girls lie to cover up so as not to get into trouble," said Ellen Emerson. "It really is a communications problem."

Her mother noted: "We have to ask ourselves how we would have reacted if we were told the truth."

"I think they are afraid they will lose your respect," said a conference participant.

Mrs. Emerson wondered how often mothers had done something questionable, but were reluctant to admit it, preferring to be regarded as the perfect mother.

"My 6-year-old lies to get attention," said one woman. "It is her way to get my undivided attention. She got what she wanted."

Mrs. Emerson suggested that the mother give the child attention through praising her for doing what is acceptable.

She advised the women of the importance of listening to their children and speaking to them frankly, with words like "I understand your feelings, but I don't want you to try to manipulate me." Tell them if you feel uncomfortable about something going on. Don't have unrealistic expectations of them. Tell your daughter, "I love you enough to support what you want to do."

Ellen told those concerned with youthful smoking and drinking that "it is something every child has to go through." She added: "Most kids try pot at least once. I don't know where I got the value, but it's not for me. I don't use hard drugs because I'm afraid of them."

SUMMING UP, Mrs. Emerson said that it seems that "so much that happens between a mother and child is so powerful."

Shirley Emerson, Schoolcraft College counselor, and her daughter Ellen shared the leadership of a recent discussion on mother and daughter relationships. (Staff photo)

Ain't so with you and I.

Ever dream about winnin a car race? About being the best snow skier around? The best cartoonist? The best athlete-maybe even of winnin an Olympic Gold Medal?

Sure, you dream about those things. Or others. But, chances are, you don't get much of a chance to make them dreams come true.

You do now. Cuz Levi Strauss and Company are giving you that chance.

The chance to be the best you can be in whatever you want.

The chance to be the early bird. And not the worm.

Which is why you ought to read all of this ad.

Dads need attention, too

By BETTY MASSON

Expectant fathers often feel neglected. With good reason.

Now they have an opportunity to get together and discuss their feelings as fathers-to-be. They'll also pick up some practical advice on what it means to be a father in today's world.

A one-day workshop for expectant fathers is being held Saturday, Nov. 17, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., in the Childbirth and Family Resource Center, 865 Pennington, Plymouth.

Leading the workshop will be Cam Vozar, a University of Michigan graduate in social work, who has a private practice in Ann Arbor and works with the Northwestern Child Guidance Clinic in Garden City. His chief interests are in "parenting" and in working with groups.

Cost of the workshop is $20. Reservations must be made by calling the center, 459-2360.

The Plymouth workshop will be the second of this type to be conducted by Vozar. The first was in Ann Arbor.

Vozar decided that a workshop for fathers might be a good thing when he himself became an expectant father.

"I felt that it would be really useful for me to sit down and talk to other expectant fathers about some of the issues I was experiencing in my life," he said.

THIS IS THE format the workshop will take. Feelings about fatherhood will be discussed in a relaxed and informal atmosphere.

"The birth of a child," said Vozar, "is a developmental milestone in a man's life, as well as a woman's."

"In this society, most of the focus when a couple is having a child is on the woman, somewhat understandably so, but I think it's important to recognize that this is an important time for the man also.

"Fatherhood does have a social and psychological effect on him."

One natural and normal reaction is a conflict of feelings. A prospective father feels pride and a greater sense of responsibility. He feels more protective towards his wife; yet at the same time he may also be feeling a loss of freedom.

Fatherhood means a change in the marriage relationship, notes Vozar. "When you are pregnant, your feelings are different and you act differently. Husbands have to cope with this," he said.

Some men feel left out, jealous and resentful at this time.

NOT ONLY DO prospective mothers and grandmothers spend a lot of time discussing arrangements for the new baby, but a wife suddenly has "an intimate relationship with someone else, the new baby."

All of these are an intrusion into a man's usual relationship with his wife, Vozar has found. Prospective fathers also discuss what kind of father they would like to be, and how to go about achieving this goal.

The old-fashioned father was the breadwinner and disciplinarian, said Vozar. "The modern role is that of a more equal partner and caretaker."

Said Vozar, "Men are finding that if they do make an investment in their relationships with their children, they will have closer and more rewarding relationships. I think it adds a nice balance to one's life, working and family involvement."

He pointed out that fathers of today are taking a greater role in physical care of children because more mothers are working outside the home. "Most women are not able to be supermoms and go out and work at the same time. Men need to do more about taking care of the family."

PROSPECTIVE FATHERS will also get some very specific advice on caring for new babies at the workshops. The first is "They're not as fragile as they look."

If a new father doesn't have any friends with new babies, perhaps he can get the hospital nurse to show him how to change a diaper, advises Vozar.

A new father may have to assert himself if he is to take an active part in child care right from the beginning, says Vozar. New mothers are sometimes very protective.

If a new grandmother presents a problem, Vozar advises giving her a definite role. Tell her what she can do to be most helpful, whether it's to cook a meal, clean the house or give advice.

One of his workshop participants had a problem with his mother and his wife not getting along.

"We offered him some very creative ideas about providing roles for these relatives," said Vozar.

"We did make it clear to him that he was going to have to support his wife rather than his mother in this situation," he said. "But you can't just push problems under the rug and hope they'll go away. You have to try to come up with some plan or ideas for dealing with them."

AT THE PLYMOUTH workshop, Vozar will show a childbirth film and will discuss the alternatives in arranging for childbirth, the birth at home, the hospital and the birthing center.

He also discusses the possibilities and the ramifications of a Caesarian section, and the husband's role in this as well as in normal childbirth, with an explanation of the bonding process that occurs when a child shares his first few moments with both parents.

"I think it is important for fathers to know the birth of a child is a peak experience for both parents," he concluded.

Kirk-Carlson

Pamela Kay Carlson of Plymouth and William LaMar Kirk of Corpus Christi, Texas, were married Oct. 20 in St. John's Episcopal Church, Plymouth. The Rev. Robert Shank officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Carlson of Brookwood Drive, Plymouth. For her wedding, she wore her mother's ivory satin, princess style wedding gown. It had leg-of-mutton sleeves and a cathedral length train. She carried silk roses and baby's breath. She wore a satin and lace Juliet cap trimmed with seed pearls. Jennifer Melin, maid of honor, wore a two-piece deep purple gown with an empire waist. Her bouquet was made of silk flowers, which shaded from light to dark purple.

Ty Cool was best man and Scott Carlson, brother of the bride, was the usher.

The wedding reception was at Dun Rovin Golf Club. The couple will live in Corpus Christi.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. She attended Eastern Michigan University. Her husband works for Kroger.

Seville Elegante

The 1980 Cadillac Seville Elegante uses a diesel engine as standard. All Sevvilles with the new six-liter, digital electronic fuel injection engine team with an "MPG Sentinel." The MPG Sentinel gives you instantaneous miles per gallon readouts continually. To get your average fuel economy for a trip, the driver can press button that causes the average mileage to be displayed for six seconds.

Bad habits reappear

Gas shortage seen for coming summer

The motoring public, barely again accustomed to ready availability of gasoline, should be aware that energy-watchers are making dire predictions about shortages next summer.

Officials from government, the oil companies and independent researchers share the pessimism, citing statements by oil-exporting countries that they will reduce shipments next year.

The Automotive Information Council in Southfield therefore advises drivers to revert to the gas-saving driving practices they adopted during the crunch but have since abandoned.

To help drivers do this, the council offers a free pamphlet that provides 30 fuel-saving tips. Single copies can be obtained by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope to Automotive Information Council, P.O. Box 273, Southfield 48037. Bulk copies are available at a price of $4 per hundred. This includes postage.

The council said that if drivers follow the tips provided, the predicted shortage will not interfere with our freedom of mobility. Common-sense driving will permit the build-up of reserves.

Some of the tips offered in the folder include:

For every five miles per hour over 50 you drive, there is a loss of one mile per gallon.

Don't stomp on the accelerator when the signal turns to green. Sudden surges of power take a big gulp of gas. Sudden stops don't do your gasoline expenses any favor either. Try coasting to a halt.

Plan multi-stop local trips. A car doesn't reach operate at maximum efficiency until the oil, differential grease, engine, transmission, wheel bearings, tires and other components get warmed up.

Avoid prolonged idling. Your car gets zero miles per gallon while idling. Just 30 seconds consumes as much gasoline as it takes to start the car.

The folder also illustrates how lack of proper maintenance can pull down the miles-per-gallon average.
