New schools option opposed at hearing

By EMORY DANIELS

Do almost anything but build new schools.

That seemed to be the consensus of residents who attended Monday night's public forum on student housing needs in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

About 75 residents attended the hearing conducted by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education in the Plymouth Salem High School auditorium.

Residents speaking out there expressed a great deal of interest in renting existing buildings from Livonia Public Schools.

Interest also was expressed in greater use of the Extended School Year (ESY) and reliance on portable classrooms to avoid over-building.

Some Plymouth residents also questioned whether the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township could secede from the district, leaving Canton with a school district of its own.

While some backed the idea of greater use of year-round scheduling, some parents expressed concern about greater reliance on ESY.

These concerns related to the splitting of neighborhoods by tracks, and to whether parents could have the option of having their children attend a traditional nine-month school.

Some residents felt it would be better to build new schools, especially to avoid the expense of busing students to rented buildings in Livonia. But this opinion seemed to be a minority view Monday night.

SUPERINTENDENT John M. Hoben told the audience that negotiations were proceeding with Livonia to rent Lowell Junior High and Webster Elementary schools.

Lowell is on Hix Road south of Joy and Webster is on Linden near Schoolcraft and Newburg roads. (Livonia Board of Education made a formal decision Monday night to close Lowell in June 1981).

Renting appealed to many residents because the cash outlay would be less than building a new school. Hoben said it would cost about $8 million to build a new middle school.

Although negotiations are in progress, Hoben said, Livonia's going price is $1 per square foot for junior highs or about $90,000 a year for Lowell.

If a 10-year lease were negotiated for Lowell, the rental cost alone would be almost $1 million and the district would not own the building once enrollment started to decline (projected to about 1987-88 at the middle school level).

Hoben said the major difference in the cost of renting Lowell would have to be borne by current taxpayers with operational millage. Paying for a new school through the sale of bonds would result in future generations sharing the burden.

(Under current state law, rental payments cannot be financed by a bond issue but must be paid with money from the operating budget.)

Some residents also expressed concern about whether busing Plymouth-Canton students to a school in Livonia would set a precedent in the cross-district busing lawsuit (Bradley vs. Milliken) still pending in federal courts.

Hoben said he is awaiting a written opinion from the law firm of Clark, Fine and Hardy on that question. The superintendent added, though, that enough precedent exists in Michigan for busing across district lines that he doesn't feel it would be a problem.

Parents did ask which neighborhoods would be bused to either Lowell or Webster Elementary if the schools were rented. Hoben said the administration had no idea at this point about specific neighborhoods but the students likely to be bused would be those living in southeastern Canton Township.

Early results of a community opinion poll show a strong community interest in renting buildings from Livonia. More than 20,000 questionnaires were mailed out and almost 700 have been returned.

Before the hearing began, board President Tom Yack read a letter signed by 21 residents urging the district to rely on rental of Livonia buildings as a "total solution" to housing students to avoid constructing any new buildings or expanding ESY.

Hoben said that few of the empty Livonia schools are near Plymouth-Canton and that leasing buildings in the central or eastern portions of Livonia (Continued on page 4A)

Without shots, CEP students face expulsion

Some 2,200 area high school students face expulsion unless they become fully immunized within 90 days.

The number facing exclusion from school represents almost half of the 4,700 students enrolled at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

Superintendent John M. Hoben announced at Monday's school board meeting that some 2,200 high school students at the CEP received immunization warning letters last week.

If they do not fulfill state immunization requirements by Feb. 15, they will be excluded from school.

"This is required by state law which states all students in grades 9-12 must be immunized by Feb. 15. We will have no choice but to exclude those who don't meet the requirements," said Hoben.

Free shots will be offered at an immunization clinic to be held next week so every student will have the chance to receive any missing immunizations.

Nurses from Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and from the Wayne County Health Department have scheduled three days of immunizations at Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools.

The nurses expect to handle 60 students an hour or about 1,300 students during the three days.

Shots will be given to seniors from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 19. Juniors may get their shots from 7:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 20, and ninth and 10th graders can get free immunizations from 7:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 21.

Students must make appointments with the school nurses for the immunizations. Notice has been mailed to parents whose children do not have all the required immunizations.

The form which accompanied that written notice must be returned to the high school, said Hoben.

Students may receive DPT (diphtheria-pertussis-tetanus) shots, measles/rubella shots and the oral polio vaccine.

High school girls will receive their immunizations separately from the boys so they can be counseled about the possible effects of rubella shots.

Board at stalemate

Cable contract hanging

When cable television will come to Canton Township is a bigger question now than ever.

A township board stalemate on the choice of cable TV firms ground to a halt any action on the issue Tuesday night.

Supervisor Noel Culbert said he has no idea when the matter will be brought up again.

A last-ditch effort of Trustee Stephen Larson to award the contract to Omnicon of Michigan failed by a 4-3 vote. Larson, along with trustees Robert Greenstein and Eugene Daley, voted for the firm.

Culbert said Maclean-Hunter, the other firm considered by the board, could not have mustered the necessary four board votes if a motion for that firm had been made Tuesday night.

"At this point in time, the board is not making any decision," Culbert said. "The board is befuddled. No other community is so radically split between two companies."

Culbert said a compromise on the choice of cable TV firms must be made if the television service is to ever come to Canton. He indicated that the compromise could involve awarding a contract to a third firm, such as MetroVision or United Cable TV.

CABLE TELEVISION seemed to loom in Canton's near future last July when the township board unanimously voted to award a franchise to Omnicon.

An ordinance granting the contract to Omnicon was drafted and published in a local newspaper, but it was never given final approval by the township board.

Omnicon's contract was delayed after three other cable TV firms — Maclean-Hunter, MetroVision and United Cable TV — submitted applications to the township board.

The contract was subsequently awarded on a tentative basis to Maclean-Hunter. Larson, Greenstein and Daley dissented to this move. The township board's majority thought Maclean-Hunter, a Canadian-based firm, offered more experience in the cable television field than Omnicon.

Although the Maclean-Hunter ordinance was drafted, it was never published or given final township board approval.

Approval of the ordinance for publication purposes was an agenda item at Tuesday's township board meeting.

Larson prevented action on the issue after telling the board that four New Jersey communities with Maclean-Hunter cable TV contracts are unhappy with the firm.

Larson said he telephoned Orange, East Orange, Bloomfield and Lyndon, N.J. Tuesday and was told that local programming was poor. He said Lydon's system has never been activated, although the contract was approved in 1977.

R. Scott Colbran, manager of corporate development for Maclean-Hunter, said he "would not make excuses for that operation" in New Jersey. He said the New Jersey system has won national awards for its local programming.

AN ADVOCATE of Omnicon since the start, Larson tried to finalize township board approval of that firm's contract.

Larson maintains that Omnicon, which holds contracts in Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Northville Township, could offer better local programming to Canton. Maclean-Hunter is serving several downriver communities.

After the motion to finalize the Omnicon contract was defeated, Larson indicated that he will not bring up the firm's contract again.

Mobile home complaints aired again

Angry mobile home owners demanded that the license be revoked from the owner of their parks at a public hearing Monday night.

Supporters of Sheldon Futernick, parks' owner, were shouted down during the hearing called to air problems and complaints of embittered mobile home residents.

The hearing was conducted in Ypsilanti by members of the state Mobile Home Commission, which scheduled the meeting after two busloads of mobile home owners took their complaints to Lansing last month.

Mobile home owners from parks all over the metropolitan area attended the hearing, but a majority of the audience represented parks owned completely or in part by Futernick. He has an interest in Royal Holiday and Holiday Estates in Canton; Holiday Woods in Sumpter Township; Holiday West in Highland; and Highland Hills in Highland. He is also an owner of dealership Nationwide Mobile Homes Inc., (also known as Village of Homes).

When Futernick attempted to rebut one person's statement, he was drowned out by angry residents of his parks.

Prior to the hearing, Futernick had a four-page handout distributed to the audience. Entitled "Setting the Record Straight," the handout responded to some of the charges leveled by residents during the past few months.

In the handout, Futernick pledged to begin a clubhouse and swimming pool promised to residents of the Holiday Estates park; to finish the clubhouse begun in 1973 at Highland Hills; denied that evictions have been either retaliatory or excessive at any of his parks; and maintained that recent rent increases at the parks were economically necessary, reasonable and not prompted by the tenant activism.

FUTERNICK'S statement in the flyer that he had been trying to get a building permit for the Holiday Estates clubhouse for the past three years was termed "a damned lie" by a Canton Township Trustee Robert Greenstein.

Greenstein said he attended the meeting as an "official observer" and had not been authorized to make any commitment for the township board. He said recent inspections of mobile homes at the Holiday Estates park have revealed that many of the homes were set up in violation of the state's Public Act 419.

The act regulates how mobile homes should be set up and places most of the responsibility on the dealership.

"A conviction on any one of the violations is punishable by a fine of $500 a day for each violation and up to a year in jail. If Futernick is truly in violation, why the hell isn't he in jail?" Greenstein asked.

Also present at the meeting was C.J. Marshall, president of the Holiday Estates Mobile Home Owners Association. Marshall has been the major spokesman for the protest brewing at all five parks since the controversy began.

MARSHALL TOLD the commission he believed it would be appropriate to ask for a State Senate investigation of Futernick.

"We have been unable to pursue a county grand jury investigation because of the county's problem's," he said.

Marshall added that fees charged by the Canton Township building department when mobile homes were initially inspected should not be charged again.

He said that two officials from the commission visited Holiday Estates last week to look at homes. Out of 16 informal inspections conducted, Marshall said, 13 of the mobile homes were found to be incorrectly installed on the lots.

Marshall called for the suspension of Futernick's licenses to operate mobile home parks until he "makes good."

As mobile home tenants expressed their dissatisfaction with alleged conditions at their parks, members of the commission said they had already begun to investigate the charges stemming from recent meetings.

COMMISSION chairman John Boll read a statement saying five audits of the books at parks owned by Futernick were conducted last week.

Boll said the commission had advised Futernick "that a major deficiency existed in his compliance with the statutory and rule requirements on written leases and tenant refusals."

"He (Futernick) has already been advised that immediate steps are to be taken to affirmatively comply with this requirement."

Boll said tenants will have to either sign a lease or a waiver of the lease.

Boll also said commission members met with Futernick about the possibility

Jailed man dies in cell

A 47-year-old Plymouth man hanged himself in a cell at the Westland police station last week, about an hour after being arrested for drunk driving, police said.

According to a police report, officers discovered Harold Polmateer hanging in his cellblock at 3:27 a.m. Nov. 9. He apparently had wrapped an undershirt around his neck and attached it to a bar.

Moments later a Westland Fire Department rescue unit took him to Wayne County General Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. The Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office ruled the death a suicide by asphyxiation.

The police report said officers arrested Polmateer for drunk driving on Merriman Road near Maplewood about 2:30 a.m. He apparently had been placed in the cell about 3 a.m.

Schools will get 2 more administrators

Two additional administrative positions were approved Monday night by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

After some debate, the school board voted to add another area coordinator for the ninth grade at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) and approved the position of a curriculum intern to work on goal-based curriculum.

The area coordinator was approved by a 7-0 vote and the curriculum intern position was approved by a 5-2 vote, with trustees Flossie Tonda and Sylvia Stetz voting "no."

SUPERINTENDENT John M. Hoben noted that some 1,700 additional students now attend both high schools at the CEP since it opened.

Yet the CEP has the same number of area coordinators as when it opened, Hoben added.

Area coordinators at the high schools have a variety of responsibilities. First they are responsible for a number of students with assignments made on an alphabetical basis.

Each coordinator also is responsible for working with about 30-40 teachers. In addition, each coordinator is assigned a curriculum area and must assist all teachers within that particular discipline.

Hoben said there presently are some 15 job functions divided among the eight area coordinators at the CEP.

Trustee Steve Harper expressed reservations about approving another coordinator because the board has asked the CEP administrators to come up with options for students, after elimination of modular scheduling, and none were forthcoming.

Trustee Carol Davis disagreed, stating some options had been recommended but the board rejected them because they cost money.

Board President Tom Yack said that it's difficult for the CEP administration to be creative when they are burdened down trying to administer an oversubscribed facility. "They can't be creative when they are trying to survive day by day."

THE CURRICULUM intern position will involve a teacher being made an administrative intern for up to two years to work on curriculum development as part of the goal-based approach.

Davis commented that if the board wants options and changes in curriculum, then it should approve the intern job.

Hoben said the intern would assist in the development of goal-based curriculum. Creation of the position would speed up the goal-based program, Hoben added, so it would be finished more quickly than the three to five years now expected.

Hoben added the intern also could function as a resource person for the Talented and Gifted (TAG) program during times of slack.

Tonda objected that three administrators were added to the central staff when the district started the goal-base project and she didn't see why another person was needed.

"We had the assistant superintendent for instruction and added the secondary and elementary directors of curriculum to implement goal-based curriculum."

Sisters come home to realize business dream

By DARLENE STINSON

When Virginia Attwood and Yvonne Roehling decided to go into business, they dreamed up all kinds of schemes to keep themselves occupied and make a little money.

"We thought about buying a paddle wheel on the Au Sable River or opening a resort with organic foods," says Mrs. Roehling.

In the end the two sisters ("We used to be the Smith girls," they say) came home to Canton Township and the property where they grew up.

Wooding Gallery, which opened Oct. 30 in a former diner at 42030 Michigan, stands next door to the sprawling white house where parents Andrew and Marie Smith still live.

The building was owned by the Smiths until last summer when their two daughters bought the facility. As a high school student, Mrs. Roehling worked as a waitress in the building that the Smiths leased to diner proprietors.

SMELLS OF HAMBURGERS and chili no longer waft from the old building.

Macrame items, inlaid wood pictures and pine cone wreaths hang from the walls. Handmade dolls, pottery, jewelry and dried flower arrangements line shelves and tables in the shop.

The sisters liken their store to a "year-round arts and craft fair." All goods are sold on consignment, with the store receiving one-third of the selling price.

Mrs. Attwood and Mrs. Roehling do not expect to make much profit the first year.

But the sisters, who say their children are pretty much grown, view their business as an outlet for pent up energies as well as an income source.

Except for Mrs. Roehling's brief employment at Schoolcraft College four years ago, neither sister has held a job in years.

Although the store deals exclusively in arts and crafts items, neither woman considers herself an artist. Mrs. Attwood has dabbled in miniature furniture making and macrame. But Mrs. Roehling readily admits, "I don't do anything."

Nevertheless, both sisters say they know quality in arts and crafts when they see it by virtue of their enthusiasm for arts shows. They give their ideas for pottery and other items to the 40 artists who have agreed to sell their wares through the shop.

MRS. ROEHLING said the idea for the art consignment business came to her one day in a flash.

Mrs. Attwood said she loved it immediately.

The sisters claim they think a great deal alike — a tendency which they attribute in part to their birth dates.

Mrs. Roehling was born on July 23, 1927. Her sister was born the same day, five years later.

"Our horoscopes say this is a good year to go into business," Mrs. Attwood said.

Both women say they love every minute of their new way of life. Mrs. Roehling, who lives in Livonia with her husband, George, jokingly says the best part of her new job is that a housekeeper now tends to dusting and cleaning chores.

Mrs. Attwood, who lives next door to former Township Supervisor Harold Stein in Canton, describes the business venture as a hobby and outlet as well as a way to supplement the income of her husband, Warren.

"I've done nothing but raise children all my life," Mrs. Attwood said of her five children, who range in age from 8 to 22.

"We really wanted something to keep us busy. I think we've got the start of something good," she said.

The sisters say their family has lived in Canton Township for years. Grandparents, cousins, uncles and aunts owned much of the property near the location of the new Wooding Gallery.

Their father, Andrew Smith, served as Canton Township clerk for 27 years prior to his resignation in 1956.

A neighbor, John Flodin, was appointed to fill the remainder of Smith's term when he resigned. Flodin has held the clerk's job ever since.

This piece of marquetry or inlaid wood is titled "The Barn." It was made by Michael Tracey of Warren and sells for $495. It is one of many items displayed at the gallery.

School employee prays for relative's life in Iran

By TERI BANAS

Dave Ode is among the many Americans praying for the safe return of American hostages who have been held captive by Iranian students since Nov. 4.

Ode, who works in data processing for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, may, however, have a greater interest in their safe release than the average American.

Ode's uncle, Robert Carl Ode, 63, is among some 60 Americans detained in that country's capital city of Tehran.

Robert Ode, a member of the American Foreign Service for more than 30 years, was called out of retirement to go to Tehran early this fall.

His assignment, still unclear to his nephew in Michigan, was to last for only five or six weeks. He was captured a few days short of his scheduled return.

"My first reaction was frustration," said Dave. "You want to do something — just go in there and get them out."

Shortly before his capture, Robert wrote to his wife Rita telling her "You seem to be more worried about me than I am."

It was not a fool-hardy comment, Dave said. It was merely a statement from a man who had "the foreign service in his blood."

RITA AND RICHARD Ode met while they were employed in the foreign service.

Today, Mrs. Ode is on a special state department task force working on the hostages' return.

Dave said his aunt and uncle were expected to visit him and his family in South Lyon in August. That visit was postponed because of Robert's work. The rescheduled get-together was set for this month.

"He knew he was going to a hot spot but it was only going to be a six week assignment," Dave said.

Since the capture, Dave said he has been tuned to televised reports on Iran day and night.

Dave said he is disappointed with President Carter's response to the crisis.

"I want him to do something but I don't know what he could do. I would like to take a tough stand but if I were in Carter's shoes I don't know if I'd have the nerve to carry it out," he said.

As far as meeting the students' demands to return the former Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi for trial as a war criminal, Dave said he wouldn't do it. The ousted leader of Iran is in a New York hospital undergoing treatment for cancer.

"We are really at the mercy of other countries because of our reliance on energy," Dave said. Americans have the capability to "bite the bullet" and cut down on energy consumption but they're not doing it, he added.

AS FOR IRANIAN students protesting in the United States, Dave said he agrees with a recent Carter administration move to deport those students who have violated their visa stays.

Based on media reports, Dave said he thinks the students in the embassy are feuding among themselves as to their next move. He added that he doesn't think they have made plans for dealing with the hostages if the United States does not meet their demands.

As for his uncle's condition today, Dave believes he is safe.

"Of all the hostages over there he'd probably be a calming influence. He has a good sense of humor. He has had to do some fairly exciting things but you'd never hear it from him," Dave said.

When based in the states, Robert and Rita live in Falls Church, Virginia, which is across the Potomac from Washington, D.C. The couple has been planning a retirement home in Arizona although they enjoy the cultural aspects of life near Washington.

They married while in their 40s and have no children. They speak many languages and have seen such countries as Liberia, Poland, Iceland and Switzerland.

Robert, retired for almost three years, had been called to Jonestown Guyana after the mass suicides took place. His work involved contacting the American relatives of the suicide victims.

Dave said he last saw his uncle in June or July.

"It was always such a big deal when we saw him. He always had so much to say. He can describe a place he's been to just like you're there," Dave said.

"When I last saw him he said if he had to do it all over again he wouldn't change a thing."

New school construction called poor option

would result in high transportation costs and strong negative reactions from those parents whose children would be displaced.

NANCY REED of Canton expressed doubts about expanding ESY to house more students as neighborhoods now are being split because of year-round scheduling and student assignments.

Hoben answered that the district's aim is to keep neighborhood students together but this cannot be done when individual schools come close to their capacity.

"This will continue to be a problem as we near building capacity."

In response to another question, the superintendent said the crunch at the high schools likely will be handled by split sessions, extended school day or moving the ninth grade back to the middle schools (or a combination) rather than by ESY scheduling.

Because of the high schools' current population growth, Hoben said, the district next year might have to keep Central Middle and East Middle eighth graders at those schools for the ninth grade and extend the school day by one hour.

ABOUT HALF A DOZEN questions were asked about forming a Plymouth school district separate from Canton.

Hoben said that such a division could be done only by a statewide referendum which would have to be called by the Michigan Legislature.

"School districts were created by the state and are creatures of the state.

There is no local control involved when it comes to school district boundaries."

Hoben added that in 1933 the school district extended to Outer Drive on the east and as late as 1955 Livonia students were attending school in this school district. Canton has been part of the district as far back as 1949, Hoben said.

"Canton residents helped pay for most of the school buildings which are now located in the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township," said Hoben. "This is not a Plymouth school district and never has been."

Hoben added that the only "division" of a school district in Michigan he knew about was in the 1960s when Nankin Mills went bankrupt and was divided by the state between Livonia and Wayne-Westland.

Concerning the option of ESY students being able to attend a nine-month school, Hoben said that the option would be available only as long as space is available in schools on the traditional nine-month plan.

"We recognize some of the problems ESY can cause for working parents. But if the space isn't available we can't offer the option.

"Next year we plan to expand ESY to two other elementaries. Renting an elementary building from Livonia would slow down the expansion of ESY to other schools but I'm not sure it would be eliminated."

THE COST OF bond issues being looked at, Hoben said, ranges from 1.2 mills for a $4 million issue to 1.62 mills for $20 million and 3.53 mills for $45 million.

Yack said that the challenge to the board is to balance the desire to keep costs down against the desire of parents to maintain some semblance of the present educational program.

Trustee Steve Harper noted that the preliminary survey results showed the greatest support going to realignment of grades six and nine with the next closest choices being expansion of ESY and renting from Livonia.

"We have heard about the economic concerns tonight," said Trustee Carol Davis. "But the board also must look at programs. If we take away what you consider to be vital, just to save money, you won't like that either."

The board hopes to decide by the end of the month on the size of the bond issue to put before voters, hopefully in February, so some steps can be taken before the fall of 1980.

Commission hears tenants

ity of the park owner meeting with his tenants about recent rent hikes. (The commission does not have jurisdiction over this matter, however, he added.)

Boll said Futernick met with Royal Holiday residents Oct. 25 and Nov. 10, and with Marshall Nov. 9. According to the commission, Futernick agreed to have park managers meet with hardship cases on a personal basis and with Futernick personally if the matter is not resolved.

Boll said the commission also obtained written commitment from Futernick that he would begin building the clubhouse at Holiday Estates by June 1 and make a decision on the partially completed clubhouse at Highland Hills.

Boll added that Futernick has been notified of several cases of improper mobile home set-ups at his parks.

"(He) has corrected some and has indicated that he will correct those we brought to his attention as a result of our inspection of Nov. 8," Boll said.

Futernick was unavailable for comment on the statements.

THE MOBILE home commission will be meeting again Dec. 5 in Lansing. Marshall predicted that more busloads of tenants would probably attend this meeting.

A rent strike at all five parks, which was planned as protest to the alleged problems, was called off until after the Monday commission hearing.

There has been no announcement that the strike will be carried out following the hearing.

Teacher pay dispute still pending

The court hearing on the contract dispute between the Plymouth-Canton school board and the teachers union has been recessed until after the holidays.

The hearing scheduled before an administrative-law judge of the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) has been recessed until Jan. 9, 10 and 11.

The MERC judge, Nora Lynch, has been asked to make a decision on whether the pay increases, agreed to by the school board and the union in a tentative contract, should be compounded and how.

The board maintains that the contract calls for standard pay raises, while teachers say the negotiated pay increases include a certain percentage for a cost of living allowance.

John Ryder, president of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA), said Monday that the proceedings before MERC may not come to an end before April 15.

If the hearing is completed by Jan. 11, Ryder said, it would be four to six weeks before transcripts would be available. Attorneys from both sides then would have another four weeks to file the final briefs. Another four weeks could pass before Judge Lynch makes her decision, Ryder added.

Both sides will be bound by any decision Judge Lynch makes unless she rules there was "no meeting of the minds" during negotiations on the pay increase. In that case both sides would return to the bargaining table.

Teachers have been working without a ratified contract since mid-September. Teachers were on strike for two weeks before the tentative agreement was reached.

The school board has implemented all portions of that tentative agreement except for the difference in the disputed pay increases.

Ryder expressed disappointment about the delayed timetable and settling the compounding issue. He suggested that putting the issue before MERC was an attempt by the board's attorneys to delay final settlement.

Makes the 'Little House'

Deveny Deck, sixth grade student at Central Middle School, used her creative talents recently to create a model of the cabin in "Little House on the Prairie" of Laura Ingalls Wilder fame. Students in Nola Lutey's sixth grade class were asked to build projects to accompany a written book report. The projects included collages, three-dimensional scenes, a pantomime or dramatic skit and models. Deveny started with a shoebox covered with brown construction paper. She gathered sticks for logs and used balsa wood for the floor and roof. She picked up stones from her driveway at home and glued them together for the fireplace. The beds are made from strawberry carton material. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Lowell closing now official

Lowell Junior High School will become the sixth Livonia secondary school closed when it shuts its doors in 19 months.

The Livonia Board of Education Monday voted 6-0 to close Lowell, on Hix Road south of Joy in Westland, and instead keep open Frost Junior High on Stark north of the Jeffries Freeway.

At the same time that decision was made, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education was holding a public hearing and discussing the possibility of renting Lowell Junior High as an alternative to building a new middle school.

The Plymouth-Canton board has informed Livonia it wants to start negotiations for the lease of Lowell to ease its overcrowding. Plymouth-Canton also has expressed an interest in using Webster Elementary, on Lyndon west of Newburgh, which will be closed next June.

The Lowell closing, effective as of June 1981, will be the 20th Livonia school shut in the past seven years with 16 of those closed in the past three years.

It also means that Livonia, which had 10 junior highs as recently as the spring of 1978, will have five next fall and four the following year.

Reason for the sixth junior high closing in less than 18 months is the continuing declining of student enrollment in Livonia.

Since its peak year in 1971-72, Livonia has lost 37 percent of its total student body which has dropped from a high of 38,500 to the current enrollment of about 24,050. Livonia's elementary student population has decreased by 51 percent since '71-72.

Livonia is not planning to close any of its high schools, says Plymouth-Canton Supt. John M. Hoben, because it is moving its ninth graders from junior high to high school.

(Plymouth-Canton with its rising enrollment now is considering moving ninth graders back to the middle school level to relieve crowded conditions at the high schools).

Lowell is 96,000 square feet with 38 classrooms and a capacity of 850 to 960 on a 27-acre site. Lowell, built in 1966, is a one-story building except for special areas such as the gymnasium, multi-purpose room, band room, and library.

The school also contains a cafeteria, stage area, language lab, vocational education and home economic rooms, art and drafting areas.

Anderson honored

Dwight Anderson, English teacher at Plymouth Salem High, has been commended by the National Council of Teachers of English for his contribution to the revision of "High Interest - Easy Reading."

This booklist describes more than 425 current titles with special appeal for adolescents who do not yet have the reading habit.

It is designed for use by junior and senior high students, as well as by teachers and librarians.

To make such publications possible, the council relies on the voluntary investment of time and professional knowledge by teachers and administrators in school and college programs across the nation.

Here's one small business that survived—and grew

By W.W. EDGAR

From a basement operation several decades ago, the Trading Post has become one of the largest sporting goods stores in western Wayne County.

Born in the basement of the Davis and Lent Clothing Store where the John Smith store now stands, the Trading Post has expanded to include an inventory of sporting equipment worth more than $100,000.

The history of this climb under Bill Keefer and Dave Cook is most interesting because at a time when new businesses are striving to get started in downtown Plymouth, they left downtown for Ann Arbor Road.

KEEFER WAS ONE of the originators and once worked for Davis and Lent.

About 20 years ago, he made his first move. Keefer purchased the store from Wendell Lent and, as he put it, "I stood practically on the street corners trying to sell stock."

He then moved into the little building next to Bode's restaurant at the C&O Railroad tracks downtown. That building recently was razed.

At the time Keefer had the young Cook boy working for him after school. After a stint in the U.S. Marine Corps during the Vietnam War, Cook returned and was made a partner in the business.

As business improved, Cook and Keefer moved to a store site near the post office on Penniman Ave.

With Keefer's alert business mind the Trading Post became the supplier for all athletic equipment used by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and the firm branched out.

"We even sell softball uniforms to communities away up in the state now," Keefer said, "and more and more schools look to us for equipment."

AFTER BEING in the downtown area for a time, expansion of the business necessitated more room and the store next door on Penniman was obtained.

About a year ago the big break came. When the price of square footage got out of reach, the firm had the opportunity to purchase its present building on Ann Arbor Road.

There is little in the way of athletic equipment which cannot be purchased at the Trading Post but, suprisingly, shoes are now in greatest demand.

"Shoes are about one-third of our business now that running has become popular," Keefer explained. "We have tennis shoes, baseball shoes, swim shoes, running shoes, jogging shoes, golf shoes. You name it — we have them."

Hanging on the walls, too, is the latest in baseball and football equipment.

The latest in shoulder pads, made of plastic and padding, the football helmets with water padding and the baseball gloves which look like leather baskets, show the great changes which have come in sports goods.

AS HE SAT in his favorite chair looking over the inventory, Keefer commented that his entire life isn't wrapped up in the business.

He has been flying since 1940 and had a hand in establishing Mettetal Airport at Joy and Lilley in Canton. With Bill Beitner of Beitner's Jewelry Store, they have flown thousands of miles. But eventually, Keefer gets back to the sports goods activity and both he and Cook like to recall that they have outfitted all of the local high school stars for several years.

Rich Hewlett, the star at Plymouth Salem High who now is on the University of Michigan football squad, is a regular visitor and a fit subject for the firm's apparel.

It has been a great climb from the basement of a clothing store to a business which now demands an inventory in excess of $100,000, but the Trading Post has made it.

It is one of the real success stories of someone who has reached his goal in his hometown.

County auditors hold fate of township's sheriff pact

A police contract between Plymouth Township and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department is now on the road to review by the county's auditors.

The fate of the contract rests with the Wayne County Board of Auditors following approval from Sheriff William Lucas and the township's board of trustees Tuesday.

In a letter to the township this week, Lucas said he found the terms of the agreement "acceptable" and is looking forward to providing the service to Plymouth Township.

According to Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert, he expects Lucas to apply "a little pressure" on the auditors so they will expedite the contract's approval despite their preoccupation with Wayne County's budget at this time.

The township trustees unanimously approved the contract in its present form Tuesday but only after Trustee Maurice Breen qualified the approval as "preliminary" at this time. His motion was supported by Trustee Gerald Law.

SO FAR, the contract for 24-hour police protection is expected to cost some $246,400. Township residents voted in a one-mill tax hike last summer to fund this expense in the coming year.

That cost, however, could increase if staffing is increased more than the discussed nine-man personnel because of deputy union demands.

Last summer, the union voted against one-man staffing per car.

Notebaert has estimated a $60,000 increase in the cost of the service if additional officers are needed to meet the union demand.

But at this point, he says the demand is the sheriff's problem. And so far, the sheriff has not said he will change the contract to supply two-man rather than one-man patrol cars.

"The contract does specify one-man cars and he (Lucas) has agreed to it," Notebaert said. "We assume he knows his business."

While Plymouth Township has been negotiating with the sheriff for police service, other proposals have arrived in competition with that plan.

Most recently a Northville police officer has submitted a plan that not only would set up a Plymouth Township police force but could make him the chief of that department. According to Notebaert the plan has some holes in it, however.

Calling for a cost of some $270,000 in the first year, the plan does not include fringe benefits for the tentatively approved staff of nine officers. Notebaert says this cost could increase the cost of employees' salaries by some 30 percent.

Additionally, the proposed cost does not include liability insurance.

Plymouth - Past & Present

Schrader brought pair of buffalo to local firm

By Sam Hudson

(Part III)

Fred Schrader, funeral director in Plymouth from 1904 to 1945, was raised on his father's farm in Canton Township. It was there that he came to love the soil.

After he became a successful business man, he bought an 80-acre farm located on both sides of North Territorial Road, west of Curtiss.

He never lived on the farm, but he liked to work it. His son, Bud, recalls many mornings when he and Fred were at the farm at 5 a.m. eager to tackle the day's chores.

FRED LIKED TO attract attention to what he was doing, and it was that trait that led him to buy a pair of buffaloes. Bud remembers the day, in the early 1930s, when the two animals arrived in crates at the local freight station.

Fred immediately named them John and Myrtle. Later, he was to have as many as four of the big, shaggy beasts whose beef is said to be nearly equal to that of domestic cattle.

But Schrader didn't buy the bison for their meat. He wanted them as attention-getters, and he succeeded in his goal. Local and Detroit newspapers carried several stories about the unusual farm stock. The Detroit Free Press, on Aug. 12, 1934, had an article about them in which the farm was referred to as Schrader's "buffalo ranch."

Fred was pleased when motorists would stop at the farm fence to gaze at the animals. He would often regale the visitors with a ready stock of stories about the bison. Bud was never sure, but he always thought that most of the stories were made up on the spot.

Fred still owned buffalo until the time of his death. But in 1940, he donated one of the animals for use at a Lincoln Day dinner at the Mayflower Hotel. The menu bore a photo of Schrader and "John the Buffalo." The animal was butchered to make buffalo stew.

When Fred Schrader died in 1945, Bud sold the remaining buffalo to Dave Galen, a local butcher. Galen welcomed the opportunity to acquire bison steaks. Beef was rationed at the time, but buffalo meat was not.

Fred's wife, Maude, lived until 1964. Bud Schrader, who was in military service when his father died, returned to take over the family business.

BUD (EDWIN A.) was born in Plymouth in 1910 at the family residence at 127 S. Main. His twin sisters, Gladys and Evelyn, once local residents, now live in Florida.

A 1927 graduate of Plymouth High School, Bud received his BA degree from the University of Michigan in 1931. He and Myrilla Savery of Salem Township were married in 1941. Their son, Edwin Jr., is now a member of the Schrader firm.

Bud remembers the corner of Main and Penniman Avenue as it was when he was a boy. Across Main Street from the Schrader Funeral Home was the turn-around for the trolley that ran east on Main on its way to Northville.

At the northwest corner of Main was Conner's Hardware store. Adjoining it was Smitty's Lunch Room, followed by Draper's jewelry store. The Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. had an office where part of the funeral home now stands. The bandstand was a prominent fixture in the northeast corner of Kellogg Park.

In 1965, a new wing was added to the building. In 1969, the West Chapel was added. That was also the year when Schraders discontinued the ambulance service which had become increasingly difficult to staff.

In 1978, a brick building at the corner of Main and Fralick, which the Schraders had acquired in 1930, was razed to make way for further expansion. Those familiar with the old brick building will remember that one of its many tenants in the 1950s was a retailer of auto supplies with the unforgettable name of Boyer's Haunted Shack.

During the 1978 expansion, Schraders tripled the size of the Main Chapel, expanded the entry way, added a covered carriage entrance and created additional parking space.

LIKE HIS father, Bud Schrader has been active in local business and civic affairs.

He is a member of Hi-12 and the Masonic Lodge and is a past trustee of the Presbyterian Church. He joined the Kiwanis Club in 1931 and was president in 1934. Save for Ernie Allison, Schrader is the ranking member of the club in terms of tenure.

Bud, now 69, is chairman of the board of Schraders, which was incorporated in 1965. His son Win (Edwin Jr.), who joined the company in 1971, is president.

Win, born in Plymouth in 1944, has bachelor and masters degrees in business administration from the University of Michigan, and a degree in mortuary science from Wayne State University.

Win is married to Susan Collins of Mount Vernon, Ill. Following in his grandfather Fred's footsteps, Win became a member of the Plymouth Rotary Club in 1973.

Career help will be available

Juniors and seniors at Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools are being given the chance to participate in a special career guidance and educational program.

The ACT Career Planning Program will be available to upperclassmen at 8 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 12 at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park.

The program is designed to help young adults make better decisions about educational and career plans.

Diane Pomish and Don Chumbley, counselors at Salem and Canton high schools, point out that national studies reflect that 11th grade students rank "help with career planning" as their most important need.

"Yet in many school settings this need currently is not being addressed," says Ms. Pomish. "It is in response to this need that our high schools instituted the opportunity to participate in the career planning program."

Participating students will complete a career test which measures the students' career related interests, experiences, abilities and plans.

That information then is developed into a report for each student to help them relate this information. That information then is developed into a report for each student to help them relate this information about themselves to career options and to the world of work, explains Chumbley.

The reports will be reviewed with students in groups. Individual counseling sessions will follow the administration of the program.

Mainstreaming will be topic

Legal requirements for mainstreaming is the topic selected by an expert on federal laws on special education who will be speaking in Plymouth Dec. 3.

Fred Weintraub, assistant executive director for governmental relations for the Council for Exceptional Children, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 3, in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School.

The topic of his speech will be, "Least Restrictive Environment/Mainstreaming - Are They the Same?"

Mainstreaming is the practice of transferring handicapped children from special education classrooms into general classrooms.

The phrase "least restrictive environment" is the standard imposed in federal regulations concerning how handicapped students should be placed in public schools.

Although parents are particularly encouraged to attend, the meeting is open to all persons interested in special education.

Because space is limited, reservations should be made with pupil personnel services at 1024 S. Mill, Plymouth 48170.

In the pocket/W.W. Edgar

The 800 barrier finally was broken in the western suburbs on Monday night when Bob Jawor, one of the area's all star bowlers, posted an 821 series to move to the top of the high scoring list for the winter season.

He found the range while bowling in the Classic at Cherry Hill Lanes and out together games of 243, 278 and 300. It was the highest series bowled in the metropolitan area since the season opened. The real leader for the year is Roger Bowker who registered an 824 at Sunnybrook Lanes, but that was in a summer league.

WHILE JAWOR was rolling his way into the season's record book there was plenty of high scoring in other areas. For instance, three bowlers broke the 700 barrier at Westland and another came in the Kroger League at Woodland Lanes.

Jay Dishong showed the way in the Little Caesar classic at Westland with a 723 made possible by games of 232, 249 and 244. He needed those big games to beat Bob Goike who turned in counts of 224, 266 and 214 for 704. Bob Edwards broke the barrier in the Monday men's league when a 701. He opened with two games of 246, but slipped to a 209 in the final.

At Woodland Art Collins was the barrier breaker with a 258 games between counts of 227 and 220 for 705.

WHILE THE HIGH scoring was going on all around him, John Hurley, who has been making a habit of 700 series had to be content with a 667 that included a 245 opener.

While Hurley was forced to take second place, Bill Kupran landed third with a 663. In the coffee and donuts league, Elaine Palnour took the spotlight when she converted the 7-10 split.

Meanwhile Marge Kropacek was celebrating, too. She paced the women in the Little Caesar Classic with games of 222 and 209 for 625.

ONE OF THE MOST exciting finishes of the year marked the final of the Mid-City Women's Open last Sunday when Jan Smith beat out Cheryl Daniels, one of the young stars, by a single pin in the final when she posted a 212.

Cheryl came right back Monday night and set the pace for the Bowlerettes with a 229 high single. But the top honors went to Penny Behn and her Bonanza team that rolled games of 1008, 1008 and 1007 for 3023.

ANOTHER OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCE was turned in by 14-year-old Gary Bechard at Mayflower Lanes. In the Saturday morning junior league he put together games of 193, 149 and 289 for 641. The 289 is high for the season among the juniors.

ROSE APRAHANIAN took top honors in the Merri-Bowl doubles with 582. Polly Cole landed in the runnerup spot with 569.

Meanwhile in the Devonaire loop, Dolly Forystek had a 254 opener for a 608. In the Saturday youth league Jim Cameron, a 106 average bowler, posted a 203. In the major division Doug Mikila was high with 635.

In another division, Mark Lidke fashioned a 234 in 575. And in the top section Kevin Reetz had a 639 on games of 201, 224 and 214.

Among the senior citizens, Gil Blondin was top man with games of 225 and 190 in 545. Howard Kraft was next with a 230 in 490. In the Handicappers circuit, Roger Drake was tops with 280 in 647.

LOIS MERRIMAN showed the way in the Livonia Ladies Classic when she won the middle game with 234-32-256 and then took the series with 547-96-670. In the other games Teresa Derus won the opener with 192-28-220 and Dot Fulton took the third with 208-28-236.

AT FARMINGTON LANES, Dave Hamilton continued his high scoring by pacing the high school loop with a 257 in 632. Keith Guertin was next with 225 in 605 and Barry Van Dike had a 601.

On the girls side Linda Hamlin set the pace with a 206 in 531.

The men's junior house furnished one of the closest finishes of the entire season when only 16 pins separated the top four. Kevin Holmstrom set the pace with a 667. Rudy Pearson was next with 665 where he tied with Tim Smith. John Lapham landed fourth with 651. They don't come any closer than that.

Meanwhile Mary Lou Ruzzin became Star of the Week with a 255-51-306 game.

IN OTHER GOOD PERFORMANCES Mike Lewis had a 234 in 588 at Plaza Lanes. Don Smith was tops in the men's loop with a 241 in 643. At Super Bowl, Linda Uherek was high in the Eye Openers league with 587. Ken Marelich had 11 strikes in a 279 for 695 at Woodland Lanes. And Bill Gilbo was high at Garden Lanes with 644.

Summer ends for park patrol; riders, horses may not be back

By TOM LONERGAN

Liberty and Danny will definitely miss Hines Park.

Regulars for the past two months, they liked the grass, dropped in on a picnic or two and even tolerated an occasional firecracker thrown their way.

But as the "Closed for Winter" signs went up recently on comfort stations throughout the 17-mile winding Middle Rouge Parkway, they knew their days in the park were numbered.

In fact, they might not be back. Dawn LaLonde, of Westland, who has known Liberty since she was 5½ months old, can attest to her friend's affection for Hines Park.

"It's a great place for horses," Ms. LaLonde said. "Fantastic."

MS. LALONDE and Mary Healy of Brownstown Township rode atop Liberty and Danny the past two months as members of the Wayne County Sheriff's Hines Park Mounted Patrol.

The sheriff's department believes they're the only women mounted patrol officers in the state.

That distinction could be short-lived. Because of the county's massive deficit, the five-person mounted patrol, which began in late August, may fall victim next year to the county's massive service cutbacks.

The county board of auditors has not included the mounted patrol or the Hines Park Mini-Station in next year's budget. If the county board of commissioners decides against funding the mounted patrol, it may be disbanded.

Last month, Ms. LaLonde and Ms. Healy became the first women mounted patrol officers not to receive checks on their scheduled Oct. 26 payday, a distinction they would rather forget. (They were paid a week later.)

"We're still just struggling along,"

Ms. Healy said last week. Like all sheriff's deputies, she and Ms. LaLonde received layoff notices, effective Nov. 18. But their boss, Sheriff William Lucas, has said he's not laying off any deputy.

IN THE MEANTIME, the two women patrol the park Wednesdays through Sundays during the 9 to 5 shift.

They and 50 men applied for the mounted patrol when it was formed last June. They met two of the most pertinent requirements — size and knowledge of horses.

Ms. Healy, 27, had worked a desk job with the Patrol and Investigation Division while Ms. LaLonde, 25, was on jail security detail at the jail annex in Westland.

Many of the department's women deputies work at the jail, said Ms. LaLonde, because most have been hired in the past three years and have low seniority.

Horses have been Ms. Healy's hobby. Ms. LaLonde brought the 4½-year-old Liberty into the mounted patrol with her. All 11 patrol horses, plus feed and riding equipment were donated.

EXCEPT FOR a disturbance in May, Hines Park was relatively quiet this summer. Shortly after the May incident, the mini-station was opened and the mounted patrol formed.

"The deputies are all over," said Ms. LaLonde. "We have really beefed up our patrol down here."

More than half of the 63 arrests the mounted patrol made from late August through September were narcotics-related, primarily use of marijuana.

Horses are an asset for those types of arrests, because they provide "fantastic mobility," Ms. LaLonde said. "The kids are looking where the cars are."

At times, deputies can get to an area faster on horses than in a squad car, says Hines Patrol commander, Lt. Thomas Harrett. "The horses come very quietly out of the woods," he said. "The people in the park who use marijuana seem surprised to see someone on horseback — especially a girl."

HARRETT SAID that during October park arrests "slowed down to almost nothing," as the weather grew colder and daylight shorter.

"A lot of people thought the (mounted) unit was nothing but PR (public relations)," said Harrett. "If they get any PR, it's out of the work they do."

Both women officers agree the job is part public relations. The horses were popular at weekend family picnics and group gatherings where, Ms. LaLonde said, "we made it a point to spend a little bit of time. The kids just love it."

The horses "take" from park visitors includes apples, carrots and other snacks, "but nobody offers us anything," adds Ms. Healy.

The mounted unit officers train during the week with the Detroit Police Mounted Division.

BEFORE THE sheriff's mounted patrol started in August, the five officers went through 184 hours of training, primarily riot control.

"We've never had to use riot control," said Ms. Healy, "but we're ready."

The horses were trained to maneuver through crowds to disperse them. The deputies learned to keep a horse under control in the midst of firecrackers, smokebombs and blanks.

"We throw firecrackers at ourselves," said Ms. LaLonde.

"You build up a stress in a horse to tolerate this," added Ms. Healy, "and you have to keep it up."

At state hearing

WSU official calls for higher learning support

By TOM LONERGAN

Lack of a statewide policy on higher education funding in Michigan has led to an "absent minded slide into mediocrity."

That was Wayne State University President Thomas Bonner's message this week to a state Senate higher education subcommittee.

The committee, chaired by Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, held a hearing on the Wayne campus Monday. The panel was formed in April to study declining college enrollments and Michian's relatively shrinking support of higher education.

BONNER CALLED for a state policy recognizing higher education as an investment which produces social and economic returns for the state.

"Since 1967," he said, "Michigan's national ranking has fallen from 19th to 35th among the states in support for higher education based on the levels of statewide personal income."

Higher education's share of the state general fund has dropped from nearly 22 percent in 1967-68 to 16 percent last year.

The drop in state support, according to the state Senate Fiscal Agency, has forced tuition increases that have pinched students from middle income families. These families usually exceed the income guidelines for federal tuition aid.

THE DECLINE in state support, he said, has not been due to "a direct or deliberate policy decision" by state leaders.

But he added "there is no existing mechanism in this state for evaluating the higher education system as a whole, for finding solutions to statewide problems or for higher education planning.

"It is important that there be a mechanism at the state level to aid in the planning and promotion of our higher education system on a statewide basis."

Bonner said the last 15 years "have witnessed a tremendous growth in state programs and services which are competing for the state's attention."

These programs — which Bonner said have a "high political yield" — include welfare, mental health, jails and the courts. They have been "more insistent, demanding, emotional" and are backed by federal aid, the WSU president said.

THE TAX limitation amendment, which was passed by voters last year and places a cap on state spending, is a "suffocating force in the development of things important in this state," Bonner said.

The so-called Headlee Amendment leaves higher education "unprotected and vulnerable to cuts," he added.

Wayne State's tuition, which has outpaced inflation, "is simply too high," said Bonner, who has proposed a tuition cut of 10 percent effective next fall.

The urban school's undergraduate tuition ranges from $373 a quarter for a freshman taking 12 credits to $446.50 a quarter for a junior or senior taking 14 credits. Graduate tuition ranges from $493 to $547.50 a quarter.

The state's lack of support for higher education, placing an increasing financial burden on the student, could make the state's declining enrollment projections for the 1980s a "self-fulfilling prophecy," Bonner said.

HE CITED studies to show that for every $100 increase in tuition, a college loses 3 percent of its enrollment. Wayne's tuition, which Bonner said has jumped $100 a year in recent years, "exceeds neighboring public universities."

"If tuition continues to be forced into an upward spiral," Bonner said, "the opportunities for access to higher education will be proportionately restricted. We are in effect implementing a freeze on social mobility, for the people who will be most affected will be precisely those groups who are now in the process of social change."

"Women, minorities and other non-traditional students will be most affected."

The state estimates Wayne, with a current full-time enrollment of 34,337, could lose 8,000 students during the next decade, a figure Bonner disputes. The estimate was made by the state Department of Management and Budget.

Bonner says the estimate is based on students aged 18-22, and doesn't include older groups. Half of Wayne's enrollment is 25 years or over, he said.

are adjusted to fit the state's fiscal year. Actual enrollments which colleges report for their academic years may be higher.

"I wonder if the projections are based on the rigor of research or the feasibility of future cost savings or cost avoidance," said David Murphy of the state Senate Fiscal Agency.

"We don't concur with the Department of Management and Budget," said Murphy, who called the enrollment estimates "probably unrealistic."

Murphy agreed with Bonner that the estimates don't account for a changing, older student population. More older people are going to college, as are women and minorities, Murphy said.

Reduction in family size may increase the number of high school graduates attending college, because it will be less of a financial burden on a lower-income family, he said.

Murphy said the state should be cautious in reducing state money for higher education because of enrollment declines.

"The rate won't be as fast or as significant as the Department of Management and Budget suggests."

McClendon honored by Wayne cancer unit

Dr. E.J. McClendon of Plymouth has been granted an honorary life membership in the Wayne County Unit of the American Cancer Society. An honorary life membership is the highest honor the unit can confer. McClendon was selected by a unanimous vote of the unit's board of directors.

McClendon has served as a Cancer Society volunteer in Michigan for almost 20 years. He has served on the former Southeastern Michigan Division board of directors, on the Michigan Division board of directors and executive committee, and on the national public education committee for more than 10 years.

He has been a regularly-elected member of the Wayne County United Board since it was organized some 15 years ago. He served as its chairman in 1977 and 1978.

In 1964 McClendon received the Cancer Society's award of merit. He earned the distinguished chairman award in 1978.

A professor of public health at the University of Michigan, McClendon holds an appointment as chairman of health education in the school of education, and professor of health behavior and health education in the school of public health.

Buying home is best investment

Editor:

Now that the smoke has cleared over Tim Richard's article of Oct. 11, 1979 in which he "contradicted the Realtors," and shrewdly advised that the public "save and invest," I would like to interject a few thoughts of my own on the subject.

First, Mr. Richard was correct in observing that the market has softened somewhat. If he thought the 12.5 percent interest rate was bad, he should have waited awhile; rates now in some areas exceed 14 percent (and are still climbing).

Mr. Richard also was correct when he noted that real estate salespeople work on a commission-only basis. They make their money only when a real estate transaction is consummated. The time, effort, and money real estate salespeople expend in marketing and showing their clients homes produces no income if that particular property does not sell. Mr. Richard was correct on all these points.

He did misrepresent a few facts however, and it is important that these be clarified so as to not mislead the public. First, contrary to Mr. Richard's opinion, real estate people do not control the market. If they are professionals in their industry, they can interpret the market but they cannot control it.

Second, Mr. Richard advised that potential buyers remain in their apartments and mobile homes to avoid the high cost of being a homeowner, and "save and invest" the patriotic American way.

Consider the following: Renting a two bedroom apartment in Sterling Heights or Livonia at $400 per month, compared to purchasing a three-bedroom ranch with an attached garage, family room, and fireplace at $650 per month which includes principle, interest, and taxes of $100 (assuming 11.5 percent VA or FHA). I am assuming a typical $60,000 ranch, purchased with a FHA or VA loan, with the buyer investing $5,000. That is less than 10 percent down versus the 20 percent down payment Mr. Richard cited. According to Mr. Richard, the apartment would be a better financial situation to be involved in. Right?

Consider this: $400 per month amounts to $4,800 per year rental; that's $4,800 of spent income without any savings or investment. On the other hand, the $650 per month for the ranch amounts to $7,800 per year; of which $1,200 was for taxes and $6,325 was for interest (based on the first year of the mortgage); that's $7,525 paid in taxes and interest which is deductible.

And what does that mean? If husband and wife made $20,000 and rented an apartment, after all allowed deductions he would pay approximately $3,480 in federal income taxes (assuming no deductions). If that same couple owned the ranch, they could deduct the additional $7,525 and would pay approximately $1,690 in federal income taxes (again assuming no deductions).

That's a savings of $1,690 in federal income taxes (again assuming no deductions). That's a savings of $1,690 per year. Or to express it another way, the effective interest rate on a $55,000 mortgage, after the tax break is figured in, is not 11.5 percent but rather 7.6 percent.

Also, at a modest appreciation rate of 10 percent — and believe me in today's market and in many of the local areas that is a modest appreciation rate — the ranch costing $60,000 today will be worth $66,000 next year, $72,600 the year after that, and so on.

Mr. Richard was correct when he said that to fight inflation every good American should "save and invest," but $4,800 in rent is hardly a good investment.

As an active realtor, I spend a great amount of my time counseling people to do just as Mr. Richard says, to "save and invest." The family that buys the home they cannot afford helps no one, not themselves, and certainly not the real estate profession. Buying a home, in any market, is a major step for most people and it should not be entered into lightly. But renting is not saving and it is not investing.

The Chamberlain Companies have been holding a series of real estate information seminars throughout Oakland, Wayne, and Macomb Counties to allow the public a better understanding of the real estate profession. I am extending an open invitation to anyone to attend one of our seminars to learn how a professional of real estate counsels people to save and invest.

DAVID P. HALL, B. F. Chamberlain Real Estate Co.

CMU campus a county melting pot

More than one quarter of Central Michigan University's student body comes from Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties, figures from CMU Registrar's Office reveal.

But, in keeping with recent years, CMU continues to draw students from each of Michigan's 83 counties.

The University also continues to be a largely all-Michigan institution, with 97.8 percent of its students calling Michigan their native state.

Oakland County, with 1,949 students at CMU, leads all other counties as home base for CMU students this fall.

Park's $500,000 plan fails many residents

What would you do with $500,000?

The Canton Recreation Advisory Committee wants the township board to spend that amount over a three- or four-year period on the development of Flodin Park on Saltz west of Lilley.

The committee's plan calls for construction of tennis courts, basketball courts, soccer fields, baseball diamonds, a physical fitness course, a child's play area and a picnic ground on the 30-acre site.

The proposal comes at a time when money is tight in Canton Township. Revenues for 1980 are expected to fall approximately $400,000 short of this year's general fund.

Expenditures for recreation are a relative luxury when various department heads have asked for additional personnel they need to carry out township business, only to be told that there is no money to fund the salaries.

A broad base of Canton's population deserves a slice of that "luxury" if the attitude of some township board members that "people don't live by bread alone" prevails.

TODAY, ONLY a minority of Canton's population is served by the township recreation program, although every taxpayer helps foot the bill.

The young recreation department cannot be blamed, especially when Griffin Park represents the only developed facility.

Beginning recreation programs are often geared to the "visible" residents — those who join organized softball, soccer and other leagues.

But government too often forgets that many residents lack the interest or time to participate in organized sports when they are spearheading a new recreational program.

Everyone deserves the right for a return on their recreational tax dollar, particularly at a time when money is tight and priorities must be established.

UNFORTUNATELY, the Flodin Park master plan does little to broaden Canton's recreational base. It would serve residents who are already served by softball, soccer and tennis facilities at Griffin Park and area high schools.

More of those kind of facilities are needed in Canton Township.

But taxpayers who enjoy other forms of leisure-time activities should get some piece of the recreational pie before the organized leagues get a second helping.

The half-mile physical fitness course that is shown on the park plan should be applauded. Jogging trails and adult exercise equipment are not located elsewhere in Canton Township.

CURRENT AVAILABILITY should be the criteria for establishing recreational priorities.

And $500,000 — almost a quarter of the cost of Canton's new administration building — could go a long way toward providing alternative recreational activities.

Recreation superintendent Mike Gouin says his department has considered the need for other types of facilities, including a municipal pool and bicycle trails, in Canton Township.

But he says the organized leagues have an immediate need for more playing areas.

We disagree with that priority.

Some of the best bicycle trails in the region traverse Canton Township along I-275 right now, for example. They lead to other bike trails in Hines Park which go from Westland to Northville.

But Canton bikers must ride on the shoulder of either Ford Road or Michigan Avenue to gain access to the I-275 trails. Bicycle riding on major thoroughfares creates hazards for bikers and motorists alike.

Bike trails do not have to be wide, elaborate paths made of concrete. They can be extensions of sidewalks, marked-off areas of road shoulders of the thin ribbon-type variety that traverse the campus of Michigan State University.

Gouin would like to see a beginning ski slope and toboggan run constructed in the hilly, northwest corner of Canton someday. Why not use $500,000 to purchase that land before building more play areas for the organized leagues?

Countless residents would undoubtedly flock to a municipal pool, if there were one.

Pools aren't cheap, and neither is the cost of running a swimming program.

But an outdoor pool could be built for a minimum $300,000, according to Gouin's estimates. Nominal admission fees could offset a part of the cost of running the program.

THAT'S NOT TO SAY that the $500,000 plan for Flodin Park is a bad one.

But priorities that will benefit a wide range of residents should be established before a commitment is made for that sum of money.

The Flodin Park site may be best suited for organized league activities. But the master plan for the park will not go bad with age.

Our grotesque capital picture

America has a capital shortage. One result is that capital is politically in the driver's seat. Other results are low productivity and unemployment.

It wasn't supposed to be that way, according to the economists of the 1930s to the 1970s. A high income nation was in danger of saving too much, of allowing money to stagnate. The economics of the New Deal, Fair Deal, New Frontier and Great Society were aimed at stimulating consumer demand. No one worried about capital. Capital was supposed to take care of itself, and besides, there were no votes in taking care of capital.

HAVE YOU been watching the full page ads from the thrift institutions — savings and loans, the life insurance companies? They're spelling out the sad story:

Since 1970, Americans have become spendthrifts, and the rate of personal saving was dropped from 7.4 percent to 5.2 percent of after-tax income.

Meanwhile, the Japanese are saving 20 percent or more of their incomes. In western Europe, folks are saving 13 to 17 percent of their disposable incomes.

THE "BUY NOW" philosophy is running rampant. As one of the speakers at a recent Oakland Community College conference observed, we are witnessing "the near collapse of restraint in most elements of society."

By "buying now before the price goes up," Americans are assuring prices will continue to rise, on one hand. On the other, by spending and borrowing and mortgaging, they are diverting funds away from the factories and equipment we need to improve productivity, to create jobs, to compete with foreign products.

As our price indexes inflate, our gross national product figures actually decline. More dollars are chasing not a growing pie or a stagnant pie but a shrinking pie.

CAPITAL IS mobile.

It can move to Europe or South Africa. It can move to Arkansas or Ohio or Indiana.

Capital is scarce. Nations, states and communities are bidding for it.

Michigan and our own metropolitan cities and townships are getting into the act. This bidding for capital bothers a lot of liberals, who don't like to see government doing things for "rich" folks. It bothers conservatives, too, because it means tinkering with the free market.

But tinkering is the name of the game.

CONSIDER THIS outline provided last month by Gov. William G. Milliken:

"Four state laws have been passed to provide municipalities with the tools needed to encourage economic development. They are the Downtown Development Act, the Commercial Rehabilitation Act, the Plant Rehabilitation and Industrial Development Act and the Economic Development Corporation Act.

"One of these, the Plant Rehabilitation and Industrial Development Act, has resulted in the creation or retention of more than 130,000 jobs in Michigan.

"In 1978, Michigan revised its laws to encourage the establishment of port authorities to stimulate trade. Michigan will pay 50 percent of the annual operating costs for port authorities.

"Recent legislation has been passed creating a Michigan Business Development Corporation to provide much needed venture capital to new businesses. When fully operational, the new corporation will have $50 million available to stimulate Michigan business," said the governor.

On top of that, we have the annual battle over the city of Pontiac's Silverdome Stadium subsidy (most folks think William Clay Ford pockets the $800,000), the inducements offered the Republicans to bring their national convention here, the inducements to bring the pro football Super Bowl game here, Chrysler and "Super Sewer."

IT'S GROTESQUE, when you think about it, to see governments inspecting, regulating and suing the daylights out of business, and then manipulating all sorts of tax and lending laws.

It's grotesque, too, to see citizens making the matter worse by heeding the siren song of "buy now before the price goes up" and then suffering from the shortage of investment.

'Step aside, Little Fella!'

Carter fumbles Chrysler

Sitting here on Main Street, Midwest America, a person gets to see how confused the public is over the conflicting initiatives of President Jimmy Carter.

At first excusable, then funny, then silly, and finally aggravating, Carter's indecision threatens the economic well-being of this metropolitan area.

The latest contradiction comes from administration cheerleader Alfred Kahn, Carter's inflation adviser.

KAHN IS UPSET over the three-year contract settlement between the UAW and Chrysler. Not enough sacrifice, he says. Consequently, he threatens to delay $1.5 billion worth of government loan guarantees for the cash-dry automaker if it doesn't reduce wage increases agreed to in the contract.

Chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, Kahn wants Chrysler to stick with a 22.5 percent wage increase cap for workers over the next three years. Under present contract stipulations, workers will get 30 percent.

This pronouncement comes just days after Treasury Secretary G. William Miller gave the contract settlement the official administration blessing — at least what America presumed was official.

LOCAL CONGRESSMEN, working hard to see that Chrysler doesn't go down the tube, are understandably peeved.

U.S. Rep. William Brodhead, D-Detroit, calls Kahn's remarks a "stab in the back."

UAW President Doug Fraser thinks Kahn is full of baloney. He says Kahn has either never read the contract or doesn't understand it if he has read it.

EXAMINING THE FACTS, you've got to go with Fraser on this one. Chrysler workers have made substantial sacrifices, as they should to keep the company in business.

In October the UAW loaned Chrysler $200 million by allowing the automaker to skip payments to the pension fund for 1979-80.

Approximately $59 million in wages will be saved by delaying the date of the annual 3 percent increase for six months in the first year, four months in the second and two months in the third year.

Another $30 million will be saved by an agreement which lets Chrysler pay the $1.37 per hour cost of living adjustment quarterly, rather than weekly. This amounts to an interest-free loan.

Chrysler workers will go without paid personal holidays until 1981, saving another $72 million.

Sickness and accident pay will be granted only after a worker has taken four unpaid sick days. This saves $23 million.

Finally, $49 million will be saved from below-normal increases in pension benefits. That's $433 million, folks.

OBVIOUSLY, KAHN has little understanding of what a Chrysler shutdown at this time would do to metropolitan Detroit. Both economically and psychologically it would be devastating to an area which is just now getting back on its feet.

In all likelihood, Chrysler is headed eventually the way of Packard. But it would be far wiser to ease it out of the market rather than dump it.

Instead, Kahn would rather play political hardball — or try to, anyway.

You see, Kahn's remarks are politically suspect. Last week presidential hopeful Ted Kennedy lambasted Carter for being soft on companies violating government wage guidelines. Most notable are Ford and General Motors which have received slap-on-the-wrist notices from Kahn.

Suddenly, Carter, through Kahn, gets tough. Sorry, Mr. President, we in the Midwest don't wish to be victim to your misguided political antics. We know how tough you are really.

Is anyone reading it?

From the very beginning the columnist has problems. First, when you see him sitting at his typewriter and staring off into space, he is searching for an idea.

Once he gets an idea he can go to work. Then his job is like tossing a stone into the lake and watching to see how far the ripples go.

And then there comes the day when ripple comes to dead stop. Some concerned reader doesn't agree with the columnist's opinion.

In cases like this, the reader often sits down and writes a letter telling the columnist just what he or she thinks. And that's just fine with the columnist.

That's why letters are so welcome.

Along with the good days there are bad ones. These come when the columnist, looking at his work in the finished product, just rubs his chin and whispers to himself, "just think, some housewife will be wrapping her garbage in it tomorrow."

And that's why a letter, complimentary or otherwise, is always welcome.

Congratulations are in order

Editor:

I just returned from an assembly held at Field Elementary School. The children were honoring the participants in the recently held Read-A-Thon for Unicef.

More than 36,000 minutes were registered by the students of the school.

It sure was a wonderful feeling to be present and experience just what the children can do for other people.

Luan Brownlee, the reading specialist, did an excellent job of coordinating the children. I was glad to be part of this unique program.

Congratulations students, teachers and parents of Field Elementary School!

Column race in home stretch

It's almost official — the great column-writing race is about to hit the finish line.

You may recall that back in late September the call went out in this space for would-be columnists from among our readers.

The response was immediate.

Now, I'll be honest, I expected that. What I never really anticipated was the volume.

You see the requirements for getting into this competition were tough by any standards. Each hopeful was asked to submit three sample columns of the type he/she would like to write weekly.

That's a lot of thinking and that's a lot of writing.

AT THE OFFSET, I figured we'd end up with 20 or 25 bona fide entries to judge. That many arrived the first week, and they kept coming and coming.

The quality was from almost hopeless to excellent. Erma Bombeck has made a great impression on a lot of suburban women.

But there was much more in the way of content. And in the way of contestants.

When the deluge finally came to a halt, some six weeks later, I had logged 112 entries.

EVALUATIONS BEGAN shortly after and finally completed — almost — this week.

We are now down to the finalists' circle. The winners will be announced next week.

I am sorry that it has taken so long.

You 112 reader/hopefuls have been most patient.

Check back Thanksgiving week for the list of winners.

'What problem?'

A nearly fictional look at county board

Editor's note: People who know the Wayne County Board of Commissioners say this column magnificently reproduces the tone of board behavior. The column appeared Oct. 30 in the South End, the student newspaper of Wayne State University, and is reprinted with permission of the editor.

By STEVE GULVEZAN

Following is an actual fictionalized recreation of a Wayne County Board of Commissioners meeting:

CHAIRMAN: Order, order please! The Chair recognizes Mr. A.

MR. A.: Of course you recognize me, stupid. You've know me for 20 years.

(General confusion ensues.)

CHAIRMAN: Order, dammit! If you fools don't stop acting like a bunch of hysterical babies, I swear, I'm going to scream.

MR. A.: Oh, shut up, stupid. We've got to decide what we're going to do about the problem.

CHAIRMAN: What problem?

MR. A.: You know, the county's run out of money. We're broke.

CHAIRMAN: Oh, that problem.

MR. B.: Don't we hvae anything important to talk about?

MR. A.: This is important.

MR. B.: We still get paid, don't we?

MR. A.: Well...

CHAIRMAN: OK, so we're broke. What does this mean in real terms?

MR. C.: It means that the county employees won't get paid.

CHAIRMAN: Does anyone have any solutions to this problem?

MR. B.: Let them eat cake!

MR. D.: What kind of cake?

MR. B.: That's open to debate. May I suggest angelfood?

MR. A.: You guys are insane!

MR. D.: I prefer devilsfood.

MR. E.: What about donuts?

MR. F.: Twinkies!

MR. A.: Nuts. You're all nuts!

CHAIRMAN: Order, order. The Chair rejects this suggestion. Are there any others?

MR. B.: Screw you, Chair.

(General confusion ensues.)

CHAIRMAN: Order, order! Now, who has a good idea?

MR. A.: I suggest that we lay everybody off.

MR. C.: Yeah, that's a good idea. Get rid of them all. They're jut a drag on us, anyway.

MR. D.: It would only be temporary, until the new financial year begins.

MR. B.: Who, you morons, do you suggest we get to do all the work while the employees are laid off?

MR. A.: Scabs.

MR. C.: Robots.

MR. D.: What work?

CHAIRMAN: Well, this is a credible solution. We will entertain it more fully later on. Does anyone else have any other solutions?

MR.B.: Why don't we pay them with scrip that they can either redeem at a bank immediately, at a loss, or cash in later on for real money?

MR. D.: What's scrip?

MR. A.: Phoney money.

MR. C.: Confetti.

MR. E.: I think it's the name of a compay that makes fountain pens.

CHAIRMAN: Looking to the future, I don't see why we have to pay them in scrip. I mean, that's almost like real money.

MR. A.: I see what you mean. If we start paying them with money or almost-money, why, next year at this time, we'll be back in the same old mess. I suggest we pay them with something more solid like job security. We'll tell them that if they work for us now, for nothing, we'll like them a whole lot, and someday, when we've saved up lots of money, we might even consider giving them a real job for real pay.

MR. C.: Great idea!

MR. B.: Balderdash!

MR. C.: I still like the Twinkies solution.

MR. B.: You're crazy!

You can't reduce 'spots'

QUESTION: Is it possible to "spot" reduce body fat stores in a particular area by exercising that localized area (e.g. hips, buttocks)?

Spot reduction programs and exercise devices constitute a multi-million dollar industry as a result of our increased awareness of the aesthetic and health consequences of obesity.

Spot reducing has been widely promoted by some health clubs which promise to "take inches off your waist or thighs or buttocks without dieting, with regular exercise in just minutes a day."

Unfortunately, the primary reduction often occurs in the exerciser's billfold.

THE CONCEPT of spot reduction rests on the widely held belief that if you exercise a specific body area, the fat in that area will be utilized and reduced.

Dr. Grant Gwinup and co-workers in 1971 subjected the concept to critical evaluation by comparing the circumference and subcutaneous fat of the right and left arms of accomplished tennis players.

While the circumferences were substantially greater in the playing or active arm due to greater muscular development, there were no differences in the fat deposits over the arms, as assessed by laboratory skinfold measurements.

Barry Franklin

Thus, the greater amount of exercise in the playing arm was not accompanied by reduced fat deposits over that arm.

THERE IS PRESENTLY no scientific evidence that local fat deposits move into the exercising muscle from its overlying fat pad.

Instead, it appears that fatty acids form fat deposits throughout the body (perhaps in the areas of greatest concentration) and are mobilized to supply the needed energy reserves.

The apparent effectiveness of spot reduction in some instances may be due to two other phenomena — namely, strengthening and repositioning of the muscles or activity-induced mobilization of fat from over the entire body, including a particular "spot" area.

Snails in legend and on the plate

"In Egyptian hieroglyphics, the snail is associated with the action of microcosmic spiral upon matter. Modern scientific research in morphology tends to verify this intuition, not only in this particular case, but also in all cases where the spiral scheme appears in nature."

Cirlot's "Dictionary of Symbols"

A few weeks ago, while visiting Chinatown in New York, my friends and I stopped into a little restaurant that served snails, mandarin style.

Completely unfamiliar with this dish, I ordered it out of curiosity, and was pleasantly surprised to find that the snails were the best I had ever eaten.

They are much smaller than the variety we usually see. Instead of being served six or eight snails, as you are when you order escargot in a French restaurant, I was given a huge serving bowl of steaming snails in a fantastic garlic and ginger sauce.

Never have I enjoyed a meal more than that one.

THINKING ABOUT IT later, I recalled some of the old superstitions about snails.

It is said that if a maiden finds a snail with a shell in the month of May, she will marry a man with a house and a home.

Snails eaten in the fall of the year assure the diner of comfortable lodging for the winter months.

A man whose wife serves him snails once a year is thought to be loyal, and will never wander far from home.

Honor group inducts 63 CEP pupils

Some 63 students have been inducted into membership in the National Honor Society at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

Membership in the society is based upon: scholarship, a minimum 3.0 grade point average; leadership; character; and service.

Members meet once a month for a dinner meeting to discuss the society's current activities.

Among these activities are tutoring students who are having difficulty in academic subjects, planning a Christmas gift drive, and arranging for a muscular dystrophy danceathon to be held at the CEP next spring.

The seniors named below now join the current membership of the NHS of about 100 juniors and seniors.

4 Salem players named to 1st team

Observer All-Area football team strong

By DOUG FUNKE and BRAD EMONS

To say that Observer-area football teams enjoyed a great deal of success this season would be one of the bigger understatements of 1979.

Detroit Catholic Central compiled a 9-0 record during the regular season, triumphed in the Catholic League Prep Bowl and qualified for the Class A state playoffs.

Livonia Stevenson won eight games in succession after a season-opening loss. The Spartans claimed the Inter-Lakes League championship and also qualified for the Class A playoffs.

Redford Union, which won the Northwest Suburban League title, had its best record in years, 8-1. Livonia Churchill reigned as king of the Western Six League and Redford St. Agatha tied for first place in the Catholic League C Division.

Garden City East put together its best season in years, 7-2, and Livonia Bentley, with three victories, won more this fall alone than it did the previous two seasons combined.

Area coaches met recently to select the all-Observer teams. In order to recognize the talent of as many players as possible, those voted to the all-area team were limited to one position if they happened to be two-way performers.

fense), which is the highest grade anyone has achieved for our line coach in 20 years of coaching," said RU's Harvey Heitman.

Pat Moug, Detroit Catholic Central, interior lineman. One of the Shamrocks' tri-captains, Moug was named the best offensive lineman this fall in the Central Division of the Catholic League.

The Shamrocks, a grind-it-out, running-oriented team, gained 850 yards over Moug's position this season. He was a two-way player also.

FIRST TEAM OFFENSE

Gary Lewandowski, Redford Union, interior lineman. A 6-1, 200-pound senior, Lewandowski was the only Northwest Suburban League lineman this year who was named to both the offensive and defensive all-conference teams.

RU ran 60 percent of its running plays in Lewandowski's direction this season.

On defense, he averaged five solo tackles and seven assists per game.

"Gary graded 89 percent (on of-

Jeff Powers, Plymouth Salem, interior lineman. A second-team all-Observer choice last year, Powers earned all-Suburban Eight League honors this season while co-captaining the Rocks to a 6-3 record.

The 6-1, 205-pound senior was converted to center this year because he was the best returning lineman.

"Jeff was very coachable, a good hitter," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "He was a two-way player and very intense. We didn't have any bad center/quarterback exchanges."

Ron Neph, Redford Union, interior lineman. The 6-2, 210-pound senior was the Panthers' second most-consistent blocker this year behind Lewandowski.

"Ron was an outstanding one-on-one blocker, and as a starting tackle on defense he was always consistent and never had a bad game," said Heitman.

Chris Trainor, Livonia Stevenson, interior lineman.

Bentley cagers wrap up crown

By BRAD EMONS

Livonia Bentley girls' basketball coach Tom Lang got the game he wanted most Tuesday night.

He didn't care what the final score showed because it meant outright claim on the Suburban Eight League crown.

As it turned out, Bentley wrapped up its first title under Lang with a hard-fought 40-39 win over Plymouth Salem at the Rocks' gym.

"We finally won the elusive game," said a jubilant Lang. "After going 15-8 the first year and 21-5 last year, we set the league title this season as one of our goals."

Bentley is now 16-1 overall and 9-0 in the league. The Bulldogs beat Salem at home in their first meeting by 12 points.

"Our first victory against Salem meant everything," he said.

The hawking Bulldog defense triggered the win. The Salem offense had trouble getting the ball inside against Bentley's tough 2-3 zone.

"Our defense did it again," Lang said. "We work on it in practice three-quarters of the time."

Bentley's inside board strength, paced by senior center Kim Plachta, also gave the Rocks trouble. Center Patty Weidman fouled out late in the game and teammate Nan Horwood, held scoreless, exited with 5:02 to go.

"WHEN NO. 44 (Weidman) fouled out it made a real difference," said Lang.

With 27 seconds left to play and the score tied at 38, Weidman drove the baseline against Plachta and was called for an offensive foul. Bentley immediately called time out.

On the in-bounds play Bentley forward Sheila Degrazia dribbled down the sideline and dished off to Plachta in the middle of the key. The Bentley center missed her first shot but gathered in the second as she connected for two, sending the Bulldog bench into a wild celebration with 16 seconds left.

Plachta was fouled on the play and missed the free throw. Salem brought the ball down and reserve guard Denise Zonka was fouled with five seconds remaining.

Zonka missed the first shot but canned the second after a Bentley timeout, making the final margin 40-39.

Canton secures West 6 title; gain 48-44 win

The Western Six League girls' basketball title belongs to Plymouth Canton for the third straight season.

The Chiefs won the championship outright Tuesday night with a 48-44 victory at Waterford Mott. It was also the 13th straight win this year for Canton. Coach Mike McCauley's troops are now 15-3 overall.

Canton can close out its league season Thursday at Plymouth Salem with a 10-0 mark by beating Northville.

Junior Joni Somerville paced Canton with points. She hit six of eight shots from the floor to give the Chiefs their 34th straight league win.

Senior forward Diane Durocher added eight. Guard Vicky Cavallaro had six and sophomore forward Pearlina Cunningham, fighting a bout with the flu, scored seven.

"Our conditioning was the difference," said McCauley. "It was a scrapping game. We used five different types of presses and wore them down."

The teams went into the final quarter tied 38-38. "Our offense did a good job tonight," said the Canton coach. "I didn't rotate the players as well as I should and we were a little flat."

Mott led after one quarter 12-11, but Canton rallied in the second period to take a 25-21 halftime lead.

Martha Schmidt, a 5-11 senior center, led all scorers with 14 points.

Canton won the game at the foul line, canning 25 of 36 shots for 69 percent.

All-Area football squad

Trainor was one of the bigger Spartans physically at 6-3, 190 pounds. "Chris stays on blocks very well and he's a good downfield blocker," said Reardon.

Brian Belcher, Garden City East, end. The 6-2, 190-pound Belcher averaged 28 yards per reception during the season.

The senior, who was moved to full-back in short-yardage situations, ran for 194 yards. He scored six touchdowns.

Belcher, who has played defensive end the past two years, led the team in quarterback sacks and fumble recoveries this season.

He was also named to the all-Northwest Suburban team.

Mike Schneider, Livonia Bentley, end. A big reason for Bentley's turnaround this season, Schneider caught 13 passes for 160 yards.

The 6-3, 170-pound junior caught at least one pass in each game prior to being injured in game eight.

"Mike is a fine receiver who will continue to improve statistically with an improved passing attack," said Bentley coach Steve Naumcheff. "He blocks people and catches the ball with the best."

Schneider also played defensive end.

Dave Hall, Livonia Stevenson, quarterback. Even though the 6-4, 197-pound senior sat out 10 quarters during the season when the Spartans got way ahead he still completed 50 passes for 729 yards and ran for another 297 yards.

He threw nine touchdown passes, ran for four TDs, ran for four extra points and kicked nine extra points.

Hall, who was selected all-Inter-Lakes League quarterback, plays safety on defense.

Coach Jack Reardon termed Hall a major college prospect.

Bob Utych, Redford Union, running back. Not a big ball-carrier, the 5-9, 160-pound senior gained 1,011 yards on 202 runs. He was voted most valuable back in the Northwest Suburban League.

A two-year starter, Utych gained more than 200 yards rushing against both Westland John Glenn and Redford Thurston.

League tank titles at stake

Area fans will be able to drench themselves in plenty of prep swim action Thursday and Friday.

Plymouth Salem will host the Suburban Eight League girls' meet. Plymouth Canton will also compete against three other teams in the Western Six League meet at Livonia Churchill.

Preliminary events for both meets is slated to begin at 2:30 p.m. Thursday. Diving competition, both preliminary and semifinal, will be held one hour later on Thursday.

The finals for both meets are scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday.

Livonia Bentley, 5-0 in league duals, is the favorite to capture the meet at Salem.

"This will probably be the best league meet we've had since I've been in it," predicted Salem coach Chuck Olson. "You'll see much faster times this year."

Serious challengers for the Suburban Eight include Dearborn (4-1), Dearborn Edsel Ford (3-2) and Salem (2-3). Others vying for points include Trenton (1-4) and Belleville (0-5).

The top swimmer on the Bentley crew is Julia Westhaus. She is the number one ranked swimmer in the area in two events. She has posted a clocking of :26.1 in the 50-yard freestyle and 1:01.7 in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Bentley also has a pair of standouts in the McIntyre sisters — Jean and Anne.

THE TWO sisters will challenge Salem's Sharon Ross, the No. 1 seed, in the 500-yard freestyle event. Ross' best clocking is 5:36.

Bentley is also strong in the 200-yard medley relay (2:01.0) and 400-yard freestyle relay (3:57.4).

Junior Penny Currie leads Edsel Ford. She holds league marks in the 200- and 500-yard freestyle events. Currie is also proficient in the 100-yard butterfly and 200-yard individual medley where she ranks high in the state.

One of the top 100-yard breaststroke performers in the state is Edsel Ford's Karen Enneking.

Dearborn will wash its hopes on Bridget Muldowney in the 50-yard freestyle and 100-yard breaststroke. One of the top sprinters around is Belleville's Martha Ryzner.

A close battle is shaping up between Trenton's Lisa Migoski and Salem's Natalie McClumpha. Migoski is the defending champion while McClumpha has the top-ranked point total in the area (222.9).

Salem sophomore Terri Eudy is the No. 1 seed in the 100- and 200-yard freestyle events. Ross, a senior co-captain, is No. 2 seed in the 200-yard individual medley.

Bentley, as expected, is the top seeded team in the meet, but Olson predicts "anything can happen."

"BENTLEY is not out of the woods," said Olson.

"Funny things can happen in a meet like this.

"And that's what we're hoping for." Northville, ranked No. 5 in Class A, will not be seriously challenged for the Western Six title despite the absence of state champ Sue Cahill, out with an illness.

However, a battle for second is shaping up between Farmington Harrison and Canton. Churchill, the host, lacks depth. Waterford Mott and Walled Lake Western will not compete.

"Northville is definitely the favorite," said Canton coach Mark Griffith, now in his first year.

"We're looking to finish second."

Canton's top swimmer is junior exchange student Tarja Tuominen. She will compete in the 100-yard butterfly, 200-yard freestyle and 200-yard medley relay.

She has the top time in the area in the 500-yard freestyle (5:27.7), but will not compete in that event.

Junior Kim Massey gives the Chiefs strength in the 200-yard individual medley and 100-yard backstroke.

He intercepted six passes as a defensive safety.

If that weren't enough, Utych averaged 14 yards on punt returns and 23 yards on kickoff returns.

Bob Friedman, Redford Union, running back. Also a senior and two-year starter, Friedman totaled 715 yards on 170 carries. He scored nine touchdowns.

In addition to receiving all-league acclaim this year as a running back Friedman won a spot on the defensive squad as a linebacker.

Friedman, 6-2, 197 pounds, punted 30 times for an average of 42.5 yards and averaged nine solo tackles and 11 assists per game. He also had six interceptions.

Al Jones, Redford St. Agatha, running back. The 6-2, 195-pound senior gained 1,106 yards on only 109 carries for an incredible average of 10.6 yards per run.

He rushed for 200 yards in three games and scored 11 touchdowns.

Also a defensive player, Jones has clocked 4.6 seconds in the 40-yard dash.

Brian Lewandowski, Plymouth Sa- lem, specialist. A kicking specialist, Lewandowski did not miss an extra point (one was blocked).

The junior averaged 49.7 yards on his kickoffs and booted several into the endzone.

"Brian had excellent range up to 40 yards," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "His consistency enabled us to think field goal within 30 yards."

Rich Rudd, Redford Thurston, specialist. A two-year starter at tailback and safety, Rudd averaged 40.2 yards per punt over the last two years and 18 yards per kickoff return.

The 6-2, 198-pound junior also kicked extra points for the Eagles.

Rudd holds Thurston's single-game rushing record with 220 yards.

contest. He also had 12 quarterback sacks.

"He is extremely quick and tough," said RU coach Harvey Heitman. "He was consistently double-teamed since no center could block him one-on-one."

Scott Piper, Plymouth Salem, down lineman. Piper, 6-1, 185 pounds, was named Salem's defensive lineman of the week five times and defensive player of the week twice.

He's a two-year letter winner and an all-Suburban Eight choice for 1979.

"Scott is quick off the ball and a good hitter," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "He's very intelligent, a complete football player."

Kirk Marsh, Redford Union, defensive end. Another all-Northwest Suburban League honoree, Marsh, 6-4, 210 pounds, graded 88 percent for his defensive play.

He also played end on offense.

"Kirk took on the double team, isolation and trap block extremely well which made it very difficult for teams to run to the tight end side," said Heitman.

Cap Pethers, Livonia Stevenson, defensive end. A two-way starter for two years, Pethers, 6-2, 205 pounds, was voted to the all-Inter-Lakes League team this season.

"Cap plays on the strong side of the offensive formation," said Stevenson pounds, made 28 solo tackles and was credited with 101 assists.

Salem cagers lose, 40-39

Salem was unable to get off a final shot, despite forcing a jump-ball situation with one second left. Plachta had 12 points and seven rebounds for Bentley. Degrazia led the Bulldogs with 16. Bentley jumped out to an 11-7 advantage after one quarter.
 "We struggled in the first four minutes, but still controlled the ball," said Salem coach Bob Blohm.

SALEM, however, cut the lead to 20-19 at half-time as Cheryl Sobkow, who scored 16, and Weidman, each tallied four points in the second quarter. Blohm changed defensive strategy in the second half, switching from his usual man-to-man to a zone.

"We went to the zone to protect our players because we were in foul trouble," he said.

Degrazia made it 22-19 with 7:32 to in the third quarter, but Salem stormed back. Eileen Moore's driving layup with 6:33 left in the period made it 24-22 and Weidman canned a baseline shot with 5:22 to go, giving the Rocks their biggest lead 28-23. Degrazia answered late in the third quarter with a rebound basket, tying the score at 28. Moore's short jumper at 1:43 gave Salem a 30-28 lead heading into the final quarter.

"The key was offensive rebounding," said Blohm. "We didn't get as many as they did."
 "Bentley is a catch-the-ball team and drive it to the hoop. They are a fine team."
 The lead see-sawed for much of the fourth quarter. Bentley reserve forward Ann Roy hit a big shot when she connected with 2:03 to go to tie the game at 38.

"I ANTICIPATED a close game," said Lang. "Salem was deliberate and worked the ball well."
 The loss dropped Salem to 12-5 overall and 6-3 in the league.

"We're in the part of the season we don't like to be in," said Blohm. "You have to try to gain some momentum going into the tourney."

Snowmobile race schedule set

Closed-track snowmobile races will again be the focus of winter activity in northern Michigan this year.

More than $58,000 will be at stake for the 1980 Stroh's Triple Crown of Snowmobiling.

This winter's Stroh's Triple Crown consists of the Thunder Bay 250 on Jan. 12 at Alpena, the Lincoln 250 on Jan. 26 at Lincoln, and the International 500 in Sault Ste. Marie on Feb. 9.

The richest purse will be awarded at Sault Ste. Marie ($21,630) — $15,630 awarded at Alpena and $13,630 at Lincoln.

Thirty-five drivers will challenge each other at Alpena, in what is normally a five-hour race, with an estimated crowd projected near 10,000. The contestants average 70 miles an hour, sometimes reaching 100 miles an hour on straightaways.

The Lincoln 250 is replacing the Traverse City 250 this season because the former track has been sold.

The International 500 is the longest closed-track snowmobile race in the world. It has become such a big event at the Soo each year that it has been called a "Mardi Gras in the snow."

The weekend also includes sidewalk sales, a torchlight parade, and the streets are opened to snowmobiles.

Rock JV club wins

SALEM SNAPPED Bentley's junior varsity unbeaten string with a 49-48 victory.

Jan McKenzie paced Salem, now 11-5 overall, with 19 points. Bonnie Sutherland added 15.

Kim Archer had 18 for Bentley.

SEMTA gears up to carry one million more passengers in '80.

DETROIT—

Lots of people in the Detroit area are rediscovering a mode of transportation they haven't used for perhaps decades: the bus.

In this age of dollar-a-gallon gasoline, folks are finding out that the bus can be a most satisfactory way to get to and from work or wherever. It can be prompt, comfortable, and reliable. And, most important, you don't have to buy the gas—or worry about where to park, or be hassled by driving in traffic.

No wonder, then, that the SEMTA bus is enjoying a fast-flourishing popularity among Detroit-area commuters. During the past year, SEMTA carried 9.3 million passengers on its scheduled bus lines, or about 36,000 per weekday. And the way new passengers are showing up daily, SEMTA's gearing up to carry a million more people this coming year.

One important way we're doing it is by adding new buses to the fleet. Forty-five of them, to be exact. Of these, 40 will go directly into service, and five will be held for maintenance reserve. The new buses will be utilized to give the best possible service to SEMTA's growing family of customers. Some will be added to overcrowded routes. Some will serve new Park & Ride routes. And others will provide new "reverse commuter" services.

Further, to communicate the newly expanded service to help its passengers, SEMTA has installed informative new signs wherever they were needed, including 2,700 bus stop signs and 150 Park & Ride signs. Also, every SEMTA bus will soon carry an up-to-date and very readable destination sign. It's just a little more evidence that SEMTA is dedicated to doing whatever is required, small things as well as large, to serve this area's transportation needs.

December 10 date for nine new SEMTA buses in Oakland County.

Oakland County commuters will benefit from nine new buses, which are scheduled to report for duty near the end of November. They will be added to existing routes. Following is a list of the existing Oakland County routes receiving new buses and the number of buses to be added to each:

ROUTE	NEW BUSES
405 Orchard Ridge	1
440 Woodward	3
430 Clawson	1
495 John R	2
551 W. Bloomfield Park & Ride	1
850 Birmingham-Southfield Park & Ride	1

Revised Park & Ride bus and train to serve Rochester-Troy.

The revised Rochester Park & Ride service will make commuting by SEMTA bus convenient to residents of both Rochester and Troy. In addition to the current locations — Winchester Mall at Rochester and Avon Roads, and Sunset Plaza at Long Lake and Livernois — the revised route will provide new parking locations (to be determined in the near future). For route details, see map at left.

More "lifts" to help handicapped ride.

A new element present in all the service improvements and expansion this year is accessibility for the wheelchair handicapped. Sixteen of last year's new buses had wheelchair lifts, and all of this year's new buses have lifts. To insure the maximum possible use of the lifts, we are designating some routes and trips as accessible to people using wheelchairs.

- 560 Gratiot (which was accessible last year)
- 740 12 Mile
- 510 Van Dyke (Some trips)
- 750 Pontiac-Arrow
- 440 Woodward (some trips)
- 809 Michigan Avenue Park & Ride
- 185 Westland-Ecorse Crosstown
- 200 Michigan (some trips)

A major training program is going on for SEMTA drivers in the use of the lifts, which involves a film, slides, demonstration and practice. All SEMTA drivers will be fully qualified before using the lift.

SEMTA adds 17 new Wayne County buses Nov. 5.

Wayne County will receive 17 new SEMTA buses to be assigned to the largest number of routes. Three of the new buses will serve on a new Wayne County Park & Ride route. The remaining 14 buses will be assigned to existing routes as follows.

ROUTE	NEW BUSES
140 Ecorse-Taylor	1
150 Wick-Taylor	1
200 Michigan	2
260 Cherry Hill-Westland	1
250 Ford Road-Westland	1
240 Warren-Westland	1
830 Downriver Park & Ride	1
835 Ford Road Park & Ride	1
810 Plymouth-Livonia Park & Ride	2
820 Farmington Park & Ride	3

Western Wayne County to be served by new Park & Ride.

Effective November 5, a new Western Wayne County Park & Ride route will offer commuters service to downtown Detroit, as well as to local stops in Redford Township. Parking will be available in three lots with a capacity of 100 cars each: Madonna College at I-96 and Levan, Shelden Center at Plymouth and Farmington Roads, and Wonderland Center at Plymouth and Middlebelt Roads. See map above for details.

14 additional SEMTA buses went into service on Macomb County routes October 22.

Macomb County was the first to receive the additional new SEMTA buses which were ordered for delivery this year. Eleven of the new buses have been added to present routes to help relieve overcrowding. The remaining three buses will be assigned to a new Park & Ride route serving Macomb County residents. The regular SEMTA routes and the number of buses each will receive are listed below.

ROUTE	NEW BUSES
560 Gratiot	3
580 Harper	1
610-615 Kercheval-Mack	2
620 Charlevoix	1
625 Marter	1
630 Jefferson	3

New Clinton River Park & Ride to serve east-siders.

People who live in eastern communities such as Mt. Clemens, Fraser, St. Clair Shores and Harper Woods will be conveniently served by the new Clinton River Park & Ride. Starting October 22, it provides parking in three locations with a total capacity of upwards of 350 automobiles: Stadium Parking Lot at N. Rose and Groesbeck, Fraser Hockeyland Lot at Utica Road south of 15 Mile, and Eastland Shopping Center Lot at Eight Mile and Kelly Road. From these lots, Park & Riders will be whisked, via I-94 and Gratiot Avenue, to downtown Detroit. See map at left.

"Reverse Commute" helps people who work in suburbs.

More and more people are riding SEMTA buses from the central city to employment locations in the suburbs. Woodward Avenue buses, for example, carry almost as many passengers going in that direction as regular commuters. And "reverse commuters" will be further accommodated by these new SEMTA services: The Plymouth Center at Five Mile and Sheldon can now be reached by a transfer from a D-Dot or SEMTA Dial-A-Ride bus at Seven Mile and Grand River to a regular SEMTA bus on Route 350. Another new service that seems headed toward becoming a major "reverse commute" route runs out Mound Road via Chene and Joseph Campau, Route 500.

IF SEMTA'S GETTING 45 NEW BUSES, HOW COME YOU COULD STILL FIND YOURSELF STANDING?

Sad, but true. We're putting 45 new buses into service by January 1. A total of around 2,000 additional SEMTA seats. But the way our business is growing, it won't be nearly enough. We're also adding three new Park & Ride locations and changing some of our schedules to reduce the time between buses. But, in spite of everything, some of you will be riding standing up during peak commuting hours. We're sorry, and we hope you'll bear with us.

WE'LL GLADLY HELP YOU START YOUR OWN "BUS SYSTEM."

We figure that if our bus system isn't the answer, maybe a bus system of your own is. Meaning, of course, a van pool. So, SEMTA has contracted with Van Pool Services, Inc. to set up a van pool test program. It'll involve up to 42 vans over an 18 month period, and will serve small employers in office complexes in the Southfield area. With this experience under our belts, we'll be in a better position to judge the practical merits of van pooling. You see, we're not just in the business of selling seats on buses. We're here to do whatever has to be done to help you get the transportation you need. We think that's what a good public transit authority is all about.

OUR POPULARITY IS A PRESSING PROBLEM.

It all boils down to this: The rising cost of gasoline has caused a lot of people to give us a try as a way of getting to work. And many of them obviously liked us. For instance, we are carrying about 25% more passengers than we were a year ago. During that time, our fleet has increased by 17%. You can readily see the problem. Our family of customers is simply growing a lot faster than we are.

YOU HAVE SOME STAGGERING POSSIBILITIES.

There are some things you can do to help us help you get to work as comfortably as possible. Asking your employer to stagger your working hours is one thing. Say 7:00 to 3:30 instead of 8:00 to 4:30. That lets our buses make two rush hour trips instead of one. More trips, more seats. Another idea along the same lines is flex time, which allows employees to set their own hours within certain limits.

EVERYBODY PITCHED in to help make the annual Christmas bazaar at Cherry Hill United Methodist Church a rousing success.

The old church on Ridge Road south of Cherry Hill in Canton Township will mark its 100th anniversary in three years. The congregation is an enthusiastic mixture of descendants of the first families which settled in that area and more recent arrivals. The latter have deep appreciation for the warmth and stability of the country church.

The women started their crafts workshops in mid-September. They decided to specialize in dolls and doll houses but also turned out a fine assortment of crafts.

Their homemade soups were made by the women at home then taken to the church. There were six kinds — chicken noodle, clam chowder, vegetable, vegetable beef, chili and bean and ham. Although they prepared twice as much as they did last year, there wasn't a drop left, according to Madelyn Bastian, who chaired the bazaar.

The men cranked the wheels on the ice cream freezers. Because the homemade ice cream had been such a big seller last year, they made three extra batches. They sold every spoonful of the butter brickle, chocolate mint, strawberry and vanilla ice cream.

Dorothy West said that it was the most successful bazaar they ever had.

THE TWO-DAY bazaar at St. Kenneth Catholic Church on Haggerty Road also hit an all-time high. Final tally wasn't in, but on Monday they were estimating net proceeds of close to $4,000.

"We have a group of hard workers out there," said Kathryn Pagel who chaired the bake sale. Marilyn Nitchman and Katie Mandle were general co-chairwomen.

They have a very active senior citizens club at St. Kenneth. Members are working on their Thanksgiving gift boxes for needy families. Baskets large enough to hold the collections of food stuffs are not available so they pack them all in corrugated cartons.

MORE THAN 140 persons who attended the "Roast Shank Bob-be-cue" Saturday evening are still laughing.

Members of St. John's Episcopal Church on Sheldon Road staged another surprise for their pastor, Robert Shank. On the pretext that a birthday party for Fr. Shank and two of his parishioners was in the offing, he was blindfolded and taken to Madonna College where the crowd awaited. It turned out to be a birthday roast and dinner just for him.

Jack Wilson emceed the roast. George Deinzer, a friend from Shank's student days at Heidelberg College in Ohio, set the tone of the reminiscing and roasting which continued until it was time for the presentation of a birthday gift from the congregation. When Fr. Shank unwrapped the huge carton which appeared to hold a stereo set, it contained a small, child's record player.

He was handed a pail full of Susan B. Anthony dollars and told he could choose his own set.

The people at St. John's honored their pastor a few weeks ago on the anniversary of his 10th year at the church.

THE THURSDAY afternoon party bridge group at the Plymouth Cultural Center started out the month with a catered smorgasbord luncheon.

The annual pre-holiday party was earlier this year so those who go south for the winter would be able to attend. The luncheon also is an opportunity to thank Margaret Swartz, founder and coordinator of the sessions. Dorothy Shaffer was spokeswoman for the group when she presented a corsage to Mrs. Swartz. She, in turn, thanked John Dreniak and Carl Peters, official score keepers.

Jo Fountain played the piano for a pre-luncheon sing before the 50 bridge players and guests were seated. Elsie Jeffery asked the blessing and the serving lines formed.

African violet centerpieces were given as prizes and the it wasn't long before the card tables were in place and the bridge games were in progress.

SGT. WILLIAM FLETCHER who has been a member of the Plymouth Police Department since 1964 is being promoted to lieutenant in the uniform division.

According to Police Chief Timothy Ford, the new rating will be effective Nov. 18.

Fletcher was a fire fighter with the city before joining the police force.

PLYMOUTH COMMUNITY Civitan Club has set a goal of a 33 percent membership increase.

The membership drive will begin tonight when club members have a dinner meeting. Area residents who would like to become involved in their com-

The concert is made possible with the support of the state through a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts and a gift from the Burroughs Corp.

Academics come first for provost

By MARGARET MILLER

Jewell Stindt holds the newly created title of Provost at Schoolcraft College. She is well content with the position, her station at the college and the philosophy they embody.

Provost is defined by Webster as a high administrative officer in charge of strictly educational activities. Provost Stindt, who holds a doctorate from the University of Michigan, functions as top administrator at Schoolcraft when Dr. Nelson Grote, president, is away from the college.

"I am pleased with my role," she said, "because I feel that putting an academic person in this position shows the college has its priorities straight."

"To me, the reason we are here is first as an educational institution, and the greatest function of education is to help people love the world better and themselves more."

Symbolic, thinks the educator who also is vice president of instructional affairs, is her Schoolcraft library card.

"It was the first item issued to me and it pleased me very much because it represented the academic side of Schoolcraft," she said.

JULIE STINDT, as she is known to friends and colleagues at various educational institutions, has not only a great love of learning but some definite ideas on how to bring it to more people.

"Schoolcraft has done very well in looking at the needs of the community," she said, "but I am sure there are many 'pockets' of potential students whose needs could be better met if we learned how to do it."

She said surveys were beginning with the idea of identifying such potential.

As a starter, she worked on a program for distributing questionnaires among students at Schoolcraft's Garden City and Plymouth campuses.

"We asked them what kind of courses they would like that were not now being offered — what we could do differently to make it possible for them to take better advantage of our offerings," she said.

"We are already beginning to put together the data we've compiled, and there will be some changes in the way courses are offered."

One thing being tried is a system by which two related courses are offered in time chunks of two or three hours once a week instead of for an hour or two three times a week.

"This makes it possible for a student to take up to nine hours of credit while going to the campus just once a week, perhaps after work," Ms. Stindt explained.

ANOTHER IMMEDIATE change instituted by the new provost will show in the winter schedule book.

"We've reduced its size, narrowed it down to the essential information," she said.

Instituting changes at Schoolcraft is a function rather different from Ms. Stindt's previous position with Wayne County Community College.

There her work was largely organizing from scratch.

She related how she was happily teaching social studies at Denby High School in Detroit when the plans to organize WCCC were announced in the summer of 1969.

"I went down to volunteer whatever help I could that summer," she said. "I was put to work interviewing prospects for the sociology faculty that would be hired for the school's fall opening."

She was looking for part-time educators, she said, because no one figured on the school's operating on a full-time basis.

But when the students started signing up, the anticipated 4,500 had gone up to 8,000, and organizers started making hasty expansion plans.

"Those of us who had been there interviewing on a volunteer basis then were asked to stay and administer the departments," Ms. Stindt said. She thus became WCCC divisional head for social and behavioral science.

Upward moves followed, and she was chairman of the department of anthropology and sociology, academic dean and interim vice president for academic affairs before coming to schoolcraft.

MS. STINDT earned degrees at Wayne State University and U-M and did more graduate work at Adelphi University, Eastern Michigan, Michigan State, the University of Detroit and WSU before going for the doctorate. Her dissertation for the 1976 degree was on sex biases and gender-role stereotypes in post secondary textbooks.

She also has taught history in Long Beach, Calif., and worked as administrative secretary for the General Electric Supply Co. in Detroit.

She is past regional coordinator for American Association of Women in Community and Junior Colleges and holds membership in several other professional organizations including the National Association for Women Deans, Administrators and Counselors.

Community organizations include the American Civil Liberties Union, the Democratic Party's 14th Congressional District organization, the National Organization for Women and the National and Michigan Women's Political Caucuses.

And through all her organized activity continues a fierce love for teaching.

"I certainly think it's the noblest of all professions," Ms. Stindt said.

"It takes a person where he or she is and moves him forward. That is more than even medicine can do."

Cantonites attend opening of Ronald McDonald House

Kathy Freece, my husband, Rex, and I had the pleasure of representing Canton Newcomer's Club at the grand opening of the Ronald McDonald House, Sunday, Nov. 4.

For the benefit of those unfamiliar with the project, the Ronald McDonald House was designed and built for the use of families with patients in Detroit's Children's Hospital.

It is comfortable, attractive and warm. It is very tastefully and cheerfully decorated. For those who live outside Detroit and have a child in Children's Hospital, it will provide an inexpensive place to stay until they return home with their child.

For those who need to be near their hospitalized child, it will offer closeness and yet provide a change from the hospital. It will be a place to rest and freshen up.

Sometimes, the children who are undergoing outpatient treatments will stay in the Ronald McDonald House.

Their comfort and pleasure has been planned for, too.

The people who took part in planning the facility were well qualified for the job. All shared the experience of having a child hospitalized, one time or many times.

They were helped by many others — some known only to them — their families, friends, neighbors, co-workers, church groups, schools, club, unions, and sororities. All share in the pride and pleasure felt for this house.

THIS IS WHERE Canton Newcomers comes in.

During the 1978-1979 club year the Newcomers donated more than $500 to the Ronald McDonald House. Their donations went to the furnishings committee. Through the kindness and generosity of area merchants, this money stretched farther than it was dreamed would be possible. The Newcomers were able to provide a range, refrigerator, microwave oven, color television and a dishwasher for the complex.

Since the Canton Newcomers was one of approximately 300 major contributors, Rex, Kathy, and I were able to represent the club at the open house. It certainly was a warm feeling knowing that many people in Canton had helped to make the house a reality.

A dental student and his wife are the resident managers, but will have every other weekend off. During these weekends, the house will be staffed by volunteer managers, such as you and me. If you are interested in spending a weekend at the house as a guest volunteer manager, please contact the Ronald McDonald House. I'm sure they will be very pleased.

KATIE AND MARY Abraham recently hosted a baby shower for their sister-in-law, Alicia Abraham. Shower guests included Alicia's mother, Mary Knierhan, and her 11-year-old sister, Elizabeth. Also attending was the proud, new father's mother, Barbara Clemons.

Linda Minsterman, Bev Halloran, Jenene Paetow, Tammy Eden, Marlene Weston, Carol Helman and her daughter Veronica, and Sam Nichols were also in attendance.

Party guests enjoyed chatting, while eating the delicious snacks prepared by the co-hostesses. Katie and Mary also baked and decorated the beautiful yellow and white daisy cake. A considerable amount of attention was lavished on the special guest of honor, baby Cory, who seemed perfectly content to be held by all, but simply refused to be awakened for the occasion.

Cory soon will be enjoying the many nice gifts he received, a rocking chair, stroller, several outfits, a sweater, a diaper bag, an afghan and a clothes basket full of many of the necessities of life for babies.

Childress-Bowden

Beverly Francene Bowden of Ypsilanti and Mark Alan Childress of Canton Township were married Aug. 25 in Antioch Baptist Church, Belleville. James Bowden and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitchell are the bride's parents. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Childress.

The bride's long white gown had a long train with appliques along the border. Her bouquet was yellow and white silk roses and white carnations.

Don Michael was best man and ushers were Terry Nelson and Randy Bowden. The couple honeymooned at Niagara Falls following a wedding reception at the American Legion Hall. They are living in Ypsilanti.

SC's Blatt elected to national board

Schoolcraft College Trustee Nancie Blatt, of Livonia, was elected director-at-large of the Association of Community College Trustees during the group's convention in Detroit last week.

She was one of five national candidates for three vacancies on the group's governing board. The board has 27 members, nine elected at large.

Vice-chairperson of the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees, Mrs. Blatt was first appointed to the board in 1973. She was re-elected for a six-year term in June.

She is also president of the Michigan Community College Association, which represents 26 of the state's 29 community colleges.

JUDI AND CECIL Thomas, and children Eric and Amy returned recently from a trip to visit relatives in Amherst, Mass. They traveled across Canada on the trip East, and back through Pennsylvania in order to see the beautiful fall foliage.

Judi said they were able to help with some projects at their parents' homes. Also, Judi, who is very much into crafts, weaving, quilting, and sewing, enjoyed very much a craft fair in Amherst.

An unusual experience was the passage, or seeming passage, of three seasons in as many days. Judi and Cecil said the weather went from warm to windy and cold, and finally they had snow.

MY CHILDREN keep wondering what good it is to have a mom who writes for the paper if they never get their names in it. So, for the benefit of my sons Kirk, 8, and Keith, 4, and also for our veterinarian, Dr. Tinker, who is astounded by our shepherd's longevity, here's a Nichol's News Flash.

The Nichols family celebrated the 12th birthday of Sam dog Sunday, Nov. 11. At the human equivalent of 84, Sam is very much alive, well, and has a terrific growl. I only hope I'm that spry when I'm 84. Kirk and Keith can attest

LWV entertains at gala party

Members of the League of Women Voters showed their social side Friday evening when they hosted their fifth annual wine and cheese party.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hoffmeister opened their Northville home to league members and guests who contributed a minimum $10 per couple to help underwrite various LWV projects. The hostess is the league's publications director.

"The wine and cheese party is our way of thanking league supporters and of introducing them to their local officials," said Nancy White, president of the LWV of Northville, Plymouth Canton and Novi.

"It is our only social event of the year and is looked forward to as an opportunity to meet old and new faces connected with the league in the four communities we represent."

CITY OFFICIALS, school board members, business people and league supporters mingled with members of the league.

Michele Howard chaired the party. She and her committee served wine, cheese, French bread, crackers, a beef roll and fruit. Mrs. Howard said 211 invitations, reproduced from a calligraphed original, had been mailed.

League members work year round to promote informed, active citizen participation in government.

This fall's activities have included sponsoring candidates nights in Northville and Novi; publishing voters guides in Plymouth, Novi, and Northville; registering voters; and collecting signatures for a Wayne County Executive petition drive.

The league also tape recorded a Plymouth voters' guide for visually handicapped residents. The guide was on file at Dunning-Hough Library.

Open house is Sunday

Members of the Plymouth Church of the Nazarene have been asked so many questions about their new facility near Pioneer Middle School on Ann Arbor Road that they decided to have an open house.

The public is invited to see what they have done to what once was known as "the mouse house." The open house will be at 7:45 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 17.

The church has about 15 acres of land in the area off Ann Arbor Road near Pioneer. Two years ago the church bought the building which was a center for raising white mice for experiments, thus acquiring the "mouse house" nomenclature.

"It has been completely renovated," said the Rev. Dan Wilson who is assistant minister in charge of special ministries at the Church of the Nazarene. He added that most of the work on the building was done by volunteers — members of the congregation.

It now houses grades three through six for Sunday school classrooms.

"A Montessori School uses the facility on weekdays," Rev. Wilson said.

The church has dubbed its expansion program "The New Horizon Project." Some day members hope to build their new church on the site.

Teachers, supervisors, junior church personnel and ministers will be there Sunday to greet visitors and explain their new open room concept of teaching Sunday school. The Rev. Carl Allen is senior minister at the church.

Kneelers now have it soft

Members of St. Andrew Episcopal Church of Livonia who go to the altar rail to take communion are kneeling on soft cushions, thanks to the work of the Ladies of the Altar Guild.

Predominantly green in color, the upholstered pillows have been set in place in a semi-circle along the altar rail. In needlepoint, they tell the story of creation.

They show the heavens, the moon, sun, stars, fish, trees, flowers, animals and man.

The project was conceived by Jean Dow, who drew the pictures on canvas and charted the colors for the use of the 25 women dedicating their time and needles to it.

Offering assistance on problems of proportion and planning was Freda Schweitzer.

"They are nice and soft on the knees," smiled Mrs. Dow as her eyes swept over the neatly arranged pillows. She was asked how many hours it took to complete the work. "Hours," she gasped. "It took years. Many of the women had never done needlepoint. They had to take lessons. Some took to it immediately. It was very slow, tedious work, not difficult but time consuming."

She added that church members were pleased with the results of the project, and for a time, the Ladies of the Altar Guild will rest on their laurels.

She is not sure where the idea came from.

"Other churches have done it," she said. "We just thought it was a good idea."

Mrs. Dow has been keeping her fingers busy with various kinds of hand work since she was a child. But this is the first time one of her projects was dedicated in church. On All Saints Day the work of the 25 women was dedicated in a church ceremony.

Thirteen hours of study with Schuller will cost $20. The sessions are scheduled for 7-10 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday and 2-5 p.m. Sunday.

Filmed lectures will cover such areas as church leadership, faith, retailing principles in church growth and theology of possibility thinking.

Small group discussions and diagnostic and prescriptive planning also will be part of the three-day program. A 41-page participant workbook also will be available.

Everyone over 13 should know CPR

When was the last time you had first aid training? If you're like most people, it was in school and much of what you learned has been forgotten. And chances are that one very important type of training was not included in the course. That training is CPR — cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

CPR is an emergency procedure that can keep a cardiac arrest victim alive till medical help is available.

"Ideally, everybody over 13 should know CPR," said Daniel Anbe, Henry Ford Hospital cardiologist and president of the Michigan Heart Association.

"CPR can be used to save victims of drowning, smoke inhalation, electrocution — and the most common cause of cardiac arrest — heart attack," Dr. Anbe said. "While we know that we will probably never be able to reach every single person over 13 with CPR training, or goal at the Michigan Heart Association is to have at least one person in every family know how to do CPR."

CPR IS A combination of external chest compression which keeps the heart beating, and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, Dr. Anbe said.

"When a person's heart stops beating, and oxygen-rich blood is no longer being circulated to the brain, brain cells begin to die within four to six minutes," he added.

"That's why it's crucial that CPR be started immediately when someone has suffered cardiac arrest.

"What many people may not be aware of," he continued, "is that CPR is really rather easy to learn. At Michigan Heart we taught the technique to more than 100,000 people last year, most of them in four-hour classes. There are also nine-hour classes available for someone who wants to go into it a little further.

Dr. Anbe emphasized it is "the non-medical person — the layman — who is perhaps most likely to be at the scene when someone suffers cardiac arrest.

"Over one million people will suffer heart attacks this year. Of those, about 650,000 will die, half of them before they ever reach a hospital," he stated. Perhaps as many as 175,000 lives could be saved if two factors were changed.

First, if people sought help immediately — the average heart attack victim waits three hours before seeking help. Second, if more people knew CPR — too often there is no one immediately at hand who knows how to do CPR.

"This is why it is so important for people to learn CPR," Dr. Anbe said. "We conduct free classes throughout the state. Anyone may sign up for a class by calling any office of the Michigan Heart Association."

Facing prejudice made her strong

Experiencing prejudice makes you grow stronger. Leslie Uggams speaks from experience.

"I always remember who I am and where I came from, despite my fortunate success," the entertainer said in Southfield last week.

"I faced many difficulties created by my minority status, so I know of prejudice and I believe that by helping one another, Jews and blacks can overcome the senseless hatreds and stand very tall together."

Ms. Uggams spoke at the "Bond Between Us" luncheon sponsored by State of Israel Bonds.

Ms. Uggams said she has raised money for Israel as far back as her teen years at a professional school.

"I've never been to Israel, but I've always wanted to go and it's on my list."

As far as tension between Jews and Blacks, Ms. Uggams said for her there are none. "I don't feel it at all," she said.

"I live in the heart of Beverly Hills, know all kinds of people, and I think all blacks want peace as much as Israel wants peace. We can do without violence. I'm from the Martin Luther King school."

FOR MS. UGGAMS all schooling began on the streets and stoops of Washington Heights, a section of New York City dubbed by one comedian as "the suburb of Harlem."

Among the hustlers, the heavies and the day-to-day neighborhood people, Leslie Uggams gathered with friends, prepared to sing and dance to impromptu audiences.

"I was always a ham," she admits. "I would sing and dance at the drop of a hat."

To correct her knock-knees and to direct their daughter to a better lifestyle, Ms. Uggams' parents sent her to a nearby dancing school where her talent was noticed. She tried out in local auditions and talent shows.

At age 6, she made her television debut portraying the niece of Ethel Waters on "Beulah." Later she appeared on the Milton Berle Show, The Show of Shows and children's programs. She

A course to certify teens in babysitting is being offered by the Wayne County 4-H office at 3716 Newberry in Wayne. The cost of the six-week course is $1.

To be covered during the sessions are an introduction to child care and babysitting, how to entertain children, games and activities for children, food and nutrition, first aid and parties for pre-schoolers.

The course is given at 4:30 p.m. each Wednesday. For more information call the 4-H office at 721-6576.

Galeria concert scheduled Sunday

The second of four "Music at the Galeria" series concerts at St. Mary's College, Orchard Lake, will star Roma Riddell, soprano; Ginka Ortega, flutist; and Lawrence LaGore, pianist, at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 18.

Professional Children's School for show business children in New York.

EXPOSED TO two different environments, her own and that of upper-class whites, she found herself in something of a dilemma.

"It was like living in two worlds," she recalled. "On one hand I was attending a sophisticated white school where everything was so proper and smooth."

"On the other hand, I still lived on 64th Street, which can get a little crazy at times. I'd get all dressed for school and then come home, slip on my jeans and go outside and sing with the kids in the neighborhood."

When she was 15, Ms. Uggams submitted a letter to a TV station requesting an appearance on "Name That Tune." She was accepted and also met Mitch Miller who signed her to a recording contract.

Less than a year later, she was a regular on the "Sing Along with Mitch" television program.

Being black, Ms. Uggams faced difficulties on the show despite high ratings. Southern stations shied away from the program because of her color.

She recalls Miller took a stand and faced them down. "If you don't want her then you don't want me," she remembers him saying.

There were more successes in nightclubs and on the stage for the young singer, who also hosted her own television series and starred in a number of TV specials.

Married to producer Grahame Pratt, she has two children a daughter, Danielle, and son, Jason.

IF LIFE and its realities have taught her a lot, she contends nothing taught her more than her role as Kizzie in Alex Haley's "Roots."

The saga of slavery was a revelation to her.

"I didn't know what my own great-grandmother went through," she said. "I could never get my own grandmother to talk about it. But I learned so much and I thank Alex Haley for that."

"It made me terribly angry and it was painful. I find it difficult to comprehend what one human being can do to another."

OUR FASCINATING WORLD OF FISH BY BILL AYTES Neptune Aquarium

In parts of South America is a so-called "four-eye" fish; the eyes are so constructed so the upper half is used for seeing objects out of water, while the lower half peers around for food beneath the surface.

The tanned skin of a certain species of shark produces highly satisfactory leather, for such products as wallets and handbags.

Goldfish flourish in fish farms in South-Central Missouri because the climate there is like that of north China, their original home.

Free advice is available for weatherproofing homes

Where can I get free help to make my house more weather proof?
Franklyn T., Detroit

The Energy Administration in the Michigan Department of Commerce has published a home energy audit as part of its "Project Conserve," a personalized home energy audit computer program designed to help save money and conserve energy in the home.

"Project Conserve" works like this: You request the questionnaire by calling the Energy Hotline toll-free at 1-800-292-4704. After you receive it, fill it out and mail it in the postage-paid envelope that is provided.

Within two or three weeks, a Homeowner Report will be returned to you which includes suggested energy saving steps you may wish to take such as weatherstripping, caulking, storm windows, insulation.

Also included will be estimates of how much you will save in both dollars and energy, and estimates of how much the energy-saving steps will cost if you do them yourself, or if you have a contractor do them. Finally there will be a folder entitled "Understanding your Home Energy Audit Homeowner Report," which will explain the energy-saving steps, how to accomplish them, and give information on how to get financing.

Any Michigan resident may participate in this program and there is no charge. It is designed for single-family homes.

The Energy Extension Service Clearinghouse operates an information service on a variety of subjects concerning energy, conservation, renewable resources, such as solar, wind, and water, new technologies and community and financial assistance.

These are available by calling energy hotline, 1-800-292-4704 or by writing the Energy Extension Service Clearinghouse, Energy Administration, Michigan Department of Commerce, P.O. Box 30228, Lansing 48909.

Concern, Inc., Detroit answers your questions on consumer and environmental issues. For Eco-tip No. 56 on Energy Conservation, or for Eco-tip No. 15, an environmental update including insulation, send 50 cents (each) and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Concern, Inc. ## Hospital seeks location for clinic

Henry Ford Hospital researchers are looking for a location in the Plymouth-Canton area for an outpatient medical center.

It will be similar to outpatient clinics already established by the hospital in Dearborn and West Bloomfield. These centers offer various medical specialties along with emergency care, laboratory and X-ray services and a pharmacy.

The clinic will serve individual patients as well as those who are members of a health maintenance organization called the Health Alliance Plan. At the present time members of this medical insurance plan organization join through the place where they work. Soon it will be offered to the public.

Among the organizations whose employees participate in HAP are the big three auto companies, the state of Michigan, American Automobile Association, Bank of the Commonwealth and the Detroit Bank and Trust.

Under this plan participants are entitled to both hospitalization and day-to-day medical care such as office visits, physical examinations, lab tests, X-rays and allergy testing for a small fee.

The plan, which involves both Henry Ford Hospital and Metropolitan Hospital as well as their outlying clinics, has 78,914 members.

Chairman of the HAP board is Jack Shelton, manager of the Ford Motor Co. employee insurance department. Its three vice chairmen are Ken Bannon, vice president of the United Auto Workers; Stanley Nelson, executive vice president of Henry Ford Hospital; and Beatrice Mazer, administrative assistant for the Detroit Federation of Teachers.

Board secretary is Anna Taylor, assistant corporation counsel for the city of Detroit. HAP president is James Halworth. Patrick Piscopo is its treasurer.

Her fiancé is a graduate of MSU with a degree in financial administration. He is a 1975 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School and is a pre-optometry student at Ferris.

They plan to be married in August.

Winners of the Plymouth Historical Museum's photo contest have been announced. Professional photographers Bill Bresler, Gary Caskey and Bob Woodring judged the 79 entries.

There were three categories, pictorial, animals and portraits. Gary Barber's black and white picture of a tree in Hines Park was first in the pictorial group. Warren Bain earned second place honors and Pam Weymeyer came in third. Honorable mentions went to Donald Sellers and Fred Prezioso. All are Plymouth residents.

A photograph of two cats by Karen Turner was first in the animal category. Warren Bain was second and Karen Turner was third. All three live in Plymouth.

Pamela Fellows of Canton Township had the prize-winning photograph in the portrait division. Fred Prezioso was second and Melissa Slade of Plymouth came in third. Gerald Duquette of Farmington Hills received honorable mention.

The museum is open from 1-4 p.m. Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

Eleven charter members form the organization. Susan Schrader is the president.

Other officers are Donna Keough, vice-president; Jan Carney, recording secretary; Sharon Rucinski, treasurer; and Elizabeth Gribble, historian/parliamentarian.

Other charter members are Jan Dersey, Michelle Dorrington, Mary Kehoe, Nancy Mather, Sharon Saelzler and Dee Winter.

munity will find the Civitans a congenial and active service club.

As well as their major project, the Special Olympics, the club has contributed to the community in many ways. They will continue the snowblowing project initiated last winter. Members get out early in the morning and clear walks and driveways of senior residents and those unable to do their own snow shoveling.

Those who benefitted from the service last year were so grateful, the Civitans plan to keep up the good work.

WINTER IS . . . BIG TREE SEASON!

Why wait? Now is a great time to select a large shade tree for planting in your yard this winter

Here's Why: Trees enter a state of dormancy in the winter season; their vascular systems are frozen and inactive. Careful digging and moving at this time of year is much easier on the tree than when it has foliage and an active vascular system. In general, trees dug in the winter will produce more foliage the following summer.

Bridge Club sponsors charity game

The Plymouth Community Bridge Club is sponsoring a game to aid the Mental Health Association on Tuesday, Nov. 20. All interested bridge players are invited to participate.

Plymouth players will join thousands of others throughout the world on that evening in an unusual competition to benefit the association.

Play will begin at 7:30 p.m., in the Cultural Center, 525 Farmer.

Joan Funkhouser, 8759 Westchester, Canton, is chairman for the Plymouth tourney. Assisting her are Helen Gilbert, Fran Lang, M. J. Willette and Joyce Kelly.

The competition will feature players from the U.S., Canada, Mexico, the Far East, Alaska and Singapore. Every player in every game in every city will play the same hands.

One winner will emerge, the pair with the best percentage score on the computer-dealt hands.

All the players in the American Contract Bridge League's fall North American championships in Cincinnati will participate.

Prizes will be presented to ACBL continent-wide winners as well as to the victors in each of 25 districts within the ACBL.

Masterpoints will be awarded to all who finish well in each game. Masterpoints are a method of ranking duplicate bridge players on an international basis.

Proceeds from the game will be distributed throughout the ACBL Charity Foundation to the Mental Health Association. The grant will be used for research into the causes and treatment of mental illness.

Winners in the Plymouth club's meetings last week at the Cultural Center were as follows:

Tuesday evening, for North-South, Bob Kinsler and Jack Paul, first, and Sharon and Dan Flower, second; and for East-West, Janet Bone and Loretta Smith, first; and Herb Lundy and Mike Hughes, second.

Wednesday morning, for North-South, Bev Dietrich and Freda Galli, first, and M. N. Willette and Fran Lang, second; and East-West, Jim Warren and Emily Durham, first, and Jane Pettit and Hazel Kline, second.

It's beginning to look . . .

... a lot like Christmas at the Plymouth Historical Museum. Members of the Apple Run branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association were there earlier this week decorating a tree

Columnist Nickie McWhirter challenges readers

By JEAN DAY

Ever since, early in 1977, an executive editor of the Detroit Free Press thought there was "an audience out there" for Nickie McWhirter's voice, her observations and opinions have been challenging column readers four times a week.

Now syndicated in 85 newspapers in United States and Canada, her column won the top award for column writing from the Michigan Associated Press last year. This was only one of several citations.

Last Thursday Glenna McWhirter told a packed Northville Town Hall audience at the Plymouth Hilton Inn why she thinks the column has been so successful.

"One of the reasons, I think, is that we threw away the idea that the newspaper audience is comprised of those with a 10-year-old mentality."

Her aim has been to "challenge people to think." Her goal is not just to entertain.

"I have emotional responses and the feeling that I want to share them," she told her audience, saying she was susceptible to outrage against the absurd, unjust, irrational and the lazy.

As an example of the absurd, she cited a Clairol Company Christmas promotion of electric tweezers a couple of years ago.

"I feel sorrow and was saddened by the death of Chad Green in Mexico of leukemia. I'm sure his parents thought they were doing the right thing taking him there for treatment, but I'm saddened that they will carry to their graves the hint that they didn't do what was right."

"Don't dump more on them," she urged, mentioning that there had been talk of prosecution for taking the child out of the country.

She described her feeling of joy as she rose at 7 a.m. one morning last June to drive to Grand Rapids to attend her son's commencement at Grand Valley State College.

"I suddenly realized that these traditional rites of passage exert pressure on family members to think of this child. It's a celebration of blood and family."

Ms. McWhirter had written a column about that graduation day that struck a responsive chord with many readers. Last Thursday she also identified with many in her audience as she talked of her daughter's upcoming wedding December 1.

Her daughter and her twin sons, as well as her divorce about eight years ago, have been a basis for column observations.

Questioned at the luncheon, she said that she and her husband, Ed McWhirter, had had a "Doris Day and Rock Hudson marriage for 20 years with never a single fight or argument."

Their concern during the divorce, she said, was to give minimal danger to the children. Her sons were high school seniors then and her daughter Suzanne was in college.

"What is my value system; what do I stand for? I don't know," she told her audience with the candor readers have come to expect.

"I have one constant: honesty. I believe honesty in relationships is the most important single thing we can try to teach our children."

"I see such a lot of dishonesty in marriage. There's the housewife who abides what she dislikes because she feels it's her duty."

"There's dishonesty in extramarital affairs. They cheat all parties involved. It's terribly unsatisfactory for the woman who can't dial him at 3 a.m. and say 'I can't sleep. Talk to me a while.' He lives with guilt and there's a part of himself that is not his to give."

"With children we gloss over human sexuality. As a society we need to face up to what it is to be a sexual human and make sure our children understand and value it."

"We also don't share insecurities and fears with children. If the dog is ill, we can't seem to say, 'I really don't know what is going to happen.' We have to say it will be all right. And often it isn't. Then what do we say when the dog dies?"

The speaker continued that she feels honesty also is important in the world of work, noting that employers get a great deal of cheating today.

She added that she feels more honesty is needed in the Equal Rights Amendment discussions. "I advocate ratification. It's important not only to women but to men and society and the country."

She emphasized that in some states it still is illegal for a woman to own property. Such laws, she said, may have been passed in the past to protect women, but today they work against them.

However, she pointed out, if women want to be recognized as total human beings, they will have to give up some rights for others.

She observed that she felt women "have done a terrible job of raising sons. We tell them, 'don't cry' and then when they're grown we complain that they aren't demonstrative husbands."

In the new feeling of feminism, she believes it is important for a woman to feel "I will be strong," but it also is necessary for a man to be permitted to be weaker.

She suggested that everyone should have short and long-term goals.

"First and last, we have to be most accountable for ourselves," she declared. "We waste an awful lot of time dreaming, and, after all, time is life."

On self-love, she continued, "You can't love your neighbor, or your kids or the oak trees in your yard unless you love yourself first."

She defined this as having a good feeling about oneself and refusing to be exploited — as well as never exploiting others.

"To be a happy person you have to be honest about not living in boxes of others' creation; you need to shape your own."

Ms. McWhirter's training as an English major, with minors in philosophy, zoology and music from University of Michigan, comes through as she makes vivid allusions, such as that of "being boxed into roles of others' choosing," when she speaks and writes.

She's not an Ann Landers giving advice. She prefaces answers to questions with comments like, "I think" or "It seems to me."

Asked about adult children living with their parents, she observed that she feels about six months is long enough while the youngster saves up a rent deposit, adding that the child has much more respect for himself when he is independent.

Should a youngster living at home pay room and board? Usually only if it's needed to buy groceries, says Ms. McWhirter.

What would she do if a child were coming home intoxicated?

"If I thought he would be, I'd go to bed early and go right to sleep. It would be too embarrassing for him."

Nickie McWhirter mentioned that her own goals were to have a wider syndication of her column and to outline a novel.

This Want Ad appeared in the St. Helens (OR) Sentinel-Mist Chronicle. To the person or persons who stole my duck and goose decoys last weekend. "They were yours to use any time you asked. You thought it took courage to steal them. If you would like to know what real courage is, bring them back. Be assured you will be the first person I will loan them to." The ad was signed by Bill Nelson of Deer Island.

Thriving

A theater makes it with lots of work

By JOHN MacCOLL

It's often hard to explain why we do the things we do. Why volunteer 20 or 30 hours a week for something no one thanks you for, let alone pays you for? Why struggle with city officials who think you're just one more group looking for a handout? Why give your heart to an idea, when all you get is a bad review?

Why? "I REALLY CAN'T answer that. I guess I just love the theater," said Pat Secor. "I've been involved with it for so long, it becomes part of you. "When all is said and done and the curtain rises on a first-class production, well, it is worth it. It's a matter of pride." For 26 years, Pat Secor has led the Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford through every obstacle a theater group could encounter.

Howard Egan (left) and David Turrentine are two of the actors in the Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford production of "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

The next show

For this year's musical, the Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford is pulling out the stops.

"How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," one of three musicals to win a Pulitzer Prize, will include a cast of 25 and a 16-piece orchestra put together from area musicians.

It's the story of a young man who climbs to power — not by hard work, but by following the simple rules in a book — via some old-fashioned boy-meets-girl and let's-fall-in-love routines.

The show runs at 8 p.m. Nov. 23, 24, 30 and Dec. 1 in the Stevenson High School auditorium, 33500 Six Mile in Livonia.

"It was the only place in town with the stage area large enough for our cast and which had enough seats to accommodate us," said Pat Secor. "As it is, if we sell out every night, the best we can do is break even."

The guild has received support from the Livonia Arts Commission for the play, which is costing $8,000 to produce. "We aren't going to hold back on this one," Ms. Secor said. Tickets are $5. For reservations, call 421-2500, ext. 221.

She looked back to some of the early days of the group. "Money was always the major problem. Years ago, Livonia wasn't exactly the cultural center of Detroit and raising funds for a community theater was very difficult.

"There wasn't even a mayor in those days to go and ask for civic help.

"We did our first show, 'East Lynne,' in the Bentley High gymnasium," she said. "It wasn't exactly the ideal place to have a play. Someone would cough and the echo could be heard better than the actors."

For years, the guild couldn't do more than one or two shows a year.

"We decided that one good show a year was better than trying to do too much and not do them up to our standard," she said.

Now there are four shows per season.

KEEPING MEMBERS who are interested in more than being a star is not easy. After all, the audience sees only the final product.

But a cast of 10 will require 1 1/2 times that many behind the scenes — selling tickets, selling advertising, building scenery, making costumes, setting lights, recording special effects and doing makeup, not to mention directors, musicians and others.

They are jobs that never receive the applause, jobs that find their acclaim printed in a long list somewhere in the back of a rather long program.

But let one person fail in a duty and the entire production can be jeopardized.

"We've always tried to run our guild like a business, but we've had problems with key people moving away from the area, people not having the time to spare, problems with equipment breaking down," Ms. Secor said.

"One winter, the furnace broke down and we didn't have the funds to fix it. The group nearly fell apart.

"Fortunately, at the time we were involved in the Furay Community Theater Festival of Detroit. Our show, 'Lion in Winter,' took first prize of $1,000.

"There has been a number of those do-or-die situations, but we always pull it together and somehow, someone comes to the rescue."

MAINTAINING consistency is the true test of any theater group. Imagine 26 years of different directors, different actors and actresses, different egos.

Each play is a new set of situations to be molded into a night's entertainment. Each time, the group's reputation is put on display for public adoration or disclaim.

One bad play and future financial support can vanish.

"Last year, we did 'Equus,'" said Ms. Secor. "A lot of people said it couldn't be done, that it was too controversial for a little group like ours, too hard."

"Well, we not only did it, we again took first prize at the festival."

The group has open auditions and encourages an influx of new talent.

"To use the same people over and over is to invite stagnancy and to limit the audience," said Ms. Secor. "Our first goal is always to do a better show than the last."

THE GUILD'S latest project is to raise funds for new facilities. Members are hoping for more space — to rehearse, to store old sets and costumes and to allow for larger productions.

This means they need more money, Ms. Secor said.

"It seems we never get ahead. We sell out and there isn't any money left over. Each year is like starting over."

Sonnet side up

Hungry for poetry? Just pass the toast

Do you prefer your iambic pentameter over easy or scrambled?

Such may be the dilemma facing people in "Breakfast and Poetry," a new literature course starting Jan. 8 at Schoolcraft College.

The course will be just what the name implies: students get to eat breakfast while they study poetry.

English instructor Joanne Stein says both people who have never read poems (but who presumably like to eat breakfast) and those who love the stuff are welcome to enroll.

"This is one of those college courses people treat themselves to," she says. "It's a luxury."

THE COURSE is an introduction to reading and appreciating poetry. Besides reading a variety of poems from an anthology, students can pursue a personal interest such as collecting poems on a single topic, studying the work of one poet or writing some sonnets.

"We'll consider some of the elements that go into the making of poetry, such as sound, imagery, figures of speech and symbol," Ms. Stein says. "In some ways, the course will be traditional. But in other ways, it will be very untraditional."

One of the untraditional ways, of course, is getting breakfast in class.

Three of the sessions will have meals planned by chef Robert Breithaupt, assistant dean for culinary arts at the college.

"All other class meetings will be breakfasts, too," Ms. Stein says. "We'll have a room with tables in the liberal arts building, and we'll all contribute to the menu."

The three-credit class will meet 9:30-11 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays for the 16-week winter term.

Prospective students may enroll by mail until Nov. 23 or in person Dec. 17-18. Final registration will be Jan. 2-3.

People who have never attended Schoolcraft must first visit the college admissions office. For more information, call the college at 591-6400.

Poet Grace Butcher will appear Friday in the Liberal Arts Theater at Schoolcraft. She will discuss poetry writing at 3 p.m. and read from her work at 8 p.m. Admission is free to both sessions. Ms. Butcher has published four books of poetry and won a number of awards. The college is on Haggerty north of Six Mile.

ANTIQUES will fill the Light Guard Armory through Sunday for the Detroit Holiday Antique Show and Sale, with over 70 dealers from 18 states. Included: care plates, books, furniture, political memorabilia and other items. Hours are 1-11 p.m. through Saturday, 1-8 p.m. Sunday. The armory is at 4400 E. Eight Mile.

SCHOOLCRAFT College continues its dinner theater performance of "The Real Inspector Hound" Friday and Saturday in the Waterman Campus Center. Dinner is at 7 p.m. and the play begins at 8:30. Reserved tickets are $10. For more info, call 591-6400, ext. 265.

COUNTRY music will be broadcast live noon to 10 p.m. Sunday on WPAG-FM (107.1) in Ann Arbor. Local performers such as Steve Nardella, Gemini and Steve Newhouse will be featured.

GREENFIELD Village Players will perform "The Devil and Daniel Webster," written by Stephen Vincent Benet, at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Henry Ford Museum Theater. In the play, orator Webster argues with the devil over the fate of farmer Jabez Stone's soul. Admission is free after the regular admission to the museum, $3.75 for adults and $1.75 for children 6-12.

THE CANTON singers, a new group patterned after the Johnny Mann Singers, is meeting 7:30-9:30 p.m. Mondays at Plymouth Canton High School, Joy and Canton Center roads. Prospective members will be auditioned. There are no residency requirements.

NOVI'S community theater group, Stage One Productions, is having an open house 7:30-10:30 p.m. Friday at the Novi Community Hall, on Novi Road just north of Grand River. Refreshments will be served. Anyone interested in joining community theater, or in finding out what the group is up to, is invited.

GERSHWIN'S famous "An American in Paris" is on the screen this weekend at the Redford Theater. The film includes Leslie Caron in her screen debut and choreography by Gene Kelly. Shows are at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 1 p.m. Sunday. An overture on the theater's pipe organ starts a half-hour before each movie showing. Admission is $2. The Redford Theater is at 17360 Lahser just north of Grand River.

MICHIGAN plants in danger is the subject of an exhibit at the Matthaei Botanical Gardens of the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Shown are plants considered in danger of extinction. The Botanical Gardens are on North Dixboro Road south of Ann Arbor Road (M-14) and west of M-23. The conservatory is open 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. every day; the surrounding grounds are open during sunlight hours.

KENNY Burrell and his quartet with vocalist Ernie Andrews open Friday at Baker's Keyboard Lounge in Detroit for shows through Nov. 25. The jazz club is at 20510 Livernois just south of Eight Mile. For reservations, call 864-1200.

MARITIME Canada is the subject this weekend at the World Adventure Series. Art Wilson will narrate his film of salmon fishing on the Miramichi River, fossil cliffs at Nova Scotia and icebergs on the beaches of Newfoundland at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium. For tickets, call 832-7676.

JAZZ ensemble Antares performs original material at 8 p.m. Monday in the Fair Lane Conference Center at the University of Michigan-Dearborn. Admission is free. The campus is on Evergreen south of Ford Road.

NIGHTCAP with Mozart continues at 11:30 p.m. Friday with a chamber music trio on flute, cello and harpsichord at the Birmingham Unitarian Church, 651 Woodward in Bloomfield Hills. Wine and beverages are served at 11 p.m. Tickets are $5 at the door. The performers stick around for conversation afterward. For info, call 851-8934.

AN EXHIBIT of student works in printmaking opens Friday in the Yamasaki Gallery of the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit. Hours are 9 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday-Thursday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday-Saturday. The school is on Kirby a block east of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

FARMINGTON Players continue their production of "The Prisoner of Second Avenue" at 8:30 p.m. Friday through Sunday at the group's playhouse, at 32332 W. 12 Mile.

Nature centers active

Park naturalists busy year-round

Late fall. Frost and overcast skies. You'd think everyone but deer hunters would be slowing down, but news items from the Huron-Clinton Metroparks nature centers keep rolling in.

"Our big push is spring and fall," said Patricia Carlson, supervising naturalist at Kensington Park. "The end of July and August are our slowest weeks."

"Winter weekdays are slow. But winter weekends for the past 10 years have been fairly strong — a nice, steady flow of visitors," she said.

Mrs. Carlson's explanation: "More people are refusing to be cooped up in winter. There are more winter hikers, and cross country skiing has grown up in the last 15 years."

THE NATURE centers of Kensington, Stony Creek and Oakwoods metroparks provide speakers and tours for groups and classes. They also provide exhibits and short nature trails for solitary nature lovers who just drop in.

What Pat Carlson has pioneered, however, are programs for individuals, couples and families. Examples:

- "Animal homes," a nature walk at 9 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 17. Those who sign up will be guided on a look at animal shelters, where they're found, how they're built.

- "Predation — A Matter of Food," at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 18.

- "When Pine and Paul Bunyan Were Kings," a program of slides and demonstrations at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 28.

In season, naturalists cover shore life, waterfowl, deer, fall colors, geology and plants.

The new Oakwoods park near Flat Rock boasts a canoe trail.

"Evening programs are tremendous hits," said Mrs. Carlson, citing stargazing.

ONE-THIRD of the participants are there for the first time, a survey shows, and two-thirds are repeaters.

Participants are asked to call the nature center in advance to reserve space, even though programs are free. "We have to limit registration. I'd rather have 25 to 35 persons really enjoy the walk than have 50 show up with some unable to see or hear," said Mrs. Carlson.

While the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority boasts nature centers at Stony Creek and Oakwoods too, Mrs. Carlson considers Kensington's best because of its wide variety of habitat.

Kensington's is also the most popular because it is on the main drive through the park rather than in a corner.

THE TEAM of naturalists at Kensington is balanced in its interests.

Bob Hotaling's specialties are geology and birds. He has a master of science degree in resource planning and conservation from the University of Michigan, where he was president of an earth science honorary society. He edits the Washtenaw Audubon Society's newsletter. As a student, Hotaling worked for an oil company and in oceanographic research.

Steve Horn knows fish and wildlife and is rated as the best staff artist and photographer. His bachelor of science degree in park and recreation resources was earned at Michigan State University. He worked at the state's Waterloo and Yankee Springs recreation areas before joining HCMA.

Dave Moilanen is the fellow who dresses up as Paul Bunyan for the logging program. He knows wildlife and botany. He earned a degree in economics and political science and even studied some law before going into natural resources at the University of Michigan. His naturalist job is seasonal, so he also may be encountered at the golf course, or in labeling trails at Hudson Mills Metropark near Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Carlson has a bachelor of science degree from MSU and was at the city of Detroit's Rouge Park before joining HCMA in 1965. She is prominent in many professional groups such as the Association of Interpretive Naturalists.

ARE THERE any job openings?

"There are more applicants than jobs," said Mrs. Carlson, pointing to Moilanen's "seasonal" status. "When pursestrings tighten, we're the first to go. We could double our staff at this center and serve the public."

Dave Moilanen (above) dresses up as Paul Bunyan for a program on logging at the Hudson Mills Metropark. Pat Carlson (right) holds a stuffed badger in the nature center at Kensington. (Staff photos)

But if you're interested in the field, she has this advice: "The most important thing is the personality. It helps to have knowledge of a 'back-up' field — scriptwriting, cartoons, background drawings, photography."

What do park naturalists do on their vacations? "We're not different from anyone else," Mrs. Carlson said. "Some like night life, others scuba diving. I like travel, swimming, photography, cooking and trying out strange and exotic foods."

An artist draws on history and ethnicity in his work

By LOUISE OKRUTSKY

Although he draws heavily upon his Armenian heritage in his work, Kegham Tazian doesn't want to be pegged an Armenian artist.

Like Chagall who drew what he knew best, his Russian Jewish villagers, Tazian, 41, wants to use his ethnic background to illuminate universal experiences.

He uses his background because it is a part of him and influences the way he views the world.

"It's not a gimmick kind of thing," said the artist who teaches at Oakland Community College, Orchard Ridge campus.

Instead, he wants to use references to Armenian culture to enhance the aura of mystery in his paintings. He is appealing to the viewer who wants more than a cursory look at a painting or a piece of sculpture. He wants to entice the viewer into taking a while to delve into the work.

For this reason he employs such devices as pieces of the Armenian alphabet and hieroglyphics. These forms are used the same as any textured object. Sometimes they are only forms without any inherent message.

"There is no particular message in the letters," admitted Tazian. Tazian is a resident of Birmingham.

"THERE ARE very obscure messages, sometimes. I want to retain the intrigue of the person who wants to delve into a work beyond its surface value.

"I want to create a sense of the unknown, of intrigue for viewers. I don't want to have pictures for them to look at for five seconds and be done with," he said.

His interpretation of the Armenian alphabet, architecture and locales come together in a watercolor or dominated by geometric shapes which Tazian uses to bring across the idea of resurrection of historical locales.

The theme of a time now lost is enhanced by Tazian's use of hieroglyphics and Egyptian inspired lines in his sculpture. His small clay busts have the hard-edged line of Egyptian tomb painting.

Besides working with architectural forms in his paintings and sculptures, he also uses natural materials in his work.

One small sculpture, "Nature's Way" indicates how he handles natural materials so man-made ideas don't interfere with nature's way. A rounded piece of wood is polished to show off the grain.

In the open interior of the circle of wood are two tiny metal renderings of a man and woman about to embrace. The metal and the wood don't compete for attention, they coexist.

"I WANTED TO USE what's there without altering nature's gift," he explained.

That attitude of discovering something special in each painting or sculpture is the basis of Tazian's technique.

Without making preliminary sketches, he looks for certain elements of color, and texture.

Beginning with this sense of mystery and discovery, he ends with a canvas such as the one depicting an Armenian prelate eavesdropping. The prelate's robes and the scenery are undefined. He is listening intently to unseen peasants singing as they work. Later, as the story on which the canvas is based continues, the prelate will write down the songs and preserve them.

But the viewer of Tazian's painting does not see this and may not know of the story. He does see the prelate's face clearly defined with eyes staring out in awe and anticipation.

By juggling mystery, spontaneity and experiences common to all, Tazian hopes to grow in his art.

In addition to teaching for 12 years at OCC's Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Hills, Tazian has participated at the Armenian Art Association of America's exhibit in Yerevan, Soviet Armenia.

A one-man show of his work opened this month at the Armenian Apostolic Church of America (Eastern Prelacy) in New York City.

It's the time for nouveau

Nov. 15 is a magic day in the Beaujolais area of France each year.

That's the day the year's vintage is first presented to the people. Great festivals are held locally and great quantities are shipped to Lyon, Paris and London to honor the crush of that year.

This wine, called "nouveau" or "primeur," is prepared in a special manner. The grapes aren't crushed in the traditional press. Rather, they are piled on top of each other and squeezed so the fermentation goes on inside the unbroken grape.

This method, known as carbonic maceration, produces a particularly light, fresh, piquant wine much enjoyed by some enthusiasts.

It's a festive wine and not a particularly serious one. It is one more example of the rich lore of wine, and the festivity of that day reflects the joy and anticipation of a long year of wine growth and its harvest.

WHEN HELD in the bottle too long this wine undergoes rather drastic changes. The fresh, berry-like quality deteriorates within months and a more typical Beaujolais-like quality emerges.

The trick is to drink it young, at least within three or four months of bottling. Because of shipping time involved, it has historically been impossible to obtain nouveau in the mid-eastern United States while it is still fresh.

New York has had it, we have not, for the most part.

But this chic thing has come to California and it is now possible to drink nouveau here in Michigan before Christmas. Indeed it is a delightful accompaniment to cold turkey sandwiches and goes well with Rose Bowl watching.

Even the innovators in the industry, Sebastiani Brothers, in 1973 released the first California wine made from the Gamay Beaujolais grape. They were soon followed by Mirassou.

By the 1976 crush there were nearly a dozen wineries producing nouveau or primeur.

The Zinfandel grape was also used rather successfully for a time.

One winery, Stag's Leap Vineyards, made one, under the name Barboza, from the Pinot Noir grape with rather disastrous results. It was available recently bearing a 1978 vintage date. Hopefully for the good of the industry it won't be repeated.

The surge has leveled off, but Sebastiani (Noveau) and Mirassou (Primeur) continue to supply us each year with a release in early December.

At under five dollars a bottle, they are worthwhile purchases for the moderately adventuresome. But don't hold this wine past the snow season and serve it a bit chilled.

It may ease the recent pains we have been experiencing in Pasadena and remind us that California's excellence in football is exceeded by its wines.

Impressionist work in U-M Museum

Paintings by French Impressionist masters Claude Monet, Pierre-Auguste Renoir, Edgar Degas and Camille Pissarro are among 56 works of art included in an exhibition through Jan. 6 at the University of Michigan Museum of Art.

Called "The Crisis of Impressionism, 1878-1882," the exhibition brings together for the first time in this century works by the major impressionists and the other less well-known artists who participated in the impressionist group exhibitions in Paris during the years just before and after 1880.

At that time disagreements among the impressionists over exhibition policy, artistic direction and group membership contributed to a crisis that eventually led to the movement's breakup.

Conceived by Guest Curator Joel Isaacson, U-M professor of art history, and organized by Isaacson and his students in collaboration with the museum staff, the exhibition will be shown only at the U-M Museum of Art.

THE EXHIBITION explores an aspect of the impressionist movement that has until now received little attention from scholars, according to Isaacson.

The formation of the Impressionist group in 1874, he says, was probably the most significant development in the drive for the artists' independence from institutional controls during the second half of the 19th century in France.

But in the late 1870s and early 1880s, there was growing divisiveness among the artists involved.

Artistic, personal, social and economic factors caused key impressionists Renoir, Monet, Paul Cezanne and Alfred Sisley to again exhibit their work at the annual, official salons, which they earlier had boycotted, Isaacson says.

At the same time, he explains, arguments arose within the remainder of the group over new, younger members whom Degas had brought into the impressionist exhibitions.

These disputes culminated in 1882, when Renoir, Monet and Sisley rejoined the impressionist exhibition, but Degas refused to exhibit in protest against the barring of his proteges, Isaacson points out.

The exhibition and accompanying catalogue is the result of Isaacson's research beginning in the fall of 1976 when the U-M Museum of Art acquired a pivotal Monet painting from 1880: "Floating Ice." In 1978, he taught a graduate seminar on the breakup of the impressionist group.

AMONG THE major works in the exhibition — featuring loans secured from museums and private collections in France, Switzerland, England and throughout the United States — are Monet's "Sunset on the Seine, Winter Effect" from the Petit Palais in Paris; Degas' sculpture "Little Dancer of Fourteen Years" from the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

A scholarly symposium, "Directions and Redirections: Impressionism around 1880," will be held in conjunction with the exhibition on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1.

Participants, in addition to Isaacson and U-M History Professor Raymond Grew, will be Theodore Reff and Krik Varnedoe, both of Columbia University; Robert Herbert, Yale University; and Richard Brettell, the University of Texas at Austin. Isaacson and Grew also will give a colloquium, "Impressionism around 1880: A Reassessment," on Dec. 7.

Free public tours of the exhibition will be led by Museum docents at 1 p.m. Sundays. Special group tours may be arranged by calling 763-1231.

The Museum is located at the corner of South State and South University. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sunday. Admission to the Museum and to all exhibition related programs is free.

Hemingway portrayed in Black Sheep show

Ernest Hemingway — author, sportsman and fierce friend — will be recreated for Black Sheep Repertory Theater audiences in "Hem: An Interview," an original one-man show by Robert Beaupre this Friday through Sunday in Manchester.

The research and work behind "Hem: An Interview" began in August 1977. After spending 18 months reading, writing, rewriting and rehearsing, Beaupre premiered his show in February 1979 at the Black Sheep Theater. Since that time, Beaupre has taken his show to theaters throughout the Midwest.

The setting for the show is Cuba, six months before Hemingway's suicide. The fictional premise behind "Hem: An Interview" is that Hemingway finally grants one press interview — except that no questions shall be asked.

Instead, he will tell, in his own gruff, rambling way, stories about his friends and writings — with no interruptions.

Beaupre returned to the Black Sheep Company this fall in "Same Time, Next Year." An original company member, he was granted time away to travel to New York City, where he appeared in the American premier of "Provincial Anecdotes."

Beaupre spent two years at Wayne State University before leaving for Paris, where he studied mime and theater. One of his current goals is to complete a French translation of his one-man show to tour through Canada and Europe.

"Hem: An Interview" will play only one weekend in November. Friday and Saturday performances will be at 8:15 p.m., and the Sunday matinee time is 4 p.m. Reservations may be made by phoning 428-9280.

Realism in Meadow Brook art show

A new show and a lecture series open at Meadow Brook Gallery on Sunday Nov. 18.

This second exhibition of the gallery's fall season is "America in the '70s as Depicted by Artists in the Richard Brown Baker Collection." The focus is on the strong revival of realism in this decade.

Ivan Karp of the O.K. Harris Works of Art in New York City is the first speaker in the new series. Both Karp and Baker will be honored at a preview reception and lunch at 12:30 p.m. Sunday and at 2:30 p.m. Karp will speak on "Current Art Trends." There is a charge of $20 for the reception, luncheon and lecture. Admission to the lecture alone is $3 per person, $2 for OU students and gallery association members. For information, call 377-3005.

There will be about 40 paintings by 30 artists in the new exhibit including well-known photo-realists such as John Baeder, Robert Bechtle, Ralph Goings and Richard McLean. Relatively unknown artists such as Paul Caranicas, represented by his pencil and graphite drawings, Russel Drisch, photographic composition and Martin Hoffman, farm machinery, are also in the collection. Drisch's work was exhibited at the former Lee Hoffman Gallery, Birmingham in June 1977.

The collector, Richard Brown Baker, was born in Providence, R. I. and makes his home in New York City. He was educated at Yale and Oxford and has studied painting at the Art Students League of New York, and under Hans Hofmann. He began collecting in 1949 and has devoted himself to contemporary artists since 1955.

Baker's collection is considered one of the most outstanding in contemporary art in the United States and has been represented in numerous museums including the Museum of Modern Art, the Guggenheim Museum and the Yale University Art Gallery.

Lecturer, art historian and art dealer, Karp has been a major force in recognizing, supporting and exhibiting new art talent since 1956. An early scout, many of his artists are now internationally recognized. He frequently appears on TV, radio and in major museum programs. Karp is considered a pioneer in locating gallery space in the now well-known Soho area of New York City.

Funds raised from the two Nov. 18 events will benefit future Meadow Brook Art Gallery programs and exhibitions. Both Karp and Baker are listed in "Who's Who in American Art."

The gallery is in Wilson Hall on the Oakland University campus, adjacent to the entry to Meadow Brook Theatre. Hours are 1-5 p.m., Tuesday-Friday; 2-6:30 p.m., Saturday and Sunday evenings when there is a Meadow Brook Theater performance.

Organist

Carlo Curley will give the inaugural concert on the largest church organ in the Midwest at 3 p.m. Sunday in Metropolitan Methodist Church, 8000 Woodward in Detroit. The organ has over 7,000 pipes in four chambers and nine divisions. Tickets are available by calling the church at 875-7407.

Jaki Byard in Saturday jazz concert

Eclipse Jazz will present pianist Jaki Byard in a solo performance at 8 and 10:30 p.m. Saturday in the Pendleton Room of the Michigan Union, on the University of Michigan Campus in Ann Arbor.

Since the '30s, pianist Jaki Byard has worked with a dazzling array of jazz musicians. At one time or another, Byard has worked with Duke Ellington, Charles Mingus, Rahsaan Roland Kirk, Eric Dolphy, Earl Fatha Hines, Don Ellis, George Benson, Maynard Ferguson, Archie Shepp, Zoot Sims, Clark Terry, Paul Desmond and many others.

One of the first Boston musicians to play and write bebop, Byard is most noted for his solo piano work. He also plays saxophone, trumpet, flute, bass, trombone, vibes, guitar, organ, and drums.

A prolific composer and arranger, Byard leads two big bands, the Apollo Stompers, in Boston and New York.

Since 1969, when Gunter Schuller brought him to Boston's New England Conservatory of Music, Byard has been teaching composition orchestration and piano there. He also teaches at the Julius Hart School of Music in Hartford, Conn.

Tickets for Jaki Byard are priced for general admission and are available at the Michigan Union Box Office, or at the door. For more information call Eclipse Jazz at 763-5924.

This concert, part of Eclipse Jazz's Bright Moments Series, is made possible in part by a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

In conjunction with his performance, Byard will hold a workshop at 4 p.m. Saturday in the Pendleton Room. The workshop is free and open to the public.

Polish puppeteers Tuesday at DIA

Marcinek, internationally acclaimed puppet and actor theater from Poznan, Poland, will appear in "The Little Tiger" for two performances only, on Tuesday, Nov. 20, in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium.

Performances will take place at 10 a.m. for school groups and at 7:30 p.m. for families. Tickets are available through the Art Institute ticket office, 832-2730.

Employing Marcinek's "contrastive media" technique, both actors and string and hand puppets will be featured in the hour-long musical with English narrative.

Written by H. Januszewska, "The Little Tiger" tells the story of a young tiger who, much like the Cowardly Lion of "The Wizard of Oz," finds his courage when challenged. The evening performance will be followed by a period of conversation between the performers and the audience.

One of the pioneer Polish puppet companies, Marcinek first gave performances in 1945 primarily for young children and later extended its repertoire for high school students.

While this is its premiere American tour, the company has, in previous years, appeared before family and school audiences in Cuba and Mexico. Next spring, Marcinek will perform for the 1980 International Festival of Puppetry in the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington.

For tickets and reservation information about "The Little Tiger," call the Art Institute ticket office at 832-2730.

Glee clubs meet for Saturday song

The men's glee clubs of Wayne State University and the University of Michigan will perform in a joint concert at 8 p.m. Saturday at Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor.

This is the first time the U-M club has hosted the WSU club for a joint concert; Wayne has hosted U-M on two occasions in Detroit.

Tickets are $2 to $4, available at the Hill Auditorium box office.

The WSU glee club will open the program, performing several selections including "Trosterin Musik" by Anton Bruckner, and "Haec Est Dies" by former glee club member Lawrence Nuckolls.

The glee club's barbershop quartet, the Four Muscatels, will also perform. Two selections will feature solo vocalists — "I Dream of Jeannie" by Stephen Foster and the spiritual "Every Time I Feel the Spirit."

After intermission, the U-M club will present its half of the concert.

To conclude, the groups will combine to perform "The Omnipotence" by Franz Schubert and the alma maters of both universities.

Renaissance music Sunday afternoon

Music of the 15th century will be performed on period instruments by Amsterdam's Syntagma Musicum on Sunday at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The concert will be given at 3 p.m. in the museum's Recital Hall. Tickets at $7 are available at the museum's ticket office, 832-2730.

Syntagma Musicum will play compositions from the "Odhecaton," the first book of music, published in 1501.

Series tickets are available at $15 from the museum ticket office.
