Managers' association frowned upon by board

They don't like the word "quasi-union."

But township employees who are not represented by labor organizations say they want a voice in the determination of their salaries and fringe benefits.

The department heads and police command officers say they could have joined a union to negotiate those matters with the township.

But, as finance director Mike Gorman put it, "A union was only discussed from the standpoint that we don't want it."

So the employees — who consider themselves part of management — asked the township board recently to recognize an association of 11 department heads and an organization of five police commanders.

Representatives of the two associations would meet with elected officials to negotiate an agreement on salaries, fringe benefits and work policies to at least equal those of their workers. No outside labor organization would be involved.

THE TOWNSHIP BOARD did not recognize the two associations at a meeting held earlier this month.

Board members applauded the decision of their employees to forego joining a union, but objected to the formal sound of the word "association."

The board's indication that a written policy would be formulated has apparently satisfied the wants of the two employee groups, however.

Gorman, a township negotiator on all union contracts, and police Lt. Larry Stewart said they do not care whether the word association is used or not.

They have already met with personnel director Dan Durack to discuss the needs and desires of the two non-union groups. Durack would be a member of the proposed department-head association if it is ever formed.

The township board has directed Durack to submit his recommendation for the written policies to the merit commission. That commission will submit its recommendation to the township board by Feb. 1.

Board members indicated that the employees would be welcome to form associations after that date if the suggested written policies are unacceptable.

Gorman and Stewart said that a major goal of the two employee groups is a written assurance that the supervisors will receive at least the same salaries and fringe benefits as their subordinates.

The supervisors are now the only non-elected township employees who are not union members.

IN SOME CASES, department managers are receiving less fringe benefits than their workers.

In the police department, for example, unionized patrol officers receive 12 vacation days a year under their first union contract with the township. Stewart said police commanders receive only five.

Unionized members of the department receive an annual clothing allowance of $400, but the commanders get only $300, Stewart said.

All police employees receive 12 paid holidays a year. But the commanders are paid a lump sum of $650 in holiday pay — less than what the patrol officers get on per-diem basis.

Gorman said township department heads want written assurance that their salaries will remain above the pay of their employees, whose contracts mandate annual salary hikes.

According to Gorman, unionized building inspectors would receive higher pay than their supervisors if a tentative contract agreement is ratified by the township board.

Gorman said department head salaries are normally reviewed by the township board in January. But two years ago, department heads did not receive salary increases until August.

STEWART AND GORMAN admit that the associations proposed by their co-workers would operate like a quasi-union. But they objected to use of the word.

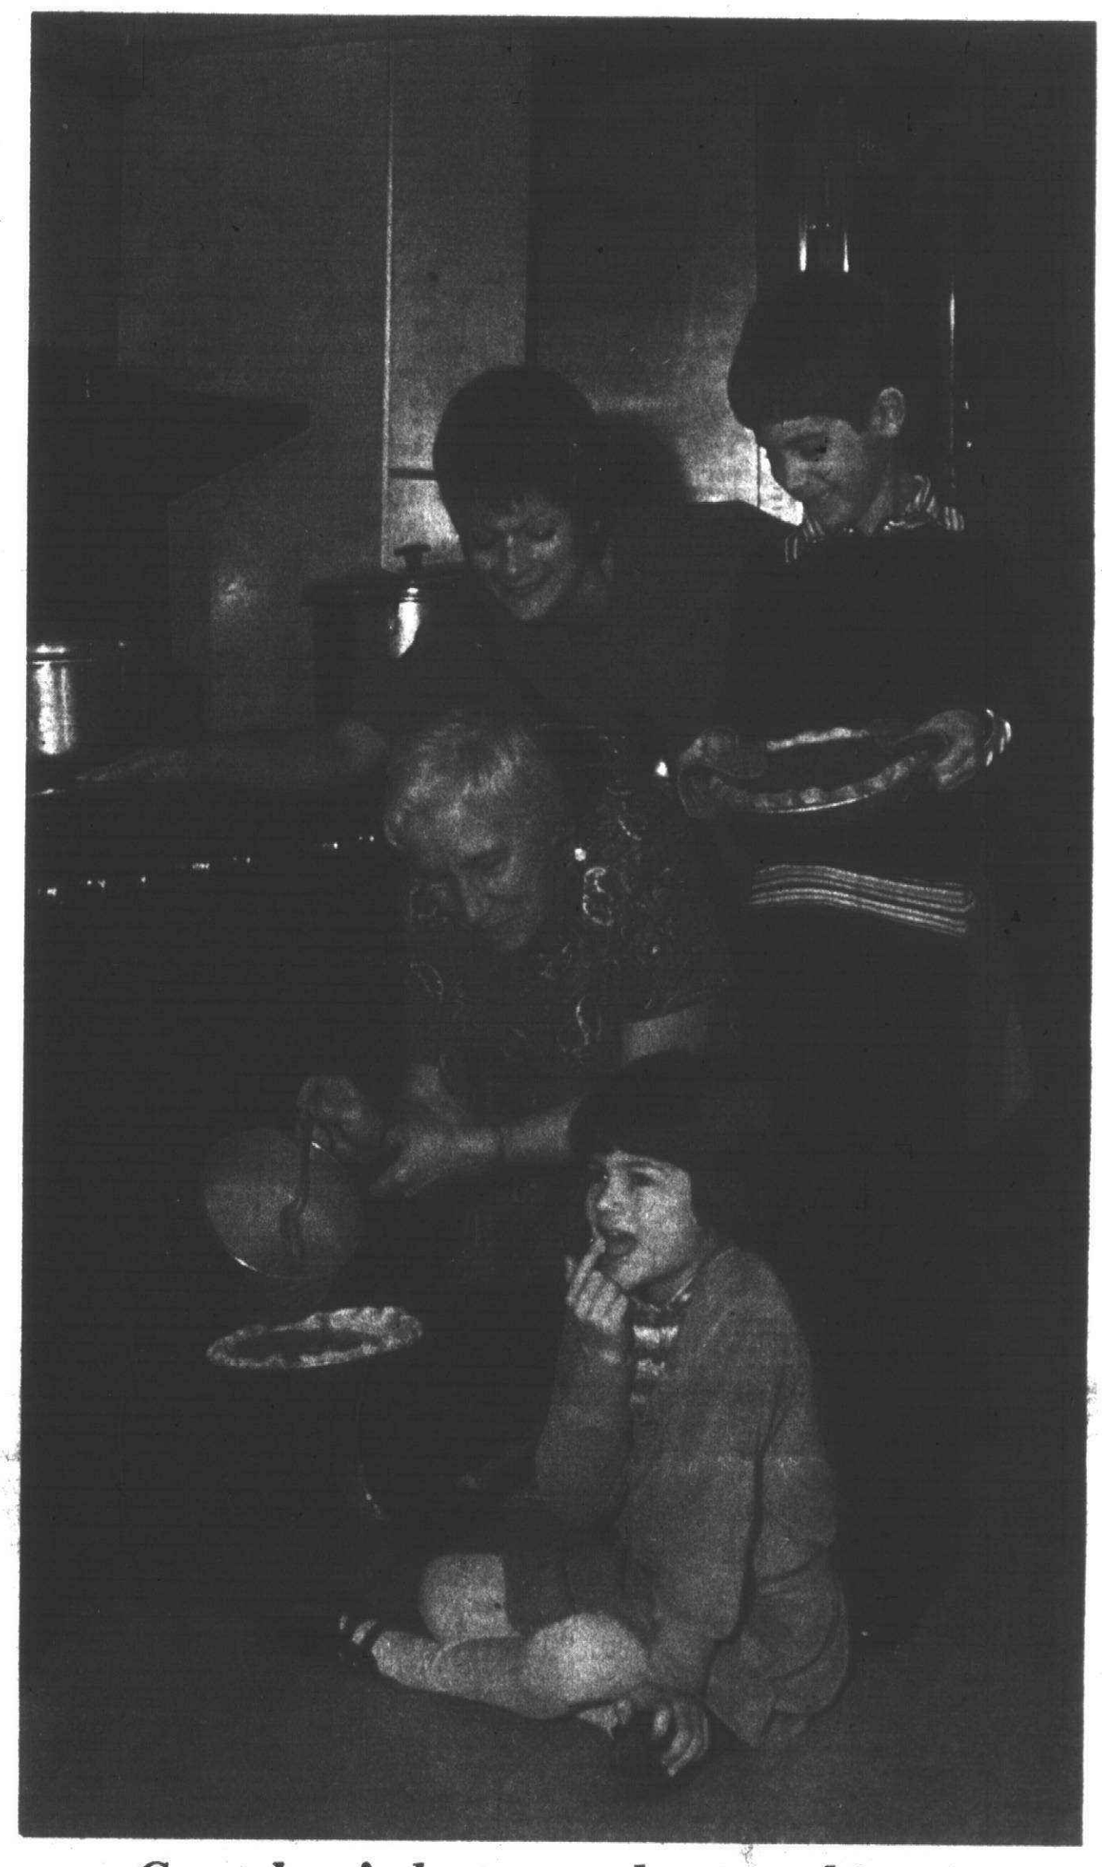

"It's a matter of semantics," Gorman admitted. "But 'union' sometimes has the connotation of being adversary.

"Because we are department heads, we feel we are part of the management team. We don't want to be fighting the board."

The proposed Police Command Officers Association would have included the department's one lieutenant and four sergeants.

The Department Heads Association would have included the police chief, the fire chief, the DPW superintendent and foreman, the recreation superintendent, the recreation director, the building official, the deputy building official, the plan reviewer, the personnel director and the finance director.

Planner Jim Kosteva and grant coordinator Terry Carroll would have been excluded from the organizations. Both department heads are working for the township on a contractual basis.

Grandma's homemade pumpkin pie

Watching grandma bake homemade pumpkin pie at Thanksgiving time is a favorite memory for many. For the Trittens of Plymouth Township, the memory is very recent as the children and their mother recently watched grandma put some homemade pies into the oven in the Plymouth Grange. Shown above are Grandma Louise Tritten pouring, Pam Tritten looking over grandma's shoulder, and her children — Kristie, 6, getting in a taste, and Danny, 8, holding the finished product. Party store robbery yields two arrests

A Westland man and a former employee of the Star Shop Party Store at Ford and Lilley have been arrested for allegedly robbing the store of $2,500 last September.

Charged with armed robbery and the use of a firearm in the commission of a felony are Raymond Joseph Battles, 41, of Westland, and Gloria Perusse, 21, of Westland.

Ms. Perusse worked at the store approximately six weeks before the robbery took place, according to store manager Rick Benoit. She quit a few weeks after the incident.

According to Canton police, Battles entered the store on the evening of Sept. 26 with a gun and ordered employee Marvin Wethington to lie on the floor. Ms. Perusse was working in the store with Wethington at the time.

The armed robbery charge carries a maximum penalty of life inprisonment. The use of a firearm in the commission of a felony carries a mandatory two- to five-year jail sentence.

Arraignment on the charges has not been scheduled in 35th District Court.

According to police, Battles and Ms. Perusse are now in custody in Dearborn Heights on armed robbery charges in that city. Charges are also pending against the pair in Westland.

Benoit said he did not suspect Ms. Perusse of involvement in the armed robbery during her employment at the party store.

At attorney's advice

Shopping center approved

Site plans for a shopping center at Sheldon and Palmer were approved by the township board last week, despite the unavailability of water and sewer services at this time.

The action rescinds a Nov. 6 vote of the township board to deny site plans for the 37,000-square-foot shopping center because of water and sewer problems.

The project is not included on a Michigan Health Department list of developments which will be allowed tap-ins to the water system. The state imposed a temporary moratorium on tap-ins in Canton and Westland because of severe water pressure problems that both communities are experiencing.

Township engineers also say that an existing sewer system in the Sheldon-Palmer area lacks the capacity to serve the proposed shopping center. Developer Robert Acchione has refused to build an extension to the system.

But an opinion from township attorney Bert Burgoyne prompted board members to change their minds about the project last week.

Burgoyne told the board that townships lack the authority to deny site plans for projects which meet zoning requirements only because of utility problems.

Although the site plan was approved last week, township officials believe that utility problems will block construction of the project for at least the next year.

Wayne County and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources must give its approval of projects before the Canton building department will issue construction permits.

Site plan approvals expire after a one-year period.

Trustee Robert Greenstein, an attorney, maintained at the township board's Nov. 6 meeting that site plan denial of the project for utility reasons would give Acchione a sound legal reason for suing the township.

Supervisor Noel Culbert, who is also an attorney, was the only board member who voted against approving the project last week. Greenstein blasted Culbert for his vote.

"You're copping out when the rest of us are stuck," the trustee said. "None of us like this, and none of us want to take the fire for this. But we have to."

Residents who live near the shopping center site have objected to the project. Major roads in the vicinity are unpaved.

Volunteers sought to help with census

Volunteers to see that Canton's population is fully counted during the 1980 census are being sought.

Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert says he is in the process of forming a complete count committee and would like persons interested in serving on it to contact him within the next two weeks.

The purpose of the committee will be to back up the process of counting the population in the census conducted by the federal government every 10 years.

This year, Culbert says, the federal census bureau plans to send cards out and then follow up in person on those who do not return the cards.

"It's not very exciting, but it may be the most important thing we do during the next 10 years," Culbert says. Many federal and state programs are based on a community's population.

Culbert estimates Canton's population as reaching 50,000 by April, when the government census is scheduled to begin.

The census process is expected to take several months.

Short Takes

The Kitchen Band can

Canton Township parks and recreation department's very own senior citizen Kitchen Band will be featured Nov. 28 at 7 p.m. on the PM Magazine TV show. The program is on channel 2. The band's members play a variety of weird and unusual instruments. Delores Edwards, the township's senior citizen supervisor, coordinates the band's efforts. Should you miss the television airing, the Kitchen Band can often be seen in action at community events throughout the year.

The Claus that refreshes

Brightly colored mailboxes, said to be a direct line to old Santa Claus himself, have been placed in Canton's Krogers and Kmart stores. Children who put their names, addresss and phone numbers on a blank card in the mailboxes may be one of the three lucky youngsters who will be chosen to be a Santa's Helper once St. Nick gets to town. It's all part of the Canton Chamber of Commerce and local merchant's annual effort to bring Santa Claus to the township. Claus usually arrives sometime at the end of this month via helicopter and then takes up residence until right before Christmas.

By the way, Santa will also be happy to read letters sent via the mailboxes.

Park planning

A special meeting of the Canton Township Board of Trustees has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday in order to discuss development of the John W. Flodin community park.

Included on the agenda are items such as consideration of a master plan for the park, hiring of an architect and allocation of funds for park development.

About $500,000 is being considered for use in development of the park. The money is available from the federal revenue sharing program.

But subway remains key

Buses won't be forgotten when rapid rail comes along

By TOM LONERGAN

Buses will be the backbone of a Detroit metropolitan area transportation system, despite all the talk of rail rapid transit.

That was the message from Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) officials in the first of a series of public meetings on the 1990 regional transportation plan. The meeting was Tuesday in Livonia's new city hall.

About 60 persons attended the informational warm-up to a series of required public hearings on the transportation plan. The first hearing will be held in Livonia city hall at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 26.

THE POLITICAL dispute between Detroit and suburban officials over whether to build an underground rail transit line in the Woodward corridor has received the lion's share of publicity since discussions of the public transportation plan got serious four years ago.

In April, a compromise was reached as the 15-member SEMTA Board of Directors adopted a "preferred" plan that included a subway between the Renaissance Center and New Center (Grand Boulevard) areas in Detroit.

The remainder of the light rail — or modern street car system — would be elevated to McNichols Road and surface to the State Fair grounds south of Eight Mile.

According to SEMTA board chairman and Livonia mayor Edward McNamara, a subway remains the key to what the board will decide Dec. 18 when it is scheduled to make a final decision on the transportation plan.

"The whole key to this thing is what we do on Woodward Avenue," McNamara said. The increased bus service provided in the plan is "fixed," he added.

NO MATTER what plan is adopted for the Woodward corridor, the 1990 master plan will expand SEMTA's large bus fleet by about 30 percent to 1,350 vehicles, according to general manager Larry E. Salci and staff engineer George Swede.

To be added are:

- 120 buses to fixed routes.
- 195 buses will be used for Park and Ride express service. Forty additional Park and Ride routes will be added.

SEMTA now adds about 50 large buses to its fleet per year. Local adoption and federal approval of a regional transportation plan would provide more federal money to buy more buses.

THE SMALL bus fleet is due to be nearly quadrupled to 444 vehicles.

The number of Wayne County buses will be expanded to decrease the waiting time on existing routes, but no numbers of additional buses were available.

New routes are planned to provide bus service between major shopping centers.

For western Wayne, the regional transportation plan proposes increased service in Westland, along the Seven Mile Road and Middlebelt/Inkster routes and more Park and Ride service in Canton, Livonia and Farmington. No precise numbers were available.

During the 1980s, SEMTA commuter rail service will be expanded to 22 trips daily between Ann Arbor and Detroit, with station stops along the Michigan corridor.

Amtrak now operates one commuter train along that route.

MORE THAN 300 small buses would be added to the current fleet that provides reserved service to the elderly and handicapped. The small buses would be expanded to provide feeder service for the general public.

The Wayne County Advanced Reservation Transit (WAYCART) service began in April with 25 buses. The system is planned for expansion to 80 buses by the end of next year.

Despite SEMTA's emphasis in its brochure, displays and staff comments on bus expansion at the Tuesday meeting, audience questions on the downtown Detroit "People Mover" and the Woodward rail line dominated the discussion.

There were no questions regarding a regional transportation tax, which will likely be needed to operate the system.

SEMTA would like to establish a 50 cents base fare for the system, which is set by "social, not business type reasons," Salci said.

Fare box revenues would only cover a portion of the system's estimated $371 million operating costs by 1990.

A deficit of $80 million could exist in 1990, which could lead to a regional transportation tax. Such a tax would have to be approved by metropolitan area voters, probably in only Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

LIVONIA COUNCILMAN Robert Bennett asked why the majority of the $1.4 billion in capital investment for the system is for the Woodward corridor, rather than dispersed along other freeway and railroad corridors.

"We are only allowed (by federal policy) to invest in one corridor at a time," responded Salci. Woodward was selected because of "high ridership volume and to develop potential along that corridor," he said. The only two other corridors considered seriously were Gratiot and Michigan.

The rail line would replace 55 buses on Woodward, and SEMTA expects daily ridership to increase by 161,000 persons.

The federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) in 1976 committed $600 million for construction of the regional system. The amount could be increased to $900 million, according to recent speculation in Washington.

WHILE CONSTRUCTION costs for a rail system are higher, operating costs per passenger would be lower.

Among the eight alternatives SEMTA has considered for regional transportation, the "do-nothing" plan of replacing existing buses would cost nearly $281 million while the subway from downtown to McNichols plan would cost $1.44 billion. Thus, the net cost of any plan beyond the "do-nothing" concept is about $1.2 billion.

Salci said the preferred plan, with considerably less underground subway, was selected in April to save $40 million.

But the environmental and property value impact of the elevated line from Grand Boulevard to McNichols may lead to some changes. "It may be surface or subway in that area," Salci said.

REGARDLESS of what plan is finally adopted, SEMTA officials say the federal government will cover 80 percent of the capital costs and the state will kick in 20 percent.

Mary Childs elected mayor

Mary Childs has been re-elected mayor by the Plymouth City Commission.

Mayor Childs was elected by a unanimous vote of the new city commission at its organizational meeting last Tuesday.

Commissioner Eldon "Bud" Martin was elected mayor pro tem, also by a unanimous vote.

The organizational meeting began with certificates of appreciation being presented to outgoing commissioners Beverly McAninch and James Houk.

Deputy Clerk John Behman then administered the oath of office to recently re-elected incumbents Martin and Jack Kenyon and to newly-elected Ronald Loiselle and Karl Gansler.

Childs was appointed mayor upon the resignation of Tom Turner in August and Martin was named to replace her as mayor pro tem.

Kenyon was appointed to the commission by Childs to replace Turner.

A freight train comes around the bend on the way through Plymouth. Local fire officials are concerned that such trains carrying dangerous chemicals could derail and cause a disaster in the Plymouth-Canton area.

Freight trains, cargos sometimes carry risks

By TERI BANAS

The liklihood of a major train derailment occurring here community similar to those that shook towns in Michigan, Canada and Florida recently is not impossible, say local firefighters.

In fact, it's downright frightening.

At least one major train rolls through the Plymouth-Canton area every 15 minutes and almost all carry some hazardous material, fire department officials say.

"It scares the hell out of you," said township firefighter Sgt. Randy Maycock.

"If people knew what came through here while they slept at night, they wouldn't want to live here," said Township Fire Chief Larry Groth.

Groth added his immediate reaction to accounts of three recent railroad mishaps was: "It's always a possibility. All those chemicals are hauled through Plymouth Township too. It's a good possibility."

Freight trains hauling anything from small auto parts to propane gas are a fact of life to residents in an area where surface streets are blocked by trains daily.

According to local estimates, some 50 trains roll through the community each day. The city is the Chessie Railroad System's main intersection for cargo crisscrossing the state to the north and south as well as to the east and west. Main runs head from Grand Rapids to Detroit and Toledo to Saginaw.

IN MISSISSAUGA, Ontario, last week some 200,000 residents were evacuated after a freight train carrying chlorine gas derailed, leaking some 70 tons of its contents. There were no serious injuries but officials called it one of the "biggest evacuations in North American history."

Last Monday, approximately 1,000 residents of Holland Township were evacuated after a tanker containing hydrogen fluoride gas derailed, taking with it three other box cars.

According to the news reports, the accident occurred at 12:45 a.m. Monday and the incident was cleared up in about two hours after the Chessie System brought in equipment from Indiana. The substance was enroute to the DuPont Chemical Co. in Montague.

In Florida that weekend six proGpane railroad cars derailed. Officials planned to use explosives to end the threat of the burning mass.

The threat of such mishaps happening locally is one fire officials are concerned with. They say their role as emergency workers has taken on a new dimension since the growth of infinite types of industrial chemicals

The days when firemen's work merely involved building and grass fires are long gone. Fighting chemcial fires is a risky business they say and one that involves extensive evcuation

On Oct. 31 township fire fighters were called out to a stopped train just east of Beck Road near the Ford Motor Co. Sheldon plant. A car carrying some 50,000 gallons of menthanol, a highly flammable liquid, was discovered leaking about 3:30 a.m. Upon Groth's request, the car was moved a quarter mile west of the Ford plant and away from nearby homes.

While on the site, local fireighters discovered a second leaking car which had been filled beyond capacity. Groth said this is the same substnace as involved in the Florida mishap.

Groth said the car was enroute to Ohio and was not scheduled to stop here. It was stopped for inspection only because a new shift of rail employees came on the scene and were required to inspect it.

This situation was not cleared up until about 9 a.m. when a railroad official arrived from Columbus to handle it. Groth said he was told the Columbus agent was the closest on hand.

Most recently in the Plymouth area, two box cars of scrap metal slipped off the Chessie line about 6 a.m. Nov. 9. Chessie spokesperson Jim Ward said a total of six wheels detached from the track and as of mid-week it was still under investigation.

"We have not rectified the situation as to why it left a good track." he said.

According to a regional spokeperson for Chessie, there are several causes of train derailments. The most frequent area:

- Defects in the track.
- Equipment failure on the train
- Errors caused by crew members resulting in a failure in the train's operation

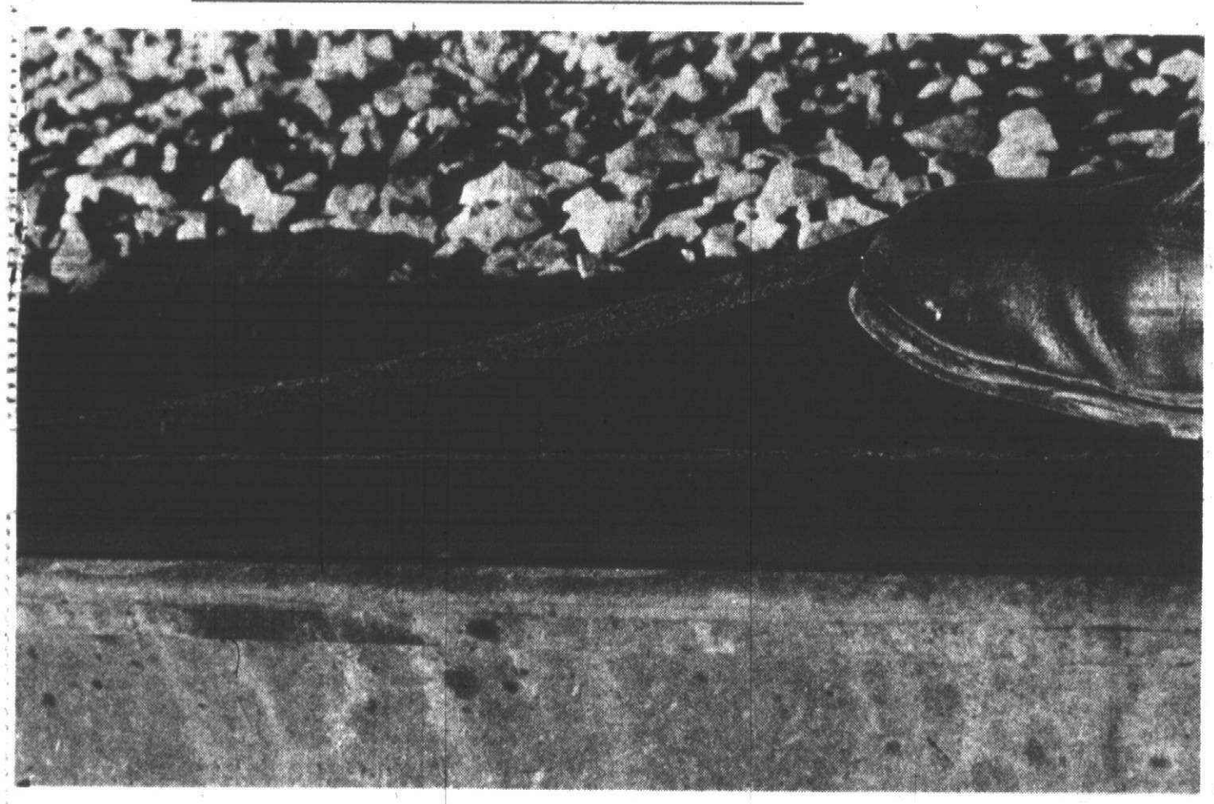

Among less frequent causes of mishaps are:

- Equipment failure caused by vandalism. Chessie spokesperson Lloyd Lewis said one of the biggest spills in history caused eight deaths when someone flipped an intersection switch.
- Sabotage.
- An "act of God." A previous derailment in Florida was caused by a wash out of the tracks just two hours after they were inspected.
- "Harmonic rock off." Due to engineering defects, it has been discovered that some train cars will derail when the car reaches a certain speed and begins shifting its cargo.

A split in the tracks is just one of the many defects that could cause a train derailment.

Plymouth Township Fire Dept. Sgt. Randy Maycock examines the tracks for signs of defects.

The joint of the rail is ruptured, another factor that could lead to a train accident.

Crossing guard lawsuit adds more defendants

Canton Township and the city of Plymouth will soon become involved in the school crossing guard lawsuit.

Attorneys for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education have asked the presiding judge to bring into the lawsuit as interested parties Canton, the city, the Wayne County Sheriff, and the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

At issue in the lawsuit is whether municipal governments must share in the expense of providing crossing guards at school sites.

The lawsuit was filed in 1976 when the school board declared it would eliminate crossing guards in any community where governmental authorities refused to share in the expense.

That declaration was aimed at Plymouth Township, which steadfastly had refused requests from the school board to contribute.

(Canton and the city of Plymouth had been paying a pro-rated share.)

When that threat was made, a group of Plymouth Township residents hired attorney James E. McCarthy, who filed a lawsuit against the school district.

Initially Wayne County Circuit Court issued an injunction ordering the school board to provide crossing guards until the case was heard and a verdict issued.

Since 1976, however, the issue has remained pending in court — unresolved.

LAMBERTO DISTEFANO, from the school board's local law firm of Draugelis, Ashton and Scully, described the lawsuit as being "in a holding pattern right now."

DiStefano plans to file a motion asking Wayne Circuit Judge Roland Olzark to bring into the lawsuit the city of Plymouth, Canton, the road commission and county commissioners as third party defendants.

That motion will be filed, he added, as soon as Plymouth Township Attorney Donald Morgan consents to the change, which he is expected to do soon.

Plymouth Township became a party to the lawsuit in '76 at the request of the school district because of its position that the township should pay a proportion of the cost of the crossing guards.

Although Canton and the city had been paying their share all along, in recent years the city took the position it would not pay unless Plymouth Township also agreed.

In fact, during the current budget year the city has placed in escrow its share for crossing guards and won't release the funds to the district unless the township contributes.

For the school district some $30,000 is at stake just for the past school year, counting the city's share which is in escrow.

Plymouth Township's contested share, going back four years to 1976, involves some $72,000.

Based on June 1979 figures compiled by the school administration, the costs for crossing guards for the '78-79 school year were: seven guards in the city at $17,865; five guards in Plymouth Township at $12,878; and five guards in Canton at $12,331.

The total of $43,074 included a mandatory pension contribution of 5 percent of salary, a $12,000 life insurance policy, and long-term disability insurance.

McCarthy filed the lawsuit on behalf of parents in the Bird Elementary attendance area concerned about the removal of a crossing guard at Hartsough and Sheldon.

SINCE THE LAWSUIT was filed in 1976, two developments have occurred with a direct bearing on the legal issue.

The Michigan Legislature approved a bill, which went into effect in 1978, which places the responsibility for school crossing guards on municipal governments.

(The law did not require that crossing guards be provided but stated that where they were provided, the municipality would pay for salary and benefits.)

In a lawsuit between Pontiac Public Schools and Pontiac Township, Oakland Circuit Court also ruled the burden to pay guards rested with the municipality.

Legislation recently has been introduced, however, in Lansing which would place the fiscal responsibility with school districts.

The school district did not protest the injunction in 1976 because it was not the board's intent to eliminate crossing guards. The schools decided it was best to provide guards for the safety of elementary pupils until the legal dispute was settled.

Thus the "temporary" injunction is in its fourth year.

Plymouth Township has instructed Morgan to defend the case and not to agree to any compromise on sharing the costs.

"The general consensus in the past has been that the Township of Plymouth did not see its governmental role as providing funding for school crossing guards over which it had no control either as to need, location, or terms or conditions of employment."

Across the state there is a mixed practice of paying for crossing guards. In some areas the school district pays the entire cost; in others, the municipal government pays the bill; and in other areas, the cost is shared between the two.

Have a Happy Thanksgiving

Cargos could be deadly

tion Director Woodford said state and federal officials consider train derailments a top priority today because of the number of occurrences in recent years.

He cites two reasons for their frequency. Track maintenance has been neglected and cars are carrying heavier cargos.

"They used to have 40-80 ton cars. Today they're bigger — up to 100 tons."

Lewis, on the other hand, disagrees that there are more derailments today. He claims rail shipment of hazardous chemicals is safer than shipment by truck. It's just that rail disaster attract more media attention because they're more dramatic.

According to Lewis, there are two major manufacturers of chemicals that ship through the Plymouth area, Dow Chemical based in Midland and another manufacturer based in Sarnia, Ontario.

He added the line is asked to ship as many as 1,600 different types of chemicals. Not only are liquid gases shipped but also various types of explosives and poisons. ?

LT. CHARLES GROTH, acting fire chief in Plymouth, said it's possible the entire downtown business and residential district would be evacuated if a railcar disaster occurred.

"The potential is there. I don't even like to think about it."

He added one reason why trains are required to keep speeds down to 10 mph while traveling through towns is to lessen the severity of any mishap.

"If it does derail, then there's less chance of getting more tanks involved."

According to fire officials from both communities, evacuation is the first step to take when a hazardous chemical is spilled.

They warn that additional explosions can occur within only two minutes up to 48 hours of the original derailment. Flying fragments also are a danger and have been reported to reach as far as 4,900 feet from the point of impact.

The extent of evacuation depends on prevailing wind conditions as well as the type of substance spilled.

A 200 foot chlorine gas spill, for example, calls for evacuation of an area that's one mile long by one half mile wide for maximum safety.

If the spill is soem 600 feet wide, it's suggested an area 1½ miles long and one mile wide be evacuated.

(Chlorine is a nonflamable but poisonous gas)

TRADITIONAL FIREFIGHTING methods have given way to new methods in dealing with hazardous material fires.

"Our main concern is to keep everyone back including ourselves, Groth said. "The role today is to stand back and allow the train officials to determine what's there." You don't just rush in."

Groth said firefighters feel the railroad authorities should be more responsive to their demands for supplying information about the type of cargo carried through this area.

When a train travels through the community, the most immediate person to supply this information is the train conductor, The worry is that if this employee were injured, there'd be a long delay in contacting other officials for the same information.

In the meantime, they say, the entire Plymouth community could be wiped out.

Both fire chiefs also have suggested that rail authorities stagger the tankers of hazardous material on one train run thereby lessening the danger of a chain reaction.

Groth said he personally has seen some propane tankers roll through Plymouth — and all are directly linked to one another.

"My concern has always been — why don't they break them up. The answer, I guess, is economy of time."

Lewis said federal regulation require that cars containing certain substances, such as explosives and deadly gases, be staggered although could not say what the limits are for certain materials.

THE CONDITION OF the train tracks through the area has been another concern among local firefighters who point to it as a possible cause of derailments.

Sgt. Maycock describes the train tracks west of Beck as "beyond terrible. It's just gross negligence."

"This stuff down here is just an accident waiting to happen."

Examining the tracks last week, he found various locations of deteriorated tracks and rail ties. In some places the steel tracks could could be broken away with little pressure.

According to Lewis, there are 12 railroad inspectors for Michigan who are responsible for finding these defects.

He added Chessie has spent some $8 million in repairs on its Michigan tracks in the past three years.

ORANGE HONEY LOAF

¾ cup orange juice
½ cup honey
¼ cup oil
1 egg, slightly beaten
1½ cups flour
1 cup whole bran cereal
1 tablespoon baking powder
½ cup chopped pitted dates (optional)
¼ cup chopped walnuts
Creamy Orange Filling

Preheat oven to 350° F.

In small bowl, blend juice, honey, oil and egg.

In large bowl, combine flour, cereal, baking powder, dates and walnuts; gradually add liquids, stirring just until moistened.

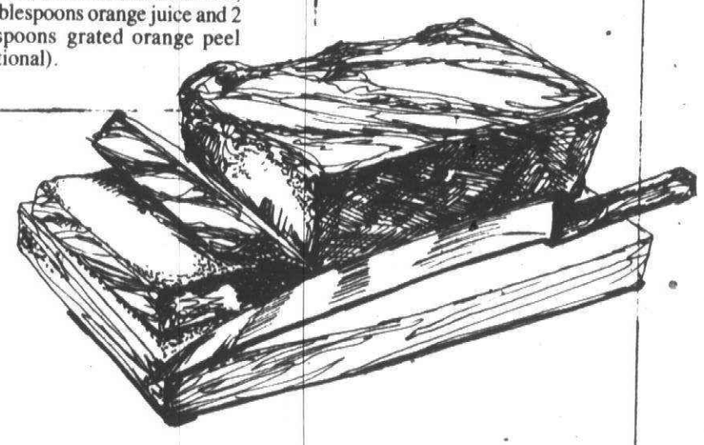

Turn half batter into greased 9" x 5" x 3" loaf pan.

The Stroller

Fooling Father Time

By W.W. EDGAR

There was no mistaking the voice when The Stroller was awakened by the shout "Happy Birthday!" Sure enough, it was Old Father Time rushing in to mark another milestone on his journey when he placed a big 82 on the calendar.

The old gent with the long white hair and the scythe didn't tarry long. In other years he sat and visited a bit. Then, for the first time when he walked out of the doorway, he called back, "Many happy returns of the day."

There was something about that parting message that gave The Stroller cause to reflect on how lucky he has been on his journey. Only twice during the long stroll has he been in danger of the Old Man calling a halt.

NOW, ON THIS anniversary of his natal day, The Stroller vividly recalls, with a laugh, the first time he was in danger of having his journey terminated.

It was years ago, back in the Pennsylvania Dutch country, when he suddenly was stricken with what was hastily diagnosed as acute appendicitis. The doctor's word caused a flurry in the household as he ordered the patient to the hospital "pronto."

As luck would have it, there was no ambulance in our little town. But one of our neighbors was a mortician named William Rogers and he had a large sedan. He was called upon for help and he responded.

Mile after mile he raced his sedan to the Allentown Hospital. In due time, The Stroller was admitted and placed in a room. He was there only a few minutes with a nurse when Mr. Rogers came racing back out of breath. "I almost forgot to say goodbye," he said and then added, "I'll be down to get you in a few days."

As he departed, the nurse tried to console her patient by saying, "Wasn't that nice of him?" The Stroller just looked up, and despite the pain, answered, "He's the undertaker."

Quite a bit of scurrying took place until they finally reached Mr. Rogers at home and gave him a verbal blasting. He explained that the remark was made in all innocence. He did come down 55 days later when it was definitely decided that The Stroller had beaten Father Time.

THE NEXT CLOSE call came years later in Chicago while The Stroller was covering a Golden Gloves boxing tournament.

On this night, he caught a chill at ringside. He struggled through the assignment. But when he reached the outdoors to call a cab, he had "the shakes."

On returning to the hotel, the tournament doctor advised that he be sent to St. Luke's Hospital. He was taken there in the middle of the night and placed under the care of a Dr. Gilbert, who was considered one of the best chest experts in the state.

He conducted the examination, but said nothing. Exactly one week later, The Stroller was discharged. As he walked away from the office, Dr. Gilbert stepped forth to wish him well.

"I never thought I would see this day," he said. "Young man, do you realize you were dying when you entered the hospital. You were suffering from lobar pneumonia. Few recover, but you did in a week, and I never have seen anything like it."

Again The Stroller had fooled Father Time.

And now, many times along the way, he has been asked if he uses any set formula to stay in good condition. He can only answer what an old gent told him years ago. As a cub reporter, The Stroller was assigned to interview a man on his 102nd birthday.

When he asked the old gent if he had any advice to give to the younger generation to help them reach a ripe old age, he answered, "Tell them just to keep breathing."

That's the best advice The Stroller ever was given.

The Flip Side

'Foreigner' stigma growing

Emotions have never run higher, in recent years, than the collective disgust by Americans over the seizure of 62 American embassy employees held hostage by Iranian students in Tehran.

Xenophobia, the hatred of foreigners, is flourishing in the name of national unity. It seems that the next logical step of the Ayatollah is to cut off the hand of all clocks as a gesture against American decadence.

Now is no time for levity. The lives of many people are on the line.

But this deplorable action taken by a reactionary, religious fanatic does not give the American people the right to hate all Iranians nor lump all Arabic, Iraqui, Chaldean or Mediterranean people on the enemy list.

A week ago Saturday, a young man picketed a combination party store/gas station in Royal Oak with a sign that said "Boycott Arabs." Daily Tribune reporter Robert S. Ball detailed that incident and a cross burning at a Madison Heights party store in last Monday's paper.

The protester refused to give his name to Ball, explaining that his anger with "Arabs" intensified after the hostages were seized by Iranian students and exploded after Iranians made an unsuccesful attempt at kidnaping Minnesota Gov. Al Quie.

Trouble is the owner of the party store wasn't an Arab and he wasn't Iranian. His name is Frank Kasha, and he's a Kurd who lived in Iraq, not Iran, until 1968. He became an American citizen in 1973.

INSIDE KASHA'S store is a photo clipped from Life magazine showing blindfolded Kurdish rebels being shot to death in a firing line by Iranian troops. Many Kurds are housed in refugee camps in Iran at this moment.

Apparently, the protester didn't let facts get in the way of his hatred. When Kasha tried to identify himself as a Kurd, not an Arab or an Iranian to the protester, "He said he didn't care," Kasha said last week.

"He said 'I don't think anybody who doesn't have blue eyes and blond hair has a right to live.' "

Kasha figures that even rules out his wife — "a complete American" — who has blond hair but green eyes.

They asked Royal Oak Police to make the protester leave the storefront. Police told Kasha's wife the man had a legitimate right to public protest. The police were probably right in protecting this nut's right to spew his misguided vitriol.

But what worried Kasha is that many people who drove by the store honked in support of the protest.

"What if it would've come on the radio that the Iranians had killed some hostages while the man was outside my store?" said Kasha. "They might have dragged me out on the street to take revenge. Definitely, I was afraid. Of course, I was afraid."

FEW PEOPLE are as ignorant or as racist as the party store protester.

Yet, I hear friends of mine saying we should send every Iranian in this country packing. I see students on campus holding posters with such bright slogans as "Nuke 'em."

I read about an upsurge in Ku Klux Klan activity against "foreigners."

But in talking to foreign student advisers at two Detroit area colleges, I am told there are many students here from Iran who only want to be left alone to learn such things as engineering.

Some, undoubtedly, fear returning to Iran if they are from upper-class families who supported the Shah.

What some Americans fail to recognize is that many people have a good reason for wanting the Shah brought to justice in a fair trial.

The Savak secret police force and the executions ordered by the Shah didn't upset most Americans. The seizure of American hostages has.

I just hope Americans don't let international acts of terrorism cause them to exchange similiar acts against people with difficult last names.

How to succeed in business by being a good supervisor

By JACK BOLOGNA

JACK BOLOGNA

Unless we were the boss's son or daughter, most of us began our work careers as technicians of some sort.

We were hired because we had some specific skill, by way of previous education, that an employer needed at the time of our hiring.

Few of us were hired because we seemed to have the potential for greatness as an innate personal quality or as a characteristic of our personality.

It's very difficult to measure one's potential for greatness anyway. All the psychological tools ever developed haven't been able to predict who among us has "greatness" as a trait.

OVER A PERIOD of time we learned to excel at our technical role whether it was in engineering, accounting, teaching or in sales.

Because of our dedication to our field and our successful application of our talents, we were singled out for promotion from others of lesser dedication or technical competency.

Unfortunately, few of us were conditioned, trained or prepared for what followed in our first taste of management — the supervisory role.

Our superiors, working on the classic assumption that excellence in technical skill was all that was required for a management job, also assumed that training in management wasn't necessary until one became a manager.

What we have discovered over the years — and rather painfully for both employers and employees — is that both assumptions are arbitrary and specious.

Great accountants, engineers, teachers, salesmen, etc., don't necessarily make great supervisors and even those who can make the transition from technician role to management role could do so much less painfully if only someone would spend some time grooming them for their new roles.

IF YOUR FIRST taste of management is negative, you are likely to pine for the good old days when no one bothered you or left you alone so you could get your job done.

Now, everyone wants your guidance, direction, advice and counsel. You may be spending so much time at that you may feel your technical competency is beginning to wane.

You may begin to feel you're out of touch with what's going on in your technical field and, in fact, you probably are. You can't be both the most excellent technician in your work group and an effective manager at the same time. You need to make a trade-off — your technical role for your managerial role.

As a technician, your goal was to become an excellent technician and produce excellent results.

As a manager, your goal should be to develop, train and supervise excellent technicians so that they can produce excellent results.

As you can see, there is a substantial distinction between the two roles.

FOR THE MANAGER-TECHNICIAN who fails to perceive the distinction, a life of great frustration can be forecasted.

He/she will continue to do the technical things required of the group instead of planning, delegating, communicating, coordinating, and motivating others to do those things. And, the more you do and the less you manage, the more inefficient and ineffective will your own subordinates become.

So before you accept that promotion as a supervisor, train yourself or demand training in management principles.

Learn to plan, organize, delegate, communicate, motivate, coordinate, and evaluate.

Accept the premise that you no longer have to be or become the world's greatest accountant, engineer, nurse or salesman.

But you should want to become the world's best supervisor and supervision means getting results through people, not doing it all yourself.

Off the Walls

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

They're Oldies—but Goodies

Nothing makes me feel more out of step with the times than to take a quick glance at a current list of the top record hits.

I've never heard of 90 percent of the songs, let alone the artists who have recorded them. Just who are these people called "Eagles," "Styx," "Foreigner," and "Journey?"

Looking at the Top 10, I can see only one recording artist that I've heard of. That's Barbra Streisand, and the only reason I've heard of her is because she's been around as long as I have.

I can remember as a kid being totally mystified when my parents would fondly reminisce about "The Big Band Era of the 40's." They would talk of people I had never heard of like Glenn Miller, Harry James and Artie Shaw, while my father loved to sing songs like "Barney Google, with the goo goo googley eyes."

I THOUGHT there was no hope for them.

Now there seems to be no hope for me. While the rest of the world seems to be having a love affair with disco, I go around singing songs like "Why Must I Be a Teen-ager In Love" and "Dee-Dee Dinah."

Oh, how I miss Bobby Rydell, Dion and the Belmonts, and the Big Bopper.

Heavy on the sax and big on the "Bop Sho Bop Sho Bops." They just don't write 'em like that anymore.

I used to be one of those kids who knew which records would be in the Top Ten even before the pollsters and listmakers did. My bedroom wall was plastered with pictures of all the "teenage idols," as we called them in the olden days, and my record collection was the envy of the neighborhood.

Today when someone asks me if I like "Lovin', Touchin', Squeezin'," I don't know if they're talking about a song or trying to get personal.

I WAS AROUND when Anthony Newley sang, "What kind of fool am I? Why can't I fall in love 'till I don't give a (blank)."

The D.J.'s couldn't play that terrible word on the radio.

These days they're not only filling in the blanks, they're adding words that once could only be found on bathroom walls. Shake my what?!

It's not only the shock to my 1950s sensibilities that turns me off on the music of today. It's the fact that those kids out there just aren't writing any tunes aimed at the likes of me.

I want stuff that I can identify with! Something like "The Over Thrity Blues" or "My Baby Loves Me, But He Loves Football More." You get the idea.

Where are all the songs for those of us who are post adolescence yet pre-middle-aged?

I don't want loud rock. I get enough "loud" from my kids.

I want meaningful, lovely ballads about what it's like to compete with those curvey young cuties at the office when your husband is the only living human to have ever seen you without make-up. Songs about how it feels to have sexy young men call you "Mam?", and the poignant sadness that sweeps over you when a close friend recommends you try Geritol.

Or just a little tune describing what it's like to accept the fact that your Clearasil days are over.

So until some creative bopper gets around to writing "I'm a Prisoner of Love in My Three-bedroom Ranch," I'm sticking to HONEY Radio where they play nothing but Oldies and Goodies. Ricky Nelson, Pat Boone, Maurice Williams, The Shirelles, Brenda Lee, Elvis. Oh, yeah.

"Wild One, I'm gonna tame ya' down, Yoh, Ho, Ho."

First names last, please

By BETTY MASSON

The young furniture salesman was eager and apologetic.

"Liz," he told me, "We've got a problem with that sofa you ordered. They don't have the fabric you wanted any more."

From past experience, he had figured that I would really be upset about this. Thus, he was apologetic.

But he was eager to keep me as a customer. Thus the "Liz."

He left me confused and bemused. Although my name really is Elizabeth, it's a form that is only used on important papers, such as checks.

Someone had undoubtedly told the salesman that he could quickly establish rapport and get on a friendly basis with customers by calling them by their first names.

It doesn't always work that way. For some of us, a salesman-customer relationship does not a friendship make. And some of us still use first names only among friends.

Friendship is something that is much more meaningful than a sofa. Sometimes it's a spontaneous spark between two people of similar interests and tastes; sometimes it takes years.

But until it's established just call me Mrs. or Ms.

This goes for doctors, lawyers and dentists as well as salesmen.

Some people may be comfortable with a first name at the drop of an introduction, and I suppose it's in keeping with the atmosphere at a party.

But I am concerned about the feelings of people in institutions, particularly older people.

It seems to me that after years of being "Mr." or "Mrs." finding yourself suddenly in a hospital or a nursing home is traumatic enough without having your title taken away from you.

To be called "Sarah" or "Bob" by someone you've just met, and particularly by someone who is years younger, is to some of us presuming on something that doesn't exist — friendship and a close relationship.

Some are comfortable with an immediate use of first names; some are not. It never hurts to ask.

Tax on checks idea's dead — Law

A citizens petition drive has proved successful in killing a proposal to tax 10 cents on all checks.

A group of about 45 senior citizens from the Plymouth-Canton area were told by state Rep. Robert Law, R-Livonia- Westland, recently were told that their efforts in circulating petitions had proved successful in killing the proposed tax.

Law reported that news while speaking to the Happy Hour Senior Citizen Club at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

"You all deserve to be very proud of the work you did to bury this ridiculous proposal. It proves that grassroots community efforts really can affect state government. You can fight city hall and win."

Law initiated an area-wide petition drive after the chairman of the House Taxation Committee introduced a bill to impose a 10-cent charge on each check, money order or other negotiable instrument issued in Michigan.

"We collected about 5,000 signatures and initiated hundreds of letters. I know this citizen involvement was instrumental in stopping this bill, and I want to thank you for the help you gave me."

Law said the tax, if it had been enacted, would have hurt those it was intended to help — the elderly and fixed income families in the state — and also would have had a detrimental impact on all small businesses in Michigan.

"The tax was supposed to fund the home heating assistance program to aid those who can't pay the high cost of fuel oil. But you as senior citizens know the difficulty of living on tight budgets.

"I thought it was unacceptable to ask seniors to find room in their budgets to pay for another tax and the increased cost it surely would have caused when banks and other institutions passed their costs onto customers.

"It was an unfair tax and I am glad it is dead. You in this room can take credit," Law told the group.

Waldorf sets Emerson talk

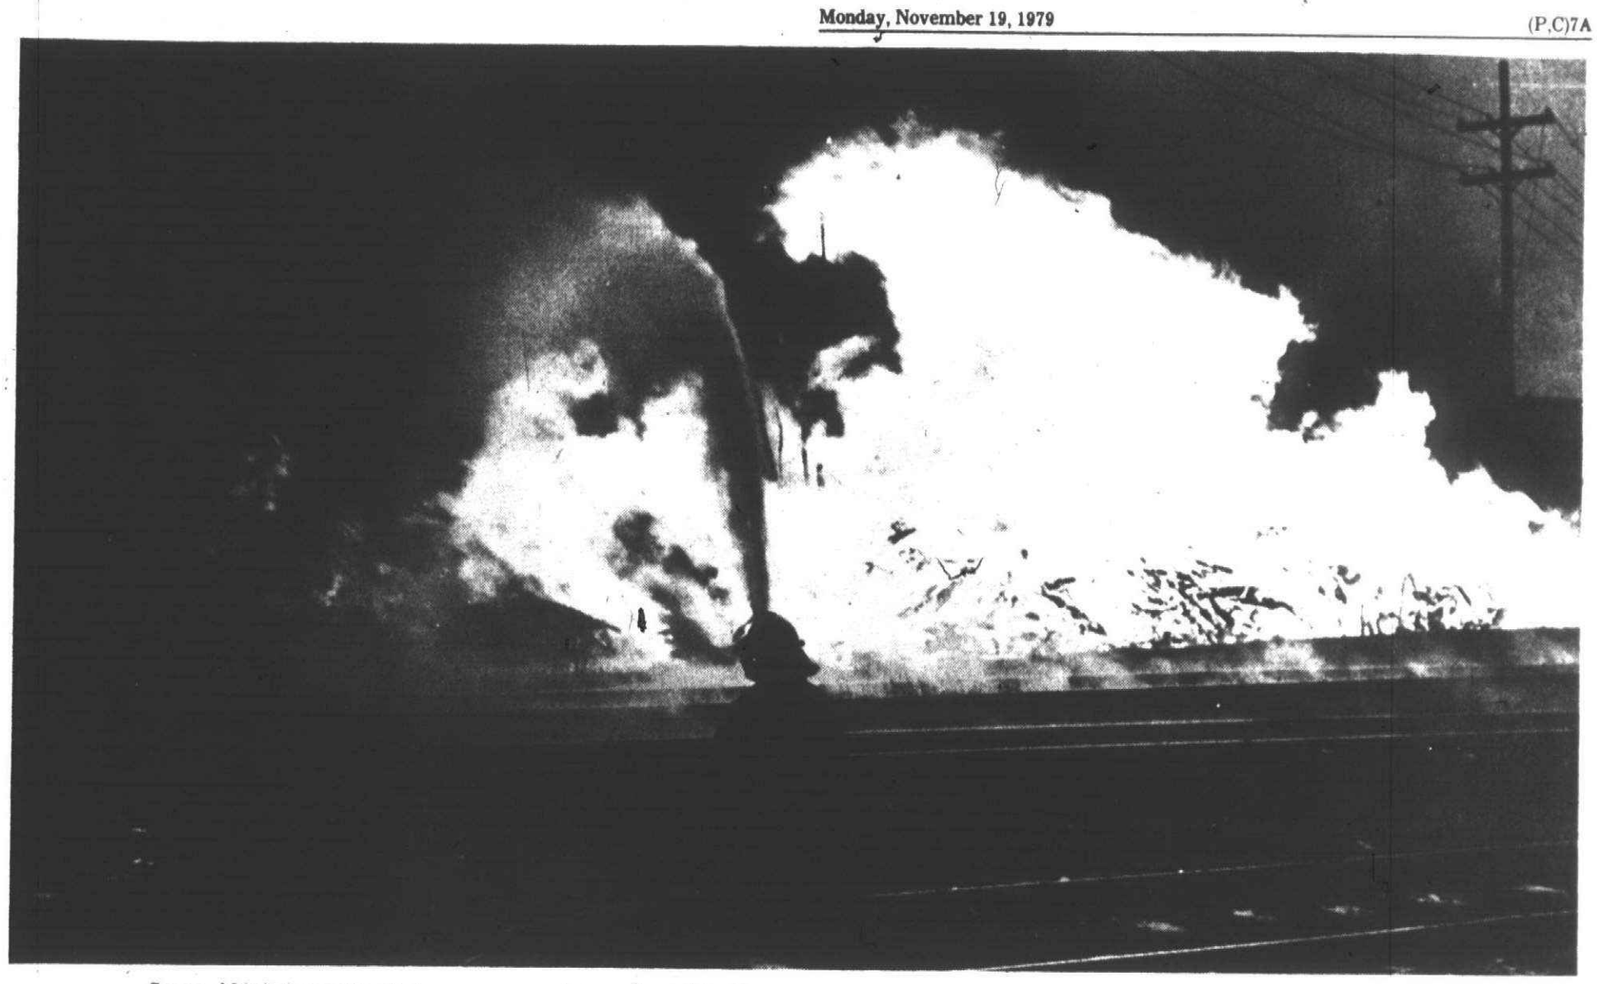

Ralph Waldo Emerson, spokesman for the transcendental movement and distinguished American thinker, will be the topic of a Nov. 30 talk at the Waldorf Institute in Southfield.

Some $30,600 worth of damage was done when this fire spread from a waste container to a pile of auto part carriers, three empty railroad box cars, and to an electric utility pole. (Staff photo by Art Emanuele)

Danger averted at industrial fire

Three area fire departments responded Thursday morning to a blaze at a Plymouth Township industrial park.

About $30,600 worth of damage was done in the yard of the Burns Fabrication Co. which borders the C&O Railroad line in the Plymouth Industrial Center, 13101 Eckles Road.

Groth said the fire started in a waste container in the Burns' yard and then spread to a pile of auto part carriers, three empty railroad box cars and an Edison utility pole.

Damage to the carriers totalled some $25,000. Damage to the three box cars totalled some $3,800 and replacement cost of the utility line is estimated at $1,800.

The Plymouth Township force received the call about 8 a.m. and requested additional service from firefighters in Northville and Canton.

Some 18 firefighters were on hand that morning and Plymouth Township firefighters returned in the afternoon when the blaze reignited.

There were no injuries.

Upon Groth's request, local railroad officials put out an order to stop rail traffic coming into the Plymouth area along the C&O's east-west run.

A track extension runs into the Burns' yard and firefighters feared electrical lines would descend on the track causing it to charge.

"If the lines would have charged the tracks it would have killed anyone working on them," Groth added.

The two other departments were called in for additional water supplies to quell the blaze. Some 14,000 gallons of water were used to fight the blaze.

According to Groth, the water tankers were needed because there are no township fire hydrants in the yard.

Supplying the yard with hydrants is a proposal both Groth and his predecessor worked on with the township planning commission.

His latest request was sent to the planning commission Oct. 17 when he was told to check with the yard's insurance carrier for its recommendation. He said he is ready to approach the commission again.

Groth added the fire could have been "very serious" if the empty box cars were tankers instead.

"I suppose a tanker fire could have wiped out the complex," he said.

Chamberlain is planning a major expansion effort

Chamberlain Company is planning a major expansion in the near future to keep pace with the real estate growth in the greater Plymouth area.

Dick Randazzo, manager of the Plymouth/Northville office at 1360 S. Main, Plymouth, said he plans to double his staff during the next six months to facilitate the company's expansion plans.

The office is part of the B.F. Chamberlain Real Estate Company.

RANDAZZO also stated that the company presently is investigating a move to newer and larger accommodations.

"Although the complexion of the real estate market has changed, due to the high interest rates, the Plymouth-Northville area is growing and Chamberlain plans to grow with it."

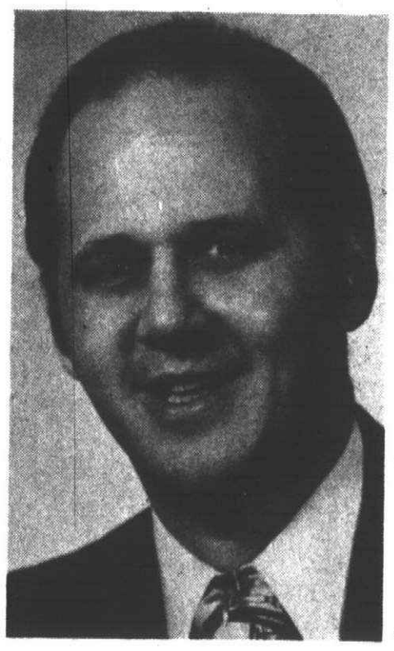

As part of the company's long-range planning, Randazzo said that Chamberlain has embarked on a major campaign to attract people to the real state industry.

Under the promotion banner of "If You're Good Enough — Join Us," the company has been holding a series of real estate training seminars and career nights throughout Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

That effort is being directed by David Hall, recruiting director for the Chamberlain Company.

LISA PALMER

DICK RANDAZZO

Hall announces that career nights are planned for the Westland area on Dec. 4, Allen Park on Dec. 5, Southfield on Dec. 11, and for the Livonia area on Dec. 12.

"The object of the career nights are to promote the industry as a profession and to inform the public that Chamberlain is growing and looking for new sales people," explained Hall.

RANDAZZO, 40, has been associated with Chamberlain since 1975 but he is probably better known in the Plymouth-Canton community for his involvement in youth athletics than as manager of the local office.

A 13-year resident of Plymouth, Randazzo has been active in athletics in this area for several years. He has served as past president of both the Plymouth Hockey Association and of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Athletic Association.

Randazzo has been manager of the Plymouth office since 1977. He and wife Clara have two sons — Keith, 22, who is employed with Beachum & Roeser Builders; and Kevin, 20, a junior at Siena Heights College in Adrian.

Hall, 38, has served as manager for a Chamberlain office in Sterling Heights and has sold real estate in the Birmingham area. He joined the central staff of Chamberlain in January 1979 and since last month has been working as the company's recruiting coordinator.

Hall had served in the U.S. Navy for 17 years as a nuclear submarine officer aboard five submarines.

WHILE RECRUITING in this area for sales persons, Hall has to go no further for an example of success than the Plymouth office.

Hall and Randazzo both point to Lisa Palmer who started with the B.F. Chamberlain's office in Plymouth in June 1975 as a secretary averaging $7,500 per year.

In the latter part of April of this year Ms. Palmer, 25, started her career in sales — leaving behind the security of a weekly paycheck for the uncertainty of a commission check.

"In six short months she surpassed her full year's earnings as a secretary," comments Randazzo.

"It's a whole different world filled with exciting rewards for my dedication to the profession," says Ms. Palmer.

"Extensive training, furthering your education, learning about people and providing them with the utmost of professional and personal service are just a few of the qualifications necessary for us to be referred to as a professional Realtor."

She and husband Richard have two children — Georgina, 5, and Richard Jr., 2½.

Streaking Chiefs saddle Mustangs

By BRAD EMONS

Even with the Western Six League girls' basketball title neatly tucked away, it's never dull in Plymouth Canton country.

The Chiefs concluded their league season unbeaten (10-0) with a lopsided 53-33 win night at Salem over Northville.

It appears the Canton cagers, under the direction of Mike McCauley, are hitting stride just before the Class A district gets under way Nov. 26 on the Chiefs' home court.

The Chiefs made things interesting in racking up their 14th straight victory despite the wide margin.

When the game finally ended, McCauley was literally "powdered" by his players who liberally sprinkled him with that fragrant stuff normally reserved for baby bottoms.

The Chief don't believe in the standard celebrations. Instead of throwing the winning coach in a shower or pool, McCauley's girls like a different approach. Last year they covered him with shaving cream — not nearly as dangerous as dousing him with baby talcum.

But McCauley was not the only pasty-faced person in the gym. The Canton team turned a few Mustang faces pale with their usual aggressive style of play.

When the Chiefs weren't getting baskets off their potent fast break, they chose to tie Northville up in knots.

"THERE WERE a few jump balls," said McCauley.

The Chiefs forced eight tie-ups in the third quarter alone as junior forward Debbie Gibb — called "Andy" by her teammates — terrorized the Mustang backcourt with her quick hands to the delight of the small crowd.

"Andy was like a ballet on the floor," said McCauley. "She did her usual thing."

After Gibb had forced two jump ball situations within a span of 10 seconds, McCauley flashed a bright red sign reading: "Go Woman."

Besides crediting hard-nosed play, McCauley said, "Our fast break looked good."

It was especially sharp in the first quarter as Canton raced to a 20-7 lead as Vicky Cavallaro, Diane Durocher and Cindy Sovine combined to score 18 of the 20 points.

Canton's second unit came out in the second quarter and held Northville scoreless for almost five minutes.

Northville coach Dave Schopp then created some excitement when he was whistled for a technical foul after complaining to official Jerry Berke. Schopp's assistant coach was almost ejected from the game after making some Ed McMahon-like remarks to Berke just before halftime.

HE MANAGED to finish the game along with Schopp.

Canton put the game away by outscoring Northville 13-8 in the third quarter. Jean Timlin's rebound basket with 30 seconds to go in the period stretched the lead to 40-19.

In the fourth quarter, with Canton keeping up the constant pressure, a basket by Susie Pierce with just 37 seconds left made it 53-29 — Canton's biggest lead of the night.

Durocher, a senior forward, tied Northville's Jacque Nixon for game high scoring honors with 12. Sue Townsend, scoring late for the Mustangs, added 10.

Cavallaro and Timlin each had eight for the Chiefs.

Canton, now sporting a record of 16-3, will get a test Tuesday on the road at Farmington in its last regular season game.

Sue Gerke tallied 14 points to lift the Plymouth Canton junior varsity to a 31-28 win over Northville.

Canton concluded its Western Six League schedule with a 7-3 mark. The Chiefs are 11-8 overall. Janine Carpenter added six for the winners.

Salem cagers romp by Trenton quintet, 45-26

Plymouth Salem lifted its overall record to 13-5 with an easy 45-26 win Thursday night at Trenton.

The Rocks, coached by Bob Blohm, finished their Suburban Eight League season with a 7-3 mark. Trenton slipped to 3-15.

Seniors Patty Weidman and Nan Horwood sparked the Rocks to the victory.

Weidman scored 15 points, hauled down eight rebounds and blocked seven shots. Horwood, despite being saddled with four fouls, chipped in with 12 points.

"Horwood stepped back out on the court and played well even though she was in foul trouble," said Blohm, "and Patty was blocking shots in good position and releasing the ball well."

Salem trailed 8-5 after one quarter as Trenton befuddled the Rocks with a surprise zone defense.

Sub 8 swim crown ends in tie

Rock tankers place 4th

By BRAD EMONS

It was exciting from start to finish but when it was all over, Livonia Bentley and Dearborn had to settle for a share of the Suburban Eight League girls' swim championship.

The finals were held Friday night at Plymouth Salem's pool. Ironically, it was Salem which yielded the title to Dearborn and Bentley after winning it for three straight years.

Bentley earlier edged Dearborn in a dual meet, but the Pioneers turned the trick in the league meet by outscoring their foes, 245-236. Dearborn Edsel Ford placed third with 207, followed by Salem (162), Belleville (137) and Trenton (125).

Bentley finished its dual-meet league season with a 5-0 mark. Dearborn, which suffered the one-point loss to Bentley, came into the meet with a 4-1 slate.

Bentley lost its chance to win the crown outright after a poor performance Thursday afternoon in the preliminary heats.

"I figured it out after the prelims that if we and Dearborn swam our best times, we'd still lose to them by 34 points," said Bentley coach Roger Simpson. "We had to challenge in the finals and let it happen. I thought our girls responded from top to bottom.

"We weren't ready for the qualifying, but we came back in the finals and that makes me happy," he said.

RECORDS WERE set in the final three races.

Bentley junior Julia Westhaus set a new standard in the 100-yard backstroke with a clocking of 1:05.39. She broke the old mark held by Bentley's Lisa Bowman in 1975 (1:05.63).

Westhaus also won the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 1:01.17, beating the talented Penny Currie of Edsel Ford, who holds two league marks.

Bentley's Ann McIntyre won an impressive race over Salem's Terri Eudy in the 200-yard freestyle. She posted a time of 2:03.91, almost six seconds better than her preliminary time. Eudy's time was 2:06.27. Both swimmers are sophomores.

Ann McIntyre then made it 1-2 in the 500-yard freestyle with twin sister Jean. Ann's time was 5:42.62 while Jean was clocked in 5:49.69. Salem senior Sharon Ross placed third (5:55.79)

Probably the most exciting race of the night was between Edsel Ford's Karen Enneking and Dearborn's Brigid Muldowney in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Enneking, who broke the league record in the prcliminaries (1:09.6), did it again in the finals with a time of 1:09.05. Muldowney settled for second place with a clocking of 1:09.25.

Currie redeemed herself with a stellar performance in the 400-yard free-style relay. Swimming the anchor leg and down 15 yards to Bentley's Laura Pomeroy, Currie put on an amazing burst of speed in the final 50-yards to give the Thunderbirds the win and a record time of 3:56.48, breaking the mark held by Bentley in 1975 (3:58.7).

"Currie is probably the best swimmer out there," remarked Simpson. "I was really proud of our kids. Westhaus was outstanding and the McIntyre's are strong AAU swimmers."

"I wasn't surprised by the result," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "Dearborn is a solid team. This is a tough league."

Kim Massey of Plymouth Canton helped the Chiefs to a third place finish when she won the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 1:07.1. She was also a member of the 200-yard medley relay team. (Staff photo by Art Emanuele)

Northville, ranked fifth in Class A, captured the Western Six League girls' swim title Friday at Livonia Churchill.

The Mustangs totaled 368 points and won seven of 11 events. Farmington Harrison placed second with 266 while Plymouth Canton finished a strong third with 251. Livonia Churchill totaled 92 to gain fourth. Walled Lake Western and Waterford Mott do not field teams.

Canton junior Tarja Tuominen won two individual events. She set a league record in the 100-yard butterfly (1:03.) with teammate Mary Reardon gaining sixth. Tuominen also won the 200-yard freestyle with a clocking of 2:04.2.

Canton's other individual winner was Kim Massey in the 100-yard backstroke. She was timed in 1:07.1.

'Our girls went above and beyond the call of duty.'

— Canton coach Mark Griffith

Sue Humphries was Harrison's only individual winner. She won the diving competition with well over 400 points. Canton's Chris Wennerberg and Ellie Wagner placed fifth and sixth respectively.

Canton took second behind Northville in the 200-yard medley relay. Northville was clocked in 2:01.6 while the Chiefs' team of Kris Burns, Reardon, Massey and Tuominen were clocked in 2:09.1.

Northville's Allison Farquhar won the 200-yard individual medley (2:16.) and 100-yard breaststroke (1:10.4). Massey finished fourth in the 200-IM and Brownwyn Fitzgerald took fourth in the 100-yard breaststroke. Sue Cox of Churchill was fifth.

NORTHVILLE'S other double winner was Kim Storm who posted fast times in the 100-yard freestyle (:55.) and 50-yard freestyle (:24.5). McMurray and Debbie Dickinson placed third and sixth respectively in the 100-yard event.

Nancy Donovan took the 500-yard freestyle for Northville with a time of 5:46.5. Reardon gained fourth.

"This was by far our best meet of the season," said Canton coach Mark Griffith. "Our girls went above and beyond the call of duty. We had a lot of enthusiasm and pride."

The 400-yard freestyle, the final event of the night, was won by Northville (4:09.5). Canton placed third (4:31.7).

Canton offers open gym sessions

Three area gymnasts — Jeanine Levy of Garden City, Gayle Quashnie of Westland and Pam Madson of Plymouth — recently won medals in the Gym Jester Invitational at Saginaw.

Representing the Rebel Gymnastics Club of Garden City, Madson captured a bronze medal in the vault event for girls' 12-13. Quashnie also captured a bronze in the floor exercise.

Levy won a bronze in the vault for girls' 10-11.

RECREATION NIGHT

A 10-week recreation night for men and women is being offered by the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department.

The program will begin Jan. 9 and run through March 12 at Field Elementary School gym. The cost is $10 for 10 weeks.

The women's program will be held each Wednesday, 6:30 to 8 p.m., while the men will meet 8-9:45 p.m.

The women's class will consist mainly of exercise and volleyball. The men's program will consist primarily of basketball.

For more information call 397-1000.

RACQUETBALL LEAGUES

The Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department, in cooperation with Rose Shores Center, is offering a session of racquetball leagues for men and women.

The men's leagues will be held on Wednesdays beginning Dec. 5 while the women will meet on Tuesdays beginning Dec. 4.

The cost is $50 per person for 11 weeks. Starting times will be 7:30 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Players will be divided up into flights based on ability levels.

Interested participants can sign up at the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department, 1150 South Canton Center Road. Checks can be made payable to "Canton Township."

The $50 fee includes court time, trophies and complimentary t-shirts.

For more information call 397-1000.

CMU SPIKER TOUGH

Cheri Leveille, a junior from Plymouth, helped Central Michigan University to its third straight Michigan Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (MAIAW) volleyball championship recently.

Chippewa coach Marcy Weston credited Leveille for her fine spiking and setting during Central's state tourney victories over Michigan and Michigan State.

The victories advanced Central to the AIAW Regional tournament in Columbus, Ohio last weekend.

ICE FOLLIES TRYOUTS

Auditions will be held for Shipstads and Johnson Ice Follies on Friday, Nov. 23 at 11 a.m. at Olympia Stadium.

Skaters with personality, appearance and ability to learn chorus routines will be judged at the audition.

Interested persons wanting a tryout should provide the following information: name, address, phone number, age, height, and which United States-Canadien Figure Skating Association tests that have been passed. Mail to : Ice Follies, Olympia Stadium, 5920 Grand River, Detroit, Mi. 48208.

Open skate hours added

The Plymouth Cultural Center is adding two sessions of open ice skating on Friday, Nov. 23.

The open skating hours for that day are as follows: 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.,1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and 3 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Effective Saturday, Dec. 1, the Plymouth Cultural Center, located on 525 Farmer Street, will offer open skating Saturdays from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m.

The fee for all residents of the Plymouth-Canton School District is $1.25 for adults 18 and over and $1 for children.

TEEN SKI WEEKEND

The City of Plymouth and Canton Township Recreation Departments are offering a Teen Ski Weekend, Jan. 11-13, at Schuss Mountain and Timberlee ski areas.

Skiers will be lodged at the Traverse City Holiday Inn. The trip includes all bus transportation, chaperones and some meals.

A $25 deposit is due Dec. 14 and the cost of the trip will range from $95 to $110 depending upon lodging occupancy.

Rock girls win

"We had trouble penetrating and were reluctant to take the outside shot," said the Salem coach. "We were a little sluggish coming off the one-point loss to Bentley, but we started to pick up the tempo near the end of the first quarter.

"It's hard to get up for a team you should beat. I was pleased and happy with the win. Our guards did a nice job of playing defense."

Salem went to a combination man-zone defense in the second quarter and gained a 23-14 lead at halftime.

"WE DID a lot of run-and-jumping on the last three quarters," explained Blohm. "Trenton had trouble flowing into its offense in the second half.

"We started getting good shots in the third and fourth quarters."

Michael Andropolis (Michael Douglas) is in the lead for a good part of the Olympic Marathon, in Universal's "Running."

Mercer Mayer draws kids into reading

By KATHY PARRISH

As a kid hunting frogs in Arkansas swamps, Mercer Mayer loved books — but not reading.

"I was tricked into learning how to read," admits Mayer, who preferred comic books and other "junk stuff" to more lofty literature.

"I learned to read to find out what the illustrations were about."

Now 35 and one of the nation's top author-illustrators of children's books, Mayer is playing the same trick on another generation of young readers.

In a short 10-year career, he has created more than 60 books. While varying widely in subject matter, almost all have one thing in common — more pictures than words.

"I have a hard time with the words," Mayer told an audience while in the area last week to speak to the Birmingham Bloomfield Children's Book and Author Society and Detroit Children's Book Fair.

"But I love telling stories in pictures."

Mayer is best-known for whimsical creatures like his famous "Little Monster" whose Golden Book Adventures are much like a young child's.

He's also creator of the elusive Zipperump-a-Zoo who leads Professor Wormbog on a merry chase into the bottomless pit.

BUT SEVERAL of his books — like the wordless "A Boy, a Dog and a Frog" series, "There's a Nightmare in my Closet" which tackles fear of the dark, and his haunting retelling of "Beauty and the Beast" — are awardwinners which have made a real impact in the tight children's book field.

"Little Monster is not literature," said the pipe-smoking author, relaxing before his talk to a sold-out luncheon in the Birmingham Masonic Temple.

" 'Beauty and the Beast' is something I'd been trying to do for a long time. It took me 10 years to get to the point where I could do that," he explained.

"But I like all the books for what they are. They're all different; it's like having children." Mayer is the father of a seven-year-old and another youngster due in March.

The lanky, curly-haired author, dressed casually in slacks, a crew-neck sweater and sporting a tie "for fun" because he never wears one, let his Detroit area audiences in on how he puts together a book.

To their delight, he also showed families visiting the Detroit Children's Book Fair how his monsters are created.

"I just start writing anything that comes into my head," said Mayer. A poor speller who had trouble with punctuation, he struggles more with the words than the pictures.

"I usually get a hundred pages that go nowhere."

STORIES COME easier than sentences.

"I think the stories are just there. They're already told. They come running through and you catch them," insists Mayer, who has more stories than time to draw.

"It's like ticker tape. You just write it all down."

His monsters, who aren't drawn until the stories are complete, have similar origins.

"I don't really believe I make them up," smiles Mayer, looking impish. He recalls laughing hysterically until he fell off a restaurant chair at 12 when he imagined a waiter wearing a silly head.

"They exist somewhere, come flying through and you have to catch them as they fly by."

Much of Mayer's work is based on his childhood near Camden, Ark., where his father worked at a missile base.

He was a "big snake fancier" who played in the woods and swamps. But he loved to draw and savored illustrations in picture books.

While showing how his monsters evolve, he gave the audience a glimpse into his childhood.

"EVERYONE KNOWS monsters have straight hair and non-monsters have curly hair," he said, fluffing the top of his hair with his fingers.

"My monsters all have straight hair; it's a bit of my revenge. Curly hair wasn't fashionable when I was a kid.

"Everyone had straight hair with lots of grease in it."

Until 13, Mayer was an 'A' student. But when his family moved to Hawaii, he became a 1950s-style "juvenile delinquent" — drinking beer, smoking cigarettes and greasing his hair.

"We broke into houses — but always a friend's house," recalls Mayer, who immediately returned to [redacted] and-narrow when he [redacted] bation officer.

He laughs when h[redacted] story, then adds it's really [redacted] "sad" commentary.

"Kids today are [redacted] smart, but they told me I wo[redacted] jail and I believed it.

"Compared to what happens to kids today, I wasn't in that much trouble."

The Movies

LOUISE SNIDER

'Running' drags, despite its theme of Olympic race

There are a few misconceptions about "Running" (PG) that should be cleared up. Some people might expect the pace of this film to be too quick for easy viewing. It's not. There are no quick sprints, only a slow, continuing shuffle.

In fact, in the opening scenes, we note that Michael Douglas — in suit, shirt, tie and track shoes — manages to run for miles and arrive at his destination just a bit out of breath and without one little drop of sweat on him. So much for pace.

Another aspect of this film that seems to promote confusion among audiences is its passing similarity to "Rocky." In "Runing," Douglas plays an over-the-hill, 34-year-old marathon runner in training for the Olympic trials. He's not only over the hill, but down the alley and in the gutter. Nevertheless, he gets his "shot at the championship."

Thus we see him huff and puff through the rigors of training. He also must contend with his irascible ex-coach who keeps telling him what a loser he is. There are other similarities to "Rocky." Such as the inspirational, upbeat music; the kids running along with the hero; the visit to the empty stadium before the race. But put these similarities aside, and the film is no "Rocky."

SOME PEOPLE, those peculiar souls who don't fancy athletic competition, may refrain from viewing "Running," because they expect it to be a serious film about the thrill of victory, the agony of defeat. This assumption is unwarranted.

"Running" more closely resembles comedy than drama. Douglas is outstanding for the droll manner he effects. This is demonstrated to best advantge in an episode at the auto dealership where he works as a car washer.

The owner, sensing Douglas' publicity value as a potential Olympic star, offers him big money to meet the public up front as a salesman. Douglas looks his benefactor straight in the eyes and deadpans, "I just want to wash cars."

The film boasts dozens of equally hilarious moments. Some of them might be overlooked by the casual observer were it not for Susan Anspach (as Douglas ex-wife), who always signals them with a precocious giggle. In a perpetually happy state, she simply laughs her way through the film.

Apparently, it is her way of "surviving," just as she says about Douglas, in another memorable piece of dialogue, "Running is his only way of surviving."

IN ANOTHER fast exchange, some young runners comment to the tough-talking coach that he seems to know a lot about Douglas. There is a dramatic pause while the coach slowly turns to them and says, "I was his coach."

Dialogue such as this reflects the most unusual characteristic of "Running." It's an audience participation film. You won't need a warm-up suit to jog along. All you have to do is anticipate and shout out the next line of dialogue before it's spoken. The skill can be mastered afer the first 10 minutes of "Running."

Although they're about to be divorced, Michael and Janet (Susan Anspach) still love each other.

NEW RELEASES

AND JUSTICE FOR ALL (R). Al Pacino is a young trial lawyer dedicated to his profession and profoundly troubled by the legal system.

APOCALYPSE NOW (R). Francis Ford Coppola's epic film of the Vietnam war interwoven with the characters and stunning impact of Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness."

AVALANCHE EXPRESS (PG). Adventure-suspense drama about KGB agent defecting to the West. Filmed in Italy and Germany; climactic scene is, you guessed it, avalanche.

THE DEER HUNTER (R). An emotionally gripping and violent film about the lives of three friends from a small steeltown as they are affected by the Vietnam war.

ESCAPE FROM ALCATRAZ (PG). Clint Eastwood and director Don Siegel team up again to create a tense, taut drama about a prison escape.

THE FISH THAT SAVED PITTSBURGH (PG). Actors and pro-athletes abound in comedy about a water boy who revitalizes a slumping basketball team.

HOT STUFF (PG). Dom DeLuise directed and stars in slick comedy about undercover police fencing operation.

THE IN-LAWS (PG). Hilarious comedy with Peter Falk and Alan Arkin as near-relatives who not only plan a wedding but ripoff the U.S. Mint.

LOST AND FOUND (PG). George Segal and Glenda Jackson are paired again in romantic comedy about a "fractured" couple who meet in the Swiss Alps and decide to yodel on through life together.

LUNA (R). Uneasy and self-conscious film of widowed opera singer (Jill Clayburgh) in incestuous relationship with her teenage son.

THE MAIN EVENT (PG). Barbra Streisand is a perfume manufacturer who manages a retired boxer, Ryan O'Neal, in comedy about the fight game.

A MAN, A WOMAN AND A BANK (PG). Caper movie doesn't cut much of a caper as engineer and computer expert team up to rob a bank.

MANHATTAN (R). The inhabitants are somewhat frayed, but the Big Apple looks glorious in Woody Allen's witty peek at the pairings and partings among New York literati.

METEOR (PG). Disaster movies aren't big this year, but this is a big disaster movie about a five-mile-wide meteor on a collision course with Earth. Sean Connery, Natalie Wood, Karl Malden and many others in the large, competent cast.

MONTE PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN (R). Totally irreverent, completely zany story tracing the life of Brian Cohen, a peasant born at the same time as Christ.

MOONRAKER (PG). James Bond (Roger Moore) in space adventure with Lois Chiles for company and Richard Kiel (the metalmouthed "Jaws") for challenge in most spectacular of the 007 films.

MR. MIKE'S MONDO VIDEO (R). TV film is collection of bizarre events in continuing, exploitive, downgraded rip-off of "Mondo Cane."

THE MUPPET MOVIE (G). Anyone who doesn't like this movie is probably in need of immediate CPR. A host of stars make cameo appearances but none outshines Jim Henson's laughable, lovable muppets as they head for Hollywood.

NIGHTWING (PG). Some scary moments in the shocker about vampire bats on a Hopi Indian reservation.

NORTH DALLAS FORTY (R). Fine performances from Nick Nolte and Mac Davis as pro football players in film that takes hard look at the commercialism of the game.

THE ONION FIELD (R). Joseph Wambaugh's powerful drama of a shootout and the consequences for the policeman involved.

PEPPERMINT SODA (PG). Charming account of two adolescent sisters growing up in Paris in 1936.

PROMISES IN THE DARK (PG). Well-acted film with Marsha Mason as a doctor dealing with a terminally ill, young patient.

RICH KIDS (PG). Tender, funny film about the effects of divorce on children and about the friendship of two intelligent 12-year-olds.

ROCKY II (PG). Sylvester Stallone as Rocky Balboa, the over-the-hill boxer, returns for a rematch with the heavyweight champ.

THE ROSE (R). Bette Midler as '60s rock star living life of emotional extremes that suggests some parallels with career of Janis Joplin.

RUNNING (PG). Susan Anspach is the wife of Michael Douglas who is training to qualify for the Olympic marathon.

THE SEDUCTION OF JOE TYNAN (R). Familiar story about the pressures on a "decent" politician, Alan Alda. Hackneyed situations are redeemed by the acting of Barbara Harris, Meryl Streep and Rip Torn.

SKATETOWN U.S.A. (PG). The roller-disco craze gets its due in film about a championship derby and the hot rollers participating.

STARTING OVER (R). Romantic comedy with toned down Burt Reynolds torn between his ex-wife, Candice Bergen, who records a hit song, and his new love, Jill Clayburgh, an independent schoolteacher.

SUNBURN (PG). Poorly written, edited and directed detective-comedy that should leave the participants red-faced.

10 (R). Comedy with Dudley Moore who tosses out his tenured roommate, Julie Andrews, in his search for the perfect "10."

TIME AFTER TIME (PG). Nicholas Meyer's ingenious story, based on premise that H. G. Wells constructed his time machine, smartly done as Wells tracks Jack the Ripper from 19th century London to contemporary San Francisco.

Mountbatten

An eight-part series on the life of Lord Mountbatten, the recently assassinated British war hero, begins at 8 p.m. Thursday on Channel 56. Mountbatten himself narrates the series, which he helped produce. It was orignally scheduled to be broadcast on his 80th birthday.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

by ELLIE GRAHAM

WHAT TO WEAR to the Symphony Ball Dec. 1?

Conversation with several women who plan to attend the festive dinner dance in the Mayflower Meeting House revealed an almost 50-50 split. Some are wearing floor-length and some are wearing the shorter cocktail gowns.

Whichever they choose, it promises to be a sparkling event, the major social gathering of the holiday season.

THE SYMPHONY Balls have graduated from the old high school, to East Middle School, to country clubs and, finally, back to Plymouth.

Back in the days when it was held in one of the local schools, it was not a dinner dance. The decorations committee worked like a pack of beavers trying to convert school gymnasiums and cafeterias into elegant ballrooms for the dance.

Pre-party cocktail parties abounded and everyone became so involved in the conviviality that they couldn't break away to go to the ball. The orchestra played to an almost-empty dance floor for the first hour or so. The crowd arrived about 10:30 or 11 p.m. and was just getting warmed up to dancing when it was time for the orchestra to go.

There was a consultation with the orchestra leader and a hurried collection of money among the men as they came up with the required amount to induce the orchestra to play on for another hour.

Ethel Burns and I were talking about this the other day. Ethel's viewpoint was one I had never considered. It's all very well to persuade the orchestra to play for another hour — they are getting paid. But the establishment that is hosting the party has to pay their help — 15 to 20 persons — for an extra hour's work.

Joanne Hulce was chairing a Symphony Ball at East Middle when she came up with a solution to the problem of late arrivals. Why not give away prizes early in the evening? And the guests would have to be there to be eligible to win.

It worked. There was no extra cash around to buy these valuable prizes so the Symphony League members turned in their trading stamps (S&H green stamps, if I remember correctly).

The prizes were quite elegant — silver candelabra, coffee servers, etc.

HARRIET RANDALL is another good idea person. It was she who organized the Symphony League's round robin bridge which turned out to be — year after year — one of the league's best money-makers.

Harriet mentioned another of her good ideas at bridge club the other night. She and her husband, Jim, spent several years in South Africa. She said that there was a basket of yarn and knitting needles in just about every doctor's and dentist's waiting room. Attached to the basket was a note inviting patients to knit a few rows on an afghan square while they were waiting. These were later assembled for the needy by members of a women's guild.

"Of course, everybody in South Africa knits," said Harriet. "But it was a great way to pass the time and the women would drop off odds and ends of yarn to keep the project going."

The whole thing sounds like a marvelous project for one of our local service clubs or churches.

SEVERAL THOUSAND Boy and Girl Scouts were guests of the Eastern Michigan University Athletic Department Saturday afternoon. They were saluted during the pre-game show by the Huron marching band and then watched the EMU-Western Michigan University football game.

Canton Township Girl Scouts who planned to attend the game were Amy Knickerbocker of Peachtree Court, Karen Mosti of Sturbridge Lane, Chris McLevy of Arlington, Chris Ringes of Admiralty Drive, and Kathy Wilkin of Beck Road.

Plymouth Girl Scouts were Kelly Tucker of Greenbriar Lane and Susan Odom of Linden Street.

Wendy Mellethin, program services director for the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, said her group made the footbal game a father-daughter outing.

WINNERS AT the Tuesday evening duplicate bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center on Farmer Street were: north-south, Dick Goodwillie and Wayne Hatfield; east-west, Martin Schnabel and Bill Potts.

They use the Mitchell system of scoring.

The Howell movement is used at the Wednesday duplicate games in the Cultural Center. Games begin at 10:30 a.m. and continue through the lunch hour.

Ruthella Butz and Alice Patterson were first and Helen Gilbert and Marian Sullivan were second Nov. 14.

RUTH SHERMAN and Frank Trinity had high scores at the Nov. 8 party bridge games at the center. This group begins play at about 12:30 p.m. and all the games are open to all bridge players.

ACCORDING to Christie Skorka, the Canton Newcomers' millionaires party was "just beautiful." The club's next venture is a luncheon and fashion show Dec. 5.

Isbister celebrates Year of the Child

By BETTY MASSON

All too often we becomes so immersed in our own concerns we miss what is going on around us.

Jean Knowles, head librarian at Isbister Elementary School, became aware of this recently when she decided to set up a display to commemorate the International Year of the Child. Much help was forthcoming from teachers, parents and students, and Mrs. Knowles was able to create a fascinating showcase of costume dolls, books and souvenirs from all over the world.

As she worked at it, she began to take a closer look at Isbister's students. There are more than 800 in year-round school.

She realized that Isbister could produce a tiny United Nations of its own. It has students who have been born in or whose parents came from countries as far apart as China and Canada.

Among countries represented by Isbister students are Armenia, Aruba, Canada, China, Egypt, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Italy, India, Japan, Korea, Lebanon, the Philippines, Scotland, Trinidad and Yugoslavia.

Many of the students have some knowledge of the language of the country of their origins. Some even go to classes on Saturdays to take lessons in other languages and learn about other customs.

Some say another language comes in handy when they want to call someone a name, or when their mother wants to reprimand them.

Some arrive at the school speaking very little English. But with the help of teachers and classmates, children learn quickly. Occasionally, parents need the help of interpreters, said Mrs. Knowles.

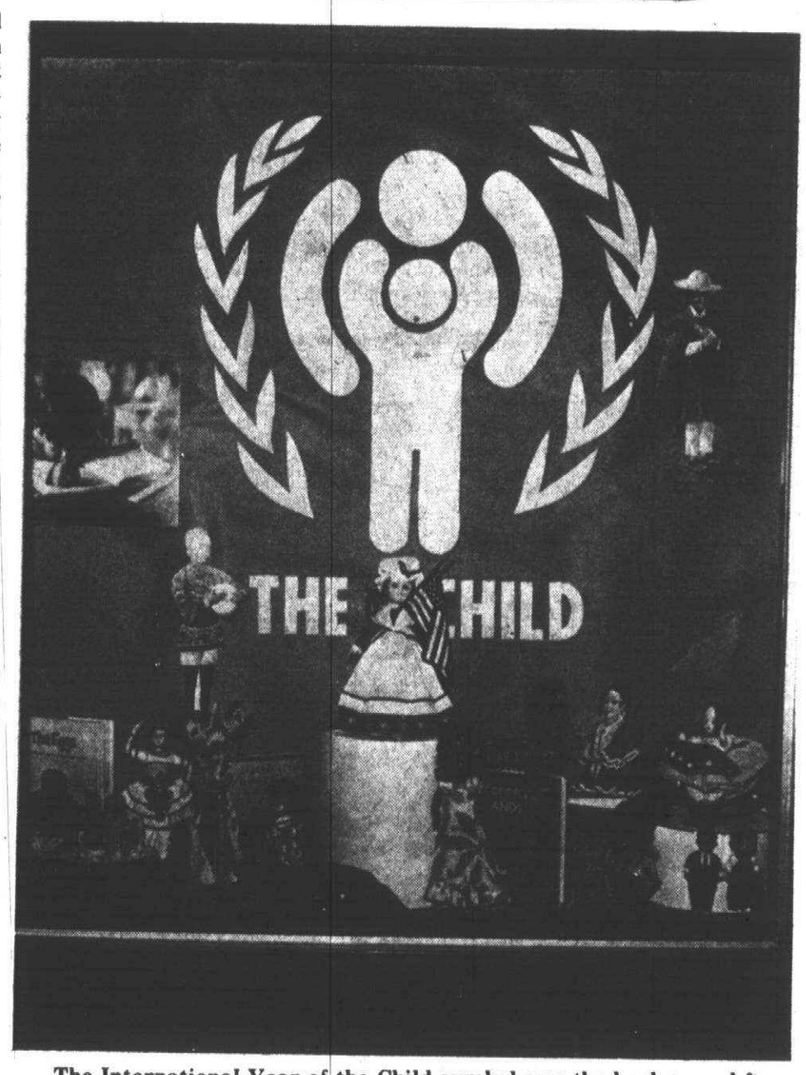

The children rapidly become part of the school population. With blue jeans and a University of Michigan T-shirt, they look as if they have always gone to a school in a small town in the Midwest.

Yet where else in the world, Mrs. Knowles speculates, would there be a student population so diverse, except in other parts of the U.S., in Canada and in large cosmopolitan cities?

It's a school population which contradicts the pessimism of "East is East and West is West, And never the twain shall meet."

"It's only later that they begin to notice differences," said Mrs. Knowles.

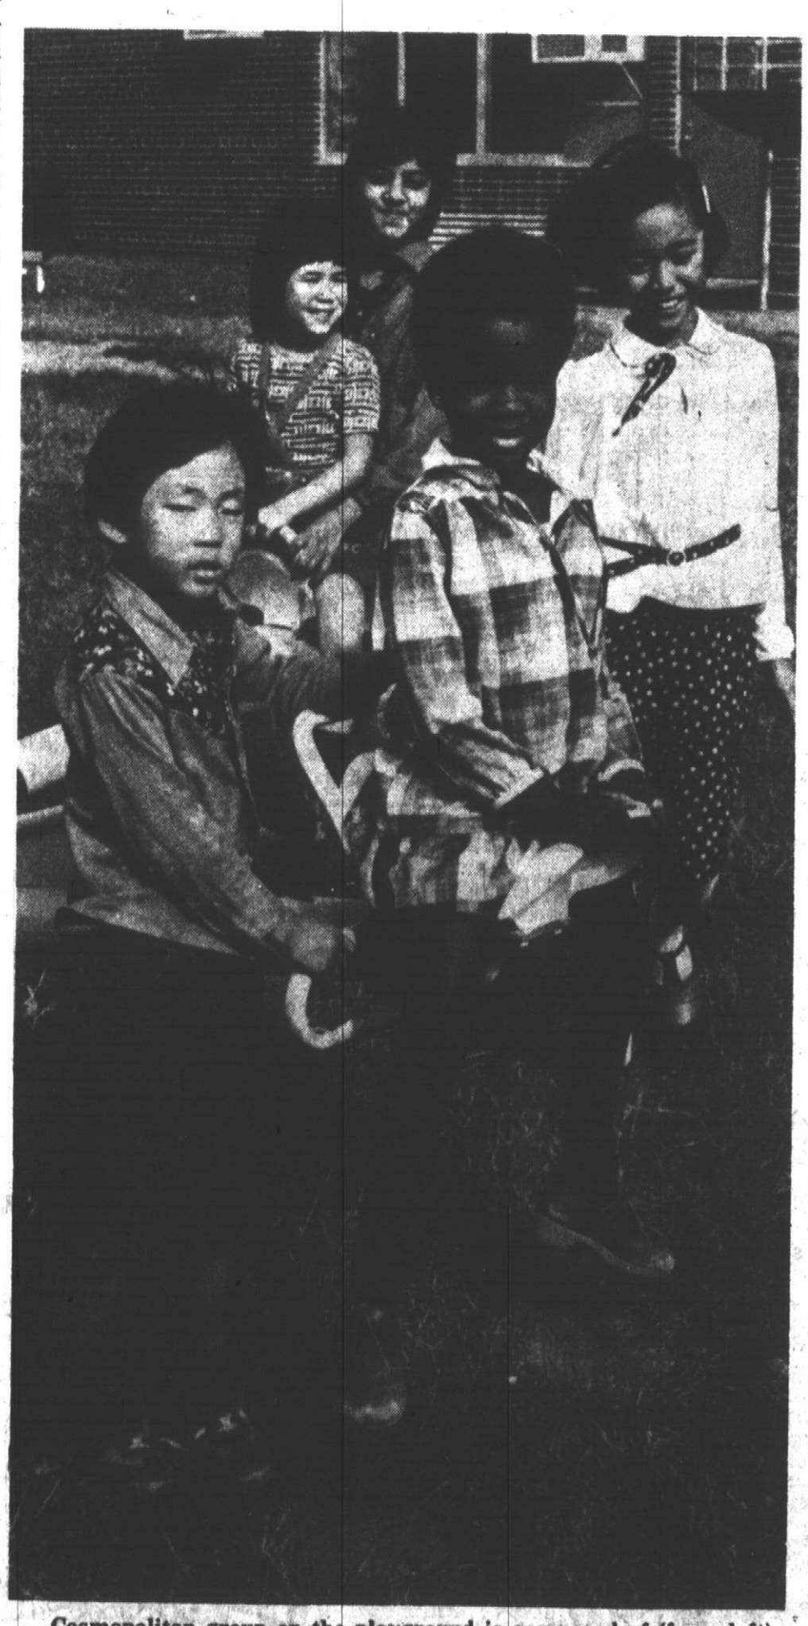

And this is why her display says, "Every year is the year of the child."

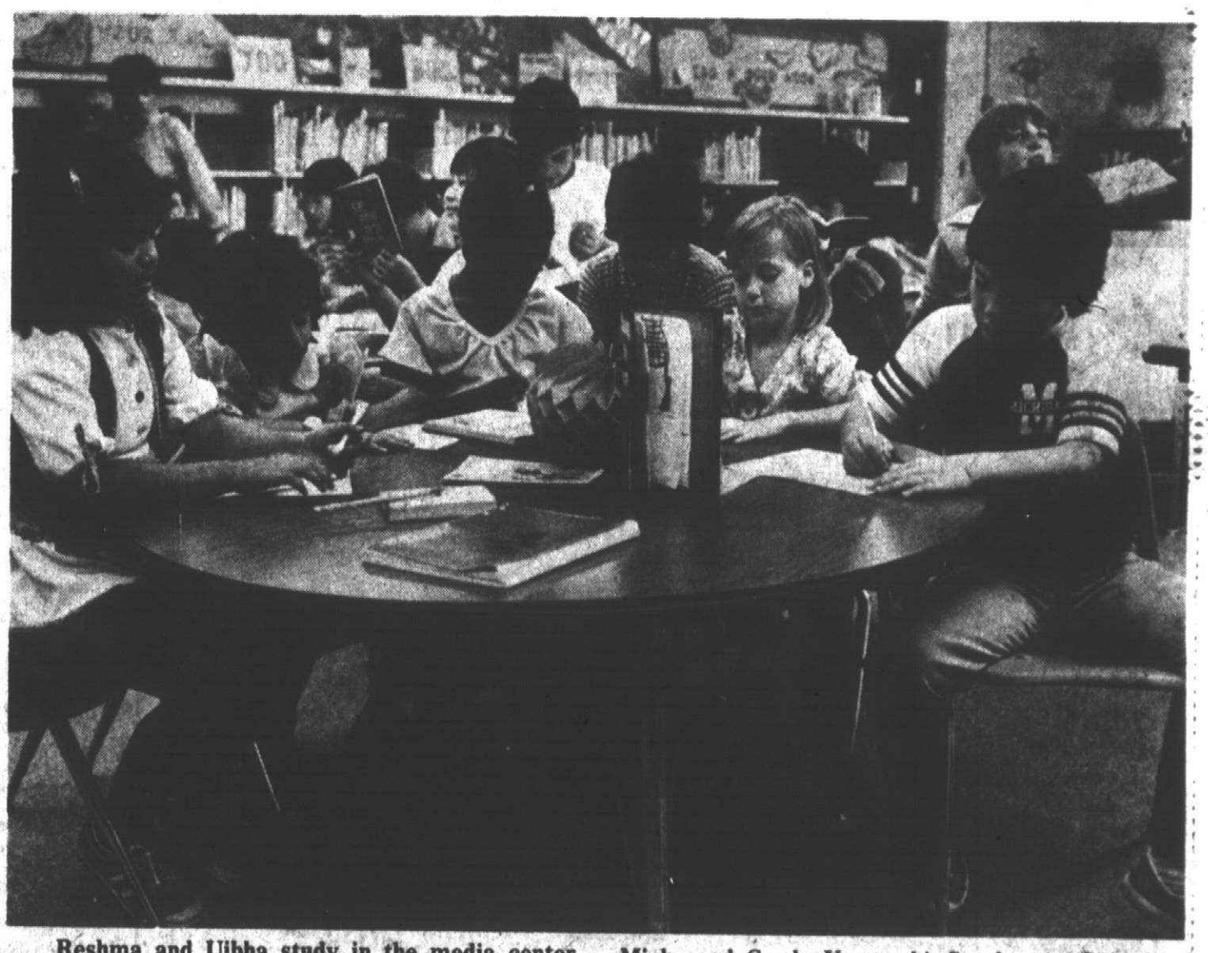

The International Year of the Child symbol was the background for collection of dolls and books in the main hallway showcases.

Here's how to get that Long Distance number (and a free Personal Directory to keep it in) so you can dial it yourself and save.
Michigan Bell
If you've ever forgotten how to get a needed phone number for a distant city — outside your own area code — you may want to clip this ad and keep it near your phone as a reminder. Here's all you do: First, dial "0" and ask the operator for the area code, if you don't already know. Then, for Long Distance directory assistance, dial "1," plus the area code for that city, then 555-1212. You will reach a Long Distance directory assistance operator who will give you the number. Once you have the number, write it down so the next time you need it, you can dial it direct and save. If you don't have a good place to write it down, we have a place for you . . . your Personal Telephone Directory — a handy book for keeping your personal list of local and out-of-town phone numbers. It's free. Just call your Michigan Bell business office and ask for a copy.

Thoughtful planning

Holiday time is America's best loved season. One of the most treasured traditions is the family dinner of tender roasted turkey with all the trimmings.

Thoughtful planning can streamline a holiday meal. A Cranberry Gingercake dessert that can be made ahead of time and frozen saves last minute fuss.

Cooking a turkey large enough to provide extra meals, snacks and even one or more company dinners saves time, energy and fuel.

Save six generous slices of white meat for Turkey Tetrazzini, a dish that cannot be ranked as "just a way to use leftovers." It is a casserole dish worthy of discriminating guests. With a green vegetable, tossed salad and crispy prebuttered bread, it is an easy meal to prepare. Colorful Holiday Dumplings for dessert make the occasion very special.

Company Meal

Turkey Tetrazzini
Broccoli with Butter Crumb Topping
Mixed Green Salad
Italian Bread with Oregano Parsley Butter
Holiday Dumplings with Rosy Fruit Cocktail Sauce

Turkey Tetrazzini

Yield: 6 servings

6 slices cooked Turkey
1/2 stick (1/4 cup) butter
2/3 cup sliced onion
1/4 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon white pepper
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
2 cups milk
2/3 cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
2 tablespoons sherry
4 ounce can mushrooms, stems and pieces, undrained
7 ounce package spaghetti, cooked, drained
1/3 cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese

Melt butter in saucepan. Saute onion in butter until tender. Blend in flour and seasonings. Remove from heat. Gradually add milk. Stirring constantly, cook until mixture thickens. Add 2/3 cup cheese and pimiento, stirring until cheese melts. Add sherry and mushrooms and liquid to cheese sauce. Place a layer of spaghetti in a 12 by 7-1/2 inch (2 quart) casserole. Cover with a layer of turkey and a layer of sauce. Repeat, finishing with a layer of sauce. Sprinkle 1/3 cup cheese over top. Bake in a 400°F. oven about 25 minutes.

Note: Casserole may be assembled in advance and frozen.
To serve: Heat, covered, in a 350°F. oven for 1-1/2 hours or until hot.

Holiday Dumpling with Rosy Fruit Cocktail Sauce

Yield: 6 servings

*1 recipe Cream Cheese Pastry
1 can (29 ounce) cling peach halves
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
6 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
*Rosy Fruit Cocktail Sauce

Prepare Cream Cheese Pastry and chill at least 1 hour for easier handling. Roll pastry out on lightly floured surface to 1/8 inch thick. Cut into six 5-inch squares. Brush with beaten egg whites. Prepare Peach Filling: Drain peaches. Combine nuts, brown sugar, orange peel and cinnamon. Press rounded tablespoon of mixture into peach cavity and place filled side down on pastry square. Bring points up to center and press each seam together well. Place on jelly roll pan or other pan with 1 inch lip. Bake in preheated 375 degree F. oven 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly browned. Meanwhile, prepare Rosy Fruit Cocktail Sauce. Serve warm sauce over peach dumplings.

*Cream Cheese Pastry

1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
4 ounces cream cheese
2 cups flour
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 egg whites, beaten

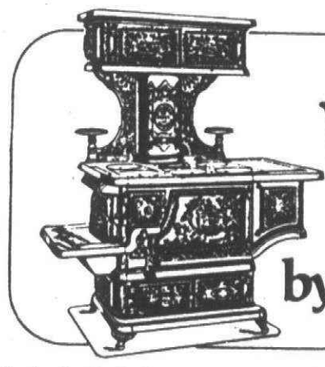

Cream butter and cream cheese in food processor or with electric mixer. Stir together flour, sugar and salt. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture and blend until crumbly. Add egg yolks and lemon juices; mix until dough is formed. (Egg whites brushed over dough later.)

*Dough may be prepared 5 days in advance and refrigerated or frozen.

Rosy Fruit Cocktail Sauce

30 ounce can fruit cocktail
2 cups cranberry juice cocktail
1/4 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel

Drain fruit cocktail and reserve 1/2 cup juice. Combine cranberry juice, reserved fruit cocktail syrup, sugar, cornstarch and cinnamon in medium saucepan. Cook over medium heat until thick and clear, stirring constantly. Add orange peel and fruit cocktail. Serve warm over Holiday Dumpling.

The Warming Oven
by Emily Watson

First of all, let's get the Italian Meat Sauce Starter recipe straightened out. This is the recipe that ran in this column Oct. 29 for the sauce that could be made in a large batch, then frozen in 10 pint-size containers.

We have had so many queries about the size of the cans of tomato paste and tomato sauce. The sizes were not mentioned in the original recipe but our readers have experimented and the concensus is: Use the small, 6-ounce cans of tomato paste and the 15 or 16-ounce cans of tomato sauce. One lady said she used those quantities and it was very good. She made just one-third of the recipe to experiment.

For Stella Kryszak of Troy and all the others who called or wrote, we apologize.

GRACE VAN DYKE made eight jars of quince jelly and eight jars of sauce out of just four quinces.

She used : 2 cups quince juice, 2 cups cranberry juice, 2 cups apple juice, 5 cups sugar and 1 package Sure Jell.

"Made excellent jelly — 8 jelly jars," wrote Mrs. Van Dyke. "I put remaining pulp through the sieve and got another eight jars of beautiful red sauce. Sauce has an apple flavor but jelly has its own distinct flavor."

She added, "Have you ever heard of Rowan jelly? The Rowan tree is a European relative of the Mountain Ash. So I tried making jelly from those orange berries that the birds love.

"It was horrible! Looked awful and tasted worse. I'm always looking for new flavors to add to my jelly-making cupboard — perhaps these, too, should have been combined with apple. Do you know?

"This berry is used in cider-making in Europe although the species is called Service-tree (domestic) and our American tree is called Mountain Ash (S. amaricana)."

I can't answer her question, but perhaps some of our readers can.

To make her quince jelly and sauce, Mrs. VanDyke cooked one package of cranberries and strained off two cups of juice. For the apple juice, she cooked three large Rome Beauties and strained off the two cups of juice. She paid 39 cents each for her quinces.

Mrs. Frank Basford of Bloomfield Hills suddenly has more quinces than she can use and is willing to share. We mailed her a copy of the Oct. 15 food section with the quince recipes.

I FOUND TWO brand new copies of the Shaker Cook Book "Not by Bread Alone" by Caroline B. Piercy (Crown Publishers, Inc. New York). If the woman who was searching for the book would call, she may have it. And if anyone has found a source at a book store, I would like to pass on the information.

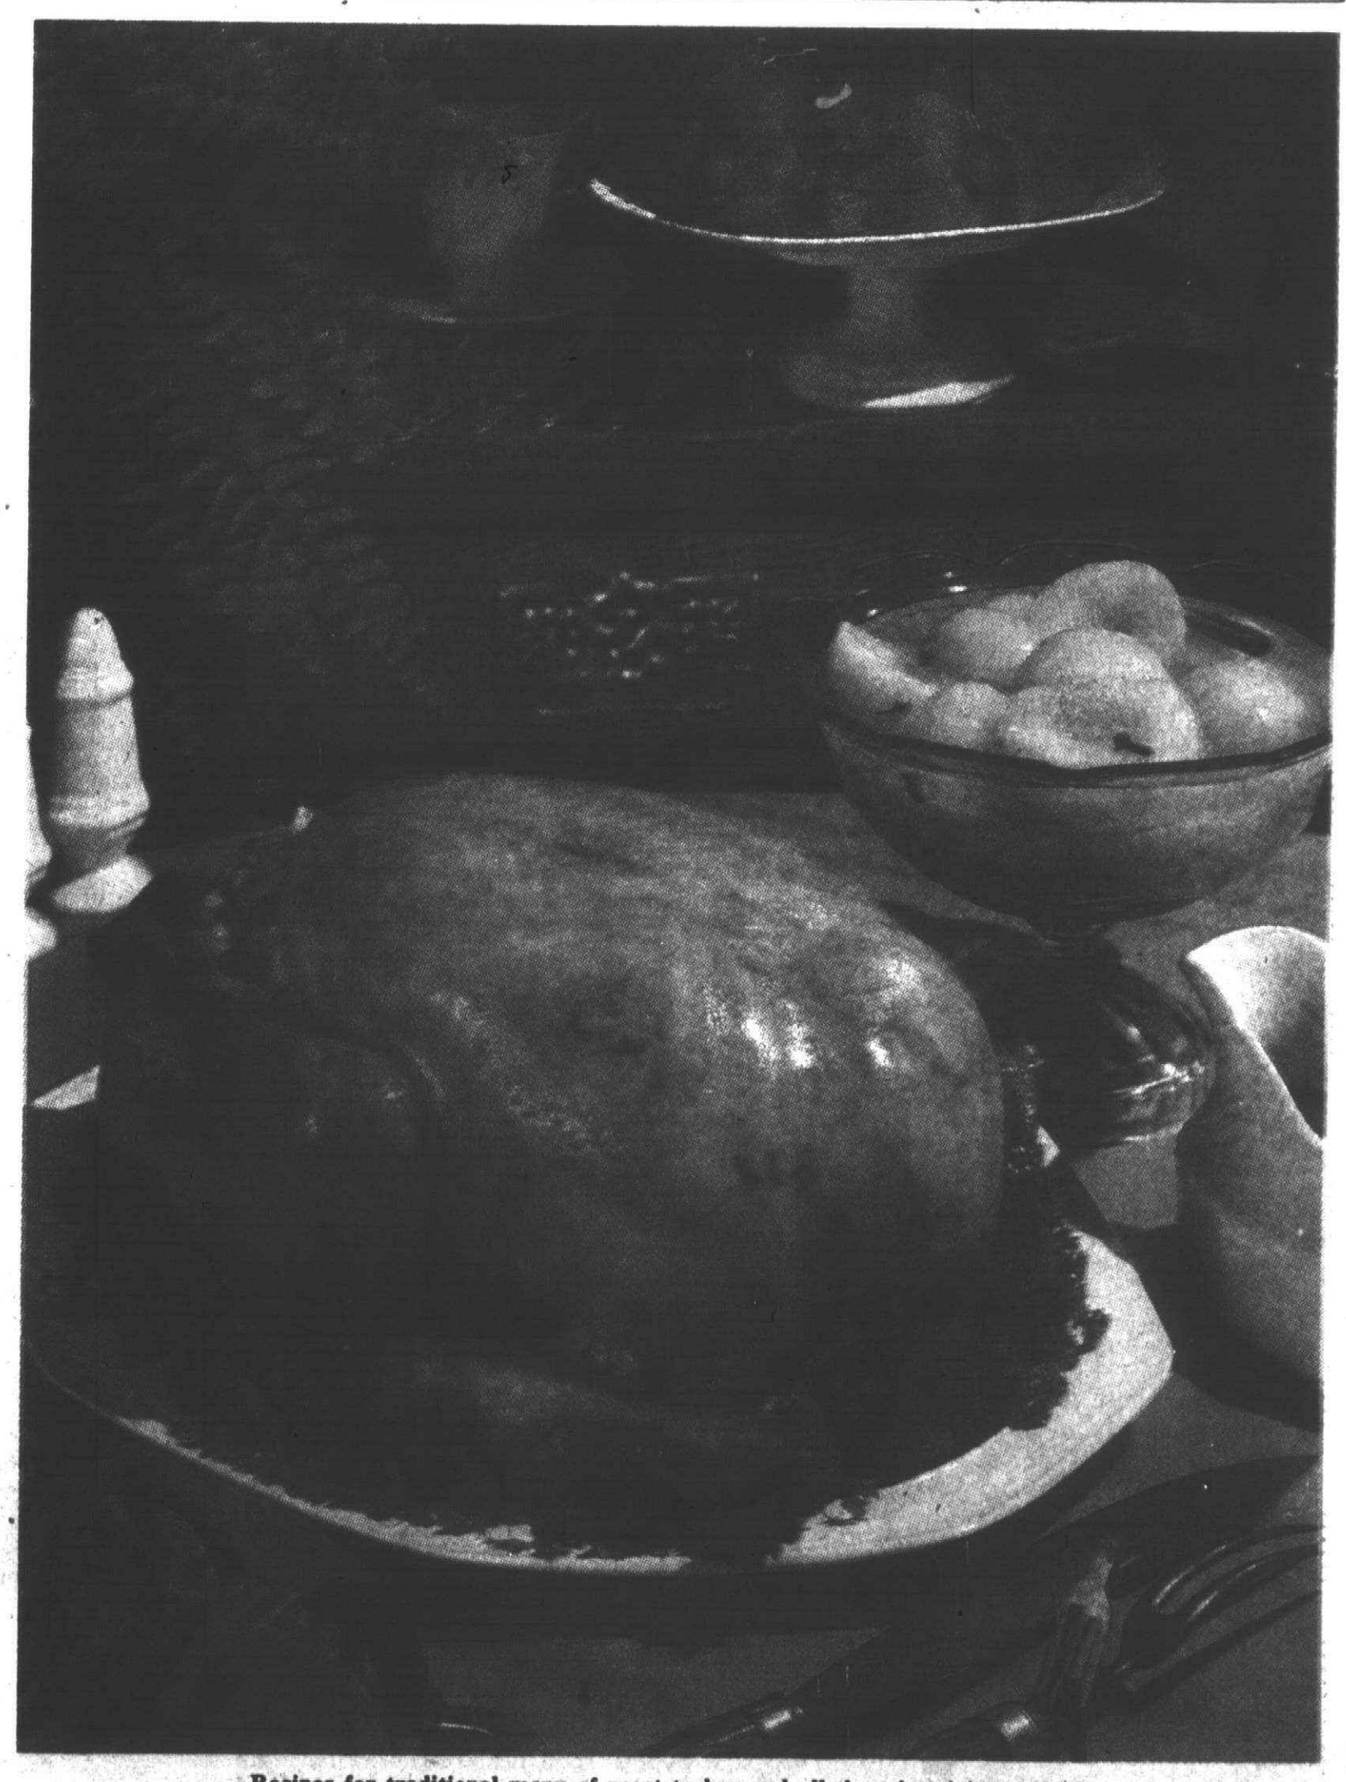

A FRIEND from California stopped in for a visit on her way home from the Upper Peninsula. She recommended this recipe for Chop Stick Tuna which one of her friends had served at a luncheon in the UP.

CHOP STICK TUNA

1 can mushroom soup
¼ c. water
1 3-oz. can chow mein noodles
1 can tuna (in water)
¾ cup sliced celery
¼ cup chopped onion
Dash of pepper
¼ tsp. salt
Add extra mushrooms, if desired (½ small can)
½ cup salted cashews

Combine mushroom soup, water, tuna, celery, onions, and seasonings in an ungreased casserole. Bake 35 to 40 minutes in 350-degree oven. For last 10 minutes of baking time add cashews. Push nuts into tuna mixture then cover with noodles and return to oven for 10 minutes.

Seems like a good recipe to have on hand for the holiday season when you have about one hour to prepare dinner after a day of shopping.

Recipes for traditional menu of roast turkey and all the trimmin's are inside.

Traditional Holiday Menu

Roast Turkey,
Old-fashioned Stuffing Giblet Gravy
Mashed Potatoes Sweet Potatoes
Bacon and Tomato Seasoned Green Beans
Pumpkin Pie Spiced Peaches
Relish Tray
Rolls Butter
Cranberry Gingercake with Sparkling Cranberry Sauce

Old-Fashioned Bread Stuffing

Yield: 8 cups (enough for 12 pound turkey)

1-1/2 cups finely chopped onion
1-1/2 cups finely chopped celery
1 stick (1/2 cup) butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/2 teaspoon ground sage
Pepper
8 cups dry unseasoned bread cubes
1/4 cup water or broth

Cook onion and celery in butter until tender. Mix seasonings together and sprinkle over bread cubes. Add onion mixture and water. Combine. Stuff thawed, rinsed turkey and roast immediately.

Casserole Stuffing: Prepare Old-Fashioned Stuffing increasing water or broth to 1/2 cup. Place mixture in 1-1/2 quart casserole. Cover and bake in 325°F. oven for 45 minutes.

Slow Cooker Stuffing: Prepare Old-Fashioned Stuffing decreasing onion to 1 cup, salt and sage to 1/4 teaspoon each, and increasing water or broth to 1/2 cup. Cook mixture in slow cooker on HIGH setting for 1 hour, then turn to LOW setting for 1 to 1-1/2 hours.
Note: 10 cups fresh bread cubes, dried overnight, yield 8 to 9 cups dry bread cubes.

Pumpkin Pie Spiced Peaches

Yield: 6 servings

1 can (29 ounce) cling peach halves
1/4 cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons honey
1/2 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1 cinnamon stick
5 whole cloves

Drain peaches and reserve syrup. Combine syrup, lemon juice, honey, spices and orange peel in 2 quart saucepan. Bring to boil, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Cover and simmer about 10 minutes. Pour hot syrup over peach halves in bowl. Cover and let stand 1 hour, turning occasionally.

Cranberry Gingercake

Yield: 12 to 16 servings

2-1/2 cups sifted flour
1/3 cup sugar
1-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
3/4 teaspoon salt
1-1/2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
3/8 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
3/4 cup shortening
3/4 cup orange juice
3/4 cup light molasses
2 eggs
1-1/2 cups whole cranberries
3/4 cup chopped nuts

Thoroughly combine flour, sugar, baking powder, soda, salt, spices and orange peel in large mixing bowl. Add shortening, orange juice and molasses. Beat 2 minutes at medium speed on electric mixer, or 300 strokes by hand. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl. Add eggs. Beat 2 minutes longer. Stir in cranberries and nuts. Pour into 12 cup greased and floured teflon Bundt pan. Bake in a 325°F. oven for 45 minutes or until cake is done. Let cake cool in pan 10 minutes before turning out on serving plate. Serve warm with Sparkling Cranberry Dessert Sauce spooned over cake.

HELPFUL HINTS:

1. To bake in a non-teflon pan, increase oven temperature to 350°F. To use a smaller mold than recommended, fill mold 3/4 full and bake extra batter in muffin tins.
2. Bake cake in advance, wrap in foil and freeze.
   To reheat in conventional oven: Let cake stand at room temperature about 2 hours to thaw. Heat foil-wrapped cake in 325°F. oven until warm through, about 45 minutes. Open foil during last 10 minutes.
   To reheat in microwave oven: Remove foil and place frozen cake on microwave-safe plate. Microwave on DEFROST setting 5 to 7 minutes or until thawed. Heat on HIGH setting (full power) for 4 minutes or until warm through, rotating cake 1/2 turn after 2 minutes.

Sparkling Cranberry Dessert Sauce

Yield: 2-3/4 cups

2 cups cranberries
1-1/2 cups water
1 cup sugar
1-1/2 teaspoons grated orange peel
2-1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons water

Mix together cranberries, water, sugar and orange peel in medium saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, about 5 minutes or until about half the berry skins have popped. Combine cornstarch and water and stir into cranberry mixture. Bring to a full boil; cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Serve warm over Cranberry Gingercake.

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

New twists to traditional

Many vegetables available today for favorite holiday dishes probably would have appeared quite strange to the first Thanksgiving diners.

Certainly the bounty would have, for the colonists almost starved during that first year.

The main reason for the celebration was that they were alive — that they had survived a winter of hunger and disease in a strange new land.

Another reason was to thank the Indians for their assistance, a kind of early wilderness survival course.

But unlike present-day participants in survival training, the colonists could not go home after two weeks and entertain their friends with stories of hunting berries and snaring rabbits. They had to live through a long New England winter.

Many of those first immigrants didn't make it. The ones who did survive breathed a long sigh of relief and threw a party.

Wild turkey from the forest and fresh cranberries from a local bog topped their menu. That same menu, using domesticated birds and cultivated berries, continues to centerpiece holiday dinner tables.

The colonists surrounded themselves with squash and pumpkin. Our vegetable choices are much more varied, though their choices remain on our menus.

Some vegetable dishes that serve as a reminder of that first Thanksgiving, are mashed yellow turnips and potatoes, or brussels sprouts with pecans. ALso sweet potatoes in orange baskets and creamed onions and peas.

MASHED YELLOW TURNIPS AND POTATOES

1 large or 2 medium yellow turnips (rutabagas)
2 large potatoes
¾ stick (6 tbsp.) butter or margarine
Salt and pepper to taste
Pinch of sugar
Heavy cream, approx. ½ cup

Peel the turnips and potatoes and cut into chunks. Cook in a saucepan with boiling salted water to cover until tender when tested with a fork.

Drain thoroughly and work through a ricer or mash until smooth. Return to pan. Add butter, salt, pepper, sugar and enough warm heavy cream to give the mixture the consistency of mashed potatoes. Reheat, beating vigorously until very light and smooth.

BRUSSELS SPROUTS WITH PECANS

1 lb. brussels sprouts
6 tbsp. butter or margarine
½ tsp. freshly ground pepper
¼ tsp. nutmeg
½ cup pecan quarters (halves cut in half)

Cut off stem end of sprouts. Remove the outer leaves plus any yellow or ugly leaves. Soak the sprouts in water 15 to 20 minutes before cooking to dislodge any dirt particles. Drain.

Boil uncovered over medium high heat in ample amount of salted water 5 to 15 minutes, depending on crispness preferred. Drain. Add pecans to sprouts in pan.

In separate small pan, melt butter. Add pepper and nutmeg. Pour over vegetables and shake pan gently until well tossed. Serves 4 to 6.

SWEET POTATOES IN ORANGE BASKETS

4 large navel oranges
2 tbsp. unsalted butter, softened, plus 2 tsp. unsalted butter, cut into bits
4 large sweet potatoes, boiled, peeled and mashed (1 ½ cups), or equal amount canned
1 egg
4 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. grated lemon rind
½ tsp. white pepper
2 tbsp. finely chopped walnuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cut off and discard a 1-inch deep slice from stem end of each orange. Squeeze and use juice for other purposes. Scrape and cut away pulp and membranes from orange shells, keeping them intact and as regular in shape as possible. Set shells side by side in baking dish just large enough to hold them.

In a large mixing bowl, beat the softened butter into the mashed sweet potatoes, then beat in the egg, salt, white pepper and lemon rind. Taste for seasoning. Fill each orange basket with the mixture, swirling the tops decoratively. Sprinkle the filling with the walnuts, and dot with the butter bits. Bake in the center of the oven for 45 minutes, until tops are lightly browned. Serve at once.

CREAMED ONIONS AND PEAS

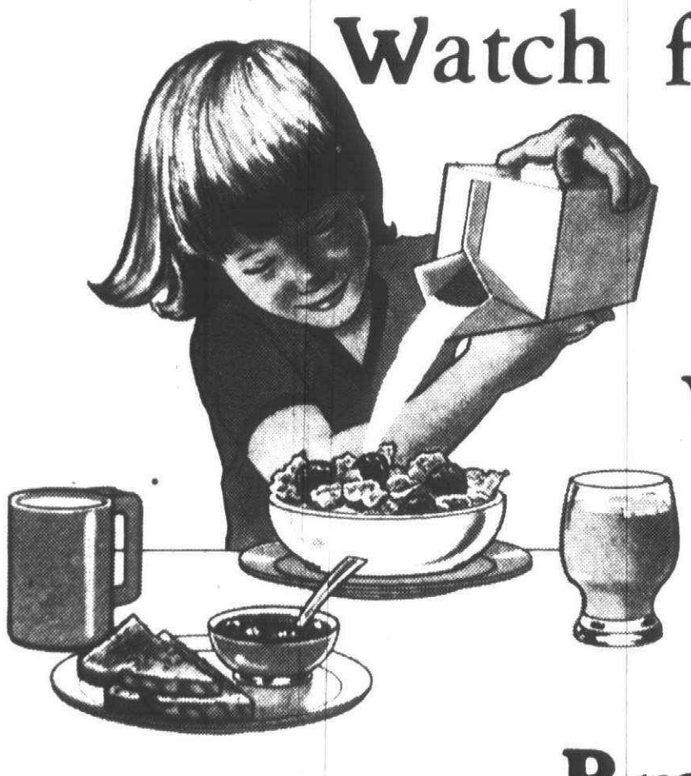

24 to 28 peeled white onions, about 1-in. in diameter
3 pkgs. frozen green peas, thoroughly defrosted
4 tbsp. flour
4 tbsp. butter
1 ½ cups milk
½ cup cream
1 tsp. salt
Pinch of white pepper
¼ tsp. nutmeg

Simmer onions partially covered in 3-qt. saucepan with water to cover for 20 minutes. Drain and set aside. Reserve cooking water for sauce.

Melt butter in heavy saucepan, stir in flour. Remove pan from heat. Pour in 2 cups of reserved onion cooking liquid. Beat with a wire whisk until flour-butter mixture is partially dissolved. Add milk and cream, return to pan to heat and cook, whisking constantly, until sauce is smooth and thick.

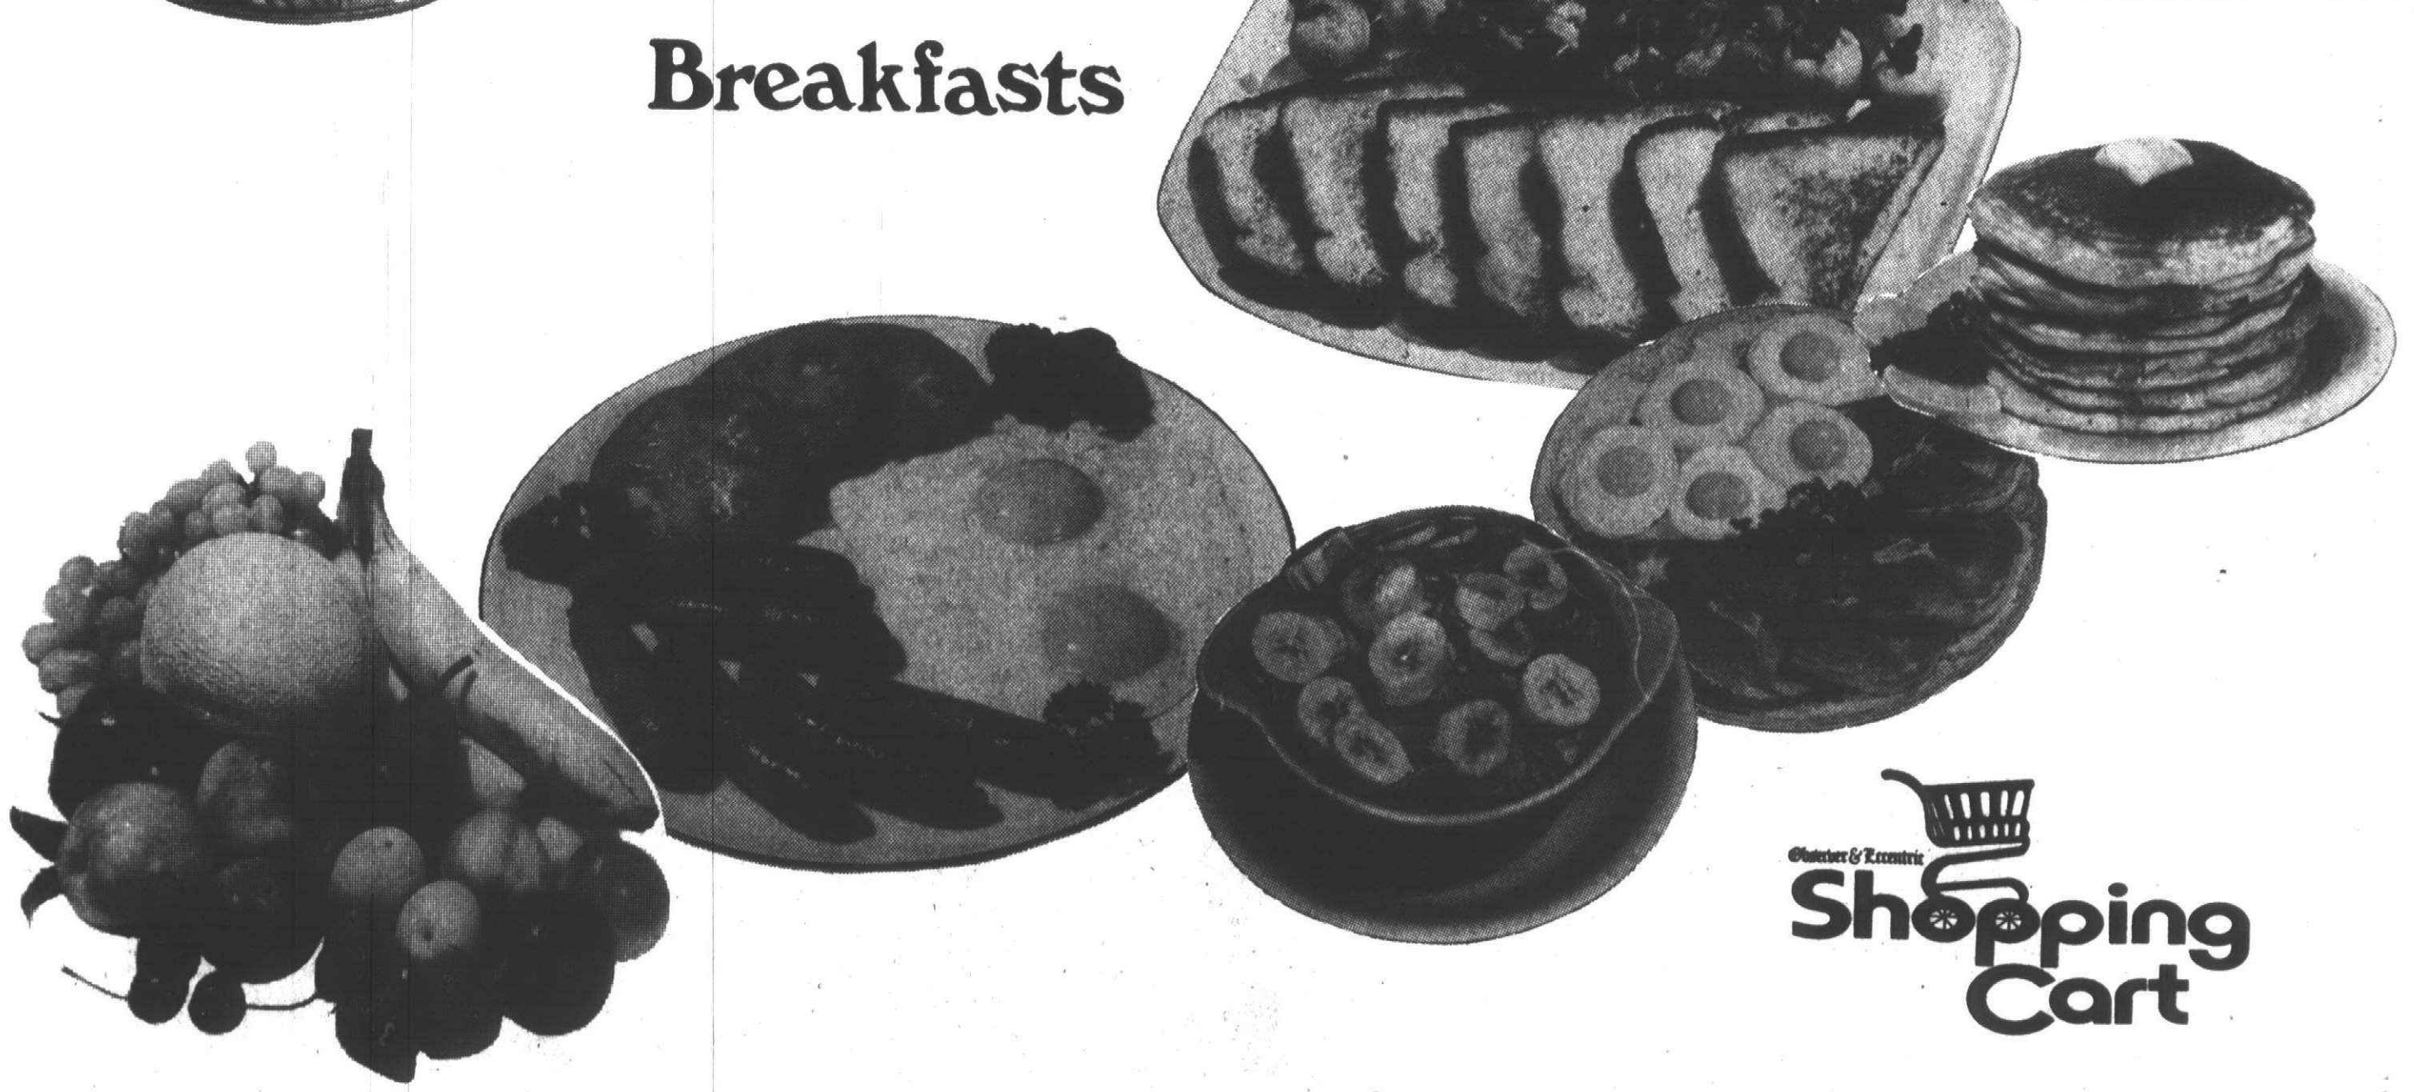

Simmer three or four minutes. Season with salt, white pepper and nutmeg, add onions and defrosted peas. Simmer 5 minutes. Taste for seasoning. Serves 8.

Wild game go-withs and super desserts

Judging from column communications (expletives deleted) regarding last week's article on "Wild Game," it appears I have attacked motherhood, the flag, and apple pie.

I had no idea how strongly some folks felt about the slightest deviation from the traditional meal of turkey-with-the-trimmings for Thanksgiving. In fact, to a goodly number who commented, turkey in all its glory IS THANKSGIVING!

My thanks to those avid hunters and wild game devotees who were delighted to garner new ideas for preparing the wild animals their men-folk proudly present them with every fall.

Today we will give you suggestions for dishes to accompany the trophies of the hunter. Of course, the same recipes are excellently served with the traditional turkey.

For those who would like to see me share the fate of many glorious gobblers this time of year — take heart. Within the next few weeks the turkey will get his fair share when we capture the spirit of the holidays by devoting an entire column to it. Both traditional and gussied-up versions will be discussed.

CHESTNUT PUREE

2 pounds chestnuts
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. freshly ground white pepper
1 tsp. sugar
1 tbsp. butter or margarine, melted
1½ tbsp. heavy cream (coffee cream may be substituted) slightly warmed

With a sharp knife, split chestnuts in shells at pointed ends. Put chestnuts in saucepan with water to cover; bring to boil. Cook about 30 minutes or until shells peel off easily. Put peeled chestnuts in boiling water with salt and reduce heat. Simmer until tender. Drain and mash, season with pepper and sugar. Stir in melted butter and cream. Makes about 2 cups.

NOTE: To reheat, put puree in saucepan with a little more butter and cream; reheat and stir well to blend.

WILD RICE CASSEROLE
(From "The Happy Cooker" cookbook by Elayne S. Stulberg)

¾ cups uncooked wild rice (when cooked, about 3-¾ cups)
4 cups water
½ tsp. salt
½ pound butter or margarine
1 onion, chopped
4 ounce can mushrooms, sliced and drained of liquid
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. sage
1 tsp. parsley flakes

Rinse rice in several changes of cold water in a fine sieve. Place rice and water and salt in large saucepan. Bring to boil, reduce heat to simmer and cook covered for 45-60 minutes or until rice is soft. If any water remains, drain quickly in fine sieve again. Return rice to saucepan and add ¼ pound butter, stirring to melt. Cover pan and set aside.

Melt remaining butter in a frypan and saute onions until transparent but not browned. Add mushrooms and remaining spices. Saute over low heat, uncovered, for 3 minutes. Add to wild rice making certain to include any butter left in bottom of pan. Blend well and cover until needed. May be reheated in double boiler at serving time. Serves 10-12.

WHOLE FRESH CRANBERRY SAUCE

1 quart cranberries, washed and cleaned
1 cup sugar
1 cup water
¼ tsp. (or less) powdered cloves
½ tsp. cinnamon
⅛ tsp. nutmeg
1 tbsp. lemon juice

Put all ingredients into large kettle. Bring to boil. Lower heat to simmer and cook 12-15 minutes or until berries pop. Remove berries with slotted spoon and continue cooking juice until it is like thick syrup. Pour over berries. Makes about 2½ cups. Refrigerate until serving time.

BRAISED ENDIVE

6 medium stalks endive
2 cups boiling water
1 tsp. lemon juice (juice of fresh lemon preferred, if available) 2 slices bacon, diced
1 small onion, thinly sliced
1½ tbsp. butter or margarine
1 cup strong homemade chicken stock (or chicken bouillon cubes, 5 cubes for 1 cup water)
Salt and pepper to taste
1½ tbsp. cornstarch mixed with 2 tbsp. cold water

Clean endive stalks and split each lengthwise. Pour boiling water over and sprinkle with lemon juice. Let sit for 10 minutes and drain thoroughly. Put bacon, onions and butter into large frypan over medium heat. When butter melts, lay endive side by side; pour stock over and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover tightly and simmer gently for 25 minutes or until endive is tender. Add cornstarch-water mixture; increase heat and stir pan juices around endive until slightly thickened. Serves 4.

WE GET LETTERS

Milford's Ms. Becky Born, who purchases this paper in Southfield near her office, requests "something" rich to serve holiday drop-in guests. "Since I work fulltime, I would be grateful for a recipe I can prepare ahead to serve with coffee."

Relax Becky! The National Peanut Council comes to your rescue with delicious Peanut Ribbon Cake. Pound cake, Homemade or store bought, is the basis for this layered loaf with its lucious, light-as-air filling of chocolate, whipped topping and crunchy peanuts. Sliced thin, drizzled with a liqueur and filled with a peanutty topping mixture, the plain pound cake turns into gourmet fare. Best of all, it freezes beautifully, eliminating the harried hostess syndrome.

PEANUT RIBBON CAKE

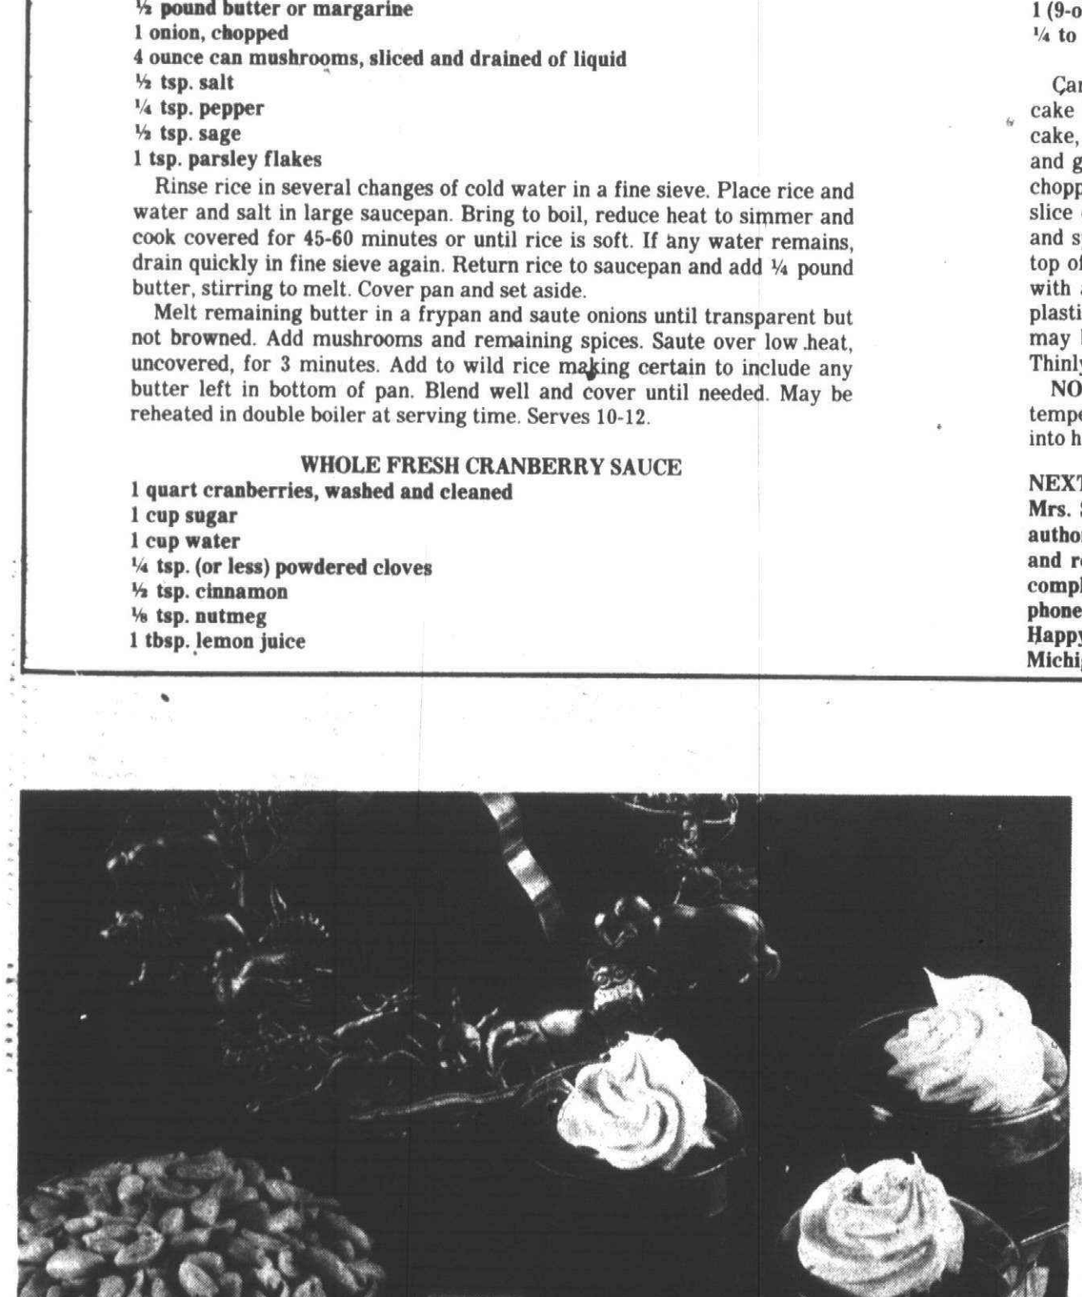

1 (10 ¾-ounce) frozen pound cake or 1 (8-x-4-inch) loaf pound cake
1 (4-ounce) bar German sweet chocolate
¾ cup cocktail peanuts, finely chopped
1 (9-ounce) container frozen whipped topping, thawed
¼ to ⅓ cup liqueur (Creme do Cacao, Kaluha, Grand Marnier, etc.)

Carefully remove frozen pound cake from foil pan; reserve pan. Slice cake horizontally into 5 thin layers. If using bakery or homemade pound cake, freeze cake first for easier slicing. Chill chocolate; break into chunks and grate in a blender or food processor. Fold grated chocolate and finely chopped peanuts into 2 cups whipped topping. Assemble cake: Place bottom slice of cake back in pan. Drizzle cake with about 1 tablespoon of liqueur and spread with ⅓ cup of chocolate topping mixture. Place next layer on top of filling. Repeat process until all cake layers are reassembled ending with a layer of chocolate topping. Carefully wrap pan containing cake in plastic wrap or place in plastic bag. Freeze. Remaining whipped topping may be mixed with 1 tablespoon liqueur and served as topping for cake. Thinly slice cake to serve. Makes 8-10 slices.

NOTE: I have used this cake both frozen as well as defrosted and at room temperature. However, it slices best in its frozen state using knife dipped into hot water.

NEXT WEEK: BRUNCH

Bananas are easy dessert

Bananas are a fairly good buy right now, and you can use them for this easy dessert:

BANANAS AU RUM
(Rum Bananas)

4 ripe firm bananas
¼ cup butter
¼ cup brown sugar
Lemon juice
½ cup rum

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Peel bananas and cut in half lengthwise. Melt butter in ovenproof baking dish. Add banana halves. Sprinkle with sugar. Bake 10 minutes (until sugar is melted). Sprinkle with lemon juice and baste briefly. Return to oven for 2 minutes. Warm rum. Pour over bananas. Ignite the rum. When flame dies, eat immediately.

Creation In The Vineyards
The creation of Sebastiani wines begins with vines which start the beautiful complicated process of forming grapes in Spring. Fuzzy little buds push forth from a European vine that has been grafted to hearty American rootstock. The buds unfold into canes with luxuriant leaves that shade the tender grapes, form sugar for each grape cluster and nourish the vines. In May the first bright green clusters (or flower buds) appear.
Each bud pops off its cap or "Calyptra" in June and a flower blooms. Then the flower pollinates itself and the grape berry is the ripened ovary of a single flower.
Baby grapes grow rapidly and their final push to maturity starts in August. Maturing grapes such as those that give birth to the noble Sebastiani Pinot Noir, are carefully monitored for sugar to determine exactly when each varietal is to be picked for ultimate quality.
Harvest begins in September, peaks in early October and usually ends in early November. Throughout this creative evolution, each vine that bears the essence of a fine Sebastiani wine is carefully trained, nurtured, and protected to help it yield grapes of great character. Only these are then transformed into the wines of Sebastiani.

Military Service

JOHN BUKHART

Army Spec. 4 John E. Bukhart Jr., son of John E. Burkart of Canton Center Road, Plymouth, recently was named post solider of the month at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. He is assigned to the U.S. Army Training Center Engineer at Leonard Wood.

STEVEN KALNASY

Airman Steven O. Kalnasy, son of Leona Schulter of Heritage Drive, Plymouth, has been assigned to Yokota Air Base, Japan, following graduation from the U.S. Air Force communications course at Sheppard AFB, Wichita Falls, Tex.

Kalnasy learned to operate teletypewriter equipment used in the worldwide AF communications system and now will serve with a communications service unit.

RAYMOND WALSH

Senior Airman Raymond J. Walsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rayond I. Walsh of Lexington, Plymouth, has arrived for duty at McGuire Air Force Base, Wrightstown, N.J.

Walsh, a fuel systems mechanic, had been assigned at RAF Bentwaters, England, and now is serving with a unit of the Military Airlift Command. He is a 1977 graduate of West Bloomfield High School.

DANNY NICHOLS

Danny J. Nichols, 18, son of Eleanor Nichols of Stacy Dr., Canton, recently entered the U.S. Air Force.

Upon graduation from six weeks' basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., he will receive technical training in the electronics field and be assigned to a permanent duty station. Nichols attended Wayne Memorial High School.

MATTHEW J. SPITZ

Matthew John James Spitz, II, 24, has entered the USAF Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

He will begin four years active duty on Dec. 28 with six weeks' basic training at Lackland AFB. The Air Force has guaranteed that Spitz, a 1979 graduate of Plymouth Canton High, will then receive air crew life support specialist training. Spitz and wife now live on Heritage Dr. in Plymouth.

Firefighters donate to burn institute

The National Burn Institute, headquartered in Ann Arbor, is $1,666.66 richer thanks to the efforts of Plymouth Township firefighters.

Several township full-time firefighters and voulnteers contributed that amount last Friday to the center's work after a weekend of collection at a township shopping center Oct. 12, 13.

Sgt. Randy Maycock, who coordinated the project along with firefighter Greg Westfall and volunteer Jim Vertittelli, said they have adopted the burn centter as their pet project in years to come.

Previously, the department helped raise money for the fight against muscular dystrophy.

Why they decided to collect for this agency instead:

"It's local here and we had several patients from house fires and automobile accidents taken to the burn center," Maycock said.

"It seems to be pretty worthy because people kind of take it for granted. It's a pretty small unit but the recovery process is quite lengthy."

Maycock said the institute is the "major burn center" for three or four neighboring states. It also receives its greatest share of operating funds from collections by firefighters.

Maycock added contributors appeared to be very responsive, kicking in as much as $5 and $10 single contributions.

"We even got some checks."

Draper's honored

Harry "Hod" Draper received a singular honor recently when Plymouth Rotarians made him the first Paul Harris Fellow designated by the club. The club so honored Draper by making a contribution in his name to the Harris Fellowship program of Rotary International Foundation, which will use the funds to support its many programs, including scholarships, exchange programs, and youth programs. Draper was selected by Rotarians for the honor for his many years of service to the club as executive secretary, a position he now holds, and for his community service as a longtime Rotarian. The fellowship proclamation was presented to him recently by Frank Sladen (at left), Rotary governor of District 640. (John Gaffield photo)

Boy king's gold has its competition

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Travelers exploring the Treasures of Tutankhamun in Toronto this month will find another artistic treasure hidden in the woods of the city: The McMichael Canadian Collection.

The McMichael collection is the largest grouping of Canadian art in existence. It reflects the art tradition of the country in three very important ways.

The collection was built by private collectors Robert and Signe McMichael, around the work of Canada's most famous painters, the Group of Seven. Several of the Group of Seven are buried on the grounds. The museum itself, built of century-old square-cut logs and Ontario stone, is an expression of the philosophy on which Canadian art was developed.

This graystone statue is in the McMichael Collection. Its artist is Pauta, from Cape Dorset.

The work of the Group of Seven doesn't look very radical to contemporary viewers, but it reflected a major break with the established art world earlier in this century.

Established artists were painting elegant, misty scenes based on European art traditions, when this group of young artists decided that they would focus on Canada's most important feature: its landscape.

They drew the land of trees, lakes, rocks and water in all of its natural detail.

It was that same attraction to natural Ontario landscapes that drew the McMichaels to this woodland near Kleinburg in 1954, where they used the square-cut logs from century-old barns to build a simple contemporary home with wide-window views of the woods. It was a perfect setting for the two original Canadian paintings they then owned.

By 1960 they owned 50 Canadian paintings. By 1965 when they donated the collection to the Ontario government, there were 300 paintings on those simple log-cabin walls.

THE GALLERY has been expanded and maintained in the McMichael tradition with Robert and Signe living upstairs and still running things.

New wings were added to the house, using British Columbia logs to carry out the theme of th the original building. He was often seen leading viewers around the gallery rooms, where paintings are hung against log or stone walls and never against the stark-white walls so common to museums.

Tom Thompson's shack was added to the grounds. Thompson was famous for his scenes of Algonquin Park, and this was the building he used as a studio in the park. Occasionally, a contemporary painter can still be seen working in the building.

If you visit the museum now, you will drive through simply-marked gates, past a hill topped with large stones, to the parking lot. From there you will see a cathedral ceiling entrance to a building of long and stone.

In the high-ceilinged entrance, a large stone waterfall symbolizes the lakes and rivers of Canada. Long passageways lined with Eskimo and Indian art lead you to the larger rooms where early landscape paintings are shown near large glass windows at the look out on similar wooded scenes.

To enjoy the final touch to this unusual museum setting, go back to that hill on the other side of the parking lot where the large rought-cut stones sit looking out at the same kind of trees that inspired the Group of Seven.

You will find names carved on the stones: A.Y. Jackson, Lawren Harris, F.H. Varley, Arthur Lismer and Frank Johnston. The stones are headstones, although no grave sites can be seen on the hill. These five members of the Group of Seven were buried on the grounds at their own request, within sight of the woods they loved and of an art gallery that has kept their art in a natural setting.

The McMichael Canadian Collection is open from noon to 5:30 p.m. daily except Mondays. Mondays and weekday mornings are reserved for school groups. There is no admission charge. The McMichaels believe that Canadian art belongs to the people of Canada, and the government of Ontario agrees.

The McMichael experience may be one of the best-kept secrets in Ontario tourism. If you go to see the Tut exhibit, be sure to detour north on Highway 400 to Major McKenzie Road, where a sign will lead you to the gallery. The alternative route is west on Highway 401 and north on highway 27 past the airport to Kleinberg, although this route is not well marked.

Shop in Chicago

On Friday, Nov. 23 and Saturday, Nov. 24, the Farmington Hills Parks and Recreation Department is offering an overnight shopping spree in Chicago. The trip will include motorcoach transportation and one night's lodging in the Ramada Inn, downtown Chicago.

The motorcoach leaves Farmington Hills City Hall at 9 a.m. Friday and arrives at 2:30 p.m. in Chicago. The coach leaves Chicago at 4 p.m. on Saturday and returns to the Hills city hall by 11 p.m. Fee for a single room is $61; twin, $48; three, $44; four, $41. For more information, call the parks and recreation office at 474-6115.

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

Legally or not, Tut tickets to be had

I called the Tut Hotline in Toronto this week because I have heard several conflicting stories about the availability of tickets for the Treasures of Tutankhamun.

The Tut office in the Art Gallery of Ontario told me several months ago that no tickets would be available after the rush of tickets in early August.

Despite that, I have seen many signs that tickets are available. A Detroit travel agency has advertised that Tut tickets are included in their tours of Toronto.

A recent visitor to Canada told me that Tut tickets were being advertised in Toronto a week ago. I heard several stories about tickets being scalped.

HERE IS THE STORY as told by the Art Gallery of Ontario. The first choice of tickets was given months ago to members of the Art Gallery of Ontario and of the Royal Ontario Museum; each member was allowed to buy four tickets.

On Aug. 1, the major department stores across Canada opened a Tut box office. Each person who approached the box office as given a form that allowed him or her to buy four tickets by mail.

The forms were gone in a very short time, but some formholders bought less than four tickets, so there were a few left over. What was left over went on sale Nov. 1.

The only tickets now legally available are for Christmas Eve, New Year's Eve and Boxing Day. Boxing Day is the day after Christmas, named for an English practice of giving boxes full of goodies to servants after Christmas.

These few tickers can be purchased for $3.50 each, but only if you buy them personally from the Village by the Grange, a new shopping center on McCaul Street, adjacent to the gallery.

Scalping is illegal in Ontario which doesn't stop it from happening. Tickets are offered for sale in the local newspapers for prices ranging from $5 to $45.

Tut's treasures have caused great excitement in Toronto. The exhibit has drawn the largest crowds of any display ever shown at the At Gallery of Ontario.

IT'S OCCASIONALLY been a headache for the gallery, but they think the headache is worth it. The most recent headache was caused by the train derailment on the outskirts of Toronto, which kept a lot of ticket-holders too busy to keep their appointments with the boy king.

Their appointments are being rescheduled whenever possible The moral of this story is never to assume it's impossible. For information, contact the Tut Hotline at 1-416-364-4900.

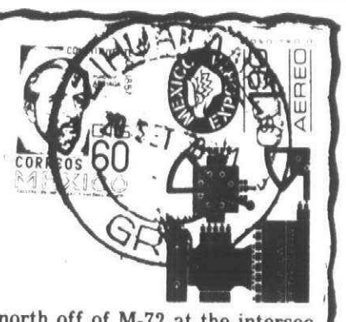

SPEAKING OF CANADA, Via Rail Canada raised its passenger fares as of today, Nov. 19. The increasing is from 4-6 percent, depending on the length of the journey. Senior citizens should note that Canadian railways have discounts for travelers older than 65 years of age although they are not applicable at certain holiday periods.

THE WORLD ADVENTURE series will hold a wine and cheese party Sunday, Dec. 2, in conjunction with the film lecture, "The Magnificent Rhine." It is complimentary to season and second-season ticket holders.

Second-season tickets, starting Jan. 13 and good for seven shows, sell for $17.50. Add two post-season shows and it costs $22.50. Call 832-7676, for information.

Northern wines

After five years of growing and preparing, the Chateau Grand Traverse Vineyards is now producing wines for sale to the public.

Located on Old Mission Road (U.S. 37N), just north of Traverse City, the vineyard is offering apple, cherry and cherry spiced wines, as well as Pinot Chardonnay, Cabernet Sauvignon, Mosel and Gamay Beaujalais.

The winery won gold, silver and bronze medals for those wines at this year's Michigan State Fair.

To enjoy a taste of them all, free, take Old Mission Road north off of M-72 at the intersection just east of the heart of Traverse City. A few miles out you'll see one little sign directing you to the vineyard, and the wine tasting room.

These fruit wines are spicy and ready to drink. No need to store them for years waiting for them to mature.

The Chateau will be open to the public through December, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays-Saturdays, and 1-5 Sundays.

Skiing open house

Kandahar Ski Club will host its annual open house from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2.

Kandahar is a family ski club comprising 420 families that have developed over 100 acres of land on Foley Road southwest of Fenton, Mich.

Eleven lighted slopes for night skiing with snow making facilities are serviced by a Poma lift and rope tows. There is a ski school, a unit of National Ski Patrol, an Alpine race team, and cross country ski trails. The vertical drop is 150 feet wtih good run out.

At the open house, there will be four-wheel drive vehicles to take everyone to the top and for a tour of the area. Coffee, hot chocolate and doughnuts will be served to enjoy around the fireplaces. Kandahar members will be available to answer any questions you may ave regarding membership.

Virgin Islands hiatus

No season is better suited to escape than is winter. Especially when those first few inches of downy white turn to slush, and cold winds blow sleet and gray times aplenty.

It is a time ripe with travelers going south to Florida, its Keys, its sun. Some venture beyond to the British and American Virgin Islands, long favored as winter vacation destinations.

One way to enjoy Virgin Island pleasures, or to see more of the islands your first time south, is to consider a crewed yacht charter, a private sailing vacation that includes a professional captain as guide.

The Moorings, Ltd., on Tortola, the largest charter yachting resort in the British Virgin Islands, offers crewed charter packages from $411 per person, Dec. 16 through April 15. Crewed charters can be booked by parties of up to six persons for a minimum week-long vacation, and no sailing skills are required.

Prices include ground transportation between the Moorings and Tortola's Beef Island Airport; the captain's services; menus and food; the yacht and necessary shipboard equipment.

(Crewed charter yachts feature two private cabins, captain's quarters, and a main salon — living-dining galley (kitchen) area with additional sleeping space.)

Further information on the Moorings crewed charter packages can be obtained from travel agents, by calling The Moorings' stateside offices toll-free at 1-800-535-7289, or by writing The Moorings, Ltd., P.O. Box 50059, New Orleans, La. 70150.

The Moorings also offers bareboat (without captain) charters designed for experienced sailors.

Students flip over art that can't be pinned down

For practitioners of the art such as Joe Balazich (right), Aikido is more ballet of the mind and body than a method of protection. However, a seasoned veteran is nearly invincible in hand-to-hand combat.

By CRAIG PIECHURA

Amused by John Belushi's "Samurai Tailor" routine? Intrigued by films and stories of real samurai warriors weilding swords and shouting loudly in Japanese?

Well, there's no need to make a pilgrimage to Mt. Fuji to learn the secrets of the masters of the martial art.

A class in Aikido is held Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Southfield High. The instuctor is a demure-looking woman named Anita Schnee, 30, of Detroit, who wears a black belt after only four years in the discipline.

Ms. Schnee is quick to point out that persons looking for a fight or trying to train themselves to be deadly killers had better look to karate or judo. The idea of Aikido is harmony between two combatants.

"There is no competition in Aikido," Ms. Schnee says. "We practice harmony instead. We do not practice fighting. It is a usable martial art but we don't concentrate so much on how to use it in a street situation."

THAT DOESN'T MEAN Aikido classes are one big encounter session. Its origin is a very fierce martial art. And in class things get very physical. Flops, flips and falls abound.

It's just that students don't care whether they're doing the flipping or being flipped. The skill is being smooth at it.

"In our society we train our mind and body separately," Ms. Schnee explains. "A couple of good reasons to study Aikido is, number one, it's very good exercise, and, number two, it's very good for coordination. We like to think about the coordination of mind and body together."

One of Ms. Schnee's students, Rick Matz, says when he first saw an Aikido demonstration, he was sure it was fake.

"I was in karate then and I thought this stuff was foolish," Matz says. "It looks fake when you see a demonstration. But when you do it yourself, you find out how much is involved."

Now, 4½ years later, Matz says he finds he's able to concentrate better and gets fewer colds through increased mind-body coordination.

The instructor, Ms. Schnee, admits that like many she was attracted to Aikido for self-defense reasons.

"I soon learned that self-defense was a very limited way to look at the art. I now believe this is the best self-defense mechanism you could have, but I can't think of it in terms of self-defense. It's hard to pin Aikido down, it doesn't want to stay in one place. But I will say, after a few years in Aikido, a person can be invincable. But I wouldn't highlight that.

TEN MEN and one woman attend the class. Although drawfed by students such as 250-pound Joe Balazich, Ms. Schnee is acknowledged as the best in the class. She says that shouldn't surprise anyone, because women have an advantage.

"Aikido training gets away from the usual strengths: lifting barbells, punching through walls, because the less physical strength you use, the smoother the movement is.

"That translates to calm, smooth movement with a flexible body," she adds. "We use techniques against joints which helps you cooperate with your partner because you have no choice. As a result of a technique applied to the wrist, elbow or shoulder, it takes smooth movement to follow."

Insurance man Spike Neesley, 36, of Southfield, says he joined the class to limber up.

"I do a lot of sailing with a catamaran and that's a very active sport," Neesley says. "The coordination I learn here helps. I can only go so far with physical strength, weighting 135 pounds. But I can apply this training in other areas besides fighting."

DISAPPOINTED? You thought this story would explain the secrets of the samurai? Sorry, you can't get that in a newspaper story.

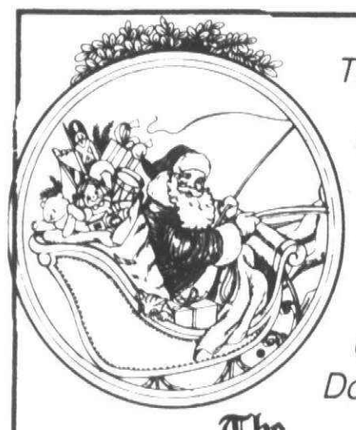

However, for reading this far we'll let you in on a few authentic samurai shouts.

First, there's "Rei," which means bow.

"Hajime" means begin.

"Arigato" means thank you. And if you want to get fancy, "Arigato gozaimashita" means thank you very much.

Don't take those words lightly. After all, it's a two-edged sword of samurai.

346 Northern Property

OWNER'S SACRIFICE
When I built this spacious 4 bedroom colonial for my family, I gave them everything they asked for: A formal dining room, a family room adjoining the kitchen, a rec room that walks out onto a patio, a separate laundry room, a 3 car garage, a snowmobile shed, a country porch and a paved circular driveway. I situated it on an acre of ground so that it would be surrounded by maple trees. I selected a location a few miles west of the quaint town of Gaylord in a private recreational community in which I have privileges on two magnificent spring-fed lakes, the use of a clubhouse with an indoor pool, a golf course, a lighted air strip, a riding stable and much more.

Now business commitments elsewhere force us to sell and we're anxious to deal. So phone my wife or me at 616-585-6400 (this is our home number) for full details.

GE no-frost refrigerator freezer with custom dispenser, 23.6 cu. foot, harvest gold, $550. 682-3899

GENUINE Crosley Shelvador refrigerator. This is the Cadillac of iceboxes. Maybe you can't afford a Cadillac, but for a crummy 50 bucks you can have this vintage classic with its fine, bone white finish adorning you very own home. They just don't make refrigerators like this no more, folks. Why, it'll freeze milk if you set the "cold" knob at a measly 4. Duplicate the nearly absolute-zero conditions of the surface of Pluto in your own home with a simple flick of the wrist to a knob setting of 10. This family friend with its built-in freezer is being sacrificed to finance a hernia operation.

It's a great year for wise investments

...and the wisest investment anyone can make is an Observer & Eccentric want ad.

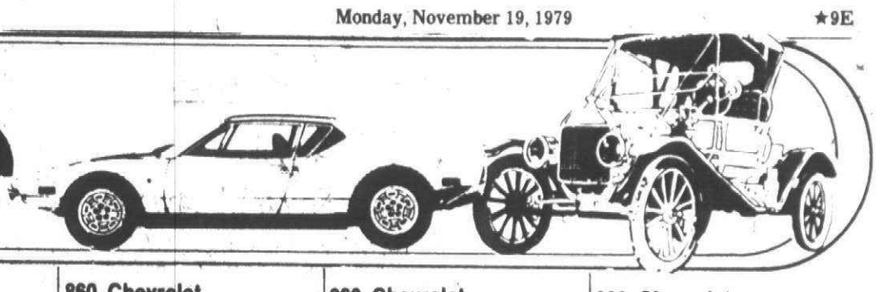

I invested and sold all those nostalgia items I've been saving up in my attic.

Now, I have enough to buy that Corvette I've always wanted.

SALESMEN OF THE MONTH

DICK MELKONIAN

Meet DICK MELKONIAN (left) new car salesman and JACK RYAN (right) used car salesman at BOB SAKS OLDSMOBILE. DICK and JACK were Salesmen-of-the-month for October in their respective sales units. DICK MELKONIAN lives in Drayton Plains with his wife Shirlee, and son Mark, 10 and daughter Lisa, 13 years of age. DICK has distinguished himself as a sales leader in the past year at BOB SAKS OLDSMOBILE. JACK RYAN is a newcomer to the SAKS team, but has over 30 years experience selling and serving. JACK resides in Dearborn Heights with his wife and 3 children. BOB SAKS would like you to stop in and meet these two outstanding members of his professional sales team, so for the rest of November, he's offering a special discount to anyone asking for DICK or JACK.

Ear and mind blower

This is the look of today's auto sound systems — at least at the Ford Motor Company. This stereo AM/FM, 8-track tape player has more than 900 components, including a quartz crystal module which provides tuning without moving parts. Oh yes, the radio has a memory. Just program it, and your favorite stations are at your fingertips — instantly. The radio is optional on the LTD and Marquis, and standard equipment on Lincolns.
