Winning streak snapped

By CAROLINE PRICE

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has told a Roseville company to move chemical-filled drums stored on the company's Canton Township property.

The drums were brought to the DNR's attention by Canton resident George Miller. The property, at 44052 Yost, is owned by the Mill & Abrasive Supply Company on Grosbeck in Roseville, but had apparently been leased to other companies.

Although DNR water quality specialist Sue Norton said the drums' placement is in violation of the Michigan Water Resources Act (Public Act 245), she did not know what kind of chemicals the drums contained.

She said when she recently inspected the property, she saw that one of the drums was lableled as containing formaldehyde.

William Keener, an owner of the Mill & Abrasive Supply Co., said the drums contained a fire retardant coolant used by a tool and dye company which once occupied the property.

"THERE'S NO formaldehyde out there," Keener said. "Formaldehyde is worth 70 cents a pound, so no one's going to leave it. I don't know what everyone's getting so worked up about."

Keener said the drums had been emptied of their original contents and filled with other material by the tool and dye firm.

Ms. Norton said DNR officials had not taken samples of the drums' contents.

Bruce Phillips of the Canton Township ordinance department was told about the drums by the Observer. He went to the site to inspect it.

He said he had not known of the drums prior to Tuesday.

According to Phillips, a representative from Abrasive Supply was already at the property when he arrived.

Phillips said the representative showed him the property, where he counted about 50 drums. Some of the drums contained material, some did not.

Phillips said there appeared to be a variety of chemicals in the barrels he inspected. He said he took samples of four apparently different chemicals and will make the samples available to the DNR.

"I advised the representative to get hold of the DNR and the Wayne County Health Department and find out where there is a landfill approved for chemical disposal, and take the drums there," Phillips said.

THE INSPECTOR said the Abrasive

Township drops PCB soil issue

The controversy over drums of PCB-laced soil dumped at the Woodland Meadows landfill has been given an official cooling-off by the Canton Township Board of Trustees.

However, some trustees said the recent discovery of potentially hazardous waste at the landfill was a prime example of why businesses should be licensed.

The board voted Tuesday to consider the landfill case as "inactive" unless further test results from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) warrant a review.

In October, a Canton resident had discovered that 100 cubic yards of PCB-laced soil in metal drums had been dumped in 1975 at the landfill on Hannan Road.

The soil had been contaminated on Detroit Edison Co. property after an electric transformer leaked.

When the drums were discovered at the landfill, tests were run on water from wells at Woodland Meadows to determine whether the PCB had leaked through the high clay content into the water table.

TESTS CONDUCTED by the Environmental Reasearch Group in Ann Arbor and the DNR have so far revealed that no ground water at the landfill has been contaminated.

Results from further DNR tests have not yet been compiled.

The testing, and other work done by Canton in connection with the landfill, has cost the township more than $2,000, which will be paid out of planning department funds.

TRUSTEE CAROL Bodenmiller proposed the resolution to place the Woodland Meadows case in the inactive file,

She said her intent in calling the case inactive would be to require supervisor Noel Culbert to get approval from at least four board trustees before taking anything other than an emergency action connected with the landfill.

But Mrs. Bodenmiller said she still considered the dumping of hazardous wastes a serious threat to Canton because the township's high clay base makes it a prime spot for landfills.

She added that Canton might control landfills better by licensing them.

Canton Resident George Miller, who discovered the PCB-laced drums of soil, attended the regular Tuesday meeting and told the board there are ways to prevent future landfills.

Although the type of waste dumped at landfills falls under federal and state jurisdiction, Miller said local governments had the sole control over how deep and how high a landfill can be.

Planners ratify land use plan

A revised version of Canton Township's 1976 master plan and planning map was approved this week by the planning commission.

The master plan addendum, under study for many months, needed only the planning commission's approval to become official.

Revision of the township's zoning ordinance text, which would actually implement the provisions of the master plan, have yet to be approved by the commission.

Zoning ordinance revisions must also win the approval of the Canton Township Board of Trustees.

The master plan addendum, which was passed by a 6-1 vote (Commissioner Robert Shefferly dissented), features several major changes.

MOST OF THESE center around reductions in residential density and increases in both industrial and commercial land uses. The goal of saving much of the western portion of the township for agricultural purposes continues to be a major goal.

The reduction in residential density affects property east of I-275 south of Ford Road; adjacent to the lower Rouge River; and along Michigan Avenue west of Canton Center Road.

The method of reducing density involves increasing lot sizes in the designated areas from a 60-foot minimum to a 70-foot minimum with a requirement that side lots be a minimum of 15 feet.

OTHER CHANGES have an effect on the use of land along Ford Road.

Land between Morton Taylor and Lilley along Ford Road has been designated for residential use in an effort to prevent an unbroken strip of commercial ventures along Canton's major throughfare.

The plan also projects extensive commercial use of land along Canton Center Road north of Ford Road, primarily to meet the needs of the residents in the four major subdivisions in that area.

Nearly 200 acres more have been designated for industrial use in the master plan revision. About 160 acres were added in the area of Warren Road both east and west of I-275, with the remaining expansion proposed along Ford Road east of Lotz.

The plan reflects the desire of the commission to preserve more than 500 acres of farmland west of Canton Center Road. According to Township Planner James Kosteva, the commission will discuss the goal of preserving farmland at a special meeting called for 8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 3, at township hall.

The commission will further express its commitment to farmland preservation at a special joint study session with the township board, economic development corporation and industrial and commercial committee called for 7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 6, at township hall.

Youth, 16, charged in heists

Canton police confirmed they have recovered $4,000 worth of stolen furniture from a 16-year-old Dearborn Heights youth.

Police said the boy led them to the storage facility he was renting in Taylor earlier this week after being detained on two counts of breaking and entering.

According to police, the storage area contained $4,000 worth of furniture from Wonderland Mobile Home Sales at Michigan and Belleville roads in Canton as well as other businesses in Taylor and Ypsilanti.

Canton police have charged the youth with Sunday's breaking and entering of a model mobile home at Wonderland. He is also charged with a similar robbery of a Wonderland mobile home earlier this month.

Sgt. Dennis Joker of the Canton Police Department said the boy's preliminary hearing has not been scheduled

In radium mishap

State cites Sinai Hospital

Sinai Hospital has been cited for 21 violations of Michigan Public Health Department rules following the recovery of a hospital radium tube at a Canton landfill last month.

The radium source, used for the treatment of Sinai cancer patients, was found at Woodland Meadows Landfill last Oct. 16 following an intensive week-long search for the tiny, radioactive capsule.

Donald Van Farowe, chief of the health department's radiology division, said a Sinai cleaning person dumped the capsule in a trash basket after finding the tube on the floor. Trash from the Detroit hospital is taken to Woodland Meadows.

Van Farowe said no one was injured in the incident, but added, "the potential for overexposure was there."

The 20-millicurie radium source, used to treat cancer cells, could cause severe damage to healthy tissue if handled too closely, Van Farowe said.

HE SAID the charges against Sinai involve the hospital's failure to register its radium sources with the state and to seek health department approval of radiation handling procedures.

He said Sinai's administration has been asked to remedy those deficiencies.

Van Farowe would not rule out the possibility, however, that the health department would take punitive action against Sinai Hospital, such as the levying of fines.

Patricia Dillick, assistant director of public relations for Sinai, said the hospital will send a follow-up report on the accident to the health department next month.

"But we don't care to comment on specifics right now," she said about the health department citations.

According to Van Farowe, the radium tube was found by a cleaning person in a room across the hall from the site where radium sources are normally kept.

He said no one knows how the tube was misplaced. Van Farowe theorizes the tube may have fallen on the floor and become lodged in the cleat-like bottom of a hospital employee's shoes

He attibuted last month's accident to the absence of state-authorized procedures for the handling of radium sources.

"We don't want this to happen again," he said.

Wanted: Good Samaritans

The world is full of unsung heros and heroines.

They go about their business of enriching the lives of those around them with little fanfare. They're always ready to help out when help is needed.

They can be compared with the original Good Samaritan of biblical times, who helped a traveler in distress while others simply walked by and pretended not to see.

Although the deeds of the modern-day Good Samaritan are often most visible during the Christmas season, he or she is usually active throughout the year.

The newspaper business can become a cynical one. So much of the news we print is far from cheerful. But we believe there are still Good Samaritans in the world.

All we have to do is find them.

Do you know a Good Samaritan? If there's someone you believe deserves recognition and appreciation, tell us about him or her on the entry blank provided here.

We plan to publish stories about some of the people you nominate.

So, if you know a Good Samaritan, please submit your nomination to the Observer, 461 S. Main, Plymouth, 48170, by Dec. 17.

We're waiting to hear from you.

Pupils pass state tests acceptably

The results of a statewide test given to Plymouth-Canton fourth, seventh and tenth graders are in.

And while there's nothing to cheer about, as yet, there's also nothing to be worried about, say school administrators.

The Michigan Education Assessment Test was given to these students in the fall and is an annual barometer for students' understanding of math and English.

Diaper firm collects toys

Santa Claus and the Marine Corps are getting a helping hand again this year in collecting toys for needy children.

Dy-Dee Diaper Service, from now through Christmas Eve, will help the Marines and the Big Brothers of America collect "Toys for Tots" in the metropolitan Detroit area.

"Toys for Tots" is a community Christmas project that was started in 1947 by a group of Marine reservists. All toys must be new, or first quality, and the toys will remain in the community where donated.

The Dy-Dee Service delivery men are volunteering to collect unwrapped toys from their customers. They will also collect toys brought to a customer's home by friends and relatives.

Last year the firm collected more than 1,000 toys.

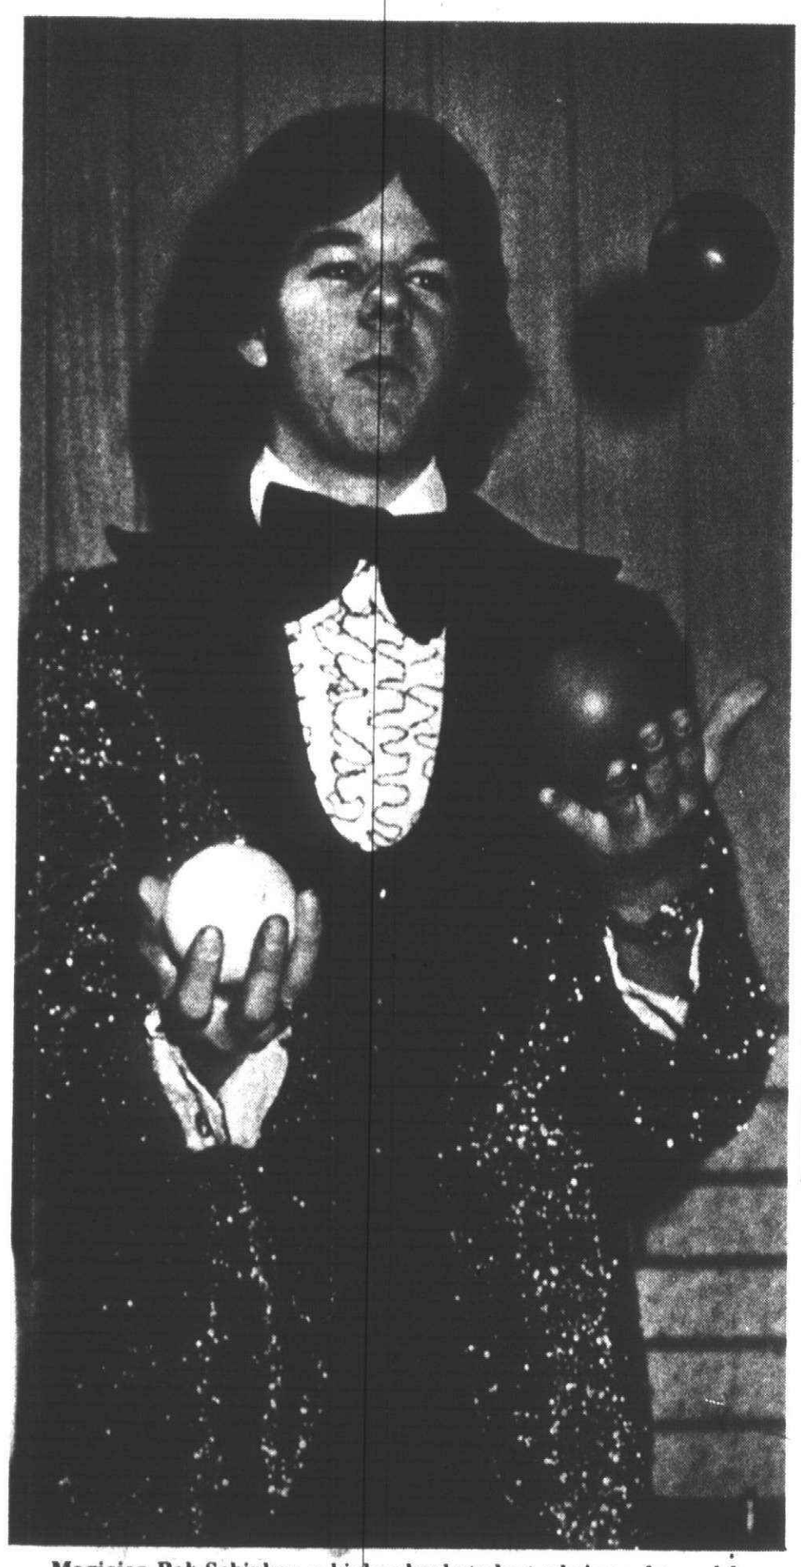
The guy with his hand in this little torture device is Matt Michelis, 9, who volunteered for the program after the infernal machine chopped up a potato it wasn't supposed to. Michelis left the show with his hand still attached. Fitting him into the machine is magician Bob Schinker. (Staff Photos by Bill Bresler)



Magician Bob Schinker, a high school student who's performed free shows at the Garden City Library before, opened the stunts Thursday with juggling.

Abracadabra!

To err is human, even for magicians

Into every life a little rain must fall — and in today's world even a magician gets caught in a shower now and then.

It happened recently to 17-year-old Bob Schinker, a senior at Plymouth Salem High School.

Before a crowd of squealing children at the Garden City Library, Schinker's free magic show fell flat just a time or two. W.C. Fields would probably have boiled the little devils. Schinker's best shot was an invitation to one particularly persistent youth to "take a seat, son."

Schinker has been the bane of rabbits hiding in hats since he was just a tad older than the kids in his audience. He got a magic set for Christmas when he was in the third grade.

Last summer he dealt the library crowd a full house from his magic deck, producing a show that featured a female assistant Schinker was not satisfied to merely cut in two. No sir, not when he could slice her up like a butcher's wall diagram. Which he did.

This time he brought the second team a less elaborate display of legerdemain. But the kids oohed and aahed like pros when Schinker dropped first a red ball, then a yellow one and finally a blue ball into a tube. Moments later, their orders were reversed and the yellow ball was first.

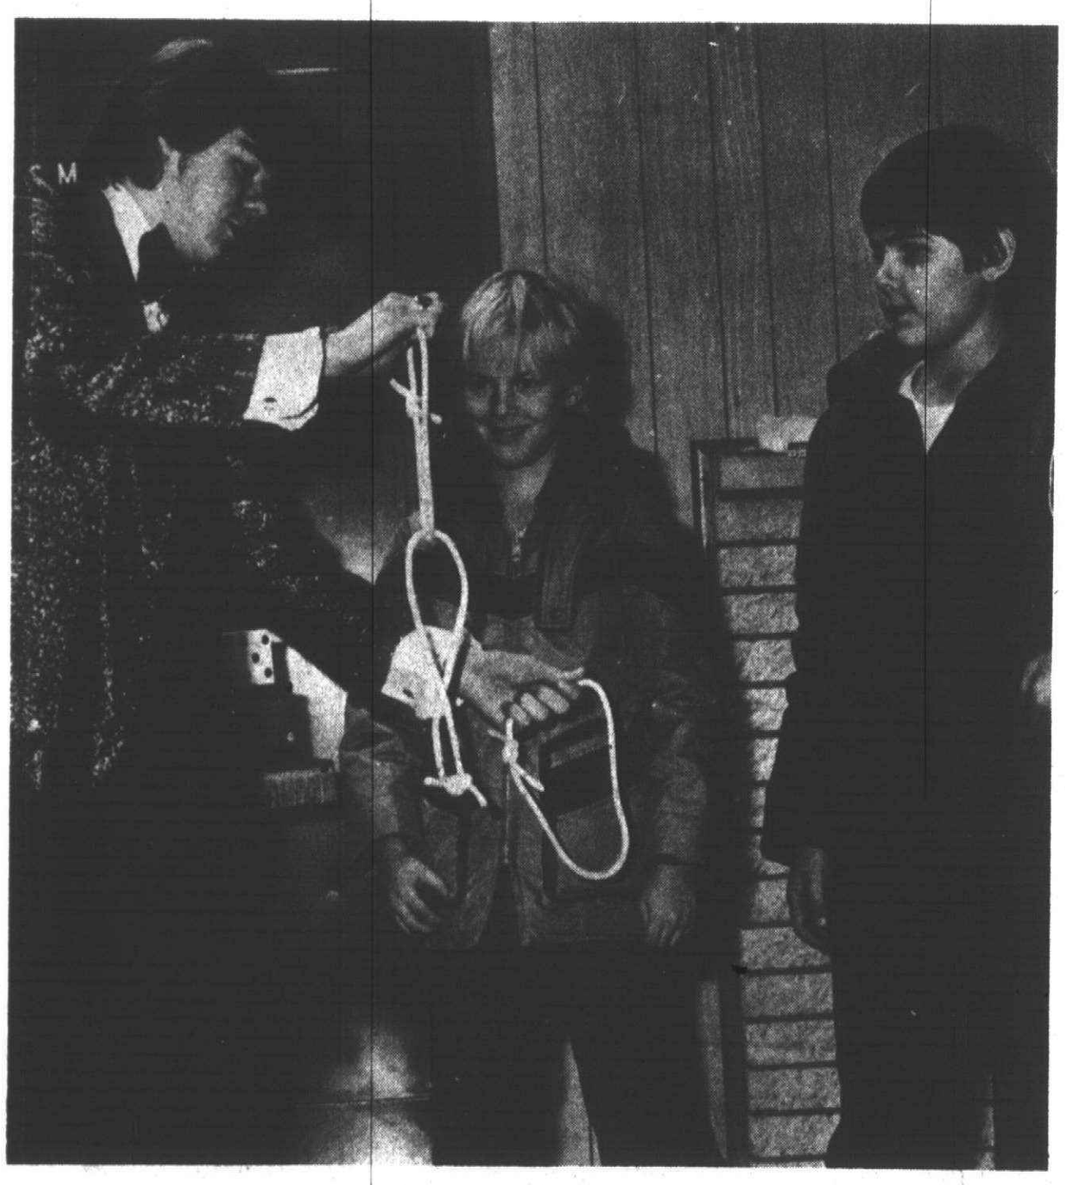
THEN THREE COLORED scarves were stuffed separately into a different tube and came out tied together. Well, almost — two of them were securely linked while the third fluttered embarassingly to the floor.

"Well," said Schinker, thinking quickly. "Well, two out of three ain't bad."

Offered to pick a card, any card, and show it to the assembled children, three different kids took turns before the king of diamonds was finally passed before the crowd without someone shrieking out its identity.

Then Schinker flipped through the deck to identify it. He picked the wrong card.

Other tricks went over more successfully, however, and there were no complaints when the kids trooped out. Schinker armed them with the secrets to a couple of magic tricks that have probably been astounding and confounding their friends ever since.



One of the tricks that worked for magician Bob Schinker was turning a few loose pieces of rope into a chain, which is what he is in the process of doing as Tommy Stlay and Mike Jaszca look on.

ave been tested state-wide. Plymouth-anton tenth graders, however, took he test in a pilot program last year for he first time).

The test results show there's been a ignificant increase in students' overall understanding of reading questions over the past four years.

And while math scores have fluctuated in that time, the decrease this year is about two percent over four years.

According to the state testers, the fluctuation is not significant unless the overall decrease is more than five percent or if the overall increase is more than five percent

Beginning with the fourth graders, 72.3 percent of these students achieved better than 75 per cent of the reading objectives. That's a less than one percent drop from last year but an overall increase of five percent in four years.

MATH SCORES for fourth graders have been steadier, showing an overall drop by two percent over four years.

This year, 87 percent understood 75 percent or better of the math objectives. That's a one percent drop from last year.

Seventh graders' results showed a more substantial increase in successfully answered reading questions over four years. Since 1976, local seventh graders upped their mastery of 75 percent or better of the information by 11 percent.

Their success did not carry over into the math arena, however. In four years, there's been a drop of four percent in their understanding of 75 percent or better of the information. Since last year, there's been a one percent decline.

This is the first year tenth graders have been tested state-wide. Locally, however, test results could be compared to last year's results.

Additionally, the number of tenth graders taking the test this year doubled, jumping from 504 to 1,123 students.

Tenth grade results in reading dropped by one percent. Math scores also dropped but by six percent since last year.

Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superindendent for instruction, at Mondays school board meeting said Plymouth-Canton students continue to exceed the state's minimum level of understanding reading and math.

"Among our 20 schools none are listed in the high-need category," he said.

THIS CATEGORY shows that less than 50 percent of the students attained 75 percent or more of the test objectives.

Board member Flossie Tondon, however, raised the age-old argument questioning the validity of this test.

"I don't put too much stake in these tests because it's the bare minimum."

She added there were specific areas that needed attention, such as teaching fourth graders about celsius temperature conversions. Only 35 percent of these students demonstrated acceptable understanding in this area.

Pointing to the seventh grade results, she said she was disappointed to see only 77 percent of the students could successfully tell time.

Board member Tom Yack cautioned her, saying the results could instead show a problem in the way the "test was testing."

DNR orders removal of chemicals

Supply representative had promised to begin moving the drums Wednesday.

Ms. Norton said the DNR's main concern with the drums is that there could be ground water contamination if some of the drums leaked.

Art Winkler, Canton fire department inspector, said he was only recently informed of the barrels by the DNR. He said he had not yet inspected the property.

Winkler said he had gone out to the property earlier in the year after the most recent tenant, Bertrand Inc., moved out. The Bertrand firm produced insulation.

At that time, the inspector said he had asked people working on cleaning up the property to have its owner contact the fire department before another tenant moved in. He said no one has contacted him.

According to Keener, the drums of chemicals were not left on the property by Bertrand, but rather by an earlier tenant, Trilex Co. He said the coolant was for the machines used by the tool and dye company.

IN A CERTIFIED letter sent by the DNR to Mill & Abrasive Supply, the company was given until Dec. 28 to remove the drums.

Miller, who originally complained to the DNR, said he wanted to see the drums removed completely from the lot, not just moved to a storage building on the property.

Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert, who received a copy of the DNR directive, had no comment on the drums of chemicals.

According to Canton Township tax records, the Mill & Abrasive Supply Co. has been delinquent in payment of real property taxes for at least the last three years. Current outstanding real property taxes amount to $14,123.40, not including the township's 1 percent collection fee and late charges.

Board drops PCB issue

According to Miller, the township could pass an ordinance requiring landfills to be no more than two feet above or below grade.

That action, said Miller, would give landfill developers only four feet in which to dump waste, with two feet of that allowed measurment comprised of the required soil cover.

ALTHOUGH THE board indicated neither support nor disapproval of Miller's suggestion, trustees said they feared Canton might soon be the victim of illegal hazardous waste dumping by unscrupulous companies.

Trustee Stephen Larson, who voted against placing Woodland Meadows in the inactive file, said the rising costs of disposing of hazardous waste could result in businesses sneaking into Canton in the middle of the night and dumping substances illegally.

Maria Falkiewicz, the township's deputy treasurer, said she believed licensing businesses would give Canton more control over such actions as illegal dumping.

Mrs. Falkiewicz was serving on the board in the absence of Treasurer James Donahue. She had been one of the original supporters of a plan to license businesses.

Larson opposed the resolution to make the landfill case inactive because he said he did not believe such agencies as the DNR could be counted on to continue follow-up testing.

Police arrest youth for furniture thefts

yet in Wayne County Juvenile Court.

Joker said the boy, who has no previous criminal record, will probably face no stiffer penalty than probation on the breaking and entering charge.

THE YOUTH was stopped by patrol officer John MacDiarmid on Sunday evening while driving a car packed with furniture on Michigan Avenue near Wonderland Mobile Home Sales.

According to Joker, the youth told MacDiarmid that he was moving.

The patrol officer became suspicious of the boy's story later in the evening, however, after he learned of the robbery at Wonderland earlier this month.

Joker said MacDiarmid drove to Wonderland where he discovered that a door to one of the model mobile homes had been forced open.

The patrol officer contacted Dearborn Heights police, who questioned the boy about the Canton Township robbery.

Joker said all the furniture stolen from the Canton, Taylor and Ypsilanti businesses was recovered at the storage area rented by the youth.

"Recovery was 100 percent, plus some." Joker said.

According to Joker, the stolen goods included couches, chairs, tables, lamps, rockers and bar stools.

Schools continuing career training emphasis

Career education continues to receive emphasis in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Monday, the school board appointed 21 persons to a career education committee for two years. The committee will promote, monitor and help develop a program in career education.

The standing committee appointed by the board is an outgrowth of the Plymouth-Canton Education Committee composed of represen tatives of the school district, Canton and Plymouth Chambers of Commerce.

That group, in a position statement issued last July, made several recommendations including the establishment of a career education committee.

THAT COMMITTEE, as envisioned by the chamber-school group, will be responsible to:

• Plan and develop in-service training for teachers and administrators to include career education into the regular school curriculum.

• Recommend ways to increase the involvement of business persons and industrialists into a more active participation in the career learning process.

• Serve as a "sounding board" for the career education expectations of the district.

• Provide task-oriented field trips for students and teachers at the high school level.

• Provide resources for the classrooms at all levels.

The position paper on career education, developed by the Plymouth-Canton Education Committee, stressed, "Career education should begin as early as possible in a child's educatio nal experience and it should be treated no differently than the teaching of reading or how children should relate to other children. It should be a basic part of the education program."

MEMBERS APPOINTED by the school board to the career education committee include four business/industrial members, three central administrators, five middle management persons and nine staff members.

The Plymouth business representatives are James Boyce of Western Electric and Bev Hoisington of Finlan Insurance Agency. Canton business representatives are Mary Perna of Security Bank & Trust and Frank McMurray of Frank A. McMurray Insurance.

Central administrators are Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction; Florence Beier, community relations director; and Harold Gaertner, director of vocational education.

Principals and area coordinators on the committee are Ronald South, Robert Smith, Gerald Ostoin, Dr. Gary Faber and Pat O'Donnell.

Among the staff members are Frank Gable of Eriksson Elementary, Sarah Yentz of Pioneer Middle, Pat Martin of Central Middle and Larry Greenway of pupil personnel services.

Staff members stationed at the Centennial Educational Park named to the committee include Mary Baxter, Bill Gretziner, Don Chumbley, Diane Pomish and Joyce Willis.

BEFORE APPROVING the appointments, some trustees expressed concern about how representative the committee was.

Carol Davis commented that the make-up was lopsided with 17 school district persons and only four from business/industry.

Elaine Kirchgatter said she thought the business community needed broader representation than just insurance and banking and asked why the retailers weren't represented.

Dick Arlen also questioned whether the committee was too large and whether the the size would reduce efficiency in decision-making.

Township building experiences slowdown

By TERI BANAS

It only takes a short drive through the neighborhood streets of the Plymouth area to see the nation's economic ills personified.

Double digit inflation, interest rates soaring into the mid-teens and scarce mortgage packages are manifesting themselves into those empty lots laying dormant in local subdivisions.

So how are the builders taking this abrupt slowdown in new home purchases?

First — They're realistic. One builder says his new home construction will be down by at least 20 percent this year. Most add they're prepared to weather the storm — but only temporarily.

Second — They maintain a cross-your-fingers and hold-your-breath optimism that interest rates will fall within the next seven months, thereby lifting the constraints on new home buying.

According to Jim Briggs, director of the Plymouth Township Building Department, the outlook for present building in the area is "dismal, very dismal.

"We issued four new housing permits last month and none this month. That's the bulk of our work here. No one is even shopping at the models."

COMPARED TO last year's issued home permits, there were 13 in October 1978 and 47 in November 1928.

This past summer and fall, eight were issued in July, seven in August and 12 in September.

"October and November are usually our big months" Briggs says. "I've never seen such an abrupt change."

Among those builders interviewed, most say the demand for a new home is still there. The catch is that high interest rates and an inability to sell one's existing home at the present rates are reflected in new home purchases.

"It's going to be slow for quite a while," says Art Gerish of Gerish Custom Building.

Gerish's company has projects in such Plymouth Township subdivisions as Ridgewood Hills and condominiums in Beacon Hollow. Single-family homes are also under construction in Northville.

All total, he has 70 unsold sites in Plymouth Township today.

"It's not unusual but it's not something I'd like to look forward to for a long period of time.

"I've got some models up and as I sell I will build, But I'm not going to be building willy-nilly without those sales."

Also waiting it out is Allen Menuck, owner of the Curtis Building Co., who also has an interest in Plymouth Township's Ridgewood Hills. Involved in local construction for some 25 years, Curtis Co. built homes in the Trailwood Subdivision and all of New England Village.

MENUCK AND two other builders, share 185 lots in Ridgewood Hills. So far, 45 of them have been sold in the past year.

"Things were very good until July. When I bought in a year ago, things were not this slow. I never anticipated this.

"As far as purchasing in a new subdivision, we're going to sit in a holding pattern."

He adds he decided against buying other sites, particularly in a Livonia subdivision, because "this is the general outlook throughout the whole Detroit area."

The "few lookers" he has had tell him their biggest drawback is the "saleability of their own homes."

Gail Bennett, a sales associate for the Sullivan-Smith Building Co., is optimistic that sales will pick up by the spring, based on reports from the banking community that interest rates should decline.

Ms. Bennett says her company has 17 available lots in the Beacon Hills Subdivision and would begin building "if someone was interested."

Residents speak out at SEMTA hearing

By TOM LONERGAN

Suburbs are generally considered "anti-subway" in the political battle on regional rapid transportation.

But nearly half of the western Wayne County residents who spoke at a Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority public hearing in Livonia this week favored a light rail line in the Woodward corridor as part of SEMTA's 1990 transportation plan.

Part of the light rail line of SEMTA's "preferred plan" is subway between downtown and the New Center area in Detroit.

The hearing, held in Livonia City Hall Monday night, drew only 16 who spoke before a panel that included SEMTA staff and three of the transportation authority's 15-member Board of Directors. Seven speakers endorsed a light rail line, while three favored an all-bus system.

A MAJOR bus supporter was the Automobile Club of Michigan. Spokesman Arthur Gibson said the subway and downtown people mover have not been proven "cost effective."

Virtually all who spoke questioned the cost for expanded mass transportation. The plan initially approved by the SEMTA board in April, which includes a light rail line up Woodward to Eight Mile Road and a people mover in downtown Detroit, is expected to cost $1.4 billion just to put in place.

The federal government is expected to cover 80 percent of the capital cost, with the state picking up the remaining 20 percent.

"That also comes out of my pocket," said Lowell Peterson, an insurance salesman from Livonia, referring to the state and federal money.

Revenue to cover an expected operating deficit, which could reach $65 million by 1990, "is going to come out of our pocketbooks again," Peterson said.

He told SEMTA officials:

"You're going to say, 'Hey, we've got this system now. We can't let it go down the drain, so give me more money to run it.' "

An operating tax for SEMTA probably will have to be approved by voters around 1982. Under consideraion are the personal income tax, combined sales and use tax and a property transfer tax.

SEMTA General Manager Larry E. Salci said the system would "break even through 1982." An operating tax could cost an area resident $15 a year in 1990, he added.

A WESTLAND man who travels to work downtown using SEMTA's park and ride system favored the all bus alternative. Rail is not feasible because of the "area's overall low population density," said Joseph Kogelmann of Westland who works for the U.S. Census Bureau.

Kogelmann also opposed the downtown people mover, an experimental $110 million monorail system designed to move downtown shoppers and convention vistors as "visually polluting" and "unnecessarily hazardous to traffic."

George Schlaepfer of Livonia, who said he has studied subways since 1915, encouraged SEMTA to make the system "useable at all times.

"When the system is needed most is when the weather is worst."

A cautious light rail endorsement came from David Tavidian of Livonia.

"If it's a giant WPA project, I think I could accept that, because it's worthy," Tavidian said. WPA was a massive public works program started by the Roosevelt administration in the 1930s to reduce unemployment.

But Tavidian questioned the Woodward light rail's "tremendous cost . . . to provide service for a brief period of time in a total day."

ROBERTA YOUNG of the League of Women Voters of Livonia said her organization supports public transit that is "convenient, esthetically pleasing and rapid."

Fares should be reasonable to "encourage use," and the system should be "supported by tax revenue."

Public becoming more agreeable to mass transit — SEMTA manager

For SEMTA General Manager Larry E. Salci, the mild tone of Monday's public hearing in Livonia on a regional rapid transportation plan was a welcome change.

"Two and a half years ago, we almost got stoned out of the suburbs," said Salci, who lives in Troy. "People thought public transportation was a dinosaur."

He says the change in attitude is primarily due to rising gasoline prices.

WHILE MOST attention has been focused on the rapid rail line up Woodward Avenue, the transportation plan includes more large and small buses for suburban communities and increased service.

SEMTA officials may meet stiffer opposition to the proposed subway in Detroit at hearings tonight and early next week in Macomb and Oakland counties. The electrified light rail line represents $700 million of the $1.4 billion in capital costs for the system.

The two Oakland meetings will be Monday, Dec. 3, in the Ferndale Community Center, 400 E. Nine Mile Road and Tuesday, Dec. 4, in the Oakland County Board of Commissioners Auditorium, 1200 N. Telegraph in Pontiac. Both start at 7:30 p.m.

THE SUBWAY and proposed merger of the City of Detroit Department of Transportation (D-DOT) with SEMTA are the two major issues to be resolved before the SEMTA Board of Directors reach a decision on a regional mass transportation plan.

Two board members said this week they doubt the decision will be made Dec. 18, as scheduled.

R.J. Alexander, who represents Oakland County, said "we must have a total commitment for merger," before the SEMTA board will make a final decision on the mass transportation plan.

"We can't have a regional system and a two-headed monster," Alexander said.

Merger negotiations are underway between Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, Livonia Mayor (and SEMTA Board Chairman) Edward McNamara and Gov. William Milliken. A legislative committee in Lansing is also studying the issue.

THE MERGER issue could upset a compromise on the Woodward subway reached last April between Detroit and suburban representatives. In SEMTA's "preferred plan," the light rail is only underground from downtown to the New Center area.

Both Alexander and Dewitt Henry, who represents outer Wayne County on the SEMTA board, voted for the subway earlier this year.

Henry said he would vote for an all bus system if no agreement on merger is reached.

"If there's no merger, I'm certainly not going to vote for a large expenditure of money (for light rail)," Henry said. The Grosse Ile resident is appointed to the SEMTA board by out-county commissioners on the Wayne County board.

Henry said there "are too many unknowns" for the SEMTA board to make its decision Dec. 18. He predicted the final decision would be reached in January or February.

REGARDING this week's hearing in Livonia, Henry said it was "rather mild as public hearings go."

Two true tales are stranger than fiction

Here are two tales I would like to share with you:

ROSA WAS preparing to leave Italy and come to America. She was only 18, and a wonderful life full of promises lay before her. Her fiance had been in the new land for two years and had finally sent her the money to join him.

She would be staying with an aunt, her mother's sister, until after the wedding. Then they would be moving into an apartment of their own. No one could be happier than Rosa.

Then, just eight days before she was to sail, a black bird — a kind no one in her family had ever seen before — flew into the house and circled around Rosa, diving again and again at the girl's head, as she ran screaming from room to room.

Her father eventually captured the bird and released it out doors so that it could fly away. But instead, it flew to the top of the house, where it sat for three days.

Then another strange thing happened. Some say it was a dream, but Rosa says it was a vision. As she lay in her bed, a beautiful lady dressed in white and surrounded by a blinding white light stood at the foot of her bed and wept bitter tears.

Rosa's mother took the girl to see an old woman who lived outside of their village and was thought by many to be a witch.

They told the old woman about the bird and the vision and asked her advice. She told Rosa to change her reservations and book passage on a different vessel.

Rosa hesitated to do this because she was so anxious to see her beloved. But she did follow the old woman's advice and has been forever grateful. For the ship on which she had originally booked passage was the ill-fated "Andrea Doria."

ANXIOUS TO get home to his family for Christmas, Brian was travelling at a rather high speed. But as he approached a hill over which he frequently traveled, he suddenly felt a compelling need to test his brakes. He had never done such a thing before.

He tried his brakes, and they failed. Luckily, he had time to coast to a stop before reaching the crest of the hill, or he would undoubtedly been killed.

His brakes were repaired, and he arrived home a bit late, but in plenty of time for the festivities. His mother greeted him at the door and almost smothered him with hugs and kisses. Then she explained.

She had been resting earlier that day when she suddenly saw his car coming down a steep hill out of control. It crashed into a tree, and he lay dead in the wreckage.

Desparately frightened, she prayed for his safety, and her prayers had miracuously been answered.

Cantonites listed in Who's who

Thirteen young people from Canton have been included in the 30th annual edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1978-79.

The journal, published by Educational Communications, Inc. of Northbrook, Ill., is the largest high school recognition program in the country.

Students are selected by high school principals and guidance counselors, national youth groups, churches or by the publishing company based upon performance in scholarship award contests or in extra-curricular activities.

Canton students selected include Enrique Alonzo, Jacqueline Dato, James Habermas, Kira Karinen, Joan Sidick, Joan Trammell, Carmen Carpenter, Michele DeRaud, Roger D. Holt, Kathleen Koelzer, Dwight Stimson, Serge Fournier and Crystal Severtson.

Traditionally about 99 percent of students listed in Who's Who have a grade point average of "B" or better and 97 percent are college-bound.

This year's volume features 335,000 students or five percent of the nation's 6.5 million high school juniors and seniors, and represent 20,000 of the 22,000 public, private and parochial high schools in the country.

Who's Who students also compete for more than $50,000 in scholarship awards and participate in the publication's annual opinion poll of teen attitudes.

Word gets around when you make a habit of making folks happy and saving them money too. The reputation of Sagebrush is a lot bigger than I thought.

Even Ebenezer Scrooge got word that Sagebrush is a great place to save money on Christmas presents of quality Levi's goods.

Ol' Scrooge bought quite a load of Movin' On Jeans and Wildfire Sport Shirts. He knew he was getting his money's worth when he saw my Sagebrush prices on such well-made durable Levi's clothes. Not to mention the Sagebrush smiling service including free parking, free gift wrapping, and free alterations.

One of the best things about Sagebrush: When you give your friends some Levi's Wildfire Sport Shirts and Movin' On Jeans, they'll think you spent a lot more on them than you really did. At least that's how Scrooge sees it.

Oakland prosecutor begins drive to reinstate state's death penalty

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson is aiming to give Michigan voters the option of reinstating the death penalty in the state.

"After 10 years in the Oakland County prosecutor's office, I have come to the conclusion that the criminal justice system in this state fails to protect the public. The system does not deter, it does not punish, it does not rehabilitate, and worst of all, it utterly fails to protect."

Patterson began an 11-city tour across the state this week to announce a petition drive to make capital punishment for convicted murderers part of the state constitution.

If 350,000 petition signatures are gathered next year, the death penalty question would be on the November 1982 ballot statewide. Patterson said there isn't enough time to put the question on the November 1980 ballot.

TWO PREVIOUS petition drives for capital punishment have failed, the most recent a 1978 effort led by then-State Rep. Kirby Holmes, R-Utica.

But Patterson is confident that support for the death penalty is large enough to garner the necessary signatures this time. He pointed to his successful parole reform petition drive, which resulted in elimination of early paroles for felons convicted of violent crimes. State voters overwhelmingly passed parole reform in November 1978.

If voters approve the constitutional amendment for capital punishment, the legislature would choose the form of death penalty, Patterson said.

Legislators' polls over the last two years have shown suburban voters in favor of the death penalty by as much as 80 percent.

The Republican county prosecutor has referred to capital punishment as "a perfectly moral and legal weapon. Society must utilize every conceivable weapon to defend itself."

THE MAJOR opposition to Patterson's campaign will likely be from the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). Gov. William Milliken, a long-time death penalty foe, issued a statement this week attacking Patterson's proposal.

Both the ACLU AND NAACP have been active in challenging the resurgence of the death penalty. Capital punishment for certain violent crimes is legal in 39 states.

Although the death penalty was legal for the first nine years of Michigan's history, there were no executions in the state before the death penalty was banned in 1846.

The law prohibiting the death penalty was written into the 1850, 1908 and 1963 State Constitutions.

According to the ACLU, about 55 percent of the 556 prisoners on death row nationwide are white, 40 percent black and the rest Hispanic, Oriental or American Indian.

Irish caucus to hear MP

Neil Blaney, a member of the Irish parliament from Donegal, will be guest of honor when the Irish National Caucus has a dinner, reception and dance at 8 p.m. Friday.

The affair will be at the Gaelic League Irish-American Club, 2068 Michigan, Detroit. Tickets at $5 per adult are available from the organization's president, Michael Kerwin, at 861-5760.

Blaney was recently elected to the European Parliament. He is on a tour of American cities.

Listen to Tech Hifi's Christmas Packages.

What makes Tech Hifi the best place to buy stereo?

It's our unique combination of knowledgeable salespeople, soundrooms you can play in, a great selection of quality brands, and important extra guarantees, like our 90-Day Full-Credit Trade, 60-Day Defective Exchange, and 7-Day Moneyback Guarantee. This is a combination you won't find in any appliance or department store.

Best of all, thanks to the buying power of the 72 Tech Hifi stores, we can also guarantee you the lowest price. You'll get our 30-Day Price Protection Guarantee in writing, right on your sales slip.

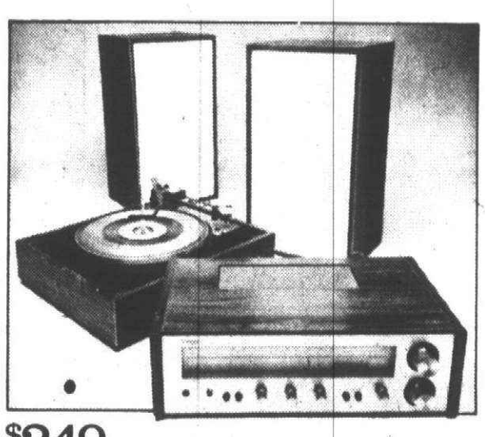
Below, you'll find a few examples of our Christmas "packages", all specially-selected for performance and value.

This week, come play any of the Christmas packages in our soundroom. And listen to what your money can buy at Tech Hifi.

While you're here, ask us for a free copy of the 1980 edition of The Hifi Book. It has 128 pages with information about the 1980 products, and full-color photos.

$199 KENWOOD TDC Philips

Tech Hifi's $199 package is your best introduction to component stereo. You'll get better sound than the similarly-priced "compact" systems you find in department stores, plus you'll get all of Tech Hifi's great guarantees. The system has a TDC 1500 am/fm stereo receiver, Kenwood LS-100 loudspeakers, and a Collaro 1251 automatic turntable by Philips.



$249 Technics PIONEER Philips

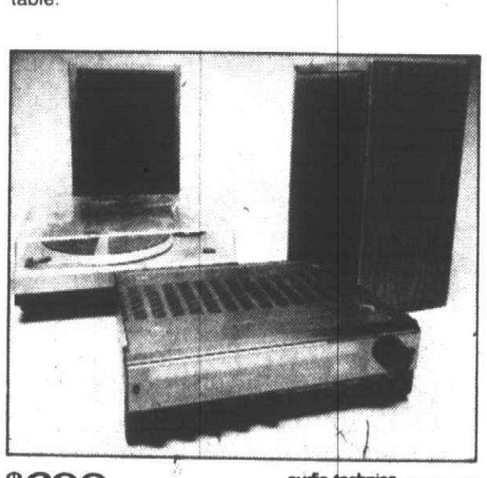
Our $249 system has some of the audio industry's best names. And Tech Hifi's buying power brings it to you at a budget price! The system features a popular Technics SA-80 stereo receiver, wide-range Pioneer XD-6 loudspeakers, and a Collaro 1251 single/multiple play turntable.

$329 PIONEER Philips

Our $329 system has what we think is the best overall sound and FM performance you'll find at this price. It has a Pioneer SX-450 receiver (with 15 watts per channel FTC), famous Philips 420 loudspeakers, and a Collaro 1251 automatic turntable. And a handsome walnut vinyl rack is included in the low $329 price!

$579 KENWOOD KLH BOSE PICKERING

Fine sound, good looks, and extra operating convenience are what you'll get with our value-priced $579 package. It has a Kenwood KR-3090 stereo receiver (with 25 watts per channel FTC), elegant KLH Classic 2 loudspeakers, and a belt-driven, programmable B*I*C 40Z single/multiple play turntable (complete with a quality Pickering 440E cartridge).



$699 SAE audio-technica HITACHI Ohm

This $699 package delivers some of the cleanest, best "imaged" sound you'll hear at any price. And, thanks to a special purchase, you'll save about $90 off our catalog price! This system has optimally-vented Ohm L loudspeakers, an SAE R3C stereo receiver (with 30 watts per channel FTC), a Hitachi HT-324 semi-automatic, belt-driven turntable, and a light-tracking Audio-Technica 100E cartridge.

$799 PICKERING KENWOOD Cerwin-Vega Philips

If you like your music loud and clear, our $799 Christmas package is for you! You get a Kenwood KR-5030 stereo receiver with a hefty 60 watts per channel (FTC), a pair of ultra-high efficiency Cerwin Vega 1230 loudspeakers (with 12-inch woofers), and a sophisticated, all-electronic Philips GA222 automatic single-play turntable, complete with a professional Pickering 660E cartridge.

The Bottom Line

Lessening sting of tax bite

By DANIEL HERRIMAN

The author, Daniel Herriman of Plymouth, is a partner of General Business Services which offers management consultant services to small businesses)

Every year business owners and their advisors go through the annual ordeal of assessing and paying their income taxes.

But by planning and taking certain steps before year-end, it is possible to take some of the sting out of the tax bite.

THE FIRST STEP is to estimate what your total income and allowable deductions will be for the year. Then make a rough estimate of what you think your income and expenses will be for the next year.

Some people in business whose affairs are relatively uncomplicated can make these calculations themselves. Others feel they need the help of a business counselor.

Whatever method you use, the first steps are critical, for they form the basis for your year-end planning.

The holiday season can be more joyous if you can arrange your expenditures as tax deductions.

If you intend to make business gifts, don't forget to protect your tax deduction. Make a record of the amount of the gift, name of the recipient, and the business purpose. There are restrictions on what is deductible, so consult with your business counselor for specifics.

Many persons entertain at home during the holidays. Sometimes it is possible to "combine business with pleasure."

If persons invited have a direct business relationship to you (i.e., customers) the cost of the entertainment may be deductible. It is always of critical importance to keep good records of total expenses, the names and identities of the persons entertained and the business purpose of the entertainment.

If your current year's income will vary significantly from next year's projection, you should consider "income shifting."

Federal income taxes are paid according to graduated rates: the higher the annual income, the higher the tax liability.

Whenever possible, therefore, it is wise to shift the reporting of some income from a high income year to a lower income year.

In cases where the taxpayer chooses professional assistance with year-end tax planning, the fees are deductible. The tax savings can far exceed the cost of the professional help.

IT IS IMPORTANT to have a good record-keeping system to insure that needed documentation is retained.

How long should business records be kept?

Since it's not really possible to generalize, each case must be considered on its own merits.

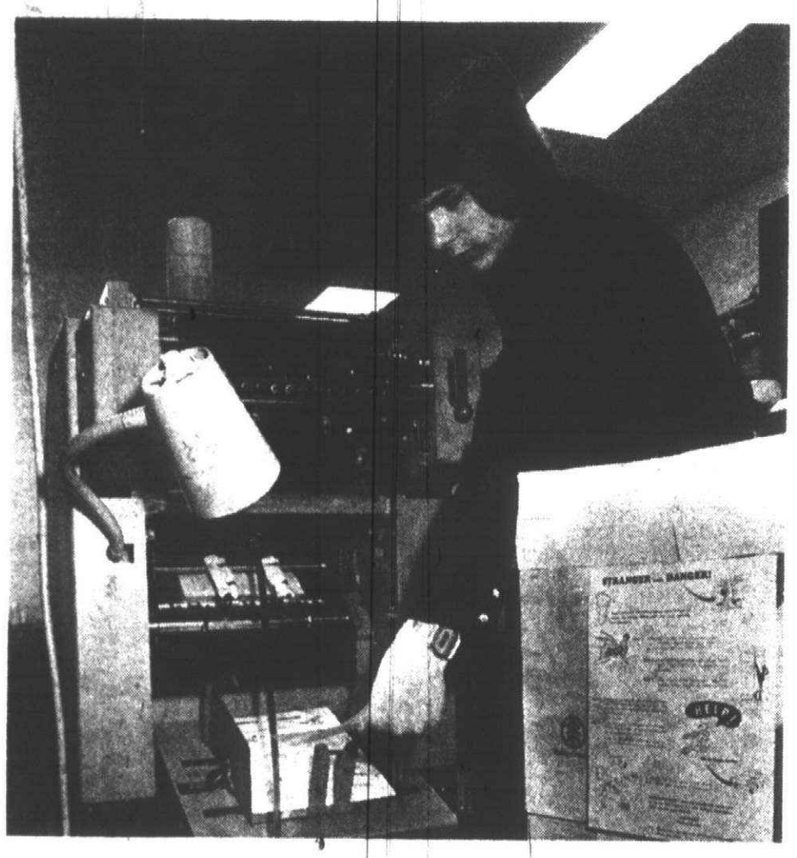
In most instances, records should be retained for eight to ten years after the filing of the corresponding tax return. The tax return itself should be kept indefinitely.

Employee personnel records and employment applications should be retained for a minimum of three years after termination of employment. Expired insurance policies should be kept for three years.

Accident reports, canceled checks, expired leases, contracts, expired options and payroll records should be preserved for seven years.

Some records and documents should be retained permanently, such as canceled checks issued in payment of important obligations or purchases, legal correspondence, contracts and leases still in effect, mortgages, bills of sale, depreciation schedules and trade mark registrations.

Also, keep corporation by-laws, minutes of directors and stockholders meetings, articles of incorporation and financial statements, partnership agreements and all related financial information on a permanent basis.



Plenty of warnings

Pressman Lance Pawloski runs off some of the 120,000 flyers Speedy Printing Centers are donating to a Michigan State Police child safety campaign. Churches, schools and civic groups may pick them up from the printing firm, whose offices are located throughout the metropolitan area. Flyers warn children and adults how to avoid and deal with child molesters.

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Pino are shown in June 1957 when they were honored for providing space on the farm for outdoor concerts of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

Plymouth — Past & Present

Farm sported fine fabric

By SAM HUDSON

(Part II)

The Latvians, referred to in my column last week, lived at Plymouth Colony Farms in 1949. They were a doctor, his wife, who was a nurse, and their child. Dr. Pino helped them to become established in the United States.

In 1948 and '49, the Weaving Shops Division of the Farms ran advertisements in the Plymouth Mail, the Birmingham Eccentric and the Detroit News. Many of the items the shops sold were made to order. Christmas specials offered in 1948 included place mats and napkins, towels, hand-woven aprons, baby blankets, auto blankets, vestees, scarves and open work.

In 1949, fine table linens made at the farms were exhibited at J.L. Hudson's in Detroit. By 1950, Hudson's were advertising products made at the Farm's weaving shops.

In 1951, Karl Laurell, an easterner, was named director of the weaving shops. Laurell, and Dolores DeMaria, also employed at the shops, drew national attention to Plymouth in 1953 when they won top fabric awards in the annual design competition of the American Institute of Decorators.

The Ann Arbor News, in an article on June 21, 1952, said the farms "that was once a swampland, is now the site of a fashionable clothes designing center where fabrics are hand-woven from home-produced wool. Already known for its upholstery and drapery materials, the Farm Weaving Shop is now producing clothes which soon may be available in Ann Arbor stores.

"Most of the materials will wholesale at $10 to $15 a yard. Gowns of the fabric will be sold to stores at prices from $60 to $125.

"An unusual suit to be shown is one of 50 percent afghan wool and 50 percent karakul, the wool for which comes from karakuls raised on the farm."

On April 26, 1953, the Detroit Free Press declared that "some of the country's best high-style fabrics come the five hand looms in this farm studio."

AS EARLY AS 1949, Dr. Pino was talking of building a retail establishment on Ann Arbor Road.

In that year, he told a reporter he had plans for a roadside restaurant featuring dishes popular in the Colony. Adjacent to the restaurant were to be shops where handicraft from the Colony were to be displayed.

That idea never got beyond the talking stage, but early in 1953 Dr. Pino did have an attractive roadside building erected on Ann Arbor Road at the junction of Ann Arbor Trail. Initially, the stand sold only produce grown at the farms. Then, when demand exceeded what the farms could produce, Pino began to sell produce grown on other farms in the vicinity.

It was at that stage, in August, 1953, that Plymouth ownship officials notified Dr. Pino that the area was not zoned for retail sales. He would have to stop selling other than what the farms produced.

Pino, angry over the controversy, closed the building entirely. It stood empty, a well-proportioned, fine-looking building, until it was razed a few years ago when Ann Arbor Road was widened at that spot.

At about the time the township put a damper on his retail sales effort, Dr. Pino began to realize that the farms project was costing him more money than he could afford. He had originally intended to open up a series of shops on Ann Arbor Road to sell not only farm produce but the output of the weaving enterprise. Now, especially after the zoning argument with the township, he had second thoughts.

Not long after he closed the retail shop, Pino ended the weaving operation at the farms. Eventually, he rented the houses on the property, keeping the largest one for his own use.

IN 1957, Dr. Pino was approached by Mrs. Margaret Hough, Harold Guenther, who was then mayor of the city, and Wayne Dunlap, then conducor of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

Their purpose was the request the use of the farms for a series of summer outdoors concerts. Pino, who had a great interest in music, readily agreed. Three open air concerts were held that year.

The Plymouth Mail, on June 20, 1957, said the summer concerts were patterned after the cultural center in Tanglewood, Mass.

The Detroit News reported that "organizers hope it will develop into the largest cultural center in the Great Lakes area."

In October, 1957, Dr. Pino and his wife, Grace Clarke Pino, were given a Community Achievement Award by the Plymouth Rotary Club for their efforts in establishing the Summer Festival.

The full story of the summer concerts has been told in some of my previous columns. They prospered until the summer of 1960. In that year no concert was held. The reason given was lack of sufficient funds to finance both summer and winter concerts.

While he was still in practice, Dr. Pino continued to live in Detroit. But he maintained an apartment in one of the houses at the farms for use during his frequent visits.

In 1959, when he retired from the practice of ophthalmology, Dr. and Mrs. Pino moved to the largest house on the farm, the one named after Emerson. (To be continued)

Buy carefully for a safe holiday

Safety during the holidays should be of primary concern to all ages.

But the little ones aren't always as concerned about safety as they should be, which is why moms and dads need to keep their children in mind as they plan for a safe Christmas.

And planning a safe Christmas for youngsters requires special efforts for each age group, according to advice given by the Women's Division of the Safety Council of Greater Lansing, an affiliate of the National Safety Council.

PARENTS OF CHILDREN in the "Hand to Mouth" age bracket (up to two years old), for instance, should avoid buying as gifts small toys which may be swallowed.

Also to be avoided for this age group are flammable objects, toys with small removable parts, poisonous paint on any object, or stuffed animals with glass or button eyes.

Parents of the "Explorative" age child (2-3 years) should avoid anything with sharp or rough edges which will cut or scratch, objects with small removable parts, poisonous paint or decoration, marbles, beads, coins and flammable toys.

Parents of the "Let's Pretend" age, 3-4 years, should avoid toys which are too heavy for the child's strength, poorly-made objects which may come apart, break or splinter, sharp or cutting toys, highly flammable costumes, and electrical toys.

Children in the "Beginning of Creative" age (4-6 years) should not be given shooting or target toys which would endanger the eyes, ill-balanced mobile toys (tricycles, wagons, etc.) which may easily topple, poisonous painting sets, pinning or cutting objects.

Children in the "Beginning of Dexterity Age" (6-8) should not be given non-approved electrical toys, anything too large or complicated for the child's strength and ability, sharp-edged tools, poorly made skates, conductible kites, or shooting toys.

Parents of children in the "Specialization of Tastes and Skills" bracket (age 8 and older) should avoid air rifles, chemistry sets, dart games, or bows and arrows. They should also avoid dangerous tools and electrical toys unless used under parental supervision, or motor scooters and non-approved electrical toys.

THE WOMEN'S DIVISION has a list of suggestions of safe gifts for children in each age bracket. Some of the suggestions for safer gift-giving include:

Up to 2 years: sturdy rattles, brightly colored objects hung in view, rubber or washable squeak toys and stuffed dolls or animals, large, soft, colored balls, blocks with rounded corners, push-and-pull toys with strings or rounded handles.

Ages 2-3: Sand box with bucket, shovel and spoon, large peg boards, wooden animals, cars and wagons to push around, tip-proof kiddie cars and tricycles, large crayons, low rocking horse, small chair and table.

Ages 3-4: Small broom and carpet sweeper, toy telephone, dolls with simple wrap-around clothing, doll buggies and furniture, dishes, miniature garden tools, trucks and tractors, non-electrical train, drum, costume clothes, building blocks.

Ages 4-6: Blackboard and dustless chalk, simple construction sets, paints and paint books, doll house and furniture, small sports equipment, skipping rope, wash tub and board, paper doll sets with blunt end scissors, costumes, modelling clay.

Ages 6-8: carpenter bench and well-constructed, lightweight tools, sled, construction sets, roller skates, approved electrical toys, kites, equipment for playing store, bank, filling station, etc., playground equipment, puzzles and games, sewing materials, dolls and doll equipment.

Age 8 and older: hobby materials, arts and crafts, photography, coin and stamp collections, puppet shows, musical instruments, gym and sports equipment, model and construction building sets, electric train with Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) approval, bicycle, science sets.

Other safety hints for Christmas include:

- Use flame resistant icycles and tinsel
- Keep base of tree in water or wet sand
- No candles on or near tree
- Be sure the snow around the tree won't burn;
- Don't hang metal foil icicles over wires or tree lights
- Keep a waste basket handy for disposal of gift wrappings.

The safety council also advises to keep the Christmas tree in water from the time it is brought home, keep filling the tree holder with water daily, and remove the dry tree from the house immediately after the holidays.

County board rejects budget

By TOM LONERGAN

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has been debating the county's 1980 budget since early October. But that apparently wasn't enough time.

So the board last week rejected the proposed $280.7 million budget, scheduled to take effect this Saturday. The budget would have cut an estimated 425 employees and eliminate about 300 unfilled positions.

After five hours of debate, the board rejected the budget 12-7, an action one western Wayne commissioner described as an "anti-Dick Manning vote." Richard Manning, D-Redford, is the board chairman.

OUT-COUNTY commissioners R. William Joyner, D-Plymouth, Mary Dumas, R-Livonia, Kathryn Beard, D-Inkster, and William Suzore, D-Lincoln Park, joined eight Detroit commissioners in rejecting the budget.

Manning and Commissioner Thomas Presnell, D-Westland, voted for the budget, which they called balanced.

The county's budget deficits have increased in each of the past five years. Wayne is expected to end the current budget year Friday at least $18 million in the red.

Manning said he expects one of the commissioners who voted against the budget last week to move for reconsideration. The move, allowed under the board's rules, requires 18 votes. Eight commissioners were absent from last week's vote.

However, he Manning doesn't expect the board to reconsider the vote until this Wednesday or Thursday. The commissioners may not reconsider the budget until after Dec. 1.

THERE'S NO legal requirement that the commission adopt a budget by Dec. 1, said Manning. After Dec. 1, he added, the Board of Auditors could direct the county treasurer to pay all claims against the county.

"It (last week's vote) represents the culmination of a year's frustration," Manning said.

Joyner said he voted against the budget because he doesn't believe it's balanced. There have been no funds set aside for next year's contract negotiations, he said.

Mrs. Dumas said with budget amendments made last week "we're going to unbalance the budget." She said that, before the county funds the circuit court and recorder's court probation departments, it should be certain of possible state funding next year.

Earlier this year Gov. William Milliken vetoed a $5 million bill for state assumption of the probation departments. If the legislature doesn't approve a county government reorganization plan, he may veto similar legislation now pending in Lansing.

AN AMENDMENT to fund Wayne County General Hospital in Westland for six months failed 10-9, with one abstention. Joyner, Dumas and Presnell voted for the six months "lump sum" budget of $25 million for the hospital. Manning voted against it.

The budget proposes the hospital be funded until Feb. 29 and in the meantime the county either negotiate its sale to the University of Michigan or set up a non-profit public benefit corporation that would run the hospital without county general fund support.

The latter proposal has been considered for nearly seven years. Many on the board believe three months is not enough time to change the hospital's governing structure.

editorial opinion

Do you know a Good Samaritan? Let us know

The Plymouth and Canton Observer Newspapers are sponsoring a contest this month to honor an individual in the community who best typlifies the spirit of Christmas.

In thinking about recognizing the spirit of giving, and honoring someone who gives freely to others, we decided the most appropriate response would be to offer a Good Samaritan Award.

The reason is that the Samaritan gave of him/herself to meet an otherwise unmet need. And we think that's what the spirit of Christmas is all about.

IF YOU REMEMBER the story, a man had been beaten by thieves and left by the side of the road to die.

Many persons had passed by, stopped to stare and comment about the poor man's plight, and then continued on their way. Also travelling on the road from Jerusalem to Jericho was a man from Samaria. This man, filled with compassion for the victim, attended to his wounds and took him to an inn in the nearest town.

The Good Samaritan paid the innkeeper for the man's room and promised, upon his return trip to the town, to pay for any other expenses incurred in the man's treatment.

The story of the Good Samaritan has come to have a narrow meaning in law, referring to the legal liabilities incurred by a layman who voluntarily gives first aid to an injured person.

But the story has much broader meanings which especially are relevant to the giving spirit behind Christmas. The story is about someone who, through no fault of his own, became a victim needing help. He was a stranger to all the travellers who passed by and had a serious need (left to die) which was ignored except by the Samaritan, a man of a different and despised tribe.

And the Samaritan not only gave help to a stranger in dire need but went beyond the immediate need by providing rest and shelter. He gave all that was needed and, in the process, gave of himself.

While it is easy to condemn those who passed by, we think it is far better to concentrate on and praise the one who stopped.

AND THAT IS what the Observer wants to achieve by offering the 1979 Good Samaritan Award.

We want to concentrate our thoughts on the positive acts of good people who gave of themselves in 1979 to address an otherwise unmet need.

We'd like to praise, along with the community, the individual who took time to stop in the midst of a very busy personal life to do something for others.

And we would like your help in finding the Good Samaritan in our community.

Think of someone you know who best represents the Good Samaritan and let us know so the entire community can pay tribute to that spirit of giving.

The announcement of the 1979 recipient will be made before Christmas. By reading about that one person, an important part of the spirt of Christmas will be rekindled in each of us.

The community has many Good Samaritans, some unknown, who live by the Golden Rule throughout the year. Join with us by nominating one of them for the 1979 Good Samaritan Award.

Let's share the good news this holiday season.

Water board is all wet on Stark Main

Michigan may be a water wonderland, but don't tell that to Canton officials.

Plans to finance construction of a new water main seem to dry up as quickly as they're made.

Known as the Stark Road main, the water system would serve Canton Township and neighboring Westland. Officials from both communities contend further growth depends on getting the main built.

Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert says that if something isn't done soon, the township will have to review already approved site plans for new construction.

Westland Mayor Thomas Taylor says the city's low water pressure could prevent clean industries, such as food processing plants, from locating in the city.

"We've had offers from food processing places that we would like to have in the city," Taylor says, "but that takes quite a bit of water."

The problem is well documented. Even the Detroit Water Board, which has contracted to provide water, agrees that these two communities have a problem.

The Michigan Department of Health has also vowed to refuse issuance of water permits to new industries that might prove to be heavy water users.

Canton, Westland and the water board also agree that the way to ease the problem is to build the Stark Road Main, but that's where all agreement ends.

Canton and Westland have proposed several funding mechanisms to get the water main built. Unfortunately, water board representatives have burst every bubble the customer communities have floated past.

Apparently, Detroit is terrified that it can't sell bonds to fund the project. The water board actions seem to say it believes that by ignoring the situation long enough, the problem will go away.

The Detroit Water Board is acting like Wayne County officials act. The reason Detroit can't sell bonds is because of the city's financial condition. The county got in bad shape fiscally by ignoring problems in the hope that they would disappear.

That leaves Canton and Westland to see if they can find alternate ways of getting the water main built. Those options could include developing a water and sewer authority or going to court.

Taylor says that court action would be only a last resort measure that wouldn't provide the communities with the water they need immediately.

That's a good point. But no matter what plan Canton and Westland come up with, the Detroit Water Board must participate.

The water board has a contract with its customers. If that contract means so little to the water board, then perhaps it is time to examine the structure and functions of that board.

One chance on cable TV

Random thoughts on cable television:

For your local city council or township board members, selecting a cable TV firm is the biggest single decision they will make in their careers.

Figure it out. The franchise to use public rights-of-way lasts 15 years and will probably be renewed. Rarely do council members or trustees serve 15 years.

If the council picks a bum city manager, or if the township board picks a brute as police chief, the governing body can always fire the guy. If a spending program goes sour, it can be trimmed out of next year's budget.

But you're stuck with cable TV. Your choice had better be good the first time.

As Harold Horn from the Cable Television Information Center warned local officials recently, you'd better ask every company bidding for a franchise to supply a list of every town where it has done business and check the responsible local official in every single town.

A CABLE TV firm is much like a gas or electric company.

It usually needs a franchise from local government, although it's possible to cut a deal with the telephone company to use its wires and rights-of-way.

Like a utility, cable TV requires a high capital investment.

Like a utility, a cable TV firm rarely has a competitor in the same town.

One of the things a local governing body should check, Horn advises, is the bidding company's capitalization. Does the firm have enough capital to survive three years? It takes that long before it brings in any revenue.

ONE INDUCEMENT cable TV firms offer is the prospect of airing meetings of the local council, and maybe the planning commission and school board, too.

It's possible, now, to get a cable TV channel with sessions of the U.S. House of Representatives on it. I understand lawmakers who know the home folks are likely to see them have a propensity to ham it up.

I have mixed feelings about telecasts of local governing units.

As a working newsman, I've covered many a meeting where board members weren't talking to each other, but for my benefit. They knew I was trained to quote anyone who says anything of the slightest importance on a major issue.

I used to work in a town where the major local radio station would broadcast council sessions. I've heard the council's most demagogic member say one thing in the back room and quite another to the radio microphone.

And to tell the truth, I've heard good council members endeavor to "explain to the listening audience" things which deserved explanations.

The supreme editor, the news editor, the city editor and the chief editorial writer all listened to the broadcast. Next day, they would pore over the carbons of my stories.

If there was any item they heard on radio and didn't see covered, or didn't see adequately explained, I heard about it.

It kept me grubbing for interviews and bits of information the broadcast didn't have. I set an all-time record for the most news copy out of a single council meeting — 104 column inches, in stories ranging from four to 24 inches in length.

(A year after I left the beat, an Irishman with a gift of gab produced 108 inches.)

THE BEVY of editors who fly-specked my work was a rarity. Most voters won't watch a full meeting of a governing board unless there's a neighborhood issue. And in that case, they're just as likely to attend in person.

So I don't expect us literary newspersons to be put out of business by the clucks with the cameras and microphones.

Most folks who are seriously concerned about public affairs scan TV news the way they scan headlines — to pick out what interests them so they can read all about it.

Actually, it would help society if folks actually did watch and understand city council, school board, township board, planning commission, community college, county board, SEMCOG and SEMTA proceedings.

There are plenty of other things we literary newspeople could cover.

Young slips

Transit plan endangered

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN JR.

Detroit is the only metropolitan area that doesn't have some sort of rapid transit system.

Historically, this has been blamed on our being the automotive capital of the world and the car companies having encouraged spending for roads and freeways to promote use of the automobile.

Detroit and Michigan, as a result, have one of the finest roads systems in the nation.

There are two major problems with the way Detroit has been dealing with its transportation solutions.

First, not everyone has a car, and it is a very difficult region to get around without one.

Second, the worldwide oil problems and resulting scarcity and high prices of gasoline will reduce the amount of driving people will do in the future.

Hence, metropolitan Detroit must catch up with the rest of the nation and produce a regional transportation system that will allow residents the means to move from one region to another.

TWELVE YEARS ago, the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) was formed to put together a regional system.

It bought the existing suburban bus systems, which were all in financial difficulty; took over the Grand Trunk commuter trains from Pontiac to Detroit, and developed the beginnings of a demand-response small bus operation (Dial-a-Ride) for less populated areas where large buses are inefficient.

On Dec. 18 — less than three weeks from now — SEMTA is scheduled to decide on what else should be included in the first phase of a comprehensive plan for the region.

Public hearings are now being held throughout the region so that the public can see, hear and talk about the proposals being considered.

THE ONLY REALLY controversial proposal is a light rail line extending from downtown Detroit to Eight Mile. This line would be partially underground and partially elevated.

This would be the first phase of a subway system throughout the area, which might take 50 years to complete.

Many suburban public officials have come out against this plan because they believe too much of the available money is being spent in the city of Detroit, while the region as a whole would have to pay for the operating deficits that will result from any public transportation system.

Coleman Young, mayor of Detroit, in the past has gotten the votes for this subway system by promising goodies for suburban interests — such as a "super sewer" for western Wayne County.

HOWEVER, JUST as the SEMTA board is about to vote on the final system, he has pulled what could best be described as a faux pas.

Young announced he won't permit merger of the Detroit city bus system into SEMTA unless the SEMTA board is reconstituted from five city and 10 suburban directors to four for each with a ninth member selected by the other eight.

If this were to come to pass, it would mean he would be pushing to remove some SEMTA board members who have voted for his program in the past.

Unless the mayor changes his direction very quickly, it wouldn't be surprising if either the SEMTA board were to delay its decision until after Dec. 18 or the subway were excluded from the plan.

The writer is a SEMTA board member from Oakland County.

High fashion at Kroger's

If you want to check out the latest in fashion for the fall season, I suggest you go to Krogers in Pine Lake Mall.

This is one of the headquarters for the best dressed women in West Bloomfield. Here they parade up and down the aisles and carefully pose while standing in checkout lines.

Last winter I made the mistake of buying my groceries in Pine Lake Mall wearing my Kroger-Union Lake garb. In Union Lake I would have blended in with the masses, but in Pine Lake I felt like I belonged with the "messes."

I was wearing my black ski jacket (the one my husband said wasn't nice enough to wear to Burger Chef). I had always thought, when the jacket shrunk and the lining didn't, that the grey edge curling up on the bottom distracted from the fact that I'd lost the belt.

THE LADY in front of me in the checkout line, I recall, was wearing a fur and leather coat with matching leather boots. Her long hair was curled so that the tresses gently rocked on her shoulders.

The sparkle of her jewelry was reflected in the gloss of her long and perfectly polished nails. The mascara on those curled lashes was even and unsmudged.

I knew she had never caught her whole upper lid in an eyelash curler and never had to buy purple eyeshadow to make the other lid match.

But even harder to cope with was the little girl in line with this fashion plate. Dressed in bunny fur, she was outfitted from head to toe in pure wnite. Even her white boots did not have one smudge on them (and I know for sure because I put on my glasses and dropped something near the boots to check).

I LOOKED at my darling daughter half climbing out of the wagon, reaching up to grab all the candy and gum in sight, and noticed her face was etched in chocolate cookie crumbs from the package we had opened to pacify her.

With her arms up in the air, the ragged edge of her undershirt (I thought Carter's were never supposed to wear out) hung out from the polo shirt that shouted to the world "I had spaghetti for lunch."

Fortunately, my baby had taken her jacket off so I folded it inside out, flashing the Saks 5th Avenue label. After all, who would know it came from a garage sale?

A little boy mourns Grandpa

Jocelyn Krieger

In the brief four years he has occupied this world, Avram has learned to love with a love few have known in a lifetime.

Four years and one week from the day of Avram's birth, his beloved Grandfather died. Now, more than six months later, Avram mourns.

Since I have suffered the loss of my father, I flounder with poor attempts to comfort Avram. My father was a man I loved deeply because he represented everything good and beautiful on earth.

My child, my son, surely I can perform this motherly role and listen to his wistful tales of loving days never more to be. Somehow, I must respond to his searching questions and bear the pain with my answer.

"Can Grandpa see God, Mommy?" he asks. "And if God can see me, can Grandpa see me, too?"

MY PARENTS LIVED in northern Michigan, and their visits were limited, especially during the winter. Now Avram daily recounts each visit like a litany, as if he fears he will let some precious recollection leave his memory.

"Remember when we went to the circus with Grandpa? He liked the elephants," Avram recalls.

The circus. The first circus Daddy had seen since I was a little girl. His last circus.

"Do you think Grandpa misses me, Mommy?" he questions. "Cause I miss him so much. It hurts real bad and I don't want Grandpa to hurt any more."

All children loved Daddy. He had a special way of relating to a child as a total person, on the child's level.

He understood their problems, not as an adult, but as if it was his own problem. Children sensed this and always approached him as one of their own.

"Grandpa is so funny," Avram giggles. "He always makes me laugh."

I refrain from correcting his usage of the present tense. Most of life's happy events are often past tense. This English lesson comes with age.

DADDY WAS A MUSICIAN, a dedicated teacher of piano, voice and organ.

He was also a brilliant composer, but he considered his compositions to be highly personal. The talent he possessed was used to give voice to what he was too emotionally overcome to express in words.

I will never know what prompted him to compose as his gift on Avram's birth a haunting lullaby. The manuscript reads "Lullaby to Avram" by "Granddaddy - Oct. 2, 1973."

Avram was our fifth child. While Daddy had loved all the children, he never had made such a profound gift. It was almost as if this bond of unique love had been formed with Avram's birth.

I never paid particular attention to the time Avram and Daddy would spend together.

Avram didn't begin to speak until after his second birthday, and it seemed Daddy never did clearly understand whatever he said. Most of the time they would sit together and Daddy would joke about something or other.

Avram was his most enthusiastic audience and would laugh hysterically.

"Play the card game Grandpa played with me," Avram demands.

Frustration. How can I explain I don't know how to play because Grandpa just made up the game, carefully contrived so a certain little boy would always win?

WHENEVER MY PARENTS would visit, Daddy always brought pears. He would peel and quarter them to share with the children.

The pears became Avram's first thought when he heard that his Grandpa was seriously ill. As I rushed to be by my father's side, Avram asked, "If grandpa dies, who's going to cut my pears for me?"

Six months have passed, and Avram has not touched a pear. He says he hates pears. Yet he looks at a pear in his coloring book and deftly selects a green crayon.

"Pears are green. Grandpa and I liked pears," he tells me as he continues his artistic endeavors.

While watching a television western, Avram becomes excited when an Indian says, "I live in Virginia."

"Maybe he can see Grandpa!" he shouts. "Grandpa lives in Virginia."

Carefully I explain that Grandpa is buried in Virginia. He doesn't live there.

"I know," Avram concedes. "Grandpa wouldn't live anywhere without me."

TOGETHER WE ARE finding our way through the dark maze of grief by identifying with music.

I have resumed teaching piano and continue my father's work. Avram has learned to play the piano and reads music with such ease that I can scarcely believe his ability.

In these difficult days of bereavement, I try to conceal my sorrow in order not to inflict more pain on a child suffering so intensely.

Yet while Avram plays nearby, I pause while preparing dinner, allowing my thoughts to wander. I begin thinking how I will never again hear the front door open and Daddy's voice call: "Where's everybody?"

Or how I will never see him sit at the table and share the newspaper with me while I'm fixing dinner. Little things, but perhaps the same kind Avram cherishes.

Tears spill uncontrollably to my cheeks, and just as I am able to regain my composure in order not to disturb tiny Avram at play, a small hand grasps my own.

"I know, Mommy," Avram whispers. "I loved Grandpa, too."

Unflinchingly, he holds me as I stifle my sobs and like a soothing balm on a smarting wound, his gentle, sweet voice tells me, over and over, "I know, I know."

Low carbohydrate diet drains you

Question: Is the low carbohydrate diet superior to a balanced diet in reducing body weight and fat stores?

Currently popular low carbohydrate diets, the latest version being Dr. Atkins' Diet Revolution, are based on the same principle — an extremely low carbohydrate intake or no carbohydrates at all. Sugars and starches are restricted to 60 grams or less, while fat and protein are usually unlimited.

According to the proponents of this diet, carbohydrate is rapidly converted to body fat rather than being used for energy. On the other hand, the calories from fat and protein are burned up in the metabolic processes.

Since fats and carbohydrates are our primary energy foods, it is "reasoned" that by limiting the carbohydrate intake, one forces the body to utilize its own stored fat for energy.

fitness

Barry Franklin

THIS ASSERTION is, at best, only a half truth.

As a result of a very low carbohydrate intake, the carbohydrate stores of the body become rapidly depleted. With every gram of carbohydrate used, approximately 3 grams of water are lost. As much as three to five pounds of water may be lost during the first week of the diet!

Thus, the initially greater weight loss resulting from a low carbohydrate diet is actually due to an excessive loss of body water, not fat.

The low calorie diet that contains carbohydrate may promote water retention, unfortunately masking fat weight losses. Failure to recognize and correct this condition through the use of diuretics is perhaps the primary reason why the obese individual may be unable to lose "weight" on a low calorie balanced diet, despite fat weight losses.

In conclusion, body fat is used for energy only when the caloric requirements exceed the caloric intake, regardless of the amount of carbohydrate in the diet. The "apparent" effectiveness of the low carbohydrate diet lies primarily in the inability of the scale-weight to differentiate fat loss from water loss or loss of vital lean tissue.

Salem snaps Chief win streak in district opener

By BRAD EMONS

Plymouth Salem won its biggest game of the season Tuesday night at the expense of rival Canton's 15-game winning streak.

The Rocks posted an impressive 45-29 girls' basketball win on the Chiefs' home court in a Class A district opener. Salem now advances to second round play Thursday at 8 p.m. against Ypsilanti. The first game will pit Westland John Glenn against Belleville at 6:30 p.m.

"This was a terrific game for us," beamed Salem head coach Bob Blohm. "We beat their pressure early and our inside people did a nice job.

"It's hard to single one player out."

Salem jumped on the Western Six League champs right from the opening tap. In fact, the Rocks connected for 13 straight points to start the game before Canton answered.

The Rocks handled Canton's full-court press with relative ease. Sophomore guard Eileen Moore brought the ball up error-free with the help of workhorse junior forward Cheryl Sobkow.

Center Patty Weidman, hitting her third straight shot with 3:17 to go in the first quarter, gave the Rocks a stunning 13-0 lead.

Reserve guard Jean Timlin then gave Canton some semblance of order when she hit a three-point play, cutting the lead to 13-3.

"THE EARLY lead gave us confidence," said Blohm. "It showed we could play near the basket.

"Our kids looked forward to the game. They were excited about playing."

Salem maintained its first half domination by outscoring Canton 11-8 in the second quarter to take a 24-11 lead. Sobkow banged home an inside shot with 19 seconds left, giving the Rocks a 13-point advantage.

"We were a little tight and it got worse and worse," said Canton coach Mike McCauley. "The first half was all Plymouth Salem. They did it to us in the first half.

"Bob (Blohm) did a nice job with his team."

The Chiefs gave their following little to cheer about in the first 16 minutes. Canton was unable to gain any consistency under the hoop and did not run its normal fast-break style of play.

"Our ball handling was horrible and we did not penetrate," McCauley said. "We were throwing the ball around and not looking."

In the third quarter Salem continued its assault. A basket by Moore with three seconds left in the period gave the Rocks an insurmountable 36-19 edge.

"We didn't want to get into a track meet with Canton," said Blohm, whose team lifted its mark to 14-7. "We played good, sound defense without fouling."

WEIDMAN, who scored 12 points, canned a shot with 1:37 to go in the game as Salem blasted to its biggest lead of the night — 45-25.

Sobkow led all scorers with 14 points. She hit four of five shots from the floor and grabbed nine rebounds. Weidman blocked three shots while Nan Horwood added 11 points.

Canton ended the season with a 17-4

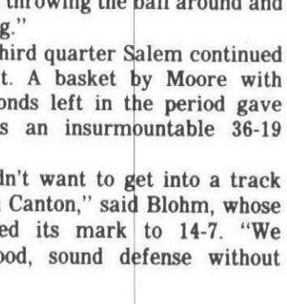
Brad Emons writes....



Bob Newhart would have had a hard time analyzing what went on Tuesday night between the girls' basketball teams of Plymouth Salem and Canton.

It was difficult for me to comprehend the pre-game all-in-fun strategy employed by the two coaches — Bob Blohm of Salem and Mike McCauley of Canton.

McCauley and his team came in well-planned with their pre-game ritual. The Chiefgirls wanted to create a carnival-like atmosphere for the Class A district showdown at the Canton Phase III gym.

It was pure Dick Vitale at its best.

As McCauley calmly chatted with Salem assistant coaches some 20 minutes before game time, his team went through their entertainment extravaganza.

The Chiefs donned themselves in "Beat Salem" T-shirts and long underwear. Last season Canton's girls paraded for their district clash wearing toga party outfits, yelling favorite lines from the movie "Animal House."

It was pure physche for the opposition.

But this time Blohm and his girls played their hand by warming up in Salem's gym. The Rocks did not enter the Chief pow-pow until 10 minutes before game time, marching over in the rain.

Salem wanted no part of the the pre-game festivities.

THE CHIEFS had a limited audience as it went through their voodoo-like chants and dances. Where was Denny Terrio?

The whole scene half reminded me of a few years back when No. 1 ranked Marquette invaded U-D's Calihan Zoo. The regular season finale for teams that year ended with a bang.

They opened the gates at 5 p.m. for an 8 p.m. game and the place was packed about an hour before game time.

Vitale walked into the place as the crowd roared. He wasn't even coaching then but had the partisian crowd in a frenzy, waving his arms madly as everyone stood at attention. He got on the P.A. system and told the crowd to be more vocal then Notre Dame's "famed sixth man."

The sound became deafening when the Titans came out to warm up, wearing T-shirts which read "25-2 — Beat Marquette."

By that time Marquette coach Hand Raymonds had seen and heard enough.

It reached fever pitch when the starting lineups were introduced. Detroit went into its "Titanvision" routine in the dark with one spotlight beaming on the floor as all 12 players were saluted to the beat of an "Earth, Wind and Fire" background tune.

Raymonds' team was introduced before Detroit's, but he took them into the locker room instead. Butch Lee was no where to be seen. Marquette was the only team that year to miss "Titanvision."

THE WARRIORS then went on to beat Detroit by 3 and ruined the Titans' bid for an NCAA tourney.

It wasn't quite like that in Canton's gym Tuesday night. The crowd was not packed in and the game wasn't close.

McCauley and Blohm, however played chess Tuesday night. And it certainly didn't hurt the spirit of both teams.

The pre-game warm-up fueled things up a bit. And that night Salem burned a full tank.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL

Flashback

In 1974, the State of Michigan inaugurated its playoff point system for high school football. That year the Plymouth Salem Rocks finished with a 9-0 record and championship of the Suburban 8 Conference. Their playoff point total of that year remains unequaled by any Class A team in the State. Since there were no state playoffs in 1974, Salem High School claimed the mythical State Championship.

Vitale works self into Chip lineup

Tony Vitale will be spending the Christmas holiday season at home.

It might have been different for Vitale and his Central Michigan University football teammates had the expected NCAA Bowl invitation had been delivered.

Vitale, a 1978 graduate at Plymouth Salem who plays offensive guard for the Chippewas, was rightly disappointed along with his teammates that CMU was snubbed by Bowl invitees after a 10-0-1 season.

CMU closed out its season by beating PCAA champion San Jose State 34-32 on the coast. The Chippewas anxiously waited by the phone, but never got the call.

"It kind of ticked me off," said Vitale, who worked his way into the CMU starting lineup at the end of the year.

The Chippewas thought they had a shot at the Hall of Fame Bowl, Dec. 29 at Birmingham, Ala. Instead, Big Eight member Missouri got the nod with a 6-5 record.

CMU was also considered for the Independence Bowl, Dec. 15 at Shreveport, La., but Syracuse, also 6-5, gained the berth instead.

"It's disappointing because we worked so hard," said the 6-4, 248-pound Vitale. "The whole thing is politics.

"They (the committee) thought we couldn't sell as many tickets."

VITALE WAS still happy about CMU's accomplishments despite the Bowl snub.

"I have an MAC ring," he said, referring to the team's first place finish in the Mid-American Conference. "There are a lot of tough teams in this league."

And that's why Vitale chose to head for Mt. Pleasant after helping Salem to a 9-1 mark in 1977.

"I talked to a lot of schools," he said. "Central has always been good and I decided to go with a winning program."

A freshman on a full-ride scholarship last year, Vitale spent almost all his time sitting on the bench learning the ropes as a lineman.

"I played defensive tackle most of the year and then switched to offense for the last three games," he explained. "There were a lot of injuries and they needed bodies. I had to learn the whole offense in three weeks."

Vitale got a chance to refine his skills at the offensive guard position during spring practice and was named to the travel team at the start of this season.

"I was contesting for a spot and then I ripped up my ankle pretty good in two-a-days (drills)," he said. "I had my tendons all screwed up and didn't dress the first two games."

He worked his way back onto the team, first by playing on special teams.

HE MADE his first road trip to Kent State, but almost didn't get a chance to play.

While at the motel, CMU coach Herb Deromedi got a call from the NCAA office in Kansas City. He was told CMU would have to forfeit the game if Vitale played. Deromedi was informed that Vitale had dropped a class and had gone below the 12 hours required for eligibility.

The Salem graduate told the CMU coaches that he never dropped any classes. The matter was later cleared up after discovering a mistake. Another CMU student of the same first and last name had actually dropped the class.

"Something got messed up in the computer," said Vitale. "I wasn't the guy who dropped."

From all appearances the bowling proprietors have found a way to silence the bowlers who have been complaining about lane surfaces for the past several years. How they did it remains a mystery, but scores have sky-rocketed.

When that happens, the bowlers never find a reason to howl, no matter how the lanes were dressed.

As a result this season the scores are higher than usual and such things as a 700 series that once were rarities now have become common.

The latest example came in the Little Caesar Classic at Westland Bowl last Friday when four of the sharpshooters broke the 700 barrier

Showing the way to this group was Steve Connor who put together games of 246, 265 and 231 for 742. Next to him came Jim Beck with counts of 279, 246 and 212 for 737. Then, as you might expect, John Hurleey, who has made a habit of rolling 700 series, posted a 715 with a closing game of 248. The fourth was the work of Bob Schmidt who opened with a 235, added a 244 and closed with 222 for 712.

Meanwhile over at Garden Lanes, John Hockstadt joined the group when he laced counts of 253, 241 and 221 for 715.

DOUG UHL, secretary of the Tri-City Men's group, had good reason to feel ignored. He rolled a closing game of 265 for 690 at Westland and was lost in the shuffle when four of his fellow bowlers posted their 700 series.

CHET LUKAS who carries a 170 average at Garden Lanes, earned a high place on the honor roll when he rolled a perfect game in the St. Linus league. It was only the 17th 300 game posted in the lanes since they were opened 20 years ago.

Chet started with a 190, followed with 138 and then came the 12 strikes in a row for the perfect game.

In the Moose league at the Garden, Dick Hall rolled a 674 that started with a 243, but he had the misfortune to bowl it just as John Hockstadt rolled his 715 and he had to be satisfied with second place.

In the Kings and Queens, Dick Santo had a 269 in 620 and in the Swingers circuit Wes LaPalm faltered after opening with a 279 and finished with a 691. Meanwhile, in the ladies senior house loop, Marilyn Burgess had a 264 in 606 and Jan Drewry had a 621.

MARY MOHACSI returned to the winner's circle in the Merri-Bowl doubles with a 628 series that included games of 206, 214 and 208 for 628. Right behind her came Ruth Kinjorski with 606 and Ann Troke with 572.

In the sundowners loop, Sue Wilson closed with a 233 for 614 to take top honors in the Friday circuit. Mack Pajoc had 638, Ira Smith a 650 and Jim Stockton a 245 in 635. In the Saturday youth league, Pam Wyea showed the way with a 236 in 592.

BILL BONN was the pacemaker in the Ford League at Woodland Lanes with a 256 in 687. Joe Gumbis took the runner-up spot with 611 and Oakie Harmon had a high game of 244.

IN THE LIVONIA LADIES league Joan Lewis took the lion's share of the honors. She won the third of the three game series with 192-30 — 222 and the series with 540-90 — 630. In the other games Shirley Schwartz took the opener with 171-54 — 225 and Marion Heath won the second with 188-32 — 220.

FRED SLOBA registered an unusual triplicate at Merri-Bowl when he linked three identical counts of 202 in the American Legion league, Paul Drain paced the classic with 629, while Al Zabeel and Bill Griffith tied for high game with 235.

IN OTHER performances during the week, Buzz Ray closed with a 240 to pace the Suits loop at Plaza Lanes with 633 and in the Plymouth Men's league, Dennis Seeman was high with 636. At Farmington Lanes Dave Hamilton, the high scoring youth, posted a 629 and Tom Bishop had a 501.

and later got the starting call when Central clinched the MAC championship with a 37-14 win over Eastern Michigan. He then also was a regular in the 28-0 win at Northwestern Louisana.

With the entire offensive line returning next year, Vitale is optimistic again about CMU's chances.

"I think we can win it again," he said.

CMU led the MAC in rushing, total offense and scoring in 1979 with the help of a strong blocker like Vitale.

When spring practice begins again, Vitale should be right in the thick of things for a starting position.

"IT SHOULD be a battle royal for those spots," said CMU Sports Information Director Jere Craig.

Vitale intends to be ready for tbe challenge. Last summer he lifted weights at Silvers Gym in Plymouth, a hangout for former Salem grads also playing in the MAC.

"In our system the guard pulls a lot and has to be super strong and quick," he said.

"The weight work has really helped."

Wolverine QB picture still clouded

By W.W. EDGAR

He walked into the banquet hall Monday night at the Plaza Hotel on crutches.

He wasn't formally introduced except in passing. But Rich Hewlett, the former Plymouth Rock star who started the game at quarterback for Michigan against Ohio State, was the main subject at most tables.

Some 2,000 guests were seated at the Plaza to honor the Wolverine gridders.

Hewlett had suffered a badly sprained ankle against OSU. He became the chief topic when word spread around the room at the annual Michigan Football Bust that John Wangler may not be back next season.

Wangler, who replaced B.J. Dickey as the regular quarterback early in the season, still has one more year of eligibility.

But while it is expected that Coach Bo Schembechler will invite him to come back, it's doubtful at this time whether he'll accept.

At least, when Schembechler announced the boys who would be returning to complete their eligibility, Wangler's name was not mentioned.

The thought that Hewlett would get the starting call next year gained some momentum when it was pointed out that he is an option quarterback, a style of play Bo still has not given up.

IN THE RECORD gathering, Hewlett's mother was enjoying the gala evening. She knew that her son was on everyone's mind, though never introduced except when he entered the room.

"He is confident that he would do the job," she confided to friends.

She hinted that Hewlett was looking forward to a lot of action in the Gator Bowl against North Carolina on Dec. 28.

His sprained ankle is healing slowly and he is expected to be ready when practice starts in earnest for the holiday game.

Meanwhile, Schembechler proudly stood before the gathering and defended the team's record.

"There are many schools around the country that would be delighted with an 8-3 record," he said.

"Our trouble here is that we have been spoiled. We have become accustomed to winning titles and championships and anything less is a poor season.

"But let me tell you," he said emphatically. "I really liked this team. It has character and they are all fine young men. It was fun coaching them."

Then he delighted the alumni with the comment, "I want to see these fellows close with a victory. And that's what we are going to achieve against a good North Carolina team."

mark. The Chiefs went into the game with the 15-game win streak.

Timlin and junior reserve forward Reggie Ruggerio paced the Canton scoring attack with seven and six points respectively.

The victory was a complete turn-about for the Rocks, who lost their last two regular season games.

"We're not a fluky team," said Blohm. "We sensed we were a good team at the end of the Walled Lake Central game even though we lost.

"We gained some momentum from that game."

Blohm and his Salem girls are hoping they can continue their commanding form Thursday against Ypsilanti.

2 Chief cagers gain honors

First-place finisher Plymouth Canton (10-0) and runner-up Livonia Churchill (7-3) garner five of 10 spots on this year's All-Western Six League girls' basketball team.

Churchill, coach by Don Albertson, had three players named to the squad — senior center Cindy Bussart, senior forward Mary Watson and senior guard Barb Irons.

A pair of Canton seniors were also selected — guard Vicky Cavallaro and forward Diane Durocher.

Two sophomores were picked by league coaches — Northville guard Jacque Nixon and Waterford Mott forward Bridget Brennan.

Others making the first unit include Farmington Harrison senior forward Linda Bache, Waterford Mott senior center Martha Schmidt and Walled Lake Western junior forward Cindy Hart.

Gaining honorable mention recognition were Janet Wilson and Chris Mellema of Western, Lori Winkle and Beth Dilley of Harrison, Sue Townsend of Northville and Sue Sowder of Mott.

Senior co-captains lead returnees

Canton cagers after 2nd crown

By BRAD EMONS

Losing four of five starters from a year ago won't dampen Craig Bell's hopes for Plymouth Canton basketball.

The Canton coach believes his team can challenge again and defend its Western Six League crown. The Chiefs last year were 10-0 in league play and 17-5 overall.

"This is an intelligent team which works well together," said the Canton coach. "They have knowledge of the game and are very unselfish."

The Chiefs lost leading scorer Butch King and guard-mate Rusty Mandle, both now at Saginaw Valley State. The other two starters gone are 6-foot-3-inch Mike Gollnick and 6-4 Mike Leary.

Craig Bell is optimistic about Plymouth Canton's chances of repeating a Western Six League basketball title. The Canton coach must replace four starters from last year's 17-5 team.

The lone starter back is 6-5 Dave Visser, a senior.

"We'll do the same type of things as we did last year," said Bell. "Our senior group this year has never been associated with a losing team."

Six other seniors will join Visser on the varsity — 6-0 guard Scott Adler, a co-captain along with Visser, 6-4 forward Brad Westin, 5-11 guard Randy Wilkin, 6-5 center Dave Ursa, 6-1 forward Dan McGlinn and 6-0 guard Jack Carpenter.

Visser is the team's most versatile player, according to Bell.

"Dave is a legitimate college player," he said. "He handles the ball extremely well.

"DAVE HAS the ability to be a tall guard in college. He can also pass. He was our leading assist man last year and can shoot the basketball."

Adler will run the Chiefs' offense. He was the top reserve guard last year.

"Scott will primarily be our ball handler," Bell said. "He's intelligent and has good basketball sense. He shoots the ball well."

Westin will play the power forward position and give Canton muscle.

"He plays good defense and has really worked hard. He gives us some rebounding."

Two juniors, 6-2 swingman Dave Malek and 6-4 Catholic Central transfer Sean Houle, are pressing for starting spots.

"Dave is a good competitor who will see a lot of playing time this year," said the Canton coach. "And Houle is very quick with the ball."

Also expected to see plenty of time is 5-10 junior guard Billy Childs, who has recovered from a broken collarbone suffered early in the football season.

Rounding out the team is 6-0 forward Jimmy Mills, a forward, Ken VanKirk, a 6-3 pivot man, and 6-1 forward John Buglione. All three players are juniors.

Bell said Canton will run "our motion type of game."

"We have the ability to do different things defensively," he said. "We're not as tall and can't muscle like last year.

"BUT I think we're intelligent enough to do other things that are necessary to win.

"We've been working hard in practice."

Canton opens its season Friday, Dec. 7 at Livonia Franklin. The Patriots, a 13-8 team last year, were beaten by Canton 104-65 a year ago.

"They'll be looking for revenge," said Bell. "That first game is going to be a dogfight."

Bell said he expects Northville, Livonia Churchill and Waterford Mott to challenge his Chiefs for the league title.

Canton has a tough non-league schedule, playing Livonia Stevenson and Plymouth Salem on successive nights in December. Dearborn Fordson and Belleville will also provide strength tests.

PLYMOUTH CANTON'S 1979-80 cage schedule:

DECEMBER — 7, at Livonia Franklin; 14, Northville 20-21, at Salem Christmas Tourney.

JANUARY — 4, at Waterford Mott; 8, Farmington; 11 at Farmington Harrison; 15, Dearborn Fordson; 18, Walled Lake Western; 22, at Livonia Bentley; 25, at Livonia Churchill; 29, Thurston.

FEBRUARY — 1, at Northville; 5, at Livonia Stevenson 8, Waterford Mott; 12, Dearborn; 15, Farmington Harrison 22, at Walled Lake Western; 26, at Belleville; 29, Livonia Churchill.

MARCH — 3-8, Districts; 11-15, Regionals; 19, 20-21 Quarterfinals and state finals. — All home junior varsity games start at 6:15 p.m.

POINTS

By Doug Funke

Does public need cage tilt?

The Joe Louis Arena, capacity 20,500, will host its first event Dec. 12 when the University of Detroit will play the University of Michigan in basketball.

Advertisements in area papers have been promoting the game. Tickets are priced at $11, $10, $9 and $7.

Does that seem a little steep to you for a college basketball game? If it does, you're not the only one who thinks so.

If economy means anything to you in these times of inflated prices, skip this game and the U-D Michigan State game scheduled Dec. 20 at the Louis Arena. Ducats will cost the same for that encounter as they do for U-D-U-M game.

Al Renfrew, U-M ticket manager, says $4 tickets are available for all of the Wolverines' home dates this winter in Crisler Arena, capacity 13,609. Every seat in Crisler carries a $4 price this season.

Home opponents include Michigan State, defending NCAA champion; Indiana, defending NIT champ; and Purdue, runner-up in the NIT.

Sal Malek, U-D athletic business manager, says that $5 tickets are available for all of the Titans' home games this year in Calihan Hall, capacity 8,837.

Home opponents at Calihan include Iowa and Rhode Island, which both participated in last year's NCAA tourney.

Tickets may even be purchased at bargain prices for special promotions at U-D for selected games. (Call the athletic department at 927-1155 for specific details.)

As one can see, the price of the best seat in Crisler Arena or Calihan Hall won't even get you into Louis Arena for the U-D-U-M game, or the U-D-MSU encounter.

Consider, also, that U-D will host Marquette, Duquesne, Oral Roberts and Xavier later this season in the Louis Arena. Tickets for those games will range from $7 to $4, according to Malek.

Now, our purpose isn't to promote athletics at U-D, U-M, or MSU. Those universities have their own people for that.

However, when someone seems to be pulling a fast one on the public and/or appears to be taking advantage of a situation to make a few extra bucks, then it is our responsibility to suggest alternatives.

Larry Geracioti, U-D athletic director, said that representatives of the University of Detroit, the University of Michigan and Olympia Stadium, who will operate the Louis Arena, met to set the ticket scale.

Both teams will meet part of the expenses. Both teams and Olympia will receive a percentage of the gate, which will not be divided equally.

"We don't know if the prices are excessive now," said Geracioti. "We have to guarantee something. We're dealing with unions who say we have to have so many people selling concessions, ushers, guards, ticket takers.

"Our aim is to attract fans, to do best by them. We're concerned about the general public."

It's absolutely touching that U-D's concern for the public translates to $11-10-9-7 tickets to watch the Titans play against U-M and MSU, but $7-6-4 against Marquette, Duquesne, Oral Roberts and Xavier!

Malek said he anticipates a sellout for the U-M game. "The biggest thing about it is that we know we can draw 8,000 here (in Calihan Hall). Why let five or six thousand people out in the streets?"

Good question. Yet, if U-M can't even sell out Crisler Arena right on campus against some excellent Big Ten competition, it seems hard to believe it will fill an arena 40 miles away at nearly double the ticket price.

When was the last time U-D sold out Calihan Hall and how many times has it done so in the past five years?

It really makes sense that U-M and U-D, which haven't sold out one game yet this season in their regular home arenas against some pretty good competition, are so concerned about their fans that they're willing to move the game to a bigger facility and substantially hike the ticket prices.

This appears to be a case where all parties concerned figure they can make a few extra dollars at the expense of a hyped public. But it could be a big flop.

Exam time will be approaching in Ann Arbor. Shopping, concerts and other activities will also be competing for attention and the entertainment dollar as the holidays near.

As of Tuesday afternoon, Malek said approximately 2,000 tickets for the U-M game had been sold on the U-D campus. Renfrew said that nearly 1,500 had been sold on campus in Ann Arbor; that still leaves better that 16,000 seats to fill from ticket outlets in the metro area.

Q&E

Schoolcraft spikers place 8th in tourney

Schoolcraft College women's volleyball team finished a satisfying season by placing eighth in their the National Junior College Athletic Association championships over the Thanksgiving holidays in Miami, Fla.

Coach Kathy Higgins, in her first year, guided the Ocelots to an earlier second-place finish in the regionals. That gave them a berth in the nationals.

In spite of competing with only seven players, the Ocelots bettered 12 of the top junior colleges in the country in Miami. Kellogg CC of Battle Creek won the competition in the three-day event. Kellogg had also won the regional in which Schoolcraft finished second.

The 20 teams invited to Miami were grouped in four pools. On the first day, each team faced the other four squads in its pool. Eight teams were eliminated. Then the surviving teams were regrouped into different pools. After facing those teams in its pool, play was started for final standing, depending on the teams' records in second pool play.

Schoolcraft started out the first day by disposing of Cloud County CC of Kansas, 15-12 and 15-9. "We were a bit nervous in the first game," said Higgins. "Then we got rolling."

The Ocelots then got by Herkimer CC of New York, 15-6 and 15-1. The next victim was Cecil CC of Maryland, 15-5 and 15-0. But Mesa CC of Arizona beat the Ocelots, 6-15 and 13-15 to win the pool. Schoolcraft moved on to the second day's action as 12 teams remained.

The Ocelots started out on the right side in their new pool, beating Vermillion CC of Minnesota, 15-8 and 15-8. Then Schoolcraft ran into some trouble. Host Miami-Dade CC beat them, 10-15 and 13-15.

"That second game was the best game that we had played all year, too," said Higgins. "We should have won the next game, but the girls were tired. We had 'em." Higgins was referring to a 10-15 and 7-15 loss to Jefferson CC of Missouri which concluded the second day's action.

With an overall 8-6 record in games, the Ocelots squared off with Catonsville CC of Maryland. A three-set, 9-15, 15-10 and 12-15, loss forced Schoolcraft to settle for eighth place — still a great effort.

"We played all year with just one substitute on the team," said Higgins. "The tallest girl on our team was just 5-10, and we were playing schools with girls as tall as 6-2. We were a real small team, but we could play with anyone. I'm really proud of them."

Higgins credited all of her players. Heading the list were Linda Mix, a freshman from Livonia Churchill, and Ann Kolnitys, a sophomore from Wayne Memorial. Both girls were named All-Conference in the Michigan Junior College Eastern Conference at the position of spiker.

Sue Rich, a sophomore spiker from Livonia Churchill, was named honorable mention all-conference.

Other Schoolcraft players included Linda Spicer, a freshman spiker from Redford Thurston; Mary Vercandi, a freshman setter from Garden City East; Cathy Pangrazzi, a freshman spiker from Westland John Glenn; and Sandy Braun, a freshman setter from Wayne Memorial.

Higgins, who has played volleyball at Schoolcraft, Central Michigan and Eastern Michigan, doubles as varsity volleyball coach at Dearborn Heights Crestwood. "The only bad thing about the tournament was that we had to leave Miami and come home," she said.

Ski weekend slated

The City of Plymouth and Canton Township Parks and Recreation departments are offering a "Teen Ski Weekend" Jan. 11-13 at Schuss Mountain and Timberlee ski areas.

The cost will range from $95 to $110 based on room occupancy. A $25 deposit is due by Dec. 14. The fee includes bus transportation, chaperones and some meals. Participants will be lodged at the Traverse City Holiday Inn.

For more information contact Paul Sincock at the Plymouth Recreation Department at 455-6620, or pick up an information/registration form from the Plymouth or Canton Recreation offices.

GILLES' EARN RANKING

Christine and Wendy Gilles of Plymouth recently earned high rankings from the Southeastern Michigan Tennis Association (SEMTA).

Chris ended the net season with a No. 3 ranking in girls singles. Sister Wendy was rated No. 6.

Chris Nagel of West Bloomfield is the No. 1 ranked player.

DeLANO NAMED COACH

Betty DeLano, graduate of Plymouth Salem, was recently named as an assistant girls' volleyball coach at Ann Arbor Pioneer.

The 1978 Salem grad is a sophomore physical education major at Eastern Michigan University.

Spartan girls advance

Some girls' basketball coaches are hard to please.

Livonia Stevenson scored a season-high 73 points and had a victory margin of 34 over Walled Lake Western Monday, yet Jim George, coach of the Spartans, was not a happy man.

Steveson whipped Western, 73-39, in the Class A district at Farmington.

"We haven't had 60 (points) before (tonight), but we didn't play well," said George. "I was not pleased with our performance. We were playing a 3-16 team, and I guess it showed. We had too many fouls (22). We're going to have to improve on that."

The Spartans were off and running with a 17-6 lead after eight minutes, which they stretched to 35-12 at the half.

Noreen Kelley counted 26 points, Beth Mueller 17, and Ingrid Hogh nine.

"Noreen was the dominating force. She had 18 rebounds and with Karen (Kelley) fouling out early in the third quarter, we went to her (Noreen) and a lot and she responded," said George.

The first-year coach also praised Mueller for "her usual great game at point guard."

But what about the mistakes?

"We had a lot of hustle — maybe too much," said George. "We were nervous and that was uncharacteristic for us."

The Spartans, who committed 22 fouls, had a poor night from the free-throw line at the other end of the court. They managed to make only 23 of 42 foul shots.

LIVONIA BENTLEY, which sustained only one defeat during the regular season, slipped past Farmington, 56-43, in the second game of the evening.

The Bulldogs' balanced scoring attack was led by Kim Plachta, who reaped 14 points. Ann Roy, who has won a starting berth in recent weeks, added 12 points, Carla Campbell 10, and Beth Almburg nine.

The improving Falcons didn't roll over for Bentley.

The Bulldogs had a 12-8 advantage after the first quarter, 28-20 at the half, 44-31 after three periods, and 56-43 at game's end.

"I think the difference was that we were a little quicker," said Bentley coach Tom Lang. "Our fast break worked better than theirs.

"Ann Roy played a good game at forward and Kim Plachta did a good job on offense. She had 14 points, 11 in the second half," said Lang.

"Carla Campbell gave us super leadership on the floor. She was keeping us going."

One thing that the veteran coach was not satisfied with was his players' effort at the free-throw line. Bentley converted on only eight of 23 opportunities.

Q&E

High heating bill? Cold weather is just one reason.

As a customer information representative, part of my job is to answer questions about energy bills. Lately there have been lots of calls about why bills are higher.

One reason is cold weather. Customers throughout Michigan are using many more units of gas to heat their homes than they do in the warmer weather. Another reason for increased energy bills is the increased cost of fuel that continues to rise and that we must pass along to our customers. There's no denying the fact that energy costs are becoming more expensive for all of us. I'll try to help you if you call me, but the weather and fuel-cost increases are beyond our control. I think the best advice I can give you is to take all possible steps to conserve – to save both your dollars and your valuable energy.

We at Consumers Power Company are doing our part to keep your energy bills as low as possible. We hope that you are doing your part too, by conserving energy.

4th quarter spurt lifts Thurston

Redford Thurston, who scored victories twice over Livonia Franklin during the regular girls' basketball season, made it three in a row Monday in the state tournament.

The Eagles struggled to a 38-30 win in the Class A District at Redford Union.

It was a defensive tussle right from the opening tipoff in a battle between two of the taller teams in the area. Franklin led 8-6 after the first quarter, but Thurston held the upper hand 14-12 at the half. The score was tied at 25 after three periods.

Jean Rowley led the Eagles with 11 points. Barb Beebe contributed 10 and Theresa Moran eight. Julie Wilga and Anna Collins totaled eight and seven points, respectively, for the Patriots.

"It was a very slow-moving game. They were awful big and we were looking for the good shot," explained Thurston coach George Heger. "They (Patriots) played a good box-and-one defense and Rowley was playing with a sprained ankle.

"I was expecting a close game. We didn't try to run the fast break because we knew we would only get one shot," said Heger. "We spread out in the last quarter and were getting fouled. We made seven free throws to break away."

Beebe snared 19 rebounds during the game, and Rowley grabbed 12.

Franklin coach Chuck Hebestreit, though disappointed with the loss, was pleased with the success of the team throughout the season.

"At our end, we were going to slow it down. We didn't want to run with them, and we had trouble getting the ball inside," said Hebestreit. "Rowley, I felt, was held intact. Beebe, I think, came through in the clutch.

"Again, we were concentrating on keeping them away from the basket. Both teams, I think, were holding on to the ball a little longer looking for the good shot," said Hebestreit.

"We were quite pleased. All of the girls will be back who were in at the end. This is the first time that Franklin has ever been .500 or better in girls' basketball," Hebestreit added.

The Patriots finished with a 10-10 mark.

HOST REDFORD UNION experienced little trouble with Redford Bishop Borgess in the second game of the doubleheader.

The Panthers, which out-pointed the Spartans during each of the first three quarters, claimed a 54-43 victory.

Nancy Lawson popped in 15 points for RU, while teammates Robin Taylor and Terry Harper each contributed nine.

Rosemary Gross and Paula Ewald each netted eight points for Borgess.

RU led 13-7 after the first period, 29-18 at the intermission, and 47-27 after three quarters.

Ladywood cagers win

Ladywood overcame a first-quarter deficit to grab a tough 54-45 decision over Dearborn Divine Child Tuesday in first round girls' basketball district action at Madonna College.

The Blazers move on to the district Class B semifinals against Detroit Immaculata at 8 p.m. Thursday. The championship will be played Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Carolyn Prebenda came off the bench and was the key, scoring 17 points to lead the way for Ladywood. "She definitely had the best game of her career," said coach Ed Kavanaugh. The senior forward also had 14 rebounds.

"They (Divine Child) were up for the game," said Kavanaugh "This was our third time around, and I don't like playing teams three times.

"It was all tied up just before halftime, then Ronna Greenberg stole the ball, fed Liz O'Brien and she hit one from half court. That kind of picked us up, and the third quarter was a big one for us. We outscored them 12-7 and opened it up a little bit."

Leslie Nadeau helped the Ladywood cause with 14 points and 19 rebounds before fouling out. Liz O'Brien had 11 points, 13 rebounds and four assists. Aggie Conti had eight points and five assists.

DC's Andi Fron led all scorers with 20 points.

Ladywood pushed its overall record to 17-4 with the win.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS
CITY OF PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN

At a meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals to be held in the Commission Chamber of the City Hall on Thursday, December 6, 1979, at 7:30 P.M., a public hearing will be held to consider the following:

APPEAL CASE NO. 79-27 - Robert Osborn, Wil-O-Mac, Inc., 39500 Five Mile Road, Northville, MI, requesting permission to construct a new building addition to the structure located at 878 Starkweather, which is presently used as a retail store and woodworking shop. A special permit is requested pursuant to Article 9, Section 5.142, Paragraph 8, of the Zoning Ordinance because of the nonconforming status.

All interested parties will be given an ample opportunity to participate in the hearing and, at the close of said hearing, all comments and suggestions of those citizens participating will be considered by the Zoning Board of Appeals prior to rendering its decision.

How sick do you have to be before your health insurance covers you?

Most health insurance is fine. If you're sick enough. Anything bad enough to put you in the hospital qualifies for coverage.

But for doctor's visits and regular check-ups, you're out of luck. Chances are, you have to pay the whole bill. All by yourself.

Right now, Health Alliance Plan is having a special enrollment for people who want individual health care coverage.

Health Alliance Plan is the largest Health Maintenance Organization in Michigan.

A complete health care plan that covers you in the hospital. And in the doctor's office. For minor illnesses. And major surgery.

For yearly physicals, colds and flu, expensive allergy testing, and emergency room services, you pay only a fraction yourself. And you pay nothing for hospital care.

You're covered for less than $60 a month.

If you join HAP as an individual, our health care program only costs $59.33 per month. And for a family, it's only $104.95 per month.

When you enroll during our special enrollment period, from now until December 31st, you don't have to fill out a medical questionnaire.

You're covered right away, if you join right away.

If you don't have health insurance, or if you want to change from your present individual coverage, you can join HAP and be covered immediately. There's no waiting for benefits.

You're covered at three major hospitals and seven health centers.

Our association with Henry Ford Hospital, Metropolitan Hospital, and Metropolitan Hospital West means you'll have comprehensive in-patient care.

Our seven Health Centers are convenient to everyone in the Metropolitan Detroit area from Downriver to West Bloomfield. And you'll have the convenience of having all your family's medical records in one place. And all your doctors under one roof.

You're covered all the time, instead of some of the time.

Don't settle for health insurance that only helps some of the time.

Join Health Alliance Plan and you'll be covered all the time.

Health Alliance Plan has got you covered for:

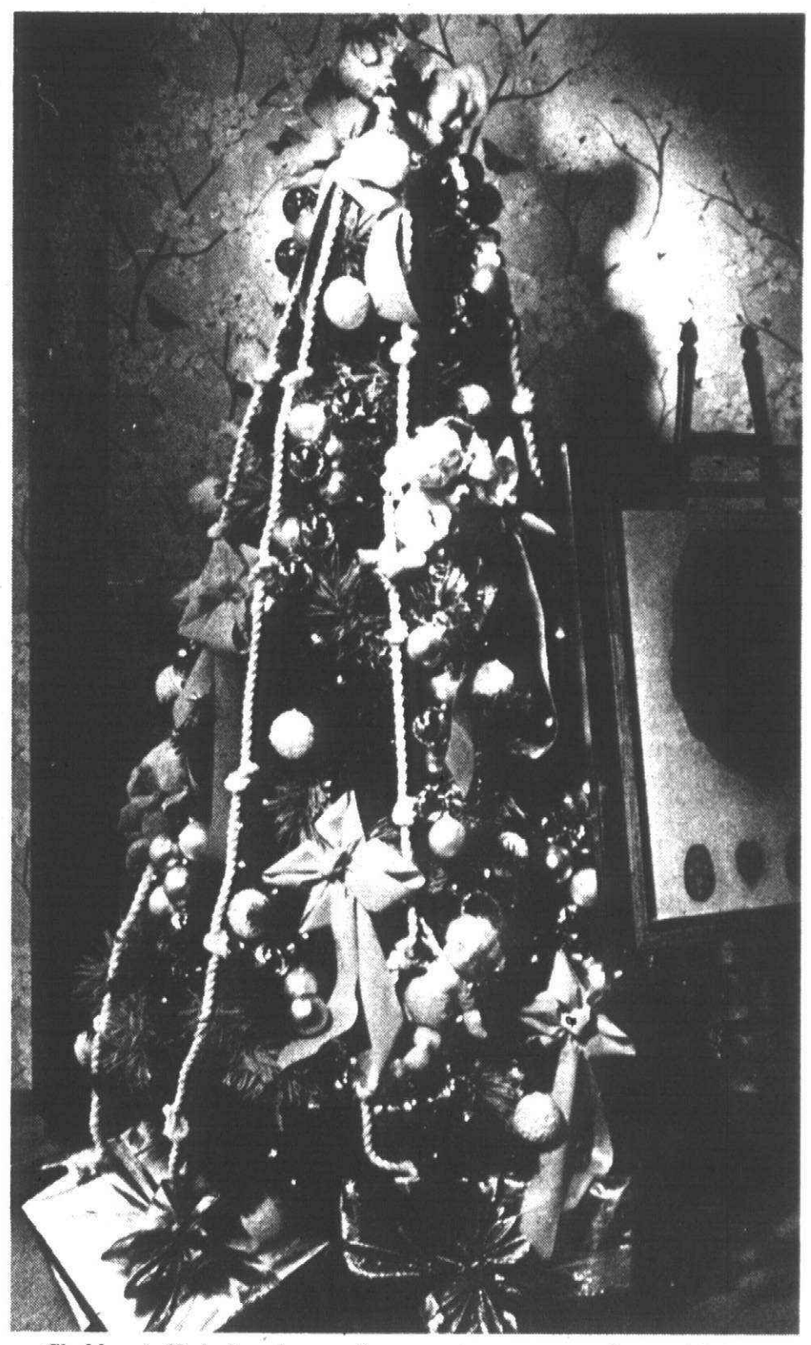
Blue streamers of ribbons with white polka dots extend from bows at the top of the tree.

Jeffery Fontana is especially fond of a tree with the foil fan decorations.



Chubby stuffed cherubs are the accent ornaments along with large peach velvet bows.

He decorates dozens of Christmas trees

Canton Observer
Suburban Life
Thursday, November 29, 1979 (C)1C

By ELINOR GRAHAM

After decorating 25 or more Christmas trees, the average person would feel justified in adopting a "bah-humbug" scrooge attitude.

Not professional decorator Jeffery Fontana. He maintains his enthusiasm, reveling in the color, magic and traditions of the Christmas season.

"There's something about a Christmas tree that brings out the child in all of us," said Fontana. "I've seen it when I've been doing trees in office buildings. These busy executives would love to drop everything and help decorate."

Fontana says he will explain that he must follow a certain routine and get the lights on first — perhaps they would like to sit and watch.

Sometimes they do just sit and offer advice: "You've have a bare spot here," and "You need something over there."

FONTANA AND FOUR helpers decorated the windows and lobby of Plymouth Furniture on Main Street. They started at 9:30 a.m. Nov. 21 and finished at 9:30 a.m. Thanksgiving day.

"We spent about three hours on each tree," he said.

Each tree is decorated to complement its setting. There is a traditional tree with hand-crocheted bows in a den. In the French country room, clumps of birch trees are decorated with miniature animals made in India, red and white checked ribbon bows, and straw birds.

The large raffia wreath over the sofa with its turkey feathers and more red and white checked bows completes the theme.

Fontana's favorite is the elegant tree with the large gold lame bows and the foil fans. Each fan was handmade from foil papers. On another tree, he used blue ribbon with white polka dots and white feathered birds.

"The one on the end is typical Grosse Pointe," was his comment about the plainest of the trees.

Inside the store is the children's tree with its shiny candied apples, wooden horses, plaid and checked ribbon bows, and clusters of gold, pink and white balls.

There are calico ornaments, old-fashioned paper candy and, sticking out of the top of the tree, hobby horses.

FONTANA TALKED about some of the unusual trees he had been asked to do.

There was the one for Mrs. Joe Hudson. "It was her daughters coming-out party and she wanted polka dotted mushrooms all over it. She said they were lucky."

The tallest tree was a 35-footer outside River House.

"The wind was blowing and the water was right below. I was at the top of the tree when my ladder blew away. I landed in the tree and hung on. That's when I quit doing outdoor trees.

"The tree at the University Club on Jefferson is a tall one, too — it must be at least 20 feet."

He has decorated a Tyrolean tree, "all pink, blue and yellow ribbons with Tyrolean decorations."

"We did a beautiful French one — roses and garlands and all crystal decorations. The tree's top went right up to a beautiful crystal chandelier which seemed to become part of the tree."

He recalled a Chinese tree. "It was all red silk poppies, white doves and pearls. It was gorgeous."

Then there was the bachelor's Bacchus party tree. "All the ornaments were made of bread."

Sometimes, a tree is decorated for a one-night stand. It is erected and decorated for a party, then has to be removed the following morning.

When he is asked to decorate trees in private homes he always looks at the rooms and talks to the family.

"I like to find out what Christmas means to them: who's in the house and who's going to see it."

He said that one tree will be decorated for a large party or reception. Another will be for the children. "The kids like to stay up and help decorate their tree."

This week he will be doing the lobbies of the Detroit News downtown and Sterling Heights plants. "They always have something to say about my decorations and ornaments being wrapped in the Free Press."

FONTANA GAVE step-by-step directions on how to decorate a tree.

"First of all, make sure the tree is good and sturdy in its holder. The first branches should be as close to the floor as possible.

"Cut off the trunk and save the branches for filling out bare spots. We've even drilled holes in the trunk and stuck them in."

The decorator believes Christmas tree skirts are unnecessary. "Some people do so much handwork on them and then they are covered with packages."

He prefers a plain cloth, sometimes red but usually as close as possible to the color of the rug.

The lights go on first. "One strand per foot, the height of the tree, and then a couple more strands. Start at the trunk and work the lights out to the tip of the branch and then back to the trunk.

"Make sure all the plugs are at the trunk. The lights should not be at the ends of the branches, they should be right back to the trunk."

Fontana uses only the clear lights — no color.

"Lights are merely illumination. They are not ornaments."

Next step is stuffing the tree. He usually uses silver or gold garlands but the clippings from the branches also can be used.

"Scrunch it in, don't let it hang on the outside. This gives the tree extra glow and fullness."

The balls go on next. Fontana never hangs a ball singley on the tree unless it has sentimantal meaning. The balls are attached in a cluster, joined together by a fine wire.

Then it is time for the ribbons. They may be in bows or garlands, or they may extend from the top to the bottom of the tree.

"The blue and white polka dotted ribbon on that tree in the window starts from the three bows at the top of the tree."

"Never throw anthing away," he admonished. "With new ribbons, the whole appearance of the tree can be changed another year."

Last of all come the accent pieces. They may be cherished ornaments that have been in the family for years, stuffed cherubs, birds, whatever.

"I have even used red satin stuffed hearts, edged in lace. They looked like valentines but they were beautiful."

And when it comes to Christmas gifts, Fontana says there is nothing finer than a Christmas tree ornament that will be brought out each year with joy and remembrance.

Corn husks and calico

Members of the Trailwood branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association used corn husks and calico to decorate part of the Plymouth Historical Museum. The result is colorful and charming. The museum now has been completely decorated for Christmas and will be open for public viewing during regular hours. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

33 Women's magazine eds to back ERA

Thirty-three editors of major American women's magazines have had an editorial meeting of minds on the Equal Rights Amendment.

The magazines, with acombined readership of more than 60 million and constituencies from all segments of the American women's population, will publish articles on the Equal Rights Amendment in November issues.

In a statement on the joint project, the editors agreed: "There is still much discussion on ERA — pro and con . . . While each magazine will approach the subject matter in its own way, we are unanimous in our opinion that idsucssion is of primary importance-"

This unusual effort has been duplicated only once, when thirty-two women's magazines published articles on ERA in July, 1976. Before that, the only effort on a specific issue was in November, 1963, when seven magazines published articles based on interviews with Prisident Jonh F. Kennedy on peace. "The significance of the joint publishing project is that women's magazines have recognized the need to provide their readers with independent information on ERA, an important issue which has too often been obscured by ridiculous allegations," said Sharon Percy Rockefeller, ERAmerica co-chair.

"By joining together, the magazines have recognized the politically sophisticated American women," said Helen Milliken, ERAmerica co-chair. "No matter what role a women fulfills — homemaker, student, working woman, wife or all of these roles — she is interested in the issues whihc affect her life. Ratification os the Equal Rights Amendment is a must if women are to become full fledged members of our society."

ERAmerica, the national coalition working for ratification, will honor the precedent setting editors at a celebration fundraiser, to be held November 1st in New York City at the corporate offices of the Equitable Life Assuance Society of the United States.

Magazines participating in the project are: Redbook, Harper's, Bazaar, Cosmopolitan, Bride's, Wroking Woman, Vogue, The Nurse Practitioner, Daytime TV, Texas Woman, Talk, Houre and Garden, Fifty Plus, Savvy, Ladycom, Self, Mother's Manual, Family LCircle, Seventeen, Spokesowman, Colorado Woman, Playgirl, Mother Jones, Parents', McCall's, Mademoiselle, Apartment Life, kCo-Ed, Essence, Glamour, Good Housekeeping, Ladies Home Jounral, Ms. and McCall's Working Mother.

The Equal Rights Maendment has been ratified by 35 of the 38 states necessary to make it the 27th Amendment to the United States Constitution.

Deadline for ratification is June 30, 1982.

Members honored at REACT banquet

Charles Van Vleck was honored as "Member of the Year" at an awards dinner staged by the Plymouth Area REACT Team in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

REACT is a volunteer group of men and women dedicated primarily to helping motorists by monitoring the CB radio emergency channel 9 in the area around Plymouth.

Monitoring is done every weekend from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday.

The award was presented to Van Vleck by John Hermann for "being consistently dedicated to serving the Plymouth Area REACT and the community throughout the past year, and the year before as well."

Van Vleck is commander of the group, and Hermann is the personnel officer.

Other awards for outstanding service were presented to Harold Jacobs, Michelle Dean, Marie Van Vleck, Bill Gesler, Larry Thompson, Carlotta Thompson, Paul Cook, Helen Runge, John Hermann, Randy Knapp, Elaine Jacobs, John Adams, Don Russell, Debbie Russell and John Kubiel.

Hermann announced that the team had had a plaque engraved bearing the names of three REACT members, Bonnie and Jim Crackel and LaVerne Morin, who died last year.

Sgt. Weldon Griegor of the Michigan State Police presented the team with a certificate of "Gratitude for Cooperation and Support."

Wayne County Under-sheriff Loren Pittman was the guest speaker. The team works closely with the Wayne County sheriff's department and the state police in handling calls for assistance.

Expressions of encouragement were also given to the group by Lt. Henry Berghoff of the Plymouth Police Department, and by Sgt. William Corcoran of the Livonia Police Department.

Anyone who is interested in joining the REACT team should call John Hermann at 427-3351, or write to Plymouth Area REACT, 842 Hartsough, Plymouth, 48170.

The group would like to increase its membership in order to monitor weekdays as well as on weekends. Weather and tornado watch assignments for the weather office at Detroit Metropolitan Airport are also carried out by the team.

Canton Chatter

Craftsmen abound in Canton

'Tis the season for arts and crafts fairs. Upon reading the Observer, it looks like the Plymouth-Canton area will have a good number of such fairs and church bazaars. These always provide an excellent selection of homemade items just perfect for Christmas gifts.

Another source of gifts which seem to say "made especially for you" to the receiver, are the several consignment shops in the area. A new shop, Woodling Galleries, has just opened in Canton. It is located on Michigan Ave., east of Lilley. Already it has a wide selection of fine handmade items.

To provide you with a "sampler" of the treats in store for you at the craft fairs and consignments shops, read on. Canton will be well represented. Remember, these are but a few of crafts people in the area.

CYNTHIA AND BOB Betley specialize in "Natural Creations." Their creations include herb and spice wreaths and hand woven baskets.

Cynthia said she has always been interested in herbs, and for years had a small herb garden. Then she saw an herb wreath and decided to make her own. Since then she has joined an herb study group at the Botanical Gardens, and in the past two years, her herb garden has grown considerably. Cynthia now grows, picks and dries almost all of the herbs and spices in her wreaths.

The variety of herbs seems endless and is fascinating. Cynthia and Bob now grow baby's breath, mint, straw flowers, oregano flowers, several varieties of lavender, sage, yarrow, tansy and much more. There are many varieties of artemisia. Cynthia particularly likes to use the old-woman artemisia for the backgrounds of her wreaths.

She said wormwood is good to grow because it deters bugs and moths, and blue salvia is a favorite because it holds up well in wreaths.

INDIAN SHAKERS are interesting plants, but the Betleys buy the ones they use. They refuse to grow them in their back yard garden because, when stirred by the wind or a person walking by, they make a sound identical to a rattle snake.

During the past two years, Cynthia has made the unpleasant discovery that she is allergic to many of the herbs. However, she enjoys making the wreaths so much that she simply keeps a box of tissues handy to combat red, watery eyes and sneezes. A wreath takes from ½ hour to about two hours to complete. Prices start at $5.

The Betleys have hosted two herb walks for the Canton Newcomers. The group walked through the garden and was given a short introduction to herbs and spices and their many uses. After the walk they were treated to herbal teas and butters, homemade, of course. Among those enjoying the walk this year were Eileen Dunn, Judi Thomas, Laura O'Neil, Pat Block, and Mary Lou Stretke.

Weaving baskets has been an enjoyable part of the Betleys lives for about a year and a half. Their interest stemmed from Cynthia's hobby of collecting baskets.

Both Cynthia and Bob make baskets. They use only natural dyes such as black walnuts, tumeric, blueberries, beet juice, onion skins and fresh indigo in any of their colored baskets. After an idea for a basket is born, the actual weaving takes from four to eight hours.

The Betleys will be at several of the craft fairs with herb wreaths, spice potpourris and baskets.

LOOK ALSO for Marge Mogelnicki and Kathy Gold and their festive Christmas chocolates. Flavors include milk chocolate, semi-sweet, white, pink, green and yellow chocolate.

You'll find Santas, snowmen, and Christmas trees to delight the children on your gift list. For the sweet-toothed sports fans these ladies have chocolate bowling ball and pins sets and a chocolate golf bag with clubs.

Their chocolate creations come in many shapes and sizes to tantalize the taste buds, so be on the look out for these ladies.

SHARON DERON will be displaying her tole paintings, and Linda Havens is the one to see for decorated cakes for all occasions. She makes Superman, Holly Hobby, and several holiday designs to name a few.

BARB SCANLON will be at several of the craft fairs with her macrame items. Barb makes hanging tables, plant hangers and wall hangings. She will also be showing some of her dried flower arrangements and wood and glass curio boxes.

IF YOU ARE looking for wood decorating products, look for Molly Pemberton. Molly makes a variety of plaques suitable for the kitchen, bath, family room or children's rooms. Her stepping stools for children are so cute it made me wish my children were still little enough to need one.

Molly works with soft woods such as pine and bass. Her husband, Gary, cuts all the wood for her. She said her love for wood items started about two years ago while they were waiting for their house to be completed. The house took over six months longer than expected, so she took several classes in tole painting and carving to occupy her time until they could move.

What began as making a few pieces for their new home and for friends, now has Molly very busy at area craft shows year round. In addition to her plaques and stepping stools, Molly makes music boxes, clocks, key holders and jewelry holders. Molly will be at the Plymouth Cultural Center Nov. 30-Dec. 2.

SOME SEWING items by Judi Thomas are on display at the Woodling Galleries. Judi makes purses, pillows, children's tote bags and tied quilts and baby quilts.

Judi does custom sewing in addition to making all her own clothes, being the mother of two young children, and being active in several clubs in Canton. And to think that in my house a shirt is "medically retired" when a button falls off.

KEN LALLY will have water color pictures, by his father L.R. Lally, for sale at St. John's Episcopal Church Christmas Fair, Nov. 30th.

Head Librarian, Deborah O'Conner was very pleased to accept the painting, which will soon be on display in the library for all to enjoy.

Black and white reproductions of the Canton Center Barn painting, suitable for matting and framing, will be on sale at the St. John's Christmas Fair. Proceeds will go to the church and to the Cambodian Relief Fund.

With this "sampler" in mind, I'm eager to see more of the local handicrafts. See you at the fairs!

Council fears 'dumping' of retarded residents

Concern that mentally retarded residents of the Plymouth Center for Human Development might be "dumped" in inadequate community care facilities was expressed recently by Jack Bologna, chairman of the center's Citizen's Advisory Council.

Alluding to acts of violence against community residences for the retarded, Bologna, a Plymouth resident, said that the council was also worried about community acceptance of these individuals.

The council, which was created in 1978 after published reports of abuse of center residents, is made up of representatives of the educational, business, religious and social service sectors of the community. Also serving on it are parents and relatives of developmentally disabled citizens and residents of the facility itself.

The issues resurfaced as council members reacted to orders by U.S. District Judge Charles Joiner that the center reduce its population to 100 residents by 1983.

"The general sentiment of the council is that while it supports community placement as the most humane mode of care for the developmentally disabled, communities have not been properly prepared nor educated to accept that concept," Bologna said.

"The electronic media has been strangely silent about promoting or even informing the public about the benefits to residents of community placement vs. institutionalized care.

"Some hackles were raised with the shooting of windows and the arson of a proposed facility in a suburban commmunity, and with the refusal of planning and zoning authorities in other communities to approve sites.

"But these stories were covered as straight factual news events. Rarely did they result in editorial support for the idea of community placement."

ANOTHER COUNCIL concern is the fact that specialized medical, dental and social service for the developmentally disabled are "non-existent or not readily available in many communities."

The council also questioned the dedication of some of those who might be looking after Plymouth residents in community establishments.

According to Bologna, the council fears that the commitment of some owners of these facilities to the needs of the severely retarded and handicapped might be "dictated more by economic than humanitarian considerations."

In his statement Bologna said the council "has seen a number of improvements at the Plymouth center." These he listed as better logging and investigation of abuse and neglect cases, as well as greatly improved staff. He said the staff-to-resident ratio is at or very near the court mandated number.

The service delivery system has been upgraded, he said. This includes case management, treatment and rehabilitation planning and evaluation systems. The professional staff has been enhanced in both numbers and areas of expertise.

However, Bologna said that there is still much to be done at the Plymouth Center for Human Development.

"Improvements have not reached optimum levels," he said, "and the staff must be encouraged and affirmed to continue its efforts at upgrading all delivery and support systems.

"Abuse and neglect cases must be monitored closely to insure that residents' rights are completely protected."

Autistic children week

The Michigan Society for Autistic Children and the Governor of Michigan have joined state and local affiliates of the National Society for Autistic Children in urging the public to observe Dec. 2-8 as Autistic Children's week.

The Michigan Society hopes that attention to this week will result in calls and letters to the society offices in Ann Arbor to learn more about the disability called autism and the children called autistic.

The disability, which was unidentified until a few decades ago, is still one of the least known. It is often confused with mental retardation or emotional illness.

The children are still among the most misunderstood. It is not uncommon for them to be confused with children who have an unusual ability to draw and paint, because "autistic" sounds so much like "artistic."

But autism is neither a talent nor a form of mental retardation or emotional illness. It is a unique development disability that strikes about five children out of every 10,000.

Children do not develop it. They fail to develop because of it. And they are thus unable to perceive and participate in a world the rest of us take for granted.

The Michigan Society for Autistic Children hopes that citizens of Michigan will regard Autistic Children's Week as a special opportunity to learn more about the children who are "growing up autistic," and the organization that is trying to help.

Its phone number is 973-9004. The address is Suite 18, 2002 Hogback Road, Ann Arbor 48104. The society will welcome and respond to all inquiries.

St. Mary sets enrollment record

St. Mary's Preparatory School hit an all-time high of 240 students this fall.

For the first time since the Orchard Lake Schools (OLS) were founded in 1885, St. Mary has a waiting list, said Tim Domke OLS director of admissions.

The high school's chief purpose is preparing young men for college. More than 90 percent of the prep graduates go on to higher edeucaton. More than half continue into postgraduate studies.

Chamber finds home

At last the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce has found a home it can call its own.

When the deal now being negotiated is completed, the Chamber will assume ownership of the old Bennett home at the corner of Main and Union streets.

At present the building is owned by Scott and Sue Dodge, former Plymouth residents. Dodge is a former member of the Plymouth City Commission who owned Port to Port travel bureau in the building the Chamber will occupy.

Dodge now is a vice president of a title insurance company in California.

According to the terms now being discussed the tenants will be allowed to live out their leases and the Chamber will occupy the rooms on the first floor and the entire interior may be modernized.

Geneva Musicale Sunday at 7:30

The Vuillaume String Quartet will perform at the Geneva Musicale at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2. There is no admission charge to the intimate little concerts sponsored by Geneva United Presbyterian Church, Sheldon Road just north of Ford Road in Canton Township.

The Sunday musicales have gained the reputation of presenting exceptional musicians in an informal setting with time for chatting and refreshments.

The Vuillaume Group was formed a year ago under the direction of University of Michigan Professor Eugene Bossart. The quartet has performed a variety of chamber music peices including combinations with piano, voice and wind instruments. The young musicians also have an interest in new music and recently premiered "Music of a Wedding" for string quartet and voice by composer Jim Johnson.

As principal players and quartet in residence with the Ann Arbor Chamber Orchestra Society, the quartet has performed Public and private concerts and radio concerts throughout the Midwest.

Members of the quartet are Magdalen Heilbronn, violinist; Jill DeOn Rowley, violinist; Margaret K. Lang, violist; and Douglass McNames, cellist. McNames is principal cellist with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

The Sunday evening program will open with Mozart's String Quartet No. 15 in D followed by Molto Adagio by Barber. After intermission the group will play Beethoven's String Quartet, Opus 18.

Each member of the quartet has been featured as soloist with leading orchestras throughout the Midwest. McNames has given recitals in Boston, Chicago and Denver.

Art works, cheeses, wines star at Rotary art auction

Plymouth Rotary Club is sponsoring an art exhibition and auction as a fundraiser for the Kidney Foundation of Michigan.

The event will be in the Plymouth Cultural Center Sunday, Dec. 9 with the exhibition beginning at 5 p.m. and the auction at 7. The date was selected with holiday shoppers in mind as the framed works of art are suggested as excellent gifts for Christmas giving.

Exclusive editions of original graphics, oils and water colors by world-famous artists will be available. These will include works by Rockwell, Dali, Picasso, Miro, Chagall and others. A piece of fine art will be given as a prize.

Admission to the auction and exhibition is $2.50. All checks for art purchased should be made payable to the Kidney Foundation of Michigan. The money will be used for the Kidney Drug Bank and patient services.

All art is unconditionally guaranteed and tickets are available at the door.

VICTORY AT Saratoga

or HOW EVERYONE wanted to back A WINNER.

Nobody figured on America to lead the field.
But when we won the Battle of Saratoga, things started to look a lot better.
People started taking this bunch of revolutionaries seriously. Badly needed funds came pouring in. And then, with the people's support, America and her army won.
Today, America's still a winner. Thanks to millions of Americans who buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Non-group health plan offered

Health Alliance Plan of Michigan (HAP), the state's largest health maintenance organization, is launching a major compaign to enroll individuals and families who do not have access to group health insurance coverage.

This special non-group enrollment option will be offered through Dec. 31, 1979.

"We are actively marketing our individual, non-group program to ensure that persons who are without health care coverage, or who have other types of direct payment coverage, can take advantage of our comprehensive benefits and services," said HAP President James Walworth in announcing the special enrollment period.

"We want to make our benefit programs available to as many people in the metropolitan Detroit area as possible so that they can have a choice in their health care coverage," Walworth added.

HEALTH ALLIANCE PLAN currently has 1,364 individual, or non-group, contract holders, representing 2,674 members. Total HAP enrollment is over 80,000, most of it the result of group enrollment with some 600 organizations in the Detroit area.

Monthly premiums for HAP's individual health care program are $59.33 for one person; $100.75 for two persons; and $104.95 for a family of three or more. Also available, for $18.21 per person per month, is a young adult rider to cover individuals between the ages of 19 and 25.

For their monthly premium, HAP subscribers receive a total health care package with minimum out-of-pocket expense. For example, such outpatient services as physical check-ups, eye examinations, pediatric exams, maternity care, mental health care and substance abuse care cost HAP members only $4 per visit.

Inpatient hospital services — including semi-private room and board, use of operating rooms, anesthesia, medication, X-rays, lab exams and general nursing care — are available to HAP members at no charge.

Ambulance service and visiting nurse home care are also provided at no cost to members. Emergency services are available at five HAP facilities 24 hours a day, and members are covered for emergency services at non-HAP facilities as well.

HAP CURRENTLY OFFERS outpatient services at two health centers operated by Henry Ford Hospital in Dearborn and West Bloomfield and at five health centers operated by Metropolitan Hospital in Detroit, Dearborn, Westland and Allen Park.

Inpatient care is provided at Henry Ford Hospital and Metropolitan Hospital both in Detroit, and at Metropolitan Hospital West in Westland.

According to HAP President Walworth, the health maintenance organization is planning to expand its availability in metropolitan Detroit with new outpatient facilities in the Warren-Sterling Heights area of Macomb County and the Plymouth-Canton area of western Wayne County.

Health maintenance organizations like HAP emphasize preventive, outpatient care and generally are able to provide services at lower costs through lower utilization of expensive hospital care.

Schmidt-Voytas

Catherine Mary Voytas and Michael John Schmidt exchanged marriage vows Oct. 13 in University Lutheran Chapel, Ann Arbor. Pastor John Miller officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Voytas of Manchester are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Schmidt of Roosevelt Street, Plymouth.

The bride wore a white chiffon gown with a high-collared lace yoke, a draped skirt and long sleeves edged in a lace ruffle. Her wide-brimmed picture hat was caught in back with a long net veil. She carried white chrysanthemums, stephanotis and miniature yellow carnations.

She was attended by her sisters, Carol, Christine and Connie Voytas. Their Qiana gowns were in shades of salmon and rust. They carried bouquets of chrysanthemums in autumn shades of rust, copper and gold.

Christine Voytas, a sister, sange the wedding music.

Paul Voytas, the bride's brother, and David Schmidt and Daniel Schmidt, the bridegroom's brothers, were groomsmen.

A wedding reception was in Baurenstube restaurant, Manchester. The couple will live in Ann Arbor.

The bride is a graduate of Michigan State University and her husband graduated from the University of Detroit.

new voices

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Bartel of Plymouth announce the birth of their son, Adam Paul, Oct. 17 in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor. The Bartels have a daughter, Becky.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William Bartel of Livonia and Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Schubach of Plymouth.

Woman's Club to meet Dec. 7

Members of the Plymouth Woman's Club will take along scarves and mittens to their Dec. 7 meeting in St. John's Episcopal Church. The women are not predicting below-zero temperatures for their Christmas meeting. The mittens and scarves are for the annual mitten tree sponsored by the club.

When the tree is set up in the Detroit Edison office, Main at Ann Arbor Trail, residents add their donations to its branches. The result is dozens of warm mittens, gloves and scarves which are distributed to the needy at Christmas time.

Margaret Voss will chair the Dec. 7 meeting. Guest speaker will be Hazel Gibson who will discuss gift suggestions and tell of her experiences in choosing and running a small book store.

Mrs. Harry Roebuck is chairing the committee for the day. Working with her will be Mrs. Robert Barbour, Mrs. J. Craig Bowlby, Mrs. Robert Gerlach, Edna I. Keith, Mrs. Robert Kenyon, Mrs. James Latture: Mrs. Walter Sumner and Mrs. Joseph Whitwer.

Mrs. Zach Holmes and Mrs. Edward Sulkowski will welcome members and guests.

This is THE BIG weekend for bazaars

This is the big weekend for local bazaars and craft shows.

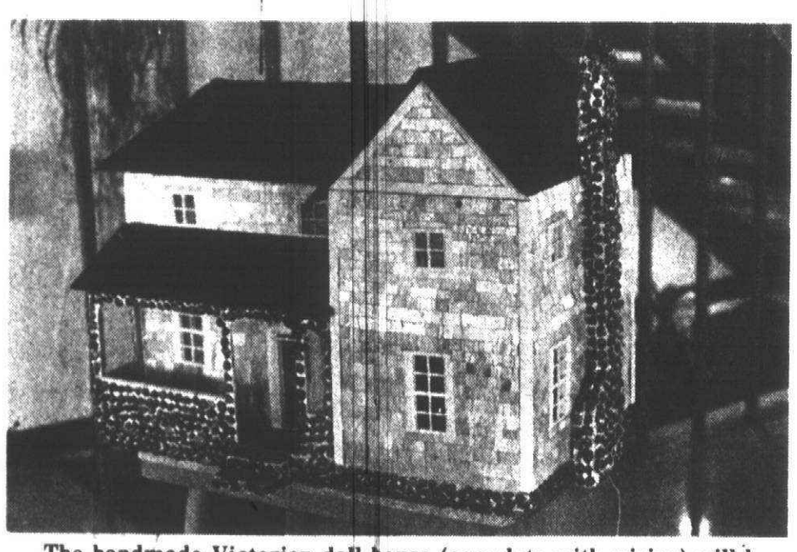
The sixth annual Christmas Arts and Crafts Show at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street, Plymouth opens at 11 a.m. Friday for a three-day run. There will be more than 70 exhibitors. Admission and parking are free.

St. John's Episcopal Church will have its annual Christmas bazaar from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Friday. The specialty here is beautifully made candy houses. A handmade quilt and a Victorian doll house will be given away. Admission and parking are free. Lunch will be served.

Canton Craft Fair will open at 10 a.m. Saturday in the cafetorium of Plymouth Canton High School. A large variety of crafts, gifts and bake goods will be on sale. The fair is sponsored by the Canton Jaycettes. There is free admission and parking at the school on Canton Center Road, just south of Joy.

The Apple Run branch of the Woman's National Home and Garden Association will have a greens sale at the Canton Fair. They also will have an array of home-baked goodies.

Fiegel Elementary School's annual Christmas bazaar will open at 9 a.m. Saturday. The school is on Joy Road, east of the expressway.



The handmade Victorian doll house (complete with wiring) will be given away at St. John's Episcopal Church bazaar.

ST. JOHN'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Nov. 30 — Annual Christmas bazaar in the church on Sheldon Road south of Ann Arbor Trail opens at 9:30 a.m. and runs to 3:30 p.m. Lunch will be served. Admission and parking are free. A Victorian doll house and quilt will be given away as prizes.

Home baked goods, crafts, handmade Christmas decorations and again, those candy houses.

PLYMOUTH CULTURAL CENTER

Nov. 30-Dec. 2 — Hours for the sixth annual crafts show featuring 100 tables of handmade items will be 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. Free parking and admission.

CANTON CRAFT FAIR

Dec. 1 — Sponsored by the Canton Township Jaycettes, the fair will open at 10 a.m. in the cafeteria of Plymouth Canton High School, Canton Center Road, south of Joy Road.

Crafts, Christmas gifts, baked goods and fresh holiday greenery will be on sale until 3 p.m. Admission and parking are free.

FIEGEL AZAAR

Dec. 1 — Fiegel Elementary School is sponsoring the annual Christmas bazaar and crafts sale in the school on Joy Road, east of the expressway from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

GREENS MART AND DECORATIONS

Dec. 7 — The Plymouth Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association will have a greens mart from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Westchester Square, 550 Forest Ave., Plymouth. They will have balsam wreaths in two sizes, 20-foot sections of cedar garland, bundles assortments of evergreens, boxwood, and sprays of berried English holly as well as handmade decorations.

USED TOY SALE

Dec. 8 — First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth will have its third annual used toy sale 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 8 in the church, Church Street at Main.

The sale is sponsored by the board of deacons with proceeds going to needy children. Admission and parking are free.

CHRISTMAS BAKE SALE

Dec. 15, 16 — The women of St. John Neuman Catholic Church, Warren Road, west of Sheldon in Canton Township, will have a sale of homemade breads, Christmas cookies, pies, cakes, rolls and fruit cakes. Hours will be noon to 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 15 and 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 16. The sale will be in the church.

Lucille Grassmyer and Madeline Threadgold of the Apple Run Garden Club prepare fresh greens for their booth at Saturday's Canton Jaycette Fair in Plymouth Canton High School.

Asian families helped by Livonia churches in resettlement here

By MARGARET MILLER

Families from Indo-China are finding new lives in this area through the efforts of several Livonia churches.

Holy Trinity Lutheran Church has sponsored and established the Vietnamese family headed by Sam To Ha. A family related to Sam soon will be brought to this area by Timothy Lutheran Church. St. Edith Catholic parish is lending its efforts on behalf of a Cambodian couple, Youn Pin and Ngoun Ing.

The leadership in relocating people who wish to leave troubled Indo-China is coming from denominational groups such as the Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Service of the Lutheran Council in the United States, based in New York.

Church groups such as this service are working with Congress in a major resettlement effort that has involved some 200,000 refugees since 1975.

FOR THE CONGREGATION of Holy Trinity, that statistic comes alive in the happy faces of Sam, his wife La Phung and their children, Sam Gia Man and Sam Gia Kien.

That quartet arrived in the Detroit area in October after the congregation had been waiting since spring. The family is established in a house in northwest Detroit. Ha has a job and the children both are in school.

A committee of about a dozen Holy Trinity members, headed by Wes and Nancy Kleven, worked with the Rev. James Spilos to arrange the family's place here.

Harry Cebula first broached the idea after reading about the needs of refugee families. From there in it was a matter of arranging and waiting.

"We set up our committee in February and placed an application with the Lutheran immigration service," Nancy Kleven said.

"We had expected to wait a long time, but learned in about two weeks that the Sam family had been approved for coming here."

However, the waiting came then. There would be a delay, the church was told, because Kiem, one of the Sam children, was retarded and needed special school arrangements.

"WE WEREN'T discouraged," Pastor Spilos said. "We figured that just meant harder work."

Eventually, along with arranging housing and furniture and employment for the refugee family, the church committee worked with the Wayne County Center for the Mentally Impaired to set up schooling.

"And," Sam To Ha took up the tale. "we learned on Oct. 8 that we were free to go."

The family had been living in Saigon and decided in 1975 that they wanted to leave.

Last year their application to emmigrate was approved and they were transferred to Tangoh Island in Malaysa to await relocation. There they passed the physical examinations and found they had a sponsoring family, only to learn of the delay because of the school situation.

They arrived in this country by way of Hong Kong, Tokyo, Seattle and Chicago before readhing the Detroit airport.

Church committee members, on hand to greet them, had arranged for interpreters, but learned to their delight that Ha speaks fine English, the result of some evening school study in Saigon.

His facility with English had been a big asset as the family has made quick adjustment.

Also coming into the picture have been major efforts by the Holy Trinity Committee, incuding Nancy and Craig Averill, Marilyn and Jim Dudley, Ron and Carol Fellers, LaVerne and Les Kurg, Phyllis Mangiaracina, Katherine Wendt, John and Shirley Westveer, Nancy Brimhall and John Peterson.

"IN THIS PROJECT," said Pastor Spilos, "we've become sensitive to the great complexity of life here.

"We take for granted the fabric of our society, but with these people we have learned what a difficult system we have. I've seen in Ha a real determination to establish a new life, and that for me has been a great inspiration."

Poverty focus of workshop

The Center for Pastoral Studies on the Orchard Lake Schools campus, plans a Nov. 27 workshop on "Money, Power and the Spirit: Christian Poverty in a Post Affluent World."

It will be held 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., in the Dombrowski Field house. A fee of $10 covers the workshop and materials.

The director of the workshop, Rev. Peter Dougherty, is an original member of the Abrahamic Community, East Lansing, a hospitality house for those in need. He has been extensively involved in peace education and non-violent, directed action for social change.

He will examine the spiritual and social dimensions of poverty in the context of its social and political ramifications. He also will explore how poverty means resisting the systemic violence needed to maintain affluence.

The campus of the Orchard Lake Schools is located at Commerce and Orchard Lake Roads.

church bulletin

ST.MATTHEW UNITED METHODIST CHURCH on Six Mile east of Merriman, Livonia, will have its annual Advent celebration from 6-8:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2. Highlights will be a potluck candlelight dinner, a children's program, tree decorating and caroling. Those wishing to join the festivities may call the church at 422-6038.

REDFORD BAPTIST CHURCH, Grand River at Seven Mile, will show the film "The Hiding Place" at 6 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2. It tells the true story of Corrie ten Boom, a prisoner in a Nazi concentration camp during World War II. Her family hid Jews in a secret room of the house and then helped them escape.

MAIN STREET BAPTIST CHURCH, 9451 S. Main, Plymouth, will hold a youth revival Nov. 30 to Dec. 2. It will take place at 7:30 p.m. each evening. There will be special music. Interpreters for the deaf will be at each service. A nursery is provided.

ST. PAUL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Five Mile and Inkster, Livonia, will start on Dec 2 a Sunday morning series of old-fashioned carol singing between the two services. On the same day a senior potluck party is planned. It will take place after the 11 a.m. worship service. Cheryl Whyatt, an American Field Service exchange student last year, will present slides of her trip to Japan.

The church's Boar's Head Festival will be at 5 and 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 8. Ticket information is available in the church office. Call 422-1470.

GRAND RIVER BAPTIST CHURCH, 34500 Six Mile, Livonia, has labeled Dec. 2 as Indian Christmas Sunday. The congregation will bring a tube of toothpaste and other toilet articles to send to Indian children in Oklahoma for Christmas. Two children's choirs will sing, along with the Chancel Choir.

A color, feature film, "Green Jade," will be presented at 6 p.m. It traces the culture of Chinese people in Southeast Asia. Admission is free. A nursery is available.

PLYMOUTH CHURCH OF GOD, 585 N. Mill, will serve chicken and meatloaf dinners from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 8. Home delivery is offered. Fried chicken dinner is $3, meatloaf is $3 and children's dinners are $2. For information call Kim Biggs at 455-6986.

ST. DUNSTAN CHURCH, 1646 Belton, Garden City, is inviting people who are alone, single persons or families to its Christmas Day dinner at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 25. There is no charge for the dinner because everything is donated. Reservations are necessary. Call Mary Shurge at 425-3282.

EPIPHANY LUTHERAN CHURCH of Plymouth sent several of its members to the 18th Michigan Synodical Unit Lutheran Church Women's Convention in Adrian, Mich. Eileen Miller attended as a delegate. Others on hand were Suzanne Sadlocha, Doreen Siegner and Rose Schroeder, all of Plymouth.

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH will present Handel's "Messiah" in sermon and song during the Advent services. One of the Christmas portions of the "Messiah" will be presented each Sunday of Advent. Dr. Bartlett Hess, pastor, will base his messages on the appropriate portions of Scripture. The Chancel Choir under Dr. Jerry Smith will sing.

Worship services are at 8:30, 10 and 11:30 a.m. Christmas eve services will be at 5, 7 and 11 p.m.

The 150-voice Teen Choir will sing Christmas music at 7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2. The new Teen Ensemble under the direction of Gordon Bleich will offer a medley of Christmas carols.

3 Cities exhibit at Vault Gallery

Members of the Three Cities Art Club were invited to do the first show in the Vault Gallery Room.

The Gallery is in Al Larson's new Penniman Avenue Frameworks in a building that started out before the turn of the century as a bank.

Larson and his crew have been working for weeks, converting the building from a delicatessen — its most recent function — to an extension of the original Frameworks in the Forest Place Mall. The Vault Gallery was not included in the first renovation plans which called for removal of the partitions.

But closer examination of the solid, foot-thick walls was responsible for reconsideration. The room had started out as a bank vault and nothing less than a few sticks of dynamite would budge those walls.

THE IDEA of a small intimate gallery was born and the Three Cities artists hung their works last week. They will be on display from now until Dec. 22 for the benefit of Christmas shoppers.

Some of the works are framed and others are matted for framing. Customers can choose their own frames at Frameworks and either make the frames themselves or have them made in the shop.

Among the artists who have works in the gallery are John Davison, president of Three Cities Art Club, Margaret Barnes, Dorothy Koliba, Betty and Robert Manthey, Okema Lee, Joyce Frederick, Doreen Lawton, Jean Bologna, Audrey Paul, Jeff Neil who does the scratch paintings, Roland Spelich who does the Indian pictures in water colors and pastels, Lorene Vives and Joseph Michrina.

Larson plans to have a series of one-man shows and other exhibits in the vault gallery after the first of the year.

Joseph Michrina and Jean Bologna discussed the hanging of the Three Cities Art Club paintings.

Center offers job workshops

The YWCA Westland Women's Employment Center is offering two pre-employment workshops. Both workshops are free and will be conducted by specialists in women's employment.

Workshop I will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 6. Beatrice Scalise, workshop coordinator, will be helping participants identify employment skills and preferences and explore individual options.

Workshop II will help you get the job you choose. Workshop coordinator Wendy Weigarden will review interview techniques and give pointers on resume writing from 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday, Dec. 17.

Kathy Shefferly, director of the Women's Employment Center, emphasized that the workshops are offered as a unit.

"We believe that women who attend both workshops will benefit from a well rounded presentation of pre-employment considerations and preparations," she said.

Advance registration is necessary. Call the center at 561-4110 to register for these workshops before Dec. 4. A bag lunch should be brought, beverage will be provided.

They will wed

A meeting over a pinochle table in a senior citizens center in Scotsdale, Ariz. will culminate Saturday in a wedding between 77-year-old Pauline Petrie of Livonia and 82-year-old Bert Brown of Scotsdale. Mrs. Petrie, who is one of three remaining charter members of the Livonia Senior Citizens Club, announced the impending event to her family last Thanksgiving. Here she displays the gown she will wear in a ceremony in St. Paul Lutheran Church. The bride and bridegroom will live in Scotsdale. (Staff photo by Art Emanuele).

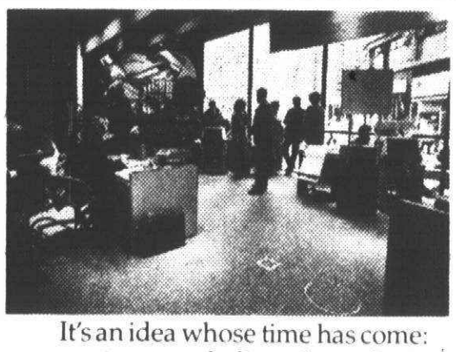
NOW OPEN IN SOUTHFIELD!

Digital introduces the Small Business Computer Store.



It's an idea whose time has come: a computer store dedicated to solving the problems of small businesses. A place to browse, look, read, touch, and try a real computer—at your own pace.

Digital's Computer Store is backed by the world's largest manufacturer of minicomputers—Digital Equipment Corporation. The company that pioneered in the development of small, inexpensive, easy-to-use computers. The company with the largest and best trained small computer service organization in the country.

Complete systems from just $250 a month.

While you're browsing, try Digital's WD78 small business computer. No math or programming skills are necessary. It can handle your accounting or word processing, or both. And the WD78 is priced, complete with printer, from about $250 a month.

You can use Digital's WD78 for word processing—for preparing, storing and retrieving contracts, wills, proposals, boilerplate, advertising letters, personalized solicitations, acknowledgements. You can also pay your bills, keep track of who owes you money, manage your inventory, generate reports and much more.

It's a combination no other system in our price range can match.

Digital's computers have keyboards just like typewriters—with a few things added.

Type your name and watch it appear on the video screen. If the screen asks a question, answer it. Digital salespeople are there to help you get comfortable with what many believe is the single most important business tool ever invented—now at prices almost any business can afford.

Computer Discovery Classes.

Digital's Computer Store offers a mini-course of two 90-minute classes for business people and professionals thinking about their first computers. It's non-technical. Practical. And provides lots of hands-on experience.

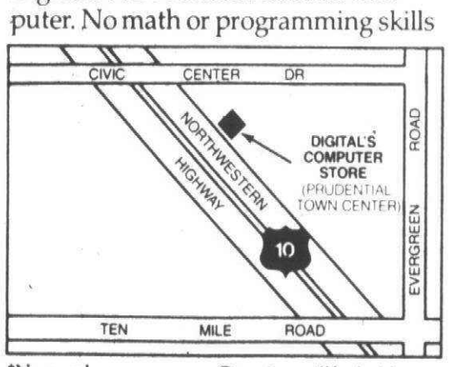
Win a computer in our Grand Opening Giveaway.

To celebrate our new store, we're giving away a complete Digital small business computer system worth $11,800.

To register, stop in at our store on or before December 26, and fill out the entry form.*

Digital's Computer Store. With computers, books, supplies, accessories. It's a whole new way to look at small business computers.

Digital's Computer Store 4000 Town Center Southfield. (313) 352-4780. Mon.-Fri., 9 to 6.



*No purchase necessary. Drawing will be held on December 27. Winners need not be present. Digital employees, their advertising agencies, and families are not eligible. Minors not eligible. Offer void where prohibited by law. One entry per person.

Ladies knocked out by lecture

Mary Kay Davis

Lecturing is not always the ego trip that it's cracked up to be. I travel around, speaking on America's decorative arts and textiles, and my audiences are always delightful but not always the same. Let me tell you about one group of ladies.

I was hired to give my quilt lecture to an organization of senior citizens who lived a short plane trip away. The slide show was to be held at the home of a member, and would follow a luncheon to which I was cordially invited.

Half an hour early, I arrived — full of pep, flashlights slides, projector, extra bulbs and everything I could think of to stem emergencies far from home. Most of the ladies had already arrived and a sherry hour was in full swing.

After my equipment was set up, I joined the cocktail hour which seemed to go on for quite a while. I'm used to yogurt at high noon and all of this seemed quite epicurean — but the ladies were delightful, the hostess was a dear, and I didn't have to exit for three hours.

Luncheon was served — finally. The tables were beautiful and the food, delicious. Creamed something, wine, stuffed whatever, wine, and all of it followed by something equally luscious.

Nobody seemed to be in any hurry. I began to wonder if I'd be able to catch my plane. Finally, the group got to its feed and languidly strolled toward a large and comfortable family room. When the ladies finally settled down, the lights went off and I charged forward.

All went well for the first two minutes until I told a joke. There was total silence. Now, this is not an hysterical joke, but never before had it failed to raise a giggle. I peered through the murk at the audience. It was a sight to behold.

Forty-three elderly ladies were settled down in deeply padded chairs with their mouths open and their eyes shut. Every one of them must have gone to sleep the minute the lights went out. The hostess, standing in the back, was trying not to giggle hysterically. She seemed to be the only member of my audience who was still with me.

The situation needed examining so I stopped talking. Eighty-six eyes popped open. I started speaking again. Every eye slid shut. I could have put Sominex out of business.

But they paid for my time so I kept on going. I lectured for 55 minutes that day, to the gentle accompaniment of ladylike snores.

Finally it was all over. I thanked the assembled multitude and turned the lights on. Forty-three dear ladies stood up, approached to shake my hand and complimented me on a marvelous presentation. But I found the adjective that most of them used intriguing.

It's the first time I've every been called "refreshing."

Women can build skills

A workshop on "Skill Building for Women Workers: Negotiating Contracts that Meet Our Needs" will be held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 1 in the west conference room of the University of Michigan Rackham Building, Ann Arbor.

Eula Booker, vice president of United Auto Workers Local 630, and Carol Haddad, an instructor in the Labor Program Service of Michigan State University, will lead the workshop. Mock negotiating teams will hammer out collective bargaining issues with managers. The sessions are designed for organized and unorganized working women.

The workshop is sponsored by the Program on Women and Work at the U-M, a unit of the U-M-Wayne State University Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations. For more information and registration materials, contact the program at 764-0492.

Here's chance to learn to make sweets

Cake Craft will be offering Christmas demonstrations for making candy and desserts for the holiday season.

These are two-hour demonstrations where participants will learn to make candy and desserts. These sweets can easily be made ahead of time for Christmas.

Participants at the Christmas candy demonstration will learn to make an assortment of candy confections like cherry cordials, cream and carmel centers, mints, turtles, peanut butter cups and more. These demonstrations will be from 10 a.m. to noon and 7-9 p.m. Monday, Dec. 3; Tuesday, Dec. 4 and Wednesday, Dec. 5.

This demonstration will be held from 10 a.m. to noon and 7-9 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday, Dec. 10-12.

Cake Craft is at 33535 Seven Mile Road, Livonia, 476-3060.

Gallimore song makes debut

Gallimore is a place for children,
It's the place to be,
Where we learn to read and write
And everyone cares about me.
Gallimore, oh Gallimore,
Where we walk hand in hand.
Gallimore, oh Gallimore,
The best school in the land.

Pilgrims, Indians and turkeys joined in singing this song at the conclusion of a holiday program at Gallimore School.

The song was written for the school by Jan Hawkins, assistant principal, with nusic by Norma Jean Fos-er, vocal music director.

The holiday program, resented Tuesday evening or parents, marked the irst public performance of he song. It was also the irst of four musical pro-grams to be presented at he school this year.

Track 'A' students in the extended school year program were the performers.

The Thanksgiving-Christmas program came complete with costumes, thanks to the cooperation of the art teacher, Shirley Rowe, and the school Art Club.

Mrs. Foster was the music arranger and director.

Eighteen of Anne Wood's second and third grade class took part in the Gallimore program. This section of "Little Indians" had a good time thumping on their drums.

THE PROGRAM opened with two songs by the kindergarten and first grade students.

Appearing in "The Turkeys Runaway" were Chris Baker, Harvey Barker, James Cirrocchi, Chris Collins, Sandra Hale, Doug Huntington, Jennifer Kopacz, Kenny Rose, Karen Kowalski, Jacqueline Smith, Thomas Cox, Melissa Solberg, Andrea Vasquez, Eva Wilson, Jeffrey Zarosley and Rhonda Guse. Paul Wisniewski took the role of the farmer.

Another kindergarten first-grade group was featured in "Ten Little Indians."

These included Wendy Atwood, Wendy Hobbs, Carolyn Munzenberger, Brady Musson, Daniel Orme, John Schultz, Lori Snyder, Craig Rice, David Tomaszewski and Jimmy Emerson.

First and second graders performed "Over the River and Through the Woods."

Jamie Solberg, Danny Calma, Jean VanSickle, Jenny Ebeling were the bells; and Turik Cooper, Alka Ram, Jennifer Justice and Tammy Hobbs were sticks. Ray Casey was a horse, and Garrett Biesiadecki, David Groff and James Tomaszewski were the sleigh people.

Marcy Bowerman, Eric Bronk, Brian Schmidt, Marc Hobbs, Michael Miller, Lori Sonberger, Lisa Guse and Michael Dodson appeared in "They Are Big Fat Turkeys."

Kim Richardson narrated a Canadian folk song, "Land of the Silver Birch."

Cast members included Chuck Moore as Chief Strong Heart; and Gordie Andrews, Alysia Barker, Brant Baughan, Scott Biesiadecki, Jinkee Calma, Amberley Ferrell, Tara Grover, Scott Hale, Christine Kesselring, Carol Kowalski, Kari Laderach, Eddie Lovelady, Chris Meigel, Shelli Pintore, Chad Sarrach, Wendy Schultz, Jennifer Snyder and Tina Smith, all as native Americans.

A VARIETY of skits and songs were presented by third, fourth and fifth graders. Ron Lauzon and Jennifer Saul were narrators, and Amy Armstrong was a soloist.

Other participants included Scott Richardson as Mr. Turkey; Tim Miller as Swiftfoot; Lara Bowerman as Red Cloud; Nicky Renzi as Running Brook; Janna Schultz as Pale Moon; Matt Miller as Chief Massasoit; David Collins as Governor Bradford; Don Kennedy, Lisa Portelli, Jeff Musson and Shannon Fairchild, as Pilgrims; and Julie Cernak, Earl Atwood and Staci Orthner, as sickle workers.

A Native Americans' and Pilgrims' Chorus included David Sollars, Jim Crenshaw, Jenneth Calma, Kimberly Steffani, Frederick Calma, Kelly Woods, Jennifer Clark, Kristen Kokoszka, Kimmy Hersch, Matt Hobbs, Stephanie Orme, Sherry Guse, Lynn Ciarrocchi, and Sherri Pintore.

Con men prepare their Christmas lists, too

Because Christmas is a time of giving, a lot of people are now busily preparing holiday gift lists.

Con men also are preparing some special holiday lists because for them Christmas is a time for taking.

With the advent of the Christmas season, flim flam artists will be attempting to convince people they are Santa's helpers in disguise to pull off some yule time con games.

Unlike the Grinch who stole Christmas, however, the aim of the con man is not only to remove the joy from your heart but also the jingle from your pocket.

Following is a list of schemes and con games persons should be aware of during the holiday season. The information is provided as a public service by the Detroitbank Corporation.

FURS FOR EAGER BEAVERS

Each year, according to the Federal Trade Commission, more than $50 million is swindled out of the hides of Americans who fall prey to get-rich-quick schemes involving raising chinchillas or investing in fur farms.

Others fall victim to these rip-offs because of sheer gullibility.

For the person who has overspent his Christmas budget, or is interested in a do-it-yourself holiday project, raising chinchillas at home may seem like the perfect way to make some fast, easy money.

But here's what happens: A salesman may knock at your door or you may read an advertisement which talks glowingly of the wonderful future in raising chinchillas at home.

What the salesman or advertisement may not explain is that while chinchillas may be sturdy animals in their native South America, their death rate is quite high when bred in damp basements, unheated garages or in hot attics.

Quite simply, these much-prized rodents have difficulty surviving temperatures which are in the 80s or below freezing. They sometimes eat their own expensive fur, and sometimes kill the males.

Also, consider these points: some cities ban the raising of chinchillas; female chinchillas average two offspring per year; average prices paid for pelts are about $15 — claims that pelts bring $80-$100 are based on isolated sales.

Remember, before you decide on presenting your spouse or close friend with a do-it-yourself chinchilla coat for Christmas or arrange to raise chinchillas to pay off holiday debts, get all the facts.

If after careful consideration you still decide there is money to be made from raising chinchillas, before you buy a pair for breeding, learn to distinguish the male of the species from the female.

Otherwise you could get swindled the same way others have when they fall for the glib spiel of a fast-talking con artist who convinced them they could make a fortune at raising chinchillas and then sold them two of the same sex.

GEM OF AN IDEA

"A gem of an idea" is a rip-off which can turn into "a jewel of an experience" for the unwary shopper who is offered a "hot" diamond ring or bracelet for sale at bargain prices.

With the skill of a veteran stage actor, the con artist often goes through a complex routine to convince the mark that he is talking to an actual thief with hot merchandise he wants to unload quickly.

Unfortunately for those who succumb to this "academy-award" performance, the last act takes place in the pigeon's home when he discovers that this "hot" buy actually is a "cool" piece of worthless glass.

AN EVENING THAT SMELLS

The fragrance of this great deal is quickly forgotten after the mark gets a real whiff of the rip-off which has just been pulled on him.

This "sting" normally takes place at factory gates or in shopping center parking lots or malls.

The victims in this brief drama are usually men who have been convinced by the con man that they are buying expensive, well-known perfumes for wives or sweethearts at prices far below retail rates.

After giving the mark a whiff from an actual bottle of expensive perfume to convince the victim he is buying the real thing, he sells him a bottle whose label is a carefully misspelled version of the actual product.

Sometimes the label may have only the first alphabetical letter of the name of the well-known perfume on it.

Using either ruse, the victim becomes convinced the bottle is the real stuff.

The purchaser, if he is very lucky, exchanges his money for an imitation or watered-down bottle of the original.

THE $13.95 GOOSE

One of the most frequent capers carried out at this time of year is the unsolicited COD package.

A delivery van pulls up in front of your home and a uniformed driver comes to your door carrying a package addressed to your next door neighbor.

The "official-looking" delivery man reports your neighbor is not at home and "would you mind accepting the package?"

If you refuse, the driver explains, your neighbor will be forced to go to the post office and wait in long lines to pick up the package.

Furthermore, the deliveryman explains, the package contains a perishable item.

Spoilage of the item and the long lines can be avoided, he explains, if you will merely give him the $13.95 required for the COD. The altruistic persons agrees.

Upon delivering the package, though, you find a puzzled neighbor who indicates that no package Was expected. After ripping open the package, you both discover what appears to be the remains of a cooked goose.

The lesson to be learned is don't receipt for any packages, either your's or your neighbor's, unless you know the contents in advance.

FREE LANCE FLOOR WALKER

If you work in an office, be extremely cautious about strangers in your building — especially those who are selling wares such as Christmas cookies, pen and pencil sets, or pots and pans.

While many of these free lance sales people are legitimate, there also are some unscrupulous individuals who use the sale of such products as a ruse to gain entry to an office.

Once inside, they pilfer wallets, purses and other personal items from desks.

Never leave an office unattended. Lock the door, even if you are going to be absent a short time.

UPON A CHRISTMAS NIGHT

Mail order firms which advertise Christmas products some times do not have the capability of filling all those orders.

These companies may not have sufficient inventory to fill the demands placed upon them or they may not have the ability to process, with a short amount of time, the thousands of orders they receive.

The companies may not even exist.

There are literally hundreds of crooked individuals who place advertisements at Christmas time for products or services which do not exist.

The unwary person who sends away for the item or service is simply mailing money to a post office box number operated by a con artist.

Before mailing your request, check with the Better Business Bureau or call the Wayne County Consumer Protection Division to obtain assurance of the legitimacy of the offer and the reputation of the firm.

SANTAS IN OTHER CLOTHING

During the Christmas season, hundreds of worthwhile charitable organizations solicit our hard-eaned money.

Many of them send unsolicited small gifts through the mail with a request for a small donation.

Legally, you can keep the item without obligation. It is a gift to you.

Don't feel compelled to send money just because your dog chewed up the so-called hand-painted tie.

There have even been instances where con men have dressed up like Santa Claus and stood on street corners ringing a bell and soliciting monies from passing individuals.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

For sheer ingenuity, this caper has no equal.

Your wallet or your wife's purse containing her wallet is stolen while you are dining in a restaurant.

You attempt to place the responsibility on the owner of the restaurant. However, he refers to a sign which states in bold letters "Not responsible for stolen property."

Once you arrive home, however, you receive a call from someone purporting to be the restauranteur who now apologizes for his rudeness and states that your wallet was found in a trash can.

In Southfield

Pianist with Oakway Sunday

FLAVIO VARANI

Pianist Flavio Varani will perform Beethoven's Concerto No. V, "Emperor" with the Oakway Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Francesco Di Blasi, at 4 p.m. Sunday at Southfield Lathrup High School.

Varani made his debut at Carnegie Hall and has appeared with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the Brooklyn Academy Orchestra, the Newport Music Festival and the Meadow Brook Symphony.

Recognized at the age of 8 in his native Brazil as the "Discovery of the Year," his recognition as a performer parallels his chronological growth. At 14 he won a scholarship to study in France wtih Magda Tagliaferro, and at 18 he won first prize in the International Chopin Competition in Spain. Varani is currently Artist-in-Residence at Oakland University.

Rounding out the program will be selections from Copland's "An Outdoor Overture" and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade" with concertmaster Victoria Haltom as violin soloist.

Tickets are available at the door — general admission $5, student and senior citizen $2. Tickets may also be purchased at Hudson's Northland, Westland and Oakland Mall stores, Madonna College, and Hammel Music.

Reunion

The prodigal son returns home for an unusual reunion with his bizarre Illinois farm family in the Attic Theater production of Sam Shepard's "Buried Child." The drama runs through Saturday in the theater in Detroit's Greektown. For ticket information, call 963-7789. This scene shows Bill Clyne (left), Ron Martell and Margaret Heinze.

Radio comedians seen on television

The great days of radio comedy are relived with George Burns, Jack Benny and others as part of Channel 56's Winter Pledge Drive on "The Great Radio Comedians," at 10 p.m. Monday. It will be rebroadcast at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 8.

This bit of nostalgia, originally shown in 1972, features some of the best of radio's comedy shows and performers. It's a montage of the voices, faces and routines that made people like Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Gracie Allen and George Burns and the gang from Allen's Alley famous.

During part of the two-hour show, characters from Allen's Alley — Senator Claghorn (Kenny Delmar), Titus Moody (Parker Fennelly), Mrs. Nussbaum (Minerva Pious) and Ajax Cassidy (Peter Donald) — recreate some of their humor.

The 16-day Winter Pledge Drive, running through Dec. 11, aims to raise $300,000 for Channel 56.

'Christmas Carol' in Manchester

Charles Dickens' classic holiday tale of Ebenezer Scrooge and the meaning of Christmas — "A Christmas Carol" — will be presented weekends through December in turn-of-the-century surroundings at the Black Sheep Repertory Theater in Manchester.

The Dickens characters, including the ghosts of Christmas past, will fill the stage of the 1867 opera house. Children in the play are all from the Manchester area.

The show will play at 8:15 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, and 4 p.m. Sundays starting this weekend. For ticket information, call 428-9287.

Manchester is located southwest of Ann Arbor.

Ursula in Novi

The Brookside Jazz Ensemble with vocalist Ursula Walker (left) perform at 8 p.m. Saturday for the second concert in the Sixth Gate Fine Arts Series. The concert will be in Novi High School's Fuerst Auditorium, at Ten Mile and Taft Road. Tickets are $5 ($3 for students and senior citizens), available at the door starting at 7 p.m. Brookside has performed at the summer P'Jazz series in Detroit as well as throughout Michigan.

Santa's on strings

The Bob Brown Marionettes from Washington, D.C., will give free performances of Santa's Holiday Revue today and tomorrow in the centeal court of Westland Mall. Shows will be at 2, 4 and 7:30 p.m. today, and 11 a.m., 12:30, 2:30 and 4 p.m. Friday. The show includes skating stuffed toys and a dancing clown. The group frequently performs at the Detroit Institute of Arts Youtheatre.

At the Institute

Ensemble performing at Youtheatre

"Whales and Other Tales," a collection of whimsical stories and vignettes, will be performed by the six professional members of Michigan's Other Things & Co., for Detroit Youtheatre's "Something Every Saturday" audiences this weekend.

Two performances are planned, at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium. Tickets may be purchased in advance through the museum ticket office (832-2730), or at the door.

Music, mime and movement will be combined by the ensemble to illustrate the tales in a contemporary style.

"Whales and other Tales" is designed for families with young people 5 years of age and older. Children younger than 12 must be accompanied by an adult; those younger than 5 will not be admitted.

In addition to Youtheatre's professional performances, free, guided backstage tours are offered for young people 10 years of age. Youtheatre birthday party packages can be purchased in advance.

For details and a complete schedule of all "Something Every Saturday" performances, call the ticket office.

Rembrandt, Oz and 'Hair' in film series

Five films will be offered by Detroit Film Theatre at the Detroit Institute of Arts in December, including a new movie from Poland, the classic "Wizard of Oz," and a double-feature of both versions of "The Invasion of The Body Snatchers."

Tickets for all Detroit Film Theatre weekend movies are on sale at the art institute ticket office and, on an availability basis, at the door. All showings are in the museum's 1,200-seat auditorium theater.

December's line-up includes:

• Saturday, Dec. 1; 7 and 9:30 p.m. — "Rembrandt" (England, 1936 — Alexander Korda, director) Charles Laughton and wife Elsa Lanchester star, with a rare film appearance by Gertrude Lawrence, in this biography of one of the world's greatest painters.

• Friday, Dec. 7; 7 and 9:30 p.m. — "A Woman's Decision" (Poland, 1977 — Krzysztof Zanussi, director) called "one of the year's 10 best" by critic Andrew Sarris — is this study of brink of middle-life crisis, acknowledged as this director's triumph.

• Saturday, Dec. 8; 7 and 9:30 p.m. — "The Wizard of Oz" (U.S.A., 1939 — Victor Fleming, Director) Judy Garland, Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley and Frank Morgan set the scene for Margaret Hamilton's immortal "Wicked Witch of the West" portrayal in Technicolor.

• Friday, Dec. 14; 7 and 9:30 p.m. — "Hair (U.S.A. 1979 — Milos Forman, director) Called "something of a miracle" by the New York Times is this film version of the Broadway play. Opening Night Selection of the 1979 Cannes Film Festival.

• Saturday, Dec. 15; 8 p.m. only — "Invasion of the Body Snatchers" (U.S.A. 1956/1978) Double Feature.

Haas to explain Beethoven on Wednesday

"The Private Beethoven" will be the subject of Karl Haas' lecture concert at 8 p.m. Dec. 5 in the Detroit Institute of Arts lecture hall.

Tickets at $5 each may be purchased in advance at the Art Institute ticket office (832-2730), and at the door if available.

Haas will perform pertinent musical illustrations of his lecture at the piano.

Beginning in March and continuing once a month in April and May, Haas will offer a new lecture and concert series, "The Viennese Classics," featuring the music of Haydn, Mozart and Schubert. Tickets for the three-part series are available at $12. Individual tickets at $5 each will go on sale in February.

Vereen on stage

Ben Vereen, acclaimed for his role as Chicken George in "Roots," opens Tuesday for a six-day song and dance stint at the Music Hall. Shows are at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday-Friday, 7 and 10 p.m. Saturday, and 4 and 8 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $6.50 to $14.50, available at the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison in Detroit, or by calling 963-7680.

Deer collisions are still common in Wayne County

By LEM MESEE
Outdoors writer

What happens to deer when a new freeway opens? Just ask Jackie Parks.

Ms. Parks bagged the first deer of her life on the first day of hunting season when an eight-point buck ran into her car at 9:30 p.m. on M-14, the new stretch of highway between Plymouth and Ann Arbor.

"All of a sudden it sprung before my eyes," she said. The buck struck the front of the car — causing a $1,000 repair bill — and made it to the side of the road before dropping dead.

A trucker from Denver stopped to help, slit the animal's throat and called police on his CB set.

"I didn't want the damn thing," said Ms. Parks later. "I don't even like venison."

Don Boyer, a district law supervisor for the state Department of Natural Resources in Pontiac, says deer-car collisions are nothing unusual, even in Wayne County.

"There are deer," he says. "Motorists should beware, especially in the early evenings."

Freeways are common spots for deer collisions, he says, only because of the higher volume of traffic on them. Similar collisions have been reported on I-96 and I-75, which have both been around a bit longer than M-14.

In spite of periodic "deer crossing" signs, Boyer reminds drivers that a deer can decide to cross the road anywhere it feels like.

"Deer don't read the signs," he says.

tips from the Air Force Survival School

You are preparing for a hunting trip. The weather has been snowing intermittently with the temperature in the mid 20s. The forecast is for continued snow and low temperatures.

In order to prepare for your outing that is to last five days, selection of the proper clothing is critical.

WOULD YOU . . .

A. Select cotton jeans, sweatshirts and leather boots as your primary garments?

B. Select a combination of cottons and polyesters?

C. Select wool garments?

D. Select a combinaton of garments? The type of clothing is not as important as the quantity.

TO SURVIVE . . .

Survival experts agree that alternative C, wool clothing, is the best type of wear in cold environments. Wool is non-absorbing fabric with the unique property of keeping the body warm even when it is wet.

Alternatives A and B offer cotton or cotton and polyester combinations. These are satisfactory in warm climates, but are not suitable in cold environments because they absorb and retain water, making them deadly combinations. Additionally, cotton is slow in drying out because of its total absorbtion of moisture.

To the outdoor enthusiast who must depend on his clothing for warmth, the choice of what type of clothing to wear is critical.

A JOINT meeting of the East Michigan Environmental Action Council (EMEAC) and Detroit Sierra Club will begin at 8 p.m. today in the Northwest Unitarian Church, 23925 Northwestern (between Nine and 10 Mile), Southfield.

State Sen. Doug Ross, D-Oak Park, will discuss his bill to place a moratorium on nuclear power plant construction.

State Rep. George Cushingberry, D-Detroit, first black chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, will discuss insurance redlining, urban sprawl and preservation of agricultural lands.

The meeting is open to the public, and there is no admission charge, according to spokesman John Sobetzer of EMEAC.

EACH YEAR anglers who want to take trout or salmon must purchase a trout stamp to paste on their fishing licenses.

The state Department of Natural Resources is sponsoring a contest to design the 1981 trout stamp, and it's open to Michigan residents age 18 or older.

For rules and entry information, write: DNR Fisheries Division, Box 30028, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

Entries must be original works, not duplicates or photographs. A number of area artists have been winners in DNR's duck stamp competition, so I wouldn't be surprised if we have a trout stamp winner, too.

NO STATISTICS are available yet, but hunters are sighting plenty of deer around Holly. St. Clair County hunters, too, report many sightings.

Successful deer hunters are asked by DNR to bring their kills to state check stations for information collection purposes. Those who cooperate will receive a "successful hunter" patch. The closest station locally is at 1811 N. Williams Lake Road, Pontiac.

"WHAT HAPPENS to Insects in Winter" is the subject of a two-hour program at 10 a.m. Sunday in the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford.

Naturalist Dave Moilanen will point out the signs of summer activity left by insects and explain how they make it through the winter.

Advance registration is required by calling the nature center at 685-1561.

Jazz queen in concert

Ella Fitzgerald, known as the "queen of jazz" and "first lady of scat," will perform at 8 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 9 in Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor. Ms. Fitzgerald has been singing since 1935, and has produced a crop of albums. Tickets for the Eclipse Jazz presentation are available at the Michigan Union box office in Ann Arbor, Sam's Jams in Ferndale, and Wherehouse Records in Ypsilanti. For more information, call Eclipse Jazz at 763-5924.

56 Auction help needed

Auction go-getters are needed now by Channel 56 for the public television station's annual fund-raising event. The 1980 auction is scheduled to run March 21-29.

Go-getters are volunteers who are assigned to visit merchants in their communities and ask for donations of auctionable items. Channel 56 asks that the merchandise be brand-new and worth $50 or more.

Volunteers will be able to attend a special go-getter kick-off event and will receive a kitful of materials to make them offical auction volunteers.

Also, volunteers are able to participate in the auction itself by helping out with behind-the-scenes activities at the auction. Early volunteers get the pick of the best positions.

WITH THE HELP of last year's crew, the auction raised a record $676,000 during the nine-day auction.

To be a go-getter volunteer, call Channel 56 Auction Central at 873-7200.

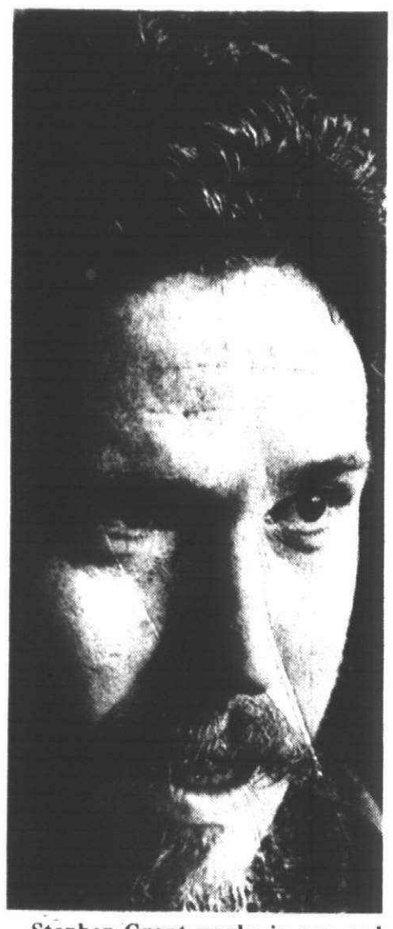
He thinks big... but works small



Stephen Grant works in pen and ink, doing animated fantasy, realism and surrealism.

By DIANE ABRAMS

When Steve Grant of Southfield decided to move on to bigger things, his artistic endeavors became smaller.

The contemplative artist uses pen and ink to create miniature drawings and images. With technical drafting pens and special equipment, Grant produces abstract pieces that probe the minds of his viewers.

"A lot of people try to attach specific meaning to my work, but most of it is done without any particular message in mind," said Grant. "I don't want to portray simple messages, what I strive to do is emit certain feelings and emotional responses."

The tiny colored drawings are frequently divided into separate squares containing individual illustrations or designs. As many as 16 squares, or as few as three, are filled with precisely shaped, mechanical elements.

"I use single square units to compose a larger picture," said Grant. "Each square is independent to a degree, but they must also be inter-dependent."

MANY OF THE images Grant has created are repeated throughout his work; tiny circles that appear as luminous bubbles can be found in several pieces. An unfolding bud, that can also be interpreted as a sealshell, also appears in more than a few of the drawings.

"My work is always evolving. I'm continually expanding upon the individual elements," said Grant. "I think I cover the spectrum of my medium. I frequently go back and re-do things."

Grant also incorporates biological aspects of his work. An expressive eye appears in one square, isolated from diminutive abstract figures found in another unit.

The backgrounds of these unusual pieces are predominantly black. Darkness adds a new dimension to the work, giving the drawings depth.

The surrealistic world Grant creates brings thoughts of Salvador Dali to mind. However, unlike the art of Dali, Grant's pieces contain a gentle quality that encompass an aura of animated fantasy.

"There's a best size to every aspect of this medium," said Grant. "Since I implement a lot of solid black areas, I think that if things became too much bigger they would lose their cuteness and become too powerful for what I want to convey."

However, Grant is aware that his work is subject to varying interpretations.

"The surrealistic element is not as attractive to most people as other motifs," he said. "It (surrealism) makes them think and most peole don't want to think."

If people are conditioned to expect certain aesthetic qualities from art, then it's the fault of critics who refuse to acknowledge new styles and innovations, according to Grant.

Doing small paintings may be as time consuming as large ones. Grant often spends 10 days or more on each one of these.

Playing in Livonia

'How to Succeed' is a great success

Bright! Happy! Fun! That's how to describe "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying," being performed by the Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford.

In conjunction with the Livonia Arts Commission, the Guild has brought us a fine cast for this Pulitzer-Prize winning spoof on big business, nepotism and rising to the top by your bootstraps.

The play revolves around the meteoric rise of an ambitious window washer who, armed only with his how-to book, an ear-to-ear smile and cajoling wit, rises to the penthouse.

All done with the greatest of ease, David Turrentine as J. Peirpont Finch (our hero) dazzles us with his Ultra-Bright smile and wildly confident manner.

Turrentine is no less than excellent. His overpowering energy drives the show forward, just as he drives his foil and arch-enemy Bud Frump, played so well by Dave Tucker, crazy with envy.

While not the best singer in the cast, David sells each song with a full and robust character. His boyish good looks and excellent sense of timing enlivens the show with a fine, funny sense of frivolity.

Bud Frump, who just happens to be the nephew of J.B. Biggley (played masterfully by Howard Egan), also just happens to be the president of World Wide Wickets, the setting for this corporate intrigue.

THERE IS, of course, a girl, Rosemary (played by a very beautiful Sandi Martin), who on first sight falls for our boy Finch.

Finch, not wanting to delay his destiny, avoids fair Rosemary, at least for a while, and goes to work in the mail room.

One week later, frustrated, Finch finds himself still a mail clerk. But undaunted and with a little help from his book about the "Company Way," Finch wangles a promotion to junior executive. Now on his way, it is short work to becoming a vice president.

Stopping only long enough to engage Rosemary as the future Mrs. Finch, Ponty resumes his flight upward to his ultimate goal, chairman of the board to World Wide Wickets.

Dave Tucker and Julienne Milazzo play Bud Frump and Hedy LaRue in the Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford production of "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," which ends this weekend.

While his progression may seem quick, it is a path strewn with obstacles and booby traps, mostly laid by our felon, Frump.

Not the least of which is Finch's rendezvous with Hedy LaRue, 39-22-37. Ms. LaRue, who is J.B.'s personal, uh, friend?, having had too much to drink at an office party, decides to take a shower in J.B.'s private office.

Bud tells an innocent Finch that the big boss wants to see him right away in that same office. Thinking that he is about to get yet another promotion, Finch rushes off. Bud, bubbling with dastardly glee, races to his uncle's side and suggests to him the bawdy deeds being done up in J.B.'s office, with J.B.'s girlfriend.

Not to worry, good old Rosemary carries the day and Bud's plan is foiled.

IF ALL THIS sounds confusing, it won't when you see this fine production. Community theater is seldom as good as this.

Director Jim Posante and choreographer Chris ZeVan have given this cast all the right moves. Neatly trimmed and tailored to the strengths of their cast, all the musical numbers are right off Broadway.

In particular, "Coffee Break," "Secretary is not a Toy" and "Brotherhood of Man" are first class stage numbers. On opening night, the audience simply loved them.

Aside from the normal first-night snafus, Posante has paced the show with a quick fortissimo. It never dragged and was a pleasure to watch.

However, the show does not fair so well in technical execution. Problems with lighting cues, scene changes and a set that is too small for the size of cast detract from the overall effect. The set seems to wobble underneath the actors.

Aside from that, as so often happens in theater, it is not the star who steals the show. Rather, it is the supporting actor, who with limited exposure, redefines and amplifies the richness of the performance.

THREE SUCH ROLES deserve such recognition.

Review

Howard Egan as J.B. Biggley and Julienne Milazzo as Hedy are cast with sure-handed bravado. Both have secured the comic sense so as to make you laugh, before they even speak.

Having seen both the film and New York stage version, I suggest that Egan is as good as either.

Only a disappointing lack of strength in their singing voices keep Dave Tucker (Frump) and Sandi Martin (Rosemary) from fulfilling their otherwise outstanding performances.

The entire cast deserves to be applauded. While tucked away in the chorus, many fine actors and actresses perform with unrestrained enthusiasm. In all aspects, this group performs with above-average talent.

In particular, the washer women, while only on for a one scene, are just a stitch and deserve to be recognized.

"How to Succeed In Business Without Really Trying" will continue to run at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the auditorium of Stevenson High School, 33500 Six Mile in Livonia.

Theater competition has bucks

A musical playwriting competition that offers one of the biggest grants available to young playwrights, lyricists and composers is under way at the University of Michigan.

Applicants are being sought nationwide for the David B. Marshall Award in Musical Theatre, said Jean Galan, general manager of the University's Professional Theatre Program.

Up to $2,000 is promised by the competition, with possible production at the University and consideration for professional production of winning plays.

Deadline for submission of scripts is Jan. 31, 1980. Winners will be announced in June. Only original, full-length scripts will be considered. No reader's fee is charged.

The award, now in its third year, is named for U-M alumnus David B. Marshall and established by a gift from the Contempo Communications Foundation for the Arts, Inc.

For further information, including application forms, write Marshall Award, PTP Office, U-M, Michigan League Building, 227 S. Ingalls, Ann Arbor 48109, or telephone (313) 763-5213.

Holiday show at Meadow Brook

The dance and show ensemble The Meadow Brook Estate will present its annual family Christmas concert Friday-Sunday, Dec. 7-9, in Varner Recital Hall on the campus of Oakland University near Rochester.

The OU student group will sing a special medley of tunes from the Muppet movie, traditional Christmas songs and pop tunes, and the Young Pioneers, a new jazz group at the university, will perform along with a guest artist Jester Hairston, Hollywood actor, musician, and choral director.

Performances will be at 8 p.m. on Dec. 7-8 with a single show at 3 p.m. on Dec. 9. A specially priced ticket will admit the entire family to the Christmas show if an order is placed before Nov. 30.

Guest artist Jester Hairston has a list of performing credits that date back to a regular spot on the old Amos n' Andy radio show and a role in "Bold Venture" with Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall.

He has written the choral music for the movie "Green Pastures" and "Lost Horizons" and his recent acting credits include roles in "Lady Sings the Blues," "The Last Tycoon," "The Bingo Long Traveling All Stars," and "Motor Kings."

THE MEADOW BROOK Estate has performed throughout the Detroit area, in New York City and Chicago, and will soon travel to Mexico. The students are receiving a traditional education and being trained for careers as professional entertainers with the aid of funds supplied by the Michigan Legislature.

For information on the family ticket or individual ticket prices, call 377-2000.

Symphony next week

'Sleeping Beauty' in Oak Park

The Oak Park Symphony Orchestra will present its holiday concert Sunday, Dec. 9, at 3:30 p.m. at Oak Park High School.

The orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Morris Hochberg, will perform with the Contemporary Civic Ballet Company under the leadership of Rosemarie Floyd.

The program will be all-Tchaikovsky, with "Serenade for Strings" followed by the Overture, "Fantasia" and "Romeo and Juliet."

The orchestra will accompany the ballet in a peformance of the last act of "Sleeping Beauty" with guest dancer James Dunn of New York.

Both the symphony and Hochberg have been cited for their outstanding performances. Hochberg heads the string and chamber music departments at Wayne State University Music School. He is also the conductor of the St. Clair Shores Symphony Orchestra.

Ms. Floyd and the Contemporary Civic Ballet Company, located in Royal Oak, are in their 24th year. The company has been invited to perform many times with symphony orchestras in the area.

MEMBERS OF Floyd's company have performed in London, England, at the Golden Lane Theater. Their leader taught summer sessions in England for an International Teachers Conference and holds a Fellow-Membership with the Imperial Society of London.

For ticket information call 542-4666.

'Nutcracker' on stage in Farmington

The Michigan Ballet Theatre, a performing company member of the Mid-States Regional Ballet Association, will give its 12th annual performance of "The Nutcracker Ballet" during the pre-Christmas season.

Curtain time is at 1 and 3 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 1, and at 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2 in Our Lady of Mercy High School, on 11 Mile and Middlebelt roads, in Farmington.

The ballet theatre's performance of the children's classic is a comprehensive full Nutcracker production with extensive scenery and costumes. It has been a mainstay of the theatre's repertoire since it was first performed by the company in 1968.

It is choreographed by artistic director Evelyn Kreason, and based on a story by E. T. A. Hoffman.

When a real child visits the Kingdom of Sweets, accompanied by the toy-soldier nutcracker and meets the Sugar Plum Fairy and her friends, the audience is left to wonder, did it really happen? Was it only a dream?

Set to music by Peter Tchaikovsky, the scene is Christmas Eve when Councilman Silberhaus and his wife are giving a party for their children and their friends.

IN THE MIDST of the festivities Herr Drosselmeyer arrives, who frightens the children. But Clara is drawn to him, to see the strange gift he has brought for her — a nutcracker made in the form of a toy soldier.

Later, Clara tiptoes back to the living room to have another look at her odd gift. The Christmas tree begins to grow to a gigantic size and the Nutcracker and the toy soldiers come to life.

They engage in battle with the Mouse King and his army, but it is Clara who saves the Nutcracker, who then become a handsome prince.

Clara's reward is a visit to the Kingdom of Sweets where she is lavishly entertained at the ballet's finale.

Advance tickets are $4 for adults, or $2 for students and seniors, available through Farmington Community Center, 474-8404. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Room for Design

by Gloria Cohen

Advance planning is always the key

From an accumulation of letters in the mailbag, I will begin to answer some of the most frequently asked decorating questions.

Q: I don't know where to begin on the decoration of my new apartment. What comes first — the carpet, the walls, the sofa? What's the first step?

A: The first step is a think session. Get clearly in mind your viewpoint on how you will dine, entertain, work, relax. Then determine the furnishings you must have.

Before you buy, make a floor plan drawn to scale. Try some furniture arrangements with cutout furniture shapes, also drawn to scale. This shows you how to utilize space.

Analyze your tastes in design and color. What do you really want to live with? Try experimental color schemes with paint samples, wallpaper, fabric swatches.

Make several trips to several good furniture stores where you can see model rooms showing the styles, colors and pieces of furniture available. Examine texture, sizes, shapes, woods, and determine the period of furniture you prefer to live with.

Remember that large areas like walls and floors, will dominate. Often your color scheme will come right straight from a sample wallpaper you like, or a fabric for sofa or chairs. You can pull your room together from that sample.

In practical execution, walls come first, floors next, and placement of large furniture pieces third.

Q: Can you suggest the best kind of furnishing for a family that must move a lot?

A: Concentrate on underscaled, nonbulky furniture. Keep pieces stackable, foldable, multi-purposed and as lightweight as possible. Try storage-wall systems that you can arrange in varying combinations or knock-down furniture that can be packed flat and reassembled.

Frequent moves are hard on furniture, so get the best quality with resistant finishes. Area rugs are always useable. Wallhangings are easier to cope with than large framed paintings.

The easiest to take along each time you move are accessories. They make each new home homier.

When the sizes of your new rooms will be changed, the view different, the architecture unlike the home you had before, the accessories are the robe and slippers of the new environment.

Q: Do you have any word of advice on the planning of a nursery?

A: Yes — Don't think of it as a nursery. Regard and furnish it as a room for a growing child — a room with a future.

Except for the best crib you can buy, (because it might be used again and again), furnish the room with young adult-type furniture. Keep comfort, storage and hard knocks in mind.

The infant of today will be the teenager of tomorrow. Unless you can really afford to re-furnish your child's room from nursery to kindergarten, then to adolescent and again teenager and perhaps beyond that to college-age adult, you'd better buy certain pieces now for a long life span.

Q: How do I budget my decorating money? What deserves the lion's share of my nest egg?

A: The basic, long-term must-haves deserve the major part of any decorating budget.

These are bedding; upholstered pieces like sofas and chairs; dining furniture; and storage pieces. Your carpeting should be the best you can buy for the money you can afford to spend.

Crafts show in Ann Arbor

A designer craft showroom, music and various crafts demonstrations are included in this weekend's Christmas Art Fair in Ann Arbor.

Original works by members of the sponsoring University Artists and Craftsmen Guild will be on sale in 166 booths, along with such items as table settings, wall hangings and gifts.

The fair will be held in the University of Michigan Coliseum at Fifth and Hill streets. Hours will be 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission and parking are free.

The designer showroom provides a chance to see how art can fit into a home setting. The room, arranged by interior designer Pat Rubino, will have selections from artists and craftpeople in the fair.

"Crafts add a personal touch . . . add warmth to a room," Ms. Rubino says.

Musical ensembles will perform throughout fair hours. Included are two recorder ensembles from the Ann Arbor Recorder Society, madrigal and carol singers from the Collegium Musicum, two jazz guitarists and the group Footloose.

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS— When your family can enjoy this spacious colonial with so much livability for the price! There's a large living room, formal dining room, cheerful kitchen with built--ins, a family room with cracklin fireplace. 3 acres of park for winter time fun. An excellent value. Land Contract terms.

CHRISTMAS CARD CHARM-New England design in a 1½ story. An area of rolling terrain, wooded lots, strictly custom homes. Northville. A truly gracious home offering 3 large bedrooms, formal dining room, private living room, a kitchen, dinette and family room exuding a warm and welcome atmosphere. Land contract terms available. $159,000.

AN OLD FASHIONED CHRISTMAS that only a centennial two story could provide! Magnificient living room with fireplace. Huge formal dining room. Winding stairway with oak railing. 14 rooms in all! Main floor master bedroom suite with full bath. Completely remodeled and modernized kitchen. There's a TV room, sewing room, den and laundry room all on the first floor! 5 bedrooms up. 3 full baths. Big 2 car garage. 1⅓ acres. A HOLIDAY SPECIAL under $100,000.

HERE COMES SANTA CLAUS—An impeccably maintained Yorktown Quad Level on a quiet court in PLYMOUTH'S Lake Pointe Village. An elegant foyer with winding staircase leads to three bedrooms and a full bath. Main floor provides living room with bay window, formal dining room, sparkling clean kitchen. 4th bedroom plus full bath down. Huge 26 ft. family room with raised hearth fireplace. An excellent purchase opportunity with land contract terms and occupancy by Christmas!

HAVE YOURSELF A MERRY LITTLE CHRISTMAS—and this strong and solidly constructed two story will show you how! A large lot, 174 ft. deep with trees provides an ideal in-town PLYMOUTH location. There are 3 bedrooms, 2½ baths, and a particularly pleasant family room with a "terrific" view. There's a finished basement and an attached garage. Land contract terms will be considered. Low 80's.

YOU'LL BE ROCKIN AROUND THE CHRISTMAS TREE—in this carefree contemporary ranch. 4 bedrooms—master suite 23x19 includes sauna, bath, natural fireplace. Sprawling redwood deck provides privacy and enjoyment for extra large wooded lot and summertime fun in a swimming pool. SPOTLESS. Land Contract terms will be considered.

#1 VOLUME DATSUN DEALER (in our 4 state region '78 & '79) O'HARA DATSUN SAVES #1

ALL NEW 1980 DATSUN 200-SX IS HERE!

200-SX 2-Door Hatchback SL

It's gonna drive you like you've never been driven! Revolutionary new 4-cylinder, fuel-injected engine actually delivers more power from less gas than last year's 200-SX. Dedicated to every driver who'd love to watch the tachometer but has to watch the gas gauge. Combines styling and mileage.

28 EPA EST MPG / 40 EPA EST HWY

Remember: Compare these estimates to the "estimated mpg" of other cars. You may get a different mileage, depending on how fast you drive, weather conditions and trip length. Also remember that your actual highway mileage will probably be less than the EPA estimated highway fuel economy.
