Officials push commitment on farm issue

If preservation of Canton's remaining farmland is to become a reality, it will have to be kept a "hot issue."

So said Robert Padget, chairman of the township Planning Commission, at a joint study session Thursday night with the Board of Trustees.

At issue are some 500 acres of agricultural land in the western half of the township. Canton officials want to purchase the development rights to the acreage in order to prevent the land from being used for other than agricultural purposes.

The controversial proposal led to a ballot question in the last general election asking voters to approve an up-to-four-mill tax levy to pay for the cost of development rights purchase.

That request failed by a narrow margin. An earlier ballot question asking whether voters supported the concept of farmland preservation was passed.

Although the millage proposal failed, both the township board and planning commission have reaffirmed support for farmland preservation.

Members of the planning commission, however, have charged that not enough is being done on a local level to bring the subject back before the voters.

The Planning Commission, which recently approved a master plan revision and accompanying map, is now in the process of revising the zoning ordinance.

Zoning ordinance revisions would actually enforce the provisions of the master plan. The zoning text must also be approved by the Township Board, although the master plan needs only the nod of the Planning Commission.

Padget said the zoning text can't be dealt with adequately until firm goals are set on the farmland preservation issue, since zoning would have to reflect how the affected acreage would be used.

Although the Planning Commission majority supports the preservation concept, Padget listed the following concerns that should be resolved:

• That the actual method of equitable payment for development rights be spelled out in the new zoning text.

• Whether it would be possible to adopt part of the revised zoning ordinance, leaving the zoning on the western side as is until the preservation program is actually implemented.

• Whether adopting a zoning text requiring 40-acre zoning in the western side of Canton could mean that the entire zoning ordinance could be overturned in the court because the preservation program isn't firm.

• Whether the passage of time is having a "terrible impact" on the owhers of western section property — primarily farmers close to retirement — who can't sell their land because its fate is uncertain.

Padget also expressed the Planning Commission's concern that there was not enough going on locally to keep voters favorably disposed toward farmland preservation. He asked that Canton Trustee Robert Greenstein, who is serving as appointed farmland preservation director, come up with a definitive plan for the proposal.

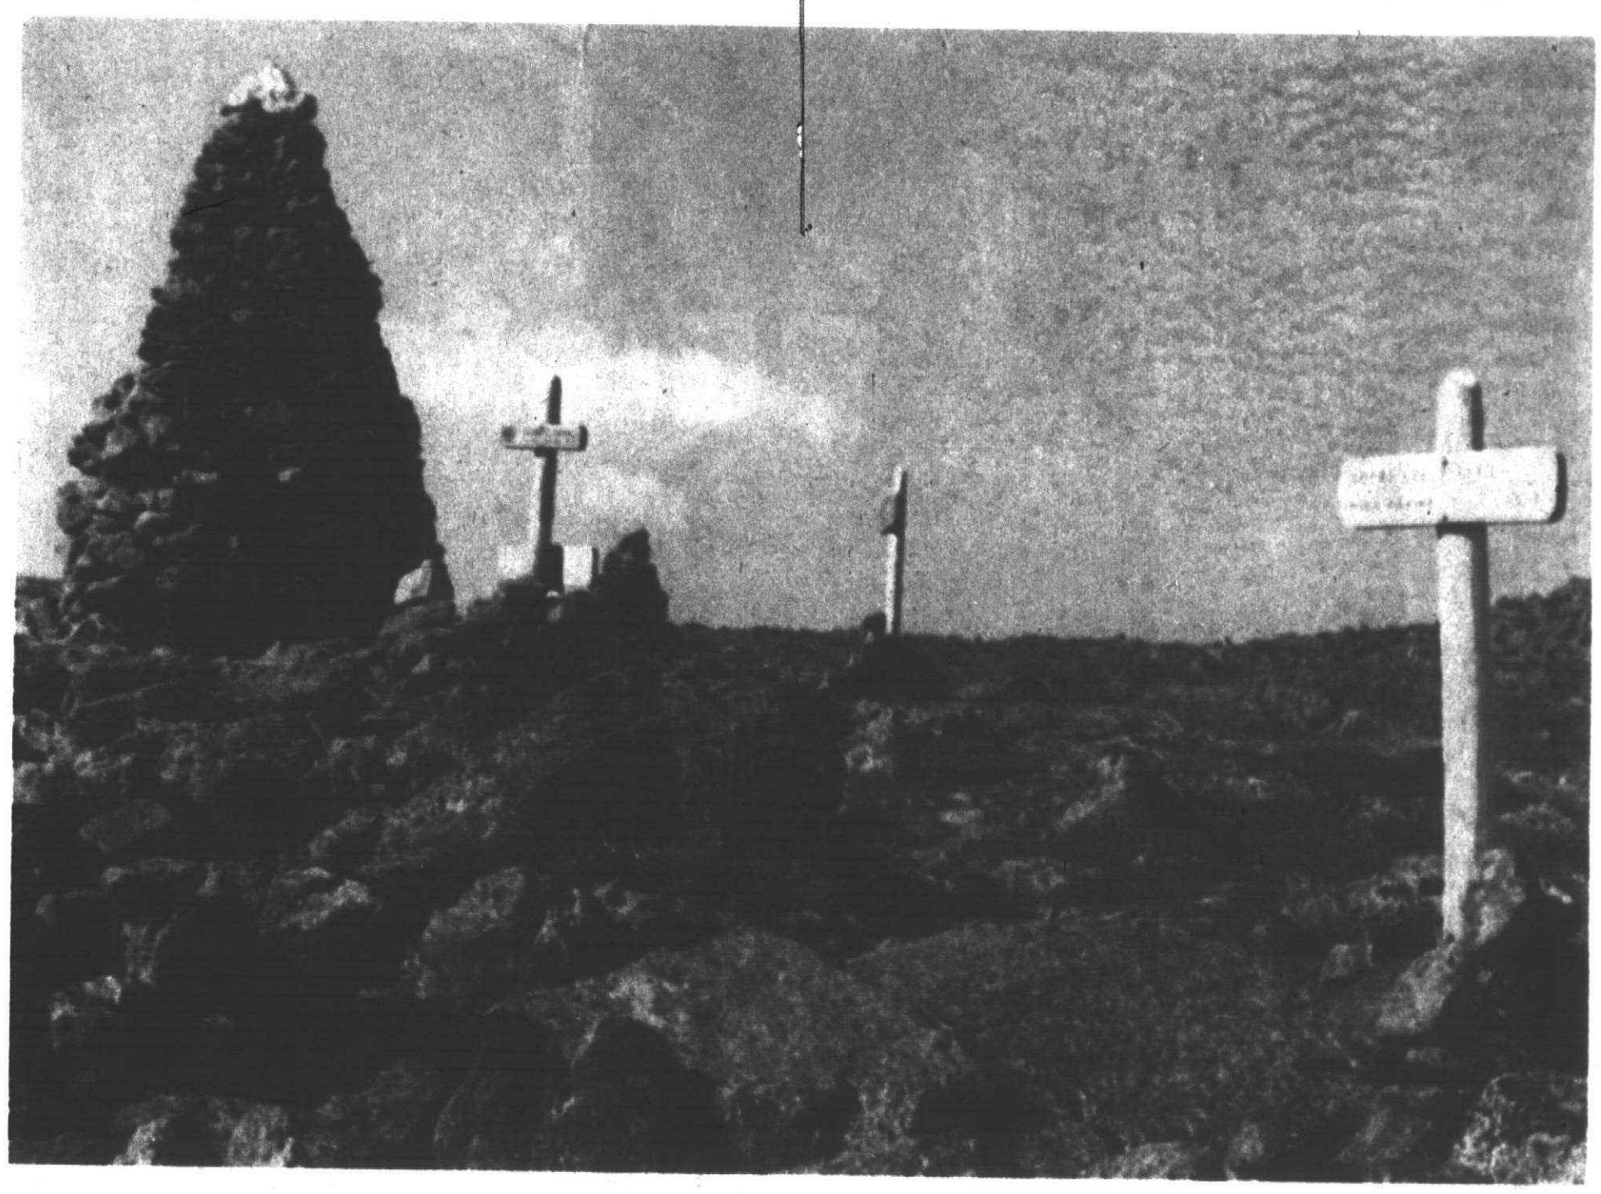

Other concerns stated by the planning commission involved possible millage requests for other programs. They said such requests would be counterproductive to a farmland preservation tax proposal.

Padget said the commission believes a committee should be set up comprised of people from the former land-use committee, farmland preservation education group and citizens' organizations. The committee would direct the farmland preservation director and work under specific goals and deadlines.

Greenstein, who presented the board and commission with a stack of information about farmland preservation on the state and federal level, said he liked the idea of forming a committee.

He objected, however, to making the director subservient to the committee, saying it would be more effective to make the committee responsible to the director.

State approves proposal

Hospital plans extension in Canton

The Michigan Public Health Department has approved plans of Dearborn's Oakwood Hospital to construct a satellite medical care facility at Canton Center and Warren roads.

Although the center will not provide beds for in-hospital care, a spokesman for Oakwood said the facility will provide 24-hour emergency medical treatment.

A maternity care clinic and outpatient facilities for family medical treatment will also be included in the $1.5 million building.

Site plans for the 15,000-square-foot development have not been submitted to the township's planning department yet. But Canton Clerk John Flodin said Oakwood officials approached the township with their proposal a few months ago.

"This may well be a stepping stone for a hospital to locate in Canton someday," Flodin said. "I feel this is an asset to our community."

THE HEALTH CARE facility, proposed for a 15-acre site at the northeast corner of Warren and Canton Center, was recommended for health department approval by the Health Planning Council of Southeast Michigan.

Joann Caccavale, a health planner with the agency, cited the area's population explosion and a shortage of physicians in the Plymouth-Canton communities as major reasons for the recommendation.

She noted that the area's population increased by 254 percent between 1970 and 1978.

"There's a general move toward ambulatory care centers," Ms. Caccavale said. "The shortage of physicians could become even more acute if Canton's population continues to increase at the past rate."

Donald Horky, director of publications for Oakwood Hospital, said a major service of the new center will be pre-natal and post-natal maternity care.

The center will emphasize identification and care of high-risk mothers and infants from the beginning of pregnancy until after birth.

According to Horky, Oakwood Hospital was recently designated a regional center for high-risk infants and mothers by the Michigan Public Health Department. The hospital has broken ground for an infant intensive care unit.

Horky said obstetricians at the proposed Oakwood Ambulatory Care Center in Canton will deliver infants at the hospital's main facility in Dearborn.

Patients in the center's emergency room will be transferred to other facilities if they require surgery or hospitalization, Horky said.

The proposed center will also include offices for pediatrics and other types of medical care, a pharmacy, laboratory and a radiology unit.

Oakwood officials hope to begin construction of the facility this spring. They are hoping to open the center by mid-1981.

ACCORDING TO township Clerk Flodin, developer Mel Stein proposed construction of a hospital just north of the Oakwood site two years ago.

But the project was abandoned after health officials indicated no need for additional hospital beds in the area.

A state health department spokesperson said the Oakwood facility would not increase the region's supply of hospital beds - one reason for its approval.

Flodin expressed hope that Oakwood would expand the ambulatory care center to a hospital if a need for additional hospital beds in the region is ever demonstrated.

State. Futernick reach settlement

An agreement, designed to clear up a stack of mobile home tenant complaints, has been reached between park owner Sheldon Futernick and the Michigan Mobile Home Commission, according to Libby Myers, secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Mobile Homeowners Association.

Ms. Myers said the agreement reached Wednesday at a commission meeting in Lansing still, however, must be finalized.

But she said the document should settle many citizen complaints at the five mobile home parks owned by Futernick.

Two of his parks, Holiday Estates and Royal Holiday, are in Canton Township.

Park residents have leveled numerous complaints against Futernick, including charges that trailers are improperty set up and that a promised clubhouse in Holiday Estates was never built.

ACCORDING TO Ms. Myers, provisions of the consent agreement include:

• a directive to change trailer set-up procedures.

• a directive to begin construction of Holiday Estates' pool and clubhouse by June 1.

• a directive to light the parks.

• a directive to make repairs.

• an agreement of the commission to review park leases and order changes in some non-monetary provisions of the documents.

• a directive to decrease the gaps between rents paid by various park residents.

• a directive to erect street signs in the parks.

• a directive to send park managers to management training sessions.

Ms. Myers said Futernick and the Michigan Mobile Home Commission are expected to sign the document once the final language of the agreement is determined.

At that time, the Michigan Mobile Homeowners Association will send letters explaining the agreement to all

Industrial needs top 1980 goals

More industrial development in Canton would ease the tax burden now resting on the shoulders of township residents.

That's why making an aggressive campaign to convince industry to come to Canton was named as a major goal for the 1980s by members of several township boards and commissions.

The importance of being industrial was stressed Thursday night at a joint study session of the Township Board of Trustees, Planning Commission, Economic Development Corporation and Industrial and Commercial Committee.

Another goal, which goes hand-in-hand with the beefing up of local industry, is the paving of roads.

First on the list, according to Clerk John Flodin, is the paving of Haggerty road from Joy to Warren in order to make the area more attractive to industry.

The township owns property on Haggerty both north and south of Warren. Officials have indicated that they would like to sell the property and "get out of the real estate business."

There is a catch to the plan. Township roads are the responsibility of the Wayne County Road Commission, which is in theory supposed to foot the bill for maintaining and improving them.

But the likelihood of paving the stretch of Haggerty if the commission absorbs the entire cost was expressed by Flodin: "we have two chances — slim and none."

According to Flodin, who was conducting the meeting because Supervisor Noel Culbert had lost his voice, Canton would have to kick in at least a portion of the paving cost because the commission does not have funds available.

Flodin said the paving would cost at least $1 million, with the federal government paying a share. The government share would probably be given to the county for its portion of the bill.

"I'm wondering if the people of Canton aren't willing to make a contribution to the roads. I'm not totally sold on Canton getting in the paving business and I'm not sure it should be a policy, but it is a step to encourage industry," he said.

Short Takes

Cards to Iran

Canton Trustee Steve Larson is urging township residents to send Christmas greetings to the hostages in Iran. He got the idea from a local radio station promotion and verified U.S. State Department sanction of the idea on Friday. Larson plans to present a resolution to the township board Tuesday urging Cantonites to send Christmas cards to the hostages. Said Larson, "It's an action that can be taken by the people of Canton to let the hostages know we haven't forgotten them and to let the Iranian people know we haven't forsaken the hostages." The address is U.S. Embassy, 260 Taleghani Ave., Tehran, Iran, c Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Building gripes

Township board members are hopping mad over a recent decision by the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation. The agency, which reviews consumer home building complaints, has ruled that it will no longer consider complaints of drywall nail popping or pitted concrete work. Although the two complaints are amoung the most frequently heard, deputy director Silverenia Kanoyton said builders cannot be held responsible for those problems. She said the department made the decision in an effort to streamline its operations. Canton Clerk John Flodin said the township will continue to take complaints about drywall and concrete work. He said the township plans to send a letter to the state objecting to the decision.

Communication Gap

At least some township board members are miffed by actions taken by Supervisor Noel Culbert in recent weeks. Trustees Steve Larson, Robert Greenstein and Carol Bodenmiller say the supervisor is taking steps without the board's knowledge. The trustees refer specifically to an offer made by Culbert to Plymouth Township for contractual police services and the supervisor's consideration of additional cable television firms. "Down the road, we're going to have an ugly confrontation that I'd like to avoid," Larson told Culbert at a recent meeting. Culbert maintains that he has taken no action outside his jurisdiction as township supervisor.

Fillin' up the Christmas kettle

A resident stops in front of the Plymouth Post Office on Penniman Avenue to drop a donation into the Salvation Army Christmas Kettle. Funds raised by Bell-Ringers are used by the Salvation Army Corps to help needy families in Plymouth and Canton, during the Christmas season and year-round. Each year, members of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club volunteer as Bell Ringers one weekend and members of the Plymouth Rotary Club volunteer for another and, in a friendly club rivalary, see who can raise the most for the Army. Last weekend the following Kiwanians manned the kettle by the post office, with help from an Army officer: (from left) Chuck Moore, Harvey Thomas, 83, and Jim Anulewicz. This Friday and Saturday Rotarians will be out as Bell Ringers at four locations in Plymouth. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Student record privacy rights are explained

Without prior consent, only parents and authorized individuals with legitimate educational interests will have access to a child's educational records at Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Parents may make an appointment to inspect and review their child's records at his/her school.

If, upon review, they believe information in the records is inaccurate, misleading or inappropriate, the parents can challenge that information.

If there is agreement, steps will be taken to amend or correct the information in the record.

THAT ASSURANCE was given this week by Florence Beier, administrative assistant for community relations, while reviewing the district's policy on the privacy of student records.

If agreement on correcting a record isn't reached, a hearing will be scheduled providing parents with the opportunity to present their views and reasons for the challenge, Ms. Beier said.

Parents may bring to the hearing, at their expense, any individual who may be of assistance, including legal counsel.

Following the hearing, should there be a failure to reach an agreement, parents have the right to appeal the decision to the superintendent.

Parents also have the right to enter into the record a statement of the issue as they see it.

These access and challenge rights are transferred to the child upon his/her 18th birthday or when the student is admitted to a college or university.

DIRECTOR INFORMATION will be released only in accordance with the guidelines established by the school board, added Ms. Beier.

Such information includes name, address, telephone listing, date and place of birth, weight and height, dates of school attendance, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, and degrees and awards received.

Parents have the right to file a complaint with the Family Rights and Privacy Act Office, Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), Washington, D.C. 20201, if they think the school district is not complying with the law.

The school district's policy relative to the privacy act is available at the board offices, 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

Anyone with questions about student records may call Ginnie Murdoch, child accountant, at 453-0200.

Schools host seminar on keeping buses safe

Plymouth-Canton school bus mechanics are doing a little "booking" themselves these days.

In the school district's bus garage on Mill Road the men are getting some classroom learning that's promised to save the district some big money over big repairs.

The school district is sponsoring a two-week training program in conjunction with the Michigan Department of Education.

The subject? Transmissions. Specifically, the ATF 54 Allison Transmission installed in all new school buses today.

According to Calvin Heard, the district's chief mechanic, the district prefers to train its own mechanics in this work because it's expensive to have done elsewhere. He estimates repair costs run from $900-$1,500. Those figures don't include removal and installation.

The workshop has attracted 16 school bus mechanics from a number of districts including Grand Blanc Public Schools, Hartland Consolidated Schools and Pinckney Community Schools.

Heard said Plymouth-Canton was selected as the site of this workshop for several reasons. It has a good garage, it's centrally located and its administration emphasizes education for certification of its mechanics.

IT ALSO PROVES to be an honor to host the workshop.

"These buses are among the safest in the state," Heard said. "It's one of the four finest fleets in the State of Michigan. When I came here from Livonia six years ago one of my main objectives was to pass the fleet tests 100 percent and so far we've done that."

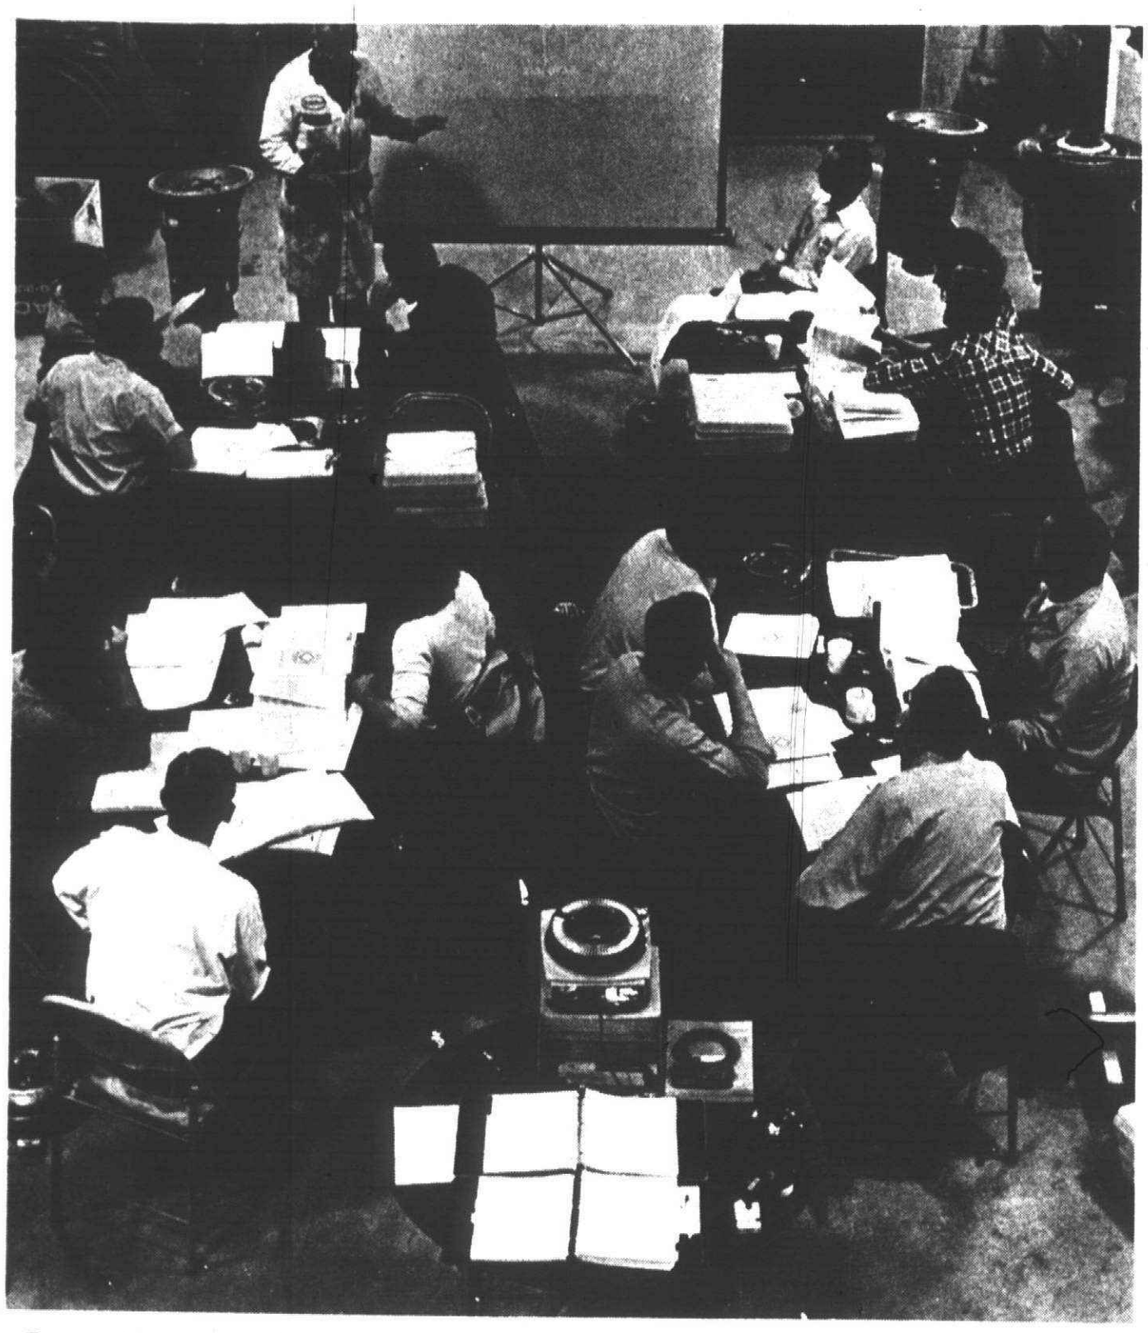

Each year Michigan State Police conduct school bus checks for needed repairs on defects. Since Heard's arrival, the district has had a spotless record.

Plymouth-Canton schools have 104 buses and 12 more have been ordered.

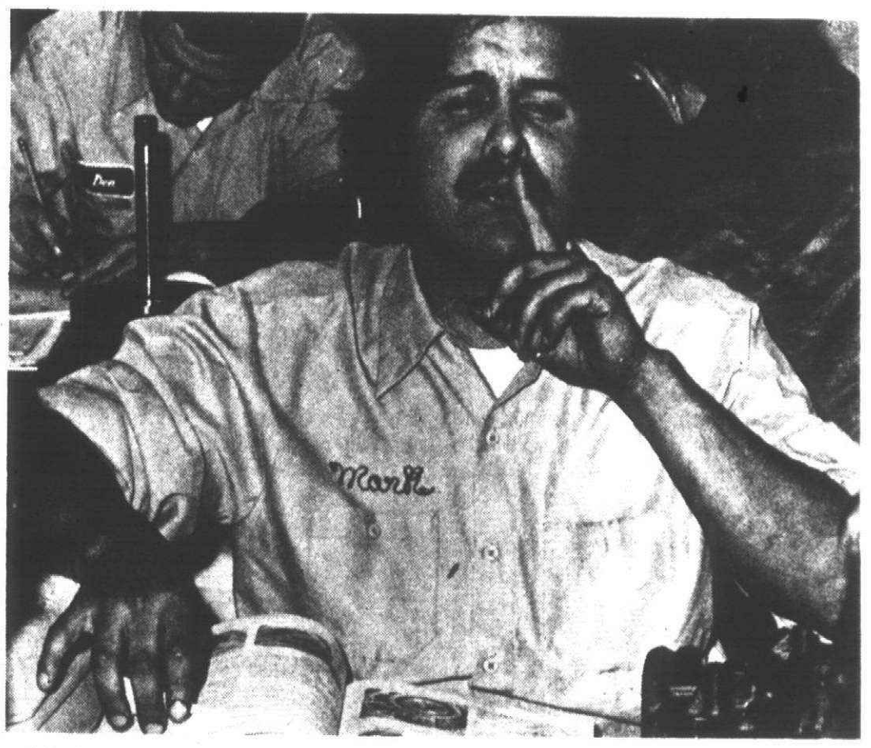

They not only travel throughout the district, which encompasses some 55 square miles, but also outside the district to pick up special education students. These students are brought in from around Wayne and Washtenaw counties.

The two-week course costs $150 per bus mechanic. There are four taking the course from Plymouth-Canton schools. Instruction is given by Maurice Shotwell of Ferris State College.

While Observer photographer Gary Caskey visited the garage last week, the men were in the process of tearing down an automatic transmission. Slides were used to explain the power flow through this system.

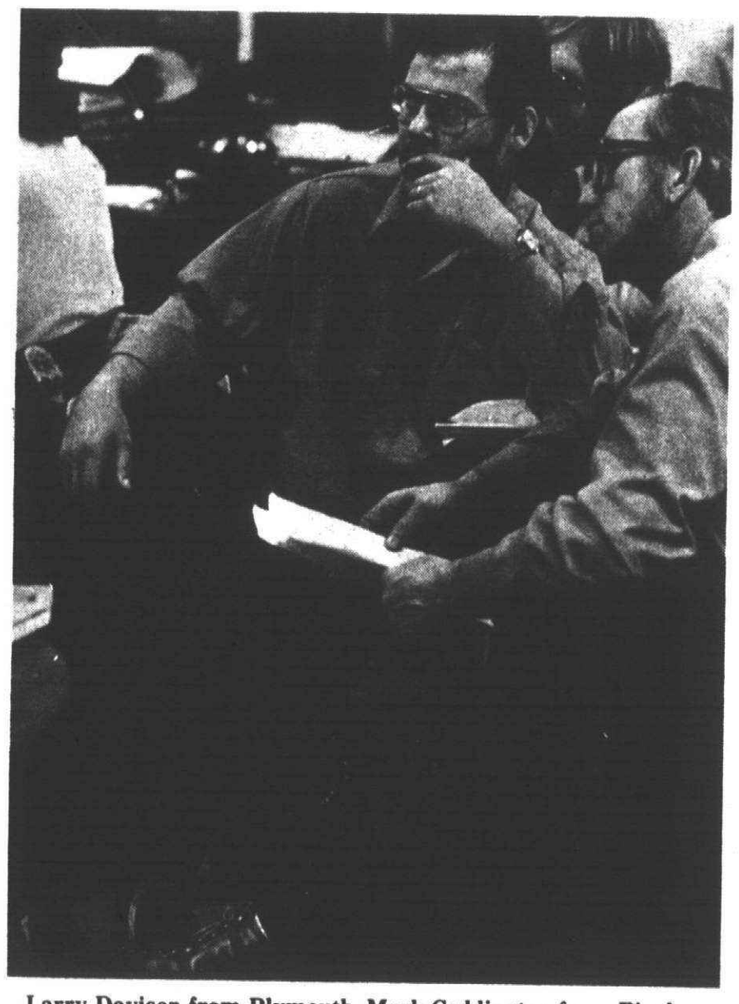

Bus mechinics from school districts throughout Michigan assembled in Plymouth recently for a two-week seminar on maintaining safe vehicles. Instruction here is being given on repairing transmissions. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey.)

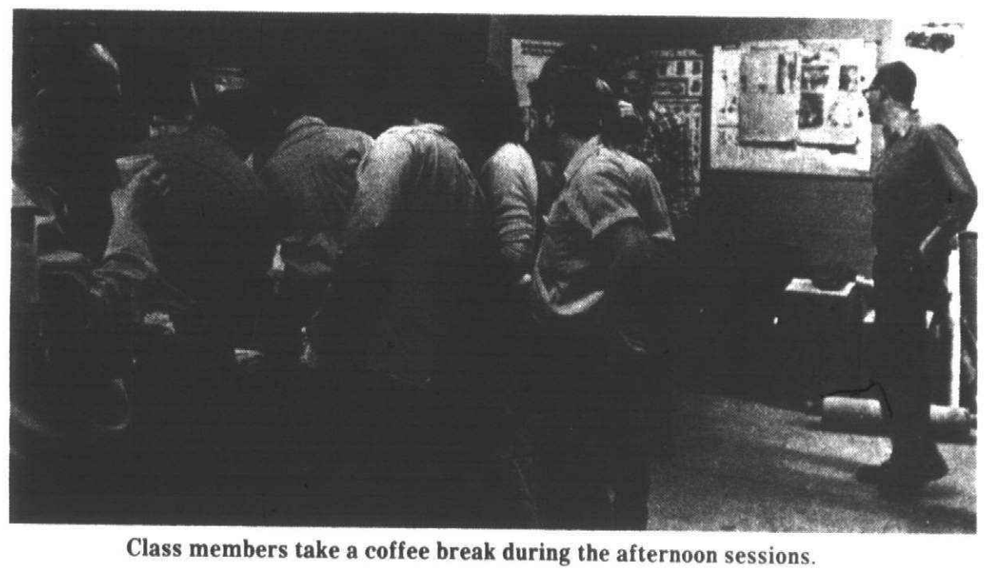

Mark Velasquez was one of two deaf mechanics enrolled in the seminar cosponsored by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Maurice Shotwell from Ferris State College was the instructor for training on repair of transmissions.

Larry Davison from Plymouth, Mark Coddington from Pinckney Schools and Al Sharp from Hartland Schools (from left) listen intently to tips given Wednesday.

Pair treks Appalachian Trail

JOHN BOZZO

Just before Thanksgiving, a group of tourists noticed a sign at Springer Mountain in Georgia.

The sign explained that Springer marked one end of the 2,000-mile Appalachian Trail.

Amused at the thought at such a long trek, one tourist approached two youths who were walking with backpacking equipment.

"Are you two fellows going to walk that long trail," laughed the tourist.

"No," was the reply, "we just finished."

Some kids party down for as long as a week after high school graduation. Then they get sensible, find a job or continue preparing for college.

But the Chinook wind and lure of the outdoors were much stronger for Dave Kashmian and Mark West, 18-year-old neighbors in Redford Township.

After graduating from Redford Union High School in June, they "carried their house on their backs" for five months. "Carrying your house on your back" is a term backpackers use, referring to the spot where they carry everything needed on a trip.

Kashmian and West walked over 2,000 miles, from Mt. Katahdin in Maine to Springer Mt. in Georgia, stopping for side trips to Washington D.C. and New York City. They returned home on Thanksgiving Day.

A NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC book sparked their interest in the lengthy adventure.

"We just started talking about it and it looked like a challenge," West said. "We both had a little backpacking experience in the Boy Scouts. The longest was six days in the Porcupine Mountains in the UP."

Both West and Kashmian began saving money earned at part-time jobs during the school year. They figure the trip cost $2,000 apiece.

West bought a six-pound backpacking tent and sleeping bag. Kashmian purchased a sleeping bag, backpack and frame. Together they bought freeze dried food.

"We put the food into different packages and mailed them to post offices along the way," Kashmian said. "The post offices held the packages for us. Each package had enough food to get from one post office to another."

When they ran low once, they walked to the nearest road and hitched a ride into a town.

"We had planned on a map how far we would walk each day," Kashmian said, "but we were behind right from the start. We didn't realize we had to climb to the top of Mt. Katahdin to start the trail.

"If I had it to do over again I wouldn't send freeze dried food to spots along the way," Kashmian said. "I would buy from stores in towns along the way."

A typical menu was something like this: Breakfast — instant pancakes (good), freeze dried eggs (bad); Lunch — beef jerky, sausage sticks, soups, freeze dried tuna salad and chicken salad; Dinner — freeze dried vegetables and dinners like beef stroganoff (they liked chicken with rice best).

"FOOD BECAME an obsession," Kashmian said. "We'd start eating as soon as we hit a town and not stop till we left."

West actually gained five pounds during the trip, while Kashmian stayed the same weight.

Both agreed Maine, the first state they walked through, was the best. That included 100 miles of wilderness, which took 12 days of walking.

"There was a waterfall in Maine, 120-feet long with a 20-foot drop," West said. "Dave slid down the waterfall, then I tried it. One time we walked over a mountain ridge for five or six miles, which dropped off deep on both sides.

"I liked being out in the woods with nobody else around. Fall was nice with the color changes. There were also no bugs and we didn't sweat while walking in the fall."

They never were lost during the trip.

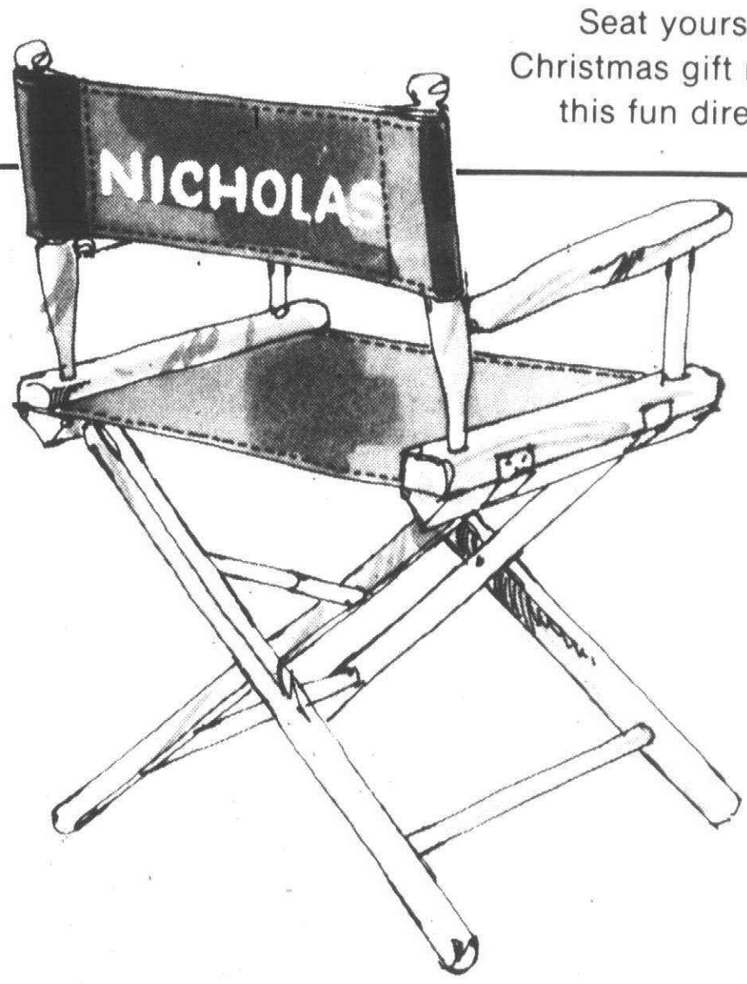

"The whole trail was marked with two-by-six white blazes," Kashmian said. "We just followed that. Sometimes part of the trail would be relocated from where it was supposed to be on the map. The trail goes over private land and an owner may void a lease.

"Sometimes the map would show we had to walk three miles to a place, but because of the detours we had to walk 10. We ran out of water that way once."

Once the duo removed their boots and walked across a river, toward a white blaze on a tree on the other river bank.

DESPITE THE amount of time they spent wandering in the wilderness, nothing dangerous happened.

Boards list industry as top priority men suggested that it might be time for Canton to consider incorporating to become a city.

A city is responsible for most of its roads, with the exception of county or state roads. It receives a percentage of gas and weight taxes collected by the state in order to maintain roads.

Wayne County now gets the taxes that would go to Canton.

Flodin discarded the notion of incorporation. "In my judgement a township can provide anything a city can," he said.

He said that other communities which incorporated found that gas and weight taxes allocated did not cover the cost of maintaining roads and have had to dip into their general funds.

Although some disagreement was expressed on the road situation, most were in accord that industry should be actively courted.

Robert Schaetzl of the Economic Development Corporation, said: "We'll need $250 million of industrial taxes before we'll get near the 50-50 tax base Livonia has."

Schaetzl also argued that property in the south of Canton is prime industrial area and should be considered. He pointed out that the area is divided by two school districts (Wayne-Westland and Van Buren) and called for the redistribution of districts.

A majority of Canton residents live in the Plymouth-Canton school district, which would not benefit from industry in the area of the other districts.

Schaetzl said industrial development was, if anything, preferable to commercial development because taxes can also be collected on the equipment and machinery inside as well as on the building.

When agreement seemed clear that industry should be sought, Flodin said the board would pledge to come up with a document "giving the specifics of where we're going" within 30 days.

Settlement aims for park solution residents of Futernick's parks, she said.

According to Ms. Myers, about 100 park residents attended the meeting in Lansing last week.

"But I don't think most of them understood what was really happening," she said.

MS. MYERS stressed the importance of one section of the agreement which says Futernick will be subject to prosecution if he breaks any section of the document.

"He'll be watched like a hawk," she pledged.

According to Ms. Myers, the Mobile Home Commission has also agreed to send allegations that Futernick illegally charged residents $525 for sewer and water hook-ups to the Michigan Attorney General's Office for review.

In other action last week, the commission agreed to extend the length of lease agreements at all the state's mobile home parks to one year.

According to Ms. Myers, state law now limits the length of mobile home park lease agreements to six months. Park owners may also ask residents to sign 30-day occupancy agreements.

The new ruling does not change the 30-day occupancy allowance, but Ms. Myers said mobile home residents should applaud the one-year lease ruling.

"They'll have a full year before they'll be hit with rent increases," she said.

Ms. Myers does not expect the one-year lease ruling to take effect for six months, however. It must be approved by the Michigan Legislature and Gov. William Milliken before it takes effect.

Officials revive talk of saving farmland

Planning Commissioner Bart Berg said he supported farmland preservation, but believed that an election to implement it should be held as soon as possible.

Commissioner Robert Shefferly has opposed farmland preservation since the idea was first formulated during Greenstein's term as township supervisor.

Shefferly said he believed any attempt to preserve farmland should be done on a county or state level, rather than by as small a unit as Canton.

He said Canton's population would have to pay perhaps 40 times more per capita to implement the program than residents in the nation's two other counties which have already taken steps to preserve their farmland.

Shefferly also questioned the constitutionality of the program.

Berg said that if Canton was really committed to preservation, it should begin earmarking all available funds for the project.

Greenstein said he agreed with most of Berg's statements, but "violently disagreed" that a millage election should be held as early as June.

During the original ballot proposal last year, Greenstein said voters were told there was no other way to finance the program.

Monday's Commentary

Gifted can be helped without federal money

By TERRY GATES TRAHEY
Special writer

The gifted and talented student was the topic of a conference attended by parents and educators at the Plymouth-Hilton last weekend.

About 150 persons heard Joyce Juntune, president of the National Association for the Gifted and Talented, present workable strategies for nurturing giftedness within the existing educational setting.

Ms. Juntune regards the teaching of the gifted and talented as a neglected area of education.

"This education should not be a neglected area as it requires no money, no federal funds, no new books, no new materials. All it requires is how-to."

The day-long seminar enabled participants to learn:

- Theories and research to developing thinking.
- The characteristics and needs of the high potential students.
- Program options for high potential students.

WHAT IS the background theory of giftedness?

Background theory historically places giftedness as hereditary high intelligence quotient (IQ).

That theory has been modified.

Current research places giftedness as partly hereditary with the center core of giftedness as creativity potential.

This expanded concept of giftedness — creativity potential — is the first definition offered by the U.S. Department of Education (1972). The definition is multi-faceted:

"The gifted person is a creative thinker of general intellectual ability who may use creativity in specific academic excellence, or visual performing arts excellence, or psychomotor excellence, or leadership excellence."

Ms. Juntune stated: "The theory of giftedness meaning only high IQ (grouped as 110-130; 130-150; 150 above) is no longer accepted.

"The theory of giftedness meaning the creative thinker with intellectual ability is now the accepted norm.

"Identifying the characteristics and needs of the high potential student is the first priority," said Ms. Juntune, "and it is up to the student himself, the parents, the teachers, and the administrators, to discover these characteristics and needs.

"We have to know the potential, the strengths, to develop, and not just the IQ score."

"Academically speaking," said Ms. Juntune, "we know for certain that these students have superior communication skills. The bright and gifted have this common trait: They listen, speak, read, and write, in a superior way."

SCHOOLS SHOULD develop options for these academic achievers, she said.

These students "consistently show high academic skills, intellectual curiosity, problem-viewing ability, problem-solving ability, as well as social/interpersonal skills. These cognitive (thinking) traits need to be developed."

In the final part of the seminar, educators learned that there are ways to integrate higher level thinking skills into the classroom curriculum.

Finally, educators were given model procedures for programming including:

- Establishing program philosophy.
- Determining program objectives.
- Program implementation.
- Program evaluation.

The next program for "Teaching the Bright and Gifted" will be presented by Roger Taylor, nationally-known for his work with gifted students.

Dr. Taylor will speak on Thursday, Dec. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth-Canton High Little Theatre. He will talk about methods, climates, materials, and approaches which work with the gifted as well as with all students. Admission is free.

Your ideas Committee

Input to your State Legislature

Representatives
Bob Law, Chairman
Tom Brown
Jack Kirksey
Roy Smith
Senator R. Robert Geake

Question of the week:

Each week a member of the your Ideas Committee discusses an issue affecting local residents.

This week State Rep. Robert Law, R-Livonia, wants to know what you think about proposed legislation that would provide automatic termination of state programs after a determined period of time. What to you think about another concept that would provide periodic reviews of certain key departments in an effort to control governmental efficiency?

At issue before the Legislature is an amendment to a program review bill which would add termination dates to government programs. If this passes, each agency in state government would have a termination date on which it would cease to exist unless the Legislature specifically renewed the agency or program. The purpose of the proposal is to control waste and efficiency in state government and its agencies.

To discuss the issue, call Law from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Dec. 15 by phoning 422-0750.

Daniel's Den

Another pricing sham perpetrated

In recent years a call has been issued for Americans to restore their faith in business and in the economic system of capitalism.

A lot of the effort has come from Chambers of Commerce and from others not directly connected with Big Business.

In Plymouth, for instance, those who argue in favor of a restoration of confidence in business are primarily small businessmen.

The unfortunate aspect is that small businessmen have done little to cause Americans to lose confidence in business and capitalism.

I can't recall, off-hand, ever being cheated by the proprietor of a small shop. Actually, they have consistently been very fair in their business dealings and don't try to take undue advantage of consumers.

The problem, as I see it, is with Big Business and the many shenanigans pulled to gyp consumers. There's something about the act of placing "Inc." or "Ltd." after a firm's name which causes it to lose its moral footings.

THE REASON I'm ranting about the moral position of Big Business in our economy is that I've noticed that the price of diesel fuel now exceeds $1 a gallon.

The rise was totally predictable, but it's still a disgrace.

The only reason diesel fuel is priced so high is that the automobile companies began to manufacture cars with diesel engines to help reduce our consumption of gasoline.

Two inducements to consumers to buy diesel cars were that the fuel was so much cheaper and gas mileage was better. Also, diesel engines have a longer life than gasoline-powered engines.

For years and years — almost back to the invention of the Model A — diesel fuel has been about half the price per gallon of regular gasoline.

That proportion has held steady for decades — until automobiles began using diesel fuel. Then, and only then, did the price spurt upward to the point where it now almost equals gasoline prices.

The law of supply and demand would explain the hike if half of the cars on the road today were diesel-powered. Demand would force a doubling of the price. But I doubt if even 10 percent of the cars on the road are diesel-powered.

The hike has nothing to do with supply and demand. The sellers simply decided to hike the price to enlarge profits.

At least that's one man's opinion.

MY SKEPTICISM wasn't born, however, from only the hike in diesel fuel prices.

The same thing happened in Michigan when the bottle deposit bill went into effect.

Beverage producers raised the price to cover the cost of new bottle handling and then some. A price hike beyond the deposit was neatly camouflaged into the total price.

Again, there was no increase in demand to justify the higher price. The timing of the price hike with the collection of deposit money was enough to make me a skeptic.

Everytime somebody sneezes in the Middle East the price of gasoline goes up and the "world crisis" is given as the explanation for the hike. Yet the price never drops after the crisis ends and oil shipments begin again.

The automobile industry itself used the excuse of federally-mandated anti-pollution and safety equipment as justification to increase the price of cars. And the price kept increasing, year after year.

We are now at the point where a medium-size car costs $6,000 — more than the price of a two-car garage.

Construction costs are given as part of the justification for higher prices of new houses. Those same carpenters build garages that build houses.

And labor costs as much as, if not more than, for skilled tradesmen who build garages than for the automobile companies.

So why is it that the increase in the price of cars has far outpaced the increase in the price of a garage?

The cost of safety and anti-pollution gadgets doesn't explain the difference. A desire for higher profits, though, does explain higher prices. I'm skeptical enough about the actions of a number of industries to believe there is but one major justification and explanation for higher prices. It's called "whatever the market will bear."

And that standard has little to do, really, with supply and demand. And neither does that standard do much to restore the confidence of Americans in business.

I wish Big Business behaved more like Small Business.

A Hall of Honor a nice civic touch

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

Ernie Allison, the 94-year-old former Chevrolet dealer who passed on to his final resting place a week ago, was the last of what is affectionately referred to as the Old Guard to enter the Valhalla where all dedicated men go who are bathed in civic pride.

What a reunion they must have had when he met up with his old cronies — Paul Wiedman, the pioneer Ford dealer who operated in what is now the parking lot at the Mayflower Hotel, Carl Shear, the Buick dealer who was located on Starkweather, Charlie 8ennett, of the Daisy Co., and Fred Schrader, the city's first funeral director.

It was this group of men who, more than a half century ago, put personal ambition aside to concentrate on civic pride that brought about the building of the Mayflower Hotel and establishing a city of which all could be proud.

CONTRARY TO THE Shakespearian line that man has but one brief moment upon the stage and then is heard no more, these men never should be forgotten.

But how best to remember them and what they have done for the city?

May The Stroller be bold enough to offer an idea? He thinks the time has come for the city fathers to establish a Hall of Honor where the faces of these men and their deeds could be etched in bronze as charter members and placed where it would be convenient for all the world to see.

Where could such a Hall of Honor be placed?

There are several locations that would do justice to the memory of these men and those who follow in the years to come.

When the city hall is re-modeled, space could be provided for the plaques. There could be space made available in the historical museum. They could do well in the cultural center. And, if need be, they could be in an honored position in the lobby of the Mayflower that is a monument to their civic pride.

Wherever the location, the "Old Guard" is deserving of all possible official recognition.

ESTABLISHMENT of the Hall of Honor is not a far-fetched idea. For years the sports world — especially bowling — has established Halls of Fame in countless numbers of cities and towns around the country. So it is about time that leaders in other areas are so honored.

The work of the "Old Guard" in establishing the Mayflower is one of the most interesting chapters inc the city's history.

Together they figured that it would be a logical thing to do as there was no hostelry between Ann Arbor and Detroit and that a hotel would not only bring business to the city, but add a great deal of prestige, too.

So, back in 1926, they enlisted the help of more than 200 residents and went ahead with the project — not to make money but to awaken the pride in the community.

The building was starteed in April of 1927 and opened exactly six months later. It never was intended to make a profit. And it didn't for the first 10 years.

Then the "Old Guard" employed Ralph Lorenz as the manager. He had just come out of military service in the culinary department of the Navy. Each week they met with him and discussed the building of pride in that the hotel was the only small town hotel for miles around. In 1954 they leased the Mayflower to him and finally sold it to him in 1964.

The Mayflower is just one of the projects that the Old Guard should be remembered for.

There is an old saying that the good that men do lives after them.

Fine. But sometimes they are forgotten.

This wouldn't hapen if there was a Hall of Honor.

Off the Walls

Survival of fatess

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

Over the turnpikes and through the traffic to grandmother's house we went. We have recently returned from our annual pilgrimage to Ohio for the breaking of Thanksgiving bread with my husband's clan. I have survived.

I sometimes suspect that I am related by marriage to the entire population of Millersburg, Ohio; and, sadly for my waistline, they all seem to be fantastic cooks. Last year at this time I left Canton wearing a pair of my favorite trim-looking slacks that fit quite nicely, thank you. After four days of feasting on turkey, stuffing, yams, roasts and those great molded salads that I can never get enough of, I had to borrow a pair of slacks two sizes larger than my own to wear during the four-hour trip back. I could have forced myself into my own pants, but they didn't seem to want to bend. It was either borrow a pair of "fat" pants, or strap me to the roof of the car. Both of the alternatives were a mite embarrassing, but I opted for the large slacks, because I didn't want to get bugs in my teeth.

This year I planned my strategy ahead in order to avoid another quick inflation of my already lumpy bod. On Thanksgiving day I wore the very tightest slacks that I own. This left me very little room for error when it came to deciding the size of my portions. It was either eat just a tad of this and a smidgen of that or have my button pop off and the zipper go in front of a houseful of my husband's relatives. I ate lightly.

There is one aspect of these family gatherings that I have yet to accept gracefully. That is the fact that after 15-20 people have eaten a huge meal, there are 15-20 thousand dishes to be washed. It's not only that wasing dishes is not one of my favorite things in the world that hangs me up, it's the fact that everyone in the kitchen brigade seems to instinctively know what to do, while I just stand around looking dumb. They whiz by me with dishes to be stacked, leftovers to be stored, someone stations herself at the sink, another grabs the dishcloth. The pace is fast and furious. Since I've only been in the family for 10 years (a relative newcomer, so to speak), I have yet to catch on as to just how I fit into the precision kitchen procedure. I usually pick up a jar of pickles and put it away in the fridge or put the top back on the butter dish, all the while glancing enviously into the living room where the "menfolk" are lounging around the TV watching football. Football bores me silly, but the lounging part of it is very appealing at times like this. Maybe once the women's liberation movement has taken a strong hold in middle America, I will no longer have a problem. We'll all be able to sit in the living room and watch football. But until that day comes, I continue to stumble around the kitchen of my mother-in-law's house after every meal pretending I'm helping when I haven't the slightest idea of which chores have been relegated to me, if any. I'm not even comfortable in my own kitchen, so it's not difficult for me to flounder through these family feasts.

All in all, the trip was very pleasant. I love to visit small towns like Millersburg where there is one theater, one town tavern, and a statue of a Union soldier in the courthouse square. But I doubt that I could survive there for very long. I just don't think I have the stamina it would take to live in a town that doesn't have a Quik-Pik.

Trustee fears sewer extension is 'wrong' precedent

In the near future, Plymouth Township will need to clear up where it stands on providing homeowners, presently using septic tanks, with sanitary sewers.

The question was raised last week when the township board authorized a sanitary sewer extension to the home of Ralph Lorenz, a well-known community business leader who operates the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth.

A resident of Plymouth Township, Lorenz will be the beneficiary of an estimated $1,100 sewer extension to his home on Ann Arbor Trail.

The extension was approved by a 6-1 vote with Trustee Lee Fidge dissenting.

According to the director of the water and sewer department, Thomas Hollis, such extensions are granted when there's a "demonstrated need" for them, such as a failing septic field.

According to Fidge, however, "I don't think there's documentation that there has been a septic failure.

"I think it's precedent-setting to give it to Lorenz. You don't bulldoze something through just because he's so and so."

When contacted by the Observer, township engineer Michael Bailey said he was directed by Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaet to find "the most expeditious way" to provide the sewer. However, he said he was not asked "to get into the failure."

BAILEY SAID HE was directed to check the situation several days before the board meeting last Tuesday.

The Lorenz hook-up will be provided by extending an existing line that runs along Ann Arbor Trail from the Beacon Hills II Subdivision.

Bailey said the extension also could provide a public sewer hook-up to some three other property owners in the area.

Other options discussed were not "immediate solutions" Bailey said.

One option was to run a lead from Lorenz's property to a new sewer line under construction behind his property.

Notebaert said this alternative was "not the smart way to go" because that sewer will not be available for another six-eight months.

Additionally, he said the approved sewer extension will provide access to five different lots in neighboring areas.

Fidge said if Lorenz would tie into the sewer to the rear of his home, he would have to foot the bill entirely.

She added she would have voted in favor of the extension along Ann Arbor Trail if it was proven that his septic field had failed.

AS DIRECTOR of the water and sewer department, Hollis said he is looking forward to the day when a master sewer study is completed. The study is expected to answer questions that ask how and where these extensions should be granted.

This study, proposed by Township Trustee Maurice Breen, is expected to map out areas within the township that are presently serviced by septic fields. It also will address undeveloped areas for future construction.

In the meantime, there are some eight designated pockets of homes serviced by septic fields that could eventually be subject to a change over to sanitary sewers.

Breen said the township's policy on providing sewer extensions should be "down in writing" to insure the township remains consistent in its authorization of future extensions.

Hilltop golf manager seeks revision in contract

After a year on the job, the manager of the Hilltop Golf Course in Plymouth Township said he is "T-offed" and wants some compensation for his troubles.

John Jawor, who manages the municipally owned course on Beck Road, is asking for some changes in his contract with the township because of some problems, he said, that have put a crimp in his business.

Jawor's attorney, Micheal Hopp, appeared before the township board Tuesday with a list of demands that are under study by Township Attorney Donald Morgan.

Morgan said he also will ask the township's auditors to look into the golf course business for an opinion on its revenues.

Jawor is under contract with the township until October 1983 with an option to continue his services for another five years.

In the present contract, the township has claims to 50 percent of the business revenues, or no less than $35,000 a year.

According to Hopp, Jawor wants to reduce the contract to a 1981 expiration date plus a $21,000 payment to the township annually.

He also is asking that a $7,000 security deposit be waived for the last golfing season.

Listed among grievances with the township are:

- A delay in the construction and moving of the present golf course clubhouse. (The previous one was gutted by fire a year ago.)
- A delay in securing a liquor license for the site.
- An early start to the construction of the Byron Sanitary Sewer which cut into the end of the golfing season. Jawor said this same problem will carry over into next year when the area will be sodded and unavailable for play.

Police make an arrest in Red Roof robbery

Two men are being held in lieu of $10,000 cash bond each on felony charges stemming from the armed robbery last month of a Standard Federal Savings and Loan Association office at 5811 Middlebelt.

Garden City police said Joseph D. Broughton, 23, and Robert J. Arsenault, 22, have also signed confessions admitting to eight other felony robberies committed in the past seven weeks.

Broughton and Arsenault were each arraigned Friday morning in the 21st District Court before Judge Richard Hammer on one count of armed robbery and one count of possession of a firearm in commission of a felony in connection with the savings and loan association hold-up.

The robbery spree allegedly began Oct. 14, with the hold-up of the Hines Park Inn in Livonia on Plymouth Road. The same place was robbed again later in October.

Police said the two men also have confessed to the Nov. 8 savings and loan robbery, a Nov. 14 robbery of the Red Roof Inn in Plymouth Township, a Nov. 15 robbery of a Westland Red Lobster restaurant, a Nov. 23 armed robbery of a Livonia 7-11 store, a Nov. 25 armed robbery of a Westland Hungry Howie's restaurant and a Dec. 2 armed robbery of a Westland Pic-Way shoe store.

Also robbed in November was a Red Lobster restaurant in Dearborn Heights.

Police reports indicate all nine robberies netted between $4,000-$5,000 and a pistol.

Garden City Detective-Lt. Bill Duncan said the arrests were made as a result of a tip.

"The break came after all the work that was done. Tuesday we got information and the information that we got checked out.

"(Garden City) Detective (John) Thomas, (Garden City) Detective (Jack) Salter and Detective Fred Benson of Livonia went to the Abbey Inn in Romulus and took Arsenault into custody and at the time recovered a substantial amount of money which we feel was the result of armed robberies."

The arrest of the second subject, Broughton, came as a result of (Arsenault's) statements, he said.

"They were subsequently charged with the armed robbery. They also admitted that they have been involved with a number of armed robberies in this area, a total of nine (have been) cleared."

Duncan said neither man offered resistance when arrested. Arsenault is from Garden City, while Broughton lists the post office general delivery in Kalkaska as his address. Both men have minor police records on misdemeanor charges.

DUNCAN PRAISED the investigators assigned to the case.

"Through the efforts of these officers, and I'm talking about working together between Benson, (Thomas) and (Salter) on a case like this, we found Benson had a little information, we had a little information, (Westland Detective John) Reddy had a little information, plus we had some information from another officer.

"This kind of cooperation is what makes this work. These officers did a hell of a job. It's just damn good police work."

Westland police had not yet brought added felony charges against Broughton and Arsenault on Friday, but police said they had not ruled out filing further charges over the weekend.

Rocks nipped in overtime, 45-41

RU squeaks by in regional final

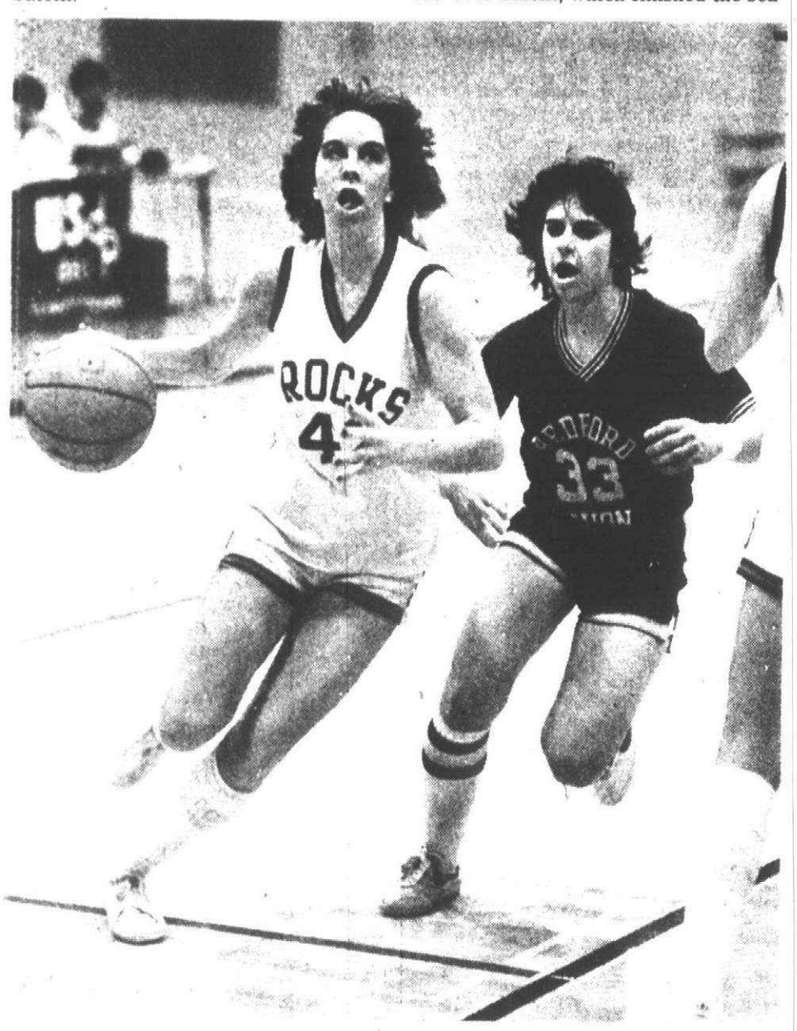

By BRAD EMONS

Redford Union captured its first Class A regional girls' basketball title Friday night with a close 45-41 overtime victory over nemesis Plymouth Salem.

The difference was free throws once again. Redford Union, coached by Ken Dersey, had more chances from the line and made the most of it.

It was the third victory in a row for RU over Salem, which finished the season with a 17-8 mark. All three games were decided in the final minutes.

"I'm very pleased with the effort," said a happy Dersey. "This is a great thrill."

Behind the clutch play of senior guard Terry Harper, RU fought back from a 21-15 halftime deficit, sending the game into overtime.

The Panthers hit four of seven free throws in the extra period while outscoring the Rocks, 8-4.

For the game, Redford Union hit 15 of 25 for 60 percent compared with Salem's five for nine (55 percent).

"It came down to the line ," said Dersey. "We made the pressure ones and that was a big factor."

In the overtime period, Lori Pastula gave RU a 40-37 edge with 1:35 to play when she collected her own rebound and hit a short banker.

EILEEN MOORE then retaliated 17 seconds later when she canned a long jumper for the Rocks, cutting the lead to one point.

But RU answered with four straight points — one by reserve forward Pam Drury, who slipped behind Salem defense for an easy layup — the other two points by guard Kelly Kollar, who sank two free throws.

Those two tosses gave RU an insurmountable 44-39 lead with 36 seconds left.

Harper was the key all evening for RU. She hit four shots in the third quarter as the Panthers outscored Salem, 13-7. She also scored a big basket with 2:42 to go in regulation play. Her short shot inside the free-throw line made it 37-35 for the Panthers.

With 1:47 to go, Salem guard Nan Horwood hit an 18-foot shot knotting the score at 37-all.

Salem controlled the ball for the last 1:14 seconds and elected to take the last shot. The Rocks worked the ball down to two seconds and then Horwood launched a long attempt which hit the side of the rim.

Patty Weidman, Salem's standout 6-foot-1 center, fouled out with 1:14 to go after being called for rebounding foul against RU's Robin Taylor. The RU forward missed the front-end of the one-and-one and Salem gained control, setting up the last attempt.

Harper led all scorers with 17 points. She hit seven of 10 free throws. Weidman and Moore paced Salem with 15 and 12 respectively.

"Harper was the difference tonight," Dersey said. "She's a good, steady player. She was a factor the second time we beat Salem."

The Panthers were forced to play without their standout center, 6-foot Nancy Lawson, who fouled out with 2:33 to go in the overtime period. She finished with 10 points.

"Plymouth Salem controlled the tempo early," said the RU coach. "We needed to push the ball up quickly because we like the transition game.

"I told my team at halftime that we couldn't be lackadaisical."

Salem coach Bob Blohm agreed that Haper was the difference.

"Harper had a great game," Blohm said. "They (RU) beat us twice before at the free-throw line.

"Tonight I thought we came ready to play. We played hard. We had good shooting opportunities and had good position. The shots just didn't go down."

Salem played an outstanding first half as Weidman connected for 10 points. Moore who chipped in with an outstanding floor game, added seven points.

The rocks led after one quarter, 8-6, and outscored RU 13-9 in the second quarter.

SALEM'S CHANCES for the crown were severely hampered when Weidman picked up her fourth foul with one second left in the third quarter. Blohm was forced to switch Weidman on Pastula instead of Lawson, who later de-

Franklin rally foiled, 66-59

Fast start lifts Canton to win

Plymouth Canton jumped on Livonia Franklin early and went on to post a 66-59 victory Friday night in the season opener for both teams.

Four Canton players scored in double figures. Canton senior guard Scott Adler tied Franklin's Bob Gohl for high-scoring honors with 16. Other Canton players in double figures were Sean Houle (14), Brad Weston (14) and Dave Visser (12).

The Chiefs raced out to a 16-2 lead to start the game as Houle scored three baskets.

"We got our quick-up (fast break) going and beat their half-court pressure," said Canton coach Craig Bell. "I thought we read their defense really well in the first quarter."

Canton led at halftime, 34-22, and at the end of three quarters, 53-37.

Franklin, behind the hot shooting of Gohl and the strong inside play of Jeff Weber, cut Canton's lead to five points during the final quarter.

"We played a straight man-to-man defense until the fourth quarter and then went to a little zone because we were in foul trouble," said Bell.

The Canton coach was pleased that "we held our poise when Franklin made a run at us in the fourth quarter."

He was also pleased with the play of reserves Ken Van Kirk, who scored six points, and the ball handling of Randy Wilkin.

"I FOUND OUT tonight that I have some kids that can come in and give the same kind of momentum," said the second-year Canton coach.

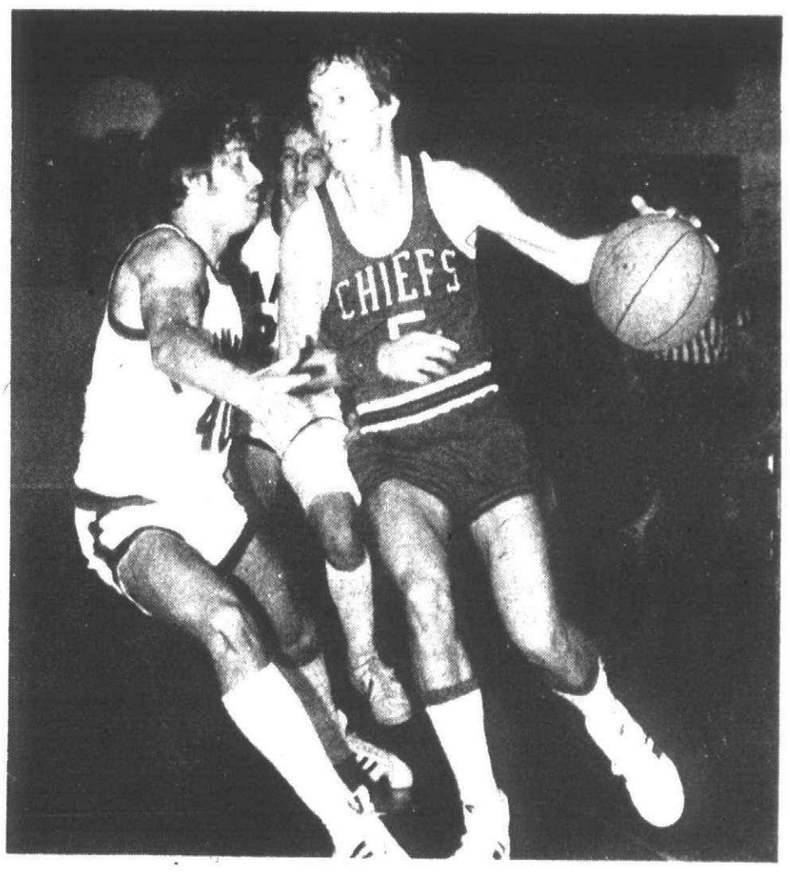

"Franklin was physically a hard team to play," he said. "They run well up and down the floor."

The Chiefs hit 27 of 54 shots for 50 percent. Franklin was dismal from the foul line, canning just nine of 25 shots for 36 percent.

"Their early scoring and free throws really hurt us," said Franklin coach Jim McIntyre.

IN THE JUNIOR varsity game, center Steve Tuttle scored 23 points and hauled down 22 rebounds to lead Can-

Defense Rock solid; whip Central by 17

Plymouth Salem opened up an 18-8 first quarter lead and went to beat Walled Lake Central Friday night on the road, 68-51.

Three Rock seniors hit for double figures — guard Rob Neu had 16 points, Howard Monk added 15 and forward Jim Anderson netted 12.

Monk, a 6-foot-6 center, collected 13 rebounds. Neu contributed to the win with seven steals and six assists. Anderson also had six assists.

"I was real pleased that 22 of our 27 baskets came by assists," said Salem coach Fred Thomann.

Neu's running-mate at guard, Mike Sharp, a junior, helped in the passing department by dishing out five assists.

Said Thomann: "We ran a good defensive pressure series in the first quarter. We forced some poor shots and caused some turnovers. We got it going with our defense. Just what we had talked about before the game."

Central, 1-20 last year, rallied in the second quarter and cut Salem's lead to 32-27 after hitting a shot at the buzzer.

In the third quarter Salem outscored Walled Lake, 17-11, to take a 49-38 lead.

"We got good offensive balance in the first and third quarters," said the Salem coach. "We read their defense real well in those quarters.

"They threw just about everything at us. They were really jacked up and they (Walled Lake) did a nice job."

"I THOUGHT our shot selection was nice," he added.

Salem outrebounded Walled Lake, 32-16, and hit 27 of 54 shots from the field for 50 percent. The Rocks hit 14 of 22 shots for 64 percent from the free-throw line.

Salem matmen pin 3 opponents

Vojcek, Snider sharp

Plymouth Salem opened its wrestling season Thursday night in impressive fashion by dominating the Northville quadrangle meet.

The Rocks opened the meet by whipping Northville, the host, 52-10. Salem then downed Milford, 43-20, and Ann Arbor Pioneer, 67-0.

"I'm pretty pleased," said Salem coach Ron Krueger. "We did see some good competition. I thought our kids were in better physical condition which always helps."

Freshman Jeff Vojcek got things going for Salem in the 98-pound weight class, drawing praise from Krueger. Vojcek pinned Neal Hartshorne of Northville in just 47 seconds. He won his match against Milford on a void and then pinned his opponent from Ann Arbor Pioneer.

"The little freshman was a pleasant surprise," said Krueger. "He (Vojcek) looks like he could go after our freshman record for wins, and that's a bona fide mark."

At 105 pounds, Salem's Jim Schultz pinned John Naar of Northville in 1:31. Teammate Mark Ross also pinned his foe, Steve Platte, in 1:06 at 126 pounds.

Other Salem wrestlers gaining pins were Bruce Bachman (132), Jerry Valchine (138), Jeff Powers (198) and Greg Gattoni (heavyweight).

At 119 pounds, Jeff Dunson of Salem won an 11-2 decision over Mark Tomcyzk. Scott Piper (155) looked sharp in a 7-3 decision over Steve Morgan. Trailing 2-0 after the first period, Marty Piper of Salem rallied to beat Neal Young at 185 pounds, 9-2.

AGAINST MILFORD, Schultz (5) scored a lopsided 18-1 victory. Bachman won on a decision as did Valchine.

Ross pinned Steve Wilcoxson in 1:40. Piper did the same at 155 as he took down Brian Hall in 3:00. Powers got his second pin of the night when he drilled Tony Russo in 2:28.

Jeff Brown, 112, who lost his opener against Northville, came back strong to pin Greg Stearnine in 5:12.

Heavyweight wrestler Stan Snider won by void.

Against Pioneer, seven Salem grapplers won by pins — Vojcek, Schultz, Dunson, Bachman, Valchine, Randy Beaudoin and Marty Piper.

Snider scored the biggest win of the night and preserved the shutout when he took a decision against state qualifier Alonzo Dunagan of Pioneer, 9-6. Snider was outweighed in the match by almost 40 pounds.

"Stan did a super job," said Krueger. "This meet really gave him confidence. I was very pleased with his performance."

Scott Piper won his third match of the evening when he edged Ray Mminck, 4-3. At 167 pounds Steve Szilagyi won easily, 7-0, as did Ross at 126 pounds, 8-0. Powers won by void, giving him a perfect night.

Salem will compete Saturday in the John Glenn Invitational.

Chief grapplers split opener

By SCOTT ADLER

The Plymouth Canton wrestling team lost its first match of the season to a tough North Farmington squad, 42-15, but came back to whip Ann Arbor Huron 48-20 in a triangular meet held Thursday in Ann Arbor.

Canton coach Dan Chrenko was pleased with the way his team came back after losing a close opening match.

"The first match was closer than the score shows," said Chrenko. "We lost four matches in the third period and all of our kids were in control heading into the final period.

"I was very proud of our kids being able to come back after losing to North Farmington. They did a good job."

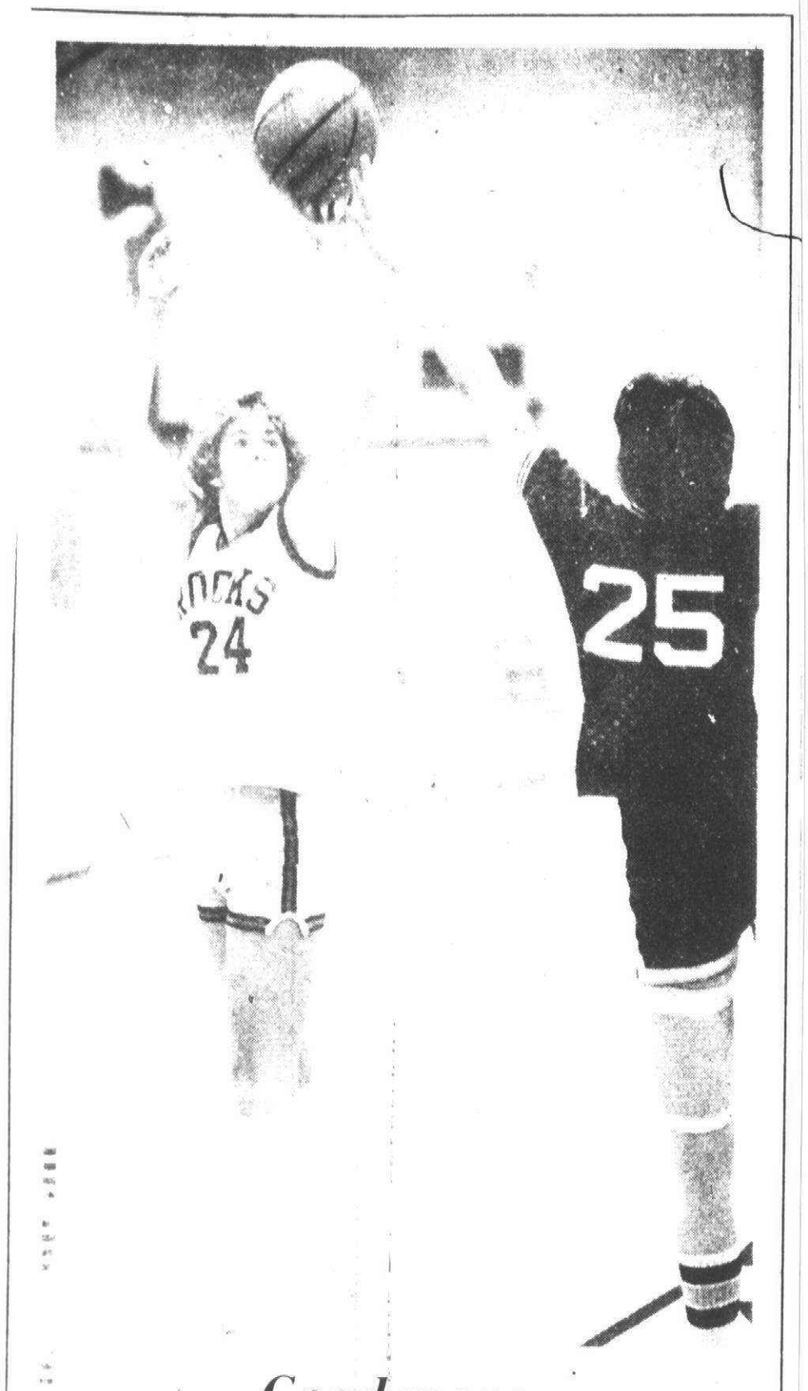

Only three Chief wrestlers could manage a win against North Farmington. A regional qualifier last year, Tom Harreld (112) easily handled Keith Kilmen 8-1.

At 138 pounds, Dave Bennett pinned John Gosselin at 4:48 of the third period. Heavyweight Paul Mooney pinned Carl Hamina at 3:02 of the second period.

"They're a good team," said Chrenko of North Farmington. "But I think we had some opening match jitters, especially with the younger kids.

"We didn't concentrate going into the final period and that's why we lost so many close matches. I'm not down, but we have a way to go."

West Bloomfield stops Bentley

By TOM BAER

West Bloomfield can add a regional championship to its girls' basketball honors this season.

Coach Mike Greene's West Bloomfield squad raised its record to 23-1 with an exciting 46-44 victory over a scrappy Livonia Bentley squad in the state Class A regional final Saturday night at Southfield-Lathrup High School.

The victory advanced West Bloomfield to the Class A quarter finals at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 12 at Grand Blanc High School. Unbeaten Flint Northern, the defending Class A champion, will provide the opposition.

Meeting Bentley proved to be no easy task for Greene's Lakers, who led by five points (24-19) at half-time and by just two (34-32) after three quarters. Both teams scored 12 points in a back-and-forth final quarter, and Bentley led by as many as three (44-41) with 55 seconds left to play.

Ann Ciaverilla sank a layup and was fouled in the act with 17 seconds left to put the winners back up by one point (45-44). She missed the foul shot but seconds later teammate Lynn Gerber made a free throw to seal it.

"They just wouldn't quit," said Greene as he watched his green-shirted girls cut down the cords after the game. "They got down to fundamentals during the last couple of minutes and that's what won it for us. We stopped giving the ball away, and our defensive rebounding improved."

Katy O'Dena scored 16 points and pulled down six rebounds for West Bloomfield. Teammate Sandy DeSilvio added 10 points and grabbed seven rebounds. Carolyn Barcewicz, the Lakers' floor leader, scored eight points.

Bentley forward Ann Roy threw in 14 points. Center Kim Plachta added 18 and hauled down 15 rebounds. Tina Ostach came off the bench and kept Bentley close with eight points.

Bentley was cold from the free-throw line, missing nine in a row before Roy finally sank one midway through the second quarter.

Stevenson, CC post cage victories

Detroit Catholic Central got a big scare Friday in its season-opening basketball game, having to come back in the final quarter to beat host Southfield 64-61.

The Shamrocks owned a 13-8 lead after the first quarter, but the Jays came back to grab a 33-30 halftime advantage. CC looked to be in trouble after three quarters, losing 49-44, but outscored the Jays 20-12 to pull it out in the last stanza.

CC finally took the lead with just three minutes left in the game, as Southfield star Vince Bean had to sit the bench much of the second half in foul trouble. He eventually drew his fifth and fouled out.

Barry Spencer, the Shamrocks' 6-7 superstar, led all scorers with 28 points. Greg Wendt, a 6-5 forward, added 19.

"It was the first game and we didn't play well," said CC coach Bernie Holowicki. "In fact, we really struggled. We're hurting. We've lost two starters (Todd Nadeau and Jim Harding).

"Before, we had some depth. Now, we've had to move some people around into different positions, so we're not the team that we would have been.

"I thought the kids showed a lot of character to come back," continued Holowicki. "We were nine points down in the fourth quarter. We could have gotten blown out, but for a couple of key plays there. We've got a long way to go."

CC's JV won its contest 63-48. Tuesday the Shamrocks travel to Dearborn to play Divine Child.

LIVONIA BENTLEY had to come back from a five-point deficit in the third quarter to slip past Farmington 61-57.

The forwards carried the scoring load for the Bulldogs. Kurt Thorderson netted 24 points and Ed Boris collected 17. Craig Evans chipped in with nine.

"It was a typical first game and the floor was slippery," said Bentley coach Jim Komula. "It was tough for both teams to play. It was really slick."

The Bulldogs, which held the upper hand most of the way, led by as many as nine points. Farmington's biggest advantage was five.

"I think our (man-to-man) defense made the difference. The kids played pretty hard," said Komula.

"They (Falcons) shoot very well. They're not a bad ball club and they're always tough at home," Komula added.

The coach singled out the work of several of his players.

"Thorderson did well at both ends of the floor. He had nine rebounds, five blocked shots and three steals," said Komula. "Bob Ellis, a guard, did a super job defensively. He had six assists and four steals.

"John Kilger, a junior, had eight points in a reserve role. You're going to hear from him.

"We're struggling, but we're going to be all right once we get cohesiveness," declared Komula.

"Bentley is a little taller than us and it started to show in the fourth quarter," said Farmington coach Rich Roy.

The Falcons defeated Bentley in the JV game 61-57.

G.C. West escapes in season debut

For an opener, or any basketball game, it was a real doozie.

Tom Miner's two free-throws with just seven seconds left Friday clinched a wild 78-77 win in the first game of the season for defending Tri-River League co-champion Garden City West over Ypsilanti-Lincoln.

The visitors from Ypsilanti scored the first nine points of the game before the Tigers could counter. By the second quarter, West took the lead, 20-19. It was a seesaw battle from there until Miner's free-throws gave the Tigers an insurmountable three-point lead.

West was leading 63-57 entering the final quarter, but Lincoln outscored the Tigers 20-15 to cause some discomfort for the home folks.

Free throws played an important part in the game, as West was outscored, 31 field goals to 23. But the Tigers sank 32-45 charity shots, as 50 fouls were called in the contest.

Coach Chris Babler relied on a balanced scoring attack. Rich Jaskolski, a senior guard, scored a game high 23 points for the Tigers. Chas Tuning chimed in with 20 at a post position. Mick Bodrie had 16 and Miner 12.

West also took the JV game, 42-28. The Tigers travel to Livonia Franklin Tuesday for their first road encounter.

GARDEN CITY EAST had some difficulty getting its offense started in the first half and lost to Inkster Cherry Hill 64-52.

The visiting Panthers trailed 18-10 after the first quarter and 35-20 at the intermission.

"It was pretty much that they (Spartans) controlled the boards on us and they (fast) broke on us a couple of times when we didn't get back," said East coach Mike Riley. "We let them take the ball to us and that pretty much was the story."

John Topalian, a forward, led East with 16 points. Glenn Barikmo added eight.

The Panthers went into the game at a disadvantage because Brad Ohman, who was expected to start as guard this season, broke his ankle at practice earlier in the week. Riley said he expects Ohman will be out at least a couple of months.

"We've got a long way to go, but we're not totally displeased with things," said Riley. "Topalian played a good game, Barikmo looked very good and Ed Kulik came off the bench and played a heads-up game.

Grapplers split

Ann Arbor Huron was forced to forfeit at the 119 and 126 pound weight classes. Brett Haarala and Kevin Santilli picked up the wins in those matches.

Dave Bennett made it two in a row with a 14-11 thrashing of Dave Douglass. Steve Hamblin pinned Dave Sikarskie at 145 pounds and at 155, Mike Dupuis pinned Matt Pedigrew in the third period.

Dave Vaughn picked up the quickest pin of the evening with a victory over Adel Bishar at 1:16 of the first period. Paul Mooney won his second match of the night with a pin at 3:06 of the second period.

"We were too conservative against North Farmington but we came back strong against Huron," said Chrenko. "I was pleased with that."

Borgess edged, 52-50; drought kills Churchill

A fourth-quarter rally by Redford Bishop Borgess fell just short Friday and the basketball Spartans were defeated by Dearborn Divine Child 52-50.

Borgess, which trailed 39-31 going into the final period, pulled within two points 52-50 when Paul Bialowicz made the front end of a one-and-one free-throw shooting opportunity. Twelve seconds remained.

The second try missed. The Spartans, who scrambled for the rebound, couldn't quite control the ball enough to get a good shot. Divine Child was awarded the ball out of bounds with three seconds left and Borgess never had another chance to score.

Mark Bartkowiak led the Spartans with 18 points. Marty Hudy contributed 12 and Larry Mulka nine.

"We had a little flat spell in the third quarter," said Borgess coach Bill Croteau. "Hudy ran into foul trouble and neither he nor Batkowiak scored that quarter. We just had breakdowns."

Croteau did say, though, that his troops gave an excellent defensive effort.

"I was just exceptionally pleased with the defense," the coach said. "We changed up and used a man, press and zone — a little bit of everything."

The Falcons made 23 of 47 shots from the field, while Borgess connected on 20 of 45.

Even though Divine Child had a big height advantage on his Spartans, Croteau said his players outrebounded their guests by a 33-25 margin.

"We really did play well as a team. All my starters — Bartkowiak, Hudy, Mulka, Bialowicz and Bob Wesley — played well. Frank Wedesky came off the bench and did a nice job," said Croteau.

Borgess won the JV game 56-32.

REDFORD TEMPLE CHRISTIAN made good use of a balanced scoring attack to whip Ypsilanti Calvary 74-54 in a Great Lakes Christian Conference game.

Rob White, a guard, tossed in 21 points. Tim Moorer scored 18 points, Kernie Gilliam 14 and Mark O'Neill 10.

The Patriots held a 19-12 lead after the first eight minutes, which they extended to 39-24 at the half.

Calvary mounted a comeback during the third period and trimmed its deficit to 47-40. Temple, though, turned on the steam during the last quarter and eventually won by 20.

In addition to leading the scoring parade, White and Moorer snared 10 and eight rebounds, respectively. Dave Cheedie grabbed six rebounds.

Gilliam had four assists.

The win was the Patriots' second in as many starts this season.

Livonia Churchill rallied in the second half, but still came up a little short in a 66-60 homecourt basketball defeat to Dearborn Friday in its basketball opener.

"The last three minutes of the second quarter were disastrous for us," said Fred Price, coach of the Chargers. "They ran off something like seven straight points. We were so cold that the basket seemed like it had a lid on it."

Dearborn took a 36-25 halftime lead, but the Chargers came back to make a game out of it, outscoring Dearborn 21-16 in the final quarter.

Churchill placed three players in double figures. Ron Reed, a 6-3 junior center, led all scorers with 18 points. Brian Kersten was right behind with 17 and Greg Hovermale had 10.

Grassam

Ian A. Grassam, D.C.

Chiropractic...The Natural Way

Like every Doctor of Chiropractic, Dr. Ian Grassam has a committment to the health care of the community.

"You must let people know that you care about them as people and that you have their best health interests at heart," says Dr. Grassam. "You must answer all of their questions with understanding and not with a lot of sophisticated language."

Dr. Grassam is always ready to explain health problems in simple, down-to-earth terms. He'll inform you, not confuse you.

And he'll fully explain the chiropractic principle which details how the brain generates powerful life-giving energy and sends it down the spinal cord, which is housed by the spinal column. The energy then is sent out the spinal nerves to all parts of the body. These life-giving nerve impulses supply the energy required by the body to carry on its normal functional activities.

The body functions properly only if the nerve channels are free and unobstructed. Nerve interference is caused when one or more of the 24 moveable vertebrae is thrown out of its normal alignment.

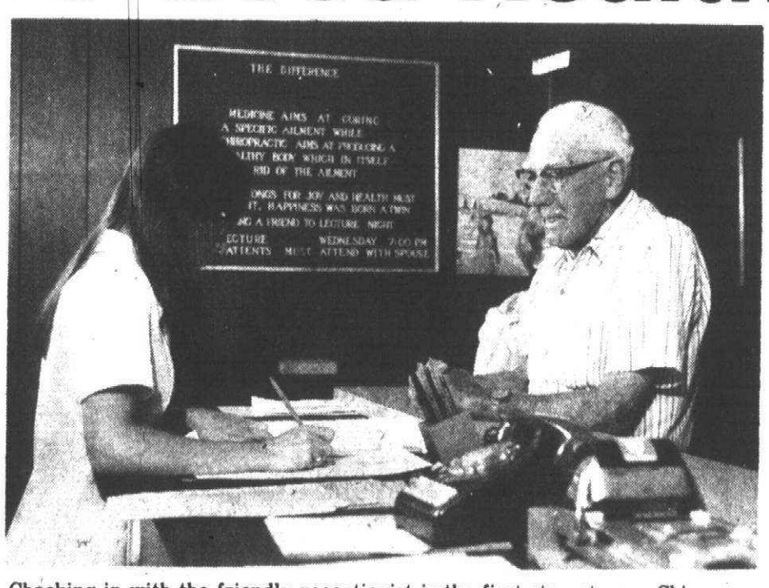

This misalignment, known as a subluxation, can be caused by a sudden jar or jerk. Even nervous tension can twist and contort the spine, causing an interrupted flow of nerve energy.

The Grassam Chiropractic Life Center is a multi-faceted complex designed to meet the varied health needs of today.

Progressive diagnostic tools and x-ray equipment are an important part of the facilities provided for the thorough examination of each patient. Up-to-date adjusting rooms and equipment enable Dr. Grassam to do the most for each patient.

For the victims of acute injuries or illness, the day care facility is always available. The waiting area also serves as a resource center where patients share their progress and take advantage of the materials available to learn about chiropractic and natural health care.

The Chiropractic Path To Good Health

Checking in with the friendly receptionist is the first stop at your Chiropractic Life Center. While you are in the reception area, take time to read the brochures and magazines which give explanations of chiropractic.

Dr. Grassam carefully checks the spine of one of his youngest patients while the parents watch happily. They know that chiropractic care is specially important during a child's formative years when bones and tissues are still in the developmental stages.

Chiropractic Care Made Me A Breadwinner Again

One day I received some literature in the mail about Chiropractic. I figured I might as well try it, since anything is better than nothing. I had an injury at work which left my right arm in pain and I was unable to lift it up past my shoulder. I was even losing my grip with my right hand. I couldn't work with tools because they would slip right out of my hand when I would twist and turn.

I went to a medical doctor who would give me a shot every two days, but it didn't do any good. My left hip and leg would hurt and it left a burning sensation. I have a previous injury in my left arm from the war, so my right arm was my bread winner, something had to be done.

I visited my chiropractor and after two adjustments the numbness left and slowly I started to improve. In a month or so I started to get my strength back again. From the war I also had a face injury which left the sensation gone somewhat. To my amazement, life and feeling started coming back to my face. I could feel a warm feeling appearing. Now I have equal feeling on both sides.

I had this problem since 1944. After all these years I've still gotten results. If I hadn't got under chiropractic care, I would hate to think what would have happened to me. Now my bread winning hand is bringing home the bread which was badly needed raising a family of ten. Even my hearing, which was affected during the war, was improved.

So I can honestly say that many things which I didn't originally come in for were helped. It proved that a chiropractic is good for yur whole general health.

The grand old game of toppling tenpins offers the competitors more excuses for poor showings than any other sport.

Let the score topple below a bowler's average and you are bound to hear such things as the pinsetting machines being off line, there is too much oil on the lanes, the approaches are sticky or the gutters are too high.

Strangely, you never hear more moaning about the pins. In the old days the maples were the subject of more complaints than any other facet of the game.

The complaints ended when the plastic pin came in to being. Now all the pins are the same. They are better controlled whereas years ago when they were solid maple they were kept in dry places for some leagues and in cold storage for tournaments.

The atmosphere controlled the condition of the pins and the scoring. Those days are gone now — and good riddance.

SCORING FELL OFF in the area during the past week.

Only one 700 series was reported and that came from Garden Lanes where John Biercamp, bowling in the St. Linus league, put together games of 243, 245 and 222 for 713. While he was breaking the barrier, Ron Branbran, several lanes away, was registering a 278, but had to be content with a 628.

It remained for Al Crawford, an 84-year-old man to take over the spotlight and show his younger opponents how things should be done. Bowling in the senior citizens league he registered a 603 with 209, 209 and 185.

And to top things off Ann Setlock returned to the winner's circle when she paced the ladies classic with a 234 in 606. Only four pins back came Doris Proulett with a 234 in 602.

WHEN IT COMES to getting tough breaks, Kathy Johnson rates near the top of the list. Bowling in the Ladies Classic at Westland Bowl, she laced games of 221, 222 and 247 for 690. But that is only part of the story. She had misses in the final frame of both her first and second game. Without them she would have been over the 700 mark.

Chuck Howton had much better luck. Competing in the Tuesday junior house league he opened with 183, then rolled 12 strikes in a row for a perfect and then dropped back to 174 for a 657.

In the women's section Judy Griwicki trailed Kathy Johnson in second place with a 299 game in a 599 series and Carol Sotala had a 245 in 584 for third place.

In the VFW circuit, Norma Aro was high with a 240 in 574.

A BIG 243 closing game enabled Ralph Westphal to take over the pacemaking role in the Wonderland Classic. But the rest of the honors went to Jim Shelp and his 300 team. Jim had a second high series with a 661 and his team rolled 3111 with games of 1026, 1057 and 1028.

GARY ELLERHOLZ rolled an unusual series in the Waterford Men's League at Plaza Lanes. He came through with a 265 game, but had to be content with a 588 series. Mark Falvo wasn't much better in the Tuesday men's loop. He had a 244 in 511.

In the Mixers circuit, Roger Tenprak was high with 683 that included a 244 and Carol Behr had a 223 in 515.

DAN WOERMER, a 14-year-old lad, stole the show in the junior league at Plymouth Bowl when he found the right angle for games of 231, 203 and 171 for 605../l IN OTHER GOOD performances Mike Grubbe paced the Canton Classic at Super Bowl with a 225; Marge Morgan showed the way in the Dolls loop with a 582; and Bob Vojckofsky was high in the senior house league with a 259 game.

veloped foul trouble.

"We lost some momentum right before halftime," said Blohm. "Early we did a great job on the boards. When Patty went out we had a hard time with their zone. She's an easy player to throw the ball to."

RU packed in its zone tight in the final quarter with Weidman on the bench.

The Panthers now advance to the state quarterfinals where they'll meet unbeaten Public School League champion Detroit Murray-Wright at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Warren Tower.

RU has a nine-game winning streak and raised its record to 21-4.

BETWEEN PLANES — Advance information is a traveler's most useful planning tool. Profit-making organizations within the travel industry are eager to provide it.

Companies in the hotel and travel transportation business advertise heavily for your travel dollars, but they do more than that. They are so eager to attract your business that they offer many useful services that are above and beyond the services you pay for.

Unfortunately, very few people take advantage of this rich source of travel information.

A good example is Alia, the Royal Jordanian Airline, which is eager to attract business and tour travelers to the Middle East. They probably know that many Americans are nervous about traveling there and that events in Iran have done nothing to ease that nervousness.

Alia offers several things to travelers, the most intriguing of which is the Mideast Travelpak. It contains general information about Mideast people and cultures, details about climate, language, economic conditions and currency in various middle eastern nations, and specific information for businessmen.

The Travelpak includes entry and inoculation information about every nation where Alia flies, as well as a visa application form and a sample cover letter.

Interested businessmen can also ask for a complete list of Middle East Consulates and embassies in the U.S. and Canada.

Send them a business card and they'll also send you personalized luggage tags. Maps are included in the package.

That's the most interesting item Alia offers, but there is more: the Alia Report, a business newsletter. Write for these goodies to Mideast Travelpak/Alia Report, Subscription Department, Post Office Drawer A, Carle Place, New York, N.Y. 11514.

AMERICAN AIRLINES, eager to attract you on new routes to ski regions, offers you a new brochure called "Ski America," that is full of information. It includes details of climate and the ski atmosphere of each area as well as information about the airline's own tours. It's available from your travel agent.

THE HOTEL ASSOCIATION of Washington, which wants you to fill its empty rooms over the Christmas season, is offering drastically reduced holiday packages at city hotels. They'll send you a "What to See and Where to Stay Guide" with a map, information about holiday events and, of course, the information about weekend packages.

A HOTEL CALLED the Beach Inn in Virginia Beach, Va. is so eager for your patronage that owner Scott Sterling built his own television station. Scott believes that what people want is new movies and televised sports events, so he mounted a television 'dish' pointed straight at the 22,300 mile-high RCA communications satellite called Satcom!.

LOOKING SOUTH, Avianca Airlines and the Columbia National Tourist Baord wants to attact your attention with an art competition geared to the International Year of the Child.

It is open to American and Canadian children younger than 12. Each contestant can submit up to two entries, using any painting or drawing technique. Subjects should relate to commercial aviation, with some theme reference to Avianca Airlines.

You can win one of three first-prize trips for two to Columbia. Send your child's drawing in before the Dec. 31 deadline to Avianca Art Competition, 4299 N.W. 36th Street, Fourth Floor, Miami, Fla. 33166.

Be mindful of travel pics in shopping for shutterbugs

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

There is an old saying among professional photographers: "Most cameras will take pictures as close as 3 feet, but most photographers won't."

There is another opinion prevalent among people who make their living with a camera: They believe that too many aspiring travel photographers buy too much expensive equipment, and don't know how to use any of it.

This is the time of year when well-meaning friends and relatives are likely to wrap those expensive photographic gadgets and leave them under the Christmas tree for travelers planning 1980 trips to nearby or faraway places.

We asked professional travel photographer Micky Jones to advise Christmas shoppers about photographic equipment and how to use it when you travel. Jones publishes his work on this page, as well as in the Detroit News, Monthly Detroit, Michigan Living and other regional and national magazines.

Q: What kind of equipment does a tourist need to take good travel pictures?

A: You can use any of a large variety of cameras but the majority of travel professionals use a single lens reflex (SLR) 35 mm camera. A SLR costs somewhere between $150 and $500 with a standard 50 mm lens. The 50 mm sees about what the eye sees.

The higher priced models are higher quality and have convenience features such as automatic exposure, self-timers, strong camera bodies, and higher shutter speeds. But you may not need all that.

A basic camera with an automatic exposure lens costs $300. Even the cheaper models have built-in exposure meters.

All cameras can be bought with interchangable lenses. You can take good pictures with the standard lens. But most travel photographers want a 28 mm or 35mm lens for wide-angle shots and a 135mm lens for telephoto shots.

A basic camera bag also holds a small automatic flash unit, a cable release, and a few accessories such as a set of close-up lenses, a polarizing filter and some lens-cleaning tissue. Close-up lenses and filters make good, inexpensive stocking stuffers.

CAMERA BAGS come in aluminum, canvas, leather or vinyl materials. I personally carry a canvas bag, because it's light, but the lenses inside the bag are in leather pouches.

What kind of film? Travel professionals usually choose color slide film exclusively, and make color prints from them if desired. Most use Kodachrome-64, which lets you take pictures in a wide range of light conditions and has a fine-grain quality second only to K-25.

Purists use K-25 for its quality but it's a very slow film. Most of us carry a few rolls of very fast film for low-light situations, but K-64 does most of the job.

Color negative films are much more expensive per picture. People who hate slide shows or want only family albums might still prefer to use color negative film and take fewer pictures.

Buy your film at home and carry it with you, because it's usually expensive overseas. A lead-lined film bag makes a good Christmas gift, because it protects your film from airport X-ray machines.

If you are buying photo equipment for Christmas, that's all the traveling photographer needs to make a basic, light-weight camera kit. Possibly add a small light-weight tripod.

Q: How does a travel photographer learn to take good pictures?

A: The best learning tool is the one most new photographers ignore: the instructions that come with your camera. Read and reread it.

You'll avoid the obvious problems that mess up so many trips — problems that occur when you don't put the film in right, don't change the ASA setting so the camera knows what film you are using and other obvious mistakes.

Shoot at least two rolls of film before you take a new camera on a trip. You'll learn a lot about both your camera and yourself. You will find out if you are using the controls properly, whether you are jiggling the camera too much, exceeding the limitations of the equipment, focusing well, etc. You'll also find out whether your accessories are working and whether you know how to use a flashgun.

YOU SHOULD practice when you refer to your instruction book and when your pictures are not too important to you. You don't want to make those basic mistakes when you are overseas and don't have a second chance to take your pictures.

This kind of basic practice and the time you spend with your instruction book helps you understand things like depth-of-focus (whether you can get a close and a faraway building both in focus) and unusual light situations such as backlighting or sunsets.

There are some things you should avoid if possible. Don't snap pictures out of bus windows. Avoid posed pictures of six people lined up in front of a landmark.

Don't take a picture of your wife on the steps of a cathedral when you are 500 feet away. Put her close to the camera, and don't worry about whether her whole body is in the picture.

DON'T TRY to squeeze too much into a picture. Take lots of photos of people, and scenes with people in them. There's nothing duller than a lot of monuments in a deserted square.

Photograph market squares, pubs, street scenes and interesting faces.

Always get as close as possible.

Before you snap the shutter, check your background. Make sure there is not some major distraction and that the camera is level so the buildings don't tilt. Don't take all your pictures horizontally. Vertical pictures are more impressive and interesting.

Study some basic books about composition. Take pictures that have signs or other things in them that help to tell the travel story to your friends; you can also use those pictures to make titles.

Don't take flash pictures inside a huge auditorium or a stadium. A flash will only light the area up to 25 feet from the camera.

How much film do you need? A good rule-of-thumb is one 36-exposure roll a day.

The best accessory-type gift I can think of for a photographer who wants to learn how to take travel pictures is the "Traveler's Book of Colour Photography," which is distributed by Kodak and sold in bookstores and camera stores. It's a big coffee table book that shows you important aspects of taking travel pictures.

Villa goes electric

Villa Vizcaya Museum and Gardens in Miami is preparing an elaborate "Sound and Light," presentation to be premiered in February 1980.

The show describes the villa and grounds in the era of James Deering, as well as the basic story of Italian Renaissance villa architecture and garden design. Visitors will become participants as they move from one part of the grounds to another on their way to the seating area.

"Sound and Light" at Vizcaya is based on a similar presentation at the Temple of Karnak at Luxor, Egypt.

According to Carl J. Weinhardt Jr., director, the project is financed through a $19,750 grant from the tourist room tax, 20 percent of which is administered by the Dade County Council of Arts and Sciences.

LOUISE SNIDER

Navin Johnson (Steve Martin) is not too bright, but he's enthusiastic, in "The Jerk," Universal's rags to riches to rags story.

Holidays bring the season's best

With the weather hardly conducive to a great flurry of activities, with vacations freeing children and adults from school and work, and with the spirit of giving being matched dollar for dollar by the spirit of self indulgence, the Christmas season has proven to be prime time for film distribution.

And for moviegoers, dismayed by a lackluster year, the holidays provide a rare opportunity for making choices. Often, the best films are saved for last.

This year, there are more than two dozen new films or major re-releases scheduled. If you don't have time (or money) to see all the ones you want, don't despair. Most of them will be around through January, and some will continue through the gloomy days of February.

Here's a quick survey of what you can expect.

"BLACK STALLION" and "Wise Blood" already have received critical praise at scattered film festival showings. "Black Stallion" is the classic children's adventure story of a boy and a beautiful Arabian Horse. The long, lyrical opening sequence has impressed many viewers.

"Wise Blood," based on the novel by Flannery O'Connor and directed by John Huston, is a bizarre story of a boy who rejects the fire and brimstone concepts drilled into him by his preacher-grandfather.

Another fine literary work made into a film is "The Europeans," adapted from the Henry James novel. Lee Remick is reputed to give a radiant performance as the American who, afer living abroad for many years, returns to New England in search of a secure marriage.

A marriage that ends in a custody battle is the subject of "Kramer vs. Kramer." Dustin Hoffman, Meryl Streep and young Justin Henry are the principals in a drama that strives for accuracy.

A different style of accuracy energizes "All That Jazz," a boisterous, sexy musical with Roy Scheider as a hard-driving choreographer. The autobiographical musical was directed and co-authored by Bob Fosse.

ANOTHER AUTOBIOGRAPHICAL film is Neil Simon's "Chapter Two," about a man starting over again after his wife dies of cancer. Marsha Mason repeats her real-life role as the woman who helps him forge a new life.

"The Jerk" and "1941" are two of the louder comedies. The former stars Steve Martin, and the latter features John Belushi. A scale model of Los Angeles, said to have cost $1 million, is used in "1941," a comedy about a Japanese attack on the city of angels.

Peter Sellers plays a retarded gardener who becomes a political adviser in the provocative comedy, "Being There." Art Carney, George Burns and Lee Strasberg make a mischievious senior trio who decide to end their days, "Going in Style."

The last days of the Battista regime provide the setting for "Cuba," a romantic adventure with Sean Connery and Brooke Adams. Las Vegas is the principal location for "The Electric Horseman," a satirical, contemporary romance with Jane Fonda and Robert Redford.

Finally, assuming the race to complete the elaborate special effects is won, two intergalactic adventures, Disney's "The Black Hole" and Paramount's "Star Trek: The Motion Picture," will open with all the wizardry money can buy.

Divorced parents Dustin Hoffman and Meryl Streep confront each other over custody of their young son, whom they both love, in Columbia Pictures' "Kramer vs. Kramer."

Glimpses

NEW RELEASES

AND JUSTICE FOR ALL (R). Al Pacino is a young trial lawyer dedicated to his profession and profoundly troubled by the legal system.

APOCALYPSE NOW (R). Francis Ford Coppola's epic film of the Vietnam war interwoven with the characters and stunning impact of Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness."

AVALANCHE EXPRESS (PG). Adventure-suspense drama about KGB agent defecting to the West. Filmed in Italy and Germany; climactic scene is, you guessed it, avalanche.

THE DEER HUNTER (R). An emotionally gripping and violent film about the lives of three friends from a small steeltown as they are affected by the Vietnam war.

ESCAPE FROM ALCATRAZ (PG). Clint Eastwood and director Don Siegel team up again to create a tense, taut drama from the conventions of the prison escape film.

THE FISH THAT SAVED PITTSBURGH (PG). Actors and pro-athletes abound in comedy about a water boy who revitalizes a slumping basketball team.

HOT STUFF (PG). Dom DeLuise directed and stars in slick comedy about undercover police fencing operation.

THE IN-LAWS (PG). Hilarious comedy with Peter Falk and Alan Arkin as near-relatives who not only plan a wedding but ripoff the U. S. Mint.

LOST AND FOUND (PG). George Segal and Glenda Jackson are paired again in romantic comedy about a "fractured" couple who meet in the Swiss Alps and decide to yodel on through life together.

LUNA (R). Uneasy and self-conscious film of widowed opera singer (Jill Clayburgh) in incestuous relationship with her teenage son.

THE MAIN EVENT (PG). Barbra Streisand is a perfume manufacturer who manages a retired boxer, Ryan O'Neal, in comedy about the fight game.

A MAN, A WOMAN AND A BANK (PG). Caper movie doesn't cut much of a caper as engineer and computer expert team up to rob a bank.

MANHATTAN (R). The inhabitants are somewhat frayed, but the Big Apple looks glorious in Woody Allen's witty peek at the pairings and partings among New York literati.

METEOR (PG). Disaster movies aren't big this year, but this is a big disaster movie about a five-mile-wide meteor on a collision course with Earth. Sean Connery, Natalie Wood, Karl Malden and many others in the large, competent cast.

MONTE PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN (R). Totally irreverent, completely zany story tracing the life of Brian Cohen, a peasant born at the same time as Christ.

MOONRAKER (PG). James Bond (Roger Moore) in space adventure with Lois Chiles for company and Richard Kiel (the metalmouthed "Jaws") for challenge in most spectacular of the 007 films.

MR. MIKE'S MONDO VIDEO (R). TV film is collection of bizarre events in continuing, exploitive, downgraded rip-off of "Mondo Cane."

THE MUPPET MOVIE (G). Anyone who doesn't like this movie is probably in need of immediate CPR. A host of stars make cameo appearances but none outshines Jim Henson's laughable, lovable muppets as they head for Hollywood.

NIGHTWING (PG). Some scary moments in the shocker about vampire bats on a Hopi Indian reservation.

NORTH DALLAS FORTY (R). Fine performances from Nick Nolte and Mac Davis as pro-football players in film that takes hard look at the commercialism of the game.

THE ONION FIELD (R). Joseph Wambaugh's powerful drama of a shootout and the consequences for the policeman involved.

PEPPERMINT SODA (PG). Charming account of two adolescent sisters growing up in Paris in 1936.

PROMISES IN THE DARK (PG). Well-acted film with Marsha Mason as a doctor dealing with a terminally ill, young patient.

RICH KIDS (PG). Tender, funny film about the effects of divorce on children and about the friendship of two intelligent 12-year-olds.

ROCKY II (PG). Sylvester Stallone as Rocky Balboa, the over-the-hill boxer, returns for a rematch with the heavyweight champ.

THE ROSE (R). Bette Midler as '60s rock star living life of emotional extremes that suggests some parallels with career of Janis Joplin.

RUNNING (PG). Susan Anspach is the wife of Michael Douglas who is training to qualify for the Olympic marathon.

THE SEDUCTION OF JOE TYNAN (R). Familiar story about the pressures on a "decent" politician; Alan Alda. Hackneyed situations are redeemed by the acting of Barbara Harris, Meryl Streep and Rip Torn.

SKATETOWN U. S. A. (PG). The roller-disco craze gets its due in film about a championship derby and the hot rollers participating.

STARTING OVER (R). Romantic comedy with toned-down Burt Reynolds torn between his ex-wife, Candice Bergen, who records a hit song, and his new love, Jill Clayburgh, an independent schoolteacher.

SUNBURN (PG). Poorly-written, edited and directed detective-comedy that should leave the participants red-faced.

10 (R). Comedy with Dudley Moore who tosses out his tenured roommate, Julie Andrews, in his search for the perfect "10."

TIME AFTER TIME (PG). Nicholas Meyer's ingenious story, based on premise that H. G. Wells constructed his time machine, smartly done as Wells tracks Jack the Ripper from 19th century London to contemporary San Francisco.

UNIDENTIFIED FLYING ODDBALL (G). Lagging Disney comedy about Cape Kennedy engineer who gets launched into Round Table Days. Based on Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

WANDA NEVADA (PG). Brooke Shields continues to mug the child-woman role as a 13-year-old orphan teamed with an over-30 con man (Peter Fonda) in a 1950s era Western featuring the grand Canyon.

S'craft singers in free concert

The Schoolcraft College Madrigal Singers, Chorale and Wind Ensemble will present a free combined concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Livonia Stevenson High School Auditorium, 33500 Six Mile Road.

Under the direction of Bradley R. Bloom, the chorale will present compositions by Pachelbel, Robert Jones and Charles IVes. The Pachelbel "Magnificat" is for double choir and portrays the joy of the Virgin Mary upon learning of her being the chosen Mother of Christ.

Ives "Psalm 90" is scored for organ, bells, and eight part chorus and, according to Bloom, "is wonderfully dramatic in its clashes of vocal color."

The 40-piece wind ensemble, organized and directed by Dr. Richard Saunders, is comprised not only of Schoolcraft College music students but also former students and residents of the community who continue to enjoy musical performance.

The ensemble will play a variety of music including marches, folk songs and programmatic selections such as Gustav Holst's "Mars" from "The Planets."

Schoolcraft's instructor and composer, Robert Jones, will be represented via selections from his work for choir and band entitled "A Mass in Motion." The composition received its premier performance at the college in 1973.

Piano recital

Pianist David Bar-Illan will perform Mussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition" and Schumann's "Sonata in G Minor" in a recital at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Orchestra Hall.

Tickets for the performance, the second in the Praeludium series, are $7.50, available at the box office or by calling 833-3700.

The Warming Oven

by Emily Watson

Only 14 more days until Christmas. If you don't feel like battling the crowds in the shopping centers, you can find peace and quiet and some gifts in your own kitchen.

Here are two of my favorite cookie recipes, especially made for Christmas.

SPICE RUM BALLS

¼ cup rum
1 cup seedless raisins
1 cup pitted dates
1 cup dried figs
½ cup walnuts
½ cup filberts
⅔ cup sugar
1½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. cardamon (optional)

Heat rum, but do not boil, over fruits in a bowl. Cover and let stand overnight. Put fruits and nuts through a food chopper, then knead until you have a compact dough. Combine sugar and spices on a flat plate. Form dough into small balls and roll in spiced sugar. Let stand on cake rack until dry. Yields about 35.

FRUIT CAKE COOKIES

1½ cups raisins
¼ cup bourbon
1½ cups all-purpose flour
1½ tsp. baking soda
1½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
½ tsp. ground cloves
¼ cup butter or margarine, softened
½ cup light brown sugar, packed
2 eggs
¼ lb. citron, diced
½ lb. whole candied cherries
½ lb. pecan halves

Put the raisins in a bowl. Add bourbon and mix well. Let stand one hour. Sift together next five ingredients, set aside. Cream butter, add sugar and eggs, and beat until light. Add the flour mixture and beat until smooth. Add raisins, citron, candied cherries and pecan halves. Mix well. Cover. Chill overnight. Shape into walnut-size balls. Bake 12 minutes on greased cookie sheets at 325 degrees.

GOLDEN CHEESE BITES

Let guests deepfry their own tidbits or serve them from a fabric-lined basket.

1 8-oz. pkg. natural brick, muenster, or monterey jack cheese
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup (2 ozs.) grated parmesan cheese
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon onion salt
Oil

Cut brick cheese into 24 cubes. Dip in egg; coat with combined parmesan cheese, crumbs and onion salt. Repeat. Fry in deep oil, 375°, until lightly browned.
24 appetizers

To Make Ahead: Cover uncooked appetizers; refrigerate. When ready to serve, fry as directed.

DELECTABLE CHICKEN PUFFS

There's a cheezy surprise tucked inside this crowd-pleaser recipe.

1/2 cup water
1/4 cup margarine
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1/4 lb. process cheese spread, cut into small cubes
* * * *
2 cups chopped cooked chicken
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/2 lb. process cheese spread, cut into small cubes
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Bring water and margarine to a boil. Add flour and salt; stir vigorously over low heat until mixture forms a ball. Remove from heat. Add eggs one at a time, beating until smooth after each addition. Stir in process cheese spread; mixing until melted. Drop level tablespoonfuls of dough onto greased cookie sheet. Bake at 400°, 25 minutes. Remove from cookie sheet immediately.

Combine chicken, celery, onion, process cheese spread and seasonings; mix lightly. Cut tops from cream puffs; fill with chicken mixture. Replace tops. Bake at 350°, 15 minutes.
Approximately 2-1/2 dozen

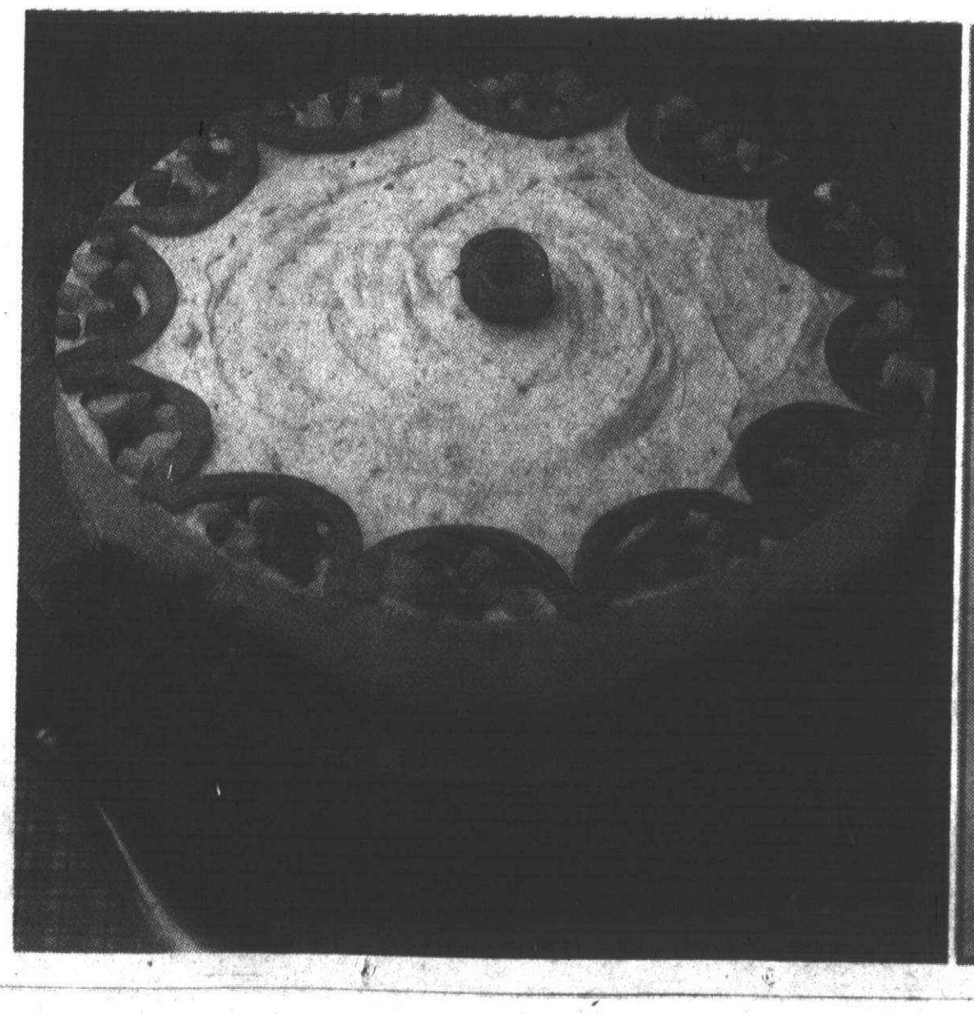

PARTY SANDWICH LOAVES

Festive and fast, these petite sandwich loaves begin with regular bread slices. Fix as many or as few as you need.

1-1/3 cups egg salad
1-1/3 cups ham salad
16 whole wheat bread slices, crusts removed
8 white bread slices, crusts removed
Soft margarine
1 12-oz. pkg. American Singles process cheese food
1 5-oz. jar neufchatel cheese spread with olives and pimento

Spread both sides of white bread and one side of whole wheat bread with margarine. For each individual loaf, top whole wheat bread slice with process cheese food, two tablespoons egg salad, white bread, process cheese food, two tablespoons ham salad and whole wheat bread. Frost top with one tablespoon neufchatel cheese spread. Cover lightly. Refrigerate 1 hour. Cut vertically into four slices.
8 loaves
32 sandwiches

APPETIZER PÂTÉ CHEESECAKE

Cheesecake moves up on the menu to the first course with this new appetizer pâté recipe. It's rich, so slice the wedges thin. Make this savory dish "a day before" if you prefer, cover and refrigerate. Garnish it just before the party starts.

1 cup crushed plain croutons
3 tablespoons margarine, melted
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2 8-oz. pkgs. cream cheese
1 8-oz. pkg. liver sausage
1/4 cup mayonnaise
3 tablespoons chopped pimiento
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon lemon juice

Combine croutons and margarine; press onto bottom of 9-inch springform pan. Bake at 350°, 10 minutes. Soften gelatin in cold water; stir over low heat until dissolved. Combine softened cream cheese, liver sausage and mayonnaise, mixing at medium speed on electric mixer until well blended. Gradually add gelatin. Stir in remaining ingredients until well blended. Pour over crust. Chill until firm. Remove rim of pan; garnish with chopped green onion and pimiento strips, if desired.

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

Convection oven latest gadget

Given, of course, equipment that is in good working order, a better-than-average cook will turn out the same quality dishes regardless of the brand or type of appliances she or he uses.

You probably recall the advent of food processors four or five years ago. Dandy machines for preparing large quantities (but how often do you make a banquet?), they were marketed as a revolution in the kitchen.

However, when a recipe requires a small quantities of an ingredient, it seems to take longer to get out the processor, set it up with the right blade and prepare the ingredient than to slice, grate, etc. by hand.

With this in mind, I went somewhat skeptically to a recent demonstration of the latest kitchen toy, the countertop convection oven.

CONVECTION OVENS are being touted as a new method of cooking, 25-30 percent faster, and, therefore, energy efficient. Another kitchen revolution.

As of this fall, there are six models available, ranging from 16 to 32 pounds, requiring from 16 to 20 inches of counter space (a lot of precious space in most kitchens).

A fan circulates heat inside the oven, cooking food evenly on all exposed sides, supposedly faster than conventional ovens. More than one food can be cooked in the oven at once without mingling of flavors.

Some models are self-cleaning, some offer optional dehydrating racks, removable drip-pans, buzzer signals at the end of cooking time and other features.

They sell in the $190-$275 price range.

One manufacturer has put together a unit obviously not countertop, which combines a microwave upper oven, gas burners and convection lower oven. It sells for around $1,100.

ANOTHER MANUFACTURER offers a built-in model, to replace your current oven, or main oven if you have two. It sells for approximately $600.

In demonstration, a chicken leg quarter (with attached thigh) cooked in 35 minutes to a nice golden brown. Not a great time savings over a conventional oven.

There are miximum sizes the oven can accommodate. For instance, if your Christmas turky weighs more than 10 pounds for some models, 14 pounds for others, it will be too large for these small to medium size ovens.

Consumer Reports (November 1979) details results of their testing of three models, none of which measured up to the manufacturer's claims.

Cakes did poorly in these ovens. Cooking time was not appreciably less than CR's top-rated range oven. The units did not clean up as easily as claimed.

A GOOD DEAL of heat was generated in the kitchen, and while it is true that a standard outlet could be used, nothing else could be plugged into the same outlet during use without blowing a fuse.

Some models require an additional investment for all new pans designed to fit those models. On one model replacement of breakable glass parts can cost up to $89. One manufacturer said its service centers are not yet operating and units are replaced when problems develop. Service is expected to be available sometime next year.

A convection oven is definitely a luxury item, and to my eye, seems more a sophisticated model of a toaster oven than a revolution in cooking.

Why not bake a candy cake?

A memorable dessert to serve during the stringing of popcorn and cranberries or hanging the candy canes is easy to bake with a super-moist layer cake mix.

What could be more fitting than a festive Candy Cane Cake? The red stripe appears like magic when using white layer cake mix, peppermint extract and red food color. This cake has a white creamy glaze and is topped with a sprinkling of crushed peppermint candies.

CANDY CANE CAKE

1 pkg. (18.5 oz.) white layer cake mix with pudding
1 cup water
¼ cup vegetable oil
3 egg whites
½ tsp. peppermint extract
½ tsp. red food color
Creamy glaze (below)
Crushed peppermint hard candies

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Generously grease and flour 12-cup bundt cake pan. Beat cake mix (dry), water, oil, egg whites and extract in large bowl on low speed, scraping bowl constantly, until moist. Beat on medium speed, scraping bowl frequently, 2 minutes. Pour about 2 cups batter into pan. Pour about ¾ cup batter into small bowl; stir in food color. Carefully pour pink batter over white batter in pan. Carefully pour remaining batter over pink batter. Bake until cake pulls away from sides of pan and springs back when touched lightly in center, 45 to 50 minutes; cool 10 minutes. Invert on wire rack or heatproof serving plate. Remove pan; cool cake completely. Spread with Creamy Glaze, allowing some to drizzle down side. Sprinkle top with peppermint candies.

CREAMY GLAZE: 3 tbsp. margarine or butter
1 cup powdered sugar
¾ tsp. vanilla
1 to 2 tbsp. water

Heat margarine in saucepan until melted. Stir in powdered sugar and vanilla. Stir in water, 1 tbsp. at a time until smooth and of desired consistency.

Give parsley, rosemary and thyme for Christmas

A gift of vinegar seasoned with parsley, sage, rosemary and thyme makes a lovely remembrance from one kitchen to another.

Seasoned vinegars are easily prepared by adding fresh or dried herbs, as well as other seasonings, to already-bottled vinegars from your supermarket.

In making herb vinegars, for example, simply add one or several to red wine, cider or white vinegar. Heat to bring out flavor; cool; cover and shake to distribute.

Set aside, tightly covered, for two weeks. Strain off the herbs and rebottle the vinegar in gift bottles.

As an attractive garnish, add a large fresh sprig of a herb to the vinegar just as you fill the bottle.

Vinegars lend themselves to many complementary flavors.

The "Parsley, Sage, Rosemary and Thyme Vinegar" contains exactly those herbs in a red wine vinegar base. It is wonderful in a vinaigrette dressing or as a marinade for beef kebabs.

Dill soaked in white vinegar perfumes a dressing for seafood salads, egg salads or a marinade for chicken or fish.

"Spicy Cider Vinegar" can be an ideal marinade for beef, as well as a zippy dressing for sliced tomatoes and celery.

Just remember it takes two weeks "sitting time" before straining and bottling to obtain maximum flavor.

Seasoned vinegars in pretty bottles make lovely holiday remembrances. Recipes here are for parsley, sage, rosemary and thyme vinegar, dill vinegar and spicy cider vinegar.

PARSLEY, SAGE, ROSEMARY AND THYME VINEGAR

4 cups red wine vinegar
12 sprigs fresh parsley
2 tsp. thyme leaves
1 tsp. rosemary leaves
1 tsp. sage leaves

In a medium saucepan, place vinegar, parsley, thyme, rosemary and sage; bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, for five minutes. Pour mixture into a one-quart jar; cover and set aside for two weeks, shaking occasionally. Strain out herbs. Pour vinegar into bottles with tight-fitting covers, adding a sprig of parsley, if desired. Use in salad dressings, marinades for beef or sprinkled over vegetables.

SPICY CIDER VINEGAR

4 cups cider vinegar
¼ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic
½ tsp. crushed red pepper
½ tsp. coarsely ground black

In a one-quart jar, place vinegar, onion, garlic, red pepper and black pepper; cover and shake vigorously. Set aside for two weeks, shaking occasionally. Strain out seasonings. Pour vinegar into bottles with tight-fitting covers. Use in salad dressings and marinades for meat or fish.

DILL VINEGAR

4 cups white vinegar
4 tbsp. dill weed

In a one-quart jar place vinegar and dill; cover and shake vigorously. Set aside for two weeks, shaking occasionally. Strain out dill using a double thickness of cheesecloth. Pour vinegar into bottles with tight-fitting covers. Use in salad dressings, or with fish, vegetables and poultry.

FRESH DILL VINEGAR

14 sprigs fresh dill
4 cups white vinegar

Crush dill with a mallet. In a medium saucepan, place dill and vinegar; bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, for five minutes. Pour mixture into a one-quart jar; cover and set aside for two weeks, shaking occasionally. Strain out dill. Pour vinegar into bottles with tight-fitting covers, adding a fresh sprig of dill, if desired. Use in salad dressings or with fish, vegetables and poultry.

Eggnogs, oranges for holiday drinks

During the holidays, serve family and guests eggnog, the traditional holiday drink, or orange milk punch.

Make eggnog by beating six eggs until thick. Add two cups each of milk and cream, ⅔ cup sugar, two tbsp. vanilla extract and ¼ tsp. salt. Add one cup brandy or dark rum (optional). Mix well until blended. Top with freshly grated nutmeg.

To make orange milk punch, combine one quart softened vanilla ice cream and two pints orange sherbet. Add one 16-ounce bottle carbonated lemon-lime drink, one quart milk and blend. Serve in punch bowl garnished with maraschino cherries if desired. Makes 24 one-half cup servings.

If you think these recipes were great, wait til next Monday.

Don't miss.

The Happy Cooker

Detroit celebrities share favorite recipes

What do Phylis Diller, Rosey Grier, Sophia Loren, Vincent Price, Walter Slezak, Dinah Shore and Natalie Wood have in common?

Besides being stars, they are united in their respective roles as semi-professionals in the culinary arena. All have contributed recipes or food-related articles to national publications. A few have even authored gourmet cookbooks.

Still, the public continues to be surprised that celebrities — those articulate, impeccably attired, perfectly coiffed individuals — really enjoy cooking.

To many people, it is heresy to even hint that stars frequently don a nondescript white chef's apron.

IN MICHIGAN, we need look no further than our own backyards to locate individuals enjoying celebrity status in their respective fields and professions — radio, television, business, medicine and sports — and who also enjoy food and kitchen creativity.

In fact, local celebrities were so generous in offering recipes for this column that it will be presented in two parts.

Native Detroiter Gene Taylor is the effervescent talk show host who joined Channel 4 last October. He brings with him one of the most well-rounded and diverse backgrounds to hit Michigan afternoon television tubes in ages.

Gene returned home to host WDIV's daily "Taylor-Made" show by way of Toronto, where he had been with CBC for six years hosting both talk and game shows.

Gene has also written articles for the Toronto Star, Toronto Sun, Playboy and the Sunday Parade. Performers Jackie Vernon, Lorne Michaels, our own Dick Purtan and the late Freddie Prinze used comedic material written for them by Gene.

And if that isn't enough, he has written and presented his own material on the nightclub circuit at the Copa in New York City, Playboy Clubs throughout the country and Detroit's Roostertail.

Still another facet of Gene's talents are displayed when he takes over KP duty from wife Mardi to prepare an elegant potato dish.

So, all in all, Toronto's loss is our gain. We join Gene's fans in issuing a heartfelt welcome home.

CRAB STUFFED POTATOES

Bake 6 potatoes at 325 degrees for one hour. Remove insides and mash together with ½ lb. butter, ½ pt. heavy cream (whipping), 1 cup diced onions and salt and pepper to taste. Set aside and reserve. Mix 2½ cups shredded cheddar cheese with 3 cups shredded crabmeat. Add to reserved potato mixture and blend all well. Restuff potato shells with mixture and sprinkle surface with paprika. Place in 425 degree oven for 15 minutes.

WHAT FUN it was for this columnist to turn the tables on two of our area's most knowledgable food writers and restaurant reviewers.

Mary Conway and Harry Satchwell's zest for living, loving, dining and people is evidenced throughout their authoratative volume, "Meet, Eat, and Enjoy Greater Detroit."

Just when one feels that this dynamic duo's yearly publication has peaked and cannot possibly get any better, they do it again. Their 1980 edition recently hit the bookstores with an abundance of new data. It takes in 800 restaurants and more than 200 menus, 60 of which reveal their menus for the first time.

There isn't a boring spot in this 296-page book. It covers everything from dress codes and parking to take-out items and recipes. They even feature restaurants catering to children and also display helpful maps.

And for those readers who have experienced the authors' wit in previous volumes, don't miss Harry Satchwell's article on Page 7, "Morning at a Non-glamor Fat Farm."

For more comments or information, write the authors at J. Wells, Inc., P.O. Box 15194, Detroit 48215.

HARRY'S New Orleans eggnog is adapted from an old original Creole recipe. Harry comments, "The preparation takes a bit of time, but is well worth the effort to produce this first-rate eggnog."

NEW ORLEANS EGGNOG

Separate the yolks and whites of 10 eggs. Beat the yolks to a cream. Add 1¾ cups of white granulated sugar, and again beat to a cream, making sure that the yolks and sugar are thoroughly blended and that the mixture is beaten until it is very, very light. Pour 2 qts. of cold milk into the mixture and stir well. Just before serving, gently blend in the whites of the eggs which have been beaten to a stiff froth. Add 1 to 1½ cups fine French cognac and stir gently to blend all together.

NOTE: Use good cognac, but (if available) a light-bodied one is best for most tastes. Don't compromise at this point. Serve in crystal cups; top with the lightest sprinkling of nutmeg. Serves 10 thirsty people.

Mary suggests her Creamed Spinach Casserole for an easy-to-prepare elegant dish. From Mary, "This rich concoction of creamed spinach, mushrooms and artichoke bottoms bathed overall with hollandaise sauce is the perfect accompaniment to holiday fare."

CREAMED SPINACH CASSEROLE

Cook two packages frozen chopped spinach according to directions and press out all water. Make a cream sauce of 6 tbsp. butter, 1 tbsp. flour, ½ cup milk and salt and pepper to taste. Add to spinach and blend. Set aside and reserve. Saute ½ lb. fresh mushrooms; coarsely chopped, in 1 tbsp. butter. Add pinch of garlic powder. Mix with spinach-sauce combination. Take 1 can large artichoke bottoms and arrange in bottom of a buttered casserole. Mound spinach mixture evenly on top of artichoke bottoms and heat in 350 degree oven for ½ hour. Top with your favorite Hollandaise sauce just before serving. Serves 6.

QUIZ TIME: Who was drafted by the Pistons in 1966-67 after an All-American career at Syracuse University? Averaging 20 points per game his first season with the Pistons, he was named Rookie of the Year and was a first-time All-Star twice in 1967-68 and 1970-71. He played in seven All-Star games and won the MVP award in the 1975-76 All-Star game.

Ranking 15th on the all-time scoring list and seventh on the all-time assists list, he is one of only four players in NBA history to have averaged more than 20 points and six assists in his career.

An eye injury, which resulted in a detached retina, forced him to miss 37 games during the 1971-72 season. Following recovery, however, he bounced back to his all-star form.

The above-mentioned honors and awards belong to Dave Bing.

An area resident, Dave is married, the father of three daughters, and is employed by Paragon Steel.

Aaris and Dave Bing are two of the nicest, most down-to-earth "celebs" this columnist has had the pleasure of interviewing.

Aaris contributed a delicious sweet potato casserole, claiming she is a "plain cook." Aaris adds, "Dave concocts a salad for the family consisting of peeled and sliced apples, grapefruit sections, cantelope, pineapple and orange slices and tosses it all together.

"The key to the recipe's success with the children is that Daddy made it," she says.

SWEET POTATO CASSEROLE

Cook 4 sweet potatoes in boiling water until tender. Peel and mash potatoes; add ¼ cup milk (Aaris uses canned), ½ stick melted butter; one 1-lb. 4 oz. can crushed pineapple with ¼ cup of the juice; 2 (or more) tbsp. raisins; dash of cinnamon and nutmeg; 1 tsp. vanilla (optional); and 1 tsp. lemon juice (optional).

Beat well until light and fluffy and if it seems too dry, add a little more fruit juice or milk. Place all into greased ovenproof casserole and bake in moderate 350 degree oven for 20-30 minutes. Serves 5-6 as an entree accompaniment.

TAKE TWO homemakers and mix liberally with ingenuity; add a cupful of inspiration and whip together with vast amounts of determination.

Finished product: "Do Something Different," a business venture.

That recipe was inadvertently cooked up in 1971 when West Bloomfield's Muriel Kushner and Barbara Blatz needed a creative outlet. The two former school teachers found that existing classes in the community entailed a long commitment, some 10-20 weeks.

They took matters into their own hands and developed a program to appeal to people like themselves. Since their goal was to stimulate the public to explore many subjects, there would be no lengthy, in-depth courses.

Instead, they offered eight two-hour, one-time-only classes on a variety of topics including the occult, psychology, food and diet, exercise, and gourmet cooking.

Seven years later, the two can applaud themselves. Their business venture has flourished.

"Do Something Different" covers nearly 170 topics with over 100 teachers and offices in four cities.

Ms. Kushner and Ms. Blatz love to entertain but have hectic work schedules. But Mrs. Kushner says her no-bake chocolate torte is speedy and a gastronomical masterpiece.

NO-BAKE CHOCOLATE TORTE

1 lg. angel food cake
12 oz. bag chocolate chips (semi-sweet)
6 tbsp. hot water
1 pt. whipping cream
4½ oz. Cool Whip
4 eggs
Maraschino cherries with stems
Chocolate candy bar

Cut cake into cubes. Separate eggs. Melt chips in water in top of double boiler. Cool. Add egg yolks and mix well. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold chocolate mix into whites. Whip the whipping cream using a chilled bowl and chilled beaters. Fold into chocolate mix and add cubed cake. Pour into springform pan and refrigerate overnight.

Put on cake plate and spread with cool whip, frosting sides and top. Shave candy bar in swirls on top of cake. Place cherries on side of cake to decorate.

NEXT WEEK: celebrity recipes continued.

WE GET LETTERS:

Betty Ann Berry of Livonia lost her recipe for chocolate topping and hopes column readers will help her out. "It was a rich, thick ice cream topping which used bittersweet chocolate," writes Mrs. Berry.

Will the person who sent me recipes for spinach salad and cherry cheese cake kindly send in name, address and telephone number so that we may give proper credit when we share the delectable recipes with column readers?

Having gone through all her cookie recipes for rolled, sugar, refrigerator and six-layered bars, Mrs. Edward Bogotski of Plymouth needs some help. "My family looks forward to my Christmas cookies. Do you, or any of your readers, know of anything different, possibly of an ethnic origin?"

Here is a favorite cookie-pastry of mine. Hopefully, some of our readers will also come to your rescue so that we may share recipes in this column.

STRUDEL SPECIALTY

2 cups all-purpose flour
½ pt. sour cream
½ lb. melted butter or margarine
10-oz. jar apricot preserves
6½ oz. walnut chips
8 tbsp. shredded coconut
Cinnamon
Powdered sugar

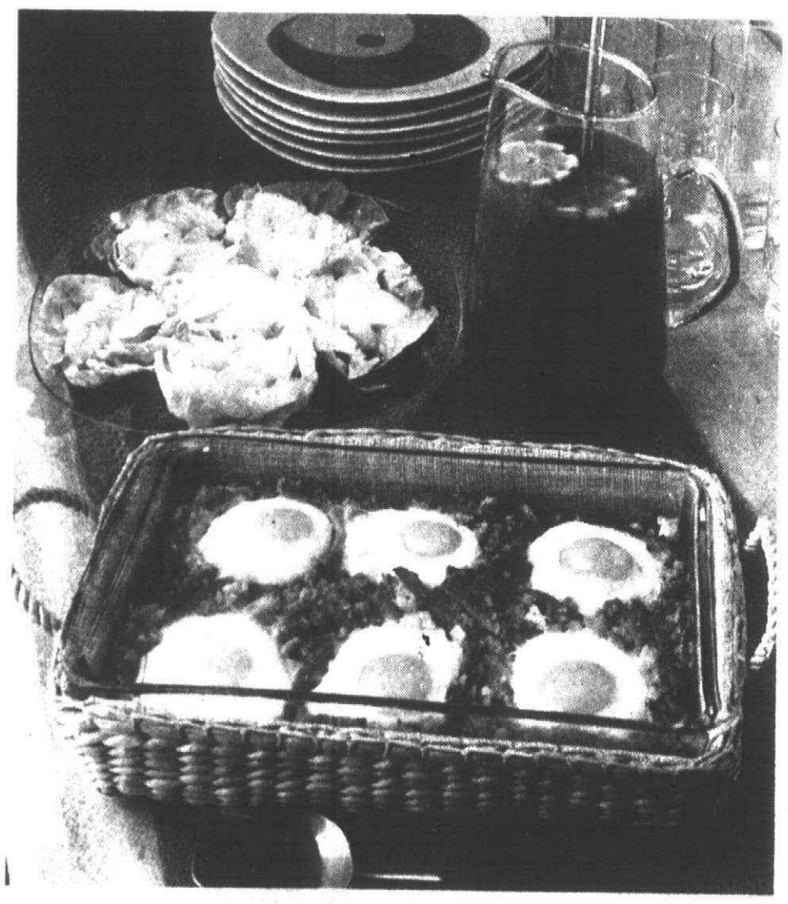

Combine flour, sour cream and butter. Blend thoroughly, wrap in plastic wrap and foil and refrigerate overnight. Cut into four equal parts. Rewrap three sections and remove from refrigerator, a section at a time as needed. Roll section out, as thin as possible, on lightly floured board. Spread surface with ¼ of the preserves. Sprinkle with ¼ of the nuts and 2 tbsp. of coconut. Dust with small amount of cinnamon. Roll up, jellyroll fashion. Pinch ends to seal. Repeat with three remaining dough sections.

Place on ungreased baking sheet, using two sheets for entire recipe. Shape into horseshoe and bake in preheated 350 degree oven for approximately 1 hour. When cool, cut into one-in. pieces. Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

If it is to be kept for more than one day, keep under refrigeration, wrapped securely. This recipe freezes beautifully.

After baking, simply cut each horseshoe in half, wrap with foil and freeze. When needed, defrost and cut as directed and sprinkle with sugar. Yields approximately 72 pieces.

Mrs. Stulberg, a West Bloomfield resident, is a food writer, lecturer and author of the cookbook for dieters, "The Happy Cooker." Letters, requests and recipes are welcome. Those selected for column sharing will give complete donor credit and must be accompanied by name, address and telephone number. Column communications should be made by writing The Happy Cooker, c/o The Plymouth Observer, 461 S. Main, Plymouth MI 48170.

Holiday Eggs

1 pkg (6-serving size) stuffing mix, any flavor
¼ cup butter or margarine, cut into pieces
1½ cups hot water
1 cup shredded cooked ham
6 eggs

Place contents of vegetable/seasoning packet (from stuffing mix) and butter in a shallow two-quart baking dish. Add water. Stir just to blend and completely melt butter. Add stuffing crumbs; stir just to moisten. Spread mixture evenly in dish and mark into six squares. Sprinkle with ham. Make a depression in center of each square; and carefully add eggs. Bake at 425 degrees about 10 minutes, or until eggs are set. Serve with a sauce if desired.

Apple cranberry pie holiday delight

Tangy Jonathan apples and cranberries make this pie a good bet for the holidays.

APPLE CRANBERRY PIE

9 in. unbaked pie shell
6 Jonathan apples, peeled, cored and sliced
1 cup canned whole cranberry sauce
½ cup brown sugar
1 tbsp. flour
½ tsp. nutmeg
½ tsp. cinnamon

Mix together sliced apples, cranberry sauce, brown sugar, flour and spices. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Top with ½ cup brown sugar, ¾ cup flour and ¼ cup butter (mixed together until crumbly). Bake at 400 degrees for 35 minutes or until apples are done. Serve plain or with ice cream.

It's time to sample wine from Michigan

Michigan ranks sixth among wine-making states, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Appetizer, dinner, sparkling and cooking wines are bottled in many of the 14 wineries now selling products throughout the state and in half the nation.

Pineapples, holiday rum make a dream of a pie

Fluffy pineapple rum pie is a dessert to celebrate about. It is elegant, festive and a dream of a pie to prepare. The secret of the fluffy filling mixture is the combination of whipped topping mix and instant pudding and pie filling. Blend all the ingredients in one bowl, add crushed pineapple and rum, pour into the pie shell, chill and enjoy your holiday.

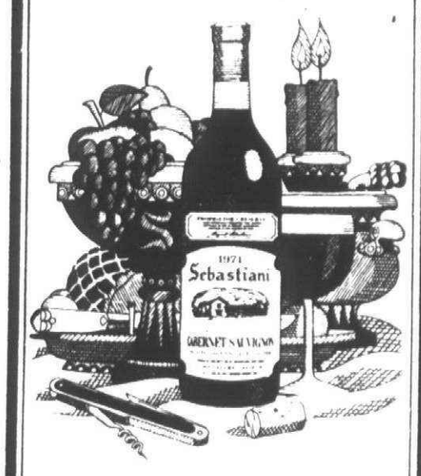

FLUFFY PINEAPPLE RUM PIE

2 envelopes whipped topping mix
2¼ cups cold milk
2 pkgs. (4 serving size) coconut cream flavor instant pudding and pie filling
1 can (8 oz.) crushed pineapple juice
3 tbsp. light rum (or use ¾ tbsp. rum extract)
1 baked 9-in. pie shell, cooled

Prepare whipped topping mix with 1 cup of milk as directed on the package, using large mixer bowl. Add remaining 1¼ cups milk, the pie filling mix, undrained pineapple and rum. Blend; then beat at high speed for 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Spoon into pie shell. Chill at least 4 hours. Garnish with toasted coconut, if desired.

What Makes A Great Wine?

Ask a wine expert to make a list of everything he would require to produce a truly great wine. If he could have everything he wanted, his list would have to start with premium grapes from the oldest vineyards in Northern California where climate and soil match the fine grape growing areas of Europe.

He would insist that these European vines and the whole wine-making process be personally tended by a dedicated winemaker — with the inherited skills of an old-world wine- making family.

Not being restricted by mass production methods, his wine would be mellowed in the unhurried, traditional way — softened in redwood and aged in many small oaken barrels to assure that every drop was delicately caressed by the essence of the wood.

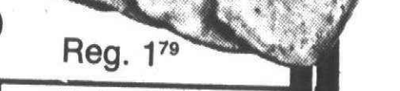

Limestone cellars would be a must to maintain a cool, even temperature to slowly nurture the wine to full maturity.

As you suspected, there actually is a wine made this way. In fact, it's the only wine in the state of California that can honestly claim all of these wine-making advantages. It's called Sebastiani. You won't find it everywhere because wine made this way can't be mass produced. But it's worth looking for. If your wine retailer doesn't have Sebastiani, write us for the name of one in your area who does. And please write for our free monthly newsletter.

Should you drive 55 under all conditions?

Should motorists always observe the national 55 mph speed limit or any posted speed for that matter?

An affirmative answer to such a question from a national enforcement authority might be expected. But Norman Darwick, acting executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP), points out that there are times when even these speed limits are entirely too fast for road and weather conditions.

"IACP is urging stricter enforcement of the 55 mph limit," Darwick emphasized. "But during the winter months when pavements may be slippery, speeds must be reduced still further."

Darwick cited motorists' problems during last winter's unprecedented winter storms as a case in point. "Skidding and ditched cars were evidence that all too many motorists have little or no idea of stopping or cornering ability on snowy or icy pavements.

"What drivers seemed to ignore was the fact that they should cut their speed by as much as two-thirds when slippery pavement conditions prevail." He cited these findings from the National Safety Council's committee on winter driving hazards skip tests:

AT THE LEGAL speed of 55 mph — intended for ideal road and weather conditions — the average car can be braked to a stop in approximately 150 feet. In contrast, it takes almost this same distance to stop on glare ice from a speed of only 20 miles an hour.

Darwick, who in addition to his IACP duties is also a director of the Safe Winter Driving League, headquartered in Chicago, reviewed recommended personal driving techniques:

• When slowing or stopping on slippery pavements, pump your brakes. An intermittent pumping, on-off action helps maintain steering during those times your wheels are rolling. Locked wheels are sure to throw your car into a skid.

• If you misjudge stopping or cornering ability and your car does go into a skid, steer into the skid — turn your wheel in the same direction the rear of the car is skidding. When you feel the car start to recover, straighten your front wheels. Above all, don't hit the brakes when the rear end starts to slide. You can't steer a car when all four wheels are locked and not rolling.

• Get the "feel" of the road whenever there is any question as to how slippery the pavement is. By gunning the engine or by jabbing the brake pedal you can determine how much traction is available. Reduce your speed and increase your following distance accordingly.

DARWICK QUOTED NSC skid-test findings related to traction aids when trying to stop on ice slick surfaces, in the order of their effectiveness.

Reinforced tire chains on the rear wheels reduce braking distance on ice by 50 percent as compared with regular tires.

• Studded snow tires (where permitted) on the rear wheels reduce braking distance on ice by 19 percent compared to regular tires.

• Conventional snow tires (without studs) offer no advantage over regular tires in stopping on ice.

• When used on the rear wheels only, these traction aids do not materially improve the cornering capacity of a vehicle. With studded tires on all four wheels, however, cornering speed is increased about 25 percent.

"However," Darwick concluded, "regardless of these improvements, in no instance is the resulting traction close to that of conventional highway tires on a dry or even wet pavement.

"Your best course of action is to slow down and adjust your speed to conditions regardless of what the speed sign on the post says."

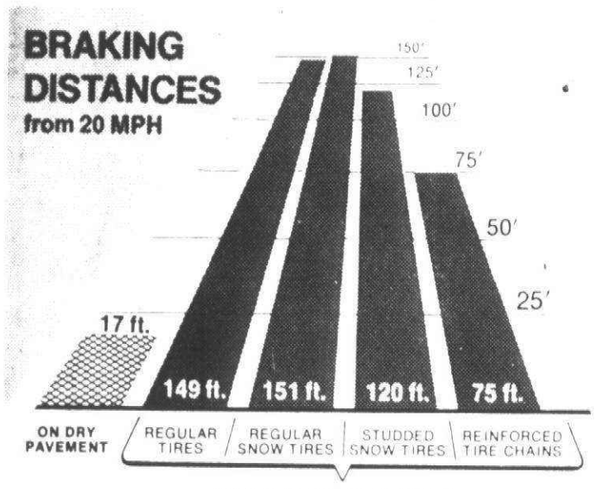

Never short of change

Early American colonists had a do-it-yourself way of making change. If they needed a quarter, they simply broke two bits off of a dollar coin of soft silver. For 50 cents, four bits. Some people still use the names today, National Geographic World magazine says.

CAN YOU STOP IN TIME?

Test engineer records data during the National Safety Council's winter driving tests at Stevens Point, Wisconsin. The annual testing program has evaluated vehicles, tires, tire chains and other equipment under extreme weather conditions.

ON GLARE ICE AT 25°F.

Pointing up the extreme hazard of driving on glare ice, these tests show that stopping on glare ice may take as much as nine times the normal, dry pavement distance. The tests also disclose that conventional snow tires are of no help in stopping on ice, while studded tires reduce braking distance by 19%, and reinforced tire chains by 50%.

How do you rate as a house guest?

By BETTY MASSON

(In the following, all names have been changed to protect those who still want to have friends).

Joan says she "can't imagine being stuck in the kitchen alone while everyone else is sitting around, waiting for me to put dinner on the table." She welcomes help in the kitchen.

Liz says she "can't stand having people help in the kitchen." They only get in her way, and showing guests what to do and how to do it uses up too much time. Having someone talk about Aunt Mary's illness or tell how she cooks a turkey is just too distracting.

BEING A GOOD GUEST isn't easy. It takes thought and effort.

"I don't like people in my kitchen, and I don't offer to go into other people's kitchens," said Martha, who might qualify as this area's "hostess with the mostes.'" She loves to cook, and she studies her guests ahead of time, preparing what she thinks they will like. She loves formal dinner parties with her best china and gleaming crystal and silver. "Everything has to be the best," she says.

She insists that even teen-age guests come properly attired.

In Jennie's family, things are much more casual. For instance, everyone goes home for Thanksgiving. With 25 people there for the weekend, the dining room table is used only to hold food; people eat wherever they can find space. Blue jeans are perfectly acceptable.

Mary falls somewhere in between. "I'm apt to use the silver and crystal and paper plates," she confesses. "The important thing to me is to have flowers on the table."

IT'S A WISE GUEST who knows what to expect, and comes prepared to adapt.

'I don't like people in my kitchen, and I don't offer to go into other people's kitchens.'
— Hostess

Cooks who don't like others in the kitchen seem to be in the majority in our survey. So when your hostess tells you, she doesn't want your help, chances are very good she means just that.

If you do go into the kitchen anyway, figuring that she is merely being polite and would love your help, suggestions and chitchat as she cooks, the best thing to do is disappear when she starts rattling pots and pans. This is a good indication she meant it.

If your stay is protracted and you feel your hostess is working too hard preparing all those meals, it's a good idea to take your host and hostess out to dinner — and not to Burger Chef.

Take the kids out to Burger Chef — this might be an even better idea.

Guests who can amuse childen are almost always asked back.

Another good idea, acccording to Liz, is to offer to prepare a dessert or salad early in the day when the kitchen is free. But, if your hostess says "No, thank you" to this suggestion, take her word for it.

Next to overzealous cooks, the biggest roadblock to good guest-hostess relations seems be finicky eaters.

"I like people who will try everything," said Julia, adding that she also likes people who arrive on time for dinner.

If you try everything, you may learn something, such as a spoonful of sugar makes the rutabaga go down more tastily or you don't hate snails after all.

But don't tell your hostess how you make turkey dressing as you're eating hers. She might get the idea that you don't like hers.

BATHROOMS CAN ALSO be an area in which great tact is called for. For instance, if host and hostess usually go to bed after the 11 o'clock news, it won't make you popular to decide to have a shower just then.

It's also well to keep out of the way in the morning, especially if there are children who have to get ready for school.

While arriving wiht a present is a nice idea, it's often better to wait until the visit is over and send a gift with your thank-you letter.

Even the flowers and wine can be tricky, and for most hosts, candy is almost immoral these days. Your choice in wines may not agree with your hosts', and bringing a poinsettia to someone who has already received three that week isn't exactly thrilling.

That frog ashtray with a gaping mouth wouldn't do too well as a gift for someone whose house is decorated with Victorian furniture; and that lovely linen table cloth isn't much good to a working mother who always uses placemats and paper napkins.

Again, a crock pot wouldn't be much appreciated if your hostess already has two.

If you send a gift after your visit, you've had a chance to study her needs and wants. Blankets or extra pillows might be just the thing to gladden her heart and make entertaining easier.

ARRIVING ITSELF is another area in which planning ahead helps. "One thing I really like," said Julia, "is to have some idea of when my guests are arriving, especially if they are coming by car from a distance. It really helps if they telephone the night before to give me some idea of when they will arrive. That way, I don't have to stay in all day, worrying and wondering."

In winter time, though, airplanes can sometimes really foul up both hosts and guests. One cold wintry day, Virginia went down to Metropolitan Airport to collect her friends arriving from Puerto Rico. After waiting for an hour, she was finally informed that because of high winds in Detroit, the plane could not land here. It had gone back to Cleveland.

It was three days before she saw her guests, who finally had to come by bus. These sorts of things can be frustrating to both parties, to put it mildly.

But maddening is more the word for Martha's guests who got "smogged in" in Fresno, Calif., and didn't even try to call to let her know they wouldn't be on the expected flight.

Even checking with the airlines before she left the house (always a good, but by no means foolproof idea) wouldn't have saved her a trip, since the flight arrived from Denver on time... without her guests.

But a telephone call — and a telephone credit card — could have helped in this case. Telephone credit cards are easy to obtain, and are a good way of staying popular when you're visiting friends and have to call home every night to check on the children. Many a friendship has been chilled by an unexpectedly large telephone bill a month or so after a guest's departure.

PETS ALMOST NEVER make welcome guests. Complained Liz, "These people arrived with their dog. We don't have a dog; I hate animals, but for a week we had this puppy visiting us." They also had more than a telephone bill to remind them of their friends' visit.

'One thing I really like is to have some idea of when my guests are arriving, especially if they are coming by car from a distance. It really helps if they telephone the night before to give me some idea of when they will arrive. In that way, I don't have to stay in all day, worrying and wondering.'
— Hostess

It should go without saying that guests should keep their own possessions picked up.

"My brother-in-law used to drive me crazy leaving his epilepsy pills around when the children were small," said Liz. Birth control pills, as well as Grandma and Grandpa's medications, can be a hazard, too.

Guests should keep themselves picked up as well.

"We once had one of my son's friends with us for four long months," said Julia ruefully. "He was into yoga and transcendental meditation, and used to practice both in the middle in the living room. The rest of the family kept stumbling over him all the time."

A sensitive guest, and one who's likely to be asked back, is one who realizes that bright and intelligent as his or her conversation is, there are times when his hosts would like to be alone.

If he doesn't have a car, he can always plead work to catch up on and disappear to his room for an hour or two.

"No one should expect to be entertained 24 hours a day," said Joan. "I'm a very private person and I make a point of seeing that both my guest and I get some time alone."

It's Joan who has no reservations about airing her belief in the old saws, "Fish and guests smell after three days" and "Short visits make long friends."

Even guests can appreciate being left alone occasionally. "They were good hosts," said Julia. "They didn't try to entertain us all the time. They let us do what we wanted to do."

While it's nice for hosts to be able to provide transportation, guests shouldn't expect it. "Some guests of ours once had a most interesting day," said Liz, "They went off exploring by themselves on our bicycles."

A GOOD GUEST CAN also come up with suggestions about what he would like to do. It's no fun taking guests to a place you think is interesting and finding them completely uninterested.

Nor does a host want to hear how much Boyne Mountain reminds you (or differs from) the Swiss Alps?, and how you had such a marvelous time on your last visit there.

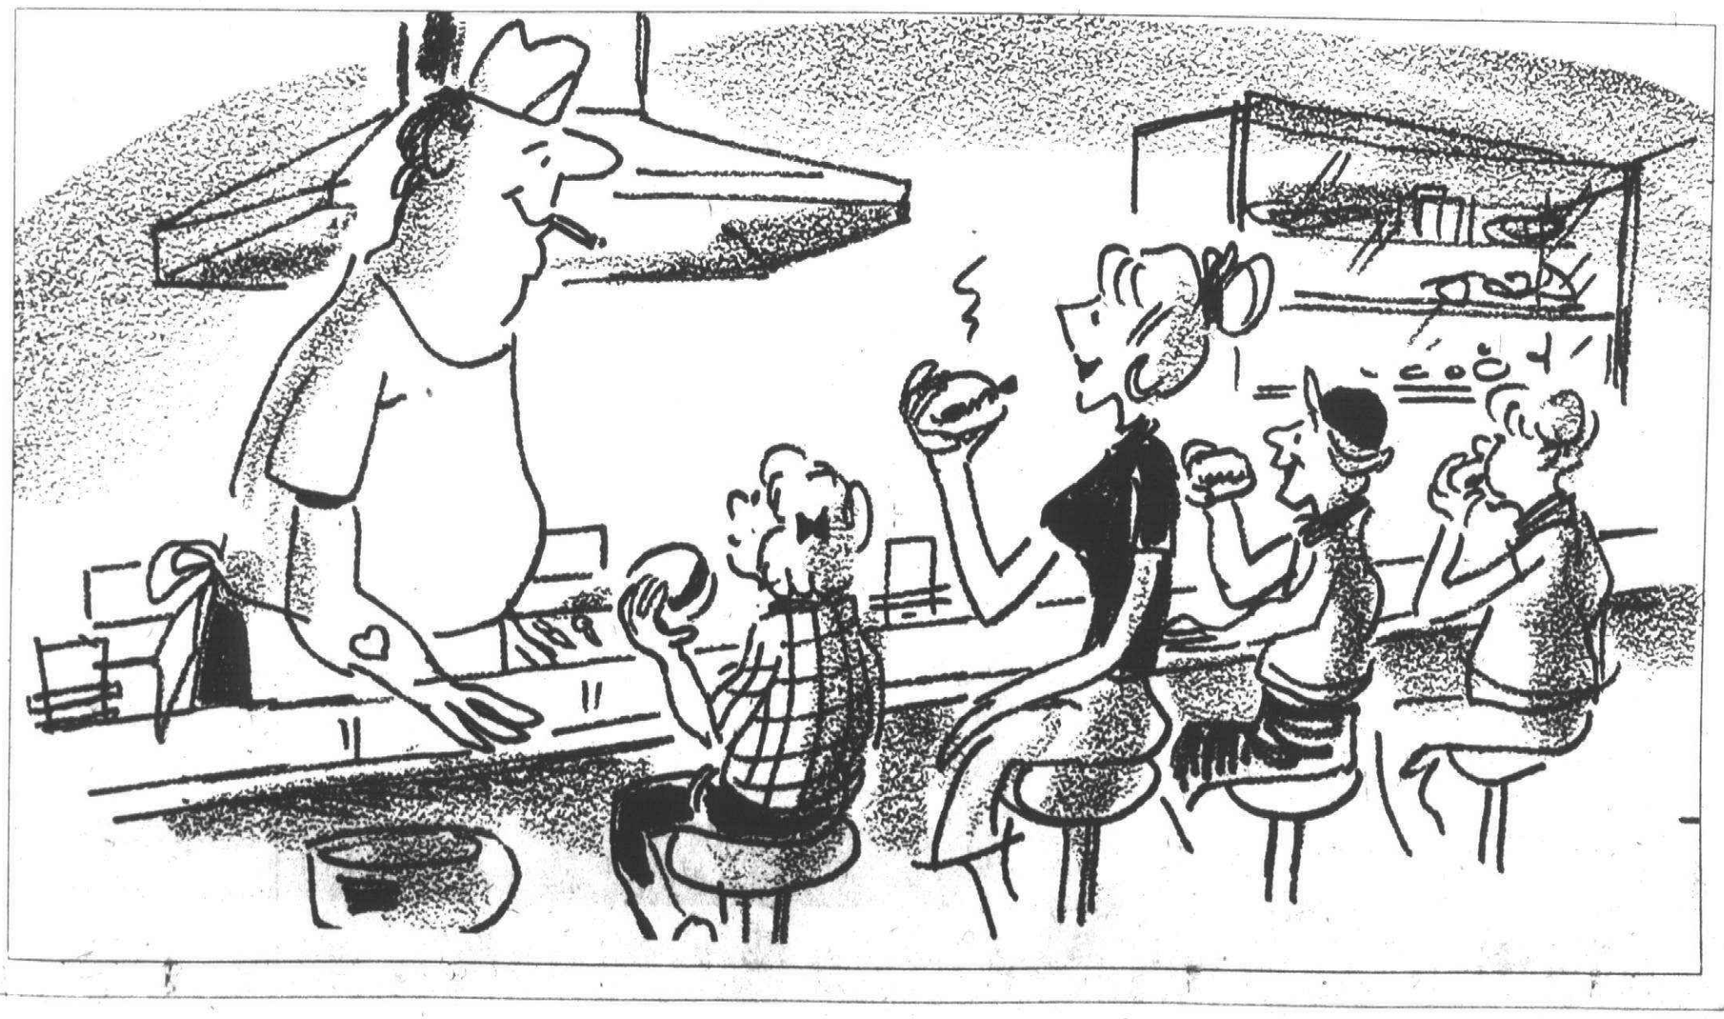

It doesn't hurt to read ahead and get some ideas about what the area you're visiting has to offer.

"Some recent guests of mine wanted to visit Frankenmuth," said Mary, " and this was fine because we had never been been there. We had an enjoyable dinner and did a lot of visiting during the drive there and back."

But if, as a guest, you'd rather stay home and watch the football game on television than go to Greenfield Village, say so. It could well be that still another trip to the Village, interesting as it is, isn't what your host wants to do either.

In the final analysis, the onus has to be on the guest to adapt. After all, as a guest you can always fake an emergency and go home.

But for your hosts, there's no place to go.

Gian-Carlo Vellutino is appearing as Amahl in the opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors" on Sunday, Dec. 16, in Plymouth Salem High School. He will be accompanied by the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

Menotti namesake is taking role of Amahl in Plymouth

It seems appropriate that Gian-Carlo Vellutino will have a starring role in the Plymouth Symphony's Christmas program.

Gian-Carlo will play Amahl in "Amahl and the Night Visitors," at 4 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 16, in Plymouth Salem High School.

The 11-year-old was named after the opera's composer, Gian-Carlo Menotti.

Renato Mario Vellutin, Gian-Carlo's father, directed and conducted productions of this opera for six years. One of these was at the Alice Tully Hall at Lincoln Center.

The junior Gian-Carlo began his professional career two years ago when he was "discovered" by an agent-manager while he was singing with the Boys' Choir of Westchester, N.Y.

He competed with hundreds of other singers and actors for the part of Louis in the Broadway production of "The King and I," starring Yul Brynner.

After many auditions and callbacks, Gian-Carlo was hired as an understudy, and quickly was moved into the role itself with the approval of Richard Rogers, the show's composer.

THE YOUNG SINGER is also active in musical activies at Westlake Middle School in New York, where he is a sixth grader. He plays trumpet in the stage and concert bands. As a fourth grader he was one of two singers from his school chosen to perform with the All-Westchester County Elementary Festival Chorus.

There's still time in his life for other interests. He enjoys skiing, tennis and junior Peewee football. He is a running back and safety.

He was recently selected as an All-Star Player for the Sherman Park Little League Baseball Team and is captain of a basketball team.

Both Gian-Carlo's parents, Marti and Renato, are members of Actors' Equity, and have performed professionally in stock productions throughout the country.

Choirs to sing Bach cantata

Three Ann Arbor church choirs will combine to present the Bach cantata No. 140, "Sleepers Awake," at a free concert in Hill Auditorium at 8:30 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 18.

The cantata is a part of the annual Christmas Sing and Youth Soloist Concert of the Ann Arbor Symphony.

Soloists are Susan Anthony and Lisa Rogers, sopranos; Richard Ingram, tenor, and Larry Vote, bass. Participating choirs are from St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, St. Mary's Student Chapel and Zion Lutheran Church.

AAUW to visit homes

Mill Race Village in Northville will be the setting for the December Christmas meeting of the Plymouth Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Members and their husbands will meet at the village at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 13, for a tour of three of six restored historical buildings.

Docents from the Northville Historical Society will be in each building to provide information and answer questions.

The tour will end at the New School Church where refreshments will be served.

The AAUW chorus, directed by Faith Schweiss, has prepared a Christmas program of traditional carols and readings highlighting the origins of many of our holiday traditions. The program was prepared by Joan Anderson and Janet Repp, cultural interest area representative.

TO MAKE the tour more interesting Mrs. Repp has prepared a history of the six houses in Mill Race Village.

AAUW members will tour Yerkes and Hunter Houses, as well as New School Church.

Both houses are being restored as museums. Yerkes is a Victorian Carpenter Gothic (gingerbread trim) house, built in 1868.

The museums is being designed to reflect the probable life style of the original owners, William and Sarah Yerkes.

Yerkes was a lawyer, and was a judge of Probate court in Detroit. He was the first president of Northville, when it was incorporated as a village in 1867.

From 1892 to 1898, he was vice president of the Northville State Savings Bank.

The house has four rooms and an entryway on the first floor, and four rooms on the second floor. The dining room features its original wainscoting with alternate boards of walnut, cherry butternut and pine. The floors are of pine throughout.

The parlor and dining room have been furnished with Victorian pieces, some of which have been loaned to the historical society by the National and Michigan Questers.

HUNTER HOUSE, built in 1851, is a Greek Revival style dwelling. It was built by a Scottish emigrant, Stephen Hunter, for his wife and three children.

Hunter was a miller by trade, and from property deeds, it appears that he died in 1853. His widow owned the house until her death in 1873. The property was then sold to Elias Woodman.

The house has seven rooms on the main floor and two upstairs. Woodwork in the parlor is tulipwood.

The house is still being furnished. The society is planning to have it reflect a cutoff date of 1860 for furniture. Some of its furnishings are on loan from the Detroit Historical Museum.

THE NEW SCHOOL building is 95 percent restored. It was built in 1845 by members of First Presbyterian Church of Northville who objected to the church's decision in 1838 to withdraw from the Detroit Presbytery (liberal) and join the newly-organized Michigan Presbytery (conservative.) The building served as a church for only four years.

It has been used as a school, YMCA, Salvation Army barracks, opera house, and Northville library, board of education offices and Township Hall.

Now it is a meeting place and repository for archives.

Vocational education funds are available at Schoolcraft

Vocational education scholarships for unusual students, including displaced homemakers and single heads of household, are still available for winter term at Schoolcraft College.

"Applications for the grant from Schoolcraft College district have been surprisingly few," said Jean Christensen, director of the Women's Resource Center.

"We haven't publicized the grant extensively as the funds are limited; however, most of the response has been from people living a long distance from the Schoolcraft campus.

"Community college resources are really intended to serve the residents within each college's district, although some exceptions can be made for 'borderline' residents," she continued.

"I KNOW the need exists, and frankly I'm puzzled as to why so few local residents have applied," she said.

To be eligible, a person must belong to one of four special population groups: displaced homemakers, part-time homemakers/wage earners; single heads of households and non-traditional job trainees.

They must also lack job skills necessary to provide adequate financial support for themselves and dependents living in their homes; lack recent, skilled full-time work experience; and must be receiving no other federal education assistance.

Ms. Christensen said that scholarship funds can be applied toward full or part-time study in selected traditional or continuing education courses at Schoolcraft.

BOTH MEN and women are eligible to apply for these scholarships. In addition to assistance by the Women's Resource Center, participants will receive the college's financial aids, counseling and placement services and will be expected to enroll as Schoolcraft College students ($10 application fee).

The center is located in the second house from the south parking lot on Haggerty, north of Six Mile.

Delta Zeta has recipe swap

Members of the Western Wayne Alumnae of the Detroit Metropolitan Delta Zeta sorority will bring favorite cookie and other recipes to exchange at a meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 13.

The event will be in the home of Judy Harvey of Plymouth. Co-hostesses will be Barb Wade of Livonia and Madelyn Ryan of Farmington.

During the meeting the members will make craft Christmas gifts to be donated to the Lutheran School for the Deaf.

Among those present will be Sue Hagman of Westland, Anita Johnson of Livonia, Leslie Frederick of Plymouth, Pam Cronenwett of Dearborn, Barb Attard of Detroit and Peggy Tsoucaris of Northville.

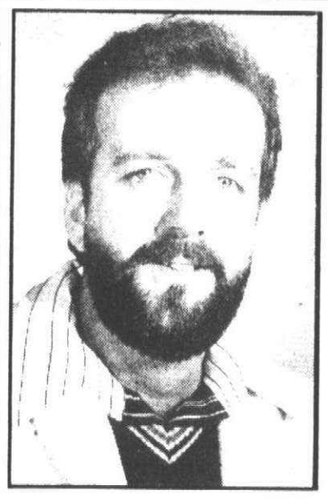

For more information contact Sue Hagman at 525-5468.

Seniors celebrate with Santa

About 1,200 metropolitan area senior citizens will be the guests of the Salvation Army at a Christmas luncheon party to be held on Friday, Dec. 14, at 12 noon, at Cobo Hall.

The party will be hosted by Lt. Col. and Mrs. Raymond Carroll, the Salvation Army divisional commander of the eastern half of Michigan, and his staff.

There will be a carol sing and the visit of a special guest, Santa Claus, who will distribute gifts, candy and fruit to all.

Christmas shopping? Don't forget the car

What to buy someone for Christmas poses a problem for most people. To make shopping easier, the Automotive Information Council has come up with a list of items for the car owner.

The council puts the gift ideas into three categories.

THE MORE expensive suggestions include a new set of tires, an anti-theft alarm system, a highway cruise control, a tape deck or a stereo radio.

It also suggests the possibility of a gift certificate for a complete engine tune-up, a brake job or other item of maintenance that should be performed periodically.

Too many drivers tend to neglect proper maintenance, so a gift certificate for a needed service will provide them with a safer and more efficiently operating vehicle.

GIFTS IN the more moderate category include a fire extinguisher, a portable spotlight, a vacuum cleaner that operates from the cigarette lighter, first aid kit, battery jumper cables, and a set of emergency flares or reflectors that can be used as a warning if a flat tire has to be changed along the highway.

A subscription to one of the many automotive magazines also could be considered. Check a newsstand and select a magazine that might be most appropriate for the interest of the recipient.

Framed prints of famous cars and "coffee table" photo books of noted vehicles also have become very popular with car lovers.

IN THE stocking-stuffer category, the council suggests a pencil-type air pressure guage, which, if used, will prolong the life of a car's tires.

Other stocking stuffers include a compass, which will be of benefit on trips or on strange roads when the sun isn't shining. A road atlas, a litter bucket, a non-spill commuter coffee cup or a certificate for a car wash or two also could help fill a Christmas stocking.

Regardless of the cost, all of these items are practical and will make driving more pleasurable, convenient or safe.

For addition ideas, the council suggests a visit to an auto-supply facility, where other items might help ease the burden of Christmas shopping.
