Township protests plan to barricade roads

By DARLENE STINSON

Two roads in southern Canton will be barricaded and turned into dead-end streets under a plan of the Michigan Department of Transportation to close railroad crossings on Lilley and Lotz.

A third crossing on Koppernick, just west of the Holiday Park subdivision, also is receiving scrutiny from the state at the urging of the C&O Railroad.

The state has recommended safety improvements for the Koppernick crossing. But rail officials are requesting closure, according to Clarence Magoon, a special staff assistant for the railroad safety section of the transportation department.

Canton Township and the Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC) are protesting the possibility of closure at all three crossings.

Frank McMurray, a resident of Holiday Park, is organizing a petition drive in protest of a possible closing of the Koppernick crossing.

The state was scheduled to hold a public hearing on the proposed Lilley and Lotz closures at 10 a.m. Monday (today). Both crossings are located south of Michigan.

A second hearing on the Koppernick crossing is scheduled for 10 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 22, in room 102 of the Testing and Research Building at 8885 Ricks Road in Diamondale. The city is located southwest of Lansing.

AT ISSUE is the use of the three roads involved and the availability of alternative routes in the area compared to the cost of safety improvements.

All three crossings now are marked by only railroad warning signs. The staff of the railroad safety section has recommended closure of the Lilley and Lotz crossings on the grounds that alternative routes are available, said Magoon.

He expects a final decision from transportation department director John Woodford on the future of all three crossings by the end of this year.

Magoon said the state probably will order safety improvements for the sites if Woodford makes a final decision against closure.

He estimates the cost of a gate and flashing signal at $60,000 for each crossing. The road commission and the owner of the railroad lines would be obligated to share the cost.

"The usage of Lilley and Lotz is very light. Sometimes, there's less than 100 cars a day," said Magoon. "There are other crossings within a half-mile that are fully protected."

A Canton resident — Ronald Barry, 39 — was killed at the Lilley crossing last February by an Amtrak passenger train.

"The safest crossing is one that doesn't exist," Magoon said.

Conrail, which owns the tracks at Lilley and Lotz, supports the state's position to close those crossings, said Magoon.

"In the case of Koppernick, the railroad would like to see it closed," he said.

Days tick off 'til library opens

The countdown has begun. Only seven days remain before the new Canton Public Library opens.

Everyone involved — library staff, library board members and volunteers — is busy preparing for the opening.

The new library — on the third floor of Township hall at Canton Center and Proctor. — officially opens at 10 a.m. Monday, Oct. 20.

"I don't know if any of us will get any sleep," said head librarian Deborah O'Connor of the work yet to be done.

"I don't want to think about the rest of the things we have to do. For one thing, we've got to get the place cleaned up," she said of boxes scattered on the library floor.

LATE LAST WEEK, carpenters were nailing wood panels on the pale yellow shelves, which already are partially filled with books.

Volunteers were stuffing metal theft-protection devices into the books' bindings, while staffers reviewed paperwork and accounts.

Newly arrived desks and tables were piled up in the middle of the spacious room along with bright orange and yellow chairs.

In a back room filled with books and unpacked boxes, Mike and Mark Brown were pasting cards on the inside covers of books. The Plymouth Salem High School students live across the street from Township Hall and decided to stop in and help out.

"This is our first day. But we'll probably come in every day to help," said Mike, a junior.

Ms. O'Connor, who has been working toward the library's opening since August 1979, said 75 volunteers have helped prepare the new library. Ten volunteers have worked steadily.

CEP graduation in '81 may head for outside town

By EMORY DANIELS

The Class of '81 may be graduating this June in Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor or Detroit.

A proposal has been made to switch the graduation ceremonies from the athletic field at Centennial Educational Park (CEP) in Canton Township to an indoor facility.

That proposal will be discussed at tonight's school board meeting which will begin at 7:30 in the upstairs board room at 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

A REQUEST to switch graduation to an indoor facility was first made by the two principals at the CEP — Bill Brown at Plymouth Salem High and Kent Buikema at Plymouth Canton High.

The request was made with the administrative cabinet which decided, by a split vote, to recommend the switch to the school board. Five cabinet members were in favor, three against, and one abstained.

The switch was proposed in light of last June's commencement exercises which were dampened by cold, gusty winds. At that time, some parents complained because the ceremonies had not been moved into the Salem High auditorium.

Administrators hesitated to move ceremonies inside because the auditorium holds fewer people than the CEP athletic bleachers and some guests would have had to be turned away.

At one time, graduation ceremonies were held in large auditoriums out-of-town. But they were switched to the CEP site because residents wanted to have graduation at home.

In fact, Superintendent Dr. John M. Hoben points out that the first class to graduate from the CEP had its ceremonies at Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor.

The administration presently is considering holding graduation ceremonies in either Bowen Field House at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti, Ford Auditorium in Detroit, or in the Crisler Arena at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

HOBEN SAID he personally would like to see graduation remain at the CEP but would go along with the cabinet recommendation.

"I was one of the three dissenters at the cabinet level for I feel something is lost when we take graduation away from the local site," he said.

Hoben says deciding whether to hold graduation inside or outside because of weather imposes a hardship on high school principals.

"Nine times out of ten, we normally have good weather and are not forced to make this type of a decision," he said.

"I think concern has been expressed over the rather tenuous situation that occurred last year when both graduations were threatened by rain and extremely cold weather and the type of complaints that were received at the conclusion of these ceremonies."

Brown, the Salem principal, said that some of the advantages of moving graduation into an out-of-town auditorium include:

Board approves fast food eatery

The Township Board has approved the construction of another fast-food restaurant on Ford Road despite the vehement objections of one Canton board trustee to another such establishment going in there.

Wendy's International, Inc. plans to build a restaurant on a one-acre site on the south side of Ford west of Haggerty. Last week, the company received site-plan approval and a special use permit from the Township Board.

The proposed development is located in one of two areas in which fast-food restaurants are allowed under Canton's zoning ordinance. The two areas, zoned C-3, are Ford Road and Michigan Avenue near I-275. Fast-food restaurants are allowed there only with a special-use permit.

That zoning stipulation was included in the ordinance in order to meet the demands of residents to curb a fast-food construction boom on Ford.

At least six fast-food restaurants currently line a 1½-mile stretch of Ford between 1-275 and Canton Center.

CANTON PLANNER Jim Kosteva says the Wendy's plan coincides with the intent of the zoning ordinance to locate fast-food restaurants in only two areas of the township.

He and the planning commission recommended approval of Wendy's application on that basis, despite the discretionary power the township may exercise in granting special-use approvals.

But Trustee Robert Greenstein — the only board member who voted against granting the approvals last week — maintained that Wendy's could harm the business of other restaurants in the area. He tried to convince the Township Board to deny the application on on the grounds that no need exists for another restaurant in Canton. Need for a specific type of business is one of the criteria for granting special-use approvals.

"One of the complaints that elected officials hear more than any other in this community is that we have too damn many restaurants," Greenstein said.

"Have you listened to the cries for help (from other restaurant owners)?" he asked. "Have you heard these people

Police investigate 2 'sweet' break-ins

Can a sweet tooth be blamed for a recent rash of Canton Township break-ins?

Police last week investigated separate breaking-and-entering cases involving a bakery and a school kitchen.

Karry Priest, 17, of Aubrey in Taylor, faces an Oct. 16 examination in 35th District Court on a charge of attempted break-in of Maria's Bakery at Haggerty and Cherry Hill.

Priest was arraigned Oct. 9 before Judge Dunbar Davis. The court entered a plea of innocent in his behalf, and he was sent to Wayne County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

ATTEMPTED breaking-and-entering carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison upon conviction.

Police Lt. Larry Stewart said officers responded to an alarm at the bakery about 1:30 a.m. Oct. 8. They found that one of the windows had been broken.

Priest was arrested outside the bakery.

In a separate incident, two 14-year-old Canton youths have been turned over to juvenile authorities on the charge that they broke into Miller Elementary School on Hanford.

Police officers answered an alarm at the school about 11:30 p.m. Oct. 8. Police said officers saw three youths flee into a wooded area near the school.

A spooky visit

Looking over this year's Spook House, members of the Plymouth and Northville Jaycees make plans to convert it into a real nightmare of ghosts and goblins. The building, as last year, is located on the former Wayne County Child Development Center grounds and has been contributed by the county for use during the Halloween season. Last year, the Spook House earned more than $6,000 which was allocated by the Jaycees to the Plymouth Center for Human Development, Our Lady of Providence School for retarded youngsters, the Ann Arbor Burn Institute, and other organizations. Ford's top man in Venezuela tells about changes he faced

By W.W. EDGAR

Former mayor Tom Turner, who was sent to Venezuela a year ago to take over the operation of the Ford plants, has found life in South America both frustrating and exciting.

Back here to attend the wedding of his son, Turner spent a few hours the other afternoon comparing conditions here with what he left behind in the country where the temperature is about 80 degrees every day of the year.

"There's only two seasons down there, wet and dry. The dry season runs from November to May and one finds it very difficult to make the necessary adjustments with life down there."

Explaining the frustration he encounterd when he arrived there a year ago to take over the management of three plants with about 6,000 employees, he pointed out that the people down there are not motivated in the same way North Americans are. They have no great desire to get things done.

Another of the frustrating things he learned on his new assignment is that the government controls everything.

"If you think the government up here has been tough on the automobile industry, you should be down there.

"The government tells you what kind of cars to make and it also controls the oil wells, of which there are many, and tells you how you can use gasoline."

Here, Turner was forced to smile,

"Gasoline is only 13 cents a gallon, but the government has ordered that only small cars can be built. This is to save gas so that the country will have more oil to export for the high prices in the oil-seeking countries.

"As an example, we recently have been told that the government will permit the building of no cars with more than six cylinders. So, in many cases, conditions are frustrating, especially for a newcomer."

Turner and his wife found that the food was not much different than it is in the States, but the cost of living is something different.

"Would you believe that Mrs. Turner paid $4 for a pint of strawberries a few weeks ago?

"And men's clothing is priced at startling figures. A suit of clothes will cost anywhere from $500 to $700 and men's shirt set you back anywhere from $40 to $50."

One of the things that startled the Turners when they reached the South American country was that many of the natives flew back to Miami to do their shopping and were glad to pay American prices.

"It is a common sight to see passengers with a dozen suit cases on the planes for the return trip to Caracas. It is a sign that they have done their shopping in the States."

The natives also puzzled the Turners.

"You give them a job to do and there is no telling when it will be done. It is the same in their conduct. The country, with its mountains and many fine beaches, is beautiful until you get up close. Then you find that they are littered — also because the natives toss anything anywhere without regard to cleanliness. In many cases it is a shame and it added to our frustration when we moved there.

"It was very exciting for us, but the difference in the language and the culture makes it very difficult, but exciting, for any newcomers."

Turner has two more years to serve in Venezuela and has no idea where the Ford Company may send him next — and that also makes life rather exciting, too.

Water rate increase is expected tomorrow

The Plymouth Township Board is expected to approve a new 69 percent water rate hike Tuesday.

Action on the increase of 90 cents per 1,000 gallons of water was delayed Tuesday when board members were asked to reconsider it at a budget hearing the following night.

Wednesday the board considered meeting the increase with money from the contingincy fund of the Water and Sewer Department, said Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert.

However, he said that the board probably will decide this week to accept the hike rather than "dip into the rainy day fund.

"I think they will probably go with the current proposed raises now so that we don't have to play catch up later," he said.

As proposed by the director of the water and sewer department, Tony Hollis, the increase will take place in steps.

In January 1981, the rate will be 52 cents per 1,000 gallons. In February it will increase to 64 cents, followed by 77 cents in March and 90 cents in April.

THE MUCH-publicized, controversial increases from the Oetroit-operated system will take effect Dec. 1.

The township is one of 92 communities in southeast Michigan which are supplied water by the Detroit Metropolitan Water Department.

Presently, Detroit charges the township almost 36 cents per 1,000 gallons of water. The township factors in a 47 percent markup to cover its operating expenses.

The recent increase to supply the township with water was devised by a new formula drafted by a consulting firm.

Les Curtis, a representative of that firm, appearing before the township board Tuesday, said water rates will probably be adjusted annually from now on.

This year there was an average increase of 43 percent throughout the system, he said. Only three communities experienced reductions and a few found increases as high as 100 percent, he added.

School hits a chord for would-be tuners

Karen Sue Ford of Canton tunes a piano as part of her job at a new piano-tuning school. (Staff photo by Mindy Saunders.)

By CRAIG PIECHURA

There are already schools for people interested in becoming bartenders, computer programmers and disc jockeys. Now a new school has opened for people who want to learn how to tune and rebuild pianos.

Forget the stereotype that the only good piano tuners are blind craftsmen who possess golden eardrums, say Karen Sue Ford, 35, of Canton Township and Bruce Robinson, 45, of Taylor, respectively the director and owner of Piano Technology, Inc., 26940 W. Eight Mile in Southfield.

Most people, they say, misunderstand the method of tuning a piano. You don't tune to a pitch, you listen for a mathematical beat frequency between two notes. But tuning a piano by mathematics alone or by relying solely on an electronic tuning device makes a piano sound flat to the human ear. The sound has no presence.

"The problem with an electronic tuning device is you're using a perfect devise on an imperfect instrument," Mrs. Ford says.

Knowing when to tweak a certain string and when not to is where lessons and experience come in.

"A well qualified technician is always in great demand," says Mrs. Ford, a piano tuner herself in a sales pitch to prospective students. "If I must have competition, I prefer that it be the best possible. . . .

"If you have average intelligence, normal hearing and a love for quality music, I can train you in my field. No musical experience is necessary and you don't have to have a 'perfect ear.' All you need is the desire to learn."

THE SCHOOL opened last month and at present only two students are enrolled. But Robinson says 28 persons called for information after the Detroit News ran a tiny article about the opening of the school.

Doug Juntunen, 24, of Livonia, is a laid-off Ford Motor worker and the article about the piano tuning school caught his eye. A trombone player in the Farmington Community Concert Band and the Farmington Jazz Band, Juntunen says "I just like working with pianos and stuff. They fascinate me."

His teacher, Mrs. Ford, says Juntunen is quick to pick out false beats in the upright piano they're restoring in class and "that's a good sign." It's too soon to predict whether piano tuning will become a career with Juntunen, but he figures learning the skill can't hurt him.

The owner of PTI, Robinson doesn't expect to get rich teaching piano tuning to the masses. He says there probably aren't that many persons in town interested in the skill. But piano tuning classes, Robinson said, would be ideal for musicians and maybe ministers who want to tune their own instruments accurately.

There was unused space in the building that also houses Robinson's three-year-old organ repair business, Keyboard Services Inc. Since there is only one other piano technician school in the state, the Detroit School for Piano Technicians, he and Mrs. Ford decided to open another. Pianos that students repair in class will be sold to the public.

Eventually, PTI hopes to become affiliated with the national Piano Tuners Guild, a society that works to improve the standards of the century-old skill.

Too many people who call themselves piano tuners are self-taught or graduates of correspondence schools, says Robinson.

"YOU CAN learn just enough to do a lot of harm," he says.

Pianos in Michigan should be tuned at least once a year, say school directors, and preferably twice a year because of the high humidity in the state. Putting off periodic tuning and preventative maintenance can turn an expensive instrument into an unplayable piece of furniture.

Asked if pianos used by boogie woogie or rock 'n roll players go out of tune faster than pianos that play waltzes, Mrs. Ford said pianos in Southern Baptist churches usually show signs of piano abuse.

Group plans keeping watch on local skies

As cool weather sets in, tornadoes may be the last thing on your mind.

But the local chapter of REACT (Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Teams) will be spending the next few months recruiting and training volunteers for its life-saving community services.

REACT — which has been strongly identified with the Plymouth community — is formally expanding its services to Canton Township and is looking for volunteers for its life-saving community services.

THOSE SERVICES include a tornado "skywatch" program, in which volunteers observe weather conditions during the peak spring-summer tornado season.

REACT also monitors channel 9 on CB (citizen band) radios for information about traffic hazards and emergencies. Channel 9 is a designated emergency channel.

Canton Township recently voted to allocate $200 to REACT, which is a non-profit, volunteer service organization. The funds will be earmarked for skywatch expenses, said Paul Cook, field operations officer for the Plymouth-area REACT.

Cook said the National Weather Service will select skywatch observation sites in Canton Township. Those could be shopping center parking lots, large fields and other strategic locations.

REACT already has been receiving some funds from Plymouth and Plymouth Township, said Cook. The Plymouth-area chapter now has about 50 members, he added.

Most live in Plymouth, Livonia, Northville Township and Canton.

"We approached the political subdivisions," said Cook. "We thought we had something to offer, and to do it requires some funds.

"We hope to double our membership in 1981," he added. "We promise to work their fanny off if they will let us.

"Every state has had tornadoes," continued Cook. "Michigan is the third highest in deaths. That's what makes us concerned. We have more deaths because we aren't prepared."

Cook said a REACT volunteer is notified to go to a designated post when weather conditions indicate a severe storm or possible tornado.

The volunteer then observes weather conditions and reports to the command center by radio. Cook said the organization's goal will be to pay the skywatch workers $2 each time they are called out.

WHILE SKYWATCH takes place for a few months each year, other programs continue throughout the year.

For example, a REACT traffic base station in the Plymouth Hilton Hotel is open from 3-6 p.m. daily and throughout the weekend. REACT members work with the Michigan Emergency Patrol volunteer group and report on traffic conditions.

Volunteers are required to put in at least three hours a month, said Cook. He added that REACT also assists in traffic control for charity benefits, picnics and parades and breaks" along expressways during summer holiday weekends.

REACT also will be keeping watch later this month, when youthful pranks erupt on "Devil's Night," just prior to Halloween.

"WE WILL be patrolling Plymouth-Canton schools," said Cook. "We hit (patrol) schools several times a night."

REACT holds meetings at 1 p.m. on the third Saturday of each month at a Knights of Columbus hall on Schoolcraft in Livonia.

Annual dues are $10 a year.

"They don't have to own a CB," said Cook. For information, call 459-3339.

School budget to be finalized

The 1980-81 operating budget for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is expected to receive final approval tonight.

The school board will hold a public hearing on the budget beginning at 7:15 p.m. with the regular meeting following the conclusion of the hearing.

The hearing will be in the upstairs board room at 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

The 1980-81 operating budget is based on total expenses of $38.6 million compared to anticipated income of about $37.8 million. The deficit of almost $830,000 will be made up by reducing the 1980 fund equity of about $2.2 million to some $1.3 million by the end of next June.

The budget is based on an anticipated increase of 328 students or an enrollment increase of 1.9 percent — the lowest in 10 years.

State aid is expected to decrease by about $135 per pupil or by 30 percent from last year while local property tax revenues will increase by about $5.2 million or 20.6 percent.

Township, county protest

State weighs rail barricades

The C&O Railroad requested the Oct. 22 public hearing on possible closure despite a state recommendation to keep the Koppernick crossing open. Magoon said that recommendation was based on the heavy use of Koppernick by Holiday Park residents.

"They're looking at the potential for accidents," he said of the C&O stance. "Litigation in case of accidents has become a prevalent thing in recent years."

BUT McMURRAY, a resident of Holiday Park since 1966, is drawing no comfort from the state recommendation to keep the Koppernick crossing open.

He has scheduled a neighborhood meeting for 7 p.m. Oct. 15 at Fiegel School to organize a protest and circulate petitions against closure.

"There's a recommendation in our favor to leave Koppernick open," said McMurray. "But that doesn't mean it will be left open. Right now, the process is going on to get it closed."

Koppernick provides one of two exit routes for Holiday Park in the extreme northeastern corner of Canton. The only other access is provided by Joy Road.

McMurray says barricading the crossing on Koppernick will limit the access of emergency vehicles to the 500-home subdivision.

"We would be cutting off Holiday Park subdivision," said Canton planner Jim Kosteva in support of McMurray's position. "In my opinion, that subdivision at the present time has poor access."

Firefighters from a station at Warren and Haggerty currently use Koppernick as the quickest route into the subdivision.

"The fire department would have to go up Haggerty to Joy," Kosteva said. "That's quite a bit of lost time. If there happens to be a traffic accident on Joy, you're talking about devastating possibilities.

'The fire department would have to go up Haggerty to Joy. That's quite a bit of lost time. If there happens to be a traffic accident on Joy, you're talking about devastating possibilities.'

— Jim Kosteva, Canton planner

KOSTEVA SAID Canton attorney C. Gerald Hemming will speak at the state hearing in the township's behalf along with Bob Hotaling, a community planning specialist with Michigan State University.

The men will present the township's case against closure of all three crossings.

Few residents live in the vicinity of the Lilley and Lotz crossings. But Kosteva said the township is concerned about the access of emergency vehicles to their homes and to industrial sites in the area.

Much of the vacant land in southern Canton is zoned for industrial use. Barricading Lilley and Lotz could hurt the township's chances for luring industry to those sites, Kosteva maintains.

He said insurance rates for industry in the area could go up if the Lilley and Lotz crossings are closed.

"One of the prime concerns of industry is Class A access roads. With the roads being closed, the property is less attactive to industrial developers," he said.

The Wayne-Westland School District would be forced to reroute buses if the two roads are barricaded, Kosteva added. John M. Hoben, superintendent of the Plymouth-Canton Schools, said district officials are investigating the impact of a Koppernick closing on bus routes.

DESPITE OBLIGATION to pay for safety improvements, the Wayne County Road Commission vehemently supports the township's position to keep all three crossings open.

"We stand ready to pay our share to make these crossings safe," said William Walker, a WCRC engineer.

"We have the responsibility of establishing and maintaining a road network. Once you close a road, it means emergency vehicles have farther to go."

Walker said the WCRC will be forced to barricade the crossings and build cul-de-sacs if the state's final decision is for closure.

He said the road commission requested the state to inspect the three crossings and "to advise us on what was required to bring them up to safe standards."

Schools look at graduation

The removal of bad weather as a threat; unlimited seating for all parents, relatives and guests; reduced costs of graduation, including field-and-grounds preparation, security and police, and student help.

Some of the disadvantages pointed out by Brown include:

Graduates will have to provide their own transportation; some individulas may object to both high schools having graduation on the same day; the cost of transporting band members; and the need to set up an alternate facility for rehearsals.

The costs of holding graduation at the CEP include about $5,325 for labor costs and $795 for security.

Bowen Field House could be used for a charge of about $1,700, Crisler Arena for a charge of $2,000, and Ford Auditorium for about $1,500.

correction

A typographical error appeared in the Oct. 9 article on Pat Monks, helicopter traffic reporter for WWJ-radio.

Monks was incorrectly listed as president of Meir Copters, Inc. The correct name of the company is Metro Copters, Inc.

CARL PURSELL: The 110% Congressman

HE WORKS AS HARD FOR US IN WAYNE CT. AS HE DOES IN WASHINGTON

IN THE TWO TERMS WE HAVE ELECTED CARL PURSELL AS OUR CONGRESSMAN, THE PEOPLE OF THE 2nd DISTRICT HAVE RECEIVED UNPRECEDENTED LOCAL SERVICE AND ACCESSIBILITY, AND FULL-TIME CONSTITUENT SERVICE OFFICES IN ALL THREE COUNTIES. JUST AS CARL PROMISED. AND CARL HAS SPENT PART OF EVERY WORK WEEK PERSONALLY HELPING PEOPLE HERE AT HOME. IN BOTH OF HIS TERMS IN CONGRESS, CARL HAS LOGGED OVER 100,000 MILES ATTENDING HUNDREDS OF INDIVIDUAL AND GROUP MEETINGS OF EVERY KIND IN EVERY CORNER OF OUR DISTRICT. HE'S ONE CONGRESSMAN WHO HASN'T LOST TOUCH WITH THE PEOPLE.

A Partial List of Carl's Citizen Meetings in Wayne County in 1979-80:

Public office hours, Western Wayne Congressional Office ☐ Livonia Plymouth Senior Citizens ☐ Livonia Veterans ☐ Constituent meeting on postal problems ☐ Livonia Police Chief on federal law enforcement grants and programs ☐ Madonna College officials, Livonia ☐ Plymouth Fall Festival ☐ Northville Town Hall Meeting ☐ Meeting with auto industry officials ☐ Livonia educators meeting ☐ Livonia Senior Citizen Day Picnic ☐ Northville Rotary ☐ Plymouth Town Hall Meeting ☐ Schoolcraft Community College officials ☐ Meeting with President Carter on auto industry employment and foreign imports, Metro Airport ☐ Plymouth 4th of July Parade ☐ Meeting with Department of Interior officials on possible federal funding for Western Wayne lakes clean-up ☐ Livonia Town Hall Meeting ☐ Wayne County Women's Conference, Schoolcraft Community College ☐ Michigan AFL-CIO President ☐ Livonia Chamber of Commerce ☐ Guest Lecturer, Plymouth-Canton High School government class ☐ Michigan Bell officials ☐ Northville Board of Education ☐ Plymouth businessmen on small business problems ☐ Right to Life organization ☐ Michigan Community College Association Dinner ☐ UAW Executive Director ☐ Plymouth Kiwanis ☐ Tour of Growth Works, Plymouth ☐ Livonia Mayor ☐ Plymouth City Administrator ☐ Meeting with George Bush and construction-real estate industry representatives ☐ Livonia Rotary ☐ Plymouth Historical Society ☐ Livonia Board of Education ☐ Speaker, Bendix management group, on alternate energy sources ☐ Italian Night, Livonia ☐ Plymouth Chicken Flying Contest and Parade ☐ Disabled American Veterans ☐ Northville Chamber of Commerce ☐ Grocery managers ☐ Plymouth-Salem High School government class Guest Lecturer ☐ Madonna College government class ☐ American Legion, Livonia ☐ Meeting of Western Wayne elected officials ☐ Livonia Public School Employees ☐ Building trades dinner ☐ Livonia League of Women Voters ☐ Wayne County Commissioners meeting on County Executive estate law authored by Carl ☐ Michigan Recreation and Parks Association ☐ Plymouth Rotary ☐ Livonia school officials on physical education program ☐ Plymouth League of Women Voters ☐ Northville Senior Citizens

In scheduled meetings alone, Rep. Pursell spent literally hundreds of hours in hundreds of meetings here at home. That's a lot of listening to a lot of people. It doesn't even count the endless hours of travel and the countless informal meetings with constituents. Carl's Washington schedule is equally rigorous: Right after we re-elected Carl in 1978, he was named to the influential House Appropriations Committee, one of the most important committee assignments in Congress. He serves on the subcommittee which develops budgets for Education, Health and Human Services, and Labor — a vital decision-making position for the 2nd District. He serves on the executive boards of the Environmental Study Conference and the Suburban Caucus (which he co-founded). He's Co-Chairman of the Northeast-Midwest Coalition's Budget Task Force and a member of the Steel Caucus. Despite his heavy committee work-load and his unprecedented commitment to personal work here at home, Carl still had a solid 83% voting record on recorded votes in the House.

Board OKs Wendy's site plan

scream that every time a restaurant comes in, they lose business?"

Other board members disagreed with Greenstein's argument.

"There's always a chance that this restaurant could hurt another business," said Supervisor Noel Culbert. "But that's the free-enterprise system."

"We shouldn't be in the business of giving economic protection to businesses in this township," said Treasurer Jim Donahue.

'One of the complaints that elected officials hear more than any other in this community is that we have too damn many restaurants.'
— Trustee Robert Greenstein

IN ORDER TO RECEIVE special-use approval, a fast- foot developer must convince the Township Board this his plan meets several criteria.

These include that the project must be compatible with adjacent land uses, not have a harmful impact on the development of the community and be a business that is needed in the community.

In a written statement to the Township Board, Wendy's project manager, William J. Madden, said Wendy's is a fast-food restuarant which caters to adults.

"Because of the unique aspect of Wendy's products, freshness and size of portions served, we have been able to be successful across the county," Madden said.

"It has been found that when businesses build within the same area, sales for all parties also increase. The area becomes a draw."

According to Kosteva, Canton's zoning ordinance divides restaurants into three classifications. Standard sit-down restaurants and strictly carry-out facilities are allowed in C-1, C-2 and C-3 zoning districts.

Developers of fast-food only restaurants — allowed only near I-275 interceptors — must receive a special-use permit.

"We can all say we should let the free- enterprise system work totally," said Greenstein in objection to Wendy's application. "But we have a law that talks about need. Maybe we should throw this ordinance you know where."

Kosteva said he believes the township would have to conduct a market study to show that there is no need for another fast-food restaurant to be able to deny Wendy's application on that basis.

Pupil numbers hold surprise for W-W district

The enrollment slide hit a bump on the way down this year in the Wayne-Westland school district.

Tabulation of student enrollment — known as the fourth Friday count on which state aid is based — shows the district's enrollment dropped by 794 students in kindergarten through 12th grade.

But that's the bad news. The good word is that the district had expected to lose another 226 students.

"It's an error, but it's a good error," said Ray Rafford, assistant superintendent for student relations.

The district administration earlier had predicted it would lose 1,000 students or more by this year, and that in 10 years, the district actually would be half its current size.

Total enrollment now is pegged at 18,385. That figure doesn't include adult education enrollment, which will be figured this month. Last year there were 3,356 students enrolled in the district's adult education program.

Actual student enrollment was 12 fewer than anticipated in grades kindergarten through sixth. Enrollment was higher than projected at the secondary level — a variation from a trend seen in previous years when the student population dropped more sharply at that level.

Actual enrollment for grades seventh through ninth was 4,251 or 77 more than expected. Actual figures for the district's two high schools was 4,475 or 161 higher than projected.

"It's an interesting pattern that hasn't held in past years," said Rafford. "It's pure speculation, but we think that families with older kids aren't moving because of the housing market and the depressed economy."

Rafford said that his department is planning to do a detailed analysis of why there was a variation from past years.

A breakdown of figures at the high school level show that of the 161 extra students, 102 of them enrolled at John Glenn High while only 59 were at Wayne Memorial.

At the junior high level, enrollment figures range from 13 less than expected at Adams to 46 more than projected at Stevenson.

U-M figures up

A total of 47,081 students are enrolled at The University of Michigan this fall, 401 more than a year ago.

The total includes 35,670 students at the Ann Arbor campus, including those enrolled in graduate centers at other locations, an increase of 247; 6,360 at the U-M-Dearborn, a decrease of 40; 4,410 at the U-M-Flint, an increase of 288; and 641 enrolled in credit extension courses throughout the state, a decrease of 94.

Of the 35,670 total enrollment at the Ann Arbor campus, 22,498, or 63 percent of the total, are undergraduates; and 13,172, or 37 percent, are graduate students.

Week remains to library start

Several township organizations have contributed $2,500 to buy audio-visual equipment. The Canton Rotary Club bought draperies for a community room, where movies and slides will be shown.

THE NEW LIBRARY covers the entire 11,000- square-foot third floor.

Part of that space is allotted to the community room and a lounge and kitchen for library employees.

But the bulk of space is for the library itself.

The fictional section and reading area for adults is at the north end of the library, along with study corrals.

"We see ourselves as a place where parents who go to school can come for a quiet place to study," said Ms. O'Connor.

At the south end of the library is the children's section. Children's librarian Clara Bohrer will tell stories and show films in a nook off the side of the main traffic area.

The library will open with 20,000 books and plans to increase its collection.

"It's a wide-range collection, but that not deep," she said of the books now on hand. Volumns include a fairly large reference, fictional and children's collection. Patrons also may order books from other libraries.

"People in suburbia like their fiction," said Ms. O'Connor, who previously worked at the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth.

SHE EXPECTS a large group of parents in the library today for registration of a story hour for children.

Library hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Learning to live with diabetes

A late night phone call. And a mother catches her breath. "Hello" and again, "Hello?", this time more questioning.

"Mother . . ." and then a pause.

"Pat, I'll be right there," the mother responds. She tries hard to sound calm, but already she's shaking.

"Just one word — 'mother' but it's all I need to hear." In her head, she's saying. "No, not again," questioning her ability to get to her 23-year-old daughter to the hospital in time for the life saving care she requires.

For Pat, the episode begins as it had three times before with sweating and a heavy feeling when she breathed. She had been fighting a virus, running a temperature. And it was enough to bring on this diabetic emergency.

Pat does get to the hospital in time, is rushed into intensive care and given the sophisticated medications, tests and monitoring she needed.

"Her blood sugar goes crazy, and it's something to do with the gases in the blood," the mother said. "I don't understand it all, but I understand the urgency and the seriousness."

THAT WAS two weeks ago. Pat's fourth emergency came hours after her 23rd birthday. The diagnosis of juvenile diabetes had come when she was 17 years of age.

"I was eating a lot and yet lost 10 pounds in 14 days," she said. "Suddenly I'd have to get up at night to urinate and would get these fierce thirsts. I thought it was great I was losing the weight, but my mom got concerned."

Leveling the blood sugar of an adolescent is a complex, difficult enterprise for the doctor, the patient and the family.

Pat's family have been totally supportive, helping her adjust to treatment, medication, diet. During her recent hospital stay, her mother and dad visited once, even twice each day. No diabetic emergency is routine.

"Normal blood sugar counts run between 80 and 120," Pat said. "Mine was close to 10 times that much when we found out I was diabetic. I was pretty close to a diabetic emergency before that diagnosis."

An active, athletic young women, Pat said when they first told her she had juvenile diabetes, she just about drew a blank.

"I didn't know anything about it, nothing. But I thought about it a lot. It's something that couldn't be avoided, so you just have to decide to make the best of it."

"And sometimes, I think diabetics are better off. We really have to watch our diets and take care of ourselves."

LIKE THOUSANDS of others, she counts every calorie, works out frequently to balance what she eats with what she burns off. Pat does it with racquetball and swimming in the colder months.

Even so, a touch of virus or some unknown factor can trigger the sudden rise or fall in blood sugar that's so dangerous.

"It's not all so great," she said. "You can't go drinking with your friends or have a birthday cake, but well, it's not so bad, either."

And injecting yourself with insulin each and every morning?

"To me, that's nothing," said Pat. "It's like brushing my teeth.

"Lots of people think they could never face it, but I had a roommate who said exactly that. A year later, she was found to be diabetic and she injects insulin every day now."

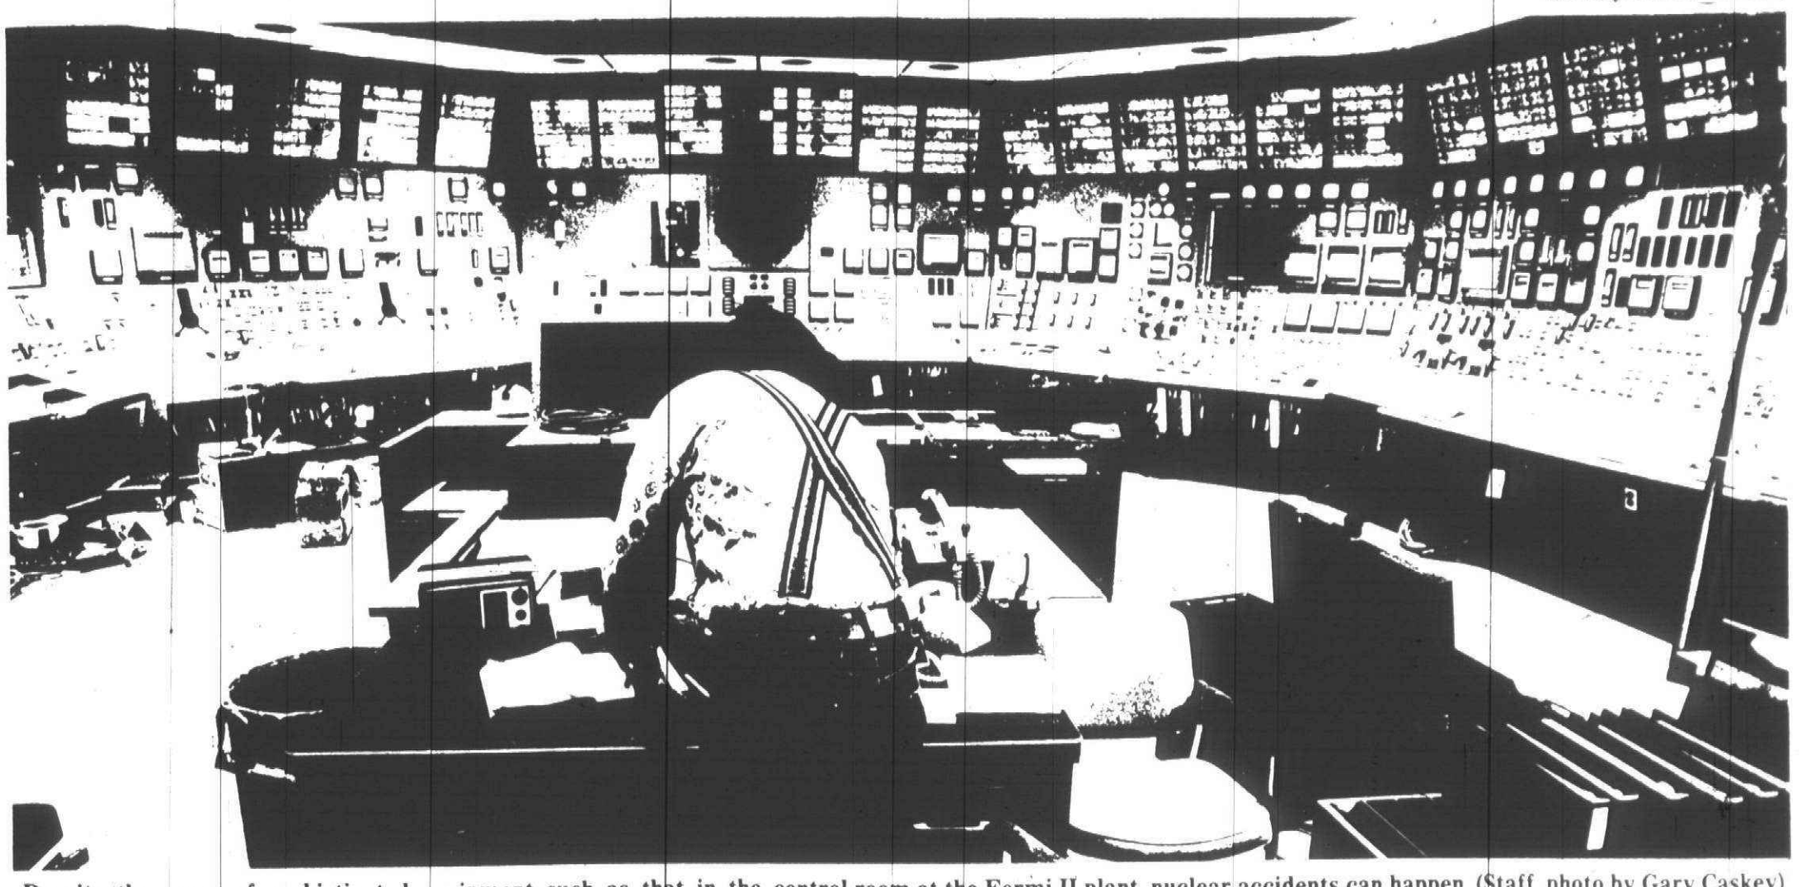
Juvenile diabetes is the most severe form of the disease. It can appear at any age, though most commonly from infancy to age 30. Its victims must take those daily injections of insulin to stay alive.

Diabetes is the third major chronic ailment of children. It's a disease that is on the increase in our society, and there is a strong hereditary tendency. One of Pat's grandfathers, an aunt and an uncle are diabetic.

THE JUVENILE Diabetes Foundation in Southfield is part of a wide network of resources to whom diabetics can turn. Mostly, they raise funds for research, and the research does pay off. Without scientific research, insulin would not have been discovered early in the century.

Nearly 100,000 persons in southeastern Michigan are diagnosed diabetics. They suffer a metabolic disorder that has adversely affected their bodies' capability to manufacture/and or utilize insulin, a chemical needed for the conversion of carbohydrates into energy.

National Diabetes Week ended on Oct. 11. For Pat and thousands like her, diabetes week is every week.



Despite the array of sophisticated equipment such as that in the control room at the Fermi II plant, nuclear accidents can happen. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Tell us the truth about nuclear accidents

Sherry Kahan

I wonder what the people of Utah and Nevada started thinking about after the lift-off of the Titan missile from its Arkansas nest. By 1986, there is supposed to be 200 MX missles traveling around under their soil on rails.

A wrench socket recently caused a Titan to whoosh out of the ground, accompanied by a reddish-orange fireball. So it doesn't take much imagination to think of the accident possibilities involving subterranean railroad beds, switches and schedules.

Someone has already termed the MX system "an underground railroad to Armegeddon."

Other accidents involving nuclear facilities have similarly been triggered by this kind of trivial occurence, which can happen anywhere but without the nuclear possibilities. At Fermi I near Monroe, Mich., a small piece of metal broke loose and clogged critical coolant nozzles. A meltdown was avoided, but the event inspired the book, "We Almost Lost Detroit."

A disaster almost occurred at the Brown's Ferry, Ala. nuclear plant. It was caused by a fire accidently started by workmen who used a candle to check for an air leak.

ACCIDENTS WILL happen. But what can we do about them? Precious little, evidently. But at least we ought to start demanding more information from the government and the nuclear industry.

The governors of Utah and Nevada, who are negotiating with the Pentagon on the MX missiles ought to fight for truth. We in Michigan ought to be asking for the same. We have three nuclear facilities in operation in our state and two under construction — one in Midland, the other (Fermi II) in Monroe.

The Fermi II plant is about an hour down the pike from metropolitan Detroit as the radiation flies. So we would be wise to worry. Two newspaper quotes will explain the problem.

An Associated Press report stated: "Hundreds of area residents, angered and frightened at a proposal to release radioactive gases from the Three Mile Island nuclear plant, screamed curses at federal officials who came to tell them any exposure would be miniscule."

The New York Times printed this paragraph: "The Air Force continued today to refuse even to confirm or deny the existence of a nine-megaton nuclear warhead on the Titan II missile that blew up into its silo yesterday, and some angry state officials and local residents insisted that the military should tell them whether it had recovered the warhead and what condition it was in."

WHEN A U.S. plane collided with a U.S. bomber over Palomares, Spain in 1966, nuclear bombs plunged to earth. One was later recovered from the ocean. One cracked open and radiated the soil of Spain with plutonium dust.

Instead of bragging about its quick response to the event, Air Force officials blocked the spread of facts. They denied any danger, even though they later carried off tons of soil for burial in South Carolina.

They were not hiding anything from the Russians because a local radio station was broadcasting during the incident. But they didn't level with us. Maybe they were embarrassed about the mishaps or didn't want the world to understand the dangers of nuclear weapons.

Judging by the Arkansas event, the Air Force still isn't willing to inform the American people. The non-military part of the government is giving more information now, as is the nuclear industry. Anyone reading the accounts of the Three Mile Island near-disaster can tell that.

One of the problems may be that nuclear power is so new that scientists need on-the-job training in dealing with meltdowns. Not even they always know what is going on.

SOMETIMES there seems more leaks from nuclear plants than from Washington agencies. And on the subject of radiation leaks, a lot more information will be needed before the people living near a nuclear plant or military installation will be satisfied.

The official attitude is that the level of leakage will be of no harm to anyone. Yet some months after Three Mile Island, the feds admitted there would be an increase in cancer and birth defects in the neighborhood. But, of course, the amount would be small.

The issue of nuclear energy has been on the ballot in several states. It was supported in a recent election in Maine. If citizens are voting on the issue, that is just one more reason for widespread proliferation of nuclear and radiation facts. If there are studies on the effects of nuclear radiation on people or animals, we should know the results. We need to learn in advance if an evacuation plan has or hasn't been devised for populations near nuclear facilities.

When Fermi I was on its way to a possible meltdown, the sheriff of Monroe County got a call one afternoon informing him that something was wrong at the plant. According to "We Almost Lost Detroit," he went to bed that night without hearing another word.

We need facts now. There may be no time for discussion if an accident turns into a disaster.

Children, too, need help with stress

shop talk/
Sandra Armbruster

"You have an emergency at home."

Those words which every parent prays never to hear were still sinking in as the policeman added, "Call either the Bennetts or the copy desk."

Whatever had happened was serious. That much I knew as I walked back through the Wayne-Westland school offices to find a phone. The officer had said to call our neighbors — not home itself.

Newspaper people end up working a lot of crazy hours. It's part of the business. So I had left my nine-year-old son in the care of a woman he regarded as the grandmother he no longer had.

I had been attending a school board meeting, and somehow word of trouble had reached me nearly 30 miles from my home in Southfield.

That's a long way to drive in an emergency.

IT WASN'T UNTIL the crisis had passed that we began to cope with what had happened.

We had known Marge Kencik for several months when the headaches started. A 51-year-old widow who had moved from Farmington Hills to Troy after her husband died, Marge had been a welcome addition to our household.

Since Marge liked to cook and my son liked to eat, they made a good pair.

But it was more than food that drew us to her.

Perhaps it was her recipe for loving that filled our emptiness, or the stories she would tell about Troy's growth that entertained us. Then again, maybe it was just the way she cared for life.

Living was important to Marge. Pointing to her new braces, she would say:

"It's never too late, right?"

Right, Marge.

But the headaches got worse. She had seen a doctor just that morning, and he had ordered tests for later in the week.

Marge had another headache when I called home before leaving for my meeting. I would be home early, I promised.

I didn't make it in time.

The headache worsened, and Marge stretched out on the sofa to rest.

She never woke up.

Frantic when he heard a choking sound, my son phoned me at work. Not finding me in, he ran in his stocking feet to get my neighbor who is a nurse.

She wasn't home, but a teen-age daughter, Adrienne Bennett, and her friend were. The three of them ran back to the house.

Adrienne phoned 911 and one of Southfield's Life Support units was dispatched.

"They got here almost before I could get off the phone," she said. And they didn't leave until they were sure that the house was locked and that someone would care for my son.

NO ONE SLEPT much that night. Little things spoke of what had happened as I walked through the house:

A tilted lampshade.

A chair not quite where I had left it.

Empty bandage wrappings piled neatly on the kitchen table.

A spot on the sofa.

The crisis was over, but lingering on were the memories. And the guilt.

"Should I have gone home sooner?" I asked.

"Why didn't I call 911 instead of running next door?" my son wondered.

We had learned the importance of keeping phone numbers and our own address posted by the phone. People under stress forget things like that. We also learned the value of programs like Cub Scouts, which had taught my son how to react in an emergency.

But it took a lot of special people, including a couple of Southfield teachers, helped us cope with our experience.

I think of the teachers now as I learn of a pilot program operating in Wayne-Westland and Livonia school districts. If successful, it could be expanded elsewhere.

The program is paid for this year with a $150,000 federal grant in cooperation with the University of Michigan-Dearborn. It is designed to help kids cope with stress.

"Elementary and secondary children are sometimes under stress just as much as older people, whether it's from divorce, death or something that temporarily upsetting them," said Ray Rafford, assistant superintendent for student relations in Wayne-Westland.

"These things are temporary by their nature, but they affect students' learning.

"Hopefully, we'll gather data on these kids and develop short-term strategies for helping them on an informal basis."

Not all children suffer through the tragic stress my son did one night last spring, but I'm grateful for teachers and programs that try to help.

Inflation big rip-off — Pursell

"Inflation is the biggest consumer rip-off in history," said U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, in a campaign speech kicking off Consumer Education Week (Oct. 5-11).

Pursell made the statement at a re-election rally in Northville at the home of Mike and Betty Allen. Allen was mayor of Northville for 18 years.

Pursell, who represents the 2nd District, declared inflation to be "Public Enemy Number One" because it has "crippled the purchasing power of all American consumers, and especially is devastating to senior citizens."

"Controlling inflation is the top priority job for Congress on behalf of consumers. I'm working in Congress for comprehensive economic recovery action to restore the value of the dollar, reduce taxes, balance the budget and stimulate competition and employment.

"That is what's necessary to wipe out the rampant inflation and crushing unemployment of the Carter years."

Pursell, seeking a third term in Congress, advocated passage of the five-year tax rate reduction plan he's introduced, and a balanced federal budget, as "crucial first steps in controlling inflation and reviving the economy."

Inflation has increased by 12.1 percent over the past 12 months, said Pursell, and Michigan has 500,000 jobless residents for an unemployment rate of 12.7 percent.

"At the same time, the prime interest rate is up again to 14 percent and the federal budget is $62 billion in the red."

Pursell said the nation needs a policy of firm restraint on government spending, lower taxes to provide incentives for individuals and business, and economic recovery.

Without a major policy shift, consumers will continue to suffer, added Pursell, senior citizens will become increasingly trapped by inflation and Michigan families will face continued hardships from unemployment.

"We must recognize that consumers and taxpayers are one and the same. It is essential reduce the tax burden to put more of consumer's earnings back in their pockets."

O'Reilly visits mobile homes

Kathleen O'Reilly, Democratic candidate for U.S. Congress, spent Saturday touring nine mobile home courts in the 2nd Congressional District.

The trip was the first in a series of visits O'Reilly will make to the 26 mobile home parks in the district which includes Plymouth, Livonia, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor and part of Monroe County.

Accompanying O'Reilly Saturday was Bob Myers, a Canton Democrat who is head of the Michigan Mobile Homeowners Association and a former Canton Township Trustee.

"It's very rare to have a candidate who both knows and cares about important issues affecting mobile homeowners," said Meyers. "Four years ago, O'Reilly, as head of the nation's largest consumer organization, called me up out of the blue and asked, 'What should Consumer Federation of America be doing to help mobile homeowners?

"Since that time she has become one of the few leaders pushing for reforms to help mobile homeowners, using the proposals of the Michigan Mobile Homeowners Association as a policy model for the entire nation.

"At a time when so many candidates are campaigning among the wealthy corporate interests," added Meyers, "O'Reilly is a welcome breath of fresh air."

Ms. O'Reilly visited mobile home parks in all three of the district's counties (Wayne, Monroe, Washtenaw), starting with Plymouth Hills Mobile Court on Ridge north of M-14 and ending up in Monroe.

"Mobile homeowners are particularly attuned to the many important consumer issues my campaign is emphasizing," said O'Reilly.

"They've been fighting faulty construction, inadequate warranties, unfair insurance policies, inadequate postal delivery, and other such problems for years."

Leaf pick up begins Oct. 20

The annual pick-up of leaves will begin in Plymouth the week of Oct. 20.

Plymouth residents should place their leaves by the curb in the street because only leaves placed in the street will be picked up, said the department of public works.

Residents should place their leaves at the curb as soon as possible so they can be removed before the first heavy snow fall.

There is no set schedule when trucks will be in any particular area, said Ken Vogras, DPW director, although an attempt will be made to collect leaves from every area of the city at least once a week.

The DPW has set the week of Nov. 24 as the time when trucks will make the last pass throughout the city. After Nov. 24, any leaves remaining will have to be bagged by residents and placed out for the regular refuse pick up.

Pursell to get EMU degree

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, will receive an honorary degree at dedication ceremonies for the Frederick Alexander Music Building at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

The ceremonies will begin at 9:15 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 18.

Others to receive honorary degrees will be Maynard Klein, an EMU music graduate who served as professor of music at University of Michigan, and Gary Owen, a state representative whose district includes Ypsilanti.

Owen's wife, Carol, holds a bachelor's and an MA degree from EMU and is a kindergarten teacher at Fiegel Elementary of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Pursell, who will receive an honorary doctor of laws from EMU, was born in 1932 and graduated from Plymouth High School. He earned his BA and MA degrees from Eastern Michigan.

After serving as Plymouth Chamber president and on the Wayne County Commission, Pursell was elected to the Michigan House and then in 1971 was elected to the Michigan Senate.

While in the Senate, Pursell was a member of the appropriations committee and his major accomplishments included passage of amendments providing funding for programs for gifted and talented students and to permit tax deductions for contri butions to Michigan colleges and universities.

In 1976, Pursell was elected to Congress from the 2nd District and re-elected in 1978. In Congress, Pursell is a member of the education and labor committees and on the committee on science and technology.

As a freshman congressman he worked to improve programs for gifted and talented students and wrote amendments to the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) to increase participation of small businesses and local education agencies in job training programs.

During his second term, Pursell helped to restore cuts to nursing education programs and drafted budget amendments to support aid programs for gifted and talented students.

He served in the Army from 1957-59 and was an infantry officer in the U.S. Army Reserve through 1965. He was honored as a distinguished alumnus of Eastern in 1974 and was named outstanding environmental legislator in Michigan in 1976 by the Envrinonmental Protection Agency. In 1977, he received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Madonna College.

Views on Dental Health by Philip Meizels D.D.S.
WHY A "TEMPORARY" FILLING?
Have you ever had your dentist tell you he was using a "temporary filling" and wondered why? No, my friend, it is not a ploy so he can get a second crack at you. This is a perfectly proper dental procedure.
It is referred to as "indirect capping", and is used in cases where the nerve (or pulp) would be exposed if all the decay were removed from the cavity. Regarded as a conservative treatment, the application of medicated cement in the temporary filling helps the pulp of the tooth to repair itself by containing the decay and allowing the buildup of a wall of tooth structure between the pulp and the decayed material.
This is a "holding action". When your dentist removes the temporary filling, he may take an X-ray to determine if the pulp has healed. If so, the balance of the decay is removed, and a permanent restoration, or filling, can be placed in the tooth.
In summary, your dentist is trying to keep your tooth alive, avoiding the need for a root-canal filling, pulp capping, or extraction of the tooth.

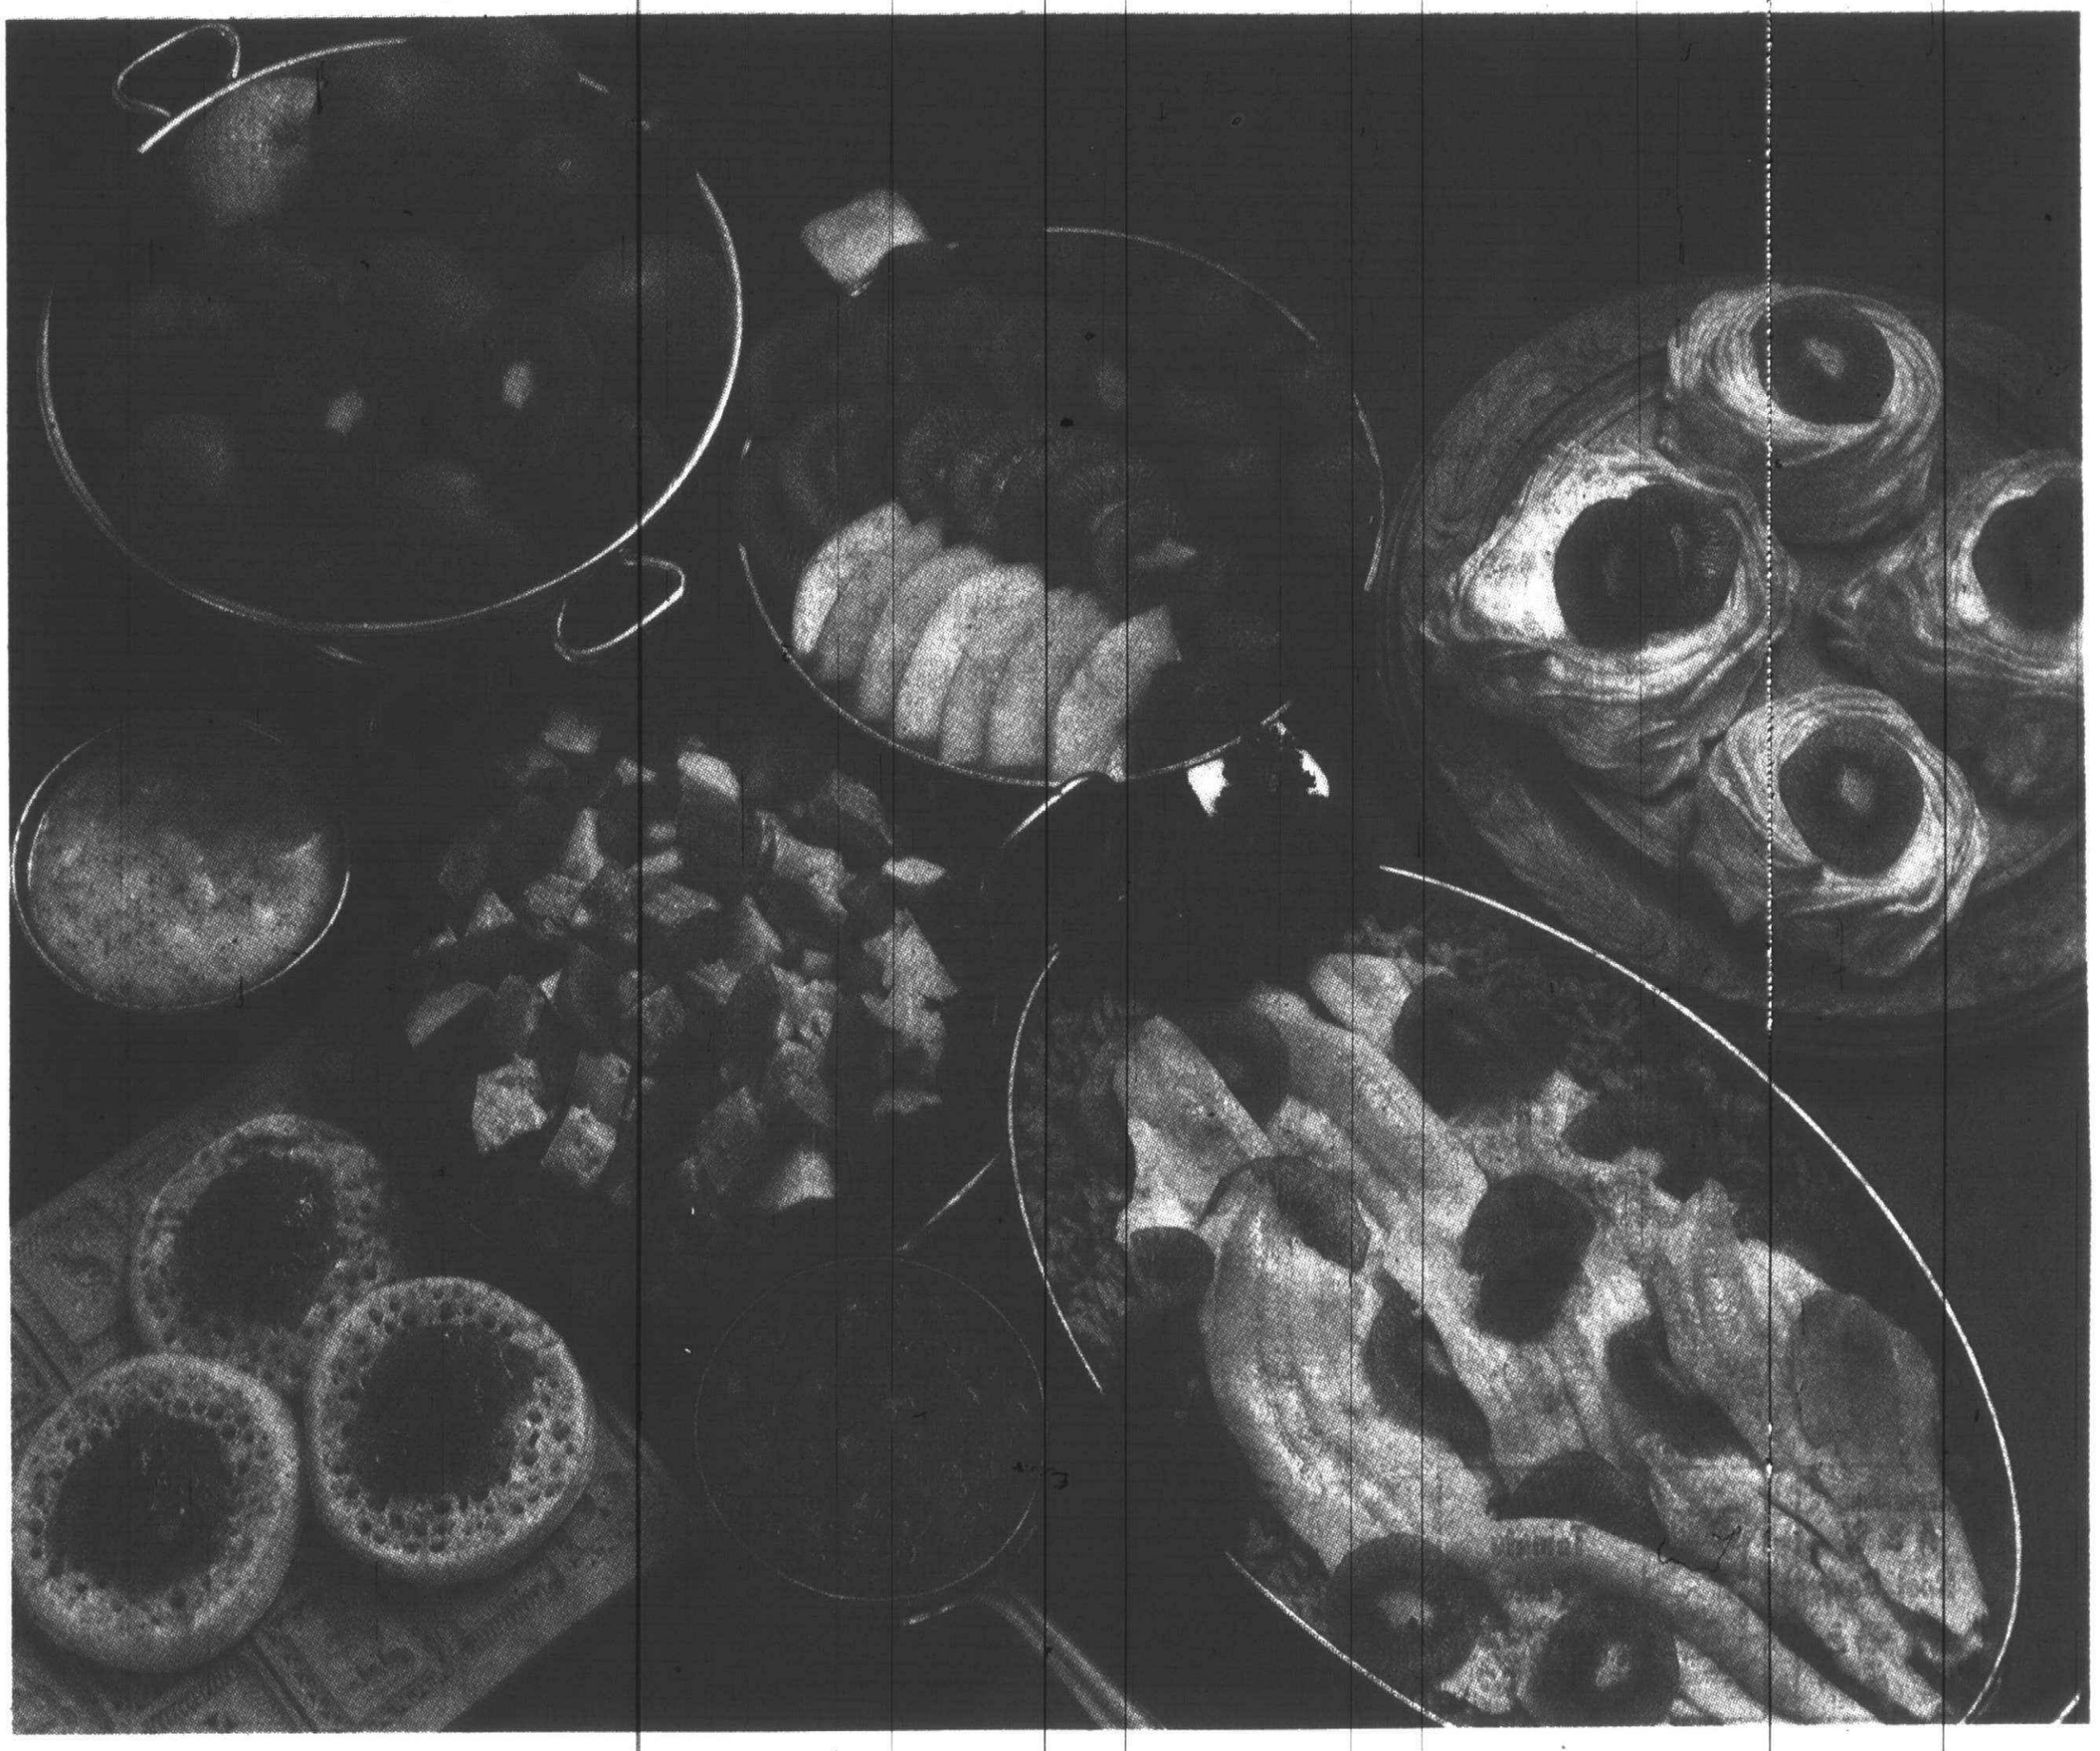
KIWIFRUIT FROM NEW ZEALAND



As emeralds enhance the beauty of a woman, kiwifruit enhances almost any cuisine. Until recently, kiwifruit had been almost as scarce as emeralds, but now the lush New Zealand countryside is revelling in an abundance of orchards laden with this unique and enticing fruit.

In 1906, the "Chinese Gooseberry" was introduced from China to Wanganui, New Zealand. Over the years, the industry developed slowly and it wasn't until 1953 that the first fruit was exported to the United States under the name "Kiwifruit" in order to identify it with New Zealand instead of China. It grows in places with unlikely names such as Te Puke, Te Puna, Tauranga, Bay of Plenty and Poverty Bay! In just 7 short years since 1972, exports went from about 200 thousand flats to nearly 4 million! But this is still a long way from filling the increasing demand around the world.

Perhaps your first exposure to kiwifruit was in a fine restaurant either in a salad, on a buffet, in a dessert or as a very special sherbet or mousse. Whatever, the kiwifruit stands out in exquisite color and flavor. If, after that, you were to look for kiwifruit in your favorite market, you would probably pass it right by, never dreaming that fuzzy, egg shaped brown fruit concealed such a treat.

But just peel away the very thin skin and cut in crosswise slices and you'll find a dazzling, brilliant green fruit with a creamy colored center and tiny black edible seeds exploding out in a spectacular design. Rather an extravagant description, but one with which you will agree after seeing it.

You may just want to cut the kiwifruit in half and serve with a spoon, but it seems rather a shame not to slice it and expose more of the color and beauty of the fruit.

One of the nice things about kiwifruit, you don't have to have lots of them to create the effect you desire. As you will see from the recipes, it only takes one or two to make rather prosaic dishes take on a gourmet appearance and taste.

How do you tell when these little fuzzy fruits are ripe? They are all picked at prime eating stage and immediately cooled and held in perfectly controlled temperature and humidity conditions until marketed. They should be just barely soft like a ready-to-eat peach but not really soft. If they are hard when you buy them, just put them in a plastic bag with a couple of apples or pears. Close the bag tightly and let stand at room temperature for at least 24 hours or until kiwifruit begins to "give". If you find a good buy on kiwifruit, get a lot and store in coldest part of your refrigerator. They'll keep a month or so.

In case you're wondering why apples or pears hasten ripening, it's because they both give off ethylene gas which is nature's ripening agent. The ethylene gas triggers the ripening enzyme in the kiwifruit. Isn't nature wonderful?

Just a tip about using kiwifruit in combination with gelatin . . . don't. It won't jell. Cooked kiwifruit will allow it to jell but the kiwi loses its brilliant color and the flavor changes to a more predominately gooseberry flavor. It's best to use the kiwifruit as a colorful garnish for your favorite mold.

Kiwifruit has a zesty taste which people alternately compare with mangoes, bananas, strawberries, apricots, peaches and many other fruits. The fact is, it is slightly reminiscent of several, but with a true flavor of its own.

Kiwifruit is also used as a tenderizer and may be rubbed on steaks before broiling. In the old days, New Zealand cooks used to stuff chickens and turkeys with kiwifruit for juicy, tender birds. At current prices, however, they prefer to use the fruits in desserts and as accents to fish and fowl rather than hiding them inside!

As well as tasting terrific, kiwifruit is an excellent source of Vitamin C, low in calories.

Start the day with a sparkle with zesty, fresh tasting uncooked kiwifruit jam. It keeps its bright color, too, and will store many weeks in the freezer.

UNCOOKED FROZEN KIWIFRUIT JAM

3 1/2 cups well mashed kiwifruit
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 package powdered jam and jelly pectin
1 cup light corn syrup
4 1/2 cups sugar

In a large kettle, mix kiwifruit pulp and lemon juice thoroughly. Sift in pectin, stirring vigorously. Add corn syrup and mix well. Gradually stir in sugar, stirring until completely dissolved. Warming to 100° (temperature you would use for baby's milk . . . no hotter) will help dissolve sugar. Jam is ready to eat when sugar is dissolved.

Put in glasses or containers with tight lids. Store in freezer. If you plan to eat the jam within a week or two, just store in the refrigerator.

FESTIVE KIWIFRUIT CHICKEN SALAD

2 cups cubed cooked chicken or turkey
1 jar whole pimientos, sliced (4 oz.)
1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
2 or 3 New Zealand kiwifruit, peeled and sliced
Kiwifruit dressing
Leaf lettuce or romaine

Chill all ingredients before assembling. In a large bowl, put chicken, pimientos, celery and kiwifruit. Pour dressing over and mix carefully. Serve in bowl lined with leaf lettuce or romaine.

KIWIFRUIT DRESSING

1/2 cup white wine vinegar
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon Dijon mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 cup salad oil
1 kiwifruit, peeled and cubed

Put vinegar, sugar, mustard, salt and pepper in blender. Turn on high and gradually add oil. Add kiwifruit and blend until just smooth. Chill before using.

INTERNATIONAL FRUIT PLATE

Arrange fruits in season in slices on a plate or platter. Serve kiwifruit dressing on the side or drizzle over fruit before serving.

This is really an adaptation of the famous Pavlova dessert, aptly named for the exquisite ballerina. Instead of making a large meringue base for the Pavlova, you make individual meringue shells and add the whipped cream and slices of kiwifruit. If you want to have a quickie dessert, you can buy the meringue shells at your favorite bakery, but they are really quite easy to make and much less expensive.

KIWI MERINGUE TARTS (Mini-Pavlovas)

4 egg whites, room temperature
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vinegar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup whipping cream
2 or 3 kiwifruit

Preheat oven to 250 . Cover one or two cookie sheets, depending on size, with foil. Spray with non-stick product or grease well. Beat egg whites with salt until foamy. Continue to beat, adding cream of tartar, until they stand in soft peaks when beater is removed. Add sugar gradually, beating constantly at high speed, until meringue is thick and glossy and sugar is dissolved. Beat in vinegar and vanilla.

If you have a pastry tube, fill it with the meringue mixture and make tart shells with a flat base and built up sides. If not, spoon meringue onto foil in evenly divided mounds and form into tarts.

Bake at 250° for 1 hour. Turn off heat and cool in oven for 2 hours. Remove from oven. Just before serving, fill centers with whipped cream and top with slices of kiwifruit. Serves 6 to 8.

FILET OF SOLE KIWI

1 pound filet of sole (or other delicate white fish)
4 tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 kiwifruit, peeled and sliced
1 package herbed brown rice, cooked

Melt butter in a large heavy skillet. Carefully cook sole until delicately brown, turning once. Remove carefully to heated platter. Keep warm. Add lemon juice, salt and sliced kiwifruit to butter in skillet. Heat kiwifruit until just heated through. Put cooked brown rice on a platter, top with sole and spoon kiwifruit and butter sauce over the top. Garnish with parsley. Serves 4.

Steaming broth is right for football

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

Soup's on!

And just in time to help combat the cold temperatures that have swept into Michigan recently.

A steaming cup of broth aids in fighting off the chills at football games, or a hearty bowl of chowder can warm one up nicely before the game and provide the energy for cheering on a favorite professional, college or little league team.

Bolster your chances in the neighborhood Sunday morning pickup game with a hot cup of cream of tomato soup. You can make it quickly with the recipe below.

The traditional image of soup making is of mother saving stewing bones or a ham bone, then chopping and dicing for a long time, placing ingredients in a large soup pot to simmer all day, spreading anticipatory aromas throughout the house. That still is a good way to make soup.

However, so many of us run on such tight schedules these days that we find ourselves opening cans rather than making a "from scratch" version.

You still can have both homemade flavor and shortened, easy preparation with the help of food processers, multipurpose food center equipment or a good blender which has processing capabilities beyond the usual pureeing and mixing. The following soup recipes make use of such equipment. QUICK

VEGETABLE SOUP

Makes 6 or 8 servings
1 lb. ground beef
3 medium potatoes, peeled and cut in chunks
4 medium carrots, peeled and cut into short lengths
½ head cauliflower, separated into flowerets
2 medium onion, peeled
1 green pepper, seeded
1 medium zucchini or cucumber
4 cups water
2 beef bouillon cubes
2 cups or 1 can (16 oz.) tomato sauce
1½ to 2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. basil

The beef can be ground in the food processor or purchased already ground. Brown the meat in a large skillet or saucepan. Slice the potatoes, carrots, cauliflower, onions, pepper and zucchini in the food processor or multipurpose machine. Add the vegetables to the beef along with the water, bouillon cubes, tomato sauce and seasonings. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until the potatoes and carrots are tender.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

Makes 2 servings
2 tbsp. butter
2 ttbsp. flour
1 cup milk
salt and pepper to taste
1 small onion, optional
2 medium ripe tomatoes, stewed or an amount of tomato sauce to suit your taste

Melt butter in a saucepan, add the onion if using, and cook until transparent. Add flour and cook and stir until bubbly. Add milk, salt and pepper to taste to make the soup base. Then put tomato through food processor or blender to puree and add to base, or add tomato sauce. Mix together thoroughly. Serve at once.

Any vegetable from asparagus to zucchini can be substituted for the tomatoes in this recipe. Simply put the cooked vegetable through the processor to puree and add to the cream soup base.

Or, shred 4 ounces of cheese to stir in the soup base for instant cheese soup. Also, you might try mixing ½ cup of peanut butter into the soup base for an unusual, delicious peanutty soup. PEA

AND PROVOLONE SOUP

Makes 4 to 6 servings
1 can (10½ oz.) condensed green pea soup
2½ cups milk
4 oz. Provolone cheese, chilled
2 frankfurters, sliced
Provolone cheese for garnish

Heat the soup and milk to simmering. Shred cheese with the shredding blade of the food processor or multipurpose machine and add it to the soup. Stir over very low heat just until the cheese is melted. Float frankfurter slices in the soup for garnish. Shred additional cheese for garnish, if desired.

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

The serpent in the garden knew what he was about when he selected an apple to tempt Eve. The witch in the story of Snow White knew the same trick. Try it soon yourself.

Crisp, fresh apples account for some of the sweetest scents and flavors of autumn. Will Rogers Jr. and the Washington Apple Growers' Association notwithstanding, there is rarely a crunch in the apples available in summer. Months of storage turn the fruit's texture mealy. Imported Granny Smith apples do have a summer season but at 89 cents a pound, they are a luxury.

The advent of the apple season eases the pain of the demise of the juicy, sweet fruits of summer — berries, plums, peaches, cherries, and melons. The opening of cider mills across Michigan marks the end of summer and the beginning of fall as concretely as the opening of school.

Apples appear in school lunches, surviving the journey from home to school much better than the soft fruits of summer ever could. Apple cider, served hot with cinnamon sticks, helps chase the chill from late fall evenings which hint ominously of impending winter.

Served in a wooden bowl with purple autumn grapes and unshelled walnuts, apples make not only a delicious snack but present a picture so beautiful as to have inspired artists ranging from Art I students to grand masters. What could make a more appealing, simple finale to a fine meal than a perfect apple accompanied by a wedge of good cheese?

This protein fruit appears in probably more forms than any other — in salads, sandwiches, pies, cakes, chutnies, cereals, pancakes, and casseroles. It can be served raw, baked, stewed, sauteed, or fried. The only trick is to select the correct variety of apple for whatever use you have in mind. Most basic cookbooks contain charts for this.

Try waking up to apples. Combine diced apples, bananas and grapes. Top with yogurt and sprinkle with wheat germ and walnuts for a delicious breakfast.

At lunch, try apples in an unusual, hearty soup. The recipe for apple cheddar soup appeared in a local newspaper a while back. Anyone who missed it might be interested in trying this intriguing variation on the classic cheddar-apple combination.

For a light supper, apples and cheddar again combine but in a different guise — baked in a lovely quiche. Served hot or at room temperature and cut into thin slices, this could even serve as a tempting hors d'ouevres.

As a side dish for either lunch or supper, apples often find their way into a variety of salads. The most traditional, of course, is the rich Waldorf salad. There are times, however, when a sharp, tangy salad is more appropriate. For these times, apple, carrot and radish salad would be a perfect choice. It would make a particularly refreshing accompaniment to rich, creamed dishes.

The soft warmth of summer is gone. The frost of fall is in the air. As if to compensate, nature offers trees heavy with crisp, sweet apples. Enjoy them for all they are worth.

APPLE CHEESE SOUP

4 tbsp. butter
½ cup flour, divided
2 cups milk, scalded
3 cups apple cider
3 cups shredded cheese (Cheddar or Gouda)
3 egg yolks
½ cup half and half
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. mace
Garnishes:
1 red apple, cored and diced
½ cup crumbled bacon or imitation bacon bits
1 cup toasted croutons
½ cup grated cheese (Cheddar or Gouda)

Melt the butter in a large saucepan. Add ¼ cup of the flour and blend vigorously with a whisk. Add scalded milk, stirring slowly and gradually bring to a boil. When thickened, add apple cider and blend thoroughly. Lower heat.

Combine the remaining ¼ cup flour with the shredded cheese and add that to the soup, stirring until the cheese melts.

Combine the egg yolks, half and half, salt, and mace in a small bowl and mix well. Add some of the hot soup to the egg yolk mixture, then add egg mixture to the large soup pot and heat, stirring constantly. Do not allow it to boil but cook enough so the taste of raw egg yolks disappears. Serve with garnishes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

He'll miss St. John's— and the hockey games

By TERI BANAS

When Kenneth Untener recently learned of his new job appointment, a position of considerable importance within his organization, he understandably felt proud and awe-struck.

His next thought, however, was "What am I going to do about my Thursday night hockey game?"

You see, the Rev. Ken Untener, who will soon take over the 110-parish Diocese of Saginaw, has been playing hockey every Thursday night, non-stop, for the past 17 years with the same group of friends and associates.

During the same period, however, Untener has had an impressive 17-year career with the Archdiocese of Detroit in various administrative and educational levels.

Most recently assigned as rector of St. John's Provincial Seminary in Plymouth, Untener's new posting was announcement by the Detroit Archdiocese last week and will take effect sometime in mid-November.

In an interview with the Observer Thursday, Fr. Untener talked about his three-year stay as the seminary's youngsest rector, the priesthood, and reflections on the new assignment.

"The announcement kind of caught me off guard and the seminary too," he said. "It left you with a little bit of fear and I guess a little bit of an overwhelmed feeling that you've been asked to do this."

AND WITH a sense of humor, he put the job in personal perspective.

"My goal in life, my first love, was to be a pastor," Untener confided. "As a matter of fact, that's what I preached about last month. Being a bishop is not what I had in mind, but my chief consellation is that the work is similar — it's just a larger parish."

Untener came to Plymouth as the seminary's rector in 1977. But that was actually a return home. Between 1959 and 1963, the Detroit native studied there as a young seminarian.

'When I attended the seminary, the schedule was rigorous and advocated a strong disciplined development. The class schedule was heavy, we ate in silence, we had assigned prayer time and limited recreation time.
— The Rev. Ken Untener

"Back then it was a self-contained institution," he recalled. "There was no flow of visitors and you never left here. I never even stepped foot in Plymouth for four years. In comparison to today, it's like night and day."

Today, of the school's 161 student population, only 75 of them are seminarian students and the rest are non-Catholic and Catholic laypeople.

"When I attended the seminary, the schedule was rigorous and advocated a strong disciplined development. The class schedule was heavy, we ate in silence, we had assigned prayer time and limited recreation time."

"NOW THE students have cars and come and go."

Untener also described the philosophy of preparing a new breed of men for the ministry.

"Most of all, people expect a warm, human person. You can't be aloof and avoid sharing feelings. Secondly, people expect someone who can give them spiritual leadership — teach them how to pray. It's pretty basic expectations. They don't expect anyone with superhuman skills.

"In the past, Catholics wanted to know what the rules were and that was emphasized a lot. Before, I think, you were the guru. Today, they want to know how the Lord is calling them individually. They want from the ministry that individual tailoring and listening."

Almost forgetting, he added:

"Oh, and they also want short sermons."

Prior to coming to St. John, Untener worked in the chancellory office of the Archdiocese under present Cardinal John Dearden.

In a release issued to the media last week, the Cardinal wrote: "I suspect that no priest of this Archdiocese is as widely known and esteemed as he is. We have appreciated his labor with gratitude."

And local reaction from parish priests in the Plymouth-Canton community was equally flattering.

Fr. Larry Siroskey, who attended the Plymouth seminary when Untener became rector there, is now the assistant pastor at St. John Newman Church, Canton.

He recalls Untener as a "warm, personable guy," who moved the seminary through a time of transition.

"THAT WAS the time when the seminary was opening up to the laity and he got it under way.

"He even helped develop the curriculm on how to give homilies. He took tapes of sermons and passed them out to a wide spectrum of people for their reactions and in turn helped the curriculum become more sensitive to the needs of the people."

"Personality wise, he's a lot like Chester on the Gunsmoke series, the same kind of nonchalant personality and dry, subtle sense of humor."

First Step will welcome visitors to its new home

First Step plans an open house Wednesday. The event marks both the completion of a facility and the success of a new idea.

Debbie Benjamin, executive director of the organization designed to help battered women, will be joined by other First Step leaders in welcoming visitor to the new headquarters at 8381 Farmington Road, Westland. The open house will run 3-7 p.m.

Financial backing for those who try to aid the vicitims of domestic violence was approved only 1½ years ago. Yet in its first year the fledgling area organization serviced almost 600 families.

"One of the things we learned is that the problem of domestic violence is greater than anybody would have imagined," said Miss Benjamin, who is the first to hold her position. "The women are as young as 17. The oldest was 72. Both were battered.

"The majority of our clients are between 20-35, and have children."

A staff of seven women offers counseling, legal assistance, some financial assistance and transportaion to safety for emergency abuse cases. First Step also sponsors support groups and can arrange temporary shelter.

IT HAS HAD some gratifying successes, Ms. Benjamin said.

"A woman came in after her boyfriend of many years began abusing her, related Miss Benjamin. "She was financially dependent on him, and had two small children from a previous marriage. She came to us in a depressed state with little hope of escaping the situation.

"We first got her into a temporary shelter. We involved her in individual counseling and then transferred her to a support group, which meets once a week at the center. We helped her apply for ADC funds and to find housing.

"At this point she is doing great. She's thinking about schooling and a career. Her goal is to get off ADC and support her children."

But there are also disappointments. One of the women who came to First Step was not yet ready to walk out of an abusive situation.

"We let her know what we can offer," said Miss Benjamin. "We told her she was welcome to come back and talk to us."

THE ORGANIZATION is funded by the cities of Westland and Taylor and by Plymouth Township. Livonia gives support by having one of its CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) employes work for the agency. Canton Township helped the organization gain funds to renovate a building to serve as a shelter. But a shelter is still far in the future because First Step does not yet have the operating funds to run it.

In fact, it recently was forced to reduce some of its activities because funds are in short supply. The agency will receive only $33,000 in state funding this year as opposed to $54,000 last year.

As a result the organization is now involved in a fund drive.

Weekend workshop a help to couples

Dr. M.S. Bogolea of the Family Human Potential Services clinic in Livonia will conduct a weekend workshop for couples entitled "Clarifying Intimate Relationships." It is sponsored by Schoolcraft College Oct. 25 and 26 in the Newman House, 17300 Haggerty, Livonia.

To be conducted from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. both days, the workshop will focus on improving communication, regulating personal aggression and enhancing intimacy in interpersonal relationships.

"The emphasis is on placing a high premium on acceptance before sharing and caring," Dr. Bogolea said, "and developing interpersonal relationships that may be fewer, though deeper, based on respecting the position of the other person in terms of accepting their values."

THE SECOND day of the workshop couples will go to their homes, or "wherever they feel comfortable," to reflect on themselves and their relationships. The workshop will conclude with a group wrap-up to evaluate any gains couples have made during the two-day session.

Bogolea will be conducting the workshop with Barbara Hill, MSW. They will draw on sections from George Bach and Peter Wynden's book, "How to Fight Fair in Love and Marriage."

Although the upcoming workshop is not designed to be therapy as such, the format has been used as the last experience in therapy for troubled couples who have already gone through marital counseling.

"Clarifying Intimate Relationships" is aimed at couples, not necessarily married, whose relationship has been going on for a relatively long period of time.

To preregister, call the college's Women's Resource Center at 591-6400, ext. 430; the $50 per couple fee is payable at the first session.

St. John rector moving to Saginaw

As for church politics, Siroskey calls him a real "company man," one who prefers to work through the system for reform.

Meanwhile, Fr. Jim Jagielski, of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Plymouth, had a similar description of the soon-to-be ordained bishop.

"I suspect if you look at the heirachy of the Roman Catholic Church, you won't find a more fun-loving person," he said. "He's not just a theologian."

Untener's other assignments have included being the assistant pastor at St. Mary of Redford Church, Detroit, as well as the co-host for a Sunday morning talk show entitled "Diolgue." It ran for three years and pitted Untener in unrehearsed topic discussions with a Protestant minister.

"SURPRISING to us and more surprising to our listeners was how much we agreed," said Untener.

While rector at St. John, Untener also travels to Birmingham where he serves Mass on weekends at St. Owen Catholic Church.

In selecting a bishop in the Catholic Church, the process is often long and mostly private. The final decision is made by the pope in Rome after his delegation in Washington reviews solicited comments and recommendations from area ministry members and laity.

Part of Untener's national recognition came from his service on subcomittees to the National Council of Bishops. His field is the theology of church and ministry.

As for his plans for Saginaw, which has a Catholic population of 170,000, he says he plans to "minister to the ministers and be helpful, supportive and challenging."

But as for getting lofty notions about his position, he says his friends and family have warned him about that.

"I might say they've made that clear," he says with a smile.

"When my little niece was told, she asked my sister if being a bishop meant I could still be her uncle. I said I could."

Shopping with boosters

The first annual Boosters Shopping Day will be held from 8 a.m. to midnight on Wednesday, Oct. 15, at the Great Scott store at Sheldon and Ann Arbor roads. Sponsored by the Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem Booster Club, 5 percent of the total gross sales that day will be returned to booster club to support athletic programs at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP). There will be carry-out service all day, prizes including a 19-inch color TV and free groceries, hot dogs and soft drinks for 49 cents. Making plans for Wednesday are, from left, booster Cindi Merrifield, Dave Orleans, assistant manager for Great Scott, and booster Jan Ruggerio. (Staff photo)

Bird planning fashion show

Bird Elementary School is planning a fashion show for mothers and daughters beginning 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the cafeteria of Plymouth Canton High School.

The evening of fashion will include clothes, shoes and hairstyles for the entire family.

Prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served.

Tickets are $1.50 for mothers and $1 for daughters. There will be a ticket pre-sale at Bird Oct. 13-15. Pat Mackiewicz is chairman of the event.

Plymouth merchants cooperating in the effort include Clothese Tree Plus, Me and Mr. Jones, John Smith, Armbruster's Bootery and the Old Village Hair Station.

Models will include Bird School parents, teachers, students and new principal Sam Barresi.

'Festive Debut' fashions fund BPW scholarships

The Plymouth Business and professional Women's Club will present "Festive Debut," a fall and winter fashion show, at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 22 in the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

The annual BPW event is the prime fund-raiser for the club's generous scholarship program. The show has gained a reputation for its delectable refreshments, its attractive and practical fashions, and the the number of prizes — more than 100 of them — won by the guests.

Admission will be $4 per person and may be purchased from all club members. Elaine Love, 459-3380, and Jerry Wireman, 453-5200, are co-chairing "Festive Debut." Anyone having difficulty finding tickets can call either of them.

The show will feature fashions from Van Dam's Lingerie and New Gal in Town. The models' hair styling will be by House of Glamour.

Club members who will model the new fall and winter wardrobes will be Grace Rix, Susan Light, Barbara Martin, Mary Ellen Eckler, Kathy Salla, Marilyn Weber, Chris Rautio nad Marion Kehrl.

Occupational therapy's topic

The value of occupational therapy for learning-disabled young people is the topic at the next meeting of the Plymouth-Canton-Northville branch of the Michigan Association of Children with Learning Disabilities (MACLD).

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the cafeteria of Pioneer Middle School, 46081 Ann Arbor Road west of Sheldon in Plymouth.

The speaker, Pam Lemerand, will talk on "Occupational Therapy and the Disabled Child."

She is an occupational therapist from the Western Wayne County Learning Center.

Her talk will cover sensory integration and learning — specifically normal sensory and motor development, effect on learning, and sensory integration dysfunction.

Ms. Lemerand has a B.S. degree in occupational therapy, an M.A. in child development and is a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Michigan in educational psychology.

She has worked in the special-education field for seven years, specializing in evaluation and assessment of students and in program development.

She specializes in sensory integration and has received advanced training and certification in assessment and treatment of sensory-integration dysfunction.

State La Leche conference

The La Leche League of Michigan is holding its 14th annual fall conference in Plymouth.

The conference will be held Saturday, Oct. 18, at the Plymouth Hilton Inn on Northville Road just south of Five Mile.

One of the conference highlights will feature Mary White, a La Leche League founder and board member, and her husband, Dr. Gregory White, conducting a public session at 8 p.m. Friday.

Their talk will be on "Building a Close Family Unit in Today's World: The Effects of Breastfeeding in Intensive Parenting." Dr. White is a medical advisor for the league.

Dr. Edweard Linkner of Ann Arbor will speak on holistic medicine on Saturday and Jan Barger, a registered nurse at Providence Hospital in Southfield, will talk about birth centers.

Registration on Saturday will be 7:30-8:45 a.m. and sessions will run from 9 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

Registration information may be obtained by calling Sue Brush in Ann Arbor at 761-2390. Registered nurses interested in receiving continuing education units for attending the conference should call Kathy Mehi in Oak Park at 545-0187.

the movies

Louise Snider

Marie-Christine Barrault and Woody Allen appear in a scene from "Stardust Memories."

Film continues inward journey of Woody Allen

Artists frequently paint self-portraits. Sometimes, it's because they can't afford models — this was especially true in previous centuries and early in our own. Often, it's because they want to externalize their own feelings about themselves.

The latter reason seems to apply to Woody Allen. In "Stardust Memories" (PG), he continues the inward journey made visible that became important in "Annie Hall" and continued with "Manhattan."

Even "Interiors," the serious drama he wrote and directed, suggests by its title persisting interest in introspection.

"Stardust Memories," however, is both more personal and more elusive than his other films. Like Fellini's "8½" or Truffaut's "Day for Night," it's an account of movie making and a comment on the art of illusion, as well as a sad but funny self-portrait.

ALLEN'S UNIQUE viewpoint assures us a film that is self- critical and humorous, punctuated with devastating one-liners. His ethnic background provides a few thousand years of tradition in the art of self-depreciating jokes.

Sandy Bates is the protagonist in "Stardust Memories." He is so thinly disguised an alter ego of Allen's that you could watch the entire film without catching his name.

Bates is a film wirter, actor and director. He is generally on the receiving end of backhanded compliments. "I love your movies, especially the early, funny ones."

He is caught in the middle of Allen's usual anxiety-ridden situation. He questions the value of his work; he is trying to straighten out his love life; he is ambivalent about making commitments; he is worried that all matter in the universe is decaying and he's pondering the meaning of existence.

Consequently, jokes bounce back and forth between the ethnic and the cosmic. On suicide: "It's not a middle-class alternative. My mother was too busy running the boiled chicken through the de-flavorizing machine" (to think of it). On God: "To you, I'm an atheist. To God, I'm the loyal opposition."

"STARDUST MEMORIES" belongs to the unstructured, episodic type of film. Sometimes you have to wonder if Allen writes his one-liners on file cards and when he has a sufficient quantity builds a movie around them. There is no strong narrative. The continuity is on the tone.

What persists is an onslaught of people who bombard Bates llen with their criticism, fawning praise or requests. He's not funny anymore. He's great. Will he do a cancer benefit? Will he donate his truss for an auction? "I don't wear a truss" is the courteous reply.

"I'm just lucky," he acknowledges. If he were born in a society that didn't value laughter, he wouldn't be successful. Being luck is an ambiguous state, a toss of the dice, thus this sad but funny movie.

Bates can end his film with a kiss and a clinch. Allen settles for a disgruntled patron muttering, "From this he makes a living?"

NEW RELEASES

THE BLUE LAGOON (R). Lush photography but silly story of two shipwrecked youngsters who grow up uninhibited on tropic isle.

CADDYSHACK (R). Chevy Chase and other comics in misadventures of caddies at a stuffy country club.

CARNY (R). Jodie Foster runs off to join a carnival and gets involved with the clown and his partner. A film for those who like to get hustled.

COAST TO COAST (PG). Romantic comedy with trucker and hitchhiker, who has just escaped from mental institution, sharing transcontinental adventure.

DIVINE MADNESS (R). Energetic and electrifying Bette Midler in film version of the Broadway show.

FAME (R). Lots of young talent in vibrant musical about students at New York's School of Performing Arts.

THE GREAT SANTINI (PG). Robert Duvall as Air Force pilot and dominating father in strong story of family conflict and love.

HOPSCOTCH(R). Chemistry of Matthau/Jackson pairing works again, but we don't see them together often enough in this halfway humorous (first half) film.

IN GOD WE TRUST (PG). Marty Feldman in slapstick fable about innocent monk's initiation into worldly ways.

MY BODYGUARD (PG). Humorous, low-key film about two teenage boys of different backgrounds who join forces to put down school bully.

OH, GOD! BOOK II (PG). George Burns returns as the Almighty with a new messenger, Luanne, as "Tracey," to deliver his words.

ORDINARY PEOPLE (R). Robert Redford's directorial debut is a smash in this extraordinarily well-acted, moving film about a "perfect" family trying to cope with a son's mental illness.

PRIVATE BENJAMIN (R). Goldie Hawn joins the army to escape and find herself.

SAM MARLOW, PRIVATE EYE (PG). Contemporary mystery-comedy that draws upon the '40s and the Bogart tradition.

SOMEWHERE IN TIME (PG). Romance with Christopher Reeve and Jane Seymour. Young man falls in love with portrait of a beautiful woman and goes back in time to find her.

STARDUST MEMORIES (PG). Funny, sad film about what it's like to be Woody Allen (Sandy Bates in this movie). Allen joins ranks of directors who've made movies about themselves making movies.

TERROR TRAIN (R). A killer stalks an excursion train where a college fraternity is holding a masquerade party.

Photographs of Japan shown at art museum

An exhibition of 150 vintage photographs of Japan taken between 1854-1905 continues through Nov. 23 at the Detroit Institute of Arts Sunday.

Suspended in sepia prints, courtesans show their costumes, actors posture, warriors flaunt arms and armor, wrestlers display muscle and villages sit placidly in the shadow of Mt. Fuji.

A mix of European and Japanese photographers were eyewitnesses to Japan's tranformation from an insular country to a modern world power. Some are anonymous, a few like Felix Beato, an Italian military photographer, Baron von Stillfried, an Austrian nobleman, Kisakabe Kimbei, a Japanese photographer of tourist views and Ogawa Isshin, the most successful society photographer of the period, can be identified.

From 1630 to 1854, Japan had been closed to foreigners and the unchallenged record of everyday life was the popular woodblock print. When Japan was opened to the West, the camera was introduced in time to capture the transition from feudal shogun rule to the Emperor Meiji and modernization.

"Japan, Photography 1854-1905" is open to the public without charge during regular museum hours, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesdays-Sundays. Closed Mondays and legal holidays.

The exhibit was jointly organized by Japan Society's Japan House Gallery and the American Federation of Arts. It is supported by grants from the Japan-U.S. Friendship Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts.

In conjunction with the exhibition, the museum's Friends of Asian Art will sponsor a special lecture at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 28. Ellen Conant, authority on Japanese history of the period, will be the speaker. The event is open to the public with nominal admission charge at the door of the Lecture/Recital Hall.

Felix Beato took the photo of the Japanese laborer (at left) in about 1867. It is part of the exhibition at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Christmas seal memories

The American Lung Association has a card with reproductions of Christmas seals from years past as one of its 12 card offerings for Christmas 1980. The background is blue. Price range for the association cards is $5.50 to $9.25 for 25 cards, with the pictured one priced at $7.50. Imprinting is available and costs extra. Cards are available from the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan, 28 W. Adams, Detroit 48226, or by calling 961-1697 during business hours.

Asthma center

The Detroit League of the National Asthma Center is selling a Christmas card full of cute kids trimming a tree. The cost for 25 cards is $7.25 plain or $11 imprinted, and prices are less for larger quantities. Postage and handling charges start at $2. Orders should be placed with Lucia Robiner, 19420 Beaverland, Detroit 48219, or telephone her at 535-5247 after 4 p.m.

American Cancer Society

A solitary Santa in snowy woods is one of six choices of Christmas cards offered this year by the American Cancer Society. This card in a green envelope is $8.50 for 25 cards; others range $7.50 to $11. Order them from the Metropolitan Detroit Area Office, 29500 Southfield Road, Southfield 48076, telephone 557-5353.

Plymouth Center plans renovation

At a time when Plymouth Center for Human Development is under court order to reduce by 100 by 1983 its population of mentally retarded persons, it is hoping to use about $4.2 million in state money to renovate its buildings.

Carrying out the plan depends on approval by the state Department of Public Health and the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan.

If the money is approved, renovation will be started to bring five residential buildings, totaling 437 beds, up to the standards required by the Intermediate Care Facility/Mental Retardation (ICF/MR), according to Dr. Ibrahim Hussein, associate director of the center. Without meeting the standards, the facility would not be eligible for federal money.

"The federal government pays half the cost of running the center," said Hussein, "or from $10 million to $12 million a year.

"In exchange for this money, we have to live up to certain standards. One of them is to provide certain programs and have a certain number of people on our staff."

BUILDING STANDARDS also are set by the feds. These can concern issues ranging from the number of residents to a room to the requirements for building ramps and other structures to give the handicapped accessibility.

"If we don't meet the building requirements by July 1982, the state would be liable to pay the federal government all the money it paid us during the time we didn't meet the standard," Hussein stated. "It paid us those funds on the promise that we'd meet the physical plant requirements.

"If we get the buildings up to standard, then even after they are vacated, they will be left in good condition." Dr. Hussein said that one of the center's eight residence buildings, Binet Hall, has already been closed.

In 60 days, another will close. By 1983, it is expected that only two residence halls, along with residential facilities in the administration building, will be in use.

THE PRESENT center population is 466. Dr. Hussein noted that 30 residents were placed in the community during September. He said the facility is three months ahead of its schedule for reducing its population to 100 residents in 1983 as required by U.S. Judge Charles Joiner.

Mind control is conference topic

Understanding mind control in a vulnerable society is the theme of a conference to be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 20 in the Engineering Society, 100 Farnsworth, Detroit.

The conference is limited to professionals in mental health, law, education and religion.

Speakers will be Tom Keiser, chief psychologist of the Lafayette Clinic Outpatient Department, and Margaret Singer, professor of psychiatry and psychology at the University of California.

Also on the program will be Herbert Rosedale, attorney; Howard Lasher, New York state assemblyman; Daniel Schnee, former member of the Unification Church; and George Swope, assistant professor of psychology and sociology, Westchester Community College, Valhalla, N.Y.

The fee is $30 and includes lunch. Mail checks to the Mental Health Association in Michigan, 15920 12 Mile, Southfield; 557-6777. The last day for registration is Oct. 15.

Miracle comeback stuns Rock girls, 41-40

Archer lifts Bentley cagers

By BRAD EMONS

Livonia Bentley held onto to its No. 1 area girls' basketball ranking Thursday night with a miracle comeback victory against host Plymouth Salem.

Sophomore forward Kim Archer of the Bulldogs pulled the heroics by hitting two layups in the final 12 seconds to crush the Rocks, 41-40.

Salem, which suffered its first defeat of the year, appeared to have the game won with 24 seconds left in regulation time when reserve Jeanine Papa hit a short shot after missing a free throw. Her basket made it, 40-37.

Bentley, however, came storming back as Archer slipped inside for two points just 11 seconds later.

Salem inbounded the ball under its own basket to Jan MacKenzie, who passed errantly into the hands of Archer near the top of the key. The Bulldog forward then drove in for the uncontested game-winner.

Archer, who made things difficult for Salem after a sluggish start, ended as the game's high scorer with 16 points. She also grabbed 18 rebounds and dished out eight assists.

"I thought the game was lost," admitted Bentley coach Tom Lang. "Everything kind of went our way. I couldn't believe it."

Salem, ranked No. 2 in the Observer ratings behind Bentley, fought the much bigger Bulldogs tooth-and-claw most of the way.

"We had a great opportunity to win," said a disappointed Salem coach Bob Blohm. "It just wasn't there.

"Our kids did a great job. You can't totally blame Jan. There were four other players out there with her on the court."

THE GAME started out with a torrid pace.

Both teams ran the fast break with the first quarter ending, 11-11.

Salem dominated the second quarter with its sagging man-to-man defense. Eileen Moore's basket with 2:10 left until intermission made it 19-13 for the Rocks.

"They were sagging so much that we had no movement through the middle," said Lang. "Salem stopped our break and let us play with the ball on the outside."

At the start of the third quarter, Lang ordered guards Carla Campbell and Lisa Parsons to double-team the Rock backcourt personnel.

It resulted in six unanswered points to put back Bentley up by one.

"That was the first time this year we had to resort to full-court pressure," said Lang.

Bentley outscored the Rocks 13-8 in the third period to pull dead even going into the final quarter.

A free throw by Moore with 4:09 remaining gave Salem a five-point cushion, 34-29. She fouled out a minute later, but Salem was able to maintain effective ball control despite her absence until the final minute.

Tina Ostach of Bentley was fouled with 43 seconds left and missed the front end of a one-and-one free throw. Salem got control of the ball and Papa was fouled with 30 seconds to go. She missed the first attempt and then rebounded her second miss, scoring to give the Rocks' a three-point bulge.

"This is what I expect every time we play Plymouth," said Lang.

"THEY ARE a very good team and won't lose many the rest of the season."

Bentley, now 9-1 overall, more importantly took another step toward claiming its second straight Suburban Eight League title with the road victory.

"Even though we lost," said Blohm, "we know we can compete and play defense."

Salem golfers qualify for state

Plymouth Salem boys' golf team is making a return trip to the state Class A finals.

The Rocks, who won 12 of 13 dual matches this fall, qualified for this week's finals Battle Creek by gaining third in the regional at Brae Burn.

Ypsilanti, a second-place finisher three weeks ago in the Plymouth Best Ball Tournament, came away with the regional trophy with a four-player total of 312. Temperance-Bedford and Salem placed second and third respectively with 328 and 333. Salem was the defending champ.

"I was slightly disappointed with our score since we were the host club," said Salem coach Bob Waters, "but it's a great, great thrill to go back and qualify for the state.

"We haven't put four good scores together yet, but maybe we'll erupt next week."

The state Class A finals will be played at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at Merryfield Country Club. The Rocks won the state title back in 1973 and were ranked No. 1 by the Michigan High School Golf Coaches Association (MHSGCA) in 1978. Salem has also qualified for the state championship seven of the last nine years.

Ken Pearson of Ypsilanti took medalist honors with an 18-hole total of 73.

Senior Jeff Trim carded a 78 to lead Salem. He was followed by teammates John Vives (81), John Pauloweit (86) and John Uekert (88).

Suburban Eight League rivals Trenton (349) and Dearborn (354) finished fourth and fifth, respectively.

Livonia Franklin, behind Dan Silva's 85, carded a 363. Terry Justin's 84 helped Garden City West to a 370 total.

Garden City East and Westland John Glenn shot 373 apiece. Jeff Lansing had an 84 for Glenn while Ron McComb shot a 91 for East.

Homecoming performance makes grid mentor happy

Belleville's Keith Gates rushed for more than 200 yards, but it was Plymouth Salem which came away with a 21-14 Suburban Eight League football victory Friday night before a large homecoming crowd.

The Rocks are now 4-2 overall and face Lincoln Park (5-1) Friday on the road.

"This is a tough league were in," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "We played our best game of the season. We made very few mistakes and played like the team I thought we'd be."

Salem scored two of its three touchdowns as a result of Belleville fumbles. Senior linebacker Steve Szilagyi recovered a fumble near midfield with 8:33 left in the game to set up the game-winner. The play came right after Gates, a compact 5-foot-11, 185-pound tailback, got Belleville deep out of its own territory with a 43-yard run.

Gates, who gained 230 yards in 30 carries, was removed from the field for a breather after the long jaunt.

That's when Salem when to work with the game tied at 14.

Quarterback Jeff Hubert directed the Rocks 26 yards in four plays to the score. Senior fullback Darrel Bartkowiak ran one-yard for the TD with 6:58 to go.

Salem was helped in its drive by two controversial penalties for 30 yards.

Linesman Mel Edmundson made both calls. He first penalized the Tigers for unnecessary roughness and then slapped another 15 yards on the Belleville bench for unsportsmanlike conduct.

"I THINK the roughness call was a horseshit call," said Mike Colletta, "and you can quote me on this. I don't care what the state says.

"That guy (Edmundson) is a Belleville High School graduate. Why doesn't he take himself out of our games. He should have more class than that."

It was the second time Edmundson's crew had worked a Belleville game this season and Colletta admitted problems in their first encounter.

"Our game against Fordson lasted three hours," said the second-year Tiger coach. "They had 239 yards in penalties and we had 138. Just check the stat sheet."

Salem's first score came early in the second quarter. It was set up by Jeff Scott's fumble recovery on the Belleville 27.

Three plays later, Brian Lewandowski scampered 20 yards for a TD and kicked the extra point to give the Rocks a 7-0 advantage.

Belleville came right back on the next series when Gates cut off tackle and rambled 66 yards for a score.

"He (Gates) ranks as the best back we've faced this season," said Moshimer. "He had great moves and was hard to bring down."

Rocks defend title successfully

Salem romps to Suburban 8 tennis crown

As expected, Plymouth Salem walked away with the Suburban Eight League girls' tennis championship Wednesday afternoon at Dearborn.

It was the second straight outright title for the state-ranked Rocks.

Coach Judy Braun's squad, which went undefeated in dual meets this season (10-0), won four of seven flights in the league meet to beat out its nearest competitor, Livonia Bentley, by five points.

Bentley won one flight and placed second in two others.

Salem freshman Chris Gilles, seeded first in No. 1 singles, allowed just five games in romping to the crown.

Teammate Carol Hathaway, a sophomore, recorded Salem's other title in singles with a three-set victory at the No. 3 spot over Bentley's Audrey Devon. Hathaway and Devon were seeded No. 1 and 2, respectively.

At No. 1 doubles, Salem seniors Betsy Moon and Renee Braun beat Bentley's Jan Eichhorn and Gretchen Payne for the championship.

Braun and Moon went undefeated during the 1980 league season.

Vickie Sterling and Lisa Maggio of Salem did likewise at No. 2 doubles. They finished the Suburban Eight campaign unbeaten, winning the finals against Debbie Kunzelman and Julie Vantiburge of Dearborn, 6-3, 5-7, 6-1.

The biggest upset of the tournament occurred when Dearborn's Cheryl VanKirk and Debbie Smutek downed Salem's Beth Baker and Lynn Hathaway in the finals at No. 3 doubles, 3-6, 7-6, 6-3.

The Salem duo was seeded first and had recently come off a runnerup finish in the prestigious Bloomfield Hills Kingswood Invitational.

Bentley's title came at No. 4 singles when Anne Sabuda, seeded second, upset Dearborn's Carol Verderbar, 7-6, 6-1.

Carol Nigal of Dearborn Edsel Ford won the No. 2 singles final with a 6-2, 6-4 triumph over Bentley's Sue Scrutton.

SALEM-NORTHVILLE

Northville, currently leading the Western Six League, suffered only its second loss of the year Thursday at Salem, 6-1.

"Salem is the best team we've faced," said Northville coach Uta Filkin. "We lost to Livonia Bentley in a close match (5-2).

"This wasn't even close."

The Rocks handled their biggest dual-match test with relative ease.

Gilles continued to impress with a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Northville senior Holly Sixt.

Carol Gillespie, Salem's No. 2 singles player, got past Sheri Robins, 6-2, 6-3.

Hathaway won her match at No. 3 singles, ripping Marnie Dillow, 6-1, 6-0.

Northville scored its lone point at No. 4 singles when Debbie Spade topped Sue Dobel, 6-1, 6-1.

Braun and Moon ended the regular season with an 18-2 mark after beating Kim Hubbard and Jenny Missel at No. 1 doubles, 6-3, 6-1.

Sterling and Maggio beat Gail Engelmeyer and Jana Holloway, 6-1, 6-3 (No. 2 doubles) while Hathaway and Baker rolled past Northville's Lisa Sejoff and Kathy Montgomery, 6-2, 6-3.

The Rocks will now prepare for the Class A regional Friday at Ann Arbor Huron.

Harrier squads roll

Plymouth Salem raised its dual-meet Suburban Eight League record to 2-3 with a 21-40 cross country win Thursday over Livonia Bentley.

The Rocks are now 2-4 overall.

"We were happy we won," said Salem coach Scott Dunson, "but more importantly we improved our times again."

Dunson is pointing toward Thursday's meet at Trenton, the last regularly schedule dual of the season.

"We'd like to go into our league meet with a 3-3 record. That's what we're aiming for."

Craig Allen of Bentley won the three-mile race at Cass Benton Park with a time of 16:43. Salem, however, grabbed the next four places.

Sophomore Frank Brosnan finished second with a time of 17:01 followed by teammates Chris Whittaker, third, 17:11; Chris Kopach, fourth, 17:25; and Skip Whittaker, fifth, 17:34.

Brian Van Buren took sixth place with a clocking of 17:46 for the Bulldogs.

Brad Haertel of Salem gained seventh (18:00). Teammates Ken LeGault and Marvin Zurek finished eighth and ninth with times of 18:09 and 18:17, respectively.

Salem's eighth man, Dean Jarski, finished 10th overall (18:20), but did not figure in the scoring.

CANTON-HARRISON

Scott Hand paced Plymouth Canton to a 20-41 cross country victory over Farmington Harrison Thursday at Cass.

Hand, a senior, recorded a time of 16:31 to finish the race in first.

Canton is now 7-1 overall and 4-1 in the Western Six League.

Harrison's Dave Tremonti, who finished two places behind Hand in the Redford Union Invitational last week at Cass, gained second with a clocking of 16:33.

Canton ruled the next three spots: Steve West, third, 16:42; Mike Talaga, fourth, 16:46; Jack Pacente, fifth, 16:54. Brian Anderson of Harrison was sixth, 17:06, while Dan Inloes of Canton gained seventh, 17:15.

The loss dropped Harrison to 1-7 overall and 0-5 in the league.

in the pocket/W.W. Edgar

The importance of having a bowling league sanctioned early was brought to light very forcibly last week when Jeff Newsom, the 17-year-old lad, fired his 807 series at Plaza Lanes.

In the course of registering this count — the highest in the area for some time — Jeff bowled a perfect game. Both of these feats earned awards from the American Bowling Congress, provided the league was sanctioned.

In Jeff's case, it was a new league that had just changed officers and the sanction was just being applied for. So a question arose as to whether Jeff would have his scores recognized.

Tom McKay, secretary of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association and an ABC director, explained that the scores will be honored because of the change in officers. Had it not been for that, the lateness of the sanction application could have denied approval.

So, league secretaries, if you haven't had your league sanctioned, don't waste any time. It may pay dividends later on.

THE HEAVY FIRING continued in the Wonderland Classic when the Dun Rovin team, captained by Mel Margosian, put together games of 1115, 1126 and 1096 for a 3337 total — the highest of the season in the western suburbs.

Along the way, Dave Kaliszewski had a 279 middle game in 722 to set the pace and Bob Patterson followed with a 710, due mainly to a 248 opener.

Sheila Mitchell an 86 year old survivor of the ocean liner Britannic which sank in 1916, answered a Want Ad placed by Jacques Cousteau who plans to explore the wreck. He wanted survivors to help him find his way around but Mitchell got sea sick when she boarded his research ship

Salem gridders down Belleville

Lewandowski, Hubert and Dave Skone also ran effectively. They accounted for 267 yards rushing.

The Rocks took a 14-7 lead near the end of the first half when Skone raced 13 yards. He was Salem's leading rusher for the night with 82 yards in 18 carries. Hubert had 11 carries for 61 yards.

GATES, A JUNIOR directed Belleville to its final score as he carried the ball 12 of the 16 plays. Quarterback Mike Sampson hurdled into the endzone from one yard out on fourth down with 1:37 left in the third quarter. Sam Villa's extra point made it 14-14.

"Our whole backfield ran well and so did the guys must have been doing something up front," said Moshimer. "I can't tell you exactly who stood out until I look at the films.

"They all did a great job."

Salem was bolstered by the return of senior nose guard Rob Hanschu, who sat out the first five games with an ankle injury. Lewandowski, who was also back at full strength, ran well and carried a 45.8 punting average.

"It was not a bad effort by our kids," said Colletta. "We've played only one bad game this year. I take credit for the loss. I didn't coach good enough to win.

"But give the credit to Salem. They played their butts off. Tom (Moshimer) does an super job with them. It was a hard, clean-hitting game."

The loss dropped Belleville to 1-5 overall. Four of those losses are to Wayne Memorial, Dearborn Edsel Ford, Dearborn Fordson and Trenton.

Cunningham pours in 19 points

Big 2nd half powers Chief girls

Plymouth Canton exploded for 43 points in the second half and went on to defeat Farmington Harrison in a Western Six League girls' basketball game Thursday night, 73-40.

The Chiefs are now 8-2 overall and 3-0 in the league.

Canton broke away from a 30-25 halftime advantage to put the Hawks away. The Chiefs, in fact, held Harrison scoreless during the opening three minutes of the third period.

"We've always had close first halves with Harrison for some reason," said Canton coach Mike McCauley. "I can't explain why.

"We got things going in the second half. Forty-three points is not bad."

Junior forward Pearly Cunningham of Canton led all scorers with 19 points. Jean Timlin and Robyn Hudgins added 16 and 10, respectively.

Junior guard Colleen Crissey, who collected several steals in the 17-8 third period romp, chipped in with nine points.

"Through the first 10 games were shooting 48 percent from the field," McCauley said. "We improved quite a bit from the beginning of the year.

"We're playing more together. We're becoming more like family.

"Our goal for the season is 75 percent from the line and 50 percent from the floor. We're getting better even though the competition might not be as good."

Lori Winkel paced Harrison, now 1-7 overall, with 12 points.

"I'm not displeased with us at all," said Hawk coach Mike Hickey. "We're playing some of the best teams in the area."

Coach back; Chargers win, 17-0

Livonia Churchill punched the football into the end zone when it had good scoring opportunities and Plymouth Canton's offense was absent without leave Friday for the second week in a row.

The Chargers blanked Canton, 17-0, in the Western Six League game.

Churchill Ken Kaestner returned to the bench for the first time in several weeks after being hospitalized for suspected heart trouble.

"I'm glad to be back," Kaestner said. "I'm tired but feel good. Herb (Osterland) and Ed (Hubert) did a super job. They did the coaching tonight, I did the watching."

The visiting Chiefs learned the hard way why the emphasis is often on foot in football.

A poor punt by Mike Clayton gave the Chargers the ball at Canton's 30 yard line.

It took Churchill nine plays to go the distance, with John Bielis bolting two yards off left tackle for the TD on the first play of the second quarter.

Jim Stoitsiadis kicked the extra point.

The toe of Stoitsiadis accounted for Churchill's next three points when he kicked a 23-yard field goal during the final minute of the second quarter.

The Chargers scored their final touchdown in the third quarter on a four-yard romp by Bielis over left tackle.

A good punt put the Chiefs at their own seven yard line and Steve Hamblin fumbled on the first play from scrimmage during that series. Bob O'Neill and Doug Schueneman recovered the ball at the nine.

Bielis scored on the second play from scrimmage and Stoitsiadis capped the scoring by kicking the PAT.

The Chargers made two changes offensively in order to try and develop consistency, Kaestner said.

Mike Stetz, normally an end, played fullback. Brian LuAllen, a quarterback for the JV most of the season, alternated with Stoitsiadis every play during his first game with the varsity.

Bielis gained 89 yards on 23 carries.

Churchill's defense completed stifled the Chiefs. Canton managed only two first downs during the entire game and managed to get off only 12 plays from scrimmage during the entire first half.

Richard Barr, coach of the Chiefs, was at a loss to explain the situation.

"They played a straight 5-2 and fired their corners, but didn't do anything we shouldn't have been able to handle," he said. "The last two weeks we haven't moved the ball at all. I don't know (why). I'll have to look at the films to find out."

Churchill's defense seemed to control the line of scrimmage all evening.

"I was very pleased with the defense," Kaestner said. "We took away their option. I felt the ends, corners and tackles really did the job."

Canton wasn't without a bright spot in defeat. Fred Rumberger intercepted two passes.

'M&M' duo sweetens Canton meets

Plymouth Canton girls' swim victories are often as sweet as M&Ms.

Massey and McMurray, that is.

Senior Kim Massey and junior Missy McMurray each won two individual events Thursday night as Canton dunked Farmington Harrison in a Western Six League dual meet, 96-74.

Canton evened its overall record to 3-3 while Harrison dropped to 1-6. It was also the Chiefs' first league win.

Massey captured the 200-yard individual medley with a time 2:32.6. She later came back to score a victory in the 100-yard breaststroke (1:19.9).

McMurray, meanwhile, finished first in both the 50-yard freestyle (28.6) and 100-yard backstroke (1:15.2).

In the 200-yard medley relay, Massey teamed up with Kathy Stern, Karen Mullen and Debbie Dickinson top place first with a time of 2:18.0. Teammates Dawn Mullen, Sue Jarvis, Lisa Godre and Maia Benson took third (2:20.7).

Canton's other first place was recorded by Ellie Wagner in diving (189.0 points). Chris Wennerberg was third.

McMurray, Lisa Dunbar, Janet Powell and Mary Reardon combined to capture second place in the 400-yard freestyle relay (4:35.3).

Reardon, a senior, placed second in the 200-yard freestyle (2:23.0) and 500-yard freestyle (4:19.6).

Other Canton second-place finishers included Dickinson, 50-free, 29.3, and 100-free, 1:06.1; and Dunbar, 100-butterfly, 1:23.0.

Chief swimmers gaining third places included Powell, 200-free, 2:29.0; Stern, 200-IM, 2:45.7; Godre, 100-butterfly, 1:28.0; Kris Burns, 100-backstroke, 1:16.2; Karen Mullen, 100-yard breaststroke, 1:27.8.

"We were very consistent with our times," said Canton coach Mark Griffith. "We showed improvement and good depth."

The Chiefs will meet Livonia Churchill at 7 p.m. Thursday at home.

SALEM-BELLEVILLE

Plymouth Salem kept rolling with a 111-60 Suburban Eight League girls' swim triumph over Belleville Thursday night.

Coach Chuck Olson's squad increased their record to 7-1 overall.

Terri Eudy and Linda Wochna each captured two events for Salem.

Wochna was victorious in the 50-freestyle (28.6) and 100-backstroke (1:10.2).

Eudy won the 200-freestyle (2:04.6) and 100-freestyle (55.9).

Other Salem first place finishers included B.J. Bing in the 100-butterfly (1:11.1) and Karen Kohler in the 100-breaststroke (1:21.0).

Rock frosh cagers cruise

The Plymouth Salem freshmen girls' basketball team ran its record to 3-0 with a pair of victories last week.

Sarah Wallman and Debbie Glomski tallied 16 and 15 points respectively to lead the Rocks to a 62-8 triumph over Howell. Maureen Dazer and Kelly Bemiss each added eight for the winners, who enjoyed a 28-4 halftime lead.

Michelle Dawson scored eight points as Salem beat North Farmington, 31-16.

Wallman and O'Connor chipped in with six apiece.

Salem will travel to Redford Union Tuesday. The game starts at 3:45 p.m.

LEGAL SECRETARY

Dear Legal Secretaries

If you are a victim of the following symptoms it's time for a change in jobs Boredom, Apathy, Indifference, Weariness, Lack of Initiative and Poverty

The prescription to your problem is one quick telephone call to Joanne at 646-4210 and you will be on your way to happier days

Good job orders are flowing in for experienced legal secretaries with and without shorthand I have never been busier than I am now

If you are looking for a change and want permanent employment I may have the job with your dollar requirement, geographic preference and legal specialty I am not interested in job hoppers, disruptive personalities, poor spellers or those with grammar deficiencies

Your new employer must pay a fee to get you I owe it to the employer to send viable candidates interested in long term employment I will not put you into a situation you do not want It destroys my credibility and throws you into the same dilemma from which you are trying to free yourselves

I am actively recruiting - RIGHT NOW Accept my service at no cost to you and put a little charge in your life

Best wishes for your future I hope to be seeing you soon

Sincerely,

As the temperature drops, so does the cranking power of a car's battery. Three of 10 drivers will experience a "can't start" this winter.

A healthy battery eases those cold winter starts

Weak batteries and poorly tuned engines should account for 80 percent of this winter's estimated one million emergency road service calls, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"The heart of the car's ignition system is the battery," said Robert Tellier, the Auto Club's emergency road service manager.

"It must be in top condition during the winter because its job becomes progressively harder as the temperature drops."

On a zero-degree morning, a battery can deliver only 65 percent of its peak power. The engine it must start offers almost 1⅔ times more resistance.

"Leaving headlights on after parking the car, loose or defective alternator belts and damaged cables are the main causes for battery failure," said Tellier. "In some instances, the battery's power was drained in a futile effort to start a balky engine."

This is what happens to an engine in cold weather:

"The cold temperatures reduce the supply of electrical current available from the ignition system. The same frigid temperatures increase the spark plugs' need for high voltage to fire the fuel mixture.

"In order to achieve dependable starting, all components must be in top shape."

On conventional batteries, it's crucial to inspect fluid level regularly, keep the battery free of acid corrosion build-up (with a bkaing soda and water solution) and make sure cable connections and hold-down clamps are tight and clean.

Newer maintanance-free batteries are self-contained, and some have indicator cells that should be checked regularly.
