Deficit prompts fattening of school lunch prices

School boards usually resist an administrative request to increase the price of student lunches.

But Monday night the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education not only approved such a hike but doubled the amount requested.

Instead of increasing all student and adult lunches by five cents, the board approved a 10-cent hike with only trustee Steve Harper dissenting because he felt the prices should be raised further.

The reason for the board's unusual action was twofold. First the board wants to eliminate a deficit in the lunch fund and second it wants to avoid having to raise prices twice in one year.

Most trustees felt the public would accept a 10-cent hike in lunch prices but would be annoyed if prices would raised five cents now and another five cents in the fall.

THE NEW PRICES, effective Monday, will be 85 cents for elementary pupils, 95 cents for middle school students, $1 for high schoolers, $1.55 for adults.

Dan White, finance director, recommended a five-cent hike at the request of the Parent Advisory Council. ARA, the firm which has the contract to provided school lunches, had asked for a 15-cent increase.

White said the administration's recommendation was three-pronged: 1. A five-cent increase in prices; 2. A cost-cutting program which should save $25,000 or the equivalent of five cents per lunch; 3. And more efficient purchasing procedures.

One change, said White, would be a better menu mix to come with more low-cost items which are more acceptable to students, such as pizza, tacos and hot dogs and drop some high-cost, low-acceptability items like beefaroni and spaghetti.

He said better use of portion control also would be tried to effect savings.

TRUSTEE TOM YACK said he was concerned that the board would approve the five-cent hike now and be asked in September to adopt another increase.

White said with the five-cent increase and with savings of $25,000 through greater efficiencies, the school lunch fund still would end up this year with a deficit, probably in the area of $47,000.

Dr. John Hoben, superintendent, said that without any price increase the lunch program would lose between $550 and $600 each day.

Trustee Elaine Kirchgatter said she felt the citizens didn't want the general fund used to subsidize the lunch pro-

Snowfall disrupts everyday routines

A 66-year-old Plymouth Township man collapsed of an apparent heart attack Tuesday while pushing a snow blower near his home.

Pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia about 1:30 p.m. was Louis Smith, of 41519 Green Briar.

That was the only local casualty of Tuesday's snowstorm which hammered southeastern Michigan.

Warming temperatures and heavy rain combined to melt the snow, which had earlier threatened to disrupt traffic and essential services in the area.

Local officials had been busy mapping out plans to aid stranded motorists and deal with a possible emergency.

The police and fire departments reported a relatively quiet night on Tuesday. No one took advantage of the temporary emergency shelters which had been set up, said Canton Police Lt. Larry Stewart.

By Wednesday, local Department of Public Works (DPW) crews were busy clearing snow-clogged catch basins along subdivision streets so water could flow more easily.

Plymouth-Canton school administrators had shut down the high schools at 1 p.m. Tuesday and the middle schools at 2 p.m. for fear that slick road conditions would worsen.

The district's elementary schools stayed open until almost their regular closing times. Supt. John M. Hoben said the decision was based on fears that parents would not be home to greet young children.

District officials decided late Tuesday afternoon to keep the school buildings closed on Wednesday.

In Canton and Plymouth townships, regular board meetings were cancelled because of the snow.

The Canton Township meeting tentatively was rescheduled for 7 p.m.

A lack of image

Report blames 'non-identity' for poor industrial tax base

"Where in the world is Canton?"

That phrase often spoken in jest underscores Canton's failure in building a solid industrial tax base, says a study committee on industry.

In a recently completed report, the committee attributed Canton's sluggish industrial development to its lack of image and identity.

"Not only do developers not know who we are, they don't know where we are," concluded the report of the financial impact study committee.

The group strongly urged the hiring of an industrial coordinator to solicit industrial development and suggested a number of promotional campaigns to alleviate the image problem.

THE FOUR-PERSON committee was appointed last July by Robert Padget, who then served as planning commission chairman and now serves as a Township Board trustee.

The group originally was charged with determining the impact of Canton's strict zoning ordinance on industrial development.

"We wanted to see whether our ordinance was making it financially unattractive for industry to locate in Canton," explained Padget.

But a comparison of Canton's ordinance to those in five other communities contradicted the widely-held belief that Canton more strictly regulates industry and development, said committee chairman John Burdziak.

The committee determined that Canton's requirements for landscaping, paving, building setback, building height and other matters were no more stringent than similar requirements in Livonia, Westland, Novi, Farmington Hills and Northville Township.

"We had just assumed that they were more liberal (in other communities)," said Burdziak, who also serves on the Canton Planning Commission. "But, in fact, some of the communities were considering tightening their own ordinances."

Canton's sign ordinance, which places size restrictions on free-standing signs, was deemed more stringent than comparable laws in other communities, Burdziak admitted.

But he downplayed the impact of the sign law on industrial development. Unlike resident-oriented retail stores, industry serves other businesses and shows less of a need for signs in order to advertise its wares. wares, he said.

TO PROMOTE Canton as a desirable industrial location, the committee has recommended the creation of an industrial coordinator position as a top priority.

"Developers get (informational) bits and pieces from many departments now," said Burdziak. "There's no one to

Tree-cutting law faces challenge

By ARLENE FUNKE

Does Canton's ordinance on tree-cutting stunt business growth?

Is the ordinance unconstitutional or illegal because it isn't equally applied to all persons who want to cut trees?

Did developer Loren Gould lose out on the development of a five-acre land parcel because of problems with the ordinance?

Those issues will be raised Feb. 13 in 35th District Court. On that date, attorneys for the township and Gould will file briefs on the "constitutionality" of the ordinance.

Gould, in September 1979, was cited by the township for cutting trees without a permit on industrial property he was developing at Koppernick and Joy. The misdemeanor carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and a $500 fine, or both.

Gould's attorney, David Frost, contends that the ordinance is unconstitutional because it doesn't apply to all persons who cut trees in Canton.

"WE DIDN'T QUESTION the fact that (the trees) had been torn down," said Frost, whose office is in Plymouth. "We were questioning the constitutionality of the statute with regard to due process (and) equal protection under the law."

At issue is an ordinance aimed at preserving Canton's trees — many of which were razed in the early 1970s during a housing boom in the township.

The ordinance, adopted in 1975, centers on land parcels two acres or more in size. Persons who wish to cut trees more than three inches in diameter must obtain a free permit to cut, explains Chief Ordinance Officer Bruce Phillips.

The person also must agree to maintain a certain proportion of treed area on the land, said Phillips.

"It's to preserve a natural resource — a portion of it," explained Phillips. The ordinance officer noted that persons could appeal to the zoning board of appeals (ZBA), which has the power to adjust the number of trees required to remain.

BUT Frost contends that Gould had a potential client who had been interested in the property if the trees had been cleared, and "the people are no longer interested.

"We aren't talking about maple or oak," added Frost. "They're scrub trees

Silver and gold

Thieves pick precious metals as newest target

Local police officials applaud a newly proposed state law to regulate the sale of jewelry and precious metals to pawn shops and jewelers.

A bill introduced in the state Legislature last month would tighten the market for burglars who steal precious metals and then sell their loot for quick cash.

Canton and Plymouth police have no specific statistics on thefts of jewelry or precious metals. But they say there has been a "marked increase" in thefts of those items because of the rise in prices for precious metals.

CONSIDER A TYPICAL scenario, as described by police:

The break-in artist forces a window or doorwall and enters a house. He tiptoes past the color TV and stereo equipment, going directly to a bedroom where jewelry and coins are likely to be found.

Soon rings, watches and gold chains are slipped into a pocket. Hours later, the jewelry and precious metals may be legally traded for cash at a local dealer — no questions asked.

"It appears they're overlooking everything else in search of these smaller (jewelry) things," said Sgt. Ralph White of the Plymouth police department.

In Canton, thieves still continue to steal the stereos and TV sets.

But there is a "tremendous increase" in thefts of jewelry and other small, valuable items which can be concealed, said Canton Police Lt. Larry Stewart.

"THE RETURN, dollar for dollar, is greater (with jewelry)," said Stewart. "A guy walking down the street with a TV set on his back is going to attract some attention.

"But jewelry can be put in a pocket — it doesn't bulge," added Stewart. "It's saleable. You can go to one of those (shops) and get cash."

The bill to tighten the easy sale of precious metals to dealers was co-sponsored by State Rep. Ruth McNamee, R-Birmingham, and more than 40 other state legislators. It was drafted with the assistance of county prosecutors, police chiefs, sheriffs and jewelers throughout the state.

The bill would stipulate the following:

- A dealer would have to register with the local police agency if he wishes to buy precious gems and metals, including gold and silver, platinum, diamonds, jewelry and coins.
- A dealer would be forbidden to buy those items from minors.
- A dealer would be required to obtain identification and a thumb print from a customer before purchasing

How to discourage thieves

Want to avoid becoming the victim of a break-in?

Then keep your garage door closed when you're away, and lock your doors and windows.

That may seem pretty elementary, but there were 501 reported breaking-and-entering cases in Canton last year. That's a 44 percent increase over 1979, when there were 347 cases.

Records show burglars most often entered through unlocked windows, doors or doorwalls. Another favorite way of getting in was through the service door of an attached garage.

Taken most frequently was cash, jewelry, television sets and stereo equipment.

THE POLICE DEPARTMENT'S crime prevention bureau wants to work with groups and residents to pare the break-in statistics.

When the bureau was established last May, Patrol Officer James Hanna was assigned to the task full time. However, Hanna has since been promoted to corporal, and manpower demands in other areas have caused the program to be cut back, said Lt. Larry Stewart.

Currently, persons who want to participate in the crime prevention program should call Officer Leonard Schemanske at 397-3000, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Wednesdays.

One portion of the crime prevention program is setting up Neighborhood Watch areas, in which subdivision residents form an informal network to report suspicious activities to police.

Other components are speeches to homeowners' or community groups and inspections of houses or businesses. In addition, valuable items can be marked for later identification in case they are stolen.

"THE IMPORTANCE of the program hasn't changed," said Stewart. "In fact, it's probably even more necessary. Everything is the same, but we have to combine duties."

In the meantime, here are a few tips from police to cut the risk of break-ins:

- Keep garage door closed when away from the house. An empty garage is a tip-off that the occupants are away.
- Lock windows and doors. Place a bar in the doorwall so it can't be forced open.
- Leave a light on during evening hours, or use a timer that goes on at the same time each day.
- A radio or television playing in the background may stop a would-be robber cold in his tracks.

"I would always leave a light on in the bathroom," said Stewart. "They (robbers) figure you can't come to the door."

In addition, persons who are vacation-bound should inform both neighbors and police.

"It may end up that we can check (the house) only two or three times," said Stewart. "(But) we do urge people to call so we can check if at all possible."

Board hikes lunch price to eliminate fund deficit

gram, and it would be better to raise prices to a level which would make the cafeteria fund self-supporting.

Yack argued that the price increase shouldn't be high enough to exactly wipe out the deficit because there should be a continuing incentive for ARA and the administration to lower costs with more efficient management.

White said the recommendation really was just to pass on to students the five-cent loss in reimbursement from the federal government.

Yack said that wasn't enough because the cafeteria operation is faced with inflated costs, such as for paper products, and needs to do more than make up the loss in federal reimbursements.

Trustee Flossie Tonda argued that the taxpayers shouldn't be asked to pay for the inefficiencies of ARA by having the general fund subsidize the lunch program. She suggested that adult lunches be eliminated.

White pointed out that most children don't buy a hot lunch each day. Parents feel, he added, that they would be more selective about how many days students would buy lunches if the price was increased by 10 cents.

Trustee Steve Harper argued that if prices were put on a cost-basis the high school and middle school prices would be either $1 or $1.10 and elementary lunches would be about 90 cents or $1.

Kirchgatter commented that food services should be trying to cut its costs whether or not the board raised prices.

The motion to raise prices by 10 cents rather than by a nickel was made by Yack and supported by Kirchgatter.

Harper argued that a 15-cent hike was needed otherwise no contribution was being made to eliminate the present deficit in the lunch program of about $80,000.

Yack countered, though, that if the price was raised too high, participation would drop and the deficit could grow.

Harper said he didn't think there would be that much difference in participation whether prices were raised 10, 15 or 20 cents.

Tonda suggested raising adult lunch prices to $2 but gained no support.

The motion to increase all lunch prices by 10 cents was approved 5-1 with Harper voting no and Glenn Schroeder absent.

Promotions needed to get industry base guide these people through the channels."

Funds for salaries for an industrial coordinator position and a coordinator salary are included in Canton's 1981 budget. Although township officials have talked of creating those positions, no firm proposal ever has been made.

Other recommendations of the committee are aimed at improving Canton's industrial image. Those suggestions include:

- The publicizing and promoting of new industrial developments, which locate in the community.
- Promotion of Canton as a good industrial location through brochures and advertisements in newspapers, magazines and on radio.
- Improving tax incentives for new industry.

Members of the committee included Burdziak, banker Bill Tesen, attorney Mitchell Howard and N. Bali, owner of an engineering consultant firm in Canton.

Padget said he appointed those persons to the committee because of "their bent toward industry."

"If I have my way, (proposals to encourage industrial development) will be implemented," Padget said. "I think the Township Board is tuned to the need for industrial development and an industrial tax base."

Whatever happened to Ethyl?

The average cost of full-serve no-lead gasoline along major state travel routes in 1980 registered the second highest annual price increase ever recorded by the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Auto Club's weekly "fuel gauge" surveys show that from January to December the no-lead gasoline average rose 14.1 cents to $1.335 per gallon, or nearly 12 percent, along main highways, and 12.5 cents to $1.326 per gallon, or 10.4 percent, in the Detroit area.

Regular gasoline along main highways rose 13.4 cents to $1.283 per gallon, or 11.7 percent, while Detroit-area regular rose an average 12 cents to $1.274 per gallon, or 10.4 percent.

"While last year's pump price increases were significant, they were far below the record price increases in 1979," Auto Club Touring Manager Joseph Ratke said.

In 1979, average no-lead prices rose 53.1 percent outstate and 53 percent in Metropolitan Detroit. Regular gasoline prices jumped 54.7 percent along main tourist routes and 57 percent in Detroit, the largest annual price hikes the Auto Club recored since it began keeping records in 1973.

The largest annual price increase prior to 1979 occurred in 1975, when no-lead along main travel arteries increased 10.1 percent to 63 cents per gallon. The smallest yearly increase was 1.3 percent in 1976 for Detroit-area regular.

Auto Club's surveys also showed that:

- The biggest monthly price increase ever recorded by the Auto Club occurred last February, when the average cost of both no-lead and regular along main highways rose 7.7 cents. The largest prior increase was in August 1979 when Detroit-area no-lead climbed 6.8 cents.
- Detroit-area average prices also recorded their largest one-month increases in February when no-lead and regular rose 7.1 and 7.5 cents per gallon, respectively.
- From April to December, however, gasoline prices across the state actually dropped .1 cent for no-lead and one-half cent for regular along major highways and .8 cent for unleaded and 1.5 cents for regular in the Detroit area.
- Self-serve no-lead gasoline rose 10.9 cents to $1.28 per gallon, or 9.3 percent, along main highways, and 8.5 cents to $1.268 per gallon, or 7.1 percent, in the Detroit area. Self-serve regualr gasoline rose 9.9 cents to $1.219, per gallon, or 8.8 percent outstate, and 6.6 cents to $1.186 per gallon, or 5.8 percent, in Metro Detroit.

The first tabulating machine in America was invented by Dr. Herman Hollereith of New York City, who received patent No. 395,782 for the early computer on Jan. 8, 1889.

The device, which could tabulate and separate items into 288 classifications, was first used extensively in the 1890 U.S. Census.

The Hollereith Tabulator is now on exhibit in the Interpretive Center of Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn.

Vets make use of GI benefits

Seventy-four percent of the 369,000 Vietnam veterans who live in Michigan have taken some form of training under the GI Bill.

Statistics show that 271,302 veterans used their educational benefits and that of those 164,548 attended college.

Veterans have 10 years from their date of discharge to complete training under the GI Bill. Veterans discharged in 1971 have only one more year of training remaining in which they can draw a monthly check to help them defray educational costs.

Schools map out proposed boundary changes

Next week, four public hearings will be held in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools to air a proposed plan to handle student growth for the next two years.

The school board has come up with a proposed plan (known as Plan III) which was developed with the assistance of Ecosystems, a consulting firm from Cleveland which handles the district's bus routing.

The board is looking at redrawing school attendance boundaries, re-aligning grades and expanding Extended School Year (ESY) to help handle overcrowding at the high schools, middle schools and some elementaries.

Board objectives in redrawing boundary lines include:

- Accommodating as much as possible the present educational program.
- Making the best use of buildings.
- Setting clear boundary lines.
- Establishing attendance areas which won't change for the next two or three years.
- Minimizing transportation.
- Trying for a maximum class size of 30.

Options considered by the board include renting space, using portables and split sessions and putting all elementary schools on ESY.

The district will begin renting Lowell Junior High for a middle school beginning with the 1981-82 school year. Other buildings available for rent were not considered usable. Also considered, and rejected, was the rental of buildings within the district for classroom use.

Placing all elementary schools on ESY was discarded because it would have resulted in an overabundance of space.

Portable buildings were rejected because their use would place a strain on the gym, library and lunchroom facilities in the main school building where portables are used.

In the last two bond issue elections, funding for buying portables were included and both proposals were soundly defeated.

IN DEALING with Ecosystems, the board came up with five alternative plans:

1. Expand the grade level to K-6 for all elementary schools and place four additional (Allen, Bird, Farrand and Fiegel) on ESY.
2. Phase in the sixth grade level and place one additional school (Fiegel) on ESY.
3. Phase in the sixth grade and place two additional schools (Bird and Fiegel) on ESY.
4. Phase in sixth grade and place three added schools (Bird, Allen, Fiegel) on ESY.
5. Phase in sixth grade, add one school (Fiegel) on ESY, and place three

Hearings begin on plan

The public forums next week on proposed boundary plans for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will be aired by WSDP (88.1 FM), the student-operated radio station.

All broadcast times will be from 7:30-10:30 p.m. except for Tuesday, Feb. 17.

On Tuesday, the open forum from West Middle School will be taped-delayed following the Plymouth Salem High boys basketball game vs. Dearborn High. The air time for the tape delay broadcast will be about 9:30 p.m.

Let it snow!

Special kids to go camping despite cold

By MARIE McGEE

The new snow had some help getting here.

There were 36 kids at Webster Elementary School in Livonia quietly praying for it. The more snow that fell, the better they liked it.

Those same 36 kids will be leaving soon on a 2½-day winter camping experience at Camp Howell in Brighton. What's so different about this trip is that all 36 are mentally and/or physically impaired. (The trip was suppose to come off Tuesday, but there was a bit too much snow so it is in the process of being rescheduled.)

One child is confined to a wheelchair, but that's not going to stop her from enjoying the fun in the snow with the rest of the group. Thanks to the efforts of several instructors, special provisions have been made to accommodate her wheelchair.

One of those instructors is Rikki Gans, physical education teacher. It is largely through her efforts that the winter camping experience was added three years ago to the outdoor education program offered the mentally and physically impaired students at Webster.

GANS HAD been working with mentally handicapped children for a number of years before she "tumbled" to the fact that they don't function very well on the snow and ice.

Tumble is exactly the word, because that's what two of her most capable students kept doing while attending a winter special Olympics at Schuss Mountain at Shanty Creek in the northern part of the state four years ago.

"I took six of my most capable, high functioning students with me and two of them constantly kept falling down. One just gave up and scooted along on the snow on his bottom until I could pick him up. It was then that I realized that these kids don't have the experience on snow and ice.

"When you think of it, they are picked up at the door by the school bus, transported to school, then back home where, I bet, most them spend their winter days in front of the TV," she added.

IT WAS THAT incident that prompted her to add a winter camping trip to the outdoor education program she coordinates at Webster.

Webster, on Lyndon west of Newburgh, is the home base for the Northwest Wayne Trainable program serving children from kindergarten through age 18 from a seven-district catchment area of Plymouth-Canton, Redford Union, Garden City, Cherry Hill, Northville and parts of Westland as well as Livonia. It was formerly located in Harrison Elementary School, also in Livonia.

For several weeks now, the 36 students plus the teachers who will be making the trip have kept their fingers crossed that there would be enough snow to do all the fun things that have been planned.

One will be to build a quinzee — that's an Indian name for a snow hut, and it takes a heap of snow. Mounds of it, in fact. But if that falls through, six of the hardiest campers will try sleeping in tents.

BEING OUTDOORS as much as possible is the emphasis of the 2½-day trip, according to Mrs. Gans.

"We try to do something new every year," she said. "This time it will be tubing — going down hills on giant inner tubes. It's a super ride."

Ice skating, cross country, sledding and tobogganing are also scheduled. In fact, the students have been busily refinishing and waxing the toboggans during shop classes.

There'll also be snowmobiling courtesy of Larry Janes, whose wife is a teacher at Webster. Janes was associated with the Livonia district for many years in the mentally handicapped trainable program before his resignation to enter private business. He is best remembered for his operation of Calorie Gallery, a student-operated restaurant as part of the mentally trainable program.

"We don't have any trouble getting outside resource people to help. In fact, even the staff is so enthusiastic about this program that they vie for the chance to go along," said Mrs. Gans, smiling.

AMONG THOSE outsiders who help implement the basic program is Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seyfarth from Brighton, who put on a dog sled team exhibition.

After unpacking tomorrow, most of the day will be spent on the fun things, but on Wednesday, it's a different story. That's when the learning activity schedule goes into effect. Part of the time is spent on winter survival skills taught by science instructor Dan Burk.

"We put a lot of emphasis on the social aspect," Mrs. Gans said, "so the evenings are devoted to such events as dancing, bingo games and a sing-a-long.

"And at any point in the outdoor activities that any of the students get cold, they have the option of going to the main lodge where hot cho[illegible]te will be available all day," she added.

items. Payment would be by check, money order or bank draft.

The precious items would have to be kept by the dealer for seven days. Records of the dealer would be open to inspection by a prosecuting attorney, local police agency and Michigan State Police.

Dealers who violate provisions of the bill dealing with cash sale, records-keeping and inspections of books would be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a maximum fine of $1,000 or one year in jail, or both.

A second offense would be a felony, punishable by imprisonment of up to two years or a $5,000 fine, or both.

DEALERS WHO bought precious items from minors or who removed or changed the item before the seven-day waiting period would be guilty of a felony. Maximum penalty would be two years in prison and/or a fine of $5,000.

Buying or receiving stolen items would be a felony, with maximum punishment set at five years in prison and/or a fine of $10,000.

Reaction among coin and jewelry dealers to the proposals is mixed. Several said the seven-day waiting period could cause dealers to lose money, while others said the extensive records-keeping would be a problem.

Doug Haase, manager of Pilgrim Stamp and Coins on Penniman in Plymouth, believes the proposed legislation would hurt the "legitimate seller."

"The burglar doesn't have any personal investment and will sell for any value because it's all profit to him," added Haase.

Haase said many customers would object to being fingerprinted because there's a stigma attached to it. He also said he routinely cooperates with police agencies.

"If we have to hold gold and silver for seven days, we'll buy it for a lower price," continued Haase. "Right now, we can offer the top market price when it's purchased and sold the same day. If we gamble on what the market will offer in seven days, we are going to buy at a lower price."

LAW ENFORCEMENT officials generally favor the proposed legislation.

White, of the Plymouth department, said the legislation would give agencies "clout" in going after "fencing" (illegal purchase) operations.

Area officials react as snow falls

Wednesday — weather conditions permitting. The Plymouth Township meeting was postponed until 7 p.m., Feb. 17.

Employees of the city of Plymouth, Canton Township and Plymouth Township were allowed to leave work early in order to beat a snow-plagued rush hour.

But officials of all three communities stayed at work to map out plans for a possible winter emergency.

In Canton, preparations were made to temporarily house stranded motorists in the township's administration building and two fire stations.

Officials of Plymouth and Canton also received permission to use Central Middle School and Eriksson Elementary School as temporary shelters.

Lt. Larry Stewart of the Canton Police Department said the American Red Cross was notified of a possible need for blankets, food and other emergency supplies.

Snow drifts forced closure of some roads in Plymouth Township, according to officials there.

Fire chiefs Roy Hall of the city of Plymouth and Larry Groth of Plymouth Township ordered rescue workers to transport victims to the nearest hospital — St. Mary — because of poor road conditions.

In Canton, the DPW was ordered to plow major subdivision roads in order to maintain access for emergency vehicles.

Plymouth police officers and firefighters were kept on standby, as Hall and Police Chief Tim Ford kept open the possiblity of calling back off-duty personnel in case of continued bad weather. The Plymouth Township DPW maintained around-the-clock staffing in the event of a fire department need for assistance.

Other governmental services and plans were cancelled because of the snow.

The Dunning-Hough Library and 35th District Court in Plymouth shut down operations at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Canton administrators cancelled a trip to Lansing, where they had planned to protest implementation of a new tax law before the Michigan Senate Finance Committee.

Schools map plans

portables at Gallimore Elementary.

After defeat of the last bond issue, the school board committed itself to realigning grades six and nine and that decision led to agreeing on Plan 3 as the proposed plan for the coming school year.

Under Plan 3, future ninth graders would be in the middle schools and some sixth graders would be in elementaries while others would remain in middle schools.

Fiegel and Bird elementaries will be placed on ESY under Plan 3.

Under Plan 3, Eriksson, Fiegel, Field and Miller would house K-5 populations and all other elementaries K-6. Lowell, Pioneer and East middle schools would all house sixth graders while the others would house grades 7-9.

After the public hearings are held, the school board will make a final decision on a plan for next year. That decision is expected sometime in March.

The schedule of hearings are: Feb. 16, East Middle gym, 7:30 p.m.; Feb. 17, West Middle gym, 7:30 p.m.; Feb. 18, Central Middle cafeteria, 7:30 p.m.; and Feb. 19, Pioneer Middle gym, 7:30 p.m.

A township ordinance requires developers to replace trees like these if they are chopped down. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Tree-cutting law faces challenge

(and) this parcel just happened to be a little forest.

"In a nutshell, the ordinance says if you're developing more than two acres, you have to go through the (permit) procedure," added Frost. "What right do they have to say over two acres or under two acres. It should be the same so everybody has to comply."

Township records indicate Gould apparently had begun the appeal process prior to receiving the ticket but he dropped out.

Phillips cited records which showed that Gould failed to appear before a scheduled ZBA meeting on July 26, 1979.

Several weeks later, on Sept. 2, 1979, ordinance officers issued a ticket after residents in the Koppernick-Joy area complained of tree-cutting on Gould's property.

"Mr. Gould started the appeal process (but) didn't finish it," said Phillips.

The township's attorney, C. Gerald Hemming, declined to discuss the case because the litigation still is pending.

JEFFREY H. FORREST, D.D.S., P.C.
Family Dentistry
Orangelawn Professional Center
Dear Dr. Forrest:
My employer is offering a dental plan which covers 100% of all dental treatment. What are the disadvantages?
Kanet B. Worthette
Dear Kanet:
A "Free Clinic" certainly takes away your freedom of choice, since the dentist you see and the treatment you will receive is left up to the clinic itself. The opinion of many dentists in private practice is, that this effort on the part of your employer to save money by saving you $'s might not always be in the best interest of your dental future. The same salary is paid to the dentists who staff the clinic, regardless of how many patients he sees, or what treatment is provided. Emergency treatment is often non-existant, and a long waiting period is usually necessary for routine appointments.
Sincerely,

FREE CONTOUR ANALYSIS EXAMINATION FOR VICTIMS OF CHRONIC OR ACUTE PAIN
A free Contour Analysis examination is being offered for people with acute or chronic pain by the chiropractic office listed below. People who suffer with backache, bursitis, arthritis, neuralgia, nerve pain, neck pain, muscle pain, bone pain, etc...are invited to receive this free examination.
Contour Analysis enables taking a three-dimensional picture (called Moire photography) of the topography of the surface of the spine to detect spinal stress deviations. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomatology, and levels of spinal tenderness. An analysis of this type can reveal such things as normal and abnormal stress patterns, spinal curvature, muscle spasms, muscle imbalance, spinal distortion, and scoliosis. This analysis, including consultation with the doctor is being offered to the public at no charge for the next 30 days. Rock show coming

Dave Thomas (left) and Bart Quello display some of the various sizes and shapes of copper found in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. Quello's copper and other metals and gems will be on display from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, when the Plymouth Rock and Mineral Society holds its fifth annual open house at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer. There will be demonstrations, displays, sales and movies. Admission is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. (Staff photo)

Rock & mineral show's Sunday

Clues on what it might have been like to live in Michigan 2 million years ago may be found at the open house this Sunday in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

The open house is being held from noon to 5 p.m. Feb. 15 by the Plymouth Rock & Mineral Society in the center at 525 Farmer.

The movie "The Rise and Fall of the Great Lakes" will be shown hourly. The film is a humorous journey around the Great Lakes through the geologic ages. The many forces that have shaped the area in which we live will be shown in the film made for both youngsters and adults.

Other attractions of the open house will be working demonstrations and displays that allow visitors to examine at close hand the world of rocks, minerals and gemstones.

Visitors can view and talk with the craftsmen as they work, polishing agate, jasper, flint and petoskey stones; or faceting the more precious amethyst, aquamarine and topaz.

A silversmith and wire wrap artist will demonstrate the art of creating jewelry.

Exhibits will include a display of fluorescent rocks, cases of minerals and even "plain old rocks."

Dealers will offer items from tools of the trade to fine minerals to finished or do-it-yourself jewelry and gemstones.

A new feature will be a silent auction and white elephant tables conducted by members of the Rock Exchange Club.

Admission is 50 cents for adults, and 25 cents for children. Prizes will be given away hourly.

It doesn't seem long since the last time Cheap Trick was in town. However, when the band returns at 8 p.m. Feb. 13 to Cobo Arena, it will offer songs from its sixth album, "All Shook Up."

The album marks a few changes for Cheap Trick. The first and most obvious change is in personnel.

Bassist Tom Petersson mutually agreed to leave the band due to changing musical ideas. He will now be pursuing a solo career and has been replaced by Pete Comita from Chicago.

Although the packaging of the album screams out "new wave" with weird and questionably symbolic pictures of girls, trains, ironed hearts and toy soldiers, the music sounds like what has to be the group's early influences.

ON FIRST listen, "Baby Loves to Rock" sounds too much like Led Zeppelin's "Black Dog" and The Who's "My Generation." Lead vocalist Robin Zander goes from sounding like Mick Jagger on "Can't Stop It But I'm Gonna Try" to Rod Stewart on "I Love You Honey But I Hate Your Friends."

The album definitely has its high points such as "Stop This Game," "World's Greatest Lover" and "Can't Stop It . . . " but still falls a couple degrees short of the last album, "Dream Police."

Guitarist Rick Nielsen wrote eight out of the album's 10 songs alone and the other two with Zander and drummer Bun E. Carlos.

Songs like "High Priest of Rhythmic Noise" was initially a shock because of its oddness, but then Cheap Trick's been odd from the beginning.

The band admitted in recent articles that the music is somewhat different from what it has done in the past. Songs like "High Priest of Rhythmic Noise" was initially a shock because of its oddness, but then Cheap Trick's been odd from the beginning.

The Illinois-based band has really jarred the music industry more than fans and even critics realize. The talented Nielsen's versatility is amazing. His compositions can get as commercial as "I Want You To Want Me" and "Surrender," to the obscure but appealing "Auf Wiedersehen" and "The Ballad of TV Violence."

Nielsen has this profound message: "It's because of the music that we're big here in Detroit. It's not because we're real handsome. We are real handsome, too, but it's because of the music. People come to hear the music."

BARBARA FOX and her merry men continue through February at the Jolly Miller in the Plymouth Hilton, 14707 Northville Road, Plymouth. Ms. Fox sings ballads and evergreens of yesteryear, as well as tearful ditties from Streisand and Minnelli songbooks.

AUDITIONS FOR the Greenfield Village Players production "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp" will be held from 6-10 tonight in the Henry Ford Museum Theater, Dearborn. Further information is available by calling 271-1620, ext 524. Parts are available for five men and four women.

'Jacques Brel' staged superbly at dinner theater

review

By R.S. LEIDER

"We're on a carousel, a crazy carousel," sings a quartet at the end of the evening. It starts with them asking us to join them on a marathon. We do. The evening grows richer. The ponies slide up, and our hearts beat with joy; the ponies lower, the ride slows and we inspect ourselves.

Then at the very end we are pleased with the wit and dazzle, heartbreak and unusual variety of the Theatre of the Arts staging of "Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living In Paris."

It's about time "Brel" was back and it couldn't be in more capable and creative hands.

This musical compilation of music, lyrics and commentary of the late Frenchman plays every Friday and Saturday evening at the Machus restaurant, Mr. Mac's Stable, in Dearborn's Parkland Towers. The show runs through the first weekend in March.

There is not a single emotion Brel doesn't touch. But he just doesn't hand it to you. He makes you think. He doesn't always make it easy, but he always lets you enjoy. Brel's work is poetry, and poetry does not hold the same meaning for all people.

THIS IS not to say that the evening is confusing. It is hardly a maze. Though it is hardly "Tomorrow," orphans and a cute dog, it is intelligent and rather beautiful.

Music director and pianist Rebecca Wheeler has blended the performers' voices, her combo and her wonderful work at the piano with skill and delicacy. The sound is a fifth performer in itself, always there, never obtrusive. Ms. Wheeler presents all the musical elements of Brel with exacting perfection.

The direction and staging by Michael J. Klier is simply brilliant. Klier has made use of every plane of the performers' bodies down to the raising of an eyebrow and the twitch of a finger.

His work is creative and most importantly does not fight the music. Where Brel is mysterious, the actors move like sleek cats. When Brel is outrageous, the performers escape from caution with swirling movements or a clever drunk routine.

Klier, who also produced the show, asks in his program note that we allow ourselves to be touched simply and honestly. His staging permits us to.

WHAT CONTINUES to be a strong point for Theatre of the Arts is that the group continues to attract stunning new talent. This is the first TAP Ltd. (as the group is now calling its dinner theater division) show for each of the four performers, who are very different yet very compatible with each other.

There are no leads in this show. All performers give to the audience and take from each other equally. No one tries to steal away the show, though any one of them, by right of talent, could. There are no weak links.

Rosalind Hurwitz has a beautiful soprano voice. Her look and manner are intriguing. She is not commercial, nor is she distant. Her interpretation of "Marieke" is warm and loving, while she shakes us with the maddening and frustrating "Sons Of." Her range is as bountiful as Brel's.

With a bright look and adoring manner, Katherine Dallas blows the audience away with "Brussels." She is at once captivating and cute. She draws you in with the energy one comes to the theater to see. Ms. Dallas is always on, always aware and very good.

A third delight of the evening is Mike Wantuck. He uses his youthful appearance and strong voice to his advantage. In "Bachelor's Dance" he is young and capricious. Conversely, he brings a special maturity to a difficult love song like "Fanette." And when he plays drunk in "Middle Class" his grape mustache from drinking out of a carafe makes him all the more delightful. He is a very talented young man.

RON CARTER provides us with Reel's more strong and biting songs. He sings deliberately of past loves and comically of his own "Funeral Tango."

His strongest moment is in "Amsterdam" where he takes off his elegant cutaway, opens his shirt and in song relates the rotting life of a sailor.

Carter becomes all the elements of the distastful environment he is describing while we cling to him for every last detail.

The dinner and service at this Machus restaurant remain superior in dinner theater circles. The delicious and varied appetizers and entrees and, of course, the famous Machus pastries make the first half of the evening a dining pleasure.

The technical aspect of this production is so subtle, yet so right and vital it could easily go unnoticed except for the carnivalesque light show in the number "Carousel" which draws us into the last moments of Brel's marathon of love, frustration, youth, death and loneliness.

'Beatlemania' captures memories

review

By NICK CHARLES

Four men, all in their middle 20s, do a great job of leading the audience on a two-hour journey into the past in "Beatlemania."

This is the second time the popular show, which opened Feb. 4, has been in the Detroit area. It was presented last summer at Pine Knob Music Theatre in Clarkston.

"Beatlemania" is four men who look and sound like the Beatles, leading the audience chronologically through a selection of the Beatles' music as films and slides of the times make you feel like you are reliving the period.

The show opens with a large thin screen flashing films of America's history. The band opens with one of the Beatles' first hits, "I Wanna Hold Your Hand."

As the evening rolls on, the group grows older and style changes occur in both hair and costume.

THE "FAB FOUR," who made their big splash from Liverpool to the states, were gaining recognition with the hits "She Loves You," "Help!" "If I Fell" and "Can't Buy Me Love."

TV and screen personalities, such as Tony Dow, Marilyn Monroe, Billy Graham, the Munsters and "Star Trek" stars, flash on the screen while the group changes from dark suits and short hair to white suits and top hats. As they lead into "Day Tripper," Anthony Abruzzo, who plays Paul McCartney, instructs the audience to clap along.

Abruzzo brings his acoustic guitar down to the front of the stage to sing "Yesterday" and the other three join him, in T-shirts and suspenders, for "Eleanor Rigby."

AFTER A QUICK change, complete with long hair, the group works into a psychedelic medley with "A Day in the Life," "Strawberry Fields" and "Penny Lane," music written for drug-using youths.

A creative assortment of films, photos, comics and child-like crayon drawings enhance the colorful and crazy swirls of light.

Songs like "Magical Mystery Tour" and "Lucy in the Sky with Diamonds" sum up the period.

After a short intermission, we find the Beatles in the studio, complete with producer, horns and strings, to record "Lady Madonna." Tarot cards and obscure artwork flashes across the screen as the band performs "Got to Get You into My Life," "Michelle" and "Get Back" for the scene known as "Dropping Out."

Film clips of the Who, Janis Joplin, Jimi Hendrix and the Jefferson Airplane at Woodstock keep the audience amused as "Beatlemania" changes. In minutes the group is back with "Come Together" from the Beatles' "Abbey Road" album.

LOU COLUCCI, who played the part of Ringo Starr, sang "With a Little Help from My Friends." Michael Palaikis, as the late John Lennon, sings "All You Need Is Love" from the piano, as a now-bearded Jimmy Poe as George Harrison accompanies him on guitar.

"Revolution," "Helter Skelter" and "Hey Jude" were in the spotlight for the sad period in time when the war raged on in Vietnam and Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert Kennedy were assassinated.

The last scene finds the Beatles becoming more individualistic and ready to split up. The now-bearded Abruzzo leads the others in "I Am the Walrus," "The Long and Winding Road" and "Let It Be."

The news headlines on the moving sign above them says, "The Beatles Break Up . . ."

Conductor concludes 2 weeks with symphony

Maestro Jerzy Semkow will conclude two weeks of guest conducting with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in three concerts at Ford Auditorium, Feb. 13-15.

The Friday NBD Coffee Concert at 10:45 a.m. is preceded by a complimentary coffee hour at 9:30 a.m.

The Saturday concert is at 8:30 p.m. and the Sunday Kresge Family Concert is at 3:30 p.m.

Pianist Paul Badura-Skoda will be the featured soloist. These concerts mark this Austrian pianist's first appearance with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in almost three decades.

The program will include two works by Mozart, the Symphony No. 34 and Piano Concerto No. 23, and Tchaikovsky's "Francesca da Rimini," Opus 32.

A native of Poland, Semkow studied piano and conducting at Krakow Conservatory and was assistant conductor under Yevgeny Mravinsky in Leningrad. He continued his conducting studies with Tullio Serafin in Rome and Bruno Walter in Vienna. At the same time he was permanent conductor and artistic director of the National Opera in Warsaw.

In 1966 he was named permanent conductor of the Royal Danish Orchestra in Copenhagen. In 1975, he took the position of music director and principal conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. He frequently appears as guest conductor with orchestras in Europe and the United States.

Badura-Skoda graduated from the Vienna Conservatory in 1948. He attended master classes with Swiss pianist Edwin Fischer in Lucerne and later became his assistant. He first appeared with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in 1952. With his wife, Eva Badura-Skoda, he has edited several of the Mozart concertos for the "New Mozart Edition" and written the standard study of Mozartean performance practice, "Interpreting Mozart on the Keyboard."

Tickets for these performances may be purchased through the Ford Auditorium box office. Charge card customers may order by phone, 962-5524.

● LEAVING A SHOT

Here is a nasty paradox for black, who has to play a 6-2 roll.

Since he has to leave white a shot no matter what, his concern is being hit. Black must move either the 9 or 10-point checker.

How would you move the 6-2?

Black could move the 9-point checker to the 3 and safety the 6-point blot to the 4. With this move, white would need any 2 or combination of 7 (15 ways out of 36) to hit the blot on the 9 point. Also, black has duplicated the number two. If white rolled a 2 (except for 1-1 and 2-2), the choice of hitting or covering the white blot on the 5 point would certainly cause white to think.

backgammon

Michael Kloian
of the American Backgammon Club

In tight situations, duplicating the number your opponent will need to hit and cover with is sound backgammon playing. But if black makes that play, he may have trouble bringing in his checkers safely from the 10 point (assuming black was not hit).

By moving the 10-point checker to the 4 and the 6-point blot to the 4, black may on his next roll be able to squeeze past white without leaving another shot.

Although there are 18 ways to hit with a 3 or 8 and only two ways to hit and cover, I would feel more comfortable knowing my odds of bearing in have increased 30 percent.

As long as black isn't hit on the next roll, he is a favorite to win. Before he rolls his dice again, he could easily turn the doubling cube to 2 and force white out of the game.

For more information, contact the American Backgammon Club at 459-5776 or write to Box 599, Plymouth, MI 48170.

second runs

Tom Panzenhagen

"Some Like It Hot" (1959), in two parts at 1 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday on Ch. 50. Originally 120 minutes.

You can count on the fingers of one hand the number of pictures made in the last 20 years that are as funny as Billy Wilder's "Some Like It Hot." Marilyn Monroe, Tony Curtis and Jack Lemmon were never better. Joe E. Brown, George Raft and Pat O'Brien add splendid support.

Wilder has a way of bringing out the best in his actors, which is why all his fine films feature fine performances, such as: "The Lost Weekend" — Ray Milland (1945); "Stalag 17" — William Holden (1953); "The Apartment" — Jack Lemmon (1960), all Academy Award-winning performances.

Wilder also has the uncommon knack of knowing how to make very funny films, as well as thrillers and dramas — testament again to his ability of getting the most from his actors and the material he has to work with. Billy Wilder has made a career of taking good stories and good actors and producing wonderful films. Rating: $3.75.

"Quintet" (1979), 7:30 and 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday at Cass City Cinema, 4605 Cass at Forest, phone 832-6309, $2. Running time 117 minutes.

Robert Altman has made a career of destroying good material. He's taken solid concepts and good performers and given us, in turn, "Brewster McCloud," "The Long Goodbye," "Health" and "Popeye." Somehow, inexplicably, he has also directed a share of winners: "McCabe and Mrs. Miller," "Nashville" and, probably his finest picture, "Buffalo Bill and the Indians," which Paul Newman singlehandedly saves from the graveyard. Among Altman's hit-or-miss efforts, "Quintet," by all accounts, falls in with the misses. Unrated.

"The Dirty Dozen" (1967), 11:45 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 7. Originally 150 minutes.

How many can you name? Lee Marvin, Ernest Borgine, Robert Ryan and Richard Jaeckel don't count becasue they were the commanding officers. Among the 12 convicts were Charles Bronson, Jim Brown, John Cassavetes, Trini Lopez, Telly Savalas, Donald Sutherland and Clint Walker, which leaves five. The film still holds up as a gripping adventure story and you'll be rooting for Jim Brown when he makes an open-field dash through raging gunfire near film's end.
Rating: $3.

"Jaws II" (1978), 8 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 118 minutes.

Roy Scheider returns as the only islander with enough sense to want to close the beaches after yet another shark attack. The old "Saturday Night Live" skit called "Jaws XII" was better. That's where the islanders are upset because no sharks have been spotted and the tourists are bored and leaving town.
Rating: $2.

Cuddly creatures from the green lagoon

Nothing can quite prepare you for the initial close-up glimpse of a manatee, a thousand wrinkled pounds of ballooned blubber capped by a bulbous, whiskered face.

By YVETTE CARDOZO

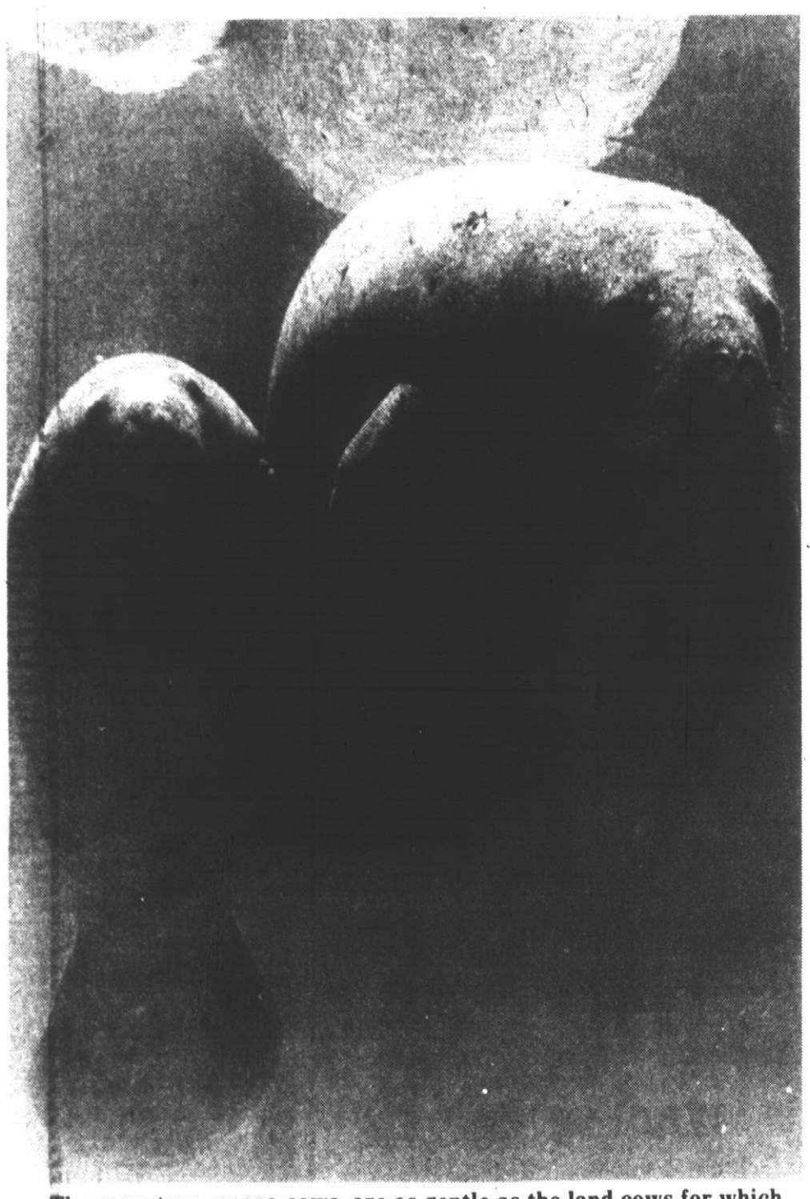
The water was thick with silt and swimming through it was like flying through a fog. The green soup went on unbroken for yards, smothering rocks and weeds alike.

Off to the right a lighter blob slowly took shape. A reflection? A patch of sand against the rock? No. The blob grew a partner, then two, then six. They hovered over the bottom, motionless, like half a dozen Goodyear blimps with tails.

Two sank to the sand, kneading the grass with elastic, probing snouts. Abruptly, a gray mass loomed close, then rolled, presenting a soft, smooth stomach. There was no subtlety to that demand for a tummy rub.

Nothing can quite prepare you for the initial close-up glimpse of a manatee, a thousand wrinkled pounds of ballooned blubber capped by a bulbous, whiskered face.

Yet for all their size, sea cows are as gentle as the land cows for which they are nicknamed. They're shy, yet friendly. Curious, even playful. But it's hard to describe what it feels like to have something twice your length and six times your girth nuzzle you like a dog.



The manatees, or sea cows, are as gentle as the land cows for which they are nicknamed. They're shy, yet friendly. Curious, even playful. But it's hard to describe what it feels like to have something twice your length and six times your girth nuzzle you like a dog.

They seem to like it when someone hums into a snorkel. "Try the Star-Spangled Banner," one patriotic local suggested, murmuring off-key as he paddled into the murk of northwest Florida's Crystal River. Indeed, manatees are definitely no judges of good music. They'll always come if you hum, no matter how badly you do it.

The massive hulks in the water that morning were oval-shaped creatures with seal flippers up forward and flat, wide tails in the rear. Their faces were a blunt-nosed, crinkled, living cartoon. In all, they came off as a cross between a seal and a hippopotamus with a bristly five o'clock shadow.

None of them this day tried to drag its bulk onto land for some tasty weed, as they're known to do occasionally. They preferred to stay in the water. But every so often, a dark nose would break the surface and snort once, then suck in with a wheezing gasp before closing down nostril flaps and disappearing again.

LIKE MAN and the porpoise, manatees are warm-blooded mammals and seek the constant 70-degree waters of various springs around Florida from October through March. Cold water makes them susceptible to pneumonia. The rest of the year they live in rivers and coastal ocean waters, apparently doing as well in salt water as fresh.

The several dozen manatees (87 by count one day) which seek warmth in the spring-fed headwaters of Crystal River, 65 miles north of Tampa, have come to accept people along with the bream and aquatic weeds in their lagoon.

Like a formation of blimps, half a dozen manatees will undulate through the green mist in total unison, making noises among themselves. There's one fellow with a split tail who's particularly fond of having his nose rubbed. If you don't catch on right away, he'll bump you until you get the idea.

As long as a person doesn't play rough, the manatees will allow him to swim in formation with them, maybe even let him rest a hand on one back. But riding is out. Try it and you'll learn how fast a manatee is capable of moving.

They don't seem particularly fond of bubbles made by Scuba gear, either. A person will have better luck approaching manatees if he sticks to snorkel.

Manatees go to several springs in Florida and can also be found hanging around the warm water discharge at coastal power plants but the most popular spot is Crystal River. And though a person is liable to find manatees here any time during winter, the best months are December and January, particularly just after a cold snap.

A person should go out very early in the morning during mid-week when the usual crush of divers is absent. You'll need mask, fins and a snorkel, a wetsuit (air temperatures will be in the 50s), and a low-powered boat.

Most people rant a 15-foot, flat-bottomed, aluminum fishing boat with six-horsepower engine. All of this equipment is available at one of the four dive shops in the town of Crystal River.

The best idea, said one shop owner, Charles Talley, "is to plan to stay two or three days. That way the animals get to know you. Then they'll really get friendly."

THE MANATEES' favorite spot appears to be just south of Banana Island at the south end of the large bay which runs along the town of Crystal River. Here the main spring feeds out of a huge, shallow sink, 75 feet across and 30 feet deep at the center.

The best chance for seeing and swimming with manatees is at the spring-fed head waters of the Crystal River in the town of Crystal River, along Florida Route 19, 65 miles north of Tampa. Best time is mid-winter, especially after a cold snap.

Snorkel equipment or scuba gear, boats and advice on where to find the manatees are available at a number of shops in the area, among them: Talley's Pro Dive Shop, Port Paradise Inn, Crystal Lodge Diver Center and Plantation Inn.

The place teems with bream, which have grown so fearless they'll practically chew through a person's knuckles to get at any scraps of bread in hand. The bream feeding circus is a favorite of divers, who pack compressed bread balls in plastic bags just for this purpose.

If the manatees seem to take over like they own the place, it's because they probably do. It was manatees that European sailors saw as they rounded the Cape of Good Hope in the 15th Century. (Legend has it the sailors called them mermaids, which doesn't say a lot for their state of mind then.) It was manatees that 18th Century Danish explorers found — and ate — on islands near Alaska.

Once manatees swam in nearly every U.S. bay and coastal river from the Carolinas to Mexico. Today, nearly all of the nation's remaining manatees — an estimated 1,000 — live in mid-Florida waters. And that figure is half the nose count made five or six years ago.

THE PROBLEM, it seems, is man.

Most manatees are killed by power boats, said John Waldron, a ranger at Blue Spring State Park near Orlando where manatees also congregate. They like to swim just beneath the surface, sticking their hairy, wet noses up for air every so often. But their color blends in so well with the gray-green water, they're practically invisible.

Some people seem to think certain kinds of boat engines are less dangerous to manatees than others but Talley at Crystal River says no. If a boat has an engine and it's moving, it's a potential danger.

People at Crystal River and Blue Spring identify their favorite manatees by the propeller scars on their backs. Divers are warned to park their boats well outside the manatee gathering area.

Because of this problem, the manatees have become a focal point in an argument between powerboat owners and environmentalists.

Manatees are covered by both the Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972 and the Endangered Species Act of 1973. Fines up to $20,000 are supposed to deter people from killing or molesting them. Late in 1979 the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service gained power to set up protection areas.

These are divided into sanctuaries, where both diving and boating are not allowed; and refuges, where specific activities (diving in some areas, boating in others) are not allowed.

Thus far, only the most strident of the environmentalists want to see a total end to diving with the manatees. Sport Diver magazine quoted Robert Prather of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service as saying, "If divers are looking at manatees, we won't say a thing. If they're chasing them, we'll stop them. If they're grabbing manatees, we'll arrest them."

Right now, Crystal River is one of the few places in Florida where there is relatively clear water, a good number of manatees and no rules against swimminmg with them. Local divers agree it's not often man can pay freely with a water mammal on his own home ground. It remains to be seen, however, just who is making a pet of whom.

Marshall is a nice winter's stop

Famous Last Words: "Let's take a 10-minute detour through Marshall."

I'm on Interstate 94 en route to Chicago with Doris Scharfenberg of Farmington Hills. The land is snow white to the horizon, and the cars ahead disappear into a mist of snow.

It is only a five-hour drive to the Windy City, but we have enough food, drink and warm clothes to last us a week in an emergency, with sleeping bags and snow-mobile boots in the trunk for good measure.

Marshall was definitely not on our itinerary, but it is hard to resist its historic rooftops on such a day.

The snowy road leading from Exit 112 curves through bare trees as we enter the gentle hills. Industrial buildings soon give way to green and yellow and white clapboard houses, washed and white with snow.

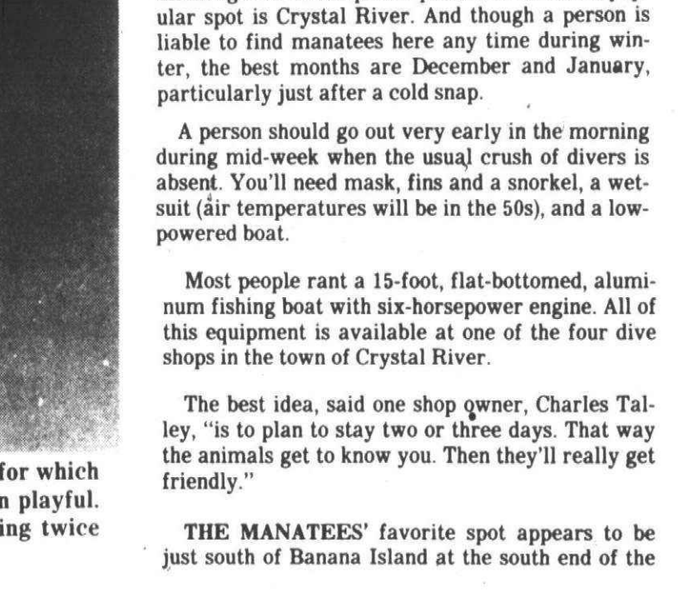
DOWNTOWN, THE OLD storefronts make shaped windows and carved rooftops against the winter sky. There are historic houses all over town, but most are near the great traffic circle which curves around the white bandstand.

The National House Inn, Bed-and-Breakfast, makes a neat red rectangle in the snow nearby. The National House, built in 1835 and restored in 1976, is the oldest operating inn in Michigan. It was once a major stagecoach stop between Detroit and Chicago.

The Inn, set in a snow-frosted Williamsburg garden, has 15 guest rooms and a beautifully restored dining room for regular breakfasts and special luncheons. Rates are from $30 a night for two to $60 for the Ketchum Suite.

There is good news/bad news this winter at the inn, which offers candlelit tours every second weekend through April 10. The good news is that the candle-lit tour package, $160 a couple, includes room and board for the weekend, candle-lit tour of three 19th century houses, dinner at Win Schulers, and little extras such as a wine and cheese party and mulled wine by a roaring fire.

The bad news is that these packages are so popular that they are booked for this winter. Mark your calendar and reserve for next year.



The National House Inn, the oldest operating inn in Michigan, has winter weekend candle-lit tour packages that have proven so popular that they're booked through the season.

MARSHALL IS NOT exactly a tourist town, although most Michiganians have explored its historic houses at one time or another, usually in summer. A winter visit is another matter.

Most of the historic houses are closed, but you can still eat at Win Schulers, take a warm side-trip to the inn and explore antique shops.

No photographer could resist a look of the town in winter, its 19th century houes capped and dripping elegantly with snow. It is a wonderful diversion on the way to Chicago, but remember those famous last words. It will take you a lot more than 10 minutes.

Most believe 70 not too old for president

By W.W. EDGAR

When President Ronald Reagan celebrated his 70th birthday Friday, he had a lot of folks wondering whether he will be able to stand the strain of the oval office.

Much of the wondering is whether a man of his age should be elected to what is considered one of the most powerful offices in the land.

Is a man of 70 too old to be president?

"The Bible tells us that three score years and 10 was the allotted time," Esther Hulsing, Plymouth Township clerk, said, "but with modern medicine and the changes in our way of life that doesn't hold good any more. If a man remains healthy and active, there is no reason why he can't hold the office at Reagan's age."

"HELL, NO," contractor Don Bidwell almost shouted when he was asked the question.

"We need their experience and their knowhow and the wisdom they have picked up along the way makes a man of the president's age an asset — provided he has remained healthy."

Ken Way, the city treasurer and assessor, doesn't wonder about being elected at Reagan's age. His biggest worry is whether a man of that age can stand the strain of the office.

"I have watched Jimmy Carter and some of our other presidents grow old in office. Their wrinkled brows have shown the strain of the office and I am just wondering if Regan can stand it. I am not worried about men of 70 being elected, but I am about whether the job may be too much for them," Way commented.

JUDGE DUNBAR Davis has no qualms about a man of three score and ten years being elected president.

"A great deal depends on the man. Some men are old at 50 years. Others go on and on, as long as they keep active. So I don't think a man's age should have any bearing on whether he should be elected. And Reagan seems like a man who can stand the strain."

It remained for Ralph Lorenz, the outspoken innkeeper, to offer an unusual answer.

"Look at the Catholics. They are smart people. They elect men over 70 years to be their Pope and nothing is ever said about it. They just want to make sure that he won't hold office too long.

"Look at Pope John . He was 73 years old when he was named and he is looked upon as one of the best Popes they've had. So Reagan's age should not be held against him."

"TWO OF the best friends I have," said Jack Selle the retired auto dealer, are over 70 and going strong.

"As long as a man keeps active and retains his faculties, I don't think age has anything to do with his right to hold office, even if it is the highest in the land."

"He's got me eating jelly beans," Mike Caffery the real estate agent commented. "I am a Democrat at heart, but Reagan is showing that he is up to the job — even at age 70.

"He's certainly giving it a good try and he's acting like a man many years his junior. So, I don't think age has anything to do with holding the office."

"The older I get, the more respect I have for old age," former mayor Jim McKeon commented. "If a man retains his faculties he should be sharp enough to hold the president's office and there can be no specified age."

"AGE DOESN'T make any difference — or shouldn't," Harold Fisher, said. "It all depends on the individual, and in this case we know that Reagan will not run for a second term and he is rugged enough for the four tough years that lie ahead."

Harold Guenther, one of the city's best known businessmen commented, "We have had some presidents in the White House much younger than Reagan who were in worse shape than he is. And they did the job. So I think a lot depends on a man's health and his experience — and no age limit should be enforced."

Sitting in his office in Plymouth Towship Hall, Joe West, the treasurer just smiled when asked the question of whether a man age 70 was too old to hold the president's chair .

"MAYBE THERE was a time when that would have been true."

Still time to pay property taxes

Plymouth Township residents have been granted a week's extension for the payment of property taxes.

Township Treasurer Joe West says the Feb. 14 deadline for the payment of taxes has been extended to Saturday, Feb. 28. Since the township offices are closed on Saturday, however, those making direct payments must do so by the preceding Friday, Feb. 27, he added.

Those who miss the final Feb. 27 deadline will be penalized, by law, by at least four percent of their total tax bill. Then, for each consecutive month afterward, the penalty rises by one percent.

QB Hewlett will speak to YMCA

Rich Hewlett, option quarterback for the University of Michigan, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Plymouth Family YMCA.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 16 in the cafetorium of Pioneer Middle School on Ann Arbor Road west of Sheldon.

The general public and all YMCA members are invited. Refreshments will be served.

Hewlett, a 1979 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, was an all-stater twice in football and an all-stater once in basketball while playing for the Rocks.

As a sophomore for U-M Hewlett opened the season as starting quarterback but lost that role to John Wangler. He hopes to regain a starter's role this fall.

The Plymouth Family YMCA serves Plymouth and Plymouth Township, Northville and Northville Township, and that portion of Canton north of Cherry Hill.

The vibrant glow of the warm Mission Oak finish sets this suite apart. This bedroom ensemble is a spectacular value at prices that are so enticing.

As a special bonus-feature note the artful decorative embossing and the tasteful pulls which further compliment the styling.

Even the surface has a special NO-WAX finish which requires little attention and wipes clean to always retain its lasting beauty.

Bill would clamp rise in thefts of silver, gold

House burglars used to steal items like color TVs, stereo receivers, cameras, rifles, handguns, tools and 10-speed bicycles.

These were hot prizes among burglars. They had value, could easily be unloaded to a "fence" and end up in someone else's living room, family room or garage almost before the police reports could be filled out.

Operation Identification slowed down the theft of some of these items, but still the black market trade flourished.

Today, however, burglars are after coin collections, silverware, jewelry, sterling plates, and other items made of precious metals.

One reason for this is the high resale value for silver and copper in today's economy.

A more important reason, though, is that such items can be fenced very easily — much more easily than TVs, stereos, tools, etc.

All the burglar has to do is take the items to a jewelry, coin or silver buyer on the other side of the metropolitan area and sell it for that particular day's market value.

Because gold and silver are more valuable now then ever on the spot market, many dealers offer instant cash without any questions asked — knowing full well that the items being purchased are really stolen goods.

For police and other law enforcement investigators, it is very difficult to recover gold and silver stolen goods because the metals are quickly melted down — and often shipped out of state. It doesn't take long to turn a few dozen gold bracelets into a bar of gold.

POLICE IN Canton and Plymouth report that the incidence of thefts of coins and jewelry is increasing in the community.

The State Police in the Northville post report a "phenomenal" increase in the number of breaking and entering of residences involving the theft of gold, silver and jewelry.

Lt. Larry Stewart of the Canton Police Department points out that in addition to the great increase in value, coins and jewelry are small and can be easily concealed. He also reports an increase of such thefts in Canton.

Detective Ralph White of Plymouth Police adds that it does appear that a significant number of juveniles are involved in the B&Es.

Because this problem has been reported statewide, the Michigan Legislature is looking at a possible remedy.

A bill has been introduced in Lansing which is aimed at closing the market for burglars who steal precious metals and then sell their loot for immediate money with minimal risk.

One legislator says the number of gold/silver burglaries has increased as much as nine times in some areas and has doubled in others.

The proposed bill has been drafted with the help of county prosecutors, police chiefs, sheriffs, and jewelers from this region and from throughout the state.

One of the provisions is that those who deal in precious metals will be required to register with the local police or county sheriff. (No legitimate dealer will have a problem with this.)

The bill prohibits dealers from purchasing precious metals from minors, and requires them to ask for identification and take a thumbprint from anyone trying to sell gold and silver.

State Police especially believe the thumb-printing provision will be a great aid to law enforcement agencies.

The Observer believes the bill is needed and urges the Legislature to adopt the measure. Residents who agree may want to let the following lawmakers know:

Senator William Faust, 8228 Ravine Drive, Westland 48185; Sen. Robert Geake, 48525 W. 8 Mile, Northville 48167; State Rep. Thomas Brown, 1917 Eagle, Westland 48185; or Rep. Roy Smith, 7768 Munger, Ypsilanti 48197.

Let's show Ron how to control gasoline prices

Enough is enough. Like the man said, I'm mad as hell and I'm not going to take it anymore.

I'm talking about this nifty little extortion racket — otherwise known as the price of a gallon of gasoline.

Seems every money grubber around wants to get in on the act. It's bad enough we're being blackmailed so Arab sheiks and oil barons can live the billionaire life.

Now Ron Reagan, our 19th century free enterpriser, adds to the inflationary spiral by decontrolling domestic oil prices.

(No disrespect intended by calling him Ron. I figure if Robert Stack can call him Ron in political ads, so can this down-home, small-town editor. Besides, unlike Congress, this editor isn't giving Dutch any honeymoon.)

Closer to home, the Michigan Road Builders Association (MRBA) has decided it wants part of the action. The group is pushing a proposal to change the gas and weight tax formula to collect it as a percentage of the price rather than so many cents a gallon.

In short, every time oil companies increase gas prices, consumers would fork over an increased tax levy. Right off the bat, it would mean an additional two cents a gallon.

Presently, gasoline is taxed by the state at a flat 11 cents a gallon.

A neat kicker to this plan is a flat $28 fee for license plates to add to our misery. As of now, plates are sold based on vehicle weight.

THE PURPOSE of this scheme is to raise money to build and maintain highways. But with Americans driving smaller cars and shorter distances, it doesn't make sense to be building more highways.

Besides, this gas situation is ludicrous. Nobody in his or her right mind believes that what cost 35 cents a few years ago should cost a $1.35 today.

Plain old-fashioned greed is the motive. Forget all this talk about letting gasoline prices rise to their "natural" levels. The only thing natural about gas prices is what the sheiks and oil barons say is natural. Just ask Exxon. It made $6 billion last year, overtaking General Motors for the first time.

But there is a solution. We really don't have to take it if we join together and fight back. It's called a good old-fashioned boycott.

You remember. We've boycotted grapes, lettuce, coffee and sugar in the past. Now it's the oil companies' turn.

It isn't as crazy as it sounds. Sure, we all have to have the black gold to get to and from work. But we can do this selectively.

It's just a matter of planning. We pick out an oil company, preferably one of the big boys who is charging the highest price, and boycott its stations until the price comes down. Believe me, if we take our business somewhere else, they'll bring down the price.

THEN WE TURN our attention to the next greedy gas peddler and apply the same kind of pressure.

Before long, gas prices will inch down ever so slowly. But better slow than paying $2.50 or $3 a gallon, which is where prices are heading.

We can show Ron and his oil buddies how the free enterprise system really works. It's called supply and demand.

OK to park in fire lane

You want to see some real smart guys — and gals, too?

Go to any small shopping center and look at the vehicles parked closest to the stores in what is marked "Fire Lane — No Parking."

The dumb guys, they're the ones who park out in the designated spaces in the parking lot. They get whipped by the cold wind blowing across the lot, they have to step in slush, they have to carry their packages further.

The bad guys are the ones who park in "Handicapped" slots when they aren't handicapped. When a state law was passed requiring reserved parking slots for the handicapped, there was poor compliance at first. Then the word has got around that parking in a handicapped slot isn't a nice thing to do.

But the word hasn't got around yet that it's naughty to park in the fire lane in front of the local supermarket. So people do it.

Of five vehicles in the fire lane on a busy Saturday, one will be occupied by a driver who has the engine running. He's waiting for his wife to shop, but he has a guilty conscience about parking in the fire lane, so he keeps the engine running so we'll think he's just stopping to pick her up.

Another of the five will be occupied with the engine off. The other three vehicles will be parked and empty.

It's illegal, of course, to park in a fire lane. It's also rude because it blocks traffic.

But the plain truth of the matter is that the cops have other, more important things to do than ticket people who park in fire lanes.

O&E

Tim Richard

Cops are smart. They set priorities. They know they can't police every ordinance in the book, so they work on burglaries and drunks.

So go ahead and park in the fire lane. No one will do a thing about it.

Her translating is full-time job

Susan Hecht of San Francisco is a full-time translator. She translates lawyer's talk into plain English for finance companies, real estate firms, banks and insurance companies. The January State Bar of Michigan newsletter gives an example of her work.

Before translation: ". . .said account and all deposits and withdrawals made in connection therewith shall be subject to applicable state and federal banking laws and regulations, to bank's bylaws and all present and future amendments thereto and to all rgulations and rules and practices now or hereafter adopted by bank with respect thereto. . ."

Hecht's translation: ". . .which I will use according to all federal and state laws as well as your present or future bylaws, regulations and practices."

Meet woes head-on

One of the most fascinating things The Stroller has witnessed during his long journey along the journalistic trail is the manner in which grown men meet the challenges of everyday life.

Some of them charge head-on. Others back away and always seem willing to compromise. Still others just turn their backs and ignore the problems. They are willing to take whatever comes.

These thoughts came to The Stroller the other evening when he listened to President Reagan make his first televised speech to the nation since taking office.

Whether you agree with him, one thing that must be said is he is forthright in his approach. He isn't looking for compromise. He is meeting the problems head-on and letting the chips fall where they may.

What's more, he promised to stick to them until the issues are settled for what he hopes will be the best interests of the country.

AS THE STROLLER sat there listening to every word, he was reminded of the late "Boss" Kettering, the legendary engineer who gave the world the self-starter on automobiles.

Many times The Stroller had heard him tell of the many trials and tribulations he had before the starter was workable.

It was his "stick-to-it-iveness" which served as a base on which the automobile industry was built. Now, our president seems bent on the same dogged determination.

Along his journey, The Stroller has come across some very interesting characters, among them Fielding H. "Hurry Up" Yost, the Michigan football coach, and Knute Rockne, who served in the same capacity at Notre Dame.

Rockne was one of the most progressive football coaches in the land. He was offense-minded. Because of that, he met his problems head on. He worked on the theory that you couldn't score unless you had possession of the ball, no matter where it was on the field.

YOST WAS JUST the opposite. He never wanted the Wolverines to have the ball in their own territory. It was Yost's belief that a mistake in your own territory made it easier for the other team to score. So he tried to make the enemy work for it. That's why he was a stickler for the punt. He wanted the ball in enemy territory at all times.

On one occasion, The Stroller, then a young sports writer, asked him why he insisted on such tactics.

The "Old Man," as he was affectionately known, twisted the ever present cigar in his mouth, looked at The Stroller and said, "To me, it's rather silly to try to rush the ball over from Ypsilanti when the goal posts are in Ann Arbor."

BO SCHEMBECHLER, the present Michigan coach, is another who until recently, never gambled on tactics, especially on offense. He works on the theory that if you can keep the other team from scoring you can't lose. And he, too, has a fine record.

But as he looks back over his trail, The Stroller much prefers the fellow who meets his problems head on.

That's why he was so fascinated with President Reagan and the manner in which he delivered his first speech to the nation from the Oval Office in the White House.

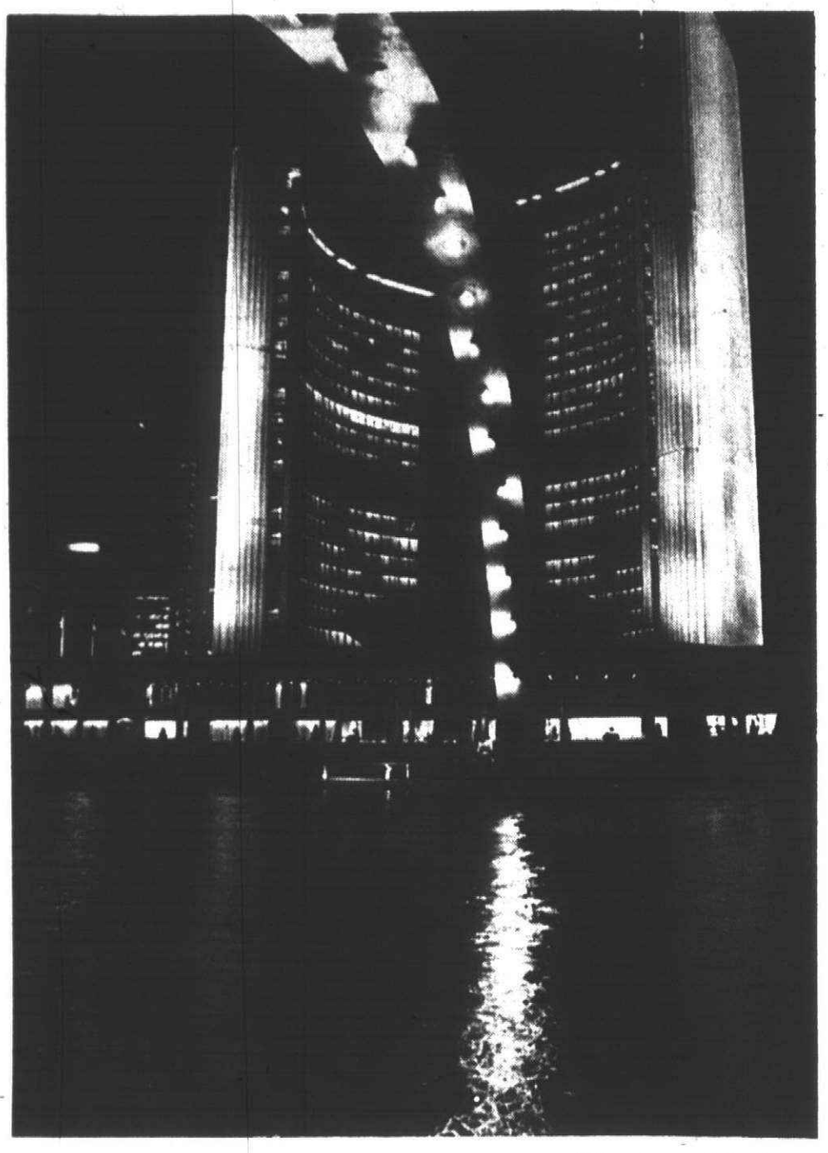
Bill Stockwell

Did you know that Michigan's forests are full of untapped energy? Norval Morey, a former Michigan lumberjack and sawmill operator, estimates the forests of our state contain a wealth of dead, dying, diseased and deformed trees that can be turned to good use in helping solve our energy problems. He claims there are 100 million tons of it in our state alone — enough to fire the boilers of 200 small power plants which could generate up to one-third of the state's electricity.



Toronto's dramatic city hall is even more striking in a nighttime photograph. A 2-second exposure at f/4 was used. (Photo by Monte Nagler)

Take a camera into dark

There's a time in your photography when it's OK to be in the dark. When is this time? Between sundown and sunrise!

Most photographers concentrate their shooting during daylight hours and miss the excitement and challenge of taking photos at night. Night photography will produce pictures quite unlike those taken during daytime, even of the same subject.

Furthermore, the variety of subjects and how they can be treated by night photography will astonish you.

TO GET GOOD quality night pictures, you must have a tripod and cable release.

Long exposures are almost always required, and the only way to get them is to place your camera on a tripod. Make sure your tripod is sturdy and always a little heavier-duty than what you think you'll need.

Most exposure meters will not work at night. The long exposures needed are beyond the capability of the meter. Besides, built-in camera meters are designed to measure reflected light and not the light source that dominates many nighttime subjects.

So how do you expose? Experience, judgment and by using the following as a guide:

- Floodlit buildings and monuments — two seconds at f/4.
- Brightly lit streets — 1/30 second at f/2.8.
- Spotlit acts — 1/60 second at f/2.8.
- Fireworks — at f/8, leave the shutter open on "bulb" for several bursts.

These recommendations are for 64 ASA film. To convert these exposures to different speed films, use the simple mathematical relationship between ASA ratings. For example, a film that is twice as fast will require exactly half the exposure.

BESIDES THE popular street scenes and floodlit buildings, here are some different ideas for your nighttime photography.

Monte Nagler

Position yourself near a busy street and set your camera on "bulb." Light patterns from passing automobiles will produce striking results.

In a dark room, have a friend (or yourself) face the camera and make patterns with a flashlight. Again, leave the camera on "bulb" for as long as you want. You'll capture many fascinating designs.

You can even shoot moonscapes for that special mood. Here you will need a long exposure of about four minutes to give you a dramatic result.

For a special effect, don't wait until it's totally dark. There's a 15-minute period before total darkness when the sky becomes a beautiful midnight blue. When used as a backdrop behind an interesting subject, the dusk sky will give you a picture full of impact.

ONE FURTHER idea: Make your own nighttime photos during the day. By drastically underexposing (up to six f/stops), you'll give a moody, dreamlike quality to your pictures.

Ever try shooting slow speed film directly at the sun with your camera set at its smallest aperture and fastest shutter speed? The result will be a silhouetted foreground with the sun appearing like a beaming star. You may need a polarizer or neutral density filter here to help cut even more light back.

Nighttime photography is fun, exciting and rewarding. So get out into the dark — and you'll begin to see the light.

Canton Police praised for help

Editor:

We want to commend the Canton Township Police Department on the superior way in which they handled the disappearance of our 4-year-old son. All of the officers I talked to were polite, sympathetic and very helpful. The response time to my phone call was the fastest I've ever seen. The officers were very professional and efficient. We were very pleased with the follow-up phone call the same night.

Fortunately our story had a happy ending. Our little boy had been taken in by a neighbor. The one-and-half hours that he was missing was probably the most frightening of our lives. If only the woman had thought to call me or checked to see if I knew where he was, she would have saved a lot of tears and hard effort by a lot of people. People should never assume that children always fully understand thier actions.

We also want to thank all of our neighbors in the Raintree Drive-Greenwood area who helped search for our son and offered so much support that day. Everyone was so wonderful. We have only lived in this area a few months but already I have felt the warmth and friendliness of this community.

Thanks again to a great police department and warm, friendly neighbors.

Shifting benefits

Editor:

In my opinion, I would and could be a darn good president of our good old U.S. of A. for four years for just half of the benefits of an ex-president.

But, of course, I am not contemplating running for the office.

But in my opinion, and I do believe in the opinion of many other good citizens of our good old U.S. of A. and ex-presidents, the benefits of Nixon, Ford and Carter could relieve the anxieties of a lot of our senior citizens.

And, again, I am very doubtful if this epistle will attract the attention of very many good and high-ranking federal government political office holders.

Just some random thoughts of a senior citizen, after reading an article in the Free Press on Jan. 27.

Group homes story praised

Editor:

I just finished reading the (Feb. 5) Observer and feel that you are to be duly congratulated for the very fine and informative articles on homes for the retarded in residential neighborhoods as opposed to institutional.

Your treatment was fair and comprehensive.

Anyone who reads this edition of your paper with care, has to come away with a better understanding of the entire situation.

Indeed, a job well done, Mr. (Leonard) Poger.

Students fare well on statewide exam

Students in Canton and Plymouth scored well on the tests administered by the state each year to fourth, seventh and 10th graders.

The results of the annual Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) were given Monday night to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The districtwide scores were slow in coming because some of the Extended School Year (ESY) schools took the test in October while the other buildings administered the exam in September.

The MEAP measures a selected set of skills in reading and math which the state believes a student should have learned by the time the test is given.

David Rodwell, administrative assistant for research and data processing, reported that a greater percentage of Plymouth-Canton students have achieved 75 percent or more of the objectives measured that at the state level.

Rodwell added that the purpose of the MEAP test is to screen those students with specific instructional needs, and help select learning programs to address those needs.

The test also can help administrators examine curriculum performance and determine whether there might be any specific program weaknesses, he added.

As an example, said Rodwell, it appears fourth grade students in Plymouth-Canton are having difficulties doing computations with decimals.

At the fourth grade level, about 78 percent of the students here achieved 75 percent or more of the reading objectives compared to 70 percent of the statewide average.

About 78 percent of Plymouth-Canton fourth graders achieved 75 percent or more of the math objectives compared to about 72 percent statewide.

At the seventh grade, about 87 percent of the students achieved 75 percent or more of the reading goals while the statewide performance was 76 percent.

In math, 71 percent of Plymouth-Canton students achieved three-fourths or more of the objectives while statewide only 58 percent reached that level of performance.

In the 10th grade 86 percent achieved 75 percent or more of the reading objectives compared to 68 percent statewide and 76 percent achieved three-fourths or more of the math goals compared to 57 percent statewide.

Museum opening date hinges on Rotary benefit

Rick Nadeau (left) and Lee Halstead, Canton Rotarians, hope the club's spaghetti/chicken dinner will dish up dollars for the Canton Historical Society. Dorothy West, president of the society, hopes the benefit will bring in enough money to complete renovation of the old schoolhouse which will house the Canton Museum. Everyone is hopeful that the museum will be opened this summer. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

The Canton Rotary Club has planned its third annual spaghetti-chicken dinner, and in the process, hopes to dish up a bundle of dollars for the Canton Historical Museum.

Lee Halsted is chairing the dinner which will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Feb. 16 in the Roman Forum Restaurant, 41601 Ford Road. Rotarians will serve as busboys and do the cleanup chores. Greg Gato, part owner of the Roman Forum and a member of Canton Rotary, will take over kitchen duties with the assistance of the cooks who are volunteering their time.

Waitresses at the Roman Forum also are donating their time. They will take the orders and serve. The Rotarians will serve the coffee.

Diners will have their choice of spaghetti or broasted chicken (a specialty of the house) with all the trimmings.

Dinner tickets may be purchased at the door — $4.25 for adults and $2.75 for children. Tickets may be purchased in advance at Canton branch of the Wayne Bank, Rick's TV, Lilley at Ford roads and Canton Office Supply in Harvard Square.

THIS IS the first time that the Canton Historical Society has benefited from the annual dinner.

"Now that the Rotary has successfully established our new library through many projects and hours of work, it is time to help another group. Thus, the Rotary will be giving its attention to the Canton Historical Society," said Halsted.

Dorothy West, president of the society, said the Historical Society and Canton Rotary have goals of completely restoring the old school on the corner of Canton Center and Proctor roads into a historical museum for the township.

"Much has been done this last year," said Mrs. West. "We have a new roof, new furnace and water and plumbing installed with funding donated by the Canton Rotary. There is still work to be done — carpentry and painting.

"WE HAVE hopes of opening the historical museum this summer, and the society's goal is to turn the old schoolhouse into a landmark of which Canton will be proud."

Another fund-raiser for the museum is the sale of limited edition prints of the old schoolhouse. The sketch by John Shannon, a 1980 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School was a first-prize winner. The prints were framed with barnwood taken from a 130-year-old barn on Geddes Road in Canton. These collectors items are for sale for $100, framed, and $75, unframed. The print is 13x17 inches.

Anyone interested in buying a the print can call Mrs. West, 495-0744. One will be on display at the Roman Forum the day of the dinner. Personal stationery also is available.

"We're hoping for a big turnout," said Halsted. "Not only will it be a nice outing for family, friends and neighbors, but also because it will help to preserve the heritage of our community."

Canton Rotarians hope Dorothy West, president of the Canton Historical Society, will have stacks of money to count after Monday's spaghetti/chicken dinner in the Roman Forum.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

by ELLIE GRAHAM

A GOOD PLACE to be sometime between 3 and 7 p.m. Friday is the WSDP radio station at the Centennial Educational Park. Students, advisors and parent boosters have planned an open house to celebrate the ninth anniversary of the opening of the station.

The students have prepared an audio history of WSDP for the occasion. Visitors will have an opportunity to see the television program of the high school radio station aired last spring by PM Magazine on Channel 2. Seniors, like Bruce Ruttenberg who was program director, and Lisa Page, who was in charge of community notes and CEP news, graduated in June. Ruttenberg is attending Schoolcraft College and will transfer to Western Michigan University. Ms. Page is a student at Michigan State University.

They appear in the film along with students still involved in radio at WSDP.

The studios are in Room 2311 on the second floor of Plymouth Salem high, Joy Road west of Canton Center. Persons who have not visited the studios will be surprised by the sophistication of the set-up. They will understand why students have gone directly from high school to professional jobs in broadcasting.

Jeff Cardinal, WSDP coordinator, says the parents are preparing refreshments for the open house. There will be hors d'oeuvres, cookies, punch, coffee and tea.

Those who attend will meet those radio personalities who bring you all the high school sports, the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools board meetings, news and good music at 88.1 on your FM dial.

LIDIA LaCombe and Pete Suchanski had high scores at last Thursday's party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center on Farmer Street. There were nine tables in play. Margaret Swartz, game director, says they have gained new players each week.

THE PLYMOUTH Business and Professional Women's Club members are looking forward to having Wayne County Sheriff Bill Lucas as guest speaker at their annual guest night dinner meeting. It will be next Monday in Hillside Inn. (It used to be known as bosses' night.)

The local BPWers still remember the national BPW convention in Las Vegas several years ago. Bill Lucas happened to be there at the same time for a convention. He cheerfully joined them for a 7 a.m. breakfast meeting at their hotel. He confided that he may have put himself "in the doghouse" as it was his wedding anniversary. I'll bet he had two breakfasts that morning.

PLYMOUTH Jaycettes will be feted by the Jaycees Saturday evening, Valentine's Day. It will be Sweetheart Appreciation Night and a grand finale to National Jaycette Week.

The men will prepare and serve dinner. Last year it was prime rib, lobster and all the trimmings. They even made cherries jubilee for dessert. They poured the wine, lit their cigarettes, and sang to them.

The Jaycees won a first at their national convention for their Sweethearts Appreciation Night — it was their first first-place award.

THERE STILL are a few openings for Track D students in the Winter-Spring Art Workshops arranged by the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

To accommodate students on the extended school year program, drawing and painting classes are offered at 9:15 Tuesdays and Fridays beginning Feb. 17. There are six sessions taught by Cathy Graves and the cost is $14.

For more information or to register, call the PCAC office, 455-5260, between 9 a.m. and noon, Monday through Thursday. The classes will be in the pCAC office on Main Street, Plymouth.

NANCY BARTON of Plymouth, a member of the Collegiate Singers at Ferris State College, performed last night in the fourth annual Winter Jazz Showcase in Starr Auditorium.

It was part of the 1981 Festival of the Arts, a month-long cultural celebration. Not only do students, faculty and area residents combine talents for the festival, the visiting artists' program brings noted professionals to the campus to work with the participants.

Snowsnaking

Students try old Indian sport

The Iroquois Indians used to hurl the snowsnake.

Braves in the Six Nations tribes who once roamed New York state and Ontario would select an exactly-right limb from a forest tree. Then they would smooth out any knots that might impede its swift flight. They would tip the end of the branch with glass or some other heavy substance. And then they would send it flying down a snowy track especially fashioned in the forests of many winters ago for this ancient sport.

Now snowsnake is back, reintroduced by the American Indian Communities Leadership Council and part of Indian studies program currently being conducted in the Wayne-Westland and Plymouth-Canton school districts.

And last weekend some 700 students of Indian lore — from these two districts and a dozen more from all over Michigan — figuratively put on the feathers of the braves of old to compete in the fourth annual Snowsnake Tournament at Lakeland High School at Milford.

They used wooden dowls instead of branches, and their sticks were tipped with lead instead of glass. Each competitor had fashioned his own stick as part of the Indian studies program.

They threw them down grooved snow and ice structures up to 100 yards in length which were also specially built by the students for the project. Not as far as the braves used to hurl, though.

"OUR LONGEST throws for an adult are about 200 feet," said Rick Smith, project director for the Plymouth-Canton district. "I've heard that in the Six Nations they could throw the snowsnake up to a mile.

"Of course they had much larger tracks, probably permanent structures, and bigger sticks."

Rosslyn McCoy is director for the Wayne-Westland Indian Studies program. In each district, the program is federally-funded under Title IV and open only to students with Indian ancestry.

Participants in the modern-day snowsnake tounament also incorporated some other bits of American Indian culture into their day of activity. There was Indian dancing and singing and a potluck dinner in the Lakeland High kiva (combined kitchen and auditorium.)

"We had buffalo meat — we get it from a special distributor of wild game who is based in Traverse City," said Smith. "Then there was corn soup. It's made of pork and hominy and sometimes they put in kidney beans.

"Basically it's rather bland, but if properly seasoned it's delicious. A lot of the kids back off this kind of food, but some were trying it this time and liked it."

ANOTHER Indian delicacy served was fry bread. "It's like a doughnut, only mainly flour and water and you fry it in grease." said Smith. And the menu also included wild rice, the same gourmet treat from Minnesota found in top restaurant fare.

The Hard Corps Singers, a traditional Indian group, were on hand to entertain, and many of the particpants joined in dances they had learned through their Indian studies.

Host and hostess with the mostest

Canton Chatter

By KATHY FREECE 981-2027

Sue and Art Lawrence love to entertain. Their driveway is always full of cars. Just recently, they topped an all-time record for company.

The tail-gate party for the big Super Bowl Game started Sunday afternoon. This is the fourth annual celebration looked forward to by friends and neighbors.

Naturally, there were munchies for all. It turned out that her new microwave made lousy popcorn, so Sherm Moore came to the rescue. He is a connoisseur of sorts in this particular area and proceeded to make the fans happy with gallons of the tasty snack.

The rest of the menu for the evening was top notch: a variety of hot sandwiches, cole slaw, assorted relishes, fancy molds, several vegetables and an unusual cider punch that had to be cooked for 24 hours before serving.

Everything was provided by the hosts and served in the lovely new addition to their house — a recreation room built by Art himself.

A FEW EARLY arrivals were Judy and Dominic Cirino, Darryl and Jan Brawn, Bobbi and Mike Ryan, Cindy and Rick Yotti, Kathy and Bob Spencer, Diane and Bill Soules, Carol and Bob Shaw, Sandy and Hank Naasko, along with Terri and Dick Cohen. After "the word" was out that the Lawrences were at it again, along came Shannon and Jim Monro, Mary Ellen and Bud Magaldi, Helen and Mike Wesner, and Mary Moore.

There were two televisions going to accommodate all the interested onlookers for this final spectacle of the football season.

If you can imagine a super Super Bowl cake, it was there, too. The finale of the day, Terri Cohen's unusual cake, was shared by all.

THE VERY NEXT day, the same household became the beautifully decorated area for a surprise wedding shower.

Sue O'Donell, Mary Thomas, Mary Moore, Carol Pata, Denise Edson, Bekki Ponte and, of course, Sue Lawrence were taking down pennants and posters and pinning up streamers.

The lucky couple honored by the shower are Carol Cohen and Scott D'Angelo. Terri and Dick Cohen of Canton and Jeanette and Ray D'Angelo of Dearborn Heights will share in the wedding of their children Feb. 14.

As Carol walked unsuspecting into the Lawrence home, she was greeted by friends, family and neighbors.

SUSAN COHEN, Helen Wesner, Jan Brawn, Mary Kennedy, Lily Gyorke, Judy Cieslak, Pat Mead, Judy Cirino, Betty Lidkea, Mary Ellen Magaldi and Shannon Monro, were just as excited as the bride-to-be. So many lovely and practical gifts were opened and are sure to be treasured for many years.

All the guests were served a flaky pastry roll-up filled with spinach and sausage. A seven-layer ice cream torte was there to complete the meal.

Terri Cohen was on hand to share the joy of the evening with her daughter.

I tried to get in touch with the Lawrence home for several days after all of this activity, just to see how she managed to fit both hectic days into her normal busy schedule.

She has taken the phone off the hook and collapsed, I thought. I was wrong. There are just not enough hours in the day to slow down Sue and Art Lawrence.

Tournament revives an old Indian sport

Prizes were awarded for the best throws in the kindergarten through high school age groups and traders showed Indian craft work.

"The American Indian Communities Leadership Council is a statewide nonprofit community action group designed to bring American Indian people together," said Smith.

"The snowsnake sport was revived in the Detroit area four years ago and has become a big success in the Indian community. Students who participate must construct their own snowsnakes, and most start preparing for the tournament months before the event," said Smith. "Inner-school rivalry is always intense."

Women seek professional supportive links

By SHERRY KAHAN

A network is a system that connects. Recently more than 100 area women indicated that they wanted to plug into a new supportive network called Women's Exchange, also known as WE.

WE is a system of connections, drawing its inspiration from the time-honored, eminently successful "good old boys" system. It was kicked off in this area with a meeting sponsored by the YWCA of Western Wayne. Several months ago the YW organized a steering committee to make the idea a reality.

"It's based on the theory that it's not what you know but who you know," said Candy Kidd, Y staff member who was the prime mover behind the establishment of the network.

Those attending the meeting again and again referred to the new group as one in which women would help women.

"The basic purpose of a network is to support each other as we learn and achieve what we want to achieve," said Shirley Aune of Farmington Hills, who was featured speaker. She is director of a slightly different kind of network called New Sources.

The speaker added: "A network makes life easier, builds self-esteem, and is a means to share information and pass on news of job openings."

About three-fourths of the jobs are filled through word of mouth, she added.

"So many women are alone- one woman in an all male office," she observed. "They need support from women who are in similar positions."

GEORGENE SLOAN of Livonia, president of the fledgling networkers, regards the establishment of such systems as something of a landmark in the upward progress of women.

"More women are going to work and want to get ahead," she explained. "They look at how the men do it through their networks, and want to do the same."

She mentioned that she has "received tremendous positive feedback" about the idea from women who attended the inital gathering. "You could feel the excitement," she said. "There must be a need or we wouldn't have attracted that many people."

Follow-up meetings already have been scheduled. Rick Leffke, Dale Carnegie trainer and counselor, will talk to the group at a dinner meeting from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 23 in Vladimir's Restaurant. Tickets are $11 for members, $12 for others. Mail a check payable to Women's Exchange to Box 427, Dearborn Heights 48127.

Meetings will be on the fourth Monday of each month September through June.

"I'M SUPERVISOR of occupational therapy at Metro Home Health," said Nancy Conrad of Canton Township. "I feel the need for women in professions to get together and talk about their problems. I'd like to know how other women feel as they move from the staff level to the management level, and how they are able to adjust.

"They might be able to give me hints on better ways to do things. I don't think women have been trained, even though we have college degrees, to deal with subordinates.

"Where do you go to talk about problems or business in general or new trends? As women move into business administration, a network is needed. I hope it goes."

"I'm here to exchange information with the other women," noted Karen Szymula of Livonia, public information officer for Inkster. "I want to get new ideas about working conditions and places of employment. A network is a good way to learn how different females and companies do things. I've already seen networks work well in personnel as an information exchange."

'The basic purpose of a network is to support each other as we learn and achieve what we want to achieve. A network makes life easier, builds self-esteem, and is a means to share information and pass on news of job openings.'

— Shirley Aune director of New Sources

Mona Greco of Westland, part owner of a beauty shop in Orchard Lake, called the meeting "very interesting."

"For a long time women didn't know where to look for solutions to problems in their lives, either personal or in business," she said. "In a group like this, women can go and find their answers. I was not surprised at the turnout. It's a let's-help-each-other kind of gathering."

Homemaker Sharon Morris, another Westlander and a volunteer at the YWCA and the American Cancer Society, felt the network was not only for the employed.

"I like to meet people," she said. "I think I can benefit from the program. Who knows what may come along. If the right thing came along, I might be employable."

A TEACHER EMPLOYED by the Wayne-Westland school district, regarded the Women's Exchange as a place to meet women she wouldn't meet in her everyday experience.

"I work mainly with teachers," said Donna Schwab of Canton Township, who teaches adults at the Northville Psychiatric Hospital in a program run by the school district. "But here I'm meeting women in other professions With education problems today and lack of teaching jobs. it will help let you know if there is a place for you in business. With the economic situation you have toprepare for the problems that may come."

Leslie Frederick of Plymouth, an area program director at the YW, is proud her organization was the catalyst in the formation of a network in this area.

"Women in the job market have spent too many years competing with each other," she said. "They are suddenly realizing that in order to be happy with what they are doing, in the home or out, they need to help and support each other. If we don't who will?"

"Let's say they were talking about a promotion," commented Lucy Roberts of Southfield, who manages a personnel office in that city. "I could call up several women in the network and ask what salary range I should expect for the range of duties I will be assuming."

Or she could ring up someone else and ask, "Who do you know who would give me good, honest advice about money?"

She added: "It's always nice to have a contact person. I got my own job by networking."

CAROLYN LAICH, former president of the Schoolcraft College student body, was in on the initial planning of WE. A former resident of Westland and Garden City, she is a training consultant for employment firms and the University of Michigan. She thinks WE targeted a need and "is filling it."

"Both men and women need an information source," she maintained. "A network tells you about job possibilities, gives you career ladder information and let you in on procedural steps taken by women to be promoted. It gives you a feel for what is going on."

Peter Stroh named year's humanitarian

Peter W. Stroh, president of Stroh Brewery, will receive the humanitarian of the year award at the ninth annual March of Dimes Sweetheart Ball Feb. 14 in the Renaissance Ballroom of the Detroit Plaza Hotel.

Stroh was chosen because of his personal and corporate commitments and contributions to the metropolitan area. Selection was by a nominating committee chaired by U.S. Judge Damon Keith, who will serve as master of ceremonies during the event.

Contributing to the picking of Stroh was his sponsorship of the Montreux-Jazz Festival, the Freedom Festival, hosting Republican National Convention delegates, becoming involved in residential development along Detroit's riverfront, and efforts on behalf of Detroit's Medical Center.

Tickets for the Sweetheart Ball are $100 each with proceeds going to the area programs of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

The evening will begin with cocktails at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 8 p.m. and ceremonies at 9 p.m. Expected to be present are Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, Sen. Donald Riegle and Lt. Gov. James Brickley.

Music for the evening will be provided by Eddie Santini and Jimmy McKee.

Information and tickets are available by calling the March of Dimes at 864-6000.

Clothing helps church pass message

By SHERRY KAHAN

When members of Church of Christ in Garden City came to the conclusion that it is a shame to throw away clothing when many need it, they got busy.

A committee was formed. Church members were asked to donate clothing. Before long, a modest pile of shirts, dresses, coats and shoes had been collected and were neatly arranged in a small house behind the church.

And by the time a few weeks had passed, two rooms were jammed with clothing suitable for for all ages.

Among the first customers were an elderly couple who have only Social Security for income. They came in about a month ago, when Barbara Hatton and Fran Kondratko were volunteering in the clothing rooms.

"My father-in-law was here and helped the man pick out a coat, pants and shirts," said Mrs. Hatton.

"Fran and I helped the lady. She tried on all the clothes she was interested in. She said she wouldn't want to take something she couldn't use."

Paul Hatton, husband of Barbara, heads the project along with Ken Gullekson.

"Several people have brought back clothing they found they couldn't use," he said.

Mrs. Kondratko said she had a good feeling helping this woman.

"She said it was a long time since she had been able to buy something," she said. "She didn't even know what size she was."

The couple "was very happy and excited," Mrs. Hatton said. She gave them a tract about the church and took down their name so they could be contacted later by a church member.

"WE WANT TO invite them to church," said Hatton. "That is our main objective.

"We hope to reach people in the surrounding communities, not just Garden City. Those who come here are not obligated to do anything. If they don't want to sign their names, they don't have to.

"We are only trying to service those who are really in need. Hopefully, we can serve them in other ways, possibly teaching them if they want to study.

"The main function of the church is to supply a spiritual need. For us, a spiritual need is most important. But we might reach people through this program."

Adults, children and infants needing such things as shoes, boots, gloves, hats, underwear, socks, pants or other clothing items may find what they require at 29459 Bock, the second house behind the church at 1657 Middlebelt.

Hours are 7-9 p.m. on Monday. Anyone wishing to contribute clothing to the project may leave it at the church.

"It is nice to do something for someone," said Ron Kondratko, who donates time to the project.

"A lot of people need clothing. There are a lot of poor people around here. This is a good way to help them.

"It is good clothing. It's clean and has no holes.

"We have a lot of stuff for girls. They don't seem to wear out their clothing the way boys do."

"JUST BEFORE Christmas, we had a lady in who has several children," Hatton said.

"Someone had broken in to her house and stolen all her gifts. We supplied her with enough clothes to give her kids a decent Christmas."

Right now, a new concept is simmering in the minds of several of the volunteers.

"We'd like to get into appliances," said Hatton.

"We'll let members know we need appliances, and are interested in taking their old washers or dryers. We have members who are good at fixing up that sort of thing, so we can get them repaired.

"We hope to set up a shop in the garage back of this house where the fellows can work.

"We'll see that a needy family gets one."

moral perspectives

Rabbi Irwin Groner

Private morality — not for legislation

Now that some time has elapsed since the election, it is appropriate to take another look at those groups which comprise the "Moral Majority," and which are sometimes now referred to as "The New Christian Right." This coalition has announced its program which includes: an anti-abortion constitutional amendment, prayer in the public schools, legislation against pornography and sexual deviations.

The first principle we need to remember is the right of religion to influence the political process. In America, we have seen, in recent decades, the vigorous involvement of priests, ministers and rabbis on behalf of political cause and social betterment ranging from civil rights legislation to the anti-war movement.

WHAT, THEN, is so offensive about the approach of the Moral Majority? The answer lies in this consideration. The Moral Majority is concerned not with public morality and social justice, but with private morality and personal choice. Other religious groups have sought to improve conditions on the assembly line, the farm, the union hall, the inner city, the military - all of which are in the public domain and under governmental authority.

The Moral Majority seeks to exercise control over personal conscience, the privacy of the human body, the intimacy of the bedroom, the expression of religious reverence.

Public morality can be, and often needs to be, legislated. Private morality should not be. If the Moral Majority had their way, they would impose their code of morality on all Americans.

MY OBJECTION to the Moral Majority is not their concern about standards of personal morality, some of which I share. I have a similar distress over the deterioration of the family, the debasement of sex, the cult of permissiveness, and the callousness with which the issue of abortion is treated.

What is dangerous about the Moral Majority is their intent to utilize the power of government to compel a nation to follow standards of personal morality.

This attempt, if successful, could inflict great injury upon our country. When such a movement gained strength before, it led to the passage of the 18th Amendment known as "Prohibititon" which produced the corruption of law enforcement agencies and other abuses.

The power of government should not be used in the name of religion to coerce citizens to follow the values of personal morality.

If one seeks further evidence, a visit to Iran under the rule of the Ayotollahs will provide the conlcusive judgment.

Canton wrestlers secure 1st league title

Dan Chrenko had reason to celebrate.

The Plymouth Canton wrestling coach had waited eight years for his dream to come true. His Chiefs won their first Western Six League crown at Farmington Harrison last Friday by edging their closest competitor, Walled Lake Western, by 9½ points.

Canton totaled 165½ points and had three league champions. Western took second with 156. Waterford Mott was a surprising third with 108.

"This is the greatest thing that's ever happened in my coaching career," said the jubilant Chrenko. "That's been our goal ever since we first came into this league. It's our first title and I'm really going to treasure it."

Chrenko said "the most pleasing aspect of this championship is that everyone contributed."

The Chiefs placed in 12 of 13 weight classes.

The Canton coach was confident his team could win the title after senior Kevin Santilli decisioned Churchill's Mike Cohan in the 138-pound final, 6-1.

"When Kevin beat his man," Chrenko recalled, "I thought we were in pretty good shape, but we really didn't know until our last two kids wrestled."

Besides Santilli, other Canton individual champs included Todd Bartlett (98) and Brian Lee (132).

Bartlett, a sophomore, pinned Northville's Steve Ross with only two seconds left in the third period. And Lee, one of the team's most improved wrestlers, decisioned Harrison's Don Gully for the crown, 6-2.

The Chiefs also had three finalists — Steve Hamblin (145), Bob Mullen (155) and Brett Haarala (126).

Hamblin, who won the 145-pound title last year, was beaten by Bob Cushing of Northville, 15-0. Mullen was upended by Mott's Tom Zimbovic, 8-3.

CANTON PILED up valuable points with some unexpected help in the upper weight divisions, a weak spot all season long.

Heavyweight Craig Gearns pinned two opponents enroute to a fourth place finish. He defaulted his consolation match because of a knee injury.

In another surprise, Don Page (185) decisioned Greg Wolley of Churchill, 6-4, to claim third place. Canton's Mike Dupuis (167) also gained a place (fourth) to help the Chiefs' cause.

Other Canton wrestlers earning spots included Todd Gattoni (105), fourth; Tim Collins (112), third; and Kevin Decker (119), third.

"Gearns, Page and Dupuis scored the points we needed," Chrenko added. "We worked real hard all year with the upper weights and it finally paid off.

"This is where we want the Plymouth Canton program to be We set goals early in the year and it feels good to accomplish some of them. I think our kids believe now.

"I just thank God for everyone's support. We had about 50 to 60 people in the stands again rooting for us. I have to also say thanks for the job done by my assistants — Dan Riggs and Tom Garrett."

Canton will now focus its strength on the Class A district tournament Saturday at Ann Arbor Huron. That meet begins at 11 a.m.

Basketball, swimming rescheduled

Storm blankets prep sports

By DOUG FUNKE

A mid-winter blast of snow, rain and ice sent area basketball, swimming and wrestling teams to the showers early Tuesday on the high-school athletic scene.

Showers, heck, they didn't even get out of the lockerroom.

When school is cancelled or let our early due to deteriorating weather conditions, it usually doesn't make any sense to go through with sporting events later that night.

That's what happened Tuesday, when a normally busy night for athletics suddenly became as quiet as a mausoleum at midnight.

Several of the postponed events were important as far as neighborhood bragging rights, setting new school records or qualifying for the Catholic League Basketball Playoffs are concerned.

The annual intra-district basketball clash between Wayne and Westland John Glenn was postponed and tentatively rescheduled to Feb. 24.

Wayne defeated the Rockets 54-53 earlier this year in the finals of the Cherry Hill Christmas Tournament and Glenn coach Dan Henry was looking forward to the rematch.

"We were sky high," Henry said.

Glenn, like most area teams, didn't even get to practice Tuesday when school recessed early. However, Henry wasn't too concerned about the unexpected day off.

"At this point in the year, I don't think you have to practice every day," he said. "A day or two off, I don't think, will hurt you."

ALSO POSTPONED was the Detroit Catholic Central-Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher game.

In one of the few prep games played Tuesday, Class B power Detroit DeLaSalle upset Birmingham Brother Rice 69-58.

The win virtually assures DeLaSalle a Catholic League playoff berth. Catholic Central is still contending for a spot.

The Catholic League, coincidentally, set tomorrow as a snow date (makeup date) before the season even began.

The Shamrocks will play Gallagher tonight instead of Friday. Gallagher, reportedly, had already scheduled a non-league game Friday.

The Plymouth Salem-Livonia Franklin basketball game was one of the first events officially postponed Tuesday. That game was off by mid-morning. It has been rescheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 24 as will the Plymouth Canton at Dearborn contest.

Garden City West, which was to have played Dearborn Heights Crestwood in a Tri-River League game, will also meet Feb. 24.

The Tri-River League, fortunately, also left that date open in case of bad weather earlier in the season.

Other interesting non-league games which were postponed include Redford Union at Livonia Bentley and Livonia Churchill at Birmingham Groves.

Those games will be most likely be rescheduled. The Michigan High School Athletic Association allows only two games per week and, with the season quickly winding down, problems with open dates or convenient dates could arise.

LIVONIA STEVENSON was to wrestle Garden City East in its final dual meet of the season. The Spartans could have set a new school record for most wins in a season (14) with a victory.

However, the Spartans were pinned by the weather.

Stevenson coach Larry Ruzsas was not too optimistic about rescheduling. He said that East was not that keen on wrestling Stevenson between its league meet last weekend and the state districts this weekend to begin with.

Even if the meet is not rescheduled, the Spartans can still draw comfort from forging the best winning record in a season with its 13-3 ledger.

The Metro West Conference Meet, to be hosted by Clarenceville, was postponed and rescheduled to 5 p.m. next Tuesday (Feb. 17). The Trojans have designs on a league championship.

THE ANNUAL swimming confrontation between Garden City East and Garden City West was tentatively rescheduled for March 2.

East coach Ron Clifton saw pluses and minuses in the snow-out.

"I had a couple of kids who were a little sick and it (postponement) might have helped in that regard," he said. "But, as far as our schedule, I would have rather gone."

Other meets which athletic directors and coaches will try to reschedule include Livonia Stevenson at Livonia Bentley and North Farmington at Westland John Glenn. The Northville at Plymouth Canton dual meet has been rescheduled for Feb. 24.

Chiefs win easy; Rock spikers fall

Accurate serving propelled Plymouth Canton to a 15-13, 15-2 volleyball triumph over Northville Monday night in a Western Six League match.

The Chiefs, who missed only two serves all night, upped their league record to 4-3.

In the first game, Canton jumped out to a 9-2 advantage. The Mustangs, however, fought back to take an 11-9 edge against Canton's weaker rotation.

Behind the solid setting of senior Marianne Pink, Canton rallied to hold off the hard-charging Northville squad.

"The second game was all serves," said Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein. "And we were really consistent."

Senior Mary Reardon served Canton's first nine points of the second game. Teammate Polly Roberts got the Chiefs' 10th point. She was followed by Denise Wright, who served out the match.

Ranked teams rule Sub 8 mats

Plymouth Salem wasn't expected to win the Suburban Eight League wrestling title, but the Rocks made a strong showing anyway last weekend at Dearborn Edsel Ford.

Belleville, one of the state's top-ranked teams, won the team title with 198 points. Trenton, also ranked in top five (Class A), took second spot with 192. Salem finished third with 171.

"We did a real good job," said Salem coach Ron Krueger. "We've won the league two times and never scored this many points.

"We're already looking ahead to next year. We have a lot of good kids coming back."

One of those top returnees is sophomore Jeff Vojcek, who won the 98-pound crown with a 9-2 decision over Darrin Harris of Belleville in the final.

The Rocks' other two individual champs were seniors Billy Ward (119) and Steve Szilagyi (167).

Ward, who has wrestled at 126 pounds most of the year, dropped down to 119 and upset the field. He defeated Dave Zacharias of Dearborn, 5-2, in the championship match.

"I feel 119 was one of the toughest weight classes," said Krueger. "There were two tough kids from Belleville and Trenton who were dominating all year. Bill just did a real nice job there."

Szilagyi, who has been hampered by injuries in recent weeks, pounded Trenton's Kevin Heaney in the final, 10-3, to raise his season record to 30-4.

SALEM'S Bruce Bachman reached the finals at 145 pounds before losing a heartbreaker to Belleville's Lonnie Renfroe. Bachman was leading 7-0 until late in the final period when he was pinned (5:21).

"I was disappointed because he got caught, but I'm not disappointed in his wrestling," said Krueger. "He looked good all day."

Another Salem finalist was senior Rob Price (155), who gained the final against Belleville's Lynn Kinsey, but was unable to claim the crown because of an ankle injury. The Salem tri-captain had to default after his semifinal win.

At 198 pounds, Salem's Scott Wickens lost in the final to Trenton's Tom Gay, 7-3.

Other Salem wrestlers who placed included heavyweight Marty Piper, third; Adam Golchuck (185), third; Randy Beaudoin (138), third; Rob McDonald (132), third; John Beaudoin (126), fourth; and Dave Lucas (112), fourth.

Salem will now compete in the Class A district tournament Saturday at Ann Arbor Huron.

"I don't want to make any predictions," said the Salem coach. "It depends on how many kids we got going. We have to stay away from injuries."

In each instance, Plymouth put on a comeback. Against Redford Union, the rally came in the final period. In the battle with Franklin, the Plymouth explosion transpired midway in the 2nd period. Against RU, the leading scorers for Plymouth were Mike Kubik-18 points, Greg Corrigan-17 points, Mike Stakias-13 points, and Jerry Latham-13 points. The Rocks had 4 players in double figures in the Franklin game - Corrigan-19 points, Kubik-17 points, Latham-13 points and Jeff Adams-10 points.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL
Flashback

In February, 1968, a double disqualification in the 400 yard freestyle relay, their event of the evening, enabled Redford Union swimmers to stick Plymouth 67-66, in one of the most thrilling Suburban Six League dual meets of the season. The second double disqualification came in the relay when the Patriots nailed a Plymouth swimmer who jumped from the block too soon in an exchange and then made a similar ruling against Redford Union. The Rocks captured the 200 yard individual medley (Bob Hurrell), 100 yard butterfly (Pat McCord), and the 400 yard backstroke (Craig Blackburn). This was Redford Union's 2nd triumph over Plymouth.

In Western Wayne Invitational

Salem swimmers finish 1st

The Suburban Eight League showed its prowess last weekend by copping a pair of Western Wayne Swim Invitational titles.

Plymouth Salem won the seven-team event at Wayne Memorial and Belleville captured the crown at Inkster Cherry Hill. Both are members of the Suburban Eight which will disolve after the 1981-82 school year.

Plymouth Canton, coached by Bill McCord, finished sixth out of seven teams at Cherry Hill.

Salem's success was achieved by its 400-yard freestyle team of John Thompson, Tim Harwood, Russ Shaffer and Doug Kleinsmith. The Rocks' foursome clinched the meet in the final event with a first place time of 3:28.0.

That gave the Rocks first overall with 305 points. Wayne Memorial, which placed second to Salem in the relay, settled for second overall with 296.

Rounding out the field at Wayne were Livonia Franklin, third, 175; Redford Thurston, fourth, 106; Garden City West, fifth, 101; Dearborn Heights Annapolis, sixth, 86; Dearborn Heights Robichaud, seventh, 75.

It was Salem's first invitational crown. Earlier this year the Rocks finished second in the West Bloomfield and Plymouth-Canton Rotary meets.

"This is the best team I've ever had," said Olson, whose squad is 8-1-1 overall in dual meets.

"We were a little tired after swimming on Thursday and Friday. We may have been a little over-confident going into the meet. They thought this would be a breeze. Wayne Memorial had a lot of depth.

"We were behind going into the finals. Then we had to get it going on Saturday."

THE ROCKS began to roll in the championship races.

Junior Russ Shaffer helped Salem's cause with first place finishes in the 200 individual medley and 500 freestyle. Teammate Joe Rudelic won the diving.

The foursome of Bruce Harwood, Gary Workman, Jeff Kleinsmith and Paul Perkowski gave Salem a sweep of the relays when they touched the board first in the 200 medley event.

Wayne's Eric Head was a double winner. He captured first in the 50 freestyle (23.1) and 100 freestyle (51.4).

Franklin's Brad George took first place in the 100 butterfly.

At Cherry Hill, Belleville had only one individual champ, but parlayed its depth to win the crown.

Livonia Stevenson, which had two champs, finished second followed by Cherry Hill, third; Wyandotte, fourth; Westland John Glenn, fifth; Plymouth Canton, sixth; and Garden City East, seventh.

Glenn's Greg Dawkins came away with first place finishes in the 200- and 500-freestyle events. He edged Cherry Hills Martin Powers with a time of 4:59.72 in the 500.

Rob Pavlic of Stevenson won the 100 butterfly and teammate Pat Schoff came home first in the 100 backstroke.

Canton's lone first place finish was recorded by its 200 medley relay squad of Bob Simrak, Jim Luce, Ron Hurley and Pete Stern. They were clocked in 1:47.4, a season best.

Simrak gained second in the 100 backstroke with a time of 1:02.4.

Soccer squads wanted

Registration is now being held for the Great Lakes Women's Soccer League's (GLWSL) summer season.

The GLWSL is a senior women's league. It's the only women's soccer league in the state to be affiliated with the Michigan Soccer Association (MSA) and the United States Soccer Federation (USSF).

Each team is limited to 18 players. Only seven names, however, are needed to register. Women 18 and over are encouraged to form a team. Each squad, however, is allowed to sign up three players under 18 years.

The league will be divided into two divisions: A (experienced teams) and B (new teams).

Registration packets may be obtained by calling or writing: Sheri Lynn Takacs, GLWSL Secretary, 263 Landon, East Lansing 48825. Phone: (517) 355-7400. Or Paula Hockswter, GLWSL Vice President, 8892 Cooley Lake Road, Union Lake 48085. Phone: 360-1099.

Twelve teams from across the state competed in last year's program, which ran from Memorial Day through Labor Day.

The GLWSL was represented by two teams last year in the Women's Washington D.C. Soccer Tournament. Those teams placed fifth and 13th, respectively, out of 24 entrants.

Doubles mark bites the dust

in the pocket/W.W. Edgar

The reign of the Detroit area's two young bowling stars — Cheryl Daniels and Aleta Rzepecki — as holders of the Women's International Bowling Congress record for doubles competition didn't last very long.

A short time ago, they posted a 1475 series, but last week two women from Dallas, Tex., combined for a 1579 to take over the role.

The duo consisted of Merrill Alexander and Susie Reichley, with Merrill contributing an 804 series that was most unusual.

She rolled a 268 triplicate. It was the highest ever rolled by a woman in sanctioned competition.

ONE FOR THE BOOKS. When it comes to unusual feats on a bowling lane, Mary Sharp of Akron. Ohio, rolled a perfect game last week and had 11 "Brooklyn" hits.

After this performance, she put her final ball right in the pocket and her feat is all the more unusual in that she carries a 167 average.

ANOTHER RECORD. The bowlers of the nation have set another record. They contributed $763,515.81 to the Bowlers Victory Legion, the largest sum ever for a single season.

This total brought their donations up to $10 million in the 38 years the fund has been in existence.

SPEAKING OF RECORDS, the sharpshooters in the Pile Drivers League at Plaza Lanes went on a spree last week and posted three 700 series — the first time ever in the loop.

Dennis Seeman was the top scorer when he linked games of 277, 230 and 257 for 764.

John Shilevinski was next with games of 244, 257 and 247 for 748, and in third place came Joe Barbee with counts of 243, 246 and 226 for 717.

On the ladies side, Sharron Fletcher posted a 630 that included a 221 finisher.

BOB GRINIER qualified for the 700 club at Westland when he laced games of 224, 263 and 256 for a 743 and Dan Porter took the runner-up spot with 675.

Cunningham awaits supreme gym test

Everybody got into the act Monday night as the Plymouth Canton gymnastics team vaulted past Westland John Glenn, 79.10-70.55.

Canton coach John Cunningham, whose team is now 7-2 overall in dual meets, used eight gymnasts in the non-league event.

"We were getting a lot of kids into the meet," he said. "It allows much more of a team effort and it gives some of the other girls more experience. I got in everybody I could."

The Chiefs, who finished 10 points below their normal output, still won comfortably.

Junior Laurie Beale again led the way by winning the floor exercise (8.35) and uneven parallel bars (7.95). She also placed second in vault with a score of 7.15 from the judges.

Her teammate, junior Laura Michalik, won the vault (7.85) and took second in floor exercise (7.6).

Other Canton gymnasts who placed in vault included Amy Albaugh, fourth, 6.2; and Ruthann Trout, fifth, 5.55.

Dawn Rodgers of Glenn captured first in the balance beam (6.2). Canton's Lisa Lovich (5.4) and Kris Kobman (4.85) finished sixth and eighth, respectively.

Amy Albaugh and Lovich gained third and fourth, respectively, in floor exercise with scores of 7.2 and 6.7.

In uneven bars, other Canton gymnasts who placed included Dana Wasiak, fifth, 4.35; Kobman, seventh, 4.25; and Lovich, eighth, 4.15.

LOVICH, a freshman, recorded first place in all-around with a score of 21.60. She edged Albaugh, another freshman standout, who scored 21.50.

Canton will compete beginning at 4 p.m. Friday in the Ann Arbor Huron Invitational.

The meet will draw the state's 12 top-ranked teams.

Among the contenders are defending Class A champ East Kentwood with sophomore standout Jody Thompson, North Farmington, Troy, Troy Athens, Ann Arbor Pioneer and host Huron.

"It's going to be tough," predicted Cunningham. "The teams with depth will score well. If you don't have depth, you won't win.

"We have a real good chance. We're looking forward to it."

Avon future depends on agreement

By BRAD EMONS

Concerns and questions were circulating about last week on the future of the Avon Tennis Championships of Detroit.

Despite a lack of "name players," attendance for the event at Cobo Arena was on a par with 1979 figures.

The tourney has been smartly promoted and presented by the Junior League of Birmingham, a non-profit organization which has raised over $800,000 for various area charities over the past 11 years.

But as Women's Tennis Association executive vice-president Jerry Diamond succinctly puts it: "A black cloud has formed over Detroit."

For the past three years, some of the game's most popular players have skipped the Detroit women's pro stop.

Tracy Austin, one of the game's superstars, was originally scheduled to attend, but pulled out just prior to the tourney because of a hamstring injury. Other injured or sick "name players" unable to play included Chris Evert-Lloyd, Billie Jean King and 16-year-old phenom Andrea Jaeger.

Other notable absentees included Martina Navratilova, Virginia Wade, Kathy Jordan and Dianne Fromholtz.

Evonne Goolagong Cawley, who won the women's singles crown at Wimbledon last summer, is on a maternity leave.

That left only Hana Mandlikova, ranked No. 5 in the world, to pick up the slack.

"OBVIOUSLY we're disappointed," said tournament chairman Niki Gallaudet, representing the Junior League. "I still feel that it can be successful.

"It's a fantastic fund raiser."

Exactly 45,289 customers paid to see Avon Tennis over a seven-day span in Detroit last year.

Gallaudet was confident that Detroit could draw well, if not better than last year, despite the absence of well-known personalities.

"A lot of our pre-ticket sales were based on the injured players," Gallaudet said. "It could be a problem in the future."

The Junior League's main complaint has been that the Women's Tennis Association (WTA) has not lived up to their binding agreement.

"We are informed that these cancellations have been made for medical reasons," said Gallaudet. "However, they clearly demonstrate the WTA's failure to honor its long-standing commitments and they reflect their inability to guarantee a minimum strength of field for approved tournaments."

An Avon player must commit to five of 11 tour stops. The schedules are made back in October with the help of WTA consultation.

"They need to be able to back up their agreement," said Gaullaudet, "and they haven't done it. It's happened repeatedly here. They know how we feel disatisfied.

"THIS YEAR the excuses are legitimate. If someone is hurt, you can't ask them to play, but we'd like to have one of the top three players in the world here.

"But we have to have some kind of guarantee. I try to be more positive. There is still a good field of players. And you'll still see good tennis."

The tournament prize money this year was reduced from $150,000 to $125,000 by the Junior League because of a lack of commitment from the top world-ranked players. The WTA was also fined $3,000.

Gallaudet said continuation of Avon in Detroit will be left up to the rank-and-file members of the Junior League.

"Our members will vote on it in the spring," said the tourney chairman. "It's going to be a tougher decision this year. They're going to have to stop and think if they want to take another chance."

Trish Faulkner, who resides in Bloomfield Hills, has been on the administrative staff of WTA for the past six years. She currently is in charge of special projects and is head tour director, working with the players on a daily basis.

"Everyone in Detroit has reason to be skeptical and angry," said Faulkner, "but I'd hate to see the Junior League give this up.

"THE PUBLIC and the media have to realize and take a good hard look that the competition doesn't drop off. There already have been some good upsets in the first and second rounds.

"I haven't heard one player say they don't want to play here. The Junior League does a fabulous job. We asked every player that was fit if they could possibly play. I'm sure there were some phone calls when they found out Tracy (Austin) wasn't coming, asking for their money back.

Faulkner, a former tour player herself, forsees changes during next decade in women's tennis.

"There are two things," she said. "We are confident there will be no longer total domination by one player.

"And it's up to us to make the public more aware of someone like (Susan) Mascarin. A Bettina Bunge may not reach No. 1, but she's an exciting player to watch."

Rocks lack 'teamwork'

Burnstein also credited her team with some timely spikes.

"We were making the points when we were spiking," she said.

Debbie Dickinson totaled eight "good" spikes while teammates Reardon and Robyn Hudgins had four each.

It was Canton's third straight victory. The Chiefs are now 5-4 overall.

SALEM-DEARBORN

Plymouth Salem fell victim Monday to Suburban Eight League leader Dearborn, 15-4, 15-10.

Dearborn, 7-0 in league matches, had little trouble winning the first game.

"They just did not play well," said Salem coach Cathy Himes, assessing her team's performance. "I thought our passing was better, but the team wasn't together."

The lone bright spot for the Rocks, according to Himes, was the play of sophomore Jacque Merrifield.

"She was our best player tonight," said Himes. "Jacque served six in a row in the second game."

Salem, which has not yet played a non-league opponent, fell to 3-4 in the Suburban Eight.

Attention Sweethearts!

Your Valentine may be here. You may have a creative, with-it admirer who found a very special way to say "I Love You." Or you may be a creative, with-it admirer who placed an adorable, heartfelt, or comic Valentine in the columns below. If you are, let us compliment you on your originality and good taste and suggest that you circle your message in red and bestow it on your loved one. If you aren't — of well, there's always something less interesting like a hastily purchased box of candy. And you can make a note to call us next year. We had such fun playing cupid this year, we'll probably sharpen our arrows, hire a few cupids and do it all over again next year.
