Schools polish final proposal on boundaries

What the school board hopes will be its final redistricting plan will be unveiled at a public hearing Thursday.

The hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium of the music and gym building (Phase III) of Plymouth Canton High School — between Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools.

A number of changes in the school board's Plan III was made as a result of four public hearings held Feb. 16-19.

Trustees agreed to the changes at a special workshop study session on March 3 in Last Middle School.

At that hearing the board acted on various requests and approved or disapproved as follows:

• Old Lake Pointe area (Garland, Bradner, Hammill, and Clemons): Group of 21 children returned to Farrand instead of being transferred to Tanger. Approved.

• Area east of Sheldon, west of Main, south of Ann Arbor Trail, north of Ann Arbor Road: 78 students asked to remain at West Middle instead of transferring to East. Approved.

• Forest Trail/Hampton Court, area south of Joy, north of Warren, east of Canton Center, west of Sheldon: 118 students now attending Central; Plan III had proposed dividing between East and West; now all to attend West Middle. Approved.

• Canton Country Acres, Roundtable area south of Palmer Road: 66 students who were at Miller and were proposed to attend Field. Will remain at Miller. Approved.

• Cherry Hill Orchards, south of Cherry Hill and west of Lilley: Proposal was to move from Field to Eriksson. Decided to leave as many at Field as walkers as is safe (with administration working with parents) and consider some safety busing. Goal is to have as many walk to Field safely as possible.

• Old Plymouth area, north of Penniman, east of Sheldon over to Ann Street: 120 students previous scheduled to attend Central will now go to West as walkers. Approved.

• Finch-Lakeland Court area: Under Plan III would go to Tanger but request made to remain at Farrand. Impact of change on Tanger would be down to 200 students. Poll of board indicated leaving this group of students at Tanger. Approved.

• Timberlea Farms area, north of Ann Arbor Road and east of I-275: Proposed to move to Tanger and request made that students be allowed to remain at Allen. Number of alternatives considered and group surveyed and decided to remain at Tanger.

• Trailwood II and III and Quail Hollow: 151 students to go to Smith; request made to attend Bird. Disapproved.

• Area of Joy, Ann Arbor Road, Mill and Main (Rocker Subdivision): Elementary pupils to Allen and middle

Study committee lays foundation for farm tax vote

A township expenditure of $21,000-$60,000 is needed before holding another tax increase request for farmland preservation.

So says a committee of citizens, farmers and township officials that was charged last Jan. 5 with determining the preliminary work and study for another ballot question.

Dianne Neihengen, who chairs the farmland retention committee with former Supervisor Noel Culbert, said $39,000 of that amount would be used to update a 1977 study on the cost benefits of buying development rights.

She calls that expenditure "optional." But at least $21,000 is needed for legal opinions on a variety of development rights questions, part-time help for the planning department study of the issue, and appraisals of land in the farmland district.

The Township Board is expected to discuss the committee's recommendations at either its regular March 10 meeting or a special meeting scheduled for March 17.

CONCERN THAT the farmland issue has dragged on too long prompted the Township Board to tap the committee for work suggestion in January.

The majority of the Township Board has indicated that a tax increase election to buy development rights should be held within the year. In November 1978, voters defeated a request for up to four mills ($4 per $1,000 assessed property valuation) by a 53-47 margin.

Although most of the land west of Canton Center already has been designated for permanent agricultural use, township officials legally are obligated to compensate landowners for the lost ability to develop the property.

Under the development rights proposal, the township would pay property owners the difference between the agricultural value of the land and the possible price paid by a developer.

Prior to the 1978 election, the consulting firm of Wade, Trim & Associates estimated the costs of development rights at $15.2 million for 4,750 acres of land.

Ms. Neihengen said the farmland retention committee believe that figure must be reviewed. Members are recommending another appraisal of land in the farmland district for an estimated cost of $1,500.

The committee also suggests an inventory of all agriculturally zoned parcels and an assessment of each parcel's agricultural potential.

The results of that work would be used to compute an updated estimate on a development rights price tag.

IN ADDITION, the committee believes an attorney's opinion is needed to answer questions surrounding the development rights proposal.

The committee's questions concern the township's obligation to obtain all development rights money at one time and when development rights must be bought to avoid lawsuits charging confiscation of property rights, Ms. Neihengen said.

The group estimated the cost of legal counsel at $10,000. Other necessary expenditures include a $5,000 cost for informational literature which would be

Look, ma, no ruts!

Ruts and pot holes on Canton's dirt roads are a major gripe among residents. This winter's unseasonably warm weather has given the Wayne County Road Commission a head start on grading work. They don't need a car with NTC buses around

By ARLENE FUNKE

Senior citizens from Royal Holiday mobile home park in Canton have a weekly standing order to ride to Westland Shopping Center on the Nankin Transit Commission buses.

Forty mentally retarded adults each day use the bus service to ride to a sheltered workshop where they earn money and make friends.

A blind woman from Wayne — who uses the buses to go to classes and recreational services — calls the Nankin Transit bus system her salvation.

Several dozen working persons are picked up at their homes and driven to major roadways such as Michigan Avenue or Ford Road, where they transfer to a larger bus, which goes to downtown Detroit. And students from Canton use the Nankin Transit buses to attend parochial school classes in Wayne.

THESE PERSONS are typical riders on the Nankin Transit Commission, which runs 17 mini-buses within Wayne, Westland, Canton, Garden City and Inkster.

The service was established in 1976 to give transportation to senior citizens and handicapped persons in those communities. Since then, it has been expanded to other groups.

Two-thirds of Nankin Transit's operating budget comes from the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA). The the participating communities also pay a portion.

Nankin Transit files show the service provides 10,000 rides per month.

But Carol Winkler — assistant director of the NTC — believes many residents in those five communities are uninformed of the dial-a-ride service.

"They know it's a bus system," said Ms. Winkler. "But there it (the knowledge) stops.

"I feel there are a lot of handicapped people out there who don't realize what we're all about — and that we're available to them."

Nankin Transit dispatch supervisor Beth Todd said most of the calls come from Westland residents. She attributes that several senior citizen apartment units being in that city.

Fewest come from Canton and Inkster.

"Probably not enough people are aware of the service," said Ms. Todd. "We're trying to get to the people in Canton and Inkster."

Ms. Winkler and Ms. Todd say the busy phone lines often discourage would-be riders, who have to wait several minutes to complete their requests.

Another drawback is the small print of the schedules published by SEMTA. Seniors have difficulty reading the words and numbers.

Most callers are able to arrange dial-

Here's how to get NTC service

Wondering how to use the dial-a-ride service offered by Nankin Transit Commission?

Persons who live in Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Canton and Inkster are eligible for the service.

It is primarily aimed at serving the needs people over 55 and handicapped persons. However, limited service is available to anyone during certain periods.

Here's the format:

- Nankin Transit dispatchers in Westland accept phone requests between 8 a.m. - 3 3:30 p.m., for next-day service. Persons are encouraged to call early in the day.

Buses generally are available weekdays between 7 a.m.-6:30 p.m.

- Because Canton covers such a large area, riders from the township are asked to call for service two days in advance.
- Persons confined to wheelchairs should inform the dispatcher. They also should allow two days notice for service.

IN ADDITION, persons in the five participating communities may arrange for commuter services during early morning and late afternoon hours.

Under this plan, they are picked up at their homes and taken to main bus lines along major roadways. There, they transfer to another bus going into downtown Detroit.

Weekend service for anyone is available between 9 a.m.-3 p.m. on both Saturdays and Sundays.

Blind riders pay no fare. Seniors and handicapped persons pay 60 cents one way for the first two zones of travel.

Fares for others is $1.20 one way.

To arrange for a dial-a-ride service, call 729-2710. To cancel a previously arranged pickup, call 729-7999.

Aiming at Dye Brothers

Study focuses on attraction of jobs

A $3,500 study on ways to provide jobs for low- and moderate-income persons has been authorized by the Township Board.

The study will provide an industrial development plan for Dye Brothers subdivision near Michigan and Sheldon, said Clerk John Flodin. The township plans to buy the entire 200-lot residential area with money from the federal community block grant program and convert the subdivision for industrial uses.

The grant was approved three years ago by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to provide jobs for low- and moderate-income persons.

HUD officials recently asked the township to explain how it would meet that goal.

THE $3,500 study, to be conducted by the consulting firm of Wade, Trim & Associates, will address HUD's concerns. The study also will suggest ways to subdivide the 40-acre subdivision for industrial use as well as ways to market the land, said grant coordinator Terry Carroll.

Giving tax incentives to industries that hire low- and moderate-income persons would be one way to meet that goal, Carroll said.

"The questions are being raised because we're applying for another program year," said Carroll of the letter from HUD. "They want to know what's been done to develop the plan."

The township already has received $300,000 in federal money to buy lots in Dye Brothers. Nothing was done to spend any of the money until last December. Since then, the township has extended purchase offers for all houses and vacant lots on Washburn.

THE TOWNSHIP must submit results of the Wade, Trim study to the Wayne County Office of Intergovernmental Affairs and Management by March 15, Carroll said.

The county agency administers the federal community block grant program for communities.

"The HUD letter came along as we were talking internally about developing a project plan," Carroll said.

Last week, the Township Board authorized the study by a 6-1 vote. Trustee Carol Bodenmiller dissented.

Jury is still out on foster care home issue

By JACKIE KLEIN

The jury is still out on whether small group foster care homes are castles in the sky for the mentally impaired.

But the almost universal verdict is that residents don't want living among them persons who are "different," who threaten neighborhood security and who jeapordize property values.

Social service and mental health officials, for the most part, believe adult foster care homes in residential areas are ideal settings for institutionalized patients who deserve a second chance to belong and fit into "normal" society.

Another argument in favor of community facilities is that they're less costly than institutions and better serve the needs of patients who have improved.

But on the other side of the coin is the opinion of some mental health workers that patients who really need the supervision of an institution are being placed in small group homes.

This premature move often causes fear and confusion among these patients as well as neighborhood residents, according to some in the mental health field.

THAT SMALL GROUP home placements may only last a week, a month or a year until foster care residents do something inappropriate and are sent back to be confined within the gray walls of the institution is the contention of many cynics.

Psychiatrist Dr. Emanuel Tanay maintains mentally troubled persons working out long-term emotional problems in community homes are potential risks to their neighbors.

Statistics show that the emotionally disturbed are no more crime-prone than the general population, others claim. It would be tough to get a consensus on the meanings of emotionally disturbed, mentally impaired, mentally troubled and mentally ill. There's a fine line between these labels.

OAKLAND COUNTY Circuit Court Judge Robert Webster last week continued a temporary restraining order against the licensee and prospective owner of a proposed adult foster care home for six mentally retarded adults in Southfield's Greentrees subdivision.

A lawsuit to block state licensing of the 12 Mile-Lahser area home was brought by homeowners in December and the city joined in the legal action. The six women residents who were to occupy the home are patients in Clinton Valley Center in Pontiac.

Webster's ruling allows placement of emotionally disturbed adults in the Greentrees facility but precludes placement of the mentally ill pending outcome of the trial.

Board cuts back on job positions

Township officials have eliminated 27 vacent jobs in an effort to cut spending.

All 27 positions were vacant either because of layoffs or attrition.

To fill those jobs now, department heads must submit written justification to the Township Board for the creation of new positions.

In requesting board action on the issue last week, Supervisor James Poole warned that hard economic times could force the elimination of other township jobs.

"I think you can look forward not just to the elimination of vacant positions, but to some positions occupied by people right now," he said.

The positions eliminated last week include seven laborer jobs in the DPW, six clerk-typists, one police sergeant, one accounting clerk in the finance department, one deputy building official, one plan examiner for the building department, one plumbing inspector, one electrical inspector, six building inspectors, one building department helper and one firefighter, said Clerk John Flodin.

The township employs 128 fulltime workers, according to a spokesman for the finance department.

Some of the vacant positions eliminated last week could be created again if supervisors can demonstate a severe shortage of workers in their departments, Poole said.

school students to East. Would not be walkers.

• Amherst Court area west of Beck between Powell and M-14: 26 children involved; asked to remain at Bird and West. Board approved this group to remain at Bird.

• Brookfiew Village Apartments: This group under Plan III was to be bused to Fiegel but now will be going to Field. Because of overcrowding at Field, decision was made to move students to Fiegel. Request to move to Field was disapproved.

• Green Meadows subdivision between Joy and Ann Arbor Road and between Sheldon and Main: Request made to remain at Isbister ESY rather than change to Smith TSY. Safety busing assured if attend Smith. Request disapproved.

• Fellows Creek Apartments west of Sheldon between Saltz and Ford: 140 students now at Hulsing proposed to move to Farrand. Was hoped this move would be permanent and to utilize Farrand to fullest. Approved 67 students below Fellows Creek would still attend Hulsing and all others would attend Farrand.

• Sheldon, Joy, Canton Center ano Ann Arbor Road (area back of Great Scott): Now attending West Middle and proposed to atteno Pioneer. No sidewalks in area and safety busing needed. Feeder system and its advantages discussed. Approved that area north of Ann Arbor Road, east of railroad in Allen attendance area move to ?entral Middle and balance attend Pioneer.

Carol Davis, board president, noted that of the citizen requests made the board was able to approve eight and disapprove six.

IN REALIGNMENT of grades, the following decisions were made:

Elementaries with K-6 grades would be Allen, Bird, Farrand, Gallimore, Hulsing, Isbister, Smith, Starkweather and Tanger elementaries;

Elementaries with K-5 grades would be Eriksson, Fiegel, Field and Miller with Geer Elementary being 1-6;

Middle schools with grades 7-9 will be West and Central while middle schools with grades 6-9 would be East, Pioneer and Lowell.

East would get its sixth graders from Fiegel, Pioneer get its sixth graders from Miller, and Lowell get its sixth graders from Eriksson and Fiegel.

On the issue of ESY vs. portables, Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business, said if Bird and Fiegel did not go on the ESY schedule six portables would be needed at Bird and seven at Fiegel.

Hoedel said use of portables would increase operating costs by $639,000 while putting the two schools on ESY would increase operating costs by $512,000.

Dale Goby, director of transportation, noted that split sessions would result in an increased cost for busing and this added cost would be greater than the ESY cost for Bird and Fiegel. Goby said the added cost would be $139 per pupil at the high school level.

Other added costs of split sessions discussed were clerical, staff, cleaning, night premiums, guidance, and counseling.

The board decided that putting all 'inth graders in one building would provide no help to the high schools, would not provide boundary stability, and was not a long-range plan.

Group prefers split days

A parents' group is expected to unveil its plan for dealing with overcrowding in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. The group will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Called the Plymouth-Canton Concerned Parents Alliance, the group opposes the school board's plan to put both Fiegel and Bird elementary schools on the Extended School Year (ESY) plan next year.

Spokesman Roland Thomas of Plymouth Township said his group's plan favors the use of split sessions at both high schools over the school board's plan to extend ESY to elementary schools on the traditional school year.

"Using the split session concept, we predict the district will be out of ESY within two years," he said.

Thomas said he planned to contact school board members urging their consideration of his group's proposal. The parents' plan will be rpesented to the board at its next meeting Thursday.

On Thursday, the school board will hold a public hearing to air district boundary changes, ESY extension plans and grade realignment.

The Plymouth Cultural Center is at 525 Farmer St.

Farm millage election may require more study

sent to citizens prior to an election and $5,000 for part-time pla'ning department help.

An "optional" expenditure of $39,000 was suggested to update a 1977 report conducted by Wade, Trim and the Seidman & Seidman accounting firm. The report concluded that property taxes would be lower in the long run if Canton's farmland were preserved.

The study compared the cost of buying development rights with the price of providing municipal services to a developed western Canton.

The original study did not take some factors into account, such as the school districts' operating budgets, Ms. Neihengen said.

"I personally believe that the breakeven point will come even earlier than the study showed," she said.

"Maybe we'll need that to explain to people what the savings to them would be. But the feeling of the committee is that to update that study won't save any farms. Because of the economy, we hesitate to ask for (a $39,000 study update.)"

IF THE COMMITTEE'S work plan is approved by the Township Board, the group plans a look at some alternatives to development rights.

"It (farmland preservation) may take a combination of certain things," explained township planner Jim Kosteva, who is assisting the committee in its work.

"When we talk about alternatives, it's along the lines of how can funds best be stretched by utilizing some other tools."

The establishment of a trust fund for tax-exempt farmland contributions could be one way to supplement development rights money, said Ms. Neihengen.

Other possible alternatives include buying some farmland by the township's Economic Development Corp. (EDC), which then would lease the land to farmers.

Kosteva said a limited amount of farmland could possibly be preserved through the transfer of development rights. Under that proposal, a landowner could build a higher density development than normally allowed by zoning stipulations by transferring development rights from a farming to nonfarming parcel.

The committee's proposed work plan outlines the steps that must precede a development rights election The sequence of those steps follows:

- Develop an inventory of all agriculturally-zoned parcels.
- Identify lands with the best agricultural potential.
- Update previous studies that deal with the farmland preservation issue.
- Formulate possible options to development rights.
- Present those options to the Township Board.
- Research the full ramifications of the possible alternatives.
- Submit updated research to the Township Board and request an election date, authorization to hold public hearings and other possible action.
- Develop a public education program on the farmland issue.
- Hold a special election to preserve the township's agricultural lands.

Regular members of the farmland retention committee include Trustees Carol Bodenmiller and Loren Bennett, farmers Stan Gill, Jack Suddendorf and Dennis Wilkin; resident John Schumacher; planning commissioner Neihengen; and former Supervisor Culbert. Ms. Neihengen said several other township residents have attended the committee's meetings to offer their own suggestions on farmland preservation.

Teens pull toy guns at Arby's counter

By TERI BANAS

Five cap-gun-toting teen-agers are being sought by Plymouth police after they burst into a township restaurant Thursday, ordered nine customers and four employees to "freeze," then "shot" at the employees.

The boys, wearing ski masks and black grease paint, made no attempt to injure anyone or to demand money, said Carol Stocklingsky, manager of the Arby's Roast Beef on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township.

"They held their guns just like you see on television," said Cheryl Webb, a store trainee, desribing a two-fisted gun-holding stance.

The incident, lasting only one minute, took place about 11:30 a.m. Among the customers were two small children under six years old.

"They had guns and screamed 'freeze, freeze,' about four times," said Ms. Stocklingsky, who was near a drive-in window at the time. "I thought one elderly lady at the counter was going to have a heart attack.

"I'm still shaking," she added, minutes after the incident.

The "gun-men" were described as between 16-17-years-old.

After shooting off their cap-guns, aimed across the service counter at store attendants, the boys ran out of the building and toward Rocker Street, to the west.

"THEY SEEMED serious," said one customer. "They scared the heck out of us."

"It's more than just fun and games," added Mary Ann Lehnis, a customer who was there with friends and two small children.

"There could have been some dire consequences. One of the police officers told me it's not unusual to have off-duty police officers there at that time. Those toy guns looked real. One of the boys could have been shot."

Inspector Carl Berry, of the Plymouth Police Department, likened the incident to "yelling fire in a crowded theater. It could have created a panic.

"Someone could have been hurt. The seriousness of it is what people believe it to be — and those people believed a hold-up was in progress."

Although the boys could not be identified by store employees, one worker believed one of the suspects resembeled a teen who was kicked out of Arby's the previous night for harassing customers and employees.

He was described as medium height with curly dark brown hair.

The employeesaid he was among a group of boys which stayed 15-20 minutes and walked out to the parking lot and threw baloney sandwiches at the drive-in window. They drove away in a gold Skylark.

The store manager says boys were previously warned of their behavior after causing disturbances there over a two day period. At one time, they spilled a soft drink on a customer and condiments on the floor.

Another employee believes these boys appeared at Arby's Wednesday after they were asked to leave the McDonald Restaurant at 220 W. Ann Arbor Road earlier that night.

McDonald's night manager said he could not talk about the incident.

a-ride service on one-day notice. However, requiring two days' notice are Canton riders and persons in wheelchairs.

"With the distance (to Canton), we have to allow more time," explained Ms. Todd. "A lot of people think it's punishment."

SENIORS AND handicapped persons are the backbone of the NTC service. In the past year or so, there has been expansion into other areas.

For example, the dial-a-ride for working persons carries 40 commuters during morning and afternoon travel periods.

A weekend dial-a-ride service for the general population hasn't attracted many new riders — mostly persons who use Nankin Transit during the week.

"We haven't had that much response," said Ms. Winkler. "We had hoped to reach the youth and housewives. We do get a few students."

Pat Manke of Westland has been a Nankin Transit driver for four years. She typically logs 125 miles a day on her eight-hour shift.

"You meet different people," said Mrs. Manke. "That's what I like about it."

Mrs. Manke usually begins her workday at 6:45 a.m., when she begins picking up commuters for transport to points along Michigan Avenue or Ford Road. There, the commuters will transfer to buses that take them downtown.

NEXT, Mrs. Manke picks up 8-10 retarded adults from their homes in Wayne, Westland and Inkster. They'll be going to their jobs at a sheltered workshop off Michigan Avenue in Inkster.

Mrs. Manke has gotten to know these riders over the past few years, and the mood on the bus is friendly.

Danny points out traffic problems along the way. Johnny assists new passengers getting onto the bus.

Evelyn chats about sewing and typing classes she's taking. She talks to Janie about plans for lunch (both women are on a slimming program through Weight Watchers).

When the voices get too loud, "I just turn on my radio," said Mrs. Manke, with a smile.

Later, Mrs. Manke goes back to Wayne and Westland to pick up two women and a man who are taking crafts classes for the blind at the Senior Friendship Center in Westland.

"We think this service is wonderful," said one of the women, who uses the service several times a week.

On subsequent trips, Mrs. Manke will deliver hot meals to six homebound seniors who are unable to come to the nutrition site at the Friendship Center.

She also might take seniors to the doctor or a disabled person to therapy session.

Ms. Winkler said goals of the NTC are to publicize the service and to expand dial-a-ride for the general population of the five communities.

School board weighs schedules, bus routes

Contracts for class scheduling and bus routing may be approved tonight by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The central administration is asking the school board to approve a contract with Ecosystems Inc. for bus routing and another with Westinghouse Data Score Systems for class scheduling for the high schools.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the board offices at 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

The contract with Westinghouse to produce a master schedule for Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) will be for almost $10,700.

THE COST will be split between two fiscal years — about half for the current budget year and the balance for '81-82.

The program is planned to maximize use of space, teachers, equipment and student course references at the CEP.

The major consideration in the study, said Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business, will be the effect of the shift of personnel and possibly equipment to accommodate grade realignment.

Westinghouse also will sell programing that include: handling the honor roll, frequency distribution of grades by teacher and by course, updated student listing of credits, monitoring pupil attendance, and class lists with grades and classroom attendance.

ECOSYSTEMS INC. has been used in the past to come up with a computerized program for the district's bus routes.

Currently, the firm is being used for the redistricting computer simulations involving school attendance boundaries, grade realignment and use of the Extended School Year.

The firm has been used since 1977 to develop bus routes for the school district.

Jury still is out on foster issue

Act allows the emotionally disturbed in small group homes in residential districts but limits placement of the mentally ill to larger facilities in areas other than residential neighborhoods.

That argument by Southfield Deputy City Attorney Phillip Poole was upheld by the judge. But the attorney for the licensee claims some former Clinton Valley patients who have improved, are no longer considered mentally ill but may have emotional disturbances and could be residents of the facility.

"Everyone from Clinton Valley was judged mentally ill by the court, or the patient committed himself," Poole maintains. "Patients meet the criteria of mental illness."

Rugged individualism soon will become passe

(The author, Jack Bologna of Plymouth, is president of a national management consulting firm headquartered in Plymouth.)

The last vestige of the rugged individualism for which the U.S. has been so famous are the owners of the so-called "job-shops" — small manufacturing firms which perform one, two or three operations on tools or parts destined for assembly in autos, appliances and other major consumer products.

These modern-day enterpreneurs cling dearly to a tradition and way of business which is dying and soon will become as passe as the buggy whip.

THE FACTORS which are causing the demise of these small independent firms are as follows:

1. Pressures from their customers — the large manufact urers — who keep squeezing more and more profit from them into their own coffers, by dictating unrealistic prices, delivery dates and quality standards.

2. Taxing authorities which assess their plants and equipment at the same rates as assessed against their giant rivals.

3. Wage and fringe benefit demands by unions which expect the owners to provide comparable levels of compensation with large firms.

4. Regulatory authorities who demand health and safety standards designed for large scale operations.

5. Income tax laws which discourage modernization and adoption of new technologies.

6. Estate tax laws which discourage re-investment of profits and capital formation.

THE TRAGEDY of this development lies in the fact that these dedicated men and women are by and large unaware of their short life expectancy.

They keep hoping things will get better.

They hang onto any thread of new business as though the turn-around is imminent.

But the new orders which do come in continue to flow slower and slower, the volumes called for get lower and lower, and the pricing of their output gets more and more competi tive, and their profit margins continue to shrink.

Realistic men of business affairs would have given up long before. They would have read the signs of the time: the heyday of the job shop is over.

You either go "big" or resign yourself to a marginal existance.

Or, you change the character of your business and become a specialty shop — one operation only, one part only, one type of machinery only, one customer only.

For many years, most job shops in Detroit survived at the whim of their automotive customers. When it became cheaper for the giants to make a part in-house, a bevy of their suppliers went into the "red" or out of business.

When the giants overtaxed their own manufacturing capacities, a new set of suppliers came into being with the promise of big orders.

This feast or famine situation is now playing its last string.

West principal gives response

Editor:

Although I appreciate the corrections to the Observer Feb. 23 article, headlined "West principal tells staff & public about reprimand," I do feel that because the article appeared so prominently on the front page, the corrections also should have — not on the obituary page. I need to assure you this is not a dead issue.

Because you have seen fit to make some corrections, I would like to call your attention to other errors in the article:

1. At no time did I use the word "fortitude" in my comments to the staff or at the forum.

2. I did not say that I was reprimanded for speaking out in public against the redistricting plan. However, the reprimands did come as a result of my efforts on behalf of the West students, staff and parents to inform the board and others of the West proposal and their objections to the board's Plan III.

3. The reprimands did involve two meetings, not one as the correction indicates — the administrative meeting of Feb. 2 and the board meeting of Jan. 26.

4. Dr. John M. Hoben has not identified the remarks which he says were "unprofessional" and "inappropriate." I made no charges against any principal.

5. The group to which I belong is not a principal's union. It is the Plymouth-Canton Administrators Association made up of professional educators in an administrative capacity, excluding central office staff. The agreement with the board does provide for a grievance procedure which I intended to follow.

6. My wife, Dolores, is not currently a member of the PCEA executive board.

For the life of me, I do not understand why she was mentioned in the article. I am sure she is proud of her service to this community as a Bird School teacher and as an active member of the PCEA and one of its former officers. I am also proud of her.

It might have been better to describe her as one of the hundreds of dedicated, quality teachers in this district who are almost totally responsible for the fine reputation we have enjoyed over the years.

The article is correct when it states I have been a leader in opposing grade re-alignment. I also oppose the board's Plan III as being too expensive, providing for inferior programs, and further dividing the community, inflicting increased disruption in families of school-age youngsters.

When the board moved toward grade re-alignment, we had a reasonable, stable economic climate, and we were a rapidly growing community. Now we have neither. Our economic conditions are very shaky, and we have a declining student enrollment.

Reprimands were unjust

Editor:

The reprimands presented to Bob Smith of West Middle School are, in my opinion, a gross example of unjust persecution.

I attended the meeting when Bob Smith made his oral presen tation of the "West Proposal" to the administration of the school board.

I read where Mr. Smith stated he understood the parents had been invited to the meeting. The truth is we simple caught wind of the meeting and attended. Fortunately we were not dismissed as was Mr. Smith.

During Bob's presentation, he repeatedly was interrupted with "hurry up" and "get to the point" among other unnecessary remarks from Dr. John Telford.

Under the circumstances, I thought Mr. Smith acted determined and restrained. I heard no "abusive language" from Mr. Smith — only a man attempting to present his proposal amid an obviously hostile audience, the administration.

Our principals and teachers must be given immunity to such abuse especially when they are speaking out on the parents behalf. They are, after all, closer to the parents' wishes and the day-to-day goings-on in the schools than are the administrators.

If a reprimand is to be dealt, it should be to Dr. Telford for his incredibly rude and disruptive behavior.

I would like to add, I am not a parent of a West student and did not know Mr. Smith. I simply felt the public should hear another view of this apalling situation.

What's 'supply side' economics?

Tim Richard

Pardon this not-very-local column in a community newspaper. But it seems no one on the daily papers is adequately explaining the "supply-side" economics which is the rage in Washington, and television is incapable of it.

It would be superficial to describe the Reagan Administration's economics as liking the West, the Sun Belt and rich folks and hating the Northeast, Midwest and poor folks. You need to understand "supply-side" economics.

To understand it, you have to re-visit where we have been during the 20th Century. The visit will be brief, maybe oversimplified, but it will cover the basics.

"CLASSICAL" economics dealt with bad times by adjusting prices and wages.

W.W. ("The Stroller") Edgar tells about working at the Detroit Free Press in 1930, the first year of the Great Depression.

"We took three 10 percent cuts in wages in one week. At the end of that week, I was making only $1 more as sports editor than when I started as a glorified office boy.

"Leona (his wife) went to the landlord and said we couldn't pay the rent. He said, 'Pay what you can.' "

If a product didn't sell, you cut the price. If there was no work, you cut wages. In time, the cuts were supposed to encourage buyers. Then there would be a recovery.

THE KEYNESIAN economists in the 1930s said things didn't always work that way.

You could, the Keynesians held, get into a situation where demand was stagnant and no amount of price-cutting, wage-cutting and interest-rate cutting would bring recovery.

The Keynesians were pupils, followers and adapters of the theories of John Maynard Keynes, a British economist. One could argue about what Keynes (pronounced "kanes") said vs. what his disciples said he said, but not here.

It seemed to them demand was insufficient. Some folks with plenty of money preferred to sit on it rather than spend or invest it (the "liquidity preference"). Classical answers wouldn't work.

Demand, they said, should be stimulated by government. Government would get into public works, building dams and brick outhouses, and putting wages into the hands of people who would buy.

Government would finance these projects by debt, thus creating new money and "pump-priming" the economy.

Government would emphasize the graduated income tax, dipping into the stagnant funds of the rich and taking less from the working poor who needed their incomes for such consumption items as food and rent and clothing.

Always the emphasis was on stimulating demand.

A HOST OF other programs found easy justification under Keynesian demand-side economics.

If old folks were poor, then social security, aid to the blind and aid to the disabled would keep them consuming.

If high wages were necessary to stimulate demand, then the government would be friendlier to union organizing and would decree minimum wages.

Government would pay for kids' lunches, with the twin benefits of improving nutrition and making a market for farm commodities.

There were dozens, hundreds, of other measures, but you get the picture.

THE TROUBLE was that, despite all the demand stimuli, America continued to suffer from periods of unemployment.

From the dawn of the Industrial Revolution until the 1930s, periods of unemployment had been periods of falling prices. In the 1950s and '60s, periods of unemployment were periods of stable prices. And then in the early '70s, the impossible began happening: During these periods of unemployment, prices kept right on inflating just as they had during the booms.

Enter the supply-side economists.

The new group uses the same analytical tools as the Keynesians. It is a serious error to mistake them and Ronald Reagan for born-again classicists from the Harding era.

WHAT WAS WRONG, they said, is that government was stimulating demand while neglecting — and even abusing — the supply side of the equation. The situation is so bad that today America has the lowest rate of productivity increase of any major industrial nation in the world.

The solutions:

- Balance the federal budget, which will pump less loose money into the economy. Moreover, it will keep the Treasury out of the bond market, where it had been soaking up investment capital which should have gone into factories, machinery, offices, mortgages.
- Cut income taxes, particularly for people who will invest their spare money in productive enterprises. Instead, shift to consumption taxes — the sales tax, value added tax, excise taxes.
- Above all, stop treating producers like criminals with regulations: hiring quotas for minorities, questions you can't ask women, labels, the height of bannisters, noise levels, product tests, straps, warnings, spaces, ad infinitum.

Supply-side supporters contend the efforts of the bureaucrats, the Naders, the unions and the environmentalists resulted in portraying business people as polluting Scrooges. Potential business people became gun-shy about investing and hiring, drying up the flow of goods that our overstimulated demands were craving.

I THINK THERE is some charm to supply-side economics, although I would be more comfortable if George Bush and Carl Pursell were running the show instead of Reagan and Dave Stockman.

Looking at 1970s, in particular, I see America adopting the values of the 16th to 18th century Spanish Empire: Hoard gold and silver, collect jewels and antiques, "invest" in houses and land, hire military mercenaries. Scorn commerce, sneer at manufacturing, live the foppish existence of the Grandee/Playboy. Get rich by lotteries and lawsuits rather than invention and investment.

That, in an over-simplified way, may help explain classical, Keynesian and supply-side economics.

Shirlee Iden

America once aimed war at her

While the world hadn't yet learned of the heinous Nazi concentration camps in Europe swallowing millions of victims, Toshi Shimouri was being interned in her native land.

It was 1942, just months after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. In the name of national security, Japanese-Americans like Mrs. Shimoura and their families were removed from their West Coast homes and businesses to camps inland.

While there were no gas chambers or ovens of extermination, there was barbed wire and guards armed with machine guns.

A 15-year-old high school sophomore at the time, Mrs. Shimoura and her three brothers and one sister are native Californians.

"My parents were born in Japan and came here to live in a free country," she said. "But instead, they found themselves interned in a remote part of Utah."

"It was devastating and demoralizing to be torn away from your home and friends, and as a student I wasn't penalized in the economic sense like the adults."

The teen-ager found her new home-away-from-home to be a hastily built barrack.

"The overwhelming feeling was that of isolation," she said.

WHILE IN THE camp, Mrs. Shimoura completed her high school education, a milestone reached without the usual fanfare and festivity.

"A combination of college graduates in the camp and people coming from the outside organized the schools and made this possible," she says. "When I graduated it was possible to go to the midwest or east and I chose to go to school at Michigan State University."

A student of microbiology, she completed her education in California when Japanese Americans were allowed to go back to the West Coast.

"I worked in the microbiology field until my marriage to James," she said. She and her husband, a native Detroiter, live in Southfield, where they raised four children of their own.

"We've lived here 19 years and feel like old timers in Southfield."

Mrs. Shimoura and her family made it through the internship and readjustment without ill effect, she said. But others were not so fortunate.

"There were long-term problems for others because of the isolation and the sudden thrust back into the mainstream."

A "FEEBLE" DRIVE for compensation for the dislocated Japanese-Americans was started in the 1950, but nothing much ever came of it.

"Most people lost everything they had plus the earning potential during the war years.

"In the camps, a doctor was paid $19 a month and others got less. Most left the camps completely without funds.

"Others had property in California, and returned there to find it ransacked."

As far as being loyal Americans, Mrs. Shimoura said the loyalty of the Japanese-Americans was never shaken, but the treatment they received was shocking.

"There were even a few so outraged they wanted to go to Japan, but they had no status there. They weren't Japanese citizens.

These people were isolated further and put under surveillance, she said.

Despite the treatment of their parents, many young Japanese-American men volunteered to serve in the American military, and the 442nd combat team was organized.

"Japanese-Americans fought in Italy and France and distinguished themselves.

"They made quite a good record."

MRS. SHIMOURA hopes someday to visit Japan as one of her sons did for a summer.

Meanwhile, she is active in the Japanese American Citizens League and has worked with the International Institute on the Japanese Ethnic Sunday scheduled this weekend.

"There are certain values in any culture worth preserving. People who come to the Ethnic Sunday will get some exposure to the food and the arts of Japan."

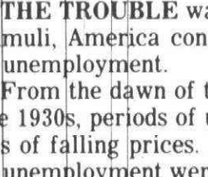
Strains of Japanese drums, flute and harp and the delicate movements of kimonoed dancers will herald spring as it might have taken place in Old Japan beginning at 3 p.m. at the International Institute, 111 E. Kirby in Detroit.

A Japanese Music Ensemble from Ann Arbor will play, dressed in costumes, and dancers will perform three traditional dances. Rice rolled in seaweed (sushi), chicken teriyaki, skewered vegetables and unusual Japanese sweets will be offered.

Mrs. Shimoura said she has many Eastern art objects in her Southfield home, but it's "basically just another American home."

On newsman's retirement

Why all the fuss about Cronkite?



Leonard Poger

I can't figure out the national fuss about Walter Cronkite's retirement as a CBS-TV news anchorman.

His employer is canonizing him.

A major competitor, ABC-TV, is printing full-page ads in newspapers across the country saying farewell to Walter.

I'm sure other newspapers, magazines and CBS-TV affiliates will pay their homage.

And I'm still trying to figure out what the fuss is about.

At 44, I have watched TV news grow out of the swamp to the national binder for Americans of all ages. But I never did take network TV news programs too seriously.

Maybe that's why I'm not quite ready to enter Cronkite into some kind of TV news hall of fame.

In the early 1970s, after reading a magazine profile of the man, I decided to watch him and see what a great journalist I've been missing.

There was nothing out of the ordinary. A few months ago, I tuned in again to Walter and am still amazed why there is any excitment.

IN MY OBSERVATIONS, Cronkite typically read two or three sentences before saying, "Now here's correspondent Joe Blow with the story from Anytown, U.S.A."

No particularly brilliant phrases or insights.

In a recent magazine interview, Cronkite admitted coming to the office between 10 a.m. and noon and leaving shortly after 7 p.m.

That works out to about seven to nine hours, which includes a meal break.

Hell, there are a lot of Observer reporters who put in a lot more time than that in a slow week — for a fat $11,076 a year, a bit less than the annual $300,000 a year Cronkite reportedly receives.

In fairness to Cronkite, he does a few other things besides the evening news.

But the times I watched him handling the space shots, I didn't see a big difference between CBS and the other networks' coverage.

Cronkite gets a lot of credit for arranging on TV the visit of the Egyptian premier to Israel in the fall of 1977. But the people involved said later the trip was agreed to before Cronkite made it look as if he had done it all by himself.

WHY THEN IS Cronkite made out to be an idol or something just below God?

Part of the reason is that he projects a father or grandfather image in a nation that is getting increasingly older.

Around these suburbs, officials and homeowners don't have to be reminded about declines in the number of youngsters and the growing percentage of senior citizens.

In a way, those persons grew up with Cronkite and the TV news show.

They heard his reports when they were married, raised children, married off their sons and daughters, and celebrated the births of grandchildren.

Cronkite is a symbol of the "good old days" of the 1950s, Dwight Eisenhower gave the country a peaceful, tranquil society, not one looking for new problems or challenges to solve.

I wish Cronkite well in his retirement.

But I will still wonder what all the fuss is about.

Car sales pick up

Car rebates bring buyers to showrooms

By MAURIE WALKER

Arthur Godfrey's theme song, "Seems Like Old Times" could be adopted by area car dealers.

That means car buyers are back in force — thanks mainly to rebates and discounts ranging from 7-10 percent.

The pickup in car sales may mean good news for dealers and their employeees, as well as thousands of auto workers laid-off the past 18 months because of poor sales.

Dealers along "auto row" on Ford Road between Wayne Road and Merriman report a substantial increase in floor traffic and — more important — sales.

Chrysler, General Motors and Ford have rebate incentives on certain models. Chrysler started its discounts Dec. 1, with GM and Ford getting into the rebate game nearly two weeks ago.

The discount at Chrysler Corp. is seven percent on all passenger cars and trucks, including the new K cars. Discounts range from $400 to $1,200.

The General Motors rebate plan began Feb. 1 and runs through March 20. Rebates range from $500 to $700, depending on make and model.

Ford offers a 10-percent rebate on the list price of all its models.

For example, buyers can save $617 on a Zephyr and $1,769 on the Mark VI. The rebate began Feb. 19 and runs through March 21.

BOB ROBBINS, new owner of Crestwood Dodge Inc. on Ford at Venoy, said the 7-percent rebate is on the factory retail price and includes options and freight.

"The rebate is made after the customer gets our best deal," Robbins said. The rebate is $400 to $1,200, depending on the make, and a customer can apply the money to a down payment on any car or truck, he added.

Although the rebate policy ends March 20, a buyer can get the rebate regardless of when the car is delivered as long as the sale is made by March 20, Robbins said.

"The rebate has boosted sales here 40 percent over last year," Robbins said.

"As a matter of fact, I need at least three more salespersons. We just don't have enough to handle the load."

He attributes the increase in sales not only to the rebate plan, but the Chrysler's front-wheel-drive cars and fuel economy.

JERRY JOHNS, sales manager at Gene Merollis Chevrolet on Ford Road just west of Merriman, said news of the rebates has "doubled our business.

"Prior to installing the rebate policy, we were selling about 25 cars a week. Since the rebate plan, we are up to 50 car sales a week."

Under the GM plan, the new car has to be out of stock by March 20, last day of the rebate plan.

Steve McGowan, new cars' sales manager at Red Holman Pontiac on Ford Road at Wayne in Westland, said:

"We're back in the car business again. We've ordered more cars this past week than we have in the last few months."

McGowan said his supply of 55 Grand Prix models dropped to 10 in five selling days.

"The way sales are going, these will be gone soon," he said.

"As a matter of fact," he said jokingly, "Im going to have to retrain my sales staff. They aren't used to waiting on more than one customer at a time."

WALT NORRIS, general manager at North Brothers Ford on Ford Road in Westland, said floor traffic and sales have climbed since the Ford rebate plan began last month.

"Our floor traffic is up at least 50 percent, and people are buying," he said of the 10-percent discounts.

"Since the plan started Feb. 19, we sold 69 vehicles. Up to that time in the same period of time, we were averaging about 30 sales."

Norris said the rebates have not only helped move the cars covered by it but also has boosted sales of the new Escort, which isn't on the rebate policy.

"Of the 69 cars recently sold, half of the sales were 'Escorts, (the front-wheel-drive subcompact)," he said.

"This has really helped the morale of our sales staff. It's like old times. We are hoping this stimulates the market and that the turn-around in car buying will continue."

PAUL HENNIS, general manager of Stu Evans Lincoln-Mercury, on Ford near Merriman in Garden City, said the rebate has created "tremendous floor traffic.

"Actually, the response caught us by surprise. It seemed to happen over night.

"The floor traffic and sales are almost like the old days. We delivered more cars in January and February this year than we did last."

Hennis said there is a 10-percent rebate on the list price of the cars, which amounts to $617 to $1,769.

"The cash can be used as a down payment or the customer can have the money. What we a selling basically is the Mercury Lynx (the Ford twin to the Escort), but the rebate plan has helped sales on the bigger cars, too."

Hennis said his dealership is fortunate in that it has not been hurt as badly as others in the recession.

"Things have been pretty good, but right now they are really moving," he added.

One salesman pretty much summed up the feeling of the car business when he said:

"For the first time in a long while, this is a fun job again. People seem enthusastic about buying cars. It's good to be busy.

"It seems like old times."

Editor:

I am a recent re-subscriber to the Canton Observer and in reading the last few issues have been left with something less than an empty feeling. It didn't occur to me until this past Monday's issue (Feb. 23) what was wrong.

Bob Greenstein is gone from the news! Township meetings are mundane without Bob, and in consequence your newspaper has been downright dull.

Views on Dental Health

Philip Meizels D.D.S.

WHY DENTAL INSURANCE?

Consider these statistics: Of children over fifteen, 75% have some form of gum disease and an average of 11 cavities. By middle age, 2 out of 3 people will have serious gum problems and be well on the way to losing all of their teeth.

Why should such a technologically advanced country as ours be in such a poor state of dental health? The answer is: neglect! Few Americans see a dentist as often as they should and many have NEVER seen one. There are many reasons for this and one of them is money. Now something is being done about it.

While most Americans have some kind of medical insurance, dental insurance has lagged far vehind, but now dental coverage is growing by leaps and bounds. Today, some 65 million (3 out of every 10 Americans) are covered by some form of dental insurance and estimates are that coverage could increase to 95 million by 1985. Labor unions have been striving to wider dental protection and are responsible for much of this increase. In these times of inflation, the average American can use all the help he can get.

Dear Dr. Forrest:
I now have a dental insurance plan, however, I was quoted a personal balance which I consider to be quite high. Do dental fees vary and would you suggest a second opinion?

Max M. Benefitz

Dear Max:
Dental insurance plans do not guarantee 100% coverage for services. Benefits are often subject to deductibles, percentages of coverage vary, and also certain plans use their own fee schedule of allowances.
Keep in mind we usually get what we pay for, however, if your personal responsibility exceeds what you can afford, another opinion might be to your benefit.

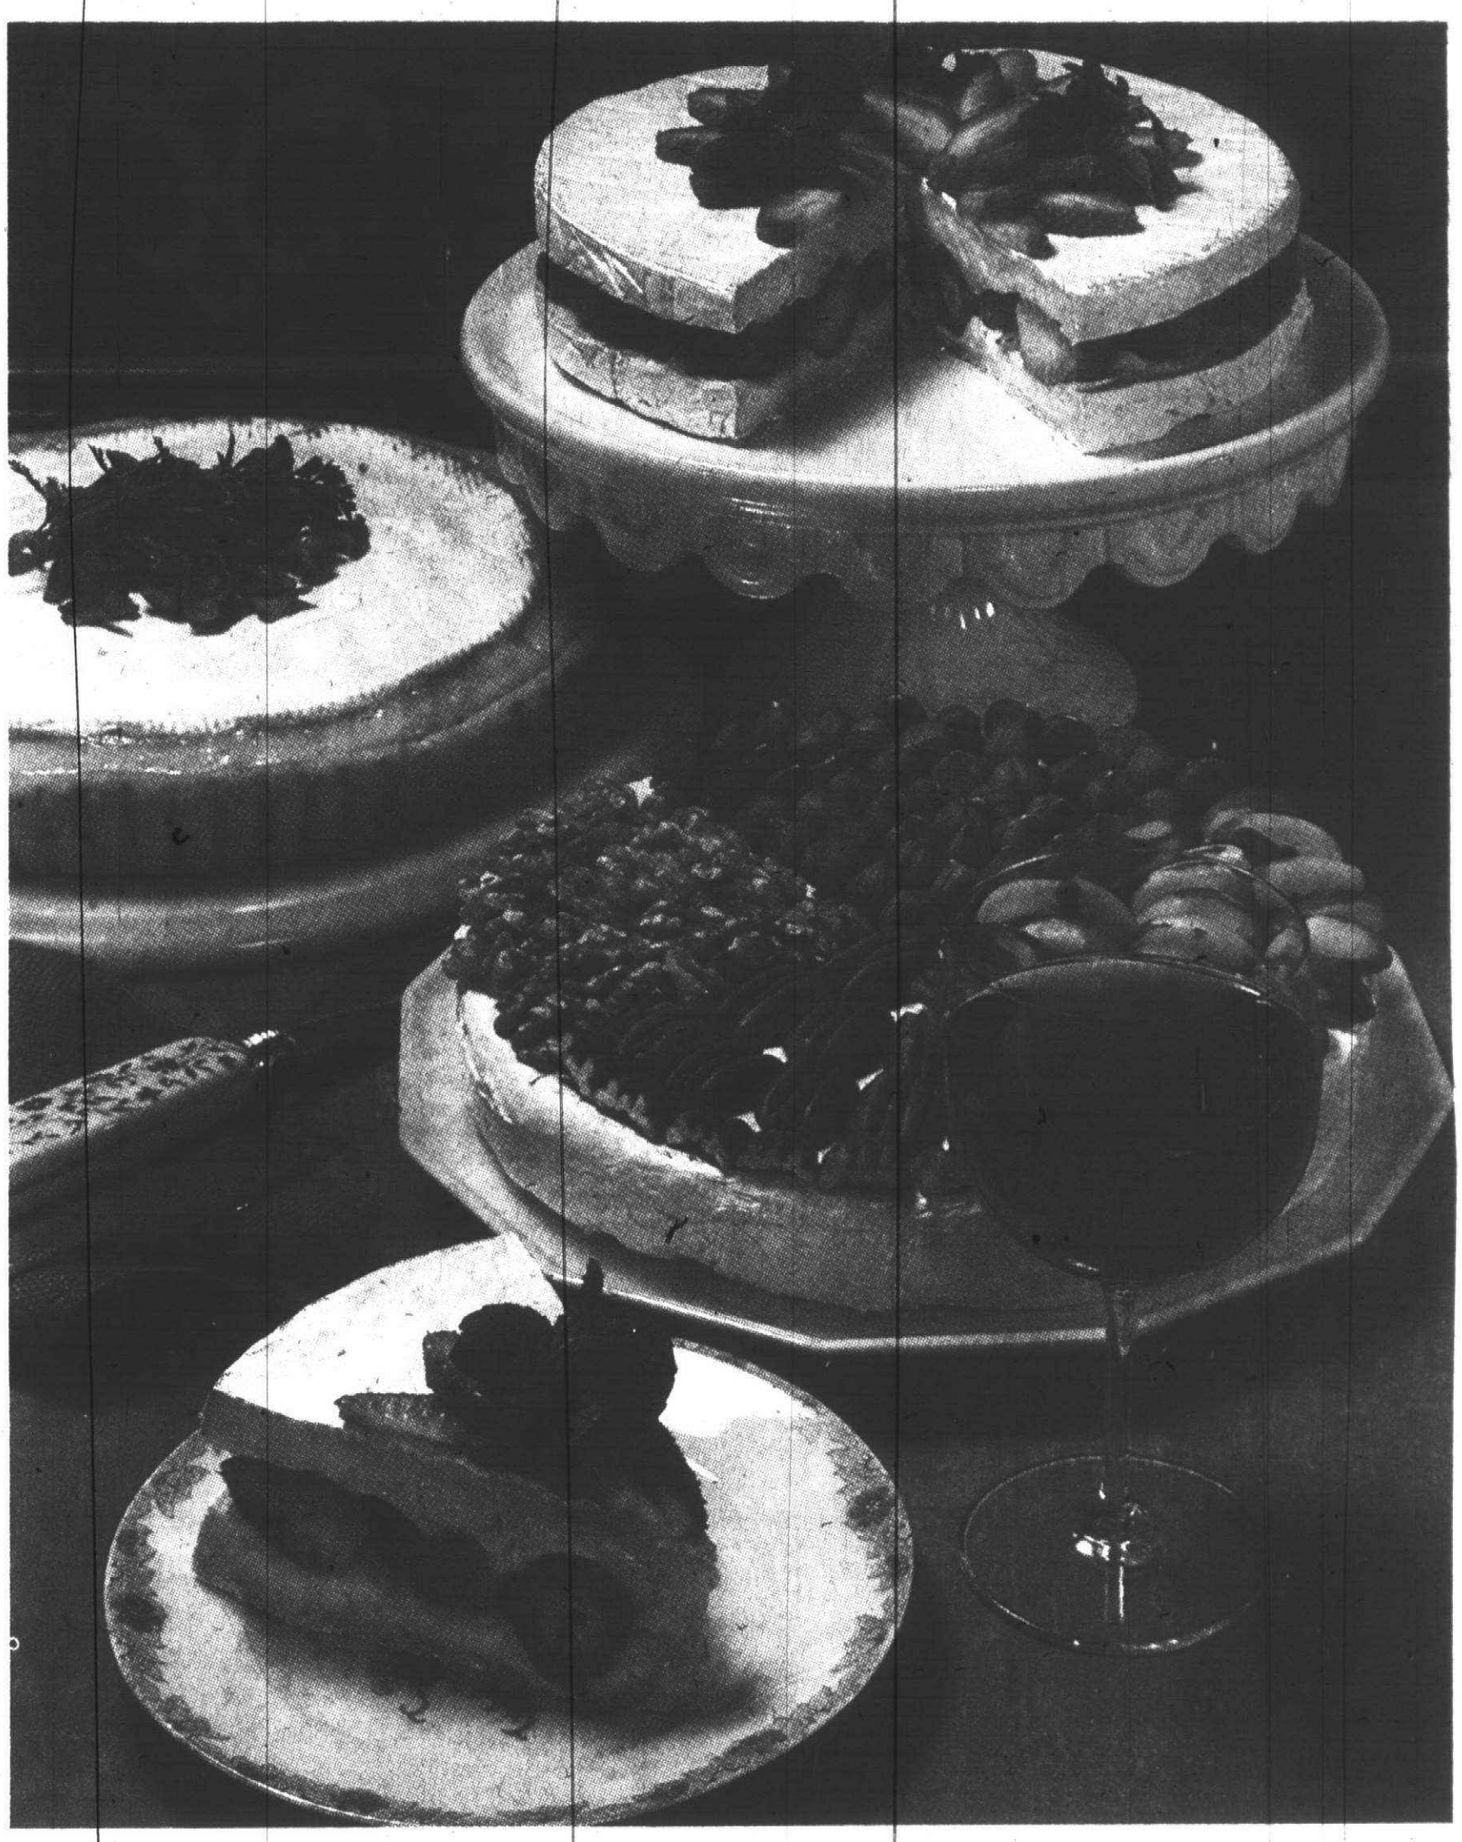
Brie—Cheese of 1,000 Delights



AMERICANS are having a love affair with Brie. Among all the cheeses imported from the dairylands of the world, it is Brie that has come to epitomize France – it's flavor, life style, spirit. Perhaps many cheese lovers were introduced to Brie on their first trip to Paris . . . and neither memory will ever die. As Vivienne Marquis and Patricia Haskell state in their definitive "The Cheese Book," "No cheese has been more celebrated than Brie, and with reason. It is the ultimate cheese, the towering wonder of them all."

Brie is often described as "moonlike," a large white disk as thin as primitive man imagined the moon. Like the moon, Brie tends to diminish rapidly; set before cheese lovers, it goes in a twinkling from full to half to sliver. Authors Marquis and Haskell point out that even if it were less beautiful, it would be beloved for its taste and texture. "The taste of this cheese is like no other. It is a mixture: part mushrooms, part cream, part Cognac, part earth . . . with a shade of truffle and with something of the scent of ripe Anjou pears, perhaps. The texture is more easily described: it is like heavy honey. Satin alone can match its gloss."

A sensuous cheese. It was created sometime before the eighth century in the province of Brie northeast of Paris; today the major centers are the cities of Meaux and Melun. The cheese was immediately acclaimed for its finesse and aroma. Brie has had some impressive endorsers. "One of the most delectable foods imaginable," said Charlemagne at first bite, according to his chronicler. Returning from Italy, the king and his warriors had stopped at a monastery in Brie for refreshment and the monks had offered one of their prized local cheeses. When the knights made the mistake of removing the flowery rind, they were respectfully urged to leave it on. And Charlemagne requested "a goodly quantity" to be sent to him twice a year.

Centuries later royalty still doted on Brie. Louis XII dispensed Brie as New Year's gifts, packing the cheese with poems. Louis XVI's arrest didn't seem to slow down his appetite; he asked his jailers to send him "red wine and Brie."

Artistic lions were devotees as well. Alexander Dumas' menus for his heroic Musketeers always ended with Brie and a fine bottle of Burgundy. Auguste Renoir, when a struggling young painter, frequented a tiny bistro where the Brie was always à point. The apogee of Brie's fame came in 1815 when the diplomats assembled at the Congress of Vienna were redrawing the map of Europe. That consummate French diplomat and epicure, Talleyrand, proposed a competition of national cheeses at a banquet. Brie was judged the best in a field of 60 and thus was crowned the "King of Cheeses."

This paragon of cheeses derives from cow's milk. The cheese not only stands alone, but makes itself – Brie is neither cooked, pressed, nor kneaded but left to drain slowly and ripen naturally. Americans are catching up with the French in their devotion to Brie – we delight our way through more than 6,000 tons each year which France ships to assuage our appetites.

There are some dramatic ways to embellish a wheel of Brie. You can stud the top with whole nuts and toast the "moon" lightly under the broiler as in Brie aux Noix. Strawberry Brie Cake teams the cheese with berries, shortcake fashion. The cheese is melted slightly and garnished with more berries and mint leaves. Quick Brie Quiche calls for Brie to top bacon and onion in a pie crust. All three are unusual and versatile dishes for adding elegance to parties. Also, each is made with a one-kilo (2.2 lbs.) Brie which conveniently serves eight and is a more economical dish than a calorie-rich pastry shop creation.

• quality – The only Brie, of course, is French Brie. Other cheeses made elsewhere may be called Brie – but in vain. They lack the distinction of true Gallic ingredients.

• size – Brie comes in one-kilo (2.2 pounds) and two-kilo wheels.

• ripeness – This is crucial. Soft cheeses ripen from the outside in, from rind to center. The firm white inner texture of Brie ripens to a creamy pale yellow. At the peak of ripeness, "à point," Brie is soft, a fresh-butter color throughout. No white center. When it is too soft and runny, the cheese is overripe. Since you cannot check the appearance when buying a whole wheel, you are dependent on your cheese dealer. Find one you have confidence in and specify when you plan to serve the cheese.

• serving – As for all cheese, Brie should be served at room temperature. Remove from refrigerator an hour or two before serving. Customarily it is cut in a long, thin, pie-shaped wedge.

• storing – Once cheese is cut, ripening stops. Wrap in foil and store in the refrigerator, where the Brie will keep from four to five days.

• accompaniments – Brie is traditionally consumed with crusty French bread, crisp French rusks, or unsalted crackers; with grapes or with firm-fleshed fruit such as apples or pears, and with a light-bodied red wine such as fruity Burgundy or a mellow Bordeaux.

STRAWBERRY BRIE CAKE

(Makes 8 to 10 servings)

With a wet knife, cut a 1-kilo Brie in half horizontally, making 2 thin layers. Top one layer with a pint of hulled whole strawberries. Replace top layer and bake in a preheated moderate oven (350°F.) for about 7 minutes to just melt the cheese slightly. Garnish top with a rosette of sliced strawberries and mint leaves. Serve warm.

BRIE AUX NOIX

(Makes 8 to 10 servings)

Stud top rind of 1-kilo (2.2 lbs.) Brie with nuts such as Brazil, almond, hazelnut, walnut, pecan, pistachio, macadamia, etc. Place under broiler 6 inches away from source of heat and broil until nuts are toasted and cheese is slightly melted. Serve warm.

QUICK BRIE QUICHE

(Makes 8 to 10 servings)

Line bottom and sides of 10-inch quiche pan with pie crust. Prick bottom with fork. (Remove rim of box containing 1-kilo Brie and use it to hold the sides of the crust in place during baking.) Bake at 400°F. for 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. With a sharp knife, remove rind from the side of the Brie but do not remove the crust from the top and bottom. Fry 1/2 pound of bacon, chopped, with 1 large onion, chopped, until bacon is crisp. Remove crisp pieces of bacon and onion and drain. Spread 3/4 of the bacon and onion on the bottom of the shell. Top with Brie and bake at 400°F. for 10 to 12 minutes or until cheese melts and fills the shell. Garnish top with remaining bacon and parsley. Serve warm.

Della Robbia Brie is a dessert piece de resistance — in a word, spectacular. A fine, French red wine, perhaps a Chambertin from Burgundy or a lovely St. Emilion from Bordeaux, will complement the harmony of flavors — adding a stunning finale to every dinner party.

DELLA ROBBIA BRIE

(Makes about 12-14 servings)

Place a wheel of Brie (weighing 1 kilo or about 2 pounds), on a round cheese board or serving platter 3 or 4 inches larger than the Brie itself to allow space for an attractive arrangement of frosted Tokay, Concord and green grapes, slices of red and Golden Delicious apples, and slices of Anjou and Bosc pears, to create a colorful Della Robbia effect. (To prevent fruit from discoloring, dip slices in acidulated water beforehand.) Arrange platter in advance and keep chilled. About one hour before serving, place platter on table to serve as centerpiece. By the time you are ready for dessert, the cheese will have reached room temperature and be ready for serving. To serve, cut cheese from center to outer rim into long, thin triangular wedges (about one-inch at rim). Place it on the dessert plate with a small bunch of grapes. 2-4 slices of fruit, a few unsalted pecans and 2-3 thin slices of French baguette.

To frost grapes: Cut individual portions of grapes from main bunch. Dip them into lemon juice or slightly beaten egg white, then granulated sugar. Chill 15-20 minutes, then repeat process.

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Minestrone 'speaks to the soul'

Minestrone. The very word means "to administer, to take care of all one's needs." This is exactly what a soup like minestrone does. It nourishes the body and speaks to the soul. It makes up for the many indignities of winter.

Its long, slow cooking heats up the kitchen — just what you try to avoid in the warm months but so welcome at this time of year. It fills the closed-up house with marvelous smells, promising wonderful things to come, and sharpens appetites.

Unlike summer's appetites, however, winter's don't need sharpening. The demand for extra calories placed on the body by the cold takes care of that. There is something to be said, though, for putting an extra-sharp edge on that appetite — something just short of ravenous.

This can best be achieved by vigorous physical activity — preferably outdoors. If you are gradually conditioned to the outdoors there is no reason to feel trapped inside by frigid or even sub-zero weather. Staying indoors is not only conducive to cabin fever, straining family relations, but also to a chill more recaltricant than that experienced by being out on even the coldest days.

IF YOU ARE not a winter sports enthusiast you still can work up a good appetite with a brisk walk before dinner. This clears the mind, gets the blood flowing and feels so good when you stop. Coming home to a supper of hearty soup, a spinach salad (another winter bonus — spinach goes to seed in very hot weather and can be difficult to come by), crisp rolls and a glass of red wine is not only guaranteed to chase the chill but will be more welcome than sitting down to an expensive gourmet repast.

You will want to start soaking the beans early in the day. Once that is done, the soup does not require much time to put together. It can simmer while you take your walk, but wait for your return to add the pasta so it retains its bite.

A delicious blend of vegetables, herbs and wine, the minestrone from "The Moosewood Cookbook" far surpasses any similar soup that includes salt pork, bacon or ham. Eggplant, often called the meat of vegetarians because of its substantial texture, adds a heartiness which would otherwise be provided by the meat.

The small amount of protein which would have been provided by those meats is more than made up for by the beans and cheese. Each of the vegetables, in turn, contributes its own flavor, texture and color. In the winter, canned tomatoes are good substitutes for fresh.

MADE IN SUMMER, with tomatoes and zucchini from the garden, this soup has a slightly different character. Perhaps it is even better. Somehow, though, it never tastes as good as when it is chasing a bone-chill. It somehow belongs to the winter.

In the same way that we associate minestrone with the cold months, we associate cold soups with the summer.

Recently, however, I enjoyed a cold soup based on two items which are in abundant supply in the winter — avocados and grapefruit. Unlike minestrone, this is not a main dish soup, but one suitable for a first couse. The buttery avocado and the cream provide richness which is compatible with winter appetites while the grapefruit adds a sharpness which acts as a nice foil for that richness. It is an unusual combination and provides a welcome change of pace for a winter menu.

If we concentrate hard enough on the special pleasures of winter eating, perhaps we will come to view the passing of winter with the same sense of loss that we feel at the passing of summer. "To everything there is a season."

MINESTRONE
4-6 servings

3 tbsp. olive oil
1 cup chopped onion
4-5 cloves crushed garlic
2 tsp. salt (divided)
1 cup cubed carrot
1 cup minced celery
1 cup cubed eggplant or zucchini
1 tsp. oregano
¼ tsp. black pepper
1 tsp. basil
1 cup chopped green pepper
3½ cups water or stock
1½ cups cooked pea or garbanzo beans (¾ cup raw)
3 tbsp. dry red wine
1 cup fresh chopped tomatoes
½ cup dry pasta
Parmesan cheese

In a soup kettle, saute garlic and onions in olive oil until they are soft and translucent. Add 1 teaspoon salt, carrot, celery and eggplant. (If you use zucchini, add it with the green pepper.) Mix well. Add oregano, black pepper and basil. Cover and cook over low heat 5-8 minutes. Add green pepper, stock, puree, cooked beans and wine. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. Add tomatoes and remaining salt. Keep at lowest heat until 10 minutes before you plan to serve. Then, heat the soup to a boil, add pasta, and boil gently until pasta is tender. Serve immediately, topped with parsley and parmesan. (from "Moosewood Cookbook" by Mollie Katzen).

AVOCADO GRAPEFRUIT SOUP

4-6 servings.

¾ cup grapefruit juice
1 avocado
¼ tsp. salt
¾ cup yogurt or sour cream (or half yogurt and half sour cream)
½ cup grapefruit segments (optional)

Put grapefruit juice into electric blender. Peel and pit avocado. Dice ½ cup of pulp and set aside. Put remaining avocado into blender with juice. Add salt and process until smooth. Add yogurt and blend briefly. Add reserved diced avocado and grapefruit segments, if desired, and chill thoroughly before serving but make and serve on the same day or avocado will discolor. (from "Rodale's Naturally Great Foods Cookbook" by Nancy Albright).

Cooks share winning recipes

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

Lakeside Mall is celebrating its fifth anniversary. In one event of the celebration of this important date, the mall sponsored a cake baking contest. Baking enthusiasts who signed up were invited to "Bake a Cake for Lakeside" to mark the birthday.

Last Wednesday afternoon, a five-judge panel had the enviable task of taste-testing until first-, second- and third-place winners could be selected. Texture, tenderness, appearance and quality were considered.

The contest was divided into two categories: Fruit and Nut Cakes (generally, but not always, unfrosted) and Frosted Cakes. First-place winners received $30 gift certificates usable in any store in the mall. Second- and third-place winners were awarded $15 certificates.

Below are first- and second-place recipes from the two categories. Perhaps your family would like to try them all and choose a "best of the winners."

FRUIT AND NUT
Poppy Seed Cake
First Prize
Sharon Lemke

Often, Mrs. Lemke will add one teaspoon of Baker's Compliment to recipes calling for one teaspoon vanilla (in addition to the vanilla), or will use two teaspoons Baker's Compliment in place of the vanilla. Baker's Compliment is an extract of rum, vanilla and butter. It is a clear liquid, and can be bought at cake and candy supply stores.

2 cups sugar
1½ cups oil
4 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
3 cups sifted all purpose flour
1½ tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
1 large (13-oz.) can evaporated milk
1 12-oz. can poppy seed filling
1 cup chopped nuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Place sugar, oil, eggs and vanilla in a large bowl and beat well. Set aside. In a second bowl, sift together the flour, salt and soda. Set aside. In a third bowl, mix together the milk and poppy seed filling. Set aside.

Return to the bowl with the sugar mixture and add equal amounts alternately from the flour mixture and the milk mixture, beating continuously, until the ingredients are mixed all together in one bowl. Add the nuts and mix well. Bake in a lightly greased tube pan for one hour and 10 minutes. Invert pan and cool. Glaze.

Glaze
1 cup powdered sugar, sifted
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tbsp. milk

Measure all ingredients together. Mix well and glaze cake.

Note: One recipe of the glaze does not cover the cake adequately. Mrs. Lemke suggests making three batches. However, she says they should be made separately. She also suggested the addition of one tablespoon corn syrup to each two cups of glaze to give it a shiny appearance.

PINEAPPLE CHEESECAKE
Second Prize
Pat Michelon

Crust
2 cups graham cracker crumbs
¾ stick margarine or butter
5 tbsp. sugar

Combine well in a 13x9-inch pan. Cover bottom and sides of pan, saving a few tablespoons (approximately three) for top of cake.

Filling
3 8-oz. pkgs. cream cheese, room temperature
6 eggs, room temperature
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1 20-oz. can crushed pineapple, very well drained
¾ cup flaked coconut

In a large bowl, beat the cream cheese until smooth. Beat in the eggs two at a time. Add the sugar. Beat. Add vanilla. Beat. Fold in the pineapple and coconut. Pour into pan. Sprinkle with the reserved crumbs. Bake at 325-350 for 25-30 minutes. Should be lightly browned around the edges when done.

FROSTED
My Mother's Torte Cake
First Prize
Anita Hepburn

9 eggs, separated
9 tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
9 tbsp. flour
1½ tsp. baking powder

Beat yolks until fluffy. Add the dry ingredients to yolks. Beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry, then fold into other ingredients. Bake 12 minutes at 350 degrees in three greased and floured 8-inch cake pans. Cool on a rack then frost with any fluffy light frosting. Buttercreams work well with this cake.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

The Plymouth Halfcourt Basketball League has ended its season with a league banquet in the back room of the Box Bar.

The banquet, chaired by Norm Kee and John VanWagoner, may not have been the social event of the season. But the players deemed it most appropriate and enjoyable.

Trophies were awarded all the players who had made it through the schedule.

This staying power was considered a victory in itself, and every man received a trophy. No kids' game, this three-on-three league. One of the qualifications for membership was that a player must be 40 years or over.

Halfcourt basketball is big in the East, according to John VanWagoner, one of the organizers of the league. There were six teams in the embryo league formed last fall.

The board of directors was co-chaired by Dick Debear and Bill Moore; Larry Masteller was exectutive secretary; and Dave McBride was vice president in charge of equipment and referees.

by ELLIE GRAHAM

JO ANNE PICKENS will host the March meeting of the John Sackett chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at her home on Shadywood. Members will meet for luncheon at noon. Co-hostesses will be Nancy Meyers and Debbie Meyers of Southfield and Carolyn Kerwin of Novi.

GRACE KABEL and Theresa Ohno will be among the craftsmen demonstrating at the Pioneer Crafts Fair in Dexter. The fair is an annual event arranged by the Dexter Area Historical Society. It will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, March 21, in the Dexter High School gym, 2615 Baker, Dexter.

A large egg basket made by Theresa Ohno will be one of the prizes given away at the fair. Other prizes are a white breasted nuthatch, and a catalogue cotton rag rug, both handcrafted.

Sixty artists and craftsmen will be demonstrating techniques of colonial times. Many will be selling their works. There will be oldtime entertainment provided by the Cobblestone Farm Country Dancers, Mr. Rattlebones & His Cronies, and The Cheerful Chimers. Lunch will be available and there will be a sale of baked goods. Donation will be $1 for adults; 50 cents for grades 9-12, and children free.

THE THURSDAY afternoon party bridge players in the Plymouth Cultural Center didn't play much bridge the last week in March. Instead, they were involved in the making of a movie.

A film crew from the University of Michigan, headed by Peggy Fisher of Plymouth, was working on the production. According to the bridge players, the story seemed to be about an older woman who was out playing cards. Regulars Frances LaCombe and Margaret Swartz were called into action as players at the same table.

There were several takes and retakes before the crew was satisfied and moved outside.

"Her son was supposed to pick her up, and she fell getting into the car, which made him very irritated. Then they were going to someone's home where she burns herself."

The players were not aware of the complete story line, but they will see the film in May.

Nine tables were in play Thursday, with Rene LaCombe and his daughter-in-law Lidia LaCombe having high scores.

SUSAN GERISH, a sophomore at Alma College, has one of the more familiar voices on campus. She is disc jockey for the student radio station, WABM, which broadcasts "Alma's Best Music." Her voice also is heard by Alma residents over Cable FM. The station is managed by students, with aid from Alma College staff and administration.

Susan, a 1979 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gerish of Portsmouth Crossing, Plymouth Township.

THE FIRST summer program designed specifically for Learning Disabled (LD), Emotionally Impaired (EI), and Educable Mentally Impaired (EMI) students is being planed.

Students kindergarten-sixth grades will be served through the project planned by the Plymouth-Canton Special Education Parents Advisory Committee, Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department and the Colonial Kiwanis Club of Plymouth.

Newcomers welcome spring

'Extravaganza' lives up to expectations

The Plymouth Newcomers' spring luncheon and fashion show was everything they said it would be, a "Fashion Extravanza Night and Day."

Members of the club modeled styles that ranged from daytime and sportswear to elegant loungewear and a striking spring bride with attendants.

The club's hope was to raise a sizeable amount of money for the Dunning Hough Library, and this, too, was realized. Club president Carole Townsend presented a check for more than $700 to Librarian Pat Thomas.

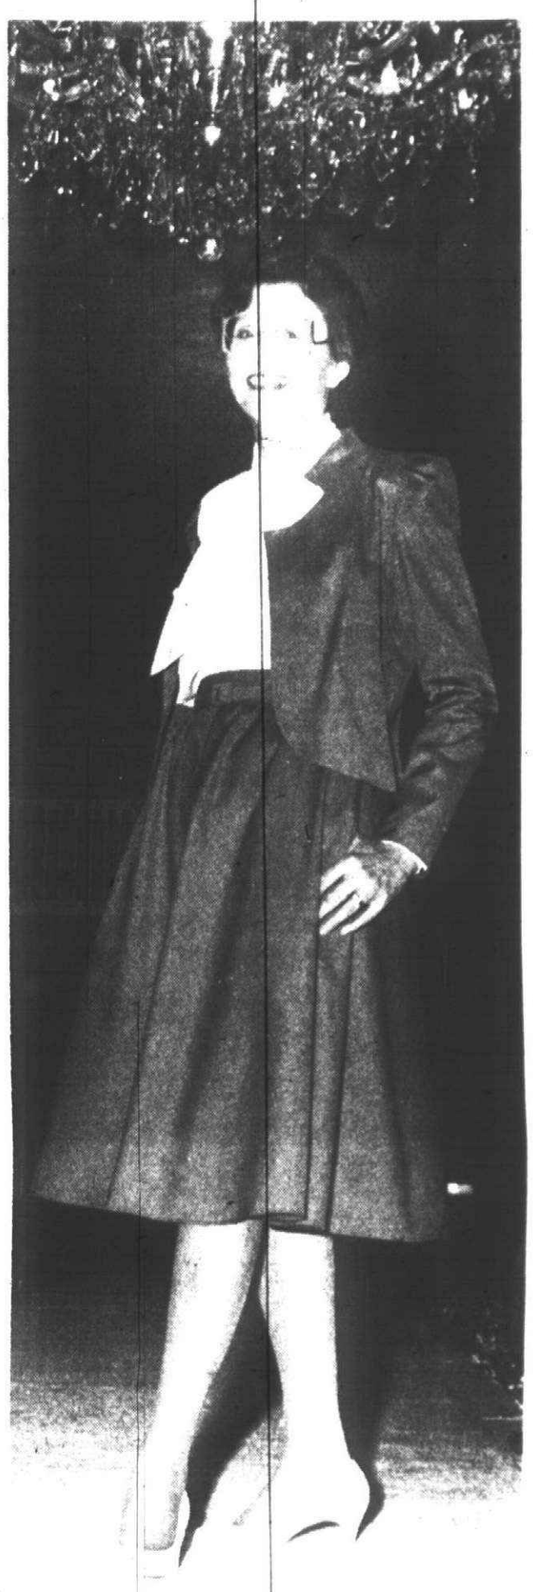
The sell-out crowd that packed the Mayflower Meeting House loved the luncheon, the clothes, the Sewdish love knots at their tables and the prizes.

There were sleek tennis and golf outfits, a hiking ensemble complete with backpack, and even a model on roller skates wearing the approved protective helmet and gear.

Models were Lillian Berlin, Jan Flis, Jan Harris, Hilda Hawkins, Dorothy Hennis, Cathy Kirkpatrick, Marsha Livermore, Karen McLand, Mary O'Shaughnessey, Barbara Secord and Gayle Young.

Jan Groat, Bev Hatcher and Mary Zelenock were responsible for the special effects. Coordinators were K.C Mueller, Janice Paulsen and Carole Townsend.

With the cooperation of the merchants, who provided the fashions and beautiful prizes, the newcomers' extravaganza was a success.



Mary Zelanock modeled a maternity dress from the Before and Afer Shop. Mary Elizabeth Smith helped Jan Flis, in in bridal gown from Geneva's, to the runway, and Jan Harris (right) wore a suit that drew applause from the guests.

John Glenn launches regional bid

By BRAD EMONS

You gotta have heart.

And with lots of it, Westland John Glenn came from behind Saturday to beat rival Wayne Memorial, 49-47, for the Class A district title in Plymouth Salem's gym.

The Rockets advance to Wednesday's regional tournament to face host Ypsilanti (20-3) in the first game of a doubleheader at 7 p.m.

"This was what we wanted," said an elated Glenn coach, Dan Henry. "This was one of our five goals before the season started.

"It's been four years with these kids and we've always been second or third. Our game plan today was to become a champion."

The game was almost sent into overtime. Wayne forward Alfredo Russell was fouled with no time left showing on the clock. And with his team trailing by two points, the 6-foot-5 senior's first free throw popped in and out, giving Glenn the hard-earned victory.

Glenn, 17-5, played charitably for almost three quarters.

The cold-shooting Rockets had all kinds of problems with the much-taller Zebras, who threw up an effective zone defense.

"We got to the point where we had to come out and make things happen," said Henry. "We had to belly-up and play man-to-man defense sooner or later."

Wayne, which controlled the backboards, led by as many as 10 points in the third quarter.

GLENN GUARD Tony Dalimonte, a 6-foot senior, kept the Rockets in the game with his ball-hawking defense and timely scoring.

The Rockets gradually chipped away at the Wayne lead, narrowing the gap to 40-35, entering the final period.

Kevin Thweatt then took over for Glenn, scoring seven points in a two-minute stretch. At the time, Wayne's 6-8 center William Hargrove was sitting on the bench with four personal fouls.

"There was a three-minute span where we broke down," said Wayne coach Steve Schwartz. "When Hargrove sits out, it weakens our defense.

"Thweatt then got three shuffle shots near the basket."

Holding onto a two-point advantage, Glenn killed nearly three minutes off the clock before center Dave Ward was fouled. He missed a free throw with 1:25 remaining, however, giving Wayne new life.

Rick Rogers, who paced the Zebras with 18 points, hit a free throw 18 seconds later to close the gap to one, 48-47.

Thweatt followed by sinking one of two tosses to give Glenn a two-point bulge with only 32 seconds to go.

WAYNE FAILED to convert on the next two offensive trips down the floor.

"When we started to find Thweatt that was the real turning point," said the Glenn coach. "I told my shooters to keep taking the shots, but we spread our offense out a little bit."

Dalimonte and Thweatt each had 14 points to lift Glenn. Rob Sisson chipped in with eight. Mallard scored 14 for Wayne and Russell had eight.

"The game meant so much," added Henry. "I think we won it on desire. There's not a better group of kids. They always play as a team."

Zebra free throws doom Salem

By BRAD EMONS

Plymouth Salem's state basketball tournament run ended abruptly Thursday night.

Wayne Memorial ousted the young Rocks and moved into the Class A district final against Westland John Glenn with a 47-43 victory over the hosts.

Coach Fred Thomann's team ended the year with a 13-9 record.

The Rocks had numerous chances to win, but couldn't come up with an emotional charge that propelled them to victory last Tuesday against rival Canton.

"I thought right down to the last minute we had a chance," said Thomann afterward. "We had to make critical things happen, which we didn't."

Wayne, coached by Steve Schwartz, hit enough crucial free throws down the stretch to stave off a Salem challenge.

William Hargrove, a 6-foot-7 center, hit eight straight in the final quarter to lift the Zebras to their 11th win in 21 outings.

"We're a horrendous free throw shooting team," answered Schwartz, whose club connected on 21 of 30. "We've been shooting only 56 percent as a team."

The ball, however, fell into the right hands at the line down the stretch.

Entering the final quarter, the Zebras trailed by three points.

Guard Gary Mazurek, replacing gunner Rich Rogers, came off the bench to score six straight points in a matter of 38 seconds midway through fourth quarter to give Wayne the lead.

ROGERS, who recently accepted a football scholarship to the University of Michigan, played as if he had to single-handidly beat Salem. The 6-3, 210-pound forward had eight points, but hit only three of 19 shots from the floor.

"He's such a great athlete," reasoned Schwartz, "and sometimes he tries to do more than he's capable of doing. I sat him down to make a point and we got a little spurt."

Wayne slumbered back in a 2-3 zone defense most of the night and commanded the boards with the likes of Hargrove, 6-5 Alfred Russell and Rogers.

With only 2:23 remaining in regulation time, Salem's Mike Sharp hit two free throws to tie the game at 40-all. Hargrove answered with four straight tosses as Wayne built a 44-40 advantage.

John Cohen of Salem sliced the margin to 44-41 with a free throw. Wayne's Mark Martin followed with another free throw with 56 seconds remaining to up the lead to 45-41.

A short jumper by Salem's Mike Sharp 19 seconds later pulled Salem to within two.

Hargrove, however, sank two free throws with only 10 seconds left to wrap up the victory for Wayne.

"WE DIDN'T mentally make the adjustments to beat them," said Thomann, "and we didn't hit the offensive and defensive glass very well.

"We tried to get some things to happen, but we couldn't get it done."

The Salem coach said the Wayne's zone defense was effective.

"They packed it up on us real nice," he said. "They made it tough for us to play offensive basketball."

Mike McBride, Salem's most consistent long-range shooter this year, led all scorers with 15 points. Sharp came off the bench to add 10.

Hargrove and Russell combined for 23 points.

It was Wayne's first tournament win since 1975 and only the second in the past nine years.

"We made the foul shots to keep them off of us," said Schwartz. "We felt if we played man (defense), we'd be playing right into their hands. We really packed it in figuring they'd shoot from the top."

Northville captures gym title

Chiefs suffer dismal night

Plymouth Canton, unbeaten in league dual meets, settled for second place in the Western Six girls' gymnastics meet Friday night at Walled Lake Western.

Northville, which lost to Canton earlier in the season by four points, won the team title with 93.65 points followed by the Chiefs at 92.20. Walled Lake Western took third with 81.30 while Farmington Harrison finished fourth and last with 74.95.

Northville's Paula Broderick was a major reason for Canton's demise. She won the all-around crown and placed first in both uneven parallel bars (8.05) and balance beam (8.55).

Canton's Laurie Beale, a junior, gained second all-around (31.95) and teammate Laura Michalik was third (31.90). Freshman Linda Beale was fifth (29.20).

Beale and Michalik tied for second place on uneven bars with a score of 7.85. Beale came back to win the floor exercise with an 8.65. Michalik was third (8.3) and Linda Beale (7.85) was fourth (7.85).

"That was our best three floor routines of the year," said Canton coach John Cunningham, "but we had just gotten too far behind to make up the difference."

The Canton coach questioned the judges' scoring on balance beam. Beale took fourth (7.55) followed by Michalik in fifth (7.45).

"I PROTESTED both scores," he said. "It's one of those things. We had good judging but I didn't agree with them. It was a difference in opinion."

In vault, Michalik garnered second place (8.3) while Beale finished fifth (7.9).

"It was a combination of things," Cunningham said. "We had beaten all three teams soundly and didn't have a good meet.

"We were maybe looking ahead to the regional. It was a team loss — not just one specific thing."

The Chiefs hurt themselves in the uneven bars, dropping 1.5 team points.

"We fell three times on bars," said Cunningham. "We've never missed on them all year. We really cost ourselves."

Canton will compete Saturday in the Class A regional at Ann Arbor Huron.

Bantam skaters win crown

The Plymouth-Canton Bantam AA hockey team, sponsored by S & H Fabricating and Engineering, won the District V championship recently by defeating Farmington in the final playoff game, 4-1.

The victory put Fab into the state playoffs.

Plymouth-Canton jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first period when Chris Belhart scored on an assist from Dave Nelson.

Chuck Norton made it 2-0 at the end of the period. Belhart assisted.

In the second period, Tom Bryans slid the puck under the Farmington goaltender to give Plymouth-Canton a 3-0 bulge. Tim Osburn made a nifty centering pass to set up the goal.

Farmington, however, got on the board when Jim Regner found the net.

The district title was wrapped up when Rodney Williams scored on assists from Bryans and Osburn.

In the first game of the double-elimination tournament, Farmington defeated Fab, 4-1, as Ron Simsick scored the lone goal on an assist by John Smith.

Plymouth-Canton bounced back in the second game to beat Garden City, 3-0, as Belhart tallied what proved to be the game-winner. The second goal was scored by Smith on a pretty passing play by Eric Seppi and Joe Carlson.

The final goal was tallied in the penalty-marred third period by Williams. Simsick and Osburn drew assists. Goalie John Longridge posted the shutout.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON won its second straight game with a 3-2 victory over Mic Mac.

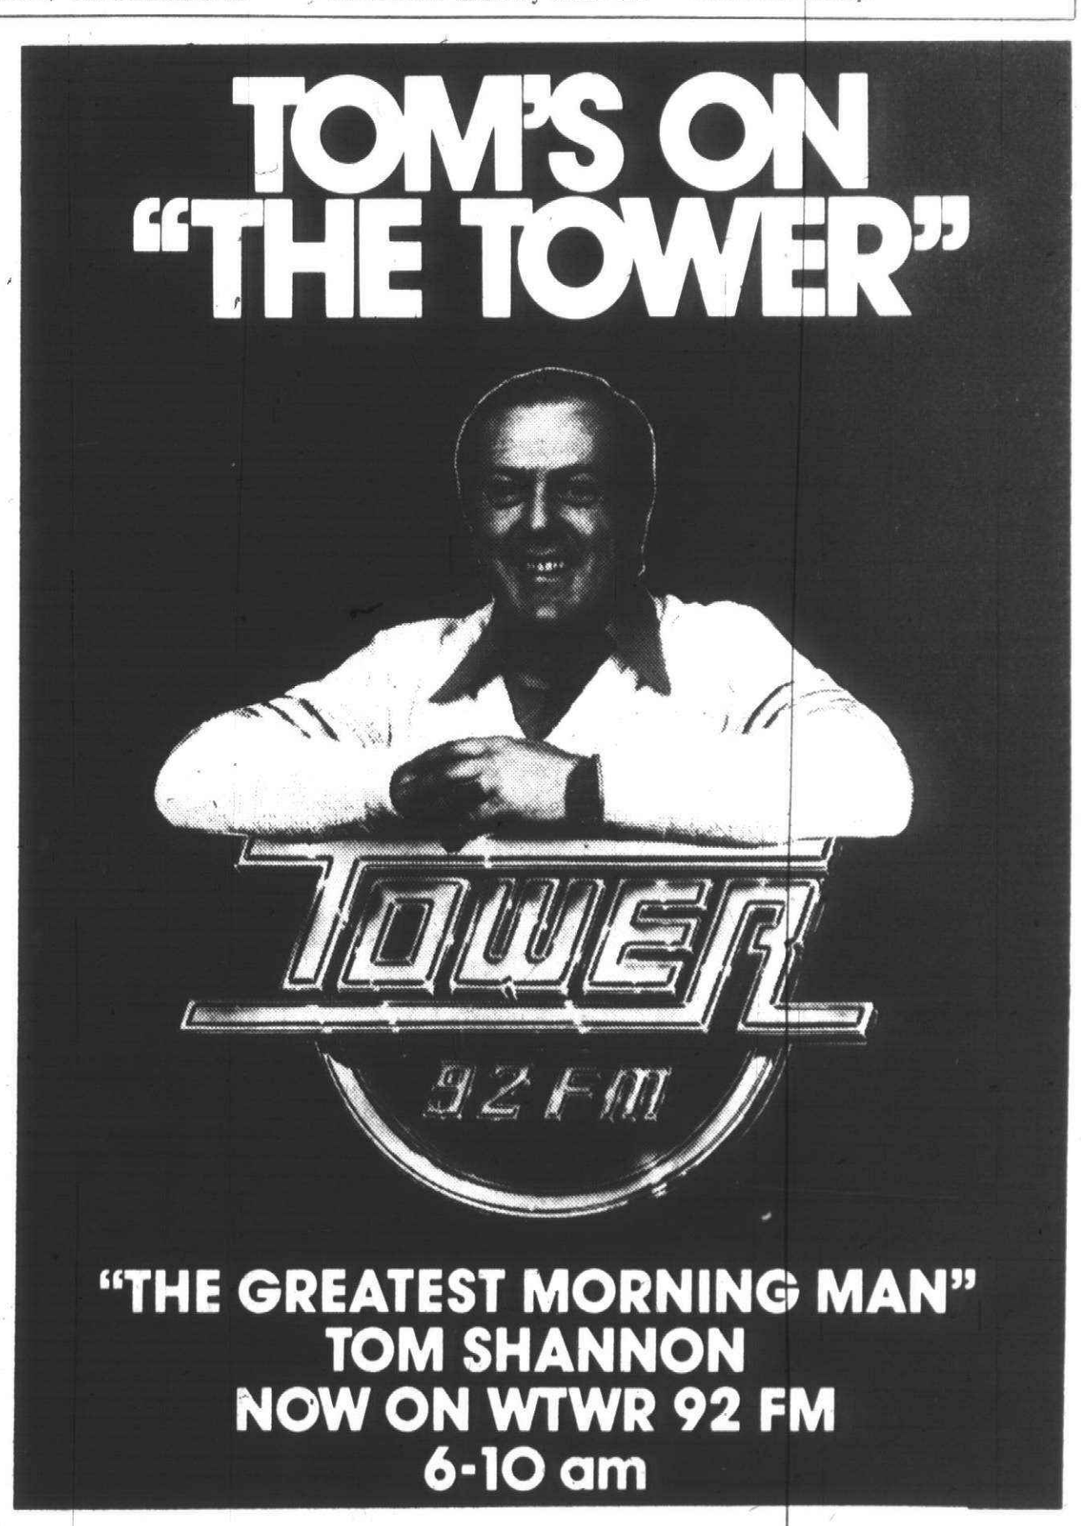
Nelson gave Fab a 1-0 first period advantage. Mic Mac, however, rallied in the second period with two goals to take the lead.

That didn't last long, though, in the third period as Williams tied the game on assists by Perrin and Belhart. Smith then tallied the game-winner as Jeff Darrow and Bryans assisted.

Fab reached the championship game with a 2-0 win over Livonia, the defending Bantam AA Division winners.

The game was highlighted by torrid skating and bruising body checks on both sides.

Bryans connected on both goals to lead Plymouth-Canton, which gained a rematch against Farmington.



Canton swimmers stage title repeat

McCord congratulates team

Coaches have come and gone, but the results have remained virtually the same for the Plymouth Canton boys' swim team.

The Chiefs won their third straight Western Six League title Friday at Farmington Harrison's pool by racking up 367 points. Northville was the distant second with 245.

It was the first crown for rookie coach Bill McCord, who said afterward that "I'd like to coach the team again if I'm in the area."

Last year, Bill Hahn was hired outside the district and coached the team to the crown. He did not return. Bill Faunce, who coached for six years and laid the foundation, retired two years ago after Canton won its initial title.

Canton, which went undefeated in six dual meets this season, won six of 11 events.

Junior Ron Hurley showed the way with first place finishes in the 50-yard freestyle (23.5) and 100 butterfly (57.2).

He was also a member of Canton's 200 medley relay team which gained first with a time of 1:55.6. Other members of the squad included Jim Luce, Bob Simrak and Pete Stern.

Joe Gibbons, Bob Simone, Pete Sickels and Stern combined to win the 400 freestyle relay with a time of 3:34.1.

The meet's other double winner sophomore was Ted Rudel of Farmington Harrison. He finished first in the 200 and 500 freestyles.

Simrak, also a junior, gained first in the 200 individual medley with a time of 2:09.1. Teammate Steve Gaggi won the diving with 284.10 points in 11 dives.

John Simone of Canton was second in the 500 freestyle (5:23.05) and third in the 200 freestyle (1:58.5).

"I KNEW all along that this team should win the league," said McCord. "It's been a long road. I'm really, really happy. The guys really worked. They had a lot of heart.

The Canton coach was particularly pleased with his team's showing in the 100 breaststroke where Luce placed second, Greg Schnurstein was fourth, John Luce was fifth and Joe McBratnie was sixth.

Stevenson cagers advance

By BRAD EMONS

Whatever was uttered in the locker room during intermission must have had some effect on Livonia Stevenson's basketball team.

Trailing by 10 points, the Spartans roared back in the second half to down Livonia Bentley, 52-42, Friday to claim the Class A district title.

It was the second straight district crown for Stevenson and the third for veteran coach George Van Wagoner.

"It's a good thing there's two halves to a game," he said. "I'm very proud of these kids."

Van Wagoner was elated with his team's performance in the final two quarters. The Spartans outscored Bentley after intermission, 36-16.

A full court press by Stevenson unraveled the Bulldogs and forced turnovers in the Bentley frontcourt, as opposed usually in the backcourt.

"I told them at halftime we had to double (team) wherever the ball was and cover the passing lanes," Van Wagoner said. "We went with a faster team on the floor and they just hustled.

"Early we wanted to go after them, but we were lax."

The Spartans had seven steals in the second half, turning the opportunities into points.

"I think we broke their pressure well," said Bentley coach Jim Komula. "but we just went flat.

"I think I'd rather been down or tied at halftime. You have more of a will to win when your behind."

SENIOR BILL KEYES sparked the uprising, scoring 14 of his game-high 18 points in the second half. He also grabbed eight rebounds. Teammates Jon Huddy and Greg Berkey added nine and eight points, respectively.

Jon Kilger, Bentley's 6-foot-4 center, had 17 points and 10 rebounds. Frontline mate Eric Sink added five points and 12 rebounds.

Stevenson was outscored from the field, 19-16, but made up the difference by hitting 20 of 27 free throws.

The Spartans gradually chipped away at Bentley's lead in the third quarter. They tallied nine points during a four-minute stretch without a Bentley score.

In the fourth quarter, Huddy scored two quick layups to give Stevenson a three-point bulge. Berkey scored and Keyes hit two free throws to propel the Spartans to a seven-point advantage with 4:09 left.

Van Wagoner then ordered his team into a delay game, forcing the Bulldogs to foul. Two free throws by Kilger with 2:33 to go closed the gap to five, 45-40, but Bentley never came any closer.

The Bulldogs, who bowed out with an 11-9 record, dominated the first half and built a 13-point lead behind the play of Sink, Kilger, Mike Schneider and guards Kevin Holowicki and Mike Cavicchio.

"I THOUGHT the kids were ready to play," said Komula, "especially after we scored the first basket of the third quarter.

"George is an excellent coach and has done a good job facing adversity."

Handicap keglers enjoy leagues

One of the most interesting leagues in the western suburbs isn't concerned with high scores or averages. It is designed for fun, and the bowlers are having it at Westland Bowl each Thursday morning.

It is a league for the handicapped, and at the moment, there are 60 bowlers taking part each week. Unlike most bowlers who bring only their ball, bag and shoes to the lanes, these bowlers have their own equipment that consists of wheel chairs and chutes that, in some cases, are stored at the lanes.

There is another league for handicapped bowlers at Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington. This league, too, has more than 50 members who are sponsored by the Farmington Training Center and Cloverdale school.

No adult leagues have more fun than these groups, and their ranks are growing.

HERE'S a new one. Scoring in the Wonderland Classic was so low this week, in comparison, to other periods, the bowlers didn't turn in their scores. And this is the house where 700 series abound. Asked to explain, George Bashara, the owner, said simply, "They all had an off night at the same time."

THERE WAS a rarity in the Wayne County league at Garden Lanes this week when two bowlers tied for top place in the firing.

Chuck Senne and Frank Whitby each came through with counts of 642 in one of the closest finishes of the year. Even with this score, they were only seven pins ahead of Mel Carrington.

Behind this trio came Gil Churchill with 626, Bill Reid with 618, Glen Baske with 616 and Dick Kunn with 607.

In the Ladies House League, Judy Mazer took top honors with 594. Four pins back came Nancy Bartlett, and Sue Schmidbaner landed third with 573.

In the Vinco League, Rick Winter was tops with 642, while Otis Lackey landed in the runner-up spot with 631 and Benny Oleksercz was next with 626.

GARY SHELBY took the lead role in the men's league at Westland Bowl when he used a 254 game for a 646 series. Bill Saunders wound up in second place with 626 that included a 232 game.

Others who bettered double century figures were Tom Wolters with a 246 in 616, Jim Davis with 607 and Jerry Segal with 606.

THE BOWLERS in the senior house league at Merri-Bowl staged an old fashioned duel this week when only five pins seperated the top three on the scoring race. George Nagle landed in front with 664, three pins more than D.J. Archer, who had a 256 in 661. Dick Brandenburge was next with a 289 in 659.

In the Parks and Recreation loop, Ed Lidzdorski paced the teens with 246, and he is a 159 average bowler. Fred Young, who is only 12 years old, had 604 for high series.

AT WOODLAND LANES Bob Drocious, who carries a 164 average in the Ford League, fashioned a 269 in 627. Tim Henry, with a 170 average in the Catholic Central loop, posted a 256 in 655.

Glenn cagers rout Panthers

Round three proved to be a knockout punch as Westland John Glenn blasted Garden City East Thursday night, 61-45, in a district basketball game Thursday night at Plymouth Salem.

The Rockets, who increased their record to 16-5, marched into the district final against Wayne Memorial by beating East for the third straight time this year.

Just a week earlier, the two teams met on East's home floor in a Northwest Suburban League game. Glenn escaped with a two-point win.

"We were down two centers and went with five guards for that game," explained East coach Rick Brewis. "The kids were up for that because of the challenge.

"I thought we were up tonight, but we just went flat."

Glenn coach Dan Henry said his team worked especially hard for East, despite their 2-17 record.

"We prepared harder for East than in any other game this year. We weren't looking past them at all. We did not ignore them. They had our respect."

Senior guard Rob Sisson scored eight of his game-high 16 points as Glenn took a 16-12 first quarter advantage.

The Rockets, running the fast break and controlling the boards, increased their lead at halftime, 31-17.

In the third quarter, Kevin Thweatt hit for 10 points as Glenn opened up a 20-points bulge.

"WE EMPHASIZED rebounding in practice," Henry said. "We haven't been getting weak-side position. I'm happy to be in the finals, but I'm more pleased with our effort."

Also in double figures for the Rocks were Thweatt (14), Dave Ward (12) and Steve Hodges (12).

Rob Kosowski paced East with 14. Ed Kulik added 11.

"Tonight Glenn was more patient," said Brewis. "They had better position on the boards and that was the difference. They were also taking better shots."

Brewis, just 23 years old, said he is committed to turning East's fortunes around.

CLINE WINS MEDALS

Sophomore Bob Cline, a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School, won a pair of medals recently and set two Michigan Tech swim records in the process.

In the 1981 Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) meet at Oakland University, Cline finished fifth in the 200-yard backstroke with a time of 2:07.78, a school record.

He came back to garner 12th in the 200 individual medley with a clocking of 2:05.8 for another Tech record.

Big showdown near

Pat McKendry and Dan Moore combined for 50 points as Puckett Heating downed the Canton Express, 89-79, in a Plymouth Recreation Adult Basketball League game last week.

Dennis Johnson of Canton led all scorers with 27. Moore had six field goals and 13 free throws to score 25.

A showdown for the league title will be held at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at Central Middle School when McAllister's meets the Rusty Nail '76ers.

A victory by Rusty Nail would create a three-way tie for the title between McAllister's, Mayflower Hotel and the '76ers.

John Glenn bombs Garden City East

"We're going to instill a new summer program," said the former Farmington Harrison assistant. "I saw vast improvement. It was not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game. It had to be that way this year."

Brewis said it's going to be difficult to build a winner without a junior high program.

Brewis is also uncertain about his future as East's coach.

"I don't teach in the district," he said. "I want to be back, but the job is posted every year within the district. If somebody wants it, I'll be gone."

Salem reserves finish strong

By THOMAS ZAIBEK

Plymouth Salem concluded a successful junior varsity basketball season last week with a 68-38 triumph over Trenton.

The baby Rocks posted an 18-2 overall mark this year. One of those losses came earlier in the season against Trenton.

Salem's pressure defense resulted in numerous Trojan turnovers. The Rocks bolted out to a commanding 32-12 halftime lead.

Freshman center Rick Berberet paced the Salem scoring attack with 17 points. Marvin Zurek and Glenn Medalle added 11 and nine, respectively.

AN APPEAL TO THE COMMUNITY

UAW WORKERS AT PLYMOUTH STAMPING NEED YOUR HELP

IN THEIR 6 MONTH STRUGGLE FOR SALVATION, JUSTICE, AND DIGNITY.

WORKERS AND UNION POSITION

*We started negotiations August 14, 1980, with the intentions of a fair and early settlement.

*We want to help the company stay in business because the workers efforts and hard work made the company profitable.

*We want to go back to work, to the jobs that rightfully belong to us.

*The workers and the union have agreed to the company's earlier proposal for wage and benefit reduction. The company refuses to bargain in good faith with no intention of settling the strike.

*Top management of the company refuses to meet with the bargaining committee and the U.A.W. representative.

*Company agents with no authority to settle anything waste our time at the bargaining table.

*Company demanded that the workers make additional sacrifices with substantial deductions in wages and benefits.

*Meanwhile, supervisory personnel received big salary and bonuses, no cuts or no reductions in their wages or benefits.

*The company wants to keep the strikebreakers (new workers) working on our jobs, discarding the 10-40 year seniority people who have been with the company loyally.

*Company agents add new dimensions by demanding new take-aways at every meeting.

*Management and too many bosses that don't know what they are doing have caused the company's financial mess, not direct labor cost. The labor cost at this company is very low — 9¢ on a sales dollar is well below the 20¢ national average on the sales dollar.

*The company made money off the worker's sweat.

Dear Brother Battle:

It has been almost six months since our contract expired, and we are on strike at the Plymouth Stamping Plant.

Your office and the members of your staff that have been assigned to work with us are doing a good job negotiating our Agreement and our return to work.

Our problem is with the Company Representatives refusing to negotiate and changing their minds.

Every time they come to the bargaining table, they want us to give up more and more, and it is getting to the point that the Company wants us to pay them so that we can go back to work.

God knows, we want to go back to work; we need to. Our families and children need to eat.

Director Battle, we know you are doing a good job, and our Union is behind us 100%. We appreciate it very much, but we want to appeal to you to see if you can make the community understand our problem.

Thank you again for your help and support.

Fraternally,

Doris Cunningham — Betty J. Orr

WE NEED YOUR SUPPORT

To keep Plymouth Stamping Company in the Township to help absorb the tax burden in the community.

Please contact your township administrators — ask them to get involved by speaking with the company and by getting the company to bargain in good faith.

Employees with up to 41 years of loyalty and dedicated service to the company are worth a lot more than what we are getting. We do not want the best years of our lives to go down the drain.

Please help us and our families settle this strike so we can go back to work with dignity.

Howard Hughes (Jason Robards), or a man who professes to be him, has been injured in a motorcycle accident in "Melvyn and Howard."

the movies

Louise Snider

Delightful cast brings off tale of mystery man

If "good-natured" can be applied to a movie, then "Melvin and Howard" (R) warrants that description. It's an easy-going, humorous, apple-pie kind of movie.

Johnathan Demme, who showed he has a real feel for grass roots Americana when he directed "Citizen's Band," does it again in "Melvin and Howard," with a cast that could charm the tattoos off a sailor.

Paul Le Mat is Melvin Dummar, the inheritor, almost, of the great American dream. Dummar is the gas station attendant who was left $156 million by Howard Hughes in what became known as the Mormon will. The will wasn't accepted in court, but that really isn't essential to the story.

We get a good idea of what Melvin would do with any windfall from an incident midway through the movie. Lynda, his wife (a very colorful and confident acting job by Mary Steenburgen), wins $10,000 cash plus prizes on a television quiz show.

LYNDA AND Melvin use the money for a down payment on a new house. But while Lynda struggles with the budget, working things out to the penny, who pulls up in a new Cadillac with a speedboat in tow? Melvin.

You know he is not going to have them for long. Melvin is always in a race with his creditors. The sight of the repossessors at work is not a novelty in this household.

Melvin operates on the wrong side of prudence, yet we get the feeling that maybe he makes the world a better place. His wishing and dreaming and optimism go along with a generous and caring nature.

If it weren't for these qualities, he probably never would have struck up an acquaintance with Hughes.

Melvin is driving across the desert one night when he stops and gives a lift to a disheveled, old man he finds injured beside the road. The man says he is Howard Hughes. Melvin's response is: Call yourself whatever you want.

AND MELVIN, an aspiring songwriter, teaches Hughes the lyrics to his latest endeavor, "Santa's Souped-up Sleigh." He drops the old man off in Vegas after giving him his last dollar, and that's the end of that until the millionaire's death and the discovery of the will.

Jason Robards, foregoing some of his usual overacting, is a delight as the eccentric Hughes. He is only on the screen for 10 or 15 minutes, but what minutes they are. He is testy, bemused, assertive, peculiar, absolutely perfect as Hughes.

Melvin keeps on the move, from one city to another, one job to another, one marriage to another. He is running a gas station in Utah when a mysterious stranger leaves an envelope with him and drives away. The public part of Melvin's life begins.

It involves celebrity treatment, media exposure and then derision when the will is not accepted as genuine.

Somehow, Melvin seems to handle the circumstances and disappointment. In the movie, he says he never really thought that he would get the $156 million. The important thing was that "Howard Hughes sang my song."

For a man who doesn't handle money well, Melvin knows a lot about values.

Lynda Dummar (Mary Steenburgen), Melvyn's wife, appears on the TV game show "Easy Street" and wins $10,000.

CHARLIE CHAN AND THE CURSE OF THE DRAGON QUEEN (PG). Mystery-satire with Peter Ustinov as the inscrutable detective, Richard Hatch as the bumbling grandson and Angie Dickinson as the Dragon Queen.

THE DEVIL AND MAX DEVLIN (PG). Elliott Gould is the manager of a rundown apartment building who bargains with Satan's assistant (Bill Cosby) for a peculiar exchange of souls.

THE ELEPHANT MAN (PG). Largely true story of grossly deformed man rescued from sordid life by compassionate doctor. Fine acting by John Hurt, Anthony Hopkins and John Gielgud balances out directorial shortcomings.

Hometown grocer meets hometown newspaper. And a four-year romance begins.

Joe Cipriano and Joe Agemy (photos by Bill Bresler)

Larry Downey, Meat Manager (right)

We don't know if it was love at first ad, but Joe Agemy has some very nice things to say about the results he gets each week from Shopping Cart, our colorful Monday food section.

Four years ago Agemy & Sons opened in Livonia on Five Mile at Farmington Road. The goal at Agemy's was and is to give people good old fashioned personal service. Like the sign behind the meat counter says, "If you don't see it, ask for it. If we haven't got it, we'll get it."

There's a lot of friendliness that goes on at Agemy's -- greetings called to customers as they pick and choose from the many good food items displayed.

"The Observer is sort of like my store--friendly, local," says Joe.

We think Shopping Cart and Agemy's were made for each other and as Joe says, "You don't have to search for my ads," he likes the fact that they're right where they're supposed to be along with good food-related features and recipes that appeal to his friends--his customers and our readers

Five pounds of coupons may not sound like a lot to the average coupon clipper, but the more than 8,000 that make up the pile that weighs nearly five pounds is enough to make a grown grocer's heart miss a beat. That's how many Joe has received as a result of a recent Shopping Cart ad and they're still coming.

If you don't have a hefty handful of coupons sitting around, maybe it's time you made a date with your Observer & Eccentric ad rep.

A little romance never hurt anybody.

LEGAL SECRETARIES
Dear Legal Secretaries:

If you get up in the morning and think "I wish I didn't have to go to work today", believe me, it's time for a change in jobs.

Stop being a masochist and do something about it! Isn't your mental health important to you? Why beat your brains out all day long on a job that no longer fulfills you. Do you realize most of us have to spend more than 2,000 hours a year working away from home, so you better like what you're doing.

A good job is one where the week isn't long enough, and you resent the weekends that take you away from it. Do yourselves a favor TODAY. Pick up the phone and call Joanne. It only costs 20c and a few minutes of your time. A psychiatrist is a lot more expensive.

If I don't have the job that turns you on, I'll find if for you. We don't push people into situations they don't want. We keep you out of them.

If you have what you think is a great job, have you bothered to tell your employer thanks?

All fees employer paid.

Learn to change a tire

Learn to change your spare tire on the next warm day. Don't learn on the side of a road at night. Waiting for a two truck driver to come and change your tire can be both frustrating and expensive.

Perform the dry run at your leisure when you can carefully follow instructions while not under time pressure or in bad weather.

Each owner's manual contains detailed instruction for the jack and its operation and tells how to change a tire. It also provides information on the types of spare tires.

The spares include the conventional tire, which can be put on a car for regular use. Others are the collapsible spare, which has to be inflated by a special canister, and the alreadey inflated mini-spare. The latter two are for temporary use only.

Jacks include those that fit into slots in the bumpter and those that fit under the door sill. They require different methods of operation. Know which one you have and how it operates. Again, consult the manual.

Changing a tire is relatively simple, but it should be done with some caution. The gear selector shoud be in the park position and the parking brakes should be set.

Place an object to block the wheel that is diagonally opposite the wheel being changed.

Only then should you remove the jack and tire-wheel combination from the trunk of the car.

Flat tires no longer occur with any frequency, especially if the tires have a mdoerate amount of tread, but they always seem to happen at an inappropriate time.

That's why a practice session will save a lot of mental wear and tear (and maybe money), should the need to change a tire arise.

Edison will lease electric cars

Coal to kilowatts to electric cars is the goal of the Detroit Edison contract with the U.S. Department of Energy's electric and hybred vehicle demonstration program.

Edison will operate 24 electric cars under a three-year cost-sharing agreement with DOE. Sixteen of the cars will be leased to Edison employees for their personal use to obtain data on electric cars in normal communiting and family travel situations.

Six of the cars will be put into the company's pool car fleet. The remaining two will be used for security patrol.

The program is the first time a demonstration site operator will lease electric cars to typical families for everyday use, said George Murray, who is in charge of the Detroit Edison electric car program.

Le Car sedan

A five-door has been added to American Motors' lineup of high-mileage cars. The five-door Le Car has the highest fuel economy estimate of any gasoline-fueled car from Europe: EPA estimated mpg is 29 city, 39 highway. The front-wheel-drive Le Car has a 1.4 liter four-cylinder engine and four-speed manual transmission. Other standard features are rack-and-pinion steering, self-adjusting front disc brakes and Michelin steel-belted radial tires.
