Canton's state rep. runs for city mayor

By Sandra Armbruster
staff writer

State Rep. Thomas Brown is a candidate for the job of mayor in Westland. Brown, whose 37th District includes Canton and Plymouth townships as well as Westland, announced his candidacy in a letter mailed to local newspapers this week.

Brown is considered a surprise candidate in the race, despite having a 20-year-long involvement in local politics. His name was not among those most frequently mentioned by political observers as likely candidates after Mayor Thomas Taylor announced his decision not to seek re-election.

Brown began considering the job after Taylor announced he wouldn't be a candidate. He said he made his decision last week, and added in his press statement that he been approached and encouraged by others in the city to seek the job.

If Brown was a successful candidate, his election as mayor would require a special election to fill his 37th state House seat. His term expires in 1982. Taylor said Wednesday that he isn't considering running for Brown's state representative post.

Brown said he is now eligible for a state pension. He said he didn't know if earlier city posts would make him eligible for a pension after serving as mayor.

BROWN BEGAN his political career in 1961 as a trustee in Nankin Township. He later served the township as treasurer and supervisor. He became the first mayor of Westland when it became a city 15 years ago.

Brown was elected in 1970 to the State House, where he now serves as chairman of the Towns and Counties committee and as a member of the education, taxation, public safety and roads and bridges committees.

Rumors predicting Brown's candidacy surfaced only during the last two weeks.

Spotlight on alcoholism

The United States is suffering from a $60 billion hangover.

Alcoholism is the most neglected health problem in the U.S. today, according to the National Council on Alcoholism.

The statistics are staggering:

- Some 100 million persons over the age of 15 in this country are consumers of alcohol. Of these, there are an estimated 10 million alcoholics.
- An estimated 3.3 million drinking teen-agers are showing signs that may lead to the development of alcoholism.
- Between 6-10 percent of employees are alcoholics.

Observer staff members have been studying alcoholism for the past three weeks. Their reports in this Thursday's editions, include interviews with alcoholics and therapists; new theories behind the cause of alcoholism; the increasing use of alcohol by women and senior citizens; and alcohol and young athletes.

This dispatch room is "home" to Lawrence Longwish, who has been a Canton firefighter for 31 years. Longwish lived in the fire station for 17 years.

At Canton fire station

He's literally back home

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

A lot has changed since Lawrence Longwish first signed up as a Canton firefighter. For a look at today's full-time department, turn to Page 3A.

Lawrence Longwish was a teen-ager when a fire broke out on his family's farm off Cherry Hill Road in Canton.

Neighbors quickly pitched in and stopped the blaze from spreading to the house. Later, those same friends helped rebuild the barn and other burned buildings on the farm.

Right then, Longwish decided to become a firefighter so he could help people. He made good on his promise, signing on at age 21 when Canton's volunteer fire department was developing in the early 1950s.

At age 52, Longwish still can be seen riding on Canton fire trucks. He isn't the oldest firefighter in the township — just the one who has been around the longest.

Longwish is soft-spoken. His conversation is full of phrases which reflect a desire to help people and get along with others.

"Serving other people — that's what we're here for," Longwish said. "When I got into this business, it was to help the people who helped my folks — the wonderful people who helped put our buildings back up."

CO-WORKERS like to joke that Longwish came to Canton "packed in one of the compartments" in a fire truck. But he mirrors the growth of the department and of the township.

"As I look back, it's been a good life," Longwish said. "It's a rewarding life. It isn't a real demanding job, but it has to be done."

In the early days, the building at Cherry Hill and Canton Center roads served as a combination township hall and fire station.

Living in the station was William Squires, who had retired from a job at the Detroit House of Corrections, and his wife Jessie.

When a fire alarm came in, Mrs. Squires would phone the volunteers. Squires would drive the truck to the scene of the fire and meet the volunteers there.

Squires, however, had to quit because of illness, and Longwish in 1953 got the job of resident firefighter. He and his then-wife Ann moved into the station with their two children.

"IT (Canton) was all rural farmland then," Longwish said. "Seventy percent of the fires were grass fires in the spring.

"Nowadays, we have 70 percent rescue runs," he added. "When I moved in here, I thought there would be a full-time department within four or five years."

Instead, the family remained residents of the station for about 17 years. Three more children were born to Longwish and his wife, from whom he now is divorced.

Whenever the family took vacations or went out for social events, one of the other firefighters would come in and hold down the fort.

"I don't miss not living in the station," said Longwish, who lives in Wayne with his married son's family. "I like to hunt and fish."

During the late 1960s, subdivisions began popping up all over Canton, transforming the township from a mostly farm region to a suburban community.

In 1972, the fire department became a full-time operation. More equipment was added.

Some of the serious fires which Longwish recalls during his tenure were blazes which destroyed buildings under construction at Deer Creek Apartments (now Honey Tree) off Joy Road and a fire in a factory on Michigan Avenue back in the 1950s.

He also helped fight fires in Plymouth at the Penniman Theater and Lofy's Restaurant.

"We (Canton) have been very fortunate. We've only lost seven people (in house fires)," Longwish said. "We're fortunate we haven't had more.

Under the firefighters' contract, workers are eligible for retirement after 25 years of service, or at age 55.

"I figure on working a couple more years, until I'm 55 — the good Lord willing," Longwish said.

"I got into this business to help people," he added. "There isn't much I don't like about it."

Cable building

Here's rundown of work in subdivision back yards

By Darlene Stinson
editor

Construction!

The word denotes huge pieces of machinery, debris and large crews of workers.

Those types of mental images may accurately portray work on a new subdivision or office complex. But Pat Cavanagh, the man responsible for working with homeowners during Omnicom's construction work, said building Canton's cable television system should produce few disturbances for homeowners.

Cavanagh said that the construction work — predominately in homeowners' back yards — conceivably could damage a shrub, cut through an underground sprinkler line or leave a tiny ridge in the lawn.

But Cavanagh promises that all damaged items will be fixed or replaced.

The key to smooth construction — both from homeowners' and Omnicom's point of view — lies in residents' awareness of the building process. Cavanagh said homeowners should tell the cable company of any potential problems with landscaping or sprinkler lines and seek answers to their questions about the construction work.

As Omnicom's subdivision coordinator, Cavanagh is the man to call, at 459-7300, for answers to questions, a complaint or discussion of a potential problem.

"It's going to create a much bigger problem if all of a sudden people have a question when the construction crews come around," he said.

IN MANY CASES, residents will not have to pick up their phones at all.

Omnicom already has mailed letters to approximately 2,000 homes between Warren, Ford, Canton Center and Haggerty to notify residents that construction crews soon will appear in their neighborhood.

Other letters may be mailed next week to residents of the "phase two" construction area — bounded by Warren, Joy, Haggerty and Canton Center. Plans call for the next phases of construction to be in Sunflower subdivision and then in areas south of Ford Road.

The mailings contain a stamped post card addressed to Omnicom which Cavanagh urges homeowners to fill out.

Notifying Omnicom of landscaping, sprinkler systems or some other obstruction in the building easement could influence company decisions regarding the placement of cable lines, Cavanagh said.

Homeowners will receive another notification from Omnicom immediately before the start of construction in their neighborhoods. After receiving the "door-hanging," residents should mark the location of underground drain tiles or sprinkler lines with stakes or spray paint on the lawn, Cavanagh suggested.

That will save time for Omnicom crews, who hand-dig near underground obstructions while inserting the cable lines in the ground. It also will help prevent accidental cutting or damage to sprinkler lines or drain tiles Omnicom crews already have started construction work in Pickwick, Willow Trails and Carriage Hills Subdivision. Company officials said the entire system will be built by the end of 1981.

Here's what to expect when construction crews appear in your neighborhood — probably three to five days after a notice is hung on your door:

IN CANTON, most cable lines will be laid underground within the 6-foot utility easements at the rear of back yards. A typical construction crew consists of four workers with a "vibratory plow" — a machine slightly larger than a riding lawn mower.

Omnicom officials will have determined the route of the cable line by the time crews arrive.

In most cases where back yards abut, one cable line will serve two sets of homes. Omicom workers will route the line along the path of least resistance. Minor adjustments in the route can be made to detour around a bush or another obstruction, but major zigzags are discouraged.

On their visit to a subdivision, crews will insert the cable in the ground and install "pedestals" — measuring 18 inches high and 5 by 8 inches square — in one-quarter of the area's back yards.

Bad-check suspect goes by 'John Doe'

Canton police late Friday were trying to find out the identity of a "John Doe" suspect being held in the Wayne County Jail on a bad-check charge.

The unidentified man faces an April 27 preliminary examination in 35th District Court on a charge of uttering and publishing.

Canton police said they believe the man tried to cash a payroll check for $196 at Meijer's Thrifty Acres at Ford and Canton Center roads. Officers made the arrest on April 21 in the parking lot of the shopping center.

The check was one of 200 reported stolen on April 19 from Air Compressor Sales and Service on Ford Road in Westland.

Canton Police Cpl. Rob Cripe said the suspect was carrying fake identification, and refused to give his real name.

"WE'VE been trying to find out his identity through fingerprints through Lansing and Detroit," Cripe said. "He was arraigned before (35th District Court) Judge Dunbar Davis as John Doe."

The man was sent to Wayne County Jail in lieu of $5,000 cash bond.

Cripe said investigation indicated the suspect was carrying identification which had been stolen on March 29 from an Akron, Ohio, man who had been a guest in a Hazel Park motel.

The "John Doe" suspect is described as black, between 25-30 years old, 6 feet tall and weighing about 190 pounds. He has short brown hair and is clean-shaven.

At the time of his arrest, he was wearing blue jeans and a blue shirt of the type commonly worn by gas station attendants. The name Charlie was stitched on the shirt.

Uttering and publishing is a felony punishable by 14 years in prison upon conviction.

Schools push for more sidewalks

The townships within Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are being asked to participate in a sidewalk construction program to help reduce busing expenses of the school district.

The request was made this month by Dale Goby, director of transportation, to the supervisors of Canton, Plymouth and Northville townships.

Goby reported that the school district safety committee has been studying the problem of inadequate sidewalks for safe student pedestrian traffic within the district boundaries.

During its study, the safety committee also recommended high priority areas where sidewalks were most needed.

After that work was done, Goby compiled lists of where sidewalks were needed by geographical areas and passed them on to the township supervisors — Jim Poole in Canton, Maurice Breen in Plymouth, and John MacDonald in Northville.

Goby asked the supervisors to give these specified areas high priority in any future sidewalk construction programs the townships might undertake.

CURRENTLY THE school district is busing students to school because the lack of sidewalks en route to their schools makes it unsafe for them to walk.

This practice of "safety busing" is costly to the district because the state does not reimburse transportation expense for any students bused who live within 1.5 miles from their schools.

In some areas lacking sidewalks along major roads, the district is busing students and paying the full cost for that transportation.

State budget cuts for the coming year being considered by the governor including raising the busing limit to two miles, which would increase the local districts busing costs even more.

Goby's letter was answered by Plymouth Township which asked whether the school district was willing to participate in a cost-sharing program to build sidewalks.

Superintendent John M. Hoben's initial reaction was that the schools should not get in the business of building sidewalks as that was a municipal responsibility.

Hoben later, however, said it might be cheaper for the district to pay for half of a sidewalk than to continue busing students for safety reasons.

The sidewalk construction request has not been discussed yet by school or township trustees.

GOBY NOTED that transportation costs could be greatly reduced if sidewalks were built in the following areas of Plymouth Township:

On the east side of McClumpha from Ann Arbor Trail to Joy and on the north side of Ann Arbor Road from Tennyson to McClumpha;

On the north side of Ann Arbor Trail from Ferguson to Riverside Drive;

The west side of Sheldon from Ann Arbor Road to Ann Arbor Trail and the north side of Ann Arbor Trail from Glenview to Sheldon;

Township slates public hearing on recreational plan

Canton officials are requesting public comments on a $260,000 development plan for a recreation site behind Township Hall.

Implementation of the plan hinges on approval of a grant application for $130,000 in federal Land and Water Conservation funds.

According to recreation superintendent Mike Gouin, the plan calls for development of two softball fields, four soccer fields, six tennis courts, a children's play area and a parking area on a 29-acre portion of the 45-acre site. The parcel is part of Township Hall properties at Canton Center and Proctor.

A public hearing on the plan will be held at Tuesday's Township Board meeting, which begins at 7 p.m. in Township Hall.

Board members designated the land as a park site in February and authorized submission of the grant application in March.

Since that time, however, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources has amended its policies for submission of applications for the federal grant monies. The DNR, which administers the grant program, now requires a public hearing prior to submission of the application, according to grant coordinator Terry Carroll.

Submission of the grant application could be an exercise in futility.

PresIdent Ronald Reagan has proposed elimination of the Land and Water Conservation Fund of the U.S. Department of Interior as part of his program for slashes in the federal budget. According to Carroll, the Senate already has approved abolishment of the grant program.

Last fall, up to $75,000 in Land and Water Conservation Fund monies were committed to Canton for purchase of a recreational area in rural northwest Canton. Township Board members turned down the grant in January for a variety of reasons, including vehement objections from residents of the area.

UM tuition may leap 16-19 percent

"An unfortunately large increase in tuition" — now estimated to be between 16 to 19 percent — will likely greet University of Michigan students next fall, UM regents heard last week.

At Monday's meeting

Schools consider staff shuffling

Final action is expected to be taken on a series of administrative reassignments by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education tonight.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in the upstairs conference room of the board offices, 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

Earlier this month the school board voted to issue layoff notices to the affected administrators for the purpose of reassigning them to lower paying positions or to different positions at the same pay level.

Of those involved one person will lose his job entirely while others still will be with the school district next year but in different positions.

When the board voted to issue the notices the administrators involved were not publicly identified because the board wanted their identity hidden until each was notified.

In at least one case, word leaked out about the change and parents of students at Starkweather Elementary organized a protest of the transfer of principal John Howe while the Tanger PTO objected to having to share a principal with another school.

The transfers, demotions and one layoff will trim some $225,000 from the administrative salary expenses for the 1981-82 school year.

THOSE INVOLVED include:

- John Howe, principal at Starkweather, transferred to Gallimore as assistant principal.
- Jan Hawkins, assistant principal at Gallimore, transferred to Fiegle as assistant principal.
- Pat Patton, area coordinator at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP), transferred to Bird Elementary as assistant principal.
- Mike Smith, manager of the Rotary School Farm, dismissed because the farm will be closed.
- Bea Green, director of libraries, to be reassigned to the position of librarian at a school as yet undetermined.
- Maureen Murphy, assistant principal at Pioneer, moved to Lowell Middle School to become assistant principal.

Carroll Nichols, now principal of Tanger Elementary, will be named principal of two elementary schools with enrollments of less than 200. (It has been assumed and discussed by the board that these two schools will be Tanger and Starkweather.)

In addition, Harold Gaertner, director of vocational education, will be asked to take on some of the responsibilities of an area coordinator at the CEP.

SOME OF THE changes are occurring because of Bird and Fiegel going on Extended School Year (ESY) next year and Pioneer Middle being switched from ESY to Traditional School Year (TSY).

Pioneer, for instance, had an additional assistant principal because it was an ESY school which is why Ms. Murphy now is being re-assigned to Lowell Junior High.

The expansion of ESY to two more elementaries this coming year explains why Ms. Hawkins is going to Fiegle and Ms. Patton to Bird as assistant principals.

Currently neither Bird nor Fiegle have an assistant principal and Pioneer has two assistants as an ESY middle school while the other middle schools have one assistant principal.

The transfer of Ms. Patton also is related to grade re-alignment as the CEP will require fewer area coordinators after the ninth grade is moved out.

Dr. Gary Faber, area coordinator at Plymouth Canton High, earlier was promoted to the position of principal of Lowell Middle School and his current position at the CEP will be left vacant as part of the budget cuts.

Norman Kee, assistant superintendent for employee relations, explained that the administrators involved received notices 90 days before the end of the school year and that the school board must take final action 60 days before the school year ends — or by April 27.

Districtwide the taxbases increased as follows:

- Canton Township — from $388.5 million to a projected $454 million, an increase of about $65.5 million or 16.9 percent.
- Plymouth Township — from $293.5 million to $345.7 million, an increase of $52 million or 17.8 percent.

Their job:

Daily preparations for that emergency

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Last month — like every month — Canton firefighters were busiest responding to rescue runs.

In March, the department's two fire stations responded to 132 emergency runs, 78 of which were rescue calls.

Cases ranged from bloody noses to automobile accidents. The types of runs may include helping persons with breathing difficulty or responding to an accidental poisoning.

The firefighters may even be called out to assist a man who threw his back out of whack during a sneezing fit.

There were only four runs to single-family homes which caught fire last month. But Canton firefighters put out nine car fires and 23 grass fires.

They responded to several miscellaneous calls, a few false alarms and even a couple of bomb threats.

"Every emergency is different," said Fire Chief Mel Paulun. "It's different every time you come in to work."

WHILE some days are pretty quiet, others will be hectic. One day last week, said Paulun, there were six alarms in a four-hour period.

"It's always a challenge," said Lawrence Longwish, who has been with the Canton fire department since 1950, when fires were fought by volunteers.

"I sleep like a rock," he added. "But the sound of the phone — it's just like an alarm. I'm awake immediately."

Canton has 30 firefighters, who work 56 hours a week in 24-hour shifts. Most of the men (there are no female firefighters) are in their 20s and 30s.

All must have at least 66 hours of training, as required by state law. Several have taken 176 hours of separate Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) training, and three are taking EMT training now at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn.

THE STATIONS have large wall maps, with colored labels denoting schools and other landmarks. There is a file card for each address in Canton, detailing the exact route from the fire station.

Each shift has 10 firefighters — six at the main station at Cherry Hill and Canton Center roads, and four at the station on Warren near Haggerty. Rounding out the staff are the chief and the fire inspector.

The day begins at 8 a.m., when the staff checks out all pieces of equipment to make sure they are operating properly. Repairs are made as necessary.

For example, Jim Sumner checks medical kits, air tanks and masks. The tanks are connected to the masks and worn by firefighters who must go inside smoke-filled buildings.

"USING THESE, you can fight (the fire) from inside," said Sumner. "It's more effective. You use less water, and there's less damage."

Sumner, an EMT, goes out on all rescue runs. The rigs are equipped with cots, oxygen and a satchel containing bandages, blood pressure equipment and a disposable obstetrics kit.

The cases that bother Sumner the most are injured children.

"I've never delivered a baby, but I've come close a few times," he added.

After the equipment is checked, the firefighters usually take a break for breakfast. They bring in their own food, each preparing his own meal in a kitchen which contains stove, microwave and three refrigerators.

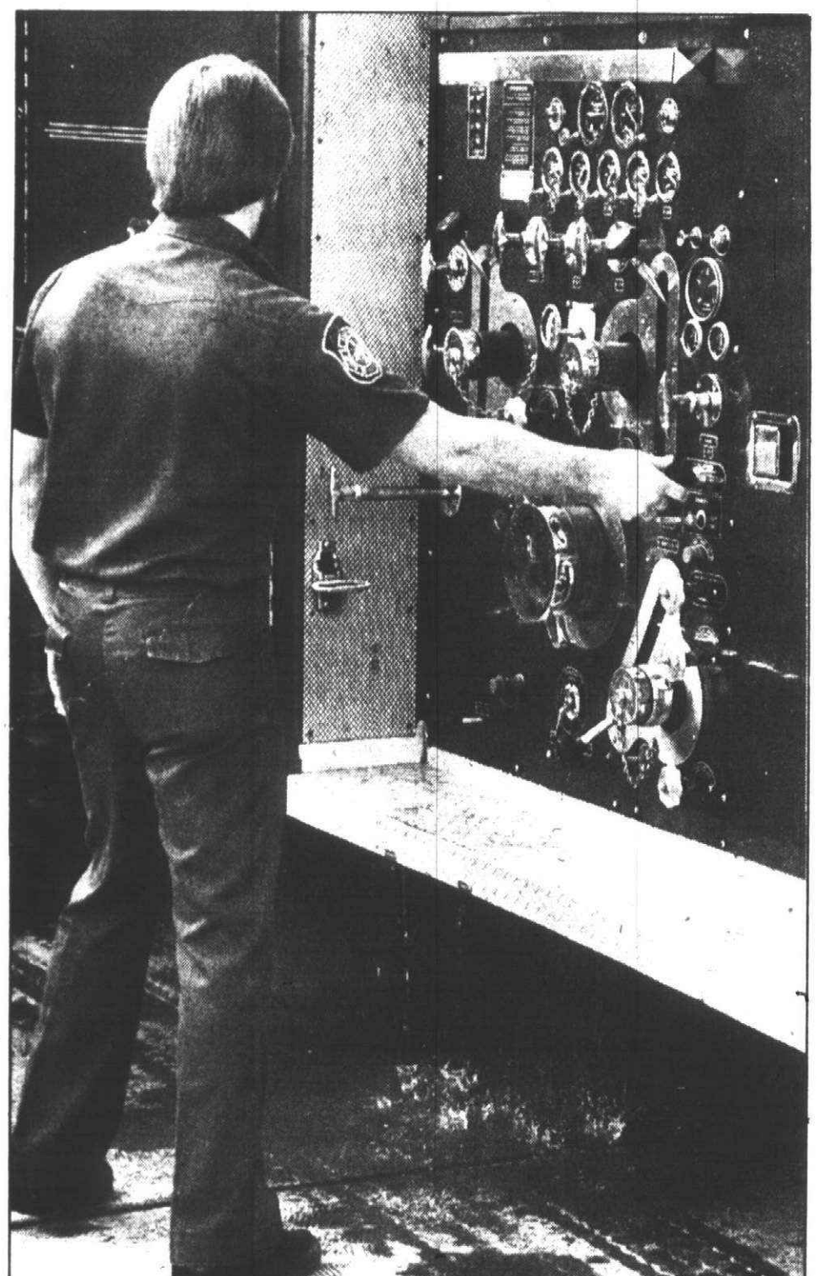
The rest of the day may include housekeeping chores, taking visitors on tours, studying. The firefighters also may read, watch TV or sleep when they aren't responding to runs.

CURRENTLY, the department is involved in an emergency driving program mandated by the state. Runs which include flashing lights, sirens and cutting through traffic pose hazards.

Also dangerous are obstructions near intersections and children who hang around the huge, heavy firefighting equipment.

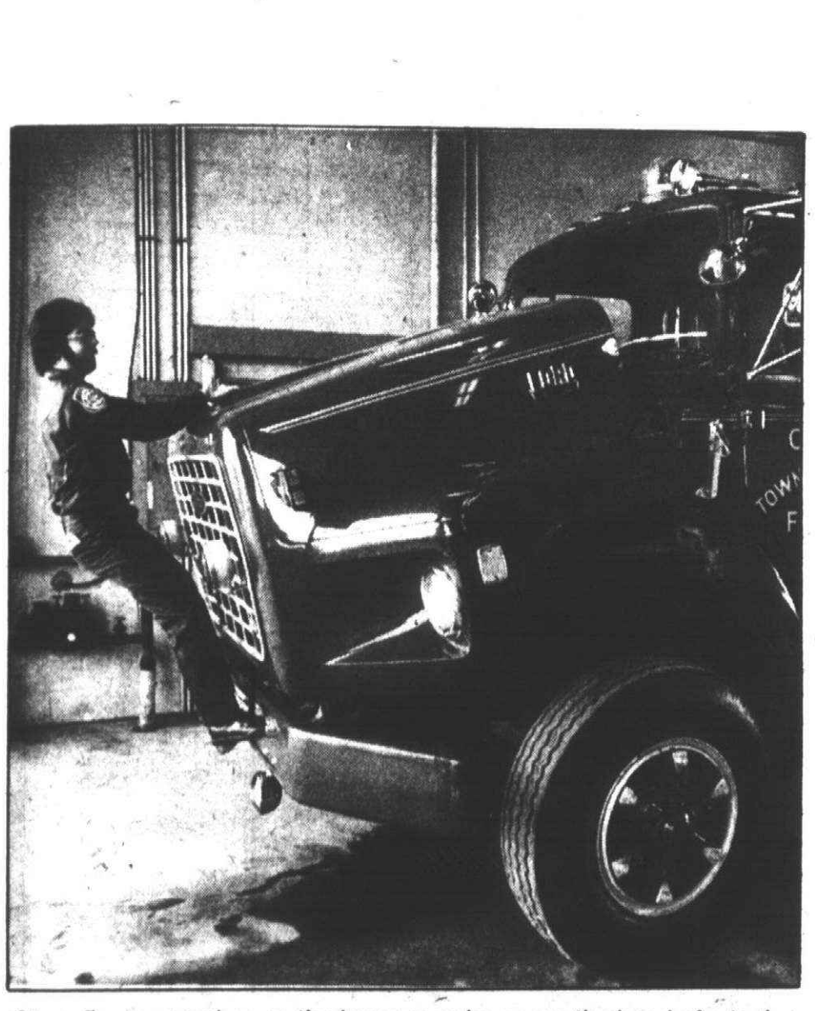
"You can't count on the people seeing you," said Mike Rorabacher, an officer at the Warren-Haggerty station. "If people pull off, it's a bonus."

Driving the equipment "just takes practice," added Rorabacher.



Roger Pollack checks the controls on the pump to make sure they're operating properly.

Checking the oil is part of the day's routine at Canton's fire station, according to Steve Berger.



Steve Berger perches on the bumper as he opens the hood of a tanker.

Fried eggs at mid-morning is a firefighter's reward for finishing his maintenance chores.

Northville Township was asked to consider building a sidewalk on the north side of Five Mile from Bradner to Haggerty Road.

CANTON TOWNSHIP was asked to build sidewalks on:

The south side of Joy from Main to Canton Center, plus putting pedestrian signals at Sheldon and Joy and at Canton Center and Joy; the west side of Sheldon from Warren to Joy; and the east side of Sheldon from Arlington to Joy;

The south side of Joy from Honey Lane to Holly Drive;

Both sides of Haggerty Road from Cherry Hill to Palmer with a crossing guard posted at Lilley and Beechwood, a fence on the south side of the walkway, and a walkway from Beechwood;

The west side of Haggerty from Ford to Cherry Hill with a crossing guard being posted at Lilley and Saltz; and,

Both sides of Morton Taylor from Arlington to Hanford.

Letters were not sent to the city of Plymouth, apparently because it has sidewalks along all of its major thoroughfares and because the city has fewer students bused for safety reasons than the townships.

Here's rundown on cable work

Electronic equipment will be placed in the pedestals during a crew's second visit to a subdivision. In most cases, each pedestal will serve four homes.

While laying the cable, a crew may remove a section of a cyclone fence in order to provide access for the machine to the next yard. Cavanagh said the crew will place the fence back in its proper position after moving to the next yard.

A restoration crew will visit the neighborhood within three to five days with a "vibratory roller." The machine will erase a ridge in the lawn which often results from the cable insertion process. Work on disturbed landscaping also will take place at this time. Wet weather could delay the restoration work.

Omnicom sales representatives will visit homes in search of cable subscribers after electronic equipment is installed in pedestals. Lines then will be run from the main backyard cable to subscribing homes. That work is free during the construction process.

"THE TRICK to the whole thing, obviously, is communication," Cavanagh said of the construction process. "(Residents) seem to think that there's going to be hordes of big machines and lots of people.

"We want to let people know that we don't want to damage anything. We'd like them to be aware of things before the crews get there."

About 30 percent of the 2,000 mailers sent to homeowners in the "phase-one" construction area, Cavanagh said, were returned to Omnicom. About 80 percent of those who returned the post cards identified landscaping or another type of obstruction in the building easement.

Cavanagh said the construction in Canton has proceeded smoothly since work began on April 1.

One resident, however, questioned the legal right of Omnicom crews to enter his back yard. Cavanagh said cable companies have that legal right from two sources — municipal franchises and a Supreme Court decision which recognized cable firms as a "utility."

Cavanagh said cable companies differ from utility firms in one important aspect. Unlike utilities, cable companies must sell their products to subscribers in order to realize profits.

"We just have to be sensitive to homeowners," he said. "We have to accommodate homeowners as well as getting our plant built."

Charter unit gives CEO rein on road board

By Mike Scanlon
staff writer

The Wayne County Charter Commission is continuing to build a strong central government in deciding not to let the county board of commissioners play any role in firing road commissioners.

The board of commissioners would have to approve the chief executive officer's (CEO) appointments to the powerful road commission. But under the provisions tentatively approved in a series of Thursday votes, the CEO could fire road commissioners at his "pleasure."

The charter commission also tentatively approved language on a wide range of other issues concerning the CEO, who could be an elected executive or appointive manager. Included were establishing procedures for replacing the CEO when he or she is disabled, dies, resigns, is removed from office or moves out of the county.

ALSO THURSDAY, the commission was paid a visit by Wayne County Clerk James Killeen, perhaps the single most powerful elected county official under current county government. In a complicated series of votes, commissioners responded by scheduling a reconsideration of their earlier decision to transfer some clerking powers from Killeen's office to the board of commissioners itself.

Authority for clerking functions now is diffused.

Currently, when clerking is done at board of commissioners subcommittee meetings, the function is performed by civil servants led by Bernard Hanus, who then acts as director of administration for the board.

However, those same civil servants — led by then-Deputy County Clerk Hanus — are responsible to the county clerk at full board meetings. A county clerk stenographer is also on hand when transcriptsof meetings are prepared.

KILLEEN CHARGED that separating the clerking functions would disrupt one of county government's "checks and balances."

"In past practice, I think there's been a lot of checks but not a lot of balance in county government," responded Commissioner Michael Einheuser, D-Detroit and an aide to Mayor Coleman Young. Einheuser opposed reconsideration.

Killeen further charged that the county clerk had been given the power in the first place because "so many records of votes have been lost . . . a person subject to the control of the board of commissioners was not an advisable thing."

Commissioner George Orzech, D-Detroit, asked Killeen to prove that charge before the issue is reconsidered.

"I think the charter has serious legal problems already without adding additional ones," Killeen added.

BEFORE KILLEEN spoke, a move to reconsider the clerking issue failed in an 8-9 vote. Only one vote to reconsider is typically allowed under parliamentary procedures.

The commission then granted a point of personal privilege to Commissioner William Brainard, D-Southgate, who wanted Killeen to speak. After the clerk's address, the commission voted 17-7 to suspend the rules and followed with an 18-6 vote to reconsider.

In other action Thursday, the commission turned aside proposed amendments that would have paid pension benefits to all county retirees at the same rate as the best plan negotiated on behalf of any county employee union.

It also approved language to make the director of the division of equalization and assessment in the Bureau of Taxation a six-year term appointed by the executive with consent of the county commission.

The executive would have the power to fire the division director for cause. The division director's job is to place a value for property tax purposes on all taxable land and buildings within the county.

Charter unit trims board of 15

By Mike Scanlon
staff writer

The Wayne County Charter Commission Tuesday rejected reconsideration and allowed its earlier vote to stand on whittling the county board of commissioners down to 15 members from the current 27.

The charter commission also took action on a wide range of issues centering on the powers of the reconstituted board of commissioners.

Rejected was a proposal to mandate free transportation to the county hospital for indigent and senior citizen patients, and approved was a plan to revamp the county retirement system by establishing an eight-member board. Six of the members would be county employees or retirees.

THE COMMISSION, facing a June 16 deadline, is charged with drafting two versions of a new county charter, one featuring an elected chief executive — an office that would be similiar to a county-wide mayor — and the second featuring an appointed chief executive, the county equivalent of a city manager. Voters will be asked to choose between the two plans this fall.

In other action Tuesday, the commission voted to allow the 15-member board to continue hiring employees to provide clerking functions and to give the board power of approval over the making of contracts.

The commission turned down a move to strip the board of power of approval over certain appointments made by the chief executive officer. Thus, the board retains its power to approve appointment of county road commissioners, corporation counsel, director of assessments and equalization, the medical examiner and all board and commission members.

Commissioner Michael Einheuser, representing an east side Detroit district, said he would seek to have that vote reconsidered at the next session of the commission, scheduled for 6 p.m. today in the Veterans' Memorial Building downtown.

In a potentially significant move, the commission also turned down a proposal to strip the reconstituted board of the power to amend future proposed changes made by the county executive in how the county bureaucracy will be arranged. The board will retain only the power to approve or reject the changes.

COMMISSIONER Roman Tafelski, who represents Inkster and a portion of Westland, was unsuccessful in a bid to seek reconsideration of the commission's Monday decision to trim the board from 27 members to 15.

Tafelski said after the meeting that he wanted a larger board, preferably one comprised of 19 members. A smaller board means each commissioner would represent a larger number of voters.

"I wasn't supported by the party or the UAW and the only reason I got elected is because me and my supporters were able to go door-to-door in my district. Right now, just getting voter registration lists from the different cities and mailing a flyer costs $800.

Against ESY for Fiegel

To the editor:

The conversion of Fiegel School to a year-round facility not only affects Fiegel students but the entire tax-paying community of Canton.

The school board has estimated the cost of conversion somewhere between $250,000 and $300,000. In order for ESY to be economically feasible, a school needs to increase its student body by one-third.

The only increase in Fiegel's student body next year is Honey Tree Apartments — between 89 and 107 new students. In fact, because of a decrease in enrollment, the sixth-graders will have to be phased into Fiegel from Lowell Middle School the second year of the program in order for it to be economical.

We do not believe that these tax dollars need to be taken away from the entire school district to implement a program which is not really needed. Canton can not afford it.

Pamela Lindman
Rebecca Viola
Canton Township

(Editor's note: The cost of up to $300,000 is to implement ESY at Fiegel and Bird elementaries, not just Fiegel. That cost would be borne by taxpayers in Plymouth and Canton.)

UM tuition may leap 16-19 percent

"An unfortunately large increase in tuition" — now estimated to be between 16 to 19 percent — will likely greet University of Michigan students next fall, UM regents heard last week.

"While we are reluctant to force this burden upon our students and their families, we may have no alternative," said Billy Frye, vice president for academic affairs.

The rate charged students who stay in university residence halls next year has already been increased 9.8 percent. The school expects a general fund budget "shortfall" of $11.1 million next year.

Michigan residents enrolled as freshmen or sophomores now pay $682 a term, while state resident juniors and seniors are charged $768.

Malpractice lawsuits may be good

Daniels' den
by Emory Daniels

Malpractice lawsuits against educators will become common by 1990.

But that threat won't necessarily mean negative results for public schools and universities.

On the other hand, the increased lawsuits may be a positive force if it inspires professors, teachers, principals and administrators to get rid of old habits and generate new practices and policies directed to benefit the client — students.

If nothing more, malpractice lawsuits filed by parents or students may force the educational system to be accountable — something administrators, tied up by tenure laws and labor contracts, have been unable to do.

You might expect the above argument to be made by an attorney. Instead, these are the main views presented in a new book, "Educators on Trial," written by Dr. James Leary, assistant superintendent for instruction for Walled Lake Public Schools.

'If anything good comes from malpractice suits, it might be the fact that it initiates the elimination of teachers and administrators who are interested in kids, but do not believe in them.'

— Dr. James Leary

Leary is well known in these parts having served as an administrator in Clarenceville, Plymouth-Canton, Northville and Walled Lake school districts. In total, Leary has spent 25 years as a math teacher, coach and instructional leader.

DURING THE 1980s, Leary argues, society will move beyond demands for equality and equity and call for excellence.

Parents will demand greater instructional accountability from the classroom teacher, administrators and school board. And the standard of accountability will be that each parent's child receive quality instruction.

"If school employees are going to survive the barrage of civil suits confronting them, then they must go all out to eliminate malfeasance, nonfeasance and malpractices from within the educational system," he says.

This all-out effort will require educational leaders and the public, writes Leary, to review the weaknesses in public education, to become aware of the current dimensions of educational malpractice, to come up with guidelines to prevent future lawsuits, and to identify those human skills which can be used to reduce the detrimental results lawsuits generate.

After devoting a chapter to samples of lawsuits already filed, Leary then lists a series of practices now existing which he describes as "indefensible malpractices."

A common thread, he notes, is "dehumanizing activities which are engaged in on a regular basis, without regard or respect for individual dignity" which severely hinder the learning process.

AMONG THE EASY TARGETS for malpractice lawsuits, Leary warns, are:

- Prescribing learning as a punishment, i.e. having students copy a spelling list 20 times because of bad behavior.
- Punishing a whole class for the actions of a few. "Nowhere else in society do we intentionally seek to punish individuals for a 'crime' which they did not commit."
- Using grades to control, inhibit or coerce students. Grades are supposed to be an indicator of academic achievement, Leary argues, and to lower grades for disciplinary reasons is to knowingly tamper with academic records — a miscarriage of justice.
- Grading students on a curve. Leary really blasts this practice which is designed to fail a certain number of students regardless of individual achievement. "Education is the only profession which intentionally fails a percentage of its clients. This malpractice will no longer be tolerated by unsympathetic parents."
- Testing students on material not covered in class.
- Forcing students into advanced units of study when they have not yet successfully completed prerequisite units.
- Requiring all students to study from the same text or use the same supplemental ability irrespective of ability.
- Assigning work which is not based upon specific learning goals, i.e. "busy work."

COLLEGES ESPECIALLY are in trouble in this decade, Leary states, because of the following:

- Class sizes of 50 or more students with instruction being totally non-individualized.
- Discrepancies between the written course outline in the student handbook and what a professor actually teaches.
- Grading on a curve and testing on materials not covered in class.
- Conducting teacher training programs. If a teacher is sued for malpractice, the university likely may be named a second party in the lawsuit.

"Certification is the first step in gaining control over the entire education system . . . . Universities are the primary agents which have been delegated the authority to certify teachers. Accountability for the quality of their graduates is becoming more closely scruitinized."

PARENTS MUST REALIZE, Leary cautions, that merely filing a malpractice lawsuit will not effect a solution.

"For almost every parent charging malpractice, suing the school usually stems from a long, bitter disagreement with teachers and/or administrators. Who wins in court is not the issue here. The point is that the parents made the ultimate decision to identify the action of school professionals as a malpractice."

Leary suggests that, in many cases, parents are almost forced to initiate a lawsuit to protect their children from an "incessant bombardment of dehumanizing practices upon students, day after day, week after week, month after month."

The fear of lawsuits, however, will result in teachers' becoming less effective in the classrooms. The good teachers, who really care for students, will be hurt in the process. Parents and the courts, Leary warns, should weigh malpractice evidence very carefully "lest they destroy teaching as an art."

"Malpractice has the potential for improving the learning environment. It also has the potential for destroying the educational institution as a public servant. Going to court should really be the last resort for settling disputes over school matters."

Leary gets to the point when he comments: "If anything good comes from malpractice suits, it might be the fact that it initiates the elimination of teachers and administrators who are interested in kids, but do not believe in them."

But parents who file lawsuits must fully appreciate the possible harm it might have on teachers, taxpayers, the school system and society as a whole.

"Each person does share the responsibility for considering the consequences of any action affecting others," Leary concludes.

Ready or not, Leary seems to say, malpractice lawsuits are on their way. Some educators, those who have a sincere love for their students, are ready. Others need to get read — and fast!

Pulitzer story needs color

The Washington Post gave back a Pulitzer Prize because the prize-winning story turned out to be fiction. The reporter, Janet Cooke, had passed off the product of her imagination as the true story of an 8-year-old heroin addict.

The story about the Post returning the prize should have been written with a little more color.

It could have had a little kid walking up to Ben Bradlee, executive editor of the Post, to implore: "Say it ain't so, Ben."

The story could have said that when Bradlee was asked why the Post pushed so hard for Pulitzer Prizes, he replied: "Because that's where the money is."

Well, it might not work with Bradlee. He's just the kind of spoilsport who would deny that these things happened.

Reporters who capitulated to the urge to make their stories sound a little more dramatic than the facts called for inspired the quotes above.

THE FIRST borrowing was from a 60-year-old story about the suspension of "Shoeless" Joe Jackson from baseball. Jackson, a popular .400 hitter for the Chicago White Sox, was ousted from the game after it was determined that he and seven other Chicago players had taken bribes to throw the 1919 World Series.

According to the newspaper story, Jackson was confronted on the sidewalk by a boy who went up to him and said, "Say it ain't so, Joe."

The remark was quoted from coast to coast. It struck a responsive chord in a populace which couldn't quite believe that a baseball hero could do such a disillusioning thing.

Later witnesses claimed that there was no such utterance — the great line was some reporter's daydream. That never stopped the legend.

One can still read stories about Willie "The Actor" Sutton, a bank-robber of the 50s who eschewed violence and became something of a folk hero because of his ingenuity.

Invariably each story about Sutton says he was once asked why he chose to knock over banks and replied, "Because that's where the money is."

To his dying day Sutton claimed that he never said it, that it was a remark invented by a reporter.

What I find encouraging about these legends is that there are so few of them.

REPORTERS and newswriters who contrive quotes and situations in an attempt to churn out the big story are so few that they stand out like Roman candles at midnight.

Occasionally a particularly clever schlockmeister manages to avoid any sense of loyalty to the ethics of his profession and to evade the network of scrutiny that reporters are subject to.

One of the Detroit papers had one about ten years ago. After a brief, blazing career in Detroit, his light went out when it was discovered that he had invented his own kidnapping.

But compare the extremely meager number of stories which prove to be erroneous with the total number of stories produced. In this metropolitan area alone the total number of newspaper stories each year probably tops 100,000.

The occasional lapse of judgement is miniscule compared to the work of thousands of reporters and newswriters nationally whose overriding working concern is to do their jobs to the best of their ability in accordance with a sincere desire to serve the public's right to know.

This sense of working to deserve the public's trust is as high in this profession as in any other. It is higher than in most.

It is ironic that a reporter's hoax tarnished the image of the Post and, incidentally, perhaps, of newspapers generally. The Post is a newspaper which won a large measure of its national fame by the Pulitzer-prize-winning reporting of a couple of relatively unknown reporters — Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein.

THE POST was under the most intense pressure possible to discredit their stories about Watergate and the conspiracy thereof. The newspaper stood by its team and the celebrated Woodward-Bernstein exploits became a book and a movie, "All the Presidents Men." The public image of journalism escalated, especially among young career seekers who saw the bottom dropping out of other careers.

Journalism, for many years the refuge of tormented souls who wanted to write, became the mecca of eager-beavers who previously would have sought to become successful lawyers and overdegreed educators. One suspects that Janet Cooke came out of those ranks, determined at 21 to be a Ben Bradlee by 35.

And now by standing by its own tradition for so long with the relatively unproven Janet Cooke, the Post loses some of its luster.

In the end, the Janet Cooke affair will probably serve journalism. The incident will cause all those connected with producing the news to look even harder and deeper into their stories to make sure that dreams of success have not altered a reporter's vision of reality.

The alternative is the kind of disrepute which limits the perogatives and stifles the effectiveness of a free press.

Explanations also unsatisfactory

Selective price hikes are unacceptable

I could accept continued rising prices if there were consistency among companies.

For example, gasoline prices nearly doubled a few months after the initial mideast oil embargo in the fall of 1973.

But the prices remained stable for the next five years although the wholesale prices kept soaring.

But a month ago, gasoline prices dropped about five cents a gallon when I learned there was a glut of the stuff in the nation's storage tanks.

But a few days ago, the prices jumped back up again.

Another dimension of the gasoline problem is that motor oil has remained at essentially the same price for 25 years I have owned cars.

When I bought my first car in 1956, the price was about $2,300 with the only option being an automatic transmission.

Ten years later, I bought another car and paid $2,500, which included a radio and power steering, along with the automatic transmission.

In 1970, I bought a Volkswagen and paid $2,300 with only an automatic transmission.

Now the car is about $6,500.

Leonard Poger

THE AUTO companies keep telling us that continuing increases in labor and supplies are the reasons for the almost quarterly price hikes.

But in the 1950s and 1960s, UAW members received raises and Blue Cross premiums paid by the companies also increased. But the car prices then remained stable.

My 1978 Zephyr station wagon had a list price of just over $4,000 without options when it was new.

Now the same car costs more than $6,500 — a boost of nearly 60 percent in three years.

If gasoline prices can drop when there is a glut of the stuff on the open market and consumption is going down nationally, why shouldn't car prices also drop?

ON ANOTHER matter, I recently bought a bottle of medicine off the drug store shelf. I compared the price to the near-empty bottle of the same stuff I had at home.

The price tag was the same — but the quantity of the new bottle was half of the old one.

That's another way of saying the price had doubled.

Then's there the housing market.

An insurance man told me his Canton Township home has dropped in value from $75,000 to $70,000 in the past few years.

But in nearby suburbs, other homes are still increasing in value, although not at the same rate of a few years ago.

If there is a depressed housing market, why aren't real estate prices dropping more than they are?

Views on Dental Health
Sherman H. Kane, D.D.S.
AFTER TOOTH EXTRACTION
Following the extraction of a tooth, the wound in the jaw usually heals within a few days without complications. If some swelling develops in the face, this is usually nothing to worry about and it can be minimized by the application of an ice bag to the affected region.
Actual bleeding should stop shortly after tooth removal. Nature's way of stopping the bleeding is the formation of the blood clot in the socket. Let nature do its job and do not disturb the formation of the clot. How?
Do not suck on the hole for starters. Do not take hot food or drinks for five or six hours, by which time the clot should be firmed. If you get hungry, drink a cold drink or eat a soft, cold food. Avoid eating hard foods, and don't smoke.
If delayed bleeding occurs, fold a piece of gauze and bite on it for a half hour. A moistened tea bag will also do the job. If bleeding persists, by all means, call your dentist. Free bleeders, especially people with hemophilia, should tell their dentist BEFORE extraction so that he can take special precautions.

MIX AND MATCH FOR TASTEFUL FARE

Mix and match simple ingredients with sprightly seasonings for colorful menus. The results can be delicious, tasteful fare. Try versatile dry beans for soups and cool salads. The 12 major varieties of dry beans vary in color and flavor, but most can be used interchangeably. They combine well with a wide variety of foods and seasonings, and add their own special flavor.

Canned fruit cocktail and canned cling peaches provide color and flavor to desserts, salads and entree platters year-round. Like dry beans, they can be mixed and matched with various foods and seasonings for simple, yet delicious, eating.

Fruit cocktail provides the crowning touch to spectacular Fruit and Cream Pie – the finale to a simple soup and salad supper. The soup is a smooth puree of beans and canned condensed soup accented with lemon peel and hot pepper sauce.

Colorful cling peach halves highlight Company Salad Platter, a pleasing combination of crisp lettuce and a new variation of three bean salad which is marinated in a piquant dressing made with the reserved peach syrup. Serve the salad platter with a variety of cheeses and breads.

FRUIT AND CREAM PIE

1 can (17 oz.) fruit cocktail
1-1/2 tablespoons rum or 1 tablespoon rum extract
1-1/2 tablespoons brandy or 1 tablespoon brandy extract
4 egg whites
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup sugar
1-1/4 cups crisp chocolate cookie crumbs (15 2-1/2-inch cookies)
1/4 cup chopped almonds
1-1/2 quarts vanilla ice cream
1/4 cup chocolate sauce
Whipped cream (optional)

Drain fruit cocktail; sprinkle with rum and brandy. Set aside. Preheat oven to 325°F. With electric mixer, beat egg whites and cream of tartar until frothy. Slowly add sugar; beat until very stiff and meringue forms glossy peaks. Gently fold in cookie crumbs and nuts. Spread over bottom and just to rim of sides of buttered 9 or 10-inch pie plate. Make bottom of shell about 1/4-inch thick and sides about 1-inch thick. Bake in preheated oven about 30 minutes. Cool on rack away from drafts. (Meringue shell may fall or crack in center.) Fill cooled shell with scoops of ice cream. Spoon fruit cocktail between ice cream balls. Drizzle with chocolate sauce; serve immediately. Top each serving with dollop of whipped cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Freezing Tip: Both made-ahead and leftover pie may be frozen. If freezing for 1 or 2 hours, covering pie is unnecessary. If freezing for longer periods, pie may be wrapped in aluminum foil, sealed and frozen. Thaw at room temperature 10 to 15 minutes before serving.

SUPPER SALAD

1 head iceberg lettuce
1-1/2 cups (about 3/4 lb.) cubed cooked beef
1/2 small red onion, chopped
1/2 cup oil
1/4 cup red wine vinegar
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
Salt and pepper to taste
1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced
1/3 cup sliced ripe olives
1/2 large tomato, cut into wedges

Core, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce; chill in plastic bag or plastic crisper. Layer beef and onion in shallow glass dish. Combine oil, vinegar and seasonings; mix well. Pour over beef and onion. Cover and refrigerate several hours or overnight. Cut lettuce into 1-inch chunks. Place in large salad bowl. Drain marinade from beef and onion; reserve. Add beef and onion to lettuce; toss gently. Add mushrooms, olives and tomato to marinade and mix to coat. Spoon over lettuce and toss again. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

CHILLED BEAN SOUP

1-2/3 cups drained, cooked or canned navy or great northern beans
1 can (10-3/4 oz.) condensed cream of potato soup
1 cup half-and-half
2 tablespoons dry white wine
1/4 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1/8 teaspoon bottled hot pepper sauce
2 or 3 tablespoons chopped parsley

Combine beans and potato soup; puree in processor, blender or sieve. Stir in remaining ingredients except parsley. Chill thoroughly. Serve in small bowls; garnish with parsley. Makes 4 servings.

Note: Soup may thicken when chilled. Thin with additional half-and-half if necessary.

Cooking Dry Beans

YIELD

A one pound package of dry beans equals 2 cups dry and yields 5 to 6 cups cooked beans.

SOAKING

Traditional Method: To one pound of dry beans add 6 cups cold water. Let stand overnight (at least 6 to 8 hours). Do not refrigerate. Drain, rinse and cook.

Quick Method: To one pound dry beans add 6 to 8 cups hot water. Heat, let boil 3 minutes, cover and set aside for an hour. Drain, rinse and cook.

COOKING

Add 6 cups hot water, 2 tablespoons shortening or oil and 2 teaspoons salt to soaked beans. Cook beans with lid tilted until tender, approximately 1 hour.

COMPANY SALAD PLATTER

1 can (29 oz.) cling peach halves
1-2/3 cups drained, cooked or canned great northern, dry large lima or navy beans
1-2/3 cups drained, cooked or canned kidney beans or small red beans
1-2/3 cups drained, cooked or canned cut green beans
1/2 cup pitted ripe olives, drained
2 tablespoons each chopped parsley and onion
Sweet-Sour Dressing
1/2 cup each celery and cucumber, 3/4-inch pieces
Iceberg lettuce, sliced 3/4-inch thick

Drain peach halves; reserving syrup for dressing. Combine beans, olives, parsley and onion; toss with dressing. Marinate at least 6 hours in refrigerator. Add celery and cucumber; toss gently. Drain bean mixture; reserve dressing. Arrange bean salad, peach halves and lettuce on platter. Pass reserved dressing. Serve with a variety of cheeses and breads. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Sweet-Sour Dressing: Combine 1/3 cup each reserved peach syrup, catsup and oil, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon each vinegar and Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1 small clove minced garlic; mix thoroughly. Makes about 1-1/4 cups.

Broiled peppers have mellow flavor

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

As I write this column, green peppers are selling at an astronomical 79 cents each — for scrawny peppers at that. They shot up overnight to this price from three for $1 for respectably-sized specimens.

One produce manager speculated that this might have something to do with the droughts this past winter. Whatever the reason, I object in principle to paying that price and have been trying — with limited success — to avoid buying them. In the process I have discovered just how much I rely on green peppers in everyday cooking. Spaghetti sauce, Mexican hot sauce, casseroles and salads — all suffer without green pepper.

Peppers are broiled by exposing them to direct heat until the skin is blackened.

This can be done by holding them over an open flame with a long-handled fork or by laying them on a cookie sheet and placing them about six inches under a broiler (either gas or electric), turning them as the upper side chars until the entire surface is blistered and backened.

The peppers should then be enclosed in a paper bag until cool. At this point, the skin will easily lift off. What remains is the tender, cooked flesh which seems to have a mellower, sweeter flavor than when raw and which readily absorbs other flavors.

RED PEPPER AND JERUSALEM ARTICHOKE GRATIN

1 lb. Jerusalem artichokes
1 lb. red bell peppers, peeled and seeded (see above instructions for peeling)
¾ cup heavy cream
Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste
¼ cup (1 oz.) freshly grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Peel the Jerusalem artichokes and cut them into ¼-inch thick slices. Cook in a large pot of boiling salted water for about 7 minutes, until just tender when pierced with a knife. Drain and refresh under cold water.

Cut the peppers into 1¼-inch squares, roughly the same size as the artichoke slices.

Lightly butter an 8-inch gratin pan. Alternate the pepper and artichoke slices in the pan, overlapping them slightly. Pour the cream over the vegetables. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and Parmesan cheese.

Bake for 20 to 25 minutes, or until most of the cream has been absorbed and the gratin is bubbling and brown. Let sit for 5 minutes before serving. Makes 4 servings.

PEPPER CASSEROLE

8 large basil leaves (about 1 tsp. dried)
6 sprigs Italian parsley
1 garlic clove, peeled
5 tbsp. olive oil
2 medium onions, peeled and finely sliced
3 sweet peppers, red, green or yellow
1 small zucchini
4 oz. mushrooms, cleaned
1 chicken bouillon cube
3 tbsp. wine vinegar
¼ to ½ tsp. salt, or to taste
Freshly ground black pepper to taste
2 potatoes, peeled

Mince herbs with garlic and put mixture in flameproof casserole along with olive oil and onions. Saute over medium heat until the onions are limp.

Cut peppers into 1-inch square pieces. Slice the zucchini into thin rounds. Cut mushrooms in half.

Add the vegetables to the onions. Break up the bouillon cube, adding it to the vegetables. Add the vinegar, salt, and pepper and stir well. Cover the pan with a tightly fitting cover, lower the heat, and cook 15 minutes.

Slice the potatoes in very thin rounds and add them to the casserole at the 15-minutes mark. Stir, cover and cook another 15 minutes or until the peppers are cooked but still firm to the bite. Taste for seasonings, and adjust if necessary. Serves 6.

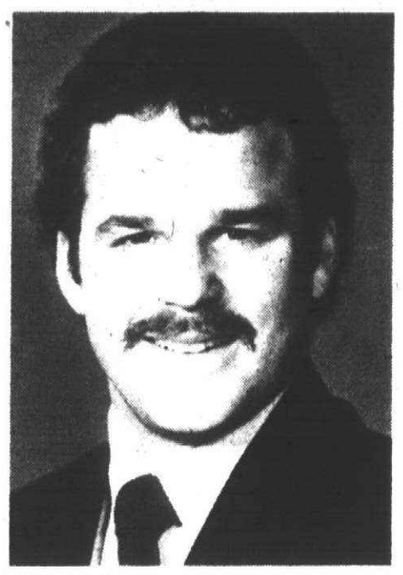
Jim Flora named to 1980 ERA Hall of Fame

James Flora



Ray Allston

James M. Flora of Plymouth has been named to the 1980 Electronic Representatives Association's (ERA) coveted Hall of Fame.

The suprise announcement came during the ERA's recent 22nd annual management conference held in Maui, Hawaii.

Flora is president of J. Malcolm Flora Inc. of Plymouth.

The hall of fame award was created to honor an outstanding manufacturer's representative within the electronics industry.

The recipient must display creativity, diligence and integrity on a national basis to enhance the stature of the representative system of selling, advance the representative's status as an independent business entrepreneur and contribute to the electronic industry's marketing capabilities and growth.

The award is not bestowed every year but rather only when an outstanding candidate is decided to be deserving of being honored by his/her fellow representatives.

Flora founded his firm in June 1958. Today the company boasts four trade divisions and two locations in Michigan.

Flora at one time served as ERA's national vice president for the consumer electronics division and from 1967-75 served on the association's board of directors. He currently is chairman of the ERA's insurance trust and is a member of the Rotary Club of Plymouth.

Human relations field proves to be counter-cyclical

By Emory Daniels
staff writer

Human relations normally isn't thought of as a counter-cyclical industry.

But for John Czubaj, the Dale Carnegie business in Plymouth-Canton has been booming during the past 12 months while other businesses have been experiencing a downturn.

And Czubaj believes the recession may be part of the explanation for his volume doubling from last year to this.

The other reason is that in May 1980 Czubaj moved his training program out of the Plymouth Hilton Inn and into permanent quarters which he dubbed "Carnegie Hall."

A YEAR AGO Czubaj was offering two classes a week in Dale Carnegie training which stresses human relations, public speaking, self-worth, purposeful living and coping with worry and fear.

Now Czubaj is offering four classes a week, has added two full-time instructors and a third full-time staff member, and is looking toward further growth in 1981.

Each class consists of 44 students and six graduate assistants so that there are some 200 persons each week walking in and out of Carnegie Hall, 42767 Phoenix Court near Five Mile in Plymouth Township. And for each class of 14 weeks duration there is a waiting list of five to 10 persons, he adds.

Czubaj is renting the lower level of a new office building owned by Dr. Gary Hall, Plymouth dentist for many years. Because Hall is his landlord, Czubaj decided to name the training center Carnegie Hall.

The fact he is running four classes a week is suprising, says Czubaj, because when he started in the Carnegie business in Plymouth six years ago his initial goal was to offer one class a year. Before the first year ended, though, Czubaj was offering one class per month.

BECAUSE OF THE state of the economy, says Czubaj, most persons who are employed realize they have to stay on top of things to protect their jobs.

"Anymore it's not enough to have only the skills to perform your current job. Any many people are finding that seniority on the job is not enough protection. More and more employees are deciding they must acquire new skills to remain in their jobs, or to advance.

'Real security cannot be found in stability but in building up yourself.'

— John Czubaj

"Real security cannot be found in stability but in building up yourself."

"This also is a decade where people are very interested in developing the mind further and improving the self," adds Czubaj. "There is an increased belief in the importance of continuing education, self-improvement and returning to school. And, for many, Carnegie training meets those needs."

Right now about half those enrolled sign up as individuals, while the other half are enrolled by the companies they work for.

"Companies are willing to invest in Carnegie training for their employees because they know people are an important asset, and it's vital to protect that human investment and increase productivity.

"We are also in an age when women are doing more for themselves to become independent persons — to be able to determine their own destiny. The increased number of women signing up for Carnegie reflects, I believe, changing attitudes of society about the self-worth of women also."

Czubaj reported that business has been so good in this area for 1980 that his center is number one among the 218 sponsors of training in the Ralph Nichols Corp. — the Carnegie center headquartered in Southfield which operates programs throughout the southeastern region.

And the Ralph Nichols Corp., Czubaj adds, is number one in the world in volume of business. "That's more than just an internal business statistic. I believe that indicates the degree of interest in self advancement which exists in this community, and it speaks well for the community."

During the past year Czubaj's wife, Cynde, began working full time as office manager and bookkeeper and now is being trained to become an instructor.

Project finds rebirth in hard times

A perceived upswing in the economy has been credited for resurrecting plans for a previously stalemated multistory office complex which, when built, will overlook Hines Drive in Plymouth Township.

What once was touted as an elaborate $15-million nine-story residential complex with an attached six-story office building under the name of Plymouth Atrium, has been scaled down to a $3-$4-million two-part office complex.

"Since 1979 the project's been shelved several times because of the economy" Chester Kloss, an employee of the project's development company, said. "But now we're confident about building.

"Our problem was a lack of demand for office space due to the bad economic climate. But in the past several months we've seen quite a turnaround." Kloss said the development's construction is expected to begin in the fall.

The development is backed by a group of five local investors who make up the Plymouth Place Office Plaza Associates.

Since the project's start, two of the three original investors have remained. All have current business interests in Plymouth.

To help the association wrap up its final construction documents, it recently was granted an 18-month extension on its final site-plan approval by the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees.

THEY EXPECT, Kloss said, to complete construotion documents by this August with construction work beginning shortly after that.

The complex has been proposed for a nearly five-acre site bordering Hines Drive along Plymouth Road.

Kloss further said that they will use the extension time to line up possible tenants. Although there are no "firm commitments" yet, negotiations are progressing with a national corporation interested in leasing half the office space in the complex.

He did not disclose the name of the corporation, however, other than to say it was in the transportation business and was looking for a site for its Michigan headquarters.

The project is expected to have almost 80,000 square feet of rental office floor space. Earlier designs called for residential apartments, an idea that was dropped in favor of the "more profitable" office leasing, Kloss said.

Remaining in the final plans is a central atrium which will reach 40 feet in height. The atrium will be glass-enclosed with suspended walkways.

Dr. Spock says:

'It's time for us to get angry'

By Kathy Friedrichs
special writer

The pediatrician of the postwar baby boom says this this country is falling down in its programs for today's babies and young children.

Specifically, Dr. Benjamin Spock takes Ronald Reagan's administration to task for considering cuts in day-care programs and thinks there should be help for working parents like the support systems he has seen in Sweden and Hungary.

"It's time for us to get angry and put some fear of God into Reagan about the need for good child care," he told the fifth biennial conference of the Childbirth Without Pain Education Association, meeting in Detroit.

Describing administration budget cutters as being "like vandals who chuckle as they destroy things," Spock urged convention delegates to write to congressional representatives about projected day-care cuts.

The question of child rearing by working parents is the largest one he has encountered in recent times, the author of "Baby and Child Care" told an audience of about 100 in the McGregor Memorial Conference Center at Wayne State University.

He said he supports parental care for the first three years, and noted that in Sweden and Hungary there are governmental subsidies for mothers who do not hold outside jobs during that time.

"I think our government should subsidize parents willing to stay home with their children," he added. "But after three years almost all children can benefit from good nursery or day care." Bias against group care, he said, is a holdover from the days of "baby farms" and is no longer valid.

THE LAST FEW decades have seen major changes in views about birthing and early nurturing, the pediatrician, now 78, told his audience of natural childbirth advocates.

He mentioned particularly the use of drugs for mothers in labor and forceps in the birth process, the hospital stays of 12 days and the hospital policies discouraging breastfeeding.

"It is a good example of how medicine gets off on the wrong track for years and years before someone has the sense to question it," Spock said.

"Back then nurses did all the care of babies, and mothers could hold them only during the last couple of days in the hospital.

That situation, he said, led to the first edition of his famous book, because he and other pediatricians tended to receive an enormous number of calls from new mothers in their first weeks at home.

"Baby and Child Care" sold more than 750,000 copies in each of its first 20 years on the market, Spock said.

In his talk, the famed baby doctor reiterated a favorite theme, that parents should trust their own instincts.

"The commonest problem in American society today is the insistence that true knowledge rests with the professionals," he said.

HE CONDEMNED American society as "tense, aggressive and much too competitive." He cited examples of "ordinary, visible abuse of children that you don't see in the rest of the world."

"We must change the direction of society to one that relies on spiritual values such as love and family," he added. "Family life is the most important part of life."

Spock denied once again the label of "the grandfather of permissiveness" which he said has been hung on him.

"That accusation first made by the Rev. Norman Vincent Peale Jr. was a political one," he said, "because people resented my stand against the Vietnam war."

He added that statements by Spiro Agnew had done the most damage to his reputation.

"And he turned out to be a crook," Spock said. "No one can blame me for having brought up Spiro Agnew."

DOES HE find he has changed his ideas about discipline?

"No, not the basic philosophy," he told his audience. "But I am happy to admit I have changed in some ways."

He then said he had made a major revision of "Baby and Child Care" to remove some sexist language and concepts.

"It took me three years to admit I was a sexist, but the other day Gloria Steinem said I had come along all right," he said.

And in concluding he noted he had seen major change in himself over the years.

"I didn't change too much until Vietnam," he said. "I used to be reserved, cautious. Now I'm a socialist, and I don't care what I say.

"It's too late for hemming and hawing. It's time to do something."

Ethnic food festival

Sixth graders in one of Margo Panko's social studies classes at Central Middle School ended a study unit with an ethnic food festival. Each of the students had chosen a country for individual concentrated study. Each made a special notebook with topics including economy, cities, religion, education, famous people, holidays, customs, foods, tourism, government, history and a five-day diary. Each made an oral presentation to the class. Students wore ethnic costumes and prepared ethnic foods for the festival. Ed Shuman carried a war shield and wore a bone necklace for his emerging South African nation.

Schoolcraft will present 'Rapping with the gavel'

Gloria Resnik, nationally known registered parliamentarian and lecturer, will conduct a one-day workshop/seminar on "Robert's Rules of Order" Saturday, May 16, at Schoolcraft College.

The workshop entitled, "Rapping with the Gavel," is designed for officers, board members and committee chairpersons.

The basics of conducting a meeting will be discussed with time for questions and participants' problems. Subjects to be covered include: agenda, presiding, motions, minutes, committee reports and elections.

According to Ms. Resnick, many business and professional organizations as well as volunteer and service groups are becoming more aware of the need for effective procedural rules. She feels this may be a result of increasingly complex lifestyles and current political conditions. Ms. Resnick has served many national conventions as well as several conventions in Michigan.

Details and registration information for the one-day session may be obtained by calling the Women's Resource Center at 591-6400, ext. 430.

Close duel predicted at Mangan Relays

The Plymouth Canton and Salem boys' and girls' track teams will compete Tuesday in the fourth annual Mangan Relays at Centennial Educational Park.

The field events will start at 5:30 p.m. followed by the running events at 6:30 p.m.

Admission at the gate is 75 cents for students and $1.50 for adults.

A close duel could develop on the girls' side. The Rocks beat Canton by 10 points last season. Both teams have virtually everybody back.

"I think it's going to be close," predicts Canton second-year coach Bob Richardson. "We're stronger in some areas this year and not as strong in others.

"Plymouth Salem is strong in some spots where we aren't, but we hope to make up the difference. It's important to run our best races. It may come down to the mile relay. I hope it doesn't."

The Rocks, coached by Scott Kurtz, have the fastest mile relay team in the area (4:21.9).

Salem is also strong in the field events, particularly in the long jump and high jump.

Canton, meanwhile, should be tough in the field events. The meet could well be won in the sprints.

"I think it could be a close meet," said Kurtz. "It should be close all the way around.

"We've been working out all week and everyone's gearing up for this."

SALEM'S BOYS should be favored against an improved Canton team. The Rocks have been billed a favorite for the Observerland Relays title this Saturday along with Detroit Catholic Central, Redford Bishop Borgess and Livonia Churchill.

Several multi-talented performers are scheduled to appear at the Mangan Relays.

Salem senior Bob Pittaway hurled the discus 166-feet-4-inches two weeks ago in the Mansfield-Mehock (Ohio) Relays to break his own school record. That toss also leads the area.

He also has a fast time in the 100 yard dash (10.2) and will run both the 440 and 880 relays. Sprinters Leigh Langkabel and Scott Bublin can also score points in a number of events.

Canton counters with Dan Malin, a senior, who has high jumped 6-0 and run the 330 low hurdles in 41.7. Mark Kowalczyk, a senior, and Dennis Simms, a junior, will also score points in the sprints.

Salem's strength lies in the field events while Canton is deep in the 880, mile and two mile runs.

Danny Smith of Plymouth Canton won his fourth straight game Wednesday, beating Flint Southwestern in the opener. The junior standout is also swinging a hot bat.

Chief batters sweep Flint Southwestern

Plymouth Canton continued its offensive barrage Wednesday, sweeping a double-header from visiting Flint Southwestern, 11-5 and 7-4.

The winners are now 7-0 overall. Flint's record is 6-3.

"We're starting to play a little bit better," said Canton coach Fred Crissey, "but I'm still concerned about the pitching."

The Canton coach, now in his eighth season, doesn't have to worry about the team's hitting. The Chiefs are scoring almost at will.

In the first game, pitcher Danny Smith helped his own cause with a three-run double and senior utilityman Paul Dobry hit a towering three-run homer to pace the Chiefs' attack.

Smith, a junior, notched his fourth victory of the year despite seven walks. In seven innings he allowed six hits and struck out nine. Bill Crow was the loser.

Smith's double came with the bases loaded in the fourth inning.

Steve Johnson, a junior rightfielder, had two of Canton's nine hits.

Crissey, no doubt, was pleased with his team's productivity and also the play of catcher Bill Hanis.

"Flint Southwestern is known as a running team and Bill threw three of their guys out," said the Canton coach. "Paul (Dobry) hit it a ton. By far is was the singular big blow of the game."

CANTON BROKE open a close game with a four-run outburst in the fifth inning to win the nightcap.

Hanis and Johnson both walked to open the inning and Fred Rumberger the runners up with a sacrifice bunt. Keith Stone then walked to load the bases.

Smith, playing the outfield, followed by delivering a two-run single and Johnson added an RBI single.

Smith went two-for-four and had three RBIs. Teammate Mike Fifer contributed a solo homer in the second inning.

John Metzger, the rightfielder for Flint, led his team with two hits.

Dave Malek started for Canton and hurled three scoreless innings. Greg Bergman came on for the next two innings and allowed two runs. Jamie Chilcoff threw the final two innings and got credit for the win. Jim Lindsay took the loss.

"Malek pitched his best innings of the year," said Crissey. "Everyone seems to be contributing."

Crissey gave credit once again to Hanis, who came up with a key defensive play in the sixth inning.

"Hanis picked the guy off third and we would have been in trouble if it hadn't have been for the pick off," said the Canton coach. "That was a key play in the second ball game because they had the bases loaded.

"It's nice to be 7-0, but we've got our work cut out for us. Our league is going to be tough. I don't think anybody is going to be undefeated."

The Chiefs travel Wednesday to meet Western Six League foe Northville, the defending champs.

Hillsdale signs doubles partners

Renee Braun and Betsy Moon, Plymouth Salem's No. 1 doubles team last fall, were awarded tennis scholarships and announced they will attend Hillsdale College.

The Salem doubles duo are among five girls who signed letters recently at Hillsdale.

Braun and Moon posted an impressive 24-4 record last year, including an impressive 4-1 stint in the state Class A finals at the No. 1 doubles flight where they finished second.

The pair also won Suburban Eight League and Huron Invitational titles.

Also signed to athletic scholarships were Mari McGowan of Birmingham Marian, Michelle Miller of Grand Rapids Forest Hills and Laurie Stanley of St. Joseph.

"I extremely pleased with the addition of these five girls to our program," said Hillsdale coach Dr. Betty Wilson. "They are all fine students and excellent players. I'm confident that they will by able to contribute immediately and will be very competitive in the Great Lakes Conference."

Salem splits with Raiders

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Jerry Maxwell's return trip to the Plymouth Salem baseball field brought back good memories.

Unfortunately, however, the results weren't quite the same this time around as North Farmington beat the rain and managed to salvage a split in a baseball double-header Wednesday against the host Rocks.

A little less than a year ago, Maxwell's team captured the Class A district at Salem in somewhat of a surprise.

"I was a pretty happy guy that day," recalls the North coach.

Maxwell came down to earth as Salem won the opener, 3-0, behind the pitching of Jim Jimmerson and Billy Culver. The Raiders squeezed through five, rain-shortened innings to win the nightcap, 7-2.

In the opener, Salem beat one of the area's top pitchers in Matt Ruud, a senior lefty who beat Salem a year ago.

The winners scored single runs in the second, third and sixth innings.

Designated hitter Hsiao Peng and catcher Dave Slavin combined for four of Salem's six hits. Kevin Merrill singled home Peng with Salem's final run in the sixth.

Despite the loss, Ruud struck out 10 and walked only two in going the distance.

Jimmerson, meanwhile, earned his first win of the year going five innings. Culver came on to get the save.

Ruud and Kevin Shaw each had two hits to pace the North offense.

Slavin, a sophomore, gunned down four Raiders trying to steal.

"He (Jimmerson) looked pretty good," said Salem coach Brian Gilles. "He's doing his part and Slavin throwing out four guys sure helped."

"We had some mental mistakes on the bases," said Maxwell, "and if you don't score you don't win. We had to score at least one to stay in the game."

NORTH TOOK command of the second game in the first inning, scoring three times, but had only one hit — John King's single.

Salem starter Greg Etienne lasted less than an inning because of wildness.

The Raiders, 2-1 overall, added three more runs in the third inning off John McDowell, the second of three Salem pitchers.

King led off the inning with a homer over the left field fence. Doug Schulte then reached base on an infield error and Mark Leonetti was hit by a pitch. Jeff LaBelle's single brought Schulte home and Eric Carrier's sacrifice fly scored Leonetti.

Shaw, a junior righthander, held Salem hitless until the fourth when Slavin singled.

Leonetti singled and scored North's final run in the fifth. He stoled second and scored on Chuck Kott's ground out.

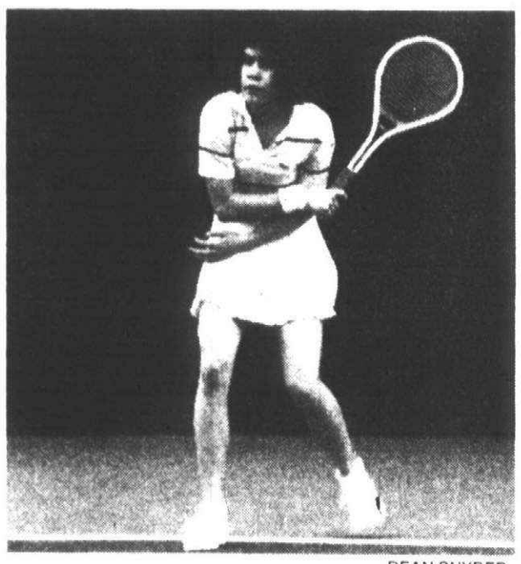
Fighting a steady downpour, Salem got its only two runs without the benefit of a hit. Shaw, slipping and sliding on the mound, walked five straight Salem batters as Joe Humphries and Culver scored.

The Raider pitcher, however, ended the inning by fanning Peng, his seventh strikeout. The out assured North of a legal game. Five complete innings constitute a complete game.

The umpires decided in the sixth they had been drenched enough, and called the game.

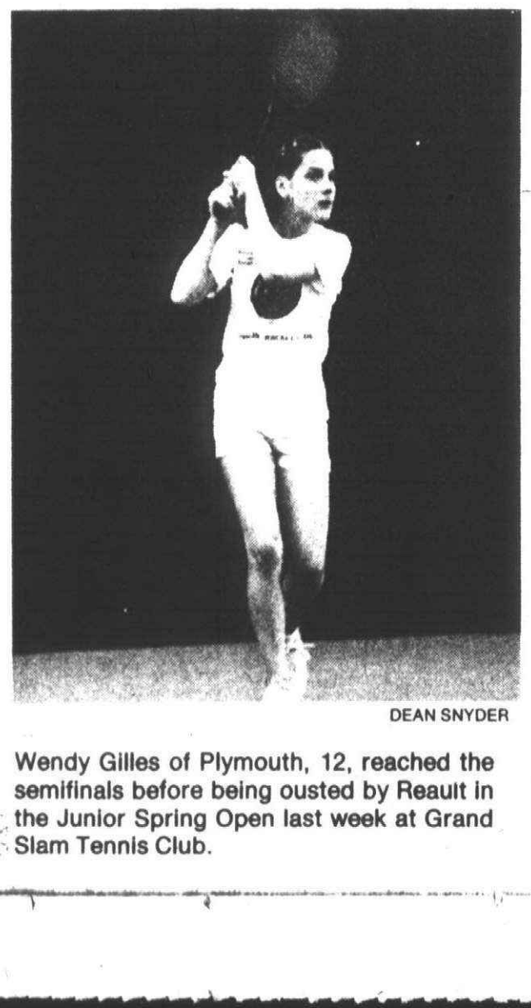
"KEVIN LOST his control, but the ball was wet and the mound was soggy," said Maxwell. "I was ready to pull him if it became necessary, but I didn't have anyone warming up."

North will face Livonia Franklin Tuesday.



DEAN SNYDER

Jennifer Reault of Livonia was the surprise winner in the Girls 16's. She defeated Chris Nagel in the final 6-0, 6-4.



DEAN SNYDER

Wendy Gilles of Plymouth, 12, reached the semifinals before being ousted by Reault in the Junior Spring Open last week at Grand Slam Tennis Club.

Upsets the order at Grand Slam junior net event

Numerous upsets marked the Junior Spring Open last week at the Grand Slam Tennis Club at the Livonia Family Y.

The event drew some of the top junior players from across the Midwest.

One of the biggest surprises occurred in the Girls 16's championship match as unseeded Jennifer Reault of Livonia downed No. 1 seed Chris Nagel of West Bloomfield 6-0, 6-4.

"It's nice to see somebody from our club win," said tournament director Dean Synder, who is also the pro at Grand Slam. "Jennifer played extremely well.

"She allowed only seven points during the first set."

Reault, a student at Frost Junior High School, reached the finals in the 11-player draw with a 1-6, 6-3, 6-3 semifinal triumph over 12-year-old Wendy Gilles of Plymouth, the No. 2 seed.

In the other semifinal, Nagel blasted Isabelle O'Brien of Augusta 6-2, 6-4.

Kelly Davidson of Farmington Hills pulled another mild surprise in the Girls 14's final with an impressive 6-2, 6-4 victory over No. 1 seed Chris Gilles of Plymouth.

Davidson, the No 2 seed, pounded hard, sharp-angled ground strokes to outlast her equally as strong opponent.

In the semifinals of the Girls 14's, Davidson and Gilles both had little trouble. Gilles trimmed Julie Ashare of Grosse Pointe Woods, 6-0, 6-1, and Davidson beat Kristin Ashare of Bloomfield Hills 6-1, 6-0.

ON THE BOYS' SIDE, John Halpin made his trip from Elmhurst, Ill., worthwhile with a 6-2, 6-1 victory in the 14's final over Matt Cunningham of Livonia.

Halpin, the No. 1 seed, reached the championship match with a 6-1, 6-3 win over Bob Heimbuch of Farmington Hills. In the other semifinal, Cunningham beat Jack Tatigian of Livonia 6-7, 7-6, 6-2.

Michael Herb of West Bloomfield, seeded third, won the Boys 12's with a 5-7, 6-0, 6-1 victory over Farmington Hills' Tim Gammons.

Marc Resteiner, the No. 1 seed, was ousted in the first round by Detroit's Phil Eagleson 6-3, 6-4.

Eagleson was then beaten by Gammons in the semifinals, 6-2, 6-2, and Herb downed Dave Nosanchuk of Franklin 6-3, 6-0.

In the Boys 10's, Troy's Scott Micus whipped Greg Cooksey of Grosse Pointe Woods 6-3, 6-2.

Micus advanced to the final with a 6-2, 6-2 win against Ypsilanti's Paul Kruse.

Synder, who umpired the championship matches, was impressed with the level of play throughout the tournament.

"There was a lot of fine tennis played," he said, "and there were some really good matches."

Bat tryouts set Tuesday

Youngsters 13-14 who will be attending Salem High School should report beginning at 6 p.m. Tuesday for Sandy Koufax tryouts at Central Middle School.

Tryouts will also be held Wednesday and Thursday at Central.

Alma hurlers try for MIAA repeat

By Brad Emons
staff writer

If Alma College hopes to repeat as MIAA baseball champs, the Scots must get top-notch performances again from a pair of area pitchers.

The small northern Michigan school shared the crown last season with Calvin College. Two major reasons for Alma's success are Livonia Churchill grad Bill Bardwell and Plymouth Salem grad Bruce Gerish. Both seniors, Bardwell and Gerish combined for 12 of Alma's 17 wins.

The Scots qualified for the NCAA Division III tournament and were ousted in two games. Despite the losses, Bardwell and Gerish remained optimistic about the coming season.

Bardwell currently leads the league in ERA (1.00) despite Alma's 1-3 MIAA (Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association) start. He is coming off a banner year in which he went 8-1. He pitched 66 and one-third innings with a 2.59 ERA and was the league MVP.

He has a career record of 15-5 and needs only five wins to break the school record.

Bardwell came to Alma after leading Churchill to the Western Six League baseball title in 1977. He made the All-Observer team as a senior, but college scouts weren't knocking down his door.

"My coach in high school, Roger Frayer, went to school up here," explained the crafty right-hander. "I came up here and talked to a few people and everything worked out."

The former Churchill standout is majoring in accounting and received his degree last week. He'll finish out the baseball season and then look for a job in his chosen field.

GERISH did not have Bardwell's high school credentials, but has left his mark in the MIAA. He stands 6-feet-5 and weighs 210 pounds. Last season he went 4-4 and had 62 strikeouts in 66 innings with a 2.25 ERA. He had a no-hitter, a one-hitter and two, 2-hitters.

His biggest accomplishment came last year in a heartbreaking 4-3 loss to Kalamazoo. He set an all-NCAA divisions record by hurling 16 and one-third innings.

This season has been the victim of hard luck. He's 0-2 in the league with a 1.91 ERA.

Beset by back problems, Gerish did a lot of running over the winter to guard against any recurring problems.

"I got tired in the later innings last year because my legs were gone," he said. "That's the most essential point for me."

Gerish, who uses four pitches, relies mostly on his fastball which has been clocked at 86 mph. A Business-English major, Gerish has his sights set on the NCAA tournament again and a possible look from the pros.

"OVERALL, I've really liked it here," he said. "It's a very personal place. It's good for the student-athlete because it isn't as demanding as far as athletics is concerned."

It's going to be an uphill battle for the Scots, who trail league-leader Hope by two games.

Bardwell and Gerish rank No. 1 and 3 in the league pitching charts. And if if pitching is 80 percent of the game, then the Scots could still make a late charge.

Behind the two standout seniors in the bullpen is Garden City East grad Steve Topalian, who transferred this year from Western Michigan.

A fourth area player is Livonia Bentley's Dave Hostetter, who batted .327 last year as a freshman. He was an all-MIAA honorable mention choice and was the team's most improved player, according to head coach Bill Klenk.

National crowns fit for 'Queens'

With their eye on the Queen's title, the most prestigious honor in women's bowling, 42 members of the Women's State Bowling Association will invade Baltimore next week to compete in the Women's International Bowling Congress tournament.

The Queen's event is the feature of the tournament. Among those competing this year will be Cora Feibig, who was runner-up two years ago, and Aleta Rzepecki, the young star who won the top place in the averages of the Ladies Major League this season with a mark of 198. Cora topped the averages in the Bowlerettes with 204.

WONDERLAND LANES seems to be the place where the old-timers come to life again.

This was true this week when Jack Born, who has been an all-star bowler and a proprietor, found the range for a 715 series in the classic. He started with a 221, followed with 215 and then closed with 182.

Even with the good score, he had to yield in the race for high honors when Fred Rossman came through with counts of 244, 278 and 234 for 756.

In the ladies division Marilyn Leedom was high with a 237 in 632.

MERRI-BOWL added another member to the 700 club this week as Don Parks won the honor with a rather peculiar series.

After opening with a 253 he soared to a 267 middle game and then slumped to 182 for the 702 that earned the membership for him.

Meanwhile, Gary Nagle missed breaking the barrier by three pins. He got away to a great start with 245, but slumped to 186 and then closed with 266 for 697. Jeff Messisco landed the third spot with a 653 that came about because of a 256 opener.

ANOTHER who narrowly missed the 700 club was Doug Zybrands. Bowling in the Vinco League at Garden Lanes he came up with a 694. Right behind him came Brad Lackey with 679 and Ray Bonkowski with 670.

JEAN WHALEN had the thrill of her bowling career when her team — The Midas Mufflers — won the championship in the ladies classic at Westland Bowl.

In the final night of bowling Cindi Edwards showed the way with 604, and Monaco Dlugas landed second with 596. Next in line came Kathy Johnson with 593 and Jan Himmelstach with 591.

In the ladies trio circuit Lynn Kotosolus was high with 256 in 608.

THERE WAS good shooting in the Pin Busters league at Plaza Lanes. When the final pin fell Dave Kauppi was high with 682. Next came Ron Aman with a 256 in 669 and Mike Shablis with 666. He was well on his way to bigger things with games of 237 and 251 but slumped to 178 in the final and had to take third place with 666.

the movies

Louise Snider

Weird characters hang out together in 'The Howling'

What a howl, "The Howling" (R) that is: a tale about werewolves and the intrepid female newscaster (is there any other line of employment for a movie heroine?) who breaks the stroy about a booming werewolf population to viewers who couldn't care less.

The little inside jokes and microflashes of wit in this movie might redeem it from the junk heap of horror schlock if it weren't for a few other things.

The situations, for example, are so cliche-ridden they are a joke. Yet, it's hard to believe they were intended that way because they sap the movie of any scare power.

"The Howling" is replete with onimous-sounding organ chords, shots of the moon peeking through clouds, a dark forest and a heroine, who, though a television newscaster, ranks a couple of rungs below Little Red Riding Hood when it comes to naivete.

DEE WALLACE plays the slim-witted reporter who uses herself as bait to trap the man suspected of a series of grisly murders. Their meeting occurs in a porno shop, and she narrowly escapes with her life when the police trailing her lose radio contact.

She survives, but her memory of what her assailant looked like has been blocked from her conscious mind. (We got a quick glimpse, however, and we know he needed a haircut desperately.)

She turns for help to a psychiatrist, Patrick MacNee. We spot him as a smooth, suspicious character. Of course, she thinks he's terrific. When he suggests a rest cure at an isolated colony he runs for his "special patients," she and her husband accept.

The doctor's colony is less a funny farm than a weirdo wonderland where peculiar howls are heard every night. Her husband (Christopher Stone) reassures her. They're just animals, he says.

Having been brought up in Los Angeles, she is not used to anything wilder than Wolfman Jack, he tells her (ha, ha).

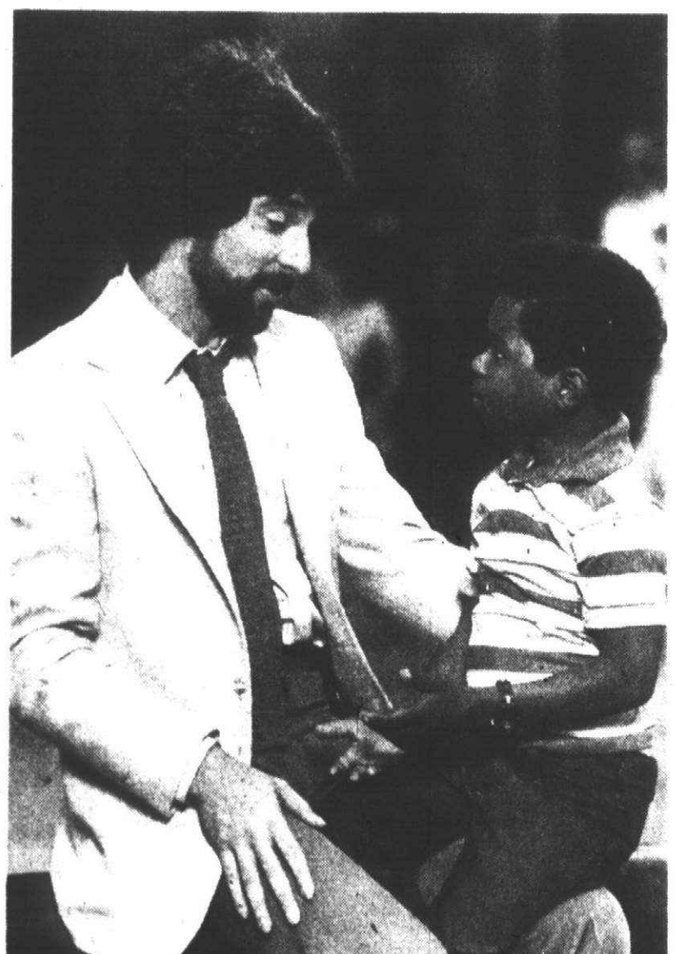
EVEN SO, this retreat is not filled with your usual Club Med crowd. There's John Carradine trying to throw himself into a bonfire and braying at the moon; a nymphomaniac who likes to chop up rabbits; her brother who has a decidedly wolfish grin, and for good ol' home-country balance, Sheriff Slim Pickens. You know you can trust him, can't you?

When one of Dee's colleagues (Belinda Balaski) shows up at the colony to do some investigating of her own, there is a little bit of confusion as to who is the heroine of this movie.

With the help of the werewolves, this problem is resolved Things begin to sort themselves out, but not before we get the idiot speech of the year. MacNee lectures his werewolf patients on the need to integrate with the locals and adapt to changing times. They don't buy this.

"The Howling's" claim to fame is not in sociology, however. It's in special effects. Right before your very eyes, a human changes into a werewolf — a dark, ugly, fangsome beast that seems to perspire a lot, or maybe it's just slavering.

Having gotten the hang of this transformation, the moviemakers repeat it again and again right up to an inconclusive ending, so that, you bet, they just might try to howl again.



Comedies held over

(Above) Gary Coleman makes his movie debut as a free-spirited orphan in the comedy fable "On the Right Track." Michael Lembeck co-stars as a juvenile services officer who becomes the boy's surrogate father. Jerry Lewis (below) is an out-of-work circus clown romancing Deanna Lund in the slapstick comedy "Hardly Working." Both films are holding over at metropolitan Detroit theaters.

Sampling Detroit

"A Taste of Detroit" brings noon-hour lunchers to Hart Plaza in downtown Detroit on a Friday, for a fine foods ethnic festival sponsored by the Michigan Restaurant Association. This year's festival runs from noon to 11 p.m. Friday-Saturday and noon to 10 p.m. Sunday.

what's at the movies

EXCALIBUR (R). Sweeping adventure of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table, with Nicol Williamson as the wizard, Merlin.

GOING APE (PG). What to do when you are willed $5 million under condition that you take care of three orangutans.

HARDLY WORKING (PG). Slapstick comedy with Jerry Lewis as middle-aged, unemployed circus clown creating havoc in a variety of jobs.

THE HOWLING (R). Oddball movie mixes horror and humor in werewolf story.

LA CAGE AUX FOLLES II (R). Albin and Renato get involved with spies in this sequel to "La Cage aux Folles." It's not as funny as the first, but it does offer some sharp commentary on sex roles and expectations.

MODERN ROMANCE (R). Unusual comedy about a quarreling couple. Albert Brooks is a worrying, suspicious lover who can't be happy whichever way the romance works out.

NIGHT HAWKS (R). Fast-action drama as a pair of special N.Y. cops (Sylvester Stallone and Billy Dee Williams) confront a vicious terrorist.

NINE TO FIVE (PG). Comedy with Jane Fonda, Lily Tomlin and Dolly Parton as three secretaries who scheme to get rid of their boss.

THE POSTMAN ALWAYS RINGS TWICE (R). Jack Nicholson and Jessica Lange in sexually emphatic remake of James M. Cain's novel of lust and murder.

STIR CRAZY (R). Comedy with Richard Pryor and Gene Wilder as a couple of stranded show biz types who get framed for a bank robbery.

TESS (PG). Thomas Hardy's classic novel ("Tess of the D'Urbervilles") of Victorian society captured in a brilliant film directed by Roman Polanski.

THIEF (R). James Caan is a diamond thief. Smart enough to break into a vault, not smart enough to stay clear of the mob.

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own . . . but it takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item . . . and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

One more thing . . . get up early the day of your sale! When people read about a Garage Sale in Classified, they shop early.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

Room to spare

The Ford EXP, Ford Division's new front-wheel-drive sportcoupe, has two seats and a cavernous rear compartment — plenty of room for shopping, vacationing, and daily commuting.

Your car could use a spring cleaning, too

Whether your car is a top-of-the-line luxury model or an economical base model, it still needs some wash-up, touch-up and spruce-up attention before summer.

"Chemicals that make roads passable in snow and ice and that are sprayed on trees and road surfaces during other seasons can react with the metal of the car," said Ralph Maccarone of American Motors.

"Any extreme weather conditions can affect the appearance of paint, metal trim and rubber parts."

The following are guidelines for body care for the car you drive:

• Wash-ups — Weekly washings with cold, clean water and polishing with a soft cloth or chamois will preserve the car's finish. For the best results, don't wash it in direct sunlight. Use care in removing stains and road film to prevent scratching the finish. Auto polishes are available that will remove road film and normal stains.

Woodgrain panels and exterior tape stripes are made of vinyl and are applied over the finish. Use special care in cleaning or polishing such areas to avoid damage.

• Touch-ups — Paint scratches should be retouched as soon as they are discovered. Touch-up paint is available in spray cans or brush applicators to match the color of your car. This paint, when properly applied, will cover minor nicks and scratches and prevent additional paint chipping.

The body identification plate, on the left front door, shows the trim and paint number for your car. Use these numbers when ordering paint or trim from the dealer to ensure exact matching of replacement parts.

• Spruce-ups — Chrome and bright metal trim should be washed frequently to protect the appearance of the car. A chrome cleaner to help remove discoloration and blemishes is best.

If your car has a vinly roof, it should be washed with water and a mild soap. If the roof is severly soiled, you can use vinyl cleaner as directed. Do not allow any vinyl cleaner to run down and dry on the paint, leaving a streak.

• Interior care — The interior care of your car also is important. Frequent cleaning with a wisk broom or vacuum cleaner and wiping with a damp cloth, followed by towel-drying, will help keep your upholstery and interior trim looking good.

Stains from lipstick, ink, gum, catsup, crayon or coffee can be cleaned by using the method recommended in the stain removal chart in the owner's manual.

Vinyl-coated headliners can be cleaned with a cloth or sponge and a mild soap.

Stronger cleaning solvents, such as gasoline, naptha, turpentine, paint thinner or laundry soaps on the interior of your car can be dangerous to use and cause damage or fade the trim material.
