High bidders to toss a pie at town board

By Darlene Stinson
editor

Do you feel frustrated with City (or Township) Hall?

Have you ever felt the urge to give government officials a piece of your mind?

A big opportunity could be in store for disgruntled Canton residents who tune in to WSDP Radio May 7-9.

High bidders in the station's second annual auction will have an opportunity to throw genuine cream pies into the faces of Canton Township Board members.

All seven officials are committed to the pie-throwing. Last week, they unanimously approved a resolution that names their faces (smeared with cream pie) as Canton's contribution to the fundraising campaign of the Centennial Educational Park's radio station.

The time and place for the pie-throwing has not been scheduled.

But the rules for winning the rare opportunity are simple.

Just call WSDP (88.1 FM) from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. this Thursday, Friday or Saturday to place a bid on the Canton official of your choice. The number is 453-0620.

The seven winners (one for each Township Board member) will be announced on WSDP Saturday evening.

Winners must come to WSDP's office in Plymouth Salem High School to pay their bid by cash or by check and to receive a "winner's ticket."

Proceeds from the three-day auction will be used for WSDP operations and equipment. This year, staffers have set a goal of $6,000 for the event. Last year's auction raised $3,845 for the station, which serves Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools.

CANTON BOARD members are not the only public officials who have volunteered for the fundraising campaign.

John M. Hoben, superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, will take a student's place in the classroom for a half-day. Hoben's plege applies to any grade — kindergarten through 12th, said Jeff Cardinal, administrative coordinator for the school station.

School board president Carol Davis has promised to mow the lawn in front of the Plymouth-Canton Schools' administration building in return for an auction bid. Plymouth Salem High School principal Bill Brown will play basketball with the highest bidder. Plymouth Canton principal Kent Buikema has challenged anyone in the community to a racquetball game.

Judges James Garber and Dunbar Davis of the 35th District Court will officiate at the high bidder's wedding. So will Plymouth Mayor Mary Childs.

In addition, more than 300 merchants in the Plymouth-Canton communities have contributed $8,000 worth of goods. Pledged items and services include gasoline fill-ups, hairdos, designer jeans, teddy bears, lamps and veterinary sercvices.

WSDP staffers will auction off eight pieces of merchandise every half-hour during the three-day event.

BUT BIDS for the pledges of elected officials will be accepted throughout the three-day auction, said Cardinal. The pie-throwing promise of Canton Township Board members will be tacked on WSDP's "dream board" along with the pledges of other well-known figures.

"That will go over real big," said Cardinal of Canton officials' cream pie pledge.

Township Board members think their contribution will be a big hit, too.

At last week's meeting, they pondered a pledge that would bring in the largest possible sum of money for the radio station. Trustee Robert Padget jokingly volunteered a pie in the face of Supervisor James Poole.

Special ed employees cry foul on layoff slips

Social workers employed by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools cautioned the school board Monday night it may be in violation of state law if it eliminates all social workers in the district.

As part of its budget cutting plans, the board is reducing the special education budget by more than $500,000. Among those cuts are the elimination of all social workers positions and the layoff of eight social workers.

The eight appealed to the board Monday night but were unable to stave off the layoffs.

Instead, the board president said the trustees' budget subcommittee would take another look at the move and assured social workers they would be assigned a priority for restoration should funds be available in the future.

Besides lack of funds, the positions also were eliminated by an August 1980 change in special education state laws which removed social workers as a mandatory position for districts statewide.

EDITH JONES, social worker, agreed with the board that the change in law removes social workers as a mandatory service.

She stressed, however, that the law still requires an evaluation by a school social worker before a student can be certified as being emotionally impaired (EI).

The law requires that the program planning meeting between teachers, parents, and other professionals (an Individual Educational Planning Conference or IEPC) include an evaluation from a social worker, says Ms. Jones.

Mary Hudson, another social worker, had explained to the board that the primary functions of social workers within each school were:

1. The evaluation of students suspected of having emotional impairments which hinder educational progress; and,

2. The provision of services to general education students designed to prevent the necessity of utilizing special education alternatives.

Ms. Hudson noted the evaluation, required by law, involves classroom observation, student and family interviews, teacher consultations, review of academic records, and coordination of input from involved community agencies.

She challenged the administration's stance that it can contract for social workers services through existing community agencies on a fee basis.

"It is neither reasonable nor ethical to expect that an individual in a private agency with limited school contacts could provide that service."

Ms. Hudson added that such evaluations cannot legally be done unless the person has school social work certification.

She reminded the board that in 1978 the Northwest Child Guidance Clinic asked the district to stop sending them students because their program was not designed to handle student evaluations.

The Hawthorne Center, she added, can evaluate students but they will be put on a three-month waiting list unless they show suicidal tendancies.

DR. ED PAGE, director of special education, said the elimination of social workers was recommended not because their services weren't needed but because the board had ordered more than $500,000 to be taken from the special ed budget.

Page argued, though, that the school board would not be n in violation of state law if the positions were totally eliminated as planned.

Report quiets hurt feelings on road care

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Last year the Wayne County Road Commission spent almost $600,000 on various road maintenance projects in Canton Township.

That's almost twice what the township generated in gas and weight taxes to the state for 1980. The gas and weight taxes provide the majority of funds used by the county road commission in building and maintaining county roads.

Responding to public criticism that the road commission has shortchanged residents of Plymouth and Canton townships, County Commissioner William Joyner three years ago requested a breakdown of dollars spent by the road commission in both townships.

Recently, Joyner's question was answered in a three-year report provided by the commission's accounting office. The figures show that Canton received more in service dollars than it generated in tax dollars. (The taxes are collected primarily through gasoline sales and license plate fees.)

In Plymouth Township, the road commission also spent more than was collected in taxes in 1979-80, but not to the same degree as in Canton.

"I criticized the road commission three years ago for what I felt was its lack of priorities for western Wayne County communities," said Joyner. "But I was amazed by Canton's figures."

ONE CONCLUSION Joyner reached in interpreting those figures is that the road commission in recent years could be "making up for past years of neglect" in Canton.

He also concluded that the commission's intense involvement in Canton in recent years could be a response to the community's booming population since the early '70s.

George Young, community relations spokesman for the county road commission, said the county expends funds on projects where they are "most needed" and indicated Canton's population boom in the past decade necessitated spending the amount that has been spent in Canton since 1978.

Following are figures for the two communities:

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP

1978: $232,864 spent
to $176,596 generated.
1979: $263,938 spent
to $232,983 generated.
1980: $218,758 spent
to $233,636 generated.

CANTON TOWNSHIP

1978: $669,790 spent
to $211,609 generated.
1979: $550,410 spent
to $276,433 generated.
1980: $604,843 spent
to $286,510 generated.

Canton Clerk John Flodin, responding to the reported 1980 figures, said: "I'm grateful for that. Whatever logic the road commission used to come up with it — we should be appreciative of it."

FLODIN SAID many residents do not understand how their roads get repaired and from where the money comes from.

"Many of the people who came to Canton from easterly communities were seeking the country-like atmosphere. They were accustomed to driving on good roads. But after being here, driving over gravel roads, which damaged their cars, it became unpleasant. Then they get their tax bills, and say, "Look at my roads.'"

Recreation building plan goes to architect

An architectural firm has been awarded a $4,500 contract for rough drawings of a Canton Township recreation building, even though the building may not be built for years.

The proposed 30,000-square-foot facility would include a gymnasium, exercise rooms, multi-purpose room, lounge, shower facility and other recreational areas. The design of the estimated $2 million building would allow room for a 25-yard indoor or outdoor swimming pool.

Township Board members last week awarded the design contract to the architectural firm of Rossen and Neumann Associates by a 5-2 vote.

However, construction of the building on Township Hall properties will not begin until at least 1983.

Township officials say construction hinges on reinstatement of the federal Local Public Works (LPW) grant program and Canton's success in snaring an LPW grant.

LPW money will not be included in the federal 1982 budget, said grant coordinator Terry Carroll. An LPW grant financed construction of the township's $2.2 million administration building in 1977.

Last October, the township's Recreation Advisory Committee accepted architectural bids for the recreation building's design with the idea that former President Jimmy Carter would release LPW money.

The federal grant program is designed to provide jobs in periods of high unemployment. Despite a high jobless rate in the Detroit area, Carter never acted according to township officials' expectations.

THE PROPOSED multi-purpose recreation center is considered a high-priority capital improvements project by the Recreation Advisory Committee, said recreation superintendent Mike Gouin.

Last week, Carroll advised board members to prepare designs for the building even though LPW money isn't available.

"By the time we get notification that the funds are available, we'd be under mandate to have a shovel in the ground within 90 days."

Trustees Stephen Larson and Loren Bennett protested the move to spent $4,500 on a conceptual design. They advocated a delay in the architectural work until LPW grants are expected to be available.

"We may not be looking at funding availability until 1985," said Larson. "The building we design today may be out of date in five years."

He was most concerned with technological advances in heating and energy-saving systems.

On sex education ruling

Schools expect an appeal

Plymouth-Canton school officials aren't pushing the panic button over a recent attorney general's ruling involving how to provide sex education to students.

Attorney General Frank Kelley has issued an opinion that sex education cannot be made part of any class required for graduation.

Kelley further ruled that it made no difference whether students were provided with an option to be excused from that class during the time sex education instruction was being given.

Dr. John M. Hoben, superintendent of schools, noted Monday that the opinion does carry the weight of law in Michigan unless it is overruled by a court of law.

And that's why school administrators aren't in any hurry to rewrite local curriculum because they expect the state Board of Education may file a lawsuit challenging the attorney general's opinion.

Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction, pointed out that Plymouth-Canton and every other school district in Michigan includes sex education as part of a class required for graduation because that was required by a law passed in 1976.

Because the law mandates the instruction be part of health education, added Homes, all districts in Michigan are in non-compliance with Kelley's ruling.

Kelley's opinion, issued April 21, also was based on the same 1976 law which established guidelines for instruction on contraceptives and veneral disease as part of sex education instruction.

Kelley claims that districts which teach sex education as part of a required course but give parents the right to pull their children from that portion of the class are violating the intent of the 1976 law.

Board volunteers pie toss

His suggestion quickly snowballed. Padget's motion for a pie in the face of all board members was unanimously approved, despite wide-eyed looks from some trustees.

Bidding could become hot for at least some of the pie-throwing rights.

Trustee Stephen Larson already has pledged participation in the pie-throwing contest involving a fellow trustee, Carol Bodenmiller.

"I intend to listen to the radio and buy the pie for Carol," said Larson. He made the comment after debating with Ms. Bodenmiller over the purchase of cars for the police department.

For radio listeners who may forgotten the names of their Township Board members, the officials are Supervisor James Poole, Clerk John Flodin, Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz, Trustee Loren Bennett, Trustee Robert Padget, Trustee Stephen Larson and Trustee Carol Bodenmiller.

Schools view ruling

That opinion immediately resulted in confusion for school districts throughout the state because the ruling conflicted with state Board of Education guidelines on implementing the 1976 law. Those guidelines allow sex education to be taught as an optional part of a required health course.

In Plymouth-Canton the instruction is given to all 9th graders, except those who opt out, in health education classes.

Hoben told school trustees Monday night that the state Department of Education is seeking clarification of Kelley's ruling and unless the opinion and guidelines are somehow reconciled, it is likely a lawsuit will be filed challenging the attorney general.

Homes agreed that the next move was up to the state board because Kelley's ruling "flies in the face" of the '76 guidelines.

Homes noted that if the opinion stands the district clearly will have to make curriculum changes for the coming school year — changes which will involve 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th graders.

"Under the attorney general's opinion, it is no longer sufficient to give the option of removal but the instruction must all be on a voluntary, elective basis."

Lewis Schulman, superintendent of Farmington Public Schools, suggested that Kelley's opinion really will result only in a change of emphasis, noting that sex education is not really required now.

The difference, Schulman said, is that now students are allowed to "opt out" of sex education and in the future they would be allowed to "opt in" to receive the same instruction.

Monday night the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education decided to do nothing presently and wait to see if any legal action will be taken to clarify the apparent conflict between state guidelines and Kelley's opinion.

Report shows road care

What the residents don't realize is that money for road maintenance comes mostly from gasoline and license plate taxes rather than property taxes, he said.

Cities receive direct individual state reinbursement but the money for townships goes to Wayne County and the county road commission. The road commission directs the expenditure for roads in the township areas.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen is less convinced that Plymouth Township is getting its money's worth from the road commission and less impressed with the the county's recently released expense figures for the township.

"THERE'S BEEN a diminishing amount of service provided by the County Road Commission. They answer the revenues are diminishing. But they're no longer an agency with a major emphasis on roads. Roads have become a secondary business to them — second to the airport."

Breen sees criticism of the road commission strongest among heavily populated townships, where constant surface traffic rapidly aggravates road conditions.

He points to that dissatisfaction as fueling discussions among townships officials to withdraw from county road service, and begin providing it themselves.

While Breen says he's confident a locally operated road department could be better operated than the county operation, he recognizes there are problems so that there might not be a cost savings to residents.

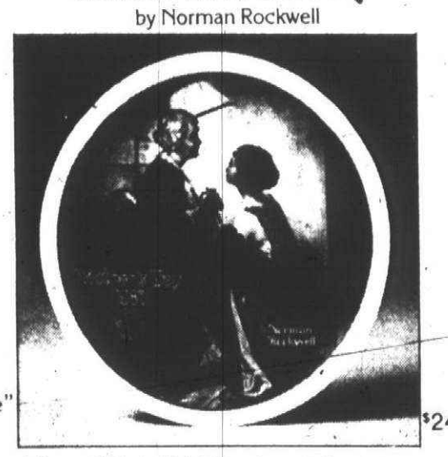

"If we could take it over, we'd have to do it at a higher level (than is now performed)," he said. "People would expect a whole lot more — and rightfully so."

However, he said start-up costs, such as equipment buying, and personnel, could be prohibitive.

"In terms of maintenance of gravel roads — we could do that but probably nothing else."

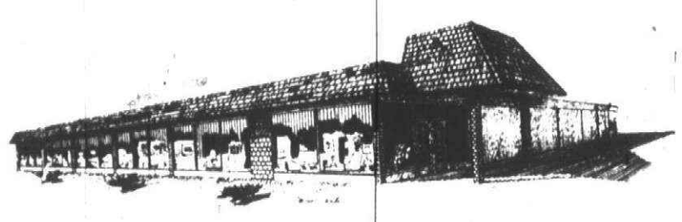

"At this point, though," he said. 'It (the road commission) is the only game in town."

Crowds began pouring into garages in Sunflower subdivision on Friday morning — the first day of two neighborhood-wide garage sales.

Bargains everywhere!

Neighbors join to throw giant garage sales

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

The classified advertisements were a bargain-hunter's dream:

"Garage sale. Entire subdivision. Hundreds of homes."

I found out that the garage sale was in sprawling Sunflower subdivision, off Warren and Canton Center roads. Visions of rock-bottom-priced clothes and paperback books popped into my head.

Could I pick up some used patio furniture for a song? I started getting excited as my eyes moved down the page of the newspaper.

"This one you can't miss," proclaimed another ad. "Third annual Windsor Park subdivision garage sale. A possible 911 homes participating."

Of course, garage sales have been around for a long time. It's a popular way of getting rid of unwanted or unneeded items.

THE KIDS grow up, so baby clothes and cribs have to go. You bought those water skis and only used them twice. The life-sized nativity scene is taking up too much room in the basement.

And, of course, there's the giant, green ceramic statue of Buddha, and the souvenir ashtrays from Niagara Falls. Maybe somebody will want to buy them.

Neighbors often hold joint sales. But giant garage sales in Sunflower and Windsor Park subdivisions last weekend attracted throngs of shoppers.

"This (joint) idea has worked," said Gail Hagan, of Admiralty Drive in Sunflower. "It's the first of the month.

"For many people, it's payday, (and) they're willing to spend.

"I had people from England. They were visiting, and they wanted to (see) a garage sale. They were, too."

SOME RESIDENTS attached brightly colored balloons to trees to attract shoppers. Others simply put out signs, opened garage doors and waited for customers.

At times, cars were parked bumper-to-bumper along the streets. Customers came on bikes or walked along, comparing the wares.

Mrs. Hagan's neighbor, Shirley Pelczar, did well.

Son Christopher, 6, sold cupcakes. A woman snapped up an electric slow-cooker and a set of gelatine molds, while a man eyed a pair of water ski skis.

"Will you come down to $10 on that coffee pot?" asked a customer. Mrs. Pelczar agreed to reduce her price by $2 and made a sale.

According to some residents, certain shoppers look for specific items, such as military gear or antiques.

"Last year, I sold some swords from Vietnam," said Jerry Gibbons, a Sunflower resident.

On Somerset Square, Lois Kelly was having a sale. She was unaware of the other, giant garage sale.

Mrs. Kelly said she sold a 1971 Mercury car parked in her driveway and had a promised buyer for her freezer.

Other things on sale were jeans, children's clothes, flowered hats of uncertain vintage and assorted knick-knacks.

"I'm going to hate to part with that short-wave radio," said Mrs. Kelly. "I can pick up (messages from) ships."

Jonni Stojeba of Village Court calls herself a "garag-o-holic." She attends other sales, and usually has her own once a year.

"Honey, come right here," Ms. Stojeba told a grandmotherly looking woman who inquired about toddlers' clothes.

"I don't advertise," said Ms. Stojeba.

"I put up a sign up a day early, and I had people here within five minutes.

"If it rains, I'm in big trouble. I definitely pray for good weather."

Annette Sanchagrin, of Corrine in Plymouth, likes to browse. She said she earned $1,000 last year on her own sales.

"Each year I get the same people," she said. "I advertise in the newspaper and put up signs in the supermarket.

"One man comes each year looking for guns. "I've sold an air conditioner, an old brass bed and a stereo."

What did this reporter buy? I managed to resist the patio furniture and settled on a wool sweater, a wall shelf and a spoon.

Total investment: $3.03.

School officials trim administrative staff

The layoff of 6½ administrators and other personnel items drew most of the attention at Monday's school board meeting in the Wayne-Westland district.

Cuts in federal funding of educational programs are responsible for 2½ of the administrative layoffs, according to school officials. Those positions are the director of project metric, the coordinator of curriculum projects and a half-time reduction of the supervisor of Indian Education.

Positions funded by local revenue sources were maintenance foreman, the director of research and evaluation, supervisor of area operations and the director of the Work Education Council for Southeastern Michigan.

Administrators say those layoffs were necessary due to budget constraints resulting from declining student enrollment. The enrollment is expected to drop by 1,085 next fall.

The layoffs are effective June 30.

IN OTHER action, the board approved three new personnel policies. The first outlines the placement of elementary vocal and instrumental music teachers through the bumping process arising from layoffs. It allows music teachers to be placed in secondary schools if no elementary positions are available.

"It's a more appropriate procedure and similar to others we have," Gary Matsche, employee relations director, told the board. "It makes more sense than retaining them in the elementary schools."

The second policy is an amendment to the current contract with the Wayne-Westland Education Association. Matsche said this item had been in dispute and stipulates that substitute counselors won't be hired unless it is known that a counselor will be absent for five or more days.

The third policy allows the district to hire laid-off teachers to instruct workers hired under the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA). The teachers would be hired at the rate granted for the CETA project, not at the rate guaranteed under the WWEA contract with the district.

Administrators said this was another attempt by the district to find employment for teachers being layed off because of declining enrollments.

THE BOARD also accepted the resignations of Adams Junior High principal and assistant principal under the Early Retirement Program, which provides a schedule of yearly bonus for retirement before age 65. Principal Donald Bedard has served the district for 33 years and Assistant Principal Earle Chorbagian has served for 32 years.

The resignations of 11 other staff members under the ERI program were approved as well.

Special ed employees cry foul

The law does not require that school social workers be employees of the district, explained Page who assured the board he could obtain the evaluation service from other agencies in the area.

"The recommendation to cut social workers was not done on a philosophical consideration or a practical consideration of what's best for kids," added Page, "but on direction from the board to cut the money."

Page said another factor was a ruling from the attorney general that school districts could not be reimbursed from the state for services provided by social workers to non-handicapped students.

Views on Dental Health
Kenneth A. Fox D.D.S., P.C.
PROBING THE POCKETS
Stephen K., a 46-year-old accountant, noticed that his gums bled when he brushed his teeth or bit into an apple. He visited his dentist who commenced examining him by inserting a little "perio" probe between his teeth and gums to find the extent of the "pockets". After an X-ray examination showing the amount of tooth-supporting bone loss, he was given the bad news. He had advanced periodontal disease and would lose at least three teeth which were beyond help and have to undergo extensive care to hopefully save the other 29.
Of the 125 million adults who still have their teeth (20 million have already lost theirs), about 100 million have periodontal disease. And in 32 million, it is in an advanced stage, meaning that they too will become toothless unless they undergo extensive treatment.
There is no need for periodontal tooth loss. Learn to clean your teeth properly and they should last a lifetime like they are supposed to.

Board is shocked

SC trustees to review lab fees

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Schoolcraft College administrators are taking another look at a proposed set of laboratory fees after trustees expressed shock at what students would be asked to pay.

"It's like an incredibly huge increase in tuition," said Trustee Mark McQuesten as he studied the lab fees, ranging from $5 to $100.

"It startled me," added Trustee Michael Burley.

The board last month raised tuitions from $18.50 for residents, $29 for non-residents from Michigan and $42.50 for non-Michiganians to $22, $30 and $45.50.

At the same time, the board authorized that "laboratory fees be instituted beginning with the fall semester of the 1981-82 instructional college year."

SCHOOLCRAFT has never charged lab fees, though most neighboring colleges do. In southeast Michigan, 12 of 14 colleges surveyed make such charges, ranging from $2 to $50, according to the administration.

The administration may impose the fees, and presented the scale to the board of trustees only as a review item. Deadline for a final decision is a special board meeting Wednesday. After that, the college catalogue will have gone to press.

Biggest fee would be $100 for four culinary arts courses.

"We were the only one not charging for culinary arts," said Louis Reibling, dean of instruction. "About $75 is appropriate for instruction, and $25 means they eat their lunches free." Only one lab course per semester is taken by a culinary arts student, he added.

OTHER CHARGES in the lab fee structure:

- $35 for six welding courses and six in medical records technology.
- $15 for nine in biology and nine in art.
- $10 for seven in chemistry, seven in civil technology, four in manufacturing, 10 in metallurgy, seven in computer programming and five in nusing.
- $5 for four in geology, three in physics, eight in architecture, 11 in automotive, nine in climate systems technology, nine in electricity, six in business machines, seven in medical records technology and 11 in occupation therapy assistant.

Income from the fees, if approved as drafted, would be about $81,000.

College President C. Nelson Grote said, "We've worked on this for months. It's gone through a whole host of committees."

Little change is expected at the May 6 meeting.

Pride stickers to be available

"I'm Proud of Plymouth" bumper stickers will be distributed May 11-14 and on May 23 by the Plymouth Jaycees.

The Jaycees will be distributing about 1,500 free bumper stickers those days at an information booth in front of Sportventure at Westchester Square Mall.

Those who show up will receive a bumper sticker, information about the Jaycees and a registration blank for the Fourth of July marathon run.

On May 23 the Plymouth Jaycees also will be stationed in front of various grocery stores in Plymouth.

Although the bumper stickers are being given away, a 50-cent donation will be accepted to help the Jaycees operate more than 150 projects during the year in the community.

Thanks for help on drive

To the editor:

We just wanted to take this opportunity to thank the Plymouth and Canton community for its support of our annual Tootsie Roll Drive for 1981.

Each year we have this drive to help support the Plymouth Opportunity Center. They work with our handicapped brothers and sisters, helping them to become a productive part in our community.

A personal thanks to the ladies auxiliary and the Knights for all their hard work and dedication for this worthy cause.

A special thanks to the National Honor Society from both high schools who contributed their time, energy, enthusiasm and smiles to make this effort a success.

Kent Buikema and Bill Brown should be most proud of their students as part of their schools and as active members of our community.

Tax reform is immediate

To the editor:

To all Plymouth Township residents:

Did you know that next November your property tax bill will increase by 28 percent due to the county increasing your home valuation by this percentage?

Note, however, that if Milliken's tax cut bill passes on May 19, it automatically cancels this 28 percent boost and the so-called 50 percent tax cut applies to your present valuation plus 6 percent maximum.

Confirmation was received from Rep. Roy Smith in Lansing.

Frank Millington
Plymouth Township

correction

An article in the April 30 edition on Extended School Year (ESY) at Fiegle contained incorrect information due to a typographical error.

The cost of air conditioning is about $150,000 at Fiegel, not $150, or a total of $300,000 at Bird and Fiegel. Cost of the movable cabinets including cost of put up and take down is about $100,000 at each school. The added cost of ESY at each school, then, is about $250,000 plus some additional operating costs.

The county's departments limited to 10

A chief executive under a Wayne County charter will have wide powers to reorganize the county bureaucracy.

But the Wayne County Charter Commission last week turned down an effort to limit the number of departments to 10. The vote was 15-5.

Criticizing the limitation to 10 departments, Commissioner David Geiss said, "We're attempting to be legislators. We should let the legislators decide that."

But Charter Commission Chairman George Ward argued for the limitation because "we are giving the chief executive officer exempt appointments. Without a limit, he can create 50 departments and make 50 exempt appointments."

UNDER THE charter, as so far drafted, the chief executive officer (CEO) would present a reorganization plan to the 15-member County Board of Commissioners at the beginning of his term.

The county board will have a limited time to reject the plan; otherwise, it takes effect.

The Michigan Constitution limits state government's executive branch to 20 departments. But charter commissioners' sentiment is against limiting the CEO's discretion to reorganize.

The Charter Commission by June 15 must draft two charters identical in every respect but one: The first will provide for an elected county executive as CEO, the second for a county administrator appointed by the County Board of Commissioners.

IN RELATED action, the Charter Commission moved to set up a sophisticated selection machinery for hiring a county administrator, if voters in November pick that option.

It requires the county board to "select a County Administrator Search Committee. The Search Committee shall seek and screen candidates for the office of county administrator."

While there is nothing to preclude the county board from appointing its entire membership as the search committee and making the hiring a purely political decision, the provision is intended to pave the way for a national search for a top administrator.

Colleges typically hire consultants and set up search committees to screen hundreds of applicants, forwarding to the board the top dozen or so.

The Charter Commission provided the county board can hire an administrator on a majority vote but may fire him/her "?for cause. . .before the expiration of his/her term by a two-thirds vote of the County Co?mmission elected and serving."

Berg fails in bid

Road Commission retains power base

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Deciding the Road Commission had taken enough punishment, the Wayne County Charter Commission turned down Bart Berg's proposal to clip its wings even shorter.

Berg, R-Canton, proposed giving the three-member Road Commission powers over only "road construction and maintenance," adding the county chief executive could assign it other duties.

The board majority, however, argued the chief executive had power to appoint and remove at will the three road commissioners and thus had vast power to control their non-road functions.

The Wayne County Road Commission currently has jurisdiction over county roads, county parks, Detroit Metropolitan Airport and Willow Run Airport. Until a couple of years ago, it also ran the public works department.

BERG SAID his amendment was aimed "not at taking away powers but to get the chicks back to the mother hen" - that is, to put non-road powers under the wing of county general government.

"The public feels the Road Commission sits out there and has a domain of its own?," Berg added.

Commissioner Barbara Gattorn, R-Grosse Pointe, agreed: "The public has spoken eloquently. The Road Commission is unresponsive and arrogant. We must diminish the power base of the Road Commission."

She also recalled widespread charges that all but a handful of 1,600 Road Commission jobs are granted to friends and relatives of politicians.

Berg's amendment won support from such suburban commissioners as Tim Manning, D-Redford, Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, and John Hand, R-Dearborn, as well as Chairman George Ward, D-Detroit. But it was defeated 8-16 with Roman Tefelski, D-Inkster/Westland,voting against it. Commissioner Justine Barns, D-Westland, was absent.

THE CHARTER Commission instead adopted its committee report which said the Road Commission "possesses all the powers and duties provided by law, ordinance and this charter."

Commissioner Michael Einhauser, D-Detroit, said the chief executive would have control not only of Road Commission personnel but of the non-road budget areas such as parks and the airport.

County parks are financed by a general fund grant to the Road Commission. The airports are largely self-sustaining.

"This issue has been fought and settled. The Road Commission lost," said Einhauser. "It will be appointed by the chief executive officer (CEO) and serve at his pleasure.

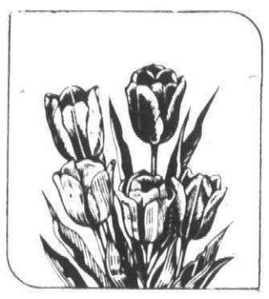

"If the CEO wants a separate airport and parks director, he'll get it. The Road Commission is coming under the CEO. We're looking for goblins where there aren't any."

Selling canes

Members of the Lions Clubs of Plymouth and Canton were at intersections throughout the community Friday accepting donations for white cane tags for the Lions' annual White Cane Week fundraiser. Proceeds are used to help the blind plus finance club projects in the community, such as donation of a van to the Plymouth Family YMCA, adoption of a park, and construction of a bridge in Plymouth Township Park. Don Hay of the Plymouth Lions is shown selling white canes to motorists on Main Street.

Dubbing the region with names

Road, town titles came from settlers

By Robert Woodring
special writer

Just as present-day developers use fancy names to lure buyers to their glades, swamps or gravel pits, speculators were no different when the Detroit area was developed during the 1800s.

When the Michigan Territory was opened to settlers with the auctioning of land under President James Monroe (1817-1825), few purchasers actually placed deposits on prospective land. A signature was enough.

Simultaneously, paper cities were created as creeks became streams, streams became rivers and rivers became steamboat thoroughfares.

With our war with the British in 1812 settled and the Erie Canal opened by 1825, pioneers ventured into the new land at a cruising speed of 1-1¼ miles per hour on the waterway. This bold engineering feat by the state of New York encouraged curious and adventurous families into the new territory which reached all the way to the banks of the Missouri River.

IN ORDER FOR Erastus Ingersoll to build his log home in this wilderness he had to cross a seemingly endless ocean of bog and swamp to arrive in what is now called Novi.

How this settlement came to be known as Novi remains in controversy in the 1980s.

Some sources say that "novi" in Latin means new. An 1830 Ann Arbor scholar insisted that it meant unknown or forgotten.

The "Oakland County Book of History" states that names with six or more letters were discarded as being difficult to write, such as Farmington or Birmingham.

When surveyors plotted the out-lands of Detroit, this area had been designated as "VI" in the second tier of planned townships. Early residents supposedly placed the abbreviation "no" before that designation, mixing this country's English with early Roman numerals.

Another school believes that the intersection of Grand River and Novi Road was tollgate No. VI for the Plank Road which passed at that intersection. If that were the case, where are No. III, No. V and No. X in other communities?

Besides, the Plank Road came later in history.

While books don't agree or can't peg the origin, Novi existed as a detached community from Farmington while 300 Indians lurked toward the north, encamped beside a walled lake.

Novi could have come from a survey's map. It could have derived from a Latin word. It might have been both.

WILLIAM STARKWEATHER is credited with being the first settler, in 1825, in what later became Plymouth Corners.

Years later, "corners" was dropped and the community of Plymouth developed. Certain scholars insist that these early pioneers were direct descendents of the Mayflower Pilgrims. Whether that's true or not would require searching numerous family trees.

Regardless, it makes for good PR.

Plymouth could have been called Tonquish if Indian history had been honored. Unfortunately, an area was not considered settled until the white man arrived.

It was an Indian trail which early travelers used to arrive at Plymouth, Livonia, Northville and northern Canton. That meandering path followed the banks of the Rouge River and is called Ann Arbor Trail. It's the same trail which Chief Tonquish and his band traveled. The chief was killed and buried in the area of Newburgh and Ann Arbor Trail.

The only thing Tonquish is remembered for as he rolls in his grave is that a creek — better referred to as a storm sewer — is his namesake.

COMMUNITIES might be named for founders, ancestors, map designations or war heroes. Such is not the case with Northville.

This community was named because it simply lay north of Plymouth. Settlers also began arriving there around 1825, and when the area was separated from Plymouth Township, it was designated Northville.

Communities such as Rochester, Birmingham and Farmington were names for sister cities in New York, whence settlers came.

Livonia was such a town.

The name is said to have originated from the ancient name for Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, a region in Russia. Its primary settlement was at Newburg corners, but Quaker farmers filtered down from Farmington sharing the northern farmlands and Livonia's identity.

Farmington was first settled by Arthur Power in 1824. Power, a Quaker, enticed others of his faith to settle, causing the community to be called Quakertown until 1826.

A street remains the only major tribute to Power (and this newspaper). That thoroughfare, though, is frequently called Powers Road.

People can't resist placing a plural upon his name.

A free-lance writer and photographer in Canton Township, Woodring is a former Observer & Eccentric staff member. Among his sources: "Michigan Places and Names" by Walter Romig; "History of Detroit, Wayne County and Early Michigan" by Silas Farmer, and "Oakland County Book of History" edited by Arthur Hagman.

Getting jobs: A historical perspective

Years ago, there were jobs available for persons who wanted to work.

And then came the Great Depression and for the first time in our nation's history, there were massive numbers of people who wanted to work but could not find jobs.

That situation was so unusual the federal government responded with large public works programs (WPA and CCC) to rebuild America using the unemployed.

Then World War II started. Our economy recovered, and the unemployed were either drafted or hired by private industry to build bombers, tanks, etc.

The war ended, the quiet prosperity of the Eisenhower years followed, and employment roughly remained at what economists considered normal levels.

But the idea of using the unemployed for public works became well-ingrained in the public's mind and remains so up to today.

DURING THE '60s when the economy slowed, an attempt of sorts to place the unemployed on government payrolls was made with the Peace Corps, VISTA, Job Corps, etc.

In the '70s, the federal government seemed to recognize that our economy was cyclical, and every few years significant numbers of Americans would be without jobs.

And so in 1974, Congress passed the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA), which reinstituted the idea of taking the unemployed and involving them with public works by placing them on the public payrolls.

A difference was that CETA attempted, in its language at least, to provide some kind of training so that when participants left CETA jobs, they would be able to obtain employment elsewhere.

During the administrations of Nixon, Ford and Carter, CETA jobs increased in number year after year, partially because the unemployment rolls were increasing year after year.

In Michigan, a lot of public improvements were done with CETA workers — campgrounds were built, beaches improved, parks cleaned and refurbished, nature, bicycle and jogging trails built, etc.

In many ways, CETA was almost a carbon copy of the old CCC and WPA. The difference, though, was that the economy of the '70s was very different from the economy of the Great Depression.

While massive numbers were unemployed by this time, our workers had become adjusted to the cycle of layoffs and callbacks. They were not "in shock" as workers were in the 1930s.

THE DIFFERENCE is that after the Great Depression the federal government and industry entered into an informal partnership to provide unemployment compensation.

There was a realization that many workers would become unemployed through no fault of their own, and the security of the employee and his/her family would be jeopardized.

There also was a recognition, although maybe not spoken aloud, that unemployment would rise and fall and that the days of steady employment were in the past.

The idea of being jobless became almost acceptable for workers because industry and government were giving them money while they were out of work.

Industry shared the expense because it knew full well the day would come when workers would be laid off. In fact, establisment of unemployment almost guaranteed that layoffs would occur. In my opinion, the "solution" anticipated and predicted the occurrence of the problem.

But most recognized that workers were being unemployed through not no fault of their own and, therefore, government and private industry would try to respond to meet perceived obligations.

SO NOW the feds are backing off on the CETA program, and local governments are bailing out to avoid financial deficits in local budgets.

So the 1980s begin with government purposely getting out of the public works business. While there has been no clear national statement of what the unemployed will do, we have decided to eliminate public works and remove jobless persons from government payrolls. Some may believe that large numbers of workers are jobless because they don't want to work. But that position is hard to sustain when you look at the thousands of employees made jobless by deliberate action of private industry.

And the fact that unemployment compensation is a larger payment than the minimum wage is the result of public policy set by the federal government under its partnership with industry.

We may not know as a nation what we are going to do with our jobless citizens. But we should recoginze that the vast majority are unemployed because industry does not have jobs for all who want to work.

Once we recognize that the captains of industry create unemployment (and the Fortune 500), we should be less willing to place "blame" on the unemployed.

And if we cannot "blame" the jobless for their plight, than we should not try to "punish" the unemployed because they happen to be out of work.

AS UNEMPLOYMENT rises, the number of consumers shrink, and the ability of industry to "retrench" lessens.

In the past, government intervention stopped this downward cycle. Now that we aren't intervening in domestic affairs any more, the choices of all parts of the economy considerably narrow.

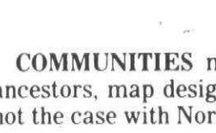

Our national policy, I believe, is that we will rely on private industry (which now is in the business of eliminating jobs) to bring about economic recovery.

I'm afraid our unemployed don't have much reason for optimism yet. We ought to be patient with them because they have to live with the confusion we create.

I wonder if they feel comforted by the knowledge that they remain unemployed in challenging times.

'From one beer lover to another'

TV commercials are pains in the ears

Jackie Klein

Nervous is writing a column when you're not fired up by a burning desire.

That reminds me of a TV commercial for a deodorant. To me, commercials are pains in the eyes and ears of nationwide boob tube audiences — a time for one beer lover to another to haul out a six pack.

How about a column on boycotting commercials?

I may be a Brenda Starr in the office. But in the kitchen I'm a Handi-wipe wiper. When I come home from a hard day pounding my video display terminal and stretching my coffee break with Juicy Fruit gum, I often discover my floor has yellowed. Nobody let the dog out.

That's why I use Mop 'N Glow. It's better than buying Pampers for Eli the Collie or giving him a shot of Extra Dry. It's the taste he hates twice a day.

The minute I get home, I slip into my E.J. Korvette designer jeans and stick the popcorn casserole in the microwave oven. I unplug the drain with Liquid Plumber and make Maxwell House coffee.

I KNOW what I like, and if I want to drink true percolated coffee with the rich, hearty flavor of instant — well that's what I like and that's how it tastes. What I fill to the rim is grim, but I hope it decaffeinates me.

I joined the Pepsi generation and forgot to pay my dues. That's why I enjoy the flavor of an uncola slug of red pop with Boone's Farm strawberry wine, old fashioned Kool-aid, Country Time lemonade, Hawaiian Punch and Tang in a germ-free Dixie Cup.

There's a new me coming every day with homogenized milk. But I'll probably never live to see it. Burger Biggie, Giant Crab, Taco City — I've tried them all.

When I deserve a break today, I go to McDonald's, handle a Whopper with two hands or lick a stick of Colonel Saunder's crunchy chicken. Red Lobster caters to the seafood lover in me.

BUT WHEN all else fails, I resort to cooking. I'm famous for my Jell-O molds that melt in your hands, not in your mouth. And I have been known to burn corn flakes.

For my dishpan hands, I soak in Ivory Snow, mild enough for a baby's skin and 99 and 44/100 percent pure. I suppose it's that missing 56 hundreths of a percent that gives me those ugly brown spots. But what's a woman to do?

It's not nice to fool Mother Nature, so I use the rich, creamy expensive brand — butter, Parkay, Parkay, butter. I never squeeze the Charmin, and I've learned what to do about ring around the collar, static cling and itchy scalp.

I'm a walking testimonial to better living through chemistry. There's protein in my mascara, so how come I flunk the smudge test? There's acrasil in my shampoo. My bubble bath is biodegradable, my toothpaste contains Fluoristan, and my hair spray is full of hydrated lacquer.

I wouldn't dream of using deodorant without aluminum chlorhydroxide complex with hexacholorophene or dandruff remover without ethyl demethyl benzyl.

I may not be gorgeous, but I can always donate my body to science. That is, if they promise to shake well, keep my parts out of the reach of children, look at me, love me and take their time paying for me.

I get my kicks guzzling Scope first thing in the morning, especially when the window washer is spraying with Windex. Minty fresh breath helps keep us face-to-face. I also use toothpaste with pucker power for those all important closeups.

I'm an escapee from a smoking clinic because coughing is the only exercise I get. That's why Vic Tanny gave me a one-year body building course for the price of two.

As you can plainly see, I hate commercials.

BREVITIES FROM THE MAIL

Announcements for Brevities should be submitted by noon Monday for publication in the Thursday paper and by noon Thursday for publication in the Monday paper. Bring in or mail to the Observer at 461 S. Main, Plymouth 48170. Forms are available upon request.

For Mother in the Merry Month of May

Mother's Day is one day of the year when a "flourish of trumpets" might be in order to salute the wonderwoman who does so much each and every day. Dad or an older child might be the instigator of a grand celebration or—Mother could decide to give herself the best party of the year—a sumptuous brunch, looking pretty as a picture but well planned so that instead of being a tedious, time-consuming chore it will be light, bright and festive. The menu should be utterly delicious but either made ahead of time or so uncomplicated that it takes only a short time to assemble.

Starting off: Brunch Cocktail—a tingly refresher made of Florida grapefruit juice with grenadine, a squish of bitters and bubbly ginger ale.

For the main attraction: a chicken and potato casserole that can be assembled before hand and popped in the oven at the proper moment. Stunning to look at, Brunch Bouquet Casserole contrasts crisp-tender green zucchini and rougy-red carrots against a background of golden Idaho au gratin potatoes, with their full, robust, guaranteed-to-please flavor. A baked egg sits prettily on top of the mixture. The dish is as nourishing as it is delicious.

Or, if mother loves hash, Sunrise Hash is dressed up in its Sunday best and given an extra taste bonus of hash brown potatoes, redolent of green pepper and onion. This, too, looks extra special served in a ramekin with a poached egg on top.

Both potato dishes take shortcuts — using convenient, packaged, dehydrated potatoes from Idaho. There's no peeling or slicing, but you get all the quality and flavor of world famous Gem State potatoes. Look for the "Grown In Idaho" seal on the package for your assurance.

To complete the "perfect brunch for the perfect Mom" serve Orange Bonne Belle, a delightful no-bake dessert with a tender-crunchy graham cracker crust and a gossamer light filling of cream cheese and Florida frozen concentrated orange juice, undiluted, which gives the intense, piquant citrus flavor, made buoyant with whipped cream. Top it with orange sections, some fresh mint and candied violets for an extravagantly triumphant air.

Brunch Cocktail

3 cups Florida grapefruit juice
1 cup gingerale
1 tablespoon grenadine
4 drops bitters
Ice cubes

In a 1-1/2-quart pitcher combine all ingredients; stir. Serve in tall glasses. YIELD: 4 servings.

Brunch Bouquet Casserole

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup thinly sliced onion (1 large)
1 cup thinly sliced carrots
1 cup cooked, shredded chicken
1 cup thinly sliced zucchini
1 package (5.5 ounces) Idaho® au gratin potatoes
2 cups chicken broth
2/3 cup milk
1 teaspoon dried leaf basil, crumbled
4 eggs
1 cup Cheddar cheese, optional

In large skillet melt butter; sauté onion and carrots until crisp-tender. Add chicken, zucchini, potatoes and contents of sauce packet, chicken broth, milk and basil; mix well. Spoon into 4 individual casseroles or ramekins. Bake 25 minutes, uncovered, in a 400°F. oven. Make a depression in the center of each ramekin; break an egg into each depression. If desired, sprinkle casserole with cheese. Return casseroles to the oven. Bake 10 minutes longer or until eggs are set or bake casseroles 30 to 35 minutes and serve with poached eggs. YIELD: 4 servings.

Orange Bonne Belle

2 packages (one 8-ounce plus one 3-ounce) cream cheese, at room temperature
1/3 cup sugar
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 can (6 ounces) Florida frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, undiluted
2 teaspoons vanilla
1-1/2 cups heavy cream, whipped
1 Florida orange, peeled and sectioned
Mint leaves
Candied violets (optional)

In large bowl of electric mixer combine cream cheese, sugar and salt; beat until smooth. Blend in concentrated orange juice and vanilla. Gently fold in whipped cream. Spoon into Graham Cracker Crust*. Refrigerate overnight. Garnish with orange sections, mint and candied violets. YIELD: 10 to 12 servings.

 Graham Cracker Crust

1-1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/4 cup sugar
1/3 cup melted butter

In small bowl combine all ingredients; mix well. Press into the bottom of a 9-inch springform pan. Bake in a 375°F. oven 8 minutes. Cool.

Sunrise Hash

1 box (6 ounces) Idaho® hash brown potatoes
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 jar (2.5 ounces) sliced dried beef, chopped
1/4 teaspoon ground pepper
4 eggs, poached

Rehydrate potatoes according to package directions. In a large skillet, melt butter over medium heat. Add potato and cook 5 minutes. Add onion, green pepper, dried beef, and ground pepper; stir until well mixed and thoroughly heated, 5 to 7 minutes. Serve with poached eggs. YIELD: 4 servings.

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

Some favorite asparagus recipes

Even without my usual two or three checks weekly, the asparagus arrived.

The quality doesn't seem as good to me this year as in past years. After purchasing from several sources (a move motivated by the thought that our regular grocer's supply might not be an indicator of the whole season's crop), we concluded that we had enjoyed only one bunch of asparagus this season with really excellent flavor. The rest were just so-so. I wouldn't push the others off the plate, as the saying goes, but they were definitely mediocre.

GENERALLY, I prefer asparagus plain with a little butter and a few drops of lemon juice, but this seemed the year to try other ways with this highly prized vegetable.

To prepare asparagus, first remove the tough ends. Use a small sharp knife to peel the stalk to a point just below the tips. Cook in a double boiler or deep kettle. Stand the stalks in about 2 inches of boiling salted water. Cover with the upper portion of the double boiler or the kettle lid and cook until just tender. The lower portion boils, the upper portion steams.

Drain and serve with melted butter, Hollandaise or other sauces. Buy two pounds for four servings.

ASPARAGUS WITH FRESH TOMATO SAUCE

½ cup mayonnaise
1¼ tsp. lemon juice
¼ tsp. salt
Pinch of white pepper
⅓ cup diced, peeled fresh tomato

Combine first four ingredients in the top of a double boiler. Stir over hot, not boiling, water until heated throughly. Stir in tomato and serve over freshly cooked asparagus.

ASPARAGUS SALAD

1 hard-cooked egg
1½ tbsp. olive oil
1 tbsp. vinegar
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. freshly ground black pepper
1 tbsp. finely grated onion
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 tbsp. heavy cream, whipped
16 spears asparagus, cooked, drained and chilled

Rub the yolk of the egg through a sieve. Chop the egg white. Gradually beat the oil, vinegar, salt, pepper, onion, parsley and egg white into the yolk. Fold into the cream and spoon over the asparagus.

SPANISH ASPARAGUS

2 pounds asparagus
1 small onion, minced
¼ cup butter
1 small bay leaf
Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste
3 tbsp. flour
2 cups chicken stock
Pinch of nutmeg
2 egg yolks
1 tbsp. lemon juice

Cook the asparagus until tender. Drain. In a saucepan, heat three tablespoons of the butter, add the onion, bay leaf, salt and pepper and saute until the onion is tender but not brown, stirring often. Stir in the flour, gradually add the stock and cook, stirring, until thickened. Add the nutmeg. Simmer five minutes and strain.

Beat the egg yolks until very light and add the lemon juice. Combine with a little of the hot sauce and add the egg mixture to the remaining sauce gradually, while stirring. Cook the mixture over boiling water in a double boiler or over very low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add the remaining butter.

To serve, place the asparagus on toast and pour the sauce over the top.

BAKED ASPARAGUS WITH CHEESE
Serves six

36 asparagus spears, cooked
Butter
Lemon juice
1 pound sliced Gruyere, Swiss or Fontina cheese
Grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to hot — 400-degrees. In a buttered baking dish, arrange a layer of asparagus, dot it with butter and sprinkle with lemon juice. Cover the asparagus with slices of cheese and sprinkle with a little of the grated Parmesan cheese. Alternate layers of asparagus and cheese, ending with a layer of sliced cheese sprinkled with Parmesan. Sprinkle with melted butter.

Bake until the cheese is melted and bubbling, 8 to 10 minutes. Serve hot.

State's asparagus crop ranks 3rd in country

Ah, the lovely tender green asparagus!

Asparagus is one of the good things growing in Michigan, and our farmers harvested 22 million pounds in 1980 from 17,300 acres. The crop, valued at $11 million, was third largest in the nation, the Michigan Department of Agriculture reports.

A member of the lily family, asparagus is a "kissing cousin" of the feathery asparagus fern, the robust garlic and the graceful gladioli. Asparagus has been cultivated for more than 2,000 years.

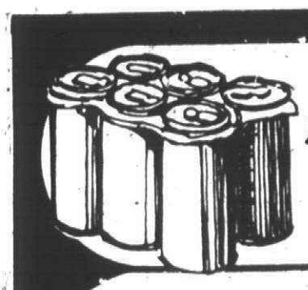

When choosing asparagus, look for fresh straight stalks with compact tips. Store your treasure in the coldest part of the refrigerator, and use as soon as possible. Rinse thoroughly to remove any clinging sand. Then cook briefly to preserve the valuable Vitamin C and other vitamins and minerals contained in asparagus.

Asparagus should be cooked crisp-tender, and never overcooked, or the bright green begins to fade.

Cookbooks say one pound will feed two or three people, but for asparagus lovers, it barely suffices for two. It can be served simply, with butter and milk. The milk holds the heat while you're getting the asparagus from stove to table.

Hot cooked asparagus spears are also delicious wrapped inside a plain or cheese omelet for breakfast or brunch. You may wish to create an asparagus and meat casserole or combine with cooked spaghetti, cheese and canned soups for an oven dish. Whatever your choice, the season is at hand.

BONE OR ivory handles clean nicely when you apply a paste of whiting and lemon juice and let dry. Then rinse and polish. Get a handle on some quick cash with an Observer & Eccentric Classified Ad.

This main dish spinach custard makes a light and lovely summer luncheon dish. Serve it with a tall glass of amber-clear iced tea.

Recipes for a summer luncheon

When is a quiche not a quiche?

Answer: When the custard-like creation is baked without a crust. In today's recipe two kinds of cheese and a package of chopped spinach are combined with beaten eggs to produce a green-flecked, creamy custard. After baking for about 40 minutes, let it stand for 10 minutes before cutting it into squares.

Serve it with a tossed green salad or a kabob of fresh summer fruits. They make a lovely light lunch on a hot summer day.

Another welcome refresher when the weather is hot or humid is that perennial favorite, iced tea. Its clean, fresh taste goes well with all kinds of foods and, happily, because it is so low on the calorie scale it won't add unwanted pounds no matter how many glasses you consume.

Directions for making perfect amber-clear iced tea with teabags, loose tea, instant tea powder or the flavored and sweetened ice-tea mixes follow:

WITH TEABAGS or loose tea and boiling water: Bring 1 quart of freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat and immediately add 15 teabags or ⅓ measuring cup of loose tea. Stir, cover and let stand 5 minutes. Stir again and strain into a pitcher holding another quart of cold water. Serve over ice. Makes 2 quarts.

WITH INSTANT POWDER or iced-tea mix: Use 2 rounded tablespoons of instant tea powder to each quart of cold tap water. Stir. If using lemon-flavored iced tea, use two small envelopes or ½ cup of mix to each quart of cold water.

MAIN DISH SPINACH CUSTARD

(Makes 6 to 8 servings)

1 cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup milk
6 eggs
1 cup cottage cheese
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
¼ tsp. dry mustard
¾ tsp. sage
1 (10-oz.) package frozen chopped spinach, thawed
8 green onions with tops, thinly sliced
1 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese

Combine breadcrumbs and milk. Cover and refrigerate 4 hours or overnight.

In large bowl, beat eggs. Then beat in cottage cheese, seasonings and bread crumb-milk mixture. Drain spinach in a sieve and press to remove all liquid. Add spinach, onions and cheddar cheese to egg mixture. Mix well. Spread evenly in well buttered 7 x 11-inch casserole. Bake in preheated 325-degree oven until set in center, about 40 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before cutting into squares.

Traditional mint julep

Kentucky's famed mint julep may be one of the highlights of Derby Day parties, but its popularity remains throughout the warm summer months. Mint juleps are not confined to the first Saturday in May.

Garden mint is clipped closely to the ground in early spring to produce a leafier plant. With fresh mint and lots of crushed ice, julep making is easy.

Just make a sugar syrup of one cup sugar to one cup water. Bring to a boil, remove from heat and steep mint leaves in the syrup until the flavor is imparted. Fill the julep cup with crushed ice, pour a jigger of Kentucky bourbon and a jigger of syrup into each cup. Garnish with a sprig of fresh mint.

Honey harmful?

Honey may be harmful to infants. A warning issued by the Sioux Honey Association suggested a possbile connection between infant botulism and feeding any raw agriculture product, including honey, to children under one year of age. WHILE LOCAL actress Linda Dwyer is starring in "Tuscaloosa's Calling Me but I'm not Going," at the Renaissance Theater in Detroit, her husband, Randy Giannetti, is out at the Birmingham Theater.

Randy is understudy to the five male leads in "Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?" The comedy was scheduled to run six weeks in Birmingham. It has been extended four more weeks, and seats for the extension already are sold out. There has been some discussion about holding it over until Labor Day.

It has played in just Chicago and Birmingham. Both New york and Boston are bidding for the show. They will go to one or the other after Birmingham.

As understudy, Randy has been called on nine times to replace regular actors. The whole cast was down at Tiger Stadium Monday evening to sing the National Anthem before the Tiger game. They wore yellow blazers with the name of their show on the backs.

MARGARET FISHER of Plymouth is one of 30 women students at the University of Michigan to be named a CEW (Continuing Education of Women) scholar. Awards of $500 to $?,000 were presented at a program and reception April 21 in the Horace H. Rackham School of Graduate Studies.

Margaret is better known as Peggy Fisher in the community. She was one of the organizers of the Bicentennial Year activities here. In fact, she says it was working on a film for the Bicentennial that first arroused her interest in her present studies. She is enrolled in a master's program in telecommunication arts at the U-M.

She hopes to complete her degree in December. She will do her internship with Omnicom Cable Television here. Peggy and her husband, Bill, have three sons, Dan, 17; Andy, 14; and Mark, 11. Going to school and family responsibilities have curtailed her participation in the American Association of University Women.

"I'm still a member, but all I've done this year is usher for the play," said Peggy.

BEACON HILL neighbors and friends have formed a pinochle club, and Stephanie and William La Gosh hosted the first get-together.

There were three tables in play. Stephanie produced some old-fashioned tallies that paired historic lovers as partners — Romeo and Juliet, Nicolette and Aucassion, and so on. It was decided that the host and hostess would, in the future, always have the Romeo and Juliet cards.

Pinochle history was made at the first session when Esther Hulsing was dealt double pinochle twice.

Stephanie said she recognized all the famous pairs on her tally cards except Nicolette and Aucassion. She did some research on that one.

JUDGING a Cub Scout father-son cake baking contest is no easy chore. Just ask Plymouth Mayor Mary Childs, City Commissioner Bud Martin and Phyllis Redfern and they'll agree with me. We were asked to judge Cub Scout Pack 293's cakes in the gymnasium of Bird Elementary School Wednesday evening. The judges were not asked to taste the cakes or we would have been there all night trying to reach decisions. (The cakes were auctioned off after the ribbons were awarded, so they had to be in their original state.)

Winners and their categories were: Most colorful, Matt Lore for a big sail boat frosted and decorated with multi-colored gumdrops and coconut; Todd Glance, best decorated; Damon Smith, unique; Tom Baumley, most humorous (a turtle); Matt Hall, best derby racer; David Nannery, Cub Scout cap; Jerry Vaughn, patriotic; John Winter, tasty; Mike Augustyn, luscious; and Steve Laurette, best in the Cub Scout theme division.

The auction must have added a tidy amount to the pack coffers with cakes going from $5 to $10.50.

Seedlings today—cardinals tomorrow

If they all grow, 900 autumn olive shrubs will be a haven for cardinals in about three years.

The Plymouth branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association celebrated Arbor Day with a work party at Evelyn Erdelyi's home. Fifteen members of the garden club prepared 900 autumn olive seedlings for presentations.

Each seedling was placed in a plastic bag with peat moss and water. Directions for proper planting and care were attached to each bag.

During the next few days, club members visited elementary schools to give the seedlings to students.

Joann Herald, club treasurer, visited second- and third-graders at Allen Elementary School. She told them the little seedlings would grow into shrubs that would measure 12 feet in height and about 12 feet in diameter. The shrubs were wild life sanctuaries, she said, and in three years, they would produce red berries.

These berries, she said, are a great favorite of cardinals, who flocked to the shrubs to eat them.

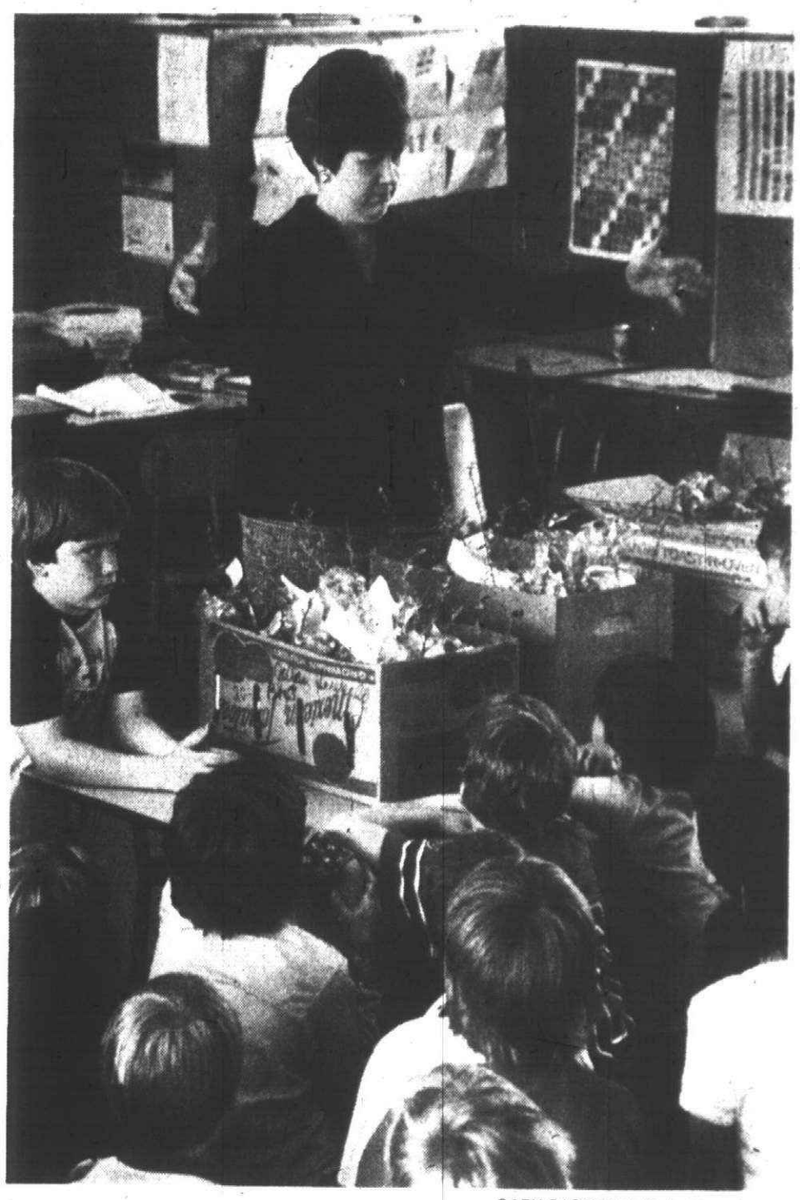

This is the first time the club has given away autumn olive seedlings. In previous years, they gave pine seedlings.

The decision to switch was made because they thought children would be more interested in a fast-growing shrub. The pines developed very slowly.

In the fall of 1984, the children should see the first red berries form on their bushes. And hopefully, many bright red birds will be feasting in the berries.

Jeff Maxwell (left), Jason Cash and Glen Flanigan listened intently to directions on how to take care of their seedlings.

Joann Herald told the students how rapidly their autumn olive seedlings would grow, with a little tender loving care.

Lay missionary considers tradition

By Anne Harter Jones
special writer

Kansas-born George Gish, a Methodist lay missionary who sings and plays an ancient form of Japanese traditional music on the biwa — a lute — is house-sitting in Plymouth.

After serving in Japan intermittently since 1958, Gish is on furlough with his wife, Yoko, and daughters Mari Lynn, 18, Julie Ann, 13, and Linda Kei, 10. Since 1973, he has served as director of audio-visual media and the arts at the Kyodan Information Center in the headquarters of the United Church of Christ in Tokyo. He is also a journalist.

Yoko Gish explained the family's choice of Plymouth for their year's residence in the United States. "Our oldest daughter is a freshman at the University of Michigan, in physical therapy, and George has a brother who lives in Birmingham."

Gish added that 15 Methodist churches in the area support his mission directly, beyond the general support given by all United Methodist churches.

GISH'S VOCATION while in this country is to help interpret the role of his church's world mission.

His avocation, since 1969 in Japan, has been to study the Satsuma-Biwa and the Heike-Biwa and encourage the preservation of these ancient narrative-lute traditions in Japan.

Gish's interest in missionary work began when he was active with Methodist Youth Fellowship in high school. While he was an undergraduate music student in college, he participated in a work camp program in Austria, working with Eastern European refugees. After graduation from Kansas State College with a bachelor's degree in liberal arts, he applied for a three-year church-related work program overseas. He was assigned to Japan as an English teacher. It was his fifth choice, after Korea, Pakistan, Chile and Panama, but it became his life.

"The United Church in Japan was formed by the government in 1941," Gish said. "It was formed of all the Protestant denominations. At that time all the religions in Japan were unified, and Shinto was made the state religion. To this day the United Church encompasses most of the denominations. Some, like the Anglicans, Lutherans and Baptists that have strong world communions have since separated, but most are still included.

"WHEN WE ARE in Japan we are united," Gish said, "But when we come back here we are still responsible to our own denomination. The denominations have formed a cooperative for work in Japan called the Japan North American Commission. Today around the world, a mission is in the church of that country, but it is hard for North Americans to think that way.

"The Methodist Church in Japan became autonomous in 1907 with the election of its first bishop," Gish continued. "The Japanese still think of a missionary as someone who comes to teach them something. They request people to come to keep the institutions strong.

"It has been a receiving church, but becoming a church in mission is a new concept for them. It is exciting to see Japanese church leaders becoming missionary minded to the extent that Japanese missionaries are going overseas. Japanese Christians are in a position to form a bridge between the third world and the West. This is because they have been on both sides."

GISH CITES two main reasons why missionaries are needed in Japan.

First, the church in Japan is small — less than 1 percent of the population is Christian. Outside influence strengthens Japanese Christians. Second, between 1941 and 1945 the church became closely identified with national goals. After the war, church leaders became sensitive to the need for outside influence.

"They would even like to bring in missionaries from Asia and Africa. The church should be the symbol of the international family," he said.

Gish is concerned about a trend in Japan which he also sees throughout the world, a tendency to go back to what he called narrow, traditional ways. The increasing importance of the emperor and of Shinto is not entirely unlike our problem of the separation of church and state.

"The Ministry of Education has reinstated the teaching of myths, such as that of the Sun God, in the schools. This is parallel to the pressure to teach Biblical creationism in the public schools."

GISH IS not opposed to tradition, as evidenced by his work to preserve the ancient narrative-lute traditions, but he said, "If tradition is treated narrowly, we're in trouble."

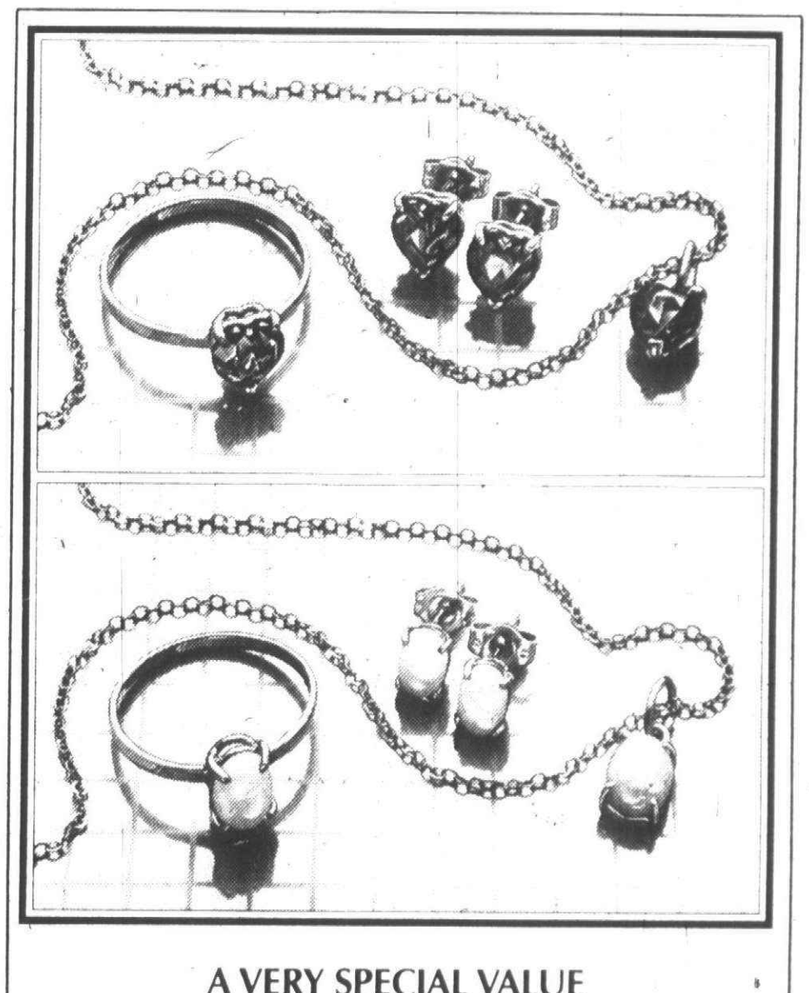

He said it is the very old and the idealistic youth who are promoting this narrow form of nationalistic traditionalism.

In Japan, he is able to see problems from a different perspective. "In church in Japan," he said, "is sensitive to issues in ways that can help us. Where Christians are a minority, it is easier to see our (the Christian's) role."

Gish said he is not sure America really is Christian, but "the world looks on and identifies America with Christianity."

THE MUSIC in Japanese churches has been like that of Protestant churches in the Western world — based on the hymn.

Gish would like to see contemporary Japanese church musicians incorporate elements of their own traditional music. This may prove difficult, since the Japanese public has been exposed to Western music for a century.

Gish said that 100 years ago the National School of Music adopted the Boston Public School music curriculum for all school children in the country, from elementary through college.

Traditional music is taught privately and has become too expensive for most people. Such instruments as the famous Japanese zither or Koto have become instruments of the elite because of the high cost of these handmade items.

Gish owns an old Biwa, or lute, of the Satsuma tradition. He left it in Japan because of the perils of air baggage transportation.

The instrument is pear-shaped with two C-shaped holes in its flat top, made of hardwood and has four strings. It is plucked with a large hardwood plectrum which is also used to hit the top of the instrument for percussive effects.

IN 1973-74 Gish was in Ann Arbor completing his master of arts degreee with a thesis on the history of the Biwa. U-M has one of the foremost ethnomusicology departments in the world and one of the world's experts on Japanese music, Gish said.

"The Biwa goes back to Homer," he said. "That kind of blind Buddhist priest tradition used the Biwa as accompaniment to Buddhist sutras going back 2,000 years or more of oral tradition.

"One style of epic ballad dating from the end of the 12th century was the Tale of Heike. The purpose of chanting it was to interpret history from a Buddhist viewpoint — that all fighting and strife is vanity and must be overcome."

The last singer of this ballad is in his 80s, Gish said. He has taught parts of it to a few students and recorded some of it, but when he dies, much will be lost. That particular type of Biwa is no longer made, and few old ones remain.

THE FORM of Biwa which Gish has been mastering is not quite so old, but it is also an endangered species. He started studying the instrument and its singing tradition in 1969. At that time he was the only student, and no instruments were being made.

He has since inspired more students to take it up by organizing a group which still meets regularly, and he has encouraged instrument makers.

Mrs. Gish said her husband is very accomplished both as a player and a singer.

Record 554 graduates

Madonna moves commencement

With a record count of 554 graduates, Madonna College of Livonia will move its commencement this year to Temple Beth El, 7440 Telegraph, Birmingham.

The 34th annual graduation ceremony will take place at 8 p.m. May 10.

Ample seating for graduates and guests and air conditioning in the temple make the location attractive, a college spokeman said. It is the first time since Madonna was founded in 1947 that commencement has been held off campus.

The Rev. John M. Quinn, assistant professor in Madonna's religious studies program, will be commencement speaker, discussing the role of Catholic higher education in the United States.

Mother Mary Clarentine Dzienis, superior of the Midwest Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary Province of the Felician Sisters, will receive an honorary doctorate in humanities.

Her award is in conjunction with the 125th anniversary of the founding of the order that founded Madonna.

AMONG THE 554 gowned graduates will be 29 candidates earning the first degrees in social work to be given by the Livonia college. Also to be awarded will be 311 bachelor of science degrees, 111 bachelor of science nursing degrees, 46 bachelor of arts degrees and 57 associate degrees.

A traditional baccalaureate mass will precede the commencements exercises. It will be held at 1 p.m. in the Presentation chapel of the Felician Sisters Motherhouse, adjacent to the Madonna campus on Schoolcraft.

Father Quinn, the speaker, is associate pastor for St. Peter Catholic Church in Harper Woods and holds graduate degrees from the University of Detroit. He also is a candidate for a doctorate at Catholic University of Detroit.

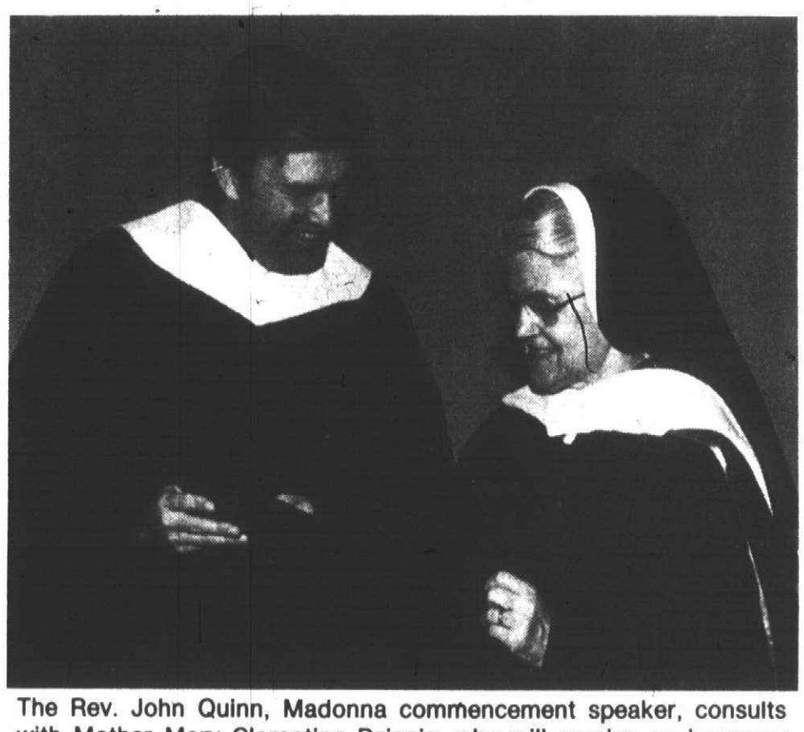

A native of Detroit, he joined the Madonna faculty in 1969.

MOTHER CLARENTINE, a veteran educator with more than 18 years' experience in parochial schools throughout Michigan and Ohio, is a Madonna alumna and vice-chairperson of its board of trustees.

She has served two asignments in Rome, assisting a judge of the Sacred Roman Rota.

In 1977 she assumed the post of provincial Mother Superior for the 481-member Felician province. She holds a master's degree in education from the University of Notre Dame and has completed post-graduate work at Wayne State University.

Madonna, offering more than 45 career-oriented study programs, has a current enrollment of 3,200.

The Rev. John Quinn, Madonna commencement speaker, consults with Mother Mary Clarentine Dzienis, who will receive an honorary degree.

Save with windows?

Homeowners planning to add storm windows or shutters can figure their energy savings by following the guidelines of a publiocation from the Michigan Department of Commerce/Energy Administration.

The free leaflet, "Calculating Energy Savings from Window Modification," explains how heat losses from windows are measured and outlines how to calculate the energy that can be saved by adding new windows.

Spring festival is planned for women

A chance for women to gather and exchange information about their personal and working lives will be offered May 16 on the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus during a day-long Women's Spring Festival.

"Our aim is to bring together community and campus women so they can share information with each other about a variety of areas," said Margaret Flannery, campus counselor and a festival organizer.

Sponsored by the UM-D Commission for Women and the Women's Center, the festival will include workshops on money management, coping with stress, surviving rape, choosing child-care centers and decorating on a budget. Organizers hope to make the Women's Spring Festival an annual event.

ESTHER SHAPIRO, director of consumer affairs for the City of Detroit, will deliver the keynote address at 9 a.m. Her topic will be "Be Your Own Protector."

Registration and coffee begins at 8:30 a.m. in the University Mall. The day will include four workshops, lunch and a fashion show. Cost is $5, which includes lunch.

"We're non-profit," Flannery says. "We hope to break even on the festival."

In addition to workshops, information booths from 20 community organizations will be open for participants. The American Association of University Women (AAUW), Take Off Pounds Sensibly (TOPS), the Dearborn Orchestral Society, the Detroit College of Busines and the Henry Ford Community College Focus on Women Program will be among the groups represented.

EIGHT TOPICS will be offered during each of the workshop times.

Among the workshop leaders are Isabel Smith, member of the Certified Financial Planners Institute; Sylvia Kozorosky, deputy director for the Department on Aging in Westland; Susan Gillespie of the Dearborn Press and Guide; Lavinia Moyer, artistic director from Detroit's Attic Theatre.

How to submit news items to newspaper

News of clubs, service organizations, engagements, weddings and wedding anniversaries are printed without cost in the Suburban Life Section of the Plymouth Observer and Canton Observer newspapers.

News items may be dropped off or mailed to the office at 461 S. Main St., Plymouth 48170. Special forms are available for club news, engagements, weddings and 50th wedding anniversary announcements.

Black and white pictures are preferred as they reproduce more clearly than color photos. A self-addressed, stamped envelope assures return of the pictures, or, they can be picked up at the office a week after they have been published. Mail should be addressed to the attention of Elinor Graham, Suburban Life editor.

Activities of more major scope than regular club meetings may warrant more extensive coverage and a photograph. Call the newspaper, 459-2700, well in advance of the event to permit scheduling a photograph.

Breaking news stories (and we appreciate telephone calls on these these) like fires, accidents, etc., receive on-the-spot coverage.

Other events, planned for in advance, should be announced a week or so before the actual date.

Roadside market guide available

The 1981 edition of Michigan Country Carousel, a guide to pick-your-own farms and roadside markets throughout the state, published by the Michigan Department of Agriculture, is now available.

Country Carousel lists more than 1,000 farms and markets in alphabetical order by county, according to Dean M. Pridgeon, MDA director. It gives name, address, directions for driving to the farm and a list of produce available.

"If you've never experienced the joy of seeing how fruits and vegetables are grown and harvested, this booklet is for you. Even if you've been picking your own for years, it's a valuable guide," said Pridgeon.

"Phone numbers also are listed, and it's wise call ahead. Sometimes ripe produce has been harvested, and it may be a few days before more of the crop has matured and is ready to pick."

THE BOOKLET'S four-color cover features some of the state's commercial food crops and carries the department's promotion theme, "Good things growing in Michigan."

Copies of Country Carousel are available without cost from MDA's Communications Office, PO Box 30017, Lansing 48909. Or telephone (517)373-1104. It is also available at highway information centers, AAA branch offiees and from Michigan Travel Bureau.

Salem stuns Observerland field

By Doug Funke
staff writer

All of the pieces fell together for Plymouth Salem Saturday during the 11th running of the Observerland Relays.

The Rocks put on a spectacular performance — placing first in eight of the 16 events — to compile 64 points en route to their first championship ever at Observerland.

Farmington High placed second in the team standings with 44 points and was followed by Livonia Churchill, third, 40; Detroit Catholic Central, fourth, 36; and Redford Bishop Borgess, fifth, 32.

Fifteen teams participated.

SALEM COACH Gary Balconi talked quietly but with pride while his trackmen were whooping it up in celebration.

"We were fortunate because we won all the races we figured we would win," Balconi said. "The handoffs were all there, the kids were healthy, we worked hard and today we arrived."

Salem arrived in a big way.

The Rocks broke their own meet record in discus with an aggregate distance of 438-10. Bob Pittaway led Salem in that event by breaking the individual record with a best throw of 160-9.

Salem also bested the field in pole vault with an aggregate height of 36 feet.

Scott Bublin, a junior, spearheaded Salem by winning first-place medals in three running events.

Bublin teamed with Brian Lewnadowski, Leigh Langkabel and Pittaway to win the 880 relay (1:33.8) and with Scott Smith, Tom Kelliher and Jim Spooner in the 440 relay (45.7).

Bublin also surprised many people by winning the open 100-yard dash (10.5).

Salem bested the field in three other events.

Steve Schafer, Mike McBride, Langkabel and Pittaway clocked 3:31.9 in the mile relay. Langkabel, Lewandowski, Smith and Pittaway posted a time of 2:31.4. in the sprint medley relay. Leland Chang, Chris Kopach, Geoff Baker and McBride had an effort of 8:28.11 in the two mile relay

The Observerland title is the first championship the Rocks have won in a relays meet since Balconi began coaching in 1975.

"It's always an honor in this meet to beat teams like Churchill, Stevenson and Catholic Central," Balconi said. "This is the strongest team overall we've ever had."

TWO OTHER individual records were broken during the meet.

Craig Kielty, from Farmington, cleared 6-8 in high jump and Paul Bialowicz leaped 21-11¾ in long jump.

Farmington rolled up most of its points in the field events.

The Falcons set a team record with an aggregate height of 18-6 in high jump. Jeff Beard and John Clappison teamed with Kielty.

Farmington placed second in discus, long jump, high jump and in the 440 relay.

Livonia Franklin was the only other team to finish first in more than one relay.

The Patriots won the four-mile relay in 18:46.6 with Mike Gerardi, Paul Coburn, Jeff Bristow and Mike White and the distance medley relay in 11:10.22 with Randy Rusceak, Chris Zimmer, Gerardi and Coburn.

Salem suffers league loss

Pitcher flushes out Churchill

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Plymouth Canton used an energized battery to defeat Livonia Churchill in a Western Six League baseball game Friday afternoon 7-2.

Pitcher Danny Smith tossed a four-hitter, and catcher Billy Hanis went three-for-three as Canton increased its overall record to 9-1. The Chiefs are 2-0 in league play.

Smith, a junior, helped his own cause by picking off four Charger runners, three coming at third base to end rallies. He raised his personal record to 5-0 with the win.

Hanis, the other half of the battery, also got into the act as he gunned down a Churchill runner trying to advance to second base after an overthrow in the fourth inning.

The Chiefs scored single runs in each of the first three innings with only one hit. Churchill starting pitcher Bill Gavin was wild as he walked eight Canton batters during his five-inning stint.

"This is not the kind of hitting attack we've had, but we got the clutch hits," said Canton coach Fred Crissey.

"Hanis really had a day, and we played well defensively. We played with some enthusiasm and aggressiveness."

Canton collected seven hits, but took advantage of numerous Churchill miscues.

"We just didn't have our heads together," said Churchill's Herb Osterland, who was coaching third base.

"We felt we had some offensive opportunties if it wasn't for our base running.

"He (Smith) has a great move for any kid. You just don't see a move like that any time."

"WE WORK on it all the time," said Crissey. "We spend a tremendous amount of time working with our pitchers on pick-offs."

A two-run single by Hanis gave Canton a 5-1 advantage in the fourth. Churchill never threatened thereafter.

"We haven't played for two weeks," said Osterland. "We had some kids go to Florida. We can come back.

"We're not a bunch of floundering idiots like we looked today."

BELLEVILLE 2
SALEM 1

Suburban Eight League leader Belleville edged Plymouth Salem Friday 2-1 as lefty Larry Petrowski hurled a four-hitter.

Salem took a 1-0 lead in the third inning when Jeff Hubert singled, stole second and came home on an infield error.

Belleville got a run back in the bottom of the fourth and scored the winning run in the fifth off losing pitcher Billy Culver. Jim Jimmerson took over for Culver in the fifth and finished the game without giving up any more runs.

The loss dropped Salem to 3-3 in the league and 7-8 overall.

Canton girls romp; Belleville rips Rocks

Plymouth Canton scored five runs in the first inning Friday as the Chiefs girls softball team scalped Livonia Churchill 21-3.

The two teams clashed in a Western Six League game.

The Chiefs added one run in the third inning, two in the fourth, 11 in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Diane Ost, Marie Kraskovetz and Joni Sommerville all cracked three hits for Canton. Marianne Pink and Vicki Steen each clubbed two. The Chiefs totalled 17 hits.

Pink and Cindy Sovine shared the pitching chores for Canton. Pink hurled the first four and gained the victory. Pink was reached for two hits, Sovine one.

The Chiefs sit atop the conference standings with a 3-0 record.

BELLEVILLE 16
SALEM 1

It was a long day for Plymouth Salem pitcher Cheryl Sobkow and her teammates Friday against Belleville.

The Tigers destroyed Salem, 16-1.

Actually, the Rocks self-destructed. Sobkow walked 17 batters. Belleville had only six hits, but Salem could not overcome the walks and three errors in the field.

The Rocks also had their problems getting the timely hit. They loaded the bases during four different innings and managed to produce only one run.

Mary Pryslak accounted for half of Salem's hits. She singled twice.

The Rocks, 3-2 in the league and 4-4 overall, will host Redford Thurston 4 p.m. today.

Earlier, Salem divided a non-league double-header with Romulus.

The Rocks lost the first game 12-5 but won the second 7-2.

Walks hurt Salem again in the opener. Leslie Etienne issued 12 passes during her sevening-inning stint on the mound. She walked seven during the fourth inning alone.

Jeanine Papa had a good day at the plate for the Rocks. She went two-for-four in the first game and three-for-four in game two.

Kelly Stroutz contributed a pair of hits to the winning cause in the second game and Lori Jorski, the winning pitcher, clouted a triple.

Golfers shine at Best Ball event

The Plymouth Salem girls' golf team finished second Friday in the 14-team Brighton Invitational Best Ball Tournament at Burroughs Farms.

The Rocks were defeated in a special playoff by Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy on the third extra hole. The teams were tied after 18 holes of regulation play at 79.

Lisa Marino, Carol Ross, Nancy Stevens and Beth Miller represented the Rocks.

"We beat them in medal play," said Salem coach Jim Stevens. "I'm pleased with the way the girls played."

Birmingham Marian finished third, and Plymouth Canton was 12th.

SALEM 205
CANTON 249

Ann Buie called it "Our worst ever."

The Plymouth Canton girls' golf coach had no explanation for her team's 205-249 loss Wednesday to rival Plymouth Salem Wednesday afternoon at Salem Hills.

Marino, a sophomore, took medalist honors with a nine-hole total of 46. She was followed by Ross (48), Stevens (54) and Miller (57).

Janis McGlone, a senior, paced Canton with a 53 on the par-38 nine. Debbie Dickinson had a 67.

"It was a miserable day," said Buie. "It was cold and wet. It didn't bother Marino. She always plays well."

In another dual match last week, Salem defeated Saline 194-203 Thursday at Brookside Golf Course.

Marino was medalist with a 40. Ross had a 47 and Stevens a 49. Miller and Yvette Totzke carded a 58 and 59, respectively, as Salem raised its dual record to 2-1.

On the same day, Canton edged Dearborn Edsel Ford 239-237, as McGlone showed with way with a 51. Dickinson had a 62 for Canton, now 2-1 overall.

Area marathoner surprises at Boston

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Gary Wolfram approached this year's Boston Marathon in a casual way and the result was a big improvement.

The 30-year-old long distance runner from Canton Township took his fourth crack at the famed race and finished 199th out of approximately 6,800 official entries.

"I didn't try to go out and run hard at the beginning," said Wolfram, a professor of Economics at the University of Michigan. "I found it much more comfortable this time.

"The weather was perfect and the race was faster. The last four miles felt pretty good. I could see where I was going this time even with all the hills. Usually I'm in a fog at the end."

Wolfram is a native of Fresno, Cal. and the holder of a doctorate in economics. He can be seen almost every day running off the side of Warren and Beck roads in Canton Township.

"It wasn't bad (finishing 199th) considering I wasn't running real hard," Wolfram said. "I was surprised I ran as fast as I did, especially the kind of shape I was in."

Wolfram was the fifth highest Michigan finisher. He was rated No. 263 before the race, which put him close to the start of the 26-mile, 285-yard event. He was clocked in 2:27:05, a personal best.

Prior to the April 21st race, Wolfram had to run a qualifying time which he surpassed easily.

HE HAS an extensive background in track, running the mile and two mile in high school and the three mile competitively at the University of California-Santa Barbara.

"I run mostly road races," Wolfram said. "Usually 10,000 meters and up.

"Right now I'm running 70 miles a week. Three days a week I run five miles in the morning and go back out to run around four (4 p.m.) in the afternoon."

Wolfram taught last year at Washington State University and trained with some of the world's best long distance runners.

"I worked out with the Kenyans," he said. "Henry Rono (world record holder in the steeplechase) was there. We ran in the Snake River Canyon."

Wolfram represented Footstop Club in the Boston Marathon. He belongs to the same club along with Livonia's Dennis Kurtis and the Grabowski brothers of West Bloomfield, all whom finished in the top 300 at Boston. Wolfram does his speed work with Kurtis at the Livonia Churchill High School track.

"I'm going to take some time off from teaching and train real hard this summer," said Wolfram. "I want to get up to 100 miles a week and see if I really have the talent. I'm going to devote all my time to training and see if I can get under 2:20 (two hours and 20 minutes)."

IF WOLFRAM succeeds, he can put himself near such world-class runners as Bill Rodgers. A test of his summer efforts will come in September when one of the world's biggest marathons will be held in Montreal. A month later is the New York City marathon.

Gary Wolfram bigger things ahead?

Tiger Relay track fast

Plymouth Salem finished third, and Plymouth gained sixth last week in the Tiger Track Relays at Belleville High School.

Ypsilanti Lincoln won the team title, followed by Belleville, Salem and Inkster Cherry Hill. Ten schools competed.

The Rock boys won two events.

Scott Fuller, Scott Raymer and Dave Barnhart combined for 17-feet-6-inches to win the high jump relay. Fuller paced the trio by clearing 6-0.

Salem also won the discus relay with a combined total of 374-10. That team consisted of Paul Hood (128-2), Mark Tanski and Pat Tortora.

Junior Scott Bublin was clocked in 10.1 as he grabbed second place in the individual 100 yard dash.

The Rocks' two mile relay squad of Leland Chang, Geoff Baker, Chris Kopach and Mike McBride finished second with a time of 8:33.0.

Chief thinclads roll; Bentley runners fall

Plymouth Canton captured all three relay events and went on to beat Northville in a Western Six League boys' track meet Thursday 79-53.

The victory increases Canton's overall dual meet record to 2-1.

The Chiefs, coached by Mike Spitz, first won the 440 yard relay in 46.3. That team consisted of Mark Ritchey, Ken Jayroe, Mark Kowalczyk and Scott Brookhouse.

David Simms, Brian Rogers, Jayroe and Brookhouse then teamed up to win the 880 relay in 1:37.1.

Members of the winning mile relay team included Rogers, Jayroe, Kowalczyk and Simms. They were clocked in 3:37.8.

Senior Dan Malin of Canton finished first in the high jump (6-0) and 330 low hurdles (42.2).

Other individual winners for the Chiefs included Richard Place, pole vault, 9-feet; Kowalczyk, 100 dash, 10.9; and Simms, 440 dash, 53.8.

Malin also earned second in the discus with a toss of 104-8½. He led a host of Canton second place finishers that included Rick Tarr, pole vault, 9-0; Ron Rienas, 120 hurdles, 17.2; Dan Henry, mile run, 4:47.2; Jay Malin, 440 run, 54.4; Jin Kim, 330 hurdles, 46.2; Dan Inloes, 880 run, 2:07.2; Brookhouse, 220 dash, 24.3. Senior Jack Pacente took second in the two mile with a season best of 10:13.8.

Third place finishers for Canton included Frank Asis, long jump, 18-6; Bill Reed, pole vault, 8-6; Joe Garcia, discus, 99-7; Rienas, high jump, 5-8; Anton Ivezaj, shot put, 39-2; Butch Steele, 120 hurdles, 17.5, and 330 hurdles, 46.25; Ritchey, 100 dash, 11.2; Steve West, mile, 4:51.1; Scott Hand, 880 run, 2:07.3; Simms, 220 dash, 24.35.

Brian Jones set a Canton freshman record in the two mile with a time of 10:38.0, good enough for third place.

SALEM 90
LIVONIA BENTLEY 42

Plymouth Salem raised its overall boys' track mark to 3-1 with a convincing 90-42 triumph Thursday over Suburban Eight League foe Livonia Bentley.

Senior Bob Pittaway again led the Rocks with victories in the discus (160-6) and 100 dash (10.5). He also anchored Salem to victories in the 880 relay (1:34.7) and mile relay (3:40.1).

Bentley's Craig Allan was also a double winner. He finished first in both the mile (4:40.4) and two mile (10:17.2).

Other Salem individual firsts were recorded by Rob Hanschu, shot put, 45-4½; Scott Fuller, high jump, 6-2; Dave Skone, pole vault, 11-6; Scott Bublin, 120 hurdles, 16.3; Leigh Langkabel, 440 run, 53.5; Mike McBride, 880 run, 2:04.3.

Salem's No. 1 doubles team of Doug Baker (left) and Jack Thomas drilled their opponents from Franklin Thursday. Thomas hits a low volley for this shot.

Rock netters win; Canton blanks foes

Plymouth Salem won all seven matches in straight sets in downing non-league boys' tennis foe Livonia Franklin Thursday 7-0.

The Rocks now sport an overall dual meet record of 4-2.

"Our doubles teams are playing real well together and our singles players are starting to jell," said Salem second-year coach Tom Williams.

In singles, Scott Crespo (No. 1) of Salem downed Jason Winters 6-1, 7-5 and junior Dave Goodsir (No. 2) beat Jim Martell 6-0, 6-1.

Jeff Howell (No. 3) dominated the Patriots' Paul Aguayo 6-0, 6-0 and Maurice Stebila (No. 4) defeated Roy Freij 6-4, 6-3.

In doubles, Doug Baker and Jack Thomas (No. 1) coasted to a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Chuck Collins and John Frost. Rob Rowland and Mark Pursell won their fifth match of the season at the No. 2 spot, whipping Bob Glise and Mike Shamo. Paul Weber and Jon Wimmer (No. 3) rolled to a 6-2, 6-0 triumph over Rob Kuczajda and Jim Kostrzena.

CANTON 7
LIVONIA CHURCHILL 0

The Chiefs increased their Western Six League record to 3-0 with an easy 7-0 win over Livonia Churchill Friday afternoon.

Canton, 4-0 overall, posted straight-set wins in all seven matches.

Kreg Kinnel (No. 1 singles) downed Churchill's Dean Nascimban 6-3, 6-4 while Kevin Johnston (No. 2) blasted Paul Gothard 6-1, 6-0.

Tom Pasley, filling in for Bob Adams at No. 3 singles, had little problem with Pete Diamond 6-2, 6-3. John Hurley (No. 4) trimmed Scott Jordan 6-1, 6-3.

The same pattern held true in doubles as Canton's Grant Crago and Mark Sawyer (No. 1) beat John Galligan and Jerry Yanarino 6-3, 6-2. Ron Austen and Rubin Rabillas (No. 2) also won 6-2, 6-1 as did teammates Brian Flynn and Bob Urdangaray 6-4, 6-3.

NORTHVILLE 3

The Chiefs edged defending league champ Northville 4-3, setting up a showdown for first place Monday in the Western Six at home against Farmington Harrison.

"It was a close match but we got the first four points quickly," said Canton coach Jim Hayes.

Kinnel, Johnston and Adams all remained unbeaten with easy straight-set victories.

Crago and Sawyer (No. 1 doubles) gave Canton its fourth point with a 6-3, 6-0 victory.

Fabulous freshmen pace track victories

Freshman Dawn Johnson won three individual events and anchored a winning relay as Plymouth Salem edged Livonia Bentley in a girls' track meet Thursday 62-61.

Salem is 2-1 in Suburban Eight League dual meets while Bentley slipped to 1-3.

Johnson was victorious in the long jump (15-feet-10-inches), 100 meter dash (13.1) and 200 dash (27.2). She also was a member of the 400 relay squad along with Jeanine Gray, Beth Moskal and Kelly Bemiss. They recorded a first place time of 52.4.

Junior Ruth Sample was also a double winner. She came home first in the 1600 run in 5:44.7 and clinched the meet for the Rocks with a victory in the 3200 meter run (13:04.5).

"Ruth has been nursing an injury and wasn't even sure she could run the two mile (3200 meters)," said Salem coach Scott Kurtz. "I told her to go out easy the first mile. We needed the points from her. She not only took first but ran a respectable time."

Bentley's Lisa Burnett matched Johnson's individual output with victories in the high jump (5-0), 100 hurdles (15.9) and 200 hurdles (32.5). Teammate Chris Kickland captured first in the shot put (31-3½) and discus.

Other Salem individual winners included Carol Lindsay, 400 dash, 1:02.8, and Shelly Simons, 800 run, 2:28.5 (Salem freshman record).

Simons, also a freshman, Lindsay, Moskal and Shelly Staszel combined to win the 800 relay with a clocking of 1:54.6.

"I thought everybody did real well," said Kurtz. "I'm real happy about it."

SALEM SECOND PLACE finishers included Sue Roach, high jump, 4-10; Cindy McSurely, 100 hurdles, 16.5, and 200 hurdles, 32.9; Bemiss, 200 dash, 27.4; Linda Lybarger, 400 dash, 1:03.2, and 100 dash, 13.6.

Gaining third places for the Rocks were Bemiss, long jump, 15-3¾; Lori Grissom, 800 dash, 2:35.0; and Karen Tanski, discus, 76-9.

CANTON 104
NORTHVILLE 19

Freshmen also played a key role as Plymouth Canton routed Western Six League foe Northville 104-19.

The victory raises Canton's overall record to 3-0 and 2-0 in the league.

Canton freshman runners grabbing first spots included Patty Brennan, long jump, 14-11; Ruthann Trout, 440 yard dash, 1:05.0; and Jill Osmon, 220 dash, 28.7.

Lisa Bundarin and Michelle Perrot each won two events for the Chiefs.

Bundarin, a sophomore, gained first place in the shot put (29-4) and 110 hurdles (19.2). Perrot, a junior, took the two mile (13:26.6) and mile (6:14.0).

The Chiefs also won all three relays.

Colleen Crissey, Linda Mitchell, Katharina Seiler and Osmon teamed up to win the 440 relay in 56.1. Crissey, Osmon, Charlotte Thomas and Kathy Brophy then combined to gain first in the 880 relay (1:57.0).

The final event, the mile relay, was also won by Canton in 4:38.5. That team consisted of Lori Shufeldt, Maureen Brophy, Kathy Brophy and Seiler.

Other individual firsts recorded by Canton competitors included Kim Brown, 100 dash, 12.6; Brophy, 880 run, 2:35.0; and Lesley McDowell, high jump, 4-2.

Canton second place finishers included Brown, high jump, 4-2, and 220 dash, 28.9; Lisa Wood, long jump, 14-4¾, and 100 dash, 12.8; Shufeldt, discus, 72-3, and 440 run, 1:06.5; Patty Rising, mile, 6:22.4; Pam Chelian, 220 hurdles, 37.2; Crissey, two mile, 14:26.0; Thomas, 880, 2:40.6.

Canton athletes taking third places included Perrot, high jump, 4-0; Crissey, long jump, 14-1¾; Trisha Freiman, discus, 69-10½; Vicki Wood, shot put, 26-5; Sue Kaske, 110 hurdles, 19.5; Trout, 100, 12.9; Ida Williams, 880, 2:41.6; Seiler, 220, 29.9; Rising, two mile, 14:26.5.

Isabelle Huppert and Kris Kristofferson portray Ella Watson and James Averill in Michael Cimino's "Heaven's Gate."

Audiences unlikely to cause a jam-up at 'Heaven's Gate'

"Heaven's Gate" (R) has one thing in common with writer-director Michael Cimino's previous film, "The Deer Hunter." Both present incredibly rich and detailed portraits of some particular aspect of our culture.

In "The Deer Hunter" the portrait consisted of vivid scenes of a Russian-Orthodox wedding in a Pennsylvania steel town.

In "Heaven's Gate" the imagery is more historical than ethnic. The film begins with a surprising prologue that presents a Harvard graduation in 1870.

"Heaven's Gate" had a disastrous New York opening last November. Cimino has pared down the movie from about 3 hours and 40 minutes to about 2 hours and 20 minutes, but he couldn't make himself cut the Harvard graduation scenes. Little wonder, when you think about the time, expense and effort that went into their creation.

BUT THIS IMPRESSIVE prologue, with its (presumed) authenticity of costume and pageantry, has almost no relevance to the rest of the movie. The same is true of the epilogue.

Cimino's attention to detail, which captures the flavor of an era or a society, fails him here because it doesn't advance the story. It seems as if the director got so carried away with establishing the right mood, the right historical setting, the right look, that he forgot the purpose these elements serve.

The story is never clearly presented. The editing is terrible; the movie jumps about erratically. Character development is neglected. Relationships are obscure. Consequently, the talents of some fine actors, particularly John Hurt, who received an Academy Award nomination for "Elephant Man," are wasted.

The historical episode which provides the linchpin of "Heaven's Gate" is the Johnson County, Wyo., range wars of the 1890s.

Eastern European immigrants were pouring into the West to establish themselves as settlers and farmers. The cattlemen resented the foreigners, who were reducing the area of open range. Furthermore, many of the immigrants, starving while waiting for the government to act on their land claims, were stealing cows for food.

THE STOCK GROWERS' Association decided to take the law into its own hands. It compiled a death list of 125 persons, virtually every male immigrant in the county, and hired an army of mercenaries to do the job.

Kris Kristofferson is the Federal marshal, sympathetic to the settlers. Hurt is a member of the Stock Growers' Association. The marshal and cattleman were classmates at Harvard. Why they went to Wyoming, and how Kristofferson became a marshal are questions left unanswered.

Nor does the movie ever clarify the relationships among the characters. It is suggested that the marshal and Christopher Walken, a hired gun for the cattlemen, were once good friends; but we don't know how they came to be friends or why their friendship ended.

Walken, like Hurt, is a blank in this movie. His character's background, motivations, values, ambitions are never revealed. The same is true of Isabelle Huppert who plays the young French madam of a brothel. Kristofferson and Walken are both in love with Ms. Huppert. She seems to be in love with Kristofferson but she agrees to marry Wilken.

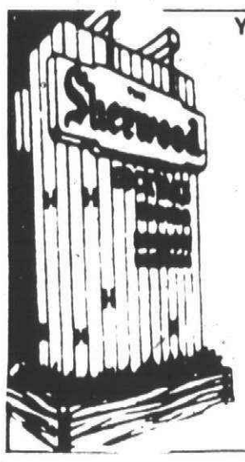

"Heaven's Gate" doesn't provide explanations or answers, only a series of disjointed episodes that culminate in the anticipated shoot-out between the immigrants and the cattlemen.

It just reminds us that directing traffic at this "Heaven's Gate" is Michael Cimino, not Saint Peter.

Immigrants are crowded inside and atop a box car, headed for settlement in Wyoming's Johnson County.

CAR CARE

MAINTAINING YOUR MOBILITY

Preventing Rust Worth $100 Year

Is the body of your car beginning to resemble swiss cheese?

Cars are rusting faster then ever, due in part to the approximately nine million tons of salt used on the roads yearly. The severity of last winter's weather may have set a record for salt use.

According to the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association, rust and corrosion can add $100 a year to a car's depreciation.

APAA estimates that there are more than 50 million cars in the "salt belt," that area of the country where chlorides are used to maintain traffic flow during freezing months.

While these compounds are excellent at keeping roads and streets passable and safe, they do considerable damage to the unprotected vehicles that travel treated roads.

Rusting cars are expensive to their owners and even dangerous.

Yet preventative treatments by a rust-proofing service or a do-yourselfer within the first 3,000 miles of the vehicle's purchase can eliminate the problems.

Many rust-proofing companies do an excellent job of providing this service for auto and truck owners. Because rust-proofing is a high-labor job involving skill, time, patience and a relatively low-cost product, the charge for this service must be sufficient to pay for the labor, material and a modest profit for the operator of the service.

The charge, however, is one that most owners defer or forego completely. This is, in reality, a poor business decision. The charge of $100 to $130 is one that is returned many times in the form of higher resale value for the vehicles, reduced or eliminated need for body work and cosmetic repairs, better frame protection in a crash, and a reduction of squeaks and rattles during the period of car ownership.

In three years, a treated car in the salt belt can be worth $300-$500 more than an untreated car.

For do-it-yourselfers, rust-proofing kits have been developed that, used and applied as directed, will give the same measure of protection as professionally applied treatments, at about a fifth or less of the cost.

They can even halt rust on older cars where tust problems have already begun. Cars of unitized construction especially need this treatment, particularly if they are expected to be used into advanced age.

For periodic maintenance, APAA advises that you keep your car clean, wax at least twice a year, and always wash your car as soon as feasible after driving it in the rain, snow or slush. The wash water carries away those corrosive chemicals that cause rust.

After washing, leave car doors ajar for a few minutes to permit water drainage. Dry thoroughly.

If you live in an area where sand and salts are used on roads, hose down the underside twice a year. If you live in sand country, flush the underside of the vehicle. Be sure to keep the drain holes in the bottom of the car doors open.

Regular Wash, Wax Helps Car

Today's car finishes are better than ever, so there is no reason the paint on your car shouldn't sparkle for the life of the vehicle.

The easiest and least expensive way to preserve the original luster, the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association says, is to wash the car as often as you can.

Periodic maintenance includes washing and waxing. Washing gets rid of tree sap, road tar, insects and bird droppings, gasoline, dust, industrial fallout, and other harmful agents.

Once a week isn't too often for this important car carejob and always wash your car as soon as feasible after driving in the rain, snow or slush. The wash water carries away those corrosive elements that cause rust.

Always use cold water, never wash in the direct rays of the hot sun, and wait until the metal is cool. Your auto parts and accessories dealer has car wash compounds and agents which will remove stubborn tar and other contaminants. Do not use detergent.

After washing, leave the car doors ajar for a few minutes to permit water to drain. Dry thoroughly.

If you live in an area where sand and salt are used on roads, or roads are sandy, hose down the underside twice a year. Be sure to keep the drain holes in the bottom of the car doors open.

Inspect your car's finish closely. Oxidized paint looks chalky or gives the appearace of a film hiding the true color of your car.

You will have to use a cleaner to remove the dead paint and a wax to lay on a new protective coating. A combination cleaner/wax will do the job in one step.

Cleaners and waxes come in a wide range of choices, from wax-impregnated clothes to sprays, liquids and pre-softened pastes. Many car buffs stock several different types of waxes so they can do a quick job or a real elbow-greaser, depending on how much time they have.

Polish one section at a time, using a circular motion to apply the wax and making sure to overlap sufficiently.

The cloth will slowly become the color of the car as you rub off the dead paint, so turn the cloth frequently.

When the wax is dry, it will haze on the surface and is then ready to be removed with a clean cloth.

Buff the surface to a high shine. Again, fold the cloth frequently as it becomes glazed with dead paint

Vinyl Tops

Vinyl tops need their own special care. Frequent washing is as vital for a vinyl top as it is for the car's paint finish — maybe even more so. A soft-bristle brush is a help in thoroughly cleaning with mild soap.

When the surface is clean and dry, you can use vinyl top dressing on the roof. Use the neutral or colorless product or get the color that matches your car's top.

Scratches or cuts in the vinyl can also be repaired at this time. Use one of the repair kits made for the purpose.

Stalled Car Advice Given By Truckers

If your car is overheating while stalled in heavy traffic, step up the ideling speed of the car. Doubling the idling speed will increase the air flow through the radiator, says the American Trucking Associations, Inc.

Keep up the higher idling speed until your temperature gauge shows a marked drop.

Only as a last resort to bringing down the temperature of an overheated engine, ATA says, turn on your car's heater with the blower at full speed long enough to reach a phone or service garage.

The heater serves as a "mini-radiator" by siphoning hear from the engine block.

However, ATA warns, pull over to the side of the road and wait for help if your car's temperature gauge continues to climb or the warning light remains on.

CAR CARE

MAINTAINING YOUR MOBILITY

Replacing an oil filter

The oil filter on your car is probably a full-flow filter. This means that the oil pump delivers oil through the filter before oil is distributed to the engine.

However, in the event that extremely cold weather causes the filter to clog or the oil to become too thick to flow through the filter, a bypass valve will route oil around the filter element to the engine; This way, your engine will never starve for oil. Oil delivered to the engine through the bypass will, of course, contain abrasives and sludgy elements that will accelerate engine wear.

Filters get clogged with sediment and particles if they are kept in use too long. Therefore, it is important that you replace an oil filter at the time intervals recommended in your owner's manual. In many cases, this schedule calls for installing a new filter in a new car the first time the oil is drained and every second oil change thereafter. If you use the vehicle under severe conditions, such as pulling a trailer, extensive short-trip driving, idling for long periods, or driving in dusty areas, replace the filter each time you change the oil.

1. Place a drain pan under the oil filter before adding fresh oil to the engine (see Changing Motor Oil, page 148). This will catch any of the fresh oil that may spill while you work.

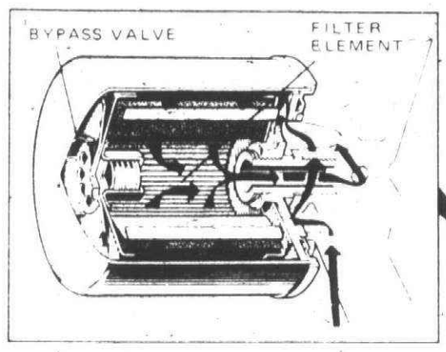

2. The filter may be reached from inside the engine compartment, depending on its location on the engine. If it's not accessible, you'll have to get beneath the car. Be careful that you don't grab the filter with your bare hand. Since the engine was warmed up prior to draining the oil, the filter will be hot.

3. Place an oil-filter wrench around the filter. If you are just now purchasing a wrench, make sure that it's the right size because not all wrenches fit all filters. Be ready to tell the salesman the year, make and model of your car and the cubic-inch displacement of the engine. You'll also need this information if you want to purchase the correct filter.

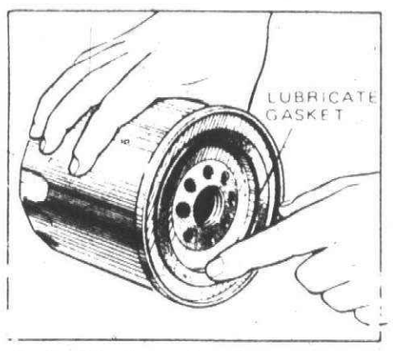

4. Turn the wrench counterclockwise to remove the filter. If the filter is frozen to the engine, remove the wrench and drive a chisel through the filter canister, but watch out for hot oil that may splatter. Then hit the chisel with a hammer to loosen the old oil filter.

5. If old gasket material sticks to the filter seat on the engine after you have removed and discarded the filter, scrape the seat clean and wipe it with a dry cloth.

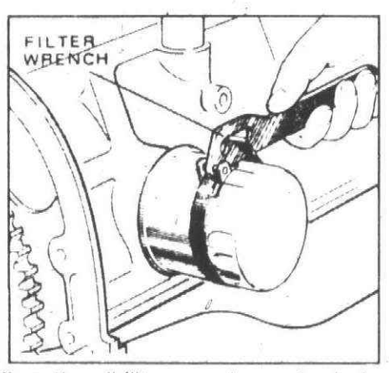

6. Wash your hands, and PRAY!!

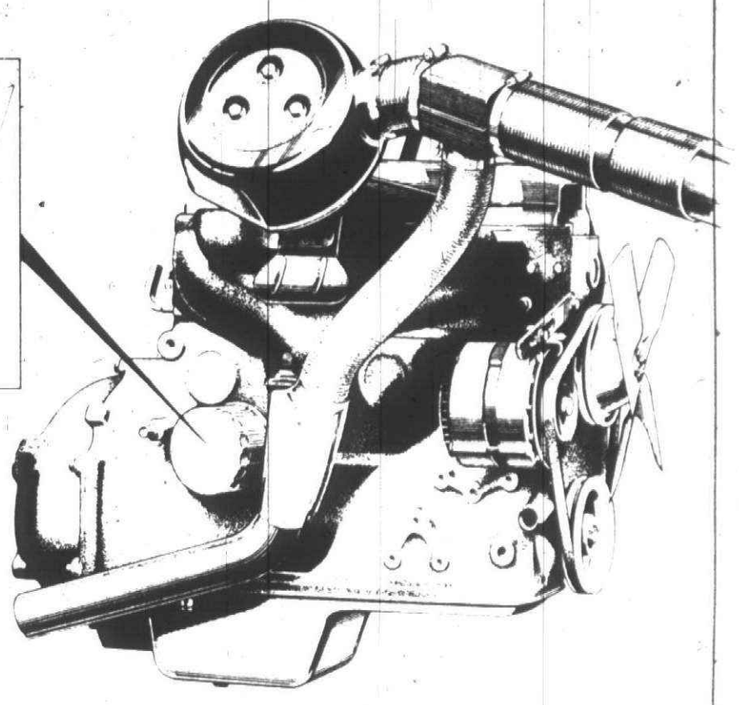

Full-flow, oil-filter bypass valves allow oil delivery, even if the filter clogs.

Apply oil to the gasket of a new filter to secure a tight fit with the engine.

Turn the oil-filter wrench counterclockwise to loosen and remove the filter.

Questions and...

Some answers on CAR CARE

By PAUL BRANT

Dear Mr. Brant:

Recently I bought a 1978 which has been giving me one particular problem—the engine keeps running after I shut it off. I understand this is a common problem and there's nothing I can do about it. Would you have any answers for me?

Running On

Dear Running On:

This is known as dieseling or run-on and has been common with certain cars such as yours. It's seldom incurable. Be sure that you're using the right grade of gasoline and have the idle speed set properly. An engine that's idling too fast may want to keep running when the ignition is turn off.

Also be sure that your ignition timing is set properly.

There are very few engines that will continue to run-on when they are properly tuned. Hopefully, yours is not one of the stubborn ones.

Dear Paul:

We have a drive-through short-order restaurant and would like to post signs suggesting out patrons shut off their engines while waiting in line. At what point is it economical to shut it off and start it again? ABC

Dear ABC:

We're always glad to hear from someone who's promoting fuel economy. Authorities tell us the cut-off point is somewhere between 30 and 60 seconds depending upon the car, outside temperatures, etc. Not only is it energy-foolinh to idle an engine for a long period, but it's also a contributor to air pollution. Besides, long periods of idling can be hard on an engine.

Dear Mr. Brant:

As a driver ed instructor I would like to warn my students about the dangers of starting grass fires with cars parked off the road. Can you tell me what causes these fires? PE

Dear PE:

The culprit often is the catalytic converter, part of the car's emmission system. This can reach temperatures of between 500 and 700 degrees. When a car is pulled off the road and the hot converter touches anything combustible, the chain of events is obvious.

Dear Mr. Brant:

Please help resolve this question: How often should I have my wheels aligned? We are wondering about this because just two months ago we had the job done and the car was fine for a while. Then, suddenly, it was pulling to the right. Shouldn't a wheel alignment last for at least six months? Toe-Out

Dear Toe-Out:

The question "How long should wheels stay in line?" is like asking "How long should a guitar stay in tune?"

If all parts involved are in good condition and the car is driven normally, there's no reason why the wheels should not stay in perfect alignment for from six months to a year...even longer. However, any unusual impact—against a curb, chuckhole or other obstruction—could cause misalignment.

Dear Mr. Brant:

My neighbor and I have virtually identical cars. He says I'm foolish to spend the kind of money I do in preventive maintenance; that it won't make much difference when I take the car in for trade. I disagree. What do you think? P.M.

Dear P.M.:

Auto auctioneers say a well-maintained car is worth at least several hundred dollars more at trade than one that's been neglected. Even more important than resale value, I believe, is the benefit of driving a better looking, safer, more efficient car. So even if you lost 100 percent of your preventive maintenance investment at trade-in time, which is very unlikely because of the fuel economy achieved, you're still ahead of the game.

HOW SWEET IT IS!

When Entenmanns, a New York based bakery opened thrift outlets in the Detroit area, they took us up on a sweet deal——the opportunity of reaching more of their potential customers in our own hometowns than either of the big dailies.

They in turn offered our customers a really sweet coupon deal and then the fun began. You can see by the photos the flood of coupons that our readers brought in. John Klausing and Dale Hochstetler were all smiles when they saw how many bags had accumulated.

This is an example of the kind of response that our newspaper provides. Put a good product that people want, at a good price into our advertising pages and you can have a sweet deal of your own. Add a really good coupon deal and you can measure your success just as Entenmanns did.

Contact one of our advertising representatives in Livonia or in Birmingham and smile a really sweet smile.
