Joint dispatch system sparks funding squabble

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Does Canton need to continue as a partner in a joint police dispatch system with neighboring communities?

Do those neighbors resent Canton's larger size? Is Canton paying its fair share of the cost? Will the system fall apart?

Those are a few of the questions which may pop up today, as Supervisor Jim Poole meets with officials of several communities to try to iron out a funding squabble over a joint police dispatch system.

Poole contends the state and other communities currently owe Canton about $18,300 for equipment and operating expenses since the system went into effect last September.

Sharing a joint radio network are the city of Belleville and the townships of Canton, Sumpter and Van Buren. A nominal member is Huron Township, which has its own centralized police and fire line.

"It's a fine idea to have a joint dispatch system," said Poole. "This has never worked. We've been footing the bill.

"I don't want to talk about it, because we may wind up in court."

OVERSEEING the operations of the group is the Western Metropolitan Emergency Communications Network (WMECN), made up of representatives from the participating communities.

Officials say the system — in operation since last September — has been plagued by changes which have occurred during the past few years.

Others say there is rivalry over Canton's size and a desire by some of the communities to change the method of funding the joint system. In addition, there have been no formal decisions on funding the expenses, according to Canton grants coordinator Terry Carroll.

PLANS BEGAN to develop in late 1976 or early 1977. Grant funds were made available by the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to develop group efforts which would trim costs of police protection.

Costs would be shared by federal, state and local governments. In addition, equipment could be purchased at half the cost.

Under the agreement, Belleville would provide the radio frequency, and the system would be housed in that city. Canton would be the financial agent, putting up money in advance so the grant could proceed.

The agreement called for the participating departments to share the funding on the basis of population, according to the most current census information.

"There was supposed to be cost-sharing in the operation of the center, based on the population," said Carroll. "That wasn't done."

Delays have occurred in obtaining the equipment, said Carroll. In the meantime, Canton — experiencing a population explosion — set up a full-time police department.

Sumpter Township, which originally had a full-time police force, cut back to part-time.

Carroll said about $13,465 of the amount outstanding is a grant payment which the state is withholding to WMECN. The remainder is money which the participating communities owe for operating expenses.

In early April, Russell Webb of the state office of criminal justice informed Canton Police Chief Jerry Cox that the state was holding back the John Howe will remain as principal of Starkweather Elementary School and Carroll Nichols will remain principal of Tanger Elementary instead of becoming principal of both schools.

The school board changed its mind last week on plans to make Howe an assistant principal at Gallimore Elementary.

The decision also changed board plans to have Nichols serve as principal of Starkweather and Tanger elementaries starting this fall.

The board did, however, approve the balance of the administrative transfers and demotions as earlier proposed.

The decision to keep Howe at Starkweather will result in Gallimore being without an assistant principal for the coming year as the person who served in that spot has been transferred.

Earlier in April, Starkweather parents and staff argued that it would be better for the school to have a full-time principal and to cut the administrative budget by eliminating an assistant principal at one of the smaller schools on Extended School Year (ESY).

Carol Davis, board president, said the board changed its stance on the Howe/Nichols moves because of a budget update report this week. It indicating the district will finish the year with a higher fund balance then earlier projected.

The report said the district received an unexpected payment of almost $120,000 for special education reimbursement from the county and the district earned $150,000 more in interest on investments than had been budgeted.

The net result will be that the district will end the current fiscal year with a fund balance of $1.6 million, or almost $270,000 more than budgeted,

Board preps its face for pie toss

By Darlene Stinson
editor

Just think of it.

You pull your arm back — and splat! A gooey cream pie hits its target — the face of a Canton Township Board member.

High bidders in WSDP Radio's second annual auction this Thursday (today), Friday and Saturday may have to dream about that sweet happenning for awhile.

On Tuesday night, Township Board members scheduled six of the seven promised pie-throwings for 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 9 — the last day of the three-day Canton Country Festival.

The pie-throwing for the seventh board member — Trustee Carol Bodenmiller — has not been scheduled yet.

Mrs. Bodenmiller will be out of town during the Canton Country Festival. She will attend a high school class reunion in Lisbon, Ohio, and miss the happenning in Griffin Park.

BUT FELLOW board members have refused to let Mrs. Bodenmiller off the hook.

Proceeds from the pie-throwing bids are earmarked for operations of WSDP, the student station at Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools.

Supervisor James Poole has suggested a solo pie-throwing for Mrs. Bodenmiller on the weekend before the Canton Country Festival.

She smiled squeamishly when asked about her preview. But Mrs. Bodenmiller insisted she will not take take back her commitment for the pie-throwing and sneak out of town.

Two board members — Trustees Stephen Larson and Robert Padget — have pledged a bidding war in an effort to win the rights to Mrs. Bodenmiller's pie toss.

"If she (Mrs. Bodenmiller) doesn't do it at the fair, then it will be at the next board meeting," said Trustee Loren Bennett.

'I think it (the Country Festival) is a most appropriate time for this board to get up and continue to make fools of themselves.'

— James Poole township supervisor

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS last week approved a real resolution (it even appeared in the minutes) which names the pie-throwing as Canton's contribution to the WSDP fund-raising campaign.

According to Jeff Cardinal, administrative coordinator for WSDP, merchants from the Canton-Plymouth communities have contributed about $8,000 worth of goods and services for the event.

A number of public officials, such as Plymouth-Canton Schools' Supt. John M. Hoben, have joined Canton board members in making pledges. According to Cardinal, Hoben will take a student's place in the classroom for a half-day.

To place a bid for a piece of merchandise or a public official's pledge, just call WSDP (88.1 FM) from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. this Thursday, Friday or Saturday. The number is 453-0620.

According to Cardinal, bidders who win the right to toss a pie at the Canton board will be announced on WSDP Saturday evening.

In scheduling the pie-throwing Tuesday night, Supervisor Poole said auction winners will have to wait a long time before claiming their prize.

But board members believe scheduling the toss for the Canton Country Festival will attract hundreds to the fair.

Faust: Tax plan faces uphill fight

By Leonard Poger
staff writer

A state property tax relief plan on the May 19 ballot faces an uphill fight with a poll showing that a large percentage of voters don't understand the proposal.

Majority Senate Leader William Faust, a Westland Democrat, said more public education and information about Proposal A is needed if voters are to support it in the special election in 12 days.

Faust, whose district includes Westland, Garden City, and Canton Township, is one of several state officials leading the informational campaign to tell people why they should support the plan.

He said Gov. William Milliken is being asked to personally appear with him at a Proposal A informational meeting in western Wayne County within the next two weeks. Faust said that a gubernatorial appearance was needed because of past strong support locally for a Tisch tax cut proposal. He said the original Tisch headquarters was located in the city of Wayne.

Tisch is the Democratic drain commissioner from Shiawasse County who has failed twice in the last three years to have property taxes cut in half.

Faust cited a private poll showing that 29 percent of those questioned supported Proposal A, 23 were opposed, but 43 percent didn't understand it.

THE PLAN generally provides for a 50 percent cut in operational property taxes for residents and farmers. At the same time, the state sales tax would be increased from 4 to 5½ percent.

But the senator said if the tax plan is rejected, voters may be faced with a more drastic property tax plan, named "Tisch III," which would result in major cutbacks in state government and could mean the doubling of college tuitions.

According to Faust, Proposal A on the May 19 ballot means real tax reductions for most homeowners and reduced state spending and a ceiling of 6 percent a year on local city and school district budgets.

FAUST, FIRST elected to the senate nearly 15 years ago, said the state government's spending has been cut $1 billion in the past year while local cities and schools have been increasing their spending — thanks to increases in the local tax base, which are growing faster than the rate of inflation.

Faust said the state already has a property tax relief program, called the "circuit breaker" formula.

Under that formula, adopted six years ago, the state reimburses residents for 60 percent of their property tax which exceeds 3.5 percent of their

Tax slash hinges on form

By now, a packet containing important taxation documents should have reached all Canton homeowners and farmers.

The form in the packet is used to qualify individual property owners for property tax relief in the event that Proposition A is approved by voters May 19.

Homeowners or farmers who do not receive the packet sent by Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz by Monday May 11 are urged to call the treasurer's office, 397-1000.

The form in the packet must be filled out and returned to the treasurer's office by May 22 in order to qualify for the tax relief.

Proposition Acalls for a change in the state constitution to lower property taxes by slightly less than 50 percent and to raise the state sales tax by 1.5 cents per $1.

Return of the taxation documents by May 22 will allow financial institutions to adjust tax escrow accounts by late summer or early fall in order to reflect the lower property taxes, according to Doug Roberts, assistant director of the Michigan Department of Management and Budget.

Homeowners who directly pay their own tax bills will pay a lower sum next December, if the tax documents are returned promptly.

MS. FALKIEWICZ had planned to mail the tax documents to homeowners by the middle of last week.

An April 27 order of Wayne County Circuit Judge John O'Brien sidelined those plans. O'Brien issued a temporary restraining order against the mailings in response to a lawsuit of Commerce Township homeowners. The mailings are expected to cost the state of Michigan $1 million.

The restraining order was lifted by the Michigan Court of Appeals April 30.

Ms. Falkiewicz said she mailed more than 11,000 of the tax documents on May 1 — the deadline set by the Michigan Legislature for the mailings. State lawmakers have told all municiapalities in Michigan to obtain the tax information from homeowners.

The forms verify home ownership and occupancy.

The tax plan

PROPOSAL A

Proposal to reduce property taxes, reduce city income taxes, limit growth of property tax revenues, return additional sales tax to local governments and schools and give state lottery profits to school aid fund.

The proposed amendment would:

1. Reduce by 50 percent homestead property taxes used for operating schools and local governments. Reduction limited to $1,400 in 1981 and changed yearly as home values change.
2. Reduce by 50 percent local individual income taxes on first $40,000 of taxable income.
3. Make state return to local governments all funds lost by above reductions.
4. Limit yearly property tax revenue growth to 6 percent by property type unless raised by local voters.
5. Raise sales tax from 4 percent to 5.5 percent. Raise must be returned to local governments and schools.
6. Let farms and forests be assessed at use value.
7. Give state lottery profits to school aid fund.

Dispatch system sparks squabble payment. Webb said the communities have failed to meet the funding agreement in the contract.

There also were questions about modifications to the program.

COX said the police departments work well together. He said the joint concept is sound, "but it can't operate with a five-man board to handle the day-to-day operations."

Justin Emerson, mayor of Belleville, describes the organization as "piecemeal."

"Implementation hasn't been there," said Emerson.

Cox estimates that Canton accounts for perhaps 70 percent of the usage of the frequency. But Canton doesn't take advantage of the joint dispatching.

"There would be no advantage to Canton to continue (the joint plan) unless there is a sharing of cost," added Cox.

Cox said he would like Canton to have its own radio frequency, but efforts to obtain one in the past have failed.

Emerson said he hopes the communities can pull together and work out their differences. He said the communities could lose the grant if the system doesn't operate for at least a year.

In the meantime, Pat Cullin, supervisor of Van Buren Township, said the guidelines should be changed so that funding takes into consideration the usage, as well as population.

Currently, Van Buren Township uses the joint dispatch system 18 hours a day when its part-time police department is in operation. The Wayne County Sheriff's Department patrols in Van Buren the remaining six hours of each day.

Mrs. Cullin said Van Buren Township has paid all outstanding expenses to WMECN.

She said she believes Van Buren will continue to take part "as long as we can afford it, and as long as we don't have to pay for it when we aren't using it, which I think is only fair."

U-M prof is NSC appointee

Raymond Tanter, professor of political science at the University of Michigan, has been appointed senior staff member of the National Security Council (NSC) with responsibility for Middle East and defense policy.

He is requesting a leave of absence from U-M. He will leave for Washington immediately after the U-M winter term ends.

Tanter will become the third U-M political science faculty member to hold that position. Richard H. Solomon and Michel Oksenberg served consecutively as the NSC senior staff member for China.

Tanter teaches American foreign policy as well as international security and arms-control courses. He is a specialist on the American role in the Middle East, having done research on Israel's crisis decision making and on American foreign policy.

7th heaven for stamp collectors

Michigan's Largest Stamp Show, held at Central Middle School on April 25-26, brought out hundreds of stamp collectors and the curious. At right is a scene of the display area. The show also was the place to get an official cancellation mark (below).

Stamp collectors and the curious from all parts of Michigan, surrounding states and Canada converged on Central Middle School recently when the Western Suburban Stamp Club hosted the state's largest stamp show.

It was the club's 12th annual bourse (sale or exchange) headed by club chairman Emil Brant of Westland and Mort Potter, exhibition chairman, of Plymouth.

A total of 40 dealers set up exhibition booths in Central Middle School's gymnasium, bringing with them a host of rare and commemorative stamps.

The theme for the show was "Birth of a Nation," featuring the 1931 U.S. commemorative issue Yorktown.

A slide show, prizes and refreshments also were featured.

David Hill, a stamp dealer from West Virginia, was one of the 40 dealers from a 10-state region.

Staff photos by Gary Caskey.

Youngsters appeared to gravitate to the prize booth at the stamp show.

The rare and the commemorative were found among the various stamps.

Schools drop rights' waiver on parking permits

By Sandra Armbruster
editor

Michigan school districts may review their student parking permits in light of a settlement between the Wayne-Westland district and the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU).

As part of the agreement, a request that students' waive their right to privacy is being removed from parking permit request forms used by Wayne Memorial High School. The high school is one of two in the district, which also serves students from Canton Township.

"Technically speaking, this doesn't establish a precedent, but what we have here is a settlement which we expect to have approved by a federal judge," said Howard Simon, executive director of the ACLU. Simon added that searches of cars driven by students would be conducted only with a "proper legal basis."

"It's a giant head start toward what we wanted," he said.

THE SETTLEMENT was filed Wednesday before U.S. District Judge Horace Gilmore, who was expected to approve the agreement Thursday.

The suit originally was filed by the ACLU last November on behalf of Wayne Memorial students Edward Wofford, Laura Homer and Beatrice Peak. The students are seniors who live in the city of Wayne.

The suit claimed that students' rights were violated when they were asked to sign waivers to their right to privacy before obtaining lockers and parking permits.

After filing the suit, ACLU attorney Elizabeth Gleicher had said she hoped the case would set a precedent. The ACLU had received so many complaints from students, according to Ms. Gleicher, that it was looking for a test case.

The Wayne-Westland case eventually was joined with a similar one involving students from the Roseville school district.

A Wayne Memorial High teacher who had contacted the ACLU for the students described the settlement as a big victory.

"The question is whether it will signal other districts that they must change their (parking request forms)," said Lynn Ehrle, who teaches courses in consumer rights and remedies, American history and contemporary problems at the high school.

BUT REACTION to the settlement from the school district and its attorney was that the suit was unnecessary.

"Unfortunately the issue was not appealed through the administrative process," said Dennis O'Neill, deputy superintentdent for instruction. "Instead it was added to the burden of an overloaded court docket.

"Parking wasn't an issue at the high school. It never had been appealed," O'Neill added. "If it had, possibly a revision could have been sought without court opinions."

School transfers gain OK

Because of that improvement, said Ms. Davis, the board decided to keep Howe at Starkweather as a full-time principal. Earlier the board had stated the Howe move was one of the final decisions made while coming up with cuts and would be among the first restored.

The cuts made originally involved a savings of some $225,000 in administrative salaries.

THE CHANGES made officially by the school board Monday night included:

- Termination of employment for Mike Smith, school farm manager, as part of plans to close down the farm and possibly sell the property.
- Re-assignment of Bee Green as director of libraries to librarian at Central Middle School.
- Assign Maureen Murphy, assistant principal of Pioneer Middle, as assistant principal of Lowell Middle School.
- Assign Harold Gaertner, director of vocational education, with area coordinator responsibilities at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP).
- Assign Jan Hawkins, assistant principal at Gallimore, to assistant principal at Fiegel Elementary.
- Assign Patricia Patton, area coordinator at the CEP, as assistant principal at Bird Elementary.

Faust plugs property tax plan

income. Senior citizens pay little under the plan with retirees receiving $5,000 or less a year paying no property taxes, up to a $1,200 maximum.

But the problem, Faust said, is that homeowners who receive their property tax rebate checks from the state view the money as a personal income tax rebate, not as a property tax check.

The property tax is "pretty fair" when used with the circuit breaker formula, Faust added.

But the problem is that the state "hasn't done a good job of explaining the program."

The plan resulted in $500 million in tax rebates to residents last year, he said.

THE PROPOSAL on the May 19 ballot has been endorsed by most major state groups of public officials and private organizations, including the Michigan Chamber of Commerce and New Detroit Inc.

Some of the organizational backers are the Michigan Municipal League, a lobbying and research group for cities and villages, the Michigan Association of School Boards, Michigan Association of School Administrators, and the state board of education.

But some city councils, township boards and school boards have remained neutral or are publicly opposed to Proposal A.

Faust didn't seem worried about a lack of support from public officials. He said 400 of the state's 600 mayors are backing Proposal A.

Under the tax plan, the state would reimburse local units of governments for property tax losses.

In addition, cities and school boards would be limited to a maximum of 6 percent additional funds per year, Faust said, based on assessment categories of residential, agricultural, commercial and industrial. New construction would be exempt from the ceiling on property tax revenues.

HE STRESSED that the plan would cut operational property taxes by half, up to a ceiling of $1,400 per resident.

That ceiling would be increased annually to keep up with the rate of inflation, he added.

Another break for homeowners would be that the circuit breaker formula would be liberalized to provide even more property tax relief.

Under the plan, the state would lower the level of tax rebates from 3.5 percent of income to 2.5 percent.

That means that the state would reimburse residents 60 percent of the portion of their property tax bill that exceeds 2.5 percent of their income.

Faust admitted that more dollars would be headed to the federal government under the proposed tax plan from those who itemize their federal income tax returns. Property tax is one of the line items used to calculate deductions from federal income tax.

"It's not perfect," Faust said. "The only one (tax plan) that is, is the one in which no one pays the taxes."

Officials face pie-throwing

"I think it (the County Festival) is a most appropriate time for this board to get up and continue to make fools of themselves," Poole said.

STILL UNDECIDED is the source — and flavor — of the pies.

Poole suggested inviting the "ladies of Canton" to bake some sweet goodies for purposes of the pie-throwing. The Canton Country Festival Board would select the pies for the event. The rest would be auctioned off, with proceeds earmarked for WSDP.

Larson squashed the idea when he said the pies could pose a food-poisoning threat on a hot August day.

Tax relief forms deadline May 22

Ms. Falkiewicz urges homeowners to examine the forms before returning them to Township Hall. Some forms could contain the name of the property's former owner, she said. Incorrect names should be deleted and the correct name written in.

Township officials must forward all returned documents to the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation for processing.

MS. FALKIEWICZ said the treasurer's office has received numerous phone calls from residents since the Michigan Legislature scheduled the May 19 election on the tax reform issue.

"I've even been getting calls from savings and loan companies," she said.

Most residents have asked questions regarding the impact of Proposition A on their total tax obligations. Ms. Falkiewicz said the impact on individuals is difficult to assess, largely because of the plan's 1½ percent hike in the sales tax. Cutting the property tax also will reduce homeowner deductions on the federal income tax.

According to Ms. Falkiewicz, Canton Township would lose approximately $370,000 next year as a result of Proposal A's implementation. The loss would result from the plan's formula for capping annual tax revenues which stem from property assessment hikes.

The increase in the sales tax will allow the state of Michigan to reimburse local units of government for most revenues lost under Proposition A. However, the state will not reimburse communities for the difference between the six-percent cap and the total revenues which would have been generated by assessment increases.

Ms. Falkiewicz said the Township Board does not plan to take a position on the tax proposal.

Program offers home warranty proofing

With summer around the corner, who needs to think about heavy heating bills or drafty windows?

But now may be a good time for senior citizens and low-income persons to sign up for a federally financed program to make their houses more energy-efficient and insulated.

"This is a good time to do (the houses)," said Harley Trumbull, head of a home weatherization program with headquarters on Wayne County property off Henry Ruff in Westland.

"We can do more jobs in the summer because of weather," he added.

The program, sponsored by the Wayne County Office on Aging, will be financed through September, said Trumbull. It is free of charge to senior citizens (aged 60 and older) and other persons who can meet certain low-income guidelines.

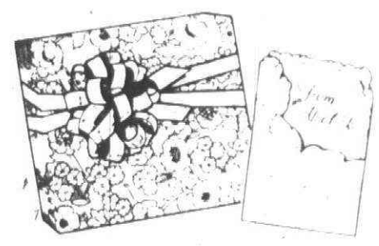

THE SERVICE covers 17 communities in western Wayne County, including Wayne, Westland, Canton, Livonia, Plymouth, Redford, Northville, Dearborn Heights, Romulus, Belleville and Inkster.

According to procedure, the house is inspected after an initial "intake interview" with the client.

Work usually begins within two or three weeks, said Trumbull. The variety of available chores may include caulking and glazing windows, vents, insulation, weatherstripping of doors and some installation of storm windows.

For information about the program, call 326-9402 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Plymouth architect cited for renovation

The exterior design of Growth Works won an architectural award for its use of plywood.

Architect Tivadar Balogh of Plymouth has received a citation of merit in the remodeling/recycling category of the 10th annual Plymouth Design Awards program.

The awards were sponsored by the American Plywood Association and the Professional Builder magazine.

Project participants in the Balogh office were Kathy Bergum, Paul Jordan and Clare Kroll.

The project honored was the remodeling of the offices of Growth Works, a community assistance organization in Plymouth.

Balogh, who also teaches at the college of architecture and urban planning at the University of Michigan, was one of 13 to receive citations and awards in this year's competition.

Within a limited budget, Balogh reorganized interior spaces and developed a new facade for the street elevation.

On the exterior, rough-sawn plywood siding was applied in a contemporary geometric pattern with open areas for windows.

The awards jury members commented: "The building is extremely well-designed for the budget allowed. Cooperation of association and architect results in a handsome addition to the community."

The awards program, which recognizes aesthetic and structural applications of softwood plywood, attracted entries from across the U.S. A feature on the winning entries will appear in a spring issue of the Professional Builder magazine.

The building on S. Main near Penniman Avenue once was the headquarters of the Plymouth Mail and subsequently was occupied by the Plymouth Observer.

As a community service, the building was leased for a nominal fee to Growth Works by Observer Newspapers which later sold the building to the organization when outright ownership better suited its needs.

After transfer of ownership was completed, Growth Works began renovating the inside and outside of the building to best suit its programs and worked with Balogh on design.

Deal cut with UM-D for credit transfers

Despite declining attendance, the Child Care Center will be kept alive by the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

In a related action, the board voted to end the subsidy to students at the college's Garden City Center who have taken their children to a private nursery.

Next fall, the Child Care Center on the main campus in Livonia will be able to expand its program, possibly by "making the center a part of the clinical training program for students enrolled in the child care curricula," according to Edward V. McNally, vice president for student affairs.

President C. Nelson Grote assured trustees children there would not be "guinea-pigged" or used in research.

TRUSTEES voted 5-1 to keep the program alive.

"There doesn't seem to be that pressing need. I don't see the need for the institution," said Trustee Mark McQuesten, the lone dissenter.

He pointed to figures which showed an enrollment of 89 children for a weekly total of 371 hours in the fall of 1975; an enrollment of 50 and a permanent drop below the 200-hours mark in 1979; and a current enrollment of 27 children for barely 100 hours.

The Child Care Center is part of a 1970s movement to make the college more accessible to older students, particularly women seeking re-entry into the work force.

Trustees Richard Hayward and Michael Burley attributed the decline in enrollment to the fewer number of children in the population.

IN THE LATER 1970s, the college sharply increased its fees for the program from 60 cents an hour prior to 1979 to a current level of $2.

Hours of operation were reduced by 15 hours per week — from 7:30-5 to 7:30-2, McNally reported. The combined workload of two staff persons was cut from 80 hours to 65 hours per week.

Subsidies have dropped from a high of $10,574 for the 1978-9 school year to $7,700 for the current year.

By integrating the Child Care Center into the teaching program, McNally said, greater service can be offered. Dorothy Witten, instructor and coordinator of the child care curricula, inspected the Child Care Center, located in an old house on Haggerty Road just south of the campus, and said it can be used.

SEMTA proposes fare hike, bus cut

Public hearings on a fare hike and a service change have been scheduled by the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority.

The SEMTA board will hear comments on the fare increase beginning at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 11, in room 111 of the Ford Library, 16301 Michigan Ave., Dearborn.

SEMTA proposes to increase scheduled bus fares 15 cents — from 60 cents to 75. Fares for such special services as Park & Ride and Limited would go from 80 cents to 95.

Small bus fares would be changed from $1.20 to $1.50, and Dial-a-Ride base fares would increase from 60 cents to 95.

Charter rates and senior citizen fares would also be adjusted up.

Commuter rail base fares would go from $1 to $1.15.

Rapidly rising costs combined with falling state and federal subsidies were blamed for the proposed changes.

The changes would take effect July 1, if approved by the SEMTA board after the Dearborn hearing and others in Oakland County, Macomb County and Detroit.

AT 7:30 tonight, SEMTA will conduct a hearing on a plan to drop bus route 351, which serves Seven Mile Road from Livonia to Northville.

The hearing will be in the auditorium of Livonia City Hall, Five Mile east of Farmington Road.

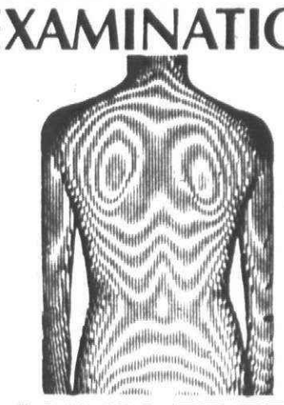

A system of subsidized taxicab rides for senior citizens and the handicapped is proposed to replace it, a SEMTA spokesman said. The system has been used sucessfully elsewhere in the metropolitan area, he added.

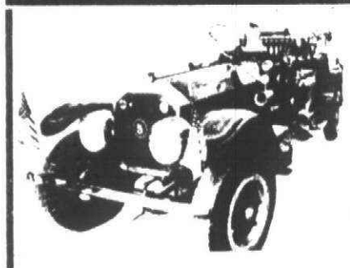

The WAYCart system of buses is also proposed to replace the Seven Mile service.

County charter 'mediocre,' but an improvement

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Half way through the drafting stage, Wayne County's charter is "mediocre" but better than the existing headless government.

That's the view of four of the five western Wayne members of the 27-person charter commission as it works toward a mid-June deadline.

Only Tim Manning, D-Redford, said he would vote "against it and vehemently campaign to defeat it."

In general, those who hoped for major reforms — Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia; Justine Barns, D-Westland; and Bart Berg, R-Canton — are mildly unhappy.

On the other hand, Roman Tafelski, D-Inkster, who worked overtime to preserve Sheriff William Lucas' domain, has "no real problem with the whole thing."

Voters in November will decide between two identical charters — one calling for an elected county executive, the other for an appointed manager. Beyond that, what powers the chief executive officer (CEO) has are up to the Michigan's first charter commission.

"RIGHT NOW I can't give you a yes or no answer," said Mrs. Barns, adding, "If we could strengthen the CEO a bit, I'd support it."

Plus marks, in her view, have been 1) reducing the County Board of Commissioners from 27 members to 15, and 2) generally bringing the financial powers under the CEO by getting rid of the three-man Board of Auditors.

A bad mark was mandating virtually every duty the sheriff's department performs or could perform, in the Westland council president's opinion.

"Most communities have their own police departments or can get help from the Michigan State Police district headquarters," she added.

Another bad mark went to the charter group's failure to eliminate the drain commissioner.

She said the CEO should have three key aides whose appointment wouldn't be subject to ratification by the Board of Commissioners. She identified them as the chief financial officer, the corporation counsel and the director of public works. Only the corporation counsel has been approved so far.

THE SHERIFF'S role "is not strong enough," said Tafelski, in contrast. But he called the charter generally a compromise and said he's "satisfied with what we have."

Tafelski was particularly pleased with the charter language on Wayne County General Hospital. "It doesn't lock in the hospital we have, but it does mandate that the county commissioners provide that kind of care" by using the word "facilities" instead of the hospital's name. Thus, the board could provide the same kind of service by dealing with another hospital or form of management.

Tafelski was happy with the charter's status quo position on the Road Commission, which will retain authority over Hines and other county parks and Metro and Willow Run airports. "To take the airport and parks from the Road Commission would have been improper. We'll have accountablity through the CEO; he can remove them (road commissioners) at any time," he said.

The vice president of a Liberty Lumber, Tafelski represents a district that includes a corner of Westland.

MANNING, the son of a longtime county commissioner, was the most critical of the charter commission's major moves. He said:

"The drain commissioner shouldn't be elected. He's not a policy-maker. To elect someone to perform administrative functions is totally unnecessary.

"The Road Commission is untouched except that the CEO will appoint it. That's not enough. I supported the Berg proposal to limit it to road functions and whatever the CEO might assign it.

Manning is a county public works employee whose district covers Redford Township and a slice of eastern Livonia.

Police arrest accused check bouncer

Canton police think they know the identity of a "John Doe" suspect who refused to give his name after being arrested late last month on a bad-check charge.

Cpl. Rob Cripe said police believe the suspect is Joseph Powers, 27, of Atlanta, Ga., who allegedly had been living with a relative in Detroit during the past six months.

Powers Monday waived preliminary examination in 35th District Court and was bound over to the Wayne County Circuit Court on a charge of uttering and publishing. Cripe said court documents list the suspect as both John Doe and as Joseph Powers.

"WE FOUND out Monday afternoon," Cripe said. "Relatives came for his (court exam).

"He's still in jail. We're waiting for verification of his identification from the FBI."

Canton police say the man tried to cash a payroll check for $196 on April 21 at Meijer's Thrifty Acres at Ford and Canton Center roads.

The check was one of 200 reported stolen a few days earlier from Air Compressor Sales and Service on Ford Road in Westland. Cripe said the suspect was carrying identification reported stolen by an Ohio man who had been staying in a Hazel Park motel.

Uttering and publishing is a felony punishable by up to 14 years in prison.

Another SC chief to depart for West

Dr. Jewell E. Stindt, provost of Schoolcraft College for the past two years, will become the superintendent-president of Southwestern College at Chula Vista, Calif., eight miles from San Diego.

The two-year community college has 14,000 students and 40 buildings, said Dr. Stindt, 55, who is second in command at Schoolcraft.

"The average daily winter temperature is 57, and the average summer temperature is 78," she said of the southern California climate. On one side is the Pacific Ocean, on another mountains and on the third is Mexico.

THE AGREEMENT was made Saturday, and word filtered through the Schoolcraft community during Sunday's commencement ceremonies. There was little surprise among her colleagues, who knew she was a candidate for several presidential posts.

A date for release from her contract has not been set.

Her new position removes her as a candidate for the Schoolcraft presidency, which is being vacated July 31 by C. Nelson Grote. Dr. Grote will head a two-campus community college district in Spokane, Wash.

Dr. Jewell E. Stindt
California presidency

The Schoolcraft board of trustees is expected to make a decision on an interim president soon. The likely choice is either Kenneth Lindner, vice-president for business affairs, or Edward McNally, vice-president for student affairs.

DR. STINDT had the twin titles of provost and vice-president for instructional affairs at Schoolcraft. She was in charge of day-to-day operations on the frequent occasions when Dr. Grote was in Lansing or Washington.

Grote had sought creation of the post for some years before it was finally authorized by the board and budget in 1979. Dr. Stindt was the first and only person to hold it.

She came to Schoolcraft after serving as regional director of the western campus of Wayne County Community College, where she started 10 years earlier as a classroom teacher. Prior to that she was a sociology teacher in Detroit's Denby High School, where she developed the sociology curriculum.

In 1961-62 she was a substitute social studies teacher in the Long Beach school district in California and a temporary full-time history teacher at the city college there.

SHE GREW up in Topaz, in the northwest corner of Michigan's upper peninsula. From 1943-47 she was supervisor of the central stenographic department of General Detroit Corp.

She earned a BA in 1958 from Wayne State University, earning the president's key for the highest grade point average in history and English; an MA with honors in 1962 with a major in education and history from the University of Michigan; and her PhD in 1976 in higher education administration from U-M.

Her doctoral dissertation was entitled "Sex Biases and Gender Role Stereotypes in Post-Secondary Textbooks."

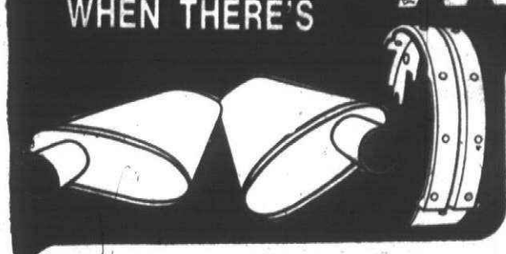

Mayflower fire reached in time

A small fire Monday in the basement of the Mayflower Hotel was extinguished by Plymouth firefighters after hotel workers reported a "lingering odor."

According to city of Plymouth fire reports, the blaze was put out around 3 p.m. Monday, about four hours after another fire started in the plumbing wrappings in the hotel basement.

The earlier fire was extinguished by workers who were making repairs in the downtown hotel. The fire department was contacted at 3 p.m. when workers detected a "lingering odor" throughout the afternoon.

Principal has a count

To the editor:

In response to your front page story in the April 30 edition of the Plymouth Observer, "Year-round re-examined at Fiegel," I feel that it is important to the readers that some of the information and figures be corrected.

The information could have been typographical mistakes or possibly earlier figures that have changed over the past weeks.

First of all, however, I must mention that the Fiegel staff and parents have been most cooperative in preparation for Fiegel Elementary School to switch to the extended school year concept for 1981-82. Much work has already been accomplished and we are on schedule in assigning tracks, etc. The problem that has arisen came as a result of the boundary changes, rechanges and more accurate counts of children in the finalized Fiegel boundary.

The boundary for 1981-82 is exactly the same as this year, with one exception. The Honeytree Apartment and Townhouse complex with six kindergartners and 110 first- through fifth-graders is being reassigned from Tanger School to Fiegel. Stoneybrooke has never been assigned to Fiegel, and does not need to be discussed here, as it is scheduled to go to Allen for 1981-82.

Tanger would then be left with 198 students grade 1-5 and a small kindergarten along with four empty rooms. Fiegel would be on ESY with four kindergartens (92 students registered as of this date) and 710 students grades 1-5. For this year ('80-81) we presently have 707 students (120 kindergartners and 587 grades 1-5), not 794 as mistakently printed.

At one time during the year our count totaled 715, but there appears to be a slow decline now with families moving out of state to secure jobs. As can readily be seen, kindergartens have gotten progressively smaller for the past few years. We may have already arrived at the predicted declining enrollment experienced by other districts in this part of our state.

Hypothetically, if the Tanger students from Honeytree remained at Tanger, that school would then have 308 students for '81-82 and a small kindergarten in the twenties. This figure is what Tanger has now with all special education accommodated and plenty of room for growth. Fiegel would then have 593 in grades 1-5 and about 100 or so kindergartners for a total of less than 700 children for 1981-82. That figure is less than this year's and would leave room for growth as well as accommodating special education on a TSY schedule. The saving to the district would be in the range of $250-300,000.

This, I believe, is why the administration and some members of the school board are re-examining ESY at Fiegel. This does not mean a status change, but it is helpful to know the accurate figures in the situation.

I hope that by presenting this to you in this manner, I have been able to answer many phone calls and visitors I have had since your article last Thursday.

In closing, I wish to re-emphasize the tremendous support Connie Roessler and the PTO have given us, along with the staff, in preparing for ESY. Our efforts are continuing to make Fiegel a great place for kids.

Ed Kleinsmith
Principal
Fiegel Elementary

The only typographical error in the Fiegel ESY discussion news report of the April 27 school board meeting was the reported cost for air-conditioning. The actual cost is $150,000. That error was immediately corrected in the following edition of May 4.

The school board president at the April 27 meeting said very clearly there was a discrepancy between the figures the Fiegel principal had and what the central administration had and that it would be best for a full discussion to wait until those figures could be reconciled. That fact was reported in the article; therefore it should not be suprising that some of the figures we reported did not agree with those recited by the Fiegel PTO.

The Observer attributed the enrollment figures reported and does not claim that any are correct.
— Editor

Reader fed up with ESY

To the editor:

As a Canton resident and the parent of children attending Fiegel School, I was appalled to hear what ESY has in store for us this coming year.

Of the four tracks, each track will have two single grade classes, the first grade and the fifth grade. Most all of the others will be split classes.

One of the more grisly examples is a class with three first-graders and 27 second-graders. Many of the other classes are just as bad.

Is a teacher to spend 50 percent of her time with three children and the rest with the other 27 students? Or perhaps just ignore the three and hope they will pick it up on their own?

To top it off, it has been determined that to convert to ESY on a sound economical basis, the school must increase its enrollment by one-third. We are probably getting less than 100 students, so we would not fall into this catagory.

Finally, our teachers do not want it, our parents do not want it, our children do not want it, our school does not qualify for it, and yet the school board is determined that we will have ESY anyway. Are these our so-called public servants?

Fair Housing Month is ignored by suburbs

IN CASE you missed it, April was national fair housing month.

Chances are that most suburban residents couldn't care less.

Newspapers received a nice packet of information from the private Fair Housing Center in Detroit, but that was about it.

Local human relations commissions were silent as were the types who are usually big on other "law and order" issues.

On the other hand, a state real estate organization sent us a notice that Gov. Milliken had proclaimed the last week in April as "private property week" in the state.

On the surface, it would seem that both groups would have the same goals: make ownership of property (read that single-family houses) as available to as many people as possible.

There are state and federal laws, plus local ordinances in some cities, which prohibit discrimination in the sale and rental of property on the basis of race, sex, handicap, and martial status.

IT READS well on paper.

But in reality, it's a different world.

Some persons felt that with the passage of the federal and state anti-discrimination laws in 1968, there would be more movement of minorities from the central cities into the suburbs.

But that hasn't happened for a lot of reasons.

One is economic.

Suburban homes increased in value at a much higher rate than the consumer price index. It is clear that homes with white neighbors with a typical family of a husband, wife, and children are worth more than those occupied by retarded adults or a divorcee.

But the most important factor was that social attitudes just weren't flexible for change.

Most suburban leaders in recent years have drawn their wagons in a circle and defended their "Fortress Suburbia" against assaults by the federal government. The feds tried with little success in getting low-income persons (read that blacks) into suburban apartment complexes built with federal funds or subsidies for its tenants.

A STUDY by the Fair Housing Center of discrimination complaints in Detroit suburbs showed that blacks still have the biggest problem when it comes to enjoying "the pride of private property ownership" while the real estate industry brags about its proclamations.

Apartment managers still manage to get around the anti-discrimination laws by openly or subtly advertising their rentals for "professional people" or "older adults" (read that responsible adults without children).

Divorcees with small children still have problems in getting the housing they need and want. Suburban homeowners are mounting what seems like weekly battles in opposing group homes for the retarded in their neighborhoods.

We should remind our readers who are over 35 that it was the U.S. Supreme Court in 1948, not the real estate industry, which did away with the obscene practice of enforcing restricted covenants on private property which prohibited blacks and Jews from owning property.

If people were serious about fair housing opportunities, they would do something about it instead of merely beating their chests about supporting private property week and opposing group homes for the retarded.

Homeowners should practice what they preach and allow others to enter "Fortress Suburbia."

Tim Richard

A nice home in suburbia — near the bus

Time was when house shoppers judged a location by its nearness to a freeway. Today they are, or should be taking a look at public transportation.

"Working together, we can put some selling ammunition in your hands," said Gary Krause, director of planning for the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority.

His audience was real estate agents, the folks who bring buyer and seller together in the housing market.

SEMTA is offering brochures to the real estate people on bus routes and times in their particular sections of the metropolis. Realtors who publish maps in their advertising can get SEMTA logos to stick on the nearest route.

Mary Lou Wood, coordinator of marketing activities, even offered to make presentations to sales staffs.

IT'S AN ODD fact of economic life that in this deep and prolonged recession, community colleges and public transportation are two growth industries.

"Our Park & Ride program has doubled its ridership in five years," said John Saunders, director of market development for SEMTA. "It's 23 percent of our total."

Park & Ride is the service whereby one parks free in a suburban lot, then hops an express bus to downtown Detroit. The price is a little more than $1. You can't even park downtown for $1 any more.

And that is why SEMTA is a growth industry. According to the Hertz rental people, who are pretty cost-conscious, it costs 35.65 cents a mile to operate a subcompact auto, 37.20 to run a compact and 45.04 to run a standard. That's taking depreciation and financing and everything into account.

Unless the United States is prepared to conquer Arabia and Venezuela, gasoline is never going to be 35 cents a gallon again. Public transportation thus becomes something everyone needs to look at and real estate agents could use it as a selling tool.

DID YOU NOTICE the titles some of those SEMTA staffers have? Director of market development, coordinator of marketing activities?

For years we've heard business executives say government ought to be run in a more businesslike fashion. Well, it has happened. Indeed, fellows like Saunders and General Manager Larry Salci bring rich business backgrounds into their SEMTA jobs.

"We've tried to function like any modern retailer," said Saunders, pointing out that one can buy tickets or a month's monthly Semtacard and charge it on your Visa, MasterCard or Hudson's account.

They're not above appealing to suburbanites' class instincts, either. On the Park & ride lines, they say the average income of riders is $19,575, and 40 percent of the early morning gang is making $35,000 or more per annum.

THERE ARE admitted gaps in SEMTA's service.

Downtown service at peak hours is fine, but if you want to go down at 11 a.m. and come back at 3 p.m., you're out of luck. Suburb-to-suburb service is coming only slowly. The same for reverse commutes — people who live in Detroit and work in suburbia's scattered plants and shopping centers.

Looking at the history of this region since World War II, however, Krause replies forthrightly: "We didn't dismantle public transportation in this region overnight, and we're not going to rebuild it overnight."

Even if the much discussed (and much cussed) subway is never built, SEMTA is striving to market reliable, inexpensive bus service. Realtors and house buyers ought to consider it.

Can 'Jimmy' occur here? Not likely

So much has been written about the Janet Cooke affair that I'm reluctant to add to it.

I've read many interesting articles about the episode and I don't want to be redundant. But as managing editor of this group of community newspapers, I feel obliged to add a few thoughts.

A few weeks ago Janet Cooke, then a reporter for The Washington Post, was awarded a Pulitzer Prize, the highest award in journalism, for a feature story about an 8-year-old heroin addict "Jimmy" who lived in Washington, D.C. The article was carried by other papers who use The Post's news service.

Subsequent investigation revealed that Ms. Cooke fabricated the story and her own credentials. Naturally, the affair gave much fodder to the critics of the press.

FIRST, I'D never say it could never happen here. But I will say, without hesitation, that it's unlikely.

A community newspaper contrasts sharply from a large, metropolitan newspaper like The Washington Post. Staffers of community newspapers must work very closely with those they cover. Readers regularly come in and out of our offices. They are quick to voice their comments through phone calls and letters about anything appearing in the newspaper.

It would be almost impossible for a reporter of a community newspaper to make up a fictitious episode without receiving an angry outcry from local readers.

Contrasted to this is the metroplitan daily newspaper reporter who often is isolated from his or her readers. Large newspapers are usually remote in location and disposition from their readers.

Also, those who check out stories written by our staffers are close to the community. Our editors and copy readers often know the local area better than the reporters writing the stories. This makes it difficult to make up events, people and places without some serious questions being raised.

Finally, our reporters have a strong sense of personal responsibility to accurately cover the events of their assigned communities. They are not competing against each other in an environment of distrust and suspicion, as apparently exists at The Washington Post.

"JIMMY" RAISES serious questions about the use of anonymous sources by newspapers. We avoid them as a newspaper policy, except in very unusual cases.

In one of our newspapers, we published an account of a teen-ager who had been arrested by police for ripping off gold and silver from suburban homes. Since the youth was a minor when some of the thefts were committed, we did not publish his name. But we believed it was important for our readers to understand how easy it was for youngsters to sell loot to precious metals dealers.

Use of anonymous sources reinforces the perceptions of some readers — that is, they are only used so reporters can fabricate stories. Unfortunately, in the case of The Washington Post, this was true.

A group of our editors is now grappling with the problem of putting into writing the news policies this newspaper follows. I'm surer than ever they will weigh carefully the issue of using anonymous sources.

Could what happened at The Washington Post happen in your community newspaper? I'd never say never. It's a newsperson's nightmare and sometimes nightmares become real.

"Jimmy" could happen here, but it's unlikely.

Where is the handy man?

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

What ever has become of the handy man?

You know the type — an ambitious fellow who always has a hammer, a screwdriver and a wrench within reach and is anxious to repair anything that goes wrong.

Down home in the Dutch country when The Stroller was a youth, we called him the all-around mechanic or Mr. Fix-It. But we don't see his like any more.

The Stroller got to thinking about this the other day when he was taking stock of the things that needed looking at in the annual spring cleanup and fix-up week.

Through the years there always seemed to be these all-around mechanics who were eager to do a few jobs on the side. They welcomed the extra cash, and sometimes it was their private pocket money.

THE FIRST JOB that came in sight was the jamming of the windows. Several of them seemed to be stuck. So one of the men in the immediate area was called and asked if he would do the job.

He took one look, shook his head and said, "These are old-fashioned windows that always are going to give you trouble. If I were you, I'd get the new type that are guaranteed never to jam. You see, I can't do anything with these old ones. I am afraid I would break the glass."

Well, well. That was a far cry from the old days when Mr. Fix-it would do a job like that and walk away smiling.

Next, the light in the kitchen went on the bum. The pull chain stuck, so it couldn't be turned on or off. What to do? Another friend was called. He took a look, tried one or two moves and nothing helped. Then he countered, " You would be better off if you got a new fixture. These modern lights don't give you any trouble with the chain."

Would you believe it? The Stroller had to buy a new one.

In the middle of all this, the young fellow who mows the lawn on the riding mower took the machine out for the first time this spring. In a few moments he was back, his chin down to his chest, and he moaned that the machine was broken. Imagine that — on the first trip of the year.

It developed that the gears were jammed, and no one in the neighborhood wanted to tackle the job. So, off to the repair shop it had to go, with a charge for pickup and delivery.

So, it is no wonder the Stroller asked, "What has happened to the old-time handy man?"

PERHAPS, THE absence of the "Jack of All Trades" can be traced to the assembly lines in our auto plants. The men on the line are taught to do one thing. They know little else.

On top of that, obsolescence is being built in to most of our products, from automobiles on down.

So the cry goes up, "Don't fix it — buy a new one." That's how our gross national product was built up.

This is a far cry from the days when The Stroller was a young man in the shops. We were given a rough piece of metal, and it was our duty to do all the things necessary to meet the finished product. In this fashion, a fellow got to learn a lot of things.

While the work was supposed to be learning the machinist trade, it actually was a course that earned a fellow the title of "Mr. Fix-it."

Now the trend has changed, and the old-time "handy man" with his hammer, screwdriver and wrench is gone.

It's too bad, especially at the spring of the year when most every home is involved in a cleanup and fix-up campaign.

High blood pressure spells trouble

Questions: My doctor recently informed me that my blood pressure is elevated approximately 170 over 100. What is the significance of these numbers?

Also, what is meant by hypertension and how can it be treated? B.R., Plymouth

Blood pressure is normally expressed in millimeters of mercury. The measurement consists of two numbers.

The higher one is the arterial pressure recorded during the heart's pumping stroke, and is called the systolic blood pressure.

The lower number represents the arterial pressure while the heart is relaxing between beats and is called the diastolic pressure.

When recorded in a relaxed, resting subject, normal systolic pressure is around 120 millimeters of mercury, normal diastolic pressure around 80. This is written as 120⅓0.

A systolic pressure between 100 and 140 is considered normal.In elderly people, however, a slightly higher systolic pressure may be within normal limits. Normal diastolic pressure lies between 60 and 90 millimeters of mercury.

WHEN THE RESTING pressure is consistently above these ranges, high blood pressure (hypertension) is diagnosed.

Unfortunately, there are really no symptoms which indicate the presence of hypertension. For this reason, it is frequently referred to as the "silent killer," often resulting in kidney disease, heart disease and strokes.

Once hypertension is diagnosed, it is important to determine whether it is the common "essential" type, meaning the cause is unknown, or whether it is due to other factors, many surgically or medically correctable.

Fortunately, there are fine drugs currently available for treating hypertension. These fall into two major categories: those that cause blood vessels to dilate or relax, lowering blood pressure, and those that work by eliminating excess sodium and fluids from the body (diuretics).

High blood pressure can sometimes be managed successfully without resorting to anti-hypertensive drugs — through dietary, exercise and behavior modifications.

THE OVERWEIGHT person with hypertension may be placed on a reducing diet and exercise program by his physician, for blood pressure often decreases with weight loss.

A diet low in sodium (ordinary table salt is the most common form) may also help to lower blood pressure. Sodium restriction curbs fluid retention by the body and tends to reduce blood volume and pressure.

You can decrease the salt content of your diet by avoiding such salted foods as peanuts and pork products and not adding extra salt to other foods.

Finally, learning to relax and cope with stress and tension is extremely helpful.

Hypertension is a life-shortening disease which can be medically managed quite effectively. There's really no excuse to ignore it.

Questions on physical fitness may be sent to Barry Franklin in care of this newspaper.

ESY unwanted at Fiegel

To the editor:

After learning some pertinent ESY facts, it seems completely unnecessary for Fiegel School to be put on ESY.

We were told there would be as few as 80, or as many as 110, additional children coming to Fiegel in the fall. The cost of putting Fiegel on ESY is estimated to be between $250,000 and $300,000; this averages out to approximately $2,500 to $3,000 per student. The cost seems exorbitant.

Our enrollment for 1981-82 is down from last year, as seems to be the case in some other schools in the district. Tanger School is projected at 150 students less than capacity. It is hard to understand the feasibility of ESY for Fiegel when Tanger is just over half capacity.

We were led to understand that to financially justify ESY, a school would have to increase its enrollment by one-third. This is not the case at Fiegel. Our district cannot afford this extreme expense.

In light of your recent article regarding the "pink-slipping" of up to 140 teachers, if our system is so overloaded with students, why in the world would these teachers be dismissed? The enrollment figures are not as high as expected, so use the $600,000 ($300,000 each for Fiegel and Bird) to keep our teachers and our schools "as is."

We were told there was a possibility Fiegel would have gone on ESY last semester. It was decided to hold off for one year and things have gone along quite nicely.

The split classes that would be instituted as a result of ESY are frightening. Every single track has at least five split classes; one example, a class of three children from one grade and 27 children from another grade. Any parent would naturally be upset to learn their child just happened to be one of the three in the minority. With this split class situation staring us in the face, I can't see my child getting a top-quality education.

The bottom line is we just can't afford ESY, either educationally or financially. The enrollment figures and projected costs just don't justify ESY — it is far too expensive a price to pay.

Argues with Fiegel count

To the editor:

Thank you for your coverage of my request to the board of education to reconsider the need for ESY at Fiegel School for the 1981-82 school year.

The tone of the article reflected my concern as a parent and taxpayer that we may be spending money on air conditioning when we could be spending it on program — and adequately housing students at the same time.

However, there were a few errors in the article that I would like you to allow me to correct:

1. At the meeting, I indicated that we have lost over 200 students across the district K-12, not just at Fiegel School. This figure comes from the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools membership report. On Sept. 16, 1980, membership was 16,897. As of April 10, 1981, membership is 16,675. Contrary to your article, Ed Kleinsmith, Fiegel principal, did not compile this information. It came from reports compiled at the district's central office.

2. I did receive kindergarten enrollment figures from Kleinsmith. We have 92 registered kindergarten students as of May 1, 1981. Estimated kindergarten enrollment had been projected at 150 students. I understand kindergarten enrollment is down over 300 students districtwide.

3. The cost for the purchase and installation of air conditioners for Fiegel is $150,000 — not $150. An additional $150,000 is in the budget for operating the school on ESY.

4. Fiegel enrollment as of April 23, 1981, was not 794 students, but 707.

In addition, I would like to address the statement that my figures did not agree with figures given to the board of education. My figures were the same as those announced by central administration. On March 12, David Rodwell of the central office gave our group the figure of 740 projected Fiegel students grades 1-5 for 1981-82. That figure is now 710, a loss of 30 students. Add to that a decline of 58 kindergarten students. This is how I reached the 80 student figure I mentioned at the board meeting, using school district figures.

The statement that Stoneybrooke Apartment complex students would also be returned to Tanger to allow Fiegel to remain a TSY school is incorrect. Stoneybrooke students do not attend Fiegel School now and are not scheduled to attend Fiegel next year. They have been assigned from Tanger to Allen School. The only students affected are Honeytree Apartment and Townhouse complex students who presently attend Tanger School.

In looking at the most recent projected enrollment figures for Tanger, 198 students, I question the decision to move 116 Honeytree students to Fiegel at this time. It is true Ecosystems moved these students to Fiegel as walkers. They are presently bused to Tanger. However, the Board is studying the possibility to a TAG (Talented and Gifted) Magnet School which would house 150 students at Tanger, also requiring busing. In fact, how can we fully utilize Tanger without extensive busing?

As I stated at the board meeting Monday night, I brought this to the board and now to the public, as a proposal to save the cost of ESY at Fiegel at this time. We are aware that growth in the district, Fiegel may need to be placed on ESY. With Michigan's economy in its present depressed state, it is unlikely there will be any measurable growth in the next year.

In light of recent budget cutbacks, teacher and support staff layoff notices and a very uncertain tax structure pending the May 19 election, I believe we should all be looking for ways to save money in this district to preserve as much as we can of our programs. It is in this interest that I share my information and hope that it is received.

I again pledge the support of the Fiegel PTO to our principal, Ed Kleinsmith, and staff to accept whatever decision is made and to continue to work with them to keep the quality of education and the spirit of community strong at Fiegel School.

JOAN SILVER of Plymouth is chairing the National Home Fashion League Tour. The league members are executive women in interior design and related fields.

The tour on June 3 will include four homes. These will range from a 14-room, three-story house built in the 1920s, to the latest passive solar house in Bloomfield Hills. Two condominiums will be on the tour.

The tour is open to the public for a $12 donation. This will include bus transportation, guided tour, and a very special box lunch. For information or reservations call Distinctive Designs, 862-1900. The architect of the solar home will be there to answer questions. The house has attracted a good deal of attention and was the joint effort of the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan, Bing Construction Company and Detroit Edison.

RUTH JACOBS has assembled some really unusual handcrafted items for the Plymouth Historical Museum gift shop.

Dora Hondorp made the old-fashioned bookmarks. These are needlepoint worked on perforated paper — a very old art. Mrs. Hondorp has chosen old verses for the bookmarks. The price tags vary from $2 to $4.

Gerri Jablonski made the corn husk dolls and dressed them in Victorian-era clothes. Again, the price-range is old-fashioned, from $5 to $10 for one dressed in velvet.

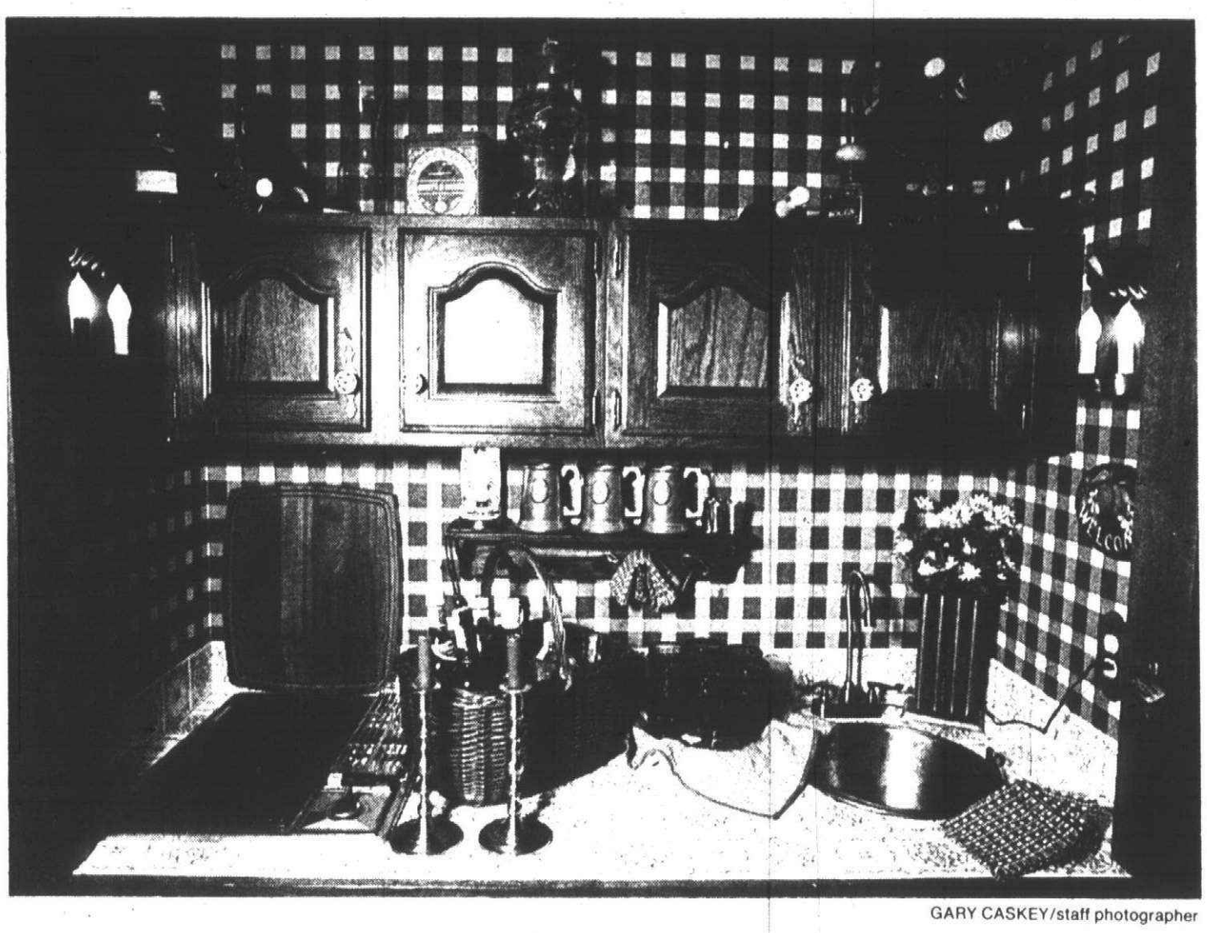

Dick Jablonski, Gerri's husband, created the handmade tinware. There is everything from unusual cookie cutters to candle stands and wall match-holders.

Ruth also has some new coffee mugs, plates, notepaper. "And we'll always have the low-priced items for the children who like to shop there," she added.

Museum hours are 2-4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. A visit ot the museum would be a perfect after-brunch outing on Mother's Day.

TOM CRAM and Alice Bilger had high scores at last Thursday's party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center. There were 10 tables in play.

MARY ELLEN DeMara And Norma Symmonds has high scores at the April 23 party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Play begins at 1 p.m. and is open to all bridge players.

6 'dream houses' featured on tour

Judy Moore, who chairs the luncheon committee, had a trial run on the maurice salad, and her tasters declared it perfect. Reservations for the luncheon must be in Friday.

Six outstanding homes in the city of Plymouth and the township will be open for the Plymouth Symphony League's spring home tour Thursday, May 14. Five houses and one condominium will be featured in the tour from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Thursday, May 14.

League members will serve a maurice salad, roll and homemade dessert luncheon from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at First United Methodist Church, 45201 North Territorial Road. Luncheon tickets at $3 per person must be reserved in advance with Friday, May 8, the deadline. No luncheon tickets will be sold the day of the tour.

Tickets for both the luncheon and the tour are on sale at Me and Mr Jones, Plymouth; Book Break, Canton Township; and Four Seasons in Northville. Tour tickets may be purchased the day of the tour at any one of these outlets. Children are not allowed on the tour.

JAN GERISH, Shirley Wold and Helen Bilyea, who are co-chairing the home tour, have a list of intriguing suggestions of what to look for on the tour.

- A country kitchen with an antique marble "island" for culinary creation, old quilts, baskets, chocolate molds. A richly eclectic living room entry and dining area, wooden floors, deep sofas creating a mood of cozy elegance. Also note the pineapple, colonial symbol of welcome, which is subtly evident throughout.
- A salt box home, so authentic you must be in New England. There's a keeping room, a quilting room, a walk-in fireplace in the large country kitchen. The wall stenciling was a housewarming gift and the lighting fixtures are tin — even the hallway storage area has pierced tin doors.
- The town house reveals a happy transition, a soft golden setting for a collection of antiques. Blue and cranberry tones, interesting floral and mini-print fabrics result in a cozy cheerful effect.
- An "after the children have left" dream home with a pantry with a freezer, flower arranging sink, expansive storage and extra counter space for entertaining. Note the collection of hand-painted china and antique mustard jars.
- A floor plan that duplicates that of a parsonage built in the 1700s in Northfield, Conn. It's authentic even to the hand-carved swan's broken scroll pediment doors, the five fireplaces, random plank flooring made from a single Northern white pine, and the hardware crafted especially in Greenfield Village.
- Lantern-hung beams, pressed back oak chairs, and evidences of the skilled do-it-yourselfers who worked together to build the large family room at the back of the house, stucco the kitchen, and design their own kitchen cupboards.

MEMBERS OF the Symphony League's Allegro group planned the home tour. Working with the chair trio are Doris Chatterly and Millie Ferrari, hostesses; Mary Elizabeth Smith and Kris Reid, brochure; Elise Murphy and Gae McCord, brochure editors; Mary Bozell and Sarah Chance, tickets; Betty Laird and Sandy Gillig, posters; and Carole Brandt, publicity.

The members of the Staccato group arranged the luncheon. Judy Moore and Eileen Dunn are co-chairing the project with Ann Ward doing decorations, Sue Knapp and Cheryl Chesky in charge of serving. Reef Morse will do the clean up and Carolyn Notestine assembled the delicious desserts. The Nightingale group is donating the homemade desserts.

Tour participants will be asked to remove their shoes as they enter each home. Plastic bags will be provided for their convenience.

The evening hours have been arranged so working women and men may attend the tour.

Super soloists at 25th pop concert

The gymnasium of Pioneer Middle School will be transformed into a romantic Viennese courtyard Saturday for the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's 25th annual pops concert.

"Evening in Vienna" is the theme chosen by Johan van der Merwe, conductor of the symphony. He has programmed a variety of selections guaranteed to evoke the gaiety and elegance of Vienna at the turn of the century.

Concert time is 8:30 p.m. Saturday. Admission will be $6 for adults and $3 for senior citizens and K-12 students. Advance tickets may be purchased at the Health Shoppe, 930 W. Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth, where there is a chart showing seating arrangements.

Dessert and beverage will be served at the cabaret-style concert.

THE CRESCENDO group of the Plymouth Symphony League is arranging the concert. They have chosen wicker baskets filled with hand-crafted flowers for centerpieces. These will be offered for sale after the concert for $3 each.

Carol Davis and Georgia Theophelis are co-chairing the event. Assisting them are Judy Morgan, Elaine Kirchgatter and Cindy Merrifield, tickets; Peggy Lee and Ann Shearer, refreshments; Ruth McMahon and Carole Brandt, publicity; Dee Crawford and Judy Dow, posters; Charlotte Viculin and Mary Kehoe, decorations; Carol Massey and Carolyn Kocis, set-up; and Dee Crawford and Lee Hosey, program.

The committee crafted two huge flower and ribbon-bedecked faux chandeliers. These will be hung at each end of the room. Charlotte Viculin painted the Viennese scenes which will add to the illusion of an "Evening in Vienna."

VAN DER MERWE has chosen a trio of exceptional artists to perform as soloists.

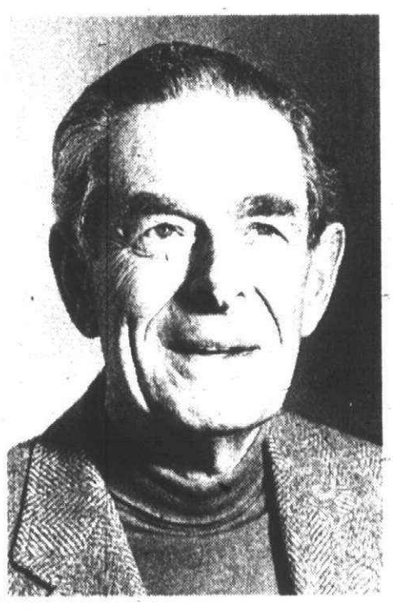

John McCollum, lyric tenor of the operatic stage, has performed with every major symphony in North America and most concert organizations and music festivals. In addition to being a leading tenor with the New York City Opera, he has sung leading roles on network television and has recorded for RCA, Columbia, Decca, Desto and Westminster.

McCollum was chairman of the Voice Faculty of the School of Music at the University of Michigan until his appointment as director of the University Division of the National Music Camp at Interlochen.

At the pops concert, he will sing "Waltz Dream" by Oscar Strauss, and Serenade from "The Student Prince" by Romberg. He will join the the other solists in the finale from "Die Fledermaus" by J. Strauss.

CONSTANCE BARRON's debut on Manhattan's cabaret circuit was greeted with rave reviews.

She was credited with "bringing something totally new to a highly competitive, often repetitive industry," according to one review. "It was in the person of Constance Carron, a young, highly talented singer. A most attractive person, sometimes suggesting Audrey Hepburn as she moves her lithe body through a widely varied, fascinating series of medleys and singles. Her lyric soprano voice has the ability to move rapidly, dropping to a caress note there, soaring to take the roof off the house, all carefully planned and professionally calculated."

Ralph Herbert
baritone

Miss Carron is now a doctoral student in voice at the University of Michigan.

She will sing "Vilia" and, with McCollum, Kom' in den Kleinen Paviljon from Lehar's "Merry Widow."

She will duo with Ralph Herbert in Kalman's Komm' mit nach Varazdin from the "Countess Maritza." Miss Barron will return for the Finale from Die Fledermaus.

When she sang at the Leonard Bernstein Festival of American Music at the University of Massachusetts, the Boston Globe's reviewer said of Constance Barron: "She outsang Barbara Cook in Cunegonde's "Glitter and be Gay,' and if people still wrote musicals for performers who can sing and dance, Barron would be on her way to superstardom. She's the best thing to come along since Susan Watson."

Constance Barron
soprano

RALPH HERBERT, who sang in the orchestra's performance of "Elijah," will return for the pops concert.

The Viennese-born baritone is professor of voice and director of opera production at the University of Michigan School of Music. He has appeared and directed with major opera companies in the United States, including the New York Metropolitan.

Herbert will add an authentic Viennese touch to the pops concert when he sings Komm' Czigam from Kalman's "Countess Maritza," "Ich mocht' wieder mal in Grinzing sein" by Bentatzky, and "Kussen ist keine Sund" by Eyssler.

John McCollum
tenor

The pops concert will open and close with Johann Strauss.

"Radetzky March" will be the first number. Van der Merwe also has selected the Emperor Waltzes, "Thunder and Lightning Polka," "The Blue Danube Waltz," "Tales from the Vienna Woods," and the overture and finale from "Die Fledermaus."

All proceeds from the concert benefit the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra. Pioneer Middle School is on Ann Arbor Road between Canton Center and McClumpha Roads.

Future baseball stars begin play

Canton Chatter

By KATHY FREECE 981-2027

Dr. Gerald Ebmeyer and Larry Malek are out on the Canton fields five nights a week building the future stars of baseball.

The Sandy Koufax League has a demanding schedule from May until the playoffs in August. It is a travel team that encounters teams from Riverview, Livonia, Northville and Detroit proper. When high school ball stops in May, the interested players join this league to continue during the summer months the game they love.

Don Champagne sponsors this area's team. Craiger Precision Products supplies the funds for the team uniforms, umpire fees, bats, balls and other necessary gear. Each player purchases his own hat for a remembrance of the fun-filled year.

The Northwest Suburban Amateur Baseball League is for boys starting with 11 and 12 in the PeeWee Reese League, then on to 13 and 14-year-olds in Sandy Koufax, followed by 15 and 16-year-olds playing in the Mickey Mantle group, and ending up with 16 and up participating in Connie Mack games.

THIS SEASON has just begun with the selection of teams already decided. The diamonds in our area will be full until the national tournament in mid-August. A bid was entered last year and the playoffs will be at Canton Salem High School diamonds this season. Excitement is already high within the troops who are looking forward to a championship team right here at home.

The high level of competition cannot be compared to anything else happening at the community or the school level.

There usually are 50 to 60 teenagers trying for each team with only 15 players accepted. The teams do not stop at just practice. The constant need for funds for travel expenses, makes it necessary for all the teams to sponsor car washes, sell doughnuts and anything else they can think of to ease the heavy burden on the parents.

EBMEYER and Malek started out four years ago as parents in the bleachers. The enthusiasm crept into their bones and ever since then both men have been active members of the federation. Dealing constantly with the frustrations of the players on the field keeps the interest ongoing for the betterment of every individual. The time that these two men put in does not stop with coaching. Attending clinics and keeping in close touch with Fred Crissey, the Plymouth Canton varsity coach, are considered a weekly routine.

Richard Ashton, Kenneth Shelton, Joseph Kidd, Jerry Pitcher, Chris Van Goss and Ernest Johnson are up to their ears all year long with the baseball teams.

Ivor James is the founder and only president of the federation. His vision of a working organization has come to light with the hard work and dedication of hundreds of men and women since 1972. James has been a major contributor to the growth of the American Amateur Baseball Congress and to the Baseball Federation in this area.

Several men from this area have gone on to play college and pro ball due to the quality of training at an early age.

JOE SOBDITCH, a neighbor, is a past coach of girls' and boys' baseball teams. Girls, traditionally, do not play hard ball. At the high school level, girls have stiff competition for slow and fast pitch softball. But, there is no interest for the female to enter the Amateur Baseball Federation.

Girls start playing softball in the third grade in school and parks and recreation leagues. Sobditch and I did not come up with a satisfactory answer to why there are no girls' leagues in the baseball congress. The dangers of injury is greater with hard ball, along with the faster pace at which the game is played.

The rules in women's basketball have changed drastically in recent years to correspond with the men's rules. Perhaps we will see some changes of this nature in baseball.

This was just some backyard chatter, but I am sure many issues such as this are discussed all across the country every day.

Uzarek-McKeon

Mrs. Venda Hunter of Canton Township and Gerald Uzarek of Royal Oak announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Janet Uzarek of Oak Park, to James Patrick McKeon of Livonia, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. McKeon of Monmouth Junction, N.J.

Her fiance earned a degree in mechanical engineering from Rutgers University in 1976 and is a design engineer with Ford Motor Company in Dearborn.

They plan a May wedding in Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church, Oak Park.

New center

Concern for bedwetters
—One of a series—
New hope for bedwetters.
Bedwetting is a problem — a serious problem — that many parents approach incorrectly. They restrict liquids. They wake the child during the night.
"Meanwhile, family relationships often suffer because of the problems bedwetting causes. And, in many cases, the child may not outgrow it."
Bedwetting is rarely caused by allergies, diseases, infections or emotional problems. Such problems, after all, cannot occur only at night as with bedwetting.
But bedwetting is correctable. Correctable in the home by parents who learn what they are dealing with and follow recommended corrective procedures.
A fine booklet on the subject is available free of charge to readers of this column from "Bedwetting is correctable . . ."
Enuresis Family Center, and is strongly recommended to those affected by the problem. Send your request to E.F.C., 23023 Orchard Lake Road (Bldg. F), Farmington, Michigan 48024.
Bedwetting called serious and harmful.
Bedwetting can often become a serious health problem. It confronts 17 million children and adults in the United States alone.
According to Dr. Joseph G. Molner, M.D., "The correction of bedwetting is an important mental health aid. It is very harmful to the child, distressing to parents and can lead to serious complications later in life."
Enuresis specialist Dr. Dennis L. Hunter agrees with Dr. Molner. He explained that the child is actually in a very deep sleep when bedwetting occurs. A parent's failure to bed-train the child is as serious as lack of toilet-training. The emotional damage that can accompany "waiting it out" makes such advice a risky gamble.

Roadside market guide available for Michigan

The 1981 edition of Michigan Country Carousel, a guide to pick-your-own farms and roadside markets throughout the state, published by the Michigan Department of Agriculture, is now available.

Country Carousel lists more than 1,000 farms and markets in alphabetical order by county, according to Dean M. Pridgeon, MDA director. It gives name, address, directions for driving to the farm and a list of produce available.

"If you've never experienced the joy of seeing how fruits and vegetables are grown and harvested, this booklet is for you. Even if you've been picking your own for years, it's a valuable guide," said Pridgeon.

"Phone numbers also are listed, and it's wise call ahead. Sometimes ripe produce has been harvested, and it may be a few days before more of the crop has matured and is ready to pick."

THE BOOKLET'S four-color cover features some of the state's commercial food crops and carries the department's promotion theme, "Good things growing in Michigan."

Copies of Country Carousel are available without cost from MDA's Communications Office, PO Box 30017, Lansing 48909. Or telephone (517)373-1104. It is also available at highway information centers, AAA branch offices and from Michigan Travel Bureau.

Micronesia is their mission

By Margaret Miller
staff writer

There's half a world between Bethel Baptist Temple of Livonia and Hawaii and Micronesia.

But the thousands of miles shrink a bit when you look backwards and forwards in the life of Stephen George Leathley, a young man who grew up in Livonia and now is headquartering here while he prepares for missionary work in the islands of the Pacific.

Leathley expects to head southwest with his wife Pam and their small daughter Kristina Lynne as soon as he can raise the support he needs through visits to Baptist churches in Michigan and Ohio. He began that project last January and figures it will take about a year.

But the unusual story of his decision for mission work began a lot of years earlier.

He didn't attend church much after age 6, Leathley remembers, and didn't even go when Bethel Baptist was established in this area nearly a decade ago.

But after graduating from Clarenceville High School in 1974, he enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps and found himself stationed on the island of Oahu in Hawaii. That was when he met the pastor of the Koolau Baptist Church at Kaoeho. He can't remember Rev. Murrow's first name, but he remembers very well the circumstances of their acquaintance.

"HE INVITED me to his church in June of 1975," said Leathley. "I went to church all day and there was a lot of preaching about hell. I was saved that night and started to go regularly."

It was at the mission church that he heard a missionary from Micronesia.

"I felt led to go there to save souls," he remembers.

But it would be a while before he could begin the work he had chosen. His tour of duty with the Marines had two years to run. When he was close to discharge, he asked Rev. Murrow about a church in the Livonia area, and that was when he first heard about Bethel Bapist Temple, which sent support to the Hawaiian mission.

Discharged from the Marines in September 1977, he returned to this area, joined Bethel and enrolled at Massillon Baptist College in Ohio. By the time he completed studies at Massillon, he had not only a degree in theology, but also some on-the-job training on the staff of Massillon Baptist Temple. He also had a wife who shares his vision of missionary work.

"Pam knew when we were dating that this is what I had my heart set on," he said. "She had gone to the college because she had surrendered herself to go into mission work. She didn't know where, and she felt that meeting me was the Lord's way of telling her."

CURRENTLY, THEY are busy with "deputation," which involves visiting churches and gaining their support. They need to have enough money to travel the 3,000 miles to the mission at Isamo-Welles in Micronesia, and they need to have enough pledges of support to cover their expenses while they train and then start working with the people.

"We'll work at the mission there for a year, to learn the area and the language," Leathley said. "Then we will see what the Lord wants us to do. We plan to make Micronesia our home and do our work there. Unless the Lord changes his mind, that's where we'll be."

The Rev. H.L. Petty, Bethel pastor, is impressed by the turn of fate that is helping his church send out this missionary family.

"It is interesting to note," he said, "that a church, Bethel, went halfway around the world to reach a young man who lived less than two miles from that church. Now that young man is going halfway around the world, from that church, to win others to Jesus Christ."

There is no limit to God's wisdom; no limit to His power, His mercy, His love. There is no limit to God.

moral perspectives

Rev. Charles Erickson

The goals are right; the policies wrong

When I was 8 years old I saw hungry people standing in bread lines. I asked why they didn't move to rural areas and raise their own food. When I began to understand urbanization I became convinced population control is essential.

By the time I was 16, I was the pride of my community because working two full-time summer jobs enabled me to save college tuition money. When I learned about economic recovery I found that I benefited from vast military expenditures and became convinced a moral economy must be rooted in the pursuit of peace.

When I was 18 I was in a military uniform I proudly wore for three years. When we looked from our ship in Tokyo Bay to a Russian ship we asked ourselves how soon we would be fighting them. Then the United Nations was born, and I became convinced we must see ourselves as world citizens first and proud nationals second.

THESE PIECES of my personal story color my perception of current news. I shudder with reports of violence and terrorism, and my early conviction about population control connects with studies of animals showing that crowding produces self destructive aggressiveness.

Or I feel pleased that there are no bread lines and soup kitchens even though every administration finds the welfare system a mess. Now retreat from the mess and abuse leads to simply eliminating programs.

The Focus: Hope documentary on hunger called "Broken Promise" revealed that dignity is not a political priority. My early conviction about a healthy economy connects with the moral truth that if we don't respect others we won't respect ourselves.

Or I hear national leaders encouraging hate and fear in relation to the Soviets. The unthinkable nuclear war is in the thinking of planners. We are given evidence that modern armaments can destroy everything in hundreds of square miles and then a proposal to run armaments around tracks so the Russians won't know which storage shed to destroy. My conviction that we are all fellow citizens on a small and fragile planet connects with studies showing decisions made on the basis of fear or hate are self-destructive.

ESCALATION of our national debt, rampant inflation and crushing unemployment must be stopped. National strength must include defense. The question is how to stop problems and create strength.

The source of strength is self confidence, a nation of proud people. Our moral strength lies in being responsible in allocating resources so human needs are met. The source of weakness is dehumanizing fear and hate.

It has been estimated that $17 billion a year would provide adequate food, water, education, health and housing for everyone in the world. That is less money than simply the planned increase in our defense budget. We must question our priorities.

I am not as old as our president, but my memory vibrated with his as his inaugural address described a grand America.

That grand America had elbow room because there were fewer of us: Population control is a rational goal. That America gave economic hope: A sound currency where savings are meaningful is a rational goal. That America gave dignity: Jobs for all who can work and kindly care of those who cannot is a rational goal. That America enjoyed peace: balancing defense spending with money for human services is a rational goal.

MY PERSONAL STORY includes memories of Japan and Germany bent on destruction while America and Russia were allies pursuing peace. Today the economy and services in Japan and Germany are healthy while Americans and Russians deprive citizens of opportunity for dignity.

The consequences of current priorities raise serious question about the morality of current national policies.

Brophy sets school record in 880

Rock girls shine at Mangan

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Everyone knew how strong the Plymouth Salem boys' track team was after winning the Observerland Relays convincingly last Saturday.

The Salem girls, however, also proved they could put on an impressive show by defeating rival Plymouth Canton in the rain-delayed Mangan Relays on Monday night 92-31 in a duel that was expected to be much closer.

The Salem boys beat Canton 96-36.

"It was a great meet," Salem girls' coach Scott Kurtz said. "It was just tremendous. It was by far our best dual meet of the season."

Only 10 points separated the two girls' teams last year with virtually the same casts returning this spring.

"Some of our efforts were the best of the season," Canton coach Bob Richardson said. "I was happy with the times, but I know the girls are disappointed.

"A loss like this in the long run will help us. This put us back in the world of reality. We have another tough meet coming up with Churchill on Thursday."

The lady Rocks swept four events, handing archrival Canton its first dual defeat.

Freshman Dawn Johnson set a Salem freshman record by winning the 100-yard dash in 12.01. Teammates Kelly Bemiss and Linda Lybarger were second and third, respectively.

Cindy McSurely, a sophomore, led a Salem sweep in the high jump with a leap of 5-0, a season best. Sue Roach and Jeanine Gray tied for second at 4-10.

Bemiss, also a freshman, won the long jump at 15-9½. Johnson (15-8) was second.

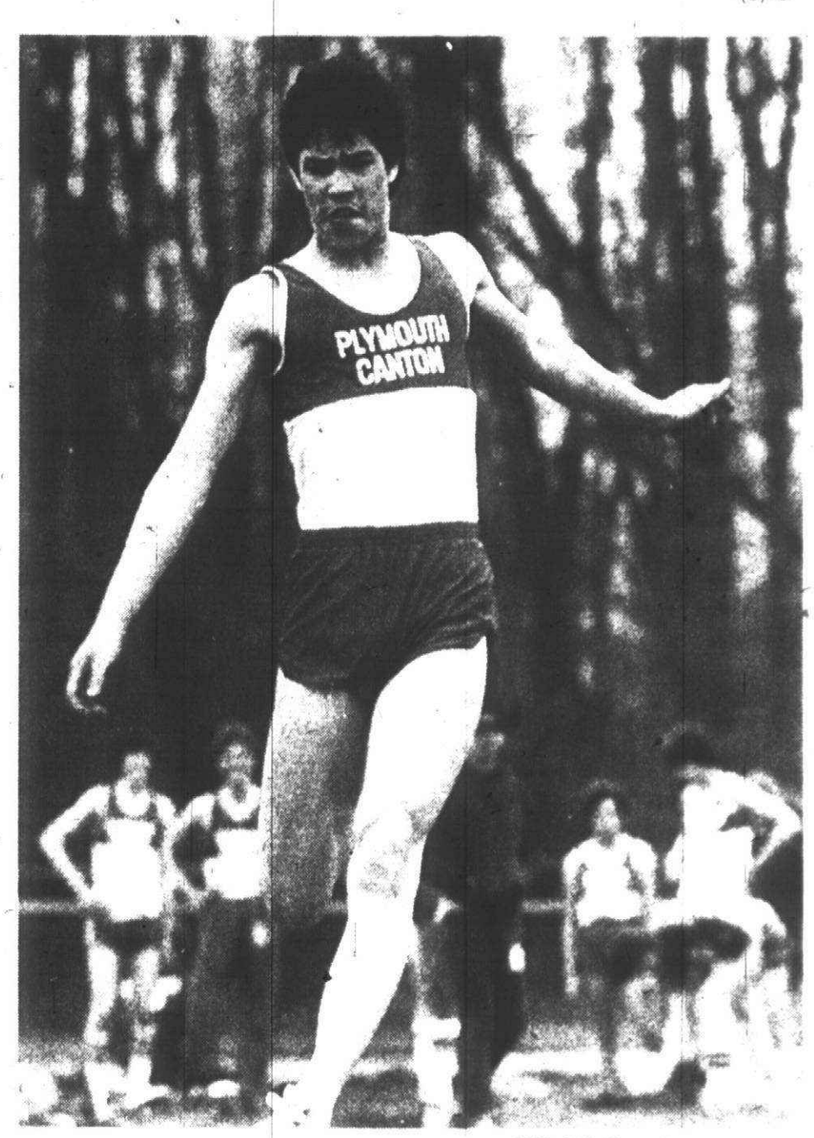

SALEM'S FOURSOME of Gray, Beth Moskal, Bemiss and Johnson won the 440 relay with a season best of 52.8.

Canton's Kathy Brophy, a senior, set a school record in the 880 run with a time of 2:27.8. Teammate Michelle Perrot was first in the mile (6:08.6) and second behind Salem's Ruth Sample in the two mile.

Canton's only other individual winner was Lisa Bundarin in the shot put. The Chiefs also won the mile relay after Salem was disqualified.

Salem's boys managed some impressive performances with senior Brian Lewandowski winning the 120 high hurdles in 15.7. Teammate

Frank Asis of Canton captured the long jump with a season best of 19-6. Salem, champs of the Observerland Relays last weekend, racked up 96 points against the Chiefs.

Sovine no-hits Harrison batters

Junior pitcher Cindy Sovine tossed a no-hitter as Plymouth Canton downed Farmington Harrison 6-0 in a Western Six League softball game Monday.

It was Canton's third straight league win without a loss.

Sovine struck out six and walked seven in blanking the Hawks.

"She was throwing the best she's thrown this year," said Canton coach Max Sommerville, assessing Sovine's performance. "She didn't get anybody out against Warren (7-1 loss Saturday), but didn't look that bad.

"Today she came back and pitched a good game."

Despite leaving numerous runners on base, Canton scored six runs and collected 11 hits.

The Chiefs' last run came in the sixth inning when Robyn Hudgins belted a solo homer, her second of the year.

Joni Sommerville, Marianne Pink and Marie Krashovetz each had two hits for the winners.

WARREN COUSINO 4-7
CANTON 1-1

Perennial Class A state power Warren Cousino took advantage of three Canton errors to win the opener 4-1.

The Patriots also captured the second game 7-1.

In the first game, Canton took a 1-0 lead in the first on a walk to Sommerville and a double by Krashovetz.

That one-run advantage held up until the fifth when Cousino tallied an unearned run off Pink, Canton's starting pitcher. The Patriots then tallied three runs in the sixth with the help of two Chief miscues.

"We had them hanging but we let them off the hook," said the Canton coach. "I thought Marianne pitched a super game."

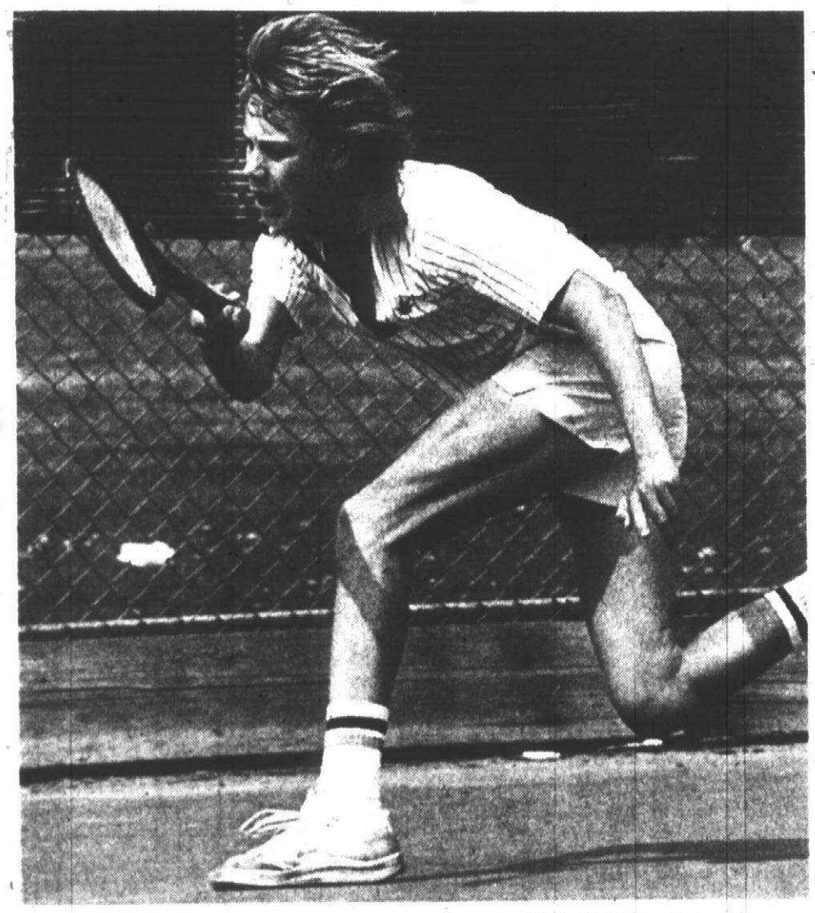

The Canton senior allowed five hits, fanned six and did not walk anyone. Her counterpart, Amy Gentry, was equally as impressive. She struck out 10 Canton batters and gave up just three hits.

"She (Gentry) had excellent control," said Sommerville. "She was probably faster than any other pitcher we've faced."

Cousino remained unbeaten with a six-run victory in the second game.

The Chiefs scored their only run in the fourth when Pink tripled and scored on Krashovetz' sacrifice fly.

Sovine was the starting and losing pitcher for Canton. She faced only five batters and allowed three runs on four hits. Pearly Cunningham pitched the final six innings.

Kreg Kinnel stretches for a forehand shot in his match Monday against Harrison's Adam Gordon. Canton's No. 1 singles player, Kinnel lost his first match of the year.

Canton netters fall in league showdown

Plymouth Canton boys' tennis coach Jim Hayes is thinking about lineup changes after Monday's 5-2 loss to Western Six League leader Farmington Harrison.

It was the Chiefs' first loss of the year in five tries. Harrison is unbeaten in four league matches.

"We're going to spend a little time in doubles this week," said Hayes, now in his eighth varsity season. "We may fudge around a little bit."

Canton tallied its only two points at No. 2 and 3 singles.

Senior Kevin Johnston (No. 2) downed Harrison's Dave Brady in a tough match 7-5, 6-4. Teammate Bob Adams (No. 3) was also extended. He downed Evan Hughes 7-6, 6-2.

At No. 1 singles, sophomore Adam Gordon established himself as the league's top player with a 6-2, 6-3 triumph over Canton senior Kreg Kinnel.

In the longest match of the day, Harrison's Raffi Manovkian defeated Tom Pasley at No. 4 singles 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Harrison dominated the doubles with Andre Burk and Mike Corey (No. 1) scoring an impressive 6-0, 6-1 win over Grant Crago and Mark Sawyer.

Jody Bhagen and Mike Lessins (No. 2) had little trouble with Ron Austen and Rubin Rabillas 6-3, 6-3.

At No. 3 doubles, John Scanonelli and Rob Shapiro beat John Hurley and Ray Lademan of Canton 6-3, 6-2.

Leigh Langkabel sprints ahead after getting the baton in the 880-yard relay in the Mangan Relays. The Salem senior was clocked in 51.5 in the open 440.

Seasonal bests set at 4-way track tilt

Scott Bublin, who won the 220, was second in 15.8.

BOB PITTAWAY also had quite a day.

The Salem senior won the discus (160-6½), 100 dash (10.5) and placed second in the 440 behind teammate Leigh Langkabel.

He was also on two winning relay squads, but had to forfeit one victory when it was discovered that he had competed in five events, one over the allowable limit. Subsequently, Salem was disqualified in the mile relay because it was Pittaway's fifth and final entry.

In that same relay, Canton turned in a team best of 3:32.3.

Individually, Canton's Dan Malin won the high jump (6-0) and teammate Frank Asis captured the long jump (19-6).

In a mild surprise, freshman Brian Jones of Canton captured the two-mile run in 10:18.2.

"I've never seen a freshman run that fast," Canton coach Mike Spitz said. "He ran just an outstanding race.

"We had some good performances. Our 880 and 440 relay teams also had their best times of the year."

Pitchers hold off Redford Union

Salem sweeps double-header

Plymouth Salem passed the .500 mark with a pair of victories Saturday over non-league baseball foe Redford Union.

The Rocks won the opener 6-4 and raised their season record to 9-8 with a 13-5 victory in the nightcap.

Salem coach Brian Gilles credited pitching as the determining factor in the sweep.

"When you get a good pitching performance," Gilles said. "You can win."

In the first game, Ken Vermeulen and John McDowell combined on a four-hitter to give Salem the win.

Vermeulen, a junior, pitched the first 3⅔ innings. McDowell came on in the fourth and squelched a RU rally. He hurled 3⅓ innings of no-hit, no-run ball.

"John kept the ball down and threw hard," said the Salem coach. "He did a super job for us."

Trailing 4-2 in the bottom of the fourth inning, Salem exploded for three runs.

Greg Etienne led off with a single and went to third on Joe Humphries' double. Etienne scored on John Hetkowski's double. He and Humphries came home on Jeff Hubert's double.

Hsiao Peng walked and later scored on Hetkowski's ground out in the second inning to give Salem its first run.

In the third inning, Mitch Wilcox walked, was sacrificed to second on a bunt by Mickey Madsen, and came home on Dave Slavin's triple.

The Rocks added an insurance run in the sixth when Wilcox doubled and scored on Kevin Merrill's single.

Rob Zojac, the RU starting pitcher, suffered the loss.

IN THE SECOND GAME, senior John Penders made his first start of the year a successful one as he held RU to four hits and five runs in 6⅓ innings of work. He got relief help in the seventh from Jim Jimmerson, who ended the game by getting the hitter to bat into a double play.

John Utych, who started for RU and worked the first four innings, took the loss.

"Penders looked good," said Gilles. "He sailed right along until the seventh. I think he got a little tired."

Salem led 13-0 after five innings, tallying six of those runs in the fourth.

Peng, who had two hits, belted a solo homer to lead off the fourth inning.

Sophomore Mickey Madsen also had two hits and three RBIs. Slavin socked two doubles as Salem mounted an 11-hit assault.

Rocco Rucinski and Rob Klipple each collected two hits for RU, now 2-4 overall.

Weary track teams leg another event

A tired Plymouth Canton boys' track team gathered up enough strength to beat Livonia Bentley Tuesday afternoon 73-59.

It was the Chiefs' third dual meet win of the year against two defeats.

"I just told the guys to do what they could," said Canton coach Mike Spitz. "I was pleased. Four meets in six days is rough on anybody."

Sophomore Ron Rienas tied a Canton season best in the high jump with a leap of 6 feet.

Other Canton firsts were recorded by Frank Asis, long jump, 18-11¼; Anton Ivezaj, shot put, 40-0; and Dan Inloes, 800 meter run, 2:04.0.

Bentley's Craig Allan and Dave Johnson each won two events.

Allan, a long distance runner, outdueled Canton's Dennis Simms in the 400 meter dash. Allan was clocked in a 51.6. Simms came in at 52.1. Allan also won the 3200 meter run with a time of 10:20.0.

Johnson captured first in the 100 meters (11.2) and 200 meters (23.3).

The Chiefs crossed home first in the 800 meter relay with a time of 1:35.1. That team consisted of Mark Ritchey, Scott Brookhouse, Mark Kowalczyk and Ken Jayroe.

Canton also won the final event, the 1600 meter relay, in 3:42.8. Jayroe, Kowalczyk, Jay Malin and Simms were members of the winning Chief quartet.

BELLEVILLE 81
SALEM 55

An exhausted Plymouth Salem boys' team also felt the effects of four meets in six days.

Suburban Eight League contender Belleville ambushed the Rocks Tuesday afternoon 81-55 as Keith Gates won the 100 dash (10.56) and 220 (23.05).

"I think we were a little leg weary," said Salem coach Gary Balconi. "Some had run as many as 13 races in three days."

First place finishers for the Rocks included Bob Pittaway, discus, 153-0; Scott Raymer, high jump, 6-0; Dave Skone, pole vault, 12-0; Rich Hanschu, shot put, 44-8; Langkabel, 440 dash, 51.39; Steve Schafer, 330 hurdles, 41.39; Mike McBride, 880 run, 2:01.99.

Mike Sharp, Schafer, Bill Newland and McBride combined for first place in the mile relay.

The Rocks, who won the Observerland Relays title Saturday and beat Canton in a dual meet Monday, will compete next in the Livonia Stevenson Invitational beginning at 5 p.m. Friday with the field events.

Huge tourney kicks off

A bowling tournament so large that the qualifying rounds have to be held in 24 establishments will get under way in the Detroit area within the next week.

It is the annual Champion of Champions Tournament that was the brainchild of the late Fred Clements and is sponsored by the Bowling Proprietors Association of Greater Detroit.

Under the tournament format, the top three teams in each sanctioned leagues are eligible and the proprietors pay the entry fee for the third team after the first two are entered.

The entry is expected to run into more than 2,000 teams and the top prize is $15,000.

Area houses that stage the qualifying rounds are Garden Lanes, Farmington Lanes, Southfield Bowl and Drakeshire Lanes. The finals will be held June 18 at Thuderbowl.

BILLY GOLEMBIEWSKI, the thin man from Grand Rapids who came to Detroit several decades ago to earn a high place in bowling, now has been named for a new honor.

He is one of the athletes who will be inducted into the National Polish Hall of Fame on June 4. The others to be honod are Steve Gromek, former Tiger pitcher, and Frank Parker, noted tennis player.

HIGH SCORES continued in the Bel-Aire Classic last week with three new members being inducted into the 700 club.

Heading the list was Larry Franz with a 748 gained on games of 278, 232 and 238.

Next in line came Dave Jackson with 740 that included a 252 middle game, and Dave Kaliszewski with a 266 opener that paved the way for a 706 series.

THE MEN'S summer league at Westland Bowl got away to a good start with a deadlock for first place on opening night.

Terry Early and Brian Larkins each posted 606 to share the lead. Early did it the hard way; he opened with a 246 and then had trouble getting his 606 series.

Meanwhile, Bob Goike's team captured the title in the Mixed Classic with one of the highest averages in the city, though the official figures will not be out for a week.

RICKY GREEN will long remember his big moment in the Junior House League at Super Bowl. He ran up 10 strikes and was headed for a perfect game. Then, on his final ball, the No. 10 pin wobbled but wouldn't fall. He had to settle for 299 and 693.

His closest rival was Mike Smith, a 254 in 648.

In the Ladies Super Stars loop, Marg Hansen set the pace with a 604 made possible by a 226 opener.

Edgar Arena to host boxing show

By By Scott Soucy
special writer

An amateur boxing show, which will feature some of the best young athletes from the Livonia Boxing Club and Crowell Recreation Center of Detroit, will be held Saturday at Edgar Arena in Livonia.

The 17-bout card will begin at 8 p.m. General admission is $5. Edgar Arena is located in the Ford Field complex, Farmington at Lyndon.

The main event will showcase Vince Hopper, from Livonia, against Hulond Copeland, from Detroit Johnson Recreation, in a light-heavyweight division bout.

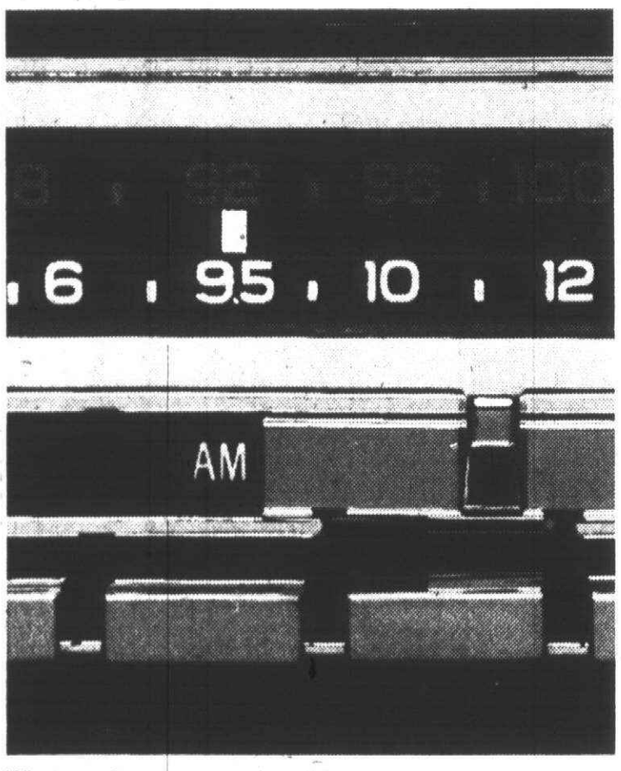

Hopper was the Michigan AAU champion in the sub-novice light heavyweight division in 1979. Copeland is the current Michigan AAU titlist in the open light heavyweight division.

Another featured bout will have Brett Lally, from the Livonia Club and 1980 Detroit Golden Gloves novice bantamweight champ, boxing against Wayne Robinson, from Detroit's Wheeler Recreation Center.

In the light middleweight division, Livonia's Steve Darnell will face Romall Pruitt, from Johnson Recreation.

Darnell is the 1981 Detroit Golden Gloves novice welterweight titlist. Pruitt was a finalist in this year's state AAU.

Plymouth Canton clubs Hawks in laugher, 19-1

The baseball showdown for supremacy in the Western Six League turned out to be a big bust — mainly for Farmington Harrison.

Plymouth Canton established itself once again as the league favorite, drubbing previously unbeaten Farmington Harrison on Monday afternoon 19-1.

"We hit the ball like crazy," Canton coach Fred Crissey said. "The kids really came ready to play."

The Chiefs, 11-2 overall and 3-0 in the league, routed Harrison starting pitcher John Recker, who the week before no-hit Livonia Churchill.

Canton mounted an 18-hit attack and sent three homers over the fence in the onslaught.

Harrison, meanwhile, managed only two hits as Canton pitcher Danny Smith raised his record to 6-0.

The junior right-hander struck out nine and went three for three, including two homers. He allowed Harrison's only run in the sixth when Recker smashed a homer.

Catcher Billy Hanis also got into the act as he ripped a grand slam in Canton's seven-run first inning.

"We're pleased to be hitting the ball again," Crissey said. "In a couple games last week we didn't, but overall we've hit relatively consistently."

Senior first baseman Jeff Stemberger also went three for three. Keith Stone and Fred Rumberger chipped in with two hits apiece.

The Chiefs also played flawlessly in the field. They were not charged with a single error.

CANTON 7-2
SOUTH BEND CLAY 3-9

The Chiefs traveled on Saturday to Notre Dame country and came out with a split against the Hoosier sluggers.

Canton won the opener 7-3 as senior hurler Dave Malek scattered eight hits in seven complete innings. He struck out six and walked two in lifting his season record to 2-1.

Shortstop Steve Schumacher went three for four and had two RBIs. Stemberger added two hits and three RBIs.

Clay, a third-place finisher in the Indiana state tourney last year, rallied to win the second game 9-2.

Belleville runners trip Salem girls

Belleville surprised Plymouth Salem Tuesday in a Suburban Eight League girls' track meet 69-54.

The victorious Tigers swept all three relays and won seven of 12 individual events.

Salem coach Scott Kurtz experimented with his lineup against Belleville because his team had competed in a meet just 18 hours earlier versus rival Plymouth Canton in the Mangan Relays.

"We were a little slow today," Kurtz said. "We were coming off an emotional high after beating Canton. I didn't let anyone run more than three events.

"I gave them the opportunity to run in races they don't normally run in."

The loss dropped Salem to 3-3 overall in dual meets. The Rocks are 2-2 in the league.

Freshman Dawn Johnson had an outstanding day despite her team's loss. She set a school record in the long jump with a leap of 16-feet-7-inches and finished first in the 100-yard dash with a time of 12.2.

Other Salem first place finishers included Sue Roach, high jump, 4-8; Lori Grissom, 880 yard run, 2:41.4; and Ruth Sample, two mile run, 13:32.0.

Salem second place finishers included Karen Tanski, discus, 87-0; Sherry Muneio, shot put, 26-6; Cindy McSurely, 110 hurdles, 17.2, and 220 hurdles, 34.1; Kelly Bemiss, 220 dash, 27.8

Thurston dumps Salem in softball

Redford Thurston held off a seventh-inning rally by Plymouth Salem to post a 9-7 non-league softball win on Monday afternoon.

Salem stranded runners on second and third base in the bottom of the seventh as Thurston pitcher Sandy Nisson notched the win.

Leslie Etienne, who went all seven innings for Salem, suffered the loss. She walked 12 and allowed five of the nine Thurston runs in the first inning.

"We hit the ball a lot better today, but we gave them too many base runners," said Salem first-year coach Rob Willette.

The Rocks, now 4-5 overall, collected eight hits off Nisson, who walked two and struck out one.

Track invites slated

Some of the best teams from the area and from around the state will compete in a pair of track and field meets this weekend at Livonia Stevenson.

Fifteen boys teams will convene at 5 p.m. Friday for the Stevenson Invitational.

All five field events will be contested for individual honors. The running events, most of which are relays, will get off at 7:30 p.m.

The field includes Livonia Churchill, Livonia Franklin, Livonia Bentley, Stevenson, Plymouth Salem — which won the Observerland Relays last weekend — and Redford Bishop Borgess.

Also adding flavor to the field will be Ann Arbor Pioneer, Ann Arbor Huron, Brighton, Clarkston, Highland Park, Dearborn Fordson, Belleville, Inkster Cherry Hill and Walled Lake Western.

Admission is $1.50.

SEVENTEEN girls' squads will take to the track 10 a.m. Saturday for the field-events portion of the fifth annual Honorary Relays.

The relays this year are named in honor of Dorothy Bentley.

Currently the principal at Stevenson, Bentley has also served on the Representative Council of the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

The running events will get started at 1 p.m.

All events at the honorary relays will be contested as relays.

Area teams which will compete are Westland John Glenn, Garden City West, Redford Union, Plymouth Salem, Redford Bishop Borgess, Livonia Bentley, Livonia Churchill, Livonia Franklin and Stevenson.

Fun predominates at show 'Li'l Abner'

By Dan Greenberg
special writer,

The Garden City Civic Theatre production of Panama and Frank's "Li'l Abner" was rollicking good fun.

The Civic Theatre deserves plaudits for its colorful and rhythmic staging of this elaborate musical last week at the E.J. O'Leary Performing Arts Center in Garden City.

A major production requires a major production team, and the Civic Theatre group certainly qualifies. Producer Ron Mack, director Dianne Bernick, musical director David Pulice, choreographer Michael Gauvin (who doesn't hoof badly himself) and assistant director Debra Barsamian with their assembled crews presented an exciting and enjoyable evening.

Song and dance are the most obvious characteristics of the Broadway musical, and the Civic Theatre's production abounded with joyful hoofing and singing.

review

THE CHORUS and dancers, too numerous to mention, musical director Pulice and choreographer Gauvin deserve highest praise. The expressive qualities they exhibited made the evening pleasant.

Of special note was the very funny clowning and dancing of Lynn Walker in a double role as one of Li'l Abner's cronies and as Dr. Schliefitz. His talent and obvious pleasure on stage were quickly communicated to the audience.

Far and away the most polished performances were delivered by the four wives of the Yokumberry Tonic Testees. Michele Devins, Nancy Dubay, Marie Mack and Karen Moody stopped the show with their rendition of "Put Em Back the Way They Was." Their dancing and singing was very professional, the high point of the evening.

The show's lovely lead, Daisy Mae, played very competently by Cindy Gonzales, carried a great deal of the evening with her polished, professional voice. Her stage presence, vocal quality and attractive demeanor were a real plus for this production, which generally suffered from weak lead performances.

While very energetic, the Yokum family tended to posture and strut too much. They overdid the show's cartoon qualities. It became uncomfortable as the Yokums, especially Mammy, strutted around arthritically. Apparently it was contagious, for soon everyone was doing it, even the Government Man from Washington. Clearly unnecessary.

WITH THE exception of Daisy Mae, the show's leads lacked vocal volume and projection, often getting lost in the chorus and not even doing very well against the neat, but small three-piece orchestra. Their vocal volume failed to carry the evening as it should have done in a show like "Li'l Abner."

In mounting any production, the director needs to be mindful of timing and timeliness. Here the production fell short of the mark. Numerous references to the '50s' preoccupation with loyalty fell on deaf ears. Predating that, who really remembers Mary Miles Mintner?

So much for timeliness. Timing is another problem.

Soloist

Soprano Constance Barron is one of the guest solists Saturday evening in the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's 25th annual pops concert. Conductor Johan van der Merwe has chosen "Evening in Vienna" as the theme for the concert, which begins at 8 p.m. in Pioneer Middle School, Ann Arbor Road, between Canton Center and McClumpha roads. Admission will be $4 for adults and $3 for senior citizens and students K-12. This includes beverage and dessert at the cabaret-style concert.

Spanish extravaganza ends '81 Oakway season

Barbara Windham
mezzo-soprano

Oakway Symphony's concluding concert of its 1981 season will be a Spanish event featuring the Maria Del Carmen Dance Company and mezzo-soprano Barbara Windham at Madonna College (Jeffries, I-96, and Levan) at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Maria Del Carmen, a New York native, is a resident of Garden City. She began her career at 13 and includes within her performance portfolio appearances at the Spanish Embassy in Washington, D.C., and numerous international performances, as well as a solo performance for the Ambassador of Brazil.

She teaches at the American Dance Academy and is chairman for the Latin-American Fesitval, one of Detroit's ethnic festivals. Her company of 14 dancers includes Gabriel El Jarra, who has appeared in other Oakway presentations.

Barbara Windham has made numerous appearances with the Detroit, Miami and Toledo symphonies. For the last two seasons, she has performed at Meadow Brook Music Festival and is scheduled to appear there again this summer.

concerts

ADDITIONALLY, she has performed at several of the Brunch with Bach series at the Detroit Institute of Arts. She also has performed "Elektra" with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Under the batons of Francesco Di Blasi and guest conductor Sister M. Francilene Van de Vyver, president of Madonna College, the artists will present a program drawn exclusively from Spanish composers which will include Texidor's "Amparito Roca," Lecuona's "Malaguena" and Bizet's "Gypsy Song" from "Carmen," and will conclude with Lara's "Granada."

For this concert only, due to sponsorship of Madonna College and special support from the Michigan Council for the Arts, the price of adult tickets is $2; student and senior citizens are $1.

Tickets are available at the door. Tickets also may be purchased at Madonna College and Hammell Music in Livonia.

Piano ensemble to honor mothers

Some 200 piano students from metropolitan Detroit will honor Mom on her special day with a piano ensemble concert entitled "A Tribute to Mother" at 3 p.m. Sunday in Varner Recital Hall on the Oakland University campus near Rochester.

The concert is open to the public without charge. Area residents who will participate in the festival include teacher Lynda St. John of Canton and students Ken and Patty St. John, Rod and Ronda Emery and Jennifer Hawkins, all of Canton; Andrea and Nathan Brush, Debbie and Jamie Royston, Amy Keith, Regenia Wallace, Marc Headapohl and Lisa Austin, all of Plymouth; Pam Walter of Livonia, and Bonnie Elbert of Westland. The stage set will resemble that of a symphony orchestra but instead of the familiar assortment of winds, brass and strings, 16 console pianos with as many as 32 young pianists will be following the conductor's every move.

Eight different groups of students, ranging in age from 5-18 years of age, will perform piano duets from classic literature to the more contemporary and easy listening.

THE EVENT which offers piano students the rare opportunity to play in a large ensemble takes place in just a few cities in the United States each year.

The ensembles will be under the direction of Dr. Robert Pace, professor of music and music education at Teacher's College, Columbia University. In addition to being an internationally known pianist, composer, conductor and teacher, Dr. Pace serves as the executive director of the International Piano Teaching Foundation.

Dr. Pace also will conduct a student master class Friday at OU. Both the concert and the master class are sponsored by the Detroit Area Pacesetters, a group of 20 piano teachers who offer Robert Pace's Contemporary Group Piano Course to their students of all ages.

Training sessions are offered on a regular basis to teachers interested in the group approach to piano.

backgammon

Michael Kloian
of the American Backgammon Club

● AVOID THE INEVITABLE

This situation occured during a 15-point match at the 1981 Boston Symphony Orchestra Black and White Classic backgammon tournament.

White is trailing in the match, 14-13. Having won one point in the previous game (under the Crawford Rule), white doubled the cube the first chance this game to put himself within match victory should he win. Since black needs one point to win, gammons, backgammons and the doubling cube are irrelevant.

White rolls a 3-2 in this position. Since the 3 is a forced move, what is your suggested move for the 2 roll?

Many players would bear off a checker from the 2 point. Leaving four remaining checkers and a 2 shot is not altogether bad. If black rolls a 2, the extra checker off could make a difference for white in a close bear-off. Also, if hit, white will not be able to leave any exposed blots since black has a closed board. By leaving black this two shot, there are 11 out of 36 ways to hit.

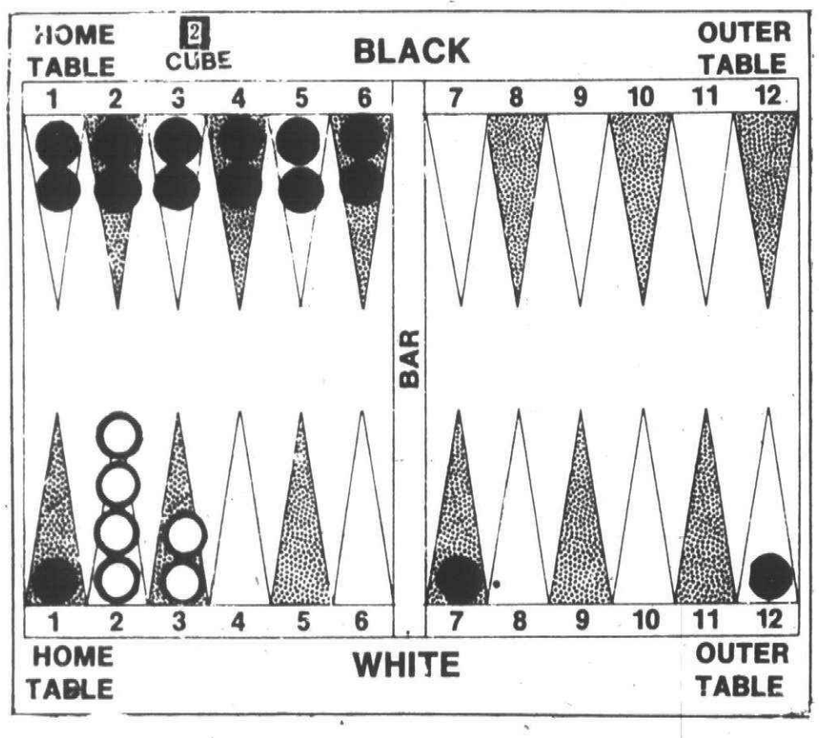

The only option is to hit black on the 1 point. This may seem rash at first, but overall it is best. White is still leaving black 11 out of 36 ways to hit. Also, if white is hit, he will not expose any more blots although he will have five checkers to bear off (three rolls) instead of four. But the most important consideration is that if white doesn't try to force black out behind him, black is going to remain on the 1 point until the very end and wait for a shot.

Black has excellent timing and can easily delay breaking his home board at least three rolls. White will bear off two checkers on his next roll and on the following roll. Or, worse yet, with three remaining checkers, white could roll any number with a 1 and be forced to leave a double shot. Excluding doubles, the single shot is inevitable. Also, the possibility of the double shot strongly exists.

Regardless of whether black rolls the perfect number to hit, white must avoid the unavoidable and attempt to rid himself of any trouble now by hitting black.

In tournament play, it is important to understand why a particular move may be correct at the moment and incorrect in other situations.

The American Backgammon Club will host a tournament at the Plymouth Hilton Inn in the near future. For more information, call 459-5776 or write to Box 599, Plymouth 48170.

Prince Street Players appearing at Youtheatre

Television's Prince Street Players have returned to Detroit Youtheatre's "Something Every Saturday" series to present "Jack and the Beanstalk" live on stage at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. (two shows) on Saturday and May 16 at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

General admission tickets at $2 each ($1.50 each in groups of 10 or more) are available at the art institute ticket office (832-2730) and at the door.

Adapting a favorite childhood classic, Prince Street's "Jack" serves up a human-sized, tap-dancing, golden-egg-yo-yo-twirling goose; a magical singing harp; a disco-waltzing cow and a menacing but heart-of-gold giant in this hour-long musical.

For more than a decade, the Emmy-Award-winning company has returned to perform its original musical productions for Youtheatre audiences, while maintaining a full schedule of playdates in communities across the country and on television.

THE TROUPE'S Detroit performances follow another tour of Michigan school locations as part of the art institute's "Show on the Road" touring program.

"Jack and the Beanstalk" is designed for families with young people 5 years and older. Children younger than 5 years will not be admitted.

For ticket information and a complete Detroit Youtheatre "Something Every Saturday" brochure, call the Detroit Institute of Arts ticket office.

Rural fair planned at village

The traditions of a 19th century rural American fair will be recreated at Greenfield Village's annual Country Fair from May 14-17 in Dearborn.

The Country Fair is four days of celebration with music, craft demonstrations, animal exhibits and steam engine operations. Each day will be highlighted with a parade through the village.

Musical entertainment will feature local school bands, the Early American String Band, the Detroit Brass Society, folksingers Gemini, Stoney Creek, the Cobblestone Farm Dancers and Ruffwater String Band and Country Dancers.

Crafts will include bee keeping, tole painting, kite building, sheep shearing, quilting and furniture construction. The Early Engine Club will demonstrate antique steam engines.

Farm animals, hobby and home activities will be on display.

second runs

Tom Panzenhagen

"Harper" (1966), 1 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 121 minutes.

Think of Paul Newman and you conjur blue eyes, good looks and sex appeal. Newman's versatility as an actor (and director), however, usually goes overlooked. From "Somebody Up There Likes Me" (1956) to "Buffalo Bill and the Indians" (1976), Newman has consistently displayed a knack for drama, satire, adventure and suspense. "Harper" is a detective story based on Ross MacDonalds's Lew Archer character. Newman makes the most of a lazy script; Lauran Bacall also stars. Rating: $2.75.

"Soylent Green" (1973), 11:45 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 7. Originally 100 minutes.

This movie is an embarrassment to science fiction fans. The story is set in a future when pollutants in the atmosphere have caused the temperature to rise. Such a rise would have melted the polar ice caps and flooded all costal cities, yet the movie is set in New York City. But what's a little inconsistency when Charlton Heston can destroy statues in a church (get the symbolism?). Edward G. Robinson also stars. Rating: 50 cents.

IRIS JONES

A flock of seagulls flutters on Riverfront Plaza, in front of the restored cotton warehouses that are now Savannah's main tourist attraction.

Savannah

In a town designed for carriages, the Southern pace still runs slow travel log

Iris Jones

SAVANNAH, GA. — The old city hall clock runs on its own time. It rings three gongs at 5:28 a.m., when the rising sun sheens the river and the old waterfront.

A gong-and-a-half at 5:42 as the light creeps up the cobbled sweep of Factors Walk. And six resounding dongs at 6:01, when the full sun has gleamed the green dome of the tower and reached into the plazas, heavy with live oak.

I am at eye-level with the old clock tower here in my sixth-floor room at the Hyatt-Regency Hotel, which opened April 1 in this coveted riverside location.

There has been a lot of activity out that window since the big ships began hooting their way in and out of the harbor at dawn.

AN OLD man nearly fell off the city hall roof trying to hoist the flag above the clock. I was staring down at the restored historic riverfront buildings when two window washers appeared on a scaffold outside my window.

The new hotel, and all this activity, are signs of new life for tourists in this old-south city, with decaying downtown streets only recently rescued from oblivion.

The industrial port is busy, and the smokestacks smear the distant sky, but travelers will find that old Savannah still runs on slow Southern time.

This clock tower vantage point gives a good view up through the plazas on Bull Street and down the old river bluff, but the best way to see Savannah in its setting is from the air.

More than 100 miles of coastal islands run from Savannah south to the Florida border. Wildlife refuges encircle the city: birds nesting in marshland, an osprey flying high over the trees, a single donkey plodding across a lonely sand dune.

JAMES OGLETHORPHE brought settlers to this junction of river and sea in 1733, to create an English buffer between the Spanish colonies and Florida.

Several forts built during the next 200 years are restored, and visible from the air, on the islands which are now suburbs of Savannah.

You can see the shrimp boats gleaming below the plane, and the great container ships coming in from sea. Finally, the skyline of the city with old church spires and domes mixed with contemporary high-rises in a living garden of trees.

You can get an even closer look from Cap'n Sams Riverboat, which runs regularly here from the wharf near the city hall. An old harbor light still stands in Emmeh Park at the top of the bluff, and a statue commemorates the Waving Girl, who waved ships in and out of the harbor for 47 years.

RED TUG boats make friendly patches of color against the Riverfront Plaza, where a permanent seagull population flutters in front of the restored cotton warehouses that are now Savannah's main tourist attraction.

Restaurants, bars and boutiques occupy the front of the simple four-story buildings. Factors Walk, where cotton factors once sold their wares, sweeps around the back of the warehouses, under wrought iron bridges that lead you from the top of the bluff to offices and shops.

Historic buildings were being systematically demolished until the Historic Savannah Foundation went into action in 1955. Now a historic homes tour is one of the highlights of the city.

Savannah was designed for carriages, and cars must probe their way up the bluff and around the plazas, which grace every main intersection.

THE SQUARES spread green with live oak trees, and brilliant with flower color, between colonnaded old buildings. People and pigeons are always there. For reasons unknown, the square is never named after the hero whose statue rises in its center.

Restored old buildings offer a treasure of elegant bed-and-breakfast places in Savannah. The "1790" is one of the best known, for either accommodations or dinner. The newest addition is the Ballastone Inn, which has the traditional wrought iron stairway curving up to its second-story door.

These historic inns are expensive, but many travelers choose to spend $50 a day ($75 for two) for the gracious old rooms, and the grand in-your-room breakfast. The Hyatt and the DeSoto Hilton are the two best known contemporary hotels, but there are also less-expensive small hotels such as the John Wesley Hotel on Abercorn.

THE BEST known old restaurants are the Pirates House, a maze of nicely restored comfortable small rooms in a building that has hosted seamen since the 18th century; and a European-style inn called the Old Pink House.

Insiders will send you to Miss Wilkes Boarding House, where they ring a bell and say prayers before dinner; mounds of Southern food and no alcohol at big round tables.

Everybody goes to Spanky's for beer and pizza between stained glass windows on the waterfront. Locals love the "1790" for after-work drinks and gourmet dining.

Probe a little further and you'll learn about places where tourists seldom go. To Wall's, for example, for the best stuffed crab in town. ("Take it out, don't eat it there.")

And to the place that all of Savannah would like to keep a secret: the Crystal Beer Parlor, where you get honest chili, good oyster stew and fried chicken in a quiet dark atmosphere that makes travelers sob with relief after all that elegant and pseudo-sophisticated dining.

YOU CAN easily walk to any of these places from the city center near the old Town Hall. The clock tower somehow rises into your line of vision from every Savannah street corner.

Don't set your watch by it, because it will ring three gongs at 5:02 and a gong-and-a-half at 7. But you will grow to appreciate a city that runs on Southern time.

For information on Savannah, contact the Savannah Visitors Center in its wonderful restored railway station setting at 301 W. Broad St., Savannah, Ga. 31402.

Savannah's graceful plazas maintain the traditional Southern pace of life.

N.Y.-to-Toronto train returns after a decade

Now you can incorporate a trip to the Big Apple while vacationing in Canada. VIA Rail Canada and Amtrak have joined hands to provide train service between Toronto and New York City.

Called the Maple Leaf, it represents the first cooperative venture of its kind between the two national passenger rail corporations and marks the return of a Toronto-New York City through service after an absence of over a decade.

Consisting of Amtrak's Amfleet equipment, the new train will be operated and staffed by VIA personnel in Canada and will run over Canadian tracks as far as Niagara Falls, Ontario. There crews will be changed, and responsibility for the train will transfer to Amtrak as the Maple Leaf crosses the border bound for New York City.

Departing Toronto daily at 9:05 a.m., the Maple Leaf will service Oakville, Burlington West, Hamilton, St. Catharines and Niagara Falls, Ontario before crossing the border. Stateside, the train will service Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Albany and several other points before arriving in New York City at 8:05 p.m.

A one-way fare from Toronto to New York City will cost $74 Canadian, with a 30-day round trip excursion fare available for $105 Canadian. The regular one-way fare to Buffalo from Toronto will be $12.50 Canadian. A circle fare is also available for travel between Toronto, New York, Montreal and back to Toronto (via Ottawa if so desired) for $118 Canadian.

The Maple Leaf started service April 26.

For details on this service, contact a travel agent.

Economy helps

State campgrounds expect good season

Michigan's private campground operators expect one of their best seasons as more families vacation close to home and camp to stretch their summer recreation dollars, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"The state's continuing economic problems are helping spur a turn to camping vacations which began last summer," said Auto Club Touring Manager Joseph Ratke.

More than 63 percent of the 261 private campgrounds responding to an Auto Club survey reported business up an average 6 percent last summer. Thirty-four percent reported business drops and 3 percent reported no change. That compares with 1979, when more than half of those surveyed reported a business drop.

So far this spring, the number of season leases — renting a site for the entire summer — are up nearly 30 percent over last year at many private parks, more than a month before the season's traditional Memorial Day holiday start.

Many operators also report short-term reservations approximately 5 percent above last year, with most campers planning longer stays than in the past, the Auto Club said.

Other indications that more persons are choosing Michigan and camping for their vacations are a 6-percent rise in sales of state-park entry permits despite a $3 price increase and Auto Club's first-quarter statistics showing a 15-percent rise in member routing requests for Michigan destinations, when compared with the same period in 1980.

Prices and services are among the main reasons campers are choosing private parks, Auto Club said.

PRIVATE PARKS surveyed by the Auto Club will charge an average of $6.42 nightly for a campsite with electricity. State parks charge up to $6 nightly, plus a $2 daily or $10 annual entry fee. There is also a $3 fee to reserve a state-park site, with no such fee at private parks.

Private park owners plan a number of activities for campers, ranging from conducted bus tours to nearby cities and hikes through secluded forestland to family-oriented events such as hay and horseback rides, cookouts, free movies and dances.

Because of state budget cuts, services including interpretative programs and lifeguards will be limited at many state parks.

Auto Club's 1981 private-park guide lists 359 facilities with 34,361 sites, more than half the state's approximately 60,000 campsites.

State-park campsites total 13,984, up 72 from last summer. There are 3,375 state-forest campground sites, 162 less than a year ago. Federal and county, township and city sites number 2,415 and 8,200, respectively.

Campers planning a private campground stay will find swimming either in pools or lakes at 256 facilities. All but three have at-site electricity. Water and sewage hook-ups are available at 282 and 150 parks respectively.

Besides seasonal site leasing offered at 283 private campgrounds, campers can save gasoline by storing motor homes and trailers at 241 facilities for monthly fees. There is no storage at state parks.

To encourage stays in northern-Lower and Upper Michigan, reservation rules have been eased at certain state-park campgrounds. Families may reserve sites by telephone any time before arrival. Reservations must reach all other state parks at least seven days before arrival.

Parks where telephone reservations are accepted are: Aloha and Cheboygan near Cheboygan, Burt Lake near Indian River, Hoeft near Rogers City, Interlochen near Traverse City, Young near Boyne City, Orchard Beach near Manistee, Clear Lake near Atlanta, Onaway and North Higgins Lake near Roscommon, and all Upper Peninsula state-park campgrounds.

By charter commission

CEO's hand strengthened

The Wayne County Charter Commission is gradually moving to deal any future chief executive officer (CEO) and County Board of Commissioners a strong hand in administering local affairs.

The Charter Commission Friday added a section to the Road Commission chapter requiring coordination of activities between Wayne County's three public works agencies — the Road Commission, the DPW and the drain commissioner.

The amendment passed on a 13-3 preliminary vote with three members abstaining. On final passage, however, it will require a majority 14 of the 27 charter commissioners' votes.

"THE CEO SHALL require the Road Commission, the Department of Public Works and the drain commissioner to submit an annual work plan six months prior to the start of each fiscal year," the proposal of Commissioner George Orzech, D-Detroit, begins, adding:

"They shall notify the CEO of any change in work plans within 30 days of the change. The CEO shall take such steps as are necessary to assure that administrative decisions made for road construction shall be coordinated with administrative decisions for other programs related to roads."

Commissioner William Bledsoe, D-Detroit, a co-sponsor, said, "The purpose of this is to get public works officials together at least every six months to see what each other is doing."

Commissioner Cynthia Stephens, D-Detroit, added that no approval of the CEO is required.

But Commissioner William Brainard, D-Southgate, mayor of that downriver city, was against the idea. "This is creating more bureaucracy. It's difficult now to get a public works project through. This will delay progress, and we should keep it out of the charter."

THE CHARTER commission approved two proposals giving the new 15-member County Board of commissioners a strong hand in dealing with CEO appointments.

It gave 17-1 approval to a catch-all paragraph which says: "Whenever an appointment of a representative of Wayne County to a board or commission is required by law and the appointment procedure is not specifically provided under this charter, such appointments shall be made by the CEO with the advice and consent of the County Commission."

Charter nips bureaucracy in the bud

A chief executive under a Wayne County charter will have wide powers to reorganize the county bureaucracy.

But the Wayne County Charter Commission last week turned down an effort to limit the number of departments to 10. The vote was 15-5.

Criticizing the limitation to 10 departments, Commissioner David Geiss said, "We're attempting to be legislators. We should let the legislators decide that."

But Charter Commission Chairman George Ward argued for the limitation because "we are giving the chief executive officer exempt appointments. Without a limit, he can create 50 departments and make 50 exempt appointments."

UNDER THE charter, as so far drafted, the chief executive officer (CEO) would present a reorganization plan to the 15-member County Board of Commissioners at the beginning of his term.

The county board will have a limited time to reject the plan; otherwise, it takes effect.

The Michigan Constitution limits state government's executive branch to 20 departments. But charter commissioners' sentiment is against limiting the CEO's discretion to reorganize.

The Charter Commission by June 15 must draft two charters identical in every respect but one: The first will provide for an elected county executive as CEO, the second for a county administrator appointed by the County Board of Commissioners.

IN RELATED action, the Charter Commission moved to set up a sophisticated selection machinery for hiring a county administrator, if voters in November pick that option.

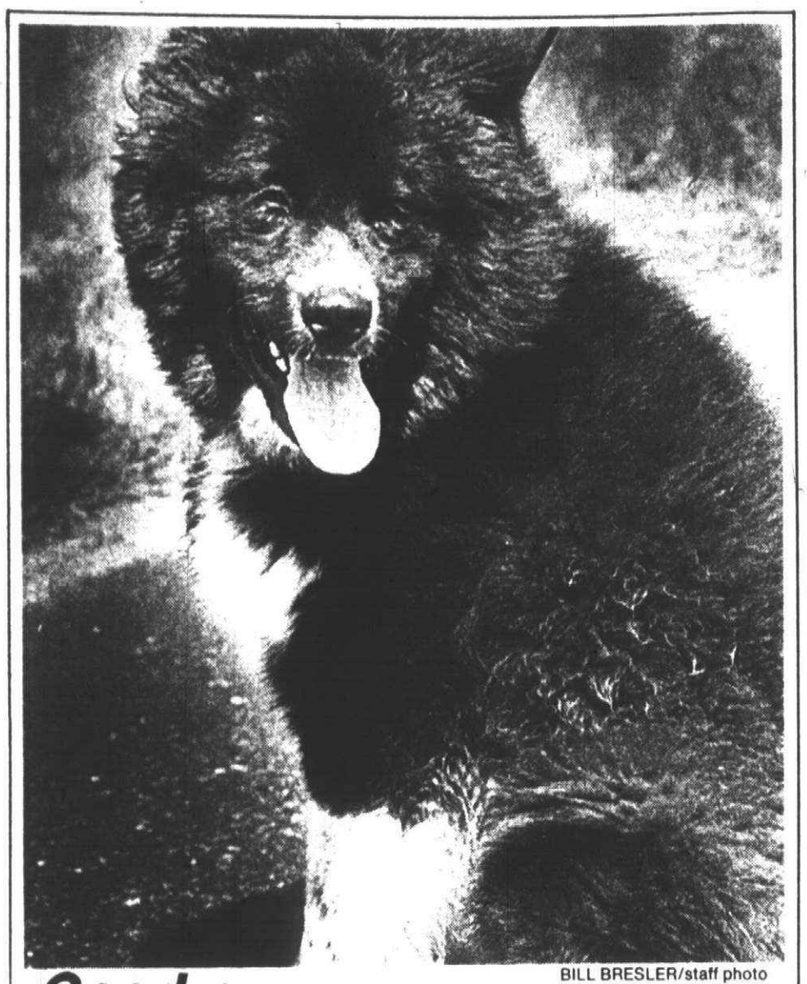

It requires the county board to "select a County Administrator Search Committee. The Search Committee shall seek and screen candidates for the office of county administrator."

While there is nothing to preclude the county board from appointing its entire membership as the search committee and making the hiring a purely political decision, the provision is intended to pave the way for a national search for a top administrator.

Colleges typically hire consultants and set up search committees to screen hundreds of applicants, forwarding to the board the top dozen or so.

The Charter Commission provided the county board can hire an adminis-trator on a majority vote but may fire him/her "?for cause. . .before the expiration of his/her term by a two-thirds vote of the County Co?mmission elected and serving."

If an administrator should die, quit or be fired in mid-term, the county board could name a replacement to fill out the remainder of the four-year term.

energy

Barry Jensen

EER . . . watch those cooling numbers

If you're in the market for a room air conditioner, you should be aware of the Energy Efficiency Ratio numbers that were developed for them.

The Energy Efficiency Ratio (EER) is a number that rates the energy efficiency of similar appliances. The higher the EER number, the more efficient the appliance.

The EER numbers are approved by the U.S. Department of Commerce's National Bureau of Standards before they can be used.

For example: EERs for room air conditioners can be as low as 5.4 and as high as 11.5. The 11.5-rated room air conditioner is more than twice as efficient as the 5.4 unit and uses less than half the electrical energy.

Multiply the average cost of operating an air conditioner by its expected life when comparing air conditioners. Don't go just for a low price.

Manufacturers and dealers display the EER numbers in different ways. If you cannot find the EER number of the models you are considering, you should be able to get the information from the dealer.

BEFORE YOU buy any air conditioning, consider installing a vent fan in the second-floor ceiling of your house.

This fan won't offer much in the way of cooling during the heat of the day, but it will work wonders at night. And it's a darn sight cheaper because a motor turns a fan, rather than driving a compressor.

Typically, the nighttime temperature in Michigan is much lower than the daytime high. The whole-house fan draws the cool ground-level air into the house and blows the hot air out the top of the house.

If you decide you need cooling in the daytime, consider a room air conditioner. Most people live in only one or two rooms during the day. Why cool the whole house if you don't need to? There's a big difference in operating cost as well as initial expense.

In addition, a room air conditioner can be turned off when you are out of the room for an hour. The recommended cool-down time for a central unit is four hours — you must be absent from your house for four hours before its cheaper to shut off the air conditioning than it is to cool the entire house.

EVERYTHING THAT held true in winter about caulking and keeping out drafts holds true in summer. Storm windows keep the cool in summer as much as they keep the cold out in the winter.

One difference is in summer, you can leave open doors from a cooled first floor to an uncooled second floor without the tremendous loss you would suffer in winter. Heat rises, and in summer you want it to.

This chimney effect can be helpful on all but the hottest of days.

Cooling a second-floor room with central air conditioning is difficult. If you must cool a second-floor room during the day, buying a room air conditioner for a second-floor room may be smart.

Cool air sinks, so your central air conditioner will have to really push to force cool air to the second floor.

Here's how Proposal A would affect you

Last in a series

Homeowners who reside in Michigan will reap most of the benefits from Proposal A if state voters approve such a constitutional amendment May 19.

Renters will get no property tax rebate, though they may benefit from the so-called "circuit breaker" in the state income tax law.

Business will get little.

Those conclusions came from Dr. Douglas Roberts, deputy director of the state Department of Management and Budget. He was interviewed recently by a group of editors and reporters from Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Roberts noted that about May 1, cities, villages and townships will mail an affidavit to every residence. Persons dwelling there will have to certify they are residents of Michigan and that that is their principal home in order to receive the proposed 50 percent homestead property tax cut.

Here are some of the questions to Roberts and his answers:

Q. What's the impact of the program on renters?

A. The only benefit to renters — they're just about dead even. They do get the benefit of the circuit breaker. Here's how it works:

A renter would have to take 17 percent of his contract rent, and it's assumed that's equal to their property tax bill (if they were owners). To the extent that property tax bill exceeds 2.5 percent of income over $7,000, they would get an income tax rebate.

Q. Does the landlord get anything?

A. No, the landlord does not benefit, because this is a 50 percent cut in the homestead property tax. It is not applicable to (apartments, which are) commercial property.

The only way the landlord could benefit is the 6 percent cap on all commercial property.

Q. What's the net impact on this in terms of business versus homeowners?

A. Homeowners clearly receive the benefits.

In terms of business, the items available to them are the following that I can think of: One is an additional fee for retailers for collecting the sales tax, and this fee is one-quarter of one percent of the tax the first year and one-half of one percent the next year.

Business is clearly going to benefit in terms of equalization of (property) assessments by class.

And businesses could benefit in the future from the 6 percent cap (the amount a class of property's taxes can rise in any one year).

The negatives to businesses: Businesses will point out to you that they pay the sales tax as a cost of doing business; that is, when they buy typewriters, pencils and paper, they pay a sales tax like anybody else. Of the $800 million that we're going to collect from the sales tax, something like $200 million is going to be paid by business.

Calling Mom

Michigan residents are expected to make a record 1.75 million long-distance calls on Mother's Day Sunday.

"Next to Christmas, Mother's Day is our busiest holiday," said Haze Wilson, Michigan Bell community relations manager.

Calls made Sunday morning before 10 a.m., or between 2 and 5 p.m., should have the best chance of going through on the first try, Wilson said.

While Mother's Day is one of Bell's busiest holidays, the volumn of long-distance calls on a normal business day is even greater.
