Board dumps ESY plans for Fiegel, Bird

By Emory Daniels
staff writer

With one exception, all schools on the year-round calendar this coming school year will be physically located in Canton Township.

At a special meeting which started at 4 p.m. Friday, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education voted 6-1 to take Bird and Fiegel elementary schools off Extended School Year (ESY) and and leave them on the nine-month Traditional School Year (TSY) schedule.

Earlier, the board already had decided to take Pioneer Middle School off ESY and return it to a TSY schedule this coming year.

With the reversal on the decision to put Bird and Fiegel on ESY, the only school in Plymouth or Plymouth Township remaining on ESY is Isbister Elementary.

The schools in Canton on ESY include Miller, Gallimore, Hulsing, Eriksson and Field.

THE DECISION last Friday was based on more recent enrollment figures which suggested student headcounts were declining at Bird and Fiegel to the point it would be uneconomical to place the schools on ESY.

The reversal is expected to save some $400,000 to $500,000 in the operating budget, which would have been spent on air conditioning, and storage cabinets.

Carol Davis, board president, however, argues the economics is a "washout" as the district will lose state aid funds because of the declining enrollment and that loss will be close to the amount saved by not expanding ESY.

Neither the board nor administration indicated what would be done about administrators who had been transferred to Bird and Fiegel based upon those two buildings going on ESY for '81-82.

While voting to change its mind on ESY expansion, the board also voted to readjust school boundaries which changed redistricting decisions made last March.

Those changes will result in students from Honeytree and Stoneybrooke apartments remaining at Tanger; Waverly subdivision students remaining at Starkweather; and students from Old Orchard and Timberlea Farms remaining at Allen.

To accommodate Bird being put back on TSY, three sixth-grade classes will attend West Middle School next fall, while the other sixth-graders at Bird will remain at their home elementary school.

There was a series of split votes and resolutions on the boundary changes. The single dissenting vote on the Bird/Fiegel ESY reversal was from Elaine Kirchgatter, board secretary.

ROLAND THOMAS, a spokesperson for a group of parents from Bird, told the board Friday that leaving the two schools on TSY would put $500,000 back into the operating budget and reduce the proposed operating deficit from $2.5 million to $2 million if the June 8 ballot proposals are approved.

Thomas predicted that it would be a long time before the housing market picked up again in Plymouth-Canton and by that time the high numbers now in elementary may have passed through and the district might be able to take one or two more schools off ESY.

Davis, however, pointed out that the anticipated loss in student enrollment will result in a loss in state aid of about $540,000 as state funding is based on a per pupil basis.

Dr. John Hoben, superintendent of schools, reported that last August the board and administration were anticipating an enrollment increase of 300 students to a total of 17,500.

With the continuation of the recession, Hoben added, the figures from January and February indicated a "zero growth or the potential for loss."

Once principals began getting an actual headcount of kindergartens during kindergarten roundups at individual schools, Hoben said, the figures in mid-May began to show there would be an actual loss in enrollment of about 1.1 percent from September 1980 to May 1981.

If that trend continues, said Hoben, the district could end up experiencing an enrollment loss of 2 to 3 percent by this coming September.

Hoben noted that Bird is expected to have a drop in enrollment of about 60 which may allow it to remain on a nine-month schedule for one or two years. Isbister's enrollment could drop, he added, and Gallimore is having an "alarming drop" in kindergarten enrollment.

After his talk, students crowded around author William Kienzle for autographs. The mystery writer appeared last week at Plymouth Canton High.

An ex-priest's story

Kienzle takes plots from church years

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Author William X. Kienzle stands somewhat sheepishly at the podium and greets a steady procession of teen-agers carrying one or more bf his three novels.

Shyly, they ask for his autograph, sometimes for themselves, sometimes for a friend or parent. Dressed in a light blue sports jacket and towering more than six feet, he appears awkward but politely pens a personal line for each request.

He wonders why they're so impressed and frankly admits he's embarrassed. "They never look me straight in the eye," he muses.

Sudden bursts of personal humility aside, William Kienzel, an ex-priest turned mystery writer, is more than just another author on tour this day.

At Plymouth Canton High last week, he addressed high school students but didn't deliver an expected pitch, promoting one of his three best sellers — "The Rosary Murders," "Death Wears a Red Hat" or his latest one, "Mind over Murder."

Today, he talks about the life of a writer.

You need experiences, stories to tell, he said.

More than likely, however, his audience is less interested in advice on writing a term paper than meeting a famous author whose stories have focused on the inner workings of the Archdiocese of Detroit and, of course, murder.

AS IN the best tradition of successful writers, Kienzle is foremost a storyteller.

His anecdotes, brought out and dusted off for such public gatherings, are from his 20 years with the Catholic Church, as a parish priest and editor of the Michigan Catholic, a weekly newspaper.

The man is witty. His audience responds with smiles and chuckles.

He tells one story about a fellow priest and friend of the '50s, Father George Magesky.

"Did anyone ever see 'Going My Way' with Bing Crosby? Well, you won't believe this, but at least a few of my friends went into the seminary because they wanted to be Father O'Malley (the character Bing played at the fictitious St. Mary Church).

"In the '50s, priests could do a lot of things for people, like get them jobs and solve their problems."

And then there were those who wanted to become "big, fat pastors" of their own parishes, Kienzle said.

Enter young friend Father George.

George was dying for his own parish, beginning right after his ordination. In the '50s, it was accepted practice that priests became pastors through seniority.

But young Father George was impatiently ambitious. Whenever a opening came up in the diocese, Father George would write to the chancellory, asking for consideration. The boys in the chancellory office thought Father George's faithful communiques were funny.

"George was the only one who didn't know that you don't get in that way. Eventually, he was told, and then waited to be old enough."

When the next opening occurred, the chancellory waited for Father George's letter of inquiry. No letter arrived, so the chancellory wrote to him.

"They wanted to know — 'What's wrong with this parish?'"

Pause for laughter.

Budget axes school farm, triggers citizen crusade

By Teri Banas
staff writer

A small group of residents has cast its support to one of the latest victims in the board of education's budget cutting sweeps.

The residents — organized under the title of the "Save the School Farm Committee" — are attempting to avert the scheduled closing of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' farm, one of only three school district-operated animal farms in Michigan.

At issue is the school board's decision to close the farm this year and reduce a $2 million districtwide budget deficit by more than $40,000, the annual cost of operating the program.

Time is running out for the residents' effort, however.

A layoff notice already has been sent to the farm's manager, effective June 30.

On June 2 a school board subcomittee is expected to meet to plan the sale of livestock and farm equipment.

With less than a week to go, the Save the School Farm Committee has begun raising donations from businesses, service clubs and residents to avert the board's action. The group was unsuccesfful in its appeal for funds to both Plymouth Township and Canton Township boards Tuesday night.

The Canton board said they would look at the situation in another two weeks, while the Plymouth Township board supported the farm in concept but made no financial commitment.

It's the committee's hope, said member Bev Antoun of Plymouth Township, to keep the farm running on donations for one more year. In that time, members plan to come up with other devices that will keep the farm funded and in use by school children.

The group fears the farm will never reopen if it is closed next year.

BUT WHETHER the five-member parent group is successful in changing the school board's direction on the farm remains to be seen.

The school board at a special meeting last Friday advised the parent group to meet with its subcommittee, called the farm committee, June 2. The board suggested both groups brainstrom possible funding remedies.

The school board did not offer much encouragement, though. School board members reiterated that the farm committee had recommended against keeping the farm open next year.

"The school farm committee advised the cuts to the board and citizens are members of that committee," said board president Carol Davis last Friday. "They looked at the use of the farm, the number of students currently using it, and recommended to mothball it. The board didn't capriciously decide to cut out the farm program."

The chairman of the farm committee, however, told the Observer the recommendation was not independently reached.

"We had no other alternative," said chairman Dave Campbell. "The school board gave us a zero budget. When you have a zero budget, there's no money."

Campbell said the recommendation to close the farm was in fact one of several made by his committee. All others focused on keeping it open, but on a limited basis.

Man seeks farm help from Canton board

Ed Lough of Canton Tuesday asked Canton's Township Board to make a financial "pledge" to save a farm run by the Plymouth Canton School District.

The farm — one of only three such farms in Michigan — costs about $40,000 a year to operate. It is scheduled to be closed in June in a budget-cutting measure by the school board.

Canton's Township Board will consider the request for financial aid at its June 2 meeting.

"ONCE they close the farm, it probably won't be reopened," said Lough, of Gyde Road in Canton.

Lough said proponents of the farm plan to ask other governmental bodies for financial aid to keep the program going one more year. Meanwhile, the supporters plan to research other funding options.

Farm supporters next week plan to approach the city of Plymouth for aid. Lough's wife Dorothy said Canton can "lead the way."

However, one governmental body already has turned down the idea of donating funds for the farm.

Plymouth Township officials Tuesday voted to support the farm "in concept." However, they declined to kick in any funds, citing a policy against making donations.

Area ups fee to fight home

A homeowners' group has approved a $10 increase in its 1981 fees in order to continue a legal battle against a proposed group home for the mentally ill.

Members of the Forest Trails Homeowners Association last week voted 118-8 to increase their subdivision fees from $25 to $35, according to association president Bob Cieslak.

The increase will finance of an appeal of a Wayne County Circuit Court ruling regarding a proposed group home on Forest Trails Drive. On May 8, Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman denied a request of attorney Peter Bundarin for a preliminary injunction against the home.

Bundarin planned to file an appeal of Kaufman's ruling in the Detroit branch of the Michigan Court of Appeals on Wednesday.

Bundarin maintains in the suit that the proposed group home is a commercial enterprise and therefore violates covenants of Forest Trails subdivision. According to the attorney, Kaufman ruled on May 8 that the group home is not a commercial enterprise.

Named as defendants in the case are Charles and Martha Chatfield, owners of the house and operators of the proposed group home for the mentally ill.

"I think he (Bundarin) is clearly wrong," said the Chatfields' attorney, Jon Garrett, of the argument involving covenant violations.

A spokesperson for the Michigan Department of Social Services said Tuesday that a license for the Forest Trails home still is under investigation.

According to Bundarin, covenants of Forest Trails subdivision authorize the homeowner association to enforce the covenants in court. Cieslak said the vote to hike subdivision assessments will affect only this year's fee.

The former assessment of $25 was used to maintain the neighborhood's parks.

Candidates quash 2-district idea

By Emory Daniels
staff writer

Some residents have talked about Canton forming its own school district.

A few Plymouth residents have suggested that the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township should "secede" from the school district.

For Canton residents, a separate school district would help foster a Canton identity. For Plymouth residents, a Canton-only district holds out hopes of Canton paying for its own student growth and Plymouth having lower property taxes.

The talk of separate school districts also is intertwined with Plymouth's community pride among those who still resent the closing of Plymouth High School (now Central Middle School) and the opening of two high schools at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (both in Canton Township).

Although apparently not widespread, the discussion of secession suggests there is not unity of purpose within Plymouth-Canton Community Schools among residents, and that beneath the surface there may be more division than imagined.

THAT DIVISION has surfaced in recent years when school tax issues are voted upon as Canton residents generally support money issues and Plymouth residents generally vote against spending more dollars.

The issue of secession is important, not because a serious movement exists but because the attitudes that rest beneath the surface have serious implications.

For that reason, the Observer asked each candidate for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education the following question:

"Should Plymouth and Plymouth Township secede from the school district and allow Canton to operate its own schools?"

Candidates for one four-year term on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education in the June 8 election include:

Edyth Aninos, 41410 Hanford, Canton; David C. Bone, 6849 Carriage Hills, Canton; Christopher B. Clements, 1360 Hartsough, Plymouth; William H. Decker, 12784 Haverhill, Plymouth; Stephen G. Harper, 11835 Appletree Drive, Plymouth; Marilyn Rickard, 41927 Hystone, Canton; Ernest G. Rumsby, 44551 Savery, Canton; and Charles Washburn, 13300 Ridge Road, Plymouth.

Ms. Aninos and Clements did not respond to questions asked by the Observer or by the League of Women Voters. Harper is the incumbent.

All six candidates responding opposed a separation of the district. Their answers follows:

Bone:
"No."

Board drops ESY for Fiegel, Bird

The latest figures now suggest Bird will have about 712 pupils this coming year, said Hoben, which would allow it to remain on TSY for one year.

Enrollment presently is dropping at Honeytree/Stoneybrooke apartments, the superintendent said, and if those students were shifted to Tanger and the Fiegel sixth graders remain at Lowell Junior High, Fiegel will have a projected headcount this fall of some 691 pupils.

If the Fiegel "centrum areas" are used for classes, Hoben added, it could hold up to 720 pupils and still remain on a nine-month calendar.

For Bird to be taken off ESY, said Hoben, three of its sixth grade classes must be moved to West Middle School and a classroom for emotionally impaired students must be moved to East Middle School.

IN MAKING the resolution to allow Bird and Fiegel to remain on TSY, Sylvia Stetz departed from the administration's recommended action by including language to allow Old Orchard/Timberlea Farms to remain at Allen instead of being transferred to Tanger as previously decided in March.

In March the school board had a number of 3-3 votes on whether Old Orchard/Timberlea Farms should remain at Allen, or whether the Rocker subdivision area should attend Allen.

Stetz argued the change would keep students in their own neighborhoods and allow them to attend school with their siblings, and allow Honeytree and Stoneybrooke pupils to remain at Tanger.

Hoben cautioned the board that students in Trailwood II, Sunflower and other subdivisions had been displaced in March and the board should be careful about changing boundaries now. Hoben urged the board to retain as much of the original plan as possible so as not to disrupt planning for the coming year.

Stephen Harper, trustee, argued that the Stetz request resulted in less disruption for students as the Old Orchard/Timberlea Farms pupils now attending Allen will continue attending Allen.

The Stetz resolution failed with Davis, Kirchgatter, Tom Yack, and Glen Schroeder voting "no."

Flossie Tonda, trustee, argued that the latest enrollment counts suggest ESY cannot be supported at Fiegel and Bird and because the economy is not good there likely will not be growth in the coming year. "People are moving out of state. In March we may have had the numbers, but we don't now. Things have changed and the transfer of students from Allen to Tanger no longer is needed."

Mike Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction, commented that the keeping Old Orchard/Timberlea Farms at Allen would give the district a bit more breathing room to absorb future growth if it comes.

Bike safety talks planned

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department wants to keep youthful bike riders on the right track.

The traffic and safety unit of the sheriff's department has a couple of bicycle safety programs which will be presented upon request from schools or community groups, said Deputy Ed Rasmussen, a spokesman for the program.

One program is a lecture on bike safety aimed at elementary-age children. It lasts about 30-45 minutes.

Also available is a "bicycle rodeo," which includes an obstacle course for riders to test their skills, checking the bikes for safe operation and bicycle licensing. Some of the educational materials have been furnished by the Brownstown Jaycettes.

ACCORDING to Rasmussen, there has been an increase in recent years of both bicycle thefts and bike-auto collisions. The program is called "ghost riders" because many bicyclists ride in a manner which prevents them from being seen by motorists, he added.

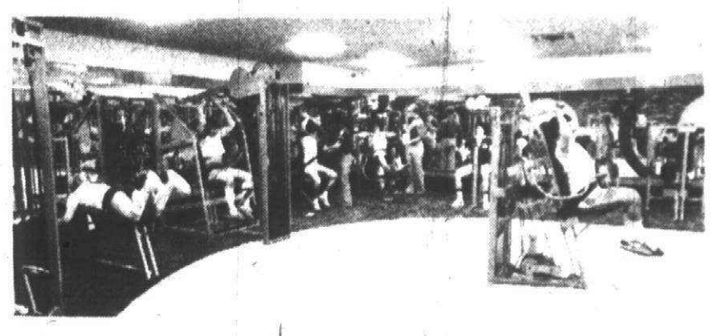

For information about the program, call Rasmussen at 721-2222, ext. 244.

It's a party!

Some adoptable kids find promise of home

Good old-fashioned fun was the primary objective of the party.

But three kids may have found sets of parents as a result of the recent festivities at Geneva United Presbyterian Church.

The annual affair was sponsored by Aid to Adoption of Special Kids (AASK), a statewide volunteer agency founded six years ago by Canton residents Judy and Alan Prince.

The group helps match families with adoptable children while trying to dispel myths about the absence of adoptable kids in Michigan. Mrs. Prince, whose family has adopted six children, says plenty of kids are waiting for adoption. Most are older children or kids with emotional or physical handicaps.

About 40 children — 11 of them adoptable — gathered recently at Geneva United Presbyterian Church for AASK's sixth annual party and the third held in Canton. The kids chowed down on hot dogs and played games with the 20 families in attendance.

A slide presentation showing 40 kids who are waiting for adoption closed off the festivities.

Mrs. Prince believes three children will be adopted as a result of the party. Families who attended the festivities have expressed interest in the kids, who are under 10 and severely emotionally impaired.

According to Mrs. Prince, five children were adopted as a result of last year's AASK party.

Alan Prince, who organized the party with wife Judy, stops for a chat with Don Haviland, an adoption coordinator for the Department of Social Services.

Priesthood years lend plots

"Well, it's not hilarious, but it's an amusing anecdote, at least for adults," Kienzle confessed.

KIENZLE'S LATEST novel, "Mind Over Murder," features, once again, the intrepid character of Father Bob Koesler, who continues his ring-side dabbling into sleuthing while running St. Anselm Parish in Dearborn Heights.

Koesler is a bit older now (52) and his crotchetiness is never more evident than in his dealings with his young charge, Deacon Les Schroeder.

Not surprisingly, Koesler is modeled after Kienzel himself, or at least his characteristics are. When Kienzle quit smoking and began chewing toothpicks as an aleternative, so did Fatherr Koesler in "Death Wears a Red Hat."

St. Anselm also was Kienzel's last assignment as a working priest. Both characters enjoy playing the piano for relaxation. And both men are impatient with church reform.

VATICAN II, held almost 20 years ago, was the long-awaited solution for those eager for the reform of church law. It was somewhat of a disappointment for some laymen and some clergymen as well.

"I loved being a priest," said Kienzel. "But I left because I cared an awful lot that church law was harming a lot of people and the church.

"It's like being a policeman. If you don't believe in the law, how are you suppose to enforce it?"

Kienzel's latest novel delves into the dealings of the diocese matrimonial tribunal, which reviews Canon Law as it relates to marriage. In effect, it's a clearing house for those wanting to marry in the church. Unsatisfactory results in such requests lead to murder in this book.

Kienzle, meanwhile, is preparing a fourth novel, titled at this time as "Assault with Intent."

Father Koesler perfects his crime-solving skills and takes a bigger role in actually solving the main crime in this book, rather than stumbling on a solution, he said.

His fifth book, still untitled and unwritten, will take Fr. Koesler to Rome where Kienzel says "a lot of funny things take place." Koesler will accompany his friend, Bishop Boyle, there for Boyle's cardination.

ANECDOTES FROM Kienzel's own experiences pepper his mystery stories. While police investigations and uncovered clues make up the framework of his works, his anecdotes bring life to the characters. Detroit area scenes are prominent.

St. John Seminary in Plymouth, where Kienzel received his religious training, is often the scene of a few pleasant rounds of golf for Detroit clergymen.

A contemporary of Kienzel's there was Edmund Szoka, recently named archbishop of Detroit.

"He's a brain," Kienzel said of Archbishop Szoka. "He borders on genius. He wouldn't be the life of a party, but he'd be there enjoying things."

Overall, reaction to his portrayal of the religious in his novels has been positiive, Kienzel said.

KIENZEL'S FIRST calling was not the publishing world. While a priest, though, he picked up "a lot of funny stories" he wanted told.

His initial attempt to market a story about the amusing things that happen to priests was rejected by a major U.S. publishing house when he was told his story would probably have an "audience of six or seven people."

He kept the faith, though.

He learned that mystery novels were an age-old sure-fire hit through a friend.

"Immediately, I saw the uphill battle of a budding novelist.

"Each year, about 400,000 manuscripts are submitted, of which 400 are published. And about 40 of those really do something."

The idea for the "Rosary Murders" came to him while working in Kalamazoo at Western Michigan University.

"I knew there couldn't be more than 10 victims. So, I thought of the Ten Commandments. Fortunately, I knew them."

A pattern to the crimes was established. Each victim was named from a key word in each commandment — like Father Steel from "Thou Shall Not Steal."

The book again was turned down by that major publishing house. "The profit principle is dominant in a conglomerate publishing house. No longer can they take a chance on a book."

Maybe it was luck, or manifest destiny, when Koesler ran into a friend at a bookbuyers' convention in Atlanta. The friend was starting a new publishing house. He loved the book, and it was later published by Andrews and McMeel Inc.

"THE FIRST time out, you either have to have a very good book, or light vigil candles, be good to people and appeal to the mercy of God.

"And my friends, when you do get your book back, with your name on it, it's what they called being enthused. It's like Christmas, New Years, your birthday and the end of school all rolled into one."

Today, the "Rosary Murders" is becoming a motion picture. The rights to the story were bought by Take One Productions, a Detroit-based firm.

"Now, you're no longer dealing with a publishing house in Kansas City but with lawyers in Los Angeles. You have one basic variety of lawyers out there — your basic nasty."

Koesler has just finished tangling with the "nasties" over character control.

He was successful in winning a "virtue clause" in the movie contract which insures that Father Koesler remains "chaste and celibate" on the screen.

"He has to be chaste and celibate in the book so that he's not influenced by outside disturbances in solving crimes," explained Kienzel.

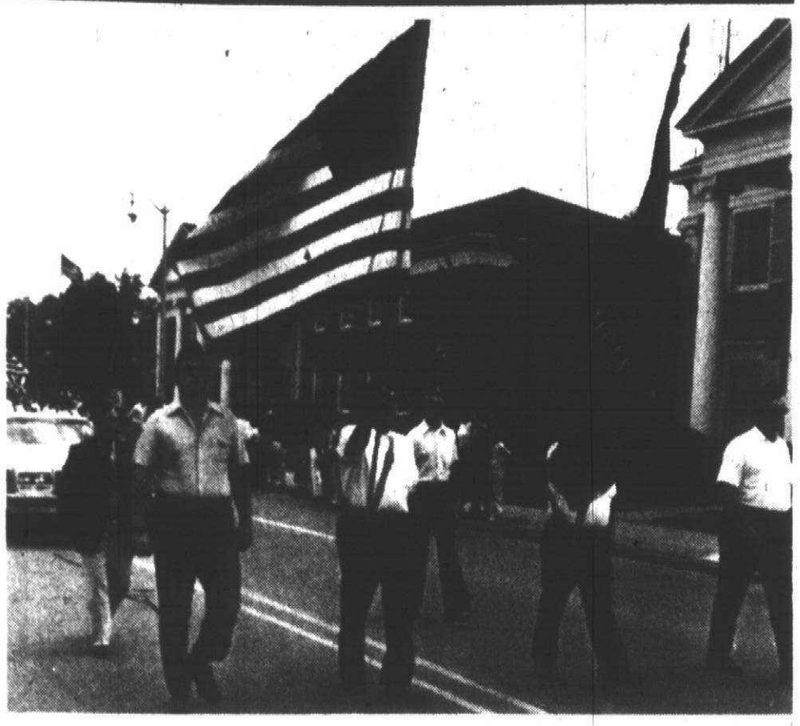

What that means is that when Father Koesler is confronted by an attractive female on screen whose "nostrils are flaring and ears wiggling," that's OK.

"But the first drop of sweat that rolls off his nose, that's when we sue."

Separate districts?

Washburn:
"No. Smaller districts have budget problems which far exceed the present plight of our district, i.e. Allen Park which has cut to the bare minimum and still has budget problems. I am sure that given all the facts, the people posing this solution to our problems would have a different outlook on the situation."

Rumsby:
"In these times of economic problems and setbacks it would be very foolish to even consider such a move. The Plymouth-Canton school system is having problems now, just imagine what it would be like if they were separate entities. I do not believe that our students and the entire community would be served properly if such a move took place."

Rickard:
"Definitely not. Plymouth and Plymouth Township, were they to secede from the school district, would be left with no high school facilities. The debt for the CEP has been spread over a 30-year period. There is no way to equitably divide that debt. Our school district includes six city and township governments and all have a vested interest in the educational system."

Harper:
"This action would require approval fo the State Board of Education, Legislature, and voters of the district. At the present time, the state is continuing plans to consolidate districts, not split them. It is very unlikely we could get all the necessary approvals. We will be better off directing our efforts into working together to derive maximum benefit from our combined strengths and resources."

Decker:
"Under current state law, it would be unconstitutional for Plymouth and Plymouth Township to vote on seceding from the school district, allowing Canton to operate its own school. Therefore, until state laws were changed through the efforts of very costly campaign and petition drives, I do not feel that this question is pertinent at this time."

Budget threatens facility

Residents crusade for farm

THE FARM committee is made up of two school district employees, a school board member, the husband of a school board member, and two other residents.

The same subcommittee, said Campbell, last year recommended that the farm program be expanded, taking in other educational opportunities for children.

"As a member of the committee, I feel this will be a great loss for Plymouth," said Campbell. "It's a unique situation and a real plus, particularly when all the land is going for houses.

"But we came to the conclusion that if the issue is between reading and writing and having a school farm, than obviously we should go for reading and writing."

Some board members Friday eluded to the Save the School Farm Committee as a movement that came "too little, too late."

"The farm closing was announced and I never got one phone call about it," said Flossie Tonda, the school board's liaison to the farm committee.

"Other residents feel the farm is a frill," said board president Carol Davis. "I don't know if there's enough support out there to keep the farm open."

Board member Tom Yack, on the other hand, gave the parent group some encouragement to continue their drive.

"WE HAVE booster clubs for athletics and school bands. Maybe there's an unidentifiable group of boosters out there for the farm. If so, let them meet with the farm committee and look at alternatives."

Ms. Antoun, in the forefront of the Save the School Farm Committee, had presented the school with a 200-signature petition Friday calling for the reopening of the farm.

Two days later, her committee met for the first time to organize strategy.

"We plan to hit all the businesses, big and small, in the Plymouth-Canton area," she said. "By next Tuesday we plan to present these pledges to the farm committee and deliver our alternative to the farm closing.

"By June 2, we'll either make it or break it."

Some of her committee's fund-raising plans include an "adopt an animal" program, a tag day, and share cropping on land surrounding the farm site. "The crops could be sold at the farmers' market held in Plymouth during the summer months."

The group also plans to suggest that farm animals be housed there only during three summer months, thereby reducing feeding costs throughout the year.

Those interested in joining the Save the Farm Committee or making pledges can write to the committee at 42425 Clemons Drive in Plymouth. Telephone inquiries can be made at either 453-0987 or 459-1881. Farm manager Mike Smith, however, says farmable land at the site is already under lease to area farmers.

THE FARM has been the site of school tours since it opened in 1971.

The farm manager raises a variety of animals for display throughout the year. The farm also operates a Farm Yard Express to various elementary schools. A bus is provided to cart the farm animals around the district.

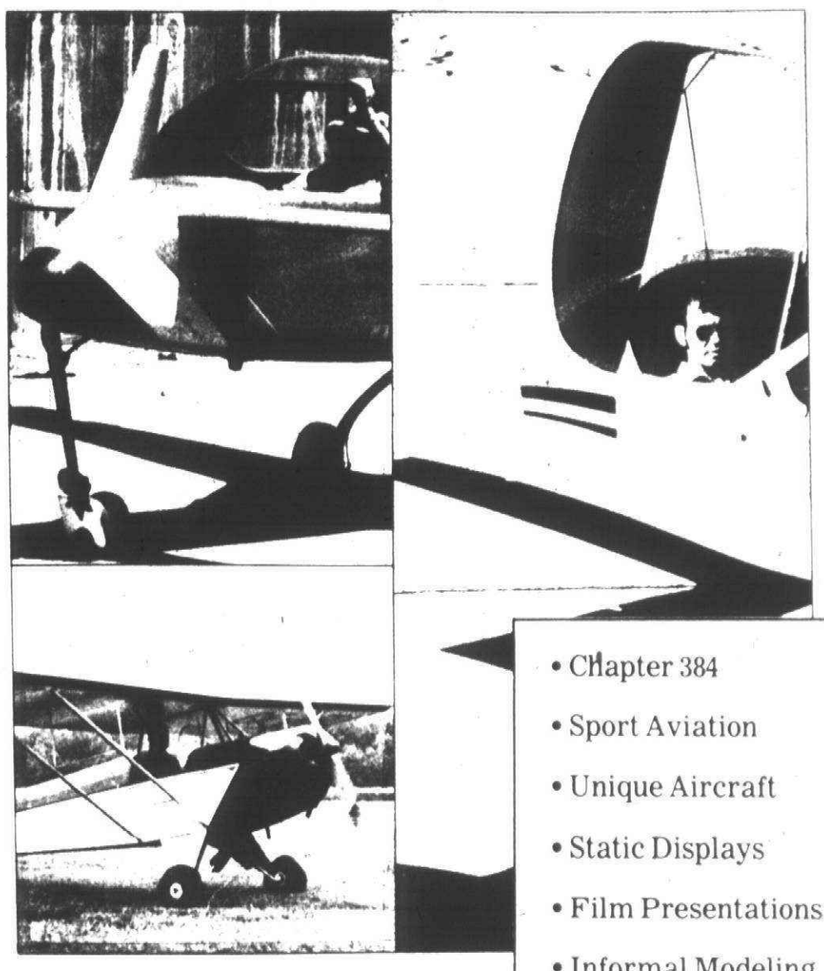

Aside from animal tours, various classes use the farm as the site of photography, graphic and language classes, to name a few.

Adjacent to the farm is a 57-acre site used for nature trails.

The district bought the land, then comprising 300 acres, in the early 1960s. Plans then were to build two additional high schools there.

Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent of business, estimated the closing would result in a cost savings to the district of more than $40,200 next year.

Despite News, county won't probe road board

By Mike Scanlon
staff writer

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners decided Thursday not to believe what it reads in newspapers.

Following a number of impassioned speeches, the board voted against investigating a recent newspaper series charging improprieties, misappropriations and nepotism by the county Road Commission.

At issue was a proposal to request Michael Berry, chairman of the Road Commission, to respond to a four-part Detroit News series alleging mismanagement and misappropriations.

The three-member Road Commission, which oversees construction and maintenance of all county roads and also controls Metropolitan Airport, is appointed by the county Board of Commissioners but is largely autonomous.

A resolution by Commisioner R. William Joyner, D-Plymouth, to seek the response was approved in an 8-3 vote Thursday morning by two board subcommittees meeting jointly. The resolution appeared as a supplement to the full board's Thursday afternoon agenda.

CRITICISM of the resolution was largely based on some board members' stated beliefs that literally nothing printed in newspapers is true.

However, Commissioner George F. Killeen, D-Detroit, said he opposed the resolution because it was too vague.

"This is much like saying to an individual, 'I want you to write the questions down for an exam and then take the exam,'" said Killeen, who favored a personal appearance by Berry before the board.

Seeking written responses "takes away the integrity of the legislative body," Killeen said.

"They thumb their nose at us every chance they get," Killeen said. "Let's look at it from the realistic standpoint of the taxpayer who bangs his tire on the freeway because it hasn't been fixed."

"THE BOTTOM line of the issue before us (is) whether we've got the guts to make people we appoint accountable to us," said Joyner.

Joyner urged commissioners to "bring in outside counsel and start an investigation of our own."

"If you take what a newspaper says about somebody as fact, you're barking up the wrong tree," said Commissioner Arthur Blackwell, D-Highland Park. Blackwell is the son of Highland Park Mayor Robert Blackwell.

"I come from a political family, and down through the years the (Detroit) News and (Detroit) Free Press have written a lot about us, and not one word was true."

"The newspaper article just touches the top the iceberg," said Commissioner Rose Mary Robinson, D-Detroit, "And most if it's scurrilous, sensational news."

Commissioner Ervin Steiner, R-Grosse Pointe, sponsored an amendment to the resolution to allow any commissioner to address sepcific questions to Berry. That failed 9-13 with three abstentions.

The board then rejected 10-14 with one abstention a move to address the questions to the full road commission instead of Berry personally.

THE BOARD then rejected asking any questions at all in a 16-8 vote. Killeen abstained.

Local commissioners Joyner; Mary Dumas, R-Livonia; Thomas Presnell, D-Westland and Richard Manning, D-Redford Township, favored questioning the road commission.

Man is killed by school bus

A 21-year-old Detroit man was killed in Westland Tuesday afternoon when he slipped and fell beneath the wheels of a school bus.

Darryl Bruce Hewitt was dead at the scene of the accident.

According to U.S. Marine sources, Hewitt apparently had been absent without leave from the Corps for nearly a year.

According to Westland police, Hewittt was standing beside a car parked on Grand Traverse relieving himself when the bus, driven by Barbara Safford, went by at 4:22 p.m. Some of the students, enroute to alternative education classes, yelled at Hewitt.

Witnesses said Hewitt was apparently angered by the remarks. When the bus halted at a stop sign at Darwin, Hewitt ran up and began pulling at the bus' radio antennae and mirrors as the bus pulled away. He slipped and fell beneath the left rear wheel, which ran over his head, neck and shoulder.

The bus driver used an on-board radio to call the district garage for help. No criminal action against the bus driver is being considered by police.

Ms. Safford, a Westland resident, has been a bus driver for the Wayne-Westland district since 1978. She regularly drives the Stottlemyer Elementary and Marshall and Stevenson Junior High routes.

She was one of the volunteers who had been chosen by the district to participate in a bus rodeo at Henry Ford Community College on Saturday. School officials say that she has withdrawn from the competition.

"She is shattered. She is very distraught," Superintendent Timothy Dyer told board members at a meeting Tuesday evening.

This is the sixth traffic fatality in the city this year. This is the first fatality involving a Wayne-Westland school bus in the district's history.

Charter unit in hot debate on county board

By Mike Scanlon
staff writer

Things got a little nasty for the normally placid Wayne County Charter Commission in a 4½-hour session Thursday night.

Commissioners clashed frequently and sometimes hotly on language laying down the duties and powers of the county board of commissioners.

Discussion over how many commissioners there should be (there are now 27) took more than two hours. And a debate over county public hospital facilities sparked a series of angry exchanges.

Eventually the 23 members still on hand voted to re-approve nearly all the existing language regarding the county board. That would leave the county board at 15 members.

THE NUMBER of board of commission members under the chartered government has been a hot topic with the charter commission.

So far, the Charter Commission has tended to split rather neatly along suburban-Detroit lines on the issue, with suburban commissioners generally backing a reduction in board members and Detroit commissioners supporting the current 27-member board, the largest allowed by state law.

Charter commissioners agreed a month ago to reduce the number to 15, but that move succeeded by only one vote. At Thursday's session, commissioners turned down four separate attempts to change the 15-member figure.

The first came closest, losing by an 11-12 vote with one abstention. Fourteen affirmative votes are required for passage.

The proposal, by Commissioner Darneau Stewart, D-Detroit, would have established a floating number of commissioners pegged to county population. The number of commissioners would change after each federal census, with one commissioner representing every 110,000 people. Using 1980 census figures there would be 21 members.

Commissioner Kaye Tertzag, D-Allen Park, proposed a nine-member board but the commission quickly rejected that idea, 18-5.

Commissioner Tracy Salisbury, D-Ecorse, suggested 19 members. That went down almost as rapidly, losing 9-14.

COMMISSIONER Cynthia Stephens, D-Detroit, suggested the commission create a 27-member board with the requirement that voters would be asked in 1984 if they wanted to lower the number to 15. If voters were to approve, the 15-member board would be elected in 1986.

The Stephens proposal sparked lengthy debate.

"I do believe this charter should initiate change . . . and this (reduction of the board) is the only area I see where we've initiated significant change," said Commissioner Lyn Banks, R-Livonia.

Mrs. Bankes added that since the new board of commissioners will have fewer duties under a charter, the reduced number of commissioners wouldn't be overloaded because of having more constitutents.

IN A 15-MEMBER board, each commissioner would represent about 150,000 people. Each commissioner now represents about 100,000 residents.

Commissioner Leon Jenkins, D-Detroit, said lowering the number of county commissioners would tend to exclude qualified younger persons. He noted that eight of the 27 charter commission members are under the age of 30.

Commissioner Thomas Watkins, D-Detroit, said he objected to putting the question on the size of the board to the voters.

"I would suggest that's not why we were elected," said Watkins, adding, "To keep a large number of commissioners doing much less at the same rate of pay would fly, I think, in the face of the voters' wishes."

Commissioner William Bledsoe, D-Highland Park, said "I favor the largest number of representatives."

Bledsoe noted that prior charter commission action has tended to concentrate power in the hands of the chief executive officer.

A smaller board "much more likely encourages the kind of collaboration that I suspect would work against the interests" of citizens, Bledsoe added.

Commissioners voted 11-15 to reject Ms. Stephens' proposal.

A BITTER wrangle followed on the question of county-provided health care.

Commissioner Timothy Manning, D-Redford, led a move to change charter language so that the government could conceivably get out from under the support of the deficit-plagued Wayne County General Hospital.

Carolina tundra the key to plants' growth rate

By Donald J. Frederick
special writer

Hundreds of pounds of arctic tundra in North Carolina may yield new information about the growth rate of many plants and future levels of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere.

Collected near Barrow, Alaska, the tundra was flown still frozen to Duke University's phytotron, a climate-controlled facility that has 40 "growth rooms" and six large greenhouses.

Thawed under carefully controlled conditions, the plants and peat comprising the tundra will be examined over two years at various soil and air temperatures and under light conditions duplicating the arctic summer, according to the National Geographic News.

Botanists Dwight Billings of Duke and Kim Peterson of Clemson University, project coordinators, hope the tests will ascertain whether the tundra absorbs or releases carbon dioxide when subjected to warmer temperatures or an increase of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere.

MANY SCIENTISTS have predicted that increasing use of fossil fuels such as coal will sharply boost the amount of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, causing warmer global temperatures. The more serious consequences envisioned include disruptions of agriculture caused by changes in growing cycles and prolonged droughts in the farming regions of the United States and Western Europe, as well as a long-range peril — rising sea levels that would flood coastal towns.

If warmer temperatures do occur, they are expected to be more pronounced in arctic tundra regions, where an estimated third of the world's carbon is stored in peat deposits.

For most of the year, the tundra — a vast region covering some 3 million square miles — is a frigid, hostile, seemingly lifeless realm, but in June it usually comes to life for a five- to six-week growing season in most places. So far, no one knows what effect a prolonged warming trend would have on this expanse.

As Billings points out, "Some researchers, myself not included, think arctic plants will absorb carbon dioxide rather than release it during a longer growing season.

"We hope to settle the question, because a lot of carbon could be relased through peat decomposition, worsening an already worrisome atmospheric carbon dioxide problem. And there are indications that temperatures in the arctic will rise 4 to 7 degrees Farhrenheit in the next 50 to 60 years, lengthening the growing season." The project is supported by the National Science Foundation.

AAA loans engravers

Approximately three-fourths of the $40 million in household goods stolen in Michigan each year could be returned if theft victims had marked their valuables, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Thieves are less interested in identified possessions which can be traced to the owner," said Thomas Bowman, AAA claims director.

Te organization encourages homeowners to participate in Operation Identification, a nationwide program promoted by police and civic organizations.

Scribing tools and invisible-ink pens are available for loan to AAA members at its offices. A AAA Operation Identification kit includes stickers for homes, cars and CB radios that warn the property is coded.

"It is estimated fewer than 10 percent of Michigan homeowners have marked their valuables," said Bowman. "People think burglary will happen only to 'the other guy,' though last year more than 140,000 burglaries were recorded in Michigan."

Homeowners are urged to engrave "MI" followed by their driver's license numbers on televisions, power tools, bicycles, stereos and other items which often become stolen property.

"Your driver's license number enables police in any part of the country to easily trace marked property to the owner," Bowman said.

Soft materials, such as furs and leather goods, can be marked with an invisible ink pen. The marking will show when held under a black light.

Leads UAW

Ann Wilson of Canton has been elected vice president of United Auto Workers Local 898. Ms. Wilson, who has worked for Ford Motor Company electrical and electronics division for 14 years, became involved in the UAW six years ago as a publicist and three years leater was elected a trustee. She attended Eastern Michigan University and Cleary College and has an associates degree in business administration.

Charter draft ready for review

The public will have one last chance to comment on the proposed Wayne County charter before the Charter Commission's mid-June deadline.

Three public hearings have been scheduled next week on the first county charter ever drafted in Michigan.

"Discussion drafts of the new charter will be available Friday, May 29 at the commission offices," said George E. Ward, D-Detroit, chairman of the 27-member group. The office is in 275 Veterans Memorial Building, 151 W. Jefferson, Detroit.

"This discussion draft is being sent out to all segments of the community to enable us to obtain public reaction and feedback prior to June 16, the deadline for completing the charter. It will then be sent to Gov. William G. Milliken for review."

HEARINGS are scheduled for:

- Tuesday, June 2 at 10 a.m. in 514 Veterans Memorial Building.
- Wednesday, June 3 at 6 p.m. in Highland Park High School, 15900 Woodward south of McNichols (Six Mile).
- Thursday, June 4 at 6 p.m. in the UAW Region 1-E hall, 9650 Telegraph, Taylor.

"It is essential that citizens become familiar with the fiscal safeguards and administrative accountability that have been written into the document," said Ward.

The Charter Commission held public hearings in Canton Township, Livonia and Westland earlier in its process. In recent weeks the group has been voting on the charter section by section and then polishing the wording on second reading.

THE CHARTER Commission came into being at the insistence of Milliken and state leaders that Wayne County had to put its fiscal house in order before new state monetary aid would be forthcoming.

By law, the group must write two charters which are to be identical in every respect except that one would set up an elected county executive, like a city mayor, and the other a county manager, appointed by the Board of Commissioners.

An election is expected to be set Nov. 3. Detroit and some cities will have mayoral elections at that time, but most of the rest of Wayne County must hold a special election.

School ABs are available

Absentee ballots for the June 8 school election now are available at the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Office, 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

The ballots are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and also from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, June 6.

Registered voters who will be away from the district on June 8, who are age 60 or older, who are physically unable to go to the polls, or who have religious beliefs which do not permit them to go to the polls are eligible to vote by absentee ballot.

Questions about absentee voting can be answered by calling the board office at 453-0200, ext. 422.

Election of one board candidate for a four-year term, a requestion for one additional mill for operation, a request for permission to levy the full millage allocated, and the election of two trustees for Schoolcraft College will be on the ballot.

Salt orders being filled

The Oakland County Road Commission will accept orders until June 15 for treatments to keep down dust on dirt roads.

The fee for three treatments with calcium chloride is 16½ cents per linear foot with a minimum order of 1,000 feet of roadway.

Orders can be made by calling the Road Commission at 858-4804.

League quizzes 6 Schoolcraft candidates

Voters June 8 will elect two trustees to the Schoolcraft College board. Six candidates are seeking the post.

The Schoolcraft College District encompasses the K-12 school districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth-Canton, along with a small portion of Novi.

Trustees serve six-year terms without pay. A two-year community college, Schoolcraft grants associate in arts and associate in applied sciences degrees. Enrollment is about 8,000.

This questionnaire was prepared by the League of Women Voters, a nonpartisan voter information service which neither endorses nor opposes candidates. The league asked candidates for biographical background and for replies to these questions:

1. What do you believe are the three most important qualities or qualifications to consider in the selection of a president of Schoolcraft College?

2. What significant contributions to you feel you could make to the Schoolcraft board?

3. How can Schoolcraft serve its community more effectively in the '80s? What changes or challenges in this endeavor do you foresee?

Taki J. Anagnostou

49, of 14125 Cranston, Livonia. PhD polymer chemistry. Vice president for research and development of a multiplant chemical coatings company. Adjunct professor U-D College of Engineering. Served on two university industrial advisory councils. Former trustee, Kimberly Oaks Civic Association.

1. Must be an effective communicator in order to interrelate academic environment with the community; must be able to work with the board of trustees, school administrators, faculty and students; must understand and work within the legislative process.

2. My combination of industrial and academic experience can add both viewpoints to the future problems of the college. This is especially important as we try to meet the anticipated revenue shortages. I am well aware of industries' needs and can help coordinate the Schoolcraft program.

3. Trade readjustment and revenue shortfall will be future crises. These crises should be dealt with other than by means of the taxation process. Schoolcraft College should project future needs of industry and meet those needs as well as other needs of the community.

Wesley L. Berry Jr.

10021 Middlebelt, Livonia. I am a member of the Livonia Rotary Club, Jaycees and Elks. I am also a member of the Wm. Perrett Masonic Lodge of Plymouth and reside in Livonia with my wife, Christine. As a successful businessman, I operate three businesses including the Wesley Berry Floral companies. I am the director of instruction for a private vocational school. I'm also a consultant for "Morning Magazine" on WJBK-TV and "Kelly & Company" on WXYZ-TV.

1. The search for a college president should not only be a search for an able administrator, but an effort to find a capable person with a firm understanding of the implications of our rapidly advancing technology. By the year 1990, one would expect computers to have become the single most dominant part of your society, the operation of which will be as important as one's ability to read and write. Also the upcoming economic climate demands that he be capable of making maximum use of tax dollars.

2. My avid belief that a community college should meet not only the enrichment but the occupational needs of its community. This will give our community the advantage of better prepared citizens capable of gaining meaningful employment. My sound judgment and outstanding business background will give me the insight necessary to move Schoolcraft College into the challenges of the 1980s.

3. In the years to come, the age of technology will explode into an era of change. The graduates of Schoolcraft will have to be capable of dealing with a host of new careers, brought about by this change. New abilities will be needed for every occupation, and Schoolcraft will have moral obligations to provide the education necessary for not only the sake of its students but for the enrichment of the entire community.

Richard J. Hayward

52, of 17159 Loveland, Livonia. Have served for three years on the board of trustees at Schoolcraft College. Graduate of Madonna College with a bachelor of science in business administration. Thirty years business experience, former executive VP of a local steel company. Presently self-employed consultant to the structural steel industry. Currently serving on the board of trustees of Madonna College.

1. The three most important qualities or qualifications to consider in the selection of a new president — assuming he has the basic experience and education requirements — would be leadership, integrity and a commitment to the community college concept. Leadership — because the college is going to go through a period of change in the next few years due to funding, enrollment and emphasis on job training. Integrity — so that the different groups involved, students, faculty, administrative staff and public, will have the confidence to support his leadership. We should keep the college in perspective and guide it in the path it was intended for.

2. I would continue to give the Schoolcraft board the benefit of my varied experience in business, construction, labor relations, management and educational training. This varied experienc allows me to make independent, objective decisions on matters affecting the college.

3. Schoolcraft can serve its community more effectively in the 1980s by planning ahead for the changes that are taking place in our society. There is a changing emphasis within education. The emphasis, especially at the community college level now, is job and marketable skills. We must anticipate these changes and have the vision to prepare for them.

Paul Y. Kadish

44, of 18687 Purlingbrook, Livonia. Eight years, board of trustees, Schoolcraft College, including four years as chairperson, two each as vice chairperson and treasurer. Two years, board of directors, Michigan Community College Association. President, Associated Group Underwriters Inc. Former Democratic nominee, state Senate, 14th District.

1. Educational and administrative background and experience and view of the community college concept. Understanding of the suburban community in which the college must live and the educational and political climate in which it must compete, survive and grow. View of the chief executive in relation to the faculty, student body, community and board of trustees.

2. I have worked hard through the years to gain the respect of the faculty, administration, student body and community. I bleieve that I have been reasonably successful. With an ability to work well with people of divergent views, I hope to be able to help mediate those views toward the best interest of the community and higher education.

3. Schoolcraft must continue to provide a quality education at relatively low cost to all who wish it. We must keep a constant vigil to avoid waste and duplication. Continuation and further expansion of our community centers, particularly in Plymouth-Canton and Garden City, are necessary. A constant proram to update career programs with the needs of the job market must be maintained.

John J. Pantalone

52, of 7558 Melvin, Westland. Hold degrees from three universities. Specialist degree concentrated on negotiations, school law and community college. Currently instructing Community College Organization and Administration to graduate students at EMU; past president, Michigan Education Association; chief negotiator (six years) for American Federation of School Administrators; 20 years educational evaluator for North Central Association; board of directors, NMU alumni; 30 years in youth hockey.

1. The prospective president should possess a) a philosophy that is in agreement with the expectations of the community, b) experiences in democratic administration that lead to high morale — he could not survive without the support of students and faculty; c) written and spoken communications skills, integrity in personal and professional relations and strong intellectual ability and scholarship.

2. My most significant contribution will be a willingness to share 20 years of experiences in community college areas. I offer the following: I have been a community college administrator; have studied and taught community college philosophy and administration; am experienced on both sides of the negotiation table. I consider all this extremely important, but even more important, I understand that the roles of board members and the president are significantly different, and both should be respected.

3. Declining high school enrollments, frequent career shifts, early retirements and an increasingly older population all affect sharply needed change in community college service. The notion that a student will enroll for a two-year program and then leave will change markedly. I foresee individuals availing themselves of community college services many times in many ways. Industry and business will seek our services for additional training and retraining of employees.

Laura M. Toy

29, of 28821 Five Mile, Livonia. Graduate with associate of arts degree from Schoolcraft College. Graduate from U-M with bachelor of general studies. Business owner of Cardwell Florist. Women's Advisory Board, Schoolcraft College. Past president, Livonia Youth Commission and Business and Professional Women's Club.

1. Knowledge of fiscal management — managing monies in difficult times. Demonstrated administrative abilities (leadership qualities: ability to delegate authority and responsibility) with strong communications skills with faculty, students, community, political representatives and service organizations. A strong background in innovative instructional approaches to focus the direction of the institution for the '80s and '90s with a commitment to the community college concept.

2. I will be the only past student on the board. My community education background: I understand the directions which the college needs to go in the future to obtain finance dollars while state and federal funds are drying up and becoming more difficult to obtain (such as fund-raising activities which meet the needs of the community). My activities in communities and being a lifelong resident and business owner in the area.

3. Retraining because of the major shift away from jobs in the auto industry. Computer education and word-processing careers for the information explosion and the management of education. Technology at the college must stay current with equipment utilized presently in business and industry. Board members must be aware of declining enrolment of typical 18-20-year-old students. Focus on curriculum career requirements of 30-40-year-old community members in this changing area.

Student Art Fest '81 has been planned especially for student art and student performances and to showcase to the community the talents of students in grades K-12.

The work on planning the Art Fest began as a result of a weekend conference at Eastern Michigan University attended by a Plymouth-Canton ICAP team consisting of:

Governor urged to adopt economic recovery plan

Two Plymouth residents and businessmen have returned home from a statewide conference which has made a number of recommendations to Gov. Milliken to improve the small-business climate and the state's economic future.

Attending the Michigan Conference on Small Business in Lansing were Paul Van Hull of March Tire Company in Plymouth and Ronald G. Loiselle, a partner in General Business Services and a member of the Plymouth City Commission.

The conference's main recommendation to Gov. Milliken was that state government should change the workmans' compensation laws to create jobs in the state's small-business sector.

The conference culminated months of work by small-businessmen and women across Michigan on an agenda of recommendations to the governor and to the state Legislature designed to enhance Michigan's small-business economy.

"Small-business leaders from every part of Michigan worked hard to develop recommendations we think will work," Loiselle said. "But the important thing now is getting the recommendations implemented."

Van Hull added: "The future of our state suggests that most new jobs created will come from small business, so we need to be careful not to kill the goose from which comes the golden eggs.

"BUT OUR conference recommendations represent much more than an attempt to influence legislation for the benefit of small business alone. Small business, labor and big business need to learn to join hands to work with government to make Michigan healthy again.

"A cooperative venture is needed. We no longer can afford to be fighting with each other."

In addition to recommending action on workman's compensation, delegates also made recommendations on capital availability, the Single Business Tax, unemployment insurance, state taxation and minority business development, Loiselle said.

In announcing the Small Business Conference a year ago, Milliken noted that nine out of every 10 new private-sector jobs are created by small businesses and stressed the importance of working closely with Michigan's small-business community to improve Michigan's business climate.

Although Van Hull and Loiselle attended the conference, some of the earlier ground work had been laid with the help of other local businessmen, such as Harold Guenther, Ralph Lorenz, John Hendry and Jim and Kal Jabara.

AMONG THE CHANGES the conference asked in the area of workers' compensation were:

- Compensation shall be specified according to the particular loss of an organ and/or the extent of an injury.
- An employee's total health environment shall be permissible evidence in determining cause and arbitrating claims.
- Workers' disability compensation benefits shall not be granted for ordinary diseases caused by non-work-related factors.
- A claimant shall provide direct and specific connection between mental or physical disability and the claimant's employment. The opportunity for attorneys to solicit claims should be abolished.
- Employers may produce as proof a pre-employment physical, and employers shall not be responsible for any pre-existing condition.
- A reasonable time limit must be placed on the filing of claims so all parties may have the chance to prosecute or defend.
- Workers' compensation benefits should be coordinated with existing benefits such as unemployment, Social Security and pensions.
- Workers' compensation shall not be paid to retired persons who are not currently in the labor force.
- The Michigan Legislature should be asked to define strictly these terms in the law — occupation disease, "in the course of employment," aggravation, total disability and physiological.

UNEMPLOYMENT-COMPENSATION changes requested included:

- The state should extend the present 18 weeks' eligibility process to 26 weeks.
- Eliminate the Michigan Employment Security Commission's (MESC) discretionary power to waive the seeking-work requirements, and redefine "suitable work" as "any work."
- Increase the MESC's ability to recover improperly paid benefits.
- Stop all payments upon filing a prima-facie fraud complaint until resolution by authorities is obtained.
- Establish that claims against an employer by a worker who voluntarily quits should not exceed one week.
- Increase minimum-earnings requirement to 30 hours per week times the minimum wage.
- Reduce benefits to a level sufficient to cover the basic needs of the individual but not be so high as to destroy the incentive to return to work.

THE CONFERENCE also asked for abolishment of the Single Business Tax (SBT) and enactment of a business income tax.

The business income tax would be calculated on federal taxable income with the first $50,000 of federal taxable income being exempt from taxation. The balance would be subject to a flat percent of tax to a maximum of 10 percent.

The enactment of a business income tax, Loiselle said, would forbid the reinstitution of a franchise fee, inventory tax or any new tax to replace income lost through abolishment of the SBT.

The conference also asked that sunset review legislation be enacted to force a complete review of all regulations and regulatory agencies. This review would be done before the end of 1983 by a commission appointed by the governor.

For those regulations which would survive the sunshine review, the conference asks that a multitiered system of regulation be established to equalize the compliance burden on all companies. To obtain such flexibility, the conference asks that businesses be classified as follows: 1. 0-9 employees; 2. 10-47 employees; 3. 50-249 employees.

The small-business conference also asked the governor to establish a policy of incentives for capital formation for small business (both equity and debt).

The tax incentives should be provided to encourage venture-capital firms to locate in Michigan and loan money to Michigan small businesses, Van Hull said. The incentive should take the form of a tax abatement.

An exemption to state taxation should exist for interest income received from funds invested in Michigan financial institutions and for dividends received from Michigan corporations, Loiselle said.

ANOTHER POLICY statement the conference seeks is recognition that:

"The future of Michigan's economic development lies with the future of its small businesses" and declares that "the intimidation and insensitivity of government toward small business must cease."

The conference also called upon the state to enforce all equal-credit-opportunity laws, to monitor banking lending practices with women business owners and to provide sensitivity training to banking boards about women business owners.

The conference asks that public education be required to make available instruction in small-business education and that instruction include the economics of the marketplace and the need for entrepreneurship in the economy.

The Legislature also was asked to pass a Michigan Right to Work Law.

Another recommendation was that municipalities, schools and governmental agencies should not be in direct competition with private enterprise.

Construction causes detour

The construction of the added hotel rooms atop the Mayflower Hotel and upcoming construction of Mayflower II above the Weidman Parking Lot has necessitated a detour of traffic which normally uses the public alley between the Slak Shak and the Mayflower Hotel. The alley is used by trucks making deliveries to both the hotel and to Cloverdale Dairy, by refuse trucks to pick up from the commerdial dumpsters, and by customers who use the drive-in window at Cloverdale to make purchases. During the construction period, Cloverdale is advising its drive-in window customers to enter from Main Street at the south end of Weidman Parking Lot and then turn right at the alley behind the lot.

Elected VP

Keith Logsdon of Plymouth has been elected vice president of student government at Lawrence Institute of Technology. Logsdon, a 1979 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School, is a sophmore majoring in architecture. He also is the corresponding secretary for Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and a member of the student chapter of the American Institute of Architects (AIA).

Teachers learn economic role

Educators have a role in Michigan's economic redevelopment, whether they see it yet or not.

That's the thinking behind a series of seminars the state Board of Education is holding around the state for community-college and high-school industrial arts instructors and administrators.

"The training and re-training of local workers is often a key factor in bringing diversification and growth to local economies," Phillip E. Runkel, state superintendent of public instruction, said. "Educators must be able to respond to these needs when development projects are planned."

FOR SOUTHEAST Michigan, a conference is planned for 9 a.m. to noon on Tuesday, June 23, in the Norman Stockmeyer Performing Arts Center of Wayne Memorial High School, Fourth and Glenwood, Wayne.

Others will be held on June 16 at Michigan State University, East Lansing; June 17, Northern Michigan University, Marquette; June 18, Kirtland Community College, Roscommon; June 26, Grand Center, Grand Rapids; and June 30, Mott Community College, Flint.

The seminar is free, and no advance registration is necessary.

The executive office will present a briefing on the economic outlook; the University of Michigan has a presentation on auto-industry trends and implications; and the Commerce and Labor departments will outline their roles and how educators can play a part.

"ALERTING this large segment of the population, informing them, preparing them for the responsibilities they must take in strengthening local economies — these are essential to success in economic development," Runkel said.

The department is expecting a total of 2,000 persons to register, although there will be room for more.

The program is an offshoot of seminars in economic development given to community leaders in industry and business during the last two years. The seminars are co-sponsored by the Michigan Industrial Developers Association, the University of Michigan's Industrial Development Division and the Departments of Education, Commerce and Labor.

Inflation hurts school district from our readers

To the editor:

Well, the time has come again when our schools in the Wayne-Westland community desperately need our help. We can do this by renewing the 32 mills for a period of five years if we are concerned parents and citizens of the community.

As parents of two children, one attending Stevenson Junior High and John Glenn High, we know how very important the education of our children is.

Our children and all of the children all over are the people who will someday be the leaders of our country. They are the ones who will be making all the decisions that will benefit all of us. If they don't have an adequate education, they won't be able to complete this job with any satisfaction.

People somehow don't seem to realize how important a millage vote is. We all know how inflation has made the cost of things go sky-high just in our homes, but this also applies to schools as well.

THE SCHOOLS don't receive their supplies free just because they are schools, and the teachers can't be expected to work for nothing. The teachers at both Stevenson and John Glenn are the most qualified you will find anywhere. They really care what happens to our kids and their futures. You don't find this true everywhere you go.

People don't realize also that if there aren't funds available, so many programs need to be cut.

Let's face it, once you loose qualified people and good scheduling, it's very difficult to get it back.

Everyone is concerned about the overburdening tax loads and are trying to reduce their total expenditures. So, remember this isn't an increased tax but a continuation of the present one which will then allow the schools to continue with their up-grading.

Therefore, I am asking that everyone please keep this all in mind, and please get out and vote on June 8 to win.

Mr. and Mrs. James Burrell
Westland

Smith writes to 'clear' record

To the editor:

I find it necessary to correct information put forth in your front page article on thepurging of the reprimand from my file. The facts are:

1. Instead of one, there were two reprimands written by Dr. John Telford in February 1981. One small part had to do with a high school principal. Dr. Hoben removed the reprimand dealing with this issue on April 21. The board, by its action on May 11, removed the other reprimand dealing with a letter I had written to board president Carol Davis.

2. Although the grievance procedure of the master agreement between the board of education and the PCA was used in carrying through with the appeal, it should be made clear that the PCA did not file the grievance. It was an individual matter without any PCA involvement.

3. The Bird School controversy had nothing to do with the introduction of the West Proposal. The proposal called for a phasing out of the ninth grade from the CEP and the establishment of one junior high school instead of five. The superintendent seemed to object to the introduction of this proposal, even though Dr. Telford had accepted it on behalf of the middle school principals.

4. The reprimands were issued at the same time as the public hearing and never were private matters within administrator ranks. Most building administrators did not know of the reprimands until they were made public by myself.

5. Even though I asked for a public hearing on the issue, the board chose to meet in a closed session, without granting any hearing, to make its decision. I would assume that the reason for removing the reprimands by the superintendent and the board is that it did not have any merit in the first place.

I would be willing to share with you the documents dealing with the reprimands and grievances so that you can have a full understanding of the process and the issues.

I would appreciate the publishing of this letter to correct the errors in the article and give my fellow educators and interested parents a more accurate account. Thanks.

Robert Smith, Principal
West Middle School

(Principal Smith has access to "facts" which have never been made public, and therefore have not been published. Secret meetings can result in incomplete information being known by the public. Despite Principal Smith's denial, the grade realignment opposed by West parents and staff, and the ESY expansion opposed by Bird parents and staff remained linked as recently as May 22, when Bird could not be taken off ESY without some sixth-graders being transferred to West. — Editor.)

VFW thanks parade helpers

To the editor:

The American Legion Post 391 and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6695 wish to thank everybody who attended the Memorial Day Parade. It was great to see such a good turnout of the citizens.

We especially want to thank the Department of Public Works employees, William Ash, Herbert Canady and Melvin Behling for a fine job.

The Plymouth Police Department members who did a fine job on parade safety were patrolmen Roger Roy, Michael Gardner, Gerry Vorva, Thomas Bowing, Lt. Ralph White, and Inspector Carl Berry.

We are indebted to John Hopkins for the horse and carriage for Maurice Breen and W.W. Edgar to ride in.

To Miss Kelly Hubert for the recitation of Flanders Field.

To Dr. Fredick Vosburg of the First Methodist Church for his services.

To Mayor pro-tem Eldon Martin for his leading in the pledge of allegiance.

To Supervisor Maurice Breen as the master of ceremonies.

To James Griffith and the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Band.

To Cheryl Waldermaeyer and the Central Middle School Band.

To Linda Calzone and the East Middle School Band.

To the VFW color guard and bugler under the direction of Daune Johnson.

We are greatly indebted to Eddie Edgar for his fine delivery of his speech in memory of the fallen servicemen of this country. The crowd was spellbound by his delivery.

No parade would be complete without the fine attendance of the Girl Scouts, the troop of Boy Scouts, and the pack of Cub Scouts.

We enjoyed having the Civil Air Patrol under the leadership of 2nd Lt. Brian Graham. They are a fine addition to any parade.

Don't cut Latin from schools

To the editor:

In ancient Rome, the masses were governed by an elite few who either had access to the Academe or were politically favored. The Council made all national and international decisions and if a Council member or two were of a different mind, they were quickly and quietly knifed.

Ancient history! Who cares! Obviously the administrators of our school district either do not care or are unfamiliar with history. In any case, they are denying our ninth graders this knowledge. They have knifed Latin I from the ninth-grade curriculum. The few who see Latin as an integral part of their educational foundation have been quickly and quietly stabbed in the name of fiscal priorities.

Wake up, Plymouth-Canton parents! Why can't Johnny read? Because he doesn't know words. Why does Jane score miserably on SAT and ACT? Because she doesn't know words. Why can't we communicate personally and publicly? Because we don't know words? A sound education of Latin is a sound education of words — knowing precise meanings, deriving meanings from root words, a dictionary in our heads!

If we cannot see ancient history repeating itself as we stab one academic program after another, how will tomorrow's history be any different? We cannot restore fiscal health to our schools until we realize that English, math and science need a strong foundation if they are to be truly meaningful and useful to our students — the ones who will govern our schools tomorrow. Fiscal soundness is built on a sound education.

Latin is a part of that foundation. The word educate comes from the Latin word "educare" meaning to rear: to erect by building.

Public supports the Symphony

To the editor:

A thank you to the Plymouth-Canton community.

The Plymouth Symphony League and Plymouth Symphony Society wish to express their appreciation to all of you for the enthusiastic support we have received during the 1980-81 season.

This has been an extraordinary successful year for the orchestra and the league and we owe much of that success to you who have faithfully attended our concerts and supported all our fundraisers.

Your warm welcome extended to our new conductor, Johan Van der Merwe, has been most gratifying, and he is now planning another season for your listening pleasure.

Our only regret is that two of the planned events (Young People's Concert and the Home Tour) were so well received that they were sold out and many were disappointed. We never anticipated both events would be so popular and that more would want to attend than we were able to accommodate.

We hope for the communities' combined good will and support in the 1981-82 season. The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra is your orchestra and without your support, their long tradition of excellence and service to the community could not be maintained.

As Tisch blusters, majority quiet

Take a ride up to Lansing these days and you'll see one governor and a whole pack of state legislators collectively scratching their heads.

Once again, Michigan taxpayers have rejected a tax proposal that would have offered some relief to property owners.

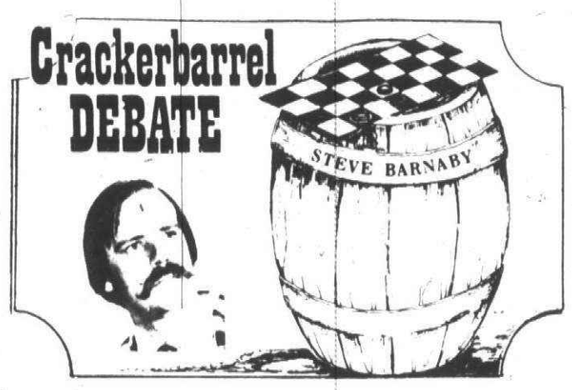

Political leaders are befuddled. They should be ashamed of themselves for catering to the baser political grumblings of this state's malcontents.

For years, we've heard about this alleged nationwide tax revolt. After all, Californians did it, so the rest of the country must want to make the same stupid mistake. Right? Wrong — dead wrong.

Proposal A's defeat demonstrates that a majority of taxpayers are responsible enough to reject tax schemes sculpted to satiate the masses.

Thank the Almighty, come November 1982 the next Tisch-type plot to emasculate state government also will face defeat at the polls. Hopefully, that will bring down the curtain, at least in Michigan, on all this gobblygook about tax revolt.

The worst part about Proposal A's defeat is that for the next 16 months, we're all going to have to listen to the Shiawassee drain commissioner gaggle on and on about how "the people" (whatever that means) are fed up with government waste.

BUT THE REAL story on government waste is just beginning to be told. And by the time it comes unraveled, nobody in his or her right mind will want to kowtow to the likes of Robert Tisch.

Last week was a grim reminder of what a combination of timid political leaders and an uneducated electorate can cost.

For years, a number of state institutions have been neglected because of lack of sufficient and responsible financing. Our state prisons are a prime example.

The result: riots that will cost the taxpayer more than a million dollars. And still the problem of overcrowded prisons with understaffed, untrained guards is with us.

"The people" beef the elected officials respond. Contrary to what the Tisch malcontents say, the politicians are responding with an unseemly lack of courage.

Now political leaders are being told to cut the budget even more, yet maintain services — at least those services that please the chronic complainers.

But Michigan isn't alone in its burden of irresponsible political leadership urged on by an uninformed, but vocal, minority. The nation has a president whose budget policies will spell only trouble down the line for all of us.

"Cut social programs until it hurts" seems to be the motto.

IT'S TIME FOR the majority to stand up and bring our political leaders back into line.

They are only responding to the voices they hear. And those voices are talking irrepsonsibly.

Enough of this tax cut nonsense. It's time to get back to governing ourselves in a responsible manner.

It's time to take hold of events before they take hold of us and we lose control to a desparate anarchy.

Tim Richard

You name it, state voters will reject it

To a gambler, the political odds are pretty grim. Your chances of getting a tax proposal passed by Michigan voters are slender.

From 1972-81, voters have have passed only three of 17 money plans offered them, a batting average of .176.

In that campaign, self-styled tax-cutting champ Robert Tisch offered to debate Gov. William Milliken. Tisch volunteered to represent "the people."

The fact is that Milliken (4-0) has the longest tenure in the executive office in Michigan history. Tisch has never offered his name outside Shiawassee County, but the two tax plans bearing his name were rejected by voters. So much for Tisch (0-2) as the voice of "the people."

THE FACT is that Michigan voters have cared little for any of the money issues placed before them. They:

- Passed the 1972 lottery plan with a 73 percent yes vote.
- Rejected a 1972 plan to limit property taxes and shift to a state-support plan that would have included a higher income tax, 42 percent yes.
- Rejected a 1972 plan to remove the ban on a graduated income tax, 31 percent yes.
- Rejected a 1972 bond issue for Vietnam veterans benefits, 48 percent yes.
- Rejected a 1974 plan to limit use of the motor-fuel tax, 49 percent yes.
- Approved in 1974 lifting the sales tax on food and drugs, 55.5 percent yes.
- Rejected in 1974 a state transportation bond issue, 42 percent yes.
- Rejected in 1976 the Headlee I tax-limitation amendment, 43 percent yes.
- Rejected in 1976 a plan to permit a graduated income tax, 28 percent yes.
- Approved in 1978 the Headlee II tax-limitation amendment, 53 percent yes.
- Rejected in 1978 a voucher plan of state aid to private schools, 26 percent yes.
- Rejected in 1978 the Tisch I property-tax cut, 37 percent yes.
- Rejected in 1980 the Smith-Bullard plan to replace the property tax as a source of school funding with an income tax, 21 percent yes.
- Rejected in 1980 the "coalition" plan to reduce property taxes and replace part of the revenue with a sales-tax increase, 26 percent yes.
- Rejected in 1980 the Tisch II property-tax cut, 44 percent yes.
- Rejected in 1980 an increase of 0.1 percent in the income tax to pay for prison construction, 37 percent yes.
- Rejected in 1981 a property-tax cut to be replaced in part by a sales-tax increase.

WHAT DO YOU make of it?

Despite the Tisch tirade, somewhere between 20 and 30 percent of the voters want a graduated income and a shift of tax effort to the income tax. This group didn't want even the modest $250-million cut in state expenditures that was proposed, even though Tisch and his hired PR counselors portray him as the champion who beat Proposal A.

A hard-core group of 40 percent is against everything and for a tax cut.

A group of 30 to 40 percent is in the middle and doesn't know what to make of it all. They seem to want to hold the line on taxes, but aren't sure yet how to do it.

'Isn't that Tisch doing the somersaults?'

Platitudes won't cure economy

The sun beamed across Orchard Lake as Lt. Gov. James Brickley began to speak. It was a Wednesday morning breakfast during last week's celebration of Michigan Week for the greater West Bloomfield area.

It couldn't have been an easy speech for Brickley to give since it was the morning after Proposal A had failed by a 3-1 margin. These are troubled times for Michigan's leaders. They are trying to come to grips with rising taxpayers' expectations in a shrinking economy.

Despite the setback, his talk was upbeat — in tune with the spirit of Michigan Week. Brickley talked of the great diversity of people, land and areas of the state. He even praised the Michigan weather on this bright, warm Wednesday morning.

One guest at my table cynically remarked, "Isn't that typical of a politican? He's trying to take credit for good weather."

IT'S EASY to be cynical today about Michigan and its political leaders. Taxpayers are frustrated, yet they continually reject every tax proposal put before them. The auto industry is in turmoil, and the state is reeling from an over-dependence on one industry.

Yet, Brickley was trying to do a little cheerleading during Michigan Week and remind us all of the assets of the state.

His remarks were appropriate for a week designed to honor Michigan and the achievements of local persons in building their communities. As a "naturalized" Michigan resident of 10 years, perhaps I view the state differently from many lifelong residents.

I find the celebration of Michigan Week delightful and a necessary pause from the typical doom and gloom of recent Michigan news.

But I am also apprehensive about the state's ability to come to grips with its real problem — an overdependence on the automobile industry. Most Michigan residents appear convinced that auto sales will someday return to the levels of 1978-79.

"If we can only hold out a little longer, everything will be all right," seems to be the reasoning.

THE AUTO industry is never going to recover fully. It's as simple as that.

The obvious answer is that the state must turn its attention to attracting and keeping other industries. There's no secret here — it's something that state leaders have known for many years.

Now another group is starting that promises to combine the strengths of the state legislature, labor and colleges.

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, is trying to get the state's key decision makers together to hammer out an agenda for Michigan's economy. It's easy to be cynical and lump this new effort with all those that have been unsuccessful. But what are the alternatives?

I, along with concerned persons in this state, wish this group well. It's time for Michigan to put up or shut up. Mouthing platitudes about diversification of the economy while keeping our fingers crossed for a rebound of the auto industry will not work.

It's time for this state to get over its collective inferiority complex about the glamor of the sunbelt states. Yes, Michigan Week reminded us that this is a great state. But it won't stay great because of a dream or a wish.

It's time for my adopted state to roll up its sleeves and begin charting a course for the 1980s.

Workers, players robots

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

If coming events cast their shadows before them as some folks would have us believe, we are headed for a generation of robots and what will be left for human hands and minds to do may be a question.

One sign came the other evening when a science scene on the tube showed a robot welder moving along the assembly line at an automobile plant, doing work that man has done ever since the late Henry Ford introduced mass production of the old Model T.

Before that, The Stroller had been given a surprise while on a visit to one of our larger plants where he was shown the mechanics of the stock room. Small trucks moved about and stopped here and there to deposit material. There was not a human hand in sight.

Yet, the general manager, in his office, could command it to change direction and increase the number of pieces to add to the stockpile. It was almost unbelieveable.

A BIG SURPRISE came recently when the Detroit Tigers tried to make robots out of their pitchers.

Under this system a coach, sitting on the bench, gave the signal of what type of pitch to give the batter. The pitcher became nothing more than a robot, for he was denied the right to select his own type of pitch, no matter how well he knew the batter.

The odd part is that the scheme worked for all but one pitcher. He protested and was given the right to select his own pitches.

For some time, the robot system has been used in football. For years, the quar terback, even in the smallest school league, called the signals. He scanned the defense and then gave the numbers that started the play in the direction he wanted.

Then came the day when coaches, fearful of their jobs in many cases, started calling plays from the sidelines. Now, it is taken for granted that the quarterback seldom calls the play. True, he may change the play at the line of scrimmage, but the coach had sent in the play.

ONE COACH, when asked by The Stroller why he insisted on calling the plays and making a robot out of his quarterback, answered, " My job dependds on the number of games we win, and I am not going to let any young player take over the right to call them. I am not that much of a gambler."

It wasn't always this way in college football. There was a time when the coach was denied a right to call play from the sidelines. But shrewd old coaches like " Greasy" Neale at the University of West Virginia, and later at Yale, beat the rule by by wearing a yellow cap and bright yellow shoes.

These were easily detected from the sidelines. So, he'd lift his foot in kicking fashion to signal a play or twist his cap. He got away with it for years.

In those days, the game was supposed to teach leadership and help to prepare a player for life after graduation. But the almighty dollar has changed all that — at least in sport.

The game no longer belongs to the players. They have become robots performing before crowded stadia around the land.

The same is true along assembly lines in auto plants. They claim now that the robot welder does a better and faster job than humans and that means more suitable numbers at the bottom line.

So, all signs point to the possibility that we are developing a generation of robots.

Did you know that if the rivers of our state were joined together in one straight line, such a river would extend 36,000 miles? Michigan's shoreline touching the Great Lakes would extend twice as far as the Atlantic shoreline from Maine to southern Florida. We are rightly called "The Great Lake State."

New products help

Mounting your photos is easy

Monte Nagler

If you're like most people, you have lots of photographs tucked away in drawers or stacked in a box on the top shelf of the closet, brought out only on rare occasions.

Many are of memorable family events, so you're probably not getting full enjoyment out of them. Perhaps you're even a good amateur photographer and have plenty of 8 by 10's piled neatly away but not on the wall where they belong.

Mounting and framing photographs may seem hard, complicated and expensive, and so you stay clear of what truly is an exciting and rewarding part of photography. Actually, mounting is easy. The innovative people at the 3M Co. tell me they have many products available for use at home. With them, you can do your own professional-looking mounting jobs.

AFTER YOU'VE selected your photograph and chosen the size and color mat board, you're ready to begin.

Probably the quickest and easiest mounting product is Photomount spray adhesive. Photomount comes in a spray can and is applied by spraying the back of the photograph with crisscross strokes. Wait about 30 seconds until the adhesive becomes "tacky" and then press into position on the mat board.

Center the picture equally from left to right, but for aesthetic reasons, allow a little more mat board on the bottom than on the top. With a protective piece of paper, apply pressure with a hard rubber roller to insure a permanent, high-strength bond. Always remember to use this spray adhesive in a room with adequate ventilation.

ANOTHER PRODUCT for mounting photographs is 567 Positionable Mounting Adhesive (PMA) sheets. No heat, no mess, and no expensive equipment are required.

PMA makes a permanent bond and has the advantage of being repositionable if you should incorrectly place your photo on the mounting board.

PMA comes in different sizes and is protected by two cover sheets. First, remove one cover sheet exposing the adhesive. Place against the back of the photograph and apply pressure with the squeegee furnished in the package.

Then remove the second cover sheet and press the photograph against the mount board (remember it's repositionable). Apply firm pressure a second time with the squeegee, and a permanent bond is obtained.

If you'll be doing a lot of cold mounting, 3M makes a pressure applicator that uses PMA in rolls. No electricity is needed, and you can process more than one print at a time.

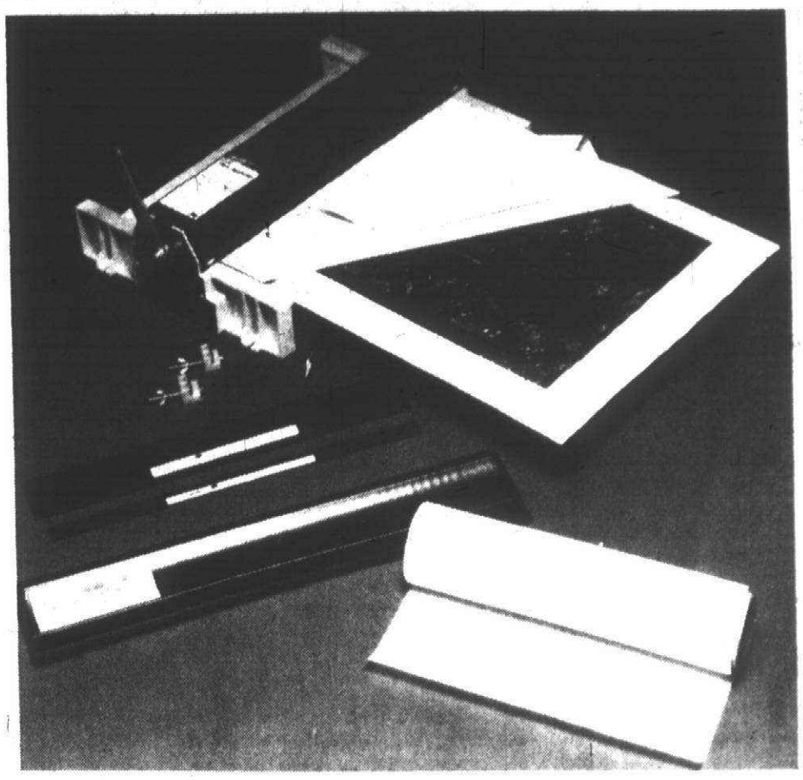

FOR THOSE of you who own a dry mounting press, there is a product that eliminates tacking, uses a relatively low 180° temperature, and is also repositionable. It's called Pro-Mount, and to me it's a very exciting product.

It's much easier to use than dry mounting tissue and is safe for all types of color photographs. The adhesive sheet is applied to the print similar to that of PMA 567, and no trimming is required as with conventional dry mounting tissue.

When the second cover sheet is removed, position on the mounting board and apply pressure to keep the photo in place. Then put in your dry mounting press for 45 seconds to obtain a lasting bond.

By reapplying heat at any future time, your photograph can be easily removed from the mounting board.

There you have it — three easy and permanent ways to mount your photographs.

Cold mounting is easy and efficient with 3M's pressure applicator, using PMA in sheets or rolls.

If you belong to a camera club or any other group interested in mounting photographs, contact Jackie Lichty of 3M Co. at 477-5000 to arrange a free mounting material workshop for your organization.

U-M chief: 'Invest in the future'

The nation must "continue investing in its future" by providing for "very modest real growth" — instead of reductions — in the National Science Foundation's budget, University of Michigan president told a Congressional committee.

President Harold T. Shapiro, testifying before the Senate Subcommittee on Science, Technology and Space, said the NSF holds "a crucial role among government agencies because it is responsible for the overall health of U.S. science and technology.

"However, the present budget request will not enable the foundation to meet this important responsibility. This situation has serious implications for the future."

Shapiro, an economist, noted that the NSF budget should be considered "in the broader context of the country's very real economic problems.

"In the last decade, the U.S. economy has lost significant momentum," he said. Productivity growth rates have been declining; investment in new plant and equipment has been inadequate; the U.S. position in world trade has slipped considerably; inflation shows signs of becoming a chronic condition.

The reasons for the current economic plight are "many and complex," Shapiro said, and it will take "wisdom and patience" to resolve the difficulty. If sacrifices are needed, he noted, higher education, including the major research universities, ought to shoulder some of the burden in order to return the economy to a non-inflationary growth path.

But the proposed NSF budget "could impair the continuing vitality of U.S. science and the major research university and threaten our long-run economic renewal and our national potential for participating in the developments of the next decades," Sharpiro said.

"U.S. universities are the country's main source of new knowledge and highly trained people. Budgetary policies which unwisely harm their ability to discharge these responsibilities will adversely affect the quality of our national life."

Among the "unfortunate implications" of the NSF budget for research universities, Shapiro said, are:

- A $100 million initiative which would help universities replace obsolete research equipment has been deferred. These funds could be "an important ingredient and a major symbol in enlisting support from other sources in order to provide leading researchers with more adequate and productive tools.

"Steps to reverse the long-term decline in federal investment for academic — and other — research facilities is, it seems to me a high priority."

- The proposed phasing out of NSF fellowship would mean that "some outstanding students will not continue their education and will not, therefore, enter the work force as highly trained scientists and engineers.

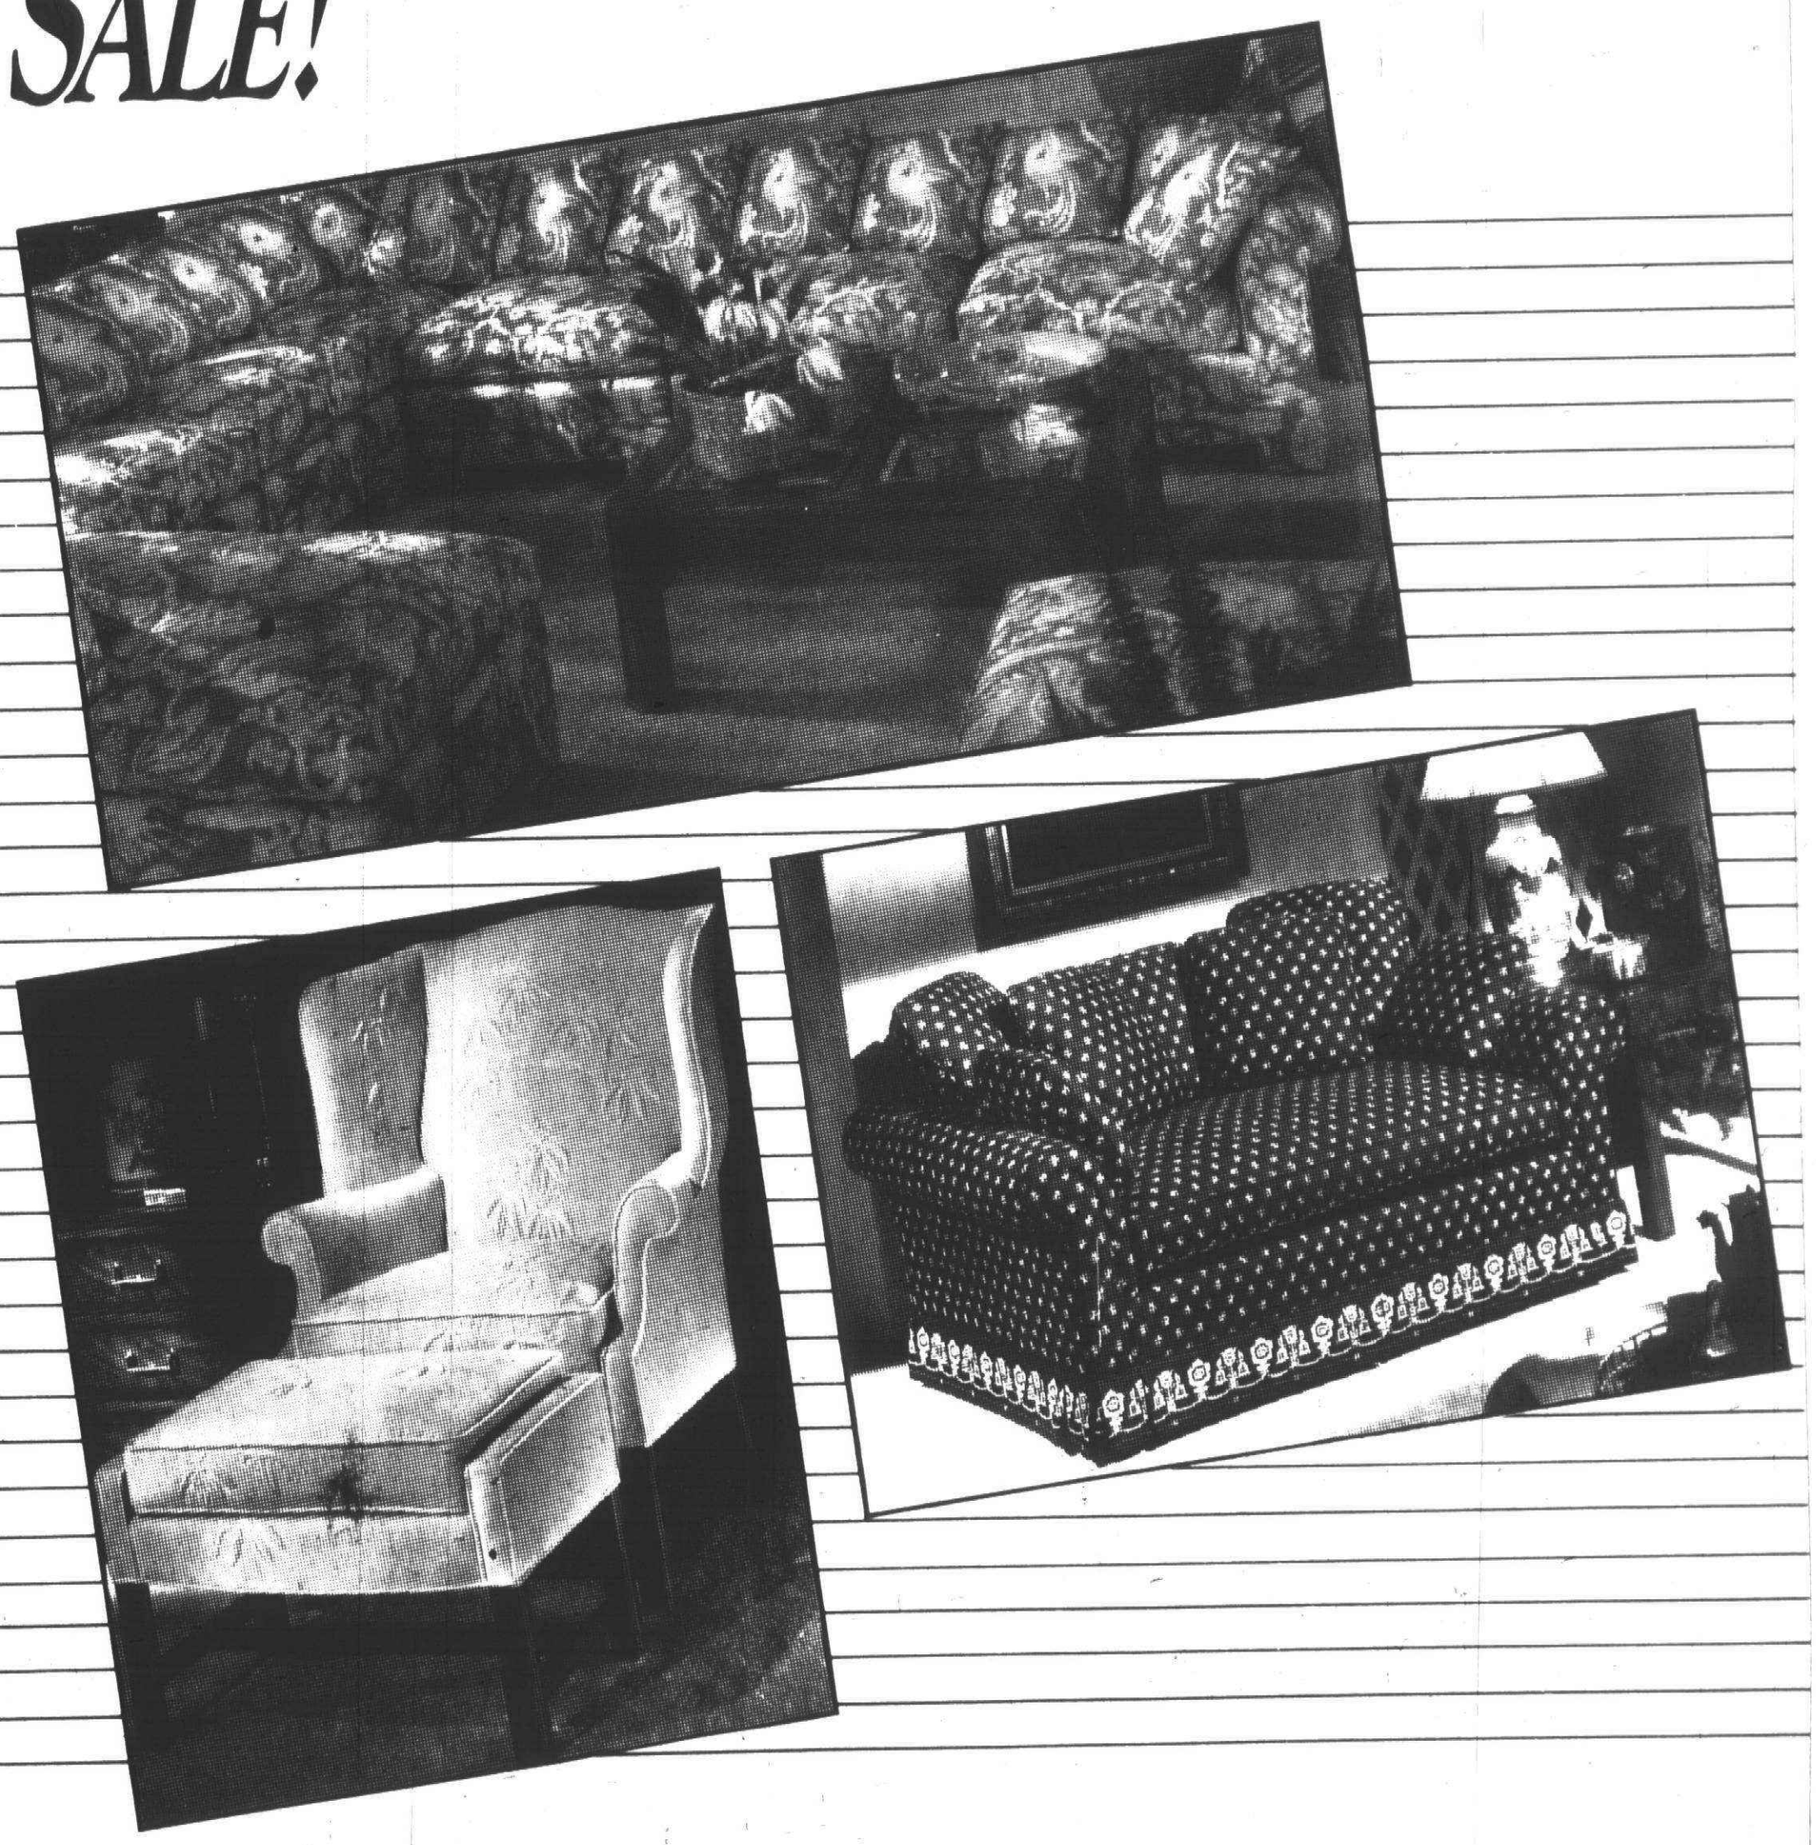

"Comparisons with other countries show that too few of our brightest students continue their education in science and engineering beyond the baccalaureate."

- The large reduction in the NSF budget for the support of social science research is "ironic" because so many of the country's problems have a strong economic and behavioral component.

"Developments in the physical and the social sciences go hand in hand. In many applications it is essential that they go hand in hand. Such joint developments will be more and more necessary as we move to newer technologies.

"The balanced pluralistic system of research support that has served the country well for three decades has now been replaced, it seems, by the Office of Management and Budget unilaterally 'calling the shots.'"

School athletic cut is overdue

To the editor:

I experienced a rude awakening the other evening at the Plymouth-Canton School Board workshop. The athletic department was outlining the areas of their program that would be affected by the $171,000 budget cut they are facing. As the proposed cuts were listed I sat in disbelief that many of these cuts had not been made long ago.

Since when have we been providing practice uniforms and warm-up outfits for our teams, filming/videotaping our games, and supporting reduced cost physical exams for our prospective players? Why have these costs, to this point at least, been considered integral to the athletic program? According to the administration, the lion's share of the new athletic budget will be covering the costs of transportation and salaries (coaches' and officials'.)

During the meeting, it was proposed that two new sports, soccer and hockey, be added to the athletic roster in name only. The parent spokespersons felt that these programs could be totally self-supporting. They asked only for district recognition of these sports on a varsity level so that participating athletes could more easily qualify for financial assistance available through colleges. The administration was not receptive to their request, a coolness I find hard to understand.

It is my perception that the district does not want to deal with the issue raised when parents want to directly fund a program that is either presently offered by the district or potentially part of the district juristiction. It's all a matter of control. If parent, booster and fund-raising activities support a program, who runs it?

Are administrators afraid that parents will bring undue pressure upon them? I hasten to remind the policy makers and administrators of this district that taxpayers presently are funding all programs in the schools anyway, regardless of whether the dollars are locally raised or filtered through Lansing.

I have never considered myself a supporter of the extra-curricular athletic program. I would much prefer that our physical education budget be concentrated on an enhanced school-day program. All our children would benefit from such a shift in philosophy.

I also have no ax to grind with the district athletic department. We have long provided a fine enrichment program for those students who are athletically gifted and talented. Next year's athletic enrichment program should cost the district about $140,000.

However, I find it fascinating that our academically gifted and talented students will have to make do with a budget of about $90,000. Transportation is basic to the athletic department, a luxury for the TAG program. Coaches' and officials' salaries are "bare bones" to athletics, a sufficient teaching staff a dream for TAG. It is ironic that we provide more funds for an extra-curricular activity than we do for one that comes under the heading of basic education.

The only conclusion I can draw from the budgetary support levels of these programs is that athletic giftedness is considered to be a more valuable resource in the Plymouth and Canton communities than academic giftedness — $50,000 per year more valuable.

Social workers clarify roles

To the editor:

The social workers of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools continue to feel the need to attempt to clarify their roles, the purpose of their meeting with the board of education on April 27.

The state Mandatory Act of July 1980 declared that social workers were essential to the evaluation of emotionally impaired students. The social workers were not "written out" as has been stated in the media.

The confusion may have arisen from the recent ruling by the Attorney General denying the use of special education funds for reimbursement of social workers for services given to general education students. Social workers have always served both groups.

About a third of my working hours are spent evaluating and working with "certified students." Such service is clearly requested in this law and further written into the IEPC committee meeting recommendations of many learning disabled, mentally impaired and emotionally impaired students.

Our protest to the board was over a cut in services to more than 800 families and their children annually by the eight workers presently employed. Further, this was the only service to be eliminated. It is neither judicious nor economic to drastically cut a service which helps avoid special education costs by preventing situations from becoming more severe through intervention or referral.

Also, social workers labor eagerly to help children become better adjusted and thus leave their "label" behind. The Michigan state superintendent organization called the school social work program one of the most cost effective services available to the schools in a letter to the recent Special Education Budget Committee.

Social workers are dedicated to the avoidance of putting children in special programs unless it is essential. We want to help cut the sky-rocketing costs and numbers of certified children. The most important reason for social workers being part of evaluating children is their accessability to records, classroom observations, social and developmental histories, and opportunity to reach teachers, parents and students. This is important for the preservation of the rights of parents and children.

School social workers have always seen their role as one of giving guidance, support, and direction to parents about the needs of their children with the goal of preventing certification, maladjustments, and barriers to good learning.

Thank you for your interest in this matter.

PLYMOUTH Rotary Club was well-represented at the International District 640 convention in Toronto. Most of them traveled by train from Windsor to Toronto and they stayed in the Royal York, across the street from the station.

Lou and Gail LaRiche flew with Jerry and Sandy Lankenau in their private plane.

Dick Kirchgatter, president of the Plymouth club, and Lee Feldkamp were awarded Paul Harris Fellowships at the final dinner dance.

Those who attended the convention were: Jim and Jan Carney, Bill and Theresa Covington, Clarence and Louise DuCharme, Lee and Rita Feldkamp, Maynard and Helen Fleming, Bill and Lee Ferman, Ken and Esther Hulsing, Dick and Elaine Kirchgatter, Gerry and Phyllis Loiselle, Tom and Rita Notebaert, Bill and Mary Jane Robinson, Win and Sue Schrader, Ed and Diane Schulz, Larry and Mary Shafer, Tom and Jill Tybinka, John and Carol Vos, Bill Morrison, and Earl West.

ANTHONY Monaster, English teacher at Plymouth Canton High School, has been appointed as a regional judge for the 1981 National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE) Achievement Awards in Writing Program. He was appointed by the council.

Through this national program, now in its 23rd year, approximately 800 high school seniors are cited for excellence in writing and are recommended to colleges and universities for admission and financial aid, if needed. The students are nominated by their high school English teachers and 7,000 have been nominated this year with the results to be announced in October.

THE FLORIDA Citrus Queen was a recent visitor to the area and the Florida Citrus Commission sponsored a poster contest in conjunction with her appearances at local schools.

First place winner was Lori Bodary, third grader at Tanger Elementary School. Lisa Wei, fifth grader at Isbister came in second and Dave E. Bares, third grader at Allen, was third. Catherine Piner of Isbister was runner-up.

The Citrus Queen presented a $50 bond to each of the winners.

CONGRATULATIONS to Anna L. Lotero who received a bachelor of science in nursing degree from the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio School of Nursing.

Anna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zoet of Liberty Street, Plymouth and a graduate of Plymouth High School.

KELLY HUBER of Canton Township has been named an alternate in the 1981 National Honor Society Scholarship program. She was selected from 12,000 nominees from across the country.

Kelly is a graduating senior at Plymouth Salem High School. She plans to attend Miami University of Ohio in the fall where she will major in elementary education of the talented and gifted with a minor in speech. She's been active during her high school years, chaired homecoming for two years, participated in forensics for four years, student government for four years, and was statistician for boys baseball for four years.

PARTY BRIDGE games at the Plymouth Cultural Center have been averaging 10 tables each Thursday afternoon. Jane Drewniak and Margaret Swartz had high scores May 14 and Norma Symmonds and Ann Prevost were winners last Thursday.

ANN DONOGHUE, a sophomore at Michigan State University, is a member of the 20-woman MSU Green Splash.

Green Splash is a synchronized swim team. "Cartoon Capers" was the title of the team's swim show earlier this month. All the routines were choreographed by Green Splash members.

Ann's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Donoghue of Plymouth. She graduated from Plymouth Salem High in 1979 and is majoring in pre-veterinary medicine at MSU.

Inspector Carl Berry presented jars of pennies to the winners of the coloring contest that promoted flower day. Winners were Arthur Partrain, 4, of Canton and Charlene Climie, 10, of Plymouth.

Sun shines on flower day

It couldn't have been a better day.

Under smiling skies the members of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce and the Farmer's Market committee were all smiles. Their Flower Day was an unqualified success.

If Saturday's turnout is a preview of things to come, Plymouth's first Farmer's Market has promise of a bright future.

Flower Day on Saturday was sort of a trial run. The market will open officially Saturday, June 13, for the summer months.

There was a wide variety bedding plants and other attractions. Debbie Dobransky of Plymouth and Viki Feldmann sold their "Incredible Edibles" — crunchy homebaked cookies. There were vegetables, bouquets of fresh flowers and farm-fresh eggs.

Added attractions were rides on a horse-drawn farm wagon, art in Kellogg Park, and the marigold and hot doughnut sale around the corner at the Grange Hall. The farm market was set up between the Penn Theater and the Masonic Temple on Penniman Avenue.

Booth space still is available for the Farmer's Market. Fee is $100 for all 13 weeks, or $10 for a single day. Space can be reserved by calling the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, 453-1540.

A baby goat gave friendly response to Farmers Market committee members Diane Dart (left), Nancy Petrucelli, Dave Sibbold and Joan Gerigk.

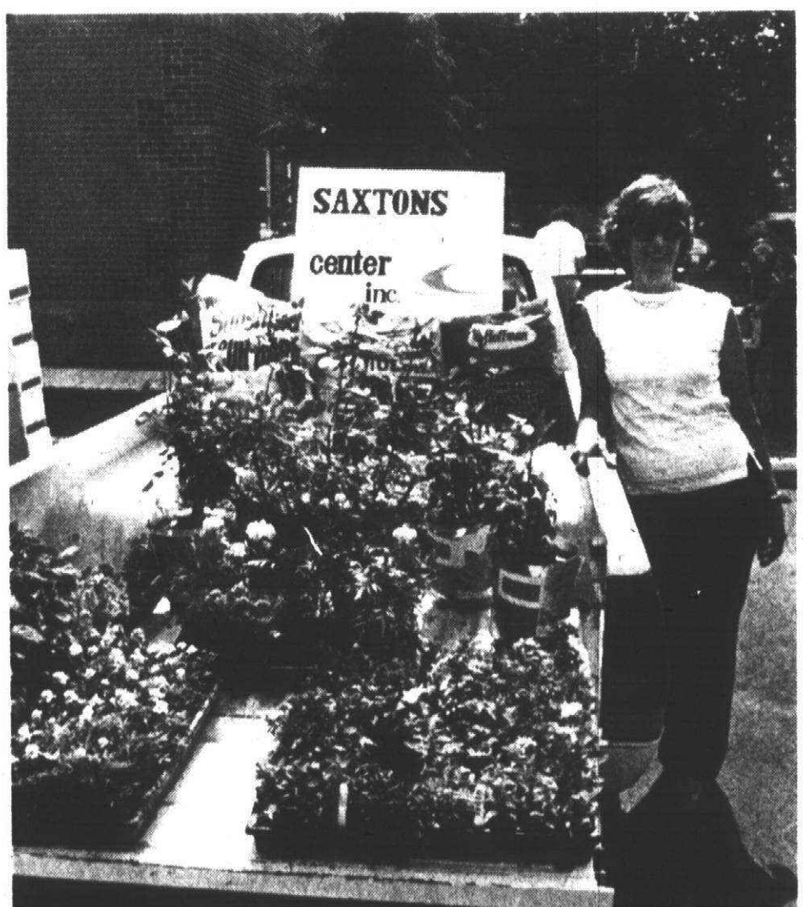

Richard Humphrey and daughter Becky had an assortment of coleus, hanging baskets, cactus and bedding plants.

Market masters Marty Puckett and Mary Kay Arlen had a busy, sunny day.

Val Sackett had bedding plants, potted roses and bags of garden aids.

Muriel Prussing bought tomatoes from Leroy Stults of Plymouth Township.

Football sign-up May 30

Canton Chatter

By KATHY FREECE 981-2027

Baseball season is well under way and it's time again to sign up for football. The Plymouth-Canton Junior Football Association will be holding registration on May 30, June 6 and 13 at Plymouth Canton High School cafeteria from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The hard-working officers for the upcoming year are John Pata, Vic Gustafson, Bob Miller, Tammy Brand and Donna Rudin. They begin registration early because of the breadth of the program and the subsequent organizing needed to maintain a well-run season.

PCJFA is for kids aged 9-13 and involves both football players and cheerleaders. The football program is divided into two units, with three teams per unit — freshmen, junior varsity and varsity. Placement depends on player age, weight and experience.

Plymouth-Canton has two units — the Lions and the Steelers. The cheerleading squads are all classified as freshmen, junior varsity or varsity on both the Steelers and the Lions units.

The Steelers have a dedicated bunch of parents working hard with all of the teams: Jerry Boucher, Loren Brand, Vicki Daubresse, Tom Cummings, Dave Bryant, Ed Kauflin, Dave March, Damon Welling, Sue Richard, Lenore Pilot and Alan Prince.

PARENTS backing the Lions program are Bob Schuefleol, Bob Miller, Sandy Miller, Denny and Barb Timmerman, Donna Rudin, Sandy Rummel, Dennis Robitaille, Tom and Carol Reed and Carol Pata. This is strictly volunteer time given for the betterment of the children and the community.

The program is designed to give everyone the opportunity to enjoy the sport and promote fellowship and physical development.

The season starts in September and runs through November with home games played in the Plymouth Central Middle School stadium, and away games at Garden City, Northville, Ann Arbor, Westland, Ypsilanti, Belleville and Romulus.

Only the best of equipment is issued by the association and all is approved by the Western Suburban League.

Coaching is conducted by personnel with previous experience in the game and all coaches are approved by the PCJFA officers. All of the people involved must be residents of the Plymouth-Canton community.

Feel free to call 459-6347 or 455-8306 for further information about this well-developed program.

CAROL SHAW and Suzanne Rainko decided to give a baby shower for their neighbor and friend Debbie Camalo.

It just so happened that the day they planned for the get-together was one of the warmest days so far this year. Champagne was served on the patio to all of the ladies who attended. The neighbors who arrived were Helen Wesner, Holly Persyn, Anita Vlazny, Marilyn Burlison and Lenore Dewey. A few friends and family came a great distance to join in the afternoon of fun — Linda and Sophie Fainko, Vee Billy, Janice Simmers, Joan and Linda Hudock, along with Janet Shaw.

With all the gifts opened, the women sat down to a delicious dinner of shrimp creole, julienne salad, vegetables and a few lovely desserts.

It is that time of the year, again — time to wish the graduating students all the best with their future endeavors.

May all of you fulfill your dreams with perseverance and the knowledge that your community shares in your hopes of a new beginning.

'Runaway Hotline' is aid to parents

The Plymouth Jaycettes will sponsor a program to inform the community about the use of the Runaway Hotline.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 10, in Pioneer Middle School and will be open to all interested persons.

Det. Lt. Dan Carpenter of the Plymouth Police Department and a representative from Counterpoint, a counseling agency, will give local statistics on runaway children.

The area club is sponsoring the program as part of a national Jayceette project, said Jackie Vachow, vice president of the Plymouth Jaycettes.

Every year, a million or more American children run away from their homes, parents and friends.

"All too many of them become involved in our nation's criminal justice system, either as a victim or a perpetator," she said.

THE RUNAWAY Hotline is nationwide, toll-free telephone center that serves two purposes. It relays messages between runaway children and their parents and friends, and it provides referrals to troubled runaways in need of food, shelter, medical assistance or counseling anywhere in the United States.

The incoming free telephone lines are answered around the clock by volunteers at the Houston, Texas, headquarters. All calls are completely confidential and untraceable.

"Through this program at Pioneer Middle School, we will show the community how runaways can be reunited with their anxious parents through the use of this hotline," said Mrs. Vachow.

A 15-minute film, "The Runaway Problem," will be shown.

Pioneer Middle School is on Ann Arbor Road between McClumpha and Canton Center Road.

Varied skills find a place in ministry

By Margaret Miller
staff writer

A variety of educational pursuits, professional disciplines and life experiences fit together for the Rev. Carol Allen, Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church's associate minister.

She is a member if the clergy who came back to the mainstream parish work after trying other ways to serve. She also is part a minority in a denomination that has been ordaining women for 25 years but at this point has only 410 ordained female ministers compared with 14,164 men.

From both standpoints, she finds her current situation in the Livonia church a good one.

"I've been in a lot of different systems that have various ways of working with people," said the 40-year-old associate of the Rev. Gerald Cobleigh, senior pastor at Rosedale Gardens. "Parish work makes me bring all the skills I have learned, and in this situation I'm more integrated and happy. "I'm glad to discover the church can let me do my best."

But women in senior pastorates pose a different question, both for the denomination and this woman.

"There are many ordinations, but the trick is getting the top jobs," she said. "Churches now are actively looking for women as associates, and some women are serving as interim pastors."

And although she was Rosedale Gardens' interim leader during two periods of time, she sees full leadership of a large church for herself and other women as something in the future.

"Not for a while yet," she said. "Someday I think it will come."

INSTALLATION this spring by denominational leaders at the calling of the local congregation marked a kind of homecoming for Miss Allen, who served a church after graduation from seminary, then was a chaplain and a clinical social worker before returning to parish work.

She had been at Rosedale Gardens since 1977, at first as interim parish associate through appointment by the Detroit Presbytery to fill a void when the former senior pastor accepted another call.

After Cobleigh's arrival last summer, the congregation called her as associate and the installation Feb. 15 made it official.

A native of Lansing, Carol Allen had been setting her sights on the ministry for a long time — "ever since I joined the Presbyterian church when I was in the 11th grade and learned that the minister's wife had been to seminary."

After graduating from Michigan State University, she earned a master's in divinity from Colgate-Rochester Seminary and then served two years on the staff of a church in Rochester.

That experience wasn't entirely rewarding.

"I was in my mid-20s," she recalls, "and felt that in many ways I was being called upon to be more assertive, maybe more parental, than I was prepared to be. I also was learning to handle relationships with my family and my own singlehood."

HER NEXT STOP was Tulane University, where she earned a master's degree in social work. The time at the New Orleans school, she said, "allowed me to get a better view of myself and to get clear about relationships with my family and others."

After Tulane she worked for a year in a mental health agency at Hickory Grove, N.C., and then came Ann Arbor and the University of Michigan medical center's children's psychiatric hospital.

"I liked the work, and I learned a lot," she said, "but I found a real conflict between my own background and the analytic framework of the hospital.

"Working with those children and their families, I had to start by convincing people they needed help. It was confining to me to approach people in those terms. Besides, I learned that constant work with troubled people is extremely draining."

So with new skills and new self-understanding Miss Allen was ready to complete her circuit to parish work and her call to Rosedale Gardens.

Her ministry here involves work with the board of deacons, in Christian education and with the church and society committee, as well as occasional preaching and sharing of pastoral duties with Cobleigh.

"I like planning programs and helping people work them out," she said of her Rosedale role. "It's much the same as what I was doing in social work, but I like doing it here better."

She also is ready to branch out into community activity and is particularly hoping to be involved with the Livonia Women's Political Caucus.

IN ONE RESPECT, Miss Allen realizes she gets less than total acceptance from her congregation.

"That's the question of language in the Bible and other religious writings," she said. "When I talk about them being sexist, I know some people turn off. But there are some people who do feel excluded by the constant use of masucline terms."

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

The Rev. Carol Allen has been installed as associate minister of Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church of Livonia.

This feminine minister isn't planning a constant soapbox stand.

"I've tried to temper my concern," she noted. "I know there is no point in getting on too big a bandwagon if people are just going to be distracted."

And in general playing down feminism is best, she's found, even while a member of a definite minority.

"I think that being around, being myself, not pushing being a woman is the way I can be most effective," she added. "Some people have changed their thinking about women in the ministry, and there are some ways in which being a woman is an advantage."

And while she now prides herself on having "learned to live creatively single," she finds another big advantage in her big parish.

"In many ways, this church is family to me," she said.

moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong

We live in one world

Following the attempt on the life of Pope John Paul II, the television networks interrupted their regular schedule to cover the event. Viewers phoned in their objections. They said that the networks should not replace scheduled programs with news that was outside of our own country.

We are still a long way from recognizing that we live in one world. Bit by bit we grope toward recognizing that we are tied together for better or for worse as one humankind.

In Ireland, Bobby Sands dies of a hunger strike. In Rome, Pope John II is shot. For a brief space of time individual figures claim international attention. For a time we identify with persons in another part of the world. Then all too quickly we are back to strictly local and national concerns.

WE ARE AT a stage when we cannot understand a whole culture. We cannot stretch far beyond the familiar. For a time we can grasp one human life lived for a goal and a purpose beyond our own national boundaries. Too often it takes a tragedy or a death to stretch our attention beyond our shores.

Here is a challenge to religious institutions. Too often religious people resist a larger understanding of religion and culture. Too often religious people seek to make everyone like themselves. Worship is often the most segregated experience of the week.

Religious institutions can help us to see that God is the God of all of the world. Christians among others need to remember that they are asked "to proclaim the good news to all the creation." There is a universal dimension to our religious traditions which needs to be discovered.

WE NEED TO keep before us the statements of such a person as Teilhard de Chardin who said "The Age of Nations is past. The task before us now, if we would not perish, is to build the earth." He offers us a way of understanding and grasping mankind without turning the masses into an ant-heap. He holds the unifying forces in creative relationship with the personal. In Teilhard's thinking, moving toward unity does not mean an impersonal, faceless humanity.

We need such religious leaders who will stretch our vision to include the particular and the universal. We need persons who will help us see we are called to be brothers and sisters in one world. As one such person said, "If God is Father, then we are all brothers and sisters."

We also need the media and technology to help us to be one-world minded. Satellite transmitters can beam a thousand stations into our homes. Newspapers can give us better follow-up with those individuals who help us to grasp that we are one people on earth. Teilhard calls this nothing less than "a new spirit for a new world."

Don't drink the water until the well is tested

consumer mailbag

We just purchased an older home and it has a well. Is well water usually safe to use? How can we be sure it is not contaminated?

Joan D., Bloomfield Twnshp.

All kinds of pollutants from the air and land make their way into all water supplies: solid waste, garbage from landfills, herbicides and pesticides from commercial and home use, human and animal wastes, toxics, bacteria, viruses and decaying matter.

Almost three million Michigan residents use their own individual wells for home water supply. In fact, more people use groundwater as their drinking water source in Michigan than the entire population of 35 other states, according to a report from the Department of Natural Resources. The citizens of 41 of Michigan's 83 counties depend totally on groundwater supplies for their drinking water.

It is only in the last few years that the magnitude of the threat from contamination to this invaluable resource has even begun to be understood.

You can and should have your well water tested. Call your local or county Health Department. You will find the number in your telephone directory. They will help you determine whether or not the water from your well is safe to drink.

Are the restrictions for eating fish from Michigan waters still in effect? How can I find out which fish are safe to eat?

Bill R., Canton Township

The Michigan Department of Public Health has issued health advisories regarding eating fish taken from certain waters where studies have shown unsafe levels of toxic materials.

Although these health advisories remain in effect, monitoring results have shown a continuous decline of contaminants in some Michigan lakes.

"Fish consumption warnings" and "fish consumption bans" can be found on the back of the 1981 Michigan DNR Fishing Guide. For a copy, write to: Department of Natural Resources, Environmental Services Division, Comprehensive Studies Section, Box 30028, Lansing 48909.

Veronica is legendary, whether woman or cloth

Recent renewed interest in the Shroud of Turin brings to mind one of my favorite Christian legends, that of Saint Veronica.

Although the story is recorded with slight differences by various sources, it is basically the same.

It seems that, as Christ was carrying his cross on the way to his crucifixion, he passed by the door of a pious and charitable woman who took pity on him.

She took off her headcloth and handed it to him to use as a towel, with which to wipe the sweat and blood from his brow.

When he returned the cloth to her, it bore the likeness of his face. His features were permanently imprinted on it.

It is said she then took the cloth to Rome, where she cured the Emperor Tiberius by making him touch the sacred image on the cloth.

Most accounts say she then remained in Rome with Saints Peter and Paul, and was a martyr under Nero, though some say she went to Marseilles with Lazarus, Martha, and Mary.

SCHOLARS NOW believe there was no woman named Veronica among the early Christians. They do not attempt to discredit the story, for it is possible that such events may have taken place. However, it was the cloth that was called "Veronica," not the woman.

"Vera icon" means "true image." Because there have been other cloths believed to bear the image of Christ, this one was called the vera icon (true image) to distinguish it as the oldest and best known of the images.

This story grew, as other legends grow, through the telling and re-telling of the event.

First came the story, which is not unlikely. Christ may very well have received a towel from a woman by the roadside. Then the legend of the true image of Christ's face was told.

After many re-tellings, the name of the cloth became the name of the woman.

SERIOUS RESEARCHERS have puzzled for a long time over the real identity of the lady in this story. At least one such scholar has suggested her real name was "Berenice."

After the Council of Trent (1545-63), when the church hierarchy was determined to abolish fictitious saints, Catholics were discouraged from revering Saint Veronica.

Nevertheless, the legend lives on, and at least three different religious congregations claim to have the remnants of her handkerchief, the original "vera icon."

ARCS to have monitor team

Two area Associations for Retarded Citizens have established a Wayne County Parent-Advocating monitoring team to check on the care and program standards in Detroit-area group homes.

The teams will be made up of parents and guardians of the retarded plus volunteers. Forming the unit are the Plymouth ARC and the ARC/Northwest Communities.

Because the monitoring efforts will involve problems of accessibility to the homes as well as identification and credibility, the two groups enlisted the help of the Michigan Department of Mental Health, which oversees group homes for the retarded.

It will train volunteer monitors and clarify standards for evaluation.

Alice Saules of Plymouth ARC and Irene Brooks of Northwest ARC have been conducting sessions for 15 monitors, who will visit DMH homes in Wayne County with four or more residents.

Each two-person monitoring team will include one of these specially trained core members. They will be equipped with photo identification cards. Their task will be to visit these homes and offer comments on them to the DMH metropolitan regional office.

The homes to be visited are in areas served by the Plymouth Center for Human Development, Northville Residential Training Center, Southgate Regional Center and Wayne Center for the Retarded.

Prep cagers converge on Schoolcraft

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Some of the state's premier prep players will be on display at Schoolcraft College Saturday and Sunday in a two-game series pitting Michigan all-stars against the Quebec Provincial men's team of Canada.

The two games will be preceeded each night by a preliminary battle between the Detroit AAU team and a group of metro suburban all-stars.

The package is known as the fourth annual International Basketball Classic.Players for the Michigan team, the Detroit team and the suburban all-stars were picked in four days of tryouts.

Advance tickets at $4 for adults and $2 for students are on sale at all Sears stores or the Schoolcraft College bookstore. Prices at the door will be $5 and $3.

The preliminary game Saturday will start at 5:30 p.m. followed by the Michigan-Quebec game at 8 p.m. Sunday's starting times are 1 and 3 p.m.

THE MICHIGAN TEAM is loaded with talent.

The latest Mr. Basketball in Michigan, Sam Vincent of Lansing Eastern, will play for the Mchigan team on both Saturday and Sunday. He is expected to follow in the footsteps of brother Jay at Michigan State,.

Eric Turner, who led Flint Central to the state Class A title in March, is slated to play on Sunday. He will attend Michigan this fall.

Livonia's 6-foot-5 forward Greg Wendt, who led the state in scoring at Detroit Catholic Central, will play. He is going to Duke.

Northville's 6-7 forward Dave Ward, bound for San Diego State, was also picked to play against the Quebec team.

Also on the team are Highland Park's outstanding 6-foot guard Percy Cooper, who will attend South Alabama, and 6-foot-4 sharpshooter Leslie Rockymore of Detroit Southwestern, who will team with Turner at Michigan.

Other players selected include Anthony Welch, 6-8 forward, Grand Rapids Creston; Don Petties, 6-4 guard, Ann Arbor Huron; Vince Giles, 6-8 center, Detroit Henry Ford; Larry Polec, 6-7 forward, Sterling Heights; Keith Jackson, 6-6 forward, Willow Run; and Greg Washington, 6-3 forward, Detroit Western.

Schoolcraft's Quinton "Rocky" Watkins, who coached Earvin Johnson and company to the AAU national junior title in 1977, will direct the Michigan team.

"What we've primarily doing in the workouts is instilling a team concept," said Watkins. "We're trying to get them to pass the ball. We're using a simple offense.

"The Canadiens are supposed to be big. We want to attack the ball inside."

In the preliminary game, a host of fine players will show their various skills.

The Detroit team will feature all-city picks Eddie Gill of Detroit Cooley, 6-7 Kevin Roundfield of Mackenzie and Anthony Miller of Redford.

THE METRO SUBURBAN team features the surprise of the tryouts, 6-3 Kevin Thweatt of Westland John Glenn, who impressed the selection committee with his jumping ability and defense.

Also on hand will be all-Observer performers Bill Keyes of Livonia Stevenson and Churchill's Ron Reed.

Dearborn Divine Child's Jack Furlong, bound for NAIA semifinalist Hillsdale College, is the tallest man on the squad despite his guard-like finesse.

Birmingham Brother Rice guard Les Daggs, who will play for Cornell, and Southfield Christian's Bill Moir, a 6-6 forward, also made the cut.

Coach Max Sommerville's team will then meet rival Plymouth Salem at noon Saturday in a Class A district tournament game at Brighton.

Canton invoked the five-inning mercy rule in beating hapless Churchill.

Pitchers Marianne Pink and Cindy Sovine combined on three-hitter as Canton lifted its overall record to 10-6. Pink hurled the first three innings to pick up the win.

The Chiefs' offense, meanwhile, collected 18 hits in the rout.

Pearly Cunningham belted a three-run homer in the first inning to get Canton rolling. Pink added a two-run round tripper in the second inning to give the Chiefs a 7-0 advantage.

In the third inning, Canton added five more runs to take a commanding 12-0 lead.

Shortstop Joni Sommerville went four-for-five while Vicki Skeen and Cunningham each collected three hits.

Rhonda Stoner and Sue Gerke chipped in with two hits each.

Sommerville, the coach, was looking ahead to Saturday's matchup.

"I haven't seen Salem," he said, "but it's always a good game when we get together."

CANTON 7-8
JOHN GLENN 6-18

The mild-mannered Sommerville was thrown out of the second game of a double-header Saturday against Westland John Glenn for arguing with umpires.

It was his first ejection since he took over as Canton coach three years ago.

Canton won the opener 7-6 as Pink, the winning pitcher, helped her own cause on offense by collecting two hits and three RBIs.

She scattered five hits, struck out two and walked five in seven innings of work.

Freshman catcher Marie Krashovetz added two hits in the opener.

Sandy Cockrum was the starting and losing pitcher for Glenn. She gave up eight hits, walked four and fanned one Canton batter.

Sommerville, incensed by three early calls, was ejected during the third inning. Glenn then went on for an 18-8 victory as first baseman Geri Pizzuti ripped four hits.

Cunningham paced the Canton offense with two hits.

WJR bowler sizzles

Carole Zang of Plymouth Township recently teamed up with disc jockey Jimmy Launce and former Detroit Red Wing coach Sid Abel to win the seventh annual WJR-Bowling Proprietors Association of Greater Detroit bowling party at Thunderbowl Lanes in Allen Park.

Carrying an average of 144, Zang led her three-man team in the two-game event with scores of 167 and 202.

Her partners, Launce and Abel, rolled games of 176, 162 and 148, 180, respectively.

Using handicaps, the threesome teamed up for a 649 in the first game followed by a 702 for a total series of 1351. They outdistanced the team of WJR newscaster Barbara Porter, former Detroit Tiger pitcher Mickey Lolich and contestant Don Koppin.

Approximately 72,000 entries were received for the contest.

Zang, who sent just one card, was one of 20 entries selected from the random drawing.

For her efforts, Zang received a color television set, clock radio, a new ball and bowling bag.

Abel, now a Red Wing broadcaster, and Launce, donated their prizes to the charity of their choice.

Other celebrity teams included J.P. McCarthy and Al Kaline, Joe Falls and Monte Clark, Dale Conquest and Tom Skaldany, Ernie Harwell and Alan Trammell, Jim Davis and Terry Tyler, "Fat Bob" Taylor and Anthony Carter.

All-area players make choices

Girls earn athletic awards

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Until recently, whose father ever would have dreamed that girls too would someday receive athletic scholarships? The idea was almost as outlandish as UFOs.

This year's local crop of high school senior cagers, however, is evidence that times are slowly changing.

Six players from this year's all-area basketball squad are college-bound on full or partial rides. Three will try their luck as walk-ons.

basketball

LESLIE NADEAU

Livonia Ladywood's Leslie Nadeau received a full basketball scholarship to Auburn University in Alabama. The 3.0 student who participated in the national A.A.U. Junior Olympic trials in St. Louis scored more than 1,000 points in her high school career.

Nadeau plans to study law or commercial art.

CARLA CAMPBELL

Livonia Bentley's Carla Campbell will attend Eastern Michigan University on an athletic scholarship that includes everything except board. A quick, 5-foot-7 guard, Campbell last year averaged 13 points, five assists and four steals per game.

LORI PASTULA

Michigan Technological University has offered Lori Pastula of Redford Union a partial academic scholarship. The strong, aggressive center who was voted Most Valuable Player by her fellow-Panthers may walk on, but her studies come first.

CHERYL SOBKOW

University of Michigan basketball coach Gloria Solak says there's a good chance that Plymouth Salem's Cheryl Sobkow will make the team as a walk-on. Salem coach Bob Blohm calls the 3.6 student "one of the best athletes I've ever seen at Salem." The 5-9 center plans to study sports medicine and athletic training.

KIM CESARZ

Kim Cesarz, a 5-10 center from Westland John Glenn, has accepted a full basketball scholarship from Ferris State University in Big Rapids, Mich. The 3.95 student will pursue computer science and mathematics.

GERI PIZZUTI

According to Glenn coach George Sommerman, Pizzuti (a 3.0 student) is still talking with Western Michigan University, Northwood Institute, Lake Superior State College and Oakland University. U-M's softball coach is also recruiting Pizzuti. "She's weighing all her options," said Sommerman.

WENDY VANDESANDE

Wendy Vandesande, a guard and 3.7 student at Redford Thurston, would like to attend a school where she could play both basketball and softball. "Wendy tried out at Western (Michigan University) and they said she wasn't tall enough," said Thurston coach George Heger. "She's got a good shot to be a walk-on at Wayne (State University).

KAREN KELLEY

According to Jim George, Livonia Stevenson basketball coach, Karen Kelley is still undecided about where next year will find her. "It looks like she'll play volleyball somewhere," George said. "Right now she's leaning towards Schoolcraft."

BETH MUELLER

Beth Mueller will attend Ferris State University on a full ride, according to Stevenson's George, her ex-coach.

Plymouth Salem closed its regular girls' golf season Tuesday afternoon at Salem Hills with a 207-216 triumph.

Sophomore Lisa Marino led the Rocks to victory with a nine-hole round of 45. She was followed by teammates Carol Ross (47), Nancy Stevens (56) and Beth Miller (59).

Lisa Hopkins paced Saline with 52.

Salem ended the year with an overall dual-meet record of 7-3.

Also on Tuesday, Saline beat Canton 216-220. The loss dropped the Chiefs to 2-7 overall.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL
Flashback

The Redford Union baseball machine ran into nine Rocks and the R.U. Panthers fell like a thud. Plymouth upset R.U. Friday, May 4, 1973, in Suburban Eight action 3$1. "I'll admit that we got the breaks," said Plymouth Coach Wayne Sparkman after his biggest win of the season. It was Plymouth's third victory against 3 setbacks. Plymouth scored their 3 runs all in the fifth inning. Steve Robb continued his mastery over R.U. Robb gave up 6 hits, walked none and struck out 2. Plymouth's offensive punch came when Jeff Walker led off with a bunt, then Jeff Stringham followed with a second bunt. Keith MacDonald sacrificed the runners to 2nd and 3rd. With the R.U. infield pulled in, Jim Szilagyi laced a single over the 2nd baseman's head to score Baker and Stringham. Scott Sommerville delivered a single and Szilagyi scampered in for their 3rd run.

Area southpaw leaves no spares

Dick Beattie, the Westland southpaw, staked out another strong claim to being the top bowler in the Detroit area over the past weekend.

Bowling in the regional Professional Bowlers Tournament at Cherry Hill Lanes, he registered a count of 6899 for 28 games to pace the field with an average of 246.

Earlier in the year, he won the prestigous Masters, sponsored by the Greater Detroit Bowling Association, and then took the major portion of the prizes in the city tournament in addition to topping the averages in the Westland Mixed Classic.

More than 120 pro bowlers competed in the weekend event and aside from Beattie, two other Detroit bowlers did well.

Rocky Graziana landed in second place with a 6780 count and Lee Snow of Farmington Hills landed third with 6777. These totals were reached in the novel event in which they were pitted against different bowlers in each block.

In the pro-am, which preceded the big event, Clarence Gibreath finished on top with 1526, and William Pietrzyk was next with 1503.

In the junior pro-am, John McBrayer was the winner with 1392. Kathy Hochstein, daughter of the Cherry Hill owner, landed in second place with 1362.

THE WESTLAND group that competed in the Petersen Classic in Chicago over the weekend was given what some of the members called a bath in oil.

"The conditions were the worst we ever have seen," said Midge Poshka, one of the group's leaders.

"And you might know how bad it was when Rick Capaldi, one of Westland's owners, was high on the squad with 1478 for eight games."

Midge used her own score for a good example. She went in with a 167 average and registered a mere 1050 for eight games.

EVIDENTLY, CLOSE FINISHES are going to carry one through the summer at Westland Bowl.

The ladies "Confusion" League, which opened its summer season during the week, produced a thriller.

Fran Love landed in first palce with a 210 in 522 and a one-pin margin over Carol Baldwin. Ann Shisler landed the third position with a 213 in 541.

High-game honors went to Gert Parrish, who rolled a 223 in 545.

THE JUNIOR bowling banquet season comes to a close this Thursday evening when Merri-bowl plays host to the Youth Bowling Association juniros at Roma Hall.

This is usually one of the biggest junior bowling banquets of the year that is promoted by an individual establishemnt.

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Jeff Cousino (right) rounds third base after blasting a three-run homer in the first inning against Churchill. Canton finished its league season with a 9-0 record.

Canton pitchers keep streak alive

Pitching was the name of the game as Plymouth Canton's baseball team continued its torrid winning pace.

The No. 2 ranked Chiefs ran their overall season record to 24-2 with a Western Six League victory Tuesday over Livonia Churchill.

Canton also won the four-team Windsor, Ont. tournament over the weekend.

Junior lefty Jamie Chilcoff hurled a one-hitter Saturday as Canton whipped Toronto Malvern Tech 6-0 in the championship final.

Using pinpoint control, Chilcoff walked only one while striking out eight.

"Jamie has really been coming along," said Canton coach Fred Crissey. "He had them off balance all day. He threw strikes and that's the secret."

Canton broke open a 0-0 deadlock in the fifth inning by scoring three runs as Bill Hanis and Bryan Capnerhurst each came through with clutch singles.

In the sixth inning, Fred Rumberger started a two-run rally with a double as Canton won going away.

"We had outstanding pitching all day and played pretty well defensively," added Crissey.

In the opener, Canton used an 11-hit attack to beat Detroit Northwestern 7-1 as senior right-hander Dave Malek hurled a five-hitter over seven innings.

He struck out seven and walked one as he increased his season mark to 6-1.

Malek allowed Northwestern a run in the first inning on two walks and a single.

The Chiefs, however, answered in the bottom of the inning with two runs. They added three in the fourth and two more in the sixth.

Keith Stone, a senior centerfielder, led the Canton offense with two hits and two RBIs.

CANTON 4
LIVONIA CHURCHILL 0

Canton, which won the league crown outright last week with a victory over Walled Lake Western, got another fine pitching performance, this time from junior Danny Smith, in beating Churchill 4-0.

Smith, now 11-0, allowed only three hits. He fanned eight and did not walk a single Charger.

Jeff Cousino gave the Chiefs all they needed as he slammed a three-run over the centerfield fence in the first inning off Joe Lack.

In the second inning, Canton added an insurance run as Scott Bricker reached first after getting hit by Churchill pitcher Joe Lack.

Stone then delivered an RBI single to make it 4-0.

Canton first baseman Jeff Stemberger, who missed the Windsor tournament after suffering a cracked jaw in the Chiefs' 3-1 pre-district win Friday over North Farmington, returned to the lineup against Churchill.

He should be back at full strength for Saturday's district semifinal game at 10 a.m. against Walled Lake Western.

Plymouth modified team rules tourney

Compuware captures crown

Compuware, a member of the Plymouth Modified Softball League, captured the sixth annual Coca-Cola Tournament in Port Huron last weekend.

The winners outlasted a 30-team field in the double elimination event.

"It was a total team effort," said coach Tim Hawkins, " and we wouldn't have won it without everyone contributing."

The Plymouth-based team is now 11-0 overall this season after five wins at Knox Park.

It was also the team's second straight title. Compuware also won the Livonia Modifield Tournament three weeks ago.

Compuware defeated defending champion Broddy Construction of Port Huron in the championship game 7-4 as tourney MVP Mark Falvo collected three hits.

A second baseman, Falvo went 9-for-16 in five games and scored nine runs.

"Mark had an excellent series not only with the bat, but also out in the field," said Hawkins.

Pitcher Al White, who relieved starter Jerry Staszel in the second inning, picked up the win.

Compuware opened play with a 4-2 triumph over Port Huron's Zebra Bar as White notched the victory. Wayne Hamilton belted a two-run triple to keep his team in the winner's bracket.

Jim Bedson had two triples and a double, and Charlie Johnson added two hits and three RBIs to lead Compuware to a 10-6 win over Coca-Cola.

IN THE NEXT round of play, Hawkins' squad used the five-inning mercy rule to beat The Pub 15-1 as Bobby Duman went four-for-four and scored three times. Falvo added two hits.

Duman went 9-for-15 for the tournament.

The semifinals pitted two of the Plymouth League's top teams — Sports Illustrated and Compuware.

Bob Ridling and Hamilton both homered as Compuware pulled out a hard-fought 6-4 victory. Falvo and Rick Dreher each chipped in with two hits.

Staszel, who won three games during the tournament, went all the way. Galen Pyle was the loser.

Golf duo takes lead

Al Martin and Rick Thore teamed up to sweep five points last week in the opening round of play in the Canton Recreation men's golf league at Fellows Creek.

Martin and Thore stand alone in first place. They shut out John Lair and Jim Lowing.

Teams collecting 4½ points include Ed Pritchard and Randy Ross, Joe Argonis and Ed Robinson, and Gerry Reinke and Gordon Shull as all three teams are tied for second place.

Ross had the best score of the week, a nine-hole total of 40. Brian Hayes and Martin carded 42 and 43, respectively.

LLOYD DIBBLE and John Thomason have jumped out to a two-point lead in Division A of the Canton Recreation men's golf league at Fox Hills after two weeks of play.

The Dibble-Thomason team has tallied 9½ out of a possible 10 points thus far. Bob and Jack Koers, and Glen and Don Ponte are tied for second with 7½ points.

Teammates Mike Moggio and Paul Oberhelman have turned in the best rounds in Division A, each has carded a 36.

Grid registration slated Saturday

Registration fees for players are $35 per person. Cheerleaders' fees are $20. Birth certificates are required upon registration.

Franklin upsets CC in baseball tourney

Livonia Franklin, which has been victimized by nine one-run losses this baseball season, almost wiped the slate entirely clean with a 2-1 victory over Detroit Catholic Central last weekend in a Class A Tournament predistrict game.

The Shamrocks entered the game with a 19-3 record. The Patriots had a 7-14 ledger.

This is the second season in succession that the Patriots have eliminated CC from the state tournament. Franklin prevailed last year 8-2 in the district final.

Gerry Cullin, coach of the Patriots, said he was quite surprised by the turn of events last weekend.

"Who wouldn't be surprised?" he asked. "I would be if I were in their shoes. I think they were very, very confident they were going to win.

"It's always nice to knock off a good team," Cullin added.

The keys to victory, Cullin said, were having a tough defense and preventing the opposition from having a big inning.

"We've turned 11 double plays this season, two in this game," Cullin said. "If we keep playing defense like this, we could win the district."

Franklin will play Livonia Bentley at 12:30 p.m. on Saturday at Capitol Park in Redford. Livonia Churchill will face Redford Thurston in the first game at 10 a.m. First-round winners will duel for the district title at 3:30 p.m.

The Patriots scored their first run against CC in the third inning after their first two batters had been put out. Mike Minielly and Ken Aguzzi singled and Larry Potter poked a double.

Mike Williamson blasted a solo home run over the left-field fence at Ford Field in the fourth inning for the margin of victory.

The Shamrocks notched their only run in the sixth inning. Sullivan singled and moved all the way to third place on a bad throw during a pick-off attempt by Brad George.

Sullivan crossed the plate on a groundout by Mike Gatt.

Both pitchers went the distance.

George, the winner, struck out six, walked one and scattered five hits. Mike MacDonald, the loser, struck out six and walked two. Franklin totalled nine hits.

Each team committed an error.

CHURCHILL 4
REDFORD UNION 3

Duane Stothers, a left-handed hurler, pitched Livonia Churchill to a 4-3 victory over Redford Union in a predistrict game.

Stothers struck out seven including three during the seventh inning. He didn't issue any walks.

Mike Silletti and Dan Crowley each cracked a pair of hits for the Chargers. John Bebb belted a run-producing triple.

Rocco Rucinski and Tim Holmes each hit safely twice for RU.

Frank Harie was the losing pitcher. Wasson Kilano pitched the seventh inning for the Panthers.

BENTLEY 9
REDFORD 8

The never-say-die Bulldogs from Livonia Bentley rallied from deficits on three different occasions to nip Detroit Redford 9-8.

The Class A Tournament predistrict game lasted 11 innings.

Bentley trailed 3-1 after three innings, 7-5 after six and 8-7 going into the bottom of the 11th.

During that 11th inning, Marty Caves singled home Nino Devitis with the tying run, and John Nadratowski lofted a single over a drawn-in outfield with the bases loaded for the game winner.

Jim Prokes, in relief of Lee Charns, earned the pitching win.

Todd Wludyka, Jim LaSota, Kevin Deacon, Devitis and Caves all clubbed two hits for the Bulldogs, who totalled 14.

THURSTON 4
COOLEY 0

Redford Thurston reached the district level of the Class A Tournament by knocking off Detroit Cooley 4-0 in a predistrict encounter.

Steve Samples, the starter and winning pitcher, and Gary Beggs each struck out five batters.

Both teams managed only three hits, but the Eagles took advantage of six Cooley errors.

Beggs stroked a two-run single for Thurston during the game.

Runners cross line together

Almost 400 runners burned up the bulk of their holiday-weekend calories during the 5th annual Livonia Memorial Day Run.

Dennis Kurtis, 27, of Livonia and Ed Grabowski, 24, of Orchard Lake, tied for first place in the five-mile race with a time of 24:27.

Livonia's Julie Montgomery, 20, bested the women's field with a clocking of 28:53.

The police-escorted race — sponsored by the Livonia Family YMCA and Little Caesars and chaired by Tom Hoad — began and ended at the Y on Stark Road via the Jeffries Freeway service drive, Levan, Five Mile, Farmington Road and Lyndon.

The first five finishers in 12 men's and women's age divisions won medals. Complimentary visors and soft drinks were supplied by Little Caesars.

Gary Dean, a 9-year-old Livonian, was the youngest runner; 73-year-old James Ramsey, also of Livonia, was the oldest participant.

Other winners included Mary Wade, Judy Santoni, Janet DeLucia, Roberta Boyle, Jean Miller, Mike Lasley, Bob Morrow, Charles Frame, Rex Perrine and Max Nemezi.

● THE CRUELEST GAME

Cindy H. of Livonia writes: "I love to play backgammon and have learned a lot about the game by observing your column. Long ago, you mentioned backgammon to be a cruel game. Now I can relate to that!

"In this position, I (white) rolled a great 3-2, hit black on the 8 point and covered my open checker on the 2 point. Black rolled a double 1 and soon had three of my checkers on the bar. With the cube on 2, I lost a gammon and four points. Luck or not, it isn't fair! Backgammon is the cruelest game!"

I certainly will agree. At times, backgammon can be a cruel and unfair game. But what goes around will come around and one way to make certain that it doesn't come around too often is to learn a few key principles of backgammon strategy.

One principle that relates to white's position here is to hold your anchor (a point you occupy in your opponent's home board) as long as you can without putting your game in jeopardy until the proper time comes to leave. There is an old backgammon cliche, "Holding means survival and survival means holding."

In this position, by hitting black on the 8 point, white would be leaving 23 ways for black to get off the bar and hit or slot on white. Often a player may purposely plant a checker in his outer board to tempt his opponent into vacating his anchor.

Of course, before purposely leaving a blot, you must correctly analyze the position and assess the benefits or pitfalls. Also, before hitting your opponent's blot, you must correctly assess the benefits or pitfalls of hitting.

In this position, white has a positional edge over black due to timing. White would do best to improve his home board by moving the checker from the 7 to the 2 point. This move also slows white's timing. Within two rolls, black will be breaking the 11 point or will try to leave the white 5 point, at which time white will have a chance to hit and possibly redouble the cube.

Had this situation been a desperate one, hitting would certainly be in order.

the American backgammon Club will host a tournment June 7 at the Plymouth Hilton Inn beginning at 6 p.m. For more information, contact the club at 459-5776.

Star-filled future due for drummer

By Nick Charles
special writer

"Local boy makes good" stories pop up from everywhere but just as fast as they do, they seem to disappear. This is one local boy, however, who seems to have broken the mold of disappearing stars.

John Sarkisian, former Farmington resident and current drummer of popular local band the Look, will hopefully help put Farmington on the map. Sarkisian, who will turn 25 this June, now lives in Davisburgh because it's "away from everybody."

"I grew up in Farmington, and I went to North Farmington High School. My parents still live there," Sarkisian said. "I had a band, and we'd play at every party in Farmington. We'd rent a U-Haul, and we'd end up losing money just to play because we loved it so much."

Sarkisian has come a long way since those days. The Look has opened shows for such bands at the Rockets, Mitch Ryder, the Kingbees, Cheap Trick, the J. Giels Band, Peter Frampton, Joe Cocker and many others.

THE GROUP'S current project is to promote its first album. The album "We're Gonna Rock" (Plastic Records) contains 10 songs, nine original.

"For a first shot, I think the album came out pretty good," Sarkisian said. "I think the drums came out great. I couldn't be happier with them."

Sarkisian, who also plays piano and guitar, said he doesn't usually practice his drumming at home.

"I like to get away from the drums and do something different. I'm not really a technical drummer, but yet what I do is enough for our type of music.

"A lot of drummers might look at me and say, 'He doesn't know what he's doing,' but the people who listen to our music say, 'yea, I can dance to that.' I'm not trying to be flashy and flamboyant. I'm just trying to keep it simple."

Sarkisian can be found keeping the beat behind vocalist Dave Edwards, bassist Rick Cockran and guitarists Randy Volin and Sam Warren when the Look headlines at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Royal Oak Music Theatre.

'For a first shot, I think the album came out pretty good. I think the drums came out great.'
— John Sarkisian

Symphony meets at Botsford Inn

Roger and Martha Welton, flutist and harpsichordist, will be soloists at the Oakway Symphony's annual meeting at 8 p.m. Friday.

The annual meeting of the Oakway Symphony will be held at 8 p.m. June 5 at the Coach House of Botsford Inn, Grand River north of Eight Mile Road, Farmington Hills.

Roger Welton, flutist with Oakway, and Martha Welton, harpsichordist, will provide musical entertainment during the evening. Ms. Welton will play "Les Barricades Mystelieuses" for harpsichord by Couperin.

Together they will perform the Sonata in F Major for flute and harpsichord by Jean Baptiste Loeillet. The harpsichord which will be used was made by Roger Welton in 1978. It is a copy of the one in London made by Pascal Haskins in 1760.

It is eight feet in length, with a double manual, five registrations, three sets of strings of 18 sizes. This results in an unusual variety of sounds and colors.

AFTER A SHORT business meeting, at which new board members are elected, Francisco Di Blasi, conductor, will announce the dates and soloists for the 1981-82 season. He also will speak about openings and auditions in the orchestra for the coming season.

Persons who wish to volunteer their services are being invited to attend the meeting to learn more about the orchestra and give Oakway their opinions and suggestions.

Oakway, now in its ninth season, performs more concerts than any other community orchestra in the metropolitan area. This includes six subscription concerts, a cabaret and numerous appearances with the full orchestra, such as appearances at Tel-Twelve and Twelve Oaks malls.

Various-sized ensembles from the full orchestra will perform frequently throughout the season. As in past years, there will be several performances of "The Nutcracker" with the Northern Ballet of Livonia, as well as numerous musicals in the surrounding communities.

The meeting is open to the public without charge.

Something's afoot

Miss Tweed (Edith Taylor Hunter) presents a clue, which Nigel (Peter G. Thomson) inspects, in "Something's Afoot," a musical murder mystery opening the Hilberry Summer Theatre Festival on June 10. Performances are at 8:30 p.m. June 10-13 and 17-20. For reservations and information contact the Wayne State University Theatre box office, Cass and Hancock, Detroit, phone 577-2972.

School hosts Polish Country Fair

Roll out the carpets, you'll have a barrel of fun. . .

The Moms and Dads Club of St. Mary's Preparatory in Orchard Lake will host its eighth annual Polish Country Fair on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The fair will include the "third-largest garage sale in the world" and feature music by the Monerays, Harmony Kings, Sparks of Fire and Little Joe and the Polka Boys.

Polish folk dancing will swing with the Syrena Dance Ensemble, Tatry Dancers, Poznan Dancers, Rzeszow Dancers and the Opole Dancers.

The fair will run from 5-11 p.m. on Friday. The Redford Union Unicycle Club will kick off Saturday events at 2 p.m. Mass will be at 5 p.m. The fair will end that day at 11 p.m.

Mass in the Shrine-Chapel of Orchard Lake at 11 a.m. will start Sunday's activities, which continue through 9 p.m.

Ethnic dinners will be served continuously each day, including golabki, pierogi, meatballs, Polish crepes and Polish pumpernickel dog.

One prize each of $2,500, $1,500 and $1,000 and 10 $100 cash prizes will be awarded to raffle winners.

Booths, games, outdoor dancing, a Las Vegas room and tours are also on tap.

The school is located at Orchard Lake and Commerce roads. Call 682-1885 for more details.

Concert night benefits wildlife

A "Protection for Wildlife Benefit Concert" will be held from 8 p.m. to midnight on June 12 at the Unity Center-Palmer Park, 17505 Second, Detroit.

The evening of "communication and celebration for animals" will feature Cleveland Amory, president of the Fund for Animals; the Wayne Community College Musicology Jazz Ensemble; the WCC Players presenting "The Real Little Red Riding Hood;" and Lynn Kelly, guitarist, with "Song for Life."

The concert will be videotaped for national exposure.

Bess Bonnier plays Sundays

"Sunday Afternoon" in the Detroit Institute of Arts will continue through summer, featuring Detroit pianist Bess Bonnier.

Each Sunday, from 1-4 p.m., with the exception of May 24 (Memorial Day weekend), Ms. Bonnier will offer romantic Broadway music in the improvisational style for which she is known nationwide.

Set in the museum Crystal Gallery, "Sunday Afternoon" offers a wide range of cocktails, champagne, exotic coffees and teas, and French pastries. All menu items are $2.50. There is no admission charge or minimum.

With the completion of the museum's Kresge Sequence construction, entry to "Sunday Afternoon" will be through the new theater foyer on the main level.

News of a shooting brings flashback to Polish trip

IRIS JONES

Worshippers kneel before the altar in the sanctuary next to the chapel of the Black Madonna in Czestochowa, Poland.

travel log
Iris Jones
contributing travel editor

The travel experience often lasts long after the journey is over. I was reminded of this last week when I was listening to a news report about the hospital recuperation of Pope John Paul II.

Among the details given from the hospital was one that I would have missed if I had not visited Poland last fall: A religious symbol of the Black Madonna of Czestochowa graces the papal sickroom.

As the newscaster spoke, I was transported back to the Avenue of Our Lady in Czestochowa, on the bank of the Warta River, southwest of Warsaw.

I was once again climbing the hill to the ancient walled monastery of Jasna Gora, which is poised on a hill across the river from the town. I could hear the voices of those thousands of pilgrims who knelt in the Church of the Black Madonna inside the monastery, where the centuries-old painting of the Black Madonna hangs above the altar.

The painting of the Black Madonna, also known as Our Lady of Czestochowa, is shrouded in ancient mystery and legend. It first appeared in the monastery two years after the monastery was founded by a group of Hungarian monks in 1382. It is assumed now that the painting was brought to Czestochowa by the ruling Ladislaus Duke of Opole, but the religious value of the painting is in its origins.

The picture of the Virgin Mary is painted on an old, dark piece of wood. Worshipers believe that the wood was once a table owned by the Holy Family, possibly made by Joseph. The painting has been attributed to the Apostle Luke.

The presence of the picture, hallowed by ancient legend, has made Jasna Gora a center of pilgrimage for centuries. Two large church sanctuaries and a treasury of valuable objects can be found now inside the ancient stone walls. The walls and the treasure they contain have been defended against the armies of Sweden, Russia, and more recently, the Nazi armies of Germany.

Pilgrims have always journeyed to Jasna Gora. When the pope made such a pilgrimage during his visit to Poland in 1979, the number of Polish pilgrims increased dramatically.

In 1980, 50,000 pilgrims walked from Warsaw and another 20,000 from Lublin. They approached the monastary along the Avenue of Our Lady, which leads through the modern town of Czestochowa under apartment windows draped and aglow with religious symbols.

It was an ordinary day and not a feast day when I visited Jasna Gora. The walls made a skyline of turrets and statues from the parking lot to the ancient gate, where we walked through into another world.

Women in ancient costumes and striding priests, mixed with tourists from many lands and with worshipers. Jasna Gora is a large complex. From one end of the wall you can look down the hill to the town.

The chapel of the Black Madonna is only open at certain times, but an adjacent sanctuary, which rises in great arches of stone, is always open. Worshipers kneel from the pews and on the stone floor in front of the high ornate altar.

It is only a few steps through a doorway to the Chapel of the Black Madonna, but the experience is intensified one-hundredfold. There, during mass, you can look across a great sea of heads from the kneeling priests at the altar through the wrought iron gates to a faraway wall of glistening gold. The glistening gold is an entire cathedral wall of personal treasure left by individual hands: lockets,

The Chessie Safety Express will be making Michigan runs for the next two weeks.

Railroad steam trips run for 2 weeks

Three steam-powered passenger excursion train trips will leave Detroit during the next two weeks as part of an unusual program designed to raise the safety consciousness of the motoring public. Three more are scheduled from Grand Rapids.

The excursions are part of a system-wide project of the Chessie System Railroads, a unit of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway. They are meant to provide travel entertainment while educating the traveling public.

There were 626 grade-crossing accidents, including 30 fatalities, 281 injuries and several million dollars in damage along the Chessie system in 1980, according to William F. Howes Jr., Chessie's vice president for casualty prevention.

"We want to make this problem as visible as possible, and we believe a colorful steam excursion train is the best way to get the public's attention," Howes said.

"Whenever people in cars, trucks or other motor vehicles collide with a train at a grade crossing, they almost always come out a poor second."

The one-day Detroit tours, part of 35 tours system-wide, travel to Clio on May 30, Grand Ledge on May 31 and Grand Rapids on June 6. One-day tours will also leave Grand Rapids for St. Joseph, Plymouth and Chicago on June 7, 13 and 14, respectively.

Detroit trips to Clio and Grand Ledge are return trips and cost $33 for adults, $25 for children under 12. Premium service for accommodations in the Dome Car, Parlor Car or Observation Lounge costs $60.

The Detroit trip to Grand Rapids is a one-way trip; adults $20, children $15, premium service $40. Charter bus return is available for an additional $15.

The Chessie Safety Express is no ordinary train trip. It includes a rail car housing "Operation Lifesaver" displays, as well as a glass-enclosed dome-lounge car originally built for luxury western trains and an open-air sightseeing car as well as food service, gift shop and tape recording cars.

A photo run-by of photogenic sites will be a feature of all trips.

The Chessie Safety Express, which is being run for the second year, is operating out of major cities in the 13 states where Chessie System Railroads operate. The schedule began April 25 and will run through July 12 in the western section of the Chessie lines.

Tours will operate Sept. 12 through Nov. 1 on the eastern section of the line. On Oct. 16, the Express will participate in celebrations of the 200th anniversary of both the Battle of Yorktown and the War of Independence.

For further information on the Chessie Safety Express, contact Michigan State Trust for Railway Preservation, Box 815, East Lansing 48823, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, or buy tickets from Beitners Jewelry, 904 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, or from Joe's Hobby Center, 7845 Wyoming, Dearborn.

Black Madonna shrouded in old mystery and legend rings, gold cups, antique jewelry of all kinds, and a great leaning clutter of crutches. People come to the Black Madonna, as they go to the Lady of Lourdes for miracle cures.

Liquid oil lamps hang above the rapt heads as the faithful say the rosary: The old women in their babushkas kneel in the doorways and adjacent halls, up the stairwells and out the doorways of the Chapel. They often have tears on their cheeks, perhaps in memory of other days.

During the annual pilgrimage, the young people come to Jasna Gora, but on ordinary days like this, it is mostly the old with their lined faces.

There are other memories in this sudden reliving of my trip to Czestochowa: a wedding party coming down the aisle; a cheerful white-robed monk standing on a chair on the second floor to explain the treasures of Jasna Gora to a group; a workman shoveling a huge cart of potatoes into a cellar; and the tourist who suggests that the monks all making vodka with all those potatoes.

But mostly I remember the old women, gathered in the Chapel of the Black Madonna and spread across the great square in front of the church. On the square, they moved among stalls selling religious pictures, rosaries, postcards, statues, mementos and votive candles.

The moment is gone, and I am once again leaning against my sink listening to the daily news. As I said, the travel experience lasts long after the journey is over.

Q&E

"...I try to be a newsperson much of the time, and a human being all of the time."

FRAZIER

Ben Frazier joined WDIV in June, 1980. He is currently co-anchor of the 5:30 and 11:00 p.m. News. A native of Jacksonville, Florida, Ben brings 10 years of broadcast journalism experience to News 4. He has held news anchor positions in Jacksonville, Atlanta, and Washington, D.C., and has also worked for the Associated Press and the Mutual Black Network. In 1970, he received an Associated Press Award for Outstanding News Coverage. In 1980, the NAACP presented him an award for unbiased news reporting.

How do you view the responsibilities of a newsperson?

FRAZIER: I think the greatest responsibility of a journalist is to tell the truth. I want people to feel they can trust me. The responsibility of a journalist is awesome, and credibility is a very important factor to me.

What word might describe your style of journalism, or how you perceive it?

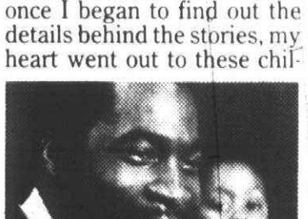

FRAZIER: My style is to attempt to tell the truth as I see it. I can't do much more as an individual. I'm human like everyone else, and I think in too many instances people put newspeople on a pedestal. We are people, too.

Is there an area of news reporting in which you have a special interest?

FRAZIER: I have a sincere interest in investigative reporting. But as to my favorite subject matter, I would have to say it is children. Children are our future, the sum total of our yesterdays, our tomorrows, our victories, our defeats. We need to do something for them, to help prepare them for the awesome task ahead. So maybe the next generation will be a little luckier and have some of their problems solved.

I know you've been involved to some extent with adoptive children's agencies here in town. How have you been working with them?

FRAZIER: I have a professional and personal commitment to children in need of permanent families in Detroit. I got into it professionally, but once I began to find out the details behind the stories, my heart went out to these children. It must really be a strange feeling not to have a permanent home, to all of a sudden realize you don't know where you belong. I'm glad I was able to do the report on adoptive agencies. If it didn't do anything else, it let a lot of people know we cannot forget these children. I had the good fortune of growing up with both my parents in the house. Because of my love for them and my relationship with them, I can appreciate how it must feel to grow up not having that kind of relationship.

Back to your profession. I've been told you are very conscious about rehearsing.

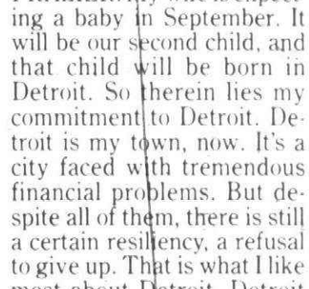

FRAZIER: I deliver my best newscast when I'm most confident with the job before me. It's important for me to display this sense of confidence to the people watching the news. So I might do a bit more rehearsing than other newspeople. It's also important for viewers to feel a sense of authority from the person telling them what is going on. Authority and credibility are very high factors on the list.

What feelings do you have about Detroit?

FRAZIER: My wife is expecting a baby in September. It will be our second child, and that child will be born in Detroit. So therein lies my commitment to Detroit. Detroit is my town, now. It's a city faced with tremendous financial problems. But despite all of them, there is still a certain resiliency, a refusal to give up. That is what I like most about Detroit. Detroit has heart.

Are you involved with any community or public service interests?

FRAZIER: I am a member of the advisory board of the Harbor Lighthouse, and I work with several other organizations here in Detroit. I also go out on speaking engagements, but I don't confine myself entirely to speaking. I enjoy relating to people in lots of ways. I really do. I sincerely love people. Drives my wife crazy sometimes. But I love people, I love to be around them.

When you're putting together a story on a controversial matter, how do you manage to protect innocent people, yet reveal all the truths?

FRAZIER: My job is to tell the truth. The chips have to fall where they may. Like I said before, I want people to trust me and to know that if I say something, it is correct.

Ben, do you prefer the actual on-air part of your job, or is it more interesting behind the scenes, gathering information?

FRAZIER: Both are important to the total picture. I have my ego to deal with, just as others do, but I am not hung up by the limelight. I think in so many instances for TV news reporters and television anchor people in particular, it's very easy to take yourself too seriously. I try to guard against that. It's something you have to back away from.

What criteria do you use in selecting a story?

FRAZIER: I don't adhere to the theory that all news is supposed to be bad. I prefer to look for a positive story. I'm not talking about overlooking reality, but reality is also positive sometimes. It's not always negative.

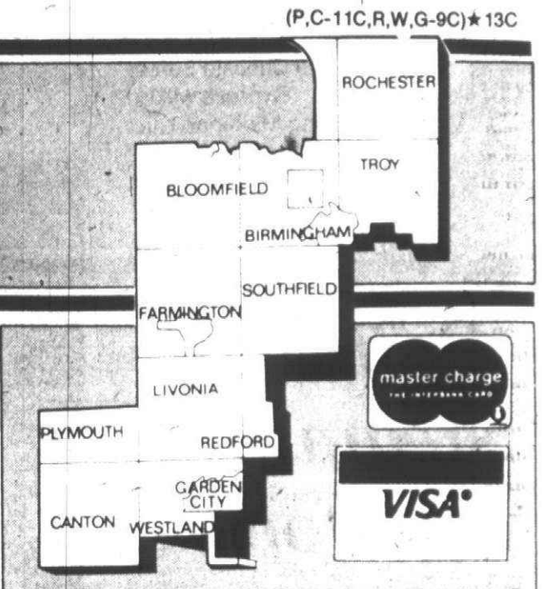

Are there other newspeople you look up to?

FRAZIER: Oh, certainly. Walter Cronkite I suppose has always been my favorite newsperson. Despite his authoritative approach, Walter is warm and human. That human element is what I like most about him, and that's been something I've attempted to include within my own style. It's something I never want to lose sight of: that I try to be a newsperson much of the time, and a human being all of the time.

Is your budget house broken?

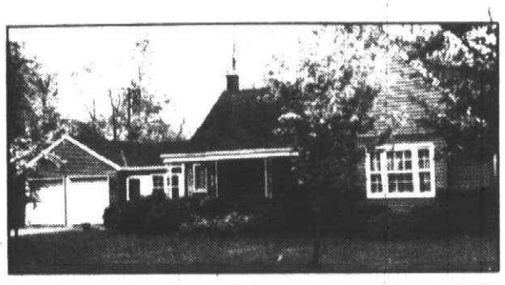

If you think there's no room in your budget for house payments ... or if financing fears are forcing your family's dreams out of the picture ...

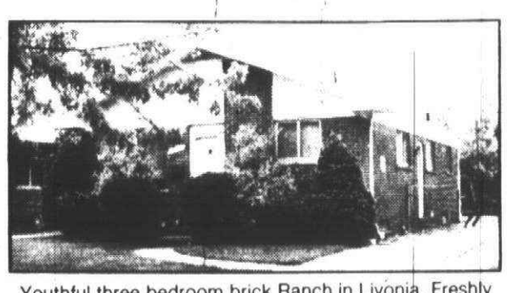

We'd like to have a word with you.

Owning a house that's too big, too little, or too far from where you need to be, can be breaking your budget right now.
Or, if you're renting, it may be costing you more than owning—and leaving you with a lot less.
So even if you think your budget's house broken ... Break down and call us.

"ASSUMPTION BUYERS." We have funds to help you assume mortgages that may be too far to reach. Call for details.

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own . . . but it takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item . . . and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

One more thing . . . get up early the day of your sale! When people read about a Garage Sale in Classified, they shop early.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

A MAJOR BREAKTHROUGH IN THE FIELD OF WEIGHT REDUCTION
In August 1981, a 10 year old company engaged in national as well as international sales, headquartered in San Francisco, CA, will introduce a major new product destined to become the most talked about new entry of the 80's. Select drug stores will be the primary vehicle, private distribution will form secondary base of product movement. Carefully planned procedures to insure smooth introduction into the marketplace.
A superb product: specially formulated and 100% drug free comes to the consumer critically acclaimed by members of the medical community.
Corporate advisory group to assist in establishment of fully protected areas to enhance the service aspect of this most unusual opportunity.

Controller distribution is the key element.

This isn't La Costa or Hilton Head. It's the apartment you've been looking for. In Farmington Hills.

A huge, uniquely-shaped swimming pool (and true resort ambience that surrounds it) might be the biggest thing that sets Muirwood apart from all the others.
But Muirwood's unique character extends to every last detail. Little things. Like the way we've tucked air conditioning units into closets, hidden from view. Or the always immaculate streets and grounds. Exceptional extra touches expressed in a dozen different floor plans.
With such loving attention to detail, then, it won't surprise you that Muirwood excels in all the more important amenities, as well.
Multiple window exposures. Large living spaces. Covered parking, balcony or patio for every residence. Inspired architecture (not just rows of identical boxes). All in a rolling landscape of ponds and streams, even a private 12-acre nature trail.
And entrance to Muirwood is only through the 24-hour manned gatehouse.
In a time when resorts charge up to $365 a day, isn't it extraordinary how much you can get in Farmington Hills for $365 a month?
From $365 a month for our one and two bedroom apartments.
