Justices spark mobile home location review

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

It isn't likely that you'll see a mobile home tucked among the colonials and ranch-style houses of a Canton subdivision.

But owners of mobile homes — formerly limited to mobile home parks — soon may have more choices of where they will live.

The Michigan Supreme Court in February ruled that restricting mobile homes to mobile home parks is discriminatory.

Canton — with six mobile home parks — has such a restriction. But the recent court decision has prompted the township's planning commission to look at new guidelines for where mobile homes can be located.

"The planning commission within the next month or so will be in a position to hold a public hearing. We're looking at options that are implied by the Supreme Court decision," said Dave Nicholson of the planning department.

PREVIOUS ordinances that excluded mobile homes from areas not designated as mobile home parks were discriminatory, according to Chuck Stedron, director of policy codes and compliance for the mobile home division of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

But people still won't be able to randomly place mobile homes in a community. Stedron said communities still may set reasonable standards for placement of the homes.

A mobile home is defined in the zoning code as a portable structure which can be mounted on a foundation and used as a dwelling.

Although a mobile home is prefabricated, it shouldn't be compared to a camper, trailer or other recreational vehicle.

Mobile home park operators are regulated by a state commission, which sets guidelines. Park operators provide their tenants with foundations, sewer and water facilities and garbage pick-up in exchange for a monthly rental fee.

For many persons, buying a mobile home is a less costly alternative to a "stick-built" house which is constructed on-site.

The Supreme Court decision came as a result of a lawsuit between Robinson Township, near Grand Rapids in Ottawa County, and a couple named Donald and Merle Knoll.

According to Nicholson, a dispute arose when local officials cited Knoll for placing a mobile home on an 80-acre land parcel which he owned.

The property was zoned mobile home park, but Knoll apparently wasn't interested in developing the site into a park. In addition, said Nicholson, local officials contended Knoll hadn't obtained required building permits.

Nicholson said the case "leaves a lot of questions" about Canton's zoning ordinance, which currently permits mobile homes to be located only in parks. Nicholson said the remaining vacant parcels zoned for mobile homes are adjacent to existing parks — Sherwood Mobile Village near Michigan Avenue and Haggerty, and near Holiday Estates off Geddes, west of Canton Center.

NICHOLSON said options include setting construction and other guidelines for mobile homes to be located in single-family areas, mobile home subdivisions and condominiums.

Under a condominium arrangement, an association of residents jointly owns the common areas and grounds. This format would give mobile home owners "more direct say as a homeowner, rather than a renter," said Nicholson.

Any zoning changes would have to be approved by Canton's planning commission, the Wayne County Planning Commission and the Township Board.

Working with the planning commission has been Robert Myers, a Canton resident who is a consumer activist for mobile home owners. Myers believes the Supreme Court decision opens new options, but he doesn't envision people buying a mobile home and placing it on a lot in the middle of a subdivision.

Activities like crawling through a barrel, which helps develop muscle coordination, are among the things in which children will participate in the summer program.

Citizens fund special ed project

Because of a shortage of funds, the summer program for special education students in Plymouth-Canton had been shelved.

But the planned budget cuts did not put an end to the summer activities for handicapped youth.

Instead a group of parents worked with community leaders and groups and generated the finances needed to operate a type of summer program which has never been offered before in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The effort was headed by Dr. Jim Gusfa of Plymouth Township, a dentist with offices in Dearborn who is a member of a Special Education Parents Advisory Committee for the school district.

Gusfa and other parents learned that city and township recreation departments were being forced to cut back on some of their summer offerings, and the school district likewise was trimming summer activities for financial reasons.

Members of the Parents Advisory Council (PAC) put together a six-week program and then went out into the community to raise the dollars needed to pay for it.

The six-week program will be for some 50 students who are now in programs for the Learning Disabled or Emotionally Impaired.

Among the activities planned are horseback riding lessons, dance lessons, home skills, arts and crafts, reading skills, other academic activities, and field trips.

One of the early contributors was the Plymouth Rotary Foundation which donated $500, but contributions also were made by the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth.

With the help of volunteers, and ideas suggested by parents, the PAC hopes the new six-week program will be an improved version over previous summer programs.

Rough going bogs job search for teens

By Bill Casper
staff writer

State and local employment service officials say it's going to be tough for youths to land summer jobs this year. Their advice: Start the job-search early and keep on plugging.

With an estimated 500,000 student job seekers flooding the already-tight employment market, jobs will not be plentiful and people will have to scrape to find work, said Don McGhee, information specialist for the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

"The most important piece of advice I can give anyone looking for a job is for that person to get the word out to anyone and everyone. Most job leads occur that way."

The dismal unemployment figures he cited make painfully clear the uphill battle all job hunters face.

"THE MOST recent figure released in April showed the state's total unemployment rate at 12.2 percent and it will be worse this summer when the half-million students pour into job hunting," McGhee noted. "With few exceptions around the state, teen-agers in the metropolitan Detroit area will be the most pressed in finding summer work."

Projected summer figures for youths between the ages of 16 and 19 indicate an unemployment rate of 35.5 percent, McGhee said. And he said finding a job will be harder for non-whites than for whites in the same age category.

An estimated 58.8 percent of non-white teens will be out of work this summer, compared to about 30.8 percent of whites who won't be able to find summer jobs, he said.

"The result of such high unemployment has significantly reduced the number of typical or traditional summer jobs, now being filled by laid-off auto workers," said McGhee. "They're taking whatever job they can get, including the lower paying service-type jobs, such as employment at fast food restuarants, which traditionally have been available to students.

"Layoffs in the auto and auto-related factories have virtually elminated another major area of traditional summer youth employment," McGhee continued. "In the past, students were hired for factory work to fill vacancies created by vacations, but union contracts require that laid-off factory workers be the first to be recalled to fill any vacancies."

Because of unemployment combined with a strained state budget and federal cutbacks reducing government-funded job opportunities, students are going to have to put more effort into their job-hunting efforts this summer, McGhee said.

"BECAUSE THE job market is so tight, students should start looking for employment now. Although the employer may not be hiring now, many like to conduct their summer-job interviews in advance.

"Even if they employer is not hiring, leave an application or resume so you are on file just in case a job unexpectedly opens up," said McGhee. "Students may have to be less selective about the type of work and salary they're looking for," he said.

"They should have some idea of what kind of work they want, but they also must be flexable, taking into considera-

Hit-run driver kills 6th grader

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Police are searching for the driver of a dark brown Ford LTD believed involved in the fatal hit-and-run accident of a 13-year-old boy last week.

Bascom Roger Belton, a sixth grader at West Middle School, died at St. Mary Hospital about five hours after the accident Wednesday night. Surgery was performed to relieve massive head injuries.

Bascom, called "B.R." by his friends, was hit about 11:30 p.m. Wednesday on Joy Road just east of Tavistock while riding his bicycle. He was less than 100 yards from his Plymouth Township home.

Bascom and a friend, Kevin Cooper, 13, were crossing to the north side of Joy from the Pine Tree shopping center when the accident occurred.

Kevin, on foot, had already crossed the street when the car struck Bascom in the right turn lane of Joy, leading into Tavistock Drive.

Kevin told police the car appeared to have accelerated after striking Bascom and then continued west on Joy.

Bascom's body was thrown about 60 feet upon impact.

St. Mary officials listed the boy's time of death as 5:20 a.m. Thursday. He had been placed on life support systems following surgery.

PLYMOUTH POLICE believe the car which struck Bascom to be a 1979-80 Ford LTD. The car likely will have a damaged right front fender. A yellow right turn signal was found by officers, who used it to identify the car make.

Det. Lt. Dan Carpenter of Plymouth Police says there are no suspects. "It's better for whomever is responsible to contact us before we contact them," he said.

Other than Kevin Cooper, who could not identify the driver, there are no witnesses to the accident.

Bascom Belton

Police said Bascom moved more slowly than Kevin in crossing the street because of "unsteadiness" on the bicycle. It was not equiped with a nightlight or reflectors. The boy wore faded jeans and a brown jacket.

After the car hit Bascom, Kevin ran to notify Mrs. Belton, who followed the boy to St. Mary.

Meanwhile, a shopper at the Quik Pik store in the Pine Tree complex "heard a noise" and ran to investigate the street scene in front of the center. There Carolyn Fernandez of Plymouth Township found Bascom and covered the unconscious boy with her coat.

Canton Township rescue personnel took him to the hospital.

In crossing guard dispute

Some say 'no compromise'

Five years of haggling between municipalities and Plymouth-Canton Community Schools over who will pay for crossing guards came to a head last week.

A consent judgment states that Plymouth and Canton townships and the city of Plymouth would split the cost of providing crossing guards with the school district.

Plymouth Township trustees last week rejected a consent judgment hammered out by attorneys for all sides in the Wayne County Circuit Court of Judge Roland Olzark.

Instead of accepting the agreement, Plymouth Township trustees have directed township attorney Donald Morgan to proceed with a June 15 trial against the school district before Circuit Judge Theodore Bohn.

When contacted yesterday, Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper said the city will join the township in this lawsuit that asks that the municipalities accept all costs for crossing guards.

Clerk John Flodin of Canton Township said his board of trustees has not taken a position yet on the consent judgment, but "I'm sure we will one

Armed robbers hold up north Canton party store

A man reportedly pulled a gun on a party store clerk Friday morning, then walked away with his companion and $100 in cash.

The two men fled on foot down northbound Morton Taylor following the 7:20 a.m. incident at the Lawson's store at Morton Taylor and Warren, according to Canton police.

A female clerk, who was working alone at the store, told police that two men approached and ordered her to open the safe. One of the men held a gun, she said.

According to police, the clerk told the pair that she did not know the safe's combination. But one of the men claimed that he had seen her open the safe earlier that day. After fumbling with the combination three times, she managed to open the safe and turned over $70 in bills and $30 in change.

According to police, no customers were in the store at the time of the robbery.

Police had no suspects in the case as of Friday morning, according to Lt. Larry Stewart.

The clerk described the men as white, about 19 or 20 years old and about 5-foot-7 to 5-foot-9 in height. Both had dark, wavy hair, she said.

An armed robbery conviction carries a maximum penalty of life in prison.

Audit clears schools of mismanaging funds

By Sandra Armbruster
staff writer

No irregularities have been found by auditors checking Wayne-Westland school district handling of money from bond issues and federal local public works (LPW) grants.

The following expenditures were audited: $19.6 million from two bond issues approved by voters in 1976, $8.2 million from an LPW grant, more than $1 million in state matching funds, $600,000 in equipment matching funds for vocational education and about $5 million earned in interest from investing funds.

The money was to be used for repair and renovation of existing buildings as well as for new construction.

Board members authorized the compliance audit, estimated to cost about $4,000, earlier this year after residents voiced concern about how the funds were being spent.

"WE FOUND nothing that came to our attention...that showed the funds were spent for anything other than the purposes of the bond issue and the LPW grant," said Pearl Holforty, a partner in the auditing firm of Plante and Moran. Her comments were made to board members at Tuesday night's meeting.

Ms. Holforty agreed to meet again with the board after the written report is available in a week to 10 days. The written audit currently is being typed and undergoing professional standards review.

Although the report wasn't originally scheduled on the published agenda for the meeting, board members voted to place it on the agenda. Board member Fred WArmbier objected to the oral presentation.

Wayne-Westland schools

The district serves southeast Canton.

"I've had no chance to look at anything. I haven't had a chance to frame questions. Quite frankly, I'd like to see the report before (hearing your report)," said Warmbier. "I'll listen to what you say, but I hope you'll be available for further questions...I feel like I'm objecting, but I don't know what I'm objecting to."

But Superintendent Timothy Dyer said that it was "imperative we take this opportunity to present it (the auditor's report) since charges have been made publicly."

Dyer was referring to an article written by Norma Weiser and submitted to newspapers for publication. It was printed by the Westland Eagle.

In it, Mrs. Weiser, a former member of the Citizens Specification Advisory Committee on School Facilities, charged the district with gross mismanagement of funds. She said the district's spending practices should be checked into before the June 8 election in which the district's entire operating millage — 32 mills — is up for renewal.

Mrs. Weiser specifically questioned the use of funds from the sale of closed school buildings and from money set aside for renovation of buildings which were not rennovated but sold. Mrs. Weiser also asked if money from local and federal sources was combined in some projects without approval, and if interest on the funds was used for general operating expense.

Under questioning from board members and the superintendent, Ms. Holforty said that she could "see no validity to arguments" made by Mrs. Weiser.

"Some of them are judgmental," Ms. Holforty added. "Nothing we saw raised any questions such as are in this (Mrs. Weiser's) article," she concluded.

CONCERN OVER the district's handling of the fund accounts surfaced last September when David Moranty appeared before the board to ask for a complete update on the project in scope and in budget.

Moranty, like Mrs. Weiser, was appointed by the board to the citizen's committee. He has also become a candidate for one of two board posts to be decided in the June election. Moranty, who is running on a slate with incumbant Warmbier, told the Observer that he won't use the audit as an issue in his campaign.

A letter Moranty submitted to the board at that September meeting also was signed by Mrs. Weiser and committee members Clifford Johnson and Fred Klus.

The bond advisory committee had 15 members. It was disbanded in November by the school board after administrators reported on the progress of the projects.

Still dissatisfied with information provided by the administration, several committee members met with state representatives Thomas Brown, D-Westland, Sylvia Skrel, R-Livonia, and William Keith, D-Garden City. Brown corresponded with the board on several occassions, asking for information and providing a list of specific areas he wanted to see covered in the audit.

Although still serving as a state representative, Brown recently announced his candidacy for Westland mayor.

"Bonding is a very tough process," Brown told the Observer after the audit had been requested. "The state is somewhat responsible through the Municipal Finance Commission.

"The right of people to question is the only way they can find out (information)," he continued. "It's the responsibility of the school district to explain fully so that the people totally understand.

"Once you ask people to sit on a committee, you owe it to the committee to keep it informed. Then you don't just abandon it after you get the money," Brown said. "Several (committee members) feel they haven't been a part of (the process) after approval came about.

"They want to know that they have the right information and to be kept posted."

BROWN SAID that specific information he requested included: 1. Is interest from the bond money used to retire the debt or for other purposes? 2. How was money used that was transfered from one account to another? 3. What happened to money for school buildings that are now closed? 4. What happened to bond issue money for renovating administrative offices when the LPW grant was received? The latter provided for new offices to be constructed.

Ms. Holforty said that the audit conducted by her firm included every journal entry and invoice through June 30, 1980 and was based on the budget submitted to the department of education and amendments to the budget. She

Trustee hopefuls talk of learning priorities

One four-year term on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education will be filled in the annual school election on Monday, June 8.

There are eight candidates whose names will appear on the ballot for the position, although only six have responded to questionnaires mailed out by the Observer Newspapers and by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi.

Following are questions asked each candidate by the Observer and the answers they gave.

QUESTION: Which of the following do you consider to be frills which should be eliminated entirely and which do you consider extracurricular, to be be preserved if possible?

The following answers were given by the responding candidates:

Harper: "In the past, each of these items has been mandatory or a valued part of school's programs. In times of financial crisis, all must be reviewed for present value and support by the community.

"Those that are self-supporting, or can become so, should be retained (such as preschool and school lunch). Other popular or mandated programs must be examined for possible savings or increased financial support from outside.

"Programs which have lost support from the community or no longer are utilized in curriculum should be significantly redirected to preserve the best parts and eliminate unnecessary expenditures."

Rickard: "Under 'frills' I would include the school farm. Culinary-arts instruction is an elective and therefore part of the regular curriculum as opposed to extracurricular. The immunization program is mandated by law for the protection of the students.

"The majority of the list would fall under extracurricular, most of which could be preserved if they became self-supporting. I disagree that reading specialists should fall under either category listed since they provide basic educational services.

"Teacher aides also directly benefit children. Lunchroom and playground supervision are paid positions; contractually teachers do not presently assume these duties."

Bone: "Each of these programs benefit children in our district.

"For each program reduced or eliminated, there will be students who will be adversely affected. Unfortunately, economic conditions will probably require further budget cuts to be made.

"I think the Board of Education must carefully evaluate the costs and benefits of each program, then make the needed cuts. Each board member must be ready to take responsibility for these actions."

Decker: "Frills — (which should be eliminated entirely) sixth-grade camp, school farm, marching band, immunization program, job-placement center, culinary-arts instruction, hot lunches, K-2 safety busing, Geer School, pompon girls, preschool programs, field trips and forensics team.

"Extracurricular — (preserve if possible) cooperative education, junior-varsity sports, reading specialists, student radio station, teacher aides, driver education, area coordinators at CEP.

"Roof replacement and bus purchases do not fall into either of these two categories, as they are necessities as part of an ongoing maintenance program."

Rumsby: "I think that all mentioned are necessary in the educational process with the exception of Geer School, which will be closed in the near future.

"Job-placement center — students need jobs. Bus purchases — they get old just like our cars. Driver education — we need safety-conscious drivers. Junior-varsity sports — sports prime children mentally as well as physically. Sports teach how to compete as well as sportsmanlike conduct. It makes our children better citizens."

Washburn: "Many of the activities which you list have little cost to the district. Some are near self-supporting while others are state and federally funded.

"The real frills of this district are unnecessary administrative positions, placing schools on ESY (Extended School Year) without justification and paying setup costs for ESY schools, then taking them off.

"I failed to find the position of public-relations director on your list. In my opinion, this position is the ultimate frill.

"With the school district doing its job, we have 17,000 students to fill this position absolutely free."

QUESTION: Should gifted students be given the same guarantee and curriculum attention as now is being received by students certified as handicapped who are in special-education programs?

Decker: "At a time when we are concerned with making budget cuts in order to eliminate anticipated deficits, I'm afraid we are not in a very good position to make guarantees for extra programs, no matter how special the request including those gifted students, unless we can justify and show where and how the monies needed for said guarantees are coming from.

"Recognizing that we provide many or most of our special-education programs today because it was first mandated by the state that this be done for those students so certified as handicapped and needing special attention."

Rumsby: "Equality is important in all areas of education. Understanding this, there is a question that has to be answered: 'Are gifted children handicapped?'

"If this is the case, their programs would be eligible for state aid. If it is not the case, the course of action would be to contact our lawmakers and move them in the path of rewriting the handicapped laws of our state."

Bone: "In my experience, the gifted students are not getting their fair share of funds.

"However, I believe that if we are forced to choose between the two groups, most gifted students can survive with minimal special funding while the educationally handicapped students would be unable to function without special help.

"This is for me personally a very difficult position because I enjoy working with gifted students and have long felt they have been financially neglected."

Washburn: "Yes, because the truly gifted as well as the handicapped are exceptional children and should receive the same attention.

"I would like to add that a better, more thorough identification process would have to be instituted before I would consider a child gifted. The present TAG method falls short and fails to satisfy my criteria."

Rickard: "It is true that gifted students have a set of special needs that often are not met within the regular classroom experience.

"They do not require or need the reduced pupil/teacher radio presently found in our special-education program. Primarily they need the opportunity to associate with one another while being challenged intellectually in the classroom. That can be accomplished by giving them a program to meet their needs with a standard pupil/teacher ratio.

"I heartily endorse the concept of a magnet school for TAG students."

Harper: "All students, regardless of ability and needs, must be given the same guarantees and curriculum attention as is now being received by students certified as handicapped, and who are in special-education programs. This objective must continue to be aggressively pursued by the schools."

QUESTION: How many hours per week are you willing to pledge to voters that you will spend on school-board meetings, including regular meetings, workshop meetings and special meetings, and in preparing for those meetings?

Rumsby: "It would not be fair for me to promise to the voters I would spend 'X' amount of hours. I can pledge to the electorate that I will spend whatever time is necessary to listen to their viewpoints and problems and also to do the job they require when they hire me as their school-board representative on the Plymouth-Canton Community School Board. I am a firm believer in giving your best. I pledge 100 percent."

Harper: "I will continue to devote, as I have in the past four years, all of the time necessary to do the job well. I have happily given many hours over the last four years and have found it to be a richly rewarding experience.

"On the average every week year-round, the position has required two evenings during the week and for each hour of meeting time about one-½ to two hours of preparation time."

Bone: "I cannot estimate the total hours required. But I am prepared to work as many hours as needed to do the job correctly."

Decker: "As many hours as are needed to be adequately and properly prepared is what I am willing to pledge to the voters.

"This need I expect to vary from 10 to 20 hours approximately each week as is required by changing schedules. If more hours are needed to get the job done, this is what I will give."

Washburn: "All that is necessary to properly carry out the duties and responsibilities of the position. I would expect to find it necessary to spend a portion of my vacation and personal time in the process.

"I can assure the voters that an issue as important as redistricting would find me at the meetings, not on vacation. By contrast, the incumbent has missed the most critical meeting of the entire year because he was on 'vacation.' I promise, when elected, to give more than enough time to represent the interests of the voters.

Rickard: "I already attend all board workshops and have done so for more than a year.

"In addition to that, I presently attend safety-committee meetings, Plymouth Community School Council meetings and regular PTO meetings at Eriksson. I am aware of the additional time that is involved in being an informed board member. I am fortunate enough to have the time to invest and am willing to expend the energy necessary to do a good job."

Summer jobs are tough to find

tion job availability. They should be persistent despite rejections and prepared when they apply or go for an interview."

Job seekers may have to redirect their searches toward non-traditional or lesser-known employers or become more creative in devising self-employment opportunities, McGhee said.

"I suggest checking a junk yard," he said. "Who thinks to look for work at a junk yard? The point is job hunters tend to look for work at the larger, established, well-known, very visible corporations where competition is tougher, while the smaller businesses are often forgotten.

"Some may have to start their own summer business like painting, cleaning, yard work or baby sitting. And others may have to do volunteer work for future experience," McGhee said.

He provided a number of tips which may help the job hunter.

"FIRST, DON'T forget most employers require the employee have a Social Security card," he said. "If you don't have one, apply now because the processing period takes three to six weeks.

"Select employment based on education and past experiences, even if there was no salary involved. When applying for a job, focus on preparation. Know your strengths and weaknesses, get a sample application and prepare a fact sheet to include all the information requested on the form, such as references, past jobs, experience and other activities or hobbies of which learned skills may be converted into a job.

"Prepare for an interview. Learn something about the company and express an interest in the business. Go to the interview alone so you don't run the risk of feeling pressured to hurry. Be punctual or early. Dress neat, be clean and well groomed. Maintain eye-to-eye contact with the interviewer and talk clearly. In short, sell yourself."

McGhee suggests calling back if you don't hear from the employer, and if you didn't get the job, ask why so that yo might learn how to improve the next try for employment.

When seeking employment, keep in mind the businesses which increase during the summer, says Chuck Altman, director of the Michigan Department of Labor's Youth Employment Clearing House, an agency established to help youth find summer work.

He said any business which was closed for the winter makes a good target, including resorts, camps, playgrounds, amusement parks, farms, nurseries, ice cream and soft drink concessions.

ed about the accident and began investigating. The case was turned over to Plymouth police shortly after midnight when it was determined the accident occurred in Plymouth Township.

The initial confusion resulted from the fact that Joy Road is a border between the two townships.

Carpenter says the charge of manslaughter could be brought against the driver.

Bascom is the son of Audrey Belton of 39858 Joy Road in Plymouth Township. School officials described the boy as mischievous but likeable and "full of life."

Funeral services for Bascom were expected to be held this morning at Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth with Lt. William Harfoot of the Salvation Army officiating. Burial was scheduled at Parkview Cemetery.

In addition to his mother, Bascom is survived by three sisters, Wendy Sue, 19, Millie, a freshman at Plymouth Canton High, and Audrey, a fifth grader at Fiegel Elementary School; a grandmother, Thelma Stone; and a grandfather, Adolth Kushler. Bascom's father died last year after a long illness.

bile home's acceptance) is the exterior appearance," said Myers, who currently serves on the state Mobile Home Commission.

Myers and his family own a 1,440 square-foot mobile home and live in a mobile home park in western Canton.

According to Myers, manufacturers of mobile homes are beginning to give more attention to exterior esthetics. Some new models are being built so bricks can be attached to the outside, making the mobile home appear more like a conventional house.

ALSO APPLAUDING the Supreme Court decision was Ruby Cadd, manager of Sherwood Mobile Village in Canton.

"With the housing crisis that the economy is in at this time, I know housing costs are quite high," said Mrs. Cadd. "I look for more and more people to come to this kind of living.

"You can buy a mobile home from $5,000-$14,000," added Ms. Cadd. "Business is booming right now."

Myers said he is recommending that there be no new rental-type mobile home parks. He believes rental parks fulfill the needs of some persons, but "those kinds of parks are passe."

"I envision a whole new look and a whole new way of life (for mobile home residents)," added Myers.

Senior Concert in park Friday

The annual Senior Concert, featuring music selected by graduating seniors, will be held Friday in Kellogg Park by the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Symphony Band.

The concert begins at 7:30 p.m. with the Middle School All Star Band playing four selections, each conducted by a different middle school band director.

The all star band, comprised of 80 members from all four middle schools, will be making its third appearance at the finale concert.

The band will play "The Thunderer March" by Sousa, conducted by Dale Baer of Pioneer Middle School; "Divertimento" by Mozart and arranged by Thornton, which will be directed by Mike Chiumento of West Middle School; "Chorale and Capriccio" by Giovaninni, directed by Linda Mapes Calzone; and then selections from "Fiddler on the Roof" by Bock arranged by Warrington, conducted by Cheryl Waldenmeyer.

THE CEP SYMPHONY Band will perform for about 90 minutes, during which they will present 10 songs:

"Poet and Peasant Overture" by Von Suppe and arranged by Fillmore; "Marche Slav" by Tschaikovsky, arranged by Laurendeau; "Dreams of a Psychopath" by Francis; "His Honor March" by Fillmore, the "Universal Judgment" by DeNardis and arranged by Cafarella.

After a brief intermission, the Symphony Band will perform "Wedding Dance" by Press, arranged by Johnston; "March From Symphonic Metamorphosis" by vonWeber, arranged by Hindemith and Wilson; "The Barber of Seville Goes to the Devil" by Rossini, arranged by Jacob and O'Brien; "The Glory of the Yankee Navy March" by Sousa; and for the closing number, the classic "Stars and Stripes Forever" by Sousa.

ALL SONGS by the Symphony Band will be conducted by James Griffith, director of bands at the CEP, except for three which will be directed by guest conductors.

Baer will conduct "Marche Slav" along with two student conductors. Senior clarinet player Jolene Curreri will conduct "His Honor March" and senior trombonist Pat Collins will lead the band in "The Glory of the Yankee Navy March."

Both student guest conductors have participated in the marching band throughout their high school career — Miss Curreri as a color guard member and Collins as a trombone line member.

Collins, who also was a member of the CEP Jazz Band, played the lead role of Tevye in this year's CEP musical "Fiddler on the Roof."

Graduating seniors participating in the concert include Jeanne Adams, Curreri, Kris Bouman, Sue Dobel, Linda Guilds, and Chris Hofmann on clarinet; Debbi Aldredge, Aleda Jenner, Nancy Pierce, Gretchen Snyder and Julie Koziski on flute; Collins on trombone; Dave Gerke on tuba; Kurt Schubert on baritone; Jerry Hotchkin, Jeff Stopa, Steve Martin on percussion; and Eileen Hess, Laurie Golden and Mark Zamarka on trumpet.

BREVITIES FROM THE MAIL

Announcements for Brevities should be submitted by noon Monday for publication in the Thursday paper and by noon Thursday for publication in the Monday paper. Bring in or mail to the Observer at 461 S. Main, Plymouth 48170. Forms are available upon request.

A deer in the cemetery 'was just out of place'

Alice Collins

A deer — a full grown doe — wandered out of the protection of her own habitat one day recently and, somehow, made her way into Acacia Park Cemetery.

The cemetery is green and wooded and the deer might have thought it a safe place to roam. Maybe she was afraid of the traffic roaring up and down five-laned Southfield Road, which borders the cemetery, or of the traffic congestion at the intersection of 13 Mile and Southfield.

But the manager of Acacia was afraid for the creature and called John Murphy, the animal control officer for Southfield Township. Public safety officers in Beverly Hills next door also heard the dispatch call and Sgt. John Knotts and Officer Art Smith went to see if they could help.

MURPHY headed for the nearby cemetery in his animal control van. "As I drove over," he later told me, "I really didn't know what I was going to do with it when I got there. I knew what we really needed was a tranquilizer gun.

"We didn't have one and we were't able to locate the rifle-kind that we needed from communities in the area. We finally located one at the Detroit Zoo." Someone from Beverly Hills went to get it.

When Murphy and the two Beverly Hills officers got to the cemetery they found the doe bedded down by one of the head stones. "We knew we somehow had to get the deer out," Murphy continued with the story. "It wasn't safe there."

Even though there's a fence around it, the gates are open during the day. They feared that the deer might get out into the Southfield Road traffic and endanger itself and passing motorists.

"WE WATCHED it quietly for a while, waiting for the tranquilizer gun to arrive," he said. "A woman whose husband is buried in the cemetery drove up and parked. We were afraid she might wake the deer and frighten it and make it bolt.

"We went to her and asked her to leave the area for awhile. But it didn't work. The deer must have heard her and took off."

In panic, it began trying to jump the fence. But the fence was too high. "It kept running at the fence and bouncing off. It wouldn't slow down. I cringed every time it hit the fence, it was tearing up its face."

Meanwhile, the tranquilizer gun was delivered. More police and other employees from Beverly Hills arrived. Cemetery personnel were there too.

"We needed the best marksman we could find so we got Officer Steve Standfast of Beverly.

"We finally got the doe cornered over behind the equipment building in the cemetery and Steve took three shots at it. The darts just bounced off.

"IT RAN to a corner of the fence and got stuck in some bushes. I ran up with a dart and injected it by hand. And the deer, so exhausted from running and fear, laid down.

"We tied its hoofs with rope and checked it for wounds. It was bleeding from the mouth, but other than that, it seemed in pretty good shape.

"We tied it on a stretcher (carried in the animal control van for large dogs), loaded her into the van and took her to Gasow (veterinary hospital in Birmingham).

"Doctors there checked her vital signs and said she seemed to be in pretty good shape. Her lip was torn and they proceeded to sew her up."

Murphy, relieved, went to a telephone to find someone to care for the doe during her recuperation and also to call the zoo to find out what kind of tranquilizer to get if they needed more for the animal.

MURPHY CONTINUED: "I walked back into surgery and looked at the deer.

"She looked at me as I walked in. Her eyes rolled back and she expired. They doctors said it was cardiac arrest.

"I guess she just gave up. It was just too much for it.

"It was the saddest moment of my two years as an animal control officer. If only we could have left her in the cemetery. If only the gates could have always been closed, we could have.

"But she was just out of place.

"I'm not ashamed to say I went home in tears that something like that could happen. It's a memory I don't want to remember."

I'M WRITING about John Murphy and the incident with the deer because it is worth remembering.

The sad ending of the story doesn't diminish the beauty of John Murphy's love and caring for animals, and of the concerns of all the others who helped. They just weren't able to save her, that's all.

No mystery in why former priest turned to crime

Craig Piechura

William X. Kienzle is killing fewer Catholics these days. This time around only one malevolent monsignor named Tommy Thompson winds up missing in "Mind over Murder."

When last we left Mr. Kienzle in 1979 he was promoting "The Rosary Murders" from the Center for Contemplative Studies at the University of Dallas. This columnist was in Detroit exploiting Kienzle's middle initial by saying stuff like he's an ex-priest as well.

It's been eight years and two very successful murder mysteries since an order of "Reductio" busted Kienzle back to a laity state. Why talk about his former vocation more than the current one?

Because Kienzle himself can't quit capitalizing on his vast repertoire of all the funny, forbidden and exasperating aspects of the Catholic Church seen through the eyes of his favorite free-lance sleuth, Fr. Robert Koesler.

We met again because Andrews & McMeel sent me another free book and because Kienzle, 52, is now a "local angle" by living with his editor/wife, Javan, in Southfield. Besides, I had a great story idea for Mr. (God, don't slip and call him Father) Kienzle.

His novels are populated with thinly veiled Detroit personalities in a city and archdiocese teeming with political intrigue. Why not make Poletown grist for the mill of the sacramental sleuth in all of Kienzle's mysteries?

IT'S A NATURAL. All the elements of dramatic conflict are there for Hollywood producers, who already hold the unused rights to "Rosary Murders." Big business vs. little church, ethnics and blacks vs. business and industry. Power brokers like John Cardinal Dearden and Thomas Murphy pitted against Ralph Nader and the fighting priest of Immaculate Conception, Fr. Joseph Karasiewicz.

Don't expect to see a title like "A Priest is Plugged in Poletown" or "Going My Way — In a Chevrolet" in the paperback racks at A&P. Kienzle makes it clear that while the controversy concerns him, he can't imagine using it in his fiction.

Kienzle doesn't like the way GM dumped the ultimate decision in Cardinal Dearden's lap but says the church is no longer needed in the so-called Poletown neighborhood.

The Poletown plot, he says, is just another in a series of unsolicited suggestions for mysteries he will ignore. Ingratitude like that just may keep him on the best seller list.

With the release of "Mind Over Murder," Kienzle hit the promotion trail Wednesday with such glamorous stops as a student assembly at Plymouth-Canton High School.

After 45 minutes of discussion, "Any questions?" None. "OK, we'll think of something else as I stand up here in front of all of you," Kienzle says, recreating his reception. "I think I've made my last presentation to future adults."

NEXT STOP was the sun-screened office of the Farmington Observer. There, Kienzle says, he doesn't buy the theory that life imitates violence in art.

John Lennon's accused murderer and Reagan's assailant got the idea, police said, by watching Robert DeNiro stalk a senator in the movie "Taxi Driver." However, Kienzle doesn't worry that a reader might kill a Mother Superior after reading one of his books.

"I think if you've got a pathological character prone to be violent, he'll be violent," Kienzle says. "The jerk who shot Reagan would have done it without seeing 'Taxi Driver.' "

On the interview trail, Kienzle said he is usually asked the same three questions:

Q. Why did you leave the priesthood?

Q. Why would a former priest write murder mysteries.

Q. Is your wife a nun?

ANSWERS:

A. He left the priesthood in a continuing disagreement over enforcement of 2,414 Canon Laws, particularly the church's trials and tribunals over marriage and divorce.

A. He wrote the first mystery to make his mortgage payment. There aren't a lot of jobs for out-of-work theologians.

A. His wife, Javan, is not and has never been a nun. She's a copy editor who used to work for the Detroit Free Press, gave all three mysteries their titles, and occasionally corrects Kienzle's syntax.

Nancy Walls Smith

After doing my version of "extensive research" on the topic of behavior modification (I read one book), I decided that this would be a splendid technique for me to use in my never-ending quest for a diet that works. I know I could be a woman if I could just lose 15 pounds! Or at least I'd be a thinner one.

According to my newfound knowledge, if one "rewards" desirable behavior and "punishes" those habits we could all do without, one would stop doing the bad things and only do the good things.

Eating half a pie is a bad thing. Staying on a diet of 900 calories a day is a good thing. Or so I've been told.

I wasn't too keen on the "punishment" aspects of this new technique — life is rough enough already — but the "reward" part seemed to have definite appeal. So I very wisely made a bet with myself. If I could last for seven days on 900 calories a day, I would buy myself Willie Nelson's new album. Next to Kris Kristofferson's body, I think Willie Nelson's voice is the most exciting thing going in country music today.

Starving myself for seven days for Willie would be a breeze.

It all fell apart on day six. As I was driving home from an appointment, I was suddenly overcome with a deep lust for something sweet. I felt like a woman possessed.

My tires squealed as I turned into the first "7-11" on the horizon; I rushed into the store and frantically scanned the aisles searching for something in the way of a tasty pastry.

I had to stifly my shouts of glee as I quickly purchased two pieces of carrot cake. I love carrot cake. I took my prize to a friend's house (it's more fun when you "pig out" with a friend) and had a lovely time with tea, cake and conversation. I was a happy person.

Like the good dieter that I try to be, I went home and recorded the cake in my diet journal. I figured it was good for about 350 calories. Please don't tell me if it's any more than that — leave me with some of my illusions.

I had lettuce for lunch.

Soon after a neighbor came knocking on my door with six freshly baked pecan tarts that she wanted me to test. I have nice neighbors. Pecan pie is my very favorite in the world. I had to have those tarts. I won't tell you how many I ate. It's too embarrassing.

As we sat down for tea and tarts, I realized that day six of the 900-calorie plan was shot to heck.

Later that same fat afternoon, my dear mother brought home my 4-year-old son. Grandma and my loving offspring had spent the entire afternoon baking chocolate chip cookies. "Mom, you gotta taste these cookies I made for you!" How could any mother refuse cookies baked by her own 4-year-old?

I ate a few until I started to develop a severe case of "cookie fever." So far, during this one day, I had consumed carrot cake, pecan tarts, lettuce and chocolate chip cookies.

I ate a pork chop for dinner, hoping there were at least a few vitamins in it to ward off the fat cells from completely conquering my body.

That same evening, my husband went on an errand and returned home with milkshakes for everyone. Strawberry for me. Such a thoughtful gesture; I just couldn't hurt his feelings by refusing it.

Oh dear, looks like no Willie Nelson for Nancy. Burp.

Inmates' ABCs: societal must

Last time I was in the Smith Center at George Washington University, it was to watch Congressman Bill Brodhead play basketball.

I was in Washington D.C. to visit my son Bruce, then a freshman law student at GWU. It was a lot of fun watching the legislators play GWU students, but for the life of me, I can't recall who won.

We returned last week to attend the commencement of the National Law Center in that same gymnasium. This time we were all winners, graduates and families.

Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, suffering from fever and a sore throat, got out of his sick bed to speak to the graduates.

With my proud parents, my husband Jack, and daughter Tzviah, I was there peering down, hoping for a glimpse of Bruce as the 400 graduates marched in.

High in the bleachers, next to us, a large happy family was there to see the matriarch of the family, 47, get her law degree.

Another diploma recipient was charged by two small children and a pregnant wife as he descended the dais. It was a happy time for a lot of people.

JUSTICE BURGER, who received a doctor of laws, spoke of unhappy things. He talked about the penal system, calling the nation's prisons "a disaster."

For those of us who returned to Michigan to news of riots and arson at Jackson, Ionia and Marquette, his talk was amazingly pertinent.

Burger warned the graduates that "consequences of the present system will fall on you and your children for a long time" unless something is done to improve the prisons.

Calling for "small steps" but "affordable" ones in terms of the current political and economic realities, he proposed two things.

First, he called on President Reagan and Congress to establish a national academy of corrections to provide training for prison personnel.

Next, he asked that all inmates who cannot read, write, spell or do simple arithmatic be forced to learn to do so.

"The number of young, functional illiterates in our institutions is appalling," Burger said. "Without these basic skills, what chance does any person have of securing a gainful occupation when that person is relased and begins the search for employment — with the built-in handicap of a criminal conviction?"

Burger, who has taken his lumps for attacking the legal system for being too lenient on criminals and also for the quality of attorneys practicing currently, said some may consider "the mandatory aspect as harsh."

So he suggested, and the audience laughed heartily when he did, that the total work and study hours for the inmates "be no greater than we demand of the thousands of law students."

GUARANTEEING no sure result, the Chief Justice said: "If we accept the moral proposition that we are our brother's keepers and that there is a divine spark in every human being — hard as this is to believe sometimes — we must try."

A great deal was required of these law school graduates. Many consider law school itself as having been cruel and unusual punishment, but no doubt many harsher demands await them in life — like studying for and passing the bar exam.

Hundreds of parents and relatives greeted one another asking, "Well, how does it feel to have a lawyer in the family?" When I asked Jack that, he said: "I saw it and I celebrated, but I won't really believe Bruce is a lawyer until I see him behind a desk in his own office and paying income tax."

way or the other very shortly."

The vote Tuesday passed 6-1 with Clerk Esther Hulsing, a former school board president, casting the sole opposition to the lawsuit.

"I think we've horsed around with this for years," she said. "I think it's time we threw in the towel."

BUT MOST Plymouth Township trustees said they opposed the judgment in the hopes that future state legislation would be enacted spelling out school districts' total responsibility in providing crossing guards.

Morgan told trustees that if they accepted the consent judgment, they would loose future bargaining power if and when the law is changed in favor of municipalities.

"As it's written, you'd be locked in for not only the past three years but in a 50-50 cost share in the future," he said.

Presently, state statue says the cost of providing crossing guards is a municipality's responsibility.

In the compromise consent judgment rejected Tuesday by the township, the school district had agreed to cover 50 percent of the cost if the municipality agreed likewise.

Plymouth Township would have to pay the school district $21,200 in back payments for three years beginning with 1977. Likewise, the city of Plymouth would be liable for almost $27,000 with Canton Township's cost share at almost $18,000.

Township Supervisor Maurice Breen objected to the consent judgment saying, in effect, that the school board would be taking away the township's future lobbying rights for chages in the law.

THE LEGAL fight between the school district and the three main municipalities it services began in 1976 when the school board voted to discontinue the funding of crossing guards.

A local attorney, James McCarthy, representing himself, filed a lawsuit against the school board on that action.

In the years to follow, the school district enjoined in that suit not only the three municipalities but also Wayne County, the Wayen County Board of Commissioners and Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas.

(The county officials were named as well because in townships such as Canton and Plymouth it's the county that has jurisdiction over the roads, unlike the situation in a city.)

The school district still is funding the crossing guards as a result of a temporary court injunction issued at the start of the hearings.

Audit shows no irregularities

said the audit checked to see if the district was in compliance with the bond proposals for repair and renovation of buildings and with the outline of projects.

While Brown's questions weren't specifically responded to in the audit, Ms. Holforty said that the audit procedures covered all areas mentioned by Brown.

She said that in terms of the general fund, the district "is in line legally with what can be done." Funds from the sale of buildings were used for debt retirement first. She added that interest income from building and site funds wasn't used to pay for operating expenses, and that money transfered to different accounts was approved by the state department of education.

The administrative facilities in the newly constructed vocational-education center were paid for from the LPW grant, according to Ms. Holforty.

Your June utility bill may be the most important one you'll receive all year.

When you open the envelope containing your June utility bill you will find a very important booklet (or you might receive it as a separate mailing.)

It describes the new Michigan Residential Conservation Services program featuring a Home Energy Analysis.

The new service is offered by eight major Michigan utilities and meets the requirements of the Michigan Public Service Commission and the 1978 National Energy Act. It's available to all homeowners and renters who pay energy utility bills.

Even if you and your family are already conserving energy, the Home Energy Analysis can show you how to save more.

For a $10 fee, you will get a complete inspection of your home by an energy specialist from your utility. You will learn how effective your present insulation, weatherstripping, caulking and other energy cost saving measures are, and you will be provided with information on specific things you can do to reduce energy waste.

You also will receive a written computer analysis giving you estimates on how much recommended improvements will cost and how long they will take to pay for themselves. Information on contractors who can do the work, details on financing, tax credits and Home Weatherization Grants for low income persons also will be provided. After the work is completed, you may have it inspected by your utility.

Some of the recommendations may cost very little or nothing at all. Some you may be able to do yourself. Others will require the services of a contractor. In any case, the Home Energy Analysis puts you under no obligation to carry out any of the recommendations. However, you probably will want to do at least some of these, because now you will know a great deal more about how to make your home energy efficient.

Whether or not you decide to have a Home Energy Analysis, please read the booklet that comes with your June bill or by a separate mailing. It lists many things you can start doing right now to save energy and money. The booklet also tells you about assistance you can get from your utility to help you make your home more energy efficient—with or without the Home Energy Analysis. Lists of contractors and lenders, as well as do-it-yourself information also are available from your utility.

You can sign up for your Home Energy Analysis by returning the postcard in the booklet or by getting in touch with your utility. The sooner you sign up, the sooner you can start reducing energy waste in your home.

The Michigan Residential Conservation Services program is conducted through the utilities listed below. You can select any one of which you are a customer to perform your Home Energy Analysis.

COOK WELL IN ANY LANGUAGE

Foreign Dishes Share Secret of Better Taste

Compliment a French chef on his fine kettle of fish and, if he knows you pretty well, he may come back with a little rhyme.

"Un peu d'amer et c'est mielleur."

Translated, a bit of bitters makes it better.

Sukiyaki in a famous Japanese restaurant is flavored with the same secret ingredient.

In Rio, cooks use bitters to bring out the best in a classic recipe called green rice. Holland housewives add bitters to buttermilk pie to give it an unidentifiable tang.

And wherever the influence of the British Empire has been felt during the last century and a half, bitters is used in food and drink. As a matter of fact, some people think "British" whenever the talk gets around to bitters.

But that's not the way it is at all. Angostura bitters aren't British. They came out of a place called Angostura, a port in Venezuela. It was there that a Dr. Johann Siegert worked out a formula for making an elixir of certain tropical herbs and spices. He called the mixture "bitters" because it was derived from plants that are bitter in their natural state.

The bitters proved enormously useful in improving the appetites and general well-being of the troops of Simon Bolivar, the great liberator of South America, in whose army Dr. Siegert was Surgeon-General. The fame of the formula spread quickly. Sailors putting into the port of Angostura carried bottles away with them to the far corners of the earth. "Angostura" bitters became a familiar product and a familiar name throughout the world. First formulated in 1828, Angostura is still produced in Trinidad by the descendants of Dr. Siegert.

Angostura bitters is both a flavoring and a seasoning. As a seasoning, it adds relish and provides interest and character to the dishes and drinks to which it is added. As a flavoring, it imparts a distinguishing quality of its own, albeit a most subtle one. It is a secret ingredient used by famous chefs and really practicing gourmets to make people seek out and talk about the food they prepare.

Here is a complete international dinner, from soup to nuts, in which bitters improves the flavor of each dish. Diners won't be able to identify what it is that makes everything taste especially good. They will just know that the cook knows how to cook well in any language.

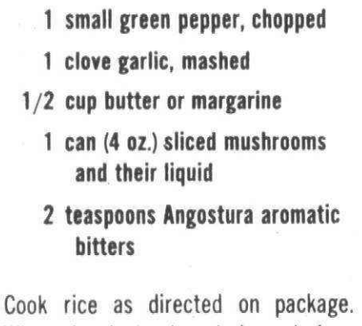
Portuguese

BRAZILIAN GREEN RICE

- 1-1/2 cups converted rice
- 2 envelopes dehydrated chicken broth
- 1 cup chopped fresh raw spinach (pack cup tightly)
- 1/4 cup chopped chives
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 1 small green pepper, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, mashed
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms and their liquid
- 2 teaspoons Angostura aromatic bitters

Cook rice as directed on package. When rice is tender, drain and rinse with boiling water. Keep hot. In a large skillet combine broth, spinach, chives, parsley, green pepper, garlic and butter. Saute until vegetables are wilted and almost tender. Add mushrooms and Angostura. Simmer for 5 minutes. Fold in rice and reheat. Pour into serving bowl and garnish with a sprinkling of chopped chives. Yield: 6 servings.

French

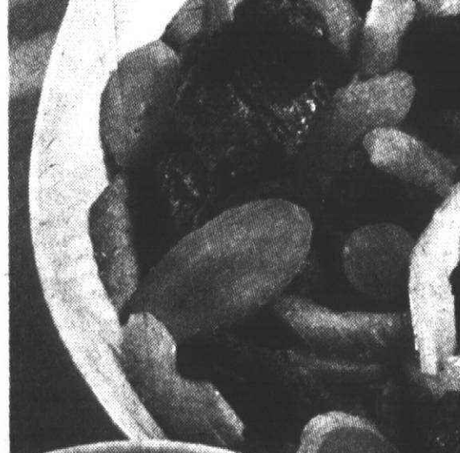


FRENCH KETTLE OF FISH

- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1 large onion, sliced
- 1 tomato, diced
- 2 cod fish steaks, skinned, boned and diced while raw
- 1 lb. shrimp, shelled and deveined while raw
- 2 cans (13-3/4 oz. ea.) chicken broth
- 1 cup water
- Juice of 1 lemon
- 2 teaspoons Angostura aromatic bitters
- Salt and pepper
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley

Melt butter and saute onion and tomato until soft. Add fish and shrimp, broth, water, lemon juice and Angostura. Simmer for 10 minutes or until fish turns white and shrimp become pink. Season to taste with salt and pepper, and sprinkle top with chopped parsley. Yield: 6 servings.

English



BRITISH GLAZED NUTS

- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 1 cup clear corn syrup
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 tablespoon Angostura aromatic bitters
- 1 cup butter
- 3 cups assorted shelled nuts — pecans, filberts, walnuts, etc.
- 1 teaspoon baking soda

Combine sugar, syrup and water in a large saucepan. Add Angostura and butter and boil until the candy thermometer registers 300°F. or until small amount when dropped into cold water forms a lollipop-like ball. Heat nuts in a 250°F. oven until warm, about 15 minutes. Stir nuts and soda into syrup. Stir quickly to blend. Divide mixture equally between 2 well buttered 15 x 10 x 1 inch pans. Using 2 greased forks spread out nuts into a single layer. Cool. Break into pieces and store in an airtight container in a cool dry place. Yield: about 2-1/2 lbs. glazed nuts.

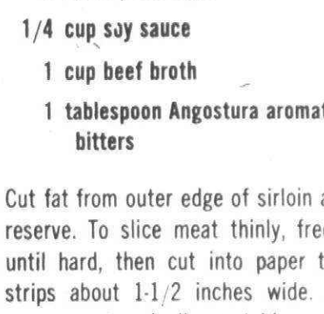
JAPANESE

SUKIYAKI

- 2-1/2 lbs. well marbled sirloin
- 2 cups thinly sliced carrots
- 2 cups thinly sliced celery
- 1 cup finely chopped onions
- 1 can (8 oz.) bamboo shoots, drained and sliced
- 1 can (8-1/2 oz.) water chestnuts, drained and sliced
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1/4 cup soy sauce
- 1 cup beef broth
- 1 tablespoon Angostura aromatic bitters

Cut fat from outer edge of sirloin and reserve. To slice meat thinly, freeze until hard, then cut into paper thin strips about 1-1/2 inches wide. Arrange meat and all vegetables on a tray. Combine all remaining ingredients and keep in a bowl. Dice reserved fat and fry in a large skillet until crisp. Remove crisp pieces and add meat to hot fat. Cook meat quickly over very high heat. Add vegetables and cook while stirring. Add liquid mixture. Cover and let steam for 5 minutes or until vegetables are tender crisp. Yield: 6 servings.

DUTCH



DUTCH BUTTERMILK PIE

- 1/2 cup flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 cups buttermilk
- 3 egg yolks
- 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon Angostura aromatic bitters
- 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- 1 9-in. unbaked pie shell with fluted edge
- 2 cups canned or thawed frozen peach slices, drained

In a bowl mix flour and sugar. Gradually stir in buttermilk. Beat in egg yolks, butter and Angostura. Fold in beaten egg whites. Pour mixture into pie-crust lined 9-inch pie pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350°F.) 50 minutes or until crust and top are richly browned. Cool and then chill. Just before serving, garnish outer edge with peach slices. Yield: 1 - 9-inch pie.

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Over-the-hill asparagus

Consult any good cookbook, and you will find that the only recipes given for asparagus are of the simplest type — perhaps dressed with hollandaise or butter and lemon juice if served hot or with a vinaigrette or mayonnaise if served chilled.

It is always pointed out that these treatments allow the delicate flavor of the slender asparagus stalks to shine through. The assumption is that you are fortunate enough to be working with young, tender asparagus. The reality of the situation, however, is that you are likely at times to be faced with hulking clubs rather than tender spears. It might be the start or the end of the season, when selection is poor. It might be that your particular grocery store always seems to be the final stop of the produce truck where the dregs are unloaded.

Perhaps you just sent the wrong person to the store.

Whatever the reason, there is a bright side to this situation. Even overgrown, over-the-hill asparagus has a wonderful flavor. The old saw, "There's no such thing as a bad beer — just some better than others" applies to asparagus as well as to beer. When confronted with overgrown asparagus, you can feel free to depart from the reverent, lightly dressed approach.

IT WAS EXACTLY under such conditions that I discovered the recipe for rigatoni with asparagus, beaten eggs and tomatoes.

Although more of a composed recipe than those for the lightly dressed stalks, the accompanying ingredients are simple enough to complement rather than mask the sliced asparagus. This is an unusual, light pasta dish — well worth trying with what remains of the asparagus crop.

Another recipe you might want to try as the asparagus season draws to an end and selection is poor is cream of asparagus soup from "Moosewood Cookbook." It took me several years to try this recipe. I would spend about 10 months of the year awaiting asparagus season so that I could make this tempting-sounding soup. When the asparagus months arrived, however, I would back down. It seemed a sinful waste of fresh asparagus to puree it into a soup.

Fortunately, this year I had enough overly mature asparagus left — even after making the above pasta dish — to warrant "wasting" it in a soup.

I think it was the most delicious cream soup I have ever eaten! We enjoyed it preceding hot, spicy sandwiches — a contrast which emphasized its delicate flavor and texture. In keeping with its appearance in spring, it is a light rather than a rich, heavy cream soup. It is well worth scouring the stores for what remains of this year's asparagus and planning to use some of next year's best for this lovely soup.

One word of caution — asparagus contains some sulfur, which spoils the taste of wine. If you wish to serve wine with a meal including asparagus, serve the asparagus as a separate first course and accompany the remainder of the meal with the wine.

RIGATONI WITH ASPARAGUS, BEATEN EGGS, AND TOMATOES
Serves 6

Sauce:
½ cup olive oil
2 garlic cloves
1 cup peeled plum tomatoes
½ tsp. salt
1 lb. fresh asparagus
2 eggs
4 tbsp. grated Romano cheese
Freshly ground pepper
Pasta:
6 qts. water
6 tsp. salt
1 lb. rigatoni

Saute the garlic in the olive oil in a large frying pan over medium heat until golden and then discard the cloves. Mash the tomatoes with a fork and add them to the flavored oil. Add the salt and cook, stirring from time to time for 15 minutes or until reduced and darkened in color.

Break off and discard the tough bottoms of the asparagus and cut the rest into bite-sized lengths. Cook in abundant, boiling salted water until tender but still slightly crisp. Drain thoroughly.

Beat the eggs right in the serving bowl or platter. Add the cooked, cooled asparagus, abundant ground pepper and the cheese.

Cook and drain the pasta and add immediately to the asparagus and eggs. Toss gently, letting the heat of the pasta cook the eggs. Add the tomato sauce, toss again and serve.
(from "The Romagnolis' Meatless Cookbook" by Margaret and G. Franco Romagnoli)

CREAM OF ASPARAGUS SOUP
4-5 servings

2 cups water or stock
1½ cups chopped onion
6 tbsp. butter
6 tbsp. flour
½-1 tsp. dill weed
1½ lb. fresh asparagus
4 cups scalded milk
1 tsp. salt
White pepper
Dash of tamari

Break off the tough asparagus bottoms and discard them. Break off the asparagus tips and set them aside. Chop the stalks and cook them with the onions in the butter, salting them lightly. After about 8-10, when onions are clear, sprinkle in the flour. Continue to cook over lowest possible heat (use a "waffle" heat absorber, if you have one) 5-8 minutes. Add water or stock. Cook 8-10 minutes, stirring frequently, until thickened. Puree the sauce bit-by-bit with the milk in the blender. Blend it until thoroughly smooth. Return the puree to a kettle, preferably a double boiler, and add dill, salt, white pepper and tamari. Heat the soup very gently — don't boil it or cook it. As it heats, steam or saute the asparagus tips until tender, but very green. Add these, whole, to the soup. Serve as immediately as possible.

New method reduces heat in summer bread baking

Most people don't enjoy baking during the warm weather months, because it is too time consuming and because it makes the kitchen too hot. But today's kitchen appliances help make baking in warm weather a more pleasant experience.

Cracked Wheat Carrot Bread is an example of a bread to be made with the food processor, developed by the Fleischmann's Yeast Test Kitchen. Within minutes, this yeast bread is mixed and kneaded and ready for rising.

CRACKED WHEAT CARROT BREAD
Makes 1 loaf

½ cup boiling water
¼ cup cracked wheat
2 medium carrots, scraped
2¾ cups unsifted all purpose flour
3 tbsp. margarine
3 tbsp. light brown sugar
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. ground cinnamon
¼ tsp. ground nutmeg
1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
⅓ cup cold milk

Pour boiling water over cracked wheat and allow to soak 15 minutes. Drain excess water off of cracked wheat.

With shredder blade in food processor shred carrots. (Yield should be about 1¼ cups shredded carrot).

Remove shredder blade and place cutting blade in food processor bowl. Combine flour, cracked wheat, Margarine, light brown sugar, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg with carrots in bowl; process 5 to 10 seconds to combine. Dissolve yeast in warm water; pour through feed tube. Begin processing, pouring milk through feed tube in a fast stream until ball forms, about 10-15 seconds. Continue processing for 60 seconds to knead dough.

Carefully remove dough from processor bowl. Shape into a ball and place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down. Shape into a round ball. Place in a greased 8-inch round baking pan. Cover; let rise in a warm place free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour 10 minutes.

Bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes, or until done. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack.

Tasty chicken recipes

CHICKEN WITH KUMQUATS
Serves 4

2½ to 3-lb. chicken, cut into 6 to 8 serving pieces
Salt
1 cup fresh orange juice
2 tbsp. fresh lemon juice
¼ cup honey
2 tbsp. drained, rinsed, seeded and finely chopped canned or bottled hot chili peppers
10 preserved kumquats
Orange slices (3 or 4)

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Pat the pieces of chicken completely dry with paper towels, sprinkle liberally with salt, and arrange them side by side in a baking dish large enough to hold them in one layer. Mix the orange juice, lemon juice and honey together and pour it over the chicken, turning the pieces about in the mixture until they are well moistened.

Rearrange the chicken pieces skin side down in the baking dish and scatter the chopped peppers over them. Bake uncovered and undisturbed in the middle of the oven for 15 minutes. Turn the pieces over, add the kumquats and baste thoroughly with the pan liquid. Basting occasionally, bake the chicken 30 minutes longer, or until the leg or thigh shows no resistance when pierced with a fork.

To serve, arrange the chicken and kumquats attractively on a heated platter, pour the pan juices over them and garnish with the orange slices.

CAROLINA CHICKEN
Serves 4

8 fresh large asparagus spears or 8 stalks broccoli
3 medium sized carrots
2 skinless, boneless chicken breasts split in half (about 1½ lbs. ready to cook weight, or 4 pieces)
Black pepper and salt to taste
¼ cup flour
3 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 tbsp. finely chopped onion
½ cup dry white wine
1 tbsp. tomato paste
½ cup fresh or canned chicken broth
2 tbsp. heavy cream
Tomato Rice

Cut off the tough ends of the asparagus and cut into three-inch lengths. Or, if using broccoli, trim the lower stem and cut into appropriately sized pieces. Clean and scrape carrots and cut into strips like small french fries. Steam vegetables in vegetable steamer until tender done. Meanwhile, salt and pepper chicken to taste. Dredge lightly in flour and shake off excess. Brown chicken in butter or margarine until golden on both sides. Cover and cook until tender. Transfer the pieces to a warm platter, arranging them neatly. Saute the onions in drippings in skillet. Stir and cook for 1 minute. Add the wine and cook until reduced by half. Add the tomato paste, stir and add the chicken broth. Stir in the cream. Arrange vegetables on platter around chicken and pour sauce over chicken.

Cucumber sauce complements chops

The crispness of the cucumbers and the light touch of dill in the sauce complement the delicately flavored grilled lamb chops.

Loin or rib lamb chops are highly favored for cooking on the outdoor grill or broiling indoors. The intense heat quickly sears the outside, sealing in lamb's extra-measure of juicy tenderness.

Shoppers buying under pressure of too little time can rely on lamb chops as the meat that takes away the harried feeling that often accompanies getting a meal on the table in a hurry.

Not only is lamb perfectly delicious, it is delicately flavored. For this reason many prefer lamb cooked au natural with a sprinkling of salt and pepper and served frequently. Sometimes hostesses overlook lamb in planning special-occasion menus. Yet it is such a delightful change of pace from the usual choice of entrees.

Also, lamb takes to sauces that taste and look so very special, but really take only a few minutes to prepare. For instance, the cucumber sauce teamed with marinated cucumber slices that distinguishes the accompanying recipe for lamb chops. The crispness of the cukes and the light touch of dill in the sauce complement the pleasing flavor of lamb. For another special touch, serve tiny boiled new potatoes dressed in butter and chopped parsley along with the lamb chops in cucumber sauce.

LAMB CHOPS WITH CUCUMBER SAUCE
4 servings

2 cucumbers
⅓ cup cider vinegar
1-2 tbsp. sugar
Salt
8 rib lamb chops, cut 1-inch thick
Pepper
1 cup yogurt or sour cream
1 tbsp. chopped green onions
½ tsp. dried dill weed

Score one cucumber lengthwise with fork. Thinly slice into small bowl. Combine vinegar, sugar and 1 teaspoon salt. Pour over sliced cucumber and refrigerate.

Broil lamb chops, 3 to 4 inches from source of heat, 5 to 7 minutes on each side or to desired degree of doneness, sprinkling with salt and pepper, after lamb is turned to cook on second side.

Meanwhile, peel and grate remaining cucumber. Combine grated cucumber, yogurt or sour cream, onions, dill weed, ¼ teaspoon salt and teaspoon pepper in saucepan. Slowly warm sauce over low heat, but do not boil. Arrange lamb chops on platter garnished with sliced marinated cucumber. Serve with warm cucumber sauce.

Barbecue short ribs

LONE STAR SHORT RIBS
— Serves four
3 to 4 lbs. beef short ribs
2 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
¼ cup catsup
½ cup brown sugar
¼ cup vinegar
2 tbsp. prepared mustard
½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tbsp. chili powder

Place short ribs in covered frying pan on grill and cook at low to moderate temperature for 1½ hours, turning occasionally. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper; add ¼ cup water and cook, covered, 30 minutes or until tender. Combine tomato sauce, catsup, brown sugar, vinegar, mustard, onion, garlic and chili powder in small saucepan and simmer 5 minutes, stirring to blend. Remove each short rib from pan, dip in sauce to coat and place on grill. Cook at moderate temperature 15 to 20 minutes or until done, brushing with sauce and turning.

Women invited to conference

"Pulling Together for Better Services for Women" is the title of a conference sponsored by the Detroit Human Rights Department from 9 a.m. until noon Thursday, June 11. It will be held at Wayne County Community College's Greenfield/Joy Road campus.

Panelists will discuss violence against women such as rape and spouse abuse, as well as resources for women through community colleges. Also to be explored are welfare rights, employment, health and legal services.

Those interested in attending may contact Mary Joan Schmidt at 224-4973.

Bake sale, flea market aid First Step's bid for shelter

By Shirlee Iden
staff writer

'We need to raise about $8,000 in the next three months just to show that our plan (for a shelter) is feasible. It's a Catch-22 situation. If you have a shelter, you can get the funds to operate it.'
—Joanne Osmer, First Step

• One woman is beaten severely by her husband because she forgot to take the rind off the baloney in his lunch sandwich.

• Another stumbles to the door of a helping agency with both eyes blacked, swelling body bruises and the tendons of her left hand severed.

"It's a war," says Joanne Osmer of Plymouth, who works at First Step, an organization dedicated to aiding victims of domestic abuse.

Ms. Osmer, a divorcee with three daughters, is currently working on a master's degree in social work at Wayne State University. Her job at First Step is as a program developer.

The program she would most like to see developed is a shelter for abused wives and children of Wayne and Oakland Counties.

"The two Detroit-area shelters we used previously are now closed and there's just no suitable place for battered wives and their children," she says. "We're trying to establish a First Step shelter somewhere in western Wayne County.

To that end, a flea market and bake sale have been planned by volunteers and First Step personnel. It will take place June 11-13 at the home of Barbara Troy, 24416 Nine Mile in Southfield.

"ALL THE PROCEEDS will be used to fund our projected shelter," Ms. Osmer says. "We need to raise about $8,000 in the next three months just to show that our plan is feasible.

"It's a Catch-22 situation. If you have a shelter, you can get the funds to operate it."

According to Ms. Osmer, the drive to establish the shelter is a grass-roots movement. In addition to herself and Ms. Troy, Judy McDonald of Farmington is also actively working on the flea market and other fund raisers.

Spouse abuse and child abuse are not simple topics. But statistics say that one of three American homes are violent.

"It's quite complex," Ms. Osmer says. "Many battering men were beaten in their own childhood and many are alcoholics. Most of them go beyond the threshold of rage to such a point they don't even realize what they have done until later.

"I've heard it said that battering men have kept floral shops in business for 200 years."

While some contend the problem of abusive wives is underplayed, Ms. Osmer points out that men are generally larger than women.

"WOMEN can't usually put a man in the hospital or keep him in fear of his life," she said.

She added one woman who did kill her husband with a knife after years of physical abuse got little societal support.

"Most of our referrals come from the police who get tired of answering the same domestic violence calls time after time," she says. "But they usually tell the women to stay home and work it out. Legally, the batterings are assault, but in domestic cases they aren't treated as such and police only hold the husbands eight or 10 hours."

Many wives are harassed for years after a bad divorce and the fear doesn't let up, she said.

"There's an inner-relatedness too, between a violent home, child abuse, alcoholism and incest.

IN THE PAST two years, nearly 2,000 clients have been served at First Step getting counseling, legal aid, temporary emergency shelter, transporation, referrals and access to a 24-hour crisis line.

"And that's just the tip of the iceberg," Ms. Osmer contends.

Anyone who cannot attend the June 11-13 flea market and bake sale can send their contribution to the Southfield address above. Donations will also be picked up if donors will call Ms. Osmer at 455-9007 or 425-8000.

YWCA plans tour of Whitney mansion

Tickets are on sale at the Northwest branch YWCA, 25940 Grand River, Redford, for a tour of the David Whitney mansion, 4421 Woodward, Detroit, 2-5 p.m. Sunday, June 7.

The recently restored mansion was built at the end of the 19th century by lumber tycoon David Whitney Jr. Designed by Gordon W. Lloyd in romanesque style, and constricted of pink Jasper stone from South Dakota, it has long been considered one of Detroit's most beautiful mansions.

The interior contains stained glass windows designed by Tiffany studios of New York, and there is mahogany woodwork throughout and several unusual marble fireplaces.

Ordinarily not open to the public, the mansion is offered for the tour through special arrangements with the owners as a fundraiser for the Northwest branch.

Tickets, costing $6, cover tour and refreshments at the mansion and must be purchased by Friday. None will be sold at the door the day of the event.

Call the YW, 537-8500, for reservations or further information.

Cancer screening schedule

Cervical and breast cancer screening clinics are planned, beginning Tuesday, at the Michigan Cancer Foundation service center at 3307 Greenfield, Dearborn.

Pap tests will be given two Tuesdays, June 2 and 16, and the breast examinations are set for two Thursdays, June 11 and 16. Charges are $10 for the initial breast examination, $7 for repeat breast examination and $5 for each pap smear. Arrangements can be made for those unable to pay these prices.

Call the center, 336-4112, for appointments.

Ileitis, colitis will be topics

Inflammatory bowel disease and the intractable patient will be discussed at a seminar sponsored by the National Foundation for Ileitis and Colitis to be held on Wednesday, June 3, in Fairlane Manor, 19000 Hubbard, Dearborn.

Speaking will be Dr. Jason Bodzin, director of surgical education at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital and clinical instructor of surgery at the Wayne State University School of Medicine. Also on the program are Dr. Richard Fiddian-Green,

The program will begin at 3 p.m. For more information, call the foundation at 424-8656.

THE ANTIQUE appraisal clinic Saturday at the Canton Historical Museum is a real bargain.

A representative from DuMouchelles Gallery on East Jefferson in Detroit will be there from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. appraising antiques for $3 per hand-carried item. It would cost that much for gasoline to drive down to the gallery, and the appraisal is more expensive downtown.

The Canton Historical Society is sponsoring the appraisals. It's an excellent opportunity to find out the true value of grandmother's pickle jar or to discover that garage sale bargain is really a priceless antique.

The Canton Historical Museum is in the old school building on Canton Center Road at Proctor. For more information about the appraisals, call Dorothy West of the Canton Historical Society.

PLYMOUTH HIGH School class of 1956 is planning its 25th class reunion Saturday, Aug. 15, at the Mayflower Meeting House.

The reunion committee still is searching for addresses for some of the classmates. They are looking some clues to the whereabouts of the following: Ron Beerden, Joan Booth Burnette, Bill Bowling, Elizabeth Clark Gustin, Phyllis Cochran Hood, Joe Davis, Donald Dobson, MaryLou Drake Foote, Roberta Droskie Paulson, Marilyn Elile Paul, Tom Ferguson, Alex Forster, Bonnie French Woodward, Donna Frizell, Jim Gibson, Barbara Henderson Blanton, Dean Jenkens, George Karker, Ruth Kemmerly Hartig, Diane Kozar Roedding, Carol Lester Partridge, Reed Mason, Verna Moore, Geraldine Mosher, Barbara Muer, Bernie Pappo, Jim Pardy, Judy Richwine, Fred Rieman, Paul Rimer, Ron Rowe, John Small, Collette Stadnick, Marlene Steinkemp, Donna Whaley Kohler, Valois Wilcox Frye, Alan Woodworth, Barbara Wright Reed, Janice Yates Miller, Bob Young and Eileen Zauke.

If anyone has any clues about any of these grads, please call Linda Lent West 453-6184 or Dale Houghton, 453-6357.

The group will meet for a social hour at 7 p.m., and the sit-down dinner will be served at 8. Price will be $20 per person or $40 per couple.

BOY SCOUTS in Troop 1738, which meets at Hulsing Elementary School, participated in the annual "Crank on to Scouting" bike marathon. The proceeds from the boy's pledges will go toward the new troop's camping and cooking equipment.

Combined mileage for the troop was about 400 miles.

THREE NEW pledges will be initiated as members of Alpha Delta Kappa, educational honorary sorority this evening. Mary Uhl is hosting the potluck salad meeting, assisted by Helen Kelly.

Leaving the ranks of pledges are Evelyn Marschio, who teaches fourth and fifth grades at Tanger Elementary School; Carol Breed, first-grade teacher at Hulsing, and Jean Lawrence, librarian at Eriksson. Jan Stafford is pledge chairwoman.

RALPH KELLEY, instructor at Schoolcraft college, was in Norfolk, Va., a couple of Sundays ago for the graduation of son Richard Brian Kelley.

Rich received his master of arts degree in government from the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg. His thesis was written on the influence of the conservative Christian on state politics.

William F. Buckley was the commencement speaker.

Rich was news director for radio station WSDP when he was a student at Plymouth Salem High School and also at Eastern Michigan University, where he earned his bachelor of science degree in 1977.

He has been in the Norfolk area for the last four years. Having worked at radio stations WEMU in Ypsilanti and WAAM in Ann Arbor during his student days, he moved to Norfolk with the Sinclair Broadcasting Co., which bought Honey radio there. For the past year and a half, Rich has been news director for WNIS, Norfolk.

On New Year's Eve, he married Michelle Beth Spivak, a reporter for WNIS. They plan to leave for Israel July 15 for a two-year stint at Olpan Etzion in Jerusalem.

Rich's parents are Ralph and Betty Kelley of Arthur Street, Plymouth.

Cho Nguyen, daughter, Hien and wife, Lan, were all smiles last Christmas when Observer photographer Gary Caskey visited them in their new home. Although they are Buddhists, they enjoyed their first Christmas tree.

Sponsors wish family well in new venture

The Nguyens arrived safely in California.

The 2,500-mile journey from Plymouth to San Jose, Calif., with 14 people crowded into a single van, would hold few qualms for the much-traveled Laotian family. They are with relatives and friends in a clime more to their liking than the upper Midwest.

The Nguyen (pronounced win) family was sponsored by First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. A special committee, chaired by Judy Phelps, was in charge of arrangements for the refugees. The whole congregation, aided by local contributions, had pitched in to prepare the old Presbyterian manse for the family.

It had been redecorated and furnished; its kitchen cupboards were stocked with food and its closets with clothing.

Several months passed before word came that their family was on its way. Cho and Lan Nguyen and their eight children arrived at Metropolitan Airport the evening of Aug. 25, 1980. They were welcomed by a crowd of smiling Presbyterians who escorted them to their new home.

A TRANSLATOR was provided. Live-in interpreter Maria Thigia made communication possible. Five of the children were enrolled at Bird Elementary School and two at Central Middle School.

Cho Nguyen, a silversmith, worked for Al Larson at Frameworks and did some jewelry repair business on the side.

After almost three years of danger, long walks through the jungle and confinement in refugee camps, the family's escape was complete. Their family was intact and they had a spacious, comfortable house in a new country.

It was a story with a happy ending.

"We were sure surprised when they left," said Liz Cardinal, a member of the committee. She added, "But we are happy for them."

Judy Phelps said she, too, was surprised. They had been warned that some of the refugee families — especially those who settle in the cold northern states — stay in their new homes only a month.

"But usually, they move to join members of their family. The Nguyens had no family, or at least they didn't know they had. Then his sister contacted him from California."

AL LARSON, Nguyen's employer at the Frameworks, also admitted surprise at the move.

"One day, Cho pointed to July 18 on the calendar and said 'California.' I thought, maybe he means they're going to California July 18. I called Judy Phelps and asked if she had heard anything about it. She said she hadn't but would check it out."

Mrs. Phelps called back to report they were planning on leaving for California, but not on July 18. "They're leaving April 18."

Committee members knew there had been a great deal of conversation between Cho and his sister. "They stayed up late before they called so the phone calls would not cost as much," said Mrs. Phelps.

"The sister said she had rented a three-bedroom house and that two or three other artisans from Laos would like Nguyen to join them in a business. He would be able to use his silversmith skills."

As they talked it over, the sponsors did not believe the move was imminent. They did not have a car and it would take some time to save enough money to transport a family of 10 to California.

HOWEVER, Cho Nguyen had discovered a fellow countryman and friend who lived in Farmington Hills. The friend offered to drive them to California in his van.

Mrs. Nguyen is Laotian and her husband is Vietnamese. They also had been become friendly with three Vietnamese who were living in Old Village.

When the Farmington Hills friend offered to take them to California, the Old Village family decided to go along, too. So, all 14 headed southwest, towing a U-Haul trailer with their belongings.

"Everything was theirs — the clothing, the furniture and the money we had collected. We wanted them to take everything but they did not have room," said Mrs. Phelps.

"The kids were not happy about going. They did not want to leave. They loved their teachers and their teachers loved them. And they had made many friends."

Mrs. Phelps has received a letter from Oanh, the oldest girl who is 13 and attended Central Middle School. She wrote that they were settled in their new home. Their mother is much happier in the California climate. "But the kids miss Plymouth and want to come back back."

The subcommittee in charge of the refugee family had been disbanded. The manse is being cleared out. If anyone wants a fine big house, the price is right.

The congregation will give it free to anyone who will move it away. They need the space for parking.

Chien, 11, admired a Santa Claus Christmas tree ornament.

Elowene and James Houk

Houks wed 50 years

Jim and Elowene Houk were honored May 16 with a buffet dinner to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. The party was arranged by their son, James Houk Jr., their daughter, Jane Lane, and their families.

Approximately 185 friends and relatives gathered in Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church including out-of-state relatives from California, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio. Elaine Tower and Jim Houk were married Feb. 25, 1931 in Saline. They have two children, four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. The celebration was postponed for three months because Houk suffered a heart attack while vacationing in Florida.

The Houks are longtime Plymouth residents. He was manager and owner of Fisher Shoes for 30 years and was active in city government, serving as commissioner for 10 years, as mayor and as charter commissioner.

FOLLOWING the buffet dinner, it was memory time for the Houks. Highlights of their half-century of marriage were given in chronological order by Gerry Hobener, Bill Houk, Wendell Lent, James Jabara, Dr. William Stahl and Nona Eddington. Master of ceremonies was their son, Dr. James Houk Jr. of Evanston, Ill.

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell and his wife, Peggy, were at the party. The congressman brought congratulations from President and Nancy Reagan.

Music was provided by solist Carol Nagy accompanied by Tara McCormick. The couple's grandchildren and great-grandchildren also added to the entertainment with piano solos and a poem.

Public speakers

Lisa Lambert (left) and Gina Massero are members of the Eastern Michigan University forensics team which won its eighth consecutive national public-speaking title. Lisa, a senior majoring in computer science, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lambert Jr. of Plymouth. She is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School, where she was active in forensics, drama and student government. Gina, a sophomore majoring in speech and business administration, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Massaro of Napier Road, Canton Township. She graduated from Plymouth Salem High School and is the recipient of a regent's scholarship from Eastern.

Suzuki concert in park June 3

The Plymouth Suzuki Institute will present a free concert from 4:45-5:45 p.m. on Wednesday, June 3, in Kellogg Park, downtown Plymouth.

The young violinists will perform works by Bach, Vivaldi, Handel, Schumann and Rambeau.

The institute is composed of children ages 4-14 who come from Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Livonia, Farmington, Novi and Southfield to study the Suzuki method. The Japanese musician founded the method on the premise that children can learn to play a musical instrument the same way they learn to talk — by simply listening and imitating the sounds.

The public is invited to take along a blanket or folding chair to sit on during the concert. The city of Plymouth will provide its band shell for the event, and Arnoldt Williams Music will provide the piano for accompaniment.

Rocks are 3rd in Sub 8 track

The officials were the losers in the Suburban Eight League boys' track meet last week at Belleville.

Dearborn was able to capitalize on the some controversial decisions to emerge with the league championship.

Final league standings were determined solely by this meet.

Dearborn compiled 96 points; Belleville, 94.5; Plymouth Salem, 83.75; Edsel Ford, 71.5; Trenton, 39.25; Livonia Bentley, 27; and Allen Park, 0.

Salem finished the season at 53 overall and 33 in the league.

Bentley took sixth place with a 26 overall ledger and 15 league mark.

"There were many blatant violations," said Bentley coach Steve Montgomery.

"In the slow heat of the mile, the winner, an Allen Park runner, was disqualified because a couple of his teammates ran out on the field to congratulate him.

"The officials totally embarrassed him, screaming over the public address system for 50 seconds about it. His race would have the highlight for Allen Park — they didn't even score a point.

"In the mile relay, an Edsel Ford kid stepped on the heel of a Bentley runner. He limped to the finish line, but no one was disqualified."

THE OFFICIALS at the finish line made two large mistakes," said Salem coach Gary Balconi.

"They picked us second in the 440 relay, and although it wouldn't have affected the outcome of the meet, everyone agreed that our team (Scott Bublin, Bob Pittaway, Brian Lewandowski and Tom Kelliher) are the real league champions."

Judges timed Belleville at 44.3 and Salem at 44.31.

"The officials' call on the 100-yard dash did affect the outcome," continued Balconi. "Belleville (not Trenton) was the actual winner, which meant Belleville also should have won the meet (by half a point).

"It was really unfortunate."

Montgomery agreed. "The way I saw it, the race was between Plymouth Salem (which placed third at 10.35) and Belleville (second at 10.30)" he said.

"Trenton (clocked in first place at 10.29) should have been about fourth,"

BOTH COACHES were somewhat dissatisfied with their teams' performances.

"Going in, we felt we could win it," said Balconi. "We were disappointed we didn't, but we're still proud. The kids had a real good season."

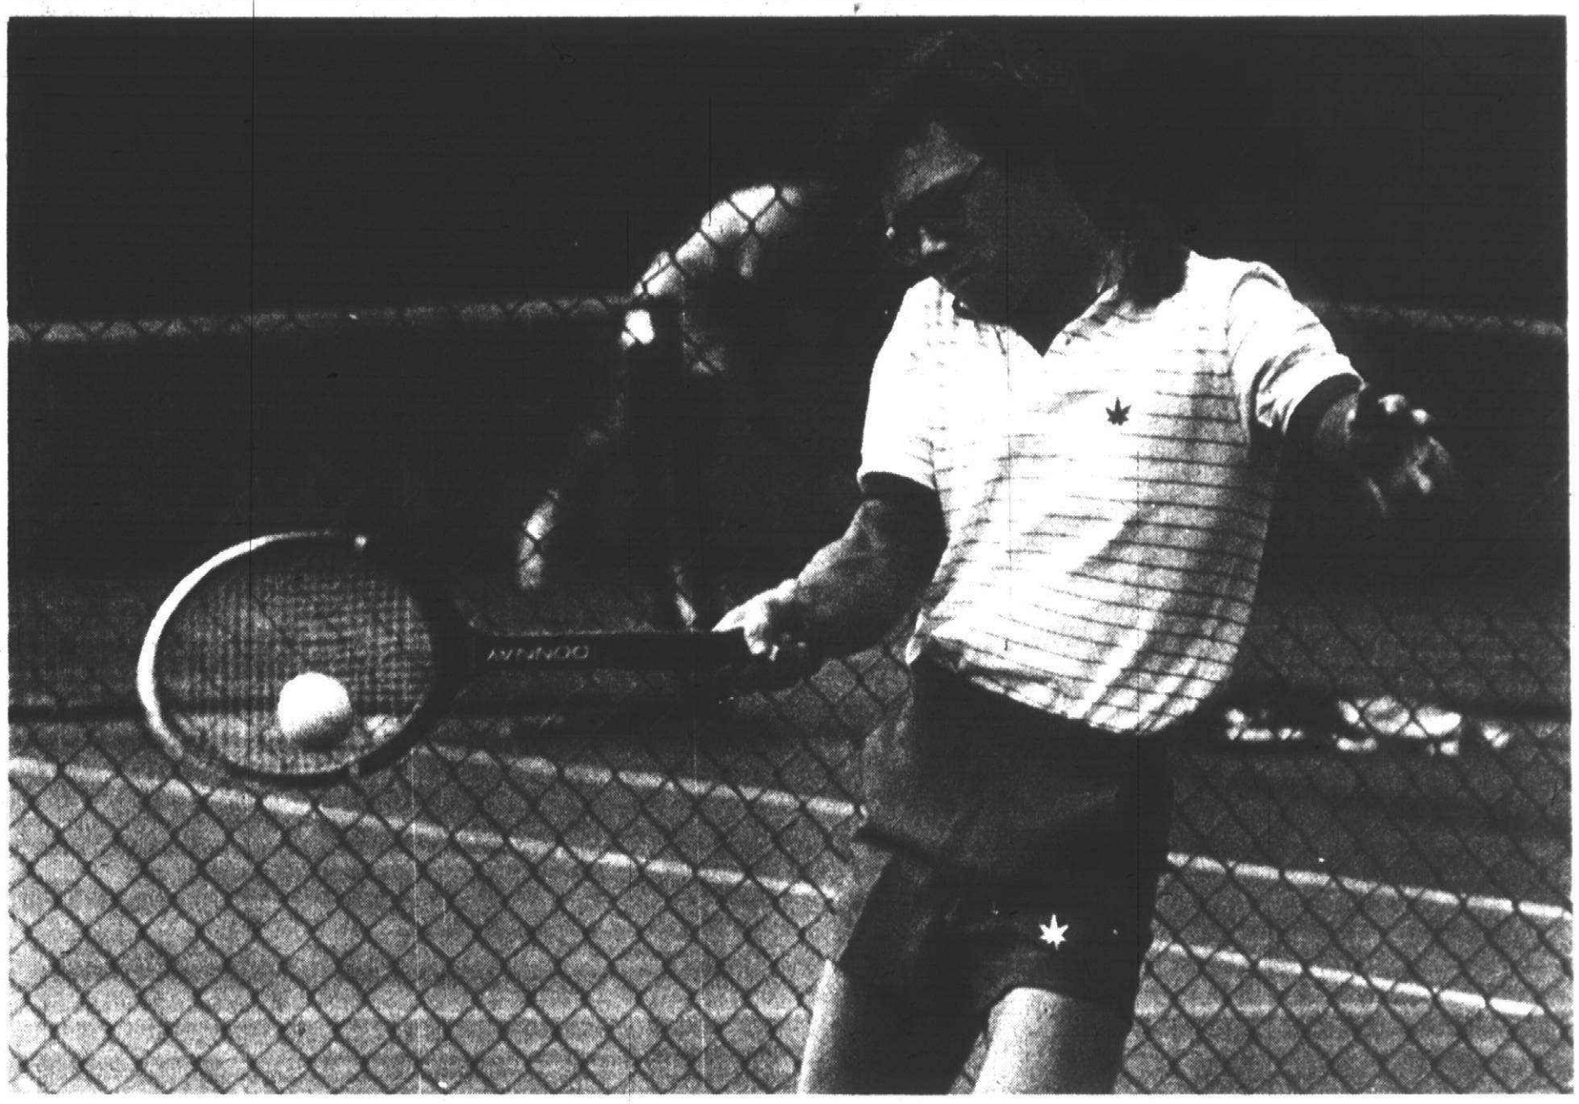
Several Salem tracksters came up with wins at the league meet.

The mile relay team of Lewandowski, Mike McBride, Bob Pittaway and Leigh Langkabel, took first place in 3:28.89; Scott fuller won the high jump (61); Langkabel finished first in the 440 dash (50.4); and Pittaway triumphed in discus (1637).

Montgomery said, "We didn't do as well as we thought we would. But we've had people out sick and injured, so we had to run with makeshift teams in the 440 and 880 relays.

"Plus, except for six runners, we're young and inexperienced, especially in the field events."

Bentley's top finisher was Craig Allan, who took second in the 880-yard run with an effort of 1:58.81.



Canton's Bob Adams displays the swing which has enabled him to win every match this year.

Plymouth Canton battled to a second-place finish in the Western Six Tennis Meet on its home courts last week.

Farmington Harrison took the honors with 18 points, while the Chiefs' 14 points earned the runner-up spot.

Walled Lake Western was third, six points; Northville, fourth, four; and Churchill and Waterford Mott tallied three points to tie for last place.

The Chiefs, who also placed second in the final league standings, wound up the season at 9-2 overall and 7-2 in the league.

"The kids did a real good job — I'm real pleased," said Canton coach Jim Hayes."They played well right down the road and we had five in the final flights."

In No. 1 singles action, Canton's Kreg Kinnel defeated Harrison's Adam Gordon, (5-2, ret.) and in No. 2 singles, Harrison's Dave Brady beat Kevin Johnston of Canton, (6-7, 6-2, 6-1).

Raffi Manoukian of Harrison took No. 4 singles' honors, defeating Chris Smith of Walled Lake Western, (6-4, 6-4).

No. 1 doubles saw Harrison's Andre Berk and Mike Corey beat Canton's Mark Sawyer and Rubin Rabillas, (6-0, 6-2).

In No. 2 doubles, Grant Crago and Ron Austen of Canton defeated Harrison's duo, (6-3, 0-6, 6-2) and in No. 3 doubles, Harrison's John Iaconelli and Rob Shapiro defeated Walled Lake Western's Dan Shell and John Cooper, (4-6, 7-5, 6-1).

"I was pleased with Kreg Kinnel's almost win," said Hayes. (Gordon, Kinnel's opponent, withdrew due to a leg injury in the first set).

"(Co-captain) Bob Adams played well — he's won every match this year.

"I was disappointed for (co-captain) Kevin Johnston — he lost in a three-setter."

The league meet wrapped up the season for the Chiefs. Canton placed third in the recent state regionals in Ann Arbor behind Ann Arbor Huron and Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Churchill reigns in Western 6

Canton thinclads 5th in league

Why do Western Six League boys' track teams even bother trying to unseat Livonia Churchill as conference track king?

If anything on the area sports scene were a sure thing, it would be that the Chargers are perennial shoo-ins to ascend to their league track throne.

Churchill claimed its 10th conference championship in succession with relative ease last week on its own metric track.

The Chargers, with first-place showings in seven of the 16 events, totalled 149 points.

Farmington Harrison was a surprising-but-distant second with 93 points.

Walled Lake Western finished third (88), Waterford Mott, fourth (59), Plymouth Canton, fifth (56), and Northville, sixth (48).

The Western Six League champion is determined strictly by performance at the conference meet.

Fred Price, who has coached Churchill to all 10 championships, cites team depth as the major reason for his continued success.

There was a pool of approximately 60 athletes from which Price could draw to field a lineup during the all-conference gathering. Many coaches don't have half that many trackmen at any time during a season.

"We had some kids who ran really well," Price said in typical understatement. "We placed three in the shot and discus and went one-two-three in the 300 low hurdles.

"We can make all the plans, but if the kids don't want to do it, it won't work out," Price added. "The credit goes to the kids. They're the ones who do the work.

"We try to peak at this time of season. It (championship) always makes a nice ending. Each year, it gets more pressure (to repeat championship) and each year it gets more enjoybale," Price said.

JEFF OLWEEAN, a senior, won all-league recognition in three events for the Chargers. He cleared 6-2 in high jump, leaped 21-½ in long jump and clocked 14.50 in the 110-meter hurdles.

Norm Recla won a pair of gold medals for the league champs. He sprinted the 100-meter dash in 11.14 and had a time of 39.66 in the 300-meter hurdles.

Churchill's other individual winner was Bob Davis, who threw the discus 142-7.

The Chargers also prevailed in the 1,600-meter relay. Ken Romps, Larry Blais, Bill Dobson and Kevin McCurry posted a time of 3:30.39, just a lunge better than Harrison's second-place finish of 3:30.57.

CANTON had two third-place finishers in individual events. David Simms finished third in the 400-meter dash (53.00) and, at the opposite end of the spectrum, Jack Pacente placed third in the 3,200-meter run, 10:07.22.

The Chiefs also landed third in all three relays, clocking 45.66 at 400 meters, 1:34.22 at 800 meters and 3:32.53 at 1,600 meters.

McGLINN LETTERS

Dan McGlinn, a 1980 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School, earned a varsity track letter this spring at Oberlin College (Ohio).

The freshman Yeomen was the team's second highest point producer (91) and records included best times in the 110- and 400-meter hurdles of 15.88 and 58.12, respectively.

He also ran the 400- and 1,600-meter relays.

While at Canton, McGlinn earned four letters in track, three in cross country and two in basketball.

WOMEN'S GOLF TIE EXISTS

Three players are deadlocked in first place after three weeks of play in the Canton Recreation Women's Golf League at Fellows Creek.

Betty Williams, Lou Skotzke and Denise Chapman each have nine points. Seven players are tied for second with eight apiece.

Williams has turned in the best round of the year with a nine-hole score of 48.

OUTDOOR TIPS OFFERED AT CULTURAL CENTER

The City of Plymouth Department of Parks and Recreation, in cooperation with Sportventure of the Forest Place Mall, will hold a clinic on camping at the Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street.

The class will be held at 9 p.m. Thursday, June 11. The cost is $5 per person.

The camping class will give tips on backpacking, equipment, sites and available trails.

For more information, call 455-6620.

SUMMER BOWLING LEAGUES ESTABLISHED

A summer bowling league for children under the 45-15 school curriculum is being offered by the Plymouth Department of Parks and Recreation in cooperation with Plaza Lanes.

The weekly league begins June 22 and runs through Aug. 24. The cost is $2.75 per session, which includes individual instruction, two games of bowling, shoe rental, soft drink and sandwich, and trophies.

For more information, call 455-6620.

REGISTRATION SET FOR CANTON OPEN GOLF

Area players are invited to enter the second annual Canton Open Golf Championship, June 6-7 at Fellows Creek (Lotz Road, one-half mile north of Michigan Avenue).

Payne 'robbed' in AAU's

Craig Payne, a Livonian, won two of three bouts recently during the AAU National Boxing Championships in Concordia, Calif.

But the young superheavyweight is angry — and so is his trainer, Paul Soucy.

Soucy, coach of the Livonia Boxing Club, says Payne lost his bout in the third-round of the nationals on the basis of race rather than boxing skills.

Kevin Sheely, from Minnesota, was awarded a victory by decision over Payne after Payne had knocked out Norman Evans, from Arkansas, and won a victory by decision over Ed Lewis, a marine from North Carolina.

"It (Sheely) was a very bad decision," Soucy said. "I guess you expect that coming from me. He (Sheely) was the last white kid (superheavyweight) in the tournament."

Payne is black.

"He (Sheely) hit my guy about four times and my guy had him on the ropes," Soucy continued. "The crowd's reaction? They booed the decision. There is a lot of politics in those damn things. I'm starting to find that out.

"He (Sheely) was scared of Craig and showed it," Soucy said. "Next year we're going to have to go for it."

PAYNE did not say that race was the basis for the decision in the bout with Sheely, but he definitely was as disappointed as Soucy with the outcome.

"I don't know whether it was politics or what," Payne said. "I won the fight and lost the decision. They had a jury that judged the judges and they (jury) were surprised at the decision.

"It was like taking candy from a baby in front of everybody," Payne added "It hurts. You want to go somewhere and cry. You can say you got a raw deal, but it's hard sometimes to face people."

Payne said he would not have been surprised if the decision had gone against him in the bout with Edwards. "That one could have gone either way," Payne said. However, he felt there was no doubt about the Sheely bout.

Payne said he will be changing his style as a result of what happened in California.

Up until now, he said he used the first round of a three-round bout to try and measure an opponent before stalking during the second and third rounds.

"They will not rob me no more," Payne said. "I'm going to make it happen now. I'm going to keep my composure and not swing wild, but I'm going to go out there and take care of business early.

"I don't want no more close ones like that."

Payne does not plan to slack off during the summer months. He will try to improve his 14-5 career amateur record June 24 in an exhibition at the Edgar Arena in Livonia and at the Ohio State Fair in August.

Canton thinclads take 4th in meet

track

Livonia Churchill and Walled Lake Western pretty much had things their own way last week during the Western Six League Girls' Track Meet.

And the Chargers of Churchill found themselves conference champs after the final race, jump and throw had been completed.

Churchill compiled 188 points to 163 for Western. The other four conference teams had to scramble for the few crumbs the big two left behind.

Waterford Mott placed third, 41 points, Plymouth Canton, fourth, 33; Farmington Harrison, fifth, 25; and Northville, sixth, 12.

Overall conference standings are determined solely by how teams finish during the all-league gathering.

Chuchill did especially well in the sprints and hurdles races.

The Chargers placed one-two-three in both the 100-meter dash and the 400-meter sprint, first and second in 200-meter hurdles and first in the 100-meter hurdles.

Tina Cieszkowski clocked 12.65 at 100-meters, Darla Wells 12.87 and Pat Loftus 13.03. In the 400-meter dash, Loftus recorded a time of 59.63, Cieszkowski 61.02 and Leanne McCarthy 61.40.

Chris Kendrick set the pace in the 200-meter hurdles with an effort of 32.35. She also bested the field in the 100-meter hurdles at 15.88. Diane Rencsok placed second in the 200-meter race with a run of 32.51.

Cieszkowski also won all-league recognition in the 200-meter dash (26.75) and Jody Nelson stepped into the winners' circle with a best shot put of 29-2½.

The Chargers also swept to victory in the 800 relay (1:48.87) and in the 1,600 relay (4:12.92).

CANTON COACH Scott Kurtz was hoping for a third-place showing, but came up just a bit short.

The Chiefs best finish occurred in the 1,600 relay. Ruthann Trout, Lori Shufeldt, Jill Osman and Kathy Brophy landed second with a time of 4:20.9.

Canton picked-up third-place points in the 800 relay. Lisa Wood, Charlotte Thomas, Shufeldt and Osman teamed for a time of 1:53.9.

The best individual finishers for the Chiefs were Lisa Bundarin, fourth in shot put (28-8), and Pat Brennan, fourth in long jump (15-1).

Canton falls in title game

With the Western Six league softball title on the line, Plymouth Canton dropped an 11-8 heartbreaker in its own backyard Friday to Waterford Mott.

The loss gives Canton, with a 7-3 record, the league's runner-up spot.

With the win, Mott gained sole ownership of the conference championship.

"We had them beat, but we let them off the hook with a big inning," said Canton coach Max Sommerville.

"We wanted this one real bad, and the girls played real well.

"But that one inning did us in."

Sommerville was referring to the sixth, when hurler Cindy Sovine replaced starter Marianne Pink.

"Neither one was throwing real good," said Sommerville.

"They just couldn't get the ball in there."

Sommerville put Pink back in after Sovine gave up three walks and a hit while facing four batters. Pink allowed a total of eight runs on six hits, 10 walks, and struck out two.

Canton never let go of the lead until the sixth inning. Mott scored a run in the second inning, two in the fourth and trailed 7-3 at the end of six.

Then came Mott's melee.

The Corsairs scored eight runs in the inning on six walks and only three hits.

Canton answered the barrage with only one run in its half of the inning.

Sommerville said the day wasn't a total loss, thanks to his squad's hitting.

"I was real happy with our hitting," he said. "(Winning pitcher) Vicky Morrow is one of the best pitchers we've faced all year, and we got 11 hits off her.

Morrow went the distance, giving up 11 hits, five walks and striking out seven.

PREVENTING SPORTS INJURIES
No one would think of playing tackle football without wearing shoulder pads and a helmet. Yet, far too many youngsters play contact sports, without wearing protection for their mouths. This results in all too many cases of split lips, broken, chipped and knocked out teeth. For example, fifty two percent of all football injuries occur in unprotected faces and mouths.
The best way to prevent all this mouth damage, is to wear a mouth protector. Bars across football helmets don't do the same job. They don't protect the teeth and jaws from an upward blow on the chin - only from a blow straight against the face. Dental injuries to football players wearing proper mouth protectors have been almost completely eliminated.
Most old-style mouthguards, such as those we see boxers using, are not very easy to wear because they are bulky. Talking is just about impossible. Many players prefer to talk and be comfortable and risk the chance of injury rather than wear one. However, a modern mouthguard, made to an accurate model of a boy's mouth doesn't interfere with mouth breathing, stays in place when the mouth is opened, allows clear speech and is comfortable.

Klinton Spilsbury and Michael Horse recreate the famous team of the masked man and Tonto in "The Legend of the Lone Ranger."

the movies

Louise Snider

Amateurish acting diminishes legend of Lone Ranger

For Detroiters over 40, "The Legend of the Lone Ranger" (PG) dates back to the masked man's debut on radio station WXYZ in 1933.

For those of any age, the legend calls to mind all the trappings of the Lone Ranger — his trusted Indian friend Tonto; his horse Silver; his mask; silver bullets and dedication to fight for truth, justice and the American way.

But for the filmmakers, the legend refers to the events which prompt a young lawyer, John Reid, to assume the disguise. Consequently, these events take up a disproportionately large share of the movie.

It's a solid hour before we get to the stirring strains of the William Tell Overture and our first glimpse of the Lone Ranger and his "fiery horse with the speed of light."

UNTIL THEN, we learn about Reid's childhood in Texas. He saves the life an of an Indian boy, Tonto (Michael Horse), who in turn takes Reid to live with his tribe when Reid's parents are killed by a gang of marauders.

Years later, Reid's older brother takes him away from the tribe and sends him to live with an aunt in Detroit. In the 1860s, Reid returns to Texas after graduating from law school and joins his brother, a Texas Ranger, as the Rangers track an outlaw gang.

The subsequent betrayal and ambush of the Rangers and Reid's rescue by his boyhood friend Tonto lead to his decision to put on a mask, hunt down the gang and bring justice to the West.

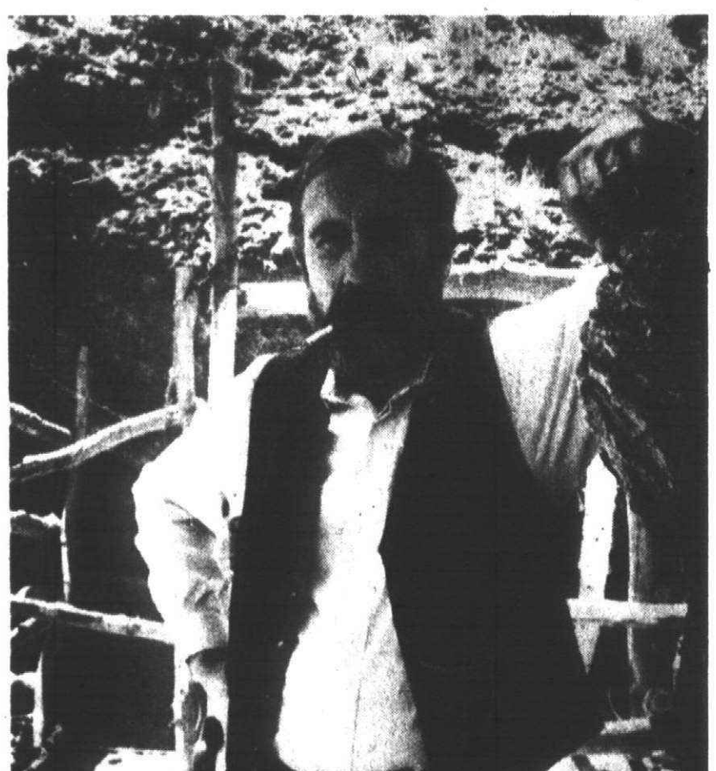
All of this seems unduly long, and not just because we are waiting for the Lone Ranger to appear or because we expect more of the story. No one expects a story about the Lone Ranger to be anything more than a simple, entertaining adventure.

However, bad acting is not entertaining, at least not beyond the first three minutes. With the exception of Jason Robards who makes a brief appearance as President Ulysses S. Grant, the acting in this movie is atrocious. As luck would have it, the worst performance is delivered by the principal, Klinton Spilsbury, who plays the Lone Ranger.

ACCORDING TO the movie's production notes, Spilsbury "comes to the title role with virturally no acting experience." There is no reason to doubt that statement. What is amazing is that at the conclusion of the movie, the statement still holds true.

In contrast, Silver handles his assignments well, even with distinction. Perhaps his trainer could give director William Fraker a few tips.

This laughably amateurish performance, together with the lengthy preamble, nixes "The Legend of the Lone Ranger" for all but the most dedicated Western buffs and the very young.



Jason Robards appears briefly as President Ulysses S. Grant.

what's at the movies

ATLANTIC CITY (R). Louis Malle's wonderfully vibrant, superbly acted, romantic film about old and young dreamers in Atlantic City.

BUSTIN' LOOSE (R). Richard Pryor and Cicely Tyson in romantic comedy about ex-con helping a schoolteacher transport children from a Philadelphia ghetto to a Washington farm.

DEATH HUNT (R). Canadian Mounties in manhunt with Lee Marvin tracking Charles Bronson in the Northwest Territory.

EXCALIBUR (R). Sweeping adventure of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table with Nicol Williamson as the wizard, Merlin.

THE FAN (R). Suspense thriller about actress (Lauren Bacall) terrorized by psychotic fan.

FOUR SEASONS (PG). Alan Alda and Carol Burnett in comedy about the up-and-down relationships of three married couples during the course of a year.

FRIDAY THE 13TH, PART II (R). Another group of naive camp counselors gets axed. (Is this camp approved by the American Camping Association?)

LA CAGE AUX FOLLES II (R). Albin and Renato get involved with spies in this sequel to "La Cage aux Folles." It's not as funny as the first, but it does offer some sharp commentary on sex roles and expectations.

LEGEND OF THE LONE RANGER (PG). Western adventure with the Lone Ranger and Tonto recounts the beginning of the legend.

LION OF THE DESERT (PG). Desert warfare with Anthony Quinn as Bedouin leader fighting against Italian forces of Mussolini in Libya.

NIGHT HAWKS (R). Fast-action drama as a pair of special N.Y. cops (Sylvester Stallone and Billy Dee Williams) confront a vicious terrorist.

NINE TO FIVE (PG). Comedy with Jane Fonda, Lily Tomlin and Dolly Parton as three secretaries who scheme to get rid of their boss.

OUTLAND (R). Sci-fi thriller with Sean Connery enforcing the law at a colony on one of Jupiter's moons.

TAKE THIS JOB AND SHOVE IT (PG). Robert Hays is executive faced with tough decisions when brewery in his home town is taken over by conglomerate he works for.

THIEF (R). James Caan is a diamond thief. Smart enough to break into a vault; not smart enough to stay clear of the mob.

Doug's Body Shop presenting revues

Doug's Body Shop in Ferndale has a new policy of musical revues, with the first attraction, "Blue Moon," Fridays-Saturdays.

"We feel it's a different, more flexible concept of dinner theater than what is being offered elsewhere in metropolitan Detroit," said Don Jackson, general manager of Doug's Body Shop.

The shows are being staged in the restaurant's lower level theater, The Grease Pit.

"Blue Moon," with its evocation of New Orleans blues and jazz, recently completed a 10-week run in Rochester. The show is a presentation of the Metropolitan Repertory Company, which is now in residence at Doug's Body Shop.

PRICE FOR the "Blue Moon" show only is $6.50, with performances at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and 8 and 10 p.m. Saturdays. Prior to each performance, patrons may order dinner from Doug's Body Shop's regular "Owner's Manual" menu.

Liquors are served before, during and after the performances from the theater's own lower-level bar. For reservations, phone 399-1040.

Metrorep also has produced the revues "American Scrapbook," "Sailor Beware" and "Black Coffee/White Coffee." The latter revue recreated the softer side of the '60s.

"We are more than pleased to be associated with Doug's Body Shop," said Robert Casemore, who along with Eric Jones is co-founder of Metrorep and producers of "Blue Moon."

Casemore said, "We now have the opportunity to present two shows Saturday night, along with one on Fridays."

"Blue Moon" was conceived and directed by Walter Kozicki, and features a professional cast — Frederick Bickel, John Beem, Flora Ann McIntyre and Tom Spiroff.

CHOREOGRAPHY is by Beem and Spiroff. Besides the title song the show features such numbers as "Birth of the Blues," "I Only Have Eyes for You," "Puttin' on the Ritz" and "Too Darn Hot."

Composers and lyricists represented range from Irving Berlin to Jacques Brel, Cole Porter to Kurt Weill.

Woody Herman opening P'Jazz series at Pontch

Woody Herman and his big band will kick off the 10th anniversary season of Chuck Muer's P'Jazz on June 10 at the poolside terrace of Hotel Pontchartrain in downtown Detroit.

The early-evening jazz concert series will run on Mondays-Wednesdays through Aug. 26. The Pontch also will host one of the Montreux-Detroit Jazz Festival concerts on the terrace on Sept. 2 in a format similar to the informal P'Jazz style.

A special P'Jazz concert featuring Dixieland music is planned for the evening of the Freedom Festival fireworks on June 30. Reserved seating will be available at P'Jazz, while other jazz buffs may choose general admission tickets, enabling them to mingle, munch and hear the music.

Hamburgers andd kielbasa are served on the terrace along with cocktails and soft drinks.

360 Business Opportunities

A MAJOR BREAKTHROUGH IN THE FIELD OF WEIGHT REDUCTION
In August 1981, a 10 year old company engaged in national as well as international sales, headquartered in San Francisco, CA, will introduce a major new product destined to become the most talked about new entry of the 80's. Select drug stores will be the primary vehicle, private distribution will form secondary base of product movement. Carefully planned procedures to insure smooth introduction into the market-place.
A superb product, specially formulated and 100% drug free comes to the consumer critically acclaimed by members of the medical community.
Corporate advisory group to assist in establishment of fully protected areas to enhance the service aspect of this most unusual opportunity.

Controller distribution is the key element.

This is not a franchise

Dear Ms. Orbach:

It is my pleasure to inform you that the results of our advertising in The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have been outstanding.

When we realized a few years ago that the best way to reach our target market was by advertising in The Observer & Eccentric, we became a steady advertiser of the newspaper. We're very pleased with the results we've experienced, and that our advertising needs were accomplished.

We found The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers work for us because we soon became Michigan's fastest growing Lincoln-Mercury Dealership. Thank you for helping us make good use of our advertising dollars.

Sincerely,

James Seavitt

Montana Lobo

Ford has built a new four-by-four concept vehicle. The Lobo feaures bubble-tinted doors, a sliding glass rear door and a T-roof with tinted Plexiglas. An integral roll bar, overhead airfoil and side rails, with louvered panels, complement the design. Inside, operational readouts are on a floating pod. The electronic digital instruments are on an overhead console.

It's springtime — Do you know where your jack is?

If your car hasn't experienced a flat tire, chances are you aren't aware of the workings of your car's jack — or even where it is.

The time to learn about it is before you need it on the roadside, says the Automotive Information Council.

Car owners should give the tire-changing process a "dry run" in the garage or on the driveway. If you got through the winter without learning the hard way, take this opportunity to learn in good weather.

Knowing where the jack is and how it works will eliminate the need for the a driver to try his luck while stopped along the road, possibly in the rain or at night.

WHEN YOU get a new car, make sure you learn where the jack is (spare tire, too) and how this type of jack works.

Perform a dry run at your leisure when you can carefully follow instructions while not under time pressure or under adverse conditions.

Each owner's manual contains detailed instructions for the jack and its operation and tells how to change a tire. It also provides information on the various types of spare tires.

The spares include: the conventional tire, which can be put on a car for regular use; the collapsible spare, which has to be inflated by a special canister, and the already inflated mini-spare. The latter two are for temporary use only.

Jacks include those that fit into slots in the bumper and those that fit under the door sill. They require different methods of operation. Know which one you have and how it operates. Again, consult the manual.

CHANGING A tire is a relatively simple procedure, but it should be done with some caution. The gear selector should be in the park position and the parking brake should be set.

Place an object to block the wheel diagonally opposite the wheel being changed. Only then should you remove the jack and tire-wheel combination from the trunk of the car.

Flat tires no longer occur with any frequency, especially if the tires have a moderate amount of tread, but they always seem to happen at an inappropriate time.

That's why a practice session will save a lot of mental wear and tear should the need to change a tire arise.
