Group home meeting set

By Ariene Funke
staff writer

A meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Plymouth Canton High School for neighbors of a proposed group home for retarded adults on Saxony.

Laima Starwas, director of the community placement unit of Northville Residential Training Center, said the meeting will give neighbors a chance to meet the staff of the home and to ask questions. The Northville center oversees the placement of retarded in group homes.

Ms. Starwas said the Saxony home now is being processed for licensing by the state Department of Social Services. Tentatively scheduled to live there are two women and four men — retarded persons in their 20s who will attend special education classes or have jobs in sheltered workshops.

"WE ARE planning to open mid-to-end of August," Ms. Starwas said.

Plans for the house are continuing despite attempts by Canton Township to block licensing of several group homes, including the Saxony location.

Under state law, group foster care homes for six persons or less may be placed without the approval of the local government or neighborhood residents.

In late March, township attorney C.

Gerald Hemming filed a with the state Department of Social Services (DSS) and a lawsuit in Wayne County Circuit Court. Both are still pending.

Targets of the township's efforts are homes on Mannington, Marlowe, Saxony, Raintree Court, Canton Center Road, Hanford and Cherry Hill.

Some of the group homes — such as Raintree Court — have become licensed and operational while the case is pending. Others, such as the Saxony location, are being processed.

Township officials have concerns about the constitutionality of the foster care act, how locations are selected and various zoning questions.

THE TOWNSHIP BOARD in late March authorized Hemming to file an administrative complaint with the state DSS and to file a lawsuit in Wayne County Circuit Court.

The administrative complaint was denied, said Hemming. There will be a hearing July 27 in Detroit before the state bureau of administrative appeals to review the denial of the DSS.

"It isn't much of an appeal," said Hemming, who noted that DSS director John Dempsey has final word on the administrative complaint.

ALSO PENDING is the Wayne County Circuit Court lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the state law. Named in the suit are the DSS, Dempsey and the operators of the proposed group homes.

Canton currently is appealing a decision in April by Wayne County Circuit Judge Victor Baum, dissolving an earlier temporary restraining order against the licensing.

The earlier order had been issued by Circuit Judge Roland Olzark. But Baum said Canton Township had submitted insufficient arguments to warrant a continuation of the restraining order.

Hemming said additional briefs have been filed, but no hearing date has been set.

MEANWHILE, Ms. Starwas confirmed that there are four group homes for retarded adults in Canton. Judith Sheldon of the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital said there are two group homes for mentally ill.

There also are a home for mentally retarded children and a couple private foster care homes for retarded.

Ms. Starwas recently informed Supervisor James Poole that plans have been dropped to locate group homes for the retarded at 3605 Canton Center Road and at 46060 Warren. The Canton Center address was included in the lawsuit.

Ms. Starwas cited problems with the landlord in complying with state regulations.

Canton man murdered

Police probe Ohio slaying

By Katie Korwin
staff writer

A 30-year-old Canton man was one of four persons found shot to death in his sister's burning home last week in Bethel, Ohio, about 35 miles east of Cincinnati.

The victim was Edward Dowell, 30, of 1962 E. Franklin Drive, a former custodian for Northville Public Schools and more recently a machinist.

He and his wife, Laura, 29, had three sons, 11, 7 and 2 years old. The family lives in the Fellows Creek apartments.

Funeral services for Dowell were Thursday with Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth handling arrangements.

Police identified the other three victims as Dowell's sister, Lynda Stevenson, 35; her husband, Billy, 48; and the Stevenson's 5-year-old son Billy Jr.

ALL THE victims were found early last Monday shot in the head "execution style," said Clermont County (Ohio) Sheriff John VanCamp.

Police believe robbery was the motive behind the murders. Stevenson was known as a wealthy fireworks dealer, Sheriff VanCamp said.

Other sources claim that Stevenson has been under investigation for illegal enterprises including the distribution of pornographic films. The family lived in a spacious home in a converted barn in an isolated section of Clermont County.

Dowell, who reportedly was laid off from his job as a machinist a year ago, was visiting his sister at the time, said deputy David Blaylock.

"Apparently Dowell was there to assist in selling fireworks at this time of year — to help the family business," said John Anthony, FBI legal counsel in Detroit.

Mrs. Dowell, a waitress, refused comment. A family friend said she is distraught.

THE DOWELL children are "angry" and "confused," she said. "They just want to know why their daddy was shot."

The friend said neighbors have pitched in to assist the grieving family. "Everyone's just more than glad to lend a helping hand — I've never seen anything like it," she said.

She provided this description of Dowell:

"He was very easygoing and concerned about everyone else's feelings. He enjoyed the simple things in life. He enjoyed having a cup of coffee, sitting on a porch talking.

"You couldn't ask for a better neighbor. He was always the first one there when your car wouldn't start."

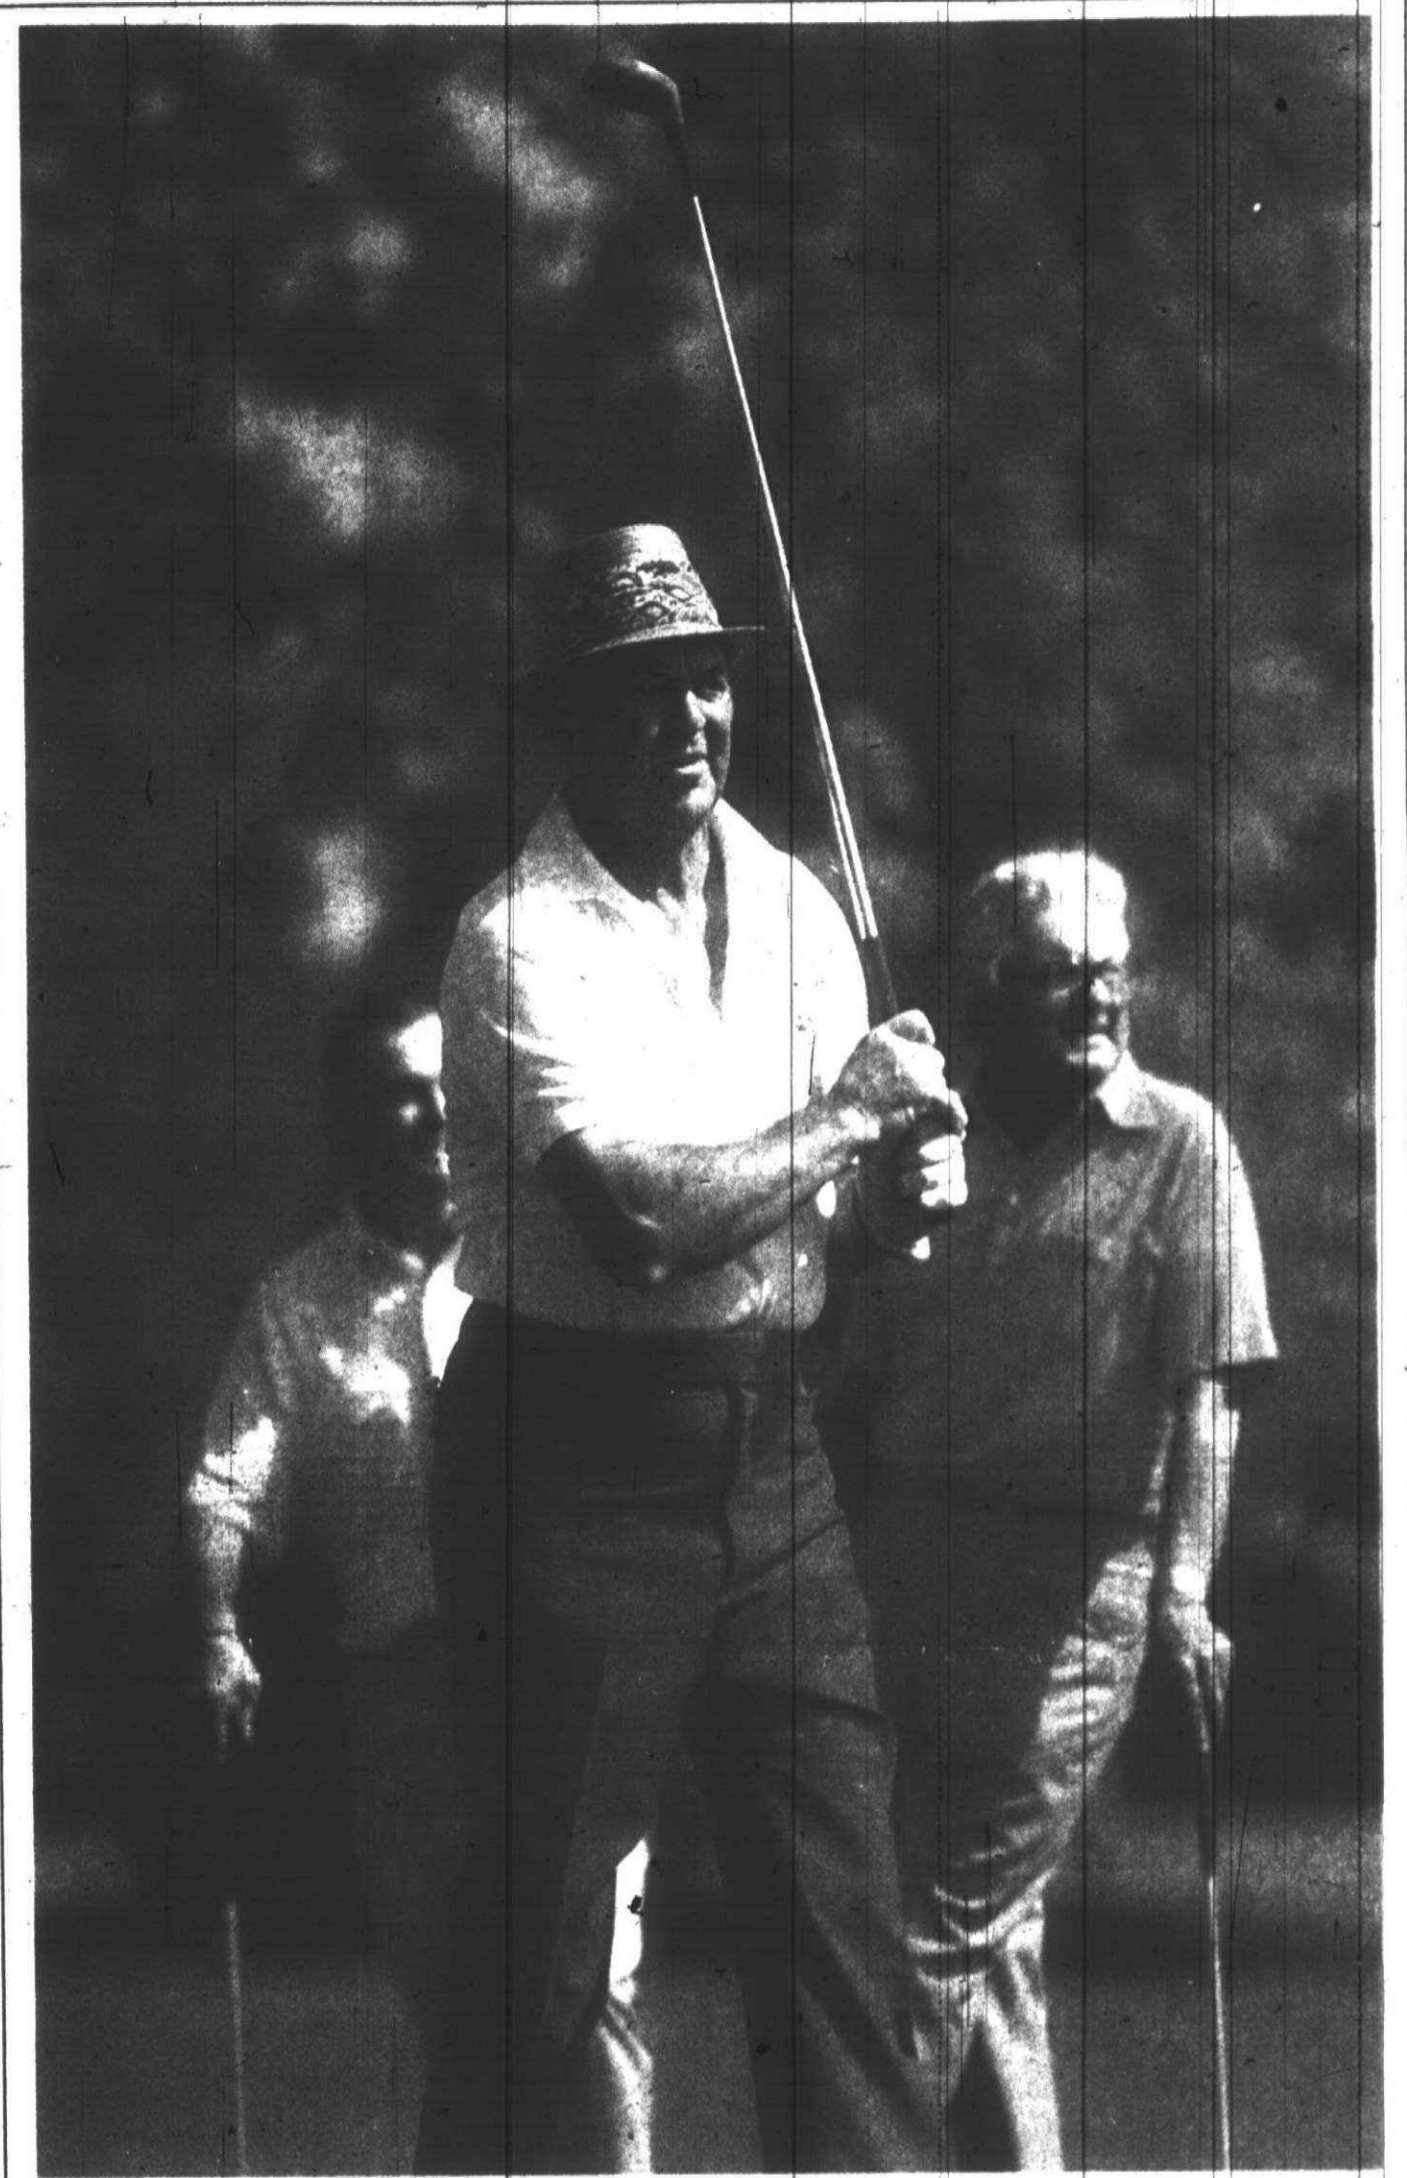

Just over a week ago, a trailer filled with $50,000-worth of Stevenson's fireworks was burned up, according to Charlotte Farmer of the Clermont County sheriff's office.

Dowell reportedly pulled a 17-year-old from the burning trailer, perhaps saving his life, she said. The youth was arrested on charges of juvenile delinquency and aggravated arson on July 2 and has been in custody since then, according to Pierce Township (Ohio) police.

ANTHONY SAID Stevenson had a reputation of carrying large sums of cash and "apparently he liked to flash it around."

A Bethel neighbor has reportedly said Stevenson took home a suitcase containing $200,000 in cash from sales

Canton racer dies in car crash

By Brad Emons
staff writer

"Driving is like a disease or passion. I really enjoy it. Sometimes it's dangerous, but you really don't think about it. If you do, you shouldn't race." — Patrick Jacquemart, (August 1980).

Patrick Jacquemart, killed in a freak racing accident last Thursday, was a true professional in the world of motor sport.

On both sides of the Atlantic, the Canton Township resident was known for his brilliant driving and car design.

At the time of his death, Jacquemart, a native of France, was testing his Renault Le Car at The Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course, one of the world's fastest and most demanding road racing tracks.

Jacquemart, 35, Renault's U.S. Competition manager and chief driver, apparently lost control of his car on the back straightaway of the Lexington, Ohio course.

Les Griebling, president and general manager of the track, did not witness the accident, but speculated on what may have happened.

"I wish I had an answer," he said. "He (Jacquemart) was just entering the braking area, and I'd say he was going about 130 miles per hour. He was shifting from fifth to fourth gear and it may have locked up."

"The car went at a severe angle and exited from the course. It spun about 726 feet and passed through the grass (infield) up against a sand wall.

"There were no skid marks and not too much damage to the car. I heard the crash. I was out there at the time with an engineer from General Motors."

TRACK OFFICIALS said there were no eye-witnesses to the crash.

Griebling said an ambulance was on the scene "within 30 seconds," but Jacquemart died before help arrived.

"The front door opened with no problems. Nearly everything was intact. There was some test equipment in the car. He must have been hit in the chest or neck."

An autopsy performed Friday revealed that Jacquemart suffered a fractured skull as a result of being thrown sideways in his car.

"It's one of those things nobody could have helped," Griebling said. "I'm certainly sorry it happened. It was a very freak accident."

The last fatality at the track occurred in 1975.

Jacquemart began his racing career at age 18 at the famed Winfield's Drivers School outside Paris. He came to New Jersey in 1975 with a job in Renault's U.S. engineering department.

In 1976 he powered Le Car to 9 of 12 Showroom Stock victories and captured the Sports Car Club of America (SCCA) Northeast Division title.

became Renault's racing manager in 1977 and moved to Canton to be close to his shop in Belleville. He redesigned Le Car for competition and found success last year when he won a pair of Champion Spark Challenge Series races in Portland, Ore., and San Francisco.

Jacquemart got off to a slow start this year, however.

Services for Jacquemart were held at 11 a.m. today at the Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth. His body will be flown to France following the services in Plymouth.

He is survived by his wife, Maryvonne, and mother, Simonne.

Board taps officers

By Brian Murphy
staff writer

The Wayne-Westland school board elected Donald Rusnock board president in a recent organizational meeting.

Other officers elected were Kenneth Marshall, vice president; Mildred Batterson, secretary and Mary Arbour, treasurer.

The school board also recalled 15 teachers and two para-professionals who were laid off April 9. They are to be called back effective July 2.

Gary Matsche, executive director of employee relations for the district, said 85 district employees on the April 9 layoff list remain laid off.

"I believe this will be the last recall until mid-August," he said.

MATSCHÉ SAID that declining enrollment prompted the district to lay off the employees and defended the April layoff decision with enrollment figures.

"The K-12 enrollment for the 1978-79 school year was 19,737 as compared to 17,746 for 1980-81," Matsche said.

"Our turnover rate in this district is slow. Everyone wants to keep their job and can't afford to move. In addition, there are really no teaching jobs in this area to move to."

Recalled were three high school teachers, five junior high school teachers, six elementary school teachers and one special education teacher.

The teachers won't know their assignments for next school year until August 17, he said. The other teachers in the district already have their assignments, he noted.

RUSNOCK, MARSHALL and Batterson were elected to their positions by unanimous votes.

The board split 5-2 on Arbour's election with Fred Warmbier and David Moranty in the minority. Warmbier was also a candidate for treasurer, nominated by Moranty.

As president, Rusnock will preside at board meetings but has the same vote as the other six trustees. The school board president also usually serves a ceremonial and symbolic role as head of the district.

Marshall's role as vice president will include assuming Rusnock's responsibilities in the event of his absence.

Batterson will be responsible as secretary for signing all legal documents connected with board business and Arbour will act as treasurer for board matters and perform ministerial functions as signer of checks.

preceding the Fourth of July holiday. The suitcase reportedly was not found after the fire.

Anthony said Stevenson also dealt in gold and silver and may have sold Mexican imports.

VanCamp told the Cincinnati Enquirer that about a dozen guns and about 100 pornographic films were found in the ruins of the house. Jewelry was found on the victims' bodies, which were badly burned, officials said.

A deputy said police officials do not know what is missing because the "house was burned up pretty badly."

Anthony said the guns found in the house are being examined in an FBI crime lab.

Bethel firefighters were summoned at 2:55 a.m. last Monday by an automatic alarm in the Stevenson home.

When firefighters entered the smoke-filled home at 3:20 a.m. to see if anyone was trapped inside, they discovered the four bodies in different parts of the house.

The fire may have been set to try to disguise the homicide and robbery, officials said.

He was arrested once several years ago for an illegal fireworks sale, Farmer said.

The Cincinnati Enquirer reported Friday that a source said the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms had Stevenson under surveillance to see if he was fencing guns from a series of recent burglaries.

Another report said Stevenson was a convicted felon barred from owning a gun.

Stevenson also has been reportedly linked with distribution of pornographic films.

The sheriff's department is investigating the slaying with help from the Ohio fire marshal, the county arson task force, the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Anthony said the FBI is also checking into the possibility that property taken from the Stevenson home may have been taken across state lines.

Livonia mother gets a new heart

By Susan Roelik editor

Sharon Jahns, the young Livonia mother stricken with a rare heart-muscle disease last fall, is in satisfactory condition after undergoing a heart transplant operation last week.

Mrs. Jahns, 33, received the heart of a young Minnesota woman who died last week in a traffic accident. She had been waiting the last three months for a donor. A 10-member surgical team from the Mayo Clinic performed the 3½-hour operation Tuesday.

A spokesman for the Mayo Clinic said Mrs. Jahns is expected to remain there for about a month and will require 1-3 months of out-patient care.

The Mayo Clinic, located in Rochester, Minn., and famous for its innovative work with open-heart surgery, performed its first heart transplant in February. The patient died. Although his new heart functioned properly, other organs were damaged and placed a burden upon the heart, according to an earlier report from the clinic.

Doctors said the next step will be to see if Mrs. Jahns' body will accept the new heart. Doctors are administering an anti-rejection drug derived from immunized rabbits and developed by the clinic.

The CLINIC spokesman declined to offer a prognosis on Mrs. Jahns, saying only that "we expect her to lead what is a normal life (for heart transplant patients)."

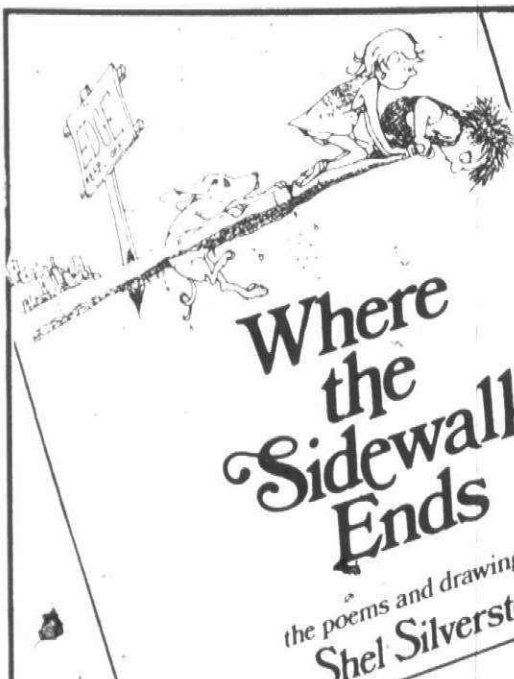

Mrs. Jahns' mother, Clara Pulice, and her husband were with her after the operation. Her children, Jimmy, 12, and Sherry, 10, are staying with relatives in California.

PORCELAIN COATED GOLD CROWN

If you have a chipped, discolored, broken, poorly shaped or badly decayed tooth - as long as the root remains - there is still hope for restoring its natural appearance and function. An artificial crown does the job.

The veneer crown actually comprises a jacket of porcelain fused to gold, cemented in position to replace the enamel of the tooth. It fits over the natural tooth surface which is prepared in such a way as to provide a strong base for the crown.

The cosmetic result of this procedure is beautiful. Tooth shade is carefully analyzed and the shade determined by taking into account such considerations as stains, grooves, enamel thickness, complexion and age. Carefully matched veneer crowns many times resemble the adjoining natural teeth so closely that it is possible to fool even a dental hygienist who is cleaning the teeth.

Laboratory techniques now enable us to do marvelous things with porcelain that were unthinkable not too many years ago. Further, porcelain is color stable. It will not change color with time.

Crime wanes, grass grows in Hines Park

Hines Park may be looking unkempt these days, but crime is waning and the rowdy throngs that plagued the 17 1/2-mile-long park in recent summers have diminished, according to a county police official.

The park — which runs west along Edward Hines Drive from Dearborn Heights to Northville Township — is still popular with residents of western Wayne County.

Hines now has many tall weeds and grass, since county maintenance has been severely cut. But arrests and tickets are down to one-third or one-quarter of last year's level, estimated Lt. Thomas Harrett, who supervises Wayne County sheriff patrols through the park. The decline is due in part to the manpower shortage in the sheriff department, which has drastically cut road patrols.

LAST YEAR, Harrett said there were 40 sheriff deputies assigned full time to the park. Now he has about a dozen deputies but some are now frequently sent to fill gaps at other posts, most often at the county jail.

"One day, we may have five or six cars (patrolling the park), which is normal," Harrett said. "The next day, we may have one or two."

Deputies usually patrol the park alone by day and in pairs by night, he said.

Between April and June 1980, deputies arrested or ticketed 4,000 people, he said. During the same eight-week period this year, there have been 1,200-1,300 cases, Harrett guessed.

This season, two rapes, one molestation and an attempted robbery at knife-point have been reported, Harrett said.

SMALLER CROWDS and more restrained park-goers may also contribute to the crime drop.

"I don't think the troublemakers have returned to the park," Harrett said. "What we see now are kids who just want to party a little, and we don't have much trouble with them."

Crowds are "down quite a bit from years past," he said. "I'm not sure why."

Cooler, rainier weather this spring may have discouraged park-goers, he speculated. But the recent heat wave has also kept crowds down.

"Apparently, it's just too hot for them," he said.

Plymouth police have not been called to assist in the park this summer, said Inspector Carl Berry of the Plymouth force. Hines Park cuts through the city and township for 3.5 miles.

MANPOWER SHORTAGES also affect the county parks maintenance crews. Like the personnel shortages in the sheriff department, the maintenance problems were spawned by the county's fiscal crisis.

The county parks budget is $1.3 million — down from $4 million three years ago. The result is a 75 percent reduction in staff, from 162 regular employees and 100 summer employees in 1978 to 30 regular and 15 seasonal this year.

"Services have been drastically curtailed — and that's an understatement," said county spokesman Lou Sugo. He added that no change is coming soon.

Among the inconveniences is the closing of some restrooms in the park. Hines has 30, but budget cuts left only enough money to keep 12 open.

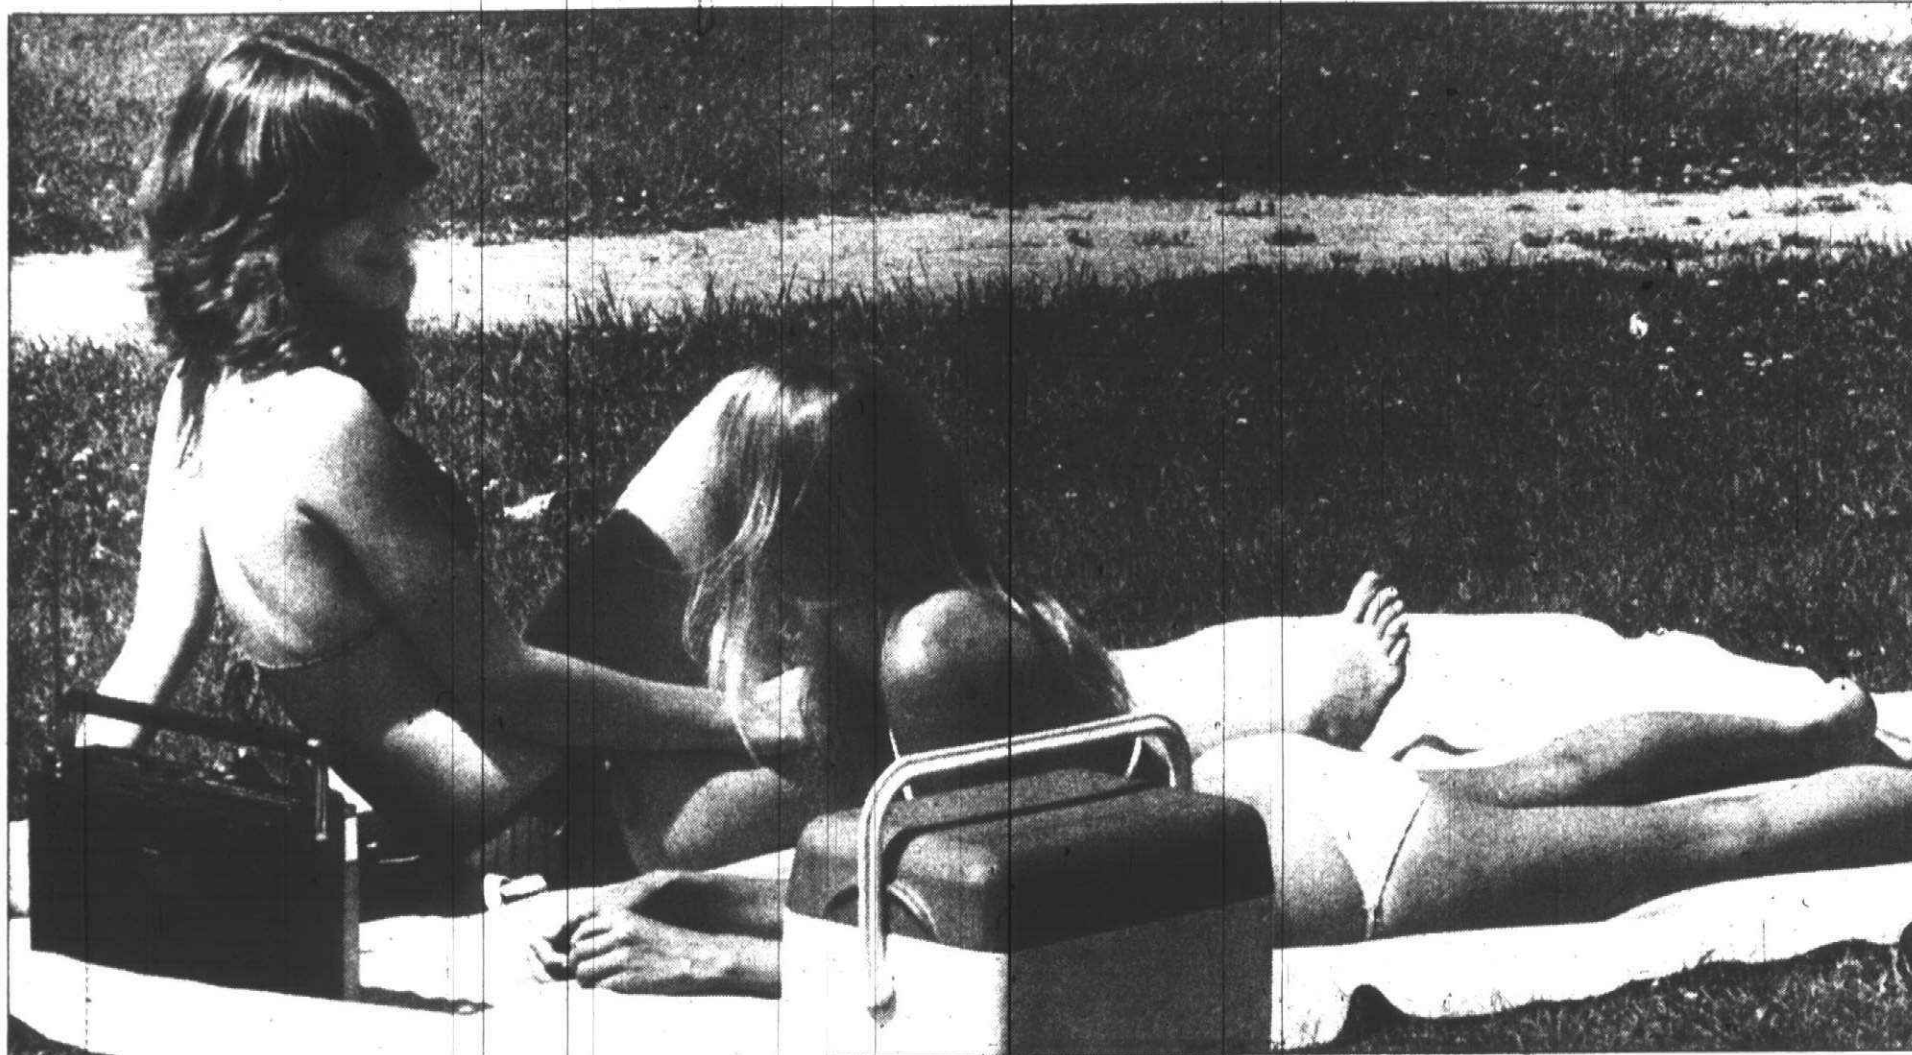

Ed Mika, superintendent of county parks, defended the job that park employees are doing.

"I think we're doing pretty well with what we've got," he said.

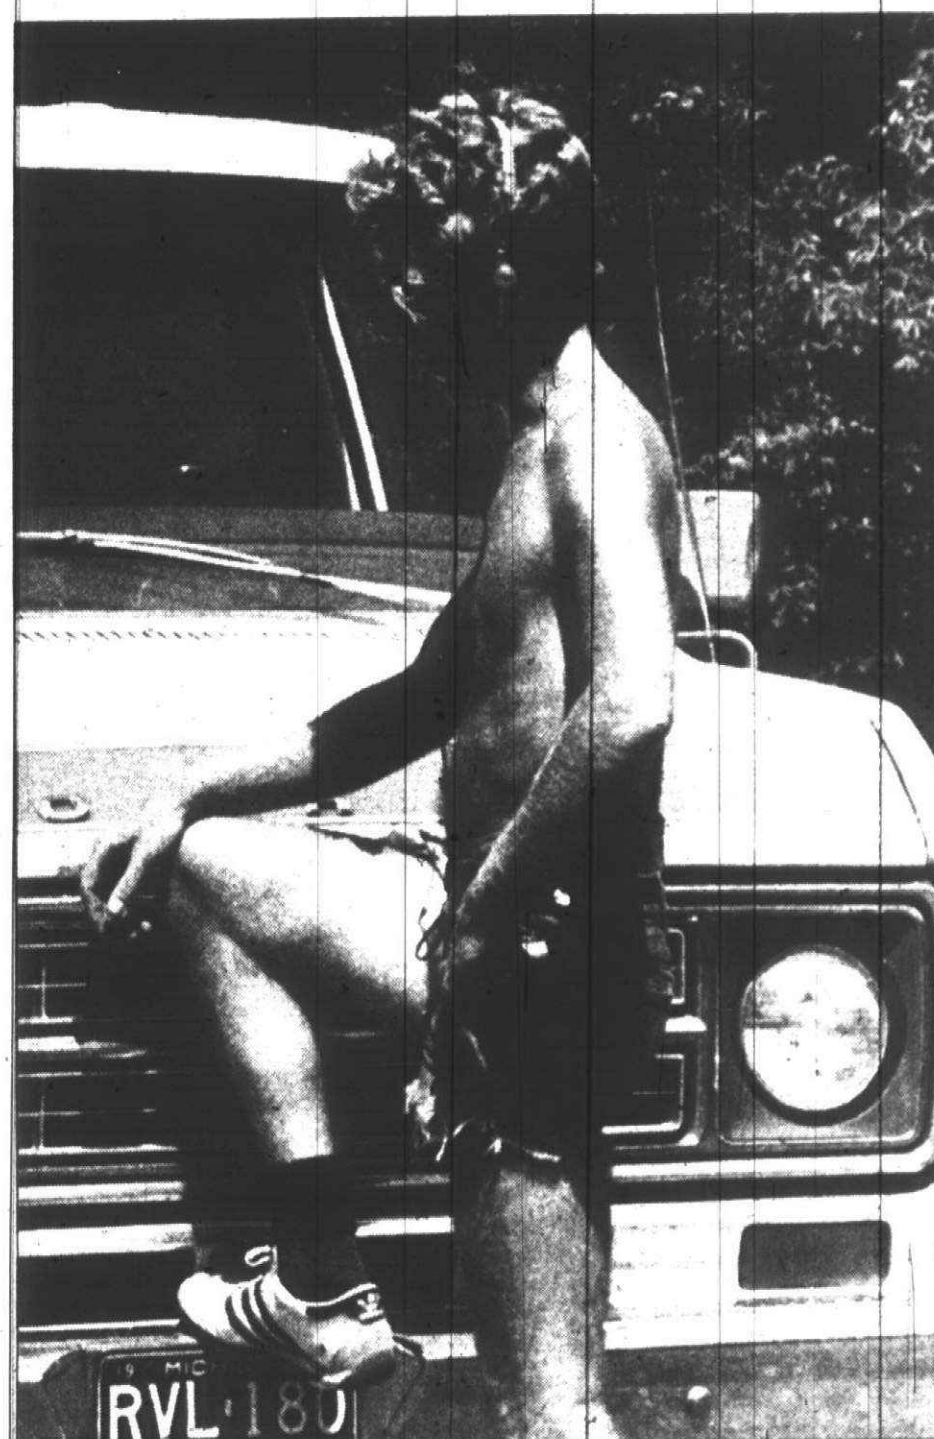

Robert Igielski of Westland pauses on in Hines Park on his way to work. Maintenance problems are allowing weeds and grass to grow tall.

Sunning and conversation are the commonplace in Hines on hot summer days. Catching a few rays (above) are Kathy Trotter of Livonia and Therese Cote of Westland.

Bob Karol of Livonia can listen to all the music he wants without disturbing others. He's wearing earphones.

Arrests and tickets are down to one-third or one-quarter of last year's level at Hines Park. But the decline may be in part due to the manpower shortage in the sheriff's department.

Sharon Jahns

"She hasn't stopped talking and she's strong. She's already walking in her room," said Bill Jahns, a plant liaison at Staff Industries in Redford Township. Jahns will remain with his wife in Rochester for about 14 days.

Although Mrs. Jahns' medical condition has buoyed the hopes of friends and a host of other supporters who have helped raise funds for the young family, there appears to be some confusion about surgery bills.

In May, a clinic spokeswoman said the Mayo Clinic Board of Governors would help share cost of the transplant. Last Friday, a clinic spokesman said the information released was "in error" and that Mrs. Jahns will be billed and "treated like any other patient."

Surgery was estimated earlier at $20,000-$30,000. However, the clinic spokesman declined to confirm that figure.

"Our concern at this point is for the patient's physical condition," the spokesman said.

A FUND DRIVE spearheaded by neighbors has raised $17,000 to help the Jahns family pay for the mounting medical costs.

Board meeting focuses on cutting camp program

A proposal to reinstate the sixth grade camp program will be presented tonight to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

Higher tuition and a higher pupil/teacher ratio are among the solutions being offered to make the popular program self-supporting.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the board room upstairs of the administration center at 454 S. Harvey, city of Plymouth.

The report will be presented by Daniel White, executive director of finance, as an informational report, and so it is unknown whether any official action will be taken.

Basically White is recommending ways to increase revenues and reduce expenses in order to turn the camp's $19,450 deficit from the current school year into a surplus of almost $7,000.

CURRENTLY the sixth grade camp involves salary and wage expenses of almost $25,000, including:

Directors' stipends, $1,440; teacher's stipend, $7,980; substitutes' stipend, $5,880; and, substitutes' pay, $9,405.

Other sixth grade camp expenses include: travel, $1,100; insurance, $1,250; rental, $9,060; contract services, $9,900; food, $17,640; transportation, $4,400; and miscellaneous $1,323 for total costs of $69,378.

The revenue includes camp fees of $48,230 and food reimbursement of $1,700, leaving a shortfall this year of $19,448.

White is recommending increasing the pupil/teacher ratio from 15/1 to 20/1 to reduce costs by $7,015, increasing tuition from $35 to $45 per student to generate $13,780 additional income, to assign camp director responsibility to an administrator to save the $1,440 stipend, and to solicit sponsorship of camp scholarships for indigent students to save $4,140 in lost tuition receipts.

These measures would save $26,375, which, for the 1981-82 sixth grade camp, would wipe out this year's deficit and produce a surplus of $6,927, White explains.

Based on those financial recommendations, the school board might consider reinstating the sixth grade camp, eliminated in earlier budget cuts.

The school board has until mid-August to make a decision as camp reservations must be made by the district by Aug. 15.

The proposed camp dates for '81-82 are: Sept. 7-11, 14-18, 21-25, Sept. 28 to Oct. 2; October 5-9, 12-16, 19-23; November 2-6, 9-13, 16-20; March 15-19, 22-26; May 31 to June 4; and June 7-11.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON Community Schools started a camp program in the 1951-52 school year and continued it for 30 years before the decision was made to end it for fiscal reasons.

The sixth grade outdoor education program is designed to extend and enhance the school science curriculum.

Outdoor education experiences are primarily built around field science and allow students to actually live with, and work with, the materials of science and to develop scientific methods and observation skills in real situations.

"Outdoor education is schooling in nature's own laboratory — the great outdoors," says White, in his report.

"With today's increasing urbanization it is urgent that students have the opportunity to develop outdoor skills and an understanding of the inter-relationships of living things in their environment.

"The participation in outdoor education projects helps in the understanding of state and national problems in land use, fire protection, forestry practices, game management, recreation, etc.

"The most important factor is that these outdoor activities can create certain values and attitudes in youth.

"Very few will challenge the value of the program or the worthiness of its objectives," concluded White.

White said the proposals being made would not change the curriculum but would be measures to make the camp fiscally self-supporting.

In past years, when money has become tight, previous school boards have considered eliminating sixth grade camp but have backed away.

It's July 1981. People need jobs, houses, proper nutrition and the feeling there's some kind of hope at the end of their personal rainbow.

Remember July 1967? People needed jobs, houses, proper nutrition and just a little hope they could make it in a tough world.

Back then, the hopes and dreams of many exploded into a bloody city riot in which 42 persons died, uncounted numbers were wounded and more than 4,000 were arrested.

Ten days from now, the 14th anniversary of the Detroit riots will occur. It's not a time for celebration, but perhaps a time for introspection.

It was a long, hot summer, even before Sunday, July 23, 1967, when it all started. The flames of Watts in Los Angeles and Newark in New Jersey were cooling embers. All summer long people had said, "It can't happen here."

Wasn't Detroit the city with the largest black home ownership in the country?

The automobile plants housed ever-moving assembly lines that kept people working. This was a union town. Workers had protection, equality.

YET, STARTING with a routine police raid on an after-hours drinking spot on 12th Street in a neighborhood accustomed to raids, came the conflagration that enveloped the nation's fifth largest city in the worst of all the riots.

Police, Michigan National Guard and U.S. Army personnel, all were involved, as were firefighters and neighboring police departments.

By the time the riots were quieted, the bells had rung for 1,682 fire runs.

At the height of the tension, when blackout conditions prevailed as though in war, a Detroit News reporter recalls that someone lit a cigarette and a 4-year-old child was killed in the volley of shots that followed.

It was a time of shock and tragedy, a trauma not yet completely healed though we've weathered 13 summers since.

One recent day — when baseball was still played in Tiger Stadium — I left the ballpark with my husband, Jack, and daughter, Tzviyah. We turned on to Rosa Parks Boulevard, a street known to Jack and me since childhood days as 12th Street.

"Is this the same 12th Street where your house was when you two met?" Tzviyah asked. Jack said it was, but a few miles down the pike.

"LET'S GO this way and see what it looks like at

The 1967 Detroit riot resulted in massive destruction by arson. Property damage in the millions occurred mostly to businesses in the inner city. A total of 42 persons died.

Hazelwood and 12th," I said. Traveling down Rosa Parks Boulevard, we passed through neighborhoods that had flourished long before any of us were born. We saw decay and many empty spaces where renovation was contemplated but not quite accomplished.

We passed the place where Jack worked for five years as a soda jerk from age 13. But Bortman's Drugs is just a memory.

At 12th and Hazelwood, where Jack's family once lived in the upper flat of a red brick, two-story home, we found two surprises.

First, was the new development along Rosa Parks — several blocks of brick duplexes where once small businesses like the vaunted Boesky's Delicatessen flourished. They are neat, homey and new looking.

Then, not new at all, but like a gift from the past, we found the family home. It still stands with ample front porches and concrete perches on both sides of the steps. Decades ago, Jack and I had sat there learning about one another.

Mere blocks from Hazelwood is the Clairmount and 12th corner where the riots began. And there, too, we saw a beneficial facelift.

Yet renovation in that area of the city pops out at you like an infrequent oasis. The duplexes on Rosa Park Boulevard sit conspicuously like a layer of frosting on a crumbling cake. You wonder how many of the refugees of the riot live in better housing today than before the conflagration began.

Today, people leave Detroit for the same reasons their parents and grandparents came — seeking jobs and a better life.

The city's motto, "Resurget Cineribus," means "It shall rise again from the ashes." Fourteen years have brought a great deal of change. Some can be labeled progress. Have we risen far enough?

Boomer likes comfort

Dogs enjoy vacations, too!

As this is written, our vacation plans are almost complete — fishin' rod, trout flies, maps of Rocky Mountains campgrounds, all are ready.

At my side in the den is my faithful companion The Boomer. I wonder what memorable stunts he will pull this trip.

Boom-Boom is the given name of this 21-pound poodle, but everyone automatically calls him The Boomer. He is the son of Beau the Head Poodle, about whom you've seen several columns. Beau passed on last fall, in his 17th year.

Beau was cocky, loud-mouthed, demanding as a drill sergeant, aggressively affectionate. The Boomer is shy, sedate and works by indirection — except on vacations.

ONE SUMMER we had a cottage on Lake Michigan near St. Ignace, and the humans went to Mackinac Island for the afternoon, leaving two steaks to thaw in the sink.

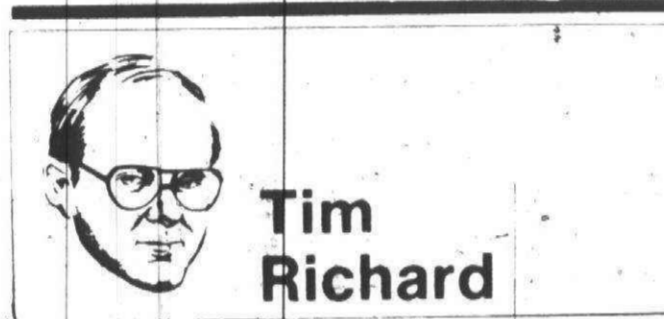

Beau caught up on his napping, but The Boomer found his way up a chair, across the breakfast counter, past a television set, across a refrigerator, over the stove and into the sink. He chomped up one steak pretty good.

"That's your steak," said my wife Nancy.

Out ice fishing, I put my fish in a bucket — knowing! The Boomer — but other guys left theirs on the ice. The Boomer spotted a flopping little perch near one chap's hole and proceeded to steal it, consuming it head, bones, fins and all.

Fortunately, the other angler had a sense of humor and plenty of fish to spare, so he laughed.

FOR ONE CAMPING trip, Nancy got a new red sleeping bag and swore she would be the first and only creature to get into it. She was aware that The Boomer practices the ABCs of Boomerism — Always Be Comfortable.

The first night, she rolled out the new sleeping bag and turned her head for a quarter of a second to reach for a nightgown. Like a black flash, The Boomer pulled back the cover and ensconced himself in her new red sleeping bag.

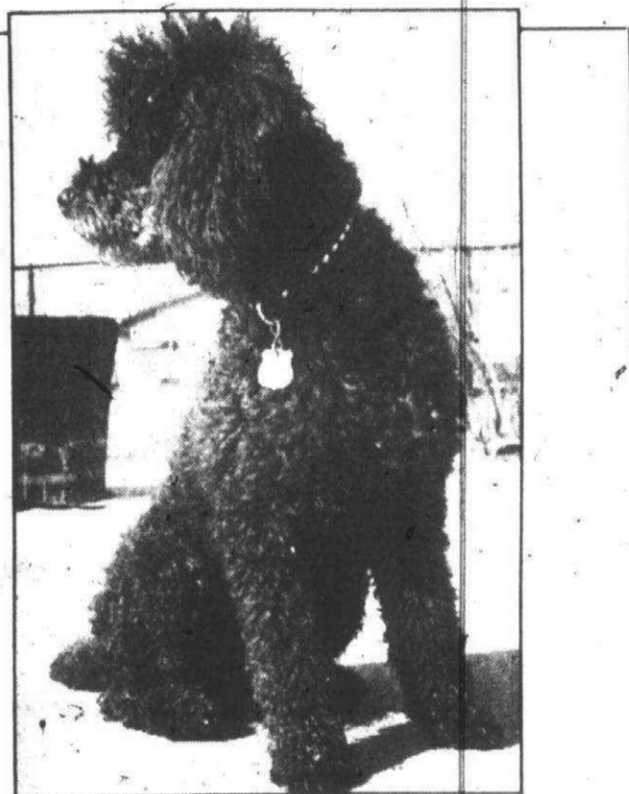

I was a little less lucky. Last month on a short trip, we gave The Boomer a bone. It was just the way a wolf likes it — bright red meat, plenty of marrow, juicy and greasy.

But The Boomer didn't like the way the neighbor dogs were eyeing his prize, so while I reached for a beer he shot into the tent and dined elegantly on top of my sleeping bag.

That reminds me: I've got to get my sleeping bag from the cleaners.

ONE FRIDAY morning a couple of years ago, The Boomer had minor surgery. That evening we went to see the kinfolk in St. Joe and watch the Blossom Parade.

Friday night I let The Boomer out for a last call, not realizing he was still groggy from the anesthetic. When he didn't return, I figured the male dog was about his father's business, chasing females, and would return before dawn.

Dawn came and no Boomer. I searched the streets for three hours. Finally I called the St. Joe cops and described the little sweetheart. I had visions of him in the dog pound or the Humane Society shelter.

"Six," said the desk sergeant, "I suggest you call the Holiday Inn."

There he was. The ladies who work the desk had found him at the door at 5 in the morning. They were pampering him and loving him up, and they were all having a great old time.

The Boomer practices what he preaches: Always Be Comfortable.

This is a zoo, not our home

This place is turning into a zoo! This morning, when I took the most recent headcount of the wildlife this family is harboring (excluding our 5 and 6-year-old sons), I came up with:

- One cocker spaniel dog whose main joy in life is to run out the front door every time a child opens it. If you have children, you know that means about 500 or 600 times a day.
- Six tropical fish, one of which is looking quite sickly and, for some strange reason, is bringing out all of my maternal "sickbed" instincts. I hover around the tank alot with a concerned look in my face. I would take its temperature if I knew how.
- One crayfish recently found in a neighborhood creek by my six-year-old son. What does one feed a crayfish?
- Two toads. This number is greatly subject to change. We have daily escapes and frequent new arrivals. We feed them bugs, give them water, and I scream whenever one is brought into the house.
- One garter snake. My sons assure me that he is just a temporary boarder. That reptile couldn't leave soon enough as far as I'm concerned!
- Three minnows found in that same neighborhood creek. Aren't we lucky.
- At least 40 or 50 polywogs in several different stages of polywogism. The creek again.
- And last, but certainly not least, one stray, female cat that hasn't been "fixed." My eldest son brought her home several weeks ago. I told both him and the cat that I was dead set against the idea of her staying. Neither of them paid any attention to me.

We're calling her "Flossie."

I GREW UP IN a city covered with cement.

The first time I saw a snake that wasn't at the Detroit Zoo was when we moved to Canton four years ago. I let out a blood-curdling scream that couldn't have been any louder if I had seen King Kong in my backyard. Today I've become so blasé about snakes that I've even picked up a few — with the aid of a long handled shovel, of course.

My 6-year-old's first grade teacher told me that he has a great interest in science, and that we should cultivate it. If his interest gets any more cultivated than this, I don't think I'll be able to stand it!

My very favorite part of living in this wildlife station is the house that dived to dog. Every time he gets out of the house, He loped back. And he sounds mean.

Recently, while I was whiling away the afternoon working on my tan in the backyard, my sons ran around the house yelling that the dog had escaped again. He was across the street at a neighbor's garage sale barking at, and generally annoying, innocent browsers.

All I had was a bikini, and a ton of suntan oil. I don't even wear that particular bathing suit to the beach (too fat!) — I certainly had no intention of wearing it to a garage sale.

Have you ever seen a greased-down chubby woman in a bikini and a yellow raincoat chasing a dog through the entire neighborhood? By the looks on their faces, I don't think those garage sale shoppers had either.

I think I'll just hide in my house for the rest of the summer.

Society demands much better readers

Why can't Johnny read?
What can Johnny read?
Or, more to the point, what can't Johnny read?

An interesting conference was held last month at the University of Michigan on helping the workforce meet future demands for literacy.

Interesting because it is usually employers who complain loudest that high school graduates these days are not literate, or at least not literate enough to work efficiently.

In my experience, it is businessmen who most often ask, "Why can't Johnny read?" And the question is asked so often that it is almost accepted as fact that he can't read.

Others have already answered that Johnny may be a fairly adequate reader but is unable to read the same words known by the current generation. His vocabulary is different than mine, that's all.

That seems to beg the question if Johnny's reading vocabulary is such that he cannot perform on the job. This circular kind of reasoning and probing almost gets you nowhere. But a good point was made at the U-M workshop by Richard W. Bailey, a professor of English at the University.

"This is an appropriate time to examine and predict change in literacy," says Bailey. "More people read and write on the job today than ever before. Despite prevailing wisdom that in this age of television fewer people read and comprehend what they have read, we know that the range of occupations requiring high levels of reading and writing is greater than ever."

Today's service agencies and police departments, for example, require composition skills far superior to those common a decade ago. Quite sophisticated literacy in many occupations is essential for success on the job.

Daniels' den

by Emory Daniels

If the professor is right, our problem is not that Johnny can't read, but that our job market requires a reading level far greater than is being taught in the schools.

In other words, our teachers are teaching one set of words at one level and our job-makers are talking a language consisting of an entirely different set of words at a higher level. Johnny is learning what he is being taught, but those mastered lessons aren't aligning very well with the expectations of the marketplace.

That was the main goal of the workshop — to lessen the gap between the workplace and what is being taught in the classroom in order to raise the level of literacy of the American workforce.

SUCH AN AIM, of course, may never be reached.

Society is changing so rapidly that we may never be able to adequately teach today's students to equip him/her to cope with tomorrow's society. It's the Future Shock game, and maybe we can't win.

Our schools have just finished changing curriculum to teach students the language of the technological age, and here we are in the electronic age. The gap may always be there.

As I think about how fast our language is growing and becoming outdated, I also am thinking about how fast changes are occurring in the way we produce words for others to read.

In the generation of journalists preceding me, a reporter would print or write the story in longhand and then hand it to the printer for typesetting.

When I entered the trade in the mid-1960s, we produced words with standard typewriters (mostly Royals and Underwoods). The story was typed, edited and then given to a typesetter to punch out on a linotype machine. And so I had to know how to type to be able to produce words for a newspaper.

In very short time, the change was made to electric typewriters (mostly IBM) with our copy being edited and run through a scanner to transpose our words into language which could be translated by a computer. The computer set my words in type.

And then reporters had their electric typewriters taken away and were given television screens with a keyboard. The words are typed onto the screen, edited, instantly corrected and dumped into the computer, which then sets it into type exactly the way the reporter typed it.

I still have my electric typewriter but have watched fellow writers use the VDTs (video display terminals) which will replace my IBM OCR (optical character recognition) system within the near future.

The point is that not only has the words of my trade changed, but the means used to produce those words have changed drastically. And so I have to have some understanding of the computer language to produce words you can read.

Yet the last time I was in a newsroom at a university, the reporters were sitting behind standard typewriters while out in the field we are getting ready to junk our electric typewriters. A gap of another sort.

No wonder educators have problems keeping up with society. No wonder employers wonder whether Johnny is literate.

The standard of literacy today is very high, and the means of producing literate goods is changing rapidly.

Tomorrow, they say, I will be writing words on a television screen which will appear on a television screen in your home via cable.

Watch out, Johnny, here comes Future Shock!

To fill SEMTA job

'We're looking for another Larry Salci'

By Mike Scanlon
staff writer

SEMTA starts the wheels rolling this week in its search for a replacement for general manager Larry Salci, who is leaving in October after five years on the job.

The SEMTA board voted Wednesday to begin advertising locally and in national trade publications this week for the top appointed job in the seven-county Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, a post that board chairman R.J. Alexander expects will pay about $60,000 a year. Salci, who will take a job as government analyst for the Southfield accounting firm of Plante and Moran, made $71,000.

To aid in the search, the board also approved hiring executive recruiters or "headhunters — don't use that term — talent scouts," said SEMTA board member and Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara.

McNamara said the board feels "there's some urgency in replacing him (Salci) as quickly as possible" because of pressures caused by the still-unfinished area transit plan.

McNamara said the talent scouts will be asked to winnow through applications, reduce the number to about 25, then drop it further to three to eight candidates who will be interviewed by SEMTA board members.

Alexander said he expects about 100 applications.

"You don't have to go 50 miles from home to find an expert," he said.

ALEXANDER named administrative abilities and the "ability to work within the political structure probably one of the requirements everyone has to meet everywhere in the country" as the two attributes he'd most like to see in the new manager.

Alexander, a Bloomfield Township resident, said he sees financing experience and an engineering background as desirable, but of lesser relative importance.

Salci was popular with board members, Alexander said; in large measure because "he has tremendous abilities to take the technical aspects of transportation and put them into lay language, and I think that's a big factor. Plus his ability to work within the political structure of the region, the city and the suburbs."

Asked to comment on recent press reports that former aide to Mayor Coleman Young William Ciullo, SEMCOG executive director Michael Glusac and SEMTA public affairs officer Mickey Meltzer are top candidates in the field.

"WE'RE LOOKING for another Larry Salci," said McNamara. "He's light on his feet, he's just been a workaholic with a very good financial background."

The new general manager will likely not come from the ranks of other urban transit top administrators, McNamara predicted.

"The problem is that there are not many around. They're either too young or too old to steal."

McNamara also seemed to lean in favor of a local applicant.

700 county workers face layoffs in '81

By Mike Scanlon
staff writer

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners last week gave voice-vote approval to a plan to layoff as many as 700 county employees if workers don't agree to delay COLA payments.

Three different layoff levels are under consideration, affecting between 566 and 690 employees, but the number receiving the most attention is 665 workers.

Laying off that many employees from July 27 to Nov. 1 would save the county an estimated $5 million. That's nearly the same amount due all 4,400 county workers in the same period in the form of $2.07-an-hour cost of living allowances. County fiscal advisor Edward Bobowski estimated some 693 employees would have to be laid off or transferred to save the entire $5.2 million.

Court employees are excluded from all the proposed layoff lists. A final vote on the plans is set for July 21, the same meeting at which Sheriff William Lucas has been subpoenaed to appear.

COUNTY WORKERS have been reluctant to agree to the delayed COLA payments, but county administrators say the scheme is a necessary part of a $9.2 million spending reduction plan for the rest of this year.

The county expects to end the fiscal year about $20 million in the red, and it plans to pay off the deficit by borrowing money. But the loan has to be approved by the state Municipal Finance Commission, and county officials fear failure to comply with 1980 Finance Commission fiscal guidelines could kill the planned float of short-term notes.

The threat of the layoffs comes as county negotiators are continuing to meet with representatives of AFSCME, the union which represents about 3,000 of the county's 4,400 employees.

About 400 of the workers on the proposed layoff list are also represented by AFSCME, the American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees.

Tom White, a staff representative for AFSCME Council 25, said he hopes some kind of arrangement can be worked out involving neither COLA deferrals nor layoffs. But he declined to cite any specific plans under negotiation.

The layoffs under consideration range from zero to 65 percent of individual department staff levels, but average about 20 percent. County fiscal advisor Edward Bobowski said departments with traditionally high turn-over rates were singled out for higher layoff levels.

HARDEST HIT would be Wayne County General Hospital, where 247 workers — exactly 20 percent — would be laid off.

How to beat heat

By Lem Meece
staff writer

This kind of heat offers the outdoorsman a wonderful opportunity to stay inside, suck up the air-conditioning and ponder the craft of being a woodsman.

My pal C.O. Jones, though, likes to go giggering frogs when the mercury approaches the boiling point, and you may be some kind of fanatic yourself about going out in the heat. Or maybe you just have to cut the grass.

Either way, extreme heat can give you problems. A little later we'll look at ways to beat the heat, but if you're the type who likes to go to the mat with Old Sol mano-a-mano, so to speak, consider "Could You Survive?" No. 45.

These "Could You Survive?" quizzes are free plugs from the U.S. Air Force that arrive at the office from the Air Force Survival School every so often. No. 45, which I located by sifting through my files with a snow shovel, concerns heat disorders.

Here's the question — it's hot out, and you're sweating too much. That can cause all sorts of evil reactions inside your body. To prevent those evil reactions, which of the following is the best method to restore lost salts in your body?

A.) Use more salt on your food. B.) Take a salt tablet daily. C.) Take a salt tablet three times every day, or D.) drink a tablespoon of salt dissolved in a glass of water.

The best answer is A.), using more salt on your food. High intake of concentrated salt can irritate your stomach or intestines. But sprinkled on food and taken with liquids at mealtime, salt can be restored to your body more pleasantly.

Of course, if none of that works get yourself a "Could You Survive?" No. 45, and use it as a fan.

SENIOR CITIZENS can beat the heat at 3 p.m. on July 14 in a Senior Summer Swim at the Waterford Oaks county park Wave-Action Pool. The fancy pool is the only place in the state this side of Ludington where you'll find surf. Seniors don't have to pay for the pass to gain park entry. The July 14 event will cost a buck, however, but seniors can use the wave pool from 4-6 p.m. any day for 50 cents. Phone 858-0916 for more information.

Nine-eyed crab is no myth

The American horseshoe crab Limulus polyphemus, named after the one-eyed giant of Greek myth, actually has nine eyes, National Geographic says.

The ocean-bottom dweller has one eye on each side of its shell, two in the center, and five light-receptive organs beneath the shell.

Cycle insurance available

Michigan motorcycle insurers are now required to offer medical benefit insurance to cyclists who ask for it.

The optional coverage pays for bodily injury, in $5,000 increments, to cyclists and their families injured in motorcycle accidents in which no car was involved. Prices range widely; comparison shopping is recommended by the state department of licensing and regulation.

Another change in motorcycle insurance came with the medical coverage requirement. Motorcyclists hurt in crashes with cars are now covered by the car owners' no-fault insurance. Cyclists, who were previously covered by their own no-fault insurance, often had difficulty getting affordable coverage because of the higher incidence of injury among motorcyclists, the department said.

PRESERVE THE PICK OF THE CROP TO ENJOY NOW AND THROUGHOUT THE YEAR

From coast to coast, it appears that home gardening has become a thriving American growth industry. And two of the vegetables most likely to be found flourishing in home gardens are tomatoes and cucumbers, which also happen to be favorites of non-gardeners as well. So whether picked from your own garden, or from overflowing baskets at the roadside stands and farmer's markets, plan to put some up when they're at their peak and most flavorful. Once the season is past, you'll be glad you did.

Cucumber pickles are perennially popular and tomatoes, too, are delicious canned. For home canners, pickling vegetables is the simplest method and also the shortest. Processing is done in a water bath canner for only ten or fifteen minutes, depending on the recipe. For these good reasons, the home economists at Ball Corporation have created some new recipes for these tasty relishes.

Dill Pickles and Sweet Pickle Spears are two all-time favorite accompaniments to sandwiches, salads and meats. And the Hot Pepper Mix, a spice melange of vegetables, is the perfect way to make good use of end-of-season produce.

Dilled Green Tomatoes, crisp and pungent, are just the thing to pep up winter appetites. Using only firm, ripe tomatoes, Spicy Tomato Juice is a tasty treatment that needs only 15 minutes in a boiling water bath canner. And since home canned tomatoes are the basis for so many marvelous spicy sauces, the standard recipe from the Ball Blue Book is also included.

Hot Pepper Mix

- | | |
|---|---|
| 2 pounds small pickling cucumbers | 1-1/2 cups canning salt |
| 3 carrots, pared and cut into 1/4-inch slices | 4 quarts water |
| 4 medium sweet red or green peppers, seeded and cut into strips | 10 cups white vinegar |
| 1 small cauliflower, separated into florets | 2 cups water |
| 1 cup peeled pickling onions | 1/4 cup sugar |
| 2 pounds long red, green or yellow peppers | 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish |
| | 2 cloves garlic |
| | 3 or 4 jalapeno peppers or dried red peppers, cut in half |

Wash cucumbers; trim ends and cut into 1/2-inch slices. Combine 1-1/2 quarts sliced cucumbers with carrots, sweet peppers, cauliflower and onions. Dissolve salt in 4 quarts water; pour over vegetables; let stand 1 hour. Meanwhile, with rubber gloves, remove seeds from long peppers and cut into 1-1/2-inch pieces. Measure 1-1/2 quarts; set aside. Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Combine vinegar, 2 cups water, sugar, horseradish and garlic; simmer 15 minutes. Remove garlic. Drain vegetables. Pack vegetables and sliced peppers in hot jars, leaving 1/4-inch head space. Add a piece of jalapeno or dried red pepper to each jar. Carefully pour hot liquid over vegetables, leaving 1/4-inch head space. Remove air bubbles with a non-metallic spatula. Adjust caps.

Process pints 10 minutes in boiling water bath canner. Yield: about 8 pint jars.

Sweet Pickle Spears

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|------------------------------|
| 4 pounds small pickling cucumbers | 4 teaspoons celery seed |
| 4 cups sugar | 4 teaspoons turmeric |
| 3-3/4 cups white vinegar | 1-1/2 teaspoons mustard seed |
| 3 tablespoons canning salt | |

Wash cucumbers; trim ends. Cut into quarters, lengthwise. Pour boiling water to cover over cucumbers; let stand 2 hours.

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Heat remaining ingredients to a boil. Drain cucumbers; pack into hot jars, leaving 1-1/4-inch head space. Carefully pour hot liquid over cucumbers, leaving 1/4-inch head space. Remove air bubbles with a non-metallic spatula. Adjust caps.

Process half-pints 10 minutes in boiling water bath canner. Yield: about 10 half-pint jars.

Dill Pickles

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|-------------------------|
| 4 pounds small pickling cucumbers | Fresh dill or dill seed |
| 4-1/4 cups water | Mustard seed |
| 4 cups white vinegar | Peppercorns |
| 6 tablespoons canning salt | |

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Wash cucumbers; trim ends. Cut into halves or quarters, lengthwise. Combine water, vinegar and salt; bring to a boil. Pack cucumbers into hot jars, leaving 1/4-inch head space. Add 2 heads of dill or 1/4 cup dill seed, 1/2 teaspoon mustard seed and 2 peppercorns to each jar. Carefully pour hot liquid over cucumbers, leaving 1/4-inch head space. Remove air bubbles with a non-metallic spatula. Adjust caps.

Process pints 15 minutes in boiling water bath canner. Yield: about 7 pint jars.

Tomatoes

- 3 pounds firm, ripe tomatoes per quart (about 9 medium)
Salt

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Wash tomatoes; drain. Dip tomatoes into boiling water for 1/2 to 1 minute to loosen skin. Dip into cold water; drain. Cut out core, remove skin, trim any green spots. Place whole tomatoes into hot jars, leaving 1/2-inch head space. Press tomatoes with a non-metallic spatula to release juice. If necessary, pour off juice or add tomato to achieve 1/2-inch head space. Add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart jar. Remove air bubbles with a non-metallic spatula. Adjust caps.

Process quarts 45 minutes in boiling water bath canner.

Dilled Green Tomatoes

- 5 pounds small, firm green tomatoes (about 20 small)
3-1/2 cups white vinegar
3-1/2 cups water
1/4 cup canning salt
6 or 7 cloves of garlic
6 or 7 bay leaves
Fresh dill or dill seed

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Wash and core tomatoes; cut into halves or quarters. Combine vinegar, water and salt; bring to a boil. Pack tomatoes into hot jars, leaving 1/4-inch head space. Add 1 garlic clove, 1 bay leaf, 1 head of dill or 2 tablespoons dill seed to each jar. Carefully pour hot liquid over tomatoes, leaving 1/4-inch head space. Remove air bubbles with a non-metallic spatula. Adjust caps. Process pints 15 minutes in boiling water bath canner. Yield: about 7 pint jars.

Spicy Tomato Juice

- 12 to 14 pounds firm, ripe tomatoes (about 40 medium)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
4 teaspoons seasoned salt
1-1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon hot pepper sauce (optional)

Wash, core and quarter tomatoes. Extract juice from tomatoes using an electric juice extractor or by simmering until soft and pressing through sieve or food mill.

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Pour tomato juice into a large saucepot. Add remaining ingredients and heat juice to a simmer. Do not boil. Carefully pour hot juice into hot jars, leaving 1/4-inch head space. Adjust caps.

Process juice decanter jars or quarts 15 minutes in boiling water bath canner. Yield: about 4 juice decanter jars.

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Enjoy bountiful harvest while at its peak

This past winter my husband and I — along with the rest of Michigan — gave serious consideration to moving to Houston. The primary motivation was, of course, economic. An additional lure, however, was weather. We would enjoy summer weather 12 months a year. Michigan winters would be only a bad memory.

Now that summer has arrived in Michigan, I'm not sure I could take 12 months of this either. There remains a lot to be said for that old saw about Michigan weather: If you don't like it, just wait — it will change in a moment. In the sweltering heat of July, the anticipation of winter becomes sweet.

A scene that keeps running through my mind is a late-night walk with my husband in the biting cold of mid-winter. Under street lamps the snow sparkles like diamonds. No matter how trite, it resembles nothing less and its beauty is breathtaking. The cold is so intense that the snow crushes underfoot with a squeaking noise. The cold envelops us, creating a sense of unreality and isolation that is comfortable when shared. Houston has nothing like this.

SUMMER HEAT saps strength while the cold invigorates and challenges. There is a sense of accomplishment in meeting the weather on its own terms.

People marvel that I run in the winter. Except for a few icy days, it is actually more conducive to running. Five minutes of exertion finds you warmer than is comfortable, even in frigid weather. Five minutes of similar exertion in heat finds you sick — hot, churning the stomach and taxing the heart. The warmth of Houston would be an unrelieved curse for a runner.

Its very briefness makes a Michigan summer a welcome respite. There is a desperate desire to embrace all the summer has to offer before it fades into autumn.

An especially sweet part of Michigan summer is its produce. Those of us who live in a large metropolitan area sometimes lose sight of the fact that Michigan is basically farm land. We have not only the rich soil but the abundant water supply so sorely lacking in other parts of the country.

MICHIGAN'S growing season may be relatively short, but the harvest is bounteous.

Home gardeners and visitors to local farmers' markets find themselves awash in fragrant red tomatoes, milky corn, sweet melons, tart cherries, and fat strawberries. Roadside stands are piled high with jewel-like fruits, Michigan summer's answer to winter's glittering snow and its soft gift to those who have endured its winter.

Our whole style of eating changes to accommodate the harvest. Melons appear on breakfast tables, corn is roasted at cook-outs, strawberry shortcake makes a peerless dessert, cherries appear in pies and are frozen in anticipation of the winter to come, cucumbers are pickled so that they, too, can preserve summer pleasures for the cold months ahead.

In the first flush of the harvest, it is enough to enjoy these fruits and vegetables unadorned. Nothing can improve on the taste of a tomato eaten out of hand, fresh from the garden and still warm from the sun. As the weeks go on, however, it can provide a welcome break to serve fresh produce in a new guise.

A NEW DISH can not only help use up a super-abundance of fresh produce but may stimulate heat-withered appetites.

The following recipes — one first course and one entree — make use of some of the best a Michigan summer has to offer. The stuffed melon recipe alone took me about three years to try. I would mark it in my cookbook early in summer and pull the marker out what seemed weeks later — in mid-January. Although it was well worth waiting for, you won't want to wait that long.

Enjoy these recipes now while these foods are at their peak. A Michigan summer won't wait. Both recipes are from "The Vegetarian Epicure Book Two" by Anna Thomas. The appeal of this book, along with its predecessor, "The Vegetarian Epicure," is not limited to vegetarians. Anyone who appreciates good food would enjoy both the superb recipes and the fascinating cultural and culinary commentaries which they contain. Either would make a splendid gift — even to yourself — to be used 12 months a year. Her whole approach is one worthy of Michigan's bounty.

FILLED CANTALOUPE SALAD
(Serve as a first course with thin, buttered slices of bread or crisp Cheese Pastries)

- 1 large cucumber
- 1 medium-sized avocado

- 2 cups sliced fresh strawberries
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 2 tbsp. vegetable oil
- 4 tsp. sugar
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 2 medium-sized cantaloupes

Peel the cucumber, quarter it lengthwise, remove the seeds with a small spoon and discard, and slice the cucumber quarters thinly. Cut the avocado in half and remove the pit. Peel it and cut it in medium dice. Combine the cucumber, avocado, and strawberries in a bowl and sprinkle them with the lemon juice, oil, sugar, and salt. Toss gently until everything is evenly coated with the dressing and refrigerate for an hour or so.

Cut the cantaloupes in half crosswise with a zigzag pattern: Using a sharp, pointed knife, push the point of the knife into the center of the cantaloupe, making an angled cut slightly less than 1-inch long. Pull the knife out and make another cut next to it at about a 90-degree angle. Continue around the center of the cantaloupe this way, making the cuts as even as possible, until you come all the way around. Pull the two halves apart and scoop out the seeds.

Fill the cantaloupe halves with the marinated fruit-and-vegetable mixture and chill them briefly before serving. Serves 4.

CORN AND CHEESE PUDDING
Serves 4-6

- 2 eggs
- 3 tbsp. flour
- 1/2 cup cream
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. white pepper

- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1 1/2 cups fresh-scraped corn (about 3 ears)
- 3 tbsp. butter, melted
- 3 oz. sharp Cheddar cheese, grated
- 1/4 cup finely chopped California green chilis

Beat the eggs and flour together to make a smooth paste, then beat in the cream, milk, salt, pepper, and sugar. Add the corn, melted butter, grated cheese, and chopped chilis, and stir the mixture together thoroughly.

Pour the mixture into a buttered medium-sized casserole, and place the casserole in a pan or larger casserole which is about 1/2 full of water. Bake the pudding for 50 to 55 minutes in a preheated oven at 350 degrees. It should be slightly puffed and golden on top. Serve hot.

Main dish salad is low in calories

Elegant entertaining is yours with a cool and tangy Gazpacho Shrimp Mold. It combines the Spanish favorite, vegetable-crisp Gazpacho, and succulent shrimp in a shimmering main dish salad.

Beneath the glamour is an abundance of sensible eating. The mold is high in protein (shrimp and hard-cooked egg) and low in calories (fresh vegetables in a tomato juice-broth aspic). Add crisp and crunch to the meal with shredded whole wheat wafers.

The magical summer luncheon or supper charms the eye and delights the palate.

GAZPACHO SHRIMP MOLD

- Shrimp layer:
- 1 1/4 cups water
 - 2 envelopes instant chicken-flavored broth
 - 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 - 1/4 cup lemon juice
 - 1 lb. medium shrimp, shelled, deveined and cooked or one 10-ounce pkg. frozen medium shrimp, thawed.

- Gazpacho Layer:
- 1 1/4 cups water
 - 1 envelope instant chicken-flavored broth
 - 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
 - 1 cup tomato juice
 - 1/2 cup red wine vinegar
 - 2 to 3 drops liquid hot pepper seasoning
 - 1/2 cup diced cucumber
 - 1/2 cup diced green pepper
 - 1/4 cup sliced scallions
 - 3 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
 - Lettuce leaves

Lightly oil 6 1/2 cup mold. Make shrimp layer: In medium saucepan, combine one cup water and instant broth. Sprinkle gelatin over mixture; let stand 5 minutes. Heat over very low heat, stirring constantly to dissolve. Stir in remaining water and lemon juice. Refrigerate until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white, about 20 to 30 minutes. Arrange shrimp in bottom of mold; gently spoon gelatin over shrimp. Chill 10 minutes.

PARENTS HAVE become accustomed to their children writing their own marriage ceremonies and taking editorial liberties with traditional wedding invitations.

Don and Cora Davies decided their daughter, Karen, was complicating plans for her upcoming marriage by announcing that she would make the paper for the wedding invitations. Karen is working on her master's of fine art degree at the University of South Carolina in Columbia, S.C.

On her last visit to the parental home on Sheldon Road, she spent considerable time gathering pounds of 100 percent cotton material for her recipe. Cora needed much reassurance that Karen's paper would not disintegrate in the mails, if it got wet, when it went to the printer, and when they attempted to address the envelopes.

The arrival of the invitations was awaited with some pessimism. The package was delivered last week and Karen's family viewed her work with pride and admiration. The deckle-edged invitations, response notes, and envelopes are creamy white with a lovely texture. Each envelope had been hand-glued by the bride-to-be. Cora gave it the water test and it retained its finish and shape.

To make the paper, Karen had cut approximately 10 pounds of cotton "rags" into one-inch squares. She had put them into a Hollander beater in 2 1/2-pound batches for anywhere from 1 1/2-3 hours to beat them to a pulp. The fibers were broken down to a silky pulp. She had eight five-gallon buckets of the stuff. The remainder of the process is beyond my ken. She added water and sizing and put it in a vat, pulled it, drained it, couched it, pressed it, and dried it.

Karen said she would never do it again. But she, too, is pleased with the result. Karen and Bill Dooley will be married later this summer. Their wedding invitations will be keepsakes.

LILLIAN BANTA and Sarah Hamblin had high scores at the July 9 party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center. There were eight tables in play.

RECEIVED the neatest belated birthday gift from the author, herself.

"Upper Peninsula Tidbits" by Jackie Dalton Troutman of Plymouth Township is a delightful little booklet. It is little — about 4x5 1/2 inches — but it contains a host of historical facts about the UP, great photographs, and ethnic recipes.

The recipes are favorites of the peoples who settled the peninsula north of the straits. There are Cornish Pasties, venison, Planked Whitefish, Finnish Nisu, Buckwheat Cakes, and wild Thimbleberry Jam. There also are directions for making that UP favorite, Egg Coffee.

"Upper Peninsula Tidbits" was written and printed here but it has all the flavor of the northern peninsula. It comes with a mailing envelope made of the same fine quality paper and would make the perfect little gift or souvenir.

It was hot off the press last Friday so I'm not quite sure where they are available. Wiltse's Pharmacy has a few copies.

WAYNE Willingham, who has been a featured entertainer at the Crow's Nest is scheduled to appear at the Holly Hotel in Holly Sept. 3-5 — labor Day weekend.

CONGRATULATIONS to Dennis Campbell who has his cable television Channel 13 on the air.

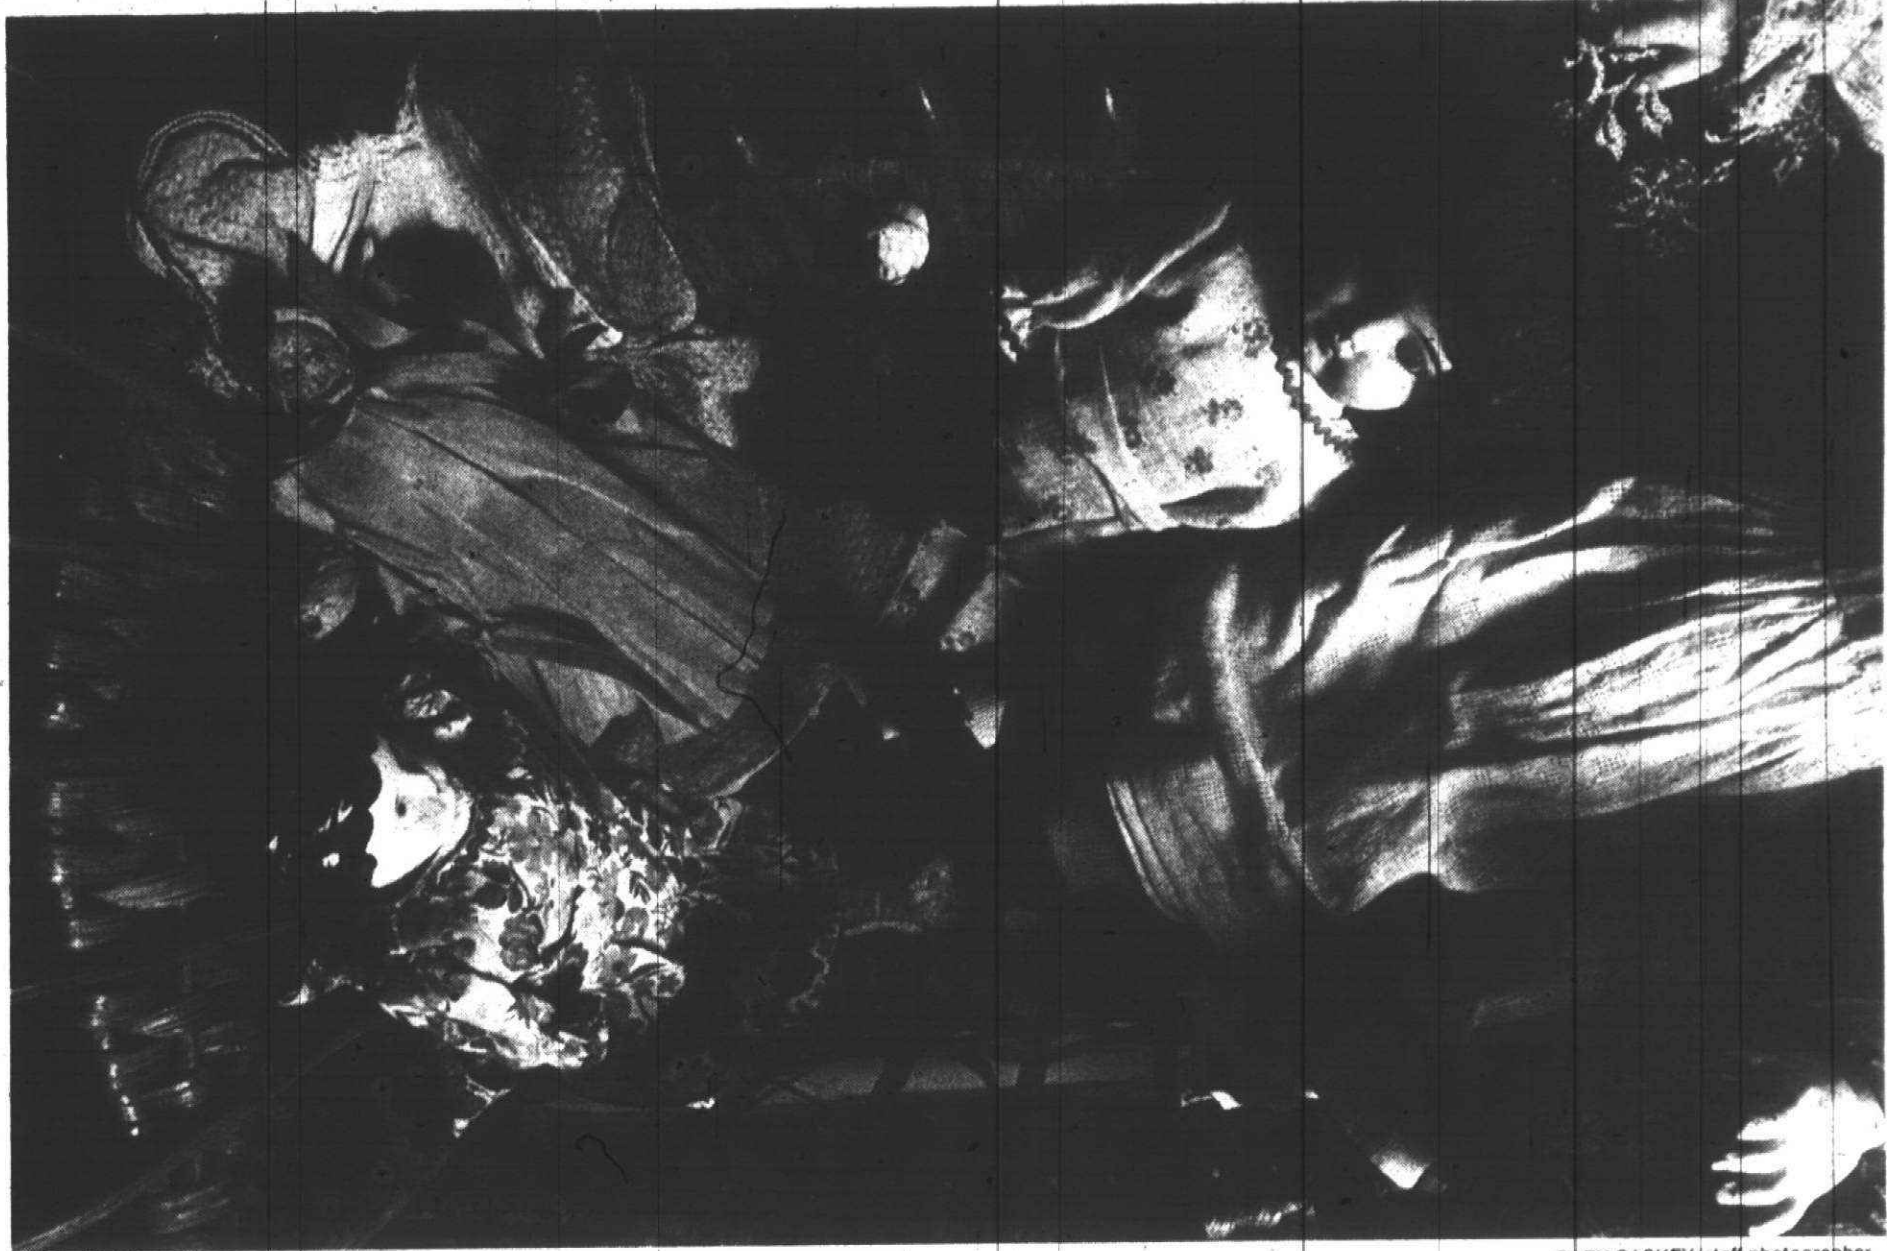

Pat Touhey claims Dennis is a combination Bill Bonds and Mike Douglas on his interview program. To me, he sounds like Dennis Campbell and he does a fine job. Guess that's the type of chitchat you can expect when a hometown boy takes to the airwaves.

DON'T FORGET the Growth Works 100-mile run this Thursday. Staffers are running the 100 miles as a fund-raiser. It will be sort of a relay with the same people taking over and running several one-mile stints.

The number to call to make a pledge is 455-4095. The center is celebrating its 10th anniversary and proceeds will go to the building fund.

Recent bequests

Recent bequests to the Plymouth Historical Museum are from the estate of the late Maude Payne. She designated that a wicker doll carriage from the turn of the century, a French jointed doll and four others be given to the museum. Among them was an unusual handmade doll with a peanut head and hands (upper left).

Family Protection

Catch-all bill given slim chance to pass

By Sherry Kahan staff writer

A bill that implies a woman's place is in the home and a man's home is his castle has rated headlines and stirred controversy.

It won't pass, say two Michigan congressmen, Republican Carl Pursell of Plymouth and Democrat William Brodhead of Detroit.

Maybe some of it should, says Elaine Donnelly of Livonia, an active opponent of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment.

The legislation, known as the Family Protection Bill, includes a controversial section about how women should be portrayed in school books, keeps the federal government from interfering in spouse abuse and addresses a wide range of issues relating to women, families and taxes.

Pursell and Brodhead both think a major split among conservative politicians will keep the bill from becoming law.

But Mrs. Donnelly favors passage sections of the bill that deal with tax benefits for family. She also has declared that the section about the textbook portrayal of women has been misinterpreted.

"I THINK they will have a real fight in the conservative movement over this bill," Pursell said from his Washington office.

"I wouldn't say, however, that it doesn't have a chance. With conservatives split, you might get a scaled-down version."

Calling the 66-page bill "a ridiculous piece of legislation," Brodhead said that it was trying to do too many things.

"The bill already has been referred to five separate committees because it is a grab bag of stuff," Brodhead said. "It tries to amend the National Labor Relations Act and the Internal Revenue Code, among other things, as well as the Elementary and Secondary Education Act."

"They are trying to amend a number of laws in one act."

Among matters the bill deals with are food stamps, presidential financing, allowances for enlisted men in the armed forces, private schools and a retirement program for housewives.

Because of the pressure for tax reform and other economic legislation, the bill is not a major topic in Washington, Pursell said.

"I've never even heard the president comment on it," he said.

The difference in conservative thinking on this issue was underlined when conservative columnist James Kilpatrick "blistered Laxalt," as Pursell put it, on the bill. Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nevada, is a sponsor of the bill.

Because of long hours spent on tax and economic matters, Pursell has yet "to do his homework" on details of the suggested legislation, he said.

"However, I would have some concern with government interference in the family," he said.

ALSO COMMENTING on the family bill, in addition to Mrs. Donnelly, was Debbie Benjamin, director of First

'I think they will have a real fight in the conservative movement over this bill, I wouldn't say, however, that it doesn't have chance. With conservatives split, you might get a scaled down version.'

— U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell

Step. First Step is the western Wayne County agency that deals with domestic violence. Others commenting were Clare Howell, instructional material service coordinator for the Livonia schools, and Yolanda Vitale, director of the Displaced Homemakers Service Center in John Glenn High School in Westland.

Probably the most debated section is the one which takes up the interpretation of women in school materials.

The bill states: "No funds authorized under any applicable program or any provision of federal law shall be used to secure or promote education materials or studies relating to the preparation of education materials if such materials do not reflect a balance between the status role of men and women, do not reflect different ways in which women and men live and do not contribute to the American way of life as it has been historically understood."

One widely quoted summary of that portion said it meant federal money should be denied schools if education material "denigrates the role of women as it has been historically understood."

Mrs. Donnelly disagreed, saying the wording means educational material should reflect a balance in women's roles.

"They shouldn't show all women as doctors or all women as homemakers," she said. "Books should reflect that men as well as women take care of children. This section says that books should represent a balance. School books should reflect reality, not someone's idealized version of it."

A TEXAS school board was denied the chance to buy a textbook because in a few of its pictures women were wearing aprons, according to Sen. Roger Jepsen, R-Iowa, she said.

"For federal money to be used to show only feminist values in textbooks is as wrong as reflecting only traditional values. A balance is needed, and that's what the bill calls for," Mrs. Donnelly added.

Mrs. Howell, who helps choose books for the Livonia School District libraries, said her district aims to use "materials that treat women fairly."

"We don't always want women pictured as housewives, or in roles typical of women such as nurses, teachers and secretaries," she said.

"We also look for them as engineers, doctors and dentists. In today's world, that is a more honest reflection of what women are really about."

"We don't want to play down the role of the housewife. But we are making a real effort to present a real picture of what women are doing in society today."

THE CINDERELLA myth that the prince will come and support a woman all her life has caused many problems for her clients, said Ms. Vitale. She is director of a center that helps displaced homemakers win self-confidence, training and eventually a job.

"These women suddenly found it necessary to leave the home for work because of death, separation or divorce. And they were unprepared."

"For textbooks to portray women in their historical or stereotypical role as only wives and mothers would be misleading to today's youth," she said.

"The reality of our society is that approximately 41 percent of the labor force consists of women. The majority of them work because of economic necessity."

Removing the federal government from any role against spouse abuse would perpetuate "the age-old attitude that spouse abuse is OK," Ms. Benjamin said.

"It will also say that society's government has no business interfering in what happens behind closed doors," she continued. "That will perpetuate the horrors of spouse abuse and child abuse."

LIKE BRODHEAD, Mrs. Donnelly thinks that too much was put in the Family Protection Bill. But she would like to see certain sections become law. One involves a savings plan whereby $2,500 a year could be deposited, tax-exempt, to pay for a child's education.

She also favors a section that allows a corporation to deduct from its taxes its contributions to an employer-employee day care facility.

She likes tax exemptions for child-birth or adoptions. Married couples, under the bill, would receive an additional $1,000 exemption the year a child is born or adopted.

The exemption increases to $3,000 if the child is born handicapped, or if the adopted child is handicapped, over 6 or biracial. Mrs. Donnelly approves the latter words because those children "are hard to place."

"It would be better if some sections like these could be separated out from the bill. It doesn't have to be passed as a whole."

Scholarship winner

Mary Martin (left) of Cherylawn Street in Canton Township received a scholarship grant of $250 from Kathleen Abbate, administrator of the Beverly Manor Convalescent Center of Novi. Miss Martin is a second-year nursing student at Schoolcraft College. The scholarships, based on academic standing and need, are the first of what are scheduled to become annual awards by the center.

Rental gallery acquires Quenna Stovall painting

The Arts Council Rental Gallery recently acquired a painting by an American folk artist who painted scenes from rural life in her native Virginia hills.

The signed reproduction by Quenna Stovall, late of Richmond, Va., is titled "End of the Line." It depicts the gathering crowd on a farm lawn before an auction sale begins.

Mrs. Stovall began her painting career when she was in her early 60s. In the next 30 years she turned out more than 70 works. She was recognized for her visual record of the American folk scene by a showing of her paintings at the Abbie Aldrich Rockefeller Folk Art Museum in Williamsburg, Va.

Public television prepared a documentary on her accomplishments which was shown recently on Channel 56.

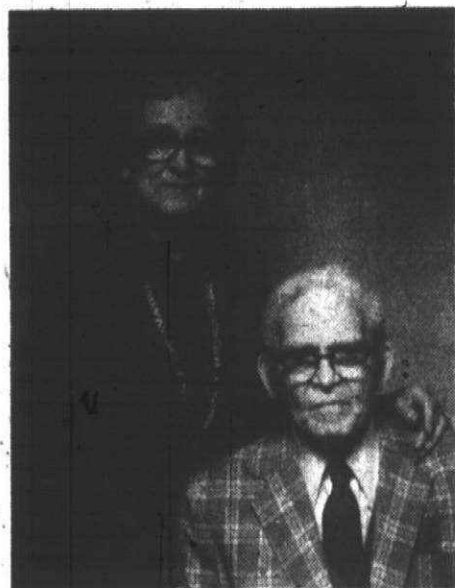

The new addition to the Plymouth Community Arts Council rental gallery joins a collection of several hundred originals and reproductions offered to the community for nominal rental fees. The gallery is on the second floor of the Dunning-Hough Library on Main Street, Plymouth, and is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Wednesdays.

the movies

Everybody loves the good-time fun of 'Muppet Caper'

Face it. The Muppets are a loveable bunch, whatever they do. Their adventures may not be as novel or exciting as one would hope, but they make up in spirit what they lack in script.

This is true especially of "The Great Muppet Caper" (G). In their second film, Kermit the Frog, Fozzie Bear and Gonzo are investigative reporters (Gonzo is a photographer) on the trail of jewel thieves.

The trail leads them from Manhattan to London where they land with a splash, having been tossed out of the airplane into a pond.

Since they never really are in danger, as Kermit was in the first Muppet movie, there is very little in the way of suspense or thrills. What "The Great Muppet Caper" does have to offer, however, is a great deal of fun and laughter with snappy lines, elaborate musical numbers and, of course, romance.

The English setting serves to sharpen the humor by providing a haughty foil to the Muppets' simple charms, as they get in and out of one scrape after another.

Diana Rigg is the haughtiest of these foils. She appears as Lady Holiday, London's leading high-fashion designer — in startling contrast is Miss Piggy, who comes to Lady Holiday seeking a job as a model. Miss Piggy's fondest dream (would you believe?) is to cram her flabby limbs into couture clothes.

Lady Holiday hires her as a receptionist. It's a start, a toehold up the fashion-industry ladder and a chance to meet important people. Her first day on the job she meets that dashing fellow Kermit, and it's love at first sight for both of them.

True love doesn't run smooth for Muppets or humans. Kermit and Miss Piggy have their problems, one of whom is Lady Holiday's wastrel brother Nicky (Charles Grodin). A rival for Miss Piggy's affection, he also is involved with the gang of thieves who are after Lady Holiday's fabulous gem, the Baseball Diamond.

He first sees Miss Piggy at an elegant supper club where he dances with her in a lavish musical number and becomes her ardent admirer. To get some idea of how lavish and extravagant this musical number is, imagine Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers teamed up with Busby Berkeley's choreography and an Esther Williams aquatic extravaganza.

The movie also has its simpler scenes, and they are equally, if not more, effective. The cameo appearances of guest stars are especially well-conceived.

John Cleese (of "Monty Python" and "Fawlty Towers") does a clever tongue-in-cheek segment as an upper-class gentleman carrying on a relentlessly boring conversation about the weather.

Robert Morley, Peter Ustinov, Jack Warden and even Oscar from "Sesame Street" surface briefly in "The Great Muppet Caper," and like everyone else in this movie, they all appear to be enjoying themselves.

Watching them or working with them, the Muppets make people feel good.

Diana Rigg is Lady Holiday, whose wastrel brother, Nicky, wants to steal the Baseball Diamond, a gem she owns.

THE CANNONBALL RUN (PG). Burt Reynolds is on the road again, challenging the speed limits. With him are Roger Moore, Dom DeLuise and Farrah Fawcett.

CHEECH AND CHONG'S NICE DREAMS (R). What else, man, but dope? That's what Cheech and Chong are all about.

CLASH OF THE TITANS (PG). Animation and live action combine in the adventures of the Greek hero Perseus, son of Zeus, who must overcome many powerful monsters in order to win the hand of the beautiful Andromeda.

'Barnum' opening at Fisher Theatre

"Barnum," the musical about P.T. Barnum, opens Friday for a six-week run through Aug. 22 at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit.

Stacy Keach stars in the touring production, which is the final attraction on the current Fisher Playgroup Subscription Series. "Barnum" will be presented at Wednesday and Saturday matinees and the usual Tuesday-Sunday evening performances. For ticket information call 872-1000.

Keach's career has included a Tony nomination and a Drama Desk Award for his performance in "Indians," a New York Critics Poll Award and a Vernon Rice Award for "A Long Day's Journey into Night," and Obie for "MacBird."

His films include "The Long Riders," "Conduct Unbecoming," "The Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean," "The New Centurions," "Fat City" and "Gray Lady Down." He played Sgt. Stedanko in "Up in Smoke" and is currently repeating this role in the film "Nice Dreams."

For a man who has played Hamlet three times, the title role in the musical "Barnum" is a real change of pace.

Catherine Gaines plays Jenny Lind, Keach's love interest in the musical.

"BARNUM" was written by Mark Bramble, who also wrote the book of "42nd Street" (with Michael Stewart). "Barnum" tells the story of Phineas Taylor Barnum, who believed "there's a sucker born every minute." With that theory Barnum went on to create museums filled with freaks and circus acts, and in doing so, created his own legend.

One of the highlights of the musical is a high-wire walk Keach must make while singing a song to his lady love below.

Joe Layton directed the production. He has won three Tony Awards, for "George M!" "No Strings" and "Greenwillow." The music and lyrics are by Cy Coleman and Michael Stewart. Coleman also has a colorful of awards: a Tony for "On the Twentieth Century" and a Drama Desk Award and Cue's Golden Apple Award.

Mechanical failure ruled out in crash

Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) investigators last week failed to find any mechanical failures which would have affected the Cessna single-engine airplane which crash-landed in Plymouth Township June 19.

"We looked into the propeller but couldn't find any sign of a malfunction," said FAA investigator Vince Scarpuzza. He said federal officials will continue to investigate to try to determine the cause of the accident.

Scarpuzza said the National Transportation Safety Board will interview the pilot. The single-engine plane was being piloted away from Mettetal Airport in Canton Township when it returned to the landing area and crashed with four persons aboard. Injured were the pilot, Stephen Jakabowski, an airplane broker from Lighthouse Pointe, Fla., his wife and the couple's two children.

Mrs. Jakabowski was treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor for three days and was released. The FAA has been looking into the crash since the accident.

The pilot said after the crash that he had a power failure in the propeller system.

The Jakabowski had been visiting friends in the Detroit area and had left the airport intending to fly first to the Pontiac Airport and then on to Charlevoix.

Jakabowski had intended to show the airplane to a prospective buyer at the Pontiac Airport, investigators said.

Pontoons on the sea-air plan were credited with taking most of the impact when the plane came down at an estimated 50 mph. Officials said this helped limit injuries.

Announcements for Brevities should be submitted by noon Monday for publication in the Thursday paper and by noon Thursday for publication in the Monday paper. Bring in or mail to the Observer at 461 S. Main, Plymouth 48170. Forms are available upon request.

Stroll shocks neighbor

Canton police are slightly bemused about an incident late last week in which a 17-year-old sleepwalker terrified his neighbors on Brunswick Drive.

According to Police Lt. Larry Stewart, the episode began about 3 a.m. Friday, when a Brunswick Drive woman woke up and saw a man trying to pry open a screen in her bedroom.

The woman screamed, waking her husband. The husband went to the window to investigate, and recognized his 17-year-old neighbor outside.

ACCORDING TO Stewart, the youth was wearing a down-filled jacket and bib overalls, and seemed to be dazed.

● DAY CAMP

Summer day camp is held at Starkweather School and at the Salvation Army Building Monday-Friday. The Starkweather group meets 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., and the Salvation Army group meets 3-5:45 p.m. The camps are geared for working parents of children in grades 1-5. Contact the Plymouth Community Family YMCA for more information at 453-2904.

The husband and the youth "had a little tug of war over the screen." The youth subsequently stripped down to his underwear, walked across the street and went into his own home.

Police were summoned. When officers arrived, the youth's grandmother told them her grandson was sleeping.

Investigation indicated the 17-year-old has a history of sleepwalking. Police speculate he got dressed and went outside, still sleeping.

"In my 15 years of police work, I've never run across one of these cases," said Stewart. "He didn't have the foggiest idea of what was going on." No charges were filed.

One more day! Open goes to playoff

By Dennis O'Connor
staff writer

Arnold Palmer would be in London, England, right now. Billy Casper would be teaching 146 children at his golf camp in San Diego. And little-known Bob Stone would be back in his pro shop at the Crackerneck Golf Club in Independence, Mo.

Instead, these three golfers are back on the rolling fairways of Oakland Hills Country Club, playing in an 18-hole playoff to decide the championship of the second annual United States Senior Open.

The threesome, which was scheduled to tee off at 10 a.m. today, finished with identical 289 scores — nine shots over par on the 6,798-yard, par-70 championship South Course in Bloomfield Township.

There is $45,172 of the $150,000 prize money at stake in this playoff. The winner gets $26,000, the runner-up grabs $11,836 and the third-place finisher nets $7,336.

A sudden-death playoff will start at hole No. 1 in case of a tie after the extra round. Admission is $12 for the playoff round and parking is $3 on the North Course across the street.

PALMER, CASPER and Art Wall, who finished fourth at 290, started Sunday's final round tied for first place at six over par. Stone was one shot back.

As it turned out, a two-over-par 72 would have won the tourney, but the slippery greens and tight fairways at Oakland Hills kept the contenders frustrated all day.

The 10,560 fans who thronged out for Sunday's final round saw a thrilling finish.

Stone, 51, playing ahead of Casper and Palmer, bogeyed both the 17th and 18th hole to finish at 289. He three-putted both greens.

Bob Stone, an obscure club pro from Missouri, battles the big boys — Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper — for the Open title.

Billy Casper, 50, the youngest competitor at the Open, uses some body English on a putt.

Casper, 50, the youngest player in the 50-and-over event, parred the last three holes to finish at 289. He missed a 30-foot, birdie putt on the 18th that would have won the title. His putt slid five feet past the hole and he settled for par.

Palmer, 51, who shot a tournament-low 68 (two-under-par) on Saturday, had the best chance at winning the event.

Standing eight over par, Palmer hit a strong tee shot on 18, but followed it with a fat three-iron into the front bunker. He blasted out of the sand 10 feet from the pin, but missed the winning par putt.

"I'M A LITTLE disappointed that I didn't play the last hole well after my tee shot," said Palmer, whose plans to compete in this week's British Open were delayed one day.

"My putting was really poor. I had some wishy-washy putts. I felt after yesterday (Saturday) it would be better. I was leaving a lot of putts short. I just didn't have the zip in my putts that I had yesterday (Saturday)."

Casper, who defeated Palmer in a playoff to win the 1966 U.S. Open, was excited about a rematch with his rival 15 years later.

"It seems like we've gone through this before," the Springville, Utah, native said with a smile. "I feel very fortunate to be here. I didn't think 73 would be here."

Casper also seemed confident about his putting on the 18th green.

"I was going for it," Casper said of the 30-foot birdie attempt on the final hole. "I hit it a hair too far and it rolled to the left."

"I was looking at that five- or six-footer (for par), and I kept saying, 'Now take it easy. You've worked hard to get here.'"

"And after Arnold's shot (the missed 10-footer for par), I knew I had to get it, and I sunk it in the middle of the hole."

Stone is a relative unknown to the likes of a Palmer or a Casper. His biggest check on the tour is $8,000. He was surprisingly calm about his 18-hole encounter with the two gallery favorites.

"Right now, it's just another day of golf," said Stone, who had to qualify for this event. "It'll be another battle tomorrow (Monday)."

"So far, I haven't been nervous. I probably will be more tomorrow, but they've (Palmer and Casper) got to get it in the hole just like me."

"I'm just as strong as they are."

OAKLAND HILLS and United States Golf Association (USGA) officials must be smiling about this second U.S. Senior Open. And television stations must be crying.

A total of 40,010 golf fans came to Bloomfield Township for the seven-day event which began Monday with the first of three practice rounds.

That's a far cry from the disaster at the Winged Foot Golf Club in Mamaronek, N.Y., last year where the inaugural event drew slightly more than a 4,000-fan total. Of course, lowering the senior circuit age limit from 55 to 50 helped the popularity of the event.

ROBERT De VICENZO, last year's champion, became ill and didn't come to Oakland Hills to defend his crown.

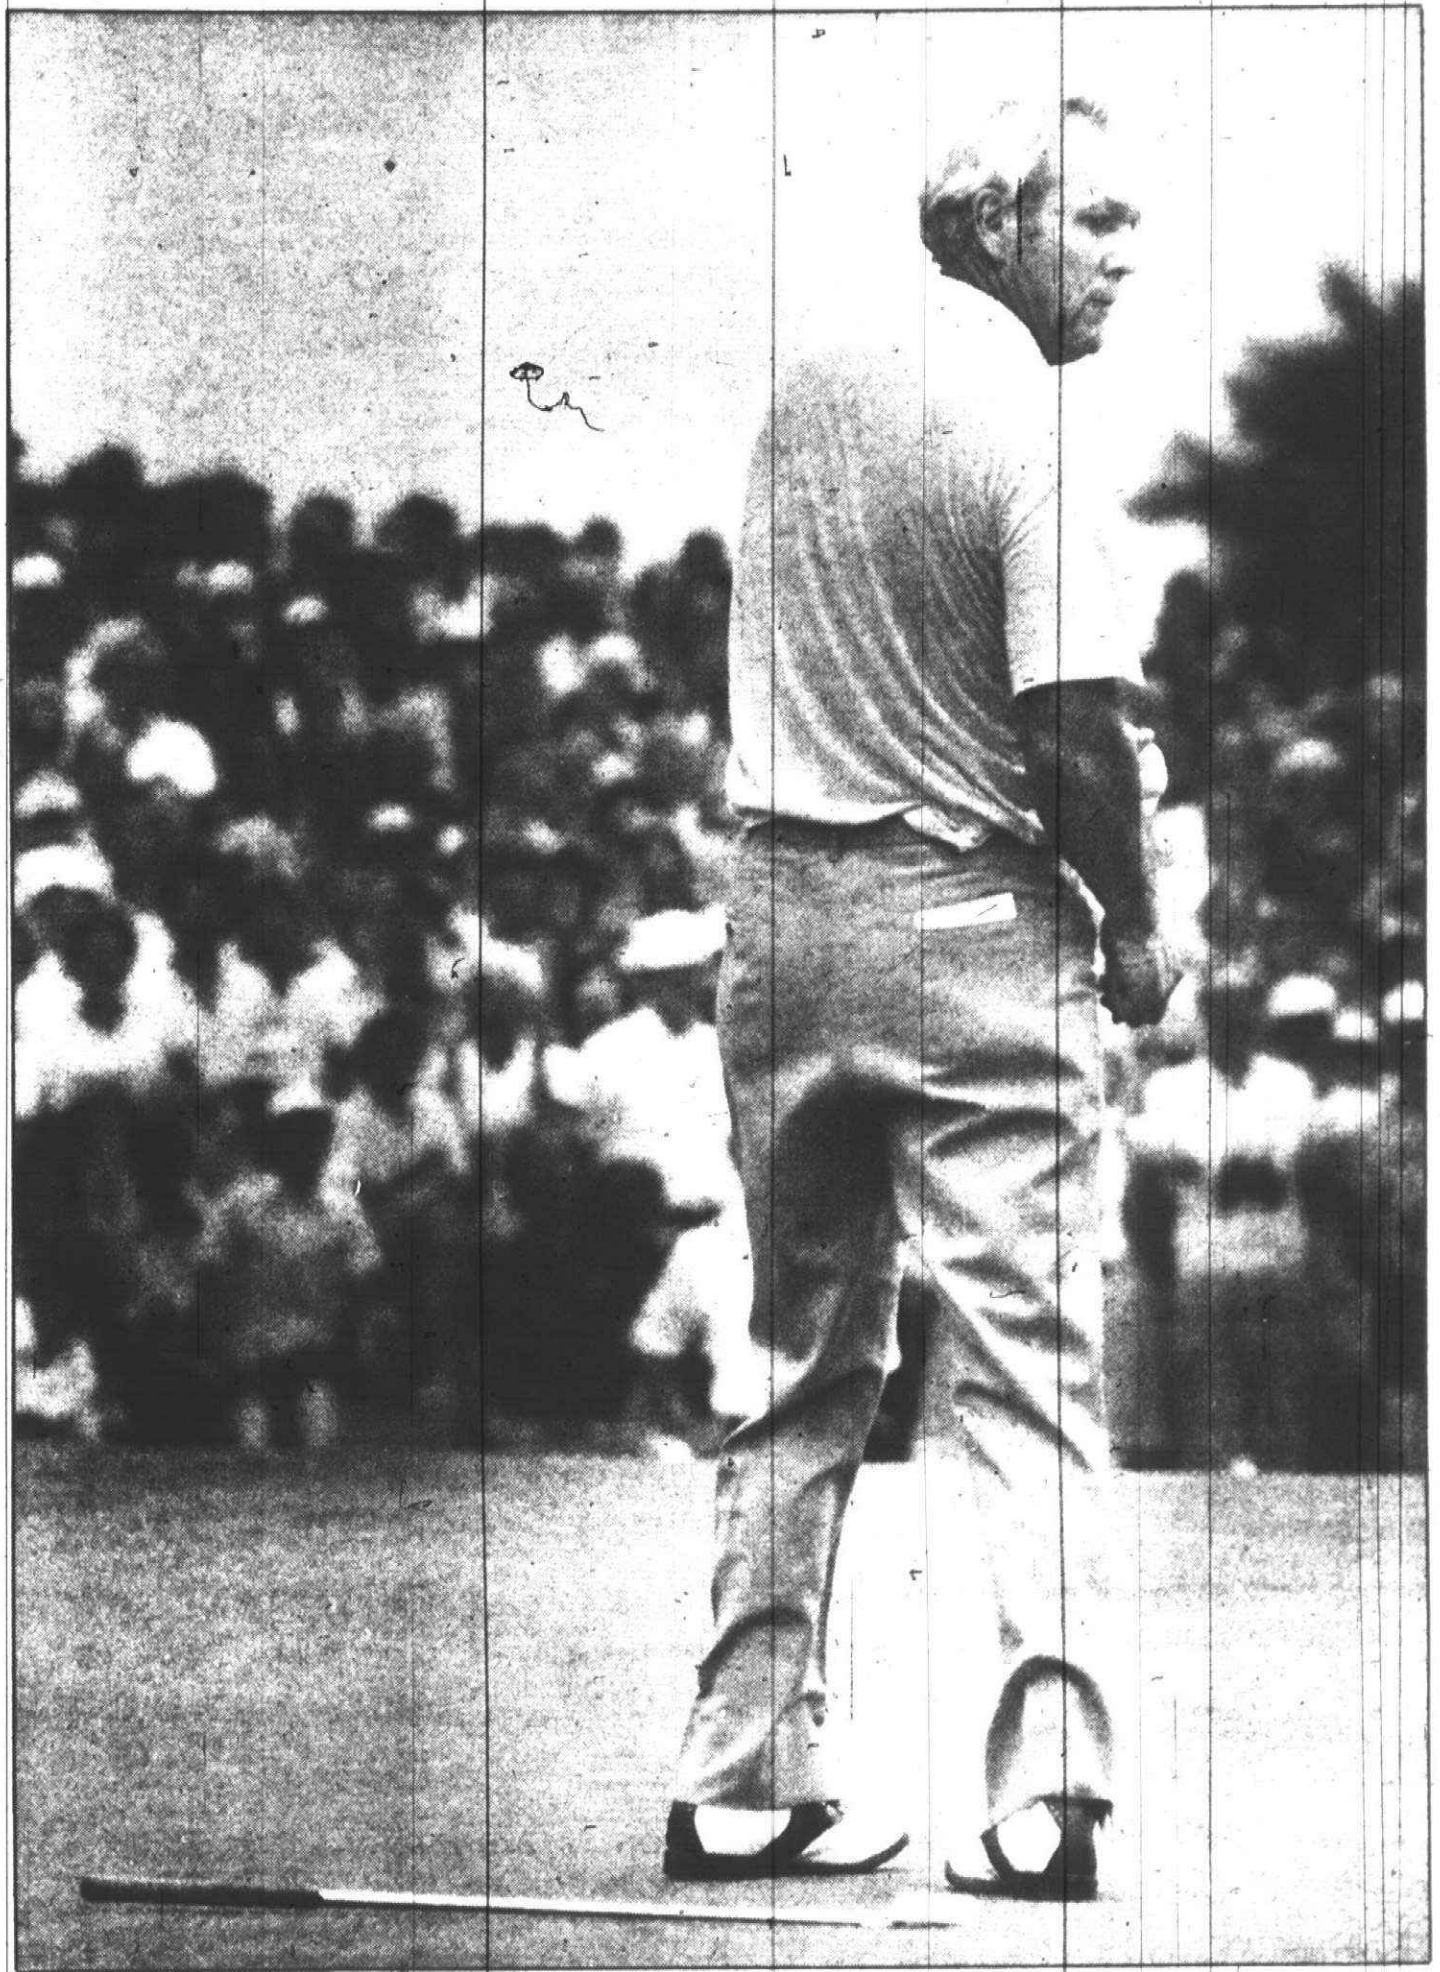

Wall, 57, the eighth-leading money winner on the senior tour, was tied with Casper, Palmer and Stone at seven-over-par after 15 holes. He earned $6,736 fourth-place finish.

Gene Littler, the seniors' leading money winner with $108,350, placed fifth at 292.

Miller Barber finished sixth (293), and Bob Goalby, who carved identical rounds of 71 to take the lead after two rounds, finished seventh at 294. Goalby led most of the third round, until a double bogey on the par-three, 210-yard No. 9 and a triple bogey on long par-four, 448-yard No. 14 put him out of contention.

Mike Souchak, the host pro at Oakland Hills in the late 1960s, shot a final-round score of 69 — the only other sub-par round beside's Palmer's fashionable 68 on Saturday.

A two-round score of 154 (14-over-par) made the cut on Friday. Fifteen of the 150-man field survived the cut — six were amateurs.

Arnie Palmer looks in disbelief as he misses the cup on the 18th green. The missed putt cost him the outright crown during regulation play. Palmer, 51, joins Billy Casper and little-known Bob Stone in an 18-hole playoff today. The three seniors finished the four-round U.S. Senior Open with identical 289 scores — nine over par. The first-place prize-money in the $150,000 tourney is $26,000. More than 40,000 people visited Oakland Hills during the seven-day event.

Golfers entertain appreciative gallery

By Doug Funke
staff writer

All of the competitors were at least 50 years of age, but that certainly didn't mean that the younger set was not interested in watching the exploits of some golfing greats out of the past.

They came out Sunday — all 10,560 spectators, many of whom were much younger than the players — to cheer for Arnie.

They also came to gawk at such notables as Billy Casper, Sam Snead and Gene Littler and, in some cases, just to enjoy an afternoon in the sun on one of the most beautiful golf courses in the United States.

They walked over the grounds with golf shoes, beat-up sneakers, fancy running shoes, sandals and bare feet.

Others didn't do much walking. They arrived early, picked out a spots like those under the willow trees on the picturesque 16th hole, and set up camp for the day.

There appeared to be something for everyone.

Several young people, not even born when many of the tournament participants first started on the professional tour, perched on the roof of a shelter near the 13th green in an effort to better see the unfolding action.

A Frisbee was up there with them. There were all kinds of shouts of encouragement accompanied by applause and whistles.

"Come on Art (Wall). Run her in, buddy."

"Go get 'em, Arnie."
"Start your charge now, Miller (Barber)."

AT LEAST half of the gallery appeared to be in their 30s or younger.

"I attribute it to the fact that they love the game and some of the names they've heard about in history. I think that's part of it," said Al Mengert, host professional at Oakland Hills.

"It's a fact that there's no baseball on now and it's also a fact that maybe some parents want to bring their kids out. It's a beautiful pairing (Palmer and Casper) today, so some dads said 'you've got to come out and see these two guys,'" he said.

"I think Palmer is an outstanding draw. His name is so synonymous with golf," Mengert added.

"Palmer is a legend and Casper is a legend. I wish I could stroke the ball half as good as they do," said Gary Pike, a 25-year-old Detroit who served as a marshal during the tournament.

"When you get guys playing as well as they do as consistently, it's unreal."

Gerhard Senenstein, a 26-year-old student at the University of Toledo, was writing a class paper on the tournament.

"I think they hit 'em pretty good," he said. "It's good golf — not bad at all. You can learn a lot watching these guys hit the ball."

Jim Gramann from Madison Heights who admittedly is more interested in tennis than golf, accompanied his father-in-law to the tournament. What most impressed the 28-year-old?

"The precision with which they're making shots. The skill is nice to watch," he said.

And so it went. The tremendous crowd crammed around the 18th green, straining for just a glimpse of the exciting finish.

Some started making a bee line to the first hole at the end, wrongly anticipating a sudden-death playoff.

Who said people would never be turned on by a golf tournament limited to men at least 50 years of age?

Host pro smiles

Al Mengert, head professional at Oakland Hills Country Club, accomplished two of the four goals he set for himself prior to the U.S. Senior Open.

"I wanted to first qualify, second make the cut, third break 300 and fourth hopefully get in the top 10," he said.

The personable Birmingham resident made good on the first half of his plan of action. However, with rounds of 75, 75, 79 and a closing 76 Sunday, he came in at 305, which was good enough only for a tie for 32nd place.

Mengert said that his major problems originated with his driver. He said that he missed the fairway on 28 of the 56 holes where he used the driver from the tee.

Mengert also said that his lack of tournament competition in the past eight months also hampered his confidence, which subsequently hurt his game.

Mike Souchak, head pro at Oakland Hills from 1967 through 1972, didn't do all that badly on his old stomping grounds.

He finished 11th overall. His round of 69 Sunday was the only other round under par during the entire tournament other than the 68 carded by Palmer Saturday.

George Bayer, the pro at the Detroit Golf Club, was in second place midway through the tournament, but finished 13th with a score of 300.

G. Peter Smith from Birmingham, John Williams of Orchard Lake, and Tom Rex of Franklin Village, all failed to survive the cut after 36 holes.

Most of the Sunday crowd jammed around the 18th green to see the exciting finish.

Hail unto Caesars! Canton bats boom

Canton Caesars continued its hot play in the Connie Mack Baseball League with a 10-4 triumph Tuesday over Redford Union.

Coach Fred Crissey's team is now 13-0 in league play.

Dan Funkhouser, who hurled the first three innings and allowed all four runs, was the winning pitcher. Dave Malek and Dan Smith each pitched an inning in a game called after five because of the league mercy rule.

Kim Karhu was the losing pitcher. Centerfielder Keith Stone, who is batting .576 this summer, went 2-for-2 and drove in two runs.

Other Canton players with two hits included Jeff Stemberger, Jeff Cousino and Dan Smith. Smith also had had three RBIs.

"We're hitting the ball well," said Crissey. "We don't have any starter hitting less than .350."

In an earlier double-header, Canton swept Southfield, 11-0 and 14-0.

The first game was called after six innings as Todd Bergman, who hurled the first four innings, and Malek, combined on a no-hitter.

In the second game, Kevin Shaw and Smith combined on a no-hit effort for five innings.

SALEM DIPONIO 7
WAYNE 2

Dan Carlson and Dave Haut each hit a two-run homer to lift Salem DiPonio to a 7-2 Mickey Mantle League baseball victory over Wayne Wednesday.

Rick Berberet, DiPonio's top pitcher of late, allowed only one run over the first four innings to pick up the win. Haut, who homered in the third inning, pitched two innings and gave up one run. Barry McNamara retired Wayne in order in the seventh inning.

"Berberet has been a pleasant surprise," said DiPonio manager Joe Carlson. "He has good control and a good breaking pitch."

Carlson, whose fifth-inning homer cleared the centerfield fence, drove in McNamara, who had tripled, with the game's first run back in the second inning.

The win increased Salem's league record to 9-3-1.

WESTLAND KOUFAX 10
PLYMOUTH COMPUWARE 0
Plymouth Compuware fell to 3-11 in the Sandy Koufax Baseball League after losing Thursday, 10-0, against Westland.

Duane Bennett collected Compuware's only hit, a single up the middle in the first inning.

In a game earlier in the week, Southfield and Compuware tied, 6-6, in a game called in the seventh inning because of darkness.

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own... but it takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item... and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers... so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood... but you'll want a bigger crowd than that... so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

One more thing... get up early the day of your sale! When people read about a Garage Sale in Classified, they shop early.

Have fun with your little business adventure!
