Three Korean-born sisters — Susan, Diana and Sarah — have found a new family in the Canton Township home of Alan and Linda Minsterman.

A growing family

3 little sisters find new home in America

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

It's Christmas in July for Alan and Linda Minsterman of Canton — new adoptive parents for three Korean-born sisters.

The girls are aged 2, 3 and 5. They arrived during the Fourth of July weekend after a 40-hour plane trip from Korea, where they had lived in an orphanage.

The last couple of weeks have been a whirlwind for the Minstermans — who have no other children — and their new daughters.

There have been getting-acquainted sessions with family and neighbors, an "adoption shower" with gifts of clothes and toys, visits to doctors, dentists and school.

Mrs. Minsterman, 31, feels like she's in a dream. She bubbles with excitement over her ready-made family.

"IN A WAY, I can't believe they're here," said Mrs. Minsterman in her Proctor Road home.

"I guess I'll calm down eventually," she added. "It's like Christmas, and I have three new dolls with new dresses.

"(The girls) are so soft and warm," she continued. "They need cuddling."

Minsterman, also 31, took a few days off work from his job as an electrical engineer for Ford Motor Co. But he laughingly admitted relief at being able to go back to work after several hectic days.

"It's quite a change — not only one (child), but three," said Minsterman. "They're well-behaved and they're trying to learn English.

"They aim to please," he added. "They're healthy (and) we're quite fortunate."

THE Minstermans have named the oldest girl Diana Lynn. She will be 6 in September and is very protective of her younger sisters.

Susan Florence, the middle girl, will be 4 on Aug. 15. She smiles and laughs easily.

"The baby, Sarah Elizabeth, is a clown-and-a-half," said Mrs. Minsterman. "She's a ham."

Linda Minsterman cuddles her new daughter, Sarah.

The couple, who moved from Pennsylvania to Canton in 1976, are especially excited because they have wanted a family for some time.

They married in 1972, and two years later Mrs. Minsterman was treated for cancer. Doctors advised her to wait five years before trying to get pregnant.

After the five years passed, Mrs. Minsterman didn't conceive, so the couple decided to adopt. They opted for a foreign adoption largely because they felt there would be greater opportunity for a younger child, said Mrs. Minsterman.

They applied to the foreign adoption branch of the Michigan Department of Social Services, which works with international agencies.

They agreed to take a multiple placement and, in April, were approved for adoption of the three Korean sisters, who had been living in an orphanage in Seoul.

TOTAL COST of the adoption, including fees and airline fares, was about $5,000, said Mrs. Minsterman. Adoption becomes final in a year.

The three girls have overcome their initial fear of riding in the family car, and are beginning to adjust to American food. Mrs. Minsterman is learning to prepare a few Korean dishes, including cabbage with a special hot pepper sauce.

"By (the second day) they had adjusted to the fact that we were their mom and dad," said Mrs. Minsterman. "When we go out, they're usually holding hands."

A Korean-born friend, Kim Francis, has been helping out as an interpreter, said Mrs. Minsterman.

During a recent visit, the sisters were gathered at the kitchen table, eating pieces of fresh fruit and chattering in Korean with a smattering of English.

They wore identical dresses made by Betty Shade, Mrs. Minsterman's mother, who is visiting from the Philadelphia area. The girls played with stuffed animals, sang Korean songs and marched around the house.

"This thrills me no end," said Mrs. Shade. "They were a little shy at first."

DIANA soon will begin kindergarten at Field Elementary School. Mrs. Minsterman has high praise for the support of family, friends, neighbors and a tutor at Field, who is giving English lessons to the two oldest girls.

The family also hopes the excitement will soon wear off.

Mrs. Minsterman said her daughters are "like kids everywhere.

"They sing. They get silly. They fight and play.

"Taking three (children) at once — everybody thinks (that) is amazing," added Mrs. Minsterman. "It's easy. They're easy to love."

Group endorses pilot sign plan to aid business

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

The local chapter of the League of Women Voters (LWV) is throwing its support to a request for a pilot sign plan which could aid both travelers and Canton businesses.

The LWV chapter which serves Plymouth, Canton, Northville and Novi this week will send a letter to state legislators requesting them to set up a meeting with the state Department of Highways and Transportation. The LWV is a non-partisan organization which researches issues and acts as a public forum for discussion.

Canton officials want to meet with the transportation department to discuss the possibility of erecting a prototype sign along I-275 freeway which would use business logos to tell travelers about available services in that community.

Such a sign would be a pilot project in Michigan. Aside from billboards, the only type of freeway signs permitted are "institutional," which contain pictures or words — not identifiable logos of specific businesses.

Some Canton businesses — notably Knights Inn motel and a McDonald restaurant on Michigan Avenue near I-275 — have complained that their business is being hurt by the township's strict sign ordinance. In addition, highway billboards are difficult to obtain.

"It would certainly give those highway-oriented businesses some exposure and principally let the highway travelers have some idea of the (services) in Canton," said planner Jim Kosteva, who also is a member of the LWV.

Such a sign would be "as tasteful as possible and (be) consistent with our other sign regulations," added Kosteva.

Kosteva also asked the Township Board to send a letter, endorsing the proposal.

Currently, the maximum size for free-standing signs in Canton is 18 square feet for synthetic materials and 25 square feet for natural wood. The township's planning commission is reviewing the sign ordinance as it pertains to businesses along the freeway.

Recipients of the LWV's letter are to be state Sen. William Faust and Rep. Tom Brown. Both are Westland Democrats whose districts include Canton.

ALSO SLATED to receive a letter is Rep. H. Lynn Jondahl, of East Lansing, said Kosteva. Jondahl has supported legislation to try to change highway sign regulations, added Kosteva.

Highway signs containing business logos currently aren't available in Michigan, say officials of the state highways and transportation department, which oversees guidelines.

Susan Allen, an information specialist with the highway department, said problems could arise over the choice of businesses on such a sign.

Micky Davis, supervisor of travel information for the transportation department, said a survey is being done to "find out the types of signs which would benefit motorists."

Davis said the study is being conducted by the state departments of transportation, commerce and natural resources. It is expected to be finished in late fall.

Davis said businesses which cater to travelers may apply to the state department of transportation in Lansing for permission to post notices in special areas in freeway rest stops.

Man faces charges in police standoff

A 30-year-old resident of Honeytree Apartments faces a charge of obstructing justice after a three-hour standoff last week with Canton police.

According to a police report, Carl Wilhelm of Honeytree Boulevard armed himself with a loaded, 16-gauge shotgun, threatened to kill his girlfriend, Kim Berna, and held police off for three hours before surrendering peacefully.

The incident occurred between 7:30-10:20 p.m. July 15 at the apartment complex on Joy Road near Haggerty. No one was injured.

Wilhelm faces preliminary examination on July 27 in 35th District Court on charges of obstructing justice and possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony. He stood mute at his arraignment July 16 before District Court Judge James Garber.

The court entered a plea of innocent on Wilhelm's behalf. He posted 10 percent of $10,000 bond, and was released.

Obstruction of justice is a felony which carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison upon conviction. The possession charge is a two-year felony.

OFFICER John MacDiarmid said Ms. Berna, who also lives at the Honeytree address, called police about 7:30 p.m. July 15. Ms. Berna told police she and Wilhelm had argued and that he had thrown her to the floor and threatened to kill her.

Several officers and a fire department unit remained at Honeytree location for almost three hours. MacDiarmid said Wilhelm refused to come out, and made more threats.

Officers finally pried open the door at 10:20 p.m. and found Wilhelm lying on his bed. The shotgun was unloaded and in its case.

Founders scrutinize rescue plan for school farm

Interest in keeping open the school farm recently closed by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools seems to be intensifying.

Last week, the Plymouth Rotary Club received a report from its own school farm committee, suggesting the club take on the farm as a major project.

The committee's recommendation was presented to the club's board of directors for review and may come before the general club membership for a vote this Friday.

If the board and membership agree on an outline of the plan, a formal proposal will then be presented to the school board and administration.

Originally, the Plymouth Rotary Club donated the money to start the school farm and the school district was to fund and operate the project.

Because of its role in helping start the farm, Plymouth Rotarians have maintained an interest in the school farm and now have an interest in further involvement.

Last Friday, the club's farm committee made a presentation to the Rotary board of directors. A summary of the plan also was presented to the membership for review in case the board should recommend approval at this Friday's meeting.

THE KEY TO the proposal being studied is that the Rotary Club of Plymouth would rent the farm buildings and land from the school district for $500 a month beginning March 1, 1982.

In the interim, the Rotary Club would be designated property manager and pay the district rent of $300 a month beginning Sept. 1, 1981.

If an agreement is reached with the school board, Plymouth Rotary would assume the responsibility of getting a tenant to occupy the farmhouse, and would provide animals and feed. The tenant would be responsible for the general upkeep of the buildings and grounds and for the care and feeding of the animals.

The school district would continue to have the opportunity to use the farm site for instructional purposes on a scheduled basis.

The club committee is recommending that the school district will continue to provide all required insurance coverage and Rotary would agree to cover maintenance and repair costs up to $50 upon each occurence.

The club and the school district would review equipment and machinery needs and determine specific requirements and arrangements.

Rotary would rent the land for about $35 per acre and would keep revenue from those rentals, except the club must agree to set aside a portion of the site to be used by students for garden plots and for other learning activities.

The proposal also provides that the tenant of the farmhouse would pay Rotary $100 per month in rent plus all utilities.

Rotary would provide the animals and feed while the tenant would care for the livestock.

Members of the Rotary school farm committee were Dr. Richard Kirchgatter (chairman), Floyd Lankenau, Bob Sparling, Wilfred Bunyea, Ken Hulsing, Fred Smith and Dr. Michael Homes.

Because of Rotary's longstanding interest in the farm, Dr. Kirchgatter also is a member of the school district's farm committee, which recently recommended closing of the farm for budget reasons.

The school committee presently is considering measures that would allow the farm to be better utilized as a learning station for all grade levels. An ad hoc citizens save-the-farm committee also has been formed and has met with the school committee to share ideas.

The school board has publicly stated it will not reopen the farm unless the project can be put on a self-sustaining basis with broad community support, and with learning activities for all grade levels.

Bid doubles cost of tax anticipation notes

Wayne-Westland school board members recently approved a bid from the stock brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch for the purchase of $10.6 million in tax anticipation notes at an interest rate of nearly 13 percent.

While the district annually borrows money to fund its operation until tax revenue is received, this is the first year that a brokerage firm has bid on the notes. In past years the school district has awarded bids to the National Bank of Detroit. This year, however, NBD's bid was about one-half of one percent higher than that of Merrill Lynch.

School officials pointed out that the 13 percent rate is nearly double the 5.6 percent bid last year by NBD for the sale of $10.6 million in notes. That means the district's cost of borrowing has more than doubled to more than $1 million.

John Baracy, assistant superintendent for business and finance, said that cost is still less than what it would have been without the twice yearly collection of school taxes begun this year.

"It saves us a couple hundred thousand dollars, and that means the difference between balancing (the budget) or not," he explained. "We'll be reviewing the budget daily. It's not known whether the governor will order another budget cut (in state aid)."

Chamber drops Fowl Festival

By Teri Banas
staff writer

The recently criticized Plymouth Fowl Festival has lost its sponsor.

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce took final action Thursday to drop sponsorship of the festival, an annual community event since 1977.

The festival was criticized recently by the Michigan Humane Society. The society's attorney said the organization would file suit to halt the festival's "misuse" of chickens.

The chamber's 15-member board of directors voted unanimously to discontinue the festival, which also came to be known as the Chicken Flying Contest.

"We felt there was less and less interest in an event of this kind," said chamber president Betty Stremich. "Every novelty has it's day."

The Humane Society began investigating the event after spectators lodged complaints following last year's contest. Society attorney Sienna LaRene, said the society is concerned with "stress" inflicted on chickens used in the activities.

Stremich said there were "many reasons" for dropping the contest including lack of interest and bad publicity.

"The event took an enormous amount of work and if it wasn't going to be good for the city . . . " she said.

"We wanted it to be for the benefit of the community."

One chamber member who was not present at Thursday's voting said he was disappointed with the Humane Society's approach in announcing its intention to file a lawsuit against the sponsors of the contest without notifying the chamber of its intention.

"Their approach was less than humane," he quipped.

Stremich said the soceity should have notified the chamber.

She said the Human Society's statement to the Observer "reinforced some bad publicity we were trying to avoid for the city of Plymouth."

The chamber did receive a letter from the Humane Society but not until last Thursday.

Sent by LaRene, it confirmed that the Humane Society would have sued to try to prevent the event. But the attorney also applauded the chamber for its "voluntary" action to end it.

Hudson's Bait Shop once was one of the few commercial buildings on the south side of Ford Road. The tiny store now is dwarfed by larger developments.

'Where's the water?'

Landlocked bait shop fills anglers' orders

By Robert Woodring
special writer

When your fishing buddy suggests stopping at Hudson's for crawlers when heading out to McFarland's pond, he isn't referring to a visit to Westland Center.

According to well-informed piscators — better known as anglers — the place to buy your bait is Hudson's Bait Shop. This pocket-sized, weather-beaten frame building on Ford Road west of Lilley in Canton is almost lost, as drivers speed past on the busy commercial strip.

"We get a lot of fishermen stopping for bait and asking 'Where's the water?' " said Thelma Hudson, wife of owner Charles.

Thelma and Charles have owned the tackle shop for eight years. Charles had helped his father-in-law in the auto salvage business across the road prior to purchase his present shop.

The old Ford Road salvage yard was situated where Arby's is today. Thelma recalled those early days.

"My grandmother, Anna Bronson, was a 20th-century Canton pioneer and used to own all of the land south of Warren and north of Ford, bounded by Canton Center and Lilley.

"The folks bought it for 50 cents an acre back then," she added.

SHE REMEMBERED hot summer days when she played house in the junked Model A's and crossed the little-traveled road for a nickel soda at the original bait shop.

"It was Dick's Sports Shop 39 years ago, and has changed hands several times since," Charles said.

The only thing which has changed in all those years is that the bait shop no longer sells soft drinks.

"We had to stop selling the stuff when the bottle (recycling) bill came along," Thelma said. "We didn't have enough room to store the empties."

Lack of refreshments hasn't deterred anglers from shopping at Hudson's. Besides attracting sportsmen on their way to the Huron River, Pinckney and Belleville, the family business also receives assorted phone calls from Florida.

"We frequently receive requests for our Canadian crawlers from Southerners who will either be vacationing here or have friends going there," Charles said.

"One way or another, our worms are catching fish down South," he added. The Hudsons don't even have a worm farm, but purchase their stock from a supplier in the Irish Hills.

THE DIFFERENCE between Hudson's bait and that of other shops is the personal attention the worms are getting.

"If they aren't firm and lively, I wouldn't use them for fishing myself," Charles said.

"I won't sell them to somebody else, either."

On a recent morning, a traveler from Buffalo, New York, phoned from Detroit Metropolitan airport to order some Canadian crawlers.

"He found our ad in the Yellow Pages and will be stopping here on his way back for his return flight," Charles boasted.

The chemical scare in Lakes Erie and St. Clair a few years ago encouraged a lot of area fishermen to head inland, and that's when business picked up for the little bait shop.

Charles sells 300-500 dozen crawlers a week, along with assorted red worms, leaf worms and minnows. He has thousands of crawlers on hand on delivery days twice a week.

At most shops, prices fluctuate with the weather and prices rise on hotter days. Most worms require an environment around 50 degrees. Georgia crawlers like more tepid temperatures. However, refrigerated Canadian crawlers always sell for $1.25 a dozen at Hudson's.

Garden City angler R.L. Curvin fishes at many spots, but his fishing budget is spent at Hudson's.

"I buy here and from nobody else. You get a fair shake and the man treats you right," Curvin said. "When you buy a dozen minnows, Hudson always includes extras."

ALTHOUGH THERE no signs posted, Charles does end up making emergency repairs on boat motors.

"I don't charge 'em," he said. "They always come back to spend their fishing money."

Fat-head minnows for perch and suckers are splashing into Hudson's stock at lengths of three to seven inches. When you start using longer lengths, it's more like fishing with decoys than bait.

Hudson's is licensed by the state department of natural resources to sell minnows, and is bonded to sell all sporting licenses. He's also a federal firearms dealer.

"We're busy year-round," Charles said. "If we aren't selling bait to ice fishermen, it's shotgun shells to fall hunters.

"I've come in at 5 a.m. on lots of Sundays and the lot is full," he said. Licenses are a big part of his business. A recent single month's payment to the state ran into four figures. When a sportsman stops for a license, he also ends up spending a little more on shells, or a Mepp's spinner, or a simple bobber.

"A true fisherman will come in and ask our advice as to what the local fish are taking. Then they buy what they planned on anyhow," Charles quipped. "You can't sell 'em on anything else."

THERE IS ONE drawback to the business, as Thelma sees it.

"I don't like touching worms," she said. "One time when I was alone, I was forced to, though.

"I used a paper towel to handle them, while the customer stood there, baffled."

And where is McFarland's pond, you ask?

Would a good fisherman reveal his favorite hole?

Of course not, and farmer McFarland wouldn't be too happy, either. He's got a day's farm chore of just chasing out trespassing fishermen, as it is.

But you could say that the pond has to be 18-20 feet deep, because ice fishermen claim it's never frozen solid. And you get the biggest, plumpest large-mouth bass any angler would be willing to broil or fry.

Club raises funds for kids

Bionic arms give handicapped children a big boost

It's a 20th century miracle. The $6 million dollar boy and the bionic girl have emerged from fantasy to reality.

The Variety Club of Detroit — a show business organization that helps needy kids — and the Detroit Institute for Children have combined resources to provide life-like functioning bionic hands to area girls and boys who have no hands.

The new project offers normal, productive lives to Detroit area children born with the deformity or those who have lost their limbs in an accident.

Milton London, president of Metropolitan Exhibitors Inc. of Southfield and chairman of the Variety Club project, a few years ago visited other Variety limb banks in Toronto and California.

'Members of the Variety Club are always moved when they hear the song "Have a Heart, Lend a Hand."'

"I saw a 5-year-old boy born without arms dress himself, tie his shoes, thread the eye of his pull toy and eat with his prosthetic limb," London recalled. "I was determined to bring that kind of new hope to young lives in the Detroit area."

It didn't happen overnight. Many orthopedic surgeons in the area, resistant to change, were skeptical, London said. But Dr. Lawrence G. Morawa of Dearborn attended a seminar on electrically powered upper limbs, saw the dramatic possibilities and was convinced.

Jackie Klein

Morawa is director of the new Variety Club Electronic Limb Research Center at the Detroit Institute for Children. He also is chief of the pediatric amputee clinic at the institute and the pediatric prosthetic clinic at Children's Hospital.

"Morawa isn't only a pioneer, he's wonderful with kids," London said. "He doesn't charge for his services and has a dedicated occupational therapists on his staff as well as other professionals who are excited and thrilled with the breakthrough."

In October, Morawa and his staff evaluated components of the electronic prosthesis and soon began replacing unsightly hooks and claws with natural-looking bionic hands.

MYO-ELECTRONIC (muscle operated) elbows and hands are manufactured by handicapped boys in Variety Village, Toronto — an Ontario Variety Club project. The facility supplies prostheses to more than 70 privately-owned hospitals and clinics around the world.

Five children in the Detroit facility are being fitted with electronic hands and elbows through Variety Club contributions and fund-raising efforts. Research and development have produced passive hands for infants 6 months to 2 years old and electric hands for children over 2.

The prostheses work on batteries with microsensors the size of a dime which don't puncture the skin. Movement in the electric hands is triggered by the tensing of certain muscles.

"Occupational therapists find a functioning muscle in a child's shoulder or arm," London said. "Electricity is picked up in the muscles. When the child is asleep, the prosthesis is removed, plugged in and recharged.

"Plastic like synthetic skin is fitted over the prosthesis when the child is wearing it. The covering has veins and wrinkles and looks real.

"Two fingers and the thumb work so the child can hold objects. But real nails are put on each finger — especially for little girls who love to wear nail polish. It takes a highly motivated, bright youngster to learn to use a custom-made prosthesis."

CHILDREN LEARN to activate and control electronic training toys and myo-electric hands by tensing and relaxing a single arm muscle.

More than $15,000 was raised for the research center at a recent Variety Club golf outing and dinner. General Motors provided a luxurious Renault as a door prize. In exchange, 50 area theaters are showing GM commercials on screens with the Variety Club project tagline "Sponser a child."

"Members of Variety are always moved when they hear the song, 'Have a Heart, Lend a Hand,'" London said. "When I try to get donations for our new project, I play that record. The lyrics sung by Vera Lynn are more appropriate than ever."

Lifelike prostethetic arms enable children to accomplish intricate manuevers.

If you want to literally give a child a hand, you can make a tax deductable contribution to Variety Club Charity for Children Inc., PO Box 263, Southfield 48037.

How did suburbia rate this rap?

Mommy rules the roost in the suburbs, according to a book about the suburbs — Peter Wyden's "Suburbia's Coddled Kids."

According to Wyden, Mommy plans the schedule, drives the car to school and all the places that her children have to go, settles all the children's arguments and refuses to let them handle their own problems. "The children are taught to fear traffic," he said. Since they get driven everywhere, they have mushy muscles, was his theory.

Mommy overmothers.

Mommy is the dominant figure because "not since our forebears adjusted their armor and rode off to the Crusades have so many children seen so little of their fathers," the author said.

The drive is for all children to be successful. 'It is an important item for suburbia, that white shirt.'

What is especially interesting about all these assertions is that they were made when the book was published in 1962.

Time has a way of proving dire predictions erroneous.

Wyden asked such questions as: "Will their (suburbia's children) fathers' absenteeism turn the boys into emasculated neuters who can bake a fine cake but lack the essential attributes of manliness? Will the girls be bossy Amazons? Will their coddling mothers mold both sexes into a race of weak-kneed hypochondriacs?"

WYDEN LIT into suburbia, piling one sweeping statement on the other. Not since the Crusades have there been so many generalities. Some are true, some not. Some are half, or a quarter-true.

What applied in his upper income suburb north of Chicago didn't necessarily apply to the lower income suburb south of Chicago in which I lived.

Nevertheless, despite his debatable surface information, it is fun to look back to see how suburbs were viewed about 20 years ago.

Wyden made many assumptions. Such as:

- In the suburbs, kids don't know the value of money. They throw away their homemade lunches (still true) and don't collect their cashmere sweaters from lost and found.

- Kids don't make their beds or take out the garbage. "Many boys won't mow the lawn or wash the car without extra pay."
- The drive is for all chidren to be successful. "It is an important item for suburbia, that white shirt," he said. "Success is the thing, and how many people are successful and also sweat?"
- Rarely do suburbanites set foot in the inner-city. They ask "Why should we? We have everthing we want right here in the shopping center." As a result, kids know little of real life, Wyden claims. A 10-year-old taken past some downtown slums asked, "You mean people live in these places."

'It's gossipy, but the jolly togetherness also spawns community spirit and a feeling of effective control over local institutions and public policies; the city runs its people, but people run their suburbs.'
— author Peter Wyden

Sherry Kahan

Suburbia is bare of traditions and contrasts, in Wyden's opinion."

Admittedly the '60s was a different era. The phrase "child oriented" was used to describe those days when parents with large families regularly agreed to tax themselves for schools and most moms were homemakers.

It was a time when children gave up sandlot games and went under parental supervision in Little Leagues. In some ways Little League reflected intense interest of parents in their children. On the other hand, it took a lot of important decisions away from growing youngsters.

TODAY A high school counselor can say that it is no longer the fact that some parents hit their kids that he finds so distressing. What really gets him down is the parents who don't even care enough to do that.

But it would be hard to say one generation coddled its children and another beat or ignored them without some kind of statistics.

It is true that suburbanites don't take enough advantage of their nearby city. But then neither do city people. There is a terrific fear out here of them in there. As a result we are in danger of losing our cities.

A CRITIC'S VIEW?

Author's view of suburbia earns this writer's scorn

It's also true suburbs don't have much in the way of tradition. I became aware of this when a friend in VISTA sent me a subscription to Foxfire, a magazine which celebrated on every page the traditions of southern mountain people. What do we have to match these old crafts, songs and ways, I wondered. All I could come up with were pajama parties, daily trips in some subs to commuter trains, and maybe those gatherings around the barbecue.

But that is not to say suburbs didn't have their good points — even then. And who agrees that the good points are abundant? Peter Wyden, no less.

Was he trying to forestall a rock through his window from his angry suburban neighbors when he included a few concessions in his book?

"It (suburbia) shelters kids from much vital life experience, but also protects them from the dirt, noise and tensions of life among the switchblade knife set," he wrote.

"IT'S GOSSIPY, but the jolly togetherness also spawns community spirit and a feeling of effective control over local institutions and public policies; the city runs its people, but people run their suburbs. At least they think they could if they cared to take the time.

"Suburbia is bare of traditions and contrasts, but its newness generally lessens the influence of cliques and the conflicts between have and have-nots; there is only the vast, galloping collective of the haves trying to amass new possessions at a roughly identical rate," Wyden wrote.

"Parental interest in kids may be too indirect, or motivated by a Mama's compulsion to keep up with Mrs. Jones, but the children feel and usually appreciate their elders' concern over the family welfare.

"Perhaps because they feel secure, suburban kids tend to be tolerant. They lack understanding for the poor because poverty is simply a phenomenon beyond their horizon. But they are inclined to be kind to slow learners, to kids who stutter or struggle with other handicaps."

The suburbs, now, perhaps, the most important section of society should be looked at again by a more serious study.

It's good-bye to a fine bunch

There's an odd thing about newspaper folks — they feel compelled to place their farewells in writing whenever they leave a community or a newspaper organization.

Sometimes, their writings are geared toward the reporters, photographers and editors who worked at their side in producing a never-seeming end of editions.

Sometimes, they relay anecdotes which spiced their career.

This column is geared toward the people of Canton Township, a community I covered for more than six years and a place I called home for three.

The people with whom I worked daily — Arlene Funke, Gary Caskey, Emory Daniels, Teri Banas, Bridget Lucas, Ellie Graham, Eddie Edgar, Brad Emons and a slew of other Observer staffers — know how I feel about them.

BY THE TIME this column reaches print, I'll be somewhere on an Interstate freeway en route to Houston, Texas. I'll be working on the copy desk of the Houston Chronicle, while my husband pursues post-graduate studies at Baylor College of Medicine.

It's a move I've wanted to make since about the age 5.

Michigan's climate never has fitted my tastes. The winters are far too long and far too cold, while the summers seem too short and cool.

I'll miss lots of people and things — my family, friends, the Michigan State Spartans (I'm a football and basketball nut, you know) and — at the risk of sounding sappy — my years in of covering Canton Township.

Darlene Stinson

During my tenure at the Canton Observer, I've covered the Greenstein administration, the Stein administration, the Culbert administration and, now, the administration of Supervisor James Poole.

I've seen the problems of a housing construction boom and the contrasting problems of hard economic times. I've followed the long saga of Canton's efforts to preserve its farmland.

At times, Canton Township seems like a pretty crazy place. At times, politics seemingly threatened to rip the community apart.

But somehow it seems that the people of Canton care more about their community than the residents of any other town I've ever covered. That includes several communities in western Wayne County, a few in Oakland County and East Detroit and St. Clair Shores.

Canton's tumultuous political history seems based on that caring. Each faction truly believed in what it has promoted, whether it's farmland preservation, full development, strict government regulations or a laissez-faire business climate.

THE POLITICAL DEBATES and maneuverings may have seemed trite and silly at the time they took place.

But they also created a fertile climate for new ideas to sprout and grow. For a growing community like Canton, political debates are far preferable to the apathetic attitudes that characterize the populations of so many other communities.

Not everyone in Canton judiciously follows the action of the Township Board or their local board of education. But it's hard to believe that apathy is prevalent in any community which produces 26 candidates for its governing body, such as Canton produced for the Township Board in last August's primary election.

Canton will continue to face problems in the future. The community needs a stronger industrial tax base. The farmland preservation question should be settled once and for all.

But, somehow, I'm confident that the people of Canton will find solutions to their problems.

A new editor — Dennis O'Connor — will assume reponsibilites for the Canton Observer today.

My new home will be 1,300 miles away. I wish staffers of the Canton Observer well. I'm sincere when I say that I wish the people of Canton the best.

Hunger strike?

Postal walkout may halt food-stamp delivery

By Mike Scanlon
staff writer

To millions of Americans, the prospect of a U.S. Postal Service strike at midnight spells inconvenience. For about 400,000 Wayne County food stamp recipients, it could spell hunger.

The county has spent eight months gearing up for an Aug. 1 start-up date of a new, computerized food stamp delivery system. But a key link in the computerization involves each recipient being mailed a plastic, coded computer identification cards.

Another provision calls for hundreds of thousands of western Wayne County residents to pick up their food stamps at post offices.

"We are sitting on a pack of trouble if the post office goes out on strike," said Margaret Anzinger, a spokeswoman for the county Department of Social Services (DSS).

Ms. Anzinger said food stamp authorization cards may have to be delivered by truck if mail service is interrupted.

THE COMPUTERIZED system, some eight months in testing, will cost about $560,000. Error and fraud reduction, and fewer clerks to pay, are expected to save enough to make the system pay for itself in two years. Future food stamp administrative costs would be reduced by an estimated $500,000 a year, Ms. Anzinger said.

The system is based on some 63 computerized terminals linked to state central computers. Another 12 terminals are available for future system expansion.

While cost-effective if it performs as projected, the system may not be particularly handy for users.

For example, the new system allows only the recipient or a previously registered representative to pick up food stamps. Wayne County food stamp users will not be able to get stamps in any other county, and out-county recipients can't use the Wayne computer pick-up to get stamps here.

The plastic computer card, a food stamp identification card and a driver's license or birth certificate will be required to get stamps under the new system.

In case the computer system acts like many new computer systems and screws up, recipients will get both the plastic card and an old-style paper card for the first month the system is in place.

NINE OUT-COUNTY post offices have been selected as dispensing centers for Western Wayne County residents.

Federal approval is needed to install terminals in post offices, and with or without a strike, some of the outcounty sites may not be hooked up by August.

If the post offices are strikebound or if terminals are not in place, phone 256-3103 for information on the nearest place to get stamps.

The outcounty post offices include 27033 Michigan in Inkster and 11800 Merriman and 19276 Middlebelt in Livonia.

Locally, there are 4,675 Westland residents eligible for food stamps, 1,659 Canton Township residents, 1,524 Garden City residents, 1,464 Livonia residents, 596 Plymouth and Plymouth Township residents, and 1,922 Redford Township residents.

The average county recipient was eligible for $37.81 worth of food stamps during May, the most recent month for which DSS figures are available.

Contracts with the two largest postal unions, the American Postal Workers Union and the National Association of Letter Carriers, were due to expire at midnight tonight.

6 remain in hunt for SC job

The Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, after conducting preliminary searches largely in secret, last week released the names of five of the final candidates for the position of college president. A sixth final candidate's name was kept secret.

Also released was a schedule of board interviews with the finalists.

The five announced finalists include Richard Thompson, provost at the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College; William Colovas, vice president for instruction at Wayne County Community College; Edward Pierce, president of Quincy Junior College in Quincy, Mass.; Justin Sundermann, dean of Ohio University and Lyle Robertson, academic vice president at Macomb County Community College.

The name of the sixth remaining candidate is being withheld until notification of the candidate, said Harry Greenleaf, board chairman.

Interview dates are the evenings of July 28-30 and August 3-5.

An Aug. 6 board meeting will involve trustee discussions on summaries of the interviews.

"If we stay on our timetable, we may well be making an offer, announcing the president by Sept. 1.'

— Harry Greenleaf
Schoolcraft Board of Trustees

TRUSTEES HOPE to replace C. Nelson Grote by the end of August. Grote's effective resignation date is July 31. He quits after 10 years as Schoolcraft president to become head administrator of a Spokane community college.

Greenleaf said the board is so far having no difficulty meeting its projected deadline.

"If we stay on our timetable, we may well be making an offer, announcing the president by Sept. 1," he said.

THE CANDIDATES will be taken on campus tours before they're questioned by trustees.

Greenleaf said trustees will select from "an excellent field."

"They're all prepared for this kind of move," Greenleaf said.

Trustees also voted to extend a personal services contract to Clara Rousseau, secretary to the president, who is scheduled to retire at the end of July. The contract would provide per diem payments "throughout the balance of the presidential review committee, or until she is no longer available," said Greenleaf.

COOL THE SUMMER WITH A COOKOUT

Light up the grill. It's time to invite family and friends to a spectacular, all-American backyard barbecue.

Summertime entertaining can be hassle free if you follow a few simple menu planning rules. Start by selecting a menu that uses products that shortcut much of the work. Concentrate on foods that are easy to cook and that can be partially or entirely prepared in advance.

The menu shown here is easy to prepare and all-American. It features foods grown in the United States, perhaps even in your own backyard.

Ease of preparation starts with a deep-basted turkey. Basted turkeys are easy to barbecue since there is no need to hand baste during cooking. The result is a juicy bird that requires little attention from the backyard chef. Buy a frozen turkey that will easily fit beneath the cover on your grill. Then thaw it on a tray in the refrigerator. A 12-pound turkey takes about 2 to 3 days to defrost, so buy ahead accordingly.

Summer Cranberry Cooler is a refreshing drink that's sure to be popular on a hot day. You can combine most of the ingredients ahead, then add chilled lemon-lime soft drink just before serving.

Advance planning is also possible with Garden Ribbon Salad. Prepare the ingredients the day before and store in the refrigerator. Then early in the day assemble the salad and cover with a damp paper towel and plastic wrap. Return to the refrigerator until serving time. The Blue Cheese Vinaigrette can also be made ahead and refrigerated, but for fullest flavor remove from the refrigerator 1 hour before serving.

Luscious Frozen Lime Pie makes a delicious and attractive grand finale to the meal. This no-bake pie can be made several days in advance and frozen. There's no need to turn on the oven to prepare the crust when you use a ready-to-fill crust. The butter-flavored crust recommended tastes like a butter cookie and makes the pie easy and delicious — so delicious that if you're expecting a crowd, double the recipe and make two pies.

MENU

Summer Cranberry Cooler
Barbecued Turkey
Corn on the Cob
Garden Ribbon Salad
Rolls Butter
Frozen Lime Pie

SUMMER CRANBERRY COOLER

Yield: 3 quarts

- 1 quart cranberry juice cocktail
- 3/4 cup lemon juice
- 2 cups unsweetened orange juice
- 1 cup unsweetened pineapple juice
- 1/4 cup light corn syrup
- 2 cans (12 ounces each) lemon-lime soft drink
- Orange slices

Mix together fruit juices and corn syrup. Chill. Just before serving add lemon-lime soft drink. Serve over ice and garnish each glass with an orange slice.

O&E

TURKEY ON THE GRILL

To prepare covered grill (kettle or wagon): Open all dampers and leave open during cooking. Make a drip pan using a double thickness of heavy duty foil or use a disposable foil pan. Put pan on bottom rack or to one side of firebox. Place 25 to 30 briquets on each side of drip pan. Ignite briquets and burn 15 to 20 minutes or until covered with gray ash.

To prepare turkey: Thaw Butterball Swift's Premium Turkey according to directions in folder. Free legs and tail from tucked position. Remove neck and giblets. Rinse turkey and drain. Draw skin over neck and hold in place by twisting wing tips behind back. Do not stuff. (Stuffing can be baked in a disposable foil pan on the grill beside the turkey during the last hour of cooking.) Retuck legs and tail. Brush turkey with oil. Insert roast meat thermometer into the center of the thickest part of the thigh, not touching the bone.

To cook turkey: Place unstuffed turkey on top rack. Put lid on grill. Add 4 or 5 briquets to each side every hour of cooking to maintain heat. (If grill is equipped with a thermometer, use enough briquets to maintain a temperature of 300° to 350°F.) Check for doneness after 2-1/2 hours for a 12 to 14 pound turkey; the internal temperature should be 180° to 185°F.

Covered electric or gas grills: Follow manufacturer's directions for setting up grill. Set temperature control at 300° to 350°F. Preheat 15 to 20 minutes. Place turkey on a rack in a shallow pan and put on grill rack. Close grill lid. Adjust heat controls to maintain desired temperature. Check for doneness after 2-1/2 hours.

GARDEN RIBBON SALAD

Yield: 10 servings

- 6 cups finely chopped iceberg lettuce (about 3/4 pound)
- 2 cups seeded and chopped tomato (about 2 medium tomatoes)
- 1 cup finely chopped broccoli (1 stalk)
- 1/3 cup chopped zucchini (1 medium zucchini)
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- Freshly ground black pepper
- Blue Cheese Vinaigrette

Spread chopped lettuce evenly over bottom of a shallow, large salad bowl. Arrange remaining ingredients (except pepper and vinaigrette) in rows over lettuce with tomato in center and broccoli and onion on one side, zucchini and egg on other side. Cover salad with damp paper towel and plastic wrap. Refrigerate.

To serve, grind pepper over salad; add Blue Cheese Vinaigrette and toss.

BLUE CHEESE VINAIGRETTE

Yield: 1-1/2 cups

- 1 cup oil
- 3 tablespoons white wine vinegar
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon sweet basil leaves
- 2 ounces blue cheese, crumbled

Combine all ingredients in blender container. Blend until smooth.

FROZEN LIME PIE

Yield: 1 pie

- 1-1/2 teaspoons grated lime peel
- 2 tablespoons lime juice
- 3 egg yolks
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- 1 cup (1/2 pint) whipping cream, whipped
- Few drops green food coloring
- 1 Keebler Ready-Crust Butter Flavored pie crust
- Additional whipped cream for garnish (optional)
- Lime slices for garnish (optional)

Combine lime peel, juice, egg yolks and sugar in the top of a double boiler. Stir and cook over hot water until the mixture is thick. Cool slightly.

Fold stiffly beaten egg whites, whipped cream and food coloring into egg yolk mixture. Pour into butter flavored ready-to-fill crust. Cover and freeze until firm. If desired, garnish with whipped cream and lime slices.

VARIATION: For Frozen Lemon Pie, substitute lemon peel and juice for lime peel and juice. Use yellow food coloring, if desired, in place of green food coloring.

Chicken Bits And Pieces

From whole fryers to chicken pies, the varieties of chicken available in the U.S. seem endless. Our "mini-chicken-dictionary" will help you stretch dollars with knowledge.

WHOLE CHICKENS — Usually better buys than parts if you're willing to do some of the work yourself. Comes with heart, liver, and gizzard (giblets) packed inside the body cavity.

Broiler/Fryer - Young, tender bird which can be prepared via any cooking method except stewing (it will fall apart).

Roaster - A larger, slightly older bird which yields more meat per lb. Prepared by roasting.

Capon - A desexed rooster, tender enough for roasting. Available whole and frozen only.

Rock Cornish Game Hen - Younger, small chicken of special breed, for roasting.

CHICKEN-HALVES — Whole chickens split down the middle. Broil or barbeque.

CHICKEN-QUARTERS — These are breasts with wings attached, or legs with thighs attached. Broil or barbeque.

CHICKEN PARTS — You can usually choose from:

Drumsticks - Legs, dark meat, 4-5 oz. each.

Thighs - Dark and meaty, 4 oz. each.

Breasts - All light meat and very meaty. They often come split and are 12-15 oz. each.

Boned Breasts - All light meat, sometimes labeled cutlets. They come with or without skin.

Southern Combination - Leg-plus-breast parts.

Wings - Light meat, 2 oz. each (figure 2 or 3 per serving).

Giblets - These packages contain gizzards, livers, hearts and are 100% edible! Completely boneless.

Bridal shower fare predictable

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Weddings are ensconced in tradition.

The basic patterns created by these traditions prevent the prospective couple from being totally overwhelmed and immobilized by all of the details surrounding their nuptial celebration. As it stands, most of these details don't require much decision-making.

They will be done and done in a particular fashion simply because they have always been done this way. Some of these traditions are rich in symbolism and history. Others have simply evolved through practical considerations.

The format of bridal shower luncheons falls into the latter category. The structure of the shower varies with different ethnic groups. One approach is a no-nonsense business-like arrangement. Since the business of the shower is to extract as many gifts as possible from as many people as possible, the most efficient way to accomplish this is to gather all female friends and relatives and their respective gifts in a large hall, give the bride a pair of scissors and a microphone, have her open the gifts, feed everyone "wedding food" and send them home.

ANOTHER approach is to gather smaller groups of women in someone's home.

The luncheon served there is most likely to consist of a main-dish salad (chicken or chicken-ham-cheese), rolls, a jello salad, dessert and some mints.

It is actually a very pleasant menu that has gained popularity for a number of good reasons: It is reasonably priced; it can be prepared ahead; quantities adjust easily to accommodate large or small groups, and it consists of foods which most people enjoy.

The only real draw-back is that it is so predictable.

It might be more fun for bride-to-be and guests to vary the formula. A weekend brunch might offer a refreshing change of both time of day and menu. At the opposite end of the day, one of the most pleasant showers I have been to recently was an evening wine and cheese party in the middle of the week. It began at 7:30 — late enough that dinner was out of the way but early enough for everyone to be home in bed early. Unstructured (no games!), it was a very relaxing way to end the day.

FOR SOME reason, people insist on stereotyping women's tastes in food — they are expected to be light and delicate, both in flavor and quantity.

If warned in advance to bring their appetites, a group of women might actually prefer corned beef sandwiches and beer to tea sandwiches and fruit punch. Why not an ethnic menu — the ethnic backgrounds of the bride and groom might be an inspiration.

A participatory meal might be the perfect choice for a working hostess — an alternative to hours of advance preparation. Have guests cut up vegetables, meat, or fish for a wok meal.

Working together creates a relaxed atmosphere of sharing and forces people to interact as opposed to forming separate knots — the bride's school friends in one corner, her friends from work in another, and her relatives and those of the groom forming two more distinct factions (with valiant, conscientious members from each group making polite, determined efforts to intermingle).

Having said all this, I realize that the "ladies' luncheon" format will continue to be the dominant pattern for all the practical reasons already listed and because it is expected.

I would, then, like to suggest a slightly unconventional menu which still fits this time-honored mold. It features a cold tart from "The Dione Lucas Book of French Cooking."

The bulk of the preparation can be done the day before. The cheesy tart shells can be baked, the cold pea filling prepared, the eggs poached and kept in cold water, and the mayonnaise made. (It is well worth the trouble to make your own mayonnaise for this. It will act not merely as a binder but as a crowning touch.) The tarts need only be assembled shortly before serving.

The golden, fluted tart shells, the bright green peas, the white egg and the cream-colored mayonnaise make a beautiful, tempting visual presentation. Even better are the contrasts of flavor and texture. The crisp, cheesy shells, the tender, minted sweet green peas, the surprise of a cold poached egg, the creamy, tangy mayonnaise make these tarts a complex, delightful eating experience.

To make the menu more substantial, you might want to precede the tarts with a soup. To contrast with the green of the peas, a gazpacho or carrot soup would be lovely. A basket of freshly-baked rolls would also be welcome.

OEUFS POCHES CLAMART
Poached egg and Green Pea Tartlets, with Mayonnaise Sauce (cold)
(Serves 4)

Cheese Tartlet Shells:
1 cup all-purpose flour
5 tbsp. cool melted salt butter
3 raw egg yolks
2 tbsp. freshly grated Parmesan cheese
Salt
A few grains cayenne pepper
½ tsp. paprika
2 tbsp. ice water
2 cups raw rice (to anchor pastry)

Mayonnaise Sauce:
2 raw egg yolks
2 tbsp. tarragon vinegar
1 tsp. Dijon mustard
½ tsp. lemon juice
Scant ½ tsp. salt
A few grains cayenne pepper
¾ cup vegetable oil
2 tbsp. heavy cream
2 tbsp. cooked peas from the filling preparation, rubbed through a fine wire strainer

Poached Eggs:
2 tbsp. tarragon vinegar
4 eggs
tsp. salt

Filling:
2½ cups shelled green peas (fresh or frozen), plain-cooked and cooled
2 tbsp. heavy cream
1 to 2 tbsp. finely chopped fresh mint
Salt
Freshly cracked black pepper

Garnish:
1 bunch crisp fresh watercress

Cheese Tartlet Shells: Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Have ready 4 individual-size tartlet tins. Put the flour in a bowl or on a marble slab. Make a well in the center. In the well put the butter, egg yolks, grated cheese, a little salt and the cayenne pepper, paprika, and ice water. Work them to a smooth paste, then work them into the flour. Roll the dough out fairly thin, cut in large rounds with a fluted cutter (larger than the tins) and line the tins. Press a piece of buttered wax paper into each lined tin and fill it with raw rice to keep the shape of the shell while baking. Put the tins on a baking sheet and bake 20 minutes. Remove them from the oven, remove the paper and rice, lift the shells from the tins, and cool them on a wire rack.

Mayonnaise Sauce: Put the egg yolks in a mixer bowl, and beat until they are light and fluffy. Continue beating and add the vinegar, Dijon mustard, lemon juice, salt, and cayenne pepper. Slowly, drop by drop, beat in the vegetable oil. Last, beat in the heavy cream and strained peas. Chill the sauce in the refrigerator.

Poached Eggs. Poach the eggs, using the vinegar and salt in the water. As each egg is poached, transfer it to a basin of cold water to chill.

Filling. Mix the cooked peas with the other filling ingredients. Stir well together.

To assemble, place the baked tartlet shells on a flat serving platter. Fill each shell with the pea mixture. Lift the poached eggs from the cold water, drain, trim off any egg white streamers, and set the eggs on the peas. Spoon the mayonnaise sauce over them. Garnish each end of the serving platter with clusters of crisp fresh watercress.

THE MIGRATION to Houston, Tex., isn't a one-way trek. The Houston Oilers are coming to Plymouth.

The Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau notified Mike Haggerty last week that the Plymouth Hilton will host the Oilers during Super Bowl weekend. Mike (PHS Class of '72) is director of sales at the inn. As well as the Houston team, management and owners — they are expecting about 80 persons in the group — the Home Box Office crew will stay at the Inn.

Those converts to cable television are familiar with HBO, a cable television network out of New York. Mike says, "It'll be some of their most prestigious people, the president of the company, members of the board of directors as well as anchor people, camera crews and electricians."

The big game at the Pontiac Silverdome will be Sunday, Jan. 24.

SPEAKING OF cable television, the gathering on the lawn of Jack Wilcox's home last Thursday evening smacked of an opening night "do."

Guests were lined up on lawn chairs and some were standing to watch the premier performance of "Plymouth People," on Omnicom Channel 8. Jack hosts the talk show, and his first guest was Plymouth Mayor Mary Childs. There were cheers and applause at the completion of the program and everyone settled back with their long cool drinks to listen to the band concert in the park and talk.

There continued to be some switching of TV channels from 8 to 13 (where Jim Courtney's "Night Beat" was in progress). The cable TV people like Hugh Jencks, Dennis Campbell, Ted Hartson and staffers discussed quality of the pictures and so on.

The talk was less technical among the other guests, Sharon and Dave Pugh, Dee and Bud Martin, Margie, Bill and Mike Moon, Marcie Campbell, Judy Jencks, Louise and Jesse Tritten, Kathy O'Donnell, Ruth Barney, Rick Smith, Jessie and Sam Hudson, Bill Ray, Al O'Dell and others.

Coming up on the "Plymouth People" talk show are Dr. Sam Hudson, author and historian; Roy Hall, Plymouth fire chief; Eddie Edgar, longtime newspaper man; Frank Ryan, president of the Council on Aging; and Margaret Wilson. Margaret talks about the Chamber of Commerce, the theater business, and her travels during her interview.

Ted Hartson, chief engineer who designed the local cable system, still lives in Plymouth, but works in Bloomfield Hills. He is now manager of engineering services for Capital Cities Cable TV.

KATHLEEN Bomback, Dorie McCubbrey and Sharon Townsend have received scholarship awards from the Michigan Youth Symphony. The symphony is sponsored by the University of Michigan School of Music and includes students from all over the state.

All three U-M students will attend the all-state session at Interlochen National Music Camp at Interlochen.

LILLIAN Banta and Frances LaCombe had high scores at last Thursday's party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

BRIAN CRUM of Troop 1743 Canton and Adam Wilkinson of Troop 743 Plymouth are among the 30,000 Boy Scouts and adult leaders who will attend the 1981 National Scout Jamboree.

This year's jamboree will be July 29 through Aug. 4 at Fort A.P. Hill near Fredericksburg, Va. Representatives of all 50 states, territories and approximately 30 foreign countries will be on site for "Scouting's Reunion with History," the theme of this year's event. The national jamboree is held every four years and features skill events as well as canoeing, rafting, archery and pioneering, merit badge demonstrations, troop shows, campfires and visits from nationally known entertainers.

CUB SCOUTS and Boy Scouts of Troop 1738 which meets in Hulsing Elementary School, marched in the Plymouth Fourth of July parade. Now they are looking forward to their first weekend camping trip July 25 at Hickory Corners.

Tours, tennis, tacos for German teenagers

Niki Schade, 16, and his sister Catarina, 14, arrived in Plymouth June 19 from their home in Weisbaden, Germany. In one month, their hosts Lee and Andy Hosey of Fairground Street have shown the teenagers more spots of local interest than many residents see in a lifetime.

They have had a ride on the Huckleberry Railroad, spent a weekend in Ludington, toured Greenfield Village, the Plymouth Historical Museum, and spent a day at Cedar Point. When they visited Plymouth City Hall, they received special treatment which included a brief lock-up in one of the jail cells.

They enjoyed the Fourth of July with its parade and fireworks and the Balloon Festival.

Their mother is coming from Weisbaden July 22 for a short visit so they are saving some of the sightseeing for her. They plan to return to Greenfield Village, take a trip to Boblo, and tour the Renaissance Center and the University of Michigan botanical gardens.

Andy Hosey already has taken Niki and Catarina across the border to Windsor. They have been invited to a steak cookout and to Murray's Lake. And they are going to Lansing to the state capitol and a tour of the Michigan State University campus.

BETWEEN TRIPS, the visitors have found time to play tennis. Catarina has signed up for tennis lessons sponsored by the YMCA at the Plymouth-Canton High School courts. Niki, an accomplished player, also has been playing a lot of tennis.

Catarina and Niki attend the same high school. She said organized sports for girls at scool include basketball and volleyball. They also play a handball game which is a team sport played with a ball slightly smaller than a soccer ball. The girls' games are intramural. The boys play basketball, volleyball and have two soccer teams which compete with other schools.

They have been playing croquet and badminton at the Hoseys'. They have been playing Monopoly and are learning to play Tripoli and have experimented with bridge. Catarina said that at home their favorite card games are skat and mau mau.

BOTH NIKI and Catarina speak four languages — German, English, French and Portuguese. The Schades have a summer home in Portugal. Their father is a self-employed mechanical engineer and they have an older brother who is 21.

Niki has three more years of high school and Catarina has five. Neither has decided on a career, but according to Catarina, Niki probably will be an engineer.

At this time, like most teenagers, they are interested in music and collect albums. Catarina likes the Sweedish group Abba, and Niki prefers rock.

At home, they said, there are five television channels which are on the air from 4 p.m. to 1 a.m.

"The news is on every two hours and the best shows from the evening before are shown earlier the next day for the people who could not stay up to watch them," said Catarina. The networks are government-owned.

"And 'Laverne and Shirley' is the most popular American show," they added.

Lee Hosey said they intend to take their guests to the Hosey cottage on Crooked Lake near Angola, Ind. "And we want them to see an automobile plant, perhaps the GM Hydramatic."

Do they enjoy American food?

They do. They agreed it was much like that they were used to at home.

"Tacos are the only new food we have introduced to them," said Mrs. Hosey. "They like tacos."

They also like hamburgers, especially Big Macs, and cheeseburgers.

"We have a McDonalds in Weisbaden," announced Catarina.

"They're going to ruin my reputation with all these trips to McDonalds," grinned Lee Hosey, who is proprietor of the Health Food Shoppe in Plymouth.

MARC award

Diane Janes is 'teacher of the year'

Diane Janes of Plymouth has been named teacher of the year by the Michigan Association for Retarded Citizens. She received the plaque at an awards banquet at Sugar Loaf near Traverse City. She is now candidate for national honors. The National Association for Retarded Citizens will name its teacher of the year in Hawaii in October.

Added to the excitement of the state award and the possibility of being "in the running" for the national, her book, "Jamie — reflections of a special person," has received enthusiatic response.

Mrs. Janes teaches in Webster School, Livonia, which is a special education regional center for northwest Wayne County. She taught special education for 12 years in the old Cooper School which housed the center until last year.

She does not refer to the publication as "my book." It is "our book" — Diane's and Jamie Guy's. Mrs. Janes compiled, edited and wrote introductions for the chapters. The words and the illustrations are Jamie's.

JAMIE IS a trainable mentally impaired 17-year-old. Diane Janes has been his homeroom teacher for three years.

She explained her association with and her feelings about Jamie Guy.

"Relating to Jamie on a day-to-day basis has been an enriching experience for me. I am frequently touched by his observation and his witty way of looking at the world. He has the capacity to make a simple yet profound observation. He is constantly relating to his environment.

"Jamie, with his sometimes sophisticated phrasing, stands out somewhat among students who are unable to express themselves verbally. Yet in many ways he is representative of what goes on in the minds and hearts of our special youngsters.

"I have shared Jamie's observations with family, friends and staff and from there grew the idea of Jamie's Book. With the aid of Paula Sciturro's technical knowledge, her friendship and insight, we have put forth many hours in order to achieve this end. We have attempted to present Jamie's words exactly as he spoke them and hope you will also share Jamie with your friends.

"Every person's personality shines through in some way, regardless of handicap. It is my hope that something of Jamie's personality will flow out of these pages and capture your imagination or heart space."

JAMIE IS an avid talker, almost non-stop, according to Mrs. Janes. When the idea for the book was first discussed, she estimated a year's work. It grew into two. Jamie does not read or write, but his verbal thoughts and reactions were recorded by his teacher.

In the book, Jamie talks about his family with love and pride. Before his older brother Tim's wedding, he said, "To tell the truth, I'm nervous because I'm going to be an usher. Nothing should go wrong because I've been practicing. I like my brother getting married. He picked a nice girl, she treats me fine. She already calls me brother.

"Mom's pretty excited. She's wearing her new lavender dress. Dad's excited too! Tim is awfully happy! As far as Tim getting married, I'm happy for him and sad for me because he would be getting a wife and I would be losing my brother. I won't see him as much as I'd like to."

He talks about the Special Olympics and winning a gold medal swimming freestyle; about basketball, his favorite sport. He discusses school, friends and camping. His great love for his father is revealed in the section on his experiences at winter camp: "Boys and girls got a chance to sleep out in tents. I was out with my dad. It was very cold. I didn't go back in. I wanted to stay out there. I didn't care if I froze solid."

JAMIE expresses his thoughts about everything from nature, death and dying to junk foods and the rights of the handicapped.

Christmas is a happy time at school and at home for Jamie. He said, "If I could have my very own Christmas traditions, I'd call everybody in my family and have them come over to my place for a party. I'd be the host. I'd call all my old friends, too, and invite them over. I'd decorate my place, get a band, have cookies and cake and punch. We'd really celebrate!"

The book will be sold for $2 with proceeds going to the Livonia Public Schools. Plans for distribution will be finalized in the fall when the book should be available to the public.

Bill Brown reflects on coming changes in learning

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

The education system and the manner of teaching in our public schools are due for some dramatic changes in the coming years.

That, at least, is the opinion of Bill Brown, principal of Plymouth Salem High School and an interested onlooker of the advancement of today's youth.

Seated at his desk after being asked the question of what changes might be made in the not too distant future, he stared off into space for a moment, then predicted that the first change should be a re-evaluation of the system and the students.

"We will have to teach the values in today's world. They have been overlooked for some time, and now it is imperative that the youth of today be enlightened in what is happening and why.

"We must define what the values are, both to the students and the members of our teaching staff. And don't forget we are moving into a world of computers and an electronics that would stifle the imagination.

"We can't assume that the youth of today and the immediate years ahead are learning these values away from the classroom. We must teach them, and it may be that the teaching staffs will need to brush up, too."

While Brown was recounting the changes that are on the way, he smiled a bit and then offered, "As a matter of fact, along with all the new avenues of teaching, we are going back to the three R's."

In this computer age and the energy era, it is necessary for the student to write reports. So it is necessary that he learn to write.

"And we must reactivate the reading habit and insist on the greater hours given to the textbooks. This is not always easy, but one of our students, David Kinter, developed a plan whereby the reading of the textbook became simpler."

Brown thought for a moment, then he added that part of the responsibility of deveoping the reading habit must be shared with the families.

"I think that in each home there should be a special table, or desk, equipped with a light and that it be set aside from the rest of the room just for reading. It shouldn't be in the room with the television."

And as we approach the energy era, Brown forsees the need of a greater relation with the social structure and that students be made aware of what is going on outside the classroom.

In his predictions of the things that are due to happen in the field of education in the public schools, Brown didn't overlook the task confronting the boards of education.

"The officials are going to face the problem of where best to spend the money available. Should it be spent on textbooks or on mechanical necessities such as keeping up with the computer age where changes are being made constantly to improve the work of the electrical genius."

Another item that gives Brown concern is the diploma that will be given the members of future graduating classes.

He believes future diplomas should tell something of the student and what he did in his school years.

For, instance, he said, if a student has been outstanding in his vocational training, the diploma should so state. It would be much fairer to the employer if he knew the work of the student as revealed by those who taught him or her.

"We are facing some great challenges and it will be interesting to see and plan for the great changes are due to take place in the classrooms of the future.

"The system has undergone some great changes since I was in school, and it will be a great experience to be on the scene when the coming changes are made."

TETRACYCLINE STAINED TEETH
Tetracyclines-a group of infection-fighting antibiotics-can produce staining of children's teeth if they are given during the time when the primary teeth are forming. According to the National Institute of Health, if tetracycline is given to a woman during her last trimester of pregnancy, or to an infant during the first three months of life, discoloration of the dentin of baby's teeth could occur. The restulting stains are then visible as soon as the baby teeth erupt. The sensitive period of tetracycline-induced staining of the permanent teeth occurs between the ages of 3 months and 8 years. These stains may not become visible for several years.
Although the stains are permanent, the enamel of the teeth is seldom weakened, and, therefore, the teeth function well. It is not a health hazard and if properly cared for, teeth-stained or not-can last a lifetime.
There are some cosmetic treatments for tetracycline-stained teeth, however, the best treatment is prevention. Parents should discuss with their doctors the use of alternative drugs during late pregnancy or early childhood.

Bubbles and bubbly

Dudley Moore stars in the comedy "Arthur" as a carousing millionaire whose family has threatened to cut off his inheritance unless he marries a cloying debutante and gives up the shoplifter he loves."

the movies

Louise Snider

'S.O.B.' roasts moguls, flunkies, of Hollywood

Either you love it or you hate it.

"S.O.B." (R) is that kind of movie.

Blake Edwards, the creative force behind this dark comedy, skewers the film industry and delivers an extra thrust whenever a studio executive or actor's agent is the target. However, he doesn't miss anyone; the flatterers and hangers-on, lawyers and houseboys all are included.

Edwards has a well-deserved reputation as a master of comedy, but there is nothing in his previous films — "10" and the Pink Panther series — to prepare one for the black humor and stinging satire of "S.O.B." (Standard Operational Bull).

A jogger on the beach dies of a heart attack. He lies there for days, his dog vainly trying to attract attention, while beach people go on with their beach people life.

A movie director who has had one smashing success after another has an expensive failure and becomes suicidal. He keeps trying to kill himself while people around him continue to party. His doctor's solution is to pump himself and his patient full of happy pills and shots.

THE MOVIE IS a deliciously venomous reflection of some of Edwards' own experiences with the Hollywood moguls. He had an impressive track record and a Midas touch until he made a costly loser, "Darling Lili," and became persona non grata.

After a lengthy exile, Edwards did make a big comeback with his comedies. Now, with one mighty swipe, he's decked the opposition.

Using slapstick, caricature and devastating wit, he's exposed the callousness, the greed, the double-dealing and the hypocrisy of this glamor industry.

Richard Mulligan has the role of the director, Felix Farmer, a role he plays first with catatonic drollness, then with manic abandon. The change occurs when he decides he can salvage his G-rated disaster by reshooting it as an erotic film.

JULIE ANDREWS, who is married to Edwards, plays Felix's wife, Sally Miles, the star of his big flop. Sally is the darling of millions of movie-goers who cherish her sweet, prim image. When Felix decides to reshoot his movie, he plans to titillate and shock audiences by putting Sally in the leading role.

Casting Julie Andrews — the "Mary Poppins," "Sound of Music" Julie Andrews — goody two-shows Sally Miles is a marvelous pun, but it is also so close to reality as to be distracting. It might have been better if some lesser-known actress had taken the part.

Otherwise, the casting is exceptionally good. William Holden is Felix's jaded but staunch friend; Robert Webber is a nervous man; Shelly Winters, a greedy agent; Stuart Margolin, a two-faced personal secretary; Loretta Swit, a dragon-lady gossip columnist; and Robert Vaughn, a nasty studio head.

Among all this top talent, Robert Preston steals the movie as the laid-back doctor who ministers to celebrities' malfunctions.

"S.O.B." is not about nice people, and it's certainly not about ordinary people, but they sure catch your attention when Edwards turns them on the spit.

Endless heartbreak

Brooke Shields plays a Jade, a teenager whose obsessive affair with 17-year-old David (Martin Hewitt) enrages her parents and leads to tragedy.

Q&E

what's at the movies

ARTHUR (PG). Dudley Moore is a playboy millionaire in love with Liza Minelli in this contemporary comedy.

ATLANTIC CITY (R). Louis Malle's wonderfully vibrant, superbly acted, romantic film about old and young dreamers in Atlantic City.

BLOWOUT (R). John Travolta and Nancy Allen star in Brian De Palma's murder mystery centering around the accidental recording of a murder and the cover-up attempts that follow.

BREAKER MORANT (PG). A fine film set in South Africa during the Boer War about the court-martial of three Australian officers in the British army.

BUSTIN' LOOSE (R). Richard Pryor and Cicely Tyson in romantic comedy about ex-con helping a schoolteacher transport children from a Philadelphia ghetto to a Washington farm.

THE CANNONBALL RUN (PG). Burt Reynolds is on the road again, challenging the speed limits. With him are Roger Moore, Dom DeLuise and Farrah Fawcett.

CHEECH AND CHONG'S NICE DREAMS (R). What else, man, but dope? That's what Cheech and Chong are all about CLASH OF THE TITANS (PG). Animation and live action combine in the adventures of the Greek hero Perseus, son of Zeus, who must overcome many powerful monsters in order to win the hand of the beautiful Andromeda.

ENDLESS LOVE (R). Brooke Shields and Martin Hewitt are two passionate teenagers who become so obsessed with one another that it drives them to acts beyond reason.

Canton conquers Elks in Mack thriller

Canton Caesars, which has been making a shambles of the Connie Mack League baseball season thus far, passed its most severe test Thursday night with a hard-fought 2-1 victory over the rival Salem Elks.

Coach Fred Crissey's team ran its unbeaten string to 17 games with the victory. It was also Canton's fifth consecutive win over the Elks this summer.

"It was our best game of the year," said Crissey, who guided Canton to a 28-3 record during the school year. "Both sides played well. There were some super defensive plays made by both teams."

Canton scored a run off Salem starter Greg Chappell in the first inning.

Keith Stone and Scott Bricker drew walks and moved to second and third, respectively, on a sacrifice bunt. Jeff Stemberger then hit a long fly to score Stone.

Salem came back with a run in the top of the third when Todd Riedel hit a bad-hop single past third base. Mickey Madsen then drilled a double to score Riedel, but was cut down at third, when he tried to advance on perfect a relay throw from Stone-to-Bricker-to-Weise.

In the bottom half of the inning, Canton scored what proved to be the winning run. Stone, again was the catalyst, drawing a walk. He went to second on Al Blascak's bunt and scored on Jeff Cousino's single. Blascak was pinch hitting for Bricker, who left the game because of an injury.

Jamie Chilcoff started on the mound for Canton and hurled the first two innings. He was relieved by the eventual winner, Todd Bergman, who went the next two innings.

But it was the team's ace, Dan Smith, who closed the door on Salem. He did not allow a hit over the final three innings.

Chappell, who worked five innings before giving way to Joe Humphries, suffered the loss.

STONE STYMIED a potential Salem scoring threat in the first inning when he raced to right-center field with his back turned to the ball, robbing Salem catcher Dave Slavin of an extra base hit.

In the sixth inning, Canton threatened with two outs and runners in scoring position. Salem's Pete Steyaert, however, spoiled things for Canton with a diving grab in right field off the bat of Canton catcher Mike Wall.

"It was the best game of the summer," said Crissey. "The game lasted only one-hour and fifty-eight minutes. It was a lot of fun."

Canton then increased its summer record to 18-0 with a forfeit victory Friday over hapless Thurston.

Caesars, which has already qualified for a district playoff berth in the Connie Mack League state playoffs, was scheduled to meet Thurston Saturday in a double-header.

Canton will begin district play Thursday, July 30, at Pontiac Jaycee Park.

Jamie Chilcoff, Canton's starting pitcher, gets every ounce of his legs into the play. He held Salem scoreless over the first two innings but did not get the decision.

Mickey Madsen (left) of the Salem Elks starts moving from his shortstop position to cover third base on a bunt play. Canton runner Keith Stone was forced back to second.

Tom Wennerberg supplied the offense and Mike Battaglia took care of the pitching as the Canton Elks surprised West-7 National in a Mickey Mantle League baseball game Thursday, 4-2.

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own . . . but it takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item . . . and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

One more thing . . . get up early the day of your sale! When people read about a Garage Sale in Classified, they shop early.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

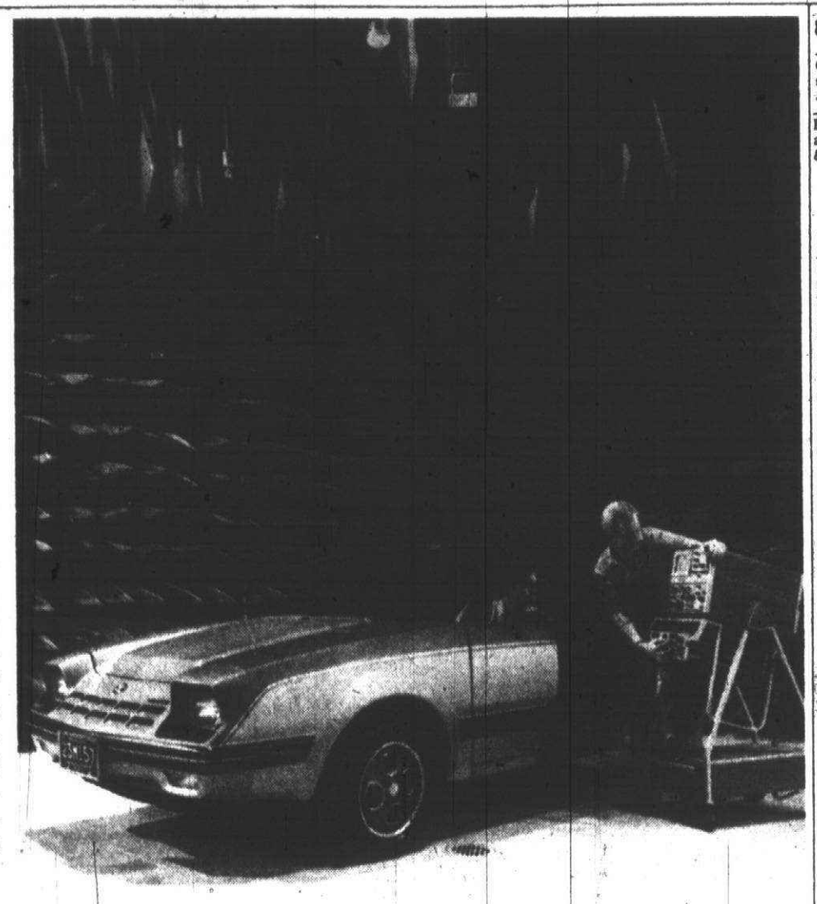
Sound test



Energy-saving cones on the walls and ceiling make an unusual setting for this test of a 1982 Mercury LN7 sportcoupe. The site is the Radio Frequency Anechoic Chamber in Ford Motor Company's Diversified Products Technical Center. The facility, one of five vehicle-test chambers in the laboratory building, provides an isolated, electrically noise-free environment for measuring and analyzing electrical noise radiated by vehicle systems. It also offers a controlled environment for measuring the effects of hostile electrical noise on vehicle systems.

Risk to teen-age drivers highest in summer months

Summer may be the most dangerous driving period for this year's high-school graduates, says the Highway Users Federation.

More 18- and 19-year-olds die in traffic accidents each year than any other age group. June, July and August, traditionally months of high traffic fatalities, were the peak period of motor vehicle deaths in 1980.

There is no evidence to indicate that this year will be an exception. During the first two months of 1981, traffic fatalities were up 3.3 percent over the comparable 1980 period.

THE MOTOR vehicle death rate of 18- and 19-year-olds is more than twice the national average, according to statistics from the U.S. Census Bureau and the National Highway Traffic Safety Association.

The principal causes are youthful exuberance mixed with excessive speed, alcohol and other drugs. Underlying these is the need for strengthened driver and safety education programs.

Statistically, the ages of greatest risk to drivers are 18 to 21. Preliminary figures show that 2,374 18-year-olds died last year in traffic accidents.

This is equal to 15 average public high school graduating classes. Of 19-year-olds, 2,393 were killed.

ONE WAY to combat this toll is to increase support for driver education and safety programs, said Robert M. Calvin, manager of highway safety programs for the Highway Users Federation.

"Far too many teen-agers and young adults are being killed on our streets and highways," Calvin said.

"Intensive traffic safety instruction is needed at all grade levels. A good background in safety practices during a child's formative years, coupled later with driver education, will help produce better adult drivers, passengers and pedestrians.

"The dangers of driving under the influence of drink or drugs — as well as undue speed — cannot be minimized. School safety and driver education programs should be strengthened."
