Board hires 8 cops, eyes more staffing

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Eight cadets have been promoted to police officers, and township officials are considering additional "administrative" staffing for the police department.

The Township Board Tuesday voted to promote the eight to full officer status, giving them police powers to arrest and enforce laws. Officials believe it will ease a staffing shortage in the police department.

At the same time, Trustee Steve Larson asked Chief Jerry Cox and Personnel Director Dan Durack to see whether more "administrative" help would be needed in the police department.

Larson suggested that Chief Ordinance Officer Bruce Phillips — who will be laid off this week in a staff reorganization plan — might be able to provide that administrative help.

Phillips has received training and has served as a reserve police officer, Larson said. He also described Phillips as a "valuable resource."

"VERY SPECIFICALLY, statements have been made which displayed a need for administrative (help)," said Larson. "There is too much work and too few people."

In voting to create eight new police officer positions, the Township Board has shelved the cadet program, at least for now. The hiring of additional cadets will be reviewed by township officials some time in the future.

The new officers will be added on a staggered basis so each has a different seniority. They bring the department to 32 full-time officers, including the chief.

Starting pay for an entry-level police officer is $18,319, compared to $12,400 for a beginning cadet.

CANTON COMPARES poorly with neighboring communities staffing strength, according to a chart prepared by the police department.

Hearing on landfill draws angry crowd

By Dennis O'Connor
editor

More than 140 persons — most of them angry and upset residents — jammed into Canton Township Hall to voice their concerns at a public hearing on the proposed expansion of Woodland Meadows South landfill Monday night.

Residents said they were upset with the operation and odor from the current landfill area, Woodland Meadows North, and they were worried about the possibility of hazardous waste being dumped into that area.

Less than 5 percent of the waste disposed in Woodland Meadows North is hazardous, according to Michigan Waste Systems Inc., the operator.

Michigan Waste Systems runs the 97-acre Woodland Meadows North landfill off Hannan near Van Born in southeast Canton. It has applied for a state liscence to expand its current site an additional 105 acres. This area is bounded by Hannan, Lotz and Van Born roads and the Conrail (railroad) right-of-way, adjacent to the North site.

Michigan Waste System also is applying for permission to operate soli waste disposal on the expanded site, in accordance with Public Act 641, the state Solid Waste Management Act of 1978.

Canton Township Planner James Kosteva said Tuesday he spoke with Michigan Waste Systems officials who indicated they were in the process of applying for permission to operate hazardous waste material on the site, as well, in accordance with Public Act 64, also known as the Hazardous Waste Management Act.

Waste issue sparks inquiries

The issue of whether to expand the Woodland Meadows landfill in southeast Canton is a long way from being settled.

Michigan Waste System, Inc., which operates the current Woodland Meadow landfill site, has applied for a state liscence to expand the landfill and operate solid waste disposal on the expanded area.

It also is in the process of applying for permission to operate hazardous waste disposal on the site, according the Canton Township Planner James Kosteva. Deadline for that application is Aug. 14.

Before the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) acts on both applications, the agency will accept letters from residents about the issue during the next month. A public hearing, conducted by DNR and Wayne County Health Department, was held Monday night at Canton Township Hall.

Canton officials will be busy in the following months assessing the issue and making a recommendation to the state.

Board agrees to hear idea

Teachers map plan to save camp

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education may reconsider the fate of sixth grade camp.

The board has tentatively proposed a meeting with a group of teachers interested in saving the program. With only five board members present at Monday night's board meeting, however, the board did not commit itself to the meeting.

A proposal to revive the camping program had previously been rejected by a 5-2 vote.

Carol Davis, board president, said she would poll all board members and see if there was any desire to take another look at camp.

If there was, said Davis, the board likely would schedule a workshop session with teachers to discuss ways to make the program self-sufficient.

On July 13 the school board heard a proposal from the administration on steps which could be taken to put the camp program on a self-paying basis. At that meeting, the board voted to keep sixth-grade camp on the list of items to be trimmed from the budget.

Although camp has been among the list of cuts for many weeks, interest in saving camp has surfaced only in the past month.

GARY TEMPLE, a sixth grade math/science teacher at Pioneer Middle School, argued for restoration of the camp.

Davis said if the choice comes down to textbooks or camp, she will choose texts — adding that camp was not one of the highest priorities on her list of preferred restorations.

"We tried to tell people that we have serious financial problems, but no one believed us. Maybe I can go for it if it can be done on a self-paying basis."

Davis said she was concerned that if camp was put on a self-sustaining basis many needy children in the district might be excluded. She said tutition would be $45 per student if the camp were put on a self-paying basis.

During this past school year, the cost was $35 per student.

One teacher suggested fund-raisers could be held to make up the $10 increase in tuition for those who could not afford it. However, in past years, the district has subsidized the cost of sending needy sixth graders to camp tuition free.

Temple objected that the board had made a decision to add a new soccer program at an additional cost but had cut camp, which had academic beneifts to all sixth graders in the district.

Do you love Canton? Buy a license plate

Do you love Canton?

Will you spend $2 for a red-white-and-blue license plate for your car to proclaim affection for the community where you live?

Do you want to help some kids go to camp or to buy some sports equipment?

The five members of the Canton Police Command Officers Association — lieutenants and sergeants — have purchased 500 decorative car plates which they are selling to Canton residents for $2 each.

The goal of the sales drive is to raise $1,000 for a variety of charitable projects. The plates use decorative hearts to say "I love Canton."

"WE WANT to promote good will," explained Police Sgt. Alex Wilson. "This is one of the ways to show we care. I don't think you can have too much good will."

The Command Officers Association was formed in late 1979, said Wilson. The membership consists of a total of five lieutenants and sergeants.

Other service or union groups — including the firefighters' association — sponsor similar charitable projects. This is the first of what the command officers association have planned in a series of good-will efforts for Canton. A portion of their salaries go into a fund, and they have been planning ways to help the community with that money.

Wilson said the lieutenants and sergeants plan to have a "dunk the fuzz" tank at the Canton Country Festival in August, with proceeds going to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Other plans may include such activities as sponsoring a sports team, holding an essay contest and helping to send a child to camp.

The association plates are available for $2 each at the information desk and in the parks and recreation department in Township Hall on Canton Center Road, south of Cherry Hill, or at the police station.

Man charged in church B&E

A 17-year-old Livonian has been charged with breaking-and-entering in the break-in of the Calvary Baptist Church on Joy Road between Lilley and Morton-Taylor last Friday.

Gordon Vernon Hackett was arraigned Tuesday before 35th District Judge Judge James Garber. He stood mute and the court entered a plea of innocent in his behalf. Bond was set at $10,000.

Garber set an examination of the charges for Aug. 3. Breaking-and-entering is a felony which carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison upon conviction.

Canton patrolman John MacDiarmid said the break-in took place about 9 p.m. when the suspect threw a rock through a window which allowed access to an inside door handle.

About $4,000 worth of items were taken including a computer, paper and pencil dispenser, dictaphone with tape and microphone and $20 in cash, McDiarmid said.

All the items were later found in a field, he said.

Hackett also is awaiting trial in Wayne County Circuit Court on an earlier Canton Township breaking-and-entering charge, said MacDiarmid.

That case involves a June 24 break-in at World of Ruttman motorcycle shop on Lilley Road. Taken werea motorcycles, jackets and helmets.

The queen is crowned

Ruth Thompson, 75, of North Beck Road is Canton's first Cow Chip Queen. Ms. Thompson, receiving her sash from Supervisor James Poole, was selected the winner over six other contestants. Ms. Thompson will ride in a manure spreader, along with her court of six women, at the Canton Parade at 11 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 8, as part of the Canton Country Festival activities.

Schools may consider new plan for camp

"When you do things like this, it creates a problem of credibility," said Temple.

Davis added that while the staff at Pioneer Middle School felt the camp was a very worthwhile project, some schools were not enthusiastioc about camp and staffs in those schools could not be relied on to work hard at raising money for camp.

Tom Yack, one of the trustees who backed continuation of camp, said a request to reconsider should come from one of the five who voted in the negative two weeks earlier.

Trustee William Decker and Davis both said they still had problems voting to restore the camp program.

After the discussion was ended, Davis assured Temple the board would take the matter under advisement and discuss it informally when board members Elaine Kirchgatter, on vacation, and Flossie Tonda, recuperating from an injured foot, returned.

Dan White, director of finance, said he called the camp in Proud Lake Recreation area and found out that in recent years Plymouth-Canton and Huron Valley school districts have had half of the camp time each season.

Last year Huron Valley dropped out and with Plymouth-Canton dropping out, the camp will have only one full week booked between Labor Day and Thanksgiving.

If a decision is made to restore camp, White added, Plymouth-Canton could likely get a reservation. He said a realistic deadline for action was the opening of the school year.

Margaret Flores of Canton Township, a senior at Madonna College, chats with Marion Surbrook in Marion's room at the Westland Convalescent Center. Mrs. Flores studies gerontology and offers volunteer work at the convalescent center.

Elderly love!

Canton woman gives a helping hand

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Margaret Flores of Canton Township has warm memories of weekends spent with her grandparents while growing up in a small Ohio town.

Later, she became close friends with a retired school teacher, and the two would have lunch together, then leaf through old books and talk.

As a teenager, Margaret Flores did household chores for a neighbor who was weakened by terminal cancer.

This sense of caring and fondness for elderly persons has led Mrs. Flores, now 24, to forge a career in services for the aged.

Currently Flores, a resident of Honeytree Apartments complex, is in her senior year in gerontology at Madonna College in Livonia. Gerontology is the study of the physical and psychological aspects of aging.

She is doing field work at the Area Agency on Aging in Southfield, which disburses federal funds for local programs for senior citizens. She is coordinating a communications fair for elderly and hearing impaired, which will be at Madonna on Oct. 24.

In her spare timeMrs. Flores does volunteer work at the Westland Convalescent Center on Warren Road.

"I WAS always interested in the aged," said the soft-spoken, brown-eyed Mrs. Flores. "When I look back, I guess I did a lot of things with older people."

Helping the elderly live in dignity and comfort are important goals of Mrs. Flores. Her opinions were shaped while growing up in Twinsburg, Ohio, a small town between Akron and Cleveland.

As the oldest of six children Mrs. Flores developed a strong sense of responsibility. She also found that she liked the company of older persons.

Those feelings jelled into career plans a few years ago whenMrs. Flores and her husband Raymond, a mechanical engineer for Chrysler, moved to Michigan. At the time, she was working for a tire-supply company, but she learned about the gerontology program at Madonna andenrolled in night classes.

Last fall, she quit her job and began to go to school full-time.

She began getting involved with the volunteer work, to see if she liked the everyday life of working with elderly persons.

"The most gratifying thing is her genuine sincerity about what she is doing," said Judith Gilbert, R.N., the nursing home administrator.

"That's something you can't hide," she added. "We have a great deal of appreciation for her."

Mrs. Flores' activities at the Westland Convalescent Center include organizing volleyball games, teaching crafts, taking residents for walks or to the doctor. Once she and resident Matt Kraska went to a Shakespearean play together.

"WHEN I HAVE time, I like to go (to the nursing home) several times a week," said Mrs. Flores. "I just feel you can learn from the elderly. They have had a lot of experiences (and) they're enjoyable people.

Attendance policy passes initial test

After making one change, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Monday night voted to approve for first reading a proposed new policy on student attendance.

The policy is expected to be returned to the board for final approval at its Aug. 10 meeting.

Key to the new policy is notification of parents at work, either by phone or in writing. It had become generally understood that students often found it easy to intercept attendance letters mailed home, especially if both parents worked.

Before the Aug. 10 board meeting, the policy will be presented to the leadership of the teachers' union — Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) — because the policy does represent a change in working conditions.

If the union agrees to the proposed policy, it will be sent to the board for final action. If agreement cannot be reached, then other changes could be negotiated.

Norm Kee, assistant superintendent for personnel, said the union would have reviewed the draft policy before Monday but its leadership was out of town. He expected the review to take place this week.

'Hopefully, each area coordinator knows the students well enough to deal with the individual's problems, but, yet, consistency among area coordinators in enforcement is needed.'

— Kent Buikema
Plymouth Canton principal

MONDAY NIGHT, the board made only one change in the proposed policy, and that was to speed up the notification process to parents.

Originally the policy stated teachers and/or area coordinators at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) must notify parents at the time of the third and fifth unexcused absences.

At the request of trustee Sylvia Stetz, that provision was amended Monday to provide for parental notification at the time of the second and fourth unexcused absences.

Carol Davis, board president, explained that the new policy was being proposed because the existing policy was not working to keep students in class.

Trustee William Decker stressed that the new policy dealt with absentees only, and not tardiness.

Kent Buikeman, principal of Plymouth Canton High, stated that tardiness will be handled under administrative procedures and not by board policy.

Buikema explained that tardiness could be dealt with more effectively as a discipline matter, rather than including it in a policy which leads to loss of academic credit.

Stetz argued in favor of notifying parents at the second and fourth unexcused absences so that parents could become involved in problem solving "much earlier" rather than waiting to see if another unexcused absence develops.

Trustee Glenn Schroeder noted that the second unexcused absence might fall at the end of a semester and it would be best to let it go and see what happens in the next semester.

The responsiblity to attend class belongs to the students, Schroeder added, and a unnecessary burden should not be placed on teachers to make sure students are in class.

Stetz agreed the responsibility rested with the student but argued for earlier contact with the home.

"We aren't talking about expelling a student anyway," said Schroeder, "so why should we get excited about the second unexcused absence?"

Trustee Tom Yack said he favored parents being notified for every single unexcused absence but realized that was idealistic.

The amendment was approved by a 4-1 vote with Schroeder voting "no;" Flossie Tonda and Elaine Kirchgatter being absent.

Yack said he favored the flexibility in the policy but asked what would be done to make sure students were treated in an equitable fashion?

Buikema agreed there might be a tendancy for area coordinators to allow for individual differences, and that they sometimes enforce the policy in different ways for different students. Buikema added that the principals will be responsible to make sure the that inconsistencies do not result in inequitable treatment of students.

Bomb charge: suspended sentence

A Wayne County Circuit Court judge has issued a suspended sentence to the Casnton woman originally charged with dropping a home-made bomb in the vestibule of the Plymouth Navy Recruiting Station last winter.

The charge against Eileen A. Roths, 51, a former Detroit school teacher, earlier had been reduced to a misdemeanor — that of attempted malicious destruction of property under $100.

There was minimal damage to the vestibule's floor tiles in the Dec. 16, 1980 incident.

Judge Theodore Bohn decided Thursday it was not necessary to jail Mrs. Roths, according to her attorney, Mark J. Kriger.

Kriger said Mrs. Roths is "doing well now" and plans to get her old job back as a science teacher with the Detroit Public Schools.

Mrs. Roths had been out on bond since last December. She was placed in the custody of her Ann Arbor daughter but now lives at home in Canton, said Kriger.

Mrs. Flores says she feels comfortable with old persons, but some of her acquaintances find it depressing to talk about elderly persons in declining health.

"I think about those things (aging) all the time," said Mrs. Flores. "And I accept it. I know I'm going to get old (and) I want to be treated with respect."

Currently, Mrs. Flores is coordinating a communications seminar to be held at Madonna College on Oct. 24.

The seminar, jointly sponsored by Madonna and the Area Agency on Aging in Southfield, will feature various devices to aid elderly and hearing impaired persons. These include electronic alert systems, alarms and television adapters

Her gerontology classes include nutrition, pre-retirement planning, mental health aspects of aging and other studies. Mrs. Flores plans to graduate next year with a double major, earning bachelor's degrees in science and gerontology, with certification in an aging and mental health specialization.

She was recently elected president of the gerontology students associatin at Madonna.

"I think very highly of Mrs. Flores," said Patricia Harmon, director of the aging and mental health program. "She knows what her goals are (and) she is good at pursuing them."

"I have seen her help other students," she added.

Mrs. Flores plans to get a master's degree in hospital administration and to own and operate a nursing home with a less institutional and more "home-like" setting.

She would like the residents to be able to keep pets and to "have as much control as possible over their own lives, to make a lot of their own decisions — to decide instead of being told.

"That may be very difficult to do, and it may be idealistic," added Mrs. Flores. "I'd like it to be kind-of-like a big home."

Board promotes 8 cadets to cops

For example, Canton has a population of almost 49,000 persons and a police staff (before the promotions) of 24. Garden City has 39,000 residents and a police force of 41.

The cadets were hired last August to do routine chores, freeing officers for more urgent duties. Under the plan, cadets would work their way up to increased responsibilities in 18-24 months.

Officials decided to upgrade the cadets to officers more quickly when it became public knowledge they had been allowed to do unsupervised patrol work, in violation of job guidelines. All of the cadets have received their state certification and most have either college degrees or prior police experience.

Last week, the merit commission — upon the recommendation of Cox and Durack — voted to reduce requirements for entry-level officers, making the promotions possible.

The new guidelines ask only that entry-level officers have a high school diploma or equivalent. No prior experience is needed.

Previously, they had to have various combinations of degrees, experience and certification from a law enforcement academy.

Trustee Robert Padget expressed concerns that the board, in promoting the cadets, was violating the intent of the cadet program.

MEANWHILE, Bruce Phillips said he would be willing to work as an administrator in the police department. He is preparing to appeal to the merit commission his layoff as chief ordinance officer.

Phillips received a layoff notice about three weeks ago. The Township Board voted to merge ordinance enforcement with the building department several weeks ago.

Ordinance enforcement — formerly part of the building department — had been a separate department under Phillips for about two years. Enforcement was criticized by some and applauded by others.

Why just add air conditioning? Add year-round energy savings.
GE
A GE Plus-One Heat Pump System, works with your forced-air-furnace gas, oil, propane or electric.
How does it work? Simple. A heat pump doesn't make heat. It moves heat! In summer, it works just like an air conditioner, pulling heat out of your home. In winter, it reverses, and pulls heat from outdoor air into your home (even at cold winter temperatures). Efficiently. Economically. Electrically. In fact, the Plus-One heat pump can supply all the heat you need until the weather's near freezing. Then, your forced-air furnace takes over.
You're buying the No. 1 seller!
The Plus-One heat pump is part of General Electric's family of Weathertron® heat pumps, the number-one selling heat pump, with GE's famous Climatuff™ compressor.

Very apparent that we've made shopping fun and exciting! With a new, contemporary look. With a feel for the times. And with a more-than-ever dazzling selection of merchandise that gives you and your family all the reasons in the world to shop at Hudson's Northland.

So, you may not have anything in common with the prince, the lost little boy, and King Kong, but Hudson's Northland has a lot in common with you...from our Marketplace Pantry of fresh food items, to cookware, furniture for all, tabletop, gifts, lamps, Oriental rugs, luggage, electronics, books, cameras and sporting goods on the first level. Bed and bath linens, curtains and draperies up on the fourth level.

Oh, if you should see Prince Charles in the Home Store, he's probably choosing his china and silverplate patterns with his new bride. The lost little boy is finding his parents...who are losing themselves among the astounding assortment of items in The Marketplace (our Kitchen Gadget Wall is 40 feet long!) And King Kong is probably buying some Ralph Lauren designer luggage for a trip back to the jungle. Or perhaps some sporting goods. Have to keep up the macho image, you know. Landfill hearing attracts crowd

Ray Kellas, district manager for Michigan Waste Systems and general manager of the Woodland Meadows site, said "it would be premature" at this time to say that his company will apply for the hazardous waste permit.

"We haven't made that decision yet," Kellas said. "We've been upfront with it and they know what we're doing. We want to take it one step at a time (get the solid wast permit first) and not muddy up the water.

"If we do apply for the other one (hazardous waste), I'm sure everyone will have a chance to participate."

THE THREE-HOUR meeting included a slide presentation from Michigan Waste Systems about the current operating procedures at the Woodland Meadows site. There also were comments from government officials and private citizens and an informal question-and-answer session about the landfill expansion.

The hearing was jointly conducted by the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Wayne County Health Department, as part of the regular meeting of the Canton Planning Commission.

Fred Kolb, a project manager from Emcom, based in San Jose, Calif., is a designer of the landfill area who has done some preliminary work for Michigan Waste Systems on the expansion. He conducted many tests, including an environmental assessments test, on the landfill, studying the effects on water in the area.

"There are, to our knowledge, no related impacts to water or surface water in the area," Kolb said at the hearing.

Kolb assured the DNR and the audience that Michigan Waste Systems will continue to monitor the water "on a frequent basis during the life of the landfill." Kolb also said the clay in the landfill-expansion site was good for all disposal because liquid wastes would not be able to flow through the nonporus clay.

"The landfill has clay of low permability and would contain any liquids within the landfill," Kolb said. The silt clay is of low permability that actually exceeds the requirements of 641."

CANTON, WAYNE and Van Buren Township residents who live near the area weren't happy about any thought of landfill expansion near their homes.

"Why do we need a hazardous waste dump when we already have a hazardous waste dump in our area?" asked Gene Wagner, a 14-year Canton resident.

Victor Diehl, who lives across from Hannon next to the landfill area, complained about the "muddy roads and flying papers" from trucks that bring refuse into the landfill.

"What are we going to do about the constant run of trucks from dawn to dusk?" Diehl said. "Now I have a house that's worth $75,000. It's not going to be worth a plum nickel. Would you buy it?"

Residents also complained about the odor from thr landfill. And there were many mumbles and laughter from the crowd when Michigan Waste System presented its slide presentation.

"We had audio, we had visual — all that was missing was the smell," said Bill Chang, a coast guard officer and Canton resident.

Chang also voiced concern over the permitting process of the expansion.

"I realize there is pressure from industry and the pressure from the public," Chang said. "(But) once we turn something on with a permit, it's almost impossible to turn it off."

IN A PREPARED statement, David Nicholson, Canton's assistant planner, said the township was worried about the compatibility of the expansion with existing township zoning ordinances.

"All land within Canton Township adjacent to the site is intended for general industrial use," Nicholson said. "Canton Township recognizes the need for waste disposal sites . . . the existing landfill, Woodland Meadows North . . . is a good example of how a landfill should be operated."

Landfill issue far from over

Kosteva admitted, however, that there is a question whether the township's voice will be a factor in the expansion decision.

David Nicholson, Canton's assistant planner, said the issue will be discussed at the next planning commission meeting to be held Aug. 19. A recommendation will be given to the township board at the Aug. 24 commission meeting.

After the planning commission's recommendation, the township board will hold another public hearing on the issue, Kosteva said.

A final recommendation from the Township Board may not come until mid-October, Kosteva said.

Despite the long process, Kosteva said Michigan Waste Systems realizes that such petitions take a long time. Nicholson added that he was confident Michigan Waste Systems would comply with any township recommendation, based on existing zoning ordinance laws.

"THEY (MICHIGAN Waste Systems) have indicated that they will comply with the township ordinance," Nicholson said. "As far as contractors go, this is a good contractor. There's no doubt about it. That doesn't mean what they want to do is good or bad. But they've provided more information than they've had to."

A public seminar on waste management in Michigan begins at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 12, at the township hall, Canton Center Road south of Cherry Hill. The seminar will be sponsored by the Canton Waste Advisory Group and the Northville-Novi-Plymouth-Canton League of Women Voters.

Residents may send their opinions on the proposed landfill expansion issue to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Resource Recovery Division, 1120 W. State Fair Avenue, Detroit 48203.

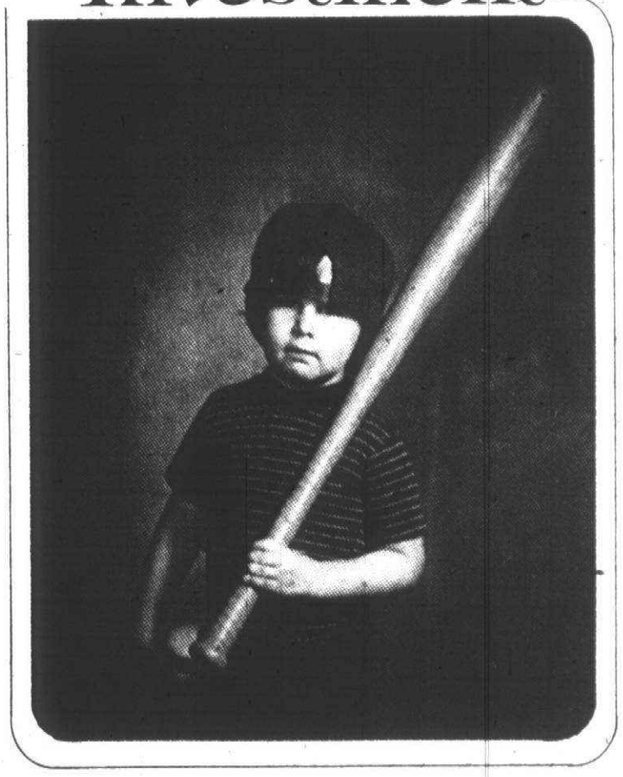
Diamonds Are A Wise Investment



As Plymouth's Bank, we are often asked how to really prepare for the future. In all honesty, it takes more than the full range of banking services we offer. A solid investment portfolio of diamonds and similar commodities is part of the answer. Not the type that are made into rings . . . but the type that help make hard working, achieving adults.

The sense of competitive fair play developed on the baseball diamond becomes a valuable part of a child's value system . . . one that lasts a lifetime. Baseball and other games children play teach that winning is indeed important. But, there are rules. And, winning outside the rules really isn't winning at all.

Life and business are much the same.

Schools organizing '12x12x12' advisory panels

A new set of citizen advisory committees have been established by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

Tagged 12x12x12, the ideal was to have 12 committees of 12 members each meeting for 12 weeks.

To date, the school board has 12 committees appointed to meet for 12 weeks starting in September — but not every group has 12 members.

And so the board has left the membership rosters open so interested residents still may apply to serve.

The purpose of the committees is to provide a means for residents to provide suggestions and ideas for action. All committees will be serving in an advisory capacity to the school board.

New food firm hired

As expected, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education voted Monday night to hire Interstate United Food Service Company as the management firm for the district's cafeteria operation for 1981-82.

The contract award ends a two-year relationship with ARA, which has been running the food program under Paul Seidel. Before that, the district ran its own cafeterias.

Jack Chandler will be the new food service director under the contractual arrangement with Interstate.

The change was made at the recommendation of the Food Service Advisory Committee and by an administrative committee consisting of Ray Hoedel, Richard Egli, William Lutz and Daniel White.

Interstate has promised to put the cafeteria program into the black financially and may be recommending at mid-year that certain schools now operating in the red be changed to a satelliting program in which food is prepared elsewhere and transported to that school.

The firm also has promised to prepare profit/loss statements for individual school operations and present those monthly to the school board.

Two students tie for 1st in rotten sneaker event

The smell was horrendous, but the contest went on.

More than 20 persons from Canton and Plymouth participated in the third annual Rotten Sneaker Contest, sponsored by the Canton Parks & Recreation Department.

Dave Rutledge and Jim Steed, both of Canton, finished in a first-place tie to win Saturday's event.

They were awarded a plaque, a can of foot power and a pair of sneakers, compliments of the Canton Sports Shop and Plymouth's Trading Post.

Mike Doyle of Canton finished third. He also took home a plaque and a can of foot powder.

Doug Ward placed fourth, Chris Vest was fifth, Dale Moore sixth, Scott Contini seventh, Kevin Jones eighth and Jim Pixley ninth.

The participants were judged in six categories — sole, eyelets, tongue, toe, heel and overall condition. Each contestant received a coupon for a free soft drink at Canton's Burger Chef.

This year's turnout was far less than last year's contest response when more than 75 persons participated in the event.

"It started as a joke, but we got a lot of publicity on it," explained Bob Dates, assistant superintendent of Canton's recreation department. "(Then) it really took off."

Rutledge, 18, of 7249 Hillsboro, is a 1980 graduate of Southfield Christian High School where he played basketball, baseball, soccer and track. He enters his sophomore year at Grace College in Winono Lake, Ind., this fall.

Steed, 17, is a 1981 graduate of Plymouth Salem. He lives at 43604 Arlington. He enters his first year at Western Michigan University this fall.

A panel of three judges — Dennis O'Connor of the Observer, Connie Flynn of Canton recreation and Ken Voyles of the Crier — selected semi-finalists and the winners.

Kleinsmith is cop for a week

Jeffery Kleinsmith of Plymouth was among some 43 young people from throughout the state who participated in a program to give them exposure to areas of state police work available and the type of training needed.

The students were housed in the state police academy in Lansing and took part in rigorous physical training each day at 7:45 a.m., room inspection, and several hours of military drill.

They also had classes in law enforcement, firearms safety, the department of natural resources, patrols, first aid, criminal laboratories, canine corps, emergency support teams, water safety, and in the fundamentals of marksmanship.

A graduation ceremony held afterwards featured as main speaker Commander Glenn Ainslie, department commander of the American Legion, and Lt. Col. Cornelius Bykerk.

Each student was sponsored by an American Legion Post and all expenses were covered by that post.

Jeff, a junior at Plymouth Salem High School, was sponsored by Passage-Gayde American Legion Post 391 of Plymouth. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kleinsmith of Plymouth. His father is principal of Fiegel Elementary of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Teacher lauds recent seminar

To the editor:

On Tuesday, June 30, I and two of my colleagues (Dudley Barlow and Sue Schneider) from the Plymouth-Canton High School English Department completed an intense and stimulating six-day, nationally attended conference in Ann Arbor.

The title of the conference was "Literacy in the 1980s," and its purpose was to "define educational, vocational, and professional needs for competent writing in the next decade."

The conference was sponsored by the English Composition Board of the University of Michigan and funded by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

The impressive list of speakers at the conference, from government, business and academia, all expressed concern over the threat illiteracy bodes for our nation (functionally literate was the minimum level referred to but "absolute literacy" was the ideal goal). Estimates place the functionally illiterate at 24 million over the age of 16 and another 30 million as marginally literate.

THE PROBLEM of TV watching and literacy was addressed early in the conference. Dr. Gavriel Salomon from Hebrew University in Jerusalem said his research shows that, while TV does not actually damage learning ability, it has the effect of making children resistant to doing the imaginative work reading requires.

The declining writing competence observed is related to the same forces that affect reading, but some other factors were revealed as well. The English Composition Board feels that English teachers, and departments of English in schools and universities, have for whatever reasons mistakenly claimed that they alone can teach writing. To combat this, the ECB has persuaded 30 departments at U-M to offer courses in writing. We must begin (and I'm sure many do already) to teach students to write in all of our courses and grade levels.

SOME MORE immediate advice was available for parents: read in front of your children, buy them books that are their own, question them vigorously about the meaning of what they watch on TV, write in front of them so they can witness the beauty of personal insight gained sometimes in writing for oneself, and the difficulty of producing something that communicates to a specific audience.

I think we learned, anew, that literacy can only have meaning in a context of community and common purpose. Hopefully, in the '80s we can together re-establish all three.

Raceway & RR receive thanks

To the editor:

I would like to extend a special thanks to the following people for participation in the 10th annual Dearie Day festival of Old Village, Plymouth: Hazel Park Raceway and Harold Davis for having provided free grandstand passes; John McDonell, the driver who put on the demonstration with his horse Jamtime; and, finally, to Dr. Frank Marotta, a veterinarian who explained the care of the race horse.

I also would like to thank C&O Railway for bringing an engine and caboose down for display. C&O Railway police were here to explain the railway system, and to show their 1981 models.

Without this kind of participation we would not have had a complete festival. These demonstrations are done in the public interest. I also would like to thank each and every volunteer for being an integral part of Dearie Days.

Many offered to lend a hand

To the editor:

I had my first experience with an inoperative car on the I-96 expressway this week. What a nerve-racking experience!

It would have been very much worse being stuck on the inside lane except for the many offers of help that I had.

1. A Livonia Police officer came along and called a towing service for me and came around a second time to check on me.
2. A Wayne County Sheriff's deputy stopped and asked if I was in any trouble.
3. Two individual citizens stopped and asked to help.
4. A Redford police reserve policewoman who was off duty stopped and had to go on but she came back and stayed with me until the towing truck came along and then drove me home to Plymouth from the Merriman Road exit.

We hear so much about bad experiences that I would like the public to know that there are still a lot of good people out there who are ready and willing to help.

Army MP battalion to encamp at Hilton

The 504th Military Police Battalion will be "camping out" at the Plymouth Hilton Inn today through Saturday.

Michael P. Haggerty of the Plymouth Hilton, says while here the group will take a trip to the Detroit Race Course (DRC), to the Plymouth shopping area and to the Cranbrook Institute of Science.

The weekend will end with the battalion's annual banquet Saturday night.

THE 504th MP Battalion, which was activated at Fort Sam Houston in May 1941, trained for nearly two years in Texas and in March 1943 landed in North Africa to join a combined American-British offensive in pursuit of Rommell's Afrika Korps.

Easter Sunday that year found the 504th scattered over 40,000 miles of desert and moving towards Constantine. As the Afrika Korps surrended, the battalion took over the handling of a vast number of German prisoners taken by Allied forces.

In July 1943 the battalion landed with combat soldiers on the beaches of southern Sicily and then participated in the invasion of Salerno.

From Salerno the battalion moved north to Naples and then on to Anzio. In August 1944 the 504th hit the beaches of St. Tropez, France and then joined the Seventh Army for a 500 mile march to the Rhine.

The unit in 1945 was in Berlin and on VE Day was assigned at headquarters of the Third Army in Munich. The battalion emerged as the most decorated MP battalion in World War II, earning nine battle stars and four bronze arrowheads for amphibious landings.

S'craft original retiring to Florida

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Clara Rousseau has been a Schoolcraft employee since 1962: "The day I started . . . they signed the option to buy the campus."

By Mike Scanlon
staff writer

Like a lot of other winter-weary Michigan retirees, Clara Rousseau and her husband William plan to settle down in Florida.

Unlike a lot of those other people, however, the retiring Schoolcraft College president's secretary and her husband won't be cutting family cords to do it.

Her parents live in Florida; her husband is a native of the Sunshine State whose sister still lives there; a son lives there; and the Rousseaus already own a condominium there.

Sounds like an ideal setup. But not necessarily, as far as Mrs. Rousseau is concerned.

"I plan to do all things I've wanted to do," she says. "I don't know what they are, but I keep saying that.

"I'm not sure if I can handle all that leisure time.

"I doubt if I'll stay completely retired. I've always worked and I've always had something each minute of the day," she adds.

An employee since 1962, Mrs. Rousseau started working at Schoolcraft College almost before there was a Schoolcraft College.

"THE DAY I started at Schoolcraft, they signed the option to buy (the campus)," she said.

It's been an enjoyable 19 years under two different presidents, she says.

"I would be very bored on a job where I did the same things day in and day out," said the Dearborn native.

"The biggest change I've seen is a more, well, I can't say adult student population. I don't want to say older. But we now have a college not just for recent high school graduates.

"When we first started out, we had mostly 18-, 19-year-olds. Now the average age is probably the late '20s. We have something to offer everybody at all age levels."

Everybody but Mrs. Rousseau, that is. A high school graduate, Mrs. Rousseau says her enrollment in Schoolcraft courses over the past 20 years "wasn't as many as I should have taken. By the time the day was over with, I liked to get away."

THE ROUSSEAUS retirement plans aren't set in concrete.

"We have a lot of iffies in our life. If we sell our house, we'll probably move to Florida and live there."

States told to police auto emissions

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes July 16-22.

HOUSE

AUTO POLLUTION: The house rejected 177-184 an amendment to prevent annual inspections aimed at controlling air pollution by motor vehicles. The vote leaves intact a federal law that, beginning in 1982, will require states to police auto emissions in 37 metropolitan areas having the nation's dirtiest air. The amendment, offered for fiscal 1982, will require states to police auto emissions in 37 metropolitan areas having the nation's dirtiest air. The amendment was offered to a fiscal 1982 appropiations bill for the Environmental Protection Agency and other agencies. The bill was sent to the Senate.

Supporter Doug Walgren, D-Penn, said the federal policy "is wrong because it puts the burden on the car owner, and not the car manufacturer. . . . Detroit should be making devices that are long-lasting and devices that work."

Opponent Henry Waxman, D-Calif., said an appropriations bill was not the vehicle for changing the 1970 Clean Air Act, and he added that "poor maintenance by motorists" is the main reason auto emission inspections are needed.

Members voting "yea" wanted to avert state inspections of auto-emission devices.

Rep. William Broomfield, R-Birm. voted "yea."

Rep. Carl Pursel, R-Plymouth, David Bonior, D-Mt. Clemens, William Brodhead, D-Detroit, and James Blanchard, D-Pleas. Ridge, voted "nay."

Reps. William Ford, D-Taylor, did not vote.

SELECTIVE SERVICE: By a vote of 125-290, the House rejected an amendment to prevent the Selective Service System from using Social Security numbers to enforce the draft registration requirement. The amendment was offered to the defense authorization bill, later sent ot conference with the Senate.

There currently is no military draft, but 18-year-old men are required to register for possible conscription. About 88 percent are complying. Selective Service wants registrans to list Social Security numbers and access to Social Security Administration files to find out who has not registered.

Supporter Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said "this chilling effect upon our citizens in utilizing some universal identification number is only the beginning of the erosion of our freedom."

Opponent Bill Nichols, D-Ala., said: "I do not want to send anybody to the penitentiary, but we need to get their attention and it is the Social Security System that is going to help us. . . .

Members voting "yea" opposed requiring draft registrants to provide Social Security numbers.

Pursell, Bonior, Ford and Brodhead voted "yea."

Blanchard and Broomfield voted "nay."

A FEDERAL COMMISSION: The House rejected 201-216 an amendment to kill a $30,000 appropiaton to fund the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Memorial Commission. The panel was formed 26 years ago to plan an FDR memorial in Washington, but despite spending about $500,000 has been unable to come up with a proposal acceptable to Congress. It was described in debate as the longest-running commission in U.S. history. The bill was sent to the Senate.

Sponsor Dan Glickman, D-Kansas, said "let us end this little bit of nonsense which is costing the taxpayers $30,000 to $50,000 per year."

Opponent Sidney Yates, D-Ill., said the commission should be kept alive for one more year and that to terminate it now "will result in the destruction of every attempt to try to provide a worthy memorial for the late, great president."

Members voting "nay" wanted to appropriate $30,000 for the FDR commission.

Pursell, and Broomfield voted "yea."

Bonior, Ford, Brodhead and Blanchard, voted "nay."

SENATE

SOCIAL SECURITY: The Senate killed 52-46 an amendment to preserve minimum Social Security Payments for persons now receiving them o scheduled to receive them during 1982. Congress has not yeat give the final word, but hte bote increases chances that the minimum benefit will be eliminated as early as Aug. 1. The administration has proposed — and the House and Senate in previous voted endorsed — eliminating the minimum $122 monthly payment to all eligible for old-age benefits. The three million persons affected would have their benefits lowered as a result of recalculations based on earnings history with a safety net extended to the very poor. The vote came during debate on the sweeping tax-cut bill, which was headed toward final passage and House condiseration.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kansas, a supporter of killing the amendment, said "we are not trying to take anything away from ayone" and that the main issue was austerity — "whether Congress is going to lose its nerve and start backing away from some of the spending cuts for which a large majority in both parties have voted."

Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., who wanted to preserve the minimum benefit, said $122 monthly "is an absolutely critical amount of money to those people living in poverty and trying to scrape by, most of whom are very elderly."

Senators voting "yea" wanted to end the minimum Social Security benefit.

Sens. Carl Levin, and Donald Riegle voted "nay."

OIL TAX BREAKS: By a vote of 47-49 against, the Senate rfused to kill an amendment ot the pending tax cut legislation that would have given the oil industyr $18 to $20 billion in relief by phasing out over four years the iwndfall profits tax on newly discovered oil. The amendment later was withdrawn, however, because this vote showed that opponents had sufficient strength to maintain a filibuster. An oil tax cut of $250 million over five years was later approved.

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.V., a supporter of killing the amendment, called the proposal a windfall for the oil companies "wrapped in the flag of supply-side rhetoric and free market forces."

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kansas, sponsor of the amendment, asked: "Should there be some penalty imposed on somebody who wants to go out and discover more oil to get away from dependence on foreign sources?"

Senators voting "yea" opposed the larger oil industry tax cuts.

Levin and Riegle voted "yea."

Act now — conservation tax credits are shrinking

first of two parts

energy

Barry Jensen

A Michigan law allows a tax credit for the installation of solar, wind or water energy conversion devices. The size of the credit is shrinking yearly. So if you are thinking of a renewable energy system, act now.

How does the tax program work?

Michigan property owners may claim a credit against their taxes for a percentage of the costs for the construction, equipment and installation of a solar, wind or water energy conversion device. For example, if you owe $2,500 in income tax and are eligible for a $1,500 renewable energy tax credit, only $1,000 in taxes must be paid. Or, if you owe $1,000 in income taxes and are eligible for renewable energy credit of $1,500, you will receive a $500 state income tax refund.

What types of solar, wind or water energy conversion devices qualify?

An eligible solar, wind or water energy conversion device is a mechanism designed primarily to collect, convert, transfer or store for future use solar, wind or water energy for the purpose of heating, cooling or electric supply. Parts of a heating, cooling or electric supply systems that would be required regardless of the energy source don't qualify for a tax credit.

Eligible systems include active and passive solar, wind, ground water heat pumps, low-head hydro and photovoltaic energy systems.

What about fireplaces and wood-assisted furnaces?

They are not eligible. Wood stoves may be eligible if they are the supplementary heat source to a passive heating system.

How much is the individual tax credit?

The credit applies to systems installed between Jan. 1, 1979, and Dec. 31, 1983. The percentage of the costs that can be credited against income taxes declines yearly. The credit for single-family residences are:

Year	% of 1st $2,000	% of next $8,000
1980	25	15
1981	20	10
1982	15	5
1983	10	5

The $8,000 is replaced by $13,00 for apartment buildings.

Who certifies the devices (systems)?

The Energy Administration. A certificate will be issued for approved devices (systems), and the taxpayer will attach the certificate to his state income tax forms.

What if I buy a new house that already has such a system?

The builder may apply for precertification to the Energy Administration, and the builder will give the home buyer the precertificate. When you submit that to the Energy Administration, along with proof of ownership, your tax credit certificate will be approved.

Part II concludes next week. If you have any questions regarding the tax credits, call the Energy Hotline at 1-800-292-4704. The folks at the Energy Hotline will be happy to help you. All the information you need is contained in the Solar Tax Credit Packet, which will be sent to you on request by the Energy Hotline.

Alcohol fuel fans will be able to attend an open house near Almont Saturday. The demonstration is put on by the Midwest Energy Co. at the Gary Schultz farm.

Demonstrations will begin at 9 a.m. and end at 4 p.m. Activities include demonstrations of cooking, fermenting and distillation. All sorts of alcohol fuel-related information should be available.

The Schultz farm is 30 miles north of Detroit. To get there, drive north on Van Dyke (in Warren) — it turns into Highway 53. Take 53 to Boardman Road. Turn east on Boardman and go one mile to the farm.

Leave ordinance department alone

To the editor:

It has been brought to my attention by another homeowners association that there is a plan to eliminate and/or merge the ordinance department with the building department.

I strongly urge you to leave the ordinance department intact.

It is the one place that homeowners and their officers can go to receive help with any problem that arises. In fact, had it not been for the ordinance department, our subdivision association, Canton Country Acres, would still not be in effect.

I spent a year trying to get Pulte to finish the agreed upon work and turn over the association papers to us.

Bruce Phillips (director of the ordinance department) spent a lot of time getting Pulte to grade and seed our park, put in our sidewalks by the park, pay the back taxes on the park and reinstate our association with the state of of Michigan.

There is no way, as an individual, I could have gotten Pulte to agree with all that, let alone give them a firm nudge to get the work done in a reasonable amount of time.

Bruce Phillips accepted my many phone calls, met me many times at the Township Hall, and he even gave up an evening to come to my house to meet with the directors of our association.

I just can't tell you how valuable that whole department has been to this association.

Objects to view on what's life

To the editor:

I read with some amusement Mary Uhl's letter regarding 200 AAUW delegates' decision to oppose any action of "morality or righteousness which threatens the individual freedoms guaranteed by the Bill of Rights." The central question is, of course, who protects the freedoms of the unborn child?

Ms. Uhl rushes right on to inform us the Michigan Division of AAUW opposes any legislation or constitutional action which designates a time that life begins. How handy! If we can deny that life has begun when the sperm has joined with the egg, we don't have to feel badly about aborting a "clump of cells."

If the 200 AAUW delegates can look at a trash can full of aborted "clumps" in any given clinic or hospital that specializes in that radical form of birth control and then deny that what they have seen is human, they're made of far sterner stuff that I.

Carrying the AAUW's specious logic to its conclusion, if we cannot determine when life begins, perhaps we should do away with birth certificates. How can any of us be certain we're alive? And since we're not certain we're alive, who can say for sure when we are dead? Perhaps we ought to prop corpses in chairs and wait for the AAUW to enlighten us further.

The position endorsed by the AAUW can hardly be called "non-partisan." The World Book Dictionary defines partisan as "a strong supporter of a person, party, or cause; one whose support is based on feeling rather than on reasoning."

That definiton fits rather nicely the cause the AAUW has chosen to espouse. To call it non-partisan is outrageous and untrue.

Ripped off!

To the editor:

On Wednesday, July 8, while I was swimming, parts of my locked bike were stolen. I think people should know how kids will go to such extremes to steal things they need.

I think that if people are using bike racks they should be in a visible place or they are no use. I think other kids that have had things stolen will agree. I'm angry that people can't earn the money they need. Instead they ripped me off!

Salem class appreciates aid

To the editor:

We, the members of the prize committee for the 1981 Plymouth Salem High School graduation party, would like to say thank you to the many generous local merchants — 145 Plymouth and Canton merchants who donated a wide variety of thoughtful prizes. The merchants in the Plymouth, Canton community have each year been most cooperative and this year seemed to top them all.

Disappointed in twin copy

To the editor:

I was very disappoin ed in the story of "who's who," concerning the Moomey twins on Cherry Street in Plymouth.

These girls won secor d place in 200 sets of twins.

To me, that was more important than the fact they will be separated in the first grade at Starkweather School.

To come that close to first place out of so many was really the news. From one of the grandmothers,

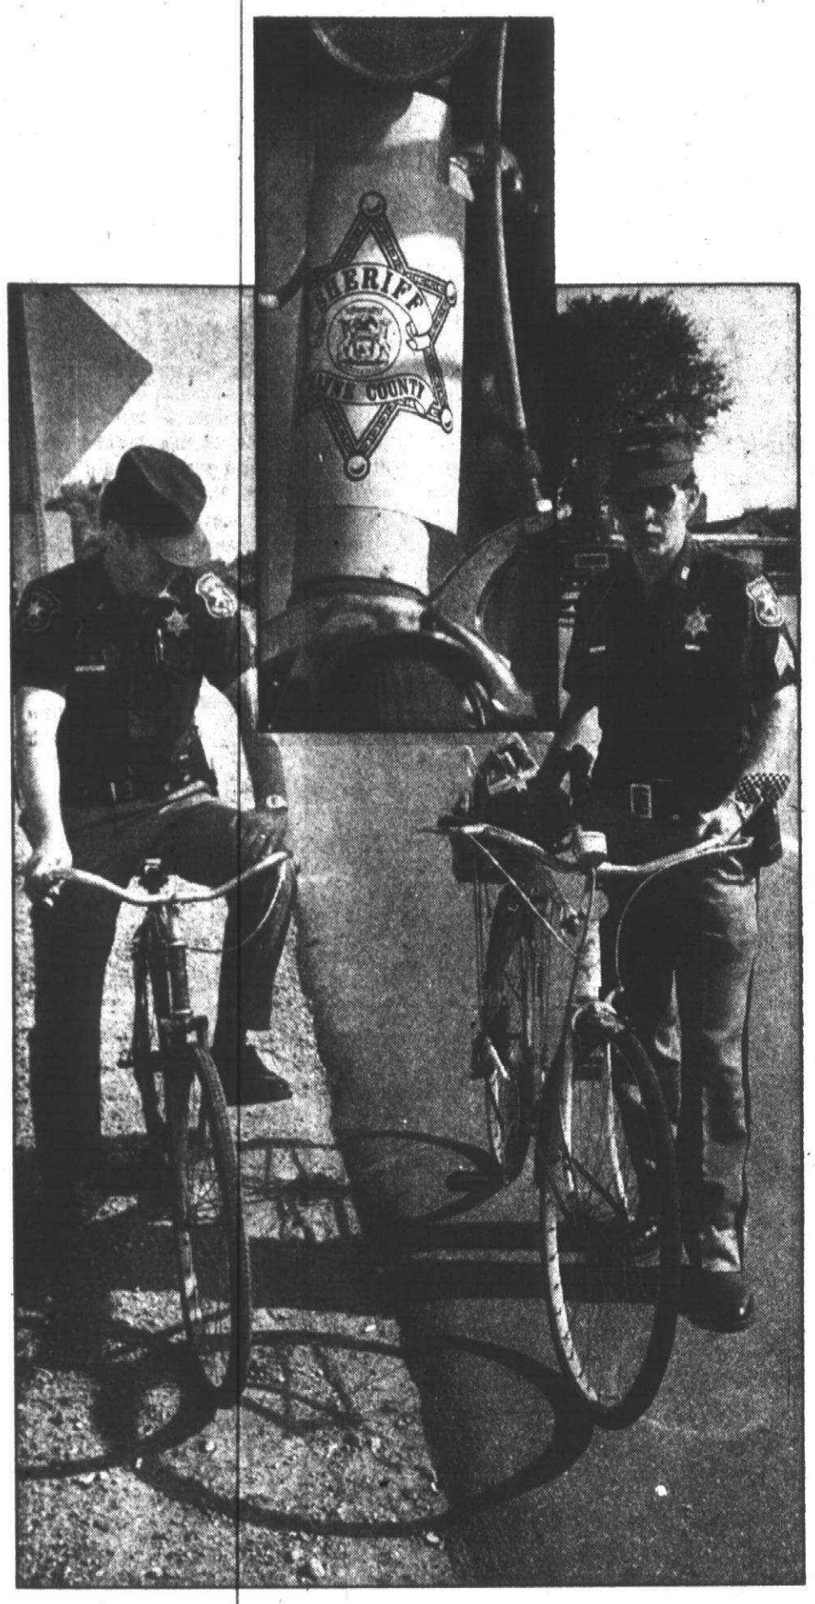
Deputies patrol Hines on bikes



Pedal on!

Wayne County Sheriff's deputies (pictured left and right) have taken to riding their own bicycles to patrol Edward Hines parkway. The Wayne County Board of Commissioners, which has been tryng to dismantle the sheriff's road patrol, refused to renew the automobile insurance on the sheriff's cars. Only four of the department's 99 cars were available for patrolling recently so deputies hauled out their bikes to try to patrol the 17.5-mile-long parkway. -

New attendance policy reflects good changes

THE PROPOSED NEW attendance policy now before the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education has a number of advantages over current and earlier policies.

The major changes are an attempt by the school board and administration to address complaints made in recent months by parents of truant students about problems with existing policies and practices.

The mere fact that the change has been proposed is a healthy indication that board and administrators stand willing to work together to address problems which are getting in the way of learning.

It is much better to look at policies honestly to see if they can be changed than to become defensive and entrenched.

ONE MAJOR change in the proposed policy recognizes a change in our society at-large — working parents.

Because in many homes both parents work, most high school students get home from school before their parents do. Thus it is very easy to intercept the mail and destroy letters from the school.

Intercepting someone else's mail and destroying it indicates a serious character flaw which parents should work to correct. But the schools have decided to step in and help defuse this juvenile strategy to skip classes without having to accept some responsibility for that decision.

The new policy encourages parents to provide the high school their work addresses and phone numbers. Notices and phone calls can be made to parents at work — without fear of being intercepted. This change alone will go a long way to aid parents who are willing to work with the schools on an attendance problem, but are unaware of what is happening.

The change reflects society in the 1980s and is indicative of some of the communication changes schools should be thinking about for the coming decade.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT change is that the proposed policy is more flexible than the current one.

At present, when a student misses a class for the eighth time he/she is dropped from the class and receives a failing grade — quite a heavy consequence for a senior, or for a student having temporary emotional problems which may be erased in a month or two.

Many students interpreted the maximum limit of eight cuts as permissive language allowing a sutudent to miss class seven times without repercussion. That's not the way the current policy reads, but for many students that became the reality.

Under the new policy, the student is dropped from a class, suspended or expelled at the point where contact has been made with parents and the problem still persists with no remedey in sight.

This kind of flexibility allows administrators to take into consideration mitigating circumstances in a student's life which might call for a lesser penalty, or none at all.

While the existing policy sought to guarantee due process and parental notification, the proposed changes really nail down these two desires. If the policy is followed as written, no student would be dropped from a class without a parent being informed in advance of the problem and without the student having a chance to present evidence suggesting other action is warranted.

The proposed policy spells out steps to be taken, provides for progressive dicscipline, and seeks to insure parents really are notified when they are supposed to be informed of a truancy problem. If adopted, the teachers and area coordinators must make it work initially.

If they do, the problem will rest where it ultimately belongs — with the individual student and parent(s) involved.

West gloats over victory on coal tax

I needed no passport. The merchants, fellow campers and National Forest Service folks were as friendly and nice as could be.

But there is no doubt Montana and Wyoming have a collective mad on against us in the industrial northeast and Midwest. And they are gloating over their recent U.S. Supreme Court victory.

Earlier this year, I wrote about Montana's 30 percent and Wyoming's 17 percent "severance" tax on coal, oil and other energy resources. Detroit Edison Co. has a 30-year contract to buy Decker Coal from Montana. Part of our high electric bill is that Montana tax.

The Supreme Court said such whopping tax rates are no violation of the U.S. Constitution. All right. Neither are 'sexual perversion and fur-trapping. But they are not things people in a polite society usually do.

MONTANA'S SIDE of the story came to me from conversations, a number of news broadcasts caught on the car radio and an editorial in the Billings Gazette. All said the same thing.

"For a century or more," said the Gazette, "the political entities now feared as superstates (meaning Montana and Wyoming) served as 'profit opportunities' for the wealthy of the (northeast) states.

"Who made the money off the rape of Montana? In exchange for a few backbreaking jobs under some pretty awful conditions both at home and at work, Montanans have seen their natural resources chopped from the hillsides and ripped from the ground.

"Who got the profits? It wasn't the miner or the lumberjack or the city, county and state in which he lived.

"(Profits went to) the benevolent investor clipping his coupons somewhere back there."

The theme that a few big companies controlled in New York exploited Montana's resources for years is a common one in western thinking. The Billings Gazette's hate-the-East attitude is pretty typical.

THE LOGIC is childish, of course.

If rich coupon-clippers in New York were raping western natural resources, why didn't Montana's Legislature crack down, the way we in Michigan have passed labor laws and worked to protect the Pigeon River Country, the sand dunes, the rivers and a dozen other natural wonders?

And if those New York coupon-clippers are the culprits, why should Montana condemn every homeowner, shop, school, hospital, orphanage, unemployed auto worker, church and senior citizen to paying its 30 percent coal tax through their electric bills?

When you see an entire group (blacks, Jews, eastern states) being retaliated against for the alleged sins of a few, you know you are dealing with bigotry.

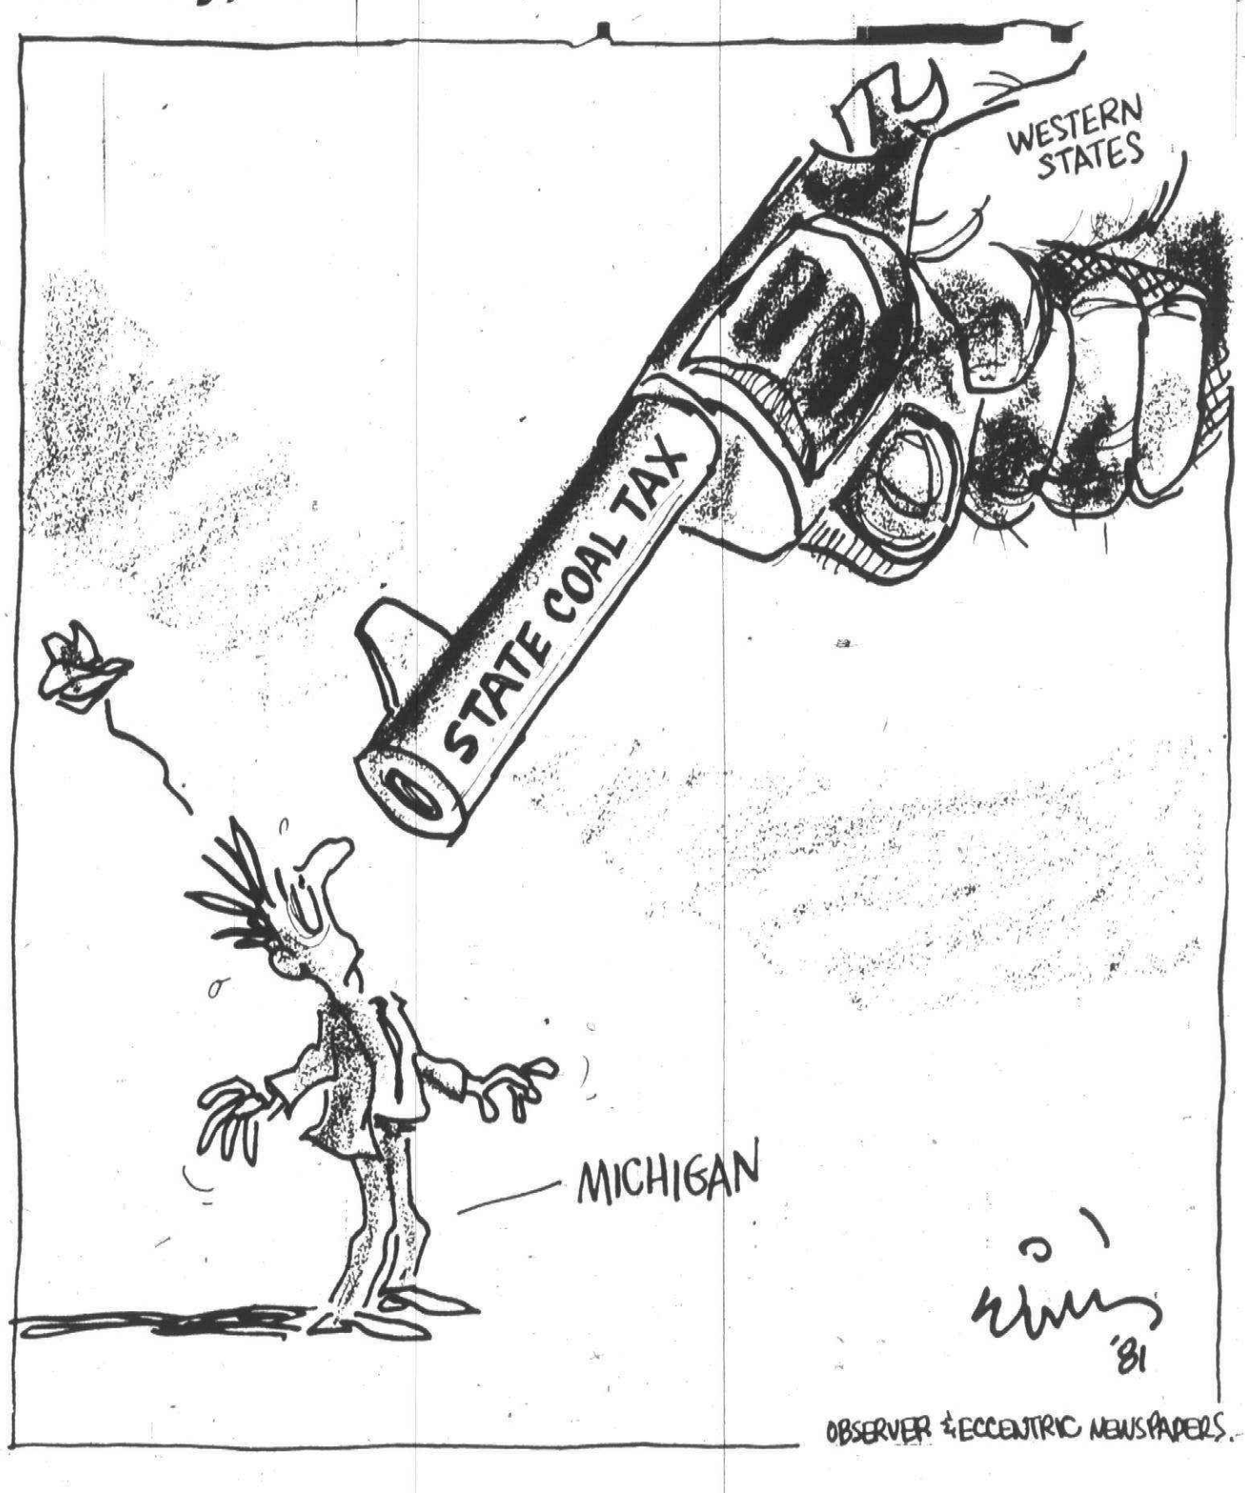
One characteristic of a bigot is that he can deal politely with an individual in a group but still hate the group. That's why camping in Montana and Wyoming is so nice, but paying a 30 percent severance tax in the Edison bill isn't. (Montana incidentally has no sales tax.)

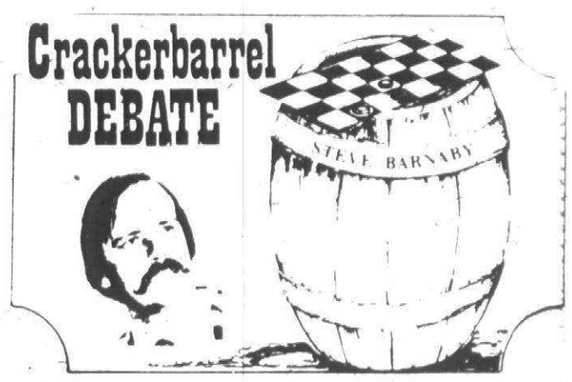
OUR WESTERN neighbors say they need those hefty taxes "to soften the economic and social impact on the communities involved" in coal mining and such, in the words of the Billings Gazette editorial.

Is that so? Well, in Laramie, a Wyoming college, ranching and tourist town untouched by coal's impact, the city council is using $850,000 in "mineral severance monies" to pay for its share of a new sewage treatment plant, the Daily Boomerang reported.

We in southeastern Michigan have seen our sewage bills triple and quadruple to pay for additions to the Detroit sewage treatment plant. So now easterners are also helping to pay for Laramie's plant through Wyoming's 17 percent severance tax.

'Howdy, Partner!'





A prayer for public education

Summer has a way of cooling political tempers and dampening the ardor of even the most doctrinaire among us.

Even militants enjoy dog days in the sun, especially in Michigan, where warmth is a rare and valued commodity.

But educators and school board trustees, beware. You're in for a long, hot fall. Cross district busing is going to look like an English lawn party after the debate over prayer in school gets rolling.

Already, one can see those nasty little seeds of discontent pushing through the dirt. Take the other day, for instance.

A FRIEND called to report back from vacation. But instead of spending a few minutes discussing leisurely pursuits of summer, we found ourselves engaged in a heated debate over praying, of all things.

I've got to tell you right off, pro or con, this really is a dumb issue. Unfortunately, an inordinate amount of hot air is going to be expended, while other, more important issues are neglected.

As I told my friend, debating whether our children should be allowed to pray in school hardly matters when, if public education continues on its present course, there won't be any public schools in another decade in which to pray.

PUBLIC EDUCATION is in bad shape. Whether it be in large cities or suburban communities, public schools are suffering from a cancerous lack of interest by those who finance it.

More and more persons are giving up on public education. Those who can afford it are opting to send their children to private schools.

Already in some parts of the country, public schools are being left to the poor and the minorities.

Recently, I read an essay by American historian Henry Steele Commager, who outlined America's traditional "tasks" assigned to education. He noted education was the American religion since the Law of 1647 was established in the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

"It was — and is — in education that we put our faith; it is our schools and colleges that are the peculiar objects of public largess and private benefaction; even in architecture we proclaim our devotion, building school like cathedrals," he says.

Commager goes on to list the four tasks:

- Providing an enlightened citizenry in order that self-government might work.
- Creating national unity.
- Educating immigrants to become productive members of our society.
- Overcoming divisive forces in society and advancing understanding and equality.

THOSE ARE pretty hefty goals, ambitious objectives we can all support. Unfortunately, we have turned away from these goals to bend and to break before the whims of special interest minorities who are attempting to mold American education to their way of thinking.

I just pray (to myself, of course) that this country comes to its senses before we ruin the foundation on which this country was built — public education.

A clever leader passes

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

Father Time, the gent with the white whiskers and a scythe, has taken another of The Stroller's close friends and left him a flood of memories.

When the news came that Clarence Hoffman, the former Livonia bowling proprietor, has passed on, The Stroller couldn't help recalling that "Hoff," as he was popularly known, was the man responsible for his turning his back on his sports writing career to become a bowling official. Hoff changed the course of The Stroller's life.

BACK IN the early '50s, The Stroller had been called upon to help the bowling proprietors solve some of their problems, and Hoff turned his trick in a single afternoon.

At the time, The Stroller was working on a part-time basis when the directors, in a monthly meeting, decided to sponsor a bowling tournament that appeared, on the surface, to be successful.

"What we need is a good secretary to handle it as it will be a big job," said President Joe Paulus, looking about the room to see if there were any suggestions.

Hoff rose. He pointed out that the organization had a part-time secretary who, with the proper inducements, might possibly leave the Free Press and become a full-time manager of the association's business. He looked straight at The Stroller with a smile and then sat down.

In due time, the offer was made, and the journalistic world lost a sports writer. Often Hoff sat up late helping work out a schedule that made a success of the first venture in the bowling promotion.

MANY WERE the nights when The Stroller stopped in Livonia Lanes and chatted over conditions until the place closed. Hoff never hesitated to help him along.

The new position enabled The Stroller to open many new doors that have been helpful ever since. It paved the way for him to become national chairman of the March of Dimes tournament. And it paved the way for The Stroller to develop such outstanding bowling events as the state and national legislative tournaments, which built a bridge of friendship between the officials and the game of bowling.

It was the same when the Township of Livonia was incorporated as a city in 1950. Hoff had known the old timers because he had operated one of the few grocery stores and meat markets in the area. He induced the Stroller to join the movement for incorporation. The Stroller did, and was elected to the charter commission and later to the city council.

Much of The Stroller's success he owes to the good friend who passed away in his sleep last week.

"HOFF" WAS a credit not only to the community, but to the bowling game as well.

A progressive proprietor, he was one of the first in the suburbs to install automatic pin setters — more than 30 years ago. He was the proprietor who introduced the pro shop to a bowling establishment and spent most of his days drilling balls. This was something unheard of for the owner of a small establishment.

And he was a teacher who thrilled in the fact that he not only became a part of city goverment as the first director of the parks and recreation department, but left his mark by being the commentator for the TV film "The History of Livonia" made for the Felician Sisters years ago.

He's gone now. But he will never by forgotten by The Stroller.

Thanks, Hoff, for the memories.

Did you know that Michigan's reputation in the building of fine furniture can be traced back to walnut coffins? It seems that the most famous furniture maker of those earlier days — a man named Heldane — gained fame first as the maker of high quality walnut coffins. It was said "a man could be proud to be buried in a Heldane walnut coffin."

Saturated vs. unsaturated fats

Question: What are the chemical and other differences between saturated and unsaturated fats? Is it possible to convert one fat into another?

What is the relationship between fat intake and heart disease?l T.L., Southfield

Fats contain three general kinds of fatty acids — saturated, monounsaturated or polyunsaturated.

These atoms are attached. Simplified chemical diagrams of these fats, and a list of foods containing each, are shown in the chart.

WHEN A FAT is said to be "saturated," it means the carbon atoms are saturated with hydrogens. The structure appears tight and solid, with no free spaces. These fats are mainly from animal origin, and tend to harden at room temperature.

"Unsaturated" fats have some free space for hydrogens to hook on.

A "monounsaturated" fat looks as if a hinge has been added — hence, a more flexible structure which can bend or soften.

Polyunsaturated fats have several carbon atoms with no hydrogens attached. A greater number of hinges allows the molecule to be even more bendable. These fats are mainly of vegetable or fish origin, and are liquid at room temperature.

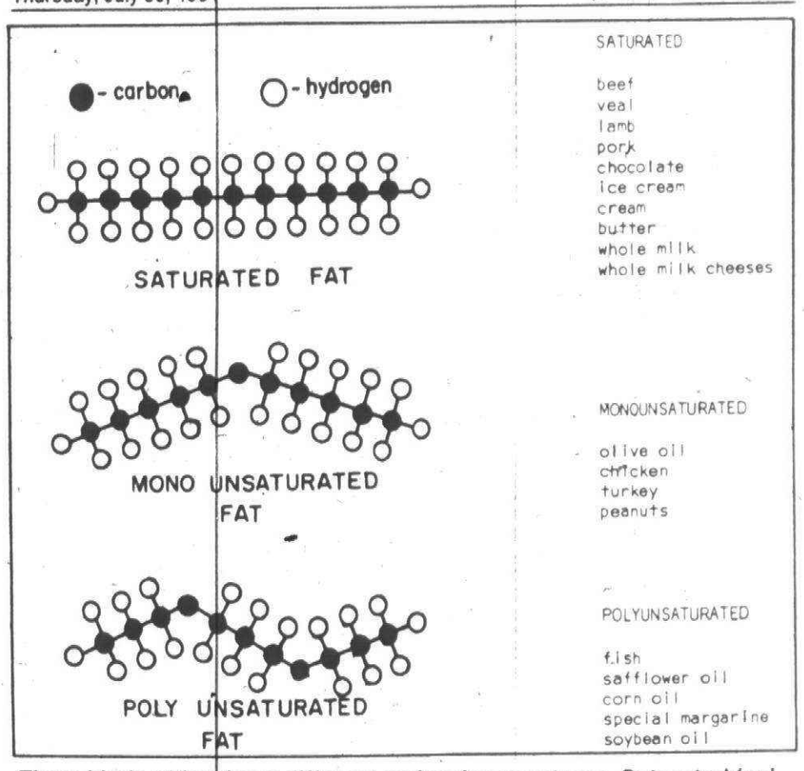
UNSATURATED fats can be converted into saturated fats by a commercial food process called "hydrgenation."

Hydrogenated fats are those in which additional hydrogen has been forced to "hook up" with available carbons. Since hydrogenated fats are more resistant to spoilage, food manufacturers often employ this process to prolong the shelf life of their product.

The difference between saturated and unsaturated fats appears very important, particularly in relation to heart health. A high intake of saturated fat has been linked to increased blood cholsterol levels and the development of coronary heart disease.

Most nutritionists suggest that fat supply no more than one-third of all your daily calories. Furthermore, persons with heart disease are generally encouraged to increase the relative amount of mono and polyunsaturated fats and decrease their saturated fat intake.

Dr. Franklin welcomes questions addressed to this newspaper. He is co-director of cardiac rehabilitation Sinai Hospital and on the medical school faculty at Wayne State University.



Three kinds of fats have different molecular structures. Saturated (animal) fats have tight structures with no free spaces.

Will organize to save camp

An open letter to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education:

It seems the class of 1981-82 sixth graders has been considered for various changes this entire year.

First, some schools were to be switched to a "45-15" schedule due to overcrowding; many interested parents attended meetings and found their input held little weight because there were no desirable alternatives. Then suddenly the decision was reversed for some schools, and the months of concern for many became unnecessary.

Next we learned that some sixth grade classes were to be retained in the elementary schools; neighboring friends have been separated when some have been arbitrarily selected to attend middle schools and others have been left behind.

Finally, we were led to believe, via community newspapers, that alternatives were being considered to retain sixth grade camp. Because parents did not realize the need to band together to plead our case for not eliminating this long-awaited sixth grade experience, we soon learned that this year's sixth graders once again are penalized by a school board's decision.

We were amazed by one school board member's comment that because parents had not been vocal about sixth grade camp, apparently it was not a priority. We know of no future sixth grade parents who were even asked for an opinion.

If being vocal is the only way our wishes are to be possibly considered, we are volunteering to head a petition drive to obtain signatures of other concerned parents who feel as we do. Sixth grade students should not be denied the opportunity to have an educational camp experience.

What a shame that just because next year's class of sixth graders is the largest to pass through the Plymouth-Canton Schools they must suffer through boundary changes and program elimination.

Please, there are children's needs to be considered when policies and decisions are being made. Just ask future sixth graders how they feel!

Diane and Bob Millard
Plymouth

(The school trustee mentioned in the letter noted that the newspapers more than once reported the camp program was being eliminated and there had not been any pressure from the public for restoration as there had been for the school farm and other programs.

The recent reaction follows long after the budget cut decision was made. While it was being considered, the present voices were not heard. — editor)

Support helps

To the editor:

Thank you so much for the fantastic coverage on Dearie Days. We are so appreciative for the support you give to the Village. Thank you for making Dearie Days a success.

Dearie Days Committee

6th grade camp should continue

To the editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to voice my support for the continuing of the sixth-grade camp in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

I would have voiced my support long ago, but was not aware that this program was to be discontinued. I think it is a very great opportunity for the youngsters and would hate to see something as good as this be dropped just because, as it said in the papers, the parents did not give their vocal support.

I, personally, would be willing to pay additional money for my child to attend this extremely worthwhile project. I am sure there are many other parents who feel the same as I do.

I hope you will reconsider, and vote to continue the sixth-grade camp program in our community.

IT'S BEEN five years in the making but Sherry and John Gaffield are again realizing their dream. The Plymouth photographer and his wife are settling down in their home in a secluded woods on the bank of Tonquish Creek.

The Gaffields were displaced when the state, through the law of eminent domain, sent them packing to Canton Township in 1976. Their house in a wooded setting on Ridgewood in Plymouth Township was moved to make room for the concrete ribbon of M-14. But life in a sun-baked subdivision is no treat when you yearn for cool woods, hooting owls, chattering squirrels and a babbling brook.

Now, sitting on the wooden deck of their new, rustic-contemporary home is like being suspended above a forest. They're just a chipmunk's chirp behind Beacon Hill.

"It's a dream come true," said John, with a little mist in his eyes.

John and Sherry designed the house with Canton's Robert Carroll drawing up the final prints. The Finch Roberts Building Company did the construction.

GLORIA LOGAN, who directed "Fiddler on the Roof" 10 years ago when the Plymouth Salem High School auditorium opened and again this spring for the 10th anniversary of the CEP auditorium, is appearing in the musical. She has the role of Golde, Tevye's wife, in "Fiddler", at the Red Barn Theatre near Saugatuck.

Gloria, who heads the drama department at CEP, has served on various committees for the arts and is amember of both the American Theatre Association and the Michigan Theatre Association.

Gail Stankov of Plymouth is returning to the Red Barn for her second season, having worked as box office treasurer in 1980.

She is making her stage debut at the barn playing the part of Fruma Sarah, a woman in the "Fiddler" chorus. Gail is a former student of Gloria Logan's and attends Eastern Michigan University, where she is majoring in arts management.

"Fiddler" is being held over at the Red Barn through Aug. 1. Performances are 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday with a 3 p.m. matinee on Sunday.

SALLY HOMES and Ann Kunec had high scores at last Thursday's party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

WHEN JIM Warren first went to San Francisco, he set a goal. He wanted to someday work in the Bank of America building.

Jim's wish became a reality when he was hired by Price-Waterhouse which occupies two floors of the Bank of America. The Plymouth High School graduate was working in his chosen field, computer programming and planning.

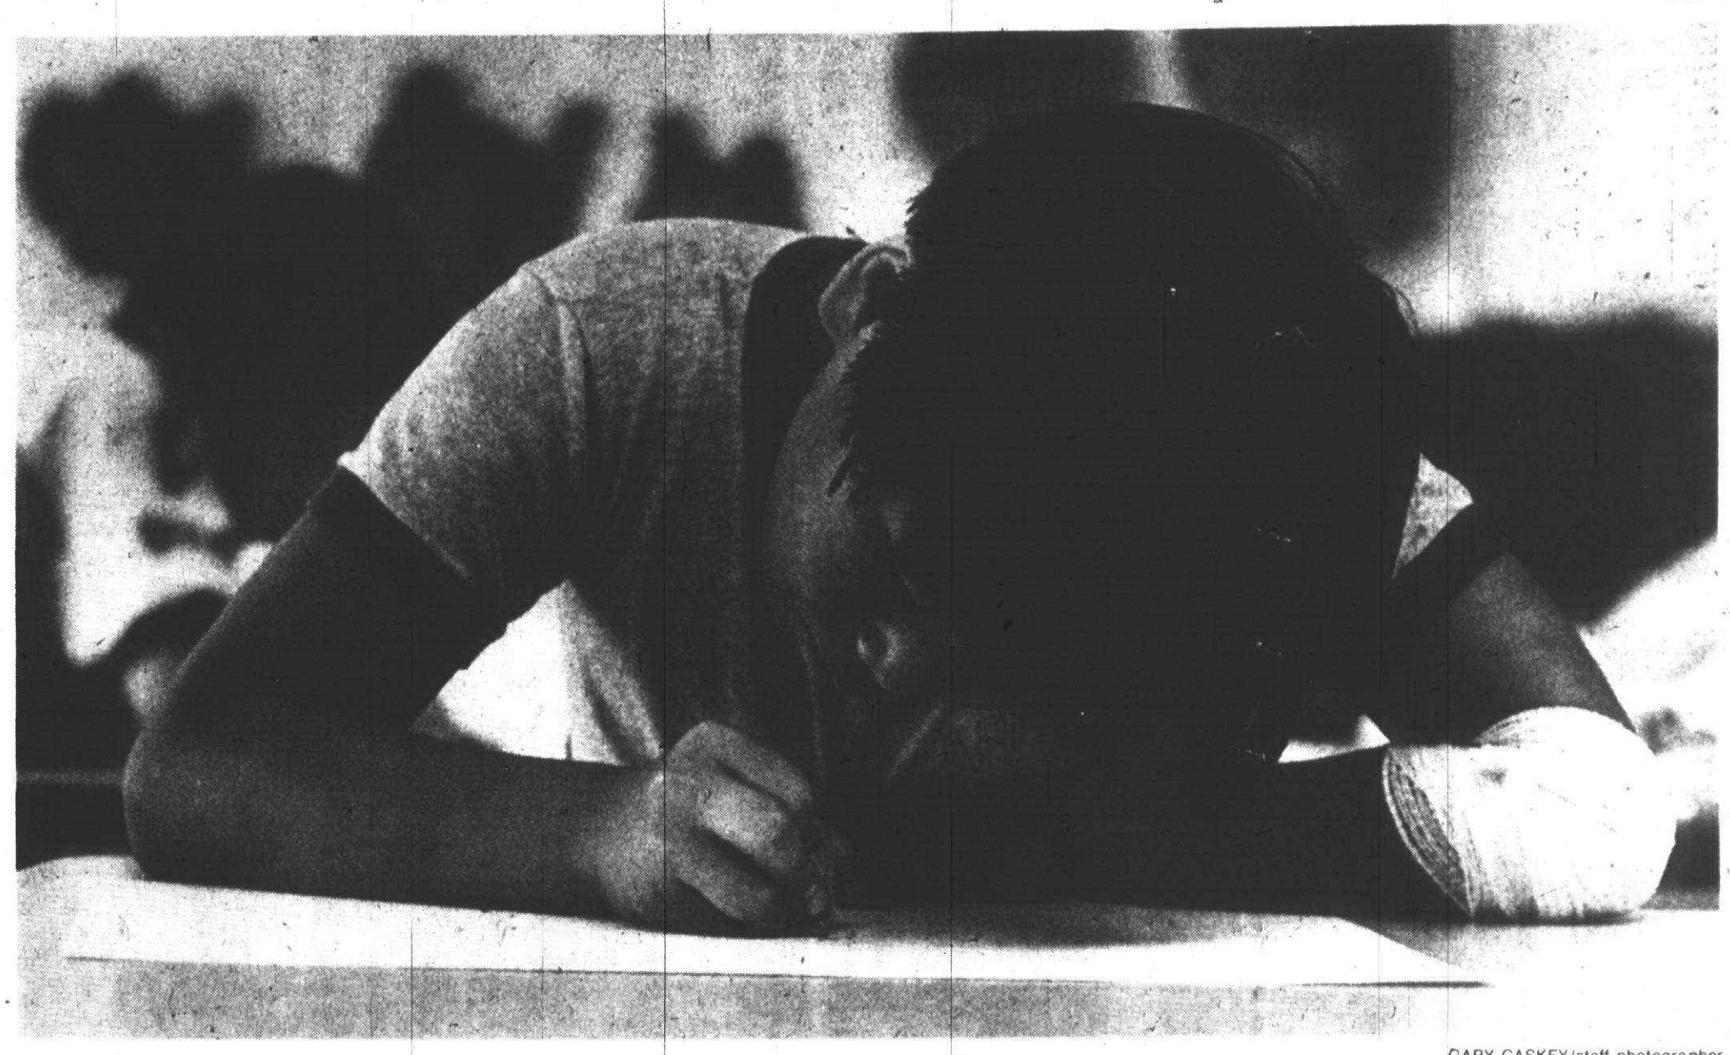
Jim also is a musician and an exceptionally fine organist. Music was always an important part of his life and when he became organist for Park Boulevard Presbyterian Church in Oakland, across the bay, living in San Francisco was just about perfect.

Latest news from Jim is even better. He has been promoted and is now a manager in the management advisory service division of Price-Waterhouse. Also, he auditioned for the San Francisco Symphony Chorus and made it.

San Francisco has a brand new Symphony Hall with wonderful acoustics. The orchestra used to play in the Opera House. Jim sent along a a program to his parents, Eleanor and James Warren of Plymouth Township. Eleanor said they were amazed at number of $100,000 donations to the Symphony Hall — "several pages of them."

KIM CLARK, a junior at Central Michigan University, has a summer internship at the Huron Daily Tribune in Bad Axe.

The Canton Township resident is majoring in journalism. She wrote some feature stories for us last summer between painting jobs. She and Scott Adler had their own painting and decorating business for three summer vacations. Scott, a student at Michigan state was a sports stringer for the Observer during his high school years and is working on the sports desk this summer.



Song Kim concentrated on his art work for the students' gallery in the PCAC Artist and Craftsman Show.

Students invited to sell art works

"Crafty" students are looking forward to the annual Plymouth Community Arts Council Artists and Craftsman Show.

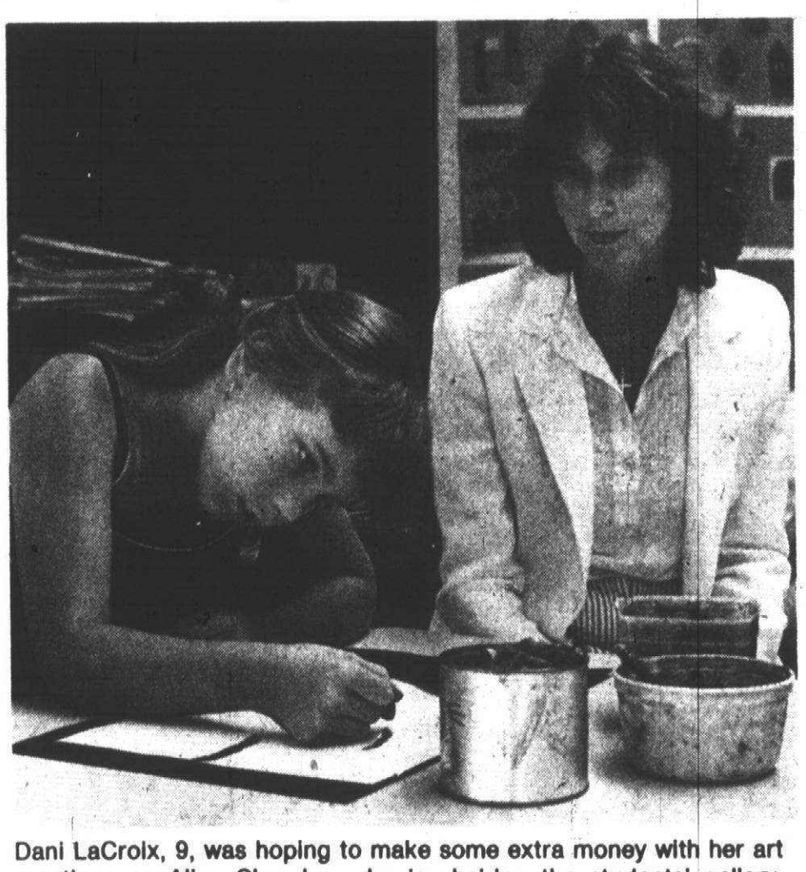
The students have been busy creating items which can be offered for sale in the special student arts and crafts gallery provided by the PCAC at its two-day show in Central Middle School. The show will be Sept. 12 and 13 — the Saturday and Sunday of the Plymouth Fall Festival.

Alice Chrenko is chairing the student gallery for the 1981 event.

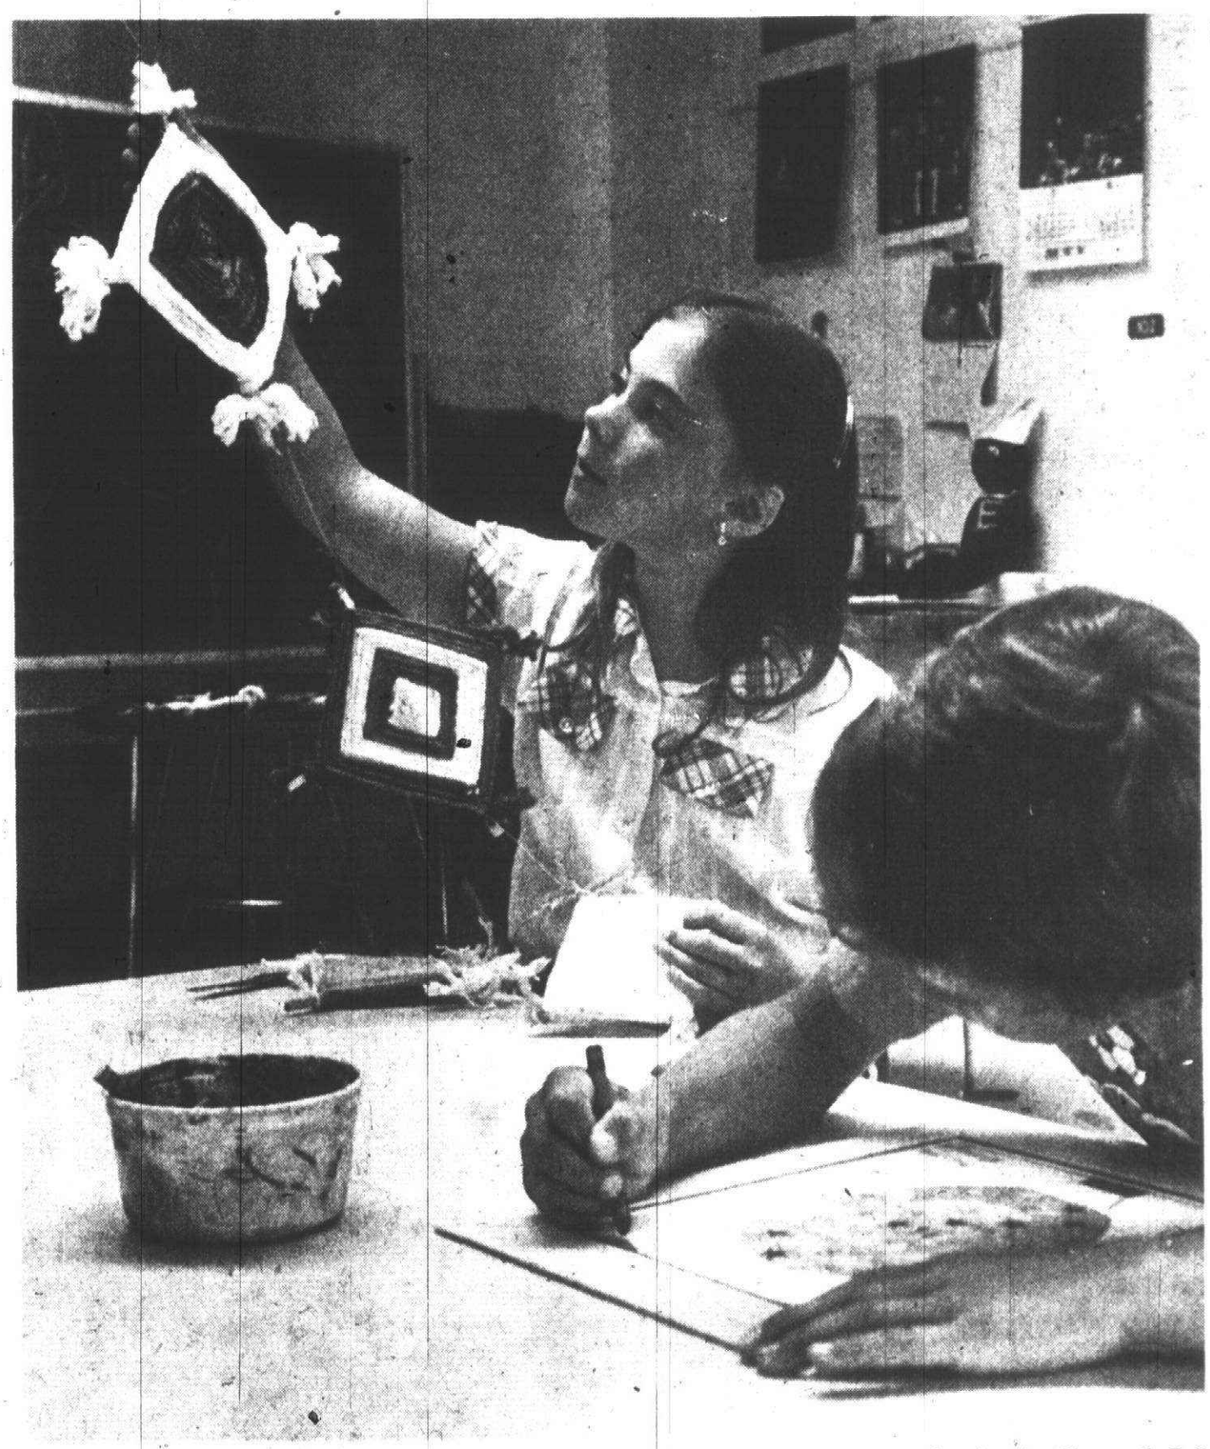
She says students kindergarten through grade 12 may participate.

Paintings, sculpture, jewelry, crafts, macrame and other handmade items should have price tags attached by the students. They will receive 90 per cent of the sale price of any items sold with 10 percent going to the arts council.

All items should be delivered to Central Middle School between 4 and 7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 11. Persons wishing more information about the arts council's student art project may call 455-5260.



Dani LaCroix, 9, was hoping to make some extra money with her art creations as Alice Chrenko, who is chairing the students' gallery, looked on.



Stacy Gerth, 11, admired her god's eyes as Keith Bozyk, 9, worked on a drawing. Students at Eriksson Elementary are preparing for the Plymouth Fall Festival and arts council show.

Growth Works marks 10 years of growth

Growth Works, a Plymouth Community Fund agency, is celebrating its tenth year in the old Plymouth Mail and Observer Building, 271 S. Main Street, in downtown Plymouth.

The agency provides a wide array of services for youth and young adults including counseling, alternative education, and employment and training programs.

These efforts have evolved from the organization's beginnings as a youth drop-in center under the name of Plymouth Youth, Inc.

The program was organized and sponsored in 1970 by the Plymouth Junior Chamber of Commerce with Dr. Gary Hall, a local dentist, providing much of the leadership.

Community leaders recognized that young people needed a place that would meet their social and recreational needs.

Dave Smith, one of the original founders and current board member said of Youth Inc., "Young people needed a drop-in center and an opportunity to run it themselves under adult supervision."

THE ARTICLES of Incorporation called for the organization "to coordinate the efforts of interested individuals and organizations in the sponsoring of worthwhile youth activities in the private sector of the Plymouth Community and to make possible the undertaking and operations of projects for the benefit of the youth of the community."

Its purpose was not just to operate an aimless, leisure-time "hang-out." Its direction was planned to help young people discover their interests and talents and to provide the adult-supported environment for successful exploration of those interests.

The organization began its operations in the old Fralick House, on the corner of Harvey and Fralick. Judge Dunbar Davis had donated the building as a meeting place for youth. In 1971, Plymouth Youth, Inc. arranged, with the city of Plymouth, to use the Mail and Observer Building as a supervised activity center for youth.

The facility was available due to a trust agreement between the city and Philip Power, publisher of the Observer Newspapers. The building was turned over to the city for community use for a five-year period.

In 1975, Youth, Inc. at 271 S. Main, consolidated its efforts with the Council for Community Concern.

THE COUNCIL also began its operations out of the old Fralick House as "Our House Crisis Center" and "Buzz Line." Its primary purpose was to parovide a place where young people could receive guidance and support in their personal problems. Information on drugs and drug related matters was in important prat of the program. Counseling was provided by a group of trained volunteers.

Since 1975, the organization has fine-tuned its original purpose providing a wide range of community-based services aimed at youth and young adults. While programs became more sophisticated, Growth Works' basic commitment to self-help and involvement remained the backbone of the organization.

Current efforts include:

Two federally funded employment training efforts for low income youth. Projects include renovation of community facilities. Participants receive training, income and school credit, and job placement assistance.

Young adults employment program is for 18-24-year-olds who are unemployed, low income, and out of school. Growth Works provides on-the-job training with area employers. Participants receive a wage for their labor.

THE ALTERNATIVE education program is carried out in conjunction with the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. The program is for 12-16-year-olds who show a lack of success in the schools' middle and high school programs. The effort is closely linked with the Wayne Juvenile Court and provides extensive involvement with families.

Turning Point provides crisis intervention and counseling services for youth and young adults and their families. It is licensed by the State of Michigan Office of Substance Abuse Services.

Turning Point and Growth Works efforts are funded through the Plymouth Community Fund. Growth Works has been an agency of PCF since 1975. Grants and service contracts with various Plymouth-Canton schools, Wayne County Employment and Training Administration, Michigan Department of Labor, Canton township and United Community Services provide other operating supports.

Five years after its trust agreement with Suburban Communications, in 1976, Growth Works negotiated an extension of this trust agreement with the purpose of purchasing the building. Finally, with a mortgage arranged through First National Bank of Plymouth, Growth Works purchased the the old Plymouth Mail and Observer building Dec. 24, 1976.

As a fitting tribute to a now deceased Plymouth resident who contributed so much of his talents and time to Growth Works, the building was named the Gene Stermer Building in 1979.

Welcome mat out for ball players

The world series of Sandy Koufax baseball is coming to the fields of Canton. It is just a coincidence that it is the weekend of the Canton Country Festival, Aug. 6 through 9. The opening ceremony for the series is Thursday at 9 a.m. at the Plymouth-Canton High School fields.

Teams will be coming from Maryland, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Georgia and Illinois for the competition. Each team will receive a trophy at the opening ceremony for performing most consistently in its region. The first opponents will be selected by a draw. It will be a double elimination event with the championship trophy awarded at 3 p.m. Aug. 9.

The merchants of Plymouth and Canton will host a corn roast for the players, coaches and parents at the Mayflower Meeting House at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Parents attending will stay at the Mayflower Hotel during the tournament with special rates courtesy of the management. If there is anyone in the community willing to assume responsibility for one of the visiting 13- or 14-year-old players from another city, please call 729-1370 to say that your home is available for that weekend. It will be an unusual experience for many of these boys, because it will be the first time away from their families. Rudy Baas of the Canton Jaycees has assumed the responsibility for this great task.

The National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) has selected the Detroit area as this year's site due to the tremendous number of educational sites that are available. When the tournament was accepted by Ivor James, director of Northwest Suburban NABF, the responsibility for trophies, baseballs, umpires and field maintenance also was accepted.

Our league will be expected to provide $100 per team for housing. Meals will be handled by the individual boys. World series program will be sold at the gate for a minimal fee to offset the cost to the Sandy Koufax League. A sports celebrity will be on hand to throw out the first ball on opening day.

Our northern hospitality will be put to the test with so many guests for the weekend. The festival will provide reasonable dinners as well as plenty of entertainment during their stay.

This past weekend Canton Craigers received an invitation to participate in the McDonalds of Canada tournament in Kingston, Ontario. There will be 64 teams competing in a double elimination tournament. A Novi team also has been honored with a prestigious invitation as well as teams from New York and Ohio. The educational experience for our boys, when it comes to exchanging currency, meeting French-speaking players, and travelling will be a fantasy come true.

Local baseball is in high gear for many residents and the news media due to the national strike. The attendance at many of the games has doubled his season.

Vickie Chilcoff, Larry Malek and Gerald Ebmeyer are the backbone of our outstanding team. Mark Bennett, Doug Chilcoff, Dominick DeBello, Jimmy Dillon, Scott Ford, John Jakubowski, Mark Kinsel, John Longridge, Mike McKenney, Tim Michalik, Tom Moore, Pete Morman, Tom Penland, Steve Sobditch and Thomas Tedder are the hard working and dedicated players that Canton is very proud of. Congratulations boys in the upcoming playoffs and with your future games.

THERE ARE MANY talented people in our area who enter crafts and foodstuffs in the Michigan State Fair. Sandy Preblich wants to get as many people as possible together for a taping for cable television. Please call Sandy at 981-6354 soon because time is running short.

Classes are available to non-profit organizations in which members learn how to use Omnicom equipment to video tape their own programs for public access TV.

For information about class schedules call 459-1900.

New bridal salon opens in village

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Carole Kuffel arranged the veil as her daughter, Christine, 16, modeled a new circlet of flowers headpiece.

Carole Kuffel's first tentative thought, when she considered a plunge into the world of business, was "I'd like to open a bridal shop." Other ideas came, were discussed, and tossed aside.

The fact she and her husband, Harry, have five daughters may have been a factor in the final decision. "Beginnings," Carole's bridal shop, opened two weeks ago in Plymouth's Old Village.

Mrs. Kuffel explains that her inventory is low at this time, but she is expecting deliveries which will round out her choice of merchandise. She also discussed features of the shop which, she considers, make it differ from other bridal salons.

"I have three wedding gowns which sell for under $200. Brides can order their wedding invitations here and arrange for a photographer. We have accessories and a line of gifts for members of the bridal party. A woman right here in Old Village made these silk flowers.

"And this is the on-consignment rack," she said. "These two wedding gowns were never worn. The brides changed their minds. They said if they married someone else, they would want a different dress."

She added, "These mother-of-the-bride gowns were worn just once. Isn't this one lovely? She paid more than $250 for it, and we will sell it for about $90."

The shop on Starkweather Street is between two resale shops, Rainbow Connection, which sells children's clothing, and LaDonna's, which has women's and men's clothing. Both welcome "Beginnings" to complement their businesses.

"WE STILL have a lot to do here. Harry and John are working on the dressing rooms — we'll have three. Yes we do have one son, John." One of their daughters is married and lives in Arizona.

"But one of the other four usually is with me in the shop."

The Kuffels live in Livonia and Harry Kuffel works at Western Electric in Plymouth.

Watch Out! Kid On The Move!

This is one of our many "Kids On The Move"--moving on down the street to deliver our hometown paper.

Our kids juggle busy school and leisure schedules to make sure you get your local paper on time. They budget their earnings to buy things they need and want. We hope they're courteous and friendly as well.

Someday, they'll be "Adults On The Move" and will use their newspaper carrier experience out in the real world.

If you don't already know one of our "Kids On The Move" call our circulation department and we'll arrange to introduce you.

3 Lutheran pastors get doctorates

By Margaret Miller
staff writer

The senior pastor of Faith Lutheran Church of Livonia has been asked by his congregation what he should be called now that he has a new degree from the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago.

"You might try the Rev. Dr. Roger Schleef," he noted in the church newsletter, "but I'm not sure I'd answer. Roger is still just fine."

But the Dr. part is now appropriate for not only the Faith clergyman but also for Jerry Yarnell, pastor of of St. Michael Lutheran Church of Canton, and Donald Herdman, who as July ends completes a seven-year pastorate at Good Shepherd Lutherand Church of Redford.

All three have completed 3½ years of work toward a doctor of ministry degree from the Chicago school. They were among 10 graduates who had the degree conferred in a special commencement ceremony at Faith. The commencement was the first the school had held in Michigan and the first in a local church sanctuary.

"The degree program is geared to meet special needs of parish ministry," said Schleef.

"You use a plan that you devise yourself, to meet your own requirements," added Herdman. "It is another step toward training for parish ministry."

The parish orientation of the doctor of ministry course is underlined, the three men pointed out, by the fact that recently one pastor applying was turned down because he was retiring and another was rejected because his pastoral experience had been short.

THE DEMANDING study course involves workshops, regular meetings with the other candidates in a geographical "cluster," graduate courses at an area college or university and a special project in the home parish, described in writing in a professional paper.

Intensive study sessions on the Chicago campus, 10 days in the winter months or three weeks in the summer also were part of the requirements. And each candidate had to spend at least two weeks in a foreign culture and make a report on the experience.

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Lutheran pastors Roger Schleef, Donald Herdman and Jerry Yarnell talk about the study that led them to the degree of Doctor of Ministry.

Schleef, Herdman and Yarnell went their own ways with regard to many parts of the study.

The pastor of Faith church took course work at Madonna College and University of Michigan-Dearborn. His parish project was developing a pastoral care team of lay people, and his paper was titled "God's People are Good News: Evangelism as Gospel Incarnated."

"I worked with a group of volunteers, training them in basic helping skills," he said. "They learned how to listen, use resources and deal with crises, and I gave them names and worked with them as they made calls.

"The group is continuing, an active part of our parish life."

HERDMAN, WHO did course work at Wayne State, studied Third World economic development and led a seminar in conjunction with the American Friends Service Committee.

Its participants included members of Good Shepherd and others from the community. His professional paper was on "Theories of Third World Development and the Mission of the Church."

Yarnell focused on evangelism, seeking to determine what approaches work with a congregation and why they work. He also conducted a Spiritual Life seminar. His paper was titled "The Validity and Idolatry of the Experimental Dimension of Christ's Presence" and he did his course work at Eastern Michigan University and St. John Provincial Seminary.

As travelers, Schleef and Yarnell toured Israel and Herdman studied world hunger in China, Israel and Washington.

The three also met with their seven Michigan colleagues on a regular basis to discuss progress, exchange views and make required reports.

The group will continue to meet, Schleef said. Its members come from Southfield, Lansing, Flint, Flushing, Blissfield, Madison Heights and Clarkston, and Herdman will continue to meet with the group from his new church, Trinity Lutheran at Battle Creek.

WHY EXPEND the considerable effort needed for this particular degree? The trio had assorted answers.

Schleef recalled the long controversy involving doctrine in the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod, which ended in his congregation's decision to leave the synod and affiliate with the English Synod.

"It left me enervated and debilitated," he said. "I wondered sometimes if I should sell shoes instead. No, not really, but there were days when the frustration level increased to the point where I felt inadequate for the task I was called to do.

"This study helped me regain confidence."

Yarnell noted that he had started his study while serving in northern Michigan. "There wasn't much else available," he said, "and this provided a challenge. I guess I wanted to see if I could do it."

Herdman said he was attracted to the course because its structure "allowed me to have consultant critiquing with colleagues."

"So often graduate study becomes a matter of bouncing from one seminar to another," he said. "This had an extra dimension."

He added that his decision to leave Good Shepherd was the result of a decision several years ago that willingness to accept another call was a necessary component of professional advancement. "It had nothing to do with the degree work or graduation," he said, "although I know some people had problems separating the two."

moral perspectives

Rev. Robert Schaden

Misusing our words, we strip them of power

With the exception of certain obscenities which are offensive in some circles, words are rarely considered to be a moral issue. We coin words; we use them; and we hear them with little regard for their power. In fact, the way that we use them often robs them of the power they once contained.

A very recent and graphic example of this phenonmenon exists in the naming of one of our nation's warships, the Corpus Christi. Corpus Christi, translated from the Latin, means the Body of Christ.

It is ironic, to say the least, that Jesus of Nazareth who preached nonviolence and who enjoined his disciples to turn the other cheek should have a warship ship named after the body which he gave up in violent death. It also is ironic that many people who profess the Christian faith do not see anything amiss in this so-called christening.

However, such a lack of concern is in keeping with an overall lack of attention to the power of words. The word "love" is but one example. We love hamburgers, ice cream, dogs and cats. We love days off, good music and rose bushes. What then can we really man when we say, "I love you," or what can we possibly hear when those same words are directed to us?

DEAFNESS to the power contained in a given word is more often than not the direct result of the misuse of that word over time. With such misuse, words of anger lose their punch. Words of softness and affection become suspect. Words of faith become meaningless, and even words which once were considered to be obscene lose whatever power they may have had when they are employed as adjectives for everything from roofing nails to popcorn.

The word "moral," itself, has not been immune from the fate of misuse. The "moral majority" has become a term used to describe a group who seem determined to carry the pharisaical attitudes of yesterday into tomorrow. "Morals" have come to describe those actions which have to do with genital function while the same people who set themselves up as watchdogs to infractions in this regard see little or no moral implication to such issues as capital punishment, prison reform, or the public responsibility for the elderly.

SUCH NUMBNESS to the power of words has a way of making us numb to the actions they describe. When "making love" is used to describe marital rape and the actions of prostitutes, as well as the intimate physical union of loving spouses, the phrase loses its beauty and its meaning.

Perhaps we fool ourselves with the words we use. In some instances, we invent new words to give a softer ring to harsh realities. "Abortion" rolls off today's tongues with relative ease while children continue to be slapped for repeating four-letter words that we learn down the street. "Defense spending" becomes the justification for budgeting $136 billion for war machinery, while programs to assist the defenseless, poor and elderly are cut to the bone.

It is inevitable that the meaning of words will alter over the course of time and Webster will continue to record the results. In most instances, such semantic evolution will do little do diminish the people who speak or confuse the people who listen.

However, a society that allows its words to lose their power to express the sacred and the beautiful, as well as the frightful and the horrible, will lose touch with the beauty it contains and fall victim to its unnamed horror.

And that is a moral issue with or without Webster.

Water, water everywhere

Michigan's abundant liquid is our greatest recreation resource

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

WATER. THAT IS the story of Michigan in one word. Wet, warm blue and sometimes frozen water.

Because of all that wetness, Michigan has more freshwater shoreline, more state forest and more pleasure boats than any other state in the nation, providing a close-to-home bonanza for Michigan travelers.

You can see it in full living color on a state map — the Lower Peninsula, carved by glaciers during the Great Ice Age into the shape of a mitten, the Upper Peninsula stretched horizontally across its fingertips, both peninsulas set like islands in blue, blue water.

THOSE GLACIERS dug out 3,100 miles of shoreline, leaving Michigan to be lapped by four of the five Great Lakes. The glaciers dug 10,000 lake pockets, shining blue and connected by 36,000 gleaming miles of rivers and streams. Fish-flashing streams, stocked by both nature and man.

Water eventually colored Michigan green by creating forests and swamps where deer and partridge play games with hunters and waterfowl shoot skyward within the limits of metropolitan Detroit.

The Algonquin Indians called this land Michigamea, "land of great waters." They were hunting, fishing, trapping and farming it when French fur traders arrived in their canoes to do the same.

The "great waters" brought miners, lumberjacks and eventually ore boats; nowadays, manufacturing is our first industry and outdoor recreation is second.

THE DEPARTMENT of Natural Resources (DNR) logically divides Michigan into three zones: the Upper Peninsula, the northern Lower Peninsula and the southern Lower Peninsula (below the Bay City-Muskegon line).

Since three-quarters of our people live in the southeast corner of the state, and our cities run in corridors west to Lake Michigan and north to Saginaw Bay, the south has extensive facilities for urban recreation and for day trippers.

Boat docks run like white picket fences up shorelines on both sides of the state.

Michigan presently registers more than 600,000 boats, the highest in the country. There are 525,000 power boats, 33,000 sailboats, 11,500 canoes and 3,300 pontoon boats. Thirty percent of the boating is on the Great Lakes and 70 percent on inland lakes and streams.

THE MICHIGAN Harbors Guide, available from the DNR, list 65 protective harbors and public marinas fairly evenly distributed along those 3,100 miles of Great Lakes shores.

With a few exceptions, boaters will not be more than 15 shore miles from a safe harbor anywhere in Michigan.

Dock space is allocated for the exclusive use of transient boatmen, who can normally stay up to seven days. It is first-come first-served, with no reservations.

Some 28 harbors have VHF FM radio communications available at the dock. The guide also lists public and private pump-out facilities and nearly 200 commercial marinas available to the public.

For camping, boating, fishing or other outdoor recreation information, contact the Information Center, Department of Natural Resources, Mason Building, Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909.

Thirty percent of the boating is on the Great Lakes and 70 percent on inland lakes and streams. The Michigan Boat Launching Directory, available from the DNR, lists 1,000 launching sites for people hauling boats to inland lakes and streams in Michigan. Some ramps are within metro areas, and some are up to 30 miles from the nearest town.

... and we get a pat on the back for preserving our public lands

I HAVE BEEN researching outdoor recreation in America, and rediscovering the treasures of Michigan along the way. I wonder how many of you realize how rich we are in natural resources for camping, hiking, boating, fishing, hunting and winter sports. Maybe, like me, you need a little reminding.

The most important thing I can say about recreational land in Michigan is that it is green, green, green and we have been wise enough to save it for ourselves and our children.

THE GREATEST amount of preserved land is in national forests — three of them. I am looking at a map in the "Atlas of Michigan," a wonderful book put out by Michigan State University and Eerdmans Press of Grand Rapids, and I can see national forest green spreading all over both peninsulas.

The Upper Peninsula is almost completely greened by it, with more than 80 percent of the land publicly owned. The Hiawatha National Forest describes two vast green belts across the eastern end of the peninsulas, touching lakes Superior, Huron and Michigan.

The Ottawa National Forest, on Lake Superior to the west, has wilderness river systems, 32 waterfalls and a stretch of virgin land called the Sylvania Tract. The tract was owned and held by wealthy Michiganians and thus delivered intact into the 20th century.

The third, the Huron-Manistee State Forest, is in the northern Lower Peninsula. Together, the three provide nearly three million acres of playground for campers, hikers, fishermen, canoeists and winter sportsmen, to say nothing of preserving wildlife for posterity.

IF THAT GIVES you a little prideful swell, read on. You ain't heard the half of it. The second-largest landowner in the state is the National Park Service, with two parks in the UP and one in the northern lower.

How many of us have actually visited the colorful rock formations of Pictured Rock National Lakeshore near Munising, or stood on Isle Royale, where the national park holds trees in silent wilderness 50 miles offshore from the tiny Keweenaw Peninsula?

More of us have been to Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore near Traverse City; in fact one of my environmentally inclined friends say too many of us have been there, especially in dune buggies.

The most important thing I can say about recreational land in Michigan is that it is green, green, green and we have been wise enough to save it for ourselves and our children.

The third-largest landholder, still national, is the Fish and Wildlife Service, especially with Seney National Wildlife Refuge in the UP, which lets you play and even hunt under certain circumstances. The Southeast got in on that one, with the Shiawassee National Wildlife Refuge.

I'm only partway through the list, but the pattern should already be obvious. The UP has the most resources and the fewest people. The northern lower peninsula has lots of resources and few people, and it's just close enough for the southern hordes to reach in a day, so it is the playground of Michigan.

WHAT I HAVE described so far is only nationally owned. Most recreation is actually done on local public land, but that isn't well documented. What is documented is the state system — and do we ever have a state system.

Michigan, through the Department of Natural Resources, administers more than 4.25 million acres of forest, park and wildlife lands. About 3.75 million is state forest, the largest state-owned acreage in the United States.

We have nearly 100 state park and recreation areas split between Great Lakes shores and inland lakes, and a quarter of a million acres of state game and wildlife areas, mostly in the south.

These are statistics, but more than that: The smell of wood smoke between trees in a shaded campground. Discovering a Kirkland Warbler in the spring. Sailing across a crystal lake. Stalking bear in a huckleberry patch, with a camera or a gun. Hooking a steelhead, rising silver and pink out of a tributary stream.

Anytime you get depressed by unemployment, welfare statistics or the economy, look north, look on a map, see the riches you own on these two huge peninsulas surrounded by water.

Hug yourself a little; you're rich.

Folk, bluegrass highlight festival

By Kevin Wilson
special writer

Want to hear some of the best darn guitar-pluckin', banjo-strummin', all-around good-time folk and bluegrass twang likely to show around these parts all year?

Grab that old straw hat, the picnic basket, cooler, the kids and head on down to the holler at Northville's Ford Field August 8-9 for the Fifth Annual Folk and Bluegrass Benefit Festival for Huntington's Disease.

Sponsored by the Gitfiddler Music Shop, under the direction of owner Tom Rice, the festival started small but is gaining both size and reputation entering its fifth year.

The new Ford Field venue, Rice said, should add some intimacy to the event previously conducted at Northville High School's football field.

"You're surrounded by green in a hollow that acts as a natural amphitheater," Rice explained, "Sound shouldn't escape as much, so we won't have to use as much amplification. Intimacy's a good word for it."

Complementing the new site is rental of a larger stage, giving the musicians more room to work and spread the equipment out so it doesn't get in the spectators' way.

The new stage also has lights, which could be used to lengthen the show Saturday night if audience demand and other conditions are right.

Audience demand should be the least of the worries. Other festivals would be hard put to answer Rice's claim to offer the biggest, best assortment of folk and bluegrass musicians at the lowest price — a minimum $4 donation for adults, $2 for senior citizens and youngsters and no donation demanded for infants.

"Anywhere else this would be $15 a head," Rice said. "I give 'em some of the best folk and bluegrass talent around at the minimum donation."

Headliners include Country Gazette, one of the most respected bluegrass bands in the nation. The group will conduct a workshop at the Gitfiddler Friday, August 7, as the festival kickoff Country Gazette will play two sets Saturday, early and late in the 1:30 to 9:30 p.m. schedule. Folk fans can see the popular Dean Rutledge that day, as well as Neil Woodward and Joe Vermillion.

Other Saturday appearances are planned by Blue Velvet, Phoenix, Livingston County Grass, New Cut Grass and Banjo Betsy.

Sunday's schedule features Joe Hunley's Kentuckiens, Rich and Maureen Del Grosso (old blues, ragtime and "really get-down good sounding stuff" out of those two, Rice adds), Fran Murphy, Larry Stevens (harmonica expert), Ron Coden (familiar to Raven Gallery fans), Timberline (out of the Gitfiddler itself) and the R.F.D Boys.

Michigan Consolidated Grass Co., the Ruff Water String Band and Calico add to the innovative names class in Sunday performances.

Scott Dawson was selected to play in the Adray League All Star game at Tiger Stadium for the third straight year. He was playing a different position, however.

Shoulder injury stymies Dawson

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Scott Dawson has experienced the highs and lows of the athletic world.

It was only two years ago that the Plymouth Canton graduate made a name for himself in college baseball.

He burst onto the University of Michigan scene like a meteor. He pitched the Wolverines to a Big 10 title and into the College World Series. He won nine games that year, tying a U-M record, and was the top ERA man on the staff. He was all-Big 10 and got to start against Arizona in the opener of the Series at Omaha, Neb.

Today, Dawson wonders if he'll ever pitch again for the Maize and Blue. It's been a tough road. He pitched in Florida this spring and then developed a mysterious shoulder injury.

Taking his own advice two months later, he called it a season.

DR. GERALD O'Connor, U-M's sports specialist, painted a grim future for Dawson's career. Any further pitching would be damaging, he said.

"In his opinion he thought I'd never throw again," said Dawson.

The right-hander's problems began shortly after his World Series appearance last summer.

He came back and played for Adray Sound in the Detroit Adray League and continued to experience pain.

Bud Middaugh, U-M's head coach, told him to take it easy the rest of the summer and Dawson complied. He pitched in only five Adray games. He went back to U-M for the start of the fall season, but the pains ran even deeper.

"O'CONNOR suggested I take off until February," Dawson recalls. "I remember the day, January 31st. I felt confident again. The weather here was nice for a couple of weeks. I threw well outside. I went eight innings during an intra-squad game and I felt fine..

"We went to Florida and I threw three innings against Miami and felt good. Then it started to hurt."

He made another appearance in Florida against Glassboro State, an NCAA Division III team.

"I got racked up pretty bad," he recalls. "We came back home and played Eastern Michigan and I started out fine. Then it went again in the fourth inning.

"I knew it wasn't right. I kept saying to myself, 'Hey I don't want to end this,' but I kept saying, 'hey, you're going to hurt yourself and the team and maybe by next year you'll be all right.' "

"I just didn't feel as confident."

Since he couldn't pitch, Dawson was essentially sent home. He attended class, but stayed away from Fisher Field.

"I didn't know what to think," he said. "I was so depressed I didn't want to be around the park. I just couldn't be a part of it." O'Connor suggested Dawson see Dr. Lanny Johnson, an orthopedic surgeon in

In Massey Tournament of Champions

Ultimate softball club sought

Don't expect balls to be flying out of Massey Field quite as much for this year's Massey Tournament of Champions.

The area's top men's slow-pitch softball teams from eight different cities will compete under slightly different conditions for this year's event.

Chuck Skene, the tournament director, has decided to use the controversial restricted-flight ball for the double-elimination tournament, which runs Friday through Sunday.

The ball, less lively, was used three years ago in the American Professional Slow-pitch League (APSL) to cut down on the number of home runs. Many softball experts claimed the ball was aimed to stop two-time world champion Detroit Caesars, which relied on the long ball.

"The winner will be more dependant on speed and defense," predicts Massey Cadillac manager Jim "Doc" Hauncher. "The restricted ball will make it a tighterfield."

Hauncher's team, currently in first place in Plymouth Recreation Class A League, won the inaugural event two years ago.

Last year's champ, Studio Lounge of Westland, is also back.

"We can play both games," said Studio manager Bob Andrews. "We can hit the ball out, or win if it's in the park.

"We got off to a real slow start, but we're playing better now. I think it (the restricted flight ball) will hurt the other teams more than us because we're so good defensively.

"I think we'll win it, but if we don't, I don't look to finish any worse than third."

DENNIS ROGOWSKI and Chuck Petrillo lead Studio with high batting marks. Rogowski briefly played pro softball for Rochester (N.Y.) of the now defunct APSL.

Jerry Holbrooke and Northville Tournament MVP Pat Kelly provide the home run power for Studio.

"There are good teams all over the place," said Hauneher. "I wouldn't bet against us, that's for sure. We'll be in there if we play our game."

Massey won the Northville Tournament and finished second last month in the Plymouth-Canton Invitational.

The team's power lies in the 3-4-5 spots. Tom Battistone and Tom Guilfoyle, both outfielders, hit the long ball as well as first baseman Bob Pickney.

"The two teams from Westland (Jamie's and Studio), you're going to have to watch," Hauncher said. "When a city sends their best teams in, they 'ain't' going to be no ragamuffins."

Massey is 13-2 in the Class A League in Plymouth, tied with M.B.M., which also drew an invitation.

Other teams rounding out the field include Plymouth-Canton Invitational winner A & J Softball Club, Canton; Finlan Insurance, Plymouth; Jamie's and Metro Merchants, Westland; Winners Circle and Long Mechanical, Northville; Manitowac Ice, Redford; Livonia Softball Club and D & J Party Hut, Livonia; Johnson's Carbonic and Pittman's, Wayne; Canton Sports, Canton; and Novi Bowl-Goat Farm, Novi.

First round action begins at 6:15 p.m. at two sites — Massey Field and Canton High School.

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

The two teams expected to battle for the title are Massey Cadillac of Plymouth and Studio Lounge of Westland. During last year's action, Massey second baseman Bobby Green (left) takes the late throw as Studio's Tim Kelly runs in safely.

Oasis wins Indiana tourney

Oasis Golf Center returned home last weekend with another trophy to add to its already-crowded case after winning the Plymouth, Ind., Women's Fast-pitch Softball Invitational.

The defending Michigan state Class B champs won the tournament in four consecutive games.

Pitcher Jan Boyd was again the catalyst, hurling three shutouts en route to the championship.

Oasis, comprised mainly of college players from western Wayne County, downed Celina, Ohio, for the championship, 3-0.

Boyd, who plans to transfer to Michigan this fall after two years at Eastern Michigan, blanked Celina on just two hits.

The winners scored all three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Allison Cole got things going when she reached base on an error. Jody Humphries, an all-Big 10 choice and Westland John Glenn graduate, moved Cole to third with a single.

Julie Stafford's sacrifice fly brought home Oasis' first run. Sherry Kiselica then hit a single. Vickie Forest followed with a triple to right-center field, scoring Humphries and Kiselica.

Boyd, who pitched a perfect game two weeks ago in the Livonia Women's Fast-pitch League, flipped her second straight no-hitter in the Plymouth tourney opener, 9-0, over the Anderson, Ind., Blue Jays.

Catcher Sue Rehmel was the only Anderson batter to reach base against the Oasis ace, who struck out six.

OASIS tallied four runs in the first inning and added five more in the fourth to put it away.

Humphries belted a triple in the first to clear the bases. She then scored on a sacrifice fly by Stafford.

In the fourth, Boyd walked, Sue McDowell and Joanne Pachive both singled, accounting for two runs. Humphries then unleashed her second triple, scoring two runs. Consecutive walks to Kiselica and Dee Cifaldi, bringing home Humphries, turned out to be Oasis' final run.

Boyd, a 1979 graduate of Plymouth Salem, threw a one-hitter as Oasis nipped Celina, 1-0, in the second game of the tournament.

Rival pitcher Elaine Price collected Celina's only hit, an infield single in the third inning. She was later erased from the base paths when Stafford picked her off on a throw from the catcher's position.

The only run of the game was scored when Cole led off the fourth with a triple and scored on Humphries' double.

Boyd made the lead stand up by retiring the final 12 batters.

Oasis then drew Indiana's 1979 Class A champion Delp Electric.

Cifaldi gained the pitching start and didn't disappoint her teammates as Oasis came away with an 8-2 triumph.

The Oasis starter was particularly strong in the early going, setting down the first 12 batters she faced, five on strikeouts.

DELP SCORED its two runs on three hits and two Oasis errors in the sixth and seventh innings.

In the first inning, Oasis jumped out to a 2-0 advantage on singles by McDowell, Cole Humphries, Stafford and Kiselica.

Pachiva and Cole opened the fifth with singles and Stafford brought Pachiva home with another single.

Oasis broke it wide open in the sixth, collecting four more runs.

Humphries had seven RBIs and a .642 average for the tournament. McDowell, Cole, Kiselica and Forest all had over .300 averages for the tournament.

Oasis resumes Livonia fast-pitch action at 6:30 p.m. Friday against Atlas Alarm at Ford Field.

Doubles team reaches final

Chris and Wendy Gilles, the tennis playing sisters from Plymouth, enjoyed more success last week in the U.S. Junior Girls 14 National Clay Court Championships in Greensboro, N.C.

Chris and doubles partner Kelly Davidson of Farmington Hills reached the finals of the 64-team draw before losing Terry Phelps of Larchmont, N.Y. and Sonya Hahn of Carrrollton, Ga., 6-2, 6-2.

Wendy placed in the top 12 in the 128-player singles draw.

In doubles, Gilles and Davidson, seeded fifth, reached the final with a three-set victory over No. 6 seeds Maryanne Wredell and Debbie Spence, both of California.

Gilles and Davidson upset No. 2 seeds Jennifer Fuchs of New York and Nicol Stafford of Florida 2-6, 6-3, 6-4 avenging a loss in the U.S. Junior Girls 14 Indoor Nationals last November at the Franklin Racquet Club in Southfield.

Gilles and Davidson won the Michigan State Open earlier this year and captured the Wightman Cup at Columbus, Ohio.

WENDY, who has another year left in the Girls 14s, won her first two rounds before losing in the round of 32 to Indianapolis' Shawn Foltz 6-1, 6-3.

The 13-year-old Plymouth netter then fought through the consolation draw with victories over Pat Van Bylevelt (Miami, Fla.) 6-1, 6-2; Cynthia Bibb (Wichita Falls, Tex.) 6-3, 7-6; Lynda Tate (Irving, Tex.) 7-5, 6-2; and No. 6 seed Spence of Cerritos, Calif., 2-6, 6-4, 6-3.

She was eliminated by Eileen Tell of Aberdeen, N.J., 6-1, 6-3.

Chris, 14, won the Sportsmanship Award and finished in the top 25 despite a sore arm.

She lost a gruelling three-hour match to No. 9 seed Tate 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.

Forced to serve underhanded, Gilles then proceeded to beat Stacy Schesslin (Charlotte, N.C.) 6-1, 6-0; Allissa Finerman (Scarsdale, N.Y.) 6-1, 6-2; Portia George (Columbia, N.C.) 6-0, 6-2; and Betsy Sommerville (Honolulu, Hawaii) 0-6, 7-5, 6-1.

Grace Kim, the No. 5 seed, ousted Gilles from the tourney 6-3, 6-1.

G-Senior stars roll

The Plymouth G-Senior all-stars (15 and under) captured an invitational tournament Saturday at Southgate with a 10-9 triumph in the championship over Huron.

Cheryl Viele's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the eighth inning gave Plymouth the crown.

Huron jumped out to a 9-5 lead in the top of the sixth, but Plymouth came back with four runs, three coming on a homer by Pam McBride.

Karen Schulte, Michelle Martinez and Monika Benedict pitched for Plymouth. Benedict was the winner.

In the tournament opener, Plymouth downed host Southgate, 8-6, as Schulte went the distance. Leslie Culver provided a spark offensively. She homered in the second inning.

The championship club is comprised of players from the G-Senior League of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League.

Sara McKenna and Kelly Schulte serve as the team's coaches. Other team members include Lisa Granger, Lou Ann Hamblin, Pam Hodge, Linda Sarafian, Cindy Runge and Sarah Wallman.

Saints suffer soccer wounds

Injuries took their toll Sunday as the Sportventure Saints, Plymouth-Canton's entry in the Great Lakes Women's Soccer League (GLWSL), lost 4-2 to the Detroit Silver Streaks at East Middle School.

Veronica Guerin (ribs), Sue Kasper (ankle) and Maureen Thompson (chipped teeth) were all sidelined during the game.

The loss dropped Plymouth-Canton to 4-3-1 in GLWSL play.

The Saints, handicapped by the injuries, trailed 4-1 at intermission.

Sportventure, however, fought back in the second half and narrowed the gap to two goals before time ran out.

Pitcher looks ahead

East Lansing. He is the same physician who worked successfully with Pittsburgh Pirates second baseman Phil Garner.

Johnson will probe Dawson's shoulder Aug. 13 with an orthoscope. The procedure is basic. Surgery may follow.

DAWSON has been been a pitcher since the age of 10.

"Pitching so much may be the problem," he said. "If I had to do it over, I wouldn't have thrown until I was 14 or 15. The joints are just beginning to grow at that age."

Dawson's advice to youngsters is simple.

"If your arm ever starts bothering you, tell the coach. You've got to be honest and tell them when you're hurt. I didn't do that at U-M because I had so much drive to win. I kept telling myself 'I've got to play.'"

Dawson once pitched 17⅓ innings during an Livonia Adray League playoff game.

"I was 17," he said. "As I look back on it I'd say that was dumb, but I'm glad we went. All I had on my mind that night was Johnstown (national tournament in Pennsylvania) and that was above my own welfare.

"After the game I had the normal aches, but my arm after was fine."

DAWSON WILL not lose his baseball scholarship at Michigan. He is welcome to be part of the team.

His eyes are set on swinging the bat and playing first base. He hooked on this summer as a first sacker for Redford Adray in the Livonia League.

Dawson is hitting over .350 and leads the league in doubles.

"I'm having fun," he said. "There's no pressure.

"I just don't know how well I could hit in the Big 10. I'd like to try first, and if I don't make it, then it's no sweat."

On the advice of another physician, Dawson will begin stretching exercises and lifting weights next week.

He's doing office work this summer for an insurance company in Southfield and will continue to pursue a degree in education this fall with an emphasis toward the health field and coaching.

"It's been real hard," Dawson said. "Frustrating.

Perfect (24-0)!

Caesar batters aim toward state title

Two area teams will be making appearances today in the state Connie Mack (16-18-year-olds) district playoffs.

Canton Caesars began play this morning in the district at Jaycee Park in Pontiac. Coach Fred Crissey's team, which finished the regular season last weekend with an unblemished record (24-0), is one of the favorites to gain a trip to the state finals at Marshall Aug. 6-9.

The Salem Elks, coached by Ron Riedel, finished third in the league (16-8) and will play at Flint.

In a doubleheader Saturday, Canton made it 24 in a row with a sweep over Redford Union.

Pitchers Kevin Shaw and Dave Malek combined on a five-hitter as Canton won the opener, 7-4. Caesars then invoked the league mercy rule to beat RU in the nightcap, 13-1.

In the first game, Canton scored four times in the second inning keyed by Fred Rumberger's two-run double. Scott Bricker, coming off an injury, added two hits. He was five-for-five for the day, including six runs and four stolen bases.

Dan Smith and Keith Stone each chipped in with two hits for the winners.

Shaw hurled the first five innings and allowed four runs on five hits. Malek held RU scoreless over the final two innings.

In the second game, Smith allowed only one hit, two walks and struck out six.

Catcher Billy Hanis went three-for-three and Steve Johnson added two hits.

SALEM ELKS 15-14 THURSTON 0-0

Salem swept hapless Redford Thurston Saturday in a doubleheader, 15-0 and 12-0. Both games were halted after four innings.

Bill Culver hurled a no-hitter over four innings in the opener. Pete Steyaert and Mickey Madsen supplied the offense with two hits apiece.

Greg Chappell, also hurling a no-hitter over four innings, was the winning pitcher in the second game.

Steyaert had two hits and Joe Humphries added a two-run triple.

Brian Kelly scattered six hits and struck out eight as Salem downed Southfield last Thursday, 7-2.

Catcher Dave Slavin went three-for-three and had two RBIs. Ken Vermeulen added two hits and two RBIs.

Both Salem and Canton's Tuesday night games were rained out. They will not be rescheduled because of the tournament.

Compuware rules Midland modified event

Compuware has been so far nothing short of sensational in its men's modified softball season.

The Plymouth-based team won its fourth invitational tournament of the year last weekend with an impressive 13-1 win over Saginaw Office Lounge at Midland's Emerson Park.

Compuware, coached by Tim Hawkins, is 38-4 overall this year.

Twenty teams competed in the double-elimination tournament which began July 25. The event was interrupted by rain and was completed last Sunday.

Compuware, which beat Saginaw Office Supply in its tourney opener, mounted a 16-hit attack in the championship game.

Charlie Johnson, who hit four homers in seven games, went four-for-four. Teammates Wayne Hamilton and Ron Ray also chipped in with three hits each.

Hamilton, who slugged two homers and went 17-for-23, was voted the tournament MVP.

Reliable Al White was the winning hurler. He gave up only two hits.

Compuware reached the final with a 4-2 victory over Plymouth Modified League rival Sports Illustrated in what Hawkins called "our best game of the tournament."

Jerry Staszel was the winning pitcher. He scattered six hits and struck out three in raising his season record to 21-2.

Galen Pyle, who gave up eight hits was the losing pitcher.

BOB RIDLING delivered the key blow, a two-run homer in the second inning. Compuware also added two runs in that inning.

White, now 17-2, pitched a one-hitter as Compuware blasted Office Supply in its tourney debut 14-1.

Bob Duman had three hits (including a homer), and scored two runs. Ridling added a two-run shot in the second inning.

In the second round, Compuware bombed Bay City Hinson Frame 21-0 behind Staszel's one-hitter. Johnson had a pair of three-run homers. Duman and Hamilton each added three hits.

Mantle playoff picture unveiled

The Canton Elks, despite dropping its final three regular season games, will make an appearance in the double-elimination NABF regional beginning Aug. 6 at Brighton.

Eight Mickey Mantle Baseball League (13-14-year-olds) clubs will compete for a berth in the NABF World Series at Miamisburg, Ohio (Aug. 13-15).

The Elks have obtained South Lyon pitcher Chris Curvin for the tournament. He was the team's second leading hitter and top hurler.

Westland WFCL captured first place Saturday with a hard-fought 6-5 victory over the Elks, who finished the year with a 16-6 record.

Trailing 4-0, the Elks rallied for five runs in the fifth inning but couldn't hold on.

Don Dombey's two-run double spearheaded the five-run outburst. He led Canton with two hits.

"We played one of our best games of the year," said Canton coach John Gravlin. "Steve Johnson made the catch of the year for us.

"He dove near the fence to make the play. Unfortunately, the next guy up hit the very next pitch for a homer. And that one run was the difference."

In a game play last Thursday, South Windsor blanked Canton, 5-0.

SALEM DiPONIO 2
ALLEN PARK 0

Rick Berberet tossed a two-hitter to lift Salem DiPonio to a 2-0 Mickey Mantle League victory over Allen Park Saturday in the season finale for both teams.

DiPonio began AABC district play yesterday against Hillsdale at Windsor. Complete results will appear in Monday's Observer.

Other teams competing in the two-game knockout include Windsor, Ann Arbor, Detroit PAL, Macomb, Monroe and Tecumseh.

Berberet, a 6-foot-6 righthander, walked four and struck out two to pick up the win over Allen Park.

DiPonio, which finished the year at 15-7, scored both runs in the sixth inning.

Dan Carlson led off with a double and went to third on a passed ball. He came home on Jerry McMahon's double. Berberet then helped his own cause with a single, driving home McMahon.

Carlson, Berberet and Mike Cindrich each had two hits for DiPonio.

Nagel scores upset win

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Ed Nagel shunted his student role Sunday and became the teacher as he captured the $1,500 Mayor's Cup at the Grand Slam Tennis Club of the Livonia Family Y.

The steadily improving 16-year-old from West Bloomfield won the men's invitational singles crown with a 6-3, 7-6 triumph over Ian Harris, 28, of Southfield.

Calling it "the best win of my life," Nagel earned his first victory over Harris in three tries.

"I knew I'd have to play well to beat him," said Nagel, who is competing this week in the Western Open Boys 18 tourney in Columbus, Ohio. "I've practiced with Ian and he's a great guy. He's always helped me.

"The difference this time is that my serve has improved a lot. He did not break me once. I was more aggressive from the ground, and this time I went after him with my passing shots."

Harris, who won the tournament last year and competed in doubles last month with Bloomfield Hills' Craig Wittus at Wimbledon, is ranked No. 220 in the world by the ATP (Association of Tennis Professionals) computer. He was awarded $300 for his runner-up finish. Nagel, because he is an amateur, had to turn down the $600 first-place money.

"Ian's one of the best serve-and-volleyers around," said Nagel. "He hits offensively. The ball is always deep."

Nagel, however, was more consistent and ran his opponent from side to side with penetrating ground strokes.

HARRIS, the No. 1 seed, reached the final with a 6-3, 6-1 triumph over Dan Weber, who plays for the Trinity (Texas) University varsity.

Meanwhile, Nagel downed Rochester's Hal Jolley, 6-2, 6-4.

Nagel, who will be a junior this fall at West Bloomfield High, won the Michigan Open three weeks ago in Midland.

Mohacsi rules field

Mary Mohacsi, the former Livonia teacher who has reigned five times as Detroit's bowling Queen, reached the high point of her career last weekend in Winnipeg, Ontario.

She rolled her way to the top in the American Zone finals with a six-game total of 1,265 and now can claim the ranking with the world leaders in the FIQ competition.

On the same squad Cora Feig, average leader in the Bowlerettes League, posted an 1,143 to take third place. Cora had paced the American team trials in Milwaukee several weeks ago.

WHILE MOST bowlers bowl for fun during the summer months, Penny Behn and her Bonanza team spend their time seeking portions of the rich tournaments around the country. And they are meeting with success.

When the averages were checked and the standings made official, Penny and her mates won the Village Lanes Tournament in Mansfield, Ohio, and the $2,500 that goes with the victory.

The team rolled 3,263 on games of 1,126, 1,019 and 1,118. This count grew to 3,395 with the combined handicap. Cora Feibig was high on the team with 703 on games of 235, 237 and 231. Geri Ritter had the tournament's high single with a 267 in a 632 series.

FOR THE FIRST time in years, the Ladies Major League, rated one of the strongest in the country, is looking for bowlers. The league is short one team with the season opener only a few weeks away. Anyone interested should call Nancy Mischuk at 792-3417.

FOR THE SECOND week in a row the Cherry Hill Classic produced a perfect game.

Last week, Dick Beattie started it with a string of 12 strikes and this week Harold Sullins added his name to the list.

THE TEEN League at Merri-Bowl produced some of the best scores of the week. Fred Ringrose Jr. showed the way with a 668. Others in high figures included Cindy Mohacsi, Mary's daughter, with 633 and Mike Drouillard with 652.

Tourney entries rise

Entries have started to come in to Whispering Willows Municipal Golf Course in Livonia for the annual Observer & Eccentric Golf Tournaments.

The women's 18-hole tournament will be held Aug. 19. The men's 36-hole tourney will be held Sept. 19-20.

All amateur golfers who live in the O&E circulation area are eligible. Entry fee for women is $12, for men $27.

Golfers will compete for low gross (actual score) and low net (score with handicap) honors in flights based upon handicap. That way, the competition is more balanced and more prizes can be awarded.

Last year, the 76 women competitors were divided into three flights. The Championship Flight consisted of women with handicaps of 20 and below, Flight 1, handicaps of 32 to 21 and Flight 2, handicaps of 33 and above.

The women's tournament was postponed a week by rain last fall, but still drew its largest turnout ever.

THE MEN also had bad luck with the weather during their tournament last year. Heavy thunderstorms forced cancellation of the first round.

Gary Whitener, golf professional at Whispering Willows and the tournament director; Dave Montgomery, greens superintendent; and their staffs did yeomen's duty getting things ready for the shortened 18-hole competition the following day.

Still, 214 men competed.

They were divided into four flights based upon the following approximate handicaps — Championship Flight, zero to eight handicap; Flight 1, nine to 14; Flight 2, 15 to 21; and Flight 3, 22 and above.

Women have only a couple of more weeks to get their entry forms in. Registration deadline is Aug. 12. To register, complete the coupon that appears in many O&E editions and mail it or drop it off to Whispering Willows Golf Course, 20500 Newburgh, Livonia 48152.

Players must pay the entry fee when submitting the entry form.

The course is located on Newburgh just south of Eight Mile Road.

Men have until Sept. 13 to register, but registrations will be closed after 225 have been received.

High school boys may enter the O&E tournament and still maintain their eligibility as long as the tournament is one of two outside events they choose to enter once they represent their school in a match during season.

The boys' high-school season golf starts in early September.

Folk musicians hang on to traditions of centuries

By Katie Kerwin
staff writer

Died-in-the-wool devotees of traditional folk music have fallen on hard times.

For generations, folk songs were passed from parent to child, friend to neighbor. Today, most people hear music mainly on radio, television, tapes and records. Folk music doesn't fit into that commercial music frame, its supporters say.

Traditional folk music will endure, local musicians insist. But for those trying to make a living by playing the music they love, the options are limited.

"There's a kind of feeling almost of futility lately, I think," said Jim Perkins, a Troy folk musician trying to make a living playing at local bars and coffeehouses.

"I think people are beginning to question the worth of the songs they learned from their parents because they don't hear them on the radio," he said.

"I've noticed that with people I run into in the bars, their attitude is: 'If it's not on the juke box, then it's no good.'"

Perkins stressed the need to preserve the folk music heritage, even as the traditional methods of handing down songs are lost in an electronic age.

"It's pretty hard to go out in a field and find a farmer to sing you a song," he commented.

TO MAKE ENDS meet, many folk musicians take the jobs they can get, playing in pubs where people go to drink with their friends, have a rowdy good time and request Top 40 hits.

"When you play music for money, you've got to play what the people want to hear. You've got to play a bit of everything," said Gary McMullen, a bluegrass banjo player from West Bloomfield.

'If I could just do what I wanted to do. . . I'd do the songs I love — good solid material — and the hell with "Country Roads" and "Dueling Banjos."'

— Gary McMullen

"I know a guy who absolutely will not take requests — but he doesn't work much.

"If I could do just what I wanted to do, oh boy, that would be wonderful," McMullen said wistfully. "I'd do the songs I love — good solid material — and the hell with 'Country Roads' and "Dueling Banjos.'"

But he added: "Once you get ahold of a crowd and are running the show . . . you can always, in a tactful way, sneak in what you want to do."

Richard Harris stars in "Camelot," one of the attractions in the Masonic Temple Theatre series this fall. Season tickets are on sale, and single tickets will be available beginning Monday.

They preserve folk heritage

Joe Vermilion, a Birmingham folk musician, uses similar tactics to accustom his audience to lesser-known music.

"In bars, I'll do three or four songs that everyone thinks are dandy, that are popular, and then I'll try to slip one in," he said.

Vincent and Karen Sadovsky of Rochester said they don't bend their song selection to conform to popular tastes, but work on developing a loyal following that is receptive to their blend of folk styles.

"The hardest part is to train your audience," Ms. Sadovsky said.

To play songs just because they "sell" would be "a cop-out," Sadovsky said. He said he widened his repertoire from a strictly traditional base to allow himself more creative freedom.

Sadovskys play traditional, bluegrass and classical music, as well as contemporary songs by the likes of Gordon Lightfoot, John Denver and Tom Paxton, who are shunned by traditional purists.

VERMILION AND Perkins, like some Detroit-area folk musicians, play frequently at Irish pubs, where they can occasionally intersperse traditional ballads, instrumentals and chanties into sets of drinking songs and what Perkins calls the "AM hits of Irish music."

"At least with Irish music I feel I have some integrity, rather than playing what I heard on the radio this morning," he said.

Folk lacks popular support because it is unfamiliar, not because it isn't good music, Vermilion asserted.

"People always want to hear the same songs because they're creatures of habit." Commercial radio is shaping American habits and musical tastes, he said.

"They're selling you songs and it's not necessarily the ones you'd want to hear," Vermilion said. "If there's no alternative, you're going to get sucked into the commercial thing."

Folk music doesn't get much exposure, Perkins said, because "the music money machine doesn't have any interest in anything that won't make megabucks."

BUT FOLK'S FREEDOM from commercial constraints is one of its strongest assets, Vermilion suggested.

"It isn't down to a science of electronics and marketing," he said. "It isn't a situation where a producer behind a desk on the 94th floor of some building in New York City says, 'We need this kind of song.' The beauty of it is that it's like the public media: It can't be bought; it can't be killed.

"It's been around longer than Gregorian chant. And it'll be around a hell of a lot longer than disco."

Definitions of traditional folk are as varied as the styles of those who play it.

"Folk music has always been the music of the people," Sadovsky said.

McMullen said folk songs have universal appeal. "They're very melodic — you can whistle them while walking down the street," he said.

"It's music that's homemade," Perkins said.

"It's music that came from the guts of the people," Vermilion said. "It's a raw form of music that people aren't used to tasting any more."

FOLK MUSIC is deeply rooted in the culture and historical events that spawned its story, he added.

"One of the reasons I really love it is because it's truer than the history books," Vermilion said. A government may control how books of the time relate historical events, he noted, but folk songs were the working man's or the rebel's uncensored expression.

The Paint Creek Folklore Society, centered in the Rochester area, comes closest to the traditional methods of passing along folk traditions. The group, which numbers as many as 80 mostly amateur musicians, gathers in members' homes to exchange songs, share techniques and teach one another how to play instruments and even to build their own.

They play at music festivals and dances, and will perform at the Troy Historical Museum on Aug. 9.

Gary McMullen called folk music a "cultural grapevine," adding, "I'm waiting for the first folk song about outer space."

For McMullen, the current bluegrass boom means there are audiences hungry for much of the music he likes to play. But he also takes a more conciliatory attitude than some hard-core folkies toward playing the music that bar audiences ask for.

"I try to figure out what they want to hear and a way to do it so that I can stand it," he said.

"We do want to educate people to our kind of music, but only if it doesn't get in the way of entertaining them." Absolute purists in traditional folk are "horrible people — just incredibly snobbish," he said.

THE DECLINE OF the coffeehouse is one of the causes of folk frustration. A host of places that opened in the heyday of the '60s folk movement, mostly volunteer-operated, have run out of steam. The Raven Gallery in Southfield, one of the most prestigious Detroit-area coffeehouses, was among the most recent casualties.

Dear John & Marsha,
Greetings from your nutty neighbors vacationing a few miles away at the Michigan Inn! What a trip this is turning out to be! Harry says the best thing about it is the weekend package price ... just $39.00 a night for our room, and only $15.00 more each night for the kid's room (any Thursday through Sunday by the way) ... but I say it's the meals we've had. I don't know what to rave about first - their fantastic Friday Fish Feast, our divine dinner last night at the Benchmark or their sumptuous Sunday Brunch! We may never leave! Love, Joannie backgammon

● THE FULL PRIME

In the example, white has rolled a 4-2. Select a move for white best suited for this position.

The position appears to be strong for both sides but black's home board strength is a mirage. With black stuck behind a full prime, black's game will quickly deteriorate. Having three loose checkers, white has exceptional timing and can use it to his best advantage.

In this position, it would be correct for white to try to slot-hit black on the 1 point as long as white maintains the full prime. In this case, however, white needs a seven or 11 to slot-hit but has rolled a 4-2.

The important thing to note in a full prime position is that by slot-hitting black, white cannot lose. If black stays on the bar for a roll or two, white could cover the checker and close the home board. The best results would be for black to hit white.

Once white is hit, he must remain on the bar until black opens a point . In this position, black is surely going to open a point or two and most likely will leave white a shot. Hitting a second checker is what this play is all about. Then white could work on a potential gammon.

This position is tricky, though, and can be handled in two ways.

White could move the 12 point checker to the 6 and have for his next roll direct 5s and an indirect 7 (19 out of 36 chances) to slot-hit. Bringing the spare checkers home is common since they can be used as builders to hit or close points.

But the best play for white would be to move the 11 point checker to the 8, creating a seven-point prime. A seven-point prime generally is useless, but in this case it can be a strong asset.

Black will next be forced to bear in the last two checkers, and within another roll break his home board. If white rolls a one within two rolls, he can slot-hit black by splitting the 2 point — a bizarre play, but very effective since white would still hold a full prime after slot-hitting.

This play would force black off the bar with ones and twos, twice as many numbers (20 out of 36), and black would no doubt be forced to leave a shot in his home board with many numbers working against him. If black stays on the bar, white could move his spare checker home and capture the 2 point first, then the 1 point. Either way, white is a winner. But the suggested move allows white a chance for two men back and a bonus gammon.

For more information, contact the American Backgammon Club at 459-5776 or write to Box 599, Plymouth MI 48170.

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN....

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own . . . but it takes a bit of planning.

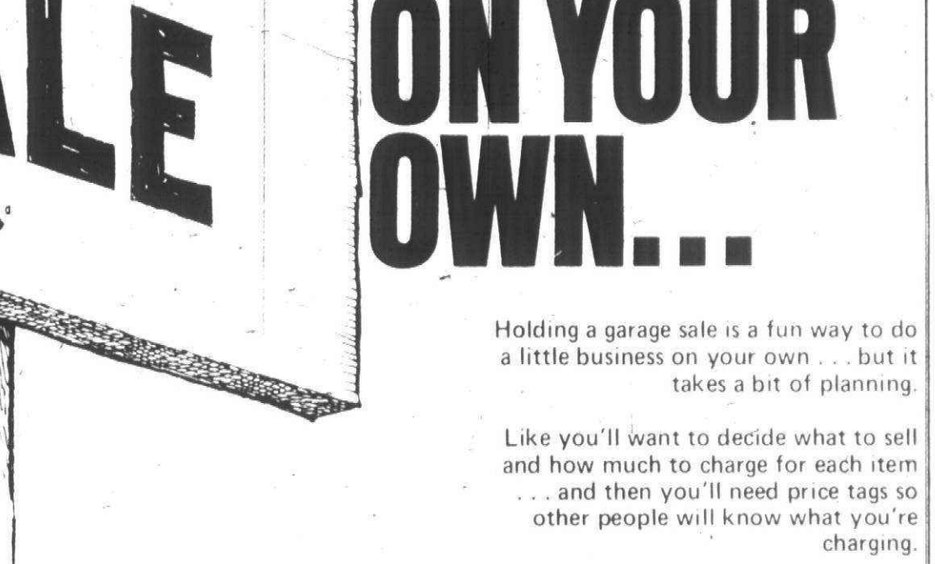
Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item . . . and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

One more thing . . . get up early the day of your sale! When people read about a Garage Sale in Classified, they shop early.

Have fun with your little business adventure!



Pick up your free Garage Sale folder in our office when you place your ad! (Contains two signs, two arrows, a handy ledger, 14 tips for a successful sale and nine tips for a successful ad)
