The Canton Connection

CANTON IS the fourth-largest township in the state, according to the 1981 Michigan Township Officials Directory. Clinton is No. 1 with a population of 72,400. Waterford is second (64,437), Redford is third (58,441) and Canton is fourth (48,616).

SAFETY BUSING, no doubt, is the lastest hot issue in Canton. Parents, especially at Field and Eriksson elementary schools, are upset because the schools eliminated busing, forcing their children to walk to school.

Now the issue is turning into timely snips between the school board and the Canton Township Board.

It all started when Dale Goby, director of transportation and chairman of the safety committee for the schools, said Canton and Plymouth townships "shirked" their responsibility to construct sidewalks for children to walk safely to school.

Carol Davis, the president of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, said at a recent meeting that the city and townships should "share in the heat" of helping provide safety for children.

Well, when about 15 people showed up at Tuesday night's Canton Township board meeting to request construction of sidewalks, Supervisor James Poole got his licks in as well. "I don't know if building sidewalks is the solution," Poole told the residents. "Maybe in the summertime, but what about the wintertime. . . who's going to pay for it? Who's going to shovel it?"

Poole said he didn't understanding the timing of the school board in eliminating safety busing one week before school started for the elementary students. He also said didn't understand why the busing was eliminated in the first place.

"If you save 10 grand (by eliminating busing) and create 100 grand in animosity, you're not accomplishing much," Poole said.

Then the residents asked the Canton board why the schools asked them to come to Township Hall with their requests.

Poole said he didn't know, "not unless the buck was there, and they (school officials) decided to pass it."

And, as the residents left the meeting Poole got one last lick in.

"Tell them (school officials) that it's their responsibility.," Poole said.

Things are heating up, eh?

IS MIKE Gouin, Canton's Parks & Recreation director, sporting a new hair style? Is it the "perm" look?

STEPHEN LARSON, Canton board trustee, usually smokes cigars at Township Board meetings. Last Tuesday, however, Larson was smoking a pipe. Did you know that Larson can blow some pretty nifty smoke rings?

CRAIGER'S BASEBALL team, the Sandy Koufax Division (13-14-year-old) representatives from Plymouth Canton High School, will be honored formally by Canton Township for winning the recent National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) World Series at the Centennial Educational Park.

The board recently approved spending $600 from the community promotions fund to recognize the efforts of the players, parents and coaches at a banquet. The banquet will be at 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 14, at the recreation hall, on Michigan Road and Sheldon.

THE BOARD discussed spending money for Christmas decorations at Township Hall at Tuesday night's board meeting. Trustee Robert Padget said he didn't want to see Township Hall decorated with little elves. He said he would like more-traditional decorations.

Information for "The Canton Connection" should be sent to the Canton Observer, 461 S. Main, Plymouth 48170. We ask that you type or print the information and include your name and phone number in case we have any questions. Column items should be received at least 10 days before publication date.

Ex-official wins a job managing rural town

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Former chief ordinance officer Bruce Phillips is headed for a new job as chief administrator for a sparsely populated township near Brighton.

Phillips said he recently accepted a position as township administrator for Genoa Township, a community of 3,200 persons about five miles west of Brighton, in Livingston County. He negotiated a one-year contract for the post, and begins his job Oct. 12.

"There will be a lot of challenges," said Phillips. "It will be interesting for me."

But Phillips says he wants Canton's merit commission to continue its probe of his layoff last month as chief ordinance officer. The three-member commission sets personnel policies, tests job applicants and oversees hiring among township employees.

THE TOWNSHIP BOARD on June 17 voted to dismantle Canton's ordinance department, moving that function back to the building department where it was prior to 1979. Phillips subsequently asked the merit commission to check into the matter.

Ordinance officers enforce non-criminal laws of the township, such as the sign ordinance and prohibition against the storage of junk cars.

Some residents and township officials applauded the role of the ordinance enforcement, saying it cut down on blight. Many business persons were bitterly opposed to enforcement of the strict sign ordinance.

"I THINK the investigation (about the layoff) is very important," said Phillips. He said the roles of the township board and the merit commission need to be clarified on personnel procedures.

Currently, ordinance enforcement is being handled by ordinance officer Fred Baker, who was transferred to the building department.

Under the township's contract with Local 236 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), a supervisory employee such as Phillips can't perform the active ordinance enforcement of the bargaining unit, said personnel director Dan Durack.

Supervisor James Poole said the reorganization would save the township about $75,000 and finance the possible hiring of two or three police officers.

The merit commission in July determined the Township Board may merge

E.J. Mitych earned the first-place award for this color photograph of two balloons touching while in flight. The uplifting, many-colored picture also captured the judges' attention because of the placement of the moon above the second large balloon on the left. Mitych patiently waited until everything he wanted in the picture was within the viewfinder before snapping the shutter.

Canton man wins 2d place

Contestants show fresh ideas

There are plenty of good photographers in Canton, Plymouth and surrounding communities.

That's what the Observer learned from sponsoring the color photographic contest for the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival in July.

The entries were so good, and competition so keen, that the Observer decided to award three honorable mentions beyond the first three award winners.

THE WINNERS are: First place, E.J. Mitych of Plymouth; second, Frank Portell of Canton; third, Don DeMayo of Taylor; and honorable mentions, Lee King of Northville, Greg Williams of Plymouth Township, and Jerry Rans of Canton.

The first-place winner's picture is published above, and he has received a $25 cash award. Second-place Portell received $20, third-place DeMayo, $15, and each honorable mention received four tickets to Sunday's Plymouth Rotary chicken barbecue at the Fall Festival.

THERE WERE a total of 70 entries.

Mitych, of Penniman Avenue, Plymouth, is a systems analyst for Burroughs Corp. who has been taking pictures for about 10 years.

DeMayo, who works as a products manager in Farmington and Canton for Diamond Automation, Inc., has been taking pictures seriously for about four years.

His third-place winner was taken with a Minolta SRT 101 using a zoom lens.

Williams, of Aspen Drive, Plymouth Township, is a manufacturer's rep for V.F. Sales who has been taking pictures for the past eight years. His winning slide was taken with a Fujica camera.

King of Northville works in the engineering department of Ford Motor Co. and is a newcomer to photography, having taken pictures for only the past two to three months. He used a Minolta CL camera.

Rans of Canton is a financial analyst for Ford Motor who has been taking pictures for the past year. His honorable mention slide was taken with a Pentax ME Super.

MITYCH exercised a great deal of patience in waiting for the right moment to take his winning slide, noted the judges, as he captured two balloons actually touching in mid-air with the moon visible above. The "kissing balloons" were surrounded by several other balloons at varying distances.

Portell's second-place slide showed the bottom of the basket hanging from the underside of the balloon with the pilot waving to spectators on the ground. The picture was well-framed and demonstrated that care had been taken by the lensman, according to judges.

The panel of judges consisted of Emory Daniels, community editor, Plymouth Observer; Gary Caskey, staff photographer for the Canton and Plymouth Observers; and Teri Banas, reporter for the Plymouth Observer.

Criteria used included composition, color reproduction, and general pictorial appeal. The judges considered the merits of each slide and judged all entries individually and as a panel.

Board hikes rescue fees for non-residents

The Township Board last week tripled the fee for non-residents who are taken to area hospitals by a fire department rescue unit.

For several years the price for the service was $35. That will rise to $100. Canton residents now are paying a fire millage assessment which includes ambulance service.

"WE'VE BEEN charging $35 (to non-residents) for the last six or seven years," said Fire Chief Mel Paulun. "This is the first increase in that time."

The new price structure, which takes effect immediately, will have the greatest impact on persons who become injured in traffic accidents in Canton — an estimated 250 non-residents each year, said Paulun. He said if several family members must be taken to a hospital, there will be a single $100 charge for the run.

Paulun says the travel time to area hospitals ties up staff and vehicles, boosting costs.

"We're not trying to make money," said Paulun. "We're just trying to break even."

THE INCREASE puts Canton at the top of the scale among neighboring communities. However, Paulun said adjacent fire departments also are talking about boosting rates.

'We've been charging $35 (to non-residents) for the last six or seven years. This is the first increase in that time.'

— Mel Paulun, fire chief

A chart prepared by the fire department shows Plymouth charges $105 for non-residents and $70 for residents who must be transported.

Garden City has no extra fee for residents, but non-residents pay $75. All traffic accident cases, residents or not, are charged $100 per person.

Westland charges $35 for residents and $50 for non-residents. Many communities — including the townships of Romulus, Sumpter and Superior, and the cities of Taylor and Ypsilanti have no transport service.

Redford transports only in extreme emergency, and charges no extra fee for the service.

PAULUN said two fire department vehicles are routinely sent out on an accident run. One is to transport injured persons, and the other stands by to assist in removing victims from the car or dousing a fire.

In 1980, there were a total of 1,902 fire department runs. Only 735 were for fires, and the remainder were rescue cases.

The department has logged about 550 rescue runs so far this year.

Outing slated to aid hospital

Organizers of the fourth annual Golf Day Benefit for St. Mary Hospital are on the ball more than ever this year.

In addition to a day of golf Wednesday Sept. 9 at Whispering Willows, the sponsors, the Livonia Heart Fund, has arranged for the appearance of two noted sports Hall of Famers -- U. S. Open billiard champ Steve Mizerak and hockey's Bernie "Boom-Boom" Geoffrion, former player and coach of the Montreal Canadiens.

Both celebrities will play golf. Mizerak will also take on all challengers at billiards during the afternoon and evening. Using a table brought in for his apearance, he will also present an exhibition of the skill that won him the U. S. Open championship four consecutive years and the Billiard News Open championship for five straight years.

SPECIAL BLEACHER seating will be provided for spectators who want to watch the challenges or the exhibitions that will be conducted outdoors.

Their appearance during the golf benefit was made possible by one of the golf day co-sponsors, Miller High Life Action Distributors of Livonia. Also cooperating in the event is the City of Livonia.

And before the day rolls to an end, golfers will also have the chance to unwind with a bit of bocci ball on the Whispering Willows lawns.

Now in its fourth year, the golf outing benefits St. Mary Hospital's emergency room facility with particular emphasis on the cardiac care unit. Past golf day benefits have raised $112,000. All this money was used to upgrade cardiac care equipment used to serve the thousands of heart trauma patients the hospital treats each year.

Purchases have included heart monitors, DC pulse defibrillaters and Strikker frames.

THE EMERGENCY area of the hospital also has been expanded and will now accommodate 123 additional patients, thus requiring six additional monitors and a central monitor.

"That's what makes this year's benefit so important," commented heart fund president Ron Mardiros. "Our goal is $100,000."

The Livonia Heart Fund will continue with its original goal of equipping the trauma room and other special care units with monitors and other necessary equipment until the facility is the best, he added. But the fund is also now committed to assist other worthy community projects that are approved charities as defined by the Internal Revenue Code.

"We do this to assure contributors that their donations are acceptable as a charitable contribution under IRS rules," Mardiros explained.

The cost to take part in the golf day benefit is $150. This includes a steak dinner, use of a golf cart, refreshments on and off the course and lunch.

However, anyone wanting to contribute to the fund may do so without participating in the golf day. Some residents have already done so without realizing it when they did their grocery shopping.

That happened the golf day benefit got a head start this year when the Kroger stores at Five Mile and Newburgh roads and Plymouth at Farmington sponsored a "donation day" on Aug. 26 with 5 percent of the gross sales of that day being donated to the heart fund. This is Kroger's first year as a co-sponsor.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the heart fund at 522-2378.

Golf day prizes will be a vacation for two to Montreal and use of an automobie for a year.

Phillips wins job or consolidate job functions for fiscal or managerial reasons, "to the extent there was no intent to circumvent the merit commission," said merit commissioner Bruce Patterson.

The commission — at Phillips' request — currently is probing certain conditions related to Phillips' layoff. If those conditions are found to be correct, said Patterson, Phillips eventually could be re-hired by Canton Township.

Patterson declined to elaborate on the issue because Phillips requested it be discussed at a closed meeting. However, he said the item will be aired at an open meeting in the near future.

IN THE MEANTIME, a separate effort to keep Phillips on the Canton payroll apparently has failed to jell.

In an Aug. 18 letter to the Township Board, Durack said there are no immediate plans to add an administrative slot in the police department.

A few weeks ago, trustee Steve Larson — one of three board members who had voted against the building-ordinance consolidation plan — asked Durack and Police Chief Jerry Cox to check into the possibility of Phillips' going to the police department.

Larson cited Phillips' administrative skills and capabilities as a former reserve police officer.

IN HIS NEW position, Phillips will administer day-to-day activities in Genoa Township. A spokeswoman in Genoa Township Hall said the community is a combination of agricultural, residential and commercial development.

The current administrator is moving to Illinois, where his wife has accepted a college teaching position.

Phillips said he plans to commute to his new job until the family's house in Canton is sold.

Canton businessman robbed near freeway

A Canton Township drug store owner on his way to his home in Redford Township was robbed of his motorbike and $800 in cash shortly before 10 p.m. Monday night on Schoolcraft Road, west of Levan.

Richard Rydzewski, of Redford Township, told police he was riding a moped east on Schoolcraft, the Jeffries Freeway service drive, when he was pulled over by two men in a full-size black pick-up truck which had sounded the horn.

A truck passenger pointed a snub-nose revolver at Rydzewski and told him to, "Get off and run," according to police.

After Rydzewski contacted police from a nearby business, he said he saw the same pick-up truck going east on Schoolcraft with his motorbike in the back.

The $800 was in a saddlebag on the bike, police said.

The suspects were decribed as black, thin and wearing dark colored caps.

Rydzewski owns Kings Row Drugs in Canton Township, police said.

The absence of ninth-graders at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) means less crowding in the classrooms and hallways at both high schools. Here a group of students are walking home at the end of the school day.

Many firsts greet students

A number of firsts were part of the first days of school last week in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, making for a sense of change which created a different atmosphere in many schools.

One of the major changes was the shifting of ninth-graders from the high schools at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) to the middle schools.

The hallways were less congested at Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools, parking lots less full, and the lunch lines shorter. In fact, this year there are only three lunch hours at the CEP instead of five.

There also is a more "mature" atmosphere at the middle schools as ninth-graders remained for another year, and incoming sixth-graders instead stayed at the elementary level — at most schools.

There are some exceptions, such as Lowell Middle School, which will have grades 6-9 for the current school year, and West Middle School, which also will have some sixth-graders.

One of the changes resulting from the grade realignment is the elimination of ninth-grade interscholastic athletic competition and the introduction of broadened intermural sports at the middle-school grades.

On the sports scene another new look will be the introduction of varsity soccer at the CEP for boys and girls, with competition beginning this fall.

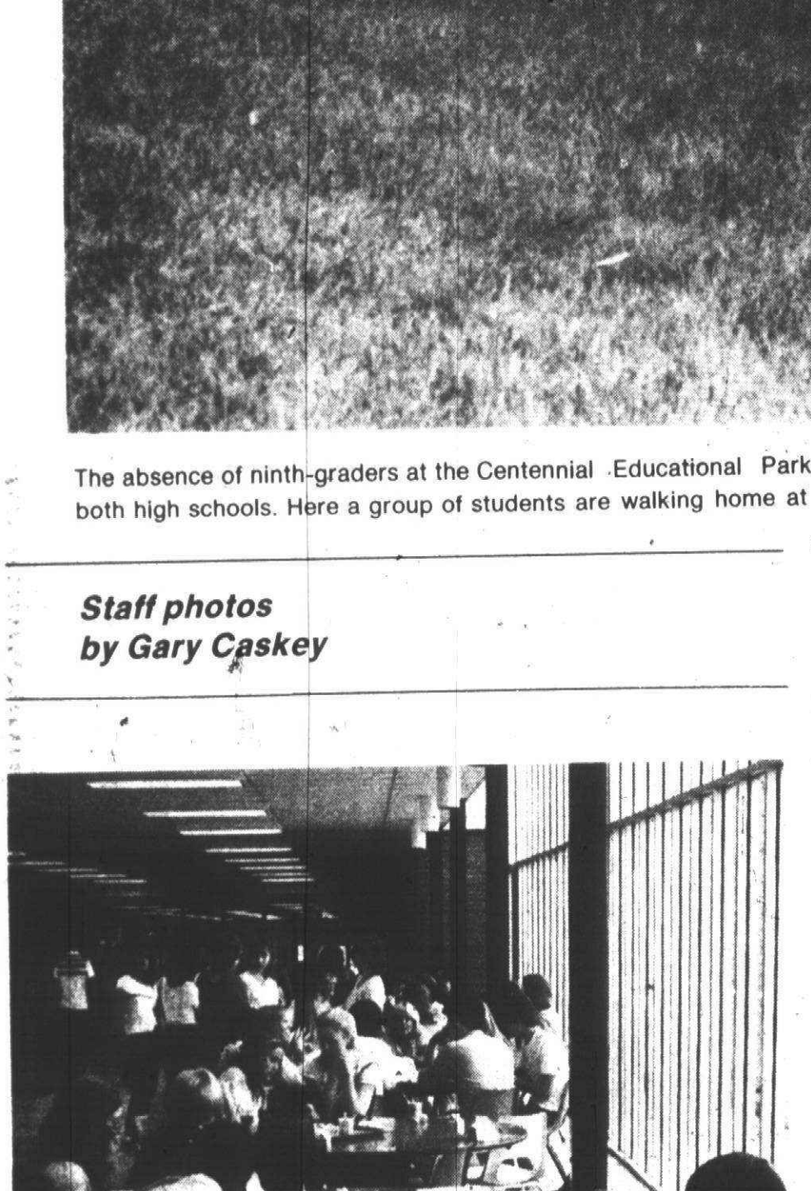
The 1981-82 school year also will mark the return of Pioneer Middle School to a traditional nine-month calendar after a few years on Extended School Year (ESY).

New principals this year include Sam Barresi at Bird, Joyce Reefer at Gallimore, Jan Hawkins at Geer and Dr. Gary Faber at Lowell — the newest middle school under a lease agreement made with Livonia Public Schools.

Interstate United Food Service Company also is providing a new taste in the cafeterias of the district's 20 school buildings.

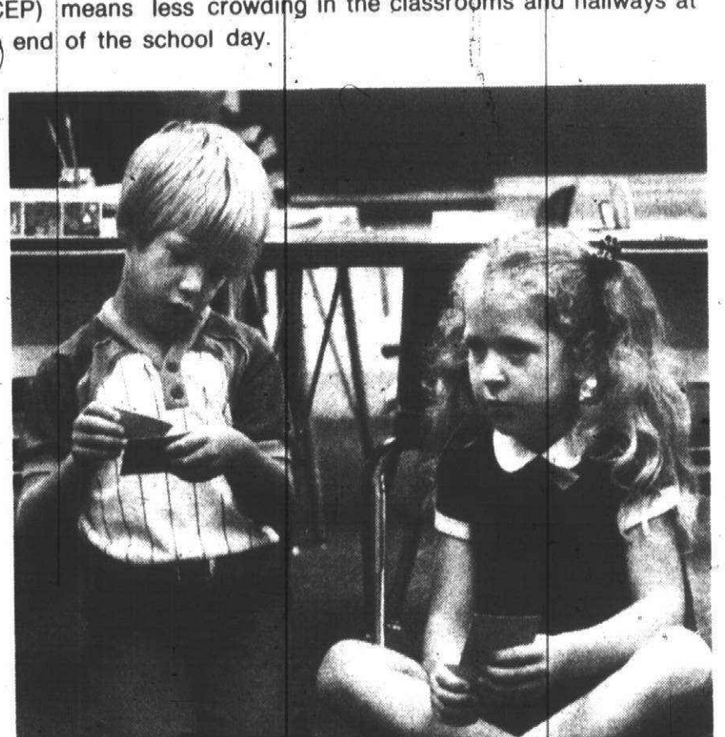
Different looks, different atmospheres, new tastes and smells — a new school year, once again.

Staff photos by Gary Caskey

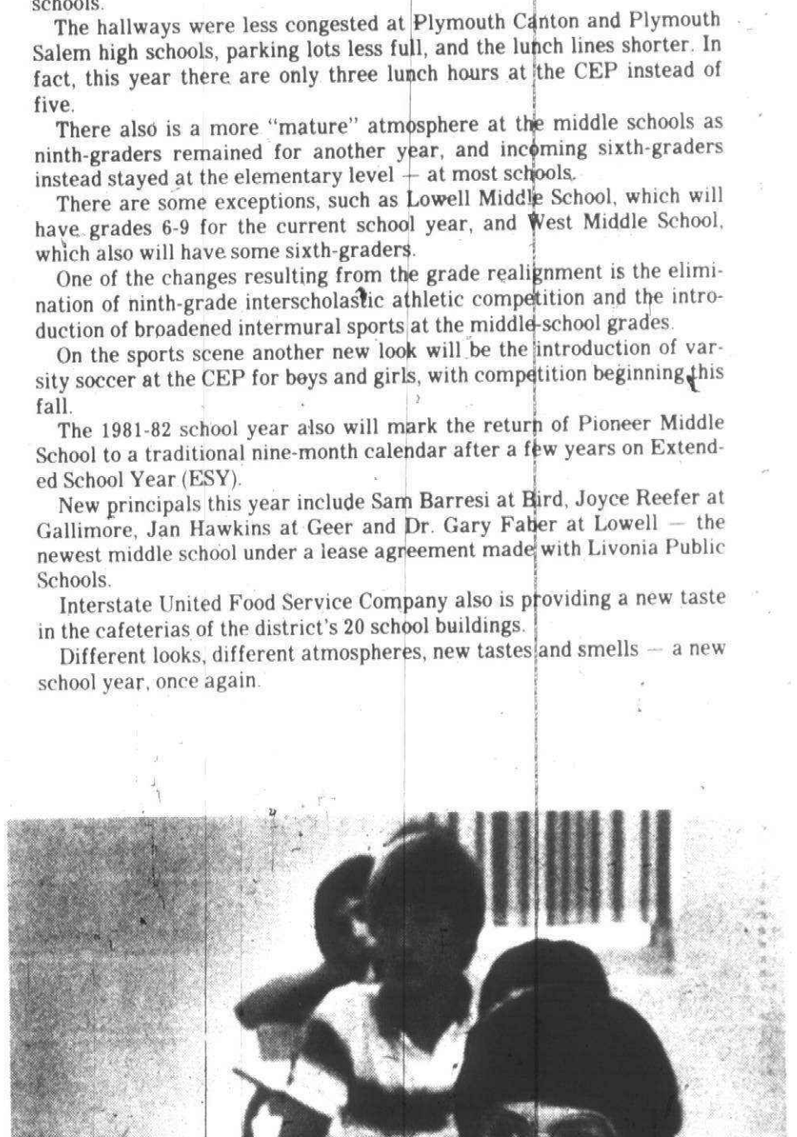


The cafeterias are less crowded this year at the CEP with just the three grade levels. At Salem High these students are at the second floor lunch area serviced by snack-type foods from a concession operation.

Michael Kokoszka and Alysia Sofios examine circles, squares and triangles as part of their studies in their first year of school as kindergartners at Gallimore.



Allie Suffety, ninth grade health education teacher, teaches at the middle school level this year instead of at the CEP but still coaches football for Plymouth High.



At Pioneer Middle School, Randy Blaylock takes a front row seat for the health education class which last year had been taught for all incoming freshmen at the CEP.

What's in a name? Plenty

Shirlee Iden

It isn't just the old gray mare that ain't what she used to be. Nothing much is what it used to be.

Take the phrase "sound as a dollar." What does that say to you in 1981?

Used to be when you asked for someone's John Hancock, it meant a signature you could trust, a harking back to the foundation of the country, to the Constitution and those revered gentlemen who signed it.

In those days, craftsmen such as silversmith Paul Revere signed their names or hallmarks only on their finest creations.

And what price can we tag onto a signed Rembrandt or Da Vinci?

Today, even the finest print by artist Marc Chagall may be only partially his artistry and largely finished by some nameless workman who pulls the prints off the stones and does who knows what else in the procedure.

Today, the trend is for signatures and endorsements on everything from perfume to status automobiles.

Sometimes I wonder if a sheet and pillowcases by Halston are really better than one simply by Cannon or Springmaid. Or is it just the price that's higher?

SEEMS TO ME that prestige has become a marketable commodity. Win a Coty Award in the fashion industry, and that makes you an expert on exotic scents.

Anonymity seems out of date these days.

Just look around you. Designers' names are on people's bottoms, decorating their jeans, on their fancy perfume bottles, on handbags.

One doesn't buy an ice cream cone, one asks where the nearest Hagendaz Scoop place is located. Luggage isn't luggage until its Gucci. If you say "McDonald's," people know you mean a hamburger, not a Scottish gentleman by that name.

And the latest wrinkle is, get this, designer chocolates.

You'd think Bill Blass, whose name already is on couture clothing for men and women, on sheets and towels and on cars would be satisfied. Not so.

The BB initials will be etched onto my favorite chocolates, those sinfully rich, sensuously satisfying Godiva Chocolatier creations, so hard to resist.

Fortunately, most of the time even if I can afford the calories I can't afford the chocolates. But I love to look at them, little flowers, spirals — each a perfect piece of chocolate artistry.

LET'S FACE IT — with the Blass name on them, the price will never be right, just rising. And already they're tagged at $14 a pound. I haven't figured out yet how much that is per chocolate.

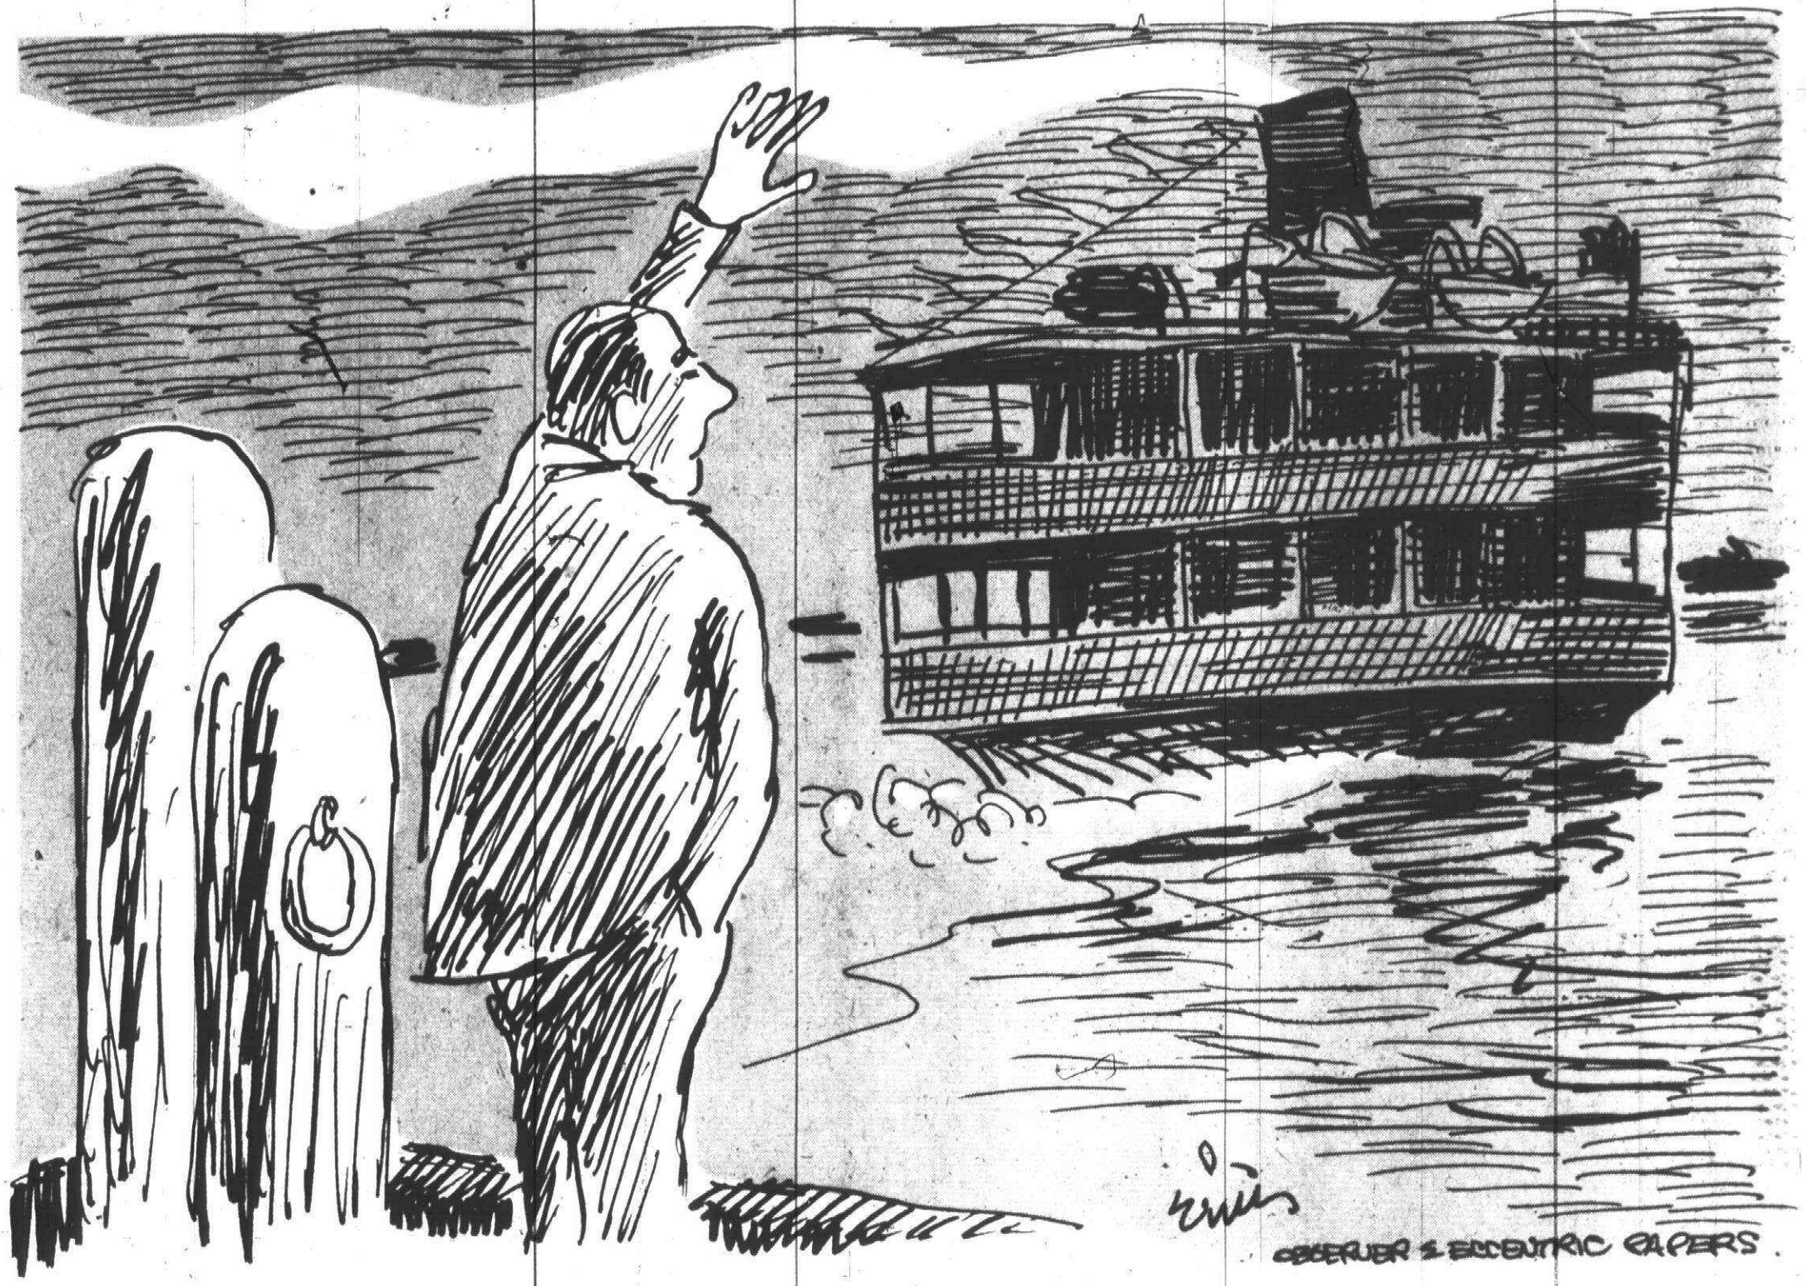
They'll probably be a status gift for Sweetest Day, Easter and Christmas. "Have a Bill Blass," someone will offer, and I'll be trying to figure out which one is the caramel.

Some days I'd rather have a Hershey bar without almonds than even the fanciest Godiva creation wrapped in gold. I can rely on the taste and texture and use a Vera-designed crying towel to regret the calories.

Bill Blass was one of the first designers I ever interviewed. He's affable, personable and has designed some classy clothes.

But can I trust my chocolate craving to Bill?

On designer chocolates, I'll take vanilla.



Bob-Lo, I used to know you when

Bob Wisler

Reading the morning paper after I get up in the early afternoon is my custom. Where else would I discover such a wealth and diversity of important information. Like the other day I read where the owners of Bob-Lo declared they were solvent enough to promise another season of boats paddling down the Detroit River to Bob-Lo island.

My initial reaction of indifference was replaced by a feeling of genuine affection for the scene of some of my most poignant moments.

Even now I can recall mom and grandma taking us tykes aboard the mammoth ship bound for pleasure island. I stared for hours at the engine room, was in awe of the uniformed sailors manning the ship, considered it glorious to be out in the cool air of the river on the way to a cartel of carnival rides, food booths and never-ending fun and enjoyment.

My sister and I raced from one end of the boat to the other, dodged from one deck to the next, ran in and out of the dance areas and past the adults drinking beer or sitting on folding chairs watching the river go by.

And then came the island, the exciting docking, down the ramp to endless hours of rides and games and mom and grandma to dish out the nickels, dimes and quarters when they were needed.

THE ENJOYMENT of the moment and the day was supreme. I never gave a thought that a time would come when I wouldn't care about going to Bob-Lo. I never thought, either, the day would come when grandma would die. But it did. I didn't understand death at all.

My first real date was on a midnight cruise to Bob-Lo. I was 14 at the time and driving, not legally, but driving, nevertheless, an almost new Chevy convertible that my dad allowed me to use. Did you ever see eight kids in a Chevy convertible on the way to the Bob-Lo boat all talking and laughing at the same time while the radio played Fats Domino loud enough to be heard in Cincinnati?

We came back up the river in the cool night air and I put my arm around Nancy Adams and her nearness set my heart pumping double time. I thought there was nobody who was as pretty as she in the moonlight and I wondered what love was like and if I was in love with her. I knew nothing about love then, as you probably realize.

Years later I thought I was at least slightly in love with a young lady who preferred the company of one of the owners of the Bob-Lo boats and Bob-Lo island. I recall sitting in the bar part of the boat listening to her tale of woe. The love of her life wasn't reciprocating they way he should. No sympathy here. It was the first of many times that I learned that money talks and owns boats. Everything else walks — several lengths behind.

YEARS LATER again, I took a Sunday ride on the Bob-Lo boat, at Cotter's insistence. Cotter, a reporter and frequent companion, was inspired by the radio commercial — Blooop, "it's 10 o'clock and another Bob-Lo boat is leaving the foot of Woodward." What a perfect way, he said, to cure the Sunday hangover which followed our latest Saturday night assault on the cabarets of downtown Detroit.

We enjoyed the fresh air and the spray of the water and on the way back the bar opened and it became packed with beer-sipping fun lovers who were oblivious to their noisy children racing from one end of the boat to the other. We met smiling young divorcees getting together to take their kids out and we danced and laughed until the boat docked.

Years later an aunt decided the Bob-Lo boat was the best place to have a family gathering. My cousin from California was there with his two young kids, my sister was there with her three young kids, my mother and aunt were there. I went with my then-girl friend. I had a great time, talking with everyone and getting acquainted with my cousin. It was then and still is the only time that I have ever seen him.

My girl friend got along famously with the relatives and on the boat-ride back she talked about us getting married. It was a real family day.

LATER THE girl and I split, after it had long been apparent that neither of us was really serious about marriage or each other, maybe not about life itself.

I introduced her to a friend. They soon were going together, I breathed easier. They married, they separated, she moved to New York, he moved to New York, they got divorced. They never felt comfortable in my presence; theirs didn't bother me.

It's been several years since I heard anything about either of them. It's only at times like this that I recall them at all — the one-time love of my life and a one-time friend. It is strange, but it's as if they were characters in a book I read once and not really part of my life at all.

So it goes with other characters in this pilgrimage. I never knew what happened to Nancy Adams after the tenth grade. The girl who was in love with one of the Bob-Lo owners moved to New York, fell in love with someone else, married someone else, had a son. A mutual friend told me recently that her husband died last year.

I can't really recall what my cousin from California looked like that day, nor his kids. His aunt, my aunt, still going strong at 80, tells me about them from time to time. My mother lives nearby, two of my sister's kids are going to college.

Cotter died six years ago — was it that long ago already? — on a Sunday afternoon. He went up in an airplane for his first and last parachute jump. The chute didn't open and for some unexplained reason he didn't get the emergency chute open. I learned later that he had been with friends and someone insisted that parachute jumping was a great way to get rid of Saturday night's hangover.

I tell myself that after all these years I understand about life, death, love and time. The truth is that I understand only that Bob-Lo excursions don't last forever, that time impinges on us all, that people may come and go, but our dealings with them are the only things really important. I understand love only a little better than the night I went on the moonlight cruise with Nancy Adams. I do not understand death at all.

Somehow I take comfort in the promise that the Bob-Lo boats will be running again next year.

Saving used oil will help us all

Sherry Kahan

Here's a offer you won't be able to resist.

It's a chance to improve the environment. At the same time you will simultaneously improve your country's balance of payments, reduce its dependence on OPEC nations and oil companies, give a boost to small business and improve the job market.

All you have to do is take your used crankcase oil to a service station. It will then start it on its way toward recycling.

It has been estimated that each year in Michigan 20 million gallons of oil removed from cars, motorcycles, lawnmowers, and snowmobiles by people who change their own oil are dumped into sewer system or on the ground.

In this area it often makes its way to the Rouge River on whose troubled waters more than enough oil has already been poured. Or if dribbled into the ground, it is only added to our water table, which is already having to deal with unwanted guests like toxic wastes.

As for balance of payments and oil companies, recycling can only help. The more oil that is reused the less we have to buy.

In addition, a number of small business have grown up around the recycling of oil. Trucks are purchased to take it from one point to another. People are hired to drive them and work in the recycling facilities.

Look for the signs at local service stations that say "Recycle Used Oil Here." Don't forget that auto centers run by Sears, Penney's and K-Mart are also participating in the program.

I think most people prefer not to dump their oil, and were just waiting for a place to take it.

As I said, this is a chance you can't resist.

Lamaze class

Call it a learning experience

Craig Piechura

Nobody has babies anymore. That's because they're too busy having a "birthing experience."

At least that's the word for it used exclusively by the instructors in the Lamaze childbirth classes my wife Louise and I are taking.

Let's explore this strange term by splitting it in two parts.

First, "birthing." Forget Webster. I define it as a redundant, trendy verb meaning to have a baby. The word sounds like a sport popular in California. Tired of wind surfing, try birthing.

How does a pregnant woman or expectant father conjugate this verb? "I will birth in October." "Oh, I am birthing." "I have already birthed."

Just don't birth in public. It's considered uncouth.

ETOMOLOGISTS discover the origin of words. Through such research, I believe they would find that the first person to use the word "birthing" was Butterfly McQueen in the movie "Gone With the Wind." Little did she know at the time that countless Lamaze instructors would follow her example when she uttered the immortal words, "But Mizz Scarlett, I don't know nothin' 'bout birthin' no babies."

On to the appendage, "experience." This unnecessary word was first attached to verbs by menu writers. The same people who gave us cheezie weenies and hammy sammies gave us the complete (also spelled "compleat") dining experience at Big Boy restaurants.

The word "experience" ranks right up there with the hyphenated "-wise" in the world of redundant speaking — redundancy-wise. The word "experience" can elevate the everyday to the unique. Why just read this column when you could have a reading experience?

But I digress. Back to the baby and the Lamaze classes. The corny talk aside, the classes are worthwhile. Jeez, I caught myself. I almost said it's a worthwhile experience. The next thing you know I'll slip and start blabbering about the Quality of Life, another bit of socio-babble that is taking the country by storm.

Still, we're learning a lot about childbirth in the Lamaze classes. And where else besides the Tender Trap can a guy spend an evening watching a roomful of women practice their pelvic thrusts? Before you get too jealous, guys, think of how many women look sexy in a smock.

IN THE CLASSES you quickly learn that there is no such thing as labor pain. You see you don't call pain "pain." You call it "discomfort." Call me stubborn but I still say a pain by other name is still a pain, no matter what you tell your brain.

This column should carry an editor's note explaining that its author isn't trying to belittle the thrill of childbirth or diminish the inherent excitement of witnessing and helping a woman deliver a baby. But deliver me from words like birthing experience.

One more thing. If I see Winnie the Pooh decals or appliques on another piece of baby clothing or baby furniture I may go into insulin shock. The coroner's report will conclude that it was a case of allergic reaction to terminal cuteness.

But there I go again — that's a different story. I've gotta go write a few thank-you-notes on cards carrying pictures of little ducks holding umbrellas.

New Morning returns to area

After a brief stay in Dearborn Heights, New Morning School is back in business in Plymouth.

A late September opening is slated, with a full complement of school days planned, for New Morning which is a nonprofit parent cooperative school for children in preschool through eighth grade.

The school, founded in 1973 in Plymouth, still has limited openings for the fall term in the preschool/day care program and in the K-8 school.

As construction is completed at the school's new site on Haggerty, between Schoolcraft and Five Mile, registrations will continue to be accepted.

PARENTS ARE involved as teacher aides, in building maintenance, fund raising, secretarial work and in other roles in the school which stresses a high level of parental involvement.

A non co-op option is available to parents but at a higher tuition rate.

The preschool, directed by Marilyn Romack of Canton, meets each day from 9-11:45 a.m. Full child care is offered from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. yearround but class size is limited to 15. Ms. Romack is a certified teacher with a master of arts degree from Eastern Michigan University.

The K-8 school, with a total enrollment of 30, will be staffed by two certified teachers — Rita Heaven of Chelsea and Elaine Yagiela of Northville Township. Both have taught at New Morning for the past eight years.

Each child's school program is planned individually by the teacher and student, explains Ms. Heaven, relating basic skills to the child's interests.

Decision-making and responsibility to the group also is stressed.

New Morning is an ungraded school where children make comparable or better progress than would be anticipated in the public school system because of the high level of individual attention from the teachers, adds Ms Heaven.

Apprenticeship positions are available for the middle school children in an attempt to relate classroom work to the world of work and to explore career options available.

The K-8 school meets each day from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. with extended child care hours available. French, music, swimming, and movement education are available for all children in preschool and K-8.

A meeting is planned for Sept. 15 for all families already registered for the school year. For information on preschool/day care or to register call 981-2537 and for K-8 information may be obtained by calling 348-9294 or 453-3267.

2 Scouts are back from U.S. Jamboree

Two local Boy Scouts are back home after attending the 10th National Scout Jamboree at Fort A.P. Hill, Va.

Busy sorting through souvenirs and relating new experiences are Scouts Brian Crum of Canton and Adam Wilkinson of Plymouth.

The two Scouts, members of Troop 743, were part of the 150-person contingent from the East Central Region which toured the Amish settlement near Lancaster, Pa., Gettysburg, and Washington, D.C. en route to the jamboree.

At A.P. Hill they joined with some 30,000 other Scouts from around the world to form an instant "tent city" — complete with post office, bank, 100-bed hospital, and Western Union offices.

While the boys slept in tents and prepared all their meals over charcoal, they found ample time for pursuing most merit badges and meeting Scouts from other states and countries.

Besides the work, the Scouts also were entertained by Burl Ives, the Oak Ridge Boys, Regeneration, the Army Field Band, and by the Soldiers Chorus as well as watching demonstrations by the Navy Skydivers and by the Marine Silent Drill Corps. The East Central Region also set a world record by organizing a 1,600-member harmonica band.

Views on Dental Health
Kenneth A. Fox, D.D.S., P.C.
PREPARATION FOR FIRST VISIT
There has to be a first time for everything and that includes your child's first visit to the dentist. Much of the preparation will be up to the parents. Here are some suggestions:
Don't give your child the opportunity to hear "neighborhood experiences." It's best to tell a child about a dental visit the night before. Of course, always refer to the dentist as "our friend." Convey the feeling that dental visits are a part of growing up. Don't offer rewards or indicate that there is anything to fear. In fact, such words as hurt, grind, drill, etc., should be eliminated from the dental vocabulary. Say that your dentist intends only to examine and that he will always explain what he is going to do.
Make appointment day easy for your child. Make no other plans for him or her that day. If possible, the appointment should be made early in the day.
This may be the most difficult advice of all - but children are usually most cooperative if parents are not in the treatment room. Rest assured, all findings will be discussed with you after the visit.

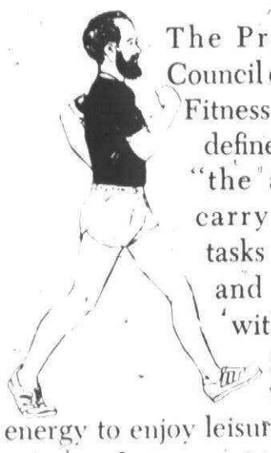
Shaping up with diet and exercise



The President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports defines fitness as "the ability to carry out daily tasks with vigor and alertness, without undue fatigue and with ample energy to enjoy leisure time pursuits and to meet unforeseen emergencies."

To reach that state of "fitness," people all across America are getting involved in exercise programs and taking lessons in how to modify their diets. Some people call it the "fitness revolution."

This total approach to fitness is witnessed in increased memberships in YMCA's and health clubs, and in programs offered by high schools and colleges. One such program at the University of California at Los Angeles, called the UCLA Center for Health Enhancement, emphasizes total health. The participants learn how to shop for the nutrition they need, attend seminars on behavior modification and stress control and participate in exercise programs. Founded in 1978, the program has set the stage for other health centers.

A component of every good health program is diet. If the program is based on sound nutrition principles, it instills the fact that a good diet is basically the same for most adults with a variation in calorie needs. Standard advice is to eat only enough calories to maintain a desirable weight.

The guiding principle is to eat a variety of foods to supply the body with the three major nutrients — protein, fat and carbohydrate — and with all other nutrients including vitamins and minerals.

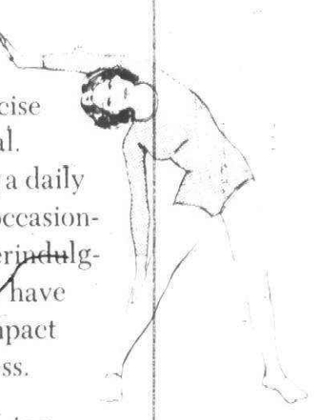
Recognizing that many Americans consume too many calories, eat too much salt and too much fat, especially saturated fat, nutritionists suggest altering eating patterns, recommending that most Americans:

- Eat more fruits, vegetables and whole grains.
- Eat less fatty meats and more poultry and fish.
- Cut down on sugar and foods high in sugar content.
- Use less salt and eat fewer foods high in salt content.
- Substitute skim milk for whole milk.
- Eat fewer egg yolks and other high cholesterol foods.
- Eat less fat and partially substitute polyunsaturated fat for saturated fat.

The body's adaptation for fitness is the result of total lifestyle, not just one type of effort alone. It is achieved by a combination of dietary modifications, a change in eating behavior and regular aerobic activities such as running, swimming or walking briskly.

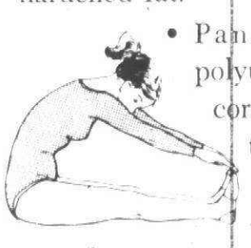
Aerobic exercises promote the strength and endurance of the heart, lungs and circulatory system that is known as cardiovascular fitness. The object of an aerobic exercise is to speed up the cardiovascular system to a faster pace for some minutes. Additionally, the same exercises which promote circulatory fitness are those which burn the most calories fastest and with least fatigue. A good fitness plan must include some form of sustained, aerobic exercise at least every other day or at least three times a week, beginning and ending with warm-up and cool-down exercises such as the ones illustrated here.

A good fitness program is a way to live well. As fitness enters into a lifestyle, enjoyable activities should be chosen. Similarly, good nutrition is a way of eating, not an exercise in denial. Missing a daily run or occasionally overindulging will have little impact on fitness.

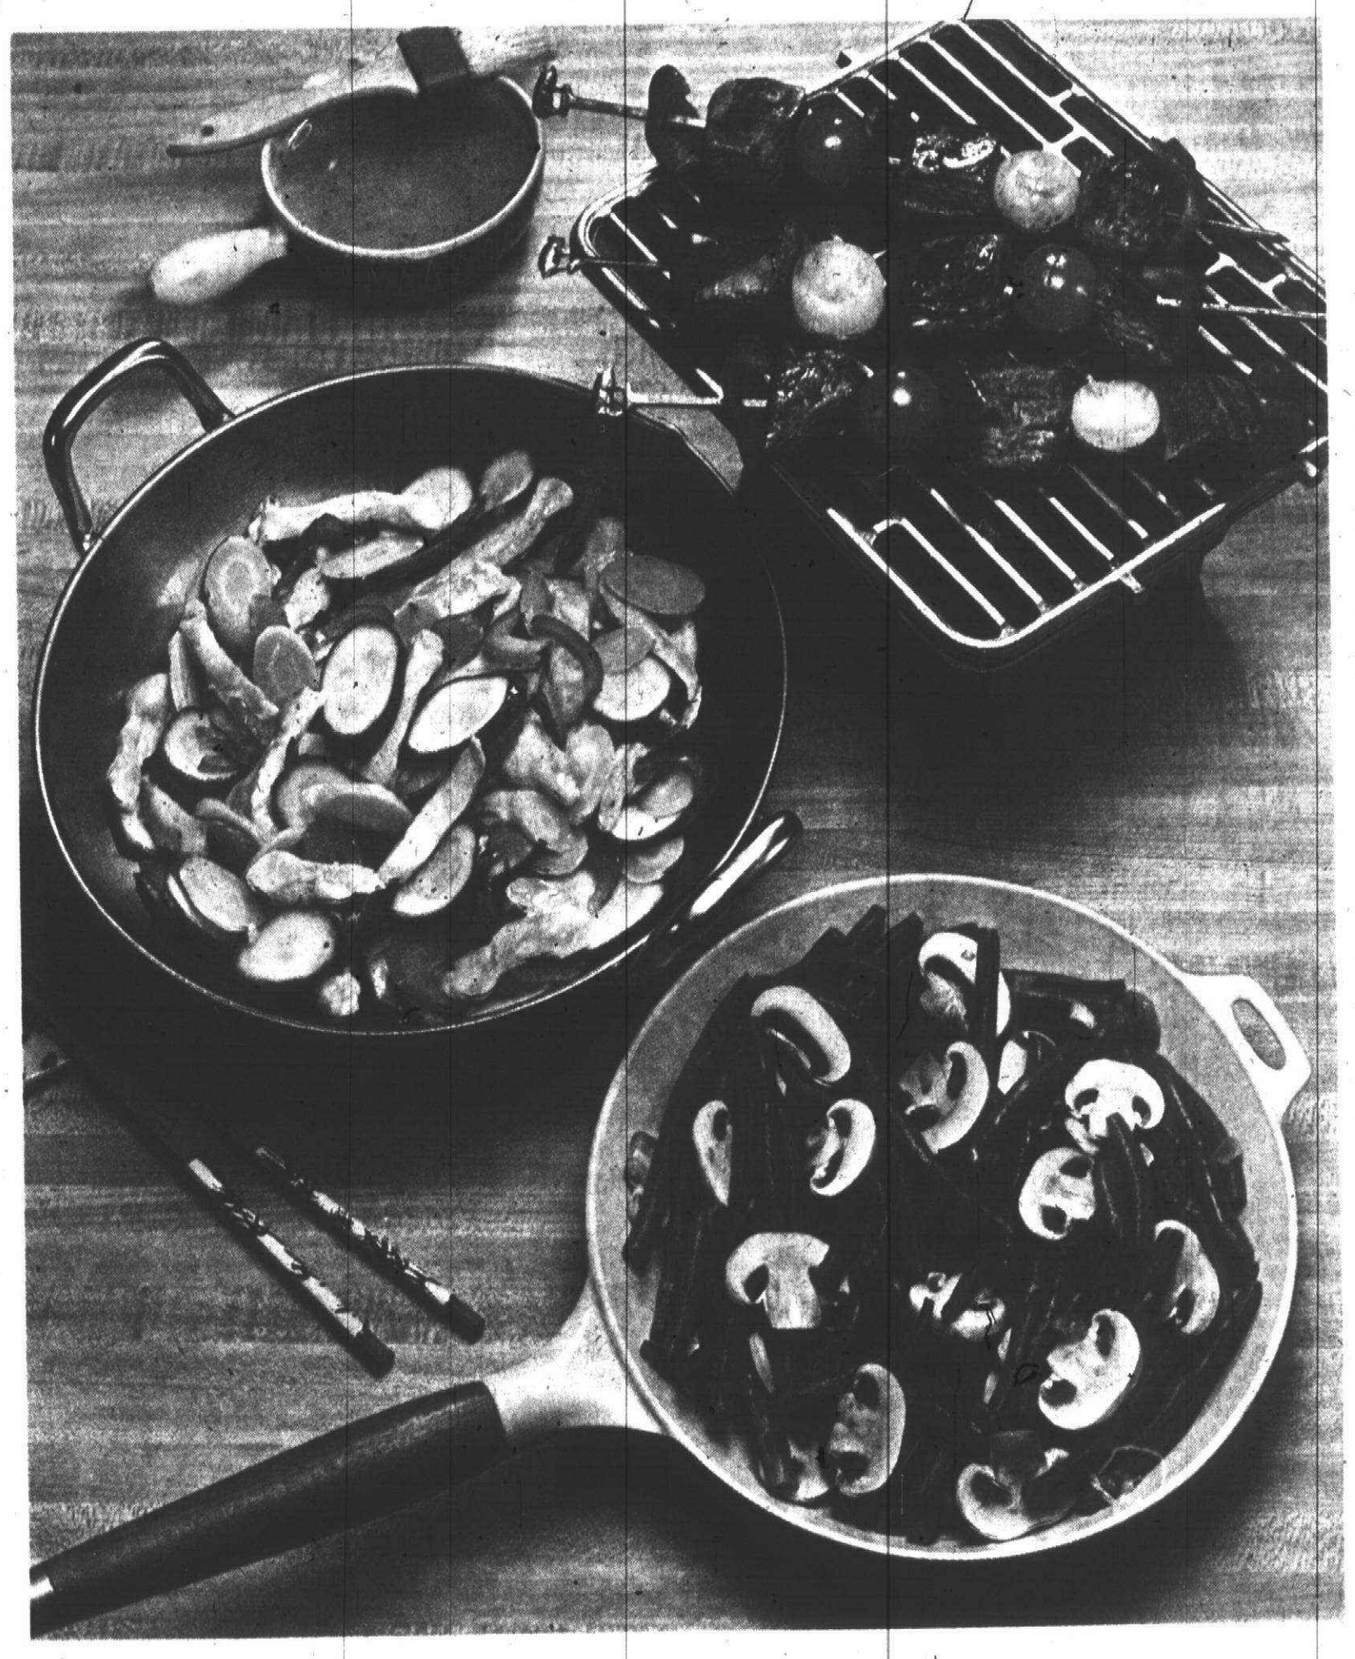


By learning to apply the principles, rather than any rigid system of exercise and diet, fitness is more likely to be achieved for the long run. In tandem with an exercise program is cooking in a healthful way. Apply, for example, the following techniques in everyday cooking.

- Make pot roasts and stews a day ahead. Chill and lift off hardened fat.
- Pan fry with polyunsaturated corn oil rather than butter, lard or bacon fat.
- Use corn oil when melted shortening is called for in a recipe.
- Spark flavor of dishes with herbs, lemon juice, vinegar, onion and garlic rather than salt.
- Cook roasts, turkey and chicken on a rack so fat can drain off.
- Brown meats and poultry, then pour off fat before continuing with recipe.



The recipes here, built around basic methods of stir-frying, broiling and steaming, were developed by the makers of Mazola corn oil in conjunction with their national Shape-Up program. Add to these recipes a basic oil and vinegar dressing that doubles as a marinade and shaping up is closer than you think.



Stir-Fry, a technique perfected by the Chinese, but adaptable for many tastes, many seasonings. Stir-frying of a lean meat and vegetable mixture in a small amount of corn oil produces a main dish that is moderate in saturated fat, cholesterol and calories.

Lemon Chicken

1 teaspoon corn starch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup water
3 tablespoons corn oil, divided
2 whole chicken breasts, boned, skinned, cut in strips
1 large carrot, sliced
1 pound zucchini, sliced (about 2 cups)
1 cup sliced celery
1 clove garlic, minced or pressed
Grated rind of one lemon

In small bowl stir together corn starch, salt and thyme. Stir in lemon juice and water until smooth. Set aside. In wok or large skillet heat 2 tablespoons of the corn oil over medium-high heat. Add chicken, one half at a time, and stir-fry about 3 to 4 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove chicken from wok. Add remaining 1 tablespoon corn oil. Add carrots; stir-fry 1 to 2 minutes. Add zucchini; stir-fry 1 minute. Add celery, garlic and lemon rind; stir-fry 1 minute. Return chicken. Restir corn starch mixture. Stir into wok. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Makes 4 servings.

Dress salads lightly with oil and vinegar dressing. Vary the seasonings and use for all kinds of salads.

Oil and Vinegar Dressing

1 cup corn oil
1/3 cup vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper

In jar with tight fitting lid measure corn oil; vinegar, salt, mustard, paprika and cayenne pepper. Cover; shake well; refrigerate. Shake before serving. Makes about 1-1/3 cups.

Nutrition information for 2-teaspoon serving: protein — 0 grams, carbohydrates — 0 grams, saturated fat — 1 gram, polyunsaturated fat — 4 grams, cholesterol — 0 milligrams, Calories — 60.

Broil, a healthful way to cook. Trim meat of visible fat and broil on a rack to allow fat to drain off. For extra flavor and to tenderize, marinate in a well-seasoned mixture.

Vegetable Steak Kabobs

1/2 cup corn oil
1/3 cup red wine vinegar
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 (1-1/2 lb.) flank steak, scored
Fresh vegetable pieces°

In small bowl stir together corn oil, vinegar, onion, garlic, thyme, salt and pepper. Cut flank steak into cubes or strips. Place in shallow dish. Pour marinade over flank steak. Cover; refrigerate 4 hours or overnight. Remove steak from marinade. Thread steak onto skewers alternately with vegetables. Broil 4 to 5 inches from source of heat about 8 minutes, turning and brushing with marinade, or until cooked to desired doneness. Makes 6 servings.

Nutrition information per serving: protein — 18 grams, carbohydrates — 3 grams, saturated fat — 5 grams, polyunsaturated fat — 3 grams, cholesterol — 100 milligrams, Calories — 210.

Vegetables used for calculations: 1 green pepper, 6 small white onions, 12 cherry tomatoes.

Steam vegetables this nutritious way — without a rack. Use a pot or skillet with a tight-fitting lid. Water and vegetable juices produce the steam. If vegetables are starchy, add a tablespoon or two of water.

Green Beans and Mushrooms

1 pound green beans, cut in 2-inch pieces (4 cups)
1 tablespoon corn oil
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
1/4 cup sliced green onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

Wash and drain beans but do not dry. In 12-inch skillet with tight fitting lid place corn oil, green beans, mushrooms, green onion, salt and pepper. Cover and cook over medium heat 15 to 20 minutes shaking skillet occasionally to prevent sticking. Makes 6 servings.

Nutrition information per serving: protein — 2 grams, carbohydrates — 6 grams, saturated fat — 0 grams, polyunsaturated fat — 1 gram, cholesterol — 0 milligrams, Calories — 50.

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Made 'for cooks with a touch of the poet'

Last week I found myself staring blankly into a kitchen cupboard at 6 p.m. Not only was dinner not made, but I had no idea what it was going to be.

This is unheard of for me but I had just spent five hours in a futile attempt to convince an obstinate computer to process a program that looked perfectly fine to me. For five hours it just kept sending back messages to the effect of "Loading terminated due to the following errors . . . ," followed by a list of errors longer than the original program.

There are nasty names for people who behave like that. It knew perfectly well what I meant.

In any case, the computer had won that round. I was too frustrated and tired to want to fuss with cooking but hungry enough to want to eat a good dinner. Since many people who work face this situation at least five nights a week, I thought it might be good to devote a series of columns to time-saving hints and quick recipes.

I am rapidly approaching the time, however, when the combined demands of home, school, and work will be too great to allow me the time for a series like that.

AS THE SUMMER winds to a close and the start-up of school comes closer, days which are free for visiting, for reading, or writing seem even more precious.

We spent one of those days recently visiting a very dear friend who has a home near Port Sanilac. Living on a large parcel of land, relatively isolated, they have a large vegetable garden and have just planted peach, plum, cherry, pear and apple trees.

Her parents live nearby and raise chickens, supplying them with fresh eggs, and they plan to also raise bees for a supply of fresh honey. They barter with neighbors — raspberries for wheat — that kind of thing.

Their toddlers roam free in an unfenced yard. There is nowhere dangerous for them to go. We walked down long country roads, talking. We played a marvelous game of soccer on the huge lawn with players ranging in age from 2 on up. It all seemed so simple, so beautiful.

We left at the end of the day with sacks of fresh vegetables from the garden.

THE NEXT morning I served the zucchini in a new souffle recipe. The recipe said the souffle would serve two and, indeed, two of us polished it off but the portions were farmhand size.

The recipe also mentioned that the souffle might benefit from the addition of some tomato sauce. Since zucchini dishes are sometimes bland, I warmed some fresh tomato sauce. The souffle was so delicious, though, that the sauce was left untouched. It would have been a shame to cover up the wonderful flavor with a sauce.

I am passing on the recipe with some trepidation. Perhaps the special quality of the souffle that morning came from the spirit of the previous day in the country that was so bound up in it.

How often does that happen with food? It is delicious or offensive in relation to our moods when we eat or to memories associated with it — intangibles that can never really be passed on when we share a recipe or even repeat a recipe ourselves. Although I can't share that day, I hope you enjoy the souffle recipe on its own merits.

ONE THING I can share is the discovery of a store in Birmingham that is like entering another era. M T Hunter (1000 S. Woodward) specializes in Early American reproductions. These are not the mass-produced reproductions that have given early American such a bad name over the past years but handcrafted treasures ranging from hand-rubbed wood hutches and book cases and hand-sewn quilts to hand-dipped candles, calico aprons, quilted place mats, tin cookie cutters, and reproductions of old cook books.

I was especially taken with a heavy metal, pewter-look muffin tin. ($6.95) The tin had seven cups of various shapes. Attached was a card with this explanation: "Four Seasons Muffin Pan." The star in the center stand for winter, or Christmas. The two hearts stand for spring or love. Two scalloped circles stand for summer's flowers and foliage. The two plain circles represent the Harvest Moon and the bare trees, after they shed their autumn leaves."

IT struck me that this would make a lovely gift for a birthday, engagement, an anniversary, Christmas — the symbolism of the four seasons would make it appropriate for so many occasions.

The tin could be simply hung on a wall for non-cooks or actually used for muffins by cooks with a touch of the poet or to create whimsically shaped treats for children.

THERE ARE SO many other things I would like to share — new cooking equipment, recipes, books, even mistakes to avoid — but time is short.

I have already tried to squeeze too much into this last column. I suppose it is like last-minute instructions to a child leaving from camp for the first time.

Some of what is said may be of value, most is probably mere repetition. It just represents an unwillingness to let go.

I should, then, close but would like to thank all of you who have taken the time to read my columns. I wish you and your families pleasant memories from all the four seasons of life.

ZUCCHINI SOUFFLE

1 chunk (1 oz.) chilled Gruyere or Swiss cheese
1¼ lbs. zucchini, stem ends removed
1 tsp. salt
Bechamel Sauce, made with ⅔ cup milk
½ slice day-old white or whole wheat bread or ¼ cup dry bread crumbs
4 medium shallots, peeled or ½ medium onion, peeled, cut into 1-inch cubes
1½ tbsp. olive, vegetable or safflower oil
1 tbsp. softened butter
2 eggs, separated, room temperature
Salt and freshly gound pepper
4 egg whites, room temperature
¼ tsp. cream of tartar

Coarsely grate both the cheese and zucchini. Sprinkle the zucchini with 1 teaspoon salt. Set aside 30 minutes. Squeeze to remove bitter liquid. Rinse thoroughly and taste to be sure all the salt is removed; squeeze dry.

Meanwhile, prepare Bechamel Sauce; cover with plastic wrap touching top of sauce and set aside at room temperature (or refrigerate overnight).

Place bread, torn into pieces, in the container of a blender or food processor and process to fine crumbs. Set aside. Mince shallots. Transfer to a medium skillet; add oil. Cook over low heat until soft. Add zucchini to skillet and increase heat to medium. Continue cooking, tossing frequently, until all liquid has evaporated. Remove from heat; set aside.

Adjust oven rack to lower position. Heat oven to 400 degrees. Generously butter a 1½-quart souffle dish; dust with bread crumbs and tap out excess. Set dish aside.

Stir egg yolks, shredded cheese, and cooled zucchini mixture thoroughly into Bechamel. Season to taste slightly salty and peppery, otherwise souffle will be bland as egg whites dilute taste.

Beat the 6 whites and cream of tarter with a whisk or electric beater in a clean dry bowl until whites just form firm peaks. Fold about 1 cup of the whites thoroughly into the zucchini mixture; then fold slightened zucchini mixture into whites only until no large streaks remain. Spoon into souffle dish; smooth top; make a deep X with a knife. Place dish in oven and immediately reduce heat to 375 degrees. Bake 30 to 35 minutes, until puffy and browned. Souffles rise most during last several minutes of baking; take care not to bang oven door. Serve immediately.

Makes 4 appetizer servings; 2 main course servings

(Adapted from "The Art of Food Processor Cooking" by Jane Salzfass Freiman)

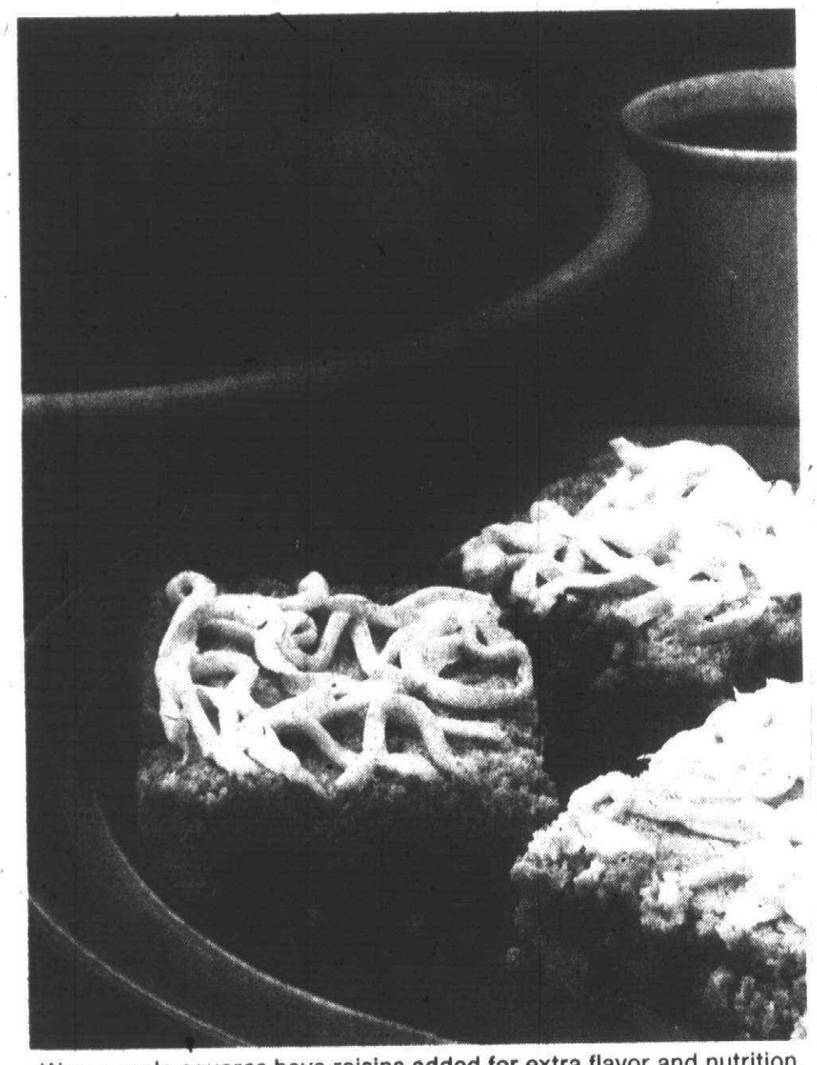
BECHAMEL SAUCE

2 tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. flour
⅔ cup milk, scalded
Salt and pepper to taste
Dash nutmeg

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a 2-quart saucepan. Add flour and stir over medium heat until cooked but not colored, about 2 minutes. Remove from heat and slowly whisk in hot milk.

Return saucepan to low heat and stir until sauce thickens to the consistency of a very light pudding. Add salt, pepper, and nutmeg to taste. Cover with plastic wrap touching top of sauce to prevent a skin from forming. Set aside at room temperature until ready to use.

Apple squares are crisp and spicy



Warm apple squares have raisins added for extra flavor and nutrition. They are made with a spice cake mix then drizzled with vanilla frosting. Make your own or use one that comes with the cake mix. The squares are the perfect ending for a walk through the autumn color.

The crisp crunch of someone eating an apple fresh from the tree seems to signal that fall is here. And what could be more appropriate for the season than a warm apple dessert. These Apple-Raisin Squares are a sure pleaser to serve after a walk through the autumn color.

Arrange slices of apple and raisins in the bottom of the baking pan. Sprinkle with a crumbly mixture of margarine and spice cake mix. Bake, and while still warm, drizzle vanilla frosting, over the top for a dessert that's as quick and easy to make as it is delicious to eat.

APPLE-RAISIN SQUARES

1 pkg. (13.5 oz.) spice cake
2 tbsp. water
2 tbsp. margarine or butter, softened
½ cup sliced pared apple (about 1 medium)
⅓ cup raisins

Position oven rack and prepare cake mix as directed on package. Heat oven to 350 degrees. Sprinkle water over cake mix in small bowl; stir in margarine with fork just until crumbly (particles will be size of small peas). Arrange apple slices and raisins in pan. Sprinkle crumbly mixture over apples and raisins; press lightly. Place pan on cookie sheet on middle oven rack. Bake until top is light golden brown, 20 to 23 minutes; cool slightly. Cut a small v in top of frosting packet; drizzle frosting over cake. Serve warm. Serves 6.

WHEN THE Plymouth Community Chorus takes the stage Sunday at the Plymouth Fall Festival, members of the chorus will sing some old favorites.

They have selected highlights from their spring concert for their 1:45-2:20 p.m. performance. Director Mike Gross says they will do "Mame," "Hello, Dolly," and "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

The chorus also will be selling their cookbooks at a festival booth. The first 600 sold so fast they had to order 300 more for the festival. They also will have stationery for sale.

NEW MORNING School will have a neat new item at its festival booth. It will be of special interest to joggers, runners and walkers.

It is a little plastic gizmo that snaps over a shoelace and is a handy place to carry a key, identification and an emergency dollar bill or quarter. Parents also attach them to small children's shoes for identification. They also are suitable (and waterproof) for pets' collars.

TWO FILIPINO representatives of Youth for Understanding were in town last week visiting their old friend, Jack Wilcox, who took them to Emma's for lunch.

Lourdes Cruz and Emy Celi of Manilla escorted 130 students from the Philippines to San Francisco. When they return to the Philippines, they will take 30 American students with them for a visit.

Mrs. Cruz is the chairwoman of YFU in the Philippines, and Mrs. Celi "runs it," according to Jack. While they were here, he taped an interview with them for later showing on cable television.

LOIS AND TOM Santer had a memorable silver-wedding-anniversary party all planned (in secret) by the four Santer children.

Base of operations for party preparations was daughter Lisa's apartment in Ann Arbor. Lisa is in med school at the University of Michigan.

"Kevin and Laura would say, 'We're going over to Lisa's for a swim in her pool.' After the party, they asked, 'Didn't you notice that we never got a tan?' They were indoors working all the time," Lois said.

Kevin is a freshman this fall at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. Laura is a junior at Plymouth Canton High School. Their second daughter, Amy McKaig, is a senior in the School of Engineering at Washington University. She wasn't here physically to take part in actual preparations "but ran up an enormous telephone bill" during the planning. Lisa, Amy and Kevin all were National Merit Scholarship finalists in high school.

The Santers returned from the Sunday antique show at Saline to be greeted by 65 guests on their front lawn. There also was a big aluminum-foil sign saying "Happy 25th."

Steve Harper and Jackie and Ralph Moot had taken the couple to Saline. "We even bought a chair," Lois said. "The kids said they made the sign as tacky as possible because that's the kind their dad always made for them."

The party menu included potato salad, a fruit bowl, cold cuts, cheese, vegetables and dip, baked beans, punch and cookies. Kevin baked the two cakes — the brothers and sisters even made the mint patties. Their grandmother, Lois' mother, made the home-baked bread.

The Santers will enjoy their anniversary present next August when they spend three weeks in England. Guests at the party gave them checks toward the realization of a longtime dream.

TWO DANCE scholarships are being offered by a local dance studio. They will be given to two applicants, male or female, between the ages of 8 and 10.

Applicants must have a true desire to pursue dancing. They also must be from a family whose income does not permit private instruction. All inquiries will be held in strictest confidence.

For further information, parents or scholarship candidates can call Zan Cason, 455-9720.

THE CLASSY Chassis, the Detroit Pistons' dance-cheer squad, will be sponsored by Don Massey Cadillac of Plymouth for the third straight year. All the young women, 19 years of age and over, are selected from auditions. They perform in 41 home games at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Symphony League tea

Happy 90th, Marion

Marion Cline's duplicate bridge group surprised her with a potluck luncheon. Calling a break for lunch is an unusual procedure for the Wednesday daytime dupliacte players in the Plymouth Cultural Center. But, a 90th birthday celebration is not a usual occurrence in duplicate circles.

"I was speechless," Mrs. Cline said the next day. "I didn't sleep all night. It was wonderful."

The Livonia resident always plays with her regular bridge partner, Marjorie Lefevre.

"We don't go every week," said the nonagenarian. "I don't care — at my age — about master points. But I do enjoy it."

She said she and her husband Charles did not play much bridge until he retired in 1965 and they moved from Rochester, N.Y. to Livonia.

MRS. CLINE was born Sept. 5, 1891 in Ishpeming. She graduated from Northern Michihan University in Marquette and was a teacher in the Upper Peninsula and the Detroit area.

She talked about her early teaching days when they lived in Gwinn.

"It was a beautiful little town. William Mather, a multi-millionaire mine owner there, planned it as a model city. All the houses were built of white brick. he named the city for his mother.

"Then, in World War I, Houghton offered the government iron ore for one cent less a ton and got the contract. Seven mines closed in Gwinn — they filled with water."

The Clines chose Livonia for their retirement home because she had two sisters living in the area. One sister has since moved to Colorado.

"Her husband is Henry Hall who was born in Ishpeming and was a world champion skier. He had a ski slide in his yard when they moved down here and lived on Nine Mile Road. Henry has many cups he won for skiing."

MUSIC IS another source of enjoyment for Mrs. Cline.

"I used to play violin, guitar, mandolin and ukelele. I haven't played any of them since my husband died eight years ago. I played in the church orchestra when we lived in Rochester."

Regulars at the Wenesday duplicate games say Mrs. Cline has said that playing bridge helps to sharpen her mind.

In response to the question, "Do you bid a short club?" Marion Cline replied, "Yes I use the short club, and I expect a one diamond response for a bust hand."

Chu Chu (Carol Burnett) is a wacky dance teacher and one-woman street band in "Chu Chu and the Philly Flash."

the movies

Louise Snider

Poor script dulls comic possibilities for Arkin, Burnett

Alan Arkin and Carol Burnett are two down-and-outers thrown together in what purports to be a comedy, "Chu Chu and the Philly Flash" (PG).

The movie was shot on location in San Franciso, an important fact because the locale is the movie's greatest asset. If it had employed the considerable talents of its stars as effectively as it employed the city's attractions, "Chu Chu and the Philly Flash" would be a winner. As it is, we have a comic fizzle rather than a comic collision of two major talents.

Arkin is the Flash, a former pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies. He turned to booze when he lost his fastball, and that started a slide from the bullpen to skid row. Dressed in recycled clothing that makes Columbo's raincoat look like the height of sartorial splendor, the Flash is reduced to hustling hot watches on street corners.

That's where he meets Emily (Burnett). She is a dance teacher with two left feet. When she is not giving lessons in her walk-up apartment, she strolls the streets as Chu Chu, a one-woman band.

SHE WEARS or carries with her a metronone which strikes a bongo drum and tambourine, a dime-store monkey wired to the strings of a bass fiddle, a plastic comb which strums a ukelele, maracas stuffed into a halter top, a neck harmonica and a bass drum operated by a foot pedal.

Costuming seems to be the source of comedy in this movie. Chu Chu tilts about in platform shoes of dizzying proportions, sports a Carmen Miranda fruit basket on her head, wears black mesh stockings, a tight print dress, a velvet shawl with sequins and dangling plastic banana earrings. If all the fruit and vegetable baubles on her were real, she could be the site of a Medfly invasion.

The Flash and Chu Chu clash over the same outdoor location, but their rivalry dissipates when a briefcase with stolen government documents literally falls into their hands from a third-floor window.

As they try to figure out how to cash in on this unexpected find, they are pursued by cops and villains. There are some mean-spirited attempts at farce in this movie, and they generaly involve a rag-tag mob led by a bully called the Commander (Jack Warden). One of the members of his gang is Ruth Buzzi. She plays a brain-damaged ex-circus performer who acts like a monkey. (That's supposed to be funny?)

While the Flash and Emily try to evade their pursuers, a grudging friendship starts to blossom. As they recount their dubious careers to each other, we get more development of the characters, especially Burnett's character — untalented, ridiculous looking, but feisty.

David Lowell Rich directed the movie from a script by Barbara Dana, Alan Arkin's wife. Perhaps it was written during a family spat, because there is little in it to advance Arkin's career or that of anyone else at this costume party

what's at the movies

AMERICAN WEREWOLF IN LONDON (R). Strange happenings in London and on the moors in this macabre spoof of horror flicks.

ARTHUR (PG). Dudley Moore is a playboy millionaire in love with Liza Minnelli in this contemporary comedy.

BLOWOUT (R). John Travolta and Nancy Allen star in Brian DePalma's murder mystery centering around the accidental recording of a murder and the cover-up attempts that follow.

CHU CHU AND THE PHILLY FLASH (PG). Most of the laughs are provoked by the costumes in this caper with Alan Arkin and Carol Burnett as two eccentric down-and-outers who find a briefcase with valuable documents.

COMIN' AT YA (R). A Western with a new-old twist — 3-D. Put on the specs and have flaming arrows, bats and rats comin' at ya.

ENDLESS LOVE (R). Brooke Shields and Martin Hewitt are two passionate teenagers who become so obsessed with one another that it drives them to acts beyond reason.

EYE OF THE NEEDLE (R). Adapted from the best-selling novel, this suspense thriller and love story stars Donald Sutherland as "the Needle," the code name for Hitler's top agent in England.

FIRST MONDAY IN OCTOBER (R). Jill Clayburgh is the first woman appointed to the Supreme Court and Walter Matthau is her most persistent adversary in this bright comedy-drama.

MOSCOW DOES NOT BELIEVE IN TEARS. Sentimental romance focuses on three Russian women and looks at their expectations in the 1950s and their lives 20 years later. Won the Academy Award as Best Foreign Film.

RAIDERS OF THE LOST ARK (PG). Produced by George Lucas and directed by Steven Spielberg, this action-packed adventure pits Americans against Nazi agents in a race to acquire a sacred artifact that gives its possessor invincible power.

Archibishop leads Polish Day parade

A Polish Day parade is set for Sept. 7 in the city of Hamtramck. The Most Rev. Edmund Szoka, archbishop of the Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit, will be the Grand Marsal.

The parade, will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the center of the city. It is one of the major festivities of the four-day Hamtramck Festival, sponsored by the city.

Parade Committe General Chairman Paul Odrobina said that the committee had been in contact with the archdiocese for several weeks to arrange for Archbiship Szoka's participation in the parade.

"Our first plans were to simply ask the new archbishop to attent the parade. Very quickly our decision was that it would be an excellent opportunity for him to visit in the Polish community at the grass-roots level because he is Polish. We are immensely pleased that Archbishop Szoka will honor our city by participating in the parade," Odrobina said.

ARCHBISHOP Szoka was installed in May in a public ceremony at Cobo Hall, succeeding John Cardinal Dearden who retired.

The parade committtee has succeeded in gaining representation from many Hamtramck Polish organizations; local school bands, and other marching, drill, veterans and social organizations.

Among those committed to the parade are: Warren Polka Boosters; 5th Michigan Regiment Band (Civil War); Hamtramck High School Band; Utica High School Band; Knights of Columbus, Cardinal Mercier; antique cars from the Walter P. Chrysler club plus antique cars owned by various Hamtramck residents.

Rock netters could contend

Braun seeks balance

By Jay Keenan
staff writer

If a well-balanced lineup can be established, then the Plymouth Salem girls' tennis team could be another state contender.

Judy Braun, the Rocks' coach, has a cast of players who are striving for singles spots, but currently needs individuals in doubles.

Salem is coming off its best season. The Rocks went undefeated in dual meets and gained first place in the Suburban Eight League. Braun's squad also finished second in the regional and fifth in Class A.

"I think this year's team look real good," said the third-year coach. "I'd like to think that we'll do as well as last year, but we need to build a strong all-around team.

"Right now all the girls want to play singles, but I want to find out where the singles and doubles work out good together. I can't have all the strength at one end of the scale."

The Rocks lost six players to graduation. Noteworthy absentees are last year's No. 1 doubles team of Betsy Moon and Renee Braun, both whom have moved on to Hillsdale College on tennis scholarships. They were runnersup in the state finals and sported an overall record of 24-4.

COACH BRAUN, however, does have her No. 1 singles player back, sophomore Chris Gilles, a nationally ranked (top 25) Girls 14 player. She was the team's most valuable player as a freshman.

Gilles was league champ and placed second in the regional and bowed to rival Lisa Bonder of Ann Arbor Huron in the Class A quarterfinals. Bonder was beaten in the U.S. Open last week by Joanne Russell in three sets.

"Chris has really improved tremendously since last year," said Braun. She's a very serious and ambitious tennnis player.

Braun also said that Gilles is a smarter player.

"Her psychological game must have improved because she's had so much tournament play," Braun said. "You have to be intelligent to play singles and sometimes maturity comes through playing in tournaments.

"A tennis player has to have the ability to concentrate in a tight match because you have to try and out-guess what you're opponent is going to do next. And it's so easy to be distracted in this sport."

Gilles is probably the state's top player when Susie Mascarin, Bonder and Sherry Acker are on the pro tour.

GILLES RECEIVES professional training from Ken Corba and Jon Fischer.

"On the days that she has lessons, she is excused from practice, but other than that, she practices with the team," said Braun. "I try not to treat her differently than the other girls."

Carol Gillespie, a junior, returns at No. 2 singles. She joins co-captain Carol Hathaway, a league champ at No. 3 singles.

Lisa Maggio, who captured the No. 2 league doubles title a year ago with the graduated Vickie Sterling, is also back.

Michelle Howell, who sat out last season with an injury, is ready to step in along with Beth Miller, Kristy Brandenburg and Jane Ploughman.

Although Salem has a host of players vying for the remaining singles spots, Braun vowed she would not hesitate to turn a singles player into a doubles player.

"I don't know who's going to go where other than Chris," she said.

For instance, Moon and Braun were league champs at No. 3 and 4 singles, respectively, as juniors, but played as doubles partners in 1980.

"I'm not going to put two girls together because they get along well," said Braun. "Just because two girls are good friends, it doesn't mean that they're going to play well together, and vice-versa.

OTHERS TRYING to crack the lineup are Cathy Graham, Julie Keros, Wendy Nichols, Kathy Pursell, Pam Swain, Julie Taylor and Kathy Bennett. Necomers to the program include Lisa Granger, Carrie Kralik and Lisa Starke.

As far as the competition goes, who knows?, we might do better than we did last year," said the Salem coach, "but I'm not too sure of the other teams right now."

Pressure mounts on U-M gridders

By W. W. Edgar
staff writer

Starting his 13th season as head coach of the University of Michigan football team, Bo Schembechler pulled a real surprise on the so called experts who have prophasized that the Wolverines would be ranked No. 1 when the upcoming season ends.

For several weeks Bo has damned those experts by claiming that they were planting seeds of overconfidence in his team and that it was rather silly to forecast such success on the field with an untried quarterback.

But when he met with the press in the annual conference last Friday morning, he took the opposite stand and thanked the forecasters.

"This team hasn't earned the No. 1 ranking yet," Schembechler said. "But the forecasters have given us something to shoot for and it should inspire our players to go out and earn the place that seems to be reserved for them."

Once he made himself clear on that stand, the fiery coach went over his squad, almost man for man, and told of their strengths and weaknesses. When he finished, he admitted that it would be a good team and possibly — just possibly — could make good the forecasts.

He placed this confidence on two factors — the strength of his defense and the showing of Steve Smith, the sophomore quarterback from Grand Blanc.

SMITH, WHO IS rated the fastest man on th squad in the 40 yard dash, has thrown only six passes thus far in his collegiate career. Schembechler, however, stressed the fact that he not only has the speed to be a good quarterback, but that he is a good passer and is quick in his handling of the ball.

"He has all the earmarks of being a good quarterback," said Schembechler, "and unless something drastic happens to him, he should do a good job for us."

One of the questions that arises is the backup quarterback.

Former Plymouth Salem standout, Rich Hewlett, seems to be the next in line, but Schembechler has something else planned.

Schembechler has plans for Hewlett to become a defensive halfback for the Wolverines, which would set up either B.J. Dickey or Dave Hall, former Livonia Stevenson star for the second string job.

Tennis challenge

Chiefs seek to dethrone Northville squad

By Jay Keenan
special writer

The main emphasis of the 1981 girls' tennis season for first-year Plymouth Canton coach Carol Michaels is to end Northville's dynasty in the Western Six League.

Canton has finished second to the Mustangs the past two years. Northville handed the Chiefs their only two defeats in 1980.

"Northville will be kind of tough and we've never been able to beat them," reminds Michaels, "and that's one thing the girls would like to do."

Michaels, who replaced Cyndi Burnstein after an eight-year stint, is optimistic about the team's progress.

"I'm very happy with the way things are coming out," she said. "We have a lot of potential and I've seen a lot of improvement in the singles department."

The Chiefs, who open today against Ypsilanti, return four veterans in singles.

Moving into the No. 1 spot is senior co-captain Julie Swain, who played at No. 1 doubles last season.

"Julie is really starting to emerge as a player," notes Michaels.

SENIOR CO-CAPTAIN Lori Smith, who is entering her fourth year on the varsity, will play behind Swain and will try to retain her league title at No. 2 singles.

Junior Lisa Schlotz, formerly a doubles player, will start at No. 3 singles. The No. 4 spot belongs to another junior, Kris Harrison, who was league runner-up last year.

"We should be very strong in the lower levels of our singles players because these girls are all very close in ability," said Michaels.

Julie Lloyd, pushing for a singles spot, will open at No. 1 doubles with a partner yet to be named.

"Julie (Lloyd), Lisa (Schlotz) and Lori (Smith) went to tennis camps this summer have really worked hard," Michaels said. "Those first five girls are all very close in their skills that the lineup could have ended in any way."

Barb Rupprecht and Ann O'Connell, who went undefeated in league dual meets the past two years at No. 3 doubles, have graduated, leaving a gaping hole in the lineup.

"It's going to be hard to find another group like those two," said Michaels. "Those two got along just great."

THE CHIEFS have four varsity returnees who are contesting for positions. They include Sheryl Smith, Kristin Smith, Jane McKinstry and Nancy Warkentin. Smith saw considerable action last year at No. 1 doubles. The others were involved in limited action.

Area fast-pitch players honored

Four area players from the Oasis women's fast-pitch softball team were recently named to the United States Amateur Softball Association (USASA) All-Tournament team, giving them All-American standing.

Plymouth Salem graduates Sue McDowell and Jan Boyd were named to the team along with Westland John Glenn graduate Jody Humphries and Western Michigan standout Allison Cole.

Boyd recently transfered from Eastern Michigan and will now pitch for the University of Michigan in the spring. Humphries was an all-Big Ten infielder last year for U of M.

McDowell is an outfielder for Indiana State.

Oasis placed second behind Montclair, N.J. in the national tournament in Fargo, N.D. last month.

Wolves football preview

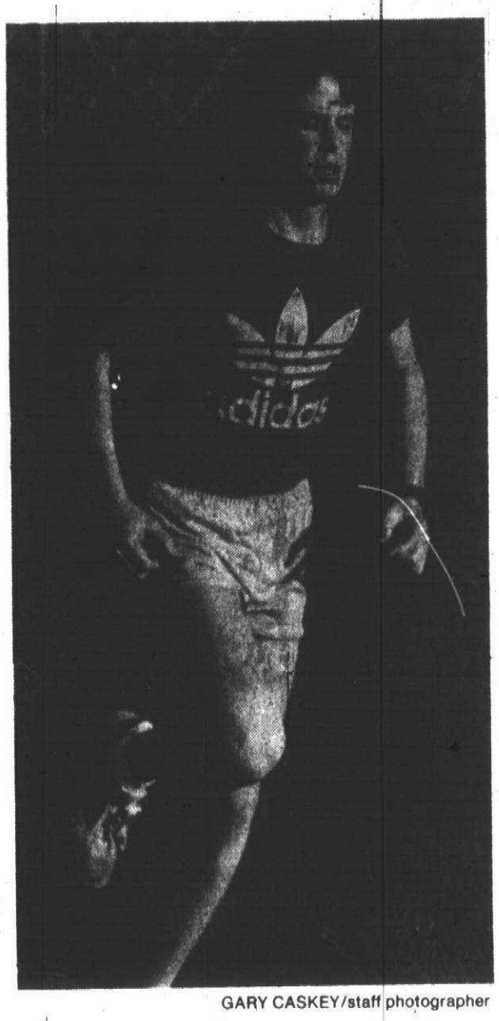
Schembechler is happy with his veteran offensive backfield citing that Stan Edwards, Butch Woolfolk and Larry Ricks, along with All-American Anthony Carter can get the job done.

"We'll know more about it after we play Wisconsin and Notre Dame in our first two games," said the coach. "But thanks again to the prophets who have given us the incentive to earn the No. 1 position by the time the season ends."



GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Frank Brosnan returns to the Salem lineup. He will try to help improve the Rocks' standing in the Suburban Eight League.

Prep harriers tune up

By Scott Adler
staff writer

Jim Hayes is looking forward to the upcoming cross country season with optimism.

Hayes believes this year's Plymouth Canton harriers could contend for the Western Six League championship if they continue their dilligent work pace.

"I think that we're going to be OK," said Hayes. "We don't have the running skill that we had last year, but the kids are really working hard and if they keep it up, who knows?"

Hayes' team finished second in the league race last year and posted a 9-1 overall dual meet record. Graduation claimed all-Observer performers Scott Hand and Jack Pacente, leaving Hayes to look for help from a pair of returnees.

Sophomore Brian Jones and senior Dan Henry head the list of returning lettermen.

Jones, the team's top runner, finished 13th in the Schoolcraft Invitational last year as a freshman and helped the Chiefs qualify for the state meet in Flint.

Tom Pasley, a tennis player, is one of many Canton runners using cross country as a training method.

"WE HAVE a lot of other sports kids running for us this year," said Hayes, "and I encourage anyone that is in another sport to come and give us a try."

Wrestler Brian Lee will be running for the Chiefs this year along with soccer players Jim and John Luce.

Other runners on the team include: seniors Joe Kacic, Patti Rising, Charlette Thomas and Pete Stern. Chris Albaugh is the only junior on the team while Robert Hogan, Jin Kin, Larry Neuhardt, Rich Place, Eric Rudzinski and Paul Schmidt are aspiring sophomores.

The Canton coach predicts the defending league champs, Northville, will be strong once again.

PLYMOUTH SALEM

The Rocks enter 1981 coming off a fourth place finish in the tough Suburban Eight League.

Coach Scott Dunson's young runners may be still a year away from contending for a league title.

"We have a junior team with some experience," said the fourth-year Salem coach. "Our seniors are pretty inexperienced but hopefully we'll find some surprises in the new kids."

Returning juniors include Frank Brosnan, Brad Haertel and Skip Whittaker, the mainstays in the Salem lineup.

"Frank has been running road races all summer," said Dunson. "He looks very good."

Senior basketball player Mike McBride, who was a standout 880-yard performer for the Salem track team, will run his first season of cross country along with newcomer Leland Chang.

Paul Mills and Ruth Sample will serve as the team's captains.

"We're looking to finish in a higher spot (in the league) than last year," said the coach. "I think that we'll beat some of the teams outside the league this year that we didn't last year."

Dunson picks Dearborn Edsel Ford and defending champ Dearborn as the league favorites.

"They might beat us this year," he said, "but they won't beat us like they did last year."

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own . . . but it takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item . . . and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

One more thing . . . get up early the day of your sale! When people read about a Garage Sale in Classified, they shop early.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

FALL FESTIVAL

What the Fall Festival has in store for you

Entertainment always has been a special drawing card for the Plymouth Fall Festival as festival planners make an effort to appeal to all ages and to mix in a variety of art forms.

This year some of the additions include country music, a gymnastics exhibition and a senior citizens group.

The Fall Festival entertainment is offered at the bandshell at Penniman Avenue and Main Street. The schedule opens 3:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 10, with Patty Molner at the organ, and closes at 6 p.m. when the last note is played by the Plymouth Community Band.

A new feature last year which is being repeated will be dancing under the stars to the big band sound of Carl Battishill. Another favorite promises to be the much heralded Canton Seniors Kitchen Band.

The entertainment schedule for the Plymouth Fall Festival, from Sept. 10-13, is:

- Sept. 10, Patty Molner, organ, 3:30-4:30 p.m.; Micky's Dance Company, 5-5:45 p.m.; the formal opening of the Fall Festival with ceremonies beginning at 7 p.m. featuring three Scottish bagpipers and Scottish dancers; and from 8-9 p.m. the Northern Comfort, a sophisticated folk group.
- Sept. 11, Ms. Molner at organ from 3:30-4 p.m., the Canton Seniors Band from 6:30-7:15 p.m., Livonia Chorus from 7:30-to 8 p.m., and square dancing on stage and in front of the bandshell from 8:30-10 p.m.
- Sept. 12, the pet show from 9 a.m. to noon; the Miller Turnbull Dancers from 12:30-1:15 p.m., Punch and Judy show from 1:30-2 p.m., a rock concert by Zatso from 2:30-3:30 p.m., magician Michael Baker from 4:30-5 p.m., the Centennial Polish Dancers from 5:15-5:45 p.m., the Calicos, a singing team, from 6-6:45 p.m., Harmony Singers, from 7-7:30 p.m., and from 8-10 p.m. dancing under the stars with the music of Carl Battishill, director of the Plymouth Community Band.
- Sunday, the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band from 12:15-12:35 p.m., the Plymouth Canton High Chiefettes from 12:40-12:55 p.m., the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps, from 1:10-3:30 p.m., the Plymouth Community Chorus, from 1:45-2:20 p.m., the Timberline country band from 2:30-3:25 p.m., Wonderland Chorus, a barbershop group, from 3:35-4:10 p.m., the Go-Fer Gymnastics, 4:20-4:50 p.m., and the Plymouth Community Band from 5-6 p.m.

About 80 artists will be featured in the Plymouth Fall Festival Arts and Crafts Show on Sept. 12, 13 in Central Middle School.

The show is being sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC).

Central Middle School is located at the east end of the downtown business district at Church Street and Main (Plymouth Road).

The show will be from noon to 9 p.m. Saturday and from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

ALL PARTICIPATING artisans were selected by a committee which spends many months choosing participants to make sure a well-rounded show is offered.

Arts and crafts representing numerous varieties of media are featured, including leatherwork, pewter, copperware, stained glass, colonial punched tin, woodcraft, toy making, and quilting.

An innovation for the 1981 show will be a showcase room where children's activities and entertainment have been scheduled.

It will be open from 2-5 p.m. Saturday and 1-4 p.m. Sunday with a range of hourly programs, including slide shows, story hours, and art lessons.

At 5 p.m. Saturday the Clark Family Players will perform in a tent outside the school with puppets, songs, skits and magic.

The arts and crafts show is a major fundraiser for the PCAC. There is an admission fee of $1 for adults, 50 cents for students and senior citizens, and free for children under 16 accompanied by an adult.

THE SCHEDULE FOR the showcase room is:

- Saturday, Sept. 12 — 2 p.m., Mr. and Mrs. William Edgar with a nature program for persons seven years and older;

At 3 p.m., 3:20 and 3:40 p.m. Cathy Graves of Young Artists Studio will have a group of 4-5-year-olds entertain in three 15-minute segments;

At 4 p.m., 4:20 and 4:40 p.m. the 6, 7, 8-year-olds from Young Artists Studio will perform;

From 5 to 6:30 p.m. the Clark Family Players will perform.

- Sunday, Sept. 13 — At 1 and 1:30 p.m. Martha Davis will present a program on rocks for persons seven years and older;

At 2 p.m. will be a story hour by Plymouth Book World;

At 3 p.m., 3:20 and 3:40 p.m. will be a Sing-a-long and Bang-a-long Band of 4-7-year-olds directed by Cathy Graves of Young Artists Studio.

At 4 p.m. a slide show on the Plymouth-Canton Community produced by Hulsing Elementary School with assistance of instructor Charlie Jones.

Pancakes kept warm with inside kitchens

The Plymouth Kiwanis Club's pancake breakfast, a major part of the Fall Festival for years, will be doing business at the same old stand this year. For a time some people were suggesting that the breakfast could be more successful if held outdoors. In its present location in the Masonic Temple the sales are limited to about 2,500 persons, even though the pancakes are on the griddles from 7 a.m. to late afternoon.

So an unofficial experiment was made. The Kiwanians were told of a pancake affair that was being held outdoors. This was interesting, so they went and observed it in operation. If successful the Plymouth breakfast could be taken to the lot next to the temple, and the dining space would be about doubled.

It sounded fine, that is until the experiment proved that pancakes outdoors are not the tastiest dish.

"In the first place," one of the Kiwanians said, "the pancakes were not done in the middle. What's more the link sausage was burned on one side and almost raw on the other. But, worse yet, the flies were terrible. So, I guess we will remain indoors."

You can imagine what would happen in the fall when the bees usually hold their convention in many areas of downtown Plymouth.

Directions listed for finding Festival

For out-of-towners visiting the Plymouth Fall Festival most of the events are easily located.

Most activities are centered at Kellogg Park which is bounded by Main Street (Plymouth Road), Ann Arbor Trail, Penniman Avenue and Union.

The various routes to the heart of downtown Plymouth include:

- Plymouth Road west to the city of Plymouth. At Mill Street, Plymouth Road is called Main Street and takes a change in direction to the south. In Plymouth, Main Street is that section of Plymouth Road from Mill south of Joy Road.
- The Jeffries (96) to M-14 to Sheldon Road, south to Ann Arbor Trail, east on the Trail to about one-half block west of Main to Central Parking Lot on left side of Ann Arbor Trail.
- I-275 to Ann Arbor Road, west on Ann Arbor Road to Main Street, north of Main to Ann Arbor Trail, and left on the Trail one-half block to Central Parking Lot.
- Joy Road to Main, and north on Main; west on Ann Arbor Trail to heart of city; N. Territorial Road east to Sheldon where road becomes Penniman Avenue, continue east of Penniman Avenue to downtown Plymouth.

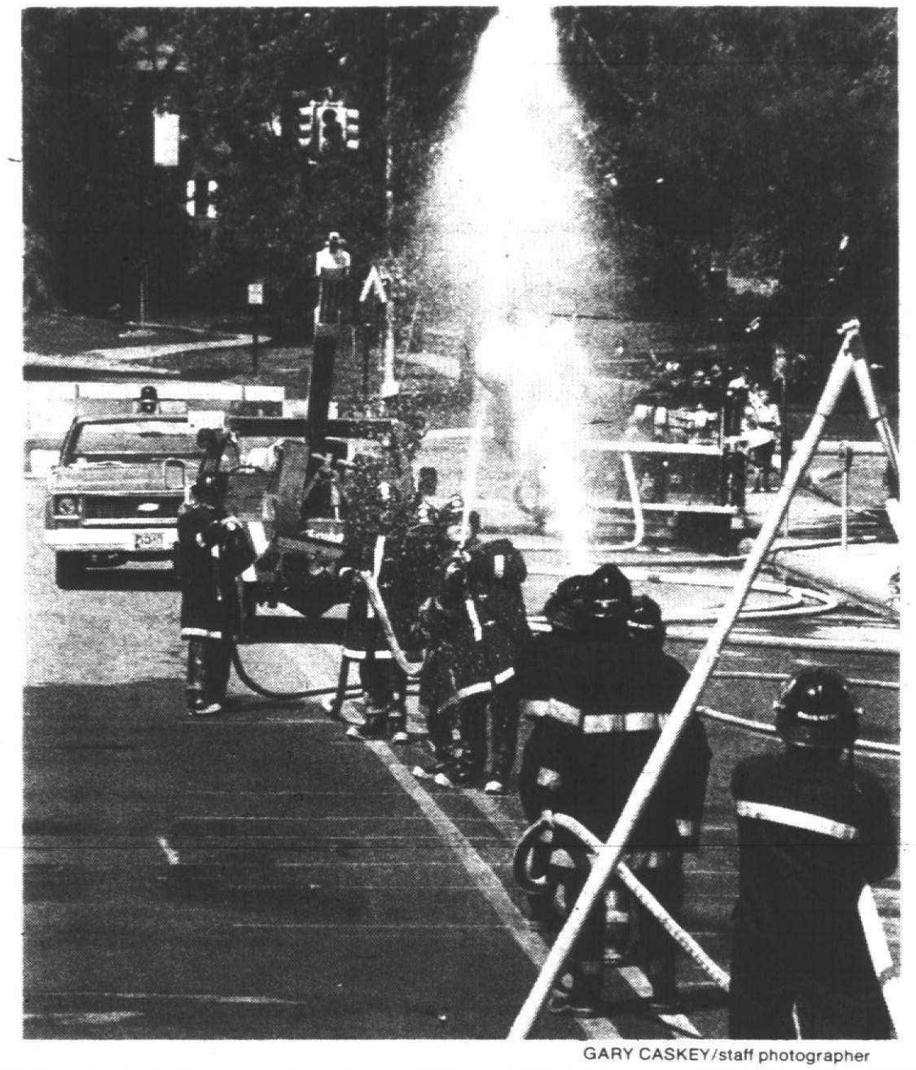
The Masonic Temple is on Penniman Avenue on east side of Main Street next to Penn Theatre. The Grange Hall is on Union immediately north of Kellogg Park and the Oddfellows Hall is on Union about halfway between Penniman Avenue and Dodge (Church Street extended).

At Church and Main Street is Plymouth City Hall, the Plymouth Historical Museum and Central Middle School. Church is the first traffic signal south of the C&O Railroad tracks. Prime parking is available in municipal lot between City Hall and Penniman Avenue.

Just south of Penniman Avenue on the east side of Main Street is the Growthworks center where carnival games and the dunk tank may be found.

The Plymouth Cultural Center is located at Theodore and Farmer. Motorists coming from Northville through Old Village on Mill may turn right on Farmer and find the Cultural Center. The most direct route is to come in Main Street from the east and turn right unto Theodore right on the south side of the C&O Railroad Tracks across from Bode's Restaurant.

During the four-days of the Fall Festival, the American Red Cross will operate a first aid station and offer blood pressure checks on Penniman Avenue at Main Street. At the same intersection an information booth will be located.



GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

A waterball fight between fire departments from the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton and Northville is one of the highlights of the 1981 Plymouth Fall Festival. The event will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 12, on Penniman Avenue just west of Main Street.

A Sunday afternoon favorite each year at the Plymouth Fall Festival is the display of antique and classic automobiles along Penniman Avenue west of Main Street. Shown in a 1919 Buick touring car in 1980 are Dave Maw and Sandie Whittaker. The car is owned by Richard Whittaker of Plymouth.

Antique Mart

A long-standing tradition

For almost two decades now the Plymouth Symphony League has been sponsoring an Antique Mart during the Plymouth Fall Festival.

1981 marks the 19th annual Antique Mart sponsored by the Symphony League, and this year's show will be open from noon to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 13.

The Antique Mart is staged in the Plymouth Community Cultural Center, 525 Farmer at Theodore.

Admission is a donation of $1.50 per person. The three-day event is a major fund-raiser for the Symphony League and helps finances its scholarships, concerts and other community services.

Among the 22 dealers at the antique mart will be Ronald and Evie Altaffer of the Chair Shop in Livonia, who have been antique collectors for 25 years and dealers for the past five years.

The Altaffers specialize in chairs but also have crocks, small chests, pictures, commodes and clocks. They do not have a store but sell only at selected shows, such as the League's mart.

Where you can find art, crafts and food

Arts, crafts and plenty of good food will be featured at this years Plymouth Fall Festival, from Sept. 10 through Sept. 13.

The Plymouth Grange Hall will be the sight of a four-day arts and crafts bazaar.

The bazaar will feature some 20 artists with candles, floral arrangements, ceramics, crochet and knit items, jewelry and other crafts.

For diners there will be homemade soups, pies, entrees and the famous doughnuts prepared all four days by members of the Grange.

The Grange Hall, which is located at 273 Union just southeast of the Penn Theatre at Penniman Avenue and Main, will be open from noon to 8 p.m. Thursday, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. There will be no admission charge.

The Grange Hall is a good place to get some homemade cooking each year of the Plymouth Fall Festival. The Grange Hall also is the site of the Grange's arts and crafts bazaar.

Kiwanians switch to roast beef

There will be a new look to the Plymouth Fall Festival when it opens Sept. 10, with the annual Colonial Kiwanis dinner in Kellogg Park.

The Kiwanians are switching from the spaghetti dinners they have been serving for five years, and will present a full-course roast beef dinner instead.

To give it a real touch, they have decided to adopt a country-western motif and will appear in cowboy hats, shirts, ties and all the other garb the men who roamed the west years ago wore.

Under the plan, the beef will be brought to Kellogg Park in 10-pound cuts. It will be partly roasted and the finishing touches will be given it on two stoves in the lot between the Masonic Temple and Penn Theater.

The switch from spaghetti was made in the hope of raising a larger fund for charity work. As one of the Kiwanians said, "Not everyone eats spaghetti, but most everybody enjoys a good cut of beef. And we'll have the best."

The roast beef dinner will include a sizeable cut of beef, "red" potatoes, salad, rolls, butter, beverage and ice cream.

The dinners will be served 5-8 p.m.

The switch to a beef dinner is the third change since the Fall Festival became a four-day event.

First, the Business and Professional Women sponsored a German Night. To make it authentic, they served sauerkraut with all the trimmings. To boost the sales, they served the dinner from noon on. As a fitting touch, they offered all the old types of German pies and pastries.

After a while the women decided to withdraw as cooks of the sauerkraut dish and the Colonial Kiwanis (the noon club) took over with spaghetti.

But because the Italian dish does not tickle the palates of everyone, they decided to move on to what they hope will be greater things.

That's why they switched to roast beef and then the country western wearing apparel as an authentic touch.

Underground army keeps festival tidy

Many visitors to Disneyland or Disney World are unaware that under the paved streets is an army of underground workers hauling away garbage, fixing plumbing and electricity, and arranging for the visit of the Disney characters on Main Street.

The same unawareness may exist for many visitors to the Plymouth Fall Festival.

Although the workers aren't underground, there is a whole crew of persons whose hard work is almost "invisible" because of the quiet, efficient way their jobs are performed.

Many of these are persons employed by the Fall Festival Board but the large bulk of workers behind the scenes are employees of the city of Plymouth.

SOME OF THE key characters involved are Kenneth Vogras, director of the Plymouth Department of Public Works; Carl Berry, Plymouth police inspector; Roy Hall, Plymouth fire chief; Carl Glass, festival manager; Mike Vanderveen, festival assistant manager; and Fred Eisenlord, president of the Fall Festival Board.

Some of the early work for the festival is performed by DPW crews who hang the Fall Festival signs onto the street light poles up and down Main Street to announce the arrival of the festival and advertise the dates.

Four days before the opening of the festival on Sept. 10, Kellogg Park and the parking lot between the Penn Theatre and Masonic Temple are sprayed with an insect fog to control insects.

Starting at noon Wednesday, streets downtown will be barricaded by city crews so deliveries can be made and booths set up. The barricaded streets include:

Penniman from Harvey to Union; Union from Ann Arbor Trail to the parking lot exit behind the Masonic Temple; Main from Ann Arbor Trail to Church Street at city hall; six parking spaces in the parking lot behind the theater; and areas by the Grange Hall.

Also on Wednesday morning, parking meters are bagged from Penniman from Main to Union and on Main from Ann Arbor Trail to Penniman.

On Thursday, the city will string up the large 30-foot banner across Main at Penniman to advertise the arts and crafts show sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC).

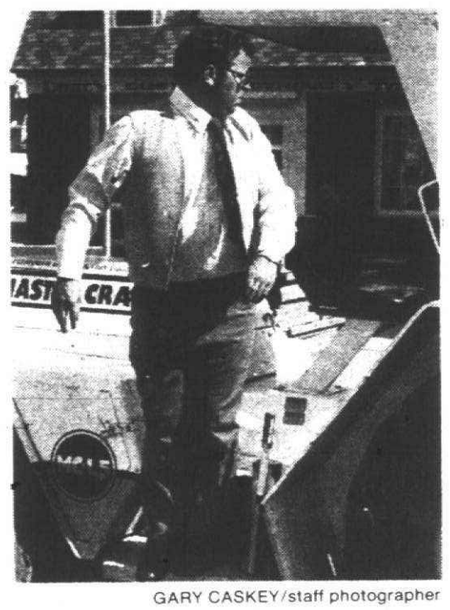
The DPW also delivers and sets up the bandshell which is used for all four days of the festival, and wires up the sound system so the entertainment can be heard throughout Kellogg Park.

The booths are then hauled in and located on Main from Ann Arbor Trail to Fralick. Also set up are two booths for the American Red Cross near Main and Penniman where the Red Cross also will have a disaster van and first aid service on all four days.

A real busy time is at 6 p.m. Sunday when city crews arrive to haul away the booths, unhook the sound, take away the bandshell and unplug the plugs.

Early Monday morning, with all the tables and chairs stacked on the perimeter of the park, the DPW crews arrive again with sweepers to clean Kellogg Park of all litter and restore the park to its usual well-groomed appearance.

On all four days, police officers walk throughout the entire festival area with walkie-talkies to make sure trouble does not break out, and firefighters stand by in case of injuries or medical emergencies.



GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Among the workers who keep busy during the Fall Festival, and year-round, is Carl Glass, manager of the festival.

Plymouth Rotarians, assisted by community volunteers, man the smoke-filled barbecue pits each year to raise funds for the club's community service projects. Shown here is a former Rotarian, Daniel Kennedy (left) and Parnell Johnson, who has been a community volunteer for more than five years, working on steaming the corn which is served with the chicken.

Chicken barbecue has an unusual story

Here is something to ponder while eating your chicken at the Plymouth Rotary Club's barbecue — the highlght of the annual Fall Festival.

Do you know, or can you tell, whether you are feasting on a right-handed or a left-handed chicken?

Sounds like a joke, doesn't it? But it isn't.

When the chickens are ordered — all 16,000 halves — the consigner is instructed to place all left sides on one side of the truck and the right sides on the other.

This odd order came about after years of experience by the men who tend the charcoal pits where the chickens are barbecued.

It seems that when the chicken halves are placed in the grates they are folded into one another. If they are all from the same side they fit nicely, and there is no chance of waste when the grates are turned.

If by accident a chicken half from the wrong side finds it way in to the grate it causes a hump to rise. Then, when the grate is turned, the chickens fall out and into the burning charcoal.

Many Changes - Much Growth

Community Federal Credit Union

Receiving it's first charter in 1952, the credit union began as the Daisy Air Rifle Federal Credit Union. It was located in the plant on Union Street, now the home of the DSI and Adistra Corporation.

In 1958 when the Daisy Air Rifle Company moved to Arkansas, the credit union received a community charter which enabled it to serve anyone who lived or worked in the Plymouth, Canton or Northville communities.

Community Federal Credit Union began with it's office in the Mayflower Hotel. The assets were $100,000 with 231 members and a staff of 1½. The highest dividend paid in 1958 was 3.5%.

From the Mayflower Hotel, the credit union purchased and moved to 155 S. Main, now the location of the Plymouth Historical Society. Finally it moved to it's present location at 500 South Harvey and has expanded with a branch office in Northville and is planning to open a branch in Canton in the near future.

The years have seen many changes and much growth. Today the Community Credit Union is a $20 Million plus service organization serving over 15,000 members with a staff of 37. The most dramatic changes have been in the savings and loan rates. The loan rate in 1958 was 6% and highest dividend paid was 3.5%. Today the credit union pays as high as 16% on savings and the loan rates average from 15% to 18%.

The Community Federal Credit Union is an innovative employer. Of the 37 member staff, more than half of them work on a team shift program. This enables them to work on a one week on, one week off basis. There is plenty of room for covering vacation time and day switching with this type of work pattern.

Vital to the operation of Community Federal Credit Union is the completely voluntary Board of Directors consisting of: Margaret Dunning, President; Bill Sliger, Vice President; Margaret Wilson, Secretary; George Lawton, Treasurer; Jack Bologna, Bill Brown, Barbara Burgett, Daniel Herriman, Clarence Moore, W. Edward Wendover, and Peter Schwritzer. Three of these board members have served on the Board of Directors for 20 years. They are, Margaret Dunning, Clarence Moore and George Lawton.

Community Federal Credit Union is a non-profit, member owned credit union which provides low cost financial services to it's members. This service includes a wide variety of savings programs from Share Drafts (checking) through Money Market Certificates. The credit union services the financial needs of persons living and working in Northville, Plymouth and Canton, as well as providing for the needs of Commerce in all three areas.

Delight Your Taste Buds At The Bakers Rack

The wonderful, savory smells surrounding Westchester Square lately are coming from the Bakers Rack, a brand new bakery that opened it's doors only 2 months ago. The Bakers Rack is presented to you by the same person who brought the Plymouth Landing to town, Sam Panzica.

They feature the same marvelous deserts, torts, eclairs and other fine pastries served at the Landing. Bakers Rack's specialty is famous San Francisco sour dough bread. The starter used for this tasty delight is 85 years old. The bakery also features home-made chocolate candies that are a real test of your will power.

Behind all these scrumptious goodies are pastry chef Laura Lopez and baker Bob Kennedy. Stop over at the Bakers Rack and give your nose and taste buds a real treat.
