Woman killed in crash

A 44-year-old Detroit woman was killed when her car drove off the M-14 Freeway near Beck Road in Plymouth Township early Saturday.

Michigan State Police troopers said they did not know what caused the accident but said the woman, Gladys Lee Thurmon, might have blacked out or fell asleep at the wheel of her car, trooper Lawrence Richardson said.

Ms. Thurmon was found dead near her car about 9 a.m. Chief Wayne County Medical Examiner Harold Oakley said she died of multiple injuries sustained in the crash.

There were no other passengers or cars involved in the accident.

Richardson said the car drove about 280 feet off the east-bound lane of the freeway before it overturned and landed in a grassy area. Ms. Thurmon was flung out of her car through a side door in the collision.

Richardson said he found no skid marks on the road to indicate that the driver attempted to stop the car when she lost control of it.

A Plymouth Township firefighter who monitors CB-radio calls first alerted troopers to the accident.

Troopers said Ms. Thurmon was returning to her west-side Detroit home that morning from Milan, where she had visited friends.

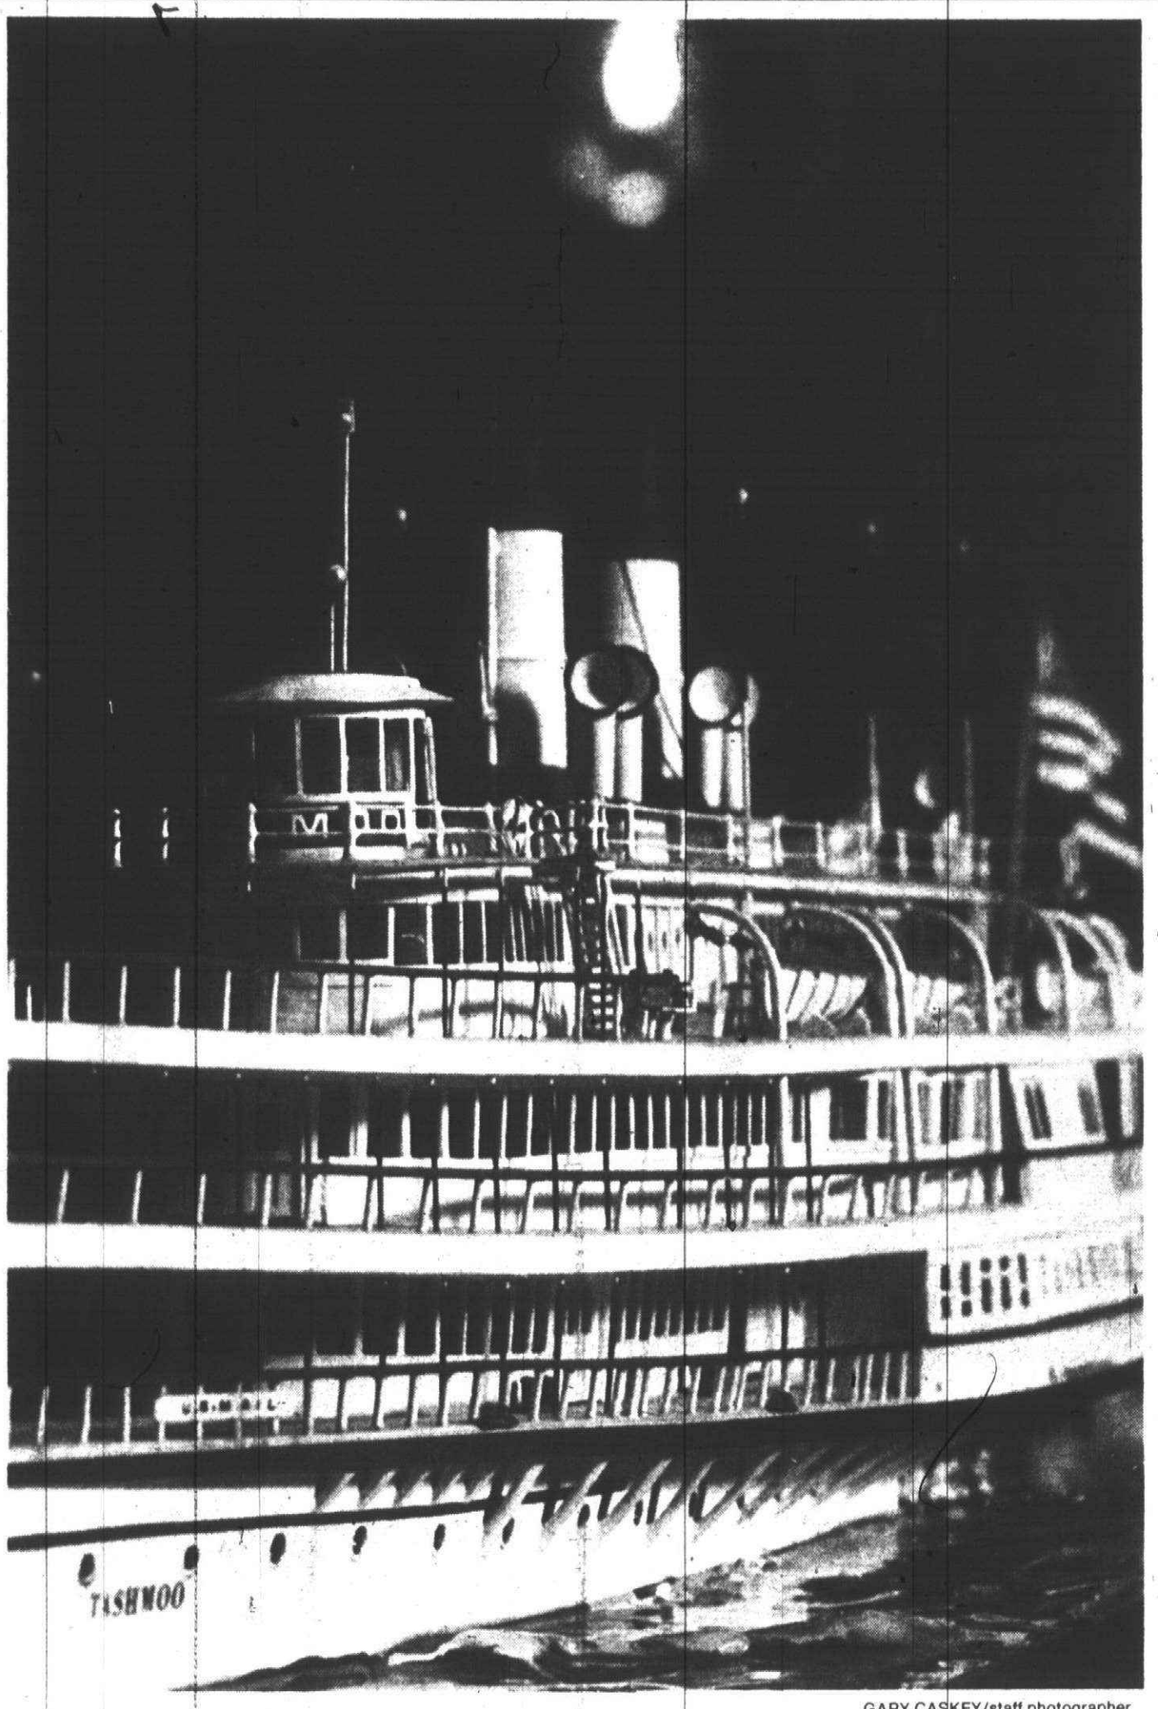

Ford accepts applications for academies

U.S. Rep. William D. Ford now is accepting applications from young men and women for nominations to the U.S. service academies for 1982.

Appointments are available for the Military Academy at West Point, the Naval Academy at Annapolis, the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, and the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point in New York.

For application forms, write to the Congressman at the Federal Building, Wayne 48184, or call Trish Hoover at 722-1411.

Applicants must be at least 17 years old but younger than 22 by next July 1 to qualify for a 1982 appointment. They must be U.S. citizens, never have been married and be residents of the 15th Congressional District.

The Tashmoo sails again

The Tashmoo, a pleasure boat which once sailed the Great Lakes, appears to be sailing again on a moon-lit evening just right for lovers. Actually, though, this is a photograph of a replica of the Tashmoo which was created by a woodcarver from Canton. The work of the local craftsman now is on display in the Plymouth Historical Museum which is featuring special exhibits on the Great Lakes. New park gets OK from board

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Plans are rolling for a new park behind Canton's Township Hall, but sports enthusiasts will have a bit of a wait before stepping onto the new ball diamonds and soccer fields.

"We'll begin to develop the park next spring," said Mike Gouin, parks and recreation superintendent. "It will be seeded next fall and be ready by the spring of 1983. It does take time."

The township currently owns 45 acres of land behind Township Hall. About 29 acres will be developed into two softball fields and four soccer fields — "the most pressing needs," said Gouin.

THE TOWNSHIP'S recreation advisory committee, which has been working on the project, shelved earlier plans to include tennis courts and a play area in the proposed park.

Members of the advisory board called the plan a "no-frills" package.

"Let's develop land first and go for the frills later," said one committee member.

About $175,000 of revenue-sharing funds will be used for grading and seeding, storm sewers, parking lot for about 200 cars, the fields and fences. That plan is the first phase in the development of the land parcel.

The Township Board voted Tuesday to spend up to $175,000 of federal revenue-sharing funds for the initial phase, including about $45,000 of money which previously was unallocated. About $130,000 of the funds had been earmarked earlier for development of that area.

The township had intended to use the $130,000 for its share in a grant application for federal Land and Water Conservation funds to develop the park. Plans were scaled down when Gouin learned that the program is being slashed by the Reagan administration.

Prior to the vote, the Township Board held a public hearing to give residents a chance to voice their opinions on proposed use of federal revenue-sharing funds.

So far, the only requests for federal-revenue sharing funds have come from parks and recreation and from the fire department, which needs about $65,000 for new equipment.

Several members of the Canton Soccer Club turned out to ask for more soccer fields.

"WE HAVE 800 children in this program," said Steve Kozusko, who is active in the soccer club. "We have very few facilities."

According to Gouin, there are a couple of soccer fields in Griffin Park. About five other fields are provided by the Plymouth-Canton school district but must be shared with school and other teams who want to use them.

"I'm not asking for the moon," said one parent. "We need help."

Another parent appealed to the board to show "civic pride" by providing more fields.

Gouin said there is a shortage of softball diamonds for both youth and adult players. He added that there are "a dozen" available tennis courts located on the property at the two high schools which serve Plymouth and Canton.

Gouin said long-range plans for the park behind Township Hall call for lighted tennis courts, additional diamonds, a play area, concession stand and other features.

"I hear from people all the time who don't understand why we don't have things like pools and indoor rinks," he added. "Many of our residents came from communities where they had those things. Those (needs) are going to have to be addressed in the near future."

Hotel to host benefit art, music fair Oct. 4 for medical research

The Plymouth Hilton Hotel on Oct. 4 will host a fund-raiser to support medical research and care at the California-based City of Hope, a national pilot medical center.

The event will mark the Hilton's sixth anniversary at its site on Northville Road in Plymouth Township.

In organizing the event, Hilton general manager John Dithmer said the festival is the Hilton's way of "repaying the community."

Included in the activities will be 12 bands, 25 arts and crafts booths, clowns and more than 50 specialty cars belonging to members of the Road Knights Auto Club.

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce and the Plymouth Police Officers Association will sponsor informational booths.

Daytime activities will run 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on the hotel grounds.

The Dittilies, a local '50s dance band, will be the feature attraction at a benefit concert 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. in the Plymouth Ballroom. Tickets are on sale for $5 per person.

The Plymouth Community Chorus also is expected to perform 1:15-2 p.m. that day. In addition to scheduled performances by the ethnic and popular music bands, a strolling German band will be featured throughout the day.

Amusements for children will include a miniature Ferris wheel, a merry-go-round and two Moon-Walks. Plymouth Hilton employees will dress as clowns and circulate among the participants.

"The Plymouth Hilton Entertainment Festival '81" is the Hilton's first community extravaganza since it opened in October 1975. Dithmer says it's expected to become an annual event.

EMPLOYEES SELECTED the City of Hope because of one employee's close ties to it, he said.

The parents of the hotel's beverage manager, Shelley Fox, both received medical consultation from the center's staff when they were stricken with cancer in the early '70s. The center also provided his ailing mother with a hospital bed for use at home, Fox said.

Three-quarters of the center's money comes from donations, channeled through national auxiliary groups, said Lorraine Schubiner of West Bloomfield, a member of the national board of directors for the City of Hope. In Detroit, there are four such auxiliary groups.

Additionally, government and research grants provide a quarter of its budget, which this year is expected to reach $67 million.

"The Hilton sought us out as their beneficiary, and we are most grateful," she added.

ACCORDING TO City of Hope figures, 91 percent of donations is spent for patient care and research.

Among research done, there are studies into cancer, and diseases affecting the heart, lungs, circulatory sytem and other organs.

The center provides free hospital care and support to people from around the world, said Mrs. Schubiner, who has been a City of Hope volunteer for 29 years.

8,000 lost in 9 years

Committee studies declining enrollment

By Sandra Armbruster
staff writer

The year is 1988. It is September, and opening day for school in the Wayne-Westland district. But where are all the children?

In the 10 years since the opening day of school in 1979, the district has lost 44 percent of its students. Enrollment has reached ebb tide, dropping from more than 19,000 in 1979 to less than 11,000 in 1988.

But instead of a list of empty, boarded-up school buildings, a visitor finds some have been rented out as office space, a few house new school programs, others have been sold.

THAT TRIP through time isn't as unrealistic as it sounds. The figures are correct, say Wayne-Westland administrators. Now is the time to begin planning for 1988, they add.

Wayne-Westland schools
The district serves southeast Canton.

That's just what the building-utilization committee is doing in Wayne-Westland, said Georgina Csereszyne, an executive assistant to the superintendent whose responsibility is long-range planning.

Ms. Csereszyne has been helping the committee organize a study of the district and what options are available as enrollment declines. The committee is co-chaired by George Noonan from the Madison-Elementary-School area and by Mike Miller from the Hoover-Elementary area.

The committee has spent the last six months gathering information on school, land and plant management. That has included an intensive study of school sizes, energy data, enrollment patterns since 1968, a report from the 1977-78 building utilization committee, union contracts and other commitments. The committee, a group of about 55 people, also has toured all buildings in the district.

Committee members are a parent from each elementary school and representatives from the PTA, each union, special education and other school departments and elementary- and secondary-school principals. Only parents, however, are voting members of the committee.

ALL COMMITTEE meetings are open to the public, but each elementary school has only one vote.

When the committee meets, it will discuss a proposed format for evaluating all school buildings in the district.

Criteria include economic conditions such as utilities, maintenance, instructional and administrative costs per pupil; geographic location, including student safety, neighborhood and transportation; physical plant; marketability; alternative instructional usage; and any other special circumstances such

Villagers meet to curb rowdies

A meeting was held recently to discuss perceived problems in Old Village in the aftermath of the murder of a Plymouth woman and arrest of a suspect living in the Old Village Inn.

The meeting was called by the city administration after residents and business persons attended a city commission two weeks ago to complain about rowdiness in the area of the Old Village Inn, formerly known as the Hotel Nelson.

Attending were the owner of the hotel, the manager, residents and business persons.

Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper said the hotel has a manager who comes in daily, and stressed the owner has cooperated with the city in correcting official complaints.

The problems in the area aren't limited to only the hotel, Graper told city commissioners Monday night, but problems also generate from two rooming houses near the hotel. The situation also is compounded because the Chessie Railroad has not done a good job keeping up its property, he added.

Mayor Mary Childs reported that the Old Village Association is now recruiting residents to join the group to make its representation broader than just merchants. The mayor felt this was a positive change.

Some of the complaints of speeding and cars running stop signs are caused by school buses which park in such a way as to block stop signs from motorists' view, said Graper.

Hotel residents aren't the ones squealing their tires near the hotel parking lot, said Graper, as most cannot afford to buy new tires and don't wear out their tires by squealing on pavement.

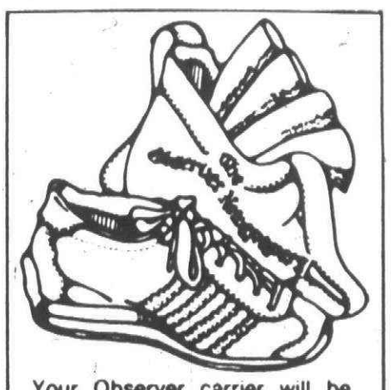

"A lot of problems have been attributed to the inn which don't belong to them," said Graper. "The neighbors admitted that at the meeting."

The manager said he investigated the citizen complaint about lack of police response to a call made to help the victim of an apparent fight and the records show police were on the scene with an ambulance two minutes after receiving the telephone call.

Milliken hints at economic, tech proposals

Gov. William Milliken dangled a few legislative lines in his speech before the Michigan Municipal League annual convention last week.

The three-term governor is expected to give the Michigan Legislature a series of proposals this week designed to bolster the state's flagging economy. But he kept the nuts and bolts of those proposals under lock and key in last week's speech to the local officials.

THE GOVERNOR departed from his prepared remarks on only a few issues, including what appeared to be a veiled re-election announcement — remarks he later said were made in jest (see related story).

The theme of the Michigan Municipal League's (MML) convention this year is "Governing in Lean Years," a topic into which Milliken waded with gusto.

"I have to feel that I've become somewhat of an expert at governing in lean years," said the governor.

After the speech, the municipal league awarded him an honorary life membership. The award notes Milliken "was the first Michigan governor to designate a special assistant for urban affairs, open an urban affairs in Detroit, establish a state cabinet-level council on urban affairs and initiate a pilot grant program of direct aid to Michigan cities."

MILLIKEN said things can't be allowed to get much leaner for state government.

"We simply cannot go much further without doing incredible damage to institutions that have taken years, decades to build," said Milliken. "We cannot do that without paying an incredible price over the long range."

Milliken said cutbacks are especially critical to state colleges, because soon "we're going to see a good deal of evidence of tremendous progress" in attracting high technology industries to Michigan.

High technology "requires schools, which require funding, and funding is

Governor's jest adds 2 years to term

Gov. William Milliken kept the lid on his upcoming legislative proposals when he spoke before the Michigan Municipal League last week, but the governor pulled the wraps off plans to run for re-election.

Or did he?

Milliken raised a few municipal eyebrows when he suggested the state will soon take control of distributing some federal aid to cities, and he expected to see Jack Patriarche, the league's full-time director "in my office next year and the year after that and the year after that."

Well, Milliken's current term expires next year, so there were two unaccounted for "years after that" in the governor's off-the-cuff remark.

Milliken has been playing his plans close to the vest for November 1982, but there has been substantial speculation by area politicians he will seek Donald Riegle's seat in the U.S. Senate instead of running for re-election.

proper foods reduce tooth decay!

Most tooth decay depends on the type of foods we eat. Contrary to general belief . . . brushing alone will not prevent all tooth decay! Sugar causes tooth decay. We eat about 2 lbs. of sugar a week, most of it hidden in foods. However, following rules when choosing foods can greatly reduce tooth decay.

1. Avoid sticky, sweet foods like cookies, candy, raisins, gum, etc., they are most damaging.
2. If you must eat sweets . . . eat them with meals. They are much more damaging when eaten at other times of the day.
3. Good snacks include: nuts, popcorn, fresh fruit, cheese milk, & vegetables . . . most have low sugar content.

Fall runners & joggers are ready for Saturday

Upwards of 400 runners are expected to participate in Saturday's second annual Fall Run sponsored by the Plymouth Community Family YMCA and by the Hillside Inn.

As of Tuesday morning some 250 runners were registered, with about 100 signing up on Monday alone.

Janet Luce, executive director of the YMCA, said she expected 400 runners and maybe more to enter.

Luce stressed that time still remains for runners to sign up, either by using the entry blank in today's newspaper or by signing up directly at the Y office above Armbruster's Bootery on Main Street just north of Penniman Avenue.

She also appealed to residents to come out Saturday morning and watch the runners. "This is a great spectator sport and I hope all the townspeople come out to watch the Fall Run. It will be a lot of fun for everyone and I'd hate for anyone to miss out on the fun."

THE ONE-MILE Fun Run will begin at 10 a.m. at Ann Arbor Trail and Main and end at the first driveway into the Hillside Inn.

The three-mile run and the five-mile run both will begin at 10:30 a.m.

The fee per person to enter is $8. The age divisions are: 13 and younger; 14-16; 17-20; 21-29; 30-39; 40-49; and age 50 and older.

All runners will receive a Fall Run T-shirt. Trophies will be awarded to the first three places (men and women) for the three events and medals will be given to first place (men and women) of each age division.

Refreshments will be served following the races in the dining room of the Hillside Inn.

Other major sponsors of the Fall Run — a fund-raising event for the YMCA — include the Penn Theatre, Big Red Quick Print center, and the Plymouth Credit Union.

Route maps for all three runs are available from the YMCA.

as enrollment history and projections, and proximity to other schools with low enrollment.

Not all criteria will have equal importance, cautions Ms. Csereszyne.

The proposal calls for the committee to break up into four subcommittees for the evaluation as well as making recommendations for the cluster of schools studied by that group in the years 1983, 1986 and 1989.

Plans call for the entire committee to regroup to study the recommendations and, in turn, take recommendations from the entire committee to the board, possibly as early as January 1982.

"THE COMMITTEE is fully aware of the seriousness of its responsibility," said Ms. Csereszyne, adding that it will be looking at junior and senior highs as well as elementary schools.

She stressed that closing schools is only one option that the committee will be studying. It also will be looking at alternative proposals such as a middle-school concept.

"By 1989 we'll have a lot of empty schools," she said. "It would be mismanagement not to look for the most appropriate use of the buildings."

Factors involved include the cost burden of having empty schools from declining enrollment, maintenance, utilities, age and other uses.

If the committee recommends closing schools and the Board of Education agrees, it would be June 1983 before any were actually closed, Ms. Csereszyne said.

"That gives us time to make good plans," she said, adding that committee recommendations will be reviewed periodically.

"I can see that the committee will be ongoing," she said. "It probably will be reactivated every two to three years until we see the stabilization of enrollment."

WHILE THE baby boom is over, Ms. Csereszyne said that educators are cautiously looking for what experts say may be a "baby bulge" coming in three to five years as career-oriented families in their mid-30s begin having babies.

Other variables that could affect future enrollment include lack of jobs and related opportunity for mobility, she added.

For now, however, Ms. Csereszyne said, "We don't see anything changing in the near future."

Student count nears projection

Wayne-Westland school administrators are closely watching enrollment tabulations for the district. Those enrollment figures are the basis for teacher allocations and state aid payments which are a substantial portion of the yearly budget.

Early tallies show a total of 17,203 students in grades kindergarten through 12th, according to Dan Slee, executive director for student relations in the district.

That figure is just 89 students short of his projection at the end of last year, and Slee said he expects most of those will be in attendance before the annual fourth Friday count is taken on Oct. 2. That count is the official one used for state aid payments.

Slee said that he had expected enrollment to decline by 1,085 from last year's total of 18,377.

Officials also are watching enrollments at individual schools. Last year there were 46 more students in kindergarten than anticipated as well as higher enrollments in secondary schools. So far, according to Slee, high school enrollment this year is 53 students higher than projected.

"The kindergarten enrollment in Michigan is the smallest the state has seen in the last 25 to 30 years," added Slee.

"Teacher allocations are based on the numbers I give," explained Slee. "I projected a little more than 9,000 elementary school students. Then (administrators) work backward per school from that figure. That's when teacher shifting occurs.

"I'm off (under) by 28 students for the whole 9,000 I projected," he said, adding that it is easier to recall teachers from layoff than to subtract them once they've been given contracts to teach for the year.

Man charged in gas station embezzlement

A Westland man faces charges of embezzling about $1,700 from a Canton service station where he was employed.

Douglas Bedell, 29, of Woodward in Westland, was arraigned Tuesday before 35th District Court Judge James Garber on a charge of embezzlement.

THE COURT entered a plea of innocent in his behalf. Bedell was released on $10,000 bond.

Preliminary examination in the district court is set for Oct. 8. Embezzlement is a felony punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

According to Police Lt. Larry Stewart, the alleged embezzlement occurred between Aug. 3 and Aug. 29 at the Center Gas Station on Canton Center Road. A police report indicated receipts totaling $1,759 hadn't been deposited in a safe.

Police were notified Aug. 31.

Hygienist is in China

Barbara Ryan Fuller, a Plymouth dental hygienist, left this week for a two-week working tour of the People's Republic of China.

Ms. Fuller is one of the 17 members of the Michigan Dental Hygienists' Association who departed the week of Sept. 20 for the tour of China.

She is president-elect of the MDHA.

She is part of a total group of 32 leaving the U.S. on Sept. 26, after participating in a protocol orientation in San Francisco on Friday.

The trip has been arranged by the Sino American Technology Exchange Council, Inc., a non-profit organization dedicated to medical exchanges with the private sectors of the medical professions.

All participants will be the guests of the Chinese Health Ministry for 14 days in five cities, and will receiye a certificate of merit from the Chinese government for their contributions to upgrading dental hygiene practice in China.

While in China, the practicing hygienists will be conducting schoolroom consultations with the use of visual aides for the purpose of continuing education in the profession o dental hygiene by demonstration of toothbrushing, flossing, use of fluoride rinses, and the importance of nutrition as it relates to decay.

In the dental clinic setting they will be demonstrating oral hygiene techniques through the use of scaling procedures.

It is hoped this first step in the training of Chinese dental hygienists, and the related dental health education of the young, will help to bring about an improvement in the overall dental health of the Chinese people.

Milliken hints at new high-technology proposal

what we find we are short of," said Milliken.

The governor's address wasn't all downbeat, though.

"Reports of Michigan's demise are decidedly premature and totally out of order," he said, departing from his prepared text to tick off a list of the state's agricultural accomplishments in recent years.

NO DETAILS were announced, but the legislative package Milliken sketched in his speech appears likely to include:

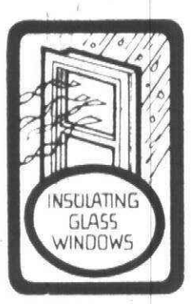

- Proposed reforms of worker's compensation and unemployment benefit insurance. These will be designed to "improve the job climate and help convince employers to locate here and to expand their operations once they have arrived."
- Water, which he called "perhaps our most important guarantee of a bright future for years to come." The issue of inter-state use of Great Lakes water has been a controversial one lately, and Milliken recently participated in a 13-state regional group planning for water use. Milliken said after the speech that he won't seek to have Michigan act unilaterally on the water issue.

Tree for the manor

Area Girl Scouts from Troop 216 recently planted a tree on the grounds of Tonquish Creek Manor, the senior citizens apartment building in the city of Plymouth operated by the Plymouth Municipal Building Authority. The tree was planted in preparation for this Sunday's open house from 2-5 p.m. to show off to the public the manor's new 48-unit addition at 1160 Sheridan, north of Ann Arbor Trail and west of Main. Shown from left are: Susan Strahan, Kristen Kraus, Keri Peterson, Jennifer Theard, Lori Peterson, and Elizabeth Tkacz.

Cities' repair funds dwindling in 1980s

By Mike Scanlon
staff writer

America's cities will be knee-deep in strife during the '80s, the National League of Cities (NLC) figures, and things will be worse rather than better unless they start getting ready for it now.

"If we're not doing a good job now, what will we do in the future?" William Davis, NLC director of policy analysis and development, wondered aloud last week.

He spoke at a seminar of the Michigan Municipal League, an organization of cities and villages which assembled for its convention in Detroit last week.

The NLC has established a 150-member commission to study what confronts the nation's cities in the decade ahead. The commission is scheduled to make a report before the NLC annual national meeting in Detroit late in November.

ERNEST MORIAL, mayor of New Orleans, sat in on the panel in place of Oak Park Mayor David Shepherd, a scheduled panelist who died Sept. 6.

Morial suggested that urban "infrastructure" will be a progressively more pressing problem for cities in future years.

"We know the sewers are going to wear out; we know the streets are going to wear out in time," said Morial.

"In the private sector they build a reserve for replacement of plant and equipment through accounting techniques," said Morial, who suggested that bonds sold to build such things as roads and sewers should be bigger than is necessary for construction costs, with the remainder "deferred in some sort of an accounting function for future maintenance."

Michael Glusac, executive director of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, called Morial's suggestion "interesting." But Glusac added "it may not be possible (under) Michigan law" and said the scheme could present some public policy issues.

"We're asking today's taxpayer to pay the whole cost," Glusac said. "You'd have to be careful how it was structured. Because if you weren't careful, you know what would happen — your employees would say, 'Let's use that for the next pay raise.'"

"IT'S GOING to bring chaos to local government relevant to the reduction and the elimination of block grants" from the federal government, Morial said.

OU accepts grants for research work

Oakland University received grants and gifts totalling more than a million dollars between mid-July and Sept. 9.

Trustees voted then to accept a total $1.07 million, including $920,000 in research and other support for various departments, schools and colleges.

Biggest source was the U.S. Department of Education, which provided nearly $500,000 for Project Upward Bound, special services programs and a teacher corps program aimed at curbing disruptive behavior in schools.

Other major recipients and projects included:

Venkat Reddy, a Bloomfield Hills resident who received more $100,000 in two grants to study aspects of the human eye.

Y.Y. Hung of Rochester and Joseph Hovanesian of Farmington, both of the engineering school, who received $80,000 for a new camera and laser device for use in non-destructive highway structure testing.

D.K. Pradhan of Auburn Heights, a computer fault tolerancing expert who received about $50,000 from the Air Force.

John Metzner, a Birmingham engineering professor, who received about $40,000 to study feedback techniques in data communication.

Nan Loh, a Rochester resident who received $30,000 for tank development.

Class explores working world

There's a widespread fear Americans no longer want to do a day's work for a day's pay.

Not so — the basic "work ethic" hasn't changed, according to Dr. James O'Toole, national coordinator of the fall 1981 Courses by Newspaper series.

The 15-part series, which will start Oct. 1 in Thursday editions of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, is entitled "Working: Changes and Choices," according to Managing Editor Nick Sharkey.

Courses by Newspaper is a service of the University of California at San Diego. The seriese articles were designed to be used as a course text but can be read by an individual for his knowledge, according to Tim Richard, editorial page editor.

Authors are nationally-known scholars in their fields.

"AMERICANS are still committed to work," said O'Toole, associate professor of management in the University of Southern California Graduate School of Business Administration.

"What has happened is that people today are no longer willling to slave away under any and all conditions, as their grandparents did.

"Men and woman are asking more things from their labor than they did in the past — not just money or the satisfaction of hard work. They want safe, clean environments, participation in management decisions that affect their jobs, a fair amount of leisure time and decent treatment as human beings," he said.

O'Toole was chairman of HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson's Task Force on Work in America. At USC, he was director of a 20-year forecast project in the Center for Futures Research.

PRODUCTIVITY has been declining, O'Toole says, because managers have continued to organize work in the way labor was structured in the 1930s.

Executives of the 1980s have an opportunity to create working conditions that will increase incentives for employees to engage fully in their work, he says, adding:

"I think the women's liberation movement, with all its ramifications, has forever altered society to an extent that exceeds the enormous impact of the Industrial Revolution."

Among the series' topics are blue collar workers in general, blue collar women, "the knowledge workers," "the vanishing ethic of enterprise," employee ownership, work and the family, and the quality of work life.

A Way to Grow for Tomorrow

Certificates of Deposit are one very real way that Plymouth's Bank can help you plan for tomorrow . . . today. Starting at $500, they pay a highly competitive interest rate and are F.D.I.C. insured. With amounts over $5,000, interest may be paid monthly by check or added to your account.

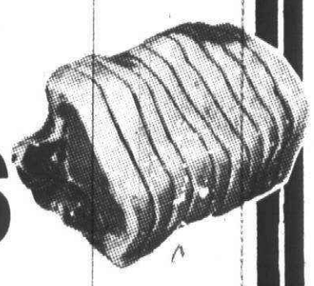

Money Market and 2½ Year Variable Rate Certificates. Money Market Certificates match the average rate of 6-month U.S. Treasury Bills and require $10,000 minimum 6 month deposit. Variable Rate Certificates (from $500) pay a fixed yield ¾% below 2 year government securities with interest compounded continuously.

To learn more about Certificates of Deposit . . . or any of the savings programs Plymouth's Bank offers . . . stop by either office. You'll find it a wise investment.

Federal Regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal on any time savings or certificate.

Mobile citizens team launches membership drive

An organizational meeting for the Plymouth Area Citizens Team (PACT), a mobile neighborhood surveillance group, will be held 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Plymouth City Hall.

Group leaders at that time will explain the program and recruit new members.

The team, which would patrol the Plymouth-Plymouth Township area, is expected to begin neighborhood patrols Oct. 30 which is the night before Halloween.

The group's objective is to spot suspicious activities and report them to police. Group leaders further hope their activity will deter crime.

Chuck VanVleck, commander of the Plymouth Area Reaction Team (REACT), a CB radio group, says the team's success depends on soliciting enough members to staff the patrols.

So far, plans call for operating patrols only on weekend nights. Each four-hour shift would require a staff of 13. No less than two team members would staff a mobile unit with one person required to man the group's base station.

VanVleck says he's counting on the base of PACT's membership to come from REACT's own membership list. He says he hopes REACT members join PACT because REACT cars already are outfitted with CB radios, needed for PACT work in other ways.

VanVleck said REACT will provide initial funds for PACT radios, antennae and car door decals.

Some effort to secure local government funding also has been made.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen said the township may fund PACT's gasoline expenses. Plymouth Cityanager Henry Graper said city financial support has not been decided as yet, but will be discussed.

The Plymouth Police Department will provide training for PACT members in a course on radio procedures, first aid and CPR.

A base station for the group's operations has been selected at the Plymouth Township Park. Nightly pre-patrol briefings and assignments will be conducted here. The nightly base station operator also will be responsible for fielding information received from PACT members to the Plymouth police.

VanVleck urges that PACT recruits also join REACT. A $12 annual membership fee in REACT provides insurance coverage for members which can be valuable for those involved in PACT patrols, he said.

Bologna to hold workshop on crime

Jack Bologna of Plymouth will be conducting a workshop on computer crime at the end of this month in Washington, D.C.

Bologna is president of Computer Protection Systems, Inc., a Plymouth-based computer-security consulting organization.

He holds degrees in accounting and law and spent some 15 years in federal law enforcement agencies before entering the consulting field.

THE THREE-DAY workshop, entitled "Investigating Computer Crimes," will be held Sept. 28-30 at the Mariott Twin Bridges Hotel in Washington, D.C.

Bruce Goldstein will be a co-presenter with Bologna of the workshop, which is being sponsored by the Journal of Assets Protection of San Francisco.

The workshop is intended for police, prosecuting and auditing professionals.

Goldstein is president of Executect Services, Inc., a San Francisco computer-crime specialist organization. He also serves as an instructor in computer-crime and security-related topics at Golden Gate University. His college degrees are in criminal justice, and he formerly served as an investigator for a number of county prosecuting authorities in New Jersey.

"This workshop is the first in a series we hope to conduct around the country," said Paul Shaw, publisher of the Journal of Assets Protection. "We have found that criminals are much faster in adapting to new technologies than are police and prosecuting authorities, and so we are attempting to plug that gap in these workshops.

Headlee leads board

Richard Headlee was recently elected to a second one-year term as chairman of the Oakland University Board of Trustees, and Ken Morris, a UAW regional director who lives in Troy, was elected vice chairman.

Headlee, a Farmington Hills insurance executive, has been a member of the board since 1976. Morris was appointed a charter member in 1970.

SC hangs out help wanted sign in search for VPs

By Tim Richard
staff writer

In his first week on the job, Schoolcraft College President Richard McDowell had more major jobs to fill than his predecessor did in 10 years.

McDowell is seeking two vice presidents — one for instructional affairs and one for student services.

"I just checked with the personnel office, and we've had two applications," said McDowell this week.

"The posting runs until mid-October. We are advertising in the Chronicle of Higher Education, so this will have broad exposure. Anybody in the country in touch with higher education will know about it.

"I'm assuming there will be some internal applicants — at least I've heard rumors.

"I WILL ask eight staff members to serve on screening committees to screen the applications and forward them on to me," McDowell said.

"I was pleased with Schoolcraft's procedures in its presidential search. I thought it was objective. Naturally I would, since I got the job," he chuckled.

"But I didn't know anybody at Schoolcraft when I applied," said the former vice-president of the Community College of Allegheny County, Pa., "and I managed to get through the process."

Minimum salary for each VP post is $36,000 with the exact amount to be negotiated depending on qualifications. "I imagine we'll settle in the mid-$40,000s," he said.

SCHOOLCRAFT this year has had to replace:

- C. Nelson Grote as president. He left in July to become president of a community college system in Spokane, Wash.
- Jewell E. Stindt, who was provost and vice president for instruction. The provost part of her title will be dropped, and her successor will be in charge of instruction.
- Edward McNally as vice-president of student services, heading such offices as admissions, counseling, veterans affairs and student activities. McNally served as interim president until McDowell came on board Sept. 14. He is currently serving as VP for administration and will retire near the end of the year.

Kenneth Lindner, vice president for business, is a few years away from retirement, too.

If persons already on the faculty or staff get either of the two spots, Schoolcraft could find itself in a game of musical chairs. With a few exceptions, the administrative staff has been stable during the Grote years beginning in 1971. McNally, Lindner and board secretary Clara Rousseau, who retired last month, were among the original employees of the college, which opened its doors in 1964.

McDOWELL, 45, called his first week "great."

"I met with the administrative staff . . . Imet with 30 students for lunch. . . I met with the Faculty Forum. Morale is high — everyone sees an opporunity to take a new look at things.

"And I've been out of the office, just walking around, talking to people."

His first meeting with the board of trustees is scheduled for Wednesday night.

County board unit ponders road bills

As county road commission officials lobbied for support, the Oakland County Board of Commissioners established a temporary committee to study a package of bills aimed at boosting road funds.

Richard Wilcox, R-Ortonville, chairman of the county board, picked Commissioner G. William Caddell, R-Walled Lake, to head the group. Caddell is chairman of the planning and building committee.

Other members will be the chairmen of the other five county board committees, the chairmen of the Republican and Democratic caucuses and the chairman of the three-man road commission.

"NOW YOU see why this county is all screwed up," complained Democratic leader Larry Pernick of Southfield. "All Republicans and one Democrat on this committee to go to Lansing and deal with a Democratic legislature."

The Oakland Road Commission is supporting four related bills sponsored by state Rep. Mary Brown, D-Kalamazoo, to generate new road funds for the state, counties, cities and villages. Rep. Brown chairs a House taxation subcommittee.

The bills are "tie-barred," meaning that none would go into effect unless all were passed and signed. They would raise fuel taxes to 11 percent of wholesale price, vehicle weight taxes to a flat $28 for autos up to 5,000 pounds and truck taxes by.35 percent. It would also establish a formula for allocating transportation funds.

JOHN GRUBBA, managing director of the road commission, said Michigan's roads are still getting battered despite the trend to lighter, more fuel-efficient autos.

"I have a standard response to that," Grubba said in an interview as the board meeting droned on.

"Small cars can't take the kinds of chuckholes which larger cars can take. Therefore, we have to repair our roads to a higher standard.

"The greater proportion of small cars has required us to revisit all our roads' passing lanes and repaint and re-sign many of them because small cars have less visibility.

"These bills are not a tax revenue increase. Road revenues have gone down. We're trying to restore them to what they would have been" without the gasoline price inflation of the late 1970s.

Grubba said state-collected gasoline and weight taxes returned to the Oakland County Road Commission fell from $21.7 million in 1979 to $20.5 million in 1980. They are expected to drop to $19.4 million this year and $18.2 million in 1984 unless tax rates and license fees are raised.

"Weather does much of the damage to our roads. The damage would occur no matter what kind of traffic the roads had.

"Mileage driven in the state was up 3 percent this year."

Why Blanchard has eye on governor's position

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Why would a four-term Democratic congressman who loves his work in Washington and hasn't had a difficult Republican challenge in several years want a change?

And why would he want to run for governor of Michigan in an era of revenue slowdown and spending cutbacks, in which his chances of being a hero are minimal?

And why would he do it when a recent poll shows more Michiganians than ever are identifying themselves as Republicans?

"THE MICHIGAN economy is in the worst shape it's been in in my lifetime," said James J. Blanchard, D-Pleasant Ridge, who has been living 39 years. "That's the bottom line.

"In the Chrysler matter, I've shown and demonstrated I can deliver when the chips are down," said the congressman who, more than any other, was associated with the congressional bills which propped up the No. 3 automaker's credit in 1980.

"It would be a tremendous challenge to revitalize the Michigan economy. I have a zillion ideas — maybe too many. Having ideas is easy. Implementing them is something else.

"The shortcoming of the current administration is its inability to bring together more than a few political operatives in Lansing. I want to develop a consensus of people in business, labor, the universities.

"We're in a global economy. We have to design for the next 10 to 20 years. Lansing is one small arena of debate — maybe the smallest arena."

Blanchard will trade on his experience on Capitol Hill as chairman of the House subcommittee on Economic Stabilization, a branch of the Committee on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs.

BLANCHARD is serious about wanting to run for goveernor. He said Monday he has filed the necessary legal documents to begin fund-raising and organizational work.

If support is there, a formal announcement could come in December, an aide said. Indications of support have come from 600 Michigan Democrats, including Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, for whom Blanchard worked in 1969-74, and state Rep. Joseph Forbes, D-Oak Park, House majority floor leader, said the aide.

The field is crowded with state senators — Ed Pierce of Ann Arbor, David Plawecki of Dearborn Heights, Kerry Kammer of Pontiac, Gary Corbin of Clio, possibly William Faust of Westland — and the perennial candidate, Zolton Ferency of East Lansing.

But the Draft Blanchard effort and the fact that in 1979 the UAW gave him a distinguished service award named for the late Walter Reuther may be indications the man from Pleasant Ridge has a better than one-seventh chance of getting the nomination.

The Blanchard for Governor Committee has set up shop at 74 Oakdale, Pleasant Ridge.

BLANCHARD was a Watergate era congressman.

In 1974 he toppled incumbent Robert Huber in the 18th Congressional District, which includes Troy, southeastern Oakland County and part of Macomb.

In 1976 he defeated then-Mayor John Olsen of Huntington Woods; in 1978, Robert Sallome; and in 1980, Betty Suida. The fact that Ms. Suida, who had never held public office and got little monetary support indicates what Republicans thought of their chances of defeating Blanchard.

Blanchard's decision to run for a job in Lansing would clear up one other Democratic problem: Michigan's loss of one of its 19 congressional seats. Running for a fifth term in Congress in 1982, Blanchard could find himself thrown into a district with another incumbent.

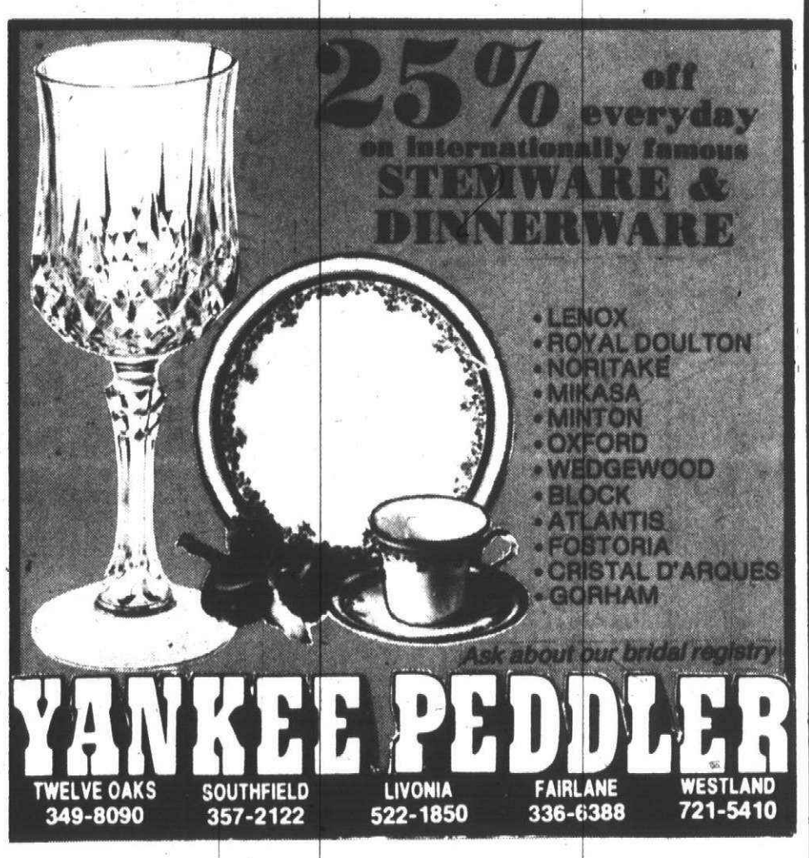

A native of Ferndale, Blanchard earned a bachelor's degree in history and a master's of business administration from Michigan State University and his juris doctor (law) degree from the University of Minnesota.

Out of college in 1968, he went to work in Lansing as a legal advisor in the Secretary of State's office until 1969, when he became an assistant attorney general for five years. Then he ran for Congress.

TO GROW OR NOT TO GROW

By now the list of problems is distressingly familiar to us all – inflation, unemployment, the energy crisis, decline in the steel and auto industries, stagnation in the housing market, competition from foreign manufacturers, the cost of health care and education. But above all, there is the troubling prospect of the future. How do we face it? Prepare for it? How do we ensure that there will be jobs for the young, that there will be new opportunities for those reaching up from the lower rungs of the economic ladder, that a home and a car will not become luxuries available only to the wealthy, and – perhaps the key to all those other problems – that there will be energy in sufficient quantities to support future economic growth.

It is an awesome challenge.

But, oddly enough, there are some whose answer to our concerns over future growth is a simple, "Don't bother." Growth itself is the problem, they say, and what we need to do is not to find new and better ways to keep ahead, but simply to cut back. And cut back. And cut back. And if we just keep cutting back long enough, pretty soon we'll reach a style of life we can maintain with no great problem.

There's no denying that it's a unique outlook. For centuries men have dreamed of Sharing the Wealth. Now, it seems, our dream is to become Share the Scarcity.

We suspect that not very many people are going to buy that dream. Certainly, those who have yet to achieve what we call "the good life" are not going to agree. But aspects of this "no growth" philosophy occasionally turn up in subtle form, and, at first glance, seem quite reasonable. The notion that conservation alone is the solution to our energy concerns is one noteworthy example. It has become virtually impossible in recent years to build new facilities of any kind in the energy industry without hearing the protest that new facilities are unnecessary, that they encourage and perpetuate waste, that if we all just used less we would need no new facilities.

There's no denying the need for conservation; there's no arguing with the fact that we can do better when it comes to consuming wisely and eliminating waste and excess. Those are important, even noble, goals for us all.

But it is naive – it is an acceptance of the "no growth" outlook – to believe that in a world where the majority of human beings still haven't even enough food to live full lives, that we can solve all our present and future problems simply by using less ourselves. We can – and must – do that; it is the least we can do. But we must also continue to produce – produce more, and produce it more efficiently – not to maintain a gross and wasteful life-style for the few, but to ensure a decent life-style for all. Now – and in the future, at home – and in the world-at-large.

To those who think otherwise we can only say that we've already seen what "no growth" is like. We've seen it this year, in fact.

Only most of us call it Recession.

Classes last 10 weeks, meeting twice a week. Instructions are given by Sam Santilli, a third-degree black belt. Cost is $30.

Classes meet at 8 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays. For more information, call the Canton recreation department at 397-1000.

● CUB SCOUTS

Sept. 24 — This date has been set aside by Gov. William Milliken as "school night for Cub Scouts" so boys aged 8-10 may sign up for Cub Scouting.

Several elementary schools, including Bird Elementary, 220 Sheldon Road, Plymouth, will hold meetings for new recruits, who should be 8 years old or in the third grade. Sign-up begins at 7:30 p.m.

● BABY CLOTHES SALE

Sept. 26 — The Western Wayne County Mothers of Twins Club will hold its semi-annual sale 2-4 p.m. at St. Matthew Lutheran Church, Venoy Road north of Ford in Westland.

Items for sale will be infants and children's clothes, toys, baby items, furniture, etc. Bake sale items also will be available.

For information about the sale, call 261-0608.

● OPEN HOUSE

Sept. 27 — The Plymouth Housing Commission will hold an open house 2-5 p.m. to dedicate a 48-unit addition to Tonquish Creek Manor senior citizen complex.

The open house will be at the manor, 1160 Sheridan, Plymouth.

● LIBRARY FRIENDS

Sept. 28 — The Friends of the Canton Public Library will hold a meeting at 7 p.m. in the third floor meeting room at the library, in Canton's Township Hall on Canton Center Road.

The public is invited to attend.

● BOOSTER CLUB

Sept. 30 — The Plymouth-Canton-Salem athletic booster club will hold a sale day from 8 a.m. to midnight at Great Scott supermarket, Sheldon and Ann Arbor roads.

Five percent of total gross sales will be given to the booster club to benefit athletics programs at Plymouth-Canton and Plymouth-Salem high schools.

For information, contact Pat Houle at 453-9063 or Cindy Merrifield at 453-6511.

● DANCE CLASSES

Oct. 1 — The first session of ballet and tap classes through the Canton

Chances are our Executive Weathertron heat pump/air conditioner can save energy dollars year round
How does it work? Simple. A heat pump doesn't make heat. It moves heat! In summer, it works just like an air conditioner, pulling heat out of your home. In winter, it reverses, and pulls heat from outdoor air into your home (even at cold winter temperatures). With this GE high-efficiency model the same unit keeps you cool all summer, warm all winter, and can save energy dollars, too.
Use it by itself, or add it to your present furnace, whichever saves more: Naturally, when the weather's extra-cold you'll need some extra heat. That's why you can buy this GE heat pump two ways — With supplemental electric heaters built-in or save money by attaching the heat pump to your present forced air furnace. It doesn't matter what fuel your furnace uses — gas, oil, propane or electric. Whichever saves more.

Township Parks and Recreation Department will begin.

Afternoon and evening sessions will be offered Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, in the meeting hall at the Canton Township fire station at Cherry Hill and Canton Center roads.

Various age and skill levels will be offered. Class sizes are limited to 12 per class.

Registration fee is $8 for the year, which lasts from October to May. Class fee is $1.75 per person per class, paid monthly.

For information, call 397-1000, between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

● CIRCUS FIELD TRIP

Oct. 7 — Canton's parks and recreation department is sponsoring a trip to the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus for Plymouth-Canton youth on Track A of the Extended School Year (ESY).

Buses will leave Township Hall on Canton Center Road at 9:15 a.m., returning about 1:30 p.m. Fee for the event, held at Joe Louis Arena in Detroit, is $5.50 per person (admission to circus and transportation).

Registration must be in person at the parks and recreation department in Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road. For information, call 397-1000 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

● PLUS PRE-SCHOOL

The PLUS pre-school program is looking for children aged 4, and their parents, from the attendance areas of Field, Eriksson and Starkweather schools. PLUS is a free program co-sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton school district and the federal government.

The program features learning skills, various home projects and field trips. Classes are held at Central Middle School, 650 Church, Plymouth.

For information, call PLUS at 453-8889.

● DYNAMIC AEROBICS

Sept. 28 — A pre-screening for an aerobics exercise class will be from 9:30-10:30 a.m. at the Canton Recreation Center, Michigan Avenue at Sheldon.

Classes will meet on Monday and Wednesday mornings for 10 weeks. The program is designed to give choreographed exercises for persons of varying fitness levels.

Persons may register in person or by mail to Canton Parks and Recreation Department, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton 48188, or call 397-1000 for further information.

● FALL TRIPS

Reservations are being taken for short trips for Plymouth senior citizens through the Plymouth Recreation Department. Plans are as follows:

Oct. 12-14 — A fall color tour to Harbor Springs, Mich., includes three days and two nights at the Harbor Inn. Cost of $179 per person will cover several meals, tours and entertainment.

Oct. 21 — Autumn apple adventure trip to Holly and Fenton is for persons who prefer a one-day color tour. Participants will tour a cider mill, lunch at the Holly Hotel and local historic landmarks. Cost is $20 per person.

Nov. 18-22 — Travel to Nashville and visit Grand Ole Opry and Country Music Hall of Fame.

Cost of $219 per person includes four days and three nights at Nashville Albert Pick Hotel, several meals, Opry tickets, admission to Country Music Hall of Fame, entertainment and baggage handling.

For information, call the Plymouth Recreation Department at 455-6620.

William Ford

Will Reagan's knife wound schools?

Will President Reagan's new plan to trim at least $40 billion more from domestic spending harm schools?

It depends who's asked.

U.S. Rep. William D. Ford, D-Taylor, is adamant that the cuts will make at least some southeast Michigan school districts bleed. But U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, doesn't want to say much at all until he sees the details of Reagan's proposed cuts.

Both suburban congressmen are expert on federal education policies, Ford as a member of the Education and Labor Committee, Pursell as a member of Appropriations.

FORD FIGURES it's too early to tell how Reagan's latest round of proposed domestic spending cuts will be greeted by Congress, but he ventures that the president's current bid won't move as smoothly as did his earlier budget and tax plans.

"I can't read (Congress' likely vote) yet," said Ford, whose 15th District includes Garden City, Westland and Canton Township.

"I can tell you . . . the northeast and midwest Republicans are quiet as can be and are very jittery. I gather they came back (from Congress' August recess) and found these cuts not all that popular.

"The euphoria that exists after the president goes on TV doesn't last forever," added Ford.

PURSELL — LEADER of an unofficial bloc of northeast and midwest Republican congressmen called the "Gypsy Moths" — chose to cite senior citizen attitudes in recounting his experiences during the August recess.

Remarking that seniors "have a right and concern to be nervous" about proposed Social Security cuts, Pursell said some of his constituents seemed confused between actual changes in federal tax and benefit laws, and changes that were only proposed.

"I tried to reassure those people I'd try to keep them up to date as well as I can," said Pursell, whose district includes northwestern Wayne County, the Ann Arbor area and Monroe.

FEDERAL AID to local school districts is a relatively minor part of the budgets for general education. They are largely supported by local property taxes and state appropriations.

The National Education Assn. has sought three-source funding for K-12 schools, with one-third each coming from local, state and federal sources. Instead, the Reagan budget policies seem to be moving in the opposite direction.

"The wave of federal cuts triggered by the Reagan Administration's new federalism is strangling state and local school budgets," complains NEA President Willard McGuire.

Nevertheless, in recent years the government has become an important revenue source to many school districts because of growing numbers of federal laws affecting relatively small populations of comparitively unusual students — such as the handicapped, retarded, gifted and foreign language-speaking pupils.

Some school districts, Ford noted, have done "a remarkably good job of wedding together money they get from local sources, state sources and federal sources. Wayne-Westland has been an outstanding example of what alert local school officials can do."

Ford said federal aid can have a pyramidal effect when creatively applied in conjunction with local and state funds. "When we pull out one piece, it's like pulling bricks out of a wall," he said.

COMMUNITY COLLEGES are likely to be unfazed by federal cuts because, Ford said, their enrollments are likely to continue swelling.

But cuts in direct federal aid to students, in the form of loans and benefits, are likely to create an unexpected trickle-down effect. The cuts will cause enrollments to plummet at expensive private colleges and central public universities, driving more pupils to nearby, generally urban schools out of economic necessity.

Education can be expected to suffer under new domestic spending cuts because it's one of the largest remaining domestic expenditures, Ford said.

Title I, federal school aid based largely on economic need, has more than $3 billion. "And if you're looking for big buck savings, you have to go where the money is," Ford noted.

Some federal cuts may have pyramidal effects, said Ford, citing school lunches. Cuts in federal lunch subsidies may so increase the bill for students that fast food restaurants may cost just about the same.

West-side roads to be improved

Several west side and suburban projects were among 57 construction and maintenance jobs for which the Michigan Department of Transportation received bids last week.

Largest was reconstruction of 0.8 miles of Warren Road from Inkster to Beech-Daly roads in Detroit and Dearborn Heights. It includes widening from four lanes to five.

Lowest of 13 bidders was John Carlo of Mount Clemens at $1.26 million. Completion date is October of 1982.

NOISE abatement walls are scheduled for 1.1 miles of the west side of I-275 freeway from the Penn Central Railroad crossing north to Michigan Avenue, and from Palmer Road north almost to CherryHill Road in Canton Township.

Lowest of 10 bidders is The Morrison Co. of Trenton at nearly $851,000. Target date for completion is August of 1982.

In Westland, MDOT plans resurfacing and sewers for 1.6 miles of Wayne Road from Glenwood to Cherry Hill. Lowest of five bidders was Stolaruk Corp. of Southfield at $553,000. Target date is next August.

AT NORTHVILLE State Hospital and the Hawthorn Center, service roads will be resurfaced and repaired by November of this year. Lowest of eight bidders was Thompson McCully of Belleville at $74,000. The state facilities are southwest of Seven Mile and Haggerty in Northville Township.

Some 3.1 miles of I-94 freeway from the Lodge freeway to 24th Street on Detroit's west side are scheduled for landscaping work by next May. Lowest of three bidders was DeAngelis, Inc. of Woodhaven at $274,000.

Nova Scotia

Scotland meets the 20th century

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

THEY CAME to Nova Scotia by sea. John and Sebastian Cabot came to explore the northern tip of land in 1497. The French fur traders came to build settlements, and the Jamestown colonists came to burn them down.

French soldiers built Fortress Louisbourg here after they lost the rest of the New World to the British. The British came to blow up the fortress and to expel the Acadians immortalized in Longfellow's story of Evangeline.

Finally, the Scottish settlers came, because the highlands of Cape Breton Island reminded them of the Highlands of home. The Scots gave this land its name — Nova Scotia, or New Scotland — and they brought the motto that is still the official welcoming sign for visitors: "Ciad Mile Failte," meaning One Hundred Thousand Welcomes.

Nowadays, the fishing boats sail in and out of the 4,625 miles of coastal bays that crinkle the edge of this 60-by-100-mile province. And one by one, the tourists come — quietly, because they like to keep this little secret to themselves.

They come by ferry from Maine, by cruise ship from the south, by air into the capital city of Halifax, and by land down that peninsula that connects Nova Scotia to the rest of Atlantic Canada like an umbilical cord.

They come because it is all still here: Picturesque fishing villages, seacoast scenery, fresh seafood, old-fashioned lodges, and restored historical sites — with just enough sophistication thrown in at Halifax to keep you firmly rooted in the 20th century.

This is not everybody's vacation; it is not slick enough for those who like slick. It is for the traveler who likes to sit on a dock at twilight, eating fresh-caught crab, while the butter runs down his chin into his running shoes.

The Nova Scotia tourist industry is an unusual combination of public and private enterprise. The federal government has restored the old forts and settlements, with an awesome attention to authentic detail.

The provincial government manages three of those grand old-fashioned hotels with lawn chairs overlooking the sea and seven-course dinners that go with the price of your room. For fast reservations, the province-wide hotel system as well as farm vacations and bed-and-breakfast sites have been computerized, under the name Clek-Inns.

Both governments also work with smaller hotels and restaurants, as well as crafts people and tourist attractions, so that the tourist industry can begin to replace the dwindling mining industry and the uncertain fishing industry as a base for the economy.

The good news for tourists is that the land is unspoiled, and the population of 850,000 lives primarily in picturesque fishing villages stitched to the edge of this almost-island by the masts of ships. The bad news is that the season is short (May to October), and you can sometimes drive two hours looking for a place to have breakfast.

The three provincial hotels provide a good base for touring surrounding areas: Liscomb Lodge, a rustic motel-lodge of special interest to fishermen, east of Halifax; the Digby Pines, near several historic sites on the northwest coast; and Keltic Lodge, on the Cabot Trail in Cape Breton Island.

CAPE BRETON is not a single island but a broken-up mass of land and water criss-crossed by bridges and attached to the mainland by a causeway.

It contains the city of Sydney, the Fortress Louisbourg and the hundreds of villages, museums and scenic lookouts of the Cabot Trail, which describes a circle around the Cape Breton Highlands.

The Keltic Lodge, managed by the provincial government inside Cape Breton National Park, is a grand white clapboard lodge spread across the top of a cliff overlooking the sea. It costs roughly $75 a night for two, including a multi-course breakfast and dinner in the sprawling dining room.

A typical dinner includes smoked trout, pea soup, salad, poached salmon, Duchess potatoes, fiddleheads, dessert and coffee. Fiddleheads are tasty greens peculiar to this part of the world.

Between meals, you can play golf, swim or drive north on the Cabot Trail to watch the fishing boats come in at Neil's Landing New Haven, where crab costs 50 cents a pound and lobster $2 a pound off the dock.

The fishermen catch cod in April, and lobster from May to July 15. The day they haul the lobster pots in from the seas, they set out the crab traps for a two-month season. Then it's cod again, and mackerel until Januray, when they start repairing their boats for the next season.

If you drive south instead of north form the lodge, you will reach the Gaelic College of St. Anns, where kilted students learn the music and language of the Celts, and the Alexander Graham Bell museum at Baddeck.

Bell spent the last 30 summers of his life on this bay, perfected his hydrofoil here and is buried on a point of land across the water from the excellent contemporary museum.

The Cabot Trail turns northwest down the Margaree Valley here to the other side of the mountainous peninsula, with fascinating little museums along the way to distract you: the Salmon Museum, Cape Breton Heritage Museum, Museum of Musical Instruments, etc.

At Margaree, there will probably be a highland piper in front of the Schooner Restaurant, where the road turns north again along the coast to the French fishing village of Cheticamp.

The green and blue and pink houses of Cape Breton make distinctive flat patches of color against the rough grass hills that edge the sea.

Cheticamp is visible for 15 miles, spreading across a point of land with a church spire rising above the town roofs. The town is a photographer's delight — colored fishing boats moored row-on-row in the harbor against the equally colorful rooflines of the town.

The most scenic highland sea views are north from here, until the Cabot Trail bends eastward again and completes the circle to the Keltic Lodge.

THE MOST important and interesting historic site on Cape Breton Island is the fortress at Louisbourg, which could easily set a standard for restored historic forts in North America.

The Basque fishermen fled here from Newfoundland after the 1713 Treaty of Utrecht, and the King's men followed to build a royal military fort beside the sea.

They began building the walled city in 1719 and had barely completed the last fortification when the British came in 1745. The British literally leveled the town, leaving the foundations to be found among the coastal grass 200 years later when Parks Canada rebuilt it to the exact specifications of the original city.

When you park at the Parks Canada building, you can see it across an arm of the sea; a great 18th century walled city glowing in the sun on a distant peninsula. The park bus carries you from the headquarters building to the gate, where a grass-roofed sodhouse, typical housing of Basque fishermen, is waiting to plunge you back 200 years.

The fortress is a masterwork of houses, restaurants, wharfs and barracks, with costumed 18th century "citizens" to make it real.

The nearby modern village of Louisbourg is a good place to absorb all that history, while the seafood butter runs down your chin into your shoes at the Lobster Kettle, a rough wharf building with picnic tables and pools of live lobster for cooking and eating.

The lobster boils for 20 minutes, the crab legs for five. You'll need a bath before you've finished licking the shells which spill over those cardboard plates onto the checked table cloths.

THE SAME combination of good eating and history is available at the other end of Nova Scotia, along the road that leads up the "back of the dragon" from Yarmouth to Digby, past Port Royal and Port Anne to Evangeline Country.

Port Royal is the oldest settlement north of St. Augustine, built by Champlain and burned down by Jamestown settlers who feared the migration of the Catholic Church into the New World. Fort Anne is the British settlement that followed.

Both are as meticulously restored as Louisbourg. Parks Canada is also responsible for the church and museum at Grand Pre, where a statue of Evangeline ties the Acadian expulsion to Longfellow's popular story.

There are several motels and hotels in the Digby area, but the best known is the government-operated Digby Pines, another of those grand, sprawling, peak-roofed hotels built for another age.

From a lawn chair at the Pines, you look down past yellow umbrellas, swimming pool and tennis courts to the Bay of Fundy, and across a few hundred yards to the town of Digby. At sunset, seagulls scatter across the docks and rooftops of town. The scallop boats are docked in rows.

Buy the scallops deep fried from Bill's unpretentious little take-out window near the dock, and eat them at public tables down the street with a million-dollar view.

WHEREVER YOU go on this interesting almost-island, your itinerary will probably either begin or end in Halifax.

From the original Citadel, a fort which dominates the very center of the downtown city, you can look past the Old Town Clock and through the new high-rise buildings to the harbor.

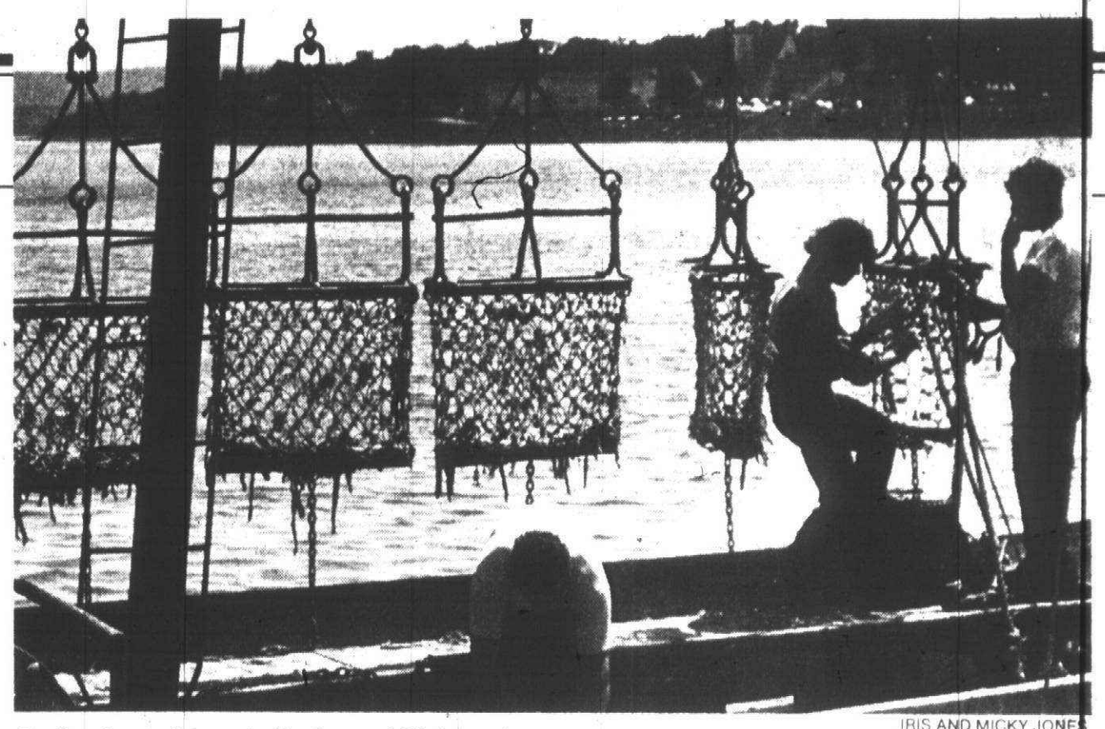

The historic project has already converted several old warehouses along the waterfront to colorful restaurants and boutiques. If you look that way, and you are lucky, you will see the black prow and the high sails of Bluenose Two, descendent of a fishing schooner famous on these shores.

You can tour the harbor on a regular tour boat or on the Bluenose Two. Halifax, like everything else in Nova Scotia, faces the sea.

Nova Scotia's best-known fishing village is an easy day trip out of Halifax: Peggy's Cove. This beautiful cove, usually shrouded in fog, is unfortunately overrun by tourists; in fact, it's the only coastal village most tourists ever see.

A great tumble of giant rocks sits treeless beside the sea, with colored clapboard houses and misted fishing boats down every rocky view. It is the only cove of its kind in Nova Scotia; the rest of the coastline is wrapped in trees.

Standing in the mist, with the high masts rising close to the rocky shore, it is easy to imagine all those who came by sea before us: the Basque fishermen, the French and British troops, the Scots, all of whom came out of the mist in their tall, tall ships.

Scallop boats line up in the town of Digby at the eastern end of Nova Scotia. IRIS AND MICKY JONES

Ketchup runs slow as substitute vegetable

Using children for political or social gain always has turned my stomach, no matter the cause.

Recall a few years back when the United Nations proclaimed the "Year of the Child." I penned a column asking why we feel sorry for human beings only when they are children.

After all, those starving, abused, neglected and war-torn youngsters on posters a decade ago are now forgotten starving, abused, neglected and war-torn adults.

But Ronald Reagan has managed to sway my sympathies on this issue. It happened the other day while I was sitting in a restaurant.

Gazing at the ketchup, I poured a little on my plate, added a dash of water and ate it.

Sounds repulsive, huh? It was.

THIS GRAND experiment transpired after I read the new guidelines for the federal hot lunch programs which allows ketchup to be a vegetable substitute.

Curiosity got the better of me.

Fortunately, for me, this taste test was only an experiment. But for some children who take advantage of the hot lunch program, the ketchup substitute will be a reality.

In its fervor to cut the budget at any cost, the Reagan administration has stooped to this new low — picking on school kids who are unable to buy lunch.

THE PRICE of milk has been raised, the portion of meals reduced and the nutritional values of each meal cut.

At one time a lunch was required to provide one-third of the daily requirement of nutrition. Under the new guidelines, that daily minimum has been reduced.

In the spirit of "let them eat cake," cakes and cookies substitute for bread.

Critics of the new plan point out that a typical minimally nutritious meal would be a 1.5-ounce meat patty, 10 french fries, several grapes and one-half cup of milk.

The theory in Washington seems to be that most kids dump their vegetables in the garbage, so let's save the money. Obviously, those administering this policy have either never known or forgotten what it's like to be hungry.

Truly hungry children finish their meals. For many who participate in the program, that federally subsidized meal is the only one they will get all day.

Some misinformed persons who think they know their community think such hunger doesn't exist. They are wrong.

For instance, in a relatively affluent community like the Farmington School District, 532 students received either free or reduced-priced meals last year.

THAT'S A LOT of hungry children in my book. Some think otherwise.

Let them tell those hungry kids they don't deserve the same kind of nutritional meal the kid next to them gets. Those of us who are affluent have the obligation to see to it that our children's classmates eat just as well.

Who knows? Someday it could be one of our children who is hungry and needs a helping hand.

State needs to become more diverse

Let's look at the Milliken tax cut-economic proposals in context.

Michigan in the last two decades has done the things a state should do extraordinarily well, with one exception.

This state has built its freeways, maintained its great universities, developed its system of regional colleges, built a community college system almost from scratch, advanced the status of its educators, subsidized music and the arts, ratified the ERA, cleaned up its rivers, helped conquer the lamprey, created a whole new Great Lakes fishery, expanded one of the best state parks systems in America, wrote model civil rights legislation, established an appeals court and professionalized its local court system.

All of this has been done without the kinds of corruption you read about in other states.

IN ONE respect, however, the state is worse off than it was 20 years ago.

Michigan's economists and political leaders have been talking about "diversification" until they are blue in the face, but so far it hasn't happened.

Worse, the auto industry, on which we have so heavily relied, is on its knees. Even in the "recovery" period between our frequent recessions, the unemployment rate seems to creep higher and higher.

Politically, Michigan has a delicately balanced coalition government. The executive has been dominated for 18 of the 20 years by moderate Republicans George W. Romney and William G. Milliken. The executive has sought an accommodation with legislatures that are rarely dominated by one party or group for very long. The United Auto Workers union continues to be the single most potent force in the Democratic Party, but it has had to share power with the teachers and a scattering of suburban and rural conservative Democrats.

In short, Michigan has a political structure capable of doing things.

MILLIKEN'S SPECIAL message to the legislature last week covered both property tax cut and economic development issues.

Most reporters, figuring the ordinary reader is most interested in his own pocketbook and home, concentrated on the property tax cut proposals.

Actually, the economic development ideas deserve far more attention. Those of us with a little job seniority and houses purchased at single-digit interest rates have it made, compared to the rest of the world.

But what about the people below age 25 or 30? To what state will they have to move to find jobs? If they stay in Michigan, how much gray hair will they have before they get promotions? How will they ever afford to buy houses and rear a succeeding generation?

MICHIGAN'S "IMAGE" as a union state . . . the workers compensation system that facilitates double-dipping . . . the unemployment compensation system that particularly grinds the auto industry . . . the shortage of capital . . . the conservatism of our banks and lending institutions . . . the take-it-for-granted attitude we have toward corporations.

Economic diversification. It's a tall order. Yet I have to believe a state which is capable of the educational, environmental and judicial reforms and miracles which Michigan has pulled off is also capable of rescuing itself from its economic miseries.

Center kept facts in open

To the editor:

The development of adult foster care homes is complex. It is easy to become confused.

We would, therefore, like to set forth the initial procedure used by the Department of Mental Health (DMH) in developing the group homes.

As of April 15, 1981, DMH mandated that communities be notified of the intent to develop homes within their municipality, and that once the specific home had been identified, that the municipality again be contacted.

This was in response to communities complaining that everything was an accomplished fact and already in the licensing phase before being alerted and involved in the process. According to this new procedure, the municipality must be notified (and the neighbors within a 500-foot radius) before any contracts are signed or negotiated.

WE RECENTLY implemented the new procedure in Plymouth Township. The Northville Residential Training Center (NRTC) sent the first letter of intent on May 21, 1981. NRTC officials met with the township's board of trustees at its request on July 28, 1981, and explained the program in more detail.

After this meeting, the possible use of the home at 41001 Ann Arbor Road came to our attention. NRTC immediately sent a second letter of intent to the township's board of trustees on Aug. 4, 1981, and asked the board's advice on how to notify the neighbors within 500 feet of the intended home.

The board requested that NRTC send an open letter to all homeowners within a 1,500-foot radius, and it then scheduled a hearing in conjunction with its regular board meeting on Aug. 26, 1981.

NRTC COOPERATED with this request by sending an open letter to the neighbors and attending the hearing (which they had understood to be a routine board meeting with the home being one item on the agenda). There was strong community resistance. The owner subsequently withdrew his home.

NRTC made no attempt to "sneak" in the home. The municipality was immediatley notified when the home was identified. It can be argued that NRTC erred by giving premature notification to the community. If NRTC did indeed err, it erred on the side of informing the public.

There is no pat formula to gaining any community's endorsement and/or goodwill. Unfortunately, it is almost a given that minorities of any kind are resisted in some fashion. Persons who happen to be mentally retarded are no exception.

NRTC has tried several methods in the area of community education and is open to other approaches. Our concern is that there be cooperation with the local municipality, as it is in the interest of our residents that their community environment be constructive. We are prepared to listen.

That sick feeling

When experts are wrong

W.W. Edgar

When the word came over the air the other evening that Tommy Hearns had been beaten by Sugar Ray Leonard in the welterweight championship fight, it was not the fallen Detroiter for whom The Stroller had the most sorrowful feeling.

His sympathy went instead to the sports writers and the so-called experts who not only had picked Hearns to win, but by a knockout within seven rounds.

He couldn't help feeling the agony they suffered as they contemplated losing the respect of many of their readers and the jibes they would get as they returned to their desks around the country.

After all, a great majority had predicted a Hearns victory, and so great was their influence that even the bettors in so wise a gambling place as Las Vegas had made the Detroiter the favorite entering the ring.

THE STROLLER knows the feeling. He suffered that agony on several occasions during his sports writing days, and the feeling of agony still grips him when he recalls the incidents. The situation he never will forget came the night back in 1936 when Max Schmeling knocked out Joe Louis in what was termed a startling upset.

In those days, The Stroller was very close to Louis. On the day before a big fight, Joe always had given him the number of the round in which he expected to win. Joe seldom was wrong. When he was, he apologized.

This time, when The Stroller asked for the round, Joe hesitated and then said, "I do the best I can." It was the first time he had refused to name a certain round.

Late that afternoon when The Stroller sat down to write his story for the Free Press, he took it upon himself to become a real expert and wrote:

"For the first time in his career, Joe has refused to name the round in which he expects to win. But after looking at both fighters in training, the writer feels that Mrs. Louis will dictate the length of the fight. If she wants to attend an early movie, Joe will make it quick. If she prefers a bit of night clubbing, Joe will let Schmeling stay around a while."

These words are still on file in the yellowing pages of the Free Press. Maybe they have been forgotten by the fight followers of those days. But The Stroller never will forget the feeling he had in returning to the office to accept the darts and jabs of his fellow newsmen — and the loss of respect for the moment of his readers.

It is not a very nice feeling. That's why his sympathy went out to the "experts."

ON ANOTHER occasion when Max Baer stopped Frankie Campbell in a Chicago bout, The Stroller wrote that Campbell went down without being hit, that he had taken a dive and set boxing back 20 years.

His story met the midnight deadline, but by morning Campbell had died from the effects of the blow. You can imagine his feeling when he slowly walked into his office on his return home. There is agony in sports, even in the writing end.

Mountainous pot of gold in the Land of Thunder

Second of three articles on a trip to the Arctic Circle.

As our canoe landed at the entrance to Pangnirtung Pass, it was 11 p.m. and almost dusk. Near the Arctic Circle during late summer, we had alomst 24 hours of daylight. By 2 a.m. it would be fully light.

Our canoe pilot bid us a hasty goodbye and good luck. He had to leave during high tide or he would be stranded at the pass for the night.

We now were completely on our own. Mount Overlord peered down at us in an ominous welcome, its snowcap glistening in the late light. After many months of planning, preparation and anticipation, we finally were here. Even though we were bodily exhausted, the emotional excitement made sleep difficult, and we tossed and turned 'til early morning.

5 A.M. — WHAT a beautiful time of day in Auyuittuq! I crawled out of the tent to wonderful sights and feelings.

The air was clean and crisp, its odor refreshing. Waterfalls, as far as I could see, cascaded down the surrounding mountains like unfurled ribbons spilling into the river. Many waterfalls were new this summer, the result of excessive rain and snow in the region. What a sight they were.

The end of the fiord was about one mile wide, and at this early morning hour was totally motionless. Like a slab of polished steel, it reflected everything in its view — mountains, waterfalls, rocks, clouds. These mirrored images were exciting to behold and were easily captured on film in soft morning light.

Our goal this first day was to hike 11 miles to the north, following the Weasel River to an area known as Windy Lake. Backpacks loaded, camera gear and film stowed in waterproof bags, we departed.

THE FIRST part of the journey was over a vast area of tundra. Tundra is a treeless Arctic plain with espanses of flat stone and grass. Sometimes hard and sometines wet and boggy, the land is permanently frozen only a few inches down, precluding many kinds of plant and animal life.

We hiked over sand dunes, up and down large boulder fields, all the time encased in magnificant mountain ranges. As I walked, Mount Thor was on my mind.

I thought about what I had heard — a sheer face more spectacular than California's El Capitan with a 1,500-foot overhang at the crest so overwhelming that it has prevented man from ever reaching the top along this route.

Not that man hasn't tried and failed. I also heard you can still see ropes dangling from the face of Thor from unsuccessful — and sometimes disastrous — attempts.

AS WE HIKED, we encountered many streams feeding the Weasel River that resulted from waterfalls above us. These had to be crossed on foot very carefully.

From a distance these obstacles appeared mere trickles of water, but once upon them, we were faced with fairly wide streams containing treacherous rapids. The water was ice cold, which required a hasty crossing to avoid hypothermia.

Slipping and falling would be dangerous. A water-filled backpack would be like a 200-pound anchor, and drowning in 18 inches of water was not inconceivable.

Anyway, brave souls we were, and with stubborn determination we plowed through safely, a little wet and cold, but after about 10 such crossings this first day, in good shape and in good spirits.

At one point we were startled by a roaring sound of thunder. But no rain clouds were in sight. Suddenly a movement across the river caught my eye.

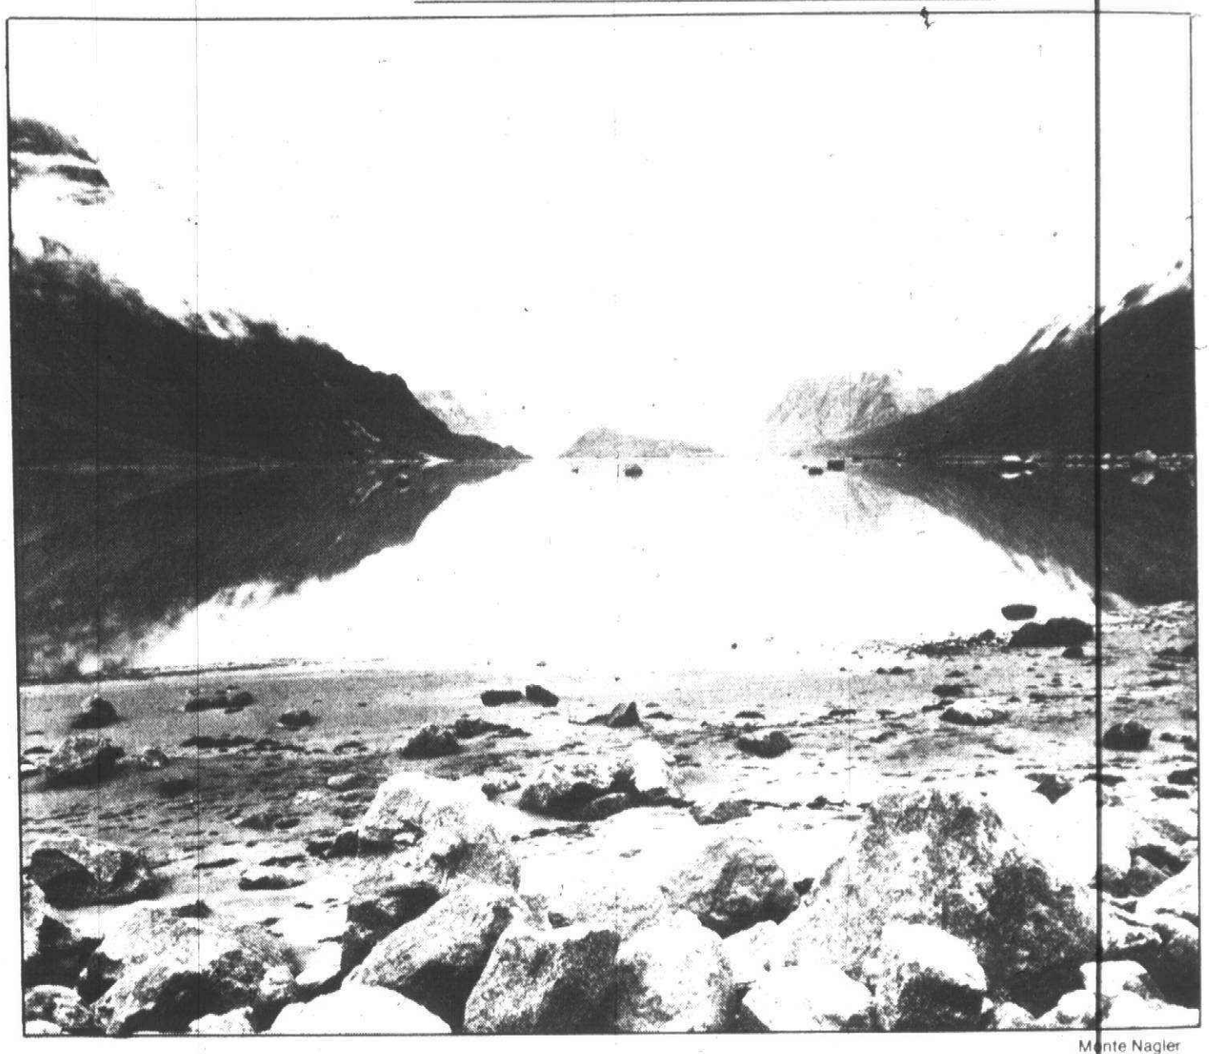

I spun around in time to see a gigantic rockslide tumbling down the mountain toward the river bank. The noise was deafening, and a huge cloud of dust formed and hung in the air as a reminder of yet another danger of our journey into this arctic wilderness.

WINDY LAKE was a welcome sight, indeed. Rest, food and a good night's sleep were ours.

The last sight before ending a most remarkable day was of the very top of Mount Thor. There it was, peeking over the Odin mountain range, as if to whet my appetite. The late-evening sun caused the tip to glow like burnished gold.

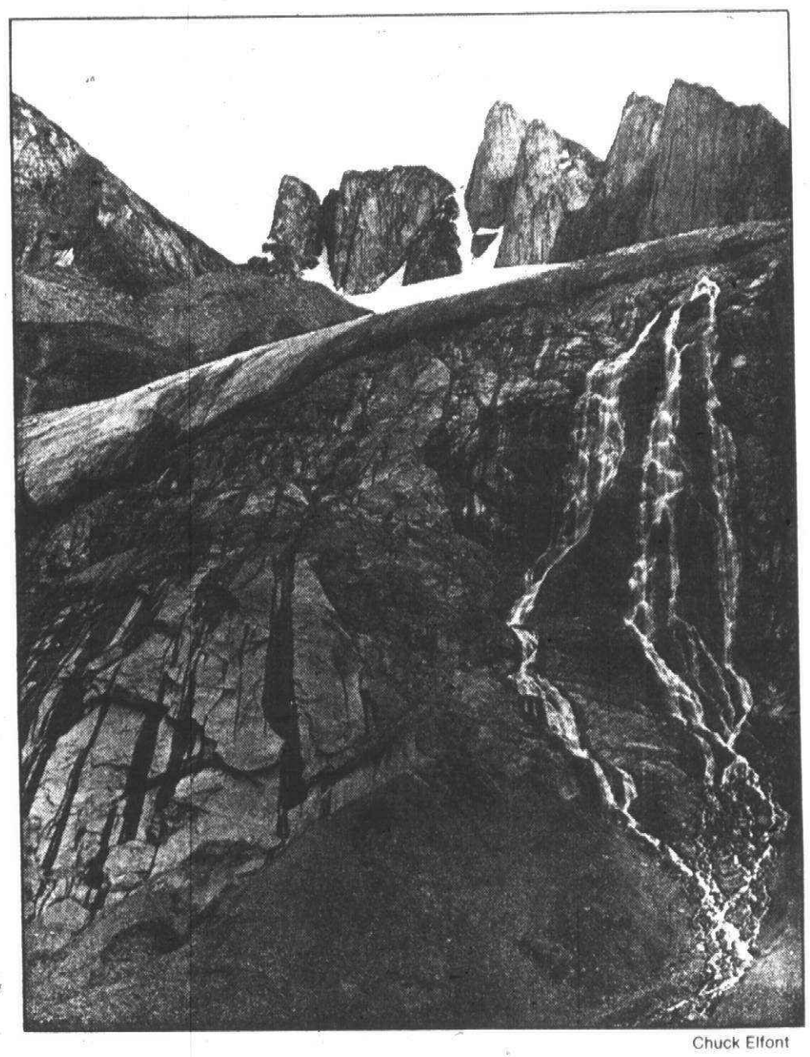

I went to sleep dreaming that perhaps I had found the pot at the end of the rainbow 1981, Monte Nagler. Next week, his adventures in the Arctic will conclude. Barry Franklin's fitness column will resume Oct. 8.

Insects pack flowers

Larval plant hoppers are members of a group of insects that deceive en masse rather than individually. Botanists in East Africa have picked plants adorned with the adult insects and have been startled to see the "flowers" fly away, reports National Geographic.

Teacher trusts now generation

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

"Have no fear for the future of our country. It will be in good hands with the generation now growing up."

That's the belief of Carol Welsh, a fifth-grade teacher at Allen School, speaking of her classes during the luncheon period.

Looked upon as one of the most highly regarded teachers in the Plymouth-Canton school district, she has been working with youth for 11 years and admits that she has loved every moment of it.

This generation is brighter than the generations we knew, according to Mrs. Welsh. Not only that, they are able to express themselves and more eager to learn than some of the classes of the past.

Mrs. Welsh is the mother of five children and has had the experience of two separate stints of teaching the lower grade classes.

"After I left the University of Detroit, where I earned my master's in reading, " Mrs. Welsh said, "I taught school for a time. Then I left the classroom to raise a family. After five children, I came back, and my work is just as enjoyable now as it was when I started as a teacher fresh out of colldge."

Most of her teaching time has been spent with the fifth-graders, but now that the sixth grade has been moved back to the elementary school, she has those students, too.

A native of Detroit, she attended Immaculata High School before enrolling at U-D. She and her family live in Livonia. And one of her daughters now is seeking a teaching job.

Most of her success thus far, she says, is due to her great love for children. And Tom Workman, Allen School principal rates her as one of the rare instructors who gets involved with the students.

"I love each of them," she said, "and we get along fine. Of course, I think highly of the Plymouth-Canton school system, and that also helps when you get down to the real task of teaching these young children.

"Their eagerness to learn helps a great deal, and they are inquisitive. They want to know and are eager to learn. That helps, too."

Mrs. Welsh also gets a high rating from John Hoben, the superintendent of schools, who claims she is one of the most involved teachers with her students that it has been his pleasure to see during his career.

So when Mrs. Welsh says there need be no fear for the future of the country, she also speaks from long experience in working with the fifth- and sixth-grade students.

from our readers

Many, many empty promises

To the editor:

A few months ago, your newspaper was asking readers why they did or did not shop locally. I did not respond at that time, but now feel that possibly our experience will help other people and possibly local businesses too.

It has been almost two years ago that we purchased a considerable amount of furniture from a local furniture store. The owner was friendly and polite, we felt we were dealing with a company we could trust, and we were pleased to have found such a store in our community.

When the furniture arrived, however, there was a thread pulled in the arm of the chairs. Promises by the owner of the store to come and sew this thread were never kept to this day. When our tables arrived that we had special ordered (and waited four months for), the drawers were not made correctly.

We took the drawers to the store and explained the problem, the owner did not choose to recognize there WAS a problem. After some discussion, a representative of the store promised us new drawers, but we were told it would take another four to six months to get them.

We waited patiently another six months and finally went in to inquire about where our drawers were. We were told by the owner there would be NO new drawers, but that he would arrange for the factory representative to come see our tables the next time he was in the area.

Another empty promise. Needless to say when you pay a top price for something you expect it to be top quality. Our tables were not. We contacted the Better Business Bureau, but the furniture store elected to ignore them also.

This store is now going out of business, which leads me to believe they must have treated other customers as shabbily as they treated us. I think it is regrettable when stores close because the economy is bad and there is no business. This isn't good for any of us.

However, when a business does not service their customers, going out of business is no more than they deserve.

I must also say that a friend who bought furniture from a major department store about the same time simply had to make a note on the delivery slip that there was a problem, and the store called her to arrange a time to go to her home and make the necessary repairs.

If small businesses want to build a good reputation and keep it, they should make service and honesty their top priority, not a lot of empty promises.

2 helped MD raise money

To the editor:

Thank you to everyone who participated in the 1981 Riverside Arena Skate-A-Thon to defeat muscular dystrophy.

More than $11,800 was raised. Two youngsters from Plymouth deserve special recognition — Sharlene Climie, who collected $797, and Sheila Climie, who collected $785, in the fight against this muscle crippling disease.

Also the Muscular Dystrophy Association would like to acknowledge the involvement of merchants in the Plymouth-Canton community for their donations in support of all M.D.A. special events in 1981.

Model of the S.S. Michigan (1842) set inside an electric light bulb.

Wood carver's best work now on display in museum

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

"Those boats represent the happiest years of my life."

These words were spoken recently by Charles Langell, the Canton woodcarver as he talked about the eight hand-carved models of some of the greatest boats that ever sailed the Great Lakes.

The carvings of the boats are now on display at the Plymouth Historical Museum on Main Street at Church.

A native of Marine City on the St. Clair River where he had a chance to watch the big freighters and the old-time excursion boats, Langell became a master at the art of duplicating them.

He got his first-hand knowledge of the craft when he went to work at age 14 as a crew member of one of the freighters. And now, at age 73, Langell has never lost interest in them.

To keep this interest alive, he spends many hours in his shope at home carving models of his favorites.

IN THE GROUP now on display in the historical museum are two of his favorites.

The Sunbeam New Bedford is a whaler which depicts just how whales were caught and processed.

The Tashmoo was a famous excursion boat which once plied the waters of Lake St. Clair from Detroit to Tashmoo Park on Harsen's Island.

He can't begin to tell you the number of manhours he has spent in carving the models, but he smilingly tells you that it was years "if I had kept track of them."

Plans for his model of the Tashmoo were taken from a postcard because he had no other pictures available. It was his knowledge of the boat he had ridden on many times which allowed him to make the model which is a reproduction to the most minute detail.

While he spent most of his life carving the parts for these handcraft models, Langell didn't really get serious until he retired from all other work 10 years ago.

WHILE DISCUSSING his hobby, Langell recalls his first model:

"It was about the time that Gar Wood was racing his Miss Americas and insasmuch as he did most of his trial runs on the St. Clair River, I had a good chance to study the design.

"So I made a model and powered it with an old Victor talking machine motor. It wasn't much on speed but it sure looked like the Miss America that later became famous."

With this start he moved onto greater things and among his choice models is the Langell — a freighter which is recalled as the first to travel the St. Lawrence Seaway.

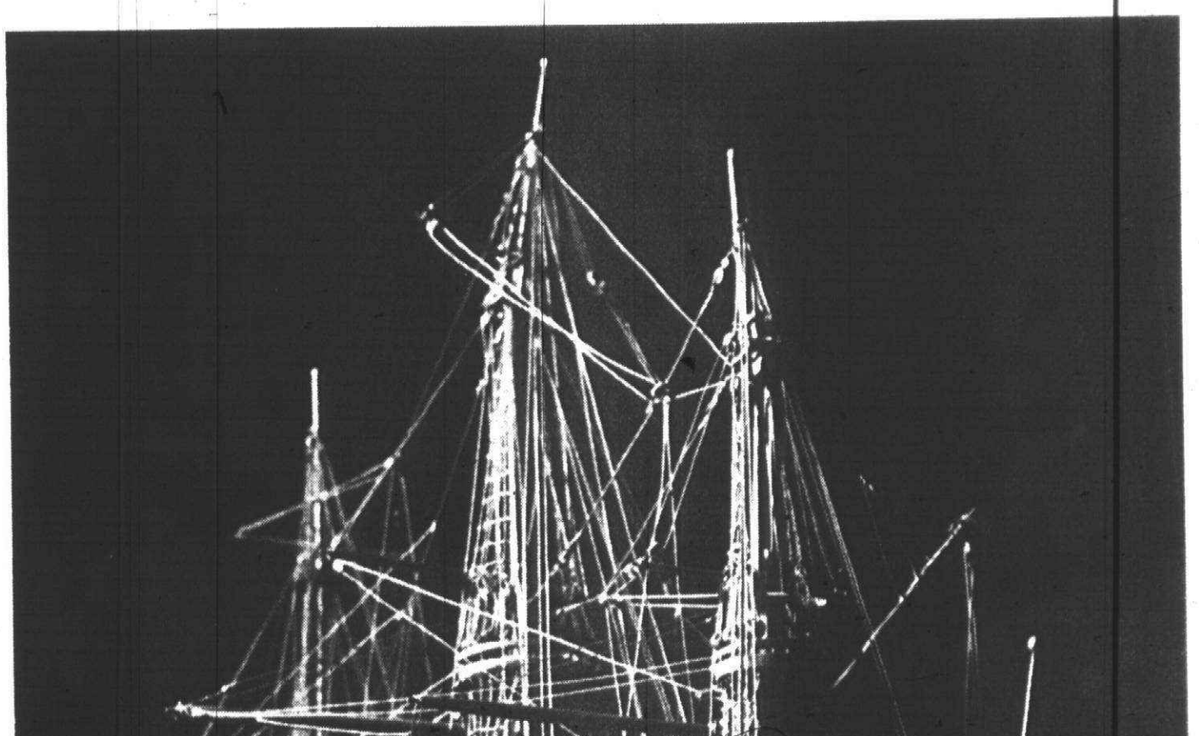

Among his other pride-evoking models is the famed Mayflower model in the lobby of the Mayflower Hotel. He sent to England for the plans and then used almost a year to reduce them to working plans of his own. And each strip of the deck is handcarved rather than being just one piece.

The display in the museum marks the first time that Langell has placed more than one boat on exhibit. But he now is hoping that people who visit the museum will have a greater knowledge and pride in the freighters and other boats which ply the water of the Great Lakes.

One of his regrets as he looks over his handiwork is that the Tashmoo, which sank at Amherstberg in the Detroit River, still is not running the excursion route to Harsen's Island.

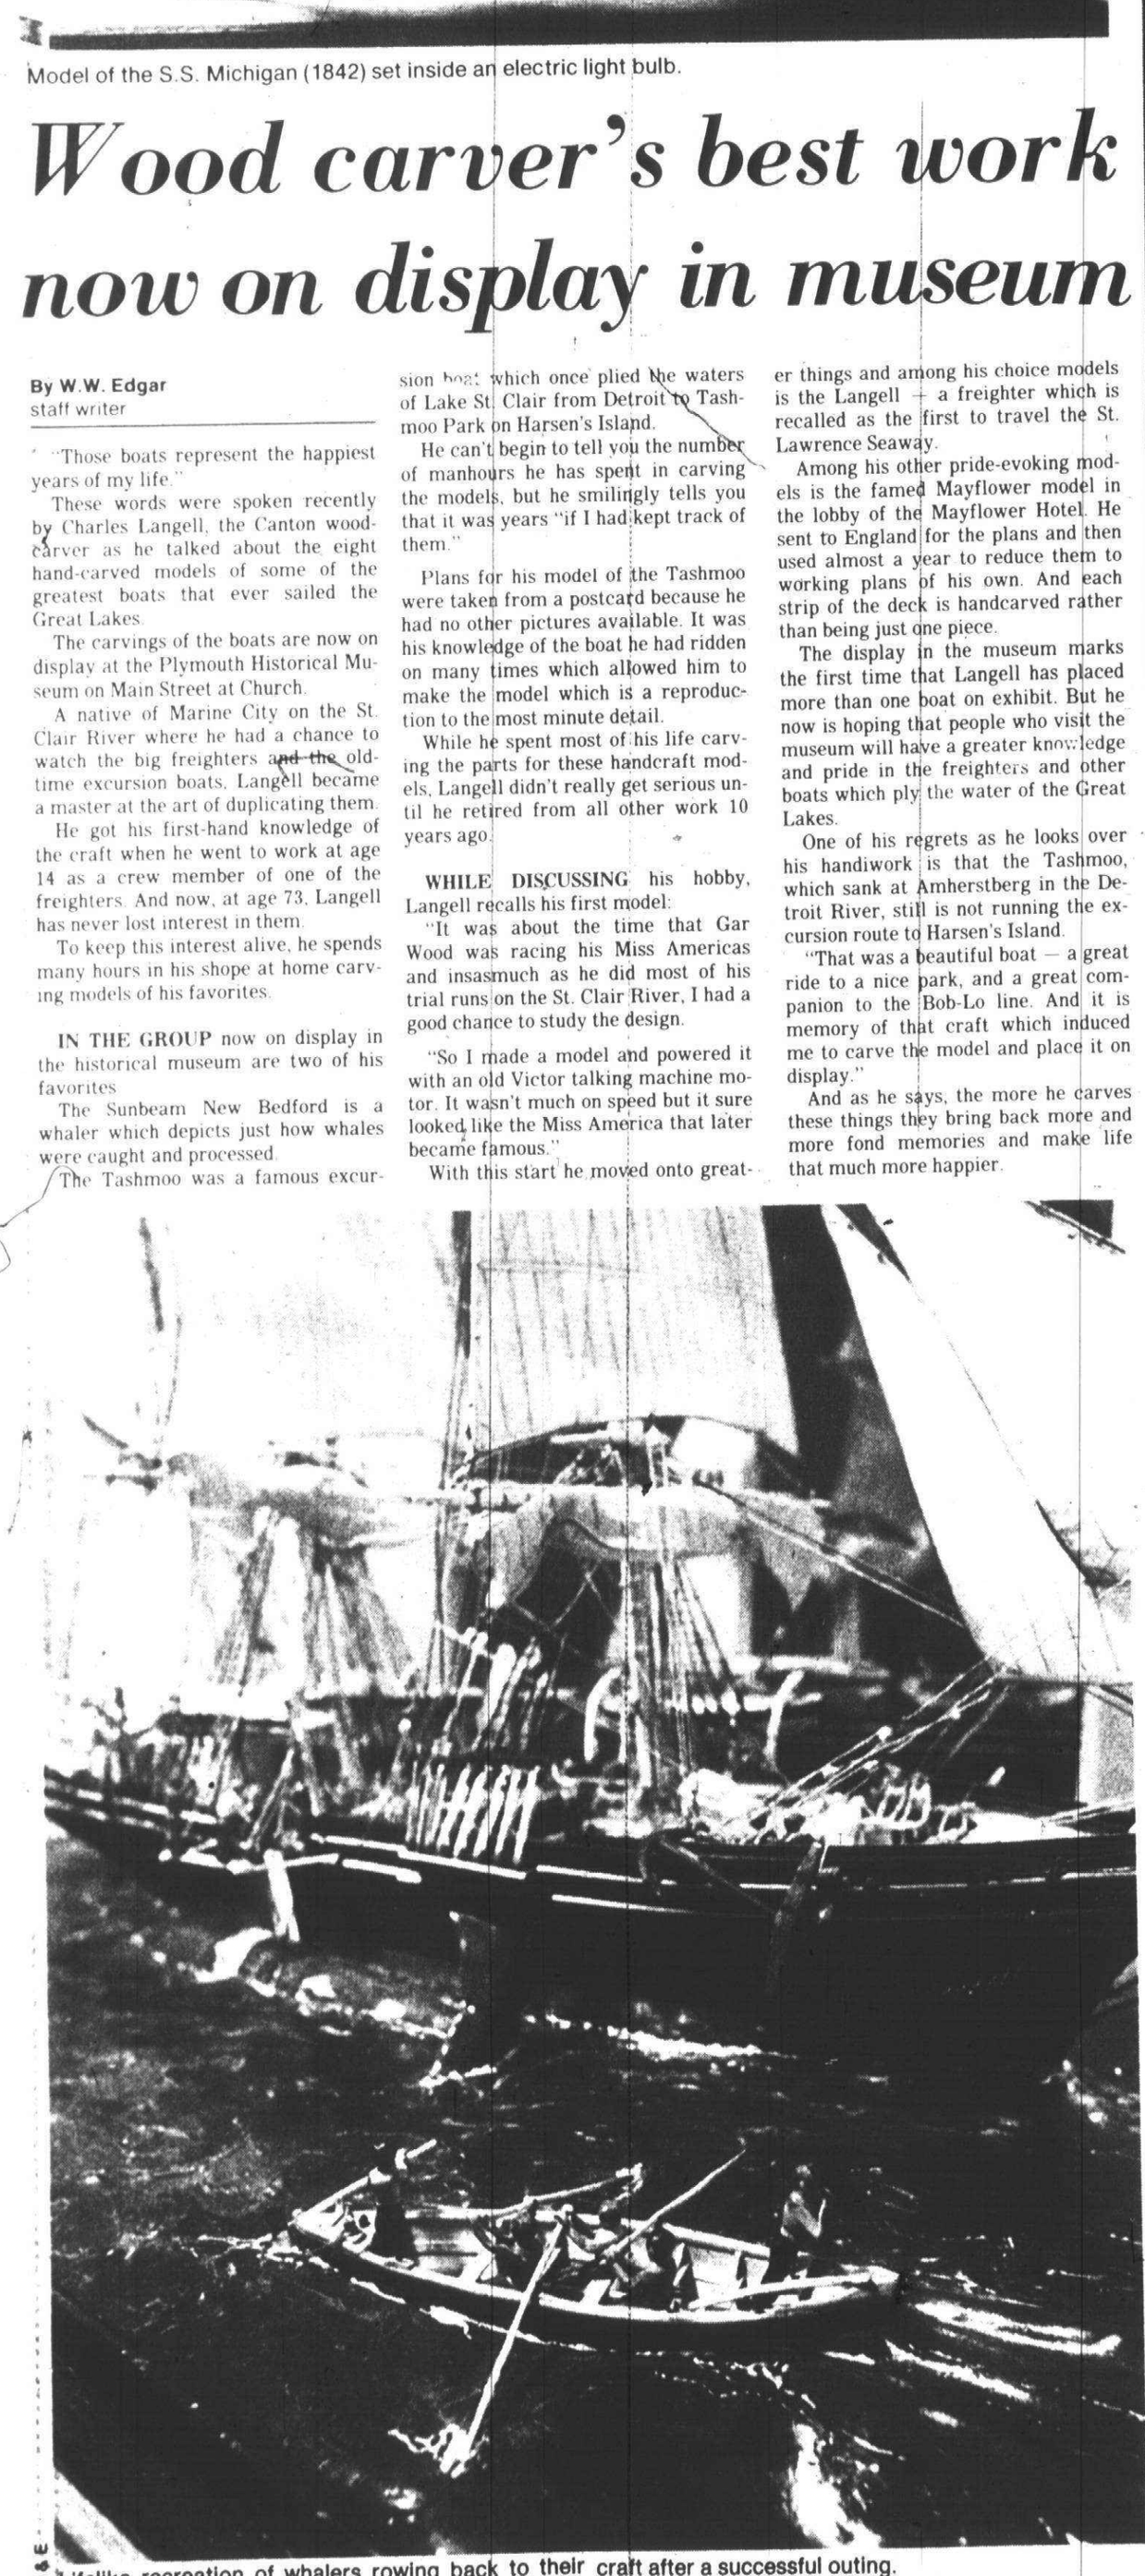

"That was a beautiful boat — a great ride to a nice park, and a great companion to the Bob-Lo line. And it is memory of that craft which induced me to carve the model and place it on display."

And as he says, the more he carves these things they bring back more and more fond memories and make life that much more happier.

Canton bids farewell to St. John Neumann deacon

Canton Chatter

By KATHY FREECE 981-2027

There is a soft-spoken, gentle man who will be leaving our community very soon and he will be dearly missed.

Carl Brown was the deacon at St. John Neumann Church for the past five years. One of his first major undertakings was the working with the building committee and the architects on the right design for the people in Canton.

His main duties at this parish were to serve Father Edward Baldwin and the 1,300 families by administering baptisms, funeral rites, visiting the sick and performing the ceremony at marriages. All of these activities happened in his spare time because his full-time job was at the Ford Motor Co.'s world headquarters in Dearborn where he was a labor economist.

There is a definite need for men like Carl who have a deep respect for the christian community in which we live. Family and marriage counseling were one of his greatest pleasurers. He is a family man with four children and can relate to the complexity of daily problems. How did he find time to be with his own family with a schedule as hectic as the one he had? His wife Marilyn was in total support of his desire to fulfill his religious convictions, the need to serve the people. The men in this position are not paid, every hour spent at the church is volunteered.

Carl was in the first graduating class of deacons for the archdiocese of Detroit. His training was through night school, three times a week for two years at Sacred Heart Seminary. It was back in the 12 century that the church had stoppped the use of deacons for serving the public. In 1970 this position was re-instated for the benefit of everyone.

St. Fabian's of Farmington is the lucky community where Carl will dedicate his efforts during the next five years. The Hospice at Providence Hospital, which serves terminally ill patients, will be one of the many places that Carl will be visiting aalong with Sunday duty at Mt. Carmel Hospital.

Marilyn and daughter Mary Ann own and operate the "All by Hand" shop in Forest Place in downtown Plymouth. They are a very busy family and spend their time off sharing precious hours as a family.

There was a community reception for Carl this past Sunday and you can imagine the gestures of thanks that were shared that day. All churches need input from their laity to go forward and to serve.

A SPECIAL THANKS should go out to Shirley Spaniel at our board of education office in super dedication to the children that have certain problems healthwise, and cannot walk to school.

Plenty of cases have cropped up due to many bus routes being dropped. We always can hear complaints about the administration but this time a sincere thank-you is extended.

Mike Gouin had the total support of homeowners at the recent meeting in Canton Township Hall for the future recreation center. Many ideas were aired by different organizations and subdivisions who were represented. I am sure we will be hearing more in future months about this proposed necessity to our area.

Jan and Frank Cipolla donated several hundred ears of corn and a load of watermelon to the people of St. John Neumann parish for their picnic. This is the second year in a row that Jan and Frank were the backbone of the affair. The crowd was swarming with delight at Plymouth Township park a few weeks ago on a sunny Sunday afternoon. There were games for young and old, free balloons for all the children and, believe it or not — 1,100 hot dogs were consumed in three hours.

There was a great deal of organization behind the scenes for several weeks prior to the event. Mike Zelleji brought in a few bales of straw because he thought that the children would enjoy a coin hunt. The most fun was just watching the children play in the large mound. Diane and Charlie Jaskowski, Phil and Jean LaJoy, Don and Nancy Sheridan, Dominic and Judy Cirino and Joan Bongard were all on the busy committees that made the day a complete success.

My name was drawn to serve as a juror in Plymouth. It turns out that it was the first jury to serve in the new 35th District courtroom.

Symphony opening nears

Michigan composer's work to premiere

The Plymouth Symphony kicks off its 36th season in October with a dazzling series of performances, ranging from an opera gala to guest instrumentals, vocal soloists and a college choir.

And, the season will mark the premiere of a new symphony by a Michigan composer.

All of the Sunday concerts will be held at 4 p.m. in the Plymouth Salem High School auditorium at Joy and Canton Center roads.

Besides the six regular concerts, the Plymouth Symphony Society has scheduled two extra musical events — a Young People's Concert entitled "The Magic of Music" and a pop concert featuring the music of George Gershwin.

Johan Van Der Merwe, University of Michigan staff member, will be returning as conductor for the second season. Van Der Merwe headed orchestras in South Africa and Europe before joining the U-M staff.

Johan Van Der Merwe

THE 1981-82 SEASON'S first regular concert will be Sunday, Oct. 18. It is programmed as an opera gala. Guest soloists will appear with the orchestra in presenting vocal highlights from Puccini's "Manon Lescaut," Wagner's "Tannhauser" and "Lohengrin," Verdi's "Rigoletto," Pizet's "Carmen" and Cilea's "L'Arlesienne."

The guest performers will be: Roma Riddell, soprano; Edward Kingins, tenor; Steven Henrikson, baritone; and Elsie Inselman, mezzo-soprano.

Pianist Frances Renzi, who is on the musical faculty at the University of Toledo and a frequent performerin this area, will be the guest artist with the symphony Sunday, Nov. 15, in a concert entitled "Music from France." Berlioz, Ravel and Franck compositions will comprise the program.

The Christmas concert on Dec. 13 will have the orchestra, guest vocalists and the Rackham Symphony Choir blending talents to present Berlioz' L'Enfance du Christ (The Childhood of Christ). Soloists will be Rosemary Russell, mezzo-soprano; John McCollum, tenor; Warren Jaworski, bass baritone; and Harlan Jennings, baritone.

THE SYMPHONY and its members will be featured at the first concert in 1982, on Sunday, Feb. 7.

The program will include Concerto for Two Flutes in D Minor (Doppler), with Glennis Stout and Allen Warner as featured artists; Sinfonia Concertante (Mozart), presenting Kristy Meretta, Oboe; John Mohler, clarinet; Jennifer Kelley, bassoon; and Louis Stout, French horn; Les Preludes (Liszt), and concluding with Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet."

Sunday, March 14, will be "An Afternoon of Beethoven," the program consisting of Coriolan Overture, Opus 62; Concerto for Violin, Opus 61, in D Major, featuring violinist Jacob Krachmalnick; and Symphony No. 3, Opus 55 in E Major.

The six-concert regular season will conclude with a double musical treat on Sunday April 25. Beethoven's Mass in C Major, Opus 56 will be sung by the Schoolcraft College, with Dr. Marilyn Jones, director of the choir, as guest conductor.

The orchestra will offer a premiere performance of a new work by Robert W. Jones of Detroit, "A Plymouth Symphony." Dr. Jones is well known in this area as a musician and composer, and his symphony will be dedicated during the concert to the late Oliver Wagner, of Plymouth, who was a member of the Symphony Society's board of directors.

Christmas concert tickets for two special programs will be available Dec. 13 and will cost $1. The program, presented twice at 2:30 and 4 p.m., will include a magic show, special visual effects and pianist Pauline Martin.

Pianist Ruth Burczyk will be the guest artist at the second and final non-season presentation, Saturday, May 8.

Tickets for all concerts will be available at the door.

Single and season concert ticket sales will be in Plymouth at Beitner Jewelry on Ann Arbor Trail, Heide's Flowers on Ann Arbor Trail, and Plymouth Book World on Forest Place.

Tickets also will be available in Canton at Arnoldt Williams Music on Canton Center Road, and in Northville at Four Seasons Flowers on E. Main Street.

Regular season single concert tickets are $5 for adults and $2.50 for senior citizens and full-time college students. Students 12th grade and under will be admitted free.

Plymouth Symphony membership information may be obtained by writing Plymouth Symphony Society, P.O. Box 467, Plymouth, or by calling Mrs. Lutey at 455-4023 or Barbara King at 453-8356.

ERA rally is Sunday

Hundreds of Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) supporters from the tri-county area will assemble at noon on Sunday on Belle Isle in a show of unity for their cause.

Supporters will travel around the island on foot, roller skates, bicycles and skateboards in one final demonstration for the cause to make the ERA part of the U.S. Constitution.

The National Organization for Women (NOW) has been sponsoring ERA walk-a-thons, like the one at Belle Isle, as fund-raisers since the summer of 1976. One final effort towards ratification of the ERA was launched nationwide by national president Ellie Smeal in June. Since then, hundreds of rallies have been held in more than 46 states.

Helping to plan the event and expected to attend the Move-a-thon are Irene and Kay Duffey and Cathy Boston, all of Plymouth, who belong to the Northwest Wayne County chapter of NOW.

Proceeds from the Belle Isle move-a-thon will be used for ratification efforts in six unratified states where the ERA amendment stands a good chance of passage before the June 30, 1982, deadline.

Program participants and their families will picnic following the formal program scheduled for 2:30 p.m. The public is encouraged to attend. Those unable to attend may send their checks and pledges by mail to ERA/NOW, Box 37, Mount Clemens, Mich 48043.

Spencer-Vojcek

Kimberly Annette Vojcek and Jeffrey Lee Spencer were married July 24 in Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church with the Rev. Kenneth MacKinnon officiating. The bride is the daughter of Victor and Moni Vojcek of Napier Road, Plymouth. The bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Chris Stone of Canton Township and Gary Spencer of Saginaw.

Shelly Lynne Coon of Ann Arbor was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Karen Gresock and Judy Signorelli, both of Plymouth. Doug Spencer, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Groomsmen were Dave Skone and Mike Skone, both of Canton. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Jeffrey and Rodger Vojcek.

Following a wedding reception in the Mayflower Meeting House, the couple left for Massachusetts, where he is stationed with the U.S. Army.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of Plymouth Salem High School.

Roberts-Parker

Lynn A. Parker of Northville became the bride of Bernard E. Roberts III of Madison Heights during a Sept. 19 ceremony that took place at St. James Episcopal Church of Birmingham.

The former Miss Parker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Parker, former Birmingham residents now living in Northville. Roberts is the son of Mrs. Lois Roberts of Madison Heights.

The bride is a graduate of Oakland University and the University of Michigan graduate school of business administration. She is employed as a senior financial analyst by the White Motor Corporation.

Roberts holds a degree from Oakland University and is employed as an accountant by the Ford Motor Company.

The couple will make their home in Northville.

● GRACE MORAVIAN

The Rev. Raymond Troutman will be installed as pastor of Grace Moravian Church in Westland in Sunday services with Donald Golden of Hope, Ind., officiating. Troutman is the former pastor of Redeemer Moravian Church in Winter Springs, Fla.

A native of Winston-Salem, N.C., the new pastor attended Moravian College, graduating in 1950. He received a degree from the Moravian Theological Seminary in Bethlehem, Pa., in 1953. He was ordained a deacon in the Moravian ministry in 1952 and was consecrated a presbyter, the second order of the Moravian ministry, in 1959.

He has served in various parishes in the southern and northern provinces of the Moravian Church.

He and his wife, Marion, have three grown sons, Craig, Randal and Mark.

● FAITH COMMUNITY

The Rev. Darryl Bell, founding pastor of Faith Community Church, 46001 Warren, Canton, has been named to start another church for the Moravian denomination in the city of Maple Grove in suburban Minneapolis. Bell came to Canton in the summer of 1977 to start the Faith congregation. He worked to pull together a nucleus of people who began worship services in Pioneer school.

Other programs were added, and a building was planned. The recently opened facility on Warren is now the church's base of operations.

"It is hard to leave Canton," Bell said, "because we learned a lot and invested a lot of ourselves here. We've come to appreciate the community and have gotten to know a lot of wonderful people. However, we believe there is always joy in obeying God's call, whatever that may be."

Bell, a native of Michigan, received his bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan in 1970. He attended Wheaton College graduate school and completed his theological degree at Luther Theological Seminary in St. Paul, Minn., in 1974.

He and his wife, Jacquelyn, have two sons, Bryce, 7, and David, 4.

● ST. PAUL EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN

Th Rev. Gary Richmond of Lake Orion will be guest speaker at the annual mission festival of St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church, 17810 Farmington, Livonia. He will speak at the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services. Senior and junior choirs led by Vera Janes and Ron Brutlag will perform. The Rev. Winfred Koelpin, pastor, will serve as liturgist. Last year St. Paul contributed $36,000 to missions of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod. A potluck dinner will follow the second service.

● ROSEDALE GARDENS UNITED PRESBYTERIAN

Dr. James House of the Wayne County Intermediate School District will discuss job burnout during an evening program Wednesday, Sept. 30, in Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church, Hubbard at W. Chicago, Livonia.

Dr. June Sears, Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service, will talk about stress, and Richard Tomalty, counselor at Schoolcraft College, will speak on the stress of job and career choice.

A potluck supper at 6:15 p.m. will launch the evening's activities, which also will include a program on peacemaking for children in grades 1-8. Nursery care will be available for younger children.

The church plans a rummage sale from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday, Sept. 25.

● ST. EDITH CATHOLIC

"We Gather, We Grow" is the title of a workshop that will start a day of celebration, fun and praise on Saturday, Sept. 26, at St. Edith Catholic Church, 15089 Newburgh, Livonia. It will be led by Ed Gutfriend, liturgical folksinger, writer and prayer leader.

To run from noon to 3 p.m., the workshop will take a close look at the liturgy and discover ways in which everyone can get more from it and contribute more to it. Gutfriend will lead singing in a family-style liturgy at 6 p.m.

Following the liturgy will be a pizza party and a musical fest, with Gutfriend appearing in concert at 8 p.m.

Cost of the workshop is $5. The concert admission will be $2 for adults and 50 cents for children. For further details, contact Elaine Adkins at 476-8870.

● KIRK OF OUR SAVIOR

More than 160 members of Kirk of Our Savior United Presbyterian, 36660 Cherry Hill, Westland, will become saddlebag-carrying trail bosses and route riders within the next few weeks in a fund-raising campaign for the church. Each saddlebag will contain the names of 10 church families on the run route. A family fills in a card with an estimate of what it can give to the church in the coming year. It is sealed in an envelope, which is inserted in the saddlebag. The bag is then hand-carried to another family on the route.

According to the Rev. James LeDuc, the concept behind the program is teamwork.

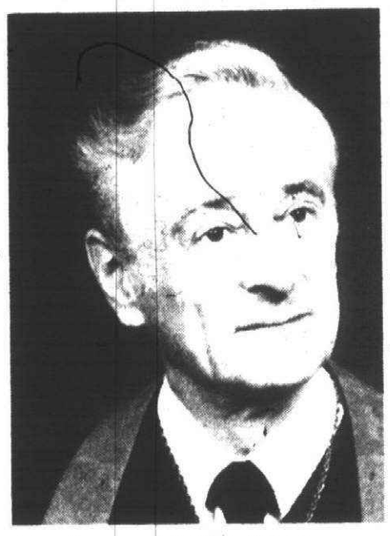

● PLYMOUTH UNITED METHODIST

The fall schedule of activities at First United Methodist Church of Plymouth is designed to provide new learning experiences for children and opportunities for adult Christian education. The first hour of worship is at 9:15 a.m., at which time children of nursery age through 4 will attend church school. Children of kindergarten age through fifth grade will worship in the sanctuary with their families until after the children's sermon, at which time they will start classes. Those from sixth to 12th grade will worship the complete hour.

The fellowship hour at 10:15 a.m. will include adult classes and children's music, arts and crafts. Worship and children's church will be at 11:15 a.m.

Recognition service honors Rev. Koeninger

The Rev. Leonard J. Koeninger, completing 35 years in the ministry, will be honored with a service of recognition and thanksgiving at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran Church of Plymouth.

Rev. Leonard J. Koeninger

The guest sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Kurt Koeplin of Milwaukee, Wis., and the Rev. Carl Otto of South Lyon will assist as the liturgist.

Following the service, a dinner will be held in honor of Rev. Koeninger and his wife Margaret. At this potluck meal coordinated by the Ladies' Aid, gifts of appreciation from the congregation will be presented.

Born on July 16, 1920 in Raymond, S.D., Rev. Koeninger attended Northwestern College in Watertown, Wis. After graduating in 1942 he completed his training at the Lutheran Seminary in Mequon, Wis. and served one year as an assistant instructor at Michigan Lutheran Seminary in Saginaw.

He received ordination and installation in July 1946, after which he served in Emanuel Lutheran Church in Lansing until his call in 1968 to St. Peter of Plymouth. While in Lansing he was instrumental in forming the Lutheran Collegians on the Michigan State University campus.

Along with his local duties, Pastor Koeninger currently serves the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod as vice chairman on the Board for World Missions and on the executive committee for Southeast Asian Missions.

Rev. Koeninger and his wife have one daughter, Kristine Wolfe of Livonia and a granddaughter Katie. Their son Philip, also a clergyman, died in 1975.

Volunteers sought by Y

Two programs need volunteers at the YWCA of Western Wayne County, 26279 Michigan, Inkster. One involves working with the Wayne County Detention Annex in Westland, the other involves time spent at the Westland Women's Employment Center, located in the Y building.

A variety of talents are needed in the program for the female inmates at the detention annex. Volunteers could have guidance and counseling training or experience in social work or teaching. Women who can teach knitting, crocheting or sewing are also needed, as are those who can tutor in English or math.

Women can also be helpful by spending their time talking with the inmates.

The employment center is looking for volunteers willing to contact employers, talk to clients and do such office work as filing, typing and mailing. Volunteers who have some empathy training and peer counseling could also use this training.

For information about the annex program call Leslie Frederick at 561-4110. For facts on counsel the center call Veardean Watson at the same number.

St. Edith hosts class on stress

Janet Fulgenzi will speak at a workshop on stress from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 24, in St. Edith Catholic Church, 15089 Newburgh, Livonia. Sponsored by the St. Edith Family Life Committee, the class will continue on Oct. 1 and 8.

Cost of the three classes is $2.50. Register by calling Barbara Petroff at 464-7182.

Rev. Lloyd Buss

Dialogue between faiths is crucial now

It's been happening for a long time. For a very long time. But that can't excuse it. It can only show how deeply rooted sectarian loyalty can be and how easily it can turn into intolerance.

It's not the phenomenon of religion itself that creates it, but in all recorded history, religion has been included as a distinctive feature separating one group from the other, most frequently with violent results.

The Bible speaks about the followers of Yahweh in contest with the priests of Baal, and the followers of the way persecuted by the religious authorities. The passage of time has only slightly changed that.

Christianity and Judaism have experienced varying degrees of relationships that range from genocide to joint prayer services. Islam and Christianity have always maintained an uneasy alliance in the best of times and open conflict in in the worst of times.

Christianity and Oriental religions may not engage in open conflict, but very little has ever been propsed for the common witness of these religions, and even less has ever been composed.

For 20th century Americans, raised in the tolerance of civil religion, the events in Northern Ireland are difficult to understand. Having Roman Catholics square off against Protestants and vice versa is foreign to our experience of having prayer breakfasts, inaugural prayers and Senate chaplains meeting our religious needs without regard for denomination or church body.

But that is also part of our problem.

By ignoring the differences in religious faiths and religious bodies, we have failed to perceive the distincive features of faith and have failed to grow in our understanding of religion to that level where one person's religious faith does not require the other person's sectarian loyalty.

By assuming that the American religious scene can only develop along the general lines created in the past, we are vulnerable to serious upheavals in days to come.

The shrinking of world events to daily news items makes us aware of religious life in other countries. The new role of Islam in public life surprises us and frightens us. Our national experience with Iran during the past few years has been made more difficult by our almost total lack of understanding and regard for their religious faith.

Whatever we may not know about religions, or whatever elitist ideas we may have about our own, can be easily discerned in open dialogue with others. The process to a mutuality that allows freedom and space can then begin.

Dialogue with others should not be legislated by governmental decree. This is an opportunity the religious community should exercise on its own initiative.

Groups of people of different faiths sharing rooted values of faith and love are not likely to press nuclear buttons. At least, not as long as the dialogue has integrity and commitment ot understanding. That is what make it an option more urgent with each passing day.

bazaars

Kicking off the fall season of bazaars will be an event sponsored by the Confraternity of Christian Mothers of St. Theodore Catholic Church, 8200 Wayne Road, Westland. It will be held in the church from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 3.

More than 50 creative artists and crafters will display their work. Refreshments and a bake sale are also part of the day-long activities.

The bazaars provide an early nudge that Christmas is about three months away and they give shoppers a chance stock up early on gifts.

Riverside Park Church of God, 11771 Newburgh at Plymouth in Livonia, has already scheduled its third annual Christmas bazaar on Oct. 16 and 17. A spaghetti dinner is scheduled on Friday night. Dealers who may be interested in displaying their wares may contact Betty Jayska at 722-7132.

The St. Aidan's Women's Guild has already booked its complement of exhibitors of handmade items for its sale from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 16 in the church at Six Mile and Farmington, Livonia.

However, the women of Hope Lutheran Church, 3640 Madison, Dearborn continue to search for artisans for their boutique from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 7 in the church.

About 30 exhibitors have already arranged to be on hand with such items as tole painting, hand-painted porcelain, pictures made of watch parts, hand-carved wood duck decoys and birds and dolls and quilts.

Potential exhibitors may call Janet Robinson at 561-2225 before Oct. 20. Cost of a table is $17.50.

"I'm No Angel" (1933), 12:25 Friday night on Ch. 50. Originally 87 minutes.

During the waning days of the Hoover Administration and before FDR could give the nation an alphabet-studded series of reform measures, the American film industry sated itself in its most decadent and indulgent period. Crawford, Cagney and Robinson were selling sex and violence and making some very good films in the process ("Rain," "Public Enemy," "Little Caesar").

Mae West had just finished "She Done Him Wrong" and was about to embark on "It Ain't No Sin" when democratic reform swept its way through Hollywood. The so-called Legion of Decency was formed and given authority to censor film scripts that didn't meet the standards set down in its "Production Code." "It Ain't No Sin" was one of the first casualities.

Renamed "I'm No Angel," Mae West's thrid film still offers its share of laughs, but one wonders how funny it could have been were it not for the decent-minded citizens who chopped it. Gary Grant also stars. Rating: $2.75.

"Invasion of the Body Snatchers" (1978), 8 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 115 minutes.

WHAT'S IT WORTH?
A ratings guide to the movies

Bad	$1
Fair	$2
Good	$3
Excellent	$4

You may well ask why anyone would want to remake one of the best, most psychologically compelling horror films ever made, and it would be a very good question.

For reasons unknown, director Phil Kaufman has done just that. He has taken director Don Siegel's 1956 neo-classic and turned it into a piece of pop-psychology pulp for the '70s.

True, the special effects are better and the sets reflect a bigger budget, but Siegel's nicely understated, well-crafted example of film noir at its best prevails.

Donald Sutherland, Brooke Adams and Leonard Nimoy do the best they can with a script that wanders aimlessly and a picture that shouldn't have been made. Rating: 99 cents.

"The Cocoanuts" (1929), 12:25 Wednesday night on Ch. 50. Originally 96 minutes.

It's hard to believe that the Marx Brothers' first film is 52 years old, and that it's been 56 years since the brothers first performed "The Cocoanuts" on the New York stage. So much of the dialogue sounds as fresh and as funny as the last Woody Allen or Neil Simon comedy.

George S. Kaufman wrote the original play and long-time collaborator Morrie Ryskind contributed to the filmscript. Of couarse the brothers themselves were responsible for much of the unscripted funny business — Harpo and Chico tearing through Groucho's mail, Groucho and Chico improvising the "viaduct/why a duck?" routine.

Unfortunately the cinematorgraphy of the day wasn't nearly as sophisticated as the wit of Kaufman or the Marxes. The camera rearely moves in this early talkie, instead opting to frame the performers, who constantly walk in and out of the frame as if they were on a stage.

Nonethless, the Marx Brothers are the Marx Brothers. And here's a rare chance to see them at their vintage best. Rating: $3.10

Dramatic soprano gives recital

The Schoolcraft College Music Department will present dramatic soprano Mary Katharine Morgan in an opera recital at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Ms. Morgan will perform works by Brahms, Sinding, Faure and Poulec, various English songs and a contemporary Canadian composition written for her by Tina McElry, a graduate of the University of Windsor.

She will be accompanied by pianist Thomas A. Maurice of Windsor, who performs in southeastern Michigan and throughout Canada.

The recital will be Morgan's first performance at Schoolcraft since she was a student there following graduation from Livonia Churchill. Her mother, Harriet C. Morgan, is a biology instructor at the college.

NOW A MASTER'S student at the State Hochschule for Music in Munich, Germany, Morgan holds a bachelor of arts degree in performance from the University of Windsor where she studied under professors Steven Henrikson and Ernst Haefliger.

In addition to winning scholarships and competitions, she has performed in a variety of productions throughout Canada, Germany, Switzerland and the United States.

Innovative band bringing offbeat sound from England

By Nick Charles
special writer

Imagine this: A beat strong and loud enough that you can feel it in your chest, synthesized horns that would bring any snake dancing up from its pit, all funked up with a rhythm guitar and a plucking bass reminiscent of many black groups.

The club is dark, spotlights appear from above as leather-clad legs swirl in a driving beat. Scarved necks sing out a sound that could only be made here on Planet Earth.

This is not a dream but a glimpse of things to come at 9 p.m. Sunday. Nitro will be the club and Duran Duran will be the band. The band, whose name is patterned after the name of the character Major Duran in the film "Barbarella," is one step ahead of the States in unique and innovative music.

The band hails from Birmingham, England, and carries on the Blitz Kids tradition that originated there.

THE GROUP'S debut L.P., "Duran Duran" (Harvest/Capitol Records), contains eight original songs. The songs are long in the fashion of disco tunes and unlike the new wavish two-minute blurts of sound. They contain a very contagious beat created by drummer Roger Taylor (not of Queen).

The Bowie-like backing vocals (yes, Bowie and Ferry are always brought up, but their voices seem to creep into every rebellious English L.P.) are accented with rim shots that move hips like "Girls on Film" move eyes.

On "Careless Memories," the keyboards of Nick Rhodes sound the powerful current of an electronic train rhythmically chugging its way down a deserted track. Assorted images are also created by bassist John Taylor and guitarist Andy Taylor whose Trower-like guitar sound on "Tel Aviv" is caught in the middle of teasing and playyful strings.

At the same time the band gets more melodic with the popish tune, "Is There Anyone Out There?" (not to be confused with Pink Floyd's "Is There Anybody Out There?").

Duran Duran digs up a yet-to-be lived memory of a foggy night crossing bridges. A mysterious stranger pulls up the collar of his trench coat as his shadow falls on the cool rippled water. The moonlight is above as he is "Waiting for the Night Boat."

Producer plans move, taking show to the Coast

When Greg Tatum of Walled Lake leaves Wednesday for California it will be with a new bride, actress/singer Kathy Kay of Livonia, and a new future in show business.

Tatum and Archie Bolanos are co-authors of "Heaven's Advocate,"a world premiere comedy Tatum has produced for TAP, Ltd., in dinner theater at the Wine Tasters in Sterling Heights. Michael Klier is executive producer.

The play will be produced by Tatum in Los Angeles, with his new company, Luuna Theatrical Productions, Inc. Tatum also hopes to turn the play into a TV situation comedy.

While in Los Angeles, Tatum plans to study at the American Film Institute.

His bride has been working out of Los Angeles for the last year and a half and has appeared in TV soap operas including "The Young and the Restless." When she worked in Detroit, she performed in TAP (Theatre of the Arts productions) such as "Two Gentlemen of Verona" and"How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

of the American Backgammon Club

● THE MYSTERIOUS HIT

Linda C. of Southfield asks:

"Isn't it always correct to hit when you have the chance? I was engaged in a game when my opponent (white) rolled a 3-4. He got off the bar with the 4, and with the 3 roll moved the checker from the 1 point to the 4 point instead of hitting me on the 10 point.

I would have hit if I were in his shoes. He deserved to lose the game. Don't you agree?"

The answer to both questions is no.

This particular problem is precarious. You are darned if you hit and darned if you don't. However, the decision to hit in positions similar to this should rest with the individual player based solely on playing habits and skill. Of course, knowledge of the doubling cube also comes into play in this position.

For example, if white grabbed the 4 point for a "safe" forward anchor, black may choose to offer the cube prior to rolling his dice next turn.

The forward anchor is nice, but if this was a money game or a tournament match, white would be hard-pressed to take since he would have to depend on black leaving a single long shot and hitting.

On the other hand, if white chose to hit black on the 10 point with the 3 roll, black could not offer the doubling cube fromn the bar, realizing he may not re-enter or that he may re-enter and not hit. From the bar, black has nine ways to re-enter and hit white or 15 ways to re-enter, hit or slot-hit.

So knowing your opponent's skill level is important for you to make the proper decision on whether to hit.

A conservative player may choose not to hit simply because it appears "loose" or too dangerous, yet the skilled player will recognize the possible repercussions knowing emphatically that it cannot be correct to hit. And the beginner will hit wildly, win the game and relate the victory to skill when all along they never knew what they were doing, or why.

It is certainly never correct to always hit. In backgammon, there are reasons why and why not.

Bible series begins in 3 churches

By Margaret Miller
staff writer

A Bible-study series, written by a woman who long resisted Bible reading as the occupation of "religious fanatics" is beginning this week in United Methodist Churches of Livonia, Plymouth and Northville.

Groups numbering from 20 to 30 women are taking Marilyn Ganskow's New Life series under trained Leadership Mondays in First United Methodist Church of Plymouth, Tuesdays in Newburg UMC of Livonia and Thursdays in First United Methodist of Northville.

All the sessions run 10 weeks from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., and babysitting will be available for all. Workbooks, newly developed for the series, cost $5 and are the only charge.

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Marilyn Ganskow led a workshop on the "New Life" series she has developed.

Mrs. Ganskow, a resident of San Diego, told how the series came into being when she visited this area for a series of coffees and a leadership training session last week.

"I WAS in my early 30s, a typical suburban housewife, and I felt I had my life well planned," she said. "Then someone challenged me to discover God's plan for my life."

The challenge came about 10 years ago, she explained, when she attended a lecture in the Chicago suburb where she then lived. "I would not have gone if I had known there would be a religious speaker," Mrs. Ganskow said."

"This speaker said God has wonderful plans for each life, greater than anyone could imagine. I found myself thinking that if she was right I was missing a great opportunity and really I had nothing to lose."

Her acceptance then of the message of the evangelistic speaker, Melva Wickman, was not described a conversion by Marilyn Ganskow.

"I considered myself a Christian, and I did not feel any different," she added. "I'd call it more a commitment."

However, she said she eventually joined a Bible-study course. "I did it reluctantly and I traveled two suburbs away," she added. "I equated reading the Bible with the activity of a religious fanatic, and I was not that."

"BUT I BEGAN to read God's words and realized they were directions for my living," Mrs. Ganskow noted. "I started testing them in life situations.

"I started, for instance, to consider for the first time the meaning of truth and realized it had to be lived as well as stated. Then I realized what Christ meant when he talked about saving and losing life. I understood that while I was obsessed with myself I was less free, but that when I gave I was more free."

The study led her to believe others would want to learn what she had, and that in turn took her to teaching a study course in the Presbyterian church she attended.

Eventually more groups were formed, and word of the series spread.

"By 1972 we had three or four groups and my pastor was encouraging me to write the materials for use beyond our area," Mrs. Ganskow said.

She also developed about that time a second series based on New Testament books. The first had consisted of topical study, a different kind of situation considered in each lesson.

THE NEW LIFE series came to Michigan with Isobel Gerlach, a student who moved from the Chicago area to Plymouth. She has been serving as lecturer in programs in this area for the past three years.

She will continue in that role in the study programs in Plymouth and Northville, while Gail LaRiche of Plymouth will be leader in the series at Newburg.

The study groups here are open to all women in the area. "Each week we have a self-contained lesson," said Mrs. Gerach, "so it is possible to enter for a couple more weeks." Those interested may call her at 459-2136.

Area women march for ERA

Livonia and Westland women will be among the hundreds of Equal Rights Amendment backers who will gather Sunday at Belle Isle to take "The Final Walk for the ERA."

They are members of the Northwest Wayne County Chapter of the National Organization of Women, whose eight southeast Michigan chapters are sponsoring the event.

The women include Livonia residents Laura Callow, co-chair of Michigan ERAmerica, Mary Jo Durivage and Jean Williams, and Cathy Olivero of Westland.

The formal program will start at 2:30 p.m. and will include a picnic. A move-a-thon will attempt to include the public in circumnavigating Belle Isle on foot, roller skates, bicycles and skateboards.

Proceeds will be used for ERA ratification efforts in the six states which have not ratified the amendment. Three more states must ratify by June 30, 1982 to guarantee that ERA becomes a part of the U.S. Constitution. Those unable to attend the event in person may send checks and pledges by mail to ERA/NOW, Box 27, Mt. Clemens 48043.

MS facts are offered

Family members and friends of persons with multiple sclerosis can learn about the disease in a series of home care programs now under way in Garden City Osteopathic Hospital, 6245 Inkster Road. Hours are from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

The classes are sponsored by the Multiple Sclerosis Society and the Red Cross, and are held in the hospital auditorium on Tuesday evenings. They are free of charge. All that is required is participation for two hours per week.

Guest speakers from the medical profession will discuss such issues as the psychology of MS, home nursing techniques, physical and occupational therapy and aids to daily living.

For more information, contact Margaret Koglin at the society between noon and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday at 342-5810 or 342-5811.

Dancers hold auditions

Anyone who is taking two ballet lessons a week and is 10 or older may attend the audition of the Ypsilanti Area Dancers to be held at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 26 in Randazzo Dance Studio, 722 Lowell, Ypsilanti.

Participants should come dressed to dance.

The golfers were up early Tuesday morning for the 10th annual Plymouth Best Ball tournament at Brae Burn. Twenty-three teams competed for the title won by Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Don't call Ann Arbor Pioneer a fair-weather golf team.

The Pioneers overcame soggy Brae Burn course under sunny skies to win the 10th annual Plymouth Best Ball Tournament. The event drew 23 teams.

Steve Savarino and Dan Smith of Pioneer teamed up to take medalist honors with a 70. The Pioneers' second duo carded a 78 for a team total of 148.

Livonia Stevenson gained second at 151, followed by Dearborn Edsel Ford, 152, and two-time defending champ West Bloomfield, 154.

"I was surprised a 151 stood up for second place," said Stevenson coach Bill Massey.

Stevenson's top scorers were Pat Stayer and Harry Youmans, who combined for a 75. Senior Eric Redheffer, who placed second in the Class A regional two years ago, teamed up with Blaine Anderson for a 76.

"We're a pretty good team," said Massey. "Redheffer and Stayer are consistently under 40. We're 4-0 in dual meets.

West Bloomfield's Matt Jackson and Mark Radom finished second overall with a 71. Ron Vodicka and Geoff Saham, the Lakers' No. 2 duo, carded an 83.

The favored Lakers, despite their fourth-place finish, are having a fine season and sport a 4-0 dual mark.

"We have all of our players back except we lost our captain, Bob Palmer," said West Bloomfield coach Art Link. "Jackson is our captain, and he's been just a super player for us."

REDFORD THURSTON tied for fifth spot with Ypsilanti at 155.

John Proben and Garry Garris combined for a 78. John Pearson and John O'Leary carded a 77.

Joe Mracna, now in his 20th season as Thurston coach, said the course was in good shape after a night-long rain.

"Everything went all right," he said. "I thought we did real well today."

Thurston, second last year in the Northwest Suburban League, has jumped off to a flying start. The Eagles are 4-0 in duals.

Perennial power Plymouth Salem, which hosted the tourney along with Plymouth Canton, continued to slump. The Rocks settled for a 17th-place tie with Dearborn. Nunzio Marino and Greg Trim carded an 80. The Rocks' second team of Pete Mitroff and Rob Ziegler shot an 83.

The team of Paul Phillips and Dave Musch combined for a 77. Tim McManaman and Eric Popp had an 85.

"It was a little windy, and the scores were higher because it was wet," said Canton coach Casey Cavell, "but are kids are real happy with that score of 77."

ROUNDING OUT the field were Livonia Bentley, seventh, 158; Walled Lake Western, eighth, 159; Northville and Ann Arbor Huron, ninth, 160; Livonia Franklin and Bloomfield Hills Lahser, 11th, 161; Canton, Wyandotte, Trenton and Crestwood, 13th, 162; Dearborn and Salem, 18th, 163; Livonia Churchill, 19th, 169; Redford Union and Cherry Hill, 20th, 169; Allen Park, 21st, 178, and Westland John Glenn, 22nd.

State-ranked Salem coasts

Plymouth Salem lived up to its top 10 Class A ranking Tuesday night with a 53-18 girls' basketball victory over Allen Park.

Salem, now 5-0 and ranked No. 5 by the Michigan High School Coaches Association, used a big third quarter to put away the Jaguars.

The Rocks broke away from a 18-9 halftime lead with a 22-2 outburst in the third period.

"We came out and got things generated a bit in the second half," said Salem coach Bob Blohm. "We were getting second and third shots.

"We didn't rebound well offensively and we missed some easy shots early. The first half was kind of a struggle."

Salem hit only 6 of 30 shots from the floor in the first and second quarters.

In the third quarter, however, Salem opened up by connecting on 10 of 14.

Jan MacKenzie had eight of her 12 points in that quarter. She was also Salem's leading rebounder for the night with 12.

MacKenzie shared game-high scoring honors with junior Ann Glomski, who came off the bench to pump in 12 points. Guards Carol Ross and Jacque Merrfield combined for 20 points.

Pam McBride, a junior forward, added seven rebounds.

"We broke down a couple of times, but overall our team defense really looked good," said Blohm.

Rocks post shutout; Chiefs net victory

Plymouth Canton opened Western Six League girls' tennis play with a 6-1 victory Tuesday over Walled Lake Western.

It was the Chiefs' first victory of the season in four tries.

Canton coach Carol Michaels said her lineup is set after a week of challenge matches.

Kris Harrison, who moved into the No. 1 singles spot, edged Sue Hoest, 7-5, 7-6. Lori Smith (No. 2) defeated Julie Jenkins, 6-4, 6-3, and Julie Swain (No. 3) beat Lisa Roselle, 6-2, 5-7, 6-1. Lisa Schlotz (No. 4) made it a clean sweep in singles with a 6-1, 6-2, triumph over Lori Kiffner.

Walled Lake scored its only point at No. 2 doubles when Marsha Bryant and Dee Guthrie beat Kristen Smith and Nancy Warkentin, 1-6, 6-4, 6-3.

At No. 1 doubles, Canton's Sheryl Smith and Julie Lloyd beat Colleen Itchue and Sue Humble, 6-0, 6-0.

Canton's Julie Gustafsen and Jane McKinstry rolled to a 6-2, 5-7, 6-1 victory at No. 3 doubles over Geri Palizzo and Jenny Sorrentino.

SALEM 7
ALLEN PARK 0

On a miserable, cold Monday afternoon Plymouth Salem handled Allen Park easily in a Suburban Eight League girls' tennis match, 7-0.

It was Salem's 19th straight dual match win. The Rocks are 4-0 overall this season.

Winning in singles were Chris Gilles (No. 1), Carol Hathaway (No. 2), Carol Gillespie (No. 3) and Lisa Maggio (No. 4).

Doubles winnners included Kristy Brandenburg and Beth Miller (No. 1), Chris Corteg and Kathy Graham (No. 2), and Jane Ploughman and Kathy Pursell (No. 3).

Few football upsets forecasted

Brad Emons

The expert prognosticator (remember the guy "with a hatful of hopes?") is back for week No. 3 of high-school football.

My sidekick, I.Q. Risak, went 9-4 last week. And if you recall, I went 8-3 during a tough slate of openers.

My counterpart said he got burned by a few upsets. That's nonsense. There isn't such a thing.

I'm psyched up for this week.

CATHOLIC CENTRAL at ANN ARBOR PIONEER (7:30 p.m. Friday). The highly ranked Shamrocks have a new weapon — the pass. They bottled up huge Ypsilanti last week with a balanced attack. State-ranked Pioneer also is 2-0, but beat Highland Park by only 19 last week. CC stays on the right path toward a showdown with rival Birmingham Brother Rice. PICK — CC by a touchdown.

FARMINGTON HARRISON at LIVONIA CHURCHILL (7:30 p.m. Friday). The Western Six League championship could be decided in this one.

Harrison is always dangerous because John Herrington is one of the best coaches in the area. Field-goal-kicker Dave Blackmer can strike from 50 yards.

Churchill has gained respect after a close loss to Dearborn Fordson and a come-from-behind win over Ann Arbor Huron. The home-field advantage gives Churchill the edge. PICK— Churchill in overtime.

NORTH FARMINGTON at LIVONIA FRANKLIN (2 p.m. Saturday). The Patriots tripped Stevenson last week behind a stiff defense and the gradual loosening up of quarterback Rich Popp, who replaced starter Chris Panzl (broken arm in opener). The Patriots always play North tough at home.

Ken Weinmaster, a big tight end, must be contained if the Patriots expect to give North its first loss. PICK— North by 10 points.

BISHOP BORGESS at YPSILANTI (7:30 p.m. Friday). The Braves, always big and mobile, were tripped up by CC. Borgess, meanwhile, beat a good Redford Union team last week. Another Spartan win this week could serve notice to the rest of the Catholic League's Central Division.

The game will be decided on the line of scrimmage. PICK— Ypsi by a touchdown.

PLYMOUTH CANTON at LIVONIA STEVENSON (7:30 p.m. Friday). The Chiefs are coming off a rare victory (21-0 over Annapolis), and Stevenson (0-2) needs a win.

Both teams have solid defenses. Canton, which used three quarterbacks last week, must throw to keep the young Spartans honest. This should be close, believe it or not. PICK— Stevenson by six points.

REDFORD UNION at GARDEN CITY EAST (7:30 p.m. Friday). RU will be reeling from their loss to Borgess. East, meanwhile, should be geared up for the Northwest Suburban League opener. The Panthers have too much, however, on the interior lines. Who RU kidding? PICK— Redford Union by 17 points.

THURSTON at WESTLAND JOHN GLENN (8 p.m. Friday). Thurston lost to Northville in its opener, 24-0, while John Glenn beat Northville last week, 37-7. Figure it out. Glenn coach Chuck Gordon does not want to take the Eagles lightly. The Rockets have just two many weapons (Rick Wilson to Amado Varona) for Thurston. PICK— Glenn rolls to a 20-point victory.

DEARBORN EDSEL FORD at PLYMOUTH SALEM (7:30 p.m.). The Rocks were victimized by penalties last week in their loss to Trenton. It's homecoming, and Salem should be spurred on. Edsel Ford is unbeaten, coming off a 16-0 win over Bentley. A lot of muscle on both sides. I'm going with the Rocks. PICK— Salem in overtime.

LIVONIA BENTLEY at BELLEVILLE (7:30 p.m. Friday). If you want to see the best running back in the state, then head south on I-275 to I-94 (west) to Belleville Road (south).

Aaron Roberts' heir apparent, Keith Gates, is well-worth the $2 admission. He ran wild last year as Belleville smashed the Bulldogs, 43-18. Bentley is still looking for some offense. Belleville stays unbeaten in a close battle. PICK— Belleville rallies for a seven-point win.

INKSTER CHERRY HILL at GARDEN CITY WEST (7:30 p.m. Friday). West was smashing last weekend as they dedicated Bill Pinnell Field with a rousing 40-8 triumph over Riverside. Cherry Hill is winless (Annapolis and Taylor Kennedy). West should stay unbeaten in the Tri-River League. PICK— Tigers by 17 points.

CLARENCEVILLE at JACKSON COUNTY WESTERN (7:30 p.m. Friday). Both are Class B schools and have 1-1 records. Western, located in Parma, was beaten last week by Chelsea, 20-14. Clarenceville, meanwhile, suffered another discouraging loss to Dearborn Heights Robichaud, 12-6. The coin please. PICK— Western prevails in overtime.

Brighton girls rule Rotary swim

Brighton claimed the Plymouth Rotary Girls' Swim Invitational Saturday at Plymouth Salem with a team total of 316 points.

Host Salem, coached by Chuck Olson, was second again with 264. Westland John Glenn was a surprising third with 193. Last year's defending champ, Northville, settled for fourth with 191. Plymouth Canton and Livonia Franklin gained fifth and sixth, respectively.

"I'm pretty happy about our performance," Salem coach Chuck Olson said. "We did well considering it was our third meet of the week.

"The other teams also looked good. John Glenn really swam well, and Canton had some good drops."

Brighton gained first places in only four of 11 events, but used its overwhelming depth to swim away with the team crown.

Salem senior Terri Eudy was a double winner. She captured the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:21.29 minutes, almost six seconds better than the nearest competitor. She then came back to gain first in the 100 freestyle with a clocking of 57.37 seconds.

Trish Settles of Northville won the 200 freestyle (2:05.08) and 500 freestyle (5:32.26).

BRIGHTON was victorious in both relays.

The Salem team of Kelly Brandt, Sallie Weimer, Amy Dunn and Eudy finished second in the 400 freestyle relay with a time of 4:03.19. Brighton's foursome posted a time of 4:03.07.

Dunn, a sophomore, won the 50 freestyle in 26.84. Teammate Cindy McSurely grabbed first in diving with 325.60 points (based on 11 dives).

Complete results of the meet are listed on page 4C.

RU harriers cruise to Schoolcraft Invitational title

The fleet feet of Redford Union's girls' cross country team have made them an early favorite for Class A state title honors.

Too early to start talking about state championships? Maybe so, but RU's girls are off to a quick start that may lead to top honors.

Last Saturday, the lady Panthers easily took the Schoolcraft Cross Country Invitational, placing four of their runners in the top seven.

Final scoring showed RU with 27 points, followed by Livonia Ladywood (77), Livonia Churchill (92), Livonia Stevenson (95), Redford Bishop Borgess (124) and Plymouth Salem (176).

In the boys' meet, Wayne Memorial's depth pushed them to the top with 68 points. Westland John Glenn was second (100), Redford Union third (109), Livonia Franklin fourth (123), Northville fifth (155) and North Farmington sixth (165).

"WE RAN OK," RU coach Jim Gibbons understated. "We're at the part of the season where we're trying to get our times down. We ran times where we wanted to be at this point."

Redford Union's Cathy Koski led the strong Panther team by placing first (19:23) in a girls' event dominated by younger runners. Only two of the top 12 finishers were seniors.

Helping RU to the title were third-place finisher Nancy Adams (20:04), fourth-place Angie Mogielski (20:11) and seventh-place Kami Laird (20:30). Adams is a senior, while Koski, Mogielski and Laird are juniors.

Rounding out the top 10 finishers in the girls' competition, all named to the All-Invitational Team, were Ladywood's Jennifer Rioux (second, 19:39), Colleen Lee (ninth, 20:43) and Lisa Bagdady (10th, 20:51); Charon Mellas of Garden City East (fifth, 20:21); Julie Recla of Churchill (sixth, 20:23); and Ruth Sample of Salem (20:33). Sample is the only senior, the others are juniors.

WAYNE MEMORIAL'S efforts in winning the boys' event were spearheaded by top-10 finishers Chris Strome (third, 16:32) and Keith Kiesanowski (ninth, 16:47).

The experience factor in the boys' race was the opposite of the girls: only three of the first 13 finishers were not seniors.

However, one of those was a particularly impressive sophomore — Ken Dubois of Stevenson, who placed second to Clark Couyamjian of Northville.

Couyamjian's time was 16:10, Dubois' 16:16. The young Stevenson runner with such a bright future has already been called the fastest in Spartan cross country history by Coach Paul Holmberg.

Family run slated

The Plymouth Community Family Y will hold its second annual Fall Fun Run Saturday.

Kellogg Park and Main Street in downtown Plymouth will be the starting point. The race will end at the Hillside Restaurant.

A five-mile run will kick off the program at 10 a.m., followed by the three- and one-mile runs at 10:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. respectively.

The cost for the one-mile run is $4. The three- and five-mile fees are $6 per person. Entry fees are $8 per person.

Each participant will be given a T-shirt. Refreshments will be served following the races in the dining room of the Hillside.

Trophies will be awarded to the top three finishers (men and women) in each age category — 13 and under, 14-16, 16-20, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49 and 50 and over.

Medals will be awarded to the top placers in each age division.

Great Scott aids sports boosters

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Wednesday is a big day for the Plymouth Athletic Booster Club.

The group's primary fund-raiser will be held from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. at Great Scott Supermarket (Ann Arbor and Sheldon roads).

Five percent of the total gross sales on that day will be donated by Great Scott to help support school athletics at Canton and Salem high schools.

The store will be decorated in school colors. Coaches and players from both high schools will be on hand to help customers deliver groceries to their cars.

Gifts will be raffled off beginning at 9 p.m. A grand drawing for a color TV set will take place at 9:45 p.m. Raffle tickets are 50 cents each.

Refreshments will be provided from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. A hot dog and coke will go for 49 cents.

"To buy just a loaf of bread or a jug of wine would be super," said Plymouth Athletic Booster Club President Pat Houle. "This is the third promotional effort of this kind arranged by the booster club.

"Profits from the previous two have been distributed to help various athletic programs. Your support will provide the measure of success we achieve."

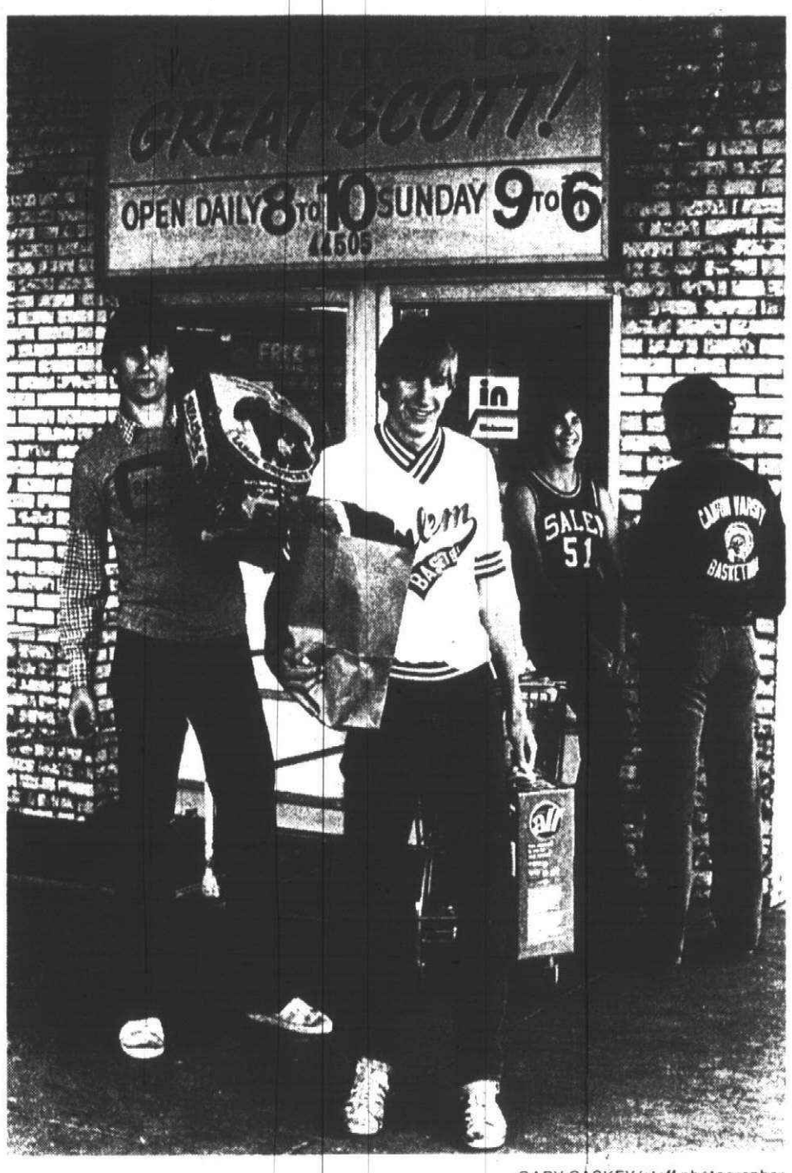

LAST FALL, approximately $3,000 was raised, Houle said. Last spring's Great Scott Day realized $1,750.

"We give out the money on a need basis," Houle said. "Because of cuts, money for football films was dropped from the budget, so we helped them out this year.

"We talk to the various coaches about their certain needs. For instance, we donated $300 to the Canton pompon squad for a banner to hang in the school for their national championship."

The Plymouth Athletic Booster Club is divided into two chapters — Red (Canton) and Blue (Salem).

Memberships to those chapters are $15 per year.

Athletes and coaches from Plymouth Salem and Canton high schools will be available to carry groceries Wednesday at Great Scott Supermarket.

Rocks dunk Panthers; Wellman notches 1st

Plymouth Salem won 10 of 11 events and rolled to a 106-46 girls' swim triumph Tuesday over Redford Union.

The Rocks, 2-1 in dual meets, had a trio of double winners.

Terri Eudy, the Rocks' top performer, won the 200-yard individual medley (2:19.7 minutes) and 100 backstroke (1:06.3).

Amy Dunn, a sophomore, placed first in the 50 and 100 freestyles with times of 27.4 seconds and 59.6, respectively.

Kelly Brandt, one of the team's captains, recorded victories in the 200 and 500 freestyle in 2:15.9 and 6:04.7.

In the 200 medley relay, Salem took first as Eudy, Dunn, Debbie Darlington and Corinne Cabadas were clocked in 2:02.6.

The Rocks also captured first in the 400 freestyle relay as Lisa Trahey, Kim Leesch, Sallie Weimer and Ruth Ettinger were clocked in 4:19.1.

Other first-place finishers for the Rocks included Cindy McSurely, who remained unbeaten in diving (210.3 points), and B.J. Bing in the 100 butterfly (1:10.8). Bing also placed second in the 200 IM (2:36.4). Cabadas gained second in the 100 breaststroke (1:16.5).

Salem will host Brighton, recent winner of the Plymouth Rotary Invitational, at 7:30 p.m.

CANTON 106
REDFORD THURSTON 46

Hooker Wellman received his first victory as Plymouth Canton girls' swim coach Tuesday as the Chiefs wiped out Redford Thurston, 106-46.

First-place finishers for Canton included Shawn Neville, diving, 158.80; Kathy Stern, 100 butterfly, 1:10.4; Kelly Salyer, 500 freestyle, 6:56.55; Kris Burns, backstroke, 1:17.2; and Kim Elliott, 100 breaststroke, 1:18.9.

Missy McMurry led a Canton sweep in the 50 freestyle. She finished first with a time of 28.6. She was followed by teammates Denise DeBell, 31.1, and Noelle Murphy, 32.4.

McMurray also was a member of two winning relay quintets. She teamed up with Elliott, Stern and Burns to win the 200 medley event (2:08.91). The Canton foursome of Sue Sawyer, Heather Crain, Denise Egbert and Karyn Stetz finished second in 2:45.86.

In the 400-freestyle-relay event, McMurray, DeBell, Bronwyn Fitzgerald and Burns hit the wall first in 4:31.3.

Recording individual second-place finishes for Canton were Fitzgerald, 200 freestyle, 2:31.4, and 100 freestyle, 1:08.6; Elliott, 200 IM, 2:43.3; Cindy Sherwood, diving, 148.70; Julie Silber, 500 freestyle, 7:05.24; Neville, 100 backstroke, 1:26.9.

John Glenn gridders bury Northville

For the second consecutive week, Rick Wilson's arm was the difference.

Wilson, a senior quarterback for Westland John Glenn, fired two touchdown passes for the second straight game to lead Glenn to a 37-7 romp over Northville.

Wilson completed five of seven tosses for 90 yards, including TD passes of six yards to Brian Gassel and 11 yards to Amado Varona. Todd Jennings rushed for 71 yards, scored two touchdowns and kicked a 25-yard field goal. Backup quarterback Chris Merandi scored on a five-yard run late in the game to cap Glenn's point total.

Glenn, now 2-0, hosts Redford Thurston Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Cage polls shine on Bentley girls

The monkey broke loose and it's on Livonia Bentley's back.

The Bulldogs find themselves on the hot seat this week as two different girls' basketball polls rate them No. 1 in Class A.

Both the Detroit Free Press and Michigan High School Girls Basketball Coaches Association rate coach Tom Lang's team the best at this point.

Bentley lived up to its billing Tuesday night with a 79-54 victory over Surburban Eight League foe Belleville as junior forward Kim Archer connected for 33 points.

League nemisis Plymouth Salem, coached by Bob Blohm, is also off to a roaring start. The Rocks, Class A semi-finalists last year, have rolled over five straight foes as veterans Eileen Moore, Jacque Merrfield, Carol Ross and Jan MacKenzie have been sharp.

Livonia Ladywood, a Class B team, is rated No. 1 in the state by the coaches' poll and No. 3 in the Free Press.

The Free Press rates Redford St. Agatha No. 1 in Class C. Plymouth Canton was rated No. 10 in Class A by a panel of coaches, but that should change next week after the Chiefs were soundly beaten by Livonia Franklin (honorable mention by the coaches) two weeks ago.

Franklin, with one of the tallest front lines in the state, has rolled to four lopsided wins after losing a tough battle to Bentley in its opener.

The area's most improved team is Redford Bishop Borgess under coach Denise Zatkoff. The Spartans' only loss is a one-pointer to Redford St. Agatha.

In interesting match-ups tonight, Franklin begins its quest for a first Northwest Suburban League crown at North Farmington.

OBSERVER CAGE RANKINGS

1. Livonia Bentley 5-0
2. Plymouth Salem 5-0
3. Livonia Franklin 4-1
4. Livonia Ladywood 4-0
5. Plymouth Canton 3-1

All-Star keeps pace

Eddie Lubanski, the former Stroh captain and the first bowler ever to roll perfect games back to back on television, hasn't lost his touch after all these years.

Bowling in the Bel-Aire Classic last Friday, he broke the 700 barrier with a 270 game in a 721 series. Lubanski is one of the old timers still holding his own in the area's all-star leagues.

PEARL PARRIS has been striving for 16 years to roll a 700 series. He finally realized hs ambition in the mixed classic at Bel-Aire. He started with a 211, then found the pocket often enough to post a 267, then closed with 233 for 711.

THE PINS were flying in the mixed classic at Westland Bowl with the result that the 700 club got two new members and a third missed by a single pin.

Tony Clafton showed the way with a 300 game between counts of 248 and 243 for 791. Next came Jim Mijal with games of 246, 246 and 233 for 725. Larry Wakler wasn't as fortunate. After games of 234 and 279, he posted a 186 and had to settle for 699.

In Monday men's league, Rick Biegas soared to a 275 after games of 235 and 213 for a 723. This was 73 pins more than Bill Kuprus, who posted a 650. Keith Denow was next with a 269 in 649.

MARK MOHACSI is following the course of his mother as he rolled his second 700 series intwo weeks at Merri-Bowl. He posted counts of 233, 215 and 266 for 716. Randy Smith was next in line with a 246 in 673.

LINDA HENDERSON set the pace in the invitational doubles at Merri-Bowl with 614, just five pins more than her nearest rival, Lillian Duguid, who had a middle game of 216 for 609.

IN OTHER GOOD performances, Doug Zyhand fired a 610 to show the way in the Vinco league at Garden Lanes and Steve Pappas paced the kings and queens with 584. At Super Bowl, Lou Wright flashed real form with a 717 series gained on games of 225, 227 and 265.

WSDP AIRS GAMES

Student radio station WSDP-FM (88.1) will broadcast three upcoming prep sporting events.

The girls' basketball game between Dearborn and Plymouth Salem will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. The football homecoming game between Plymouth Salem and Dearborn Edsel Ford will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Canton girls' basketball will take to the airwaves Tuesday. Walled Lake Central is the opponent.

COED VOLLEYBALL LEAGUE

Team entries for a coed volleyball league are being accepted by the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department.

League play will be held from 7-10 p.m. each Thursday starting Oct. 15 at Hulsing Elementary.

The cost is $70 per team. Rosters should be limited to 12 players.

An organizational meeting has been scheduled for October. For more information, call 397-1000.

WOMEN'S VOLLEY LEAGUE

A women's volleyball league also is being formed by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department.

League play will be held from 7-10 p.m. each Tuesday, beginning Oct. 13 at Fiegal Elementary School (Joy Road, east of I-275).

Team entry fees are $50 (rosters will be limited to 12).

Registrations can be submitted in person or by mail to: Canton Parks and Recreation Department, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton 48188.

FOX HILLS WINNERS

Frank Jones and Larry Slade swept five points from Paul Verbanac and Tom Wlodarczyk to win the Canton Recreation men's golf title last week at Fox Hills Country Club.

Jones shot a nine-hole round of 41. Slade was one shot behind.

The men's league champs reached the final by winning the Division B playoffs over Harry Walkley and Will Jacobs, 4-1.

Verbanac and Wlodarczyk took the Division A crown with a 5-0 triumph over Lloyd Dibble and John Thomason.

Unlike their namesakes in Pontiac, the Plymouth-Canton Junior Football League Lions were successful in their openers Sunday at Central Middle School.

The Lions swept all three games against the Westland North Stars. The Freshman team opened with a 13-6 win followed by the junior varsity's 26-6 triumph. The Lion varsity also won, 6-0.

The Plymouth Canton Steelers, also of the Junior Football, won two of three games Saturday against the Romulus Flyer. The junior varsity and varsity were victories by scores of 26-0 and 12-7, respectively. The freshman were less fortunate, losing, 24-14.

YOUNGSTER EAGLES 18TH

Vince Rasmussen, a 14-year-old student at Central Middle School, recorded a double-eagle on the par-5, 493-yard 18th hole at Fox Hills Country Club in Plymouth.

The remarkable shot gave the Plymouth lad a 46 for nine holes and an 18-hole total of 95.

Silhouette hunting: simply aim, shoot

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Chickens, pigs, turkeys and rams are the game and the "hunters" try to knock-off 10 of each during a day on the range.

No state game laws are violated and the shooters take great delight when slugs from their .22-caliber rifles make contact with the target.

Target is the key word for members of the Michigan Rifle and Pistol Association who compete in metallic silhouette shooting.

On a recent Saturday, nearly a dozen shooters from the metropolitan area gathered at the Multi-Lakes Conservation Association in Oakland County to try their luck.

To test their skill may be a better way to put it, because luck has very little to do with success.

The metal targets, shaped like the animals they represent, are not very big. They range from approximately four-by-four inches for the chickens to maybe four-by-seven inches for the turkeys.

They are placed 10 in a row on stands at varying distances from the shooting area.

The chickens, for example, are placed at a distance of 44 yards, the pigs 56 yards, turkeys 84 yards and rams 109 yards.

Also, the stands are of varying heights from the ground.

The object is to knock down as many of the 40 targets as possible with 40 allowable shots within a specific time period.

IT IS NO easy task.

"Everyone who comes out to shoot all the time to make fees (win as much prize money as it costs to enter) gets disillusioned," said Dick Golze, a Bloomfield Hills resident.

"If you hit 50 percent, you're going to be a match winner," said Norm Goelzer, an engineer who lives in Milford.

Goelzer, who first became interested in shooting while in the service, still shoots with the army reserve.

"What attracts people (to metallic shooting) is like you're going out shooting tin cans," Goelzer said. "Here, you hear a clank and see something fall down. You get immediate feedback on whether it's a good hit or a bad hit."

Those who may enjoy the skill necessary to shoot accurately, but not want to shoot live animals may also be attracted to the sport.

Still, most metallic silhoutte shooters are hunters and many also shoot pistols.

"Rifle is just something I do for enjoyment," said Richard Long, an engineer who lives in Redford. "I'm a fanatic handgun shooter."

Long was making his first try at metallic silhouette shooting. "It's a lot of fun. I really like it," he said. "It's a change from rigorous, formal-type shooting."

ONE OF the most difficult aspects of the sport is holding the rifle steady in a standing position, line up a shot through the scope and hit a small target which can be 100 yards away.

Rifles can weigh up to 10 pounds and the slightest twitch or flinch will result in a miss. As the match drags on, it becomes more difficult to steady the firearm.

Golze refers to that situation as "running out of hold."

William Bild, a retiree from Dearborn, said steadying oneself to line up a shot can be the most challenging and frustrating part of shooting.

"You've got to be able to coordinate yourself, look at it (target) and by the time you pull the trigger, it (the bullet) goes somewhere else. That's not good," Bild said.

Newlyweds set up housekeeping . . .

By Anne Harter Jones
special writer

After only seven weeks of marriage, Janet and Brian Elliott's cozy apartment above Emma's Restaurant in Plymouth is a genuine reflection of their personalities.

It is also a reflection of the love and skill of Janet's mother, Garey Beglinger, owner and designer of the building.

Garey B's decorating studio is part of the 5,000 square feet of commerical space on the ground floor. Beglinger purchased and redesigned the building 5½ years ago, adding her individual touches to the intricate history of the old house. It was built in 1880 and moved forward about 200 feet to its present site in 1920.

The restaurant, which occupies much of the commercial footage, was named for one of the original residents of the old house, Emma Colman, who was married there in 1889. This is just one example of Beglinger's respect for the history of the building.

One enters the apartments through wrought iron gates into a tiled foyer where the original front doors and glass panels of the old house lead to the grand staircase. A cheerful mixture of contemporary and antique is achieved with bright green carpeting and wallpaper in a big floral design of green and yellow.

THE SKYLIGHT, added in 1920, further brightens the three apartment doors on the landing. They are numbered in contemporary graphic style by Beglinger's son. Plants in hanging baskets and pots thrive in the sunshine.

"When I bought the building," Beglinger said, "the upstairs had been condemned. There were two flats which had been unoccupied for three years. I knocked down most of the walls, filling a big dumpster three times with old lath and plaster and dirt. I used some of the original 4-by-5s because they were such good timbers, but I had to buy nails three times before I could find any that could penetrate.

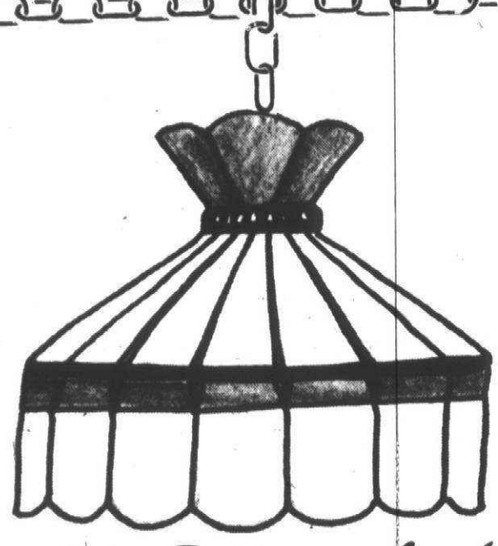

"I designed the three apartments using everything I could from the original building," she said. "I would love to be an architect if I could start all over again, but I really started my decorating career when I was 9. We moved into my uncle's house, and all our furniture was stored in the garage. I used to play house in there, moving furniture and making curtains. I've been doing it ever since."

LIKE THE other two apartments, the Elliott's apartment has a private, carpeted sundeck. In the living room stands a Franklin stove which makes use of one of the two original chimneys. It stands on a hearth constructed of weathered bricks.

Newlyweds Janet and Brian Elliott of Plymouth chose folk and country style for their first apartment. It's in a commercial building that dates from the late 18th century. Janet's mother, Garey Beglinger, who has a design studio on the first floor, helped the couple plan a colorful mixture of antique, contemporary and country pieces.

with folk art and a country look

All the original windows upstairs are shaded with Leveler blinds. This gives a consistent look to the outside of the building and clean, modern lines inside. Beglinger was able to save the original wood floor in the living room, though the rest of the apartment is carpeted.

"In the kitchen I used a high grade antron twist which, after five years of use, still cleans up like new," she said.

FOR THE KITCHEN, the couple chose a subtle blue and white contemporary wallpaper that matches their dinnerwear. The rest of the walls in the apartment are painted white. An interesting architectural feature in the long, narrow kitchen is the addition of two weathered beams — original timbers — below the 10 foot ceiling. They are used to hang cooking pots and baskets, French country style.

The newlywed couple has had to make very few purchase — a white painted kitchen table from a garage sale, a wall hanging from the boutique downstairs — to achieve what Janet's mother calls a "folk art and country look."

"This is them, but with my touch," she said. "It is the kind of decorating I've been dealing with for 30 years. I call it desperate decorating. People already have things, but they don't know what they have. I always advise them to use something old, pull the accessories out of your drawers. For example, Janet made (some) pottery in a class at Schoolcraft College. Brian has been collecting the things on this shelf since he was 8."

Beglinger indicated a storage bench with hearts carved in the back. "I had this built for Janet when she was 4. It originally held toys, then sweaters, now they store their albums in it. I bought 14 of these kitchen chairs from DeHo-Co 30 years ago and they've never fallen apart. Four of them painted white are just right for their kitchen."

AN ANTIQUE SIDE chair with a cane seat in the living room was one of Janet's grandmother's four dining chairs. One was given to each of the Beglinger children. The bedroom is dominated by a big four poster brass bed. It was Janet's 18th birthday present. The rest of the bedroom is furnished in what Beglinger describes as "early marriage" chests which have been carefully refinished by the young couple.

They have also been stripping an old homemade sea chest that was found in a house years ago. It serves as a coffee table in the living room. They are almost down to the light wood which they would like to preserve if they can remove the last vestiges of some original green paint.

One of the few big purchases the couple is planning is a couch. But a white wicker settee, its seat covered with Janet's great-grandmother's blue and white quilt, serves charmingly right now. It is backed with comfortable patchwork pillows, also blue and white, that Janet made two years ago.

Although the Plymouth apartment is heated by a gas furnace, the Franklin stove adds a touch of charm, and in the winter, a lot of heat.

A table from a garage sale and chairs from Detroit House of Correction make for a cozy eating area.

hudsons interior design studio

Express your individuality

It's so easy with the help of Hudson's Interior Design Studio and its staff of specialists. We'll help you with your preferences, from the classic to the contemporary, from the whimsical to the romantic. Your wishes are reflected in every choice our professional designers make. Getting to know you is the first important thing we do in the Interior Design Studio. Come in, or call for an appointment at the Hudson's store nearest you.

Analyze family's furniture needs

Before you buy furniture, first determine your needs. Do you have a rough and tumble family,? Will it receive heavy or light use?

Will your pets be on the furniture?

How much do you want to spend?

Do you want this piece to last for a long time or do you plan to replace it in a few years.?

Is your room large or small? Do your rooms receive a lot of sunlight? Will furniture be fairly easy to move?

These questions need to be answered whether you want to buy a sofa, a table, or a chair. Your lifestyle and your budget can match what you buy, if you shop carefully and ask questions. Make a scale drawing of your room to take shopping with you.

Where should you buy? Always buy from a reputable dealer. It's familiar advice, but how do you recognize one? Ask your friends. Ask the Better Business Bureau.

ASK THE DEALER what services he offers. You can choose from a side variety of store types. Does the store specialize in furniture? Remember that where you have credit, the cost are usually higher. Are there service guarantees? Do they charge for delivery or is it included in the price? Do they have and/or do they charge for layaway? What about polishing and touching up furniture after delivery? Many stores send it out in the crates.

Ask about interior design service before, not after, you buy. Decide which services are essential to you for this purchase, but remember, you cannot expect the same service from a discount store that you will get from a full service store.

What shold you look for in upholstery? Good tailoring; straight seams; no puckering; bottons securely attached; no loose threads, top to bottom; matched fabric patterns; the frame itself should not be felt from the outside. should be atached securely to the frame with corner blocks for bracing and check for the law label for the content of cushion materials.

Is there a warranty on fabric and on metal mechanisms in recliners and sofa beds?

Try it out, sit down and get up several times. Is it high enough? Low enough, sit three for a few minutes (don't feel silly, you'll sit for longer than that at home). Is it too soft or too hard? Will it be scratchy or sticky in summertime?

Ask about the cushion construction. What is in it and will it keep in shape? Find out about the kind of springs and see if they squeak. If you're considering a sofa bed, make sure you can open and close it easily. Don't forget to lie down on the mattress to test its comfort. What about the fabric?

Most textile mills do not guarantee upholstery fabric to the furniture manufacturer, so consider your selection with care.

Now look back to your needs. How will this piece of furniture be used? as a trampoline by active kids or for afternoon tea by auntie and grandma?

The wearing quality and surface apperance of fabric is influenced by the fiber, weave, and finish of the materials used. Long threads in materials such as satin and brocade may snag or break. Nubby threaded fabrics may also snag. Cut pile fabrics such as velour will change slightly in color when their naps are brushed different directions.

If you're considering vinyl, remember that body oils and moisture can sometimes have a hardening effect on the man made material.

At the store, check for:

- Closeness of weave. Generally, the closer the weave, the more durable the fabric.
- Possible pilling. Take a pencil eraser and rub briskly on the fabric sample. If bits of fabric come off, the fabric may shed fibers.
- Sturdy backing. Rub the sample fabric together. Is it well bonded to the fabric? Does it flake off?
- Fiber content. Natural, man-made and blended fabrics are available today. Each has advantages. Discuss them with your retailer.
- Always remember your needs. Consider how well the upholstery fabric will stand up under daily use in your home. In general, tightly woven fabrics wear better than loosely woven fabrics light-weight fabrics such as linens and cottons. A memdium color or all over pattern will show fabric dirt less. You might also find that if the fabric has been treated with a protective finish that helps repel dirt.

What about wood furniture?

Look it over. Most wood furniture has no written guarantee. Be sure to give it the critical eye before you purchase. Don't be shy. Inspect it all over. Check for:

- Uniform finish. Does the finish look the same all over. Rub the surface. Is it smooth?
- Careful gluing. Good glues are so strong they can outlast wood. In fine furniture execess glue has been wiped off.
- Corner blocks (triangular pieces of wood screwed and glued to support and reinforce the corns of the frame).
- Joints that fit tightly.
- A leveling mechanism to adjust the furniture to the evenness of your floor.
- Drawers that fit snugly in the frame.
- Drawers that open and close effortlessly. Try closing the drawer by pushing it in from one corner.
- Drawers that are smooth on the inside.
- Drawers sides and backs are at least one-half inch thick.
- Casters on large pieces to help you move it easily.
- Armchairs that fit under the rim of the dining table you've chosen.

Furniture today may be made of hardwoods, such as mohogany, walnut oak, cherry, teak, and pecan; or soft woods as pine, redwood, and cedar. Veneered woods may also be used.

Furniture made with solid wood tops, front and end panels, is made only the highest grade lumber, mainly hardwoods. The woods must be free of knots and sap pockets. It then must be carefully glued together in three or four inch wide strips; otherwise splitting and warping will occure, Veneered furniture is sturdy, durable, and beautifully displays wood grains and pattern. The veneering process involves using thin layers of decorative woods bonded to the top and bottom of "ply" construction. Ply construction increases the strength of the panel and improves its resistance to swelling, warping and cracking. Veneering also makes it posssilbe to match fine grain patterns and to use inlays to create designs not posssible in solid wood.

Because it resists warping, veneered construction is especially desirable on large flat surfaces such as dinning room tables.

CONSUMERS MUST often wait a seeming eternity for their order of furniture. Why? The upholstery manufacturer must often wait for fabric delivery from the textile mill. The wood furniture manufacturer may produce a suite only two or three times a year. It is extremely expensive for the manufacturer to retool his machinery to produce different styles, so he must wait until sufficient orders are received. Although your wait seems painfullly long, console yourself with the fact that if the manufacturer did not schedule his production; your furniture would be astronomically expensive.

The author, Oscar Hertz, is co-owner of Plymouth Furniture Co., in Plymouth and a member of the board of trustees of the Michigan Furniture Retailers Association.

Front Cover

The Bloomfied Township condominium belonging to Arthur and Joanne Schurgin was done by Barbara Wauldron, an interior designer who is a member of the staff of Gormans of Southfield. Her clients, who own the Horn of Plenty in Birmingham, moved from a large traditional home to a condo. They wanted contemporary, easy-to-care-for furnishings to suit a busy lifestyle. Both work, they have college age children and like to entertain.

All of the fabrics are natural, from the mohair casement drapes to the couches covered in wool flannel. The atmosphere can be changed with the seasons by the use of accessories and flowers, from bouquets of daffodils and pots of tulips in the spring to mums and glads for early fall. Romance goes up the wall

English novelist Barbara Cartland has lavished all her talents in romantic fiction to launching a line of wall and floor coverings under the title "Decorating with Love" for Raintree Designes. The colors are ladylike pastels and sometimes shades reminiscent of Edwardian and Victorian taffetas and velvets. Patterns are often large, the kind associated with brass beds (first time around), Victorian settees and parlours. Ms. Cartland even weaves a romance into the pages of the wall covering book that sounds a bit like that recent one in England. They are available at Thybony Wallcovering in the Design center in Troy.

Family room gained a lot of light and, although it's an optical illusion, a lot of space too. It was done with color, designs in fabrics and a change in the fireplace from red brick and maple style colonial to contemporary pine and white tile.

New decor lets sunshine in

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

Before it's new look, a heavily traffic family room in a Troy colonial sported a typical red brick fireplace and lots of wood paneling. With dimensions of about 12-by-15, one door led to the kitchen and another to the foyer.

The owners contacted interior designer Leonard K. Krass who works out of Hudson's Northland. Could he give their family room a much lighter feeling, but still keep it functional and ready for a lot of use by this family which includes a couple of young children?

Krass and his clients agreed that some of the accessories they already had and loved would be part of the new look — her needlepoint butterflies and a circular mirror with copper sculpture framework.

The big change was in the fireplace. The brick was covered in pine installed in an attractive diagonal pattern. The wood was rubbed with white stain and thinned-out oil paint. Krass, knowing exactly the look he wanted, ended up finishing the wood himself, after a false start by someone else. The raised hearth was covered in lovely white, quarry tile.

With paneling removed, the walls were done in a plain covering with a combed texture in an all over pumpkin color.

The diagonal pattern in the earth tone and white carpeting opens up the dimensions of the room, making it appear larger. The shutters on the lower half of the colonial style windows are covered in a natural off-white fabric and the light streams in through the open upper half. The modular pieces are covered in a durable, warm toned textured fabric. Another favorite arm chair was slip-covered in a honey and white diagonal pattern.

With brass accessories, touches of greenery and favorite family pieces there's a warm glow to the new decor.

Krass and his clients agree that the red brick and wood paneling closed the room and gave it a cramped, tight feeling. The new look is pleasantly contemporary, light and seemingly full of sunshine all the time. It's still a family room in every sense of the word, but now it's better suited the upbeat, active life and attitude of this young family.

How can you save by spending?

Let us count the ways:

1. When the money you shell out has an excellent return as an investment in energy conservation.

2. When you do it yourself and save on the costs of labor.

3. When you remember to take advantage of the tax credit.

Since the cost of energy to heat and cool your home is going nowhere but up, improve your home's thermal performance by adding mineral fiber-rock wool or fiber glass-to the attic floor. It is probably the single best way to keep winter heating bills and summer cooling costs down.

R-38 or R-30 insulation for the attic is recommended by the Mineral Insulation Manufacturers Association for most parts of the country with even higher R-values economically justified by fuel savings in colder regions. R-values measure the ability of a material to resist heat flow.

Savings vary. Find out why in the seller's fact sheet on R-values. Higher R-values mean greater insulating power. Fact sheets are available from building materials dealers.

If your attic has no insulation, install R-38 or R-30 mineral fiber. Any desired R-value may be achieved with poured mineral fiber or with a combination of batts, blankets and loose wool.

When insulating an attic floor, MIMA recommends that you dress in old chothes -a long-sleeved shirt, baggy pants, gloves and a dust mask. If pouring in loose-fill mineral fiber insulation, a garden rake for leveling the insulation should prove useful.

Some building supply stores have machines available for rental by do it yourselfers. These machines blow mineral fiber insulation in attic floors or walls and are a fast and efficient way to insulate.

Don't overlook proper ventilation. Ventilation above the insulation is an attic floor is necessary both in winter and summer. In winter, open vents allow moisture from cooking and baths to escape. In summer, moving air reduces attic heat buildup. Provide at least two vent openings in the attic so air can flow in one and out the other.

Be aware of the tax credit that's available to those whose home improvements are designed to conserve energy. Adding insulation is among the energy saving techniques that qualify for a 15 percent tax credit on the cost of such improvements. The maximum credit is $300.

Some states have tax credits for energy saving home improvements that may offeradditional savings.Consult the tax officials in your state.

A useful booklet, "How to Save Money by Insulating Your Home," can be obtained by sending 45 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to MIMA, Dept. SR. 382 Springfield Ave., Summit, N.J. 07901.

Restoration demands skill, patience

By Loraine McClish
staff writer

Tim Korzan, who once designed and built custom-made furniture exclusively, and Dave Rybicki, one-time owner of Franklin Country Workshop, teamed up about a year ago to form what has become one of the most preigious refinishing and restoring companies of antique funishings in the Midwest.

Korzan points to an altar table that may have been made by a Chinese court-appointed craftsman several centures ago, or an ornate Oriental vase stand and remarks casually, "Pretty elitist stuff."

The two, who are craftsmen and artisians in their own right, hold sway over Acacia Furniture, a combination office, manufacturing plant and refurbishing workshop at 247770 Crestview in Farmington Hills.

While Rybicki might spend several hundred hours casting molds to restore the bas relief on an $150,000 ancient Chinese screen, he says he gives as much care to a three-drawer maple chest a client may have picked up for $50 in a flea market.

RESTORATION of Chinese antiques is fast becoming a speciality for Acacia Furniture because the opportunity to learn the art is so limited to the U.S. craftsman.

"There are no schools that teach it, no books on the subject to speak of," Rybicki said.

"I have read everything that's available, and it wasn't much.

"You just learn by doing, and I was lucky enough to get a chance to learn."

That chance came from a collector of Oriental pieces. His skills have expanded to duplicating the intricacies of Chinese brush work and figuring out the mitering of a circular table top he called his 'Japanese puzzle.'

"Basic craftsmanship runs across the board," Korzan said. "What we have here is all good craftsmanship or it wouldn't have withstood hundreds of years of wear.

"Most of us (in the trade) are familiar with the European work. But some of the pieces we've gotten here, I swear, must have come from the Forbidden City."

AN INCREDIBLE amount of research is put into minute details to restore pieces that come to Acacia in what Korzan called "incredible, dreadful condition."

The two have become adept at spotting almost immediately a piece that has been 'gypsied together.'

They use the term to describe a piece of furniture that has been restored with another kind of wood used to replace the damaged original. The gypsied piece then is finished with lacquer or paint to make it appear the same as the original.

To correct that, they "canabalize."

This means they take rare woods from pieces that cannot be restored and save them to use when that kind of wood is needed to make a piece or part for another item that can be salvaged.

"Whether it's inlaid metals, mother of pearl, marble or rare woods, we have a source for them all," Rybicki said.

As for waxes and paints, the two have literally hundreds of formulas, some of which they've devised themselves.

The final results have in many cases been unusual and produced rare show pieces of museum quality.

HELP FOR the partners is hard to come by for no other reason than that what they are doing is so unusual.

"We supervise constantly and continuously," Korzan said. "After all, we're working on some one's very prize and very special piece, and most likely a very rare piece."

In another section of Acacia Furniture, craftsman work on custom-designed pieces, a portion of the business that Korzan brought with him from his earlier days in the trade.

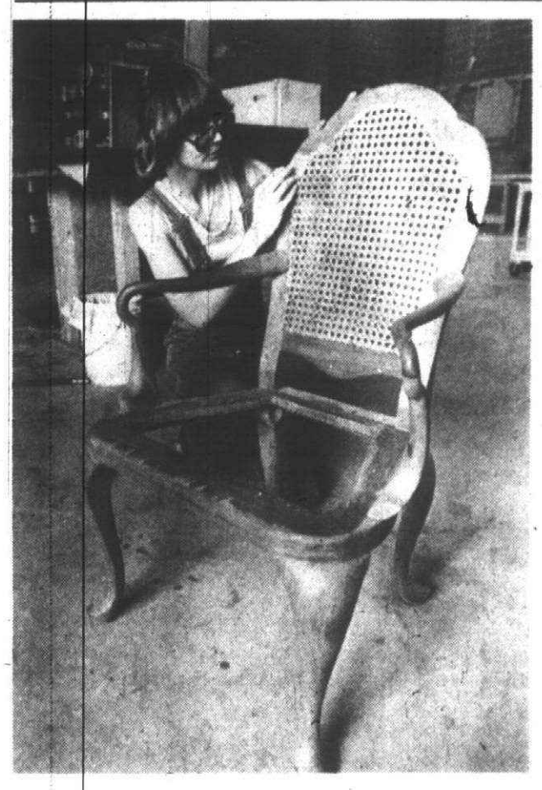

"We still keep in touch with the decorators and do jobs for them. It keeps us in contact with what's going on in contemporary decorating and keeps us on our toes thinking up new ideas for them," Korzan said.

An example of the wood work that has come from Acacia's design shop can be seen in the ash trays in Talley Hall.

"They are practically bulletproof. We don't want to be repairing them in 10 years," Korzan said.

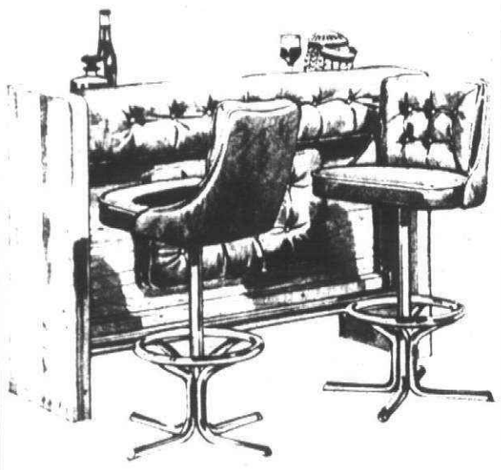

In a short while, Acacia will be the brand name for two new products to aid persons to care for fine pieces themselves.

One is a combination wax and steel wool. The other a lemon oil formula devised for using at home to keep prized furniture in top condition.

Chris Helgren, apprentice, works on an early 20th century chair. It is unusual because it has Queen Anne legs combined with especially delicate arms.

Updating the family room

Family room in the Bloomfield Township home of Sarsh and Lou Goldfaden was given a face lift by Birmingham interior designer, Sandra Johnstone. The original conversation pit of poured concrete in front of the fireplace was removed and a two-level floor poured in its place. Wood paneling which made the room dark was covered with channel white duck. Stainless steel and glossy, white formica panels gave the fireplace a more contemporary look. The carpeting is taupe, the modulars are covered in dusty salmon wool and the coffee table was custom made.

Campus makes area students really at home

By Kathy Parrish
staff writer

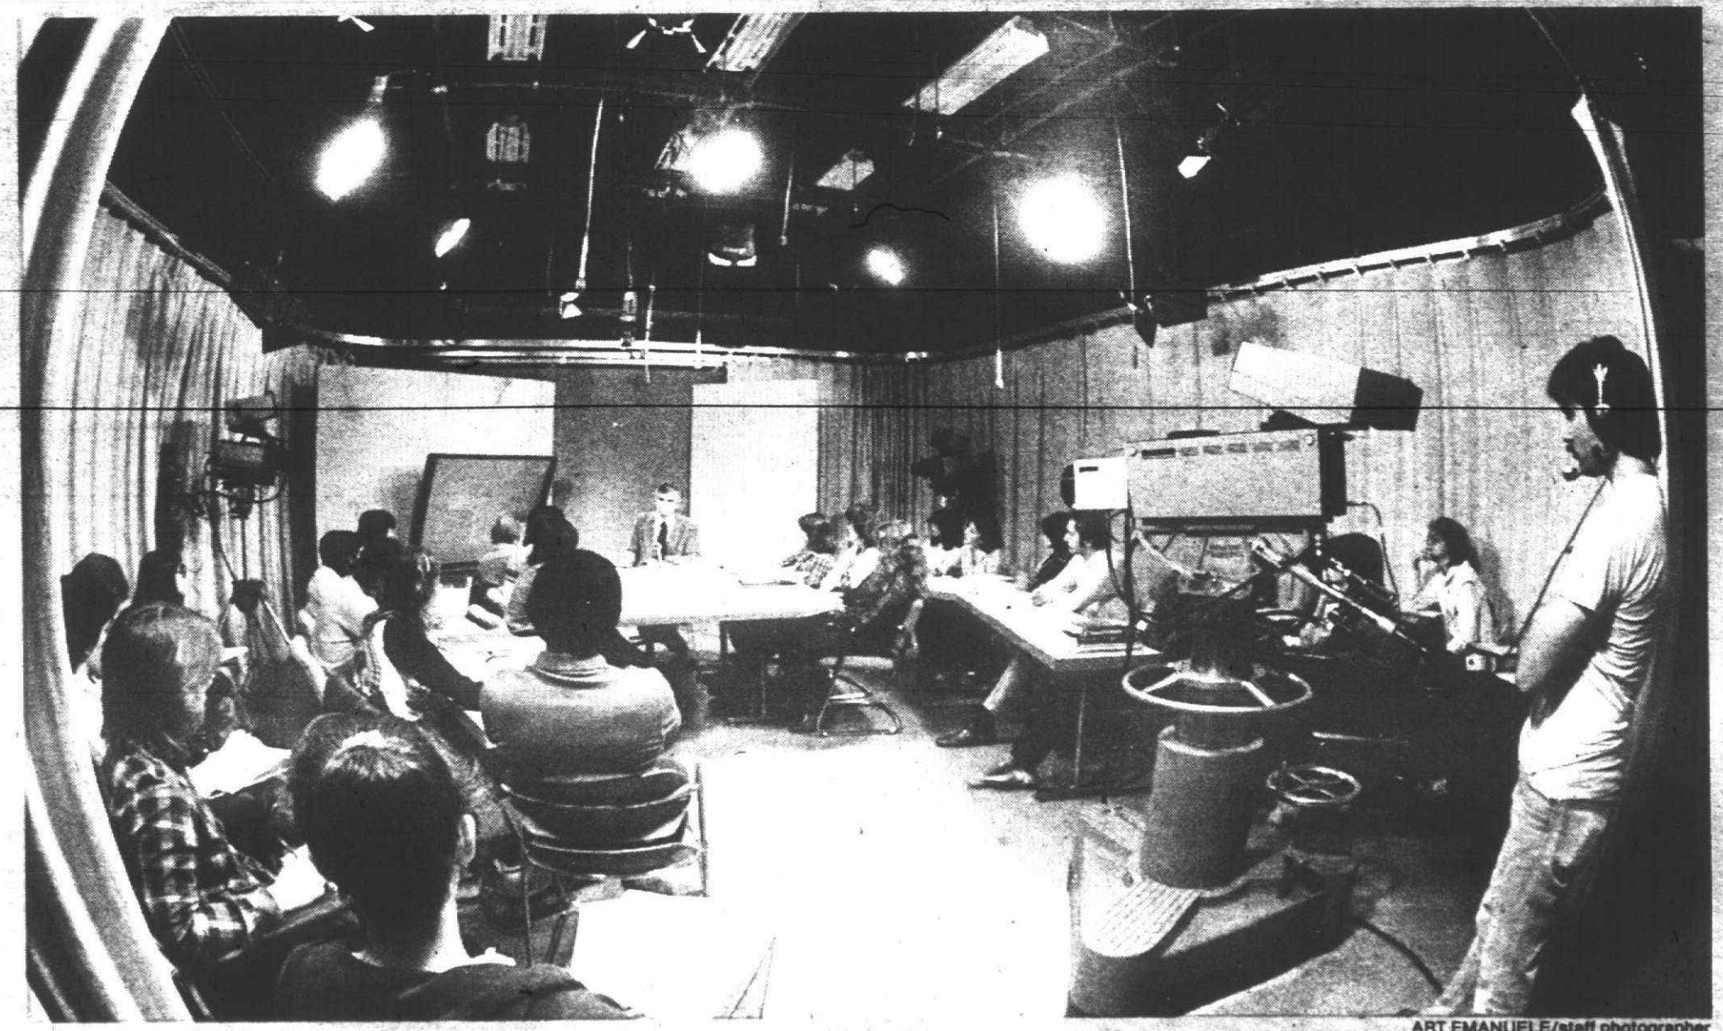

When John Kotre teaches his morning psychology class, he has 30 classroom students to worry about.

Since his University of Michigan-Dearborn class is being taped for airing on cable television, he also must consider those viewing from their living rooms.

"I have to balance the chemistry between the student here and the TV viewer," said the professor, who sets one of four television cameras aside to represent the viewing public. "It's important not to leave either one behind."

Educating by television is a challenge, as those involved in U of M-Dearborn's Reach program are finding out. But they believe the opportunity to take courses right into viewers' homes is worth the extra effort.

'College on Cable' reaches out

"By the beginning of next year, tens of thousands of Detroit area homes will have cable TV," said associate dean Emanuel C. Hertzler. "We'll have a door into the home that never existed before."

For three years, the Dearborn university has offered videotaped and audiotaped courses to students unable to attend class. Last week, the home study was extended through Omnicom to cable subscribers in Canton Township, Northville, Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

SEVERAL AREA higher educational institutions see cable TV as a way of drawing more students and serving those whose work schedules or family pressures keep them from campus.

As a group, the schools have formed the Educational Telecommunications Consortium to explore ways to use cable TV.

Wayne State University, which has offered televised instruction since the mid-1950s, is not yet involved in cable television. But it is being considered by the Detroit institution, which has 800 students enrolled in its Weekend College aired by WDIV-TV and WTVS/56.

"The opportunity is so good and there are all those hours to be filled with something," said information officer Leontine Cadieux. "It could be an economical way to reach students."

"One of the beauties of cable is that we don't have to worry about meeting the needs of as many people as possible," said Hugh Jencks, Omnicom's programming director.

"With multiple channels, we can serve a lot of different small groups with interests in every conceivable area."

MetroVision of Redford is also considering college courses for its Channel 6, which is reserved for educational access.

"The concept of use of TV for education is not new," said general manager Tom Bjorklund, who grew up in Connecticut with the televised "Sunrise Semester."

"But, through cable, that concept can be spread out. We can very inexpensively deliver courses to the community."

No technical problems hamper airing educational programs, he said. "The question is whether people in the community want it. But it's definitely something we're looking into."

U OF M-DEARBORN is offering three courses via Omni 8 this semester. Each lecture is shown three times, with subscribers offered repeat sessions on request if airtime is available.

"Lots of people have scheduling problems and they're not able to attend class. We've removed almost every possible excuse for someone not to go back to school," said Jencks. Questionaires were sent out to see if subscribers would be interested, Jencks said. Of 1,300 surveyed, 193 responded, with 179 interested.

The former educator believes educational TV programming is a "way to improve the quality of life."

"Locking a dynamite instructor into a classroom with 20-25 students is not terribly efficient. We can share that expertise with the community."

Although some colleges use TV to make better use of limited classroom space, the Reach program was set up to help fit courses into busy lives.

Registration is flexible, students receive special study guides and take tests when they are ready to do so. But the U of M Board of Regents is absolutely inflexible on course standards.

"We don't want this to be a second-class program, so we've probably made it tougher as a result," said Hertzler.

"These are just as academically difficult as any courses in the university."

Hertzler believes most students prefer contact with professors and students in the classroom.

"It's a little harder to work from a tape, but they have job commitments or family responsibilities," he said.

But he also sees home study as a way of easing into college.

"It's kind of a quantum leap for many people to go from wherever they are into the classroom competing with 18-year-olds. They can take a course privately and don't have to worry about the competition."

THE UNIVERSITY has found courses must be more carefully prepared for TV, with the professor answering many questions he would usually rely on students to answer.

"The traditional classroom is two-way communication. TV can't do that as well. Students have to be a little more organized and keep track of questions to ask later," said Jencks.

Hertzler also found a professor sitting at a desk just doesn't go over well. So the films show a professor interacting with students in a classroom. "That interaction is what makes it inviting to the person at home," he said.

Schoolcraft College, which has rights to Omnicom's Channel 20, is looking into ways to air credit and noncredit courses as well as community service activities like lectures and concerts. By fall 1982, the two-year college hopes to be providing television shows.

"It's a way of bringing the college closer to the community," said Ronald Griffith, acting vice president for instruction. "There are so many possibilities."

One is serving the homebound or even those in jail. Griffith said the handicapped, elderly and parents home with small children can "benefit only minimally from commuting institutions."

Griffith, though, does not believe "college on cable" will ever replace the traditional classroom.

"It just gives the student another alternative. Educational TV might be pointing us in the right direction for a highly mobile, gas-conscious society."
