Non-profit $$$ foundation proposed in farm project

The fourth article in a series on farmland preservation focuses on the idea of establishing a non-profit foundation to accept donations of money or land.

preserving farmland ?

Say the word "foundation" and names like Ford and Rockefeller come to mind.

How about a foundation to help pay for the cost of preserving existing farmland in Canton?

Pauline Guy, director of the state Corporations and Securities Bureau, says there are thousands of foundations registered in Michigan — large and small. Ms. Guy's department, which is part of the Michigan Department of Commerce, oversees registration of non-profit foundations within the state.

"FOUNDATIONS are formed to receive and administer funds for some purpose," explained Ms. Guy.

Canton's farmland retention committee is recommending that a non-profit foundation be established to receive and administer tax-exempt donations to help pay the cost of preserving existing farmland west of Canton Center Road.

According to Ms. Guy, there are certain requirements for the tax-exempt status:

- Criteria for funding include benefits for scientific, religious, charitable, public welfare, historical, natural uses, among others.
- The purposes of the foundation must follow the guidelines and be specified in the request to the state.
- The articles of incorporation must outline the formula for how foundation members are selected and how funds are distributed if the corporation is dissolved.
- The group would have to obtain tax-exempt status from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

ACCORDING TO the farmland retention committee, the foundation plan would be a supplement to an upcoming township bond proposal to raise funds for farmland retention, taking some of the financing burden off the township.

Students shifting to non-public schools

By Emory Daniels
staff writer

Declining enrollment has arrived at Plymouth-Canton Community schools.

The student head count this fall is down by about 450 students from a year ago — more than twice last fall's decline.

The decline in public enrollment, however, is not due entirely to families moving out of the district, to declining birth rates, or to decisions by families to postpone births.

A significant proportion of the student-loss represents a shift from public schools to non-public schools within the school districts.

The students still are living within the Plymouth-Canton school district but no longer are enrolled in public schools.

Of the 450 decline in enrollment from September 1980 to this month, for instance, 85 percent of those missing students are now enrolled in non-public schools.

Monday night, Superintendent John M. Hoben told the school board that some 383 students who were in public schools last year are now in private and parochial schools. (365 in parochial schools and 18 in private schools).

Some 377 students have moved out of the district, Hoben added, but this number is more than offset by the 442 students who have moved into the district since last fall.

Of the 377 who did move out of the district, some 222, or almost 60 percent, moved out-of-state — an indication that the exodus to the sunbelt is also drawing families away from Plymouth-Canton.

The balance of the 450 loss is the difference between the size of the June 1981 graduating class and the September 1981 crop of kindergarteners, or about 130 fewer students.

Of the 377 who did move out of the district, some 222 or almost 60 percent moved out-of-state — an indication that the exodus to the sunbelt is also drawing away families from Plymouth-Canton.

ONE OF THE reasons for the shift of students from public to non-public schools in Plymouth-Canton is the opening two years ago of the Plymouth Christian Academy on Joy just east of Main in Canton.

(Besides the academy, Plymouth also has Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic School, St. Peter Lutheran School, and the Central Baptist Church School operating parochial schools).

This year the New Morning School, a private alternative school stressing individualized instruction, also returns to Plymouth after an absence of a couple years.

But school officials also are aware of many parents who have removed their students from public schools because of frustrations about program cuts.

Green Hills in Ann Arbor, for instance, has reportedly enjoyed an increase in students from Plymouth-Canton, primarily because of parents who feel the district is not doing enough for talented and gifted (TAG) students.

Another reason for the shift, although less significant numerically, is the recruiting of athletes by parochial schools from the public schools. In Plymouth-Canton this became more of a factor after the introduction of random selection at the high schools, which occurred about the same time Catholic Central moved to Redford.

THIS FALL'S loss in student enrollment is the largest for many, many years — if not the largest in the district's history.

The fact, then, that 85 percent of the loss is attributed to students transferring from public to non-public schools is a phenomenon which has not escaped the notice of school trustees and administrators.

Although parental frustration with public education is an increasing trend, another national trend is the proliferation of parochial schools. Long in existence in the South, these schools now are enjoying a boom in the Midwest.

For Plymouth-Canton the loss of some 450 students means a reduction in state aid of about $700,000.

While Hoben is concerned about the drop, he is consoled by the fact that the decline is only 2.2 percent of the district's total enrollment of some 17,000 students.

The only districts in Wayne County to experience an increase in enrollment is Flat Rock, River Rouge and Hamtramck. All of their increases are attributed to greater enrollments in adult education classes.

An immediate result of the vanishing students is a reduction in instructional staff. Last year, the district had a faculty of 818 with 107 special education personnel. This year, the faculty has shrunk to 764 and special education staff is down to 98.

Canton Library plans cable TV programming

By Nancy Ferguson
staff writer

People always could bring the library "into their homes" signing out books and library materials. But with the advent of cable TV in the Plymouth-Canton area, they soon can tune into library programs right on their own television set.

Deborah O'Connor, head librarian at the Canton Township Library, is excited about the prospect of having a channel on the cable TV network.

She is somewhat disappointed and apprehensive, however, because the library will share its channel with public access programming.

Originally, the library planned on a separate channel, Omni-29, for its own private use. Public access for individuals was scheduled on another channel.

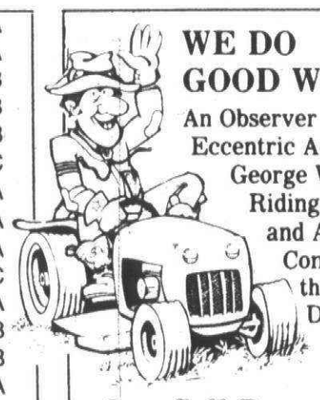

MS. O'CONNOR is concerned about sharing the channel.

"We want to make a strong impact with our programming. The library has an excellent reputation in the community. We want to maintain that good image.

Safety busing law could cost money

If the attorney general's opinion on safety busing stands, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools might be forced to spend up to $500,000 for additional buses.

That would be the cost of buying from 12 to 15 new buses at about $35,000 each to add the routes needed to bus large numbers of students district-wide who now are walking to school.

Spending $500,000 in unbudgeted funds is the equivalent of laying off 25 teachers or completely wiping out the central administrative cabinet.

The issue of whether the added buses must be purchased hinge on the present controversy surrounding safety busing — the practice of busing students who live within 1.5 miles of school because hazardous conditions exist.

Part of that controversy has narrowed down to the question of how the school district is measuring whether a student lives within 1.5 miles of his/her neighborhood school (1 mile for students in grades K-2).

THE ATTORNEY general recently issued an opinion that the measurement should include any walkway or path to the school and should be taken from the student's home to the front entrance of the school.

If that opinion stands, said Superintendent John M. Hoben, the district would have to add 13-15 new routes and buy up to 15 new buses at a maximum cost of $500,000.

A bill has passed the Michigan House and now is before the Senate which would allow districts to measure up to the school property line, but not to the front door.

If the bill (HB4978) passes, Hoben said Monday night, the district will be in compliance in the way it has measured walking distances this year.

The district has measured the same way for the past seven years, he added, and the state department of education has used that interpretation for the past 15 years.

If HB4978 does not pass the Senate, Hoben said, the district will then abide by the attorney general's opinion, requiring re-routing of all bus trips district-wide.

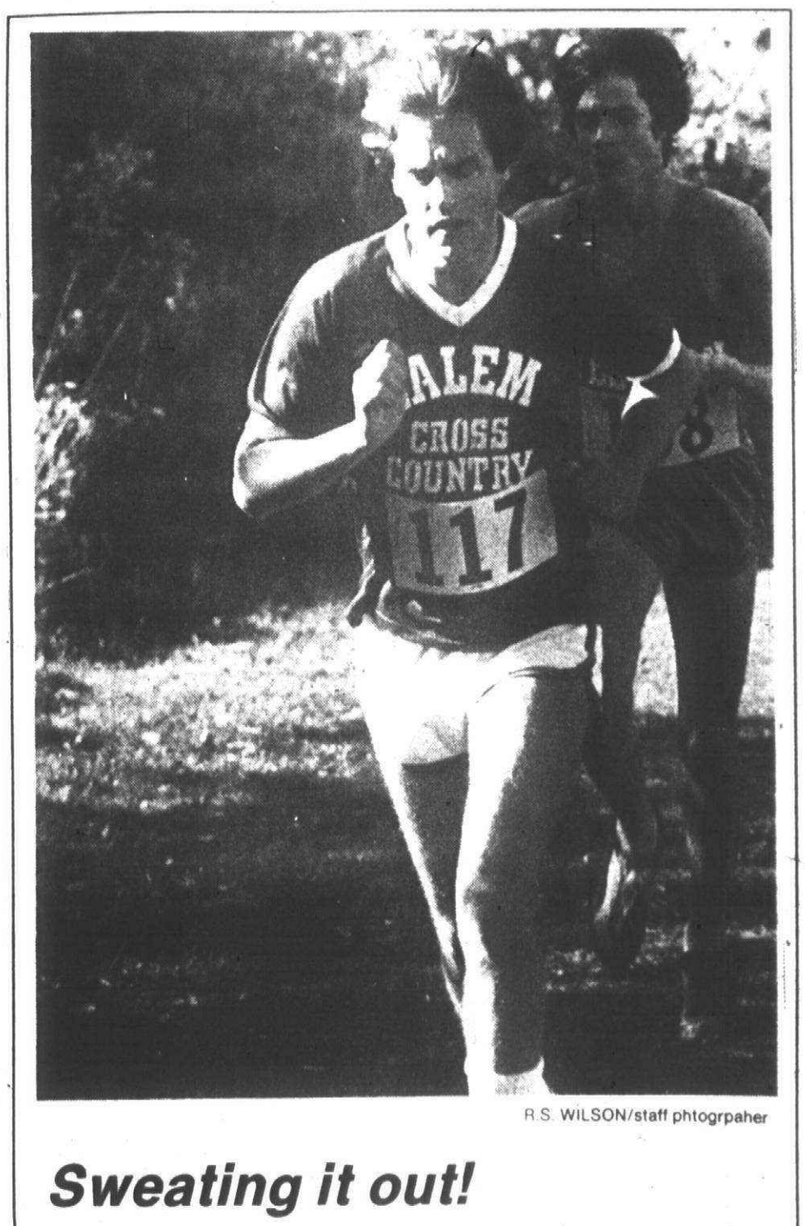

RAY HOEDEL, assistant superintendent for business, said the re-routing could hopefully be completed by around Thanksgiving time, but the administration was not certain new buses could be delivered by then.

After the attorney general gives an opinion, Hoedel added, the department of education must revise its rules and regulations to implement that change. The department has not yet issued its new rule, he said.

Hoedel said he wasn't sure how the $500,000 would be found in the budget but noted that the figure was equivalent to the payroll for an entire faculty at an elementary school.

HB4978 was taken up last week by the Senate Education Committee, which reported it out to the floor for consideration this week.

Haunted house opens tomorrow

The 1981 edition of the Canton Jayces Haunted House premiers tomorrow night.

This year's haunted house is on Ford Road east of the I-275 expressway. It will be open daily from 7:30-11 p.m. until Oct. 30. Admission is $1.75 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

The ghost mansion promises to be bigger and better than ever, according to Jaycee officials. The house will feature "Phantom of the Opera," the "Hulk," the "Slide to Doom" and the ever popular "Mad Scientist."

The Jaycees will hold their traditional "Friendly Monster Day" on Halloween, so younger children can come and see the monsters with their masks off and the lights on. The "Friendly Monster Day" is free of charge. The public is invited to attend.

The money raised from the haunted house will go into the Jaycees' general fund and then back into the community. Some of the Jaycee activites include scholarship funds for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, donations to athletic programs and help for the poor and elderly.

There is plenty of free parking at the site of the haunted house.

Foundation proposed asked to authorize the township to issue and sell bonds not exceeding $7 million. If the bond issue is approved, the funds will be used to purchase development rights in western Canton.

Development rights means that land-owners would be paid the difference between the agricultural value of their property and the potential market value for development. In exchange, the land would be preserved for farming, whether it's sold or kept.

Currently, there are about 5,500 acres zoned agricultural in western Canton. About 4,400 acres are being cultivated, and the rest is made up of homesteads, wooded areas and streams, said planner James Kosteva.

THE FARMLAND retention committee recently concluded a six-month study on ways to implement and finance the preservation of Canton's farming areas. The group believes a foundation offers many advantages.

For example, a non-profit foundation would be administered according to by-laws set up by its members. In addition, a foundation would have more leeway in tapping community resources, and could serve as an informational forum.

"There are a number of opportunities," said Kosteva. "It would be an appropriate vehicle to solicit funds as well as rights of land."

In some cases, said Kosteva, it might be a more advantageous tax break to donate land rights, rather than to give money.

Research by the committee, working with the planning department, indicates the foundation probably would be a second choice to landowners. The foundation probably would accumulate more development rights through donations than through outright purchases.

COULD A foundation do the job without the bond issue?

A foundation has "tremendous amount of flexibility," said Dianne Neihengen, a member of the farmland retention committee.

"But I don't think that would be feasible," she added. "I'm afraid it's going to have to be all (bond issue and foundation) or nothing."

Safety busing law may cost money

At the committee hearing, testimony was heard from school administrators and from Plymouth-Canton parents who are representatives of PASS (Parents After Safety for Students).

Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, (whose district includes Canton) attempted to attach an amendment to HB4978 which would have been favorable to the parents' position but it failed.

The bill was requested by Plymouth-Canton, Livonia, Warren, and Utica school districts, all facing large expenditures for buses if the attorney general's ruling stands.

AT MONDAY night's school board meeting, Dennis Farkas of Canton, a PASS spokesperson, presented information suggesting the director of transportation had misled parents about a gap study conducted by Canton Police and had given a censored version of safety committee minutes to parents.

Trustee Tom Yack said it appeared that Dale Goby, transportation director, had merely given the parent in question those portions of the meeting pertaining to the school her child attended and was not trying to censor the public record.

Farkas asked the board to investigate whether Goby had deliberately misled parents concerning when the police had conducted the gap study.

Meanwhile, the board Monday night voted to reaffirm its original position and have middle school students from Walnut Creek and Beacon Hill subdivisions continue walking to school.

The decision was based in part by a study by the Automobile Club of Michigan, which recommended the students could safely walk to school if they walk on the south side of Ann Arbor Trail the entire distance between the school and Beacon Hill Road and have all students cross Ann Arbor Trail immediately east of Beacon Hill Road.

THE SCHOOL BOARD Monday night asked the Wayne County Road Commission, as recommended by the Auto Club, to locate school crossing signs and school advance signs at the crossing area.

Robert DeCorte of Canton, traffic engineer for the Auto Club, also noted that several bicyclists were observed riding in the street, riding against traffic, or riding double.

how to present dentistry to children

Dentistry today is generally a pleasant experience. It's important that parents introduce dentistry to children properly because it may influence dental care attitudes for the rest of their lives.

At 3 to 3½ years old, a child should see a dentist to detect problems in early stages . . . and to insure a pleasant introduction to dentistry. "You're going to see the dentist to have him look at your teeth" is really all a young child needs to be told.

Do not use words like, "pain, hurt, shot," or even "not hurt" or discuss unhappy dental experiences around or with children.

Following these simple rules can start your child off to a lifetime of worry-free dental care.

A county charter

PRO: Exec would fill the big 'void at the top'

By Marie Chestney
and Tim Richard staff writers

Passing the proposed Wayne County charters Nov. 3 is the best way for voters to "get more bang from the buck."

So said George Ward, president of the 27-member Wayne County Charter Commission set up in 1980 to see if the county should operate under home rule.

Both Ward, D-Detroit, and finance committee chairman John Hand, R-Dearborn Heights, strongly support county reorganization plans. They were interviewed last week by a group of Observer editors and reporters.

"THE TEST is not whether it is better than some idealized charter but better than the system we have now," said Ward.

"You can't be too doctrinaire when you have 27 people working together trying to get a majority to say yes."

The proposed county charters are the first drafted in Michigan. County home rule has been in the state constitution since 1963, and the legislature passed an enabling law shortly thereafter. Cities have had home rule available since 1908.

The principle of home rule is that residents can design their own form of government. Otherwise, a local unit must operate under state law with its roots in medieval English custom.

IF PASSED, a charter would go in effect Jan. 1, 1983. It would make three major changes in Wayne County government:

- Put at the helm of county government either an elected or appointed chief executive officer (CEO). The CEO would appoint all non-elected department heads, including the road commission. The CEO would prepare the budget, and the three-man Board of Auditors would be abolished.
- Cut the number of elected county commissioners from 27 to 15 and confine them to a legislative role. The board of commissioners currently appoints non-elected department heads.
- Revamp present accounting methods to balance the county's budget.

John Hand
reform the budget

The present elected clerk, treasurer, prosecutor, sheriff, drain commissioner and register of deeds would stay in office. The county's tax rate would stay the same, 6.07 mills.

"THE CHIEF impetus for the charter was the (county's) budget deficits," said Hand, referring to the current $20 million deficit.

"We can avoid that with either version (elected or appointed CEO) of the charter. No function will be performed unless we have an appropriation."

Although the charter doesn't specifically ban deficits, it lays out steps to keep them from happening. These include a CEO-prepared yearly budget that details all income and bills, appropriations approved by the commissioners, and a yearly audit by an independent certified public accountant.

Some charter commissioners say the financial article, alone, makes the charter worth adopting.

BOTH WARD and Hand backed an elected CEO, or Proposal 1.

"There is now a void at the top in county government," Ward said. "I couldn't imagine our doing any worse. Where are the lines of authority? The buck would stop at the CEO."

An elected CEO is best, they said, because an appointed CEO (Proposal 2) who tried to exercise budget control over the six elected department heads would have little potency.

"I think the county commissioners that appointed this person would keep that person weak," Ward said.

"But if worse came to worse, I would prefer an appointed CEO to the current mish-mash," he added.

THE BIG question, Hand said, is how the charter will work once it is put into practice.

"Nobody knows until the charter is in place and the CEO is working day-to-day what will happen," he said.

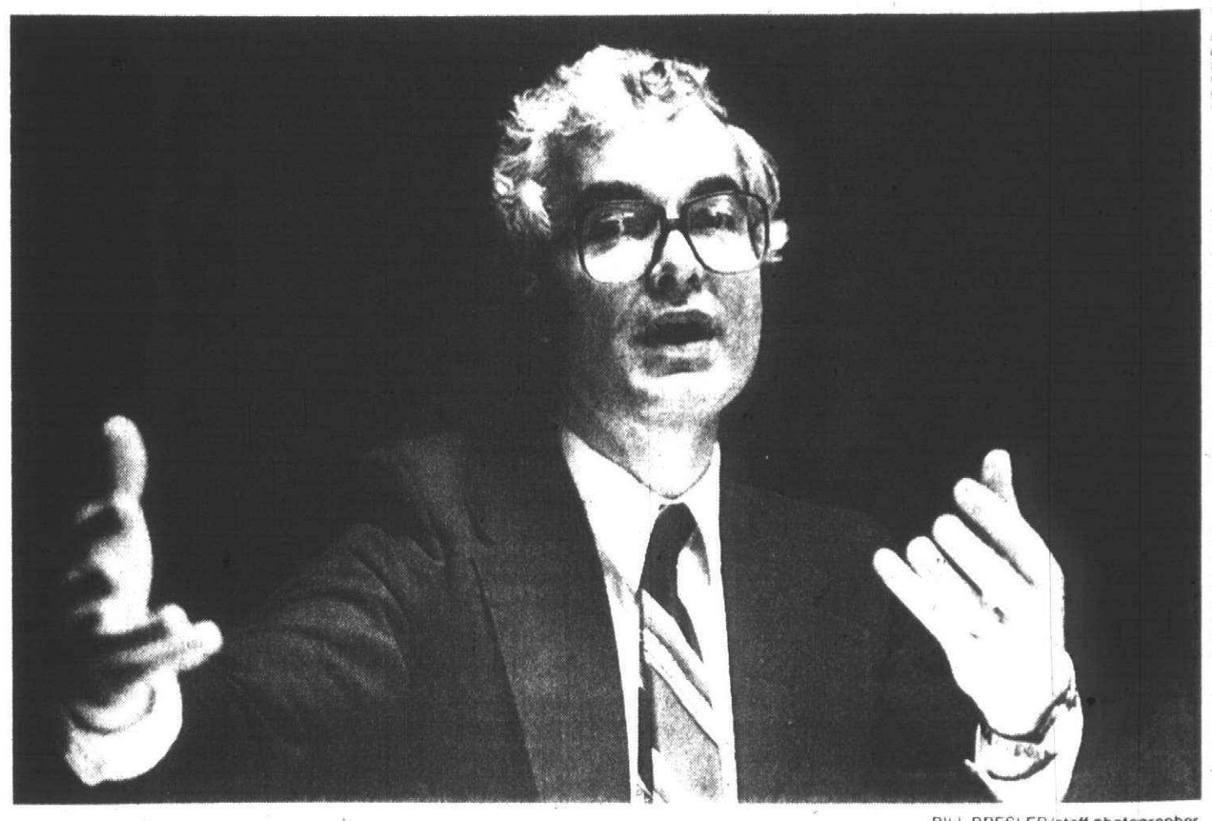

Backers of the charter fear opponents will attack it at the 11th hour with cries of a "hidden tax increase," Ward said.

"This is a phony issue, but we are bracing ourselves. The total number of mills levied (by schools, townships and the county combined) without a vote of the people is (still) limited to 15."

Ward told of the major changes in the personnel department that would take place under the charter.

"It would do away with provisional hiring and grandfathering without a Civil Service test," he said.

"Promotions and entry would be by competitive exams, and the department would be headed by a professional administrator."

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer
George Ward: "End the mish-mash"

AN ELECTOR MAY VOTE YES OR NO ON EITHER, OR BOTH, OF THE CHARTERS.

A charter shall be declared adopted by the electors if it receives more yes votes than no votes. If both charters receive more yes votes than no votes, the charter which receives the higher number of yes votes shall be declared adopted.

BRIEF CHARTER EXPLANATIONS

Both proposed County Charters, among other things, provide for:

1) A reduction of the number of County Commissioners from 27 to 15.

2) The elimination of the Board of Auditors.

3) A balanced budget and an annual audit.

These proposed Charters are substantially the same except that "Proposal 1" provides for a county executive elected by the voters of Wayne County and "Proposal 2" provides for a chief administrative officer appointed by the Board of County Commissioners.

CON: Cutting board size to 15 'a fatal flaw'

William Bledsoe: Try for "true home rule"

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

Change is needed in Wayne County government.

But the proposed charters do little to bring about that change, said William Bledsoe, who was a member of the Wayne County Charter Commission and is considered one of the more articulate opponents of adopting either charter Nov. 3.

"To call it 'home rule' borders on deceit," said Bledsoe, D-Highland Park.

Bledsoe, a city attorney, objected to the straitjacket put on commission members by state law in coming up with a true "home rule" charter.

And he objected to the cut in the number of commissioners that would, he said, lead to less citizen representation on the board.

"HOME RULE is a declaration that is a long way off," said Bledsoe. In his view, "no substantial change" in county government has been made in the charter. All that has been created, he said, is confusion.

"All we have done is put in a CEO (chief executive officer), changed a range of functions, and moved some people around," Bledsoe said. "And it doesn't make much difference whether the CEO is elected (Proposal 1) or appointed (Proposal 2). The commission didn't have a great deal of discretion. We have done little or nothing to change the basic structure of government at the local level."

In Bledsoe's view, "true home rule exists when it is of the people rather than under the direction of state."

Bledsoe said his viewpoint was backed by the Citizens' Research Council of Michigan, which has prepared an analysis of the proposed charter.

CRC describes the introduction of home rule as "somewhat less tangible but perhaps more significant for the long run."

"To get a good change the charter commission needed more latitude than it had," Blesdoe said.

BY CHOPPING off 12 county board members, he said, the charter commission has created a "defect" that will "fatally flaw" reform.

"The further government is removed from citizen influence, the less republican it is," Bledsoe said.

That decision caused the black members and a few white members from Detroit to walk out and abstain from voting on final passage.

A new "super tier of executives," according to Bledsoe, will only drive up the costs of Wayne County government.

"It will cost money for those salaries. It will cost money to reorganize. Do we really need another set of executives over and above those already there?"

TO ACHIEVE true reform, Bledsoe proposed something that sounded much like metropolitan government.

It would be cheaper for the county to provide such services as police and firemen than to have individual community departments, Bledsoe said.

"Cities can't afford to fund operations in the way they have been doing. It is only tradition that cities have their own police departments."

Under a charter, Bledsoe said he didn't "see many high prospects" for a balanced budget. By using a "budgetary-finance" approach, the county could have solved its own deficit problems, Bledsoe said.

He agreed with the "clear executive clear legislative" type of county government with a CEO at the helm.

MANY BLACK politicians see the existence of a county executive as a political and publicity threat to Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

Bledsoe sees it just the opposite. It is the smaller cities that have more to be concerned about than Mayor Young. What would happen if Young and the CEO work together and overshadow towns through money, power and numbers? The CEO will go where the power, where the votes go."

Charters topic of 3 debates in 3 weeks

Pros and cons of the proposed Wayne County charters will be debated at least three times in the area in coming weeks.

- The Garden City Business and Professional Women's Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 15 in the China Star Palace on Wayne Road one-fourth mile south of Cherry Hill. Dinner is $8. Anyone may attend by contacting Gerri Kiessel (421-8523) or Vincent Fordell (422-8782).
- The 2nd District Wayne Democratic organization will hear speakers on both sides at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 21 in room 19 of Jackson Center, Lyndon west of Merriman (near Hubbard), Livonia, according to Chairman Robert A. Ficano.
- The League of Women Voters will sponsor a debate by two members of the charter commission at 8 p.m. Oct. 29 in F 530 of the Forum Building at Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. Speaking in favor will be Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia. Opposed will be William Bledsoe, D-Highland Park.

Old pro's view: Reject appointed CEO

Ten years ago an elected Wayne County executive had few vocal supporters at 2 Woodward Avenue.

One supporter was Robert FitzPatrick.

As chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners from 1970-1974, FitzPatrick called publicly for a strong elected executive in an unprecedented "state of the county" address.

In the Nov. 3 election, FitzPatrick might get his wish if Proposal 1 passes.

"The charter is terrific compared to what we had before," said FitzPatrick, now executive director of the Wayne County Development Commission.

FITZPATRICK looks at the charter as a politics-savvy ex-commissioner and board chairman who has seen the view from the top and knows its bumps and potholes.

"County government is invisible to the taxpayer," FitzPatrick said. "It is sewers, drains. People can't see it. It's an enigma. It's a good place to put loyal UAW people."

This same United Auto Workers union, he said, will try to put political pressure on an appointed CEO, which is called for in Proposal 2.

"The union should have some voice in appointments and county government, but that is it."

FitzPatrick did say, however, that the UAW is no longer the "same controlling voice" it once was in Detroit-area government.

"There is a tremendous struggle going on (inside the UAW)," he said.

"Many of the 1930s people have left. It is losing membership and strapped for money. UAW leaders have mellowed. From 1950-1980 the county has undergone a transformation."

SO HAS the County Board of Commissioners. Before 1968, it was a 130-member body of part-timers with other political jobs.

In 1968, it was reapportioned and cut to 27 commissioners.

And in 1968 Fitzpatrick was appointed to the new board to fill a vacancy in Detroit. He was elected in 1970 and '72 and served as its chairman four years, longer than any other chairman.

After an unsuccessful congressional race in '74, FitzPatrick went back to business until the economic development job opened up. He now resides in Dearborn.

To some, Fitzpatrick is not only one of the fathers of county reform but a potential candidate for county executive.

He's frankly interested.

THE COUNTY board, as it works today, handles both administrative details and sets county law through the budget, resolutions and ordinances.

It shares its administrative role with nine independently-elected officials. It prepares the budget and certifies taxes. It also appoints those top-level administrative officials who are not elected. It has not been independently audited for years.

Because the board has "no single source of authority," it "lacks unified direction," said a recent analysis of the proposed charter made by the Citizens' Research Council of Michigan.

"Fragmentation" of authority, the CRC said, "heightens internal conflicts."

CRC also said changes proposed by the charter commission were meant to "strengthen the efficiency and effectiveness of the county commissioners."

No more than 15 commissioners, the council said, would make the board more "visible" and therefore more "accountable" to Wayne County taxpayers.

The drop from 27 to 15 was the most "controversial" part of the charter, CRC said. Those opposed to the cut feared minority representation on the board would suffer.

While it loses its appointive power under the charter, the board would be given power to confirm CEO appointments, much as the U.S. Senate confirms presidential appointments.

The board retains appropriation, taxing and borrowing powers.

The board can appoint an auditor general to watch over the CEO.

FITZPATRICK said he couldn't be "too critical" of the charter as written.

"Especially," he added, "since some members of the charter commission were elected just to defeat it."

A CEO keeping a watchful eye on the pursestrings of the county would cut into the spending habits of departments such as the sheriff, FitzPatrick said.

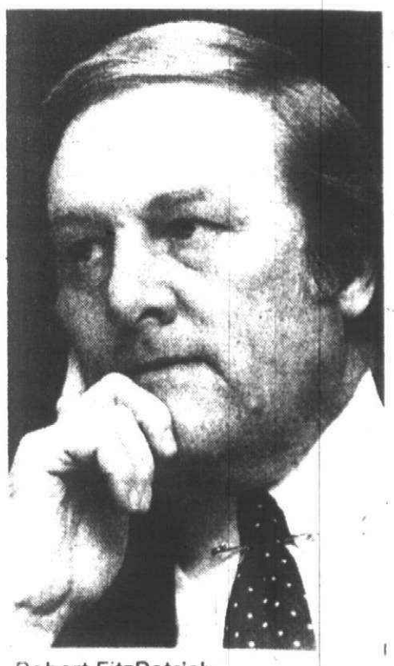

"He (sheriff) doesn't care where the money comes from. In 1974 the sheriff's budget was $4 million. In 1980 it was $20 million. The sheriff sees his position as the most important in the county."

FitzPatrick said there were those who didn't want to see the "center of gravity" shift from Detroit to the county.

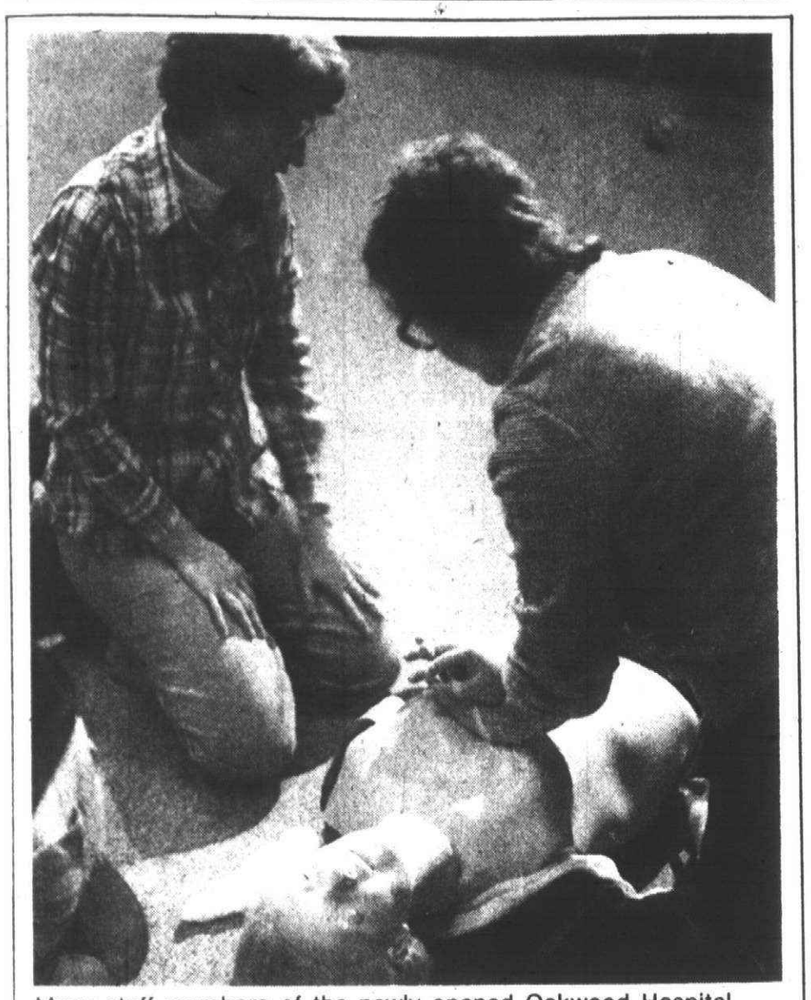

But is a county executive a threat to the mayor of Detroit?

"I suppose, if I were the mayor, I would be opposed to it just to be selfish," Fitzpatrick said. "Wayne County is the third largest county in the country. It has a tremendous voice in county associations. It would be the largest county to have a CEO.

"He or she would get a tremendous amount of publicity. The mayor would have to share the spotlight."

Library to share its cable channel

"My concern is that if the library has a channel that is being used by others, the public might mistake some other programs, which may not be of the high quality we wish to present, as library programming."

Ms. O'Connor said the library was supposed to have a 24-hour channel for its use when the cable idea was first proposed.

She admits the library will not use 24-hour programming. Most of their presentations will be geared to day and evening times.

Hugh Jencks, program director for Omnicom of Michigan, the company which has the cable franchise in Canton, explained the reason for the change.

"THE ULTIMATE idea is to get people to watcha channel," Jencks said. "Everybody is better served by a full channel. About 70-80 percent of television viewing is incidental. People turn on the television, and if something catches their eye, they stay with that channel."

Jencks said that if a channel has substantial blocks of time when no programming is presented, people will stop watching that channel.

He said the system now has 22 channels and is currently working on filling 36. If the library should need more programming time in the future, Jencks said Omnicom will take their needs into consideration at that time.

If there is a conflict between one of the library's shows and an individual wanting to use the same time, the library would have precedence, said Jencks.

An individual will have the option of using the channel when the library is not using it or of (possibly) broadcasting on another channel such as Omni-8, which is the local origination channel.

"Public access doesn't mean any specific time," said Jencks. In addition, if a program is questionable it goes to an advisory committee made up of members of the community for screening.

There currently are two advisory committees in operation, one in the Plymouth-Plymouth Township area and one in Canton Township.

from our readers

To the editor:

I am urging all the parents of this community to take advantage of Central Middle School's open house Tuesday, Oct. 13, at 7:30 p.m. You will not believe the state of disrepairs your school board has allowed this building to fall into.

The school my children went to before moving here was the same junior high I attended. It was an old building when I was a student, so the age of Central does not bother me. It is the gross lack of upkeep that appalls me.

A fresh coat of paint and a few murals on the hallways does not compensate for classroom windows that can't be closed — even in the winter, containers placed throughout the building in student areas to catch the rain; sections of ceilings and walls falling down, no tissue in bathrooms, thermostats that don't work.

When rooms get to 85 degrees, the teachers just open windows to make it bearable. How's that for energy conservation, taxpayers?

Then, of course, there is the hallway where an addition is separating from the main building and you can clearly see the sky through the ceiling.

The list could go on and on, but I want the district parents to see this for themselves.

When I called and inquired about these conditions, I was told there was a long-term renovation plan. The students should not have to wait for long-term plans just to be housed in basic human comfort and safety. Nor should the teachers have to work in conditions like these.

Two of our school board members have had children attending this building, so I must believe they are aware of these conditions but choose to do nothing. Or were their children only put in certain rooms? There is not a child in this district who comes from a home like this. Must we send our children to a school like this?

Please take this opportunity to see this for yourselves. Check all the rooms and bathrooms. Maybe the parents of this district can stand together and insist to our school board things be corrected now.

Wayne-Westland schools

The district serves southeast Canton.

Fourth Friday count: enrollments stay down

A review of fourth Friday head counts reveals good and bad news for the Wayne-Westland school district.

The bad news is that the district lost 833 students from last year, but the good news is that the final enrollment figure of 17,521 students in kindergarten through 12th grade is still 252 more than the administrators had predicted the district would have.

The unexpectedly high enrollments were found primarily at Wayne Memorial High School and at the kindergarten level.

"The kindergarten level came in quite a bit more than I expected," said Dan Slee, executive director in the student relations department. "These kids were born in 1976, and that was the lowest number the state has seen in 20 years."

Although the district had 81 more kindergarten students than it expected, it still suffered an overall drop from 1,191 kindergarteners last year to a total of 1,152 this year.

The number of students in a district is officially counted on the fourth Friday after school starts. That count is used as the basis for allocating state aid per pupil to the district.

Police formalize policy

When to shoot or not to shoot

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Two months ago, two Plymouth Police officers fired at Plymouth and Ganton youths as they fled arrest along the banks of the Tonquish Creek.

Just a few blocks away, the 17-year-old boys reportedly went on a shoplifting spree at the Lawson's Party Store that netted them a mere 12-pack of beer and some sandwiches.

Two of the boys were charged with several misdemeanor counts but the incident has produced further ramifications.

The incident has prompted a new Plymouth Police Department policy that tells its officers just when to shoot and when not to shoot.

The policy, drafted by Plymouth Det. Lt. Ralph White, went into effect last month. It was released to the public Friday.

Department officials claim the policy merely formalizes past understood practices. But it is believed that placing those practices in writing will force officers to take a close look at how they respond in potentially dangerous situations.

White, who based his draft on one used by the Detroit Police Department, said his research was prompted by a new wave of civil and criminal lawsuits against officers who believed they acted in the line of duty.

"IN THIS DAY and age, municipalities need some kind of guidelines to protect themselves from litigation," said White.

White said media reports of police officers and municipalities held responsible for injury caused by gunfire prompted a local policy drafting.

"It's pretty much been the media, and the cases themselves that brought to our attention that there's a strong liability present. We felt we should address the subject before it's presented to us."

The policy makes several points. Among them:

- Officers can only use their guns in the process of apprehending or arresting a suspect when that suspect is believed to have committed a serious offense, such as murder, rape, robbery, arson and serious assaults. They are not allowed to fire their guns, however, when there is danger to bystanders or if a lesser means of control is available to them.
- Warning shots are prohibited because of the potential danger of bullets hitting bystanders.
- Shooting from a moving vehicle is also discouraged, though not prohibited.
- Officers are prohibited from using their guns to club or strike someone.
- Officers are expected to keep their guns (both handguns and long guns) concealed from the public unless there is probable cause that a serious threat is present.
- Officers can use their guns to protect themselves and others.

Plymouth Police Chief Carl Berry said the local policy follows guidelines established by state law governing police actions but deviates from state law in one area.

"This one is more restrictive," he said. "We don't allow warning shots. In saying nothing, the state law could allow it."

He added that the policy was being developed in late September when Plymouth officers fired at the youths during a pursuit along Tonquish Creek. This and another police firing incident "pushed" the policy development, according to Berry.

(Earlier this year, a Plymouth officer fired at a Detroit man who allegedly committed a drug store larceny. The act took place during a foot chase off the Jeffries Freeway in Livonia. The uninjured suspect was arrested).

Berry stopped short of saying just how violators of the policy would be reprimanded. He said each instance would be handled individually.

Inequality has deep roots

Women's jobs give them double responsibilities

This is the third of 15 articles "Working: Changes and Choices" written for Courses by Newspaper, an extension program of The University of California, San Diego, with funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities. © 1981 by the Regents of the University of California.

By Thomas Dublin
special writer

Thomas Dublin is associate professor of history at the University of California, San Diego. His books include "Women at Work," which won the Bancroft Prize and the Merle Curti Award of the Organization of American Historians, and "Farm and Factory: The Mill Experience and Women's Lives in New England."

Even a casual glance at U.S. labor statistics reveals incredible changes over the past century in both the composition of the female labor and the nature of the jobs women perform.

Equally striking, the number of women working has shot up so dramatically that one might argue this quantitative change has been so great as to constitute a qualitative change in social roles.

Despite these changes, however, work today for the vast majority of women serves to confirm their suborbination and dependence in a world in which the predominant values remain firmly masculine.

AMERICAN women first began to work in large numbers outside of their own homes in the second quarter of the 19th century, when the cotton textile mills offered cash wages to tens of thousands of daughters of New England farmers.

By the eve of the Civil War, sewing and shoemaking came to challenge the leading role of textile manufacturing as occupations for women.

Domestic servants probably outnumbered female factory workers throughout the 19th century, although reliable early employment statistics for women are rare. By 1890 domestic service employed 1.2 million women; factory work, one million.

All other major occupations lagged far behind: In 1890 there were only about 250,000 women teachers, 100,000 in retail sales and a mere 75,000 office workers. Bule-collar work clearly dominated women's paid employment as the 19th century drew to a close.

WHO WERE these blue-collar working women at the turn of the century?

Almost all were young, single immigrant women supporting themselves, or daughters of immigrants helping to support their families.

Only about one in eight working women was married. Even among immigrant women, few expected to continue working after marriage.

A study of working mothers in New York City in 1910, for example, found that the absence or illness of husbands was the prime factor that led these women to seek paid employment.

Black married women were the main exception to this pattern, for the precarious economic position of southern black families led a high proportion of black women to continue in agricultural or domestic labor after marriage.

THESE PATTERNS changed dramatically in the 20th century.

Between 1890 and 1978, the number of working women — defined here as wage earners — increased from about four million to more than 38 million. At the same time, the proportion of females over 16 in the paid labor force increased from 20 percent to more than 50 percent.

Although men continue to work in greater numbers than do women, females now constitute about 40 percent of the overall labor force. That figure is inching steadily upward.

The greatest share in this increase is the result of married women entering paid employment. In 1890 less than 5 percent of married women worked outside their home. By 1975 this figure stood at 44 percent.

In 1890 married women composed about 12 percent of working women. Today they are fully 60 percent.

EQUALLY significant has been the shift in the nature of the occupations women hold in the economy.

Almost two-thirds of employed women were in blue-collar occupations in 1900, with almost 29 percent in domestic work, and 24 percent in factories.

By 1978, less than 3 percent of women were employed in domestic service and only 11 percent worked as factory operatives.

In contrast, clerical occupations have come to dominate the contemporary female workforce, accounting for more than a third of all employed women. Service jobs and professional occupations — especially teaching and nursing — jointly constitute another third.

With the transformation of the American economy in the 20th century, the white-collar portion of the female labor force grew from 18 to 63 percent.

DESPITE THE overall relative decline of blue-collar employment for women, some developments in recent years have run counter to this general trend.

Most noteworthy has been a new movement of women in to skilled blue-collar occupations that had formerly been closed to them.

In absolute terms, the numbers are small — less than 2 percent of the female workforce — but increasingly women are found in the building trades or are working as plumbers, electricians, or in repair servcies once exclusively male preserves.

TWO PHENOMENA are largely responsible for the current movement of women into the skilled and well-paid sectors of blue-collar employment.

First, the application of the anti-discrimination provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act to instance of sex discrimination has brought new federal government pressures on employers.

The result has been a series of affirmative action cases and settlements that have required major corporate and university employers both to pay damages for past discriminatory practices and to develop plans for integrating women into areas where they are under represented in the workforce.

Although the Justice Department has generally reached compromise settlements before taking cases to trial, the very threat of action has led to improvements in women's employment opportunities in skilled blue-collar jobs.

THE SECOND factor in the gains of women in skilled trades has been the increase in women's participation in organized labor, both as members and as officers of some local and international unions.

These gains have been reflected and promoted by the growth of the Coalition of Labor Union Women (CLUW), which has been an advocate for women's issues within the AFL-CIO and has contributed to a new awareness of women's rights on the part of male union members and officials.

Whereas unions at the turn of the century frequently opposed women's entry into the paid labor force, today many unions (though by no means all) are increasingly aggressive in handling grievances of women members and raising women's issues at the bargaining table.

The very existance of CLUW as a visible, national organization has given strength to women in blue-collar occupations and has helped prod a male leadership to deal with the changing patterns of work in recent decades.

IN THE FACE of these changes over time in the numbers of working women, in the structure of women's employment, and in the numbers of women in traditionally male occupations, what is most striking is the persistance of patterns of inequality that have their roots in the early 19th century.

The fact remains that women today continue to have almost exclusive responsibility for homemaking and the rearing of children.

In this context, the increasing proportion of working mothers means a double burden of work at home and on the job.

These dual responsibilities often lead to complications — such as chil oktr dbearing and rearing — that conflict with women's full participation in the world of work and hence may serve as a rationalization for the lower pay and status of women's wage labor.

REAL EQUALITY for working women will be achieved only as the broader domestic subordination and dependence of women beyond the world of work is eliminated.

The challenge of the 1980s is to move beyond the piecemeal, incremental change in the economic position of women that has characterized the post-world War II decades and to foster the broad social changes needed is women are to reach a new plateau.

The views expressed in Courses by Newspaper are those of the authors only and do not necessarily reflect those of the University of California, the National Endowment for the Humanities, or this newspaper. Next Week: Harvard Business Review Editor David W. Ewing discusses the growing importance oktr of professional and technical workers, who are liberalizing the workplace.

Resident invents ID machine for use by banks

Henry A. Siwik of Plymouth and Lawrence P. Kobylarz of Howell have been granted a U.S. patent for a drive mechanism they developed for bank passbooks.

Banks are making increasing use of automatic mechanisms for reducing the cost of maintaining the detailed records of their customer accounts.

One of these mechanisms is an automatic identification and posting machine into which bank passbooks are fed by a drive mechanism for automatic identification and updating of data.

Until now bank passbooks have been transported into position for identification and posting by means of rollers which contact the selected front and back faces of each passbook. Pressure from the rollers forces the passbook along a path through the mechanism to a desired location.

Problems of slippage occur, however, with the prior mechanisms when an open passbook has different thicknesses at different places. Such differences, for example, occur when the ridge at the center of the back of the passbook is parallel to the shaft or shafts supporting the rollers and the ridge rides between such rollers.

Differences in thickness are present when the two parts of an open passbook contain different numbers of sheets as happens when the passbook is not open at the exact center. They also occur in passbooks from which sheets or portions of sheets have been torn out.

As a result, the passbook departs from the required line of travel into the automatic machine and identification is made difficult and printed matter is placed in the wrong places or out of desired alignment.

Various attempts have been made to prevent slippage and the misalignment of the passbook which results. Attempts have included increasing the force provided by the driving motors, using rollers which have surfaces treated to provide greater traction, and using larger rollers.

These remedies, however, present disadvantages such as requiring increases in the size and cost of the rollers, driving motors, and other parts of the apparatus as well as presenting greater demands for energy.

In contrast, Siwik and Kobylarz have invented a novel drive mechanism which includes eight rollers, four of which are power-driven to serve as drive rollers and four of which are idler rolls.

The idler rollers are movable relative to each other and to the drive rollers. They are urged by a spring into firm contact with the bank passbooks and pass them agaisnat the drive rollers in such a manner that the passbooks are transported into the automatic identification and posting machine without the disadvantages experienced with other systems.

Siwik and Kobylarz have assigned this patent to the Burroughs Corporation, Detroit.

How to train hunting dogs

By Lem Mesec
staff writer

outdoors

Hunters should be preparing their hunting dogs for the rigors encountered in the field.

That is the advice given by Dr. James Cook, president of the Southeastern Michigan Veterinary Medical Association (SEMVMA), which is headquartered in Plymouth.

"A lot of hunters feel they should starve their dogs before the hunt," Cook said.

"What happens in such cases is that dogs can become hypoglycemic in the field because of the forced starvation. Hunting dogs always should be fed before the hunt."

COOK ALSO advised "running" the dogs daily for at least a month before taking them on a hunting trip.

"This will help toughen their foot pads, improve muscle tone and benefit heart and lung behavior and also prepare them for the running they'll encounter in the field.

Before pheasant and rabbit season, he advised, dogs should be run for about a month or longer to get them in shape for the active hours they'll spend in the field. "It's a big mistake to run the animals in the field without prior exercise."

The veterinary association also advises that good nutrition is needed to get maximum performance from a hunting dog. For that reason, hunters should carry candy bars or other sources of energy — such as dog food — with them to give their dogs quick energy in the field.

"Just as a marathon runner can't go without some sort of nourishment during a run," Cook said, "the same holds true for hunting dogs."

Because hunting dogs encounter every possible germ carrier which could infect them with distemper, hepatitis, leptospirosis, rabies and parvovirus, the dog should be taken to a veterinarian for protective vaccinations. A check for worms also is advised.

BRUSH BURNS, skin laecrations, thorns in the feet and eye and ear infections also are suffered by hunting dogs.

First-aid treatment for these afflictions should be part of a hunter's training regimen, Cook said.

Preadministration of Vaseline to tender skin is advisable to minimize encounters with foreign objects, he added.

Hunting dogs' feet are subject to catching thorns and small sticks which can puncture foot pads, inflict wounds and leave splinters within the pads.

Clark says these irritants should be pulled with tweezers as soon as possible, followed by Epsom salt soaks for 15 minutes twice a day for several days.

Some weed seeds, including squirrel-tail barley awns and downy brome, occasionally work deep into skin tissue causing infections which may lead to pus formation and abcess. For these infections, veterinary care is a must.

FOOT-PAD infections and injuries can be prevented or minimized by daily checks after hunting.

Cockleburs should be removed during these daily after-hunting inspections. The hunter should have gauze, tape and antiseptic for cuts and thorns in the feet on his person or in a supply kit.

Medicated toughening agents can be administered to hunting dogs' feet, either prior to or after an injury. Keeping toenails clipped also aids in maximum maneuverability for the animal.

Eyes should be flushed of weed seeds and other foreign elements with solutions of Lavoptik or Dacriose, said Cook, or any sterile saline solution employed by contact lens users.

"If a dog's eyes look different than usual at any time, the animal should be taken to a vet for inspection," he said. "The eyes are definite barometers of illness or infection."

Most objects which enter a dog's ears during hunting can be removed with fingers or tweezers, he added. Ear mites are easily treated with medication aailable at most pet shops.

IF A DOG gets brush burn or irritated skin, Cook added, gentle bathing with bar soap, proper dressing of the treated area and a few days rest will relieve most problems. The hunter's supply kit should include Merthiolate, Bactine or Betadine and material which can be used for wrapping.

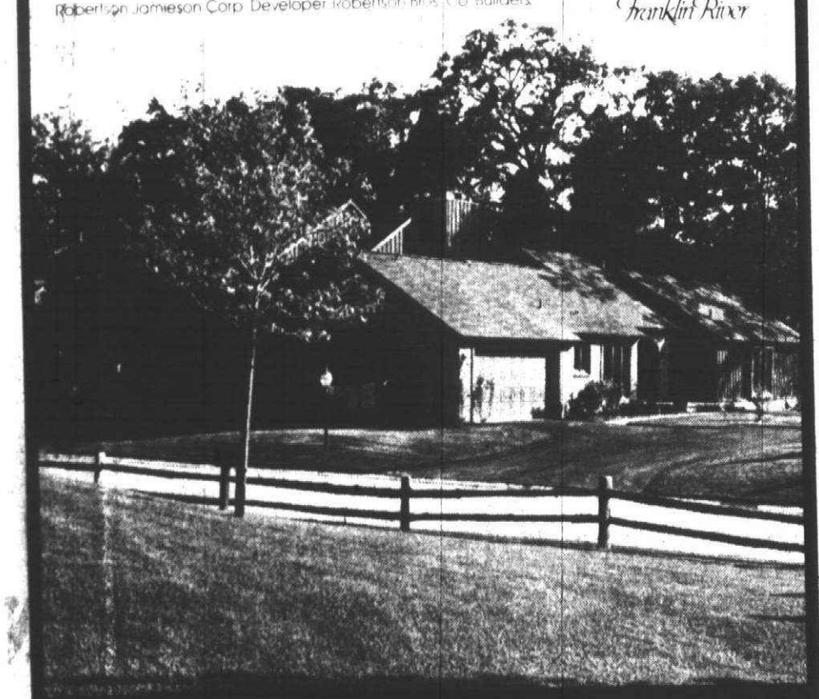

Porcupine quills should be removed by a veterinarian, Cook said. If one is not available, however, the quills can be removed by muzzling the dog with gauze or twine so the quills can be pulled out with pliers.

Farmland vote belongs to people

To the editor:

In response to Robert Shefferly's letter of Sept. 17, the Canton Board of Trustees acted responsibly when they voted unanimously to place a $7 million (not "$5-7 million") bond issue to purchase development rights on the Nov. 3 ballot.

This election is truly a community referendum — it belongs to the people.

The people of Canton will decide if we retain our agricultural industry, and limit growth to the area east of Canton Center, which is presently zoned to accomodate an additional 30,000 people.

The Planning Department has been charged with developing an extensive information program to reach every household, along with information posted at every voting precinct.

The League of Women Voters will host a public forum on Oct. 22, which will provide time for questions and answers.

The 1978 ballot question was never presented as a "once and for all" decision.

This one has been.

The ballot question presented in 1978 requested a four-mill tax increase. It failed by approximately 500 votes out of 10,000 cast.

The Township Board judged that residents favored the program to retain farmland, but had refused to accept a development value inflated by speculative pressures.

Today's cost to preserve Canton's farmland averages 1.16 mills.

Why the difference? As agricultural land supply diminishes, (faster in Michigan than any other state) and awareness increases that as we pave over a natural resource we push food availability further away, the agricultural value of the land naturally rises.

As the cost of development rises, and the profit margin for developers is narrower, the development value of the land diminishes. Hence, a lower cost to purchase development rights.

Not "truly amazing" at all, just simple economics. The cost of preserving farmland is declining, not despite high interest rates and inflation, but because of them.

Approximately 22 Canton farmers will be eligible to participate in this voluntary program, not "a few farmers (about three)," as Mr. Shefferly stated.

The Canton Farmers' Market is supplied with fresh produce from smaller parcels of land which Mr. Shefferly refers to as "outback." Since when does quality depend upon parcel size?

Not only will "we subdivision folks east of Canton Center Road" pay an average 1.16 mills to retain farmland, rather than $41 million to service urban sprawl, but so will the entire farm community as well.

The value of individual homes will increase, as well as the value of our farmland, because we will have a permanent agricultural area.

The board is on record as stating that this will be the final determination regarding Canton's farmland.

As a Planning Commissioner, you should expect that if the community votes no, the board will direct us to begin a massive revision of the Master Plan and Zoning Text.

Agricultural land will be re-zoned similiarly to the eastern half. Canton will have pushed the food chain further away, and our "hard-earned tax dollars" will rise in order to service an additional 31,000 people.

The real question is not better parks, recreation, adequate fire and police protection, less-crowded, stable-boundary schools OR agriculture, but only IF we retain farmland.

The real question is not do we pay for the western half of Canton, but how much?

We are in agreement in urging Canton residents to vote their choice on Nov. 3.

Dianne M. Neihengen
Canton Planning Commission

'B-and-B'

When in Ireland, you can live as the Irish live

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

They are as different as their owners, but it is like visiting a friend of a friend — you've never met the people before, but they don't treat you like strangers; you're one of the family.

I am sitting in the bay windowseat of a huge bedroom, looking across green fields patched with sheep to a Sunday morning horizon.

Behind me, the vegetable garden and farmyard are silent, but breakfast sounds rise from the kitchen below where Elizabeth Hegarty and her daughters are cooking a proper Irish breakfast.

I smell it here from my second-story window at Greenhill: fruit, eggs with bacon and sausage, homemade bread, toast, oatmeal, fresh coffee and tea.

I am in County Londonderry, Northern Ireland, but these breakfast smells pervade farmhouses, guest houses, pubs and country inns throughout Britain and the Republic of Ireland.

Such places are usually called bed-and-breakfast (B-and-B) but I think of them as "alternative accommodations" because they are not all inexpensive private homes, as that term implies.

Some are manor houses, like this one. What they all have in common is personal friendliness and service, a sense of being a guest in a private home.

GREENHILL IS within a half-hour drive of the Giants Causeway to the north and the city of Londonderry to the west, and about an hour from Belfast to the east. Everything in Northern Ireland is within an hour's drive of the sea.

The Troubles, as only the Irish could call their political unrest, are evident in cities like Londonderry and Belfast, where restrictions affect daily living and violent outbursts are often reported.

The Troubles are not very evident to the tourist even in those beleaguered cities, however, and there is only an occasional roadside patrol or a hotel fence to remind you of it in most of the country, which is an endless spread of green pastureland.

I think this patch of Ireland is a good and safe setting for anyone who likes a car-driving bed-and-breakfast type trip, with a little emphasis on country living, outdoor hiking, fishing or just down-home visiting.

NORTHERN IRELAND does not have luxury hotel facilities for a sophisticated city-type vacation, with or without The Troubles, but the government encourages a system of top-quality farm, town and seaside accommodations.

They give grants to homeowners for the restoration of buildings, on the understanding that those homes will be available for a certain period of time as bed-and-breakfast accommodation. They have also established a rigid, high-standard rating system.

There are as many variations as there are houses, so you could find yourself in a modern home in the city or a cottage beside the sea, but large square manor houses, like Greenhill, stand out for me as the most distinctive Northern Ireland B-and-B.

In County Down, in the extreme southeast corner of the country, I visited another manor house, Nutgrove Country House, where Heather and Christopher Cowdy offer an elegant cuisine along with their restored bedrooms.

Food lovers should have reservations at the Nutgrove, which won the British Airways Tourism Award for 1980.

If you go south into the Republic of Ireland, you will find an extensive system of accommodations from bed-and-breakfast homes to castles.

Across the channel in Britain, you can choose between farmhouse accommodations coordinated by a group of Welsh housewives, Scottish castles clustered north of the Scottish-English border, more traditional bed-and-breakfast accommodations listed with every British Tourist Authority office, or private country houses and inns.

WHAT IS IT like to stay in bed-and-breakfast accommodations?

They are as different as their owners, but it is like visiting a friend of a friend — you've never met the people before, but they don't treat you like strangers; you're one of the family.

From my second-story window seat here at Greenhill, I can see past a white garden pedestal, a rhododendron bush and clipped grass to fields glowing 40 shades of green.

This old manor house stands square and grand at the end of a long gravel drive. The Hegartys lived in the farm next door, Hegarty's family home, and bought this place a year ago. In that time they have restored the large sunny rooms on either side of the main staircase, the living rooms downstairs, and the bedrooms on the second and third floors.

This is a working farm. James is in a comfortable tweed jacket; Elizabeth is dark-haired, efficient and friendly. Their "welcoming committee" includes Carol, Jayne and David.

WE SAT WITH the family last night in front of a roaring fire. Now I hear the bell; breakfast is ready. I find it spread out on the white-clothed dining room table, just as I imagined: fresh fruit and juice, eggs of my choice with bacon and sausage, homemade brown bread, rolls, oatmeal on request, fresh coffee, tea and milk . . . all served with a side helping of generous Irish hospitality.

The rates are approximately $15 a night per person, including breakfast.

For information on bed-and-breakfast in Northern Ireland, contact the Northern Ireland Tourist Board, c/o British Tourist Authority, 680 Fifth Ave., New York, NY 10019. BTA will also send you information about B-and-B's in England or Scotland.

The Irish Tourist Board will send you information about such accommodations in the Republic of Ireland. Write them at 230 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, IL 60601.

NORTHERN IRELAND TOURIST BOARD

Long distance phone calls made easier for travelers

I was walking around the Minneapolis-St. Paul airport, between planes, when I saw the sign: "Watsphone." I found John P. Hutchinson at the Watsphone Communication Center, between United and Western airline counters, passing out literature to curious businessmen.

If you haven't heard of Watsphone, don't be surprised. Minneapolis-St. Paul is the first of what Hutchinson hopes will be a nationwide chain, and it only opened July 1.

Its purpose is to give business travelers access to a small private office and unlimited use of a WATS line for a fixed price.

Hutchinson dreamed up the idea when he was a vice president and traveling consultant for a management training firm in Minneapolis. He spent a lot of time with his possessions — briefcase, luggage, coat, papers, etc. — stacked up in phone booths.

If you travel much, you have been lined up more than once, waiting for such businessmen to get off the phone.

HUTCHINSON COULDN'T do much about his idea at the time because the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) had regulations against reselling telephone services. The FCC deregulated these services June 1, allowing Hutchinson to lease three WATS lines from Northwest Telephone Co.

Hutchinson has three offices, or booths, in his Minneapolis-St. Paul airport communications center, each 30 square feet. Each contains a desk, two chairs, a conference phone and space to spread out.

If you rent the use of an office, your by-the-minute rent gives you an unlimited number of calls anywhere within the continental United States without additional charge.

Twenty minutes costs $9.22, whether you make one 20-minute call to New York, two 10-minute calls to Atlanta, or four five-minute calls anywhere else.

It doesn't matter how many calls you make or to what continental destination; the charge is $9.22 for 20 minutes. One minute is $1.25; four minutes is $3.40; and one hour is $23.62 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., slightly lower from 5 p.m. to the present closing time of 8 p.m.

Hutchinson has applied for permission to install Watsphone in Chicago, Atlanta, Denver and New York. He is already talking to the people at Metropolitan Airport in Detroit, although he wants to get established on those heavier airport routes first.

THERE IS lots of interest in the system but a couple of things cause resistance among potential customers. Many businesses already have special discount phone lines such as Sprint or MCI, which offer discounted long distant calls to specific large cities.

And many businessmen work only with a telephone credit card; Watsphone requires either cash or a regular credit card like Visa or Mastercard. Hutchinson points out that his system uses regular telephone service and not microwave, "which is often not clear and must be dialed more than onece to get a clear line."

Watsphone also offers duplicating and telecopy service, and hopes to add some more sophisticated telephone services in time.

Is it a good idea? Will it work? Will it save you money?

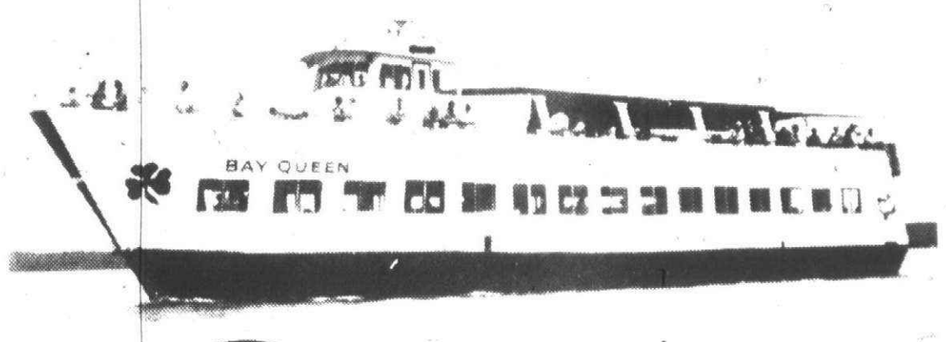

I don't know, but I thought you'd like to know about it. And when you know the answers to these questions, tell me.

Charter Proposal 1: a major achievement

First in a series

WITH GREAT enthusiasm, the editors of the Observer newspapers recommend a yes vote on Proposal 1 on the Nov. 3 ballot — the Wayne County charter calling for an elected chief executive officer (CEO).

Even if Wayne County weren't a nationally-known disgrace with its perpetual $20 million deficits; the charter with an elected CEO would be a tremendous achievement.

While we originally had some reservations about the charter commission apportionment and the timing of the election, it must be reported that Michigan's first charter commission amazed us with its ability to see the goal and craft the governmental tools to reach the goal.

THE BIGGEST single change — creation of an elected CEO — is fairly easy to explain.

County government in the 1800s provided pioneers the most basic of services — tax collection, storage of wedding and birth records, maintenance of the jail and so on. Each department was headed by an elected official — sheriff, clerk, etc.

In time, other departments were added — health, air pollution, mental health, labor relations, port commission, public works and more. They were administered not by single elected officials but by the 27-member board of commissioners.

So county government became what it is today: a political game in which department heads jockey for support from 14 of the 27 commissioners and no one looks out for the good of the whole. And when the board does attempt to restore fiscal sanity by (say) cutting $5 million from the sheriff's department, the sheriff can tie things in knots for nine months with unworthy court challenges.

The charter in Proposal 1 would take administrative oversight duties away from the board of commissioners, make the board a legislative body as it should be, and transfer administration to the CEO.

There is absolutely no argument we have heard to justify doing anything else.

THE CEO would have some other tools to effect better government.

Remember that autonomous, politics-ridden, little union kingdom known as the Road Commission? The charter gives the CEO a chance to bring that body to heel by granting the CEO power to remove the road commissioners at will if they don't stop some of their strange practices.

Can anyone name the three members of the Board of Auditors? A member of that group once insisted, with a straight face, that it was a wonderful institution because the members were a Pole, a black and an Irishman. Well, that invisible body would be eliminated and its budget-drafting responsibilities given to the CEO.

There are many, many other details which show the charter was drafted with genuine vision. You can read about them in our news columns or get a copy of the charter from your local city or township hall. The more you read it, the more we think you'll find it ingenious.

ONE POINT of controversy deserves comment. It concerns reducing the board of commissioners from 27 members to 15.

The controversy is a sham. It is a rationalization to oppose the charter concocted by people who were going to oppose the charter anyway.

There is every reason to cut the board's size. Fewer commissioners mean fewer ex-administrators trying to meddle in administration. Fewer commissioners mean fewer little cliques to keep an eye on. Fewer commissioners mean more visible commissioners.

Of the 95 home rule counties in America, 76 have boards of 15 or less. Only a handful have 27 or more.

The charter is an imperfect document written by imperfect humans. Nevertheless, it is light years ahead of the medieval structure which currently embarrasses Wayne County.

Proposal 1 deserves to be passed.

Next: Proposal 2 — the appointed CEO.

'Michigan — Robotics Wonderland'

We got a laugh as a van pulled out of the farmer's vegetable stand in front of us. Its bumper sticker said:

Michigan — Welfare Wonderland.

We can't quarrel with that, given how our state "social services" budget is swelling to almost the size of the education budget. But the bumper sticker, however true, looks at the tails side of the coin.

The heads side is our capacity for robotics, which, if you don't have a current dictionary, is the study and manufacture of machines which do human-type work.

In Gov. William Milliken's words, "No other state has our unique combination of higher education research facilities and private industrial resources to develop leadership in this rapid growth field."

SOMETHING ALMOST bewildering is going on around Ann Arbor. It's a strange marriage between the University of Michigan, state government and industry. I'm not entirely certain who's in charge yet.

Anyway, Milliken has appointed a Robotics Development Committee headed by Samuel N. Irwin, president and chairman of Irwin International Corp. of Ann Arbor. Some big names are on it Harold Shapiro, U-M president; Alan Schwartz, the Detroit lawyer; top people from Bendix, DeVlieg Machine, GM Technical Center, the UAW and Plante and Moran; and good ol' Bob Law.

If the names are familiar, it's because the robotics committee is an outgrowth of the Governor's High Technology Task Force. Law is the former state representative from the Livonia-Westland 36th District. Now a Plymouth resident, he is executive assistant to the governor.

"If we pursue our efforts in this field aggressively," said the governor, doubtless echoing his task force, "Michigan can become a world center for high technology, just as it has been the world center for the auto industry."

SOME BIG money is going into all of this.

The governor talks of a $200 million over 10 years coming to the robotics center from private corporations, foundations and individuals. The talk is for a site west of Ann Arbor.

He's asking $25 million a year from the state to support high technology. He's also supporting legislative bills to allow a 25 percent credit against the single business tax for increased research and development. That's a better use of tax credits than the three-martini lunch or a box at a Lions game.

Milliken is talking of three trade missions "to increase the visibility of our priority commitment to high technology."

SINCE VENTURE capital has been scarce in Michigan, the governor is talking of utilizing the Michigan Business Development Corp., formed in 1979 by state law, to sell $1 million in shares to five financial institutions.

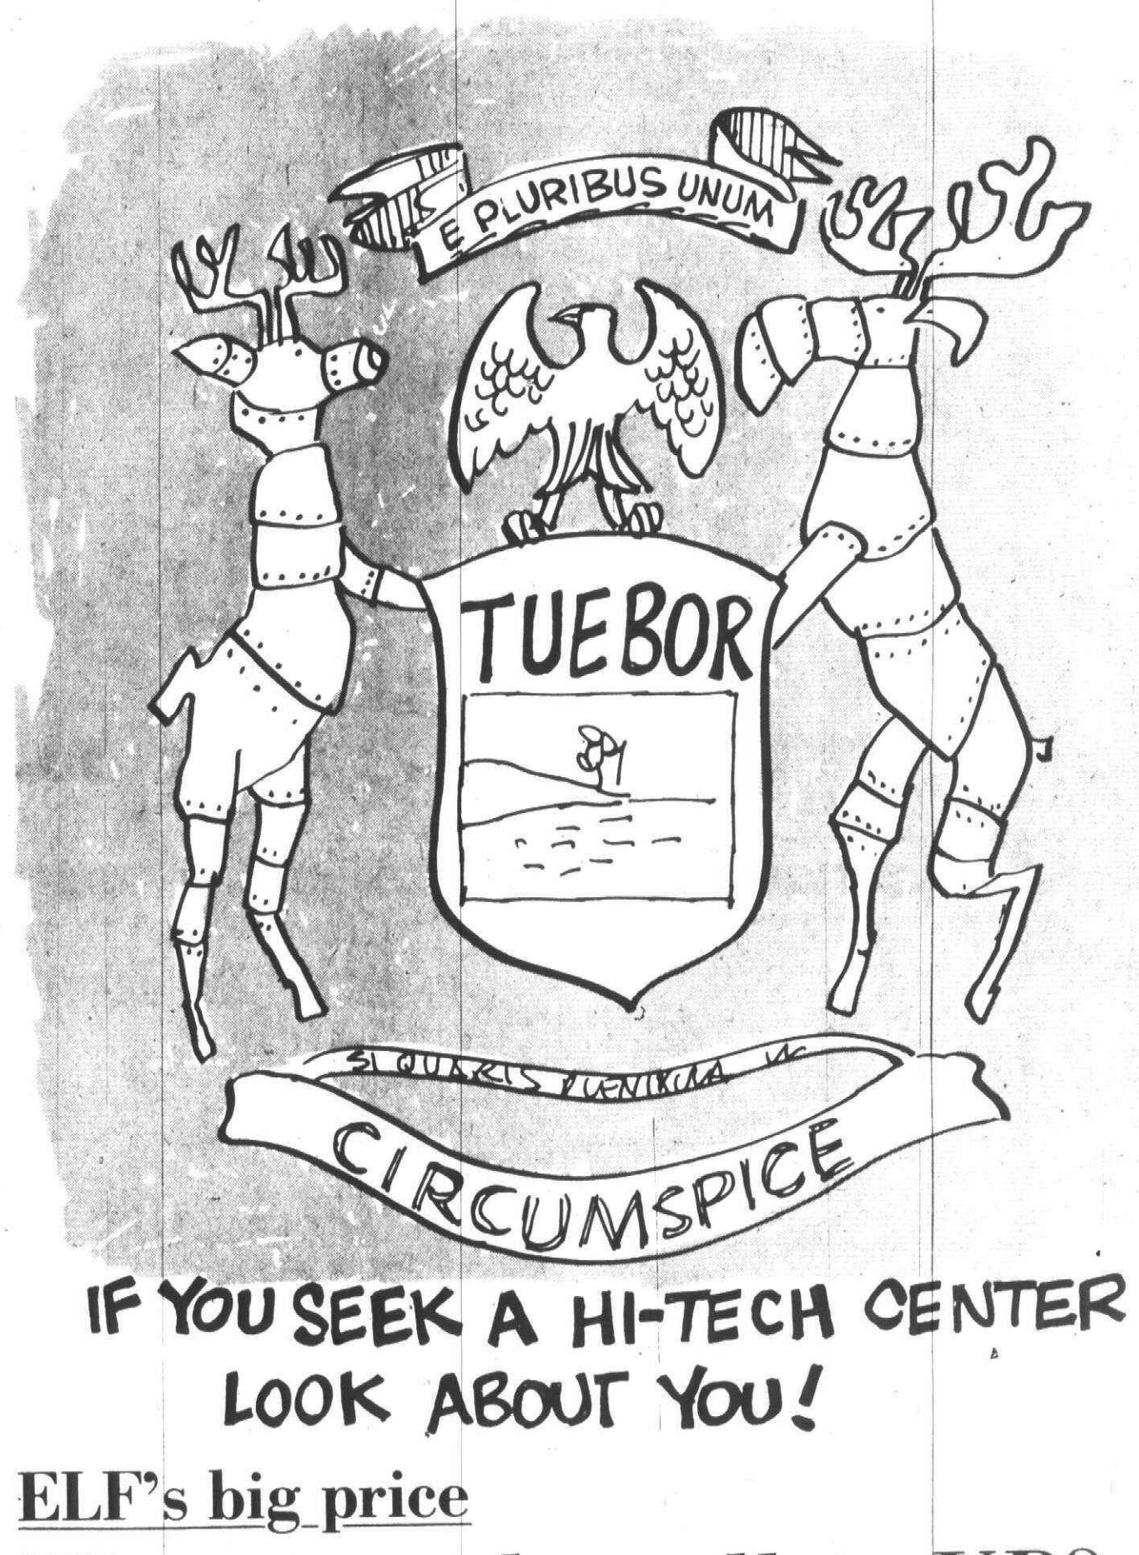

Milliken's report is a maze of references to the Small Business Investment Corporations, the Economic Development Fund, the Public Pension Fund and the Office of Industrial Training.

It's a long way from the simple days of textbook civics, when we were taught that government has separate executive, legislative and judicial branches, and textbook economics, where we learned that over here business is doing its thing and over there government is doing its thing.

Some will say, as did the biblical critics when the sinful woman anointed Jesus with ointments, that "the oil could have been sold for much and given to the poor." They will call what Milliken is doing "corporate welfare" and advocate spending the money on "social services."

Frankly, I like the idea of Michigan being a robotics wonderland rather than a welfare wonderland.

ELF's big price

Want an ugly troll in UP?

I always figured an elf to be the kind of friendly little character found in the fairy tale books my mother once read to me.

No such luck.

Michigan residents have discovered the real elf lives in trees, just like the television one who makes cookies, except this one has a much different mission.

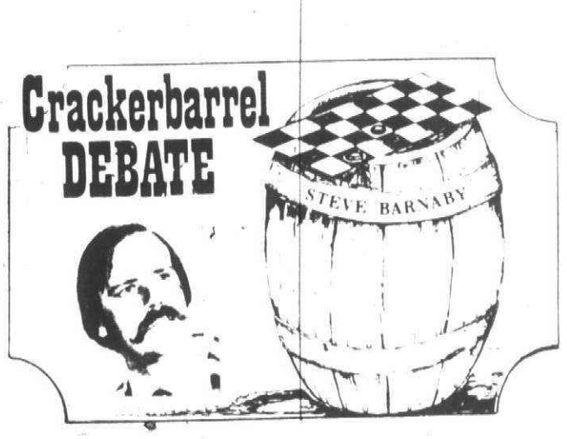

Now it's difficult to imagine why anyone would be upset with an elf in a tree. But state Sens. William Faust, D-Westland, and Mitch Irwin, D-Sault Ste. Marie think they have good reason to be upset.

Rather than a friendly elf in a tree, Faust and Irwin see it as an ugly old troll seeking a home on the north side of the Mackinac Straits Bridge.

The elf they object to is Ronald Reagan's Extremely Low Frequency (ELF), a network of cables planned to be laced through the the Escanaba State Forest in the Upper Peninsula. Its use: to transmit messages to submerged submarines around the world during a nuclear attack.

Although the communication system's frequency is low, its price tag is anything but — $230 million.

The battle lines are typical. Environmentalists say the system will endanger life and limb. Supporters claim it is Michigan's obligation to take on part of the defense mechanism needed to protect against the the impending nuclear holocaust.

IN THE MIDDLE are thousands of UP residents who have very mixed emotions.

On one hand, they would like to see the project go ahead. It would provide jobs for as many as 2,000 out-of-work tradesmen in the economically-strapped North Country.

On the other hand, it would make the serene North a prime target for nuclear attack, according to ELF critics.

Irwin's concern is understandable. Faust's is gratifying but surely suspect. The duration of his concern should be a concern.

Lower Peninsula residents for years have looked upon the UP as a playground to be overused in the summer and left fallow in the winter.

The only time Lower Peninsula residents pay any attention to Northern concerns is when UP residents start talking about breaking away and becoming Superior State, or when somebody wants to tear down half a forest to build a factory.

Certainly, the ELF system is of questionable value for either defense or economic benefit. We all should support Faust and Irwin in their effort to see it squelched — especially since Gov. Milliken has decided if you can't whip 'em, join 'em.

But after the battle is over, the real concern must be addressed. No longer can we look upon the UP as exclusively a playground.

A COMPROMISE must be reached between Lower and Upper Peninsula residents on sound economic policy for the North.

Every year thousands of us go to the North and enjoy it. But those people must have jobs that last the year through. To accomplish that we must give up some of the beauty.

Otherwise all we'll have is that mean old troll greeting us the and asking, "Who's that walking on my bridge?"

A pitcher throws on his legs

Did the Detroit Tigers and their medical staff miss the boat in their treatment of pitcher Mark (The Bird) Fidrych?

This question now is being asked as the curly-haired hurler, who captured the hearts of fans across the country, has been given his unconditional release and is back on his farm tending to a few cattle and a pen of pigs.

It was in the spring of 1977, the year after his meteoric rise in the major leagues, that a freakish accident started him on the road to a curtailed career at the ripe old age of 27.

Fidrych attempted a short cut from the practice field to the clubhouse at the Tigers' training camp. Jumping a fence, he stumbled and hurt his knee. To add to the freakishness, next day he fell on his knee while chasing a fly ball.

NOT MUCH attention was paid to it at the time. He underwent the usual surgery for cases like that.

But it soon was found that he had lost some of his effectiveness. He complained about his arm. And little more attention was paid to the knee.

That switch now is being questioned.

As he favored his knee, his pitching motion was changed a bit, and his effectiveness left him. All the attention was paid to his arm, and he developed tendonitis.

True, the Tigers brought him back too soon. But nothing much was done with the knee.

THE STROLLER'S attention was called to this oversight months ago when he spoke at a meeting of the Lions Club in Marine City. Seated next to him at the table was Dr. Lanson Cobb. The highly respected osteopath asked, "When are the Tigers going to get smart and pay attention to The Bird's knee? That's where his trouble is."

The good doctor went on to explain how the favoring of the knee could cause no end of trouble. He also let it be known that he had written to the Tigers explaining his belief — but never heard from them.

Did the Tigers miss the boat?

While it is only speculation now, it is possible that if Fidrych's knee had been corrected at the time and the surgery examined again, the Bird might still be out there manicuring the mound and talking to the ball as he prepared to puzzle the batter.

To many observers, especially those like Dr. Cobb, it is little more than a crime that a man of just 27 years should have his career ended.

THERE HAVE been other cases where an oversight ended a fabulous career.

Take Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, the star pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals who defeated the Tigers in the 1934 World Series. Dean was hit on the foot by a batted ball in the 1935 All-Star Game. Little attention was paid to it. But in favoring the foot, he changed his motion and didn't last very long after that.

The Tigers lost Roxie Lawson, a promising pitcher, in 1937 when he suffered a slashed ankle in a spring training accident in Lakeland. He changed his pitching motion and never made the grade as a hurler.

A few years later, Paul (Dizzy) Trout, one of the Tigers' top hurlers, was kicked on the base of the spine while fooling around at a party. It caused him to change his pitching motion. The trouble never was solved. He soon faded from the pitching scene.

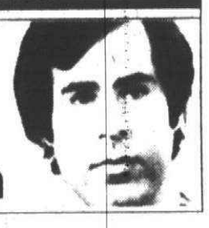

And now the sad case of The Bird.

Did you know that Oakland County, with 500 inland lakes, has more lakes than any other Michigan county in the Lower Peninsula? It is said that more than 20 different lakes can be counted from one spot in the state — the Irish Hills in Lenawee County. Largest of our 11,000 inland lakes is Houghton; deepest, Torch.

fitness

Barry Franklin

Fitness retards aging process

Q. What is the relationship between regular exercise, physical fitness and aging? To what extent can one retard the decrease in fitness which normally accompanies increasing age?

T.K., Southfield

Cardiovascular or aerobic fitness is defined as the maximum capacity of the body to extract oxygen from the air. Physiologists term this fitness capacity the "VO 2 Max".

The graph shows how the cardiovascular fitness decreases with age in active versus inactive individuals. While the active man's fitness still declines at the same rate as the inactive man's, the active man's fitness remains higher at each chronological age.

It is apparent that physical fitness shows a slow progressive decline beyond age 30 — approximately a one percnet decrease per year. Since an exercise program at any age will generally increase fitness by 20 to 30 percent, the extremely fit 60-year-old may achieve the same fitness as the inactive 30-year-old.

THUS, REGUALR exercise can retard the decrease in fitness commonly attributed to aging.

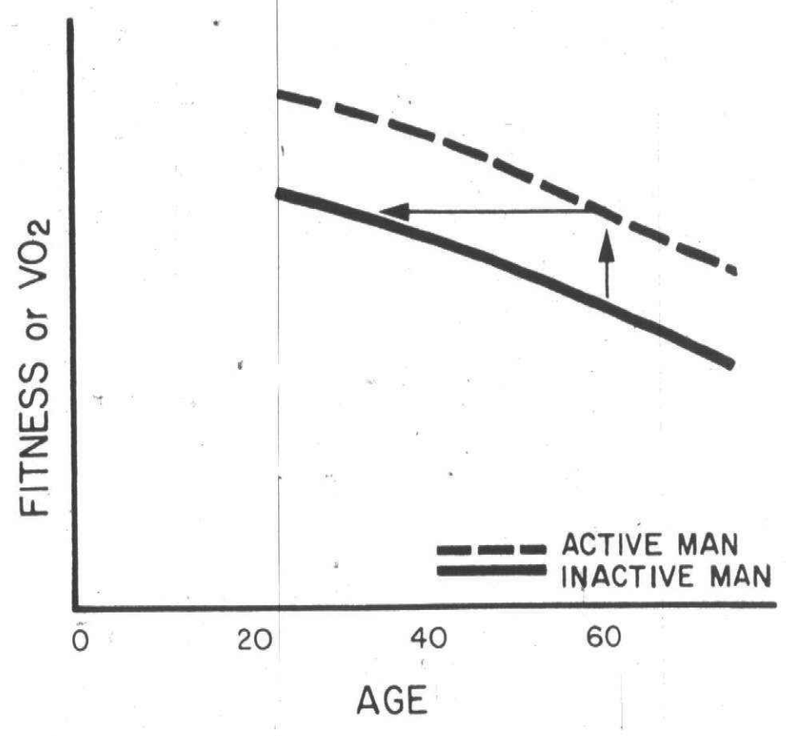

Another way of examining the relationship between physical exercise and aging is to study the effects of inactivity.

When a person of any age is confined by enforced rest, an array of physiological changes occur — all of them bad.

These include a loss of muscle mass and strength, bone demineralization, decreased lung function and reduced cardiovascular fitness. Interestingly, these are the same physiological changes that are normally attributed to "aging"

If one accepts the implication of this striking coincidence, it follows that the reverse — i.e., a high degree of physical fitness — should offset these age changes.

The lesson seems clear — use it or lose it.

Save taxes, obtain a high yield with our new insured "All Savers" Account.

What is it?

It's a new way to save that offers "once-in-a-lifetime" tax benefits as well as high interest. What's more, you can open an account for just $500 minimum deposit and make additional deposits of $500 or more anytime.

The new "All Savers" Account will be offered by all of our banks between October 1, 1981, and December 31, 1982. Deposits are federally insured and have a maturity of one year.

How much interest does it pay?

Every four weeks the United States Treasury sells its 52-week (one-year) Treasury bills (T-Bills) at auction. "All Savers" Accounts pay a fixed rate equal to 70% of the average investment yield obtained at each auction. Thus the rate changes every four weeks. However, the rate in effect when you make each deposit is guaranteed for one year from the date of your deposit, and this same rate must be paid by all financial institutions. (For example, the annual interest rate through October 31, is 12.14%.)

Is all the interest tax exempt?

As an individual, up to $1,000 of your "All Savers" interest is exempt from federal income tax. And up to $2,000 if you file a joint return. These are "once-in-a-lifetime" exemptions, regardless of how much you invest or how much interest you earn. The tax benefit is available in any one year, or parts of it in different years through 1983 as interest is received.

Will an "All Savers" Account benefit me?

The tax exemption and the modest minimum deposit make the "All Savers" Account a profitable new way to save. However, the benefits are not the same for everyone. It's a matter of choice and an "All Savers" Account gives you another savings choice. We'll be glad to help you decide if it's the right choice for you.

There is a substantial penalty and loss of tax-exempt status for early withdrawals from any "All Savers" Account.

What if I already have a Money Market Certificate?

If you bank with us, you can convert the Money Market Certificate you have with us into an "All Savers" Account without any interest penalty anytime after October 1. Just bring in your certificate, and we'll handle everything for you. And remember, "All Savers" deposits are federally insured up to $100,000 and the "All Savers" interest rate is guaranteed for one year from the date each deposit is made.

Is it better than a Money Market Fund?

An "All Savers" Account offers many advantages no "investment fund" can match. The rate is guaranteed, your deposits are insured, and depending on your tax bracket, the after-tax yield could be better than any fund pays.

Dogs need some care before the hunt

By Lem Mesee
staff writer

Hunters should be preparing their hunting dogs for the rigors encountered in the field.

That is the advice given by Dr. James Cook, president of the Southeastern Michigan Veterinary Medical Association (SEMVMA), which is headquartered in Plymouth.

"A lot of hunters feel they should starve their dogs before the hunt," Cook said.

"What happens in such cases is that dogs can become hypoglycemic in the field because of the forced starvation. Hunting dogs always should be fed before the hunt."

COOK ALSO advised "running" the dogs daily for at least a month before taking them on a hunting trip.

"This will help toughen their foot pads, improve muscle tone and benefit heart and lung behavior and also prepare them for the running they'll encounter in the field.

Before pheasant and rabbit season, he advised, dogs should be run for about a month or longer to get them in shape for the active hours they'll spend in the field. "It's a big mistake to run the animals in the field without prior exercise."

The veterinary association also advises that good nutrition is needed to get maximum performance from a hunting dog. For that reason, hunters should carry candy bars or other sources of energy — such as dog food — with them to give their dogs quick energy in the field.

"Just as a marathon runner can't go without some sort of nourishment during a run," Cook said, "the same holds true for hunting dogs."

Because hunting dogs encounter every possible germ carrier which could infect them with distemper, hepatitis, leptospirosis, rabies and parvovirus, the dog should be taken to a veterinarian for protective vaccinations. A check for worms also is advised.

BRUSH BURNS, skin lacerations, thorns in the feet and eye and ear infections also are suffered by hunting dogs.

First-aid treatment for these afflictions should be part of a hunter's training regimen, Cook said.

Preadministration of Vaseline to tender skin is advisable to minimize encounters with foreign objects, he added.

Hunting dogs' feet are subject to catching thorns and small sticks which can puncture foot pads, inflict wounds and leave splinters within the pads.

Clark says these irritants should be pulled with tweezers as soon as possible, followed by Epsom salt soaks for 15 minutes twice a day for several days.

Some weed seeds, including squirrel-tail barley awns and downy brome, occasionally work deep into skin tissue causing infections which may lead to pus formation and abcess. For these infections, veterinary care is a must.

FOOT-PAD infections and injuries can be prevented or minimized by daily checks after hunting.

Cockleburs should be removed during these daily after-hunting inspections. The hunter should have gauze, tape and antiseptic for cuts and thorns in the feet on his person or in a supply kit.

Medicated toughening agents can be administered to hunting dogs' feet, either prior to or after an injury. Keeping toenails clipped also aids in maximum maneuverability for the animal.

Eyes should be flushed of weed seeds and other foreign elements with solutions of Lavoptik or Dacriose, said Cook, or any sterile saline solution employed by contact lens users.

"If a dog's eyes look different than usual at any time, the animal should be taken to a vet for inspection," he said. "The eyes are definite barometers of illness or infection."

Most objects which enter a dog's ears during hunting can be removed with fingers or tweezers, he added. Ear mites are easily treated with medication aailable at most pet shops.

IF A DOG gets brush burn or irritated skin, Cook added, gentle bathing with bar soap, proper dressing of the treated area and a few days rest will relieve most problems.

Hunters interested in obtaining more information may contact SEMVMA by writing PO Box 118, Plymouth 48170 or by calling the association at 455-8520.

Check out fall color from a canoe or boat

By Lem Mesee
staff writer

Here are more ideas for enjoying fall color other than the gas-guzzling tours automobile promoters suggest:

- Canoeing. There are rentals on the Huron River near Wixom Road in the Proud Lake State Recreation Area; on Kent Lake at the dam (in Island Lake State Recreation Area); and at Delhi Metropark northwest of Ann Arbor. In October, rentals operate mainly on weekends. The Huron is generally high, with the rain of recent weeks, so canoeing is fast with decreased chances of your getting hung up on logs.
- Kent Lake excursion boat. The Island Queen" sternwheeler makes 45-minute trips around the lake on weekends, weather permitting. Prices are $1 to $1.50. It's in Kensington Metropark, where you'll need a vehicle entry permit. This Sunday at 10 a.m., there's a special fall color cruise with park naturalists Julie Cerbus and Mark Szabo, and the cruise will run 90 minutes for a $1.50 charge. Reserve a seat by calling the park office at 685-1561.
- Autumn's Changing Hue" walk. Starting at the Kensington nature center on the west side of the park, Ms. Cerbus will lead a 90-minute family nature walk beginning at 10 a.m. this Saturday. Dress for the weather. No charge, but call in advance to register.
- "An Autumn Color Walk." At 1 p.m. this Sunday, Szabo will lead a one-hour nature hike along an abandoned Kensington park road. Again, call to register. There's no charge. Meet at the Spring Hill parking lot.
- "Magic of Autumn" nature walk. At 2 p.m. Sunday at Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock, naturalist Glenn Dent will lead this three-mile family nature walk. Oakwoods is a dandy spot to see migrating birds, color and wildlife. To register, call 697-9181.

If you learn nothing else from this column, remember that driving miles and miles in a car is no way to enjoy fall color. Feet and canoes are best, with excursion boats and bikes tolerable.

"MONSTERS and Myths of Halloween" is the Huron-Clinton metroparks' most popular program of the year for kids age 8 and older, and you'd better sign up soon to register for this night hike.

The costumed naturalists will give the kids a chance to learn about old superstitions. The program will be presented rain or moonshine, so dress for the weather. Dates, places and numbers to call are:

Kensington — Friday, Oct. 23, call 685-1561.

Oakwoods (near Flat Rock) — Wednesday, Oct. 28, call 697-9181. There is a $2 per person charge, payable the night of the program.

UNICEF

A traditional Madonna and child is one of many cards being produced this year by the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) — the top distributor of charity cards. About 50 cards and notes, mostly in packages of 10 and priced $3.50 to $10, are being sold by Birmingham area Church Women United Nov. 2 through Dec. 11 at the Detroit Edison/Consumer Power office, 175 W. Merrill. UNICEF cards also can be ordered through the Detroit office, 961-3643, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Kidney Foundation

Santa and the kids in colorful array set the theme for one of six cards offered this year by the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan. They are packaged 25 to a box, and box prices range from $6 to $10. Imprinting is available on orders placed by Nov. 3. Call John Karol, 464-7819.

Charity cards ready for Christmas

HEARTS ARE getting bigger. Or organizations are getting more efficient. Or Christmas budgets are getting more selective.

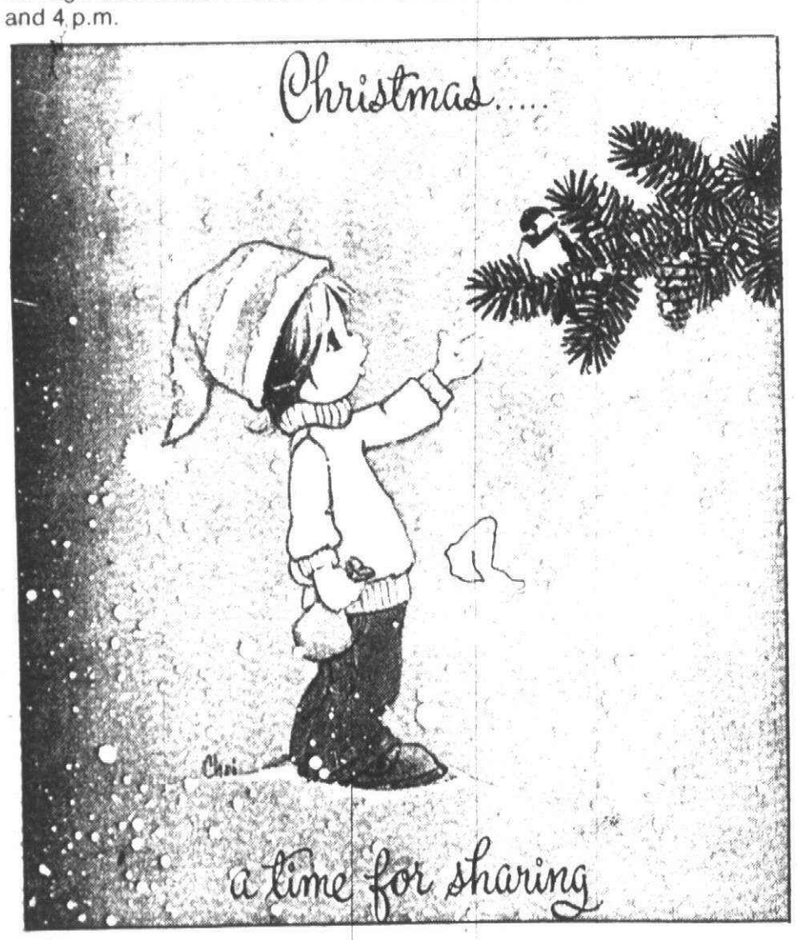

Whatever the reason — and probably it's a combination of factors — interest is booming in the holiday season cards that send contributions to charity along with greetings to friends.

Nearly 30 organizations, large and small in number and benefiting causes ranging from symphony music to cancer research, have responded to the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers' annual offer to give the public a chance to view the greeting card offerings.

Seven of these charity groups are represented on this page with the cards they have for sale. More cards will be published in coming issues. Hopefully, all cards submitted, together with information on how to order them, will find their way to publication.

In addition, these newspapers are offering another means of viewing the array of charity cards. Our offices at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, and 1225 Bowers, Birmingham, will have available display books of sample cards so that shoppers may see them in color and make their selections. All cards received will be included in the books.

Christmas shopping begun early on these pages can make dollars do double duty. Obviously, more and more shoppers are picking their favorite charity — or favorite card — and taking advantage of that bargain.

Heart Association

Pastel blue is this card being sold by the Michigan Heart Association to raise research funds to combat heart and blood vessel disease. It is one of three designs available at $7 for 25 cards. All have imprinting available at an extra charge. Order them through MHA offices, 649-1050 for the Oakland area and 425-2333 for western Wayne.

Mental illness

A young resident of the Fairlawn Center drew the Christmas trees on this card that will be sold by the Foundation for Mentally Ill Children. The green-on-white cards are $6 for 25, with an additional $1.75 charged for mailing in Michigan. Order them through Mrs. James T. Riley, 1288 Indian Mound West, Birmingham 48010.

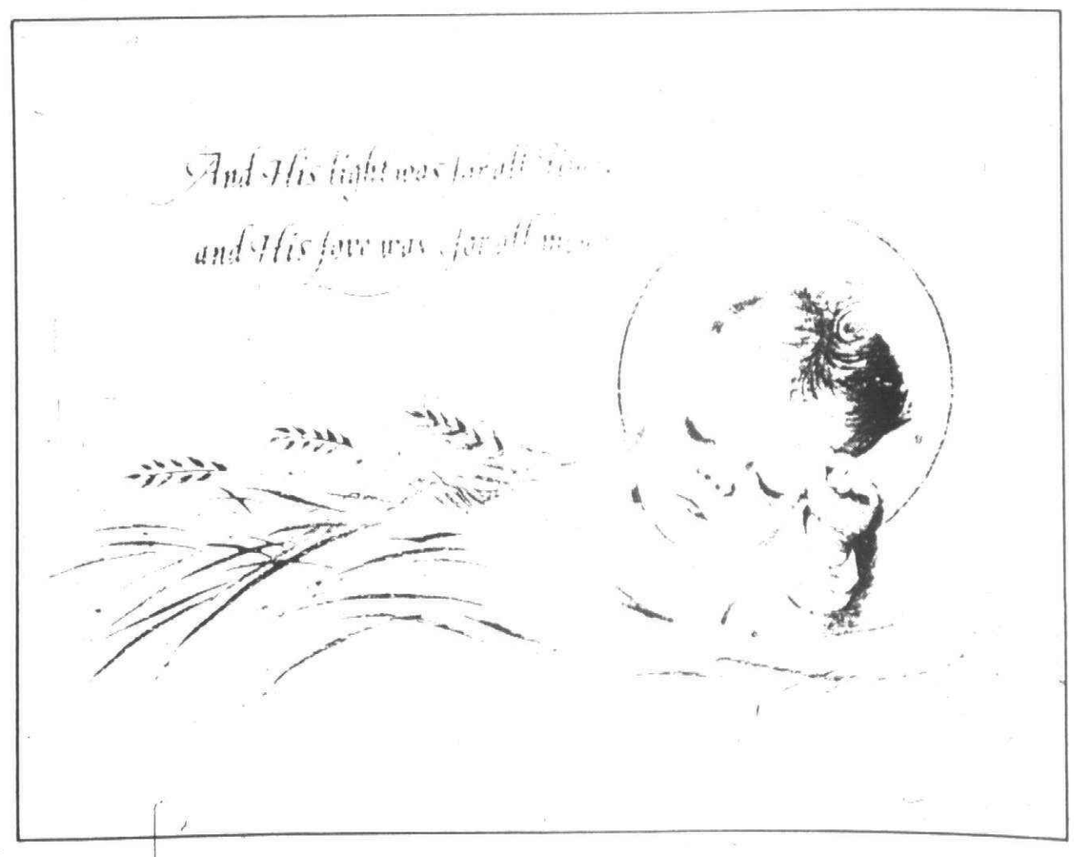

Reye's Syndrome, Lutheran auxiliary

Debbie Gladfelter's charming drawing of three children is the choice of both the Reye's Syndrome Association and the Lutheran Children's Friend Auxiliary for cards they offer this holiday season. The Lutheran association has pastel-printed cards, priced at $6 for 25, or postcards at $1.25 for 10. Order them from Doris Gaiser, 474-0291. The card to benefit Reye's research is a simplified version of the drawing, printed in dark green on light and costs $5 for 25 cards. They may be ordered from Mrs. James Gibbs, 642-3196, or Mary Mateja, 522-3707.

Michigan Cancer Foundation

Anticipation is the theme of this brightly printed card, one of four available from the Michigan Cancer Foundation. It costs $6 for a box of 25, and the others are $6 and $7. Orders may be placed by calling one of the eight MCF regional offices. These include the Oakland office, 549-4600, North Oakland, 332-5620; Plymouth, 453-3010, and West, 336-4110.

Sudden Infant Death Syndrome

A sleeping baby printed in gold and black on white costs $8 for a box of 25 cards and benefits research into sudden infant death. Imprinting is $3 extra and is available on that card or a winter scene also offered by SIDS. Order from Pam Nelson, 522-8291, or Cheryl Galvin, 335-8270.

Bird School to mark 30 years

Canton Chatter

By KATHY FREECE 981-2027

We live in a lively, progressive and young community, sometimes struggling for our own identity. We are lucky enough to have many surrounding cities whose history we share.

The 30th birthday of the Nellie E. Bird Elementary School is being celebrated at the end of this month. Nancy Tanger was the first principal and she has donated a scrapbook for all to enjoy during the festivities. All former alumni, administrators over the years and past and present staff have been sent formal invitations to the Oct. 23 celebration.

Gaffield Studios will be making prints from old negatives and giving a special touch to old photographs. John Gaffield's son, Chris, attended Bird School and Chris' daughter now walks the halls of the same elementary school.

Roland Thomas, president of the PTO, along with Allen Smith, Nancy and Lawrence Lenski, Judy Lore, Diane Smith, Jackie Binder and Kiki Farrow are all working diligently for their school. They are putting together a commemorative booklet to be presented to each family of the school and which will add to the awareness and pride of each student.

Buttons bearing the Thunderbird insignia, dated 1951 to 1981, will be handed out the morning of the anniversary. The present staff will be the official hosts and hostesses that day with special preparation beforehand by all the students. They are hand writing invitations and making the decorations.

Sam Barresi, principal at Bird and former principal of Field School in Canton, is the force behind all of the work being done this month. U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell got a flag which has been flown above the capitol in Washington, D.C. for the event.

A balloon lift will then take place. Each balloon will have a post card attached with information to the recoverer.

The main reception will be at 4 p.m. in the school library. There will be an evening dinner so parents can share in the day's enthusiam. Tickets can be purchased at the school or from any board member.

Nellie Bird loved all children. She was principal at Central Elementary School for many years and at Starkweather Elementary, when it opened. She taught Sunday school in First United Methodist Church. Mrs. Bird retired just before her namesake opened 30 years ago. This coming March the community will celebrate the 100th birthday of this outstanding and dedicated woman.

WHEN THE parishioners of St. Thomas a'Becket Parish get together they put their best foot forward. Their third annual pizza party was at the Garden City UAW Hall with Volume IV providing the musical entertainment.

Patti Cappuccitti chaired for this year's gala. Her industrious committee included her husband Mike, Nancy and Dave Stelmanszck, Sue and Joe Nader, Noreen and Tony Camalleri, Sharon and John Dale, Jan and Bob Scherle, Diane and Ron Ulasek, along with Colletta and Brian Marvin.

More than 200 Cantonites showed up for the evening party which made the dance floor nice and crowded. There was a mystery happening in which the dance floor was flooded with balloons. The lights were turned down and you had to step on the balloons to win a prize. There were more sore toes at the end of that dance than most people would like to admit. The balloons were filled with slips of paper denoting the prizes, which consisted of cakes from Bill Knapps and bottles of wine from the Wine Tree Imports. Prizes were donated to benefit the building fund.

Major prize was a weekend for two at the Marriott Motor Inn. The tickets sold like gangbusters because everyone wants to get away if just for a weekend.

To my surpise, as I entered the hall there was a chorus or two of Happy Birthday for yours truly as well as Father Ernest Pocari.

All of my neighbors were on hand — Dave and Nancy Luik, Carol and Mike Dugan, Tami and Gary Kistemaker, Liz and Jim Klagg, Ken and Linda Bright, Kathy and Mike Conkel, Marlene and John Birchmeier — to help me celebrate my ?? birthday.

It is great to share good times with good friends.

Hyde to address Right to Life meet

Pro-life advocate U.S. Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., will be the featured speaker at the Oct. 16 banquet of Right to Life of Michigan to be held at the Hilton Airport Inn. The banquet will begin the organization's eighth annual conference, which will run through Saturday, Oct. 17.

Hyde will be introduced by Michigan Supreme Court Justice James L. Ryan, who will act as master of ceremonies at the banquet.

Author of the anti-abortion Hyde Amendment, Hyde is a fourth-term congressman who serves on the House Judiciary Committee and the House Committee on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs.

The theme of the Saturday conference will be the International Year of Disabled Persons. Participating will be Dr. Arthur Besser, head of pediatric surgery at Henry Ford Hospital. He will tell of dramatic accomplishments in modern-day surgery.

Besser is regarded as an authority on pediatric intensive care and surgery, childhood trauma and care of injured children.

Also on the program will be Kent Smith, president of the National Spina Bifida Association, and Hiram Zayas, handicapped from birth and now an expert on rehabilitation for the handicapped.

Also addressing the group will be Dr. Leonard Sawisch of The Little People of America.

Cost of the conference is $40 per person or $50 for a married couple. Full-time students pay $15, senior citizens, $25. For more information, contact Paula Ervin at 453-7708 or Alice Radwick at 420-0488.

PCAC seeks composer to write special work

The Plymouth Community Arts Council has appointed a committee to select a Michigan composer who will be commissioned to write and conduct an original work for middle school band members.

The conductor will also come to Plymouth and work with the All Star Middle School band previous to performance.

The composition will be geared to the talents and abilities of middle school musicians. It is hoped that the composition will find its way into the repertoire of middle school bands throughout the United States.

The premier performance will be presented in Plymouth during the All Star Band Concert in the spring.

Members of the selection committee are Mike Chiumento, West Middle School Band director; Dale Baer, Pioneer Middle School Band director, and Janet Campbell, arts council member.

The All Star Band will be under the combined leadership of the five local middle school band directors including Cheryl Waldenmyer of Central, Linda Mapes Calzone of East, and Carl Battishill of Lowell. All Star band members will be selected by "blind" tryouts among musicians recommended by their directors. Additional audition information will be forthcoming.

The PCAC is funded, in part, by the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Hausman-Eichinger

Janice Marie Eichinger and Jeffrey Joseph Hausman exchanged marriage vows Sept. 5 in Mercy Center Chapel, Farmington Hills. The Rev. Thomas N. Lapadat and Deacon Joseph Daratony officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Adolf Eichinger of Farmington Hills. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Hausman of Plymouth.

Juleen Eichinger, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lisa Hausman, Kim Lee and Mary Dawn Withers. Greg Hausman was best man for his brother, with Mark Chatterly, Thomas Cleve and Jonathan Sbar serving as ushers. Perry Hausman, cousin of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

After a wedding reception in the Mayflower Meeting House, the couple honeymooned in Bermuda. They are living in Farmington.

Bohls wed 50 years

Lawrence and Vivian Bohl of East Tawas celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, Oct. 4. Their children and grandchildren planned the buffet and open house in the Kensington Place Clubhouse. More than 175 relatives and friends attended the party.

Vivian Grannis and Lawrence Bohl were married Oct. 2, 1931, in Ypsilanti. Before retiring to East Tawas, they were longtime residents of Plymouth, where he was a restaurant owner.

The couple have three children: William Bohl of Plymouth, Bonnie Stevenson of Hixson, Tenn., and Barbara Hardy of Chattanooga, Tenn. They have nine grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

BORED OR NOT the saga of the innocents abroad continues.

SEPT. 24: Left Ennis at 8 p.m. to Limerick where we stopped for picture taking of King John's castle on the banks of the Shannon. Some griping because we didn't stop to buy lace. Tea and rest stop at Portlaoise (pronounced port leach). On to Dublin past large race track (grass track), through town with man driving herd of cattle down main street; past maximum security prison (political); over moors which were common for digging peat and pasturing sheep, again marked with splotches of dye.

We were let out of bus in downtown Dublin near Trinity College and large shopping area. Busy, busy city. Had three large sandwiches for pub lunch — ham, cold roast beef and salmon for 2.20 pounds. Clive had warned about pickpockets before he let us out. Woman holds out coat and tells man to put money into it. She then flips coat into his face and when he involuntarily puts hands up to his face, her confederate picks victim's pocket. It happened to one of our couples as soon as they left the bus. The wife grabbed the woman's arm and pushed her aside, and they walked on. Wonderful dinner at Skylon Hotel. Young woman from German tour seated with us at dinner. They were touring just Ireland.

SEPT. 25: Good not to have to have baggage out this morning. Decided to have full breakfast for extra 82 pence. We were sitting with leader of German tour and his looked so good — bacon (the meatiest I've ever seen), slice of ham, two sausages, two eggs, juice, coffee and toast. Went for tour of Dublin with Irish guide, Maria. Visited St. Patrick's Cathedral; there are two cathedrals in Dublin, both Protestant. Choir boys sang, just nine of them, and the acoustics were perfect. Didn't tour Trinity College because my throat was sore and couldn't keep my eyes open. Felt better after taking one of Marian's Tylenols at hotel. Roast beef and Yorkshire pudding for lunch, tomato juice, hot apple pie with custard. The Irish are generous with food. They serve two or three kinds of potatoes, vegetables and rolls. Went to Drury's for dinner and evening of Irish entertainment. Excellent, dancers, singers, harpists, Irish tenor and comedian. Home about midnight in pouring rain. Early call next day for crossing the Irish Sea. Clive suggests Dramamine.

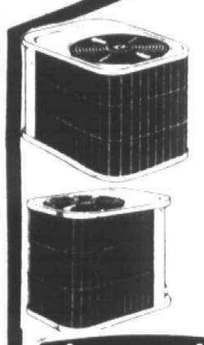

SEPT. 26: Up and away early to get ferry to Holyhead on Isle of Angelsy. Very smooth crossing. Only excitement was when we tried to get back on bus. I fell over a pipe, and Marian was almost overcome by fumes from another bus. Stopped at Caernarfon for lunch and had time to do some shopping. It is at Caernarfon Castle that the Prince of Wales is installed. Hilly town with nice shops. Street fair was in progress and they kept emptying the water out of the low spots of the plastic canopies over the booths. They all speak Welsh and the children switch from English to Welsh very easily.

On to Llanberis for overnight stop. Good to get back to an old hotel after the Americanized hotels in Ireland. This one was delightful — the Royal Victoria. Clive explained that a hotel can't use the word "royal" in its name unless royalty has stayed there. When I asked the manager which member of the royal family has stayed, he showed me — on a picture postcard — the windows of the rooms Queen Victoria had occupied. He said it was after Albert's death. Sheep grazing on lawn, mountains in background, just beautiful. My knee was hurting and we both had sore throats. So went to bed early and slept for nine hours.

SEPT. 27: Everyone apologetic about weather. We stopped at Chester. Too rainy to walk

The VIEW

the two miles around the town on the wall first built by the Romans. When we crossed the border, Clive announced that we were back in civilization. Tudor architecture in town. It is Sunday and everything closed but pubs, where we had a lunch. Visited with young couple from Scotland. Everyone seems to enjoy talking to people from North America. More industry as we went north past Manchester then into the lake country. Stopped at Grasmere. Can see why Jean said it was the most beautiful she had seen. Our hotel, the Low Wood, is old and great. Room with full bath overlooks Lake Windemere. We immediately managed to get our door to the fire escape stuck open (out taking pictures). Lots of Band-aids now, donations from tour group. Another big dinner.

SEPT. 28: On crossing border to Scotland, Clive announced, "there will be a slight time change. Turn your watches back about 100 years." Through Gretna Green and Glasgow then north along Loch Lomond. Saw man-made lake and park where coal mine used to be. Rain clouds and brief intervals of sunshine, beautiful rainbows, which everyone wanted to photograph. Brambleberries along roadside, heather in all four countries. Arrived at Oban, a lovely city on bay, about 5:30 p.m. It is center for ships going to the isles. Caledonia Hotel, old and great, overlooks bay, no private bath. Good dinner, entertainment provided in pub by young man who played Scottish tunes on accordian and pipes. All pubs close at 11 p.m. Took first Contact. Both coughing. Bus didn't leave until 10 a.m., but we slept in and missed breakfast.

SEPT. 29: Feel as if we're just getting into the swing of touring and wish we were just starting out. We'd leave half our clothes at home. Before I got up I was contemplating staying in bed in Oban and meeting Marian at the Plaza in London. Once up, decided I would live and went in search of a cup of coffee. Met Marian and we went into a hardware store which had a biscuit tin with Charles' and Di's picture on it. Bought one for Andrea.

Everyone, except some of the men, are crazy to shop. Just run, when we have a tea or restroom stop, to the nearest shops. Clive says all his tour people do it. We headed north and east, traveling beside lochs — some tidal and some fresh water. Saw Ben Nevis, cloud-topped, less than 5,000 feet but the highest in Britain. Lots of sheep and cattle, rounded rocky hills with reforestration projects in evidence. Remains of old castles here and there. Clive would tell history, most pretty violent. Past Fort William and on to the banks of Loch Ness. Stopped at Urquhart Castle for photos. On to Inverness and nice old hotel overlooking river. Heater in room, plus electric tea kettle, teabags, coffee, etc. Drapes of locally woven tweed. And plum pudding for dessert.

SEPT. 30: Beautiful country, the highlands, rocks, sheep, heather, lochs and streams. Houses miles apart. Glimpses of castles through trees. Saw Balmoral from afar and when we stopped at Braemar for lunch, the locals were all excited because Charles and Di had just left. Country gentle to south, great wheat fields and pasture lands, through fields of raspberry canes. Farmers wear caps and tweeds. They roll their hay and straw into big cylinders. Then across the Firth of Forth bridge to Edinburgh and the Grosvenor Hotel, which must have been grand at the turn of the century. Our room is about 35-by-20 feet with a 20-foot ceiling and four beds. I think we have a Harlem Globetrotter next door. (We did.)

Sherwin Wine speaker

Sherwin Wine, the outspoken and sometimes provocative Birmingham rabbi, will speak tonight to the Plymouth Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Rabbi Wine helped found the Birmingham Temple in 1963 and remains the leader of this congregation, the first to espouse the philosophy of Humanistic Judaism. This was the fourth alternative to Orthodox, Conservative and Reform Judaism.

As idealogical founder of this philosophy, he established the Society for Humanistic Jews in 1969 to spread its principles abroad through public letters and written essays. The ideas of Wine on subjects from religion to politics and current issues have aroused a great deal of interest and controversy in both the general and Jewish communities.

Rabbi Sherwin Wine

WINE'S TALK tonight will be aimed at the administration of President Ronald Reagan. He will consider important elements of Reagan's election — the right-wing fervor on social and religious issues; the Moral Majority's vote-getting power with calls to end abortion, put prayer back into the schools, and resist the women's movement.

The AAUW members expect Wine will address the issues and "call the shots" for his audience.

The meeting in West Middle School, Sheldon Road at Ann Arbor Trail, will begin with coffee being served at 7:30 p.m., followed by the speaker.

Membership in the AAUW is open to all women holding four-year degrees from an accredited institution. Any woman interested in joining the association is invited to attend the meeting. For more information, call Cindy Hillquist, 455-7132.

Preschoolers learn French in new program

New Morning School is expanding its preschool program to offer an afternoon session from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays. This session will offer a complete and planned program including French, music, movement education and idividualized learning activities.

Co-op and non co-op options are available and children may be enrolled for one or both sessions. Participation is limited to 15 children per session. There is a registration fee of $10 and cost is $3.50 per session.

For information about registration call Marilyn Romack, director of the preschool program, at 981-2537. Mrs. Romack is a certified teacher with a master of arts degree from Eastern Michigan University.

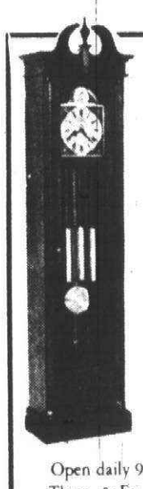

New Morning School is on Haggerty Road just north of Schoolcraft Road in Plymouth Township. The private, non-profit school is certified by the Michigan department of Education and licensed by the Department of Social Services. It serves students preschool through eighth grade.

moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong

Generation gap makes us fear aging

Recently I returned to my college campus for a 25-year class reunion. It is a college that draws students from across the country. Many had not seen each other since graduation.

In informal conversation and at seminars presented by our classmates, practically everything was talked about except our age.

We are all in our middle or late 40s. Some had noticeably aged to the point of being practically unrecognizable from their student days. Others looked as though they had been ravaged by illness. Some looked practically as they had when we had attended classed together.

The surprising thing is that although we all silently observed such changed features of our friends from years ago, nobody mentioned the awful word "age."

WE LIVE in a society in which it is a sin to grow old. Once one is retired, it is safe to talk about being old. Those who deal with the topic with the most ease often joke about it. Most still wish to avoid it.

"Don't grow old in America," should be our motto. Retired people may extol the free time they have, if they have enough money and good health. But they surely don't tell us about the advantages of ageing.

We ignore the possible values that older people may have for the younger generations and for our society. The old stories hardly count in a culture that looks always to the new. The wisdom of the older generation seems irrelevant to the younger.

Grandma can make baby blankets, needlework and home-made pies. Grandpa can tell stories about family times and stoke the fireplace. More typically, the grandparents are in retirement housing and the children have moved to another state. The generations drift apart into separateness that harms everyone.

WHAT WE MISS is everything that ties us with the generations past, that gives continuity and meaning to the future.

What is gone is for children to see how people get old with dignity and meaning. What is lacking is the gradual meaning that grows between generations as to the meaning of life itself.

Dr. Ross Snyder speaks of such a relationship with the older generation as an adult "guarantor." Such persons who are further along in life can guarantee the future for us. They enableus to feel that possibilities of a future still call us forth into life.

A HASIDIC saying suggests, "Every day man shall go forth out of Egypt, out of distress." The older generation can exhibit how persons can find possibility in this moment in history. They can help us make our way through the maze.

No one generation has the final truth or method for living life and passing on the faith that must undergird life for the next age.

We need cross-generational relationships and cross-generational wisdom to enable us together to meet today's challenge. It may be okay to grow old in America if the generations will come together.

Pony express

Judy Santieu and John Segasser get a horse into the act at the Children's Riding Academy in Canton to dramatize the pony express finance campaign that currently involves their church, Garden City United Presbyterian. The drive that began Oct. 11 is directed by Joe Flynn as "trail boss" and has "station agents" like Segasser passing along saddlebags like the one he is handing to Mrs. Santieu. Families make their financial pledges to the church for the coming year and then pass the saddlebag along. The teamwork, said Flynn, works like the pony express of earlier times, when mail was handed along from rider to rider until reaching its destination. Church teams also are competing to see which can finish first.

Tight end basks in 'Rocky Mountain High'

Egloff aids Denver resurgence

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Ron Egloff grew up watching the Detroit Lions play.

And last Sunday the Plymouth Salem graduate, now a tight end with the Denver Broncos, knocked heads for the first time with his former television heroes.

Now in his fifth season, Egloff is part of the Broncos' recent resurgence. His blocking helped Denver to a 27-21 win over the slumping Lions.

"I always root for them to win," said Egloff. "But before the game I had no special feeling. It was no big deal. I was like that too when I was at Wisconsin and came here to play against Michigan.

"The Lions are a good team, and I can't understand why they can't win their division."

Egloff, who helps first-stringer Riley Odoms on goal-line blocking situations in Denver's two-tight-end alignment, used his 6-foot-5, 235-pound frame last week to block the likes to Detroit's Bubba Baker, Dave Pureifoy, Stan White and Gary Cobb.

"They (the Lions) played a good game against us," said the 1973 Salem grad. "Sims (Billy) is one of the best backs I've seen. He had 185 yards against us. He's right in there with Earl (Campbell) and O.J. (Simpson)."

Egloff, who missed the Thanksgiving Day game against the Lions in 1978 because of a torn hamstring, has fit in nicely with first-year coach Dan Reeves' new offense.

Egloff said it isn't hard to pinpoint the Broncos' 5-1 start.

"THE BIG THING this year is that we haven't had injuries," he said. "And another key is that our offense has more imagination.

"For being only 37 years old, Dan Reeves knows a lot more about football than some coaches learn in their entire life.

"He's got the total respect of the team. He's a very intelligent man."

Bronco quarterback Craig Morton, the rejuvenated 38-year-old, had Egloff on his mind when Denver threatened to score late in the first half.

"We were down on the goal line and the play was called for me," Egloff said. "It's called a 'Rover Wham' where I'm going in motion. It's been pretty effective. Usually I block the nose man, but I went beyond the line. I wasn't open because a guy (from the Lions) was waiting and had me pretty well covered."

Another favorite team of Egloff is his alma mater — Wisconsin — also off to a red-hot start.

"I'll be there for the Rose Bowl," predicted Egloff. "Well, maybe not because it looks like we might be doing something at that time, too."

The 26-year-old Egloff, who makes periodic visits back to his old stomping grounds on Adams Street in Plymouth, resides in Denver all year round with his new bride, Julee.

Salem cagers overcome Pats

By Jay Keenan
special writer

Plymouth Salem, a team of Davids, overcame a serious height disadvantage Tuesday to trim Livonia Franklin's team of giants, 41-38, in a thrilling non-league girls' basketball game.

The game matched two of the state's top-10 teams.

The Rocks overcame a 22-12 Franklin lead midway through the second quarter largely due to aggressive rebounding and defensive pressure.

"I think one of the things we did best in this game was that we were able to battle on the boards," said Salem coach Bob Blohm, whose team's tallest player is 5 feet 8 inches tall. "We fought for a lot of rebounds against one of the bigger teams around."

The Patriots, who fell to 9-2 on the season, posed a front line which averages nearly 6 feet.

"Our intensity was just great," he said. "When we were behind, the girls never panicked, and they just kept playing.

"I'm proud of the way all the girls played."

The willful Rocks broke a 36-36 tie with 2:58 left in the game when Eileen Moore darted a quick pass to Jacque Merrifield for a layup.

Salem got the ball right back at the 1:20 mark when the Patriots were charged with a three-second lane violation.

THE ROCKS went into their delay tactics before Franklin forced a foul on Moore with 39 seconds to go.

And to the delight of the enthusiastic Salem fans, Moore hit both ends of a crucial one-and-one situation to put the Rocks up by four, 40-36.

Julie Wilga answered with a jumper 11 seconds later to cut the lead to two, 40-38.

Franklin went immediately into a full-court press and fouled Jacque Merrifield with eight seconds left. The Salem junior hit her first shot to put the game away.

"If we would have lost, I wouldn't have felt it was a loss," said Blohm, whose team upped its overall record to 10-1. "Both teams played an exceptional game. I can't even say that the Franklin girls are losers tonight. It was just a matter of who had the most points when the clock ran out.

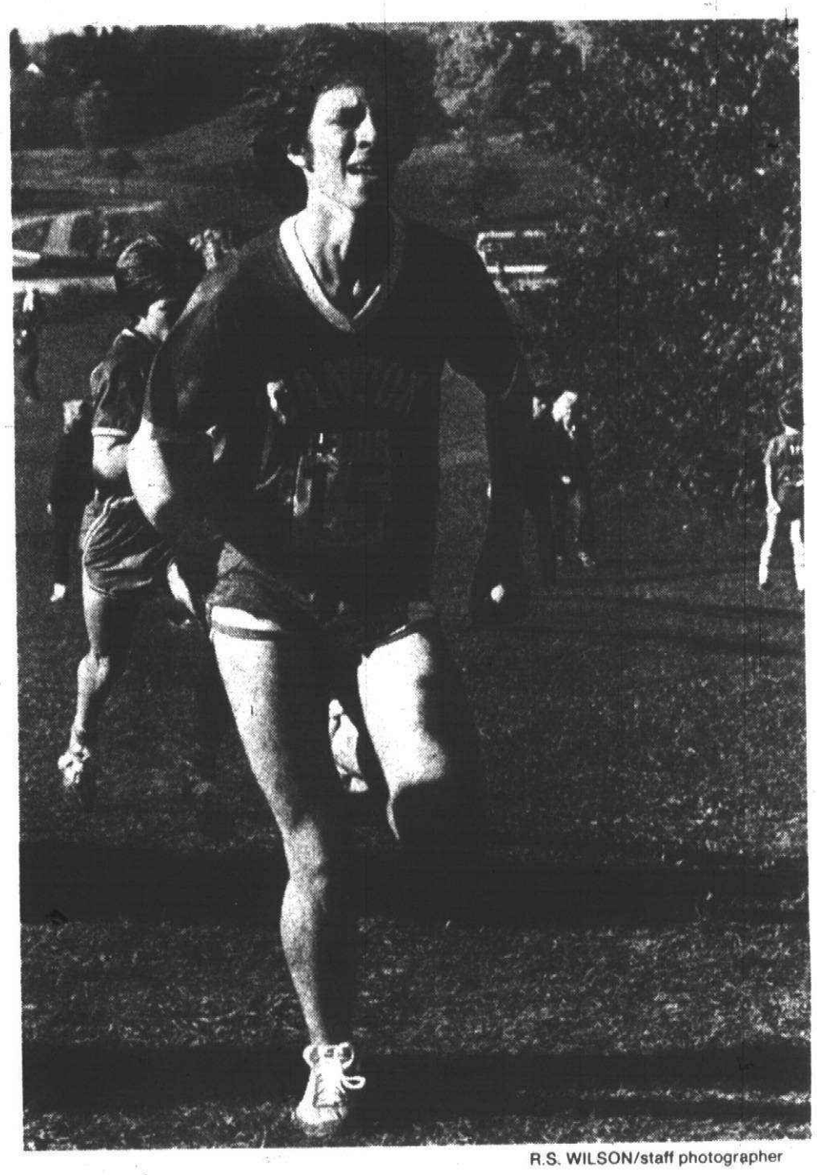

"I think that Franklin is one of the legitimate top-10 teams in the state of Michigan that deserves recognition. They have a great program and are well-coached and have exceptional players."

Salem took the lead for the first time, 28-27, when Jan MacKenzie canned a long-range shot from the corner with 2:11 remaining in the third period.

Moore's perimeter shot at the buzzer gave Salem a 30-29 advantage going into the final quarter.

Dearborn claims RU Invitational

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Host Redford Union made a strong showing in its own boys' cross country invitational Tuesday at Cass Benton Park's 5,000-meter course.

The RU harriers gained second place, just five points behind champion Dearborn, which regained its team title from a year ago.

The Pioneers, who lost their five top runners to graduation, totaled 97 points to RU's 102. Rounding out the top 10 were Northville, third place, 120; Livonia Churchill, fourth, 129; Westland John Glenn, fifth, 144; Walled Lake Western, sixth, 159; North Farmington, seventh, 192; Trenton, eighth, 201; Livonia Stevenson, ninth, 243, and Redford Thurston, 10th, 246.

Northville's Clark Couyoumjian won the event with a time of 16:04. The Schoolcraft Invitational champ edged Livonia Stevenson sophomore Ken Dubois, who settled for second place.

Rounding out the top 10 individual finishers were John Thrash, Redford Union, third; Pete Stephens, John Glenn, fourth; Scott Dayton, Northville, fifth; Ken Showich, Thurston, sixth; Dave Malinowski, Northville, seventh; Shannon Archer, Dearborn, eighth; Kyle Chura, Walled Lake Western, ninth, and Steve Johnson, Dearborn, 10th.

DEARBORN COACH John Spain was not overjoyed by the verdict.

"I don't want to sound conceited," he said, "but I think we can run better.

"When it came to race time I thought RU was the team to beat. I didn't look at winning the meet. I wanted a good effort."

The Dearborn team, which is currently running second to rival Dearborn Edsel Ford in the Suburban Eight League, obviously did not get the effort wanted by Spain.

After the Pioneers accepted the team trophy, the Dearborn coach lashed into his contingent.

Rounding out the team scoring was Belleville, 11th place, 255; Plymouth Salem, 12th, 266; Livonia Bentley, 13th, 328; Plymouth Canton, 14th, 353; Farmington, 15th, 404; Garden City East, 16th, 418, and Farmington Harrison, 17th, 438.

Individually, Tom Gibson of John Glenn gained 11th. He was followed by Chris Walker, North Farmington, 12th; Pat Zanetti, Trenton, 13th; John Fisher, Belleville, 14th; Robin Peters, Thurston, 15th; Mike Blaies, Churchill, 16th, Craig Sickmiller, RU, 17th, and Dan McHugh, Dearborn, 18th.

PLYMOUTH SALEM'S top finisher was junior Frank Brosnan, 25th overall, in 17:40. He was followed by teammates Brad Haertel, 33rd, 17:46; Skip Whittaker, 63rd, 18:23; Leland Chang, 68th, 18:31, and Mike McBride, 77th, 18:41.

Dan Henry was Canton's top finisher in 35th spot with a time of 17:46. He was pursued by teammates Tim Collins, 71st, 18:38; Tom Pasley, 81st, 18:55; Brian Lee, 82nd, 18:56, and Chris Albaugh, 85th, 18:59.

Kelley ruling fails to dent preps

Brad Emons

Inflation, declining enrollment and millage defeats — it's enough to give school administrators and athletic directors ulcers.

To save athletics, administrators have come up with a reasonable alternatives when funds are low.

Twenty-two Michigan school districts have solved the money pinch by requesting student participatory or activity fees. The Waterford schools, plagued by millage defeats, charges its students $50 per sport. In Redford Union, where state aid has dwindled because of declining enrollment, students are asked to contribute $20 for athletics, band or choir.

Early last month, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled that school boards lack the "statutory authority to charge students a fee to participate in extracurricular interscholastic activities."

Kelley cited a 1976 statute which states that school boards "are limited to charges for medical care, mutual benefits or insurance programs for athletics."

Kelley added that the practice of "pay-for-play" is discriminatory. Those who were required to pay, are entitled to a refund.

Several school districts have set their legal wheels into motion and the ruling may be challenged all the way to the state supreme court.

BUT MOST area athletic directors believe the ruling will have little or no effect. Parents can still donate money. Fees can also be obtained through various fund-raising groups.

Waterford's pay-for-play policy, which has been in effect for two years, will continue despite Kelley's edict.

"The booster club will be the collection agency," said Waterford athletic director John Moffatt. "We've had a few ask for their money back. It isn't a rash. It won't jeopardize our programs.

"It was the parents who came to our board wanting to charge a fee. They came up with the plan."

All three Waterford schools — Township, Kettering and Mott — will become members of the Greater Oakland Activities League next year. The conference is comprised of teams in the same region of Oakland County. Because of the new alignment, transportation costs have been cut.

For the Birmingham schools, which have not been hampered by severe budget reductions, it's business as usual.

"I've been to some AD (athletic director) meetings and everyone agrees it's just changing the way things have been worded," said Groves' Carl Pendracki. "Fortunately we haven't had the problems other districts have had. I've been told to watch what I schedule. I'm not encouraged to play outstate. Our swim teams will continue to go to Battle Creek, East Lansing and the Ann Arbor schools. Our golf team will still go to Ohio for a tournament. We try to stay in the metro area as much as possible."

GROVES relies on various in-house boosters clubs for support.

"We have about 15," said Pendracki, "and each sport has it's own fund-raiser. I think it makes the parents get more involved."

In Rochester, a millage defeat four years ago resulted in the elimination of junior high and junior varsity sports which have since been reinstated.

Rochester Community Schools athletic Director Betty Brosier said preliminary plans are always made when budget cuts appear imminent.

"Everything is fine right now," she said. "We haven't increased much, but we've added soccer. It's inexpensive, but there are no cheap sports.

"The general feeling is that it can be gotten around (Kelley's ruling)."

Redford Union, which charges a nominal participation fee for extracurricular activities, must raise approximately $65,000 to keep its programs afloat.

"I think it (the ruling) will have an affect," said RU athletic director Bob Atkins. "It's a setback, but not a defeat.

"I FEEL sorry for schools on total reliance (of the student fees). You always have to be prepared. We're just going to have to come up with more things.

"I don't believe in turning it over to boosters clubs or other outside organizations. It's healthiest if the schools run and administer interscholastic sports."

Atkins, like Moffat, also reports that only a few donators have asked for a refund.

Some alternatives to pay-for-play and boosters clubs schemes include separate millages, intramurals and sharing of facilities.

Kelley's opinion, requested by Sen. Gary Corbin, D-Clio, threw a wrench into some plans. Determined sports administrators, however, will continue to battle the odds by seeking help from the community. Programs may be scaled down, but elimination seems unlikely.

There are, however, some exceptions. Pontiac failed to come up with alternatives this year. Port Huron went without sports last year.

The problems are complex but more solutions will be explored. Most school administrators agree, sports, drama and music are important educational tools.

Midget skaters win tourney

The Plymouth-Canton midget A hockey team, coached by Alex Barsony, recently captured its first tournament of the young season.

In Woodhaven's annual Early Bird event, the Plymouth-Canton midgets, sponsored by S & H Fabricating, went unbeaten in four straight games.

Plymouth-Canton took the tournament championship with a 5-3 victory over Southgate.

In the final, S & H's John Figurski and John Sule opened the scoring less than two minutes into the game. Southgate, however, rallied with two goals to knot the score at the end of one period.

Figurski and Sule then came back again with goals in the second period. Dave Fehlig added an insurance goal in the third period.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON opened the tourney with a 4-1 victory over Taylor as Dave Nelson tallied two goals. Dean Kelley and Rich Bahlow added single tallies for the winners.

Livonia was S & H's next victim, 2-0, as Nelson and Fehlig both found the net. Goalie Jim Butcher earned his first shutout.

Woodhaven goalie Bill Tarpley held S & H scoreless until winger Dean Giachino broke the ince at 11:21.

Sule, Figurski and Tim Osburn added third period goals as Plymouth-Canton pulled out a 4-2 triumph.

Groves snaps Rock net string

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Judy Braun, the Plymouth Salem girls' tennis coach, saw it coming.

And a freight train by the name of Birmingham Groves abruptly ended the Rocks' victory string in dual matches at 23 Monday afternoon with a 5-2 triumph.

It was the final regular-season match for Salem, which had not been beaten since 1979.

"I wish it would have come earlier," said Braun, who now must prepare her team for Class A regional action beginning Friday at Ann Arbor Huron.

"It came so untimely in the season," the Salem coach added. "Our inexperience finally showed against a tough team.

"Hopefully it will open our eyes, so we can get ready for the regional."

Salem's only victories came at No. 1 and No. 4 singles.

Chris Gilles, a sophomore, remained unbeaten this fall with a methodical 6-0, 6-0 triumph over Groves' Pam Osterlund at the top spot.

Salem's other point was scored by Lisa Maggio, who beat Nancy Gotheman by the identical score of 6-0, 6-0.

The Rocks' No. 3 player, Carol Hathaway, put up a fight before losing 7-5, 6-3 to Susie Osterlund. Julie Kahn, Groves' No. 2 player, turned back Carol Gillespie, 6-3, 6-2.

IN DOUBLES, Groves captured all three matches in straight sets.

Melissa Kahn and Karen Rubenshire (No. 1) pounded Beth Miller and Kristy Brandenburg, 6-1, 6-2.

At No. 2 doubles, Cindy Levine and Carol Heich disposed of Chris Kordick and Jane Ploughman, 6-4, 6-1.

Denise Walker and Kathy Robinson, Groves' No. 3 duo, bested Kathy Pursell and Kathy Graham, 6-4, 6-2.

"Some of our players are just not tournament tough," said Braun. "They're going to have to realize that this is what we're up against."

Salem ended the year with a 8-1 dual record.

CANTON 7
LIVONIA CHURCHILL 0

The Chiefs increased their overall dual mark to 7-4 by blanking Livonia Churchill for the second time this year in a match played Monday afternoon.

In singles, Kris Harrison (No. 1) defeated Elise Cameron, 7-5, 6-1; Lori Smith (No. 2) blasted Julie Roman, 6-1, 6-0; Julie Swain (No. 3) smashed Kelly O'Shea, 6-0, 6-0; and Kristin Smith (No. 4) beat Grace Suddendorf, 6-2, 6-2.

In doubles, Julie Gustafsen and Jane McKinstry moved up to the No. 1 spot and beat Patti Mellon and Kathy Bowen, 6-3, 6-3; Nancy Warkentin and Sara Watts (No. 2) downed Donna Risiott and Abby Ahern, 6-1, 6-2; and Amy Norton and Jean Fryover (No. 3) drilled Sherry Clark and Darla Dye, 7-5, 6-2.

Canton will close its regular season Thursday at Farmington Harrison.

Junior football clubs finish so-so weekend

The junior varsity Lions of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Football League (PCJBL) won their fourth straight game Sunday without a loss by defeating the Ann Arbor Wolverines, 7-0.

Eddie Reed scored the game's only touchdown for the Lions.

The Lion freshman, however, suffered their first loss of the season, 26-13.

In the varsity game, Paul Makara scored 12 points and passed for a two-point conversion to Mark Percha, lifting the Lions to a 19-6 victory. Mike Kovie also added a TD for the winners, now 3-1 overall.

The Lions will travel Sunday to meet the Westland Meteors.

THE STEELERS, the PCJFL's other entry, lost two of three games last weekend to the Northville Colts.

Doug Batsell tallied three TDs with Tony Boucher, Joe Jouppi and John Zdeb adding extra p.toints as the junior varsity Steelers came away with a 21-6 triumph.

Jeff Brand's TD and Jeff Fischer's sity absorbed a 13-7 setback.

Heads-up play lifts kickers

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The second meeting between newly formed soccer rivals Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem proved fruitful for both coaches.

Salem coach Ken Johnson was all smiles after his team turned back the aggressive Chiefs, 2-1, in a game played Monday afternoon.

Canton coach Tony Lonigro was also satisfied. He exhorted words of encouragement to his players immediately following the hard-fought match.

"I thought we played a great game," said Lonigro, "and they played equally as well.

"In my opinion — and I don't know if Johnson (Ken) agrees — I thought both teams were equal. I believe they still have the advantage because they've played more teams, but we're getting there."

Salem, now 6-1 overall, beat Canton earlier this season under a steady rain and a mushy field, 3-0.

"They're improved," agreed Johnson. "They were fired up. A local tough game is always expected."

Bob Brusa of Canton opened the scoring on a corner kick goal just seven minutes into the game. "That's a shot usually not made," said Johnson. "He had a good hook on the ball."

SALEM'S John Molyneux, however, scored the equalizer late in the first half. Matt Crook got the assist.

In the second half, Keith Reynolds tallied what proved to be the game-winner midway through the second half. He headed the ball past goalie Eric Becker after a furious scramble in front of the Canton net.

"In the second half I thought we got on top," said Johnson, whose team might be headed for a post-season playoff berth. "Their goalie Becker saved them. Kavisto (Mark) had a clean breakaway and he stopped him. Becker is a good keeper."

The loss dropped Canton to 2-3 overall. The Chiefs met Livonia Franklin yesterday. Complete results will appear in Thursday's Observer.

SALEM 1
TOLEDO ST. JOHN'S 0

The Rocks continued their impressive first-year play with an upset victory Saturday over Toledo St. John's, the Northeast Ohio League champions.

Crook scored the game-winner on a long drive with 10 minutes left in the match.

"It was an excellent game," said Johnson. "Both teams went up and down."

Ken Johnson
Another victory

It was St. John's first loss to a Michigan team in eight visits. The Toledo squad entered the game with a glittering 10-1-2 record.

Salem goalie Todd Chapman earned his second shutout of the season. He got plenty of defensive support from junior Ashley and senior vice-captain Bob Bowling, a sophomore.

Rocks splash rival

Plymouth Salem's girls decorated the water in their school color — blue — Tuesday with a 105-66 swim victory over rival Plymouth Canton.

The victory increased the Rocks' overall dual record to 4-3.

"The girls swam pretty well," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "I just hope we can swim this well in some of our league meets.

"I didn't have to talk too much about it (the Canton meet). Everybody handled it real well."

Salem's 200 yard medley relay quintet of Debbie Darlington, Corinne Cabadas, Terri Eudy and Amy Dunn set school record with a time of 2:01.51.

Eudy's 100 yard freestyle leg (56.2) in that event also qualified her for the state meet. The Salem standout also won the 50 freestyle in 26.23.

The Rocks won nine of 11 events.

Canton's first individual winner was sophomore Kim Elliott in the 200 medley. Teammate Missy McMurray won the 100 freestyle in 59.68.

"I THOUGHT we did real well," said Canton first-year coach Hooker Wellman. "The girls thought that they'd really get blown out and 105-66 is not close, but we had seven personal bests. Elliott was four seconds better in the 'IM' and Shawn Neville was 20 points better in diving."

his reserves after the victory.

"Our backup players deserve just as much recognition," he said. "We had a fantastic week of practice, and they're just as responsible for this win as our regular players.

"Sara (Evans), Linda (Lybarger), Cheri (Muneio), Sue (Remer), Dawn (Johnson) and Kelley (Clarke) all helped out a lot."

Blohm also singled out senior point guard Carol Ross for her strong performance on defense.

Moore took scoring honors for Salem with 16 points. MacKenzie added eight.

Mary Kay McNall, Franklin's 6-2 center, had 13. Wilga added 12.

"Salem kept us out of our play," said Franklin coach Chuck Hebestreit. "They double-teamed us on the inside, and we should have put our guards down low rather than at the top."

Blohm's troops now must travel Thursday to meet No. 1-ranked Livonia Bentley. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

"I'd have to say that we took a step closer to playing the way we want to," said the Salem coach. "If the players keep playing the way we played tonight, we'll be in good shape."

Key league football tests set

C.J. Risak

Do-or-die? Life-and-death? Make-or-break?

Ah, yes, sports fans, the prep football season has reached that time of year when teams are challenged to prove just how good they are. And every coach whose team is involved in some kind of a title race will use one of those phrases to describe upcoming contests.

First, let's get one thing straight: No team in Observerland will have the added pressure of battling for a post-season berth. It is extremely doubtful any local team will make it this year. Redford Union and Westland John Glenn do have a remote chance, each possessing a 4-1 record.

But there are still some important matchups this weekend, two which will determine league championships.

First and best of the bunch pits Glenn against RU. Whichever one of the two Northwest Suburban League (NSL) powerhouse teams that wins will probably earn a share of the title. The only other team with a chance for the crown is reigning champ North Farmington.

The Metro West Conference certainly has the most exciting league race of any — all four teams, including Livonia Clarenceville, have 1-1 records, with one league game remaining. Winners in the final league games this weekend will reign as co-champs.

Brad Emons, my fellow editor and prognosticator, took his lumps last week and may want to retract that statement concerning the non-existance of upsets. Brad struggled to an 8-5 record and is 24-12 overall (67 percent); my mark is 16-9 (64 percent). Here's my picks for this week.

REDFORD UNION AT WESTLAND JOHN GLENN — This is as big a game as Observerland football fans will see this season. Both once-beaten, Glenn to North in league play and RU in non-league action to Bishop Borgess, the game will mean at least a share of the NSL championship.

Should Glenn win, it would have to beat Garden City East in the league's final week to share the title. If RU emerges a winner, a victory over North in the final game would give the Panthers the title outright.

Key match-ups: First, RU's defensive unit against Glenn quarterback Rick Wilson and receivers Mike Dest and Avado Varona. Wilson runs and passes as well as any quarterback in the area.

But RU's passing game is also formidable, with four touchdowns in the last two games. Andy Szabo has thrown all four and end Tom Redilla has caught two.

It could be an explosive offensive show, but I don't think it will be. Glenn has the home-field advantage, but the Rocket defense can't match RU's. PICK — RU BY SEVEN.

WOODHAVEN AT CLARENCEVILLE — A share of the Metro West title is on the line. Woodhaven was surprised by Dearborn Heights Annapolis Friday, 12-6, in two overtimes. But Clarenceville was disappointing in a 26-16 loss to Oak Park Friday.

Clarenceville was hurt by the loss of two key players, Rob Soop and Walt O'Dowd, early in the contest. The injuries were minor and they should play. Woodhaven was undefeated before losing to Annapolis. The Warriors like to keep it on the ground, with Bill Bock and Mark Marino carrying the workload. Dennis Respecki and Soop lead Clarenceville's ground game.

On defense, watch for Woodhaven's Lane Titus, a 6-foot, 180-pound junior middle guard. Titus collected four of his team's eight quarterback sacks two weeks ago against Oak Park. PICK — WOODHAVEN BY SEVEN.

MELVINDALE AT GARDEN CITY WEST — An interesting matchup. Both teams are 3-1 in the Tri-River League, tied for second behind Taylor Kennedy (3-0). The winner may still have a shot at the league title. Defending league champ Melvindale, led by backs Harvey Gibson and Shawn Loughrige, was shutout by Kennedy last Friday, 14-0. It won't happen this week. PICK — MELVINDALE BY 7.

BIRMINGHAM BROTHER RICE AT BISHOP BORGESS — Remember how bright the outlook was for Borgess after it beat RU? A 2-0 start and a shot at the Catholic League Central Division title, right? Wrong. The Spartans are struggling after three straight losses. Things won't get easier against Rice, winners of four straight after a season-opening loss. PICK — RICE BY 10.

FLINT NORTHERN AT LIVONIA STEVENSON — Here's one team certain to reign as a league champ — Stevenson. With a 2-0 mark in the Inter Lakes, the Spartans are assured of that much. But the title won't help much against Northern. PICK — NORTHERN BY EIGHT.

CATHOLIC CENTRAL AT BISHOP GALLAGHER — Can it be? A CC team, earlier this season rated first in the state in some polls, losing three games in a row? It can and is. But take heart, Shamrock fans, they will rebound. PICK — CC BY A BUNDLE (14 or more).

PLYMOUTH CANTON AT NORTHVILLE — What other surprises are there? How about a Plymouth Canton team tied for second (1-1) in the Western Six League? Northville is 0-2 after a 16-0 loss to league-leader Farmington Harrison. Despite Canton's lofty standing, Northville's better. PICK — NORTHVILLE BY EIGHT.

LIVONIA BENTLEY AT DEARBORN — Bentley is 1-4 after a 42-14 thrashing at the hands of unbeaten Lincoln Park. Dearborn is better than its 3-2 record — its passing attack destroyed Plymouth Salem in a 28-14 win Friday. Bentley won't be able to keep up on the scoreboard. PICK — DEARBORN BY 14.

GARDEN CITY EAST AT LIVONIA FRANKLIN — Franklin started fast this season with two wins in three games. But the Patriots have fallen victim to a lack of offense in the last two weeks, scoring just one touchdown. East is 1-4 after a 20-7 loss to North Farmington. PICK — FRANKLIN BY THREE.

REDFORD THURSTON AT NORTH FARMINGTON — Thurston battled but lost to RU, 7-0. North is just as tough. Thurston has scored just 14 points in three games. That won't be enough to beat North. PICK — NORTH BY 14.

REDFORD ST. AGATHA AT DETROIT SERVITE — Both teams were losers a week ago.The Aggies, after a fast start, have lost two straight. Look for them to get back in the win column — but it won't be easy. PICK — ST. AGATHA BY FOUR.

LIVONIA CHURCHILL AT WALLED LAKE WESTERN — Churchill was bombed in a nonleague encounter with Flint Southwestern, 27-0. The Chargers are really hurting, but so is Western, beaten last week by Canton in overtime. Churchill will rebound. PICK — CHURCHILL BY SEVEN.

ALLEN PARK AT PLYMOUTH SALEM — Last week, Allen Park lost to Dearborn Edsel Ford, 33-6. Salem lost to Dearborn, 28-14. Salem, 2-3, is having a rough year, but a difficult schedule has contributed to that. The Rocks will even their record against Allen Park. PICK — SALEM BY 10.

Hoop superiority at stake tonight

It's showdown time.

It's time to find out who is the best girls' cage team in Observerland — Livonia Bentley, rated first, or Plymouth Salem, ranked second. Both are ranked in statewide coaches' polls, with Bentley first in most.

Plymouth Salem showed why it should be ranked second in the Observerland poll by beating third-rated Livonia Franklin Tuesday, 41-38.

But the real test is tonight against undefeated Bentley (Salem has lost once). The two Suburban Eight League contenders will play at Livonia Bentley at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Four-year starter Eileen Moore led Salem against Franklin with 16 points. The Rocks depend on their perimeter shooters for most of their scoring — Moore, Jacque Merrifield and Jan MacKenzie. The defense is anchored by Moore, Merrifield and Carol Ross.

That defense limited Franklin center Mary Kay McNall to 13 points. Salem plays woman-to-woman most of the time, using it to control the tempo of the game.

TONIGHT AGAINST Bentley the Rocks will be faced with a deeper, faster and more physical team. Bentley's biggest threat, although not its only one, is Kim Archer. Stopping her will be Salem's first task.

Archer is tough on the boards, as is teammate Lori Swanson. Salem's inside strength is the team's weakest link, with the tallest Rock starter the 5-foot-8 MacKenzie.

Bentley had no problem improving its record to 10-0 with a win over Redford Union, 49-25.

Livonia Ladywood, a Class B power that also improved its record to 10-0 with a narrow win over Madison Heights Bishop Foley, holds its fourth-place ranking.

Plymouth Canton whipped Garden City East to assure its No. 5 spot, and Class C Redford St. Agatha was also a winner, 50-37 over Detroit Holy Redeemer. The Aggies' record is perfect (10-0), and they maintain a sixth-place rating.

Redford Bishop Borgess is 7-3 overall following a 40-30 victory over Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher, putting it seventh in the Observerland poll.

OBSERVER CAGE RANKINGS

1. Livonia Bentley	10-0
2. Plymouth Salem	10-1
3. Livonia Franklin	9-2
4. Livonia Ladywood	10-0
5. Plymouth Canton	9-1
6. Redford St. Agatha	10-0
7. Bishop Borgess	7-3

Chief cagers roll, 55-41

Susie Pierce and Robyn Hudgins each scored 12 points to propel Plymouth Canton to a 55-41 non-league girls' basketball triumph Tuesday over Garden City East.

Hudgins, a 6-foot senior center, added seven rebounds.

East's Tammy Narramore led all scorers with 14 points. Yvonne Muglia added 10.

Canton held a 23-18 halftime advantage and pulled away with a 14-7 outburst in the third quarter.

"It was a sloppy game," said Canton coach Mike McCauley. "We had too many fouls in the first half (15). It was tough to get fired up, but Thursday we play Farmington Harrison (at home) and it should be interesting."

Canton, now 9-1 overall, played without senior guard Colleen Crissey, who missed the game with the flu.

McGuire rules field

By M.B. Dillon Ward
staff writer

Farmington grad Mike McGuire "tossed his cookies" just prior to winning Sunday's Detroit Free Press International Marathon in 2:15.47, but it was like a hiccup compared to the ailments he's endured throughout his career.

As a University of Michigan underclassman, the 5-foot-11, 125-pound running machine achieved all-American honors and reached Big Ten milestones in the six-mile (28:58.0) and indoor three-mile (13:20.6).

But "I got mono(nucleosis) as a sophomore and had it for a whole year," said the 25-year-old Eastern Michigan University grad student. "Then I fractured my right foot, and tore a tendon — I had three-and-a half years of debilitating injuries.

"Between April, 1976 and June, 1979, I missed more days (of running) than I ran."

With McGuire's misfortunes, his weight went from 125 to 160 pounds.

"I had to get my weight down and start all over, just like anyone who was starting from scratch," he said.

"I decided to run the marathon because I felt I had something to prove to myself. Like most accomplished distance runners, I like to explore all avenues. And it was a matter of performing in front of a hometown crowd. I just didn't know if I could get healthy again to do it.

"When you're healthy, you never think you're going to get injured," added McGuire. "When you're injured, you never think you'll get healthy."

"MIKE'S NOW running the best he has in his life," said Jerry Young, McGuire's high school coach, friend and occasional running partner.

"He never reached his potential in college. Mono took all the energy out of him. Mike didn't look like the same kid for a year and a half.

"He fought real hard. It took a lot of courage and stick-to-it-iveness for him to come back."

Young, a Big Ten champion at Michigan State University in the early 1960s, also ran Sunday's marathon — finishing 106th in 2:43.01, good for fourth place in his age group. (Another 60s' track standout — Southfield's Kim Hartman, finished first in his age group and 12th overall in 2:26.29.)

McGuire's victory may silence some of his fellow runners who've teasingly termed him 'Wrong Way' McGuire because of wrong turns he's taken during roadraces.

This time, the part-time bartender made sure he had the right-of-way all the way. But the flat, 26.2-mile course was still a gut-wrencher.

"I'm glad they didn't hold the tape too tight, or I might have fallen on my butt," said McGuire. "It was a little embarrassing tossing my cookies in front of the crowd. I slowed down to be sure I had my composure, but they thought I wasn't going to make it."

Local proprietor earns salute

There is an old saying in the bowling world: "Bowlers never forget."

Metropolitan Detroit-area bowlers proved this to be true during the past season by raising $286,000 in the 1981 Bowl for Breath program, sponsored by the Detroit chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Larry Boncher, proprietor for Country Lanes in Farmington Hills, was presented with the Dick Weber Award at a recent luncheon at the Michigan Inn.

This citation is presented to the owner of the establishment which raises the most money during the drive. Country Lanes topped the list with more than $20,000.

Boncher was doubly honored when Dick Weber, the well-known pro bowler who bowls often in the Detroit area, made the presentation in person at the luncheon.

This was another of the famed charity events supported by bowlers in the Detroit area. Among the others is the Heart Tournament at Timber Lanes.

Players tackle tough job with Albee's dark comedy

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays and 2:30 p.m. Sunday. For ticket information, call the box office at 522-1526.

special writer

review

"Everything in the Garden," at Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford, is a drama with splashes of dark comedy about morals and money and keeping up with the Joneses.

The success or failure of Edward Albee's somewhat contrived plot rests on creating a convincing relationship between a struggling young suburban husband and wife. While the story gets itself told, the relationship created at TGLR in the long run falls a bit short.

High points go to the players, however, for their always-innovative selection of plays. They've accepted a big challenge by director Mary Ann Brownlee, a University of Michigan drama professor and artist-in-residence at TGLR under a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Their casting doesn't always live up to their ambition, but they can't be accused of playing it safe with the inane comedies which are sometimes typical of community theater.

RICHARD AND Jenny are living beyond their means amid the manicured lawns and clay courts of the upper class. They cuddle innocently on the sofa with their childish dreams of what wealth would mean: a greenhouse for her, a power mower for him.

The answer to their prayers appears in the living room one autumn afternoon in the form of a plump, gray-haired "Fairy Godmother" who plies Jenny with a $1,000 wad of bills, an advance on Jenny's services in her new job as a high-class prostitute.

Jenny accepts, the money starts rolling in, and trouble arrives in paradise. If Jenny and Richard are to survive the dark consequences of their actions, they must begin with a solid, loving relationship. Claudia Hill and J. Craig Collicott only occasionally hit upon the warm rapport that should characterize their marriage.

Collicott looks right as an affectionate, if somewhat chauvinistic teddy bear of a husband. But Hill never captures the qualities that make Jenny the commanding figure in the play. She doesn't seem at home in her own house. Her gestures and movements are uncertain. In the ebb and flow of the opening scenes, she doesn't seize the moment when it is hers to take.

THE PLAY only partly succeeds in developing a relationshp between Jenny and a wealthy neighbor, Jack, played by Tony Mattar. Jack carries on a sexy, yet innocent flirtation with Jenny, but the two actors never look each other in the eye or seem to share any genuine affection.

Mattar looks right for the part of a vodka-loving playboy but lacks a degree of noblesse oblige. One wishes F. Scott Fitzgerald had been around as his acting coach.

While "Everything in the Garden" is obstensibly an American play by an American author, one senses that the original version, written by Giles Cooper, was set in England. References to Shropshire and London contradict the fact that the common denominator is the dollar, not pounds sterling.

And setting it in Great Britain would make the play's class-consciousness seem more plausible. It would add a degree of sophistication needed in this production.

That sophistication blossoms when Richard and Jenny invite the neighbors in to celebrate their new-found wealth. Of the three invited couples, the ladies are all sublimely catty. Carole McNulty, Karen Dean and Rosemary Tucker create well-defined, believable characters. Dean is a dream of bitchiness in beige.

Tom Panzenhagen

"Damn Yankees" (1958), noon today on Ch. 9. Originally 110 minutes.

Time for perennial favorite about aged Washington Senators fan who sells his soul to the devil for a chance to lead his cellar-dwellers to a pennant over the Yanks. Transition from Broadway to big screen is awkward, though. Gwen Verdon makes a convincing Lola (who gets whatever she wants), but her talents are better suited for the stage. Directors George Abbott and Stanley Donan don't add much to the adaptation. Also starring Ray Walston and Tab Hunter. Rating: $2.40.

"Julius Caesar" (1969), 11:45 p.m. Friday on Ch. 9. Originally 117 minutes.

Passing adaptation of Shakespeare play is notable for two things: Jason Robards' textbook example of how not to act and Archie Bunker as Casca. Robards turns in one of the worst performances of all time as Brutus. Carroll O'Connor looks out of place in robe and sandals. Rating: $2.55.

"The Paleface" (1948), 8:30 a.m. Monday on Ch. 20. Originally 91 minutes.

For a cup of coffee, name the Oscar-winning best song of 1948, which came from "Paleface." Beep — time's up. Answer is "Buttons and Bows." This Bob Hope comedy has more to recommend it than that, though. Hope was at his peak after a string of "Road" pictures with Bing, and many of his solo-comedy efforts — "My Favorite Spy," "My Favorite Brunette" — are a lot better than they're given credit for being. Sweater girl Jane Russell also stars. Rating: $2.95.

"Bedtime for Bonzo" (1951), 8:30 a.m. Wednesday on Ch. 20. Originally 82 minutes.

Professor, whose criminal father died in prison, adopts a chimp to prove environment determines child's future. Fed on a diet of three-ounce hamburger, pickle relish and catsup, chimp rebels and becomes a fan of Jodie Foster. Ronald Reagan, Diana Lynn and Haig star. Rating: $1 trillion.

OCC spawns jazz ensemble

The music faculty at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College has announced plans to develop a 15-25 member jazz ensemble as a first step toward a fully developed instrumental program at that campus.

Co-directors of the band will be Craig Strain, recording artist and director of the Brookside Jazz Ensemble, and Dr. Theodore Mann, OCC music instructor.

"Our objective is to put together a first-rate musical organization consisting of student musicians and members of the community at large who would like to participate in an exciting program," Mann said.

The band will consist of saxophones, trumpets, trombones and a rhythm section and will play standard big band arrangements as well as modern tunes. Rehearsals, held on a semester-by-semster basis, will begin with the winter semester in January.

Performances will take place in the new $2 million Arts Theatre at the Orchard Ridge Campus which is scheduled to open early next year.

For information on auditions, call Dr. Mann at the Orchard Ridge Campus, 476-9400, ext. 453, in Farmington Hills.
