SLICK is the word for some ice-covered intersections. The corner of Ridge and Hanford roads became an unexpected gathering spot last Monday, as several cars became marooned on ice at a dip in the roadway.

Some cars went onto the shoulder to avoid hitting stuck vehicles, said police, who ordered two trucks to clear the scene. There were no accidents.

Police stuck with paper work

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Canton police officers have been spending more time handling complaints and writing reports.

As a result, drunk-driving arrests are down, and routine road patrols have been curtailed.

Year-end police department statistics for 1981 indicate complaints are up 10 percent over the previous year. In 1981, the department logged 20,218 complaints, which generated 10,291 written reports. That's a hike of 24.5 percent.

Police investigated 16.7 percent more accidents, but drunk driving arrests declined 25.6 percent.

Felony arrests dipped 16.6 percent.

"AS THE NUMBER of complaints increases, the time available for other things decreases," said Police Chief Jerry Cox. "(Reports) are the thing that consume time.

"This is most significant with traffic (figures)," added Cox. "That is a direct result of increased report time."

The police chief hopes to offset gaps in time and energy this year by hiring more reserve and part-time officers for back-up work. His other priorities are streamlining operations and getting more citizens involved in crime prevention.

The annual report breaks down statistics into 39 duty classifications, including traffic, ordinance, misdemeanor arrests, inspections, training, etc.

According to the report, uniformed officers made 183 arrests in 1981, a decline of 16.6 percent. However, that figure doesn't include some arrests made by department detectives.

BREAKING-AND-ENTERING cases accounted for the major portion of the felony arrests, followed by various larceny categories, said Cox.

Actual figures by crime are expected to be available this week.

"B-and-E is the most frequent (crime)," said Cox. "It is also one of the most difficult to deal with. It's very common to clear up many cases with an arrest — not only for your own community but for other departments."

Homeowners sometimes have unrealistic expectations about police investigation of break-ins, said Cox. That is especially the case when there is little physical evidence, no suspects and no clues.

THE DEPARTMENT is planning several crime-prevention programs to give tips on how people can avoid becoming victimized, said Cox. Plans call for the programs to be aired periodically over the local public access channel on cable TV.

Cox believes most people are "sincerely willing" to help police, and simply need to be told how to help.

Staffing and services are being evaluated, said Cox. The department may stop doing vacation or property checks, and eliminate taking accident information in residents' homes.

THERE CURRENTLY are 32 full-time police officers, four part-time officers and 12 volunteer reserves who cannot make arrests or carry firearms.

Cox believes staffing isn't nearly adequate to serve 48,000 residents and 36 square miles of subdivisions and businesses. He hopes to add more part-time and reserve officers by early February.

"We're significantly understaffed," said Cox. "Overtime is up 18 percent."

Staff shortages contributed to problems in the police cadet program, designed to give trainees several months of on-the-job training under strict supervision.

However, it was reported last summer that some cadets had been doing one-man patrol duty, in violation of guidelines. Since all eight cadets had completed required police-academy training, they were promoted to officer status several months ahead of schedule.

A CONSULTANT to the township is studying the feasibility of consolidated the police and fire department functions into a public safety department. A report is due in the next few weeks, according to Personnel Director Dan Durack.

Any consolidation could result in cross-training of police officers and firefighters, or merging dispatch duties.

Revamping could "increase manhours available to the community," said Cox. But public safety won't work "if it's shoved down the throats of employees."

Cox believes current employees should be given the opportunity to be trained in both fields, "but not arbitrarily." New hires would come with the understanding that they'd have to have dual training.

"However, there is still a need for specialized training," added Cox.

Cops to offer seminar on crime prevention

Persons who want to know what they can do to fight crime can attend a seminar tonight in Field Elementary School on Haggerty south of Cherry Hill.

The seminar, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., is sponsored by the Canton Police Department to encourage residents and homeowner groups to take part in crime-prevention projects.

Speakers will include 35th District Court Judge James Garber, who will discuss the criminal justice system. Oakland County Prosecutor and gubernatorial candidate L. Brooks Patterson will talk about capital punishment.

RESERVE police officer Steve Kelleman will explain the Canton K-9 (tracking dog) unit. Chief Jerry Cox and police officer Leonard Schemanske will discuss crime prevention.

The program will be taped for future airing on the local cable TV station. For information, call Schemanske at 397-3000.

Children's librarian now faces new challenge

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

Two years ago when Clara Bohrer first walked into the new Canton Township Library, all she saw was an empty room and two desks.

As the newly-hired children's librarian, she had an exciting challenge ahead of her: to fill the shelves with books that would ignite the imagination of Canton Township youngsters.

Two years and some 24,000 books later, Bohrer, now head of the children's library, still picks and chooses among the scores of new titles published every year for just the right books to add to the library's collection.

NEXT YEAR Bohrer faces a new challenge: to read through every children's book published in 1982 and nominate her choice for that year's Randolph Caldecott Medal.

She will serve on a select nationwide committee of 14 librarians to name the best illustrated children's book of 1982.

Awarded by the American Library Association, the Caldecott Medal honors artistic excellence, while the Newberry Award honors writing excellence. Either award guarantees instant recognition for the author and increased sales for the publisher.

"I look at books day in and day out so I can tell what is good and what is poor," said Bohrer, 31, who lives on Embassy in Canton Township with her husband, John.

One of Bohrer's favorite children's books, "Where the Wild Things Are," is a recent Caldecott Medal winner.

She feels this book by Maurice Sendak epitomizes the best characteristics of a top notch children's book.

Poole to nominate 'absent' commissioner

By Dennis O'Connor
editor

Don't be surprised if Canton Supervisor James Poole selects Planning Commission Chairman Tom Carmen to serve another three-year term — even though reports indicate Carmen is somewhere in Denver, Colo.

Carmen's attendance record for planning commission meetings was extremely poor in 1981. In fact, the last meeting he attended was on Oct. 12.

Poole says he will nominate Carmen for another term at tomorrow's regular board meeting, despite reports that Carmen now lives in Saginaw or Denver. Poole's reasoning is in retaliation for an earlier attempt to remove Carmen.

"Back in January or February someone said he (Carmen) was living in New Mexico," Poole said. "He wasn't coming to the meetings so I asked to replace him, but I was voted down 6-1."

(Actually, Poole made a motion to eliminate Carmen from the commission on Feb. 3, but it was never supported — leaving Carmen in the position).

SO WHY WOULD Poole now renominate Carmen?

"I figure if he's in Saginaw, he can still serve," Poole reasoned. "He's 2,000 miles closer than New Mexico and the board kept him on before."

Carmen said at the Oct. 12 planning commission meeting that he would resign from his position because of "work commitments." The resignation was never official, however, because he never notified the supervisor in writing.

There are two planning commission positions which are to be filled by the board tomorrow night. Carmen and Diane Neihengen both finished three-year terms in 1981.

Poole may nominate commissioners, but his selections are subject to board approval. He indicated he would nominate Carmen, but said he was uncertain about the other selection.

MS. NEIHENGEN IS interested in re-appointment, said Poole, but it's no secret there is no love lost between the two. The supervisor said he "lost respect" for Ms. Neihengen during last year's heated farmland preservation vote.

However, Pool said she was still under consideration because of her professionalism in the position.

"I don't agree with some of her ideas," he said. "I don't agree with her logic, but she represents a certain point of view that I feel should be represented."

Ms. Neihengen, also a member of the Farmland Preservation Committee, said her background would be beneficial for the position.

"I would like to use the knowledge I've gained on the Farmland Preservation Committee to use in helping revise the master plan," Ms. Neihengen said. "I'm not going to take a lot of joy in rezoning . . . I don't think we (Poole and I) should let one issue get in the way. I feel he (Poole) has an obligation to make sure all sides are represented."

THE SUPERVISOR said there are six persons interested in the two positions.

He indicated that Kathy Martin was a strong candidate. Poole said Ms. Martin, who worked in Canton's planning department during the farmland campaign in October and November, has a master's degree in regional planning from Syracuse University.

Local cable listings given

By Dennis O'Connor
staff writer

How do you find out what programs are presented on the local access channels of your cable television?

Simple — start reading the Plymouth or Canton Observers.

Starting with today's issue, on Page 2A, your Observer will have a special feature called "Neighbors on Cable." It will include weekly cable listings of all programs presented on the local channels.

Omnicom of Michigan, the company that has the cable franchise in the Plymouth-Canton community, offers seven local-access channels.

Channel 8, Omnicom's local station, and Channel 13, operated by Plymouth's Denny Campbell, are two channels with active programming.

Channel 11, run by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, shows one program.

Other local channels include Channel 9, Eaglevision; Channel 10, city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township; Channel 20, Schoolcraft Community College; and Channel 29, Plymouth and Canton libraries.

ONE NEW FEATURE on Channel 13 is a live 10-minute local newscast called "Newsline-13." It will appear from 6:50-7 p.m. Monday-Friday. Jim Courtney and Phyllis Counts will alternative as anchorpersons for the telecast, Campbell said.

Channel 8, under the direction of Shawn Briden of Plymouth, has a variety of local programming. Two popular features include "Plymouth Profile," hosted by Jack Wilcox and "Sandy," a weekly feature about Canton Township hosted by Sandy Preblich.

Another weekly feature on Channel 8 is "Inner Visions, Outer Realms." This week's topic on Thursday's program is death and dying.

For complete local cable listing, turn to Page 2A.

Psychiatric test ordered for assault, theft suspect

A psychiatric test has been ordered for a 29-year-old accused of threatening a driver, then stealing his car in Canton.

Daniel Martin Smith, 29, no permanent address, was arrested and arraigned Jan. 1 at the Outcounty Prosecutor's Office in Westland on charges of felonious assault and car theft.

Smith pleaded innocent. He was taken to Wayne County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

District Court Judge Thomas Smith (no relation) of Westland ordered a psychiatric evaluation to determine if the suspect is competent to stand trial. Preliminary examination in 35th District Court was postponed, pending outcome of the test.

CANTON Police Lt. Larry Stewart explains the bizarre incident, which occurred in pre-dawn hours on New Year's Day.

According to the report, a 20-year-old Westland man picked up a hitchhiker near Merriman and Warren roads. The passenger appeared to be ill.

They drove to the vicinity of Proctor and Lilley roads in Canton. The hitchhiker threatened to slit the driver's throat with a hunting knife, said police.

"There was a scuffling match," said Stewart. "The guy (driver) got the knife and ran away, and the hitchhiker took off with the car."

The driver was uninjured. Canton police arrested DanielSmith about 6:45 a.m. walking on Applewood near Sheldon in Canton.

"He had fallen on the ice and had broken his collarbone," said Stewart.

Felonious assault carries a maximum penalty of four years in prison upon conviction. Car theft is a five-year felony.

Learning by experiments

A wise philosopher once said, "What we learn to do, we learn by doing."

Did Mike McCauley say that?

No — Aristotle takes credit for those words of wisdom, but McCauley, along with teaching cohort Jim Martin, can take pride in implementing that solid teaching philosophy.

McCauley and Martin team teach "Introductory to Psychology," one of the most popular social studies electives at Plymouth Canton High School.

One of the main features of the class is a weekly psychology laboratory session where students learn to implement theories and concepts learned during the week.

Pictured is a behavior modification lab session, where students train a rat with positive and negative reinforcements.

"THE PURPOSE OF the class is to have students use all five of their senses — hearing, seeing, tasting, smelling and touching," McCauley explained.

"Most social studies courses only test hearing and seeing.

"We feel they (the students) will be able to learn more by participating in the experiments."

Although the school paid $2,000 for equipment, McCauley and Martin have secured additional resources (even with personal funds) to help contribute to the experiments.

Currently the class works with a bio-feedback machine, a Skinner Box, a polograph unit and video-tape machines to examine the experiments after they are completed.

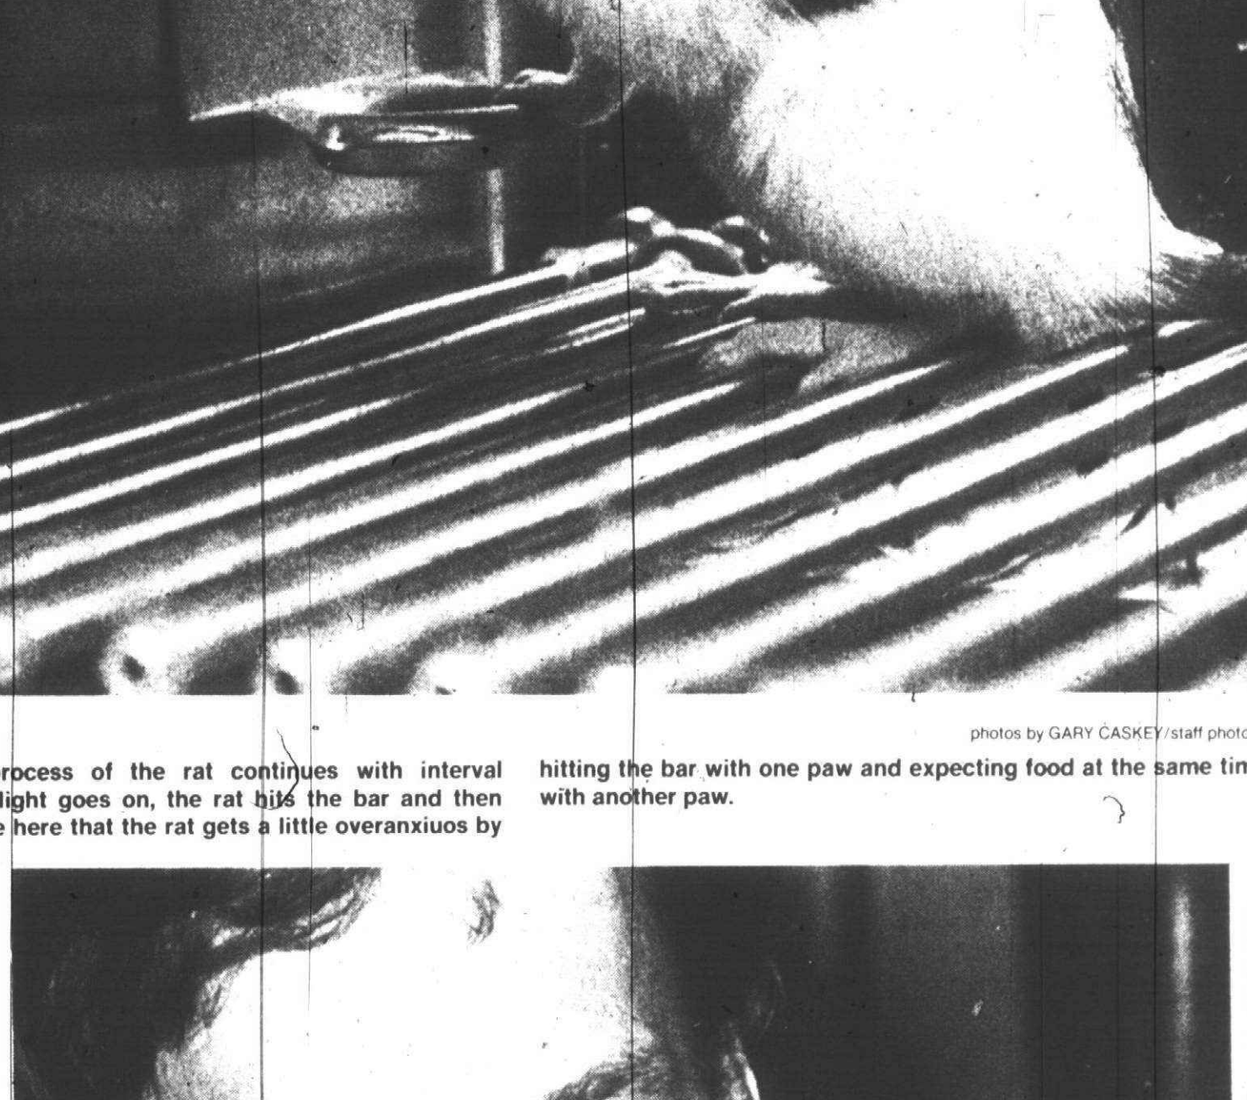
The conditioning process of the rat continues with interval rewards. When the light goes on, the rat hits the bar and then receives food. Notice here that the rat gets a little overanxiuos by hitting the bar with one paw and expecting food at the same time with another paw.

Bill Alberts, 18, watches a rat who expects food to come through the box.



Psychology teacher Mike McCauley conducts weekly laboratory experiences to help his students understand selected concepts.

Speeding car causes accident

Joy Road near Sheldon was the scene of an injury accident about 1:15 p.m. Thursday. Canton police say a 16-year-old youth was eastbound on Joy in a Ford Maverick. He reportedly passed another car, then pulled back into the eastbound lane, striking the station wagon which was stopped before turning. Driver of the station wagon, Carolyn Pondany, 38, of Oakview in Plymouth, was taken to Oakwood Hospital Canton Center, then transferred to another hospital. An Oakwood spokeswoman declined further information. The youth received a ticket for failure to use due care and caution, causing an accident.

Canton librarian faces new challenge

"The plot is unique and the pictures are clear and detailed," Bohrer said. "The story is about a boy who has been bad who goes to bed and who dreams of a place where wild things are. The creatures in the book are loveable, noisy and weird. The children roar, claw and pretend they are wild things, too, just like in the book."

The select committee will meet for the first time in January, meet twice more after that and then will announce the Caldecott winner in a special ceremony in the summer of 1983.

BOHRER SAID she considers it "very important that children be exposed to a wide variety of illustrative styles."

She pointed out the illustrative differences between the highly popular Sendak book and the perennially popular Dr. Seuss books.

"Both are adventure and fantasy books," Bohrer said. "But the Dr. Seuss books are light on details while "Where the Wild Things Are" is heavily detailed."

In hoosing the 1982 Caldecott Medal winner, Bohrer said she will be looking for "coordination between text and pictures and uniqueness."

IN ADDITION to serving on this committee, Bohrer has also been elected 1982-1983 chairperson of the Michigan Library Association's Children's Services Caucus.

A major part of her job is to plan the spring meeting of 300 Michigan children's librarians in Battle Creek. The purpose of the conference is to provide continuing education to school and community librarians.

Bohrer also is the American Library Association's representative to the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities. A graduate of the University of Michigan, she holds a master's in library science from Wayne State.

Throughout the year, she leads a six-week reading group for youngsters 2 years and older, and goes into Plymouth-Canton schools to give special story-telling sessions.

"That's what I love best about this job," Bohrer said. "I work with all age groups, all age levels, each day. I want the children to have a recreational as well as educational focus toward reading. I want them to have a good time when they read."

Father Quinn to speak on alcohol awareness

Fr. Vaughn Quinn, the priest who directs the Sacred Heart Rehabilitation Center for alcoholics, will be appearing as a speaker this month at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Quinn will be appearing starting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 14, at the center. The center is located at Theodore and Farmer streets, east of Sheldon and north of Main in the city of Plymouth.

The appearance, free and open to the public, is being sponsored by the Plymouth Jaycees. Besides his talk on alcohol awareness, the program also will feature the film "Life, Death and Recovery."

THE SACRED HEART Center began in June 1967 in the former Sacred Heart School at Eliot and Rivard streets as a shelter for homeless male alcoholics. Quinn, a Catholic priest from the Canadian order of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate and himself a recovering alcoholic, became director in September 1967. He established a treatment regimen based on the principles and philosophy of Alcoholics Anonymous.

By May 1969 the center had become financially stable enough to begin paying salaries to 13 staff members who previously were serving as volunteers. The center now has 154 employees.

During 1970 and '71 three large homes along East Grand Boulevard were acquired for use as halfway houses. In 1972 Sacred Heart purchased a former YMCA facility at 569 E. Elizabeth which now is the organization's headquarters. In October of that year 120 men moved into the facility.

In December 1977 the center leased a former school in Memphis, Mich., which now houses some 150 clients. When the first group of residents transferred to the Memphis center, the Elizabeth Street center was reorganized with a larger detoxification program and initial treatment of three to five weeks. A treatment unit for women also was established.

Since 1967 about 14,000 men and women have been treated at the center. Studies indicate that an average of 53 percent of the center graduates remain sober for at least two years. It has been estimated that the center saves the government almost $2 million every year.

QUINN, 48, was born in Montreal and earned a master's degree in theology from the University of Ottawa. He subsequently received clinical training in treatment of alcoholism at the University of Edmonton, clinical training in psychiatry from the University of Saskatchewan, and attended the Institute of Experimental Surgery-Pharmacology for five months at the University of Montreal.

County board will probe toxic waste dump site

Wayne County Commissioners have demanded an immediate investigation into plans by the Michigan Toxic Substance Control Commission to dump poisonous wastes into a landfill near Belleville.

Acting on a resolution by Commissioner Arthur M. Carter, board members referred the problem to their general government, human resources and public works committees for immediate consideration.

With the public and political furor over the Control Commission's announcement, Larry Holcomb, its executive secretary, said Friday he plans to ask legislative leaders for their advice on where to send the waste.

"The fact is," he said, "Michigan has a hundred sites. The one we picked near Belleville is just one of them."

Don Vilnius, general manager of Wayne Disposal Corp., which owns the landfills in Van Buren Township, said that until Thursday his firm had considered accepting only the least contaminated waste from the site near Flint. But because of all the adverse publicity, the firm will reject all shipments.

Officials from the State Department of Natural Resources have been negotiating for months to persuade Hooker Chemical and Plastics Corp. near Flint to accept the waste at its Montague disposal vault. Most of the waste was originally generated at the plant and later taken to a Swartz Creek site where it is being held for transfer by Berlin and Farro.

Roller skating aficionado attacks diabetes

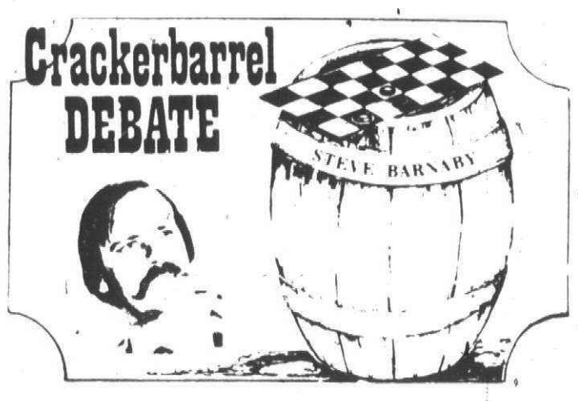
Diabetes — either you know someone who has it, or you have it yourself and you may even be unaware of it.

Nothing exotic about it. It's known around the world as one of the leading killers. Unlike mass killers of the past — tuberculosis, polio and smallpox — diabetes has yet to cave in to the wrath of some miracle drug.

Sure, it can be controlled with insulin. But that only is a stopgap measure to hold the fort until a cure can be found. In reality, for many of those stricken, especially the young, fighting diabetes is a losing battle.

Unfortunately, it also is a silent disease, the kind that usually doesn't deform. So most folks don't give it much thought.

BUT COME Jan. 30 and 31, a whole lot of folks are getting together around the metropolitan area to have a day of fun and raise some badly needed money for the American Diabetes Association.



Roller skating rinks are opening their doors for the annual skate to beat diabetes.

A roller skating aficianado myself, I'm giving all those tinkering with the idea plenty of warning to take at least a few trial runs before the big day.

Roller skating isn't what it was in good old dad's time Forget the organ music and skating skirts. Today's sessions are something akin to Saturday Night Fever on wheels.

BUT DON'T LET that scare you off. I've been skating seriously for just about a year and can tell you it's fun and can be good exercise — and I'm way beyond the spring chicken category.

Besides, those afflicted by diabetes need all the friends and money they can find.

You can be one of those friends by dropping by a participating rink and picking up an application/pledge form. It works the same as most other "thons" you've heard about.

Pledge your friends to a designated sum for every mile you skate (each hour skated will be counted as eight miles) or get them to sign up for a lump sum.

Beside blistered feet and sore ankles, entrants will have chances to win turntables with three-way speakers, cassette body audios (bone fones), eight-track players, cameras, gift certificates, stationery and telephone indexes.

Everybody gets an embroidered patch to commemorate the day.

Money donated to the Diabetes Association will go toward free statewide testing programs, research, education and to Camp Midicha, a medically supervised summer camp for children with diabetes.

Among the participating rinks are Bonaventure, 24505 Halsted, Farmington Hills; Riverside Arena, 36635 Plymouth Road, Livonia; Skatin' Station, 8611 Ronda, Canton; The Rink, 50625 Van Dyke, Utica; the Dearborn Rollerdrome, 21655 Warren; Dearborn Heights; and the Mount Clemens Skating Arena and Fun Center, 140 Macomb, Mount Clemens.

SO, YOU SAY, you're too old for such nonsense. Just remember, millons of your neighbors need your help. Someday you or one of your loved ones could be afflicted with this incurable disease.

So head on down to your nearest rink and grab one of those entry forms. And on Jan. 30 or 31, strap on a pair of wheels and have a good time.

Be sure to say hello when you see me skate by.

Bob Wisler

Wayne County does it again

The list of Wayne County government horror stories is seemingly endless.

The voters in November gave overwhelming approval to a county charter calling for an elected county executive with enough authority to reform an antiquated, inadequate and faulty county government.

You might think that those responsible for making county government an absurd example of inefficient management would take notice. You might think that the county big-wigs would recognize that these are trying economic times and that the residents are weary of reading about wretched excesses connected with county government.

You might think that they would put some kind of gag on county government's voracious appetite. If you did, you would be wrong.

THE COUNTY commissioners proved that they are as unconcerned as ever about their image and the public's wishes by engaging in another of of the charades that they have become famous for. Although the commissioners have asked employees to take wage cuts and make sacrifices, the commissioners manuevered to accept a $1,500 pay raise, on top of the $26,000 a year they now receive for performing what are described as part-time duties.

The raise was made by a seven-member compensation commission which is loaded with UAW employees and cronies and is inordinately influenced by the same people who have controlled county government for many years.

If the county commissioners would have agreed to set an example for other county employees and turn down the raise, they would have had to vote by a two-thirds majority to do so. This meant 18 of the 27 county commissioners would have had to vote against the resolution calling for the pay raise.

On voting day, commissioners wandered in and out of the meeting room counting noses and when the dust had cleared only 15 commissioners had voted against the pay raise and 3 had voted in favor of it. Conveniently, nine commissioners were not on hand for the vote and since a majority of 18 had not voted against the raise, it went through.

NOW COMES the county road commission, which consists of three persons appointed by the county commissioners to oversee various operations like road construction and maintenance and Wayne County Metropolitan airport.

Late last week the board, by a 2-1 vote, agreed to sign six-year contracts with a fledgling union consisting of some 70 high-level and middle-level road commission administrators and professionals. The manuever was an obvious attempt to ensure that whatever county executive is elected in November, he won't be able to derail the gravy train.

Road commission employees are quoted as saying they want to protect their jobs. It appears more likely that they do not want to have to justify their jobs or their salaries. The totally clandestinic way the contracts were brought up and voted on indicates an unreasonable haste to get the deed over with before the public — and newspapers — became aware of the smell.

This desperate effort to keep the gravy train rolling involves everyone from managing director Freddie Burton, a $70,000-a-year ex-county commissioner, down to mere $40,000-a-year paper shufflers. When reading anything about county salaries, remember that the base salary is supplemented by a yearly $7,000 cost of living allowance and that each employee's fringe benefits cost another 84 percent of the base salary.

The annual costs are staggering and the disregard for financial realities astounding. In fact, the road commission has a paper budget of $104 million which shows that $21 million in income will come from federal grants. This amount — supposedly going to come from a budget-cutting Reagan admnistration — is almost three times the $7.4 million received in federal grants in 1981 and $8 million received in 1980.

The whole approach, once again, is ample evidence that county and road commissioners have no regard for the public's interest and a resistance to even putting on a pretense of being prudent managers of taxpayers' money.

SC prexy faces first big test

Tim Richard

Dr. Richard McDowell — er, beg pardon, good ol' Dick McDowell — has a chance to rebuild the Schoolcraft College administration to his liking and a chance to get in political trouble, all on Wednesday evening.

McDowell is the exuberant, outgoing, hit-the-deck-running new president of Schoolcraft. He has been in the post since mid-September, but in four months he has had a chance to change the administration more than his predecessor, C. Nelson Grote, had in 10 years.

In one swoop, McDowell will nominate two new vice presidents. To the extent he fills those jobs from within, he would also have a chance to fill a lot of middle-management posts, too.

The book-making going on among the faculty and staff must be frantic.

McDOWELL WILL nominate one person from three finalists for vice president of student affairs, — succeeding Edward V. McNally, who retired — and one from a different panel of three finalists for vice president of instructional affairs. Staff committees winnowed the lists of applicants down to three for each job.

So what political trouble can McDowell get into?

Of those six finalists, only one is a woman. She is Barbara Geil, who hired on as a counselor when Schoolcraft was born in 1964 and is director of admissions. Currently, none of the highest administrators at Schoolcraft is a woman.

The board of trustees, which must confirm the appointment, has three women members, all active in politics and two especially active in women's politics. When the board was interviewing presidential candidates last summer, one of its most pointed questions concerned the number of women in administration.

For the record, the other two candidates for VP-student affairs are: Frank Borelli, dean of student affairs and services at Governors State University in Illinois, and Roger Ludeman, VP-student affairs at Bemidji State University in Minnesota.

Guess who the betting favorite must be.

THE PRESIDENT has a little more breathing room in the other appointment — VP-instruction, but the politics is still interesting.

The "inside" candidate is Richard Saunders, assistant dean of fine arts and sciences. Once a clarinetist, Saunders worked his way up to high school band teacher. He earned two degrees in music and two more in curriculum and administration, all from Wayne State University. Saunders succeeded the warmly remembered Wayne Dunlap in Schoolcraft's fine arts program in 1971.

Another is a "neighbor" candidate — William Stuart, academic dean of the Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Hills. His three political science degrees are from Duke, Florida and WSU, and his specialist degree is in educational leadership and community colleges, also from WSU. He has been at OCC since 1966.

The "outside-inside" candidate is Conway Jeffress, VP for strategic planning at the Community College of Allegheny County in Pennsylvania. If that job and college sound familiar, it's because its previous occupant was good ol' Dick McDowell. Jeffress is black.

THIS OBSERVER must confess to a certain fondness for Saunders. We've worked together, and I've seen him grow tremendously over the years to the point where he has to be considered presidential timber.

But that's one man's view of one man, and hardly fair to Stuart and Jeffress.

The inside word is that the job will go to Jeffress.

My only bet is that McDowell will make good choices and that he'll charm the board into a pair of 7-0 confirmation votes.

Who is this guy IRA who's now everywhere?

An American president once dreamed of putting a chicken in every pot, and Henry Ford dared think John Q. Publics all over the land would one day own a shiny black Model T.

Today's panacea is IRA. We've all got IRA, or the right to have one anyhow.

Now 1982 is only 11 days old, and I've got a lot on my mind these days, on topics that really grab me.

Since Menachem Begin has annexed the Golan Heights, will he now move into Lebanon and put the kibosh on the Syrian missiles?

Will the Soviets wait too long to march into Poland and get stuck in the mud?

Can the country withstand the shock if Nancy Reagan decides the White House needs new cutlery?

Well, you get the idea. All this without even mentioning that spring training starts in a scant few weeks for my favorite felines, the Detroit Tigers.

I really worry about stuff like that and I like to concentrate. But I have this problem. We're just 11 days into the new year and I have this decision to make by April 15.

REMEMBER KILROY? Back in the 1940s, he was hard to escape. More than 40 years have passed and I still don't know who Kilroy was. It's just that he was always there.

Now this decision is about that IRA our government now allows me. I have an aunt named Ida, a coworker named Ila, and a beautician named Ina. But suddenly, I have to decide about this IRA.

I've always thought man's best friend (and woman's too) was his canine buddy. But suddenly, I'm being told IRA can do wonders for me.

Of course an IRA is an individual retirement account available to most wage earners with the proviso they make their decision by April 15.

That's the unforgettable date, unforgettable anyhow because it's my mother's birthday.

It's my deadline for the decision whether to put my $2,000 limit into the bank, money market funds, certificates of deposit, a savings and loan, stocks, bonds, limited real estate partnerships, mutual funds and on and on and on.

Faced with all of this, I get nervous, but people keep telling me not to sweat it, I can change it every week if I want.

ANYONE who knows me knows I'm not one who changes anything but the sheets once a week, and I'm not about to start.

So I'm weighing long term growth, high yield, prudent risk, attractive income, preservation of capital, interest rates, and, oh, yes, liquidity. Not to mention commissions.

I don't want to do this wrong, because every magazine or newspaper I pick up and every radio and television analyst, keeps saying if I do it right, in 15 or 20 years I can be a millionaire. In fact, they make it sound like a sure thing.

Problem is, if every wage earner that starts an IRA is a millionaire 20 years from now, will it really matter?

Planning for retirement seems the way to go, all right. Especially since our president sometimes seems to be eyeing the demolition of Social Security even more than that of the Department of Education.

IRA is designed to give me my own tax shelter and help feather my retirement nest. That's clear, because I'm getting a media and mail barrage on the subject.

After all this time, I sometimes wonder if Kilroy really was there. But there's no question about IRA — he's all around us and closing in.

Overheard over coffee

Despite the snow, several hundred people turned out for inauguration ceremonies at Westland city hall. One visitor said to newly elected mayor Charles Pickering, "Well, I heard you were going to take Westland by storm."

Ruppe to speak at JC breakfast

Phil Ruppe, a former U.S. Congressman, will be the guest speaker at the Plymouth Jaycees' annual Salute to the Plymouth Business Community breakfast.

The breakfast will be held during Jaycee Week on Wednesday, Jan. 20, and will last from 7:45-8:45 a.m. The continental breakfast will be held in the Hillside Inn.

"Each year we attempt to honor the Plymouth business community," said Don Keller, president of the Plymouth Jaycees.

"Last year we had Richard Headlee as our guest speaker, and more than 100 persons attended.

"It is our way to say thank you to the business persons for their support of the volunteer sector and service clubs through their donations of time and money," added Keller.

"We feel that we have an excellent speaker in Phil Ruppe and encourage anyone in the community who wants to hear him to attend."

Persons interested in attending may make reservations by calling Jan Keller at 459-6648 or Bill Joyner at 455-1390.

RUPPE, 55, is a lifelong resident of Michigan's Upper Peninsula who attended the University of Michigan, Central Michigan University, and graduated with a bachelor of arts in history in 1948 from Yale University.

Ruppe served in the U.S. Navy in the Pacific during the Korean War and then returned to the Keweenaw Peninsula to become general manager and later president of the Bosch Brewing Co. of Houghton, a family-owned enterprise.

In 1966 Ruppe defeated an incumbent and was elected to Congress from the 11th District and was re-elected five times. While in Congress, Ruppe served on the interior and insular affairs committee, and on the merchant marine and fisheries committee.

Ruppe was instrumental in passage of the landmark coal surface mining control legislation of 1977 and for establishing the Father Marquette National Memorial in St. Ignace.

He also was recognized for his work on the arctic gas transportation bill to bring Alaskan natural gas supplies through Canada to the Midwest.

Retiring undefeated from Congress in 1979 after planning to run for the U.S. Senate in 1978, Ruppe was named director of Washington Services for Amax, Inc., an international mining firm.

In 1980 he was a member of Vice President George Bush's national steering committee and now is chairman of the visiting committee of the Gerald R. Ford Institute for Public Policy at Albion College.

Ruppe and wife Loret maintain residences in Houghton and in Bethesda, Md.

Austrian satire to be aired tonight

"La Ronda," a turn-of-the-century satire by Austrian writer Arthur Schnitzler, will be aired tonight by WSDP in cooperation with the National Radio Theatre.

"La Ronda" will be broadcast beginning at 6 p.m. on WSDP (88.1 FM), the student-operated radio station at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

The production is part of a 52-week NRT series, funded for distribution nationwide on more than 300 outlets by TRW Inc., with funds provided by the Illinois Art Council and WFMT Inc.

The show was produced and directed by Yuri Rasovsky.

In writing the comedy, Schnitzler follows the form of a round dance in which one member of each couple continuously moves to another partner.

The 10 short scenes in the radio adaptation by Michelle M. Faith consists of the repartee between the men and women who participate in a bawdy version of musical chairs. Rollicking music and humorous sound effects suggest rather than state the nuances of each relationship.

Demonstrations disrupted the premiere performances of "La Ronda" in Vienna and Berlin in 1920 and 1921 because of the controversial nature of the plot.

Schnitzler (1862-1931), a physician, was heavily influenced by Sigmund Freud's psychoanalytical techniques. His plays dealt primarily with both aristocractic and middle-class Viennese society — humorously demonstrating their double standards of morality and exposing their weaknesses through psychological probing.

Views on Dental Health

Kenneth A. Fox, D.D.S., P.C.

ASPIRIN - GOOD AND BAD

If your child has a toothache, get him or her to a dentist immediately. If this is not practical, a proper dosage of aspirin will help make him feel more comfortable until you can get to the dentist. However, you should take precautions when administering aspirin.

Make sure your child takes the aspirin with enough water to prevent upsetting his stomach. Aspirin is a systemic drug; it relieves pain only after it has entered the bloodstream. So make sure it gets all the way down with plenty of water. Never place the tablet on the painful tooth or on the gum or let it dissolve in his mouth and ask him to swish it around the aching tooth. The aspirin can irritate the tissue seriously.

Never crush aspirin and place it between the cheek and the gum. Aspirin and related compounds are a common source of burns of the oral cavity. White lesions can develop where the medication touches the cheek or gum. The tissues will become painful and the white cauterized areas may be removed leaving a painful, raw, bleeding area.

The Secret's in the Planning
SURPRISINGLY EASY ENTERTAINING

JUST PICTURE a relaxed, unhurried cook, confidently setting beautifully prepared food on the table, with hardly a bit of last-minute fussing in the kitchen — now that's the stuff of which memorable meals are made.

This impressive scene can be repeated at your dinner table if you take a tip from cool, composed cooks, and plan ahead to prepare most of the food in advance — either early in the day or, better yet, the day before.

Advance preparation, rather than limiting menu choices to standard do-ahead fare, opens new dimensions of menu planning. For example, next time dinner is at your house, think of duckling served with savory long grain and wild rice for a surprisingly easy, distinctive meal.

Succulent duckling is delightfully easy to prepare. When it has been partially roasted the day before, it requires just minutes in the oven to finish cooking and to complement with a flavorful glaze.

Presented with a hearty rice accompaniment, a duckling will easily serve four. It's no wonder that at-home use of duckling is becoming more popular. Cooks everywhere are discovering its amazing affordability, availability and versatility.

Wild rice has long been considered the ideal menu accompaniment for duckling, but its price and time-consuming preparation discourage even the most ambitious cooks. Clever menu planners look instead to the convenience of long grain and wild rice.

This blend adds the festive touch that makes a meal something special. Whereas once the use of wild rice meant tedious sorting and careful washing, with uncertain cooking time complicating the preparation, today's mixture offers a convenient alternative with cooking directions that yield perfect results in less than half an hour.

Next time you entertain, even on a weeknight, try duckling, pre-roasted the day before, with long grain and wild rice. A few easy additions to each delivers flavor flair in the Italian, Indian or Island style.

Simplify the meal preparation by making dessert the night before, and have salad greens washed and ready to toss an hour or so before guests arrive for an unquestionably elegant meal that's amazingly easy to prepare.

DIRECTIONS FOR PRE-ROASTING THAWED DUCKLING THE DAY BEFORE SERVING

Preheat oven to 350°F. Wash duckling; dry with paper toweling. Sprinkle body cavity with 1/2 teaspoon salt. Place breast side up on rack in shallow roasting pan. Roast according to chart:

4 lb.	2 hrs.
4-1/2 lb.	2 hrs. 25 min.
5 lb.	2 hrs. 45 min.

Remove from oven. Let stand at room temperature 1 hour. Using poultry shears, quarter duckling by cutting along side of backbone and breastbone from tail to back to separate into halves; cut each half midway between leg joint and wing joint. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Finish according to recipe directions.

ISLAND PINEAPPLE DUCKLING

1 duckling, prepared according to pre-roasting directions
1/2 cup pineapple preserves
1-1/2 tablespoons light rum
3/4 teaspoon grated fresh ginger root or 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger

Remove duckling quarters from refrigerator 1-1/4 hours before serving time; place on rack in shallow baking pan. For glaze, combine preserves, rum and ginger, mixing well; set aside. About fifteen minutes before serving, roast duckling in preheated 425°F. oven for 7 minutes; spoon half the glaze over the duckling. Continue roasting for 8 minutes; top with remaining glaze. Serve with Tropical Wild Rice. Makes 4 servings.

Some friends turn us on to Tex-Mex green things

Kathe Ross

The best memories of my life are times spent with family and good friends. Selfishly increasing our special moments, Bill and I have found ourselves "adopting" several friends as part of our extended family.

One of the dearest couples we've had the pleasure of being close friends with is Donna and Paul Butzberger. Born with Texan blood flowing through their veins, they introduced us to our first honest-to-goodness rodeo, true 10-gallon cowboy hats, roach-stomping lizzard cowboy boots and longhorns.

Another thing we shared time and again with this couple and their friends was Donna's delicious homemade enchiladas. A dinner of them combined with "green things" (limeade concentrate, Tequila and ice blended together), corn chips with chilled guacamole and warmed cheese dip (2-lb. package of Velveeta mixed with a can of Ro-Tel), Spanish rice and refried beans usually rendered her quests stuffed and unable to resist eating too much.

My husband always seemed to be the best example of this. Many times after dinner he was uncomfortable with absolutely no room for another morsel of food. But the following day, he'd be raving about her menu and wondering when the next time would be that we would be invited for dinner.

Donna had a knack of concocting the most delicious blend of Mexican and Texan food. Perhaps part of the ability was attained from her grandmother, who was born and raised in San Antonio. That city has a very large population of Mexican-Americans. Their food is tasty but not extremely spicy until a piquant sauce or green chile is added. While I shy away from these toppings, Bill adds a bit of them and Paul uses them quite liberally.

Bill and I haven't had any Tex-Mex cuisine for awhile because the Butzbergers headed home for Dallas before they had to endure another frigid Michigan winter. Bill and I cannot blame them at this point, with the sidestreets covered by rutted ice and the freezing temperatures.

Perhaps, though, some jalapeno peppers or green chiles would help to warm us from the inside out. Maybe we'll give it a try!

BEEF AND CHEESE ENCHILADAS
12 corn tortillas
1 medium onion, chopped
24 oz. cheddar cheese, grated
½ cup cooking oil
Your favorite chili recipe

Heat oil in small frying pan until hot. Put a tortilla in the oil, covering the top of the tortilla and cook until soft — it only takes a few seconds. Do this to all the remaining tortillas.

After all are finished, place one on a flat surface. Add about 2 tablespoons of the grated cheese. Spread the cheese in a row across the tortilla — not in the center, but start about a third from the bottom of the tortilla. Sprinkle about a tablespoon of onion over the cheese. Bring the bottom of the tortilla over the cheese and onion; roll until it looks like a crepe.

Place each of the 12 rolled tortillas into a shallow baking pan. Cover the tortillas with your favorite chile recipe. If there is any cheese left over, sprinkle it on top. Bake in 350-degree oven for 20-25 minutes. Serves 6.

Canned chile works just as well; just heat and pour over the enchiladas and bake.

SOUR CREAM CHICKEN ENCHILADAS
¼ stick of margarine
1 small onion, chopped
4-oz. can green chiles, chopped
2 lbs. cooked chicken, diced
12 flour tortillas
1 Tbsp. instant chicken broth
1 pint heavy cream
1 pint sour cream
16 oz. Monterey Jack cheese, grated

Saute onion in margarine until transparent. Add the green chiles and chicken; heat thoroughly. Place 2-3 tablespoons of the chicken mixture in each of the tortilla. Roll up each tortilla and place in a 9- by 13-inch baking pan.

In a 2-quart sauce pan, heat the heavy cream over a low heat; add the instant chicken broth and stir until dissolved. Turn off heat. Add sour cream to suace pan and stir until mixed well. Pour over the flour tortillas. Top with the grated cheese.

Garnish with sliced jalapeno peppers if desired. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

SPANISH RICE
¼ stick of margarine
1 small onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, diced
1 cup rice, uncooked
16-oz. can tomatoes, cut-up
15-oz. can chicken broth
½ can (4 oz.) chopped green chiles
Salt and pepper

Saute onion and garlic in margarine until transparent (about 5 minutes). Add rice and cook until brown. Slowly add the tomatoes, broth and green chiles. Mix well. Bring to a boil and then turn to simmer and cook for 20 minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Salt and pepper to taste. Serves 4.

EASY REFRIED BEANS
10 strips of bacon
Two 16 oz. cans refried beans
1 Tbsp. chili powder
Salt and pepper
4 oz. cheddar cheese, grated

Cook bacon strips in a skillet until crisp. Remove bacon and crumble into small pieces. To the bacon grease, add refried beans. Cook until smooth and hot. Add the bacon, chili powder, and salt and pepper to taste. Serve hot with melted cheese on top. Serves 6-8.

THE FLAMBOYANT

"Mame" will be this year's all-school musical at the Centennial Educational Park. The annual musical is the dramatic highlight of the year at the park. It is also the vehicle which has been a springboard for a sizable number of young actors, who have gone on to major in drama at college and from there to professional theater.

Gloria Logan, head of the drama department at CEP, has directed a string of hit shows. She is enthusiastic about "Mame" which will open April 1 for a three-night run in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School.

"The musical covers two decades (1928-1946) and the world as Mame splashes glitter everywhere in her travels," said Gloria. "The show, like the woman, is warm, vivacious, bright, witty, abounding with wonderful song and dance, and always grabbing for life with both hands. And never coming up empty."

Students from both Salem and Canton high schools are eligible to audition for roles in the musical. Mrs. Logan reassures her the students about the tryouts. She and Betty Wiedeman of the vocal music department will help them learn the song and dance routine required for the audition.

"Don't be concerned if you've never done anything like this before — neither have most of the other applicants. There are lots of Plymouth alumni working in the professional theatre today who began by going through a nervous audition for the high school musical with no more background than you."

THE SHOW also has a major role for an unchanged boy's voice. Mrs. Logan is looking for someone to play the part of Patrick, Mame's nephew.

"He needs to be under 5 feet in height and eager to work hard while having fun as this role carries a good deal of singing and acting," said Mrs. Logan.

She has worked with middle and elementary school students in the past in such shows as "Fiddler on the Roof," "The Music Man" and "Damn Yankees." She says working with the younger students has been "a wonderful experience."

It is also a wonderful opportunity for a talented boy to work in elite company.

Any boy in the Plymouth-Canton community who is interested in trying out for the role of Patrick should call Mrs. Logan, 453-3100, ext. 243 or 729-9332. Or they may stop by the Phase III band room Jan. 11, 12 or 13. Phase III is the building between Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools at Joy and Canton Center roads. It is best to go in from Joy Road.

PLYMOUTH'S Mayflower Hotel and Plymouth Landing are featured in the January issue of "Michigan Living" magazine. In the special Super Bowl issue, the article, "Super Bowl Dining for Super Month," lists local eateries where local residents and visitors may want to dine during Super Bowl week.

It credits The Mayflower with "antiques, life-size murals of 1621 Plymouth landing flank massive stone fireplace in one dining room. Nautical atmosphere in Steak House. Sod and scrod (Western beef, Norwegian scrod), pub steak sandwiches. Salad famed. Singer-guitarist."

Plymouth Landing wins plaudits for its turn-of-the century decor, prime rib, and veal Oscar specialties.

Congratulations, Ralph and Sam.

CARL PETERS and Rene LaCombe had high scores at Thursday's party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center. Carl had 5,500 points and Rene, 5,140.

LOUISE FLAMBOE of Plymouth won fourth place in the Detroit Free Press Christmas short-story contest. Her story, "I Have My Memories," appeared in the Dec. 20 issue of "Detroit Magazine." Louise is an independent human studies student at Schoolcraft College and has been cited by her instructor, Sue Kaplan, for special achievement.

CORRECTION — The series of special crafts demonstrations scheduled for Sundays will be in the lobby of the Mayflower Hotel, not the Mayflower Meeting House mentioned in last Thursday's newspaper.

Good to discuss sexual harassment in workplace

Janet Good is not looking forward to her role as guest speaker at Wednesday evening's meeting of the local chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW).

She describes her topic, "Sexual Harassment in the Workplace," as "sad, depressing and ugly."

After three years of co-chairing the State Task Force on Sexual Harassment in the Workplace, Mrs. Good's experience with her topic is first-hand. The task force has listened to and documented many horror stories.

She defines sexual harassment: Someone making "you think you'll get into trouble or lose your job if you don't give in to their sexual advances or put up with their sexual remarks and actions."

'Men control the world, they control industry and the shipping lanes. I don't believe that they can't control themselves when they see a tight sweater or a plunging neckline.'

—Janet Good, NOW speaker

SHE DOES not believe the harassment is sexually motivated. "I think it's a power play. The women I've interviewed are the workers who need their jobs most desperately, and the women who are least likely to scream."

Mrs. Good says there are many misconceptions concerning sexual harassment.

"One of the myths is that all men are bad and all women are good. Men of good will are shocked when they learn of the practices of some of their employees. They ask, 'How can we help?' and set policies to correct them."

Women who work in factories often are victims of what the harasser refers to as "a little fun." When the other men in the factories realize the woman's plight, they agree that next time, they will interfere with a "hey, bud," Mrs. Good said.

VICTIMS RANGE from young to old, from executives to unskilled workers, from married to single, and can be attractive or not, she said.

"High school girls are harassed on their first jobs or by their teachers. In some cases, women get to the point where they believe harassment is just part of the employment picture.

"Women lose their jobs because they are 'uncooperative,' but I have never seen a man lose his job because of this issue."

Most sexual harassment cases go unreported because the victims are made to feel ashamed of what has happened. Women who testify before the task force may do so anonymously, if they wish.

The accusation that some women dress in a manner that invites harassment does not impress Mrs. Good.

"MEN CONTROL the world, they control industry and the shipping lanes. I don't believe that they can't control themselves when they see a tight sweater or a plunging neckline," she said.

Janet Good is an Equal Economic Opportunity officer for the Michigan Department of Labor. She is a NOW member and also is involved in forming smaller chapters of OWL (Older Women's League), a new national organization. She is planning an organizationa brunch at her Farmington Hills home Jan. 17.

The Northwest Wayne County Chapter of Now will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 13, in Hoover Elementary School, Levan between Five and Six Mile roads, Livonia.

The meeting will be open to the public. Persons wishing more information about the meeting may call Kathy Boston, 455-5051.

Sexual harassment will be Janet Good's topic when she addresses the NOW group Wednesday evening.

Where's the baby?

Diane Dart, executive director of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, and Austin Lynch, C-C president, have stacks of gifts awaiting the first baby of 1982 born to Plymouth residents. So far, only non-residents have called and they are not eligible. Parents should call the Chamber office, 453-1540, with date and hour of their child's birth. More than 20 gifts, including a $100 bank account, will be given to the earliest 1982 arrival.

Scouts pancake supper funds World's Fair trip

The Cadettes in Girl Scout Troop 346 have set their sights on trip to the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn.

The Knoxville Girl Scouts are providing camping facilities for troops from across the nation, so the 19 Cadettes and their adult advisors have a place to stay.

Now they have less than six months to raise money to pay for the trip. Their first fund-raiser is a pancake supper from 5-7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 13, in the McDonald's Restaurant, 44900 Ford Road, Canton Township.

Cost of the dinner is $1.50. The Cadettes will serve the sausages with all the pancakes diners can eat. Beverages are not included. With a helping hand from McDonald's, the troop hopes to get its trip fund off to a good start.

Ruby Monk is leader of the troop that meets in the Honeytree complex. Sue Buchan is assistant leader. Carole Korinek of Canton Township is in charge of the pancake supper arrangements. The Cadettes are residents of Plymouth and Canton townships and the city of Plymouth.

Sweet Adelines seek singers

Members of the We-Way-Co Chorus urge all women to start the new year on the right note. We-Way-Co is part of an international group, Sweet Adelines, Inc., an organization devoted to the teaching, performing and enjoyment of women's four-part harmony, barbershop style.

Two special guest nights have been scheduled for Wednesday, and Jan. 20 for women who like to sing. Those who want to learn more about the chorus and barbershop singing are invited to a rehearsal at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Bailey Recreation Center, on Ford Road behind Westland City Hall. For more information, call 425-0017, 538-4966 or 721-3861. There is no obligation to join the chapter.

We-Way-Co, the western Wayne County chapter, met formerly in Epiphany Lutheran Church in Plymouth. Many of its members are from Plymouth and Canton but some come from as far as Brighton.

The chapter has 60 members and is reaching for a membership of 80 for the spring musical activities and comptitions. Around the world, Sweet Adelines number 35,000 in six countries.

U-M Friars headline show

The University of Michigan Friars will join the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park bands for their annual "Variety Is" shows at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Jan. 15 and 16.

The Friars arrange and prepare their own music and dance steps. The octet takes its name from that of a society of campus leaders that flourished at U-M in the early 1900s. The frothy beer mug which serves as the logo of today's group is reminiscent of the congenial good fellowship of that turn-of-the century drinking society. It also is a symbol of the spirit of light-hearted spontaneity which is the trademark of every Friars performance.

THE FRIARS originated in the fall of 1955 as an octet of the U-M Glee Club. They perform with the glee club as well as on their own, singing dozens of concerts a year in and around Michigan.

The group appears independently and with its parent group.

In addition to the Midwest, the Friars have appeared on the East Coast, the West Coast and the Gulf Coast. They have sung and danced in Europe and, most recently, Hawaii.

They have sung at a congressional dinner in Washington and for the governor of Hawaii in a command performance.

Their annual February concert in Ann Arbor is a popular event.

The PCEP Marching Band will perform its 1981-82 competition show in full gear in the "Variety Is" program. The Symphony Band will be joined by the high-school choir singing a medley of Walt Disney songs. The Concert and Varsity Bands will play, and there will be other acts between major numbers.

Admission will be $2 per person or $7 for a family — parents and four children. Tickets may be purchased in the lobby of the Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium before each performance or in advance from band members. The auditorium is on Joy Road west of Canton Center Road.

All proceeds from the two shows will go to the support of the high-school bands.

Rocks sharp in league cage victory, 65-32

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Plymouth Salem used a balanced attack Friday to wear down Dearborn Edsel Ford in a Suburban Eight League basketball clash, 65-32.

The Rocks maintained a grip on first place with their third straight league win. Edsel dropped to 1-2.

"This is the first time we have been able to spread a game," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "We didn't let them come back into it. That was the most significant thing tonight."

Salem, now sporting a 5-2 overall record, dominated the first quarter with a 14-4 outburst.

The two teams traded baskets in the second quarter as Salem led at intermission, 30-20.

"Early, we weren't cutting off their flash cuts in the lane," said Thomann, "but we came back in the second half and they did get much inside on us."

Midway through the third quarter, Salem's Mike McBride tallied six straight points to give the Rocks a commanding 38-21 advantage.

Dave Houle's two free throws with 1:59 to go lifted the Rocks to a 46-23 lead as Edsel continued to falter.

"I GUESS we let them do anything we wanted them to do," said Edsel Ford coach John Kreger. "They were aggressive and we weren't. They did a nice job offensively and defensively and the score shows that."

Thomann was pleased with the way his team loosened up Edsel Ford's zone defense.

"They packed it in pretty well and we hit the outside shot," Thomann said. "Our guys are starting to recognize their positions and are getting to the spots where we want them to be. It's starting to open the game up and I think it's a little more fun for the guys."

The Rocks, indeed, shot well from the field. During the first three quarters, Salem connected on 19 of 31 shots.

McBride led all scorers with 15 points. Dave Miller, "who's been our most consistent player so far," according to Thomann, added 10 points.

Dave Smith, Edsel Ford's muscular 6-foot-3 center, topped the Thunderbirds with 14 points, but hit only eight of 17 free throws.

"Last year when we beat them here, we were mentally ready," said Kreger. "We were missing two starters, one because of appendicitis and another because I had to take disciplinary action. But I don't want to take anything away from Plymouth Salem; they would have beat us anyway."

Canton gymnasts launch season with high hopes

By Brad Emons
staff writer

John Cunningham enters his third year of coaching gymnastics at Plymouth Canton with a some new challenges.

The affable mentor of the Chiefs is coming off his best season. Several school records were set. Canton also received national recognition when it was rated among the top 36 teams in the county by National Association of High School Gymnastics Coaches (based on team scoring).

Canton has also been selected as the site for the state girls' meet March 19-20.

The 1982 Canton squad is a mixture of veterans and newcomers.

"This team will be a good team instead of a great team," Cunningham promised. "We have 14 meets and could lose five.

"We're a little bit tentative now to where we stand among the other teams. I expect we'll improve as the season goes along."

The Chiefs lost one all-state candidate but another has returned.

Laura Michalik, who holds school records in horizontal bars, vault and all-around, will lead the Chiefs again this season. She is considered one of the top seniors in the state.

MICHALIK'S PARTNER last season, Laurie Beale, a school record-holder in the horizontal bars and vault, decided to not compete in year final year of eligibility.

Three sophomores should pick up the slack — Linda Beale, Amy Albaugh and Lisa Lovich. All saw considerable action last year on the varsity as freshmen.

Newcomers Theresa Wheeler, a junior, and Ruth Ann Trout, a sopohomore, round out the top six. Other hopefuls include junior Leslie Woodruff and sophomores Carmen Baker, Maureen Brophy, Helene Zahn and Lisa Kovaleski.

The 1982 season will also include a new scoring system.

"The top four girls figure in the scoring (last year it was three)," explained Cunningham. "It's a new way to do it. It's like having an extra quarter in basketball.

"It means more to teams now with more depth."

Cunningham said the new format won't hurt his team.

"We're maybe 10 points lower than last year," he calculated. "But we're in pretty good shape. We have four who can score pretty well right now."

AND CANTON showed off some of its depth Wednesday by defeating Farmington in its opener, 103.20-90.15.

Michalik was the all-around winner with victories in the vault, 7.9; bars, 7.15; and beam, 7.15. Farmington's Jo Smith won the floor exercise (7.65) and placed second in vault (7.75).

Beale was consistent with third-place finishes on floor (6.6) and bars (6.5). She was also fourth in both the vault and beam.

Albaugh took third in both vault (7.4) and bars (6.05). She was sixth in beam and floor. Lovich earned a pair of fifth places (floor and beam) and a seventh (vault).

Other Canton places were recorded by Trout in vault (fifth) and Wheeler on bars (seventh).

PLYMOUTH SALEM, under first-year coach Kathy Kinsella, will open the season tonight at 7 when it hosts Walled Lake Central.

Canton returns to action Wednesday at Belleville.

Salem tankers make big splash

swimming

Plymouth Salem's swimmers picked up where they left off last year by dunking Allen Park Thursday in a Suburban Eight League meet, 130-39.

The Rocks, who were 3-0 before the holiday break, made it four straight by dominating the Jaguars in almost every event.

"We had some pretty good Christmas workouts," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "We had a few who missed and some were sick, but the ones practicing swam well for us tonight."

Sophomore Erik Kleinsmith improved his times dramatically. He surprised the field in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 5:24.0. Teammates Tim Harwood and Chuck Eudy were second and third with times of 5:24.2 and 6:10.4, respectively.

Harwood won the 200 individual medley in 2:11.8 with teammates Paul Neshich (2:19.1) and Kleinsmith (2:21.7) taking second and third.

"Erik really gave us a lift," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "It was a big spot for him."

Other Salem individual winners included John Thompson, 200 freestyle, 2:01.6; Bob Bowling, 50 freestyle, 24.8; Joe Rudelic, diving, 256.2 points; Jeff Kleinsmith, 100 butterfly, 57.9; Mark Roehrig, 100 backstroke, 1:02.8; and Ashley Long, 100 breaststroke, 1:08.6.

The team of Neschich, J. Kleinsmith, Bowling and Ashley Long took first in the 200 medley relay with a time of 1:49.1. Teammates Russ Shaffer, Harwood, Roehrig and Jeff Walker were second in 1:51.6.

THE ROCK quartet of Thompson, J. Kleinsmith, Scott Stinebaugh and Roehrig gained first in the 400 freestyle relay (3:37.3). The foursome of E. Kleinsmith, Walker, Anderson and Long took second (3:47.3).

Rock swimmers earning second included Anderson, 200 free, 2:04.5; Walker, 50 free, 25.5; Todd Riedel, diving, 185.7; Shaffer, 100 fly, 59.9, and 100 breaststroke, 1:09.9; Neshich, 100 back, 1:04.3.

STEVENSON 90
CANTON 82

The Spartans remained unbeaten Thursday, but it was easy as Canton put up a fight, 90-82.

Rob Pavlic won two events for Stevenson — 200 free (1:56.6) and 100 fly (59.8). Pete Stern countered for Canton with victories in the 50 and 100 freestyles with times of 22.9 and 51.4, respectively.

Other Canton winners included John Simone, 200 IM, 2:08.6; Jerry Fleisher, diving, 158.47; and Bob Simrak, 500 free, 5:20.9.

Stevenson was victorious in the 400 free relay (3:34.0), but Canton, behind Bob Lewelling, Jim Luce, Ron Hurley and Stern, took first in the 200 medley relay (1:47.8).

The loss dropped Canton to 3-2 overall.

Volleyball opener spoiled

Plymouth Canton volleyball coach Cyndi Burnstein and her team would just as soon forget about their 1982 opener.

The host Chiefs and Walled Lake Western, who shared the Western Six League title last year with Livonia Churchill, renewed their rivalry again Wednesday.

And the Warriors had the steadier six players as they posted a 15-4, 15-10 win.

"I think the team put too much pressure on themselves," said the Canton coach. "Walled Lake Western was real scrappy — they're a team that won't roll over.

"We had some new people in there. Denise Wright was setting for the first time. It was Kim Elliott's first game, and Debbie Dickinson could only play the front row because she's not ready yet for setting."

The Chiefs were terrible in the first game and not much better in the second, Burnstein said.

"WESTERN gave up a million opportunities. They missed six serves in the second game and we should have capitalized.

Bentley spikers invade tonight

Rookie coach takes big jump

By Jay Keenan
special writer

Plymouth Salem volleyball fans may get a chance this winter to appreciate a lot of the same excitement and talent that was demonstrated by last fall's girls' basketball team.

Rookie coach Jeanne Martin is blessed with a team that has an extraordinary amount of leaping ability along with an array of unselfish players. As a matter of fact, Martin will have four players off that basketball squad which finished with a 22-4 mark, along with two girls who had experience on the junior varsity level.

"This is a real aggressive team," said Martin, who succeeded Cathy Himes. "We have a lot of strong hitters on offense. This team isn't that tall, but these kids hit as hard as anybody I've seen.

"The basketball players tend to be the most aggressive jumpers because they're used to it."

"We also have a lot of strong setters," she continued. "We're running a different offense than in the past, but it looks pretty good and the kids are pretty happy with it."

MARTIN IS especially pleased with the teamwork displayed during preseason practices.

"I'm also very impressed with the girls' capabilities to accept the responsibilities among themselves," Martin said. "This is a group of kids that will get their one-mile run in and do the conditioning exercises without me being there."

Graduation claimed four Salem seniors from last year's team which posted an overall mark of 7-5. The most notable loss is first-team All-Observer choice Cheryl Sobkow.

The Rock mentor, however, has a cast of returning players who can get the job done.

Senior tri-captain Carol Ross, a strong all-around player who is coming off a fine basketball season, is one such player Martin will depend on.

Another captain expected to play a key role in the Rocks' fortunes is senior Kelly Tucker.

Martin describes the two veteran spikers as "good blockers and excellent setters who can play all the spots."

SPEEDY SENIOR Linda Lybarger, a third-year veteran, is another leaper and blocker who adds punch to the Salem attack along with her quickness. A cager on the Rock team, Lybarger will also be setting.

The fourth senior is front-line player Lorianne Genyk, the "talker of the team," according to Martin.

"Lorianne stirs the players up and helps keep them aware of what's going on on the court," said the Salem coach.

The Salem squad also boasts junior leapers Jacque Merrifield, a captain, and Ann Glomski, who possesses a 27-inch vertical jumper. Both are off the basketball team and will provide offense, according to Martin.

"Ann is an intimidating person at the net," said the Rock coach. "She jumps as high as anybody does."

Diane Murphy and Lisa Granger, both juniors, will be the main setters in the Salem wheel this year. Both have the ability to block well, added Martin.

Two first-year prospects — junior Lynn McUmber and sophomore Kelly Bemiss — have the potential to add spark to the team, said Martin.

THE ROCK COACH is also counting on junior Joann Mulaski and sophomore Sarah Wallman, both spikers, for added depth up front.

"Right now the defense is our weakest point," she said. "Our transition from offense to defense is slow. But we're working on that and I think these things will only get stronger as the season goes along."

Martin's team opens the season tonight at home against league favorite Livonia Bentley.

"The rumor has it that Bentley should be tough this year," she said. "But I think we can compete. If we can execute well, I think this team can play with anybody."

Gwen Cirbes of the Plymouth Figure Skating Club, third after the compulsory, gained second place in the same division.

Chief cagers falter

Walled Lake Western remained unbeaten in the Western Six League with a 68-58 basketball triumph Friday over host Plymouth Canton.

The Warriors, now 2-0 in league play, kept pace with league leader Farmington Harrison, a 70-61 victor Friday over Northville. Harrison is one-half game ahead with a 3-0 loop mark.

Canton dropped 0-2 in league play and 1-7 overall. The Chiefs will return to action Friday at Northville. Game time at the Mustangs' gym is 8 p.m.

Quick start ignites Plymouth Christian

By Jay Keenan
special writer

Two hours prior to Plymouth Christian Academy's clash with Southfield Manoogian, Eagle coach Butch DeRenzo said that one of his team's biggest problems so far this year has been his team's slow starts.

Plymouth, however, gave an ironic impression Friday night, rolling to a 52-42 basketball victory over the Cougars at Pioneer Middle School.

The Eagles put on a different first-half face, outscoring Manoogian 23-13.

DeRenzo, whose team is competing against varsity level competition for the first time, said his squad made a 180-degree turn with its intensity.

"I'm real pleased with the way we came out in the first half and played four quarters of offense," he said. "We'd like these kids to play a lot harder throughout the game rather than saving most of their energy until the end. Our starters and reserves did a good job tonight."

Junior point guard Mike Routledge led a balanced Christian scoring attack with 15 points. John Koss followed with 11. Darrell Wheeler, Brian Spicer, Jim Koss and Brad Mangan each chipped in with six.

Mannogian's Vahan Karabajakian took game-high scoring honors with 17. Nareg Nazarian added 11.

ALTHOUGH neither team displayed an artistic offensive show, the Eagles managed to execute a swift running game, complementing their offense with a variety of presses.

Plymouth took advantage of the Cougars' slow start, jumping out to a 9-4 first-quarter lead.

Manoogian tallied two baskets at the start of the second quarter, but the Eagles enjoyed a 10-point cushion at intermission after connecting on eight straight points without a Cougar answer.

After three quarters, Plymouth maintained its lead, outscoring the Cougars 12-10. Manoogian outpointed the Eagles 19-17 in the final period, but failed to slice the deficit into single digits.

Although Plymouth executed a considerable amount of layups and inside shots throughout the game, the inexperienced Eagles encountered difficulties driving in against the bigger Manoogian squad.

Wrestling duels turn into mismatches

Plymouth Canton raised its overall mat record to 5-2 Thursday with a double-dual victory Thursday at Walled Lake Western.

The Chiefs beat Walled Lake Central in the opener, 45-21, and then blasted Northville, 64-9.

Host Western and Ferndale also participated in the meet.

"We almost lost the first match," said Canton coach Dan Chrenko. "We were flat and didn't wrestle well. We just weren't ready to go."

Central won five of eight matches against the Chiefs, but forfeited five others.

"We had a talk after Central," said the Canton coach. "We came back real strong and wrestled well against Northville."

Brett Haarala (138 pounds) and Brian Lee (132) both won by pins in the first match. Haarala's opponent went down in just 20 seconds.

Marty Heaton (155) scored a victory by decision while teammates Chris Cifaldi (98), Steve Hamblin (145), Don Page (185), Paul Fletcher (198) and Alex Young (heavyweight) won on voids.

In the second match, seven Canton grapplers scored pins — Cifaldi (98), Todd Bartlett (112), Tim Collins (119), Tom Frigge (126), Lee (132), Hamblin (145), Heaton (155) and Page (198).

Cifaldi had the fastest pin (43 seconds). Todd Gattoni won by a 10-0 decision and teammates Gary Burns (167) and Fletcher (185) won on forfeits.

SALEM 65
ALLEN PARK 12

The bus was not the only thing that broke down Thursday, as Allen Park was swamped by host Plymouth Salem, 65-12.

The meet ended early as the Rocks, 5-0 overall, scored several easy victories in the romp.

Winning by pins were Bill Hall (105 pounds), John Beaudoin (138), Randy Beaudoin (155), Harry Walkley (185), Scott Wickens (198) and Marty Piper (heavyweight). Teammates Rick Bershave (98), John Jeannotte (119), Bruce Bachman (145) and John Woochuk (167) won by void.

Dave Leist scored a victory by a 10-0 decision.

Bernadette Peters is a schoolteacher who falls in love with a traveling sheet-music salesman in the musical drama "Pennies from Heaven."

what's at the movies

Moviegoers suffer along with lovers in bleak 'Pennies'

"You'll find your fortune falling all over town
Be sure that your umbrella is upside down"

These lines from "Pennies from Heaven" (R), the song and the movie, might as well serve as the epitaph of those whose fortunes are falling as a result of being associated with this strange, topsy-turvy production.

"Pennies from Heaven" grafts bleak, cynical humor onto the kind of lavish Hollywood musical that had its heyday in the 1930s. Those musicals, providing bright, glittery escape from the drab reality of the Great Depression, never hinted at that reality. After all, that would have defeated their purpose as escapist entertainment.

On the other hand, "Pennies from Heaven," as a 1981 movie set in 1934, shows the hard times coexisting with the fantasy world of the movies.

The result, however, is neither musical comedy nor drama but a unique form. Like the duckbilled platypus, the movie is most peculiar but not especially attractive or appealing.

STEVE MARTIN appears as Arthur Parker, a traveling sheet-music salesman, unhappily married to a prudish wife (Jessica Harper). Arthur longs for better things, "a world where the songs come true." On one of his many out-of-town trips, his wishes do come true, at least for a while.

He meets "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking" Eileen (Bernadette Peters), a shy schoolteacher with glorious looks. He instantly falls in love with her, and almost as instantly he seduces and "ruins" her.

When Eileen comes to Chicago to look for Arthur, she finds he has given her a phony address — that's the kind of nice guy Arthur is. Eileen ends up in the clutches of a slick pimp (Christopher Walken), has an abortion and becomes a prostitute.

Arthur and Eileen meet again by chance. They find they still love each other, and they run off together. Their troubles aren't over. It is still the middle of the Depression, Arthur can't find a job, and on top of that, he is wanted by police for the murder of a blind girl.

Why the movie threw in this gratuitous bit of melodrama is baffling, but much of what occurs in this movie defies explanation.

AS ARTHUR'S LIFE stumbles downhill, it's accompanied by the chirpy optimistic lyrics of the pop songs of the day. Among them are "Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries," "The Clouds Will Soon Roll By," "Pennies from Heaven," "Love Is Good for Anything That Ails You" and "Let's Misbehave."

The songs are lip-synched by the characters in the movie, often in a very obvious manner and with deliberately inappropriate voices. The effect is startling and disconcerting. It is just another aspect of the overall bizarre character of the movie that at times seems surrealistic.

The most successful synchronization occurs in a dance number. Eileen and Arthur are in a movie theater watching Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers glide across the screen to the strains of "Let's Face the Music and Dance." Moved by what they see, Eileen and Arthur go onstage before the screen and join in the dance number, which becomes an elaborate fantasy.

There is only one thing wrong with this sequence. When it is over, we return to the lives of Arthur and Eileen, when we would rather continue to watch Fred and Ginger.

Herbal renaissance

Old tribal cures are rooted in truth

By Thomas Harney
special writer

The Kenyan medical practitioner examining the wailing baby did not wear a white jacket or a stethoscope. His garments were cowhide, and he wore a necklace with engraved bone talisman to exorcise the evil spirits.

His consulting room in the thatched hut bore no resemblance to a hospital examing room. It was outfitted simply with a cooking hearth, a bed, a few chairs and a table with an array of tins, boxes, bottles and bowls containing herbs.

Not that it mattered to the baby's desperate mother. When her child's chronic, debilitating colic failed to respond to treatment at a nearby hospital, she turned to a local herbalish, one of thousands of healers in Africa whose knowledge, passed down orally from generation to generation, of the medicinal properties of local plants equips them to handle medical problems ranging from the simple to the sophisticated.

The herbalist questioned the mother closely about the baby's symptoms, went out into the field behind his house and returned a few minutes later with the leaves and roots of a plant.

Placing the plant in a bowl of water, he added some herbal powder and liquid from his arsenal of pharmaceuticals and proceeded to boil up a tea. When the concoction was ready, he recited an incantation to drive off the evil spirits afflicting his patient, then fed the tea to the baby.

Within a few minutes, the baby stopped crying. After continued doses of the tea over the next several days, the cure was complete.

THIS STORY is told by Dr. Edward S. Ayensu, a Smithsonian plant biologist who was born and raised in Ghana. In a lifetime of travel across Africa and other continents, Ayensu has seen many such "cures." In West Africa, he once witnessed the rigorous and lengthy religious indoctrination of a tribal healer, which included taking the student into a forest to learn to identify the names, medical uses and locations of various trees and shrubs.

"Unfortunately, because many of the traditional healers in Africa, Asia, the Caribbean and other parts of the world claim to employ magic and spiritual forces to aid their herbal cures," Ayensu said, "they have been branded 'witch doctors' and 'voodoo priests' by Westerners and the value of their medicinal remedies questioned, if not dismissed out of hand."

But this attitude is changing. Fostered by such scientists as Ayensu and Dr. Richard E. Schultes, director of Harvard University's Botanical Museum, interest in herbal medicine is undergoing a renaissance. Scientists, drug companies and public health experts at the World Health Organization (WHO) are studying the herbalists' methods and analyzing their herbal teas. And WHO has recently initiated a program to promote and encourage traditional medicine throughout the developing world.

This interest is well-founded; Western doctors are coming to realize they have much to learn from reputable herbalists. Studies show that a surprising number of the prescription drugs sold every year in the United States are derived from plants which have long been included in the pharmacopoeia of traditional healers. Two examples:

- Reserpine, a drug used in the treatment of high blood pressure, is extracted from Rouwolfia Serpentina, a plant native to Southeast Asia. Hindu healers have used this plant for thousands of years to treat nervous disorders.
- Diosgenin, a drug used as the foundation material in the manufacture of birth-control pills, comes from the Mexican yam, a climbing vine that Mexican Indians have used as a general cure-all.

SADLY, THE FOLK pharmacopoeias possessed by many traditional societies are in danger of being lost forever, Schultes and Ayensu warn, with potentially grave consequences. Approximately 20,000 flowering plants species are thereatened with extinction because of the cutting and burning of tropical forests and development; as a result, many useful drugs may never be discovered.

At the same time, native peoples also are being irrevocably changed through contact with modern civilization, setting in motion a vicious circle: With the arrival of aspirin pills and other Western medicines, herbal remedies often are abandoned and forgotten. In their place, increasingly costly drugs are imported, straining the already fragile economies of these developing nations.

As director of the Smithsonian's Office of Biological Conservation, located at the National Museum of Natural History, and a member of the National Academy of Sciences Board of Science and Technology for International Development, Ayensu has been at the forefront of efforts to prevent what he terms a "tragedy."

Botanical exploration, he said, should be accelerated in the tropics, where the world's most diverse plant communities live. Ayensu himself has been working to identify and publish data on medicinal plants in a systematic manner, information that will be useful to the scientific community and the general public.

Three years ago he published the first authoritative source book on "Medicinal Plants of West Africa," listing the botanical characteristics, names and traditional medicinal uses of 187 species of West African plants. This month a sequel, "Medicinal Plants of the West Indies," was published. (Both volumes are published by Reference Publications Inc., of Algonac, Mich.)

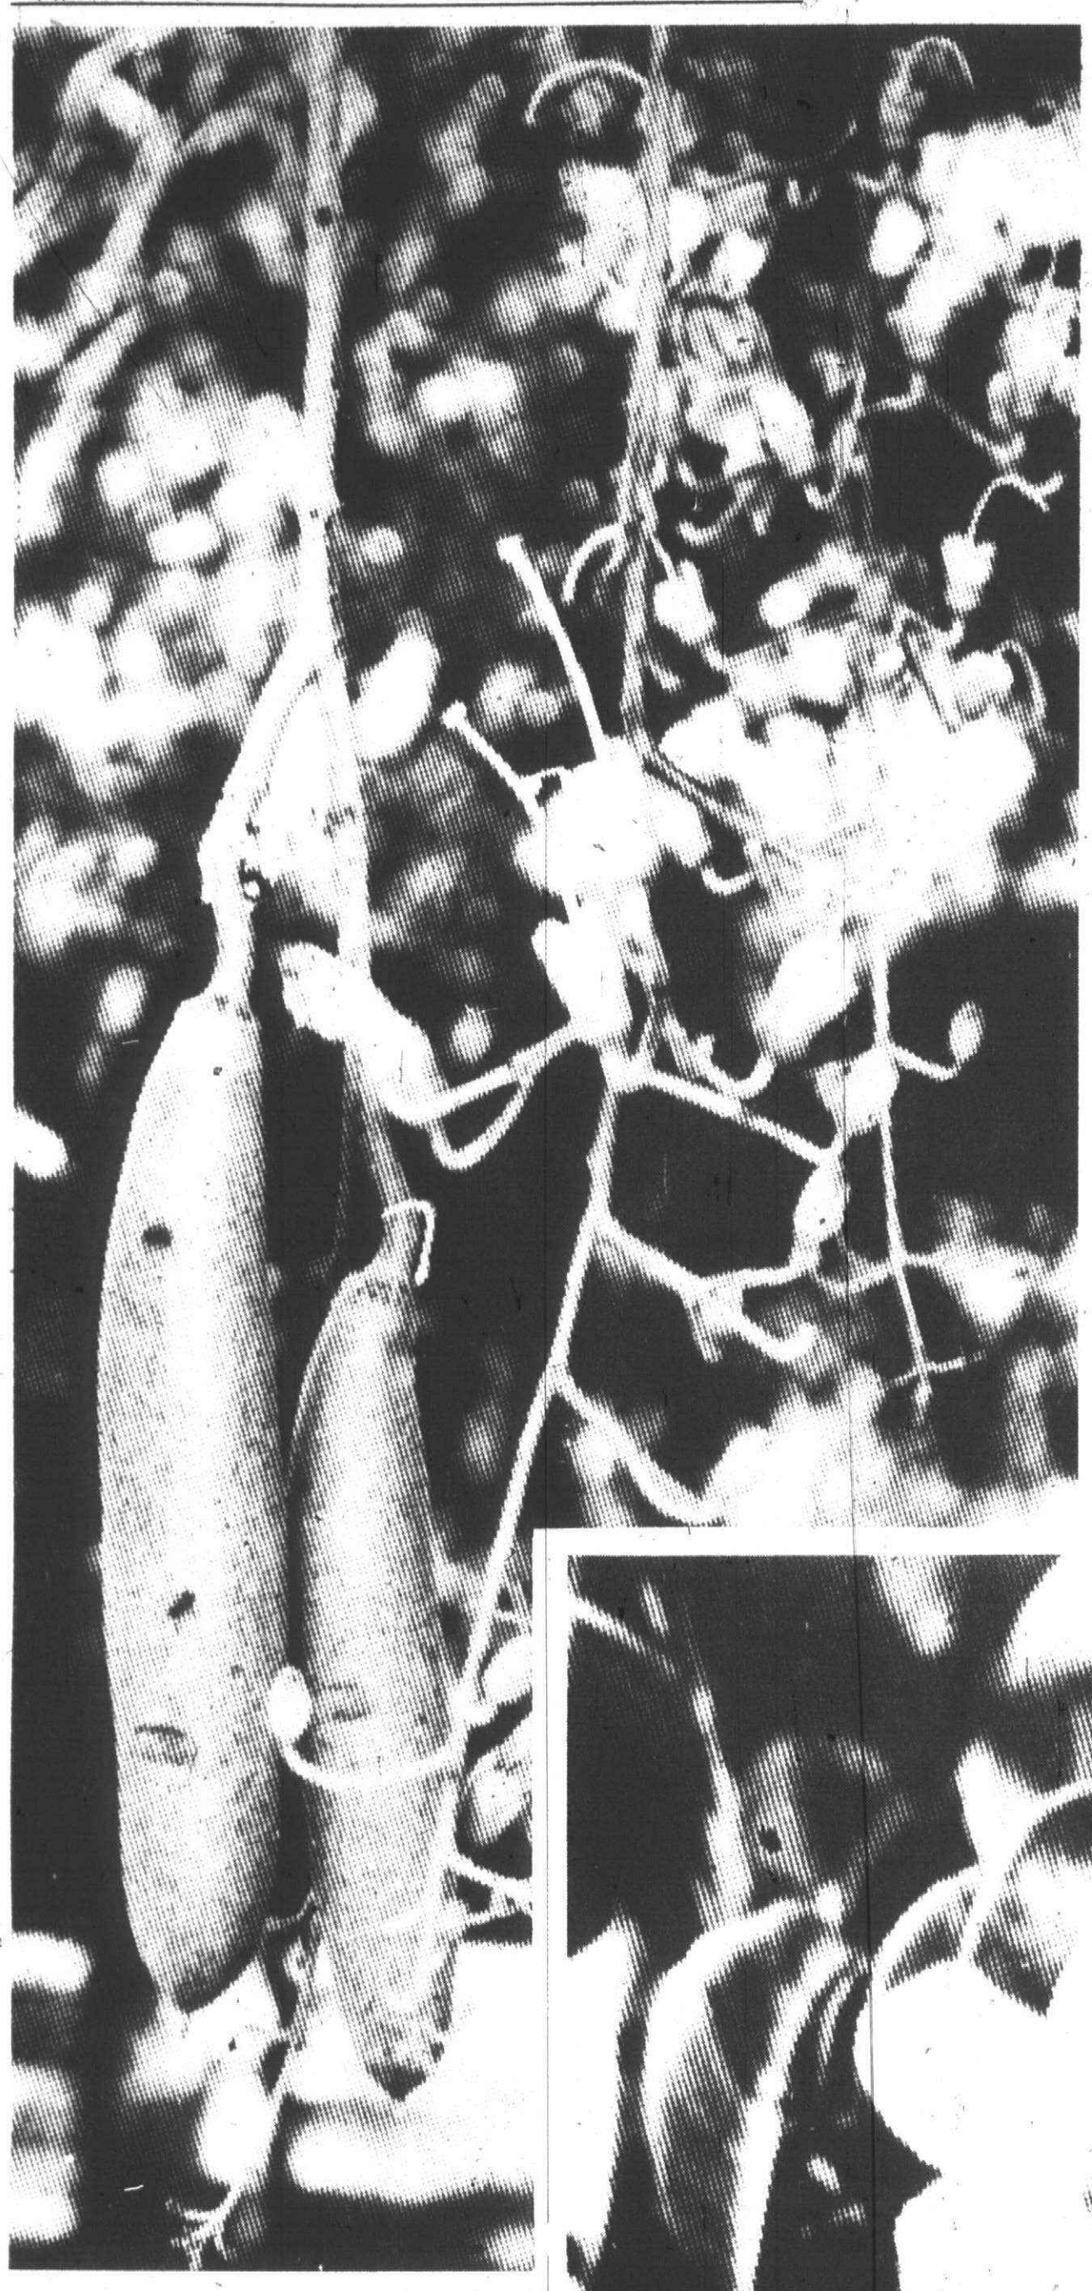
Ayensu's own interest in medicinal plants dates back 20 years to field research trips to Antigu and Dominica. There he was surprised to learn that many familiar West African medicinal plants had been introduced to the Caribbean by slaves as early as the 1400s. In Dominica, for example, he found the well-known castor oil plant "Ricinus communis," a native of Africa, whose leaves and roots are used in that nation to treat stomach disorders — and in fact could have been the herb that cured the baby's colic.

AYENSU BELIEVES that the escalating costs of important Western drugs makes it imperative for the Caribbean nations and other developong regions of the world to achieve "drug independence."

This cannot happen, however, unless they become familiar with medically valuable plants growing right in their own back yards. A dramatic example is the case of the Madagascar periwinkle (Catharanthus roseus), which flourishes in certain areas of Antigua and is all but ignored. Long used by traditonal healers on other Caribbean islands to treat bronchitis and other ailments, this plant is now the basis of a leading drug for the treatmemt of leukemia. One pound of the alkaloid vincristine extracted from periwinkles currently sells for $100,000 on the world market.

In the People's Republic of China, Ayensu said, where herbal medicine is employed side by side with modern medicine as part of a comprehensive health care program in cities and the countryside, literally all available soil suitable for the growth of the periwinkle plant is under cultivation.

"It seems obvious," Ayensu said, "that the complexion of the world's health situation requires that other developing nations follow China'a lead. It is just not possible for us to place Western health systems in developing countries before the year 2000."



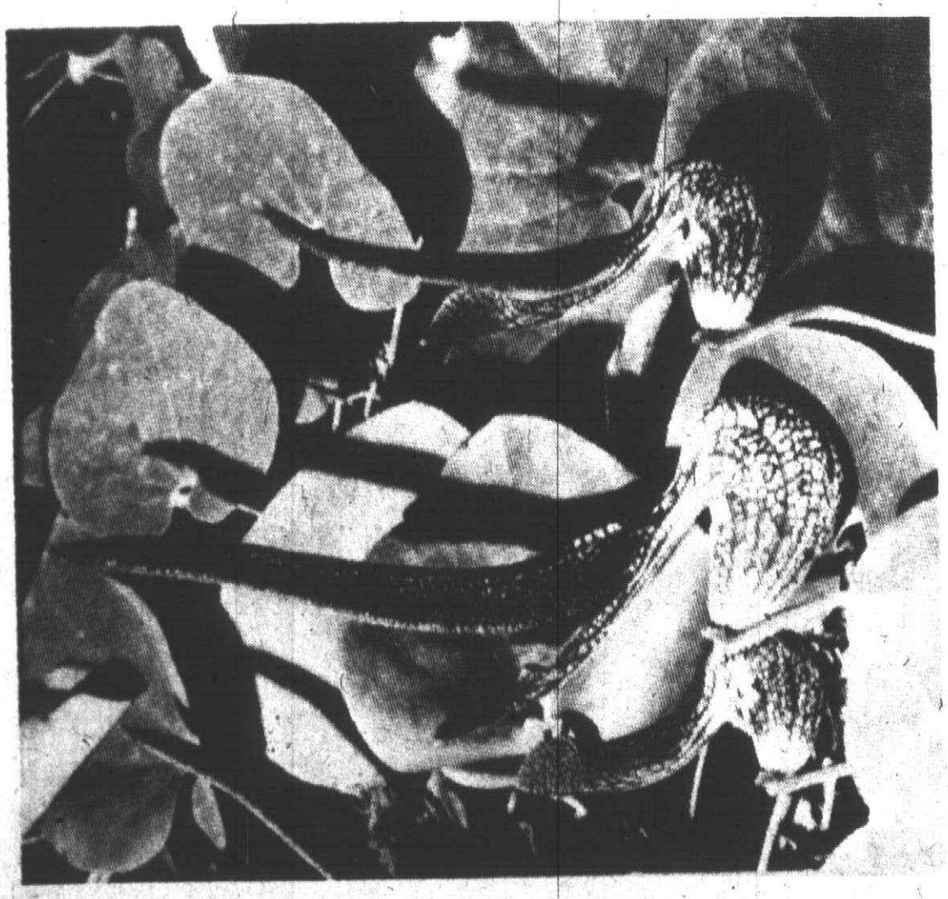
Peoples of developing nations have always found medicinal properties in plants. Almost every part of this "sausage tree," for instance, is used by West Indians to treat some complaint or other.

Stories and photographs by the Smithsonian News Service.

A new drug for treating leukemia is made from the rosy periwinkle, a native of the forests of Madagascar, where it was a traditional remedy for colds, high blood pressure, diabetes and other ills.

On a field trip in the tropics, Smithsonian scientist Dr. Edward S. Ayensu examines a potentially useful plant. Ayensu believes developing nations should go back to many of the traditional herbal remedies instead of using the more expensive Western-manufactured drugs.

Interest is growing in herbal medicine. Scientists, drug companies and public health experts are studying the herbalists' methods and analyzing their herbal teas. This interest is well-founded. Studies show that a surprising number of the prescription drugs sold every year in the United States are derived from plants which long have been included in the pharmacopoeia of traditional healers.



Pelican flower traditionally is used to promote digestion.
