Canton takes upper hand in landfill battle

By Dennis O'Connor
editor

The seesaw battle on the expansion of a solid-waste landfill in southeastern Canton rages on — but Canton Township now has the upper hand.

The state Court of Appeals dissolved a preliminary injunction last week which had prevented the township from trying to stop construction of an expanded landfill by Michigan Waste Systems on the Woodland Meadows site.

"This judgment does not address the issue of local control (of the landfill). . . nevertheless it's nice for us," Canton Supervisor James Poole said. "It's a victory of sorts."

The state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) approved Michigan Waste Systems' application for a construction permit of solid-waste management on the expanded site last fall. The Township Board, however, denied the expansion request based on violations of local landfill ordinances.

Michigan Waste Systems, operator of Woodland Meadows, filed a lawsuit against the township after the board's denial. Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Farmer granted the preliminary injunction in late December.

MICHIGAN WASTE Systems now has two options. It can pursue the temporary injunction at the Supreme Court level, or, more than likely, go back to Judge Farmer to resolve the lawsuit and the question of township control vs. state control.

- David Fink, an attorney representing Michigan Waste Systems, would not comment on his client's next move, but said action will come soon.

"We will take some action," Fink said. "I can't say the exact date, but it's in everyone's interest that this matter be resolved quickly."

In the initial lawsuit, Michigan Waste Systems maintained township's denial to expand the landfill caused "irreparable harm" to the operators.

While Poole believed the township's case for "local control" of the landfill wasn't strong, he still felt this latest judgment put Canton in a better position to discuss the issue.

CURRENTLY, Michigan Waste Sytems operates Woodland Meadows North, a 97-acre landfill which contains 5 percent hazardous waste material. The proposed expansion is an additional 105 acres adjacent to the existing site, bounded by Hannan, Lotz and Van Born roads and the Conrail railroad right-of-way.

Residents in Wayne, Romulus and Canton communities, which border the landfill, complain about noise, dust, debris and odors from the existing landfill. They do not want an expanded site.

Readers aim budget ax at administrators

Here are the results of the Observer's recent survey which asked residents to give their priorities for the school board to make cuts in 13 areas facing possible reduction or elimination.

1 administration
2 ESY
3 class size
4 clerical
5 busing
6 TAG
7 lunch
8 custodial
9 length of day
10 after-school activities
11 elementary support services
12 special education
13 athletics

Survey confirms support for sports

By Emory Daniels
staff writer

If parents and taxpayers made the decisions about how to balance the operating budget for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, the first cut made would be administration.

The second reduction would be in the number of year-round schools and the third would be to increase the class size ratio by two at each grade level.

The areas which the "public" would not cut include athletics, special education, elementary support services (art, music and physical education), and after-school activities.

Those were the "decisions" expressed by the informal opinion survey on school budget cuts conducted by the Canton and Plymouth Observers.

Some 1,623 readers turned in survey coupons — a return rate of about 9 percent of the 17,975 homes in Canton and Plymouth which receive copies of the Observer twice a week.

Cuts on which the readers had split opinions included eliminating school lunch programs, a cut in custodial services, length of the instructional day, and elimination of the Talented and Gifted (TAG) program.

analysis

Survey results in detail may be found in a series of graphs and other visual presentations on Page 3A of today's edition.

IT ALMOST WAS a foregone conclusion that administration would be a favorite cut among respondents as many people believe there are "too many chiefs and too few Indians" in business, school districts, government, and other organizations.

What the figures don't show, and the comments reveal, is that many respondents felt the administrative cuts should come from the middle levels and not at the top.

Many specifically mentioned assistant principals at the middle schools and elementaries, and area coordiantors at the high schools. (Reduction in the number of schools on year-round schedules would result in a reduction in assistant principals).

Planners to study changes

Board delays OK on sign revamp

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Canton's newly proposed sign ordinance is back on the drawing board.

The Township Board — after making substantial changes — has sent the proposal back to the planning commission for additional review.

The board voted unanimously Tuesday to ask the commission to study the changes and make a report at the March 9 Township Board meeting.

The changes, as outlined by trustee Loren Bennett, define terms and add language to clear up unexplained portions of the ordinance.

Some sign sizes were reduced, and a size incentive for signs of natural materials was added. The commission may accept, reject or set new guidelines on the proposed changes.

THE BOARD also is asking the planning commission to consider additional changes at a later date. These deal with off-premise,tower and portable signs, wall signs on industrial buildings and guidelines for the zoning board of appeals.

"Bob Padget and I worked on this (change)," said trustee Loren Bennett. "I talked individually to board members to find out — obviously — to get a compromise that we could all live with.

"We couldn't have come up with this (change) sitting here tonight," added Bennett. "It will come back as a new document that hopefully we will vote on March 9."

The current sign ordinance was adopted in 1975. The planning commission approved the changes in January, after a series of meetings and a public hearing.

John Schwartz, president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, urged the Township Board to adopt the sign ordinance as it now stands.

"It would be irresponsible to adopt something that could be challenged later," said Clerk John Flodin.

"To rush this board is improper, because (the ordinance) has been a bone of contention for several years," added Supervisor James Poole.

Schools take 4 elementaries off ESY

By Dennis O'Connor
staff writer

Eriksson and Field elementaries, both in southern Canton, will remain on ESY next year. Both schools are close to capacity.

Miller, Hulsing, Isbister and Gallimore elementary schools can say goodbye to the Extended School Year (ESY) program.

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education unanimously approved taking these four schools off ESY for the 1982-83 school year, 6-0, at Monday night's regular meeting. Board President Carol Davis was not at the meeting because of a death in her family.

All four schols wanted to come off the program, school officials said. The district will save approximately $300,000 by returning these schools to a traditional, nine-month schedule.

ESY cannot be eliminated entirely, however, because enrollments at the elementary level still are too high to house all students on a traditional schedule.

Eriksson and Field elementaries, both in southern Canton, will remain on ESY next year. Both schools are close to capacity.

ESY was a cost saver in the middle 1970s because it allowed a school to house one-third more students than a nine-month schedule — avoiding the need to build new schools during rapid population growth.

ESY schools, however, are more expensive to operate from year-to-year because they require more staffing, air conditioning, more storage space and other additional operational costs.

ISBISTER, the lone elementary school on ESY in Plymouth Township, will house kindergarten through sixth grade with no boundary changes, according to Shirley Spaniel, executive director of elementary education. Isbister will be at capacity, however.

HULSING, in Canton, will house K-5 with no boundary changes. Hulsing parents want to keep sixth grade in the elementary building, but Mrs. Spaniel said that decision will be made in June.

"It will depend on enrollment," Mrs. Spaniel said. "We don't know how many students we'll lose (in enrollment). If the losses continue, then (Hulsing) will keep the sixth grade.", Hulsing sixth graders will attend Central Middle School this fall if there is no change in enrollment figures.

MILLER, in Canton, the first school to go on ESY eight years ago, will house K-5. This means, however, that 64 students from the Forest Brook subdivision will move from Miller to Eriksson. Some 26 students in the McIntyre Gardens subdivision will move back to Eriksson, as well, after a one-year stint at Miller.

GALLIMORE, in Canton, will return to a K-5 school. Approximately 90 sixth-grade students (three classes) will move to West. This also means three sixth-grade classes of Bird students, who were housed at West this year, will return to Bird in the fall.

Man charged in store robbery

A 22-year-old Detroit man faces a March 1 preliminary examination in 35th District Court on two counts of armed robbery at a Canton Quik-Pik last week.

According to police, the incident occurred about 11:50 p.m. Feb. 18 at a store on Joy Road between Haggerty and Hix. Robbers took $320 in cash, lottery tickets and jewelry from a 20-year-old woman clerk.

Gary Dee Blevins of Cass Street, Detroit, stood mute at his arraignment Saturday at the out-county branch of the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office in Westland. Separate counts were filed for the store and the clerk's belongings.

Judge John C. Seiler of Wayne entered a plea of innocent in Blevins' behalf. Blevins was sent to the Wayne County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Preliminary examination in the district court will be March 1.

Police also have obtained a warrant for the arrest of Michael Moesta, 23, on one count of armed robbery in connection with the Quik-Pik incident.

Conviction of armed robbery carries a maximum penalty of life in prison.

Analyzing the returns

Down with administration — and save football and basketball.

That's what more than 1,600 people said when an Observer survey asked Plymouth-Canton residents to prioritize budget cuts for the 1982-83 school year.

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools face an estimated $2.22 million deficit in a $41.4 million budget.

Other survey results revealed that respondents believed school employees should not receive a raise next year. The margin was overwhelming, 1,104-347.

On the question of increased taxes, 1,170 said they would not vote for a tax increase — a solid 4-1 margin. Another 215 were in favor of a 1-mill increase, and 97 said they would vote for a 2½-mill increase.

About 70 percent of the respondents indicated they had school-age children. The vast majority of the 1,600-plus respondents were aged 30-59, indicating that about 65 percent of the respondents were taxpayers.

Respondents included 625 from Canton Township, 568 from Plymouth Township and 282 from the city of Plymouth — proportionate to the population of the three communities.

Three government classes from the Centennial Educational Park also participated in the survey, although these figures are not included in the total results.

It's interesting to note that students agreed with residents in choosing after-school activities, athletics, elementary support services and special education as the last four items to be cut.

Elimination of the extended school year (ESY) program should be the first cut, according to approximately 250 students. Talented and Gifted (TAG) was second and administration was third.

Reducing the length of the classrom day was the students' No. 4 priority, while residents gave a much lower priority to that item.

Students also selected clerical (5), class size (6), custodial (7), busing (8) and lunch (9).

RANKING THE CUTS

What it all means

The black bars (upper left) give a good indication of how respondents think the Plymouth-Canton school district's budget should be cut.

To give a fairer picture of the survey results, we used a method known as "weighted averages." Simply put, each response received a point total. The desired cut that a respondent marked No. 1 received 13 points, No. 2 received 12 points, etc., until the 13th cut received 1 point. We then added all points for each category and divided by the total number of points to arrive at the percentages.

Our results in the black bars show that residents overall decided that administration was the most desired cut. The category received 12.8 percent of the total points. Extended school year was in second place with 11.7 percent of the total points.

The smaller graphs show how the weighted averages peaked. Administration (left), for example, peaked with 57.5 percent of the total points in the No. 1 ranking. These graphs represent percentages of total points, rather than percentages of respondents. The peaks of the averages generally show where there was the strongest interest in cutting.

Although the survey asked residents to rank items totaling $2.5 million in budget cuts, the majority of responses included rankings of all 13 items. The survey is not a scientific statistical representation of the area.

Respondents voice opinions about schools

The following comments were selected from more than 1,600 responses to the Observer's school-budget survey. Space limitations do not permit publishing all comments.

Names are not given with the comments, because many residents chose not to sign the survey response. Comments were optional in the survey.

● Where is the question of teacher salary? There should be a 5-percent decrease in pay for all school wages.

● Eliminate frills and go back to teaching basics. Let parents pay for sports, music, etc.

● Administrative clerical workers are plentiful but things still go askew, get lost, handled wrong, whatever. Perhaps quality needs changed — not quantity.

Will elimination of ESY cause too large classes? With today's loose society, teachers spend as much time disciplining in a classroom as they do teaching.

Central maintenance is a free-for-all. University of Michigan eliminated such a centralized set-up after 18 years of constant failure and waste. Two men on a truck to deliver a small packet to a building custodian! (Complaint received so they send one man in each of two trucks to observe).

The district's own school lunch program wasn't a revenue maker, but its loses were nothing compared to the food service companies who are after the $$ — not the children's welfare. Give the kitchens back to the cooks.

Special education is a state requirement. Many "special" children have been helped dramatically by these classes and dedicated staff. Those who are deemed uneducable or untrainable should be eliminated however.

● The Plymouth School Board contains too many teachers on it who are unaware of student needs unless it's in the classroom. Parents are not listened to at all. Frustration is the main feeling at our level.

● Close down one or more schools and keep rest of schools on year-round.

● School employees should be thankful they have a job and not expect they should have a raise when so many of us don't even have a job.

● I really feel that there is a huge over-supply of administration in the Plymouth school system. I feel that the cut in administration should be increased to at least 30 percent ($500,000) and then the elementary school support services need only be cut by $145,000.

Just recently there have been classes for all the teachers which will cost $20,000, plus my son will miss four days of school because of it. This is two beginner teacher salaries for something very few of the teachers will benefit from.

I think it's a case of too many chiefs and not enough Indians and yet it's the Indians (teachers) who are cut out and the remaining are expected to deal with more students, fewer aides (as in the Smith School problem), and mainstreaming, which makes a difficult job even more so.

● I truly believe that the public and private schools could benefit by sharing ideas for making education more effective. Certainly, the private schools are enjoying an era of unprecedented success and because they are perceived by the public as islands of educational, moral and disciplinary excellence. Also, the private schools are achieving these goals at a cost far below that of public education.

● All those parents who could afford should pay tuition like they do in Europe and other countries. Then there will be no shortage of funds. No preschool wasting time. Wait until school age. This is wasted money. People with no children shouldn't pay for other people's children.

● With all the cutbacks in private industry, I don't see how government employees can in good conscience expect raises.

● Have you ever looked at the elective classes the children have to choose from? Here are some middle school examples: model building, canoe camping, crafts for the holidays, and study hall. I can't see where model building prepares a child for college or life itself.

If a child is interested in something extra like sports, I feel parents can pay extra for this. However, how can they justify band? Not every child has the ability or interest to play an instrument, yet it's included in the school curriculum. The way I see it, my taxes are paying for some child to play in the band when my own child is being denied sports or sixth-grade camp. I feel cheated and robbed. Where is the justice?

Special education is a state requirement. Many 'special' children have been helped dramatically by these classes and dedicated staff. Those who are deemed uneducable or untrainable should be eliminated, however.

● The chaos before, during and after class at Isbister School is not conducive to a good learning environment. There appears to be very little discipline taught. Self-control is necessary for proper study habits.

● If they cut at the very top, the system would make it. Ask (School Superintendent John) Hoben to take a $5,000-a-year pay cut and turn his car in.

● My eight children have graduated from Plymouth and Canton Schools with no problem.

● The students should be responsible for their own supplies — paper, pencils, locks, etc. Also athletes and musicians should have to earn some of the funds for maintaining their activities.

● Eliminate foolish elective classes, i.e. TV, games, etc. — stick to basic education.

● Could they cut in-service training? This could be done on Saturdays or after school — not during school.

● I know a bookkeeper for a high school in this area, so I know there's a lot of waste in the system.

Just recently there have been classes for all the teachers which will cost $20,000, plus my son will miss four days of school because of it. This is two beginner teacher salaries for something very few of the teachers will benefit from. Since my 5-year-old already walks more than one mile to school and it doesn't hurt him, I see no reason others can't.

● I believe the classroom teacher should be the last to be cut, including music, art, gym. The class size is very important and should remain low.

● ESY — it was going to be a savings. Now if we eliminate it, it's going to save money. What as taxpayers are we to believe?

Clerical — try visiting the schools. Half the time one must wait until these people finish socializing before you can get your questions answered. Do they know who pays their salaries?

I want Canton out of Plymouth school district. I will not vote for any increases until that happens.

Eliminate social classes such as how to give a party, basketweaving, etc.

● With the recent increase in tax valuation, the schools get an increase of 25 percent revenue. That's enough.

● Good community service (this opinion sheet). Let's us give input "somewhere" — Do you think anyone will listen to it?

● If ESY is eliminated, it should be done in all six schools.

● The best education possible for each student should be our first concern.

● Children should attend the school closest to their home, this would eliminate a lot of busing expense.

● How about the school taxes per child being equalized for the township and Canton. Apparently Plymouth city pays more per child.

● Special education is an absolute necessity and should not be considered for cuts.

● No need for assistant principals in elementary schools. Half-day classes for teacher workshops are costly and are a waste of time for children. These classes are classes that should have been taken in college, and busing children for half-days is very costly (some safety busing could be reinstated).

● The average child does not benefit from TAG and for the few that do, they should discontinue it.

● The survey does not include all areas of the budget which should be reduced. No employee of the school district should receive a wage or benefit increase. All teachers will receive raises this year, with or without a new contract, because part of their pay is based on the number of years service in the Plymouth-Canton School District.

● After talking to others, I definitely think people will not approve a tax increase since taxes took a large jump last year. The state has to come up with a new idea to support our schools.

● TAG kids will survive without help but handicapped kids won't. Parents that want sports can pay for them. Lunch program can go as few kids buy it. Larger class size makes it more difficult to get help.

● Do not eliminate TAG!

● The TAG program is just a farce as far as I'm concerned. Isn't it amazing that we should have so many "gifted" children in so small a community? I have yet to meet one. We all do better in something but that is not to say we are gifted. A gifted person to me is at a genius level and these normal children are walking around like they should be bowed and catered to. They are being more harmed than helped.

● As a teacher in another district, I feel that the Plymouth-Canton teachers are high by about $3,000 — adjust downward or freeze salaries.

● Having recently been pink-slipped myself, I feel that these suggested sacrifices are realistic. The school lunch is a real waste.

● Why is it that whenever cuts are to be made, the same programs get the axe over and over while the "sacred cow" (administration) gets nary a dent?

This token cut in administration (12 percent) probably represents still another "paper cut" which really means no cut at all. (What they do is cut the additional personnel that they would have hired had the money been there).

Whatever happened to the school board that was supposed to be looking out for the interest of the community? Instead, our school board has merged with the administration and together they speak with one voice and one mind. There really is noone out there looking out for the interest of the children or taxpayers of our community.

I suggest a 60-percent reduction in administration (a savings of $1 million). To keep it fair, the administration could draw chips (red or blue) to see who stays and who gets to leave.

● I live near the Great CEP Complex where the parking lot lights burn best when the sun is shining and the outside maintenance crew loafs and tears up equipment for lawn service and snow removal.

● We think $2,300 per student per year is outrageous for the mediocre education supplied. There appears to be absolutely no accountability.

● Teachers and principals should all take crash courses in classroom discipline. There is a real lack of it from what I can see.

● What is wrong with having teachers work an eight-hour day?

● Prediction — The school board and administration will once again overestimate student population and begin the year with excessive personnel and expenses. Open houses at private schools over the past year have looked like Plymouth-Canton family reunions — the exodus will continue at a higher level.

I would support a Crestwood-type dismissal of all teachers holding up the start of the school year. Give them a return option complete with deadline and terminate those who fail to respond — it should be their own choice.

● No cuts in busing until safe sidewalks are provided near the schools, especially at CEP.

● Deficit of $2.5 million in the '82-83 school year, and my school taxes alone increased from $1,813.03 to $2,278.97 for this year. It will be a long time before we vote yes on a tax increase.

● Let's not have any more cuts to punish the taxpayers and kids by depriving us of the amenities like art, music, athletics and drama. Every time there is a proposed tax increase, we are threatened by the administration with cuts in these areas unless we volunteer to raise our taxes. This is blackmail. Leave these programs alone.

The school board has caved in too many times to the teachers union and, as a result, the teachers are in many cases overpaid. If they get raises this time around, I will never again vote for a tax increase in this district. We have got to stand up to them and if they strike, we must replace them with responsible people. They want to be regarded as professionals and so they must not be misled by their union leaders into adopting the tactics of the street.

● My husband works for Ford Motor Co., and we haven't seen nor will see a raise in a long time. Let everyone make some sacrifices. Get rid of that PR man! A school district doesn't need one.

● We feel the TAG funds should be spent on the majority of the children and not the vocal few who are for the TAG program.

● Improve administration management and get rid of those who are not producing.

● Cut all programs to the bare bones and get rid of top-heavy administration.

● Eliminate second-year physical education requirement at the high school.

● The taxpayers have (by and large) been going without raises. How can teachers and administrators feel justified? Further, by what measure (accountability) can we taxpayers assess the merits of any increase?

● As a school district employee, I don't expect to be employed next year due to budget cuts, but I feel that they can eliminate some of the programs and cut back on others to make ends meet without a tax increase.

● Whatever is cut, it should balance between the elementary, middle and high schools.

● I am a Plymouth teacher and would be willing to accept a pay freeze if there were sizeable cuts in administration.

● Eliminate half days for teachers' in-service training. They should do it in the summertime on their own. Teachers should be paid by the day or hour they're in school.

● How could there be a deficit with the taxes we pay? Mismanagement!

● Administration probably could be streamlined even more than $200,000. Next choice would be administration and teachers' benefit cuts.

● How about changing the school year? School in summer instead of winter. It would cut heating costs drastically. Instead of using air conditioners, open the windows. The fresh air would be good for everyone. Less time off due to illness. Plenty of light for after-school activities, at home and at school. Children wouldn't have to wait for bus in dark; parents might be more receptive to letting their children walk to school.

Clerical — try visiting the schools. Half the time one must wait until these people finish socializing before you can get your questions answered. Do they know who pays their salaries?

● My son's class has had student teachers each semester. I've not seen her (his full-paid teacher) in the class over 10 percent of the class time. Why pay a teacher to teach full-time and have the class taught by a student?

● I can't understand how my property tax can go up 25 percent in one year and the school system come up short.

● Elementary physical education could be taught by the classroom teacher. Eliminate TAG at elementary level.

● Schools are over-staffed in non-teaching areas. Do we need counselors and area coordinators? Ever try to contact an area coordinator?

● Unemployed taxpayers are expected to pay high dollar to keep high-paid psychologist, counselors, area coordinators, aides, assistants to assistants, etc. Let's get rid of most of them.

I think it is very presumptuous of the newspaper to think that the average taxpayer is knowledgeable about school finance. I hope you report the results correctly and tell the total surveys returned. Being a teacher in the district, I would also hope that you give us a fair share in your reporting.

The fact that the Extended School Year (ESY) was the second favorite cut among adults may be because the administration has made presentations at local schools about this cut and why it is needed. In theory, then, a number of the respondents may have been more informed about this paticular cut than the other 12.

The ranking of the cuts, by weighted average, was: administration 12.8 percent; ESY, 11.7 percent; class size, 9.9 percent; clerical, 9 percent; busing, 8.5 percent; TAG 7.8 percent; lunch, 7.7 percent; custodial, 6.8 percent; length of class day, 6.8 percent; after school activities, 4.8 percent; elementary art, music and physical education, 4.6 percent; special education, 4.5 percent; and athletics, 4.4 percent.

The first eight items listed represent approximately $2 million in school budget cuts. If you include reducing the length of the class day — the ninth prioritized item — it represents almost $3 million in cuts.

The cutoff point to make up the $2.2-million deficit fell right in the middle of the length of the instructional day.

On that cut there was a clear division of opinion with many in favor and many clearly opposed.

If shortening of the instructional day were not made one of the cuts because of an apparent division in the community on that issue, then greater cuts could in theory be made in administration, clerical, and custodial services.

Two somewhat suprising results of the survey were the rankings given cuts for busing and lunch.

The idea of eliminating hot lunches, if the law can be changed, is relatively new, yet was among the middle level of reductions in terms of acceptability.

Only last fall, concern was expressed by segments of the population about proposed cuts in safety busing. It was somewhat suprising, then, that a further reduction in busing ranked number five.

concern with moving students in the McIntyre and Forest Brook subdivisions. These students have moved three times in recent years to compensate for population-growth patterns.

Forest Brook and McIntyre subdivisions deserve a four-year guarantee (through the 1985-86 school year) they will not be moved again, Yack said.

The board accepted Yack's amendment, 4-2. Trustee Bill Decker and Treasurer Glenn Schroeder dissented.

The economic conditions were too unstable to offer any guarantees, Schroeder said.

"I think it's ridiculous to go out on the limb like that and make guarantees that we have no control over," Schroeder said.

UF promotes Buechler

Stephen Buechler of Farmington Hills has been appointed associate director of the commerical unit at the United Foundation in Detroit.

The announcement was made by H. Clay Howell, executive vice president of the fund raising, allocating and planning organization.

Buechler will coordinate activities of the unit's Torch Drive volunteers. The commercial unit is one of the six chapter campaign units which together raise more than 97 percent of the annual Torch Drive total.

A graduate of Michigan State University, Buechler joined the UF in 1980.

Club opening is dream come true

By Margaret Miller
staff writer

They gathered nearly 1,000 strong to endorse a dream.

The place was Garden City's Cambridge Center and the event last Friday was the gala opening of a restaurant that is the first business venture of the Association for Retarded Citizens in this area.

Many of those who thronged Cambridge Club sampled the dinners that are cooked and served by mentally-impaired persons training to move on to the unsheltered business world.

"We served more than 300 dinners after getting 225 reservations," said a harrassed but delighted Larry Janes, executive director of the establishment that opened its doors in October and went to a full-time schedule in January.

"We sent out three times for lettuce and tomatoes. Our people really did well in a difficult situation."

Other visitors stopped by to sample hors d'oeuvres and see the place that for years has been on the dreaming boards.

ELECTIVE leaders were present for the grand opening.

Attending were U.S. Rep. William Brodhead, D-Detroit, who gave a brief dedication talk; Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, who cut the wide yellow ribbon; Circuit Judge James E. Mies, who had closing remarks; and Michigan legislators William Keith, Jack Kirksey, Sylvia Skrel and Robert Geake.

Redford Township clerkRuth Sullivan; Redford trustee Marilyn Hildebrand; Michigan Supreme Court Justice James Ryan, a Redford resident; District Judge Richard L. Hammer of Garden City; and Wayne County Commissioner Mary Dumas, a Livonian; also were on hand.

So were Dr. Lee Martin, state ARC president, and C. Patrick Babcock, director of the Michigan Department of Mental Health. A congratulatory message was sent by Sen. Donald Riegel, D-Flint.

"IN THIS TIME of budget cuts, it is important to note that this has been put together without tax money," Brodhead commended the ARC Business Ventures Corp. that organized the restaurant.

"That is hopeful. We need public assistance, but there's lots that can be done without it, and you've proved that tonight."

Brodhead noted that Northwest Communities ARC has a history of successes "in educating public officials and the state and country" about the needs of the retarded.

"This time you've outdone yourselves," he added. "I am so impressed."

Dr. Babcock called the club "the most exciting thing I've seen in 18 years in government."

"As part of the state administration," he added, "I'm happy to see a new business come into Michigan, particularly one that invests in people."

SYLVIA KLOC of Redford, president of the 10-member board of directors of Cambridge Club, told of the long-standing dream as she introduced the visitors and presided over opening ceremonies.

The restaurant, she said, had its beginnings in October of 1979 when she attended a national ARC convention in Atlanta along with Maybelle Munn, another longtime Northwest ARC member, and Margaret Olesnavage, executive director of the same ARC.

"We heard Walter Ashcraft of the National Restaurant Association tell about how well handicapped people worked out in food service businesses," she said. "It rang a bell with us — we had been raising funds with projects like bingo games and were committed to starting some kind of project that would train our people to hold jobs in the business world."

"We realized a restaurant would give that training, provide a service to the community and best of all bring us more funds to reinvest in other business ventures.

The ARC business committee, which had been unsuccessful in implementing its first plan to establish a workshop place which also would serve as an activity center, started thinking restaurant, Mrs. Kloc explained in talking about the project later.

"Ashcraft flew here from Washington three times to meet with us," she said. "We asked ourselves whether we had enough money for such a venture, and whether it was something our people could do."

In July of 1980, she went on, the committee hired Janes, then instituting a food services program at the Northwest Wayne Skill Center in Livonia, to do more business investigation.

A plan to buy a store and turn it into a restaurant was approved by the ARC membership in October, 1980.

"THEN WE STARTED hunting for such a site, and it seemed more out-of-reach every day," said Mrs. Kloc. "We couldn't afford a business location big enough to conduct a training program."

It was last August that the Garden City school district approached Janes about locating in the vacated junior high that was being turned into an adult education center.

To do that, the action plan had to be revised and taken back to the membership. It was approved again, over some opposition that pointed out that a school site was off the beaten track and required the restaurant to adhere to the school calender.

"I guess we've spent the last five years revising our plans," said Mrs. Kloc. "But always we've kept the idea of providing a training facility. In that respect we've done what we've said we would do."

THE FUTURE remains a major question mark for an enterprise that has made it across many hurdles.

Although funds were earmarked, they go fast with a staff of 13 trainers directed by Janes and assistant manager Susan Suomi, as well as 17 trainees.

The restaurant cannot be open weekends, since the center only runs Monday through Friday, and it isn't very visible in its east-of-Middlebelt, south-of-Warren location. School and business people are beginning to come regularly to lunch on homemade soups, salads, quiches and desserts and entrees including steak, chicken and fish at bargain prices. The most expensive item on the menu is New York strip at $5.95.

But dinner business still is slow.

Judy Jenks of Plymouth, secretary-bookkeeper for Cambridge Club, serves punch at the grand opening to state Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, whose district includes Plymouth.

Rotary offers grants

Applications are being taken for scholarships offered by Rotary International.

The Rotary Club of Plymouth is accepting applications for five types of scholarships — graduate, undergraduate, vocational, journalism, and scholarships for teachers of the handicapped.

The scholarships cover all necessary travel, living and educational expenses for one academic year.

Applicants must have an outstanding educational record, or professional record for journalists and teachers.

Persons interested in more information on Rotary scholarships, or in obtaining an application form, may contact James H. White at 453-7400.

White, chairman of the Plymouth Rotary scholarship committee, is vice president and manager of the Plymouth office of First Federal Savings of Detroit at Penniman Avenue and Main Street.

Second networking session scheduled

The second meeting of a newly formed networking group has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, March 11 in the Jacob Room of the Hillside Inn in Plymouth.

About 50 persons attended the initial organizing meeting sponsored by the Plymouth Family YMCA.

That session was very successful, says Janet Luce, YMCA executive director, as the 50-some persons there remained until 11:30 p.m. to learn the principles of networking.

The main idea of networking is for individuals to expand their list of friends and contacts by becoming part of a group of persons from all backgrounds who agree to share information and support.

At the initial meeting five speakers explained the concept and what it can do for individuals. Those attending then broke into groups to explain why they came and to discuss their goals, said Ms. Luce.

The persons attending then switched groups for the same purpose, she added, and at that point networking began to take place and the discussions continued until 11:30 p.m.

At the second meeting on March 11 the guest speaker will be David Whidden, who is writing a book on networking. Whidden will speak for about 20 minutes on "marketing yourself."

There will be a charge of $3 to cover the cost of wine and refreshments.

The public is welcome to attend the March 11 meeting.

Individuals who want to join the Network now being formed may do so for a fee of $22 which includes a roster, a newsletter, and a single YMCA membership.

Information about networking can be obtained by calling Ms. Luce at the YMCA at 453-2904.

Aging, city aid issues put to public next week

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Budget cuts. Budget shifts. The aging. The communities.

The day's hottest political topics will be subjects of two public hearings next week, one by a legislative group, the other by the state administration.

At the heart of the arguments are these facts of life: First, the recession has cut state revenues. Second, the Reagan administration in Washington is determined, under the new federalism, to shift responsibilities for many domestic programs to the states — and some local officials don't like it.

THE PUBLIC hearings topics, their times and places are:

- Needs of the aging — 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday, March 1, Livonia City Hall, Five Mile west of Farmington Road; Joint Committee on Aging of the Michigan Legislature. Rep. David Hollister, D-Lansing, said, "This will be an opportunity for a first-hand explanation of how older people are reacting to these changes in policy."
- Block grants — 1-5 p.m. Wednesday, March 3, Community Arts auditorium of the State Fairgrounds, Woodward south of Eight Mile, Detroit; Gov. Milliken's "Human Services Cabinet" consisting of the directors of Social Services, Labor, Public Health, Mental Health, Education, and Management and Budget.

THE MONDAY hearing on the aging is designed to elicit senior citizens' problems with Medicare, food stamps and senior center programs.

"While we cannot predict the type of testimony we will receive," said Sen. John Hertel, D-Harper Woods, "I expect that we will hear from many seniors that they are simply unable to meet their basic food, health care and shelter needs."

The committee will accept both spoken and written testimony. The public will get a chance to speak after an initial presentation from the Detroit Area Agency on Aging, which has been sending out its own announcements.

THE WEDNESDAY hearing will go to the heart of one of Reagan's new federalism proposals: the shift of administration of block grants from Washington to the states, consolidating 57 separate programs into nine new ones.

analysis

According to the announcement from Milliken's office:

"Michigan is taking part this year in seven of the nine block grants: alcohol, drug abuse and mental health; social services; maternal and child care; preventive health service; low income energy assistance; community services; and small cities community development.

"The state is expected to take on two others — education and primary health care — which take effect in the next fiscal year."

Comments may be spoken or written. In addition, written comments may be sent to: Sharon Wills; Michigan Dept. of Social Services; Box 30037 Lasing 48909.

LOCAL OFFICIALS are fearful at the prospect of shifting control of the simplified programs to the states. Many feel they had good luck dealing directly with Washington, D.C., and fear Lansing will be less sympathetic.

For example, Michael Glusac, executive director of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, said recently:

"Will the new federalism simply mean that dollars will flow only to the states, often stopping there in order to shore up faltering state budgets?. . .

"In Michigan, we have had a mixed experience. For a decade, we have had a governor who has been willing to listen and consult, often with mutually satisfactory results.

"But we have also experienced some parts of the state bureaucracy that are all too often insensitive where local officials and local governments are concerned."

A SIMILAR mistrust of Lansing appears in the Michigan Townships Association magazine. MTA fears the state may no longer distribute block grants for local government needs but use them for economic development.

In an article headlined "State Control of Block Grant May Eliminate Local Options," Larry Merrill, MTA's education director, writes:

"Thanks to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD) small cities community development block grant program, many local governments in Michigan have solved a wide range of community needs."

He lists the needs as housing, water and sewer facilities, fire apparatus and new community buildings, and then adds:

"But now, with administration of the program being turned over to the states, Michigan's Department of Commerce is attempting to direct the primary use of the money away from local government in order to aid private businesses and industries."

The state's office of community development is housed in the Department of Commerce. The MTA article complains the director considers community "infrastructures" too numerous to be funded. Instead, in awarding up to 395 points to grant applications, the state agency intends to give 100 points to applications which will create the most jobs for the money spent.

Schools meet to explain instructional program

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will hold a special meeting to explain an instructional skills inservice training program for teachers.

The meeting takes place from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Board of Education office, 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

Children recently attended school for only one-half day because of this teacher inservice program. The meeting will explain this program and how it will be shared and used by teachers.

The meeting is open to the public. It is sponsored by the Community School Council of parents.

Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction, Shirley Spaniel, executive director of elementary education, and Dr. John Telford, executive director of secondary education, will be at the meeting to answer any questions.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR IS NO ACCIDENT
A licensed hairstylist is not necessarily a professional. The hairstylists who are professional, continually study to learn new techniques and advancements and have your best interests in mind.
If you see a hairstylist wrap a perm in the same way on everyone, you'll know she's/he's doing it as fast as she/he can just so she/he can collect your money as quickly as possible and get on with the next customer. All permanent wave solutions contain chemicals that restructure the hair and the process must be done with complete know-how, or irrepairable damage will be done to the hair.
The professional hairstylists, who wrap perms professionally, take time to look for the natural growth pattern of your hair and wrap with it in mind. The professional knows the right amount of tension to use on each type of hair and the right size of rod to use for the amount of curl wanted. This tension should never be felt at the scalp after the curl is wrapped. Too much tension will cause damage and even breakage to the hair. The hair must be combed and placed correctly on the rods with two or more large end wraps to cushion and keep the hair spread so that it will be evenly curled. When applying curling lotion, there is no excuse for excess lotion to be running down your face.
Which type of stylist do you want? Is your hairstylist a professional? If not, look for a professional stylist in a professional salon. If you are looking for quality, every stylist at Master Hair Stylist is a professional who continually studies to learn new techniques and advancements and has your best intersts in mind.

Charter unit meets to battle road board contract

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Wayne County Charter Commission members will hold their final meeting next week in what some members see as an effort to keep the road commission from undoing the charter which voters approved Nov. 3.

George Ward, president of the 27-member group which wrote Michigan's first county home-rule charter, called the meeting at the request of three other members — Barbara Gattorn, R-Grosse Pointe; Michael Einheuser, D-Detroit; and John Hand, R-Dearborn.

Purpose will be for the group to vote Ward authority to ask a circuit court to nullify a contract between the nearly autonomous County Road Commission and 73 administrative employees.

Visiting Circuit Judge David Vokes last week dismissed a suit in such a case, declaring the individual plaintiffs lacked legal "standing" to sue. Plaintiffs were Ward; Justine Barns, D-Westland, charter group vice-president; state Sen. John Hertel, D-Harper Woods; and County Commissioner George Killeen, D-Detroit.

HERTEL, interviewed Sunday on Channel 7's "Spotlight on News" program, expressed "dismay" at Vokes' dismissal of the suit.

"Who does have standing to bring such a lawsuit?" he asked rhetorically. Hertel, who said he will announce by March 17 whether he will seek the Democratic nomination for county executive, said he consulted several Senate colleagues about passing a Senate resolution to seek the contract's nullification.

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners could also authorize a suit, but Hertel doubted it would act.

"If there's an awakening for the first time of some real public service on the Board of Commissioners, I think they'll protect their cronies, as they always have," said Hertel, who was a county commissioner himself until 1974.

"But you have to remember one thing: This is an election year, and we're reducing the number of commissioners from 27 to 15. A lot of these people are going to have to state publicly how they feel about the Road Commission, and it may have some effect on their elections.

"On the other hand, 12 of them might want to be picked up by the 'Michael Berry Employment Agency' and given jobs after this is all over with. It can go either way."

THE COMMENT about Berry referred to a Detroit News story that Berry would step down soon after 15 years as chairman of the three-member road commission.

Berry drew fire from Hertel and other advocates of county reorganization for being one of the votes for the disputed contract with the 73 managers. Hertel said the news of his impending resignation "is the best thing that's happened to Wayne County government in a long time.

"Michael Berry is the strongest person in Wayne County government . . . because of the patronage system he has been able to build up. Over the years, he has been able to do a lot of favors for a lot of people, including putting people in various jobs. He has a lot of favors that are owed to him."

Hertel suggested that if the Board of Commissioners took action to remove Berry and Grace Hampton by April 1 — new road commissioners could vote to void the contract.

Resident rules on Gretzky's tie-breaker

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

"It will be a nice thing to tell the children when they grow up that I was the goal judge who approved the goal when Wayne Gretzky of the Edmonton Oilers equalled Phil Esposito's record last Sunday night in the Joe Louis Arena."

This was the reaction of Chuck Sneddon of Plymouth, who has been judging the Red Wing goals for more than two decades.

But as for thrills he said, "It was just another goal. They all look alike when they cross the line into the net.

"It wasn't exactly a thrill, but I enjoyed it because I had missed Gordy Howe's records and I wasn't the judge when Phil Esposito set the mark of 76 goals in a season. But now that it has happened right before my eyes, I will always remember it."

The performance of the Edmonton center, who is not built as rugged as Esposito or Howe, boosted his statistics for the season to 76 goals and 95 assists (counting the four he had Sunday night). This means 171 points in 39 games. His record for all of last year was 168 points.

WHILE HE admittedly wasn't overly thrilled by judging the record-tying goal, Snedden, who used to work in the Edison office in Plymouth, gave some thought to matching Gretzky's skills with some of the other all-time stars.

"You can't compare this startling young man with players like Esposito, Rocket Richard or Gordy Howe, all of whom I have seen at their peak. Gretzky is one of a kind.

"He has his own style and some very smooth moves. And he is very aggressive. But in trying to compare him with the bygone stars, one must remember that hockey has changed a great deal through the years."

Asked what changes stand out the most, Sneddon pointed out that there is more skating in today's game.

"In other years, emphasis was placed on defense and the Red Wings had some dandy defensemen." Snedden said, "But like anything else, the game has been opened up. That's why there is more skating."

SNEDDON inferred that hockey has followed the style of baseball and football in not putting its chief strategy in defense.

It is this open style of fast skating and good moves that has opened the way for Gretzky to attain his present rank and he is making the most of his opportunity.

"He is young with a lot of potential," Snedden said, "and there is no way of telling how far he will go."

These were promising words coming from the man who not only judged Gretzky's record-tying goal last Sunday night, but who has been officiating at the Red Wing games for 24 years.

He started his career when the Red Wings had a junior Red Wing team and has seen all of the stars passing by in review for the past quarter of a century.

But with all that he still refuses to compare Gretzky with any of the greats of other years, stating only:

"He is one of a kind."

Pleased with Geer School

To the editor:

As parents at Geer we have been pleased with the education our children have received.

In an atmosphere of real caring the children are taught to be responsible and independent and yet sensitive and responsive to the needs of others. This is in addition to the skills of real learning that they acquire.

While it's true that at Geer we don't have a cafeteria, gymnasium, library, teacher's lounge, student lounge, media center, resource room, speech room, art room, principal's office, nurse's room, teacher's restroom, reading room, teacher's workroom or storage room for supplies, we do manage to meet our students' needs quite well.

But because we don't have the extraneous facilities and their subsequent materials and staffing, the school district has a bargain financially. It costs the district $1,800 to educate a student at Geer while it costs the district an average of $2,700 to educate all students.

We, at Geer, believe that even this $1,800 is an inflated figure. However, even at $900 a student, we are saving the district $52,000.

We are told the school district will save money by closing Geer. Is it really logical to close a school which is the cheapest in the district to operate?

Bridal section captured spirit

To the editor:

Your bridal section of Monday, Feb. 15, featured my daughter, Dana Deane. My purpose in writing is to express my thanks for the effort expended on on this project, and my pleasure with the results. The experience of being interviewed and photographed, which could have been uncomfortable, was interesting and enjoyable. Kathy Parrish was so unaffected, and seemed so genuinely interested in our experiences, that we were able to relax and respond to her questions naturally. David Frank took pictures so unobtrusively we soon forgot to be self conscious.

While the time we spent with Kathy and David was exciting, we were not sure the results would accurately reflect the reality. Dana and Kevin O'Connor, her fiance, were most candid in their comments, often humorous, and this is not easily caputured in print or in pictures. The spirit of the individuals they are, the relationship they are building, and the wedding they are creating seemed to be realistically portrayed, however, in the bridal section. That you so much for your efforts. I think they were most successful.

Young ladies returned dog

To the editor:

Saturday afternoon, Feb. 5, I returned home from shopping and, as usual, let out my 16-year-old dog to run around the backyard. The snow was piled so high he just couldn't race around as usual.

My neighbor stopped by. I opened the gate and, unlike him, my dog zoomed out to run up and down the front walk (or so I assumed). He has always been a real homebody and has never gone away from home. Lo and behold, he caught sight of a cat and decided to chase it.

Once he got running, he just seemed to want to run and run. The cat had disappeared. The old fella is deaf so I don't think he heard my pleas for his return. He just ran and ran. I tried to track him, but I soon lost him. Needless to say I was frantic and cold.

Dejected I went back home and called the Plymouth Police. They said they'd tell their patrolmen to be on the lookout for an old black and white mongrel.

Waiting about is not my thing, so I decided to continue my search, so I backed out the car. My neighbor came out of her house. I told her SS was missing, so she joined me. We drove up and down the streets of Plymouth, peering over the mounds of snow, but no doggy.

We finally returned home. There in my driveway was a new light blue Chevette. In it were three young women. One yelled out that she had my dog, Sad Sack. I just left my car in the middle of the street, dashed to their car, and extracted my not-so-happy wanderer.

The girls said they had picked him up opposite the Burroughs Plant on Plymouth Road. I live in the south end of town near Ann Arbor Road, so that silly old dog had run a very long way.

These three lovely young girls refused any reward and seemed embarrassed that I should make such an offer. They all just jumped into their car and drove away. I tried to note and remember their license number, but to no avail.

I do know they are aware of how grateful I am to them for saving my old dog. We have had him all his life and I would really hate to have him die miles from home and maybe freeze to death.

Those wonderful girls were truly good Samaritans. I want to wish them all a fulfilling life as they do deserve one for being so kind and thoughtful. Needless to say, Sad Sack will never get out again without his leash.

Thanks again to my dog's saviors.

Likes sports stories reported

To the editor:

This is a new experience for me — I have never written to a newspaper before.

My family and I really appreciated your article a week ago on Plymouth Christian Academy. We have followed the articles in the sports section all winter.

We have three children attending the school, and we can't say enough about it. They have their first graduation this year, and I'm thrilled to have a daughter in that class.

Our family moved her 16 months ago from New Hampshire, and even though the cost of living is terrible, we find the warmth and friendliness of people here more than makes up for it.

We all enjoy reading your paper, and we hope you keep up the good work. There is much to be excited about at the academy, and we hope you will continue to give them the coverage you have in the past. Again I thank you. May God bless you all.

School survey successful— thanks to you

Doc's corner

Dennis O'Connor

WE HAD OUR DOUBTS. We won't kid you. We truly weren't sure if the Plymouth-Canton community would respond.

How wrong we were.

Thanks to you — Plymouth and Canton residents — we just completed one of the most successful readership surveys in the history of Observer Newspapers.

The survey, which asked residents what areas from the school budget could be cut, attracted 1,623 opinions — a 9 percent return rate of the 17,975 homes in Canton and Plymouth which receive copies of the Observer twice a week. Similar surveys usually result in a return of about 3 percent.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON Community Schools are having financial problems. The schools face an estimated $2.2 million deficit in a proposed $41.4 million budget for the 1982-83 school year.

We believe the schools need direction in these financially troubled times. It is our obligation as a community newspaper to provide alternatives and direction to all local governmental units.

But it helped to know residents' opinions before we began giving the schools needed guidance. We wanted to know the areas of school spending you feel should receive high priority attention. We wanted to know how you would handle the budget problems.

And you responded.

WE ARE PROUD to give you the opportunity to voice your opinions about the schools. While we may not agree with many of these opinions, they won't be filed away in a desk drawer and forgotten.

Your opinions will be an integral factor in future Observer editorials. And we believe the schools must respect the survey opinions, as well.

It is clear we must analyze the schools' administrative structure. We aren't surprised the respondents were upset with the administration. It's a standard response to any survey about governmental activities.

Eliminating the Extended School Year (ESY) program was another top priority of the respondents. We are pleased to report the school board Monday took four of six elementary schools off ESY, thereby saving the district $300,000.

Two important issues before the board are the length of the class day and increasing the classroom staff/student ratio. These two items are the biggest money-savers because it means reducing teaching staffs.

Our survey reveals respondents would rather increase class size and not shorten the class day.

WE WERE HAPPY to offer the survey to our readers, but it wasn't easy getting the results to you.

The entire Plymouth and Canton staffs took time out from their normal routines to count by hand the more than 1,600 responses.

Emory Daniels (Plymouth Observer editor) and I (Canton editor) are grateful to our staffs for their team-playing efforts in compiling results.

Bridget Lucas, our always reliable receptionist, was intrumental in organizing and tabulating the responses.

Arlene Funke (Canton reporter), Gary Cates (Plymouth reporter), Gary Caskey (photographer), Ellie Graham (Suburban Life editor) and W.W. Edgar (Plymouth reporter/columnist) all went the extra distance to help present the reponses to you — as quickly as possible.

The survey showed the Observer is read in the Plymouth-Canton community, and that made it all worthwhile.

Thanks for making the Observer your community newspaper.

Declare war on highway slaughter

The tragedies are never-ending. Each year, tens of thousands needlessly die in this country because some flea brains thought they could handle their liquor.

Hardly a person exists who hasn't been touched by a drunk-driving death. Many times, drunk drivers go far beyond harming themselves. They kill innocent bystanders.

Such deaths are a crime and should be treated as such.

Frankly, out of all the grisly aspects of life I see as a journalist, drunk-driving deaths make me truly angry — outraged down deep where it stays forever.

For a writer, it's difficult to be eloquent about such an issue. I can only be blunt.

Our society is far too permissive when it comes to this issue. We make a joke of it. Time after time, pure, simple murder is rewarded in the courts with a suspended sentence.

Michigan lawmakers refuse to pass laws harsh enough to deal with the problem.

Many lawyers around the state make a financial killing from drunk drivers who kill: Pay out the bucks to some shyster and you'll go free.

Judges play along with the game just to clear the docket.

YET THE Michigan Bar Association sits back in all its pomposity and says nothing.

Finally, though, a group that is going to do something about this outrage is spreading across this nation. Calling itself Mothers Against Drunk Drivers (MADD), the group is starting chapters around the country.

A few weeks back, its leader, Candy Lightner, made a sweep through the metropolitan area to whip up support. She made the usual round of radio and television talk shows.

But in reality she had to do little whipping. Hundreds have responded to the call. MADD has come to Michigan, and legislators, judges and lawyers better pay attention.

Livonians Sue and Lee Landes are two of the persons leading the drive in Michigan. They can be reached at 476-8344. Believe me, your call would be welcomed.

Legislators, especially, have to know how Michigan residents feel. This, an election year, is a good time to put on the pressure.

Concerned residents in California forced their legislators into passing some of the strictest laws in the country. A third drunk driving offense would bring a mandatory 120-day jail sentence, a fine and three-year license revocation.

Mandatory sentences would be waged for driving without a license. Increased cost of housing drunk drivers would be paid through increased fines.

LET ME LEAVE YOU with these facts.

In 1980 in the Wayne, Oakland and Macomb area, 287 of the 548 fatal auto crashes were alcohol-related. In those 548 fatal crashes, 126 of the drivers killed themselves; of 161 survivors, 104 weren't prosecuted at all, and 30 of the 57 drivers originally charged with manslaughter were allowed to plead to a lesser charge.

It's never too early to act. It could be your loved one's funeral if you put it off.

State roads will be rough for years

Usually when an editor gets a thick envelope from a law firm, he worries.

Opening it, however, I breathed a sigh of relief. It was from attorney Rodger D. Young, the fellow from Rochester who is a member of the Michigan Transportation Commission. What made the envelope so bulky was that it contained the new official highway . . . oops, transportation map.

Young's postscript said, "This mailing (Xerox and postage) has been paid personally by me, not the Michigan Department of Transportation."

Hm-m-m-m. The last time that six-man group unveiled a new map, it was done at a luncheon in the RenCen. Things must be tough.

"THIS MAP," said Young's note, "is the first official transportation map that does not have a date of expiration assigned to it. This is an effort to utilize the map for an extended period of time and thereby save revenues."

That's right. All my old state maps have two-year dates on them.

"Our gasoline tax revenues and weight tax revenues continue to decline dramatically as a result of more fuel-efficient vehicles, energy conservation on behalf of motorists and declining weights of automobiles," Young goes on.

Two messages are implied. One is that Michigan's official transportation map may not be reissued in two years. We'll use the old ones longer, and politicians will be handing them out more sparingly.

THE OTHER message is that maybe we won't need to print a new map in 1984. There may be no more new highways to show. The old maps may do just fine.

We may never see an M-275 across western Oakland County. There may never be a Northwestern Highway extension through West Bloomfield Township.

I-69 may never be built around Lansing. US-31 may peter out forever above Pentwater.

Oh, that's not official policy, of course. In fact, Young was one of the commissioners who voted to keep alive the M-275 project. What highway builders want, however, and the facts of life are two different things.

At a sparsely attended public meeting last month at the State Fairgrounds covered by only one live-wire newsperson, I heard an M-DOT official named Bob Adams admit it was likely some of Michigan's remaining freeway projects may go unfinished.

WHETHER THAT news makes you happy or sad depends on your political point of view. I'm not getting into the (de)merits of M-275 and the Northwestern extension today.

The point is that not only will our state and county agencies be unable to build new superhighways, they are having trouble resurfacing the old ones, keeping the weeds cut in summer and the snow plowed in winter.

We are actually paying less road taxes today than a decade ago. Taxes are made up of two factors: the base (vehicle weight, gasoline consumed) and the rate (dollars per ton, cents per gallon).

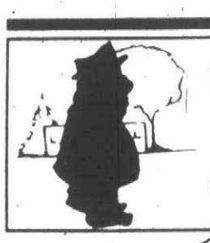

If we are going to keep the roads in shape, we will have to raise the rates and perhaps lower truck weights. That will be a major issue as 1982 unfolds.

FOOTNOTE: I am sad to note the new map still doesn't have a word about one of this tourist paradise's greatest assets — our national forests and their campgrounds. Not even the ranger headquarters are listed. State parks are shown, but not federal.

The alibi Lansing gives me is that the map would be too "cluttered" if national forests were shown. Bullroar. The 1962 map showed national forests, and many other states show them. We Michiganians gripe about how few federal dollars flow back here, but we fail miserably to exploit the federal facilities we have.

Topsy-turvy wage world

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

This is a topsy-turvy world.

The Stroller came to this conclusion the other morning when he read the latest news while sipping his coffee. And with good reason.

There, in bold letters, he read that Ford Motor Co. had just exacted a $1 billion pay cut from its hourly workers in an agreement covering the next 31 months. It mattered little that the news also revealed this meant a reduction of $1 an hour in the wage-benefit package of each employee, dropping him to a "mere" $20.50 an hour.

It reminded The Stroller that back in the days of World War I, when he toiled in the shops, top-rated mechanics drew 48 cents an hour — and we thought that was big money.

News of the Ford agreement came on the heels of an announcement that the famed J.L. Hudson Co. was laying off 200 employees in the downtown store; that highly-rated Hughes & Hatcher clothing stores were closing; and that the large Chatham Supermarkets company was on the verge of bankruptcy.

All this gloomy news couldn't be mistaken. The working man is in dire trouble. There is little hope of a cure for months to come — maybe the 31 months of the Ford pact.

THEN THE Stroller's eyes popped when he turned to the sports section and read that Jack Morris, the Tiger hurler, was really dissatisfied with a $300,000 raise for the coming season.

Paid $150,000 last season, he was asking $650,000 in a case that went to arbitration. The judge ruled against him and decreed he had to accept the Tigers' offer of $450,000.

And he is peeved. Imagine that. A raise in salary of $100,000 more than the president of the United States gets — added to the fact he would have to work only every fourth day over a six-month period.

That wasn't all. There in cold type was the news that Sugar Ray Leonard, the prizefighter who stopped Detroit welterweight Tommy Hearns some time ago, was paid $1.5 million a week ago for stopping his foe in three rounds — less than 10 minutes of public work.

A few columns away was the news that Larry Holmes, the heavyweight champion who expected to be paid $10 million for defending the title next month, was peeved when the fight was delayed. He went on record saying he would have to have another fight before the newest day in June.

THEN ON THE BACK page was a series of pictures of men in women in the unemployment line — lining up for food stamps.

What a contrast! And all in one day's news. Folks literally starving and begging for work, while a fellow who works only every fourth day for six months is angry over getting a mere $300,000 raise.

The Stroller has been a witness to many odd things in his lifetime. He remembers high industrial officials selling apples on the corners of downtown Detroit during the depression when the banks closed in 1929.

He recalls getting three 10-percent pay cuts in a single week with the payments being made half in cash and half in scrip — with a note attached that the company hoped the scrip would be negotiable in a short time. These company-printed promissory notes were negotiable. But the mere fact that we were not paid in money made it something to remember.

Now companies are asking employees to take pay cuts while athletes are moping because they didn't get salary increases larger than the president's.

It sure is a topsy-turvy world.

Photos possible by spotlight — if you know how

photography

Monte Nagler

Have you ever been to a circus, an ice show, or your favorite performer's concert and wished you could bring home good photographs to preserve the memories?

Well, you can. They're easy to obtain with the right lens, right film and some basic photographic skills.

A telephoto lens is a "must" in order to bring the action in close. Usually a focal length in the range of 135mm to 200mm will do the trick.

Set the shutter speed at 1/25 second and remember to carefully squeeze the release button. You'll need at least 1/25 second to eliminate any camera shake and also to stop any movement in the subjects you're shooting.

Compose carefully, placing the subject slightly off center.

Monte Nagler used a 200mm lens with an exposure of f-4 at 1/25 second to take this shot of Liza Minnelli. A black background adds impact to the picture. The action was captured at its peak.

WHAT FILM to use? Fast film.

For black and white shooters, Kodak Tri-X, with a speed of 400 ASA, is a good choice.

For color, use Ektachrome 400 if you want slides or Kodacolor 400 if you prefer finished prints.

Both of these films are balanced for daylight. By using them under tungsten spotlights, you'll get a slight color shift toward red. Normally, this is not objectionable, and with Kodacolor 400, your photofinisher can minimize the color shifting.

If arc spotlights are used, as in many concerts, there is no color variation at all because arc lights simulate daylight. The 3-M Co. has just released a super fast slide film called 640-T (tungsten balanced, 640 ASA), which has recieved very favorable responses in its use under spoltlights.

IF NECESSARY, you can shoot film at double the normal ASA rating. This is called "pushing."

With black and white film, simply add extra time to the development step. With color, let your photofinisher know and he'll take it from there.

Don't be fooled by electronic strobes popping off throughout the audience. The light emitted from a flash carries only a short distance, and there's always lots of disappointment when it's found that no images have been recorded, and the flashbulbs or batteries have been wasted. Unless you can get within 20-30 feet of the act, leave your flash at home.

What exposure? Because normally there's so much dark area in the background of a spotlit act, your camera's meter won't function properly.

File this away in your memory: When photographing a spotlit act, set the aperture at f-4 (this is usually the maximum opening on a telephoto lens) and the shutter speed at 1/25 second. With ASA 400 film, the exposures will be almost perfect and the black background will add impact to your finished pictures.

TRY TO SHOOT at the peak of the action.

For example, when photographing a singer, wait for the moment when a note is being held and an arm is outstretched.

At an ice show, capture the action at the top of a leap.

In the circus, you're always surrounded by exciting happenings. If you need a faster shutter speed than 1/25, go to 1/250 second and "push" process the film.

Concerts and other spotlit acts will offer you many rewarding picture possibilities. So light up your photographic growth by getting into the spotlight.

Reader speaks out on taxes

To the editor:

I was delighted to read in Eddie Edgar's report of Feb. 15 that Plymouth taxes are going to be raised again.

Rather than eliminating waste in the current budget, we should welcome higher taxes as they are a sign of a compassionate civilization.

Everybody knows that all Plymouth citizens, without exception, are filthy rich and can easily afford a 9.9 percent tax hike; high taxes will teach all of us not to be greedy.

Doubtless there are a few Plymouthites out there who have, through the years, been attempting to selfishly set aside money for extravagances, such as college educations, marriages, furniture, and other things for which they ought to be ashamed.

Well, if they don't like our high taxes, they can just move! The better element will remain behind, keeping the fires of culture burning.

My advice to those who control the city's purse-strings (those who want to uphold Plymouth's high culture) is this:

- Continue to allocate money for the installation of rumble-strips on our roads — rumble-strips which nobody needs or asked for.
- Continue to allocate money for the installation of illegible traffic signs for the downtown area.
- Think up new ways to waste our money. Perhaps, for example, our taxes could be used to finance the painting of the downtown sidewalks. Or planting flowers in the potholes on Penniman. Or carpeting Main Street.
- Make sure more tax money is set aside for the Plymouth-Canton School District so that "Games, Games, Games" and other highly educational courses may continue. Let children be "taught" and graded for things that children of another day did in their spare time. Encourage children to take these courses and, by all means, don't let them think they are in any way wasting time and money or else they'll get a poor self-image and be traumatized.

Let them make mud pies and call it "modelling," as one sage (I forget who) has urged. Dismiss hostile critics of this trend with the charge that they are "insensitive to the needs of future generations." That'll put them in their place.

Forget that there is a middle class out here, made up of people struggling to keep their heads above water. Tax the daylights out of them. If they can't afford it, they can move.

Finally, in light of the impending 9.9 percent tax hike, I give this final bit of advice to the city commission: Ignore that handful of do-gooders who use the infamous phrase, "Taxation without representation is tyranny." I forget who first used those words. Probably a Red.

Thanks given police, rescue

To the editor:

I wish to say that we take so many things for granted in our lives — they always are there — until a brush with death reminds us to say thank you.

I want to thank the Plymouth Police Department and the rescue squad who promptly arrived at the scene at Main and Wing in Plymouth on Feb 9.

They were efficient, courteous and reassuring to one involved in an accident. Of course, they are paid to do what they do but they are so often put in the role of the bad guys. I for one want to say thank you to the Plymouth Police Department and the rescue squad. We in Plymouth are lucky to have you.

I also want to thank the unknown man in the light green snowsuit who came from somewhere and assisted me with reassuring words and then took over until the police arrived. Thank you very much.

Jewel in midst of Plymouth

To the editor:

I wonder how many people who live in Plymouth realize what a jewel they have in their midst.

I travel 32 miles every Tuesday night for the privilege of participating in the Plymouth Community Chorus, and many other people travel even further for that same privilege.

The music which emanates from this outstanding group is due to many hours of hard work by many people but mostly from the talent and dedication of its director, Michael Gross.

DR. GERALD Fitch and his wife, Twyla, retired about three years ago to Cherokee Village in the Oklahoma hill country. They left their home on Five Mile at Bradner where they had maintained trees and shrubs as natural cover for the birds they loved to watch.

A clipping from the Cherokee Villager reveals that the former dentist still is using his skills of making molds. He and Twyla are making jewelry.

One of their latest creations was a beautiful sterling silver belt buckle which they presented to entertainer Roy Clark. The buckle is made of silver and inlaid with Kingman turquoise, Italian coral and gold beads. The sort of free-form design has a banjo in the middle, musical notes and leaves. It was in a natural red cedar box, hand-carved by Gerry.

The presentation was made before an audience at the Executive Inn, Owensboro, Ky., where Clark was entertaining. The Fitches had contacted Clark's agent in advance to make arrangements for the presentation.

Joining the Fitches for the gala evening were Mrs. Fitch's mother, Zelma Wesner, who celebrated her 83rd birthday at the event, Blanche McNamara, a neighbor at the village, and 16 Indiana cousins.

They said Clark graciously accepted the gift. He said it was the first time in his life he couldn't think of a clever remark and could only say "Thanks."

Dr. Fitch is pastor of the Reorganized Church Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints near Hardy, Okla.

Several local musicians will take part in the concert arranged by the Novi Foundation for the Performing Arts.

Kathleen Bomback, Shannon Townsend and Dorrie McCubbrey are members of the Michigan Youth Symphony.

Suzuki students Jesse Seay, Marjorie McClennan, Mike Milewski, Matt Milewski and Jane Lindamood will join the Novi Suzuki Institute musicians for the concert.

Among the selections will be "The Great Russian Easter Overture" by Rimsky-Korsakov and selections from "The Young Persons Guide to the Orchestra" by Britten.

The Suzuki students will perform Vivaldi's "Concerto for Four Violins" and the "Gavotte" movement from Bach's Orchestra Suite No. 4 in D Major.

Marilyn Baker, who plays the lead role of Pinocchio, assumes the character of the way-ward marionette at dress rehearsal.

AAUW marks Pinocchio's 100th birthday

"Once upon a time there was a piece of wood."

Generations of children have read the words that introduce "The Adventures of Pinocchio," written by C. Collodi of Florence, Italy 100 years ago.

The Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women has chosen "Pinocchio" as its children's play for 1982. Performances of the live drama will be presented March 4-7 in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium. The play will open at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 4. There will be a 7:30 p.m. performance Friday; 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday; and 1 and 3 p.m. Sunday. A limited number of tickets for the play are on sale at the Rainbow Shop on Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth and the Book Break on Ford Road in Canton Township.

THE AAUW PLAYERS have been charming young audiences for 22 years. Wide-eyed youngsters, from preschoolers through middle-schoolers, become involved in the action on stage. They cheer for their heroes and heroines and share their trials and victories.

As they watch a centennial production of "Pinocchio," they will follow the little marionette's advtures and the anxieties of his father, Gepetto; his friends the Blue Fairy and Jiminy Cricket, as he goes his willful ways.

But they all will rejoice at the happy ending, when Pinocchio earns the right to become a real boy.

The AAUW branch performed the play 10 years ago with its current president, Mary Uhl, in the lead role. Marilyn Baker is Pinocchio in this year's presentation.

Elderly to air concerns at 3 public hearings

Three separate governmental committees will be coming to the Detroit area during the week of March 1 to listen to special concerns of Michigan's elderly. Hearings will deal with how the elderly are affected by three issues: budget cuts, block grants, and crime in general.

The Michigan Joint Committee on Aging will hold a public hearing on the effects of current budget changes on the elederly. The meeting will be from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday, March 1 in Livonia City Hall, Five Mile Road at Farmington Road.

The Governor's Human Services Cabinet will listen to public comment on prioritizing the block grants in social services, labor, public health, mental health, education, commerce and management and budget. The hearing will be from 1 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, March 3 in the Community Arts Auditorium of the Michigan State Fairgrounds. Oral and written testimony will be limited to discussion of block grants.

The U.S. House Select Committee on Aging will be in the Founder's Room of the Book Cadillac Hotel from 9 a.m. to noon, Friday, March 5. Congressmen will hear invited presenters testify on problems of senior citizens in public and private housing as it relates to security issues. The public may attend and submit written testimony.

The general public is invited to attend and voice opinions on these subjects at the hearings. Because the speakers at the Friday hearing are by invitation only, only written comments will be accepted.

Persons who have questions or who wish to offer suggestions about the hearings may call Sue Sattler or Dolores Orto at 961-6680.

Wondertooth says 'Smile America'

Canton Chatter

By KATHY FREECE 981-2027

Al Flower scored an all-time first for the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball Association (PCJBA) last week. The Chippewas, the boys' AA Team, and the Bullets, the boys' A Team, both had undefeated seasons with Al as coaching instructor.

Jim Penfield, Joe Sbditch and Tom Hayes work with Al in the league to accomplish the consistent scoring. Congratulations to the staff and players of these teams, along with all of the winners in the competition.

"Captain Wondertooth" has had a busy schedule during February, National Children's Dental Health Month.

Dr. Howard Hamerink of Plymouth, Dr. James Gillig of Canton and Lorraine Thuer, administrator of the Plymouth Community Fluorida Program work hard all year long with the theme of "Smile America." The 1982 program marks the 34th annual observance sponsored by the American Dental Association.

"Wondertooth" is not a hero, just a comical reminder to children and parents that daily dental care is an important part of every routine. Community participation along with all practicing dentists in the community make our topical fluoride program work.

DENISE AND BILL Chapman, Bev and Jim Denis, Sandy and Lou Wright, Kathy and Al Scudder, Fred and Carol Hobbins, Bob and Jackie Rhodes joined with Connie Winters in bidding farewell to Ron and Pat Winters.

A surprise party was given in their honor just a few days before they left for their new home in Dayton, Ohio. Many people will remember Pat for her fantastic bowling scores and her witty nature.

Kim Powell, Bev Waller, Sheryl Hollowood, Ann Hewett, Lolly and Don Brady, Connie and Ed Kralik were also on hand for the send-off.

NEXT MONTH the Plymouth and Canton Beauty Colleges will host a meeting for the National Hairdressers Association.

Salon owners and school owners are invited to demonstrate for one another their impressions of the new styles. Twice a year, February and August, new ideas evolve from the New York office. The Dorothy Hamil Wedge was born and the new Lady Diane cut was perfected by their board of directors Coiffure Committee.

Pauline Lipscom and Bill Arbour are the owners of the two beauty schools that teach the five basic styles, perms, sections, coloring, and the chemicals making up all products on the market today. The individual facial structure of a customer has a lot to do with making any hairstyle look good.

The school is based on an 11-month program. Three months are spent on theory and other bookwork in the Junior Room before the students ever set foot on the fashion floor. The eight-month clinic is then under way, with one hour every morning discussing techniques and reinforcing good work habits.

Many people do not know that the Canton school is in operation on the corner of Lilley and Palmer Roads. So many women and men are seeking a new profession that the owners were forced to branch out from the Main Street School. Judy Jenkins and Barbara Graham, Plymouth-Canton Vocational technicians, are in the colleges daily for the benefit of high school students participating in the program.

SARAH BERRY, Linda Henderson, Marilyn Lehman, Jean De Benedet, Jeanette Horton, Eloise Shaneour and Diane Cousion are the instructors who aid the students in the self-improvement program. The students give the customers the great satisfaction of looking better when they leave the school for only a nominal fee. Everybody knows that when "You look good you usually feel good."

The March meeting is not open to the public. Main Street students will be using the theme of "Fantasy," working with their impressions of styles from 1982 until the year 2000. Students at the Canton location will concentrate on the past with styles from every decade starting with 1900 vogue.

We are lucky to have schools of this caliber in our community.

backgammon

Michael Kloian
of the American Backgammon Club

● BOLD PLAY

Here's the situation: Black is on the bar with one blot on the 3 point. Black has a slightly formidable (but not yet threatening) home board, exceptional timing and ownership of the doubling cube (at the 2 level). White now rolls a 3-4. What should white do?

Gather your senses and look over the entire position before deciding. The proper play here is not to move around the board passively or to safety the 8 point blot.

In this and similar positions, the only move you could make without thinking is to hit your opponent. Two checkers on the bar against a five-point home board is very powerful. The quality of the five-point home board with two checkers on the bar is not important. Most of the time it is preferable to have a consistent board. Having points closed all in a row is best. However, with two checkers on the bar, quantity, not quality, is what counts.

If you do not hit on the 3 point (from the 6), black could easily roll a 3 on his next roll, cover his blot and aggravate white as he tries to run home. Bearing in and bearing off could be somewhat difficult. With black in possession of the cube, one lucky roll could put him in the driver's seat.

With two checkers on the bar, black still could roll a 3 and send white to the bar. But now black has to roll another immediate 3 to take the second checker off the bar and establish the 3 point. Black is an underdog to hit and get both checkers off the bar.

For an effective 4 move, white would do best to move from the black 7 to the 11 point. Now a 6-5 roll covers the 3 point blot. By leaving the blot on the white 8, white could easily roll a 5 (15 ways) and cover the blot for a closed home board.

Of course, this move is a calculated risk. The rewards, however, outweigh the risks. Since black has five checkers in the outer board (and two on the bar), white is a favorite to win a gammon. With the cube on 2, a four-point victory in any tournament is quite an edge.

second runs

Tom Panzenhagen

"The Naked Edge" (1969), 1 p.m. Friday on Ch. 50. Originally 100 minutes.

It's always intriguing to see such romantic leads as Cary Grant (in "Suspicion") or Gary Cooper ("Naked Edge") portray potential murderers. That's because we can't see them as characters in a movie; instead, we think of them only as Cary and Coop. And Cary and Coop wouldn't harm a fly . . . would they? "Naked Edge" is Cooper's last film; Deborah Kerr also stars. Rating: $2.70.

"Call Northside 777" (1948), 4 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 50. Originally 111 minutes.

World War II brought about a downsizing in films that left the movies smaller in scope but larger in outlook. "Northside" typifies such films with its scaled-down production values and willingness to tackle the tough subject of injustice in the court system. James Stewart plays a reporter investigating the murder conviction of a small-time hood. Director Henry Hathaway presents an unromanticized, semi-documentary portrayal of Stewart's unrelenting quest. Lee J. Cobb and Richard Conte also star. Rating: $2.85.

"WUSA" (1970), 8 p.m. Monday on Ch. 50. Originally 115 minutes.

Picture a blend of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" and "FM," and you've got "WUSA," starring Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward. What "WUSA" has in common with a 1958 Tennesse Williams story and a 1978 film about rock radio is that it concerns a super-patriotic radio station in New Orleans. Newman drifts from the French Quarter, through an assassination plot, to the sound studio. Certainly an offbeat film and not a very good one, but worth seeing. Anthony Perkins, Laurence Harvey, Pat Hingle and Cloris Leachman also star. Rating: $2.30.

Old City Park, a restored 19th century village, contrasts with the sky- line of modern Dallas.

Southfork Ranch is the Ewings' home in "Dallas."

The First International Building is J.R.'s office building.

Iris does 'Dallas'

The imaginary J.R. has some real-life haunts

Iris Jones
contributing travel editor

DALLAS, TEXAS — J.R. Ewing's city. Some familiar sites: Southfork Ranch, J.R.'s office building, the store where Pam worked, the hospital where J.R. recovered from his bullet wounds, the campus where Lucy goes to school and the hotel where the cast of "Dallas" stays when it is in town.

If you watch the CBS-TV series "Dallas," you will recognize the landscape at once.

You can tour the real and imaginary Dallas on your own, or on a tour bus, or you can go first class with a private tour guide like Missy Morgan.

IF YOU WANT a "Dallas" tour, Missy starts at the familiar opening program shot: expressways leading to a cubed glass building — the Hyatt Regency-Reunion — and the adjacent Reunion Tower. The tower lookout is the best place to plan a tour of the city. From its top you can see the whole Metroplex — which includes Dallas, Fort Worth, the in-between cities of Arlington and Grand Prairie — a total of 2.7 million people.

Below, a replica of the city's first log cabin shares Historic Plaza with a monument to John F. Kennedy. It is just around the corner from the Texas Book Depository and the spot where JFK was shot.

Let your eyes climb the high rise skyline and you will soon recognize the tallest building in town, J.R. Ewing's office building, known around here as the First International Building. Two flying red horses, symbols of Mobil Oil, fly atop a downtown building. Mobil has moved into a new building, but Missy insists that "the horses remain so that everyone will know that Dallas isn't a one-horse town."

You can travel all over the downtown area for 25 cents on Hop-a-Bus. For $1, park at Reunion arena and get a round trip ticket on the bus. Check out Thanksgiving Square, the renovated restaurants in Union Station, Neiman Marcus and the glass skywalk leading to a complex called Plaza of the Americas: shops, restaurants, offices and hotel, surrounding an indoor skating rink.

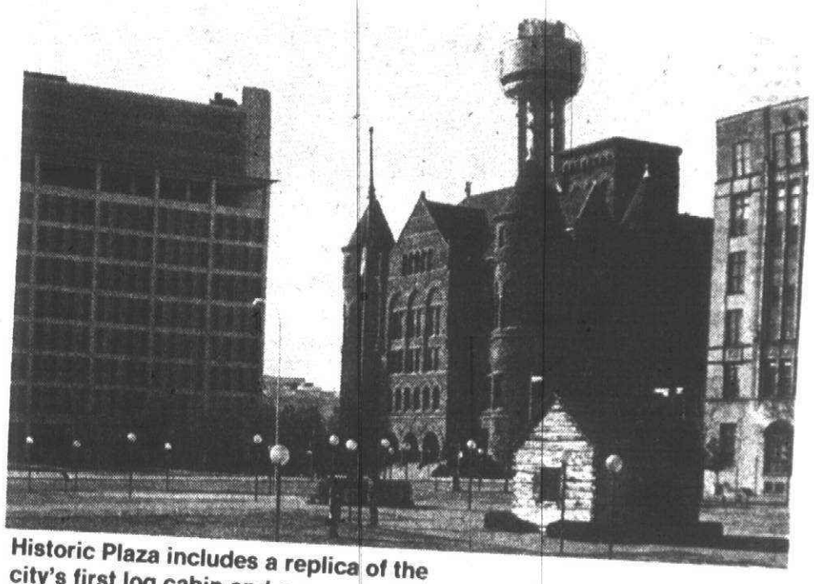

Dallas is third only to New York and Chicago as a convention city, and the new convention center may be the only one in the country that is built around an old Civil War cemetery.

Look east from the Reunion Tower lookout and you will see the Texas State Fairgrounds, site of eight interesting Dallas museums (a new museum complex opens downtown next year) and, closer in, the 19th century "skyline" of Old City Park, a restored village with a better idea.

WHEN HISTORIC old buildings came too close to the wrecking ball in Dallas, they were rescued, restored and placed in a city-owned park. You can wander around or picnic free, or you can pay $4 for a ticket to visit any of the restored buildings.

One of the treasures is an 1886 railway depot with a little larceny in its historic background. The Texas Pacific Railway would have missed Dallas by 50 miles if some scoundrel hadn't tagged condition to the state legislation: the railway must run within a mile of Browder Springs.

Nobody knew or cared where Brodwer Springs was located until the Legislature learned that it was in downtown Dallas. The railway came to town and by 1890 Dallas was the biggest city in Texas.

Historic Plaza includes a replica of the city's first log cabin and a monument to John Kennedy. In background is the old courthouse and the top of Reunion Tower.

It's a story of deceit that would make J.R. Ewing proud.

If you are a "Dallas" fan, plan to follow the expressway system past Old City Park and turn north on U.S. 75, Central Expressway, to the Southfork Ranch.

On your way, you'll pass the Doubletree Inn, where the cast usually stays; Lucy's elegant campus grounds at Southern Methodist University, a wonderful craft center called Olla Podrida; and Granny's Dinner Theater.

THERE ARE always tourists taking pictures through the fence and blocking the driveway at the Southfork Ranch, which is still a working ranch. It used to be called Duncan Farms, and Joe Duncan still raises horses on those 164 acres. He gets $75,000 a year to let CBS film on the property.

You can tour the grounds from noon to 5 p.m. Monday to Friday (always check first) and you can at times watch the filming, done for about eight weeks starting in June.

"They set up at the back of the house," Missy says. "There are mobile homes for the cast when they're not filming. The crowd stays on the grass, but goes crazy when something interesting happens, like when Bobby goes swimming in the pool."

Will Miss Ellie wave at the crowd? Will J.R. Ewing go swimming in the pool? Tune in next week, folks, or see for yourself or contact Missy Morgan, American Art and Museum Tours, P.O. Box 8146, Dallas, TX 75205 or write to the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, 1507 Pacific Ave., Dallas, TX 75201.

Where to stay and play in Dallas

The most exciting news in downtown Dallas this year was the reopening of the Adolphus Hotel, in a burst of marble and magnificence.

The Adolphus was once the Grand Dame of Dallas hotels, and will probably regain that title. If you like old expensive hotels with piano lobbies, original tapestries and a sitting-and-dining suite in every room, you will love it.

The Fairmont Hotel, which was the only first-class hotel left in town 10 years ago, still is a first-class hotel. The orchestra and revolving talent in the dining room is very popular in Dallas.

The most visible contemporary hotel on the skyline is the Hyatt Regency-Reunion, which you see every week on the opening shot of CBS-TV's series, "Dallas."

The most invisible is the Trust House Forte hotel, part of the Plaza of the Americas. All this is part of the renewal of downtown Dallas; some people say it's the transition from Sleepy Hollow to Big Town.

You won't be able to eat in the Cattleman's Club, so familiar to "Dallas" fans, but you can get a good steak downtown in the Cattleman's Steak House, one of many good places to eat and drink in Dallas.

The local people go to a folksy place called Sonny Bryan's for barbecue, and to Tolbert's Chili Parlor for chili, burgers and chili pie. Tolbert is an ex-newspaperman and a founder of the famous Texas Chili Cookoff in West Texas.

You can have a real Texas breakfast in the Farmer's Grill, near a great outdoor fruit and vegetable market downtown. Campisi's has been described as "dumpy," but Dallas people love it for good Italian food. They also love Chiquita's for Mexican food. The favorite local chain restaurant is Chili's.

If you want to swing a little, take a cab to Old Town Village in the Greenville Avenue area five miles north of downtown, where the singles live and play at TGIFriday's, Cafe Dallas and other discos and bars.

There is live country and western music at Belle Starr's. Most two-steppers go to Billy Bob's Texas in Fort Worth.

If you saved your money for the big dinner, try the local dinner show at the Fairmont Hotel, the intimate elegance of Cafe Royal in the Plaza of the Americas, the very expensive but highly rated French Room in the Adolphus Hotel, Jean Claude's or Callaud's on McKinney Street, or La Mansion on Turtle Creek.

Ratcliffe's is a fine seafood restaurant downtown in an old print shop.

If you brought the kids, don't forget that you can see real cowboys in rodeo, dance hall, bar and stockyard setting 28 miles west in Fort Worth, and that the area between Dallas and Fort Worth blossoms with amusements: Six Flags Over Texas, Texas Sports Hall of Fame, International Wildlife Park, Trader's Village, and Southwestern Historical Wax Museum, to name a few.

He cooks an offering for his church

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Harry Johns stirs up a treat for a senior citizen luncheon at Clarenceville United Methodist Church of Livonia.

Harry Johns has some anxious times at Clarenceville United Methodist Church of Livonia, and every housewife would empathize.

"My tense moments are when I have the food ready and the people aren't ready," he said. "I hate to serve cold food."

Johns is volunteer cook for from 70-75 senior citizens who socialize at the church once a month.

And Johns comes from his Royal Home to preside over the hot stove because he is very much at home at Clarenceville. His sister Elsie Johns was minister there for 34 years before her death in 1974.

Cooking is a hobby for Johns, who is retired from work as a supervisor for the National Twist Drill and Tool Co. in Rochester. It is also his way to help the church which sponsors the monthly noon luncheons on the fourth Thursdayof each month. Costof the event is $1.25, and in addition a free will offering is taken.

The next luncheon will be March 25 and all senior citizens in the area are invited, regardless of church membership. Reservations should be made the Monday before the event by calling the church, 474-3444.

JOHNS, WHO gets an assist from church women who serve and clean up afterwards, also is the man behind the church dinners for special holidays.

He said he learned to cook from his mother during the time he was laid off during the depression.

"I used to cook for a crowd at my house during some big event," he said. "Cooking is no trick. You just have to like it. It's a lot of work. But I wouldn't have it any other way. It's my contribution."

Johns attended this Methodist church when it was located on Grand River and Collingham. Elsie Johns was sent by church authorities to close the white churchbecause it had so few members. But Rev. Johns attracted new members, and it was during her time there that the present church home was built on Middlebelt south of Eight Mile.

"SHE TOLD IT like it was," Johns reminisced about his sister's work as pastor. "She didn't beat around the bush. She was a goer. She made up her mind to build a church education center, and she built it. Then she built the church and said it would be paid off in time, and it was.

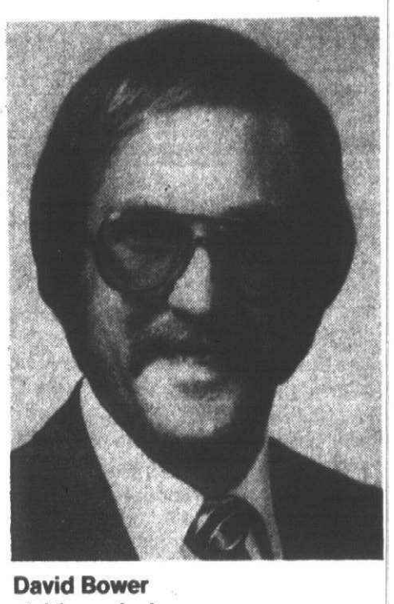

"We didn't always agree, She was the boss. That was it. But she wasn't wrong very often. She had a dynamic personaity. The Lord used her to draw people in."

The program includes frequent field trips around the Holy Land led by scholars. Highlights include a journey to Galilee and Mt. Sinai.

The students will stay at the Tantur Ecumenical Institute located between Jerusalem and Bethlehem. They will be involved in a wide variety of prayer and liturgical situations, at Tantur, in Jerusalem and in Bethlehem. They will attend Greek Orthodox and other eastern rites as well as western.

Being in Israel during Holy Week offers the opportunity to take part in the services from Palm Sunday through Easter at the sites where the original events took place.

Two week-long trips are planned, one to Galilee and one to the Sinai desert. During the week in Galilee the group will stay at a kibbutz hotel for youth.

There will be trips to archaeological sites, and times to pray and reflect among the hills and on the seashore where Jesus walked and prayed and preached.

The second trip into the Sinai is made in an open truck. Camp is pitched at night in dry river beds, with sleeping bags laid under the stars. One of the high points of the desert trip is a four-hour hike up Mt. Sinai. The students also camp overnight in a small Bedouin camp.

Why not a class on comparative religions?

The battle over how creation came to be seems to be generating no less ignorance and emotion in some circles today than it did when Darwin's monkeys were first taken to court.

Apparently there are any number of people to whom it has not occurred that the evolution of creation does not rule out a God any more than a God of creation rules out evolution.

There are those who cannot accept even the possiblity that God could have chosen an evolutionary process for the creation of the universe. Others find the very possibility of God's existence an affront to their empirical mindset. The one group will insist that everything in the Bible be taken literally, while the other relegates anything of faith to the world of fantasy.

IF WE ARE PRONE to assign a literal interpretation to all that we read, we may do well to allow God the privilege of using poetry to speak a message much larger than our human phraseology could possiblly convey.

I sometimes wonder what the descendents of rigidity will do with the sports pages of our own time when they are dug up 5,000 or 6,000 years from now. The words will be perfectly clear: "Birds Murder Tigers." With no knowledge of baseball, that sport of the ancient 20th century, a literal interpretation will leave them no choice but to conclude that there were some pretty vicious birds in the skies over Baltimore.

If we find ourselves on the evolutionary side of the aisle, we might also do well to check out our own rigidity.

For some of us theory can take on the cloak of dogma with all of the rights, priveleges and smugness that go with setting ourselves up as gods. In doing so we become more dogmatic than the dogma we reject.

AND SO THE ISSUE of the "how" of creation can generate more steam than light. Even the terminology tends to cloud the controversy.

By simplistic definition, for example, evolutionists are presumed by some to be aetheist or agnostic. Equally misleading is the tendency to put all who hold for creation by a supreme being into one category.

Just as there are variations to the theory of evolution, many of which leave room for a divine creator, so too there are a variety of interpretations among scripture scholars of the Genesis account of creation.

The issue is more than theoretical, with the courts once again being asked to rule on what we can teach in our schools concerning our origins.

Some are insisting that only the theory of evolution be taught while others are just as adament that a literal interpretation of the Genesis story be taught in the same science classrooms.

They believe it is only fair that God be given equal time. This, of course, presumes that God is cheated by evolutionary theory. It may, however, be true that in ruling out exposure to a story so basic in a Judaeo-Christian culture as the biblical account of creation, we are cheating the students.

TO DENY the theory of evolution a platform in the academic arena would be to diminish and manipulate education. However, it would seem that students are equally the losers in schools which cannot provide them with an exposure to the widely held religious views of their own society.

Perhaps a science curriculum is not the place for such exposure. Maybe our isolationist approach to subjects taught deserves further scrutiny.

In any case, a well-taught course in comparative religions would seem more than appropriate in our pluralistic society.

What are we afraid of anyway?

Theater guild does good job

Following is a portion of Dan Greenberg's review that was cut in the Feb. 18 issue due to limited space. The Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford production of "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" continues at 8:30 p.m. Friday-Saturday at the guild's playhouse in Redford. For ticket information call 522-1526.

The set, ably designed by the director and the star, and executed by almost the entire company, was an excellent platform for this complex production. Max Wolf's lighting design sculpted the stage with pools of light that defined the playing areas very well.

Unfortunately, the hard wooden floor and the shoes many of the cast wore proved unpleasantly noisy and reinforced a prancing quality, particularly evident in Attorney Hill and Dr. Emerson's movements.

They may have thought they were being British, but their movements were distracting. The British ambience the director sought seemed exaggerated in such a small theater.

On the whole, the evening was enjoyable, but dramas of ideas are much more difficult than those of action.

Dear John & Marsha,
I know, I know... it's our third weekend in a row vacationing at the Michigan Inn! But like Harry keeps saying, "How can you pass up a deal like this?" Only $39 a night any Thursday through Sunday for our room and just $15 a night for the kid's room. What's extra nice is that Harry and I have so much time to ourselves (last night we danced up a storm in Dewey's!) because there's so much for the kids to do on their own (like swimming, playing tennis and challenging all of their favorite pinball machines). And it's a pleasure not having to worry about traffic or high gas prices for a change!
Having a marvelous time...

Rocks advance 8 into mat regional

Ron Krueger's Plymouth Salem wrestling team stayed right on course last weekend with a second-place finish in the district Class A tournament at Temperance-Bedford.

The Rocks qualified eight wrestlers into Saturday's regional at Ann Arbor Huron. Westland John Glenn had four advance. Plymouth Canton and Livonia Stevenson each had two. The top four finishers in each division qualify for the regional.

Host Temperance-Bedford, rated No. 1 in Class A, won the district with a team total of 182 points. Salem, ranked in the top five, was second with 159½. Westland John Glenn was fourth.

Complete results appear on the statistics page.

"I'm happy about our result," said Krueger, who was also nominated for coach of the year honors. "Our No. 1 goal has been the same from the start of the year — we want to win the state championship."

Temperance qualified 10 into the regional and appears to be the team to beat.

"Our prospects look better than two years ago," said Krueger, whose team placed in the top five in 1979-80.

"We haven't peaked yet. We had six in the finals, and if we can do that this week, we'll be there."

Salem took individual titles at 135 pounds, John Beaudoin; 141, Bruce Bachman; and 158, Randy Beaudoin.

Other finalists included heavyweight Marty Piper, Rob McDonald (129) and Scott Wickens (188).

CANTON'S Steve Hamblin won the 148-pound crown, and teammate Todd Gattoni, a sophomore, finished third at 101. Stevenson's qualifiers were Joe Parent (108) and Mike Templeton (188).

Glenn's Mike Parsons took the 115-pound crown with a 5-3 win over Huron's Jamie McNaughton. Also earning spots in the regional from Glenn were Tom Gibson (101), Darrell Reynolds (135) and Robb Paciocco (141).

Other Salem qualifiers included John Woochuk (170) and Harry Walkley (201).

Bachman, who dropped down one weight class for the state tourney, continued to dominate his division with a 7-5 decision over Rick Salisbury in the final. Bachman, a senior, has an amazing 42-1 record.

Krueger said Randy Beaudoin "wrestled like I've never seen" and predicted John Beaudoin, a junior, "could be one of the best kids I've ever had."

Piper, meanwhile, was unable to wrestle in the final because he was involved in an auto accident, causing him to miss his match. He was not injured and will be ready this week.

"A couple of kids had to come through," said Krueger. "Woochuk was the No. 5 seed and went out and wrestled like I knew he could. There were three horses in Walkley's class, and he did all he could — and then some."

McDonald and Wickens, both seniors, will get another chance this weekend to avenge their losses.

MOST AREA coaches agreed that the Temperance district was the toughest in the state.

"We could have possibly had eight or nine kids get out of the Trenton district (won by Trenton)," said Stevenson coach Larry Ruzsas, whose team finished 13 out of 17.

"I thought we could realistically get three out, but hoped for four," said Canton coach Dan Chrenko, "But when you're seeded sixth or seventh, it's hard to get out."

The regional begins at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Ocelots fall in 2 OTs

The season ended sourly for the Schoolcraft College men's basketball team with three straight losses and an early exit from the Michigan Community College Athletic Association (MCCAA) tournament.

The Ocelots faced Delta CC, co-champ of the MCCAA's Eastern Conference, in the opening round of the tournament and battled through two overtimes before succumbing 58-55 Tuesday at Delta.

PHIL BLEVINS fired in 33 points and grabbed 15 rebounds in a losing cause Saturday as Schoolcraft was routed by Flint Mott CC, 106-87, in the final regular season game at Mott.

The Ocelots couldn't keep pace with Mott's fast break offense and failed to shoot effectively over the Flint team's zone defense. Schoolcraft managed to make just 38 of 89 floor shots (42.7 percent).

The two defeats, together with Schoolcraft's 83-77 loss to Henry Ford CC Feb. 17, left the Ocelots with a final season record of 16-11 overall record. They ended the regular season with a 10-8 league mark.

Suburbs try kid Gloves

It's a strange partnership.

Big-time amateur boxing, a city game, is coming to the suburbs for the first time. Joe Louis and Thomas Hearns, native Detroiters, learned their trade in the Golden Gloves. They fought at Olympia, the State Fairgrounds and Cobo Arena.

The 1982 area finals, however, will be held outside the city limits on the grounds of Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

Young boxers in 12 weight classes and four divisions (Junior Novice, Senior Novice, Novice and Open) will battle for spots in the National Golden Gloves championships March 30 to April 3 in Kansas, Mo.

The card begins at 8 p.m. at the school's main gymnasium. General admission tickets are still available for $3.

Interest in boxing has picked up in the suburbs. The Livonia Boxing Club, which helped bring the tourney to Schoolcraft, is well represented in the finals.

The event is annually sponsored by the Detroit News and the Detroit Golden Gloves Charities. Marv Gans, the energetic athletic director at Schoolcraft College, welcomed the tourney sponsors.

HE'S JAZZING up the card with a four-piece ensemble. The College's Madrigal Singers will sing the national anthem.

Kronk Recreation Center, the hub of inner city boxing, will be bringing its show to unfamiliar turf.

The local boxers should get their fair share of support. Most fans, however, will attend to get a peak at the new crop of rising young stars.

It's a shame that Craig Payne, the nationally ranked super-heavyweight from the Livonia Boxing Club, will not get an opportunity to show the local fans his potential.

Payne, a charismatic 21-year-old with a million-dollar smile, automatically earns a trip to Kansas City without throwing a punch.

His coaches, Dick Quiton and Paul Soucy, have had trouble finding matches for the eager youngster since he pounded his way into the semifinals of last year's national Gloves tourney in Toledo.

The confident, but humble, Payne doesn't relish "walkovers."

"I like to earn it," he said. "I'd rather do it in the ring."

The 1984 Olympic prospect gets bored with inactivity, but last month he was invited and spent two weeks at the U.S. Olympic Development Training Camp (Colorado Springs, Colo.), sparring with some of the nation's top superheavies.

IT'S ONLY a matter of time before Payne takes his show national. He was passed over for a recent U.S. Boxing team tour of Russia, but a trip next month to Cuba is still a possibility.

Payne was disappointed he didn't make the trip, but is working vigorously in preparation for three upcoming national tournies.

"I'll be on national TV someday," he said. "I've got my foot in the door now.

"The atmosphere in Colorado was good. I got in some good sparring that I really needed. They threw a lot of different styles at me.

"I learned you have to make sure you're the head honcho. You have to be the aggressor. You have to get in the ring and make your showing."

The young stallion remains patient through it all. His persistence rubs off on his teammates daily at the Jackson Community Center.

The discovery of Craig Payne will take a little longer. He remains loyal to his coaches and wants to put Livonia on the map.

The suburb's best boxer since Mickey Goodwin will go unnoticed locally for another year.

Patience, Craig. Your day will come.

Chiefs vault by Salem gymnasts

The Plymouth Canton girls' gymnastics team continued to show dramatic improvement Tuesday with a 116.45-81.15 victory over neighbor Plymouth Salem.

Canton, now sporting a 7-2 record, beat the regional qualifying cut-off score of 112.00 for the sixth time this season.

Meanwhile, for a young Salem team, it was another valuable lesson.

The first meeting between the two schools came about after snowstorms earlier this month caused the cancellation of several meets. Because of scheduling difficulties, the two schools were able to arrange for their initial confrontation.

"It was nice for Salem to have the meet," said Canton coach John Cunningham. "They did it as a convenience to us. They're much improved over last year. I think Kathi Kinsella (Salem coach) is doing a great job. She just needs more time to work with them."

Cunningham was pleased with his team's performance as sophomore Linda Beale won the all-around with a score of 32.1, a personal best. She was first on uneven bars, floor exercise, and balance beam.

Teammate Laura Michalik, who won the vault, was second overall with a score of 31.55. Canton also took the next three spots — Lisa Lovich, third, 27.2; Theresa Wheeler, fourth, 23.65; and Ruth Ann Trout, 23.0. Salem's Suzanne Gibbons was sixth with 22.30.

TRENTON 105.00
SALEM 91.95

The Rocks achieved their highest score in the school's history last week in a Suburban Eight League dual meet loss to Trenton.

Scoring points on vault for Salem were Debbie Bahna, third, 6.45; Gibbons, fifth, 6.15; and Julie Mann, sixth, 5.95.

Salem's Sarah Rubadue took first on uneven bars with score of 7.25. Right behind were Gibbons, third; 5.75; Mann, fifth, 4.80; and Bahna, sixth, 4.75.

Mann and Gibbons tied for fourth on beam at 6.25.

On floor exercise, Salem took fourth, fifth and sixth — Gibbons, 6.55; Laura Anieros, 6.35; and Mann, 5.35.

After nine years of competitive swimming, one would expect the average person to have been in the water enough hours to last a lifetime.

But Bob Cline is anything but average.

Cline, a junior at Michigan Tech and a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School, plans to enter the Navy upon completion of his undergraduate degree.

An electrical engineering major, he has been accepted as an exceptional student nuclear propulsion officer candidate, which includes a two-year scholarship for the remainder of his collegiate career and six months of naval training as a nuclear engineer.

Once his training is completed, Cline will spend four years as an officer on a nuclear-powered submarine.

On the waterfront, Cline is Michigan Tech's co-captain. The 1981 team MVP specializes in the individual medley and backstroke events.

"The longer distances are more suited to Bob's strokes than sprints," said Judy Fynewever, Tech's second-year swim coach.

"HE HAS a great deal of endurance and swims his races tough."

An honor student, Cline decided that Tech's engineering program was in his best interests.

"When I was picking a college," he said, "Tech came across as a small school with a strong engineering reputation.

Viscount Pools — champions of the Bill Collins Over 25 Hockey League.

Opinions may vary why Viscount finished far ahead of the other five squads in the league. But no one can argue that the team that finished on top was certainly the most experienced.

In a league in which few teams had players over 40 years old and even fewer over 50, Viscount went against the trend and made it work.

Six of the 16 Viscount team members are 50 or older. Two others are over 38. Considering the league allows two players on each squad under 25 and most team rosters list players 30 or under, it seems unlikely a team with such age could succeed.

BUT VISCOUNT POOLS did. The Livonia-based team won 16 of 22 games (16-3-3 record, 35 points), finishing 10 points ahead of second-place Harrows Restaurant (11-8-3, 25 points).

Eight team members are related: Bill Prisk, Viscount's elder statesman at 61, and Bob Prisk, 29; Bob Koskela, 50, and Gary Koskela, 27; Ralph Bekkala, 54, and Dave Bekkala, 24; and Bill Simula, 54, and Glenn Simula, 22. All are father-son relationships except the Koskelas (uncle-nephew).

"The biggest kick I get out of it is my dad gets real fired up about (playing)," said team manager Dave Bekkala. "Their enthusiasm gets me excited about it."

Experience blended with youth has certainly been the key to Viscount's success. Before joining the Bill Collins league, several players competed in the Over 30 hockey league in Livonia. Team members met while working at GM Diesel and their squad "jelled over the last 10 years," Bekkala said.

THE TEAM'S LEADING scorer was Glenn Simula with 23 goals and 21 assists. Gary Kaskula finished the season with 22 goals and 14 assists. Of the over 40 bunch, Bob Koskela collected five goals and 10 assists and Joe Rocheleau (43) added seven goals and four assists. The goalie was 38-year-old Bob Weiss.

It was a pleasure to play with his father, Bekkala said, and even a bigger pleasure to emerge as champions in a league in which most teams had players "25 to 30 years old."

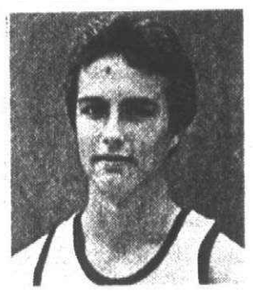

Other team members for Viscount are: Joe Mlinaz (55), Jack Ketala (50), Bill Kane (34), Vince Polkus (27), Dan Graustein (25) and Gary Gale (27).

For the opening of the Suburban Six League's basketball race in December of 1963, Plymouth almost engineered a major upset. The Rocks invaded the court of highly touted Trenton and it required an overtime session before Trenton was able to squeeze home with a 55-51 conquest. Futility at the charity line was the reason the Rocks failed to win. Cal Luibrand shot the Rocks in front for the first time at 47-45 with just under a minute to go, but Trenton came back and tied to put the game in overtime. In the extra period, Dick Egloff and Ray Chappell each made a basket for the Rocks. Doug Sutherland paced Plymouth with 10 points.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL FLASHBACK

Plymouth High's baseball team came through with a one-hit vicotry in beating Noathville 6-1 on April 14, 1965. Dave Troutman and John Daniel shared the pitching for the Rocks. Troutman worked the first four frames and Daniel finished up, permitting the lone safety in the fifth when Northville notched its run. A walk to Curt Irish and a triple by Mark Sutton gave Plymouth its first run in the third inning. Then in the fifth, with the score tied 1-1, a single by Terry Cosgrove, walks to Gotro and Sutton and three errors helped Plymouth count five times. The game served as the only tune up for the Rocks before they began their Suburban Six League Title chase the following week.

Bentley beats tourney jinx

By Jay Keenan
special writer

A rough and rocky road couldn't hinder Livonia Bentley's journey to the tournament championship Saturday at the Schoolcraft Girls' Volleyball Invitational.

Despite an array of tough competition, the mighty Bulldogs were able to best a 30-team field when they trimmed Suburban Eight League foe Dearborn in a hard-fought playoff final, 15-7, 15-11.

The championship featured powerful spiking on both sides.

"I think we were determined to do well at this tournament when we came in," said Bentley coach Dana Hardwidge. "They (the players) thought they were capable of playing better volleyball than we did at the last tournament."

A tournament title has been hard to come by for Bentley this season. Most recently, the Bulldogs were ousted in the semifinals at Howell Invitational. At the Plymouth Invitational earlier this month, Bentley played second fiddle to Portage Northern, the state's top-ranked Class A team.

But at Schoolcraft, all the pieces fell together.

Bentley qualified for the quarterfinals when it placed first in Pool No. 2. The Bulldogs finished round-robin pool play with by winning seven of eight games. Walled Lake Western, leading the Western Six League, split with the Bulldogs while previously unbeaten Southfield-Lathrup was rudely dealt two defeats. Northville and Garden City East each lost two straight to Bentley.

volleyball

"I THINK we were strong in net play," added Hardwidge. "It's not too bad to come off with only one loss against two undefeated teams."

The Bentley mentor cited powerful serving and good communication between the players on the floor as the determining factor.

The Bulldogs, who usually rely on a powerful offense, were paced by all-tournament spikers Ann Roy and Lori Swanson. They got plenty of help, however, from frontliners Kim Archer and Deneen Clark.

"Kim was also strong on defense in the backcourt," said the Bentley coach. "She's one of our best defensive players around because of her mobility and quickness."

Setting up the Bulldog attack were Sue Pozan and Kathy Schneider.

Bentley, seeded fifth among the final eight qulifiers, defeated North Farmington (15-12, 15-9) and area rival Livonia Stevenson (15-4, 15-13) en route to the final.

The Spartans won their quarterfinal match against Farmington before being ousted. They were impressive in pool play, winning eight straight. Stevenson was also stingy defensively, allowing the fewest number of points in pool play.

"WHAT REALLY took us that far (in the tournament) was great hustle and enthusiasm," said Stevenson coach Lee Cagle. "Not one girl was down. They all worked hard and had a lot of determination. We played excellent in our pool all day."

In the second game against Bentley, the Spartans held an 11-4 lead before the roof caved in.

"As Bentley got closer, our team lost their composure," Cagle added. "We were tense, overanxious and made several mental mistakes."

The Spartan coach praised the all-around efforts of Julie Antaya, Bev Irwin, Cathy Potter and Gina Knight. His bench also did a creditable job, he said.

Another area team, Plymouth Canton, ran into some treacherous competition and finished with a 3-5 mark in pool play. The Chiefs won two against Highland Park and split with Redford Union. They lost two against Wayne and Livonia Franklin.

"We did OK, but we didn't do well," said Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein. "We were in a hard pool. Probably one of the hardest. It was an evenly matched pool.

Canton splits, Rocks lose

Sometimes your best is not good enough.

That was the case Tuesday as Plymouth Salem fell to Livonia Bentley in a Suburban Eight League volleyball match 15-8, 15-7.

Bentley, fresh from winning the 30-team Schoolcraft College Invitational, struggled to win the league match.

The kids played well," said Salem first-year coach Jeanne Martin. "They (Bentley) are hard to beat. We hustled all over the floor. It's the best volleyball we've played this year.

"If we'd had served well, we would have been right there."

The loss dropped Salem to 3-5 overall.

WL WESTERN 15-15
CANTON 9-9

The Chiefs fell out of contention for the Western Six League crown last week with a straight-set loss to Walled Lake Western.

Western went into yesterday's action with a 6-0 league mark. Canton and Livonia Churchill are tied for second at 4-3.

"The first game was even, for the most part," said Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein. "But Western has a new girl from Brazil who is now their best player. She had a string of six straight serving points."

Western wrapped it up with a fine display of spiking in the second game.

Earlier, Livonia Churchill couldn't hold a 14-11 lead in the second game as Canton rallied for a 7-15, 16-14, 15-6 Western Six League win.

The event was sponsored by the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department.

Mohacsi aims for title

A group of 14 teams from the ladies All-Star League will invade Metro Bowl in Lansing this weekend to compete in the state tournament.

Most of the attention will be focused on Mary Mohacsi of Livonia, the five-time bowling queen.

Mohacsi will be shooting for her three straight All-Events title. No one has approached that goal for a long time and, as she says, "winning the third time may be the most difficult thing to do."

The Luxury Lanes team, of which Mohacsi is captain, and Penny Behn's squad are expected to make a strong bid for the state title.

AL REPPENHAGEN couldn't stand the prosperity last Monday night at Westland Bowl, but he did wind up with a perfect game and an American Bowling Congress (ABC) medal.

He opened with a 236, followed by the 300, and then in the excitement, lost his concentration and fell to 161 for a 697 series, missing the 700 club. It was the sixth perfect game rolled at Westland this season.

In the Bottle Openers League, Larry Williams drew a frown from Lady Luck. With 11 strikes in a row and his eye on a perfect game, he left the No. 10 pin standing on a solid hit and had to be content with a 299. And in the Monday Men's League, Dan Jacobs spared in the first frame and then struck out for a 290 in 668 series.

THREE YOUNGSTERS stole the spotlight at Woodland Lanes.

Ken Kubit, a 13-year-old with a 151 average, rolled a 245 game in 604 while 14-year-old Bill Morrison, carrying a 149 norm, had a 244 in 624 series.

Meanwhile, Dave Wisniewski, another 16-year-old with a 158 average, posted games of 242 and 234 en route to a 666 series in the Catholic Central Father and Son League.

These young rollers took much of the glory, but Steve Fitch earned his share with a 709 series that included a 267 game.

IN OTHER GOOD performances, Doug DeMarois rolled a 768 at Country Lanes when the Travelling League made its annual visit. His big count helped the Redford Lanes team set a new high for the season with a 3,266, helped along by Bob Potter's 287.

At Merri-Bowl, Polly Cole paced the Invitational Doubles with a 661 and Jill Ping led the Ladies League with a 625. One of the oddities occurred at Bel-Aire where for the second time this year, there was a deadlock for the Classic lead. Fred Ringrose and Bill Walker each fired a 695 series.

Bev Haggodone showed the way in the Ladies Classic at Garden Lanes with a 650. Bob Ostrosky was the top man in the St. Linus League with a 256 in 642.
