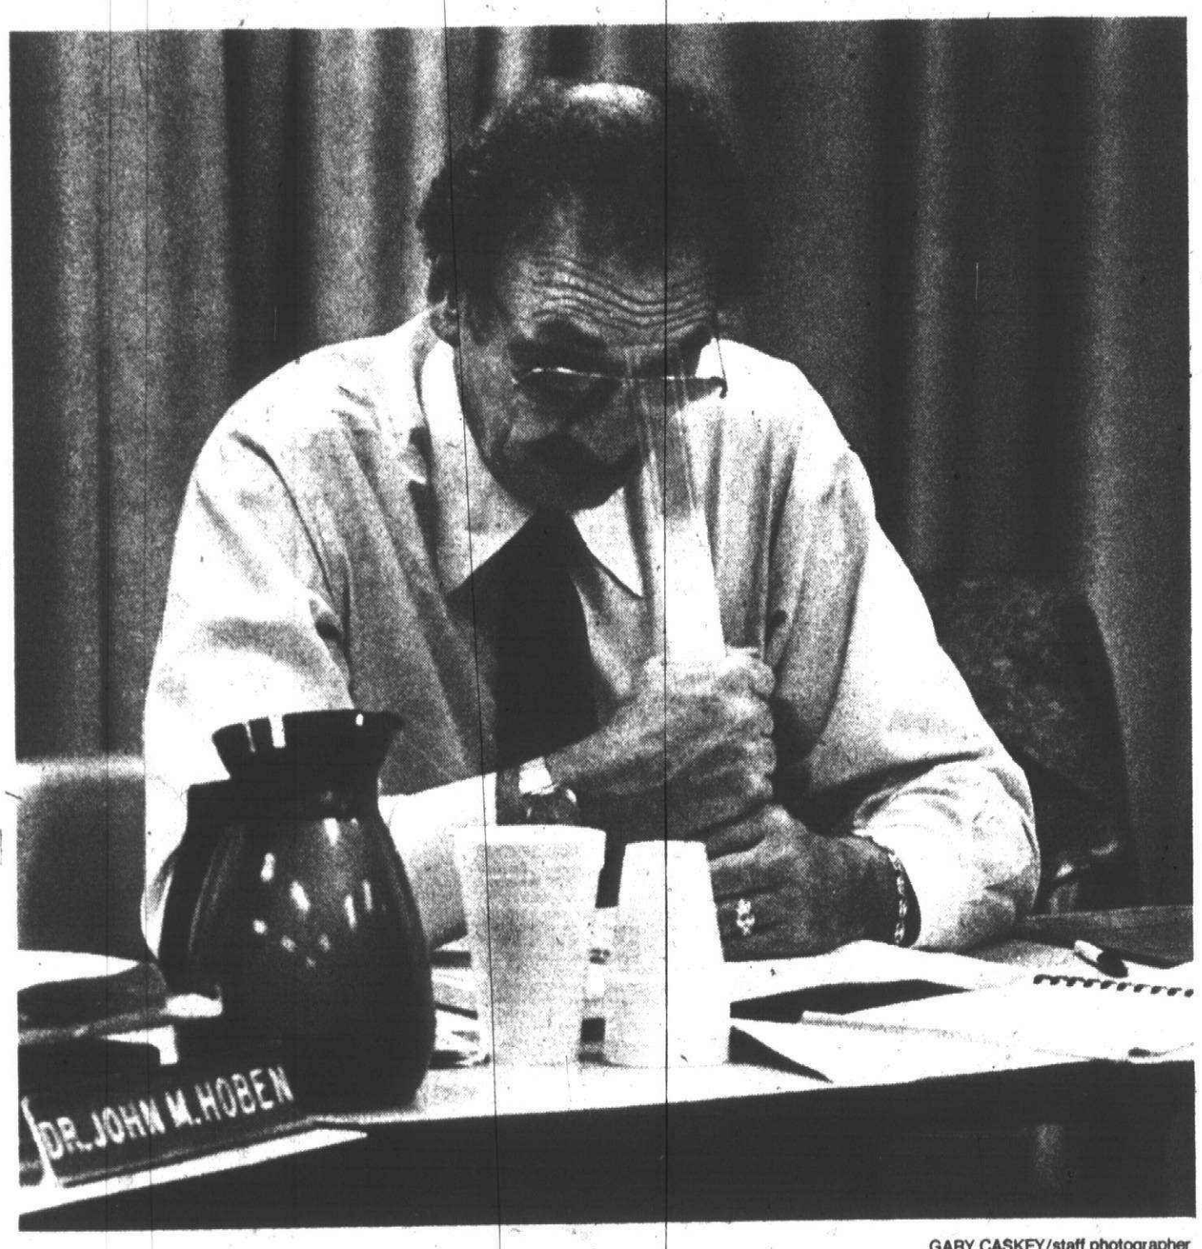
Hoben wants wage freeze for self



GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Superintendent John Hoben has asked to freeze his wages for the 1982-83 upcoming school year.

23 administrators may be pink-slipped next month

By Dennis O'Connor
staff writer

Superintendent John Hoben volunteered to freeze his wages after the Board of Education unanimously voted Monday to give notification of possible layoffs to 23 Plymouth-Canton school administrators.

The board is expected to make a formal decision on administrative layoffs (pink slipping) at the regular meeting on April 26. This initial notification only means the board is considering non-renewal of the 23 administrative contracts for the 1982-83 school year. The contracts expire on June 30, 1982.

Hoben, who earns $58,000 annually, stresses his decision for a wage freeze was strictly personal. Other administrators on Hoben's staff have not been asked at this time to follow this wage-freeze proposal, Hoben says.

"My intent — and it's my feeling — that things are bad around here, and it seems to me that someone has to take the first step and that's what I did," Hoben said.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON schools face an estimated $2.2-million budget deficit for the 1982-83 school year. School officials estimate $41.4 million in revenues and $43.6 million in expenditures in the operating budget. This does not include any wage differential with labor groups. Seven school union contracts expire this fall.

Administration cuts are just one of 21 different items which may face reduction or elimination this fall.

Board members agree it is an unpleasant task to give possible pink-slip notification to administrators, but many believe all 23 will not be cut from the budget. Elimination of 23 administration positions amounts to a savings of approximately $800,000, according to Norm Kee, assistant superintendent for personnel.

The notification process is a contractual obligation, Hoben says. Administrators must be notified at least 90 days before contract expiration under state law. Formal pink slipping must take place 60 days before contract expiration.

Pink slipping is based on low seniority in specific categories of services, Kee says. Some administrators who receive notice this week have been with the school system for five years. Administrators receiving notice may return to the classroom, taking a teaching position, if they have proper certification, Kee adds.

THE ORIGINAL LIST for notification included 19 administrators, but an additional four persons were added to the list prior to the Monday board meeting.

The board voted, 4-3, to accept the additional four names for notification. Board President Carol Davis and trustees Tom Yack and Flossie Tonda voted against increasing the list with four additional names.

Yack was not pleased with the short notice on the additions. He also saw justification for pink slipping 19 or 23 administrators without seeing a long-range plan to maintain services.

"I don't feel we should terminate 23 administrative positions," Yack says. "It's pretty difficult to pink slip administrators and not have a plan to back up those deficiencies or voids (in services)."

THE LIST OF notified administrators includes: James Burt, assistant principal; Cheryl Clason, assistant principal; Andrew Dale, assistant principal; Janice Hawkins, assistant principal; Judith Ireson, assistant

Firefighters get hot under collar over merger plan

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

The Canton firefighters' union is trying to toss cold water on the possible merging of police and fire duties.

The Township Board will hold a special meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday to review a recently-completed study on the feasibility of joining the police and fire departments into a "public safety" department, with shared duties.

Firefighters are meeting with homeowners' groups, have taken out newspaper ads are going door-to-door to rally support against consolidation.

"It isn't feasible," said Dave Hamilton, president of the firefighters' union. "We want to inform people. Our goal is 15,000 to 20,000 signatures on petitions."

THE PUBLIC safety study was done by Glenford S. Leonard, public safety director for the city of Oak Park, at a cost of $8,000.

Leonard, a consultant on public safety issues, was assisted by Robert F. Deadman, city manager of Farmington.

The study generated a 95-page report. Leonard contends consolidation increases the number of officers on the street performing public-safety duties, while reducing the number of officers standing by in stations.

what do you think?

The Canton Observer welcomes your thoughts on this article. To express your view, write a letter to the editor and send it to the Canton Observer, 461 S. Main, Plymouth 48170.

There are many public safety variations.

At one end of the scale is simply appointing a public safety director to oversee separate police and fire departments. Southfield has such a system.

Another would be to establish a joint dispatch system to deploy both police and fire runs. Currently, Canton has separate dispatching.

THE PLAN recommended in Leonard's study would be to train police and firefighters to perform both functions. Implementation would take place over several years.

The study maintains that the public safety concept results in employees who are better trained, more flexible and productive, and able to respond to different types of emergencies.

Oak Park has had a dual-trained public safety format for 27 years, and services also are consolidated in the city of Farmington. A plan is being developed in Kalamazoo.

The Canton Observer recently talked with Hamilton and Harry Harrison, secretary-treasurer of the Canton firefighters' union. The bargaining unit has 29 members.

"MY MAIN objection is I don't want to do both jobs," said Hamilton, who served eight months with the Bloomfield Hills police department in 1965.

"It takes a special kind of individual to do police work, and a different type to be a firefighter," he added.

Hamilton and Harrison contend consolidation would result in eventual layoffs or early retirements for firefighters. They believe the township will have to pay costly pay incentives to sell the public safety plan during negotiations with employees.

Canton family routed by blaze in chimney

A chimney fire caused $8,000 damage to a ranch-style house on Antietam Court early Monday.

Four occupants of the house escaped unhurt after discovering the fire shortly after 7 a.m., said Canton Fire Chief Mel Paulun. The location is north of Palmer and east of Sheldon.

ACCORDING TO a report, the residents had noticed smoke in the house around 5 a.m. Attributing the smoke to the fireplace, they opened doors and windows for a short period, then went back to bed.

The smoke detector failed to activate, even though the light showed it was working, said Paulun.

"The people are pretty lucky to be around," said Paulun. "They weren't aware (the fire) was burning in the chimney. There was heavy smoke damage throughout the house."

Paulen suggested that persons have their chimneys checked and cleaned.

They also should check their smoke detectors by briefly lighting, then extinguishing, a rope or wick from a kerosene lamp. The smouldering item should be held under the detector, to see if the device activates.

Poor turnout threatens food service

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Tina Orr, 88, enjoys walking to the Canton recreation center to eat a hot lunch.

Carl and Vivian Witzman often come for lunch because they can socialize with friends and take part in crafts and billiards.

But they're exceptions.

Canton senior citizens aren't exactly licking their chops over the meatloaf and baked chicken lunches served daily at the Michigan Avenue center.

Currently, only about 15 seniors per day are taking advantage of the program — far short of the 25 needed. Canton's nutrition site is in danger of closing when new attendance guidelines go into effect next October.

"I HAVE to have an average of 25 a day in order to stay open," said Madeline Carpenter, coordinator for the Canton site.

"The chances of Canton getting another (site) would be pretty slim if this one happens to close," she added.

Carpenter, 49, of Wayne, is working hard to increase participation in the lunch program. She talks to senior citizen clubs, puts up posters and urges all the seniors she can reach to come for the hot lunches.

The Out-Wayne County Services Inc., a nonprofit corporation, operates the Canton site and 46 others in the western and downriver suburbs. It is paid for jointly by the federal and state governments.

Food for the Canton site is cooked at J Building on Wayne County property in Westland and brought to the recreation center, where it is kept warm in steam trays.

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Madeline Carpenter (far right) serves a hot lunch to senior citizens each weekday at the Canton Recreation Center on Michigan Avenue at Sheldon.

PARTICIPANTS must be 60 years or older, or be married to a senior who also eats lunch at the site. There is no income requirement.

The suggestion donation is 75 cents per person, but payment may be less. No senior will be turned away if he or she cannot pay.

People don't have to come every day, Carpenter said. Consistency of participation will help build the figures.

She believes there are several possible reasons why Canton seniors aren't using the program more often.

For example, the winter has taken a "horrendous" toll, because seniors don't go out when weather is bad. She hopes more will begin coming in April.

LOCATION ALSO may be a factor. For example, the Royal Holiday Mobile Home Park, with its heavy concentration of senior citizens, is 7½ miles away on Warren Road near Hannan.

Student participation in the lunch program at the high schools have dropped off after price increases went into effect. Estimates of the decline in business range from 20 to 40 percent.

Price hike prompts boycott by students

By Gary Caskey
and Gary M. Cates

School lunches at Plymouth Salem High School were the focus of a student boycott last week.

The students are protesting the recent cost increase passed on by the food vendor.

"The food isn't really that good and the prices have gone up to $1.30," says Steve Wright, leader of the boycott.

The high school food service is provided by Interstate United Corp, a national food vendor which provides service to one other district in (East China) Michigan.

Interstate United raised the high school lunch prices by 15 cents while middle school prices went up 20 cents.

"The boycott is what we normally experience when we have a mid-year price increase. It brought participation down by 20 percent," says Jack Chandler, food service director.

However, actual cafeteria counts showed participation was down by 40 percent last week, compared to the week of March 8.

Wright will be approaching the school board in the near future with 1,200 student signatures asking the lunch prices be lowered.

"Other school districts are only paying $1.10 for their lunches. It doesn't seem fair we should have to pay more. We're paying 25 cents for a half pint of milk, that's $4 a gallon," says Wright.

The price hike was caused by a decrease in federal reimbursement for lunches and a simultaneous decrease in student participationm, Chandler says.

Prices were raised at the beginning of the year to cover the decrease in federal monies. However, that increase brought down student participation, forcing Interstate United to raise prices again to cover the slack.

"You know it's going to cost you something when you raise prices, but you have to live with the results," Chandler said. He anticipates the increase will stabilize prices for the remainder of the school year.

Wright and three other friends, Sandy Begin, Kelly Ireland and Scott Hurrelbrink, started the boycott by petitioning and putting up posters asking students not to buy meals from the cafeteria.

A similar boycott was reported to have started at Plymouth Canton High, but Chandler says its results weren't as good.

Salem Principal Bill Brown said the boycott was handled well and the students behaved orderly.

"The kids are caught up in what everybody in society is experiencing. . .rising prices. The milk issue seems to be a very sensitive one," he said.

Officials urge participation

Canton nutrition site endangered

"The main center of population is north of here," said Carpenter. "I'm not averse to moving the site, but I would probably lose some of the people who are now coming. I'd have to start over."

The site also is trying to overcome memories of less tasty meals served earlier in the program.

On a recent visit, the menu included tuna-noodle casserole, cooked carrots and Brussels sprouts, fresh blueberry muffins, milk and coffee.

Carpenter was able to stretch her casserole (normally reservations must be made the day before) to serve a few walk-ins. Nearby, several seniors ate sandwiches from home as they waited for the Pioneers senior citizen club meeting to start.

Mrs. Witzman, who eats a hot lunch, said the food is better. "It used to be horrible," she said. "People won't even try it."

Diners debated the casserole ("It's bland.") and the vegetables ("I prefer raw carrots.") The muffins were popular.

FUTURE CUTs in aid could affect the entire hot-lunch program, said Ellen McCollum, project director for the out-county program.

In addition, next October's guidelines will require new sites to serve at least 65 percent low-income seniors, based on census or demographic tracts. That guideline could rule out a new site for Canton.

HOT-LUNCH sites in Plymouth, Livonia and Westland are meeting or exceeding the 25-per-day quota, said McCollum. Canton, Romulus, Woodhaven and Lincoln Park are struggling.

Success depends on the size of a community's population, as well as availability of other programs to attracts seniors to the site, said McCollum. Transportation may be a factor.

"What we're trying to do is make people aware that come October, there will be this (quota) requirement," she said.

"Many times, people could be financially well-off, but be socially in need," she said.

The Canton recreation building is on Michigan Avenue at Sheldon. Lunches are served at noon Monday-Thursday, and at 11:30 a.m. Fridays.

Reservations should be made by 1 p.m. the day before. Call 397-1000, Ext. 278, for information.

Smile and say cheese

Almost 100 senior citizens have signed up in Canton for a free allotment of government-surplus American cheese.

Applications for the five-pound blocks of cheese are closed, said Madeline Carpenter, coordinator for the senior-citizen hot lunch site at the Canton recreation center.

No more orders will be taken. The cheese will be distributed on a designated day — one day only — in the middle or end of April, Carpenter said.

THE DISTRIBUTION date will be announced through the senior citizen clubs, Carpenter said. Unclaimed cheese will go to J Building on county property in Westland and be used in the hot-lunch program.

Only persons who previously turned in slips for the cheese will be allowed to claim the allotments.

The program is part of a nationwide giveaway of surplus cheese through human-service agencies. Many recipients are poor.

The Canton distribution was channeled through senior citizen activities and limited to seniors 60 or older. There was no low-income requirement. Applications were coordinated by Carpenter.

Gymnasts shine

By Gary Caskey
staff writer

An attentive and well-behaved crowd of approximately 1,300 people attended the Women's Gymnastics State Finals Friday and Saturday at Plymouth Canton High School.

This Michigan High School Athletic Association event brought together 88 women from 41 high schools across the state. They competed for team and all-around championships on Friday night. The top eight finishers from Friday's competition in each individual event competed for individual state championships on Saturday.

State champions were determined by the combined scores of Friday's and Saturdays performances.

John Cunningham, meet director and Plymouth Canton girls' gymnastics coach, explains the reason for the two-day meet.

"Friday night was like a four-ring circus with all four events going at the same time," says Cunningham. "Saturday finals allows a showcase of the best."

"If you want to have finals, you have to have a two-day meet," Cunningham adds. "Saturday was like a spotlight with only one event taking place at one time."

CUNNINGHAM WAS impressed with total group of women competing here for the state championshiops.

"This group is the best I have ever seen."

This was the first year in the 10 years of women's gymnastics state finals competition in which the meet was scheduled for two days. Two years ago, the MHSAA held a combined state finals for men and women. This year the women had the spotlight for themselves.

Jodi Thompson, an East Kentwood student, captured the all around, and all four individual championships in leading her team to the state championship.

Barb Moerdyke, the East Kentwood coach, praised Cunningham's role at the meet.

"The meet went very smooth and fast," Moerdyke said.

THE USE OF an Apple II computer helped facilitate the operation of the meet. Laurie Beale and Mark Sawyer, both Plymouth Canton students, set up a computer program that was used. Under the direction of Ron Carlson, Plymouth Canton computer teacher, these students provided readouts of individual meet scores. They also earned credit for this student project.

Cunningham termed the meet a success. He originally wanted a regional meet, but ended up with the state finals.

The women's gymnastic season now is over. The two-day state championships are finished.

Thompson — the state champion— may have summed it all up after walking off the mat with exhaustion for the last time this year. She clutched her warmups and exclaimed, "I'm done!"

An historic benchmark

Schools' taxbase hits $1 billion

A historic benchmark will be reached this year when the total tax base of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools exceeds the $1 billion mark.

Total state equalized valuation (SEV) for the district is expected to increase by 7.5 percent or by almost $73 million to $1,044,000,000.

Of the 7.5 percent increase in tax base, assessments in the city of Plymouth are increasing by 9.9 percent, in Plymouth Township by 9.5 percent, and in Canton by 4 percent.

Total SEV could be lowered, however, depending upon how much relief is given taxpayers this month appealing to boards of review in each community.

The projection that total SEV would exceed the $1 billion mark during fiscal year 1982-83 was reported by the school district in its allocation budget approved Monday night by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The budget is a first-draft document for the coming fiscal year and will be presented to the Wayne County Allocation Board as evidence of need for the 8.9 mills the county is expected to allocate to Plymouth-Canton Schools from its total levy.

The allocation budget also shows a projected continued decline in student enrollment of 1.5 percent or 253 fewer pupils. The administration expects, however, that decline to be even greater when the official headcount is registered this coming September.

The school board presently is planning on holding a public hearing on June 21 when a final budget will be presented.

PRESENT projections are that total local revenues will increase by about $2.3 million or 6.3 percent while total state revenues will decrease by about $1.4 million or 41.2 percent.

Of the local revenues, property taxes are expected to increase by about $2.8 million but interest earned on property tax collections are expected to decrease by about $530,000.

Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business, points out that local revenues now account for almost 93 percent of total operating income compared to about 89 percent for the current year and to 75 percent 10 years ago.

State aid is expected to drop from $115 per student in the current year to $79 per student for 1982-83.

When the increase in property tax revenue is offset by the loss in state income, the district's total funds will increase $763,000 or by 1.9 percent.

The allocation budget indicates expenses will increase by about $1.9 million or by 4.6 percent.

Hoedel cautions, however, that the expenditure side of the allocation budget will change.

For one thing, he explained, the allocation budget does not take into account a $300,000 savings expected to be realized by switching Miller, Isbister, Gallimore and Hulsing elementarys from year-round to a nine-month calendar.

The first draft budget also provides for no wage increases for employees and the board still has negotiations upcoming with eight labor unions. The budget does include increment increases for teachers who have not yet reached the top of the pay scale based on seniority.

Staffing and supplies are based on the number of students now in school, Hoedel adds, and those expenses will decrease as actual enrollment drops.

Hoedel says the district most likely will have to borrow almost $17 million in July to meet its cash flows needs until taxes are collected in December. The loan is expected to cost almost $1.3 million compared to the $530,000 earned on investments, for a net loss of interest earned vs. interest paid of about $760,000.

The budget is expected to reflect total income of $41.4 million of which $36.8 million is property taxes. Total state income will drop to $2 million.

MAJOR INCREASES in costs shown in the allocation budget include:

- Health insurance (Blue Cross), up 27 percent;
- Dental insurance, up 21.5 percent;
- Unemployment compensation, up 13 percent;
- Total utilities, up 33 percent with the greater hikes being in electricity and gas/oil.

Hoedel pointed out that the district lost $64,350 in state income alast year in executive order cutbacks, lost almost $144,000 so far this year and expects to lose another $355,000 in another executive order cutback during the '82-83 budget year.

The school district's operating budget since 1960-61 has increased from $2 million to $41 million. While property tax income has increased from $1.5 million to $38.5 million in the same period, state funds has grown by $800,000 to only $2 million. The high point of state funding was 1980-81 when the district received $6 million.

The first-draft budget shows a defict of some $2.2 million. The school board now has lists of possible cuts which range from $1.5 million on the low side up to $5.3 million depending on final enrollment counts, total state aid, contract negotiations, and other factors unknown at this point.

Public safety plan

"If the people of Canton Township believe they are going to save money, they are sadly mistaken," added Harrison. "The bottom line of the whole thing is union-busting. They don't like fire unions."

CONSOLIDATION WON'T work in a large community such as Canton, add Hamilton and Harrison. They expressed fears about double-duty officers being able to respond quickly to fires, and about training needs.

"The fire end is the one that will suffer," said Harrison. "Our shifts are set up like teams. Everybody knows his function.

"You have to be ready to extinguish a fire immediately," he added.

MEANWHILE, THE 28-member police patrol officers' union is adopting a wait-and-see stance on the proposed consolidation.

"We don't know how they (township officials) want to go about it," said John MacDiarmid, president of the police union.

"There are so many different areas," he added. "I think we're going to have to wait until the township decides how it's going to be. Naturally, (the firefighters' union) would like us to join in, but at this point, it isn't feasible."

Aid cuts mar special learning project

By Dennis O'Connor
staff writer

Reductions in federal funding could severely hamper the alternative education program in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Ned Cooper and Sally Wisotzkey, alternative program specialists, presented the board of education with reduction alternatives Monday in case the program does not receive federal funding for the second half of the 1982-83 school year.

Plymouth-Canton schools have applied for an $80,000 federal grant to subsidize the program for students who are unable to fit into the mainstream of a normal education setting.

Although both specialists remain optimistic, it is likely recent federal financing practices will reduce aid to the program.

The project is funded through the first semester of the 1982-83 school year. School officals will find out how much federal funding the district will receive — if any — by May or early June.

CURRENTLY, the alternative education program includes 10 instructors/counselors for students at both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools, East and Central middle schools and at the Learning Options Center on Main Street in the city of Plymouth.

The program has been attended by 226 students this year, according to Wisotzsky and Cooper. There have been 454 referrals since this fall, but many requests have been denied because of limited instruction — something which has frustrated both specialists.

"That's something that was really distasteful to us, but that's what we had to do," Cooper says.

Both coordinators believe so strongly in this alternative education program that their recommended budget cut (if the schools don't receive federal funding) is to eliminate one coordinator — Wisotzsky. The cutting of a coordinator will save instructors.

If the schools don't receive the funding, Wisotzsky explained, there is no need for additional administration for the program. Most administrative work is required by the federal government in the form of individual evaluations for each student as part of the grant funding.

THE PROGRAM will cost the school district $140,652 to continue through the entire 1982-83 school year, according to Dan White, executive director of finance for the schools. It will only cost $60,652 if the schools receive the federal aid.

The most severe reduction of services would cost the district $72,880 without aid, White says. The program then would be run only by 4½ staff members — with no middle school or Salem High School services. Canton High and the Options Center would continue their programs.

Alternative education is a year-round program, which includes summer services at the Learning Options Center. The summer activities cost $24,000, but both specialists believe this is an integral part of the program.

"To stop involvement for these three moths can have a real negative effect," Wisotzsky says.

The need for "continual follow-up" of some students is important, Cooper adds.

"It keeps the momentum going to get them on a good foot going into the school year," Cooper says.

Trustee Tom Yack questions the summer service, saying the schools are inconsistent in this area because many special education programs do not receive the same summer services.

Drive to aid flood victims

A flood relief drive has been organized in Canton and Plymouth to benefit residents of the Monroe area.

The Plymouth-Canton-Northville Girl Scout Association initiated the drive.

Food, clothing, blankets, towels and money to purchase food are being collected.

The drive is being organized by Barbara Weir of Canton Township, leader of a Junior Girl Scout troop at Gallire Elementary. People with questions may call her at 453-1459.

Food is the most pressing need for the flood victims, says Weir. The American Red Cross presently is feeding about 1,000 victims three meals a day.

McClendon tosses in hat

11 now in race for school board

There are now 11 residents who are potential candidates for two seats on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The 11 have taken out nominating petitions for the two four-year seats to be filled in the June 14 annual election.

The seats now are held by board President Carol Davis of Plymouth, who has announced she will not seek re-election, and by Vice President Elaine Kirchgatter of Canton, who remains undecided.

Two residents have returned nominating petitions to the central administration building and are now officially certified as candidates. They are Ernest G. Rumsby of 44551 Savery, Canton, and Janis S. Draper of 46744 Maidstone, Canton.

The most recent people to take out nominating petitions are Lynne S. Hoehn of 13200 Haverhill, Plymouth, Rodney J. Hosman of 46164 Barrington, Plymouth, and Dr. E.J. McClendon of 40742 Crabtree, Plymouth Township.

McClendon is a former school board trustee who once served as board president.

Others who have taken out nominating petitions include Marilyn Rickard of 41927 Hystone, Canton; David P. Artley of 8350 Honeytree Blvd., Canton; Martin J. Mayotte of 2215 Marlowe, Canton; Roland J. Thomas Jr. of 11985 Leighwood, Plymouth; Robert L. Goud of 148 River Oaks Drive, Plymouth; and Arthur J. Leib of 44980 Leslie, Canton.

Draper is the only candidate to date to have a perfect record of voting in all school elections held since registering to vote. She registered March 23, 1977.

Potential candidates who have voted in school elections 50 percent of the time or more include Rickard, 75 percent; Thomas, 88 percent; Hoehn and Hosman, 66 percent.

Artley, Goud and Leib have never voted in a school election and Mayotte has not had the opportunity as one has not been held since he registered Nov. 2, 1981. Rumsby has a 33 percent school voting record.

The deadline to return nominating petitions is 4 p.m. April 12. Deadline to withdraw as a candidate is 4 p.m. April 15.

Nominating petitions are available at the central administration office, 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth. People with questions may call 453-0200, Ext. 422, during working hours.

Road board pact issue still simmers

A controversial contract between the Wayne County Road Commission and 74 management employees continues to simmer.

Within the last week:

- A minority of the Wayne County Charter Commission demanded a special meeting to rescind a decision to file suit against the road commission. The meeting fell apart when only seven persons showed up — too few to conduct business.
- County Commissioner George Killeen of northeast Detroit worked to get out of a committee a resolution which would make the Board of Commissioners a party to the Charter Commission's suit.
- Arguments in the Charter Commission's suit were scheduled to be heard March 25 by Circuit Judge David Vokes. Vokes had earlier dismissed a suit by individual charter commissioners, Killeen and a state senator on the ground they lacked legal standing to challenge the contracts. But his opinion practically invited either the Charter Commission or Board of Commissioners to pursue the case as a group.
- County Commissioner Richard Manning, D-Redford, suggested the board ask the Road Commission to reopen negotiations in the contract.

THE CONTRACT stirred a political storm when members of the Road Commission managers' union admitted they were seeking to insulate their jobs from possible reorganization under the new county charter scheduled to take effect in 1983.

But Manning, a 13-year veteran of the county board, said commissioners shouldn't be stampeded into hasty court action challenging the contract.

"The Michigan Supreme Court, several years ago, made it quite clear that county road commissions are independent employers and are not required to negotiate labor contracts through the county board of commissioners," said Manning, an attorney, in a letter to the board's general government committee.

"It's quite possible that the contract negotiated by the Road Commission with the Association of Supervisors does not fall within the guidelines of government labor contracts.

"BEFORE WE consider a court test of the labor agreement, we (should) have a full understanding of any real issues involved.

"In addition, we must recognize the fact that road commission activities are governed by state legislative enactments, and local authority is almost nil. Perhaps a thorough analysis will lend direction to legislative changes which can only be accomplished at the state level."

Manning accused "prospective politicians, both in office and sitting on the sidelines," of raising a hub-bub through the media.

The contract would last six years — well into the second term of any county executive elected this year. The charter doesn't give the executive direct control over the Road Commission. But it does allow the executive to appoint and remove the three members of the Road Commission at will, thus placing the agency indirectly under his control.

Band to open its new season

The Plymouth Community Band, as a warmup for its summer season, will be presenting a concert Saturday, April 3, in the Plymouth Canton High School Little Theatre.

The band, directed by Carl Battishill, will begin its performance at 7:30 p.m.

The April 3 concert is free and open to the public.

The Plymouth Community Band is made up of persons of all ages and occupations who share an interest in music.

Rehearsals are held on Wednesdays 7:30-9:30 p.m. in the Phase III Band Room at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

The band can be heard regularly during the summer on Thursday evenings at the bandshell in Kellogg Park, at the Fall Festival, and at the Fourth of July Parade.

Included on the program of the April 3 concert will be a variety of compositions including Broadway numbers, orchestral transcriptions, original band pieces, and traditional marches.

Among the selections will be "American Salute" by Morton Gould and the final movement of the Symphony No. 3 for band by Vittorio Giannini.

The band also will perform two transcriptions of compositions originally written for orchestra: the "Overture to Euryanthe" by Carl Maria von Weber, transcribed by V.F. Safranek, and "Variations on a Theme by Hayden" by Johannes Brahms, transcribed by L.W. Chideste.

Broadway music fans will be offered a medley of show tunes from John Krance's "Broadway Curtain Time."

No discipline concerns parent

To the editor:

Where have we failed?

As a concerned parent, I can not help but look around and see how our kids are ruling society. It really disturbs me. No matter where I go I see some of our kids acting like juveniles.

If I go to Westland, I see kids, ages 12 to 18 running around the malls smoking and swearing and acting like hotshots. I guess parents want to get rid of them for a day so they drop them off at the malls to get them out of their hair.

If I go to Meijer's,I see them at the arcades using language that I can not believe. When I go to the schools for something, I see and hear them in the halls, dressed in their designer jeans calling teachers names that would have gotten me expelled as a youngster.

I hear them say things like, "I wish that son of a so-and-so teacher would hit me, my parents would sue them good."

I shudder to think of these outspoken freedom-of-speechers we have created. You say, "where is the discipline in the schools?" We conveniently took it away. For the benefit of our kids, of course. Then we sit back and blame the school system for their lack of authority.

Heaven forbid if a teacher should smack our kids with a ruler like they used to do when we were in school. It's the rotten system, we scream, when our kids turn out anything but perfect. Is it the system or is it us?

We give so much to our kids to make life better for them — better than what we had. What a laugh. Here is what we created. Spoiled kids who are raised with our guilts. Guilts caused by both parents having to work. I realize the economy has not helped this influx of the two parents working in a family, but our values are all screwed up.

We give to them material things instead of our time and our love. We give to them the right to express themselves because society says they must be heard. We give them the right to roam the malls and streets because they will love us more for giving them the opportunity to grow. Baloney.

What we do is make excuses for them by telling ourselves they're going through a stage and that they will grow out of it — "Just give them time. After all, I went through the same thing and look how great I turned out."

The point is how many stages can this sweet kid go through before we help them and control the problems.

As a strict mother of a teenager going into high school next year, it frightens me to think that all my discipline will go down the tubes because of peer pressure. Some of you two-income families can escape the pressures of the system by putting your kids in a $2,000-a-year private, well-disciplined school. But for those of us who cannot afford it, we are stuck with these unruly public schools, which we helped create, and have no control over.

I realize the academic structcure is causing a lot of controversy in our communinty today — that's a whole other topic — but the behavior these kids are getting away with is our problem — the parents.

I cannot imagine security guards at a high school, as all we had in school were hall guards our same age and, boy, were we scared to death to even talk in the halls, let alone smoke pot or use profanity.

Where will all this end? I think we as parents ought to take a good long look at ourselves and stop being pals with our kids and learn to be parents again. It's a matter of saying, over and over, if need be, "I'm the parent, you're the kid." Let's put things back in their proper authority.

Believe me, our kids still will love us for it. They will remember the love we shared a lot longer than they will remember all the material possessions we give them so lavishly.

Remember last Christmas, all the games, toys and money shelled out just to win them over — I mean to make them happy?

Ask them to make a list of those wonderful gifts we went into debt for. I bet you they won't even remember half of them.

Then ask yourself who owns who? Come on, parents, throw away your guilts and start being the kind of concerned parent every kid longs for. Don't be afraid to ask them where they are going and what time you expect them home. Don't let it worry you when they say "Gee mom, Johnny's mother never asks him, don't you trust me?"

Heaven forbid if we show our kids a little distrust. Let's take some responsibility for our kids instead of letting the teachers, salespersons and even our neighbors that we palm them off on, raise them for us. Everyone else is doing our job. Don't blame society for the way they turn out — blame yourselves — you had them.

Most of us were lucky enough to be blessed with children and what we do with them is entirely up to us. Pampering, spoiling and creating verbal animals is not what it's all about.

I actually know parents who hide their kids from the law. Their kids are constantly breaking the law for something and they run home before they're caught and mom and dad lie for them and say to the police that they were home all night with them.

Who are they protecting their kids or themselves? These are the same kids who are going to school with our kids. Is this what you want?

Maybe some of you don't care but I've talked to a lot of parents who do care. I would love to form a "Parents Who Care" group. We could sit down and talk out strategies on how to discipline our kids without feeling guilty. It just a might work if we, the parents, stick together.

We could have a 24-hour hotline to call when we feel we are losing control. I'm sure there are enough of us around who would be happy to listen and help guide you. The only qualifications you need is to LOVE that kid of yours and listen to them and not to be afraid to punish them if need be.

Seems reasonable to me. Let's give the kids back their respect for themselves and by doing so, they will respect you better and society in general.

Remember there has never been a substitute for love and faith.

League offers budget priorities

To the editor:

The League of Women Voters is a national, nonpartisan organization whose purpose is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation in government.

Recognizing that the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education is responsible for final budget decisions, the League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi welcomes this opportunity to offer suggestions in the making of necessary budgetary cuts to provide for a balanced 1982-83 school budget.

For the past several months, we have been engaged in a study of the financing of our local school district. In our studies we have looked at projected revenue shortfalls and anticipated budget cuts. We have examined each proposal from the point of view of its probable impact on the education offered students in the district. We have further considered the district's needs, the economic condition of the community as a whole and of its residents, and the present management of school district funds, facilities and resources.

We support the implementation of twice-a-year property-tax collections, which would, of course, save the district the expenditure of funds for interest on tax-anticipation notes.

We agree with the elimination of the extended school year program at the four elementary schools which the board has already confirmed for the 1982-83 school year.

Throughout our study, our primary consideration has been, and continues to be, the prevention of any additional increase in average class size.

We realize reducing planned expenditures to meet projected revenues is a difficult and, often, painful task. There are several proposals which we considered and set aside as potentially having too injurious an effect on the education offered our students. Among the many possible budget cuts we have examined, we urge the board's consideration of the following recommendations:

- Negotiate a contract with each of the employee groups, that, in each case, when implemented, will be affordable to the district in the present economic climate. The negotiation of salary and/or benefit concessions, as well as other possible contract concessions, must be considered for all employee groups. Every effort should be made to reach an early agreement with each employee group.

In addition, there must be compensation concessions by those members of central administration who are not covered by an employee group agreement, with the goal of equality of concessions by all employees of the district.

- Implement cuts in present central administration and board office clerical and other support services.
- Institute and maintain a self-supporting school-lunch program.
- Reduce allocations for athletics.
- Shorten the lunch hour at the elementary- and middle-school levels to reduce the amount of lunch-hour supervision required.
- Reduce monies allocated to after-school activities.
- Reduce the allocation to TAG (the talented and gifted program).
- Reduce the budget in the areas of physical education, art and music instruction.
- Shorten the school day at the middle-school level.

We offer these cost-cutting recommendations as suggested ways to bring the projected budget in line with anticipated revenues. These, admittedly painful, proposed reductions of allocations to some budget items need not automatically lead to reductions of programs if alternative methods of funding can be found. We urge wide participation by all concerned groups in the seeking and implementing of alternative financing for affected programs.

Schools could be efficient

To the editor:

Thank you for the opportunity to express taxpayers' concerns about the school/budget situation in Pymouth-Canton.

I sincerely hope the effort will produce benefits and be accepted as such an endeavor by the school administration.

While I did not participate in the survey, I certainly could relate to all the frustrations and unrest printed in your Feb. 18 edition.

I have never been able to understand why education plans and programs are not developed in a more objective, businesslike manner.

Goals, objectives and direction could be established by comparing Plymouth-Canton Community Schools to those school districts nationwide which achieve high results in learning and operate on an efficient basis.

Tracking progress to these goals and objectives would provide performance measurements for our administrators and at the same time highlight and influence decisions as to what areas require attention whether there is a shortage of funds or not.

It also would seem that there are sufficient leading indicators in both business and government which will quite clearly and accurately provide long-term direction as to available funds for education and potential funding problems. Why are budget matters always surprises and short lead-time problems to our administrators?

Unfortunately, the required information to operation in the above-described mode is "not available" or "needs interpretation," and our administrators and board members lead us to believe we have to operate in this react mode with all the accompanying finger-pointing, pseudo-participation, excuse-creation and blame-sharing.

The financial analysis or student progress information the Plymouth-Canton taxpayer is given is an insult to one's intelligence.

Could it be the job has outgrown our education-trained administrators and popularity-appointed board members and requires some professional management?

Thomas P. Kelliher

Please support public television

To the editor:

Do you watch public television (Channel 56 in this area)? Do you enjoy programs like "Jacques Cousteau," "Nova," "Masterpiece Theatre," "Great Performances," "Sneak Previews," just to mention a few?

Do your children watch "Sesame Street," "Mister Rogers" or "3-2-1 Contact"?

Do you realize that by 1985 some of your favorite public television programs may be off the air or that some public television stations will be closed?

Why? Because the Reagan administration is asking Congress to cut federal funding for public broadcasting by 50 percent by 1985.

Thirty-five million dollars have already been cut for the coming year. The new proposed cut is $52 million on top of the $35 million.

Are you going to put up with this? Are you going to miss out on some valuable education and interesting programs? Come on people — let's do something.

If we all write to Congressman Carl Pursell, 1414 LHOB, Washington, D.C. 20515 and to Sen. Donald Riegle, 1207 DSOB, Washington, D.C. 20510, to let them know how we feel, we may just save public television.

All it's going to cost us is 40 cents in postage and a few minutes. It's well worth the time and money.

Congress has to know how we feel and now during the month of March. They need our influence.

Consolidation bothers resident

To the editor:

With the size of Canton Township, I can't see consolidation of fire and police departments.

My house insurance has just dropped $70 a year. My insurance agent said it was due to improved fire code and response times of Canton Fire Department.

If consolidation goes into effect, I can see getting an insurance increase.

If state Attorney General Frank J. Kelly doesn't like, I don't either. He's one man that seems to be looking out for the people of Michigan.

There is a public hearing at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 31, at Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center.

I would recommend being there if you don't need an insurance increase at this time.

School decisions must be based on realities

INSTITUTIONS — especially goernment — slowly react to change.

We should not be suprised that school districts in general have been slow to adjusting to a change which has existed before their very eyes for at least a decade.

For many years, the two-parent working family has existed in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. The family in which both parents work is as common as the two-car family.

Likewise, for many years, there has been a marked increase in one-parent families in which the single parent works full-time.

In both cases, homes are empty during school hours when children are in school.

And in both cases, the change no longer is a "trend" but an established fact in society which will remain with us for some time to come.

Yet the school system has been slow in reacting to that reality.

Only a year ago did the schools realize that it would be easier to communicate with parents by calling them at work instead of relying on mailed notices.

Only recently did the district change its policy on closing schools mid-day because of bad weather. Now high school and middle school students are released before the buses come to pick up elementary pupils so older siblings are home first.

In issues dealing with busing, such as safety busing, it hasn't been clear whether the administration and school board fully appreciate the juggling parents have to go through to get kids on the bus or to school on time and still be on time for work.

In the past, educators have commented that "It's our job to educate kids, not to be babysitters." A comment like that begs the question.

Obviously, schools educate, but just as obviously they cannot educate children who aren't there. If the system becomes so inflexible that a parent has to quit work to keep a child in school, that family will soon move out of the district. Given the economics of the times, declining enrollment and declining financial support will result very quickly from such inflexible attitudes.

For their own good, the administration and school board need to be sensitive to the world out there as it really is. And the reality is that the majority of homes in Canton and Plymouth consist of single parents or two-parent working family units. Regardless of how a person feels about that change, the change is permanent and must be recognized when considering changes in the hours in which students are in class.

Such sensitivity is needed as the board looks at its present list of budget cuts and priorities for the coming fiscal year. One proposed cut is to shorten the school day; another is to increase class sizes.

Shortening the school day likely would be a major disruption on family life and work schedules throughout the community. Increasing class size would not disrupt families in the same way.

In our recent survey on budget cuts, our readers ranked higher class sizes as a preferred way of cutting expenses compared to shortening the school day. We believe the major reason is that no parent would be home either to send the student to school or be there when the child arrived home.

The Observer is not, at this time, arguing in favor of increasing class size. But we are strongly suggesting that shortening the school day should be a low priority as the board seeks ways of reducing its operating deficit.

Friction results when reality is ignored. Empty households in the middle of the day are a reality which must be recognized in the decision-making process of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Now's the time to caution children about strangers

THE SNOW is almost gone, the air warmer, and daylight is extending into the early evening hours. Children play outside more, and we could witness an increase in attacks on children by perverted adults.

The chance of that happening can be minimized, however, if parents spend a few minutes with their sons and daughters giving some simple words of advice.

"Don't go with strangers" is simple enough, but we ought to give them a little more guidance than this over-used slogan.

Children need to be warned that people who would harm them often impersonate others to gain their trust.

They need to be told not to talk with strangers, even if that stranger is a police officer, rabbi or priest, newspaper reporter or photographer.

During the past couple of years some adults have impersonated reporters and/or photographers to gain a child's trust. Your child needs to be warned about that possibility.

Your child needs to know that reporters/photographers never offer money, candy, or other favors in return for an interview or pose. Almost always, a journalist will not interview a young child unless an adult is present. And the photographing and/or interviewing always is in a public location — in plain view.

Your child should be advised against granting an interview or agreeing to be photographed unless it is done in a public location with another adult nearby. We prefer it that way too — that's how professionals conduct business with young children.

The same kinds of advice should be given concerning ministers, police officers, teachers, and other professionals whom children have a right to trust.

Not all of these professionals deal with very young children in private locations, alone. Your child needs to be told that and be leery if such unprofessional advances are made.

Ministers, police officers, teachers, social workers, etc. also do not give money, candy, presents or favors to children to lure them out of the public eye for what might seem a legitimate purpose.

The best advice to give is: Any legitimate business involving children can be, and should be, conducted in public with another adult nearby.

Your child should be advised not to meet an adult alone in private unless you, as a parent, give permission.

This advice should be given in a calm, quiet tone of voice so you do not unnecessarily cause alarm and make your child suspicious of all adults everywhere.

A child needs to learn to trust and respect adults. We should not destroy that part of a child's humanity and innocence which generates love, trust and respect.

But we do need to channel those childhood qualities and make sure they do not lead to our children becoming victims.

Panic can result in over-reaction which can destroy that which is good in a child. We want our children to remain sensitive and loving. But quiet reasoning can get the same message across without stifling the good that lies within each child.

Each year we also caution our children about running across the street without looking both ways for cars. A talk about the harm strangers can do should be given in the same vein.

Firefighters' aren't culprits

To the editor:

This is a response to the Observer article "Poole tackles financial issues."

This article sways a feeling that Canton Fire Department is the culprit in causing a tremendous expenditure in overtime for Canton Township.

Is this a ploy to start a negative feeling toward Canton fire so that this will help institute the police/fire consolidation?

This article states how concerned Canton Township is over the overtime issue, it even puts the blame on Michigan state laws which protect firefighters from the personal views of some administrators who feel that they can make firefighters work unlimited hours without any type of reimbursement or benefit.

The article also forgets to metion that Mike Gorman (Canton finance director), who is now very concerned, was involved in in all the negotiations made before the present administration came into office. Apparently he has changed his values since the administration change?

This article also neglects to state that the reason for the overtime in the fire department is due to the vacancies that the township has not filled for more than a year. The township has agreed with the union that for the residents' safety there should be nine firefighters on duty every day.

In fact, Canton firefighters agreed this past year to give up wages in order to keep the wording in the contract which keeps the safety language in force. Perhaps a simple remedy for the overtime would be to fill the firefighter vacancies.

Concerning the sick-day bank, the article fails to mention that the fire department employees lose 50 percent of the sick days when they quit or retire. In fact, adjoining communities receive better coverage than do Canton Township employees.

Last, but very important to us, is our pension plan which does permit an employee to receive all money that is in his account if you terminate after you have 20 months of employment with Canton Township. This system has been enforced since Day One of the pension plan.

I hope that the township acts quickly to settle this problem because the board members that were elected in November 1980 now have 17 months' service with the Township and are quickly approaching their 20-month vesting period. Perhaps the timing might be a little late to stop their vesting privileges?

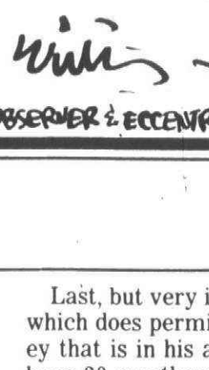
The old, old school days were tough on teachers



the stroller

W.W. Edgar

While reading about the financial bind school districts find themselves in, The Stroller found his curiosity aroused to do some research.

How were things handled in the past? The answers were both surprising and shocking.

Would you believe there was a time in this country when girls were not permitted to attend school?

Would you believe the teachers had to make quills for students to use as pens, and their ability as teachers was decided by their workmanship?

Would you believe part of the teacher's duties was to ring the church bell on Sunday mornings and to provide water for baptisms?

And more surprising than those, the teacher was paid with wheat and corn.

ALL THESE things The Stroller found in a volume called "Yesterday's School Days," sponsored by Michigan State University in 1967.

Here briefly is the lineup of duties for teachers in the early days:

Hours from 8-11 a.m. and 1-4 p.m.
Opening and closing of school with prayer.
Accepting pay in wheat and corn.
On Wednesday and Saturday, teaching questions and answers to catechism and prayer.
Ringing the church bell on Sunday.
Reading the Bible in church service.
Leading the singing in church.
Sometimes reading the sermon.
Providing water for baptisms.
Providng bread and wine for communion.
Sweeping out the church.
Carrying messages.
Digging graves.
Visiting and comforting the sick.

How do you suppose teachers of today would react to duties such as those?

IN THOSE DAYS, education was linked with religion. It wasn't until colonial days that the Puritans made changes that set the example for today.

They divided their area into districts and allowed the schoolmaster to divide his time between them. Then in 1789, the district schools were legalized.

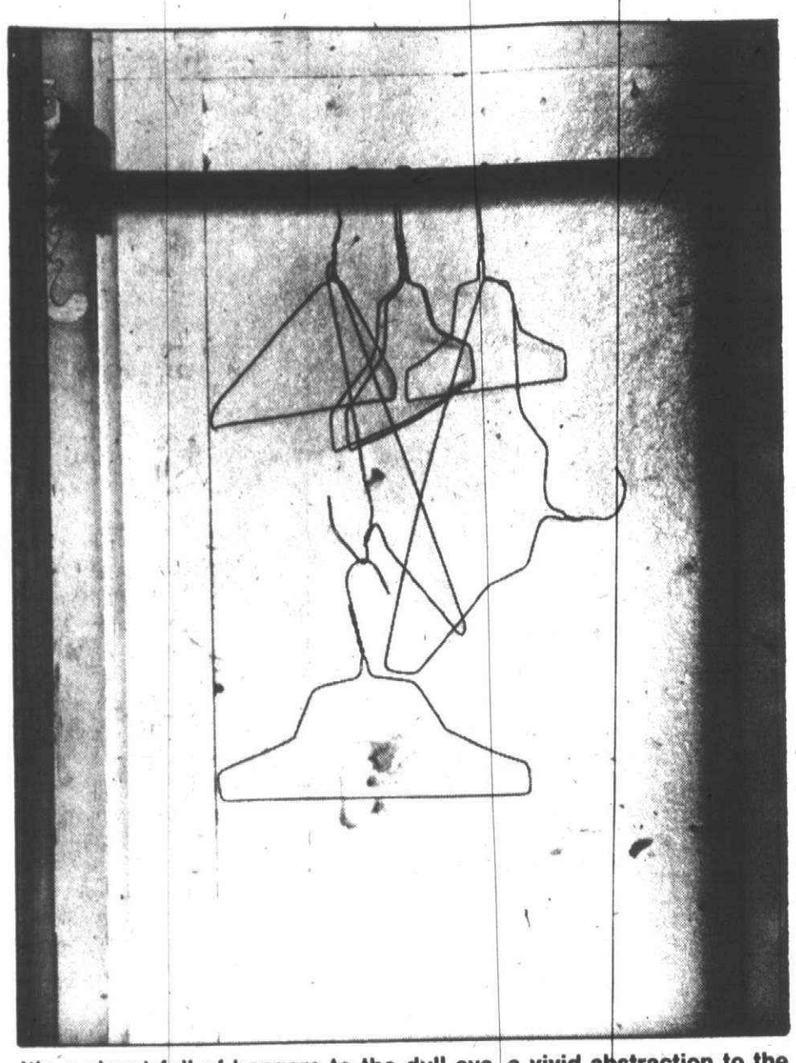
With this system came the school tax, so that each district could run on its own. So if you don't like your school tax bill today, you can blame the Puritans for starting it.

The Quakers and the Dutch in Pennsylvania accepted girls as equals to boys, a practice which still stands.

Between 1830 and 1860, the public school system was beginning to form in thought and practice. And the force of labor began to demand that children of the rich and poor be admitted to equal education.

These were the simple facts of the old days. Then, year by year, the system was enlarged and studies were multiplied to the point where school taxes bring about discontent, and the system depends on aid from the state.

O&E



It's a closet full of hangers to the dull eye, a vivid abstraction to the practiced eye. Monte Nagler found this still-life in an abandoned house and captured it in the longest time exposure of his career: 48 minutes at f/128.

Practice photo skills and 'seeing'

Monte Nagler

Photographers, like all creative artists and athletes, require practice.

A concert violinist works daily on bowing and fingering. A gymnast practices his routines constantly to improve his performance.

Photographers need their own kind of practice.

FIRST, photographers need to practice the technical skills necessary to taking good pictures.

You need to know your camera thoroughly. Basic controls — focusing, setting the aperture and shutter speed, and releasing the shutter — must all become second nature to you.

Knowing what each lens will do for you is important, too. Many shots which require spontaneity may be lost if you have to deliberate more than a fraction of a second over the controls of your camera.

SECOND, it's very important to practice seeing picture possibilities.

A creative photographer sees picture potential in ordinary situations that others might miss. The creative photographer looks for the unusual, notices small details, responds to color arrangement, sees shadows and textures.

He/she must have a ready attitude and a willingness to respond to the subject. A creative photographer practices to communicate with the subject, to build a relationship.

You must learn to let your subject speak to you — and, more importantly, you must learn to listen. You must practice being open and receptive to the world around you.

As Minor White, a famous photographer, once said: "The creative photographer must have a receptive state of mind — not unlike a sheet of film itself — seemingly inert, yet so sensitive that a fraction of a second's exposure conceives a life in it."

PRACTICE LOOKING at things in new ways.

Walk around your subject, studying it from all angles. Try different camera positions, lighting conditions or lens selection. Look at your subject with an inner vision, allowing your personal experience to become involved in your photograph. Let your photographs speak about you, and for you.

Finally, to stay in practice, be sure to use your camera often.

A tennis player, for example, will develop skill and expertise only by spending hour after hour on the court. Similarly, in photography, you must take your camera in hand and spend hours practicing on the "court of life," the world around us.

DON'T EXPECT every shot to be a masterpiece. Often, only two or three shots per roll will be satisfactory to you.

But this is all right. The important thing is to practice.

By allowing yourself to be moved by the subjects that excite you, you will open new horizons.

THE OVER-40 Basketball League ended its season this week with a party in the Box Bar. Everyone who played in the half-court league received a trophy. As they explained it, "Everyone was a winner for surviving the season."

Approximately 50 members of the league and invited guests attended the banquet. Their selected menu was simple, but hearty — burgers, beans and beer.

John Van wagoner was master of ceremonies of the fun, not to be confused with social, event. Guest speaker was Doug Weaver, director of athletics at the University of Michigan.

THE PLYMOUTH Community Arts Council is planning its spring party for late afternoon and evening of Saturday, June 5. This lovely late spring affair could be termed a social event. (And many of the over-40 basketball players will be there.)

Cocktail parties are hosted in several homes in the community as a PCAC benefit.

Janet Campbell and Nancy Sharp are co-chairing the benefit and Dee Crawford and Marg Ackerman are planning the food. Janet hosted a tasting party Friday night with a panel of interested judges as guests. They were given a preview of an assortment of hors d'oeuvres and canapes proposed for the party. The guests also were asked to sample and critique the punch. As it turned out, the men agreed that the non-alcoholic punch was too sweet.

Once the decisions are made, the same hot and cold hors d'oeuvres and alcoholic and non-alcoholic punches are served at each party.

Those who attended the tasting session were Jan and Jim Carney, Phyllis and Joe Kordick, Cindy and John Merrifield, Elaine and Dick Kirchgatter, and Nancy and Pat Sharp.

THE CAKE Designers Club will have its annual Easter candy sale this weekend and next in Forest Place Mall. Members of the club will have their handmade candies, molded chocolates, panoramic eggs, Easter cookies and other varieties of candy from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. all four days.

CHERYL COLLINS, business major at Eastern Michigan University, is a member of the chorus in EMU's production of "Kiss Me Kate." The musical comedy that combines the talents of Cole Porter and William Shakespeare opens tomorrow night in Quirk Auditorium. It will run through Sunday, April 4. Curtain time will be 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday. Call 487-1221 for information.

Cheryl is the daughter of Mrs. Rosemary Collins of Plymouth.

STUART ROTH, a 1978 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, has been accepted at the American Graduate School of International Management in Glendale, Ariz. He will receive his bachelor of business administration degree in economics April 24 at Western Michigan University.

Stuart is a member of Phi Theta Kappa national honor fraternity, Omicron Iota Chapter. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Roth of Palmer Street, Plymouth.

JACK BOLOGNA of Plymouth will autograph copies of his latest book, "Computer Crime: Wave of the Future," at Plymouth Book World in Forest Place Mall, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday.

Jack will be at the Little Professor Book Store on Sheldon Road from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, March 28, autographing his book.

This is the same Jack Bolgna who was a columnist for this newspaper and who figured out how the Wells Fargo Bank scam was pulled off. Later, when his article on the subject was published, the president of the bank admitted Jack had solved the computer crime.

THE WOMEN'S Club at St. Thomas a Becket Catholic Church in Canton is having Easter chocolate candy sales after all masses March 27 and 28, and April 3 and 4. They also will be giving away an Easter basket.

The club has its own cookbook for $4 a copy. Persons interested in buying the cookbook can call Kathy Christesen, 981-1209.

Reproduction of de la Tour's Girl Holding a Candle, framed and ready to hang, will have a sale tag for the birthday party.

Gallery sale marks 7th anniversary

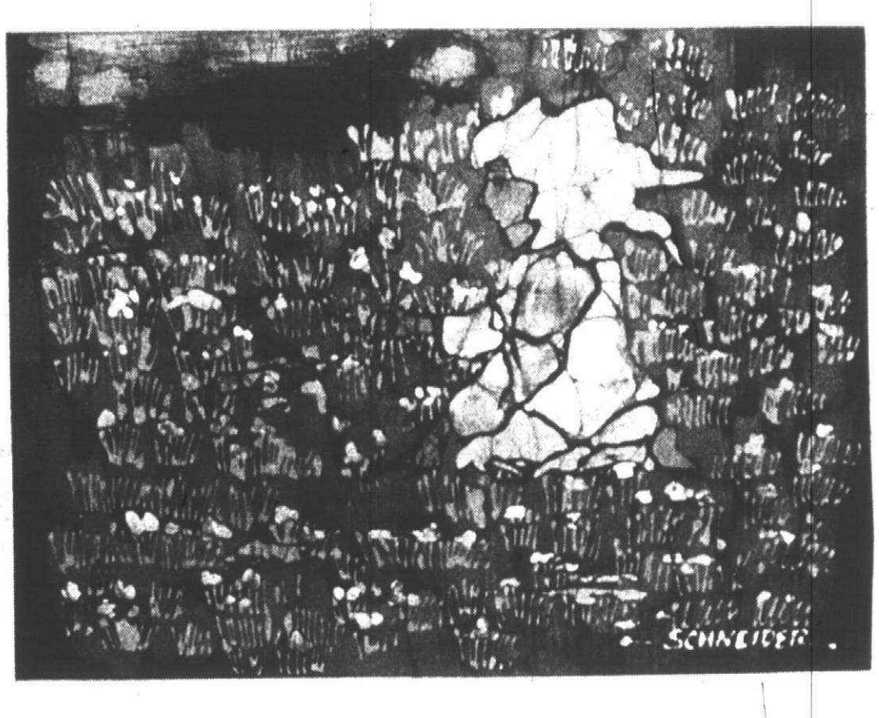
Sales tags have been placed on almost 100 works of art in preparation for the seventh annual birthday celebration at the arts councils' art rental gallery.

Birthday cake and punch will be served to all who attend the party on the second floor of the Dunning Hough Library, Main Street, next to Plymouth City Hall.

Sale hours will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday, March 31. Everything except 1981 purchases and the permanent collection will be priced for sale that day only.

Therese Gall, who is the event's chairwoman, said prices begin at $15 with about half the the works in the under-$50 range. Both originals and reproductions will be offered for sale, framed and ready to hang.

Two free monthly rentals will be given as prizes during the daylong party.



Picking Flowers, a batik by Terri D. Schneider, will be offered for sale.

Practical jokers, party in spotlight

Canton Chatter

By KATHY FREECE 981-2027

The Addison Avenue Irregulars struck again!

Nancy Luik traveled to Tennessee with her daughter Katie and left her husband, Dave, home to protect their domain from intruders. No such luck for this jolly couple because it was their turn to be paid back for their parts in previous escapades.

Dave drove Nancy and Katie home from the airport and innocently pulled into his driveway. The first clue to an appearance of the unwelcomed guests was the kitchen curtains hanging in place of her front-window sheers. They wandered cautiously into their house finding no light bulbs in the lamps. Many of their chairs and tables were carefully turned upside down. Pictures were hung sideways or out of place.

Nancy has saved Christmas cards many years for fond memories of treasured times with her friends and family. Many of these cards were decorating the living-room floor with the Christmas tree in the midst of the clutter nicely adorned with festive trimmings.

The downstairs bathroom was full of large balloons. After removing them they found that their toilet seat was covered with cooking grease.

Just like the story of the three bears, they finally wandered up the steps for more surprises. The bed was neatly made with stuffed animals peering out from the covers. They pulled the covers off to find the toys dressed in their night clothes. All of Dave's clothes had been removed from the closet, and 1950s-style suits filled the hangers. Katie is just 1 year old and her room remained intact.

The garage was another disaster with license plates from many states all out of place. Rakes, brooms, and garden tools were leaning against the door to crash to the floor as soon as the door knob was turned.

You may question whether Dave and Nancy deserved all of this. My answer is, "Yes, of course."

Tami and Gary Kistemaker, Tom and Kathy Buchhop did all of these dastardly deeds to their friends. But the next day, they took Katie from Nancy for a few hours so the house could be restored to its proper position.

Lock your doors, secure your windows — you may be the next victim of their friendly frolics.

CAROL AND MIKE Dugan had a traditional St. Patty's Day party last week. There was the stipulation for admission which, of course, was an appropriate Irish outfit.

Patti Cappuccitti won the prize for the person wearing the most green. She had green boots, tights, burlap bag for cover, and a green hat to top off the outfit. The green balloons stuck on to the burlap bag were a clever touch for the ensemble. Betty Hellmers won a prize for the most unusual outfit. She had paper Shamrocks from head to toe, and each of them had an old Irish quotation written on it.

Merrill and Nancy Neal gave their special touch to the party. Merrill had the honors of painting green shamrocks on all of the lovely ladies attending, and Nancy was pleased to add her personal touch to all of the men entering the room.

Bev and Dave Whiddor, Cathy and Brian Shiek, Tom and Carol Luelleman, Pat and Dave Wise, Jan and Bob Knecht, Donica and Michael Keough were stumped with matching up the missing lines of a few limericks given to each of them. Elaine and Marios Tsangaritas, Jim and Shannon Kronberg, Glenna Johnson, Joe Hellmers, Mike Cappuccitti, Bonnie and Mas Miyasaki and many other friends came and enjoyed the refreshing rum punch and all of the delicious hors d'oeuvres served by Carol and Mike.

AL MOWERS, Harry Hopkinson, John Callor and Dennis Provenzano are active in the success of Pack No. 1540 of Isbister School Cub Scouts.

The pinewood derby, earlier this year, had heavy competition and exotic model racers. The 8-year-old class was dominated by Keith Provenzano, while Jason Smigell controlled the 9-year-old contest. Derek Edson had a car that could not be beat in the 10-year-old class. Steve Lesley walked off with the ribbon for the most original design, and David Gondoly was awarded the ribbon for the racer with the greatest degree of workmanship.

Their most recent pack meeting was a bit unusual for any pack. The father and son teams found themselves in the kitchen coming up with exciting ideas for their cake-decorating contest. All cakes were to be made from scratch, and we all know what a mess that can make of any kitchen.

Chris Callor and his dad used the theme of Cub Scouting to take the blue ribbon. The four badges of the organization, bobcat, wolf, bear and webelos, were symbolized on the cake. Mike Weingart won second place with his cubmobile decked in blue and gold with a little Cub Scout in the driver's seat. The cake taking third prize was baked by David Gondoly, and the message of "Do your best" was just part of his theme.

The cakes were then auctioned off to add a tidy sum to the treasury for all Scouts to enjoy at a later date.

I find myself wondering, when was the last time I baked a cake from scratch?

British switching increasingly to coffee

The British, known for generations as tea drinkers, have slowly converted to coffee. Coffee consumption in the United Kingdom has increased three to four times the level of pre-World War II.

We are a supernatural church, composed of supernatural people, doing supernatural things.

Pastor gets close look at revolution

By Margaret Miller
staff writer

A Livonia clergyman recently return from Nicaragua thinks the United States should give economic aid to and refrain from interfering politically with the strife-torn country.

The Rev. Walt Dickinson of Sword of the Spirit Lutheran Church also said the church in this country could help by gathering information through contacts with the nationalist church and "not making quick judgments."

He said it is not an important issues that the Nicaraguans who overthrew the dictator Samoza are following some principles of socialism.

"We should be afraid of oppression, injustice and hunger, because these are the seeds of revolution," he added.

Dickinson is one of 20 American Lutheran Church ministers who went to Managua, Nicaragua and Cuernavaca, Mexico on a Jan. 12-26 tour aimed at increasing understanding on the issues of hunger.

He represented the Michigan district of the ALC because he is chairperson of its Hunger Task Force.

The trip was arranged through the global community project of Augsburg College of Minneapolis. The project has a base in Cuernavaca, and in Minagua the clergy group stayed in a seminary while conducting its studies.

DICKINSON SAID that in both countries visited there was an ever-present sense of great contrasts.

He explained there are tremendous contrasts "between rich and poor, between the churches' cathedrals and their people, between the nationals who tend toward apathy and those who want action, between exploitation and the new moves toward justice."

"There was also the contrast of joy and depression," he said. "I saw people with a sense of hope and dignity and others caught in depression and anger, seeing no way out of the system."

Speaking of the established Catholic churches in the two areas, he quoted a woman in Cuernavaca who said "the priests are ahead of the bishops in understanding needs, but the people are far ahead of many of the priests."

The Bible, Dickinson noted, has turned out to be the basis of much of the struggle toward liberation in these poor nations.

He explained that literacy is at last increasing somewhat, "and now that the Bible is in the hands of more of the people, you see the beginings of a liberation theology."

His comments fit with those of the Rev. George Johnson, director of the ALC hunger program which arranged the clergy visit.

"The group experienced a spiritual revolution," Johnson said. "We saw how the gospel and scripture are radicalizing poor people."

THE TRIP sought to train individuals to be educators and resource people concerning the issues of hunger for congregations in all districts of the American Lutheran Church. The visitors' goals were to learn about hunger from the poor and to develop strategies for consciousness raising in the church.

Cuernavaca was chosen to help illustrate how much hunger there is in a country adjacent to the United States. The group visited Nicaragua specifically to study a country where acute poverty has resulted in revolution.

Dickinson noted he and his fellow pastors made informal contacts with people in villages, rural settlements and a factory and also spoke with educators, social workers, union leaders, human rights advocates and government agency spokesmen as well as church leaders.

He told of meeting Father Miguel E'scoto, chancellor of the foreign ministry, and of being in the area about the same time that the television show "60 Minutes" was filming a program on Nicaragua.

Dickinson has made several presentations on the experience to Lutheran groups in his area and hopes to carry the message to other churches. Those interested in hearing him may call him at Sword of the Spirit, 476-3818.

SPEAKING OF the Nicaraguan part of the trip, Dickinson noted that the United States "has been involved" through long official support of Samoza who is hated by almost everyone in the country, the minister said.

"For 30 years we put up with no democracy there," he added. "One of the things we learned about Samoza was that in 1972, when Nicaragua was hit by earthquakes, the money sent from this country for rehabilitation never was distributed but rather was pocketed."

He said leaders now in positions of power are pluralistic, representing many groups, and determined to be nationalistic.

"They are not trying to take over all the land," he said. "They are providing for individual ownership, although they do have provisions for confiscating land from those who try to take the wealth out of the country.

"They do not want to be puppets of the United States, or Russia, or Cuba, but they are worried that as this country withdraws economic support they may have to seek it elsewhere."

DICKINSON said he and his fellow clergymen had felt "a sense of freedom" in Nicaragua.

"We felt free to go where we wanted," he added. "There was no censoring. We talked to homan rights people, Catholics, Baptists. We were not denied access to anyone."

An interesting part of the experience to this Livonian was a "sense of what American history was like."

"I felt this country had similarities to colonial America as the foreign gownernment was thrown off and families and the business communities were split," he said. "I got a sense of my own history."

'They (the Nicaraguans) do not want to be puppets of the United States, or Russia, or Cuba, but they are worried that as this country withdraws economic support they may have to seek it elsewhere.' — Pastor Walter Dickinson

The Rev. Walt Dickinson talked about his experiences visiting churches and people in Mexico and Nicaragua.

Visiting Lutherans heard a local priest talk about food distribution problems in Cuernavaca. Mexico.

Plymouth church to offer film series on marriage

An eight-week film series dealing with marriage enrichment will begin at 6 p.m. Sunday, March 28 in Plymouth Church of Christ, 9301 Sheldon.

All eight films are free and open to the public.

The new series was produced by Earl Miller, who earlier turned out the "Focus on the Family" series with James Dodson and "The Prize." It features Dr. Carl Brecheen, marriage counselor, and Dr. Paul Faulkner, supervisor of counselor training for the American Association of Marriage and Family Therapy.

The two therapists give seminars across the nation and have collaborated for a book, "What Every Family Needs."

The color films are titled "Made for Each Other," "The Trouble with Us Is Me," "What Husbands Need to Know," "What Wives Need to Know," "How to Kill Communication," "The Communication Lifeline," "Speaking Frankly about Sex" and "Renewing Romance in Marriage."

Gary Rollins, minister of the Plymouth church, said the new series offers Bible-centered ways to renew stable marriages as well as providing help for troubled marriages.

"Whether you are engaged, honeymooning or celebrating a 50th anniversary, the principles revealed can't fail to help you build a stronger marriage," he added.

What do you say to a pessimist?

moral perspectives

Rabbi Irwin Groner

There are people whose food is pessimism, for whom gloom is their daily bread. They break down our courage; they darken our skies; they diminish the worthwhileness of life.

It is difficult to guard ourselves against these habitual, automatic pessimists who always discourage any enterprise, who always say, "It won't work."

Chesterton said that pessimism may be compared to opium: "It is generally a poison; it is sometimes a medicine; it is never a food."

ONE OF THE SADDEST things in life is a young person, pessimistic about his future, defeated in his heart before the battle has even begun. There are too many young people in America today who think they have no chance to build a better world, or at least are disinclined to try.

Many have great abilities but shy away from the acceptance of responsibility and the challenge of socially useful work. A discouraged older man is pathetic, but a discouraged youth is a veritable tragedy.

What can we say to a pessimistic youth? We might address him thus: "Do you think that this world is in a perilous state? You are right, but good or bad, you will have to cope with it.

"In the not-too-distant future all our institutions, all our enterprises will be in hands of your generation. Is your despair a good preparation for that? You do not think you have a good opportunity, but you will never know until you try. Life is always an uncertain venture."

IN MIDDLE LIFE, there is a different note of sadness that enters our lives. In youth we always have the feeling that we are immortal, that death is not for us.

As we grow older the conviction begins to steal in our consciousness that the impending shadow will reach us too. We realize that we are not going to live forever.

For some, then, every pain, every new ache seems to be a premonition of something serious, and terminal. We recover after a while, but the first reaction is pessimism and depression. That too is foolish, dangerous to ourselves, and saddening to those who live with us.

THERE ARE many great commandments in scripture. They are often imperatives addressed to the soul of man. There is the commandment: "Honor thy father and thy mother." There is the ethical imperative: "Love thy neighbor as thyself." But one of God's greatest commandments to youth, to middle-age, and even to the twilight of life is the mandate: "Be strong and of good courage."

To our pessimistic older freind, we would say, "Do not do yourself harm. Do not make the mind a foe of body, increasing its discomfort, substituting unrealistic anxiety for realistic concern."

"I'm No Angel" (1933), 12:25 tonight on Ch. 50. Originally 87 minutes.

Mae West kicks off the first of three different kinds of "women's" film this week. (No, "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" would not be referred to as a "man's" film, but that's because there are so many more men's films than women's films.) West is in rare, pre-National Legion of Decency form as a circus lion tamer, a perfect metaphor for the emasculating Mae, whose conquests in this film include a 28-year-old King of beasts named Cary Grant. Curious how West was ostracized from some quarters for her "male' ardor and agressiveness, and to her dying day was rumored to be a female impersonator. The supposition seems to have been that no women could be that funny. Rating: $2.95.

"So Proudly We Hail" (1943), 1 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 126 minutes.

John Wayne, Errol Flynn and Humphrey Bogart weren't the only cinema soldiers to engage the enemy on Hollywood's back lots. Claudette Colbert, Paulette Goddard and Veronica Lake also marched off to World War II in this story of nurses behind enemy lines. The film is standard, army-issue melodrama, but it's good to see women given credit enough to serve their country instead of only hamburger helper. And the women clearly dominate this film, which also stars George Reeves and Sonny Tufts. Rating: $2.75.

"Tarzan's Secret Treasure" (1941), 11:30 a.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 81 minutes.

Finally, a Weissmuller-O'Sullivan picture in a time slot that, all too often of late, has gone over to Tarzan ne'er-do-wells Lex Barker and Gordon Scott. It's Johnny and Maureen's next-to-last film together, so beware of wrinkles and an overdose of Boy. Johnny Sheffield also stars. Rating: $2.50.

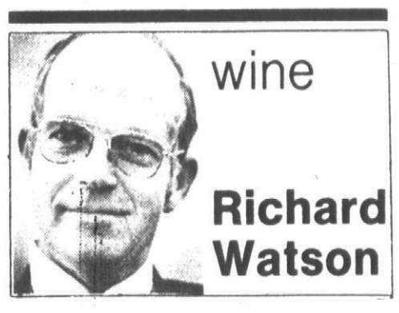
Labels to define wines from the Sonoma Valley



wine

Richard Watson

A new California appellation became a reality in 1981 — one the winegrowers of southern Sonoma County have long worked for.

This is important for marketing as well as vinicultural purposes, to identify a specific region from which grapes come and the wine is made. But it is specifically important in Sonoma County because there are several distinct regions there, and now at least one of them has a means of separating itself from others.

Henceforth, wines from the area around the historic city of Sonoma may be labeled as coming from Sonoma Valley. These wines are not to be confused with wines from the Russian River, Alexander Valley, Dry Creek and a host of other micro-climates.

To be eligible to use the name Sonoma Valley on a label, at least 85 percent of the wine must be grown in the area. Basically, the region lies south and east of Santa Rosa, including Bennett Valley, beginning seriously in Kenwood and south through the Valley of the Moon.

WITH THE Napa Valley being defined by the BATF last year, this leaves several others to get their areas defined. Presumably, the Ukiah area, the McDowell Valley, the Anderson Valley and the Redwood area to the north will be next.

All of this, of course, is another step in grape-quality assurance, enabling the consumer to know that when he or she buys wine from Sonoma Valley, a large percentage of the wine in the bottle comes from a region of exceptional quality.

When a regional appellation such as "California" or "North Coast" is used, it does not mean the wine is inferior, but it does suggest clearly that some of the grapes used were from regions of lesser quality, or else that the parentage was mixed beyond any clear origination line.

Pouring over Sonoma maps back here in wintry Michigan, I count 18 wineries geographically eligible to use the appellation, if their grapes conform. (It is the grapes used that determines eligibility, not the location of the winery. Indeed, there is nothing to prevent a winery in the Los Angeles area from making a Sonoma Valley wine.)

But the trend among most vintners is to use regional grapes, if not their own. Certainly most small winemakers prefer to do this, pushing the idea of estate-grown wines whenever possible.

THE MAJOR producer in the area is the micro-giant, Sebastiani. It purchases a lot of grapes throughout the state but, when possible, look for Sebastiani to begin using the Sonoma Valley appellation on selected, premium issues.

Also included are historically important Huena Vista and Hanzell, the latter still one of the most prestigious labels in California.

The crown jewel of the valley today is Chateau St. Jean, producer of some of the finest white wines in the state. Other esteemed regional wineries include Kistler, Grand Cru, Hacienda, Kenwood, St. Francis and Matanzas Creek, all wineries on the move toward excellence.

Also included are Gundlach-Bundschu, Richardson, Haywood, Sky, J.J. Haraszthy, Glen Ellen and H. Coturri. And, finally, the Valley of the Moon Winery, one of the least prestigious in the state.

Young harpist Kristin Agresta will be soloist with the orchestra in movement from the Handel Harp Concerto.

Oakway plans cabaret concert

A carnival atmosphere is being planned for the Oakway Symphony Orchestra's annual cabaret concert at 8 p.m. April 3. Doors will open at 7 p.m. for snacks, dessert and bar service in the Activities Building of Madonna College, I-96 at Levan in Livonia.

Kristin Agresta, 12-year-old harpist from Bloomfield Hills who dazzled listeners in the orchestra's young artists competition, will join the symphony as soloist in a movement from the Handel Harp Concerto.

Roland J. Sharette, Farmington Hills resident who is deputy director of the Michigan Council for the Arts, will narrate "Peter and the Commissar," a spoof on Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf." Sharette will replace Sonny Eliot, who had a scheduling conflict.

A dance sequence in "Peter" will be performed by the Northern Ballet Company of Livonia, whose director is Michelle Wolfe.

Francesco DiBlasi, Oakway's conductor and music director, will take up his trumpet as soloist in Leroy Anderson's "Trumpeter's Lullaby." Later he will be joined by two orchestra members in Anderson's "Buglers' Holiday."

There will be three guest conductors — Sr. Mary Francilene Van de Vyver, president of Madonna College; Ernest A. Jones, Birmingham advertising executive; and an audience member who wins a contest and a chance to conduct Alford's "Col. Bogey March."

Jones will lead the audience in a sing-along to tunes from "South Pacific" by Rodgers.

Individual tickets are $6. A table of eight is $40, and a table of 10 is $50. Tickets are available at Hammell Music in Livonia and Madonna College.

Actor discusses his life

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

ACTOR JAMES MacArthur lounged comfortably in a chair onstage at the Birmingham Theatre, where he is co-starring with Cybill Shepherd in the Jean Kerr comedy "Lunch Hour."

The production's living room set made a convenient spot for an afternoon interview last week. The play, in which MacArthur plays a marriage counselor, continues a four-week run through April 4.

The stage, screen and TV star's own manner is unpretentious, in contrast perhaps to the doctor in "Lunch Hour," whom he describes as "a little bit officious."

Asked about his co-star, the stunning film actress and one-time fashion model, he declared, "Cybill? She's a dear." And, after a reflective pause, "And she's beautiful."

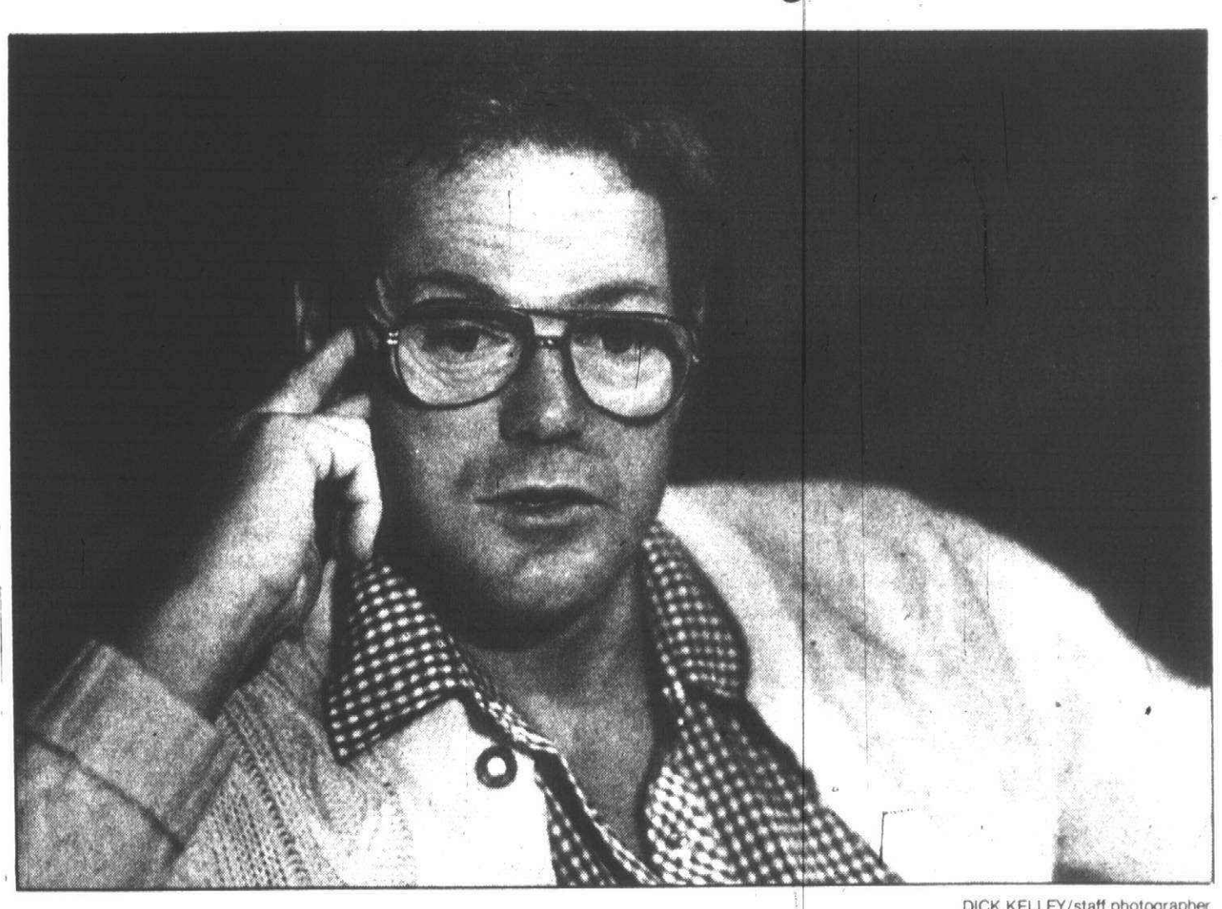
MacARTHUR'S name and face are familiar to audiences especially for his longtime role as one of the police detectives on TV's "Hawaii Five-O." He appeared on the series for 11 years.

"I quit in an off-season," he said. "I was down in Lima (Peru) and called in, 'I quit.' I got on a boat and sailed down the Amazon for 1,000 miles." The actor had enjoyed his experience working on "Hawaii Five-O," but, "I just got bored with it."

MacArthur said he likes to take exotic trips. His South American jaunt lasted two and one-half months. On another journey, he and a buddy had a Land Rover made at the factory and drove it from London to South Africa.

"We wanted to experience Africa." he said. "We spent days in native villages. The saddest thing is that they all thought we were doctors and would trot out their wounded. They said one woman was dying, and we gave her all our penicillin."

One of the outgrowths of "Hawaii Five-O" is that MacArthur makes his home in Honolulu. "I moved there in 1968 to do the show, bought a house there in 1969 and sold my California house in 1979."



DICK KELLEY/staff photographer

James MacArthur's blue eyes are reflective as he talks about his work in an interview at the Birmingham Theatre.

HE LIVES in front of Diamondhead on the beach.

Last year MacArthur was on the road eight months doing several plays, so he didn't get to spend much time at home. When he does, "You'll find me on the golf course," he said.

The twice-married actor is presently single and "playing the field." His ex-wives are both film actresses. Joyce Bulifant and he were childhood sweethearts before they married. Their daughter, 16, lives with her mother in Beverly Hills. Their son, 21, is a ski instructor in Aspen and a senior in college.

His second marriage was to Melody Patterson, who was on TV's "F-Troop."

Although he is the son of famous parents — "First Lady of the Theatre" Helen Hayes and playwright Charles MacArthur ("Front Page") — James MacArthur recalls his childhood as a relatively uncomplicated one.

He played his first stage role at the age of 8. "I did summer theater, and it had no effect on my schoolwork. I was raised in Nyack, N.Y., and lived in a small community. I had a very normal upbringing."

IN THE NINTH grade, he began four years of boarding school in Pennsylvania. He went on to Harvard, majoring

Theater guild co-hosts Furay Theatre Festival

The Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford will join Lycee International to co-host the 10th annual Furay Theatre Festival on Friday-Sunday at Lycee International, 30800 Evergreen, Southfield.

Sen. Jack Faxon will serve as honorary chairman of the festival, which provides an opportunity for community theater groups to get together, exchange ideas and see a variety of work being produced at a local level.

Since the festival began 10 years ago, more than 50 area groups have participated. The Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford has won prizes for the best production twice, with "Lion in Winter" and "Equus," and for best direction with "I Never Sang for My Father."

There will be a reception at 6 p.m. Sunday while the judges deliberate.

Any area theater groups interested in participating or desiring more information may contact Jeff Nahan at 642-1178.

Tickets will be available to the public for $2.

St. Bede Players does operetta

Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta "Patience" will be performed at 8 tonight through Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday by the St. Bede Players in the Mercy College Auditorium, Southfield Road and Outer Drive, Detroit.

Tickets at $4 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens are available by calling 559-3922. Tickets are 50 cents more at the door.

Among cast members is Tom Hannan of Livonia.

"Patience" is celebrating its 100th anniversary. It is the sixth of 14 operettas produced by G&S following "H.M.S. Pinafore" (1878) and "Pirates of Penzance" (1880). "The Mikado" came four years later.

"Patience" is a satire on the aesthetic craze of the 1880s.

in history, and making movies in the summer. His film career includes the Disney film "Swiss Family Robinson" and "Spencer's Mountain," in which he portrayed the character that became John Boy in TV's "The Waltons"

Last year MacArthur appeared in stage productions of "The Hasty Heart," "Murder at Howard Johnson's" and "The Front Page." He recently learned that drama critics in the area where "The Hasty Heart" was performed had named the show as best production of the year.

MacArthur said he played Hildy Johnson in "The Front Page," which was performed in an old theater in Palo Alto. He said the show could not be done commercially today because of the expense of the large cast it requires.

Metropolitan Detroit critics have been lukewarm to the Birmingham Theatre's "Lunch Hour," considering the play especially to have a weak script.

"I have nothing against reviewers. They have a right to make a living — a small one," MacArthur said with a smile.

He said, "The last review I read was 15 years ago. I found there was no reason to believe them."

Rudelic, Long, relay squad hailed

All-Area tankers make splash

By Brad Emons
and C.J. Risak
staff writers

You won't find any state champions on this year's All-Observer boys' swim team, but that doesn't mean area performances are falling off.

Competition around the state was fierce this season as new standards were set in both the Class A and B state meets.

The teams and individuals from this area showed they can be competitive annually.

Detroit Catholic Central, second in the Catholic League, was one of the strongest area teams. The Shamrocks were 11th in the final Class A standings at the state meet in East Lansing.

Other teams showing strength and improvement were Plymouth Salem, second in the Suburban Eight League; Livonia Churchill, champs of the Western Six League; and Westland John Glenn, champs of the Northwest Suburban League.

Area coaches gathered recently to recognize the first-team members in nine individual events and two relay teams.

The coaches also decided that seven swimmers deserved at-large berths. These swimmers, unable to gain first-team recognition, are prolific in one or more events.

Introducing the 1981-82 all-area team.

FIRST TEAM

Jon Morgan, Redford Union, 200 yard freestyle — The senior co-captain showed he has the stamina, placing in both the 200 and 500 freestyles in the state meet.

His time of 1:46.4 led area swimmers in the 200 free. He also had outstanding clockings in the 200 individual medley (2:07.6), 100 backstroke (59.0) and 100 breaststroke (1:03.0).

Morgan is no slouch in the classroom. He carries a 3.9 grade-point average.

Matt Cashin, Catholic Central, 200 IM — Also a senior co-captain, Cashin was seventh in both the 200 IM (1:58.7) and 100 breaststroke (1:01.8) at the state meet. He led the area in both events along with the 100 butterfly (54.4).

He also broke Catholic League records in the 100 butterfly and 200 IM.

Cashin is an honor student headed for West Point this summer.

Jerry McGue, Westland John Glenn, 50 freestyle — Won Northwest Suburban crowns in the 50 and 100 freestyles. He repeated that feat at the Western Wayne Invitational and qualified for the state meet in both events.

He was the high-point producer for the Rockets as they won their first league title. His time of 22.47 in the 50 free paced the area.

Joe Rudelic, Plymouth Salem, diving — Simply the finest diver in the school's history, the senior tri-captain went undefeated in 12 dual meets.

Among his other accomplishments were first place at the Plymouth-Canton Rotary Invitational, Western Wayne Invitational and Suburban Eight League Meet (a record).

He gained second at Brighton regional and 14th in the finals.

A school record-holder for both six and 11 dives, Rudelic was chosen Salem's MVP this season.

Jim Miloch, Redford Union, 100 butterfly — "A fine all-around swimmer," said coach Doug Buckler of the Panther co-captain. "He works hard at both swimming and school."

Although he was under the weather, Miloch gathered enough strength to finish 14th in the butterfly at the state meet. He also qualified in the 50 freestyle, but did not place. He had a best clocking of 54.7 in the butterfly.

Academically, Miloch is a 3.9 student.

Pat Schoff, Livonia Stevenson, 100 freestyle — The senior standout was this year's co-captain and team leader the past three seasons.

"Pat hasn't reached his potential," said Stevenson coach Lois McDonald. "He's capable of better performances when his strength improves. He will enhance a college team."

The hard-working and coachable Schoff recorded a best time of 49.44, best in the area for the 100 freestyle.

Kirk Bonatz, Catholic Central, 500 freestyle — Bonatz was sixth in the state meet in the 500 freestyle with a best clocking of 4:42.2. He's eight seconds better than his nearest area competitor. He also has an outstanding time in the 200 freestyle (1:46.5).

The Shamrock senior was a second place finisher in both events at the Catholic League championships.

Jon Edwards, Redford Thurston, 100 backstroke — The Eagle senior saved his best performance of the season for the state meet as he recorded an area best time of 56.2.

The Thurston co-captain also qualified for the state meet in the 200 free.

He is a league champion in both events, setting a new record in the process for the backstroke.

Edwards is also a member of the Thurston track and cross country teams.

Ashley Long, Plymouth Salem, 100 breaststroke — Consistent all season, the Rock junior set a school record in the breaststroke with a time of 1:03.0, second best in the area.

He qualified for the state meet in that event and placed 24th overall.

Long, voted the team's most improved swimmer, was also a member of Salem's 200 medley relay squad which finished 15th overall in Class A.

Matt Cashin, Art Klugo, Mark Misteravich and Mike Weber, Catholic Central, 200 medley relay — This group took 12th in the state with a best time of 1:42.44 along with a second place finish in the Catholic League.

Cashin's accomplishments are well known as he leads the area in three events.

Klugo, a senior, was second in the backstroke and third in the 200 IM in the Catholic League.

Misteravich was fourth at the Catholic League in the 50 free (23.0) while Weber, also a senior, took first in the 100 breaststroke.

John Thompson, Mark Roehrig, Russ Shaffer and Tim Harwood, Plymouth Salem, 400 freestyle relay — This quartet had the best area time (3:21.0) while taking second in the Suburban Eight League meet and setting a new school mark. They were 14th overall in Class A.

Thompson, a state qualifier, was a standout in the 100 freestyle with a clocking of 49.9. He is a senior.

Roehrig, a junior, proved he was one of Salem's most versatile peformers.

Shaffer, a tri-captain, finishes an outstanding four-year career. He holds the 200 IM record at Salem with a time of 2:04.9 and was one of the reasons why the Rocks posted a 9-3 dual-meet record. He is a National Honor Society student.

Harwood, a junior, anchored the foursome which qualified for the state meet.

Shaffer (2:04.9), Harwood (2:06.0) and Roehrig (2:06.2) provided Salem with an awesome lineup in the 200 IM.

AT-LARGE PICKS

Pat Ross, Garden City West — Ross was one of the major reasons for West's success in 1981-82. He helped the Tigers to a second place finish in the Tri-River League (5-1 dual record) and 13th spot overall in Class B (best finish in the school's history).

A senior, Ross took fourth in the 200 IM and fifth in the 100 backstroke at the state meet. He swam his best races in the state preliminaries with times of 2:04.9 and 58.94, respectively.

He holds school records in both events along with the 100 butterfly. Named West's most improved swimmer.

Bob Fortney, Redford Thurston — A captain along with Edwards, Fortney

Coaches feel pressure to produce

This is the first of a series on high school basketball recruiting.

C.J. Risak

Bill Croteau was fired last week. He was fired because, in the assessment of his peers, he was unsuccessful.

Croteau coached Redford Bishop Borgess basketball for the past three seasons. He never had a winning record. But things were looking up. This season, Borgess finished with an 8-13 record.

Croteau was fired anyway because his record wasn't good enough.

He can tell you why he was fired. And so can nearly any other coach.

"He got fired because he's not winning," said Don Albertson, coach of Livonia Churchill. "They didn't look at who he played. Do you think Livonia Stevenson would have won 18 games with a schedule like that?"

That isn't news to Croteau. And he isn't the first Catholic League coach to lose his job for failing to beat such perennial powers as Birmingham Brother Rice or Detroit Catholic Central.

CROTEAU'S FIRING points to the pressures applied to Catholic coaches. Stated simply, coaches are paid to win, and win they must or they're gone.

That isn't necessarily the case in public schools. If a team struggles through a poor season, it can be overlooked because the talent is weak.

But it's different in the Catholic League. Catholic coaches can go out and get the athletes they want. They can recruit.

According to the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA), it is perfectly allowable for a high school coach to talk to an eighth-grader and try to convince him to come to his school.

It is improper for a coach to talk to a ninth-grader in another school. It is also improper to offer any sort of inducements, including athletic scholarships, to athletes.

BUT IT HAPPENS. Often, if you believe the public school coaches. They hint at such violations but refuse to name the violator.

"I've been on both sides of the fence," said Gary Fralick, Redford Thurston coach and former assistant coach at Madison Heights Bishop Foley. "We did not recruit (at Foley) or actively seek people outside of our three feeder schools.

"Maybe that's why we lost a lot," he added with a laugh.

Actually, Fralick has been on three sides of the aforementioned fence. In high school, he played from 1964-67, first at Redford St. Mary, then Birmingham Groves.

He remembers inducements.

"Benedictine offered me free tuition in 1964 if I'd go to school there," Fralick recalled, an offer that would amount to $75 per semester.

OTHER COACHES point to sudden influxes of talent into Catholic schools that turn it from average to super. One team that benefited from Pontiac's cancellation of prep sports was Orchard Lake St. Mary.

St. Mary was good. The addition of Chris Howse and Lance Davis, both Pontiac transfers, made the Eaglets great.

But neither was recruited, according to athletic director Tim Domke. In fact, Domke said, St. Mary basketball coach Bob Shoemaker refuses to even talk to prospects.

"I think he should talk to kids," Domke said. "This is a business."

Domke is another coach who also served in the public school system. As West Bloomfield's mentor, he saw David Abel go from his system to Catholic Central and help the Shamrocks win a state title in 1977.

"He lived 100 yards from our school," Domke said of Abel.

CATHOLIC COACHES say the same thing when asked about their alleged recruiting. They point to the players that got away.

Domke called to attention Aubin Williams, who went from Orchard Lake St. Mary to Royal Oak Shrine to Redford St. Mary this year. OLSM also lost Jeff Sewell, a star at Walled Lake Central.

CC coach Bernie Holowicki points to Carl Lang, a 6-5 center who could have helped the Shamrocks battle more evenly with the Brother Rice giants. Lang instead went to Northville this year when CC turned him away.

There are other examples, but few convince public school coaches who see their star players suddenly lost to a parochial school. The public coaches know the reasons behind the recruiting: Catholic coaches must win.

"There are some great, great coaches in the public schools, but few work as hard as Catholic League coaches," because, the St. Mary AD said, "Catholic schools will fire a coach for having a bad season."

Croteau agreed. Asked to compare coaching at Thurston in the Northwest Suburban League and Borgess in the Catholic League, he replied, "Like night and day.

"In the Catholic League, the toughest thing is watching the CYO (Catholic Youth Organization) games and then persuading the kids to send their kids to the school you're at."

Next: Pressurized winning — both sides of the recruiting wars.

PROUDLY PRESENTS...
HIGH SCHOOLS'
PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Congratulations to
Joe Rudelic of Plymouth
Salem for winning the Suburban Eight league's diving championship

Dick Scott's Plymouth High School "PLAYERS OF THE WEEK" feature continues this week. Each week one Salem and one Canton player will be saluted for their effort the previous week, with their names engraved on a trophy for display at the high schools. Players will be selected by the coaching staffs of the respective schools. Look for this ad every Thursday. For that "Winning Deal" on a new or used car, see Dick Scott Buick.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL
FLASHBACK

In September of 1970, Plymouth Salem football coach Tom Moshimer moved journeyman tailback Greg LaMirand, a 6'1" senior into the starting quarterback position against rival Northville High in the opening game of the 1970 season. LaMirand, making his first start as Varsity QB threw 3 TD passes to glue-fingered 6'4" senior Charley Wolfe. That performance plus the durable running of Captain Ed Scott, Dan Chopp and Carl Huter enabled Plymouth to blitz Northville 36-8 and capture the Silver Bell emblematic of football supremacy in the rivalry between the 2 teams. It also marked the last time ever the Silver Bell was up for grabs.

Thompson, Seaholm girls shine in state meet

gymnastics

By Jay Keenan
special writer

Birmingham Seaholm couldn't have requested a more dynamic Cinderella story this season.

The Maples, who almost didn't have a team at the beginning of the 1982 campaign, stormed to a second-place finish in the girls' state gymnastics meet last weekend at Plymouth Canton High School.

East Kentwood, backed by junior sensation Jodi Thompson, regained the state crown with 131.7 points after playing second-fiddle to North Farmington a year ago.

Seaholm garnered 130.8 points while Troy, a first-place finisher ahead of the Maples the week before at the Troy Athens regional, took sixth at 128.55.

The "small" but enthusiastic Seaholm team received noble performances from Jill McBride and Jenny Matz.

McBride was third in all-around with a score of 35.1 and Matz tied for fifth spot at 34.85. Thompson captured her third straight overall title with a first-place total of 36.5.

The Maples' showing, however, was even more impressive since Robin Limauro — one of Seaholm's coaches — did not attend the meet because she was hospitalized.

Harry Limauro, Robin's husband, and co-coach Mel Foster handled the team in her absence.

THE MAPLES' feat was remarkable because the team carried just seven members all season long.

"I'm surprised," said Foster. "I'm happy with the whole team as a group. They did their best in almost every event. Considering the pressure conditions, they did a real good job."

The lack of personnel couldn't deter the Maples.

"It was hard," said Foster with a laugh. "We had to work for every tenth (of-a-point). It's just small amount."

Seaholm had to scramble for coaching just two weeks prior to the start of the season after the previous mentor resigned.

"We started out slow," said one of the Maple gymnasts. "We had only two weeks to get ready for the season."

The balance beam, which usually determines the outcome of most meets, did the Maples in, who suffered through four falls. But as Foster puts it, "In meets like this, it's bound to happen."

Although Kentwood was impressive, Thompson was virtually in a class by herself.

In addition to winning the all-around title, Thompson bested the field in each of the other four categories (vault, beam, uneven parallel bars and floor exercise). She was the defending champ in every event except beam, where she finished seventh in 1981.

"I'M VERY pleased with this team as a whole," said Barb Moerdyke, the Kentwood coach. "The girls showed a lot of togetherness and they cheered each other on.

"We knew if all the girls hit on their routines that we could win it. But its hard to get it so all the girls hit. We weren't consistent at the start of the season but last week at the regionals we reached our peak."

Troy, the other area team, was also impressive despite its youthful look.

"I didn't expect to be here," said Troy coach Sandy Smith, "so I'm happy.

"At the beginning of the season, I wasn't sure how we'd do this year. We're a young team and I didn't know how we'd do in the big meets.

"Being so young, our team was seeing all of the other teams doing super tricks and I think it scared them and they didn't think they'd be as good. We probably could have done better if we didn't have all the falls, but I'm not disappointed."

Spearheading the charge for Troy was Kathy Michaels, who was seventh all-around, and Michelle Sirna, who only qualified for the finals on vault but still had a strong showing in the other events to score points.

Michaels' best showings came on vault (second place), uneven bars (fifth) and floor exercise (sixth).

SEAHOLM'S Jill McBride tied for fourth on balance beam and finished in a second-place tie on the uneven bars. Matz was seventh on both vault and beam.

Canton's only entry, senior Laura Michalik, placed 21st on vault with a score of 8.4.

"I think she could have done better if she hit her front-hand-front, but she didn't" said Canton coach and meet director John Cunningham. "But we were quite pleased she placed 21st out of 57 competitors. I have no complaints. She has a super front vault — sometimes she hits it, sometimes she doesn't."

The meet, held over two days, was run under a new format.

The team and all-around champions were determined Friday night with the top eight in each individual event qualifying for Saturday's final.

Friday's session drew 850 spectators followed by a showing of 450 on Saturday.

"I was pleased with the way the meet came out," said meet director John Cunningham. "The attendance was fine and there were no complaints from anyone about the judging or the way the meet was run. All the comments I got were positive.

Gilles sisters reap net titles

Chris and Wendy Gilles of Plymouth both came home with first-place trophies after winning their respective age divisions in the Mid-American Tennis Academy Junior Tournament last weekend at Grandville.

Chris, a sophomore at Plymouth Salem High School, lived up to her No. 1 seeding in the Girls' 16s by downing Kathleen Monczka of Okemos in the final, 6-4, 6-3.

She also scored victories over Beth Sirkes of Glenview, Ill. (6-3, 6-3) and Jennifer Reault of Livonia (6-4, 6-2).

Wendy Gilles, a 14-year-old, was unseeded in the Girls' 18s but came through to win the championship with four straight wins.

She opened by upsetting No. 1 seed Stephanie Lightvolt of Kalamazoo, 6-2, 6-4.

She then defeated Tawnie Knottnerus of Lowell (6-0, 6-1) and No. 3 seed Diane Donnelly of Kalamazoo (6-0, 6-4).

Livonia boxers' cry: "KC, here we come!"

By Scott Soucy
special writer

Two Livonia Boxing Club members captured titles in the Region VI ABF Championships held Saturday at the Allen Park Civic Arena.

Livonia super-heavyweight Craig Payne advanced into the USA ABF (American Boxing Federation) Championships in Charlotte, N.C., next month without a match. Payne, rated No. 4 nationally in his weight class, once again made the team because he was unopposed.

Light-heavyweight Ricky Womack, a recent acquisition from Ann Arbor, became Livonia's other qualifier as he defeated Hulond Copeland of Detroit Johnson Recreation for the second straight time to win the title.

Womack had downed Copeland earlier in the month at the Michigan ABF Tournament held at Westland's Bailey Recreation Center.

One other Livonia boxer had qualified for the Region IV tournament but decided not to compete at the last moment.

Flyweight (112 pounds) Danny Marderosian, attempting to make a comeback after a two-year layoff, had qualified for the event in Allen Park but elected not to continue because he said his heart was no longer in boxing.

"Danny Boy," a finalist in the 1976 USA Olympic Trials as a flyweight, leaves the ring with a record of 112-25. The southpaw was once a mainstay in the national amateur boxing rankings.

PAYNE AND teammate Rick Londberg, a heavyweight, will represent Livonia beginning Monday in the National Tournament of Champions in Kansas City, Mo. The event is sponsored by the Golden Gloves Association of America.

The manner in which the two boxers qualified is quite different. For the second straight year, Payne has advanced without throwing a punch.

"One of the major drawbacks of being in the super-heavyweight division is that there is often a lack of competition on the local level," said Livonia Boxing Club coach Paul Soucy.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF WAYNE

SHERLEY ALEXANDER, et al, Plaintiffs, v. CITY OF DETROIT, et al, Defendants. Civil Action No. 69 136842 CZ. Hon. Susan D. Borman (P11016)

NOTICE OF CLASS ACTION

TO: EACH PERSON WHO OWNED A MULTIPLE DWELLING OF MORE THAN FOUR UNITS IN THE CITY OF DETROIT DURING THE PERIOD JUNE 26, 1969, THROUGH APRIL 1, 1971, AND TO THEIR SUCCESSORS IN INTEREST:

Pursuant to an order of the court in the above-entitled action, you are hereby notified that the above-entitled action was commenced in this court on July 10, 1969, and that Shirley Alexander and others have been named as plaintiffs who bring the suit on behalf of themselves and on behalf of all other persons similarly situated who were owners of multiple dwellings of more than four units in the City of Detroit during the period of June 26, 1969 through April 1, 1971. The above-entitled action has resulted in a judgment declaring City of Detroit Ordinance 442-G, which imposed a refuse collection charge upon the owners of such multiple dwellings, unconstitutional. The court has further ordered reimbursement of all monies paid as a result of the ordinance to the members of the class.

You are further notified:

(1) That the court will include you in the class of owners represented by the plaintiffs in the above-entitled action if (a) you previously have been paid your share of the judgment fund; (b) you previously have presented a claim to the court or the guardian ad litem; (c) you present a claim by letter to this court postmarked on or before April 30, 1982.

(2) That persons otherwise entitled to reimbursement from the judgment fund who have not requested inclusion in the class by April 30, 1982, will not be bound by the judgment and will not be entitled to participate in any reimbursement made from the judgment fund pursuant to the judgment.

(3) That if you do not request inclusion, you may, if you desire, enter an appearance in the above-entitled action through your counsel.

Questions concerning this notice should be directed to the guardian ad litem for the class of plaintiffs, Theodore Souris, 34th Floor, 100 Renaissance Center, Detroit, MI 48243.

Emotions turn sour at regional

Brad Emons

(Editor's note: Because this story did not run in its entirety on Monday, March 22, the full text is being published in today's Plymouth-Canton Observer. We apologize for the inconvenience.).

True confessions.

I underestimated Plymouth Salem's basketball team.

It wasn't long ago when I told my friends Rich Saah and Tom Zaibek, die-hard Rock fans, that Salem was going to get blown out when they met up with Detroit Southwestern in last Thursday's regional opener at Ypsilanti.

My worst fears seemed confirmed when the Rocks got down by as many as 14 points in the third quarter.

But to coach Fred Thomann and his team's credit, they refused to fold and almost turned the corner for what could have been a victory. (Southwestern won, 63-54).

I agreed with Thomann's post-game assessment: "The tempo was ours. We had to play a 50-point game, and it was a 60-point game."

Despite the loss, in some respects it was the Rocks' finest hour. They blocked shots, stopped just about every Southwestern fast-break attempt and played fine defense.

Antoine Joubert, Southwestern's 6-foot-5 sensation, was a marked man. Salem worked him over pretty good. Six different players took turns hawking the All-Stater. His shooting, however, was abnormal (eight of 27 from the floor). He looked frustrated at times, even though he finished with 33 points.

In some respects, it appeared the officials Thursday night protected him. He shot 19 free throws.

But as Southwestern continues to win, his celebrity status continues to grow day by day.

But the real problem was a contrast in styles. Southwestern likes a finesse game while Salem plays physical. The whistle seemed inconsistent at times. But the game was emotional, a tough one to call.

IT WAS a new experience for Joubert, an exceptional talent who can shoot, pass and handle the ball with the greatest of ease.

The Salem fans goaded him prior to the game with taunts of "Antoine who?" He glared back at the stands during the warm-ups and first quarter.

The Salem fans' conduct was just inexcusable. Bush league all the way. The few who ruined it for the rest threw garbage on the court (pennies, pencils and paper) when things didn't go their way. Southwestern coach Perry Watson, sitting on the bench, was hit in the back by flying objects a couple of times.

The Southwestern fans acted in a more civilized manner with the exception of a group of four or five in the front row at mid-court who tried to intimidate the officials.

With the game seemingly in hand, Joubert got back at the Salem fans by taunting his opponents on the floor. Waiting to shoot a free throw with 14 seconds left, he tried to belittle the Rock players by sticking his tongue out. Needless to say, the Salem players took exception to his childish conduct and got into some name-calling.

I JUST hope this was a learning experience for both parties involved (Salem fans and Joubert). And I hope this talented and popular young man keeps his feet on the ground and doesn't try become Superman on the basketball court. A large local media buildup is already putting him into the national spotlight — and he's only a junior.

This class president, honor student and church choir member is a model citizen off the court. The job of becoming an All-American basketball performer will be made complete when he practices those same characteristics on the court.
