The Canton Connection

TWO CHILDREN were outside playing at 3 p.m. last Sunday when they found a balloon on the grass. It seems this balloon flew south from Maple Rapids, a small town north of Lansing and south of Mt. Pleasant in the middle of the state.

The two boys, Andy Weber, 6, of Yorktown and Jim Hull, 7, of Antietam, apparently found a pen pal in little Kristin Weber of Maple Rapids Elementary School in the Fulton School District. The school recently participated in Weekly Reader's Writing Pal Balloon Contest — and Jim and Andy found her message in the balloon.

Actually, Andy found the balloon, but traded it to Jim for a Scratch 'n' Sniff — so both boys receive credit for the discovery.

Board undecided on public safety

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Canton trustees are a long way from knowing how they'll decide whether to consolidate the police and fire departments.

Supervisor James Poole has said the Township Board will vote on consolidation "no later than" the first meeting in June.

But board members contacted by the Observer raised many questions they want answered before a decision can be made.

AT ISSUE is a 95-page report prepared by Glenford Leonard, public safety director for Oak Park, at the request of the Township Board.

Many types of consolidation are possible, said Leonard. These include simply naming an administrator to oversee both the fire and police departments. Another type is a joint dispatching system to serve both areas (Canton has two separate dispatching units).

Leonard's recommendation for Canton is the most comprehensive type — that police officers and firefighters be trained to perform both functions, becoming "public safety officers" (PSO).

See related story on page 2A

The report recommends a phase-in period of two years, with training of full-time personnel and a cadre of volunteers as back-up. Eight PSOs would be hired.

The transition costs, including volunteers, are pegged at $388,000 in the first year and $302,000 in the second year. Some additional optional costs for supplies and manpower aren't included.

"I'm reasonably satisfied that sooner or later, down the line, this system can work," said Clerk John Flodin. "It's a complex question and shouldn't be done lightly."

It would be far easier to decide if a new department were "starting out fresh," rather than trying to join two existing, separate departments, Flodin said.

He is concerned that some current police and firefighters might be unable or unwilling to handle dual roles. He also wants more information about costs.

A hearing last week to air views of the residents was packed with firefighters — some from other communities, Flodin said. "I was a little disappointed there weren't more Joe Citizens there," he said.

TRUSTEES STEVE Larson and Robert Padget want to see data from other public-safety municipalities on costs for manpower, training and equipment. Padget said he would like to hear opinions from public safety officers who must deal first-hand with both police and fires.

Davis frustrated — won't seek re-election

By Dennis O'Connor
staff writer

Board President Carol Davis feels frustrated and does not believe she can make necessary changes to improve Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Davis will not seek re-election in June, although many residents have tried to coax her out of this decision.

Two four-year seats will be filled in the annual June election. Board Vice President Elaine Kirchgatter is the other incumbent up for election. She decided to run for re-election last weekend. In fact, Davis is the campaign manager for Kirchgatter's bid for another four-year term.

DAVIS, OF PLYMOUTH, does not believe she can accomplish her goals on the school board. She does not like to play the role of the "great compromiser" as board president.

"There have been some frustrations for me," Davis said of her 5½ years on the board. "And I think I'm too idealistic.

"You have to have at least three other people to agree with you (on the board) to make changes, and it's very difficult to get those three people because everyone has a different view of education.

"I'm the great compromiser here, and my great ideal is still out there to be met."

Plymouth-Canton also schools cannot achieve her educational ideals because it's a public school system, Davis said.

Davis believes in the basics, but also thinks children should learn to be creative and set goals for themselves. Davis is frustrated that public school systems offers additional services — nursing, feeding, clothing and parenting children — rather than concentrating on learning and educating.

"You cannot expect the public school system to do these things (the additional services) and do it well," Davis said. "And because of that we are spread too thin, with the things we can do."

KIRCHGATTER, OF CANTON, ended speculation last Monday when she told the board she would seek re-election. Kirchgatter took out nominating petitions Tuesday "to see if the community would support me for another four years," she said.

The board's vice president delayed her decision until now because of the large committment it takes to serve on a school board, Kirchgatter said.

She is disappointed Davis is not seeking re-election — something that greatly influenced her decision to run again.

"My decision might have been different if Carol had decided to run because I feel strongly in the continuity of the board."

Kirchgatter, who has served on the board for five years, has voted in 100 percent of the board elections since moving to the Plymouth-Canton community in August 1966. Kirchgatter's campaign will be similar to four years ago to "try to conitinue to serve and represent all segments of the community and their concerns," she said.

Court voids plan to redistrict county

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A confused Wayne County Apportionment Commission will appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court a lower court decision ordering more nearly-equal sized county commissioner districts.

The State Court of Appeals last week told the five-member Apportionment Commission its earlier plan is void and ordered it to come up with a new plan with "zero-deviance" in the population size of the 15 new districts. The Appeals Court gave the Apportionment Commission 12 working days to make the districts equal in population.

"The statute says districts shall be 'as nearly equal as practicable,'" noted Prosecutor William Cahalan, a member of the county apportionment body. "But the appeals court says 'zero deviance.'"

Clerk James Killeen, chairman of the apportionment group, added, "There is a conflict between what the appeals court says and what the U.S. and State Supreme Courts said."

IRONICALLY, Westland, Dearborn and Dearborn Heights — the three cities which appealed the new county districting plan — found their arguments rejected by the court.

Westland and Dearborn Heights had argued that they were "unnecessarily divided into three county commissioner districts." Dearborn had objected to being cut into two. They also charged the apportionment group with using "partisan political considerations" in drawing the new map.

The appeals court said, however, their objections "are considered without merit." The reasons:

"(1) There was no showing that the splitting of political subdivisions was unnecessary in order to achieve equality of population.

"(2) Even if petitioners (the three cities) had achieved the admissions (of partisan political consideration) they sought . . . it would not be sufficient to meet the test of actual evidence of an intentional and systematic disenfranchisement."

The ruling panel consisted of Robert B. Burns, Thomas M. Burns and Glenn S. Allen.

INSTEAD, the appeals court told the apportionment commission only to try harder to draw equal-population districts. And that is what had the group befuddled.

Based on population, the average-size county commissioner district should have 155,859 persons. In Wayne County, the smallest district is 287 persons below the ideal, a deviation of minus-0.18 percent; the largest is 184 persons above than the ideal, a deviation of plus-0.12 percent.

"Given the refinement of the census materials in Wayne County," the court said it could "accept no less" than a "zero-deviance plan."

The appeals court's insistence on "zero deviance" left a county staff member wondering if he had to go door-to-door counting heads and drawing boundaries around houses to assure mathematical exactness.

Michael Legg, Livonia attorney and Republican Party representative to the apportionment group, said, "The High-school student burned by duplicating-fluid explosion

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

An 11th-grade student at Plymouth Canton High School is being treated in the burn unit at University Hospital, Ann Arbor.

Robert Lattin, 17, of Terry in Plymouth, suffered second-degree burns on his legs after a can of duplicating fluid apparently exploded, igniting his clothing, at the school Thursday.

Lattin was listed in good condition at University Hospital Saturday.

Canton fire officials are probing the cause of the explosion.

Lattin had been doing work for the student newspaper in a library workroom when the mishap occurred at about 6:45 p.m. He and a friend, Thomas Conwell III, 17, of Worthington Court in Canton, were preparing to go out for supper.

An adult adviser was in another room, according to reports. The two youths used their coats to extinguish the flames on Lattin, and Conwell went for help.

A fire department rescue unit took Lattin to Wayne County General Hospital, and he was later transferred to University Hospital.

School principal Kent Buikema praised Conwell for behaving "extremely responsibly."

Public safety issue heavily debated

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Opponents of combining the fire and police departments are sticking to their guns.

Likewise, supporters of the consolidation proposal refuse to budge from their position.

The Township Board had a special meeting last Wednesday, specifically to hear comments on a proposal to merge the two departments into a single, "public safety" department.

Under the plan, police officers and firefighters would be trained to perform both functions. The board is expected to delay a decision on the issue until early June.

"The (public safety) officer is generally all-around better prepared to answer a number of emergency situations he meets on the street," said Glenford Leonard, public safety director for Oak Park.

Leonard and Robert Deadman, city manager of Farmington, recently completed a study commissioned by Canton's Township Board costing $8,000.

The study concludes it is "feasible" for Canton to set up a public safety department. Both Farmington and Oak Park have consolidated departments.

"CONSOLIDATION IS ineffective, inefficient and costly," argued David McCormack, a former superintendent of a national fire academy and a former firefighter.

The Canton firefighters' union, which opposes consolidation, brought McCormack from Washington, D.C., to speak against data in Leonard's 95-page report to the township.

McCormack currently is a fire protection consultant. He is on retainer to the national firefighters' association.

MORE THAN 150 people came to hear a discussion of the issue.

About 75 percent of the audience were Canton residents, indicated by a show of hands. Firefighters from other communities came to support their Canton colleagues.

Supervisor James Poole opened the meeting by announcing he wouldn't support any plan to "diminish the capability" of police and firefighters. But questions indicated concerns about safety, costs and reduction of service if the consolidation is approved.

THE REPORT maintains that dual training will result in more officers on Canton streets, and less time in the stations.

Fire apparatus would be manned with a minimum number of officers to drive equipment to fires. Public safety officers would be assigned to patrol vehicles equipped with firefighting equipment and protective clothing, as well as police equipment.

The plan could be implemented in about two years, with cross-training, Leonard said. Commitment of elected officials is essential, he added.

He recommended that the Township Board pass a resolution consolidating police and fire services. Later, a director of public safety would be appointed.

A public safety officer classification would be established, with pay scales. Officers would be recruited from present personnel and for newly established positions.

A bargaining unit would be established and an agreement negotiated. Officers would be trained, equipment purchased and a work schedule implemented.

"THE (OFFICER) is capable of providing service," said Leonard. "The career ladder is there."

McCormack said fire protection would decline under consolidation.

Morale would sink, and high employee turnover would result, said McCormack.

"It's impossible to give that protection with a patrol car," said McCormack. "It's easier and better to continue the type of service that you have established."

Court voids county district plan

appealable thing is the improper construction of the statute" by the Court of Appeals. He noted that state law called for districts to be "as nearly equal as practicable," but the appeals court had called for "zero-deviance."

"If the legislature had meant zero, it would have said zero," said Legg.

THE APPORTIONMENT Commission nevertheless told its staff to make a "good-faith effort" to pare down the differences between districts. It will meet again at 2 p.m. April 8 to review staff work.

Larry Verbiest, chief staffer on the apportionment project, said that the court delays raise "serious questions whether we can have this ready for the Aug. 3 ballot."

"We may have to ascertain new precincts. Monday, April 5, is the last day local clerks have to divide precincts.

"Candidates don't know their districts. Two have already filed (nominating petitions) for seats.

"The district party chairmen must apportion their precinct delegates by May 5.

"I've been through the reapportionments of 1960 and '70, and this is absolutely the worst," said Verbiest.

Consolidation decision due in June

"To me, the bottom line is what way do you get the best service for the fewest dollars?" said Padget.

"This is the kind of issue where it's easy to get carried away with rhetoric," he said. "This will have tremendous long-range effects. I predict this issue will be in the mill for a while."

Trustee Carol Bodenmiller said consolidation could mean the necessity for a single, public safety building. Currently, the police station and main fire station are a couple miles apart.

The township's administration building was built with federal grants, but such aid is being reduced, she said.

"I believe right now we could start dispatching from one central place," Bodenmiller said. "I think that would help considerably. I don't see why that can't be instituted right away."

TREASURER MARIA Falkiewicz believes the consolidation issue should be decided by the Township Board.

However, she favors putting the question on the ballot if research indicates consolidation would mean a sizeable increase in taxes.

"There are an awful lot of alternatives," said Falkiewicz. "The whole proposal could end up with parts (portions of the original recommendation).

"I would like to find out what happened in other townships which tried public safety," she added. "And who is going to be the key administrator?"

Alcoholism erodes family life

By Dennis O'Connor
staff writer

Staff photos by Gary Caskey

How do teachers cope with a student from an alcoholic family? How can teachers tell if they instruct a child from an alcoholic environment?

These were just some of the questions — and concerns — discussed in a session called "Alcohol, the Family and the Classroom," one of the highlights of a recent all-day teachers' in-service program prepared by staff members at the Centennial Educational Park.

Diane Farber was the guest speaker at this session. She is the branch supervisor of the Plymouth Family Service at 880 Wing in Plymouth.

When a family member is an alcoholic — or has a problem with drugs or chemicals, it may be compared to a mobile, Farber said.

A mobile, an ornamental structure of metal that hangs from the ceiling, continues to swing when a string is broken — but all parts of the mobile become dependent on that string for totally free movement.

Likewise, a family can continue to function if someone is an alcoholic (the broken string), but all family members become increasingly dependent on that person.

"There's an emotional loss in the family with an alcoholic. Everyone feels they are to blame for the drinking, so nobody really knows how to deal with it."

PHYSICAL SYMPTOMS of alcoholism include an increased tolerance in drinking, a blackout stage, and, finally, loss of control, Farber said.

It is difficult for a family to adjust to the problem. A family no longer is balanced — and less flexible, Farber said.

For teachers, it's equally difficult to understand — or know — if a student is under this family pressure.

"When you (teachers) work with kids in school, you see the outside only — not the inside. The slow change (in the family) that occurs — nobody really knows when it's happening.

"Unless there is some interviewing along the way, then the whole family is affected."

As pressures mount, family members take roles, Farber said. These roles include the victim, chief enabler, family hero, scapegoat, lost child and mascot.

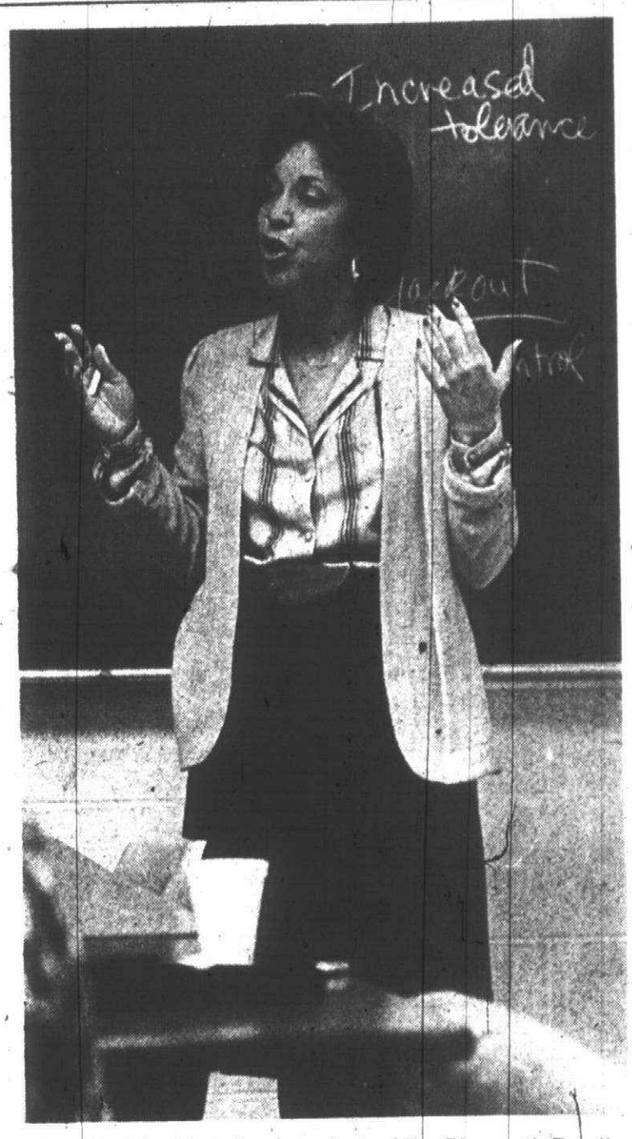
Each role has specific personality characteristcs, but all roles experience similar feelings — powerlessness, failure, jealousy, blame, fear and guilt.

If the family imbalance continues, family secrets increase and members stay locked in these roles, Farber said.

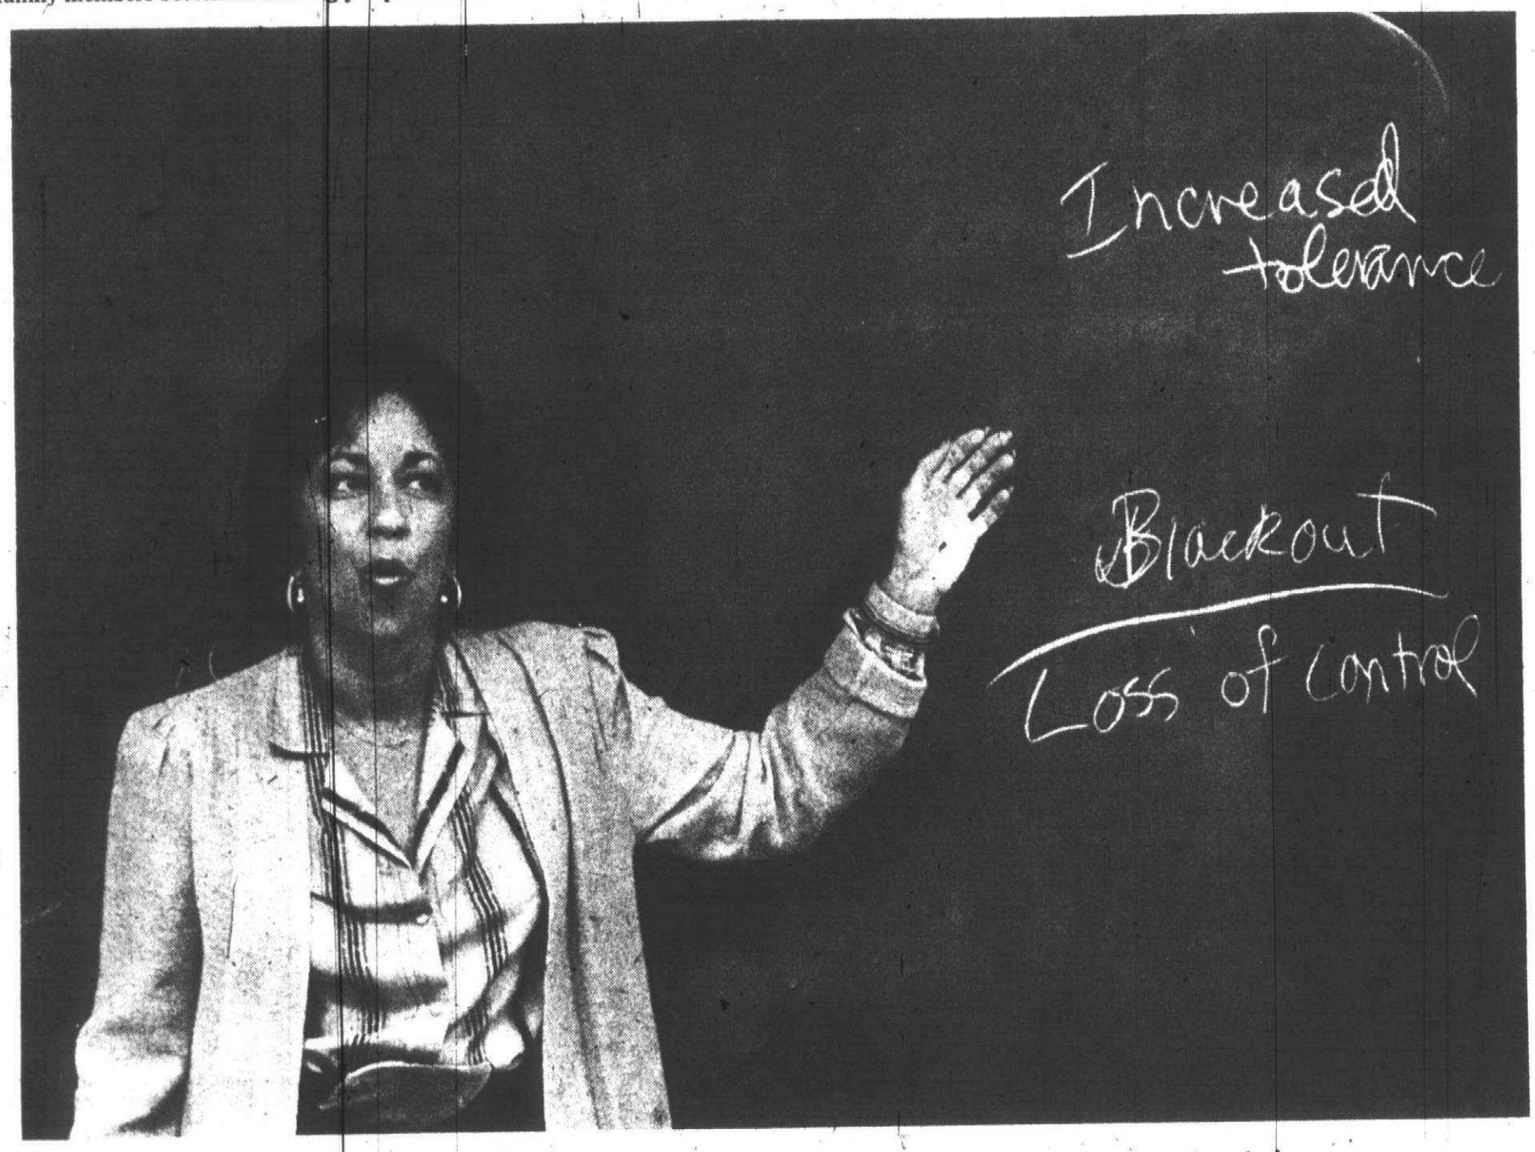
TEACHERS always must build personal confidence with each student in the classroom setting, Farber said. Instructions must be consistent, rules must be understood, and positive reinforcement must occur with good accomplishments.

Students also must be told what "role" they play in an alcoholic family, Farber said, if teachers spot personality problems with students. She strongly believes in "rap" sessions with students, letting each young person discuss problems.

"I think high school children are very smart, and I think everything I said today (at the session) they could learn."



Diane Farber, branch supervisor of the Plymouth Family Service, was a guest speaker on alcoholism and the family at a recent teachers' in-service day.



Diane Farber explains the three physical effects of alcoholism — increased tolerance, blackout and loss of control.

Teachers prepared and enjoyed a lunch buffet during a break in the all-day in-service program.

CEP teachers plan own inservice

While teachers at the Centennial Educational Park were actively trying to boycott the controversial Instructional Skills Program (ISP), they were busy preparing their own in-service — an all-day session — which recently took place at both high schools.

The in-service included three, two-hour sessions including programs involving stress, dealing with alcoholism, legal rights of students and teachers, writing, problem solving — and even working with micro computers to teach mathematics.

"I've never seen such a positive response to an in-service program in the 12 years that I've been here," said Ron Carlson, a mathematics teacher at Plymouth Canton High School. "They (teachers) were quite heavy with praise — and part of that, I'm sure, is because of the comparisons to ISP."

ISP is an in-service program which includes six half-day sessions for teachers and administrators, approved by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education last year. It is designed to increase the amount of learning in the classroom — and give additional training to staff members.

Student suffers bad burns

THE INCIDENT was "very frightening and very unfortunate," Buikema added

"He's lucky," said Thomas Lattin, father of the injured student. The senior Lattin said his son probably will be hospitalized about two weeks.

Most of the burns were on the youth's legs, with an additional burn spot on a thumb, said Lattin. Most of the affected areas are second-degree burns, with one third-degree spot, he said.

THE BLAZE, which was put out with an extinguisher, caused about $500 damage to the room, said Canton Fire Chief Mel Paulun. Fire officials are trying to determine what caused the fluid to ignite.

Colleges expect worst as state aid ends

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Michigan colleges may have to say good-bye forever to their fourth-quarter state aid payments.

Gov. William G. Milliken, in announcing the withholding of their aid for the period of July 1 to Sept. 30, said he wanted to make the payment at the beginning of the state's new fiscal year Oct. 1.

"My prediction is that the state won't have the money to restore the fourth quarter state-aid cut," said state Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, from his vantage point on the Senate Approproiations Committee. "When I raised that point in a leadership meeting (with Milliken), no one contradicted me."

"I don't think we'll get it either," agreed state Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, former chairman of the House Colleges and Universities Committee. "We haven't even paid the cities and townships for conducting the 1980 presidential primary.

"We're destroying, dismantling our colleges," Keith went on. "It takes years and years to build that kind of expertise. If I were a college professor, I might be looking to other states."

THE PREDICTION was no surprise to budget officers at two area community colleges.

"We always suspected that as a possibility," said Anthony Jarson, vice president of Oakland Community College. "We've been planning on a worst possible scenario."

Milliken's budget cuts, designed to eliminate $450 million of a more than $600 million deficit, will cost OCC $2.2 million of a budget in the neighborhood of $33 million.

"We're studying an increase in tuition," said Jarson. "I've heard some schools going up $3 to $7 a credit hour. We hope to keep it down as low as possible.

"We are usually well-prepared for emergencies. We've had much more modest pay increases over the last four or five years.

"We have a record enrollment. Tuition is becoming our second largest source of revenue."

AT SCHOOLCRAFT College, Comptroller A.H. Raby is preparing the board for a possible request for a $3-per-credit-hour tuition increase. In-district students currently pay $22.

Schoolcraft is also contemplating levying the full voter-authorized 1.77 mills of property tax instead of rolling back the rate as assessments rise.

The state aid cut will cost Schoolcraft $1.3 million of its approximately $15 million budget.

Oakland University stands to lose $4.6 million, University of Michigan-Dearborn $2.2 million, UM-Ann Arbor $34 million, Wayne State $12.6 million and Michigan State $28.3 million.

THE REASON college budget makers were pessimistic all along about receiving their fourth-quarter aid payments was that Milliken's economic predictions have been rosier than reality.

Getting the blame is Milliken's director of management and budget, Dr. Gerald Miller.

"Miller is consistently over-optimistic," said Sen. Geake. "And I think the governor actually likes to spend. At the local government level, you see pessimistic projections of revenue. You don't see that up here in Lansing."

"It was cruel to say to the college, 'We're going to pay it back,'" said Rep. Keith. "It's fairer to say 'we've got to cut it.' Miller has been playing that game since I've been up here," said Keith, now in his 10th year.

"The governor was talking four months ago about a small, token property tax relief. I have a gut feeling there will be no turnaround," said Keith, a former banker.

"They don't have the vaguest idea what kind of revenue the state will have next year," said OCC's Jarson.

MEANWHILE, Milliken's proposed tax cuts to balance the budget were undergoing a metamorphosis in the legislature.

The governor's plan to raise the income tax 0.7 percent to 5.3 percent permanently was modified in closed-door political negotiations to an increase of 1.4 percent only until Sept. 30, the end of the fiscal year.

To solve the immediate cash flow problem, the House voted 61-25 approval of increasing the cigarette tax 10 cents to 21 cents a pack. Each party provided a slender majority, with 33 of 61 Democrats and 28 of 46 Republicans favoring it.

In the Senate, however, the plan was defeated in a 17-17 deadlock. Twenty votes were needed for passage.

There was wide disagreement how much revenue the cigarette tax boost would yield. Without bootlegging, said Geake, it would produce $130 million. More likely, it would produce $95 million if cigarettes were bootlegged from Indiana (10.5 cents tax), Illinois (12 cents) and Ohio (14).

In the House Republican caucus, state Rep. Jack Kirksey, R-Livonia, said he suggested a lighter cigarette tax increase and an alcoholic beverages tax increase of one cent per drink. The idea was cold-shouldered.

IN THE SENATE Appropriations Committee, Geake won approval of one spending increase — rather, an appropriation to legalize payment of a bill the state had already run up.

Elsie Young, tailor, had a client who wanted a pick pocket proof pocket. Intrigued, she placed a Want Ad offering a fee for the best design. She received an answer from a retired pick pocket, who refused the fee and supplied her with a design that's in the hands of a patent attorney.

Walleye, perch, smelt time near

By Lem Meese
outdoors writer

outdoors

One minute it's winter. The next, it's spring — to a fisherman, anyway.

Walleyes are being taken in the north channel of the St. Clair River by trolling and chugging, according to state Department of Natural Resources reports.

Perch are hitting in Lake St. Clair off the Selfridge public access site near the Air National Guard base. Shore fishermen are catching perch on the Detroit River behind the Renaissance Center. Perch are also being taken south of Grosse Ile and off Pointe Mouillee.

Salmon are showing up in the St. Clair River. On the Huron River below the Flat Rock dam, anglers are taking a few steelhead in the five-eight pound range.

HOW TO GET in on some of the action?

Cap'n. Fred Benson, whose charter boat "Hang Loose" plies the waters of Lake St. Clair, will tell how at the next meeting of the Four Seasons Fishing Club.

It starts at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the west cafeteria of Stevenson High School, Six Mile west of Farmington Road, Livonia. (Note: This is a change from the usual meeting spot of Livonia Mall.)

Our party fished with Cap'n Fred one Saturday last fall and can attest that he knows the spots. If you miss strikes, it's likely your own fault.

He will discuss muskie and walleye fishing in Lake St. Clair. He also knows a few things about Lake Erie.

Four Seasons is a family-oriented fishing club. Meetings are open to all interested persons.

A FEW smelt are showing up in Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair River. So far, they're small, says the DNR. But Automobile Club of Michigan says you can expect bucketfuls when the spawning run is on later in April and early May.

At $3 a pound in the stores, smelt are a pretty good deal when you can haul 'em in by the buckets — even garbage cansful.

That is, if you can stand to stay up all night, stand up to your chest in 40-degree water and clean the two-ounce little devils later.

"Lake Huron beaches and tributaries traditionally have been sites of the state's best runs," said James Drury, Auto Club operations manager.

Hottest spot is usually Pointe Pelee, 45 miles southeast of Detroit on the Canadian side of Lake Erie. Park gates close at 10 p.m. or when parking lots fill. You'll need a Canadian license.

Another Canadian spot is Wheatley at the end of Camper's Cove Road. Don't dip off private property without permission.

IF YOU HAVE a long-handled dip net, try the St. Clair River at Port Huron at the foot of the Blue Water Bridge, Sears Dock and Pine Grove Park. The water's deep and the current strong.

There are several popular spots on the Michigan side of Lake Huron. At Lexington and Port Sanilac harbors, you can dip from piers and along the shoreline.

At Forester, there's the Bridgehampton River, where you can dip from the mouth to M-25. A mile north of Forester is Cherry Creek at the Sanilac County Park. Dip in the creek mouth.

At Sanilac State Park two miles south of Forestville along M-25, try dipping in Elk Creek from the mouth to the highway and along the shoreline. At Forestville, dip along Mill Creek from the mouth to M-25.

Stroller recalls his initial Tiger opener

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

It just doesn't seem possible that 58 years have gone by since The Stroller climbed the steps to the press box in what was then Navin Field to see his first Tiger opening game.

It was a chilly day in 1924, but it was one that he never will forget. He was a rookie on the staff of the Detroit Free Press and had just been accepted for membership in the Baseball Writers Association of America, an organization reserved for the major league baseball writers.

No one was prouder of that membership than The Stroller, and it was with enthusiasm that he climbed the ladder (there was no elevator) to the catwalk and then, like an acrobat, wiggled his way to the area reserved for the writers.

A MAJOR league writer! It was a role he always dreamed about. Now he was eligible to sit and work with the country's top sports writers. What an afternoon it was.

There had been a parade out Michigan Avenue with the late Bill Finzel's band in the forefront.

Everyone was filled with holiday spirit. But no one was more excited about it than The Stroller. It was his baptism as a big-time sports writer.

The sight of Ty Cobb and the other famous Tigers taking practice thrilled him no end, and his fingers were shaky as he attempted to write a few notes.

It will be far different tomorrow when The Stroller makes his 59th straight opening day. There is an elevator now and a closed-in press box with a carpeted floor and our own concession stand.

BUT AS The Stroller looks out from that high perch he won't be seeing the stands in the outfield. He'll be seeing again the high concrete walls that circled the field from first base around to third. Those walls were there until the Tigers won the pennant in 1934.

He'll be seeing again the famed Cobb walking to home plate, swinging three bats, and he'll be seeing Lu Blue again, dancing about first base — the most classical first baseman the Tigers ever had. And he'll be seeing "Hookie" Dauss warming up to take his place on the mound.

Then again he will be seeing the parade to center field for the raising of the flag. They don't parade any more — just raise the flag while players line the baselines with the Tigers along third base.

HE'LL BE visiting in memory with Harry Bullion, his sports editor, H.G. Salsinger of the News, and Bert Walker of the Times. They have all gone to the great beyond, but The Stroller never will forget them — and the help they gave him on that chilly afternoon when he was "baptized" as a big-time sports writer.

And as he sits in the press box tomorrow he will be looking down in the rows of box seats, feeling sure that he will see Frank Navin, the Tiger owner.

He, too, has gone to the Great Valhalla where great sportsmen go (he died from injuries suffered from a fall off his horse right after the Tigers won the World Series in 1935.) But he will be there in spirit.

So tomorrow will be a great day for The Stroller. He will be living in memories high up in the press box, and he will be as enthused as he was that afternoon 58 years ago.

Why should consumers settle for 2nd best?

Steve Barnaby

I thought jingoism was something to read about in the history books. Jingoists were the guys who decades ago nearly ruined the economy by urging us to buy American and hate things produced in other countries.

Such misguided protectionism led to a disrupted world economy and contributed mightily to racism and a few sporadic world wars to boot. It's always easier to shoot somebody you've been taught to hate.

But some folks here about have forgotten those harsh lessons of history. Once again the jingoists are running rampant.

THE RECENT announcement by the UAW that it would frown on political candidates who drive foreign-made cars is an example.

What a dumb stand to take. Oh, I'd like to use a loftier word, but in this case, "dumb" fits perfectly.

America has always admired the wise consumer who buys a product which gives the best value for the dollar. We admire the same quality in political leaders and deride those who waste our tax dollars.

The UAW has it all backwards. If a politician is smart enough to spend his personal income on a more efficiently made product, we should have a heightened faith that same person would spend our tax dollars more efficiently.

I FIND IT difficult to believe the American people would want to put their faith in elected officials who misuse funds — God forbid.

And efficiency is where the Japanese automakers have it all over the U.S. auto industry. A recent report published in the New York Times brought out the uncomfortable truth when it comes to efficiency.

The report compared all Japanese automobile companies with American companies.

The total workforce in the average Japanese auto plant is 2,360 workers vs. 4,250 in a U.S. plant. The average number of absent are 185 in Japanese plants as compared to 500 in the U.S. plant. The average absentee rate was 8.3 percent in the Japanese plant and 11.8 percent in the U.S. plant.

Little encouragement in those statistics. But it gets worse. Let's look at machine stamping operations.

The average Japanese plant stamps 550 parts an hour while the U.S. plant stamps only 325. The time needed to change a die in an American plant is four to six hours. The Japanese do it in five minutes.

The time needed to build a Japanese car is 30.8 hours. The American plant takes 59.9 hours. The average production run in a U.S. plant is 10 days. Compare this with a two-day run in the Japanese plant.

The Japanese use an average one person per press line. The U.S. plant uses anywhere from seven to 13 persons.

THESE STATISTICS do little to boost anyone's faith in the competitive efficiency of the U.S. auto worker.

Dumping on political candidates who wish to drive a more efficiently produced automobile certainly would solve the American auto industry's problems.

It's time for those of us who mouth the creed of the free enterprise system to stop being hypocrites. If the Japanese can make a more efficient auto which is a better buy for the buck, we should be proud to drive that product.

Fie on protectionism.

Pupil behavior is disruptive

To the editor:

It is exactly Mrs. Taddonio's attitude that has created today's situation in our public schools — no discipline and, therefore, less teaching.

I and many other parents certainly do not agree with Mrs. Taddonio's stand. Whether or not Swane "mouthed off" or is a behavior problem certainly is part of the issue. Why must the teachers, administrators, and the rest of the children have to constantly have their day disrupted by "behavior problems?"

Possibly if the parents had taught some respect to Swane and used some discipline on him at home, Mr. Nichols would not have finally lost his temper and resorted to physical action. Those of us who do not tolerate misbehavior and "mouthiness" from our children are awfully tired of receiving it from other people's children who have not been taught better.

Sorry, Mrs. Taddonio, but I have to side with Mr. Nichols and question your attitude. Are you really doing your child a favor by teaching him it's all right to be disrespectful and disruptive? Personally, I think not.

Disagrees with ban on hitting

To the editor:

In your story "Tanger Principal slaps student" I learned that our local school board has a policy that bans the use of corporal punishment, unless there is a direct threat of safety. This is one of the reasons why "Plymouth-Canton Schools" is no longer a sales aid in real estate ads.

I wish all administrators and teachers to know that they are free to slap any of my children who get out of line. I would not report such action to the school board. I would give the child involved an additional slap as the teacher involved would be inhibited from performing the act properly by the present policy.

Perhaps, someday, we will have a school board that is not so willing to swallow the babbling of some misguided social scientists.

12x12x12 report wasted

To the editor:

I was very disappointed with our school board's handling of the 12x12x12 Committee reports March 29 at the board workshop. I am employed and work the afternoon shift, so I don't have the opportunity to attend very many board meetings or workshops, so I was eagerly waiting to hear the board's comments and recommendations regarding the committee reports.

I was extremely annoyed when the meeting turned into a reading of administrative recommendations and interpretations of what the administrative cabinet views as important.

I am perfectly capable of reading, and I can read the comments and recommendations of the administration by myself. I gave up day off to hear the school board's viewpoint of the 12x12x12 reports, not a "carbon copy" of the administration. I think the workshop was mismanaged, and the board unprepared.

The citizens who gave up their valuable time to serve on these 12 advisory committees deserve to have their reports given more consideration than was shown Monday night.

Group homes are defended

To the editor:

This is in response to the recent front-page article involving Canton and group homes. I am addressing all citizens of Canton especially those directly involved by living in neighborhoods with group homes — also to Canton Township Supervisor James Poole, trustees and Dr. E. Tanay, psychiatrist testifying for Canton.

Dr. Tanay is under some false assumptions. It seems to me that a doctor, as an upstanding citizen with as many credits to his name as Dr. Tanay, should make it his business to get his facts straight — especially before putting himself in the position of testifying and thereby holding the lives of so many decent human beings in his hands.

Contrary to what Dr. Tanay testified, the group home residents are not constantly accompanied by staff. They don't need it. They have the ability and desire to do things on their own such as going shopping, going to church, visiting friends, etc.

They show great judgement in their knowledge of their capabilities. Staff, who are trained, are there if someone feels they need guidance.

If Dr. Tanay means by "less freedom" that they don't have the rounds of an institution to walk around all day — he is right. I might add that there is less supervision in the institutions than ever before, and a patient who is admitted to the hospital can usually obtain a ground card within a week and walk freely whereever they want. They need more as emotionally ill patients than that.

Judge Victor Baum is also under some false assumptions in that, contrary to what he said, 99 percent of the residents in these group homes are voluntary. That is to say that they have decided themselves that they need help. Hardly the rational thinking a "dangerous" mental patient would show.

Being hospitalized has done great damage to these people. They have to rebuild their confidence. People fear the unknown, which I might add is a symptom of emotional illness itself.

As defined in the dictionary, emotional is any strong feeling such as love, joy, fear. Believe me these people fear you, the community, just as much as you fear them.

Another very important fact that Dr. Tanay may not be aware of is that each home provider is in the position to pick their own residents — because of community friction and also for the well-being of the other residents in the home that provider will not accept "dangerous" patients.

Each resident is interviewed and carefully screened before placement and may be returned at a moment's notice. This is not a problem because of the tremendous teamwork involved. There are dozens of professionals involved in each home.

It is my suggestion to all community and surrounding homeowners to relieve their fears by making it their business to find out more about their neighborhood homes.

Make the effort, say hello. If you have a homeowners association, ask your president to get in touch with the provider. You will find us friendly and willing to ease your fears.

Let me add that as a Canton resident, myself, I am very dissappointed in my Supervisor, James Poole, and the trustees. They have not made it their business to find out the facts and are giving in to the pressure of some citizens who have not found out the facts themselves.

Home members have a voice

To the editor:

As five people currently in a group home, we would like to have a chance to respond, and we have decided to make the newspaper our voice.

We are not dangerous. We have one common wish and that is to recover from our emotional instability and get back to a productive life.

We are grateful for the opportunity to recover in a normal home instead of the hospital, which may be all right for some, but we feel that we want more out of life than four walls. We have faced our problems and are learning to deal with them.

We are your mother, your father, son, daughter, brother or sister. We could be you. Please take some time today and think about the effort we are putting into our recovery and put a little of your effort into contacting your township and the newspaper and letting them know that everyone is not against us.

We need your support.

Celebrating Easter in style: It's a sign of spring

It's little wonder that for centuries ham has remained the favorite choice for Easter dinner. It is easy to prepare, impressive to serve and oh, so delicious to eat. To keep the tradition flourishing, this year select an economical smoked half ham and top it with a spicy rum glaze. While Rum Glazed Baked Ham offers old-fashioned flavor and goodness, it is especially easy to prepare. Most hams on the market today are already fully-cooked and need only be heated to serving temperature. No pre-cooking preparation, no watching and no basting are required.

Regal Rice and Asparagus will complement the ham in royal fashion. It's a simple-to-make casserole featuring asparagus spears and hot, fluffy rice in a sour cream and Cheddar cheese sauce. Preparation, which begins with cooked rice, can be done well in advance so that the casserole needs only to be heated through just prior to serving. Over 99 percent of the rice sold in the United States is grown here. Rice is almost as American as apple pie—the dessert for this holiday meal.

To bring the Easter meal to a joyful conclusion, delight diners with Golden Glazed Apple Pie. Delicately flavored Golden Delicious apples from Washington state are an excellent choice for the filling since they hold their shape extremely well when cooked and resist darkening better than most apple varieties. The single-crust pie is topped off in style with an orange marmalade glaze and eye-catching meringue kisses.

The enjoyment of the Easter ham needn't end with the holiday meal for the leftovers can be the start of a variety of delicious and economical main dishes. Ham 'n Apple Fried Rice is a bonus entree so tasty that no one will suspect it's a budget stretcher. Pieces of cooked ham and thin wedges of Golden Delicious apple team up in a rice and egg mixture that's uniquely flavored with apple juice and summer savory.

Rum Glazed Baked Ham

5 to 7-pound smoked half ham
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1-1/2 teaspoons imitation rum extract
1/8 teaspoon ground allspice

Place ham, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so bulb is centered in thickest part. Be careful that bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325°F.) until the meat thermometer registers 130°F. to 140°F. for "fully-cooked" half ham (18 to 24 minutes per pound); 160°F. for a "cook-before-eating" half ham (22 to 25 minutes per pound). Combine corn syrup, rum extract and allspice in a small saucepan and cook slowly 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from heat. Brush ham with warm glaze 20 minutes before end of cooking time.

Regal Rice and Asparagus

2 pounds fresh asparagus, trimmed*
4 cups cooked rice, cooled
1 teaspoon salt
1 to 2 dashes ground red pepper
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1/2 cup milk
1-1/2 cups shredded sharp Cheddar cheese, divided

Cook asparagus only until tender-crisp; drain. Combine rice, salt, pepper, sour cream, milk, and 3/4 cup cheese. Spoon half of the mixture into a buttered shallow 2-1/2 quart baking dish. Reserve 4 asparagus spears for garnish, arrange remaining asparagus on mixture. Spread remaining rice mixture over asparagus. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 minutes. Garnish with reserved asparagus and continue baking 10 minutes or until hot and bubbly. 6 servings.

*2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen asparagus spears (blanched) or 2 cans (14-1/2 ounces each) asparagus spears (drained) may be substituted.

Golden Glazed Apple Pie

6 or 7 Golden Delicious apples, pared if desired
2 teaspoons lime or lemon juice
1/4 cup flour
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon grated lime peel
Dash salt
1 (9-inch) unbaked pastry shell
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1/3 cup orange marmalade, melted
Meringue Kisses*

Core and thinly slice apples to equal 7 cups; toss with lime or lemon juice. Combine flour, cinnamon, lime peel and salt; add to apples, tossing lightly. Arrange apples in pastry shell; drizzle butter evenly over top. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) 35 minutes or until apples are tender and juice is bubbly around the edge. Spoon marmalade over hot apples. Cool completely. Garnish with Meringue Kisses just before serving. Extra Meringue Kisses may be passed. Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

Meringue Kisses: Beat together 2 egg whites, 1/2 teaspoon almond extract and 1/4 teaspoon each salt and cream of tartar until soft peaks form. Gradually add 1/2 cup sugar; beat until stiff peaks form and sugar is dissolved. Drop meringue by spoonfuls or pipe with pastry tube on baking sheet lined with heavy paper. Bake at 250°F. 1 hour; turn off heat and allow to dry in oven, with door closed, 1 hour. Remove from oven and cool thoroughly on rack. Makes about 12.

Note: Meringue Kisses may be prepared ahead of time; store in an airtight container.

Ham 'n Apple Fried Rice

1 pound cooked ham, cut into 1/4-inch slices
1 cup uncooked rice
1 medium onion, chopped
1/2 cup chopped celery
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon summer savory
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup apple juice
1 cup water
2 eggs
1 tablespoon water
1 large Golden Delicious apple, cored and cut into 1/4-inch thick wedges
2 tablespoons snipped parsley

Brown rice, onion and celery in butter in large frying-pan. Sprinkle savory and salt over rice mixture; stir in apple juice and 1 cup water. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover tightly and simmer 15 minutes or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Meanwhile, cut ham slices into 1-inch pieces; fold into cooked rice. Beat together eggs and 1 tablespoon water. Make a well in center of ham and rice mixture. Pour eggs into well and cook quickly, stirring constantly, until partially set. Stir in ham and rice; fold in apples. Cover tightly and cook slowly 5 minutes. Fold in parsley. 6 servings.

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 to 2 teaspoons curry powder
1 Golden Delicious apple, cored, coarsely chopped
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup sliced celery
1 cup uncooked rice
1/3 cup raisins
2 cups apple juice
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup dry roasted cashew nuts, halved

Melt butter or margarine in large frying-pan. Stir in curry powder; add chopped apple and cook slowly 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove apple and set aside. Add onions and celery to frying-pan and cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Add rice, raisins, apple juice and salt. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover tightly and simmer 15 minutes or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Gently stir in apple and nuts. 6 servings.

Breast vs. bottle

Which is better for infants and their mothers—and for society?

This is the 12th in a series of 15 articles exploring "Food and People." In this article, Derrick Jelliffe, professor of public health and pediatrics, and E.F. Patrice Jelliffee, lecturer and researcher, both in UCLA's School of Public Health, discuss the reasons for the concern over the growing use of baby formula in the Third World. This series was written for Courses by Newspaper, a program of University Extension, University of California, San Diego, with funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

food and people

ALTHOUGH breast-feeding has increased in the last 10 years in industrialized nations, its rapid decline among poorer peoples poses a major public health problem thorughout the world. Breast-feeding is extremely desirable in all communities, however affluent, but in poor circumstances it becomes vital for survival.

It has been estimated that more than 10 million babies a year suffer ill health as a result of the decline in breast-feeding. UNICEF has estimated a possible one million deaths from this cause annually.

A broad program of education for the general public, as well as specific measures aimed at health professionals and infant formula companies, are necessary if we are to reverse this trend.

Bottle-feeding with formula seemed modern, scientific, and in tune with urban life from the 1920s through the 1950s. But research has increasingly shown that human milk differs in almost every respect from formulas based on cow's milk.

BREAST MILK is a higher complex living fluid, which has been modified and adapted over the course of human evolution to suit the particular needs of the human baby.

Breast milk differs from formulas in its biochemical composition (including the type of protein, fatty acids, minerals and enzymes present). Breast milk also contains antibodies and white cells that protect the infant against infection as well as anti-allergic properties that are lacking in formulas.

The process of breast-feeding also differs from that of bottle-feeding: The intimate process of nursing helps to form a closer mother-child relationship.

Nevertheless, adequate bottle-feeding is possible provided three requirements are met: Parents must have sufficient money to pruchase enough formula, reasonable home hygiene (including storage and, particularly, a clean water supply), and sufficient education and understanding to perpare formula correctly.

There requirements can usually be met in Western Europe, Australia, North America, and similar areas where most people are relatively well-to-do.

BOTTLE-FEEDING AMONG POOR

In poor, disadvantaged areas, however, the necessary income, hygiene and education are frequently lacking. This is true for pockets of poverty in otherwise affluent nations (such as some Indian reservations in the United States or urban slums in Europe) as well as for the majority in less developed countries.

For most people in the Third World, adequate bottle-feeding may require 50-75 percent of their basic salaries, and home hygiene and water supplies are very poor. Consequently, extremely diluted formula is often given, using contaminated water and a filthy bottle and nipple.

The result is frequently diarrheal disease and marasmus (starvation). Unfortunately, in many developing countries this situation is on the increase in the slums that are mushrooming around large cities.

On a national level, a large-scale decline in breast-feeding means a large-scale expenditure for breast-milk substitutes that can amount to millions of dollars and further strain the balance of payments.

In addition, breast-feeding has the effect of spacing out the intervals between child births, as many lactating women cease to menstruate for 18 months or more. This natural form of birth control is lost when breast-feeding is abandoned.

The reason for the decline in breast-

Infant formula ads take economic toll

Derrick Jelliffe is professor of public health and pediatrics at the School of Public Health, University of California, Los Angeles, where he also heads the Division of Population, Family and International Health. He previously taught pediatrics and nutrition at universities in Nigeria, India, Uganda and Jamaica. He was founding editor of the Journal of Tropical Pediatrics, and has numerous publications.

E.F. Patrice Jelliffe is a lecturer and researcher in the Division of Population, Family and International Health in the School of Public Health at the University of California, Los Angeles. She previously taught nursing in the Sudan, Nigeria and India and was a research fellow in nutrition in Uganda and in the Caribbean Food and Nutrition Institute in Jamaica.

feeding, despite its advantages, have been similar wherever it has occurred: health professionals who have been inadequately trained in breast-feeding, practices in hospital maternity units, an increase in the number of women working away from home, and aggressive advertising of infant formula.

PROMOTING BREAST-FEEDING

Programs to promote breast-feeding, therefore, must deal with these causes of its decline. Mothers must be given the confidence necessary for successful breast-feeding as well as the opportunities for frequent nursing that will stimulate their production of milk.

Information and education for the general public, school children, and especially, parents should have government support. Increased attention must be given to breast-feeding in the curricula of health personnel, especially pediatricians, obstetricians and maternity unit nurses. Fortunately, this is slowly occuring as new scientific information and textbooks become available.

Current practices in maternity units also need scrutiny. The practice of separating mother and baby is unnatural and would not be tolerated in any other species. Hospital regimens could be readjusted to increase breast-feeding at no cost whatsoever.

The practice of hospital personnel giving out samples of formula to mothers departing the hospital is particularly likely to sabotage breast-feeding by undermining the mother's confidence and by making free formula temporarily available.

The problems posed by new mothers working outside the home are often serious. In Third World countries, the mother's entire salary is seldom enough to buy adequqte formula — and it rarely goes exclusively to this purpose.

In an effort to meet the problem of working mothers, some countries have mandated up to 12 weeks of maternity leave. Also, in some countries, factories employing 15 or more women must provide an area where lactating mothers can take two "nursing breaks" daily.

Under the circumstances in most developing countries, when mothers leave their babies to be bottle-fed by older children or other helpers, the situation can be extremely hazardous; problems of contamination and overdilution are made worse by the uncertainty of the baby's being adequately fed in the mother's absence.

ADVERTISING INFANT FORMULA

The greatest controversy surrounds measures to deal with the aggressive marketing tactics of infant formula companies. Critics have argued that it is unethical to promote unaffordable products in countries with poor hygiene, where the inevitable result is overdiluted and contaminated feedings and a high risk of starvation-diarrhea and death.

The formula companies have responded that their marketing is aimed at the well-to-do and at women who must work and those whose milk is insufficient. But in fact, advertising through mass media, such as radio, is not selective in its audience.

Concerned groups in the United States have mobilized public opinion, and their efforts have resulted in some consumers boycotting Nestle, a major manufacturer and promoter of infant formula, and prompted Senate hearings in May 1979.

A few months later, a meeting of the World Health Organization (WHO) recommended that WHO and UNICEF prepare a Code of Marketing of Breast Milk Substitutues that would serve as a guideline to governments wishing to prevent the unethical marketing of formulas.

A code seemingly acceptable to the infant food industry was finally drafted after over a year of negotiations.

Among other recommendations, it called for banning direct advertising of infant formula to populations where it could not be used adequately, and for eliminating the distribution of free samples to new mothers. But at the last moment, the infant food companies changed their position and opposed the code.

When the World Health Assembly voted on the code in May 1981, the United States cast the sole negative vote.

That this was contrary to expert health opinion in the U.S. government is indicated by the resignation of two top officials in the Agency for International Development. That the vote did not represent national views is demonstrated by resolutions protesting it which passed the House of Representatives by 301-100 and the Senate by 98-2.

Thus, public opinion clearly recognized that only through a multipronged program that includes the control of inappropriate marketing practices can we hope to reverse the decline in breast-feeding and to save millions of children from debilitating disease and death.

THE PLYMOUTH Community Chorus is into extra rehearsals for its spring concert, "Let the Sun Shine In." Concert dates are May 15 and 16 in Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium.

Pre-sale tickets soon will be available. The chorus has raised the admission price 50 cents — $3 for adults and $2 for senior citizens and students. The cost of music has skyrocketed to the point that bands, orchestras and choruses have serious budget problems.

Choral Expression will make its debut at the spring concert. Twenty members of the main body of the chorus form the new singing group, which will perform at events in which the 100-voice chorus can not be accommodated.

WE HAVE THE two latest winners of the Big 50-50 fund-raiser sponsored by the Blue Chapter of the CEP Athletic Boosters Club. Rose Houle won the $100 prize given the fourth week in March. Her husband, Patrick, is president of the main boosters club.

Cheryl Szczodrowski won March 30. The announcement was made at the wrestlers banquet. Cheryl is one of the main supporters and helpers of the Rocks girls' volleyball team.

RUTH JACOBS, who is in charge of the gift shop at the Plymouth Historical Museum, added some special Easter items.

Tinsmith Dick Jablonski made cookie cutters in the shapes of a duck, rabbit, egg and tulip. These have been selling almost as fast as Dick can turn them out. As of Friday, only an egg cutter remained. Hopefully, they will have more next week.

THE FIFTH annual St. Joe's Radio Auction last weekend raised more than $77,800 for the Ann Arbor hospital. The auction was broadcast over WAAM Radio. Highest ticket item was a 1976 Lincoln Continental which went for $4,025.

Gail LaRiche of Plymouth served on the auction planning committee.

PARTY BRIDGE group at the Plymouth Cultural Center had nine tables in play last Thursday. High scorers were Howard Griffore and Margaret Hynick.

POPS CONCERT May 8 in Pioneer Middle School will be an all-Gershwin program. Tickets at $6 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens now are on sale at the Health Shoppe on Ann Arbor Trail.

"Rhapsody in Blue," arranged by the Allegro group of the Plymouth Symphony League, is expected to be an early sell-out.

A WOMAN called the other day in something of a tizzy because she thought she'd missed the spring home tour in Plymouth. She said she "loved the Plymouth home tours, wouldn't miss one for the world." She was disappointed to hear none was planned for this spring.

Home tours in the suburbs have dropped off as fund-raisers in recent years. Homeowners are reluctant to open their houses to the public for security reasons.

The Ann Arbor Women's City Club is one organization that continues the tradition. The women will have their 30th annual home tour from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday, April 30.

Eight homes will be open for the tour including the University of Michigan's President's House at 815 S. University. Present occupants are President and Mrs. Harold Shapiro.

The house is said to embody 135 years of U-M history and the personalities of each of its prior residents. From the time in 1858 when Henry Tappan installed gas lighting to the present day, many modifications were made. The one-story kitchen wing was completed in 1864.

During James B. Angell's tenure of 39 years, indoor plumbing and a hot-air furnace were added, as well as a third story with a widow's walk on the new roof. Electricity was installed in 1891, a west wing was added, also two more bedrooms.

At Marion LeRoy Burton's request, the house was completely renovated and a sunroom and porch was added to the east side. The president's study still contains Harlan Hatcher's desk. There are 21 rooms, nine baths and seven fireplaces. The house is included in the National Register of Historic Places.

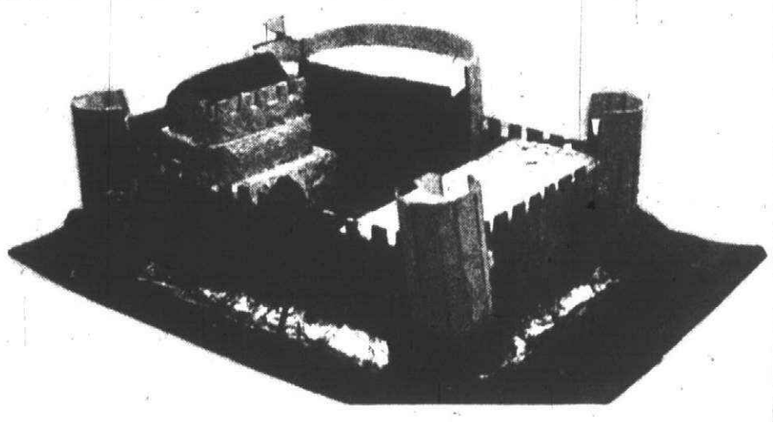
Students travel

Back to medieval times

Fifth- and sixth-graders in Nancy Mather's class at Isbister Elementary School could be the local experts on the Middle Ages. After weeks of extensive research, they know all about the feudal system, lords, ladies, knights, castles, manor homes and levels of class distinction.

They assumed the roles of the people of the era for the medieval banquet which topped off their studies. Family members were invited to share the festivities in the "Geat Hall of Isbister."

John Cole, 12, as King John I, and Catherine Piner, 12, as Queen Elizabeth, presided over the (potluck) banquet. The rest of the students were in attendance as a pope, a prince, a princess, lords, ladies, knights, a monk, a nun and several townspeople.



GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

The castle was constructed by the students.

Family members were escorted on a tour of the great hall to observe the students' work before they enjoyed the medieval feast.

THE GUESTS witnessed a duel demonstrated by Tom Grytza and John Cole. They were entertained by a magic show by Matt McAmmond and Robert Draper.

Jamie Olson and Susie Kemnitz wrote the play, "Apple of Death," presented by the students. Jamie also directed the play and was responsible for the props with the assistance of Stephanie Siemasz.

Narrator was Mary Snow. The parts of the Holy Priest and the Dead Cook were played by Steve Pryslack.

Others in the cast were: Tommy Grytza, King Marcus; Kelly McUmber, Lady Rachel; Stephanie Siemasz, Queen Alexandria; Scott Gerus, Lord William; John Cole, Magician; Doug Donaldson, Prince Herbert; Marc Stewart, Lord Roland; and Renee Muns, Lady Elizabeth.

In the evening finale, everyone joined hands in dancing the Turkish Brawl.

Students were dressed in their medieval best for the banquet.

Spring-time fashions on parade

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Tony Piizi modeled casual wear from Lent's; Carol Patterson's outfit was from Maggie and Me.

Plymouth Newcomers Club spring fashion show lived up to its reputation — good food in pleasant surroundings, fashions that promised colorful spring wardrobes, and scads of prizes.

"From Plymouth With Love" was the result of weeks of planning and hard work by the newcomers and the cooperation and generosity of the merchants.

Twenty-one shops and beauty salons were involved in the fashion show. Dozens more contributed prizes. The newcomers themselves made the little bandboxes, so no one went home empty-handed.

As Carole Brandt, club president, announced the prize winners, and Lynn Lyon, fashion moderator, described the fashions, hairdos and makeup, the festive mood prevailed.

The newcomers paid practical tribute to their new community with the donation of a check for $1,000 to Dunning-Hough Librarian Pat Thomas.

The majority of the fashions were modeled by the members of the club and their children. Peggy Jennings provided comedy relief along with L. John Miller and his collaborator Fred Hill, who produced some surprising costumes.

The other side of the coin was a surprise addition .

SCUBA DIVERS BEWARE

What does scuba diving have to do with dentistry? If you are a scuba diver, be sure to mention this to your dentist. Ask how the treatment you are having could affect you as a scuba diver. It could save you a lot of unnecessary pain and problems. For example:

If a scuba diver is being treated for root canal therapy which is temporized partially with cotton and he goes diving, complications can result - and most probably will. In diving, the atmospheric pressure changes. In fact, the pressure increases tremendously with each foot you descend. When air is trapped within the cotton fibers in a root canal, the air will expand when the diver surfaces resulting in a whopper of a toothache.

Even a filling which may have an air pocket can cause the diver problems on descent. The pressure is decreased (relative to the outside pressure of the water) and the air pocket is compressed. This could cause pain - and even result in an imploded tooth. In either case, the diver is going to need a dentist in a hurry. This may be a problem, especially if you like to dive off remote islands.

Payne impressive in Golden Gloves event

KANSAS CITY, MO. — Craig Payne, a super-heavyweight representing the Livonia Boxing Club, scored a unanimous decision Friday over Al Evans of Chicago in the finals of the National Golden Gloves at the Municipal Auditorium.

Payne, who weighed in at 226 pounds, completely dominated the match, keeping Evans from unloading his vaunted right hand.

The 20-year-old Livonia boxer advanced to Saturday night's final to face Warren Thompson of Baltimore, Md. (Complete result will appear in Thursday's Observer). The championship final between Payne and Thompson will be shown this Sunday on NBC's Sportsworld.

Thompson, who represented the U.S. Boxing Team on its recent international tours to Cuba and the Soviet Union, decisioned Eddie Richardson of Fort Worth, Texas, in the other semifinal.

"THAT BIG RIGHT hand (of Evans) never got off," said Livonia Boxing Club coach Paul Soucy. "I don't think he got more than six punches off against Craig. It's the best I've ever seen him."

Payne, one of three Detroit area boxers to earn a spot in the finals, said he felt comfortable and never was afraid in his three-round bout.

"I never worried about the big right," he said. "I got right on top of him."

Payne opened the tournament Tuesday by beating Tony Tucker, a 255-pound slugger from Toledo. The referee stopped the contest in the third round when Tucker was called for excessive holding.

In Thursday night's quarterfinals, Payne decisioned Kevin Sheeley of Minneapolis, Minn., the No. 4-ranked U.S. amateur. The victory avenged a controversial loss suffered by Payne in last year's AAU nationals held in California.

HEAVYWEIGHT RICK Londberg, Livonia's other entry in the National Golden Gloves, lost a close decision in his opener to Joe Gill of Omaha, Neb.

The 23-year-old Westland auto factory worker came on strong at the end but didn't pile up enough points to gain the decision.

"We thought Rick might sneak out the decision," said Rick Londberg, the Livonia coach. "He was disappointed, but he did a good job."

Gill, however, paid the price for victory over Londberg. He suffered numerous cuts and bruises from the bout and was unable to answer the call for his next match.

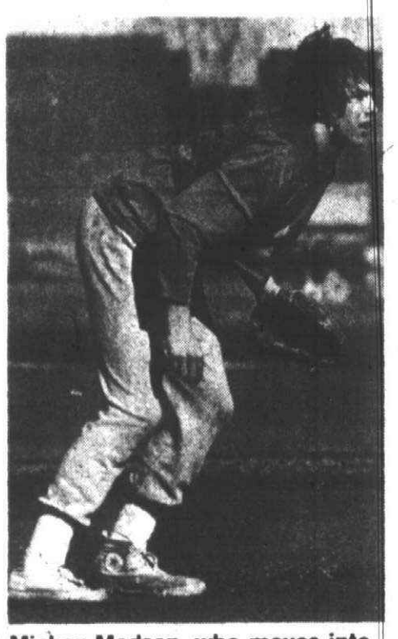
Gilles drills baseball club

Rocks work to cut mistakes



Mickey Madsen, who moves into the shortstop spot, anticipates a bunt play during a practice session last week.

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The learning process continues well after the school day ends for the Plymouth Salem baseball squad.

Coach Brian Gilles, who welcomes a host of veterans from last year's 13-13 team, is emphasizing fundementals in preparation for the upcoming season.

"We've been working a lot harder," said Gilles. "We're covering a lot of things we didn't do well last year.

"We're more concerned with the small things — that's what added up to a .500 season."

Gilles has been schooling his club on making the right play at the right time — the mental aspects of the game.

"Last year we lacked discipline," he continued. "This year we have to play with a lot of heart and remember the things we've worked on."

Just about everyone returns for the Rocks.

"We're a young club," said Gilles. "If the seniors lead the way, then the rest will respond."

The Rocks revolve around underclassmen Mickey Madsen, a shortstop, and Dave Slavin, a catcher. Both are juniors.

MADSEN batted .353 last season with 29 hits in 82 at-bats, earning All-Observer recognition. His defensive skills have allowed him to make an easy transition from the outfield to short.

Slavin, who has started since his freshman year, gives Salem stability behind the plate. He has a strong arm and can go in the dirt to block errant baseballs.

The stocky backstop hopes the regain the hitting form he showed as a ninth-grader.

"We're getting Dave to choke up for bat control," Gilles said. "He hit the ball well indoors. I think he's going to have a big year."

The pitching staff is not overpowering, but deep.

Senior lefty Bill Culver is 15 pounds stronger and heavier after lifting weights over the winter.

He was Salem's top pitcher a year ago with a 4-4 record and a 1.72 ERA while logging 57 innings.

Joe Humphries, Ken Vermuelen, John McDowell, Brian Kelly and lefty Greg Chappell — all seniors — saw spotty action on the mound last season.

JUNIORS Dave Haut, Barry McNamara and Pete Steyeart — all righthanders — will get their chance. Rick Berberet, a 6-foot-5 sophomore, is also in the picture.

"The one thing we're stressing is that our guys throw strikes," Gilles said. "We have to have them get ahead of the hitters."

The infield will have some new faces.

Juniors Dan Carlson, Bob DeBenedet and Tom Yakas are contesting for the first base job along with Vermuelen.

Todd Riedel, a junior, will play second base. He and Madsen are backed up by McDowell.

Humphries, one of the team's co-captains along with Culver and senior John Blanchard, moves over to third base from first. Humphries hit well from the left side last year and is expected to produce runs.

Juniors Jerry McMahon and Mike Janovsky, senior Larry Lamphear and McNamara can also play third.

The outfield is well stocked with returnees Jeff Hubert, Blanchard (also a catcher) and Steyeart. Hubert will open in center.

Other possibilities include Jud Scott, sophomore Mike Cindrich, Haut and Culver.

"WE HAVE speed and good arms," said Gilles, "but we have to hit out there. That was one of our problems last year. We didn't hit the ball, I feel. We have to see who's hitting out there to determine the lineup."

The Rocks open Wednesday at home against Trenton in a Suburban Eight League game.

Belleville, which returns its top two pitchers, appears to be the league favorite.

"Belleville has (Sam) Villa back," reminded Gilles. "They're going to be there again. Trenton says its better. Allen Park is good and Bentley has been in there the last five or six years."

Area drag racer hits stride in nationals

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Life is a drag for Lee Detrick.

He's a laid-off tool and die maker, but that's not getting him down. He's having fun these days.

Late model drag racing has given the friendly Garden City mechanic a new lease on life.

He came away with almost $1,700 in prize money two weeks ago (March 20-22) when he won the Darlington (S.C.) International Dragway Winternationals against all stock car competitors. The event was sponsored by the International Hot Rod Association (IHRA).

HIS 1970 Plymouth Barracuda set national records for elapsed time (13.11 seconds on a quarter-mile straightaway) and speed (107.50 mph).

His earnings included $1,000 for winning the race and another $700 in contingency awards from various sponsors.

A group of nine, including neighbors, family and friends, loaded up in Detrick's van for the trip to Darlington.

"It was my first competition this year," explained Detrick. "We were sitting around the garage and the weather was getting to me.

"The car was in the back yard and we had to pick the ice out of the tire wells. We went down there on vacation to get away from the cold and ended up winning the whole thing."

HIS BAND of supporters got to celebrate. It was Detrick's first win on the national pro circuit.

Sponsored locally by Mayfair's Hipo Shop of Taylor, Detrick can now enter as many as six upcoming national races this season. His five best finishes will count toward a national point-ranking system. Winning at Darlington has also enabled Detrick to gain free entry into the next event, May 1 in Rockingham, N.C. (IHRA Pro-Am Nationals).

Detrick made his mark in the 'B' Pure Stock Automatic class at Darlington. There are few modifications allowed. The car is essentially a blueprint from the factory. He must use street legal tires.

He posted the best clocking in the 'B' Pure Stock class and then went on to compete against the open stocks, winning six rounds en route to the title.

"It was my day," said Detrick. "I won every coin flip.

"A major role is the reaction time. I was very lucky to have several good reaction times."

Detrick knows cars inside and out. He's been racing since he was 16 and has tried his hand at both motorcyle and boat racing. Two years ago he was the points leader and runner-up in the Northern Nationals, held at Milan Dragway.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Lee Detrick shows off his hardware and car after winning a major national drag racing meet in Darlington, S.C. It was the biggest win in his racing career.

Perfectionists take over

Contradicting the belief that scores drop when the temperature rises, western suburb bowlers hit new season highs during the past week.

When the firing ceased, there were three perfect games registered and seven bowlers who broke the 700 series barrier, four in the Wonderland Classic.

Jeff Anderson, bowling on lanes seven and eight at Wonderland, rolled the first perfect game in the house this season. It was the first game of his series, and he added counts of 224 and 222 for a 746 series to pace the league.

Behind him came Tim Wright with a 727, Wes LaPalme with a 711, and Dean Brandenberg with a 705. All told, there were a dozen counts of more than 250 turned in for the session.

MIKE ZIGINAW was another who used a perfect game to boost him over the 700 mark. Competing in the Kings and Queens loop at Garden Lanes, Ziginaw opened with a 300 and went on to post a 730 series.

At Merri-Bowl, Tony Tschitsch racked up his 300, then calmed down and had to settle for a 663 series. Scoring was high, too, in the Senior House League where Ron Ratusznik showed the way with a 661, and Bob Duman had a consistent series of 212, 232 and 215 for a 660.

Bob Jacek will look back on his performance in the Mixed League at Woodland Lanes with mixed emotions. Jacek was on his way to a perfect game, rolling eight straight strikes, before Lady Luck frowned on him. He settled for a 258 game.

Undaunted, Jacek went on to add games of 218 and 234 for a 710 series and membership in the 700 club.

MEANWHILE FRANK BEZAK of the Ford League had games of 243 and 242 en route to a 658 series.

Kim Jones paced the high scoring session of the Ladies Classic at Westland Bowl with games of 235, 198 and 247 for a 685. Billy Hoerner was right behind with 650, and Cheryl Stepcak had a 639.

Hoerner and Stepcak, bowling together, battled down to the wire. Both popped 279 in their final games.

At Super Bowl, Bruce Brown qualified for the 700 club with a 727, made possible by a 277 middle game.

Randy Raszowski bowled a 275 in a 652 series at Garden Lanes, and Lorraine Watts fired a 253 in a 657 in the Hits and Misses League at Super Bowl.

Prep track teams make debut

Redford St. Agatha and Livonia Clarenceville split their dual meets Friday, with Clarenceville winning the boy's event, 63-51, and the Aggies taking the girls competition, 66-54.

In the girls' meet, St. Agatha won 11 events with Mona Clor and Beth Reicha each taking a pair of individual events.

Clor's victories came in the long jump (15-7) and 400-meter run (1:00.9). Reicha captured the 200 hurdles (31.9) and the 100 (13.5).

The Aggies collected a pair of wins in the relays. Tia Littlejohn, Donna Crabtree, Gina Johnson and Clor combined to take the 800 relay (1:58.7) and Clor, Reicha, Littlejohn and Karen Opipari teammed to finish first in the 1600 relay (4:23.0).

Individual winners for St. Agatha were Mary Churches in the discus (67-0), Colleen Murphy in the 1600 run (6:10.0), Opipari in the 800 run (2:33.0), Littlejohn in the 200 dash (28.2) and Paola Picano in the 3200 run (14:32.0).

Cathy McBride high jumped 5-3 for a Clarenceville win. The Trojans also captured the shotput, 100 hurdles and 400 run.

IN THE BOYS' event, St. Agatha had three double winners in individual events but still came up short against Clarenceville.

Dave Edgar won the 100-meter high hurdles (16.9) and 300 low hurdles (46.9), Joe Churches grabbed top honors in the discus (109-0) and shotput (40-9) and Glenn Higgins finished first in the 1600 run (5:08.0) and 3200 run (11:36.0).

KELLY GRAHAM did a little bit of everything for Westland John Glenn Tuesday.

The senior who attained All-America status a year ago in the 110-yard hurdles won a track event, a field event and anchored a winning relay as the Rockets blasted to victory in a girls' track tri-meet at Glenn.

The Rockets piled up 83 points to outdistance Wayne (39) and Garden City West (29) in the opening event of the season for all three teams.

Graham's wins came in her specialty, the 110 hurdles (17.6), the discus (92-0) and the mile relay. Graham teammed with Linda Carlson, Sandy Martinez and Teri Hobbins for first (4:35.0) in the relay.

Northwest Suburban League preview

Glenn favored in race

By Ken McDonald
special writer

"And now, the award presented to the most competitive high-school baseball league. The envelope please."

"The winner is . . ."

Ask any coach, and he'd make a case for his own league. But those in the Northwest Suburban League (NSL) are certain they take a back seat to no one.

"They're (NSL foes) all tough," said Garden City East coach Len Bartlo.

"Everyone will be tough this year," was Westland John Glenn coach Norm Hoenes' prediction.

"It's been a toss-up almost every year," Livonia Franklin skipper Gerry Cullin said.

Last year, Glenn and Thurston shared top honors with 7-3 records. This season's race will be just as close.

Here's a look at what to expect in this year's NSL baseball race.

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN

If there is a favorite for the NSL crown, the Rockets are it.

Hoenes and several other league coaches agree that Glenn is the early pick, with good reason. Several key players return from last year's 18-7 team.

Among them are senior left-handed pitcher John Paz (8-3 a year ago), senior shortstop Jim Watts (.360 batting average) and junior Tim Filary (.346 with three home runs).

The Rockets' outfield will be anchored by seniors Mike Dest and Troy Linden (18 steals) and junior Gordon Hassien. Hoenes said it is "one of the best total outfields we've ever had at Glenn."

Second base, catching and pitching depth are what the Rockets need to retain their share of the title, Hoenes said.

REDFORD THURSTON

Defense — that's what Eagle coach Emil Majeski is counting on to give his team another title.

"We should have a good defensive club all-around," said Majeski. "We'll hit the ball pretty good this year, too."

Returning sluggers for Thurston are junior shortstop Jeff Valdez (.269) and seniors Tim Soucey, an outfielder (.265), third baseman Chuck Dziadzio (.265), catcher Dan Phillips (.263) and pitcher Ed Dumas (3-2 in the NSL with a 2.02 ERA).

Depth on the mound may hurt Thurston. Dumas and Soucey are the only pitchers the Eagles have with varsity experience. Majeski will count heavily on new recruits Bob Cruce, Enzo Fifco and Tom James to pick up the slack.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN

If the belief, "Good pitching beats good hitting" holds true, Franklin is going to have problems this season.

The Patriots' pitching has been depleted by graduation. Cullin will have to fill that gap if his team is to challenge for the title.

"If my new pitchers can hold the other team off, we can score some runs and win some games," said Cullin.

Hitting and speed are the team's biggest assets. Mike Williamson, a senior, led the team in hitting a year ago (.417, 4 home runs, 26 RBIs, 15 steals) and will play shortstop this season for the Patriots.

Also returning are juniors Chris Lewis (.286) and Richard Popp (.261) and senior Ken Aguzzi (.278, 14 steals).

Mike Mimielie, Franklin's starting catcher last year, is sidelined with a dislocated shoulder. Cullin said he doubts Mimielie will catch this year, but he could be used as a designated hitter.

baseball

GARDEN CITY EAST

"The potential is definitely there, we just have to show we can do it in the league," said East coach Bartlo.

Now in his third year of coaching at East, Bartlo will have to make some dramatic changes if the Panthers are to improve on last year's 1-9 NSL mark.

John Bolen, who topped the team in hitting a year ago (.320), returns to play second base and pitch. Joining him are seniors Todd Contreras (right field), Jim Fordell (left field) and Bob Kosowski (third base), and juniors Brent Emery (shortstop), Bob Booth (third base) and Joe Taraskavage (pitcher).

Emery was Bartlo's choice as team MVP last season, Booth is "a good all-around player," and Taraskavage, at 6-2 and 230 pounds, has "lots of potential."

"We have to concentrate on getting an all-out effort from everyone this year," Bartlo added.

REDFORD UNION

Inexperience will plague Stu Rose's RU ball club this year.

But the outlook is still "rosy" for the second-year coach.

"The attitude is very good with the guys," Rose said. "We've got good sophomore prospects."

Six sophomores will be on the Panther squad, including a pair with varsity experience. Greg Drow saw action as a catcher a year ago, and Keith Manus batted .444 in a part-time role at third base.

All-NSL player Rob Zajac (.320) is back for his senior season, as is outfielder Tom Williams, the team leader in stolen bases.

Manus is the only pitcher with experience, making that a problem for RU. If the Panthers are to make a title run, their hitting and team speed will have to carry them there.

"With Williams and Zajac leading the way, our hitting will be all right," Rose said, adding that "overall team speed should be good."

Southfield coach looks back

By Tom Baer
staff writer

Greg Sliwka's voice still shakes a little when he has to talk about it.

"When I'm around home I kind of forget about it, but it all comes back when I have to talk to people like you . . . people who've been around it," Sliwka told a reporter Sunday night.

The "it" that keeps popping up in the conversation refers to Mark Harris' last-second 40-foot jump shot that somehow fell through the hoop to give Flint Central a 48-47 victory over Sliwka's Southfield squad in the state Class A basketball semifinals last Friday in Michigan State University's Jenison Fieldhouse.

Southfield, rallying for three quarters of the game after some lackluster play early on, had taken the lead, 47-46, on Jerome Walker's tip in with only eight seconds left.

At that point, Sliwka, along with most of the Blue Jay faithful in the crowd of 9,678, thought Southfield had the game won and would advance to the Class A final to play Detroit Southwestern.

But then Harris, a 6-foot senior guard who could make some college coach very happy, got his hands on the basketball and saw to it that Central — not Southfield — moved on to the glory game.

The loss sent Southfield home at 25-2, the best basketball record in the school's 30-year history.

SLIWKA, WHO spent the remainder of his weekend watching Central whip Southwestern in the Class A final and viewing a film of the Southfield game, talked about those last seconds after Walker's go-ahead bucket.

"The inbounds pass was to Mark at about our free-throw line," he said. "Jerome Walker did a smart thing — he stepped out of his (Harris') way. He (Harris) was on his way down court, and the official could have called a block.

"He (Harris) got to the 10-second line. He got to the Spartan head (about 40 feet from the basket), stopped his dribble, took one step and fired it up.

"Peewee Cornell (Southfield guard) came up and put a hand on him. We did everything we could. It just went in. What can you say?"

After the shot fell, Flint Central's fans stormed onto the court and mobbed Harris and the rest of the Indians. Tears streamed down the faces of Southfield's fans.

SLIWKA'S REACTION after the shot fell?

"My thought was: Why this way? I've never lost anything like this. I just couldn't believe it."

But the Southfield coach had nothing but praise for Harris, who scored a game-high 26 points. Twelve of those points came in the first quarter to but the Jays in an eight-point hole.

"I don't know of a better guard in the state," Sliwka said. "I don't care what newspapers say who's all state."

Harris' heroics overshadowed an exciting comeback by Southfield, which outscored Central in every quarter but the first.

The Jays trailed by five (36-31) at the three-quarters mark and cut the spread to three a couple of times in the fourth quarter before taking their first lead (41-40) on Mike Priest's 18-foot jumper with 5:06 left to play.

Priest, a 5-9 guard who hadn't scored until that time, keyed the comeback with six fourth-quarter points. There were eight lead changes during that last frantic eight minutes.

"It was difficult but we made the comeback, and I'm proud of the kids for that," Sliwka said. "I told the kids at halftime, 'Hey, if they're going to beat us, let them beat our best. Don't go out there in awe of all this.' "

ON CONTAINING Harris, whose game-saver was his only basket of the fourth quarter, Sliwka said: "I was looking for somebody to stop him. We went from Mike Priest to DeVoe Cornell to Peewee Cornell, and we just couldn't find any way to stop him.

"We finally had to leave our man-to-man and go to a zone. He (Harris) finally quit penetrating and started passing off to the other people. And he seldom got it (the ball) back.

"That gave our defense the chance to move around and make some steals and get us back in the game."

Jerome Walker, a 6-5 senior, led Southfield with 12 points. Darwin Cornell added nine, and Mike McCaskill and Ralph Walker contributed eight apiece.

Southfield will graduate four starters and its first sub — Priest, the Walkers and the Cornells — but the lone returning starter, 6-3 Mike McCaskill, could lead the Jays to another winning season.

"You never know what Michael can do," Sliwka said. "In the Brother Rice game (a regional victory for Southfield), he totally dominated. Next year, things depend on how far he can carry us.

"Our next goal is to see about getting our seniors into college. It's going to be very interesting to see what happens."

Sliwka also can count on this year's varsity substitutes, most of whom got plenty of playing time, the junior varisty (12-8) and the freshman squad (18-2) for help.

Mountain Jacks Claims Four Special Steaks

Special occasions are made even more special at Mountain Jacks restaurants by four unusual house specialties. These include a Filet Mignon stuffed with seasoned mushrooms, wrapped in bacon, charbroiled and then smothered with mushrooms sautéed in Chablis wine-butter. The Crab-Stuffed New Yorker features a New York strip steak stuffed with a tempting mixture of crabmeat, mushrooms, butter and parsley, charbroiled and heaped with mushrooms sautéed in brandied-butter. And, the Peppercorn Filet Mignon, a gourmet tender filet, wrapped in bacon and coated in freshly cracked peppercorns. The popular Beef Feast For Two offers the three cuts beef lovers prefer, top sirloin, filet mignon, and prime rib.

In addition to the house specialties, the menu offers more than 15 cuts of beef, fresh fish and seafood entrées.

The five Mountain Jacks restaurants, located in Troy, Farmington Hills, Warren, Ann Arbor, and Dearborn Heights, last fall introduced a new specialty menu. Since that time customer comments have ranged from "outstanding" to "truly unique," according to local managers. Two of the locations, Warren and Dearborn Heights, were formerly known as Stag & Hound. While ownership and management remain the same, the names of the restaurants have been changed to provide continuity and eliminate any confusion caused by restaurants of different names serving identical menus.

Don't forget your American Express Card!

J. Ross Browne's... A Seafood Success Story

SOUTHFIELD...The old Shakespearian question, "What is in a name?," is being asked these days at Southfield's J. Ross Browne's, formerly known as the Dry Dock. Those who enjoyed the Dry Dock may be wondering if their old favorite by any other name would be as good.

The answer to that question, from J. Ross Browne's Manager Mike Hunter, is an unqualified yes and no! "We won't be 'just' as good as the old Dry Dock. The name change signifies a whole new look and exciting additions to the menu which we feel will mean an even better dining experience for our old and new guests."

Hunter goes on to explain that "The Dry Dock and J. Ross Browne's are owned by the same company that operates the J. Ross Browne's in Bloomfield Hills and Warren. This means that the same level of quality and service will be maintained at all three Detroit restaurants. However, by changing the name to J. Ross Browne's it will be less confusing for our guests in the greater Detroit area."

Dining will be an all new pleasure with a large selection of gourmet seafood dishes, a daily variety of fresh fish, and a selection of steaks and prime rib.

The American Express Card is accepted at all J. Ross Browne's.

Visit J. Ross Browne's and discover that seafood of this rare quality is served at restaurants by no other name in the Detroit area.

Carlos Murphy's No Blarney and lots of Eggs.

SOUTHFIELD...St. Patrick's Day revelers at Carlos Murphy's Irish-Mexican Cafe found there was no blarney about the popular restaurant/lounge's "Pot of Gold" celebration held March 17-21.

Thousands of happy celebrants stole a coin from the Leprechaun's Pot of Gold during the four-day gala. As it happened, every participant was a winner! For some guests, the coin they plucked from the pot earned them a free Irish Stew dinner. To others, the coin meant a discount of food and drink or a tiny St. Patrick's Leprechaun.

Eight guests pulled genuine one ounce gold Krugerrands from the pot. The lucky winners were Richard T. McQuesten, James Gressler, James F. Vlk, Terry Berlin, Jeri Bailey, Adrianne Firsten, David Pesick and Eleanor Von Schmittou.

As the wearin' o' the green gives way to the wearin' of Easter Bonnets, Carlos Murphy's patrons will be able to participate in a special Easter Egg hunt. Beginning Easter Day, April 11, everyone who visits CM's will receive an Easter Egg hunt card. Crafty Easter Egg sleuths will be asked to peruse 6 "scratch off" Easter Eggs to determine a prize.

The best part of this hunt is that everyone is a winner! Informed sources revealed that behind each egg is a prize which could be any number of food discount prizes.

When asked to comment on the Carlos Murphy's event, the Easter Rabbit was heard to exclaim, "This will be the only place in town where I can get more bunny for the money!"

Mariel Hemingway as Chris Cahill clears a hurdle at the Olympic Trials in "Personal Best."

the movies

Louise Snider

A 'caring' camera examines world of women runners

What Michelangelo did for the athletic male body in his Sistine ceiling frescoes, Robert Towne has done for females in "Personal Best" (R). This is a movie that glorifies the female body — playing, resting, working, loving.

Towne, the director, producer and writer, and his cinematographer, Michael Chapman, have turned the cameras with a lover's delight on a group of women athletes. The camera hovers, circles and glides over the forms, as it records each turn, curve and variation of surface. At one time, a figure may be bathed in a golden glow, at another time, covered with droplets of perspiration.

"Personal Best" is a story about women pushing themselves to their physical limits in athletic competition. The focus of this story is two women who, over a four-year period, become friends, lovers and competitors.

If the movie appears exploitive in treating their homosexual relationship, that aspect is far outweighed by the movie's freshness and vitality. More important than that is the atmoshere established.

THE FILM CAPTURES the easy-going camaraderie of the whole group of athletes and their coaches. It shows them through the lens of a "kind" camera. No one is ever made to look bad. No one is ever ridiculed.

One of these delightfully fresh scenes is when the women work off their high spirits in a football game. In another scene, a woman, in a burst of enthusiasm, runs over and picks up her male coach.

The two central characters of this romp are Chris (Mariel Hemingway) and Tory (Patrice Donnelly). Tory is slim, dark, a little older and a lot wiser. Chris is a statuesque blonde with a little girl's voice that hasn't caught up with her body.

They notice each other at the Olympic track trials in 1976. Tory has given her usual winning performance, and Chris has failed miserably. Tory consoles Chris, and their friendship and love follow. Tory then inveigles her coach (played with lots of energy and humor by Scott Glenn) to let Chris train with the other members of the team.

The two women live together and train together. As Chris' athletic potential develops, she changes from a whiny, submissive person to one with growing confidence and assertiveness. The change in Chris also marks a change in her relationship with Tory. The growing competitiveness between them leads to quarrels and a final breakup.

THESE ARE healthy young animals, very aware of their bodies and very sensuous. There is a childlike simplicity and candidness about Chris that lends an innocent quality to all her actions. However, she and Tory, and the others on the team, display a singleness of purpose that is fascinating.

Looking at these attractive young people, you wonder what they would be like if their thoughts embraced other things besides liniments and lap times. Still, it's their narrow focus, perhaps, that makes them winners because they concentrate so completely on what they do. They stretch their muscles, not their minds.

Hemingway began training for her role with twice-daily workouts more than a year before principal photography started. She very convincingly performs each of the pentathlon events seen in the movie — the 100-meter hurdles, shotput, high jump, long jump and 800-meter race.

Donnelly was an athlete before turning to acting. She was a member of the U.S. Olympic Team in 1976, and at one time, she was the fourth-ranked hurdler in the world. "Personal Best" is her movie debut and a sensational one.

The authentic look of the movie is further bolstered by many other real-life athletes who have supporting roles. Kenny Moore, who plays Chris' boyfriend, is a former Olympic marathoner, and Jodi Anderson, who plays a member of the track team, is the current American pentathlon champion.

Together with Hemingway, these actor/athletes, as well as others in the film, present graceful and dynamic images of that most magnificent of all machines, the human body.

Landmark Smoker Study:

Merit Earns Taste Trophy.

Rigorous smoker tests confirm MERIT as proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking.

Just released—the results of extensive new research conducted by MERIT.

The conclusion: In tests comparing taste and tar combined, MERIT is the clear choice over leading higher tar brands.

MERIT Remains Unbeaten.

In impartial new tests where brand identity was concealed, the overwhelming majority of smokers reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading higher tar brands.

Moreover, when tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Taste Turning Smokers To MERIT.

In a separate part of this study, smokers report that MERIT taste is a major factor in completing their successful switch from higher tar brands.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers say MERIT is an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.
