Schools won't reduce class size

By Emory Daniels
staff writer

The length of the instructional day will remain the same at all levels in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for 1982-83.

That direction has been given by the school board to the administration as efforts are being made to come up with cuts in excess of $2 million to balance the budget.

Administrators are considering a number of options which would affect the time students spend at school, including a shortened lunch hour and fewer class periods of longer lengths.

Monday night the school board took a close look at the middle school day, curriculum, and scheduling methods. Making a presentation to the board were all of the district's middle school principals:

Robert Smith of West, Carl Taylor of East, Gus Gorguze of Central, Gerald Elston of Pioneer, and Gary Faber of Lowell.

A COUPLE OF weeks ago, central administration sent a memo to middle school principals directing that the length of the instructional day must remain the same next year but made five to six suggestions about changes which could be made to cut costs.

Dr. Mike Homes, assistant superintedent for instruction, summarized Monday night that options ranged from continuing with the present day of seven 47-minute classes, switch to six 55-minute classes, shorten the lunch hour and eliminate intramurals, reduce electives, or a combination.

The principals argued that the greatest amount of dollars could be saved by shortening the school day, but the board stood by its directive.

Dr. Homes also pointed out that shortening the day could increase busing costs to the point where it would offset any savings from laying off teachers.

Dale Goby, director of transportation, earlier reported that determining the impact of a shortened day would require spending $47,000 for computer services. He felt certain, though, that a shorter day would require hiring more drivers and adding more routes.

The principals said shortening the school day would allow them to lay off enough teachers to cut expenses by some $500,000.

Homes' response, though, was that the $500,000 could be wiped out by increased busing costs.

Taylor pointed out that enrollment is increasing at the middle school grades and quality would suffer if staff were reduced and the total instructional hours remained the same.

"To maintain the kids from 8 a.m. to 2:50 p.m. you need a certain number of faculty and support service personnel," said Taylor. "If we have the same or higher number of children for the same period of time, we need a minimum of staff to make it functional and safe."

An option Taylor and Elston said might work would be to lengthen the class period to 50 minutes, shorten the number of periods to six and add a common planning period for teachers.

Looking for the answer

Emily Tims, captain of Gallimore Elementary School's Book Bowl team, thoughtfully looks for an answer to a question during the annual book-quiz event. For more information on the competition, turn to Page 3A of today's Canton Observer.

Canton population leaps 341 percent last decade

Canton's current population of 48,000 represents a whopping 341 percent leap between 1970 and 1980.

During that same decade, the number of housing units in Canton skyrocketed 400 percent.

That information, taken in the 1980 census, is part of a community profile of Canton compiled by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

The reports, recently distributed to local municipalities, will be used to plan future land use, economic development and applications for grants.

THIS IS the first (information) to fall out of the Bureau of Census computers," explained Terry Carroll, grants coordinator for Canton. "It's a whole wealth of information."

The report shows total population, breakdown by age and sex, number of households and average market value of the housing stock.

"Those are very often questions that are asked by prospective industrial and commercial developers," Carroll added.

STATISTICS DEPICT Canton as a rapidly-growing community of overwhelmingly white, married residents in their 20s and 30s.

Canton has a population of 48,616. Females account for 50.2 percent of that total, according to the SEMCOG profile.

Median age of Canton's population is 26.6 years.

The largest grouping is among persons aged 30-44, with 13,426 residents. Ages 5-13 and 21-29 each comprise about 9,200 persons.

Canton has 3,774 residents age 55 and older, according to the profile.

THE RACIAL makeup is 94.6 percent white, 1.1 percent black and 4.3 percent "other, not Spanish."

According to a breakdown of housing units, Canton is listed as a community which is "developing rapidly." The chart lists a population increase of 340.9 percent between 1970-80.

The current housing stock is listed at 16,685 units.

SEVENTY-ONE PERCENT of Canton households consist of married couples, and the average number of persons per household is three.

Most residents — 74.1 percent — own or are buying the homes in which they live. A total of 56.2 percent of Canton homes fall within a market value range of $50,000-$79,999.

The median home value is $73,300, according to the profile.

Some 40.9 percent of renters pay $200-$299 monthly rental, while 28.5 percent pay $300-$399.

The median rent in Canton is $285.

Police investigating possible area 'chop shop' operations

By Gary M. Cates and Arlene Funke
staff writer

First the family car disappears, and a theft report is filed with the police.

Police recover the car several days or weeks later. Often, the car has been stripped of its engine, bumpers, batteries or other parts that can be pried away for later sale.

Police in Plymouth and Canton are investigating the possibility of a car theft and stripping operation in the area. Officers call such a plan a "chop shop."

"(Thieves) have difficulty selling the cars whole," said Lt. Dennis Joker, of the Canton police department. "The vehicle is worth so much more (piecemeal) than whole."

Parts are easy to sell and hard to trace, police say.

The theft of particular parts, rather than the whole car, comes from order-taking by the operation, said Plymouth Police Chief Carl Berry. Strip operations are occurring in most suburbs, Berry believes.

AN OBSERVER study of recent police reports indicates 34 auto-theft-related incidents in Plymouth during a 30-day period in late February and March.

Nine of the incidents were stolen hubcaps, while the remaining 25 were stolen cars, vehicles broken into, and parts taken. The number includes some attempted car thefts.

For example, reported thefts in Plymouth included doors, batteries, control panels and radios and stereo equipment. Ignitions and locks were reported vandalized.

Plymouth police also arrested a Canton man, 31, and a Whitmore Lake youth, for attempted auto larceny. The two were found under parked cars. The youth told police they were trying to steal drive shafts.

Retailers report sales boom in popular home computers

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Personal computer businesses appear to be programmed for success. Retailers report climbing sales which are a reflection of the nation-wide boom in home computer sales.

Some 20 percent of monthly sales at the Canton Radio Shack, on Ford and Sheldon, are attributed to personal computers, according to store manager Baiba Shimmell.

"This compares to a year ago when computer sales were at zero percent. The home computers are very popular," she says.

Radio Shack pulled in 23 percent of the $2.2 billion worldwide market for personal computers last year.

The growth of Apple Computer, a California-based firm, is a prime example of the growing interest in home computers.

Apple was founded in 1976 by Steven Jobs, who set up shop in a bedroom and garage. Six years later, Apple is expected to have sales of $600 million and join the ranks of the Fortune 500 companies.

In 1977, Apple sales were $2.7 million, which compares to 1980 when the company made $200 million.

The 26-year-old Jobs has opened a market which has sent the larger computer companies scrambling to produce a personal computer to compete with his product.

Xerox, IBM and Hewlett-Packard are currently marketing their own versions of the home computer.

'I would say the personal computers have been super successful. It's a boom situation.'

— Bill Evans
Radio Shack manager

"I WOULD say the personal computers have been super successful. It's a boom situation," says Bill Evans, manager of the Radio Shack Computer Center in Livonia, at Seven Mile and Farmington Road.

The variety of computers available for home use is vast. A person could buy a system to perform almost any function desired.

Personal computers are being used for pleasures such as playing video games to business tasks such as doing the bookkeeping, inventory and mailing for a moderate-size business.

The price range for personal computers goes from $300 for a Commodore VIC, to $900 for an Atari 400, to $2,200 for an Apple, according to Tracy Flora of the J. Malcolm Flora Co., a computer manufacturing represenative firm.

The personal computer prices compare to industry computer prices which range from $2,000 to $60,000, she says.

Personal computers break down to three catagories.

"There are computers bought for sheer recreational uses, some for recreational and serious use and then those bought for business use," says Evans.

If someone is interested in buying a personal computer the first step is to decide what the computer will be used for.

THE RECREATIONAL buyers want a computer which they can play with — for video games, graphic displays and puzzles.

Items to look for when buying a personal computer for recreational use are: making sure it can be hooked up to a home television set, color capability, and use of software (pre-programmed cartridges, tapes and discs).

A person wanting a computer for recreation and some serious use wants a computer which can be programmed for such uses household financing, making grocery lists and financial analysis.

This type of system will allow the user to do check book balancing and stock market analysis and hook-up to information services provided by phone. Personal computers also can be used for turning on appliances and lights, opening garage doors and answering telephone calls.

Elementary schools match wits in 2nd annual Book Bowl event

A good crowd watches the Book Bowl action at Fiegel Elementary School. The semifinals and championship rounds take place at 7 p.m. Thursday, April 22, at the Canton Library, on the third floor of Canton Township Hall, on Canton Center south of Cherry Hill.

By Gary Caskey
staff writer

Fiegel Elementary School Book Bowl participants barely withstood a late rally by Gallimore's visiting team to win one of the opening matches in the second annual Book Bowl contest.

The four-member teams answered questions about books and authors from a 24-book reading list.

Each team, given questions alternately, consulted with one another before allowing the team captain to answer for the squad.

If one team failed to answer correctly, the other team was given a chance to properly respond. Points and bonus points were awarded for right answers.

Moderators Dorothy Eden, Fiegel librarian, and Kathy Schmidt, librarian at Gallimore, asked 19 questions during the 40-minute contest. Barbara Schendel, timer and scorekeeper, kept busy as Fiegel edged Gallimore, 69-61.

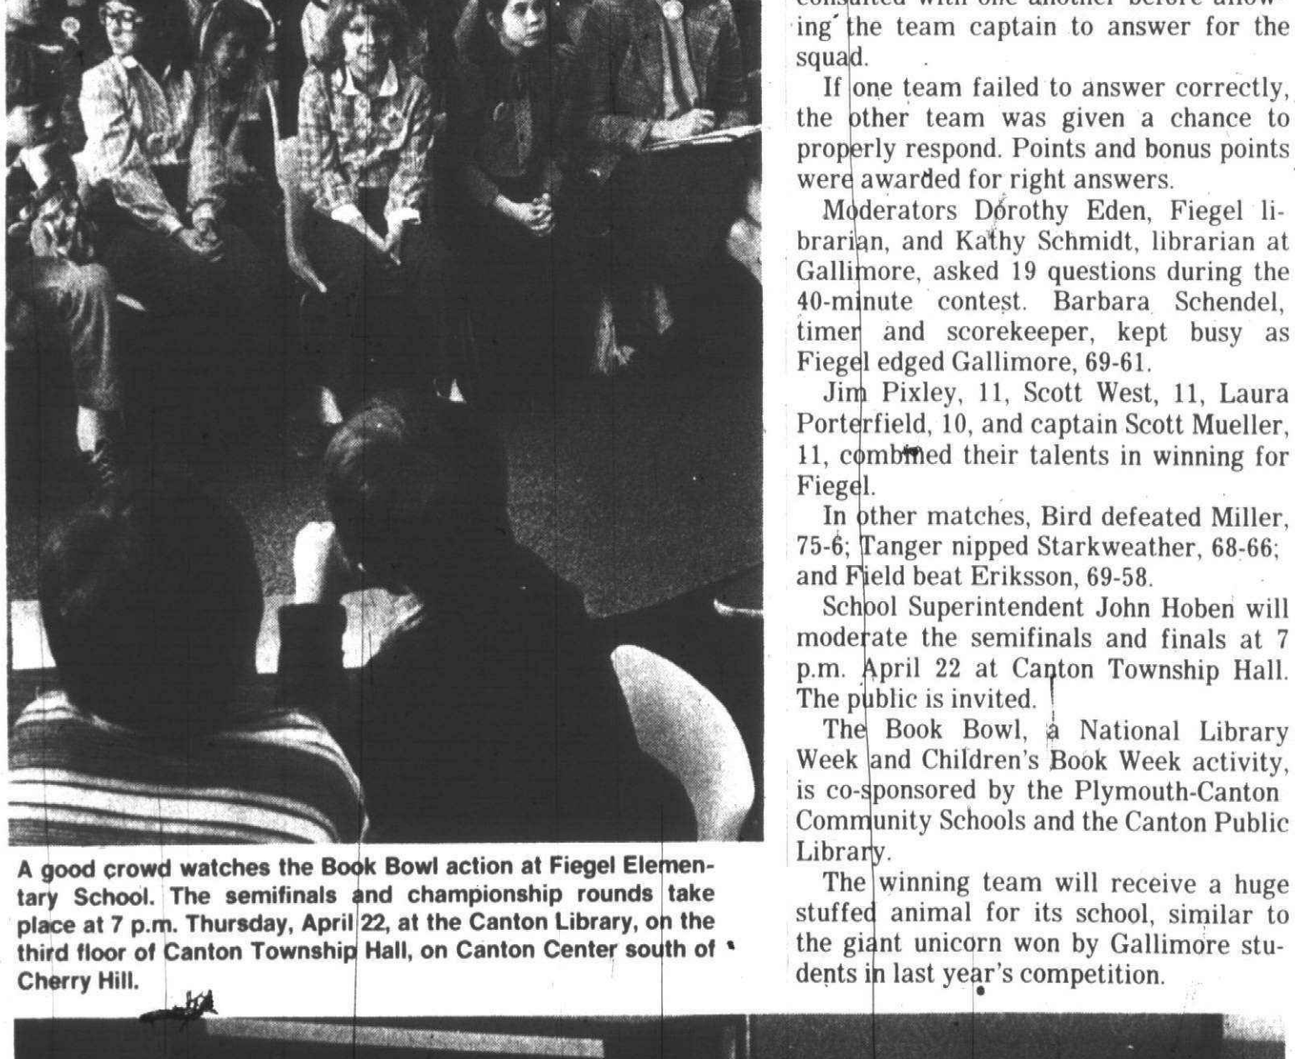

Jim Pixley, 11, Scott West, 11, Laura Porterfield, 10, and captain Scott Mueller, 11, combined their talents in winning for Fiegel.

In other matches, Bird defeated Miller, 75-6; Tanger nipped Starkweather, 68-66; and Field beat Eriksson, 69-58.

School Superintendent John Hoben will moderate the semifinals and finals at 7 p.m. April 22 at Canton Township Hall. The public is invited.

The Book Bowl, a National Library Week and Children's Book Week activity, is co-sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and the Canton Public Library.

The winning team will receive a huge stuffed animal for its school, similar to the giant unicorn won by Gallimore students in last year's competition.

The expressions of these Gallimore students tell the outcome of the competition against Fiegel.

Suburbs demand water-board input

By Tim Richard
staff writer

"There's an overwhelming clamor out there for a voice on the Detroit Water Board," said state Sen. George Hart, D-Dearborn, and that seemed to sum it up.

A half-dozen suburban officials Monday asked a Senate Municipalities Committee public hearing in Southfield for a majority voice on the board which recommends their water and sewerage rates.

The lone dissenting voice was that of William Krause, an official of the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department. Krause contended the Detroit Water Board is showing a new attitude of cooperation with suburban customers.

On this point Hart and committee Chairman Gilbert DiNello, D-East Detroit, had to agree. "Detroit refused to send a representative to our last two meetings. I was surprised this young man was here today," said Hart.

DETROIT SELLS water and/or sewage treatment services to some 100 southeastern Michigan communities with 45 percent of the state's population.

Its seven-member water board is appointed entirely by Mayor Coleman A. Young, who may remove members at any time. In practice, Young has appointed three suburbanites to the board, although legally he could appoint seven Detroiters.

Because of pollution emanating from the Detroit treatment plant and a resultant federal court suit, Detroit has raised drastically its water and sewerage rates.

Hart is author of Senate Bill 437 which would increase the water board's size but shift control to the suburbs. It would assure Detroit four members, suburban Wayne County three, Oakland County three, Macomb County two and other counties one to two, depending on how many residents use Detroit water.

"Sen. Hart's bill was reported unanimously out of my committee a couple of weeks ago," said DiNello.

Hart said he is waiting for an opportune time to bring it to the Senate floor, but he is less optimistic about its fate in the House of Representatives.

LEAD-OFF WITNESS Monday was George Kuhn, Oakland County drain commissioner who has spent years fighting for a suburban voice on the water board.

Kuhn voiced support for a pair of bills (SB 363 and 329) by DiNello and Sen. Donald Bishop, R-Rochester, which would establish a forum for customer communities to elect a new nine-member Detroit water board.

"The bill requires the city of Detroit to share with the municipalities in the metropolan area in a defined, cooperative manner, the responsibility for operating the regional water and sewer system," said Kuhn.

"A majority of the water and sewer customers of this system now live outside the city of Detroit, and a majority of the revenues to operate the water and sewer system are paid by customers who live outside the city of Detroit," he said, noting that no Detroit tax money subsidizes the system.

Kuhn is author of a ballot proposal after which the DiNello and Bishop bills were copied. In two years, he and his supporters have picked up 100,000 of the 230,000 petition signatures they need to put it on the ballot.

KRAUSE REPLIED that Detroit has adopted a cooperative attitude with its suburban customers.

"We are willing to correct errors. We are willing to share data," said Krause.

"This year the water rates were approved by a 7-0 vote of the commissioners. The sewer rates have been approved by a 6-1 vote, and that was only because of a specific problem in Macomb County. Those commissioners (members of the water board) were satisfied that what we are doing is fair."

"WE MUST have better representation and input than we now have," said Joseph B. Mullen, legislative agent for the Oakland County Board of Commissioners, who voiced the county's support for SB 329.

"The present water-sewer board has seven members, all of whom are appointed by the mayor of Detroit, and all can be removed by the mayor without cause. It has been the practice to appoint four Detroiters to this board and three from outside Detroit. Since this 4-3 makeup is not mandated, all seven members could conceivably be from Detroit if the mayor so intended.

"In contrast, SB 329 (Bishop's bill) would create a metropolitan water and sewer council with one member each from every local unit of government in the service area. Among the duties would be to review rates and procedures for water supply and sewage disposal to each community in the service area. . .

"SB 329 further empowers the council to select a nine-member regional water and sewer commission. Three would be from Detroit and six from the service area outside Detroit," said Mullen.

"AVON TOWNSHIP very strenuously objects to the (current) method of appointing representation of the Detroit Water and Sewer System," said a letter from Carroll T. Womack, director of the north Oakland township's public service department.

Board eyes cut in class choices

The result would be 900 instructional hours for students compared to 1,080 with teachers spending the same amount of time in the buildings. This action, Taylor and Elston maintained, would allow a reduction of about 20-25 teachers.

But that option was not agreeable to the board which wants the instructional time to remain the same and could not be resolved with Homes' contention that busing costs could well be greater than the 20-25 teaching spots eliminated.

A SHORTENED LUNCH period could result in a savings of about $60,000, Elston said, by eliminating the intramural athletic programs district-wide.

Taylor noted that from 1960 to 1970 when ninth graders were at East he operated with a 24-minute lunch period fairly effectively. Today, he added, the lunch period is too long.

Smith said he worked out enrollment projects for next year at Central and that six periods of 55 minutes each would require him to hire two additional teachers based on the number of students now in the district.

Cutting the school day would allow the same level of quality to continue, Smith said, except for a loss in the number of electives. Seventh-grade music, he noted as an example, would have to meet after school.

Carol Davis, board president, commented that what parents seem to want is fewer electives as many feel middle school students are unable to make such broad choices at that age level.

Smith argued that exposure to a broad range of experiences was a necessary part of the middle school program.

The middle school provides for one period per day for an elective, explained Smith, and one-half of the students or more use that one period for music (orchestra, band or chorus).

Davis said the board was not telling principals to eliminate electives, but to be creative in finding ways to introduce students to experiences beyond the basics.

Dr. John Telford, director of secondary education, stressed again that shortening the school day was not an acceptable alternative because of the transportation problems and costs.

Smith suggested the middle school could start later, perhaps 9:30 a.m., with the first period being a conference period, and that might reduce the busing problems.

Trustee Glenn Schroeder stressed that the board did not want to shorten the school day but wanted to increase the length of the middle school class period to make it more comparable with the high schools.

Faber said that goal could be accomplished, but that the principals wanted to caution the board that the option might be more costly.

Homes said it was quite likely the district would not be able to maintain a middle school program with the same quality, extent, consistency or continuity next year as that which now exists.

Folks buy computers

The key features to look for in this catagory are: a unit which has a full-size black and white television screen built in, disc drive capability (which increases memory and the amount of software which can be used), a unit which can be transported and can be added onto in the future (for such things as phone hookups, line printers, etc.).

Business-size personal computers are bought for increased memory capabilities, connecting with larger computer systems, word processing, mailing and letter capable printers.

MUCH OF THE interest in home computers stems from the increasing use of computers in schools and business.

"We're still not quite to the point of having one in every home, it's more like the businessman has bought one for his office and wants to bring it home," says Evans.

"Parents are also interested in computers because of the educational value. These things are great for teaching and learning," he says.

"The school use of computers encouraging parents to follow-up and buy one for the home. The kids will come home and spend hours writing programs and doing work on the computers."

Thieves strip cars for big profits

CANTON POLICE reported 14 stolen cars during January. Four cars were recovered. There also were three attempt car thefts.

February figures for Canton show nine thefts and four recoveries. Figures through March 23 show 13 thefts and one attempt.

Canton police also recovered four vehicles, some from thefts reported in Livonia, Westland and Farmington.

"We are finding remnants — little pieces of car," said Lt. Dennis Joker of the Canton police department. The National Auto Theft Bureau, an investigative organization formed and financed by insurance companies, is helping to identify the cars, he said.

WHILE THAT investigation continues, Canton police also are issuing a warning to persons who may consider buying used cars from individuals.

At least three persons unknowingly bought cars that had been reported stolen. In most cases, Joker said, the car had been parked in a shopping center with a for-sale sign and a phone number for interested persons to call.

Indications are that the seller was vague about his identity, said Joker. Fake identification papers apparently were used.

The cases are coming to light when police spot cars reported stolen, Joker said.

"They (buyers) are driving a stolen car, but they don't know it. They have a title, but it isn't the right one. We end up taking a car away from people who thought they were buying a good car."

Persons with information about either theft or scam may call Lt. Joker at 397-3000.

Sunshine Honda marks its 1st anniversary here

Sunshine Honda celebrated its first anniversary of business in Plymouth on April 5 with a champagne breakfast at the Hillside Inn in Plymouth.

Tom Bohlander, owner, presented pewter mugs to associates who have been with the company during its first year here.

According to Bohlander, Sunshine Honda currently is selling about $12 million in sales for its first year in business here.

The firm's payroll will be $500,000 with a staff of 30 associates who live primarily in the Plymouth-Canton area.

The firm operates on Ann Arbor Road east of Sheldon in the building formerly occupied by the American Motors dealership.

Bohlander attributes the success to a good location, selling a good product, having a staff which realizes the customer is boss, and having positive attitudes.

Bohlander predicts a 50 percent increase in sales in 1983 because Honda is the first Japanese company to open a factory in the U.S. and will be producing cars on a large scale in Marysville, Ohio.

Bohlander is a member of the Plymouth Rotary Club and is on the board of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

Ski business held its own in '81-82

By Lem Mesee
outdoors writer

Auto sales and new housing may be suffering from a depression but not skiing.

Michigan's ski industry suffered only a slight drop in revenues and skiers last winter. The break-even pattern occurred despite severe weather, which cut business nearly in half during some of the lucrative January-February period, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Substantial snowfall and severe cold temperatures at first kept skiers at home. But the added snow helped prolong the season and enabled operators to recoup most of their earlier losses," reported James Drury, Auto Club travel operations manager.

"The prolonged season allowed resorts to turn a poor season into a respectable one, and ski lodges took in an estimated $140.1 million, compared to $141 million for the 1980-81 season," Drury said.

Fifty-four of the state's 55 public downhill ski areas responding to Auto Club's survey reported 1.6 percent fewer skiers and revenues down an average of 0.5 percent.

Southeast Michigan resorts reported the biggest increases in skiers and revenues, which were up an average 10.5 and 9.6 percent, respectively. Skier numbers rose 6.5 percent and receipts were up 4.2 percent at west Michigan resorts, but the Upper Peninsula showed a decline.

"If it hadn't been for severe weather, many ski areas probably would have reported substantial growths," Drury said. Ninety-three percent of resorts reported that poor January and February weather caused an estimated 45 percent loss in potential revenue for that period.

"Nearly three out of four resorts reported an average 22 percent more natural snowfall this season compared with the previous winter and nearly 50 percent more snow than in 1979-80," Drury said.

That extra snow had its silver lining. Resort operators had to make much less artificial snow.

BIRDS DO MORE than sing pretty songs. Their populations are also an indicator of environmental problems, according to the Michigan Audubon Society.

To help keep an eye on declining populations, the federal government lists endangered species. But four Michigan biologists also have discovered that certain species are declining in Michigan, even though they are not yet technically endangered.

Ray Adams of the Kalamazoo Nature Center, John Lerg and Victor Janson of the state Department of Natural Resources and Doug McWhirter of Michigan State University surveyed 105 qualified field naturalists, raptor researchers and other birders to spot declinig species.

Here is a partial list of some declining species and what are believed to be the causes of their decline:

- Great blue heron — human disturbance in and around rookeries, destruction in the form of flood control projects, clearing, draining and logging in westland forests, pesticides and heavy metal contaminants.
- Black duck — loss of nesting habitat, competition by mallards for nesting habitat, hybrtidization with mallards.
- Sharp-tailed grouse — loss of large fire-maintained openings and the resultant loss of shrubby grassland.
- King rail — loss of marshland habitat for food and nesting.
- Barred owl — in Lower Peninsula, loss of habitat, human disturbance, competition with great horned owls. No problem in UP.
- Red-headed woodpecker — loss of habitat due to intensive use of forest resource, loss of elms and other trees, competition from starlings for nest holes.
- Eastern bluebird — loss of nesting holes due to cutting of over-mature trees by wood fiber and firewood industries, severe winters in southern states where population winters, competition for cavities with starlings and house sparrows, reduction of grasslands and old fields with loss of food supply, insecticide use in orchards, removal of over-mature fruit trees with nesting holes.
- Western meadowlark — loss of old fields and grasslands, changing land use and agricultural practices such as abandonment of the federal soil bank program; possibly an 80 percent decline in numbers since 1966.

County opposes new birth control rules

The Oakland County Board of Commissioners has gone on record opposing a federal regulation which would require family planning clinics to inform parents of minors who receive birth control drugs or devices.

The board voted 16-9 with for the resolution. Commissioners William Caddell, R-Walled Lake; Dr. Joseph Montante, R-Orchard Lake; and Robert Page, R-Birmingham; opposed it.

"I just don't think it's right to administer birth control to youngsters without their parents' or guardians' knowledge," Dr. Montante said.

Marilynn Gosling, R-Bloomfield Hills, chairwoman of the Health & Human Resources Committee, which sponsored the resolution, disagreed.

"Young people won't use the services if their parents have to be informed, and this will lead to many unwanted pregnancies, abortions and child abuse," she said.

The resolution was forwarded to Richard Schweiker, secretary of the U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services, Oakland County's congressional delegation and Oakland County's legislative agent.

Plawecki joins governor's race

State Sen. David Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, joined the 1982 gubernatorial race and qualified for state matching money.

A Plawecki campaign manager, Chris Smith, said the committee raised more than $85,910 qualifying Plawecki for $115,270 in state matching funds.

When announcing his candidacy, Plawecki told supporters that he shares the anger of Michigan citizens over President Ronald Reagan's economic experiments and what he called the political negligence of Michigan's governor.

Sen. David Plawecki in the running

"I am tired of listening to the prophets of doom who claim to be our leaders," he said.

"We have tried their policies, they have failed, and the people of Michigan want to go back to work."

PLAWECKI, 34, a three-term senator, outlined his four-part plan that will put Michigan on the road to recovery:

- The state needs to promote and support small businesses to move the state from reliance on one monolithic industry.
- It should construct a deep-water port in southeastern Michigan to draw new maritime trade and attract new jobs.
- A master re-industrialization plan for Michigan should be drawn in cooperation with local leaders to capitalize on the unique resources available in each separate area of the state.
- Aggressive marketing of the quality of life is afforded by the state's unrivaled industrial and recreational resources.

"WE CAN put our people back to work if we are willing to plan and to address the failures of the past," Plawecki said.

On the federal level, Plawecki said that as governor, he would lobby Washington for:

- retrictions on automobile and steel imports.
- an automobile content law.
- reduced foreign aid spending so more federal dollars could be used to improve and revitalize the economies of states.
- a "fair share" program designed to improve Michigan's share of tax dollars returned from Washington.
- an emergency jobs program, targeted especially for workers displaced by imports.
- and action to make the country competitive again.

Plawecki was first elected at the age of 22. He was the first president of the 15th district Young Democrats and an early Humphrey organizer. His family is prominent in UAW circles.

He holds an MBA from the University of Michigan and a mechancial engineering degree from General Motors Institute.

For the Democratic nomination for governor, Plawecki is pitted against Congressman James Blanchard of Pleasant Ridge, state Sens. Kerry Kammer of Pontiac and. Ed Pierce of Ann Arbor, tax cut leader Robert Tisch, Zolton Ferency, John Safran and Clair White.

WOW!

If you were one of the 1,623 persons who responded to our school budget survey, you may be interested to know how the survey stacks up on a national average.

As the surveys began to pour in, we knew we were seeing a whopping interest in this subject. Considering the state of the current economy, we weren't really surprised. But after the last survey responses were delivered by mailperson Jan Allen and the last graph was drawn and the dust had settled, we heard from Wallace E. Smith, head of a California-based business systems firm.

Smith tells us we had a 9.4% response from our readers –eight or nine times the one or two per cent norm! Wow! He adds the results indicate a strong, involved readership and a survey topic of major importance to our readers.

As your community newspaper it is our responsibility to keep you informed on all the local issues and events that effect your life. We think we do a pretty good job. And when we take an important issue like this to our readers we are impressed with the results.

Thank you for putting such a healthy amount of response in our responsibility.

Jazz concert will be free

A free jazz concert, featuring groups from Observerland high schools, will be presented April 22 in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High.

The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the school, which is located on Joy Road just west of Canton Center Road.

James Griffith, director of bands at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP), has invited bands from John Glenn High in Wayne-Westland, directed by Norm Logan, Livonia Stevenson High, directed by Richard Neal, and Dearborn Fordson High, directed by Jack Pierson, to share the stage with the CEP Jazz Band.

"This is a talent-sharing program," said Griffith. "There will be no judges, no first prizes — just the opportunity for students interested in this medium of performance to hear others with similar interests."

Each group will have a half-hour of stage time.

A reception for the participants will be held in the cafeteria of Salem High immediately following the program.

The public is welcome to attend the free concert.

The view from Tabhga, site of the so-called miracle of loaves and fishes on the Sea of Galilee.

IRIS JONES

The Sea of Galilee

A small lake is still steeped in biblical history — and life goes on

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

IT IS JUST a small lake, eight by 14 miles, with a narrow river flowing in and out at each end and a green band of treed shore separating it from the dry hills beyond.

The Israelis call it Lake Kinneret, from the Hebrew word for harp or lyre, because the little lake is shaped like a harp. Christians call it the Sea of Galilee.

From a modern resort hotel in Tiberias, on the western shore, you can look north past fishing and sightseeing boats towards Magdala, where Mary Magdalene once lived, and the table rock where Jesus performed the miracle of the loaves and the fishes.

Beyond that is the Mount of Beatitudes, site of the Sermon on the Mount, and Capernaum, where Christ taught in the temple and found three fishermen called Peter, Andrew and Mark.

Most Christian sites are now small protected ruins along the lake shore, but fishing is still a major occupation in the Sea of Galilee, especially for St. Peter's fish. And active daily life goes on, in towns and kibbutzim, in a land where every turn of the road has a biblical connotation.

TIBERIAS WAS FOUNDED 2,000 years ago by the son of Herod the Great, and became one of the four holy cities of ancient Palestine. It is about 100 miles from Bethlehem, where Jesus was born, and roughly the same distance from Jerusalem, where Jesus was crucified.

It is only a half-hour drive down the highway from Tiberias to Nazareth, the home of Joseph, Mary and Jesus, where the contemporary Church of the Annunciation rises in the center of what is now a Christian Arab city.

Tiberias has been a resort town for centuries, because its temperature never drops below about 58 degrees and it seldom rains. There are hot springs nearby, many historic sites in the area and a variety of resort facilities built around the lake.

An elegant contemporary hotel, the Tiberias Plaza, is operated by Canadian Pacific Hotels on the shore of the lake.

From here you can take a lake steamer to the Spring Music Festival at Kibbutz En Gev, visit the Roman bath houses and hot sulphur springs at Hamat Gader, tour the Crusader fortress at Kochav Hayarden to the south, or go north towards Capernaum via Kibbutz Ginossar. One of Israel's 23 kibbutz inns is located here.

KIBBUTZ GINOSSAR. There are roses blooming here now, their blooms making colorful splashes against the dry rocky hills beside the Sea of Galilee.

When Rafael Lanzer came here in 1937, at the age of 23, the 1,200 acres of the kibbutz were made up of rocky desert and thorn bush. Rafael and his 80 young friends — half Israelis and half new immigrants from Eastern Europe — cleared the land with mules and built a watchtower wall against Arab raids. Things have been fairly quiet here now for many years.

Tourists can observe the life of the kibbutz, where they now grow 2,500 tons of grapefruit and 2,000 tons of bananas a year, by staying overnight in Nof Ginossar, a small modern hotel with a large common dining room.

Tourist facilities in kibbutz settings range from campgrounds through high-rise hotels to sports centers. Here, at Kibbutz Ginossar, the inn makes four two-story square shapes amid the Australian eucalyptus trees planted to dry up the swamp.

The Sea of Galilee is a smooth, shining surface between the scorched brown hills that fold away into the morning mist. There are birds in the bullrushes and shore grass, and fishing boats dimly seen across the water.

A single white line rises across the sky above, as a jet takes off from the airport 75 miles away in Tel Aviv, on the Mediterranean.

Here, beside the lake, there is only the sound of lapping water, the cry of birds and the laughter of children in the playground behind.

FROM THE ORCHARDS of the kibbutz, the treed top of the Mount of the Beatitudes is clearly visible against the morning sky, only a short drive away.

En route, you will stop at Tabhga, where a single monk and a small church mark the place of the miracle of loaves and fishes, and the spot beside the lake where Jesus appeared after the resurrection.

The most visible sign of the life of Christ is found, however, in Capernaum, which has been described as Jesus' second home. Twenty centuries ago it was a garrison town, a center of administration and a customs station.

The town was a wasteland strewn with stones that were being burned into quicklime by nomdaic Bedouins when the Franciscans began to excavate the ruins at the turn of this century.

Now the little town is marked by a low stone wall and a row of trees beside the Sea of Galilee. This is the village of St. Peter and of the synagogue where Jesus often preached. The temple now visible was built on top of the ruins of the original synagogue.

The Jordan River, about 30 feet wide, flows through low trees and scrub into the Sea of Galilee a short distance from Capernaum. In this desert land, it would seem like a deep, wide river, although it is no wider than the Au Sable River in Michigan. (A new baptismal site, with facilities for the handicapped, has been established where the Jordan River runs out of the lake to the south.)

ALL OF THESE biblical sites are set against dry desert hills. To give you a perspective on this arid scene, drive high up into the Galilean hills to a guest farm run by Yehuda Avni from Chicago.

The ranch literally blooms out of the top of the hills: ranch buildings in the middle of green trees, with pink and purple rhododendrum rioting across green grass between the guest house and the horse barns. This is what happens when you water these hills.

Beyond the fence, the boulder and thornbush landscape tumbles away in dry desert colors to the Sea of Galilee.

The best way to see the biblical aspects of Israel are with a trained guide from the Israeli tourist board. Guides like Shraga Ben Yosef and Gideon Shor are more than amiable, knowledgable companions; they know more about Christian, Jewish and Arab historic sites than you will be able to absorb in any single visit.

For information, contact the Israel Government Tourist Office, 5 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, IL 60603.

Tourism continues growth between Israel and Egypt

Today is the first day of Passover, which celebrates the deliverance of the Israelites from bondage in Egypt. The exodus took the Israelites across the Red Sea and the Sinai desert to Mt. Sinai, where Moses brought the Ten Commandments down from the mountain.

Travel between Egypt and Israel was impossible for much of this century, until a joint tourism agreement was signed between the two countries early in 1980.

In April, if the agreed transfer of the Sinai occurs, returning this troubled desert land to Egypt, a new joint tourism agreement goes into effect between Israel and Egypt.

Eight flights now operate daily between Tel Aviv and Cairo; a large proportion of their passengers are American vacationers. Tourists also travel overland along the Sinai highway, which connects both countries.

New bus service will be added from Tel Aviv to Cairo and from Elat to Sharm-el-Sheikh. Air service will also be instituted by both Israeli and Egyptian airlines from Tel Aviv and Elat to Mt. Sinai Airport, and to Ras Nasrani on the Red Sea coast.

The two governments will conduct joint tourist promotions, open government tourist offices in their respective counterpart countries, and arrange charters on wide-bodied aircraft from Europe.

Land traffic will also be open for various types of vehicles along the Mediterranean coastal road from Gaza to Kantara, across the desert from Beersheba to Ismailya and along the Red Sea coast between Elat and Sharm-El-Sheikh.

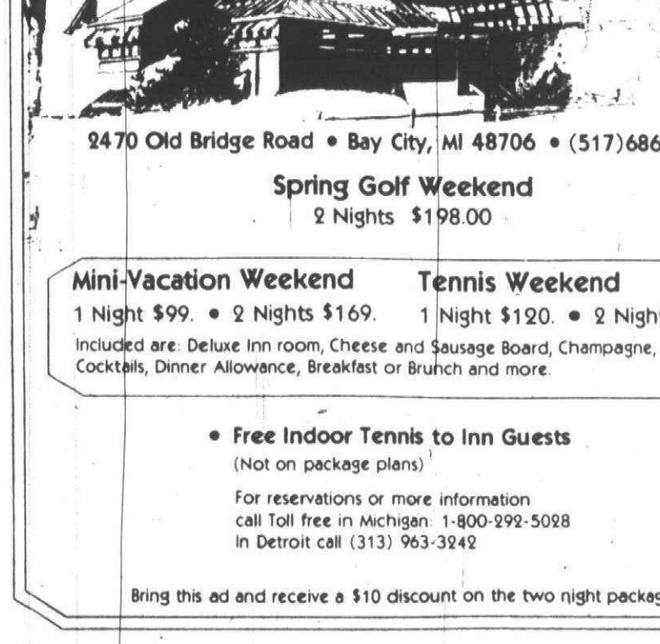

Various tourist centers in the Sinai will thus be accessible from Israel as well as other parts of Egypt. Egypt will acquire and continue to operate tourist facilities built in the Sinai by the Israelis, where travelers have learned to enjoy both the beaches and the underwater life.

Another step in the normalization process will be the opening of an Egyptian consulate in Elat and an Israel consulate at Sharm-El Sheikh.

Schools must respond to budget issue

THIS BUSINESS WE call journalism — an art of communication — can have its frustrating moments.

It often is difficult for all journalists to sit behind typewriters and write stories which will reach all our readers.

Clearly, this is impossible because our readers have different interests. Some readers want more government news, while others only read the Suburban Life section. Still others really don't care about government happenings — they only want to see if Plymouth Canton or Plymouth Salem won their respective high school basketball games the night before and turn directly to the sports pages.

It's difficult to reach everyone.

NOW, MAYBE YOU CAN undestand how gratifying it was for us to offer a readership survey last month which produced 1,623 responses.

The Observer survey asked Plymouth and Canton readers to prioritize proposed budget reductions in 13 different areas of school spending. Plymouth-Canton Community Schools faces an estimated $2.2-million budget deficit for the 1982-83 school year. Estimated expenditures of $43.6 million exceed approximately $41.8 million in revenues. The 1,600 responses represent approximately 9.4 percent of our circulation — eight or nine times the normal readership-survey response, according to Wallace E. Smith, head of a California-based national research firm which analyzed the survey.

The 1,600 responses also represent a better reply than some voter turnouts in local elections.

THE CONTROVERSIAL ISSUE of prioritizing school budget cuts obviously is important to Plymouth-Canton district residents. We succeeded in our art of communication.

It's too bad, however, that Plymouth-Canton Community Schools failed in this objective. The school district still has not responded to the importance of this issue. The school district — once again

Doc's corner

Dennis O'Connor

— has failed to properly communicate to its public.

Almost two months have passed since the Board of Education met at a public workshop to discuss the budget. After that workshop, board members met in small groups and began ranking — both individually and as a group — their budget priorities.

We haven't seen those results.

School administration, likewise, met before the workshop to rank their budget items. We haven't seen those results either.

What's the big secret? Why can't the public see these results? Is the board afraid of conflicting results among its members? Is the board afraid of conflict, period?

What does administration accomplish by not revealing its results? Is it possible administration's results conflict with board members' results or with our survey results?

WE UNDERSTAND the budget process is a long, tedious and very uncertain process. There is no way of measuring the actual deficit at this time. Too many unknowns exist — student enrollment growth or decline, state revenue and union negotiation results with seven labor units.

But the public deserves to know how the board and administration view the importance — or insignificance — in different areas of school spending.

Plymouth-Canton residents said how they felt about the proposed reductions through the Observer's readership survey.

Now it's time for the board and administration to respond.

Dems provide early look at county exec hopefuls

It's easy to say an election will mark a turning point in history, and that one particular election is the most important in a generation.

In the case of the Wayne County executive, however, it happens to be true.

Michigan's first county executive under a home-rule charter will be nominated in the Aug. 3 primaries and elected for a four-year term on Nov. 2.

Given Wayne County's large Democratic majority, the odds are that this executive will actually be picked in the Democratic primary. Voters in both parties are giving it a good bit of attention.

And so the 2nd District-Wayne Democratic organization is to be praised for scheduling a candidates night at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 21, in the auditorium of Bentley High School, Five Mile at Hubbard, Livonia.

AT LEAST four — and perhaps more — candidates are seriously seeking support. Wise voters, therefore, will not wait until the weekend before the primary to make up their minds.

Rather, they should make up their minds as early as possible and begin immediately to give active support to the candidate who seems best equipped to turn county government around. That means offering monetary donations and working support. Without such support — early — a good candidate may decide to drop out.

To be fair, the Democratic organization is inviting every known candidate — Livonia Mayor Ed McNamara, state Sen. John Hertel, economic development chief Robert FitzPatrick, Sheriff William Lucas — to appear and be heard.

Usually, the winnowing out of candidates is done in political cloakrooms. Rarely is there a public forum so early in the campaign season. The local Democrats are doing voters a genuine favor by bringing the candidates forward this early.

ONE IMPORTANT rule is that all questions will be addressed to all candidates. There should be no softball questions from a pal to one candidate and nasty questions to another.

In this light, The Observer would like to invite readers who may be unable to attend the April 21 forum to mail their questions to this newspaper.

We will compile them and do our level best to get them asked and answered the night of the forum. We are also planning extensive coverage of the event.

Naturally, it would be even better if every voter could show up and give the candidates the questions directly. But if that should be impossible for you, your home-town newspaper stands ready to help.

ELECTION OF the county executive is the most important item on the ballot this year for a long list of reasons. Among them:

- The executive is empowered by the charter we approved last year to reorganize county administration during his/her first 90 days in office. Change may be difficult once that structure is locked into place.
- There are other entrenched county administrators on the scene — the clerk, treasurer, prosecutor, sheriff, etc.. Wayne County needs an executive who can deal with them without alienating them. Internecine warfare is a strong possibility — but a luxury we cannot afford.
- The county executive will be the only administrator in county government who owes his/her allegiance directly to the voters. All other countywide officeholders are there originally by appointment. Only the executive will have a true voter mandate. It's vital the first executive be the best person possible.
- Wayne County government is the laughing stock of the state, with its constant fiscal problems, lawsuits, political pollution of the hiring process, lawsuits, poor morale among good workers, lawsuits, economic woes and lawsuits. The charter we approved last year borders on the excellent. But a good charter isn't enough. A first-class executive is needed to put it to work.

The Crusher

Cigarette tax hike is a futile move

Steve Barnaby

I'm about ready to celebrate an anniversary come April 20. That's the day I crushed out my last cigarette, stuck my pipes in the bottom drawer and vowed never again to smoke — not even a good cigar after dinner.

Now don't get me wrong. I'm anything but one of those evangelical reformed smokers urging others to save their hearts and lungs.

Sure, smoking is bad for a person's health. That's why I quit. But quite frankly, I enjoyed the evil weed and truly do miss it.

THAT'S WHY an increase of 10 cents in the Michigan cigarette tax will do nothing but cause trouble for our already economically burdened state.

The messianic reformed and the uninitiated nonsmokers also should realize that when it comes to smoking, increasing prices will do little to quench the flame.

As a matter of fact, smokers enjoy their habit so much, they'll do anything to satiate it — including break the law. Gov. Milliken and other well-intentioned legislators should heed the lessons learned in other states which have attempted to profit from the habit.

In New York City, whose smokers pay a 23 cent-a-pack tax on cigarettes, half the cigarettes sold have been smuggled from other states where smokes are cheaper.

The smuggling has actually cost the state $100 million annually in revenue and put many legitimate wholesalers out of business.

MILLIKEN WOULD like to beef up the state cash flow by $140 million with this new tax increase. But State Revenue Commissioner Sydney Goodman begs to differ.

The 10-cent increase, bringing the tax to 21 cents a pack, would only garner the state $95 million because of smuggling and an estimated 12 percent decline in consumption, says Goodman.

Now, I question this "decline in consumption" business. I remember my grandmother swearing to the Almighty that when cigarettes increased to 25 cents-a-pack she would quit. She lived to see cigarettes kill her for at least 50-cents-a-pack.

Actually, a lot of folks in this state would chance breaking the law to take advantage of the increased tax. After all, filling up a U-Haul with thousands of cigarettes and driving them from 3-cent-a-pack Kentucky to 21-cent-a-pack Michigan could be very profitable.

Michigan, remember, is the hardest-hit state when it comes to unemployment. We're nearing Depression-era levels. And believe me, when you or the kids are hungry, breaking a silly old tax law to eat is pretty tempting.

At present the Contraband Cigarette Tax Act prohibits transporting more than 300 cartons across state lines without paying state and federal taxes.

BIG DEAL.

It would cost this state millions of dollars in additional law enforcement officers just to catch the smugglers. In truth, only a handful would be caught. Those apprehensions would increase court costs by jamming up the dockets even more.

And then, if prosecuted, the smugglers would cost taxpayers additional dollars in prison room and board costs.

No thank you, Gov. Milliken. Try some other way to raise revenue, legislators. Smoking is an American way of life from which neither the participants or the state can ever profit.

Tigers: team with a great opportunity

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

This is the week major league baseball takes center stage in the sports world, and the natural question is asked, "What about the Tigers?"

No one has predicted they will win the pennant or even come close. And many once-loyal fans are snickering about their chances after their sorrowful showing down south in the exhibition games.

But as the luncheon conversation went on, one of the team's followers who had been watching the drama (and sometimes humor) at the corner of Michigan and Trumbull avenues looked up and shocked most listeners when he said, "This team has one of the greatest opportunities of them all."

His listeners seemed stunned. That is, until the old gent, whose interest in the game goes back almost to the days of Abner Doubleday, continued:

"REMEMBER the days of 1934 and '35, when Mickey Cochrane, then the manager, led them to two pennants and a World Series, and gave the city new life in the midst of the Depression?

"And remember how the 1968 team — with fellows like Denny McLain, Mickey Lolich, Bill Freehan and Mickey Stanley — made folks forget the urban crisis and gave the entire state something to cheer about when they won the World Series?"

The old gent looked around the table and went on, "Well this team has a chance to buoy the spirits of an entire state again. And it doesn't have to win the pennant — though that would be a great help."

It was a strange twist in the conversation, but the old gent's listeners recalled that the Tigers narrowly missed the playoffs last season with a drive in the second half of the divided campaign.

"And they did it without a battling leader on the field," the old gent reminded them.

"Now if they can uncover a field leader — something that has been lacking for a long time — they could pick up that spirit again and gain a place in baseball history."

THE LISTENERS, who had been around in the years when Mickey Cochrane was manager, well remembered how "Black Mike," from his catcher's position, proved a fiery leader. He led the forces on the battlefield, and his leadership brought results.

He took a mediocre team in 1933 and drove it to the pennant in 1934, only to be humiliated by Dizzy Dean and the St. Louis Cardinals in the series.

Cochrane didn't stop there. With more forceful leadership than ever, he came back in 1935 and not only won the pennant but defeated the Chicago Cubs in the World Series. It was the first time in 25 years that the Tigers had ascended to so lofty a position.

In 1968 there was no outstanding leader on the playing field, but the entire team had a lust for victory. With that spirit, they won. Who can forget how Mickey Lolich, the pot-bellied left-hander who is now a suburban doughnut maker, won three games and brought the world championship to Detroit.

NOW WE ARE into another season. Sparky Anderson, while appearing to be a fiery leader, lacks the drive of a Mickey Cochrane. To make up for that, he has placed the burden on the team.

"They can go all the way — if they want to," he said.

And if they do, this 1982 team can take its place with the teams of 1935 and 1968 as the team that boosted the spirits of an entire state in a time of unemployment, spiraling inflation and the other things that cause people's spirits to dip.

It has been done before. Here is hoping it can be done again. As the old gent said, "This team has a great opportunity."

How to preserve photos, slides

Monte Nagler

How many times have you tried searching for a box of slides or set or prints from that special occasion years ago only to be sytmied as to where you last put them?

Do you have boxes of loose slides and drawers full of loose prints that are totally disorganized?

You're not alone. A great many photographers regard the filing and storage of negatives, prints and slides as a baffling, disheartening task to be avoided.

Imagine how convenient it would be to have an organized filing system, to have your prints and negatives orderly, neat and available at a finger's touch. It's easier than you might imagine.

SOME COMMON storage methods actuallly are harmful to your work.

Cardboard boxes, throughout the years, will emit discernible amounts of gases and peroxides that will tarnish the silver in films and prints, causing fading and loss of picture detail.

The same is true for brown paper envelopes often used to hold prints and negatives. Glue in the seams of many envelopes can cause bleaching and discoloration if they get too close to the emulsion of a picture.

Rubber bands wrapped around transparencies or rolls of negatives contain sulfur compounds which can turn your pictures yellow or brown. Even some plastics that are intended to protect your pictures may in fact be harmful.

Here is some advice on how to avoid these dangers and to assure the safety of a photographer's most valuable possessions pictures.

NEGATIVES: Care in preserving your prints must naturally begin with your negatives.

This is most easily done by slipping them into polyethylene transparent holders which in turn can be perforated and stored in vinyl binders. Larger negatives can be stored in polyethylene sleeves and housed in small steel cabinets.

Polyethylene will resist moisture and will not decay or grow misty with age. Furthermore, contact sheets can be made of the negetives without removing them from their holders.

PRINTS: Sunlight fades and bleaches color prints. Acids in some mounting board and papers can affect the images in black and white photographs.

To avoid these difficulties, use acid-free mounting board with all your pictures and place acid-free interleaving papers between each print when you store them. Special print storage boxes help, too.

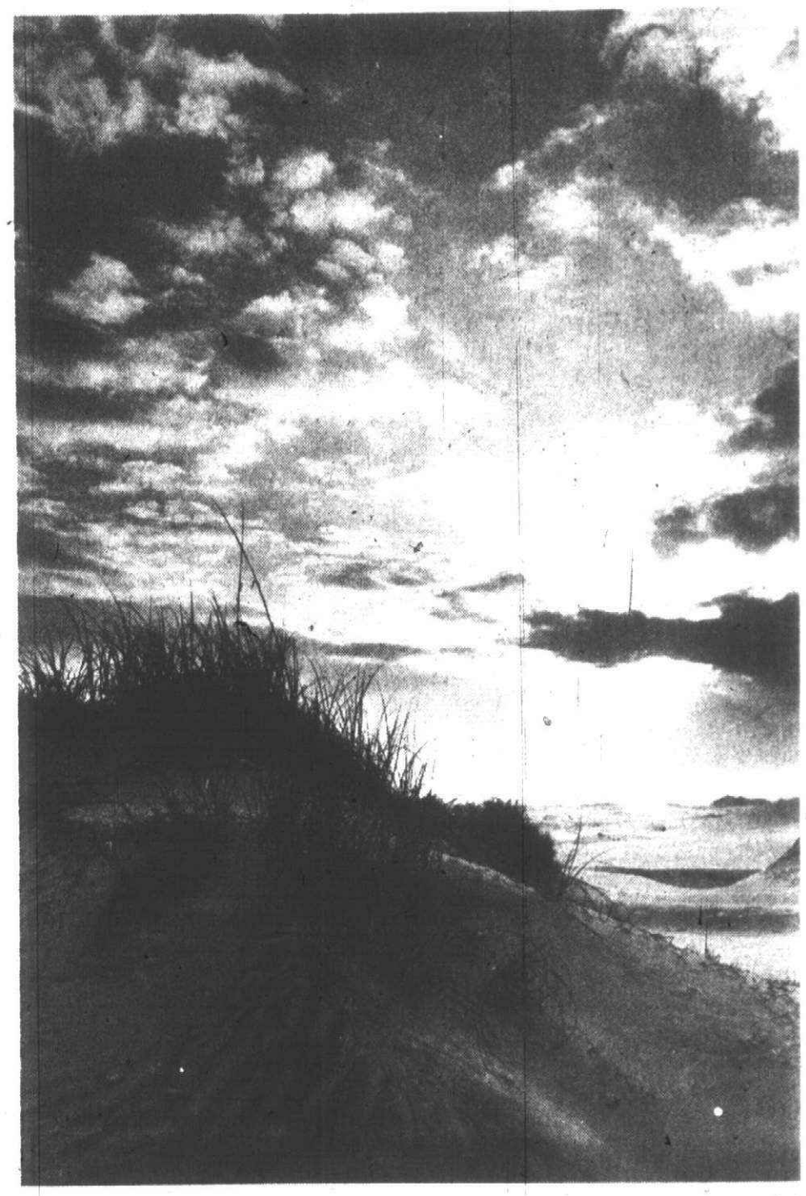

Cellulose acetate holders with an edge punched can be used if you wish to display your pictures in an album. If you're going to hang color prints on your wall, be prepared every few years to have replacement pictures made. Gradual fading may not be too evident, but will nevertheless occur.

To minimize fading, never hang photographs where direct sunlight will strike them.

SLIDES: The biggest enemy to color transparencies is moisture. In an atmosphere of more than 60 perdent relative humidity, fungus can form on your slides and damage them.

Storage methods for slides should therefore provide for fully circulating air. Most slides trays and metal slide storage boxes are specifically manufactured to permit air circulation and thus reduce moisture.

Compartmentalized vinyl sheets for holding transparencies in binders are designed with air pockets to prevent the vinyl from locking mositure in. Using a packet of silica gel, a drying agent that draws moisture from the air, will also help preserve your slides. Simply place a packet in each of your slide containers.

Contrasting textures give this Monte Nagler photo impact. Sunlight through fleecy clouds contrasts with silhouetted grass and wind-rippled sand. The scene is California's South Padre Island, but it could have been taken at any Lake Michigan beach by any photographer with imagination to see it.

Pioneer staff backs Telford

To the editor:

(An open letter to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education).

In this time of limited budget, it is understood that certain program cuts must be made. Unfortunately, one cut that was recommended by the board on March 22 seems unfair.

Dr. John Telford always maintains an optimistic and open-minded philosophy toward education. When times warrant long hours of planning, he always is more than generous with his time.

Furthermore, when the faculty needs his help, he always is available to discuss alternatives and ideas. He is a sincere and level-headed man.

We urge you to reconsider the pink-slipping of Telford. There must be other areas that could be considered for budget cutting in this time of need.

People like Telford should be utilized in this school system, for he exemplifies the type of administration that we all need.

Replace some of deadwood

To the editor:

Gregory Owens, assistant principal of Central Middle School, slated to be pink-slipped? He's the best thing that's happened to Central in a long time!

Well, we shouldn't let him get too far away. In fact, we could use someone of his caliber to replace some of the dead wood at the top administrative level.

. . . Just a thought.

Staff supports mother's view

To the editor:

We would like to compliment and applaud the writer (Barbara Timmerman) of the discipline letter in the Observer on March 25. The insights and viewpoints of this concerned parent were extremely well presented and in a very comprehensive and fair way.

In our discussions, as a group of concerned teachers, of the letter we felt good discipline in school is something in which every Plymouth-Canton family is interested. The issue involved is not one which has a simple solution. It does indeed involve everyone's cooperation: parents, teachers, community leaders, et al, to maintain good discipline in our schools if we are to guide the children toward adulthood.

It is everyone's job and as teachers we cannot do our best job of teaching if we have to spend excessive time disciplining one or two unruly, boistrous youngsters to the detriment of those other youngsters in the classroom who have a right to learn.

We need students who come to school having been taught self-discipline and control at home so that we may follow through with firm but considerate discipline at school.

We cannot begin the process of instilling discipline in an individual child and expect to effectively teach other children at the same time.

Plaudits to the letter writer! Thanks for providing a foreceful opinion for discussion and thought. Good luck on your organizing efforts.

Bird parents back Nichols

To the editor:

We, the undersigned, wish to submit this letter with a two-fold purpose.

First, and most important, is to commend Carroll Nichols, an administrator of top quality. As parents of students who attended Bird Elementary School through the years of his principalship, we feel called upon at this time to stand up and be counted.

Nichols received the support of these parents when he led a school staffed by a faculty who respected him and a student body who admired him and obeyed the rules set forth.

For the most part, our children are grown but they remember Bird School fondly. We as parents realize that fond memories were possible because of the atmosphere created at Bird School. That feeling was pleasant and comfortable — all students were expected to respect the principal, their teachers, and each other. Where have these ideals gone?

Second, we wish to criticize the manner in which the Observer Newspaper, through the front page article of Dennis O'Connor, a staff writer, showed a decidedly lopsided, biased picture. It portrays the situation and Nichols in a manner usually associated with "sensational journalism."

For an administrator with so many years of commendable service to our school district, a positive profile from staff and parents of other students past and current could have been given equal exposure.

Danceathon planned at CEP on May 1

The Centennial Educational Park National Honor Society is planning a dance-athon Friday, April 30, through Saturday, May 1, to support both libraries at Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem .

National Honor Society members hope to raise thousands of dollars for this project thanks to community pledges.

The dance will take place in the Canton High School cafeteria for 18 straight hours — starting at 6 p.m. April 30 and lasting through noon May 1.

The libraries have been affected by school budget cuts. During the past year, Plymouth-Canton allocated $3.61 per pupil for all library materials at the two high schools — including books, magazine subscriptions and audio-visual aids. The cost of books has reached as high as $30-50, however, and the cost of magazines often exceeds $25 per year, according to the society.

For more information on this dance-athon, call the Centennial Educational Park at 453-3100.

MICHAEL AND DEBORAH Fitzgerald of Canton Township hosted a surprise 40th wedding anniversary party for her parents, Henry and Bea Reiner of Southfield.

All seven of the Reiners' children collaborated in planning the celebration and all of the food was homemade.

"Dad is Polish and mother is Icelandic, so the food was Polish and Icelandic," said Deborah.

There was a gourmet table laden with pre-dinner delectables. The stuffed cabbage, jumbo shrimp, Cornish hens, etc., were on another table. The sweets table was in the kitchen.

The guests of honor had planned an anniversary dinner at Dearborn Inn March 28, their anniversary date. When Bea Thorlakson and Henry Reiner were married in 1942, Henry had been drafted and was home on a three-day leave before being shipped out. They had a private marriage ceremony at the home of the bride's parents in Detroit and their brief honeymoon was at the Dearborn Inn.

The kids planned their party for March 27. When they arrived, they were greeted by their children, Patrick of Troy, Aldis of Detroit, Laurie, Paul and Wanda of Southfield, and Henry of Farmington Hills. All eight grandchildren were there, too. It turned out to be an open house with old friends dropping in throughout the day. More than 75 persons wished them a happy anniversary.

The Reiners have lived in Southfield for 38 years. Henry works for Western Electric and Bea for the Southfield Public Schools.

CHUCK OLSON, Plymouth Salem High School swim coach, won the April 1 Big 50-50 $100 prize in the fund raiser sponsored by the high school's Athletics Boosters Club.

CATALYST, the American Association of University Women newsletter, came up with some interesting information about the Educational Research Analysts Inc. This is an organization which censored the game Dungeons and Dragons.

Some of Educational Research Analysts' other targets are Time, Newsweek and U.S. News and World Report magazines, filmstrips dealing with drug and sex education, "The Grapes of Wrath," "Travels with Babar," all Shakespeare's works, all but one of Mark Twain's works, and the American Heritage Dictionary.

SANDRA McClennen, associate professor of special education at Eastern Michigan University, was one of 12 faculty members to receive a faculty research fellowship for 1982-83. The EMU Board of Regents awarded her $600 and one quarter release time to investigate the use of non-theatrical, developmental drama with retarded adults.

Dr. McClennen and her husband, Dr. Douglas McClennen are Plymouth residents.

TOM HULCE has had a busy season in the New York theatre community.

He played in "12 Dreams," an involved psychological drama in the Joseph Theater. He also directed "Sleep Around Town Town," a song cycle which he developed into a dramatic piece.

Tom took the song cycle from a workshop — before Christmas — to eight weeks of public performances. He auditioned more than 100 11- to 15-year-olds for the cast, choreographed and directed the work. The theme dealt with the age of puberty and the feelings of children during that phase of development.

Joseph Papp encourages new ideas, talent and playwrights. Joanne Hulce, Tom's mother, said Tom had wanted an opportunity to direct. She believes he now is ready to go back to acting.

The young Plymouth actor has appeared on and off Broadway — he had the lead in "Equus." He has played Shakespeare in repertory theatre, starred in television specials, acted in public television documentaries, and has several movie credits. He was John Belushi's sidekick in "Animal House."

His first public appearance was a singing role at a Plymouth Symphony Orchestra pops concert. He was one of the Trapp children in a "Sound of Music" medley.

Although women comprise more than 51 percent of the nation's population only 12 percent serve in elective office.

Women's groups are out to change that statistic. And judging from the turnout at last week's Jeannette Rankin Day Reception honoring women candidates, the political spirit is alive and well and flourishing.

More than 200 women who have been elected to office, or run for office, or supported women who run for office, turned out for a reception to honor the first woman ever elected to U.S. Congress.

Rankin was a pioneer among women politicans. She served two terms in Congress — one beginning in 1917 and the other in 1940. The first term came even before women received the right to vote.

During both terms she cast votes opposing this country's entrance into war. Later, when opposition to the Vietnam War escalated and the woman's movement began anew, Rankin, at 87, rejoined the struggle for peace and equal rights.

RANKIN'S SPIRIT was rekindled at the program. Capturing that spirit and the crowd's pleasure was Mary Lou Lively of the Livonia League of Women Voters, who appeared dressed as the tenacious Montana Congresswoman and urged women to gain office and use their "unity and problem solving skills beyond June 30, 1982." That's the deadline for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Outfitted in an authentic costume of the period, Lively's monologue retold the story of the politically adventurous Rankin who at age 91 was named to the Susan B. Anthony Hall of Fame.

The crowd gathered in her name in the Livonia Holiday Inn West was there too to honor women who hold elective office, to share campaign experiences and to encourage more women to enter the political arena.

THE RECEPTION, which attracted women officials from throughout Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw, Monroe and Ingham counties, was sponsored by the Michigan Women's Political Caucus 2nd District in cooperation with the Livonia chapters of the League of Women Voters and the American Association of University Women.

Helen Milliken, nataional co-chair of ERAmerica, presented the women elected officials with certificates for their service and for "accepting the challenge of political office.

Milliken received a rousing applause when she told the audience: "I cannot help but know if there were more women in the legislature of this country, we would have an ERA."

Milliken was lauded by Melinda Remer, Republican co-chair of the Michigan Women's Political Caucus, for being "a women willing to lend support to what she believes in."

But earlier that evening about 50 pickets carrying anti-abortion signs, protested Milliken's appearance outside the Holiday Inn just for that reason. The protesters charged that Milliken was using her husband's political career as a forum for her pro-choice beliefs.

WRAPPING UP the three-hour program was a panel discussion "What Makes Women Run," which featured Jackie Currie, a Wayne County Commissioner from Detroit; state Rep. Shirley Johnson, R-Royal Oak, and Marjorie Lansing, author, university professor and former political candidate.

Politics is a rough and tumble business but very satisfying, said Johnson, who urged women candidates to, above all, "be tenancious as hell."

Lansing, who twice ran unsuccessfully for office, urged women to "run for an office you can win and run in a vintage year."

"Although 1980 was a poor year for women the outlook is good. Women's issues are supported and highly favored by both men and women," said Lansing.

Lansing told potential women candidates to "make a commitment to that office — don't try to do too many things, and don't be an amateur."

Civitans name 3 essayists

Three students from Plymouth Canton High School were winners of the 1981-82 essay contest sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton Civitan Club.

Steve McFarland, senior, was awarded the first-place cash prize of $100. Senior Bill Hanis came in second and received $50. Junior Tanja Mefford was awarded $25 and third-place honors. High-school seniors and juniors were eligible to enter the citizenship essay contest.

Topic this year was "Influence in Government — Are Your Rights As a Private Citizen Being Threatened By Special Interest Groups?" Essays were limited to no less than 500 words and no more than 1,200 words of two or more letters. The writers listed references used in preparation of the essays.

Essays were judged by high-school English teachers and journalists. It took an outside tie-breaker vote to decide the outcome after two tied votes of 4-4. Judges had been cautioned to weigh originality of thought and expression above the mechanics of composition. Joe Henshaw, science teacher at Plymouth Canton High School and Civitan Club member, was the contest's chairman.

The winning local essay goes on to district competition. District winners are judged in the international contest. Top 10 essayists will receive scholarship awards with a first prize of $1,200, payable in four $300 amounts.

Henshaw said he was disappointed that only eight entries were submitted in the local contest. The Civitan Club had increased the prize money in hopes of attracting more participation.

'Canton Symphony' makes TV debut

Canton Chatter

By KATHY FREECE 981-2027

Where do you turn when you want to start a new life in an unfamiliar community?

Many people in our area are turning to a service called Home-Mate. Dorothy Cohn and Nancy Weingarden had been friends for years and suddenly found themselves in this predicament. They decided to form a company to come to the aid of many men and women who had a need such as theirs.

The landlord will come to Home-Mate seeking a person to share the expenses of the dwelling. This is something different for many folks who have lived only with family members or close friends. Since there are no previous ties, oftentimes the living arrangements work out much better when personalities and emotions are not encountered every day.

The tenant seeking a new residence will elaborate on preference of location, type of privacy desired and the amount of rent they are able to pay. Home-Mate is at work right away matching up their applicants and setting up an initial meeting. The rest is up to the individuals. Many times the first interview is not enough for either person. Dorothy and Nancy will work for one full year to satisfy need for a particular environment.

Since the television show "Three's Company" has been accepted by millions of viewers, this type of sharing is very common.

"It's just like children. When you have three boys or three girls together you know eventually someone will go home with hurt feelings. This is why many people have found this particular arrangement, two men and one woman or two women and one man much more congenial," explained the Home-Mate owners.

They said members of the gay community coming to Home-Mate with their particular needs will find just what they expected — a professional service for anyone.

A handicapped person also finds comfort with Home-Mate and many rent to college students for free or reduced rates in return for assistance.

Dorothy and Nancy have been interviewd on TV shows "Kelly and Company," "Good Morning, Detroit," "Career Spotlight" and "PM Magazine" They have been featured by Dr. Sonya Friedman, Dick Purtan, Ray Cardoza, Jack McCarthy, Kevin Joyce and Warren Pierce on radio programs.

To avoid the frustration of searching for a compatible homemate, persons may call 644-6845 — as so many Plymouth and Canton residents have done recently.

BRIAN WHITE was the guest of honor at a birthday party Friday night at the Steak and Ale Restaurant in Plymouth. Friends and working associates were on hand to bring in another year for Brian — his 29th.

SEVERAL WOMEN'S service organizations take a ladies' day outing to the Designers Show House tour every year. Prominent interior designers from the Detroit metropolitan area will be transforming a 1909 Georgian colonial into a magnificent show house May 1-23. The general public is invited to attend the tour, sponsored by the Junior League of Detroit. Call 881-0040 for additional information.

I WAS INVITED recently to become a member of the "Canton Symphony Spring Concert Tour." It was taped by the Canton Cable TV Production Co. Chuck Miller, David Bone, Patrick O'Connor and Bill Simmere are the production managers of this endeavor. Sandy Preblich was the master of ceremonies for the opening performance, and her father, Alan Byrnes, was the conductor.

Susan Simmerer, Karen Lambert, Donna Bone, Helen Wesner, Winston Wessels and Kathy Cronin were the first-chair musicians.

Joanne MacDonald, Thomas Chapman, Deborah Champan, Ronald J. Myers, Joan Miller and Patricia Robertson were excited by their second-chair accomplishments. Mike Stokanovich, Al Sleyter, Faye Wessels and myself might be considered as the important fill-ins all symphonies need.

Please tune in to your local origination channel (8) for a sneak preview of the fascinating talent that resides in Canton.

Author advises how to stay on career ladder

By Margaret Miller
staff writer

What does it mean when your boss stops looking you right in the eye when discussing an important office matter?

When your superior leans back in the chair instead of forward in your direction during a discussion?

When you don't get the reports you used to get? Find yourself not being notified of important meetings? Feel your responsibilities eroding?

It could be a sign, in these days when depressed economy means shrinking work opportunities, that you and your job are becoming dispensable.

The word comes from Natasha Josefowitz, writer, educator, lecturer and fierce proponent of the woman trying to keep a precarious hold on the career ladder.

The author of "Paths to Power" and a new volume of poetry titled "In a Nutshell," talked about women holding their own in the corporate world while making a fast a working visit to the metropolitan area.

Josefowitz was interviewed on her way out of town after conducting a "Leadership in the '80s" workshop for the American Association of Women in Community and Junior Colleges.

"Women pick up small things because they have very large antenna," she said. "We can see things going wrong. Gut is good data. And signs like those mean people are looking for ways to get you out."

WHAT TO DO? This visitor, who is family therapist, international business consultant and associate professor of management at San Diego University College of Business, had specific suggestions.

"First, see to it you have the information you need about what's going on," she said. "Get another source when the immediate one seems to be drying up."

Then, she recomended, find ways to become indispensable.

"Have a narrow expertise," she suggested. "Know what no one else knows. Have your own filing system — keep information in your head.

"Make sure you are visible. Catch people's eyes often during meetings. If you are given a responsibility, write a memo about what you plan to do and a note stating you appreciate the opportunity.

"And always write in terms of results."

Keeping ahead of the business game means never going static, emphasized Josefowitz.

"Reassess your job every six months. If you are doing the same things you were six months ago, look for one more thing you can add to your responsibilities. And as you do so, delegate one routine thing to someone else.

"What you are doing is constantly upgrading your job and thus your potential."

JOSEFOWICZ, showed she can practice her own advice by going back a bit to her career.

A wife and mother, she returned to school and earned a master's degree when she was 40 and a doctorate when she was 50.

She's had needlepoint designs published in the past, but now that she has attained high status in the academic world she pushes publishing in academic journals and magazines like "Ms.," "Working Woman" and "Psychology Today."

"I get up at 5 a.m. to write poetry," she noted. ""I'm in the best time of my life, and it's getting better."

Some of the ideas she put forth in "Paths to Power" came out in the workshop she led for the AAWCJA and in a keynote address for the Chicago area YWCA's annual meeting.

She also used them when she served as resource person for the Summer Institute of Women in Management, held in Boston in 1981 and attended by Jean Christensen of the Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center.

"We used your book in our training for displaced homemakers," said Christensen, renewing acquaintences when Josefowicz visited.

"One part particularly valuable is the pages that relates homemaker tasks to their corresponding managerial functions."

THAT LIST from "Paths to Power" equated "planning" with household budgeting, "staffing" with picking babysitters, "representing" with being an advocate for one's children and "negotiating" with the bargaining homemakers do with repair people.

Josefowicz gives advice on matters like how power is achieved, how it is used effectively, kinds of problems women encounter as they try to rise in management and how they cope with the demands of career, marriage and children.

Her book, she notes in the introduction, is one that can be used by women at many stages and with widely-varying needs.

"You can come on board or get off at any time," the introduction went on. "It doesn't matter if you are a young woman wondering what kind of job to look for, a mother wondering how to juggle career and children, a woman in your 40s returning to work after time off to raise a family or an older woman starting work for the first time and wondering if it's too late."

Plymouth Trilogy

Young musicians for the all-middle school band have auditioned and been selected. They are in rehearsal for their May 13 concert in the Plymouth Canton High School Little Theater. The concert will mark the world premiere of "Plymouth Trilogy," a new work by Anthony Iannaccone, a composer on the staff of Eastern Michigan University School of Music. The work was commissioned by the Plymouth Community Arts Council, especially for middle school orchestras and will be published for the use of bands throughout the country. Middle school band teachers involved in the project are Linda Mapes Calzone, East; Cheryl Waldenmyer, Central; Dale Baer, Pioneer; Carl Battoshill, Lowell; and Michael Chiumento, West. Baer directs the band in its first rehearsal.

Dining Out With THE AMERICAN EXPRESS® CARD

Mountain Jacks Claims Four Special Steaks

Special occasions are made even more special at Mountain Jacks restaurants by four unusual house specialties. These include a Filet Mignon stuffed with seasoned mushrooms, wrapped in bacon, charbroiled and then smothered with mushrooms sautéed in Chablis wine-butter. The Crab-Stuffed New Yorker features a New York strip steak stuffed with a tempting mixture of crabmeat, mushrooms, butter and parsley, charbroiled and heaped with mushrooms sautéed in brandied-butter. And, the Peppercorn Filet Mignon, a gourmet-tender filet, wrapped in bacon and coated in freshly cracked peppercorns. The popular Beef Feast For Two offers the three cuts beef lovers prefer, top sirloin, filet mignon, and prime rib.

In addition to the house specialties, the menu offers more than 15 cuts of beef, fresh fish and seafood entrées.

The five Mountain Jacks restaurants, located in Troy, Farmington Hills, Warren, Ann Arbor, and Dearborn Heights, last fall introduced a new specialty menu. Since that time customer comments have ranged from "outstanding" to "truly unique," according to local managers. Two of the locations, Warren and Dearborn Heights, were formerly known as Stag & Hound. While ownership and management remain the same, the names of the restaurants have been changed to provide continuity and eliminate any confusion caused by restaurants of different names serving identical menus.

Don't forget your American Express Card!

J. Ross Browne's... A Seafood Success Story

SOUTHFIELD...The old Shakespearian question, "What is in a name?," is being asked these days at Southfield's J. Ross Browne's, formerly known as the Dry Dock. Those who enjoyed the Dry Dock may be wondering if their old favorite by any other name would be as good.

The answer to that question, from J. Ross Browne's Manager Mike Hunter, is an unqualified yes and no! "We won't be 'just' as good as the old Dry Dock. The name change signifies a whole new look and exciting additions to the menu which we feel will mean an even better dining experience for our old and new guests."

Hunter goes on to explain that "The Dry Dock and J. Ross Browne's are owned by the same company that operates the J. Ross Browne's in Bloomfield Hills and Warren. This means that the same level of quality and service will be maintained at all three Detroit restaurants. However, by changing the name to J. Ross Browne's it will be less confusing for our guests in the greater Detroit area."

Dining will be an all new pleasure with a large selection of gourmet seafood dishes, a daily variety of fresh fish, and a selection of steaks and prime rib.

The American Express Card is accepted at all J. Ross Browne's.

Visit J. Ross Browne's and discover that seafood of this rare quality is served at restaurants by no other name in the Detroit area.

Carlos Murphy's No Blarney and lots of Eggs.

SOUTHFIELD...St. Patrick's Day revelers at Carlos Murphy's Irish-Mexican Cafe found there was no blarney about the popular restaurant/lounge's "Pot of Gold" celebration held March 17-21.

Thousands of happy celebrants stole a coin from the Leprechaun's Pot of Gold during the four-day gala. As it happened, every participant was a winner! For some guests, the coin they plucked from the pot earned them a free Irish Stew dinner. To others, the coin meant a discount of food and drink or a tiny St. Patrick's Leprechaun.

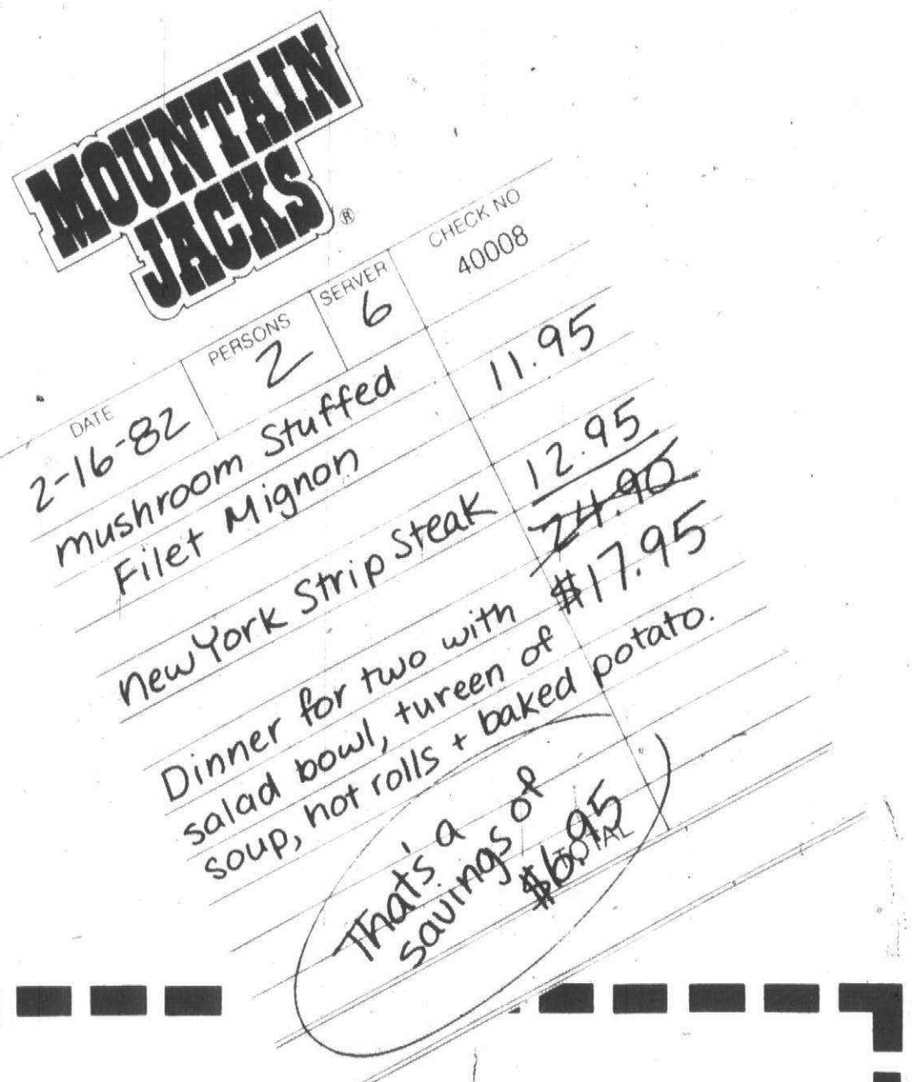

Eight guests pulled genuine one ounce gold Krugerrands from the pot. The lucky winners were Richard T. McQuesten, James Gressler, James F. Vlk, Terry Berlin, Jeri Bailey, Adrianne Firsten, David Pesick and Eleanor Von Schmittou.

As the wearin' o' the green gives way to the wearin' of Easter Bonnets, Carlos Murphy's patrons will be able to participate in a special Easter Egg hunt. Beginning Easter Day, April 11, everyone who visits CM's will receive an Easter Egg hunt card. Crafty Easter Egg sleuths will be asked to peruse 6 "scratch off" Easter Eggs to determine a prize.

The best part of this hunt is that everyone is a winner! Informed sources revealed that behind each egg is a prize which could be any number of food discount prizes.

When asked to comment on the Carlos Murphy's event, the Easter Rabbit was heard to exclaim, "This will be the only place in town where I can get more bunny for the money!"

In the United Hebrew Nursery in Southfield, Roni Littman finds that making matzohs for Passover can be a sticky business.

Passover April 7-15 marks Jews' release from bondage

The celebration of Passover, reminding Jews each year how the children of Israel were delivered by God from slavery in Egypt, began at sundown last night and will continue until sundown next Thursday.

The holiday, called Pesach in Hebrew, will be celebrated in area Jewish homes with a Seder feast, a ceremonial dinner marked by the retelling of the story of the Exodus from Egypt. There are special songs and prayers and ceremonial foods.

The history of Passover goes back to the time when Moses, called upon by God to lead the Jewish people out of Egypt, asked the Pharoah to "let my people go." When the Pharoah refused, a series of 10 plagues, each one worse that the preceding one, was brought against the Egyptians.

THE 10TH plague resulted in the death of all first-born males in Egypt. The angel of death slew every first-born Egyptian male, but "passed over" the homes of the Jews.

In their haste to leave the country of their bondage, the Israelites did not have time enough to let rise their dough for baking bread. That is why unleavened bread is eaten during the eight days of Passover. Called matzoh, this bread is eaten throughout the Seder.

As a reminder of the lamb which was ritually slaughtered and then eaten by Jewish families on the eve of Passover in biblical times, a roasted lamb bone is placed on the large Seder plate in the contemporary Passover meal.

MOROR, A BITTER herb that recalls the bitterness of slavery, also is served, along with charosis, a sweet mixture of chopped apples, nuts, cinammon and wine. It symbolizes the mortar made to hold together the bricks the Jews produced in slavery.

Karpas, usually parsley or celery, symbolizes spring and renewal, and a roasted egg serves as a token of grief for the destruction of the Temple in Jerusalem.

A special cup of wine is placed on the table for the prophet Elijah, the messenger of God, who will foretell the coming of the Messiah.

Easter worship to go from dawn to darkness

From sunrise to darkness, Christians will celebrate the Resurrection with special worship on Easter Sunday.

Services will begin early will be held two, three and four times. Many churches plan as well to serve Easter breakfasts and sponsor evening programs.

Members of Grace Moravian Church of Westland probably will be the earliest risers.

They will gather at 5:15 a.m. in their sanctuary at 31133 Hiveley. With the Rev. Ray T. Troutman leading the worship, the Biblical story of Jesus' Resurrection will be read, with the people singing appropriate hymn stanzas.

At 6 a.m., the hour of sunrise, the group will move to Knollwood Memorial Park, 1299 Ridge Road, Canton, where they will assembly in the graveyard for their traditional Moravian Church Easter morning service.

The simple worship begins with the salute "The Lord is risen" and continues in joyous hymns and hope and a liturgy which sets forth fundamentals of Christian belief.

Congregational participation is an essential part of the Moravian Easter worship.

When the sun is up and the early rites completed, the congregation will return to the church's fellowship hall for breakfast and then 9:30 a.m. worship.

"Every effort is made to maintain the profoundly religious character of the service," said pastor Troutman, "in order that it may accomplish in the hearts of those who attend the renewing and strengthening of Christian faith for which it was so long ago purposed."

He added that the public is cordially invited to the Grace services.

WARD PRESBYTERIAN Church this year will hold four Easter services, beginning at 7 a.m. when the Rev. W. Wallace Hostetter preaches on "Our Morning of Hope," based on the 15th chapter of First Corinthians. Special music will be provided by the church's Teen Choir.

Dr. Bartlett L. Hess will preach for services at 8:30, 10 and 11:30 a.m., titling his sermon "Christ Is Risen?" To provide additional parking space, the church will run shuttle buses 8 a.m.to 1 p.m. from the Livonia City Hall parking lot at Five Mile and Farmington Road and the K-Mart lot at Seven Mile and Farmington Road.

For its 7 p.m. service Ward will show the film "Jesus," based on the gospel of Luke and produced in the Holy Land. British actor Brian Deacon plays the title role. The film is free and open to the public.

Nursery care will be available during all Ward service except the sunrise worship.

"The Centurion," a theatrical presentation of the Easter story, will be presented by the Chancel Choir of Clarenceville United Methodist, at 7 p.m. Easter Sunday.

Ron Webber will play the part of the centurion, Dave Viers will be Pilate and Cathee Miles will be Claudia. Narrative parts will be taken by Bill Babb, Brian Marr, Bruce Norred and Rob Pray, and Jeffrey Langdon will be director.

AN EASTER CANTATA titled "Hosanna" is planned at Canton Calvary Assembly of God at 7 p.m. Saturday, April 10 and at 6:30 p.m. Easter Sunday.

"The cantata," said the Rev. Gordon J. Mesic who is directing the work, "portrays the miraculous change wrought in the hearts and lives of those who recieve Jesus Christ as their personal Lord and Savior."

There is no charge for the presentation, but a free will offering will be taken. The church is at 7933 Sheldon, between Warren and Joy.

Another musical, titled "Alive," is scheduled for five performances during the Easter weekend at Fairlane Assembly, 22575 Ann Arbor Trail, Dearborn Heights.

Directed by the Rev. David E. Richards and the Rev. Darrell Ovenshire, the production will be offered Saturday, Sunday and Monday, April 10-12. Specific times can be learned by calling the church, 561-3300, Thursday or Friday between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

First Baptist Church of Wayne, 36125 Glenwood, will present an Easter celebration concert at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Fetured will be a performance of "The Day He Wore My Crown" by the 50-voice Senior Choir and a 20-piece orchestra. Paul Bechler, minister of music, will be the director.

FIRST UNITED Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, Holy Trinity Lutheran Church of Livonia and Garden City First United Methodist Church are among many in the area planning three services Easter morning.

The Plymouth church will beginn at 8 a.m. with a communion service and a meditation by the Rev. Thomas Cook titled "Leavening in the Bread." The senior high choir will participate.

At9:30 and 11:15 a.m., the Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee will conduct festival services celebrating the Resurrection, preaching on the theme "Those Angels Are Here Again." The church's adult choir and soloist Gary Temple will participate in both services. There will be a song by the Cherub Choir at 9:30 and a brass quartet offering music to the day's three services.

Holy Trinity plans a sunrise service at 6:30 a.m. featuring the lighting of the Paschal candle, the sacament of baptism and the reaffirmation of baptism by all present.

Then, after an Easter breakfast at 7:30 a.m., there will be festival services with the sacrament of the Holy Eucharist at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Special music will be provided by the Adult Choir and Bell Choir, directed y Amy Studt. The Rev. Robert Seltz will preach and the Rev. James Spilos will be the celebrant.

Worship at 6:30 a.m. in the Methodist church, 6443 Merriman, will feature the youth choir in a cantata, "Have You Seen My Lord?"

For the services at 9:30 and 11 a.m., there will be music by the Children's Choir, the Chancel Choir and the Brass Ring Bell Choir.

VIVALDI'S choral work "Gloria" will be sung by the adult choir of Garden City Presbyterian Church, 1841 Middlebelt, for its services at 9:15 and 11 a.m. Easter.

Soloists will be Cynthia Good, Patricia Morawa, David Radcliffe and Terese Whitten, and there will be child care during both services.

An Easter breakfast prepared by the men of the church will begin at 8 a.m. Reservations should be made by calling the church, 421-7620. Highlighting the day for the youngsters of the congregation will be a balloon launch at the end of the second service.

AT ROSEDALE Gardens United Presbyterian Church, 9601 Hubbard, Livonia, Easter will begin with a continental breakfast to be served by the senior high fellowship 8:30 -10:30 a.m.

The Rev. Carol Allen will speak on the theme "Suffering with a Purpose" for the 9:30 a.m. service, and the Rev. Gerald Cobleigh's topic at 11 a.m. will be "The Victory Garden."

Merriman Road Baptist Church, 2055 Merriman, plans an Easter sunrise service at 6:30 a.m., breakfast at 7:30 a.m., and Sunday school and morning and evening worship at regular hours.

Don't allow trouble to isolate people

moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong

There are many who have cause to worry. Indirectly I hear of the difficulties of the unemployed. A woman tells me that most are too proud to tell anyone of their plight. They suffer alone.

The tragedy is that pride can prevent those who face trouble from getting the support which they need. Too often pride or embarrasent cut off the personal caring and love which a person in crisis most needs.

Concern and love are essential for the health of persons. We need more of these when we face trouble. Yet too often a person in pain withdraws from the emotional and spiritual sources of life.

THE TALE of the warm fuzzies is a story which says there is much love and caring. These human qualities are in abundant supply. They multiply when we allow them to flow to one another. Only fear and pride can prevent them from increasing.

The crises we face give us the opportunity to multiply love and concern. We can tell someone we support them without knowing all of the facts of their problem. We can care.

There is opportunity in facing difficulties. We often see values in a sharper focus. A program concerning the refugees from Haiti helped me clarify the difference between the refugee and an immigrant.

American has welcome the refugee who has fled political and religious oppression. This is a value which is central to our identity as a nation. We may desire to limit immigration. Do we want to stop accepting refugees to our shores?

Someone has said, "the worst brings out the best in us." This is what religion is about. It teaches us how to celebrate times which are painful as well as those which are joyful.

IF WE CAN AFFIRM that God walks with us in our difficulties, we will take the path of faith. Along this path we must release our love and caring in support of others. Along this path we will discover those values which truly count in life. Along this path we will grow.

Don't allow those in difficulty to become isolated. Don't focus upon worry but upon what this difficulty can teach us. Don't play "ain't it awful" and gossip about others' troubles. Don't consider anyone is less a person because he or she faces trouble.

Those troubled are equally loved by God. They are equally challenged to grow through their problem. They can respond to our love and our caring. They can come through better than before.

State cage tourney: a learning experience

Think about this for a moment — only four teams throughout Michigan ended the high school basketball season with a win.

That's not exactly the most positive way for a senior to finish his high school career. But, maybe that's why it's said that sports builds character.

The basketball season came to a climax a dozen days ago at Ann Arbor's Crisler Arena when four teams won state championship titles in their respective classes.

Orchard Lake St. Mary's was one of those fortunate four that ended the season with a victory, taking the Class C crown with a victory over Reed City. Southfield lost in the Class A semifinals to eventual state champion Flint Central.

In Wayne County, Plymouth Salem, Livonia Bentley and Catholic Central all won district titles, but lost their first-round regional games.

The following observations are from tournament action involving area teams from both counties.

FACTS: It took Orchard Lake St. Mary's eight games to win the state "C" title. The Eaglets had a rough road to travel, having played Redford St. Mary's in their very first district game, plus Detroit Country Day, Dundee (undefeated at the time), Flint Hamady and Grand Rapids South Christian. Coach Bob Shoemaker's team won the tournament with a convincing 76-48 victory over Reed City.

COMMENT: Ironically, St. Mary's faced its toughest game in the opener against Redford St. Mary's, winning by eight points (63-55). Sure, the Grand Rapids South Christian semifinal game was only decided by three points (66-63), but St. Mary's had a 17-point lead at one time in the game. The Eaglets, led by Observer & Eccentric all star Hiram Harris and Chris Howze, won their eight district games by an average of 15.8 points. It was an awesome demonstration of power basketball.

FACTS: Detroit Southwestern defeated Plymouth Salem in a semifinal regional basketball game, 63-54. The Prospectors were led by all-stater Antoine Joubert, who scored 33 points, including 17 of 19 free throws. Salem bowed out of the tourney with a 20-4 season mark.

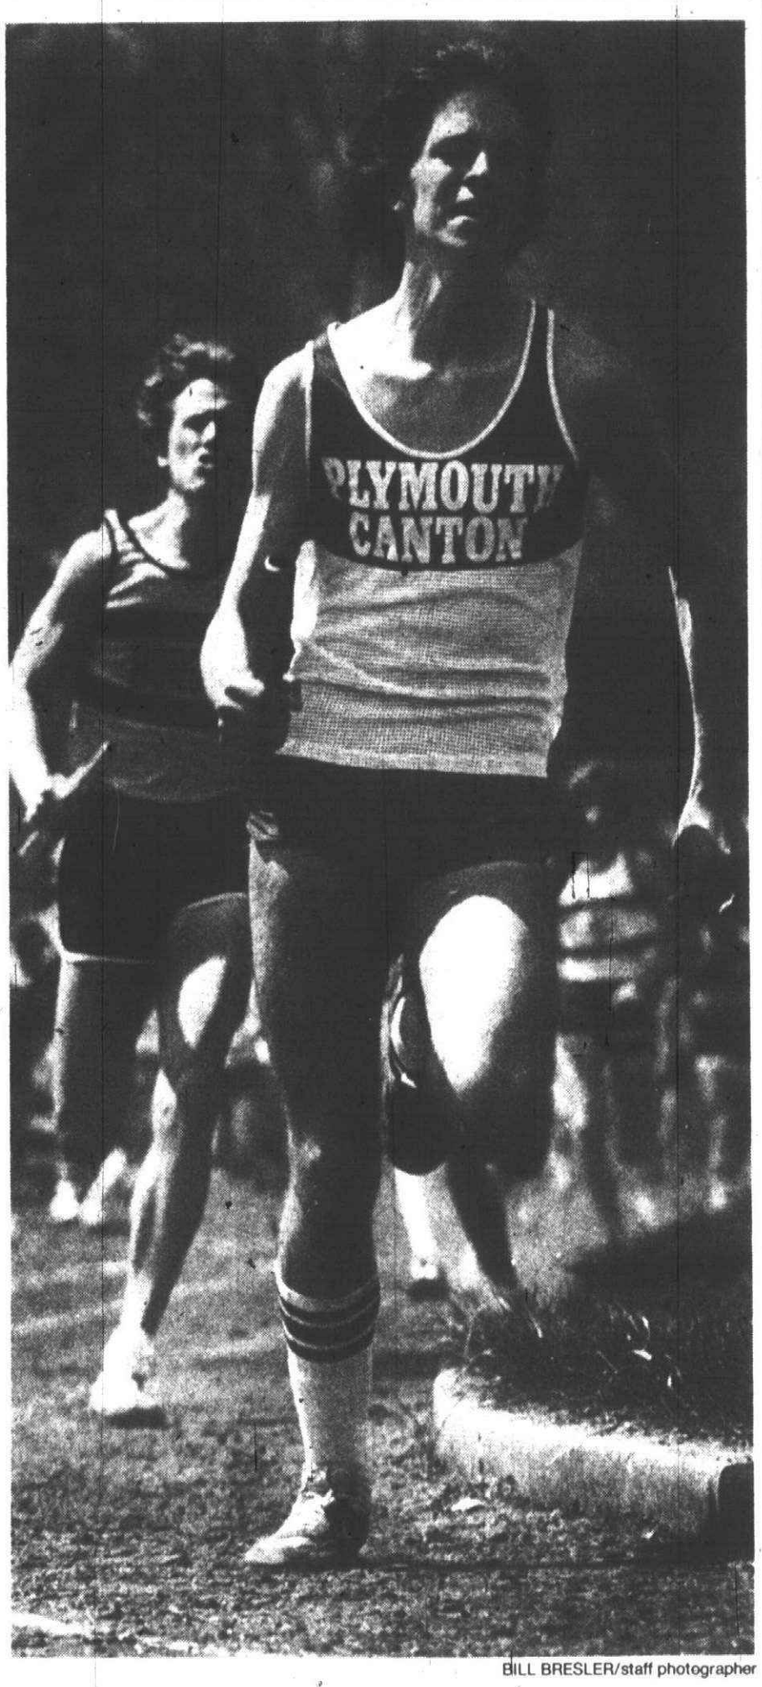

COMMENT: Joubert is only a junior, but he received more publicity than most seniors. Salem defensed him remarkably well, and Joubert, frustrated and sometimes intimidated, scored only eight baskets on 27 shots. Dave Miller, another Observer & Eccentric first-team all star, was one of six Rocks who helped defense Joubert.

FACTS: Southfield High School lost in the 'A' semifinals to Flint Central, 48-47. The Blue Jays lost when Central's all-star guard Mark Harris hit a desperation shot from 40 feet out as time expired. Central advanced to the championship game, where it successfully defended its title against Southwestern.

COMMENT: Southfield coach Greg Sliwka rhetorically wondered after the Central loss if his Blue Jays weren't the state's best team. He could be right. While Southfield's schedule wasn't overpowering, it was decent. Southfield lost by a slim margin to Highland Park, and defeated Lansing Eastern and Birmingham Brother Rice. Southfield finished with a 25-2 record — the best ever in the school's 30-year history.

FACTS: Livonia Bentley won a close district game at Livonia Churchill over Farmington, 51-49. Farmington, trailing 50-49 with less than 30 seconds left, had possession of the ball. The Falcons, however, were assessed a technical foul when an official ruled one of their players acted in "an unsportsmanlike conduct." Bentley made the technical foul shot, regained possession of the ball and, ultimately, took the district championship.

Runners combat severe weather in Half-Marathon

By Marty Budner
staff writer

Everyone loves to discuss Michigan's temperamental weather. And, once again, that was the main topic of conversation Sunday in West Bloomfield.

But, it wasn't the unseasonably frigid conditions that bothered participants of the second annual West Bloomfield Half-Marathon.

It was the gale-like winds — gusting at more than 50 miles per hour according to the National Weather Service — that triggered tears of disgust from the more than 540 runners who finished the race.

"The wind was so stiff that (weather conditions) couldn't have been any worse for a runner," conceded race director Craig Monahan. "The weather was just terrible.

"What I found amazing was that the times were super considering the wind. The early part of the course was probably the toughest because that's when the runners were going west and heading directly into the wind.

"The wind was a factor over most of the course, except for the last three miles going over the hills along streets like Tequesta, Glen Eagles and Lake Bluff. That was beneficial to the runners because at least they had the wind at their backs."

THE 13.1-MILE race, cosponsored by the West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation Department and Henry Ford Hospital-West Bloomfield Center, began and ended at West Bloomfield High School. The course twisted throughout the township's various subdivisions.

The race's overall winner was Livonia's Dennis Kurtis, who finished first in the Open Division (men 18-29 years) with a time of 1:12.13.

Tim Kerr of Dearborn Heights and Marty Frey of Southfield finished second and third overall with respective times of 1:12.52 and 1:13.47. Both competed in the Open Division.

Michael Evans of Sterling Heights was the Junior Division (under 18) winner, and Hamtramck's James Edwards took first in the Sub Masters Division (men 30-39). West Bloomfield's Don Balkwell was second in Sub Masters, some 2.5 seconds behind Edwards.

In the Masters Division (men 40-49), Brian Harris of Royal Oak won with a time of 1:19.51. Fred Holappa of Plymouth won the Veterans Division (men 50 and up), followed by Livonia's Max Nemazi.

"It was real tough just trying to run, let alone race," said Terry Reilly, who finished ninth in the Open Division. "It was difficult running into the wind because it tended to put you straight up.

"The wind was most definitely a factor for everyone who raced," said Reilly, who graduated from St. Mary's of Redford High School and participated in "eight or nine" regular marathons. "Although the footing was good, it was the windiest race I've ever been in."

THE WOMEN'S Open Division winner was Cynthia Poly of Keego Harbor with a time of 1:27.34. Jacqueline Schomer of Westland and Barbara Popyk of Birmingham finished first and second, respectively, in the women's Sub Masters Division.

The women's Masters winner was Novi's Mary Lund, and the Four-Man team trophy went to the Footstop B team of Frey, Ed Grabowski (Orchard Lake), Hugh Kuchta (East Lansing) and Steve Sprague (Lansing).

The race was taped by Continental Cablevision, Inc., and is scheduled for telecast later this month. Continental services the Southfield and Lathrup Village areas.

Last year, the race attracted more than 700 runners. Defending champion Mark Messler of East Lansing did not enter this year's race.

Gary Balconi is holding auditions.

He's bringing together almost an entire new cast for the 1982 track season.

"We have a lot of unknowns," said the Salem coach. "We have some gaps to be taken care of. We're rebuilding our relay teams. They were hit hard."

Salem's 1981 campaign was nothing short of a big success. The Rocks won the Observerland Relays and qualified several athletes for the state meet.

Graduation, however, took its toll.

For starters, state discus champ Bob Pittaway, also a top-notch sprinter, has moved his extraordinary talent onto to Northwood Institute. Other key losses are Leigh Langkabel (undefeated in the 440-yard dash), Brian Lewandowski (sprints), Tom Kelliher (sprints), Jim Spooner (sprints) and Dave Skone (7th in state pole vault).

Balconi welcomed 65 candidates and is happy with the team's progress thus far.

"We have a small nucleus," he said. "Everybody is working well. The kids are responding. They've shown a good attitude."

The Rocks weren't annihilated by graduation.

Scott Bublin, one of three team captains, returns in the sprints. He is a versatile performer with the ability to perform in the 100, 220, hurdles and long jump.

The All-Observer standout was third in the 200 meter dash at the Livonia Churchill regional last spring, qualifying for the state meet.

Last weekend, Bublin qualified for the finals and took sixth in the 60-yard dash with a time of 6.5 at the pretigious Spartan Relays at Michigan State.

HE IS JOINED by senior Scott Smith, who can also fly in the 100 and 220 events. Other sprinters include Mark Davis and Mike Adzima, both seniors. They are joined by sophomores Marc Tindal and Jeff Arnold.

The 440 and 880 is being staked out by veterans Mike McBride and Geoff Baker, tri-captains along with Bublin.

McBride posted one of the area's top times in the 880 a year ago. He is also a valuable relay performer. Leland Chang, a senior, can also handle the middle distances.

Salem is young, but experienced in the distance events with the return of juniors Frank Brosnan, Skip Whittaker, and Brad Haertel. Matt Ruhlman, a senior, makes it a formidable foursome.

In the field events, All-Observer high jumper Scott Fuller is set for his third year on the varsity. His 1981 personal best was 6-feet-2-inches. Last week he cleared six feet at the MSU event. He has ample support from senior Scott Raymer.

Pole vault is traditionally a strong event for the Rocks and this year is no exception with senior Mike Perkowski, senior Len Czupski and junior Dan Lingg all back.

Perkowski cleared the opening height of 12-0 at MSU.

THE ROCKS are somewhat thin in the shot put and discus. The only returning regular is senior Pat Tortora.

Meanwhile, Lingg returns in the long jump.

Arvinder Sooch is the only returnee in the hurdles. He could get help, however, from Olif Danielson, an exchange student from Sweden.

Eleven team members will compete tomorrow in the Mansfield (Ohio) Relays. The regular season begins Tuesday, April 20th at Redford Thurston.

Golden Gloves finalist looks ahead

Craig Payne might have been a little uptight for his championship match in the National Golden Gloves finals held late Saturday in Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium.

It was the first championship bout for the up-and-coming 20-year-old, who slugged it out before a crowd of almost 10,000.

The super-heavyweight from the Livonia Boxing Club lost a close, third-round split decision to Warren Thompson of Washington, D.C.

"It could have gone either way," said Payne's coach, Paul Soucy. "There was only one punch thrown in the first round and it wasn't by Craig.

"The second round was extremely close. Craig won the third round. He came right at him."

Thompson's international experience, however, may have been the determining factor. The 215-pound slugger represented the U.S. last month in a pair of international exhibitions which took him to East Germany and Russia.

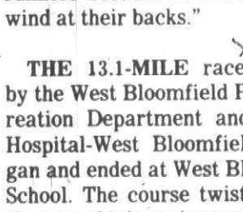

The prospect of a rematch between Payne and Thompson is likely. It may happen sometime next week when both fighters compete in the American Boxing Federation (formerly AAU) Championships to be held in Charlotte, N.C.

"Craig gave the first round away against Thompson," said Soucy. "He should have gone after him, but for some reason he didn't. Maybe he was a little tight.

"He had fought a hard fight the night before (decision over Al Evans) and gave it all he had. I don't want to alibi, but Craig got sick in the restaurant and vomited before his match.

"He just wasn't Craig Payne."

PROUDLY PRESENTS...
HIGH SCHOOLS'
PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Congratulations to all Plymouth Canton & Plymouth Salem athletes who participated in the Winter season

Dick Scott's Plymouth High School "PLAYERS OF THE WEEK" feature continues this week. Each week one Salem and one Canton player will be saluted for their effort the previous week, with their names engraved on a trophy for display at the high schools. Players will be selected by the coaching staffs of the respective schools. Look for this ad every Thursday. For that "Winning Deal" on a new or used car, see Dick Scott Buick.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL FLASHBACK

In February of 1976, rated for just one week in most of the popularity polls as the No. 1 Class A basketball team in Michigan, the Rocks tasted defeat for the first time as Belleville's Tigers posted a 63-57 triumph. Nonetheless, Salem, which now is 16-1 overall, still leads the Suburban 8 in its drive toward a 3rd straight undisputed championship with a 10-1 mark. "They beat us square up," admitted coach Fred Thomann of the Rocks, as he avoided offering any form of alibi. Belleville astounded the packed house by racing to a 13-0 lead in the first 5 minutes and from then on it was all up hill for the Plymouth troops. High scores for Salem were two brothers, all-stater Jim and Tom Ellinghausen, Mike Primeau and Brian Wolcott.

Spitz optimistic about 1982 season

Chief thinclads seek even better times

By Jay Keenan
special writer

The boys' track team at Plymouth Canton will carry a new image for 1982.

In the past, distance runners provided the impetus and carried the attack.

The squad lost four excellent long-distance runners to graduation and a sophomore who transferred to another school.

But fourth-year coach Mike Spitz believes his Chiefs should be able to compensate in the field and sprint events.

"That's the basket where most of our eggs are in," he said. "I think we have a good spectrum of sprinters and our people who are good in the field events are going to have to show their potential.

"These are going to be the two key areas, along with staying healthy, because we're not a deep team. I only have about 30 guys out for the team right now and that doesn't leave a whole lot of room for air."

Spitz' team took a giant step toward respectability last season with a 4-3 dual record — best in the school's history. Canton had been known as a push-over up until then.

"We have a lot of good people back form last year," Spitz said. "I'm looking forward to the season. The guys are working hard and we'll just have to see how things fall into place.

DAVID SIMMS, a senior, spearheads a deep group in the 100, 220 and 440-yard spring events. He should be complemented nicely by Frank Asis and Mark Ritchey, both seniors.

Ritchey and Asis played vital roles in Canton's newly found success of a year ago. Both can also long jump.

They are joined by seniors Brian Rogers and Jerry Miles, junior Steve Light, and sophomores Elijah Rogers and Mike Anderson.

Tom Harris, a senior, will be a nice addition to the Canton squad. He used his speed on the baseball field last year as a designated pinch runner — a-la-Herb Washington.

Spitz also thinks highly of hurdlers Butch Steele, a senior, and sophomore Jin Kim (also a long jumper).

Hooker Wellman has climbed aboard the Canton express as an assistant coach this year.

Spitz said his new assistant is "an intregal part of the team," who will try to work with and inspire the field events competitors — a weak spot for several years.

"If you look at it," said Spitz, "it has been getting better the last couple of years.

"Last year was probably the first season we were able to hold our own in a lot of meets. It's been an added influence there on my part and coach Wellman's. Both of us have working on it an it's beginning to pay off for us."

THE CHIEFS are blessed with the return of their entire pole vault crew which includes senior Rich Place, Rich Tarr, Bill Reed and Jerry Fleisher (all juniors).

Carrying the load in the discus and shot put are throwers Miles, Rick Roman, a junior, Brian Bogden, Anton Ivezaj and Jeff Boright (all sophomores). Junior Don Page can also throw the shot.

Ron Rienas, a 6-foot high jumper, joins Steele and Kim to add strength in that event.

Senior Dan Henry, who ran last fall for the cross country team, is the Chiefs' top returnee in the 880, mile and two-mile events.

He is lone holdover from a group of outstanding distance runners who graduated last year which included Scott Hand, Jack Pacente, Steve West and Dan Inloes. Sophomore Brian Jones is also gone. He transferred to Detroit Catholic Central during the semester break.

Five other sophomores, however, will try to make up the lost ground. Fighting for spots are Ed Hintz, Mike Thompson, Glenn Forgi, Ralph DiCosty and Chris Sommer.

"I ONLY have one varsity guy returning in that area," said Spitz. "That's an area — if it comes along real well — would be a good stride and added dimension to an area that isn't a strength to us right now.

"If those guys come around and respond to the training the way I hope they will, we could really surprise a few people."

And maybe improve the team's image just a little bit more.

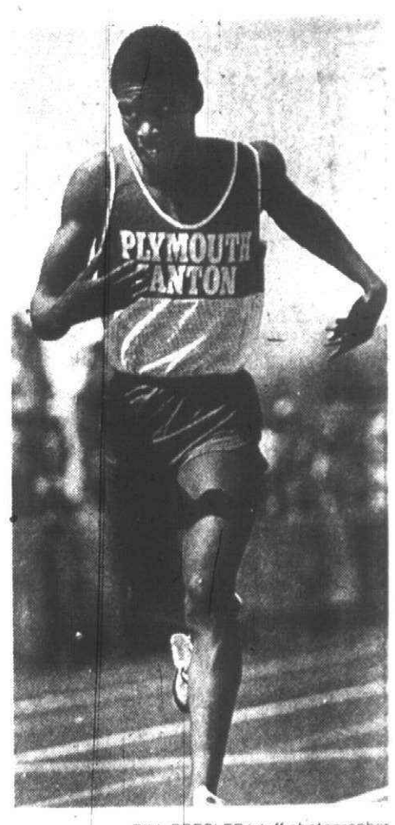

PLYMOUTH CANTON's 1982 Boys' track schedule

MAY — 1, Observerland Relays at RU's Howard Kraft Field, 10 a.m.; 4, Mangan Relays at Centennial Educational Park (4:30 p.m.); 6, Northville; 13, Livonia Churchill; 19, at Farmington Harrison; 22, Class A regionals at Livonia Churchill (10 a.m.); 25, at Livonia Bentley (3:30 p.m.).

JUNE — 2, Western Six League meet (site and time to be announced); 5, Class A state finals at Flint (time to be announced).

All meets start at 4 p.m. unless otherwise noted.

Garden City man takes over pin lead

Bill Mull of Garden City, who bowls locally for Westland Sports Shop at Oak Lanes, is the current all-events leader of the Michigan State Men's Bowling Tournament in Battle Creek.

Mull, 46, is bowling for M-66 in team competition and Nottke's Bowl in singles and doubles play. He had a 551 series in team play, a 747 in doubles and a 703 in singles for a 2,001 total pin count last weekend, putting him ahead in the all-events race by 20 pins.

The tournament runs every weekend until May 9.

THE WOMEN BOWLERS of America have a new national record for a target.

In a surprise move, the delegates at the annual WIBC convention approved the 853 series rolled by Sharie Langford of California in the recent pro bowlers event at Clearwater, Fla.

The big count was questioned because it was recorded on the step-ladder system in the pro finals. This meant that she bowled three different opponents, something that never was recognized by the WIBC before.

To get the big count, Langford rolled a 297 against her first opponent, a 289 against her second and a 267 against her third.

The previous record was 811 by Polly Schwartz of Russelltown, Pa.

ONLY ONE CHANGE was made in the standings of the women's City Tournament over the weekend. Mamie Bolden of Argyle Recreation rolled a 749 to top the singles. She had games of 220, 195 and 181 for a 596 and combined that with her 153 handicap to take first place.

Close finishes marked competition throughout the area last week. The closest came in the Mixed Classic at Westland Bowl, where only three pins separated the top three.

Dick Bind emerged on top in the heated competition when he posted a 696, made possible by a 247 closing game. Jim Gostovich was next with a 695, and Jerry Holt was third with a 693.

In the women's division, Nancy Mischuk was tops with a 608.

Only two pins separated the leaders in the Ladies Classic at Garden Lanes.

Pat Schmidt rolled a 598, and Kay Burgarella was runner-up with a 596.

In the St. Linus League, Ray Ostrosky paced the group with a 621, and Tony Simor was 11 pins back at 610.

State basketball tournament review

COMMENT: Rich Roy, Farmington coach, labeled the technical-foul call "bush." While Roy's comment may have been justified, it was just one instance where an official's judgement was scrutizned by a coach. The officials seemed to take a lot of heat this season — more so than in the past. It's a turn-off when coaches quickly use officials as a scapegoat for a loss. Generally, I believe, officials do their best to try and call a game fairly.

FACTS: Birmingham Brother Rice won the Birmingham Groves district championship by defeating West Bloomfield, 70-44. Rice, which finished the season with an 18-6 record, was eliminated from the tournament by Southfield in a first-round regional game.

COMMENT: Here is a big "Boo" for the athletic administration in Birmingham, headed by Carl Lemle. When Rice won the Groves disrtict title, its players weren't presented the trophy at mid-court. Most host schools make a formal trophy presentation to the district champions. Lemle walked over and nonchalantly handed the trophy to Warrior coach Nick Conti. It's obvious the rift between public and private schools, espècially in Birmingham, still exists. However, in this instance, feelings should have been put aside. The Rice players should have had the memory of accepting their awards in some type of post-game ceremony on the court instead of in the locker room.

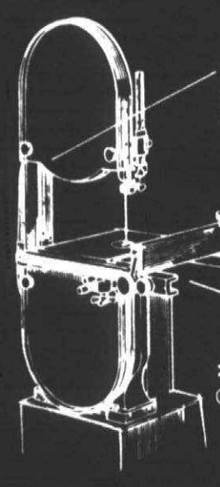

FACTS: Catholic Central won the district title on its home court over Detroit Cody, 72-70. The winning points came on a pair of free throws by Dave Rodriguez. The Shamrocks eventually lost their first regional game and finished with a 14-9 overall record.

COMMENT: In that district title game, Cody's Reginald Byrd, a 6-foot-5 senior center, missed a dunk shot near the end that could have given his team a lead. It was a critical mistake. Byrd could have easily attempted a lay-up — another high percentage shot — rather than a dunk. While dunk shots are dramatic and crowd-pleasing, they should be used sparingly. Bryd learned that lesson the hard way.

FACTS: Troy defeated city rival and host Troy Athens for the distrcit championship, 63-45. The Colts advanced to the regional tourney where they lost to the host team, Southfield-Lathrup. Troy, which won the Rochester Adams district title in the 1980-81 season, finished with an 11-12 record.

COMMENT: The significant fact in the district was the host Red Hawks were in the championship game. Athens, coached by Bill Gerbe, won only three of 20 regular-season games. Yet, in the districts, the Red Hawks played inspired ball and almost equaled their total season victory output. Athens defeated both Rochester and Utica in its first two district games.

Developing the backhand

Believe it or not, the backhand is a more natural stroke than the forehand.

However, I constantly watch players develop heart failure when the ball approaches their backhand. In desperation, they run around to the forehand side.

One of the major problems with the one-hand backhand is having the wrong grip. Most players start off comfortably by using the forehand grip.

Using a forehand grip for a backhand groundstroke results in numerous problems. It puts the player in a very weak position.

After contact is made with the ball on a forehand grip, all the pressure goes directly to the elbow. This is probably the greatest cause of "tennis elbow."

Rotate the hand so that the knuckle of your index finger is on the top plane of the racquet. This is the proper grip for a one-hand backhand. You will find greater support and better feel using this method.

UNLIKE THE forehand, the one-hand backhand must be met well in front of the body for ample power. In order to insure that this occurs, take an early backswing. Draw the racquet back as soon as it leaves your opponent's racquet. Don't wait until it lands on your side of the court.

Pull the racquet back with the opposite hand (left hand for a right-handed player) for early preparation. This insures proper shoulder turn.

If you have a one-hand grip and feel you need more power or control, try the two-hand backhand.

It is unnecessary to switch grips on the two-hander. The non-dominate hand (left hand for a right-handed player) should supply you with enough power.

Many players feel awkward stroking the two-hander. They say it restricts their freedom and reach. The big difference, however, is simply getting used to the shot to gain the right "feel."

FOR BOTH types of backhands, make sure to bend the knees. This allows more control on your shot. Also, make sure you take the racquet back down low — assuring a low-to-high lifting motion on the ball which creates topspin.

Topspin is the desired spin on both the forehand and the backhand because it forces the ball down into your opponent's court.

Remember, bounce on your toes while waiting to the return shot. This will help you get an early jump on your opponent's return. Early preparation is a key to good tennis.

Don't get too close to the ball on your backhand. Try to position yourself by setting the right foot forward (opposite for left-handers) before stroking through the ball.

CC student on target as Hot Shot

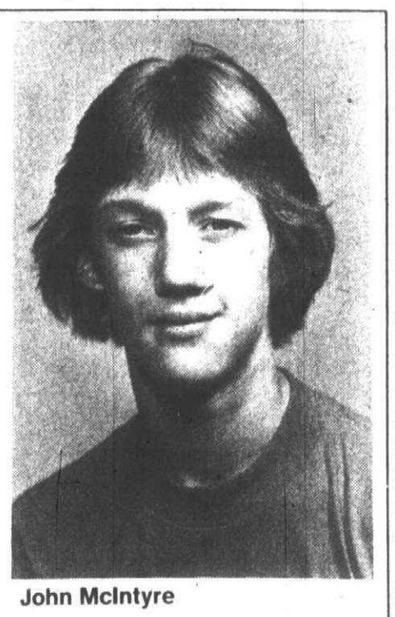

John McIntyre, a 15-year-old freshman from Catholic Central High School, has advanced to the national semifinals of the Pepsi-Cola NBA Hot Shot Contest.

The Hot Shot Contest consists of six designated shooting spots on the basketball floor. Points are given for number of shots made within a short time period.

The Redford Township sharpshooter will compete this weekend at the Philadelphia Spectrum with chance of making the finals later this month in Los Angeles during the NBA playoffs.

McIntyre has advanced through five levels of local and regional competition.

He began his quest last fall by winning area shootouts at Crowell Recreation Center, Butzel Park, Wayne State University and the Pontiac Silverdome.

John McIntyre

He represented Detroit two weeks ago in the Central Division competition at Milwaukee's Mecca Arena, grabbing first place.

P McIntyre received all-expense paid trips to both Milwaukee and Philadelphia for his winning efforts.

Oakland University cagers savor fine season

By Marty Budner
staff writer

Dewayne Jones leaned back in his chair, cupped his hands behind his head and smiled.

He was reminiscing about his Oakland University women's basketball team.

Everytime Jones thinks about the Lady Pioneers, his thoughts turn pleasant — like biting into a steak at Win Schuler's or resting comfortably under the brilliant Florida sun.

Playing without a senior in its starting lineup, the Lady Pioneers were possibly Michigan's most surprising college team this winter. They were certainly the state's best.

The Lady Pioneers didn't lose to an intra-state opponent this year — including defending state champion University of Detroit's Lady Titans — in marching to a 26-2 regular-season record.

Counting four Division II tournament games in Springfield, Mass., Oakland University finished 28-4 overall.

The Lady Pioneers advanced to the prestigious 'Final Four' where they lost their semifinal game against Tuskegee, 88-82. Oakland also dropped the consolation game to Mount St. Mary's, 73-62.

"THERE IS JUST no way I could have predicted when we started the season last fall how far we could have gone," said Jones, who graduated from Ferndale High School in 1968.

"I always thought that if you worked hard, satisfaction would eventually come. I know that the bottom line is how many you win and how many you lose. But, I never could have predicted we'd get to the final four.

"As a team, we learned a variety of ways of how to win," he said. "Whatever we needed to win a game we were able to get . . . whether we needed defense or a good-scoring effort from someone."

The Pioneers, who won the Great Lake Intercollegaite Athletic Conference (GLIAC) with a perfect 16-0 record, were led this season by all-star Linda Krawford. Only a junior, Krawford finished with 672 points (21 point average) to raise her three-year career total to 1,754.

Other notable front liners included power forward Teresa Vondrasek, who averaged 10 points per game, center Brenda McLean, who averaged 14.4 points, point guard Gwen Browner, who led the team with 165 assists, and Anne Kish, Kelly Kenny and Kim Nash.

"I THINK WHAT happened is that we started two freshman (Browner and McClean) who gave us an opportunity to do things we've never done before," said Jones. "Browner allowed us to (fast) break more, and McClean was able to start the fast break.

"And, we moved Vondrasek from center to forward and she played a lot better offensively. Plus, we were able to do more things defensively with this group. We had a much better supporting cast.

"We had much better players off the bench. That's not only important for the game, but it makes for a better practice. The girls seem to learn more that way."

"And, with all those things happening, it took all the load off Linda Krawford," he said. "She didn't have to do as many things as she did last year . . . she didn't have to do all the scoring."

Jones, who coached both the boys' and girls' varsity basketball teams at Ferndale, compiled a 20-9 mark two years ago when he took over for Rose Swidzinski. In two seasons, Jones owns a 48-13 overall record.

This year, the Lady Pioneers went through an upgraded schedule that included 12 non-conference games against Division I opponents. Some of the wins were over the University of Detroit (72-56), Central Michigan (75-66) Michigan (93-72) and Michigan State (76-57).

"The U-D game was a big win for us . . . to beat them was a big deal for us," said Jones. "And, we lost to some very good teams by not so many points. That helped us in the long run."

And, what about next year?

"We haven't really spent time recruiting this year because it's not a necessity," he said. "We didn't have any seniors on the team this year, but next year, we'll really have to go out and hustle."

Payne plans next move

PAYNE, after a spot on the 1984 U.S. Olympic team, now sports an amateur record of 24-7. He has moved up to the No. 2 spot in the U.S. national rankings among super-heavyweights.

Rickey Womack, a light-heavyweight from Ann Arbor, will accompany Payne to the ABF championships. Womack recently joined the Livonia Boxing Club.

"This is a very prestigious tournament," reminded Soucy. "The competition is going to be even harder. You have the service guys (Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine champions) coming in.

"We'll avenge that one (with Thompson). We're going to take it right to him next time from the start. I think we're on target."

Payne will continue to train, which includes road work and sparring at the Jackson Community Center in preparation for the Charlotte bouts.

Soucy hopes to bring Payne's weight down considerably from the 227 pounds he carried in KC.

"Craig fights better at 213 to 217," Soucy said. "He's much faster at that kind of weight."

PAYNE'S TEAMMATE, Rick Londberg, who also qualified for the National Golden Gloves, lost a close three-round decision in the heavyweight division to Joe Gill of Omaha, Neb.

Londberg came on strong at the end of the bout, but fell short in the eyes of the judges.

"We thought Rick might sneak out the decision," said Livonia Boxing Club coach Dick Quiton. "He was disappointed, but he did a good job."

Londberg's punching prevented Gill from competing in his next match. The Nebraska fighter suffered a series of cuts from the bout and was unable to answer the call for his second round match.

Borgess picks new coach

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Redford Bishop Borgess is the largest Catholic high school in the state. And that's what lured Mike Fusco into bidding for the basketball coaching position.

Fusco has been hired to head the Borgess basketball program, it was announced by athletic director Ralph Owen Monday.

The 26-year-old schoolteacher and former coach at Detroit St. Hedwig said, first and foremost, "there's a tremendous amount of potential at Borgess."

Fusco coached St. Hedwig for the past three years, compiling a 12-9 record last season. His team was 18-4 the year before and reigned as Catholic C-D League champion, beating Orchard Lake St. Mary in the finals. In his first season, St. Hedwig finished 16-7 overall.

FUSCO REPLACES Bill Croteau, fired three weeks ago mainly because of a poor record in the Catholic League's Central Division. Fusco's 29-1 league record over the past three seasons (his teams qualified all three years for the Catholic League playoffs) weighed heavily in his getting the Borgess job.

Croteau coached Borgess to a 1-9 mark last season.

Fusco graduated from Dearborn St. Alphonsus in 1973 and received his bachelor's degree at Eastern Michigan University last year. Before taking the coaching position at St. Hedwig in 1979, he served as an assistant coach at St. Alphonsus, Southgate Aquinas and Royal Oak Shrine.

He knows Borgess is "in a tough league", and he knows he will be competing for ballplayers with other Catholic schools in the area, like Detroit Catholic Central, Redford St. Agatha, Dearborn Divine Child and St. Mary's of Redford.

"The student has to choose the high school best for him," Fusco said. "And I have to sell Bishop Borgess to the student. If I do, we'll be in good shape.

'The Late George Apley' plays museum theater

John P. Marquand's bittersweet comedy about Boston high society opens April 16 at Henry Ford Museum Theatre at Greenfield Village, Dearborn.

Performances will be at 8:30 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays through May 22. Tickets are $4.75. A dinner-theater program including dinner at Heritage Hall is available for $16.50. For reservations call 271-1620, ext. 415.

"The Late George Apley" is a stage adaptation of Marquand's Pulitzer-Prize-winning novel by Marquand and comedy writer George S. Kaufman. The play lampoons the pretensions of Boston socialite George Apley and his conflicts with his "rebellious" children.

Apley is a busy Boston Brahmin of 1912. He doesn't lower himself to working at the mill where the family fortune was made. He occupies himself with bird-watching clubs, "gentlemen's" clubs and charity organizations.

HE IS appalled when his children begin dating "foreigners" from New York City and Worcester.

The conflict between generations see-saws back and forth with humor and insight into the problems of being a blueblood. Can George Apley be happy with a son-in-law who prefers reading Freud to reading Emerson?

"The Late George Apley" is the second play in the Henry Ford Museum Theater season. The season also will include the comedy-melodrama "The Henrietta," the comedy "20th Century" and the thriller "The Bat."

Comedy-drama will premiere

The Fourth Street Playhouse in Royal Oak will present the Detroit-area premiere of Michael Weller's comedy-drama "Loose Ends," beginning Friday.

Performances will be at 8:30 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays and 7:30 p.m. Sundays through May 22. Tickets are $6 on Fridays and Sundays, $7 on Saturdays. Student, senior citizen and group discounts are available on Fridays and Sundays. For reservations or further information call 543-3666 anytime.

WHAT'S IT WORTH?
A ratings guide to the movies

Bad	$1
Fair	$2
Good	$3
Excellent	$4

"Francis of Assisi" (1961), noon Friday on Ch. 9. Originally 111 minutes.

Bradford Dillman kicks off the Easter weekend as Giovanni di Bernardone, that 13th Century father of the Franciscans and noted bird fancier. But the simple, holy life of Saint Francis is overshadowed by the lavish production values, and action director Michael Curtiz fails to bring the spark to this picture that he brought to his earlier, costume epics. Dolores Hart, Stuart Whitman and Cecil Kellaway co-star. Rating: $2.

"Jesus Christ Superstar" (1973), 11:45 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 7. Originally 103 minutes.

Director Norman Jewison's colorful, highly visual adaptation of the stage play suits this Webber and Rice musical to a T. The setting is the unadorned Holy Land, and the action of the film is the conspicuous rise and fall (and rise) of the title character. Setting and action may be manifest, but the final product is a wonderful blend of song, symbol and faith. Rating:$3.

"The Song of Bernadette" (1943), 3:30 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 9. Originally 156 minutes.

At 2½ hours, this film easily outlasts Bernadette's visions of the Virgin Mary at Lourdes, France, in 1857. Jennifer Jones, 24 at the time, won an Oscar for her portrayal of the 15-year-old visionary and future saint. Now that's faith. Charles Bickford, Lee J. Cobb, Gladys Cooper and Vincent Price co-star. Rating: $2.50.

"Poppy" (1936), 12:25 Wednesday night on Ch. 50. Originally 75 minutes.

W.C. Fields had fallen victim to delirium tremens and various other maladies brought on by his epic bouts with John Barleycorn, and was actually convalescing during the filming of "Poppy." That explains why he appears in less than half of the film, but it's no reason to miss Fields as the man who sells his talking dog to a stranger, only to have the dog remark that he'll never speak again. Field's response: "He probably means it, too." Rating:$2.60.

second-rate

"Bart LaRue's The Ark of Noah" (1970), 2 a.m. tonight on Ch. 4. Originally 90 minutes.

"Provides a great deal of background information and explains that Noah was the king of Shuruppak, an area 500 miles south of Mt. Ararat, 100 miles from Kuwait, which was destoryed by a flood about 5,000 years ago."Rating: 2 cubits.

David Michael Harper keeps busy and happy performing with his country music group

Singing makes life joyful

By Carmina Brooks
special writer

WHEN GUITARIST, composer and country music singer David Michael Harper of Bloomfield Township talks about himself, he uses the plural pronoun "we" and calls his wheelchair "this."

Literally speaking, his family and friends, and his chair, have become a physical and spiritual extension of himself.

"It's a recognition that I cannot make it alone," he explained. "With we and this," he lightly tapped the arm of his wheelchair, "there are no steps too high and nothing we can't do."

Harper, 23, is paralyzed from the chest down. But that isn't keeping him from living a life filled with love, laughter and work. His music is his work.

WHEN HARPER was 19, he was a passenger in a car involved in an accident at Woodward and 14 Mile Road. The impact threw him over the seat and into the rear window. His spinal cord was severed.

"I don't try to kid anybody. I talk lightly about the accident because I don't want to depress anybody or myself, but it was very tough," he said.

He recalled, "I had to lay flat on a Stryker bed. You can't turn at all. They placed something on top of me and clamped me in. Sometimes, so I could be on my stomach, they would flip the bed over. Then they put me in a cast and I had a guitar in my hands. That was the first time I knew I was going to be OK."

"I had a whole new respect for life and had to do something. Thank God I have my arms! I could still play the guitar and sing," he said.

Since Harper has been in the wheelchair he has composed many songs that he uses in benefit concerts. Three have been recorded by Ambience Recordings of Farmington Hills. He said he plans to go to Nashville soon and finish an album.

THE LYRICS of Harper's songs reflect his experience. He has written "High Wheeled Limousine," "Paint Your Dream," "The Lady and the Cowboy," and "Looking through the Eyes of a Child," a song that explores "wondering if where I have been is worth the things I have been through."

The song "The Day I Saw My Mama Cry" is explicit in its pain:

"It hit so hard I couldn't understand why the Lord would take away His hand. My insides turned, and I thought I would die, the day I saw my Mama cry."

Upcoming benefit concerts by David Harper's group are scheduled May 8 at the Dearborn Civic Center and May 21 at the Southgate Civic Center. Both are public-awareness performances for the handicapped, in conjunction with annual local festivals, and open to the public.

Harper's country-music heroes are Ronnie Milsap, whom he calls "an awesome talent," Kenny Rogers and John Denver. "They give me guidelines," he said.

WHAT WOULD David Harper be doing with his life if the accident had not happened? He answered, "I don't know. I see kids in hospitals that are not smiling. I don't think I would be involved with them."

During Harper's rehabilitation period at Craig Hospital in Englewood, Colo., he saw people who couldn't use their arms, others brain damaged and some "doing everything they could to kill themselves," he said. He thought these people were worse off than he was.

"When you look around and see kids with minimal movement just trying to eat, it's enough to make you cry," he continued.

"At Craig, I did a concert every week. They brought all the patients in and we sang. I was sitting on my bed and it was therapy for them and me. I saw that I could really help by singing. It was a turning point."

Pondering his future, Harper said, "I have grown so close to the communities that have supported my shows it is my benefit performances that keep me going."

"I WILL TRY to devote myself to young people and the handicapped and let them know that if I can do it, why can't they?"

"I want to do what everybody does," he said. And for the most part, he does. He drives a van; plays bridge, tennis, basketball, and swims with "walking guys." He explained, "Chair guys are just not around."

Robert and Barbara Harper, David's parents, came to Michigan from New Jersey with their five children. Susan, 31, was a concert pianist before she married and moved to South Carolina. Bob, 29, lives in Louisville. Sherry, 26, is a vocalist and sings back-up with David's music group. Mary Beth, 21, now attends Central University in Arizona.

"We grew up with music in our home. Mom is the greatest and my father is at least half of my stuffing. I can't remember a major decision I have made in my life without him."
