Canton eyes project to reward crime tips

Are you willing to put forth a little time or money to help reduce crime?

A prevention program called Crime Stoppers may be coming to Canton. It involves publicizing crimes and offering rewards for tips or information.

Supervisor James Poole has expressed an interest in the program. The police department is inviting members of homeowners' associations and businessmen and businesswomen to a meeting at 7 p.m. May 26 in Township Hall to find out how the plan works.

Crime Stoppers has been used successfully in some areas of the country, explained Police Chief Jerry Cox.

But it may be time-consuming and require a realignment of manpower, Cox added. Inability to change or increase staffing to respond to the program "will do more harm," Cox said.

"PEOPLE HAVE the option of calling in openly or as a secret witness," Cox said. "They also have an opportunity to be aware of what's going on in the community. It requires an increased amount of work."

Currently, 15 subdivision groups are on the Neighborhood Watch program, according to Leonard Schemanske, a crime prevention officer.

Neighborhood Watch focuses on crime prevention through such projects as registering bicycles and putting identification markings on household valuables.

In addition, neighbors are encouraged to report any evidence of unusual or suspicious activity to police or block captains.

ANY FUNDING for rewards under Crime Stoppers would have to come from business, civic or service groups, said Schemanske.

"The money, by theory, shouldn't come from the police department," he explained.

The May 26 meeting will last about three hours, said Schemanske. The first hour will be devoted to Crime Stoppers, and the remainder will highlight upcoming prevention programs available to homeowners.

"We're trying to get a sense of direction," said Schemanske. "This meeting is going to be important (in that regard)."

Rash of home break-ins makes neighbors jittery

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Katie Wilson opened her eyes for an instant and saw a tall man rummaging through her purse on the dresser.

Moments later, the intruder walked down a hallway, and Mrs. Wilson woke her husband, John. Upon investigation, the Wilsons found the kitchen window wide open, and the curtains lying outside.

Mrs. Wilson's purse — minus $20 or $30 — was lying behind the garage. The thief was so quiet, the family dog had failed to bark a warning.

"It (the break-in) had to have been done very slowly and carefully," said Mrs. Wilson, of Forrest Drive. "He — or they — were very quiet."

The break-in, which occurred last week, has caused nervous moments for the Wilsons. They are taking extra precautions with locks and keep outside lights burning at night.

"The thing that really bothers me is that a knife with a serrated edge had been lying on the counter," Mrs. Wilson added. "It was gone. I assume (the thief) had it in the room. That's what really scared me."

'The thing that really bothers me is that a knife with a serrated edge had been lying on the counter. It was gone. I assume (the thief) had it in the room. That's what really scared me.'

— Katie Wilson, Canton resident

FORREST DRIVE is in north Canton, near Joy and Sheldon. Residents of the area are getting jittery about a rash of break-ins.

The Wilsons quickly learned their home wasn't the only one on Forrest burglarized last week.

A neighbor down the block also reported a break-in around the same time as the Wilson incident occurred.

According to a police report, the neighbor discovered the burglary when he was getting dressed for work. His pants and wallet were found outside in the yard, along with a pistol and a jewelry box which had been kept in the house.

Police say the two Forrest Drive break-ins are unusual because the residents were home. Most burglaries occur when homeowners are away, said Lt. Larry Stewart.

"THIS IS a departure from the norm," Stewart added. "This is the first time someone has seen (a burglar). The only things they're taking are what they can put into their pockets."

Police records indicate break-ins are increasing in northern Canton, the most densely populated area of the township, according to Stewart.

The northern area, known as section one, has logged 33 house and two business break-ins since the beginning of 1982, Stewart said.

About 6,800 persons live in section one, he added. The area encompasses the Holiday Park subdivision with 528 homes; the Royal Holiday Mobile Home Park with 436 units; Honeytree Apartments with 744 units; and Stoney Brook Apartments with 488 units.

Police are advising residents to lock their doors and windows (doorwalls are a popular point of entry), and to keep an outside light burning to discourage would-be burglars.

Persons who want to find out more about crime-prevention programs offered by the police department may attend a meeting at 7 p.m. May 26 at Township Hall.

"I think what is necessary in neighborhoods is communication," said Frank McMurray, acting president of the Holiday Park Homeowners Association.

"I think some of those (prevention) methods are going to be explained at the meeting," added McMurray. "We are probably a little late, in that some people have already been ripped off."

The meeting is open to residents, representatives of homeowners groups and businessmen and businesswomen.

Student reporters mull joys, burdens of writing

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

The life of a reporter isn't all flash and glamour.

Just ask the high-school journalism students in Plymouth and Canton. You might say they're getting the real "perspective" on the joys and headaches of newspapering.

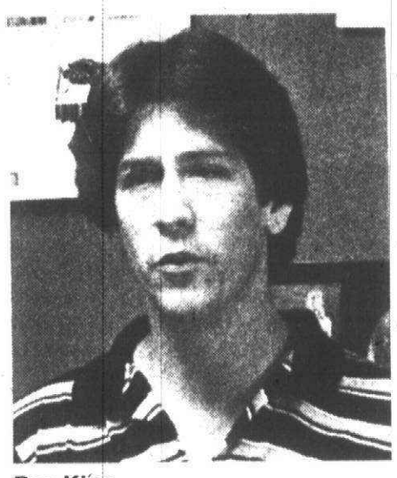
Last year, the students started publishing the CEP Perspective — a paper covering news of both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools at the Centennial Educational Park. Previously, each school had its own paper.

According to teacher-adviser Sue Welker, circulation is picking up, ads are increasing and the staff is collecting a few awards.

"We come close to being self-supporting," says a smiling, petite, energetic Welker.

"The number of ads is increasing, and circulation is going from 1,500 per issue to 2,000," she added.

THE PERSPECTIVE comes out about every three weeks. Students sell ads, conduct interviews, write articles and lay out their pages.



Ron King
editor, CEP Prespective

"It's like being employed," says Ron King of Plymouth, the student editor-in-chief.

Members of the Perspective staff have had introductory journalism, in which they study writing styles, reporting techniques, ethics and legal and moral issues pertaining to libel and invasion of privacy.

Dave Snyder, a senior from Canton, is responsible for checking with attorneys and other experts on legal or delicate questions.

For example, should the paper accept an ad from someone selling merchandise which appeared to have been obtained illegally? That ad was rejected.

How should the Perspective staff handle a memorial piece on the death of a homebound student without intruding on the grief and privacy of the family? They interviewed friends of the youth.

"THEY DEAL very much with real issues," said Welker. "I think it would be a major weakness of any high-school paper if it didn't deal with ethical and moral issues. It's a major part of being a responsible and successful journalist."

Scholastic and professional organizations sponsor many awards programs and seminars for student journalists. Perspective staff members are taking part in these activities.

The Rev. Gregory Gentry, of Canton Calvary Assembly of God, made his Dungeons & Dragons appeal to the Board of Education Monday night.

School board hears pastor argue against fantasy game

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

The fight to have the role-playing game Dungeons & Dragons (D&D) removed from Plymouth-Canton Community Schools went to the Board of Education Monday night.

Presenting results from an informal survey of area clergy, quoting from magazine articles and the Bible, the Rev. Gregory Gentry said the fantasy game presented a "spiritual danger to the community."

Gentry, pastor of Canton Calvary Assembly of God, was appealing Superintendent John Hoben's decision to allow D&D to be used as part of a West Middle School elective course.

Because the presentation was made at a board workshop, action on the appeal will not be made until the next regular board meeting, at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

D&D IS AN unending fantasy game in which players "become" imaginary characters and are led on adventures by a referee, called the dungeon master. Gentry has charged the game with having a "negative spiritual influence on the student players."

The game promotes "religous humanism, witchcraft and spiritualism, which are all established religions," Gentry said, referring to an earlier review committee's decision on D&D.

The review committee upheld the use of D&D, saying it "neither advances nor prohibits any suggested religion or religious belief."

'I know I could play baseball with Jesus Christ. I know I could play tennis with Jesus Christ. I know I could play chess with Jesus Christ, but I know I couldn't cast spells and play DUNGEONS & DRAGONS with Jesus Christ.'

— The Rev. Gregory Gentry, Canton pastor

POINTING TO portions from the D&D handbooks, Gentry said the game's spell casting, magic performing and spirit worship were practices of established religions.

"I'm not calling for the schools to replace D&D with pro-Christian materials — just that they remain neutral."

Since the schools have crossing guards to insure that students get home physically safe, they also should insure the students get home mentally safe, he said.

Reading from Proverbs, Gentry said that as a man thinks in his heart, so he truly is.

D&D is a dangerous game which can damage a child's mind and affect behavior, he said.

Holding up an article from Psychology Today magazine which discussed the psychological effects of D&D, Gentry said he could only ask one question.

"Why was this article in Psychology Today? This is a professional magazine for psychologists and psychiatrists."

The article, "Confessions of a Dungeon Master," was written by Dr. John E. Holmes, who also edited the D&D Basic Set rule book. Holmes discusses the activities of D&D players and the impact of the game.

"You have to believe they printed this article because these will be the people sitting on the psychiatrist's couch some time down the road," Gentry said.

THE RESULTS of the informal clergy survey were the personal, professional opinions of the clergy, he said.

"Just as you would seek the advice of accountants in money matters and the advice of lawyers in legal matters, you should seek the advice of spiritual leaders in spiritual matters."

Gentry read the opinions of 10 clergy from the area — six supporting his stand and four either against his stand or unfamiliar with D&D.

"Those pastors from an evangelical background tend to be against D&D and those from a more liberal background tend to support it."

A LETTER explaining the need for the survey was sent to area clergy.

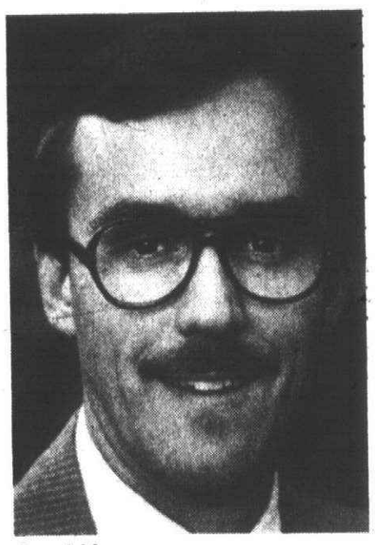
Law announces for House seat



Gerald Law

Plymouth Township Trustee Gerry Law announced today he is a candidate for the Michigan House of Representatives from the newly created 36th District.

Law, a 37-year-old Ford Motor Co. employee, said the new district includes the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, the city of Northville and Northville Township and part of Canton Township.

He will run on the Republican ticket.

"MICHIGAN NEEDS aggressive and creative new leadership in finding practical, long-term solutions to our present economic problems," said Law.

"We have to be less reliant on traditional industries and diversify into new areas to create a sound economic base now and for the future.

"Robotics and other high-technology specialties are naturals for Michigan because we already have the labor force and know how to develop them.

"But that is just a first step," continued Law. "As a lawmaker, I would propose a sunset review of state laws, rules, policies and procedures that are inhibiting economic development right now."

Law said the state should provide tax incentives for venture capital firms to locate in Michigan and modify the Single Business Tax (SBT), which discourages the creation of new jobs.

"And, of course, the state's unemployment compensation system must be reformed to prevent a constant drain on the employers we have right now and the ones we hope to attract in the future."

LAW, who earned a master's degree in business administration from the University of Detroit and a law degree from Wayne State University, said he also will campaign on the issues of property-tax relief, increased funding for schools, and innovative methods of reducing the welfare caseload similar to reforms recently enacted in Pennsylvania.

"Homeowners are being brutally squeezed by increasing assessments and the worst housing market in 40 years," said Law.

"Assessments which rise every year are nothing less than unlegislated tax increases. Yet, at the same time, the state is cutting aid to education, and the voters are reluctant to pick up the increased tab.

"If Michigan allows its schools to collapse, there isn't a business in the world that would consider relocating here. We simply can't make the property tax the single source for funding our schools.

"I would advocate a one-penny increase in the sales tax to be specifically earmarked for education with a guarantee that over-burdend homeowners also receive property-tax relief."

Nuclear freeze drive goes to Lansing

The nuclear freeze campaign activities will culminate Wednesday, May 26, with a rally at the capitol in Lansing.

All interested people are urged to participate in the rally which will begin at 1 p.m. in Lansing.

There will be speakers, including state and national legislators, and a spokesperson for Gov. Milliken.

A ceremonial presentation of the nuclear freeze petitions also will be part of the rally.

Anyone interested in attending may get more information from Johanne Fechter of Plymouth at 455-2149 or from Lee Riebling at 349-8243.

ACCORDING TO the women, all petitions should be in their hands by May 24 unless they are mailed directly to the state office before that date.

The pair report that more than 80 people attended a meeting sponsored recently by the Northwest Suburban Committee for the Nuclear Weapons Freeze and by the Newman House at Schoolcraft College.

Dr. Arthur Vander of Ann Arbor showed the film "The Last Epedemic," and spoke on the medical consequences of nuclear war.

He said if people remembered nothing else they should retain three numbers — 100 missiles, 16 cities, 50 million dead.

VANDER EXPLAINED that the 100 missiles which could devastate the 16 major U.S. cities and kill 50 million people represent only one and one-half percent of the Soviet nuclear capability.

The flip side of that, adds Vander, is that if all the U.S. had for defense was one Posiedon submarine it could target more than 160 Soviet cities — and the U.S. has 31 such submarines plus the newer Trident sub and many land-based missiles and nuclear warheads carried in fighter planes.

Doug Lent, the second speaker, opened the meeting to questions after speaking a short time, and the audience was very responsive with the question period extending beyond the anticipated half-hour.

LENT SPOKE largely of the economic impact of spending large amounts of money on non-durable weapons and pointed out that money spent on consumer goods and services create more jobs than does defense spending.

Rosina Raymond, Schoolcraft College trustee, opened and closed the meeting by reading anti-war poems, one of her own composition and one by Elizabeth Weideman of Dearborn.

A video-tape of the meeting is available for viewing at the Newman House and can be arranged by calling 464-2160.

Pastor objects to game

Gentry also intended to include a page with reproductions of several illustrations from D&D books, but due to an oversight it wasn't mailed out.

"I don't see how a youngster can look at these books and not have nightmares, or be tempted — there are drawings of bare-breasted ladies all through the books," he said while showing the board several of the drawings.

"The women are made out to be sex objects."

Gentry said he didn't know how anyone could play D&D and pray the Lord's Prayer.

"I had to ask myself could I sit with this mess — with these pictures and say, 'Our father, lead me not into temptation.'

"I know I could play baseball with Jesus Christ. I know I could play tennis with Jesus Christ. I know I could play chess with Jesus Christ — but I know I couldn't cast spells and play D&D with Jesus Christ."

THE BOARD shouldn't be afraid of any possible future repercussions due to a decision against D&D, he said.

"I am not opposed to all fantasy. I am not opposed to learning about mythology. I am not an extremest."

Gentry said he has given his life to the Gospel and felt it was imperative he bring the fight against D&D to the board.

No presentations were made in support of D&D's use in the schools and the board didn't discuss Gentry's presentation.

Trustee Flossie Tonda thanked Gentry for coming to the board well prepared.

"I wish everybody would come to the board with as much research and knowledge," she said.

Construction students plan for the future

By Dennis O'Connor
staff writer

Many 11th- and 12th-grade students at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) hope a future building boom is on the way.

And if this area experiences a growth cycle, students in the Construction Technology class are sure to be prepared.

One major project for this year's class in building a miniature house in a workroom at Plymouth Canton High School.

Instructor Bud Omiatek, who helps hold up the drywall during its placement, has taught in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for five years.

Instructor Bud Omiatek, a five-year teacher for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, supervises and teaches this elective class, which stresses the practical aspects of building houses.

Carpentry, masonry, house wiring, plumbing and site development are just a few of the skills students learn and develop, Omiatek says.

The house is build to scale of a normal-size house. It is approximately 12-by-18 feet — the size of a garage, Omiatek says.

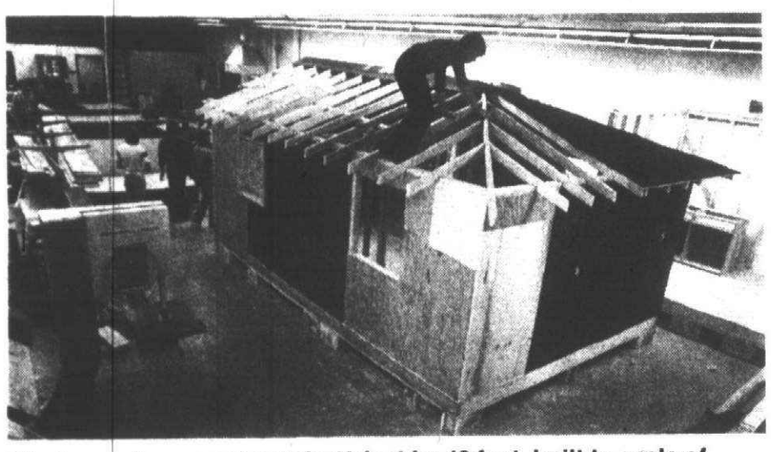
"It's the basic building (like a house), but it's just not as big and not as high," Omiatek says.

Classroom work in Construction Technology revolves around planning and discussing different phases of building a house, Omiatek says.

The construction teacher adds the class also helps prepare students for future home maintenance of their own building.

Students interested in architecture and real estate, along with house construction, have taken this class in recent years.

The vocational class is open only to 11th and 12th graders at the CEP. Omiatek expects two classes of 25 students each to participate this fall.



The house is approximately 12 feet by 18 feet, built to scale of a normal-size house.

County districts approved; primary election delayed

Candidates for the 1983 Wayne County Board of Commissioners finally have new districts to run in. But the long delay in reapportionment has pushed back the partisan primary a week to Aug. 10.

"An orderly election is more important than the dates," said County Clerk James Killeen who is also apportionment commission chairman.

"Maybe one week's not enough," added Killeen, who first suggested the primary be delayed.

The Michigan Supreme Court ordered the week's delay when it became apparent last week that redistricting plans — for Congress, the Michigan Legislature and the Wayne County Board, among others — would not be finished in time for candidates to file and elections officials to set up their voting machinery.

THE WAYNE County Apportionment Commission late Friday approved 3-1 a reapportionment plan which is a revision of an earlier "Holley" plan. Some suburban politicians charged it favors Detroit.

The new map, virtually identical to one published in last Monday's edition of the Observer, creates these suburban districts:

- District 9 — all of Redford Township and part of northwest Detroit, with two-thirds of the population being in Detroit. The new district has three incumbents — Richard Manning of Redford and John Korney and Clemens Bykowski of Detroit, all Democrats.
- District 10 — Livonia, Plymouth and Northville. It has two incumbents — Mary Dumas, R-Livonia, who has announced for reelection, and R. William Joyner, D-Plymouth, who will run for the state Legislature.
- District 11 — Canton Township, Wayne, Van Buren Township, Belleville, Romulus and the southwest corner of Wayne County. It has no incumbent.
- District 12 — Westland, Garden City and Inkster. Incumbents Tom Presnell of Westland and Kay Beard of Inkster may have to face each other in the Democratic primary.

Some pairing of incumbents was unavoidable because the new Wayne County charter, which goes into effect Jan. 1, reduces the number of commissioners from 27 to 15.

FAVORING the plan were Treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz, Prosecutor William Cahalan and Democratic Party representative Hubert Holley, who introduced.

Opposed was Michael Legg, Republican Party representative. The Livonia attorney had offered his own reapportionment plan and felt the Holley plan could have been improved upon.

Clerk Killeen, seeing there was a majority for the Holley plan, declared it adopted and didn't vote.

The plan must be approved by the state Court of Appeals, which rejected the first Holley plan approved in January. The Appeals Court said boundaries could have been drawn closer to mathematical ideals. But the State Supreme Court overruled it, saying reapportionment could follow community lines more closely.

UNDER THE revised calendar, city and township clerks will have until May 28 to revise their local precinct boundaries, according to deputy county clerk Robert Ficano.

Candidates for precinct delegate have until 4 p.m. Tuesday, June 8 to file their nominating petitions.

Candidates for state representatives, state senator and congressman will have until 4 p.m. Tuesday, June 15 to file their petitions.

MEANWHILE, a federal district court panel is scheduled to rule soon between rival plans for Michigan congressional districting.

The case went to court after Gov. William G. Milliken, a Republican, vetoed a plan adopted by the Legislature as being gerrymandered in favor of Democrats. Michian's delegation to the U.S. House of Representatives will be reduced from 19 to 18 because the state's population failed to keep pace with the rest of the nation.

The Michigan Supreme Court is scheduled to hand down its verdict next Friday on state legislative redistricting.

The high court is considering two major plans. One was drawn up by former state elections director Bernard J. Apol at the court's insistence after the State Apportionment Commission found itself in its decennial bipartisan deadlock. Republicans say it will give them a better shot at legislative seats.

Democratic House members, with some Republican help, passed a rival plan to avoid pitting 38 incumbents against one another. The so-called "Incumbents plan," however, was seen as having little chance of winning court approval.

SOME SUBURBANITES, particularly in Dearborn Heights and Westland, objected to the Holley plan's handling of Wayne County board districts.

Westland Mayor Charles Pickering and Dearborn Heights Mayor Donald Bishop wrote identical letters to the County Apportionment Comission, saying:

"While Detroit is entitled to 7.7 seats and out-county to 7.3 seats, Mr. Holley's plan gerrymanders into giving Detroit nine seats to out-county's six seats. This letter is to protest this division in the strongest manner possible."

Biggest bone of contention was District 9, which will contain 58,441 Redford Township residents and 96,557 Detroiters.

BUT JOSEPH Hansknecht, co-chair of the Urban Alliance in Detroit, argued that the Redford portion has more registered voters than the Detroit portion.

Hansknect made the same argument about District 1, which contains 68,350 Grosse Pointe area suburbanites and 84,467 Detroiters, predicting a suburban Republican would win it.

He called the Holley plan fair to blacks, Hispanics, suburbanites and Republicans.

"Those comments are more appropriate in the Balkan peninsula than in Wayne County," shot back Prosecutor Cahalan. "We're neither Jews nor Christians, urban nor suburban. We're citizens of Wayne County."

Boomer retires after 36 years

By Judy Celmer
staff writer

His eyes twinkle, and optimism creeps out with the words he speaks.

A combination of educator, administrator and counselor — a person who loves his job as much as he loves people, yet one who will be saying goodbye to that job in June.

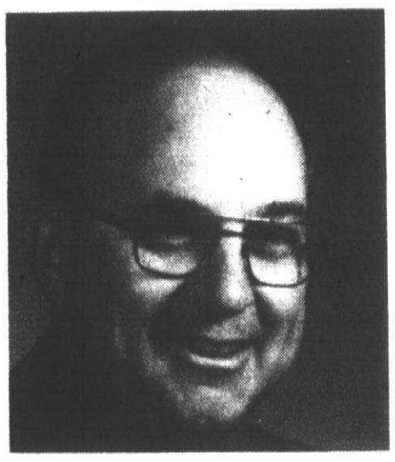
Robert Boomer, associate principal at Garden City East High School, is all of these. He has spent 23 years in teaching and administering in various capacities as principal, and he'll tell you in his deep, husky voice that he "had fun in all of them. I've seen lots of rewarding things. I guess you could say I've had some really good vibes about my work!"

A former Wayne resident who moved to Canton three years ago, Boomer will be retiring only two months before his wife, an assistant director of nursing at Heritage Hospital in Taylor.

"I like kids," he says. "I guess that's why I like my job."

THE FATHER of two children himself, Boomer came into the world of education first as a junior high school math and science teacher. Those first four years were spent at Burger Junior High.

Then "I came here," he says, referring to East, where for five years he was assistant principal. Next step along the way was a nine-year stint as principal at Burger, and back to East as associate principal.



Robert Boomer retiring after 30 years

"If I had to do it over again," he says without a trace of regret, "I'd go into teaching sooner."

BOOMER DOESN'T have to say he likes kids. It's evident in the scenario played right there in his small office attached to the school's main office.

A girl quietly comes in to pick up some papers. "She's a senior, graduating this year," Boomer explains.

The student and Boomer, 60, exchange papers and conversation, commenting "that's fine" during the talk.

"I don't know why she said she wanted to work for me," Boomer says, kiddingly. Her papers all gathered, the senior quickly answers, "Because you're a nice guy!"

Of CEP Perspectives

Student reporters step into limelight

Students Marilyn Morrison and Susie Pierce wrote an award-winning editorial supporting group homes for the retarded in a community setting. They describe the retarded as "birds with shorter wings" — people who need to develop an ability to strengthen their abilities.

The student writers netted a third-place award of $100, presented May 13 at the Detroit Press Club.

Anja Vogt, an exchange student from Germany, recently returned from a trip to Washington, D.C. — her prize for a feature story. The article describes villages in Germany which are designed to assist handicapped persons, explains Welker.

IN MARCH, 18 CEP students, Welker and Deni Elliott, an adviser now on leave to study at Harvard College, attended a seminar in New York City.

The seminar, sponsored by the Columbia University scholastic press association, highlighted various topics of journalism. The group also managed to squeeze in some sightseeing.

This summer, Welker will be off to Stanford University in California for a three-week fellowship awarded by the Newspaper Fund of Princeton University.

Fellowship winners, chosen because of current teaching activities and educational credentials, could select from 60 summer programs offered to journalism teachers.

It's uncertain how many Perspective staff members will pursue careers in journalism. But most told an Observer reporter they believe the lifestyle would be "adventurous and active."

To reduce property taxes

Faust discusses tax-shift plan

By Sandra Armbruster
staff writer

State Senate Majority Leader William Faust plans to support a property tax relief proposal now being written for inclusion on November's ballot.

Faust told members of the Westland Chamber of Commerce at a Tuesday luncheon that the proposal, being written by state Senator James DeSana, D-Wyandotte, would reduce school property taxes and increase the state sales tax by one percent.

DeSana's proposal is similar to a tax relief plan proposed by State Representative Roy Smith, R-Ypsilanti. Officials in the Wayne-Westland school district are backing a petition drive to have the Smith plan placed on the November ballot (see separate story).

"THERE ARE two appealing factors to the (DeSana) plan," said Faust, a Westland Democrat whose district also includes Garden City and Canton Township. "First, more than 20 percent of all sales tax revenue is paid by out-of-state residents.

"Second, Michigan citizens have more confidence with the sales tax. Now that food and drugs aren't taxed, it's a more progressive tax."

Additional "window dressing" in the DeSana proposal are measures that Faust said would strengthen education. For instance, money from sales of lottery tickets would be constitutionally limited for use by schools.

"We already do that, but no one believes it," Faust said.

While proponents of the Smith plan admit that the one-cent hike in sales tax would fall $200 million short of school property tax revenue, Faust said that DeSana is basing his plan on projections which show Michigan's economy improving.

MICHIGAN IS able to "rebound faster from a recession than any other state in the union," Faust said. During the 1975 oil embargo, Michigan owed the federal government $700 million for unemployment compensation, he said. That debt was paid back by the state in two years, he said.

Next year's state budget would be passed on a projected 5-6 percent increase in revenue, he said.

Although Michigan voters have rejected four other tax relief proposals at the ballot box, Faust said that the new tax relief plan is a response to the resentment of property taxes still expressed by voters.

"Property tax is not a fair tax; it's not equitable," said Faust. "It harms those on a fixed income and it hurts young people who are just starting out."

Faust also urged "greater cooperation among governments to provide regional services," such as mass transportation, public safety and water and sewer service to avoid duplication and inefficiency.

"The longstanding antagonism between city and suburbs must be cast aside," Faust added.

DESPITE CRITICISM of property taxes, Faust said the tax isn't as heavy a burden as it appears.

He said that Michigan has the largest tax rebate program in the nation. Called the circuit breaker or homestead tax relief, the program provides more than $500 million in tax relief to property owners.

"Measuring property tax as a percentage of personal income, there are 19 other states with higher property tax than Michigan," Faust continued. "It is unfair to blame state government for property tax increases when every dollar is collected and spent locally.

"Therefore, the responsibility for rates and spending lies with you and me and local government."

According to Faust, the state Legislature has tried other measures to relieve local property tax burdens.

ONE PROPOSAL passed by the state Senate that would freeze 1982 assessments at 1981 levels is now before the state House, Faust said.

Faust said the Legislature was successful in getting the truth-in-taxation and truth-in-assessing bills passed. The first law prohibits local city and school governments from collecting inflationary increases in tax revenue without first holding public hearings and setting the tax rate.

Woman charged in fatality

A Livonia woman has been charged with negligent homicide in the May 8 traffic death of a 35-year-old Canton Township woman.

Mildred Youmans, 40, a teacher with the Livonia Public Schools, was arraigned on the charge Tuesday in Livonia's 16th District Court. Youmans stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered on her behalf by Magistrate Walter Guth. She was released on $10,000 personal bond pending a June 29 examination in district court.

According to police, Soon Jung Park, a math professor at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, died from multiple injuries following a two-car collision at the Eight Mile-Newburgh Road intersection. Park was a passenger in a car driven by Jaerek Lee, 44, of Farmington Hills.

Lee's car was heading east on Eight Mile Road when it was hit broadside by Youmans' car, which was heading north on Newburgh Road. Police said it appeared that Youmans drove through a red light. Speeding wasn't a factor in the accident, police said.

Youmans, her 10-year-old son, and Lee were treated and released from St. Mary Hospital following the accident.

Community Band to play Friday

The Plymouth Community Band will present its first concert of the year tomorrow night at Pioneer Middle School.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. on the stage of Pioneer Middle School on Ann Arbor Road west of Sheldon.

The community band, directed by Carl Battishill, will present a program including music from the stage, orchestral transcriptions, original band compositions, and the traditional marches.

Included on the program will be the "Academic Festival Overture" Op. 80 by Brahms and arranged by Safanek, "Second Suite in F for Band" by Holst and the John Warrington arrangement of "On Stage with Cole Porter."

Pre-concert music by the Plymouth Brass Quintet will begin at 7:45 p.m. Members of the quintet, who also are members of the Plymouth Community Band, include: Battishill and Clay Leroue on trumpets; Stuart Delaney, horn; Linda Mapes Calzone, trombone; and Keith Burton on tuba.

Admission to the concert is free and open to the public.

Students may apply for jobs

Students ages 16-21 may apply for summer employment and training with the Student Career Opportunity through Relative Experience (SCORE) program, a federally funded project.

Persons are asked to call SCORE coordinator Byron Richardson at Plymouth Salem High School, 453-3100, ext. 298, for an application and more information. The program offers jobs between 20 and 40 hours weekly for disadvantaged youth. Employment runs from June 28 through August 20. Anyone applying after June 18 may not start work until July 5. Jobs are limited.

Township purchases land

The purchasing of land adjacent to Friendship Station was approved by the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees at its May 11 meeting.

Friendship Station on Schoolcraft is the senior citizen's recreation building which opened this year.

The property being purchased, east of Friendship Station, is owned by Velma DePriest. The township will be paying $10,000 for the 0.35 of an acre.

Currently the township doesn't plan to build on the property. But it could be used for expansion of Friendship Station.

"I think it's a piece of property we will need in the future," Treasurer Joe West said in his motion for approval of the purchase.

Summer hours are announced

Beginning June 1, Plymouth City Hall summer working hours will change to 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Residents may make payments for tax bills, water bills and parking tickets by using the drop box located next to the treasurer's office window before and after regular office hours.

Payments for tax bills and water bills also can be made at: Detroit Bank & Trust, Lakepoint Village Branch; First National Bank of Plymouth; National Bank of Detroit.

Regular winter working hours, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays will resume on Sept. 7.

The new court facility of 35th District Court near Hillside Inn on Plymouth Road will have office hours of 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Seminar to help families cope with alcoholism

"In an alcoholic family, everybody is in pain — everybody feels the burden," said Jeanne Knopf DeRoche of Plymouth.

DeRoche is a panel member for a seminar on alcohol abuse in the family and in the community which is scheduled for May 25 at Schoolcraft College.

As lead family therapist at Maplegrove (Henry Ford Hospital's center for the treatment of alcoholism and chemical dependency), DeRoche helps family members of an alcoholic patient focus on themselves.

"We tell them no one is responsible for the patient's alcoholism, but the family as a system is involved in allowing it to continue," said DeRoche.

THE FAMILY treatment program, which DeRoche helped to design less than a year ago, begins by getting family members to explore what they are doing that stands between the chemically dependent person and the consequences of his or her disease.

"We go on from there, in some 40 hours of treatment, and into the aftercare period as well."

For DeRoche, getting into family therapy was a "process, not a decision" which probably dates back to childhood and an extended family which depended for much of its support and social activity on itself.

"We were close to cousins, aunts, uncles," said DeRoche. "We still meet halfway between Pittsburgh and here and camp out."

As a teacher for several years, DeRoche found herself wondering what it was at home which was influencing her students' behavior and achievement at school.

As a director of a drug crisis center in Roseville, she found parents concerned when their children took drugs, but not when they drank — and she wondered why.

With a master's degree from Oakland University, DeRoche entered private practice as a therapist at Plymouth's Mid-West Mental Health Clinic. Getting a lot of referrals of family members of alcoholics, she began to specialize in this field.

When DeRoche leaves Maplegrove, somewhere along the drive from West Bloomfield to Plymouth, she leaves behind the role of family therapist and takes up the role of wife to Fred and mother of Kate, 1½, and Sean, 5½ years old.

Sharing a commitment to the value of the family, the DeRoches have chosen to send Sean to a private school in Plymouth which requires family involvement — the New Morning School.

Ungraded, emphasizing cooperation rather than competition, New Morning in some ways provides the extended family for Sean which was so important to his parents.

"The older kids look after the younger ones," said DeRoche. "We find that the school is our main community involvement, so in a sense it is like a family for us too."

THE SEMINAR will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Waterman Center of Schoolcraft, 18600 Haggerty between Six and Seven Mile roads in Livonia.

The seminar is free and open to the public and is the third in a series put on this spring by Maplegrove and the Junior League of Birmingham.

Cosponsoring organizations include Plymouth Family Service, Women's Resource Center of Schoolcraft, Growth Works of Plymouth, Farmington Youth Assistance, Farmington Area Advisory Council, Livonia PTA Council, Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, and Livonia Youth Assistance.

Besides DeRoche other seminar participants include: Kathy, a 22-year-old recovering alcoholic; Wayne Templeton, Livonia probation officer; Paul, a middle-aged recovering alcoholic who has been "dry" for 20 years; Richard Morin, M.D., consultant to Maplegrove; and Sis Wenger, co-founder of the Maplegrove alcohol awareness community education project.

Jeanne Knopf DeRoche

Moderator will be Mike Whorf of WJR-Radio's "Kaleidoscope."

"We are devoted to making Plymouth a healthy community to live and work in," said Betty Stremich, board member of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce and owner of the Hillside Inn.

Stremich feels that the "food service industry also has a commitment to understanding alcoholism.

"Since I've been made aware of the extent of the problem of alcoholism, I've realized how important it is for a restaurant to serve acceptible substitutes for alcoholic beverages.

"Sparkling Catawba makes as good a toast as champagne, and a pina colada can taste good without liquor."

Maplegrove has a family treatment center which is ununusal in Michigan in its requirement that family members of a patient participate in some 40 hours of treatment while the patient is in the program.

Former hospital official, Arthur S. Petz, dead at 53

Dr. Arthur Petz, a former chief of staff at St. Mary Hospital and a Livonia resident, died Tuesday. He was 53.

Described as "one of the pillars of the hospital," Dr. Petz joined the St. Mary staff in 1961 and was elected chief of staff by his peers in 1974 and 1975.

"He will be dearly missed by the hospital and the community," said Rita Radzialowski, hospital administrator. "A year hasn't gone by when he hasn't helped us in some way."

A MEMBER of the American College of Physicians, Dr. Petz also was a member of the Wayne County and Michigan Medical societies and the American Medical Association. He had served on the Livonia Commisison on Aging and was a member of the Geriatric Society.

Services for Dr. Petz will be 9:15 a.m. Friday from the Harry J. Will Funeral Home, 37000 Six Mile and St. Aidan's Catholic Church. The Rev. Alex J. Brunett will officiate. A scripture service will be held at 8 p.m. tonight (Thursday). Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

The family requests contribution to Dr. Arthur J. Petz Memorial Foundation in care of Michigan National Bank, P.O. Box 2095, Livonia, 48154; attention: Kathleen Harding.

DR. PETZ is survived by his wife, Dolores; children, Mary Ann Constantine of Grosse Pointe Woods, Arthur III of Aurora, Colo., Patricia of Canton Township, Michael, Kathryn, Barbara, John, Elizabeth, Lawrence and Carolyn; one grandchild; and brother, Dr. Thomas Petz of Grosse Pointe Shores.

Funds raised for Catholic school

Dave Thompson, 35, of Westland, was the winner of a recent raffle of the Canton Community Catholic School, sponsored by the Plymouth Knights of Columbus.

Joe Brescoll, of the Knights of Columbus, pulled the winning ticket from more than 9,000 participants.

Funds from the raffle will go toward a proposed future Catholic school in Canton. Brian Hayes, treasurer of the nonprofit organization, said almost enough funds have been raised to begin a demographic study needed to satisfy Detroit Archdiocesan guidelines for the school.

Anyone interested in supporting the group may call Sandy or Bill Place at 981-6397.

Victor Carabott of Canton shared 5 percent of the raffle winnings with Thompson for collecting the donation of the winning ticket.

Thompson and Carabott, both stationary steam engineers at Ford Motor Co.'s Rouge Powerhouse, also are fishing partners.

Down River Federal opens branch downtown

Down River Federal Savings and Loan Association has opened a branch office in downtown Plymouth.

The branch is located at 650 S. Main, about one-fourth a mile south of Ann Arbor Trail.

The office will be housed in temporary quarters at the site where a new building is scheduled for completion in the near future, according to Arthur J. Hayes, president and chief executive officer of Down River Federal.

Until the new quarters are completed, Down River Federal will be in full operation at its temporary office and will offer a full range of services, including: savings, checking accounts, direct deposit of federal payments, IRAs, home mortgage loans, U.S. Savings Bonds sale and redemption, cashiers checks and money orders, travelers checks, Christmas club accounts, safe deposit boxes, payment of utility bills, notary service, automobile and car loans.

Headquartered in a nine-story building at I-75 and Eureka Road in Taylor, Down River Federal Savings is the fifth largest financial institution in metropolitan Detroit area with assets as of Dec. 31, 1981 of about $380 million.

All offices of Down River Federal are open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday.

NAMED TO POST

Joseph J. Kokoszka of Plymouth has been appointed director of Management Information Services (MIS) systems planning and business analysis by Kelly Services, Inc. at its Troy headquarters.

In this position Kokoszka will direct the study and implementation of internal MIS applications and develop long-range MIS plans for the company.

Kokoszka previously was a consultant for INPUT, a research-based consulting company located in Plymouth.

Earlier he spent several years with Financial Industry Systems (a supplier of software and data processing services to banks) as midwest account manager and manager of systems and programming. Before that he was a project manager for Bank of the Commonwealth in Detroit.

Kokoszka earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Detroit in 1964 and a master's in business administration from Wayne State University in 1969.

COMPLETES ORIENTATION

Scott R. Hitchings of Marguerite Street, Plymouth, recently completed a two-day management oreintation program conducted at the Friendly Ice Cream Corporation headquarters in Wilbraham, Mass.

Hitchings is manager of the Friendly restaurant located at Ann Arbor Road and Mill in Plymouth.

Training courses were given to management personnel as an effort to acquaint new managers with their roles.

While attending the orientation, the new managers toured Friendly facilities and learned about specific functions of support departments.

FOSTER PROMOTED

Robert D. Foster has been promoted to branch officer in charge of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit's office at Sheldon and Ann Arbor roads in Plymouth Township.

A graduate of Denison University in Ohio with a bachelor of arts degree in economics, he joined the bank's branch department in 1977 and was promoted to branch manager in 1979. Foster was assigned to the Ann Arbor-Sheldon office in 1981.

BAYLESS IS V-P

John R. (Dick) Bayless of Plymouth has been named vice president of brake operations at Kelsey-Hayes Company, a subsidiary of Fruehauf Corporation, Detroit.

In that position, Bayless has operating responsibility for seven plants in Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Born in Lubbock, Texas, Bayless attended Tulsa University and earned a bachelor's degree from Oklahoma State University. A professor at Oklahoma State for nine years, he joined Kelsey-Hayes Company in 1964 as superintendent of its Seminole, Oklahoma plant.

From 1976-80 he served as plant manager before becoming manager of the Detroit plant.

A member of the American Society for Metals, the Society of Automotive Engineers and the Kiwanis Club, Bayless, 49, is married with three children.

Kelsey-Hayes manufactures wheels, brakes and components for use in the automotive, industrial equipment, aerospace, agricultural and recreational vehicle industries.

NAMED TO BOARD

Dr. John M. Hoben has been appointed to the board of directors of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

Hoben is superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

"Dr. Hoben's expertise will be of great value to the Chamber board and to the Chamber membership," said Lynne Anderson, executive director when announcing the appointment this week.

CITY OF PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

The City Commission of the City of Plymouth will hold a public hearing at 7:00 P.M. on Wednesday, May 26, 1982, in the Commission Chambers in City Hall, 201 S. Main Street, to receive testimony and discuss a proposed additional 1982 City operating millage rate.

Because of a new state law (Act 5 of 1982), the City's base tax rate is reduced to 11.3093 mills for 1982. However, the City has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied from within its authorized millage.

In order to maintain basic City services, the City proposes to levy an additional millage rate, not to exceed six tenths of a mill (60 cents per $1,000 SEV) above the 11.3093 mill base tax rate, or a total operating rate not to exceed 11.9093 mills ($11.9093 per $1,000 SEV). This will provide an estimated 5.3% in City operating revenues. Public comment on this proposed increase is welcome at the public hearing.

3 candidates denounce tax hike

Three rivals for the governor's chair last week denounced the Michigan Legislature's increase in the state personal income tax.

The Senate Tuesday finally gave 22-15 approval of a bill to hike the income tax from to 5.6 percent from 4.6 for six months. The measure was supported by Gov. Milliken, who will retire at the end of his term, and Lt. Gov. James Brickley, who is seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination to succeed him.

Democrat David Plawecki and Republicans L. Brooks Patterson and Richard Headlee decried the tax hike.

PLAWECKI, a three-term state senator from Dearborn Heights, said, "I've been listening to the people of Michigan. They've had it with taxes, no ifs, ands or buts.

"It's unfortunate that some of the other legislators and Democratic candidates for governor have turned a deaf ear to the voices of the people of Michigan."

Budget cutbacks should be demanded of "state vendors and the $40,000- and $50,000-a-year bureaucrats, not just rank and file employees," said Plawecki.

PATTERSON, Oakland County prosecutor since 1973, called it "a sorry day when the citizens of Michigan are once again ordered by government to pay for government's mismanagement.

"We have witnessed brinksmanship budgeting at its worst. The result is a hasty, ill-conceived 22-percent income tax increase which is a quick fix at best but does nothing to address the long-term financial problems of this state."

Patterson said he proposes $684 million of budget cuts which "would have more than balanced the budget, and not one penny came from essential services."

HEADLEE, president of Alexander Hamilton Insurance Co. and of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, said the tax hike came through "arm-twisting."

"But in so doing, the professional politicians have succumbed to the big spending special interests and ignored the will of the people.

"Gov. Milliken was wrong when he suggested that 'two back-to-back recessions are the root causes' of Michigan's economic problems.

"The real root causes of our economic crisis are this administration's failure to provide responsible revenue projections; its disregard for long-range planning; a lack of economic modeling; and poor fiscal management. These are the same root causes that resulted in the so-called temporary 18-percent state income tax increase in 1975.

"More taxes are not the solution — they are the problem.

Headlee said that as governor he would work toward these budget measures:

"● Begin an operations audit of every state department and agency to remove the fat, waste and greed which still exists in state government.

"● Institute a workfare program that would require all able-bodied persons receiving welfare benefits to register for work in order to qualify for their benefit payments. Of course, those unable to work would continue to receive assistance.

SEMCA OPENS HERE

The Southeastern Michigan Consumers Alliance (SEMCA) has opened an office at 41850 Joy Road, Plymouth Township.

Originating about four years ago in Washtenaw County, the organization has spread west into Jackson and Lansing.

Early in 1981, offices were opened in Royal Oak and Redford in an effort to enter the metropolitan Detroit area. The establishment of the new Plymouth office is described by Sam Nazal of SEMCA as a committment to further develop the western Wayne County area.

With consumer memberships in excess of 110,000 and discount agreements at more than 3,000 businesses, SEMCA has established itself in the area, adds Nazal.

Walleyes hitting hard on big waters

By Lem Mesee
outdoors writer

Walleyes, the hefty cousins of the perch, are the big news in southeastern Michigan fishing.

On Lake St. Clair, walleyes are hitting "exceptionally well" from Metropolitan Beach to Eleven Mile Road. Many anglers are taking limit catches, say state DNR officers.

If you head down Detroit River way, walleyes are hitting at night off Peche Island. Limit catches are being taken off Alter Road. In the lower Detroit River, walleyes are in the warm shallows.

Legal note: Size limit for walleye from the St. Clair River through Lake Erie is 13 inches, and daily limit is five.

A favorite eating fish, walleyes lack fighting power. Bottom-foraging predators, walleyes hit both artificial and natural baits. Favorite rigs are spinners baited with night crawlers, such as the "Erie Dearie."

The Clinton River at Yates is producing steelhead.

White bass are starting to be taken in the Detroit and Huron rivers.

Perch are biting on minnows off Selfridge Air Force Base and Brandenburg Park and in the Detroit River from Flat Rock to Grosse Pointe Park.

Off the big waters, the news is less exciting. In Oakland County's Maceday Lake, nice catches of bluegills are showing up. Kent Lake in western Oakland County and Belleville Lake in western Wayne are producing small catches of crappies.

HUDSON MILLS Metropark in Washtenaw County has two more Sunday morning bird nature walks this month — at 9 a.m. May 23 and 30.

The family-oriented walks on the Acorn Nature Trail are led by naturalists. Register in advance by calling the nature center of Kensington Metropark at 685-1561.

Hudson Mills is about 20 miles west of Plymouth, straight out North Territorial Road.

A June 5 program will feature a bike hike.

Programs are free, but vehicle admission to the park is $2 per visit or $7 for a season pass, good at all Huron-Clinton Metroparks.

KENSINGTON Metropark near New Hudson has several family-oriented nature center programs in the week ahead.

"Migrating Songbirds" starts at 8 a.m. Saturday, May 22, with naturalist Bob Hotaling leading a two-hour walk through woods and fields to see the continuing migration. Bring binoculars and plan to look fast — you could see 50 species.

"Aquatic Life of Kensington" starts at 2:30 p.m. Saturday. Naturalist Julie Cerbus will conduct a two-hour program searching for life in ponds, streams and lakes. Wear boots.

"Mammals" will begin at 10 a.m. Sunday, May 23. Hotaling will discuss wild animals often raised as pets — and the sad consequences. He will tell about proper diet, handling, legal and medical problems.

"Bird Walk" starts at 9 a.m. Wednesday, May 25. Hotaling will conduct a two-hour search for resident and migrant birds. Bring binoculars.

Programs are free, but register in advance by calling the park office at 685-1561. The nature center is on the west side of the park; take the Kensington Road exit from I-96 and follow the signs.

Vehicle admission fee to the park is $2 per visit or $7 for a season pass.

The Kensington Farm Center at the north end of the park has a one-hour program entitled "Farm Babies" starting at 1 p.m. Sunday, May 23. Farm interpreter Ann Wiersma will tell how mothers care for foals, kids, lambs, piglets, bunnies and chicks. Register in advance by calling the park office.

NORTH-CENTRAL lower Michigan is the place and now is the time if you want to see the Kirtland's warbler, the tiny, colorful, endangered songbird which nests only in that neck of the woods.

Woods where they nest are protected, but you can enter them by taking a free tour.

One group of tours departs daily at 7 a.m. and 11 a.m. from the Michigan DNR field office at Grayling.

The other tours start at 7:30 Wednesday through Saturday and at 11 a.m. Saturday and Sunday from the U.S. National Forest Service ranger office at Mio.

Tours run until July 4, and sighting a Kirtland's warbler isn't guaranteed, said Leonard Schumann, federal wildlife biologist. Bring binoculars, cameras and good luck charms. No reservations are necessary.

SC Culinary Arts wing ready by end of May

The Culinary Arts addition at Schoolcraft College should be open by the end of May, college officials said.

After a short halt in production, by the order of the state fire marshall, all systems are go, and building is back in progress.

Construction was temporarily stopped a few weeks ago when the state fire marshall ruled that the makeup and exhaust main air ducts failed to meet building codes.

The Board of Trustees, in a special meeting last week, approved change orders of up to $50,000.

Even though the approval wasn't official until last week, the work on the changes began as soon as Schoolcraft was notified on April 28, a college spokesman said.

The Culinary Arts addition adjoins the Waterman Campus center at the north end of the campus at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

The $1.48 million project will enable Schoolcraft to double enrollment in the popular program for which there has been a year's long waiting list.

Teacher files as Anderson candidate

Andre G. Poux, Detroit teacher and former active Democrat, has filed in the Anderson Coalition's primary for nomination to the new office of Wayne County executive.

Poux said he has been considering the move for some time, but finalized his plan in response to a rumor that Anderson Coalition officials are threatening to terminate the party.

"That was the last straw," said Poux. "I helped organize that party. I voted for John Anderson. That party is now a part of the democratic process. It belongs to the people.

"It's no one person's personal plaything. Can Libby Maynard fold up the Democrats? Can Mel Larsen disband the GOP?"

Official arrogance is all too commonplace, said Poux. "First, the lame-duck Wayne County Road Commissioners made their brazen move to repeal what the voters adopted. Now, officials of one of the state's political parties decree that they can unilaterally take away a hard-won ballot option."

Poux has a bachelor's degree in math and a master's in social sciences from the University of Detroit. He has taught in public and private schools in the Detroit area for 24 years. He lives in the North Rosedale Park neighborhood of Detroit.

Parent upset with nurse cuts

To the editor:

As a parent of three children who attend Plymouth-Canton Public Schools, I am really disappointed to learn of the elimination of three school nurse positions. I consider adequate nursing service valuable to all school children, and this is an absolute neccessity for children with continuing health problems.

Many teachers, administrators and support personnel work very hard to plan and deliver a good educational program to our school children. But before children can obtain optimum benefit from a good program, it is first necessary to make provisions to meet a child's health needs. The support service provided by the school nurses makes it possible for many children with health problems to successfully attend school in a regular classroom setting. Further, nurses assist children in becoming as physically and emotionally fit as possible, so the learning process can take place. Reduction in nursing service will hinder learning for many children, as adequate coverage by the remaining school nurses is not possible.

Grand Knight thanks citizens

To the editor:

As Grand Knight of Fr. Victor J. Renaud Council, Plymouth, I wish to thank the city of Plymouth and township of Canton for granting us permission to conduct our annual Tootsie Roll Drive on April 2 and 3. We wish to express our gratitude to the area merchants who allowed access to their property to promote our drive.

A special thanks to my brother Knights, their families and friends, and to the students of the Plymouth-Canton National Honor Society, who braved the elements to solicit funds.

The people of the Plymouth-Canton area should feel proud of themselves as we of the K of C are of you. In spite of the waning economy, you came forward with your generous gift of money for the mentally retarded children. Because of you, many special citizens in our community will benefit greatly.

'911' team earns praise

To the editor:

I think everyone in Plymouth should know how fortunate we are to have a "team" like our "911" emergency team.

On April 27 I required emergency assistance. They were at my door six minutes after my call was made.

I had never been to a doctor or the hospital in all my 74 years and I was devastated.

They were so wonderful, assured me I'd be OK, and one of the young gentlemen stayed right beside me until I was in St. Mary Hospital and in a doctor's care.

We at Tonquish Creek Manor feel so secure with care like that. I, for one, cannot praise them enough.

Band should snub festival

To the editor:

I was amused at Dennis O'Connor's May 6 editorial castigating the Plymouth Centennial Park Marching Band and its director James Griffith for what O'Connor terms a lack of "response to community needs."

O'Connor assumes Griffith will turn down an invitation to the band to march in something called the second annual Canton Country Festival in August. I assume he will, too. Or as a band parent, I hope he will.

The reason is simple — and it's the same reason that 20 of 22 school districts, surveyed by Plymouth-Canton Superintendent John Hoben, don't have summer band programs: School's out. Kids have summer jobs. They and their parents take vacations.

In Griffith's case, he has a summer job at Interlochen, and I doubt that a middle-school band director who has just been handed a pink slip could generate much enthusiasm about taking his place at the country festival.

Marching and playing an instrument, O'Connor, is something like patting your head and rubbing your tummy at the same time. It takes practice. And I doubt that many of the 120 members of the CEP band and their parents want to take leave of summer jobs and cancel or resechedule vacations, so the band can gather for the necessary rehearsals attendant to marching in the Canton parade.

For one, I don't want to go through all that inconvenience just so my chest can swell with pride as I watch my kids march down Ford Road on a hot summer day wearing wool uniforms.

Perhaps O'Connor and the Observer can perform a more useful community service if you stop treating the marching band as some sort of court jester to be dragged out at festival time to delight the masses and take a good look at what has happened to the music program in our school system over the past few years.

You might even discover that a child doesn't touch a musical instrument now until the seventh grade. And that, unless three middle-school band directors who have been pink-slipped are rehired in the fall, beginning band may well be put off until the eighth grade.

That doesn't speak very well for the future of the musical organizations which, as O'Connor said, has been a source of immense community pride.

McClendon refutes letter

To the editor:

The letter signed by Mr. or Ms. D.D. Paul, a person I cannot identify, (contains false information).

My wife is a teacher in East Middle School. Little if anything else in the letter is correct.

Surely anyone who wishes to know can learn that my wife was a teacher in a neighboring district and a member of the MEA during the four years I spent on the board previously. The record will show that she had applied for a special education job in Plymouth some seven years before and simply had waited for a vacancy for which she was qualified while teaching elsewhere.

The charge that the superintendent somehow caused me to run for the board is on its face irresponsible. Several friends have been suggesting or urging me to run over the past year, but the decision was mine alone.

A struggle ends in success

To the editor:

It's a long way from war-torn Lebanon to Schoolcraft College. And Adele Abou-Diwan would readily admit that such a journey is arduous — both physically and emotionally — but well worth the effort.

Adele is a recent graduate triumphantly possessing a degree in data processing. It was through the instuitive foresight of her parents, Michael and Georgette Abou-Diwan, that her brothers Claude, Amin and she, were given the opportunity to seek higher education in the United States.

Their mother, Lebanese yet American born, cherished and respected her memories of America and the far reaching possibilities afforded its citizens. Breathtaking Lebanon — a delicate and rare flower of beauty in the Middle East — has always been a leader in the field of disseminating knowledge to its populus.

But, with the mortar and bloodshed come not only a gripping allegiance to survival itself — thus a wanning ability to invest time and energy in something as self-fulfilling as expanding one's mind — but also the practical problems involved with maintaining consistently open educational system.

Where there exists explosions and life-threatening turmoil, classrooms, and what they teach, are also doomed to close. So it is in Beirut. There, higher education once flourished.

Now, serious students, like Adele and Claude, must seek peaceful campuses elsewhere in the world. But the prospects for completeting their education brightened in 1977 when Claude first ventured forth with such a dream in his pocket.

It was after he was accepted at Eastern Michigan University's business management program that he felt the next appropriate step was to guide his younger sister to the states. Knowing not a word of English, she enrolled in John Glenn High School, Westland, in 1979 and after a mere six months of intense study, began to work on her data processing degree at Schoolcraft.

The fact that her native tongue is Lebanese and her second language French, may have afforded her some advantage, but the struggle to conquer a foreign language in such a miniscule amount of time is mind-boggling to the average American.

And yet there is an essence of determination in the people from this section of the world that should rightfully be admired by us all.

Struggles are a way of life to them — they rise to the battle — and know only victory. It is the least we can do to admire such a woman as Adele. She does the gender proud.

It is true that America has traditionally served as a haven for the students from around the world — but it may be that we overlook the spirit behind them.

It was truly from that pride, decency and determination that our country was built on. It will always be what our country can be uniquely proud of. How we, her citizens, have benefited from such people as the Abou-Diwans.

We salute and appreciate you.

Claude Abou-Diwan

"Mame" play had quality

To the editor:

I would like to say a few words in response to the letter from Jerry Holden of Canton regarding the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) presentation of the musical "Mame."

I find it interesting that Holden could attend the performance, register a letter of complaint, and not say one kind word about the quality of the production. I had two children involved in the presentation and, like Holden, was a bit surprised at some of the language.

I was, however, also surprised and gratified at the professional quality of the production. Having two children participating, I had first-hand knowledge of the hours, days, and weeks of preparation that went into this musical. I was impressed with the dedication of the students and supportive teachers alike, who gave so much of themselves.

In these days when we read so much negative publicity about the youth of our country, I was pleased to not only have my children participating in such a worthwhile project, but also to have them exposed to the other students who obviously take great pride in creating something rather than destroying.

The students involved in "Mame" were all truly great performers, whether on stage or behind the scenes. Gloria Logan, as the director, accomplished something wonderful with this presentation. She managed to generate a sense of commitment to all of these students and helped them deliver a wonderfully entertaining finished product.

As to the "offensive" language — the kids were delivering the lines as written by the playwright. While my personal preference might have been to omit questionable words, those words, in my opinion, did not take away from the sensitive, heartwarming story of "Mame," her "little love," and all of the people involved in their lives. If this story delivered any message, it was not "how to use bad language," but rather to be kind to people and to "live."

My greatest disappointment at the performance was that the "house" was not sold out each night. If we as parents and citizens of the Plymouth-Canton community want to encourage positive growth and development of our youth, it is extremely important that we support their effort in worthwhile productions such as "Mame."

I am sure that there are many people who were not in attendance, that pride themselves on being regular attendees at all sorts of commercial enterprises such as movies, the Fisher, Masonic Temple and the like.

How sad that they don't know what they are missing in their own community.

I salute all who were involved in this wonderful presentation.

We've all got a lot to learn from Marco Polo

"Traversing Kerman and Khurasan, they went on to Balkh and Badakshan and ascended the upper Oxus through Wakhan to the plateau of the Pamir. . . . Crossing the Pamir, the travelers decended upon Kashgar, Yarkand and Khotan. . . ."

THAT IS the Encyclopedia Britannica's description of Marco Polo's route across Persia, Afghanistan and Tibet to Cathay, a travel story told this week on NBC-TV's 10-hour mini-series, Marco Polo.

Persia is now Iran. Cathay is China. Could you still go on to Balkh and Badakshan, and ascend the upper Oxus to Wakhan, or are all those places — ancient names for cities no longer on the map?

Everything I know about Marco Polo was learned, long ago, in school: "He explored the silk route to Cathay."

Geography was a pretty dull word in those days, but it was very exciting this week as I spread books and maps across the floor, trying to follow that 13th century expedition across the deserts and mountains to China.

Most of us know only a little more about the world now than the Venetians did in those long-ago days, in spite of National Geographic and satellite communications.

LIKE YOUNG Marco Polo, I have a lot to learn about the world.

Our atlases put North America firmly in the center of the world map, so Polo's exotic destinations are shown in two parts: half on the eastern side of the map, half on the western side. (Do Chinese maps put Asia in the middle and divide North America in two?)

Many of those unfamiliar place names are still on the map, thriving cities that I have never seen or heard of. Others are places that I or my friends have seen with our own eyes, a subject much talked about this week.

Lynne Weir of Birmingham was trekking out of "Khotan," now Khutan in Kashmir, when guides pointed to a barren mountain pass and said, "That was the silk route to China."

Jewel Cooke of Farmington, just back from an African safari, is scheduled to visit Venice this summer. Many of you have been to Venice. I have not, nor did I realize until I checked under "V" in the encyclopedia, what an important role Venice played in the medieval world, because of its geography.

Iris Jones
contributing travel editor

one-of-a-kind traveler

THE ISLANDS and intricate canals of Venice made the city a maritime power while protecting it from invasion by stronger mainland forces.

In Marco Polo's day, it controlled the Mediterranean all the way to Constantinople (now Istanbul) and Galilee (now Israel), sending merchants like the Polo brothers into previously unknown places. The ships and supplies for the Crusades made Venice rich.

I have seen and photographed a few of the places on Marco Polo's hand-drawn map, to be found inside the cover of the book, "Travels of Marco Polo" — Jerusalem and some of the middle-eastern country on his outbound journey, Singapore and India on his way back.

Parts of Jerusalem must look the same now as they did then, before there were Hilton and Sheraton hotels on the high hill behind the holy city. The southwest tip of India, around what is now Trivandrum, surely has the same palm trees and inland waterways seen on Polo's return journey.

WHAT INTERESTS me most, however, is that most of us know only a little more about the world now than the Venetians did in those long-ago days, in spite of National Geographic and satellite communications.

And few of us would attempt such a journey, with all the jet planes and maps at our command.

A few adventurers among us cross unmapped deserts and struggle across mountain passes, but too many of us refuse to go anywhere where people don't speak English.

We all have a lot to learn from Marco Polo.

A look at Jerusalem today from the Mountain of Olives.

Tom Panzenhagen

"The Return of Maxwell Smart" (1980), 9 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 4. Originally 94 minutes.

Would you believe KAOS has invented a bomb that leaves its victims nude? Would you belive Agent 86 of Control is back to combat the mischievous forces of that not-so-sinister espionage agency? If only they could have used their creative genius for good instead of evil. Unfortunately, the writers who resurrected the old TV show display little creative genius of their own. Don Adams returns, but Barbara "99" Feldon wisely stayed away from this "Get Smart" rip-off, originally released as "The Nude Bomb." You can guess why the title was changed. Sylvia "Emmanuele" Kristel turns up in a rare appearance for her on commercial TV, and we're all sorry about that . . . chief. Rating: $2.30

"Midnight Cowboy" (1969), 2 Monday night on Ch. 4. Originally 113 minutes.

John Schlesinger's "Cowboy" changed the look of the movies. One of the first films to earn an X rating from the fledgling Motion Picture Ratings Code, "Midnight Cowboy" went on to win Academy Awards for best picture, director and screenplay. Curiously, stars Dustin Hoffman and Jon Voight lost out in the best-actor running to John "True Grit" Wayne in what had to be a year of polarized voting. Such subject matter as prostitution (male and female), drug abuse and grim urban realities became commonplace in movies after the success of this picture. Obviously the film will be cut for TV, but, with any luck, the compelling struggle of the two main characters will remain somewhat intact. Rating: $3.

"That Touch of Mink" (1962), noon Wednesday on Ch. 9. Originally 99 minutes.

A few words in defense of Doris Day: Here's a woman who's borne the cross of the perpetual virginity all her career, yet few realize that 20 years ago she appeared in films in which she defied the advances of such chauvinist bosses and competitors as Cary Grant and Rock Hudson. Most women would swoon at such prospects while Day stood up for their "9-to-5" rights. That's not to say her films are very good, though. Grant, Gig Young and Audrey Meadows co-star. Rating: $2.60.

'Monterey' rates a hand

Performances of the musical "Monterey" by Edward Draugelis and Andrew Henderson continue at 8 p.m. through Saturday at the Marquis Theater in Northville. For more information or ticket reservations call 453-3017.

By Bob Weibel
special writer

review

Edward Draugelis (playwright and lyricist) and Andrew Henderson (composer and director) should be applauded by their new musical "Monterey." And the audience did just that Saturday night as the two men took a bow on stage of the Marquis Theater in Northville after their talented and energetic cast received a standing ovation.

This reviewer applauded too. Not so much for the results, as in appreciation of this most important facet of theater — creating a show. It's not easy to translate ideas onto paper and then stage them so they are entertaining and comprehended by an audience.

Draugelis and Henderson have crafted a satisfying if not memorable show. Not bad for a first attempt.

The subject is love. Specifically how love changes the lives of people in the small fishing village of Monterey, Calif., in the summer of 1951. It's not the best of times. Canneries are closing and the fleet is dwindling. Developers and tourists are invading their town.

ONE OF THE last fishermen is Ted Marcos, 50-year-old captain of the trawler, Veritas. Doug Kerr played the salty captain with panache and complete command of the stage. His rich baritone voice handled every song flawlessly.

A series of "barracudas" have soured him on women. Then he meets Meg Bartok, a college student who arrives one day to do research in marine biology. Julia Broxholm plays Meg with a beautiful soprano voice and engaging personality that filled the entire theater. Her poignant rendition of "Seagulls" to close act one was a highlight of the evening.

The suddenness of their May-December romance detracted somewhat. A song and a minute or two of dialogue is a bit quick, even for a musical. This key scene would play more convincingly if the qualities they admired in each other were revealed as a result of character development.

Their romance hits the rocks when Meg's ex-lover, played convincingly by Ron Cornell Jr., comes to town. He is a professor of Chinese history, and the captain has an old hatred of the Chinese.

He puts out to sea in rough weather and barely makes it back to port. The Veritas is badly damaged, but Meg is waiting for him. Their love is rekindled, and he decides to sell the boat and become a grape farmer rather than leave the town he loves.

THE BOAT IS sold to a local Chinese fisherman, Dale Yee, played by Glen Carlos. He displayed an exceptional voice in his one song of the evening, "Honor Thy Father." Again the press of time distracted. It would have been nice to see how the captain changed his views of the Chinese.

In addition to the pivotal pair, two other romances added spice to "Monterey." Toni Marcos, the captain's daughter, played by Donna Tinberg and Bert Santini, his second mate, played by Gregory Pond, made a delightful couple as second leads. They displayed a deft touch with clever dance routines and comedy songs.

In the second act, Meg's father, William Bartok, arrives on the scene. He saves the town by buying a failing winery and falls in love with the owner of Nora's Cafe, a focal point of dockside activity. Jerry Snider played Mr. Bartok. Faith Berg played Norma Ferra, the wise cafe owner.

Their extensive stage experience was evident in their movement and clear, easily heard voices. The neat manner in which the romances worked out, however, seemed too contrived for a serious musical.

The comedy relief was provided by John Merrifield as Whitey and Timothy Alonzo as Pablo. Their fondness for drink and dockside philosophy were good counterpoint to the heavier moments of the show.

FLORA WALKER, played by Jennifer Dixon, and her "ladies of the wharf" were effective in the production numbers, even though Madam Walker's voice was strained at times.

The Marquis is a charming little theater with a rather limited proscenium. Staging a musical is something of a challenge. The scenery made effective use of the stage and established the look of a fishing village. The Veritas, docks, sheds, even the painted drop looked right. And so did Norma's Cafe, until somebody opened the door. Then it shook as if the Richter Scale hit about 7. A California locale is no excuse.

And the large cellophane window doesn't work either. These distractions break whatever suspended reality the actors have created. The stage mikes and shuffling feet were also a nuisance.

The music was well orchestrated and fully textured. In general, it carried the story forward but with a certain sameness. I'm hard put to remember one melody or phrase. Nevertheless, Plymouth Productions is to be congratulated for its effort. Love indeed makes the world go around — as was evident in its presentation of "Monterey."

After the hurricane, William Bartok (Jerry Snider) hands bottle of homemade wine to fisherman's wife (Eva Siarrowski Depa) and lawyer (Dan Morrison Jr.). Behind the table are Meg Bartok (Julia Broxholm, left, in lead role), Sanchez (Doug Hansford) and Bert Santini (Gregory Bond). "Monterey" features a live orchestra conducted by Andrew Henderson.

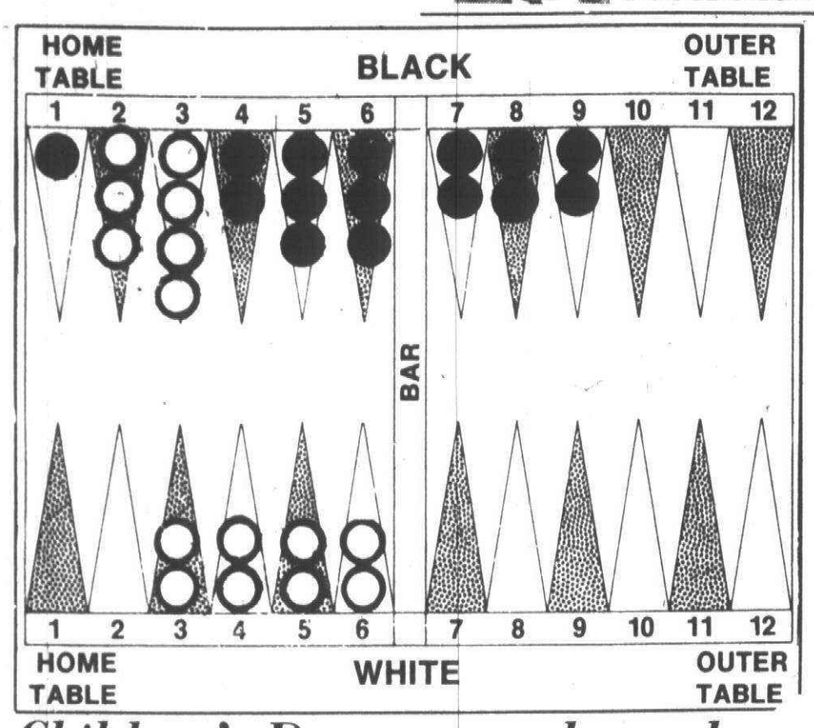
of the Cavendish North backgammon club



● THE SUCCESSFUL BACK GAME

Back games are often the most interesting as well as the most risky types of backgammon games to play. The basic game play is to establish two points in the opponent's home board and wait there until he is forced to leave a shot. Meanwhile, you try to build a blocking position in your half of the board so that when you hit the shot, the opponent will be at least partially trapped.

Timing is the most important consideratiobn for the back game player. If his timing is good, he will get his double shot just as his own board is most formidable. If his timing is bad, the player trying the back game will have made his 1 and 2 points at the expense of his 6 and 5 points, and hitting his shot may enable him to escape the gammon.

In this week's problem, white has a poorly timed 2-3 back game and has a 4-1 to play. As white is forced to break up his home board with this roll, his chances of containing the man he hopes in the next few rolls are becoming less and less realistic. Nonetheless, white must make the most of a bad situation.

His best play is to break his 6 point, playing 6 to 2 and 6 to 5. It is important that white play both of his men off his 6 point. Since he is unlikely to get his shot on the next roll (only 6-4, 6-5 and 5-5 leave shots for black on the next roll), white must see to it that his position doesn't deteriorate too rapidly in the next couple of rolls.

By clearing his 6 point completely, white will be in a position where he will have no fives to play. Should he roll a five on his next roll, white is much better off not having to play from his 6 point to his 1 point.

When you are in a back game, the last thing you want to do is to make your 1 point. If after the recommended play, white rolls another four, he will be forced to play a man to his 1 point. But a single man on the 1 point might still be brought back into constructive play if he is hit and comes back around the board.

By reducing his chances of being forced to make his 1 point in the next two rolls, white may buy enough time to spring a back man from black's inner board, as black will almost certainly have to break his prime in the next two rolls. It is quite possible that white will then be able to remake his 6 point in time to have a winning position if he hits a shot as black is bearing off.

Questions about backgammon can be sent to Mike Giordano, c/o the Observer & Eccentric, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150.

Children's Day events planned

Detroit's Cultural Center will be host to a variety of outdoor activities for kids of all ages during Children's Day, July 2. Part of the 1982 International Freedom Festival, the day's events will begin at 10 a.m. and conclude at 3 p.m.

Scheduled activities include games, art, music, folkdance, history and science events.

'Revue' returns

"The $4 Revue" is back for another summer season of vintage one-liners, vaudeville routines and musical numbers, June 4-5, 9-12 and 16-19 in the Michigan League's Michigan Room, at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Performances of the revue will follow productions of the University Players Summer Series. Tickets may be purchased at the PTP Office in the Michigan League or at the door. For more information calll 764-0450.

The revue was conceived and directed by Joan Morris, of the RCA recording team of Bolcom and Morris.

Henny Youngman likes old comics

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

Henny Youngman, a comic with some 50 years in the laugh business, will be giving his 40-minute routine Friday-Saturday at a new comedy club, Knock Knocks, in Southfield.

Shows will be at 8:30 and 11 p.m. both nights in the Ark West Entertainment Center on Northwestern Highway just west of Telegraph. Tickets at $9.50 are available at all CTC Outlets and Ark West. For reservations call 353-HA-HA.

Youngman is from the old school. Asked to name his favorite comedians, he replied, "I like Berle, Hope, Gleason." What about the new comics? "I haven't seen any of them," he declared.

Then his thoughts turned to some of the younger stars in the comedy world. He reflected on the challenges they face after becoming overnight succcesses.

"Belushi was one of them," Youngman said. "They hit success very quickly and don't know how to handle it." He recalled the tragedy of Freddie Prinz, who like John Belushi had problems with fame and drugs.

He described Robin Williams as "brilliant."

IN AN INTERVIEW by phone from Miami, Youngman said he himself had a fast rise to popularity. He was a fiddler doing jobs in night clubs, and also told a few jokes. Then he appeared on the Kate Smith radio show and was an overnight sensation.

"Luckily, writers came to me," he said. "I couldn't sleep. I was so excited." He hung in with comedy until he learned the business.

Youngman may be a longtime comic, but many of his audiences are young people. "I do a lot of colleges. The kids never heard these jokes," he said.

"I get into the topical stuff. I do about 40 minutes. I keep people happy."

One of his current ventures is a TV series called "Punchlines," for the Home Box Office cable network. Youngman is the host on the show, which will feature comics and performers acting out sketches.

He said two established comics will be paired with two new ones ad libbing answers.

"PUNCHLINES" is being done in Canada, where it's much cheaper to put the production together, Youngman said.

Another new undertaking is with the Chinese Comic Cookie Co. "I've signed to put jokes in fortune cookies. Twenty one million have been sold to 75,000 Chinese restaurants, and supermarkets, too."

Youngman, who lives in New York and Miami, said he and his wife, "my fair Sadie," are celebrating their 54th wedding anniversary. His press agent is a female cousin, who lives in Detroit. "She's very funny, too," he said. "It runs in the family."

Blue Angels to fly again

After an absence of 10 years, the U.S. Navy Flight Demonstration Squadron, the Blue Angels, will make a return appearance to the Detroit area June 12-13 at the Detroit Willow Run Air Show.

Gates open at 10 a.m. and the show starts at 1 p.m. each day at the Will Run Airport.

Dining out with the Undercover Gourmet Fritz Spademan
As I entered the Free Press Building with it's impressive portals, polished brass doorways and lobby guard, I wondered if this trip was really necessary. After all, The Stool Pigeon had already turned me on to the "Epicure Card" several months ago. Along the marble echoing hallway, first past the offices of the Economic Club, then finally lettered in gold on the door "Epicure". Inside, warm and comfortable, I was greeted by Lonna whose friendly voice all the members know, and whose phone is constantly ringing with new applicants for the Epicurean Dining Society.
John Tipp, leader of the Epicurean Dining Society, 40 but boyish, ushered me into his graphics cluttered office and gave me the pitch. . . or did he? I think I had to wring the story of Epicure out of him. . . we kept getting sidetracked talking about great restaurants, and our own dining experiences in them, and . . . well they are the restaurants that are involved in this terrific concept: The Epicurean Dining Society.
As John tells it, for a modest membership fee, you are issued their handsome burgundy and beige card which allows you the privilege of dining in Metro Detroit's better restaurants at half price. That's right, the plastic, credit type card discreetly allows a 50% discount on your total food check when dining with a companion. "Discreetly" was an important postulate for me for I disdain hauling out a thick coupon book and I am too embarrased at giving the waiter a crumpled newspaper ad.
The elegant restaurants that honor the equally elegant Epicure Card accept it just like your other credit cards. After an excellent dinner, I tried it! I handed my Epicure Card to the waiter and in a few moments without the slightest compromise my transaction was completed and another excellent evening was mine. Not incidentally, my very first Epicure meal saved me more than the cost of the Epicure Card. Look at the list of participating restaurants, many of Metro Detroit's finest and best known:
Anton's: Grosse Pointe, Holiday Magazine award winner.
Money Tree: Detroit, Superb French/Continental cuisine.
Roma Cafe: Detroit, Detroit's favorite Italian restaurant.
Little Harry's: Detroit, A tradition in fine dining.
L'Auberge de La Bastille: Windsor, Finest in French/Canadian cuisine.
Meriwether's: Warren and Southfield, Great dining in an old English atmosphere.
The Summit: Detroit, Spectacular views and sumptuous dining.
Merrick's: Southfield, Northwest suburban favorite, great salad bar.
Sindbad's: Detroit, Great steaks and seafood, on the waterfront.
Pegasus Taverna: Detroit, Greektown's newest and most exciting.
Golden Lion: Grosse Pointe, Long time east-side dining favorite.
Win Schuler's: West Bloomfield and Rochester, The most famous name in Michigan restaurants.
Francesco's: Dearborn, Northern Italian, finest on west side.
Double Eagle: Troy, Contemporary Country Club atmosphere.
The Old Place: Grosse Pointe, Potpourri of antiques, superb dining.
Dionysos: Detroit, Delicious Grecian specialties in Renaissance Center.
Royal Eagle: Detroit, Eastern European dining, in Indian Village.

Tony Roma's: West Bloomfield, A great place for Ribs.
La Fontaine: Detroit, Premier continental cuisine, Renaissance Center.
Grecian Gardens: Detroit, Original Greektown favorite.
The Bull Market: Detroit, Popular financial district eatery.
The Little Cafe: Detroit, Savory German cuisine from Sauerbraten to Strudel.
Jacoby's: Detroit, Popular Bricktown dining spot since 1964.
The Blind Fish: St. Clair Shores, New name - great seafood and steaks.
The cost of a one year membership means nothing, a pittance at today's dining prices. Incredibly, there's up to $500 in savings crammed into each Epicure Card.
Don't be confused, there are other dining club plans around that offer less. I personally checked them all out, then I joined the Epicurean Dining Society and I can honestly tell you it's the greatest, as the name implies, the best of it's kind.
You too can join The Epicurean Dining Society. You can order as many Epicure Cards as you want as often as you want. You can use them in business or use them for your personal pleasure. . . . my suggestion is; Don't wait, join the swelling ranks of the Epicurean Dining Society today.

It's time for 1 athletic program at CEP

ATHLETIC PROGRAMS bear the brunt of most school-budget reductions. It's always time to turn off the lights on the football field when the budget must be balanced — even though sports expenses represent a miniscule 0.3 of 1 percent of the $41-millon budget for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Our readers want a strong, high-quality athletic program for their children. And we face this dilemma annually — classroom programs vs. athletics. It's hard to support football and basketball games when other classroom activities face reduction or elimination.

BUT THERE IS a solution.

It's time to combine and restructure athletic programs at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) under one system and under one school.

One program would increase quality athletic participation, but also save the school district needed dollars at a time when it faces a projected $2.2-million deficit.

Recent budget cuts have all but eliminated athletic programs for middle-school students and ninth graders. The only activity offered at this level is a low-budget, intramural-extramural program within the district.

Athletic programs at the CEP site still are offered at both Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools. In fact, two soccer teams for each school were added to the program last fall, despite terrible dilution of activities at the middle schools.

It just doesn't make sense to offer two athletic programs in these financially difficult times especially when the CEP structure centers on a one-school concept.

ONE SPORTS PROGRAM obviously would save money because of less equipment needs and less coaching salaries. It also would ease the demand on CEP athletic facilities which could help develop interest to start on intramural program. One program also would put an end to a senseless split in the Plymouth-Canton community, caused by fabricated rivalries between two schools which are next-door neighbors.

Doc's corner

Dennis O'Connor

Critics of the one-school athletic program say it would decrease participation of students — fewer teams and less opportunity to compete.

But the truth is that participation levels are so low in some sports that there aren't enough athletes to have two varsity and junior varsity squads.

Not enough girls signed up for the Canton golf team this spring. There weren't enough boys to fill the varsity and junior varsity Salem wrestling team. Only eight players finished on the Salem junior varsity boys' basketball team. That's not enough to hold a practice and scrimmage.

Historically, both football teams also have had low turnouts. In 1974, for example, the state champion Salem team had only 28 players.

These small numbers clearly hurt the development and quality of athletic programs.

IT'S TIME TO REEXAMINE the high school athletic program offered by this district. It's time school officials stop kidding residents by offering diluted athletic programs. It's time for the district to stop kidding itself about the CEP and those two schools — which really are becoming one school. Currently, there is one marching band, one newspaper, one administration, one schedule of classes and one forensic team.

One athletic program, with the development of intramurals, would save dollars and give students and parents the high quality sports development, competition and participation they deserve.

Full texts of new laws still helpful

Michigan law has long required local governments to publish in the dominant local newspaper the complete text of proposed new ordinances. Historically, this has been done in conjunction with the news media's responsibility to protect the public's right to know.

A fair practice is self-serving. Newspapers do benefit by the fact that the government bodies are required to pay to have the ordinances published.

As practical matter, newspapers rarely report the complete text of proposed laws. Some proposed new laws are never reported in the news columns for reasons of space or manpower, or simply because an editorial judgment has been made that the fine print of a law isn't of much news value to most readers.

Publication of the complete text in it's dry legalese is the only real chance most citizens have to read the fine details.

NOW, HOWEVER, in an effort to ease the financial burden which faces most local government units, the Michigan Legislature is proposing to change the law and require only that abbreviated synopses be published.

Frankly, we've been ambivalent about this issue. We don't want to be the instruments of added expense to local governments by insisting that they publish the longer, complete, text.

As far as newspaper revenue goes, money earned by publication of legal ads is minimal and often outweighed by the additional production cost which result from late and unplanned arrival of legal ads.

For some smaller publications in the state, however, revenue from publications of legal notices may be just enough to keep them in business.

WE KNOW THERE are some people who appreciate, and rely on, the publication of complete text of proposed revisions or new laws. We don't know how many people care. Some people in the Legislature think most people don't care.

We urge you to write your legislator and express your opinion. As for us, we think the arguments for continued publication of complete legal texts significantly outweigh arguments to permit only abbreviated notices to be published.

Of downtown, Great Lakes and DaVinci

RANDOM thoughts on Michigan Week:

Neighboring Northville is a hot spot this year. It was the first city in Michigan to use a downtown development authority for major improvements to spruce up its old-fashioned downtown.

That should be an inspiration to the Rochesters, Birminghams, Farmingtons, Garden Citys and Plymouths that feel they have something to offer which malls lack.

Downtown Northville's utility lines are now underground. Sidewalks are widened, repaved and accented with brick. There is a Victorian theme — in lamp posts, benches, metal skirts around trees and a four-faced clock in the middle of a traffic island. And good-bye, parking meters.

Gov. Milliken will attend a dedication breakfast Friday.

The City Council financed $1.6 million in improvements by "capturing" all property taxes on increases in downtown valuation since 1978. This required the consent of the school district, Schoolcraft College, Wayne County and the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority. Their cooperation in giving up increasing taxes won the praise of Mayor Paul Vernon, chairman of the DDA.

Will a nicer downtown in Northville perk up business? It's too early to tell, says the Northville Chamber of Commerce. But the place is sure pretty.

Sad-happy footnote: "Monterey," the live, original musical by Edward Draugelis and Andrew Henderson, closed Saturday at the Marquis Theater, a week early. But the Plymouth attorney and Canton piano salesman, respectively, produced a number of excellent lines, characters and tunes. "Monterey" may be revived in fall. And the ever-hopeful librettist and composer are working on a second musical.

THE CLEMENS Library, on South University Street on the University of Michigan's main campus in Ann Arbor, has a display on the Great Lakes from the mid-1600s to the early 1800s.

Library director John Dann says a 1672 Jesuit explorers' map of Lake Superior "was not equalled in quality for well over 150 years."

Army engineer John Rivardi's 1799 city plan is the first American map of Detroit. Louis Hennepin's 1695 rendering is the first known picture of Niagara Falls. There is an 1838 view of Detroit from Windsor.

"The Great Lakes: A Visual Perspective" is free and open to the public from 9 a.m. to noon and 1-5 p.m. weekdays.

ART AND technology should be friends, just like farmers and cowboys. That unusual message comes from Bechtel Power Corp., which put up much of the funding for a Leonardo DaVinci exhibit at the U-M Museum of Art, also on the main campus.

"This exhibition blends technology, culture and creative genius," says William G. Ince, chairman of the Michigan Technology Council, show sponsors.

Featured Leonardo works are four drapery studies; an oil painting (on wood) of Christ; models of a canal-digger, paddlewheel ship and gear system with three speeds of rotation; a device for gauging the tensile strength of wire; and an ornithopter — a wing-flapping device.

Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 1-5 Sunday.

WCX radio 60 years ago

W.W. Edgar

A FLOOD of memories came rolling back the other night when The Stroller heard the voice of his long-time friend, Norm White, coming over the air. He was telling the story of radio station WJR, celebrating its 60th anniversary.

Norm went back to the old days when the station's call letters were WCX, and it was located in the old Free Press building, now the Transportation Building in downtown Detroit.

The radio rooms were on the eighth floor, a floor below the sports department where The Stroller was cutting his eye teeth in big-time sports reporting.

At the time, there was no such thing as a daily radio schedule. You went on the air almost any time the management thought the news worthwhile. Most of the time was spent late at night, when folks around the country were engrossed in trying to "pull in" distant stations. WCX was one of the popular stations.

WCX WAS famous from coast to coast for its Red Apple Club. It went on the air each Tuesday at 10 p.m. and remained on the air until the last telephone request was answered.

The Stroller particularly remembered a Saturday afternoon in April 1924. The baseball season had just opened, and Ty Tyson at WWJ was airing Detroit Tiger baseball games, for which he became famous.

Eager to gain some of Tyson's listeners, Neal Tomy, manager of WCX, climbed the stairs to the sports department and asked if anyone at the newspaper were available to give the baseball scores over the air at 6 p.m.

As the "rookie" in the room, The Stroller was available. And he continued broadcasting after the station moved to the golden tower of the Fisher Building and changed the call letters to WJR.

FROM TIME to time, he was a guest with Bud Guest on his "Sunny Side of the Street" program and as a storyteller with Jim Wood each Thursday afternoon for two years.

When he started as a storyteller, Norm White, who was then program director for the station, said, "We can't pay you in cash, but we will give you the tape." The Stroller still has a shelf filled with tapes.

It was as the bowling reporter on "The Bob Reynolds Sports Show" where The Stroller got the most attention. For 25 years — from 1955 to 1980 — he was on the air every Friday night the year 'round, telling the highlights of the week in the area's ten-pin establishments.

Those were just a few of the memories which came rolling back, and it seemed almost as though he heard the Red Apple stars, Whispering Will Collins and Prudence Penny, coming over the air into his living room.

• Norm, thanks for the memories.

Did you know that a surprising number of Michigan people never call back for the shoes they leave at shoe repair shops? One repair shop operator located in a suburban shopping center reported recently he gave 385 pairs of unclaimed shoes to the Salvation Army last year — plus throwing away another 400 single shoes. Have you any forgotten shoes in a repair shop?

Did you know that a native of Grand Rapids, Mich., has traveled as many miles in a year as practically anyone else in the world? Astronaut Jack Lousma made 868 revolutions of the globe and covered some 25 million miles in earth orbit in 1973. He is a 1959 graduate of the University of Michigan, married to an Ann Arbor woman and has relatives and friends all over the state.

A castle in Segovia, Spain, has hard surfaces which are complemented by the fleecy clouds. Monte Nagler used an orange filter to darken the sky, which would be shown almost as white on most black-and-white films.

Clouds give photos mood; here's how to catch them

Monte Nagler

We all would agree that clouds are one of Mother Nature's most exciting wonders, particularly in Michigan. How many times does a dramatic cloud pattern catch your eye and you find yourself staring skyward oblivious to other surroundings?

We've all watched fickle cloud formations constantly change in shape and texture, displaying many moods to us. We've been turned on to the sight of clouds carressing the landscape, urged on by gentle winds.

And we've also shared an ominous feeling at the sight of a fast approaching storm as black clouds threaten to develop the earth in deep shadows.

CLOUDS COME in many varieties of shape, texture, and color.

Clouds can be huge and billowy white, or soft and wispy. Clouds can be bold, dramatic and, at times, frightening. Even from an airplane, clouds have a character all their own as they appear like a bed of fluffy cotton.

Here is some advice on how you can capture clouds on film to add important impact to your photographers.

LEARN TO "see" clouds. Look for shapes and patterns which may resemble animals or other recognizable objects.

Begin to see how clouds will change color as a descending sun becomes a paint brush in the sky.

Notice how a receding black storm cloud serves as a dramatic backdrop for foreground objects being lighted by rays of an emerging sun.

Enjoy foggy, misty days too. Some of the best mood-filling pictures can be shot in this kind of weather.

Develop a good sense of composition by using a low horizon line to accentuate the clouds and give a feeling of spaciousness to your picture.

WHEN SHOOTING white, puffy clouds against a blue sky with color film, you must use a polarizer filter.

By positioning yourself at a 45-degree angle to the sun, the polarizer filter will darken the sky to a deep blue without affecting the white of the clouds. The result: a picture of rich sky to cloud contrast that will add important impact to your shot.

Want to add spice to your sunset and cloud pictures? Try using colored filters such as orange or red with color film. Simply screw the filter over the lens and let your meter automatically compensate fo the filter factor. A dramatic sunset with color tint of your filter will be yours.

FOR YOUR BLACK and white shooters, there are also filters available to help you to dramatize clouds in your pictures.

Black and white film "sees" white clouds and blue sky as almost the identical tone. Thus, clouds become lost in the finished print.

But if you use filters in yellow, oragne and red values, you achieve cloud separation. A yellow filter will give you a normal cloud/sky separation similar to that observed by the naked eye. A orange filter produces even greater cloud/sky contrast.

A red filter results in a blue sky becoming almost black, producing very striking results. A polarizer filter can also be used to darken the sky in black and white photographs.

HOW TO SAVE YOUR LIFE AND THE ONE NEXT TO YOU

OVERCOMING YOUR PSYCHOLOGICAL RESISTANCE TO SEAT BELTS MAY BE THE KEY.

The facts are startling. Experts estimate that almost half of all automobile occupant fatalities and many serious injuries might have been avoided if the people had been wearing seat belts. That's because most injuries occur when the car stops abruptly and the occupants are thrown against the car's interior or out of the car. Belts reduce this risk.

Many people say they know the facts, but they still don't wear belts. Their reasons range all over the lot: seat belts are troublesome to put on, they are uncomfortable, or they wrinkle your clothes. Some people even think getting hurt or killed in a car accident is a question of fate; and, therefore, seat belts don't matter.

If you're one of those people who don't use belts for one reason or another, please think carefully about your motivations. Are your objections to seat belts based on the facts or on rationalizations?

Here are a few of the common rationalizations. Many people say they are afraid of being trapped in a car by a seat belt. In fact, in the vast majority of cases, seat belts protect passengers from severe injuries, allowing them to escape more quickly. Another popular rationalization: you'll be saved by being thrown clear of the car. Here again, accident data have proved that to be untrue you are almost always safer inside the car.

Some people use seat belts for highway driving, but rationalize it's not worth the trouble to buckle up for short trips. The numbers tell a different story: 80% of all automobile accidents causing serious injury or death involve cars traveling under 40 miles per hour. And three quarters of all collisions happen less than 25 miles from the driver's home.

When you're the driver, you have the psychological authority to convince all of the passengers that they should wear seat belts. It has been shown that in a car, the driver is considered to be an authority figure. A simple reminder from you may help save someone's life.

Another common myth: holding a small child in your arms will provide the child with sufficient protection during a crash. The safety experts disagree. They point out that even during a 30 mph collision, a 10-pound child can exert a 300-pound force against the parent's grip. So please make sure Child Restraint Systems are used for children who aren't old enough to use regular seat belts.

If you're an employer, encourage your employees to wear seat belts. At GM, we've made it a matter of policy that everyone riding in company-owned vehicles is expected to wear lap and shoulder belts.

We heartily support the program initiated by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to encourage the use of seat belts. So please fasten your own belt, and urge your family and friends to follow your example. Even the best driver in the world can't predict what another driver will do.

THE BIG NEWS down on Blunk Street is the return of Sheila Ann. She and her mate have set up housekeeping for the second season in a hanging planter on Mike and Jane Beauchamp's front porch.

Kenny, the Beauchamps' 4-year-old son, named the mourning dove. Neither Kenny nor his parents know where he got the name. He doesn't even know anyone named Sheila. Mr. Mourning Dove does not have a (given) name.

When a lone mourning dove was spotted last Friday putting a few twigs in the planter, the word went around the neighborhood that Sheila Ann was back. On closer examination, there was some doubt. The bird did not look exactly like Sheila.

It turned out that the Beauchamps, the Healys and the other neighbors were right. The first bird was Sheila Ann's mate. She did not put in an appearance until the twigs were arranged to her liking.

Over the weekend, she laid two eggs — just like last year. On Monday, this liberated female had taken off and her mate was sitting patiently on the eggs.

But mourning doves are like that — their commitment is strictly a 50-50 arrangement.

THE HAS-BEENS have postponed their Friday-night dinner date with Ed Page. According to Barb Carpenter, a later date will be arranged.

HAZEL JARVIS and Marjorie Ackerman will remember radio station WJR-AM's 60th birthday. The local ladies were winners of diamond pendants during the station's diamond jubilee celebration.

Each had sent a card to WJR listing their own birth date for on-air drawings. Those named had 76 minutes to call the station and give their year of birth to confirm the prize.

The giveaway drew more than 18,000 entries with 60 winners representing 45 cities in Michigan and Ohio. The station went on the air as WCX on May 4, 1922.

PLACE TO BE this weekend is the corner of Canton Center Road and Proctor. The Canton Historical Society will be selling bedding plants — both flowers and vegetables. The Canton Rotary Club will be having its giant rummage sale.

Hours will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Both organizations have designated proceeds of the sales to the Canton Historical Museum.

Bart Berg said there will be bargains at both sales. He also extends an invitation to all comers to step into the old schoolhouse and see the progress that has been made in converting it to the Canton Historical Museum.

"It's been completely rewired, insulated, plastered and wainscoated. The painter's coming in June. We've replaced the fixtures with old-fashioned gas-type lamps. And we have electrical outlets all over the place," said Bart.

He explained that when the school — Canton District 4 — was built in 1884, kerosene lamps were used for lighting. Electricity was installed later, and the school was in use until 1962.

Canton Rotary pledged $1,000 a year to the the renovation of the building, and the rummage sale has been its major fund-raiser. This year, the Historical Society and the Rotarians are combining the two benefits into one large event. A popcorn wagon will add to the festive mood.

Refurbishing the old school building has been a long and sometimes disheartening process. But the end is in sight.

"We're going to open in the fall!" promises Bart.

THREE LOCAL students who attend Kalamazoo College are participating in the school's off-campus career internship program. As an integral part of the year-round Kalamazoo Plan, more than 80 percent of the students take part in some off-campus career development experience before graduating.

Jack Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carpenter of Hines Court, is working with Draugelis, Ashton & Scully law firm.

Keith Greenleaf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Greenleaf of Pinetree Street, is working at Gryphone Place in Kalamazoo.

Jean Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norval Hansen of Blunk Street, is working in the Library of Congress Processing Department in Washington, D.C.

Honorary memberships in the arts council were presented to Margaret Moon (left), Joanne Hulce, Bess Decker, Jeanet Allison, Gae McCord and Wilma Newton. Garnet Stickney and Veda Blickenstaff were not present to receive their honorary memberships.

JWH award winner Paul Szary (left), Judy Slade who chaired the award committee, and Heidi Reichenbach, who also won a $500 Joanne Winkleman Hulce award, arranged a display of the young artists' works at the luncheon.

Arts council honors its special people

Two young artists and outstanding members of the Plymouth Community Arts Council shared the spotlight at the PCAC annual luncheon. Arts council members and guests gathered in St. John's Episcopal Church for the catered luncheon, annual business meeting, and introduction of the 1982 JWH Award recipients.

This award was established by the council in the name of Joanne Winkleman Hulce, longtime member and founder of the PCAC. Candidates encompass the whole fine arts spectrum — art, music, drama and dance. The award carries a $500 unrestricted gift to encourage and help individuals in pursuance of a career in the arts.

Winners this year are Heidi Reichenbach and Paul Szary, both artists and both seniors at Plymouth Canton High School. Each received a $500 scholarship.

REICHENBACH paints in watercolors, oils and other media. Her mentor is artist Carolyn Dunphy.

She has about 150 pieces in her collection — this after selling 40 works. She has participated in a number of shows and has been accepted for the Wyandotte Arts and Crafts Show and for the PCAC artist and craftsman show during the Plymouth Fall Festival. She painted a 125-foot mural at the high school and received a $300 award from the Centennial Educational Park art teachers.

She plans to major in art at Eastern Michigan University and hopes to become a teacher.

SZARY works in all media — oils, graphics — and has made jewelry as well as pieces of sculpture.

Among the awards he has received for his artwork is a second place in the National Maritime Poster Contest. At school, he designed the junior prom tickets, Battle of the Bands posters and tickets, and graduation programs for three years.

He designed and made 80 posters for a recent benefit at Frame Works, where he is employed.

Szary will attend the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit next fall and will pursue a degree in graphic communication.

Previous winners of the JWK Award were: 1977, Todd Barker; 1978, Cheri Lynn Neal and Barbara Ohno; 1979, Glenn Carlos; 1980, John Shannon and Mark Thrasher; 1981, Mark Gladden and Paul Swantek.

HONORARY memberships to the PCAC and gifts were presented to selected arts council members.

Retiring council president Mary Rose Hausman made the presentations to:

- Joanne Hulce, PCAC founder, activist, enthusiast, and guiding light.
- Wilma Newton, finance wizard, grant writer and fund-raiser.
- Margaret Moon, ex-director, leader in visual arts program in elementary schools (picture and sculpture ladies), and expert in setting up office procedures.
- Gae McCord, longtime member, founder of the PCAC performing arts program which brought live theater to the community.
- Jeanet Allison and her mother, Veda Blickenstaff (who was not present), responsible for procuring and assuring the council of permanent offices above Wiltse's Community Pharmacy.
- Garnet Stickney, for her secretarial work.
- Bess Decker, for establishing the art rental gallery.

Laura Rowe, 12, student fine arts awards winner, played the violin for luncheon guests before the business meeting.

Dee Schulte (left), who chaired the fine arts awards for the PCAC, congratulated some of the winners, Susie Kemnitz, 11; Erika Soderholm, 12, Tom Johnson, 12, and Laura Rowe, 12.

Student fine arts award winners named by PCAC

The Plymouth Community Arts Council has announced the winners of its 1982 student fine arts awards. The awards are given annually to students in the sixth through ninth grades who have shown unusual promise in the arts.

Dee Schulte chaired the awards committee. Judges were John Gaffield of Gaffield Studios, Marge Thrasher, Lois Gilmor, Jan Gattoni, Sandy Daly and Susan Schrader. Lillian Payne served as hostess when the music candidates auditioned in First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

The top winners in drawing were invited to the Frame Works as part of their prize. Al Larson, owner, presented a workshop in professional matting and framing.

Monetary awards of $25, $20 and $10 were given to encourage the students in their chosen art fields.

WINNERS, their schools and their art form are:

Darrin Brege, East Middle, art; Randy Blaylock, Pioneer, art; Douglas Campbell, Pioneer, art; Michael Fody, Hulsing, art; Toby Heaton, Tanger, art; Tom Johnson, Allen, photography; Susie Kemnitz, Isbister, creative writing; Mark Klein, Pioneer, art; Ruth Knoerl, West Middle, art.

Also Maureen Lee, Isbister, art; John McDonald, Bird, art; Mike Messana, Pioneer, art; Elisabeth Morris, West, art; April Mosakowski, Bird, art; Minh Tran Quach, Gallimore, creative writing; Beth Rafail, West, art; Laura Rowe, Plymouth Christian Academy, violin; Tony Sayers, Bird, art; Erika Soderholm, Isbister, piano; Kimberly Stebbins, West, piano; and Suzie Townley, Roeper, piano.

HONORABLE mention went to Elizabeth Tkacy, Jennifer Cordon, Paula Finnegan, Linda Cummings, Rick Brummit, Jennifer Hill, Craig Scott and Jeanmarie Pavol.

Wendy Sobczyk, Mike Severson, Shannon Baur, Annette Vollrath, Susannah Dy, Jamie Olson, Susan Stone, Debra Derda and Meredith Eastman also received honorable mention.

Amnesty month

It's amnesty month at Plymouth's Dunning Hough Library, so there's no need to recruit an innocent and winning child to return that long overdue book. One-year-old Audrey McDonald was not really returning a book. Observer photographer Gary Caskey just couldn't resist taking her picture during a recent visit to the library.

Local contestants in chili cook-off

The Great Chili Cook-Off of 1982 is over for another year. CeCe Carter had the honor of being one of the contestants. Her husband, Leo, thinks she makes the best chili for miles around, and he encouraged her all the way.

CeCe had to alter her recipe because she found out the rules state all items must be purchased at your favorite grocery store, and they would allow no substitutes. All of her canning of tomatoes — beefsteak and rotel — as well as her private stock of peppers had to be left at home. Every night for two weeks prior to the cook-off CeCe prepared a new concoction of ingredients. Leo and their daughter Alyse were all chilied out when the big day came.

There is a rooting section for every contestant. These groups have a chance to take over the stage at the fairgrounds in Saline and root for the cook of their choice. CeCe and Leo went to the expense of having shirts made up for the team to wear. Their song was to the University of Michigan fight melody. Helen and Mike Wesner, Gail and Tim Mangan, Tom and Jo Jones, Leo and Maryann Carter, Julie and Fred Carter, Pam and Justin Dalpaiz, Barb Floid, Bob and Barb Gaddes did their best to turn the crown in the direction of CeCe's booth. For an added touch, the Carters rented a helium tank and handed out balloons with their logo printed on it.

This event draws at least 10,000 people from around the state, with the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan receiving all of the proceeds. There were 53 contestants, and the crowd was permitted to taste the chili of their choice for a 25-cent donation. There were obviously some pots which had so much Tabasco sauce in it the chili was not palatable so many of the gallery. There were 10 judges who had the awesome job of coming up with the 10 best recipes, and those chosen in the preliminary judging were tasted again by all 10 judges. Sorry to say, CeCe did not win, but John Strzalka, also of Canton, received honorable mention after the judging was over. Nancy Macioce, a Canton resident, was also one of the contestants at the cook-off.

The thousands of spectators enjoyed many other events, for instance, the 10-kilometer run, Larry Lee Adkins' pony rides and the performances of Shotgun Willie. During the boot-throwing contest, Mike and Mark Wesner thrilled the crowd with their accuracy of throwing a boot through a tire and never missing.

The thrill of the day for many was watching the egg-drop contest, where an egg was released from a 50-foot crane and daring and brave people tried to catch it without the egg breaking. It was so funny seeing the look on the contestants' faces when they missed the egg and it landed on their heads, their faces, their backs, or at their feet. It was a terrific day for anyone who came with the idea of having a good time.

Good luck to CeCe, John and Nancy next year, because I know they will be back to try again.

THE FOLKS in Windemere Subdivision always have the best parties, and this time it was for Pete Vea's 40th birthday.

Jim Walling, Bob Gourieux and Terry Maddens managed to coax Pete into a round of golf even though it had rained all day. Tracey, Kerry, and Wendy helped their mom, Janet, prepare all of the goodies for the party.

Jill Madden and Sherry Gourieux along with Joannie Walling decorated the cake in the form of a tombstone with the inscription of "Here lies the youth of Pete Vea." These ladies also assisted in decorating the house with balloons and streamers.

Just a little damp from the knees down, Pete arrived home and was totally surprised when he walked through the front door.

Ron and Gerry Schubnell, Judy and Ken Plonka, Shirley and Jerry Fortman, Stan and Margaret Jasinski, Barb and Tom Sullivan, Margaret and Jim Andrews, Chris and Bob Mayer were a few of the first to arrive for the surprise. Mary and Ken Beardsley, Bob and Judy Stone, Mike and MaryJane Travis, Sharlene and Tom Borke, Connie and Mike Marcotte, Marilyn and Gary Orthner, Jo and Bill Mudloff, Liz and Endre' Masa were also on the scene for the entire party.

Lynn Boynton, David and Lynee Duncan came in from Ohio to celebrate with Pete and Janet. The fun and frolic went on till the wee hours just like every other party in Windemere. What a way to start off a new decade. Happy birthday, Pete!

PETE AND TESS Chick soon will be walking up the aisle again after 40 years of wedded bliss. They will renew their wedding vows at 10:30 a.m. Mass in St. Thomas a' Becket church this Sunday.

Joe Pytel and Virginia Scanlan were best man and maid of honor at the original ceremony and will be back for the second commemoration.

Kathy and Lenny Fry, Ron and Sue Chick are the children of Pete and Tess.Grandchildren Virginia and Donald Fry and Julie Chick also will be on hand for the occasion. Tess is quite a lady. She went back to school a few years ago at the ripe young age of 60 for her high-school diploma. She made all of the course requirements in two short years. The continuing education office at the high schools now uses Tess as a positive example for all of us to admire.

May you both share many more years of wedded bliss — Pet and Tess, congratulations.

Pageant invites would-be models

Young women interested in modeling careers are invited to participate in the 1982 Miss Michigan United Beauty Pageant June 23 at Center Stage in Canton.

The pageant, won last year by Kimberly Mexicotte of Livonia, is directed by Cynthia Guenther, who has a new registered trademark and is preparing to go nationwide with her search for new faces to be models.

Mexicotte will be on hand at Center Stage to hand over the crown to her successor.

Would-be contestants should call Guenther at 271-8783.

"We're looking for girls who are interested in modeling and show business careers," said Guenther. "No special talent is required."

The promoter added that entering the pageant and making a good impression on its 17 judges works as a door-opener in many cases.

For example, she said, the first 25 contestants who register this year will become hostesses for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation benefit ball June 5. The 25 finalists each year get auditions for the Ford Motor Co. traveling auto show, and this year the finalists also will be auditioned for the role of Miss Kitty Key in a new television commercial and promotion sponsored by Key Olds-Datsun of Warren.

In winning the title last year, Mexicotte received a year's lease on a car from Renaissance Ford, a $2,500 fur coat from Dittrich Furs, a scholarship from John Robert Powers modeling school, a diamond necklace, a weekend vacation in northern Michigan and a gown from Kay's Bridal Shop.

Those enter the competition must be between the ages of 17 and 28 as of Dec. 31 of this year. They must be never-married and living in Michigan or attending school in the state.

Rita McClumpha, Geer teacher, smiles through the school's last fun night.

The balloon lift is a traditional part of Geer fun night.

Geer fun night

A last gallant gesture

Amid the laughter of children and the friendly conversation of long-acquainted neighbors, the Geer School community had its annual fun night. Along with the moon walk, pony rides, and the traditional Afghan winner were gloomy undertones of the ending of an era.

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education plans to close the more-than-a-century-old one-room schoolhouse. It is the only one remaining in Wayne County and among a few in the state.

Donna Keogh, who has two children at Geer, helped to lead the futile battle to save the school. Martin and Leola Hogan spearheaded the drive to keep the school open. She teaches at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, and he teaches at Wayne State University. They said they presented factual evidence to the school trustees proving that the continued operation of the school would not be an added expense to the district.

The people say their overtures fell on deaf ears. Geer will close June 16.

Ironically, it was just two years ago, in September 1980, that the school received statewide recognition as school officials gathered to celebrate Geer's 100th birthday.

No such pomp and circumstance was present last week as Geer families gathered for the final fun night at the red brick schoolhouse on Ann Arbor Road.

Photos and story by Rick Smith

Twins Meghan (left) and Brienne Hesse would have been the third generation to attend Geer. Their father and grandfather graduated from the one-room rural school.

Terri Lingenfelter was winner of the granny square afghan made by the students. Teacher Rita McClumpha taught the children to crochet; they made one each year as a prize.

Rev. Andrew Forish marks 40 years in the priesthood

By Margaret Miller
staff writer

A decision made 52 years ago brings the Rev. Andrew Forish to a celebration this Sunday marking his 40th year in the Roman Catholic priesthood.

The pastor of St. Michael Catholic Church, the "original" Livonia parish that marked its own 50th birthday a year ago, will be honored with a concelebrated mass at noon and then a reception 1:30-6 p.m. in the church at Plymouth and Hubbard.

On hand for the mass will be the Rev. Leonard Partensky, former associate pastor at St. Michael who is now at Our Lady of Refuge, Orchard Lake, and other clergymen who have worked with Forish during his 15 years in the Livonia parish and in other earlier assignments.

Although ordination took place 40 years ago in Blessed Sacrament Cathedral of Detroit with Cardinal Edward Mooney officiating, this clergyman made his decision for the priesthood 12 years earlier.

"I was an altar boy — I grew up that way," he said. "I was only 12 when I entered seminary," he said. "In those days, that's the way they did things."

His decision took him through four years of high school and four years of college at Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit and then four more years at Mt. St. Mary Seminary in Ohio.

'I was an altar boy — I grew up that way. I was only 12 when I entered seminary. In those days that's the way they did things.'

— The Rev. Andrew Joseph Forish

ANDREW JOSEPH Forish is a native of Coral, Pa., where his father was a coal miner.

When he was only 2 his family was expelled from its small home because of labor trouble in the mining industry, and he and his parents and brothers and sister had to live in a tent for 10 months.

Two years later they moved to Cambridge, Ohio, and in 1926 came to Detroit where he attended St. Cyril grade school before deciding to become a priest and enter the seminary.

After ordination in 1942, Forish was assigned as assistant pastor at St. Cyril and in 1947 was transfered to St. Andrew and Benedict. An assistant pastor there at first, he became senior pastor in 1951.

Another stint in his home parish followed, from 1961 to 1967, and he was then appointed to St. Michael.

THE PARISH he now heads includes 1,700 families and is one of the oldest in this area.

"This is the mother parish," he noted. "St. Bernardine, St. Damien, St. Priscilla, St. Maurice, St. Aidan, St. Colette, St. Genevieve — all of them split off from this one."

It also is one of few that still operates a grade school.

"I'm the one who is most determined on that," said Forish. "I would do anything to keep the school functioning. And the peple have been very cooperative and very generous."

There were 1,200 students in the first through eighth grades when he arrived at St. Michael, but now enrollment is 820.

No lack of interest is involved, the priest explained. "It's a matter of space," he added. "To meet state requirements, we had to build a library and more offices and that cut enrollment."

St. Michael children are taught by Felician nuns, as was their pastor before them at St. Cyril. But now there are more lay teachers. "We have a very fine staff," Forish said.

His assistants now are the Rev. Lawrence Edwards and the Rev. Caesar Berulio.

FORISH CAN look back with satisfaction to the decision made more than half a century ago.

"I'm completely satisfied," he said. "The priesthood has been very good to me. There are sacrifices, but it has its compensations."

One of them, for this priest, is the opportunity to travel — to Mexico, the Canadian Rockies, Switzerland, Germany, Italy, Hawaii and Florida.

Another is the opportunity to indulge his love of the outdoors. He is part-owner of two cabins at Lincoln, north of Harrisville, and likes to use his talents as mason, carpenter, roofer, painter, tile layer and gardener in keeping them up.

"And be sure to say that one of my favorite pastimes is picking wild blackberries in the woods," he added.

Looking back 40 years and forward five to retirement, Forish often glances at the little plaque that sits on his desk in the St. Michael rectory.

"Working for God pays very little," it reads, "but the retirement benefits are out of this world."

church bulletin

● ST. THEODORE CATHOLIC

The Battle Creek Boychoir, under the direction of its founder, Charles Olegar, will sing solemn choral Evensong at 5 p.m. Sunday in St. Theodore Catholic Church, 8200 Wayne Road, Westland. The choir will be followed by a concert of works by Brahms and Schubert plus Benjamin Britten's Missa Brevis in D Major. Organist and pianist will be Calvin Shenk, organist and choirmaster at St. Philip Church in Battle Creek.

The Boychoir is a nonsectarian, nonprofit organization founded by Olegar in 1978. Boys in third grade and older are trained in the art of English choral singing.

Also on the program will be two other choral ensembles. One is the Coventry Consort, comprised by 24 trebles occasionally augmented by men singing lower parts. The other, the Exeter Chorale, is a part-singing ensemble featuring boys with changed or changing voices.

The Boychoir has sung in the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., and in St. Patrick Cathedral in New York.

● ROSEDALE GARDENS UNITED PRESBYTERIAN

Singers who have been members of Rosedale Gardens choirs for more than five years will receive special awards during Choir Recognition Sunday in the church at Hubbard and W. Chicago, Livonia. All choirs will participate in the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services that day.

● PLYMOUTH FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN

A debate on the nuclear arms race will be held at 11 a.m. Sunday in the First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, 901 Church. Speaking in favor of a nuclear freeze will be Dr. Arthur Vander of Ann Arbor, a member of Physicians for Social Responsibility. Opposing the freeze will be William Odom of Plymouth, who will argue against weakening the military posture of the United States through a nuclear weapons freeze.

● WARRENWOODS WESLEYAN

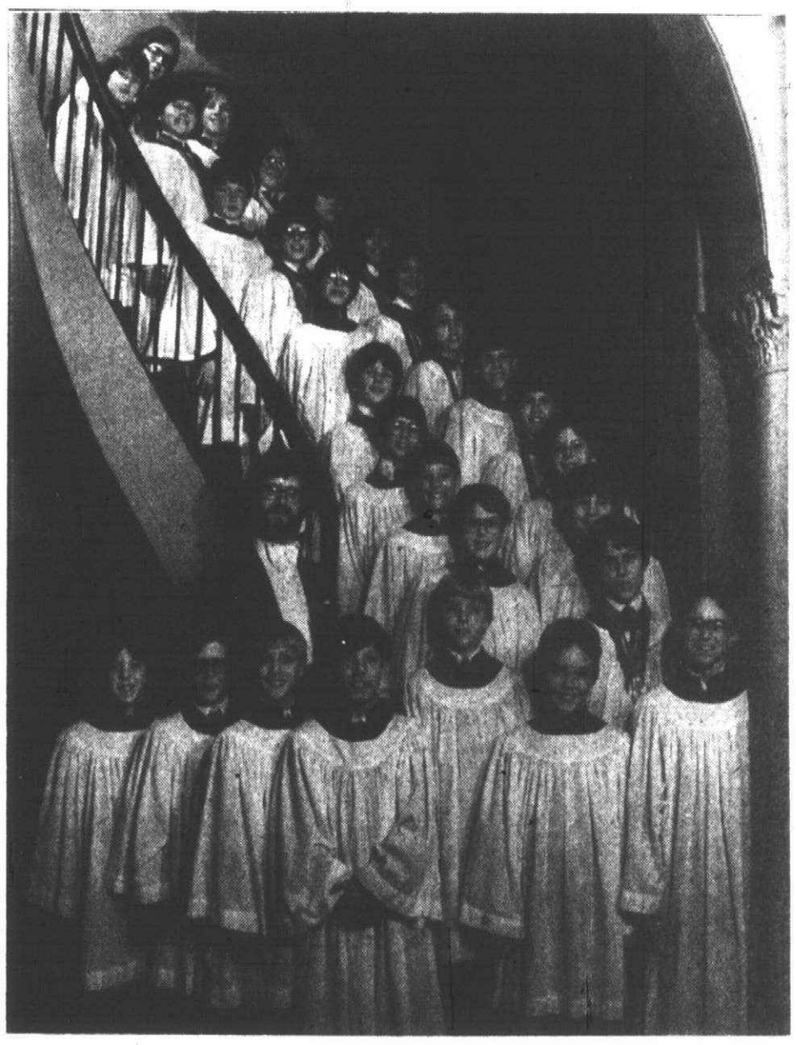
A fantasy adventure titled "The Musical Machine" will be presented by puppeteers Bill and Virginia Holmes at 6 p.m. Sunday in Warrenwoods Wesleyan Church, 6615 Venoy, Westland. It is the first full-length production by the Livonia residents, who call their enterprise Puppets — For Heaven's Sake.

Music for the show will be performed by the Children's Choir of the church. It is co-directed by Annetta Bersche and Dee Harley.

The Holmes will be assisted by their grandsons Robin and Randy Dart and their daughter Barbara Dart. Also helping will be Glen Anderson and Vicki Salo. Dennis Dart and Steve Salo will be the stage crew.



Members of the Battle Creek Boychoir will be singing Sunday at St. Theodore Church in Westland. With them is director Charles Olegar.

● NEWBURG UNITED METHODIST

A church can carnival to benefit Cass Community United Methodist Church in Detroit will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday at Newburg United Methodist Church, 36500 Ann Arbor Trail, Livonia. Ten carnival tickets will be given for each can contributed.

● ST. MAURICE CATHOLIC

A rummage sale will be held Friday and Saturday at St. Maurice Catholic Church, 32765 Lyndon, Livonia. Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday.

● PEOPLE'S CHURCH

The women of People's Church, which meets at Plymouth-Canton High School, will hold a garage sale from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the home of the Rev. Harvey Heneveld, pastor, at 153 Corinne, at Cherry Hill, Canton.

Featured in the sale will be a 15-pound plow-type anchor with a 4-foot chain, and a sewing machine mounted on an antique cabinet. Several appliances will be on sale.

Proceeds will be used to furnish the kitchen for the church to be built on Ford west of Canton Center Road.

● ST. PAUL PRESBYTERIAN

A car wash sponsored by the Senior High Fellowship is planned 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday in the parking lot of St. Paul Presbyterian Church, Five Mile west of Inkster, Livonia. Cost is $3 per car. Money raised will be used for a mission trip to a church camp in Vermont this summer.

● UNITY OF LIVONIA

Vrle Minto will discuss ways to achieve a new level of consciousness to enhance life at a seminar 7-11 p.m. starting Monday, May 24, at Unity of Livonia, 28660 Five Mile, Livonia. The five-day class will continue through Friday, May 28. The seminar will involve physical and mental relaxation, concentration and developing natural talents. For more details, contact the church at 421-1760.

● MORMON LIVONIA WARD CHAPEL

Members of the Relief Society of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints will discuss nutrition, holiday decorations and tailoring women's blouses and jackets at a homemaking meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, May 25, in the Livonia Ward Chapel, Merriman at Six Mile.

Schoolcraft hosts best prep kickers

By Ken McDonald
special writer

A lot of questions concerning the state's No. 1 girls' soccer team will be answered by the end of the weekend.

Whatever team is truly the best can take a giant step to solidify that position with a good performance tomorrow and Saturday in the Schoolcraft College Girls High School Soccer Invitational.

Twenty teams will compete in a round-robin schedule during the two-day tournament. The first round of games starts Friday with quarterfinals, semifinals and finals played Saturday.

This is the second straight year Schoolcraft has hosted the tourney. Fifteen teams vied for last years' title, with Stevenson edging Northville, 1-0 on a shootout tiebreaker in the championship match.

STEVENSON AND Northville are again among this season's title favorites. But other coaches look at Livonia Churchill as the team to beat.

The reason for picking Churchill is a local coaches' poll, which rated the Chargers as the best team in the state. Northville is ranked second, Bloomfield Hills Lahser third, Troy Athens fourth, Stevenson fifth and Livonia Bentley sixth. Plymouth Salem is rated 10th.

All but Lahser will compete at Schoolcraft.

Despite the tag as No. 1 in the state, Churchill coach Ed Dudek figures Stevenson and Northville have the depth needed to survive such a tournament, a quality he thinks his Chargers lack.

"Stevenson and Northville have the advantage because of their benches," Dudek said. "In the hot weather, the team with depth will take it."

BUT STEVENSON coach Norene Divens used a much simpler theory in figuring a favorite.

"When you're playing short games, you always need luck," said Divens, referring to the shorter 25 minute halves compared to the normal 40-minute halves of regular-season contests.

"No injuries are one of the big things," Divens continued. "If it's been hot like it has been, bench strength will be a key factor."

Also aiming for the tournament title is Brighton, Southfield, Livonia Ladywood, Plymouth Canton, Saginaw MacArthur, Redford Bishop Borgess, Farmington Harrison, Livonia Franklin, North Farmington, Southfield-Lathrup, Troy, Saginaw Eisenhower, Dearborn Fordson and Farmington.

Among the dark-horse favorites are Troy, Troy Athens and Saginaw MacArthur.

Qualifying games in eight divisions are at 4 p.m., 5:15 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Friday. Quarterfinal play begins at 10 a.m. Saturday, with semifinals starting at 12:30 p.m. and the finals scheduled for 4:30 p.m.

Rocks rout Bentley to gain share of crown baseball

By Jay Keenan
special writer

The so-called "showdown" for baseball supremacy in the Suburban Eight League turned out to be one of the biggest mismatches of the year.

Plymouth Salem intensified its lead in the conference Tuesday with a convincing 11-0 shellacking over second-place Livonia Bentley.

The victory assures the Rocks, now 9-1, of at least a share of the league crown in its final year in the circuit. Salem, which will join the newly formed Western Lakes Activities Association next year along with Bentley, can win the title outright with a league triumph Thursday at home against Allen Park.

"The kids came ready to play," said Salem coach Brian Gilles, whose team is now 16-3 overall. "We finally got the key hits today, and we played good 'heads-up' baseball."

Gilles has reason to feel little more secure about the development of his team. The Rocks, who have had problems getting hits with runners in scoring position during the past several games, rode a merry-go-round in the second and third innings.

Salem scored five runs in each frame to win going away.

"WE'RE GETTING back to what we were doing at the start of the season," said the Salem coach. "We were hitting the ball all over the place."

Dave Slavin tallied three RBI on two singles and a double. Teammate John Blanchard also had two singles and a double. Todd Riedel and Joe Humphries (the winning pitcher) chipped in with two hits each.

Bulldog pitcher Greg Everson, who surrendered five runs in 1⅓ innings of work, was the only Bentley player with two hits.

Curt Boyea, who took over for Everson in the second inning, was bombed for six runs.

The Salem pitching staff, meanwhile, confused the Bulldog batters.

Humphries, an intimidating fireballer, hurled the first four innings before giving way to Ken Vermeulen (two innings) and Bill Culver (one).

The Salem trio combined to allow only five hits and one walk.

The Rocks, who won a tight 3-2 pitchers' duel with Bentley in their first encounter earlier in the year, won easily on the second go-around.

BENTLEY COACH Marty Klozik said that his team simply didn't come to play.

"I think we were just too high for it," said a deflated Klozik, whose team fell to 8-8 overall and 7-3 in league play. "We were probably too keyed up for it, I guess. We just didn't hit.

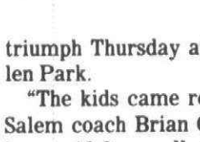
"Greg (Everson) wasn't very sharp today. Almost every pitch they hit was a fastball up high. And they were waiting for it. And when it came, they hit it."

The Rocks grabbed a 1-0 lead in the first when Riedel led off with a single and scored on a base hit by Humphries.

Salem increased that advantage to 6-0 in the second, one of the key blows coming on a deep, two-run sacrifice fly by Larry Lanphear, which scored Blanchard from third and Mike Cindrich all the way from second base. Slavin added a two-run single during the uprising.

Riedel aided the Rocks' five-run third inning when he slapped a single to score two runners. He advanced to third on the hit thanks to a Bentley outfield miscue.

Sports camps vary for consumers



Brad Emons

It seems these days that everyone is plugging a summer sports camp.

The most popular have been basketball, but now you can also enjoy football, baseball, soccer and swimming as a summer activity.

You can attend camps in the mountains, on a college campus or at your local high school. A great deal of the mail I receive each spring comes from various camps.

And the choices are numerous.

For $325, you can enroll a youngster in the Isiah Thomas "Basketball Camp of Champions" to be held July 25-30 at Madonna College in Livonia. The brochure features such notables as Magic Johnson, super agent Dr. Charles Tucker, Mark Aguirre of the Dallas Mavericks and Kent Benson of the Pistons.

The list is impressive, but the price seems a little steep, although room and board is included.

A cheaper way to rub elbows with the pros is the Dick Vitale-Bob Lanier All-Star Basketball Camp, June 28-July 2 at West Bloomfield High School. The cost is $99 for one week. Campers go just for the day (9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.). But unless mom can give you a ride, you'll find yourself in a bind.

AREA COLLEGES alsoare getting into the act.

Eastern Michigan basketball coach Jim Boyce has two sessions of regular camps. On June 20-25, Boyce initiates "The Top 150 Players in Michigan Basketball Camp" along with St. Cecilia director Sam Washington. I haven't been able to locate, however, the top-150 list.

Schoolcraft College has four sessions of day camps for girls' basketball players. Ed Kavanaugh, recently named Schoolcraft girls' head coach, is the director. He's also the coach at Ladywood High School and invites all youngsters in grades 4-9 to attend at special session on offensive fundementals. Schoolcraft also offers volleyball and soccer clinics.

Oakland University gives you girls' basketball, boys' basketball, swimming, soccer and golf camps.

Some of the area's private high schools have camps for youngsters.

John Maronto, head coach at DeLaSalle High School, and Tom Mach, head coach at Catholic Central, are jointly conducting their first annual Eastside/Westside Instruction Football Camps for youngsters in grades 5-8.

They have blessings from Joe Paterno and Bo Schembechler on their brochure.

St. Mary's College and Prep School has "Football Unlimited" for youngsters ages 9-16. You'll put in a full day there — wake up at 7:30 a.m. and finish with weights at 9:30 p.m.

The list goes on and on.

THE INTENT of these camps are numerous. Some guys throughly enjoy working with kids, others like to make contact with youngsters at an early age so they can make an impression later on, others like to make money and write it off for tax purposes, and others use them to scout potential prospects.

My experiences with camps has provided a lot of light-hearted moments and fun.

I thoroughly enjoyed those free clinics put on by Stroh's Ice Cream and the Pistons at nearby shopping centers. I'd always make the rounds around town for a chance to play against the likes of Otto Moore, Butch Komives, Willie Norwood, Erwin Mueller and Bob Lanier. The master of ceremonies, of course, was Bill Van Breda Kolff.

What a thrill is was to put a move Bob Lanier. He used to stop the drive by picking up his opponents and delivering them back to the top of the key. I'll never forget when Mueller, nickname "Mules," lost a shooting contest to one of my neighbors.

My only camp experience came on the campus of Eastern Michigan.

I stayed at the Pittman towers and learned basketball from Jim Dutcher, a kind and considerate man who is now coaching at Minnesota. He made everyone feel at home. I had a great time and even thought the dormitory food was gourmet. It was exciting to play against guys from St. Clair Shores and Deckerville.

Harvey Marlatt, who played a brief spell for the Pistons, was my counselor. Donnis Butcher, a bear of a man who formerly played and coached for the Detroit Pistons, was the camp's sargent-at-arms. He was famous for his vicious pounds on our doors at 7 a.m. barking: "Rise and Shine." He was particularly good at one-on-one. His best tactic was grabbing the trunks when he got a little tired.

I REMEMBER when Jim Harding came in as a guest lecturer. He was coaching the University of Detroit at the time and was known as a "stickler" for discipline in the style of Gen. George Patton. I'll never forget him scolding a youngster for stretching out on his back on the floor while he talked about defense.

"Get up before I throw you out of here," said Harding to the startled youngster.

He gave us a memorable lesson in the defensive stance. We practiced it for almost two hours.

Last summer I visited the "High Exposure Basketball Camp" at Spring Arbor College and found its format to be unique. Most of the time is spent playing games. You're put on a team, and you work with one coach.

The camp had a regular season, playoffs and championship all in one

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL FLASHBACK

Wed., May 8, 1963

Plymouth blanked Trenton 3-0. It required the pitching of Dick Schryer and Jim Edwards to post the shutout conquest for Plymouth. Scheyer had to leave after the second inning because of a sore arm. He had allowed only one hit. Then Edwards came in to work 5 scoreless frames during which he was only touched for one hit.

Alpena pitcher quiets Canton

By Jay Keenan
special writer

Dan Smith doesn't throw many bad pitches, but the Plymouth Canton hurler made a mistake in last Saturday's opening round of the Midland Baseball Tournament that he'll remember a long time.

With the bases loaded and two out in the top of the first inning, Smith presented Alpena's Delton Alexander with a hanging slider.

Alexander took advantage of the enticing offering by smacking a three-run double to left field, a shot that powered the Alps to a 3-2 win over Canton in a game matching state-ranked teams.

THE CONTEST FEATURED two battles deserving equal billing: Alpena vs. Canton and Smith vs. Blaise Isley. Alpena is ranked fourth by the state's prep baseball coaches and Canton sixth while Smith is among the state's top righthanders and Isley one of the best lefthanders.

The highly-regarded pitchers lived up to their ratings — after the first inning.

Smith retired the first two batters before getting into trouble, and it was his pitching opponent, Isley, who caused Canton's problems. Isley rifled a low line drive that got away from left fielder Jeff Cousino, who tried to make a diving catch and missed. Isley cruised into third with a triple.

Two walks later, Alexander tatooed Smith's hanging slider to provide Alpena with all the runs it would need.

CANTON COACH Fred Crissey thought Isley's hit should have been caught, blaming the Chief's loss on their own mistakes.

"No, it wasn't good pitching that hurt us so much," the Canton coach lamented. "We just hurt ourselves. The simple difference was the first inning.

"We made about five mistakes, three of which were mental, and you can't do that."

Canton struck back for two runs in the bottom of the first. Don Dombey walked and went to third on Marty McCarthy's single. Isley tried to pick off McCarthy but threw wild, allowing Dombey to score and sending McCarthy to third. Bill Hanis brought home McCarthy with a sacrifice fly.

BUT THAT was it for the Chiefs, two-time defending champs in the eight-team Midland tourney. Canton managed just three hits and, as Crissey pointed out, failed to get baserunners into scoring position.

"Our problem was, we didn't get runners on base in which we could do things. We couldn't bunt, hit-and-run, move anybody or steal simply because we didn't have any runners on base."

Smith suffered only his second loss in two seasons, allowing six hits and two walks, striking out nine. Isley walked two and fanned six to get the win.

Dombey, a junior, continues to disprove the old theory that shortstops shouldn't hit with power.

He blasted his seventh homer of the year to lead the Chiefs to a 7-4 Western Six League win Monday over Northville.

Salem girls grab 3rd at RU meet

Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy sprinted Saturday to the first Redford Union Girls' Track Relay title with 60 points, eight better than runner-up Westland John Glenn.

A young Plymouth Salem squad was third with 50 points followed by Livonia Stevenson (47), RU (43) and Livonia Ladywood (40). Ten other teams competed in the event, which is under a format similar to the Observerland Boys' Relays.

Mercy piled up a majority of its points in the sprints. The Marlins won the sprint medley and 880-yard relay. They also finished second in the 440 and third in both the mile and four-mile events.

Doria Jackson was the catalyst as she won the open 100-yard dash in 11.74 and anchored two winning relay efforts.

Glenn's effort was commendable in the absence of All-American hurdler Kelly Graham, who sat out the meet with an injury.

The Rockets' managed, however, to win the mile relay as Lynda Carlson, Donna Cook, Teri Hobbins and Cheryl Cook recorded a time of 4:10.9.

Glenn's Sandy Martinez was the open 110 hurdle champ with a clocking of 15.91.

SALEM, a team dominated by underclassmen, beat the Marlins in the 440 relay with a clocking of 51.8. That team consisted of Dawn Johnson, Ann Glomski, Kelly Bemiss and Mary Dazer.

Johnson, Bemiss and Glomski also won the long jump relay while teammates Cheri Muneio, Sue Remer and Karen Tanski were best in the discus relay.

Muneio's toss of 113 feet, 9 inches led all competitors.

Harrison, which finished eighth overall in the team standings, received noteworthy performances from shotput champ Alice Short (42-4½) and mile winner Lori Runk (5:34.86).

Although Mercy had a better contingent in the sprints, Livonia Ladywood proved to be superior in the distance races. The Blazers, led by Jennifer Rioux and Kelly Champagne, won first place in the distance medley, two-mile and four-mile relays.

North Farmington won the high jump and shuttle hurdle relays.

HOST RU, coached by Jim Gibbons, took first in the shot put relay (Bev Weidenhammer, Chris Vedder and Wanda Gordon) and was second in the discus.

"We really had a tough meet with Livonia Franklin (two days before), and we ran as well as we expected," said Gibbons. "I thought, overall, everybody ran as expected."

Gilles 6th in net tourney

Plymouth's Wendy Gilles finished sixth overall in the Girls 14's last weekend in Seventeen Magazine's Tennis Tournament of Champions in Mission Viejo, Cal.

Gilles, an eighth grader at Our Lady of Good Counsel, was seeded 5-8 (alphabetically) in her division.

She opened with victories over Kelly Kolankiewicz (Pa.), 6-0, 6-0; Rose Barakat (Tex.), 6-0, 6-2; and Jennifer Jones (Ohio), 6-0, 6-1.

Gilles lost her quarterfinal match in the 64-player draw to No. 3 seed Niurka Sodupe (Fla.), 6-4, 6-2, falling to the consolation draw.

The Plymouth netter then turned back Trisha Laux (Neb.), 6-1, 6-3. Gilles, representing Michigan in the tournament, settled for sixth after losing to No. 2 seed Grace Kim (N.J.), 6-1, 6-4.

New Jersey's Melissa Brown won the championship.

Wendy and sister Chris are competing this week in the Girls 14's and 16's, respectively, at the 13th annual Columbus (Ohio) Invitational.

Bronx Bombers?

Bentley softball team crushes Rocks, 13-6

Kim Archer took batting practice Tuesday at the expense of Plymouth Salem.

The junior shortstop had a big day, as she powered unbeaten and No. 3 ranked Livonia Bentley to a convincing 13-6 triumph over the Rocks.

It was the Bulldogs 14th straight win and 10th in the Suburban Eight League. The victory gives Bentley the crown outright.

Archer slammed a two-run homer off Salem pitcher Diane Murphy in the second inning to give the Bulldogs a 4-0 lead. She also added a double and two singles while her teammates accounted for 11 more hits.

Bentley scored a run in the third and tallied five more in the fourth to build a 9-0 advantage before Salem could answer.

Laurie Day socked a two-run homer in the sixth for Bentley and went three-for-five on the afternoon. Teammate Lori Swanson added two doubles and two RBIs.

Chris Schultz was the winning pitcher for Bentley. In six innings she allowed three runs on four hits and walked seven.

Murphy hurled all seven innings for the Rocks, who slipped to 13-7 overall and 4-5 in league play.

Dawn Henning was the lone bright spot for the Salem offense. She had two of the team's five hits.

ROMULUS TOURNAMENT

The Rocks finished third last weekend in the Romulus tourney.

Unbeaten Garden City East won the championship by beating Wayne Memorial, 14-2.

Salem opened play in the double-elimination event with a 24-2 victory over Ypsilanti Lincoln. Mary Kay Mundinger had three hits. Jenny Papa, Cheryl Viele and Leslie Etienne each had two.

Errors and poor base running knocked Salem into the loser's bracket as Wayne squeaked out a 5-4 victory.

The Rocks closed the gap to one in the sixth and had the potential tying run on third in the seventh. But a lack of aggressive base running on a fly ball proved to be disasterous for Salem.

Mary Pryslak had two of Salem's five hits. Murphy was the losing pitcher.

Salem bounced back from the Wayne defeat to beat Romulus, 9-0, as Murphy tossed a four-hitter over six innings. Pyslak, the Rocks' catcher, had two hits and three RBIs. Etienne added two hits and drove in two runs.

East ousted the Rocks from title contention in the semifinals with an 11-2 win.

Linda Webb led the winners with three hits. Sherri Look and Tammy Narramore had two each.

Pitcher Kim Lackey held Salem to three hits with two coming off the bat of Pryslak. Murphy, the victim of four unearned runs and four errors, suffered the loss.

Bartkowiak named to East football elite

Several prep standouts from Wayne and Oakland counties have been invited to play on the East squad in the second annual Michigan High School Football Coaches Association All Star Football Game Saturday, Aug. 7, at Michigan State University.

Heading the East team offense are: Dave Yarema, 6-foot-3, 187-pound quarterback, Birmingham Brother Rice; Carl Pellegata, 6-3, 195-pound running back, Orchard Lake St. Mary's; and Tom Redilla, 6-3, 205-pound tight end, Redford Union.

The defense is led by Darrel Bartkowiak, 6-1, 215-pound linebacker, Plymouth Salem; Derek Woodmore, 6-1, 190-pound end, Auburn Heights Avondale; Jim Cherocci, 6-2, 210-pound lineman, Birmingham Brother Rice; John Bielis, 6-1, 190-pound cornerback, Livonia Churchill; and Walt Hulse, 6-1, 180-pound safety, Birmingham Groves.

THE EAST squad also features Thomas Wilcher, a speedy running back from Detroit Central who will play this fall for Michigan.

Todd Lezon of Temperance-Bedford, who signed with Notre Dame, will share the quarterback duties with Yarema.

Other East standouts include Gilvanni Johnson, Detroit Northern; Jamal Al, Dearborn Fordson; Mark Wyffels, Fraser; and Rick Wyka, Dearborn Edsel Ford.

Camps offer various options

week. I'll never forget Bill Norton (ex-Brother Rice coach now at MSU) and Detroit Southwestern's Perry Watson going at it like they were back at Calihan Hall playing for the City Championship.

The game went down to the wire with Norton calling timeouts and accusing Watson of not playing his entire team. Camp rules stipulate that everyone must play. Watson pleaded innocent. He said one of his players was sick and couldn't continue.

I DON'T REMEMBER who won the game, but the camp food proved to be the culprit.

There are good and bad camps. Some are competitive, fun, miserable and average. The choices are numerous and my advice for parents is caveat emptor (let the buyer beware).

Who knows, maybe somebody will start a camp for young sportswriters and hold it in some vacant office building downtown. You could bring in Mike Downey (humor), Jay Keenan (game stories), Jay Mariotti (TV and radio) and C.J. Risak (personal columns) as guest lecturers.

What a lineup! Where can I sign up?

Chief softballers win 7th straight

Rhonda Stoner collected three hits and sophomore catcher Marie Krashovetz added two, helping Plymouth Canton to 13-7 softball victory over Northville Monday in Western Six League game.

It was Canton's seventh straight win. The Chiefs are 8-4 overall and 4-2 in league play.

Stoner and Krashovetz accounted for half of Canton's hit total.

Missy Aiken, who went the distance, was the winning pitcher. She allowed five hits, including a solo homer to Sherri Robbins, and walked 13. She fanned five.

Canton travels Saturday to meet Alpena in a double-header. The Chiefs also travel Friday to face Livonia Stevenson. Both are non-league tests.

CANTON 11
WL CENTRAL 1

It was not contest as the Chiefs rolled Friday to this non-league win.

Lou Ann Hamblin's single and subsequent by the Central center fielder with the bases loaded led to four of Canton's 10 runs in the first inning.

The Chiefs sent 13 batters to the plate during assault.

The game was halted after five innings because of the 10-run mercy rule.

Dual victories bolster hopes for Brighton regional track

The Plymouth Salem boys' track team tuned up for regional with an 84-48 Suburban Eight League victory Tuesday at Trenton.

It was the Rocks' seventh straight dual meet win without a loss. Salem will compete Friday in the Class A regional at Brighton. Preliminaries and field events start at 3 p.m. followed by the finals at 6:30 p.m.

Coach Gary Balconi was pleased with the performance of Arvinder Sooch, who recorded victories in the 120-yard hurdles (16.3) and 330 lows (42.0).

The Salem coach also was happy with the showing of pole vaulter Mike Perkowski, who set a personal best at 13-feet-6-inches.

"It was a good performance by our kids," said Balconi. "We ran it on a cinder track. Trenton has some some sprinters and distance runners.

"It was a good meet for us."

Other Salem individual winners included Jeff Arnold, long jump, 18-3; Scott Fuller, high jump, 6-2; Darrel Bartkowiak, shot put, 44-3½; Pat Tortora, discus, 144-4; Scott Bublin, 100 dash, 10.3; Mike McBride, 440 run, 54.0; and Scott Smith, 220 dash, 24.0.

The Rocks won two relay races. Bublin, Marc Tindall, Smith and McBride ran 1:37.9 to win the 880 event. Bublin, Tindall, Davis and Smith teamed up to garner first in the 400 relay (46.5).

SECOND PLACE finishers for the Rocks included Dan Lingg, long jump, 17-11½, and pole vault, 12-0; Marvin Zurek, 120 hurdles, 16.5; Olof Danielson, 330 lows, 43.8; and Geoff Baker, mile, 4:51.1.

Recording third places for the Rocks were Zurek, high jump, 5-10 (personal best); Tortora, shot put, 42-7¾; Kevin Urban, discus, 113-10; Smith, 100 dash, 10.5; Brian Azelborn, 440 dash, 56.0; Davis, 220 dash, 24.5; Leland Chang, 880 run, 2:14.9; and Brad Haertel, two mile run, 11:52.5.

SALEM GIRLS 88
LIVONIA BENTLEY 35

The Rock girls also romped, posting their sixth straight dual victory Tuesday at home.

Sophomore Dawn Johnson broke the school record in the long jump with a leap of 17-1¾. Teammates Kelly Bemiss (15-6½) and Ann Glomski (15-6) made it a clean sweep for the Rocks.

Johnson was also victorious in the 100 dash (12.3) and 220 dash (27.1) and was a part of Salem's first place finish in the 440 relay (53.0), which included Glomski, Mary Dazer and Bemiss.

Cindy McSurely matched Johnson's hat trick with firsts in the high jump (4-10), 110 hurdles (16.9) and 220 lows (33.6).

Shelly Simons was double winner — mile (5:53.8) and 880 run (2:38.2).

Linda Lybarger, Dazer, Bemiss and Carol Lindsay rolled to first place in the 880 relay (1:54.4) and the Rocks' quartet of Simons, Lori Grissom, Dazer and Lybarger gained first in the mile relay (4:32.4).

Cheri Muneio won the discus with a toss of 110-2. She also took second in the shot put (29-7).

OTHER ROCKS gaining second place spots were Karen Tanski, discus, 88-3; Dazer, 100 dash, 12.7; Bemiss, 880 run, 2:43.2; Glomski, 220 dash, 27.7; and Peru Bhavser, two mile, 14:45.5.

Recording third places for Salem were: Lisa Trahey, mile, 6:27.0; Lybarger, 440 run, 1:06.5; and Pam Hodge, two mile, 14:47.5.

Summer loops find new twists

Summer bowling is taking on a new look this year.

There are a couple of alternatives to the customary continuation of winter leagues — trio bowling and family foursomes.

The trio competition was started last year with three-man teams, each bowling four games. This makes for spirited competition. And this year, Wonderland Lanes stiffened the competition by making it a scratch league.

The family bowling concept was started last year at Woodland Lanes with only a few teams participating. The league, however, has grown to the point now where all the lanes are booked.

Family teams consist of two parents and two children. According to Woodland owner Al Winkel, the fun and interest is growing more each week.

THE ANNUAL Officers Tournament, which has been a closing feature at Westland Bowl each year, reached a new high in scoring last week.

When the firing ceased, Lorie Conrad, who was given a 117-pin spot, was high with a 751 series. Second place went to Nancy Miller with a 724. She had a 207-pin spot. Shirley Potts was third with a 703.

TOM PRITCHARD entered the Saturday Night Special at Merri-Bowl and then proceeded to do something special.

He put together games of 226, 231 and 245 for 702. It was the first barrier-breaking count since the winter league season closed.

THE MERRY MIXERS took over the lead in the Tri-City Association Tournament at Garden Lanes over the weekend. They posted a 3,094 count (handicap included) to take a 23-pin advantage over the Rabaut Plumbing team.

In the doubles, Doris Jordan and Susan Perry showed the way with 1,303. Only 16 pins separate the top three teams with Bev Bezzelle and Sharon Bierik holding second place with 1,288. One pin back came Teresa Diver and Chris Madolzski. In singles, Kerry Beard shared the lead with Dorothy DeRosier at 678. Beard seized first place in the all-events with 1,965.

THE FINAL returns are in from the first of the area's charity events. The annual program for the Capuchin Fathers Soup Kitchen raised $600 in a single afternoon.

Learn secrets for consistent play tennis

Joe Taylor

For many people, tennis is a frustrating game. Why? Because they expect too much of themselves. When they don't perform up to their expectations, they get frustrated.

Part of the problem is that players try to hit winners instead of keeping the ball in play. For every point they win, they hit two shots into the fence.

So hit the safe shots. This means not trying to hit the lines, but giving yourself a margin of error. Use at least a three-foot margin of error, both over the net and inside the lines.

TENNIS IS A game filled with mistakes. Instead of trying to smash the ball past your oponent, try to be consistent. You'll win more points with consistency than by attempting to drive the ball by your foe.

Here are some of the most common errors in tennis and how to eliminate them:

Getting too close to the ball — People have an inborn tendancy to get right on top of the ball and try to hit it with the ball jammed into their body. As a result, they usually hit the ball on the handle or miss it completely.

To eliminate this error, make sure you get your body set before hitting each shot. Try to set your body about 3½ feet from the ball. Any closer than this will force errors.

Not bending the knees — It sounds simple, but it's easy to forget. Bending the knees lowers your center of gravity, increasing your control. Pretend you're sitting in a chair when you're hitting each ball.

Hitting the ball off the back foot — This problem can result from hitting the ball late or lacking confidence. Always try to prepare for your shot early. This means taking an early backswing and meeting the ball off the front part of your body. Tell yourself to step forward as you hit the ball.

Standing flat-footed — Many balls are missed not because the player lacks quickness, but because he doesn't get a good jump on the ball. I know it's more tiring, but stay on your toes when waiting for your opponent's shot. Always keep your feet moving. This will help you get to the ball quicker.

Taking your eye off the ball — I find most players who take their eye off the ball are watching the spot where they want to hit it. This can be easily eliminated by the player concentrating on the ball. Try to watch the ball all the way to the strings of your racket.

Not keeping the racket vertical — Try to keep the racket head perpendicular to the ground. Anything else means trouble. Some players have a tendency to roll the racket over the ball on the follow through. The result is usually a ball hit into the net. Check your racket on your finish to make certain it is still perpendicular to the ground.

Facing the net when hitting the ball — With your body facing the net, it is impossible to get full use of your shoulders and hips to hit the ball. Always keep your body sideways to the net to insure shoulder and hip follow through.

Beating yourself — Many players stew over one missed point and end up missing the next two. Forget about the missed shot and go on to the next point with a positive attitude. Getting upset over a mistake not only takes you out of your game, but gives your opponent confidence. If you have to display your emotions over a missed shot, do it with a smile.

Hitting with a high-to-low swing — This puts underspin on the ball, forcing the ball to rise and carry beyond the baseline. In most circumstances, the ball should be hit with a low-to-high motion, putting top spin on the ball. That will bring the ball down into the court, allowing harder hits with more control. To insure a low-to-high motion, take your swing at least a foot below the contact point.

Using too much wrist — It's very difficult to control the ball on groundstrokes using just your wrist. When making contact with the ball, use your arm, shoulder and hips for power.

● JUNIOR GRID SIGN-UP

Registration for the upcoming junior football league season in Plymouth-Canton will be held from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, May 22 and June 5, at the Canton High School cafeteria.

The program is open to youngsters ages 9-15.

The registration fees are $40 per per player and $25 per cheerleader.

The Plymouth-Canton Junior Football Association (PCJBA) requires all registrants to bring birth certificates.

Youngsters are placed on teams based on age and weight. The divisions are freshman, junior varsity, varsity and newly created senior varsity (13-15 years).

For more information, call Tammy Brand (459-6347) or Vic Gustafson (455-4189).

● BEACH SPIKERS WANTED

The Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department has openings for a coed Beach Volleyball League to be held each Sunday beginning June 5.

The cost is $25 per team.

Registrations can be delivered in person or sent by mail to: Canton Parks and Recreation Department, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton 48188.

For more information, call between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. at 397-1000.

● LAYING DOWN THE LAW

Law Auto Sales of the Livonia Recreation Division I Softball League took first place in the Canton Township Round Robin Marathon held May 8-9 at Griffin Park.

K-F Electronics of Oak Park finished second, and Pour Devil Lounge of Westland gained third.

Mike Macek paced the Law Auto team with a .611 batting average. Jim Mandeville batted .548 with five homers and 20 RBI. Gary Evans of Law Auto was the tourney MVP as he hit three homers and drove in 18 runs. Bill Barker made several outstanding defensive plays.

Law Auto lost its first game of the tournament to Tank Service of Plymouth, but rebounded to post seven consecutive wins to take the title.

The tournament was sanctioned by the American Softball Association.

Thurston homers clip East baseball squad

Redford Thurston used its home-run power to clinch at least a share of the Northwest Suburban League (NSL) title with a 14-4 rout of Garden City East Tuesday at East.

East scored three runs in the first and another in the fourth for a 4-3 lead before the Thurston bats began booming. Rick Ochmanski started it, driving in the winning run with a two-run shot in the fifth that made it 5-4, Thurston.

The Eagles continued their offensive assault with three runs in the fifth before Steve Sersen and Chuck Dziadzio put the game away with homers in the sixth. Sersen's was a three-run blast and Dziadzio's a two-run job.

Ochmanski finished with three hits and Sersen had two, each driving in four runs. Dziadzio, Ed Dumas and Jeff Valdez had two hits apiece.

Dumas was the winning pitcher, stretching his record to 6-1 for the season. Joe Taraskavage went four innings and was the loser for East.

It was the second straight title for Thurston and coach Emil Majeski, after sharing the title with Westland John Glenn a year ago. A victory Friday at Redford Union will assure the Eagles of sole possession of the NSL crown.

Thurston is 13-7 overall and 7-2 in the NSL. Glenn is second with a 6-3 mark.

GC WEST 17
RIVERSIDE 0

Garden City West's bats were hot Tuesday, collecting 20 hits in a romp over Dearborn Heights Riverside in a game stopped after five innings by the mercy rule.

Joe Podziakowski surrendered just one hit to pick up the win. Joe Winnicki slammed four hits, driving in three runs, Marty Hendges belted a three-run homer and two singles, knocking in four runs, and Minch rapped three hits in three trips, good for two more West runs.

Bob Milligan and Podziakowski each chipped in with two hits, Milligan collecting three RBI and Podziakowski two.

West, 9-2 in the Tri-River League, remains one game behind Inkster Cherry Hill (8-1). The Tigers are 10-6 overall.

MELVINDALE 1
GC WEST 0

Doug Brown handcuffed Garden City West with a one-hitter in a Melvindale triumph Monday at Melvindale.

Curt Minch took the loss for West against Melvindale despite allowing just one run on five hits and two walks. He struck out nine.

Brown fanned seven and walked one in whipping the Tigers, his game marred only by three Melvindale errors and Jim Fisher's third-inning single.

Michigan pitcher tough

By Jim Hughes
staff writer

There will be plenty of local flavor at the AIAW national championships this weekend, as the University of Michigan women's softball team begins play today in Norman, Okla.

The most notable of the area participants is Laura Reed, a West Bloomfield graduate who pitches for the Wolverines.

Reed, one of two starting pitchers, will join forces with Plymouth Salem grad Jan Boyd to help serve as a potent one-two punch in the tournament.

Michigan, which opens the 12-team Association of Interscholastic Athletics for Women tournament at 5 p.m. today against the winner of a previous game between Oklahoma State and Rhode Island, has three other area participants on the team: sophomore shortstop Missy Thomas from Southfield-Lathrup, freshman third baseman Mary Bitkowski and junior second baseman Karen Crawfis, both from Groves.

Should the Wolverines stay in the winners' bracket thoughout the double-elimination tournament, they would play three games and wind up in the championship game at 5 p.m. Sunday.

THE WOLVERINES, ranked fourth in the nation behind Texas A&M, Utah State and USC, qualified for the nationals by winning their regional May 9 in Ann Arbor. Reed said she is certain the No. 4 ranking is justified.

"I think we'll go pretty far in the tournament," she said. "If I had to guess, I'd say we'll probably finish fourth. There are a lot of tough teams in there. Yet we beat the Western Michigans and the Central Michigans, and they're really good softball teams."

Michigan topped Central Michigan 4-0 to win the regional title. The Chippewas, because they came through the losers' bracket, had to beat the Wolverines twice to win the regional.

CMU won the first game 1-0 in 12 innings, but another victory over Michigan was too much to ask. Reed was the losing pitcher in the 1-0 loss, but the only run scored in the 12-inning game was unearned. Reed allowed five hits while Michigan collected seven.

"Even though I was the losing pitcher, that was a highlight for me," the 1978 most outstanding female athlete at West Bloomfield said. "That, and of course, beating Ohio State (2-1). Beating Ohio State is always a highlight."

BOYD, WHO had a 16-0 record for West Bloomfield during her senior year in high school, is a four-year regular for the Wolverines. She has been a pitcher the past two seasons and currently is 8-4 with a 0.50 earned run average.

Although she said she is not a powerful pitcher, she added her bread-and-butter pitch is the rise ball.

"I'm not the type who would call myself a speed pitcher," she said. "I'm not like Bonnie Kenney (from Western Michigan). She's just overpowering and probably one of the best in the nation. I throw a rise ball, that's my best pitch.

"In high school, I never threw junk, I just tried to throw it past everyone," Reed continued. "Now there's a lot more strategy involved. I throw a curve to the outside, a drop pitch, a change-up and a fastball, but my best pitch is the rise."

Reed, last year's most valuable player and this year's co-captain, graduated from U-M May 1 with a bachelor's degree in microbiology. She said she hopes to become accepted into medical school, but if not, will return to the University of Michigan for graduate work.

But for now, her body and mind is in Oklahoma with one concern:

"If we play as well as we did in the regional, we could win it," she said. "And I think everybody on the team is pretty much ready for it."

Foiling around

Fencing fun for WSU frosh

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

All-American is a label that signifies a certain status. Big, muscular, Bruce Jenner look-alikes, with a certain air of distinction about them (it's called conceit), is envisioned.

Stefan Kogler isn't big, he doesn't have bulging muscles and there's no resemblance to Bruce Jenner. He doesn't even act much like an All-American.

But it's an honor he's earned as only a freshman at Wayne State University.

HIS SPORT? It's one that lots of movie stars practiced but few mastered — fencing.

Kogler, 18 years old and a 1981 graduate of Garden City West, isn't a matinee swordfighter. His is a sport combining equal parts of physical and mental preparation.

"It's figuring out your opponent's strategy," that supplies the challenge of fencing, Kogler said. "They all have their own styles, and you have to figure out their's before they figure out yours."

He's learned his lessons well — well enough to help WSU win the NCAA team fencing title last month at Notre Dame.

Kogler is a master with the foil, one of three weapons used in fencing. His brothers, Geza, 22 and Bela, 19, also West alums and presently students at WSU, fence with other weapons. Geza competes with the epee and Bela the sabre.

Competition in all three consists of bouts in which each fencer must touch his opponent's scoring zone five times to win. Scoring zones differ with each weapon.

STEFAN WAS the only Kogler to make it to the NCAA finals. It wasn't a great tournament for the freshman. Seeded third in a field of 24 going into the two-day final, Kogler battled the bottom three seeds in his first three bouts — and lost all three.

"I couldn't believe it," Kogler said. "I just laughed. Seriously, you can't let it bother you. You've got to forget it and just keep on going."

He did just that, rallying after the early setbacks to win 18 of his final 20 bouts. In the NCAA finals, each fencer competes against all other finalists, a total of 23 bouts. Best overall record determines final standing.

Kogler finished 18-5, losing to the first and second as well as the last three seeds. His record placed him fifth in the foil competition, earning him All-American distinction.

STILL, HE NEITHER looks or acts the part. If someone were needed for an example of a "happy-go-lucky" attitude, Kogler would be the perfect choice. Always smiling and laughing, he enjoys his sport as a definite part of his life, but doesn't take his new title or accomplishments too seriously.

"It's a lot of fun," Kogler said of his sport. "You get addicted to it." But the three-hours-a-day workouts, which include 35 bouts, instruction, running and footwork practices? Don't sessions like that five days a week get tiresome?

"Never, never," Kogler said with a laugh. "If I miss a day of fencing, I get crabby."

IT'S MORE THAN avoiding crabbiness that drives Kogler on. His brothers are equally adept fencers. All three started in the sport after their father, Bela Kogler, escaped from his native Hungary in the early '50s.

The elder Kogler settled in Detroit just a few years before another Hungarian, who's now well-known, came to the city: "Maestro" Istvan Danosi, the WSU fencing coach considered among the best in his profession.

As often happens when fellow countrymen emigrate, the two Hungarians met, and Bela Kogler decided to enroll his sons in Danosi's fencing school. Stefan started working with the foil under Danosi's tutelage when he was eight-years-old. He's never given it up.

The 75-year-old Danosi, who has coached WSU's fencing program to national prominence and four titles, will retire after this season. It would bother Stefan except that the new coach will be his uncle, Aladar Kogler, who coached the Czechoslovakian national team before defecting last year.

SO STEFAN KOGLER will continue his fencing career. He won 45 of 50 bouts this year and was the only freshman among the 24 NCAA finalists. He doesn't do it for titles or championships, although the "thrill of victory," as the slogan goes, still appeals to him. But that isn't what keeps him fencing.

It's the sheer joy of the competition. "It's a mental and physical thing," he explained. "You have to be thinking two steps ahead of your opponent. When I penetrate my opponent's defense, it feels really good."

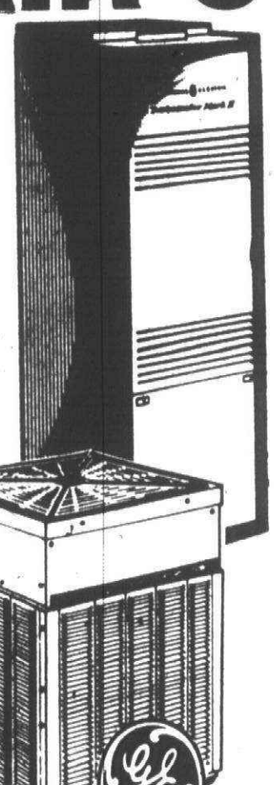
AIR CONDITION YOUR HOME WITH A GE WEATHERTRON®



GET UP TO $300* CASH REFUND

WHEN YOU BUY A GE WEATHERTRON® HEAT PUMP

Get a $300* cash refund direct from General Electric when you buy a GE Weathertron® WS Executive II heat pump for your existing home. The WS Executive saves you a bundle on your heating bills.
*(In Detroit Edison service area.)

Or, add a GE Weathertron® WR Plus-One heat pump with a new 1982 "Thinking" Thermostat to your existing gas, oil, propane or electric forced-air furnace and get a $200* cash refund. This heat pump system cuts your fuel bills from 20 percent to 54 percent (depending on locality and energy use, based on a single 8-hour, 10-degree set back).
*(In Detroit Edison service area.)

SAVE 20% to 54% ON UTILITY BILLS...

Here's how much a WR Weathertron add-on heat pump with GE's "Thinking" Thermostat could save on heating costs† for an average home in Michigan, Indiana or Ohio. Control systems can be adjusted for more savings as heating energy costs change.
†Estimates based on U.S. Weather Bureau climatic data and the type of energy used

SALES PROFESSIONALS:

THE FUTURE IS FOR THE STRONG, THE ORGANIZED, AND THE DILIGENT...

IF YOU SET HIGH STANDARDS FOR YOURSELF AND YOUR FUTURE... YOU'RE READY FOR KROY.

The KROY Visual Communications System and our sales office in your area could be two of the best things to ever happen to your career... Even if you've never sold before.

THE KROY SPECIALIST

As a principle member of the KROY sales team, you'll be provided with the type of specialized training that has allowed individuals with little or no sales experience to become top producers... and experienced sales professionals to do even better. On average, our Specialists earn between $18,000 - $24,000 a year and a first year's income of $30,000 is not unrealistic. In addition, the career path of a KROY Specialist is not limited to the sales office. There is much more for advancement in a growing organization such as ours.

Many Fortune 500 companies have found that KROY Lettering can turn ordinary paperwork into impressive, professional-looking printed materials quickly and inexpensively... Many more companies are waiting for you to show them how.

For immediate, confidential consideration for this opportunity, send resume or letter of qualifications to: KROY Center, 122 Harvard Plaza, 29350 Southfield Road, Southfield, MI 48076.

LOU LaRICHE CHEVROLET

IS NOW A FULLY CERTIFIED SERVICE SUPREMACY DEALER

CHEVROLET'S HIGHEST AWARD FOR CUSTOMER SATISFACTION

. . . Thanks To Our Satisfied Customers!

Achieving Chevrolet's highest service award for customer satisfaction required special effort, plus an extensive survey by Chevrolet Motor Division that confirmed the high level of quality service provided by our dealership.

Overwhelming affirmative response to questions such as the following was the key ingredient in our achieving Full Certification:

- Were you treated promptly and courteously?
- Was you car ready when promised?
- Was the price as estimated?
- Was all the work done satisfactorily?
- Would you return here for service?

Service Supremacy

CHEVROLET SERVICE

What It Means to You!

- Assurance of quality service that can contribute to lower operating costs and extended vehicle life.
- — Factory-trained technicians using the latest techniques
- — Facilities to handle quick-service and emergency needs
- — Genuine GM Parts engineered especially for your GM car
- — The proper tools and equipment to do the job right the first time, and get it done when we promise
- Expert service counseling.
