CEP activities open to all 9th-graders

By Dennis O'Connor
editor

Ninth-graders now have the opportunity to participate in all extracurricular activities at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) beginning this fall.

Plymouth-Canton's Board of Education voted 6-1 at Monday's board meeting to give interested ninth-graders, housed at the district's five middle schools, the option to participate at the high-school level, if an equal extracurricular program is not available at the middle schools. Treasurer Glenn Schroeder was the lone dissenter.

The decision applies for the 1982-83 school year only. Administration plans to evaluate ninth-grade participation throughout the year. The Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) recently gave Plymouth-Canton Community Schools similar permission for ninth-grade athletes also on a one-year trial basis.

Ninth-graders interested in high school sports, marching band or any other extracurricular activities will not be released from middle school early to attend practices, according to the decision. Transportation to the CEP also will not be furnished.

The decision does not cost the district additional money. No extra programs are offered.

ADMINISTRATION'S ORIGINAL recommendation did not allow ninth graders to participate in any high school interscholastic sport that was offered in the middle school extramural (after-school competition within the district) program.

However, the board's decision includes all sports — and all extracurriculars — that aren't offered on an equal basis at the middle schools.

"I feel extracurriculars are not just extracurriculars," said board Vice President Eliane Kirchgatter. "They are part of the education program. I would hope there would be an equal opportunity for everyone."

Schroeder voted against the proposal because he believed it would lead to high school coaches handpicking and recruiting only star players from middle schools. He believed coaches were only interested in preparing students to be professional baseball or football players. That's not a function of any school district, he added.

"I think it's wrong to take students out of the middle schools," Schroeder said. "They are 13- or 14-year-olds, and they belong in the middle schools."

Other board members expressed support for ninth-grade participation at the high schools. But they also stressed the commitment to maintaining a solid intramural/extramural program at the middle-school level.

Superintendent John Hoben admitted, however, the middle school extramural program does not offer equal athletic opportunity for ninth graders, compared to interscholastic sports.

PAUL CUMMINGS, assistant athletic director, said the decision will help the "big team" sports programs at the CEP, such as football, swimming, track and wrestling. It probably won't make much of a difference in sports programs with limited rosters, such as basketball, baseball, softball or volleyball, he added.

Cummings stressed that MHSAA rules still limit athletes to participate in either extramurals or interscholastics, but not both, in the same sport. All ninth-graders may participate in intramural sports during the middle school lunch hour, and compete after school as well, he added.

Some 20 people spoke on the issue during the citizen comment portion of the meeting before a decision was made. Most residents who spoke supported ninth-grade participation at the CEP. Vic Gustafson, a little league football parent and officer, said the goal of junior sports programs would be ruined if ninth-graders lost the op-

Ninth-graders asked to report

All ninth-grade students interested in high-school athletics or the marching band may receive a complete physical at a reduced cost Thursday, Aug. 5.

Physicals are required for anyone interested in either after-school activity. The cost is $7.

Girls are asked to report at 5 p.m. Thursday on the second floor of Plymouth Salem High School, on Joy Road west of Canton Center, Canton. Boys' physicals will begin immediately after girls' physicals at approximately 7 p.m.

Ninth-grade students interested in fall athletics also may sign up at this time. Boys' sports offered at the Centennial Educational Park include football, cross country, golf and soccer. Girls' sports are basketball, swimming, tennis and cross country.

Ninth-graders interested in winter or spring sports programs still may come and receive a physical at this time.

Police report rise in arson offenses ...

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

A car is taken to a deserted area and set ablaze. Later, the owner files an insurance claim for the loss.

A house "catches fire" while the occupants are away for several days.

A blaze of suspicious origin erupts in a partially-constructed house.

At least 28 cars or houses in Canton have been deliberately torched this year — three in the last week, said William Leneghan, a police sergeant who has special training in arson investigation.

ARSON IS a difficult charge to prosecute since flames often destroy all evidence. There usually are no witnesses, and a motive must be established before a person can be charged.

"It's easy to determine you have an arson (deliberately set fire)," said Leneghan. "It's difficult (to prove) who is involved, and why."

This year, Canton arsons are about evenly divided between homes and cars, Leneghan said.

The three most recent arson cases have been in cars.

"I really feel people are falling behind in their car payments," he added. "They file a claim in hopes of collecting from an insurance company."

... special teams investigate crimes

Special teams of police officers and firefighters, pooling their knowledge, have resulted in charges being filed in two arson cases dating back to 1980 and 1981.

Several investigators, members of an areawide unit called Force Five, have amassed sufficient evidence to bring charges in two mobile home fires.

Prosecution of arson requires laboratory analysis and establishment of a motive, according to police Sgt. William Leneghan, of the Canton police department.

Leneghan is one of nine people from Canton who have received Force Five training. The task force comprises police and firefighters from the cities of Plymouth and Northville, and the townships of Canton, Plymouth and Northville.

"We really do work as a team," said Leneghan.

THE FOLLOWING charges have been brought:

• Patricia Neice, 35, of Westland, will be arraigned in Wayne County Circuit Court Aug. 6 on a charge of arson of an occupied dwelling, namely, a mobile home at Sherwood Mobile Village in Canton.

Country Festival offers lots of family fun

Hey, pardner — planning to mosey down to the Canton Country Festival?

A full roundup of activities will take place during the festival, to be held at Griffin Park Aug. 6-8.

Twenty-seven clubs and organizations in Canton will participate in the seventh annual festival. There will be plenty of music, food and entertainment during the weekend event.

ALTHOUGH THE festival officially begins Aug. 6, a softball tournament to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association will begin at 6 p.m. one day earlier (Aug. 5). Games will be played at various times during festival weekend at Griffin Park, on Canton Center north of Cherry Hill.

Other events will include:

• Friday, Aug. 6 — Canton merchants will hold sidewalk sales.

Events at the park will get under way at 4 p.m. The Canton Business and Professional Women's Club will hold a picnic dinner 5-8 p.m.

A pet show begins at 6 p.m. (registration at 5). Judging categories will include color, talent, grooming, appearance and unusual clothing. Dance to country music of Manny Perez 7-11 p.m. Judging of produce and crafts will be at 8 p.m.

• Saturday, Aug. 7 — Rotary pancake breakfast from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., free National Guard helicopter rides at 9 a.m., and five-mile run at 9 a.m.

Parade steps off at 11 a.m., traveling from Griffin Park to Canton Center, north to Ford, and along Ford to Sheldon, returning to the park.

Afternoon events include a puppet show, entertainment by the Windsor Scarlet Brigade and Syrena Dance Assembly, tug-of-war, First Michigan Fife and Drum Corps, children's games and a garden-tractor pull.

The Canton Kiwanis Club is sponsoring music and entertainment ($1 donation) 3-11 p.m. Canton firefighters will serve spaghetti dinners 4-8 p.m.

• Sunday, Aug. 8 — Sunrise service at 8 a.m., sponsored by Canton United Council of Churches, and golf tournament at Fellows Creek course at 11 a.m.

The Canton Chamber of Commerce will serve chicken barbecue dinners from noon to 6 p.m. Afternoon events include entertainment by the Canton Senior Kitchen Band, children's games, Polish dance troupe, corn-eating contest and banjo performance.

The cow-chip fling will be at 2:30 p.m. The Canton Wheels square dance group will demonstrate, and there will be a beeper-ball game between visually impaired players and township officials.

The Plymouth Chorus will entertain at 4:15 p.m., followed by Dickie Lee, a country singer, at 5 p.m.

Listed as stable

Kleinsmith's condition improves

Ed Kleinsmith is improving after being hit by a car last Thursday.

The 46-year-old principal of Fiegel Elementary School was listed in stable condition Wednesday morning at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn. He was listed in serious condition late last week.

Kleinsmith was hit while jogging on Joy Road west of McClumpha last Thursday morning. Police are still investigating the accident.

As of Monday, Kleinsmith hadn't regained consciousness, but continued to be heavily sedated, Kleinsmith said.

"They are bringing him off the breathing apparatus. And they are supposed to be bringing him off the pain medication a little bit at a time."

The doctors haven't said when Kleinsmith will be brought out of intensive care, his son said.

"He has been trying to wake up. He responds to the family. He squeezed my hand and he raised his arm for my grandmother," he said.

"The doctors are pretty certain there won't be any permanent brain damage. They're not saying much about the recovery."

"He has responded to touch in both legs and has used both arms. They say he is responding normally," Kleinsmith said.

The younger Kleinsmith said the family was very appreciative for the support of the public. Likewise his mother, Carolyn, expressed thanks for the many phone calls and offers of help.

"Please let the community know how grateful our family is for their continued support and prayers. Please thank them for all of us — it means so much," she said.

Plymouth police expect to know more about the accident when they receive crime lab results from testing samples on the car which hit Kleinsmith.

As of yesterday morning, Police Chief Carl Berry said there was no new information about how the accident occurred.

WILFRID E. WATSON

Funeral services for Mr. Watson, 75, were held recently at St. Paul Catholic Church in Phoenix.

Mr. Watson, who died July 22 in Phoenix, was a member of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra for 13 years. He retired from American Motors Corp. in 1966 after 40 years.

Survivors include: wife, Marvel; son, John, of Phoenix; daughters, Susan Simpson of Plymouth and Peg Wingard of Northville; sisters, Hilda of Livonia, Lily of Canada, Edna of England; brother, Ossie of England. He is also survived by six grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

MARTHA A. CHAMPAGNE

Funeral services for Mrs. Champagne, 82, were held recently at Schrader Funeral Home with the Rev.

Kenneth E. Zielke officiating. Memorial contributions may be made to the Michigan Cancer Society.

Mrs. Champagne, who died July 24 in Farmington Hills, is survived by sons James of Canton and Edward of Carsonville, one granddaughter and one great-granddaughter.

BETTY LOU KELLER

Funeral services for Mrs. Keller, 66, were held recently at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Carl Allen officiating. Memorial contributions may be made to the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Survivors include: husband, John B.; mother Mary Pirkle of Blissfield; son Dennis of Garden City; daughter Karen Beaune of Canton; brothers, Edmund and Rolland Pirkle; sister Claudia Yurnik; five grandchildren and one great-grandson.

W. C. Fields lives again

W.C. Fields will live again Saturday night, recreated by actor Karrell Fox. Fox will bring his one-man theater production, "An Evening with W.C.," to the Plymouth-Canton community at 8:15 p.m. on the parking deck of Mayflower II hotel in Plymouth.

The appearance is being sponsored by the Mayflower Hotel in conjunction with Sidewalk Sales, which are being held this Friday and Saturday.

Fox's W.C. Fields impersonations will be followed by an encore appearance of Hank Warren's Dixieland Jazz Band, a group that performed at Mayflower II two weekends ago for the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival's balloon ball.

Fox will perform classic W.C. Fields bits, including booze, babies, dogs, chickadees and Philadelphia.

The band then will entertain until 12:15 a.m.

In his heyday, Fields delighted millions all over the world. He worked his way up from being a boardwalk juggler through vaudeville to the heights of the Ziegfeld Follies and to motion picture stardom.

Bearing a remarkable resemblance to Fields, Fox is multi-talented and his devoted studies of Fields reflect, in depth, all facets of the star's checkered career.

Fox will use audience participation, magic, puppets and juggling in his portrayal of the bumbling swindler who appealed to the mischief in all of us.

Fox has a large collection of W.C.'s memorabilia, including a top hat W.C. wore in one of his movies, and 27 of the 40 one-reel features in which Fields appeared.

Born in Charleston, W. Va., where his father owned a hotel, Fox became a magician at a young age, once portrayed the role of Milky the Clown on television and has been on scores of TV commercials as W.C. Fields.

Tickets are being sold at the Mayflower at $5 each on a first-come basis. Each ticket will indicate a table number so the bearer will be guaranteed a seat.

Scott Lorenz of the Mayflower suggests persons will want to spend the day shopping in Plymouth for the sidewalk sales and then relax on the deck of Mayflower II for the show.

HANK WARREN and his Dixieland Jazz Band have been performing for three generations now.

Their musical ability ranges from the traditional New Orleans Dixieland classics through the big band sounds of the '40s on up to today's popular, jazz and rock sounds.

Warren joined Duke Ellington in the late '40s as feature drummer before starting his own band in Detroit.

Warren's first appearance in Plymouth was for the balloon ball on July 10.

Bluegrass for park concert

The concerts in the park will not end this Thursday as originally planned.

Thursday will be the last concert this summer presented in the park by the Plymouth Community Band.

But the following Thursday — Aug. 5 — another outdoor concert program will be presented, featuring some of the top bluegrass entertainers in the country.

The free concert is a "teaser" performance for the second annual Bluegrass Festival to be presented Aug. 6, 7, and 8 at the 65-acre Western Wayne County Conservation Association site at 6700 N. Napier in Plymouth Township.

The concert in Kellogg Park, beginning at 8 p.m., will feature the Young Blades of Bluegrass, among other groups.

The free concert was arranged by the city of Plymouth in cooperation with the conservation club.

The three-day festival schedule:

Young Blades, Bluegrass Cardinals, Danville Mountain Boys, Butler Bros., North Country Grass, Wendy Smith and Blue Velvet on Saturday from noon to 11 p.m.

Young Blades, Bluegrass Cardinal, Danville Mountain Boys, Butler Bros., North Country Grass, Wendy Smith and Blue Velvet from noon to 6:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Spectators can bring their own lawn chairs to the festival at the club's site, which is north of N. Territorial Road and west of M-14 on Napier.

Food, drinks and ice will be available and a pancake breakfast is set for Saturday and Sunday.

Admission per person is $5 for Friday, $7 for Saturday, $5 for Sunday, and $17 for all three days at the gate. Children are $1 per day and senior citizens 65 and older are half price. Advance ticket information may be obtained by calling 453-9843 or 455-8579.

THE YOUNG BLADES of Bluegrass, which will perform at the free preview concert in Kellogg Park Thursday night, have performed on the Barbara Mandrell Show and on the Grand Ole Opry.

The Young Blades include Shelly Cox, 13, on bass; David Miller, 14, on mandolin; and Ronnie Cox, 15, on banjo.

The Bluegrass Cardinals is a California bluegrass band that once performed at the Whitehouse for President Carter. They have a recording contract with CMH Records.

Bluegrass music was born in the rural southern U.S. in the early 1930s.

Bill Monroe is considered to be the "Father of Bluegrass," as he was one of the first to put a syncopated beat to simple mountain songs. Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs were among the early musicians to play with Monroe.

Derived from mountain, folk, country and gospel music, bluegrass has come to be characterized by tight harmony vocals, called "high harmony," and a strong, syncopated beat.

The lyrics most often tell stories of everyday life of the rural and poor — the home-place, church, family, coal mines, the railroads.

An authentic bluegrass band includes only the mandolin, banjo, fiddle and bow, guitar, bass and sometimes dobro or piano.

The first organized bluegrass festival was held about 1965 but by 1979 there were more than 600 festivals being held in the U.S. each year.

9th graders gain opportunity portunity to compete at the CEP.

"What point is there to have a junior sports program, whether it be junior football, junior tennis, or whatever, and then create a gap in what we are trying to accomplish?" Gustafson said. "I think one of the worst things we can do as a parent, or as a school board, is to hold back a child from an opportunity."

Steve Kozusko, president of the Canton Soccer Club, agreed.

"We have about 2,500 players in Plymouth-Canton and in soccer there is no place for these kids to go beyond the recreation program, he said. "We have some 200 ninth graders in our league who need a next step to go to."

Loren Brand, a parent, said he was concerned with problems 14- and 15-year-olds would have if they did not compete for one year before reaching the high-school level.

"They'll have a problem developing the intensity needed if they are out for one year," he said. "At this age, a lot of conditioning is being done to build strength, weight and endurance."

TWO YEARS AGO, the athletic budget was cut approximately 60 percent, from $330,000 to $147,000, Hoben said. This reduction eliminated all middle school interscholastic sports.

This year's athletic budget was increased approximately $25,000 to help develop a better intramural/extramural program at the middle schools, Hoben added.

Cummings said the athletic department supports the middle-school program and wants to see more students participate both at the lunch hour and after school.

Observer tennis event begins Friday

The Observer Novice Tennis Tourney will start Friday when beginners from around the area square off on the courts at Central Middle School, on Main in Plymouth.

The tourney will start with the junior division boys ages 15-and-under and 12-and-under at 5 p.m. Friday. The junior division girls 15-and-under and 12-and-under will start Saturday at 9 a.m. The Adult division, men and women 16-and-over will start at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Many of the players competing in the tournament will come from Tom Williams' tennis camp for beginners. The camp is sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton Continuing Education Department.

Williams, the novice tourney director, is a former Plymouth Salem varsity tennis coach. The tournament is co-sponsored by the Observer Newspapers and the City of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department.

Schools receptive to computer technology

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education seemed generally receptive to expanding computer technology instruction in the school district.

The board Monday night heard a report from a study committee which recommended buying either 10 or 30 computer units at a price ranging from $16,000 to $145,000.

The board had a lengthy discussion Monday night but still had many questions remaining and President Tom Yack decided to move onto other business on the agenda and set a workshop session on the report.

The only opposition expressed was from Glen Schroeder and Roland Thomas who felt the high school program should be expanded before starting a computer program in the middle schools as recommended.

Yack noted that the committee's report to the board was an informational item and not an agenda action item. "We now need to get you onto the action agenda," Yack said he will poll other board members to see if a workshop should be scheduled soon on what action would be taken.

COMPUTERS REPRESENT another form of literacy and also represent another form of illiteracy for many people, indicated study committee chairman Charles Weaver.

"Most everyone will agree that computers have a great impact on people's lives, but the impact is here now and will continue to grow — it's more than a matter of curiosity," he said.

Compared to what many other school districts are doing in computer instruction, Plymouth-Canton is behind schedule, Weaver added. "The private schools are out to attract our students with their computer programs."

Weaver noted that prices for hardware (equipment) and software (programs) are at unprecedented low levels but he felt prices would not continue to drop significantly in the future.

The committee considered the economic times and developed what it considered conservative, cautious recommendations.

Weaver said the committee is advising a two-year pilot program with the idea that computer instruction would expand at all levels.

The timetable proposed was: Assess interest in the fall of 1982, including a questionnaire of staff, students and parents; district-wide training of staff in fall 1982; budget decisions in late fall 1982; long-term training for teachers involved in pilot program in winter 1983; pilot group decisions in spring 1983, including what equipment to purchase, what software to buy, and types of continued training; implementation in fall 1983; and evaluation in spring 1984.

SUPERINTENDENT John M. Hoben reported that the district presently is buying 15 computer units for the high schools at some $37,000.

"We'll make mistakes," commented Weaver,

'Most everyone will agree that computers have a great impact on people's lives, but the impact is here now and will continue to grow — it's more than a matter of curiosity . . . The private schools are out to attract our students with their computer programs.'

— Charles Weaver
study committee chairman

"but we'll find our mistakes during these two years and we'll fix them."

There is a savings in cost of texts when computers are used, he noted, and this savings can be used to offset maintenance and repair costs. A math workbook which is used for a computer program, Weaver cited as an example, costs one-third as much as the regular math text.

Hoben noted that the only way the district got computers at elementary buildings was because PTOs held fundraisers to buy the equipment (except at three elementaries which qualified for federal funds). This creates inequities, he added, because some elementaries are more capable than others to raise funds.

Ron Carlson, math teacher at Plymouth Canton High, noted that computer terminals at the high schools have been used for three years with 150 students using them per day and there has not been a great amount of repairs necessary.

The committee suggested that the computers purchased be used in the middle schools to achieve computer literacy and to use the terminals in conjunction with the microcomputer as a teaching tool.

The committee defines computer literacy as knowledge in the following areas: historical perspective of computing; computer anatomy, including parts, how computers work, algorithms, problem solving and systems capabilities; uses of the computer; social implications; and trends in technology communications.

Residents object to millage rate

By Maurie Walker
staff writer

An angry crowd of 160 homeowners jammed the Wayne-Westland school board meeting room last week to protest a proposed tax increase rate.

The school board earlier this month had adopted a new budget of $62.1 million based on the maximum millage rate of $40.65 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (SEV), a slight increase over the previous rate.

However, with the SEV in Westland going up nearly 10 percent this year, school tax bills to homeowners would go up that much unless there were a corresponding reduction in the millage rate.

The board won't set the millage rate until September.

About 25 persons spoke at the board hearing, required under a state "truth-in-taxation" law if a school district doesn't intend to reduce the millage to offset increases in local assessments.

The homeowners pleaded with the board for a cut in the millage rate.

A number were angry about the school board granting the teachers' union raises of 7-9 percent last fall.

OTHERS SAID the constant increase in taxes is driving people out of Westland and even out of Michigan.

One resident said he had been a Westland homeowner for eight years.

"Taxes are getting way out of line. I can't afford it any more. I plan to move out of the state."

A man added that the tax increase is not only driving people out of the city but "the high taxes are keeping business and industry out of the city." Another said people once cared about Westland but "they don't anymore."

There were several complaints about the complex of educational service buildings on Marquette between Wayne Road and Newburgh.

"I can afford to pay my taxes but there are many who can't," one man said.

"I look at the Dyer and Ford complexes. Is this what we really need to educate our children?" he said in referring to the social services center and job training center.

This remark drew a big applause from the audience.

PLEAS TO CUT "non-essentials" and to "live within our means" were also expressed by residents.

One woman, who said she is the single mother of five children, asked for a tax cut.

"I have to work. I'm not on ADC. We are being bled by the federal government, the state and the city."

"Let's live by our means. That's what I'm told. I want my children to have a good education but I also want them to have a roof over their heads, clothes on their back, and food for their stomachs."

Another resident said he was out of work and that "the mortgage company is going to get my house."

"Do you think they will pay your taxes?"

The board was attacked by some residents.

One man said, "Not one person here tonight was in favor of a tax increase. They all want a roll back."

Pointing to the board members, he added: "You people up there had better listen and we mean it."

And another added, "We are mad and tired of the wasteful spending of this school board. If you ignore the rollback, you will face the wrath of the people on election day." These statements again drew applause from the audience.

ANOTHER SAID: "All the school board wants is a blank check. If we gave you a blank check, would you be happy? No, you'd probably want two blank checks."

Members of the board were asked a few times by residents how they were going to vote on the tax issue.

At the insistence of a resident who asked each board member, answers were given.

David Moranty, Fred Warmber and Dewey Combs said they were going to vote against an increase.

Mary Arbour, vice president, said she would roll back a portion of it. "We are talking about concessions from the unions," she said.

Cops, firefighters work in groups to battle arson

Police also have a warrant for the arrest of her husband Randall, also 35, who reportedly is living in another state.

A blaze in the couple's mobile home sustained $15,000 damage on May 31, 1981, according to reports. At least two separate fires had been set in the house, said Leneghan.

Debra Varney, 24, recently pleaded guilty in 35th District Court to making a false felony report in a fire at her Mott Road mobile home Nov. 30, 1980. The home was destroyed. She was fined $100 and placed on six months' probation.

Darrell Williams, 32, of Ypsilanti, was arraigned last week in 35th District Court on a charge of arson of an occupied dwelling, also in connection with the Mott Road case.

Police also have a warrant for the arrest of John Lee Hoskins, 31, of Ypsilanti, on the same charge.

Conspiracy to burn a dwelling is a felony which carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison upon conviction.

Police first charged Varney with conspiracy to burn a dwelling, which requires the cooperation of the insurance company, said Leneghan. Her household belongings were found in a Ypsilanti garage, and the insurance company declined to prosecute, said Leneghan.

The insurance company's stance prompted the later false-report charge, which is a misdemeanor.

Police report increase in arson-related crimes

Winkel, Canton's fire marshal. Nine Canton police officers and firefighters have received training from an arson investigation unit called Force Five.

The unit, organized two years ago, coordinates training and investigations. Force Five members come from the cities of Plymouth and Northville, and the townships of Plymouth, Northville and Canton.

Investigation requires laboratory analysis and careful evidence-gathering, a process which often takes several months.

According to Leneghan, investigators are probing several Canton house fires which were deliberately set this year.

These include a January blaze on Lotzford, which caused $50,000 damage and a February fire which caused $109,000 damage to a partially-constructed house on Dionne.

Fires on Coronation in March, and on Walnut Circle in April, also were arson, said Leneghan. Damage to those houses is in the $50,000-$75,000 range, he added.

Witnesses may give information with anonymity, said Leneghan. At least one witness has received a reward for providing information in a Canton arson case.

The case, which is pending in Wayne County Circuit Court, involves a house fire on Michigan Avenue in October 1980, said Leneghan.

Up to $2,000 will be paid for information leading to an arrest for arson, said Leneghan.

Insurance companies put up the reward money through the International Association of Arson Investigators, a group of investigators and insurance companies, Leneghan said.

Rewards are paid through the state fire marshal's office in Lansing.

Anyone with information about an arson may call Leneghan at 397-3000, Winkel at 981-1113, or the state fire marshal in Lansing, at (517) 322-0469.

My doctor pronounced me cured of cancer.

My boss didn't.

My boss didn't understand that I was healthy again. So I was let go. A lot of people are like my boss. They think that everyone dies of cancer. I thought so too. Until the American Cancer Society through one of its service and rehabilitation programs helped me return to a normal life. The ACS also has local Units that help Americans who've never had cancer understand it better. Today, more and more cancer is a curable disease. Ignorance about cancer is curable, too.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON COMMUNITY SCHOOLS
454 S. Harvey Street
Plymouth, Michigan 48170

ESY calendar approved

The tentative 45-15 Extended School Year (ESY) year-round school calendar and the tentative traditional nine-month school-year calendar were approved Monday night by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. The above graphs show when school is in session for the four tracks of students at ESY elementary schools. The school schedule for students in nine-month schools is: Sept. 1, students' first day; Sept. 6, Labor Day; Oct. 15, vacation day; Nov. 11, conference day (elementary); Nov. 12, conference day for all students; Nov. 25-26, Thanksgiving vacation; Dec. 18-Jan. 2, Christmas vacation; Jan. 28, Secondary Records Day; Feb. 18-21, vacation days; March 11, in-service day; April 1-10, Easter vacation; May 30, Memorial Day; and June, last day for students.

New health care program features house call service

Residents concerned with the mounting costs of health care can take advantage of a program designed to contain home health care costs.

Livingston Home Health Care Inc., is a non-profit group which includes the Plymouth and Canton communities in its service area.

The agency provides a wide variety of health care services for home-bound patients, including licensed nurses, home health aides, therapists, live-in companions, and staff relief.

The center recently opened its doors at 314 E. Grand River in Brighton.

Richard Anderson, director, explains the goal of the new program is to bring down the cost of medical services by offering them at home under the supervision of doctors.

The philosophy goes back to the '30s and '40s when physicians offered health services at patients' homes, said Anderson, before insurance companies got into the health care field.

Before nursing care facilities and medical institutions became widely used, he added, the sick and elderly were cared for, for the most part, in the home.

Now many health professionals are rediscovering the therapeutic value and cost effectiveness of home health care, he said, primarily because of the rising costs of institutional care but also because of the realization of added psychological and social benefits derived from being in familiar surroundings.

The Livingston Home Health Care services are geared for persons who are sick but not ill enough to require hospitalization, said Anderson.

Service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

All staffers work under the supervision of a supporting physician who is an M.D. in general medicine.

The center has an indirect staff of health care workers, including registered nurses, LPNs, an occupational therapist, social workers and chore providers.

Solar energy can cut heating costs in Michigan, study shows Conservation and solar energy measures can cut home heating costs in half in cold-winter Michigan, according to researchers at the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research (ISR).

Solar technology, they explain, can reduce the effective heating season in Michigan from six or seven months to three or four months.

Mark Berg, Paul Ray and Mark Hasset of the ISR's Energy Policy Group have just completed a study of the potential benefits and costs of solar energy and conservation in Michigan for the Energy Administration of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

The researchers conclude that conservation measures that emphasize increased efficiency — adding insulation, plugging leaks, making furnaces more efficient, curtailing unnecessary use of air conditioning and lighting, using more energy-efficient appliances — could reduce a typical home's energy needs by up to 60 percent.

CONSERVATION MAKES it possible to obtain a large percentage of the remaining energy needs from solar energy systems. The report examines many of the different types of solar technologies.

However, it gives greatest emphasis to designs. Solar sunspaces and greenhouses in many cases can provide appreciable amounts of heat to homes (as well as additional living space), but even where these designs are not practical, there are other solar designs which are relatively inexpensive and provide useful quantities of heat to a well-insulated home.

THE ISR STUDY led to these major conclusions:

• In Michigan, the greatest potential energy savings are in home heating, where expected doubling or tripling of natural gas prices over the next 10-15 years will make aggressive conservation and low-cost solar very attractive.

• Potential energy savings from the existing home (retrofit) market are much larger than from the new construction market over the next 20 years: five times larger for conservation, 11 times larger for solar systems.

• For the state as a whole, the potential energy savings from conservation measures are three times greater than the savings from use of solar technology. Conservation is the most cost-effective step a homeowner can take and always a first step on the way toward cost-effective solar applications.

The study compared the energy needs of a hypothetical 1,550 square-foot house of conventional construction in Ann Arbor with the same structure in Atlanta, Ga. Actual weather statistics for the two areas were used in the comparison.

BOTH HOUSES, with typical pre-oil embargo constructions used existing conservation strategies to reduce current energy use by as much as 60 percent.

The hypothetical houses were next equipped with extensive passive and active solar energy systems. In Georgia, these solar installations could theoretically provide 100 percent of the remaining heating needs. In Michigan, they could provide 79 percent.

While most retrofits would not incorporate as large a solar system as in this theoretical analysis, a 50-percent savings from conservation measures and solar energy would be easily achievable for most houses in which well-planned conservation efforts have not yet been initiated.

While not providing all of the required heat during the coldest months, solar technology, they suggest, can effectively reduce the extended Michigan heating season by several months.

"THE SOLAR system is more cost-effective in Michigan because it can contribute almost twice as much usable heat due to the longer heating season. Consequently, it can pay for itself in about half the time it would take in a more temperate region.

Michigan imports most of its increasingly expensive energy, and the traditional balance of trade has shifted against Michigan, creating an energy-related reduction in jobs and growth, the study says.

An estimated $8.2 billion left the Michigan economy last year in payment for imported energy. "That's over 7 percent of the gross state product, up from about 2 percent in 1972."

The U-M analysts suggest that conservation and solar energy offer one valuable way to reduce that drag by promoting more efficient use of imported energy.

"WE ARE TALKING about one-time investments compared to year-after-year drains on money from within the state," they explain. "Our analyses show that conservation and solar energy combined could cut Michigan's heating energy bills by one-half to one-third of their present size within the next two to three decades."

The researchers indicated strong concern over the price rises that will result from natural gas deregulation, noting that "the impact upon poverty-level and elderly households will be very serious."

In response, the study examined the feasibility of making relatively low-cost investments in conservation and solar to improve the energy efficiency of low-income residences rather than providing ever larger amounts of government aid to pay energy bills. The researchers believe these "improved weatherization programs" may be far more cost effective over the long term than monthly aid.

THERE ARE STILL a number of barriers to using new energy technologies in Michigan — the initial high cost of solar heating systems, problems in raising capital for solar and conservation investments, cuts in government spending for conservation or alternative energy programs, reluctance or inability of property-owners (especially landlords and low-income homeowners) to make improvements in energy efficiency, inadequate information about conservation and solar technologies, and the underdeveloped status of the solar industry.

Death penalty issue on fall ballot

More than 7,000 people were responsible for gathering enough signatures to put the question of capital punishment on the November ballot.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, who led the petition drive, lauded the group for their efforts.

"We did extremely well. We had to build an organization and we did. It was an incredible job," he said.

More than 50,000 petitions were circulated, but only "about half" were returned, he said. However they contained 309,000 signatures; 286,000 valid signatures are required to place the proposal on the ballot.

Patterson, a Republican candidate for governor, said he started the petition drive in 1979 after hearing confessions from two convicted murderers.

"They had tortured a high school student to death by stabbing her 100 times," the prosecutor said.

"When I asked one of the boys who he did it, he said, 'I have never seen anyone die before and I wanted to see how it felt.' The other boy replied, 'I want to kill as many people as I am old,'" Patterson said.

"That's thrill killing. When I heard those confessions, I knew I couldn't stand on the sidelines any longer."

Patterson expects the proposal to pass by 70 percent of the vote. Six months ago, an opinion poll indicated that 66 percent of the state's registered voters favored capital punishment.

"Since then, we've had three mass murders and four police officers killed in the line of duty. People are fed up with cold-blooded crimes. They're going to vent their anger by voting for the proposal."

Former resident joins Department of Energy

Norman R. Hughes, a former resident of Plymouth, has been named assistant to Joseph J. Tribble, Department of Energy (DOE) assistant secretary for conservation and renewable energy.

As the assistant to the assistant secretary (a senior executive position at the DOE), Hughes will be responsible for a program transferring various federal energy endeavors to the private sector. He will be responsible for the development, implementation and management of the program, which will assist in the transfer of federal development technologies and demonstration facilities and for initiatives for private-sector activities in lieu of federal investment.

Hughes, who attended primary and secondary schools in Plymouth, South Lyon and Trenton, lives in Metamora near Lapeer.

Hughes earned his bachelor of science degree in architecture from Lawrence Institute of Technology, and did postgraduate studies at Eastern Michigan University, the University of Michigan and the University of Wisconsin in engineering and construction technologies. He also studied law at the University of Detroit.

For the past 10 years he has owned and operated N.R. Hughes & Associates, a construction management and design/building firm in Metamora.

A licensed builder, Hughes has specialized in value engineering, engineering economy, and in time, quality and cost control on a variety of industrial, commercial, residential, educational and health-care projects.

Hughes also has been active in church, civic and political activities in cluding twice serving as a national Republican delegate; receiving nominations for U.S. Congress in 1978 and 1980, managing the 1972 campaign of Congressman Robert J. Huber, and serving as a special assistant to Huber in 1973.

NAMED AN OFFICER

Allyn Phillips of Canton Township has been appointed to officer status by Detroit Bank & Trust as an international operations officer.

Phillips joined the bank in 1981 as an assistant to officer and has held positions of increasing responsibility since. He earned a bachelor of science degree in 1979 from the Detroit College of Business.

SEELEY IS GM

Betsy Seely has been named president and general manager of Omnicom of Michigan, the cable television company headquartered in Plymouth.

Seely succeeds Peter Newell, who recently was appointed senior vice president of the cable television division of Capital Cities Communications, which is the parent company of Omnicom.

Operating out of corporate offices in Bloomfield Hills, Newell will be responsible for all cable television systems in the division's northern region, including Omnicom.

Seely started with Capital Cities in its Bloomfield Hills office as a financial analyst and was transferred to its cable television operations in Denver as manager of marketing services.

As marketing services manager, Seely directed product launches, promotional marketing activities, customer-service and sales-training programs.

Most recently Seely served as director of finance for the division's southern region. She earned an MBA degree from Harvard Business School.

She will be relocating in Northville to assume her new duties as vice president and general manager of Omnicom.

NAMED TREASURER

Robert G. Rudnick of Plymouth has been named treasurer of Gulf & Western Manufacturing Co. in Southfield.

Before his appointment, Rudnick served as vice president and controller for manufacturing's metals group since its formation in 1979 and held similar positions with the company's former Bohn Group and metals forming company.

Rudnick earned bachelor's and master's degrees in accounting from Wayne State University. He is a member of the National Association of Accountants.

Corps returns from the east

The Plymouth Fife & Drum Corps has completed a successful performance tour of Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

The corps was received enthusiastically in two parades, at a muster, a competition concert, and for three concerts.

Performance stops were made in Deep River, Cromwell and Unionville, Conn., and in Stroudsburg, Rheinhols, Ft. Ligonier, and Ft. Pitt, Pa.

Judges in the Firemen's Parade in Unionville named the corps "best all-around musical unit." A plaque and several trophies were presented for their appearance in other events.

Colin Martin, president of the Fife and Drum Corps board of directors, said: "The art form our group represents is highly developed in the east — unlike in Michigan where there are only two fife and drum corps in the entire state.

"The fact that the Plymouth Fife and Drums Corps was so warmly received by audiences that are so knowledgeable has brought us great pride and satisfaction. It was a great experience for our corps members. They did their usual terrific job."

Made up of young people between the ages of 12-18, the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps has performed throughout Michigan this summer, including the Fourth of July parades in Plymouth and Northville.

The corps also will be performing at the Canton Country Festival Aug. 7 and at the Plymouth Fall Festival Sept. 12.

roll call report

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes July 15-21.

HOUSE

TOURISM — By a vote of 241 for and 167 against, the House failed to achieve the two-thirds majority needed to pass a bill (HR 6258) authorizing $10 million for the U.S. Travel and Tourism Administration in fiscal 1983. This was double the $5 million funding level recommended by the administration for the agency, which conducts promotional activities in behalf of the U.S. tourism industry. A two-thirds majority was required for passage because of the short-cut parliamentary procedure under which the bill was considered. In part, the procedure banned amendments. The authorization is to be reconsidered under conventional debating rules.

Supporter James Florio, D-N.J., said that during the current recession "increases in tourism to the U.S. will help with the balance of payments."

Opponent William Dannemeyer, R-Calif., whose district includes Disneyland, said "this is one area of federal spending that to me more properly could be served by activities in the private sector."

Members voting "yea" wanted to spend $10 million for the tourism agency rather than a lower figure advocated by the administration.

Reps. David Bonior, D-Mt. Clemens; William Brodhead, D-Detroit; and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham, voted, "yea."

Reps. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth; William Ford, D-Taylor; and James Blanchard, D-Pleasant Ridge, did not vote.

DEFENSE — The House rejected, 127 for and 289 against, an amendment to meet military cargo airlift needs by purchasing used Boeing 747s rather than Lockheed C5Bs. Backers said the wide-bodied 747 is not nearly as costly as the C5, is more reliable mechanically, and would be available to the Pentagon much sooner. Opponents said the 747 cannot land on rough terrain, that tanks and trucks can be driven into the C5 but must be lifted onto the retrofitted 747, and that the C5 has a longer flying range. The amendment was proposed to the fiscal 1983 defense authorization bill (H 6030), later passed and sent to conference with the Senate. Its defeat left intact a $450 million outlay for the C5.

Supporter Norman Dicks, D-Wash., argued that the Lockheed C5 would cost about four times the price of the Boeing 747, and he said "we simply do not have enough money to buy every major weapons system that any general over at the Pentagon thinks is necessary."

Opponent Carlos Moorhead, R-Calif., said that "to approve the purchase of an airplane that will cost less at the expense of performance capability is very poor defense planning indeed."

Members voting "nay" favored purchasing the C5 rather than the 747 as the primary military cargo aircraft.

Ford and Brodhead voted "yea". Pursell, Bonior and Broomfield voted "nay."

Blanchard did not vote.

MX MISSILE — By a vote of 212 for and 209 against, the House adopted an amendment to spend $1.14 billion in fiscal 1983 to buy the first nine MX missiles. The vote occurred during debate on the $177 billion defense bill for 1983 (see preceding vote).

Sponsor Samuel Stratton, N-N.Y., asked one MX critic: "Does the gentleman not have enough confidence in the scientific and technological genius of America, when we can put man on the moon, that by 1986 we will have developed an effective means of basing the MX?"

Opponent Nicholas Mavroules, D-Mass., said "the MX program as it currently exists... represents a 'build first, justify later' mentality this nation can no longer afford."

Members voting "yea" wanted to move ahead with the MX missile program.

Rep. Broomfield voted "yea."

Reps. Pursell, Bonior, Ford and Brodhead voted "nay."

Blanchard did not vote.

for and 58 against, an amendment to require large farms in the West — those above 960 acres — to pay the full cost of irrigation water they receive from federal reclamation projects. Additionally, farms of 320-960 acres were to have paid more than they now pay for the water, although not full cost. The vote occurred during debate on a bill (S 1867) to legalize the current practice of large farms getting subsidized reclamation water. The 1902 Reclamation Act limits eligibility to farms of less than 320 acres, but the limit historically has been ignored by the Interior Department. As later passed and sent to conference with the House, S 1867 limits subsidized water to farms of less than 1,280 acres.

Sen. William Proxmire, D. Wis., sponsor of the amendment, said the provisions of low-cost irrigation water to large farms in 17 western states amounts to "wholly unjustified subsidies for rich landowners."

Opponent Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said "our friends from the water-wealthy East want to deny water to the water-poor West... The West has lots and lots of land and no water to meet future food needs."

Senators voting "nay" wanted western farms of more than 960 acres to continue to receive federal irrigation water from reclamation projects at taxpayer-subsidized rates.

Sens. Carl Levin, D, and Donald Riegle, D, voted "yea."

Jeffress takes tough look at SC's programs

By Suzie Rollins Singer
staff writer

Conway Jeffress likes to be in the hub of things.

Even if it means hearing complaints from students, faculty and administrators at Schoolcraft College, he treasures the moments.

"When I was at Allegheny County Community College in Pennsylvania, my contact with students and faculty was quite minimal. I only saw people when they were in trouble or wanted money," said Jeffress, who was vice-president for strategic planning at the Pittsburgh school before coming to Schoolcraft.

FOR THE last eight months, Jeffress has been Schoolcraft College's vice-president for instruction, and the personal contact warms his heart.

"Here, there is a good sense of community. I'm involved with people and talk to them on a daily basis," he added.

He was in the strategic planning job at Allegheny only a few months. His immediate predecessor was Dr. Richard McDowell, Schoolcraft president the last 10 months. On taking office, McDowell invited Jeffress to apply for the instructional vice-presidency here.

Jeffress said he has found his new college has an "aura of quality."

His goals are to "insure the viability and integrity of academic programs. . . . We have to have programs with attractions to people, that meet their personal needs or occupational abilities," he said.

"We're sensitive to outside trends. We look at growth occupations and watch enrollments in programs to see where the increases and decreases are, so we know whether to strengthen or eliminate a program," Jeffress added.

JEFFRESS DEFINES integrity as a "passion for quality."

"We have to make sure we offer a course that delivers what it says it will. We don't want to stagnate at Schoolcraft. We want to stay ahead of trends," he added.

Presently, the most popular courses on campus include culinary arts, nursing and health care, business and data processing.

"We're working out agreements with the faculty union to send faculty members to school to learn the most up-to-date information on their courses. We've lined up some seminars for them," he said.

"But we're limited as to how much we can do by how much money we have," he added.

A MAJOR responsibility of the academic VP is to respond to the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools accreditation report. North Central last year accredited Schoolcraft for seven years, not the maximum 10 years. Schoolcraft appealed and won 10-year accreditation, but everyone agrees there is work to be done. Items:

- Student development. Jeffress is working on more courses for those not yet academically ready for college work. "We're beefing up the learning assistance center and getting more tutorial courses."

• Television. Schoolcraft is improving its offerings through cable Channel 16 with Omnicom and will have on-campus production capability by year's end, Jeffress said. Faculty videocassettes will be used in development work (above item) as well as to enrich courses.

• Accessibility of administrators. Jeffress is pounding the message home to administrators that they must be more accessible to students.

• Child care center. Located in an old house along Haggerty Road, the center hasn't been expanded, but this summer it will get roof repairs and rest room modifications.

• Registration. The college will phase in an on-line computer registration system.

• Community service courses. North Central recommended a transcript system for such non-credit students. Jeffress is preparing a list of vendors.

• Program reviews. Jeffress will unveil to faculty in September an improved system for reviewing programs to determine which should be strengthened, reduced or eliminated. He said, "We have to ask ourselves: What is the cost per credit hour? Is the program essential to our mission? And do we do it well?"

• Part-time faculty. North Central suggested better coordination of part-time faculty and more use of full-time faculty. Jeffress said college officials are wary of that one, approaching it with "a great deal of caution."

• Community service. Schoolcraft will give "a much heftier thrust" to efforts to offer programs aiding business and industry. Stuart Baker was reassigned from the college relations office to work full-time with business. Both McDowell and Jeffress were heavily involved in programs to train managerial persons, among others, in Pittsburgh.

THIS FALL, Schoolcraft is implementing several new programs: The first robotics technology and emergency medical technology courses are being offered.

In addition, there will be a written policy adopted on due process, so students know how they can get a complaint answered.

On the question of program evaluation, Jeffress said:

"We've come up with a long list of things we'd examine. We evaluate the program's strength, how the student was employed after the graduating from the program.

"We survey employers to see if the graduates were able to work without extensive training, and we look at attrition of the program.

"If you can see serious attrition in a program, then students could be dissatisfied with the teacher, or the course description is not accurate," he explained.

James Brickley, 53, lieutenant governor, of Ingham County

Richard Headlee, 52, insurance executive and chairman of Oakland County board, of Farmington Hills.

L. Brooks Patterson, 43, Oakland County prosecutor and restaurant owner, of Clarkston.

John Welborn, 49, state senator and dairy farmer, of Kalamazoo County.

Governor candidates agree

GOP hopefuls' target state comp laws

Their remedies to cure unemployment differ, but on one point the four Republican gubernatorial candidates agree. Unemployment and workers' compensation laws must be reformed.

There's no debate, however, on what is Michigan's No. 1 problem. All say it's jobs.

Reduce taxes, said L. Brooks Patterson, Oakland County prosecutor, and Richard Headlee, Farmington Hills insurance executive. Patterson also would like to freeze state hiring.

Lt. Gov. James Brickley has a broader answer. Brickley said he'd like to end unnecessary government regulations, give car buyers tax breaks, diversify Michigan's industrial base, strengthen job-training programs and allocate more money for public education.

State Sen. John Welborn said he favors reducing welfare costs and instituting "workfare."

THEIR RESPONSES were gleaned from a questionnaire drafted by the state League of Women Voters.

Asked what incentives state government should offer to private business to encourage them to locate in Michigan, most said they'd either reduce or repeal the single business tax.

Brickley said he favors giving tax incentives to new plants and creating incentives for high-technology industries.

Headlee, Brickley and Welborn favor reducing the single business tax, which in 1975 replaced eight state taxes on business. And Headlee would like to see tax credits given on the unemployment debt to new business.

Patterson, who also owns a small restaurant, said he wants to repeal the single business tax entirely.

Welborn, a Kalamazoo County dairy farmer, said better transportation and educational services would help Michigan lure business. Both Headlee and Welborn favor reducing welfare and substituting "workfare."

REDUCING PROPERTY taxes was also on their minds. Brickley, Headlee, Patterson and Welborn all said they favor the idea.

Headlee proposes indexing the school aid formula to property assessments. He also said he would push for increasing state funding for education by at least 1 percent a year until it reached 20 percent of the state budget.

Patterson promises to roll back the Michigan income tax to 4.4 percent. It's now at 5.6 percent and due to fall to 4.6 on Oct. 1. Welborn favors reinstating the corporate business tax.

THE GREAT LAKES region emerged as a main priority for protection.

Brickley said he's concerned about attempts to divert fresh water from the Great Lakes by using federal control.

Headlee doesn't want to see water sold to help the state's economy, but he'd rather see it used to attract new business.

Patterson said he'd like a program to improve water's cleanliness and to avoid diversion.

Welborn said the biggest threat to Michigan's natural resources is developing parks and other wild areas. He wants to protect areas to be used for recreation.

Brickley said he is also concerned about urban sprawl and wants to make sure it doesn't needlessly erode prime farmland, destroying communities.

SEMTA installs new equipment for deaf

A teletype device for the deaf (TDD) will aid hearing-impaired and deaf people in communicating directly with the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority.

TDD, a telecommunications device designed for hearing-impaired individuals to communicate visually, has been installed in the SEMTA Customer Information Center and is ready for use by individuals who have compatible units.

TDD equipment is available through Michigan Bell. It uses a standard telephone and a small portable terminal to transmit and receive information.

The TDD unit features a typewriter-like keyboard for entering information, a video-display screen to observe information which has been entered, and a teletype unit which provides a permanent record on paper of everything that is typed into the unit as well as the responses.

"In addition to the TDD, a number of SEMTA employees who work with the public have undergone an introductory course in sign language to help them communicate with the hearing impaired," said Gary Krause, SEMTA general manager.

All SEMTA large bus, small bus connector and commuter rail schedule information is available through the new SEMTA TDD service. Hearing-impaired passengers can also schedule advance reservations for curb-to-curb connector service in the tri-county area with the TDD.

SEMTA recommends that people use the TDD service from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Senate race: Candidates speak on issues

Candidates for the U.S. Senate in the Aug. 10 primary — one Democrat and four Republicans — were asked by the League of Women Voters to summarize their biographies in 45 words and to answer each question in 45 words. Responses were edited for length only.

Donald W. Riegler Jr.
Democrat
age 44, of Flint

U.S. senator. BA, U of M; MBA, MSU; DBA studies, Harvard Business School. Member of Congress 16 years (6 in Senate, 10 in House). Four major committees; ranking Democrat, Banking Committee. Co-chairman, Northeast/Midwest Senate Coalition. Married, Lori Hansen Riegler; three children.

William S. Ballenger
Republican
age 41, of Lansing

Full-time candidate of the U.S. Senate. BA, magna cum laude, Princeton University; MBA, Harvard University. State representative, 1969-70; state senator, 1971-74; deputy assistant secretary, U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, 1975-76; state director of Licensing and Regulation (Michigan), 1977-1981.

Robert J. Huber
Republican
age 59, of Troy

President, Michigan Chrome and Chemical Co. BS, Yale University. Former mayor, county commissioner, state senator and U.S. congressman.

Deane Baker
Republican
age 57, of Ann Arbor

President, Deane Baker Construction. Wisconsin, BBA; Harvard, MBA. U.S. overseas business experience; married, four children; Presbyterian; Air Force, Pilot WWII, Korean War; twice president, Detroit Urban League; former president, Ann Arbor Senior Citizens; Rotarian.

Philip E. Ruppe
Republican
age 55, of Houghton

Businessman. CMU, U of M, V-12 program; graduated Yale, 1948, BA history. Served northern Michigan in U.S. Congress, 1967-79, retiring undefeated. Korean War Navy veteran, life-long resident of Upper Peninsula. He and his wife Loret, director of the Peace Corps, have five children.

Specifically, how would you deal with the current state of the economy?

Need a major mid-course correction in the economic plan — to reduce federal deficits, reduce interest rates, and put people back to work. We must reduce defense spending increases, and cut special interest waste. We must directly challenge unfair trade practices by Japan and others.

Support 1981 Economic Recovery Act, with fine-tuning to reduce size of projected budget deficit. Specifically, president should levy $5-10 per barrel import fee on foreign oil; Congress should amend so-called "safe harbor" tax credit leasing provision. These might save as much as $70 billion.

My 37 years of industrial experience in local and international business operations could promote forward planning legislation to improve the U.S. competitive position at home and abroad in steel, auto, chemical, plastics, banking, research — industries I am familiar with.

More jobs through lower interest rates, reduced government costs, lower inflation, lower taxes, more savings, balance budget, restore consumer confidence, emphasize education, university research, develop new technology for new jobs in biochemical engineering, molecular genetics, robotics computers. Study possible restructuring U.S. international trade approach.

The budget process has become too short-term and politicized. To restore business confidence and economic stability, we should have a three-year budget in order to address the long-term problems of federal debt reduction, high interest rates, and tax policy.

List any modifications you would make in the Social Security system.

Fully protect and guarantee the benefits workers have paid for and earned. Oppose Reagan cuts. Take Social Security out of federal budgets, set up truly independent board — and earn full interest on reserves. End recession which is starving Social Security of needed income.

Willing to wait for recommendations of 15-member bi-partisan commission appointed by president and Congress — but system is near bankruptcy. Either another tax hike must be passed (which Americans will not stand for) or level, scope of benefits and age of eligibility must be reduced.

Commission an independent actuarial study free from political pressure. Re-evaluate qualification criteria to eliminate future excess benefits beyond actuarial study. Contain inflation to allow system to be actuarially sound.

The Social Security system has troubles and needs strengthening. I support the president's appointment of a bi-lateral commission to study the Social Security system and recommend changes for its improvement. Recipients of Social Security should have input into where adjustments should be made.

The bipartisan commission must recommend reforms that guarantee benefits to current recipients and those approaching retirement age. Reduced unemployment to increase the system's funding and lower inflation to decrease required COLA payouts are key.

Would you advocate reducing the projected federal deficit and, if so, how?

Federal deficits must be reduced. I proposed alternative budget with much lower deficits. Must cut spending waste from sacred cows, including defense, nuclear weapons, tobacco subsidies, Clinch River breeder reactor, big oil and gas giveaways. Increase revenue by spurring employment with lower interest rates.

Yes, and I've outlined how above.

Yes. Further cuts in spending plus tax on imported oil to raise $20 billion and cuts of $30 plus billion to reduce deficit a total of $50 billion.

Federal deficits must be decreased. Government needs lower costs, additional income. As recession recedes, new tax revenue generated. More jobs reduced unemployment cost to government. Lower interest rates reduce government's interest cost. Balance budget. New taxes like per barrel charge imported oil.

Yes. By eliminating inequities in the current tax code and increasing revenue collection of unreported income, by reducing fraud and waste in federal programs, improving defense procurement practices to avoid unnecessary cost and duplication, and to reduce unneeded defense installations.

What changes, if any, are needed in U.S. defense policy?

Must strengthen our conventional military forces, including readiness, rapid deployment, and training. Seek mutual, verifiable nuclear arms freeze with U.S.S.R. to limit dangers, cost of arms race. Make allies shoulder fair-share cost of joint defense effort. Rebuild, modernize our industrial base for future mobilization.

Commitment to defense spending has plunged from nearly 50 percent of federal budget in 1963 to under 25 percent today. Military strength has deteriorated vis-a-vis its totalitarian enemies. President is trying to partially redress this imbalance and deserves as much as tight budget will allow.

Falkland Island and Israel wars show need for top defense position. Peace in the world requires the strongest army, navy, and air force to be in the hands of the most peaceful nation — the U.S.

U.S. must improve quality, quantity, both conventional, strategic arms over several years on financially prudent basis. U.S. should negotiate verifiable arms reduction agreements with Soviet Union. Negotiations progress possible when U.S. negotiates from strength militarily, morally and economically.

Reform defense procurement practices, seek increased defense spending from NATO and Japan. Review conventional arms needs versus new nuclear weapons systems, and reassess naval needs in light of Falkland Islands events.

What are your personal priorities in the next Congress?

Continue fighting for national economic policies that will allow economic recovery in Michigan. Michigan jobs and economic strength are my main goals. Business, labor and government must work together as a team to spur recovery. Continue to seek greater fairness and efficiency in government policies.

Getting Michigan back on its economic feet, partially through making sure it gets better return on its tax dollar than it has for past two decades, when we've ranked last among the 50 states with only 66 cents returning for every dollar we send to Washington.

Improve industrial economic climate — to reduce unemployment through improved business atmosphere — and cut expensive spending and balance budget as soon as possible.

Fearlessly represent Michigan in Senate, including auto, agricultural, recreation, small business, other industries. Represent all labor, business, professions, education, state government. Work for peace through strong defense. Work for equality all people. Return to state fair share federal taxes.

Bring fair share of federal tax dollars back to Michigan. Retrain workers in depressed industries and assist youth entry into the labor force. Coordinate federal, state, and private research in micro electronics and telecommunications areas to ensure American superiority. Develop long-range resource policy. Reduce interest rates.

Capital Gain.

Take stock in America.

Time and again, you've heard it said, "To make money, you have to have money." The truth is, you have to know how to save money before you can think about making more. That's why more and more people are joining the Payroll Savings Plan to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. That way, a little is taken out of each paycheck automatically. In no time, you'll have enough Bonds for a new car, your child's education, even a dream vacation. Whatever you save for, Bonds are the safest, surest way to gain capital.

When you put part of your savings into U.S. Savings Bonds, you're helping to build a brighter future for your country and for yourself.

Jobs the problem, but Dems differ on solutions

Democratic candidates for governor all say unemployment is Michigan's No. 1 problem. They all say reform of the state's tax laws and compensation payments are desperately needed to turn the economy around.

But they differ when it comes to what government's role should be in helping Michigan businesses dig out of the slump.

Seven candidates vying for the Democratic nomination for governor in the Aug. 10 primary responded to a state League of Women Voters questionnaire.

FORMER STATE SEN. William Fitzgerald, Sen. Kerry Kammer and Sen. Ed Pierce say they support reforming unemployment and workers compensation rules and the state single business tax as methods for bringing Michigan out of the recession.

Zolton Ferency, an Ingham County Commissioner, said he favors increasing capital investment opportunities for diversified business and industry.

But Rep. James Blanchard wants to develop strategic investment and massive job training programs to help the unemployed get back to work, in addition to asking business and labor to meet for cooperative suggestions for jobs.

Sen. David Plawecki mentioned a

James Blanchard, 39, congressman from Pleasant Ridge.

Zolton Ferency, 59, Michigan State University professor of criminal justice, of East Lansing.

William Fitzgerald, 40, attorney, of Grosse Pointe Farms, former state senator.

Kerry Kammer, 33, state senator from Clarkston, former Pontiac city clerk.

Edward Pierce, 52, state senator, former Ann Arbor councilman.

five-point plan, but revealed no details.

Lawyer John Safran said repealing the single business tax would solve the state's economic problems.

THEY DIFFERED entirely when asked their opinions of the state's second biggest problem.

Blanchard said it's the state's fiscal problems. In order to alleviate them, he recommends an independent financial audit, returning to sound accounting principles and developing a four-year financial stability budget plan.

Kammer targets the state's education system as the number two problem and wants its funding to be restored as a top priority for state spending.

Plawecki wants to stop continual tax increases, while Safran and Ferency want to combat crime. Safran also said he's committed to cutting real estate taxes by 25 percent.

WHAT INCENTIVES should the state offer businesses?

Fitzgerald, Pierce, Kammer and Plawecki came up with the same answer: Michigan must reform its compensation laws to make it competitive with other states.

Ferency would like to base business taxes on profits, not gross receipts, and Safran would like to repeal the single business tax entirely.

Blanchard went into detail, saying he wants to create an investment bank to attract leverage for private investors, review state business regulations and design a program to provide increased ventures for capital formation.

NO ANSWERS were alike when it came to changes candidates would make in the Michigan tax system.

Blanchard favors expanding the homestead property tax exemption and lowering the percentage of income threshold; increasing the small business exemption of the single business tax; and providing credits or rebates to small businesses for unfair unemployment compensation penalties.

Ferency wants to provide property tax exemption to homeowners equal to the average price of a home; raise the sales tax but give income tax credits; and change to a graduated-rate income tax.

Fitzgerald wants to reduce property taxes by placing a ceiling on the annual changes in home assessments; reducing school millages by 25 percent, excusing senior citizens from paying school taxes; and increasing the sales tax by one percent.

Kammer supports reducing property taxes, and Pierce favors basing business taxation on ability to pay.

Plawecki said he would again oppose state income tax increases.

Safran said he would cut real estate taxes.

CANDIDATES APPEARED to agree on the greatest threats to the state's natural resources.

Blanchard, Ferency, Kammer and Plawecki said that toxic wastes are the greatest threat to Michigan. Blanchard said new management is needed in the state Department of Natural Resources.

Contamination and preservation of the Great Lakes ranked high on the candidates' lists, with Blanchard, Ferency and Pierce targeting the issue.

SEMTA installing equipment for deaf in its vehicles

A teletype device for the deaf (TDD) will aid hearing-impaired and deaf people in communicating directly with the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority.

TDD, a telecommunications device designed for hearing-impaired individuals to communicate visually, has been installed in the SEMTA Customer Information Center and is ready for use by individuals who have compatible units. TDD equipment is available through Michigan Bell. It uses a standard telephone and a small portable terminal to transmit and receive information.

The TDD unit features a typewriter-like keyboard for entering information, a video-display screen to observe information which has been entered, and a teletype unit which provides a permanent record on paper of everything that is typed into the unit as well as the responses.

paired," said Gary Krause, SEMTA general manager.

All SEMTA large bus, small bus connector and commuter rail schedule information is available through the new SEMTA TDD service. Hearing impaired passengers can also schedule advance reservations for curb-to-curb connector service in the tri-county area with the TDD.

SEMTA recommends that people use the TDD service from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

CONGRESSMAN CARL PURSELL

LEADERSHIP FOR WESTERN WAYNE COUNTY

Congressional district boundaries have been redrawn. But Plymouth, Northville, and most of Livonia remain in the 2nd District, represented by Congressman Carl Pursell.

For the past six years, Carl has provided strong representation in Congress, and excellent service to people here in Western Wayne County.

Carl's top priorities are creating business and job opportunities, and helping to lower interest rates.

He has supported programs to reduce taxes and control the growth of government. He has sought to balance the federal budget in a way that is fair to Michigan and the Midwest.

Carl is an effective leader on the influential House Appropriations Committee. His participation is often sought in top-level policy meetings at the White House and in Congress.

Yet Carl is one Congressman who remembers he works for the people here at home. Just as he promised, Carl has maintained his home and family in Plymouth, not Washington, D.C. He has never lost touch with the people of his home area. He never will.

Magic House

St. Louis has a winner for kids, proving fun can be educational

That noise you hear as you enter the Magic House is the sound of shadows being imprinted on the wall upstairs. There is only the sound of silence from the Seeing Room; it takes total concentration to tie a shoelace upside down.

If you brought a youngster of your own, don't make the mistake of saying aloud that "education can be fun." The designers of this hands-on museum in Kirkwood, a northern suburb of St. Louis, prefer to say that "fun can be educational," or even better, not to say anything at all.

Let the Me Room say it for you. Or put your hand on the electro-static generator and watch your hair stand on end.

The Magic House is a three-story clapboard house at 516 S. Kirkwood Road, once the central office building of the Kirkwood School District and now "a participatory museum for kids from 5 to 105." It is an ideal vacation stop for a parent traveling alone with a child.

It was founded in 1979 because St. Louis housewives Jody Newman and Barbie Freund had the creative energy to design it and the skill to raise $350,000 in private funds to establish it as a non-profit enterprise. They rented the old house, culled ideas from museums across North America and added a few of their own.

The museum has been so successful that it is now totally self-supporting. This year they plan to buy the house.

Many new experiences require an orientation. The Magic House requires disorientation. It begins in The Maze, which has a mirrored ceiling to help you find your way through twisting corridors into the first of 50 hands-on exhibits.

HERE YOU WILL find kids of all ages piling huge foam blocks one upon the other with unwieldy mechanical pincers and others sitting on oak slabs while hoisting their own weight into the air by pulley ropes. Here too you will find the first of many "Did You Know..." signs, all of them researched and contributed by school children.

"Did You Know that a rat can go longer without water than a camel can?"

The Magic House is a celebration of the senses, what you learn from the senses and ways in which the senses can deceive you, so it is not surprising that the second floor exhibits begin with a table for tapping out Morse code, and a wall of telephones where you hear your own voice speaking back to you an eighth of a second after you have spoken.

What you also hear is a riot of jumping feet from the room next door, accompanied by a buzzer and shrieks of laughter. It's dark in the Shadow Room, so you cannot see the light-sensitive wall, just the children lined up expectantly against it.

"Stand close to the wall," a voice commands. "Jump when the buzzer sounds." The buzzer sounds. They jump in a flash of light, leaving dark photographic shadows of their jumping figures on the wall.

"Did you know that a cockroach can live several weeks with its head cut off?"

The teenagers in the Me Room are more interested in knowing their brake reaction time, their heartbeat rate and whether their mothers can pass the computerized biology test.

So far, it has just been fun. You know that it is more than fun when you push through a hanging wall of ropes into total darkness at the Touch Tunnel. This is the newest and most popular exhibit in the house, a sensory experience in total darkness.

CRAWL UP THE ramp. Feel the prickly surface under your feet. Whisper, don't shout, as you cross the rickety bridge. "I like the squishy part best." Shhh. Small children sometimes back out, but most of them go through again and again, discovering a dark silent world they have never experienced before.

"Did you know that you spend five minutes of every hour with your eyes closed due to blinking?"

Some of them are still blinking away the darkness when they climb up to the Seeing Room, where colors spin and optical illusions rule the world. Two boys try to tie a shoelace that appears upside down in a magic box.

"Aw man, I tangled it again."
"I can't tell my hand from your hand."

25 Christmas Lane

For our first county exec, Ed McNamara is ideal

WHETHER SAID "ours is a government of laws, not of men" didn't know much about government. The best constitution, charter, laws and ordinances are no good unless leaders of wisdom and character administer them.

And so the job of reforming Wayne County's deficit-ridden, crony-laden, hydra-headed bureaucracy was only half accomplished when voters adopted Michigan's first county home-rule charter last year. The rest of the job is up to the person who will be elected county executive this year.

Of the candidates, Livonia Mayor EDWARD H. McNAMARA stands out. We urge voters in the Aug. 10 Democratic primary to nominate him and all voters on Nov. 2 to elect him.

A COUNTY EXECUTIVE has to draft a budget and make department heads live within it. In 11 years as mayor of one of Michigan's five largest cities, McNamara has done just that — giving service and making capital improvements, methodically, progressively.

A county executive could be carved up by other elected officials jealous of their domains. McNamara used his veto power less in 11 years than his predecessor as mayor did in one. The McNamara style is to seek consensus, avoid confrontations and get results. This attribute alone makes him the outstanding candidate in the crowded field.

A county executive must be able to command respect. McNamara has been tapped to lead virtually every organization he has ever been part of — a Dearborn Township school board, Livonia City Council, the city administration, the board of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, the Western Wayne Conference of Mayors and Supervisors, the Michigan Municipal League . . . and more.

McNAMARA HAS continued to grow while in office, shedding the "us vs. them" rhetoric of his earlier years, being able to patch up differences with Detroit officials.

At 55, he is offering to tackle one of the toughest, nastiest, most pioneering jobs in Michigan government. Ed McNamara is ready to be Wayne County executive.

With dismay, we note that polls, though sketchy, show Sheriff William Lucas the front runner in the Democratic primary.

If ever a group personified what is wrong with Wayne County government, it is Lucas and his henchmen. Lucas avoids audiences on county executive issues. His crew applied enormous political and group pressure on charter commissioners to prevent a streamlined charter. They have run up enormous overtime bills.

Amazingly, Lucas even boasts of his battles with the Board of Commissioners. The Lucas crew has run too often to court to settle political issues that should have been settled in committee rooms. They have lost, usually ingloriously, and at enormous cost to the county.

REPUBLICAN VOTERS will be too preoccupied with their races for governor and U.S. senator to cross over and help McNamara in the primary. And because of the gloomy chance that Lucas could be the Democratic nominee, Republicans, though a 30-40 percent minority, owe it to Wayne County to put forth their best candidate.

Their best clearly is ROBERT FITZPATRICK, economic development director of the county. Although we disapprove of his effort to run in both primaries, we can't let one campaign tactic overshadow his abilities for the county executive job.

Whatever party label he may wear, FitzPatrick is a problem solver, not an ideologue. As a county commissioner, he used his political savvy to engineer a pay compromise with the old "Zak pack."

As county board chairman, he presided over balanced budgets and attempts to get accountability from the regional parks board. As a thinker, FitzPatrick had the vision to be among the earliest advocates of a county executive.

In his current job, he has found new uses for the old Child Development Center in Northville Township and the historic old County Building.

Ours is a government of both laws and men. And the ideal person to implement the Wayne County charter as county executive is Ed McNamara.

'Clean it up, Ed!'

Best advice: Jog defensively, away from traffic

JOG DEFENSIVELY. That's the advice veteran joggers give their comrades. It's difficult to pin down how many times joggers are victims of serious accidents or crimes, but they seem to be increasing.

Last week Ed Kleinsmith, principal of Fiegel Elementary School in the Plymouth-Canton district, was struck by a car while running early in the morning. (Kleinsmith was reported to be in stable condition this week.) Two Livonia women were attacked recently in separate incidents while they were running.

Accidents involving joggers are on the increase, said Bruce Madsen of the Oakland County Traffic Improvement Association. But by how much is impossible to determine.

Madsen has been unsuccessful in getting the National Safety Council to break down its reports to indicate how many accidents involve joggers. Current procedure requires reporting only that an accident involved a pedestrian. That pedestrian could be crossing a street, standing on a sidewalk or jogging. "As America continues on its health kick, we can only expect more jogger-automobile incidents," Madsen said.

I CHECKED WITH a few joggers to find out the problems. None had had a serious accident. But all had had their problems with dogs, careless drivers and even a thrown bottle.

The advice was what you would expect. That is, run facing traffic; when running at night or dusk, wear light colors, and run with someone.

But all advised joggers to run defensively — that

Steve Barnaby

Let's face it. In competitive sports, only one thing counts — winning. To be champion in any sport is to defeat all your competitors — not just some of them.

Separate but equal just doesn't cut it. But women are hampered from the beginning. They are denied the opportunities to train, physically and mentally, as hard as men. It's a social restraint, one with which most people in our country have tacitly agreed.

Recalling my early days as a chess enthusiast, I remember well being taught that if I ever wanted to improve I should seek out competitors who were better than me.

Admittedly, that can be tough. You lose a lot, but you also learn even more.

Think about it. When a woman enters a marathon race, she knows she doesn't have to beat everyone to win. On the other hand, the male competitors who are the top contenders start out at the head of the pack — and stay there.

They realize that if just one person crosses the finish line before they do, the accolades go elsewhere.

CERTAINLY IT WILL take years to condition minds and bodies, let alone attitudes. But it starts right here in Middle America, where all attitudes are formed and transformed.

We need some brave parents, a gutsy coach even, to stand up and be counted.

Then someday a proud father will fly to Boston and see his daughter cross the finish line first — before everyone else. And maybe another proud father will be able to go to Tiger Stadium to see his daughter pitch a shutout against the New York Yankees.

is, assume the motorist will do something wrong.

As marathoner David Underdown Jr. of Birmingham explained, "Joggers are a minority out there on the streets. You have to be defensive. Most motorists are considerate and will move if they see a jogger. But some have a blind spot when it comes to joggers on the road. They just don't see us."

For Underdown, that means always keeping his eyes open for cars going in either direction. If he hears a car speeding down the street, he'll run into a yard or onto a sidewalk.

John Street, a Troy insurance executive, wears reflective ankle tape and a yellow hat when he runs.

"I make it a point to watch out for any cars," he said. "So far, I've been successful. My only problem has been that I was once attacked by a swan at Quarton Lake."

NON-JOGGERS POINT out that running safety is a two-way street. Aggressive joggers can run out in a roadway when there is room on the shoulder of the road. On narrow roads, they can endanger the safety of motorists when they don't leave enough for traffic to pass in both directions.

So what's my solution to the dilemma? A few years ago, I was jogging on a city street during the winter. I slipped on a piece of ice and fell in front of an on-coming car. The driver slammed on his brakes in time or I wouldn't be around today.

I now confine my jogging to tracks and designated trails — far from traffic. That, to me, is the only satisfactory resolution of the question.

But if you drive down streets in suburban subdivisions, you realize that the problem has not been resolved. Especially in the early morning and early evening hours, runners and automobiles are blended together.

Until someone smarter than I am can come up with a solution, joggers will have to continue to run defensively. It's rough out there on those city streets.

Too bad we can't bottle the oratory

THE BATTLE OF the ballots now going on around the nation always has been a fascinating activity.

Each day, the public prints are filled with pictures and promises from the candidates, and The Stroller can't help but wonder how many folks take the promises seriously.

And as he drives along the highways, the intersections are filled with signs of all shapes and sizes, supposedly to remind voters that candidates are running.

Again it is a question of how many drivers pay attention to them, other than to cuss them for blocking their vision at intersections.

At the same time, our mailboxes are filled with all sorts of pamphlets, cards and applications for absentee ballots — all intended to make an impression on the resident and obtain his or her vote.

In many cases, there is a bit of mud-slinging, with the result that no matter who gets the largest number of votes, he or she will take office with a dirty face.

IT WAS A lot different in the old days when there were few signs and no cluttered mailboxes. Most battles were fought in mass meetings in the town square.

Here the candidates came face to face, and their verbal battles were something to behold — especially during the big rallies on the eve of the election.

One of The Stroller's fondest recollections was a mass meeting in the town square back in the Pennsylvania Dutch country some years ago.

The county treasurer was an old-time farmer named Harry Gangeware, and he was seeking reelection. He had held office for more than a decade

but now was being challenged by one of the younger set.

One this final night, he asked to speak last. His wish was granted. And when he strode to the rostrum, there was fire in his eyes. It was a tense moment for him. He went on, reciting his record and all he had done for the county. Then he clenched his first, raised his arm and screamed:

"There is no substitute for experience — not even honesty!"

Next day he was defeated at the polls.

THE VOTERS, you see, pay little attention to these wild orations at election time, and the speeches become little more than hot air.

One of the finest examples within The Stroller's memory came during the days when there was a move to incorporate Livonia Township into a city.

Feeling was intense on both sides. So one night the plan was to have the speakers discuss a single phase of the proposed government, and this time taxation was chosen as the subject.

Old Newburg Hall was crowded to the doors, and each of the four speakers explained the various taxes that the charter would offer.

At the conclusion, to avoid a lot of yelling and screaming for attention, it was decided that only written questions would be answered.

Cards were passed around the hall. There was great silence as the listeners wrote out their questions. You can imagine the surprise when the first card was read:

"If we become a city, what do you intend to do about stray dogs?"

You see, all the oratory about taxes was nothing more than hot air in the minds of the voters.

Fascinating? To be sure. Too bad we can't bottle some of it to comfort us on cold nights next winter.

Sports arena is the place to set trend

What this country needs is for a woman to win the Boston Marathon.

Now, I'm talking about really winning — finishing the race before all other entrants. Forget all this hogwash about beating all the rest of the women. That just won't do any longer.

What this country also needs is another Branch Rickey.

You remember him. He's the guy who had the guts to hire Jackie Robinson to be the first black player in the previously all-white professional baseball leagues.

Those were the days when many people actually believed that blacks were unable to compete on the same level with whites. We still were to face, and finally defeat, the bugaboo that blacks were unable to be pitchers and quarterbacks.

Today, many of us shake our heads in disbelief and disgust at those primitive attitudes. We paint ourselves as a pretty sophisticated brood when it comes to sports.

As inconsequential as professional sports are in the big picture, they do have a tremendous impact on how we view ourselves and others. The Rickey-Robinson combination was a giant step forward in civil rights for blacks.

Robinson showed that a black man could outplay white competitors both physically and mentally.

And as he became a national hero, America changed its mind about blacks.

BUT WHEN IT COMES to women in sports, many of us, females included, are saddled with the same prejudices that previous generations had toward black athletes.

"Women compete with men? Ridiculous," say the skeptics.

Shadows produce fine photo topics, indoors or out

On the next sunny day, direct your photographic vision to the many shadows that are formed by an early-morning or late-afternoon sun.

Shadows can be so pronounced that they themselves are the main subject in your viewfinder and reward you with many exciting photographs.

Where can you look for shadows? To begin with, people. Shadows cast by people can be light and playful such as a child playing on a sunlit sidewalk, or ominous and threatening such as a figure looming in a foreboding doorway.

People's shadows are anonymous and, when captured on film, can lend a feeling of mystery to your shot. Try using your imagination, too, by shooting some self-portraits using only your shadow.

ANOTHER AREA to look for shadow photographs is in nature. Early-morning or late-afternoon sunlight will cause large, bold shadows on tree trunks or the delicate shadow patterns of a flower bed.

Architectural subjects have shadow possibilities. Sunlight streaming in through an open beamed ceiling will produce an exciting pattern on the floor.

Or light whispering through a slatted fence or paned window will give you dramatic shadow designs to shoot.

Look closely at things for intimate shadow detail such as a sandy beach, a textured log, a bed of leaves. Make sure the time of day is right in order to maximize the shadow detail.

EVEN MAKE your own shadows indoors. With a photoflood lamp and props such as vase, figurine, or a household utensil, you can photograph your own shadow creations.

Shadow pictures are most effective when the shadow is contrasted against a light background. If you underexpose your shot slightly (about 1/2 stop), you'll help to deepen the shadows.

Further, for black and white shooters, if you overdevelop the negatives a little you'll increase the shadow-to-background contrast, giving you greater impact in your picture.

Shadows will add a new dimension to your photography. And who knows better how to do it than you? The Shadow knows. Heh-heh-heh.

Monte Nagler waited for the sun to get in the exact position to capture the effect he wanted.

Poll shows many voters undecided

Democrat James Blanchard and Republican James Brickley are leading their respective contests for nomination for governor, and Republican Philip Ruppe is ahead in the Republican U.S. Senate race, according to voter opinion polls prepared by the Farmington Hills survey firm of Nordhaus Research, Inc.

While each of the leaders is 9-10 percent ahead of his closest challenger, none of the contests are wrapped up, according to Jack Casey, political analyst for WDIV-TV and WJR radio.

Casey, who supervised the polls prepared for the stations, said there are a surprising number of undecided voters: 55.3 percent in the race for Republican U.S. Senator nomination, 44 percent in the race for Democratic governor nomination, and 33 percent for the Republican governor nomination.

VOTERS IN the Aug. 10 primary election will choose the nominees for governor and senator as well as a number of state and county offices.

THE SURVEY firm questioned 804 likely voters in researching the governor races, Casey said.

The results showed that in the Democratic contest, Blanchard is ahead with 23 percent. He is followed by the party's 1978 gubernatorial candidate, attorney William Fitzgerald, with 13 percent. The other Democratic candidates and totals: Ingham County Commissioner Zolton Ferency, 10 percent; state Sen. David Plawecki, 4 percent; state Sen. Kerry Kammer, 3 percent; state Sen. Edward Pierce, 3 percent; and John Safran, 0.

In the Republican race, Brickley had 29 percent, followed by Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, 20 percent; insurance executive Richard Headlee, 12 percent; and state Sen. John Welborn, 6 percent.

A former U.S. Representative, Ruppe leads the four-man field vying for the Republican U.S. Senate nomination with 21.1 percent of the vote. He is followed by businessman Deane Baker, 10.1 percent; former U.S. Rep. Robert Huber, 7.7 percent; and former state Sen. William Ballenger, 5.3 percent.

"AS IN the other statewide primary races covered by the survey, the undecided voters could change the lineup because of their huge numbers," said Casey.

Ellie Graham

THE MCALLISTER Clan gathered Sunday for what was billed as their first annual family reunion. Pam and David Cook hosted the gathering at their home on Auburn Street in Plymouth.

They cooked the chicken and the sweet corn. The feast achieved banquet proportions with all the extras supplied by the rest of the family.

These were the family of William and Eva McAllister who had six sons. William is deceased but Eva, at 94, was there with her sons, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She excited in toto Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar" at the picnic.

Four of the sons were there — Bill, Elton, Jack and Ray. Bruce, who lives in Florida, and Jim, who lives in Missouri, couldn't make it. The arrival of Lori Hutchinson and her 6-month-old daughter, Kristin, was a big surprise. Lori and her husband, Matthew, moved to Dallas, Texas, in January, and she hadn't been expected for the reunion.

All in all, 45 members of the family were present. Friends of the family dropped in later in the day.

SARAH AND JOHN Haas spent six weeks in New Zealand. (If the type has turned bright green, at this point, it's because of envy — mine.)

They were part of a group of 25 couples who flew to Los Angeles and then to Auckland, N.Z. Awaiting them were 25 new mini mobile homes and a New Zealand couple who would act as their guides.

It was a people-to-people visit. Their guides would tell them what what to look for on the day's journey — scenic wonders and even a special meat market along the route. Rotary clubs invited them to dinners. Lions Clubs invited them to teas. Sarah said the teas actually were full meals.

"We ate and ate and ate," she said. Evidently the New Zealanders are very generous with whipped cream and butter.

While on the North Island, they visited Roger Hall, who was the Canton Rotary Club's exchange student last year. The Halls live near Rotorua on a large dairy farm. Roger met them in town wearing a Plymouth Salem High School athletic jacket.

They spent three days with the Halls, who were "wonderful hosts."

THEY SAW the great dairy herds at the north of the North Island. At one point, there was a bright blue lake on one side of the road and a bright green lake on the other side.

There were beautiful gardens and hot springs and mud pots. New Zealand is one of three places in the world where these occur, according to Sarah.

They met friends of the Halls who were moving to Australia. They planned to go to the outback and search for black opals. John and Sarah said they would like to keep informed on how this fascinating venture turns out.

The caravanners learned that the New Zealanders raise about 19 main breeds of sheep. Each is raised for a special market. One will have wool that is in demand by the carpet makers of India and Japan. Another's wool is best for weaving fabrics. Another will have a superior flavor of meat, and so on.

Sarah said, "If we could buy lamb here that tasted like it did there, lamb would be much more popular in this country."

AFTER THREE WEEKS on the North Island, they spent three weeks touring the South Island.

Sarah said the country was ever-changing. They drove through country suffering from such drought that they were shipping the livestock to fresh pasture land.

From the drought area they went to fiord land where there is 300 inches of rain each year. One day they had 19 inches of rain in a 24-hour period.

Waterfalls appeared on all the mountainsides. Bridges were washed out, and Bailey bridges, the type used in World War II, were set up. Mud slides blocked roadways. From her description, the New Zealanders handled a mud slide as easily as our road crews handle a snowdrift.

The Haases are veteran travelers, but they say this trip to New Zealand was the greatest.

Squaring off for battle at dress rehearsal are the Philistines . . .

. . . and the Israelites.

and the moral is ...

Vacation Bible schools traditionally are ecumenical. As usual, last week's summer session at First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth included Presbyterians, Methodists, Catholics and other neighborhood children.

There were about 60 in all, ranging in age from kindergartners to middle-schoolers. Joan Burger and Joann Oldham coordinated the week-long session that met from 9 a.m. to noon. They were assisted by senior-high helpers in crafts, music, kitchen and recreation. There also was a nursery for the children of the teachers.

On Friday evening the parents were invited to see the mini-musical, "David and the Giants," produced and directed by Judy Slade. All the children who attended the vacation Bible school were in the cast.

At the Friday-morning dress rehearsal, the teachers were marveling over the producer/director's patience.

"We call her St. Judith — she has the patience of a saint," one of them said.

ARRANGING TWO armies, the Philistines and the Israelites, on a small stage was a feat in itself.

The youngsters made their own costumes in crafts classes under the direction of teachers Barbara Smith and Kay Solomon.

Swords and shields were double-face corrugated paper covered with foil. The Philistines had a large P on their shields, and the Israelites had a large I.

The Israelites wore shiny helmets (foil over poster board), and the Philistines wore feathered helmets. Over-sized T-shirts — red for the Philistines and blue for the Israelites — completed the costumes.

The crafts teachers took the T-shirts home and dyed them. Original plans were to dye them in the church kitchen as a crafts project. Happily, they had second thoughts on the subject and did them at home.

THE KAVALHUNA brothers, Michael and David, had the lead roles of David and Goliath. David played Goliath and Michael was David.

To increase his height, Goliath had foil-covered paint cans taped to his tennis shoes. The paint cans made for difficult walking. It was even more difficult to fall down when he was slain by David's sling.

Scott Karam was King Saul, and Sara Lehnis and Julie Oldham were Israelites 1 and 2, with special speaking parts.

The nursery and kindergarten children opened the play with a song, "What Can You Do?" Second- and third-graders followed with a song and reappeared as the Fee-Fi-Foe-Fum Army.

The army sang, and each child carried a shield lettered with a modern-day "giant" that had to be confronted. Among them were war, hate, hunger, pollution and injustice.

The moral of the story came through strong and clear.

Goliath adjusts his paint-can risers as David watches.

They'll miss Annie Brown down at the station

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Anne Brown is leaving the Plymouth Police Department to start life over again at the age of 45.

Brown, and her 47-year-old husband, are pulling up roots in Canton Township and heading south for Bible college and new careers.

"It's a whole new beginning on life. It's something not everyone gets the chance to do," she says.

Starting as a Plymouth police dispatcher 20 years ago and currently working as the police chief's secretary, Brown's last day of work in Plymouth is Friday.

Her retirement marks the end of a long career manning the police desk — a job which requires "a cool head."

Among a long list of duties, the dispatcher takes incoming calls and complaints, monitors the police radio and directs officers to where they are needed.

"You just have to keep a cool head — no matter what it is, you have to keep your cool," says Brown.

IN 1962 she was hired as a part-timer, working for $1.40 an hour.

"I think about it now and I don't know how I paid the babysitter."

In 1963 she was taken on full time. About 1974 she became the dispatch supervisor.

"The thing I really remember is the National Bank of Detroit robbery," she recalls.

"Chief Bob Corrington was downtown when the alarm came in (the bank is in downtown Plymouth). I was working the desk. He was able to go right into the bank during the robbery."

Because of the police department's quick response, the robbers were caught and stood trial.

"I later had to testify in court — it's the only time I've been called to testify in 20 years of work here."

During her years of service, Brown has worked under five police chiefs and two acting chiefs, she says.

She prefers to stay behind the police desk, not on the road like the officers she works with.

"I never had the desire to become a police officer."

THE MOTHER OF two, and recent grandmother of two, Brown warned her sons about getting into trouble with the police.

"I use to tell my kids when they were growing up, 'If you ever get in trouble, make sure it isn't in Plymouth.'"

She proudly reports they never did get into trouble, yet she did get a call about one of them.

A Plymouth officer called her late one night to say he had her son with him.

"I just told him I didn't want to hear about it — I didn't even want to know," she says.

The officer then told her that it was only because of car trouble and he needed a ride.

Her two sons are now grown and have children of their own.

"It's going to be harder to leave the grandchildren than the job," she says of her impending move to Florida.

SHE DOESN'T have a job or house in Florida.

"It's really something. We've always owned our own home, but we don't have a home lined up yet."

Brown hopes to find a part-time job (preferably outside a police department) while her husband attends Lakeland Bible Conference, an Assembly of God school.

"I tell everyone I'm going for my Ph.D. — putting hubby through."

Her husband, a retired Western Electric supervisor, hopes to become a minister or evangelist. They aren't sure where they will live after schooling.

"I think Michigan will always be our home. I don't know where we'll end up — wherever the good Lord sends us and the opening comes," she says.

Replacing Brown will be Mike Richardson, a retired Navy recruiter.

"We will miss Annie Brown very much. She does so much I'm not even aware of," says Police Chief Carl Berry.

"Not to take anything away from Mike, but Annie is going to be a hard person to replace," says Berry.

Mike Richardson, who will replace Annie as dispatcher, gets some pointers.

Subdivisions celebrate summer

Sunflower, the largest subdivision in Canton, held its annual picnic last weekend with three days full of activities.

On Friday afternoon, the tennis matches began, and they continued on until Sunday afternoon. The teen girl competition champion was Julie Gustafson with Bonnie Miyasaki taking the women's first-place award.

There were many fierce matches in the men's and teen boy's classes. Winner in the younger age bracket was Todd Knickerbocker with Dave Mitchell the top man finalist.

Doubles matches were extremely competitive, and the winners were Gary Stanley and Bonnie Miyasaki. Mary Jane Mulaski was the coordinator of the tennis games, and she did a fine job keeping the homeowners on their toes.

Vic Gustafson was in charge of the five- and one-mile runs which were early-morning activities on the main day of the picnic. The overall winner in the five-mile run was in teen class with Scott Hand doing each mile in a little over five minutes.

Fastest runner in the 14-and-under group and finishing close to the winner was Mike Marshall.

There were three age classes over 20, and the winners in those categories were Carl Behnke,

Canton chatter
Kathy Freece

Mike Anderson and Scott Yamacaki with honorable mention going to Betty Cespino, the only woman runner.

Many residents came out for the one-mile run with the winner, Tom Majeski, coming from the 14-and-under class. Other age division winners were Hemonshu Bhatt, Judy Daksiewicz and Jim O'Patry.

The lifeguard challenge pitted Colony Swim Club and the subdivision clubhouse staff. There were seven players on each side of the net, and after a few spiked balls and a lot of grass-stained clothes the Sunflower staff was triumphant.

There is no such thing as a picnic without good food. Linda and Carl Raushkolb, Cathy and Chico Rodriguez with Lynett and John Kidd cooked and served 900 hot dogs and 300 ears of delicious corn. They had help from the people they could recruit to give them a break from the hot coals.

The adult pool party put the finishing touches to the wonderful day with everyone relaxing with their neighbors while munching on hors d'oeuvres and sipping on their favorite beverages.

WESTBROOKE subdivision is only one-tenth as large as Sunflower, but the turnout for the block party was just about 100 percent.

The early morning T-ball game with the children was the start of a full day. Joe Hellmers coached his team to bring in the winning run in a 7-6 win.

The teen girl and women's combination game proved to everyone Carol Luelleman was the best coach. She plays for Mel's Auto Clinic in the Canton Women's Softball League.

The teen boys and men's game finished early so they went on to play a second game. Tom Luelleman and Dave Luik were the winning coaches.

The children's bike parade was the most colorful part of the afternoon. A few bikes had a parent's touch to them, but overall the children did put their imaginations to work and then pedaled their way around the subdivision. Billy Flack and Lynn Koch were the first-prize winners for this contest.

The games kept everyone on their feet. These included a team soccer-ball-between-your-legs contest, four water-balloon tosses, a potato-on-the-shoe walk, and the funny toothpick-and-Lifesaver passing contest.

The troops relaxed for awhile until the dinner was delivered by C & W Chicken of Canton. The crowd helped themselves to delicious pieces of chicken, steak fries, french fries, crispy cole slaw and many varieties of desserts provided by the attending families.

The early-evening hours started off with a scavenger hunt. The children went scrambling for incidental household items such as a thumbtack, a plastic spoon and a day-old newspaper. The traditional cracker-eating-and-whistling contest, and child-with-adult musical-chairs contest ended the games for the day.

The adult party formed in the street after dark with a circle of chairs around a blazing fire. It was a wonderful day for the children and parents alike.

AUGUST IS crime-prevention month in Canton.

All residents are asked to keep front and back porch lights on for the entire month, and all neighbors are asked to keep an eye on one another's property.

At the end of the month statistics will be published on the effect well-lit homes have in deterring crime.

Today is the first day of the rest of your life.

Give blood, so it can be the first day of somebody else's, too.

New Gourmet Seafood Specialties At J. Ross Browne's

Three new house specialties featuring succulent shrimp are being debuted by the creative chefs at the four J. Ross Browne's seafood restaurants located in the Detroit area.

Their new Shrimp and Scallops Madeira entree has a savory Spanish flair. It features sauteed shrimp and scallops topped with J. Ross Browne's own Madeira sauce—a delicious blending of mushrooms, shallots and fresh tomatoes simmered in sweet Madeira wine, brandy, herbs and Espagnol sauce.

Spirits flavor the new Shrimp-Crowned Halibut dinner as well. Delicate white halibut is lightly sauteed and then topped with baby shrimp, mushrooms and shallots that have been sauteed in brandy butter.

The third entree being premiered is, especially for shrimp lovers—Shrimp a la Creme. They can enjoy a generous portion of shrimp sauteed with shallots and mushrooms and covered in a special champagne sauce.

J. Ross Browne's popular house specialty, Gourmet Stuffed Shrimp, is also a tempting offering, with five giant shrimp filled with a crabmeat and sauteed mushroom stuffing. These are covered with Monterey Jack cheese and baked so that they arrive at your table an appetizing bubbly brown.

The restaurants' perennially favorite gourmet delight, The San Franciscan, still tops the menu. It is a pure white fillet of mild seabass coated with sesame seeds and breadcrumbs, sauteed to a delicate brown and served flambéed with banana, pineapple and a hint of dark Puerto Rican rum.

J. Ross Browne's restaurants are located in Bloomfield Hills, Southfield, Okemos and Warren. For reservations or information, call the location nearest you.

tenderness. All are available in the Light Appetite Cut, the Full Cut, or for those who are really hungry for a big, thick, juicy steak, the House Cut.

Included among this impressive array of superb steaks are a Delmonico, the tasty rib-eye which is the favorite choice for robust beef flavor; a Top Sirloin, selected especially for those who enjoy fine beef; a Marinated Top Sirloin, marinated in a flavorful blend of ingredients; the top-of-the-line gourmet prize, Filet Mignon; and the traditional steak lovers favorite, New York Strip Steak.

Beef enthusiasts also will not want to overlook the magnificent Prime Rib served at Mountain Jacks. It is so carefully selected and prepared that the restaurants stake their reputation on every slice served. The Prime Rib is available in a petite, standard or full cut.

Dinners are served with all the homemade soup of the day you wish, a salad you create from an array of fresh ingredients, fresh, hot bread with butter and your choice of long grain and wild rice, home fries or baked potato.

In the greater Detroit area, Mountain Jacks restaurants are located in Troy, Warren, Ann Arbor, Farmington Hills, Lansing and Dearborn Heights. Call the restaurant nearest you for further information or reservations.

Food And Fun Served At Carlos Murphy's

SOUTHFIELD... Carlos Murphy's Irish-Mexican Cafe, 29244 Northwestern Highway, is a successful combination of Blarney and Bull.

The Murphy's concept is Good Food, Good Drinks and Good Times—all of which this zany restaurant/drinking establishment provides. The food and drinks represent imagination and creativity as only an Irish-Mexican leprechaun could concoct. A lively bar caters to hundreds of happy revelers every night of the week.

A blending of traditional Irish fare, flavorful Mexican dishes and good old American favorites makes for an exciting and diverse menu. Likewise with the libations, which include such specialties as the Blarney Stoned, Green-Go, Irish Laced, Baja Sunshine, Acapulco Gold-rush and Siesta Sangria. "Don't drink the water, and we won't water your drinks" is the Carlos Murphy motto.

The restaurant, decorated with artifacts of every size and description, incorporates different levels and extensive open space to create an atmosphere where every guest can participate in the fun. As a result, Carlos Murphy's has become known as the Southfield place to mix and mingle.

In addition to a selection of Mexican, Irish and Hickory smoked dinner items, an extensive appetizer menu features both traditional American favorites and a sampling of Mexican offerings.

Carlos Murphy's is open daily from 11:00 a.m. until 2:00 a.m. Sunday brunch is served from 11:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.

Rev. Carol Allen to join seminary faculty

By Margaret Miller
staff writer

The Rev. Carol Allen, who was chaplain and clinical social worker before becoming associate pastor of Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church of Livonia, is making another career move into the academic world.

Allen will leave Rosedale Gardens at the end of this month to join the faculty of McCormick Theological School of Chicago.

She was selected from 86 applicants to be director of the seminary's field based program and assistant professor of ministry. In her new post, she will be in charge of the off-campus assignments given seminarians in local parishes, hospitals, prisons and social service agencies.

"I'm excited about the opportunity," said Allen, who has been at Rosedale Gardens four years, first as an interim parish associate and since Feb. 15, 1981, as associate pastor working with the Rev. Gerald Cobleigh, senior pastor.

"I've known since I got out of social work school that some day I wanted to use the skills I acquired there in an academic position."

"I did not expect the opportunity to come so soon, but decided I had better grab it."

"SHE CAME TO Rosedale at a period when she was most needed," said the Rev. Jerry Cobleigh, senior pastor. "She did a marvelous job. The church was in a difficult time and she was just the right person to soothe out some of the problems. She offered the kind of love that was really necessary at that point. She is a wonderful minister."

He added that Allen, the first woman minister at the church, is answering a call to a job for which she is well trained.

"She had a dream of doing something like this," he said.

Allen pointed out she learned about the vacancy at McCormick, one of the United Presbyterian denomination's seminaries, through a friend and sent in an application.

"They had 86 applicants and interviewed six," she added, "then narrowed it to two and made the selection."

She believes the variety of work experiences she has had was a major factor in her selection.

"Also," she added, "the students in field assignments are candidates for master of divinity degrees, and right now half of them are women. There are a lot of older students attending seminary after working in some other field and I think the fact that I am past 40 may have worked in my favor."

The field service programs she will supervise are sometimes summer assignments in ministry-related fields such as hospital or prison chaplaincy, specialized ministry or assistant in a parish.

"Or the student may work on them on a part-time basis during the school year," Allen said. "My work also will include dealing with those who take a full year off for an internship. That is usually in a parish setting."

ALLEN IS a native of Lansing and decided to aim for the ministry when she was a teen-ager and met a Presbyterian minister's wife who had attended seminary.

She earned a bachelor's degree at Michigan State University and a master's in divinity from Colgate-Rochester Seminary.

After two years on the staff of a church in Rochester, she went to Tulane University for a master's degree in social work.

She then worked for a year in a mental health clinic at Hickory Grove, N.C., and later in the children's psychiatric hospital of the University of Michigan medical center before moving to Livonia and Rosedale Gardens.

In her funeral sermon at Rosedale church, Allen encouraged her listeners to devote themselves to excellence. She also advised them "to learn to live with diversity, both national and international. See it as an opportunity to grow."

She added: "I go with mixed feelings. I'll miss the companionship of the people here."

In an interview, she indicated that she believed a door had opened and led her to her new job.

"It was something I had in the back of my mind since I attended social work school," she said.

Vacation Bible schools continue

Children will learn about medieval times Monday through Thursday at the vacation church school at Newburg United Methodist Church, 36500 Ann Arbor Trail, Livonia. It will be one of several vacation schools for children planned in the area during the week starting Monday.

Each day the Newburg church will offer three basic kinds of activities, monastery, marketplace (crafts) and storytelling and games. The youngsters will do everything from baking bread and playing jacks to prayer and study. The aim of the program is to have the children experience the life of a monk. Hours are from 9:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Registration forms for the medieval marketplace will be available at the church Sunday.

"The Apostles and Their Relationship with Jesus" will be the theme of the Bible School Monday through Friday at First United Methodist Church of Plymouth, 45201 N. Territorial. The daily schedule will include worship, music, lessons, arts, crafts and recreation. The children will demonstrate what they have learned in class at a special service Sunday, Aug. 8. Register for the school by calling the church office at 453-5280.

PUPPETS, CRAFTS, story time, music and games will capture the attention of the children who attend the vacation Bible school at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, 39020 Five Mile, Livonia. Sessions will be held from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday. Eligible to attend are children 3 years of age through sixth grade.

The theme of the school is "God's People Together Through Christ." Registration will take place on the first day of class, or through a call to the church office at 464-0211.

Five back-yard Bible schools in area homes will be sponsored Monday through Thursday by Ward Presbyterian Church, Farmington and Five Mile, Livonia. The program will include Bible lessons, singing, games and refreshments. Workers have received more than 15 hours of training in preparation for the event. To enroll your child or learn where the back-yard schools will be held, call the church at 422-1150.

Participants will study the 10 Commandments during the vacation Bible school planned Monday through Friday at St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1343 Penniman, Plymouth. Not only will there be Bible stories and lessons each morning, but there will also be craft projects and songs. Classes will meet each day 9-11:45 a.m. A closing service will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

CHILDREN between 4 years of age and those in eighth grade are welcome to attend. Register them by bringing them to the church at 8:45 a.m. Monday. For more information, call the church at 453-3393.

Church of Christ in Livonia, 15431 Merriman, will hold its summer school Wednesday through Friday, 10 a.m. to noon for children 2 years old through those completing sixth grade.

"The Rainbow Connection — Living in God's Love" is the title of the vacation program at Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church in Livonia. Invited are 4-year-olds through those in sixth grade. The dates are Aug. 9-13; hours are 9:30 to noon. Call the church at 422-0494.

Stories, music, handicrafts and recreation, all relating to the theme, "Living in God's Love," will be included in the Bible school program Monday through Friday in Christus Victor Lutheran Church, 25535 Ford, Dearborn Heights. Hours are from 9 a.m. until noon. The registration fee of $3.25 per student can be paid Monday prior to class opening. Classes are divided into age or grade starting with 3- and 4-year-olds up to students completing sixth grade. For more information, call the church office at 278-8878.

● EPIPHANY LUTHERAN
Festivities will begin Sunday to celebrate the 25th anniversary of Epiphany Lutheran Church, 41390 Five Mile, Plymouth. In 1967 it was organized as a parish of the Michigan Synod, Lutheran Church of America.

Highlights of the day will be an outdoor worship service and an old-fashioned picnic with food, games and fun. Thursday outdoor worship service at 7:30 p.m. will continue through August. Sunday service is at 10:30 a.m.

● FAIRLANE ASSEMBLY
"The Greatest Play Ever Written," a dinner theater production based on the Book of Hosea, will be presented July 30 and 31 by members of the Fairlane Assembly. The event takes place in the First Baptist Church of Dearborn, 1865 Nowlin, Dearborn. For information and reservations, call Fairlane at 561-3300. The play deals with the situation after Hosea is told by God "to go and marry a prostitute." Dinner, featuring honey baked ham and a salad bar, will start at 7 p.m.

moral perspectives

It's tough to figure worth of human life

One family has already filed suit for $70 million in the death of their two daughters and three grandchildren in the recent air crash at New Orleans. There are reports that other suits will be filed, and the total indemnification sought will total billions of dollars.

Several days before that tragic air crash, lawyers for Brandel Farms of Michigan were arguing before a federal court that migrant workers are not employees but independent contractors, and thus exempt from employee coverage under the Social Security tax provisions. Independent contractor status would also exempt employers from meeting child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

What is the worth of human life? It is worth the millions of dollars that one family has calculated? Or are the hundreds of dollars Brandel Farms want to save on Social Security taxes and working conditions a more realistic estimate for worth?

TRYING TO CALCULATE dollar worth for human life is a disquieting experience. What are the criteria used for computations? Is it the potential never realized? The estimate of value already received? Is it based on the relationship of love or the productivity of an economic unit?

Many will agree with having the courts decide. The measured arguments of defense and plaintiff lawyers and the counseled wisdom of judge and/or jury are usually regarded as the most reliable source of judgment in this matter. The process of the judicial system is an additional promise of integrity.

Part of our uniqueness as a country is the moral quality we ascribe to legal decisions. There is a willingness to accept its judgment about our public life. Part of our present dilemma is our failure to ascribe human worth without the legal coercion. We are more familiar with equations of cost and profits. Whatever costs less and increases profit is more instructive to the value of human life than a general principle of morality.

WE HAVE BEEN fairly successful as a nation in harnessing the motive of self-interest to the common good. We know a great deal about shaping human values. But we have a long way to go. Preaching from America's pulpits regarding social responsibility and the high worth of human life is not as effective as lawsuits involving massive amounts of money. Money is still the single most important item in establishing our practices of life.

Defects abound in our commonly used process for redress. As long as the incentive for the common good is tracked along for a course measured by money, there will be abuses abundant. Making money or saving money will have to be given the regard that rises above dollars and cents.

Eckankar looks at dreams' role

Dreams and learning how they can be of help in everyday life will be the topic at the Eckankar talks and discussions to be held from 8-9 p.m. every Tuesday in August at Schoolcraft College's Liberal Arts building, room B-405. Dreams and daydreams will be discussed Aug. 3; prophecy and dreams, Aug. 17; self-help and improvement, Aug. 24; and dreams and everyday living, Aug. 31.

Eckankar's goal is "to foster self-realization and God-realization." To register for the August classes, contact Jean Rowe, 420-4682.

Motocross racers wheel and weave their way to victory circle

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Motocross riders from six states zoomed through the Canton Meadows course Sunday. J.G. Garonzk (1) of Fedway, Wash., out-duelled Troy Watson (10) of Jackson and Todd Gosney of Westland in the 14-year-old expert class (above), while Roger Moore (1) of Casa Grande, Ariz., and Jason Baird (15) of Swartz Creek took to the air in the seven-year-old expert class (right). Behind Moore and Baird is Billy Gibson (1057) of Webster, Texas, Adam Schneider (211) of Brownstown Township and Daniel Rose (43) of Canton.

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

The pedaling was over. The last hill had been climbed, and the final turn executed, and as the dust settled Sunday at Canton Meadows BMX race track, 23 champions received their laurels.

The race, one of several cosponsored by Canton's Easy Rider Bike Shop and Parks and Recreation department, drew 165 riders from all over Michigan and from Arizona, Washington, Florida, Texas and Ohio.

Part of the attraction was that the race was a double-pointer, meaning the winners got double the amount of points in their American Bicycle Association (ABA) district standings.

AMONG THE 23 winners, two were from Canton. Mark DeVergilio captured the top spot in the 14-year-old beginners class, and Kevin Beals finished first in the 11-year-old beginners division.

Livonia also had a pair of champions: Eric Maser (13-year-old novice) and Matt McCulloch (5-year-old novice).

There were several other Michigan winners, many in the expert class, the highest skill level. Expert division winners from Michigan were: Todd Gosney, West Bloomfield (15-year-old);

Scott Brookover, Milan (17 and over); Otis Escocoe, Utica (16); Solan Foster, Dearborn Heights (12); Rich O'Brien (11); Danny Larder, Jonesville (13); and Jason Baird, Swartz Creek (7).

NOVICE CLASS WINNERS from Michigan were Dave Kreinbring, Belleville (16); Teddy Cornett, Newport (15); Bill Reames, Taylor (14); Chris Dahl, Lincoln Park (12); Kareen Sigler, Inkster (11); Tony Ross, Allen Park (10); and Patrick Brazitis, Taylor (8).

Two other winners from Michigan were Jim Peregord of Taylor (12-year-old beginners) and Annie Walerius of Trenton (7-8 powderpuff). Out-of-staters claimed three firsts.

J.G. Garonzk of Fedway, Wash., took top honors in the 14-year-old expert division, Michael Thomas of Port Angeles, Wash., claimed the 9-year-old expert prize and Debbie Kalsow of Tempe, Ariz., was first in the 13-and-over powderpuff age group.

Several other races are scheduled at the Canton Meadows BMX track. The next is Aug. 8, with others slated for Aug. 22, Sept. 5 and the Race for Life on Sept. 6, from which all proceeds will be donated to the Leukemia Foundation.

Entries and other information is available at the Easy Rider Bike Shop, located at Ford and Sheldon. For more information, call 455-5730.

Oasis softballers whip Daly, stay in first-place tie

The Oasis Golf Center women's fast-pitch softball team remained tied for first place in the Livonia League with a 6-4 victory Friday night over Daly Restaurant at Ford Field.

The two teams battled through three scoreless innings before Oasis exploded for four runs.

Jody Humphries started the fourth-inning Oasis rally with a single to center and later moved to second on a single by Julie Stafford. Sherry Kiselica then singled to load the bases. Humphries scored when Kathy Morris walked, and Vickie Forest provided the key blow with a two-run single, her second straight hit. Morris came all around from home on the play on an overthrow from the outfield to make it 4-0.

Oasis, 5-1 in league play, scored another run in the fifth on a double by Humphries and single by Stafford.

Daly's quickly got back into it with four runs in the sixth. Singles by Sandy Gonda, Lisa Parsons, Lori Swanson and a walk to Linda Jimenez accounted for the four Daly runs.

OASIS, however, put it away with an insurance run in the bottom of the sixth when pitcher Jan Boyd singled and later scored on Sandy Taylor's triple.

struck out five, was the winning pitcher.

Oasis will return to action at 6:30 p.m. Friday at Ford Field. Coach Bob Boyd's team will face Kane's Trucking.

FINLAN INSURANCE 5-2
WYOMING WHIRLPOOL 3-1

Finlan Insurance continued its winning ways in the Michigan Women's Major Fastpitch Association by sweeping a double-header Saturday from Wyoming Whirlpool, 5-3 and 2-1, at Massey Field in Plymouth.

Plymouth leads the East Division with a 9-3 record.

In the opener, Finlan took a 1-0 lead in the first on consecutive singles by Terri Dixon, Gail Oljace, Allison Cole and Humphries.

Wyoming, however, tallied three runs in the next two innings to gain a 3-1 advantage.

Finlan regained the lead in the fifth with a four-run outburst. The key hit was Stafford's three-run double. It was enough to give Taylor the victory.

Kiselica reached base on singles, setting up the heroics of Joanne Pachiva, who tripled to give Finlan the win.

Taylor was also the winning pitcher in the nightcap.

An interesting scene it was, in the Academy Award-winning movie "Chariots of Fire".

Minor, but interesting nonetheless.

There was Harold Abrahams having tea with his Oxford schoolmasters. Later in the film, Abrahams would race to victory in the 100-meter dash, bringing glory to school and country.

But in this scene, he was being chastised — for misusing his amateur ranking.

And how did he misuse it? He had hired a coach to help him train. That, according to his schoolmasters, was not in keeping with his amateur status.

IN A WAY, that may have been the weakest part of an excellent film. After his talk, Abrahams stormed out of the room, where he ran into his mates. He learned he had been chosen to represent Great Britain in the 1924 Olympics.

Nothing was ever said about his amateur rating again. Apparently nothing ever came of the chat with his schoolmasters.

Which is more significant than one supposes. Because the state of the amateur athlete is ever-changing and rarely governed by one set of rules.

The Amateur Athletic Union, better known as the AAU, was formed in 1888 to help preserve the true meaning of amateur sports. Before the AAU was formed, unscrupulous promoters and athletes violated the rules freely.

Promoters gave winning athletes trophies, then later exchanged the trophies for money. Athletes changed their names and roamed from one sporting event to another. The AAU put an end to it. The new organization was so successful, the Olympics were patterned after it when they were revived in 1896.

BUT IN CASE you haven't noticed, this world of ours is circular, and our history has a tendency to follow that pattern — even amateur athletics.

At present, the AAU is almost extinct. Some sports, like weightlifting, rely on the AAU to represent it on an international level.

But it isn't nearly as powerful as it once was. That's because, as Clarence Johnson, former AAU national treasurer and a member of the U.S. Olympic committee, put it:

"The government came along and said each sport would have to have their own supervising body."

Times are changing, and so are attitudes about amateur athletics. People want to win, and when they can't win by the old rules, they change them, or find a way around them.

"TECHNICALLY, no," Johnson said about rule changes. "The rules are the same. But we're trying to loosen up on the controls."

The reasons are obvious: all other nations are subsidizing their athletes or, as Johnson said, "they find ways to get around (the rules)". America can't compete with nations who pay the way for their athletes.

That's why there's the National Sports Center in Colorado Springs. Athletes invited to attend the center train for free and retain all amateur status.

Payne captures heavyweight gold at sports festival

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The door opened a little wider for Craig Payne. Livonia's amateur heavyweight boxer won a gold medal Sunday at the Indianapolis Convention Center with a unanimous 5-0 decision over Chicago's Al Evans at the National Sports Festival.

The third round of that fight was shown on ABC television, the action described by Chris Schenkel. And even Howard Cosell made mention of Payne's performance on Monday Night Baseball.

The Olympic hopeful was also named team captain for U.S. boxers at the Sports Festival and will represent his country next month in the Marcos Cup in the Philippines.

Despite the laurels, Payne was "really disappointed" about not meeting Ty Biggs of Philadelphia, Pa., the World Cup and U.S. Amateur Boxing champ.

Biggs broke his hand Saturday for the second time in two years in his semifinal match against Lucious Kirkley of the U.S. Army. Biggs won a decision, but had to withdraw from the tournament and settle for the silver medal. The other semifinal on Sunday between Payne and Evans was subsequently for the gold.

It was only last April that Payne lost a controversial decision to Biggs in the U.S. Championships in Charlotte, N.C.

The two won't get a chance to meet again until the American Boxing Federation Tournament in November — that's if Biggs doesn't turn pro.

"BIGGS' hand may be too brittle," said Payne's coach Paul Soucy of the Livonia Boxing Club. "It may make him leary the next time he fights."

"There's talk of him going pro."

"Ty belongs to me," said Payne, who got into some verbal sparring with Biggs during Tuesday night's awards ceremony. "I hope not. Let me make him turn pro."

Boxing gold

According to the Livonia boxer, Biggs touched off the confrontation by saying Payne "owed me a check for the gold medal."

"We also came to words in the parking lot on the way back to the hotel," Payne continued. "I hope we get a chance to settle it. I told him it's going to be a war if we ever meet."

Payne, who defeated Evans in the semifinals of last spring's National Golden Gloves, got the best of some heavy inside slugging.

"It was a much tougher fight this time," admitted Payne. "Al Evans was stronger. I used my jab and right upper-cut with left hooks. That's what won the fight for me."

SOUICY SAID said Evans altered his strategy for the Sports Festival bout.

"Evans changed his style of fighting — he went inside," said the Livonia coach. "The first time around Craig moved and made him miss."

"Craig's getting tougher. He's learned a lot. He got the better of the fight inside. There was no doubt about the decision."

Souicy's only concern now about Payne is his weight.

"I'm not happy with it," he said. "He was 220 (pounds) and it should be 210."

"We're going to keep him busy with the international bouts."

"Soon as I get back home it will be taken care of," Payne vowed. "I'll be around 202 to 205."

McKay starts his climb to ABC presidency

On Sunday, Tom McKay, executive secretary of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association, will reach the high point of his career as a bowling official.

Shortly after the stroke of midnight, McKay will take office as the 10th vice president of the American Bowling Congress (ABC), starting up the ladder toward the presidency, a goal he will reach in 10 years.

McKAY BEGAN as an official in 1965 as an assistant to the late Frank Mitzel, secretary of the Detroit Bowling Association. McKay later ascended to the post as secretary and now will become the fourth official from Detroit to reach the peak in the ABC. Other local officials to hold the position in the pocket by W.W. Edgar were E.J. Ryan (1914-16), August Jankowsky (1935-36) and Mitzel (1955-56). McKay will be installed officially as a vice president at a dinner Aug. 28 at the Royalty House in Warren.

IN KEEPING WITH a longtime tradition, the new bowling season will be ushered in Monday, Aug. 23, with the Gavie Sweepstakes at Cherry Hill Lanes.

Gavie started this official opening 46 years ago, and each year sponsors the sweepstakes in a different section of the Detroit area. This marks the first time the tournament will be held in the western suburbs.

The following night, the All-Star Classic opens at Thunderbowl in Allen Park, and on Thursday the Bonanza Classic starts at Orchard Lanes.

The women usher in their season with the Major League bowling at Cherry Hill Sept. 1 and the Bowlerettes at Luxury Lanes Sept. 13.

SUE WIZUARD set a new high mark for the season at Wonderland Lanes when she posted an 852 series in the Scratch Trio League. Wizuard strung together games of 207, 212, 241 and 192. High single game of the evening went to Harry Fill, who rolled a 258 in an 826 series.

Dave Hamilton, the former prep star who has been on a scoring spree this summer, set the pace in the Trio League at Bel-Aire with an 889 series. Hamilton started with a 190, then added games of 226, 259 and 214. His average for the summer is 203.

Elks win Mack crown

The regular season is over and the Plymouth Salem Elks are champions of the Redford Adray Connie Mack League.

The Elks earned the title on the final day of the season without getting a hit or even trotting on the field.

Redford Union West Seven, the team battling the Elks for first place, lost to sixth-place Southfield-Lathrup Tuesday, 4-3 at Lathrup.

Salem had a bye on the final day and finished the season with a 15-5 record. Redford Union's loss dropped it to 14-5 and into second place.

The Canton Caesars finished out of the money, in third place with a 10-6 mark. Only the top two teams in the league qualify for the district tournament.

SALEM AND RU advance to the Connie Mack state playoffs, but at different sites. Salem plays in the Southfield district Thursday against an opponent and at a time not determined at press time.

Against Lathrup, RU starter and loser Gino Picano surrendered three runs in the first inning before buckling down. RU got one in the first on a single and a stolen base by Bob Macek and a single by Keith Manus.

Lathrup got another run in the third to open up a 4-1 advantage. RU rallied for two runs in the sixth on Don Taylor's double, but could forge no closer.

Redford Union goes to Flint Thursday, with a game against a Flint team at 9:30 a.m. Win or lose, the RU team then plays again at 1:30 p.m.

District winners advance to the state tournament Aug. 3-9 at Marshall. The national tournament is slated for Aug. 13-20 in Farmington, N.M.

SOFTBALL FOR MD

The time is upon us. Teams can sign up now for the fifth annual Canton Muscular Dystrophy Softball Tournament, scheduled for Aug. 5-8 at Griffin Park during the Canton Country Festival.

The two-game elimination tourney is open to 18 Class B or C men's teams with 500 or less records, and to 12 women's teams, regardless of record or class. Play will be in two divisions and trophies will be awarded to the top two teams in each. Cost is $85 per team, plus a $6 umpire's fee for each game.

The featured event will come on the last day of the tournament. A men's tournament all-star team will battle a team of current and former Red Wings including Dale McCourt, Jim Rutherford, Paul Woods, Willie Huber, Mark Kirton, Brad Smith and Billy Dea.

All tournament proceeds go to the MD foundation. For further information, call 981-5456.

COMMUNITY TENNIS

The Plymouth Parks and Recreation department is sponsoring the Plymouth Tennis Tournament, open to all Plymouth-Canton Community School district residents, Aug. 6-8 at the Canton High School tennis courts.

Play will be in seven divisions for both men and women. There will also be a mixed doubles bracket.

Entry fee is $3 and three new USLTA tennis balls per competitor. Application deadline is 5 p.m. Aug. 3. Entry forms are available at the Plymouth Parks and Recreation department, 525 Farmer. For more information, call 455-6620.

The Canton Festival Golf Tournament is slated for 11 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 8 at Fellows Creek Golf Course.

The tourney is a three-person scramble team format. All Canton golfers are invited to participate. Cost is $33 per team. Deadline for registration is Friday, Aug. 6.

For further information, contact the Canton Parks and Recreation department at 397-1000.

YOUTH HOCKEY

Any youths between 6 and 17 years of age interested in playing hockey this year, take note: registration for the Youth Hockey League is 6-9 p.m. Monday, Aug. 9 at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Registration fee is $40. You must bring birth certificates with you. Beginning skaters are welcome. For more information, call Carolyn Kocis at 459-6394.

CANTON RUN

The time has come. Put on the jogging shoes and shorts and start training, because the fourth annual Canton Country Festival 5 mile run is less than a month away.

The date is Aug. 7. The day is Saturday. The time is 9 a.m. The race starts at the Township Administration building (1150 Canton Center) and ends at Griffin Park. Competition is divided into six age groups in both men's and women's divisions.

Cost is $5 before Aug. 5 and $6 after. Register at the parks and recreation office in the administration building. For further information, call 397-1000 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

racquetball

Mike Yellen

Returns to keep it even

Distinctions between offensive and defensive positions — so familiar in other sports — tend to blur in racquetball. The game moves so fast that a player switches from one to the other from moment to moment.

Likewise a shot, primarily an offensive measure, can be defensive if the purpose is not to score a point but to elicit a weak return from the opponent in order to set up a point on the next shot.

This is the strategy most frequently used in service. Nonetheless, the server is in as offensive a position and the receiver in as defensive a position during service as they are likely to be at any other time in the game.

THE SERVER has two advantages: control of the center of the court from the position in the server's box and the opportunity to place the ball wherever and however he or she wants it, within the limits of personal ability.

The receiver, on the other hand, is — in most cases — in the center of the deep backcourt and the server will likely attack the weakest aspect of his or her game, the backhand.

For these reasons, the receiver's principal aim is to make a return which will not "set up" the server but instead move the server out of center court and get the receiver back on equal ground.

If the opportunity arises for the receiver to hit the kill, pinch or cross-court pass that gets the serve, so much the better. But that doesn't happen often.

THE SAFEST and surest way for the receiver to get back in the game is to hit a ceiling return.

A proper ceiling shot will hit the ceiling just short of the front wall seam, come off the front wall to the floor and bounce in such a high arc that the server will be forced to the back wall to recover it.

This is effective if hit into the middle of the court. But its effectiveness is doubled if hit into the corners on a down-the-wall or crosscourt ceiling shot.

A well-hit ceiling ball to a corner will leave the server with little else to do but try to pull out a ceiling shot of his own with little room to swing.

OF COURSE, a ceiling return should not be used exclusively. Part of good game strategy is unpredictability. But generally, a ceiling return is a good percentage shot any time the serve is above waist-high.

Other options include crosscourt or down-the-wall passes and kill shots. Save most of these for the low hard-hit serves. A poorly placed drive serve offers a particularly good kill opportunity. It will come low and fast like it should, but will fall farther into the middle of the court than the server intended.

It's strictly home run stuff. It's a plum that can be picked out of the air and sent to splat and die against the front wall.

HOWEVER, if you're served a drive that you can't quite set up for, a ceiling shot might still be in order. Generally, your frequency of shots should run ceiling, pass, and kill, in that order, with a few around-the-wall shots thrown in for good measure.

Most servers, like my Ektelon teammate, Dave Peck, will use their power serves on the first attempt. If it is short or long, they'll go for the safer second serve, like a Z-serve or high-arching ball that lands in the back corner.

Of course, nothing is totally predictable. Much depends on the abilities of the individuals playing, the stage of the game and whether the server is trying to be unpredictable.

ANOTHER THING to remember in returning a serve is to get off to a fast start. Don't wait for the ball to enter the backcourt before moving.

Get accustomed to the server's body movements on different serves and try to anticipate where the serve will go by the time he hits the ball. Move as soon as it is hit.

As it is served, note its speed and direction, and where it will hit the front wall. Adjust your movements accordingly and have your racquet up in the forehand or backhand position, ready for the return.

I won't tell you this is easy to do. It's a reflex rather than thinking response, although based on experience.

IT IS, HOWEVER, a necessary skill to develop. Not much time elapses from when the ball leaves the server's racquet until it reaches you. You'll need every fraction of a second to get the best return.

At least you won't be caught flat-footed. You'll have overcome inertia and you'll find you get pretty good at predicting where the ball is headed.

At the very least, you will become more aware of your opponent's individual strengths and weaknesses and characteristic body movements.

Entries balloon for O&E tourney

Hey, what's going on here?

Gary Whitener, the pro at Whispering Willows Golf Course, cosponsor of the Observer & Eccentric Golf Tournament, reports that registration is high for this year's event.

But that's for the men's tournament, scheduled Sept. 25 and 26. The women's tournament, set for Aug. 10, is getting a slower response.

So let's get going. Remember, ladies, the tournament is 18 holes and will be contested at Whispering Willows. All persons within the Observer & Eccentric coverage area are eligible (a list of areas included is on the coupon).

Final date for women's entries is Aug. 8. Entry fee is $15.

For the men, the tournament is 36 holes at Whispering Willows. Entry fee is $28. Closing date for men's tournament registration is Sept. 19.

Entry coupons are available in this newspaper. Other pertinent information regarding registration can be found on the coupon, or call Whispering Willows at 476-4493.

Hagen golfers sharp

Few youths turned out for the Fourth Annual Junior Hagen Golf Tournament at Livonia's Ixyl Wyld Golf Course Tuesday, but the lack of numbers didn't detract from the quality of competition.

The battle went down to the final stroke on the final hole in the men's Golden Masters division (16-18-year-olds) before a winner was declared. Livonia's Jeff Dixon emerged from the pack with a narrow one-stroke victory over Rob Peters and Don Williams, both of Livonia. Dixon shot a sparkling 73 on the par-71 course, with Peters and Williams each carding a 74.

Ken Johnston, another Livonian, wasn't far behind with a 76. All four golfers qualified for the regional Hagen tournament Monday at Salem Hills Golf Course in Northville.

GERALYN REPASKY of Livonia was an easy winner in the women's Golden Masters division, firing an 84. Redford's Maureen Desmond (102) and Livonia's Autumn Scaggis (105) were second and third, respectively, joining Repasky in the regional tournament Monday.

In the Masters Division (13-15-year-olds), Craig Szewc of Livonia shot a 73 to claim top honors in the boys' division. Second place went to Craig Lambert of Livonia (76), with Jeff Usher of Redford finishing third (83).

There were no competitors in the girls' Masters division.

Only 31 golfers signed up for the tourney, one of five scheduled this week in the metro-Detroit area. Top three placers in each of the four divisions from the five tourneys qualify for the Northville regional.

Top three finishers in each division at the regional then advance to the state finals Aug. 16 at the University of Michigan.

Hot bats lift McK's in GC baseball

Mr. McK's Wine Shoppe, making a late season rush, blasted Runners Unlimited Sunday, 17-3, in a Garden City Class A Invitational League baseball game.

Bob Scanlon and Frank Farkas each collected three hits to give McK's its fifth victory in its last six games. Teammates Jeff Washington and Todd Kleinbrook also provided some offensive punch, driving in four and three runs, respectively.

Bob Donovan, the winning pitcher, gave up only five hits, two to Dave Weise. Donovan struck out seven and walked only one.

Jack Patterson, the starter for Runners, suffered the loss.

3 Kegs Round continues to lead the league with a 12-1 record. A&K Electric is in second place at 11-3 followed by Beech Daly Clinic, 10-4; Warrick Clutch, 6-7; The Players, 6-8; Runners, 6-9; the Garden City Golden Leafs, 5-8; McK's, 5-9; and Sinkey & Sons, 1-13.

In the first game on Sunday, The Players bounced Runners, 9-3. The duel lasted only four innings after an injury to a Runners' player reduced the squad to eight, terminating the contest.

Pat Golich and John Eller led the winners with two hits each. John Turner added a two-run double.

John Salois countered with two hits for Runners.

In another game on Sunday, Beech Daly Clinic beat Sinkey & Sons, 6-3.

ON SATURDAY, A&K's John Sabourin collected three hits, while Dan Lis and Rick Hall added two apiece in a 7-3 triumph over the Golden Leafs.

Dan Osowski, who hurled the final three innings in relief of starter Brian Skinner, earned the victory. Roy Bambach was the losing pitcher.

A&K, which collected 14 hits, also received additional help from Gordie Graham, who ripped a two-run single.

Bob Raymond went three-for-three in a losing cause.

Meanwhile, Bob Bennett tossed a

Swanson gets 'star' nod

Livonia Bentley outfielder Lori Swanson has been selected to participate in the East-West All-State Girls All-Star softball game Aug. 7 at Ranney Park in Lansing.

Swanson, one of the Bulldogs' top hitters, recently graduated from Bentley in June. She will attend Central Michigan this fall on a volleyball scholarship.

The 6-foot slugger helped Bentley reach the state Class A semifinals the past two years. She was an All-Observer first-team pick the last two years and was a unanimous All-suburban Eight League choice.

five-hitter to power The Players to a 4-1 win Saturday over Warrick Clutch.

Bennett, who struck out three and walked two, bested Warrick's Scott Hill.

Randy Lewis and Al Shay combined for four of The Players' nine hits.

Greg Chastang had two for Warrick. 3 KEGS ROUND, the league leader, split a pair of games last weekend in the American Baseball Congress Tournament in Grand Rapids.

Coach Gil Clack's team was defeated by host Grand Rapids in the opener, 9-1, but bounced back to beat Muskegon in the loser's bracket, 5-3.

3 Kegs will return to the double-elimination event this weekend.

My boss didn't.

My boss didn't understand that I was healthy again. So I was let go. A lot of people are like my boss. They think that everyone dies of cancer. I thought so too. Until the American Cancer Society, through one of its service and rehabilitation programs, helped me return to a normal life. The ACS also has local Units that help Americans who've never had cancer understand it better. Today, more and more, cancer is a curable disease. Ignorance about cancer is curable, too.

Humphries gets in gear for Adray playoff battles

A lot is at stake when the Livonia Adray League baseball playoffs kick-off at Ford Field this Sunday.

The post-season winner gets an automatic berth into the prestigious All-American Amateur Baseball Association (AABA) national tournament beginning Aug. 9 in Johnstown, Pa.

The Livonia champ gets to bypass a regional qualifying game.

The double-elimination event gets under way at 3 p.m., with the league's second and third place teams, Westland-Redford and Michigan National Bank, tangling.

The 6 p.m. bout has league champ Livonia Adray facing the fourth place club, either Dearborn Vacuum or Wendy's of Ann Arbor.

Play continues at 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 4 and Friday, Aug. 6.

A final game might be necessary at 6 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 7.

Walter's Applique took itself out of playoff contention with three consecutive losses over the weekend.

On Sunday, Westland-Redford downed Walter's, 9-5, behind Joe Humphries' three-run homer.

Humphries, the league's leading hitter, also slugged a single and triple. Teammate John Paz also had three hits. John Hetkowski and Tony Demare added two each. Jim Boucher had two for Walter's.

Starter Brad George, with relief help from Gary Beggs and Ralph Scharf, was the winning pitcher. Rob Morris took the loss.

EARLIER in the day, Dearborn Vacuum used the 10-run, five-inning mercy rule, beating Walter's 12-2.

First baseman Dan Smith went three-for-four, including a solo homer and double. Teammate Fred Rumberger added two singles.

Jim Stoitsiadis was the losing pitcher. Mark Gniwuk was the winner.

Losing pitcher Duane Stothers scattered eight hits, struck out four and walked only one. But Mark Meo, who relieved by Todd Garrett in the seventh, was a shade better. Walter's jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the second on consecutive singles by Don Dombey, Stoitsiadis and Mike Kiesel. Wendy's, however, came back with runs in the third and sixth to win it.

LIVONIA ADRAY split a double-header Sunday.

Westland-Redford, which moved into second place, edged the league-leaders, 5-4.

The winners rallied for two runs in the bottom of the seventh on two walks and a single by Al Rasky.

Livonia scored all four of its runs in the first inning on a single, homer by Bill Kopanakis and two errors.

Winning pitcher Dave Czarnota raised his season mark to 6-3. Martin Vucinaj took the loss.

Livonia snapped a two-game losing streak in the nightcap on Sunday with a 3-2 win over Michigan National Bank.

Catcher Kevin Lowery, who had two hits, singled in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh. Pete Rose also added two hits.

Tom Louwers and Dean Fracassi each collected two for MNB.

Mike Tetreault, who struck out five and allowed seven hits, earned credit for the victory. He outdueled Pat Martin.

On Friday, Westland-Redford and MNB battled to a 5-5 tie. The game was halted in the seventh inning because of a time limit.

Hetkowski paced Westland-Redford attack with three hits. Dan Phillips, Kevin Stanisz and John Paz chipped in with two apiece.

John Bolen and Eric Struble countered with two each for MNB.

Livonia Adray pitcher Larry Walker fanned nine and only allowed three hits, but Dearborn Vacuum came out on top, 4-3, Friday night. That game was also stopped in the sixth because of a time limit.

Errors led to three Dearborn runs in the second inning.

Charlie Johnson was the winning hurler. He allowed six hits and walked only two. Walker, meanwhile, issued five walks.

Unseeded unknown waltzes to tennis title

By Brad Emons
staff writer

If Corey Wittenberg comes back to defend the Mayor's Cup, chances are he'll be seeded.

The Ogdun Dunes, Ind., native came into the second annual tennis event at the Livonia Family Y as an unknown. He left with $600 and some shot-making not to be forgotten.

The unseeded Wittenberg, who did not drop a set in five matches last weekend, won the men's singles title Sunday afternoon with an impressive 6-4, 6-2 triumph over Saginaw's Mark Tappan. The $1,500 event was sponsored by Corporate Service, Inc. of Livonia.

Wittenberg and Tappan, who also was unseeded, traded crisp baseline strokes most of the match. But Wittenberg was more consistent, angling sharp shots to set up numerous winners off the volley.

"Neither of us served well," said Wittenberg. "I was broken a couple of times, but I tried not to let it bother me."

"I was moving the ball well. I feel I'm playing pretty well right now."

Tappan, ranked No. 12 last year in Southern California and finalist or semifinalist in 11 of 12 prize-money tournaments, complimented Wittenberg's performance.

"He had a real nice baseline game and was steadier than I was," said the former University of Redlands (Calif.) standout.

WITTENBERG'S credentials are nothing to laugh at. He played No. 4 singles this year for Texas Christian University, a team ranked eighth in the country. He graduated from Portage (Ind.) High School and will be a senior this fall at TCU.

"I was all set to play on the Penn circuit (satellite pro tour)," he said, "but my brother was getting married, and that was more important."

"I'm basically staying around at home, teaching a little bit and playing some tournaments."

Tappan eliminated two seeds en route to the finals.

He took out former University of Michigan standout Jon Hainline of Birmingham (No. 3 seed) in the first round, 7-5, 6-2.

Tappan then ousted the top-seeded Ian Harris of Southfield, last year's runner-up, by the identical count of 7-5, 6-2.

Harris walked a gang plank from the first round. He struggled to beat Mike Rose, 6-4, 7-6; Mark Willingham, 7-6, 7-6; and Michael Reese, 5-7, 6-2, before reaching the semifinals.

In his semifinal match, Harris created an uncomfortable scene when he disputed a line call. Tappan, meanwhile, maintained his cool and breezed in the second set.

PAUL WEI of Evanston, Ill., the No. 4 seed and ex-Northwestern University standout, was ousted by Wittenberg, 6-2, 6-0, in the round of 16.

The tournament's other surprise, Brian Herman of Windsor reached the semifinals before losing to Wittenberg.

Herman, who plays for Ohio University, knocked out second seed Hal Jolley of Rochester in the quarterfinals, 6-2, 6-0.

Bob Davis of Grand Rapids and Tappan teamed up to win the doubles crown with a 7-5, 5-7, 7-5 victory over Wei and Tom Benezra.

Tappan and Davis turned back Steve Winsor and Steve Horn in the semifinals, 6-4, 6-4, while Wei and Benezra edged Brian Veillette, also of Rochester, and Herman, 6-7, 7-6, 6-2.

Corporations sponsor athletes as well. Although the government offers no money to help athletes, private enterprise is getting involved.

BUT WHERE DO you draw the line on what makes an amateur an amateur? Bicycle racers, for example, are allowed to keep a portion of their winnings and still be amateurs.

The rules governing amateur golfers are explicit: a player may participate in an event and retain his amateur standing as long as he signs a waiver forfeiting all winnings before the event.

But Gary Whitener, pro at Whispering Willows Golf Course in Livonia, calls the rule unenforceable and says it is often violated. Amateurs often accept prizes worth more than the $350 limit set by the USGA.

"It's not everybody, but it's definitely violated," Whitener declares.

It's not a case of a few violators vs. mostly straight-arrow amateurs. Who's to say accepting money is less a violation than accepting free tennis racquets or golf clubs?

THE REAL QUESTION is: Why isn't there one definite rule spelling out who is an amateur? And, why are there so many organizations govern-

The idea behind the AAU was to provide a central, unifying committee for amateur sports. It worked — for awhile. Then the U.S. Olympic Committee and NCAA got into it with different sets of rules.

This new transition is an attempt to pull our country's amateur status even with competing countries by establishing an easier, more lenient ruling on what makes an amateur.

Remember America's greatest athlete?

It was Jim Thorpe, an Indian who won gold medals for both the decathlon and pentathlon in the 1912 Olympics.

Thorpe didn't keep his medals. They were taken from him because he violated the rules of amateur sports. He played semi-pro baseball — for $15 a week. Just enough money to live on.

Richard Lech

"Gulliver's Travels" (1939), 8:30 a.m. Tuesday on Ch. 20. Originally 74 minutes.

Skeptics in the 1930s had claimed that a full-length feature cartoon would not make it with the viewing public. Walt Disney proved them wrong with the resounding success of his "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" in 1937. Suddenly, cartoon features became a big draw, and it was only natural that Disney's chief rival, Max ("Popeye," "Betty Boop") Fleischer should try his animator's pen at an epic cartoon.

In the mid-'30s Fleischer had released imaginative, longer-than-usual Popeye shorts starring the popeyed sailor as Sinbad and Ali Baba. For his first go at a feature-length cartoon, Fleischer seemed to have another sure-fire classic story in "Gulliver's Travels." Instead of making "Gulliver" in his own style, however, Fleischer made the mistake of trying to "out-cutesy-pie" Disney. The result was cloying rather than touching. Enough of Fleischer's pioneer cartoonist's energy is transmitted to this film, however, to make it moderately enjoyable, especially when compared with the assembly-line limited animation on TV today. Rating: $2.50.

"Keeper of the Flame" (1943), 1 a.m. Wednesday on Ch. 50. Originally 100 minutes.

This is the second film in which Spencer Tracy and Katherine Hepburn were teamed. Unlike their first film together, "Woman of the Year," and most of their other pairings, "Keeper of the Flame" concentrates more on drama than comedy. Tracy plays a journalist who learns that a late American hero was actually a fascist. Hepburn plays the man's widow. This film was made during the height of World War II, when American films were propaganda heavy, so it is somewhat dated. The two stars are still worth watching, though. Rating: $3.

"The Land That Time Forgot" (1975), 2 a.m. Saturday on Ch. 7. Originally 90 minutes.

A good dinosaur film can still entrance the little kid within many an adult. The original "King Kong" was the ultimate in that genre, with its lively menagerie of prehistoric beasts amid a lush, mysterious prehistoric setting. "The Land That Time Forgot," on the other hand, is several eons below "Kong" on the filmic evolutionary ladder.

Based on the pulp adventure novel by Edgar Rice Burroughs, this film about some World War I combatants who find a lost world suffers from mediocre special effects. Since the dinosaurs are merely elaborated puppets (and not stop-motion animated models), they do not interact with the live human performers very well, being rather stationary and unconvincing. Oh well, at least they aren't lizards posing as dinosaurs, a la Irwin ("The Poseidon Adventure," "The Towering Inferno") Allen's "The Lost World." Rating: $1.90.

"Jennifer, the Snake Goddess" (1978), 3:30 a.m. Saturday on Ch. 50.

The promo for this film reads, "A bizarre tale about the supernatural power generated by a group of snake-worshipping mountaineers. Bert Convy." Rating: Six 8-by-10 glossy of Bert Convy.

backgammon

Mike Giordano

of the Cavendish North backgammon club

● BACKGAMMON BIG TIME

This position arose over the Fourth of July weekend at the Michigan Summer Backgammon Championships, held at Flint's Hyatt Regency Hotel. The tournament drew more than 125 competitors, some from as far away as Dallas and Baltimore.

Paula Allen of Southfield, a friend and employee at the Cavendish Club, was playing white and the match score was 10-10 in an 11-point match. Since each side needed only one point to win the match, the gammon potential was meaningless. White's sole objective is to play as safely as possible to secure the win.

Paula rolled double ones in the diagrammed position. With four checkers off already, she considered the three obvious alternatives — taking four more men off the 1 point; hitting the black checker on the 3 point with the two men on her 5 point; and moving three men from her 4 point to the 3 point, thus hitting and taking off one checker.

Paula discarded each of these alternatives and played two men from her 5 point to her 4 point and took two men off her 1 point. She reasoned that while there is no perfectly safe way of playing her doubles by stacking her men on the 4 and 1 points, she would increase her chances of bearing off 10 or 11 men before leaving a shot, at the same time reducing the number of bad rolls on her next play.

In fact, if black plays carelessly in response to Paula's play, only double 6, 5, 4 and 3s leave a shot on white's next roll and three of these numbers take off four men and make it impossible for black to pick up a second man. (Once a player has borne off more than seven pieces, he is a favorite to win even if he is hit and closed out, as long as his remaining men are all on his 1 point.)

Of course, black did not play carelessly; he immediately abandoned the white 2 point, thereby forcing white to hit with all numbers that include a 2 and thus get a return shot (unless white rolls 2-1 or double 2). In the game, Paula removed 10 men before leaving a shot, which black missed.

Her keen insight into the game and hot hand with the dice continued for the next two days and Paula eventually finished the tournament by beating Sammy Hakimi of Chicago in the finals to win the $2,000 first place money. For Paula, this was her second tournament victory in five months. In March, she won the Michelob Open in Saginaw.

Despite a field comprised heavily of out-of-state players, local players put on an excellent showing. In the Open Division, Southfield's Joe Sylvester came in third and Lowell Cushman, also of Southfield, won the consolation. In the Intermediate Division, Southfielders Carol Hamilton and Carol Falk finished third and fourth respectively while Agnes Tokatlian was tied for third in the consolation.

The Novice Division was monopolized by local players, with John Johnson of Plymouth edging out Carolyn Zoschnick of Southfield for the championship.

Josh White Jr. scheduled

By Kevin Wilson special writer

Josh White Jr. will definitely appear at the sixth annual Folk and Bluegrass Festival for Huntington's Disease on Aug. 7-8 in Northville.

Those who have attended the event in its five previous incarnations may be saying, "Sure he will. They said that before and he didn't show up."

But Giftfiddler Music Store owner and festival sponsor Tom Rice said this year is different for one important reason: White's appearance was arranged through his agency, and the popular folk singer has a contract to appear.

"Josh White is absolutely going to be here," Rice said. "I got smart this time. I worked through his agency, and we have a signed contract. The date is on his calendar, so they won't schedule something else."

White appeared at the second festival and was a major attraction, Rice said. The appearance was highlighted by an audience participation rendition of "Tobacco Road" that Rice said "still really gets to me, just remembering it."

Slated to appear in the third and fourth editions of the benefit event, White made late cancellations in favor of revenue-producing appearances.

I know, I know it's our third weekend in a row vacationing at the Michigan Inn! But like Harry keeps saying, "How can you pass up a deal like this?" Only $39 a night any Thursday through Sunday for our room and just $15 a night for the kid's room. What's extra nice is that Harry and I have so much time to ourselves (last night we danced up a storm in Dewey's!) because there's so much for the kids to do on their own (like swimming, playing tennis and challenging all of their favorite pinball machines) and it's a pleasure not having to worry about traffic or high gas prices for a change! Having a marvelous time love Joanne

Going mad

The diabolical Mr. Manningham (Peter G. Thomson) is slowly driving his wife (Mary Eldridge) to madness in "Angel Street," mystery-melodrama continuing through Aug. 7 in repertory at the Hilberry Summer Theatre Festival. Performances are at 8 p.m. Wednesdays-Saturdays, rotating with "Arsenic and Old Lace," on the Hilberry's main stage at the Wayne State University campus in Detroit. For ticket information call 577-2972.

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own... but it takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item... and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers... so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood... but you'll want a bigger crowd than that... so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

One more thing... get up early the day of your sale! When people read about a Garage Sale in Classified, they shop early.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

Pick up your free Garage Sale folder in our office when you place your ad! (Contains two signs, two arrows, a handy ledger, 14 tips for a successful sale and nine tips for a successful ad)
